4, 21 of U.P. Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957, Police Station Naini, District Prayagraj, pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-15, Prayagraj.

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Applicant(s) : Abdul Ahad, Omar Zamin

Counsel for Opposite Party(s) : G.A

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Omar Zamin, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri O.N. Mishra, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Present application under Section 528 B.N.S.S. has been preferred for quashing the charge-sheet No.872 of 2020 dated 15.09.2020, cognizance/ summoning order dated 1.4.2024 as well as entire proceeding of Case No.904 of 2024, arising out of Case Crime No.805 of 2020, under Sections 379, 411 I.P.C., Rules 3, 57, 7 of U.P. Minor Minerals (Concession) Rules, 1963 and Sections 4, 21 of U.P. Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957, Police Station Naini, District Prayagraj, pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-15, Prayagraj.

3. The brief facts of the case are that an FIR was lodged by the first informant, Yogesh Shukla, against the applicant and two others on 18.08.2020, registered as Case Crime No.805 of 2020, under Section 379 IPC, Sections 4/ 21 of U.P. Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1957'), and Rules 3/7/57 of U.P. Minor Minerals (Concession) Rules, 1963 (hereinafter referred to as 'Rules, 1963'). As per version of the FIR, the first informant, along with Brij Bali Singh, went to the place of incident found 155 cubic meters sand and 50 cubic meters gitti lying on Khata No.391, Arazi no.136, area 0.103 hectare. Further, the FIR narrates that the said property belongs to the Allahabad Development Authority, and the Lekhpal submitted a report stating that Arshad, Firoz, and Mojeeb Khan were using the place for selling the sand.

4. After registration of the FIR, the Investigating Officer investigated the matter and recorded the statement of first informant, Lekhpal, Brij Bali Singh, and other witnesses. During the course of investigation, Section 411 IPC was added, and thereafter the Investigating Officer submitted a charge sheet on 15.09.2020 under Sections 379 and 411 IPC, Sections 4/21 of the Act, 1957, and Rules 3/7/57 of the Rules, 1963. The learned Magistrate, in his wisdom, did not take cognizance of the offences, under Sections 4/ 21 of the Act, 1957 and Rules 3/7/57 of the Rules, 1963 in view of judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and he took cognizance under Sections 379 and 411 IPC only vide his order dated 01.04.2024, which is under challenge by the applicant.

5. It is submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that an FIR was lodged against the applicant under Section 379 IPC, Sections 4/21 of the Act, 1957 and Rules 3/7/ 57 of Rules, 1963. After due investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted the charge-sheet in Sections 379 & 411 IPC, Sections 4/ 21 of Act, 1957 and Rules 3/7/57 of Rules, 1963. However, the learned Magistrate took cognizance only under Sections 379 & 411 IPC and did not take cognizance under Sections 4/ 21 of Act, 1957 or Rules 3/7/ 57 of Rules, 1963.

6. It is submitted that the learned Magistrate committed gross illegality in not accepting the charge-sheet in toto. It is also submitted that no offence under Sections 379 and 411 of the IPC is made out against the applicant, as it has not been identified whose property was allegedly stolen. Therefore, the essential ingredients constituting the offence of theft are not made out. It is further submitted that the applicant is an old person having no previous criminal antecedent. Therefore, it is prayed that the charge-sheet dated 15.09.2020, the cognizance order dated 01.04.2024, and the entire proceedings arising therefrom be quashed.

7. Per contra, learned A.G.A. vehemently opposed the prayer and submitted that there is no illegality in the cognizance order so far as it relates to taking cognizance under Section 379 and 411 IPC.

8. I have heard the rival submissions of both the sides and perused the record.

9. For reference Section 22 of the Act, 1957 and Rule 74 of Rules, 1963 as well as Rule 76 of U.P. Minor Minerals (Concession) Rules, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as 'Rules, 2021') are being quoted as below:-

"22. Cognizance of offences. No court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable under this Act or any rules made thereunder except upon complaint in writing made by a person authorised in this behalf by the Central Government or the State Government.

74. Cognizance of offences.

(1) No court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable under these rules except on a complaint in writing of the fact constituting such offence by the District Officer or by any officer authorised by him in this behalf.

(2) No court inferior to that of a magistrate of the first class, shall try any offence under these rules.

76. Cognizance of offences.- (1) No Court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable under these rules except on a complaint in writing of the fact constituting such offence by the District Officer or by any officer authorised by him in this behalf.

(2) No Court inferior to that of a Magistrate of the First Class, shall try any offence under these rules."

10. The aforesaid Section 22 of the Act, 1957 is very clear which provides that no court shall take cognizance for any offence under the Act, 1957 and Rule 76 of Rules, 2021 also provides that no court shall take cognizance of any offence under the Rules, 2021 unless a complaint is filed in writing by an officer authorised by Central Government or State Government. Similarly in view of Rule 74 of Rules, 1963, no cognizance can be taken under the Rules, 1963 unless a complaint is filed by the District Magistrate or any other officer authorised by him.

11. In the case of Kanwar Pal Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another reported in (2020) 14 SCC 331, Hon'ble Apex Court observed that the Magistrate can take cognizance on the basis of charge sheet only for the offence under the Indian Penal Code, but the cognizance for the offence under the Act, 1957 can be taken only on the basis of complaint filed by authorised officer as per the provisions of Act, 1957. Paragraph 16 of this judgment is being quoted as under:-

"16. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we would uphold the order of the High Court refusing to set aside the prosecution and cognizance of the offence taken by the learned Magistrate under Section 379 C and Sections 3 and 4 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act. We would, however, clarify that prosecution and cognizance under Section 21 read with Section 4 of the MMDR Act, 1957 will not be valid and justified in the absence of the authorisation. Further, our observations in deciding and answering the legal issue before us should not be treated as findings on the factual allegations made in the complaint. The trial court would independently apply its mind to the factual allegations and decide the charge in accordance with law. In light of the aforesaid observations, the appeal is partly allowed, as we have upheld the prosecution and cognizance of the offence under Section 379 of the IPC and Sections 3 and 4 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act. There would be no order as to costs."

12. The Apex Court again in the judgment of Jayant and others Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, reported in (2021) 2 SCC 670, observed that even if the charge sheet is filed by the police after the investigation then for the offence under the Indian Penal Code, the learned Magistrate can take cognizance but for the offence under the Act, 1957, the learned Magistrate cannot take cognizance on the basis of that charge sheet and it is further observed that the Magistrate can take cognizance only when the complaint is filed by the authorised officer along with that charge sheet for the offence under the Act, 1957. Paragraphs 21.3, 21.4 and 21.5 of the above judgment are being quoted as under:-

"21.3. For commission of the offence under the IPC, on receipt of the police report, the Magistrate having jurisdiction can take cognizance of the said offence without awaiting the receipt of complaint that may be filed by the authorised officer for taking cognizance in respect of violation of various provisions of the MMDR Act and Rules made thereunder."

21.4. That in respect of violation of various provisions of the MMDR Act and the Rules made thereunder, when a Magistrate passes an order under Section 156(3) of the Code and directs the concerned In-charge/SHO of the police station to register/lodge the crime case/FIR in respect of the violation of various provisions of the Act and Rules made thereunder and thereafter after investigation the In-charge of the police station/investigating officer submits a report, the same can be sent to the Magistrate concerned as well as to the authorised officer concerned as mentioned in Section 22 of the MMDR Act and thereafter the concerned authorised officer concerned may file the complaint before the learned Magistrate along with the report submitted by the investigating officer concerned and thereafter it will be open for the learned Magistrate to take cognizance after following due procedure, issue process/summons in respect of the violations of the various provisions of the MMDR Act and Rules made thereunder and at that stage it can be said that cognizance has been taken by the learned Magistrate."

21.5. In a case where the violator is permitted to compound the offences on payment of penalty as per sub-section (1) of Section 23-A, considering sub-section (2) of Section 23-A of the MMDR Act, there shall not be any proceedings or further proceedings against the offender in respect of the offences punishable under the MMDR Act or any Rules made thereunder so compounded. However, the bar under sub-section (2) of Section 23-A shall not affect any proceedings for the offences under IPC, such as, Sections 379 and 414 IPC and the same shall be proceeded with further."

13. In view of the above legal position, it is clear that Magistrate cannot take cognizance of offence under Act, 1957 or under Rules, 2021 on the basis of the charge sheet and he may take cognizance only when complaint is filed by the authorized officer along with the charge-sheet. Therefore, the learned Magistrate rightly and correctly did not take cognizance under Section 4/21 of the Act, 1957 and Rules 3/7/57 of Rules, 1963. So far as argument of the learned counsel for the applicant relating to taking cognizance under Sections 379 and 411 IPC is concerned, it is clear that charge-sheet was submitted after collecting the evidence. During course of investigation, the investigating officer recorded statement of informant Yogesh Shukla and Brij Bali Singh Lekhpal, who supported the prosecution case.

14. The legal position on the issue of quashing of criminal proceedings is well-settled that the jurisdiction to quash a complaint, FIR or a charge-sheet should be exercised sparingly and only in exceptional cases. However, where the allegations made in the FIR or the complaint and material on record even if taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused, the charge-sheet may be quashed in exercise of inherent powers under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. In well celebrated judgment reported in AIR 1992 SC 605 State of Haryana and others Vs. Ch. Bhajan Lal, Supreme Court has carved out certain guidelines, wherein FIR or proceedings may be quashed but cautioned that the power to quash FIR or proceedings should be exercised sparingly and that too in the rarest of rare cases. Guidelines are as follows:-

"(1) Where the allegations made in the First Information Report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety to do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the First Information Report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 156(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

15. In the case of R. Kalyani v. Janak C. Mehta and Others reported in 2009 (1) SCC 516, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"(1) The High Court ordinarily would not exercise its inherent jurisdiction to quash a criminal proceeding and, in particular, a First Information Report unless the allegations contained therein, even if given face value and taken to be correct in their entirety, disclosed no cognizable offence.

(2) For the said purpose, the Court, save and except in very exceptional circumstances, would not look to any document relied upon by the defence.

(3) Such a power should be exercised very sparingly. If the allegations made in the FIR disclose commission of an offence, the court shall not go beyond the same and pass an order in favour of the accused to hold absence of any mens rea or actus reus.

(4) If the allegation discloses a civil dispute, the same by itself may not be a ground to hold that the criminal proceedings should not be allowed to continue."

16. The said decision has also been followed by the Apex Court in the case of Kamlesh Kumari and Ors. v. State of U.P. and Ors. reported in 2015 AIR SCW 3700.

17. Keeping in view the above stated settled position of law in the instant case, perusal of record shows that there are allegations against the applicant that applicant was indulging in illicit mining and theft of sand. In view of the allegations made in the FIR and material collected during investigation, it cannot be said that no cognizable offence is made out against the applicant. In the case of State of NCT of Delhi vs. Sanjay 2014 AIR SCW 5487, it was held that in a case where there is theft of sand and gravels from the Government land, the police can register a case, investigate the same and submit a final report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure before a Magistrate having jurisdiction for the purpose of taking cognizance as provided in Section 190(1)(b) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Further in the case of Rishipal vs. State of U.P., Crl. Misc. W.P. No. 12052 of 2010, a Division Bench of this Court has held as under:-

"In the facts and circumstances stated above, since the applicant has been charged with offence under Section 379 IPC besides the offences under Section 3/21 of the Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act, 1957, under Rules 3/57/70 of the U.P. Mines Mineral (Concession) Rules, 1953 and Section 2/3 of the U.P. Gangsters Act, which are cognizable offences, we have no reason to take a view different from the view taken by the Apex Court in State of Orissa (supra) and other decisions."

18. The above stated case laws are applicable in the present case and in view of that legal position, impugned charge-sheet and proceedings arising from it, are not liable to be quashed on the grounds raised by the learned counsel for the applicant. It is apparent from the FIR and material on record that a prima facie cognizable offence is made out against the applicant. The case of the applicant does not fall in any of the category enumerated by the Apex Court through various judicial pronouncement for quashing of FIR/charge-sheet. It is well settled that at this stage, this Court has to eschew itself from embarking upon a roving enquiry into the last details of the case. It is also not advisable to adjudge whether the case shall ultimately end in conviction or not. Only a prima facie satisfaction of the court about the existence of sufficient ingredients constituting the offence is required in order to see whether the proceedings deserves quashing.

19. As noted in the case of State of Haryana vs. Bhajan Lal (supra), power of quashing of FIR or proceedings should be exercised sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases. In case of Rupan Deol Bajaj v.

K.P.S. Gill; reported in (1995) SCC (Cri) 1059, Rajesh Bajaj v. State of NCT of Delhi; reported in (1999) 3 SCC 259 and M/S. Medchl Chemicals & Pharma (P) Ltd. v. M/S. Biological E Ltd. & Ors; reported in 2000 SCC (Cri) 615, the Apex Court clearly held that if a prima facie case is made out disclosing the ingredients of the offence, Court should not quash the complaint/ FIR/charge-sheet. However, it was held that if the allegations do not constitute any offence as alleged and appear to be patently absurd and improbable, Court should not hesitate to quash the complaint. The note of caution was reiterated that while considering such petitions the Courts should be very circumspect, conscious and careful. Thus, there is no controversy about the legal proposition that in case, a prima facie case is made out, the proceedings cannot be quashed. Here it would also be pertinent to mention that questions of fact cannot be examined by this Court in proceedings under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

20. In State of Orissa v. Saroj Kumar Sahoo (2005) 13 SCC 540, it has been held that probabilities of the prosecution version cannot be analysed at this stage. Likewise, the allegations of mala fides of the informant are of secondary importance. The relevant passage reads thus: (SCCp. 550, para 11)

"11.....It would not be proper for the High Court to analyse the case of the complainant in the light of all probabilities in order to determine whether a conviction would be sustainable and on such premises arrive at a conclusion that the proceedings are to be quashed. It would be erroneous to assess the material before it and conclude that the complaint cannot be proceeded with."

21. From the above stated case law it is apparent that adjudication of questions of facts and appreciation of evidence or examining the reliability and credibility of the version, does not fall within the arena of jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. In view of the material on record it can not be held that the impugned criminal proceeding are manifestly attended with mala fide and maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge.

22. The investigating Officer conducted the investigation in this case, and after due investigation, submitted the charge-sheet. Since there are specific allegations against the applicant in the FIR as well as in the statements of witnesses, a prima facie offence is made out against the applicant. At this stage, this Court cannot see whether a conviction would be sustainable on the basis of evidence adduced by the prosecution during the course of trial. It would be erroneous to assess the material, collected by the Investigating Officer during the course of investigation. The quality of evidence cannot be appreciated by this Court in this jurisdiction. It is the duty of the trial court who will evaluate the evidence and pronounce the judgement on the basis of material before him.

23. The submissions raised by learned counsel for the applicant call for determination on questions of fact which may be adequately adjudicated upon only by the trial court and even the submissions made on points of law can also be more appropriately gone into only by the trial court. In view of the aforesaid, no case for quashing the impugned proceedings or impugned order is made out. The petition lacks merit and thus, liable to be dismissed.

24. The instant application is hereby dismissed.

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Applicant(s) : Diwan Saifullah Khan
Counsel for Opposite Party(s) : G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard Shri Diwan Saifullah Khan, learned counsel for the applicant and Shri Mohd. Afzal, learned counsel for the State.

2. Present application under Section 528 BNSS has been preferred to quash the entire proceedings of Case No.1468 of 2020 (State vs. Imran and Others), arising out of Case Crime No.1025 of 2019, under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867 (in short 'Gambling Act'), Police Station Sikandara, District Agra, pending in the court of Special Chief Judicial Magistrate, Agra as well as chargesheet dated 21.12.2019 and Summoning order dated 24.02.2020 issued in the aforesaid proceedings.

3. The prosecution case in brief is to the effect that a First Information Report (in short 'FIR') was lodged on 08.12.2019 at 11:09 AM in respect of alleged incident dated 08.12.2019 at 9:30 AM, at Police Station Sikandara, District Agra, as Case Crime No.1025 of 2019, under Section 13 of the Gambling Act. It is alleged by the informant that the applicant and co-accused were arrested by the police while playing cards in the park and Rs.750/- were recovered from their possession. The Investigating Officer started investigation and recorded statements of informant and other witnesses and submitted chargesheet in this case on 21.12.2019, under section 13 of the Gambling Act. Thereafter, the learned Magistrate took cognizance of offence vide order dated 24.02.2020.

4. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the applicant that the chargesheet has been filed under section 13 of the Gambling Act where the maximum sentence in State of Uttar Pradesh is upto rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month and fine not exceeding two hundred fifty rupees nor less than fifty rupees, in the case of first offence and in the case of any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees nor less than hundred rupees and rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months nor less than one month. The amendment was incorporated in State of Uttar Pradesh on 07.09.1961, therefore, the counsel for the applicant opened up his argument by making a reference to Schedule 1st part II of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short 'Cr.P.C.') wherein classification of offences against other laws in Cr.P.C. are mentioned, as per which the offences punishable with imprisonment for less than three years are non cognizable, Bailable and triable by Magistrate. The learned counsel further submitted that Section 155(2) of Cr.P.C. mandates that no Police Officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate having power to try such case or commit the case for trial and as in the present case police did not take permission from the learned Magistrate to commence with the investigation, thus, the entire proceedings commence soon after registration of the FIR become void ab initio. Learned counsel for the applicant placed reliance upon two judgments of Co-ordinate Bench of this Court passed on 12.05.2025 in Application U/S 482 No.26740/2024 (Imran Khan And Another vs. State of U.P. and Another) and judgement and order dated 04.07.2025 passed in Application U/S 482 No.29797 of 2024 (Imran Vs. State of U.P. and Another), wherein it was held that offences under Section 3/4 of the Gambling Act is a non-cognizable offence and the learned Magistrate cannot take cognizance of offence on a chargesheet rather he has to follow the procedure, laid down for complaint cases.

5. Per contra, Mr. Mohd. Afzal, learned counsel for the State has opposed the application and submitted that there are serious allegations of gambling against the applicant. He further submitted that the case law, relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicant, is not applicable in the present case since the case law are related to Section 3/4 of the Gambling Act, whereas the applicant was chargesheeted under Section 13 of the Gambling Act, which is a cognizable offence and the FIR can be registered and the learned Magistrate can take cognizance on a police report. He lastly submitted that the present application is devoid of merit and deserves to be dismissed.

6. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties and on perusal of FIR, chargesheet, and impugned cognizance order, it is admitted position that the chargesheet has been filed under section 13 of the Gambling Act and the maximum punishment in case of first offence is one month imprisonment and a fine not exceeding two hundred fifty rupees, in State of Uttar Pradesh. Learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon two judgments, passed by Co-ordinate Bench of this Court wherein, proceedings under Section 3/4 of the Gambling Act were quashed by this Court on the ground that the offences under Section 3/4 of the Gambling Act is a non-cognizable offence and the investigation was barred by Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. In the present case the proceeding under Section 13 of the Gambling Act has been challenged and as per argument advanced by learned counsel for the State, Section 13 of the Gambling Act is a cognizable offence and the police can register the FIR, investigate the matter and can submit chargesheet and the learned Magistrate may proceed as a State case.

7. For clarity Section 3, 4 and 13 of the Gambling Act, 1867 are reproduced herein:-

"3. Penalty for owning or keeping, or having charge of a gaming-house.- Whoever, being the owner or occupier, or having the use, of any house, walled enclosure, room or place situated within the limits to which this Act applies, opens, keeps or uses the same as a common gaming-house; and whoever, being the owner or occupier of any such house, walled enclosure, room or place as aforesaid, knowingly or wilfully permits the same to be opened, occupied, used or kept by any other person as a common gaming-house; and whoever has the care or management of, or in any manner assists in conducting, the business of any house, walled enclosure, room or place as aforesaid, opened, occupied, used or kept for the purpose aforesaid; and whoever advances or furnishes money for the purpose of gaining with persons frequenting such house, walled enclosure, room or place; shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two-hundred rupees, or to imprisonment of either description,¹ as defined in the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), for any term not exceeding three months.

4. Penalty for being found in gaming-house.- "Whoever is found in any such house, walled enclosure, room or place, playing or gaming with cards, dice, counters, money or other instruments of gaming, or is found there present for the purpose of gaming, whether playing for any money, wager, stake or otherwise, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, or to imprisonment of either description,¹ as defined in the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), for any term not exceeding one month,² and any person found in any common gaming-house during any gaming or playing therein shall be presumed, until the contrary be proved, to have been there for the purpose of gaming.

13. Gaming and setting birds and animals to fight in public streets.-A police officer may apprehend without warrant-any person found playing for money or other valuable thing, with cards, dice, counters or other instruments of gaming, used in playing any game not being a game of mere skill, in any public street, place or thoroughfare situated within the limits aforesaid, or any person setting any birds or animals to fight in any public street, place, or thoroughfare situated within the limits aforesaid, or any person there present aiding and abetting such public fighting of birds and animals.

Such person when apprehended shall be brought without delay before a Magistrate, and shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, or to imprisonment, either simple or rigorous, for any term not exceeding one calendar month;

Destruction of instruments of gaming found in public streets.-And such police officer may seize all instruments of gaming found in such public place or on the person of those whom he shall so arrest, and the Magistrate may, on conviction of the offender, order such instruments to be forthwith destroyed.

Uttar Pradesh:

In Section 13,-

(a) for the words "playing for money or other valuable thing with cards, dice, counters or other instruments of gaming, used in playing any game not being a game of mere skill", substitute the word "gaming".

[Uttar Pradesh Act 1 of 1917, Section 5]

(b) between paras. 1 and 2, add the following new paragraph as follows:

"any person found in any public street, place or thoroughfare within the limits aforesaid with any instruments of gaming, or;

(c) for the words, in para. 2, "or any person there present aiding and abetting such public fighting of birds and animals", substitute the word "or any person there present making preparation for or aiding or abetting such gaming or public fighting of birds or animals"; and

(d) in the last para the semi-colon after the words "shall be liable" shall be deleted and a dash substituted therefor and clauses (a) and (b) after the said words "shall be liable" shall be deleted and the following substituted therefor:

"in the case of a first offence to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty rupees nor less than fifty rupees; or to rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month; and in the case of any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees nor less than one hundred rupees, and rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months nor less than one month."

8. The State of U.P. had enhanced the sentence in Section 13 of the Gambling Act in the year 1961 by bringing State Amendment through U.P. Act no.21 of 1961 in the Gambling Act whereby the punishment was enhanced accordingly, for a first offence, the offender may have to pay a fine between Rs.fifty and two hundred fifty and may be awarded rigorous imprisonment for upto one month. For any later offences, the maximum fine shall be five hundred rupees and the offender may be awarded rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months nor less than one month.

9. The language of Section 13 of the Gambling Act starts with "a police officer may apprehend without warrant-" meaning thereby the police officer may arrest any person without obtaining warrant from any court. Here one has to understand the difference between the cognizable offence and non-cognizable offence which have been defined in Section 2(c) and 2(l) of Cr.P.C. respectively. Section 2(c) and 2(l) of Cr.P.C. are reproduced herein:-

"2.(c) "cognizable offence" means an offence for which, and 'cognizable case" means a case in which, a police officer may, in accordance with the First Schedule or under any other law for the time being in force, arrest without warrant;

(l) "non-cognizable offence" means an offence for which, and "non-cognizable case" means a case in which, a police officer has no authority to arrest without warrant;"

10. It is very clear from the above definition of cognizable offence and non-cognizable offences that in a case of cognizable offences, a police officer may arrest any person without warrant whereas in non-cognizable offence a police officer has no right to arrest without warrant. Section 13 of the Gambling Act authorise a police officer to arrest any person without warrant, therefore, it cannot be said that

Section 13 of the Gambling Act is a non-cognizable offence and police cannot investigate the matter without prior permission of the learned Magistrate under section 155(2) of the Cr.P.C.

11. The judgments and orders dated 12.05.2025 as well as 04.07.2025 relied on by the learned counsel for the applicant are entirely different on the facts wherein, it has been held that Section 3/4 of the Gambling Act are non-cognizable offences. The facts of the aforesaid judgments are not similar to the facts of the present case. The FIR may be registered under Section 13 of the Gambling Act and the police has authority to register the FIR and investigate the matter and the learned Magistrate did not commit any illegality or irregularity in taking cognizance of offence on police report. Therefore, the present application lacks merit and deserves to be dismissed.

12. Accordingly, the present application is hereby dismissed.

13. No other argument was advanced by the learned counsel for the applicant.

14. However, keeping in mind the punishment of the offence in question, the trial court is directed to conclude the trial of the aforesaid case, as expeditiously as possible, preferably within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

482 BNSS No. 687 of 2025

Versus

State of U.P. & Anr.

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether an application for anticipatory bail u/s 482 of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, is maintainable directly before the High Court without first approaching the Court of Session, and if so, whether the facts of the instant case disclose the existence of "special circumstances" justifying such direct invocation of the High Court's jurisdiction.

Headnotes

Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 - ss. 196(1)(a), 196(1)(b), 197(1)(a), 197(1)(b), 197(1)(c), 197(1)(d), 353(1)(c), 353(2), 302, 152 - Information Technology Act, 2008 - s. 69(a) - Constitution of India, 1950 - Articles 19(1)(a), 141 - The applicant, a folk singer and social media user, is named as an accused in an FIR dated 27.04.2025 alleging commission of offences under various provisions of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 and s. 69(a) of Information Technology Act, 2008, on the basis of certain posts and video clips uploaded by her on her Twitter handle in the aftermath of terrorist attack at Pahalgam, Jammu and Kashmir, in which several tourists lost their lives - It was alleged that through these posts, the applicant made objectionable and provocative statements adversely affecting national integrity, disturbing communal harmony, and inciting hatred, which were allegedly circulated widely - Apprehending arrest in the said case, the applicant approached the High Court directly seeking anticipatory bail, asserting false implication, invoking her right to freedom of speech, and contending that she was not residing within the jurisdiction of the concerned Sessions Court - The State opposed the application on grounds of maintainability, gravity of allegations, prior dismissal of applicant's writ petition challenging the FIR, non-cooperation with investigation, and the liberty granted by Supreme Court to raise all contentions at the stage of framing of charge or discharge.

Held: Although Article 19 of Constitution of India gives right of freedom to all citizens, but the same is subject to reasonable restriction for public order, decency or morality - The applicant had made certain tweets at the crucial time when the unfortunate Pahalgam incident took place on 22.04.2025 and the case diary as well as FIR goes to show that tweets posted by the applicant are against the Prime Minister of India - Name of Prime Minister of India has been used in disrespectful manner - After going through the record and the written instructions dated 27.11.2025, it was found that the applicant is not cooperating in the investigation - Apart from it, Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.3852 of 2025 filed by the applicant challenging the FIR has been dismissed by a Division Bench of this Court on 19.09.2025 with a direction that applicant will cooperate in the inquiry and will appear before the Investigating Officer - Applicant preferred SLP challenging the order passed by High Court, which was also not interfered with by Supreme Court and a direction was issued that applicant may file an application for discharge at the appropriate stage - It is thus, clear that Supreme Court has taken note of fact that instant FIR challenged by the applicant before the Division Bench of High Court does not have merit in the case - The observation of the Supreme Court is binding upon High Court under Article 141 of Constitution of India and High Court cannot give any opinion that the charges of mutiny and charges u/s 152 of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 coupled with the other offences mentioned in the FIR are made out or not - Hence, no case for anticipatory bail is made out, thus rejected. 2. Dr. V.K. Singh, learned Government Advocate assisted by Sri Rajdeep Singh, learned AGA-I for the State has raised a preliminary objection regarding the maintainability of the anticipatory bail application by stating that applicant has filed the present anticipatory bail application directly before the High Court without filing the same first before the Court of Sessions. He further submits that in view of Section 482(1) of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, the applicant has to apply for anticipatory bail first before the Court of Session and thereafter she may approach the High Court. In support of his contention, he has relied upon the judgment of the Full Bench of this Court rendered in the case of Ankit Bharti Vs. State of U.P., AIR OnLine 2020 ALL 694:(2020) 111 ALL CrL C 134 (Paragraph-26). He has further submitted that case of the applicant is not coming within the special circumstances, therefore, the applicant should be relegated to the Court of Session, where she may move an application for anticipatory bail.

3. Replying the aforesaid submissions, Sri Purnendu Chakravarty, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Shivanshu Gowami, for the applicant has submitted that applicant is the resident of Jandaha, Mashraki, Kaimur (Bhabua), Jandaha, State of Bihar and the present FIR has been registered against her in District Lucknow. In support of his contention he has relied upon Paragraph-26-B of the Full Bench judgement rendered in the case of Ankit Bharti (supra) and has submitted that applicant is not residing in District Lucknow, therefore, the circumstances enunciated in the aforesaid case will be applicable in the present case and the applicant may maintain the present anticipatory bail application here before this Court and she should not be relegated to the Court of Session. Relevant portion of Paragraph-26 of the aforesaid judgement is quoted below:

"The legal position which consequently emerges is that notwithstanding the concurrent jurisdiction being conferred on the High Court and the Court of Session for grant of anticipatory bail under Section 438 Cr.P.C., strong, cogent, compelling reasons and special circumstances must necessarily be found to exist in justification of the High Court being approached first and without the avenue as available before the Court of Sessions being exhausted."

Whether those factors are established or found to exist in the facts of a particular case must necessarily be left for the Court to consider in each case."

What would constitute "special circumstances" in light of the nature of the power conferred, must also be left to be gathered by the Judge on a due evaluation of the facts and circumstances of a particular case. It would perhaps be imprudent to exhaustively chronicle what would be special circumstances. As noticed above, it would be impossible to either identify or compendiously propound what would constitute special circumstances. Sibia spoke of the "imperfect awareness of the needs of new situations".

It is this constraint which necessitates the Court leaving it to the wisdom of the Judge and the discretion vested in him by statute. Without committing the folly of attempting to exhaustively enunciate what would constitute special circumstances or being understood to have done so, the High Court would be justified in entertaining a petition directly in the following, amongst other, circumstances:-

(A) Where bail, regular or anticipatory, of a co-accused has already been rejected by the Court of Sessions;

(B) Where an accused not residing within the jurisdiction of the concerned Sessions Court faces a threat of arrest;

(C) Where circumstances warrant immediate protection and where relegation to the Sessions Court would not subserve justice;

(D) Where time or situational constraints warrant immediate intervention.

These and other relevant factors would clearly constitute special circumstances entitling a party to directly approach the High Court for grant of anticipatory bail."

As is manifest and evident from the above extract, the learned Judge chose, and in our opinion correctly, to observe that it would be imprudent to exhaustively chronicle what would constitute special circumstances. A further caveat was placed with the learned Judge observing that the aforesaid exposition on the question should not be viewed as an attempt to exhaustively enunciate what would constitute special circumstances. The learned Judge thus left it entirely at the discretion of the Judge considering a petition for anticipatory bail to ascertain whether such special circumstances did in fact exist entitling the applicant to approach the High Court directly. In our considered view the answer as framed to Question 'D' in Vinod Kumar clearly needs no further explanation or elaboration."

4. After going through the judgment of the Full bench of this Court in the case of Ankit Bharti (supra), one fact is to be considered by this Court that the FIR was lodged at Lucknow, whereas the applicant is the resident of Jandaha, Mashraki, Kaimur (Bhabua), Jandaha, State of Bihar. The FIR indicates the present address of the applicant as Heedi Pakadia, District Ambedkar Nagar, Uttar Pradesh. It is thus clear that after looking into the FIR as well as the affidavit of the applicant, it is clear that she is not the resident of the Lucknow and in view of Point No.26(B) of the Full Bench judgement of this Court in the case of Ankit Bharti (supra), this Court holds that the anticipatory bail application filed by the applicant is maintainable before this Court.

5. Now, this Court proceeds further on the merit of the case. It is the case of the applicant that she has been falsely implicated in the FIR dated 27.04.2025 lodged by opposite party no.2 under Sections 196(1)(a), 196(1)(b), 197(1)(a), 197(1)(b), 197(1)(c), 197(1)(d), 353(1)(c), 353(2), 302, 152 of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 and Section 69(a) of the Information Technology Act, 2008.

6. The prosecution story as narrated in the FIR is that one Abhay Pratap Singh @

Nirbheek has alleged that it is known that on 22nd April 2025, in Pahalgam, Jammu and Kashmir, especially Hindu tourists were shot by a Pakistan-backed terrorist organisation after asking their religion, in which 26 tourists died a painful death. This cowardly act of the terrorists has generated a feeling of anger against Pakistan in the whole of India. Hurt by this attack on the soul of the country in Pahalgam, all the countrymen and leaders of all opposition parties are unanimously demanding the Indian Government to take the strictest revenge for this cowardly attack. The Government of the country is preparing to take revenge from Pakistan, in the sequence of which the Indian Government has imposed many strict restrictions on Pakistan along with stopping the Indus Water Treaty. In such a situation, folk singer and so-called poetess Neha Singh Rathore, wife of Himanshu Singh, resident of village- Heedi Pakadia, District Ambedkar Nagar, through her Twitter handle Neha Singh Rathore@nehafolksinger, is continuously making several objectionable posts to adversely affect the national integrity, to incite people to commit crimes against each other on the basis of religion and caste sharing videos on social media. Neha Singh Rathore has been continuously speaking anti-national things about the Pahalgam attack, to disturb the mutual harmony of two communities, to disrupt peace and order, and objectionable posts are being made continuously from her Twitter handle. All these anti-India statements of Neha Singh Rathore are continuously going viral in Pakistan and Neha Singh Rathore is being praised in Pakistan. All the anti-national statements of Neha Singh Rathore are being used against India in the Pakistani media and India is being questioned by our enemy country. In such a situation of crisis, due to Neha Singh Rathore's continuous statements against India, the honor and respect of the country's poet community as well as the entire country of India is being violated. Objectionable post made by Neha Singh Rathore on her Twitter handle Neha Singh Rathore @nehafolksinger. Details of URL IDs of the posts of the applicant have also been mentioned in the FIR.

7. Sri Purnendu Chakravarty, leaned Senior Advocate, for the applicant has submitted that the FIR has been lodged mainly on the basis of one video clip containing the utterances made by the applicant on her Twitter Account. He has further submitted that none of the offences with the applicant is sought to be prosecuted, can be said to have been established even prima facie. Counsel for the applicant has submitted that offence under Section 152 of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 is not made out against the applicant and in this regard he has submitted that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Writ Petition (C) No.682 of 2021, S.G. Vombatkere Vs. Union of India, vide order dated 11.05.2022 has observed that all pending trials, appeals and proceedings with respect to the charge framed under Section 124A of IPC be kept in abeyance. At the same time, counsel for the applicant has relied upon the judgment of the Rajasthan High Court rendered in S.B. Criminal Misc(Pet.) No.5005 of 2024, Tejender Pal Singh @ Timma Vs. State of Rajasthan and another, decided on 16.12.2024 (Paragraph-13) and has submitted that the offence of sedition under Section 124-A IPC has though been done away in the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, but a new provision in Section 152, somewhat similarly worded, has been brought in by the law makers in Parliament. It criminalises acts or attempts that incite secession, armed rebellion, or subversive activities, or encourage separatist sentiments that threaten the country's stability. In the aforesaid case, it has been observed that provision of Section 152 of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita has to be read and meant and interpreted in a way that it mandatorily requires that the act must be committed purposely or knowingly i.e. Mens Rea (Intent).

8. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has further invited the attention of the Court towards the provision of Section 159 of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita and has submitted that Section 159 of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita will be invoked against a person who is abetting mutiny, or attempting to seduce a soldier, sailor or airman from his duty, but it cannot be invoked against the applicant. He has further submitted that Section 159 of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita has been invoked during investigation though there is no offence made out under the said provision against the applicant.

9. In support of his contention, learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has relied upon the Full Bench judgement of the Bombay High Court rendered in the case of Anand Chintamani Dighe and another Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2001) SCC OnLine Bom. 891 (Paragraph-19) and has submitted that the guarantee of the freedom of speech and expression under Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution of India should be read in the present perspective and voicing against the act of the Government does not mean that the applicant has committed the offence against the nation.

10. Counsel for the applicant by relying upon the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in the case of Imaran Pratapgadhi Vs. State of Gujarat and another, (2025) SCC OnLine SC 678 (Paragraphs-38 and 39) has submitted that without freedom of expression of thoughts and views, it is impossible to lead a dignified life guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. He has further submitted that twitter handle used by the applicant guarantees the freedom of expression and whatever she said, it is her dissenting voice against the Government and the same must not be treated for charge of sedition.

11. On the other hand, Sri V.K. Singh, learned Government Advocate assisted by Sri Rajdeep Singh, learned AGA-I for the State has vehemently argued that applicant had challenged the FIR before this Court by way of filing Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.3852 of 2025, Neha Singh Rathore @ Neha Kumari Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others, and after considering the arguments of counsel for the applicant as well as by the State, this Court passed a detailed judgement and order dated 19.09.2025 dismissed the said writ petition with the observation that the investigation is going on and the applicant will cooperate in the proceedings. Further direction was also issued that applicant will appear before the Investigating Officer on 26.09.2025. However, the applicant filed Special Leave to Appeal (Crl.) No(s).16250 of 2025, Neha Singh Rathore @ Neha Kumari Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, against the judgement and order passed by a Division Bench of this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.3852 of 2025 (supra) dated 19.09.2025, which was disposed of by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on 13.10.2025. For the sake of convenience, the order passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on 13.10.2025 is quoted below:-

"1. After hearing learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, at this stage, we are not interfering on the argument that charge of mutiny and of other provisions under Section 196(1)(a), 196(1)(b), 197(1)(a), 197(1)(b), 197(1)(c) 197(1)(d), 353(1)(c), 353(2), 302, of the Bhartiya Nyaya Sanhita and Section 69(a) of the IT Act, however, we are not inclined to entertain the special leave petition. Accordingly, the special leave petition is dismissed.

2. In the facts, we grant liberty to the petitioner to raise all these issues at the stage of framing of the charge or by applying before the Court seeking discharge at appropriate stage in case the charge sheet has been filed. We make it clear that this Court has not expressed any opinion on the merits of the case, we have only declined to entertain the special leave petition.

3. Pending applications, if any, shall stand disposed of.”

12. Learned Government Advocate has further submitted that the Special Leave Petition preferred by the applicant was disposed of with liberty to the applicant to raise all these issues regarding the offences as mentioned in the FIR at the stage of framing of the charge or by applying before the court seeking discharge at appropriate stage in case the charge sheet has been filed. He has vehemently submitted that this Court may not appreciate the facts and legal aspects of the present case in view of the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, wherein it is provided that applicant has to raise all these issues at the time of framing of the charge. The direction issued by the Hon'ble Supreme Court is binding upon the High Court under Article 141 of the Constitution of India and this Court cannot entertain the anticipatory bail application. The applicant has to cooperate in the inquiry, but she is not cooperating in the inquiry.

13. Learned Government Advocate has further submitted that after rejection of the Special Leave Petition by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, the applicant has to appear before the Investigating Officer, but she is avoiding the police investigation; thus, she is not entitled for any relief. It has been submitted that Division Bench of this Court has already observed in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.3852 of 2025 that applicant has to cooperate in the investigation before the Investigating Officer. However, the written instructions dated 27.11.2025 indicate that in spite of notice given to the applicant, she is not cooperating in the proceedings. The relevant portion of the written instructions dated 27.11.2025 sent by the Station House Officer, Police Station Kotwali, Hazratganj, District Lucknow is quoted below:-

"अभियोग उपरोक्त में अभियुक्ता नेहा सिंह राठौर को गिरफ्तार किये जाने हेतु एक पुलिस टीम का गठन किया गया, अभियुक्ता नेहा सिंह राठौर के गिरफ्तारी के प्रयास जारी है। अभियुक्त नेहा सिंह राठौर द्वारा मा० उच्च न्यायालय खण्डपीठ लखनऊ में योचित की गयी याचिका क्रि० मि० रिट पिटीशन नं०-3852/2025 में सुनवायी के उपरान्त मा० उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा दिनांक 19/09/2025 को निरस्त करते हुए याचिकाकर्ता/अभियुक्ता नेहा सिंह राठौर उपरोक्त को अभियोग उपरोक्त की विवेचना में सहयोग प्रदान करने एवं मुझ विवेचक के समक्ष दिनांक 26/09/2025 को समय 11.00 बजे उपस्थित होने के निर्देशि दिये गये थे परन्तु याचिकाकर्ता मुझ विवेचक के समक्ष बीमारी का बहाना बनाते हुए उपस्थित नहीं हुई, मा० उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा निर्गत आदेश की अवहेलना करते हुए मा० उच्च न्यायालय खण्डपीठ लखनऊ द्वारा निरस्त की गयी याचिका 3852/2025 के विरोध में मा० उच्चतम न्यायालय नई दिल्ली में दिनांक 25/09/2025 में याचिका SLP (Cri) नं०-16250/2025 योजित की गयी। अभियोग उपरोक्त में वांछित अभियुक्ता नेहा सिंह राठौर के गिरफ्तारी के प्रयास जारी है। अभियुक्ता नेहा सिंह राठौर उपरोक्त के मा० न्यायालय से अभी तक गिरफ्तारी

14. Learned Government Advocate has further submitted that after going through the version of the FIR as well as the contents of the tweets posted by the applicant, offence is made out against the applicant. For the sake of repetition, Tweet Nos. 15, 16 and 34 are quoted below:-

"Tweet No.15

15. Learned Government Advocate has further submitted that twitter account of the applicant is widely circulated in the world especially in Pakistan and so many posts have been received during investigation from Pakistan supporting the tweets posted by the applicant. He has submitted that timing of the tweets is very relevant when the unfortunate incident of Pahalgam took place on 22.04.2025 and 26 tourists were brutally killed by the terrorists after identifying them as Hindus. The security and integrity of the country was at the threat at that time and the Government was taking all possible steps to control the situation, but the applicant started making the aforesaid tweets without looking into the fact that situation was so sensitive and it was not warranted to tweet such words, which could have incites the very sentiments of the people of the country. It appears that applicant has got malice intention against the Bharatiya Janta Party and its leader like Prime Minister. The applicant also tried to create hatred between the two communities i.e. Hindu and Muslim, so that basic fabric of the country could have been disturbed. He has submitted that tweets of the applicant are not liable to be protected in the light of Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution of India and all the judgements relied upon by the counsel for the applicant will not be applicable in the present case particularly after passing of the order by the Hon'ble Supreme Court disposing of the Special Leave Petition filed by the applicant, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that applicant may raise her grievances regarding the issue at the time of framing of the charge. Therefore, the applicant has no option, but to cooperate in the inquiry.

16. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

17. It is the case of the complainant that applicant through her twitter handle Neha Singh Rahore@nehafolksinger has continuously made several objectionable posts to adversely affect the national integrity to incite people to commit crimes against each other on the basis of religion and caste sharing videos on social media. The applicant further commented on her twitter handle that Bharatiya Janta Party is not searching the terrorists, rather it is creating atmosphere so that country will go in war. The twitter of the applicant further mentions that immediately after Pahalgam attack in Kashmir, Modiji did political rally in Bihar.

18. In the present case, the FIR has been lodged on 27.04.2025 and more than seven months have passed, but the applicant is not cooperating in the investigation. So far the anticipatory bail is concerned, although Article 19 of the Constitution of India gives right of freedom to all citizens, but the same is subject to reasonable restriction for public order, decency or morality. The applicant had made certain tweets at the crucial time when the unfortunate Pahalgam incident took place on 22.04.2025 and the case diary as well as FIR goes to show that tweets posted by the applicant are against the Prime Minister of India. Name of the Prime Minister of India has been used in disrespectful manner.

19. After going through the record and the written instructions dated 27.11.2025, I find that the applicant is not cooperating in the investigation. Apart from it, Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.3852 of 2025 filed by the applicant challenging the FIR has been dismissed by a Division Bench of this Court on 19.09.2025 with a direction that applicant will cooperate in the inquiry and will appear before the Investigating Officer. The other important fact to be noted that applicant preferred Special Leave Petition challenging the judgement and order passed by this Court, which was also not interfered with by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and a direction was issued that applicant may file an application for discharge at the appropriate stage.

20. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed in the Special Leave Petition filed by the applicant that after hearing counsel appearing for the petitioner at that stage, no case for interference was made for quashing the charge of mutiny and other provisions under Sections 196(1)(a), 196(1)(b), 197(1)(a), 197(1)(b), 197(1)(c), 197(1)(d), 353(1)(c), 353(2) and 302 of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 and Section 69(a) of the Information Technology Act, however, the Hon'ble Supreme Court did not incline to entertain the Special Leave Petition and granted liberty to the petitioner to raise all these issues at the stage of framing of the charge. It is thus, clear that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has taken note of the fact that the present FIR challenged by the applicant before the Division Bench of this Court does not have merit in the case. The observation of the Hon'ble Supreme Court "We grant liberty the petitioner to raise all these issues at the stage of framing of the charge" is binding upon this Court under Article 141 of the Constitution of India and this Court cannot give any opinion that the charges of mutiny and charges under Section 152 of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 coupled with the other offences mentioned in the FIR are made out or not.

21. In view of the aforesaid discussion, no case for anticipatory bail is made out. It is accordingly rejected. However, it is open for the applicant to seek legal remedy as may be available under law.

Issue for Consideration

Whether an examination conducted by the Railway Board or on behalf of the Railway Board would come within the purview of the U.P. Act No.8 of 2024, if there is allegation of using unfair means by any candidate

Head Notes

The U.P. Public Examinations (Prevention of Unfair Means) Act, 2024-Section 7 & 13(3); The Public Examination (Prevention of Unfair Means) Act, 2024-Sections- 2(g), 2(c), 2(k), 2(l) & 3; The Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023-Section 483- On the conjoint reading of Section 3 of the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024 and Section 2(k) along with the Schedule of the Act No.1 of 2024, this Court holds that unfair means used in any examination conducted by the Central Government authorities as mentioned in the Schedule of the Act No. 1 of 2024 would come within the purview of the Act No.1 of 2024 and the criminal proceeding shall be conducted under the Act No.1 of 2024, not under the U.P. Act No.8 of 2024- The U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024 is applicable for public examinations conducted by the examining authorities mentioned in Section 2(c) of the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024, but no penalty or sanction can be imposed against the candidate using unfair means in the examinations for acquiring academic, technical, professional or other qualifications- Bail application allowed.(E-15)

Held- The prosecution against the applicant under the U.P. Act No.8 of 2024 itself appears to be erroneous as the public examination was not conducted by the State Government authorities, but by the Central Government authority and taking into account the nature of allegation, this Court is inclined to release the applicant on bail during pendency of the investigation/trial.

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Applicant(s) : Rajesh Pratap Singh, Swati Agrawal
Counsel for Opposite Party(s) : G.A

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh
Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Swati Agrawal, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Roshan Kumar, learned A.G.A. and perused the record.

2. The instant bail application has been filed with a prayer to release the applicant on bail in Case Crime No. 275 of 2025, 7, 13(3) U.P. Public Examinations (Prevention of Unfair Means) Act, P.S. Etmadpur, District Agra.

3. As per the prosecution story, an F.I.R. was lodged by Tata Consultancy Services Ltd. which was assigned to conduct the examination of Constable in R.P.F. on behalf of the Railway Board wherein allegation was made that in place of the applicant and three other persons, one unknown person appeared in the examination. The said F.I.R. was registered under Section 7 of 13(3) of the U.P. Public Examinations (Prevention of Unfair Means) Act. The Tata Consultancy Services Ltd. has also filed a chart, showing that in place of the applicant one unknown persons was found appearing in the examination.

4. Contention of learned counsel for the applicant is that as per the chart annexed by learned A.G.A. in the counter affidavit, one unknown person is shown to be appeared as an imposter in place of different candidates, however, till date that unknown person has not been arrested and there is no material to show that the applicant is also part of that criminal activity. It is further submitted that unfair means used in any examination conducted on behalf of the Railway Board will not come within the purview of U.P. Public Examinations (Prevention of Unfair Means) Act, 2024 as there is exclusion clause in the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024, showing that the examination conducted by the Railway Board will not be covered under U.P. Public Examination Act, but under the Public Examination (Prevention of Unfair Means) Act, 2024 (enacted by the Parliament as Act No.1 of 2024). Therefore, the entire proceeding is absolutely erroneous against the provision of the law. It is further submitted that applicant has no criminal history and he is languishing in jail since 1.9.2025. In case, he is granted bail, he will not misuse the liberty of bail and would cooperate in the investigation/trial proceedings.

5. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State opposed the prayer for bail, but he could not dispute the aforesaid legal position.

6. Considering the aforesaid submissions of learned counsel for the parties, it is not in dispute that the applicant is the candidate who appeared in the examination for Constable in R.P.F. which was conducted on behalf of the Railway

Board, a question arises whether an examination conducted by the Railway Board or on behalf of the Railway Board would come within the purview of the U.P. Act No.8 of 2024, if there is allegation of using unfair means by any candidate. Though the object of the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024 is to prevent all unfair means, leakage of paper in public examination, proscribe solver gang and to prove for matters connected therewith and incidental thereto. The word "public examination" has been defined under Section 2(g) of the U.P. Act No.8 of 2024 which is being quoted as under:-

"Section 2(g) "public examination" includes,

(i) any examination either qualifying or competitive for recruitment or regularization or promotion to any post in public service conducted by examination authority;

(ii) any examination conducted by board, university or body under any law for the time being in force either qualifying or competitive for awarding or granting any degree, diploma, certificate or any other academic distinction or for qualifying for admission into any course of study ; and

(iii) any other examination declared by the State Government by notification to be a public examination."

7. Examination authority with regard to public examination has been defined in Section 2(c) of the U.P. Act No.8 of 2024 which is being quoted under:-

"2(c) "examination authority" in relation to public examination includes,

(i) Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission;

(ii) Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Services Selection Commission;

(iii) Board, University, Authority or Body under any law for the time being in force;

(iv) any agency or recruitment committee engaged or constituted by the aforesaid Commission, Board, University, Authority or Body; and

(v) any other authority, agency or recruitment committee constituted, declared or engaged by the State Government from time to time for conducting public examination."

8. Section 3(1) of the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024 provides that provision relating to sanction or penalty under this Act will not be applicable in any public examination conducted for acquiring academic, technical, professional or other qualifications. Therefore, if unfair means is used by any examinee in such examination then his answer-sheet shall not be evaluated and result of examinee shall be declared as per the procedure prescribed by such examination authority. Section 3(2) of the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024 further provides that "public examination" conducted by "public examination authorities" defined in Clause (k) and (l) of Sub Section (1) of Section 2 of the Public Examination (Prevention of Unfair Means) Act, 2024 (Act No.1 of 2024) are excluded from the purview of the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024. Section 3 of the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024 is being quoted as under:-

relating to sanction or penalty under this Act shall not apply to those examinee who are appearing in any public examination for acquiring academic, technical, professional or other qualification:

Provided that if such examinee is found to use or in indulgence of unfair means in answering any paper in public examination, answer sheet of concerned paper of such examination shall not be evaluated and result of examination of such examinee shall be declared in the manner prescribed by examination authority.

(2) The provisions of this Act shall not apply to the "public examination" conducted by "public examination authority" as they are respectively defined in clauses (k) and (l) of sub-section (1) of section 2 of the Public Examinations (Prevention of Unfair Means) Act, 2024 (Act no . 1 of 2024)."

9. From a perusal of Section 2(k) of the Act No. 1 of 2024, it is clear that Central Act covers the examinations conducted by central authorities which are mentioned in the Schedule as well as examinations conducted by any authority notified by the Central Government. Similarly, Section 2(l) provides that "public examination authority" means the authority specified by the Central Government by a notification for conducting public examinations. Section 2(k) and (l) of the Act No.1 of 2024 are being quoted as under:-

"Section 2(k) "public examination" means any examination conducted by the public examination authority, as specified in the Schedule, or conducted by such other authority as may be notified by the Central Government;

2(l) "public examination authority" means an authority as specified by the Central Government by a notification, from time to time for conducting the public examinations;"

10. From the perusal of the Schedule of the Act No. 1 of 2024, it is clear that examination conducted by the Railway Recruitment Boards would come within the purview of Act No.1 of 2024 and the same has been specifically excluded by Section 3(2) of the UP Act No.8 of 2024. Schedule of the Central Government regarding Section 2(k) is being quoted as under:-

"THE SCHEDULE

[See section 2(k)]

ANY EXAMINATION CONDUCTED BY—

1. Union Public Service Commission.

2. Staff Selection Commission.

3. Railway Recruitment Boards.

4. Institute of Banking Personnel Selection.

5. Ministries or Departments of the Central Government and their attached and subordinate offices for recruitment of staff.

6. National Testing Agency.

7. Such other authority as may be notified by the Central Government."

11. From the perusal of the above analysis, it is clear that examination conducted by any examination authority mentioned in the Schedule of the Central Act No. 1 of 2024 (including the examination conducted by the Railway Recruitment Board or on its behalf by a nominated agency) would not come within the purview of the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024. Therefore, if unfair means is adopted by any candidate in any examination conducted by the nominated agency of the Central Government or by any authority as mentioned in the Schedule of the Central Act No.1 of 2024, that would not be punishable under the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024, but under Act No.1 of 2024 as the procedure for prosecution against the person involved in using the unfair means in the public examination conducted by such central authority has been prescribed under the Act No.1 of 2024. Therefore, the proceeding under the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024 for unfair means in the examination conducted by the Central Body would be erroneous.

12. Therefore, on the conjoint reading of Section 3 of the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024 and Section 2(k) along with the Schedule of the Act No.1 of 2024, this Court holds that unfair means used in any examination conducted by the Central Government authorities as mentioned in the Schedule of the Act No. 1 of 2024 would come within the purview of the Act No.1 of 2024 and the criminal proceeding shall be conducted under the Act No.1 of 2024, not under the U.P. Act No.8 of 2024. It is further held that the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024 is applicable for public examinations conducted by the examining authorities mentioned in Section 2(c) of the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2024, but no penalty or sanction can be imposed against the candidate using unfair means in the examinations for acquiring academic, technical, professional or other qualifications.

13. The coordinate Bench of this Court in Bail Application No. 33546 of 2025 also considered this issue and observed that once the Central Government framed law regarding some criminal action, then prosecution of the same can be conducted under the Central Act even if there is Act of the State Government on that issue.

14. Considering the aforesaid facts, this Court is of the view that the prosecution against the applicant under the U.P. Act No.8 of 2024 itself appears to be erroneous as the public examination was not conducted by the State Government authorities, but by the Central Government authority and taking into account the nature of allegation, this Court is inclined to release the applicant on bail during pendency of the investigation/trial.

15. Let the applicant- Vikas Kumar, involved in the aforementioned crime be released on bail, on his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the court concerned, with the following conditions:-

i. The applicant shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer or tamper with the evidence.

ii. The applicant shall cooperate in the trial/investigation sincerely without seeking any adjournment.

iii. The applicant shall not indulge in any criminal activity or commission of any crime after being released on bail.

iv. The applicant shall attend in accordance with the conditions of the bond executed by him.

16. In case of breach of any of the above conditions, it shall be a ground for cancellation of bail.

17. Identity, status and residence proof of the applicant and sureties be verified by the court concerned before the bonds are accepted.

18. The applicant shall be released on the basis of downloaded copy of this order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and verified by the concerned counsel with the undertaking that the certified copy will be filed within 15 days.

19. It is further directed that the trial court shall send the release order to the concerned jail through Bail Order Management System (BOMS) to ensure early release of the applicant.

20. Office is directed to send a copy of this order to the applicant through concerned Jail Superintendent via e-mail or e-prison portal in compliance of the order of the Apex Court in the case of Policy Strategy for Grant of Bail, In Re: Suo Motu Writ Petition (Crl.) No.4 of 2021 decided on 31.01.2023; reported in (2024) 10 SCC 685.

Head Notes

The Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023-Section 483- Successive bail applications can be filed on the basis of new material even though that material is collected during trial and the same was not available before Sessions Court or the High Court at the time of rejection of earlier bail application(s)- Bail application allowed.(E-15)

Held- That second bail application or successive bail applications may be entertained by the High Court on the basis of material collected during trial even though such material was not available before the Sessions Court or High Court while considering the earlier bail application but in appropriate case High Court may direct the applicant to file successive bail application before the Sessions Court on the basis of new material.

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Applicant(s) : Amit Kumar
Counsel for Opposite Party(s) : G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh
Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Amit Kumar and Sri N.I. Jafri, learned Amicus Curiae for the applicant, Sri Himanshu Kumar, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. This matter was heard on 08.12.2025 and 15.12.2025. Matter was argued on the point, "whether after rejection of bail by Sessions Court on the basis of material available in the case diary, the High Court can entertain the bail application on the basis of material collected during trial though the same was not available before the Sessions Court at the time of rejection of bail application as well as the question whether the second bail application is maintainable on the basis of evidence collected during trial though at the time of rejection of first bail application by the Sessions Court as well as High Court that material was not available".

3. Learned counsel for the applicant as well as amicus curiae, learned Senior Counsel, Sri N.I. Jafari submitted that the power of High Court under Section 439 Cr.P.C./483 BNSS and Sessions Court is concurrent. The High Court can entertain the bail application on any ground even though same was not available before the Sessions Court at the time of rejecting the bail application of the accused.

4. In support of his contention, counsel for the applicant has relied upon the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Kamal @ Kamal Choudhary vs The State of Madhya Pradesh in Criminal Appeal No.992 of 2025 (arising out of S.L.P. (Criminal) No.808 of 2025), wherein the Apex Court observed that even after rejection of the first bail application by the High Court, if subsequent material is collected during trial then accused need not to file second bail application before the Sessions Court. It can consider second bail application on the basis of new material collected during trial. To decide the issue, it would be appropriate to quote Section 439 Cr.P.C./483 BNSS, which is as follows;

439. Special powers of High Court or Court of Session regarding bail.

(1) A High Court or Court of Session may direct:—

(a) that any person accused of an offence and in custody, be released on bail, and if the offence is of the nature specified in sub-section (3) of Section 437, may impose any condition which it considers necessary for the purposes mentioned in that sub-section;

(b) that any condition imposed by a Magistrate when releasing any person on bail be set aside or modified :

Provided that the High Court or the Court of Session shall, before granting bail to a person who is accused of an offence which is triable exclusively by the Court of Session or which, though not so triable, is punishable with imprisonment for life, give notice of the application for bail to the Public Prosecutor unless it is, for reasons to be recorded in writing, of opinion that it is not practicable to give such notice.

[Provided further that the High Court or the Court of Session shall, before granting bail to a person who is accused of an offence triable under sub-section (3) of section 376 or section 376AB or section 376DA or section 376DB of the Indian Penal Code, give notice of the application for bail to the Public Prosecutor within a period of fifteen days from the date of receipt of the notice of such application.]

(1A) The presence of the informant or any person authorised by him shall be obligatory at the time of hearing of the application for bail to the person under sub-section (3) of section 376 or section 376AB or section 376DA or section 376DB of the Indian Penal Code.] [Inserted by Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 2018 (22 of 2018), dated 11.8.2018.]

(2) A High Court or Court of Session may direct that any person who has been released on bail under this Chapter be arrested and commit him to custody.

5. From perusal of Section 439 Cr.P.C., it is clear that the High Court as well as Sessions Court have special power to release a person. In this Section, it is not mentioned that before approaching the High Court, a person must approach the Sessions Court. This issue was also considered by the Apex Court in the case of Kamal @ Kamal Choudhary (supra) and Kalyan Chandra Sarkar vs Rajesh Ranjan @ Pappu Yadav and another reported in 2004 (7) SCC 528, wherein the Apex Court observed that successive bail application on the new material is maintainable before the High Court but subsequent new material must be substantially different. For ready reference, para 6 of the Kamal @ Kamal Choudhary (supra) is quoted as follows;

"6. We fail to understand the reasoning adopted by the High Court. Even if an earlier bail application is rejected, an accused can make a fresh application at a subsequent stage on the ground of material change in circumstances. Therefore, it was the duty of the High Court to consider the bail application on merits. However, that has not been done. After the first bail application was rejected, now all the eye witnesses have been examined. This was a major change in circumstance brought about after the dismissal of the first application for bail by the Sessions Court. Considering this fact and considering the long duration of incarceration, the appellant is entitled to be enlarged on bail pending the trial."

6. From above analysis, it is clear that the High Court can entertain the first bail application directly or successive bail application on the basis of new material though same was not available before the Sessions Court but Chapter XVIII, Rule 18 of the Allahabad High Court Rules provides that while filing the bail application in the High Court, it must be annexed the copy of bail rejection order passed by the Sessions Court, but this restriction applies for the first bail application filed after rejection of bail application by the sessions court. For ready reference, Chapter XVIII, Rule 18 of the Allahabad High Court Rules is quoted as under:

"18. Application for bail other than anticipatory bail :- (1) No application for bail shall be entertained unless accompanied by a copy of judgment or order appealed against or sought to be revised and a copy of order passed by the Sessions Judge on the bail application for the applicant and unless the accused has surrendered except where he has been release on bail after conviction under Section 389 (3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

Explanation :- the copy of the order refusing bail passed by the Sessions Judge shall either be a certified copy or the copy furnished by the Sessions Judge free of charge to the accused.

(2) Every application for bail in a case which is under investigation or which is pending in a lower Court shall state whether application for bail had or had not been previously made before the Magistrate and the Sessions Judge concerned and the results of such applications, if any.

(3) Save in exceptional circumstances-

(a) No bail application shall be placed before the Court unless notice thereof has been given to the Government Advocate and a period of two days has elapsed from the date of such notice.

(b) If the application for bail has not been moved within seven days after the expiry of the aforesaid period of two days the applicant or his Counsel shall give two days previous notice to the Government Advocate as to the exact date on which such application is intended to be moved.

(c) Where the prayer for bail is contained in a petition of appeal or application for revision, notice thereof may be given to the Government Advocate the same day prior to the hearing of such petition or application and the fact of such previous notice having been given, shall be endorsed on such petition or application. Alongwith such notice a certified copy or one attested to be true by the counsel, of the Judgment appealed from or sought to be revised shall also be given to the Government Advocate.

(4) Every application for bail shall show prominently in the first page thereof the crime number, the police station by which and the section or sections and the Act or Rules under which the applicant is being prosecuted or has been convicted and whether such application is the first, second or any such subsequent application moved by him before this Court, and shall be accompanied by a copy of the first information report. It shall also state the following particulars, namely:-

(a) The date of the alleged occurrence;

(b) The date of the applicant's arrest.

The Bench Secretary shall while entertaining a bail application for presentation to the court check every page there of and shall affix a rubber stamp containing his initials on every page of bail application and all the annexures thereto before putting it up before the court in token of his having checked, every page of the applications and he shall, thereafter, make the following endorsement on the bail application :

*'Moved before Hon'ble

on..... (date)'

Similarly the official whose duty it is to receive the bail application from the court after orders, shall affix a rubber stamp containing his initials on the first page of the bail application in token of his having checked that all the pages of the bail application bear the rubber stamp of the Bench Secretary.

The rubber stamps containing the initials of the Bench Secretary and the official or officials authorised to receive the fresh bail application from the Court shall be supplied to the Bench Secretaries and the officials by the Registrar of the Court.

The application shall not be returned to the applicant or his counsel after the above endorsement has been made.

(5) Every page of the application for bail and every page of the annexures thereto shall bear the full signature of the applicant or his counsel.

(6) In every such application shall be stated the full particulars of the previous application or applications, if any, moved in this Court by same applicant in respect of the same crime and the date or dates on which such previous application or applications had been rejected.

7. It is also clear from the above noted judgements that successive bail applications can be filed on the basis of new material even though that material is collected during trial and the same was not available before Sessions Court or the High Court at the time of rejection of earlier bail application(s). In view of above established position, this Court is also of the view that second bail application or successive bail applications may be entertained by the High Court on the basis of material collected during trial even though such material was not available before the Sessions Court or High Court while considering the earlier bail application but in appropriate case High Court may direct the applicant to file successive bail application before the Sessions Court on the basis of new material.

8. Coming back to the present case, the instant bail application has been filed with a prayer to release the applicant on bail during the trial in Case Crime No. 62 of 2025, under Sections 115(2), 118(1), 109, 110, 352, 351(2) BNS, Police Station-Mandawar, District Bijnor.

9. Contentions of learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that though during investigation the injured has made allegation against the applicant and on considering that material, Sessions Court has rejected the bail application of the applicant but during trial, injured Jeeshan did not support the prosecution so far as the allegation of causing injury on the part of the applicant is concerned and injured was also declared hostile. Therefore, there is no material against the applicant and on the basis of material collected during trial he is entitled to be released on bail. It is lastly submitted that charge sheet has been filed by the police, therefore, there is no requirement for custodial interrogation. The applicant has no criminal history and he is languishing in jail since 11.04.2025. In case, he is granted bail, he will not misuse the liberty of bail and would cooperate in the trial proceedings.

10. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. for the State vehemently opposed the prayer for bail but could not dispute the legal position even though the material collected during trial was not available before the Sessions Court at the time of rejection of bail application and the same can be considered at this stage.

11. Thus, considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, submissions of learned counsel for the parties and taking into account the statement of injured before the trial court, wherein he did not make any allegation against the applicant for causing injury to him and keeping in view the nature of offence, evidence, complicity of accused as well as considering the mandate of the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Kapil Wadhawan vs Central Bureau of Investigation in SLP No.16953 of 2025 decided on 11.12.2025 and without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, I am of the opinion that the applicant is entitled to be enlarged on bail.

12. Let the applicant- Teekam involved in the aforementioned crime be released on bail, on his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the court concerned, with the following conditions:-

i. The applicant shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer or tamper with the evidence.

ii. The applicant shall cooperate in the trial/investigation sincerely without seeking any adjournment.

iii. The applicant shall not indulge in any criminal activity or commission of any crime after being released on bail.

iv. The applicant shall attend in accordance with the conditions of the bond executed by him.

13. In case of breach of any of the above conditions, it shall be a ground for cancellation of bail.

14. Identity, status and residence proof of the applicant and sureties be verified by the court concerned before the bonds are accepted.

15. It is made clear that the applicant shall be released on the basis of downloaded copy of this order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and verified by the concerned counsel with the undertaking that the certified copy will be filed within 15 days.

16. It is directed that the trial court shall send the release order to the concerned jail through Bail Order Management System (BOMS) to ensure early release of the applicant.

17. Office is directed to send a copy of this order to the applicant through concerned Jail Superintendent via e-mail or e-prison portal in compliance of the order of the Apex Court in the case of Policy Strategy for Grant of Bail, In Re: Suo Motu Writ Petition (Crl.) No. 4 of 2021 decided on 31.01.2023 reported in (2024) 10 SCC 685.

Head Notes

The Code of Civil Procedure,1908- Section 47 & 115- Suit for recovery of amount for the articles supplied during the Panchayat Elections filed by the respondent decreed against which against which First appeal was filed which was dismissed by the High Court against which the present revisionists preferred an SLP before the Hon'ble Supreme Court which was also dismissed- The reason has also been assigned for non inclusion of State Election Commission as defendant or a necessary party and those reasons are that the tender was invited by the respondent no. 2 and after the finalization, the agreement was executed between the respondent no. 1 and revisionist no. 2 and there was no agreement with the State Election Commission- Executing court cannot go behind the decree nor can it question its legality or correctness and the only exception is if the decree sought to be executed is a nullity for lack of inherent jurisdiction, which is not in the present case- Revision dismissed.(E-15)

Held- The decree has already attained finality up to the Hon'ble Supreme Court and now the Executing court has no other option except to pass an order for the execution of the decree and the application under Section 47 of the C.P.C. has rightly been rejected by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Lakhimpur Kheri.

Counsel for Revisionist(s) : Rohit Tripathi
Counsel for Opposite Party(s)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rohit Tripathi, learned counsel for the revisionists, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent no. 2 and Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Mohd. Aslam Khan, learned counsel who has filed his vakalatnama on behalf of the respondent no. 1, which is to be filed through E-mode today itself.

2. With the consent of the parties, the matter is being decided at the admission stage itself.

3. The present revision has been preferred under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure (hereinafter referred to as the C.P.C.) against the order dated 24.11.2025 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Lakhimpur Kheri on the application of the revisionist under Section 47 of the C.P.C. filed in the execution proceedings.

4. Brief facts of the case are that a suit for recovery of amount for the articles supplied during the Panchayat Elections filed by the respondent no. 1 in which the written statement has been filed by the revisionists and thereafter, issues were framed and a final decree has been passed on 19.02.2016. Against the decree dated 19.02.2016, the present revisionists preferred a First Appeal No. 60 of 2016 before the High Court which was dismissed by judgment and order dated 07.04.2025. Against which the present revisionists preferred an SLP before the Hon'ble Supreme Court which was also dismissed by judgment and order dated 01.08.2025.

5. After the dismissal of the SLP before the Hon'ble Supreme Court, the revisionists preferred a Review Petition No. 156 of 2025 before this Court and by taking a ground that the decree passed by the trial court is without jurisdiction for the reason that the State Election Commission was not arrayed as defendant. The said review application was also dismissed on 23.09.2025.

6. The execution proceedings is pending since the year 2017. In the said execution proceedings, an application under Section 47 of the C.P.C. has been filed by the revisionists on 10.10.2025, after the dismissal of the First Appeal, the dismissal of the SLP and the dismissal of the review application taking a ground that the decree cannot be executed for the reason that the State Election Commission has not been arrayed as defendant in the suit before the learned trial court. The said application of the revisionists has been rejected by order dated 24.11.2025 and feeling aggrieved by the same, the present revision under Section 115 of the C.P.C. has been filed.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionists has submitted that the suit was filed without making the State Election Commission as defendant who is the person who makes payment for the expenditure incurred during the elections and due to which the decree cannot be executed against the revisionists i.e. the District Deputy Election Officer/Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Lakhimpur Kheri and District Magistrate/District Election Officer, Lakhimpur Kheri.

8. It is further submitted that for the impleadment of the State Election Commission, an application for impleadment was filed by the revisionists which was rejected on 16.05.2014 against which a revision was preferred by the revisionists which was dismissed for want of prosecution on 07.03.2024 in which the recall application has been filed which is still pending.

9. On the other hand, Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate has submitted that there is no illegality in the order dated 24.11.2025 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Lakhimpur Kheri while rejecting the application preferred by the revisionists under Section 47 of the C.P.C.

10. It is further submitted that the executing court cannot go beyond the decree nor it questions its legality or correctness and in support of his submission, he has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sundar Dass vs. Ram Parkas reported in [AIR 1977 SUPREME COURT 1201].

11. It is further submitted that the execution proceedings is to be decided within a period of six months from the date of filing and in the present case, the execution case has been filed in the year 2017 and in place of six months, more than eight years have passed. In support of his submission, he has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Periyammal (dead) By Lrs and Others vs. V. Rajamani and Another Etc. reported in [AIR 2025 SC (Civil) 1244].

12. It is further submitted that the issues which have been raised by the revisionists in the present civil revision has already attained finality after the judgment in the review petition filed by the revisionists as the revisionists had taken this point in the review petition as well.

13. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties and going through the record of the case, the position which emerges out in the present case is that the order dated 24.11.2025 has been passed by giving reasons in detail. In the impugned order, the reason has also been assigned for non inclusion of State Election Commission as defendant or a necessary party and those reasons are that the tender was invited by the respondent no. 2 and after the finalization, the agreement was executed between the respondent no. 1 and revisionist no. 2 and there was no agreement with the State Election Commission. It has also been recorded that at the time of filing of the written statement, the said plea was not taken by the revisionists, hence no issue was framed on the said point and the issues were framed accordingly. The executing court has also given the details of the proceedings initiated by the revisionists against the final decree i.e. filing of First Appeal after its dismissal, filing an SLP, after the dismissal of SLP, filing a review application before the High Court and after the dismissal of the review, the revisionists had moved the present application under Section 47 of the C.P.C. before the Execution court.

14. The objection of revisionists is that the State Election Commission should have been made a party and the application moved for the purpose by the revisionists has already been rejected. In no way it can be argued that it relates to the jurisdiction of the trial court much less inherent jurisdiction of the Court to try the suit. This submission made by the revisionists is devoid of any merit.

15. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sundar Dass (supra) has already held and it is followed till date wherein it has been held that the Executing court cannot go behind the decree nor can it question its legality or correctness and the only exception is if the decree sought to be executed is a nullity for lack of inherent jurisdiction, which is not in the present case for the reason it is not the case of the revisionists that the decree is a nullity for lack of inherent jurisdiction of the court who has passed the same. The relevant paragraph no. 3 of the judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

"3. Now, the law is well settled that an executing court cannot go behind the decree nor can it question its legality or correctness. But there is one exception to this general rule and that is that where the decree sought to be executed is a nullity for lack of inherent jurisdiction in the court passing it, its invalidity can be set up in an execution proceeding. Where there is lack of inherent jurisdiction, it goes to the root of the competence of the court to try the case and a decree which is a nullity is void and can be declared to be void by any court in which it is presented. Its nullity can be set up whenever and wherever it is sought to be enforced or relied upon and even at the stage of execution or even in collateral proceedings. The executing court can, therefore, entertain an objection that the decree is a nullity and can refuse to execute the decree. By doing so, the executing court would not incur the reproach that it is going behind the decree, because the decree being null and void, there would really be no decree at all. Vide Kiran Singh v. Chaman Paswan, (1955) 1 SCR 117 = (AIR 1954 SC 340) and Hiralal Patni v. Kali Nath, (1962) 2 SCR 747 = (AIR 1962 SC 199). It is, therefore, obvious that in the present case, it was competent to the executing court to examine whether the decree for eviction was a nullity on the ground that the civil court had no inherent jurisdiction to entertain the suit in which the decree for eviction was passed. If the decree for eviction was a nullity, the executing court could declare it to be such and decline to execute it against the respondent."

16. The decree has already attained finality up to the Hon'ble Supreme Court and now the Executing court has no other option except to pass an order for the execution of the decree and the application under Section 47 of the C.P.C. has rightly been rejected by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Lakhimpur Kheri.

17. In view of the facts, circumstances and discussion made hereinabove, the present revision is devoid of merit and is accordingly dismissed.

18. It is expected that the execution court shall make endeavour to decide the execution proceedings as per the direction of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Periyammal (dead) By Lrs and Others (supra), wherein it has been held that the execution proceedings must be decided within a period of six months.

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to conviction of the appellant under Ss. 302 and 495 I.P.C. based on circumstantial evidence, and whether the prosecution succeeded in establishing a complete chain of circumstances proving guilt beyond reasonable doubt, particularly with respect to motive, recovery under S. 27 Evidence Act, presence of the accused at the place of occurrence, and reliability of arrest and recovery. (Paras 21, 23, 45 - 46)

(Paras 23 - 29, 40 - 43)

Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Recovery under S. 27 - Recovery must relate distinctly to the fact discovered - Recovery from an open and visible place not within special knowledge of accused - Such recovery loses evidentiary value. (Paras 30 - 36, 45)

Accordingly, the links in the chain of circumstances are thoroughly incomplete, and the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt –

He received an information on that day from Police Station Tronica City that the deceased has been murdered by a cylinder and information about it be given to her parents on which he informed her mother about it. The police told him that the murder has been done by her husband Raj Kumar by hitting her with a small cylinder which was told by him to the mother of the deceased. No cross-examination was done.

20. Heard Shri Dharmendra Kumar Chaubey, learned counsel for the appellant, Shri Manish Jaiswal, learned Panel Lawyer for the High Court Legal Services Committee, Shri A.N. Mulla and Shri Arun

Kumar Pandey, learned A.G.As for the State and perused the records.

21. Learned counsel for the appellant-accused submitted that the accused has been falsely implicated in the present case. It is submitted that the present case is a case based on circumstantial evidence in which there is no eye-witness to the murder. It is submitted that the investigation in the present matter has failed to make a link in the chain of circumstances. It is submitted that the circumstances relied by the prosecution to implicate the appellant in the present matter are three which are as under:-

(i) Whether the accused has a motive to commit the aforesaid offence?

(ii) Whether Section 495 I.P.C. is not made out?

(iii) Whether the prosecution has been successful in proving its case under Section 302 I.P.C.?

It is submitted that the accused-appellant is the husband of the deceased. He is a driver by profession. The deceased was found lying dead in her house. As per the evidence of C.W.-1 the information about the death of the deceased was given to Dharmendra Tyagi C.W.-1 by Police Station Tronica City for giving information to her parents on which he informed her mother about it. It is submitted that P.W.-1 Smt. Kanta the mother of the deceased and the first informant is a totally untruthful witness. She does not state about any information being given to her by Dharmendra Tyagi. She states of some matrimonial discord between the deceased and the accused-appellant and fights between them. It is submitted that the

P.W.-1 states in her testimony that the accused Raj Kumar was apprehended by the police at the place of occurrence but the said fact is incorrect in as much as P.W.-7 Gajendra Singh the Investigating Officer of the matter has stated that the accused was arrested by him on the day of the incident at 21:50 hours from Gate No.2 Tronica City. The arrest memo of the said arrest has been proved by him and marked as Exb: Ka-12 to the records. Thus the fact that the accused was arrested from the place of occurrence by the police as stated by P.W.-1 Smt. Kanta is totally false and incorrect. It is further submitted that Bijendra has been examined as P.W.-2 who is the landlord of the room where the present incident took place. He in his testimony states that after the said incident he received information about it and reached there where he found the wife of Raj Kumar lying dead and police being present there. He does not state of the presence of the accused-appellant at the said place and also does not state that he was arrested by the police from the said place. It is submitted that thus the case of P.W.-1 Smt. Kanta that the accused was arrested by the police from the place of occurrence when the police reached there is totally incorrect and without any foundation. It is submitted that the accused in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. states that at the time of incident he was at his job and was driving a vehicle in Delhi wherein he received information about the present incident and then he reached there after which he was arrested by the police. It is submitted that the same thus goes in consonance with the version given by P.W.-7 regarding the arrest of the accused-appellant at 21:50 hours from Gate No.2 Tronica City. It is further submitted that the appellant has no motive to commit the aforesaid offence as despite having a wife he married the deceased and was living with her. There is nothing substantial coming on record which would be the reason for his committing the offence. It is further submitted that in so far as the report of the Forensic Science Lab is concerned, although the lower of the appellant was found to contain blood which was further identified as human blood but its origin could not be deciphered. It is submitted that the same thus also does not conclusively establish that the blood was of the deceased. It is submitted that the room which was place of occurrence was a small room and it is alleged that a cylinder was recovered from the said room on the pointing out of the accused-appellant which is the prosecution case but the said fact also does not transpire confidence as the site plan which was prepared on 18.01.2017 on the pointing out of P.W. 1 Smt. Kanta as Exb:Ka 10 of the place of occurrence goes to show that the cylinder was recovered from point 'B' as marked in the site plan which is an open place within the room itself and could have been easily seen by anyone present there and as such the same was not concealed by anyone and it cannot be said that it was at a place which was in the special knowledge of the accused-appellant. It is submitted that thus even the recovery of the said alleged cylinder would not in any manner be incriminating. It is submitted that the present case is a case in which links in the chain of circumstances are thoroughly incomplete and there is no credible evidence against the accused-appellant and thus he be acquitted of the charges levelled against him and the judgement and order of the trial court be set-aside.

22. Per contra, learned counsel for the State vehemently opposed the appeal and argument of learned counsel for the accused-appellant and submitted that in the present matter the accused is the husband of the deceased. The cylinder which was the article of assault was recovered on his pointing out. The accused had given his statement to the police regarding assault by him on the deceased due to which she died. It is further submitted that the accused-appellant had a motive of concealing the factum of his first marriage with the informant and solemnized second marriage with the deceased and thus had committed an offence under Section 495 I.P.C. He assaulted the deceased with the cylinder which was recovered on his pointing out from the room which is the place of occurrence and thus he is involved in the matter.

In so far as the fact regarding the arrest of the accused-appellant is concerned learned counsel for the State submits that the accused was arrested on the same day of the incident at 21:50 hours from Gate No.2 Tronica City by P.W.-7 S.I. Gajendra Singh regarding which a memo was prepared which is Exb: Ka 2 to the records. It is submitted that at the time of arrest of the accused he was wearing a lower which was found to be blood stained and the report of the serologist with regards to the lower states that it was found to be stained with human blood and thus the same is a link in the chain of circumstances. It is submitted that the appeal thus be dismissed.

23. After having heard learned counsels for the parties and perusing the records, it is evident that the present case is a case of circumstantial evidence. There is no eye-witness to the incident. The law with regards to appreciation of evidence in cases resting on circumstantial evidence is trite.

24. The case of Queen-Empress Vs. Hosh Nak : 1941 All LJ 416 is worth referring at this juncture which is a locus classicus on the issue of circumstantial evidence. This is a very old decision which was printed in the Allahabad Law Journal after sixty years of its decision on the recommendation of Rt. Hon'ble Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru. In the case of Hosh Nak (supra), it has been held that to prove an offence by the circumstantial evidence four things are essential. They are:

(1) : That the circumstance from which the conclusion is drawn be fully established.

(2) : That all the facts should be consistent with the hypothesis.

(3) : That the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency.

(4) : That the circumstances should, to a moral certainty, actually exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved.

25. Then in the case of Hanumant, son of Govind Nargundkar Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh : AIR 1952 SC 343 it has been held in para 10 by the Apex Court as under:

"10. It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should in the first instance be fully established, and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused....."

26. Thereafter, in the case of Khasbaba Maruti Sholke Vs. The State of Maharashtra : (1973) 2 SCC 449 it was held by the Apex Court as under:

"18. In order to base the conviction of an accused on circumstantial evidence the court must be certain that the circumstantial evidence is of such a character as is consistent only with the guilt of the accused. If, however, the circumstantial evidence admits of any other rational explanation, in such an event an element of doubt would creep in and the accused must necessarily have the benefit thereof. The circumstances relied upon should be of a conclusive character and should exclude every hypothesis other than that of the guilt of the accused. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused. The circumstances must show that within all reasonable probability the impugned act must have been done by the accused. If two inferences are possible from the circumstantial evidence, one pointing to the guilt of the accused, and the other, also plausible, that the commission of the crime was the act of some one else, the circumstantial evidence would not warrant the conviction of the accused....."

27. The circumstantial evidence must be so complete as to exclude every hypothesis other than that of guilt of the accused.

28. In the celebrated case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra : (1984) 4 SCC 116 the Apex Court has described five principles of circumstantial evidence as the pillars on circumstantial evidence. The five principles have been narrated in para 153 which is extracted herein :

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned 'must or should' and not 'may be' established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between 'may be proved' and 'must be or should be proved' as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra : [(1973) 2 SCC 793; para 19, p. 807] where the following observations were made : "Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable and any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty.

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency.

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as to leave by reasonable grounds for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

Further in paragraph 154 of the said judgment it was held as under:

"154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence".

29. The cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence is that the prosecution has to stand on its own legs and it should prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. Doubt must be of a reasonable man and reasonableness of doubt must be commensurate with the nature of the offence to be investigated.

30. Before appreciating the evidence on record it is necessary to point out Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 which reads as under:

"27: How much of information received from accused may be proved: Provided that, when any fact is deposed to as discovered in consequence of information received from a person accused of any offence, in the custody of a police officer, so much of such information, whether it amounts to a confession or not, as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered may be proved."

31. It is clear from the reading of Section 27 of the Evidence Act that this Section is based on doctrine of confirmation by subsequent facts. That doctrine is that where, in consequence of a confession otherwise inadmissible, search is made and facts are discovered, it is a guarantee that the confession made was true. But only that portion of the information can be proved which relates distinctly or strictly to the facts discovered.

32. In the case of Ram Kishan Mithan Lal Sharma Vs. State of Bombay : AIR 1955 SC 104, it is held by the Apex Court that Section 27 of the Evidence Act is an exception to the rules enacted in Sections 25 and 26 of the Act which provide that no confession made to a police officer shall be proved against a person accused of an offence and that no confession made by any person whilst he is in the custody of a police officer unless it be made in the immediate presence of a Magistrate, shall be proved as against such person. Where, however, any fact is discovered in consequence of information received from a person accused of any offence in the custody of a police officer, that part of the information as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered can be proved whether it amounts to a confession or not.

33. In the case of Pulukari Kottaiah Vs. King Emperor : AIR 1947 PC 67 it has been held as follows : "the condition necessary to bring S. 27 into operation is that the discovery of a fact must be deposed to, and thereupon so much of the information as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered may be proved".

34. The Section is based on the view that if a fact is actually discovered in consequence of information given, some guarantee is afforded thereby that the information was true, and accordingly can be safely allowed to be given in evidence, but clearly the extent of the information admissible must depend on the exact nature of the fact discovered to which such information is required to relate.

35. In the case of Delhi Administration Vs. Balkrishan : AIR 1972 SC 3 the Apex Court has held that Section 27 of the Evidence Act is by way of a proviso to Sections 25 and 26 and a statement by way of confession made in police custody which distinctly relates to the fact discovered is admissible is evidence against the accused.

36. It cannot be lost sight of that Section 27 of the Evidence Act has frequently been misused by the police against an accused. Court should, therefore, be cautious and vigilant about the application of the above provision. The protection afforded by the provisions under Sections 25 and 26 of the Evidence Act is sought to be overcome by the police by taking resort to the provisions of Section 27 of the Evidence Act. The validity of Section 27 of the Evidence Act has been upheld by the Apex Court.

37. The recovery of the dead body on the pointing out of the appellant has been relied upon by the prosecution as one of the evidences against him.

38. No doubt, mere recovery in pursuance of Section 27 of the Evidence Act is not a clinching proof for holding an accused guilty. However, there is no doubt that it is good piece of evidence which may be relied upon as a link in the chain of circumstances in the present case for holding the guilt.

39. It is a well settled principle of law that a conviction cannot be founded on circumstantial evidence alone unless it cannot be explained on any hypothesis other than that of the guilt of the accused.

40. It is well settled that in a case which rests on circumstantial evidence, law postulates two fold requirements:-

(i) Every link in the chain of the circumstances necessary to establish the guilt of the accused must be established by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt.

(ii) All the circumstances must be consistent pointing only towards the guilt of the accused.

41. In the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (supra) has enunciated the aforesaid principle as under:-

"The normal principle in a case based on circumstantial evidence is that the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn must be cogently and firmly established; that those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the Accused; that the circumstances taken cumulatively should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the Accused and they should be incapable of explanation on any hypothesis other than that of the guilt of the Accused and inconsistent with his innocence".

42. It is well settled that in a case based on circumstantial evidence the Courts ought to have a conscientious approach and conviction ought to be recorded only in case in which all the links of the chain are complete and pointing to the guilt of the accused. Each link unless connected together form a chain may suggest suspicion but the same in itself cannot take place of proof and will not be sufficient to convict the accused.

43. In cases where the evidence is purely circumstantial in nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is sought to be drawn must be fully established beyond any reasonable doubt and such circumstances must be consistent and must form a complete chain unerringly point to the guilt of the accused and the chain of circumstances must be established by the prosecution. Referring to several earlier decisions the Apex Court in the case of Geejaganda Somaiah v. State of Karnataka : (2007) 9 SCC 315 in para 15 held as follows:-

"15. Sir Alfred Wills in his admirable book Wills' Circumstantial Evidence (Chapter VI) lays down the following rules specially to be observed in the case of circumstantial evidence: (1) the facts alleged as the basis of any legal inference must be clearly proved and beyond reasonable doubt connected with the factum probandum; (2) the burden of proof is always on the party who asserts the existence of any fact, which infers legal accountability; (3) in all cases, whether of direct or circumstantial evidence the best evidence must be adduced which the nature of the case admits; (4) in order to justify the inference of guilt, the inculpatory facts must be incompatible with the innocence of the accused and incapable of explanation, upon any other reasonable hypothesis than that of his guilt; and (5) if there be any reasonable doubt of the guilt of the accused, he is entitled as of right to be acquitted."

The same principle has been reiterated in a catena of later judgments.

44. The law regarding evidence of last seen has been reiterated by the Apex Court in the case of Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan Vs. State of Gujarat : AIR 2020 SC 180 [2019 SCC Online SC 1616] which is quoted herein:

"14. Another important aspect to be considered in a case resting on circumstantial evidence is the lapse of time between the point when the accused and deceased were seen together and when the deceased is found dead. It ought to be so minimal so as to exclude the possibility of any intervening event involving the death at the hands of some other person. In the case of Bodh Raj Alias Bodha v/s State of Jammu and Kashmir, (2002) 8 SCC 45, Rambraksh v/s State of Chhattisgarh, (2016) 12 SCC 251, Anjan Kumar Sharma v/s State of Assam, (2017) (6) SCALE 556 following principle of law, in this regard, has been enunciated:-

"The last seen theory comes into play where the time gap between the point of time when the Accused and deceased were seen last alive and when the deceased is found dead is so small that possibility of any person other than the Accused being the author of crime becomes impossible. It would be difficult in some cases to positively establish that the deceased was last seen with the Accused when there is a long gap and possibility of other persons coming in between exists. In the absence of any other positive evidence to conclude that Accused and deceased were last seen together, it would be hazardous to come to a conclusion of guilt in those cases".

45. The dispute in the present matter arises regarding the place and time of arrest of the accused-appellant. P.W.-1 Smt. Kanta Devi states that the accused was arrested by the police from the place of occurrence. P.W.-7 S.I. Gajendra Singh states that the accused was arrested by him on the day of incident at 21:50 hours from Gate No.2 Tronica City after which he prepared an arrest memo which was filed by him and marked as document no. Exb: Ka 2 to the records. Thus in so far as the arrest of the accused is concerned, there is credible evidence regarding his arrest on the day of incident at 21:50 hours from Gate No.2 Tronica City. In so far as the other evidence thus is concerned, since the arrest of the accused-appellant was not from the place of occurrence his presence at the place of occurrence has not been established by the prosecution through any cogent and reliable evidence. P.W.-2 Brijendra the landlord of the premises where the present incident took place reached the place of occurrence on hearing about it through a neighbour immediately thereafter. He does not state of the presence of the accused-appellant at that point of time at the place of occurrence. Thus the fact that the accused was present at the relevant time at the place of occurrence does not find lending support from any evidence or credible evidence whatsoever. The same finds more consistent with the version given by the accused in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that he was at his place of duty and on receiving information about the incident reached there. The recovery of the cylinder which is being relied by the prosecution also is not of any worth in as much as the room where the occurrence took place is the place from where the said cylinder is said to be recovered. The same was not concealed, hidden or kept at a place which was in the special knowledge of the accused-appellant as could be seen from the statement of the officer allegedly affecting the said recovery and even the site plan of the incident. More so, the Investigating Officer P.W.-7 S.I. Gajendra Singh states that he prepared the site plan on the very first day of taking over the investigation of the matter on 18.01.2017. After reaching the place of occurrence, interrogating the first informant Smt. Kanta and preparing the site plan on her pointing out which was marked by him as Exb: Ka 10 to the records. In the said site plan itself and as is seen in its index at item no. 3 and marked at point 'B' a small gas cylinder was found to be kept in the room. Thus the said cylinder was found by him at the first instance itself even prior to the arrest of the accused-appellant on the same day and thus the version that the same was got recovered on the pointing of the accused-appellant is also not trustworthy at all.

46. In view of the discussions as above, the law on the subject, this Court comes to a conclusion that the links in the chain of circumstances are thoroughly incomplete and do not point out to the only conclusion that Raj Kumar the husband of the deceased is the accused in the present matter. The prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused-appellant.

47. The accused-appellant is thus acquitted of the charges levelled against him. The appeal is allowed.

48. The accused-appellant is in jail. He be released forthwith unless wanted in any other case whatsoever.

49. Copy of this judgement along with trial court records be communicated forthwith to the trial court concerned for compliance and necessary action.

CRIMINAL SIDE

DATED: ALLAHABAD 09.12.2025

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.
THE HON'BLE SANJIV KUMAR, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 618 of 1990

Rahishe @ Rahise & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the prosecution proved beyond reasonable doubt that the surviving appellant committed murder under S. 302/34 IPC, particularly when the conviction rested substantially on the testimony of a related and interested witness whose presence at the place of occurrence was doubtful and where no independent eyewitness was examined. (Paras 21-23, 27)

Headnotes

Criminal Trial - Proof - Interested witness - Last seen theory - Failure to examine independent witness - Effect - Where the sole eyewitness is a real brother of the deceased and his conduct appears "highly unnatural", his testimony requires careful scrutiny - When such testimony is found unreliable and the prosecution fails to examine another alleged eyewitness, the omission assumes significance and entitles the accused to benefit of doubt. (Paras 21, 23 - 25, 27)

Criminal Law - Murder - Circumstantial evidence - Motive - Weak motive

Where the alleged motive is based on a long-past enmity which, according to prosecution witness himself, had ceased and family relations had become cordial, motive is weak and does not support conviction. (Para 26)

Held: In a criminal trial, the burden of proof always lies upon the prosecution to prove their case beyond reasonable doubt - It is highly unnatural for the informant that after witnessing the appellants, beating his brother, Kallu, he ran away and stayed the entire night at the dera in Gulamipur with heera and made no effort to find out what happened to his brother - The above conduct of the informant raises serious doubt about his presence at the place of occurrence - The prosecution has not produced [Heera] in evidence and discharged him from testifying in Court - As the evidence of P.W.1, Batuni is found not reliable and the prosecution has not explained why the other eye-witness was not examined - This aspect of the matter assumes significance and lends to an adverse inference - motive alleged to commit murder is very weak - It appears that Kallu was murdered by someone else at an unknown time - It is a blind murder - Prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the Trial Court failed to appreciate the evidence on record correctly and findings of guilt were recorded by the Trial Court on surmises and conjectures and on incorrect appreciation of evidence - The impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence is liable to be set aside. (Paras 21,23,25,26,27,28,29) (E-7)

Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Judgment and order dated 21.03.1990 passed by the 5th Additional Sessions Judge, Allahabad, in Sessions Trial No. 308 of 1986, arising out of Case Crime No. 85 of 1985, Police Station Kokhraj, District Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:

Mr. Ram Awadh Mishra

Advs. for the Respondents:

Mr. Ghanshyam Kumar, learned Additional Government Advocate-I

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjiv Kumar, J.)

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred by the appellants, namely, Rahishe @ Rahise, Chhikani, Bakuni all sons of Munesara and Nazir son of Mahadev, all residents of Village Kesaria, Police Station Saini, District Allahabad, against the judgment and order dated 21.03.1990, passed by the Court of 5th Additional Sessions Judge, Allahabad, in Session Trial No.308 of 1986, under Section 302/34 Indian Penal Code (in short I.P.C.), Police Station Kokhraj, District Allahabad.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, the appellants, Rahishe @ Rahise, Chhikani, Bakuni and Nazir have been convicted for offence punishable under Section 302/34 I.P.C. and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life.

3. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order, this appeal has been filed by all the four convicts. During the pendency of this criminal appeal, appellant No. 1, 2 and 4, namely, Rahishe @ Rahise, Chhikani and Nazir, have died, and the appeal against them stands abated vide order dated 04.11.2025. Therefore, the appeal has been heard in respect of the surviving appellant, Bakuni alone.

4. The brief facts of the prosecution case are that the informant, Babani, son of Kharsen, resident of Todi ka Purwa resident of Nevadia, Police Station Kokhraj, District Allahabad, gave an oral information at Police Station Kokhraj stating that Kallu was his real brother. Kallu's daughter was married to Nazir's son. There was animosity between the informant and Munesara, Nazir's brother, for the last 20-25 years, which the informant had forgotten, and both parties had now become relatives. It is alleged that due to the old enmity, the accused, Chhikani, Rahise and Bakuni, in furtherance of their common intention, enticed the informant's brother Kallu while they were in the market, to go along with them. Thereafter, the informant, his brother, and Heera proceeded with them towards Jamlamau, and when they reached in front of village Sanjhagarh at about 9-10 p.m., the accused quarrelled with Kallu bringing up issues about the old enmity. As the dispute escalated they assaulted Kallu with sticks (lathi) and (danda). When the informant and Heera tried to intervene, the accused chased them away. The informant and Heera went over to the latter's house, believing that since the accused were their relatives, they would spare Kallu after a minor assault. However, in the morning, when they went there to take account of the situation, they found the informant's brother Kallu lying dead at the place where the accused had battered him. Upon this oral information, an FIR was lodged giving rise to Case Crime No.85 of 1985, under Section 302 I.P.C., Police Station Kokhraj, District Allahabad on 23.05.1985 at 10.25 a.m., against Rahise @ Rahish, Chhikani, Bakuni and Nazir.

5. After registration of the FIR, investigation commenced. The Investigating Officer reached the place of occurrence and collected plain earth and blood-stained earth from the spot, securing it in a sealed box and prepared a recovery memo (Ext. Ka-10). The inquest was held and a report thereof was prepared. An autopsy followed. According to the post-mortem report, the deceased sustained seven injuries, including contusions, lacerated wounds, and incised wounds on different parts of the body, and in the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was 'shock' and 'coma' as a result of the ante-mortem injuries. The Investigating Officer also recorded the statements of witnesses and inspected the place of occurrence. He prepared the site-plan (Ext. Ka-9).

6. After completion of investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted a charge-sheet against all the four accused under Section 302 I.P.C. before the learned Magistrate concerned. The learned Magistrate took cognizance and summoned the accused. The accused appeared before the Magistrate, and the Magistrate furnished them copies of the relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C. He, thereafter, committed the case to the Court of Sessions for trial vide order dated 04.07.1986. The Sessions Court framed charges under Section 302/34 I.P.C. against all four accused, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. The prosecution has examined five witnesses in support of the prosecution case, namely, P.W.1, Batuni (informant), P.W.2, Sudisht Singh (Head Constable), P.W.3, Bharat Singh (Constable), P.W.4, R.N. Singh (Inspector) and P.W.5, Dr. N.K. Saxena.

8. Out of them, P.W.1 Batuni is the informant and an eye-witness of the incident. He has stated that he knows all the accused. Nazir's father Mahadev, and Chhikani, Raheesa and Bakuni's father Muneshwar were real brothers, both of whom have passed away. Muneshwar was murdered when the informant was very young, and in that case some accused were acquitted. The sons of Muneshwar suspected that the informant's father had a hand in Muneshwar's murder. However, when they grew up, they harboured no animosity against Nazir or the others so much so that the informant's brother Kallu married his daughter to Nazir's son. He further said that they are engaged in the profession of ear wax cleaning and are nomadic. They leave their homes during the month of Kunwar (Hindi calendar month) and return in the month of Jyeshtha (another Hindi calendar month), staying at different places in the meantime. At the time of the incident, his family had set up camp in village Shindhya, and the accused were camping in village, Jamalamau. On the date of the incident, the informant had gone to Bharwai market alongwith Kallu and Heera, where they met the accused. All the four accused told Kallu to accompany them to their dera. Kallu was not interested, but upon their insistence, the informant, Kallu and Heera accompanied them. When they reached in front of village Jhanjhagarh at about 10:00 p.m., the accused struck conversation with Kallu regarding Muneshwar's death, and as passions escalated, all the four accused battered Kallu with sticks (lathi) and (danda). The informant and Heera objected, but the accused chased them away. The informant and Heera ran away from the spot and stayed at Heera's dera in Gulamipur, thinking that since the accused were relatives, they would spare Kallu after giving him one or two lathi blows. In the morning, when the informant went there to ascertain the situation, he found Kallu's dead body lying at the spot. Thereafter, he went to the Police Station and lodged a report.

9. In his cross-examination, P.W.1 has stated that he did not raise any alarm during the assault because he ran away from the place of occurrence. He further said that the Bharwari Police Outpost is about one and a half miles away from the place of occurrence, but he did not give any information there. Instead, he went to Gulamipur, which is about four miles away from the place of occurrence, and informed the Pradhan of the village. He reached Gulamipur within an hour and asked Mewa Lal, the Pradhan, to accompany him to the place of occurrence. He has further said that he did not go to the place of occurrence during the night but went there the next morning at about 9:00 a.m. because he never anticipated that they would murder his brother. He has also said that Kallu did not raise alarm and the informant did not sustain any injury. He did not try to save Kallu because he was not carrying a lathi or danda.

10. P.W.2, Sudisht Singh (Head Constable), is the scribe of the chik FIR. He has stated that he prepared the chik FIR on the basis of the verbal account of the informant, and, thereafter, entered its gist in G.D. No. 23 on the same day. He has proved the chik FIR (Ext. Ka-1) and the copy of G.D. No. 23 (Ext. Ka-3). He has further said that no cognizable or non-cognizable report was entered on 23.05.1985 between 10:25 a.m. and 10:25 p.m.

11. P.W.3 Bharat Singh (Constable) is also a formal witness, who conveyed the dead body of the deceased Kallu from the place where the inquest was held to the mortuary for post-mortem examination.

12. P.W.4 R.N. Singh (Inspector) is the Investigating Officer of the case. He has deposed regarding the investigation conducted by him and stated that the written report was lodged in his presence. Thereafter, he proceeded to the place of occurrence where the inquest was done under his supervision and an inquest report prepared. He has proved the inquest report as Ext. Ka-4 and the connected papers, namely photo-nash, challan-nash, letter to the C.M.O., and letter to the R.I., as Ext. Ka-5 to Ext. Ka-8, respectively. He has further said that he searched for the accused and arrested Bakuni on the same day, while the remaining accused could not be found at that time. He recorded the statements of the informant and other witnesses, inspected the place of occurrence on the same day, and prepared the site-plan, which he proved as Ext. Ka-9. He also collected samples of blood-stained earth and plain earth from the spot, kept them in separate boxes, and prepared the recovery memo, which he proved as Ext. Ka-10. On 25.08.1985, he arrested the remaining accused and recorded their statements. Upon completion of the investigation, he submitted the charge-sheet before the Court on 31.05.1985, which he proved as Ext. Ka-11.

13. In his cross-examination, P.W.4 has stated that the distance and direction from the place of occurrence to the police station are not mentioned in the inquest report. In the challan nash, the distance is shown as 4 km, but the direction is not mentioned. In the chik FIR, this distance is mentioned as 3 km.

14. P.W.-5, Dr. N.K. Saxena, conducted the post-mortem examination upon the deceased's cadaver. He has said that on 24.05.1985, he was posted as the Senior Medical Officer, Tej Bahadur Sapru Hospital, Allahabad, and on that day, at about 5:30 p.m., he conducted the post-mortem examination of the deceased. The deceased was about 50 years old and had died approximately one and a half to two days earlier. He found the following ante-mortem injuries on the body:

(ii) Lacerated wound measuring 7 cm × 4 cm, bone deep, on the left side of the chin; the mandible bone was fractured.

(iii) Lacerated wound measuring 3 cm × 1 cm, bone deep, just above injury no. 2, involving fracture of the lower mandible.

(iv) Lacerated wound measuring 2 cm × 2 cm, bone deep, above the nose.

(vi) Lacerated wound measuring 4 cm × 2 cm, bone deep, on the left side of the head 10 cm above the left ear.

In the internal examination, he found that the scalp bone was fractured under injury nos. 4 and 5. There were fractures of the anterior and middle cranial fossa. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was shock and unconsciousness as a result of the ante-mortem injuries. He proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-12 and stated that the death could have occurred on 22.05.1985 between 9:00 and 10:00 p.m. Injury no. 6 could have been caused by falling on any pointed hard object. All the injuries except injury no. 6 could have been caused by lathi or danda. Injury no. 6 was bone-deep and, in the ordinary course, could have been caused by a sharp-edged weapon. He received the papers on 24.05.1985 at 4:30 p.m., and the dead body had reached the mortuary on the same day at 9:00 a.m. Injury no. 6 could also have been caused by falling on a sharp-edged brick.

15. The prosecution has produced following documentary evidence in support of its case i.e. Ext. Ka-1, FIR, Ext. Ka-2, G.D. No.17, Ext. Ka-3, G.D. No.23, Ext. Ka-4, inquest report, Ext. Ka-5, photo nash, Ext. Ka-6 challan nash, Ext. Ka-7 and Ext. Ka-8 two letters to C.M.O., Ext. Ka-9, site plan, Ext. Ka-10, recovery memo of bloodstained and plain soil, Ext. Ka-11, charge-sheet and Ext. Ka-12, postmortem report.

16. After closure of prosecution evidence, the statements of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein they denied the prosecution case and stated that false evidence had been adduced against them and that the case had been lodged against them due to enmity. The accused did not produce any evidence in their defence.

17. The learned Trial Court, after hearing both the parties and examining the evidence on record, came to the conclusion that the prosecution had been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. It was observed by the Trial Court that the conduct of P.W.1, Batuni was natural and his explanation for not reporting the matter to the Police and coming back to the place of occurrence the next morning, is reliable. The Trial Court also observed that the presence of P.W.1 Batuni should not be disbelieved on the ground that he fled the spot. As a result, all the appellants were held guilty and convicted for the offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C., and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life.

18. Heard Mr. Ram Awadh Mishra, learned Counsel for the appellants, Mr. Ghanshyam Kumar, learned Additional Government Advocate-I on behalf of the State and perused the record.

19. It is argued on behalf of the appellants that it was a blind murder and nobody witnessed the incident. The appellants have been falsely implicated in this case due to enmity. It is further submitted that the presence of P.W.1, Batuni, at the place of occurrence, is highly doubtful. He is a relative of the deceased and an interested witness. His conduct is very unnatural, and, therefore, his testimony cannot be relied upon.

20. On the other hand, it is submitted on behalf of the State that the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. P.W.1, Batuni is an eye-witness of the incident, before whom the appellants had taken away the deceased and battered him. When the informant objected, he was chased by the appellants, whereupon he fled the spot. On the next day, the dead body of the deceased was found at the same place. Therefore, it is the appellants, who without doubt murdered the deceased. It is further submitted that the ocular testimony is supported by the medical evidence. Hence, this appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

21. In a criminal trial, the burden of proof always lies upon the prosecution to prove their case beyond reasonable doubt. In the instant case the first part of incident is alleged to have happened before the informant. There is nobody who saw the appellants committing the murder of the deceased. According to the prosecution, P.W.1, Batuni saw only the earlier part of the incident where Kallu was assaulted with sticks (lathi and danda) by the appellants, and the appellants did not commit the murder in his presence. It is not in dispute that the deceased, Kallu, and the informant, Batuni, are real brothers. Therefore, P.W.-1, Batuni is relative and an interested witness. With regard to witnesses, who are relatives of the victim, the law is well settled that their testimony cannot be discarded on the sole basis that they are relatives and no good witnesses. But, it has to be examined carefully.

22. In the present case, the place of occurrence is not challenged by the defence. In this case, the incident took place on the road near village Sajhagarh. According to the post-mortem report, there were seven ante-mortem injuries on the body of the deceased, consisting of contusions and lacerated wounds. On internal examination, fractures of the skull bone and the middle cranial fossa were found. The cause of death was shock and coma resulting from ante-mortem injuries. Therefore, it is evident that the death was not natural and that the deceased was murdered. The next question is whether the appellants were the persons, who committed the murder of the deceased.

23. To prove this, the prosecution has produced only one witness of fact, namely P.W.2, Batuni, the brother of the deceased. In view of the statement of P.W.1, Batuni, his testimony is not trustworthy, rather it is unreliable. According to P.W.1, on the fateful night when he along with deceased Kallu, and Heera were going along with the appellants and reached near village, Janjhangarh at about 10:00 p.m., appellants quarrelled with the deceased regarding his father, Muneshara's murder. Thereafter, all the four appellants beat him up with sticks (lathi and danda). When the informant and Heera objected, the appellants chased them. They ran and reached at Heera's dera in Gulamipur. He said that he reached the place of occurrence the next day at about 9:00 a.m. and saw the deceased lying dead. It is highly unnatural for the informant that after witnessing the appellants, beating his brother, Kallu, he ran away and stayed the entire night at the dera in Gulamipur with Heera and made no effort to find out what happened to his brother. It has come in his statement that there was a police outpost at Bharwai about one and a half miles away from the place of occurrence. He has admitted that he did not go to the Police outpost to give information that his brother was being beaten. It has also come in his evidence that instead of going to the Police outpost, he went to Gulamipur, the distance of which was more than double, being about four miles away from the place of occurrence. He has further said that in Gulamipur, he informed Mewa Lal, village Pradhan, about the incident and asked him to go there. There is no evidence on record that either of them bothered to go to the place where the deceased was being assaulted. On the other hand, if he suspected that it was a serious matter then he should have informed the Police or insisted the Pradhan to call help or garnered the support of some people and returned to the place of occurrence. Here, it is also relevant that according to the informant, the appellants asked the deceased to accompany them, then there was no reason for the informant and Heera to go with them. Why did informant and Heera go with them is not disclosed. If the alleged incident had actually happened before the informant, then it is highly unlikely that he would run away and stay the entire night at Gulamipur without inquiring about the whereabouts of his brother. A natural reaction for him would have been to wait for some time for the return of his brother Kallu, and if he did not return within a reasonable time, the informant would have gone to the place of occurrence to know what had actually happened to him. The above conduct of the informant raises serious doubt about his presence at the place of occurrence.

24. It has also come in the evidence of P.W.1, Batuni, that he did not try to save his brother, Kallu, when the accused commenced assault. It is highly unlikely that he would not have come forward to defend his brother, if there. It has further come in his evidence that the informant did not receive any injury in the incident nor raised alarm. When the informant and the deceased were real brothers and the appellants had suspicion that their father, Muneshara, was killed by the deceased's father (who was also the father of the informant) then it is quite surprising that the appellants would take revenge only upon Kallu and spare the informant, his real brother.

25. In Hem Raj v State of Haryana 2005 (10) SCC 614, the Supreme Court has held that non-examination of independent witness by itself may not give rise to an adverse inference against the prosecution. However, when the evidence of the eye-witnesses raises serious doubt about their presence at the time of occurrence, the unexplained omission to examine independent witnesses would assume significance. The authority squarely applies to the present case. In the present case there was Heera, who according to prosecution, was an eye-witness and was there with the informant and the deceased at the place of occurrence. The prosecution has not produced him in evidence and discharged him from testifying in Court. As the evidence of P.W.1, Batuni is found not reliable and the prosecution has not explained why the other eye-witness was not examined. This aspect of the matter assumes significance and lends to an adverse inference about the prosecution case.

26. With regard to motive for the appellants to commit the murder, it is submitted on behalf of the State that the appellants had harboured a grudge against the deceased on account of suspecting that the deceased's father was involved in the murder of their father, Muneshra. This served as the motive for them to commit the crime. The above contention on behalf of State has no force. According to P.W.-1, Batuni, Muneshara was murdered long ago, and his sons, that is, the appellants Chhikani, Rahise and Bakuni, suspected that he had been murdered by the deceased's father. In his cross-examination, he has spoken contrarywise and said that Muneshara's murder was not discussed with his sons and the relations between them have been cordial. He has also said that when they grew up, there was no such animosity between the parties. He has further said that even his brother, Kallu, had married his daughter to the son of the appellant, Nazir. If this part of the informant's testimony were accepted, there is no reason to believe that there was any enmity between parties and the appellants would raise the old issue of their father's murder at the time of the incident and assault Kallu, particularly when the latter had married his daughter in the family of appellant, Nazir, and ultimately kill him. It has also come in his evidence that before the alleged incident, there was no quarrel or dispute between parties regarding the murder of Muneshara. Thus, the motive alleged to commit murder is very weak. Beside this, from the evidence on record there is no immediate cause or motive which could have prompted the accused to commit such a crime. Therefore, on this account also, the prosecution case is weak and not reliable.

27. In view of the above discussion, the presence of P.W.1, Batuni, at the place of occurrence, is highly doubtful. Therefore, there is no reliable evidence that the deceased was last seen with the appellants before his murder. It appears that Kallu was murdered by someone else at an unknown time. It is a blind murder, and the appellants have been falsely implicated in this case. According to the prosecution, the incident occurred at a lonely place where there is no habitation nearby. It was in the dark of night that Kallu was murdered.

28. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the Trial Court failed to appreciate the evidence on record correctly and findings of guilt were recorded by the Trial Court on surmises and conjectures and on incorrect appreciation of evidence. Thus, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by 5th Additional Sessions Judge, Allahabad in Sessions Trial No. 308/86 is liable to be set aside. Therefore, the instant criminal appeal is allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 21.03.1990 passed by the Trial Court is set aside and the surviving appellant, Bakuni acquitted of the offence punishable under Section 302/34 IPC.

29. The appellant No.3, Bakuni is in jail. He is directed to be released forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

30. Let a copy of this order be sent to the trial Court concerned alongwith the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

Trial Court.

CASE OF THE PROSECUTION

2. The case of the prosecution as elaborated by the learned Trial Court in the impugned judgment is briefly enumerated as herein under:

2.1 The complainant, Banshilal Gupta (P.W.-1), son of Mohanlal Gupta, resident of Shivani Ka Purwa, Vihar, Police Station Baghrai, District Pratapgarh, filed a written report (Exhibit-Ka-1) at Police Station- Baghrai on August 19, 2008, at 9:00 AM, leading to registration of a F.I.R. (Exhibit-Ka-3), stating inter-alia that he had arranged the marriage of his daughter, Sangeeta Devi, aged 21 years, with Umesh (Appellant No.2), son of Paras Nath Sahu, (Appellant No.1), resident of village Dandwa, Namdevpur, Police Station Baghrai, District Pratapgarh.

2.2 It was stated therein that ever since the wedding, which had been about three years ago, the daughter's husband, Umesh, and his father, Paras Nath, constantly harassed and physically abused Sangeeta, demanding dowry and asked her to go and bring a gold chain and money, which her daughter repeatedly told to her mother, brother and relatives. It was also stated by the defacto- complainant that his son-in-law(Umesh/Appellant No.2) is a habitual alcoholic.

2.3 It was also stated in the said F.I.R. that on August 19, 2008, at around 6:30 AM, his another son-in-law, Banwari Lal, son of Chedilal, a resident of Mangalpur, Police Station- Baghrai District-Pratapgarh came to his house and informed that his daughter Sangeeta (since deceased) had been burned to death by her husband Umesh and her father-in-law Paras Nath, due to demands of dowry and the dead body is lying in her matrimonial home.

2.4 The complainant along with his son-in-law (Banwari Lal) accompanied by other relatives arrived at the place of incident, wherein they came to learn that the incident had taken place last night.

3. Based on the aforesaid written report (Exhibit-Ka-1) filed by Banshilal Gupta (P.W.-1), Head Constable Sanjay Shukla at Police Station- Baghrai registered a chik preliminary information report (Exhibit-Ka-3) regarding this incident, which he referred in General Diary, Entry No. 4 and filed a permanent case dated 19.08.2008 at 9:15 AM (Exhibit-Ka-4).

4. The inquest report of the deceased-Sangeeta Devi was prepared by Ram Kewal Tripathi, Nayab Tehsildar, Manikpur. On his instructions, the Sub-Inspector of the concerned police station seized the deceased's belongings from the crime scene, including an empty 5-liter kerosene can, a matchbox and loose matchsticks soaked in kerosene, which were lying near the body. He also seized a green and purple colored shirt, an iron tongs, and strands of hair scattered near the body, and prepared a seizure memo (Exhibit-Ka-13). He prepared the sample seal (Exhibit-Ka-6), letter of Reserve Inspector (Exhibit-Ka-7), letter of Constable (Exhibit-Ka-8), Photographs (Exhibit-Ka-9) and CMO report (Exhibit-Ka-10), and after duly sealing the dead body, sent the same to the District Hospital, Pratapgarh for post-mortem examination.

5. Postmortem of the dead body was conducted by Dr. Padmakar Singh (P.W.-3), who also prepared and signed the postmortem report (Exhibit-Ka-2).

6. During investigation, the Investigating Officer/Circle Officer Sadar, Ms. Rashmi Mishra recorded the statement of the witnesses and on the pointing out of the complainant (P.W.-1), and after investigating the place of occurrence, site plan (Exhibit-Ka-12) was prepared. After completing the formalities of investigation, the Investigating Officer filed the charge-sheet on 10.09.2008, against the appellants (i) Paras Nath Sahu and (ii) Umesh, under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act (Ex. Ka- 11).

PROCEEDINGS BEFORE THE TRIAL COURT

7. The case came to be committed to the Sessions Court vide an order dated 24.08.2009 and to the charges framed against both the appellants on 02.11.2009, both of them pleaded not guilty and claimed Trial.

8. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, have examined seven witnesses. The details of the witnesses being: -

P.W.-	Banshi Lal	Complainant/father

1		of the deceased
P.W.- 2	Kalawati	Complainant's wife/mother of the deceased
P.W.- 3	Dr. Padmakar Singh	Doctor who conducted postmortem examination of the dead body of the deceased.
P.W.- 4	Constable Sanjay Kumar Shukla	Scriber of the First Information Report and entry in the G.D.
P.W.- 5	Sri Ram Kewal Tripathi	Nayab Tehsildar Manikpur, who prepared the inquest report and on whose instruction recovery memo was prepared by the concerned police station.
P.W.- 6	Smt. Rashi Mishra	Investigating Officer/Circle Officer Sadar The Investigating Officer who prepared site plan and charge sheet against the accused/appellants.
P.W.- 7	Sri Ram Kewal Tripathi	Nayab Tehsildar Manikpur, who has already been examined as P.W.-5

9. Apart from the oral evidence led by the prosecution, various documents have also been exhibited and proved running from Exhibit. Ka-1 to Exhibit. Ka-12.

10. Thereafter, the statement of the accused/appellants were recorded under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C. on 14.07.2011 and additional statements of the accused/appellant were recorded on 01.05.2012, wherein they denied the fact of being involved in the present incident and setting ablaze of the deceased- Sangeeta. In their statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and in additional statements, both the accused persons have admitted that marriage of the deceased-Sangeeta and appellant no. 2 -Umesh was solemnized three years ago, however, they denied allegations made by the complainant/father of the deceased in the F.I.R. and allegations made by the P.W.-2 mother of the deceased. In their additional statements, they have also denied the opinion of the Doctor-Padmakar Singh, P.W.-3 and claimed that this is the false case against them with the ulterior motive to harass them. They also chose to lead defence evidence.

11. However, none of the accused/appellants produced any defence witnesses in their favour.

12. After hearing the arguments of both the sides and on basis of the evidence available on record, the Learned Trial Court returned a finding that the oral and documentary evidence placed before the Court by the prosecution were found adequate for successfully proving the entire chain of whole evidence from beginning to end in a coherent manner. The Trial Court rejected the defence version made during trial that the wife committed suicide because of her husband being alcoholic. The Trial Court also rejected the version of the defence that the dowry accusation was presumably to be customary in their culture for the son-in-law to get upset and demand something. The version of the defence that the present incident was a suicide case, as no one came from the parental home of the deceased to invite her for Raksha Bandhan was also repelled by the Ld. Trial Court.

The doctor's opinion was believed to be correct to the effect that the deceased received ante-mortem injuries and she was burnt after her death. The Ld. Trial Court meticulously after shifting through the evidence brought on record, went on to conclude that since the surrounding objects were not burned, and the body was superficially burnt from head to toe, the same indicated that the burning occurred after death and concluded that the statement of the appellant recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. to be totally false and without any supporting evidence.

13. Along-with analyzing the evidence available on record, the Learned Trial Court has also decided the case on the basis of three ingredients needed to attract the penal provisions of Section 304- B I.P.C. Those points being (i) that the death must have occurred within seven years of the marriage; (ii) that the death of the deceased may have occurred in unusual and unnatural circumstances and (iii) demand of dowry has been made just before the death. According to the learned Trial Court, the chain of all these three point formed an unbreakable chain pointing towards the culpability of the appellant, since the death occurred within 3 years of the marriage, and the death of the deceased being found in unnatural circumstances as the body was found burnt in a location where surrounding objects were not burnt and no plausible explanation or evidence was led by the appellants to discharge the presumption under Section 113 B read with Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act. Thus, the Ld. Trial Court recorded its full satisfaction for holding the guilt of both the appellants and as such awarded the maximum punishment of imprisonment for life under Section 304-B I.P.C., three years under Section 498-A I.P.C. and one year under Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961.

PROCEEDINGS BEFORE THIS COURT

14. Being aggrieved by the aforesaid conclusion of the learned Trial Court, the present appeal being Criminal Appeal No. 967 of 2012 came to be filed by the appellants- Paras Nath Sahu (Appellant No. 1) and Umesh (Appellant No. 2).

14.1 In the first bail application filed by the appellants along with the present appeal, the appellant no. 1- Paras Nath Sahu being father-in-law and old aged, was granted bail but the Court rejected the prayer for grant of bail to the appellant no. 2-Umesh vide common order dated 21.03.2013. The second bail application of the appellant no. 2 was rejected for want of prosecution vide order dated 26.03.2015 and the third bail application came to be rejected vide order dated 13.04.2022, by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court on the ground that before death of the deceased-wife of the appellant no. 2, she was administered poison and thereafter, she was burnt to death, which was clear from the viscera report. The Coordinate bench concluded that, since as per the postmortem report burn injury was found on the body of the deceased and the burden of proof was on the appellant no. 2 according to the provision of Section 113-B of the Evidence Act, which could not be discharged. The fourth bail application of the appellant no. 2 was rejected vide order dated 05.04.2024 on the ground of absence of any new ground.

14.2 However, the fifth bail application of the appellant no. 2- Umesh (husband) was filed but while arguing the bail application, Mr. R.P. Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant has also pressed that since the paper book has been prepared and the actual period of incarceration of the appellant no. 2 was more than 15 years and 2 months (or 18 years 7 months including remission) as per the Custody Certificate issued by the Jail Authorities, therefore, the appeal may be heard and decided on its merits and prayed that the 5th bail application may be dismissed as being not pressed. Consequently, the bail application was dismissed being not pressed and the appeal has been heard on its merits.

14.3 It was also informed by the Ld. Counsel for the appellant that during the pendency of the present appeal, the appellant no.1 (Paras Nath Sahu) has left for his heavenly abode and as such although the present common appeal has been filed by both the appellants, however, for all technical purposes the appeal qua the deceased appellant no.1 may be construed as abated.

14.4 Thus, according to him the present appeal may be considered qua the appellant no.2 (Umesh) only.

SUBMISSION ON BEHALF OF THE PARTIES

15. Sri R.P. Mishra, learned Advocate assisted by Sri Aditya Mishra, Advocate for the appellant has submitted that the impugned judgment dated 29.06.2012 is illegal, perverse and have been passed only on surmises and conjectures. He has submitted that there is no evidence on record regarding cruelty of the deceased for demand of dowry, as there is no injury on the body of the injured. It is next contended that there is also no evidence regarding demand of dowry immediately before the incident nor there is any injury on the body of the deceased, so as to attract the provisions of Section 304B I.P.C. It is next contended that there are several contradictions and infirmities in the statements of PW-1 and PW-2 and there is no definite opinion regarding the death of the deceased. According to the learned counsel, the appellant has been made liable merely on the basis of suspicion and as such is entitled to be acquitted from all the charges levelled against him. It is lastly contended that there is no definite opinion regarding administering of poison, as there is no medical report nor any visible sign which suggest that the poison was administered to the deceased by the contesting appellant.

16. Learned counsel for the appellant vehemently argued above sentence being highly excessive and not in commensurate with degree of offence. He has also sought to draw the attention of this Court to the evidence of P.W.-3 Dr. Padmakar Singh, who has conducted postmortem of the dead body of the deceased and according to the learned Counsel, the postmortem report clearly mentions that the cause of death could not be ascertained and as such viscera was preserved, however, it was mentioned in the postmortem examination report that the deceased has received burn injury after her death, which according to him is contradictory to each other. Thus, he submits that since the appellant is being connected to the offence of murder, due to invocation of the provisions of presumption under Section 113-B read with Section 106 of the Evidence Act, therefore, it is his submission that a reading of the prosecution witnesses and the material brought on record, reveals that there are various missing links and as such the appellant cannot be convicted in the absence of the completion of chain, which is a sine quo non for any case to be proved by circumstantial evidence. Thus, he prays for setting aside of the judgment dated 29.06.2012 passed by the Sessions Judge, Pratapgarh in Sessions Trial No. 273 of 2009 and prays for the acquittal of the appellant in the present case and in the alternative prays for leniency, as the appellant- Umesh has already spent more than 18 years and 7 months in Jail, though Section 304B I.P.C. prescribes a minimum punishment of 7 years only and he has an old mother and a young girl child of marriageable age, born out of the wedlock with deceased to support. Further, there is no criminal history and he has a sense of repent for not saving his wife.

17. Per contra, Sri S.P. Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that the deceased committed suicide at her matrimonial home as she was administered poisonous substance (Aluminum Phosphide) and the deceased died under unnatural circumstances. He has submitted that it is also the statement of the doctor/PW-3 that the body was burned after the death. It is further submitted that the prosecution has fully established that the death of the deceased was done under unnatural circumstances, within three years of the marriage and soon before her death, she was subjected to harassment and cruelty due to demand of dowry and as such the appellant has been rightly convicted under Section 304B I.P.C. and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act and on perusal of the judgment, it reveals that the prosecution has clearly established the charges levelled against the appellant and the prosecution has been successful in proving the guilt beyond any reasonable doubt, against the appellant and as such, he has been rightly convicted and sentenced to the maximum punishment under Section 304-B of the I.P.C. Thus, he prays for dismissal of the appeal.

ANALYSIS AND FINDINGS

18. Heard the learned Counsel for the parties and perused the materials on record.

19. The present appeal has been filed against conviction of the appellants under the following provisions:

Section 304B I.P.C.	Punishment for life	Fine of Rs. 3000/-, in default 1 year additional Imprisonment
Section 498A I.P.C.	3 years R.I.	Fine of Rs. 3000/-, in default 1 year additional Imprisonment
Section 4 D.P. Act	1 years R.I.	Fine of Rs. 3000/-, in default 6 months additional Imprisonment

20. Section 304B I.P.C. is relating to Dowry Death, which is a social and cultural menace, which ensues from the ill practice of dowry in our society. The cultural practice of dowry has assigned a secondary status to women leading to various social ills, which often forces her to continue in abusive marriages either due to family or peer pressure or at times due to her own accord. No doubt, various laws have been enacted providing equal level playing ground for women in all sphere of life, whether it is education, employment or property rights, however, the urge to curb and rein in this dowry practice was needed, which led to the enacting of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961. Even this Dowry Prohibition Act, which made the offering or accepting of dowry illegal, remained ineffective as the practice of dowry thrived unabated, irrespective of the caste or class. It was in this supervening background that Section 498A I.P.C. came to be inserted in the year 1983, which made the ill-treatment of women by her husband or in-laws, a punishable offence. Apparently, the said insertion also did not make much wonders, leaving the legislature to enact more stringent and heavier provision for curbing the said menace of dowry, leading to the insertion of Section 304B in the Indian Penal Code, which made dowry death punishable for a minimum sentence of 7 years and also a maximum punishment for life and raised a presumption against the person for all kinds of unnatural deaths, if the same has been occasioned within seven years of marriage, under Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act. Both these Sections were inserted in the year 1986 and ever since then, contrary to the ordinary fundamental cannon of criminal jurisprudence of 'presumption of innocence' that prosecution ought to prove the case beyond reasonable doubt stands transformed to 'presumption of guilt,' if certain conditions are fulfilled as per Section 304-B of the I.P.C. for culpability of the accused person. The law states that a foundational fact has to be merely proved against the accused person and by virtue of the legal presumption, the burden of proof stands shifted to the accused to prove his innocence by explanation and evidentiary proof, in view of Section 113 B of the Indian Evidence Act.

21. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Kashmir Kaur & Ar. V/s State of Punjab, reported in 2012(13) SCC 627; after tracing the law and various judgments on dowry death, culled out the following principles at paragraph 16 of the said judgment as follows:

(a) To attract the provisions of Section 304B IPC the main ingredient of the offence to be established is that soon before the death of the deceased she was subjected to cruelty and harassment in connection with the demand of dowry.

(b) The death of the deceased woman was caused by any burn or bodily injury or some other circumstance which was not normal.

(c) Such death occurs within seven years from the date of her marriage.

(d) That the victim was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband.

(e) Such cruelty or harassment should be for or in connection with demand of dowry.

(f) It should be established that such cruelty and harassment was made soon before her death.

(g) The expression (soon before) is a relative term and it would depend upon circumstances of each case and no straightjacket formula can be laid down as to what would constitute a period of soon before the occurrence.

(h) It would be hazardous to indicate any fixed period and that brings in the importance of a proximity test both for the proof of an offence of dowry death as well as for raising a presumption under Section 113B of the Evidence Act.

(i) Therefore, the expression “soon before” would normally imply that the interval should not be much between the concerned cruelty or harassment and the death in question. There must be existence of a proximate or life link between the effect of cruelty based on dowry demand and the concerned death. In other words, it should not be remote in point of time and thereby make it a stale one.

(j) However, the expression “soon before” should not be given a narrow meaning which would otherwise defeat the very purpose of the provisions of the Act and should not lead to absurd results.

(k) Section 304B is an exception to the cardinal principles of criminal jurisprudence that a suspect in the Indian Law is entitled to the protection of Article 20 of the Constitution, as well as, a presumption of innocence in his favour. The concept of deeming fiction is hardly applicable to criminal jurisprudence but in contradistinction to this aspect of criminal law, the legislature applied the concept of deeming fiction to the provisions of Section 304B.

(l) Such deeming fiction resulting in a presumption is, however, a rebuttable presumption and the husband and his relatives, can, by leading their defence prove that the ingredients of Section 304B were not satisfied.

(m) The specific significance to be attached is to the time of the alleged cruelty and harassment to which the victim was subjected to, the time of her death and whether the alleged demand of dowry was in connection with the marriage. Once the said ingredients were satisfied it will be called dowry death and by deemed fiction of law the husband or the relatives will be deemed to have committed that offence.”

22. Keeping the above principles in mind, this Court proceeds to marshal the evidence and material brought on record by the prosecution, so as to examine the culpability of the appellant under Section 304B I.P.C. , 498A I.P.C. read with Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961.

23. PW-1 (Bansi Lal) is the father of the deceased and PW-2(Kalawati) is the mother of the deceased. PW-1 is the de-facto complainant of the FIR and has stated that he got his daughter (deceased-Sanageeta Devi) married to Umesh (Appellant No.2) about three years prior to the incident. He stated that there was no dowry demand during the marriage, however, on the next day of marriage, on the occasion of Khichdi (ritual performed on the next day of marriage), the Convict-Umesh (Appellant No.2) demanded Rs. 10,000/- and a Gold chain, wherein PW-1 expressed his inability to meet the said demand with folded hands. It has also been stated that when PW-1 approached the father of the Convict- Umesh, even his father/ co-convict (now deceased during pending appeal), he came for a rude shock as he supported his son and told PW-1 to meet the demand of convict-Umesh, wherein again he expressed his inability with folded hands. According to PW-1, it was with great pampering and effort that convict- Umesh performed the Khichdi ritual and then took the bride/deceased to her matrimonial home. The said witness has also stated that when his daughter came back from her matrimonial home after 15 days, she told her father/PW-1, mother/PW-2 and her brother about taunting for not bringing the dowry of Rs. 10,000/- and Gold Chain. According to PW-1, his daughter was harassed and beaten at her matrimonial home for not bringing the said dowry of Rs. 10,000/- and Gold Chain, which was disclosed to him, whenever she visited her parental home and even when PW-1 personally visited the matrimonial home of the deceased. The said witness has also stated that his deceased-daughter had gone merely seven days before from her parental home to her matrimonial before the said incident, wherein after she was burnt to death in the intervening night of 18/19.08.2008. He has exhibited the Tehrir (Exhibit- Ka—1) and confirmed the date of incident. The version of this witness remained intact, although, he has been put to extensive cross-examination. There appears to be no inconsistency in the statement made by the said witness.

24. Similarly, PW-2(Kalawati) is the mother of the deceased. She has stated that her daughter was married to convict-Umesh three years before the incident. She also supported the version of demand of dowry of Rs. 10,000/- and a Gold Chain and deposed that the deceased have been continuously harassed by her in-laws for that said reason. She stated that her deceased daughter had told her that she was being beaten for not bringing the said dowry. In her examination in-chief, this witness states:

25. The statement of both the witness appears to be natural and their statement remained intact, although they were subjected to extensive cross-examination. Both the witness stood the test of veracity and this Court does not find any reason to disbelieve the version of the parents, who had lost their beloved 21 years old married daughter, in the hands of menance of dowry.

26. Further, PW-4 (Constable Sanjai Kumar Shukla) is the witness, who proved the FIR (Exhibit Ka-3) having been recorded on the basis of Tehrir given by PW-1 and recorded in his own handwriting in the G.D. (Exhibit- Ka-4). PW-5 (Ram kewal Tripathi) is the Naib Thesildar, who has proved the Inquest report (Exhibit-Ka-5) to have been written in his own hand-writing. The said witness along with other witnesses, visited the crime spot and on his instruction recovery memo was prepared by the concerned Police station and the dead body was sent for post-mortem. The said report mentions the date, time and place of dead body. It also mentions that one kerosene oil plastic empty jerking, match box and strewn match sticks, unburnt hair, one shirt green colour, etc. were recovered from the crime spot (Exhibit Ka-13). As far as the status of the body is concerned, the said report mentioned that the body was found lying on its stomach on the floor, with one bed-sheet covering the body. Altogether six panchs have signed the panchayatnama. One of the panch was of the opinion that the deceased had been killed and then burnt, whereas other panchs opined that the deceased committed suicide by setting herself on fire and mentioned that the body was recovered after breaking open the door, which was locked from inside.

27. The next, witness examined by the prosecution was PW-6 (Rashmi Mishra), who is the Investigating Officer of the present case and she has entered the witness box and gave statement related to recoveries (Exhibit Ka-13) made, site plan drawn (Exhibit Ka-12) and statement of witnesses recorded during investigation. She has collected various documents, including police photos, post-mortem report, Inquest report etc. She has also given statement related to sending of viscera to the forensic lab, Lucknow and obtaining the same on 12.01.2009. According to the said witness, the site plan was drawn on the marking of the Convict, wherein it was shown that the dead body was lying in a passage, which had two doors, which were both closed and it was the south door, which was broken open by people and body was recovered from the passage through the said door.

28. Therefore, the following uncontroverted facts evolve from the aforesaid version of PW-1 and PW-2:

I. The marriage of deceased with the convict-Umesh was three years old and as such the incident of death was within seven years of marriage. Besides, the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2, the said statement has not been controverted in the cross-examination, nor this Court finds any dispute relating to the years of Marriage. Further, both the convicts i.e. appellant no.1 and 2 have admitted to the said fact of having the marriage between the deceased and appellant no.2 (Umesh) being solemnized three years ago. Thus, since the death of the deceased is within 3 years of marriage, thereby the main condition prescribed under Section 304B i.e. death, within seven years of marriage stands fulfilled.

II. The dead body of the deceased was found in a passage of the house at her matrimonial home, as proved by the Inquest report (Exhibit Ka-5) and site plan (Exhibit- Ka-12)

III. There was demand of dowry immediately (seven days) before the incident of death as proved by PW-1 and PW-2. Although, the learned Counsel for the appellant has tried to create a doubt by pointing out the discrepancy in the said statement, in as much as PW-1 stated that the factum of coming of the daughter to her parental home, seven days prior to the said incident and telling about the demand of dowry, was not told to the police during investigation, but has been stated in the evidence recorded in the Court. This Court does not find the said inconsistency to be material, as the same has to be understood in the context the depositions were made. The said inconsistency cannot be termed as improvement of the version of PW-1 as it was reiteration of the fact that the dowry demand had been existing since the beginning of the marriage and remained unfulfilled for this three years of marriage until the death of the deceased.

IV. This Court is conscious that the usage of the word “soon” in Section 304-B I.P.C. ought not to be interpreted in terms of days or months or years, but as necessarily should indicate that the demand of dowry should not be stale or an aberration of the past, but rather should be a continuing cause for the death under Section 304B of the I.P.C. Once the presence of this concomitants are established or shown or proved by the prosecution even to their foundational effect by preponderance of possibility, the initial presumption of innocence is faded and replaced by an assumption of guilt by the deeming provision of law, thereby shifting the burden of proof upon the guilty to dislodge his guilt beyond reasonable doubt as per Section 113B of the Indian Evidence Act, which inter-alia states as herein under:

113B. Presumption as to dowry death. -- When the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman had been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death

Explanation. For the purposes of this section, dowry death shall have the same meaning as in section 304B of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860).

29. As far as the explanation and evidence led by the convict to dispel the presumption raised against them under Section 113B of the Indian Evidence Act is concerned, this Court finds that statement recorded of the convicts under Section 313 Cr.P.C, both of them have admitted the factum of the marriage having been three years old. Although, a ground has been raised that some money was sought as a loan from the father of the deceased from convict no.1 and the deceased was adamant to get the demand of her father fulfilled and since the said demand could not be met, she committed suicide, however this Court finds that besides the stray allegations nothing has been brought on record to prove the said allegations. No defence witnesses has entered the witness box to prove the version of the convict persons. The demand of dowry of Rs. 10,000/- and gold chain existed even before seven days of death of the deceased i.e. soon before her death.

30. The next question which falls for our consideration is the cause of death because Section 304B of the I.P.C. inter-alia states:

304B. Dowry death. -- (1) Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death.

Explanation. For the purposes of this sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961).

(2) Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life.

31. As far as the cause of death of the deceased is concerned, there appears to be two versions in the Inquest report. The first being, wherein one of the panchs has stated that the deceased was killed and thereafter set on fire, whereas on the other hand most of the panchs have stated that it was a suicide case, wherein the deceased after closing the door from inside, set herself on fire. To understand both the proposition, this Court has examined two documents i.e. (i) Inquest Report (Exhibit-Ka-5) and (ii) Site Plan (Exhibit- Ka-12) and the relevant deposition of the witnesses. The inquest report mentions the status of the dead body, which says that the body had only a petticoat on her, while she was lying dead by the side of her stomach on the ground.

The kerosene Jar of 5 Litres along with strewn matches and matchbox was also found from the spot near the dead body. Presumably, the second version of suicide is to be believed, the manner in which the dead body was found i.e. in a semi-nude condition (for no one would become nude and put herself on fire) and the location of the dead body from where it was recovered i.e. in the passage locked by two doors, one in the north and the other in the south, creates a serious doubt on the suicidal story. Although, the panchs have indicated in their panchayatnama, that they have seen the dead body after breaking open the south door, but nothing has been told about the north door as to whether it was locked from inside or outside. Further, it can be seen from the Site-plan that the passage is located near the kitchen and two rooms and a verandah. Generally, kerosene oil is stored in the kitchen, then why if anyone wants to commit suicide would carry the kerosene oil to a passage (not even a room) and then lock the two doors of the passage (in kitchen or in room, there is only one door and it would had been easy to lock one door, than two as is found in passage) and become semi-nude and commit suicide by burning herself to death. Further, the recovery of the kerosene oil jar and the strewn matches on the floor and the kerosene oil spread over the said passage speaks that in case it was a suicide there would had not been unburnt match stick or jar or any clothes left in the said passage as they would had also been burnt altogether, as fire does not discriminate any thing or any one and it spreads equally to all corners. The selective burning of the body and the fire not spreading anywhere in the room, shows that it cannot be a suicide case. Moreover, it was quite strange that even the noise of the deceased while burning alive or committing suicide was not heard by any of its neighbour, although it has come in the site-plan that there are many houses adjoining to the crime spot. There appears to be something amiss and flawed in the story of suicide built around the dead body and most importantly, if the story of suicide had any legs, it would had been any of the convicts, who would had informed the father of the deceased (PW-1) in the first place and/or had rushed the victim/deceased to doctor, in whatever condition, which is not the present case and would had been relevant evidence under Section 8 of the Indian Evidence Act.

32. Thus, this Court is led to rule out the suicidal theory and is prompted to look further for the real cause of death. At this stage the evidence of PW-3(Dr. Padmakar Singh), the doctor who conducted the post-mortem becomes handy and throws some light. The post-mortem report (Exhibit- Ka-2), mentions that there are superficial to deep burn present over face, head, neck and upper part of chest, left axilla and shoulder arm and forearm and upper part of arm and no other ante-mortem injuries are seen. It concludes by stating inter-alia that “even after careful post mortem, cause of death could not be ascertained, so vicera is being preserved”. However, PW-3 in his examination-in-chief has stated that the deceased had burn injuries after her death and there was no cross-examination on the said point. The said witness was recalled for further examination under Section 311 Cr.P.C, and he, thereafter explained the reasons as to why he stated in his previous examination that the burn injuries were after the death of the deceased. He very well stated in his cross-examination that since there was no line of redness there could not be any death due to burn and even the lungs did not had carbon particles, which showed that the deceased did not die due to burn injuries, although, he admits that these all facts have not been mentioned by him in the post-mortem report(Exhibit-Ka-2).

33. Although, the witness deposed that the death was caused prior to the deceased having put on fire, however the cause of death was still unknown and it is at this juncture that the viscera report from the forensic laboratory comes into the picture, which mentions vide its report dated 12.01.2009 that poisonous material “Aluminium phosphate” was found in the body of the deceased. The said forensic report has not been exhibited, however, in view of the express provisions of Section 293 of Cr.P.C., which allows certain reports from government scientific experts to be used as evidence in legal proceedings without the expert having to appear in the Court to testify can be read as evidence. The Hon’ble Supreme Court in the case of Rajesh Kumar & Anr. v/s State of NCT of Delhi, reported in (2008) 4 SCC 493; after referring to various judgments on the issue, held that as per provisions contained in sub-sections (1) and (2) of Section 293 of the Cr.P.C. it is not obligatory that an expert, who furnishes opinion on the scientific issue of the chemical examination of substance should be necessarily made to depose in proceedings before the Court. In the case in hand, the forensic report has been admitted during the recording of evidence of Investigating officer (PW-6). Such a document can also be marked on admission in view of Section 293 Cr.P.C. and used as evidence in the trial. Further, this Court finds that the defense has not even filed any application to summon the expert to disprove the same nor object to the manner the said forensic report has been admitted by the Investigating Officer. In any case, we find that the learned Trial Court has not solely relied on the forensic report to convict the appellant. Even if, the said report is left out of consideration, the learned Trial Court has held the appellants to be guilty in view of unimpeachable evidence of other witnesses.

34. In view of the above, for the cause of death, we have the following proposition; firstly the story of suicide appears to be fallacious in view of other supervening circumstances. Secondly, the Inquest report and the panchs points towards the deceased sustaining fatal burn injuries. However, thirdly, the evidence of PW-3 (Doctor), points towards the death having been occasioned prior to burning, which means death was not due to burning and fourthly, the forensic report says that poisonous particles of Aluminium phosphate was found in the dead body of the deceased.

35. Therefore, by joining the dots, we have the following analogy for the cause of death in the present case. In consideration of the overall evidence brought on record, the death was primarily due to consumption of 'Aluminium Phosphate' and thereafter, the body of the deceased was tried to be burnt, so as to pass off as a suicide case (suicide because the door was found latched from inside). Having said so, the appellant would have also been tried for causing disappearance of evidence of offence, punishable under Section 201 I.P.C., which fetches a punishment of upto seven years. However, we see that the said charges were not levelled against the convicts and rightly so, because there has been no investigation or any evidence led by the prosecution as to whether the administration of the poisonous substance 'Aluminium phosphate' was voluntary or involuntary. Further, even the viscera report was not proved as per law, which obviously would go to the benefit of the accused persons. Apparently, the learned Trial Court in absence of any cogent evidence or investigation on the point of administration of poisonous substance to the deceased causing her death has rightly restricted itself to the theory of death having been otherwise than under normal circumstances, an important ingredients to attract the penal provision of Section 304B of the I.P.C.

36. The moment, we arrive at a proposition that the death of the deceased-Sangeeta Devi has occurred otherwise than under normal circumstances, within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and therefore, such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death. Further, nothing was pointed out to hold that the conclusion arrived by the Ld. Trial Court was perverse or was there any illegality or irregularity.

37. For all the aforesaid reasons and taking into account all the above supervening factors, the evidence brought on records clearly established the legal requirements for an offence falling under Sections 304B and 498A of the I.P.C. with the aid of Section 113B of the Indian Evidence Act to be conclusively proved against the appellant and the conviction, therefore, do not call for any interference. Thus, the judgment as far as the conviction by the learned Trial Court under Section 304-B I.P.C., 498-A I.P.C. and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act is concerned the same are upheld.

38. Now, the question arises as to whether this Court can reduce the appellant's sentence and if so, to what extent, as urged by the learned Counsel for the appellant, keeping in view the prayer of leniency and the Evidence brought on record.

39. This issue has engaged the attention of this Court, as well as the Hon'ble Supreme Court in several cases, which arose out of Section 304B read with 498A I.P.C. and wherein the Supreme Court while interpreting the expression 'may' mentioned in Section 304B I.P.C. held that it is not mandatory for the Courts in every case to award life imprisonment to the accused, once he is found guilty of offence under the said provision. It was held that the Courts could award sentence in exercise of its discretion between seven years to life imprisonment, depending on the facts of each case, which must not be less than 7 years and the extreme punishment of life terms should be awarded in 'rare cases' but not in all cases as a routine. In the case of Hem Chand Vs State of Haryana, reported in (1994) 6 SCC 727, the Trial Court had awarded life term to the accused under Sections 304B read with 498A I.P.C., however, the Supreme court reduced the sentence to 10 years and held as under:

"7. Now coming to the question of sentence, it can be seen that Section 304-B IPC lays down that:

"Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life."

The point for consideration is whether the extreme punishment of imprisonment for life is warranted in the instant case. A reading of Section 304-B IPC would show that when a question arises whether a person has committed the offence of dowry death of a woman what all that is necessary is it should be shown that soon before her unnatural death, which took place within seven years of the marriage, the deceased had been subjected, by such person, to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with demand for dowry. If that is shown then the court shall presume that such a person has caused the dowry death. It can therefore be seen that irrespective of the fact whether such person is directly responsible for the death of the deceased or not by virtue of the presumption, he is deemed to have committed the dowry death if there were such cruelty or harassment and that if the unnatural death has occurred within seven years from the date of marriage. Likewise there is a presumption under Section 113-B of the Evidence Act as to the dowry death. It lays down that the court shall presume that the person who has subjected the deceased wife to cruelty before her death caused the dowry death if it is shown that before her death, such woman had been subjected, by the accused, to cruelty or harassment in connection with any demand for dowry. Practically this is the presumption that has been incorporated in Section 304-B IPC also. It can therefore be seen that irrespective of the fact whether the accused has any direct connection with the death or not, he shall be presumed to have committed the dowry death provided the other requirements mentioned above are satisfied. In the instant case no doubt the prosecution has proved that the deceased died an unnatural death namely due to strangulation, but there is no direct evidence connecting the accused. It is also important to note in this context that there is no charge under Section 302 IPC. The trial court also noted that there were two sets of medical evidence on the file in respect of the death of the deceased. Dr Usha Rani PW 6 and Dr Indu Lalit PW 7 gave one opinion. According to them no injury was found on the dead body and that the same was highly decomposed. On the other hand, Dr Dalbir Singh PW 13 who also examined the dead body and gave his opinion, deposed that he noticed some injuries at the time of re-post-mortem examination. Therefore at the most it can be said that the prosecution proved that it was an unnatural death in which case also Section 304-B IPC would be attracted. But this aspect has certainly to be taken into consideration in balancing the sentence to be awarded to the accused. As a matter of fact, the trial court only found that the death was unnatural and the aspect of cruelty has been established and therefore the offences punishable under Sections 304-B and 201 IPC have been established. The High Court in a very short judgment concluded that it was fully proved that the death of the deceased in her matrimonial home was a dowry death otherwise than in normal circumstances as a result of cruelty meted out to her and therefore an offence under Section 304-B IPC was made out. Coming to the sentence the High Court pointed out that the accused-appellant was a police employee and instead of checking the crime, he himself indulged therein and precipitated in it and that bride-killing cases are on the increase and therefore a serious view has to be taken. As mentioned above, Section 304-B IPC only raises presumption and lays down that minimum sentence should be seven years but it may extend to imprisonment for life. Therefore awarding extreme punishment of imprisonment for life should be in rare cases and not in every case."

40. The said proposition of law was consistently followed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Karnataka Vs M.V Manjunathe gowda & Anr. reported in (2003) 2 SCC 183; and G.V. Siddaramesh vs State of Karnataka, reported in (2010) 3 SCC 152; wherein in both the cases the life term was reduced to 10 years. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hari Om v. State of Haryana, reported in (2014) 10 SCC 577; considering the aforesaid judgments as precedents reduced the life term awarded by the Trial Court and the High Court to a term of 10 years, while recording that Courts below did not assign any reasons as to why the case was found to be a rare case for conviction under Section 304B I.P.C.

41. Further, there is another aspect of the matter in as much as the Constitutional Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Union of India v. V. Sriharan, reported in (2016) 7 SCC 1; was dealing with an issue, as to whether imprisonment for life in terms of Section 53 read with Section 45 of the I.P.C. means imprisonment for the rest of the life of the convict or the same can be reduced. The Constitutional Bench after referring to the various precedents, including Swamy Shraddananda (2) v. State of Karnataka, reported in (2008) 13 SCC 767; has answered the same in paragraph nos. 104 and 105 of the said judgment i.e. V. Sriharan (Supra), in the following words:

"104. That apart, in most of such cases where death penalty or life imprisonment is the punishment imposed by the trial court and confirmed by the Division Bench of the High Court, the convict concerned will get an opportunity to get such verdict tested by filing further appeal by way of special leave to this Court. By way of abundant caution and as per the prescribed law of the Code and the criminal jurisprudence, we can assert that after the initial finding of guilt of such specified grave offences and the imposition of penalty either death or life imprisonment, when comes under the scrutiny of the Division Bench of the High Court, it is only the High Court which derives the power under the Penal Code, which prescribes the capital and alternate punishment, to alter the said punishment with one either for the entirety of the convict's life or for any specific period of more than 14 years, say 20, 30 or so on depending upon the gravity of the crime committed and the exercise of judicial conscience befitting such offence found proved to have been committed."

(emphasis added)

"105. We, therefore, reiterate that the power derived from the Penal Code for any modified punishment within the punishment provided for in the Penal Code for such specified offences can only be exercised by the High Court and in the event of further appeal only by the Supreme Court and not by any other court in this country. To put it differently, the power to impose a modified punishment providing for any specific term of incarceration or till the end of the convict's life as an alternate to death penalty, can be exercised only by the High Court and the Supreme Court and not by any other inferior court."

(emphasis added)

42. Moreover, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Shiva Kumar v. State of Karnataka, reported in (2023) 9 SCC 817; after considering both of the aforementioned judgments of V. Sriharan

(Supra) and Swamy Shraddhananda (2) (Supra); in paragraph no. 14, has held that:

"14. Hence, we have no manner of doubt that even in a case where capital punishment is not imposed or is not proposed, the constitutional courts can always exercise the power of imposing a modified or fixed-term sentence by directing that a life sentence, as contemplated by "secondly" in Section 53IPC, shall be of a fixed period of more than fourteen years, for example, of twenty years, thirty years and so on. The fixed punishment cannot be for a period less than 14 years in view of the mandate of Section 433-A Cr.P.C."

43. Therefore, in view of the mandate of the Constitutional Bench in the case of V. Sriharan (Supra) and later clarified in the case of Shiva Kumar (Supra), there is no iota of doubt in the mind of this Court, as being a Constitutional Court, that a punishment of life imprisonment can be converted into a fixed term keeping in view, the facts and circumstances of a particular case, with the only caveat that the said fixed term cannot be less than 14 years.

44. As far as the present case is concerned, considering the aforesaid proposition of law and the overall facts and circumstances, keeping in view the evidence brought on record, by virtue of which the appellants were convicted, we in our considered view need to set a chord of balance between the culpability of the convict on the basis of evidence collected and brought on record on the one hand with the amount of punishment inflicted due to the said culpability. This Court does not find any plausible reason appended by the learned Trial Court as to why the maximum punishment of life imprisonment had been awarded to the appellants in this present case. No doubt, the crime committed is one of the most heinous crime and does not calls for any leniency, keeping in view that notwithstanding the stringent law, dowry death is rampant and it refuses to recede, even after four decades it was enacted.

45. However, this Court besides its role to set an example for the society is to also strike a balance with the right of the individual convict and his apparent responsibilities. It has come on record, by virtue of the custody certificate, filed on records that the convict has already spent more than 15 years and eight months (18 years and 7 months, including remission) in jail, though Section 304B of the I.P.C. prescribes a minimum punishment of 7 years only. The appellant no.1, who was the father of the appellant no.2 has since been deceased during the pendency of the present Appeal. It has also come on record that the appellant no.2 has an old mother and a young girl child of marriageable age, born out of the wedlock with the deceased to support.

46. Thus, keeping in view the totality of the facts and considering the balance sheet of aggravating and mitigating circumstances and there being no criminal background and adverse history against the convict/appellant no.2- Umesh, we consider that the ends of justice would be met in this case, if the maximum sentence of life under Section 304B of the I.P.C is reduced to the period already undergone, i.e. actual sentence of 15 years and 8 months. However, the sentence under Section 498A I.P.C., and Section 4 Dowry Prohibition Act, including the fine amount imposed shall remain unaltered.

CONCLUSION

47. As sequel to the above, the present appeal as far as the appellant no.1 (Paras Nath Sahu) is concerned stands abated and as far as the appellant no.2 (Umesh) is concerned is dismissed on the point of conviction under Sections 304B, 498A of the I.P.C. read with Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act; however, on the point of sentence, the Appeal is partly allowed to the extent of sentence of 15 years and 8 months, i.e. the period already undergone.

48. However, the entire amount of fine awarded by the Trial Court shall be deposited by the appellant, within four weeks from the date of his release, in default, he shall be liable to undergo the same punishment of imprisonment, as the learned Trial Court has awarded.

49. Having said so, it is directed that the appellant- Umesh may be released forthwith, having already undergone the sentence of punishment under the present Sessions Trial No. 273 of 2009 (State Vs. Paras Nath Sahu and another) arising out of Crime No. 143 of 2008, if he is not needed in any other case(s).

50. There shall be no order as to cost(s).

None has appeared for the appellant. Mr. Ratan Singh, Learned AGA-I for the State is present.

The present appeal has been filed under Section 449 Cr.P.C. against the judgement and order dated 11.04.1985 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Muzaffarnagar in Criminal Misc. Case No. 18/86 (State v. Amar Singh and others) under Section 446 Cr.P.C.

The present criminal appeal pertains to the year 1988 and is listed today under the caption of "Oldest Pending Cases In This High Court For Priority Hearing."

At the very outset, learned AGA for the State submits that the instant appeal has merit as the main accused Rais S/o Hakimuddin in Sessions Trial No. 69 of 1986 (State v. Munavvar and others) tried under Sections 395/397 IPC, PS-Kandhla, District-Muzaffarnagar has been acquitted on 08.12.1987 by the learned First Additional Sessions Judge, Muzaffarnagar.

With the assistance of the learned AGA and from the perusal of the records, it transpires that the proceedings under Section 446 Cr.P.C. was initiated against the appellants (sureties) as the accused Rais committed a default in not attending the Court and a show-cause notice was issued to the surety to an amount of Rs. 5,000/- each which was to be realized from them as penalty. As the appellants did not appear on the date fixed despite the personal service, the impugned order dated 06.02.1987 was passed to realize the penalty issuing the realization warrant.

Aggrieved by the order of realization warrant, the instant appeal has been preferred by the appellants under Section 449 Cr.P.C.

Accordingly, the Court is convinced that the defaulter accused Rais has already been acquitted vide order dated 08.12.1987 passed by first Additional Sessions Judge, Muzaffarnagar acquitting the accused Munavvar and Rais of a charge under Section 395 IPC framed against them and the his surety bond and a personal bond has been cancelled.

As the main accused has been acquitted, the penalty imposed on the appellants is hereby waived off.

Accordingly, the criminal appeal filed under Section 449 Cr.P.C., is hereby allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

1. This Criminal Appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 10.07.1989 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge, Gyanpur, Varanasi in Session Trial No. 37 of 1982 arising out of Case Crime No. 52 of 1981, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 120B IPC, police station Gyanpur, district Varanasi. By the impugned order, the Additional Sessions Judge has acquitted the accused Brahm Shankar, Vijay Shankar, Nirahoo and Awadh Narain and has convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant Bhola to life imprisonment under section 302 IPC. Aggrieved by the judgment and order dated 10.07.1989 by which the accused-appellant Bhola was convicted under Section 302 IPC, he filed the instant criminal appeal challenging the aforesaid judgment and order dated 10.07.1989.

2. In short compass, the facts of the case are that on 27.05.1981, a written report was given to the Inspector, Police Station Gyanpur, District Varanasi by PW-1 Lalmani Dubey alleging inter alia that there was enmity between him and Brahm Shankar @ Bechu. Due to old enmity, Brahm Shankar @ Bechu and Vijay Shankar @ Mothai alongwith three unknown persons came at his house from the North keeping lathi, danda and country-made pistol and attacked his cousin Aadhya Prasad and nephew Faujdar, who were sleeping at the door, by lathi-danda. The unknown person who wore kurta pajama fired from the country-made pistol upon his nephew Rakesh Kumar, who was also sleeping on the cot, which hit his chest and the blood started oozing. On hearing the noise of the fire-shot and screaming, he and Aadhya Prasad, Faujdar and younger brother Chaturgun and neighbours Phoolchandra Dubey, Shivshankar and Jayshankar and many people of the locality came at the spot. On seeing the aforesaid persons, the culprits ran towards the East direction. The complainant alongwith the persons gathered at the spot identified the accused persons Brahm Shankar and Vijay

Shankar in the light of the torch. The first informant claimed that he can also recognize the three unknown assailants on seeing them. The assailants were chased but they could not be caught. Thereafter, the condition of the injured Rakesh Kumar started deteriorating and he was taken to the hospital but he died on the way.

3. On the basis of the aforesaid report, a case was registered as Case Crime No. 52 of 1981, which was proved as Ext. Ka-3. Investigation of the crime was started by the police. The investigating officer of the case recorded the statement of the witnesses of the crime. Panchayatnama and post mortem of the dead body of the deceased were conducted. After completing all the formalities of the investigation, investigating officer submitted charge-sheet against accused Brahm Shankar @ Bechu, Vijay Shankar @ Mothai and Nirahoo, which was proved as Ext. Ka-14. Thereafter, the charge-sheet was also submitted by the investigating officer against the accused-appellant Bhola which was proved as Ext.Ka-4.

4. The charge was framed under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323 read with Section 149 IPC against the accused Bhola, Brahm Shankar @ Bechu, Vijay Shankar @ Mothai, Nirahoo and Awadh Narain by the trial Court on 31.03.1983. Against the appellant-accused Bhola, the charge was framed under Section 302 IPC (simplicitor) by the trial Court. The charge was framed under Section 120B IPC against the accused Nirahoo and Awadh Narain. All the accused persons including the accused-appellant Bhola denied the charges framed against them and claimed for trial.

5. After recording the evidence of the prosecution witnesses and taking into consideration their evidence on record, statement of the accused-appellant Bhola and other accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

6. Vide judgment and order dated 10.07.1989, trial Court after hearing the arguments of the prosecution and defence, on the basis of the evidence available on record, acquitted accused Brahm Shankar @ Bechu, Vijay Shankar @ Mothai, Nirahoo and Awadh Narain under Sections 147, 302/149, 323/149 and 120B IPC, by giving benefit of doubt. The accused-appellant Bhola was also acquitted of the charge under Sections 148, 302/149, 323/149 IPC but he was held guilty under Section 302 IPC (simplicitor) and convicted for life imprisonment. No fine was imposed upon the accused-appellant Bhola.

7. It is also worthwhile to mention here that against the acquittal order of the trial Court in respect of accused Brahm Shankar @ Bechu, Vijay Shankar @ Mothai, Nirahoo and Awadh Narain, State of Uttar Pradesh has not filed any appeal.

8. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant Bhola submitted that in the written report Ext. Ka-1, accused-appellant Bhola has not been named whereas accused Brahm Shankar and Vijay Shankar have been named in the F.I.R. Informant Lalmani Dubey, who is PW-1, has stated three kinds of enmity only against the named accused Brahm Shankar and Vijay Shankar. No enmity or cause or reason has been stated by the informant/PW-1 Lalmani Dubey against the accused-appellant Bhola, therefore, no motive for the commission of the crime by the accused-appellant Bhola has emerged from the F.I.R. The trial Court on the basis of the evidence acquitted the accused Brahm Shankar, Vijay Shankar, Nirahoo and Awadh Narain from the charge under Sections 147, 302/149, 323/149 and 120B IPC. The trial Court wrongly relied on the evidence of the informant/PW-1 Lalmani Dubey, PW-2 Chaturgun and PW-10 Isht Dev Prasad Rai and convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant Bhola under Section 302 IPC.

9. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that on the test identification parade of accused-appellant Bhola by the informant/PW-1 Lalmani Dubey and PW-2 Chaturgun, the trial Court wrongly and illegally held guilty the accused-appellant Bhola. It is also submitted by the counsel for the appellant that date of incident is 26/27.05.1981 at about 12:15 O'clock in the night.

10. The accused-appellant Bhola was arrested by the investigating officer on 03.07.1981 and his test identification parade was conducted in Sub Jail, Gyanpur, Varanasi on 07.09.1981, i.e., after about two months from the date of his arrest. From the evidence of PW-10 Isht Dev Prasad Rai, it is clear that before the test identification parade of the accused-appellant Bhola, prosecution witnesses already knew and were familiar to the accused-appellant Bhola, because village of the first informant Lalmani where incident occurred on 26/27.05.1981 and village of accused-appellant Bhola are situated in close vicinity.

11. On the above arguments, learned counsel for the accused-appellant Bhola submitted that without proper appreciation of the prosecution evidence, trial Court convicted the accused-appellant Bhola against the set principles of law of evidence in this regard. Hence, it is submitted by the counsel for the accused-appellant Bhola that accused-appellant Bhola is also entitled for acquittal by giving benefit of doubt.

12. Per contra, learned A.G.A. representing the State of U.P. has submitted that the trial Court in proper prospective and in legal way after appreciating the prosecution evidence found the accused-appellant Bhola guilty for commission of the alleged crime. The accused-appellant Bhola is the sole accused person, who fired at the deceased Rakesh Kumar on his chest from a country-made pistol, thereby murdered Rakesh Kumar. It is also submitted that judgment of conviction and sentence as passed by the trial Court is fully based on the evidence of the prosecution. The finding and conclusion drawn by the trial Court is legally sound as per law and parameters in this regard. Hence, the criminal appeal filed by the accused-appellant Bhola is liable to be rejected and conviction and sentence passed by the trial Court must be confirmed.

13. We have heard learned counsel for the appellant and the A.G.A. for the State of U.P. We have also perused the oral and documentary evidence as available on the record and gone through the record in the light of the arguments as adduced by the counsel for the accused-appellant and the A.G.A. representing the State.

14. From perusal of the written report Ext. Ka-1 and evidence of the first informant/PW-1 Lalmani Dubey and PW-2 Chaturgun, it is amply clear that three kinds of enmity were stated by the informant/PW-1 Lalmani Dubey and witness PW-2 Chaturgun only against the accused Brahm Shankar and Vijay Shankar, Nirahoo and Awadh Narain.

Neither any single reference about enmity or reason has been stated by the informant/PW-1 Lalmani Dubey in his written report Ext. Ka-1 nor in his oral evidence. In his evidence of PW-2 Chaturgun also has not stated any enmity, cause or reason, which motivated the accused-appellant Bhola to come at the residence of the first informant/PW-1 Lalmani Dubey in the night of 26/27.05.1981 and fire at Rakesh Kumar son of Chaturgun PW-2. It is also not stated by any of the prosecution witness that accused-appellant Bhola is a hired assassin. During the course of investigation by the investigating officer S.I. Sarju Prasad Chaudhary/PW-7, no fact of enmity between the informant side and accused-appellant Bhola has come into light. From the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, no single sentence has been stated about the motive, reason or cause, that has motivated or inspired the accused-appellant Bhola to commit the alleged crime. Despite the so-called enmity between the family of the informant Lalmani Dubey and accused Brahm Shankar and Vijay Shankar, accused Brahm Shankar and Vijay Shankar have been acquitted by the trial Court. This fact in absence of any motive against the accused-appellant Bhola makes the prosecution story suspicious and doubtful. Therefore, testimonies and evidence of the prosecution witnesses in this regard are not found to be trustworthy and believable.

15. In the written report Ext. Ka-1, name of accused-appellant Bhola has not been stated by the informant/PW-1 Lalmani Dubey. The date of the incident is 26/27.05.1981. Accused-appellant Bhola was arrested on 03.07.1981 alongwith accused Nirahoo. The investigating officer/PW-7 Sarju Prasad Chaudhary has stated in his cross-examination that "only on the ground of doubt and information (mukhbiri), name of accused Bhola has come into light in respect of the alleged crime. The accused Awadh Narain in his statement has stated about the involvement of the accused Bhola in the commission of the crime and on believing many other causes, accused Bhola has been arrested."

16. From the above statement of the investigating officer/PW-7 Sarju Prasad Chaudhary as given by him in his cross-examination, it is amply clear that accused-appellant Bhola was arrested by the investigating officer only on the ground of doubt, suspicion and statement of other co-accused Awadh Narain. From the above, it is clear that only on the ground of suspicion and doubt, the accused-appellant Bhola got involved and implicated in this case as an accused.

17. The accused-appellant Bhola was arrested by the investigating officer/PW-7 on 03.07.1981 alongwith co-accused Nirahoo. The so-called test identification parade was organized on 07.09.1981 at Sub Jail, Gyanpur, Varanasi by PW-10 Isht Dev Prasad Rai.

18. From the aforesaid, it is clear that date of incident is 26/27.05.1981 and after about 36 days, accused-appellant Bhola was arrested on 03.07.1981 by PW-7 SI Sarju Prasad Chaudhary. Thereafter, the test identification parade was conducted under the supervision of the prosecution witness PW-10 Isht Dev Prasad Rai on 07.09.1981 after a delay of about two months from his arrest. The above fact of about two months delay has also been confirmed by PW-2 Chaturgun from his statement that after two months and five days from the date of incident, he with Lalmani Dubey, Aadhya Prasad and Autar have gone in the test identification parade to identify the culprit. Apart from this, the first informant Lalmani Dubey has stated in his cross-examination that "accused Bhola is resident of village Bhagwas. The test identification of accused Bhola has been done after two months from his arrest. There was his land in village Bhagwas where he does agricultural work. He knew accused Bhola for the last about 4^{1/2} years. He had seen firing from country-made pistol by the accused Bhola."

19. Thus from the above statement of informant/PW-1 Lalmani Dubey, it is clear that accused Bhola is resident of village Bhagwas. The agricultural land of informant/PW-1 Lalmani is situated in village Bhagwas where he does agricultural work. This fact also becomes clear that informant PW-1 Lalmani Dubey is also known to the accused-appellant Bhola and well-acquainted with him.

20. We have also perused the evidence of PW-2 Chaturgun and find that PW-2 Chaturgun allegedly denied that he had heard the name of Bhola for the first time. PW-2 Chaturgun stated that he does not go to village Bhagwas in any marriage ceremony or other functions. Thus from the two contradictory statement on the same point by informant/PW-1 Lalmani Dubey and PW-2 Chaturgun, the fact emerged that PW-2 Chaturgun is trying to conceal this fact that he does not go to village Bhagwas where accused-appellant Bhola resides. Thus, from the above contradictory statement of the first informant/PW-1 Lalmani Dubey and PW-2 Chaturgun, it becomes amply clear that PW-2 Chaturgun is purposely trying to conceal this fact that he did not know or was acquainted with the accused-appellant Bhola, who is resident of village Bhagwas. From the contradictory statement of PW-1 Lalmani Dubey and PW-2 Chaturgun, it is apparent that village Chhatrashahpur where the incident happened on 26/27.05.1981 and village Bhagwas where the accused Bhola resides is located in the close vicinity of each other.

21. In other words, village Chhatrashahpur where the complainant's side resides and village Bhagwas where accused Bhola resides are located in the vicinity of each other. Although PW-1 Lalmani and PW-2 Chaturgun in their evidences tried to conceal this fact but in cross-examination, this fact emerged in the statement of PW-1 Lalmani Dubey.

22. The test identification parade of the accused-appellant Bhola was conducted by the prosecution on 07.09.1981 after a delay of about two months from his arrest on 03.07.1981. No cause or explanation for two months delay has been explained or stated by the PW-10 Isht Dev Prasad Rai. When we see this fact in totality of the circumstances of the case and in the light of the fact that accused-appellant Bhola is not named in the written report Ext. Ka-1, then the delay of two months in conducting the test identification parade, proceeding of the test identification parade in the above circumstances and facts become totally doubtful, suspicious and, thereby unbelievable.

23. From the perusal of the evidence as given by the prosecution witness Ist Dev Prasad Rai and in his cross-examination, it appears that PW-10 Isht Dev Prasad Rai, who conducted the test identification parade has stated in his cross-examination that "witnesses Aadhya Prasad and Autar had given statement to him that they have come to identify accused Bhola".

From the above, statement of PW-10 Ist Dev Prasad Rai, it explicitly becomes clear that PW-1 Lalmani Dubey and PW-2 Chaturgun, Aadhya Prasad, Faujdar are familiar and acquainted with the accused-appellant Bhola, before commission of the alleged crime. In other words, test identification witnesses are well-acquainted and known to accused-appellant Bhola. Without considering this fact and without giving any reason on this point, the trial Court held accused-appellant Bhola guilty. How and by which means, PW-10 Isht Dev Prasad Rai stated that they had come to identify accused Bhola. Meaning thereby that prosecution witnesses, who participated in the test identification parade, were familiar and acquainted with the accused-appellant Bhola. These prosecution witnesses before the date of incident were known to the accused-appellant Bhola and accused Bhola was also familiar and known to the prosecution witnesses. Since village Chhatrashahpur and village Bhagwas where complainant's side and accused-appellant Bhola respectively reside, are located in the close vicinity of each other. The agricultural land of the complainant Lalmani Dubey is located and situated in village Bhagwas. Both the above villages are neighbouring village, so in this facts and circumstances of the case, it could not be presumed that complainant's side and the appellant Bhola are not familiar and acquainted with each other.

24. We have gone through the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Harinath and another Vs. State of U.P., (1988) 1 SCC 14. From perusal of the fact of the above case law of Hon'ble Apex Court, it appears that facts and circumstances of the said case are nearly similar to the facts and circumstances of the present criminal appeal at hand. From perusal of the aforesaid case law, we find that above case is fully applicable in the facts and circumstances of the case at hand, wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has held that :

"The evidence establishing the identity of the culprits assumes particular materiality in a case, as here, of a dacoity occurring in the darkness of the night. The evidence of the test identification would then call for a careful scrutiny. In the present case the fact that the prosecution witness could reasonably be expected to have known some of the accused-appellants as residents of villages in close vicinity of his village and as students of the same institution in which he was a student is a statable probability and that his feigned ignorance of any prior familiarity with identity of the accused becomes irreconcilable with what are incidents of ordinary human intercourse. The omission to disclose their identity in the FIR would raise a reasonable doubt about their complicity in the crime. Moreover, there was a serious lapse on the part of the prosecution in putting up the suspected culprits for a test identification after a lapse of four months after their arrest without any explanation for the delay. The benefit of this wholly unexplained lack of promptitude in holding the test identification enures to the accused-appellants. The evidence of test identification lacks the requisite element of reassurance to support the conviction. A reasonable doubt, therefore, arises."

25. When we see the evidence of the witness of the test identification parade in the light of the law as held by the Hon'ble Apex Court, we find that accused-appellant Bhola was arrested on 03.07.1981 after about 36 days from the date of incident on 26/27.05.1981.

26. The test identification parade was organized and conducted by the prosecution on 07.09.1981 after two months of his arrest on 03.07.1981. No explanation for the delay of two months in conducting the test identification parade has been given by the prosecution. It is also surprising that village Chhatrashahpur where the complainant's side resides and village Bhagwas where the accused resides, are located in the close vicinity of each other. The villagers of neighbourhood villages situated in close vicinity are well-acquainted and familiar with each other. The delay of about two months in conducting the test identification parade after arrest of the accused-appellant Bhola, even without any explanation of delay, itself becomes highly doubtful and suspicious. Therefore, only on the ground of test identification parade even after delay of more than two months, accused-appellant Bhola could not be held guilty for the commission of the heinous crime like murder.

27. This delay of about two months in conducting the test identification parade makes the prosecution story as projected by the prosecution against the accused-appellant Bhola, highly doubtful and unbelievable.

28. In light of the case law as held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Harinath and another (supra), we find that judgment and order dated 10.07.1989 as passed by the learned trial Court in Session Trial No. 37 of 1982 (State Vs. Bhola and others) holding guilty the accused-appellant Bhola is not sustainable as per the law.

29. We find that accused-appellant Bhola is also entitled to be acquitted of the charge under Section 302 IPC by giving benefit of doubt.

30. In the light of the above discussions and analysis, we find that Criminal Appeal No. 1529 of 1989 (Bhola Vs. State) deserves to be allowed.

31. The criminal appeal is allowed. Accordingly, we set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 10.07.1989 of conviction and sentence passed against the accused-appellant Bhola by learned trial Court in Session Trial No. 37 of 1982 arising out of Case Crime No. 52 of 1981, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 120B IPC, police station Gyanpur, district Varanasi. The appellant Bhola is acquitted of the charge under Section 302 IPC. The appellant is on bail. His bail bond is cancelled and sureties are discharged. He need not surrender.

32. Office is directed to certify the judgment to the learned trial Court forthwith along with lower court record.

(4) On the basis of aforesaid written report submitted by the complainant, F.I.R. under Section 302, 504 and 506 I.P.C. was registered vide Case Crime No.311/1999 at 14:30 hours on 09.12.1999. The investigation was started by the Investigating Officer immediately after lodging of F.I.R. He recorded statement of complainant in Police Station and thereafter he reached on the spot alongwith the complainant. He prepared inquest report and sent the dead body for post mortem. The Investigating Officer also prepared the site plan, collected blood stained mud and plain mud from the spot and on the recovery memo, he took signatures of the witnesses. The spade (kudal) and the broken wooden handle (beint) of spade, having blood stains on them, was lying near the dead body, which was also taken into possession by the Investigating Officer and the recovery memo was signed by witnesses also. After completing the investigation, charge sheet was filed. The F.S.L. report was also placed on record, when the same was received.

(5) The learned Magistrate took cognizance on the charge sheet and committed the case to Court of Session. The charges under Section 302 I.P.C. read with Section 34, 504 and 506 I.P.C. were framed against the appellants. The appellants denied the charge and prayed for trial, therefore, the trial proceeded.

(6) In order to prove its case, eight witnesses were examined by the prosecution i.e. Ashok Kumar as P.W.-1, Dev Mani Mishra as P.W.-2, Constable Suresh Narayan Tiwari as P.W.-3, Arvind Pratap Singh as P.W.-4, Jiya Lal Yadav as P.W.-5, Jairam as P.W.-6, Dr. Major V.N. Singh as P.W.-7 and Ram Naresh Yadav as P.W.-8. The prosecution also placed on record and proved the documentary evidences, which were exhibited.

(7) After conclusion of the prosecution evidence, statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. were recorded, wherein they admitted that two and a quarter biswa of land on the eastern side of their house is of Dev Mani. They also admitted that the said land is undivided. It has also been admitted that their chak is in the north of chak of Dev Mani, in which potato was sown in the western half part and eastern half part was vacant and in some parts, sugarcane was planted. It has also been admitted that in the eastern half chak of Dev Mani, there is a tube well and the said chak is in two parts but they denied the remaining evidence and stated that the false evidences have been adduced. Rohini

Kumar Pathak, Lekhpal was examined in defence as D.W.-1, who produced the evidence regarding possession of the chak of the complainant and the accuseds and their numbers.

(8) After considering the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and evidence as well as material on record, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence has been passed by the learned trial Court. Hence the present appeal has been filed.

(9) During pendency of the present appeal, the appellant No.3; Ram Badan died, therefore, the appeal abated on his behalf and it was recorded in the order dated 11.01.2019. Hence this appeal survives on behalf of the appellant No.1; Phool Chandra and appellant No.2; Harish Chandra both sons of Ram Badan.

(10) Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the appellants have been convicted and sentenced by means of the impugned judgment and order without considering the evidence and material on record. He further submitted that the time and place of incident is doubtful and the conviction is based solely on the related and interested witnesses. He further submitted that an independent witness, who was present at the place of incident, has not been examined. He further submitted that the injuries are not corroborated because the Kudal is a sharp edged weapon and no injury of the sharp edged weapon has been found and blood stained mud was not recovered from the spot. The motive is also not proved. The incident has been shown to have happened on a trivial issue, on account of which, the offence under Section 302 I.P.C. cannot be committed. He further submitted that even if the case of the prosecution is taken to be correct and the evidence adduced before the learned trial Court is considered giving due weight to the same, at the most the offence under Section 304 Part II I.P.C. can be said to have been committed as it was not pre-meditated and may be on account of sudden quarrel and provocation and if this Court comes to the conclusion that the offence has been committed by the appellants, then the same is liable to be converted into Section 304 Part II I.P.C. and the sentence is liable to be reduced accordingly.

(11) On the basis of above, learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the impugned judgment and order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and the same is liable to be set aside.

(12) Learned A.G.A. vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the appellants. He submitted that the F.I.R. has been lodged promptly and delay, if any, has been explained. He further submitted that the contention of learned counsel for the appellants, that the time and place of incident is doubtful, is misconceived and not tenable because the F.I.R. was lodged promptly and immediately after lodging of the F.I.R., the Investigating Officer went with the complainant to the place of incident and found the deceased lying in the field and also recovered the weapon of assault etc. He further submitted that presence of the appellants and a tractor has also been shown in the site plan. Tube well and the mound of drainage on the northern side of field of complainant's side, which was being broken, on account of which, the incident had occurred, has also been shown in the site plan.

(13) He further submitted that there is no contradiction in the evidences of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, who are the eye witnesses and their evidences have also been corroborated by the evidence of P.W.-4. He further submitted that P.W.-5 and P.W.-8 have proved the material collected from the spot and also as to how he made the investigation and no cross-examination has been done from him.

(14) On the basis of above, learned A.G.A. submitted that the contention of learned counsel for the appellants are liable to be repelled as the impugned judgment and order has rightly been passed in accordance with law and the appellants have been convicted and sentenced. There is no illegality or error in the impugned judgment and order. The appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds, which is liable to be dismissed.

(15) We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

(16) A written report was submitted by the complainant, Ashok Kumar Mishra on 09.12.1999 at Police Station Baskhari, District Ambedkar Nagar, intimating therein that on the said date, he, his father and his brother, namely, Ajai Kumar were sowing wheat in their fields and a labour of his village, namely, Ram Dular was also present with them. The field of Phool Chandra, Harish Chandra and Ram Badan is adjacent to their field and they were also working on their field at that time. Phool Chandra started cutting their northern mound (मेड़) of drainage, therefore, the brother of complainant, Ajai Kumar forbade him for doing so, on which, Ram Badan exhorted and Phool Chandra and Harish Chandra, hurling abuses shouted to kill him and all the three broke on him. Phool Chandra had beaten him with kudal at 01:00 in the afternoon, on account of which, he fell down and cried. When the complainant etc. rushed, the Harish Chandra, having country made pistol in his hand, threatened them of killing and opened fire and ran behind them. The complainant etc. raising alarm ran towards the house and on hearing the alarm, many villagers ran but all the three accused fled away towards the North. It was also stated in the written complaint that his brother died on the spot. On the basis of aforesaid written complaint, the F.I.R. was lodged at 02:30 PM.

(17) It has been stated by P.W.-1 in his evidence that after 20-25 minutes of the incident, his father asked him to lodge a report. In the cross-examination, he stated that it was said by him at the field as they were weeping for 10-15 minutes. He further stated in the cross-examination that he had not written report at the house on account of hurry and anxiety and purchased a paper at a crossing before the Police Station and got written the report at a shop of cycle. Thereafter, he went to the Police Station, to lodge the F.I.R., on foot with cycle. The F.I.R. of incident at 01:00 PM was lodged at 02:30 PM at Police Station, which was at a distance of about 04 Km. Thus, the report has been lodged promptly and the delay, if any, has been explained by the complainant.

(18) P.W.-1 stated that after lodging of the F.I.R., his statement was recorded at the Police Station and the Inspector went alongwith him at the spot of incident from the Police Station. Constable Suresh Narayan Tiwari, who appeared as P.W.-3, has stated in his evidence that the dead body for post mortem was received by him from the place of incident alongwith the inquest report etc. In cross-examination, he stated that he went to the spot at 02:30 in the afternoon and when he went, Inspector Sri Ram Naresh Yadav and other constables were with him. Ram Naresh Yadav appeared as P.W.-8, who stated in his evidence that the F.I.R. was written by H.M. Mahadev Chauhan at Chik No.68 at 14:30 hours. He further stated that investigation was received by him on 09.12.1999 and he recorded the statement of complainant; Ashok Kumar in the Police Station, thereafter, he went to the spot in Village Hajiypur alongwith the complainant, where he found the dead body lying in the field and spade and it's handle having blood on them, was lying near dead body. He, after inspecting the dead body, prepared the inquest report and other relevant documents. The inquest report; Ex. Ka-2 shows the distance of the Police Station from the spot as 04 Km. and the time of lodging of F.I.R. as 14:30 hours, start time of investigation as 15:10 hours. Thus, the inquest report indicates that immediately after lodging of the F.I.R., the Investigating Officer went on the spot and prepared the inquest report.

(19) The condition of the dead body has been mentioned in the inquest report, which shows that there was a lot of bleeding from the head. The Investigating Officer, being in agreement with the opinion of the witnesses that the deceased has died on account of injuries suffered by him in the head and the post mortem may be got done, sent the dead body for post mortem. The father of the deceased, Dev Mani Mishra, who appeared as P.W.-2, has proved that he signed the inquest report, which was prepared before him as well as Jiya lal Yadav, the Pradhan, who appeared as P.W.-5 and he has also signed the inquest report and proved the signatures on the same. An independent witness, Arvind Pratap Singh, examined as P.W.-4, has also proved the incident and place of incident. Nothing could be extracted from them in cross-examination, which may create any doubt about their testimony in this regard. Thus, the place of incident has also been proved, which is corroborated by the site plan also.

(20) After inquest, the dead body was sent for post mortem. The post mortem report is Ex. Ka-5. According to the post mortem report, five injuries were found, which are as follows:-

"i) Lacerated wound 11 cm x 3 cm x bone deep on left side of head 10 cm above Lt. ear underlying bone fractured.

ii) Traumatic swelling 9 cm x 6 cm on left side of head 2 cm above lt. ear.

iii) Contusion 2 cm x 1 cm on Rt. Shoulder.

iv) Lacerated wound 1.5 cm x 1 cm x 0.5 cm on submandibular region 3 cm below chin.

v) Abrasion 5 cm x 0.5 cm on dorsal aspect of lt. forearm 3 cm above Lt. wrist joint."

It is further noticed that brain has been shown as 'lacerated in relation to injury' and membranes have been shown as 'lacerated and congested in relation to injury'. Stomach and its contents were shown as 'partially digested food 100 gms'. The cause of death has been shown as shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante mortem injuries.

(21) The post mortem report and the injuries have been proved by the P.W.-7; Dr. Major V. N. Singh, Medical Officer, who conducted the post mortem. He has stated in his cross-examination that the deceased had died in the winter season. He has also stated that ante mortem injuries may have been caused by two different thick head (blunt) weapons and the abrasion could have been caused on account of rubbing with rough surface. He has also stated that the death may have been caused at about 01:00 PM on 09.12.1999. However, in the cross-examination, he has stated that there may be difference of three hours' time on both the sides in the time of death.

(22) P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have stated that they went to the field alongwith others at about 08:00 in the morning and around 10:00 AM to 11:00 AM, they had taken breakfast, which had come from the house. Partially digested food of 100 gms. has been found in the stomach of the deceased, therefore, the contention of learned counsel for the appellants that since digested food was found in the stomach and the doctor has stated that there may be three hours difference on either side, the death may have been caused earlier and at some other place is wrong and misconceived and not tenable as it is in consonance with the time of death shown by the witnesses, inquest report, post mortem report and the evidence of Doctor. Merely because the doctor has stated in cross-examination that there may be three hours difference on either side, it cannot be said that the time of death was earlier, when it is proved by all other evidence including post mortem.

(23) One of the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants was that P.W.-1 has stated that when the accuseds persons ran away from the spot and they went near the dead body and touched, it was not warm, therefore, the death must have occurred much prior to that time, whereas the death had occurred in the winters and in open field, therefore, it cannot be said that the death may have been caused earlier. Even otherwise, as per inquest, there was bleeding from the head when the inquest was made and P.W.-8; Investigating Officer has proved the same and no cross-examination has been made from him by the defence. The Investigating Officer has also proved the recovery of the blood stained mud and plain mud from the spot and the blood stained kudal of iron lying near the dead body and also wooden beint, which have been exhibited as Exhibit Ka-3 and Ka-4.

(24) An argument was advanced on behalf of the appellants that they had not shown in the F.I.R. that Phool Chandra has assaulted from the back (pasa) of kudal but in the evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, they have stated that the Phool Chandra had assaulted with the back of kudal, which is used to be an hard object and the injury No.1 was not possible from the same, whereas the Doctor, who appeared as P.W.-7, has stated that the injuries may have been caused by thick head (blunt) weapon. No contrary evidence has been adduced and it is settled law that F.I.R. is not an encyclopedia of events, therefore, contention of learned counsel for the appellants in this regard is also misconceived and not tenable.

(25) The F.S.L. report i.e. Ex. Ka-16 indicates that human blood was found on all the articles i.e. kurta, baniyan and lungi. However, disintegrated blood was found on the blood stained mud, plain mud, underwear and janeu, therefore, the origin could not be determined. Thus, contention of learned counsel for the appellants that the blood stained mud was not recovered from the spot is not tenable.

(26) The F.I.R. was lodged alleging therein that while the complainant and his family members were sowing wheat in their field, the accused persons were working in their field adjacent to the field of the complainant's side. The appellant, Phool Chandra started breaking the northern mound of drainage of their field on the northern side, which was aside the field and the vacant field of the appellants. When the brother of the complainant; Ajai Kumar asked him not to do the same, Ram Badan exhorted and Harish Chandra and Phool Chandra hurling abuses, stated that kill him and all the three attacked on him and Phool Chandra assaulted in his head by the kudal. It has come in the evidence that the Phool Chandra was assaulting from the back side and remaining two were on the front side. The site plan i.e. Ex. Ka-14 indicates the drainage aside the field of the complainant and the deceased's side and the vacant field of the accuseds in northern side. A tube well has also been shown in the site plan in the center of the field of the complainant's side in the eastern side. The places of the deceased, accuseds, witnesses and the weapon of assault and tractor have also been shown in the site plan. It has also been stated by the P.W.-1 and the P.W.-2 that the accused persons ran away towards the northern side from their field, which has also been shown in the site plan. The site plan was prepared on pointing of the complainant and it has also been proved by the Investigating Officer. The inquest report also shows the condition of the dead body and the place of weapon of assault, where it was found, which is in consonance with the site plan and evidence.

(27) In view of above, the incident, time and place of incident, weapon of assault, which has also been recovered, have been proved. The ante-mortem injuries and time of injuries have been proved, which have corroborated the prosecution case. Thus, the prosecution has proved its case, therefore, merely because a witness, who was present at the spot, has not been produced, it can not be said that there is any dent in the prosecution case. Even otherwise, an independent witness has been examined, who supported the case of prosecution and his testimony could not be doubted. Thus, Yudhishtir Vs. The State of Madhya Pradesh; 1971 (3) SCC 436, relied by learned counsel for the appellant No.2 is not applicable on the facts and circumstances of the case.

(28) Lastly, learned counsel for the appellants had argued that even if the prosecution case is found proved by this Court, it was a case of sudden quarrel and provocation and would fall under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. and not under Section 302 I.P.C. as it was not premeditated murder, therefore, the conviction and sentence under Section 302 I.P.C. is not sustainable and the same is liable to be converted under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. with lesser sentence.

(29) The F.I.R. discloses that while the complainant and his family members were working in their field, the accused persons and their family members were also working in their field, which was adjacent to the field of the complainant's side. In the meantime, Phool Chandra started cutting northern mound of drainage aside the complainant's field to merge in his field, which was in between their field, therefore, the brother of the complainant Ajai Kumar, asked him not to do the same, on which, Ram Badan exhorted and Harish Chandra and Phool Chandra hurling abuses, said to kill him today, on which, all the three broke on him and Phool Chandra hit kudal on the head of the deceased; Ajai Kumar, on account of which, he fell down and raised voice, on which, the complainant's side rushed to save him but Harish Chandra, threatening them, opened fire from the country made pistol and on the noise, certain people of the village came but the the accused persons ran away. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have stated the same in their evidence. They have also stated that they had heard "बाता कही" i.e. quarrel on this issue between them. Thereafter, the assault was made. Thus, the assault was made on account of sudden quarrel by the kudal, which is an agricultural instrument. Admittedly, both the sides were working in the field, therefore, they must have the same, therefore, it is apparent that the incident occurred on account of sudden quarrel due to breaking of mound of drainage by the accused persons in heat of passion, therefore, it cannot be said that it was pre-meditated. Even if there was any enmity between the parties, though it could not be proved.

(30) In view of above, it is a case of an incident occurred in broad day light, in which, the deceased had suffered serious injuries, on account of which he succumbed to death. Since the motive could not be proved and it was on account of sudden quarrel in the heat of passion, therefore, it may be a case in which the intention to kill may not be there even if the accuseds knew that the deceased may die. If the motive and intention to kill is not proved and apparently the case was on account of a quarrel on spot, then it is required to be considered as to whether the offence would fall under the category of murder or not otherwise it may be a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. Sections 299, 300 and 304 I.P.C.,

"299. Culpable homicide.-

Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide.

300. Murder.- Except in the cases hereinafter excepted, culpable homicide is murder, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or-

Secondly.- If it is done with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused, or-

Thirdly.- If it is done with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or-

Fourthly.- If the person committing the act knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death, or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as aforesaid.

Exception 1.- When culpable homicide is not murder.- Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, whilst deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation, causes the death of the person who gave the provocation or causes the death of any other person by mistake or accident.

public servant and without ill-will towards the person whose death is caused.

The above exception is subject to the following provisos:-

First.- That the provocation is not sought or voluntarily provoked by the offender as an excuse for killing or doing harm to any person.

Secondly.- That the provocation is not given by anything done in obedience to the law, or by a public servant in the lawful exercise of the powers of such public servant.

Thirdly.- That the provocation is not given by anything done in the lawful exercise of the right of private defence.

Explanation.- Whether the provocation was grave and sudden enough to prevent the offence from amounting to murder is a question of fact.

Exception 2.- Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender in the exercise in good faith of the right of private defence of person or property, exceeds the power given to him by law and causes the death of the person against whom he is exercising such right of defence without premeditation, and without any intention of doing more harm than is necessary for the purpose of such defence.

Exception 3.- Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, being a public servant or aiding a public servant acting for the advancement of public justice, exceeds the powers given to him by law, and causes death by doing an act which he, in good faith, believes to be lawful and necessary for the due discharge of his duty as such

Exception 4.- Culpable homicide is not murder if it is committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and without the offender's having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

Exception 5.- Culpable homicide is not murder when the person whose death is caused, being above the age of eighteen years, suffers death or takes the risk of death with his own consent.

304. Punishment for culpable homicide not amounting to murder.-

Whoever commits culpable homicide not amounting to murder, shall be punished with 1 [imprisonment for life], or imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death;

or with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, or with fine, or with both, if the act is done with the knowledge that it is likely to cause death, but without any intention to cause death, or to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death.

(31) In view of above, to bring a case under Section 300 I.P.C., firstly it must be established that a bodily injury is present; secondly the nature of the injury must be proved and thirdly it must be proved that there was an intention to inflict that particular bodily injury and it was not accidental or unintentional or that some other kind of injury was intended and fourthly it must be proved that injury inflicted on the deceased is sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. If all these elements are established by the prosecution, the offence would be murder under Section 300 I.P.C. and case would fall under Section 302 I.P.C., which is extracted below:-

"302. Punishment for murder.—Whoever commits murder shall be punished with death, or imprisonment for life, and shall also be liable to fine."

(32) Exception 4 to Section 300 I.P.C. provides that culpable homicide is not murder, if it is committed without pre-meditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and without undue advantage by offender and acting in a cruel and unusual manner. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Mahesh Balmiki alias Munna Vs. State of M.P.; (2000) 1 SCC 319, relied by learned A.G.A., has explained it in paragraph 7, which is extracted below:-

"7. Now Exception 4 to Section 300 I.P.C., is in the following terms :

"Exception 4.- Culpable homicide is not murder if it is committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and without the offender's having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

Explanation.- It is immaterial in such cases which party offers the provocation or commits the first assault."

The requirements of this exception are :

(a) without premeditation in a sudden fight;

(b) in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel;

(c) the offender has not taken undue advantage; and

(d) the offender has not acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

Where these requirements are satisfied, culpable homicide would not be murder."

(33) In the aforesaid case of Mahesh Balmiki alias Munna (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court further held that there is no principle that in all cases of single blow Section 302 I.P.C. is not attracted. Single blow may, in some cases, entail conviction under Section 302 I.P.C., in some cases under Section 304 I.P.C and in some other cases under Section 326 I.P.C. The question with regard to the nature of offence has to be determined on the facts and in the circumstances of each case. The paragraph 9 is extracted below:-

"9. Adverting to the contention of a single blow, it may be pointed out that there is no principle that in all cases of single blow Section 302 I.P.C. is not attracted. Single blow may, in some cases, entail conviction under Section 302 I.P.C., in some cases under Section 304 I.P.C and in some other cases under Section 326 I.P.C. The question with regard to the nature of offence has to be determined on the facts and in the circumstances of each case. The nature of the injury, whether it is on the vital or non-vital part of the body, the weapon used, the circumstances in which the injury is caused and the manner in which the injury is inflicted are all relevant factors which may go to determine the required intention or knowledge of the offender and the offence committed by him. In the instant case, the deceased was disabled from saving himself because he was held by the associates of the appellant who inflicted though a single yet a fatal blow of the description noted above. These facts clearly establish that the appellant had intention to kill the deceased. In any event, he can safely be attributed knowledge that the knife blow given by him is so imminently dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death."

(34) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Litta Singh and Another Vs. State of Rajasthan; (2015) 15 SCC 327, has held that the intention to cause death with the knowledge that the death will probably be caused, is an important consideration for coming to conclusion that death is a murder or culpable homicide not amounting to murder. The relevant paragraph 24 is extracted below:-

"24. It is well settled proposition of law that the intention to cause death with the knowledge that the death will probably be caused, is very important consideration for coming to the conclusion that death is indeed a murder with intention to cause death or the knowledge that death will probably be caused. From the testimonies of the witnesses, it does not reveal that the accused persons intended to cause death and with that intention they started inflicting injuries on the body of the deceased. Even more important aspect is that while they were beating the deceased the witnesses reached the place and shouted whereupon the accused persons immediately ran away instead of inflicting more injuries with intent to kill the deceased. "

(35) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Ajmal Vs. State of Kerala; (2022) 9 SCC 766, considered distinctive features and consideration relevant for determining a culpable homicide amounting to murder and distinguishing it from the culpable homicide not amounting to murder and relevant consideration by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in different cases. The relevant paragraph 17 is extracted below:-

"17. The distinctive features and the considerations relevant for determining a culpable homicide amounting to murder and distinguishing it from the culpable homicide not amounting to murder has been a matter of debate in large number of cases. Instead of referring to several decisions on the point reference is being made to a recent decision in Mohd. Rafiq v. State of M.P. [Mohd. Rafiq v. State of M.P., (2021) 10 SCC 706 : (2022) 1 SCC (Cri) 116] , wherein Ravindra Bhatt, J. speaking for the Bench, relied upon two previous judgments [Ed. : The reference appears to be to State of A.P. v. Rayavarapu Punneyya, (1976) 4 SCC 382 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 659; Pulicherla Nagaraju v. State of A.P., (2006) 11 SCC 444 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 500] dealing with the issue as narrated in paras 11, 12 and 13 of the Report which are reproduced below : (SCC pp. 711-15) punishable under Section 304IPC has engaged the attention of courts in this country for over one-and-a-half century, since the enactment of IPC; a welter of case law, on this aspect exists, including perhaps several hundred rulings by this Court. The use of the term “likely” in several places in respect of culpable homicide, highlights the element of uncertainty that the act of the accused may or may not have killed the person. Section 300IPC which defines “murder”, however refrains from the use of the term likely, which reveals absence of ambiguity left on behalf of the accused. The accused is for sure that his act will definitely cause death. It is often difficult to distinguish between culpable homicide and murder as both involve death. Yet, there is a subtle distinction of intention and knowledge involved in both the crimes. This difference lies in the degree of the act. There is a very wide variance of degree of intention and knowledge among both the crimes.

12. The decision in State of A.P. v. Rayavarapu Punnayya [State of A.P. v. Rayavarapu Punnayya, (1976) 4 SCC 382 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 659] notes the important distinction between the two provisions, and their differing, but subtle distinction. The Court pertinently pointed out that : (SCC p. 386, paras 12-13)

‘12. In the scheme of the Penal Code, “culpable homicide” is genus and “murder” its specie. All “murder” is “culpable homicide” but not vice versa. Speaking generally, “culpable homicide” sans “special characteristics of murder”, is “culpable homicide not amounting to murder”. For the purpose of fixing punishment, proportionate to the gravity of this generic offence, the Code practically recognises three degrees of culpable homicide. The first is, what may be called, “culpable homicide of the first degree”. This is the greatest form of culpable homicide, which is defined in Section 300 as “murder”. The second may be termed as “culpable homicide of the second degree”. This is punishable under the first part of Section 304. Then, there is “culpable homicide of the third degree”. This is the lowest type of culpable homicide and the punishment provided for it is, also, the lowest among the punishments provided for the three grades. Culpable homicide of this degree is punishable under the second part of Section 304.

13. The academic distinction between “murder” and “culpable homicide not amounting to murder” has vexed the courts for more than a century. The confusion is caused, if courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Sections 299 and 300.’

13. The considerations that should weigh with courts, in discerning whether an act is punishable as murder, or culpable homicide, not amounting to murder, were outlined in Pulicherla Nagaraju v. State of A.P. [Pulicherla Nagaraju v. State of A.P., (2006) 11 SCC 444 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 500] This Court observed that : (SCC pp. 457-58, para 29)

‘29. Therefore, the Court should proceed to decide the pivotal question of intention, with care and caution, as that will decide whether the case falls under Section 302 or 304 Part I or 304 Part II. Many petty or insignificant matters — plucking of a fruit, straying of cattle, quarrel of children, utterance of a rude word or even an objectionable glance, may lead to altercations and group clashes culminating in deaths. Usual motives like revenge, greed, jealousy or suspicion may be totally absent in such cases. There may be no intention. There may be no premeditation. In fact, there may not even be criminality. At the other end of the spectrum, there may be cases of murder where the accused attempts to avoid the penalty for murder by attempting to put forth a case that there was no intention to cause death. It is for the courts to ensure that the cases of murder punishable under Section 302, are not converted into offences punishable under Section 304 Part I/II, or cases of culpable homicide not amounting to murder are treated as murder punishable under Section 302. The intention to cause death can be gathered generally from a combination of a few or several of the following, among other, circumstances : (i) nature of the weapon used; (ii) whether the weapon was carried by the accused or was picked up from the spot; (iii) whether the blow is aimed at a vital part of the body; (iv) the amount of force employed in causing injury; (v) whether the act was in the course of sudden quarrel or sudden fight or free for all fight; (vi) whether the incident occurs by chance or whether there was any premeditation; (vii) whether there was any prior enmity or whether the deceased was a stranger; (viii) whether there was any grave and sudden provocation, and if so, the cause for such provocation; (ix) whether it was in the heat of passion; (x) whether the person inflicting the injury has taken undue advantage or has acted in a cruel and unusual manner; (xi) whether the accused dealt a single blow or several blows. The above list of circumstances is, of course, not exhaustive and there may be several other special circumstances with reference to individual cases which may throw light on the question of intention.' ""

(36) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Pulicherla Nagarjun Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh; (2006) 11 SCC 444, considered in the aforesaid case by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, has observed as to what is to be considered for deciding a case as to whether it falls under Section 302 or 304 Part-I or 304 Part-II and also the intention to cause death can be gathered from a combination of circumstances.

(37) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Suresh Chandra Bahri Vs. State of Bihar and Others; 1995 Supp(1) SCC 80, has held that sometimes motive plays an important role and becomes a compelling force to commit a crime and, therefore, motive behind the crime is a relevant factor for which evidence may be adduced. However, it further noticed that in a case where there is clear proof of motive for the commission of the crime it affords added support to the finding of the Court that the accused was guilty of the offence charged with. But the absence of proof of motive does not render the evidence bearing on the guilt of the accused nonetheless untrustworthy or unreliable because most often it is only the perpetrator of the crime alone who knows as to what circumstances prompted him to a certain course of action leading to the commission of the crime. Therefore, motive may only be a relevant factor to form an opinion as to whether in a given circumstances there was an intention to kill on account of which the case may fall under Section 302 I.P.C.

(38) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Shahid Ali Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh; (2024) 14 SCC 243, has set aside the conviction and sentence in Section 302 I.P.C. and convicted and sentenced in Section 304 Part-II I.P.C., in which death has occurred in celebratory firing in marriage. The relevant paragraph 20 is extracted below:-

"20. In this context, keeping in view the totality of circumstances of the case i.e. especially the fact that: (i) there was no previous enmity between the deceased; (ii) no intention may be attributed to the appellant as may be culled out from the record to cause death of the deceased; and (iii) position of law enunciated by this Court in Kunwar Pal [Kunwar Pal v. State of Uttarakhand, (2014) 12 SCC 434 : (2014) 6 SCC (Cri) 778] and subsequently, followed in Bhagwan Singh [Bhagwan Singh v. State of Uttarakhand, (2020) 14 SCC 184 : (2020) 4 SCC (Cri) 730], we find that the appellant is guilty of commission of "culpable homicide" within the meaning of Section 299IPC i.e. punishable under Section 304 Part II IPC."

(39) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Jagriti Devi Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh; (2009) 14 SCC 771, considering that there was an altercation preceding the incident of murder in which accused-appellant was insulted by the deceased and by doing so the deceased provoked the accused-appellant, therefore, the deceased also took out the 'Khukri', which was under the pillow, with the intention of assaulting the appellant-accused, which was used in the commission of offence and was being kept by the deceased under her pillow while she was sleeping in the veranda outside the house, therefore, there was no intention on the part of the appellant-accused to kill the deceased and held that the case cannot be said to be falling under Section 302

I.P.C. but under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further observed that Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. comes into play when the death is caused by doing an act with knowledge that it is likely to cause death but there is no intention on the part of the accused either to cause death or to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death.

(40) The Hon'ble Supreme Court has taken similar view in Kariman Vs. State of Chhatisgarh; (2024) 13 SCC 136. The relevant paragraph 19 is extracted below:-

"19. The accused can at best be attributed with the knowledge that the injury of the nature which he inflicted upon Dasmot Bai (deceased) was likely to cause death but without any intention to cause death or to cause such bodily injury as was likely to cause death. Thus, the act of the accused is covered under Part II of Section 304 IPC which is extracted hereinbelow for ready reference:—

"304. Punishment for culpable homicide not amounting to murder. —

... ..or with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, or with fine, or with both, if the act is done with the knowledge that it is likely to cause death, but without any intention to cause death, or to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death."

(41) Coming back to the facts of the case in hand, it is proved that there was a sudden quarrel on account of breaking of northern mound of drainage of the complainant's side between the fields of complainant's side and the appellants' side and incident occurred in heat of passion, wherein the appellant; Phool Chandra hit the deceased by spade and, thereafter, from the broken handle of the spade, which was in the field as both the sides were working in the fields and the deceased suffered ante mortem injuries, on account of which, he died on the spot. The blood stained spade (kudal) and its handle (beint) alongwith blood stained mud was recovered from the spot. Thus, this Court is of the view that it cannot be said to be a case falling under Section 302 I.P.C. but under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C., therefore, the conviction of the appellants under Section 302 I.P.C. read with Section 34 I.P.C. and sentence under Section 302 I.P.C. is not sustainable and it is liable to be converted under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. read with Section 34 I.P.C. and sentence under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C.

(42) The appellants were enlarged on bail in the year 2004 and they were also on bail during trial. The incident had taken place about 26 years back and both the appellants are alive. They must be of about 55 years of age and nothing has been brought before this Court to show that they have misused the liberty granted by this Court. Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. provides imprisonment for either description, which may extend to ten years, or with fine, or with both. This Court is of the view that the conviction is to be made under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C., therefore, no purpose would be served by sending the appellants in jail again. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Shyamlal and Others; (2025) 4 SCC 616, declined to interfere in the judgment of High Court and the sentence of undergone under Section 304 I.P.C. read with Section 149 I.P.C., as the substantial amount of Rs.16,000/- each was imposed by the High Court by way of fine and the incident had taken place about 28 years back, when the High Court had passed the said order.

(43) In view of above and considering the over all facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction and sentence of the appellant

No.1-Phool Chandra and appellant No.2-Harish Chandra under Section 302 I.P.C. is set-aside. The appellant No.1-Phool Chandra and appellant No.2-Harish Chandra are convicted for an offence under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. read with Section 34 of I.P.C. and they are sentenced equivalent to the period already undergone alongwith fine of Rs.50,000/- each. In case of default of payment of fine, appellant Nos.1 and 2 shall have to undergo one year's rigorous imprisonment. The conviction and sentence awarded to the appellants No. 1 and 2 under Section 506 I.P.C. remains unaltered and are confirmed.

(44) Out of the aforesaid fine as well as the fine under Section 506 I.P.C. awarded by the learned trial Court, Rs.1,00,000/- (Rupees One Lakh) shall be paid to the legal heirs of the deceased.

(45) With the aforesaid, the appeal is partly allowed.

(46) Let the original record of trial Court and a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the Court concerned for information and compliance forthwith.

Counsel for Appellant(s) : Ardhendu Shekhar Sharma, Ram Babu Sharma
Counsel for Respondent(s) : D.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Ram Babu Sharma, Counsel assisted by Mr. Ardhendu Shekhar Sharma, Counsel for the surviving appellant no.2 and Mr. Nagendra Kumar Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The present criminal appeal has been preferred by the accused appellant No.2 – Raj Bala against the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 04.11.1989, passed by the IVth Additional Sessions Judge Bulandshahar in Sessions Trial No. 175 of 1986, arising out of Case Crime No.707 of 1985, under Sections 302/34, 307/34, 323/34 IPC, Police Station - Kotwali Nagar, District Bulandshahar, whereby the accused – appellant no.2– Raj Bala has been convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment under Section 302/34 IPC. The accused- appellant no.2- Raj Bala has also been convicted and sentenced for three years rigorous imprisonment under Section 307/34 IPC.

3. As per F.I.R. version on 10.11.1985 at 05.30 P.M. accused Ram Bharosey, accused Smt. Rajbala and accused Km. Geeta were quarreling with Smt. Kaushalya and showering abuses on her in the courtyard situated in front of their house. Hearing the noise several neighbours including Dharmpal Singh (P.W.1), Mahendra Pal Singh (deceased), Kailash (P.W.2), Deen Dayal s/o Mahendra Pal Singh, Shish Pal s/o Natthan Singh & others reached there and tried to intervene in the matter in order to pacify them. In the meantime accused Geeta gave a Danda blow at the head of Smt. Kaushalya and accused Kunwarpal Singh, Advocate brought licenced rifle of Ram Bharosey and a country made pistol from the room of Ram Bharosey situated at the first floor of his house, and gave country made pistol to Smt. Rajbala and rifle to accused Rambharosey. Accused Kunwarpal Singh while giving arms to Ram Bharosey and Smt. Rajbala told them to wipe out her (Smt. Kaushalya) and her supporters of the locality and to finish the quarrel once and for all (ROJ ROJ KA JHANJHAT KHATAM KAR DO). Ram Bharosey fired shot from his rifle and killed Mahendra Pal Singh on the spot. Smt. Rajbala fired from the country made pistol, the pellets of which hit PW.2 Kailash and caused injuries to him. Dharm Pal Singh, Kailash & others tried to apprehend Ram Bharosey Smt. Rajbala, Kunwarpal and Km. Geeta, but Rambharosey fired shots from rifle to score away Dharm Pal, Kailash & others and ran away along with Smt. Rajbala & others accused.

4. On the basis of the above-mentioned report, a case was registered as case crime No. 707 of 1985 under Sections 302, 307, 323 IPC which was proved as Exhibit Ka-17.

5. After registration of the FIR, Investigation Officer, Dhannu Singh Yadav, PW-6 started investigation. After investigation, PW-6 prepared site plan, recorded the statement of witnesses and after completion of all the formalities of investigation, he submitted charge-sheet to the concerned Magistrate Court.

6. Since the case was triable by the Sessions Court, learned Magistrate committed the case to the Sessions Court.

7. The charge-sheet was filed under Sections 302/307/323 IPC. The charge was framed against Ram Bharosey, Smt. Raj Bala, Geeta and Kunwar Pal Singh under Sections 302/34, 307/34, 323/34 IPC and all accused including sole survival accused Raj Bala denied from the charge and they claimed trial.

8. In the present case, PW-1 Dharam Pal, PW-2 Kailash, PW-3 Kaushalya Devi, PW-4 Dr. P.C. Agrawal, PW-5 Jail Singh, PW-6 Dhannu Singh Yadav and PW-7 S.K. Jaiswal, are the prosecution witnesses. In defence, they also produced LK Rastogi – DW-1 as defence witness.

9. After completing the evidence of all the prosecution witnesses, incriminating circumstances culled out from the evidence of the prosecution witnesses which were put before the appellant and thereafter, statement of the accused-appellant was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

10. After recording of the statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the defence also produced the oral and documentary evidences in the Trial Court.

11. Learned Trial Court after perusing all the evidence including oral and documentary, held the accused, namely, Ram Bharosey, Smt. Raj Bala and Kunwar Pal Singh guilty under Sections 302/34 IPC and convicted and sentenced them for life imprisonment. The accused were also sentenced for three years rigorous imprisonment for the offence under Section 307/34 IPC. Accused Ram Bharosey, Kunwar Pal Singh and Smt. Raj Bala were not found guilty under Section 323/34 IPC. The accused Km. Gita was also not found guilty for the offence punishable under Section 302/34, 307/34 IPC and she was acquitted thereunder, however, she was found guilty for the offence punishable under Section 323 IPC and she was released after due admonition.

12. Aggrieved by the judgment and order dated 4.11.1989 passed in Session Trial No.175 of 1986 (State vs. Ram Bharosey and others) convicting the accused-appellant, they have filed the present criminal appeal before this Court.

13. During pendency of the present criminal appeal, accused Ram Bharosey and Kunwar Pal Singh died. Accused-Smt. Raj Bala survives. The instant criminal appeal qua Ram Bharosey and Kunwar Pal Singh was dismissed as having abated vide order dated 16.10.2025 passed by this Court. Therefore, the present criminal appeal survives only on behalf of surviving appellant - Raj Bala.

14. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that Trial Court has misread and misinterpreted the evidence, thereby, wrongly holding the appellant guilty. The trial court erred by convicting an accused based solely on their physical presence, without sufficient corroborating evidence. Accused - Raj Bala was wrongly held guilty under Section 302/34 and 307/34 IPC. Learned counsel further submitted that as per prosecution story, appellant- Raj Bala fired from the country made pistol (katta) on Kailash but in injury report which is Exhibit Ka-20, prepared by Dr. S.K. Jaiswal - PW-7, no grievous injury and fire arm injury was found. In the injury report of Kailash (Exhibit Ka-20), all the injuries which were found on the body of Kailash were caused by hard and blunt object. PW-7, Dr. S.K. Jaiswal, who prepared the injury report was also not confirmed about injury no.1 of Kailash. PW-7 stated in his evidence that injury no.1 of Kailash could have been caused by fire arms or could not have been caused by fire arms. Meaning thereby, PW-7 was not sure about injury no.1 of Kailash. The circumstances in this case are far from conclusive and a conclusion of guilt could not be drawn when no fire arm injury was caused to Kailash. Appellant- Raj Bala has not participated in the crime but Trial Court by wrongly appreciating the prosecution evidence held the appellant – Raj Bala guilty. It has also been argued by learned counsel for the appellant- accused that prosecution has not proved the fact of pre-plan, premeditation and participation of the appellant in the commission of crime. The prosecution has completely failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. There is no cogent and clinching evidence to implicate the appellant-accused.

15. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that because of no fire arm injury was found on the body of Kailash, therefore, participation in the crime by the appellant was totally false and unproven by the prosecution. If participation of the appellant was not proved by the evidence of prosecution, then in this situation pre-planning and premeditation against the appellant could not be presumed by learned Trial Court. Merely by presence at the scene of occurrence, the appellant could not be held guilty and convicted for the crime.

16. Learned counsel for the appellant relied upon the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No.355 of 2023 Constable 907 Surendra Singh and another Vs. State of Uttarakhand, decided on 28.01.2025 as well as Criminal Appeal No. 1209 of 2011 Chandra Pratap Singh Vs. State of M.P., decided on 09.10.2023.

17. Learned A.G.A. for the State submitted that the evidence produced by prosecution in the Trial Court is sufficient to prove the guilt of the accused - appellant Raj Bala for the commission of the crime. He further submitted that from the evidence of prosecution witnesses, Dharam Pal, Kailash, Kaushalya Devi and PW-7, S.K. Jaiswal, facts of participation by the appellant, Raj Bala in the commission of the crime has been fully proved by the prosecution.

18. The Trial Court by perusing the prosecution evidence has found the evidence of participation, pre-planning and premeditation of the appellant- Raj Bala in the commission of crime. In view of the above facts and evidences, the Trial Court has rightly held guilty and convicted the appellant- Raj Bala under Section 302/34, 307/34 IPC, hence, criminal appeal filed by appellant is liable to be rejected.

19. In view of the above arguments of both sides, we have gone through all prosecution evidence. As per written report, Exhibit Ka-1, appellant- Raj Bala fired a shot at Kailash by country-made pistol katta (tamancha). These facts were stated in their evidence by prosecution witnesses, namely, Dharam Pal (PW-1), Kailash (PW-2) and Kaushalya Devi (PW-3) but when we have perused the injury report of Kailash, which is Exhibit- Ka 20 on the record, all the injuries were found simple in nature and caused by hard and blunt object. All the injuries except injury No.1 were simple. X-ray of right shoulder was advised. The injuries which were found on the person of Kailash – PW2 are as follows :-

“1. Two lacerated wounds 1/2 c.m. apart measuring 3/4 c.m. x muscle deep, each, on front of right shoulder / Advised X ray right shoulder.

2. Abrasion 1 1/2 cm. X 1/4 c.m., on top of right shoulder under 5 c.m. medial to tip of shoulder.

3. Abrasion 3/4 c.m. x 3/4 c.m., on top of right shoulder.

4. Abrasion 1/4 c.m. x 1/4 c.m. on front of left side chest 6 1/2 c.m. below the inner end of left collar bone.

5. Abrasion 1/4 c.m. x 1/4 c.m. on right side of face head 3 c.m. above on right eye brow.

Opinion – All the injuries are caused by hard and blunt object. Fresh in duration and simple in nature. Except injury no. 1 which is kept under observation and for which advised x-ray Rt. Shoulder.”

20. PW-7 - Dr. S.K. Jaiswal, who prepared the injury report of Kailash, which is Exhibit Ka-20, has clearly stated that except injury no.1, all the other injuries were simple in nature and all the injuries were caused by hard and blunt object. PW-7 himself was not sure that injury no.1 was caused by fire arm or not. Due to the confusion, PW-7 advised for x-ray of injury no.1. In his cross-examination, PW-7 accepted that injury no.1 of Kailash can be caused by lathi. X-ray report of Kailash are not before him. Thus, from the evidence of PW-7, Dr. S.K. Jaiswal who prepared the injury report of injured Kailash, it is amply clear that there was no injury from fire arm on the body of Kailash PW-2. Therefore, the evidence of PW-7, Dr. S.K. Jaiswal has not proved the prosecution story against the appellant that she fired from katta (tamancha) upon Kailash.

21. No X-ray was done of injured Kailash for injury no.1 as advised by PW-7, Dr. S.K. Jaiswal. In the cross- examination, injured Kailash, PW-2 has clearly stated that X-ray of his injury has not been done.

22. In his cross-examination, PW-2 Kailash has accepted that report was written by Arjun Singh on the advice of Dharam Pal, Jail Singh, Kaushalya Devi. 15 to 20 minutes time were spent in advice and consultation.

23. Learned Trial Court has not given any attention to this fact and evidence as available on the record. No fire arm injury was found on the body of injured Kailash – PW-2, then in this situation, it could not be presumed that appellant - Raj Bala has fired a shot from katta (tamancha) upon Kailash. Due to this reason and contradiction in oral evidence of Kailash - PW-2 regarding his injury report (Exhibit Ka-20) and evidence of PW-7 - Dr. S.K. Jaiswal, in this regard, prosecution story, as alleged by the prosecution against the appellant- Raj Bala, is totally doubtful and suspicious.

24. The Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Suresh Sakham Nam Gare Vs. State of Maharashtra (2012) 9 SCC 239 has held in para 21 and 22 that :-

“21. Since the conviction of the appellant is based only with the aid of Section 34 IPC, it is useful to refer the same:

“34. Acts done by several persons in furtherance of common intention. When a criminal act is done by several persons in furtherance of the common intention of all, each of such persons is liable for that act in the same manner as if it were done by him alone.

A reading of the above provision makes it clear that to apply Section 34, apart from the fact that there should be two or more accused, two factors must be established: (i) common intention, and (i) participation of the accused in the commission of an offence. It further makes clear that if common intention is proved but no overt act is attributed to the individual accused, Section 34 will be attracted as essentially it involves vicarious liability but if participation of the accused in the crime is proved and common intention is absent, Section 34 cannot be invoked. In other words, it requires a prearranged plan and presupposes prior concert, therefore, there must be prior meeting of minds.

22. We have already referred to the evidence of prosecution witnesses. Nobody has implicated the present appellant except the statements made by PW 5 and PW 7 (the approver). We are satisfied that absolutely there is no material from the side of the prosecution to show that the present appellant had any common intention to eliminate the deceased, who was physically disabled. The only adverse thing against the present appellant is that he used to associate with A-1 for smoking ganja. In the absence of common intention, we are of the view that convicting the appellant with the aid of Section 34 IPC cannot be sustained.”

25. In the light of law as laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, we found that prosecution was totally unsuccessful to prove the pre-plan, premeditation and participation of the accused- appellant - Raj Bala. Prosecution was unable to prove this fact that appellant - Raj Bala had pre-planned or pre-determined in this crime. Evidence of prosecution shows that there was no preparation, intention or premeditation by appellant- Raj Bala. Appellant - Raj Bala was living with accused- Ram Bharosey as his paramour as alleged by the prosecution. From this, it appears that due to this reason of jealousy and for the revenge, appellant - Raj Bala was purposely and intentionally implicated by the prosecution in the commission of the alleged crime. Only by presence at the time of incident, no person could be held guilty for the commission of the crime. The appellant - Raja Bala was living on the first floor of the house of accused- Ram Bharosey and she was living with accused- Ram Bharosey prior to the happening of this incident. It emerges from the evidence and also from the circumstances of this case that appellant - Raj Bala was implicated in the incident only due to jealousy and revenge. This is also the fact that role of the appellant - Raj Bala was not proved in the commission of crime as alleged by the prosecution.

26. In the facts and circumstances of the case as well as the law as laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the above case law, we find that prosecution was unable to prove the fact that appellant - Raj Bala has any pre-plan or premeditation for participation in the crime. We also find that participation of the accused- Raj Bala in so-called commission of the crime is doubtful and suspicious. The role, as assigned by the prosecution against appellant- Raj Bala, could not be proved by the prosecution by the evidence of Kailash - PW-2 and Dr. S.K. Jaiswal – PW-7, who prepared the injury report (Exhibit Ka-20) of Kailash that itself falsifies the prosecution story as alleged by the prosecution. Thus, from perusal of the prosecution evidence as a whole, we find that firing by appellant- Raj Bala by katta (tamancha) upon Kailash is highly doubtful and contradictory to the medical evidence. It appears that to strengthen and to give force into the case of prosecution, prosecution projected this story of firing by appellant- Raj Bala upon Kailash - PW-2.

27. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Constable 907 Surendra Singh (Supra) has held in para 18 that :-

“18. By now it is a settled principle of law that for convicting the accused with the aid of Section 34 of the IPC the prosecution must establish prior meetings of minds. It must be established that all the accused had preplanned and shared a common intention to commit the crime with the accused who has actually committed the crime. It must be established that the criminal act has been done in furtherance of the common intention of all the accused. Reliance in support of the aforesaid proposition could be placed on the following judgments of this Court in the cases of :

(1) Ezajhussain Sabdarhussain and another v. State of Gujarat, (2019) 14 SCC 339;

(ii) Jasdeep Singh alias Jassu v. State of Punjab, (2022) 2 SCC 545;

(iii) Gadadhar Chandra v. State of West Bengal, (2022) 6 SCC 576; and

(iv) Madhusudan and others v. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 4035.”

28. Similarly, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Chandra Pratap Singh (Supra) considering the application under Section 34 IPC and Section 302 IPC has held that :-

“18. We have carefully perused the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2. There is no evidence of the presence of common intention. Only the act of stopping the deceased Uma Prasad will not, by itself, bring the case within the purview of Section 34 of IPC. There is no overt act attributed to the appellant by any prosecution witness in the assault on deceased Uma Prasad. It is difficult to infer a prior meeting of minds in this case. There is no material to prove the existence of common intention which is the necessary ingredient of Section 34 of IPC. In this case, there is no overlap between a common object and a common intention. Therefore, the conviction of the appellant under Section 302, read with Section 34 will have to be set aside."

29. Thus, from the law as laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in above case law, it is clear that for convicting any accused person, under Section 302 IPC with the help of Section 34 IPC, a pre-plan, pre-meditation, participation must be established and proved by the prosecution. In other words, by proving pre-plan, premeditation, prior meeting of minds and participation, prosecution can only establish this fact that there was common intention and act in the crime committed in furtherance of common intention of all the accused but in the present criminal appeal at hand, from perusal and analysis of the evidence of prosecution witnesses Dharam Pal - PW-1, Kailash - PW-2 and PW-3 - Kaushalya Devi, we find that in the evidence as given by the witnesses in the Court, there is no reference about the pre-plan, premeditation or prior meeting of minds among the accused persons including the present surviving appellant-accused - Raj Bala.

30. Since the prosecution was totally unable and unsuccessful to establish the elements of prior meeting of minds, pre-plan and premeditation among the accused person for commission of the crime, therefore, in such a situation without establishing and proving the main ingredients of Section 34 IPC as elucidated and laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Constable -907 Surendra Singh (Supra) and Chandra Pratap Singh (Supra), we are of the considered opinion that present surviving appellant accused - Raj Bala could not be held guilty under Section 302/34 IPC and under Section 307/34 IPC for commission of the crime. We find that allegation upon the present accused-appellant, Raj Bala that she fired at PW-2 - Kailash from katta (tamancha) has not been proved by the evidence of prosecution. In this respect, statement of Kailash - PW-2 and Dr. S.K. Jaiswal - PW-7, who prepared the injury report (Exhibit Ka-20) also reflect this fact that there is no fire arm injury on the body of Kailash - PW-2. All the injuries of PW-2 are found simple and caused by hard and blunt object. This fact also shows that the allegation levelled upon appellant- Raj Bala for firing at Kailash with katta (desi tamancha) is doubtful, suspicious and totally false.

31. We have also perused and gone through the judgement as given by the Trial Court and we find that the Trial Court has not given proper reasoning and also not disclosed the prosecution evidence in this respect in a clear cut way and wrongly held the appellant - Raj Bala guilty under Sections 302/34, 307/34 IPC.

32. In the present criminal appeal at hand, accused - Ram Bharosey and Kunwar Pal Singh have died. In view of the above facts, appeal filed by accused - Ram Bharosey and Kunwar Pal Singh have been abated, therefore, we did not go into the findings recorded against the above said two accused.

33. In view of the above discussions and observations, we find that conviction of present appellant - accused Smt. Raj Bala under Sections 302/ 34 IPC and Section 307/34 IPC is not sustainable in the eye of law.

34. Therefore, we hereby set aside the conviction and sentence as passed by Trial Court against the present- appellant - Raj Bala in Session Trial No. 175 of 1986, under Sections 302/34 & 307/34 IPC. We find that present appellant - accused Raj Bala is eligible for acquittal under Sections 302/34 and 307/34 IPC by giving benefit of doubt.

35. Thus, it appears and emerges from perusal of the prosecution evidence that involvement of accused - Raj Bala is highly doubtful. It appears from the evidence that accused-appellant - Smt. Raj Bala was paramour of accused- Ram Bharosey and due to this fact, to take revenge with Smt. Raj Bala - appellant/ accused, prosecution purposely and falsely implicated the appellant- accused Raj Bala in this case.

36. In the light of above observation, we find that appeal filed by accused should be allowed and judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by Trial Court is liable to be set aside.

37. Accordingly, the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 04.11.1989, passed by the IVth Additional Sessions Judge Bulandshahar in Session Trial No. 175 of 1986, arising out of Case Crime No.707 of 1985, under Sections 302/34, 307/34, 323/34 IPC, Police Station - Kotwali Nagar, District Bulandshahar is set aside and the present criminal appeal is allowed.

38. The appellant Raj Bala is acquitted of the charge under Sections 302/34 & 307/34 IPC.

39. The appellant is on bail. Her bail bond is cancelled and sureties are discharged. She need not surrender.

40. Office is directed to certify the judgment to the learned trial Court forthwith along with lower court record.

Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 19091 of 2025

Nitin Kumar Singh @ Nitin Kumar
...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the arrest of the petitioner and the consequential judicial remand order dated 18.05.2025 were vitiated in law on account of alleged non-compliance with the mandatory constitutional and statutory safeguards enshrined under Article 22(1) of Constitution and s. 50 of Cr.PC / s. 47 of BNSS, 2023, and, if so, whether such alleged infirmity warranted quashing of remand order and a direction for the petitioner's release on interim bail in exercise of writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of Constitution.

Headnotes

Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 - ss. 47, 58, 318(4), 338, 340(1), 340(2), 111 and 336(3) - Constitution of India, 1950 - Articles 21, 22(1) - The petitioner was arrested in connection with Case Crime No. 290 of 2025, pursuant to a search and recovery operation conducted by police/STF at the premises of Monad University, Hapur, allegedly uncovering a large-scale racket involving preparation and circulation of fake degrees and marksheets - The arrest followed the execution of a search warrant issued by a competent Magistrate, and the petitioner was produced before the Chief Judicial Magistrate/Duty Magistrate, Hapur, who passed a judicial remand order dated 18.05.2025 - Aggrieved by the said order, the petitioner invoked the writ jurisdiction of High Court under Article 226 of Constitution, contending that the arrest was illegal and void ab initio on the ground that the mandatory grounds of arrest were not duly communicated to him in violation of Article 22(1) of Constitution and the corresponding statutory provisions, and that such illegality vitiated the very foundation of the remand order, thereby entitling him to quashing of the remand and release on interim bail.

Held: The Recovery Memo, prepared contemporaneously and signed by petitioner, explicitly detailed the articles recovered (fake marksheets, electronic equipment etc.) and listed the corresponding penal sections - The document served as a direct, written, and effective communication of the factual and legal grounds of arrest, thereby fulfilling the substantive constitutional requirement of Article 22(1) - Applying the authoritative ratio of Sri Darshan (infra) to these established facts, the technical omission of grounds in the separate Arrest Memo is a curable irregularity, and not a fatal constitutional defect - Consequently, the remand order passed on May 18, 2025, by competent Magistrate remains a valid judicial order that supports the continued detention, as the foundational illegality (the absence of grounds) asserted by petitioner did not, in fact, exist in substance - Arresting authority has substantially complied with the mandatory provisions, and the remand order is not tainted by perversity or lack of judicial application - Consequently, the detention of petitioner is deemed legal as per the subsisting remand order - The challenge to the legality of custody based on a procedural technicality, where the accused suffered actual prejudice, cannot succeed in the face of binding precedents - Thus, petition is devoid of merit, dismissed. Case Arising From

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION: Criminal Misc. Writ
Petition No. - 19091 of 2025

From the Judgment and Order dated 18.05.2025 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate/Duty Magistrate, Hapur, in connection with Case Crime No.290 of 2025.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner:

Ashutosh Mishra, Rajiv Lochan Shukla

Adv. for the Respondent:

G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pramod Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard, Shri Vinay Saran, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Shri Ashutosh Mishra and Shri Shashank Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner, and Shri Roopak Chaubey, learned Additional Government Advocate (AGA), representing the State Respondents.

2. This petition, under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, has been filed with the prayer that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to issue a suitable Writ, Order, or Direction, including a Writ in the nature of certiorari, quashing the judicial remand order dated 18.05.2025 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate/Duty Magistrate, Hapur, in connection with Case Crime No.290 of 2025, under Sections-318(4), 338, 340(1), 340(2) 111 & 336(3) of BNSS, Police Station- Pilakhuwa, District- Hapur.

3. The petitioner further seeks a declaration that his arrest in connection with the aforesaid Case Crime No.290 of 2025 is illegal and ab initio void for being in blatant violation of the mandatory provisions of Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India and Section 50 of the Cr.P.C. / Section 47 of the BNSS, 2023, as interpreted by the Court. Consequently, the petitioner prays for a Writ of Mandamus directing the concerned Respondents to immediately enlarge him on interim bail or release him forthwith, as a necessary corollary to the quashing of the fundamental remand order.

4. The brief factual matrix of the case is that the proceedings begins with the lodging of an FIR based on a detailed recovery memo, following the procurement of a search warrant from a competent Magistrate on May 17, 2025. Acting on this warrant, the Police/S.T.F. conducted a major, all-night raid at the premises of Monad University concerning a massive racket involved in the preparation of fake degrees and marksheets. This extensive operation resulted in the recovery of a huge quantity of incriminating articles, including fake marksheets, degrees, provisional certificates, mobile phones, iPads, computers, and other electronic equipment, all indicative of a well-orchestrated criminal enterprise. A detailed recovery memo (Fard Baramadgi) was meticulously prepared on the spot, read over to the accused persons, and, with the consent of all co-accused the copy of recovery memo was provided to one co-accused. All the co-accused signed the recovery memo acknowledging and certifying its contents. The accused are shown to have been arrested on May 18, 2025, at 4:45 AM. Following the arrest, the petitioner and other co-accused were produced before the Duty Magistrate/Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hapur, within the mandatory 24-hour period under Section 57 Cr.P.C./Section 58 of BNSS. The Magistrate passed the remand order on May 18, 2025, remanding the accused to judicial custody, which the petitioner now challenges as perverse. Furthermore, in the same case crime number, co-accused Rajesh and Mukesh Thakur were granted interim bail by the High Court in separate Criminal Misc. Writ Petitions (No.15982/2025 and 17333/2025, respectively), setting crucial judicial precedents that the petitioner relies upon seeking parity for grant of interim bail to him.

5. The counsel for the petitioner challenges the legality of the arrest. He asserts that the failure of the arresting authority to formally and explicitly communicate the grounds of arrest to the petitioner at the moment of apprehension constitutes a fatal flaw that vitiates the entire process. This failure, he submitted, is an egregious breach of the constitutional right guaranteed by Article 22(1) and the corresponding statutory mandate of Section 50 Cr.P.C. / Section 47 BNSS. It is argued that the procedural documents themselves betray this non-compliance, as the format of the Arrest Memo separately prepared contained no column mentioning the grounds of arrest. This structural omission, coupled with the arresting officer's failure to provide a written document detailing the grounds, is precisely the mischief sought to be prevented by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in its recent pronouncements, emphasizing that a person's liberty cannot be curtailed through a procedure that disregards the fundamental right of the defence to know the reasons for his confinement.

6. He further submits that a grave allegation was pressed regarding the timing of the detention, claiming the petitioner was taken into illegal custody on 17th May, 2025, prior to the recorded time of arrest and lodging of the FIR. This, if true, would mean the petitioner was produced before the Magistrate after the statutory maximum period of 24 hours (Section 57 Cr.P.C. / Section 58 BNSS), rendering the entire detention non-est in the eyes of law and forming the basis for challenging the subsequent remand order itself as flowing from a poisonous tree. Strong reliance was placed on the binding precedents of the Hon'ble Apex Court, notably Pankaj Bansal Vs. Union of India; (2024) 7 SCC 576 and Prabir Pukayastha Vs. State of (NCT of Delhi); (2024) 8 SCC 254, the core holding of which is that the right to be informed of the grounds of arrest is an inviolable fundamental right emanating from Article 21, and a violation of this right automatically invalidates the arrest. Furthermore, the petitioner seeks parity, asserting that since co-accused Rajesh and Mukesh Thakur were granted interim relief by this Court, therefore, the petitioner is entitled to the same. The learned counsel concluded that the continuous violation of Article 21, Article 22(1), and Section 47, 48 of BNSS Cr.P.C. necessitates the intervention of this Court under its extraordinary jurisdiction. Learned counsel for the petitioner, in support of his arguments, relied on the following judgments:-

“1. State of Karnataka v. Sri Darshan; 2025 KHC OnLine 6693, 2. B.N. John Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh; 2025 SCC OnLine SC 7/ 2025 INSC 4, 3. Pankaj Bansal Vs. Union of India; (2024) 7 SCC 576, 4. prabir Pukayastha Vs. State of (NCT of Delhi); (2024) 8 SCC 254, 5. Arvind Kejriwal Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation; 2024 SCC OnLine 2550, 6. directorate of Enforcement Vs. Subhash Sharma; 2025 SCC OnLine SC 240, 7. Vihaan Kumar Vs. State of Haryana; (2025) 5 SCC 799, 8. Ashish Kakkar Vs. UT of Chandigarh; 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1318, 9. Sachin Soni @ Aansu @ Sachin Kumar Soni Vs. State of U.P.; 2025 SCC OnLine All 4469, 10. Manjeet Singh @ Inder @ Manjeet Singh Chana Vs. State of U.P.; 2025 SCC OnLine All 2119, 11. Kasireddy Upender Reddy Vs. State of Andhara Pradesh; 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1228, 12. Anwar Dhebar Vs. State of U.P.; 2025 SCC OnLine All 3278, 13. Shashank Mishra Vs. State of U.P.; 2025 SCC OnLine.”

7. Per contra learned counsel for the respondent-State vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the petitioner, arguing that the police action was not arbitrary but was conducted after procuring a valid search warrant on 17th May, 2025, which apprised the accused of the authority and purpose of the action, a step justified by the investigation pertaining to large-scale offence involving recovery of fraudulent documents and electronic equipments. The State's primary contention is that of substantial compliance, asserting that the grounds of arrest were clearly communicated at every critical stage. Specifically, the recovery memo, detailing the specific articles recovered and the corresponding statutory provisions in criminal law, was prepared concurrently with the arrest, was read over to the accused persons, and was voluntarily signed by all of them. This action, the learned AGA submitted, fulfills the mandatory requirement of Section 50 Cr.P.C. / Section 47 BNSS in substance, thereby negating any claim of non-disclosure of the grounds of arrest.

8. He further submits that even if the separate arrest memo format may technically lack a column for the grounds, the procedural infirmity is negated and cured by the simultaneous preparation and communication of the detailed recovery memo, which served as a clear and contemporaneous record of the basis for arrest. Moreover, the subsequent production before the Duty Magistrate, which was well within 24 hours of the recorded arrest time, cured any alleged initial defect, as the Magistrate independently applied his mind, passing a detailed order after perusing the prosecution papers. The fact that the accused later filed detailed bail applications before the Sessions Court, enumerating the entire facts, further confirms they were fully aware of the grounds and charges and cannot claim prejudice now. In support of the State's position, strong reliance is placed on the Supreme Court's judgment in State of Karnataka Vs. Sri Darshan (Supra), submitting that mere procedural infirmities or a delay in fully documenting the grounds, where there is clear evidence of substantial compliance, cannot warrant a declaration that the detention is illegal. The learned AGA concluded by arguing that the present writ petition is an attempt to seek interim bail by adopting a circuitous route, challenging the remand order instead of pursuing the regular statutory remedy of filing a bail application. Learned counsel for the respondent-State, in support of his submission, relied on the following judgments:-

"1. Union of India and Another Vs. W.N. Chadha; 1993 Supp (4) SCC 260 (96), 2. Sher Bahadur Singh and Others (in jail) Vs. State of U.P. and Others; 1994 CRI. L. J. 720, 3. State of Karnataka Vs. Sri Darshan; 2025 KHC OnLine 6693, 4. Madhu Limaye and Others Vs. Unknown."

9. We have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

10. The crux of the petition is that the non-compliance with the mandatory provisions contained under Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India and Section 50 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Cr.P.C.) (corresponding to Section 47 of the BNSS)—which safeguard the fundamental right of a person to be informed of the grounds of arrest "as soon as may be," and the corresponding statutory duty of the arresting officer to communicate the same—asserting that this non-disclosure, coupled with allegations of pre-arrest detention and a seemingly cursory remand order, has rendered his continued detention in judicial custody perverse and illegal, leading to a direct infringement of Article 21 and making the initial detention and subsequent remand orders unsustainable in law; consequently, the Court has carefully scrutinized the entire record, including the written submissions tendered by both parties, the factual matrix documented in the FIR and the recovery memo, and the crucial judicial orders passed by this Hon'ble Court in the cases of the co-accused, to determine the maintainability and merits of the petition in the light of the settled constitutional jurisprudence.

11. This petition requires examination of the interplay between Article 21 (Protection of Life and Personal Liberty) and Article 22(1) (Right to be informed of Grounds of Arrest) of the Constitution.

11-A We find that Article 22(1) serves as a mandatory safeguard, a condition precedent for the exercise of the power of arrest. The Courts have consistently held that non-compliance with the duty to inform the person of the grounds of arrest, as soon as may be, would be an infringement of the due process clause under Article 21. The relevant provision of Article 21, Article 22(1) are extracted here-in-below:-

“21. Protection of life and personal liberty. —No person shall be deprived of his life or personal liberty except according to procedure established by law.

22. Protection against arrest and detention in certain cases. — (1) No person who is arrested shall be detained in custody without being informed, as soon as may be, of the grounds for such arrest nor shall he be denied the right to consult, and to be defended by, a legal practitioner of his choice.”

12. We have also considered the constitutional provisions and the statutory mandates: Section 50 Cr.P.C. / Section 47

BNSS (Duty to inform grounds of arrest) and Section 57 Cr.P.C. / Section 58 BNSS (Maximum detention of 24 hours). The violation of any of these four provisions—Article 21, Article 22(1), Section 50/47, and Section 57/58—has been interpreted to have significant repercussions on the legality of the detention, potentially transforming a legal arrest into illegal confinement. The relevant provision of Section 47 and 58 of BNSS are extracted here-in-below:-

“47. (1) Every police officer or other person arresting any person without warrant shall forthwith communicate to him full particulars of the offence for which he is arrested or other grounds for such arrest.

(2) Where a police officer arrests without warrant any person other than a person accused of a non-bailable offence, he shall inform the person arrested that he is entitled to be released on bail and that he may arrange for sureties on his behalf.

58. No police officer shall detain in custody a person arrested without warrant for a longer period than under all the circumstances of the case is reasonable, and such period shall not, in the absence of a special order of a Magistrate under section 187, exceed twenty-four hours exclusive of the time necessary for the journey from the place of arrest to the Magistrate's Court, whether having jurisdiction or not..”

13. The Supreme Court in the case of Pankaj Bansal Vs. Union of India (Supra) has held that the constitutional right to be informed of the grounds of arrest, enshrined in Article 22(1), must be communicated to the arrested person advisably in writing. The relevant paragraphs 38, 42, 43 and 45 are extracted here-in-below:-

“38. In this regard, we may note that Article 22(1) of the Constitution provides, inter alia, that no person who is arrested shall be detained in custody without being informed, as soon as may be, of the grounds for such arrest. This being the fundamental right guaranteed to the arrested person, the mode of conveying information of the grounds of arrest must necessarily be meaningful so as to serve the intended purpose. It may be noted that Section 45 PMLA enables the person arrested under Section 19 thereof to seek release on bail but it postulates that unless the twin conditions prescribed thereunder are satisfied, such a person would not be entitled to grant of bail. The twin conditions set out in the provision are that, firstly, the court must be satisfied, after giving an opportunity to the Public Prosecutor to oppose the application for release, that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the arrested person is not guilty of the offence and, secondly, that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail. To meet this requirement, it would be essential for the arrested person to be aware of the grounds on which the authorised officer arrested him/her under Section 19 and the basis for the officer's “reason to believe” that he/she is guilty of an offence punishable under the 2002 Act. It is only if the arrested person has knowledge of these facts that he/she would be in a position to plead and prove before the Special Court that there are grounds to believe that he/she is not guilty of such offence, so as to avail the relief of bail. Therefore, communication of the grounds of arrest, as mandated by Article 22(1) of the Constitution and Section 19 PMLA, is meant to serve this higher purpose and must be given due importance.

42. That being so, there is no valid reason as to why a copy of such written grounds of arrest should not be furnished to the arrested person as a matter of course and without exception. There are two primary reasons as to why this would be the advisable course of action to be followed as a matter of principle. Firstly, in the event such grounds of arrest are orally read out to the arrested person or read by such person with nothing further and this fact is disputed in a given case, it may boil down to the word of the arrested person against the word of the authorised officer as to whether or not there is due and proper compliance in this regard. In the case on hand, that is the situation insofar as Basant Bansal is concerned. Though ED claims that witnesses were present and certified that the grounds of arrest were read out and explained to him in Hindi, that is neither here nor there as he did not sign the document. Non-compliance in this regard would entail release of the arrested person straightaway, as held in V. Senthil Balaji [V. Senthil Balaji v. State, (2024) 3 SCC 51 : (2024) 2 SCC (Cri) 1] . Such a precarious situation is easily avoided and the consequence thereof can be obviated very simply by furnishing the written grounds of arrest, as recorded by the authorised officer in terms of Section 19(1) PMLA, to the arrested person under due acknowledgment, instead of leaving it to the debatable ipse dixit of the authorised officer.

43. The second reason as to why this would be the proper course to adopt is the constitutional objective underlying such information being given to the arrested person. Conveyance of this information is not only to apprise the arrested person of why he/she is being arrested but also to enable such person to seek legal counsel and, thereafter, present a case before the court under Section 45 to seek release on bail, if he/she so chooses. In this regard, the grounds of arrest in V. Senthil Balaji [V. Senthil Balaji v. State, (2024) 3 SCC 51 : (2024) 2 SCC (Cri) 1] are placed on record and we find that the same run into as many as six pages. The grounds of arrest recorded in the case on hand in relation to Pankaj Bansal and Basant Bansal have not been produced before this Court, but it was contended that they were produced at the time of remand. However, as already noted earlier, this did not serve the intended purpose. Further, in the event their grounds of arrest were equally voluminous, it would be well-nigh impossible for either Pankaj Bansal or Basant Bansal to record and remember all that they had read or heard being read out for future recall so as to avail legal remedies. More so, as a person who has just been arrested would not be in a calm and collected frame of mind and may be utterly incapable of remembering the contents of the grounds of arrest read by or read out to him/her. The very purpose of this constitutional and statutory protection would be rendered nugatory by permitting the authorities concerned to merely read out or permit reading of the grounds of arrest, irrespective of their length and detail, and claim due compliance with the constitutional requirement under Article 22(1) and the statutory mandate under Section 19(1) PMLA.

45. On the above analysis, to give true meaning and purpose to the constitutional and the statutory mandate of Section 19(1) PMLA of informing the arrested person of the grounds of arrest, we hold that it would be necessary, henceforth, that a copy of such written grounds of arrest is furnished to the arrested person as a matter of course and without exception. The decisions of the Delhi High Court in Moin Akhtar Qureshi [Moin Akhtar Qureshi v. Union of India, 2017 SCC OnLine Del 12108] and the Bombay High Court in Chhagan Chandrakant Bhujbal [Chhagan Chandrakant Bhujbal v. Union of India, 2016 SCC OnLine Bom 9938 : (2017) 1 AIR Bom R (Cri) 929] , which hold to the contrary, do not lay down the correct law. In the case on hand, the admitted position is that ED's investigating officer merely read out or permitted reading of the grounds of arrest of the appellants and left it at that, which is also disputed by the appellants. As this form of communication is not found to be adequate to fulfil compliance with the mandate of Article 22(1) of the Constitution and Section 19(1) PMLA, we have no hesitation in holding that their arrest was not in keeping with the provisions of Section 19(1) PMLA. Further, as already noted supra, the clandestine conduct of ED in proceeding against the appellants, by recording the second ECIR immediately after they secured interim protection in relation to the first ECIR, does not commend acceptance as it reeks of arbitrary exercise of power. In effect, the arrest of the appellants and, in consequence, their remand to the custody of ED and, thereafter, to judicial custody, cannot be sustained.”

14. This mandate was further reinforced and applied in Prabir Purkayastha Vs. State of (NCT of Delhi) (Supra), where the Supreme Court held that the failure to communicate the grounds of arrest in writing is an infringement of a fundamental right so severe that it vitiates the entire process of arrest and remand. The relevant paragraphs 19, 28, 29, 37 and 48 are extracted here in below:-

“19. Resultantly, there is no doubt in the mind of the court that any person arrested for allegation of commission of offences under the provisions of UAPA or for that matter any other offence(s) has a fundamental and a statutory right to be informed about the grounds of arrest in writing and a copy of such written grounds of arrest have to be furnished to the arrested person as a matter of course and without exception at the earliest. The purpose of informing to the arrested person the grounds of arrest is salutary and sacrosanct inasmuch as this information would be the only effective means for the arrested person to consult his advocate; oppose the police custody remand and to seek bail. Any other interpretation would tantamount to diluting the sanctity of the fundamental right guaranteed under Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India.

28. The language used in Article 22(1) and Article 22(5) of the Constitution of India regarding the communication of the grounds is exactly the identical. Neither of the constitutional provisions require that the “grounds” of “arrest” or “detention”, as the case may be, must be communicated in writing. Thus, interpretation to this important facet of the fundamental right as made by the Constitution Bench while examining the scope of Article 22(5) of the Constitution of India would ipso facto apply to Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India insofar as the requirement to communicate the grounds of arrest is concerned.

29. Hence, we have no hesitation in reiterating that the requirement to communicate the grounds of arrest or the grounds of detention in writing to a person arrested in connection with an offence or a person placed under preventive detention as provided under Articles 22(1) and 22(5) of the Constitution of India is sacrosanct and cannot be breached under any situation. Non-compliance of this constitutional requirement and statutory mandate would lead to the custody or the detention being rendered illegal, as the case may be.

37. The interpretation given by the learned Single Judge that the grounds of arrest were conveyed to the accused in writing vide the arrest memo is unacceptable on the face of the record because the arrest memo does not indicate the grounds of arrest being incorporated in the said document. Column 9 of the arrest memo (Annexure P-7) which is being reproduced hereinbelow simply sets out the “reasons for arrest” which are formal in nature and can be generally attributed to any person arrested on accusation of an offence whereas the “grounds of arrest” would be personal in nature and specific to the person arrested.

“9. Reason for arrest

(a) Prevent the accused person from committing any further offence.

(b) For proper investigation of the offence.

(c) To prevent the accused person from causing the evidence of the offence to disappear or tampering with such evidence in any manner.

(d) To prevent such person from making any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the court or to the police officer.

(e) As unless such person is arrested, his presence in the court whenever required cannot be ensured.”

48. It may be reiterated at the cost of repetition that there is a significant difference in the phrase “reasons for arrest” and “grounds of arrest”. The “reasons for arrest” as indicated in the arrest memo are purely formal parameters viz. to prevent the accused person from committing any further offence; for proper investigation of the offence; to prevent the accused person from causing the evidence of the offence to disappear or tampering with such evidence in any manner; to prevent the arrested person for making inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the court or to the investigating officer. These reasons would commonly apply to any person arrested on charge of a crime whereas the “grounds of arrest” would be required to contain all such details in hand of the investigating officer which necessitated the arrest of the accused. Simultaneously, the grounds of arrest informed in writing must convey to the arrested accused all basic facts on which he was being arrested so as to provide him an opportunity of defending himself against custodial remand and to seek bail. Thus, the “grounds of arrest” would invariably be personal to the accused and cannot be equated with the “reasons of arrest” which are general in nature.”

15. This entire constitutional line of reasoning is rooted in the seminal case of Madhu Limaye and Others Vs. Unknown (Supra), where the Supreme Court authoritatively held that the constitutional provisions of Article 22 are absolute and non-derogable, emphasizing the necessity of informing the accused of the grounds of arrest, establishing that any breach renders the initial detention illegal.

16. In State of Karnataka Vs. Sri Darshan (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court, following the settled legal principle that substance prevails over form, held that the judiciary should not elevate form over substance, meaning thereby that a technical or procedural infirmity, like an omission in a document, cannot, by itself, be the sole basis for declaring a detention illegal if the accused was, in reality, fully aware of the reasons for his arrest. The view in Sri Darshan (Supra) allows a Court to overlook the technical defect in the Arrest Memo because a comprehensive, signed recovery memo fulfils the substantive constitutional requirement. The relevant paragraphs of Sri Darshan (Supra) are extracted here-in-below:-

“20.1. Delay in furnishing the grounds of arrest cannot, by itself, constitute a valid ground for grant of bail.

20.1.1. The learned counsel for the respondents - accused contended that the arrest was illegal as the grounds of arrest were not furnished immediately in writing, thereby violating Article 22 (1) of the Constitution and Section 50 Cr.P.C (now Section 47 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita). This submission, however, is devoid of merit.

20.1.2. Article 22(1) of the Constitution mandates that "no person who is arrested shall be detained in custody without being informed, as soon as may be, of the grounds for such arrest, nor shall he be denied the right to consult, and to be defended by, a legal practitioner of his choice". Similarly, Section 50 (1) Cr.P.C. requires that "every police officer or other person arresting any person without warrant shall forthwith communicate to him full particulars of the offence for which he is arrested or other grounds for such arrest.

20.1.3. The constitutional and statutory framework thus mandates that the arrested person must be informed of the grounds of arrest - but neither provision prescribes a specific form or insists upon written communication in every case. Judicial precedents have clarified that substantial compliance with these requirements is sufficient, unless demonstrable prejudice is shown.

20.1.4. In Vihaan Kumar v. State of Haryana²², it was reiterated that Article 22(1) is satisfied if the accused is made aware of the arrest grounds in substance, even if not conveyed in writing. Similarly, in Kasireddy Upender Reddy v. State of Andhra Pradesh²³, it was observed that when arrest is made pursuant a warrant, reading out the warrant amounts to sufficient compliance. Both these post-Pankaj Bansal decisions clarify that written, individualised grounds are not an inflexible requirement in all circumstances.

20.1.5. While Section 50 Cr.P.C is mandatory, the consistent judicial approach has been to adopt a prejudice-oriented test when examining alleged procedural lapses. The mere absence of written grounds does not ipso facto render the arrest illegal, unless it results in demonstrable prejudice or denial of a fair opportunity to defend.

20.1.6. The High Court, however, relied heavily on the alleged procedural lapse as a determinative factor while overlooking the gravity of the offence under Section 302 IPC and the existence of a prima facie case. It noted, inter alia, that there was no mention in the remand orders about service of memo of grounds of arrest (para 45); the arrest memos were allegedly template-based and not personalised (para 50); and eyewitnesses had not stated that they were present at the time of arrest or had signed the memos (para 48). Relying on Pankaj Bansal v. Union of India²⁴ and Prabir Purkayastha v. State (NCT of Delhi) (supra), it concluded (paras 43, 49 - 50) that from 03.10.2023 onwards, failure to serve detailed, written, and individualised grounds of arrest immediately after arrest was a violation entitling the accused to bail.

20.1.7. In the present case, the arrest memos and remand records clearly reflect that the respondents were aware of the reasons for their arrest. They were legally represented from the outset and applied for bail shortly after arrest, evidencing an immediate and informed understanding of the accusations. No material has been placed on record to establish that any prejudice was caused due to the alleged procedural lapse. In the absence of demonstrable prejudice, such as irregularity is, at best, a curable defect and cannot, by itself, warrant release on bail.

As reiterated above, the High Court treated it as a determinative factor while overlooking the gravity of the charge under Section 302 IPC and the existence of a prima facie case. Its reliance on Pankaj Bansal and Prabir Purkayastha is misplaced, as those decisions turned on materially different facts and statutory contexts. The approach adopted here is inconsistent with the settled principle that procedural lapses in furnishing grounds of arrest, absent prejudice, do not ipso facto render custody illegal or entitle the accused to bail.”

17. We also considered it appropriate to address the submission advanced on behalf of the petitioner that the law laid down by the Hon’ble Apex Court in the case of State of Karnataka Vs. Sri Darshan (Supra) was rendered in respect of an offence under Section 302 IPC. The petitioner contended that the present case is not of such a heinous nature, and thus, the same rigorous standard should not be applied. We do not agree with the learned counsel for the petitioner on this suppositions distinction. The police raid resulted in the recovery of a large number of fake and forged mark sheets, academic documents, and other incriminating materials from the premises, indicative of a massive, well-organized criminal enterprise. While an offence under Section 302 IPC results in the death or loss of life of a single person, the creation and distribution of fake academic records compromise the integrity of the entire social and professional fabric of the nation. It is an economic and social offense that causes large-scale ruin to an entire section of society by facilitating the employment of unqualified individuals in positions of public trust and responsibility. Such an offence is arguably a matter of public concern due to its widespread and lasting deleterious impact. Accordingly, the seriousness of the offence under the BNSS provisions herein fully warrant the rigorous application of the principle that substance prevails over form as laid down in Sri Darshan (Supra).

18. The Supreme Court in the case of Vihaan Kumar Vs. State of Haryana (Supra) has held that the failure to communicate the grounds of arrest to the accused, as mandated under Article 22(1) and Section 50 Cr.P.C. (or Section 47 BNSS), is an infringement of a fundamental right so severe that it vitiates the arrest and subsequent custody. The judgment holds that the illegality of an arrest flowing from a constitutional violation cannot be cured by a subsequent judicial act, such as a remand order. However, the said judgment explicitly distinguishes cases where the accused was not served with any document whatsoever containing the grounds of arrest. The relevant paragraphs 16, 19, 20, 23 and 26.6 are extracted here-in-below.

“16. This Court held that the language used in Articles 22(1) and 22(5) regarding communication of the grounds is identical, and therefore, this Court held that interpretation of Article 22(5) made by the Constitution Bench in Harikisan v. State of Maharashtra [Harikisan v. State of Maharashtra, 1962 SCC OnLine SC 117] , shall ipso facto apply to Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India insofar as the requirement to communicate the ground of arrest is concerned. We may also note here that in para 21, in Prabir Purkayastha [Prabir Purkayastha v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2024) 8 SCC 254 : (2024) 3 SCC (Cri) 573] , this Court also dealt with the effect of violation of Article 22(1) by holding that any infringement of this fundamental right would vitiate the process of arrest and remand. Para 21 reads thus :

(Prabir Purkayastha case [Prabir Purkayastha v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2024) 8 SCC 254 : (2024) 3 SCC (Cri) 573], SCC p. 276)

“21. The right to be informed about the grounds of arrest flows from Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India and any infringement of this fundamental right would vitiate the process of arrest and remand. Mere fact that a charge-sheet has been filed in the matter, would not validate the illegality and the unconstitutionality committed at the time of arresting the accused and the grant of initial police custody remand to the accused.”

19. Thus, the requirement of informing the person arrested of the grounds of arrest is not a formality but a mandatory constitutional requirement. Article 22 is included in Part III of the Constitution under the heading of Fundamental Rights. Thus, it is the fundamental right of every person arrested and detained in custody to be informed of the grounds of arrest as soon as possible. If the grounds of arrest are not informed as soon as may be after the arrest, it would amount to a violation of the fundamental right of the arrestee guaranteed under Article 22(1). It will also amount to depriving the arrestee of his liberty. The reason is that, as provided in Article 21, no person can be deprived of his liberty except in accordance with the procedure established by law. The procedure established by law also includes what is provided in Article 22(1). Therefore, when a person is arrested without a warrant, and the grounds of arrest are not informed to him, as soon as may be, after the arrest, it will amount to a violation of his fundamental right guaranteed under Article 21 as well. In a given case, if the mandate of Article 22 is not followed while arresting a person or after arresting a person, it will also violate fundamental right to liberty guaranteed under Article 21, and the arrest will be rendered illegal. On the failure to comply with the requirement of informing grounds of arrest as soon as may be after the arrest, the arrest is vitiated. Once the arrest is held to be vitiated, the person arrested cannot remain in custody even for a second.

20. We have already referred to what is held in paras 42 and 43 of the decision in Pankaj Bansal [Pankaj Bansal v. Union of India, (2024) 7 SCC 576 : (2024) 3 SCC (Cri) 450]. This Court has suggested that the proper and ideal course of communicating the grounds of arrest is to provide grounds of arrest in writing. Obviously, before a police officer communicates the grounds of arrest, the grounds of arrest have to be formulated. Therefore, there is no harm if the grounds of arrest are communicated in writing. Although there is no requirement to communicate the grounds of arrest in writing, what is stated in paras 42 and 43 of the decision in Pankaj Bansal [Pankaj Bansal v. Union of India, (2024) 7 SCC 576 : (2024) 3 SCC (Cri) 450] are suggestions that merit consideration. We are aware that in every case, it may not be practicable to implement what is suggested. If the course, as suggested, is followed, the controversy about the non-compliance will not arise at all. The police have to balance the rights of a person arrested with the interests of the society. Therefore, the police should always scrupulously comply with the requirements of Article 22.

23. In the present case, the first respondent relied upon an entry in the case diary allegedly made at 6.10 p.m. on 10-6-

2024, which records that the appellant was arrested after informing him of the grounds of arrest. For the reasons which will follow hereafter, we are rejecting the argument made by the first respondent. If the police want to prove communication of the grounds of arrest only based on a diary entry, it is necessary to incorporate those grounds of arrest in the diary entry or any other document. The grounds of arrest must exist before the same are informed. Therefore, in a given case, even assuming that the case of the police regarding requirements of Article 22(1) of the Constitution is to be accepted based on an entry in the case diary, there must be a contemporaneous record, which records what the grounds of arrest were. When an arrestee pleads before a court that grounds of arrest were not communicated, the burden to prove the compliance of Article 22(1) is on the police.

26.6. When a violation of Article 22(1) is established, it is the duty of the court to forthwith order the release of the accused. That will be a ground to grant bail even if statutory restrictions on the grant of bail exist. The statutory restrictions do not affect the power of the court to grant bail when the violation of Articles 21 and 22 of the Constitution is established.”

19. In view of the above, this Court is of the considered opinion that the factual matrix of the present case is clearly distinguishable from the extreme procedural violations found in Vihaan Kumar (Supra) and Prabir Purkayastha (Supra). In the present matter, the Recovery Memo, prepared contemporaneously and signed by the Petitioner, explicitly detailed the articles recovered (fake marksheets, electronic equipment etc.) and listed the corresponding penal sections. This document served as a direct, written, and effective communication of the factual and legal grounds of arrest, thereby fulfilling the substantive constitutional requirement of Article 22(1). Applying the authoritative ratio of Sri Darshan (Supra) to these established facts, the technical omission of grounds in the separate Arrest Memo is a curable irregularity, and not a fatal constitutional defect. Consequently, the remand order passed on May 18, 2025, by the competent Magistrate remains a valid judicial order that supports the continued detention, as the foundational illegality (the absence of grounds) asserted by the petitioner did not, in fact, exist in substance.

20. The Hon’ble Supreme Court in the case of Arvind Kejriwal Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (Supra) has held that the continued incarceration of an individual for an extended period pending trial, where the trial is unlikely to conclude quickly, infringes upon the right to liberty guaranteed under Article 21, justifying grant of bail.

21. The Allahabad High Court, in Anwar Dhebar Vs. State of U.P. (Supra), held that violation of the constitutional mandate under Article 22(1) and the statutory provisions of the Cr.P.C. (or BNSS) necessitates quashing the remand order, as the detention cannot be permitted to continue. The judgment in Anwar Dhebar (Supra) case is distinguishable on facts as the order in the present case is based on the fact that the recovery memo in the present case achieved substantial compliance with the required procedure.

22. The Allahabad High Court, in the case of Sher Bahadur Singh and Others (in jail) Vs. State of U.P. and Others

(Supra), clearly stated that the Magistrate has a non-negotiable duty to carefully check the documents, police reports, and materials presented for remand. The Court emphasized that the Magistrate's action must show a proper and deliberate judicial application of mind, and not just mechanically approve the police request, especially in serious cases. The Court further held that, in the context of compliance with constitutional and legal safeguards, it is submitted that based on the details recorded in the concerned police station's General Diary following the recovery memo, it is established beyond any doubt that the reasons for the arrest of the accused, Ashwani Kumar, were disclosed to him at the time of his arrest. Consequently, this demonstrates compliance with the requirements set out in Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India and Section 50 of the Criminal Procedure Code (Cr.P.C.). The relevant paragraph 16 is extracted here-in-below:-

23. We also find it appropriate to refer again the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Karnataka Vs. Sri Darshan (2025 KHC OnLine 6693), in which it was held that courts must always prioritize substance over form in procedural matters, holding that a mere technical irregularity or defect in a document will not invalidate the entire proceedings if the accused has achieved the substantive benefit of the law, namely, knowledge of the factual basis of the arrest. The law as laid down in Sri Darshan (Supra) demolished the plea of the petitioner'. The principle empowers the Courts to focus not on the letter of the procedural defect (the missing grounds in the Arrest Memo), but on the spirit of the constitutional mandate under Article 22(1). By relying on this precedent, we conclude that the petitioner's actual knowledge—demonstrated by their signature and acknowledgment on the accompanying Recovery Memo—fully satisfies the constitutional requirement, thereby rendering the defect in the Arrest Memo a non-fatal technicality that does not warrant quashing the entire detention process. The relevant para is extracted here-in-below:-

"It is a well-settled proposition of law that procedural lapses and technical irregularities should not be used to defeat justice unless such lapse has resulted in actual prejudice to the accused. The mandate of Article 22(1) is not merely to record the grounds of arrest in a specific document but to ensure that the arrested person is informed of the grounds. Where it is demonstrably clear from surrounding circumstances, such as the accused signing a contemporaneously prepared Recovery Memo detailing the facts of the case, that the accused had substantive knowledge of the offence and the reasons for their detention, the mere failure to reproduce those details in the Arrest Memo itself becomes a curable irregularity, and not a fatal defect that vitiates the entire remand proceeding."

24. The judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pankaj Bansal v. Union of India (Supra) and Prabir Purkayastha

v. State (NCT of Delhi) (Supra) underscore that compliance with the constitutional safeguard must be in a meaningful manner, requiring the grounds to be communicated in writing, especially when the arrest is without a warrant. The spirit of these cases suggests that ambiguity or reliance on generalized documentation should be avoided to prevent police excess and ensure that the accused can seek legal remedy effectively.

25. But, aforesaid principle laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court has to be read with the caveat laid down in State of Karnataka v. Sri Darshan (Supra) that Courts must not elevate form over substance. The Hon'ble Apex Court, in this case, held that mere delay or procedural infirmity in furnishing the grounds of arrest cannot, by itself, constitute a valid ground for declaring the detention illegal.

26. In light of the preceding analysis, it is imperative to re-establish the principle that the preservation of individual rights and freedom is at the heart of every democratic nation's goal of a just and equitable society. As a thriving democracy, India respects these ideals by granting certain essential rights to all citizens, including those who find themselves on the wrong side of law. These rights underscore the constitutional commitment to the dignity and value of every individual, particularly when faced with the immense coercive power of the State. When a person is arrested in India, they have numerous rights which are designed to ensure justice, due process, and the preservation of human dignity. These safeguards are not mere formalities but are the bulwarks against arbitrary state action, ensuring that no one is deprived of their liberty except through the procedure established by law. The failure to adhere to these foundational principles constitutes a challenge to the rule of law itself. The principles enshrined in Article 21 (Right to Life and Personal Liberty) serve as the paramount touchstone against which the legality of any arrest and detention must be tested, demanding strict scrutiny from the judiciary.

27. The present petition, by challenging the procedure of arrest and remand, effectively calls upon this Court to re-affirm the sanctity of these fundamental rights and to ensure that the Executive's power to curtail liberty is exercised strictly in conformity with law. This judicial review is essential to maintain the delicate balance between State security and individual freedom, which is a cornerstone of the constitutional scheme. Therefore, the determination of the issues presented here is not merely a procedural exercise but an affirmation of the constitutional morality upon which the Indian legal system is founded, necessitating a detailed examination of the arresting authority's compliance with the letter and spirit of the law, which we now proceed to undertake.

28. We have meticulously examined the simultaneous operation of the raid and the documentation. The petitioner challenges the absence of grounds in the formal Arrest Memo. However, the recovery memo, which is the foundational document of the entire criminal proceeding, specifically mentions compliance with the relevant BNSS Sections and was signed by the petitioner. The contents of the recovery memo clearly detail the recovered items and the corresponding penal provisions. We find that this act of having the accused sign the recovery memo, which was prepared on the spot and detailed the basis for arrest, constitutes substantial compliance with the mandate of Article 22(1) and Section 50 Cr.P.C. / Section 47 BNSS.

29. We acknowledge the strict standards set in the case of Pankaj Bansal (Supra) and Prabir Purkayastha (Supra) regarding written communication. However, the present case involves a lengthy on-site operation following a search warrant, which is a distinguishing feature. The approach adopted here, where the accused signed the detailed recovery memo, harmonizes the principles laid down in State of Karnataka v. Sri Darshan (Supra) with the necessity of informing the accused. The argument, that the non-disclosure of grounds led to prejudice ipso facto, fails to hold ground when the accused attested to the document detailing the entire factual basis of the charges.

30. The contention that the petitioner was taken into custody on 17th May and produced after 24 hours is not supported by the official record. The raid commenced on 17.05.2025, but the formal arrest was recorded on 18.05.2025 at 4:45 AM, which is subsequent to the mid-night mark. The production before the Duty Magistrate on the same date, 18.05.2025, was thus within the statutory 24-hour period. The allegation of illegal detention beyond 24 hours is unsubstantiated by the record and is therefore rejected.

31. The record demonstrates that the Duty Magistrate passed the remand order after reviewing the prosecution papers and applying his judicial mind. The remand order is detailed, addressing the material collected during the raid. The contention that the remand order is perverse is thus unsustainable. Furthermore, in line with Vihaan Kumar

v. State of Haryana, even assuming a procedural irregularity in the arrest, this does not automatically vitiate the subsequent valid remand order passed by a competent Judicial Magistrate.

32. We conclude that the failure to incorporate the grounds in the Arrest Memo when the same were detailed in the simultaneously prepared and signed recovery memo is a procedural irregularity, not a fatal jurisdictional defect that would lead to the quashing of the remand order. The petitioner was apprised of his rights, and the core constitutional and statutory mandates were substantially adhered to.

33. We further observe that the orders passed in the cases of co-accused Rajesh and Mukesh Thakur were passed either at the bail stage or were specifically based on the distinct facts and legal points presented at that time. The relief granted to them essentially took the form of interim bail or the quashing of a specific order followed by interim bail. Granting similar relief to the petitioner by quashing the foundational remand order would be inappropriate when this Court has found substantial compliance by the arresting authority through the provision of the detailed Recovery Memo. The principle of parity does not extend to forcing the Court to declare a procedural document illegal when the legal requirements have been largely met, particularly when the underlying challenge to the remand order itself fails on judicial scrutiny.

34. We find that the arresting authority has substantially complied with the mandatory provisions, and the remand order is not tainted by perversity or lack of judicial application. Consequently, the detention of the petitioner is deemed legal as per the subsisting remand order. The challenge to the legality of custody based on a procedural technicality, where the accused suffered actual prejudice, cannot succeed in the face of binding precedents.

35. The petitioner seeks to quash the remand order as a path to immediate interim bail. The Court observes that the petitioner has already pursued the statutory remedy of bail before the Sessions Court, which was dismissed. The appropriate remedy for the petitioner is to file a Regular Bail Application before this Court under Section 439 Cr.P.C. / Section 480 BNSS. This Court, under its extraordinary writ jurisdiction, will not typically entertain a petition aimed at circumventing the statutory procedure for bail. The writ petition is, therefore, not only legally unmeritorious on the challenge to the remand order but also fails on the principle of availability of an efficacious alternate remedy. The jurisdiction under Article 226, while wide, is generally not exercised to grant relief that can be obtained through the established criminal procedure.

36. The petition is devoid of merit, and the grounds urged do not justify declaring the entire custody illegal. The continuous detention of the petitioner is supported by the valid remand order passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate/Duty Magistrate, Hapur, and the writ petition must fail.

37. We conclude that the petitioner has failed to establish a case for the exercise of the extraordinary jurisdiction conferred under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Although the contentions regarding the non-communication of the grounds of arrest and the resulting illegality of the remand order are serious, they do not meet the threshold required for declaring the entire detention illegal, given the clear evidence of substantial compliance by the police officers, which effectively safeguarded the spirit of Article 22(1). The arguments raised by the State, particularly concerning the detailed nature of the Recovery Memo, the subsequent valid remand order, and the application of the principle laid down in State of Karnataka v. Sri Darshan (Supra), are well-founded and successfully outweigh the petitioner's reliance on mere technical defects in the document format. Consequently, the proper and efficacious remedy available to the petitioner is to pursue their application for Regular Bail before the Court of competent jurisdiction, as seeking the quashing of the foundational remand order as a measure to obtain interim bail is legally untenable when the remand order is found to be based on the proper application of the judicial mind and valid documents.

38. In view of above, the Criminal Miscellaneous Writ Petition No. 19091 of 2025 is, hereby, dismissed. However, it is made clear that the dismissal of this writ petition shall not be construed as an expression of opinion on the merits of the case and shall not prejudice the right of the petitioner to file a Regular Bail Application before the Court of competent jurisdiction. The Bail Court shall consider the said application, if filed, expeditiously and decide the same solely on its own merits, without being influenced by any of the observations made in this Order, and the records shall be remitted to the court concerned forthwith to ensure formal compliance with this order by the registry.

Case Arising From

Judgment and award dated 13.11.2013 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, E.C. Act Meerut in MACP No. 642 of 2009 whereby, for the injuries sustained by the claimant in a road accident which occurred on 29.12.2008, a compensation of Rs. 10,83,950/- along with interest at the rate of 7% per annum has been awarded to the claimant, which has been ordered to be indemnified by the insurer of the offending vehicle.

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Appellant(s) : Ashish Gupta, Sanjay Singh, Shantanu, Siddharth

Counsel for Respondent(s) : Aditya Singh Parihar

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sandeep Jain, J.)

1. The instant appeal under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 for enhancement of compensation has been preferred by the claimant against the impugned judgment and award dated 13.11.2013 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, E.C. Act Meerut in MACP No. 642 of 2009 (Km. Anchal Jain vs. Sahkari Ganna Union Mawana, Meerut and others), whereby, for the injuries sustained by the claimant in a road accident which occurred on 29.12.2008, a compensation of Rs. 10,83,950/- along with interest at the rate of 7% per annum has been awarded to the claimant, which has been ordered to be indemnified by the insurer of the offending Bolero No.UP15-AF-3348.

2. Since there is no cross appeal by the owner, driver and the insurer of the offending vehicle as such, the factum of accident and negligence of the offending driver is not disputed by the respondents.

3. Learned counsel for the appellant-claimant submitted that the claimant was travelling as a pillion rider on Scooty No.UP-15-AF-4501 at the time of the accident and was returning home from her school i.e. Sofia Girls School, Meerut then the scooty was hit by the offending Bolero No.UP15-AF-3348, causing grievous injuries to the claimants due to which she has suffered 100% permanent disability, which was proved by examining ten witnesses before the tribunal, but the tribunal has awarded inadequate compensation to the claimant. He further submitted that, from the evidence of Dr.

Sandeep Sehgal PW-9, it stands proved that the claimant has suffered 100% permanent disability. She is bedridden and living in a vegetative state, unable to move her limbs or body, and will remain confined to a wheelchair for the rest of her life. She cannot speak, is undergoing regular physiotherapy and speech therapy, and requires two attendants constantly to look after her, as well as the services of a driver for attending medical treatment and hospital visits. However, despite this evidence on record, the Tribunal has failed to consider these circumstances. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that in the light of the law laid down by the Apex Court in a catena of decisions, the claimants are at least entitled to compensation on the basis of minimum wages paid to a skilled workmen, which were prevalent at the time of the accident in the State of U.P., which was approximately Rs.4,500/- per month. He further submitted that the claimant requires life long care and attention, future treatment, her chances of marriage have vanished, she has been deprived from the loss of amenities, she has become dependent on everyone, which itself is a curse. The claimant was studying in class X at the time of the accident in a reputed English medium school of Meerut, who had a very bright future, which has become dark. Learned counsel for the appellant-claimant submitted that the claimant is also entitled to compensation on future prospects. With these submissions, it was prayed that the appeal be allowed and enhanced compensation be awarded to the claimant.

4. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent-Insurance Company, has very fairly conceded that keeping in view the evidence on record, the tribunal has awarded compensation on the lower side, which requires to be enhanced keeping in view the precedents of the Apex Court.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for both the sides and perused the documents submitted with the appeal. Appeal is admitted.

6. Before the Tribunal, the claimant has examined Ajay Jain as PW-1, Ayushi Mohan as PW-2, Dr. Ravindra Singh as PW-3, Sanjay Kumar as PW-4, Noren Umrav as PW-5, Deen Dayal as PW-6, Dhoop Singh as PW-7, Ankur as PW-8, Dr. Sandeep Sehgal as PW-9 and Sachin as PW-10. Besides the above oral evidence, documentary evidence of treatment, hospitalization, cash memos of medicines purchased were also filed by the claimant.

7. PW-1 Ajay Jain, who is the father of the claimant, deposed that the claimant was admitted on 29.12.2008 at 10:00 AM in Dayanand Nursing Home, Meerut and later, on the same day she was admitted to Hope Hospital, Meerut and from there, she was taken to Ram Manohar Lohiya Hospital, New Delhi where she remained admitted from 04.02.2009 to 14.02.2009. PW-1 further deposed that the treatment of the claimant was continuing. The claimant was being treated by speech therapist Dr. Pooran Singh and Physiotherapist Dr. Sanjay. The claimant was completely bedridden who was neither able to move or speak nor perform her routine work. She was totally dependent on others.

8. PW-2 Ayushi Mohan who was driving the scooty at the time of the accident, deposed that the claimant was in coma due to the injuries suffered in the accident, who was unable to speak and was completely bedridden. PW-3, Dr. Ravindra Singh, an orthopedic surgeon, deposed that the claimant, due to the injuries sustained on her head, has suffered 100% permanent disability and was unable to sit, move, speak, or perform her routine activities. He specifically stated that there was no possibility of the claimant ever recovering from the injuries sustained by her. He further deposed that the claimant was unable to speak or walk, and although the left side of her body was normal, she has suffered disability on the right side of her body. PW-9 Dr. Sandeep Sehgal, who is a neurosurgeon, deposed that the claimant remained in his treatment, who was neither able to stand nor walk. She was incapable of holding or lifting any object with her hands. She was also unable to speak. Her treatment was still continuing. There was neither any recovery of the claimant nor there is any possibility of her recovery in future. She was only able to move her eyelids. She was unable to move her muscles and perform any work. He specifically deposed that the injury sustained by the claimant was so severe that she is in a vegetative state. PW-4 Sanjay Kumar deposed that if the claimant does not receive physiotherapy, her joints will become stiff, and therefore, she requires continuous physiotherapy, throughout her life.

9. PW-5 Noren Umrav proved that he was employed as a domestic servant by the claimant's father for taking care of claimant, who was being paid salary of Rs.4,000/- per month. Similarly, PW-7 Dhoop Singh deposed that he gives speech therapy to the claimant. PW-10 Sachin deposed that he was working as a driver with claimant's father and was being paid salary of Rs.4,000/- per month. He deposed that he takes the claimant in the car to the hospital and doctor for treatment.

10. The judgment of the tribunal specifically records that during argument, the claimant was present in the Court on wheelchair and when the court inquired her about her health then she merely moved her neck and she was unable to speak. The tribunal has specifically recorded a finding that the claimant was unable to speak and she was only able to move on a wheelchair. The tribunal was also convinced that due to the injuries sustained by the claimant in her brain, she has stopped speaking and moving and the tribunal also concluded that the claimant has become 100% permanently disabled but in spite of this, the tribunal has only awarded a meager amount of compensation to the claimant, which is a travesty of justice.

11. It is apparent that the claimant was about 16 years old at the time of the accident, who was studying in class X in a reputed college i.e. Sofia Girls School, Meerut. She had a very bright future, which has become dark due to the unfortunate accident. The tribunal has assessed the compensation by taking notional income of the claimant at Rs.15,000/- per annum, which is grossly inadequate. The tribunal has applied multiplier of 16 for assessing compensation, which is also erroneous. The claimant alleged that she has incurred an expenditure of Rs.15 lacs on her treatment but could only submit the bills and cash memos of treatment expenses amounting to Rs.7,93,950/- which was allowed by the tribunal. The tribunal only awarded Rs.50,000/- towards pain and suffering. The tribunal has not awarded any amount of compensation towards attendant and driver charges, towards future prospect of the claimant, future treatment expenses, non pecuniary damages, such as, loss of marriage prospect, loss of amenities, expenses of physiotherapy. In this way the tribunal has not awarded any expenditure to be incurred in future on the above heads, which is erroneous.

12. The Apex Court in the case of Kajal vs. Jagdish Chand & Ors. (2020) 4 SCC 413, Master Ayush vs. Branch Manager, Reliance General Insurance Co. Ltd. & Anr. (2022) 7 SCC 738, Baby Sakshi Greola vs. Manzoor Ahmad Simon & Anr. 2024 SCC OnLine SC 3692 and Hitesh Nagjibhai Patel vs. Bababhai Nagjibhai Rabari & Another 2025 INSC 1070 has held that where a claimant has suffered 100% permanent functional disability due to an accident, the compensation under the head of loss of income must be awarded, at the very least, on the basis of the minimum wages of a skilled workman prevailing at the time of the accident in that region and should not be assumed on a notional basis.

13. It is apparent that the tribunal has concluded that the claimant has suffered 100% permanent disability due to the injuries suffered in the accident, which has not been challenged by the insurer of the offending vehicle, as such, that finding of the tribunal, has attained finality.

14. The Apex Court in the case of Pappu Deo Yadav vs. Naresh Kumar (2022) 13 SCC 790 (By Three Judges) while considering the issue of awarding future prospects in cases of permanent disablement from motor accident, held as under:-

7. Two questions arise for consideration : one, whether in cases of permanent disablement incurred as a result of a motor accident, the claimant can seek, apart from compensation for future loss of income, amounts for future prospects too;

and two, the extent of disability. On the first question, the High Court no doubt, is technically correct in holding that Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] involved assessment of compensation in a case where the victim died. However, it went wrong in saying that later, the three-Judge Bench decision in Jagdish [Jagdish v. Mohan, (2018) 4 SCC 571 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 102 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 572] was not binding, but rather that the subsequent decision in Anant [Anant v. Pratap, (2018) 9 SCC 450 : (2018) 4 SCC (Civ) 378 : (2018) 3 SCC (Cri) 756] to the extent that it did not award compensation for future prospects, was binding. This Court is of the opinion that there was no justification for the High Court to have read the previous rulings of this Court, to exclude the possibility of compensation for future prospects in accident cases involving serious injuries resulting in permanent disablement. Such a narrow reading of Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] is illogical, because it denies altogether the possibility of the living victim progressing further in life in accident cases — and admits such possibility of future prospects, in case of the victim's death.

15. The Apex Court in the case of Sidram vs. Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Co. Ltd. & Another (2023) 3 SCC 439, while directing that in cases of serious permanent disability, compensation for future prospects should also be awarded, held as under:-

31. It is now a well-settled position of law that even in cases of permanent disablement incurred as a result of a motor accident, the claimant can seek, apart from compensation for future loss of income, amounts for future prospects as well. We have come across many orders of different tribunals and unfortunately affirmed by different High Courts, taking the view that the claimant is not entitled to compensation for future prospects in accident cases involving serious injuries resulting in permanent disablement. That is not a correct position of law. There is no justification to exclude the possibility of compensation for future prospects in accident cases involving serious injuries resulting in permanent disablement. Such a narrow reading is illogical because it denies altogether the possibility of the living victim progressing further in life in accident cases-and admits such possibility of future prospects, in case of the victim's death.

16. The Apex Court in the case of Rahul Ganpatrao Sable vs. Laxman Maruti Jadhav (Dead) through LRS. and others, (2023) 13 SCC 334 while directing that in cases of permanent disability, there should not be any deduction for personal expenses, held as under:-

15. The High Court deducted 50% of compensation towards personal expenses. The present case being not of death and the claim not being made by the dependents, but the same being by a survivor in the accident with severe injuries resulting into permanent disability, there could not be any justification for deduction of personal expenses. We do not approve the said deduction in view of the judgment of this Court in Lalan D. [Lalan D. v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., (2020) 9 SCC 805 : (2021) 1 SCC (Civ) 253 : (2021) 1 SCC (Cri) 238]

17. In the light of the above decisions of the Apex Court it is apparent that in case of permanent disability, the claimant is entitled to compensation for future prospects and there was no need to deduct 1/3rd or any other percentage from out of the income of the claimant, towards the personal and living expenses of the claimant.

18. A Division Bench of this Court in FAFO No.2581 of 2011, Sushil Kumar & Another vs. M/S Sampark Lojastic Pvt. Ltd. & Another, decided on 26.04.2017 has held that even if the accident occurred prior to 26.09.2011, the claimants are entitled to compensation on future prospects as per amended Rule 220-A of the UP Motor Vehicle Rules, 1998, since it is a beneficial legislation.

19. The Apex Court in the case of Rahul Ganpatrao Sable (supra) has awarded compensation towards attendant charges, future medical expenses, loss of marriage prospects and pain and suffering.

20. Rule 220-A of the UP Motor Vehicle Rules, 1998 w.e.f. 26.09.2011, mandates that when the deceased was aged below 40 years on the date of accident, the claimants are also entitled to compensation on future prospects @50% of his income.

21. In the instant case, at the time of the accident the minimum wages of skilled workman in the State of U.P. was at least Rs.4,500/- per month. Since the claimant was about 16 years old at the time of the accident who was studying in class X, who had a very bright future, as such, it will be appropriate that her income is taken as Rs.4,500/- per month, for determining compensation in this case. Besides that, as per Rule 220-A of the UP Motor Vehicle

Rules, 1998 the claimant is also entitled to compensation on future prospects at the rate of 50% since she was aged about 16 years on the date of the accident. Besides that, compensation has to be assessed by applying multiplier of 18 whereas the tribunal has assessed compensation by applying multiplier of 16, which is inadequate.

22. The tribunal has disallowed the expenses incurred by the claimant towards driver and attendant on the ground that these jobs can be performed by the family members of the claimant, which is a perverse reasoning. It has been held by the Apex Court in the case of Kajal (supra) that the tortfeasor cannot take benefit of the gratuitous service rendered by the family members. The Apex Court has awarded compensation for loss of earning to family members, who remained busy in the treatment of the claimant. Accordingly, the claimant is entitled to get expenses incurred on the driver @ Rs.4,000/- per month as proved from the evidence of PW-10, Sachin.

23. In view of the above statutory law and precedents of the Apex Court, the compensation payable to the claimant is redetermined as under:-

S. No .	Compensation Heads	Amount Awarded(in Rs.)	In Accordance with.
1.	Monthly Income of the claimant on the basis of minimum	4,500/-	Kajal (supra), Master Ayush (supra), Baby Sakshi Greola

	wages of skilled workman		(supra) and Hitesh Nagjib hai Patel (supra)
2.	Annual income of the claimant	4,500X12=54,000/-	Kajal (supra), Master Ayush (supra), Baby Sakshi Greola (supra) and Hitesh Nagjib hai Patel (supra)
3.	Add future prospects @50% since claimant was about 16 years on the date of the accident	27,000/-	UP Motor Vehicle Rules, 1998, Pappu Deo Yadav (supra) and Sidram (supra)
4.	Total annual loss of future income	54,000+27,000=81,000/-	UP Motor Vehicle Rules, 1998, Pappu Deo Yadav (supra) and

			Sidram (supra)
5.	Multiplier applied since age of claimant was about 16 years	18	Pranay Sethi (supra)
6.	Total future loss of income due to 100% functional disability	81,000X18=14,58,000/-	Pranay Sethi (supra)
7.	Special diet & Transportation expenses during treatment	1,00,000/-	Hitesh Nagjib hai Patel (supra)
8.	Treatment expenses	7,93,950/-	As awarded by tribunal
9.	Attendant expense (1 attendant)	5,000X12X18=10,80,000/-	Rahul Ganpat rao Sable (supra) and Kajal (supra)
10.	Compensation towards	15,00,000/-	Kajal (supra)

	pain,suffering and loss of amenities
11.	Loss of marriage prospects	3,00,000/-	Kajal (supra) and Hitesh Nagjibhai Patel (supra)
12.	Future medical expenses	Rs.5,00,000/-	Kajal (supra)
13.	Future expenses on driver @Rs.4,000/- per month	4,000X12X18 =8,64,000/-	Kajal (supra)
14.	Total compensation	65,95,950/-

24. In this way, the claimant is entitled to total compensation of Rs.65,95,950/- alongwith interest @ 7% per annum (as awarded by the tribunal) from the date of filing of the claim petition till it's actual payment, which is to be indemnified by the insurer of the offending vehicle.

25. It is apparent that the tribunal has awarded interest on compensation from the date of adducing evidence i.e. 19.09.2011, which is erroneous. The tribunal has failed to appreciate that the claimant was severely injured who was undergoing treatment, as such, it took time to collect all the evidence. In view of this, the claimant is entitled to interest @7% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition, till its actual payment.

26. The appeal is allowed. The award of the tribunal is modified to the above extent.

27. If any amount has been paid by the insurance company previously, then the insurance company is entitled to adjust it accordingly. The insurance company is directed to deposit the enhanced amount of compensation before the concerned tribunal within two months.

28. The tribunal is directed to deposit the total enhanced compensation alongwith interest in a fixed deposit of a bank, bearing maximum monthly interest and the claimant through her father/mother/brother will be entitled to withdraw the accrued monthly interest regularly for sustaining her livelihood. The tribunal will be at liberty to permit withdrawal from fixed deposit in special circumstances, keeping in view the claimants' requirement.

29. The insurance company is directed to apportion interest for every financial year, from the date of accident till actual payment of compensation. The whole amount of interest payable to the claimant in a financial year be considered her income. After considering the tax free limit, rebate available under Section 87A and 80DD of the Income Tax Act, 1961, for the relevant assessment year, only then deduction of income tax on interest be made, if it is taxable, otherwise no income tax be deducted for that assessment year. The PAN of the claimant should also be considered.

The case of the petitioners is that petitioner no. 1 had gone with petitioner no. 2 and married him in 2023 voluntarily and no force or coercion was applied on her. Respondent no. 5, who is the mother of petitioner no. 1 lodged a first information report on 25.01.2024 registering Case Crime No. 15 of 2024 under Sections 147, 363, 366, 323, 506 IPC. The petitioner no. 1, after being recovered was subsequently handed over to respondent no. 5 but, it is alleged that she was again abducted by petitioner no. 2. It was claimed in the first information report that the date of birth of petitioner no. 1 was 11.05.2008. After recovery, the petitioner no. 1 was medically examined and the medical report opined that the age of petitioner no. 1 was 18 years or above. It is stated by the complainant that petitioner no. 1 had studied in Primary School Sarhati, District Kannauj and it transpires that the age of petitioner no. 1 was recorded in her school records as 11.05.2008.

In her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., the petitioner no. 1 admitted that she had voluntarily left her parental home and had married petitioner no. 2 and no force or coercion was applied on her. In her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. recorded on 13.03.2024, petitioner no.1 stated her age to be 19 years.

Subsequently, the Investigating Officer of Case Crime No. 15 of 2024 filed an application before the Special Judge (POCSO Act) / Additional Sessions Judge, Kannauj complaining that petitioner no.1 had eloped with petitioner no. 2 four times and had to be recovered every time which wasted the time of the Court and also of the administration. It was prayed that the petitioner no. 1 be kept in Naari Niketan as her date of birth was entered in school records as 11.05.2008. On the aforesaid application, the Special Judge (POCSO Act) vide his order dated 19.02.2025 directed that the matter be put up before the Child Welfare Committee. The Child Welfare Committee, initially, by its order dated 20.02.2025 sent the petitioner no. 1 in foster care of one Poonam Katiyar and Sub Inspector Ram Prakash. Subsequently, by its order dated 30.07.2025, the Child Welfare Committee directed that petitioner no. 1 be kept at Government Children Home (Girls), Swaroop Nagar, Kanpur Nagar. The copy of the order annexed with the counter affidavit filed by the Additional Government Advocate does not contain the date of the order but it has been averred in the counter affidavit that the order was passed on 30.07.2025. In the counter affidavit, the Additional Government Advocate has also annexed the transfer certificate of petitioner no. 1 issued by the Primary School, Sarhati which records the date of birth of petitioner no. 1 as 11.05.2008.

In its order dated 30.07.2025, the Child Welfare Committee notes that the petitioner no. 1 had stated that her date of birth in the school records was noted as 11.05.2008 on the statement of her father which she did not accept and petitioner no. 1 had refused to go with her parents because her father wanted her to marry somebody else.

Petitioner no. 1 was produced before this Court on 21.08.2025, on which date, the Court examined petitioner no.1 who stated that she did not wish to stay with her parents and wanted to go with her husband, i.e., petitioner no. 2.

It has been argued by the counsel for the petitioners that petitioner no. 1 is major as would be evident from the medical report and her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and is not a child as defined under the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Act, 2015'). It was argued that the petitioners are married according to Hindu rites and the said marriage is a valid marriage under the Hindu Marriage Act, therefore, the mother of petitioner no. 1 had no guardianship rights over petitioner no. 1 and the order of the Child Welfare Committee dated 30.07.2025 was without jurisdiction. It has been further argued that the order dated 30.07.2025 has been passed by the Child Welfare Committee mechanically and without application of mind. It has been argued that for the aforesaid reason, the detention of petitioner no. 1 at Government Children Home (Girls), Swaroop Nagar, Kanpur Nagar is illegal and without authority of law. It was further argued that the order dated 30.07.2025 passed by the Child Welfare Committee is liable to be quashed and a writ of Habeas Corpus is to be issued to release the petitioner no. 1.

Rebutting the argument of the counsel for the petitioners, the Additional Government Advocate has mainly argued that the corpus is kept at Government Children Home (Girls), Swaroop Nagar, Kanpur Nagar on the orders of the Child Welfare Committee which is a Court, therefore, the present petition for a writ of Habeas Corpus is not maintainable and is liable to be dismissed. In support of his contention, the AGA has mainly relied on the judgment of Full Bench of this Court reported in Rachna and Anr. vs. State of U.P. and Ors. AIR 2021 All 109 (FB). It was argued that under Section 94 of Act, 2015, the school records have priority over medical report and because the corpus is below 18 years of age and minor according to school records, therefore, the order dated 30.07.2025 passed by the Child Welfare Committee is in accordance with law and there is no illegality in the aforesaid order so as to occasion interference by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

We have considered the submission of the counsel for the parties.

It would be appropriate that the objections of the AGA to the maintainability of the present Habeas Corpus petition be considered first.

The AGA argues that the Habeas Corpus petition is not maintainable because the corpus is detained at Government Children Home (Girls), Swaroop Nagar, Kanpur Nagar on the orders of the Child Welfare Committee which is a Court. The AGA relies on Section 27 (9) of the Act, 2015 which provides that the Child Welfare Committee shall function as a bench and shall have the powers conferred by the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 on a Metropolitan Magistrate or, as the case may be, a Judicial Magistrate of I Class to argue that the Child Welfare Committee is a Court. In support of his contention, the AGA has relied mainly on the judgment of the Full Bench of this Court in Rachna and Anr. (supra).

It has been observed by the Supreme Court in Ummu Sabeena vs. State of Kerala & Ors. (2011) 10 SCC 781 that procedural safeguards given for protection of personal liberty must be strictly followed. The history of personal liberty is a history of insistence on procedural safeguards. It was observed by the Supreme Court that the principal of Habeas Corpus has been incorporated in our Constitutional law and in a democratic republic, the Judges owe a duty to safeguard the liberty not only of the citizens but also of all persons within the territory of India. The most effective way of doing the same was by way of exercise of power by the Court by issuing a writ of Habeas Corpus. It was further observed that the aforesaid facet of the writ of Habeas Corpus makes it a writ of the highest constitutional importance being a remedy available to the lowliest citizens against the most powerful authority. It has been said that the writ of Habeas Corpus is the key that unlocks the door to freedom.

It is in the above background that we shall consider the objections regarding the maintainability of the present petition.

The issue as to whether a petition for writ of Habeas Corpus was maintainable in cases of detention by an order of the Court was considered by the Supreme Court in several cases and it has been held that a writ of Habeas Corpus was not to be entertained when a person is put to judicial custody or police custody by the competent Court by an order which prima facie did not appear to be without jurisdiction or was not passed in an absolutely mechanical manner or was not wholly illegal. The aforesaid implies that in case, the order of the court was without jurisdiction or was passed in an absolutely mechanical manner or was wholly illegal, the petition for Habeas Corpus would be maintainable and a writ directing release of the detainee would be issued. At this stage, it would be relevant to consider two decisions of the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court in Madhu Limaye, In re, (1969) SCC 292, while considering the legality of the detention after a judicial remand, observed that for successfully opposing the petition for Habeas Corpus, it was necessary for the State to establish that at the stage of remand, the Magistrate directed detention in jail custody, after applying his mind to all relevant matters. Similarly, in Manubhai Ratilal Patel Tr.Ushaben vs. State of Gujarat (2013) 1 SCC 314, the Supreme Court considered the legality of the remand orders passed by the Magistrate and dismissed the Habeas Corpus petition after noting that there was no illegality in the order passed by the Magistrate remanding the accused to judicial custody. The observations of the Supreme Court in paragraph no. 24 and 25 of the aforesaid judgment are reproduced below:-

24. The act of directing remand of an accused is fundamentally a judicial function. The Magistrate does not act in executive capacity while ordering the detention of an accused. While exercising this judicial act, it is obligatory on the part of the Magistrate to satisfy himself whether the materials placed before him justify such a remand or, to put it differently, whether there exist reasonable grounds to commit the accused to custody and extend his remand. The purpose of remand as postulated under Section 167 is that investigation cannot be completed within 24 hours. It enables the Magistrate to see that the remand is really necessary. This requires the investigating agency to send the case diary along with the remand report so that the Magistrate can appreciate the factual scenario and apply his mind whether there is a warrant for police remand or justification for judicial remand or there is no need for any remand at all. It is obligatory on the part of the Magistrate to apply his mind and not to pass an order of remand automatically or in a mechanical manner.

25. It is apt to note that in Madhu Limaye, In re [(1969) 1 SCC 292 : AIR 1969 SC 1014] it has been stated that : (SCC p. 299, para 12)

"12. Once it is shown that the arrests made by the police officers were illegal, it was necessary for the State to establish that at the stage of remand, the Magistrate directed detention in jail custody after applying his mind to all relevant matters."

(Emphasis supplied)

It be noted that in the aforesaid paragraphs, the Supreme Court has observed that it was obligatory on the part of the Magistrate to apply his mind and not to pass an order of remand automatically or in a mechanical manner. The condition that an order shall not be passed in a mechanical manner and should be passed after application of mind is an essential feature of a judicial order. The Supreme

"31. ... It is well-accepted principle that a writ of habeas corpus is not to be entertained when a person is committed to judicial custody or police custody by the competent court by an order which prima facie does not appear to be without jurisdiction or passed in an absolutely mechanical manner or wholly illegal. As has been stated in B. Ramchandra Rao [(1972) 3 SCC 256: 1972 SCC (Cri) 481: AIR 1971 SC 2197] and Kanu Sanyal [(1974) SCC 141:1974 SCC (Cri) 280], the court is required to scrutinize the legality or otherwise of the order of detention which has been passed. Unless the court is satisfied that a person has been committed to jail custody by virtue of an order that suffers from the vice of lack of jurisdiction or absolute illegality, a writ of habeas corpus cannot be granted.

It is apparent from the observations of the Supreme Court reproduced above that in a Habeas Corpus petition, the legality of a detention order can be examined to ascertain whether the order suffers from a lack of jurisdiction or is absolutely illegal or has been passed in a wholly mechanical manner. If the order detaining the person is without jurisdiction or is absolutely illegal or has been passed in a mechanical manner, a writ of Habeas Corpus directing the release of the detenu would be issued.

The judgment of the Full Bench of this Court in Rachna and Anr. (supra) which has been relied upon by the AGA does not hold that a petition for Habeas Corpus would not be maintainable even in circumstances where an order passed by the Child Welfare Committee would be without jurisdiction and a nullity or where the order has been passed mechanically and without application of mind.

In the present case, the Child Welfare Committee has passed the order detaining the corpus, i.e., petitioner no. 1, on the ground that the corpus was below 18 years of age, therefore, a child. The Child Welfare Committee has relied on the school records wherein the date of birth of petitioner no. 1 was recorded as 11.05.2008.

Child has been defined under Section 2(12) of the Act, 2015 to mean a person who has not completed 18 years of age. Under Section 29 of the Act, 2015, the Child Welfare Committee has been empowered to dispose of cases for the care, protection, treatment, development and rehabilitation of children in need of care and protection, as well as to provide for their basic needs and protection. A child in need of care and protection has been defined in Section 2 (14) of the Act, 2015. The issue in the present case is as to whether the corpus, i.e., the petitioner no. 1 is a child as defined in Section 2 (12) of the Act, 2015 and thus covered by Section 2 (14) and whether the Child Welfare Committee had the jurisdiction to take the corpus, i.e., the petitioner no. 1 under its protection and custody and act in exercise of powers under Section 29 of the Act, 2015. The decision on the issue is dependent on the determination of age of the corpus, i.e., the petitioner no. 1.

Rule 19 (2) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2016 states that in any inquiry as to whether any person produced before it was a child in need of care and protection, the Committee shall, prima facie, determine the age of child in order to ascertain its jurisdiction pending further inquiry as per Section 94 of the Act, if need be. Section 94 of the Act, 2015 is reproduced below:-

94. Presumption and determination of age.—(1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under section 14 or section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining—

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person.

A reading of Section 94 of the Act, 2015 shows that the Committee shall undertake the process of age determination by seeking evidence, first by obtaining the date of birth certificate from the school, if available, and in absence thereof, the birth certificate given by the local body, and in absence of birth certificates, the age shall be determined by the latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee. Mere production of the school records would not be sufficient for the Committee to determine the age of the person produced before it. As provided in Section 27 (9) of the Act, 2015, the Child Welfare Committee has powers conferred by the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 on the Judicial Magistrate of I Class. The Committee, thus, has the power to take evidence on oath and to scrutinize the evidence produced before it. The Committee has to act judicially. In case the Child Welfare Committee fails to scrutinize evidence and passes a mechanical order accepting the school records produced before it without any application of mind and without the records being proved as required in law, the order of the Child Welfare Committee would be absolutely illegal and a Habeas Corpus petition would lie before the Court for release of the person who has been taken in its custody by the Child Welfare Committee.

A reading of Section 94(2) of the Act, 2015 also shows that the school records, i.e., entries in the admission register or in the transfer certificate are not the documents stipulated in the aforesaid provision as evidence of the date of birth of the person produced before the Committee. Section 94(2) (i) provides that date of birth certificate shall be obtained from the school. A transfer certificate or entries in the admission register of the school are not date of birth certificates. In our aforesaid view, we are supported by the judgment of Supreme Court in P. Yuvaprakash vs. State Rep. by Inspector of Police 2023 SCC OnLine SC 846.

In the aforesaid case, the school transfer certificate was produced to prove the age of the child. The Supreme Court held that a school transfer certificate cannot be relied upon to determine the age of child under the Act, 2015. In this context, the observation of the Supreme Court in paragraph nos. 14, 18 and 19 of the aforesaid judgment are reproduced below:-

"14. Section 94 (2)(iii) of the JJ Act clearly indicates that the date of birth certificate from the school or matriculation or equivalent certificate by the concerned examination board has to be firstly preferred in the absence of which the birth certificate issued by the Corporation or Municipal Authority or Panchayat and it is only thereafter in the absence of these such documents the age is to be determined through "an ossification test" or "any other latest medical age determination test” conducted on the orders of the concerned authority, i.e. Committee or Board or Court. In the present case, concededly, only a transfer certificate and not the date of birth certificate or matriculation or equivalent certificate was considered. Ex. C1, i.e., the school transfer certificate showed the date of birth of the victim as 11.07.1997.

Since it did not answer to the description of any class of documents mentioned in Section 94(2)(i) as it was a mere transfer certificate, Ex C-1 could not have been relied upon to hold that M was below 18 years at the time of commission of the offence.

18. Reverting to the facts of this case, the headmaster of M’s School, CW- 1, was summoned by the court and produced a Transfer Certificate (Ex.C-1). This witness produced a Transfer Certificate Register containing M’s name. He deposed that she had studied in the school for one year, i.e., 2009-10 and that the date of birth was based on the basis of the record sheet given by the school where she studied in the 7th standard. DW-2 TMT Poongothoi, Headmaster of Chinnasoalipalayam Panchayat School, answered the summons served by the court and deposed that ‘M’ had joined her school with effect from 03.04.2002 and that her date of birth was recorded as 11.07.1997. She admitted that though the date of birth was based on the birth certificate, it would normally be recorded on the basis of horoscope. She conceded to no knowledge about the basis on which the document pertaining to the date of birth was recorded. It is stated earlier on the same issue, i.e., the date of birth, Thiru Prakasam, DW-3 stated that the birth register pertaining to the year 1997 was not available in the record room of his office.

19. It is clear from the above narrative that none of the documents produced during the trial answered the description of “the date of birth certificate from the school” or “the matriculation or equivalent certificate” from the concerned examination board or certificate by a corporation, municipal authority or a Panchayat. In these circumstances, it was incumbent for the prosecution to prove through acceptable medical tests/examination that the victim’s age was below 18 years as per Section 94(2)(iii) of the JJ Act. PW-9, Dr. Thenmozhi, Chief Civil Doctor and Radiologist at the General Hospital at Vellore, produced the X-ray reports and deposed that in terms of the examination of M, a certificate was issued stating “that the age of the said girl would be more than 18 years and less than 20 years”. In the cross-examination, she admitted that M’s age could be taken as 19 years. However, the High Court rejected this evidence, saying that “when the precise date of birth is available from out of the school records, the approximate age estimated by the medical expert cannot be the determining factor”. This finding is, in this court’s considered view, incorrect and erroneous. As held earlier, the documents produced, i.e., a transfer certificate and extracts of the admission register, are not what Section 94 (2) (i) mandates; nor are they in accord with Section 94 (2) (ii) because DW-1 clearly deposed that there were no records relating to the birth of the victim, M. In these circumstances, the only piece of evidence, accorded with Section 94 of the JJ Act was the medical ossification test, based on several X-Rays of the victim, and on the basis of which PW-9 made her statement. She explained the details regarding examination of the victim's bones, stage of their development and opined that she was between 18-20 years; in cross-examination she said that the age might be 19 years. Given all these circumstances, this court is of the opinion that the result of the ossification or bone test was the most authentic evidence, corroborated by the examining doctor, PW-9."

The Supreme Court in Suresh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Anr. 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1579 while considering Rule 12 (3) of the rules framed under The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 2000') held that the entries in the school records would not be acceptable to determine the age of girl on the testimony of the school's Headmaster in case the date of birth in the school records has been entered on the oral representation of the parents of the person claiming juvenility. Observations of the Supreme Court in paragraph nos. 21, 24 and 25 of the aforesaid judgment are reproduced below:-

"21. There is no dispute on the factum that Kaushik Modern Public School, Khurgaon – the first attended school – is not a Government School and thus, the records maintained by the said School would not be 'public documents'. Moreover, the Headmaster/Principal of such School cannot be said to be a 'public servant' for the purposes of the Evidence Act. The Headmaster when examined has himself taken the stand that Kaushik Modern Public School, Khurgaon was only a State Government-recognized school.

23. Even otherwise, in the case at hand, except for the Headmaster's sole testimony, there is no material to establish that the date 18.04.1995 as Respondent No.2's date of birth, as recorded in the certificate issued by Kaushik Modern Public School, Khurgaon, was correct. As a matter of fact, the Principal in his cross-examination stated that when the Respondent No.2 was leaving the school on that day after making cutting he had written the correct date of birth. Moreover, the Principal has also stated that the birth-date entry was made on the basis of an oral representation alone by Respondent No.2's father and when he was asked for the horoscope or any other document in support of the date of birth of the Respondent No.2, nothing was submitted. This, in our view, discredits the certificate issued by the Kaushik Modern Public School, Khurgaon. As noted hereinbefore, the other school certificates were issued following this and therefore, meet the same fate inasmuch as they cannot be treated as correct, in the face of conflicting public records and public documents as also the Medical Report which state to the contrary.

24. Rule 12(3)(a) of the Rules lays down the sequential list of certificates to be examined and the order thereof. As no 'matriculation or equivalent certificates' were available under Rule 12(3)(a)(i) of the Rules, thus under Rule 12(3)(a)(ii) of the Rules, 'date of birth certificate from the school (other than a play school) first attended' was attracted and certificate issued by Kaushik Modern Public School, Khurgaon was taken as conclusive proof of date of birth. However, the deposition of the School's Headmaster, especially to the effect that the birth-date was noted as per an oral representation by Respondent No.2's father, makes the said certificate unreliable. Moving on, Rule 12(3)(a)(iii) and Rule 12(3)(b) of the Rules, respectively, provide for 'birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat' and 'only in the absence of either (i), (ii) or (iii) of clause (a) above, the medical opinion will be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board, which will declare the age of the juvenile or child.' 18 of 21

25. From an overall circumspection of all the facts and circumstances surrounding the case, including the Rules, the picture which emerges is that on the one hand, there is the certificate backed by the testimony of the Headmaster of the first school (which as indicated supra notes that the recordal was made on the oral say-so of Respondent No.2's father) relating to the date of birth and the three consequentially-made/issued certificates, whereas on the other hand, there exists a statutory document, being a public record and a public document, in Form (A) under Rule 2 of the Rules framed under the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 disclosing the year of birth of Respondent No.2 as 1991 as also the entry in the Voters' List for the Legislative Assembly of the year 2012 and the Medical Report apropos the age of Respondent No.2 given by the Chief Medical Officer, Muzaffarnagar, who opined that

Respondent No.2 was aged about 22 years on 01.12.2012. As such, the certificate issued by Kaushik Modern Public School, Khurgaon could not have been taken as conclusive proof of date of birth of Respondent No.2, discarding Form (A) under Rule 2 of the Rules under the U. P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947; the entry in the Voters' List for the Legislative Assembly of the year 2012, and; the Medical Report. On the basis of the latter three documents, it is clear that Respondent No.2 cannot be said to have been a 'juvenile' on the date of the unfortunate incident.

In the present case, the Child Welfare Committee has not recorded any finding as to the genuineness of the school records produced before it. There is nothing on record disclosing the source of entries made in the school record and the reliability of such source. The entries in school record were also not proved as required by law. The Child Welfare Committee has also not taken the evidence of the Principal of the institution to verify the school records produced before it. It would also be relevant to note that the institution in which the state respondents claim the corpus was admitted, is not a government institution, therefore, its Principal is not a public servant. The father of the corpus was also not called by the Child Welfare Committee to verify the age of the corpus. It is apparent that there is no determination of the age of the corpus by the Child Welfare Committee. The essential condition for holding that the corpus is a minor and below 18 years of age, i.e., a child as defined under Section 2 (12) of the Act, 2015 and the Child Welfare Committee has the jurisdiction to take the corpus under its care and protection or in custody do not exist. The order passed by the Child Welfare Committee has been passed mechanically and without any application of mind. The order dated 30.07.2025 is without jurisdiction and nullity. The detention of the petitioner in Government Children Home (Girls), Swaroop Nagar, Kanpur Nagar is without jurisdiction.

There is no other document on record except the medical report, to determine the age of the corpus. The medical test determining the age of petitioner no.1 indicates that the age of corpus, i.e., petitioner no. 1 is 18 years or above and is, therefore, not a child as defined in Section 2(12) of Act, 2015. The Child Welfare Committee has no jurisdiction to take the corpus, i.e., petitioner no. 1 under its care and protection or keep her in Government Children's Home or anywhere else. The detention of corpus, i.e., petitioner no. 1 in Rajkiya Balgrih (Balika), Swaroop Nagar, Kanpur Nagar is without jurisdiction.

For the aforesaid reasons, a writ of Habeas Corpus is to be issued to release Smt. Rohini, corpus, i.e., petitioner no. 1. Consequently, a writ of Habeas Corpus is issued directing the Superintendent, Government Children Home (Girls), Swaroop Nagar, Kanpur Nagar and the Chairman, Child Welfare Committee, Kannauj to release forthwith Smt. Rohini, petitioner no.1. The corpus, i.e., the petitioner no. 1 is free to go wherever she likes and to stay with whomsoever she wants including the petitioner no. 2.

In view of the aforesaid, the petition is allowed.

A copy of this order be communicated for necessary compliance to the Superintendent, Government Children Home (Girls), Swaroop Nagar, Kanpur Nagar and the Chairman, Child Welfare Committee, Kannauj by the Registrar (Compliance) within one week.

Issue for Consideration

Whether the explanation given by the Review Petitioners-State for such huge delay in preferring this Review Petition is satisfactory?

Head Notes

The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908-Section 114 & Order XLVII; The Limitation Act, 1963-Section 5- Delay of 5743 days in filing the review application from the date of judgment under review- Judgment under review was earlier challenged by the State of U.P. by filing Special Leave Petition (C) No.25032 of 2014 with a delay of 1633 days and the same was dismissed on the ground of delay as well as on merit by Hon'ble Supreme Court-Whether litigants is a private party or State or Union of India when it comes to condoning the gross delay of several years. The government bodies and their agencies should be vigilant in filing the petition within time. There is no need to accept the usual explanation that the petition was kept pending for several years due to considerable degree of procedural red tape in the process. The government agencies are under a special obligation to ensure that they perform their duties with diligence and commitment. Condonation of delay is an exception and should not be used as an anticipated benefit for the Government Departments. The law shelters everyone under the same light and should not be swirled for the benefit of the Government Department- Delay Condonation application rejected and review petition dismissed. (E-15)

Held-Application seeking condonation of delay reflects proverbial bureaucratic red tapism wherein the Review Petitioners-State has attempted to take shelter in the usual functioning of the administrative machinery.

Re: Delay Condonation Application No.1 of 2025 in Civil Misc. Review Petition

1. Heard Shri Mohan Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for the Applicants and Shri R.K. Ojha, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Santosh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the opposite party.

2. By means of this review application, the State of U.P. seeks review of the judgment and order dated 13.11.2009 passed by this Court in Writ Petition (C) No.34974 of 2001 (Mohan Lal vs. State of U.P. and Another), whereby the writ petition was allowed in favour of the petitioner.

3. There is a delay of 5743 days in filing the review application from the date of judgment under review herein.

4. The judgment and order dated 13.11.2009, which is under review before us, was earlier challenged by the State of U.P. by filing Special Leave Petition (C) No.25032 of 2014 with a delay of 1633 days and the same was dismissed on the ground of delay as well as on merit by Hon'ble Supreme Court vide its order dated 03.05.2024. Thus, from the date, Special Leave Petition was dismissed, there is a delay of about 489 days in preferring the Review Petition. The Writ (C) No.34974 of 2009 was filed by Mohan Lal against State of U.P. wherein it was prayed that a Writ of Mandamus be issued against the Respondents and direct the Respondent no.2 to omit the name of State of Uttar Pradesh from the revenue records and mutate the name of the petitioner in the revenue records in place of State of Uttar Pradesh. After hearing both sides, this Court allowed the Writ Petition vide judgment and order dated 13.11.2009 and it was held that the petitioner was entitled to the benefit of Section 3 of the Urban Land (Ceiling and Regulation) Repeal Act, 1999 (in short 'Repeal Act') and his land shall not be treated to have been declared as vacant land under the Repeal Act.

5. As noted above against the judgment and order dated 13.11.2009, which is under challenge in the Review Petition, the State of U.P. had filed Special Leave Petition No.25032 of 2014, which was dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 03.05.2024 and the case on merit was also considered in paragraph 2.2 of the order dated 03.05.2024, however, in operative part of aforesaid order, the huge delay of 1633 days in filing the petition was not condoned by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further observed that to explain the delay in filing the petition, only plea taken by the State was that the matter was entrusted to the counsel and the same reasoning cannot be accepted. The case was not followed up at any stage.

6. In the affidavit filed by the Review Petitioners-State, certain explanation has been given for such huge delay in preferring this Review Petition. However, on consideration of the averments made in the application seeking condonation of delay and the affidavit filed in support thereof, what we find is that the delay has not been satisfactorily explained, rather in the facts of the case what we conclude is that there has been unjustifiable laches and callousness on the part of the State in preferring this Review Petition. It has been stated in the application seeking condonation of delay that the order dated 13.11.2009, which is under review, was challenged before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Special Leave Petition No.25032 of 2014, which was dismissed on the ground of delay by the Hon'ble Apex Court vide order dated 03.05.2024. It has not been made clear by the Review Petitioners-State as to what prevented them to file the Review Petition after 13.11.2009 and before filing Special Leave Petition No.25032 of 2014. It has also been stated in the affidavit filed in support of the application seeking condonation of delay that once the Special Leave Petition No.25032 of 2014 was dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 03.05.2024, the petitioner Mohan Lal submitted application dated 05.07.2024 for compliance of the Hon'ble Apex Court dated 03.05.2024 and the High Court dated 13.11.2009 for recording his name in the revenue records and thereafter on 16.07.2024 a proposal was sent to the State Government for filing Review Petition. Thereafter, an Office Memo No.230, dated 22.08.2024 was prepared and the same was sent to the Advocate on Record of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and Advocate on Record has sent his legal opinion which was received on 22.03.2025. Thereafter, the Petitioners-State decided to file Review Petition and a meeting was invited for discussing the further steps to be taken in the matter and permission was granted for filing Review Petition on 26.07.2025.

7. Learned Standing Counsel for the Petitioners-State taking the Court to the aforementioned submissions made in the affidavit filed in support of the application seeking condonation of delay has submitted that delay is genuine, bonafide and unintentional. He has further submitted that Review Petition could not be filed as it took time in completing the administrative formalities by following certain norms and procedures and once they get legal opinion from Advocate on Record, it was decided in the meeting that the Review Petition would be filed and permission was granted on 26.07.2025 for filing the Review Petition against the order of this Court dated 13.11.2009.

8. We have given our conscious consideration to the submissions made by the learned Standing Counsel, however, what we find is that the delay and laches in preferring the Review Petition are not satisfactorily explained. The reasons as argued by the learned Standing Counsel rather are, in fact, manifestation of callousness and non-seriousness on the part of the officials and officers of the State Government. What has been stated in the affidavit filed in support of the application seeking condonation of delay reflects proverbial bureaucratic red tapism wherein the Review Petitioners-State has attempted to take shelter in the usual functioning of the administrative machinery.

9. The Hon'ble Supreme Court time and again has not only expressed words of caution in respect of casual manner in which the State Authorities approach the Courts without any plausible ground for condonation of delay but has even counselled the State Authorities in this regard. Regard may be had at this juncture to the pronouncement made by Hon'ble Supreme Court on 04.02.2021 while dismissing the Special Leave Petition (Civil) Diary No(s). 19846/2020, Union of India vs. Central Tibetan Schools Admin & Ors. The Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed the Special Leave Petition, which was preferred with the delay of 532 days from the date of rejection of restoration application and 6616 days from the date of original order and made certain observations are quoted below:

"We have heard learned Additional Solicitor General for some time and must note that the only error which seems to have occurred in the impugned order is of noticing that it is not an illiterate litigant because the manner in which the Government is prosecuting its appeal reflects nothing better! The mighty Government of India is manned with large legal department having numerous officers and Advocates. The excuse given for the delay is, to say the least, preposterous.

We have repeatedly being counselling through our orders various Government departments, State Governments and other public authorities that they must learn to file appeals in time and set their house in order so far as the legal department is concerned, more so as technology assists them. This appears to be falling on deaf ears despite costs having been imposed in number of matters with the direction to recover it from the officers responsible for the delay as we are of the view that these officers must be made accountable. It has not had any salutary effect and that the present matter should have been brought up, really takes the cake!"

10. In the case of Central Tibetan Schools Admin & Ors. (supra) while observing that the appellant therein had approached the Court in casual manner without any cogent ground for condonation of delay, Hon'ble Supreme Court has referred to the cases of Office of the Chief Post Master General & Ors. vs. Living Media India Ltd. & Anr., reported in [(2012) 3 SCC 563] and also the case of Balwant Singh (Dead) vs. Jagdish Singh & Ors., reported in [AIR 2010 SC 3043]. Relevant extract of the said judgment in the case of Central Tibetan Schools Admin & Ors. (supra) runs as under:

"In this behalf, suffice to refer to our judgment in the State of Madhya Pradesh & Ors. v. Bheru Lal [SLP [C] Diary No.9217/2020 decided on 15.10.2020] and The State of Odisha & Ors. v. Sunanda Mahakuda [SLP [C] Diary No.22605/2020 decided on 11.01.2021]. The leeway which was given to the Government/public authorities on account of innate inefficiencies was the result of certain orders of this Court which came at a time when technology had not advanced and thus, greater indulgence was shown. This position is no more prevalent and the current legal position has been elucidated by the judgment of this Court in Office of the Chief Post Master General & Ors. vs. Living Media India Ltd & Anr.- (2012) 3 SCC 563. Despite this, there seems to be a little change in the approach of the Government and public authorities. "

11. In the case of Living Media India Ltd. & Anr. (supra) Hon'ble Supreme Court noticed the advancement in modern technology and observed that the claim of seeking condonation of delay on account of impersonal machinery and inherited bureaucratic methodology of making several notes cannot be accepted in view of the modern technologies being used and available. In the said case, it was further observed by Hon'ble Apex Court that all the government bodies, their agencies and instrumentalities need to be informed that unless they have reasonable and acceptable explanation for delay, there is no need to accept usual explanation that the file was kept pending for several months/years due to considerable degree of procedural red tape in the process.

12. Paras 28 and 29 of the judgement in the case of Living Media India Ltd. & Anr. (supra) are extracted hereinbelow:

"28. Though we are conscious of the fact that in a matter of condonation of delay when there was no gross negligence or deliberate inaction or lack of bona fides, a liberal concession has to be adopted to advance substantial justice, we are of the view that in the facts and circumstances, the Department cannot take advantage of various earlier decisions. The claim on account of impersonal machinery and inherited bureaucratic methodology of making several notes cannot be accepted in view of the modern technologies being used and available. The law of limitation undoubtedly binds everybody, including the Government.

29. In our view, it is the right time to inform all the government bodies, their agencies and instrumentalities that unless they have reasonable and acceptable explanation for the delay and there was bona fide effort, there is no need to accept the usual explanation that the file was kept pending for several months/years due to considerable degree of procedural red tape in the process. The government departments are under a special obligation to ensure that they perform their duties with diligence and commitment. Condonation of delay is an exception and should not be used as an anticipated benefit for the government departments. The law shelters everyone under the same light and should not be swirled for the benefit of a few."

13. Similarly, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Madhya Pradesh and others vs. Bherulal, reported in [(2020) 10 SCC 654] has held that the law of limitation undoubtedly binds everybody including the Government and unless the government authorities, their agencies and instrumentalities have reasonable and acceptable explanations for the delay and there was bona fide efforts on their part, there is no need to accept the usual explanation in the garb of procedural red tape of process. The condonation of delay is an exception and should not be used as anticipated benefits for the Government.

14. In Vedabai @ Vaijayanatabai Baburao Vs. Shantaram Baburao Patil and others, reported in [JT 2001(5) SC 608] the Hon'ble Supreme Court said that under Section 5 of Act, 1963 it should adopt a pragmatic approach. A distinction must be made between a case where the delay is inordinate and a case where the delay is of a few days. In the former case consideration of prejudice to the other side will be a relevant factor so the case calls for a more cautious approach but in the latter case no such consideration may arise and such a case deserves a liberal approach. No hard and fast rule can be laid down in this regard and the basic guiding factor is advancement of substantial justice.

15. In Pundlik Jalam Patil (dead) by LRs Vs. Executive Engineer, Jalgaon Medium Project and Another reported in (2008) 17 SCC 448, in para 17 of the judgment, the Hon'ble Supreme Court said :

"...The evidence on record suggests neglect of its own right for long time in preferring appeals. The court cannot enquire into belated and state claims on the ground of equity. Delay defeats equity. The court helps those who are vigilant and "do not slumber over their rights."

16. In Maniben Devraj Shah Vs. Municipal Corporation of Brihan Mumbai, reported in [2012 (5) SCC 157], in para 18 of the judgment, the Court said as under:

"What needs to be emphasised is that even though a liberal and justice oriented approach is required to be adopted in the exercise of power under Section 5 of the Limitation Act and other similar statutes, the Courts can neither become oblivious of the fact that the successful litigant has acquired certain rights on the basis of the judgment under challenge and a lot of time is consumed at various stages of litigation apart from the cost. What colour the expression 'sufficient cause' would get in the factual matrix of a given case would largely depend on bona fide nature of the explanation. If the Court finds that there has been no negligence on the part of the applicant and the cause shown for the delay does not lack bona fides, then it may condone the delay. If, on the other hand, the explanation given by the applicant is found to be concocted or he is thoroughly negligent in prosecuting his cause, then it would be a legitimate exercise of discretion not to condone the delay. In cases involving the State and its agencies/instrumentalities, the Court can take note of the fact that sufficient time is taken in the decision making process but no premium can be given for total lethargy or utter negligence on the part of the officers of the State and / or its agencies/instrumentalities and the applications filed by them for condonation of delay cannot be allowed as a matter of course by accepting the plea that dismissal of the matter on the ground of bar of limitation will cause injury to the public interest."

17. The legal position is that where a case has been presented in the Court beyond limitation, the Petitioner has to explain the Court as to what was the "sufficient cause" which means an adequate and enough reason which prevented him to approach the Court within limitation. In Majji Sannemma v. Reddy Sridevi, reported in 2021 SCC Online SC 1260, it was held by Hon'ble Supreme Court that even though limitation may harshly affect the rights of a party, it has to be applied with all its rigour when prescribed by statute. A reference was also made to the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ajay Dabra v. Pyare Ram, reported in 2023 SCC Online SC 92 wherein, it was held as follows:

"13. This Court in the case of Basawaraj v. Special Land Acquisition Officer, reported in (2013) 14 SCC 81 while rejecting an application for condonation of delay for lack of sufficient cause has concluded in Paragraph 15 as follows:

"15. The law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that where a case has been presented in the court beyond limitation, the applicant has to explain the court as to what was the "sufficient cause" which means an adequate and enough reason which prevented him to approach the court within limitation. In case a party is found to be negligent, or for want of bona fide on his part in the facts and circumstances of the case, or found to have not acted diligently or remained inactive, there cannot be a justified ground to condone the delay. No court could be justified in condoning such an inordinate delay by imposing any condition whatsoever. The application is to be decided only within the parameters laid down by this Court in regard to the condonation of delay. In case there was no sufficient cause to prevent a litigant to approach the court on time condoning the delay without any justification, putting any condition whatsoever, amounts to passing an order in violation of the statutory provisions and it tantamounts to showing utter disregard to the legislature."

14. Therefore, we are of the considered opinion that the High Court did not commit any mistake in dismissing the delay condonation application of the present Appellant."

18. Thus, it is crystal clear that the discretion to condone the delay has to be exercised judiciously based on facts and circumstances of each case and that, the expression 'sufficient cause' cannot be liberally interpreted, if negligence, inaction or lack of bona fides is attributed to the party.

19. In Union of India v. Jahangir Byramji Jeejeebhoy (D) through his legal heir, reported in 2024 SCC OnLine SC 489, wherein, after referring to various decisions on the issue, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that delay should not be excused as a matter of generosity and rendering substantial justice is not to cause prejudice to the opposite party. The relevant passage of the same is profitably extracted below:

"24. In the aforesaid circumstances, we made it very clear that we are not going to look into the merits of the matter as long as we are not convinced that sufficient cause has been made out for condonation of such a long and inordinate delay.

25. It hardly matters whether a litigant is a private party or a State or Union of India when it comes to condoning the gross delay of more than 12 years. If the litigant chooses to approach the court long after the lapse of the time prescribed under the relevant provisions of the law, then he cannot turn around and say that no prejudice would be caused to either side by the delay being condoned. This litigation between the parties started sometime in 1981. We are in 2024. Almost 43 years have elapsed. However, till date the Respondent has not been able to reap the fruits of his decree. It would be a mockery of justice if we condone the delay of 12 years and 158 days and once again ask the Respondent to undergo the rigmarole of the legal proceedings.

26. The length of the delay is a relevant matter which the court must take into consideration while considering whether the delay should be condoned or not. From the tenor of the approach of the Appellants, it appears that they want to fix their own period of limitation for instituting the proceedings for which law has prescribed a period of limitation. Once it is held that a party has lost his right to have the matter considered on merits because of his own inaction for a long, it cannot be presumed to be non-deliberate delay and in such circumstances of the case, he cannot be heard to plead that the substantial justice deserves to be preferred as against the technical considerations. While considering the plea for condonation of delay, the court must not start with the merits of the main matter. The court owes a duty to first ascertain the bona fides of the explanation offered by the party seeking condonation. It is only if the sufficient cause assigned by the litigant and the opposition of the other side is equally balanced that the court may bring into aid the merits of the matter for the purpose of condoning the delay.

27. We are of the view that the question of limitation is not merely a technical consideration. The Rules of limitation are based on the principles of sound public policy and principles of equity. We should not keep the 'Sword of Damocles' hanging over the head of the Respondent for indefinite period of time to be determined at the whims and fancies of the Appellants.

34. In view of the aforesaid, we have reached to the conclusion that the High Court committed no error much less any error of law in passing the impugned order. Even otherwise, the High Court was exercising its supervisory jurisdiction Under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

35. In a plethora of decisions of this Court, it has been said that delay should not be excused as a matter of generosity. Rendering substantial justice is not to cause prejudice to the opposite party. The Appellants have failed to prove that they were reasonably diligent in prosecuting the matter and this vital test for condoning the delay is not satisfied in this case.

36. For all the foregoing reasons, this appeal fails and is hereby dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs."

20. In Jahangir Byramji Jeejeebhoy (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court has further observed as under:-

"Applying the above legal proposition to the facts of the present case, we are of the opinion that the High Court correctly refused to condone the delay and dismissed the appeal by observing that such inordinate delay was not explained satisfactorily, no sufficient cause was shown for the same, and no plausible reason was put forth by the State. Therefore, we are inclined to reject this petition at the threshold."

21. Coming back to the facts of the present case, we would observe that it hardly matters whether litigants is a private party or State or Union of India when it comes to condoning the gross delay of several years. The government bodies and their agencies should be vigilant in filing the petition within time. There is no need to accept the usual explanation that the petition was kept pending for several years due to considerable degree of procedural redtape in the process. The government agencies are under a special obligation to ensure that they perform their duties with diligence and commitment. Condonation of delay is an exception and should not be used as an anticipated benefit for the Government Departments. The law shelters everyone under the same light and should not be swirled for the benefit of the Government Department. In plethora of judgments of this Court as well as Hon'ble Supreme Court it has been held that the delay should not be condoned as a matter of generosity. When we examine the explanation of delay of 5743 days in filing the Review Petition from the date of judgment dated 13.11.2009, which has been sought to be reviewed and delay of around 489 days from the date of dismissal of Special Leave Petition on 03.05.2024, what we find is that the State has once again sought shelter in usual slow pace of State machinery in preparation of office notes, movement of files, keeping legal opinion with delay. The said explanation cannot be said to be sufficient in view of the law laid by Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases mentioned hereinabove. In fact the course adopted by the State in preferring the Review Petition reflects gross negligence and inaction which is in our considered opinion cannot be said to be bonafide. What we notice is that the approach of the State all along has been casual and that of manifest negligence. As observed by Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgment mentioned hereinabove, the law of limitation binds everyone including the Government.

22. From the date of judgment of this Court on 13.11.2009 till dismissal of Special Leave Petition by the Hon'ble Apex Court on the ground of delay of 1633 days, the same period cannot be reconsidered by this Court for condoning the delay. From the date of dismissal of Special Leave Petition i.e. on 03.05.2024 till 26.07.2025 when it was decided by the State Government to file the Review Petition, the reasons indicating the delay for that period is not a satisfactory explanation for delay in filing this Review Petition.

23. Considering the fact that the State has grossly failed to offer any proper explanation for huge delay other than mentioning different dates on which office notes were prepared and files have been moving from one desk to other and from one officer to other, in our opinion, the explanation furnished are neither sufficient nor acceptable to condone such a huge delay.

24. We have observed that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has considered the merit of the case while passing the order dated 03.05.2024 and therefore, by allowing this Review Petition, we cannot review the judgment and order of Hon'ble Supreme Court.

25. In the light of the discussions made hereinabove, the delay condonation application is rejected.

26. Consequently, the Review Petition is also dismissed as we have refused to condone the delay in filing this Review Petition.

3. The contention of the learned counsel for the Applicants is that the marriage of the first Applicant namely Nagendra Sharma with the second Opposite party namely Smt. Sarla Sharma was dissolved vide ex-parte Judgment and Order dated 16.01.2019 passed by the Court of learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Gonda in Case No.1006 of 2017 (Nagendra Sharma versus Smt. Sarla Sharma), under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955.

4. The second Opposite party herein preferred an application for recall of the ex-parte order dated 16.01.2019 along with an application for condonation of delay, before the learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Gonda on 29.05.2019 and for the Restoration of the Regular Case No. 1006 of 2017 (Nagendra Sharma versus Smt. Since then, the said matter is pending for adjudication.

6. The learned Court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Gonda, by registering the case on 29.05.2019, issued notice to the first Applicant herein and on the same day without affording any opportunity of hearing to him, passed an order whereby the operation of the Order dated 16.01.2019 was stayed.

It is also alleged that he was abused by the said persons and was told not to be seen in the District Court in future. The submission of the learned counsel for the applicants is that the first Applicant got scared by the said incident, however, he preferred applications to the concerned police station as well as to the Superintendent of Police, Gonda and also on the IGRS Portal, reporting the said incident to the authorities.

8. The Applicant No.1 preferred a Transfer Application before the Court of learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Gonda, which was registered as Miscellaneous Case No. 42 of 2025 on 10.04.2025 seeking transfer of the Miscellaneous Case No. 52 of 2019 from the learned Family Court No.1 to any other Court, levelling serious allegations against the Presiding Officer hearing the aforesaid case.

9. The learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Gonda vide detailed judgment and order dated 24.07.2025 rejected the aforesaid Transfer Application. The operative portion of the Order dated 24.07.2025 is extracted herein-below for ready reference:

प्रार्थना-पत्र 3 ग (स्थानान्तरण प्रार्थना-पत्र) निरस्त किया जाता है।"

10. It is also stated by the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Applicants that the first applicant filed a Complaint Case No. 182 of 2013 against the opposite party No.2 under Section 504, 506, 323, 452, 380 I.P.C., Police Station-Sarai Aquil, District- Kaushambi. It is further stated that the opposite party No.2 herein preferred a Petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. before this Court at Allahabad. The said Petition was registered as Criminal Misc. Application U/s 482 No. 27891 of 2013. Taking into consideration the statement made by the parties therein that the parties had settled the matrimonial dispute and were living together, the Court vide Order dated 22.08.2014 allowed the said Application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and quashed the proceedings of Complaint Case No. 182 of 2013.

11. It is also alleged in the present transfer petition that despite the aforesaid settlement, the opposite party No.2 did not withdraw the Criminal Case No. 142 of 2013 lodged under Section 498-A, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station- Krishna Nagar, Lucknow and the Case No. 1812 of 2013 under Section 12 of the Domestic Violence Act, therefore, the Applicant No.1 preferred contempt application before this Court at Allahabad which is registered as Case No. 6504 of 2019. The said application is still pending for consideration.

12. The ground for seeking the transfer of the pending proceedings having Misc. Case No. 52 of 2019 from the District Gonda to Lucknow, as pressed by the learned counsel for the applicants is that since the Applicant No.1 is the resident of Lucknow and the second opposite party namely Smt. Sarla Sharma is also now residing at Lucknow and is engaged in a private job, therefore, it will be convenient for the parties to pursue the case at Lucknow. The other ground taken by the learned counsel for the applicants is that the Applicant No.1 has reasonable apprehension that if he will go to Gonda to participate in the proceedings of the Misc. Case No. 52 of 2019, he would be harmed by the opposite party No.2.

13. It is also alleged in the instant transfer petition that the Court concerned at Gonda is favouring the opposite party No.2 in the pending proceedings.

14. Per contra, the learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of opposite party No.2 vehemently opposed the instant transfer application by contending that the instant transfer petition suffers from material concealment of facts and as such the same is liable to be rejected. He contended that the opposite party No.2 after coming to know of passing of the ex-parte judgment and order dated 16.01.2019, by means of which the marriage between the Applicant No.1 and opposite party No.2 was declared dissolved; preferred a Recall Application on 29.05.2019 whereby the fraudulent conduct of the applicant and the manner in which he misrepresented the facts before the Court to obtain the ex-parte order dated 16.01.2019, was placed before the Court. The learned Court after taking into consideration the factual matrix as narrated by the opposite party No.2 herein, entertained the said application under Order IX Rule 13 C.P.C and issued notice to the applicant herein and stayed the operation of the Order dated 16.01.2019.

15. It is also vehemently asserted by the learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the opposite party No.2 that the applicants herein filed the instant transfer petition without disclosing the material fact that the order dated 29.05.2019 passed by the learned Family Court was challenged by the Applicants before this Court by means of a writ petition having Writ- C No. 6354 of 2022, and the same was dismissed by this Court vide order dated 18.10.2024. He further submitted that the present applicants have not disclosed the fact with regard to the filing of the First Appeal Defective No. 83 of 2025 (Nagendra Sharma versus Smt. Sarla Sharma) on the same subject matter of dispute before the Hon'ble Division Bench of this Court, by them. However, the said appeal, on the basis of the prayer being made by the learned counsel for the applicant, was consigned to record as withdrawn, vide Order dated 11.04.2025.

16. The argument of the learned Senior Advocate is that the Regular Case No.1006 of 2017 (Nagendra Sharma versus Smt. Sarla Sharma), under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, was filed by the Applicant No.1 himself before the Court of learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Gonda and now at this stage, when the proceedings under Order IX Rule 13 C.P.C. in respect of the ex-parte judgment and order dated 16.01.2019 is almost ripe for final disposal where the learned Court at Gonda has entertained the matter and passed an interim order dated 29.05.2019; the Applicant has no occasion to pray for the transfer of the proceeding to the place of his choice. He further submits that instant Transfer Application is nothing but a delaying tactic on the part of the applicants to stall the pending proceedings of the Misc. Case No. 52 of 2019.

17. Heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record. The ground on which the applicants have sought the transfer of the proceedings of the Misc. Case No. 52 of 2019, pending under Order IX Rule 13 read with Section 151 Civil Procedure Code, is three-fold. Firstly, the Applicants have suspicion that they may not get unbiased trial at Gonda. Secondly, the Applicant No.1 has apprehension of some mishappening to him in pursuing the case at Gonda under the alleged threat from the side of the opposite party No.2. Thirdly, it is convenient for the parties to pursue their case at Lucknow as the applicant is the resident of Lucknow and now as per him, the opposite party No.2 has also started living at Lucknow.

18. Looking to the allegation made by the applicants herein regarding alleged inclination of the concerned Court towards the opposite party No.2; the same is found totally bald and baseless as there is nothing on record to establish any bias on the part of the learned Presiding Officer. A general statement to the effect that the concerned court is doing favour to the other side, is not sufficient for the purpose of establishing any bias. Needles to say that while dealing with the case, the Presiding Officer of the Court has to pass several orders depending upon the facts of the case and as the circumstances warrant. In that process, orders adverse to the party cannot be the reason to doubt the fairness of the Presiding Officer and the parties do have legal remedies to challenge the same before the higher forums.

19. In the instant case, the allegation of the applicants that the learned Family Court at Gonda unlawfully entertained the Application under Order IX Rule 13 read with Section 151 C.P.C. and the passing of the order dated 29.05.2019 reflects the bias on the part of the Court concerned, is not at all acceptable as the applicant challenged the said order by means of writ petition having Writ- C No. 6354 of 2022, inter alia, praying for the following relief:

"(i) To issue a writ, direction or order in the nature of Prohibition to refrain the O.P. No.1 from acting beyond jurisdiction by initiating proceedings under Order IX Rule 13 read with Section 151 C.P.C. in Case No. 52 of 2019- Smt. Sarla Sharma versus Nagendra Sharma & another for recalling the judgment dated 16.01.2019.

(ii) To issue a writ, direction or order in the nature of Certiorari to quash/ set aside the ex-parte orders dated 29.05.2019 (Annexure Nos. 1 & 2) and order dated 22.08.2022 (Annexure No.13) passed by the O.P. No.1 in Case No.52 of 2019- Smt. Sarla Sharma versus Nagendra Sharma & Another."

The Court did not accept the pleas of the Applicant/petitioner and dismissed the Writ- C No. 6354 of 2022 (Nagendra Sharma And Another versus Court Of Principal Judge Family Court Gonda And Another) by a detailed judgment and order dated 18.10.2024. Thus, with the dismissal of the said writ petition, the allegation of unlawful entertainment of the proceeding of the Misc. Case No. 52 of 2019 by the concerned Court, has been shattered.

20. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Kumaon Mandal Vikas Nigam Ltd. Versus Girja Shankar Pant and others; reported in (2001) 1 SCC 182, has been pleased to hold that mere general statement will not be sufficient for the purposes of indication of ill-will. There must be cogent evidence available on record to come to the conclusion as to the existence of any element of bias which has resulted in the miscarriage of justice.

21. In so far as the perception of threat from the opposite party No.2 to the applicant is concerned, the same is not sustainable as no credible material has been placed by the applicants before this Court to substantiate the same and to justify the prayer for transfer of the proceedings on that ground. Mere allegation without any credible evidence cannot be taken as granted to transfer the proceedings from one place to another.

22. Coming to the third ground taken by the applicant for transfer of the proceeding from the Court at Gonda to Lucknow that since the applicant is the resident of Lucknow and now the opposite party No.2 is engaged in a private job at Lucknow and is residing there, therefore, it will be convenient for the parties to pursue the case at Lucknow, the same is to be seen in the light of the fact that initially it was the applicant who initiated the proceeding at Gonda by filing the case under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act before the learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Gonda and obtained divorce vide ex-parte judgment and order dated 16.01.2019. Thereafter, the proceeding under Order IX Rule 13 read with Section 151 C.P.C. was instituted by the opposite party No.2 in the year 2019 that was registered as Misc. Case No. 52 of 2019, and since then the contesting parties are regularly participating in the said proceeding and the same is almost ripe up for final disposal. There is no occasion, at least at this stage to transfer the said proceeding from the learned Family Court, Gonda to Lucknow as that may cause unnecessary delay in the disposal of the case and would adversely affect the interest of justice and further, in the light of the observations made by the Hon'ble Apex in the case of Abdul Nazar Madani versus State of T.N. and Another; reported in (2000) 6 SCC 204, it is safe to observe that no universal or hard-and-fast rules can be prescribed for deciding the transfer petition which has always to be decided on the basis of the facts of each case. The convenience of the parties does not necessarily mean the convenience of the applicant alone who approached the Court seeking transfer of the pending proceeding on misconceived notions of apprehension. Convenience for the purposes of transfer means the convenience of the parties and of course the best interest of litigation.

23. It is trite in law that transfer of a case can be made only when the same is reasonably required under the facts and circumstances of the case and only if the allegations made by the applicant seeking transfer of the proceedings are straightway discovered or found to be adversely affecting the interest of justice. Further, a petition seeking transfer of the case should not be based on conjectures and surmises and the onus is on the person who alleges bias to substantiate that the apprehensions are reasonable, genuine and justifiable. There must be cogent evidence available on record to infer the existence of any element of bias.

24. Furthermore, in the instant case, the applicants have come to this Court seeking transfer of the restoration proceeding filed by the second opposite party herein that emerged pursuant to the ex-parte decree passed in the suit for divorce that was filed by the applicant himself at Gonda and the opposite party No.2, although being a lady, has not expressed any inconvenience in pursuing the said proceeding at Gonda rather vehemently opposed the instant Transfer Application. It would not be out of place to note that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sumita Singh versus Kumar Sanjay and another; reported in AIR 2002 SC 396, has held as under:

"3. It is the husband's suit against the wife. It is the wife's convenience that, therefore, must be looked at. The circumstances indicated above are sufficient to make the transfer petition absolute."

25. The conduct of the applicant to prefer the Family Court at Gonda for instituting the proceeding and thereafter to make request for transfer of the subsequent proceeding emanating from the same to the Family Court at Lucknow, is reflective of his ulterior motive to cause delay in the proceeding.

26. In view of the facts and the discussion made hereinabove, this Court does not find any good ground to accept the prayer made by the Applicants for transfer of the proceedings of Misc. Case No.52 of 2019 (Smt. Sarla Sharma versus Nagendra Sharma) pending before the learned Family Court at Gonda to any competent Court at District Lucknow.

27. Resultantly, the present Application filed by the applicants under Section 24 of C.P.C. is hereby dismissed.

28. No order as to cost.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant : Pritish Kumar, learned Senior Advocate, Rajeev Sharan, Amal Rastogi, Devesh Bahadur Singh

Advs. for the Respondents : Utkarsh Srivastava, Pankaj Kumar Singh, Anurag Tyagi

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. Heard Shri Pritish Kumar, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Rajeev Sharan, Advocate, Shri Amal Rastogi Advocate, Shri Devesh Bahadur Singh, Advocate, Shri Utkarsh Srivastava, Advocate for appellants and Shri Pankaj Kumar Singh, Advocate along with Shri Anurag Tyagi, learned counsel for respondents.

2. Counsel for parties have argued the matter finally at the stage of admission itself, therefore, we proceed to dispose of the appeal.

3. By means of this appeal filed under Chapter-VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 (hereinafter referred as 'Rules of the Court') judgment and order of the learned Single Judge of this Court functioning as Commercial Division under the Commercial Courts Act, 2015 (hereinafter referred as the 'Act 2015') dated 09.10.2025 passed in Execution Case No.1 of 2025 has been challenged.

4. The Parties counsel are ad idem that against such an order no further remedy is prescribed either under the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred as the 'Act 1996') or the Act 2015, therefore, this Special Appeal has been filed.

5. We have gone through Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court which reads as under:-

"5. Special appeal.—An appeal shall lie to the Court from a judgment (not being a judgment passed in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction) in respect of a decree or order made by a Court subject to the superintendence of the Court and not being an order made in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction or in the exercise of its power of superintendence or in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction [or in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution in respect of any judgment, order or award - (a) of a tribunal, Court or statutory arbitrator made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, or (b) of the Government or any officer or authority, made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any such Act of one Judge."

6. An appeal under the said provision shall lie to the Court from a judgment of one Judge subject to the exclusionary clause contained therein. We have gone through the exclusionary clause and as the learned Single Judge in this case has passed the order impugned in exercise of his original jurisdiction under the Act 2015 read with the Act 1996 and not under an appellate or revisional or supervisory jurisdiction, nor under Article 226 or 227 of Constitution of India, therefore, the said exclusion clause not being applicable, this appeal is found to be maintainable.

7. At the very outset, it needs to be mentioned that the appellant herein does not dispute the fact that the award in question is not a foreign award, but is a domestic award albeit in an international commercial arbitration. The fact that the arbitration in question is also an international commercial arbitration is not in dispute. It is also not in dispute that the seat of arbitration was within India.

8. Now, the question before us is as to whether such an award is to be enforced through the Commercial Courts established at the district level or the Commercial Division of the High Court.

9. In this context, we may refer to section 36 of the Act 1996 which contains the substantive law. It reads as under:-

"36. Enforcement--(1) Where the time for making an application to set aside the arbitral award under section 34 has expired, then, subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), such award shall be enforced in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), in the same manner as if it were a decree of the court.

(2) Where an application to set aside the arbitral award has been filed in the Court under section 34, the filing of such an application shall not by itself render that award unenforceable, unless the Court grants an order of stay of the operation of the said arbitral award in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (3), on a separate application made for that purpose.

(3) Upon filing of an application under sub-section (2) for stay of the operation of the arbitral award, the Court may, subject to such conditions as it may deem fit, grant stay of the operation of such award for reasons to be recorded in writing:

Provided that the Court shall, while considering the application for grant of stay in the case of an arbitral award for payment of money, have due regard to the provisions for grant of stay of a money decree under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908).

Provided further that where the Court is satisfied that a prima facie case is made out that,--

(a) the arbitration agreement or contract which is the basis of the award; or

(b) the making of the award, was induced or effected by fraud or corruption, it shall stay the award unconditionally pending disposal of the challenge under section 34 to the award.

Explanation.--For the removal of doubts, it is hereby clarified that the above proviso shall apply to all court cases arising out of or in relation to arbitral proceedings, irrespective of whether the arbitral or court proceedings were commenced prior to or after the commencement of the Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Act, 2015."

10. Section 36 does not specifically provide the Forum or Court for execution of an award including an award passed in the context of an international commercial arbitration. What it says is that it shall be enforced in accordance with provisions of the the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, in the same manner as if it were a decree of Court. An award is not a decree of Court but it is to be executed and enforced as a decree of Court. The provisions pertaining to execution of a decree of Court are contained in Section 36 read with order XXI C.P.C.

11. The parties are also not in dispute nor was it canvassed before us to the contrary that an award whether it be a domestic award or a foreign award is to be executed through the Court. The question is if it is a domestic award pertaining to an international commercial arbitration, which Court?

12. Learned counsel for the appellant laid great emphasis upon the provisions of Section 10 of the Act 2015 as also the explanation to Section 47 of the Act of 1996 to impress upon the Court that it is the District Commercial Court which would have jurisdiction to consider an application under Section 36 for enforcement of a domestic award even if rendered in an international commercial arbitration. His contention was; firstly, that in view of the language used in Section 36, as the award is to be executed as a decree of the court in terms of the Code of Civil Procedure and such execution is done before the District Court, therefore, in this case, application should have been filed before the District Commercial Court. Secondly, his submission was that Legislature in its wisdom consciously amended Section 47 by the Act No. 3 of 2016 to make it clear that such international commercial arbitration where the award is a foreign award would be enforced or executed before the High court. It being so, the logical inference from that is that other awards pertaining to international commercial arbitration would be enforceable/executable by the District Commercial Courts, otherwise why would the Legislature make such an amendment in Section 47.

13. It was also his contention that arbitral proceedings terminated on rendering of the award in view of Section 32 of the Act of 1996, therefore, for execution of the said award as it is deemed to be a decree, proceedings have to be initiated before the District Commercial Court. He relied upon the decision reported in AIR 2018 SC 965; Sundaram Finance Limited vs. Abdul Samad and another. He also referred to Section 10 of the Act 2015 to contend that there is distinction between an international commercial arbitration which is place-centric and one which is party-centric. According to him, an international commercial arbitration where the award is place-centric, the execution would be under Section 47 before the High court, but, one which is party-centric, the execution will be before the District Commercial court.

14. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that the provisions contained in Section 36 read with Section 2(1)(e)(ii) of the Act 1996 are explicit and leave no doubt that the Court which is to enforce/execute the award even if a domestic award, but in the context of international commercial arbitration, has to be the High Court irrespective of the fact that it has original civil jurisdiction or not. There is no such provision in the entire Act 1996 which bestows jurisdiction upon the district commercial court to entertain an application for enforcement/execution of such an award. He, in this context, invited our attention to several decisions such as Paramjeet Singh Patheja vs. ICDS Ltd.; (2006) 13 SCC 322 and Sundaran Finance Limited vs. Abdul Samad and another; AIR 2018 SC 965. In addition to the decisions of Hon'ble the Supreme Court referred hereinabove, he also relied upon the decisions of the Division Bench of the Karnataka High Court (ITI Limited vs. Alphion Corporation, United States of America and Another; 2022 SCC OnLine Kar 1631), Gujarat High Court (M/s. OCI Corporation vs. Kandla Export Corporation & 2; 2016 SCC OnLine Guj 5981) and a Single Judge Bench decision of this High Court (Lucknow Agencies Lko vs. U.P. Avas Vikas Parishad; AIR OnLine 2019 All 3138 and judgment dated 20.03.2024 passed in Civil Misc. Arbitration Application No. 100 of 2023; M/s Deep Distributors Pvt. Ltd. Thru Director Ashok Kumar Jaiswal vs. Tigers Brewery Industries Pvt. Ltd. Thru M.D. Ishwari Khadka) wherein, according to him, this very aspect was dealt with extensively especially in the Division Bench decision of the Karnataka High Court and it was expressly held that an application for execution/enforcement of an award under Section 36 of Act 1996 pertaining to international commercial arbitration would lie only before the Commercial division of the High court. He also impressed upon us the provisions of Section 10(1) which has been considered in the said decisions.

15. It is not in dispute that so far as domestic award in a domestic arbitration is concerned, it is executed through the commercial courts at the district level. As regards, foreign awards rendered in the context of international commercial arbitration also there is no dispute that in view of the explanation to section 47, such awards are executable/enforceable through the High Court as referred in the said explanation.

16. The question here is, what if, though the arbitration is an international commercial arbitration, but the seat of arbitration is in India and the award is a domestic arbitration? Which Court shall execute it?

17. In this regard, the law is clear that the definition of international commercial arbitration as available in Section 2(1)(f) would apply in such a case. We may in this regard refer to the Constitution Bench decision of Bharat Aluminium Company vs. Kaiser Aluminium Technical Services Inc.; (2012) 9 SCC 552 (BALCO Case) and the Three Judge bench of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Case of PASL Wind Solutions Private Limited vs GE Power Conversion India Private Limited; (2021) 7 SCC 1.

18. Section 2(1)(f) act of the 1996 reads as under:-

"(f) "international commercial arbitration" means an arbitration relating to disputes arising out of legal relationships, whether contractual or not, considered as commercial under the law in force in India and where at least one of the parties is—

(i) an individual who is a national of, or habitually resident in, any country other than India; or

(ii) a body corporate which is incorporated in any country other than India; or

(iii) an association or a body of individuals whose central management and control is exercised in any country other than India; or

(iv) the Government of a foreign country."

19. As already stated, it is not in dispute that the arbitration at hand is an international commercial arbitration within the meaning of Section 2(1)(f) of the Act 1996.

20. In view of the decision referred above, International Commercial Arbitration referred in Section 2 (2) does not apply in this case.

21. On facts, the respondents herein initially filed an application under Section 36 for enforcement of the award before the District commercial court but finding it as not maintainable, they withdrew it from the district commercial court and filed an application under Section 36, before the commercial division of the High Court at Lucknow.

22. It is not in dispute that an award though it has not been rendered by a Court, has to be enforced/executed through a Court under Section 36 in the same manner as if it were a decree of the Court, but Section 36 does not specify the Court which is to execute it, therefore, we have to take recourse to the definition of Court as contained in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act, 1996. Section 2(1)(e) of the Act 1996 reads as under:-

"2 (1) Definitions. (1) In this Part, unless the context otherwise requires, —

(a) "arbitration" means any arbitration whether or not administered by permanent arbitral institution;

(b) "arbitration agreement" means an agreement referred to in section 7;

(c) "arbitral award" includes an interim award;

(d) "arbitral tribunal" means a sole arbitrator or a panel of arbitrators;

(e) "Court" means— (i) in the case of an arbitration other than international commercial arbitration, the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in a district, and includes the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject-matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject-matter of a suit, but does not include any Civil Court of a grade inferior to such principal Civil Court, or any Court of Small Causes;

(ii) in the case of international commercial arbitration, the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject-matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject-matter of a suit, and in other cases, a High Court having jurisdiction to hear appeals from decrees of courts subordinate to that High Court."

Above quoted provision draws a distinction between an International Commercial Arbitration and other Arbitration. The term 'Court' has different meaning for these two categories of Arbitration.

23. Section 2(1)(e)(i) applies to a case of arbitration 'other than an international commercial arbitration', therefore, the said provision is not applicable to the case at hand.

24. What is applicable is Section 2(1)(e)(ii). According to Section 2(1)(e)(ii), Court means 'in the case of international commercial arbitration, the High court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction having jurisdiction to decide the question forming the subject matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject matter of a suit, and in other cases, a High court having jurisdiction to hear the appeals from decrees of Courts subordinate to that High Court'.

25. Section 2(1)(e) (ii) itself can be split into two parts. As per the first part, the High Court having jurisdiction to decide the question forming subject matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject matter of a suit, will be the Court in the case of international commercial arbitration. As per the second part - in other cases i.e. where the High Court does not have original jurisdiction as referred in part one, if it has jurisdiction to hear appeals from decrees of Courts subordinate to that High Court, such High Court would be the Court in case of International Commercial Arbitration.

26. Now, based on the aforesaid definition, as regards Allahabad High Court, it does not have original civil jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject matter of the arbitral award which is to be enforced in this case, therefore, the first part of 2(1)(e)(ii) does not apply, but, it does have jurisdiction to hear appeals from decrees of Courts subordinate to it under the Code of Civil Procedure, etc., therefore, it is the second part which applies. This has not been disputed by Shri Pritish Kumar, learned Senior Counsel for the appellant.

27. We have therefore to be guided by the definition of Court as contained in Section 2 (1)(e)(ii) of the Act, 1996 in this regard, especially as, both Section 2(1)(e)(ii) and Section 36 fall in part I of the Act 1996.

28. On a bare reading of the aforesaid provision, the Court which has to execute/enforce the award under Section 36, which falls in part I of the Act of 1996 which is the part applicable in the case at hand on account of the fact that the seat of arbitration in this case was within India, is the High Court and, in this case, the Allahabad High Court. We may in this regard refer to Section 2(2) which says that this part i.e. part I shall apply where the arbitration is in India.

Of course, proviso thereto does not apply so far as the reference to international commercial arbitration is concerned as already dealt with in the case of BALCO (supra) and PASL Wind Solutions Pvt. Limited (supra).

29. As stated earlier, Section 36 does not specifically indicate the Court which has to execute/enforce the award; whether it be a domestic award pertaining to an international commercial arbitration or a domestic arbitration, it only provides the manner in which the award is to be enforced/executed. It has, therefore, to be read conjointly with Section 2(1)(e) to determine the Court which is competent to enforce it.

30. Merely because it has to be enforced in accordance with the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure in the same manner as if it were a decree of the Court cannot lead us to conclude that such enforcement is to be done through the Commercial Court at the District level because decrees of Courts are executable in U.P. by District Court as Allahabad High Court does not have original jurisdiction as suggested by Shri Prithvi Kumar, as, we cannot ignore Section 2(1)(e)(ii) of the Act 1996 referred earlier.

31. The words 'in other case, a High Court having jurisdiction to hear appeals from decrees of courts subordinate to that High Court' occurring in second part of Section 2(1)(e)(ii) of the Act 1996 clinches the issue in the facts of this case.

32. We cannot read Section 36 of the Act 1996 in isolation. It has to be read with Section 2(1)(e)(i) and (ii) which defines 'Court'. High Courts which have original jurisdiction referred in part one of Section 2(i)(e)(ii) will be Courts for International Commercial Arbitration in the context of Part I of the Act 1996, whereas, 'in other cases' a High Court having jurisdiction to hear appeals against decrees of Courts subordinate to it, will be such Courts, for Part I of the Act 1996. Within Part I of the Act 1996, Section 2(1)(e) does not make any distinction between International Commercial Arbitration based on whether it is party-centric or place-centric. To put it differently, wherever Part I of Act 1996 applies, the definition of Court contained in Section 2(1)(e) will apply. It will not apply to Part II of the Act 1996.

33. As stated earlier, this court does not have original civil jurisdiction to decide questions forming the subject matter of the arbitration award at hand, but, it is a High Court having jurisdiction to hear appeals from decree of courts subordinate to it, therefore, and application for enforcement of an award governed by Part I such as the one at hand, Allahabad High Court is the Court for filing it.

34. So far as the 'foreign awards' in the context of international commercial arbitration are concerned, their enforcement has been dealt separately in part-II of the Act 1996, therefore, in view of Section 2(2) definition of the 'Court' as contained in Section 2(1)(e) could not be read into or applied to Part II of the Act 1996 and

Section 47 thereof. It applies only to part-I of the Act 1996 which includes Section 36 meant for enforcement of a domestic award including those rendered in the context of international commercial arbitration.

35. Section 47 is a separate provision contained in part-II of the Act 1996 for enforcement of Foreign award and it is in this provision that an explanation was added by Act No. 3 of 2016 according to which 'Court' was defined for the purposes of the said section and the sections which were to follow in that chapter i.e Chapter-I of part-II as there was no definition of 'Court' in part-II separately, and such definition contained in Part I of the Act 1996 cannot be applied to it.

36. Merely because of amendment/addition of Explanation in Section 47 of Part II of the Act 1996 no inference can be drawn that for enforcement of a domestic award in an international commercial arbitration, the Commercial Court at the District level will be the competent forum as these two issues are separate and are governed by different parts/provisions of the Act 1996, especially in view of definition of 'Court' contained in Section 2(1)(e)(ii) which is in Part I of the Act 1996, just as Section 36 of the Act 1996. Section 2(1)(e)(ii) does not carve out any such exception.

37. As there was no definition of Court pertaining to Part-II, therefore, an explanation was added by Act No. 3 of 2016. There was already a definition of Court existing in Part-I which obviously was not applicable to part-II, hence this amendment was made in Section 47 of the Act 1996.

38. In this view of the matter, the contention of Shri Prithish Kumar, learned

Senior Counsel that because of this amendment in Section 47 contained in Part II of the Act 1996, the inference logically to be drawn is that other awards, that is, other than foreign awards i.e. domestic awards, even if they relate to international commercial arbitration, would be enforceable and executable by the District Commercial Courts and this is the logical conclusion according to him, cannot be accepted by us.

39. Part-II of the Act 1996 is separate from part-I and there is no interplay of the provisions of the two parts of the Act 1996 in view of what has been dealt with in the Constitutional Bench Judgment in the case of BALCO (supra) and three-Judge Bench decision in the case of PASL Wind Solutions Private Limited (supra).

40. Having gone through the scheme of the Act 1996 and the Act 2015, we do not find any other provision which could persuade us to take any other view of the matter nor do we find anything there in the scheme of the two Acts or the intent as was canvassed by Shri Prithish Kumar that the Court in the context of the case at hand should be the District Commercial Court and not the commercial division of the High Court.

41. We may in this very context refer to Section 10 of the Act 2015, which is primarily a procedural law, as already observed by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in PASL Wind Solutions Private Limited (supra). Section 10 of the Act of 2015 reads as under:-

"10. Jurisdiction in respect of arbitration matters. —Where the subject-matter of an arbitration is a commercial dispute of a Specified Value and—

(1) If such arbitration is an international commercial arbitration, all applications or appeals arising out of such arbitration under the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (26 of 1996) that have been filed in a High Court, shall be heard and disposed of by the Commercial Division where such Commercial Division has been constituted in such High Court.

(2) If such arbitration is other than an international commercial arbitration, all applications or appeals arising out of such arbitration under the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (26 of 1996) that have been filed on the original side of the High Court, shall be heard and disposed of by the Commercial Division where such Commercial Division has been constituted in such High Court.

(3) If such arbitration is other than an international commercial arbitration, all applications or appeals arising out of such arbitration under the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (26 of 1996) that would ordinarily lie before any principal civil court of original jurisdiction in a district (not being a High Court) shall be filed in, and heard and disposed of by the Commercial Court exercising territorial jurisdiction over such arbitration where such Commercial Court has been constituted"

42. Sub-Section 2 and Sub-section 3 of Section 10 of the Act 2015 relate to arbitration other than international commercial arbitration, therefore, apparently, they are not applicable to the case at hand.

43. The provision which is applicable is Sub-section 1 of Section 10 of the Act 2015 which itself indicates that in matters of international commercial arbitration all applications or appeals arising out of such arbitration will lie before the High Court. This provision is in sync with Section 2(1)(e)(ii) and Explanation to Section 47 of the Act 1996. Act 2015 was amended subsequent to Act 1996 and the Legislature is presumed to know the earlier enactment especially definition of 'Court' contained in Section 2(1)(e) thereof and explanation to Section 47 contained therein.

44. Thus, in either eventuality, where it is the Act 1996 or the Act 2015, it is the High Court which is the 'Court' for filing an application under Section 36 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 for enforcement of a domestic award pertaining to an international commercial arbitration.

45. For all these reasons, none of the contentions on behalf of the appellant are tenable and we are of the opinion that the judgment of the learned Single Judge does not suffer from any error in so far as it rejects the objections of the appellants regarding maintainability of the application of the respondents under Section 36 of the Act 1996. None of the arguments on behalf of the appellants has any force nor does the decision in Sundaram Finance Limited (supra) have any application to the facts and issues involved in this case.

46. We accordingly dismiss the special appeal.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Maintainability of Special Appeal against an interlocutory order of a procedural nature.

Headnotes

(A) Practice and procedure – Special Appeal – Interlocutory order – Vide impugned order two weeks time was granted to file response to the short counter affidavit – Special Appeal was filed against it – Maintainability. (E-1)

1. Heard Shri Alok Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant and learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State.

2. By means of this special appeal an order passed on 26.11.2025 by learned Single Judge in Writ - A No. 13339 of 2025 has been challenged. The said order reads as under:-

Held : The order impugned is purely an interlocutory order of a procedural nature which does not decide any issue whatsoever – Special Appeal is maintainable against a judgment or final order or an order having the trappings of finality. The nature of the order which is impugned herein does not fall in any of these categories – No appeal lies under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 against the order impugned herein. This appeal is not maintainable. [Paras 3, 4 and 5]

3. The order impugned is purely an interlocutory order of a procedural nature which does not decide any issue whatsoever. Two weeks time was sought by the learned counsel for the appellant himself which was granted and the matter was posted in the 2nd week of January, 2026 as fresh.

List of Acts

Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 – Chapter VIII, Rule 5.

4. The Special Appeal has been filed under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952. The appeal under aforesaid provision is maintainable against a judgment or final order or an order having the trappings of finality. The nature of the order which is impugned herein does not fall in any of these categories. We may in this regard rely upon a judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Midnapore Peoples' Coop. Bank Ltd. Vs. Chunilal Nanda and Ors. reported in (2006) 5 SCC 399, wherein term 'judgment' occurring in Clause 15 of the Letters Patent pertaining to another High Court was taken into consideration. The principle laid down in the said judgment applies in this case on all its fours. Para 15 and 16 of the said judgment reads as under:-

"15. Interim orders/interlocutory orders passed during the pendency of a case, fall under one or the other of the following categories:

(i) Orders which finally decide a question or issue in controversy in the main case.

(ii) Orders which finally decide an issue which materially and directly affects the final decision in the main case.

(iii) Orders which finally decide a collateral issue or question which is not the subject-matter of the main case.

(iv) Routine orders which are passed to facilitate the progress of the case till its culmination in the final judgment.

(v) Orders which may cause some inconvenience or some prejudice to a party, but which do not finally determine the rights and obligations of the parties."

16. The term 'judgment' occurring in clause 15 of the Letters Patent will take into its fold not only the judgments as defined in Section 2(9) CPC and orders enumerated in Order 43 Rule 1 of CPC, but also other orders which, though may not finally and conclusively determine the rights of parties with regard to all or any matters in controversy, may have finality in regard to some collateral matter, which will affect the vital and valuable rights and obligations of the parties. Interlocutory orders which fall under categories (i) to (iii) above, are, therefore, "judgments" for the purpose of filing appeals under the Letters Patent. On the other hand, orders falling under categories (iv) and (v) are not "judgments" for purpose of filing appeals provided under the Letters Patent.

5. The orders impugned herein falls in the category of Clause (iv) of Para 15 of the said judgment and does not fall in category (i) to (iii) of the above quoted Paragraph 15 and 16 of the judgment in Midnapore' case (supra). Likewise, is the law propounded by a Full Bench of this Court in a case reported in (2015) 4 UPLBEC 2673; Ashutosh Shrotriya and Ors. Vs. Vice-Chancellor, Dr. B.R. Ambedkar University and Ors., para 27 of which is relevant. In view of the above discussion, no appeal lies under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 against the order impugned herein. This appeal is not maintainable.

6. As regards reliance placed by the learned counsel for the appellant on para 12 of a decision reported in AIR 2004 SC 1975; Deoraj Vs. State of Maharashtra and Ors., firstly, when the appeal itself is not maintainable there is no question of considering the application of the said judgment. Even otherwise, as, the learned counsel for the appellant insists that we consider the application of the said judgment, we are of the opinion that the same has no application to the case at hand for the reason, in the said case it has been observed - "Situations emerge where the granting of an interim relief would tantamount to granting the final relief itself. And then there may be converse cases where withholding of an interim relief would tantamount to dismissal of main petition itself; for, by the time the main matter comes up for hearing there would be nothing left to be allowed as relief to the petitioner though all the findings may be in his favour. In such cases the availability of a very strong prima facie case -- of a standard much higher than just prima facie case, the considerations of balance of convenience and irreparable injury forcefully tilting the balance of case totally in favour of the applicant may persuade the Court to grant an interim relief though it amounts to granting the final relief itself. Of course, such would be rare and exceptional cases. The Court would grant such an interim relief only if satisfied that withholding of it would prick the conscience of the Court and do violence to the sense of justice, resulting in injustice being perpetuated throughout the hearing, and at the end the Court would not be able to vindicate the cause of justice. Obviously such would be rare cases accompanied by compelling circumstances, where the injury complained of is immediate and pressing and would cause extreme hardship. The conduct of the parties shall also have to be seen and the Court may put the parties on such terms as may be prudent."

7. As would be evident from the observations of Hon'ble the Supreme Court the aforesaid recitals apply to a case where withholding of an interim relief would tantamount to dismissal of main petition itself; for, by the time the main matter comes up for hearing there would be nothing left to be allowed as relief to the petitioner. The case at hand is not such a case as the order which is impugned in the writ petition is one of suspension and according to the learned counsel for the appellant the said suspension order states that a charge sheet will be served subsequently but it has not been issued nor served upon the appellant, meaning thereby, there are no chances of disciplinary proceedings being completed before the 2nd week of January, 2026 when the writ petition has been posted.

8. As regards the contention of learned counsel for the appellant that charge sheets issued to the appellant-petitioner prior to his suspension have also been challenged and as they are veritably no charge sheet in the eyes of law, therefore, if the stay is not granted and disciplinary proceedings are concluded, then, the aforesaid observations of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Deoraj (supra) will apply, we wish to disagree for the reasons already given. We are almost in the midst of December, 2025. The Writ Court has posted the writ petition in the 2nd week of January, 2026. There are no chances of the disciplinary proceedings being over by then in view of what has been noticed hereinabove.

9. In view of the aforesaid, we are of the considered opinion that against such an order an appeal would not lie under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952. It is open for the appellant to press all the grounds for seeking interim relief on the next date fixed in 2nd week of January, 2026, but, the special appeal is not maintainable.

10. Accordingly, the special appeal is dismissed as not maintainable.

Special Appeal No. 530 of 2025

Singasan Sharma ...Appellant
Versus
State Of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Legality of IInd stage enquiry of re-opening the issue regarding validation of an appointment, the validity of which was earlier adjudicated by the High Court and affirmed upto the Supreme Court.

(2) Entitlement of the employee or their legal representative to get salary and consequential retiral benefits, in case the IIInd stage enquiry of re-opening the issue of validity of appointment was found impermissible.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Stoppage of salary – Appellants were appointed as Assistant Teachers in 1970s and continuously discharged duties and paid salary for several decades – Validity of their appointments and entitlement to salary was conclusively adjudicated vide judgment dated 26.11.1998, which was affirmed in Special Appeal by Division Bench and further in Special Leave Petition by the Supreme Court – Issue of validity of appointment attained finality – However, approval letter was found doubtful in later enquiry held in pursuance of an order passed in Public Interest Litigation – Legality of stoppage of salary challenged in writ petition, which was dismissed by writ court – Validity of writ order challenged – Entitlement of employee to get salary and consequential

retiral benefits felt into consideration. (E-1)

Held : Subsequent administrative inquiries, including those arising out of a Public Interest Litigation, could not have the effect of reopening issues already settled by binding judicial pronouncements. Once judicial finality had been reached, the Director of Education lacked jurisdiction to negate the appointments or to stop salary on the basis of a general inquiry report – Any doubt on their appointment letter, even if got raised in the report after decades of their service, is not attributable to the appellants but arose due to a dispute in the management. In such circumstances, denial of salary and retiral benefits to the appellants is wholly unsustainable in law – Equity, good conscience, and settled service jurisprudence mandates that salary dues, pension and gratuity benefits for services of Singasan, Girija and Ram Kumar Ram is required to be considered as they have completed more than 3 years continuous service for gratuity and more than 25 years of service for pension benefits as per Rule. Case Arising From Judgment and order dated 28.04.2025 passed by the Single Judge dismissing the writ petitions arising out of stoppage of salary of the petitioners.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant : Om Prakash Ojha, Hritudhwaj Pratap Sahi, Prabhakar Awasthi, Sr. Advs.

Advs. for the Respondents : Tej Bhan Pandey, Prashant Shukla, Rahul Dubey.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Swarupama Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Om Prakash Ojha, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Tej Bhan Pandey, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. All three appeals being Special Appeal No. 530 of 2025, Special Appeal No. 608 of 2025 and Special Appeal (Defective) No. 656 of 2025, have been preferred against the common judgment and order dated 28.04.2025 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-A No. 49901 of 2016, Savitri Devi and 2 Others vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others, and the connected Writ-A No. 50483 of 2016, Girija Shankar Pandey vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others, whereby writ petitions filed by appellants here got dismissed.

3. Since common questions of law and fact arise in all appeals, all the appeals were heard together and are being decided by this common judgment. For the sake of clarity, the factual matrix of all connected matters has been considered conjointly, as the dispute emanates from rival groups within the management of the same institution and the facts are inextricably intertwined. While the common background has been narrated together, the cases of the individual teachers have been examined with reference to their respective dates of appointment, approvals, and service particulars. The present common judgment shall, therefore, govern all the connected matters, however, its application to each case shall operate independently and subject to the decision rendered on the individual merits of each matter.

4. The Junior High School in question was established in 1962-63 under the aegis of Shiksha Pracharani Sabha, Srinagar, Ballia, a society registered on 22.04.1963. The institution initially had temporary recognition up to 1976 and was granted permanent recognition in 1977. Singasan Sharma, Ram Kumar Ram and Girja Shankar Pandey, all three were appointed as Assistant Teachers in 1972, possessing the requisite qualifications. The appointment of Singasan Sharma was approved by the District Basic Education Officer on 20.12.1978, while the appointments of Ram Kumar Ram and Girja Shankar Pandey were approved on 18.04.1983. The institution was brought under the U.P. Junior High Schools (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other Employees) Act, 1978 in July 1984, and thereafter salary was paid from the State exchequer.

5. In the year 1982, disputes arose between rival Committees of Management, leading to various petitions being filed regarding the validity of the management and entitlement of teachers appointed by rival committees. The controversy culminated in Civil Misc. Writ Petition

Nos. 44607 of 1993, 15032 of 1995 and 25438 of 1996, which were decided by this Court by a detailed judgment dated 26.11.1998, holding one set of appointments to be valid and issuing specific directions for payment of salary from the State exchequer. The judgment was affirmed by dismissal of Special Appeal No. 1082 of 1998 on 21.05.2003, and the Special Leave Petition (C) No. 902 of 2007 was also dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on 05.02.2007. Despite this, salary was again withheld, leading to contempt proceedings and further administrative inquiries. Meanwhile, the recognition of the institution was withdrawn in March 2014, which got challenged separately.

6. In the year 2014, Public Interest Litigation No. 25033 of 2014 was filed. This PIL was related to scholarship and mid-day meal distribution. Pursuant to the PIL, an inquiry was conducted by a six-member committee. The committee also examined appointment-related documents and submitted its report dated 25.03.2015. On the basis of the report, the Director, Basic Education passed an order dated 27.03.2015, directing stoppage of salary. Being aggrieved by the order, the appellants filed Writ-A No. 49901 of 2016 and Writ-A No. 50483 of 2016. Both the writ petitions were dismissed by the learned Single Judge by judgment dated 28.04.2025.

7. In the impugned order, the learned Single Judge noted that the petitioners relied upon Rule 17 of the Rules for Grant of Gratuity to the Teachers of Aided Educational Institutions, 1960, contending that since the husband of original petitioner no.1 died in harness and petitioner no.3 retired after rendering service, their salary prior to withdrawal of recognition was payable and they were also entitled to family pension or pension. However, the learned Single Judge, relying upon the submissions of the State and the impleaded respondent no.5 in writ petition, found that the appointments of the petitioners and other employees were doubtful, as no appointment or approval documents were produced by the Committee of Management. It was observed that after withdrawal of recognition, its consequences would also fall upon the employees and the State exchequer could not be burdened with payment of pension or family pension to employees of a non-existent institution. The learned Single Judge further held that the approval letters issued by the concerned Basic Shiksha Adhikari in favour of the husband of Savitri Devi and other employees were found to be doubtful in later enquiry report, and therefore, learned Single Judge concluded that the petitioners were not entitled to any relief.

8. In Special Appeal No. 1082 of 1998, the fact was that Shri Lallan Tiwari, was appointed on 01.07.1977, which was approved on 22.05.1980. Since the institution was brought under the grant-in-aid scheme in 1984, and the respondent received salary from the State from 01.07.1984 to 21.01.1985. His services were terminated on 22.01.1985, and the termination was approved on 28th August 1985. Aggrieved, by this, he filed Writ Petition No. 11013 of 1985, wherein interim orders dated 10.09.1985 and 12.02.1988 directed payment of salary. Thereafter, Writ Petition No. 36951 of 1994 was decided on 21.11.1994, directing the District Basic Education Officer to decide the dispute relating to termination. Pursuant thereto, the DBEO passed an order dated 19.07.1995 revoking the respondent's suspension. Meanwhile, the dispute regarding the Committee of Management was finally decided by this Hon'ble Court by order dated 26.11.1998. The Special Appeal No. 1082 of 1998 filed against the said order was dismissed, and the challenge thereto was also rejected on 21.05.2003. The respondent has now sought recall of the orders dated 26.11.1998 and 21.05.2003, alleging that his termination was illegal.

9. In the background of aforesaid facts, learned counsel for appellants submits that once the validity of appointments and entitlement to salary had been conclusively adjudicated by this Court in its judgment dated 26.11.1998, affirmed in Special Appeal and further upheld by dismissal of the Special Leave Petition on merits, the issue attained finality and could not be reopened by administrative authorities or by the learned Single Judge.

10. To further support his contention, learned counsel for the appellants relies on the decision of the Supreme Court in Radhey Shyam Yadav v. State of Uttar Pradesh and Others*, (2024) 11 SCC 770, wherein Supreme Court examined the question whether a teacher, whose appointment had been approved by the competent authority and who had discharged duties for a considerable length of time, could be denied salary and service benefits on the ground of alleged irregularities in appointment. In this case the Supreme Court held that once an appointment is approved and the teacher has worked for years, salary cannot be withheld merely on the basis of procedural lapses or alleged irregularities attributable to the management or the authorities. It was further held that the State cannot be permitted to take advantage of its own lapse, or that of its officers, in granting approval and thereafter deny salary and service benefits. The Court emphasised that a teacher who is not at fault cannot be penalised for alleged mistakes of the management, especially when the employee has in fact rendered service and the employer has enjoyed the benefit thereof.

11. Learned Standing Counsel appearing for the respondent State, on the other hand, supports the impugned judgment and submits that subsequent inquiries and findings justified the action taken by the authorities. He further submits that the dismissal of Special leave petition cannot be seen as finality of the issue to opine that the High Court cannot review it.

12. Further, learned counsel for respondents placed reliance upon judgement of the Apex Court in Kunhayammed and others Vs State of Kerala and another*, (2000) 6 SCC 359, where Supreme Court has examined the legal implications and the impact of an order rejecting a petition seeking grant of special leave to appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution of India has arisen. It was held by the Supreme Court that the jurisdiction conferred by Article 136 of the Constitution is divisible into two stages. First stage is upto the disposal of prayer for special leave to file an appeal. The second stage commences if and when the leave to appeal is granted and special leave petition is converted into an appeal.

13. After hearing parties, following issues arise for consideration:

(i) Whether the issue of validity of appointment and entitlement to salary could be reopened after dismissal of special leave petition by the Supreme Court? And

(ii) Whether the appellants or their legal representatives are entitled to salary and consequential retiral benefits like gratuity and pension in the facts and circumstances of the case?

14. After going through pleadings and careful perusal of records, it appears that the appellant in Special Appeal No. 530 of 2025, Singasan Sharma, was appointed as Assistant Teacher on 10.07.1972 and joined on 15.07.1972, and his appointment was approved on 20.12.1978. Ram Kumar Ram (who died on 11.02.2013), are represented by his widow Savitri Devi, and one Girja Shankar Pandey, represented by his son Vineet Pandey, were both appointed on 11.08.1972, and their appointments were approved on 18.04.1983. Upon the institution being brought under the Payment of Salaries Act, all three were paid salary from the State exchequer. Salary was stopped intermittently between September 1992 to August 2007, and again after February 2009.

15. The disputes originated solely due to rival Committees of Management formed in 1982, which led to competing claims and multiple rounds of litigation. The controversy was finally adjudicated by this Court by judgment dated 26.11.1998, which upheld the appointments of one set of teachers and directed payment of salary. The said judgment was affirmed in Special Appeal on 21.05.2003, and the Special Leave Petition was dismissed on 05.02.2007. Thus, the issue of validity of appointment and entitlement to salary attained finality.

16. Subsequent administrative inquiries, including those arising out of a Public Interest Litigation, could not have the effect of reopening issues already settled by binding judicial pronouncements. Once judicial finality had been reached, the Director of Education lacked jurisdiction to negate the appointments or to stop salary on the basis of a general inquiry report although High Court having jurisdiction can examine all such actions which was required to be seen for the adjudication.

17. We considered the judgement of Supreme Court in Kunhayammed and others (supra) where Supreme Court has examined the effect of dismissal of the special leave petition at different stages and held that:

“A petition seeking grant of special leave to appeal may be rejected for several reasons. For example, it may be rejected

(i) as barred by time, or (ii) being a defective presentation,

(iii) the petitioner having no locus standi to file the petition,

(iv) the conduct of the petitioner disintitling him to any indulgence by the Court, (iv) the question raised by the petitioner for consideration by this Court being not fit for consideration or deserving being dealt with by the apex court of the country and so on. The expression often employed by this Court while disposing of such petitions are - heard and dismissed, dismissed, dismissed as barred by time and so on.

May be that at the admission stage itself the opposite party appears on caveat or on notice and offers contest to the maintainability of the petition. The Court may apply its mind to the meritworthiness of the petitioners prayer seeking leave to file an appeal and having formed an opinion may say dismissed on merits. Such an order may be passed even ex-parte, that is, in the absence of the opposite party. In any case, the dismissal would remain a dismissal by a non-speaking order where no reasons have been assigned and no law has been declared by the Supreme Court. The dismissal is not of the appeal but of the special leave petition. Even if the merits have been gone into, they are the merits of the special leave petition only. In our opinion neither doctrine of merger nor Article 141 of the Constitution is attracted to such an order. Grounds entitling exercise of review jurisdiction conferred by Order 47 Rule 1 of the C.P.C. or any other statutory provision or allowing review of an order passed in exercise of writ or supervisory jurisdiction of the High Court (where also the principles underlying or emerging from Order 47 Rule 1 of the C.P.C. act as guidelines) are not necessarily the same on which this court exercises discretion to grant or not to grant special leave to appeal while disposing of a petition for the purpose. Mere rejection of special leave petition does not take away the jurisdiction of the court, tribunal or forum whose order forms the subject matter of petition for special leave to review its own order if grounds for exercise of review jurisdiction are shown to exist."

18. In Kunhayammed and others (supra) Supreme Court has thoroughly examined all possible stages of hearing and consequently passed orders in the special leave petition and after detail deliberation, it was held that:

"To merge means to sink or disappear in something else; to become absorbed or extinguished; to be combined or be swallowed up. Merger in law is defined as the absorption of a thing of lesser importance by a greater, whereby the lesser ceases to exist, but the greater is not increased; an absorption or swallowing up so as to involve a loss of identity and individuality. (See Corpus Juris Secundum, Vol. LVII, pp. 1067-1068) We may look at the issue from another angle. The Supreme Court cannot and does not reverse or modify the decree or order appealed against while deciding a petition for special leave to appeal. What is impugned before the Supreme Court can be reversed or modified only after granting leave to appeal and then assuming appellate jurisdiction over it. If the order impugned before the Supreme Court cannot be reversed or modified at the SLP stage obviously that order cannot also be affirmed at the SLP stage."

19. After perusal of the records, and after hearing learned counsel representing all parties, and upon giving anxious consideration to the facts of the present case, we are of the view that the appointments of the appellants were approved by the competent authority and that they continued to discharge their duties for decades, during which period their salaries were paid from the State exchequer after the institution was brought within the purview of the Payment of Salaries Act. The record further establishes that the appellants actually worked and the State derived the benefit of their services for a substantial length of time. Any doubt on their appointment letter, even if got raised in the report after decades of their service, is not attributable to the appellants but arose due to a dispute in the management. In such circumstances, denial of salary and retiral benefits to the appellants is wholly unsustainable in law and runs contrary to the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in Radhey Shyam Yadav (supra). The State, having accepted their services and paid them for decades, cannot now be permitted to deny retiral benefits by reopening settled issues or by placing reliance on subsequent administrative inquiries. Equity, fairness and good conscience clearly demand that the appellants are held entitled to their consequential service and retiral benefits.

20. After going through Supreme Court judgement in Radhey Shyam Yadav (supra), and examining complete facts and circumstances of the appeals, we find the judgement is applicable of the facts of these appeals. Following paragraph demonstrates it clearer:

“19. In the inquiry, the appellants were not given any opportunity. Even in the inquiry held behind the back of the appellants, there were no findings of collusion or blameworthiness against them for the alleged manipulation. Even as on date, the appointment order dated 25.06.1999 and the approval order of 09.06.1999 have not been revoked. With no finding of guilt against the appellants and with no material against them, their salaries had been stopped and they have been prevented to sign on the regular attendance register, admittedly from October, 2005. The contention of the appellants is that they continued with their teaching work up till 30.03.2016 entering their names on a separate attendance register.”

21. For the reasons discussed hereinabove, this Court is of the considered view that the learned Single Judge was not legally precluded from examining the issues raised before him merely on the ground that the Special Leave Petition against the earlier judgment stood dismissed. Dismissal of a Special Leave Petition, particularly by a non-speaking order, does not by itself operate as a declaration of law, nor does it completely denude the High Court of its jurisdiction to examine subsequent actions, especially where such actions arise from fresh causes, administrative orders, or statutory inquiries. To that extent, the learned Single Judge was justified in examining the legality of the subsequent administrative orders and the material placed before him.

22. However, having regard to the undisputed factual position that the appellants were appointed in the early 1970s, their appointments were duly approved by the competent authority, and that they continuously discharged duties and were paid salary from the State exchequer for several decades, the denial of retiral benefits cannot be sustained. The long and uninterrupted service rendered by the appellants, coupled with payment of salary under the Payment of Salaries Act, constitutes a substantial and settled service record, which could not have been ignored while adjudicating their salary dues and entitlement to retiral benefits.

23. Even assuming that the authorities were entitled to scrutinize the validity of appointments at a certain stage, such scrutiny could not have the effect of effacing decades of service already rendered and accepted by the State, nor could it retrospectively deprive the appellants or their legal representatives of retiral benefits that flow from such service. Following table demonstrate service duration of three appellants in these appeals:

Particulars	Singasan Sharma	Ram Kumar Ram (Pradeep Kumar)	Girija Shakar Pandey (Vineet Pandey)
Date of Appointment	10.07.1972	11.08.1972	11.08.1972
Date of Approval by DBEO	20.12.1978	18.04.1972	18.04.1983
1st Salary Stop	September, 1992 till 02.08.2007	September, 1992 till 02.08.2007	September 1992 till 02.08.2007
2nd Salary Stop	1st March 2009	1st March 2009	1st March 2009
End of service	21.03.2014 (when recognition was withdrawn)	11.02.2013 (death)	21.03.2014 (when recognition was withdrawn)
Total time for which service recorded	41 years; 8 months and 11 days	40 years and 6 months	41 years: 7 months and 10 days
(i) From date of appointment	30 years and 20 days.	28 years; 7 months and 10 days	29 years; 8 months and 20 days.
(ii) From Grant in Aid

24. It is well settled principle in law that pension and other retiral benefits are neither ex gratia nor a matter of charity, but constitute deferred compensation for long and continuous service rendered by an employee. Once the employee has served till minimum years of eligibility for such benefits, denial of retiral benefits would be arbitrary and unjust. For the determination of gratuity of appellants, Rule 5 and 6 of the U.P. School and College Teachers Gratuity Fund' is required to be examined.

For ready reference Rule 5 is reproduced below:

“5. A gratuity equal to six times of pay any last drawn by a teacher at the time of his death while in service provided he has put in not less than three years continuous service before his death.

Notes (1) No gratuity will, however, be admissible to the family of a teacher whose death takes place after retirement or of a re-employed pensioner.

(2) 'Continuous Service' means all whole-time service whether temporary, officiating or permanent, rendered either in one or more of the State aided educational institutions of any of the categories mentioned in Rule 3 and includes all periods spent on leave on average pay, or on medical certificate, but it does not include leave without pay.”

25. Rule 6 of the U.P. School and College Teachers Gratuity Fund, makes the provision for the nomination for the gratuity by employee who fulfils the criteria for the same. Rule 6 provides as follows:

“6. A teacher covered by these rules, shall on completion of three years' continuous service make a nomination conferring on one or more members of his family, the right to receive any gratuity that may be admissible under these rules. The nomination shall be made in one of the attached forms as may be appropriated in the circumstances of the case.”

26. The law is to be interpreted in a way that it protects legitimate expectations of an employee who has served the institution for considerable time period. To determine pension eligibility in the facts of these appeals, Rule 17 of the 'Uttar Pradesh State Aided-educational Institution Employee's Contributory Provident Fund-Insurance-Pension Rules' provides that:

“17. An employee shall be eligible for pension on-

(i) retirement on attaining the age of superannuation or on the expiry of extension granted beyond the superannuation age.

(ii) voluntary retirement after completing 25 years of qualifying services;

(ii) retirement before the age of superannuation under a medical certificate of permanent incapacity for further service; and

(iv) discharge due to abolition of post or closure of an institution due to withdrawal of recognition or other valid causes.

Note (1) The age of compulsory retirement of an employee shall be such a prescribed in the relevant rules applicable to him.

The date of superannuation shall be reckoned from the date of birth of an employee as entered in his Service Book or other records. In case the year of birth only is known, but not the month, the first July of the year shall be taken as the date of birth, similarly when both the year and the month of birth are known, but not the date, the 16th of the month shall be taken as the date of birth.

(2) An employee may retire from service volunarily any time after completing 25 years of qualifying service, provided that he shall give in this behalf a notice in writing to the management at least 3 months before the date on which he wishes to retire.”

27. Rule 19 explains the conditions under which the employee would not be entitled for pension.

“19 (a) Service will not count for pension unless the employee holds a substantive post on a permanent establishment.

(b) Continuous temporary or officiating service followed without interruption by confirmation in the same or another post shall also count as qualifying service. (See also C.S.R. Para 422).

(c) Leave without allowance, suspension allowed to stand as a specific penalty, overstayed of joining time or leave not subsequently regularised, and period of breaks in service shall not be reckoned as qualifying service.

(d) Period of breaks between 2 periods of service due to termination of service, for no fault of the employee shall not be treated as interruption involving forfeiture of post qualifying service. In other cases breaks due to other causes shall result in forfeiture of past service unless condoned by Government.

(e) Time passed on earned leave shall fully count as qualifying service, but time passed on other kinds leave with allowances shall count as qualifying service as follows:

(i) If the total service is not less than 13 years, but less than 30 years, one year of such leave shall count as qualifying service;

(ii) If the total service is not less than 30 years, two years of such leave shall counts as qualifying service.

Notes (1) The term 'Earned Leave' means leave on full average pay.

(2) In case of a married woman employee time passed on maternity leave may be allowed to count as qualifying service, provided that the period covered by such leave and also earned leave shall not exceed what would have been admissible had she availed of the whole of the earned leave to which she was entitled under the rules.

(3) Total Service' means total service reckoning from the date of commencement of service qualifying for pension and includes periods of leave referred to above.

(4) The service put in by an employee before he has completed 18 years of age or after attaining the age of superannuation unless extended by competent authority or on re-employment after retirement shall not qualify for pension.

(5) The entry relating to confirmation of an employee in the service book shall be countersigned.

(6) In cases not covered by these rules qualifying service shall be determined by Government and its decision shall be final."

28. Therefore, equity, good conscience, and settled service jurisprudence mandates that salary dues, pension and gratuity benefits for services of Singasan, Girija and Ram Kumar Ram is required to be considered as they have completed more than 3 years continuous service for gratuity and more than 25 years of service for pension benefits as per Rule, should principles of the Gratuity Act apply, otherwise gratuity if payable under the service rule and where options are exercised and if not for any special circumstances, such teachers would be entitled to gratuity in the light of the judgment of this Court in the case of Usha Rani vs. State of U.P. and 6 Others (Neutral Citation No.- 2019:AHC:180910) and Guru Charan vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2022 SCC OnLine All 515. The situation of the appellants in the present case is no different from the individuals whose appointments were protected by Supreme Court in referred case. They were bona fide applicants who have got selected and served for decades. It will be a travesty of justice if relief is denied to the appellants for something which is done by rival groups in management committee at some point of time.

29. The impugned judgment dated 28.04.2025, therefore, is unsustainable upto the extent it upholds denial of retiral benefits, as the same has not considered the judgment of the Supreme Court in Radhey Shyam Yadav (supra) and also the admitted fact of long and continuous service over a prolonged period, which is much more than minimum required service years required as per Rules.

30. Accordingly, the conclusion of learned single judge denying retiral benefits is held to be not sustainable and require interference in these appeals and therefore, the impugned common judgment and order dated 28.04.2025 passed by learned Single Judge in Writ A No. 49901 of 2016 and connected case is set aside and consequently the special appeals no. 530 of 2025, 608 of 2025 and Special Appeal Defective No. 656 of 2025 are allowed and respondents are directed to release all admissible salary arrears to the appellants for the period they actually discharged duties.

31. The respondents are further directed to compute and pay all consequential retiral benefits, including gratuity and pension, as may be admissible in law along with interest, as may be applicable to the appellants, and in cases where an employee has died, to their legal heirs. The entire exercise shall be completed expeditiously, preferably within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this judgment.

32. In the matter of Special Appeal preferred by Lallan Tiwari, the controversy stood finally concluded as we have recorded above in the earlier part of the judgment that his termination of service. Order came to be finally approved by the authority and against which writ petition filed by the petitioner came to be dismissed on 26.11.1998 which stood further affirmed in the Special Appeal under the order of the coordinate Bench on 21.05.2003, review of which was also dismissed by the Bench vide order dated 16.12.2005.

33. In the circumstances, therefore, the case of Lallan Tiwari does not rest on the same footing as that of other appellants and hence we find no justification to now allow highly time barred recall application filed on 05.09.2012 in respect of the final judgment of coordinate Bench of this Court on 21.05.2003. We may further hold that once the judgment has attained finality and review application has also been dismissed by the Division Bench, neither any recall in respect of the judgment and order of the learned single judge was maintainable for the said judgment having been affirmed in the appeal, nor any recall application in respect of the order passed by the Division Bench would be maintainable in view of the fact that the review application had stood dismissed.

34. In the circumstances, therefore, we see neither any justification to condone the delay after more than nine years inasmuch as recall itself is not maintainable, hence, both the applications stand dismissed.

35. Thus all the other intra-court appeals and miscellaneous applications therein are disposed of accordingly. There will be no order as to cost.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Effect of two minor punishment for the incident not occurred at the work place or during the working hours on the entitlement of petitioner to cross the efficiency bar.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Constable in Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) – Non award of efficiency bar – Entitlement – Minor Punishment of withholding of annual increment for two consecutive years without cumulative effect for the misconduct that having witnessed a quarrel between two persons, which is not said to have taken place at the work place and Seven day's pay fine was awarded in 1988 and 1989 – Petitioner was declared NYF (not yet fit) and not 'unfit' – Effect – Efficiency Bar Board denied the petitioner crossing efficiency bar in 1991, 1992 and 1993 – Legality challenged. (E-1)

Held : The petitioner could not have been denied crossing efficiency bar for reasons which do not reflect adversely upon his efficiency to perform his official duties. Although the efficiency bar board was entitled to take a decision on the basis of the petitioner's service record, it could have denied the petitioner crossing the efficiency bar only if the record revealed that the petitioner was not efficient in performance of his duties – The use of the expression 'NYF' (not yet fit) indicates that the board was of the view that the unfitness of the petitioner was continuing since prior to the subject year. Had the petitioner been declared 'unfit', it would have reflected that the board had found the petitioner unfit during the subject year for crossing the efficiency bar on the basis of his performance in the subject year – None of the incidents show that the petitioner was not efficient in performance of his official duties. Therefore, the aforesaid incidents of the years 1988 and 1999 and punishments recorded in the service record of the petitioner do not give rise to a ground for denial to let the petitioner cross the efficiency bar during the subsequent years 1991, 1992 and 1993. Appearances for Parties

Adv. for the Petitioner : Manish Misra, Namit Sharma

Adv. for the Respondents : Dipak Seth, Dinesh Kumar Pandey, Krishna Kumar Pandey, Raj Kumar Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Manish Misra, the learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Raj Kumar Singh, learned counsel for Union of India.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has sought issuance of a Writ of Certiorari challenging the validity of Efficiency Bar Board proceedings published on 24.06.1993, so far as, the same relate to the petitioner. The petitioner had given representations against the order holding that the petitioner could not cross the efficiency bar and those representations have been rejected by means of orders dated 18.01.2005 & 31.02.2005 and the petitioner has challenged the validity of those orders also. The petitioner has sought issuance of a Writ of Mandamus commanding the respondents to pay all the dues of the petitioner as if, the petitioner had crossed the efficiency bar in the years 1991, 1992 & 1993.

3. The brief facts of the case are that the petitioner was appointed as a constable in Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) on 25.06.1987 in the pay-scale of ₹825-15-900-20, Efficiency Bar (EB)?20. After an increment given w.e.f. 01.06.1988, the petitioner's basic pay was increased to ₹870/- per month.

4. By means of an order dated 13.12.1988 (published on 07.02.1989), the petitioner was awarded a minor punishment of withholding of annual increment for two consecutive years without cumulative effect. Again, by means of an order dated 23.09.1991, the petitioner was awarded a punishment of seven days' pay fine. Due to withholding of annual increment for two consecutive years without cumulative effect, the increments due in the years, 1989 & 1990 were released on 01.06.1991 raising the petitioner's pay-scale to ? 900/-.

5. The increment payable upon crossing the efficiency bar was not granted to the petitioner as he was found "NYF" (not yet fit) by the Efficiency Bar Board in the proceedings conducted in the years 1991, 1992 and 1993 and, therefore, he was not granted the increments of Rs.20/- payable upon crossing the efficiency bar in the aforesaid years. Ultimately, the petitioner was declared 'fit' by Efficiency Bar Board in the year 1994 and thereupon, his basic salary was fixed as ₹920/- per month w.e.f. 01.06.1994. Subsequent increments were granted to the petitioner but due to non-crossing of efficiency bar for three consecutive years, the petitioner's salary became less than other similarly situated persons and this had a cumulative effect on the pension being paid to him.

6. The representations submitted by the petitioner against all non-award of efficiency bar raised to him, have been rejected.

7. Assailing the validity of the aforesaid orders, the learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the effect of punishment of withholding of two annual increments with non-cumulative effect got washed away in the year, 1990 when the annual increments were granted to him. The minor punishment of imposition of seven days' pay fine imposed on 04.11.1991, which would not have any other effect on the emoluments of the petitioner.

8. The respondents have filed a counter affidavit inter alia stating that in the year 1990?91, the petitioner was rated 'an average employee'. In the year 1992, he was rated 'good'. For this reason, the Efficiency Bar Board held on 02.06.1992 and 14.07.1993 that the petitioner was 'NYF' to cross the efficiency bar.

9. The orders dated 02.06.1992 & 14.07.1993 (copies whereof have been annexed with the counter affidavit filed by the respondents) merely state that the persons named in the orders, including the petitioner, had not been found fit to cross the efficiency bar by the competent authority. These orders do not assign any reason, as to why, the competent authority has not found the petitioner fit to cross the efficiency bar.

10. The learned counsel for the respondents has submitted that the Efficiency Bar Board has found the petitioner unfit for crossing the efficiency bar keeping in view his poor service record.

11. Replying to the aforesaid submission advanced by learned counsel for the respondents, the learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the chart, annexed with the counter affidavit, shows that in the year 1990, the petitioner was rated 'average' but no punishment was awarded to him. The petitioner was rated 'good' in the year, 1992. No adverse material has been brought on record to show that the petitioner was rated poorly in the year, 1993.

12. The learned counsel for the respondents has submitted that the Efficiency Bar Board has examined service record of the petitioner and due to his poor track record, the Board formed an opinion that the petitioner was 'NYF' to cross the efficiency bar.

13. The poor service record of the petitioner is relatable to award of two minor punishments to the petitioner in the year 1988 & 1989. "Efficiency bar" apparently relates to efficiency of an employee in performance of official duties. The petitioner had previously been imposed a minor punishment of stoppage of two annual increments without cumulative effect in the year 1988, for having witnessed a quarrel between two persons and, thereafter, having denied to have witnessed the same. Allegation against him was that he did not speak the truth. This allegation does not in any manner reflect badly on efficiency of the petitioner in performance of official duties. On the second occasion, the petitioner was said to have indulged into a quarrel outside the work place for which, a punishment of seven days' pay fine was imposed upon him and it also does not reflect poorly upon the efficiency of the petitioner to perform his official duties. Moreover, the petitioner has already been punished for both the alleged incidents.

14. Firstly, this Court is of the considered view that the petitioner could not have been denied crossing efficiency bar for reasons which do not reflect adversely upon his efficiency to perform his official duties. Although the efficiency bar board was entitled to take a decision on the basis of the petitioner's service record, it could have denied the petitioner crossing the efficiency bar only if the record revealed that the petitioner was not efficient in performance of his duties.

15. In the present case, the petitioner has not been allowed to cross the efficiency bar in the years 1991, 1992 and 1993, when he was declared NYF (not yet fit) and not 'unfit'. The use of the expression 'NYF' (not yet fit) indicates that the board was of the view that the unfitness of the petitioner was continuing since prior to the subject year. Had the petitioner been declared unfit, it would have reflected that the board had found the petitioner unfit during the subject year for crossing the efficiency bar on the basis of his performance in the subject year. The only adverse material available on the service record of the petitioner is two minor punishments, the first being stoppage of two annual increments without cumulative effect imposed in the year 1988 for the misconduct that having witnessed a quarrel between two persons, which is not said to have taken place at the work place or during the working hours, the petitioner declined having witnessed the incident and the second being entering into a quarrel for which 7 days' pay fine was imposed on the petitioner in the year 1999. None of the incidents show that the petitioner was not efficient in performance of his official duties. Therefore, the aforesaid incidents of the years 1988 and 1999 and punishments recorded in the service record of the petitioner do not give rise to a ground for denial to let the petitioner cross the efficiency bar during the subsequent years 1991, 1992 and 1993.

16. Secondly, for the aforesaid incidents of the years 1988 and 1999, the petitioner had already been punished. No person can be punished more than once for the same misconduct. Having already suffered the punishment of withholding of two annual increments with non-cumulative effects and seven days' pay fine, denial of crossing efficiency bar for the same reason has resulted in the salary of the petitioner being diminished with cumulative effect which effect is still continuing when the petitioner has attained the age of superannuation, as he is getting a lesser amount as pension. Thus, the denial of crossing efficiency bar has in effect resulted in a major punishment being awarded to the petitioner, for misconducts for which he had already been awarded two minor punishments.

17. In view of the aforementioned facts, I am of the considered view that the denial of crossing of efficiency bar to the petitioner was illegal and so was the rejection of his representations against the order denying crossing the efficiency bar.

18. Accordingly, the writ petition stands allowed. The Efficiency Bar Board proceedings published on 24.06.1993, so far as same relate to the petitioner, are quashed. A Writ of Mandamus is issued directing the respondents to treat the petitioner as having been crossed efficiency bar in the years 1991, 1992 & 1993 and they shall re-calculate the salary/pension payable to him accordingly and also pay the amount of arrears to him within a period of four months from the date, the certified copy of this order is produced before them.

(A) Service law – Constitution of India – Article 14 – Intelligible differentia – Reasonable classification – Benefit of pay protection – The candidates selected for the post of Police Constable through direct recruitment were divided into four batches for training for different periods – Appointment letters were also issued on different dates – The candidates of first batch were extended the benefit of pay protection treating them differently from other batches – Validity challenged – Contended on behalf of State that the different treatment accorded to candidates belonging to different batches, which are selected from the same list, is within the scope of Article 14 of the Constitution – Permissibility. (E-1)

Held : The training to be conducted in phases was necessitated solely by the infrastructural limitations faced by the appellant State and exigencies arising from the Covid-19 pandemic and not due to any intelligible differentia amongst the candidates in the select list. Therefore, depriving candidates placed under training on later batches, is grossly arbitrary and suffers the vice of hostile discrimination – While this Court accepts the existence of pandemic-related exigencies and infrastructural limitations but such external and temporary administrative compulsions cannot justify differential treatment among candidates belonging to a homogeneous class. The legal position governing permissible classification under Article 14 is too well settled to require elaboration and when tested on settled parameters, the justification offered by the appellant State does not withstand scrutiny. Advs. for the Appellant : Manish Goyal, Additional Advocate General; Tej Bhanu Pandey, S.C.

Advs. for the Respondents : R. K. Ojha, Sr. Advs.; Satyendra Chandra Tripathi, Aditya Prakash Verma, Ranjana Verma, Shailesh Verma

(Delivered by Hon'ble Swarupama Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Manish Goyal, learned Additional Advocate General, assisted by Sri Tej Bhanu Pandey, learned Standing Counsel, for the appellants in all the appeals, and Sri R.K. Ojha, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Satyendra Chandra Tripathi and Sri Aditya Prakash Verma, learned counsel for the respondents in their respective appeals.

2. All these appeals have been preferred against the common judgment and order dated 09.04.2025 passed by learned single-judge in connected writ petitions decided along with Writ A No. 10689 of 2024, Sita Ram Sharma & 13 Others Vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others, whereby the writ petitions filed by respondents herein were allowed and the Appellant no. 3 (herein) has been directed to surrender benefit of last pay protection to the petitioners therein, as the same has been given to the first batch of trainees, pursuant to U.P. Police Constable Recruitment 2018 and appropriate order shall be passed and consequential benefit of maximum 30 days from the date of presentation of certified copy of the said order.

3. The appellant State of Uttar Pradesh has raised identical issue in all these appeals, and therefore, they were heard together and are being decided by this common order. The core question involved in all appeals is that whether candidates placed in the same selected list, could be treated as different class, based on the date of their respective appointment letters and the date mentioned for their training. The factual details regarding candidates in each appeal, such as their past service details, the date of appointment letter and date mentioned in the letter for their training period, may differ.

4. For convenience, the factual details are being taken from Special Appeal No. 1240 of 2025, as the same was leading petition in the judgment and order dated 09.04.2025 passed by the learned single-judge, however, the outcome of the present common order shall apply to all connected matters. Only factual difference being the number of respondents/candidates in the connected appeals.

5. After perusal of records in this consolidated group of Special Appeal matters, it appears that all respondents herein are former members of the Indian Armed Forces, having been enrolled at different points in time in various regiments. It further appears that each respondent was discharged or retired upon due completion of his term of engagement. Notwithstanding differences in their individual periods of service, the common fact emerges across these matters is that all respondents had concluded their military service and got selected after following due procedure and secured their place in the same selection list, which is the subject of these batch of appeals.

6. Learned Additional Advocate General, appearing for the State, submits that the select list prepared pursuant to the direct recruitment of October 2018 did not conclude the process of appointment, as training forms an integral component of the process. He submits that, owing to the restrictions imposed during the Covid-19 pandemic, it became necessary for the State to conduct the training of selected candidates in phased manner, and therefore, appointment letters were issued on different dates corresponding to the respective training phases of the candidates. It is further submitted that the U.P. Directorate of Police Training, by its order dated 25.07.2020, divided the selected candidates into four batches for training on separate dates and for different periods. Thereafter, the first batch commenced training in August 2020 for a period of six months. The second batch commenced in March 2021 for six months. The third batch commenced in October 2021 for six months, and the fourth batch commenced in May 2022, also for a period of six months.

7. According to the learned Additional Advocate General, the State was well within its authority to prescribe different pay structure for candidates scheduled to go for training in different batches, at different point in time, and appellant State was further justified in giving appointment letter to candidates in other batches without offering same pay protection, which was granted to members who went for training in the first batch. It is also submitted that the select list cannot be regarded as a homogeneous class for all purposes, and that the State is justified in placing the later three batches on a distinct footing from the first batch, which had already completed training earlier to other batches

8. It is undisputed that the first batch, which completed its training in January 2021, was extended the benefit of pay protection. The principal contention advanced by the learned Additional Advocate General is that the differential treatment accorded to candidates belonging to different batches, which are selected from the same list, is within the permissible scope of Article 14 of the Constitution of India, and therefore the State is entitled to prescribe distinct pay structures for the four batches that commenced training at different points in time.

9. In support of his submission, learned Additional Advocate General has placed reliance upon Rules 19 of the Uttar Pradesh Police Constable and Head Constable Services Rules, 2015, which is reproduced below for easy reference:

“Rule - 19. Training.

(1) (a) The candidates finally selected to the posts of constable under Rules 15 and 16 shall be required to pass the training prescribed by the Head of the Department. Provisions of Police Training College Manual shall be effective on the cadets during the basic training. If the candidate finally selected for basic training does not report for training within the prescribed time limit then his selection/candidature shall be cancelled.

(b) Re-examination of the cadets failing in basic training shall be organized by the Head of the Department after doing supplementary training. The proceeding for termination of service of candidates failing in examination of training after supplementary training shall be done by the Appointing Authority.

(2) The candidates appointed by promotion under Rule 17 shall be required to complete the training prescribed by the Head of the Department."

10. Learned Additional Advocate General, contends that candidates finally selected to the post of Constable are mandatorily required to undergo and pass the basic training prescribed by the Head of the Department, failing which their selection is liable to be cancelled. It is submitted that the Rule also empowers the authorities to conduct supplementary training and re-examination, and to terminate the services of candidates who fail even thereafter, while candidates appointed by promotion are likewise required to complete the prescribed training and therefore, until training is complete, the State is at liberty to provide changes in the salary structure because the selection process is not complete.

11. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for the respondents submits that the action of the State is in violation of fundamental right to equality guaranteed under Article 14 of the Constitution of India. He further submits that the respondents were selected pursuant to the recruitment process initiated in 2018 for the posts of Constables in the Civil Police and PAC and were duly placed in the ex-servicemen category in the result declared in March 2020. He further contends that the Government Order dated 23.12.2020, insofar as it provides that all appointments made after the said date shall not be entitled to pay protection, are not acceptable, being contrary to the settled principles of law, particularly when all candidates are placed in the same select list. It is further submitted that candidates appointed in the first phase were extended the benefit of pay protection, which fact has been consistently admitted by the State Government.

12. Learned counsel for respondents further relies upon Manilal vs. State of Rajasthan, AIR 2024 SC 4404, and submits that all the candidates who were selected pursuant to a common selection would constitute a single homogeneous group and discrimination inter se among this homogeneous group is in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution. He also relies upon Mahesh Narayan and others v. State of U.P. and others, Writ A No. 55606 of 2008 decided on 19.12.2019 decided by this High Court. Relying upon above judgments, learned counsel contends that such a distinct treatment can only be justified on some intelligible differentia, which does not exist in facts of these cases.

13. Learned counsel appearing for the respondents also responds to the argument advanced by the Learned Additional Advocate General regarding training i.e., Rule 19 of the U.P. Police Constables and Head Constables Rules, 2015. According to him, the learned single-judge has rightly observed that the training is an exercise for selected candidates and no more stage of selection remained to be attended, once selected list was prepared for the candidate to be sent for training for appointment purposes. He further relies upon Rule 18 of the U.P. Police Constables and Head Constables Rules, 2015, which is reproduced below for easy reference:

“Rule - 18. Appointment.

(1) Subject to the provisions of Rules 15 and 16 the appointing authority shall make appointment by taking the names of candidates in the same order in which they stand in the list prepared under clause (g) of Rule 15. The appointing authority shall issue the appointment letter to the candidates with the direction that they should report for service/training within one month of the date of issue of the letter or any date specified for this purpose in the appointment letter. If he does not do so his selection/appointment shall be cancelled:

Provided that any person appointed to a post in the service prior to the commencement of these rules and is working on the post, shall be deemed to have been substantively appointed under these rules.

(2) If more than one order of appointments are issued in respect of any one selection under Rule 17, then a combined order shall also be issued, mentioning the names of the persons in order of seniority as determined in the selection or, as the case may be, as it stood in the cadre from which they are promoted:

Provided that any person appointed before the commencement of these rules to a post in the service and working on that post shall be deemed to have been substantively appointed under these rules and such substantive appointment shall be deemed to have been made under these rules.”

14. Placing reliance on the aforesaid provision, learned counsel for the respondents submits that Rule 18 contemplates issuance of the appointment letter to candidates selected under Rules 15 and 16, and only then Rule 19 requires such candidates to report for training. Learned counsel for the respondents submits that the scheme of the Rules clearly demonstrates that the appointment letter precedes the training, and therefore, the training cannot be treated as a part of the selection process, as has been rightly held by the learned single-judge, since the training is to be conducted after the appointment.

15. We have heard learned counsel for the appellants/State as well as learned counsel for the respondents and have perused the record, including the findings recorded by the learned single-judge. Certain foundational facts are not in dispute. All candidates, irrespective of the batch in which they were subsequently deputed for training, were selected pursuant to the same recruitment advertisement issued in October 2018. The select list was common, the selection process uniform, and the appointments were inseparably linked to the same recruitment exercise.

16. From simple perusal of records, it appears that all appointment letters pertain to appointments made pursuant to the same direct recruitment of October 2018, originating from a single advertisement and selection process. It is also not the case of any party that the advertisement led to the select list has stipulated any such classification or category-wise distinction. Moreover, the State has not demonstrated that placing candidates to be sent in four different phases for training were attributable to any rational classification.

17. In the light of aforesaid discussion, we are of the considered view that the training to be conducted in phases was necessitated solely by the infrastructural limitations faced by the appellant State and exigencies arising from the Covid-19 pandemic and not due to any intelligible differentia amongst the candidates in the select list. Therefore, depriving candidates placed under training on later batches, is grossly arbitrary and suffers the vice of hostile discrimination.

18. Complete basis of the argument of the learned Additional Advocate General is that the phased training itself created four different categories, thereby enabling the State to prescribe different pay structures to withhold pay protection from the respondents who formed part of the later batches.

19. While this Court accepts the existence of pandemic-related exigencies and infrastructural limitations but such external and temporary administrative compulsions cannot justify differential treatment among candidates belonging to a homogeneous class. The legal position governing permissible classification under Article 14 is too well settled to require elaboration and when tested on settled parameters, the justification offered by the appellant State does not withstand scrutiny.

20. In The State of West Bengal Vs. Anwar Ali Sarkar (1952) 1 SCC 1, Supreme Court has held that the classification should not be vague, uncertain or elusive. To pass the test of equality as per Article 14 of the Constitution of India, the classification must be based upon an intelligible differentia because the purpose of the Article 14 is to protect every person from arbitrary discrimination, whether occasioned by the express terms of a statute or by the improper application of a statute. Any classification must rest upon an intelligible differentia having a rational nexus with the object sought to be achieved, failing which, such classification results in impermissible discrimination.

21. In Direct Recruit Class II Engineering Officers? Association v. State of Maharashtra (1990) 2 SCC 715, Supreme Court has held that candidates forming part of the same recruitment notification and selection process constitute a single class for the purpose of service benefits. Regarding determination of seniority the Apex Court has held that once the incumbent is appointed to a post according to rule, his seniority must be counted from the date of his appointment and not according to the date of his confirmation. Applying this principle, the completion of training cannot be considered as a point to be considered for creating a sub-class amongst candidates placed in same select list.

22. The appellants have not pointed to any statutory rule which authorizes the State to create sub-categories within a select list for the purpose of pay fixation or pay protection. Indeed, the State's own stand is that the phased dispatch for training was compelled solely by administrative necessity. Administrative exigency, even when bona fide, cannot be elevated to a constitutionally permissible differentia under Article 14. To permit such a course would enable the State to fragment uniform entitlements on the basis of arbitrary or accidental circumstances, a practice repeatedly disapproved by the Supreme Court.

23. The learned single-judge was therefore, correct in holding that the respondents and other similarly situated candidates, who were selected through the same recruitment process of October 2018, could not be deprived of pay protection and service benefits extended to the first batch of candidates, sent for the training, earlier. Upon independent application of constitutional standards, we find no infirmity in the conclusion recorded by learned single-judge.

24. For the reasons recorded herein above, we are of the view that the differentiation made by the appellants State among candidates placed in the same select list, based solely on the dates on which they were sent for training, constitutes an impermissible classification in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

25. The benefit of pay protection and the corresponding pay structure, extended by the State to the first batch, cannot be withheld from candidates of the second, third, and fourth batches who were part of the same recruitment process and placed in the same selection list.

26. We, therefore, find no ground to interfere with the judgment of the learned single-judge. The batch of special appeals accordingly fails and is dismissed. The direction issued by the learned single-judge to extend pay protection and consequential benefits to the respondents and all other similarly placed candidates is affirmed. The State shall ensure compliance within twelve weeks from the date of this order. No order as to costs.

27. Pending applications, if any, stands disposed of.

Issue for Consideration

- (1) Entitlement of Statistical Assistant to get IInd promotional pay scale in the light of G.O. dated 02.12.2000, 03.09.2001 and 20.08.2004.
- (2) Binding effect of Judgment and order of the Supreme Court dismissing the SLP against the decision of R.P. Shukla's case.
- (3) Correctness of R. P. Shukla's case entitling the Statistical Assistant to get IInd promotional pay scale.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Post of Statistical Assistant – IInd promotional pay scale – Entitlement – Petitioner sought benefits of R.P. Shukla's case, in which the entitlement of second promotional pay scale on the post of Statistical Assistant had been decided – Matter was referred to larger Bench looking into two conflicting views expressed by two different Division Bench in R. P. Shukla's case and Ashok Tomar's case – Effect of G.O. dated 02.12.2000, 03.09.2001 and 20.08.2004 as well as the applicability of Rules of 1994 felt into consideration. (E-1)

Held : Where the system of promotion is on the basis of seniority-cum-fitness as well as merit/ higher qualification/ merit, those posts will not be considered as promotional posts for admissibility of time scale pay scale. In such cases, subject to fulfillment of other conditions, the next higher pay scale as explained in Para 4(1) of Government Order dated December 2, 2000, would be payable – In view of above and the aforesaid applicability of the Rules of the U.P. Town and Country Planning Service Rules, 1987, the criteria for promotion to the next post of the petitioners is merit, therefore, it will not qualify as next promotional post for the purpose of grant of time scale/second promotional pay scale in view of Paragraph No. 6 of the Government Order dated 20.08.2004. [Para 25 and 29]

Held further : The order dated 10.04.2006 was passed by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of R.P. Shukla, in regard to a similarly situated employee on the basis of Government Order dated 02.12.2000 and the Government Order dated 03.09.2001 but without considering the Government Order dated 20.08.2004, by means of which the Government Order dated 02.12.2000 was clarified and in-operation at the time of passing of the aforesaid judgment holding that the Government Orders issued under Article 162 of the Constitution of India on 02.12.2000 and 03.09.2001 have full force of law and they hold the field, whereas by that time the Government Order dated 20.08.2004, clarifying the said Government Orders had come into force and was also holding the field – Division Bench in the case of R.P. Shukla had proceeded in deciding the case of the similarly situated employee in that case on misreading of the Rule and without considering the Government Order dated 20.08.2004, which had come into force, therefore, the petitioners are not entitled for any benefit of the said judgment. [Para 31 and 32]

(B) Interpretation of Statute – Meaning of word 'kept' – Binding effect of dismissal of SLP by the Supreme Court – The Civil Appeal filed against the decision of the Division Bench passed in the R.P. Shukla's case under Article 136 of the Constitution was dismissed by Supreme Court vide Judgment and order dated 13.07.2011 and kept question of law open – How far, dismissal of SLP against R.P. Shukla's decision came in the way of deciding the reference made to Larger Bench. (E-1)

Held : The dictionary meaning of 'kept' is 'to retain in once possession or power' or 'to have control' as per Merriam Webster Dictionary and as per Oxford Dictionary, 'kept' means 'actively to hold in possession'. Thus, the Hon'ble Supreme Court kept the question of law involved in Civil Appeal open, while dismissing the petition under Article 136 of the Constitution of India, which is a discretionary power of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and in view of above, we are of the view that the issue stands decided by Division Bench of this Court in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra) and the question of law kept open by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, may be considered and decided by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in an appropriate case and not by the Court/Bench, who has decided the issue. However, since the Civil Appeal has been dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court without exercising discretionary power under Article 136 of the Constitution of India, therefore, other remedies may be available, such as, Review or the decision as may be taken by the Larger Bench in case of reference to Larger Bench as per law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. (1) The following question has been referred to be decided by the larger Bench:-

"Whether the petitioners are entitled for the promotional pay scale or for the next pay scale as per the Service Rules applicable on them and Government Order dated 2.12.2000 as clarified by the Government Orders dated 3.9.2001 and 20.8.2004 or any other Government Orders issued thereafter"

(2) The petitioner, Jai Prakash Sharma and others, approached this Court by means of Writ Petition No.99 (SS) of 2013; Jai Prakash Sharma and Others Vs. State of U.P. and Others, claiming second promotional pay scale of Rs.8000-13500/- on completion of 24 years of service on the ground that the entitlement of second promotional pay scale on the post of Statistical Assistant had been decided by the Court vide judgment and order dated 10.04.2006 passed in Special Appeal No.1011/2005; R.P. Shukla Vs. State of U.P. and another and the Special Leave Petition preferred against the said judgment before the Apex Court had been dismissed. The Court, by means of the order dated 22.01.2013, disposed of the writ petition with direction to the State of U.P. through Principal Secretary, Housing & Urban Planning, Lucknow to take appropriate decision in accordance with law. Similar order was passed in Writ Petition No.439(SS) of 2013; Narain Prasad Gupta and Others Vs. State of U.P. and Another on 30.01.2013 and another similar Writ Petition No.896(SS) of 2013; Vijay Singh Tomar Vs. State of U.P. and Another was decided in aforesaid terms by means of order dated 20.02.2013.

(3) In compliance of the aforesaid orders, the representations of the petitioners therein were decided by means of the Office Memorandums dated 23.07.2013, 19.08.2013 and 16.08.2013 respectively in reference to the orders passed in the respective writ petitions. Jai Prakash Sharma and Others challenged the orders passed on the representations before this Court in Writ Petition No.4460(SS) of 2013; Jai Prakash Sharma and Others Vs. State of U.P. and Another, which was partly allowed and a writ of certiorari was issued quashing the order dated 23.07.2013 with a direction to consider the case of the petitioners for grant of promotional pay scale of Rs.8000-13500/- with effect from the date the same became due to the petitioners in terms of the Government Order dated 02.12.2000 and considering the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra). Similarly Narain Prasad Gupta and others challenged the order passed on their representation in Writ Petition No.5469 (SS) of 2013, which was also allowed by means of the order dated 28.08.2019 in identical terms as passed in case of Jai Prakash Sharma and Others (Supra). Vijay Singh Tomer also challenged the order passed on his representation in Writ Petition No.5483 (SS) of 2013; Vijay Singh Tomar Vs. State of U.P. and Another, which was also allowed by means of the order dated 28.08.2019 in identical terms as passed in the case of Jai Prakash Sharma and Others (Supra).

(4) The State of Uttar Pradesh challenged the orders passed by the learned Single Judge in intra-court appeals bearing Special Appeal No.250 of 2020; State of U.P. and Another Vs. Ashok Tomar and Another, Special Appeal No.271 of 2020; State of U.P. and Another vs. Narain Prasad Gupta and Others and Special Appeal No.273 of 2020; State of U.P. and Another vs. Jai Prakash Sharma and Others.

(5) The Division Bench in Special Appeal No.250 of 2020; State of U.P. and Anr. Vs. Ashok Tomar and Another alongwith other connected appeals, after considering the Government Order dated 02.12.2000, which was clarified by means of Government Orders dated 03.09.2001 and 20.08.2004 and noticing Rule 16 of the U.P. Town and Country Planning Service Rules, 1987 held that the persons, who have completed the requisite qualifying service for the benefits claimed, would be entitled for the next pay scale and not the promotional pay scale of the post of Statistical Officer. The relevant paragraph is extracted here-in-below:-

"According to the said rule recruitment by promotion in the case of Statistical Officer shall be made on the basis of merit. In view of this rule and also the non-applicability of the Rule 1994 as referred above on account of the post of Statistical Officer falling within the purview of U.P.S.C. as per the provisions contained in Rule 5 (1) (11) of the aforesaid rules, 1987, there is no doubt that the criteria for promotion to the said post is merit and therefore, it will not qualify as a next promotional post for the purpose of grant of time scale/promotional pay scale in view of part no. 5 of G.O. dated 20.08.2004, as already referred. It being so what would be available to the persons who have completed the requisite qualifying service for the aforesaid benefits would be the next pay scale and not the promotional pay scale of the post of Statistical Officer. This aspect has not been considered by the writ court."

(6) Thereafter, the Division Bench considered as to whether and how far the decision rendered in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra) in Special Appeal No.1011 of 2005 would apply to the case at hand and observed as under:-

"Now the question to be considered is as to whether and how far the decision of a Division Bench rendered in the case of R.P. Shukla Vs. State of U.P. and others Special Appeal No. 1011 of 2005 will apply to the case at hand. In the said case which also pertains to a Statistical Officer of the same service, who had claimed a similar benefit as claimed by respondent(s) herein there is an observation as pointed out by learned counsel for opposite party to the effect - "certain regular promotions are being made in accordance with service rules as per seniority-cum-merit". We have perused the rules of 1987, which are referred in the immediately preceding line wherein the aforesaid observations have been made by the Division Bench but we do not find any such provision in the rules 1987. The criteria for promotion is merit and not seniority or seniority-cum-rejection of unfit or seniority-cum-merit. The preparation of eligibility list for consideration for promotion under the U.P. Promotion by Selection in consultation with Public Service Commission (Procedure) Rules, 1970 is a different matter and said rules do not lay down the criteria for promotion which remains as merit. Therefore, we are unable to persuade ourselves to take a view contrary to the clear provision Rule 16 of the Rules, 1987. Learned counsel for opposite party also invited our attention to another portion of the said judgment wherein the stand of the opposite party therein in the counter affidavit that "such promotion is based on the basis of merit (as per provision of service rules) not on the basis of seniority, so as per the time scale of government order, he is not entitled for the promotional scale as claimed by him have been referred by the Division Bench of this Court in R.P. Shukla's case'. After referring to the said stand in the counter affidavit, the Division Bench thereafter proceeded to consider that other similarly placed with the petitioner had been granted the benefit as claimed by R.P. Shukla based on paragraph 1 (2) and 1 (4) of the Government Order dated 02.12.2000 and in this context it is also observed that on being questioned to clarify the situation referred to above no details could be furnished by the opposite party to justify their action as to why it could not be made available to the appellant while similarly situated Statistical Officer got the benefit of the Government order (supra). The Court relied on Article 14 of the Constitution of India to grant same benefit to R.P. Shukla as had been granted to others. With respect, Rule 16 of the Rules, 1987 very clearly provides that the promotion to the post of Statistical Officer shall be based on merit. It nowhere says that it shall be based on seniority-cum-merit or seniority-cum-rejection of unfit. Therefore, so far as the legal question is concerned, in the light of the policy decision already referred in above, whenever the next promotional post is to be filled on the basis of criteria of merit then while granting the time scale/promotional pay scale the pay scale of such promotional post shall not be available as the next promotional pay scale/time scale to the person who has fulfilled requisite qualifying service, instead, it is the next pay scale, which would be available. We also find from the judgment of R.P. Shukla's case that government order dated 20.08.2004 wherein this position has been clarified has neither been referred nor considered. The Government Order dated 20.08.2004 and the clarification therein with respect to point no. 6 has not been considered nor referred in the said judgment. Now in this context as we have been informed that the judgment in R.P. Shukla's case was the subject matter of challenge before the Supreme Court and special leave petition, after being converted into Civil Appeal, was dismissed on 13.07.2011, therefore, we have perused the said order. The order dated 13.07.2011 passed by Supreme Court of India reads as under:-

"We have heard learned counsel for the appellants and the respondent in person.

On the facts of the case and without going into the merits, particularly, the respondent is a retired person, we are of the opinion that this is not a fit case to exercise our discretion under Article 136 of the Constitution of India. The appeal is dismissed with no orders as to costs. However, the question of law is kept open."

The Supreme Court even while dismissing the civil appeal has kept the question of law open for consideration meaning thereby in subsequent cases this question of law as to what is the policy of the government and whether the pay scale of the Statistical officer would be available to the Statistical Assistants as a matter of right in the light of the policy dated 02.12.2000 and the clarifications issued thereafter or not, is open for reconsideration, which we have done as aforesaid and on such consideration we find that legal position in this regard is as has been clarified/declared here-in-above, therefore, no benefit accrues to the respondent(s) merely because the special leave petition of the State of U.P. filed against the judgment in R.P. Shukla's case was dismissed after being converted into civil appeal as the question of law in this regard was left open for our consideration."

(7) It was further observed that 22 similarly placed persons are said to have been granted the next promotional pay scale of the Statistical Officer as time scale/promotional pay scale under the aforesaid policy, but upon consideration as to whether they have been granted the said benefit under the aforesaid policy or not and if they have been granted, what would be its effect on the rights of the respondent, if any, and found that there is no specific assertion in the memo of writ petition as to who are the 22 persons and when they were granted the aforesaid benefit nor the circumstances in which they were so granted and remitted the matter to the learned Single Judge for considering accordingly.

(8) Upon remand, the learned Single Judge, upon hearing the aforesaid writ petitions, observed that the question of law had been kept open by the Hon'ble Supreme Court but the same does not amount to setting aside of the order of the Division Bench. It considered the law in this regard as settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Shree Chamundi Mopeds Ltd. Vs. Church of South India Trust Association CSI Cinod Secretariat, Madras; 1992 (3) SCC 1, wherein it was held that unless a judgment is set aside by a superior Court, law settled by it remains in force. In this backdrop, the learned Single Judge noticing divergent views taken by the two Division Benches i.e. in R.P. Shukla (Supra) and Jai Prakash Sharma (Supra), referred the aforesaid question for decision by a Larger Bench. The relevant paragraph No.5 is extracted here-in-below:-

"5. The question of law is left open by the Supreme Court, but the same does not amount to setting aside of the order of the Division Bench. Law in this regard is settled by the Supreme Court in the case of Shree Chamundi Mopeds Ltd. vs. Church of South India Trust Association CSI Cinod Secretariat, Madras, 1992 (3) SCC 1, that unless a judgment is set aside by a superior Court, law settled by it remains in force. This Court is expected to maintain judicial discipline and once the decision of the earlier Division Bench was not disturbed by the Supreme Court and question of law was left open to be decided by the appropriate Court and later Division Bench has taken a different view, judicial discipline expects that the matter ought to be decided by a Larger Bench instead by a Single Judge accepting any one of the aforesaid views....."

(9) In pursuance of above order passed by learned Single Judge, a Division Bench was constituted. The Division Bench passed an order in Writ A No.4460 of 2013; Jai Prakash Sharma and Others Vs. State of U.P. and Another considering the Allahabad High Court Rules and directed to place the matter before the Hon'ble Chief Justice in view of the fact that the learned Single Judge has referred the matter to the Larger Bench noticing two conflicting views expressed by two different Division Benches of this Court, therefore, it would be more appropriate that the matter be sent to the Hon'ble Chief Justice for considering formation of Larger Bench i.e. the Bench comprising of more than two Hon'ble Judges. Consequently, the Larger Bench has been constituted by the Hon'ble Chief Justice.

(10) At this stage, it will be relevant to notice that the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Shree Chamundi Mopeds Ltd. (Supra), observed that a distinction has to be made between quashing of an order and stay of operation of an order and held that quashing of an order results in the restoration of the position as it stood on the date of the passing of the order which has been quashed and the stay of operation of an order does not, however, lead to such a result. It only means that the order which has been stayed would not be operative from the date of the passing of the stay order and it does not mean that the said order has been wiped out from existence. Thus, it is only after quashing of the order, the same would stand wiped out, otherwise not and if it has not been quashed by the Superior Court, it would hold the field and binding on the Court, who passed the order. The relevant portion of paragraph No.10 is extracted here-in-below:-

"10. While considering the effect of an interim order staying the operation of the order under challenge, a distinction has to be made between quashing of an order and stay of operation of an order. Quashing of an order results in the restoration of the position as it stood on the date of the passing of the order which has been quashed. The stay of operation of an order does not, however, lead to such a result. It only means that the order which has been stayed would not be operative from the date of the passing of the stay order and it does not mean that the said order has been wiped out from existence. This means that if an order passed by the Appellate Authority is quashed and the matter is remanded, the result would be that the appeal which had been disposed of by the said order of the Appellate Authority would be restored and it can be said to be pending before the Appellate Authority after the quashing of the order of the Appellate Authority. The same cannot be said with regard to an order staying the operation of the order of the Appellate Authority because in spite of the said order, the order of the Appellate Authority continues to exist in law so long as it exists, it cannot be said that the appeal which has been disposed of by the said order has not been disposed of and is still pending....."

(11) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the Civil Appeal filed against the order passed by the Division Bench in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra), dismissed the Special Leave Petition by means of order dated 13.07.2011 and kept question of law open, which is reproduced in the order of Division Bench, which has been quoted in paragraph No.6 above.

(12) In view of above, the Civil Appeal against the Division Bench order, passed by this Court in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra) has been dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court i.e. the Superior Court. However, while dismissing the Civil Appeal, the Hon'ble Supreme Court kept the question of law open. The dictionary meaning of 'kept' is 'to retain in once possession or power' or 'to have control' as per Merriam Webster Dictionary and as per Oxford Dictionary, 'kept' means 'actively to hold in possession'. Thus, the Hon'ble Supreme Court kept the question of law involved in Civil Appeal open, while dismissing the petition under Article 136 of the Constitution of India, which is a discretionary power of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and in view of above, we are of the view that the issue stands decided by Division Bench of this Court in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra) and the question of law kept open by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, may be considered and decided by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in an appropriate case and not by the Court/Bench, who has decided the issue. However, since the Civil Appeal has been dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court without exercising discretionary power under Article 136 of the Constitution of India, therefore, other remedies may be available, such as, Review or the decision as may be taken by the Larger Bench in case of reference to Larger Bench as per law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

(13) A Division Bench, in the case of Commissioner of Income Tax Vs. Itegra Engineering India Ltd.; 2013 SCC OnLine Guj 7389, in an identical case, held that where the Hon'ble Supreme Court kept the question of law open, it cannot be said that the said question of law is kept open by the Hon'ble Supreme Court to consider subsequently by this Court / Co-ordinate Bench. It can be said that the said question of law is kept open by the Hon'ble Supreme Court to consider subsequently in other cases by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. Thus, the decision of the Division Bench of the said Court found to be bounded unless a contrary view is taken and the matter is referred to the Larger Bench. The relevant paragraph No.10 is extracted herein below:-

"10. Now so far as the submission made by learned counsel appearing on behalf of the revenue that though against the decision of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of General Motors India (P) Ltd. v. Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax (supra), as such, Special Leave to Appeal was preferred before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the same came to be dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on the ground of delay and kept the question of law open, this Court may consider the question of law raised on merits is concerned, the same cannot be accepted. It is required to be noted that as such, consideration of the question raised with respect to set off of unabsorbed depreciation on merits, there is a direct decision of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of General Motors India (P) Ltd. v. Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax (supra). Against the said decision, the Special Leave to Appeal was preferred and the same came to be dismissed on the ground of delay and the Hon'ble Supreme Court kept the question of law open. Therefore, it can not be said that the said question of law is kept open by the Hon'ble Supreme Court to consider subsequently by this Court-Coordinate Bench. It can be said that the said question of law is kept open by the Hon'ble Supreme Court to consider subsequently in other cases by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. So far as this Court is concerned, the decision of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of General Motors India (P) Ltd. v. Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax (supra) is binding unless a contrary view is taken and the matter is referred to the Larger Bench. In view of the decision of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of General Motors India (P) Ltd. v. Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax (supra) which has been relied upon by the learned ITAT while passing the impugned judgment and order, as such, no question of law much less any substantial question of law arises now."

(14) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Khoday Distilleries Limited (Now Known a Khoday India Limited) and Others Vs. Sri Mahadeshwara Sahakara Sakkare Karkhane Limited, Kollegal (Under Liquidation) Represented by the Liquidator; (2019) 4 SCC 376, has held that Article 136 of the Constitution of India opens with a non-obstante clause and conveys a message that even in the field covered by the preceding articles, jurisdiction conferred by Article 136 is available to be exercised in an appropriate case. It has further been held that no right of appeal is conferred upon any party; only a discretion is vested in the Supreme Court to interfere by granting leave to an applicant to enter in its appellate jurisdiction not open otherwise and as of right and enumerated legal position in the subsequent part of paragraph 19 and reiterated the conclusions recorded in the case of Kunhayammed & Ors. Vs. State Of Kerala & Anr.; (2000) S SCC 359, in which it has been held that an order refusing special leave to appeal does not stand substituted in place of order under challenge. Thus, in case the appeal is dismissed in limine, the Review would be maintainable and the issue may also be considered by a Larger Bench on reference.

(15) Heard Sri Ram Pragat Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Vimal Kumar Srivastava, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Prafulla Yadav, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel and Sri Pratul Kumar Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

(16) Learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that the petitioners are entitled for the second promotional pay scale of Rs.8000-13500/- on completion of 24 years of service under the Government Order dated 02.12.2000 as the claim of the petitioners has wrongly and illegally been rejected on the ground that subsequent to Government Order dated 02.12.2000, a clarificatory Government Order dated 20.08.2004 was issued, in which at Serial No.6, it has been clarified that those posts, which are to be filled on the basis of seniority-cum-suitability or on the basis of merit, the pay scale of the said posts would not be extended for the purpose of grant of benefit in terms of the Government Order dated 02.12.2000 rather the next pay scale would be given in case the employee fulfills the conditions stipulated under the said Government Order because 22 similarly situated employees have been granted benefit of the second promotional pay scale. Considering it, a Division Bench of this Court, in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra), by means of order dated 20.04.2006, directed the respondents to grant benefit of the second promotional pay scale of Rs.8000-13500/- to the appellant/petitioner therein with all consequential benefits. The said judgment passed by this Court was put to challenge before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Civil Appeal No.272/2007 by the State Government, which has been dismissed by means of the order dated 13.07.2011. Thus, the submission is that once the Division Bench of this Court has decided the issue and directed for extending the benefit of promotional pay scale to a person, similarly situated, challenge to which came to be dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, the respondents cannot adopt a different yardstick so far as the case of the petitioners is concerned. Thus, it has been submitted that the petitioners are fully entitled for grant of promotional pay scale of Rs.8000-13500/- with effect from the date, they completed 24 years of service.

(17) He further submitted that even otherwise except the petitioners, all the employees of the cadre of the petitioners have been given benefit of second promotional pay scale either by the Government itself or on the direction issued by this Court in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra), therefore, also the petitioners are entitled for benefit of the second promotional pay scale on the basis of parity. It has also been submitted that now the cadre has changed, therefore, after the petitioners, no other employee would be eligible or entitled for the aforesaid claim. Thus, submission is that the petitioners are entitled for benefit of the second promotional pay scale.

(18) Per contra, learned Additional Advocate General vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the petitioners. He submitted that the petitioners are not entitled for the benefit of second promotional pay scale under the Government Order dated 02.12.2000, as it was clarified by means of the Government Order dated 20.08.2004. He further submitted that though the Government Order dated 20.08.2004 had come into existence but the same was not considered by the Division Bench of this Court in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra), therefore, the petitioners are not entitled for any benefit of the Division Bench judgment and the dismissal of challenge to the Division Bench judgment by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. He further submitted that on account of the Government Order dated 20.08.2004, the petitioners are not entitled for any parity of the other employees, to whom the benefits have been given by the Government or under the order passed by this Court. He also submitted that except the second promotional pay scale, all the admissible benefits accrued to the petitioners have been extended by the Government. Thus, the submission is that the petitioners are not entitled for the second promotional pay scale and the benefit of the judgment rendered in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra). It has also been submitted that none of the similarly situated employee was given benefit of the Government Order dated 02.12.2000 by the Government as they had retired prior to the said date. Thus, the reference is liable to be answered accordingly and the petitions are liable to be dismissed.

(19) We have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records, Government Orders and relevant Rules.

(20) The petitioners were working as Statistical Assistant. They claimed that on account of the said working, they are entitled for second promotional pay scale of Rs.8000-13500/- in terms of the Government Order dated 02.12.2000, considering which the Division Bench of this Court, in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra), has also extended the benefit to the similarly situated employee, whereas they have been given pay scale of Rs.5500-9000/- only.

(21) In view of the question referred to the Larger Bench, it is to be considered by this Bench as to whether the petitioners are entitled for the promotional pay scale or for the next promotional pay scale as per Service Rules applicable on them and Government Order dated 02.12.2000 as clarified by Government Orders dated 03.09.2001 and 20.08.2004 or any other Government Orders issued thereafter.

(22) The Government, for resolving the problem of stagnation at different levels in service and the hardship faced by the employees on account of the same and lack of adequate promotional avenues, introduced the provision for providing time bound financial benefits and the scheme for time bound pay scale at different levels on the recommendation of the Pay Commission. Consequently, the aforesaid Government Orders were issued in continuance of the earlier Government Orders, which were clarified time to time as demanded and required. The criteria for said financial benefits were fixed by the Government Orders keeping in view the Service Rules applicable on the employees so that employees may not have any financial loss on account of stagnation in service for various reasons.

(23) The Government Order dated 02.12.2000 has been issued providing time bound pay-scales on the recommendation of pay-committee (1997-99). It provides in paragraph No.1(4) that the second promotional/next pay scale will be admissible individually to each regular employee on minimum 24 years of service including continuous satisfactory service of 5 years from the date of admissibility of one increment as per Para-1(3) mentioned in personal promotional/next pay scale. The relevant paragraph 1(4) in Hindi alongwith it's translation in English, as submitted by State, is quoted herein below:-

द्वितीय वैयक्तिक प्रोन्नतीय / अगला वेतनमान:- प्रत्येक नियमित कर्मचारी को वैयक्तिक प्रोन्नतीय / अगले वेतनमान में उपर्युक्त प्रस्तर-1(3) के अनुसार एक वेतनवृद्धि का लाभ अनुमन्य होने की तिथि से 5 वर्ष की अनवरत संतोषजनक सेवा सहित न्यूनतम 24 वर्ष की सेवा पर वैयक्तिक रूप से द्वितीय प्रोन्नतीय / अगला वेतनमान अनुमन्य होगा। ऐसे कर्मचारी जिनके संवर्ग में प्रोन्नति के पद उपलब्ध नहीं हैं उनको उस वेतनमान का अगला वेतनमान वैयक्तिक रूप से देय होगा।	Second personal promotional/next pay scale:- Second promotional/next pay scale will be admissible individually to each regular employee on minimum 24 years of service including continuous satisfactory service of 5 years from the date of admissibility of one increment as per Para-1(3) mentioned in personal promotional/ next pay scale. Such employees in whose cadre the post of promotion is not available, the next pay scale of that pay scale will be paid individually.

(24) The aforesaid Government Order was clarified by the Government Order dated 03.09.2001. The relevant paragraph

No.2(ka) of the said Government Order provides that the employees who have not been allowed two promotional/next pay scale (or two promotions) in respect of direct recruitment post till the date of completion of 24 years of service, but who have received a promotion and they are regular on the post of direct recruitment, they should be allowed individually second promotional/next pay scale in respect of the post of direct recruitment from the date of completion of 24 years of satisfactory service or dated 1.3.2000, which ever is later. The relevant paragraph No.2(ka) in Hindi alongwith it's translation in English, as submitted by State, is quoted herein below:-

	dated 1.3.2000, which ever is later.

(25) The Government Orders dated 02.12.2000 and 03.09.2001 were further clarified by means of the Government Order dated 20.08.2004. The relevant paragraph No.6 of which provides that promotional post for a post holder for admissibility of personal promotional pay scale under time scale pay scale system means that post, on the basis of Service Rules or executive orders, the concerned employee is promoted on the basis of seniority-cum-suitability. In such a situation, where the system of promotion is on the basis of seniority-cum-fitness as well as merit/ higher qualification/ merit, those posts will not be considered as promotional posts for admissibility of time scale pay scale. In such cases, subject to fulfillment of other conditions, the next higher pay scale as explained in Para-4(1) of Government Order dated December 2, 2000, would be payable. The relevant paragraph No.6 in Hindi alongwith it's translation in English, as submitted by State, is quoted herein below:-

Government Order dated 20.08.2004 (In Hindi)	Government Order dated 20.08.2004 (In English)

आदेशों के आधार पर सम्बन्धित कर्मचारी की प्रोन्नति वरिष्ठता - कम- उपयुक्तता के आधार पर की जाती हो। ऐसी स्थिति में जिन पदों पर पदोन्नति की व्यवस्था वरिष्ठता- कम - उपयुक्तता के साथ ही साथ योग्यता / उच्च अर्हता / मेरिट के आधार पर हो, वे पद समयमान वेतनमान की अनुमन्यता हेतु पदोन्नतीय पद नहीं माने जायेंगे। ऐसे मामलों में अन्य शर्तों की पूर्ति की दशा में अगला उच्चतर वेतनमान जैसा कि शासनादेश दिनांक 2 दिसम्बर, 2000 के प्रस्तर-4(1) में स्पष्ट किया गया है, देय होगा।	system means that post on the basis of service rules or executive orders, the concerned employee is promoted on the basis of seniority-cum-suitability. In such a situation, where the system of promotion is on the basis of seniority-cum-fitness as well as merit/ higher qualification/ merit, those posts will not be considered as promotional posts for admissibility of time scale pay scale. In such cases, subject to fulfillment of other conditions, the next higher pay scale as explained in Para-4(1) of Government Order dated December 2, 2000, will be payable.

(26) In view of above, in terms of paragraphs No.1(4) of the Government Order dated 02.12.2000, as clarified by means of the Government Order dated 03.09.2001 and the Government Order dated 20.08.2004, benefit of second promotional pay scale would be admissible to a regular employee on minimum 24 years of service including continuous satisfactory service of 5 years from the date of admissibility of one increment as per Para-1(3) mentioned in personal/promotional/next pay scale, in case, he has received a promotion and is regular on the post of direct recruitment on the basis of Service Rules or executive orders on the criteria of seniority-cum-suitability but where the system of promotion is based on the criteria of seniority-cum-fitness as well as merit/higher qualification/merit, those posts will not be considered as promotional posts for admissibility of time scale pay scale and in such cases, subject to fulfillment of other conditions, the next higher pay scale as explained in Para-4(1) of the Government Order dated 02.12.2000 would be payable.

(27) Adverting to the facts of the present case, the next promotional post of the petitioners was Statistical Officer. The provisions of U.P. Town and Country Planning Service Rules, 1987 are applicable on the service of the petitioners. The Rule 16, thereof, provides that the promotion on the post of Statistical Officer shall be made on the basis of merit. Rule 16 is extracted herein below:-

"16. Recruitment by promotion in the case of Assistant Town Planner, Assistant Planner, Personal Assistant (Technical), Assistant Architect, Assistant Engineer, Statistical Officer and Research Officer shall be made on the basis of merit and in the case of Town Planner, Associate Planner, Senior Planner, Senior Architect, Executive Engineering on the basis of seniority subject to the rejection of the unfit from amongst the eligible candidates in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Promotion by Selection in Consultation with Public Service Commission (Procedure) Rule 1970 as amended from time to time."

(28) The U.P. Government Servants (Criterion for Recruitment by Promotion) Rules, 1994 is not applicable on the service of the petitioners as amended time to time in view of the provisions made therein, in which the next promotional post of Statistical Officer falls within the purview of U.P.P.S.C., therefore, the criteria for promotion mentioned therein will not prevail or apply over the criteria, which is mentioned in the Statistical Service Rules pertaining to the service/cadre in question.

(29) In view of above and the aforesaid applicability of the Rules of the U.P. Town and Country Planning Service Rules, 1987, the criteria for promotion to the next post of the petitioners is merit, therefore, it will not qualify as next promotional post for the purpose of grant of time scale/second promotional pay scale in view of Paragraph No.6 of the Government Order dated 20.08.2004. It may also not be good in the interest of service and may create heart burning among the officers because the persons, who could not be promoted on the promotional post on the criteria of merit, may get the promotional benefits, which may have been acquired by the promotees on the criteria of merit. Even otherwise it does not seem to be just and proper that an employee may get the promotional pay scale of a post of merit without being judged on merit and without the responsibilities of the said post.

(30) The aforesaid Government Orders have also not been challenged by any of the parties. Even otherwise the provision for time bound pay scale on completion of certain period, subject to fulfillment of certain conditions, was made only to provide the relief on account of stagnation at various levels. However, the promotional pay scale without assuming the responsibility of promotional posts and discharging the same cannot be granted because, if it is granted, it may adversely affect the efficiency of administration. The Hon'ble Supreme, in the case of Union of India Vs. M.V. Mohanan Nair; (2020) 5 SCC 421, has held that the object behind the MACP Scheme is to provide relief against the stagnation. If the arguments of the respondents are to be accepted, they would be entitled to be paid in accordance with the grade pay offered to a promotee; but yet not assume the responsibilities of a promotee.

(31) The order dated 10.04.2006 was passed by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra), in regard to a similarly situated employee on the basis of Government Order dated 02.12.2000 and the Government Order dated 03.09.2001 but without considering the Government Order dated 20.08.2004, by means of which the Government Order dated 02.12.2000 was clarified and in-operation at the time of passing of the aforesaid judgment holding that the Government Orders issued under Article 162 of the Constitution of India on 02.12.2000 and 03.09.2001 have full force of law and they hold the field, whereas by that time the Government Order dated 20.08.2004, clarifying the said Government Orders had come into force and was also holding the field. The relevant portion is reproduced as under :-

"Keeping in mind the view of the Hon'ble Apex Court, we are of the view that the Government Orders issued under Article 162 of the Constitution of India on 2.12.2000 and 3.9.2001 have full force of law and they hold the field. Thus appellant can successfully claim the benefit of the Government Orders. Appellant is entitled to next promotional pay scale in accordance with para 1(2) of the Government Order dated 2.12.2000 and para 1(4) of the Government Order dated 3.9.2001. Thus, on this count we are in respectful disagreement with the finding of the learned Single Judge that appellant is not entitled to next promotional pay scale."

(32) The Division Bench also observed that the petitioner's services is regulated by the Service Rules of 1994 and he is entitled for promotional avenues as per Rules of 1987 and certain regular promotions are being made in accordance with Service Rules and as per seniority-cum-merit. Thus, the avenues of promotion is available to the petitioner and other similarly situated officers as per Service Rules and there is no denial from the side of the appellant about the same, whereas the Service Rules of 1994 are not applicable on the services of the petitioners and the criteria in the Service Rules of 1987 for promotion on the next post of Statistical Officer is merit and not seniority-cum-merit or seniority subject to rejection of unfit. Therefore, we are of the view that the Division Bench in the case of R.P. Shukla (Supra) had proceeded in deciding the case of the similarly situated employee in that case on misreading of the Rule and without considering the Government Order dated 20.08.2004, which had come into force, therefore, the petitioners are not entitled for any benefit of the said judgment.

(33) In view of above, we are of the view that the petitioners are not entitled for the promotional pay scale as per the Service Rules applicable on them and the Government Order dated 02.12.2000 as clarified by means of the Government Orders dated 03.09.2001 and 20.08.2004. No Government Orders issued subsequent thereto has been pointed out by learned counsel for the petitioners, on the basis of which, the petitioners may be entitled for the promotional pay scale, as claimed.

(34) One of the argument of learned counsel for the petitioners was that now the cadre has changed, therefore, after the present petitioners, no other employee in the cadre of the petitioners would be eligible or entitled for the aforesaid claim. This submission is based on the principle of parity with the employees, who have been granted the benefit under the aforesaid Government Orders by the Government or on the orders passed by this Court, which can be considered by the learned Single Judge only subject to the pleading in this regard of the petitioners and considering the law on the issue. However, it is noticed that the respondents had argued that none of the similarly situated employee was given benefit by the Government under the Government Order dated 02.12.2000 and they had retired prior to that also, therefore, if the petitioners had completed 24 years of service prior to the said Government Order and eligible under any prior Government Order or scheme, it can also be considered by learned Single Judge subject to pleading and not by this Bench.

(35) The reference is answered accordingly.

(36) Let the matter be placed before the learned Single Judge within next two weeks for appropriate decision in the matter.

 Writ A No. 8766 of 2025

Awadhesh Kumar Chaudhary ...Petitioners
Versus
State Of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

- (1) Legality of termination order obtained by mentioning higher marks in application forms.
- (2) Applicability of doctrine of estoppels, where a candidate misrepresented material particulars.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Termination – Assistant teacher – Charge of mentioning higher marks in application forms to get selection and appointment – Though the petitioners had efficiently discharged their duties for almost five years and were holding regular and permanent appointments, but their services were dispensed with – Not following the procedure as specified under the Rules of 1973 and 1999 was claimed – Permissibility – Doctrine of estoppels – Applicability – Issue of categorization of advantageous and disadvantageous positions felt into consideration. (E-1)

Held : Submission of false or incorrect information with the intent of securing an undue benefit amounts to misrepresentation and fraud, and any appointment or advantage obtained on the basis of such false information is liable to be cancelled – Entering higher marks than actually obtained is not a mere clerical lapse but a deliberate act capable of altering the merit position, therefore it cannot be regularised under the guise of 'human error'. Any undue advantage so obtained is illegal and vitiates the selection itself – It is a cardinal principle of service jurisprudence that fraud vitiates every solemn act. A candidate who enters the selection process by misrepresenting material particulars, such as academic marks that constitute the very basis of merit-based recruitment, cannot invoke the equitable doctrine of estoppel. [Paras 29, 31 and 32]

Held further : The issue of categorization of advantageous and disadvantageous positions has been considered by the Apex Court in the case of Jyoti Yadav – Wherever mistakes committed by the candidates actually put them at a disadvantage as against their original entitlement or the variation could be one attributable to the University or issuing authority, an exception was made by said Communication. The reason for treating these two categories of candidates differently cannot thus be called irrational – Admittedly, case of the petitioners nos. 5, 6 & 7 in Writ-A No. 8734 of 2025, namely, Preeti, Manish Kumar Mahaur and Rinku Singh and petitioner no. 1 – Sweetie Shokeen in Writ-A No. 8766 of 2025 fall within the criteria of disadvantage, thus, their appointments are based on the merit criteria they possess. Case Arising From Impugned order dated 21.05.2025 passed by the respondent no. 3 terminating the service of petitioner.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for the Petitioner : Ashok Khare, Senior Advocate, Yatindra, Siddharth Khare, Kamlesh Kumar Tiwari

Adv. for the Respondents : Standing Counsel, Mrs. Archana Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. The petitioners have preferred instant writ petitions challenging orders dated 09.05.2025 and 21.05.2025 passed by respondent no. 3¹ and respondent no. 4² respectively, whereby services of the petitioners have been terminated on the ground of mentioning increased marks in the application forms submitted by them while applying for the posts of Assistant teachers.

2. Facts of the case, in brief, are that the State Government issued a Government Order dated 01.12.2018 notifying the holding of Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination 2019³ for the appointment against 69000 posts of Assistant Teachers. The petitioners, being eligible for the posts of Assistant Teachers, applied pursuant to the said advertisement. They were issued admit cards for appearing in the ATRE 2019. Pursuant thereto, the petitioners participated in the said examination conducted on 06.01.2019. The result of ATRE 2019 was declared on 12.05.2020, wherein names of the petitioners were shown as qualified candidates.

3. After being declared qualified in ATRE 2019, the State Government issued a Government Order on 13.05.2020 for consideration of the appointments of selected candidates as Assistant Teachers. In pursuance thereof, petitioners applied for the appointment. Thereafter, a final select list was published on 01.06.2020. In the said list, the petitioners were shown to have been duly selected and they were allotted District Kushinagar. The petitioners participated in the counseling conducted by the BSA, Kushinagar. Initially some objections stood against the petitioners' appointment, therefore, the BSA published a list of 39 candidates, whose cases were kept pending on account of such objections. For rectification of said discrepancies, the matter was considered at the level of the State Government, whereafter Government Orders dated 04.12.2020 and 15.01.2021 were issued. Pursuant to the said orders, the candidates were required to furnish individual affidavits before the BSA. After consideration of petitioners' cases, appointment orders were issued by the BSA in favour of the petitioners.

4. The petitioners joined their services in the office of District Basic Education Officer, Kushinagar. Thereafter, they were given postings on 08.09.2021 in their respective schools run by the U.P. Board of Basic Education. Since the date of their joining, the petitioners had been performing their duties with due diligence and sincerity, however, the respondent no. 3 terminated their services by the order impugned dated 21.05.2025 in compliance with the instructions issued by respondent no. 2 in its order dated 09.05.2025, on the ground that the petitioners had filled up higher marks in their application forms than they actually secured. The said orders are being assailed by means of present writ petition.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the petitioners possess the requisite qualifications as required for the post of Assistant Teacher. They were fulfilling all required eligibility criteria as on the date of submission of their respective application forms. It is contended that a number of candidates were denied appointment on account of non-fulfillment of required eligibility criteria as on 22.12.2018, which was the last date for submission of application forms. Such candidates preferred writ petition before this Court which was dismissed by order dated 24.03.2025. Said order was subject matter of challenge in Special Appeal Nos. 350 of 2025⁴ and Special Appeal Defective No. 336 of 2025⁵. Learned Counsel for the petitioners further contends that the aforementioned special appeals were decided vide judgement and order dated 15.05.2025, however, the observations so made therein have no applicability regarding petitioners' appointment.

6. It has been argued by learned counsel for the petitioners that the petitioners had efficiently discharged their duties for almost five years and they were holding regular and permanent appointments, thus, their services cannot be dispensed with without following the procedure as specified under the U.P. Basic Education Staff Rules, 1973 read with U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioners next submits that non-existent objections have been cited in the orders impugned as the respondent authorities were duly aware of the minor discrepancies and they had taken remedial measures for rectification of alleged discrepancies in accordance with the Government orders/ and circulars issued in that regard.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioners further contends that the petitioners have served for five years and there has been no complaint regarding their functioning, thus, action of the respondent authorities terminating the petitioners' services is of extreme nature that too without following the due procedure as prescribed under the relevant Rules, which is liable to be set aside by this Court.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioners next submits that the list detailing 39 applicants, whose cases were kept pending on account of objections, was published. For example, in the case of petitioner - Preeti, it has been mentioned that she did not participate in the re-counseling. Likewise, in the case of petitioner - Manish Kumar Mahaur, the variation in marks was on account of revised marks issued by the University. Though, said objections were not in existence.

10. Despite minor discrepancies, that existed with regard to a large number of candidates, all over the State, for rectification of the same, the matter was accorded consideration at the level of the State Government and the educational authority based on the relevant Government Orders dated 04.12.2020, 15.01.2021 and circulars dated 16.12.2020, 18.01.2021 and 19.01.2021. Pursuant to which, the district authorities proceeded to take remedial measures. During the course of said proceedings, the petitioners were required to furnish their individual affidavits before the District Basic Education Officer, Kushinagar. After full consideration of individual cases, on the basis of individual affidavits as furnished, the petitioners were issued appointment letters and they joined accordingly.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioners contends that once the correct information was furnished by way of individual affidavits and appointment letters were issued after scrutiny, there was no occasion to cancel the petitioners' appointments on non-existent grounds. Thus, the impugned orders are arbitrary, illegal and discriminatory. He further submits that once an opportunity was given to rectify the mistake of entering enhanced marks in the application forms and the same was duly rectified, and the petitioners were offered appointments, therefore, passing of the impugned orders is barred by the 'principle of estoppel'.

12. It is further argued that services of the petitioners cannot be dispensed with in a manner as adopted in the present case that too after a lapse of five years from the date of appointment and without following proper procedure as prescribed under law. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that as per the settled legal position the remedial power can be exercised only within a reasonable period. Such an exercise after a lapse of five years, during which the petitioners have been continuously working, is arbitrary and unreasonable. There has been no concealment or misrepresentation of facts on the part of the petitioners while filling up application forms and it must be taken as human error which could have been ignored.

13. Challenging the orders impugned, learned counsel for the petitioners further contends that neither any malpractice on the part of the petitioners has been proved nor there is any fraud or misrepresentation has been established against them, therefore, the order impugned is unsustainable. In support of his submissions, relying upon a judgment of Apex Court in the case of Radhey Shyam Yadav and another vs State of U.P. and others⁶, he further submits that the petitioners cannot be held responsible for an irregularity committed by the authorities in computation of marks that too after the petitioners were appointed following detailed scrutiny of the records.

14. Learned counsel for the petitioners has also relied upon a judgment of a Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Ajay Kumar and others vs. State of U.P. and others⁷, wherein the petitioners had wrongly disclosed in their application forms that they had passed B.T.C. Course and incorrectly mentioned the marks obtained in the said course, although they had passed B.T.C after few days of the registration and, later on, made corrections in this regard when opportunity was granted to them, could not be said to have misrepresented before the authorities, thus, their appointments could not have been declared void ab initio. The Court, while entertaining the plea in the said case, observed that pursuant to subsequent circulars issued by the respondents, as the petitioners had already cured the bonafide mistake committed by them by rectifying the errors and disclosing the correct results, the impugned order therein declaring the appointments void ab initio, was no more in existence, therefore, they were entitled to continue in service. The petitioners in the present case, on similar circumstances, who had rectified their discrepancies by placing correct marks, are also entitled for the same relief.

15. Learned counsel for respondent nos. 3 & 4 submits that the impugned orders were passed after due verification of the petitioners' records, wherein the entries made by them in their application forms were found to be incorrect during the course of verification of their original records. She further submits that the discrepancies cannot be ignored because the said wrongful information had affected the entire fate of the examination, on the basis of which the petitioners secured appointment though they were not eligible for it. She further submits that the petitioners' claim is barred by the ratio of the judgement dated 21.05.2020 passed in the case of Ram Sharan Maurya and

Others v. State of U.P. and Others⁸, wherein it has been held that the candidates who placed themselves in an advantageous position by furnishing incorrect information in the online application forms, cannot be permitted to derive any benefit, as it would be violative of the doctrine of fairness and equality.

16. It has been further argued by learned counsel appearing for respondent nos. 3 & 4 that in view of the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Subedar Singh and Others v. State of U.P.⁹, the petitioners are not entitled for any consideration. Only those candidates who, on account of inadvertent error, placed themselves in a disadvantageous position could be granted benefit of rectification. The appointments of candidates who had placed themselves in an advantageous position, by filling incorrect information, were rightly cancelled.

17. Learned counsel for respondent nos. 3 & 4 has drawn attention of the Court to Clause-2 of the Government Order dated 04.12.2020, which has been brought on record at Page-44 of short counter affidavit. She submits that as per the said Government Order, only those who are in disadvantageous position, due to inadvertent error, were permitted for rectification as per rules. In case of such candidates, who have filled incorrect details in the online application form which resulted their placement in an advantageous position, their candidature be cancelled forthwith.

18. It has further been contended by learned counsel for respondent nos. 3 & 4 that the petitioners cannot claim equity as cancellation of their candidature was on the basis of incorrect information regarding marks, based upon which they secured appointments. She has tried to demonstrate the anomalies found during verification of records, drawing attention of the Court to the following details mentioned in tabulated form:

Sl. No.	Registration Number	Name of Petitioner	Marks filled in online application form	Actual marks obtained as per record

19. Learned counsel for respondent nos. 3 & 4 has relied upon various orders passed in the matters of incorrectly filled application forms by the candidates at the time of filling up application forms. In such cases the Courts have dealt with the issue of inadvertent mistakes and the deliberate attempt to place himself/herself in advantageous position. Observations of the Courts passed in few cases, upon which learned counsel for the respondent nos. 3 & 4, has relied upon, are as follows:

i. Special Appeal No. 834 of 2013¹⁰:

If prospective teacher can not even correctly fill up the simple on line application form for his employment, it is obvious what he is going to teach if appointed. There are certain decisions cited on this issue. But none of them deal with this aspect whether under the discretionary jurisdiction of the Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India such incompetent persons should be allowed to play with the future of the next generation.

Therefore, we are of the opinion that the petitioner/appellant should wait till he attains sufficient maturity and learns to be more careful in filling up the applications for jobs. The appeal is therefore, dismissed.

ii. Writ-A No. 4070 of 2020¹¹:

20. The error committed by the candidates cannot be said to be human in nature. The petitioners should have read the instructions that were issued time and again and should have correctly filled the entries relating to the marks obtained by them in their previous examinations. The contention that this was an error committed by the Computer Operator cannot simply be accepted. If the Courts were to accept such a plea of the petitioners, then this would result in a situation where the petitioners would get the benefit of a wrong if the wrong claim went unnoticed and if noticed the petitioners could always turn around and claim that this was a result of a human error. Each candidate necessarily must bear the consequences of his failure to fill up the application form correctly. From perusal of the record, I am of the opinion that the error/errors committed by the petitioners are neither minor nor are human error/errors.

21. In view of the facts as narrated above as well as the law laid down by the different Division Bench of this Court from time to time as well as by the Apex Court, no relief could be granted to the petitioners.

22. The writ petition is dismissed.”

iii. Writ-A No. 11079 of 2020¹²:

“On an overall conspectus of the aforesaid discussion the Court comes to the following conclusions. A permission to rectify and amend entries made in the online applications would be clearly impermissible in light of the caveats carried in the advertisements and notices issued by the respondents as well as the declarations made by the candidates themselves while participating in the recruitment process. It would not only be iniquitous but also detrimental to public interest to command the respondents to permit rectifications at the fag end of a recruitment exercise which commenced in December 2018. The stipulations contained in the advertisements and notices issued were never assailed by the petitioners prior to participating in the recruitment process. It would be unfair not just to the respondents but to the other selected candidates to now accord them such permission which would necessarily result in the selection process being stalled and derailed. This Court as well as the Supreme Court has consistently taken the view that such a course being tread would be wholly unfair and unwarranted. The Court repels the challenge to the Government Order of 4 December 2020 being contrary to the mandate of Rule 14. It also negatives its challenge on the ground of being discriminatory or unfair.

These petitions shall consequently stand disposed of with liberty to the State respondents to evaluate the case of each of the petitioners before this Court in light of the Government Order dated 4 December 2020.”

20. Learned counsel for respondent nos. 3 & 4 contends that the applicants have deliberately shown their marks higher than they actually secured in their academics, which is evident from their academic records, thus, they are not entitled to be considered for being granted benefit of any ignorance in view of the observations made in Subedar Singh (supra).

21. I have heard Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Yatindra, learned counsel for the petitioners, learned Standing Counsel for the State and Mrs. Archana Singh, learned counsel for respondent nos. 3 and 4.

22. The petitioners applied against 69000 posts of Assistant Teachers. They were selected and joined their services. By the impugned order dated 21.05.2025 issued pursuant to the order of respondent no. 2 dated 09.05.2025 appointments of all teachers who have been placed in an advantageous position by mentioning higher marks than they actually secured, were directed to be cancelled.

23. Questioning the termination of petitioners’ services, learned counsel for the petitioners contended that the petitioners have served for about five years, thus, their services cannot be dispensed with without following the procedure as provided under the U.P. Basic Education Staff Rules, 1973 read with U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999, however, he has failed to satisfactorily respond the objections raised by learned counsel for respondent nos. 3 & 4 that the petitioners have mentioned higher marks than those actually secured except the petitioner nos. 5, 6 & 7, in Writ-A No. 8734 of 2025, namely, Preeti, Manish Kumar Mahaur and Rinku Singh and petitioner no. 1 Sweetey Shokeen in Writ-A No. 8766 of 2025.

24. Perusal of the record shows that petitioner nos. 5, 6 & 7 in Writ-A No. 8734 of 2025, namely, Preeti, Manish Kumar Mahaur and Rinku Singh did not mention higher marks than they actually possess, though, the mistake occurred at their end is bonafide. Petitioner – Preeti mentioned her marks in the application form separately i.e. marks of B.Ed. in Practical and Theory examinations instead of aggregate of the duo. The petitioner – Manish Kumar Mahaur mentioned the marks 743/1350 in his application form according to the marks obtained by him in Graduation (B.Sc.) which were shown in his old mark-sheet (Sl. No. 13176008)¹³, however, after re-examination in the revised mark-sheet (Sl. No. 13618783)¹⁴, his marks are shown as 733/1350. Thus, no inflation of marks has been done by him while filling up the application form. The marks disclosed by Rinku Singh in his application form are also not higher than the marks he actually possesses in his academic records, as he secured higher marks i.e. 935/1400 (66.78%) in the training qualification, which exceed the marks mentioned in the application form i.e. 424/700 (60.57%). Insofar as petitioner no. 1 – Sweety Shokeen in Writ-A No. 8766 of 2025 is concerned, she did not mention higher marks in the application form, as the aggregate of marks obtained out of total marks, disclosed in the application form, comes to same figure which she actually secured i.e. 1645/2000 marks in D.Ed.

25. The respondent no. 2, while passing the order impugned dated 09.05.2025, has referred to various judgements and orders passed by this Court as well as the Apex Court on the issue of bonafide human error committed by the candidates while filling up their application forms and the advertent mistakes committed in order to secure appointments on the basis of projecting higher marks than they actually possessed in their academic records. It would be apt to refer the relevant extracts of those judgement and orders of this Court and the Apex Court, which are being reproduced herein below:

i. Writ-A No. 4677 of 2020¹⁵:

“63. I had occasion to consider the issue about rectification to an application form relating to the present examination, where the error sought to be corrected was about an unclaimed reservation category, in Writ - A No.4552 of 2020, Deepti Singh vs. State of U.P. and 2 others, decided on 23.06.2020. In Deepti Singh (supra), it was held:

"This Court has keenly considered the matter. It is true that the mistake on the petitioner's part of not mentioning her horizontal reservation category may be inadvertent but the terms and conditions in the form do not permit the petitioner to reform the same lateron, once she has filled up and submitted the examination form, without claiming something as important as a reservation category. A reservation category is one that places the petitioner in a special selection pool of 2% candidates. Once the recruitment process has gone ahead, a selectee in that pool whose result has been declared or on way would be disturbed because the petitioner now makes her claim, if permitted. This kind of a late reform of the petitioner's candidature entitling her to seek selection under a reservation category cannot be permitted in the opinion of this Court."

64. In view of what has been said above, this Court does not find any good ground to interfere.

65. In the result, these writ petitions fail and are dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.”

ii. Writ-A No. 8697 of 2020¹⁶:

“:As is evident from the extracted part of that decision, the Supreme Court in the peculiar facts of that case had permitted the appellant to rectify the mistake. Archana Chauhan cannot therefore be recognized as a precedent of universal application. In any case this Court is bound by the decisions rendered by the Full Bench and the Division Bench noted above, where this issue was dealt with in extenso and ruled upon on merits.

The writ petition is consequently dismissed.”

iii. Special Appeal Defective No. 467 of 2021¹⁷:

“It is not in dispute that subsequent to the judgment aforesaid, individual case of the petitioner was considered by the appellant herein with a detailed order cancelling their selection. The said order was passed subsequent to the judgment. Thus, counsel for the petitioner/non-appellant prays for liberty to challenge the individual order. The judgment of the learned Single Judge is not sustainable in the light of the judgment of the Supreme Court dated 08th April, 2021, in Writ Petition (Civil) No.322 of 2021 (Jyoti Yadav and another vs. State of U.P. and others).

Learned counsel for the appellant has no objection, if the judgment of the learned Single Judge be set aside with liberty to the petitioner to challenge subsequent order.

In view of the above, the judgment of the learned Single Judge is set aside, however, with the liberty to the petitioner/non-appellant to challenge the subsequent order passed against the petitioner.

The appeal is disposed of with the aforesaid.

iv. Writ Petition (s) (Civil) No (s). 378 of 2021¹⁸:

“7. We need not consider individual fact situation as the reading of the G.O. and the Circular as stated above is quite clear that wherever a candidate had put himself in a disadvantaged position as stated above, his candidature shall not be cancelled but will be reckoned with such disadvantage as projected; but if the candidate had projected an advantaged position which was beyond his rightful due or entitlement, his candidature will stand cancelled. The rigour of the G.O. and the Circular is clear that wherever undue advantage can enure to the candidate if the discrepancy were to go unnoticed, regardless whether the percentage of advantage was greater or lesser, the candidature of such candidate must stand cancelled. However, wherever the candidate was not claiming any advantage and as a matter of fact, had put himself in a disadvantaged position, his candidature will not stand cancelled but the candidate will have to remain satisfied with what was quoted or projected in the application form. These petitions are, therefore, disposed of in the light of what is stated above.

8. It must however be stated here that the authorities are not strictly following the intent of the G.O. and the Circular. For example, the Office Order dated 28.03.2021 issued by the Basic Teacher Education Officer, District Hardoi, shows cancellation of the candidature of one Raghav Sharan Singh at Serial No.4, though the projection of marks by way of mistake by said candidate was to his disadvantage. Logically, said candidate would be entitled to have his candidature considered and reckoned at the disadvantaged level. The record shows that even with such disadvantage, the candidate was entitled to be selected.”

26. With respect to the anomalies in application forms of the candidates, who applied against the 69000 posts of Assistant Teachers, the State Government has issued clarification by communication dated 05.03.2021. Copy of the said document has been brought on record as Annexure SCA-7 to the Short Counter Affidavit. Clause (1) of the said communication specifically mentions that the candidates who have filled more aggregate of marks than their actual marks, their appointment/candidature shall be cancelled. Relevant Clause (1) of the said communication is being reproduced below:

(1) समिति की संस्तुति के बिन्दु-1, प्राप्तांक अधिक के संबंध में –जिन अभ्यर्थियों द्वारा अपने आवेदन पत्र में उनके पास उपलब्ध वैद्य प्रमाण-पत्र / अंकपत्रों के आधार पर अधिक प्राप्तांक अंकित किये गये थे तथा उनके अंकपत्रों / प्रमाणपत्रों के संबंध में स्कूटनी / पुनर्मूल्यांकन बैंक पेपर में अर्जित अंक अथवा अन्य किसी आधार पर प्राप्तांकों में विश्वविद्यालय / निगम संस्था द्वारा स्वयं परिवर्तन किया गया है तथा संबंधित प्रमाण पत्र आवेदन पत्र पूरित करने के पश्चात् निर्गत किया गया, तो ऐसे अभ्यर्थियों के अंकों में परिवर्तन होने त्रुटिपूर्ण आवेदन पत्र भरने के लिए संबंधित अभ्यर्थी को जिम्मेदार नहीं माना जा सकता, क्योंकि तत्समय संबंधित अभ्यर्थी के पास आवेदन पत्र में अंकित सूचनाओं संबंधी

27. The issue of categorization of advantageous and disadvantageous positions has been considered by the Apex Court in the case of Jyoti yadav & Anr. v. The State of Uttar Pradesh & Ors.¹⁹. Relevant part of the said judgement reads thus:

“14. Wherever the mistakes committed by the candidates purportedly gave additional marks or weightage greater than what they actually deserved, according to the Communication dated 05.03.2021, their candidature would stand rejected. However, wherever mistakes committed by the candidates actually put them at a disadvantage as against their original entitlement or the variation could be one attributable to the University or issuing authority, an exception was made by said Communication. The reason for treating these two categories of candidates differently cannot thus be called irrational.”

28. The Apex Court in the case of Rahul Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh & Ors.²⁰, has observed that the candidate who had put himself in a disadvantageous position and he was not claiming any advantage, candidature of such person shall not be cancelled: Relevant excerpt of the said order is being quoted herein-below:

7. We need not consider individual fact situation as the reading of the G.O. and the Circular as stated above is quite clear that wherever a candidate had put himself in a disadvantaged position as stated above, his candidature shall not be cancelled but will be reckoned with such disadvantage as projected; but if the candidate had projected an advantaged position which was beyond his rightful due or entitlement, his candidature will stand cancelled. The rigour of the G.O. and the Circular is clear that wherever undue advantage can enure to the candidate if the discrepancy were to go unnoticed, regardless whether the percentage of advantage was greater or lesser, the candidature of such candidate must stand cancelled. However, wherever the candidate was not claiming any advantage and as a matter of fact, had put himself in a disadvantaged position, his candidature will not stand cancelled but the candidate will have to remain satisfied with what was quoted or projected in the application form.

29. In a catena of judgements, the Supreme Court has consistently held that submission of false or incorrect information with the intent of securing an undue benefit amounts to misrepresentation and fraud, and any appointment or advantage obtained on the basis of such false information is liable to be cancelled. In the case of District Collector & Chairman, Vizianagaram Social Welfare Residential School Society, Vizianagaram and another v. M. Tripura Sundari Devi²¹, the Court has observed that a candidate cannot claim equity or sympathy when he/she has obtained a benefit by suppressing or misstating material facts. Similarly, in the case of Kendriya Vidyalaya Sangathan and others v. Ram Ratan Yadav²², the Supreme Court has held that furnishing incorrect information in recruitment documents justifies termination, irrespective of whether the misstatement was intentional or otherwise. The suppression or misstatement of material information in recruitment documents is a serious lapse, and even if the candidate claims inadvertence, the employer is justified in cancelling the candidature.

30. In the case of Union of India v. M. Bhaskaran²³, the Supreme Court has held that appointments obtained by producing false documents or incorrect information are void ab initio, and no equity can be claimed by the wrongdoer. In that respect reference may also be made to the judgement of Apex Court in the case of State of Bihar and others v. Kirti Narayan Prasad²⁴. Similarly, in the case of Meghmala and others v. G. Narasimha Reddy and others²⁵, the Court emphasised that fraud vitiates every solemn act and no benefit can be retained, if obtained by deceit or misrepresentation.

31. Applying the aforesaid settled principles, it is found that entering higher marks than actually obtained is not a mere clerical lapse but a deliberate act capable of altering the merit position, therefore it cannot be regularised under the guise of 'human error'. Any undue advantage so obtained is illegal and vitiates the selection itself. This Court further notes that the settled position of law leaves no room for ambiguity. Entering marks higher than the candidate has actually secured is a conscious act that materially alters the candidate's position in the merit list. Such conduct cannot be trivialised as a human error.

32. It is a cardinal principle of service jurisprudence that fraud vitiates every solemn act. A candidate who enters the selection process by misrepresenting material particulars, such as academic marks that constitute the very basis of merit-based recruitment, cannot invoke the equitable doctrine of estoppel. One who approaches the authority with unclean hands, is not entitled to seek protection under any equitable principle. Public appointments must strictly conform to statutory norms and prescribed eligibility criteria. Where an applicant manipulates higher marks to obtain an undeserved advantage, the appointment becomes tainted from its inception. Since there can be no estoppel against statute, the employer is empowered and indeed duty-bound to annul an appointment obtained in derogation of the recruitment rules, notwithstanding any administrative lapse or delay.

33. The plea that the appointing authority had granted time to rectify the application form is misconceived. Such an opportunity is meant to correct bonafide clerical or inadvertent errors, not to sanitise a deliberate falsification of essential data. A procedural indulgence extended by the authority cannot be construed as a waiver of its right to scrutinise the veracity of the information furnished or to take action upon detection of misrepresentation. Even the issuance of an appointment letter does not confer any indefeasible or vested right to continue in service when the very foundation of the appointment is vitiated. An employment secured by deceit is voidable at the instance of the employer, and neither length of service nor any administrative oversight can breathe legitimacy into an appointment that is tainted from the outset.

34. The argument that the employer is now precluded from acting because it failed to detect the discrepancy earlier is equally untenable. Public employment is a matter of public trust, and the State is under a constitutional obligation to uphold the integrity of the selection process. An illegality does not ripen into a legal right merely because it remained unnoticed for some time. Once the appointment is shown to have been procured by misrepresentation of marks, the employer is under no legal obligation to continue such appointment. Since the very entry into service is tainted, the candidate cannot claim protection under Articles 14 or 311 of the Constitution of India.

35. Permitting estoppel in such circumstances would undermine the sanctity of meritocracy, distort the selection process, and result in the displacement of genuinely more meritorious candidates. The doctrine of estoppel cannot be invoked to perpetuate illegality or to defeat the legitimate expectations of eligible aspirants.

36. Having considered the submissions and perused the material available on record, this Court is of the firm view that where a candidate deliberately enters marks higher than those actually secured, thereby placing himself/ herself in a position of unwarranted advantage and ultimately securing appointment, such appointment cannot be termed legal or valid. Such an act, by any stretch of reasoning, cannot be treated as a mere human error or an inadvertent mistake, as it confers an undue advantage upon the candidate to the prejudice of other eligible aspirants and strikes at the very root of fairness and transparency in the selection process. The candidates' act of furnishing inflated academic marks constitutes a material misrepresentation. Their subsequent appointment is, therefore, vitiated ab initio. The opportunity given for rectification cannot absolve the candidates of intentional falsification. No estoppel can arise to protect an appointment that is fundamentally illegal. The very foundation of the appointment stands vitiated by misrepresentation.

37. In the facts at hand, it is an admitted position that the petitioners except Preeti, Manish Kumar Mahaur, Rinku Singh and Sweety Shokeen, deliberately inflated the marks obtained by them in their academic examinations while submitting their application forms for the posts of Assistant Teacher. Such inflation of marks placed them in an artificially enhanced position in the merit list, thereby enabling them to secure appointments to a public post to which they were not legitimately entitled.

38. Admittedly, case of the petitioners nos. 5, 6 & 7 in Writ-A No. 8734 of 2025, namely, Preeti, Manish Kumar Mahaur and Rinku Singh and petitioner no. 1 – Sweety Shokeen in Writ-A No. 8766 of 2025 fall within the criteria of disadvantage, thus, their appointments are based on the merit criteria they possess.

39. The records pertaining to remaining petitioners, in both the petitions, reveal a deliberate attempt of mentioning higher marks than they actually possess in their academic records. As per the settled position, discussed above, they are not entitled for any relief as being claimed for.

40. Having considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and upon perusal of the record, a case is made out in favour of petitioner nos. 5, 6 & 7, namely, Preeti, Manish Kumar Mahaur and Rinku Singh in Writ-A No. 8734 of 2025 and petitioner no. 1 – Sweety Shokeen in Writ-A No. 8766 of 2025, only. The order impugned dated 21.05.2025 in respect to petitioners nos. 5, 6 & 7, namely, Preeti, Manish Kumar Mahaur and Rinku Singh in Writ-A No. 8734 of 2025 and petitioner no. 1 – Sweety Shokeen in Writ-A No. 8766 of 2025 is quashed.

41. In view of the above, Writ-A No. 8734 of 2025 in respect of petitioner nos. 5, 6 & 7 namely, Preeti, Manish Kumar Mahaur and Rinku Singh and Writ-A No. 8766 of 2025 in respect to petitioner no. 1 – Sweety Shokeen are allowed. Insofar as rest of the petitioners in both the writ petitions are concerned no relief is granted in their favour and the writ petitions are dismissed.

42. There shall be no order as to costs.

Writ A No. 11186 of 2022

Ram Swarup Rajput & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
Union Of India & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for consideration

Whether petitioners can be allowed to switch-over from Contributory Provident Fund Scheme (for short "CPF") to General Provident Fund-cum-Pension Scheme (for short "GPF") after exercising their options in the given timeline?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – An act whereby petitioner has given option to continue in CPF Scheme, would not be considered as non-est since he joined when CPF Scheme was enforced. (Para 16)

In present case, petitioner – 1 was appointed on the post of Teacher (Mechanic B) in respondent institution on 27.04.1978 and retired from the post of Senior Technical Superintendent on 30.06.2013. The petitioner – 3 was appointed post of Teacher on 19.07.1982 and retired on 31.07.2014 whereas petitioner – 2 has joined his duties on 31.08.1990 and retired on 31.07.2016, therefore, case of petitioner – 2 has to be considered separately since he has joined services in the year 1990 i.e. subsequent to O.M. dated 01.05.1987 and adopted by respondent – IIT on 11.09.1987. (Para 14)

B. Delay in approaching this Court - It was default of the respondent institution, therefore, delay will not come in the way if this writ petition is allowed qua to petitioner – 2 viz. Phool Singh Chauhan. (Para 15)

C. Petitioners – 1 and 3 have admittedly given option to stay with CPF Scheme not only once but twice i.e. firstly on 09.10.1987 and 19.10.1987 respectively and secondly on 06.02.1992 and 07.02.1992 respectively, despite they have opportunities to shift to GPF Scheme. They were granted third opportunity after 15 years of their respective services, still they have not come over to GPF Scheme, therefore, they have failed to exercise their right, if any. (Para 17)

OM dated 01.05.1987 was not automatically adopted by respondent institution rather it was adopted by an independent act which they took on 11.09.1987 with a specific timeline that options could be exercised by 30.12.1987 if they wanted to remain in CPF Scheme and admittedly, petitioners – 1 and 3 have given option to remain in CPF on 09.10.1987 and 19.10.1987 respectively, therefore, they are bound by said option and question of non-est would not be applicable in given circumstances of the case. (Para 19)

Writ petition allowed qua to petitioner – 2. Writ petition dismissed qua to petitioners – 1 and 3. (E-4)

1. Petitioners (3 in numbers) are aggrieved that their applications to allow them to switch-over from Contributory Provident Fund Scheme (for short "CPF") to General Provident Fund-cum-Pension Scheme (for short "GPF") were rejected vide order dated 16.09.2021.

2. The petitioners – 1, 2 and 3 have worked as Teacher (Mechanic-B), Instrumentation Engineer (Chemical Engineering) and Teacher respectively in Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur.

3. In the impugned order, there are reference of as many as 11 letters/communications whereby earlier also, aforesaid claim of petitioners was rejected and by way of amendment sought in this writ petition, all letters/communications are also challenged.

4. Before considering rival submissions, few facts which would be relevant are mentioned below :-

“a. The Government of India has issued an Office Memorandum dated 01.05.1987 on a subject “Change over of the Central Government employees from the Contributory Provident Fund Scheme to Pension Scheme-Implementation of the commendations of the Fourth Central Pay Commission. Salient features of said Office Memorandum are reproduced hereinafter:

1. The undersigned is directed to state that the Central Government employees who are governed by the Contributory Provident Fund Scheme (CPF Scheme) have been given repeated options in the past to come over to the Pension Scheme. The last such option was given in the Department of Personnel and Training O.M. No. F3(1)-Pension unit/85 dated the 6th June, 1985. However, some Central Government employees still continue under the CPF Scheme. The Fourth Central Pay Commission has now recommended that all CPF beneficiaries in service on January 1, 1986, should be deemed to have come over to the Pension Scheme on that date unless they specifically opt out to continue under the CPF Scheme.

2. After careful consideration the President is pleased to decide that the said recommendation shall be accepted and implemented in the manner hereinafter indicated.

3. All CPF beneficiaries, who were in service on 1.1.1986 and who are still in service on the date of issue of these orders will be deemed to have come over to the Pension Scheme.

3.2. The employees of the category mentioned above will, however, have an option to continue under the CPF Scheme, if they so desire. The option will have to be exercised and conveyed to the concerned Head of Office by 30.09.1987 in the form enclosed if the employees wish to continue under the CPF Scheme. If no option is received by the Head of Office by the above date the employees will be deemed to have come over to the Pension Scheme.

3.3. The CPF beneficiaries, who were in service on 1.1.1986, but have since retired and in whose case retirement benefits have also been paid under the CPF Scheme, will have an option to have their retirement benefits calculated under the Pension Scheme provided they refund to the Government, the Government contribution to the Contributory Provident Fund and the interest thereon, drawn by them at the time of settlement of the CPF Account. Such option shall be exercised latest by 30.09.1987.

3.4. In the case of CPF beneficiaries, who were in service on 1.1.1986 but have since retired, and in whose case the CPF Account has not already been paid, will be allowed retirement benefits as if they were borne on pensionable establishments unless they specifically opt by 30.09.1987 to have their retirement benefits settled under the CPF Scheme.

3.5 in the case of CPF beneficiaries, who were in service on

1.1.1986, but have since died. Either before retirement or after retirement, the case will be settled in accordance with para 3.3 or 3.4 above as the case may be. Options in such cases will be exercised latest by 30.09.1987 by the widow/widower and in the absence of widow/widower by the eldest surviving member of the family who would have otherwise been eligible to family pension under the Family Pension Scheme if such scheme were applicable.

3.6 The option once exercised shall be final.

3.7 In the types of cases covered by paragraph 3.3 and 3.5 involving refund of Government's contribution to the contributory provident fund together with interest drawn at the time of retirement, the amount will have to be refunded latest by the 30th September, 1987. If the amount is not refunded by the said date, simple interest thereon will be payable at 10% per annum for period of delay beyond 30.9.1987.

b. The Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur has adopted above referred Office Memorandum dated 01.05.1987 by an Office Order dated 11.09.1987. For reference, said office order is quoted below in its entirety :-

“1. The Fourth Central Pay Commission has recommended that C.P.F. beneficiaries in service on January 1, 1986 should be deemed to have come over to the pension scheme on that date unless they specifically opt out to continue under the C.P.F. Scheme.

2. The aforesaid recommendations have been accepted by the Central Government vide O.M. No.4/1/87-PIC dated

1.5.1987, a copy of which is attached to this circular. The Chairman, B.O.G. has approved implementation of the aforesaid orders to the employees of this Institute.

3. All employees who are governed by Schedule C-Contributory Provident Fund and Schedule E-Contributory Provident Fund-cum-Gratuity Scheme and who were in service on 1.1.1986 shall be deemed to have come over to Schedule F-General Provident Fund-cum-Pension-cum-Gratuity Scheme w.e.f. 1.1.1986. However, the employees are given an option to continue under the C.P.F. Scheme, if they so desire. The option shall have to be exercised in the form enclosed and submitted to the Administration Section by 30.10.1987. In the case of employees who are on long leave out of India or are on deputation or are otherwise away from the Institute, the option can be exercised by 31.12.1987. The Faculty Members and others whose personal files are maintained by the Dean of Faculties, the options should be submitted to the Dean of Faculties. If no option is received by the above date the employees will be deemed to have come over to the Pension Scheme.

4. The employees who exercise an option to continue under the C.P.F. Scheme will henceforth be governed by Schedule E-C.P.F.-cum-Gratuity Scheme, and will be eligible for retirement gratuity and Death Gratuity in accordance with provisions of Government of India O.M. No.4/1/87-PIC-II dated 1.5.1987 (copy enclosed). Schedule C-C.P.F. Scheme will cease to be operative.”

5. As referred above, while adopting the O.M. dated 01.05.1987 by way of Circular dated 11.09.1987, a date to give option to continue in CPF Scheme was extended from 30.09.1987 to 30.10.1987.

6. Following are the details which are undisputed so far as repeated options submitted by respective petitioners to continue with CPF Scheme and a chart mentioned in written submission filed by learned counsel for respondents is scanned and pasted below :-

S.No.	Date of Office Order issued by the Respondent Institute	Cut-off dates to exercise such option to switch from CPF Scheme to GPF Scheme	Date of option as exercised by the Petitioners
1.	11.09.1987 (Annexure No. CA-2)	30.10.1987	Petitioner No. 1-09.10.1987, Petitioner No. 2-19.10.1987. (Annexure No. CA-3)
2.	16.01.1992 (Annexure No. CA-4)	--	Petitioner No. 1-07.02.1992 Petitioner No. 2-11.08.1992 Petitioner No. 3-06.02.1992 (Annexure No. CA-5)
3.	10.06.1998 (Annexure No. CA-6) *applicable to employees in service as on 01.04.1998	i. upto 30.07.1998 with immediate effect. ii. upto end of 15 years of continuous service at the Institute. However, both the options were irreversible and deemed to be final.	No option exercised upto completion of 15 years of their continuous service.

7. Sri Sanjeev Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Pramod Kumar, learned advocate for petitioners has placed reliance on various paragraphs of a judgment passed by Supreme Court in University of Delhi vs. Smt. Shashi Kiran and others, (2022) 15 SCC 325, judgments passed by this Court in Priyanka Upadhyay vs. Union of India and others, 2025:AHC:37820 and a judgment of Division Bench of this Court in Prof. Harish Chandra Chaudhary and others vs. The Union of India and others, 2025:AHC:69579-DB wherein judgment of Priyanka Upadhyay (supra) was upheld.

8. Per contra, Ms. Kriti Gupta, Advocate holding brief of Sri Rohan Gupta, learned counsel for respondents has opposed above submissions and has also referred the judgment of this Court in Dr. S.K. Pant Professor and others vs. Union of India and others, 2025:AHC:203155.

9. Crux of argument of learned Senior Advocate appearing for petitioners is that once the Office Memorandum dated 01.05.1987 is adopted and petitioners have not submitted their option to continue in CPF Scheme before cut off date fixed therein i.e. 30.09.1987, any subsequent act by submitting option to remain in CPF Scheme in the garb of various extension granted by respondents would be non-est and petitioners are deemed to be switched over to GPF-cum-Pension Scheme as soon as said O.M. was adopted by respondent-IIT and no option was submitted before the relevant date i.e. 30.09.1987 and for that learned Senior Advocate has referred following part of University of Delhi vs. Smt. Shashi Kiran (supra) is mentioned below :-

“47.Krishena Kumar [Krishena Kumar v. Union of India, (1990) 4 SCC 207 : 1991 SCC (L&S) 112] was a case where the retirees from two categories, namely, Pension Fund and Provident Fund, were taken to be distinct and different and as such the plea on the ground of discrimination was rejected. As the judgment of the Division Bench discloses, the matter was considered by it from the standpoint of discrimination between the same category of persons, that is to say, those who had opted to be under CPF. The different groups in the same category were:

47.1. Those who had not exercised any option but continued to make payment of contribution towards CPF (R.N. Virmani [R.N. Virmani v. University of Delhi, 2014 SCC OnLine Del 2799] batch of cases).

47.2. Those who exercised the option to be under CPF but the option was exercised after the cut-off. Since the option was exercised after the cut-off, they were deemed to have “come over” to GPF and were granted benefit (N.C. Bakshi [N.C. Bakshi v. Union of India, 2014 SCC OnLine Del 2798] batch of cases).

47.3. Those who consciously exercised the option to be under CPF; but taking advantage of further options granted through 11 extensions to switch over, had been allowed to “come over” to GPF (2469 employees).

48. It was against these three sub-categories coming from the same category of employees that the argument of discrimination was considered by the Division Bench. Such was not the case in Krishena Kumar [Krishena Kumar v. Union of India, (1990) 4 SCC 207 : 1991 SCC (L&S) 112] or Rajasthan Rajya Vidyut Vitran [Rajasthan Rajya Vidyut Vitran Nigam Ltd. v. Dwarka Prasad Koolwal, (2015) 12 SCC 51 : (2016) 1 SCC (L&S) 315]. The matter was further considered by the Division Bench in the context of the employees of educational institutions such as IITs, who are directly under the Central Government, just as the employees of the University, which is a Central University. If the option was allowed to be exercised by granting extension to the employees of the other educational institutions, the Division Bench did not find any reason why similar choice/option could not be given to the employees in Shashi Kiran [Shashi Kiran v. Union of India, WP (C) No. 5759 of 2010 sub nom Kanta Batra v. Union of India, 2014 SCC OnLine Del 2797] batch of cases. Additionally, the feature that has been presented through the documents which have subsequently come on record is that even with respect to the employees of insurance corporations similar options and extensions were granted.

49. The differential treatment afforded to those 2469 employees as against the employees in Shashi Kiran [Shashi Kiran v. Union of India, WP (C) No. 5759 of 2010 sub nom Kanta Batra v. Union of India, 2014 SCC OnLine Del 2797] batch of cases, was not founded on any rationale. No justifiable reason was coming forth. If those 2469 employees could be afforded chance to exercise an option of switch over to GPF, even though they had consciously opted to be under CPF, on principle of parity or equality, the case was certainly made out.

51. According to the Notification dated 1-5-1987, the employees joining the service after 1-1-1986 would always be under GPF. With respect to those who were in service on 1-1-1986, said employees would be deemed to have “come over” to GPF unless an option to continue to be under CPF was consciously exercised before the cut-off date. Thus, when the Scheme was framed and was sought to be implemented, the authorities concerned must have taken into account the entire magnitude such as, the number of employees and the likelihood of impact on the management of the fund, so that reasonable returns can be effected by way of pension upon retirement of such persons. Going by the intent of the notification, those who were to opt for CPF, were an exception and the general rule was that everybody after 1-1-1986 would normally be covered by GPF. It is in this context that the number of original petitioners in Shashi Kiran [Shashi Kiran v. Union of India, WP (C) No. 5759 of 2010 sub nom Kanta Batra v. Union of India, 2014 SCC OnLine Del 2797] batch of cases has to be seen. We are concerned with only 75 persons. On the other hand, the bulk of people, namely, 2469 employees were granted the choice of reverse switch over and they were allowed all the benefits under GPF. It can reasonably be said that when the Notification dated 1-5-1987 was issued, the authorities were conscious of the possibility that all the employees may “come over” to GPF. With that possibility in mind, the fund was constituted and the affairs were arranged. The shift of those 75 employees would not in any way affect the strength and the character of the fund if a direction that the entire contribution made by the authorities be returned with reasonable rate of interest is issued. These 75 petitioners had approached the Court in the year 2010. At this length of time, it is not as if any floodgates are going to open and there will be drain on the resources of the State. A direction can, therefore, be issued, as was done by the learned Single Judge in para 20 of his judgment in R.N. Virmani [R.N. Virmani v. University of Delhi, 2014 SCC OnLine Del 2799] batch of cases and which aspect was mentioned in the Letter dated 23-1-2017 referred to in para 31.4 hereinabove, for recouping the contribution under CPF with 8% simple interest per annum.”

10. Per contra, learned counsel for respondents has submitted that :-

i. The IIT Statutes provide for following three schemes for its employees who can exercise their option even at the time of appointment :-

a. Contributory Provident Fund (under Schedule C of the IIT Statutes)

b. Contributory Provident Fund-cum-Gratuity Scheme (under Schedule E of the IIT Statutes)

c. General Provident Fund-cum-Pension-cum-Gratuity Scheme (under Schedule F of the IIT Statutes).

The Petitioners for the first time exercised their option to be governed by the Contributory Provident Fund-cum-Gratuity Scheme (under Schedule E of the IIT Statutes).

iii. Therefore, in this manner the Respondent Institute had adopted and amended the Om dated 01.05.1987 which only provided an option to switch from CPF to Pension Scheme to suit the requirements of the Institute which provided three different schemes for its employees.

iv. Request for change over made for the first in 2009 much after the expiry of their 15 years of continuous service. Further, another request was made by only Petitioner No. 1 on 30.05.2012 which came to be rejected for the first time on 18.07.2012. The said communication has not been challenged by the Petitioner and has attained finality. Thereafter, subsequent orders have been passed rejecting the same request for changeover.

11. She also has referred some documents annexed in counter affidavit and for reference, Office Order dated 16.01.1992 and 10.06.1998 are quoted below in its entirety :-

OFFICE ORDER

Sub- Exercise of option for change-over from Contributory Provident Fund-cum-Gratuity Scheme (Schedule 'E') to General Provident Fund-cum-Pension-cum-Gratuity Scheme (Schedule 'F')

Further to Office Order No. Adm. 26(G)/87-IITK/372 dated 11.09.1987, No-Adm. 26 (G)/90-IITK/1221 dated 23.01.1991 and No. DF/C-2/90-IITK dated 03.07.90, the Board of Governors of the Institute have been pleased to allow another opportunity to the members of the staff of the Institute viz. Group A,B,C and D (including Scientific employees for whom option was not provided owing to non-revision of their scales) who were in Institute Service on 01.01.1986 to come over to the Pension-cum-Gratuity scheme in accordance with the provision of Government of India, O.M. No. 4/1/87/PIC dated 01.05.1987. This opportunity of exercising option would also be applicable to the persons who have meanwhile retired from service and other CPF beneficiaries who since died, either before retirement or after retirement. In the later case the families of the deceased would be entitled to give an option to have the benefit of pension scheme. In such cases the contribution of the Institute to the contributory provident fund together with interest will have to be refunded to the Institute in one lumpsum. Interest would also have to be paid to the Institute on the amount of Institute contribution and interest received by the beneficiaries from the date of receipt to the date of refund at the rate of ten percent.

5. Heads of the Departments/Sections/Units are requested to bring these orders to the notice of all the employees who are/were working under them. No action is required in respect of employee who are already governed by Schedule 'F' General Provident Fund-cum-Pension-cum-Gratuity Scheme.

6. It is to be emphasized that the option for change over to Pension Scheme is being extended as a matter of good gesture to the employees. No such change over would be permissible in future. In view of the benefits available under the Pension Scheme, the employees in their own interest are requested to avail of the opportunity.

OFFICE ORDER

Sub- Exercise of option for change over from contributory Provident Fund-cum-Gratuity Scheme (Schedule 'E') to General Provident Fund cum Pension cum Gratuity Scheme (Schedule 'F')

Ref. 1998/Ist BOG meeting held on April 21, 1998

1. Further to Office Order No. Adm 26(G)87-IITK/372 dated 11.09.1987, No. DF/C-2/90 IITK dated 03.07.1990, No. Adm. 26(G)/90-IITK/1221 dated 23.01.1991, and No. Adm. 26(G)/92-IITK/1508 dated January 16, 1992, the Board of Governor of the Institute in the meeting held on April 21, 1998 considered the request of staff/faculty members of the Institute and decided as under:-

a. CPF subscribers in service in IIT Kanpur as on 01.04.1998 be given the option to switch over (irreversibly) to GPF-cum-Pension Scheme with immediate effect.

b. CPF Subscribers who are not switching now be allowed to switch over (irreversibly) upto the end of 15 years of their continuous service at the Institute.

c. A new entrant to CPF Scheme (after 1.04.1998) be also given an option on analogue basis with reference to the decision at (b) above.

2. All CPF subscribers, who are eligible for pension or would become eligible for pension, may exercise their option to switch over to GPF-cum-Gratuity Scheme by filing and returning the annexed form so as to reach A.O. (Admin) or DOFA (as the case may be) on or before 30.07.98. The option once exercised shall be deemed final.”

12. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the records.

13. In order to consider rival submissions, paragraph 30 of Priyanka Upadhyay (supra) being relevant is mentioned below :-

“30. The outcome of above discussion is that:

(a) The case of employees of Banaras Hindu University is factually on a different footing than the employees of Delhi University.

(b) Banaras Hindu University has adopted the Office Memorandum dated 01.05.1987 issued by Government of India by a notification dated 09.04.1988, i.e., much after the original cut off date, i.e., 30.09.1987, and has fixed the new cut off date, i.e., 09.07.1988 to submit option and since said notification is not under challenge, therefore, while applying the judgment of Supreme Court in University of Delhi vs. Smt. Shashi Kiran (supra), above referred dates rendered it distinguishable.

(c) If the law as held by Supreme Court in University of Delhi vs. Smt. Shashi Kiran (supra) is applied in the facts and circumstances of present cases taking note of above referred dates, the only interpretation would be that any option given beyond 09.07.1988 would non est, however, on basis of record, none of petitioners have a case that they have opted to remain in earlier CPF Scheme on basis of above cut off date rather their claim was taken birth only after Banaras Hindu University adopted the Scheme on 09.04.1988 and they have given option before new cut off date, i.e., 09.07.1988, therefore, the benefit of judgment in University of Delhi vs. Smt. Shashi Kiran (supra) would not be applicable to present petitioners. Any other interpretation would render date of adoption and any subsequent cut off date meaningless.

(d) It is not the case of petitioners or Respondent-Banaras Hindu University or even Union of India that Office Memorandum dated 01.05.1987 was automatically applicable to all Central Universities without being its specific adoption by a particular University and further that issue was not before the

14. In present case, petitioner – 1 was appointed on the post of Teacher (Mechanic B) in respondent institution on 27.04.1978 and retired from the post of Senior Technical Superintendent on 30.06.2013. The petitioner – 3 was appointed post of Teacher on 19.07.1982 and retired on 31.07.2014 whereas petitioner – 2 has joined his duties on 31.08.1990 and retired on 31.07.2016, therefore, case of petitioner – 2 has to be considered separately since he has joined services in the year 1990 i.e. subsequent to O.M. dated 01.05.1987 and adopted by respondent – IIT on 11.09.1987 and his case would squarely cover with the case of one Sushil Kumar Singh as considered by the Division Bench of this Court in Prof. Harish Chandra Chaudhary (supra) and for reference, paragraph – 57 of Harish Chandra Chaudhary (supra) is quoted below :-

“57. Having considered the respective submissions advanced in respect of the claim of Sri Sinha, we find that on the date of his substantive appointment in BHU i.e. 9.7.1990, he was covered by the pension scheme. Even his temporary appointment in the BHU on 9th July, 1988, was after the cut-off-date i.e. 1.1.1986. It is clearly revealed that he had objected to his inclusion in the CPF Scheme. He was in fact included in the pension scheme, but it was on account of resolution of the Executive Council, dated 19-20th July, 2002, that such benefit was withdrawn from him. There was otherwise no occasion for him to be extended the option to continue under the CPF Scheme. He has been representing against such decision and has approached the Court after the issue has been settled by the Supreme Court. In the facts of the case, we find that his case is clearly covered by the pension scheme and the question of exercising any option by him, to continue under the CPF Scheme, is not countenanced under the Office Memorandum, dated 1.5.1987. The BHU on its own has accepted the claim of Dr. Sushil Kumar Singh in similar circumstances in 2013. There is otherwise no prior adjudication of the claim of Sri Sinha by this Court.”

15. So far as argument of learned counsel for respondent - IIT that there is a delay in approaching this Court is concerned, Court finds that it was default of the respondent institution, therefore, delay will not come in the way if this writ petition is allowed qua to petitioner – 2 viz. Phool Singh Chauhan.

16. So far as an act whereby said petitioner has given option to continue in CPF Scheme is concerned, it would not be considered as non-est since he joined when CPF Scheme was enforced as the same has been held in Prof. Harish Chandra Chaudhary (supra).

17. So far as petitioners – 1 and 3 are concerned, admittedly, they have given option to stay with CPF Scheme not only once but twice i.e. firstly on 09.10.1987 and 19.10.1987 respectively and secondly on 06.02.1992 and 07.02.1992 respectively, despite they have opportunities to shift to GPF Scheme. They were granted third opportunity after 15 years of their respective services, still they have not come over to GPF Scheme, therefore, they have failed to exercise their right, if any.

18. The argument of learned Senior Advocate for said petitioners that since

O.M. dated 01.05.1987 whereby last date to give option was fixed for 30.09.1987 with a declaration that if an employee did not give option to remain in earlier scheme, he will be deemed to be switched over of GPF Scheme, therefore, once institution has adopted said O.M. by their Office Order dated 11.09.1987, they are deemed to be switched over to GPF Scheme. Notwithstanding any option given to remain in GPF Scheme since it would be non-est.

19. Aforesaid argument of learned Senior Counsel on face of it appears to be attractive, however, still there are two factors which go against aforesaid submissions that firstly OM dated 01.05.1987 was not automatically adopted by respondent-institution rather it was adopted by an independent act which they took on 11.09.1987 with a specific timeline that options could be exercised by 30.12.1987 if they wanted to remain in CPF Scheme and admittedly, petitioners – 1 and 3 have given option to remain in CPF on 09.10.1987 and 19.10.1987 respectively, therefore, they are bound by said option and question of non-est would not be applicable in given circumstances of the case.

20. In this regard, Court again takes note of paragraph 30 (c) of Priyanka Upadhyay (supra) which was upheld by Division Bench of this Court and for reference, said paragraph 30(c) is quoted below :-

(c) If the law as held by Supreme Court in University of Delhi vs. Smt. Shashi Kiran (supra) is applied in the facts and circumstances of present cases taking note of above referred dates, the only interpretation would be that any option given beyond 09.07.1988 would non est, however, on basis of record, none of petitioners have a case that they have opted to remain in earlier CPF Scheme on basis of above cut off date rather their claim was taken birth only after Banaras Hindu University adopted the Scheme on 09.04.1988 and they have given option before new cut off date, i.e., 09.07.1988, therefore, the benefit of judgment in University of Delhi vs. Smt. Shashi Kiran (supra) would not be applicable to present petitioners. Any other interpretation would render date of adoption and any subsequent cut off date meaningless.”

21. Considering overall circumstances of the case, this Court does not find that claim as sought by petitioners – 1 and 3 has any force, therefore, their claim cannot be allowed on basis of above discussion, hence, rejected.

22. So far as petitioner – 2 is concerned, his claim has already been accepted in preceding paragraph of this judgment. The said petitioner has to return the amount towards CPF with 5% simple interest. The University will fix the period for such return.

23. In view of above, this writ petition is allowed qua to petitioner – 2 and it is dismissed qua to petitioners – 1 and 3.

DATED: LUCKNOW 12.12.2025

THE HON'BLE SHREE PRAKASH SINGH, J.

Writ A No. 13771 of 2025

C/M, Ram Bharose Maiku Lal Inter College Lko & Anr. ...Petitioners

Versus

State Of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for consideration

Whether disapproval of District Inspector of Schools of the resolution of Committee of Management for suspension of the services of respondent no. 6 is sustainable in the eyes of law?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – U.P. Intermediate Education Act 1921: Section 16(G)(5) - Brief reasons must be recorded while disapproving the suspension order, which apparently is lacking in the present matter. (Para 15)

(a) On examining the impugned order dated 06.10.2025 on law and facts, it emerges that the DISs, after receiving the papers from the petitioners, concluded it, on mainly five grounds. So far as the provision for constituting sub-committee is concerned, that has been prescribed u/regulation 35, which in fact regarding the enquiry and not for passing the suspension order. (Para 16, 17)

(b) Ground no. 2, which reads that 'no approved chargesheet was served upon respondent no. 6' cannot be the zone of consideration of approval or disapproval of the suspension order, whereas, the DISs could have applied his mind on the evidence/records sent by the Committee of Management, u/Regulation 39 and the provisions of section 16(G)(5) should have strictly been followed. Therefore, the second

ground also goes against the mandate of the act and regulations. (Para 18)

(c) The third ground states that the chargesheet dated 10.01.2025, is not approved by the Committee of Management,' whereas, the DISs should have applied his mind on the material/evidence regarding the suspension order and not the chargesheet. (Para 19)

(d) The DISs, has said that since no evidence was made available by the Committee of Management for approval of the suspension order, therefore, the conditions prescribed u/s 16(G)(5) are not fulfilled, thus, the suspension order has been disapproved, whereas, Section 16(G)(5) laid the first ground for consideration regarding the nature of the charges and there is not a single whisper in the order dated 06.10.2025, to discuss the seriousness of the charges, thus, there seems to be the non-application of mind of the DISs. (Para 20)

(e) The DISs while taking decision regarding approval or disapproval, on suspension order, shall record, brief reasons, but so far as the case in hand is concerned that too is missing, as no reason has been recorded, for disapproval of the recommendation of the Committee of Management, in the order impugned dated 06.10.2025. Consequently, the order dated 06.10.2025 is unsustainable in the eyes of law. (Para 21)

The matter is relegated back to the DISs to pass a fresh order.

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Vikas Singh, Mahendra Bahadur Singh

For Respondent(s): C.S.C., Hari Prasad Gupta

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Supplementary affidavit filed by learned counsel for the petitioners and the counter affidavit filed by respondent no. 6, are taken on record.

2. Heard Mr. Mahendra Bahadur Singh and Mr. Vikash Singh, learned counsels for the petitioners, Mr. Hari Prasad Gupta, learned counsel for respondent no. 6, Mr. Brijendra Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for respondent nos. 1 to 4.

3. Since in the instant petition, the pure legal question is involved, therefore, the matter is being decided at the admission stage. Notice to respondent no. 5 is hereby dispensed with.

4. The present writ petition has been filed assailing the order dated 06.10.2025, by which the district Inspector of Schools has disapproved the resolution of Committee of Management for suspension of the services of respondent no. 6.

5. The contention put forth by learned counsel appearing for the petitioner is that earlier, on two occasions also, the District Inspector of Schools had disapproved the suspension order and on the second time, Writ A No. 10304 of 2025 was instituted, challenging such an order of disapproval, wherein, the Court has passed the order on 15.09.2025, which is quoted hereinunder:-

"1. Preliminary objection and counter affidavit filed by Shri Hari Prashad Gupta, Advocate on behalf of respondent No.7 is taken on record.

2. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner states that he does not intend to file any objections/reply to the same as there is only a short question of law involved in the matter.

3. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner prays for and is permitted to delete respondents No.5 & 6 from the array of the parties during the course of the day.

4. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Ran Vijay Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the respondents-State and Shri Hari Prashad Gupta, learned counsel appearing for respondent No.7.

5. With the consent of the parties, the matter is being decided finally.

6. Under challenge is the order dated 01.07.2025 passed by the District Inspector of Schools, a copy of which is Annexure-1 to the petition, whereby the suspension order of the respondent No.7 dated 30.12.2024 has been disapproved.

7. The short question of law as raised by the learned counsel for the petitioners is that the District Inspector of Schools while passing the order impugned has also gone into the validity of the charges as leveled against the respondent No.7 and has held that said charges were not proved.

8. Argument of the learned counsel for the petitioners is that power to approve or disapprove an order of suspension is vested in the District Inspector of Schools under sub Section (7) of Section 16-G of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1921'). This Court in the case of Committee of Management, D.P.S.N. Inter College, Kanpur & Anr vs State of U.P. & Ors : [2018 (2) ADJ 840] after considering the aforesaid power has held that the D.I.O.S. has to examine the papers so transmitted but would have no right to address on the merits of the charges, but has only to see on, prima facie basis, as to whether charges have any substance.

9. The argument is that even though the D.I.O.S. was fully empowered to either approve or disapprove the order of suspension that had been sent for his approval by the petitioners but by no stretch of imagination or any principle of law, the D.I.O.S. could have gone into the validity and veracity of the charges that had been leveled against the respondent No.7 and as such on this ground alone, the impugned order merits to be set aside.

10. On the other hand, though learned counsel appearing for respondent No.7 does not dispute the aforesaid proposition of law laid down by this Court in the case of Committee of Management, D.P.S.N. Inter College, Kanpur (supra) yet says that once the order of suspension is dated 30.12.2024 and a period of more than 60 days have lapsed consequently the said suspension order cannot be read against the respondent No.7.

11. Having heard learned counsels for the parties and perused the record, it emerges that the order of suspension of respondent No.7 as sent for approval to the D.I.O.S. has been disapproved vide order impugned dated 01.07.2025 by going into the veracity of the charges.

12. This Court in the case of Committee of Management, D.P.S.N. Inter College, Kanpur (supra) has categorically held that the D.I.O.S. while exercising the powers under sub Section (7) of Section 16-G of the Act, 1921 only acts in a supervisory capacity and has to only see as to prima facie the charges are having any substance but he cannot go into veracity of the said charges.

13. As already indicated above, perusal of the order impugned would indicate that the D.I.O.S. has gone into veracity of the charges and thereafter disapproved the suspension order which order would clearly run against the principles of the law laid down by this Court in the case of Committee of Management, D.P.S.N. Inter College, Kanpur (supra).

14. In view of the aforesaid, the writ petition is allowed. Order impugned dated 01.07.2025, a copy of which is Annexure-I to the petition, is set aside.

15. The D.I.O.S. shall pass a fresh order in accordance with law within a period of two weeks from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order. Needless to say that the petitioners shall cooperate with the D.I.O.S. while he passes the said order. In case of non cooperation, the D.I.O.S. would be at liberty to issue a notice to the petitioners indicating their noncooperation and thereafter proceed in accordance with law. "

6. Referring the aforesaid, he submits that on the last occasion also, the District Inspector of Schools, vide impugned order dated 1.7.2025, disapproved the order of suspension, against the provisions of law, therefore, this Court, while considering the ratio of judgment passed in the case of Committee of Management, D.P.S.N. Inter College, Kanpur & Anr vs State of U.P. & Ors : [2018 (2) ADJ 840], had directed to pass a fresh order, within the period of two weeks and in-compliance of the order aforesaid, the present impugned order has been passed.

7. He submitted that the findings which have been recorded, in point nos. 1 to 5, in the order dated 06.10.2025, is apparent that there is no application of mind by the District Inspector of Schools, on the papers sent by the petitioners under the provisions of Rule 39 of Chapter III of the regulations made under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act 1921(hereinafter referred to as 'Act 1921') and the said findings are quoted hereinunder in verbatim:-

"1- श्री रामचंद्र के विरुद्ध अनुशासनात्मक कार्यवाही हेतु इण्टरमीडिएट शिक्षा अधिनियम-1921 के अध्याय-तीन की धारा-16-छ उप धारा-35 के तहत किसी उप-समिति का गठन नहीं किया गया।

2- प्रबंधतंत्र / प्रबंधक / सचिव द्वारा अनुमोदित कोई आरोप पत्र निलंबित प्रधानाचार्य श्री रामचंद्र को नहीं उपलब्ध कराया गया।

3- श्री विपिन साहू अध्यक्ष, दीपक अग्रवाल सदस्य एवं दुष्यंत यादव सदस्य के हस्ताक्षर से जारी आरोप पत्र दिनांक 10 जनवरी 2025, नियुक्ति प्राधिकारी / प्रबंधतंत्र प्रबंधक / सचिव द्वारा अनुमोदित नहीं है।

4- प्रबंधक / सचिव श्री श्रीकांत साहू द्वारा अपने लिखित कथन दिनांक 25.09.2025 में निलंबन आदेश के समर्थन में कहा गया है कि रामचंद्र ने वित्त विहीन कक्षाओं के शुल्क का कोई लेखा-जोखा नहीं दिया। श्री रामचंद्र कार्यवाहक प्रधानाचार्य, (सम्प्रति निलम्बित) समिति विरोधी कार्य कर रहे हैं। श्री रामचंद्र द्वारा विभागीय आदेशों की अवहेलना, अशिष्टता, अवज्ञा अनाधीनता अनुशासनहीनता एवं विद्यालय की प्रबंध समिति के विरुद्ध षडयंत्र

किया जा रहा है किन्तु पत्र दिनांक 25.09.2025 के साथ पत्र में वर्णित आरोपों की पुष्टि में कोई पुष्टि साक्ष्य संलग्न नहीं किये गये हैं।

5- श्री रामचंद्र ने अपने द्वारा प्रस्तुत पत्रों को संदर्भित करते हुए अपने लिखित कथन दिनांक 26.09.2025 में कहा है कि 01. अप्रैल 2022 से विद्यालय के कार्यवाहक प्रधानाचार्य के रूप में कार्यरत हैं, बार-बार अनुरोध के बावजूद प्रबंधक महोदय विद्यालय के विकास एवं छात्रों के हित में कार्य नहीं कर रहे हैं। हाईस्कूल के कृषि वर्ग के छात्रों के लिए कृषि भूमि चिन्हित नहीं की जा रही है। विद्यालय का भवन अत्यंत जीर्ण-शीर्ण व जर्जर अवस्था में है जिससे छात्रों एवं अन्य को सदैव खतरा बना रहता है, जिसकी सूचना उनके द्वारा प्रबंधक के साथ-साथ शिक्षा विभाग के उच्च अधिकारियों को भी दी गई है। जिससे प्रबंधक महोदय उनसे व्यक्तिगत रूप से नाराज हैं। प्रबंधक महोदय उससे कनिष्ठ सहायक अध्यापक श्री अम्बर प्रसाद तिवारी, जोकि प्रबंधक महोदय द्वारा किए जा रहे अनियमित कार्यों का समर्थन करते हैं, को येन-केन प्रकारेण विद्यालय का कार्यवाहक प्रधानाचार्य का कार्यभार सौंपना चाहते हैं।"

8. Referring the aforesaid grounds of disapproval, he submitted that so far as ground no. 1 is concerned, it is stated that the petitioners have been failed to constitute a sub-committee as per regulation 35 of the regulations made under the Act 1921, whereas, there is no mandate in regulation 35, to constitute a sub-committee, at the stage of passing the suspension order.

9. He further submitted that ground no. 2, is also apparent that the District Inspector of Schools has taken into consideration that 'the Committee of Management, the petitioner no. 1, has failed to provide the approved chargesheet to the respondent no. 6', that too is not the condition precedent for passing the suspension order as per the mandate of the Act 1921 read with provision of regulations.

10. He argued that the conclusion clause of the aforesaid order is also goes against the provision of the Act, as it has been said that 'there is no evidence available to approve the suspension order', wherein, the District Inspector of Schools should have considered the nature of the charges, as is mandated vide the provisions of section 16(G)(5) of the Act 1921.

11. Concluding his arguments, he submitted that the order passed by the District Inspector of Schools is not only against the direction of the judgment and order dated 15.09.2025 passed in Writ A No. 10304 of 2025, but that too is against the provisions of the Act 1921 read with the regulations. He submitted that the order impugned is also against the settled proposition of law, therefore, submission is that the impugned order dated 06.10.2025 may be quashed.

12. Per contra, Mr. Hari Prasad Gupta, learned counsel for respondent no. 6 has vehemently opposed the contentions aforesaid and submitted that the ground for disapproval has rightly been recorded by the District Inspector of Schools. He submitted that, in fact, the petitioner no. 2 has committed unlawful activity in the College and when the voice has been raised by respondent no. 6, the present disciplinary proceedings has been instituted against him. He also submitted that the District Inspector of Schools has very well considered the evidences which were made available by the petitioners, therefore, there is no ambiguity or erroneousness in the order impugned, thus, no interference is warranted.

13. Learned counsel appearing for the State has supported the version of counsel for respondent no. 6 and submitted that there is limited scope for the District Inspector of Schools to apply his mind so far as the approval or disapproval of the suspension order is concerned and he recorded the reasons by adverting that no evidence or material was available for approval of the suspension order as per the provision of Section 16(G)(5) of Act 1921, therefore, the suspension order passed by the Committee of Management has rightly been disapproved.

14. Upon considering the submissions of counsel for the parties and after perusal of records, it is apparent that the impugned order has been passed in-compliance of the order dated 15.09.2025, passed in Writ A No. 10304 of 2025. Vide the aforesaid order, this Hon'ble Court, while considering the law settled in the case of Committee of Management, D.P.S.N. Inter College, Kanpur(supra), has directed the District Inspector of Schools to consider and decide the matter on merits. The relevant paragraph 18 is extracted as under:-

"18. I need not detail the allegations and material in support thereof, placed by the Management before the District Inspector of Schools. The District Inspector of Schools while exercising power under sub-section (7) of Section 16G acts in a supervisory capacity. He has to record brief reason to accord approval or disapproval to any order of suspension passed by the Management. The District Inspector of Schools has to examine the papers so transmitted but would have no right to address on the merit of the charges, but has only to see on, prima facie, basis, as to whether, charges have any substance. The issue in that regard has to be examined in departmental enquiry to be held against the Principal/Teacher."

15. It has been held that brief reasons must be recorded while disapproving the suspension order, which apparently is lacking in the present matter.

16. When this Court examines the impugned order dated 06.10.2025 on law and facts, it emerges that the District Inspector of Schools, after receiving the papers from the petitioners, concluded it, on mainly five grounds, which are mentioned in the preceding paragraphs. The ground nos. 1 & 2 is said to be the main basis of the consideration. It is said that the sub-committee was not constituted, whereas, the provisions of Section 16(G)5 as well as the regulation 35 of the regulations made under the Act 1921 do not provide such provision. Section 16(G)(5) of the Act 1921 is extracted hereinunder:-

"16-G (5) No Head of Institution or teacher shall be suspended by the management, unless in the opinion of the management-

(a) the charges against him are serious enough to merit his dismissal, removal or reduction in rank; or

(b) his continuance in office is likely to hamper or prejudice the conduct of disciplinary proceedings against him; or

(c) any criminal case for an offence involving moral turpitude against him is under investigation, inquiry or trial."

17. So far as the provision for constituting sub-committee is concerned, that has been prescribed under regulation 35, which in fact regarding the enquiry and not for passing the suspension order. The regulation 35 reads as under:-

"35. शिकायत अथवा गम्भीर प्रकृति के आरोपों की प्रतिकूल आख्या प्राप्त होने पर समिति, अध्यापकों एवं अन्य कर्मचारियों के विषय में प्रधानाध्यापक अथवा आचार्य अथवा प्रबन्धक को जाँच अधिकारी नियुक्त करेगी (अथवा प्रबन्धक स्वयं जाँच करेगा यदि समिति द्वारा नियमों के अन्तर्गत उसे यह अधिकार प्रतिनिहित हो गये हैं) और प्रधान अध्यापक अथवा आचार्य के विषय में एक छोटी उपसमिति होगी जिसे आख्या यथाशीघ्र प्रस्तुत करने के निर्देश होंगे। चतुर्थ श्रेणी के कर्मचारियों के सम्बन्ध में प्रधानाचार्य/ प्रधानाध्यापक द्वारा किसी वरिष्ठ अध्यापक को जाँच अधिकारी नियुक्त किया जायेगा।"

18. So far as the ground no. 2, which reads that 'no approved chargesheet was served upon respondent no. 6' can not be the zone of consideration of approval or disapproval of the suspension order, whereas, the District Inspector Of Schools could have applied his mind on the evidence/records sent by the Committee of Management, under Regulation 39 and the provisions of section 16(G)(5) should have strictly been followed. Therefore, the second ground also goes against the mandate of the act and regulations.

19. The third ground is also not in consonance with the provisions of the Act 1921, as it has been said that the chargesheet dated 10.01.2025, is not approved by the Committee of Management,' whereas, the District Inspector Of Schools should have applied his mind on the material/evidence regarding the suspension order and not the chargesheet.

20. Further, this Court finds that the District Inspector of Schools, while disapproving the suspension order passed by the Committee of Management has said that since no evidence was made available by the Committee of Management for approval of the suspension order, therefore, the conditions prescribed under Section

16(G)(5) are not fulfilled, thus, the suspension order passed by the Committee of Management has been disapproved, whereas, Section 16(G)(5) laid the first ground for consideration regarding the nature of the charges and there is not a single whisper in the order dated 06.10.2025, to discuss the seriousness of the charges, thus, there seems to be the non-application of mind of the District Inspector of Schools.

21. This Court is also aware of the judgment and order rendered in the case of Committee of Management, D.P.S.N. Inter College, Kanpur(supra), wherein, it is specifically held that the District Inspector of Schools while taking decision regarding approval or disapproval, on suspension order proposed by the Committee of Management, shall record, brief reasons, but so far as the case in hand is concerned that too is missing, as no reason has been recorded, for disapproval of the recommendation of the Committee of Management, in the order impugned dated 06.10.2025. Consequently, the order dated 06.10.2025 is unsustainable in the eyes of law.

22. Ergo, the impugned order dated 06.10.2025, is hereby quashed.

23. The matter is relegated back to the District Inspector of Schools to pass a fresh order, on the papers already sent by the petitioner, on 04.01.2025, as well as the objection given by respondent no. 6, within a period of five weeks from the date of this order, while strictly adhering with the relevant provisions of law.

24. Parties are directed to cooperate in the proceedings before the District Inspector of Schools concerned.

25. It is further provided that no party shall take unnecessary adjournments.

26. The present writ petition is allowed accordingly.

Issue for consideration

Whether it is incumbent upon the District Inspector of Schools (DISs) to issue notice to the Committee of Management (Committee) or the same shall be heard after receiving the proposal/recommendation of the Committee of Management for dismissal of an employee from service or any punishment is awarded as prescribed u/s 16(G)(B) even the provision overtly does not prohibit so?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – U.P. Intermediate Education Act: Section 16 G 3(a)(b); Regulations 31 to 45, of Chapter III of the Regulations - If there are civil consequences of any decision or order, such order/decision has to be preceded by a show cause notice. The basic principle of natural justice is that before adjudication starts, the authority concerned should give to the affected party, a notice of the case, so that he could defend himself. (Para 20, 22, 24)

B. The law of principle of natural justice developed with the intent to give the minimum protection to the rights of the individuals against the arbitrary act or the procedure in judicial, quasi judicial and administrative functioning and that subsequently stretched upto the person (legal entity), if prejudice is caused to the rights. It is trite law that there is implied applicability to the rules of natural justice unless statutory provision either specifically or by necessary implication excludes application of such rules, in any exercise of power prejudicially affecting another. (Para 19)

The principle of natural justice recognized in the jurisprudence in all over world is known as 'Audi alteram partem', which means that no one should be unheard and therefore, the first limb of this principle is to bring the issue in the notice of the person to whom the prejudice would be caused and therefore, the adequate opportunity is required to enable such person (including the legal person) to represent. (Para 17)

In present case, the order dated 26-09-2025 has been passed, whereby the proposal/recommendation of dismissal of services of the opposite party no. 6, which was sent after due consideration (thoroughly considering the enquiry report), by the Committee of Management (Committee), has been disapproved by the DISs, without giving any notice to the Committee, prior to passing the order of disapproval. The Committee plays key role in the day to day administration of any institution/college. Once the proposal has been disapproved, the repercussion would be that such, teacher/headmaster/headmistress, would work more spontaneously. Infact, in the present case, there was complaint regarding the rude and unruly behaviour of the opposite party no. 6 and if the Committee is not given the proper opportunity of hearing so as to defend it's proposal/recommendation, which was passed/given after a thorough consideration, essentially, the prejudice would be caused to the Committee. (Para 25)

In case, the Committee of Management recommends for discharge, removal, dismissal from service or reduce in rank or subjected to any diminution or emulation, in case of Principal, Headmaster or Teacher of the institution as per section 16 G(3)(a) of Regulations, prior passing the order of disapproval, such Committee of Management, shall be heard with preceding notice. The hearing should not be formal, but, it must be substantive. (Para 26)

The order impugned dated 26-09-2025 is hereby quashed as is against the first principle of law i.e. the 'principle of natural justice'. Matter is remitted back to the District Inspector of Schools-II, Lucknow to take a fresh decision.

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Vikas Singh, Mahendra Bahadur Singh

For Respondent(s): C.S.C., Indra Pratap Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. M.B. Singh and Mr. Vikas Singh, learned counsels for the petitioners, Mr. Brijendra Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State and Mr. Indra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 6.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioners have assailed the order dated 26-09-2025 passed by the District Inspector of Schools-II, Lucknow, whereby the matter has been remitted back to the Committee of Management, while disapproving the recommendation of the Committee of Management, for dismissal of the services of the opposite party no. 6.

3. Briefly stated facts are that Chutki Bhandar Girls Intermediate College, Lucknow(hereafter referred to as 'College'), is recognized by the U.P. Intermediate Education Board and imparts education upto intermediate and the college receives grant-in-aid from the state government and the provisions of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 2021 as well as the U.P. High School and Intermediate College(Payment of Salary to the Teachers and Other Employees) Act,1971, are fully applicable on the teaching and non teaching staffs of the college.

4. Factual matrix of the case are that Smt. Shubhra Pandey, took voluntarily retirement, who was working as adhoc principal and thereafter, opposite party no 6, Dr. Suman Shukla, who was working as Lecturer (Civics) in the college, was given the charge of the post of Principal, on officiating basis, on 01-03-2024 and her signatures were sent for approval and attestation, before the District Inspector of Schools (DIOS), which was returned by him, without any approval.

5. It is said that after the officiating charge was given to opposite party no. 6, her behaviour was observed as being rude and uncalled for and she has also started disobeying the instructions of the Committee of Management of the college. On several complaints received against the opposite party no. 6, the preliminary enquiry was instituted against her and thereafter, the Committee of Management in it's meeting dated 13-07-2024, has unanimously resolved for handing over the charge to the another seniormost teacher, namely, Smt. Sunita on place of opposite party no. 6 and the opposite party no. 6 was directed to hand over the charge to Smt. Sunita, but, that was declined by her and she forcibly continued herself as officiating Principal and created unpleasant and awkward situation and thereafter looking into the unruly behaviour of opposite party no. 6, under the compelling circumstances, the Committee of Management suspended her and contemplated an enquiry proceeding and the papers regarding the approval of suspension have also been forwarded to the District Inspector of Schools, Lucknow for it's approval, which was disapproved and being aggrieved, the Committee of Management instituted Writ A No. 8442 of 2025, wherein this Hon'ble Court passed the order, on 21-11-2025, whereby the order of disapproval dated 09-07-2025, passed by the District Inspector of Schools, has been quashed and the matter has been remitted back to the DIOS-II Lucknow to pass order afresh, which is still pending consideration.

6. Further, facts are that in the meanwhile, the Enquiry Committee constituted by the college of management for conducting enquiry against the opposite party no. 6, completed the enquiry proceedings and submitted enquiry report, whereafter, the Committee of Management took a decision on 27-07-2025, for recommendation of the dismissal of services of opposite party no. 6, seeking approval/consent of the DIOS. In this regard, the entire papers including the proposal of the Committee of Management of the college dated 22-06-2025, was sent to the District Inspector of Schools vide letter dated 27-07-2025. On receiving the proposal/recommendation of the Committee of Management, the District Inspector of Schools issued notice on 14-08-2025, to the opposite party no. 6, the delinquent employee but without affording any opportunity and associating the petitioners, the order impugned dated 26-09-2025 has been passed, by which the recommendation for dismissal of the services of the opposite party no. 6 has been disapproved and the records sent by the Committee of Management has also been relegated back to the college. The order of disapproval passed by the DIOS-II, dated 26-09-2025, is challenged herein.

7. Contention put forth by learned counsel for the petitioners is that the Committee of Management after thoroughly considering the enquiry report, has resolved/recommended for dismissal of services of opposite party no. 6 and the same was sent to the DIOS-II, Lucknow with its recommendation alongwith the relevant documents. He has specifically submitted that no dismissal order has finally been passed by the petitioners rather the recommendation/proposal of Committee of Management was sent for approval of the D.I.O.S. Further submission is that the DIOS-II, Lucknow, without hearing the Committee of Management, has remitted back the matter to the Committee of Management while disapproving the proposal/recommendation of the same, which caused great prejudice to the rights of the Committee of Management. He added that the order/letter dated 26-09-2025 is against the 'principles of natural justice' and therefore, the order dated 26-09-2025 does not stand on its own legs and is liable to be quashed.

8. On the other hand, counsels for the opposite parties have refuted the contentions aforesaid and submitted that the present petitioners have also approached this court by way of instituting Writ A No. 8442 of 2025 while assailing the disapproval of the suspension order of opposite party no. 6, passed by the DIOS, wherein the final Judgment and Order was passed on 21-11-2025 and the matter was remitted back to the DIOS-II, Lucknow to pass a fresh order while affording the proper opportunity of hearing to the petitioners as well as the opposite party no. 6 including the other stakeholders and he has raised doubt that the order has still not been placed before the DIOS concerned. They further submitted that there is no ambiguity or erroneousness in the order dated 26-09-2025, assailed herein this writ petition, thus, no interference is warranted.

9. In addition, they argued that unless the DIOS-II, Lucknow takes a decision in compliance of the order dated 21-11-2025, passed in Writ A No. 8442 of 2025, on the approval of the suspension order of the opposite party no. 6, no further proceeding can go on regarding any recommendation/proposal made by the Committee of Management, thereof.

10. Upon considering the submissions of learned counsels for the parties and after perusal of records, it emerges that the petitioners have assailed the order of disapproval of the recommendation of the Committee of Management/petitioners for dismissal of services of opposite party no. 6.

11. It is also contended before this court, that since this court earlier, vide Judgment and Order dated 21-11-2025, passed in Writ A No.8442 of 2025, directed the DIOS-II, Lucknow to take a fresh decision, on the proposal/recommendation of the suspension of the opposite party no. 6, therefore, no decision could be taken further, unless the decision in compliance of the order dated 21-11-2025, is taken by the DIOS-II, Lucknow.

12. This court finds that disapproval of the recommendation of the suspension of the services of the opposite party no. 6 was under challenge in Writ A No. 8442 of 2025 and there was certain reason for reaching to the conclusion to quash the order of disapproval passed by the DIOS-II, Lucknow, whereas in the present matter, the recommendation of the Committee of Management for dismissal of the services of the opposite party no. 6 which has been disapproved, is under challenge, which is altogether different stage, as there is no restriction that unless the suspension order is approved or disapproved, no further proceeding or any enquiry can go on and therefore, when the enquiry has been concluded by the Committee of Management and the proposal/recommendation is made for dismissal of the services of the opposite party no. 6, the District Inspector of Schools is empowered to consider the same, under the provisions of section 16 G 3(a)(b) of the Act, 1921 read with Regulations.

13. The provision with respect to the removal, dismissal or discharge from service and reduction in rank etc. has been provided under 16 G(3)(b) of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921(hereafter referred to as 'Act, 1921'), which reads as under:-

"16-(G)(3)(b) The Inspector may approve or disapprove or reduce or enhance the punishment or approve or disapprove of the notice for termination of service proposed by the management:

Provided that in the cases of punishment, before passing orders, Inspector shall give an opportunity to the Principal, the Headmaster or the teacher to show cause within a fortnight of the receipt of the notice why the proposed punishment should not be inflicted."

14. Further, the Regulations 31 to 45, of Chapter III of the 'Regulations', prescribes the provision regarding the punishment, enquiry and suspension of the employees. The relevant Regulations 35 & 37 are quoted hereinunder:-

"35. शिकायत अथवा गम्भीर प्रकृति के आरोपों की प्रतिकूल आख्या प्राप्त होने पर समिति, अध्यापकों एवं अन्य कर्मचारियों के विषय में प्रधानाध्यापक अथवा आचार्य अथवा प्रबन्धक को जाँच अधिकारी नियुक्त करेगी (अथवा प्रबन्धक स्वयं जाँच करेगा यदि समिति द्वारा नियमों के अन्तर्गत उसे यह अधिकार प्रतिनिहित हो गये है) और प्रधान अध्यापक अथवा आचार्य के विषय में एक छोटी उपसमिति होगी जिसे आख्या यथाशीघ्र प्रस्तुत करने के निर्देश होंगे।

37. जाँच-अधिकारी से कार्यवाही की आख्या तथा संस्तुति प्राप्त होने के बाद शीघ्र ही कर्मचारी को नोटिस देने के बाद प्रबन्ध समिति की बैठक कार्यवाही की आख्या तथा संस्तुति पर विचार करने के लिए होगी और उस मामले पर निर्णय लेगी। कर्मचारी को, यदि वह चाहता है समिति के समक्ष स्वयं उपस्थित होने की आज्ञा दी जायेगी जिससे वह अपना अभियोग प्रस्तुत कर सके और बैठक में उपस्थित किसी सदस्य द्वारा पूछे गये किसी प्रश्न का उत्तर दे सके। तब समिति पूर्ण आख्या, समस्त सम्बन्धित कागज पत्र सहित निरीक्षक अथवा मण्डलीय निरीक्षिका को उसके द्वारा प्रस्तावित कार्यवाही को स्वीकृत हेतु प्रेषित करेगी।

किन्तु, चतुर्थ श्रेणी के कर्मचारियों के सम्बन्ध में निरीक्षक निरीक्षिका को स्वीकृत हेतु कोई आख्या नहीं भेजी

जायेगी। इनके सम्बन्ध में उपरोक्त सारी कार्यवाही नियुक्ति प्राधिकारी द्वारा की जायेगी।"

15. The question, which is crop up herein for adjudication is that whether it is incumbent upon the District Inspector of Schools to issue notice to the Committee of Management or the same shall be heard after receiving the proposal/recommendation of the Committee of Management for dismissal of an employee from service or any punishment is awarded as prescribed under Section 16(G)(B) even the provision overtly does not prohibit so ?

16. When this court examines the aforesaid issue, it is apparent from the provision envisaged under 16 G(3)(b) of the 'Act,1921', that the Inspector may approve or disapprove or reduce or enhance the punishment or approve or disapprove of the notice for termination of the services, recommended/proposed by the Committee of Management, provided that in the cases of punishment, before passing orders, Inspector shall give an opportunity to the Principal, Headmaster or the Teacher to show cause within fortnight of the receipt of the notice, whereas, there is no provision has been prescribed in the event of the disapproval of the proposal of punishment of the Committee of Management for issuing notice or preceding opportunity to be heard.

17. The principle of natural justice recognized in the jurisprudence in all over word is known as 'Audi alteram partem', which means that no one should be unheard and therefore, the first limb of this principle is to bring the issue in the notice of the person to whom the prejudice would be caused and therefore, the adequate opportunity is required to enable such person (including the legal person) to represent. The reasonable opportunity of hearing, if lacking in any decision, the same vitiates the proceeding, wholly and therefore, it is necessary that a party should be served the notice before any adverse order is passed against the same. In fact, this principle was first time enumerated when the historic document was prepared at Runnymede in 1215, which is the first statutory recognition.

18. In the celebrated case of Cooper Vs Wandsworths Board of Works (1863) 143 ER 414, the following principle has been laid :-

"Even God himself did not pass sentence upon Adam before he was called upon to make his defence. 'Adam' (says God), 'where are thou? Hast thou not eaten of the tree whereof, I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat?"

19. In fact, the law of principle of natural justice developed with the intent to give the minimum protection to the rights of the individuals against the arbitrary act or the procedure in judicial, quasi judicial and administrative functioning and that subsequently stretched upto the person (legal entity), if prejudice is caused to the rights. It is trite law that there is implied applicability to the rules of natural justice unless statutory provision either specifically or by necessary implication excludes application of such rules, in any exercise of power prejudicially affecting another.

20. It is not out of place to mention the law rendered in the case of Gorkha Security Services Vs Government (NCT of Delhi) and Others, reported in (2014) 9 Supreme Court Cases 105, wherein, in paragraph no. 16, it has been held as follows :-

"16. It is a common case of the parties that the blacklisting has to be preceded by a show-cause notice. Law in this regard is firmly grounded and does not even demand much amplification. The necessity of compliance with the principles of natural justice by giving the opportunity to the person against whom action of blacklisting is sought to be taken has a valid and solid rationale behind it. With blacklisting, many civil and/or evil consequences follow. It is described as "civil death" of a person who is foisted with the order of blacklisting. Such an order is stigmatic in nature and debars such a person from participating in government tenders which means precluding him from the award of government contracts.

21. Again, in Raghunath Thakur v. State of Bihar [(1989) 1 SCC 229] the aforesaid principle has been reiterated in the following manner:-

"4. Indisputably, no notice had been given to the appellant of the proposal of blacklisting the appellant. It was contended on behalf of the State Government that there was no requirement in the rule of giving any prior notice before blacklisting any person. Insofar as the contention that there is no requirement specifically of giving any notice is concerned, the respondent is right. But it is an implied principle of the rule of law that any order having civil consequence should be passed only after following the principles of natural justice. It has to be realised that blacklisting any person in respect of business ventures has civil consequence for the future business of the person concerned in any event. Even if the rules do not express so, it is an elementary principle of natural justice that parties affected by any order should have right of being heard and making representations against the order. In that view of the matter, the last portion of the order insofar as it directs blacklisting of the appellant in respect of future contracts, cannot be sustained in law. In the premises, that portion of the order directing that the appellant be placed in the blacklist in respect of future contracts under the Collector is set aside. So far as the cancellation of the bid of the appellant is concerned, that is not affected. This order will, however, not prevent the State Government or the appropriate authorities from taking any future steps for blacklisting the appellant if the Government is so entitled to do in accordance with law i.e. after giving the appellant due notice and an opportunity of making representation. After hearing the appellant, the State Government will be at liberty to pass any order in accordance with law indicating the reasons therefor. We, however, make it quite clear that we are not expressing any opinion on the correctness or otherwise of the allegations made against the appellant. The appeal is thus disposed of."

22. It has been so held in the abovesaid case that if there are civil consequences of any decision or order, such order/decision has to be preceded by a show cause notice.

23. The aforesaid principle has further been reiterated by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of UMC Technologies Private Ltd. Vs Food Corporation of India and Another, reported in (2021) 2 Supreme Court Cases 551. Paragraph no. 13 of the said Judgment is relevant, which is extracted as follows :-

"13. At the outset, it must be noted that it is the first principle of civilised jurisprudence that a person against whom any action is sought to be taken or whose right or interests are being affected should be given a reasonable opportunity to defend himself. The basic principle of natural justice is that before adjudication starts, the authority concerned should give to the affected party a notice of the case against him so that he can defend himself. Such notice should be adequate and the grounds necessitating action and the penalty/action proposed should be mentioned specifically and unambiguously. An order travelling beyond the bounds of notice is impermissible and without jurisdiction to that extent. This Court in Nasir Ahmad v. Custodian General, Evacuee Property [Nasir Ahmad v. Custodian General, Evacuee Property, (1980) 3 SCC 1] has held that it is essential for the notice to specify the particular grounds on the basis of which an action is proposed to be taken so as to enable the noticee to answer the case against him. If these conditions are not satisfied, the person cannot be said to have been granted any reasonable opportunity of being heard.

24. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held that the basic principle of natural justice is that before adjudication starts, the authority concerned should give to the affected party, a notice of the case, so that he could defend himself.

25. This court finds that the order dated 26-09-2025 has been passed, whereby the proposal/recommendation of dismissal of services of the opposite party no. 6, has been disapproved, which was sent after due consideration, by the Committee of Management. The Committee of Management after thoroughly considering the enquiry report, has come to the conclusion to propose/recommend the dismissal of the services of the opposite party no. 6 but the District Inspector of Schools admittedly has not given any notice to the Committee of Management, prior passing the order of disapproval of the proposal of the Committee of Management. It is infact the Committee of Management, which plays key role in the day to day administration of any institution/college. Once the proposal is been disapproved, the repercussion would be that such, teacher/ headmaster/ headmistress, would work more spontaneously. Infact, in the present case, there was complaint regarding the rude and unruly behaviour of the opposite party no. 6 and if the Committee of Management is not given the proper opportunity of hearing so as to defend it's proposal/recommendation, which was infact passed/ given after a thorough consideration, essentially, the prejudice would be caused to the Committee of Management.

26. In view of the aforesaid submissions and discussions, this court is of the considered opinion that in case, the Committee of Management recommends for discharge, removal, dismissal from service or reduce in rank or subjected to any diminution or emulation, in case of Principal, Headmaster or Teacher of the institution as per section 16 G(3)(a) of Regulations, prior passing the order of disapproval, such Committee of Management, shall be heard with preceding notice. The hearing should not be formal, but, it must be substantive.

27. Consequently, this court finds that the order impugned herein is against the first principle of law i.e. the 'principle of natural justice'. Ergo, the order impugned dated 26-09-2025 is hereby quashed.

28. The matter is remitted back to the District Inspector of Schools-II, Lucknow to take a fresh decision, on the proposal/recommendation of the Committee of Management, strictly adhering to the provisions of law and affording opportunity of hearing to Committee of Management, within the period of six weeks, from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before him.

29. With the aforesaid observations, the instant writ petition is hereby allowed.

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether order dated 19.11.2025 is valid? Order dated 19.11.2025 has been passed mainly on the ground that the minimum eligibility criteria provided vide circular dated 29.03.2011 issued by the ICAR, has not been followed, rather another eligibility criterion, which has been mentioned in the advertisement, and therefore, the whole selection proceedings has been stated to be unlawful.

Headnotes

A. Service Law – Uttar Pradesh (Krishi Evam Prodyogik Vishwavidyalaya) Adhiniyam, 1958: Chapter 21: Section 28(r) - Every order has to stand on its own legs – In present case as the findings recorded regarding the circular dated 29.03.2011 issued by the ICAR, stated to be applicable regarding eligibility criteria/qualifications, in the appointment of the Program-Coordinator of

K.V.K. of the respondent university, is non est, therefore, the whole order is erroneous and ambiguous. (Para 30)

B. The circular dated 29.03.2011, rather the circular which is as per the argument of the counsel for the petitioners dated 26.04.2012, which is ought to have been considered, have been ignored by the Board of Management, therefore, there was no question so as to assume by any authority, while publishing the advertisement to prescribe the minimum eligibility criteria for the appointment of the post of Program Coordinator.

The decision of the enquiry committee constituted by the Chancellor has been taken into consideration and the same has been accepted, but there is no discussion of any kind over the same, by the Board of Management of the University. (Para 26)

It has been noticed the provisions regarding number and qualification of employees of the University, as is provided u/s 28(r) of Chapter XXI of the Act of 1958, which says that the number of Teachers in each department and their qualification, shall be recommended by the academic council which would be approved by the Board of Management. Admittedly, in the 150th meeting of the Board of Management, the agenda no. 10 was considered and discussed and the agenda was approved w.r.t. the qualification which, in fact, was mentioned in the advertisement for appointment of the post of Program Coordinator. The aforesaid resolution of the Board of Management has never been revoked or recalled by any competent authority. (Para 27)

C. The report of the enquiry committee, which is mentioned in the resolution of the Board, by which the advertisement no. 5/2014 has been cancelled, has only been mentioned and there is no discussion that why the Board of Management is accepting the report and canceling the advertisement no. 5/2014.

The Enquiry Committee has not unanimously come to the conclusion regarding the charges leveled against the petitioners, to be found proved, though, this all is the subject matter of the Board of Management to be considered. (Para 28, 29)

The resolution dated 19.11.2025 sent by Secretary, Board of Management to the State Government for its approval are hereby quashed. The matter is relegated back to the Board of Management of respondent university to take a fresh decision.

"Mr. Uttam Kumar Verma, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 3 to 6 and Mr. Pradeep Kumar Singh, learned counsel appearing for the State are directed to seek detailed instructions in the matter.

List this matter on 9.12.2025 as fresh."

2. In-compliance of the aforesaid, Mr. Uttam Kumar Verma, learned counsel for the respondent-university has placed the seriatim of the orders and the action taken thereof by the Board of Management as well as the Chancellor, stating it to be the instructions, which is taken on record.

3. Heard Mr. Vikas Vikram Singh and Mr. Rajat Gangwar, learned counsel for the petitioners, Mr. Uttam Kumar Verma, counsel for the respondent-university, Mr. Shailendra Kumar Singh, Chief Standing Counsel assisted by Mr. P.K. Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State.

4. By means of the present petition, the petitioners have assailed the minutes of emergency meeting of Board of Management dated 19.11.2025 of Chandra Shekhar Azad University Of Agriculture & Technology, Kanpur(hereinafter, referred to as University) as well as the letter dated 19.11.2025, by which the resolution of the board of management was placed before the State Government for its approval.

5. The contentions put forth by learned counsel appearing for the petitioners is that the respondent-university is governed under the Uttar Pradesh (Krishi Evam Prodyogik Vishwavidyalaya) Adhiniyam, 1958(hereinafter, referred to as Act 1958). He submits that in the year 2014, the respondent-university invited applications for appointment against the number of teaching posts in the University by issuing advertisement nos. 1/2014, 3/2014 and 5/2014 and the advertisement no. 5/2014 was for appointment on the post of Program Coordinator for Krishi Vigyan

Kendra(KVK). He added that the educational qualification was prescribed in the advertisement itself, which was approved by the Board of Management of the University, in its 150th meeting and in the agenda of Board meeting. The minimum eligibility criteria were proposed, in proposal no. 10 and was approved by the Board's Meeting and the same is still intact as that has never been assailed or revoked by any authority of law or person.

6. Further, submission is that the petitioners, who holds Master of Science in Agriculture & Horticulture degree and Doctorate in Horticulture, being fully qualified applied for consideration of the post of Program Coordinator, in furtherance to the advertisement no. 5/2014 and an interview letter was issued to the petitioners on 06.12.2014 and in furtherance thereof, they appeared before the selection committee on 23.12.2014 and the selection committee, after due consideration, recommended the name of the petitioners for appointment, which was to be placed before the Board of Management, scheduled on 31.12.2014, but a day prior to the said date, due to some complaint, the Chancellor passed the order through its Principal Secretary, whereby, the meeting of the Board of Management, which was scheduled on 31.12.2014 was kept in abeyance, until further orders and the selection proceedings were also suspended. He added that along with advertisement no. 5/2014, advertisement nos. 1/2014 & 3/2014 were also issued and in that respect, complaints were also made with respect to irregularities and corrupt practices against the then Vice-Chancellor, Professor Munna Singh, whereafter, on 05.05.2015, a three-member enquiry committee was constituted by Chancellor vider order date 05.05.2015 to conduct the inquiry against Dr. Munna Singh and the inquiry committee so appointed, has submitted its final report, on 19.09.2016. The report was considered by the Chancellor, whereafter, on 04.10.2016, the remaining period of service of the then Vice-Chancellor of the University was terminated and on 07.10.2016, the Chancellor directed the acting Vice-Chancellor of the University to place a copy of the order dated 04.10.2016 alongwith the inquiry report dated 19.09.2016, before the Board of Management, to take appropriate decision within a period of 15 days.

7. He argued that after passing of about 11 months, while defying the order passed by the Chancellor, the decision was taken by the Board of Management and advertisement nos. 1/2014 & 3/2014 were cancelled, whereas, the advertisement no. 5/2014, in furtherance to which the selection committee had recommended the name of the petitioners for appointment, was not cancelled. He also submitted that one of the candidates, Ram Lakhan Singh, who had also appeared before the selection committee, instituted a writ petition, bearing Writ A No. 12751 of 2025, before this Court and after entertaining the writ petition, this Court had passed an interim order on 03.11.2025, for opening of the sealed cover. He submitted that the Board of Management, even after the letter written by the Chancellor on 07.10.2016, kept on sleeping over the decision regarding the recommendation of the Selection Committee, which was done in furtherance to the advertisement no. 5 of 2014 and once the order was passed by this Court for opening the sealed cover, the impugned order dated 19.11.2025 was passed, by which the recommendation of the selection committee has been cancelled, thus, the order passed by this Court for opening the sealed cover has been violated by the authorities concerned.

8. He further argued that since Mr. Ram Lakhan Singh, the petitioner in the Writ Petition No. 12751 of 2025, was not recommended by the selection committee for appointment, as anyhow the sealed covers are opened, wherein, it was found that the petitioners were recommended for appointment in furtherance to the advertisement no. 5/2014. The present petitioners, being agrieved with the decision dated 19.11.2025 have instituted the present writ petition.

9. The contention of counsel for the petitioners is that the sole and main ground for rejecting the recommendation of the Selection Committee while taking the decision vide impugned order dated 19.11.2025 is that the petitioners do not possess the requisite qualification as is provided under the Circular file No. 1-3/2009AE-1 dated 29.03.2011 issued by the Indian Council for Agricultural Research(hereinafter, referred to as ICAR). He has drawn attention towards the circular dated 29.03.2011 issued by ICAR appended as annexure no. 16 to this writ petition and submitted that, in fact, the aforesaid circular do not have binding effect, so far as the minimum eligibility criteria for the post of Program Coordinator is concerned. In support of his contentions, he has referred Section 28(r) of Chapter 21 of the Act, 1958, which reads as under:-

"(r) the number, qualifications, emoluments and other conditions of service (including the age of retirement) of teachers and salaried officers of the University, and the preparation and maintenance of a record of their services and activities;"

10. Referring the aforesaid, he submitted that so far as the number, qualifications and other service conditions of the Teachers and salaried officers of the University is concerned, the provisions prescribes that the number of Teachers in each department and their qualifications shall be as 'recommended by the academic council and approved by the Board of Management.' He submitted that, admittedly, the Board of Management in its 150th meeting, in agenda no. 10, has placed the issue regarding the approval of the qualification criteria for direct recruitment and that too has been approved and in consonance thereof, the advertisement no. 5/2014 was published. He submitted that nothing will be valid against the provisions prescribed under the statute and if the authorities had taken decision that, since the minimum eligibility criterion and the qualification which was prescribed in the advertisement no. 5 of 2014, is against the circular of ICAR dated 29.03.2011, wherein, certain qualifications and criteria are prescribed, have not been complied with, the same goes against the provision of statute, therefore, the finding and the decision, taken as such, by the Board of Management itself is unlawful.

11. While buttress his arguments, he submitted that in fact the decision which was taken by the Board of Management after an interim order was passed by this Court on 03.11.2025, in Writ A No. 12751 of 2025, is in fact, do not stand on its own legs, as the finding which is recorded and the reasoning which have been given, are nonest and is against the law, therefore, the whole decision which was taken on 09.11.2025, canceling the recommendation of the Selection Committee, vitiates in the eyes of law. He further added that since the decision with respect to the qualification which was approved in 150th meeting of Board of Management of the respondent-University has been reviewed in the order dated 19.11.2025, thus, the same is also against the settled proposition of law as the Board of Management could not review its own orders. He submitted that in fact the resolution which was passed in 150th meeting of Board of Management of the University has neither been revoked nor cancelled by any competent authority.

12. He has also given strength to his arguments while referring the judgment and order rendered in the case of Mohinder Singh Gill versus Chief Election Commissioner New Delhi - (1978) 1 SCC 40 and has referred paragraph 8 of the abovesaid judgment:-

"8. The second equally relevant matter is that when a statutory functionary makes an order based on certain grounds, its validity must be judged by the reasons so mentioned and cannot be supplemented by fresh reasons in the shape of affidavit or otherwise. Otherwise, an order bad in the beginning may, by the time it comes to court on account of a challenge, get validated by additional grounds later brought out. We may here draw attention to the observations of Bose, J. in Gordhandas Bhanji [Commr. of Police, Bombay v. Gordhandas Bhanji, 1951 SCC 1088 : AIR 1952 SC 16] :

"Public orders, publicly made, in exercise of a statutory authority cannot be construed in the light of explanations subsequently given by the officer making the order of what he meant, or of what was in his mind, or what he intended to do. Public orders made by public authorities are meant to have public effect and are intended to affect the acting and conduct of those to whom they are addressed and must be construed objectively with reference to the language used in the order itself."

Orders are not like old wine becoming better as they grow older."

13. In addition, the counsel for the petitioners has also argued that the status of ICAR has also been decided in the judgment and order rendered in the case of Dr. Anil Kumar Katiyar and Another Versus State of U.P. and Others alongwith other connected writ petitions, reported in 2023 SCC OnLine All 2986, and he has referred paragraph nos. 20, 35 and 49 of the abovesaid judgment, which are extracted as under:-

"20. Sri Ganguli has accepted during the course of his submission that this budget has been kept under a different head and State Government has nothing to do with that budget provided by the Council inasmuch as those appointed and employed on the posts of Scientist or Subject Matter Specialist at the centre (KVK) only as per the MOU and State Government has never provided any matching grant or has directed for framing any rules or regulations to otherwise provide for the service conditions of such employees. Sri Ganguli would also not dispute that Chandra Shekhar Azad Agricultural University has also not made any amendment in its first Statute which has been made applicable to the universities separately to govern the service condition of the employees like Scientist, Subject Matter Specialist and other technical staff or other regular staff working with KVK.

35. Sri Rakesh Kumar, learned Advocate appearing for the other university, namely, Chandra Shekhar Azad University in one connected matter, adopts the arguments advanced by Sri Ganguli with a further addition that judgment in the case of Dr. Mithilesh Kumar Pandey (supra) would not apply as there in that case there was a resolution of the Board of Management of the university concerned taking such staff of the KVK at par with the faculty of university but here there is no such resolution placed before the Court.

49. Now interestingly, Division Bench has also noticed the stand of ICAR filed before the Court by means of a short counter affidavit, vide paragraphs 20, 21 and 22 of the judgment which are reproduced hereunder:

"(20) The ICAR has filed a short counter affidavit which also needs to be referred to. According to the short counter affidavit, Krishi Vigyan Kendras are established under the administrative control of a Host Organization which in this case is the University. The said short counter affidavit states that the ICAR provides cent percent financial assistance to Krishi Vigyan Kendras under the 'Salary' and 'General' heads of the annual budget and further that the service conditions of the employees of the Krishi Vigyan Kendras are to be governed by the Rules, Regulations and Policies of the respective organization. The ICAR in the said short counter affidavit has clearly stated that the University is the Host Organization and at the time of Memorandum of establishment of Krishi Vigyan Kendra, Understanding was signed between ICAR and the Host Organization according to which all staff of Krishi Vigyan Kendras shall be borne on the establishment of the Grantee (Host Organization) only. It also provides that the administrative control over the staff employed under the Scheme, shall vest in the host institution and that placement of the staff in case the project is terminated shall be the sole responsibility of the Host Organization.

(21) Para 13 of the short counter affidavit filed by the ICAR, it has been clearly stated that staff of Krishi Vigyan Kendras are the employees of the Host Organization and not that of ICAR. Such stipulation is made in the Memorandum of Understanding signed between the ICAR and the University. The short counter affidavit further refers to a Circular of the ICAR dated 17.06.2015 according to which all staff of Krishi Vigyan Kendras shall be borne on the establishment of the Host Institution and further that the service conditions including recruitment, appointment etc. of the staff of Krishi Vigyan Kendra shall be regulated as per the Rules and Regulations of the Host Institution. In para 16 of the short counter affidavit, it has been stated that as per Circular dated 17.06.2015 issued by the ICAR, the staff of Krishi Vigyan Kendras are the employees of the respective Host Organizations and in this case, all the employees of Krishi Vigyan Kendras are the employees of the University and their service conditions such as appointment, probation, promotion, disciplinary matters, leave rules and age of superannuation etc. will be governed by the Rules and Regulations of the University. It also mentions that the age of retirement/superannuation is to be decided by the respective Host Organization. Thus, the case of ICAR is that the conditions of service including the age of superannuation will be as per the Rules applicable to the employees of the University and further that the staff working in Krishi Vigyan Kendras are the staff of the Host Organization which in this case is the University.

(22) The State Counsel has argued that the petitioners are the employees of Krishi Vigyan Kendras and not that of the University. However, having regard to the stand taken by the ICAR and as per the Memorandum of Understanding entered into ICAR which is Funding Agency and the University, it is the Host Institute under whose control the staff of Krishi Vigyan Kendras work. As per the said Memorandum of Understanding, so far as the conditions of service of the staff of Krishi Vigyan Kendras are concerned, the same are to be governed by the Rules and Regulations applicable to the employees of the University."

14. Referring the aforesaid, the counsel appearing before the Court has admitted the legal position that ICAR's circular has not been adopted by the Board of Management of the university. He has further placed reliance on the judgment rendered in the case of Dr. Shiv Kumar Singh versus State of U.P. and Ors. reported in 2011 SCC OnLine All 2369 and has referred paragraph no. 11 of the aforesaid judgment, which is extracted as under:-

"11. It is settled law that if a Statute provides to do a thing in a particular manner then that thing has to be done in that very manner. In case the petitioner was not having requisite qualification as provided under the Statute or in the advertisement, certainly it would have been a case where the petitioner could be held ineligible for appointment. But here the case is different, the petitioner possess essential qualification as provided under the relevant Statute of the University and the advertisement inviting the application for the appointment on the aforesaid post of Assistant Professor. The qualification prescribed by I.C.A.R. may be there but unless it is inserted in the Statute of the University, that can have no binding force. In the event of non insertion of the said qualification in the statute, the I.C.A.R. may take action against the University (if it is so permissible) but unless the alleged instruction of I.C.A.R. of the year 2003 (which has not even been brought on record), is inserted in the Statute, that will not vitiate the selection in question and the petitioner's right to continue on the post would be unaffected, as his selection was made as per prescribed qualification given in the Statute. The view taken by us finds support from the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Prof. Chandra Prakash Jha v. Vice Chancellor, Allahabad University, (2000) (2) UPLBEC 1134: (2000 ALJ 1667) where this Court has held as under:

"It is settled law that delegated legislation is as binding as the parent legislation unless there is conflict between the two. We do not find any conflict. In fact Section 49(d) and (e) of the Act states that the statutes of the Universities can provide the terms and conditions of service of a person appointed to a post under the University. In our opinion Section 49(d) and (e) includes the power to fix the age of superannuation of the University teachers. Since the age of superannuation has been fixed by Statute 16, it can only be altered by amending the Statute. In the system of administration we have adopted from the British, the executive is subordinate to the legislature. Hence in our opinion the Central Government has no power to issue any executive order abrogating or modifying any provision in the U.P. State University Act or the statutes made thereunder. In our opinion if any direction of the U.G.C. had not been complied with by the University concerned, the U.G.C. can withhold or reduce the financial assistance given to that university, but neither the Central Government nor the U.G.C. has any power to amend the Act or statute. Under Section 50(1) the State Government could amend the first statute made by the State Government at any time up to 31.12.1990, and the Executive Council under Section 50(2) can amend the Statute, thereafter. Under Section 50(4) the amendment in the statute has to be submitted to the Chancellor who may assent to it or withhold his assent therefrom or remit it to the Executive Council for further consideration. Hence any amendment to Statute 16.24 changing the age of superannuation of University teachers can only be done in accordance with Section 50 and by the authority mentioned in Section 50. No such amendment can be made by any other authority or, in any other manner. If Sri Upadhyaya's submission is accepted it will logically lead to the result that the Central Government or U.G.C. can issue a direction to the University not to obey or comply with the Act or statutes, and thus by an executive order the University statute (which is a piece of delegated legislation) can be abrogated or modified. We cannot accept such submission."

15. Referring the aforesaid, he submitted that the qualification if any, prescribed by the ICAR with respect to the qualification of appointment of Scientist or likewise post in the University, would have no bearing at all as the statute of the University would prevail.

16. He further emphasized on the fact that vide order dated 07.10.2016, the then Chancellor of the University, directed the payment of the entire salary together with the allowances, for the entire period of his suspension. Further added that in fact, the inquiry committee has also not reached on unanimous or ultimate conclusion regarding the charges leveled against Mr. Prof. Munna Singh. He submitted that the Board of Management has not considered the fact that it is not the opinion of the Chairman of the Enquiry Committee which matters, but the opinions of the Members of the Committee are also valuable as the two members, as well as the chairman, gave their separate opinions/observations while concluding the inquiry proceeding. Moreso, one of the members has said nothing regarding any irregularity committed by the Vice Chancellor, Professor Munna Singh, but he has observed to this extent only that the eligibility criteria provided in the advertisement, is not in-consonance with the Circular dated 29.03.2011, of the ICAR.

17. Concluding his arguments, he submitted that since the order dated 19.11.2025 and the finding thereof is against the provisions of Act 1958, therefore, the same is liable to be quashed.

18. On the other hand, Mr. Uttam Kumar Verma, learned counsel appearing for the respondent-university has vehemently opposed the contentions of aforesaid and submitted that the advertisement no. 5/2014 was published in October 2014 and in compliance thereof, the Selection Committee was constituted, after the resolution of Board of Management, in its 150th meeting and thereafter, a complaint was received by the Chancellor, regarding irregularities committed by the then Vice Chancellor, whereafter, the Principal Secretary to the Chancellor vide letter dated 30.12.2014, issued a direction for putting the meeting of the Board of Management in abeyance which was scheduled for 31.12.2014. He submitted that thereafter a preliminary inquiry was done and subsequently, a three-member committee was constituted, headed by a retired Judge of this Court, who submitted his report on 19.09.2016.

19. Referring the aforesaid report, he submits that one member of the committee, in the conclusion of the report, has observed that whether the charges leveled against the then Vice-Chancellor, namely, Munna Singh, were proven against him or not in the light of the documentary and oral evidences adduced during the enquiry and not beyond that and therefore, he was of firm view that he should not express any opinion on the sanctity of whole selection process, whereas, he pointed out the circular dated 29.03.2011 issued by ICAR regarding its non-compliance. He also added that each member of enquiry committee had made their separate opinion and the recommendation was, to quash the selection proceedings.

20. He further submitted that in-compliance of the aforesaid recommendation, the meeting of the Board of Management of the respondent-university was convened and decision was taken to cancel advertisement nos. 1/2014 and 3/2014, whereas, due to some mistakes, the proceedings of selection, which was done in furtherance of advertisement no. 5/2014 was not cancelled. He also submitted that the decision taken by the Board of Management is based on the decision taken by the Enquiry Committee and if the decision in the same stroke was not taken for cancelling the advertisement no. 5/2014, that is merely a fault and that does not give strength to the sanctity of the advertisement or any proceedings held thereof.

21. Adding his arguments, he submitted that once the order was passed by this Court on 03.11.2025, the meeting of the Board of Management of the University was convened and a lawful decision was taken for cancelling the recommendation of the Selection Committee. During the course of his arguments, he submitted that the Circular of ICAR is in fact of 26.04.2012 which fixes the terms and conditions with respect to the qualification for the post of Program Coordinator.

22. Referring the decision taken by the Board of Management, after the order dated 03.11.2025 passed by this Court, he submitted that there is no erroneousness or ambiguity in the decision of the Board and after thoroughly considering the pros and cons of the matter, the Board of Directors has taken decision and therefore, no interference is warranted in the same.

23. Mr. Shailendra Kumar Singh, learned Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State submitted that though, the letter has been received by the State, which was sent by the Secretary, Board of Management of the respondent-university dated 19.11.2025, but the decision is still pending consideration.

24. Upon considering the submission of counsel for the parties, it is apparent that the petitioners have assailed the order dated 19.11.2025, by which the Board of Management of the respondent-university, has taken a decision, in-compliance of the order dated 03.11.2025 passed in Writ A No. 12751 of 2025 and on the same day, i.e. on 19/11/2025, the letter was written by Secretary of Board to the State Govt. which is also under challenge.

25. The matter before the Court is to examine the validity of the order dated 19.11.2025. This Court finds that the order dated 19.11.2025 has been passed mainly on the ground that the minimum eligibility criteria provided vide circular dated 29.03.2011 issued by the ICAR, has not been followed, rather another eligibility criterion, which has been mentioned in the advertisement, and therefore, the whole selection proceedings has been stated to be unlawful.

26. Further the decision of the enquiry committee constituted by the Chancellor has also been taken into consideration and the same has been accepted, but there is no discussion of any kind over the same, by the Board of Management of the University. In fact, during course of argument, the counsel for the respondent-university himself has submitted that it is the circular of ICAR dated 26.04.2012 which covers the field regarding the minimum qualification for appointment on the post of Program Coordinator, whereas, the Board of Management has apparently considered in this regard, the circular dated 29.03.2011, issued by the ICAR, which itself demolishes the decision of the Board of Management of the respondent-university.

27. This Court has also noticed the provisions regarding number and qualification of employees of the University, as is provided under Section 28(r) of Chapter XXI of the Act of 1958, which says that the number of Teachers in each department and their qualification, shall be recommended by the academic council which would be approved by the Board of Management. Admittedly, in the 150th meeting of the Board of Management, the agenda no, 10 was considered and discussed and the agenda was approved with respect to the qualification which, in fact, was mentioned in the advertisement for appointment of the post of Program-Coordinator. The aforesaid resolution of the Board of Management has never been revoked or recalled by any competent authority. The circular dated 29.03.2011, rather the circular which is as per the argument of the counsel for the petitioners dated 26.04.2012, which is ought to have been considered, have been ignored by the Board of Management, therefore, there was no question so as to assume by any authority, while publishing the advertisement to prescribe the minimum eligibility criteria for the appointment of the post of Program Coordinator.

28. So far as the report of the enquiry committee, which is mentioned in the resolution of the Board, by which the advertisement no. 5/2014 has been cancelled, has only been mentioned and there is no discussion that why the Board of Management of the respondent-university is accepting the report of the Enquiry Committee, while coming to the conclusion of canceling the advertisement no. 5/2014.

29. This Court has also noted the contention of counsel for the petitioners that the Enquiry Committee has not unanimously come to the conclusion regarding the charges leveled against the petitioners, to be found proved, though, this all is the subject matter of the Board of Management to be considered.

30. The law is settled in this regard that every order has to stand on its own legs, as is prescribed in the law rendered in the case of Mohinder Singh Gill(supra) and that ratio covers the field of present case as the findings recorded regarding the circular dated 29.03.2011 issued by the ICAR, stated to be applicable regarding eligibility criteria/qualifications, in the appointment of the Program-Coordinator of K.V.K. of the respondent-university, is nonest, therefore, the whole order is erroneous and ambiguous.

31. Consequently, the resolution dated 19.11.2025 sent by Secretary, Board of Management to the State Government for its approval are hereby quashed.

32. The matter is relegated back to the Board of Management of respondent-university to take, a fresh decision, in light of the aforesaid observations, within period of eight weeks, from the date of this order.

33. The decision shall be taken strictly in accordance with the provisions of the Act 1958 as well as the settled propositions of law, up till date.

34. With the aforesaid observations, the present writ petition is hereby allowed.

35. Till the decision is taken, no further proceedings with respect to the appointment of the post of Program Coordinator, against which the selection committee has recommended the name of petitioners for appointment, shall be done.

1. Teachers are essential members of our society. They are pillars of knowledge, shaping the future of our kids-they are educators, mentors, guides, and inspirations.

2. According to Dr Radhakrishnan, the success of the educational process depends considerably on the teacher, for it is the teacher who has to implant alms, and to build the character of the students.

3. Mahatma Gandhi, the Father of the Nation has stated that "a teacher cannot be without character. If he lacks it, he will be like salt without its savour. A teacher must touch the hearts of his students.

4. The aforesaid writ petitions have been filed challenging the order dated 30.08.2025 and 11.07.2025 respectively passed by the District Basic Education Officer, by which the petitioners in the aforesaid writ petitions have been placed under suspension on the ground that they were not found in the institution at the time of inspection.

5. Since the controversy involved in all the above writ petitions are similar hence these are being decided by a common order.

6. While entertaining the Writ Petition No.14242 of 2025, observations were made by this Court vide order dated 16.10.2025 that Court is flooded with the matters pertaining to the attendance and non-attendance of teachers in primary educational institutions. It was further observed that without proper attendance of teachers as well as staff of the primary institution, the purpose of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 will be frustrated. Ultimately the following observations were made by this Court on 16.10.2025:-

"9. The State Government has made a policy to check the institution in respect of quality teaching in the institution primary school of U.P. State as digital attendance and constituting.. Task Force at District Level and Block Level.

10. The District Magistrate and Basic Siksha Adhikari shall submit reports about the District Level Task Force and Block Level Task Force for inspection to ensure quality education.

11. For monitoring teachers' attendance, a Government Order (G.O.) regarding attendance digitalization and related work has been issued, permitting the process to be carried out digitally but the same is not on ground.

12. A self-disciplined person as a teacher, their conduct should not be regulated by any statute even then, the State Government, in respect of the absence of teachers and quality education, adopted policy. There are many cases of teachers coming to the Court due to the absence of teachers and action has been taken by the authority. On the other hand, some teachers are coming to the institution treating it not only as a job but also as a pious obligation and are teaching in the institution, so they are overburdened, and it also affects the violation of the fundamental right provided under Article 14 of the Constitution.

13. The Chief Secretary, Government of U.P., as well as the Additional Chief Secretary, Basic Education; Additional Chief Secretary of Social Welfare Department and Additional/Principal Secretary, Minority Department, Director General of Schools Education of Government of U.P. Lucknow; Director, Basic Education, Lucknow; Additional Director, Basic Education, Prayagraj Government of U.P. and District Basic Education Officers are directed to come up with certain rules and regulations for ensuring the presence of the teachers in the institution from the beginning as well as up to the end of the period of a day which is fixed for teaching for children of poor villagers residing in rural areas. "

9. In this view of the matter, it is argued that policy decision has already been taken by the State-Government to prepare the policy for digital attendance of teaching and non-teaching staff in the primary institution.

10. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Abhishek Srivastava, learned Chief Standing Counsel for the respondent-State and Sri Rajesh Khare, learned counsel for the respondent no.3-District Basic Education Officer, Banda as well as Sri Hare Ram Tripathi, learned counsel for the respondent-Basic Education Officer, Etawah in the connected writ petition.

11. Importance of teacher (Guru) as has been mentioned in the Brahmanda Puran reads as follows:-

"Guru is Shiva sans his three eyes,

*Vishnu sans his four arms
Brahma sans his four heads.*

He is parama Shiva himself in human form"

12. Guru is the God, say the scriptures. Indeed, the guru in the Vedic tradition is looked upon as one not less than God. "Guru" is an honorific designation for a preceptor, or teacher, as defined and explained variously in the scriptures and ancient literary works, including the epics; and the Sanskrit term has been adopted by English, as well. The Concise Oxford Dictionary of Current English defines a guru as "Hindu spiritual teacher or head of religious sect; influential teacher, revered mentor." The term is well known around the world, used to refer to a teacher of particular skill and talent.

13. Scriptural definitions aside, gurus are quite real more so than the gods of mythology. Basically, the guru is a spiritual teacher leading the disciple on the path of "god-realization." In essence, the guru is considered a respected person with saintly qualities who enlightens the mind of his disciple, an educator from whom one receives the initiatory mantra, and one who instructs us in rituals and religious ceremonies.

14. The Vishnu Smriti and Manu Smriti contains regards to Acharya (teacher), along with the mother and the father, as the most venerable gurus of an individual. According to Deval Smriti, there can be eleven kinds of gurus, and according to Nama Chintamani, ten. Depending on his functions, the guru is categorized as rishi, acharyam, upadhyaya, kulapati or mantravetta.

15. The Upanishads have profoundly underlined the role of the guru. Mundak Upanishad says that to realize the supreme godhead holding samidha grass in his hands, one should surrender himself before the guru who knows the secrets of Vedas.

16. Spiritual works, his sphere of instruction soon included subjects like Dhanurvedya (archery), Arthashastra (economies) and even Natyashastra (dramatics) and Kamashastra (sexology).

17. Such was the ingenuity of the all-pervading intellect of the ancient Acharyas that they included even shastra, like thievery, Shudrakar's celebrated play. Mricchakatikam tells the story of Acharya Kanakashakti, who formulated the Chaurya Shastra, or the science of thievery, which was further developed by gurus such as Brahmanyadeva, Devavrata, and Bhaskarnandin.

18. Gradually, the institution of Gurukula, or in-forest-hermitage became a system in which where disciples learned at the feet of guru for long years. The great urban universities at Takshashila, Vikramashila, and Nalanda essentially evolved from these tiny gurukulas tucked away in deep woods. If we have to believe the records of Chinese travelers who visited Nalanda at that time, around 2700 years ago, there were more than 1,500 teachers teaching various subjects to more than 10,000 students and monks. These great universities were as prestigious in their time as Oxford or MIT universities are today.

19. Ancient scriptures and literary works make many references to gurus as well as their disciples.

20. The most popular legend, found in the Mahabharata, is the story of Ekalavya, who, after being rejected by the teacher, Dronacharya, went into the forest and made a statue of his teacher. Treating the statue as his guru, with great devotion Ekalavya he taught himself the art of archery, soon exceeding the skills of even the guru himself.

21. In the Chandogya Upanishad, we meet an aspiring disciple, Satyakama, who refuses to tell lies about his caste in order to get an admission in the gurukula of Acharya Haridrumat Gautam.

22. And in the Mahabharata, we come across Karna, who did not bat an eyelid while telling Parashurama that he belonged to the Bhrgu Brahmin caste, just in order to obtain the Brahmastra, the supreme weapon.

23. Apart from the same, the functioning of teacher and importance of teaching has been dealt with from time to time in large number of cases which can be seen in the observations of the Hon'ble Apex Court. In the case of Avinash Nagra Vs. Navodaya Vidyalaya Samiti and Others reported in (1997) 2 Supreme Court Cases 534 held that the success of the educational process depends considerably on the teacher, the teacher is the primary functionary to transmit the intellectual and ethical values to the young. He should encourage the attitude of free enquiry and rational reflections. The relevant portion of the aforesaid judgment namely paragraph nos.9 to 11 reads as follows:-

"9. On the functions of a teacher, at p. 133, according to Dr Radhakrishnan, the success of the educational process depends considerably on the teacher, for it is the teacher who has to implant alms, and to build the character of the students. According to Laski, at bottom of the education, the quality of a university is always in direct proportion to the quality of its teacher. A good teacher is one who knows his subject, is enthusiastic about it and one who never ceases to learn. Communication with the students and sense of commitment to his work are necessary. A good teacher, therefore, according to Dr Radhakrishnan, is one who is objective, just, humble and is open to correction. According to Whitehead the teacher must be a self-confident learned man. The teacher, therefore, is the primary functionary to transmit the intellectual and ethical values to the young. He should encourage the attitude of free enquiry and rational reflections. The teacher should try to remove the leaden weights of pride and prejudice, passion and desire which are likely to cloud a student's vision. The devoted teacher is not only concerned with the child's intellectual development but also has the obligation to attend to his moral, emotional and social growth as well.

10. Mahatma Gandhi, the Father of the Nation has stated that "a teacher cannot be without character. If he lacks it, he will be like salt without its savour. A teacher must touch the hearts of his students. Boys imbibe more from the teacher's own life than they do from books. If teachers impart all the knowledge in the world to their students but do not inculcate truth and purity amongst them, they will have betrayed them". Shri Aurobindo has stated that "it is the teacher's province to hold aloft the torch, to insist at all times and at all places that this nation of ours was founded on idealism and that whatever may be the prevailing tendencies of the times, our children shall learn to live among the sunlit peaks". Dr S. Radhakrishnan has stated that "we in our country look upon teacher as gurus or, as acharyas. An Acharya is one whose aachar or conduct is exemplary. He must be an example of Sadachar or good conduct. He must inspire the pupils who are entrusted to his care with love of virtue and goodness. The ideal of a true teacher is andhakaraniridhata gurur itya bhidhiyate. Andhakar is not merely intellectual ignorance, but is also spiritual blindness. He who is able to remove that kind of spiritual blindness is called a guru. Are we deserving the noble appellation of an acharya or a guru?" Swami Vivekananda had stated that "the student should live from his very boyhood with one whose character is a blazing fire and should have before him a living example of the highest teaching. In our country, the imparting of knowledge has always been through men of renunciation. The charge of imparting knowledge should again fall upon the shoulder of Tyagis".

11. It is in this backdrop, therefore, that the Indian society has elevated the teacher as "Guru Brahma, Gurur Vishnu, Guru Devo Maheswaraha". As Brahma, the teacher creates knowledge, learning, wisdom and also creates out of his students, men and women, equipped with ability and knowledge, discipline and intellectualism to enable them to face the challenges of their lives. As Vishnu, the teacher is preserver of learning. As Maheswara, he destroys ignorance. Obviously, therefore, the teacher was placed on the pedestal below the parents. The State has taken care of service conditions of the teacher and he owes dual fundamental duties to himself and to the society. As a member of the noble teaching profession and a citizen of India he should always be willing, self-disciplined, dedicated with integrity to remain ever a learner of knowledge, intelligently to articulate and communicate and imbibe in his students, as social duty, to impart education, to bring them up with discipline, inculcate to abjure violence and to develop scientific temper with a spirit of enquiry and reform constantly to rise to higher levels in any walk of life nurturing constitutional Ideals enshrined in Article 51-A so as to make the students responsible citizens of the country. Thus the teacher either individually or collectively as a community of teachers, should regenerate this dedication with a bent of spiritualism in broader perspective of the constitutionalism with secular ideologies enshrined in the Constitution as an arm of the State to establish egalitarian social order under the rule of law. Therefore, when the society has given such a pedestal, the conduct, character, ability and disposition of a teacher should be to transform the student into a disciplined citizen, inquisitive to learn, intellectual to pursue in any walk of life with dedication, discipline and devotion with an enquiring mind but not with blind customary beliefs. The education that is imparted by the teacher determines the level of the student for the development, prosperity and welfare of the society. The quality, competence and character of the teacher are, therefore, most significant to mould the calibre, character and capacity of the students for successful working of democratic institutions and to sustain them in their later years of life as a responsible citizen in different responsibilities. Without a dedicated and disciplined teacher, even the best education system is bound to fail. It is, therefore, the duty of the teacher to take such care of the pupils as a careful parent would take of its children and the ordinary principle of vicarious liability would apply where negligence is that of a teacher. The age of the pupil and the nature of the activity in which he takes part are material factors determining the degree and supervision demanded by a teacher."

24. The Role of teacher has again been reiterated by the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph-20 of the judgment in the case of Andhra Kesari Educational Society Vs. Director of School Education And others reported in (1989) 1 Supreme Court Cases 392. Paragraph-20 of the aforesaid judgment reads as follows:-

"20. Before parting with the case, we should like to add a word more. Though teaching is the last choice in the job market, the role of teachers is central to all processes of formal education. The teacher alone could bring out the skills and intellectual capabilities of students. He is the "engine" of the educational system. He is a principal instrument in awakening the child to cultural values. He needs to be endowed and energised with needed potential to deliver enlightened service expected of him. His quality should be such as would inspire and motivate into action the benefiter. He must keep himself abreast of everchanging conditions. He is not to perform in a wooden and unimaginative way. He must eliminate fissiparous tendencies and attitudes and infuse nobler and national ideas in younger minds. His involvement in national integration is more important, indeed indispensable. It is, therefore, needless to state that teachers should be subjected to rigorous training with rigid scrutiny of efficiency. It has greater relevance to the needs of the day. The ill-trained or sub-standard teachers would be detrimental to our educational system; if not a punishment on our children. The Government and the University must, therefore, take care to see that inadequacy in the training of teachers is not compounded by any extraneous consideration."

25. In the case of Sukh And Others Vs. State of Rajasthan And others reported in 1989 Supp (2) Supreme Court Cases 189, it was held that the primary school teachers are of utmost importance in developing a child's personality in the formative years. Paragraph-7 of the aforesaid judgment, reads as follows:-

"7. These observations are equally relevant to primary school teachers with whom we are concerned. The primary school teachers are of utmost importance in developing a child's personality in the formative years. It is not just enough to teach the child alphabets and figures, but much more is required to understand child psychology and aptitudes. They need a different approach altogether. Only trained teachers could lead them properly. The untrained teachers can never be proper substitute to trained teachers. We are, therefore, unable to give any relief to the petitioners."

26. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Manager, Nirmala Senior Secondary School Port Blair Vs. N.J. Khan and others reported in (2003) 12 Supreme Court Cases 84 has held that a teacher affects eternity and Educational institutions are temples of learning. Paragraph Nos.1, 2 and 10 of the aforesaid judgment reads as follows:-

"1. A teacher affects eternity. He can never tell where his influence stops; said Henry Adam. Any educational institution for its growth and acceptability to a large measure depends upon the quality of teachers.

2. Educational institutions are temples of learning. The virtues of human intelligence are mastered and harmonised by education. Where there is complete harmony between the teacher and the taught, where the teacher imparts and the student receives, where there is complete dedication of the teacher and the taught in learning, where there is discipline between the teacher and the taught, where both are worshippers of learning, no discord or challenge will arise. An educational institution runs smoothly when the teacher and the taught are engaged in the common ideal of pursuit of knowledge. It is, therefore, manifest that the appointment of teachers is an important part in educational institutions. The qualifications and the character of the teachers are really important.

*10. The allegations made against respondent Khan are no doubt of a very serious nature and certainly if proved, do not befit a teacher. The clay-like minds of young children are shaped into beautiful moulds by teachers. They shape the future course of the students. To a great measure their behaviour, character, reputation leave imprints in the minds of the young children. If their conduct, behaviour and reputation is full of blemish that would not be for the interest and in the welfare of the students. Respondent Khan has denied the allegations and has alleged bias. But we do not think it necessary to apine one way or the other. Whatever be the truth, the undisputed fact is that the litigation has continued unabated for long years. It would neither be in the interest of respondent Khan nor the institution if respondent Khan is continued in the institution. By making this observation, it is not to be construed as if we have found the allegations to be true. On the contrary, the welfare of the institution, the reputation of respondent Khan has been considered by us in the proper perspective. If an act or omission of an employee reflects upon his character, reputation,. Integrity or devotion to duty or is an unbecoming act, certainly the employer can take action against him. In this context, reference may be made to the following observations of Lopes, C.J. in Pearce v. Foster (QBD at p. 542):*

"If a servant conducts himself in a way inconsistent with the faithful discharge of his duty in the service, it is misconduct which justifies immediate dismissal. That misconduct, according to my view, need not be misconduct in the carrying on of the service of the business. It is sufficient if it is conduct which is prejudicial or is likely to be prejudicial to the interests or to the reputation of the master, and the master will be justified, not only if he discovers it at the time, but also if he discovers it afterwards, in dismissing that servant."

*This view was reiterated by a three-Judge Bench of this Court in Union of India v. K.K. Dhawan reported in (1993) 2 SCC 56 and Indian Rly. Construction Co. Ltd. v. Ajay Kumar reported in (2003) 4 SCC 579."*

27. In the case of Sushmita Basu and others Vs. Ballygunge Siksha Samity and others reported in (2006) 7 Supreme Court Cases 680 it was held that the profession of teaching is a noble profession and teacher fulfils a great role in the life of the human. He is the "Guru". Paragraph-5 of the aforesaid judgment reads as follows:-

"We must remember that the profession of teaching is a noble profession. It is not an employment in the sense of it being merely an earner of bread and butter. A teacher fulfils a great role in the life of the nation. He is the "guru". It is the teacher, who moulds its future citizens by imparting to his students not only knowledge, but also a sense of duty, righteousness and dedication to the welfare of the nation, in addition to other qualities of head and heart. If teachers clamour for more salaries and perquisites, the normal consequence in the case of private educational institutions, if the demand is conceded, would be to pass on the burden to the students by increasing the fees payable by the students. Teachers must ask themselves whether they should be the cause for putting education beyond the ken of children of parents of average families with average incomes. A teacher's profession calls for a little sacrifice in the interests of the nation. The main asset of a teacher is his students, former and present. Teachers who have lived up to ideals are held in great esteem by their disciples. The position of the guru, the teacher, in our ethos is equal to that of God (Matha Pitha Guru Daivam). The teachers of today must ensure that this great Indian concept and the reverential position they hold, is not sacrificed at the altar of avarice."

28. In the case of Har Pal Singh and others Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 2011 SCC Online All 3523, it has been held by the Division Bench of this Court that from time immemorial in our Indian Culture and society a teacher has been the most revered person. Paragraph Nos.1 to 7 of the aforesaid judgment reads as follows:-

"1. From time immemorial in our Indian culture and society a teacher has been the most revered person, which would be seen from the following verse:

*"Gurur brahma Gurur vishnu
Gurur devo maheshwara Guru sakshat parabrahma tasmai shri gurave namaha akhandamandalakaram yena characharam vyaptam darshitam yena tasmai shri gurave namaha" tat padam*

2. When translated in English it means

"Guru is Brahma Guru is Vishnu Guru is Shiva. The true Guru is the Highest, formless God. I prostrate before the holy Guru. The unbounded is the endless canopy of the sky, the omnipresent

*in all creation, both animate and inanimate
I bow to Sri Guru who reveals to us the ultimate reality"*

3. The famous saint Kabir in the 15 Century eulogised the teacher the following couplet

"Guru Govind dou khade, kaake laagoon paye Balihari guru aapki, Govind diyo milaye."

4. When translated in English it means:

*"I face both God and my guru.
Whom should I bow to first?"*

5. I first bow to my guru because he's the one who showed me the path to God

6. However, the question that arise in these appeals is whether the teachers who have been placed in such an exalted position justify the faith entrusted in them even in the current century or whether they have fallen prey to selfish individual interests and seek personal gains through administrative jobs which are no part of their teaching assignments

7. From the aforesaid, it would be seen that in our society teachers are placed on a higher pedestal than even God. However, in this 21 Century, some of the teachers, who occupy an exalted position in our society, have forgotten their duties as a teacher and instead want to hold and continue the administrative post while retaining their position as a teacher. The present appeals are a glaring example of the downfall of the standard professed by teachers in our country. We hasten to add that by this we do not mean that all teachers are indulging in such activities, majority of them do not."

29. In the case of Parimal Kumar and others Vs. State of Jharkhand and others reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 210 it was again held that the role played by a teacher, especially when dealing with students in primary schools, is of utmost importance. Relevant paragraphs namely paragraph nos.2, 3 & 7 of the aforesaid judgment reads as follows:-

"2. As the case pertains to selection of Assistant Teachers, I wish to add a few lines regarding importance of their role in nation building They are to teach in Primary and Upper Primary Schools ie. upto Class VIII. The role played by a teacher, especially when dealing with students in primary schools, is of utmost importance. Teachers educate the young minds, much like sculptors shaping clay, to mould them into better human beings The, imprint a teacher leaves on the minds of their students is everlasting.

3. The status of a teacher is well said in the Sanskrit verse taken from Guru Gita which is said to be part of Visvasaratantra. from Uttarakhand of Skandapurana. The same is reproduced hereunder.

*"Gurur Brahma Gurur Vishnu,
Gurur Devo Maheshwara; Gurur Sakshat
Param Brahma, Tasmai Shri Gurave Namah"*

This Shloka refers to the Guru as none other than Brahma The creator, Vishnu-The sustainer and Shiva-The destroyer, since the Guru creates, sustains knowledge and destroys ignorance. By doing so he liberates the disciple from the ocean of samsara, from the trap of Maya, thereby attaining Moksha. For this, we bow down with utter humility and total gratitude to the Guru. (Source Guru Gita which is said to be part of Visvasaratantra from Uttarakhand of Skandapurana).

7. The importance of a teacher as narrated by Pandit Mohan Malaviya (the founder of the Banaras Hindu University) was highlighted in the following lines:

...It lies largely in his teacher's hand to mould the mind of the child who I father of the man. If he is patriotic and devoted to the natiopal cause and realizes his responsibility, he can produce a race of patriotic men and women who would religiously place the country above the community and national gain above communal advantage."

30. From perusal of the aforesaid, it is clear that time and again importance of teacher (Guru) has been dealt with in the Hindu Literature and by the Hon'ble Apex Court. The reverence accorded to teachers in Indian culture is not merely symbolic but reflects a deep seated recognition of their transformative role. From the ancient Gurukula system to present day educational frame work teachers have consistently carried forward the legacy of knowledge, values and ethical conduct. Any dilution of the status, dignity of teachers would have far reaching consequence not only for students but society at large.

31. It is well known fact that in large number of primary institutions throughout the State of U.P., teachers are not attending the institution on time. It is obligation on the State to ensure imparting unbarred education to children belonging to the primary institutions. The matters are coming every day before this Court in which allegations were made against the teachers and headmasters of the institution to the effect that they are not attending the institution within time. The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 has already promulgated by the Central Government in the year 2009 according to which right to education to the children is a fundamental right. In case teachers will not attend the institution within time it will frustrate the mandate of the Act, 2009 and the children will be deprived off from this fundamental rights guaranteed under Article 21-A of the Constitution of India which was inserted in to the Constitution by means of the Constitution (86 Amendment) Act, 2002 which mandate every State to provide free and compulsory education to all children in the age group of 6 to 14 years.

32. In this view of the matter and also in the interest of justice, without interfering with the orders of suspension, which are under challenge in the present writ petitions, writ petitions are disposed of with a direction to the disciplinary authority to conclude the disciplinary proceedings initiated against them most expeditiously and positively within a period of two months from the date of receipt of certified copy of this order.

33. A further mandamus is issued to the respondent no.1 namely Special Secretary, Basic Education, State of U.P. at Lucknow to take a policy decision and also to take all possible steps for ensuring the presence of teachers in school within time. The aforesaid decision be taken by the Respondent No.1 most expeditiously and positively within a period of 3 months from today.S

Whether for appointment to the post of Headmaster, the teaching experience must mandatorily be experience gained in the post of Assistant Teacher alone, or whether 'teaching experience' simplicitor including experience acquired as a part-time instructor can be treated as valid experience for the purpose of eligibility?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009: Schedule-1(b)(3)(ii) of Section 19; U.P. Recognised Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers), Rules 1978 (Seventh Amendment) Rules, 2019: Rule 4(2).

Eligibility conditions prescribed under the statutory recruitment rules must be strictly construed and scrupulously followed. Neither the appointing authority nor the court can dilute, relax, or substitute the essential qualifications unless such power is expressly conferred by the rules themselves. The purpose behind prescribing teaching experience for the post of Headmaster is to ensure administrative efficiency, academic leadership, and familiarity with institutional responsibilities acquired through regular service. (Para 37)

Contractual or irregular engagements do not confer parity with regular appointees nor entitlement to be treated alike for service benefits. (Para 42)

In present case, it is evident that if the recruitment rules specifically require teaching experience as an Assistant Teacher in regular service, experience acquired merely as a part-time instructor lacking the attributes of permanency, administrative responsibility, and regular academic engagement cannot be treated as valid compliance with the eligibility criteria. To hold otherwise would amount to rewriting the rules, which is impermissible in law. (Para 39)

B. The principle of equivalence cannot be presumed. When statutory rules prescribe specific qualifications, the same cannot be relaxed on equitable considerations, and appointments made contrary thereto are unsustainable in law. Experience must be of the nature and character contemplated by the rules, and experience gained in any other capacity cannot be treated as equivalent unless the rules so provide. (Para 38, 41, 47)

The duties discharged by part-time instructors are restricted in scope and duration and cannot be equated with the comprehensive academic, evaluative, and administrative responsibilities entrusted to Assistant Teachers. In the absence of any provision under the Rules, 1978, expressly recognizing part-time service as equivalent to regular teaching service, such experience cannot be imported to satisfy the eligibility requirement for appointment to the post of Headmaster. (Para 40, 44, 51)

Even otherwise, under the notification / GO dated 19.02.2021, applications were invited only from those candidates who possessed a minimum of five years' teaching experience as an Assistant Teacher, such experience being a mandatory and essential qualification for consideration for appointment on the post of Headmaster. Thus, the rule of the game has not been changed in the midst of the selection proceedings. (Para 49)

C. The expression 'teaching experience' occurring in Rule 4 of the Rules of 1978, as amended in 2019, unequivocally refers to experience acquired while serving as a duly appointed teacher in a recognized Junior High School of Senior Basic School, forming part of the regular teaching cadre. Experience gained in any other capacity, including as a part-time instructor does not satisfy the statutory requirement prescribed under the rules and cannot be taken into consideration for appointment to the post of Headmaster. (Para 43, 52)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Siddharth Khare, Sr. Advocate

For Respondent(s): C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Chief Standing Counsel has filed Short Counter Affidavit, which is taken on record. Learned counsel for the petitioners does not propose to file rejoinder affidavit to the said short counter affidavit.

2. There are thirteen petitioners in Writ-A No. 17615 of 2025 and three petitioners in Writ-A No. 18573 of 2025. Controversy involved in both the writ petitions is similar, hence, they are being decided by this common judgement.

3. The petitioners have approached this court with a prayer to quash the prescribed format of the experience certificate, contained in Appendix-3 to the Circular dated 03.11.2025, insofar as it insists upon experience as Assistant Teacher/ Headmaster, and further to treat the petitioners as fully eligible in terms of notification dated 04.12.2019 permitting them to participate in the remaining process of selection.

4. Placing the facts of the case, learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the Parliament enacted the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 (Parliamentary Act No. 35 of 2009), making provisions for free and compulsory education for all children up to the age of 14 years. For the implementation of the said Act, a Government Order dated 31.01.2013 was issued. Pursuant thereto, the District Basic Education Officers of the concerned districts published an advertisement inviting applications from eligible candidates for appointment as Part Time Instructors. Being eligible for the said posts, the petitioners applied and were appointed as part-time Instructors in view of the Schedule-1(b)(3)(ii) of Section 19 of the Act of 2009, wherein part-time instructors for teaching Art Education, Health and Physical Education and Work Education were to be appointed for teaching Classes 6 to 8 in schools having more than 100 students.

5. The details of initial appointment of the petitioners in Writ-A No. 17615 of 2025, as part-time instructors, are: petitioner nos. 1 and 8 were granted appointment in District Sultanpur, petitioner no. 02 in District Bhadohi, petitioner nos. 3 and 4 in District Basti, petitioner no. 5 in District Varanasi, petitioner no. 6 in District Muzaffarnagar, petitioner no. 7 in District Barabanki, petitioner no. 9 in District Kaushambi, petitioner no. 10 in District Kushinagar, petitioner no. 11 in District Meerut, petitioner no. 12 in District Jaunpur and petitioner no. 13 was offered appointment in District Saharanpur. The appointment letters were issued to them on different dates in the months of June, July and September, 2013, pursuant to which the petitioners joined their respective places of postings. The petitioner nos. 1, 3 and 8 were appointed in the subject of Work Education, while others (petitioner nos. 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12 & 13) were granted appointment in Art Education.

6. The petitioners in Writ-A No. 18573 of 2025 were granted appointment in the subject of Art Education. Appointment letters to petitioner nos. 1 & 2 were issued on 23.02.2013 and order of appointment was issued to petitioner no. 3 on 25.02.2013.

7. As the appointment of the petitioners was in accordance with the stipulations contained in the Government Order dated 31.01.2013 for a period of 11 months, annual extension was granted to each of them and accordingly extension orders in respect to each petitioner were issued for every year succeeding 2013-14. Since then the work and conduct of the petitioners have been satisfactory and there was no complaint against them. Although the petitioners were treated as part time instructors but they discharged full time duties in their respective schools. Apart from teaching the subject for which they were appointed, they were also required to teach other subjects to the students.

8. Furthermore, in addition to teaching, the petitioners were also required to discharge other duties pertaining to elections as booth level officers/ polling officers, duties relating to different categories of surveys conducted under various Government Orders as well as duties with regard to Summer Camp for the students.

9. The petitioners were paid salary for 11 months every year. The salary for 15 days for the month of December and 15 days salary for June stood deducted. They were paid monthly emoluments of Rs. 7,000/- which were subsequently increased to Rs. 9,000/- per month. Accordingly, the petitioners, who were appointed as part-time instructors since the year 2013 and are continuing till date, their services have been renewed after a period of every 11 months as stipulated in the Government Order dated 31.01.2013.

10. The recruitment of teachers and headmasters is governed by the provisions of the U.P. Recognised Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers), Rules 19782 as amended on 04.12.20193. By the said amendment, Rule-10 has been substituted and as per the amended Rule-10, the Management of each institution is required to intimate the number of vacancies to the Director of Education (Basic), who is required to issue an advertisement in at least two leading/ widely circulated daily newspapers, inviting online applications from the candidates possessing the prescribed educational and trainings qualification. The selection process requires a recruitment examination to be conducted by the authority, as may be specified by the State Government, on the basis of which the result is prepared and the same is sent by the Director of Education (Basic) to the Basic Education Officer after allotment of district/ school for appointment.

11. Pursuant to the aforesaid provisions, the State Government issued an order dated 19.02.2021, notifying the Junior High School Headmaster/ Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination, 2021. As per Clause-2 of the said Government Order, the Examination Regulatory Authority, U.P., Prayagraj was specified as the examination body and the procedure for the examination was also specified. Pursuant to the said Government Order, an advertisement was issued by the Examination Regulatory Authority, inviting applications from eligible candidates. The petitioners also applied for the posts of Assistant Teacher as well as Headmaster and participated in the written examination held on 17.10.2021. The result of the written examination was declared on 15.11.2021, wherein all the petitioners qualified for being appointed on the post of Headmaster.

12. Due to some litigation, a revised result was published on 06.09.2022, wherein also all the petitioners were shown as qualified in the written examination. Thereafter, the petitioners awaited the finalization of the selection proceedings. On 03.11.2025, the Director of Education (Basic) proceeded to issue a circular letter notifying the schedule for completion of the remaining steps in the procedure for selection, according to which all candidates, declared successful in the written examination, were required to fill up online application forms between 15.11.2025 to 05.12.2025 and were also required to upload the documents specified in the circular. One of the documents required for uploading was an experience certificate certified by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari in the prescribed format contained in Appendix-3 of the circular dated 03.11.2025.

13. The format specified in the Appendix-3 requires certificate of experience on the post of Assistant Teacher. The petitioners are aggrieved by the specification of the requirement of experience as Assistant Teacher / Head Master as specified in the format for experience certificate as the same is in conflict with the eligibility prescribed under the Rules, 1978, as originally existing and as per the amended Rules 2019.

14. Rule-4 of the Rules, 1978, as amended in the year 2019, specifies the minimum qualification for the post of Headmaster, which requires five years of teaching experience in a recognized Junior High School or Senior Basic School run by the U.P. Basic Education Board. Each petitioner possesses teaching experience as envisaged under Rule-4, however, the impugned circular has been issued specifying teaching experience to be possessed in the capacity of Assistant Teacher/ Head Master, which is not envisaged under the Rules, 1978, as amended in the year 2019.

15. Learned Counsel for the petitioners contends that the condition contained in the impugned circular requires experience in the capacity of Assistant Teacher// Head Master though it is not envisaged under Clause-4 of the Government Order dated 19.02.2021. There exists no rational justification for incorporating a further condition of experience having been required in the capacity of Assistant Teacher/ Head Master by prescribing a format in which the experience certificate is required to be submitted as per Rule-4 of the Rules, 1978, as amended in the year 2019, as well as Clause 4 of the Government Order dated 19.02.2021.

16. Learned Counsel for the petitioners further contends that incorporating additional condition by specifying a format of experience certificate notified in the circular dated 03.11.2025 amounts to a change in the rules of the game in the midst of the selection proceedings, for which there exists neither any rational justification nor any authority of law.

17. Placing reliance on a judgement of a Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Sadanand Singh v. State of U.P. Thru Secy & Ors.⁴, learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the claim of the petitioners cannot be excluded en masse in absence of any specific stipulation as to teaching experience being in the capacity of Assistant Teacher. Placing reliance on another judgement of a Coordinate Bench of this Court dated 15.07.2010 passed in the case of Dr. Deepak Bhatiya & Others v. State of U.P. & Others⁵, learned counsel for the petitioners contends that part time instructors (petitioners) cannot be excluded en masse only on the basis of not possessing teaching experience as Assistant Teacher as per the prescribed qualification i.e., only five years teaching experience which requires no specification, being that of possessing experience as an Assistant Teacher.

18. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that the specification of requirement of experience as an Assistant Teacher in the required format, is an administrative direction which has been supplemented in an arbitrary manner, wrongly interpreting Rule-4 of the Rules, 1978, as amended in the year 2019.

19. Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Chief Standing Counsel assisted by Sri Shailendra Singh, learned counsel for the State submits that the person to be appointed as Teacher in a Primary/Upper Primary School must possess the minimum qualifications as per the provisions of notification of the NCTE dated 23.08.2010, as amended on 29.07.2011. He further submits that the said qualifications have also been incorporated in the U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Services Rules, 1981 and U.P. Recognised Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment And Conditions of Service of Teachers) Rules, 1978.

20. It has further been contended by learned Chief Standing Counsel that under the Schedule to the RTE Act, 2009, the post of Teacher is distinct from that of Instructor. For Classes 1st to 5th in the said Schedule, there is no requirement for appointment of any part-time instructor. On the other hand, for Classes 6th to 8th where the number of students in a school is less than 100, there is likewise no requirement for appointment of any part time instructor and in Junior High Schools where the number of students exceeds 100, apart from a full time head teacher, Part Time Instructors for the subjects of Art Education, Health and Physical Education and Work Education are to be appointed, therefore, Part Time Instructors constitutes a separate category of posts which is clearly distinct from the post of a Teacher and even a part time instructor has not been recognised as a Teacher under the provisions of the RTE Act, 2009.

21. He next contends that the appointment of the part time instructors in the State of U.P. was made on a contractual basis in terms of the Government order dated 31.01.2013, wherein Clause 1(7) of the said Government Order prescribes the minimum educational qualifications for appointment on the post of Part Time Instructor, namely, High School, Intermediate, Graduation and a Professional Degree/Diploma in the related subject. The said qualifications are entirely different from the qualifications which is required for appointment on the post of Teacher for which a two-year Diploma in Elementary Education known as B.T.C. along with T.E.T. Certificate are mandatory, while for appointment on the post of Part Time Instructor, the candidate was not required to possess the said minimum qualifications, thus, a part-time instructor is entirely different from a Teacher and also lacks the minimum qualifications for being appointed as Assistant Teacher/ Headmaster, therefore, the work experience as a part-time instructor cannot be counted equivalent to the teaching experience of an Teacher appointed under the provisions of RTE Act, 2009. Even the duties of Teachers as defined under Section 24 of the RTE Act, 2009 are entirely different from those of a part time instructor, hence by no stretch of imagination, it can be said that the part time instructors were working at par with that of teacher.

22. It is further contended by learned counsel for the State that circular dated 3.11.2025 and the format provided therein which has been prescribed by the authority is in consonance with Rule 4(2) of Rule, 1978 (Seventh Amendment) Rules, 2019 and there is no conflict between them. Since the part-time instructors were not appointed against the post of teachers, therefore, they cannot take any benefit of their work discharged as part-time instructors for being appointed to the post of Headmaster as regards the teaching experience of minimum five years is required as per the Rule 4(2) of the Rules, 1978 (Seventh Amendment) Rules, 2019.

23. Learned counsel for the respondents contends that a Division Bench of this Court in Civil Misc. Writ Petition (A) No. 64307 of 2015⁶, by judgment and order dated 12.09.2025 has observed that when Rules contemplate teaching experience for a specified period, it means that experience must be in a post held for full time. The operative portion of the said order is as under:

"40. As a Guest Lecturer, petitioner was required to attend assigned lectures. For each lecture prescribed amount was payable. As per G.O. dated 4.7.1998, Rs. 150/- per lecture was payable, subject to maximum payment of Rs. 3000/- per month. Meaning thereby, no person could have been engaged to deliver more than 20 lectures in a month. Petitioner actually delivered 1307 lectures in a period of about 6 years i.e. about 18 lectures per month were delivered by him. It is not pleaded anywhere in the entire writ petition that a Lecturer regularly appointed in a Medical College is supposed to deliver only 18 or 20 lectures in a month and not more than that. It is also not pleaded that teaching work of a regularly appointed "Lecturer" is confined only to deliver lectures and nothing more than that. When experience is talked in terms of "period", it cannot be equated with certain number of Lectures rendered in certain period for the reason that such an interpretation if accepted, even if a Guest Lecturer may have delivered or engaged for delivering one or two lectures in a month but has continued so engaged for a length of time, he can also claim to have gained requisite "Teaching Experience". This interpretation would be clearly a travesty and mockery to the purpose of which requirement of "Teaching Experience" has been provided. When Rules contemplate "Teaching Experience" of a particular period, it means that experience must be in a post held for full time. Experience acquired by rendering requisite "Teaching work" which a regular teacher is required to perform. It cannot be equated with occasional or fortuitous engagement of a person to deliver lectures otherwise it would also amount to treating unequals as equal. Moreover, requirement under advertisement is consistent with requirement of such "experience" under Regulations, 2013. We are inclined to give an interpretation in favour of the qualification advertised and not as contemplated by petitioner. Hence it cannot be said that petitioner has been wrongly held ineligible for consideration for appointment to the post of Principle SHMC pursuant to advertisement under challenge."

24. The learned Chief Standing Counsel further contends that once the part-time instructors were not working on the posts of Teachers either part time or full time, therefore, any interpretation of expression 'teaching experience' as mentioned in Rule 4(2) of the Rules of 1978 would amount to treating unequals as equal and would be violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India.

25. I have heard Mr. Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Siddharth Khare, Mr. Navneet Kumar Srivastava, learned Advocate holding brief of Mr. Chandan Kumar Chaturvedi, learned counsel for the petitioners, and Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Chief Standing Counsel assisted by Mr. Shailendra Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State.

26. The petitioners claim to be considered for recruitment to the posts of Headmaster /Assistant Teacher in Junior High Schools notified by the Government order dated 19.02.2021, wherein it is stipulated that the selection/recruitment will be in accordance with Rule-10 of the Rules of 1978, as amended on 04.12.2019. The condition stipulated in the said Government order for the selection on the post of Headmaster requires five years teaching experience as an Assistant Teacher. Relevant part of the said Government order is being reproduced herein below:

"प्रधानाध्यापक प्रधानाध्यापक के पद पर चयन हेतु दो प्रश्न प्रश्न होंगे। प्रथम प्रश्न पत्र 150 अंकों का वही प्रश्न पत्र होगा जो सहायक अध्यापक हेतु निर्धारित प्रश्न पत्र होगा। उक्त प्रश्न पत्र सहायक अध्यापक / प्रधानाध्यापक दोनों पदों हेतु अनिवार्य होगा क्योंकि सहायक अध्यापक के पदों पर चयन हेतु 05 वर्ष सहायक अध्यापक के रूप में अध्यापन अनुभव की अनिवार्यता है। अतः प्रधानाध्यापक के पद पर नियुक्त होने वाले अभ्यर्थियों को शिक्षा विभाग से सम्बन्धित विभिन्न अधिनियमों, नियमों, शासनादेशों, शिक्षा विभाग से सम्बन्धित गठित विभिन्न आयोगों / समितियों एवं उनकी संस्तुतियों, शिक्षा नीतियों के सम्बन्ध में विभागीय कार्यक्रमों तथा योजनाओं एवं प्रबंधन के संदर्भ में भी ज्ञान होना अनिवार्य है।..."

27. The Clause-4 of the impugned circular dated 03.11.2025 requires the candidates selected in the written examination to fill up application forms. Clause-4 of the circular is quoted below:

"4. अभ्यर्थी द्वारा जिस विषय में अशासकीय सहायता प्राप्त जूनियर हाईस्कूल सहायक अध्यापक चयन परीक्षा वर्ष 2021 (संशोधित परीक्षा परीणाम दिनांक 06.09.2022) उत्तीर्ण की गयी है को केवल एक ही आवेदन पत्र भरना होगा। यदि किसी अभ्यर्थी द्वारा सहायक अध्यापक जूनियर हाईस्कूल चयन परीक्षा वर्ष 2021 में सहायक अध्यापक एवं प्रधानाध्यापक संशोधित परीक्षा परीणाम दिनांक 06.09.2022 द्वारा उत्तीर्ण की गयी है, को पृथक-पृथक सहायक अध्यापक एवं प्रधानाध्यापक का ऑनलाइन आवेदन पत्र भरना होगा।"

28. The Clause-10 of the aforesaid circular prescribes eligibility for application, which reads thus:

"10-आवेदन हेतु पात्रता:

(i)-शैक्षिक/प्रशिक्षण अर्हता- उत्तर प्रदेश मान्यता प्राप्त बेसिक स्कूल (जूनियर हाईस्कूल) (अध्यापकों की भर्ती और सेवा की शर्तें) नियमावली-1978 (सातवां संशोधन) नियमावली-2019 में उल्लिखित न्यूनतम शैक्षिक अर्हता एवं प्रशिक्षण अर्हता नियम-4 के अनुसार होगी।

29. Rule-4 of the Rules, 1978, as amended in 2019, mentions minimum qualification, which is as follows:

And

30. For the appointment as a Teacher in Primary / Upper Primary School, a candidate must possess the minimum qualification as prescribed under the notification issued by the National Council for Teacher Education⁷ dated 23.08.2010, as amended on 29.07.2011. The said qualifications have also been incorporated in the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981 read with the Rules, 1978. As per the Schedule pertaining to Sections 19 and 25 of the RTE Act, 2009, the norms and standards for such schools are prescribed where part-time instructors are to be appointed, the same mentions as follows:

1.	Number of teachers :	Norms and Standards

31. As per the afore-quoted Schedule of the RTE Act, 2009 no part time instructor is required for Classes 1 to 4 as well as for Classes 6 to 8, where the number of students is less than 100. It would be apt to refer the qualification for appointment of part time instructors as provided under Clause-3 of the Government Order dated 31.01.2013, which reads thus:

32. Qualification for being appointed as Assistant Teacher in such schools, is governed by the Rules, 1978, wherein Rule-5 envisages the eligibility, which is as follows:

“5. Eligibility for appointment.

- No person shall be appointed as Headmaster or Assistant Teacher in substantive capacity in any recognized school, unless –

(a) he possesses the minimum qualifications prescribed for such posts;

(b) he is recommended for such appointment by the Selection Committee.”

33. The Rules of 1978, as amended, were enacted to regulate recruitment and conditions of service of teachers in Junior High Schools, including appointment to the post of Headmaster, which is a promotional post carrying academic as well as administrative responsibilities., Rule-4 of the Rules 1978 as amended on 2019, prescribes the minimum qualifications as already quoted above. In view thereof, for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher, the candidate must possess a graduation degree from a University recognized by the University Grant Commission⁸ along with a teacher training course recognized by the State Government or the National Council for Teacher Education and the minimum qualification for appointment to the post of Headmaster includes a graduation degree from a recognized University or an equivalent qualification recognized as such and teachers training course recognized by the State Government or the National Council for Teacher Education and Teacher Eligibility Test (Upper Primary Level) conducted by the State Government or the Government of India as well as minimum 5 years of teaching experience in a recognized Junior High School or Senior Basic School of the Basic Education Board.

34. A harmonious and purposive interpretation of the Rules makes it abundantly clear that the teaching experience contemplated therein must be experience gained as a duly appointed teacher in a recognized Junior High School or Senior Basic School, forming part of the regular teaching cadre. The post of Headmaster being the academic head of the institution, the required experience which cannot be construed to include experience gained in any casual, part-time, honorary, or non-cadre capacity.

35. The question for consideration in the instant case is whether, for appointment to the post of Headmaster, the teaching experience must mandatorily be experience gained in the post of Assistant Teacher alone, or whether ‘teaching experience’ simplicitor including experience acquired as a part-time instructor can be treated as valid experience for the purpose of eligibility.

36. As per the Rules, 1978, as amended from time to time, the post of Headmaster is a promotional/selection post requiring a prescribed minimum period of teaching experience in a recognized institution. Said Rules consciously employ the expression “teaching experience” in the context of regular teachers appointed against sanctioned posts and governed by the statutory service conditions. From a plain reading of the Rules, 1978, it is evident that part-time instructors do not constitute a cadre of teachers under the said Rules. The minimum educational qualifications, mode of engagement, tenure, and nature of duties of part-time instructors are fundamentally different from those of

Assistant Teachers appointed under the said Rules. Part-time instructors are engaged only for Classes 6 to 8, that too subject to student strength exceeding 100, and are not appointed for Classes 1 to 4 at all. Their engagement is thus contingent, limited, and need-based, lacking the attributes of a regular statutory appointment.

37. It is well settled that eligibility conditions prescribed under the statutory recruitment rules must be strictly construed and scrupulously followed. Neither the appointing authority nor the court can dilute, relax, or substitute the essential qualifications unless such power is expressly conferred by the rules themselves. The purpose behind prescribing teaching experience for the post of Headmaster is to ensure administrative efficiency, academic leadership, and familiarity with institutional responsibilities acquired through regular service.

38. In the case of P.M. Latha and another v. State of Kerala and others⁹, the Supreme Court has held that when statutory rules prescribe specific qualifications, the same cannot be relaxed on equitable considerations, and appointments made contrary thereto are unsustainable in law. Similarly, in the case of Yogesh Kumar and others v. Government of NCT Delhi and others¹⁰, it has been held that experience must be of the nature and character contemplated by the rules, and experience gained in any other capacity cannot be treated as equivalent unless the rules so provide.

39. Applying the aforesaid principles to the facts of the present case, it is evident that if the recruitment rules specifically require teaching experience as an Assistant Teacher in regular service, experience acquired merely as a part-time instructor lacking the attributes of permanency, administrative responsibility, and regular academic engagement cannot be treated as valid compliance with the eligibility criteria. To hold otherwise would amount to rewriting the rules, which is impermissible in law.

40. However, where the rules use the expression 'teaching experience' without any restrictive qualification as to the nature of appointment or cadre, and where the duties discharged by the candidate demonstrably involve regular teaching functions comparable to those of an Assistant Teacher, such experience may be considered, subject to strict proof and rule-based interpretation.

41. It is a settled principle that eligibility conditions prescribed by statutory rules must be strictly construed and strictly satisfied. The Apex Court in the case of P. Mahendran and others v. State of Karnataka and others¹¹, held that qualifications and experience prescribed by rules cannot be diluted by administrative interpretation or equitable considerations. Further, in the case of State of Rajasthan and others v. Jagdish Chopra¹², the Supreme Court has observed that experience for promotion to a higher post must be relevant to the nature of duties attached to that post. Teaching experience, therefore, must have a direct nexus with classroom teaching as a regular teacher.

42. The Apex Court in the case of Chairman, LIC and others v. A. Masilamani¹³, has categorically held that courts cannot expand the scope of eligibility by reading into the rules something which is not expressly provided. In the case of State of Rajasthan v. Kunji

Raman¹⁴, the Apex Court has held that experience must be of the nature contemplated by the rules; ad-hoc or non-regular service cannot be equated unless specifically provided. In the case of Secretary, State of Karnataka and others v. Umadevi and others¹⁵, contractual or irregular engagements do not confer parity with regular appointees nor entitlement to be treated alike for service benefits.

43. Applying the aforesaid principles, this Court finds that teaching experience under Rule 4 of the Rules of 1978, as amended, for the purpose of appointment to the post of Headmaster, means experience acquired as a regularly appointed teacher, and not experience gained as a part-time instructor or in any other non-recognized capacity. Consequently, any claim for appointment to the post of Headmaster based on experience other than experience as a teacher, as contemplated under the Rules, cannot be sustained in law.

44. The duties discharged by part-time instructors are restricted in scope and duration and cannot be equated with the comprehensive academic, evaluative, and administrative responsibilities entrusted to Assistant Teachers. In the absence of any provision under the Rules, 1978, expressly recognizing part-time service as equivalent to regular teaching service, such experience cannot be imported to satisfy the eligibility requirement for appointment to the post of Headmaster.

45. Insofar as reliance placed by the learned counsel for the petitioners in Sadanand Singh (supra) is concerned, said judgement does not apply in the present case as the petitioners therein earned experience on the post of lecturer in the unaided Intermediate Section of the same Institution recognized under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, having the requisite eligibility required for being appointed on the post of Headmaster / Principal of aided Intermediate High School Institutions. However, the petitioners in the case in hand are purely appointed on contractual basis that too lacking qualification required for the post of Assistant Teacher, of which five years teaching experience is required to be appointed as Headmaster.

46. As regards the submission of learned counsel for the petitioners that in view of the judgement in Dr. Deepak Bhatiya (supra), the petitioners cannot be excluded en masse, the case of petitioners herein is not on similar footings as the petitioners in the said case who were full time teachers and appointed in accordance with the rules applicable to the institutions affiliated from Central Board of Secondary Education, New Delhi, which was a recognized Intermediate College, were said to be within the zone of consideration. Thus, the submission of learned counsel for the petitioners does not merit acceptance.

47. The principle of equivalence cannot be presumed. Where the rules prescribe specific qualifications and experience, courts are not empowered to dilute or rewrite them by treating unequal service as equal. Consequently, experience gained as a part-time instructor does not answer the statutory description of 'teaching experience' contemplated by the Rules, 1978 for appointment as Headmaster.

48. The submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioners that the specification of requirement of experience as an Assistant Teacher in the required format is an administrative direction, is not admissible as the format prescribed in the impugned circular is in consonance with Rule-4(2) of the Rules, 1978 as amended in the year 2019, which stipulates minimum qualification for the post of Head Master in a recognized school i.e. five years teaching experience which ought to be construed as full time teaching experience, though the petitioners are discharging their duties as part-time instructors. Thus, the petitioners do not fulfill the required qualification in view of the provisions of the Rules, 1978, hence, the challenge of the petitioners in the writ petition is unsustainable.

49. Even otherwise, under the notification / Government order dated 19.02.2021, applications were invited only from those candidates who possessed a minimum of five years' teaching experience as an Assistant Teacher, such experience being a mandatory and essential qualification for consideration for appointment on the post of Headmaster. Thus, the rule of the game has not been changed in the midst of the selection proceedings.

50. Accordingly, a candidate who relies solely on five years' experience as a part-time instructor cannot be held eligible for appointment to the post of Headmaster under the Rules, 1978 as amended in 2019.

51. Experience acquired as a part-time instructor is not equivalent to regular teaching experience under the Rules, 1978 and cannot be counted towards the requisite five years teaching experience for appointment to the post of Headmaster. The experience gained on part-time basis cannot ordinarily be equated with regular service experience unless the rules expressly permit such equivalence. The post, status, and duties attached to the experience are required to be considered.

52. In view of the foregoing discussion and the settled position of law, this Court holds that the expression 'teaching experience' occurring in Rule 4 of the Rules of 1978, as amended in 2019, unequivocally refers to experience acquired while serving as a duly appointed teacher in a recognized Junior High School of Senior Basic School, forming part of the regular teaching cadre. Experience gained in any other capacity, including as a part-time instructor does not satisfy the statutory requirement prescribed under the rules and cannot be taken into consideration for appointment to the post of Headmaster.

53. Accordingly, the action of the respondents in rejecting the claim of the petitioners for appointment to the post of Headmaster, on the ground of lack of requisite teaching experience as mandated under Rule 4 of the Rules of 1978, as amended, calls for no interference by this Court.

54. The writ petition, being devoid of merit, is dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

Writ A No. 17776 of 2025

Issue for consideration

Whether petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment should have been considered by the respondent?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – The scheme of compassionate appointment is to provide immediate relief and cannot be applied in a manner defeating its humanitarian purpose. Authority should consider the claim in light of subsequent eligibility and should not freeze the assessment at the date of death of the employee. Where economic hardship persists, compassionate appointment cannot be denied on technical grounds. (Para 9 to 11)

In the present case, the petitioner's father died in harness in the year 2023. Although the petitioner's mother was employed as a Safai Karamchari at the time of the employee's death, it is undisputed that she subsequently tendered her resignation, leaving the family without any assured source of livelihood. In such circumstances, the rejection of the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment on the sole ground that the mother was employed at the time of the demise is wholly unsustainable and contrary to the settled principles governing compassionate appointment. (Para 12 to 14, 16)

If the order impugned would have been passed, considering the petitioner's application, prior to resignation of the petitioner's mother, the case would have been different but consideration of the application after resignation of petitioner's mother, places it in distinct situation, wherein the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment ought to have been considered. (Para 15)

The mere fact that one dependent was employed is not conclusive, and compassionate appointment cannot be denied if the employment was insufficient to alleviate the financial crisis or if the circumstances have subsequently changed. (Para 17)

The matter is remitted to respondent no. 3 to reconsider the claim of compassionate appointment of the petitioner.
Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

For Respondent(s): C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Present writ petition has been filed challenging an order dated 26.07.2025 passed by respondent no. 3¹, vide which claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment has been rejected.

2. Placing brief facts of the case, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner's father was working as a Safai Karamchari in Nagar Palika Parishad, Farrukhabad since 1991. He died-in-harness on 20.05.2023, leaving behind his wife i.e. the petitioner's mother and one son i.e. the petitioner, as his legal heirs. The petitioner moved an application for his appointment on compassionate ground, on 11.07.2023. As the petitioner's father was suffering from a chronic ailment, therefore, his mother who was also working as Safari Karmchari in Gram Panchayat Dilawarpur, had to take leave to take care of her husband. After demise of her husband, when the petitioner's mother re-joined her services, she was pestered and harassed for her alleged unauthorized absence and was compelled to tender her resignation, which was accepted on 31.05.2025. The matter regarding compassionate appointment of the petitioner was still pending, therefore, he moved an application before the respondent authority on 31.05.2024 mentioning about the financial crisis that arose due to resignation of his mother, however, without considering the said circumstances, the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment has been rejected by respondent no. 3 in an arbitrary manner.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the object and purpose of compassionate appointment is to provide assistance to the bereaved family of the deceased employee, who has suffered a shock and is facing financial crisis due to sudden demise of the sole bread earner. In numerous cases, the Courts have interfered with for creation of posts to meet out the financial crisis of such families and to consider the claim for compassionate appointment. He further submits that the application dated 11.07.2023 was not considered at the relevant point of time and it is after the resignation of petitioner's mother on 31.05.2025, the claim which was pending consideration, was rejected only on the ground that the petitioner's mother was a Government Servant, and without considering the current situation/ status of the family pertaining to the financial status and the crisis which they are suffering. Thus, the impugned order is bad, unreasonable and unjustifiable in the eyes of law.

4. Learned counsel appearing for the respondents could not dispute the aforesaid facts.

5. I have heard Sri Sameer Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner, Ms. Anuradha Sundaram, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for respondent nos. 1 & 2, Sri Atul Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 3 and perused the record.

6. In the present case, the petitioner's father passed away while in service in the year 2023. The petitioner moved an application for compassionate appointment on 11.07.2023. Although the petitioner's mother was employed as a Safai Karmchari at the time of the death of the petitioner's father, she subsequently tendered her resignation on 31.05.2023. However, the impugned order has been passed sans considering the changed circumstances which were prevailing at the time of consideration by the authority.

7. The principal argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner is that once petitioner's mother resigned and the family was left without any source of subsistence, the relevant consideration is the financial condition of the family at the time of examination of the application, and not merely the employment status of the dependent at the time of death. This hyper-technical view denying relief would defeat the very object of the compassionate appointment scheme under the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974², which aims to provide immediate financial support to the bereaved family to prevent destitution.

8. The Supreme Court in the case of Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana and others³, has categorically held that the object of compassionate appointment is to provide immediate succour to the bereaved family to save it from financial destitution. The test to be applied is the financial condition of the family, and not hyper-technical considerations. Similarly, in Canara Bank and another v. M. Mahesh Kumar⁴, the Court reiterated that the scheme must be interpreted in a manner that advances its purpose and mitigates the financial hardship of the dependents.

9. The Apex Court in the case of Balbir Kaur and another v. Steel Authority of India Ltd. and others⁵, has reiterated that the scheme of compassionate appointment is to provide immediate relief and cannot be applied in a manner defeating its humanitarian purpose.

10. Considering the changed circumstances in between the period from the date of death of the employee and the date of consideration for compassionate appointment, the Supreme Court in the case of Syed Khadim Hussain v. State of Bihar and others⁶, has observed that authority should consider the claim in light of subsequent eligibility and should not freeze the assessment at the date of death of the employee.

11. This Court in the case of Kusum Devi (Smt.) v. State of U.P. and others⁷ and the Rajasthan High Court in the case of Rekha Joshi v. State of Rajasthan and Ors.⁸ have also held that where economic hardship persists, compassionate appointment cannot be denied on technical grounds.

12. In the present case, the petitioner's father died in harness in the year 2023. Although the petitioner's mother was employed as a Safai Karamchhari at the time of the employee's death, it is undisputed that she subsequently tendered her resignation, leaving the family without any assured source of livelihood. In such circumstances, the rejection of the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment on the sole ground that the mother was employed at the time of the demise is wholly unsustainable and contrary to the settled principles governing compassionate appointment.

13. The conditions prescribed for grant of compassionate appointment are required to be examined with reference to the circumstances prevailing on the date on which the competent authority considers the application, also, and not solely with reference to the situation prevailing on the date of death of the deceased employee. The underlying object of the scheme of compassionate appointment is to provide immediate succour to the bereaved family facing financial destitution owing to the untimely demise of the breadwinner. Therefore, where the eligibility conditions undergo a change prior to the consideration of the application, or where subsequent events materially alter the financial status of the family, the same must duly be taken into account. A mechanical or hyper-technical reliance on facts existing at the time of death alone would defeat the very object of the scheme.

14. In the present case, once the petitioner's mother, who was employed as a Safai Karamchhari, tendered her

17. The mere fact that one dependent was employed is not conclusive, and compassionate appointment cannot be denied if the employment was insufficient

Whether, in proceedings relating to proof of a Will under Sections 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 and 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, an application for obtaining expert opinion regarding the thumb impression/signature of the testator can be entertained before examination of the attesting witnesses.

HEADNOTE

Constitution of India, Art. 226 – Indian Succession Act, 1925, S. 63 – Indian Evidence Act, 1872, Ss. 68 & 73 – Proof of Will – Manner in which a Will can be proved – Attestation by two or more witnesses – Calling of at least one attesting witness to prove execution – Thumb impression/signature of testator – Comparison under S. 73 of the Evidence Act – Invocation of S. 73 only when sufficient doubt can be created – Stage at which expert evidence can be sought – Examination of attesting witnesses as pre-condition – Liberty to move appropriate application for production of the original Will – Liberty to move appropriate application for obtaining expert opinion after respondents have adduced their evidence to prove the Will

HELD:

Will has to be proved by the person who has relied/produced the Will and for which purposes, in case the attesting witnesses are alive, the same have to be produced, who have to testify that the Will was signed by the testator in their presence. It is only when sufficient doubt can be created in the mind of the trial court by the petitioner with regard to the validity of the Will that the provision of Section 73 of the Evidence Act can be invoked, and the discretion of the court would arise for comparison of signatures/thumb impressions. Only after the attesting witnesses are examined can the question arise with regard to verification of signatures/thumb impressions. In the present case, the attesting witnesses were not examined nor produced by the private respondents, and therefore the threshold had not been crossed. Liberty was granted to move an appropriate application for production of the original Will on record, and further liberty was granted that after the respondents have adduced their evidence to prove the Will, the petitioner would be at liberty to move appropriate application for obtaining expert opinion on the signatures thereon in accordance with law. Advs For Respondents: C.S.C.; Jitendra Kr. Pandey

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Shri Vijai Bahadur Verma, learned counsel for the petitioner as well as learned Standing Counsel for respondents no. 1 and 2 and no one has put in appearance on behalf of the private respondents.

2. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that the present dispute pertains to Khata No. 125 situated at Gram Mohanpur, Pargana Dewa, Tehsil Nawabganj, District Barabanki, which was recorded in the name of Shyam Narayan @ Makka Lal and after the death of Shyam Narayan the land came to be recorded in the name of his wife Badki. It is stated that Badki, wife of Shyam Narayan had executed a Will in favour of Avadh Bihari, Ram Het, Kishan Bihari, Brij Bihari sons of Deo Bux as well as the petitioner- Smt. Madhuri Devi.

3. It has been submitted that with regard to the succession of the said land proceedings under 9-A (2) are still pending before the Consolidation Officer. The petitioner has all along assailed the validity of the Will executed by Badki on 13.2.1981. Initially the petitioner has approached this Court by filing a writ petition being Writ Petition No. 9848 of 1989, which was dismissed by this Court by means of judgment and order dated 28.03.1990. For the sake of convenience the order passed by this Court is quoted herein below:-

" This petition arises from mutation proceedings. It appears that on the death of Smt. Barabanki mutation proceedings have started. The petitioner claims to be the daughter of Smt. Barabanki and has sought mutation of her name on the basis of succession. Opposite parties 4 to 7 have claimed mutation on the basis of will alleged to have been executed by Smt. Barabanki. The will set up by opposite parties 4 to 4 is not admitted by the petitioner. The petitioner's case appears to be that the alleged will is a forged document. The petitioner made an application before the Additional Tahsildar, Nawabganj, Barabanki seeking permission to bring expert evidence on record regarding the thumb impressions contained on the will filed by opposite parties 4 to 7. This application has been rejected by the Additional Tehsildar with the following observations-

"there is no provision for experts opinion."

Against the order of Additional Tahsildar, the applicant preferred revision before the Collector who rejected the same by order dated 19.7.1989. The Board of Revenue has also rejected the petitioner's revision through order dated 7.10.1989. In paragraph 4 of its order the Board of Revenue has observed that mutation proceedings are of fiscal and summary nature and are subject to decision in a regular suit. With this observation of the Board of Revenue no exception can be taken. However, I am not inclined to interfere at this stage because the petition arises from an interlocutory order. If opposite parties 4 to 7 fail to substantiate the will petitioner will have no cause for grievance against the impugned orders.

In view of the above the petition is dismissed."

4. It has been submitted that the writ petition was dismissed by this Court observing that only application of the petitioner for obtaining expert opinion with regard to the thumb impression of the testator was rejected which was an interlocutory order and therefore considering that the matter was still pending consideration before the revisional authority, this Court has declined to interfere in the matter.

5. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that the aforesaid dispute regarding the validity of the Will has been raised by the petitioner by filing suit under Section 229 B, which also stood abated on commencement of the consolidation proceedings. Subsequently before the Consolidation Officer also the petitioner had filed an application for obtaining expert evidence with regard to the thumb impression of the testator, namely, Smt. Badki. The said application has been rejected by means of the order dated 12.6.2017. Against the said order the petitioner has preferred a revision before the Deputy Director of Consolidation, which has also been rejected by means of order dated 7.10.2017. The revisional authority has noticed the fact that original copy of the Will is not available on record.

6. The question gaining the attention of this Court is with regard to the application of the petitioner for obtaining the expert opinion with regard to the thumb impression of Smt. Badki, who has executed a Will on 13.2.1981. The manner in which a Will can be proved in the Court, has been provided in Section 63 of the Succession Act and Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act. The necessary ingredients for a Will provided under Section 63 of the Succession Act where it is provided that the testator shall sign or affix some mark to the Will or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his directions and the Will shall be attested by two and more witnesses each of whom had seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the Will. The manner in which such a Will has to be proved in the court of competent jurisdiction is provided under Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, where it is provided that such a document, which is required to be attested shall not be used as an evidence until one of the attesting witnesses at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if the attesting witnesses are alive and careful of keeping evidence.

7. Accordingly the Will has to be proved by the person who has relied/produced the Will and for which purposes in case the attesting witnesses are alive, same has to be produced, who has to testify the Will was signed by testator in his presence.

8. It is only when sufficient doubt can be created in the mind of the trial court by the petitioner with regard to the validity of the Will only then provision of Section 73 of the Evidence Act can be invoked by the petitioner and the discretion of the trial court. In case the trial court is of the opinion that there is certain doubts with regard to the signature of the testator only then the question arises for comparison of the signature or any other mark affixed by the testator on the said Will.

9. It is noticed that in the present case the very threshold has also not been crossed, in as much as, the attesting witnesses have not been examined by the trial court nor have been produced by the private respondents. It is only after the attesting witnesses are examined the question has arisen with regard to the verification of the signatures/ thumb impressions in case the petitioner can successfully indicate that the same are doubtful.

10. Accordingly I find that the repeated applications of the petitioner before the various authorities at this stage are premature and certainly at the appropriate stage such applications can be adequately considered.

11. I find that the matter is still pending before the Consolidation Officer and a similar prayer has been made by the petitioner before this Court, was also rejected on 28.3.1990 in mutation proceedings.

12. In light of the above, this Court is not inclined to interfere in the order person having locus i.e. either lessor or lessee in private lease deed may proceed to cancel or terminate the lease deed. Petitioner was only co-applicant for allotment of Retail Outlet of Indian Oil and has nothing to do with private lease deed i.e. neither he was lessor nor lessee, therefore, he cannot challenge the private lease deed. No infirmity or illegality in the impugned orders and the writ petition was dismissed. (Paras 9 to 17) (E-5)

1. Heard Sri Amit Kumar Rai, learned counsel for petitioner, learned standing counsel for respondent nos. 2 to 4, Sri Shyam Surat Shukla, learned counsel for respondent no. 6 and Mr. Samir Sharma, learned Senior Counsel as amicus curiae appointed by this Court vide order dated 26.08.2025.

2. Present petition has been filed seeking following relief:-

“(I) Issue, a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned revisional order dt. 10.07.25 passed by respondent no. 1 and impugned order dt. 28.05.25 passed by respondent no. 4 (Annexure No. 1 & 2 to this writ petition respectively).

(II) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no. 4 to cancel the lease deed dt. 15.02.23 as per provisions of section 104 of the code and Rule 103 of the U.P. Revenue Code Rules 2016.”

3. Brief facts of the case are that an advertisement was issued on 28.06.2023 for allotment of Retail Outlet Dealership of Indian Oil Corporation. Along with petitioner, respondent no. 6 was also one of the applicant. In terms of advertisement, respondent no. 6 has produced required lease deed of land executed by respondent no. 5 for 29 years and 11 months. Based upon that, Letter of Intent was issued in favour of respondent no. 6. At this stage, petitioner has challenged the lease deed before the Sub Divisional Officer on the ground that lease deed so executed is in violation of Section 94 of U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 (hereinafter referred to as ‘Code, 2006’), therefore, it is void in terms of Section 104 of Code, 2006 read with Rules 103 of U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016 (hereinafter referred to as ‘Rules, 2016’). Against the said application, objection was filed and in objection apart from other grounds, it is firmly stated that petitioner is having no locus to challenge the lease deed executed under Section 94 of Code, 2006.

4. Learned counsel for petitioner submitted that from the perusal of Section 94 of Code, 2006, it is apparently clear that lease deed in Section 94 of Code, 2006 can only be executed for agriculture or for setting up Solar Plant, whereas in the present case, it is executed for establishment of Retail Outlet of Indian Oil, therefore, the said lease deed may be declared void. He next submitted that instead of declaring the lease deed void, Sub Divisional Officer has rejected the application of petitioner only on the ground that applicant is having no locus to challenge the same as he is neither owner nor co-sharer. He firmly submitted that in terms of Section 94 of Code, 2006 read with Rule, 103 of Rules, 2016, there is no need to become a co-sharer or owner and only information is sufficient to declare the lease deed void. He also submitted that in terms of Rule 186 of Rules, 2016, provisions of Civil Procedure Code would not be applicable in present case, therefore, under such facts orders impugned are bad and liable to be set aside. He also pointed out that averment so made in lease deed is false and fabricated as the facts are entirely different. In support of that, he has also placed reliance upon Khasra, Khatauni and report of Lekhpal, where it is stated that two rooms are present but on the spot, no rooms are in existence on the land in dispute, therefore, lease deed is based upon incorrect facts. Petitioner has challenged the order by filing Revision No. 2692 of 2025, which was dismissed at the admission stage vide order dated 10.07.2025 affirming the order of Sub Divisional Officer dated 28.05.2025.

5. Per contra, Sri Shukla, learned counsel for respondent no. 6 submitted that Section 94 of Code, 2006 pertains to execution of private lease and further Section 95 of Code, 2006 provides the provisions of cancellation or termination in case of dispute. He firmly submitted that Section 95(6)(e) of Code, 2006 clearly provides that it can only be terminated by lesser or lessee by a Bhumidhar on a mutually agreed terms. He also pointed out that so far as sections 104 & 105 of Code, 2006 are concerned; Section 104 provides transfer in contravention of this Code to be void and further Section 105 of Code, 2006 provides consequences of transfer by bhumidhar in contravention of this Code. He also pointed out Rule 103 of Rules, 2016 provides procedure to follow in case any application is filed under Sections 104 or 105 of Code, 2006. He next submitted that Section 105(e) clearly provides that provisions of this section shall not apply to any lease made under Section 94 of Code, 2006. He also submitted that after reading Sections 104 & 105 of Code, 2006 read with Rule 103 of Rules, 2016, it is apparently clear that this would be applicable for a lease of State land and not for a lease executed by a private person, therefore, Section 105(e) is inserted later on to clarify this fact that provision of Section 105 of Code, 2006 shall not be applicable to a lease executed under Section 94 of Code, 2006 and in light of that, provision so given in Rule 103 of Rules, 2016 would also not be applicable.

6. He further submitted that Section 144 of Code, 2006 is having provision to file declaratory suits which clearly says that any person claiming to be Bhumidhar or asami of any holdings exclusively or jointly with any other person may file suit for declaration of his right in such holding or part. He further submitted that ratio of Section 144 of Code, 2006 shall also be applicable for filing suit for cancellation of lease deed. In absence of claiming to Bhumidhar or asami or any right over the land in question, no suit for cancellation of lease deed may be filed.

7. In light of said facts, he firmly submitted that only person having locus i.e. either lessor or lessee in private lease deed may proceed to cancel or terminate the lease deed and in present case, undisputedly, petitioner is only co-applicant for allotment of retail outlet of Indian Oil and has nothing to do with private lease deed i.e. neither he is lessor nor lessee, therefore, he cannot challenge the private lease deed, therefore, impugned orders have rightly been passed.

8. I have considered rivals submissions advanced by learned counsels for parties and perused the records.

9. Undisputed fact of the case is that petitioner is having no concern with the land in dispute, neither he is owner nor co-sharer and his interest is involved only for allotment of Retail Outlet of Indian Oil after submission of application form. Therefore, issue is as to whether petitioner is having any locus to challenge the private lease executed in terms of Section 94 of Code, 2006 or not. Argument so advanced before the Court is based upon interpretation of Sections 94, 104, 105 & 144 of Code, 2006 and Rule 103 of Rules, 2016. For ready reference, Sections 94, 104 & 105 of Code, 2006 and Rule 103 of Rules, 2016 are being quoted below:-

“Code, 2006

(c) In case the private lease agreement is proposed to be terminated prematurely by the Lessor, then the Lessee shall be entitled to remove such structures, machinery etc. that were created or installed by the Lessee on the leased land. from the Lessor, as agreed upon and laid down in the private lease agreement.

(d) In case the Lessee wishes to terminate the lease agreement prematurely or surrenders the land during the private lease by a bhumidhar period, then he shall have to give at least six months' notice to the Lessor and shall also be liable to pay the annual rent for the remaining part of the year to the Lessor, in addition to such other compensation, as agreed upon and laid down in the private lease by a bhumidhar agreement or as prescribed.

(e) In case after expiration of the private lease by a bhumidhar period or termination of the lease agreement, the Lessee fails to handover peaceful possession of the leased land to the Lessor, the Lessee shall be treated as unauthorised occupant and shall be liable to be ejected from the leased land. 105. Consequences of transfer by bhumidhar in contravention of the Code.- (1) Where transfer of interest in any holding or part made by a bhumidhar is void under section 104, the following consequences shall, with effect from the date of such transfer, ensue, namely:-

(a) the subject matter of such transfer shall vest in the State Government free from all encumbrances;

(b) the trees, crops, wells and other improvements, existing on such holding or part shall vest in the State Government free from all encumbrances;

(c) the interests of the transferor and the transferee in the properties specified in clauses (a) and (b) shall stand extinguished;

(e) the provisions of this section shall not apply to any lease made under section 94.

(2) Where any land or other property has vested in the State Government under sub section (1), it shall be lawful for the Collector to take over possession of such land and other property, and to direct that any person occupying such land or property be evicted there from, and for that purpose, the Collector may use or cause to be used such force as may be necessary and the provisions of section 59 mutatis mutandis shall apply to such property.

(a) a bhumidhar, the State and the Gram Panchayat shall be necessary parties;

(b) an asami, the land-holder shall be a necessary party

Rule, 2016

103. Transfer in contravention of the provisions of the Code (Section 105).-(1) If a bhumidhar or an asami has transferred his interest in any holding or part thereof which is void under section

104, the Lekhpal shall promptly submit a report to the Sub-Divisional Officer containing particulars specified in rule 97(1).

(2) On receipt of the report of the Lekhpal under sub- rule (1), or on information received otherwise, the Sub-Divisional Officer shall call upon the parties to the transfer to show cause, why action under section 104 read with section 105 should not be taken in respect of the land in question.

(3) After hearing the parties and making such inquiries as may be considered necessary, if the Sub-Divisional Officer is satisfied that the transfer in question is void under section 104, he shall declare that:

(a) the subject matter of such transfer shall vest in the State Government;

(b) the trees, crops, well and other improvements existing on the holding or part shall vest in the State Government free from all encumbrances; and

(c) the interests of the transferor as well as of the transferee stood extinguished, from the date of such transfer.

(4) The Sub-Divisional Officer shall direct that the revenue records should be corrected accordingly and where the transfer in contravention of the provisions of the Code relates to a part of the holding, he shall also fix land revenue in respect of the part left with the transferor in accordance with Chapter XI of these rules.

(5) Every order of the Sub-Divisional Officer under this rule shall be endorsed to the Samiti for necessary action.

(6) Where any property referred to in section 105 has vested in the State Government, the Collector may evict any person in unauthorised occupation of such property and deliver possession thereof to the Gram Panchayat concerned.”

10. From the perusal of Section 94 of Code, 2006, it is apparently clear that private lease deed can only be cancelled in terms of Section 95(6)(f) of Code, 2006. So far as Sections 104 & 105 of Code, 2006 and Rule 103 of Rules, 2016 are concerned, once Section 105(e) has been inserted excluding the applicability of the same upon the lease executed under Section 94 of Code, 2006, provisions of Sections 104 & 105 of Code, 2006 read with Rule 103 of Rules, 2016 would not be applicable. Again coming to the interpretation of Sections 104 & 105 of Code, 2006 and Rule 103 of Rules, 2016, no doubt on the point that lease may be executed either by private person or by State. In case it has been executed by State Government, every one is having right to inform the concerned authority if it is in violation of law, but once it is not the case, only person aggrieved is having right to challenge the private lease deed as provided in Section 95 of Code, 2006. Petitioner is deriving his locus from the cancellation of his application submitted for allotment of Retail Outlet of Indian Oil. In case supposing it that the suit is allowed, the consequences would be that the land would be again vested with the original owner and petitioner would not be beneficiary in any way.

11. Therefore, petitioner cannot said to be person aggrieved and accordingly, he would have no locus standi to challenge the private lease deed executed under Section 94 of Code, 2006.

12. I have also perused Section 144 of Code, 2006. From perusal of same, it is absolutely clear that for declaratory suit, any person claiming to be Bhumidhar or asami either exclusively or jointly with any other person may file suit for declaration of his rights. In spirit, this section would also be applicable for filing suit for cancellation of any instrument executed under the provisions of Code, 2006. The intention of legislation is again very much clear that only person who is having any right over the land may file suit either for cancellation or for declaration of rights. Once the person is having no right over the land or property in dispute, neither he can file suit for cancellation nor for declaration of his rights.

13. Mr. Samir Sharma, learned Senior Counsel as amicus curiae appointed by this Court vide order dated 26.08.2025 has assisted the Court by vide interpretation of Sections 104, 105 & 144 of U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 and Rule 103 of U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016. This Court express its gratitude for his valuable assistance.

14. So far as cancellation of allotment of Retail Outlet of Indian Oil is concerned, petitioner is not the remedy less and for redressal of his grievance, he may challenge the allotment of Retail Outlet of Indian Oil even taking the ground of alleged illegal lease deed in contravention of Section 94 of Code, 2006.

15. For cancellation of lease deed executed under Section 94 of Code, 2006, petitioner has to show his locus first which is totally missing in present case in light of observations made here-in above. Therefore, Sub Divisional Officer has rightly rejected the application of petitioner, which was also affirmed by the Revisional Court.

16. Once, the Court has held that petitioner is having no locus to challenge the private lease deed executed under Section 94 of Code, 2006, provisions of Rule 186 of Rules, 2016 would not come in the rescue of petitioner as it can only be seen once the petitioner is having locus to challenge the private lease deed in question.

17. Therefore, I have found no infirmity or illegality in the impugned orders dated 10.07.2025 and 28.05.2025.

18. Accordingly, writ petition is dismissed.

19. No order as to costs.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether a person whose conviction has been stayed by a higher court continues to suffer disqualification under Article 102 of the Constitution of India read with Section 8(3) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951.

HEADNOTE

Constitution of India – Art. 102 – Representation of the People Act, 1951 – S. 8(3) – Writ petition under Art. 226 seeking writ of quo warranto against a sitting Member of Parliament – Conviction under Section 499 IPC and sentence of two years – Stay of conviction granted by the Supreme Court pending appeal – Contention that disqualification under Section 8(3) continues notwithstanding stay of conviction – Distinction between stay of execution of sentence and stay of conviction – Effect of stay of conviction on statutory disqualification – Maintainability of writ of quo warranto.

HELD:

Once an order of conviction is stayed, the bar under Section 8(3) of the Representation of the People Act would not apply. A stay of execution of sentence is not synonymous to stay of conviction; in the former case the bar under Section 8(3) would apply, but in the latter case, since the conviction has been stayed, the bar would not apply. The moment a higher court stays a conviction, the anathema of conviction goes out of the window and the person against whom such conviction is stayed, though not absolved, cannot be stated to be a convicted person. It is only when the appeal is decided that it could be ascertained whether he would be a convicted person or an acquitted person. Disqualification under sub-sections (1), (2) or (3) of Section 8 of the Representation of the People Act will not operate from the date of the order of stay of conviction passed by the appellate court or the High Court. The writ petition was accordingly dismissed.

CASE ARISING FROMChallenge to the continuance in office of a Member of Parliament*Appearances for Parties

Advs For Petitioner: Ashok Pandey (In person)
Advs For Respondents: A.S.G.I., Anupriya Srivastava.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.
Hon'ble Manjive Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ashok Pandey, the petitioner appearing in person, Shri Surya Bhan Pandey, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Anand Dwivedi, learned counsel appearing on behalf of Opposite Party No. 2, that is Union of India and Shri O.P. Srivastava, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Ms. Anupriya Srivastava, learned counsel appearing for Opposite Party No. 3, that is Election Commission of India.

2. This is a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India where the writ petitioner appearing in person is seeking a writ of quo warranto against a Member of Parliament. The prayers in the writ petition have been delineated below:-

"(I.) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Quo Warranto thereby asking the Respondent No. 1 Sri Rahul Gandhi as to under what authority of law, he is holding the office of Member of Lok Sabha from Raibareli in spite of the fact that because of conviction and sentence of two years recorded by Surat court, he was disqualified to be chosen as member of Parliament in view of the provision contained in article 102 r/w section 8 (3) of R.P. Act 1951.

(II.) To direct the speaker of Lok Sabha to recover the penalty from Sri Rahul Gandhi as provided in the constitution as he participated in the proceedings of Lok Sabha without being a valid member of it.

(III.) Issue a writ in the nature of Mandamus directing the Election Commission of Bharat to declare Sri Dinesh Kumar Singh as the elected member of Lok Sabha from Raibareli Lok Sabha seat as the returned candidate Sri Rahul Gandhi was disqualified to be chosen as Member of Lok Sabha on the date of the election impugned."

3. The petitioner appearing in person has submitted that Mr. Rahul Gandhi was convicted by the trial court for an offence punishable under Section 499 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860, for which there is simple imprisonment of two years or fine or both. This order was subsequently challenged in the higher courts and the Gujarat High Court dismissed the revision petition of Mr. Rahul Gandhi and accordingly rejected the prayer for stay of conviction. When the matter went up before the Supreme Court by way of a Special Leave Petition bearing number S.L.P. (Cri.) No. 8644 of 2023, the Supreme Court passed the following order:-

"1. Leave granted.

2. Heard Dr. Abhishek Manu Singhvi, learned senior counsel for the appellant and Shri Mahesh Jethmalani, learned senior counsel for the respondent No. 1, on the question of interim protection.

3. The present appeal challenges the judgment and order passed by the learned Single Judge of the High Court dismissing the revision petition, which was in turn filed challenging the order of the learned Sessions Judge, thereby rejecting the prayer for stay of conviction.

4. The appeal filed by the present appellant challenging the order of conviction and sentence passed by the learned Trial Judge is pending before the Appellate Court. The arguments advanced by both Dr Abhishek Manu Singhvi, and Shri Mahesh Jethmalani, learned senior counsel, touch the merits of the matter. We, therefore, refrain from observing anything about the said arguments, inasmuch as it may adversely affect the rights of either of the parties in the appeal which is pending before the learned Appellate Court.

5. Insofar as grant of stay of conviction is concerned, we have considered certain factors. The sentence for an offence punishable under Section 499 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (for short "IPC") is simple imprisonment for two years or fine or both. The learned Trial Judge, in the order passed by him, has awarded the maximum sentence of imprisonment for two years. Except the admonition given to the appellant by this Court in contempt proceedings (Contempt Petition (Crl) No.3/2019 in Yashwant Sinha and Others v. Central Bureau of Investigation through its Director and another, reported in (2020) 2 SCC 338) no other reason has been assigned by the learned Trial Judge while imposing the maximum sentence of two years. It is to be noted that it is only on account of the maximum sentence of two years imposed by the learned Trial Judge, the provisions of sub-section (3) of Section 8 of the Representation of the People Act, 1950 (for short, "the Act") have come into play. Had the sentence been due a day lesser, the provisions of sub-section (3) of Section 8 of The Act would not have been attracted.

6. Particularly, when an offence is non-cognizable, bailable and compoundable, the least that the Trial Judge was expected to do was to give some reasons as to why, in the facts and circumstances, he found it necessary to impose the maximum sentence of two years.

7. Though the learned Appellate Court and the learned High Court have spent voluminous pages while rejecting the application for stay of conviction, these aspects have not even been touched in their orders.

8. No doubt that the alleged utterances by the appellant are not in good taste. A person in public life is expected to exercise a degree of restraint while making public speeches. However, as has been observed by this Court while accepting affidavit of the appellant herein in aforementioned contempt proceedings, the appellant herein ought to have been more careful while making the public speech. May be, had the judgment of the Apex Court in the contempt proceedings come prior to the speech made by the appellant, the appellant would have been more careful and exercised a degree of restraint while making the alleged remarks, which were found to be defamatory by the Trial Judge.

9. We are of the considered view that the ramification of sub-section (3) of Section 8 of the Act are wide-ranging. They not only affect the right of the appellant to continue in public life but also affect the right of the electorate, who have elected him, to represent their constituency.

10. We are of the considered view, taking into consideration the aforesaid aspects and particularly that no reasons have been given by the learned Trial Judge for imposing the maximum sentence which has the effect of incurring disqualification under Section 8(3) of the Act, the order of conviction needs to be stayed, pending hearing of the present appeal.

11. We, therefore, stay the order of conviction during the pendency of the present appeal.

12. However, we clarify that the pendency of the present appeal would not come in the way of the Appellate Court in proceeding further with the appeal. The appeal would be decided on its own merits, in accordance with law.

13. The parties would be at liberty to approach the learned Appellate Court for expeditious disposal of the appeal, which request would be considered by it, on its own merits."

4. The petitioner appearing in person submits that the stay of order of conviction does not allow the Respondent No. 1 to contest in elections because Article 102 of the Constitution of India read with Section 8(3) of the Representation of Peoples Act, 1951, creates a disqualification for being chosen as or for being a Member of Parliament.

5. Mr. Ashok Pandey further submits that the Supreme Court in Criminal Appeal

No. 3838 of 2023 (Arising out of Special Leave to Appeal (Crl.) No. 11129 Of 2023), also stayed the conviction of Afzal Ansari but in the order passed in that case, the Supreme Court in specific words permitted Mr Ansari to contest the elections which is clear from Para 24 (iv) of the judgment. The relevant part of the order passed by the Supreme Court in the matter of Afzal Ansari is being quoted below for ready reference:-

"The appellant shall not be disqualified to contest future election (s) during the pendency of his criminal appeal before the high court and if he is elected, such election will be subject to outcome of the first criminal appeal."

6. He further submitted that in view of the above mentioned position of facts and law it is clear that Rahul Gandhi and Afzal Ansari, both were disqualified to be chosen as MP but as the Supreme Court had permitted Mr Ansari to contest the elections and so Mr Afzal Ansari can contest the elections in spite of being disqualified but Mr Rahul Gandhi cannot as in his matter, the Supreme Court has not permitted him to contest the election (s) as in the case of Afzal Ansari. The submission is that in case merely the stay conviction entitles a person, who is otherwise disqualified, to contest the election(s), then the specific order to Afzal Ansari was not required.

7. That in view of above mentioned position of facts and law, the submission of the petitioner is that Mr Rahul Gandhi was disqualified to be chosen as MP and so his nomination paper was wrongly accepted and his name was wrongly put for voting amongst the voters of Wayanad and Raibareli Lok Sabha seats.

8. That subsequently, on 4th June 2024, the Returning Officer, Raibareilly went ahead and declared the election results whereby declaring the Sri Rahul Gandhi as winner candidate from Raibareilly.

9. That after being declared elected, Sri Rahul Gandhi started working as the member of Lok Sabha and because of being a member of Lok Sabha, he was also nominated as Leader of Opposition and is working as such till date.

10. That in this view of the matter, it is clear that Mr Rahul Gandhi, in spite of being disqualified to be chosen as MP, was chosen as such and so the petitioner submits that he is holding the office created by the Constitution without any authority of law and is accordingly usurping a public office created by the Constitution without any authority of law.

11. Per contra, Shri O.P. Srivastava, learned Senior Advocate appearing for Respondent No. 3 submits that since there is a stay of conviction of the Respondent No. 1, there is no bar under Section 8(3) of the Representation of Peoples Act, 1951 for him to contest in the elections or to remain as a Member of Parliament. He relies on the judgment of the Supreme Court of India in Lily Thomas Vs. Union of India reported in (2013) 7 SCC (LS) 811, to contend that in the event a conviction is stayed by a higher Court, the bar under Section 8(3) would not apply. He relies on Paragraph 21 of the judgment to buttress his argument which is delineated below:-

"21. We do not also find merit in the submission of Mr. Luthra and Mr. Kuhad that if a sitting member of Parliament or the State Legislature suffers from a frivolous conviction. by the trial, court for an offence given under Sub-section (1), (2) or (3) of Section 8 of the Act, he will be remediless and he will suffer immense hardship as he would stand disqualified on account of such conviction in the absence of Sub-section (4) of Section 8 of the Act. A three-Judge Bench of this Court in Rama Narang v. Ramesh Narang and Ors. [MANU/SC/0623/1995 (1995) 2 SCC 513] has held that when an appeal is preferred Under Section 374 of the Code of Criminal Procedure [for short 'the Code'] the appeal is against both the conviction and sentence and, therefore, the Appellate Court in exercise of its power Under Section 389(1) of the Code can also stay the order of conviction and the High Court in exercise of its Inherent jurisdiction Under Section 482 of the Code can also stay the conviction if the power was not to be found in Section 389(1) of the Code. In Ravikant S. Patil v. Sarvabhoutma S. Bagali [MANU/SC/8600/2006 (2007) 1 SCC 673], a three-Judge Bench of this Court, however, observed

"It deserves to be clarified that an order granting stay of conviction is not the rule but is an exception to be resorted to in rare cases depending upon the facts of a case. Where the execution of the sentence is stayed, the conviction continues to operate. But where the conviction itself is stayed, the effect is that the conviction will not be operative from the date of stay. An order of stay, of course, does not render the conviction non-existent, but only non-operative. Be that as it may. Insofar as the present case is concerned, an application was filed specifically seeking stay of the order of conviction specifying the consequences if conviction was not stayed, that is, the Appellant would incur : disqualification to contest the election. The High Court after considering the special reason, granted the order staying the conviction. As the conviction itself is stayed in contrast to a stay of execution of the sentence, it is not possible to accept the contention of the Respondent that the disqualification arising out of conviction continues to operate even after stay of conviction."

In the aforesaid case, a contention was raised by the Respondents that the Appellant was disqualified from contesting the election to the Legislative Assembly under Sub-section (3) of Section 8 of the Act as he had been convicted for an offence punishable Under Sections 366 and 376 of the Indian Penal Code and it was held by the three-Judge Bench that as the High Court for special reasons had passed an order staying the conviction, the disqualification arising out of the conviction ceased to operate after the stay of conviction. Therefore, the disqualification under Sub-section (1), (2) or (3) of Section 8 of the Act will not operate from the date of order of stay of conviction passed by the Appellate Court Under Section 389 of the Code or the High Court Under Section 482 of the Code."

12. We have heard learned counsels appearing on behalf of the parties and analyzed the position of law. Before going into the issue, it would be apt to lay down the relevant provisions of law in relation to the present issue. Accordingly, Article 102 of the Constitution of India and Section 8(3) of the Representation of Peoples Act, 1951 are provided below:-

"Article-102. Disqualifications for membership

(1) A person shall be disqualified for being chosen as, and for being, a member of either House of Parliament-

(a) if he holds any office of profit under the Government of India or the Government of any State, other than an office declared by Parliament by law not to disqualify its holder;

(b) if he is of unsound mind and stands so declared by a competent court,

(c) if he is an undischarged insolvent,

(d) if he is not a citizen of India, or has voluntarily acquired the citizenship of a foreign State, or is under any acknowledgement of allegiance or adherence to a foreign State,

(e) if he is so disqualified by or under any law made by Parliament.

Explanation.--For the purposes of this clause a person shall not be deemed to hold an office of profit under the Government of India or the Government of any State by reason only that he is a Minister either for the Union or for such State.

(2) A person shall be disqualified for being a member of either House of Parliament if he is so disqualified under the Tenth Schedule.

Section-8 Disqualification on conviction for certain offences.

8(3) A person convicted of any offence and sentenced to imprisonment for not less than two years other than any offence referred to in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) shall be disqualified from the date of such conviction and shall continue to be disqualified for a further period of six years since his release.

13. Upon a perusal of the above provision and after sifting through the judgments of the Supreme Court relied upon by the parties, it is clear that once an order of conviction is stayed, the bar under Section 8(3) of the Representation of Peoples Act would not apply. The reason behind the same is very simple -- a person convicted of an offence and sentenced to imprisonment for not less than two years is the bar provided under Section 8(3) of the Representation of Peoples Act. However, when such a conviction has been stayed by a higher court, the indelible mark of a convict cannot be assigned to such a person till the appeal is decided. It may be noted that in several cases, the higher court does not stay the conviction of a person but merely may stay the execution of the sentence and may even grant bail to the petitioner. Such a stay of the execution is not synonymous to stay of conviction. In the former case, the bar under Section 8(3) would apply but in the latter case, since the conviction has been stayed, the bar would not apply.

14. The petitioner has also relied on the judgment of a Constitutional Bench of the Supreme Court in B.R. Kapur Vs. State of Tamil Nadu & others reported in (2001) 7 SCC 231, and specifically relied on Paragraph 40 to buttress his argument. Paragraph 40 of the said judgment is delineated below:-

"40. In much the same vein, it was submitted that the presumption of Innocence continued until the final judgment affirming the conviction and sentence was passed and, therefore, no disqualification operated as of now against the second Responderit. Before we advert to the four judgments relied upon in support of this submission, let us clear the air. When a lower court convicts an accused and sentences him, the presumption that the accused is innocent comes to an end. The conviction operates and the accused has to undergo the sentence. The execution of the sentence can be stayed by an appellate court and the accused released on bail. In many cases, the accused is released on bail so that the appeal is not rendered infructuous, at least in part, because the accused has already undergone imprisonment. If the appeal of the accused succeeds the conviction is wiped out as cleanly as if it had never existed and the sentence is set aside. A successful appeal means that the stigma of the offence is altogether erased. But that it is not to say that the presumption of innocence continues after the conviction by the trial court. That conviction and the sentence it carries operate against the accused in all their rigour until set aside in appeal, and a disqualification that attaches to the conviction and sentence applies as well."

15. The petitioner has specifically placed great emphasis on the last three lines of the said paragraph that states as follows:- "That conviction and the sentence it carries operate against the accused in all their rigour until set aside in appeal, and a disqualification that attaches to the conviction and sentence applies as well." It is the argument of the petitioner that a conviction unless set aside would continue to operate, and therefore, the bar under Section 8(3) of the Representation of Peoples Act, 1951 would continue to apply.

16. With great humility and respect, we would submit that we are not at consensus ad idem with the argument raised, as we are of the view that the statement made in the said paragraph was in reference to a factual matrix wherein execution of the sentence had been stayed and not where there has been a stay of conviction. The moment a higher court stays a conviction, the anathema of conviction goes out of the window and the person against whom such conviction is stayed, though not absolved, cannot be stated to be a convicted person. It is only when the appeal is decided that it could be ascertained as to whether he would be a convicted person or an acquitted person.

17. Our opinion is also fortified by the judgment in Lily Thomas (Supra) wherein the Division Bench of the Supreme Court has categorically held that the disqualification under Sub-section (1), (2) or (3) of Section 8 of the Representation of Peoples Act will not operate from the date of order of stay of conviction passed by the Appellate Court under Section 389 of the Code or the High Court under Section 482 of the Code.

18. In light of the same, we are of the view that the present writ petition is devoid of merit. The petitioner has also sought from us a certificate for appeal to the Supreme Court under Article 134-A of the Constitution of India.

19. On consideration of the said prayer, we are of the view that no substantial question of law arises in the present matter, as the matter has been categorically settled by the Supreme Court and is no longer res integra, as discussed above. Accordingly, the said prayer is also rejected.

20. The writ petition is dismissed in the aforesaid terms.

Akanksha & Anr. Vs. State of U.P. & 3 Ors.
 From the Judgment and Order dated 17.12.2025 of the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for partiesAdv. for Petitioner:-

Rajeev Kumar Saxena

Adv. for Respondent:-

C.S.C

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Swetashwa Agarwal, learned Senior Counsel, appeared as Amicus Curiae and assisted by Sri Subir Lal, Shri Sausthav Guha, Sri Dhanraj Singh Yadav, Sri Ajay Kumar and Sri Abhay Kumar Shukla, learned counsels appearing on behalf of the petitioners and Sri Yogesh Kumar, Sri Pramit Kumar Pal and Sri Suresh Babu, learned Standing Counsels for the State of U.P., in all the writ petitions.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioners have prayed for a writ in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents not to interfere in their peaceful life and also for a direction to provide protection.

3. A large number of petitions are being filed in this Court wherein the petitioners have decided to stay together in a live-in relationship and they claimed that they have an apprehension of life threat from the private respondents and the Police of concerned Districts have been approached by them, but no heed was paid, therefore, they have approached this Court by way of filing these writ petitions. In all the writ petitions, the petitioners have prayed that the Police of their District be directed to provide protection from private respondents as well as other family members/relatives/associates of the private respondents from causing any harm to the petitioners.

4. Since controversy involved in all the writ petitions are similar, hence they are being decided by a common judgment.

5. This Court, taking note of the involvement of the important issue in the matter, requested Mr. Shweta Ashwani Agarwal, learned Senior Advocate, to assist this Court, as amicus curiae, which was accepted by the learned Senior Counsel and he argued the matter with the assistance of learned counsels named above.

6. Learned Senior Counsel started his argument that in India live-in relationship is not unlawful though, it is not accepted in many parts of the society because people think it may increase adultery. According to Article 21 of the Constitution of India, every citizen's right to marry is an alienable fundamental right. They can be married or be in a live-in relationship. It is their choice and no one can interfere in their peaceful living.

7. Learned Senior Counsel further argued that Article 21 of the Constitution of India grants the personal choice of whether to marry or not and be in a live-in relationship. A major person has a right to marry a person of his/her choice or to live with his/her partner/they have a right to live out of the wedlock.

8. It is further argued by the learned Senior Counsel that live-in relationship may be considered to be an immoral act. Morality may differ from person to person. It is according to each person and perception whether a particular thing is moral or immoral. The live-in relationship is not prohibited by any law. The legality of the live-in relationship arose from Article 19 and 21 of the Constitution of India, therefore, one can live anywhere and with anyone of their choice, with or without marriage. According to law, a live-in relationship cannot be said illegal, however, some people may call it immoral. It is also submitted that the Indian Parliament has never passed any Legislation that declares a live-in relationship as illegal or unlawful. The Supreme Court and the High Courts in various judgments, have accepted the live-in relationship.

9. The learned Senior Counsel citing several judgments of Supreme Court as well as High Courts, stated that it is verdict that a live-in relationship between consenting adults of heterogenic sex does not amount to any offence. It is also submitted that Article 14 of the Indian Constitution guarantees equal protection of law in the territory of India and Article 21 protects the citizen's right to life and liberty. In these cases, the petitioners, claimed to be in a live-in relationship, have crossed the age of majority which is a legal age to enter into any relationship with protection, according to their prayer. The learned Senior Counsel has relied upon various judgments of the Supreme Court as well as High Courts in support of his contention, which shall be discussed by this Court in succeeding paragraphs of this judgment.

10. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel and learned Standing Counsel for the State of U.P. stated that the Indian society cannot accept the live-in relationship in replacement of marriage. Married couples often have many societal responsibilities of finances, taking care of each other's family members and performing the duties organized by the society. In a live-in relationship there is no need to please parents and relatives, and the couples are free from such responsibilities which will arise out of marriage.

11. It is also stated by learned counsel for the State that live-in relationship cannot be accepted at the cost of our country's social fabric. These parties are not binding by any law and either of the partners can walk out of the said relationship as and when they like to do so. It is a contract of live-in together which is renewed every day by the parties and can be terminated by either of the parties without consent of the other party and one party can walk out at any point of time. There is no legal status of such type of relationship and the legal status of the children born out of such relationship would not be determined and it will create a lot of complications in the life of live-in partners, therefore, before seeking any relief from the Court, they should marry first.

12. It is also submitted by the learned counsel for the State of U.P. that if the petitions are allowed, that would impose an impermissible obligation upon the State to supervise, affirm and protect personal choices of the petitioners. It is further submitted that protection may be granted to the couples who have solemnized marriage against the wishes of their parents and relatives but no protection can be granted to non-marital couples. The apprehensions of the petitioners are vague, speculative and unsupported by any contemporaneous complaint to local police authorities. There is no real and immediate threat to life or limb of the petitioners. The State's obligation to protect arises only when a real and immediate threat exists; the Constitution does not compel prophylactic, generalized or anticipatory protection for private arrangements. The police cannot be compelled to serve as personal security for non-marital cohabitation. Protection by the police is warranted only when there exists a credible and immediate threat.

13. In last, it is submitted by learned counsel for the State that moral values and traditions of the Indian Society in name of modernisation cannot be accepted and no relief can be granted by this Court considering the status of the parties/petitioners. The learned counsel for the State have also relied upon following judgments:

"1. Director of Settlements vs. M.R. Apparao, (2002) 4 SCC 638.

2. Shanti Fragrances v. Union of India, (2018) 11 SCC 305.

3. Municipal Committee, Amritsar vs. Hazara Singh, (1975) 1 SCC 794.

4. Common Cause vs. Union of India, (2018) 5 SCC 1.

5. Indra Sarma vs. V.K.V. Sarma, (2013) 15 SCC 755.

6. State of Punjab vs. Gurdial Singh, (1980) 2 SCC 471.

7. K.K. Bhalla vs. State of M.P., (2006) 3 SCC 581.

8. Poonam Verma vs. Delhi Police, (1996) 4 SCC 565.

9. Divisional Manager, Aravali Golf Club vs. Chander Hass, (2008) 1 SCC 683."

14. I have heard rival submissions of the parties and perused the records.

15. Marriage is a sacred relationship in India. Marriage has its legal consequences, entitles both the persons to cohabit, children born out of a legal wedlock have legitimacy as legal heirs, the wife is entitled to maintenance during and after the dissolution of marriage. To avoid these responsibilities and to enjoy the benefit of living together, the concept of living together has come into picture. Live-in relationship provides for a life free from responsibilities and commitment unlike in a marriage. In this relationship, an unmarried couple lives together under the same roof in a way it resembles a marriage, but without getting legally married.

16. Live-in relationship is not socially accepted in our country. On the other hand, it is considered as taboo in India. The door for western ideas is always welcome in India and the concept of live-in relationship is one of such ideas. Live-in relationship is still facing social stigma and moral debate, especially regarding traditional values, children, differing religious/cultural perspectives. For some, it is immoral while others see it as a valid choice for compatibility.

17. In modern era, the concept of live-in relationship means a male and a female living together under a roof without marriage. This Court has been approached by live-in couples for protection from the private respondents, therefore, without going into the morality of the act of the petitioners, the Court has to see as to whether any illegal act has been committed by the petitioners and in this context, it has to be seen as to whether they are entitled to any relief.

18. Badri Prasad vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, AIR 1978 SC 1557; (1978) 3 SCC 527, was the first case in which the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India has recognized live-in relationship and interpreted it as a valid marriage. In this case the Hon'ble Supreme Court gave the legal validity to the 50 years old relationship of a couple. The Supreme Court held that the parties were in a live-in relationship for more than 50 years and their relationship would be considered as husband and wife, presuming the relationship was valid.

19. In the case of Payal Sharma @ Kamla Sharma vs. Superintendent, Nari Niketan, Agra, AIR 2001 ALL 254, the Division Bench of Allahabad High Court, clearly stated that a man and women even without getting married can live together if they wish. This may be regarded immoral by the society but it is not illegal. There is a difference between the law and morality. The petitioner was set at liberty by the Division Bench of High Court, Allahabad, and it was observed that she can go anywhere and can live with anyone as she desires. The police was also directed to ensure security of the petitioner.

20. In the case of Tulsa And Others vs. Durghatiya And Others, (2008) 4 SCC 520, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has remarked that where partners live jointly for an extended period of time, a belief would emerge in a substantial marriage. Subsequently, there is no rule which shows that living together with someone is unlawful, also children conceived out of such relationship will no more be considered as illegitimate.

21. In the case of S. Khushboo vs. Kanniammal And Another, (2010) 5 SCC 600, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that adults willingly engaging in sexual relations outside the marital setting is not an offence. Paragraph Nos. 31 and 46 of the S. Khushboo (supra) are reproduced as under:

"31. While it is true that the mainstream view in our society is that sexual contact should take place only between marital partners, there is no statutory offence that takes place when adults willingly engage in sexual relations outside the marital setting, with the exception of "adultery" as defined under Section 497 IPC. At this juncture, we may refer to the decision given by this Court in Lata Singh Vs. State of U.P. & Anr., AIR 2006 SC 2522, wherein it was observed that a live-in relationship between two consenting adults of heterogenic sex does not amount to any offence (with the obvious exception of "adultery"), even though it may be perceived as immoral. A major girl is free to marry anyone she likes or "live with anyone she likes". In that case, the petitioner was a woman who had married a man belonging to another caste and had begun cohabitation with him. The petitioner's brother had filed a criminal complaint accusing her husband of offences under Sections 366 and 368 IPC, thereby leading to the commencement of trial proceedings. This Court had entertained a writ petition and granted relief by quashing the criminal trial. Furthermore, the Court had noted that "no offence was committed by any of the accused and the whole criminal case in question is an abuse of the process of the Court".

46. Admittedly, the appellant's remarks did provoke a controversy since the acceptance of premarital sex and live-in relationships is viewed by some as an attack on the centrality of marriage. While there can be no doubt that in India, marriage is an important social institution, we must also keep our minds open to the fact that there are certain individuals or groups who do not hold the same view. To be sure, there are some indigenous groups within our country wherein sexual relations outside the marital setting are accepted as a normal occurrence. Even in the societal mainstream, there are a significant number of people who see nothing wrong in engaging in premarital sex. Notions of social morality are inherently subjective and the criminal law cannot be used as a means to unduly interfere with the domain of personal autonomy. Morality and Criminality are not co-extensive"

22. Here an important issue raised in these petitions is regarding the fundamental rights of the petitioners guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Can this Court be a silent spectator when its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India invoked seeking its protection for personal liberty and a young couple whose only fault is that they have crossed the bridge which is not socially acceptable by our society.

23. The Hon'ble Apex Court has considered this issue and has laid down law that partners, living in a relationship has not committed any offence.

24. In the case of Gian Devi v. The Superintendent, Nari Niketan, Delhi and Others, (1976) 3 SCC 234, the three-Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that if a girl is major then no fetter can be placed upon her choice of the person with whom she is to stay nor any restriction can be imposed regarding the place where she should stay. The Supreme Court further observed that relatives can also have no right to interfere in such matter. It is enough to extract relevant part of the judgment which reads as under:

"7. ... Whatever may be the date of birth of the petitioner, the fact remains that she is at present more than 18 years of age. As the petitioner is sui juris no fetters can be placed upon her choice of the person with whom she is to stay, nor can any restriction be imposed regarding the place where she should stay. The court or the relatives of the petitioner can also not substitute their opinion or preference for that of the petitioner in such a matter."

25. In Lata Singh vs. State of UP 2006 Cr.L.J. 3309, while dealing with a case of harassment by the parents of the boy and girl, who had entered into inter-caste marriage, Hon'ble Supreme Court has issued directions to the Administration/Police authorities throughout the country in the following terms:-

"This is a free and democratic country, and once a person becomes a major he or she can marry whosoever he/she likes. If the parents of the boy or girl do not approve of such inter-caste or inter-religious marriage the maximum they can do is that they can cut off social relations with the son or the daughter, but they cannot give threats or commit or instigate acts of violence and cannot harass the person who undergoes such inter-caste or inter-religious marriage. We, therefore, direct that the administration/police authorities throughout the country will see to it that if any boy or girl who is a major undergoes inter-caste or inter-religious marriage with a woman or man who is a major, the couple are not harassed by any one nor subjected to threats or acts of violence, and any one who gives such threats or harasses or commits acts of violence either himself or at his instigation, is taken to task by instituting criminal proceedings by the police against such persons and further stern action is taken against such persons as provided by law."

26. In Bhagwan Dass v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2011) 6 SCC 396 Hon'ble

Supreme Court held in paragraph 28 and 29 as under:-

"28. Often young couples who fall in love have to seek shelter in the police lines or protection homes, to avoid the wrath of kangaroo courts. We have held in Lata Singh case that there is nothing "honourable" in "honour" killings, and they are nothing but barbaric and brutal murders by bigoted persons with feudal minds. In our opinion honour killings, for whatever reason, come within the category of the rarest of rare cases deserving death punishment. It is time to stamp out these barbaric, feudal practices which are a slur on our nation. This is necessary as a deterrent for such outrageous, uncivilised behavior. All persons who are planning to perpetrate "honour" killings should know that the gallows await them.

29. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the Registrars General/ Registrars of all the High Courts who shall circulate the same to all the Judges of the Courts. The Registrars General/ Registrars of the High Courts will also circulate copies of the same to all the Sessions Judges/ Additional Sessions Judges in the States/Union Territories. Copies of the judgment shall also be sent to all the Chief Secretaries/ Home Secretaries/ Directors General of Police of all States/ Union Territories in the country. The Home Secretaries and Directors General of Police will circulate the same to all SSPs/SPs in the States/Union Territories for information."

27. The anguish expressed by the Supreme Court in the case of Bhagwan Dass (supra) is a matter of serious concern for our democratic polity. Organizing Khaps on the caste basis and implementing their decisions instantly will turn the democracy into mobocracy. It will turn India into a banana republic. As noticed by the Supreme Court, honour killing has become commonplace in several parts of India. If the tendency to overreach the rule of law is not nipped in the bud, it would corrode the very foundation of our Constitution on which its grand edifice rests. The consequences are fraught with danger of collapse of our institutions and rule of law that will lead to anarchy.

28. The Supreme Court in the case of D. Velusamy v. D. Patchaiammal, reported in (2010) 10 SCC 469, has considered the live-in relationship or a relationship in the nature of marriage and laid down some ingredients, which can be treated like a common law marriage. The relevant paragraph of the judgment reads as under:

"31. In our opinion a "relationship in the nature of marriage" is akin to a common law marriage. Common law marriages require that although not being formally married:

(a) The couple must hold themselves out to society as being akin to spouses.

(b) They must be of legal age to marry.

(c) They must be otherwise qualified to enter into a legal marriage, including being unmarried.

(d) They must have voluntarily cohabited and held themselves out to the world as being akin to spouses for a significant period of time."

29. A three Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Soni Gerry vs.

Gerry Douglas, (2018) 2 SCC 197, where the daughter of appellant and respondent, who had attained the age of majority, expressed her desire to reside in Kuwait with her father, where she was pursuing her education, held:

"10. It needs no special emphasis to state that attaining the age of majority in an individual's life has its own significance. She/He is entitled to make her/his choice. The courts cannot, as long as the choice remains, assume the role of parens patriae. The daughter is entitled to enjoy her freedom as the law permits and the court should not assume the role of a super guardian being moved by any kind of sentiment of the mother or the egotism of the father. We say so without any reservation."

30. In Dhanu Lal vs. Ganesh Ram, (2015) 12 SCC 301, the Apex Court has held that couples in live in relationships will be presumed legally married. It was also held that the woman in live in relationship would be eligible to inherit the property after the death of a partner.

31. In Nandakumar and Another vs. State of Kerala, (2018) 16 SCC 602, the Apex Court emphasized that live in relationship is now recognized by the legislature itself and it has found its place under the provisions of Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005. The relevant paragraphs of Nandakumar (supra) are reproduced as under:

"We need not go into this aspect in detail. For our purposes, it is sufficient to note that both Appellant 1 and Thushara are major. Even if they were not competent to enter into wedlock (which position itself is disputed), they have right to live together even outside the wedlock. It would not be out of place to mention that "live-in relationship" is now recognized by the legislature itself which has found its place under the provisions of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005."

32. The matter in issue has already been dealt with in great detail by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Indra Sarma vs. V.K.V. Sarma, (2013) 15 SCC 755, wherein it was held that live-in relationships may last for a considerable time and can lead to standards of dependency and vulnerability and with the increase in number of live-in relationships there must be sufficient protection, specially for women and those children who are born out of such relationships. The law cannot promote premarital sex, and live-in relationships are personal and people can give their opinion in favour or against it. The legislature must consider this issue and enact separate legislation so that protection for women and children born out of live-in relationships can be provided. The relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgment are reproduced hereinunder:

"37. The distinction between the relationship in the nature of marriage and marital relationship has to be noted first. The relationship of marriage continues, notwithstanding the fact that there are differences of opinions, marital unrest, etc., even if they are not sharing a shared household, being based on law. But live-in-relationship is purely an arrangement between the parties unlike, a legal marriage. Once a party to a live-in-relationship determines that he/she does not wish to live in such a relationship, that relationship comes to an end. Further, in a relationship in the nature of marriage, the party asserting the existence of the relationship, at any stage or at any point of time, must positively prove the existence of the identifying characteristics of that relationship, since the legislature has used the expression "in the nature of".

38. Reference to certain situations, in which the relationship between an aggrieved person referred to in Section 2(a) and the respondent referred to in Section 2(q) of the DV Act, would or would not amount to a relationship in the nature of marriage, would be apposite. Following are some of the categories of cases which are only illustrative:

38.1. (a) Domestic relationship between an unmarried adult woman and an unmarried adult male.- Relationship between an unmarried adult woman and an unmarried adult male who lived or, at any point of time lived together in a shared household, will fall under the definition of Section 2(f) of the DV Act and in case, there is any domestic violence, the same will fall under Section 3 of the DV Act and the aggrieved person can always seek reliefs provided under Chapter IV of the DV Act.

38.2. (b) Domestic relationship between an unmarried woman and a married adult male.- Situations may arise when an unmarried adult women knowingly enters into a relationship with a married adult male. The question is whether such a relationship is a relationship "in the nature of marriage" so as to fall within the definition of Section 2(f) of the DV Act.

38.3. (c) Domestic relationship between a married adult woman and an unmarried adult male.- Situations may also arise where an adult married woman, knowingly enters into a relationship with an unmarried adult male, the question is whether such a relationship would fall within the expression relationship "in the nature of marriage".

38.4. (d) Domestic relationship between an unmarried woman unknowingly enters into a relationship with a married adult male.- An unmarried woman unknowingly enters into a relationship with a married adult male, may, in a given situation, fall within the definition of Section 2(f) of the DV Act and such a relationship may be a relationship in the "nature of marriage", so far as the aggrieved person is concerned.

38.5. (e) Domestic relationship between same sex partners (gay and lesbians).- The DV Act does not recognize such a relationship and that relationship cannot be termed as a relationship in the nature of marriage under the Act. Legislatures in some countries, like the Interpretation Act, 1984 (Western Australia), the Interpretation Act, 1999 (New Zealand), the Domestic Violence Act, 1998 (South Africa), the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act, 2004 (U.K.), have recognized the relationship between the same sex couples and have brought these relationships into the definition of Domestic relationship.

39. Section 2(f) of the DV Act though uses the expression "two persons", the expression "aggrieved person" under Section 2(a) takes in only "woman", hence, the Act does not recognize the relationship of same sex (gay or lesbian) and, hence, any act, omission, commission or conduct of any of the parties, would not lead to domestic violence, entitling any relief under the DV Act.

40. We should, therefore, while determining whether any act, omission, commission or conduct of the respondent constitutes "domestic violence", have a common sense/balanced approach, after weighing up the various factors which exist in a particular relationship and then reach a conclusion as to whether a particular relationship is a relationship in the "nature of marriage". Many a times, it is the common intention of the parties to that relationship as to what their relationship is to be, and to involve and as to their respective roles and responsibilities, that primarily governs that relationship. Intention may be expressed or implied and what is relevant is their intention as to matters that are characteristic of a marriage. The expression "relationship in the nature of marriage", of course, cannot be construed in the abstract, we must take it in the context in which it appears and apply the same bearing in mind the purpose and object of the Act as well as the meaning of the expression "in the nature of marriage". Plight of a vulnerable section of women in that relationship needs attention. Many a times, the women are taken advantage of and essential contribution of women in a joint household through labour and emotional support have been lost sight of especially by the women who fall in the categories mentioned in para 38.1 (a) and para 38.4 (d) supra. Women, who fall under categories (b) and (c) (paras 38.2 and 38.3), stand on a different footing, which we will deal with later. In the present case, the appellant falls under category (b), referred to in paragraph 38.2 of the Judgment.

41. We have, therefore, come across various permutations and combinations, in such relationships, and to test whether a particular relationship would fall within the expression "relationship in the nature of marriage", certain guiding principles have to be evolved since the expression has not been defined in the Act.

42. Section 2(f) of the DV Act defines "domestic relationship" to mean, inter alia, a relationship between two persons who live or have lived together at such point of time in a shared household, through a relationship in the nature of marriage. The expression "relationship in the nature of marriage" is also described as defacto relationship, marriage ? like relationship, cohabitation, couple relationship, meretricious relationship (now known as committed intimate relationship), etc.

43. The courts and legislatures of various countries now began to think that denying certain benefits to a certain class of persons on the basis of their marital status is unjust where the need of those benefits is felt by both unmarried and married cohabitants. Courts in various countries have extended certain benefits to heterosexual unmarried cohabitants. Legislatures too, of late, through legislations started giving benefits to heterosexual cohabitants."

33. In the case of Shafin Jahan vs. Asokan K.M. And Others, (2018) 16 SCC 368, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that right to marry a person of own choice is integral part of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. There is a complete freedom to choose life partner of any faith, belief, religion, caste etc. Neither State, nor law, nor society can dictate the choice of partner. The right cannot be taken away except through law which is substantially and procedurally fair, just and reasonable. The relevant paragraphs of Shafin Jahan (supra) are reproduced as under:

"26. In Ummu Sabeena vs. State of Kerala and Others, (2011) 10 SCC 781, the Court further ruled that the principle of habeas corpus has been incorporated in our constitutional law and in a democratic republic like India where judges function under a written Constitution and which has a chapter of fundamental rights to protect individual liberty, the judges owe a duty to safeguard the liberty not only of the citizens but also of all persons within the territory of India; and the same exercise of power can be done in the most effective manner by issuing a writ of habeas corpus.

27 . Thus, the pivotal purpose of the said writ is to see that no one is deprived of his/her liberty without sanction of law. It is the primary duty of the State to see that the said right is not sullied in any manner whatsoever and its sanctity is not affected by any kind of subterfuge. The role of the Court is to see that the detenue is produced before it, find out about his/her independent choice and see to it that the person is released from illegal restraint. The issue will be a different one when the detention is not illegal. What is seminal is to remember that the song of liberty is sung with sincerity and the choice of an individual is appositely respected and conferred its esteemed status as the Constitution guarantees. It is so as the expression of choice is a fundamental right Under Articles 19 and 21 of the Constitution, if the said choice does not transgress any valid legal framework. Once that aspect is clear, the enquiry and determination have to come to an end.

52. It is obligatory to state here that expression of choice in accord with law is acceptance of individual identity. Curtailment of that expression and the ultimate action emanating therefrom on the conceptual structuralism of obeisance to the societal will destroy the individualistic entity of a person. The social values and morals have their space but they are not above the constitutionally guaranteed freedom. The said freedom is both a constitutional and a human right. Deprivation of that freedom which is ingrained in choice on the plea of faith is impermissible. Faith of a person is intrinsic to his/her meaningful existence. To have the freedom of faith is essential to his/her autonomy; and it strengthens the core norms of the Constitution. Choosing a faith is the substratum of individuality and sans it, the right of choice becomes a shadow. It has to be remembered that the realization of a right is more important than the conferment of the right. Such actualization indeed ostracises any kind of societal notoriety and keeps at bay the patriarchal supremacy. It is so because the individualistic faith and expression of choice are fundamental for the fructification of the right. Thus, we would like to call it indispensable preliminary condition.

53 . Non-acceptance of her choice would simply mean creating discomfort to the constitutional right by a Constitutional Court which is meant to be the protector of fundamental rights. Such a situation cannot remotely be conceived. The duty of the Court is to uphold the right and not to abridge the sphere of the right unless there is a valid authority of law. Sans lawful sanction, the centripetal value of liberty should allow an individual to write his/her script. The individual signature is the insignia of the concept.

54. In the case at hand, the father in his own stand and perception may feel that there has been enormous transgression of his right to protect the interest of his daughter but his view point or position cannot be allowed to curtail the fundamental rights of his daughter who, out of her own volition, married the Appellant. Therefore, the High Court has completely erred by taking upon itself the burden of annulling the marriage between the Appellant and the Respondent No. 9 when both stood embedded to their vow of matrimony."

34. The Rajasthan High Court while deciding S.B. Criminal Writ Petition No. 1730 of 2024 (Rekha Meghwanshi And Another vs. State of Rajasthan And Others), dealt with the identical situation and granted protection to the live-in couples, vide order dated 21.8.2024.

35. In another latest judgment, Rajasthan High Court while deciding S.B. Criminal Writ Petition No. 1537 of 2025 (XXX vs. State of Rajasthan And Others), granted protection to live-in couples vide order dated 01.12.2025, relying upon the judgments of Rekha Meghwanshi (supra), Nandakumar (supra) and Lata Singh (supra). Paragraph nos. 10, 12 and 13 of the judgment dated 01.12.2025 passed by the Rajasthan High Court are reproduced as under:

" 10. In the case of Mafi & Anr. Vs. State of Harayana & Ors. while deciding CRWP No.691/2021 vide order dated 25.01.2021 has held as under:

"In the present case, this Court, without expressing any opinion on the validity of the relationship of the petitioners, is required to consider whether the apprehension of the petitioners needs to be redressed. Petitioner No.1 in the present case is more than 18 years of age and is a major. She is well within her right to decide what is good for her and what is not. She has decided to take a step to be in a live-in relationship with petitioner No.2, who is also major, though may not be of a marriageable age. Be that as it may, the fact remains that both the petitioners in the present case are major and have a right to live their lives on their own terms. The private respondent Nos.4 to 8 being relatives of petitioner No.1, who is a major, cannot dictate to her how and with whom she should spend her life. Parents cannot compel a child to live a life on their terms. Every adult individual has a right to live his or her life as he or she deems fit. The petitioners are both major and have every right to live their lives as they desire within the four corners of the law. The society cannot determine how an individual should live her or his life. A person with whom someone chooses to spend his or her life with cannot be determined by what society wants. Parents don't accept their daughter's choices only because of fear that it is not acceptable to the society.

The Constitution of India guarantees every individual the right to life and the choice of a partner is an important facet of the right to life. The petitioners are seeking protection of their lives and liberty as envisaged under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Article 21 of the Constitution of India provides for protection of life and personal liberty and further lays down that no person shall be deprived of his or her personal liberty except as per the procedure established by law. No doubt petitioner No.2 is not of marriageable age, however, admittedly, he is a major. Merely because of the fact that petitioner No.2 is not of a marriageable age the petitioners cannot possibly be denied enforcement of their fundamental rights as envisaged under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. The petitioners, both being major, have decided to live together in a live-in relationship and there possibly cannot be any legally justifiable reason for the respondents to object to the same."

12. Article 21 of the Constitution of India guarantees the right to life and personal liberty under the ambit of the fundamental rights, and any threat to these rights constitutes violation of the same.

13. It is a well settled legal position, as expounded by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Lata Singh Vs. State of UP & Anr., reported in AIR 2006 SC 2522, S. Khushboo Vs. Kanniammal & ors., reported in (2010) 5 SCC 600, Indra Sarma Vs. V.K.V. Sarma reported in (2013) 15 SCC 755 and Shafin Jahan Vs. Asokan KM & Ors. reported in (2018) 16 SCC 368 and passed by the Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Suman Meena vs. State of Rajasthan while deciding S.B. Criminal Writ Petition No.792/2024 decided on 03.03.2025, that the life and personal liberty of individuals has to be protected, except according to procedure established by law, as mandated by Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Further, as per Section 29 of the Rajasthan Police Act, 2007 every police officer is duty bound to protect the life and personal liberty of the citizens."

36. The Punjab and Haryana High Court while deciding CRWP No. 4725 of 2021 (Seema Kaur and Another vs. State of Punjab And Others), granted protection to live-in partners vide order dated 03.06.2021. The relevant paragraphs of Seema Kaur (supra) are reproduced as under:

"This Court in the past and also recently has allowed protection to those runaway couples, even though they were not married and were in a live-in relationship, and in cases where the marriage was invalid (as one of the parties though a major, was not of age as per Section 5 of the Hindu Marriage Act). Reference in this regard can be made to the judgment rendered by the Division Bench in Rajwinder Kaur and another Versus State of Punjab, 2014 (4) RCR (Criminal) 785 where it was held that marriage is not a must for security to be provided to a runaway couple. The police authorities were directed to ensure that no harm was caused by any one to the life and liberty of the couple. Similar views have been taken by the Coordinate Benches in the case of Rajveer Kaur Versus State of Punjab, 2019 (3) RCR (Civil) 478 and in Priyapreet Kaur Versus State of Punjab, 2021 (1) RCR (Civil) 604 amongst others. Different High Courts too have allowed protection to runaway couples who are not married. Again reference can be made to a recent judgement rendered by the Allahabad High Court in Kamini Devi vs. State of UP, 2021(1) RCR (Civil) 421 and in Bhagwan Dass v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2011) 6 SCC 396.

The concept of a live in relationship may not be acceptable to all, but it cannot be said that such a relationship is an illegal one or that living together without the sanctity of marriage constitutes an offence. Even under The Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005, a woman who is in a 'domestic relationship' has been provided protection, maintenance etc. It is interesting to note that the word 'wife' has not been used under the said Act. Thus, the female live-in-partners and the children of live-in-couples have been accorded adequate protection by the Parliament.

Article 21 as enshrined in the Constitution of India provides for its citizen to a right to life and personal liberty, with a stipulation that they shall not be deprived of it except according to a procedure established by law. In the case of Shakti Vahini Versus Union of India and others, 2018 (5) R.C.R (Criminal) 981, the Supreme court has held "The right to exercise Assertion of choice is an inalienable facet of liberty and dignity. That is why the French philosopher and thinker, Simone Weil, has said:-"Liberty, taking the word in its concrete sense consists in the ability to choose." At this stage, one cannot also lose sight of honour killings which are prevalent in northern parts of India, particularly in parts of States of Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan and Uttar Pradesh. Honour killing is a result of people marrying without their family's acceptance, and sometimes for marrying outside their caste or religion. Once an individual, who is a major, has chosen his/her partner, it is not for any other person, be it a family member, to object and cause a hindrance to their peaceful existence. It is for the State at this juncture, to ensure their protection and their personal liberty. It would be a travesty of justice in case protection is denied to persons who have opted to reside together without the sanctity of marriage and such persons have to face dire consequences at the hands of persons from whom protection is sought. In case such a course is adopted and protection denied, the courts would also be failing in their duty to provide its citizens a right to their life and liberty as enshrined under Article 21 of the Constitution of India and to uphold to the Rule of law.

The petitioners herein have taken a decision to reside together without the sanctity of marriage and it is not for the courts to judge them on their decision. The Supreme Court in its decision rendered in S. Khushboo v. Kanniammal, (2010) 5 SCC 600 has held that live in relationship is permissible and the act of two adults living together cannot be considered illegal or unlawful, while further holding that the issue of morality and criminality are not co-extensive. If the petitioners herein have not committed any offence, this court sees no reason as to why their prayer for grant of protection cannot be acceded to. Therefore, with due respect to the judgments rendered by the Coordinate Benches, who have denied protection to couples who are in live in relationship, this court is unable to adopt the same view.

Without entering upon an exercise to evaluate the evidentiary value of the documents placed on the file, I dispose of this petition with directions to respondent No.2-Senior Superintendent of Police, Bathinda to decide the representation of the petitioners (Annexure P-3) within a period of one week from the date of receipt of a copy of this order and grant them protection, if any threat to their life and liberty is perceived. It is made clear that this order shall not be taken to protect the petitioners from legal action for violation of law, if any committed by them."

37. The M.P. High Court, in case of Anjali Kushwah And Ors. vs. The State of M.P., Writ Petition No. 41033 of 2024, decided on 30.12.2024, has protected the live-in couple. The following observation was made by the M.P. High Court:

" In view of the aforesaid and also looking to the judgement of the Supreme Court in the case of Lata Singh v. State of U.P. reported in (2006) 5 SCC 475 and Navtej Singh Johar v. Union of India reported in (2018) 7 SCC 192, this Court is inclined to allow the present petition despite the fact that petitioner No. 1 is less than 21 years of age because both the petitioners are shown to be major being above 18 years of age and their choice needs to be protected from the external forces. However, this Court expresses its concern over the choice of the petitioners to enter into live in relationship as at such a tender age they may not be emotionally fully mature and economically fully independent. The petitioners are expected to exercise maturity while getting such protection from this Court.

In terms of the above, petition is allowed and the respondents Nos. 2 to 4 are directed to look into the grievance raised by the petitioners and shall examine the grievance of the petitioner regarding their life and liberty. They will be at liberty to verify the factum of age of the petitioners."

38. Even the Allahabad High Court while deciding Writ-C No. 27338 of 2023 (Razia And Another vs. State of U.P. And Three Others), protected the live-in couples vide order dated 05.09.2023, and held that the petitioners are at liberty to live together and no person would be permitted to interfere in their peaceful live-in relationship. Paragraph no. 13 of Razia (supra) is reproduced as under:

"13. From the above discussion and the rulings of the Supreme Court, it is clear that a boy or girl, who have attained majority, is free to marry or live with a person of his/her choice and no one including his/her parents or anyone on their behalf can interfere in their right to freedom of choosing a partner which emanates from Right to Life and Personal Liberty guaranteed under Articles 19 and 21 of the Constitution of India."

39. The Division Bench of Allahabad High Court has also protected live-in couple in Writ-C No. 11108 of 2020, Kamini Devi and Another vs. State of U.P. and Others, decided on 23.11.2020. Paragraph nos. 6 and 10 of the said judgment are reproduced as under:

"6. Apart from the same Hon'ble Apex Court in a long line of decisions has settled the law that where a boy and a girl are major and they are living with their free will, then, nobody including their parents, has authority to interfere with their living together. Reference may be made to the judgements of the Supreme Court in the cases of Gian Devi v. The Superintendent, Nari Niketan, Delhi and others, (1976) 3 SCC 234; Lata Singh v. State of U.P. and another, (2006) 5 SCC 475; and, Bhagwan Dass v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2011) 6 SCC 396, which have consistently been followed by the Supreme Court and this Court, as well as of this Court in Deepika and another v. State of U.P. and others, 2013 (9) ADJ 534. The Supreme Court in Gian Devi (supra) has held as under: -

"7. ... Whatever may be the date of birth of the petitioner, the fact remains that she is at present more than 18 years of age.

As the petitioner is sui juris no fetters can be placed upon her choice of the person with whom she is to stay, nor can any restriction be imposed regarding the place where she should stay. The court or the relatives of the petitioner can also not substitute their opinion or preference for that of the petitioner in such a matter."

10. Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, we are of the view that the petitioners are at liberty to live together and no person shall be permitted to interfere in their peaceful living. As right to life is a fundamental right insured under Article 21 of the Constitution of India in which it is provided that no person shall be deprived of his right to life and personal liberty. In case any disturbance is caused in the peaceful living of the petitioners, the petitioners shall approach the Senior Superintendent of Police, Farrukhabad i.e. the second-respondent, with self attested computer generated copy of this order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad, who shall provide immediate protection to the petitioners."

40. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the State has placed reliance upon a judgment of Division Bench of this Court in the case of Kiran Rawat And Another vs. State of U.P., 2023 (7) ADJ 679, decided on 28.4.2023, and submitted that this Court has refused to provide protection to the couples residing together in a live-in relationship.

41. From perusal of judgment of this Court in Kiran Rawat (supra), it is apparent that the Court has not held that all the couples residing in a live-in relationship are not entitled to protection of the Court. The judgment was not passed in consonance with the judgments passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the facts of the present cases are entirely different from the facts of the case of Kiran Rawat (supra).

42. In none of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court, relied upon by the State counsels, the live-in relationship was criticized/deprecated or refused to protect the live-in partners. On the contrary, it was recognized by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in various judgments discussed above. A perusal of the aforesaid judgments manifest that the Apex Court has consistently respected the liberty of an individual who has attained the age of majority. An individual on attaining majority is statutorily conferred a right to choose a partner, which if denied would not only affect his/her human rights but also his/her right to life and personal liberty, guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

43. Learned counsel for the State has relied upon several judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court. They have relied upon Shanti Frangrances (supra), which is related to taxation matters; Common Cause (supra), which is related to euthanasia; K.K. Bhalla (supra) which is related to town planning and Divisional Manager (supra), which is also not related to live-in relationship.

44. Except the judgment of Kiran Rawat (supra), learned counsel for the State could not produce any judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court wherein live-in relationship was deprecated or criticized or the protection was not granted to live-in partners. Even in the case of Kiran Rawat (supra), the Division Bench of this Court considered the legality and validity of interfaith couple, which is not the subject matter herein.

45. The concept of a live-in relationship may not be acceptable to all, but it cannot be said that such a relationship is an illegal one or that living together without the sanctity of the marriage constitutes an offence. Even under the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005, a woman who, is in a domestic relationship has been provided protection, maintenance etc. The word "wife" has not been used under the said Act.

46. Once an individual, who is a major, has chosen his/her partner, it is not for any other person, be it a family member, to object and cause a hindrance to their peaceful existence. It is the bounden duty of the State, as per the Constitutional obligations casted upon it, to protect the life and liberty of every citizen. Right to human life is to be treated on much higher pedestal, regardless of a citizen being minor or major, married or unmarried. Mere fact that the petitioners have not solemnized marriage, would not deprive them of their fundamental right as envisaged in the Constitution of India being citizens of India. This Court has no hesitation to hold that the Constitutional's fundamental right under Article 21 of the Constitution of India stands on a much higher pedestal. Being sacrosanct, under the Constitutional scheme it must be protected, regardless of the solemnization of marriage or even the absence of any marriage between the parties.

47. The petitioners herein, who are major, have taken a decision to reside together without the sanctity of the marriage and it is not for the Courts to judge them on their decision. If the petitioners herein have not committed any offence, this Court sees no reason as to why their prayer for grant of protection cannot be acceded to. Therefore, with due respect to the judgments rendered by the co-ordinate Benches, who have denied protection to couples, who were in a live-in relationship, this Court is unable to adopt the same view.

48. It is well settled legal position as expounded by the Hon'ble Supreme court in the case of Lata Singh (supra), S. Khushboo (supra), Indra Sarma (supra) and Shafin Jahan (supra) and other judgments passed by various High Courts including ours, that the life and liberty of the individuals has to be protected, except according to procedure established by law, as mandated by Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

49. In the opinion of the Court, a person, who has attained the age of majority as per Section 3 of the Majority Act, is able to understand his/her welfare and, therefore, he/she could not be restricted to go wherever he/she likes. He/she is free to live with anybody and could not be restrained from doing so.

50. Section 114 of the Indian Evidence Act/Section 119(1) of Bhartiya Sakshya Adhiniyam, 2023, states that if couples live together for a significant amount of time as husband and wife, they will be presumed to be married. The Courts shall apply this presumption to protect the rights of the parties in a live-in relationship, i.e. women and the children born as a result thereof.

51. Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the view that the petitioners are at liberty to live together peacefully and no person shall be permitted to interfere in their peaceful living. As right to life is a fundamental life ensured under Article 21 of the Constitution wherein it is provided that no person shall be deprived of his right to life and personal liberty except according to procedure established by law.

52. In case, any disturbance is caused in the peaceful living of the petitioners, the petitioners shall approach the Commissioner of Police/SSP/SP concerned with certified copy of this order and the Police Officer after being satisfied that the petitioners are major and willingly living together, will provide immediate protection to the petitioners. If the petitioners are educated and they produce their educational certificates and other certificates admissible under law, from which it is evident that they have attained the majority and they are living with their free will then no Police Officer shall take any coercive action against them unless an F.I.R. is registered against them in respect of any offence whatsoever. If they do not have any documentary proof regarding age and they come from rural background and or illiterate/semi-literate, the Police Officer can subject such boy or girl to ossification test to verify their correct age and he can also follow the other procedure permissible under the law.

53. Accordingly, aforesaid writ petitions are allowed.

54. No order as to cost.

55. Before parting with these cases, I would render my gratitude and appreciation for the invaluable assistance provided to the Court by Mr. Swetashwa Agarwal, learned Senior Advocate, as Amicus Curiae, ably assisted by Sri Subir Lal and Sri Sausthav Guha, learned counsels for the petitioners.

56. The hard work as well as arguments advanced by above named State counsels, are also appreciable.

In Re: Civil Misc. Amendment
Application No. Nil of 2025

1. Amendment application has been filed to correct the description of respondent no.4.

2. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has no objection.

3. Counsel for the petitioner is permitted to correct the array of parties during the course of the day.

4. Accordingly, the same is allowed.

Order on petition

1. Sri Ajay Shankar has filed an affidavit of service in pursuance of the order of this Court dated 28 November, 2025; in Court today; the same is taken on record.

2. As per the para 4 of the affidavit Dasti Summons have been served upon the respondent no.4.

3. Heard Sri Ajay Shankar, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri S.N. Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

4. By the consent of the parties, the present writ petition is being finally decided at the admission stage, since the question involved is only legal in nature.

Facts

1. The petitioner is said to have inherited the property in pursuance of the Will dated 20.1.2015 which was executed in his favour by the erstwhile owner late Makhan Singh, with respect to his 1/4th share in Khata No.00112, Gata No.129 area (1.08 hec.) i.e. 0.271 hec. of Village Ankhey, Puranpur, Pilibhit.

2. According to the petitioner his cause of action arose on account of a Will dated 12.1.2023 which was setup by respondent no.4. He has attracted the attention of the Court to para 12 of his plaint filed in Case No.5788 of 2024 (Sant Harvindar Singh vs. Amandeep Singh and others) filed under Section 144 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, (hereinafter referred as Code, 2006). For the convenience of ready reference para 2 and 4 are quoted below:-

“2. यह कि मखन सिंह पुत्र बहादुर सिंह नि०ग्राम पंजाग्राई कलां तह० कोटकपूरा जिला फरीदकोट के रहने वाले थे जिन्होंने ग्राहस्थ जीवन त्याग कर सन्यास ग्रहण कर लिया इनका सम्बन्ध प्राकृतिक वारिसों से टूट गया इनकी सम्पत्ति उसी दिन से विधिक वारिसों की हो गई इनकी प्राकृतिक मृत्यु हो गई मानी जायेगी।

(I) शीतल दास Vs संतराम 1954 S.C. 606 में उद्धरित है जो सन्यासी बन जाता है। वह अपने प्राकृतिक परिवार के सदस्यों से नाता तोड़ देता है। विरासत से बाहर रखा गया है। धार्मिक व्यवस्था में प्रवेश नागरिक मृत्यु के समान है। यही मन्तव्य हिन्दू लॉ (मुल्ला) के पैरा-111 व जमुना प्रसाद वनाम परमेश्वरदीन 1977 आर०डी० 606 में उद्धरित है। इस प्रकार जो व्यक्ति विधिक वारिसों के लिए 1984 से पूर्व मृतक हो गया उसके पश्चात् क्रय भूमि में विरासत प्राप्त करने का प्रश्न ही नहीं पैदा होता है। जो विधिक वारिसों के लिए 1984 से पूर्व मृतक हो गया है। वह उनके पक्ष में 2023 में वसीयत कैसे निष्पादित कर सकता है

4. यह कि यदि किसी गद्दी नशीन महन्त द्वारा अपने चले के पक्ष में वसीयत की जाती है वह गद्दी प्राप्त करता है तो भेक को ही अधिकार है कि वह वसीयत को स्वीकार या अस्वीकार करें। यदि किसी महन्त की मूल्य बिना नामित किये हो जाती है। तो भी भेक के पास महन्त की नियुक्ति का अधिकार होगा। कोर्ट को भेक का सम्मान करना चाहिए यहां पर भेक द्वारा दिनांक 19.02.23 को हरविन्दर सिंह को गद्दी नशीन महन्त घोषित किया है। भेक द्वारा इनकी वसीयत 20.01.15 को प्रभावी माना है जिस कारण अन्य किसी वसीयत पर विचार किये जाने का प्रश्न ही नहीं पैदा होता है। इस प्रकार भेक द्वारा हरविन्दर सिंह को गद्दी नशीन महन्त घोषित किया है। उनके पक्ष में निष्पादित वसीयत मान्य व प्रभावी है। अन्य शून्य व निष्प्रभावी होगी, क्योंकि स्वयं द्वारा हरविन्दर सिंह को गद्दी नशीन महन्त घोषित करने के बाद वसीयत का प्रश्न ही नहीं पैदा होता है, क्योंकि जिस दिन हरविन्दर सिंह गद्दी नशीन महन्त घोषित हुये थे सम्पूर्ण सम्पत्तियों का पूर्ण हस्तांतरण (Absolute Transfer) उसी दिन हरविन्दर सिंह के पक्ष में हो गया था। उसके बाद भूतपूर्व महन्त के द्वारा कोई भी दस्तावेज किसी के पक्ष में निष्पादित नहीं किया गया था।”

3. It transpires that the respondent no.4 filed his objection and also subsequently he filed an application under Order VII Rule 11 of C.P.C. dated 16th May, 2025 inter alia taking a ground that the proceedings under Section 34 of the Code, 2006 is pending and in view of the same Suit under Section 144 of the Code, 2006 is not maintainable. For convenience the relevant paragraph 3 of the objection dated 16.5.2025 is quoted below.

“3: यह कि वादी द्वारा धारा 34 यू०पी०आर०सी० के अन्तर्गत तहसीलदार महोदय पूरनपुर के द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक-26.06.2024 के विरुद्ध एक निगरानी माननीय राजस्व परिषद इलाहाबाद के समक्ष दिनांक-08.07.2024 को प्रस्तुत की गयी है जो कि वर्तमान समय में विचाराधीन है उक्त निगरानी अभी राजस्व परिषद इलाहाबाद द्वारा अन्तिम रूप से निर्णित नहीं की गयी है इस कारण धारा 34 के अन्तर्गत मुकदमें बाली भूमि के सम्बन्ध में वाद के विचाराधीन रहते हुये धारा 144 उ०प्र० राजस्व संहिता वादी का उपरोक्त वाद पोषणीय नहीं है क्योंकि एक ही रेमेडी के लिये दो न्यायालय में एक साथ कार्यवाही नहीं की जा सकती है।”

4. The said application under Order VII Rule 11 of C.P.C. was allowed by the impugned order dated 20.9.2025, hence the present petition.

Issues:-

(I) whether the impugned order by way of which an application under Order VII Rule 11 of C.P.C. has been allowed, is amenable to writ jurisdiction, in view of Section 207 of the Code, 2006, which provides for an appeal;

(II) whether a suit under Section 144 of the Code, 2006 can be said to be barred by law on account of the pendency of the proceedings under Section 34 of the Code, 2006.

Arguments-Issue No. I

5. Sri S.N. Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has raised a preliminary objection that the order passed on application under Order VII Rule 11 of C.P.C. is appealable under Section 207 of the Code, 2006; and accordingly the petitioner may be relegated to avail the alternative remedy, which according to him is an efficacious remedy and in view of the facts stated in the present writ petition, the same is liable to be dismissed on the ground of alternative remedy.

6. Per contra Sri Ajay Shankar, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that since the authority concerned has exceeded its jurisdiction and has considered the pendency of proceedings under Section 34 of the Code, 2006 to be a bar which is in the teeth of the settled position of law and being a purely question of law; the present writ petition is maintainable. He has relied upon the judgement in the case of Qamar Abbas Vs. Additional Commissioner 2024(1) ADJ 640 MANU/UP/4161/2023. For the convenience of reference, para 9 and 10 are quoted below:-

“9. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Godrej Sara Lee Ltd. v. Excise and Taxation Officer-cum-Assessing Authority and others; 2023 SCC OnLine SC 95, has held that where the controversy is a purely legal one and it does not involve disputed questions of fact but only question of law, then it should be decided by the high Court instead of dismissing the writ petition on the ground of an alternative remedy being available. The relevant paragraphs 6 to 8 are extracted here-in-below :

“6. At the end of the last century, this Court in paragraph 15 of the its decision in Whirlpool Corporation v. Registrar of Trade Marks, Mumbai and others, (1998) 8 SCC 1, carved out the exceptions on the existence whereof a Writ Court would be justified in entertaining a writ petition despite the party approaching it not having availed the alternative remedy provided by the statute. The same read as under:

(i) where the writ petition seeks enforcement of any of the fundamental rights;

(ii) where there is violation of principles of natural justice;

(iii) where the order or the proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction; or

(iv) where the vires of an Act is challenged.

7. Not too long ago, this Court in its decision in Assistant Commissioner of State Tax v. M/s. Commercial Steel Limited, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 884, has reiterated the same principles in paragraph 11.

8. That apart, we may also usefully refer to the decisions of this Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Indian Hume Pipe Co. Ltd., (1977) 2 SCC 724 and Union of India v. State of Haryana, (2000) 10 SCC 482. What appears on a plain reading of the former decision is that whether a certain item falls within an entry in a sales tax statute, raises a pure question of law and if investigation into facts is unnecessary, the high Court could entertain a writ petition in its discretion even though the alternative remedy was not availed of; and, unless exercise of discretion is shown to be unreasonable or perverse, this Court would not interfere. In the latter decision, this Court found the issue raised by the appellant to be pristinely legal requiring determination by the high Court without putting the appellant through the mill of statutory appeals in the hierarchy. What follows from the said decisions is that where the controversy is a purely legal one and it does not involve disputed questions of fact but only questions of law, then it should be decided by the high Court instead of dismissing the writ petition on the ground of an alternative remedy being available."

10. In view of above law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and also admitted to the parties that only question of law is involved in this petition, it is being entertained, instead of relegating to the alternative remedy, and this Court proceeds to decide it considering the rival contentions.

7. The perusal of the aforesaid judgement reaffirms the settled position of law that in case of violation of (i) fundamental rights (ii) violation of statutory principles or (iii) where the order or the proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction or (iv) where the vires of an Act is challenged (v) where there is a violation of principles of natural justice; and (vi) where the question is pristinely legal, it cannot be said that the writ petition should be dismissed on the ground of alternative remedy alone.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further relied upon on the case of Smt. Kalawati vs. Board of Revenue 2022 (155) RD 169 to contend that 'rule of alternate remedy' in the context of maintainability of the writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India being examined, demonstrates that the power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India to issue Writs can be exercised not only for enforcement of fundamental rights but for any other purpose as well. The High Court has the discretion not to entertain the writ petition and one of the restrictions placed on the power of the High Court is where an effective alternative remedy is available to the aggrieved persons; but the same are subject to various exceptions, as already examined herein above. He has further contended that the Rule of exhaustion of an alternative remedy has been held to be a rule of policy, convenience and discretion and existence of an alternative remedy cannot be said to be an absolute bar, in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

9. Accordingly, I find that from time to time the 'rule of alternative remedy' has been examined by this Court as well as the Apex Court and the consistent view is that the same is only to be construed as a policy and not a complete bar to exercise powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

10. In the facts of the present case in order to give a reasonable meaning to the question referred herein above, we proceed to examine the Order VII Rule 11 of the C.P.C.; and again for the convenience of reference the same is quoted herein below:-

“ 11. Rejection of plaint.— The plaint shall be rejected in the following cases:

(a) where it does not disclose a cause of action;

(b) where the relief claimed is undervalued, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to correct the valuation within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;

(c) where the relief claimed is properly valued, but the plaint is returned upon paper insufficiently stamped, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to supply the requisite stamp-paper within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so;

(d) where the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law;

1[(e) where it is not filed in duplicate;]

2[(f) where the plaintiff fails to comply with the provisions of rule 9:]

3[Provided that the time fixed by the Court for the correction of the valuation or supplying of the requisite stamp-paper shall not be extended unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded, is satisfied that the plaintiff was prevented by any cause of an exceptional nature from correcting the valuation or supplying the requisite stamp-paper, as the case may be, within the time fixed by the Court and that refusal to extend such time would cause grave injustice to the plaintiff.]”

11. For the purposes of rejecting the plaint what is to be examined is whether the plaint discloses a cause of action or the relief claimed is under valued and in spite of the opportunity the plaintiff had failed to make good the under valuation; or the plaint is insufficiently stamped and the plaintiff has failed to supply requisite stamp-paper within the time fixed by the Court; or whether the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any law.

12. At this stage the petitioner has attracted the attention of the Court to the impugned order wherein primarily the application under Order VII Rule 11 of the C.P.C. has been allowed on the pretext that the proceedings under Section 34 of the Code, 2006 is pending; and submits that the proceedings under section 34 being summary in nature, has no bearing on the proceedings under Section 144 of the Code, 2006; and accordingly the impugned order is in the teeth of law. He further contends that the said question is purely legal in question and there are no disputed question of facts; and such the Writ Petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, is maintainable.

13. Per contra the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has tried to justify the impugned order by stating that the rejection was not merely on the said contingency but also the authorities had come to the conclusion that no cause of action has been spelled out in the plaint.

Conclusion

14. I have examined the plaint and find that the plaintiff had spelled out his cause of action categorically in the plaint, by stating that a Will dated 12.1.2023, which is allegedly in favour of a third person could not have been executed for want of title and accordingly the same was void; and furthermore that the registered Will dated 20.1.2015 which has been executed in his favour is a valid Will and consequently a cause of action for a suit of declaration of title, arises, for which proceedings under Section 144 of Code, 2006 has been initiated.

Arguments-II

15. The second argument which was advanced by the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel was relying upon the provisions of Section 207 of the Code, 2006 and the availability of the alternative remedy, to state that the present writ petition is not maintainable and there is an efficacious alternative remedy.

Conclusion

16. From the perusal of the impugned order, I find that the authority has proceeded to hold that since the proceedings under Section 34 of the Code, 2006 has not attained finality, therefore, the application under Order VII Rule 11 of C.P.C. is bound to be allowed. I find that it is a patent error of law and it is also in conflict with the provisions of Order VII Rule 13 of C.P.C. For ready reference the Order VII Rule 13 is quoted below:-

13. Where rejection of plaint does not preclude presentation of fresh plaint. —The rejection of the plaint on any of the grounds hereinbefore mentioned shall not of its own force preclude the plaintiff from presenting a fresh plaint in respect of the same cause of action.

17. A reading of Order VII Rule 11 and Order VII Rule 13 of C.P.C. conjointly, provides a procedural coherence, that in a contingency where a plaint is rejected under Order VII Rule 11 of the C.P.C., it shall not of its own course preclude the plaintiff from presenting a fresh plaint in respect of the same cause of action that both the provisions has to be interpreted in a manner, to not make the other provisions obsolete.

18. Since the question which is to be determined is purely a legal question; and further that the reliance placed by the authority is on a decision of Board of Revenue, which is eventually the Second Appellate Authority, I do not find the availability of the remedy of appeal under Section 207 of the Code, 2006 and second appeal under Section 208 of the Code, 2006, an efficacious remedy.

19. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the preliminary objection with respect to availability of the alternative remedy, I find that the same is liable to be rejected in the facts of the present case.

Issue no. II (Arguments)

20. Counsel for the petitioner has taken the Court through the impugned order dated 20.9.2025, to contend that non application of mind is evident from the fact that firstly the authority has quoted the entire plaint and thereafter the objection/application under Order VII Rule 11 of C.P.C.; and eventually without any discussion on the issue, has directly concluded that the plaint does not disclose any cause of action and while allowing the application under Order VII Rule 11 of C.P.C., it had merely stated that since the proceedings under Section 34 of the Code, 2006 is pending, therefore, till the same attains finality, the present proceedings under Section 144 of the Code, 2006 is liable to be rejected.

21. Per contra learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel placing reliance on the plaint as well as the application under Order VII Rule 11 of C.P.C. has contended that the authorities had duly applied its mind, while concluding that the plaint does not disclose any cause of action.

Discussion

22. A pointed query was put to the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel that whether the conclusion which has been relied upon by the State while justifying the impugned order dated 20.9.2025, to the effect that the plaint does not disclose any cause of action; is based on any discussion or not, he could not point out any such discussion or consideration in the impugned order dated 20.9.2025. At this stage he had specifically stated that in the personal affidavit which has been filed on behalf of the respondent no.2, he has categorically taken a stand that due to an oversight, inadvertently the reliance which has been placed on the decision of Board of Revenue, was misplaced; and but for the same, he would have examined the correct position of law and in future he undertakes to be more vigilant.

23. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied on the judgment passed by the coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Nehru Junior High School Taryasujan Vs. State of U.P. and others 2023 (161) RD 31 to contend that the jurisdiction under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. is not to be utilized as trial before the trial; while relying upon para 20 and 22 of the said judgement. For ready reference para 20 and 22 are quoted below:-

“20. The exercise of jurisdiction under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. in respect to the suit under Section 229 - B of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, this Court in the case reported in 2019(145) RD 411 Roshan Singh @ Bunti Vs.Board of Revenue and Others has held that jurisdiction under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. is not to be utilised as a trial before the trial. Paragraph No.6 of the judgment is relevant for perusal which is as under:-

“6. This Court has perused the plaint, a copy of which is annexed as Annexure-3 to the writ petition. A perusal of paragraphs 5, 6, 7 and 8 of the plaint shows that the plaintiff has come forward seeking declaration of his rights to Khasra No.213, admeasuring 1 Bigha, 9 Biswa and 6 biswansi situate at Village Kheda, Pargana Dasna, District Hapur, (then Ghaziabad) and to hold the Will dated 06.06.1977 void. The cause of action clearly indicates that the petitioner alleges fraud played upon him by the defendants. It has been averred in paragraph-6 of the plaint that the fact that the name of the defendants had been recorded over the property in dispute, was kept back from the plaintiff until the month of May, 2006. It is claimed that the plaintiff Charan Singh, never knew it before the said date. It is claimed by the plaintiff that he is a co-sharer along with deceased, Balbeer Singh through whom the defendants claim, on the basis of a Will. It is also averred in paragraph-8 that the entire mutation proceedings, wherein the order dated 18.11.1998 has been passed in favour of the defendant, were all taken behind his back. These are pleadings which prima facie require to be examined on the basis of evidence, even if the cause of action is ultimately held to be barred by limitation. It is not a case where on a reading of the plaint, the cause of action is ex facie barred by limitation. The law about exercise of jurisdiction under Order VII Rule 11 CPC is settled beyond the slightest doubt. It is that, that allegations in the plaint alone are to be seen, in order to determine whether the plaint is to be rejected, on any of the grounds mentioned in Order VII Rule 11 CPC. The defence put forward by the defendant or the evidence is not at all to be considered. The jurisdiction under Order

VII Rule 11 CPC is not to be utilized as a trial before the trial.

22. The aforementioned paragraph nos. 3,4,5 and 6 of the plaint discloses the cause of action to the plaintiff to file suit for declaration of her right under Section 144 of U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 as such rejection of plaint or dismissal of suit under Section 144 of U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 at the very initial stage will be illegal.”

24. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further contended that in order to ascertain the intent of the legislature, no provision can be interpreted in isolation and the same has to be read as a whole. He has pointed out that Section 37 of the Code, 2006 is not attracted once a report under Section 33 or Section 34 has been made. He has also contended that once such a report has been made, the bar under Section 37 of the Code, 2006 cannot be said to be attracted and the same is also not contingent upon the conclusion of the said proceedings. For ready reference Section 37 of the Code, 2006 is quoted below:-

“37. Bar Against Certain Suits:
No suit or other proceeding shall lie in any revenue court at the instance of any person obtaining possession of any land by succession or transfer, until he has made a report under section 33 or section 34, as the case may be.”

25. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further relied upon Section 39 of the Code, 2006 to contend that no order passed by the Revenue Inspector in mutation proceedings shall debar any person from establishing his right to the land by means of a suit under Section 144 of the Code, 2006.

Conclusion

26. I find substance in the arguments that once an incumbent has reported the factum of succession or acquisition of his right as contemplated under Section 33 read with Section 34 of the Code, 2006, the bar as contemplated under Section 37 of the Code, 2006 cannot be said to be attracted or that the conclusion of the said proceedings can act as a bar. It may also be noted at this juncture that even if an order under Section 34 of the Code, 2006 goes against the incumbent, the same may also not have any impact on the proceedings under Section 144 of the Code, 2006, as the proceedings under section 34 of the Code, 2006 are summary in nature and does not give title to the incumbent whose name is mutated in the said proceedings. The said proceedings are merely for the purpose of revenue and does not decide title.

27. Once the aforesaid provisions are interpreted harmoniously, there is an inescapable conclusion that proceedings under Section 34 of the Code, 2006 and Section 144 of the Code, 2006 are distinct proceedings and does not impact each other. However, in the scale, Section 144 of the Code, 2006 carries weight since it eventually adjudicates on the title and the same can be done only after framing issues and leading evidence, while Section 34 are summary in nature and can be undertaken, only based on Memo of Evidence.

28. In the aforesaid framework, it can only be construed that once the proceedings under Section 144 of the Code, 2006 is initiated, if otherwise it does not attract any legal bar, the same has to be brought its logical end after framing issues and leading evidence.

29. I am also in respectful agreement with the judgement of the coordinate Bench of this Court, in the case of Nehru Junior High School Taryasujan (Supra) which hold that jurisdiction under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. is not to be utilized as trial before the trial and if plaint discloses cause of action, the same cannot be rejected as such under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C.

30. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, issue no. 2 is decided in favour of the petitioner and consequently it is held that the pendency of proceedings under Section 34 of the Code, 2006 cannot be construed to be a bar to the proceedings under Section 144 of the Code, 2006.

31. Accordingly, in view of the affidavit of compliance which has been filed today in Court on behalf of respondent no.2 and the observations made herein above, the parties have consented that illegality which has been committed by the impugned order dated 20.9.2025 can be cured, in case the matter is remanded back to the respondent no.2 for fresh adjudication on the proceedings initiated by the petitioner under Section 144 of the Code, 2006, keeping in view the observation made herein above.

Relief/Directions

32. In view of above, the impugned order dated 20.9.2025 is set aside and the matter is remanded back to the S.D.M. Tehsil Puranpur, District Pilibhit with the following directions:-

(i) he may decide the application dated 16.5.2025 under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. within a period of two months from the date of production of certified copy of this order is filed before him after giving due opportunity to the affected parties;

(ii) In the eventuality the application under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. is rejected, he shall proceed to conclude the proceedings of Case No.5788 of 2024 (Sant Harvinder Singh vs. Amandeep Singh and others) filed under Section 144 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, within a period as contemplated para 458 of U.P. Revenue Court Manual.

33. With the aforesaid observations the writ petition is allowed, with no order as to costs.

Exemption Application

In view of the order passed today, the application is disposed of. The presence of respondent no.2 is exempted.

Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 - Declaratory decree under S. 229-B - Finality - Effect in ceiling proceedings - Cannot be brushed aside mechanically - Cut-off date (24-01-1971) - Post cut-off transactions - Distinction between fraudulent orders and final unchallenged decrees - Revenue entries (Class-9, Khasra, Khatauni) - Evidentiary value - Procedural compliance under Land Records Manual - Requirement of factual determination - Double entry of land in ceiling khata and tenure-holder's khatauni - Effect - Vitiates ceiling determination if proved - Fraud - Allegation of - Nullity doctrine - Requirement of adjudication - Cannot be presumed. (Paras 23 - 38)

Held: A decree which has attained finality and has not been challenged ordinarily must be given effect to and is a relevant piece of adjudicatory material - Persons claiming to be tenure-holders, third parties or those who assert possessory rights are entitled to file objections under S. 11(2) of the Ceiling Act and their objections are required to be adjudicated on merits - The statutory bar against taking into account transactions occurring after the cut-off date 24.01.1971 is not an instrument for obliterating antecedent rights - Procedural irregularity is a question of fact to be established by cogent material - and a summary dismissal of the petitioner's objection without examining such material is impermissible - Double-recording of the same plot, if proved to be a result of error or misidentification, vitiates the ceiling determination - Neither authority conducted a full factual inquiry - The consequence is that the petitioner's right to have his objections decided on merits was denied - The impugned orders suffer from non-application of mind and failure to consider governing judicial precedents - The impugned order dated 30.03.2002 and the order dated 28.10.2002 are hereby quashed. (Paras 23-28,39-42) (E-7)

Case Arising From

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION: Writ C No. 3000129 of 2002, challenging the orders of the Prescribed Authority (Ceiling) and the Additional Commissioner (Appellate Authority) regarding the determination of surplus land in Village Rampur Puwari, District Faizabad (now Ayodhya).

Assisted by Sri Virendra Bhatt

Advs. for the Respondents:

Sri S.P. Maurya, Learned Standing Counsel

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Dr. R.S. Pande, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Virendra Bhatt, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri S.P. Maurya, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondent.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has prayed as under :-

"(i) a suitable writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 30-3-2002 passed by opposite party No.2 contained in Annexure No-2 and order dated 28-10-2002 passed by opposite party No-1 contained in Annexure No-1 to this petition.

3. The dispute pertains to Gata No. 613, measuring 19 biswa and 5 biswansi, situated in village Rampur Puwari, Pargana Amsin, Tehsil and District Faizabad (now Ayodhya). Originally, the land was recorded in the name of late Shankar Singh after the abolition of zamindari, and was thereafter cultivated by Sita Ram, father of the petitioner, since the year 1953. His name was recorded in the Khasra and subsequently in Khatauni Part-II under Class-9 entries on the basis of continuous possession.

4. On 9-8-1965, Smt. Dukharaji filed a suit under Section 209 of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 seeking declaration and possession. Her claim of Sirdari rights was dismissed. On 3-1-1978, Sita Ram obtained a decree under Section 229-B of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, wherein he was declared bhumidhar of Gata No. 613. Based on this decree, his name was entered in Khatauni for the years 1387-1392 Fasli. In ceiling proceedings, Plot No. 613 was included as surplus land by order dated 9-12-1976.

5. Sita Ram thereafter filed a correction application on 1-12-1978, asserting that Gata No. 615, and not Gata No. 613, should be treated as surplus. The Prescribed Authority passed a correction order on 17-04-1979, declaring Gata No. 615 surplus in place of Gata No. 613.

6. The petitioner filed an objection under Section 11(2) of the Ceiling Act on 23-07-1997, asserting (i) that Gata No. 613 was wrongly treated as surplus because the land had already been decreed in favour of his father on 3-1-1978, (ii) that the entries in the revenue records supported continuous possession since 1953, and (iii) that the case involved a double entry, one in ceiling Khata No. 473 and another in petitioner's Khatauni.

7. The Prescribed Authority rejected the objection on 30-03-2002, holding that (i) Gata No. 613 belonged to the original tenure-holder Smt. Dukhrani, (ii) the decree dated 03-01-1978 was passed after the cut-off date 24-01-1971, and any transaction or declaration after the cut-off date is to be ignored under Section 5(6) of the Ceiling Act.

8. The Additional Commissioner dismissed the appeal on 28-10-2002, observing that (i) the order dated 03-01-1978 conferred no benefit upon the petitioner, (ii) the correction order dated 17-04-1979 was obtained by suppression of material facts and without hearing the State or original tenure-holder, (iii) and the ceiling notice (Form 3) originally proposed to declare both Gata 613 and Gata 615 surplus.

9. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the declaratory decree dated 03-01-1978 in Suit under Section 229-B has attained finality and established Sita Ram's rights as bhumidhar. The said decree has never been challenged, and the name of father of petitioner stood duly mutated in revenue records.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner asserts possession since 1953, corroborated by Class-9 entries in Khasra and Khatauni Part-II, thus, Gata 613 could not have been treated as surplus land.

11. It is contended that Gata No. 613 was wrongly recorded twice—once in ceiling Khata No. 473 and again in the petitioner's Khatauni. Such double entry, it is submitted, vitiates the ceiling determination.

12. Further submission of petitioner's counsel is that the Prescribed Authority, upon being satisfied that surplus land had been wrongly identified, rightly corrected the record by substituting Gata 615 in place of Gata 613.

13. It is further urged that the ceiling authorities failed to consider the decree of 1978 and the mutation entries which had attained finality since 1953.

14. In support of the submission advanced, learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance upon the following judgments :-

(i) Dirvijay Singh Vs. State of U.P. (1984 LCD 324). Relevant paragraph 3 is being quoted below :-

"3. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties. Under the Act the third party has a right to file the objection u/s 11 (2) of the Act. The petitioner being a third party could file the objection. Only the question of delay was required to be considered. The objection could not be rejected merely because the matter was contested by the recorded tenure holder upto High Court. That will not put to an end to the right of the claimant. The view taken by the prescribed authority and the District Judge is manifestly erroneous and cannot be sustained."

(ii) Shafir Vs. District Judge Gonda (1985 LCD 290). Relevant paragraphs 8, 9 and 10 are being quoted below :-

"8. Learned counsel for the petitioners has urged that the Prescribed Authority has rejected the objection filed by the petitioner under Section 10(2) of the Act merely on the ground that in the ceiling proceedings the Prescribed Authority cannot determine the claim of the petitioners who have claimed sirdari rights over certain plots of the disputed holding on the ground of adverse possession for more than the prescribed period of limitation. It was urged that the Prescribed Authority has wrongly refused to consider the claim of the petitioners on merits which should have been considered and decided on merits according to law in view of the decision of the Full Bench of this Court in the Case 'Upper Ganges Sugar Mills Ltd.', reported in 1967 ALJ 556 and also in Dilbagh Singh's case reported in 1978 ALJ 717. I find much substance in the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioners.

9. In Dilbagh Singh's case (Dilbagh Singh v. State of U.P.) it was held by the Division Bench that Section 11(2) permits a tenure-holder to file objections. Such tenure-holders may be those who have been served with a notice and a statement under Section 10(2). It also includes tenure-holders who have not been given or served with any such notice or statement. The construction put by the Full Bench also embraces persons who claim to be tenure-holders and who having come to know of the declaration of their land as surplus land of some other person wish to challenge that declaration or notification thereof in the gazette under Section 14. They are all entitled to file an objection under Section 11(2) and get an adjudication thereon as required by Section 12.

10. In this view of the matter I find that the objection which the petitioners had filed required to be decided on merits under Section 12. The petitioners have claimed that they are tenure-holders of certain plots of the disputed holding recorded in the name of opposite party No. 4. They thus claimed that opposite party No. 4 is not tenure-holder of those plots and the petitioners have acquired rights by adverse possession having remained in adverse possession for more than the prescribed period. Thus those plots could not be shown in the notice issued to the opposite party No. 4 under Section 10(2) of the Act nor the same could be treated to be holding of the opposite party No. 4 and declared surplus land in his hands because in the event petitioners succeed in establishing their Sirdari rights and title by adverse possession over the land in dispute it could not be treated to be part of the holding of opposite party No. 4. The Prescribed Authority, therefore, was required to determine this question on merits as to whether the plots, which were claimed by the petitioners as their Sirdari land could be factually and legally sustained or not. The Prescribed Authority should, therefore, consider the claim of the petitioners after giving them full opportunity to lead evidence in support of their claim. The opposite party No. 4 will also be given opportunity to contest the claim of the petitioners. Even in the case which has been remanded by the learned District Judge for considering the claim of opposite party No. 4 for being decided by now on merits, the Prescribed Authority will consider the objections filed by the Petitioners on merits in respect of the plots in which they have claimed rights by adverse possession. The objection would be treated to be maintainable as one under Section 11(2) of the Act as held by this Court in the aforesaid decisions and will be decided on merits even if the land in which petitioners have claimed title by adverse possession has been notified under Section 14(1) of the Act because the deletion of Section 14(2) will not bar maintainability of such objection, as held in Ram Kumar Singh v. State of U.P., [Writ Petition No. 981 of 1976.] decided on 10-10-1984."

(iii) Abdul Hafiz Khan & another Vs. District Judge Bahraich & others (1986 LCD 477). Relevant paragraphs 7, 8 and 9 are being quoted below :-

"7. So far as the question regarding maintainability of objection under Section 11(2) of the Act after the surplus land had been notified under Section 14(1) of the Act, is concerned, I find that it stands concluded by a Full Bench Decisions of this Court in Baldeo Singh v. State of U.P., [1980 L.L.J. 31.] . According to the majority view expressed in the said decision an objection can be entertained under Section 11(2) of the Act even after the surplus land had been notified under Section 14(1) of the Act. The deletion of Sub-section (3) of Section 14 of the Act will not affect the tenability of that objection. In this view I do not find any merit in the contention of the learned Standing Counsel that the petitioners had no right to file objection under Section 11(2) of the Act. Even if the name of the objectors is not recorded over the land in dispute as tenure-holder they could file an objection under Section 11(2) of the Act as held by the Full Bench of this Court in Upper Ganges Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Civil Judge, Bijnor [1969 A.L.J. 556.] ,

8. In the present case the petitioner had filed an objection on 28th October, 1978 (Annexure-4) asserting that they are the tenure-holders of the land which they had received in the aforesaid decree for partition and that the opposite party No. 4 Nazim Ali Khan is not the tenure-holder of the land situate in village Kanjarwa and his surplus land be determined excluding the land of village Kanjarwa, which belongs to the petitioner. This objection was filed under Section 13-A of the Act though in fact it purported to be an objection under Section 11(2) of the Act and deserved to be treated as such for deciding it on merits. It is well settled that wrong mentioning of the section or nor mentioning a correct section in the objection filed would not by itself disentitle an objector to appropriate relief which the Prescribed Authority could grant to the objector in accordance with the law. In Ram Kumar Singh v. State of U.P. [1985 L.L.J. 81.] . I had an occasion to consider similar question, whether an objection filed under sub-section (3) of Section 14 could or could not be treated to be one under Section 11(2) of the Act. It was held in Ram Kumar Singh's case (supra) that even without formal application for amendment the Prescribed Authority (Ceiling) should have proceeded to decided the objection treating it to be one under Section 11(2) of the Act because wrong mentioning of section or not mentioning of correct section in the objection not by itself disentitle the objector to the appropriate relief which the Prescribed Authority could grant in accordance with the law.

9. In Abdul Rahman v. The Prescribed Authority [1979 A.C.J. 10.] a similar question arose for consideration before the Division Bench and it was held :-

“Although the application made by the petitioners purported to be under Section 13-A of the Act it was substantially an objection under Section 11(2), of the Act.”

The Prescribed Authority in the aforesaid case was, therefore, directed to consider the claim of the petitioners treating the application as an objection under Section 11(2) of the Act.”

(iv) Hari Ram v. Special Additional District Judge Faizabad & others (1989 LCD 85). Relevant paragraph 7 is being quoted below :-

“In view of the discussion held above, it is clear that the petitioners had to be heard and their objections had to be treated as objections under Section 11(2) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, specifically when the land was recorded in the revenue records in their names in pursuance of an order of mutation passed in their favour. It will not affect their case if earlier any order was passed in proceedings between Chandra Bhan Singh and others and the State. As a matter of fact, under the first proviso to Rule 8 of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Rules, a notice should have been issued to the petitioners as well. The opposite parties have dismissed the objections and the appeal preferred by the petitioners erroneously. The matter had to be considered on merits on the objections filed by the petitioners.”

(v) Ravindra Kaur Grewal v. Manjeet Kaur [(2019) 8 SCC 729] on adverse possession. Relevant paragraphs 13, 14 and 20 are being quoted below :-

“13. In Somnath Burman v. S.P. Raju [Somnath Burman v. S.P. Raju, (1969) 3 SCC 129 : AIR 1970 SC 846] , this Court has recognised the right of a person having possessory title to obtain a declaration that he was the owner of the land in a suit and an injunction restraining the defendant from interfering with his possession. This Court has further observed that Section 9 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 is in no way inconsistent with the position that as against a wrongdoer, prior possession of the plaintiff, in an action of ejectment is sufficient title even if the suit is brought more than six months after the act of dispossession complained of and that the wrongdoer cannot successfully resist the suit by showing that the title and the right to possession vested in a third party. This Court has observed:

“10. In Narayana Row v. Dharmachar [Narayana Row v. Dharmachar, ILR (1903) 26 Mad 514] a Bench of the Madras High Court consisting of Bhashyam Ayyangar and Moore, JJ. held that possession is, under the Indian, as under the English law, good title against all but the true owner. Section 9 of the Specific Relief Act is in no way inconsistent with the position that as against a wrongdoer, prior possession of the plaintiff, in an action of ejectment, is sufficient title, even if the suit be brought more than six months after the act of dispossession complained of and that the wrongdoer cannot successfully resist the suit by showing that the title and right to possession are in a third person. The same view was taken by the Bombay High Court in Krishnarao Yashwant v. Vasudev Apaji Ghotikar [Krishnarao Yashwant v. Vasudev Apaji Ghotikar, ILR (1884) 8 Bom 871] . That was also the view taken by the Allahabad High Court—see Umrao Singh v. Ramji Das [Umrao Singh v. Ramji Das, 1913 SCC OnLine All 56 : ILR (1914) 36 All 51] , Wali Ahmad Khan v. Ajudhia Kandu [Wali Ahmad Khan v. Ajudhia Kandu, 1891 SCC OnLine All 38 : ILR (1891) 13 All 537] . In Subodh Gopal Bose v. Province of Bihar [Subodh Gopal Bose v. Province of Bihar, 1949 SCC OnLine Pat 30 : AIR 1950 Pat 222] the Patna High Court adhered to the view taken by the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad High Courts. The contrary view taken by the Calcutta High Court in Debi Churn Boldo v. Issur Chunder Manjee [Debi Churn Boldo v. Issur Chunder Manjee, ILR (1883) 9 Cal 39] ; Ertaza Hossein v. Bany Mistry [Ertaza Hossein v. Bany Mistry, ILR (1883) 9 Cal 130] , Purmeshur Chowdhry v. Brij Lal Chowdhry [Purmeshur Chowdhry v. Brij Lal Chowdhry, ILR (1890) 17 Cal 256] and Nisa Chand Gaita v. Kanchiram Bagani [Nisa Chand Gaita v. Kanchiram Bagani, ILR (1899) 26 Cal 579] , in our opinion does not lay down the law correctly.”(emphasis supplied)

It is apparent from the aforesaid decision that a person is entitled to bring a suit of possessory title to obtain possession even though the title may vest in a third person. A person in the possessory title can get injunction also, restraining the defendant from interfering with his possession.

14. Given the aforesaid, a question to ponder is when a person having no title, merely on the strength of possessory title can obtain an injunction and can maintain a suit for ejectment of a trespasser. Why a person who has perfected his title by way of adverse possession cannot file a suit for obtaining an injunction protecting possession and for recovery of possession in case his dispossession is by a third person or by an owner after the extinguishment of his title. In case a person in adverse possession has perfected his title by adverse possession and after the extinguishment of the title of the true owner, he cannot be successfully dispossessed by a true owner as the owner has lost his right, title and interest.

20. There is an acquisition of title by adverse possession as such, such a person in the capacity of a plaintiff can always use the plea in case any of his rights are infringed including in case of dispossession. In Mandal Revenue Officer v. Goundla Venkaiah [Mandal Revenue Officer v. Goundla Venkaiah, (2010) 2 SCC 461 : (2010) 1 SCC (Civ) 466 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 1501] this Court has referred to the decision in State of Rajasthan v. Harphool Singh [State of Rajasthan v. Harphool Singh, (2000) 5 SCC 652] in which the suit was filed by the plaintiff based on acquisition of title by adverse possession. This Court has referred to other decisions also in Annakili v. A. Vedanayagam [Annakili v. A. Vedanayagam, (2007) 14 SCC 308] and P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy v. Revamma

[P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy v. Revamma, (2007) 6 SCC 59] . It has been observed that there can be an acquisition of title by adverse possession. It has also been observed that adverse possession effectively shifts the title already distanced from the paper owner to the adverse possessor. Right thereby accrues in favour of the adverse possessor. This Court has considered the matter thus:

“48. In State of Rajasthan v. Harphool Singh [State of Rajasthan v. Harphool Singh, (2000) 5 SCC 652] , this Court considered the question whether the respondents had acquired title by adverse possession over the suit land situated at Nohar-Bhadra Road at Nohar within the State of Rajasthan. The suit filed by the respondent against his threatened dispossession was decreed by the trial court with the finding that he had acquired title by adverse possession. The first and second appeals preferred by the State Government were dismissed by the lower appellate court and the High Court respectively. This Court reversed the judgments and decrees of the courts below as also of the High Court and held that the respondent-plaintiff could not substantiate his claim of perfection of title by adverse possession. Some of the observations made on the issue of acquisition of title by adverse possession which have bearing on this case are extracted below: (SCC p. 660, para 12)

‘12. So far as the question of perfection of title by adverse possession and that too in respect of public property is concerned, the question requires to be considered more seriously and effectively for the reason that it ultimately involves destruction of right/title of the State to immovable property and conferring upon a third-party encroacher title where he had none. The decision in P. Lakshmi Reddy v. L. Lakshmi Reddy [P. Lakshmi Reddy v. L. Lakshmi Reddy, AIR 1957 SC 314] , adverted to the ordinary classical requirement — that it should be nec vi, nec clam, nec precario — that is the possession required must be adequate in continuity, in publicity, and in extent to show that it is possession adverse to the competitor. It was also observed therein that whatever may be the animus or intention of a person wanting to acquire title by adverse possession, his adverse possession cannot commence until he obtains actual possession with the required animus.’

50. Before concluding, we may notice two recent judgments in which law on the question of acquisition of title by adverse possession has been considered and reiterated. In Annakili v. A. Vedanayagam [Annakili v. A. Vedanayagam, (2007) 14 SCC 308] , the Court observed as under: (SCC p. 316, para 24)

‘24. Claim by adverse possession has two elements: (1) the possession of the defendant should become adverse to the plaintiff; and (2) the defendant must continue to remain in possession for a period of 12 years thereafter. Animus possidendi as is well known is a requisite ingredient of adverse possession. It is now a well-settled principle of law that mere possession of the land would not ripen into possessory title for the said purpose. Possessor must have animus possidendi and hold the land adverse to the title of the true owner. For the said purpose, not only animus possidendi must be shown to exist, but the same must be shown to exist at the commencement of the possession. He must continue in the said capacity for the period prescribed under the Limitation Act. Mere long possession, it is trite, for a period of more than 12 years without anything more does not ripen into a title.'

51. In P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy v. Revamma [P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy v. Revamma, (2007) 6 SCC 59], the Court considered various facets of the law of adverse possession and laid down various propositions including the following: (SCC pp. 66 & 68, paras 5 & 8)

'8. ... to assess a claim of adverse possession, two-pronged enquiry is required:

1. Application of limitation provision thereby jurisprudentially "wilful neglect" element on part of the owner established. Successful application in this regard distances the title of the land from the paper-owner.

2. Specific positive [Ed.: The matter between two asterisks has been emphasised in original as well.] intention to dispossess [Ed.: The matter between two asterisks has been emphasised in original as well.] on the part of the adverse possessor effectively shifts the title already distanced from the paper-owner, to the adverse possessor. Right thereby accrues in favour of adverse possessor as [Ed.: The matter between two asterisks has been emphasised in original as well.] intent to dispossess [Ed.: The matter between two asterisks has been emphasised in original as well.] is an express statement of urgency and intention in the upkeep of the property. (emphasis in original)'"

(emphasis supplied)"

15. On the other hand, learned Standing Counsel submits that any declaratory decree, transfer, application or correction made after 24-01-1971 must be ignored while determining surplus land. The decree dated 03-01-1978 and correction order dated 17-04-1979 are, therefore, legally irrelevant.

16. It is further submitted by learned Standing Counsel that Gata No. 613 was declared surplus on 09-12-1976, which was never challenged by the original tenure-holder, Smt. Dukhrani. The authorities validly took possession under Section 14. The respondents contend that the application dated 01-12-1978 was based on incorrect facts, that no opportunity of hearing was given to the State or original tenure-holder, and the order dated 17-04-1979 was passed on misrepresentation and is void.

17. In support of his submission, he placed reliance upon the following judgments :-

(i) S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu v. Jagannath [1994 (1) SCC 1]. Relevant paragraphs 5 and 6 are being quoted below :-

"5. The High Court, in our view, fell into patent error. The short question before the High Court was whether in the facts and circumstances of this case, Jagannath obtained the preliminary decree by playing fraud on the court. The High Court, however, went haywire and made observations which are wholly perverse. We do not agree with the High Court that "there is no legal duty cast upon the plaintiff to come to court with a true case and prove it by true evidence". The principle of "finality of litigation" cannot be pressed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants. The courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the court, must come with clean hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not, process of the court is being abused. Property-grabbers, tax-evaders, bank-loan-dodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court-process a convenient lever to retain the illegal gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person, who's case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation.

6. The facts of the present case leave no manner of doubt that Jagannath obtained the preliminary decree by playing fraud on the court. A fraud is an act of deliberate deception with the design of securing something by taking unfair advantage of another. It is a deception in order to gain by another's loss. It is a cheating intended to get an advantage. Jagannath was working as a clerk with Chunilal Sowcar. He purchased the property in the court auction on behalf of Chunilal Sowcar. He had, on his own volition, executed the registered release deed (Ex. B-15) in favour of Chunilal Sowcar regarding the property in dispute. He knew that the appellants had paid the total decretal amount to his master Chunilal Sowcar. Without disclosing all these facts, he filed the suit for the partition of the property on the ground that he had purchased the property on his own behalf and not on behalf of Chunilal Sowcar. Non-production and even non-mentioning of the release deed at the trial is tantamount to playing fraud on the court. We do not agree with the observations of the High Court that the appellants-defendants could have easily produced the certified registered copy of Ex. B-15 and non-suited the plaintiff. A litigant, who approaches the court, is bound to produce all the documents executed by him which are relevant to the litigation. If he withholds a vital document in order to gain advantage on the other side then he would be guilty of playing fraud on the court as well as on the opposite party."

(ii) A.V. Papayya Sastri v. Govt. of A.P. [2007 (4) SCC 211]. Relevant paragraphs 22, 26, 38 and 39 are being quoted below :-

"22. It is thus settled proposition of law that a judgment, decree or order obtained by playing fraud on the court, tribunal or authority is a nullity and non est in the eye of the law. Such a judgment, decree or order—by the first court or by the final court—has to be treated as nullity by every court, superior or inferior. It can be challenged in any court, at any time, in appeal, revision, writ or even in collateral proceedings.

26. Fraud may be defined as an act of deliberate deception with the design of securing some unfair or undeserved benefit by taking undue advantage of another. In fraud one gains at the loss of another. Even most solemn proceedings stand vitiated if they are actuated by fraud. Fraud is thus an extrinsic collateral act which vitiates all judicial acts, whether in rem or in personam. The principle of "finality of litigation" cannot be stretched to the extent of an absurdity that it can be utilised as an engine of oppression by dishonest and fraudulent litigants.

38. The matter can be looked at from a different angle as well. Suppose, a case is decided by a competent court of law after hearing the parties and an order is passed in favour of the plaintiff applicant which is upheld by all the courts including the final court. Let us also think of a case where this Court does not dismiss special leave petition but after granting leave decides the appeal finally by recording reasons. Such order can truly be said to be a judgment to which Article 141 of the Constitution applies. Likewise, the doctrine of merger also gets attracted. All orders passed by the courts/authorities below, therefore, merge in the judgment of this Court and after such judgment, it is not open to any party to the judgment to approach any court or authority to review, recall or reconsider the order.

39. The above principle, however, is subject to exception of fraud. Once it is established that the order was obtained by a successful party by practising or playing fraud, it is vitiated. Such order cannot be held legal, valid or in consonance with law. It is non-existent and non est and cannot be allowed to stand. This is the fundamental principle of law and needs no further elaboration. Therefore, it has been said that a judgment, decree or order obtained by fraud has to be treated as a nullity, whether by the court of first instance or by the final court. And it has to be treated as non est by every court, superior or inferior."

18. It is submitted that entries not made as per the procedure in Land Records Manual have no evidentiary value. The Class-9 entries relied upon by petitioner were made without proper notice to the original tenure-holder.

19. Learned Standing Counsel further placed reliance on the following judgments :-

(i) Mohd. Raza Vs. D.D.C. Banda (1990 AWC 605). Relevant paragraphs 14, 15 and 16 are being quoted below :-

"14. The other case in Srinath v. D.D.C., 1983 Rev. Dec. 53 : (1983 All LJ 453), it was held that the procedure under Para A-80 and A-81 of the U.P. Land Records Manual not having been followed on the relevant date such entries cannot be relied upon the also no mention of the oral evidence which was not material would not be sufficient ground for interference in writ jurisdiction.

15. In Ganga Ram v. D.D.C., (1981) UPLTNO 213) decided by Hon. K.N. Misra, J. (supra) it was held that the right of adverse possession cannot be acquired on the basis of such entries in which P.A. 10 notice were not served on the recorded tenure holder.

Similarly in Ram Sakal v. State of U.P., 1987 Rev. Dec. 264 : (1987 All LJ 1218) it was held that entries, if not made in the revenue record in accordance with the procedure prescribed under law cannot confer any right in case P.A. 10 notice were not issued and served on the main tenant whose rights are short to be extinguished by the trespasser.

16. In view of the discussions made above I am of the view that the entries in the revenue papers in favour of the petitioner were not prepared by following the procedure prescribed under Paras A-80, A-81 and Para 423(5) of the U.P. Land Records Manual and P.A. 10 notice were not served on the main tenant respondent No. 2. Such entries were of no evidentiary value and would not confer any right to the petitioner nor they can be of any assistance leading to the extinguishment of the right of the tenure-holder, the respondent No. 2. As regards the oral evidence of petitioner, the person claiming right under Section 210 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, and the statement of respondent No. 2 the person who was main tenant and whose rights were tried to be proved to have come to an end under Section 210 have been considered. It cannot be said that the Deputy Director of Consolidation has overlooked or failed to consider the material oral evidence on the record. I accordingly do not find any substance in the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner and the objection of respondent No. 2 under S. 9(2) of the Act was correctly allowed. There has been no ground made out for interference in the impugned order under Article 226 of the Constitution of India."

(ii) Gurmukh Singh & another Vs. D.D.C./ A.D.M. (F. & R.) Nainital & others [1997 (2) AWC 649]. Relevant paragraphs 6 and 10 are being quoted below :-

"6. It is clear from para 102-C of the Land Records Manual that the entries will have no evidenciary value if they are not made in accordance with the provisions of Land Records Manual. There is presumption of correctness of the entries provided it is made in accordance with the relevant provision of Land Records Manual and secondly, in case where a person is claiming adverse possession against the recorded tenure holder and he denies that he had not received any P.A. 10 or he had no knowledge of the entries made in the revenue records, the burden of proof is further upon the person claiming adverse possession to prove that the tenure holder was duly given notice in prescribed form P.A. 10. Para A-81 itself provides that the notice will be given by the Lekhpal and he will obtain the signature of the Chairman, Land Management Committee as well as from the recorded tenure holder. It is also otherwise necessary to be provided by the person claiming adverse possession. The law of adverse possession contemplates that there is not only continuity of possession as against the true owner but also that such person had full knowledge that the person in possession was claiming a title and possession hostile to the true owner. If a person comes in possession of the land of another person, he cannot establish his title by adverse possession unless it is further proved by him that the tenure holder had knowledge of such adverse possession.

10. The petitioners led evidence to prove adverse possession. They relied upon the Khatauni 1375-1377 F and also twelve year Khasra, 1386-1397 F. Surjan Singh, father of the petitioners also tendered oral evidence. Khatauni 1375 F indicated that respondent No. 3 Mangal Singh, father of respondent No. 4 was recorded as sirdar of the land in dispute. In column No. 9 there is entry that Jagtar Singh is in possession and has been shown in column No. 9 in respect of plot No. 150. This entry is alleged to have been made by the Supervisor Qanungo. The petitioners did not lead any evidence to show that before making such entry the Supervisor Qanungo had issued any notice to the recorded tenure-holder. The petitioner did not file any copy of Khasra which could show that in the remarks column the date of the Partial and the date of issuance of P.A. 10 was made. The diary of the Lekhpal was also not summoned. The petitioner was relying upon these entries to prove his adverse possession. The person who is recorded as tenure-holder is otherwise entitled to notice when an authority makes an entry regarding possession against him, which in effect creates a right in favour of another person in respect of the and for which the entry is made in the Khasra. Secondly, respondent No. 2 has believed the oral evidence adduced on behalf of the respondents 3 and 4 that Jagtar Singh was related to them. Respondent No. 3 is brother in law of Jagtar Singh and respondent No. 4 is his nephew. The findings recorded by the respondents are not illegal."

(iii) Sabhai & another Vs. D.D.C. Faizabad & others [2024 (1) AWC 812 (LB)]. Relevant paragraphs 24, 43 and 44 are being quoted below :-

"24. A perusal of the facts indicated in the order dated 27.03.1982, which have not been refuted by the petitioners by filing the copy of the memo of revision, it is apparent that before the Revisional Authority the petitioners did not take plea related to the finding of the Assistant Settlement Officer of Consolidation, according to which, Dukhi and Khelawan were held as sons of Ghurai. On other hand, it appears that plea of adverse possession was taken to claim their rights over the land of Khata No. 162. The revisional authority, after observing that there is no evidence on record from which it can be deduced that the notice (PA-10) was served on the main tenants, held that the claim of revisionist(s)/petitioners is not sustainable and thereafter dismissed the revision vide order dated 27.03.1982. The relevant portion of the same reads as under: —

"Learned counsels for the parties were heard and the records were perused carefully. Revisionists set up two cases. Their first case was that their father was in virtual occupation of the land in 1356 F 1359 F and that on the basis of above entries, they became Sirdar from Adhivasi after the abolition of Zamindari. Alternatively they pleaded in their second case tht they have perfected their title on the basis of adverse possession. With regard to the first case, the revisionists have filed extract of Khasra for 1359 F in which their father Sahdeva is recorded in remarks column as Marfat Sahdeva. No other evidence is there on the record in this aspect. AS opposed to it, Dukhi and others have filed extracts of Khatauni for 1356F and 1359F. These pieces of evidence show that they are recorded in class 4 in these years over the disputed land. In addition to this, they have filed rent receipts in supports of their case. Musai etc. too have admitted in their statements that Dukhi etc. are in possession over the land. In view of this there does not appear to be any force in the first case of the revisionists. As regards the case of adverse possession, revisionists have filed extracts of Khasra for 1366F to 1367F and again from 1368F and 1379F and 1379F. In 1366F and 1367 F, Sahdeva is recorded qubiz with date diary and PA-10 over plot No. 373/2 and qubiz over other plots. Same is the position in 1367 F. There after he is recorded under clause 9 upto 1379F. Lower appellate Court has said that these entries are not in accordance with the provisions Land Record Manual. Revisionists have not brought on record any piece of evidence to show that PA-10 was ever served on the main tenant. So these entries will certainly not be termed to be regular. Another important circumstances in this respect leads me to conclude that the revisionists have not come, with clear hands in this court. Musai etc. directed their appeal against Dukhi etc. but not against Sabhai etc. for reasons best known to them. Lower appellate court seems to be correct in holding that Musai etc. are in collusion with Sabhai etc. to grab the disputed land one way or the other. In view of these findings, I do not find any force in this revision."

43. The decision of Board of Revenue in the case of Hazari v. Mathura (B.R.), 1991 SCC OnLine BoR (UP) 27; 1992 RD 79; is not an authority on the question that where the person is claiming rights over the land on the basis of plea of adverse possession and relies upon the recorded entries, he is not to establish that the entries were made in accordance with the mode and manner prescribed under law. In the instant case, the claim of the petitioners based upon the plea of adverse possession was based upon the entries in Khasra and Khatauni, as such, they were required to prove the said entries and they failed to prove the same by adducing proper evidence.

Thus, for the reasons aforesaid, the findings recorded by the Assistant Settlement Officer of Consolidation and Deputy Director of Consolidation, according to which, the entries in Khasra and Khatauni produced by the petitioners were not made in the revenue record in terms of mode and manner prescribed in U.P. Land Records Manual and that no evidence was produced by the petitioners to prove that before making entries PA-10 was issued and served upon the recorded tenure holder and Land Management Committee, are justified."

20. It is further argued by learned Standing Counsel that the decree of 03-01-1978 was passed without serving PA-10

notice on the original tenure-holder, ex parte in the absence of Smt. Dukhrani and contrary to the ongoing ceiling proceedings. Such decree, the respondents submit, cannot override the statutory scheme of the Ceiling Act.

21. After having heard the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, I perused the material on record as well as the law reports cited by the parties.

22. The writ jurisdiction of this Court is invoked to examine whether the authorities below proceeded in accordance with law in rejecting the petitioner's objection and dismissing the appeal.

23. A decree which has attained finality and has not been challenged ordinarily must be given effect to and is a relevant piece of adjudicatory material. Decrees which determine possessory rights or bhumidharship are relevant for assessing the character of the holding and the claim of the person in possession. The 1978 decree, in the absence of any challenge on record, operates as a final adjudication between the parties to the suit and cannot be brushed aside mechanically in ceiling proceedings without dealing with its effect.

24. Persons claiming to be tenure-holders, third parties or those who assert possessory rights are entitled to file objections under Section 11(2) of the Ceiling Act (and allied provisions) and their objections are required to be adjudicated on merits. The statutory scheme does not permit summary rejection of bona fide objections without affording an adequate opportunity to adduce evidence or without considering documentary evidence such as a final decree and mutation entries.

25. The statutory bar against taking into account transactions occurring after the cut-off date 24.01.1971 is an important consideration in ceiling determination. However, the bar is not an instrument for obliterating antecedent rights, orders or possession which have been established and which are not vitiated. Where orders or decrees have been obtained by playing fraud or by material suppression, they may be treated as nullities. Conversely, where a decree is final and unchallenged and corroborated by continuous possession and mutation entries, the ceiling authorities are required to consider such material and adjudicate objections accordingly.

26. Entries in Khasra and Khatauni have evidentiary value when made in accordance with the procedural safeguards set out in the Land Records Manual (including service of P.A.10 notices, Lekhpal diary notings, etc.). If entries are found not to have been made in accordance with prescribed procedure, a court may treat them with caution. That said, procedural irregularity is a question of fact to be established by cogent material — and a summary dismissal of the petitioner's objection without examining such material is impermissible. In view of the above, the impugned orders are bad in law and are liable to be set aside.

27. The record on file shows an apparent inconsistency in the manner in which Gata No. 613 has been treated in the ceiling Khata and in the petitioner's Khatauni. Double-recording of the same plot, if proved to be a result of error or misidentification, vitiates the ceiling determination and requires rectification after adjudication on merits.

28. On the facts of the present case, the order of the Prescribed Authority dated 30.03.2002 records the existence of the 1978 decree but rejects the objection on the ground that the decree was passed post cut-off and therefore irrelevant; the Appellate Authority in its order dated 28.10.2002 upheld that view and further observed that the correction order was obtained by suppression. Neither authority, however, conducted a full factual inquiry into (i) whether the 1978 decree was obtained with clean hands, (ii) whether PA-10 and other procedural steps required for the entries were complied with, and (iii) whether the correction order dated 17.04.1979 was vitiated by fraud or misrepresentation. The consequence is that the petitioner's right to have his objections decided on merits was denied.

29. The petitioner has relied on a consistent line of authority recognising (i) the maintainability of objections under Section 11(2) even post-notification, (ii) the duty of the Prescribed Authority to adjudicate such objections on merits, and (iii) the relevance of long-standing possession and decrees declaring bhumidhar rights.

30. In Dirvijay Singh (Supra), the Court held that objections under Section 11(2) cannot be rejected merely because earlier proceedings had attained finality inter se the recorded tenure-holder. This authority reinforces the principle that third-party claimants are entitled to a full adjudication on merits—precisely what has been denied to the petitioner herein.

31. In Shafir (Supra), the Division Bench held that the Prescribed Authority must adjudicate the claim of a person asserting tenure-rights or adverse possession on merits and cannot refuse to consider such claims merely because ceiling proceedings had advanced or a notice under Section 10(2) had been issued. The ratio applies squarely to the present case, where the petitioner's claim of possession and declaratory decree was disregarded without substantive adjudication.

32. Abdul Hafiz Khan (Supra) reiterates that objections under Section 11(2) are maintainable even after Section 14 notification and that wrong citation of provision does not vitiate an objection when the substance discloses a valid claim. This Court notes that the petitioner's objection dated 23.07.1997, though challenged on procedural grounds by the respondents, did raise substantive grounds requiring examination.

33. In Hari Ram (Supra), the Court required authorities to treat objections as maintainable under Section 11(2) where mutation entries existed pursuant to orders in favour of the objectors. This directly supports the petitioner's contention that the 1978 decree and consequent entries could not be ignored.

34. The petitioner also relied on the Supreme Court judgment in the case of Ravinder Kaur Grewal (Supra), reiterating the jurisprudence on possessory title and adverse possession, affirming that even a possessor without documentary title may assert and defend rights against all except the true owner. This judgment underscores the legal relevance of long, continuous possession alleged since 1953.

35. On the other hand, the respondents rely heavily on the doctrine that orders obtained by fraud are nullities and that post—cut-off transactions must be ignored in ceiling determination.

36. The respondents cite S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu (Supra), where the Supreme Court held that an order obtained by suppression or misrepresentation is void and non est. This Court affirms the correctness of that proposition of law; however, whether the correction order dated 17.04.1979 or the 1978 decree were obtained through fraud is a factual determination which was never adjudicated by the authorities below.

37. The respondents further relied on Mohd. Raza (Supra); Gurmukh Singh (Supra); and Sabhai (Supra), to submit that entries not prepared in accordance with the Land Records Manual (particularly without PA-10 notice) lack evidentiary value. These authorities indeed require strict proof of compliance with revenue record procedures. However, neither the Prescribed Authority nor the Appellate Authority undertook a factual inquiry to test whether the entries relied upon by the petitioner were procedurally compliant. Summary rejection on assumptions cannot substitute a factual finding. The Supreme Court as well as the High Courts in catena of judgments have held that reasons are heartbeat to derive at a conclusion and without reasons, the order is lifeless.

38. Thus, when all cited authorities are considered collectively, two principles emerge which decisively govern this case: (i) The petitioner's objection under Section 11(2) was maintainable and required full adjudication on merits, including examination of possession, mutation entries, the 1978 decree, and allegations of fraud; and (ii) Revenue entries and decrees may be disregarded only after a factual finding of procedural illegality or fraud—neither of which has been determined by the authorities below.

39. Therefore, the impugned orders suffer from non-application of mind and failure to consider governing judicial precedents which impose a duty of adjudication.

40. For the reasons recorded above, this Court is satisfied that the authorities below committed jurisdictional error in rejecting the petitioner's objection and in dismissing the appeal without full adjudication on the key factual issues.

41. Consequently, the impugned order dated 30.03.2002 passed by the Prescribed Authority (Annexure-2) and the order dated 28.10.2002 passed by the Additional Commissioner/Appellate Authority (Annexure-1) are hereby quashed.

42. The writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, despite the rejection of his bail application by the Court below.

Narcotic Drugs And Psychotropic Substances, Act, 1985 - ss. 8, 20, 29 - NDPS (seizure, storage, sampling and disposal) Rules, 2022 - R. 10 - The applicant was arrested for offences punishable u/ss. 8/20/29 of the NDPS Act, 1985, pursuant to a raid conducted on 26.03.2025 on the basis of prior information regarding storage of illegal ganja at certain premises, during which a total of approximately 1300 kilograms of contraband ganja was allegedly recovered from three vehicles and a room within the said premises - The applicant was apprehended from one of the vehicles, including a vehicle registered in his name, and was remanded to judicial custody, following which his bail application was rejected by the learned Special Judge (NDPS Act), prompting him to approach the High Court seeking regular bail on the grounds of false implication, alleged non-compliance of mandatory provisions of ss. 42, 50, 52A of NDPS Act, absence of independent witnesses, and procedural irregularities in sampling and seizure - The State opposed the prayer for bail by contending that the recovery was of commercial quantity, the investigation was complete, the charge-sheet had been filed, and prima facie material disclosed the applicant's involvement in the offence.

Held: From the perusal of the evidences, collected during investigation so far, prima facie, the involvement of the accused in the instant case cannot be ruled out - No reason is found to falsely implicate the applicant/accused - Therefore, there is no good ground to release the applicant/accused on bail at this stage - All the contentions raised by the learned counsel for the applicant pertain to the merits of the case and the same cannot be considered while considering application for grant of bail - Accordingly, the bail application rejected. 1. Heard Shri Manish Tiwary, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Ajay Kumar, learned counsel for the applicant, Shri Shashank Singh, learned Brief Holder for the State and perused the records.

2. The instant bail application under Section 483 of the BNSS, 2023 has been filed seeking enlargement on bail in Case Crime No. 163 of 2025, under Sections 8/20/29 of the NDPS Act, 1985, Police Station Handia, District Prayagraj during the pendency of the trial before the Court below. The bail application of the applicant before the Court below was rejected by the learned Addl. Sessions Judge/Special Judge NDPS Act, Court No. 9, Prayagraj vide order dated 23.5.2025 and the applicant is languishing in jail since 26.3.2025.

3. Shri Manish Tiwary, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the applicant has vehemently argued that the applicant is entirely innocent and has been falsely implicated in this very case crime number for ulterior motives. On getting information that huge quantity of illegal Ganja is available in the house of Ghanshyam Tripathi in village Chaura Bereda, a raid was carried out on 26.3.2025 at 12:39 hours on the premises in question and the applicant was apprehended from the driver seat of a vehicle Tata-X Gold without number plate. On checking the vehicle Tata-X Gold, 25 sacks of Ganja contained in 19 sacks each having 20 packets of 1 Kg., each and 06 sacks containing 32 packets of 1 Kg. each total quantity 572 Kg. Ganja was recovered from the said vehicle registered in the name of co-accused Rohit Tripathi son of Ghanshyam Tripathi. From another vehicle found on the premises i.e. Nissa Kicks bearing registration No. UP-70-FW-0553 from which 01 sacks containing 14 packets of Ganja each weighing 1 Kg was recovered from the dickey, while 02 sacks containing 27 packets of 1 Kg. each Ganja total 68 Kg. Ganja was recovered from the back seat of the vehicle. The Nissan Kicks was found to be registered in the name of the applicant. Likewise, from a third vehicle found on the premises i.e. Scoda vehicle without number plate, 01 sacks were found from the dickey of the vehicle containing 25 packets of 01 Kg., Ganja besides 03 sacks from the backseat also containing 25 packets of 01 Kg. Ganja total quantity 125 Kg. were recovered. Besides the recovery from the vehicles, on the premises in question, 525 Kg. Ganja contained in 17 sacks (30 packets of 1Kg.) and 1 sack containing 25 packet of 01 Kg. Ganja was recovered. The total quantity of the contraband Ganja recovered was 1300 Kgs. The accused persons are stated to have confessed their crimes.

4. Shri Manish Tiwary, learned Senior Counsel has vehemently argued that the prosecution of the applicant and other co-accused persons is being done under the wrong provisions of the NDPS Act and as such, the entire prosecution is vitiated and the applicant is entitled to be enlarged on bail. Shri Tiwary, contends that the applicant is being prosecuted for an offence under Section 8/20/29 of the NDPS Act. The FIR was lodged under Section 18/20 of the NDPS Act. Section 18 of the NDPS Act deals with the punishment for contravention in relation to opium poppy and opium. Since, in the case at hand neither opium poppy and opium was involved, the applicant and other co-accused persons were wrongly being prosecuted. Shri Tiwary submits that the prosecution only on 26.4.2025 while recording the CD No. 12 converted sections 18/20 of the NDPS Act to Section 8/20/29 of the NDPS Act and sought remand of the accused in the converted sections. It is next contended that there is no independent witnesses of the alleged recovery and arrest which establishes the falsity of the prosecution case. The mandatory provisions of Sections 42, 50, 52A of the NDPS Act have not been followed. It is argued that 50 sacks containing Ganja were recovered from the premises in question and merely two samples were taken from each sacks and sent for chemical analysis. It is also argued that till date the FSL report has not been received to establish whether the recovered material was in fact Ganja. Much emphasis has been placed upon the Rule 10 of the NDPS (seizure, storage, sampling and disposal) Rules, 2022 which deals with drawing of samples to contend that clear violations of the Section 52A and the Rules, 2022 have been made rendering the prosecution vitiated. It has also been argued that the alleged recovery of the contraband Ganja is from the ancestral house in which approx 25-30 families reside. The raid was carried out at approx 4:45 AM which is a time when ordinarily every every person is expected to be present at their respective resides. Despite the raid having been conducted at such an early hour, the co-accused persons who were residing in the same house were not arrested, which creates doubt about the place and manner of arrest of the applicant which according to him has been effected from a car at Jhunsi and not from Handia as alleged by the prosecution. It is also argued that the applicant was subjected to unlawful and unwarranted physical assault by the Police due to which, he sustained injuries. The confiscated vehicles have since been released finding prima facie case in favour of the applicant. The co-accused persons, namely, Manju Mishra, Mohit Tripathi, Rohit Tripathi, Govind Mishra and Ghanshyam Tripathi have been granted stay of arrest. Reliance has been placed upon the decision reported in 2020 SCC Online Del 2080, decision dated 25.4.2024 by the High Court of Kerala at Ernakulam in Bail Application No. 1253 of 2024 (Sakeer K. Versus State of Kerala and another); decision of Apex Court reported in 2009 (12) SCC 161 as also the decision of this Court dated 24.8.2018 rendered in Jail Appeal No. 2811 of 2016 (Chinku Gupta versus State of U.P.) to buttress the submissions that statutory provisions must be scrupulously complied with to sustain prosecution under the NDPS Act. It is also argued that there is no credible evidence against the applicant to establish the complicity in the commission of the alleged offence. The recovery is a planted one. The applicant has no criminal antecedents and undertakes to cooperate in the trial and shall not misuse the liberty of bail. Hence, bail is prayed for.

5. Per contra, Shri Shashank Singh, learned Brief Holder appearing for the State-respondent has vehemently opposed the bail plea by submitting that the applicant deserves no indulgence by this Court and is not liable to be released on bail inasmuch as in the raid conducted 1300 Kg. of contraband Ganja has been recovered from 03 vehicles and one room of the premises being the house of the accused persons. Samples were collected and sent for FSL examination and has been found to be Ganja. Charge sheet has been filed on 21.7.2025. The applicant if released on bail shall not cooperate in the trial and most likely influence the trial. Reliance has been placed upon the decision of the Apex Court rendered in the case of Bharat Aambale versus State of Chattisgarj, Union of India versus Ajai Kumar Singh to submit that the applicant is not entitled to be released on bail.

6. With regard to non compliance of mandatory provisions of search and seizure of narcotics substance as per the provisions of the NDPS Act is concerned, learned Brief Holder submits that the Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 5544 of 2024 (Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No. 12120 of 2024) Narcotics Control Bureau versus Kasif, decided on 20.12.2024 has held that sub-section (2) of Section 52A lays down the procedure as contemplated in sub-section (1) thereof, and any lapse or delayed compliance thereof would be merely a procedural irregularity which would neither entitle the accused to be released on bail nor would vitiate the trial on that ground alone.

7. The Apex Court recently in the case of Bharat Ambale versus State of Chattisgarh, reported in [2025 INSC 78] while dealing with the plea that conviction stood vitiated on account of non compliance of Section 52A of the NDPS Act in Para 50 of its judgment has held as under:-

"50. We summarize our final conclusion as under: -

(1) Although Section 52A is primarily for the disposal and destruction of seized contraband in a safe manner yet it extends beyond the immediate context of drug disposal, as it serves a broader purpose of also introducing procedural safeguards in the treatment of narcotics substance after seizure inasmuch as it provides for the preparation of inventories, taking of photographs of the seized substances and drawing samples therefrom in the presence and with the certification of a magistrate. Mere drawing of samples in presence of a gazetted officer would not constitute sufficient compliance of the mandate under Section 52A sub-section (2) of the NDPS Act.

(II) Although, there is no mandate that the drawing of samples from the seized substance must take place at the time of seizure as held in Mohanlal (supra), yet we are of the opinion that the process of inventorying, photographing and drawing samples of the seized substance shall as far as possible, take place in the presence of the accused, though the same may not be done at the very spot of seizure.

(III) Any inventory, photographs or samples of seized substance prepared in substantial compliance of the procedure prescribed under Section 52A of the NDPS Act and the Rules / Standing Order(s) thereunder would have to be mandatorily treated as primary evidence as per Section 52A sub-section (4) of the NDPS Act, irrespective of whether the substance in original is actually produced before the court or not. (IV) The procedure prescribed by the Standing Order(s) / Rules in terms of Section 52A of the NDPS Act is only intended to guide the officers and to see that a fair procedure is adopted by the officer in-charge of the investigation, and as such what is required is substantial compliance of the procedure laid therein.

(V) Mere non-compliance of the procedure under Section 52A or the Standing Order(s) / Rules thereunder will not be fatal to the trial unless there are discrepancies in the physical evidence rendering the prosecution's case doubtful, which may not have been there had such compliance been done. Courts should take a holistic and cumulative view of the discrepancies that may exist in the evidence adduced by the prosecution and appreciate the same more carefully keeping in mind the procedural lapses.

(VI) If the other material on record adduced by the prosecution, oral or documentary inspires confidence and satisfies the court as regards the recovery as-well as conscious possession of the contraband from the accused persons, then even in such cases, the courts can without hesitation proceed to hold the accused guilty notwithstanding any procedural defect in terms of Section 52A of the NDPS Act.

(VII) Non-compliance or delayed compliance of the said provision or rules thereunder may lead the court to drawing an adverse inference against the prosecution, however no hard and fast rule can be laid down as to when such inference may be drawn, and it would all depend on the peculiar facts and circumstances of each case.

(VIII) Where there has been lapse on the part of the police in either following the procedure laid down in Section 52A of the NDPS Act or the prosecution in proving the same, it will not be appropriate for the court to resort to the statutory presumption of commission of an offence from the possession of illicit material under Section 54 of the NDPS Act, unless the court is otherwise satisfied as regards the seizure or recovery of such material from the accused persons from the other material on record.

(IX) The initial burden will lie on the accused to first lay the foundational facts to show that there was non-compliance of Section 52A, either by leading evidence of its own or by relying upon the evidence of the prosecution, and the standard required would only be preponderance of probabilities.

(X) Once the foundational facts laid indicate non-compliance of Section 52A of the NDPS Act, the onus would thereafter be on the prosecution to prove by cogent evidence that either (i) there was substantial compliance with the mandate of Section 52A of the NDPS Act OR (ii) satisfy the court that such non-compliance does not affect its case against the accused, and the standard of proof required would be beyond a reasonable doubt."

8. In the light of the facts and circumstances of the present case, it would be inappropriate to discuss the evidence in depth at this stage because it is likely to influence the trial of the accused. But, from the perusal of the evidences, collected during investigation so far, prima facie, the involvement of the accused in the present case cannot be ruled out. No reason is found to falsely implicate the applicant/accused. Therefore, there is no good ground to release the applicant-accused on bail at this stage. All the contentions raised by the learned counsel for the applicant pertain to the merits of the case and the same cannot be considered while considering application for grant of bail. This court is unable to form an opinion at this stage that the accused has not committed an offence.

9. In the ultimate conclusion, considering the facts and circumstances of the case, gravity of the offence, severity of punishment, in my opinion, no case for bail is made out. Accordingly, the bail application is hereby rejected.

10. It is clarified that the observations made regarding the bail application is limited to the decision of the bail application and any observations made herein shall not effect the trial of the case.

Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 20055 of 2025

Manoj Kumar Niranjana ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether in exercise of its extraordinary writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of Constitution (read with s. 528 BNSS / s. 482 Cr.P.C.), the High Court could issue a writ of mandamus directing the investigating authorities to specifically consider and incorporate the documents and evidence produced by the petitioner during the course of investigation in a disproportionate assets case u/s 13(1)(b) read with s.13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, and conclude the investigation within a time-bound framework, on the ground of alleged non-consideration of exculpatory material, violation of paragraph 107 of U.P. Police Regulations, breach of Explanation-I to Section 13(1) of Act, infringement of principles of natural justice, and denial of petitioner's fundamental right to speedy justice under Article 21 of Constitution.

Headnotes

Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 - ss. 13(1) (b), 13(2) - Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 226 - Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 - s. 528 -The petitioner, presently serving as an Executive Engineer in the Uttar Pradesh Jal Nigam, challenged the ongoing investigation initiated against him under provisions of Prevention of Corruption Act, registered by Vigilance Establishment, Bareilly Sector - An Open Vigilance Inquiry had earlier been instituted on 08.12.2020 to examine allegations of possession of disproportionate assets during the check period from 01.01.2012 to 30.06.2017 - Upon conclusion of inquiry, a report was submitted recommending registration of a case, after that sanction was granted on 16.12.2022 and impugned FIR was lodged on 18.03.2023 alleging excess income to the tune of ₹14,37,427/- from unknown sources - The petitioner asserts that throughout the inquiry and subsequent investigation he fully cooperated, furnished detailed documentary evidence explaining his lawful sources of income including salary, agricultural earnings, rental income, and other receipts and thereafter submitted representations to competent authorities alleging non-consideration of such material in violation of paragraph 107 of U.P. Police Regulations and Explanation-I to Section 13(1) of Act - Petitioner's grievance is that despite directions dated 27.05.2024 issued by higher authority to consider his representations and supporting evidence, the investigating officer failed to duly evaluate the same and has prolonged the investigation for over two years, thereby acting arbitrarily and in derogation of principles of natural justice and the petitioner's right to fair and expeditious investigation under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

Held: Perusal of record shows that an FIR dated 18.03.2023 u/s 13(1)(b) r/w 13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 was registered on the basis of inquiry report conducted by Uttar Pradesh Vigilance Establishment, Bareilly Sector Bareilly, in compliance of Uttar Pradesh Vigilance Establishment, confidential letter No.1464/39-1-20-2M(1)/2019 dated 08.12.2020, in regard to an excess income of petitioner from unknown sources of Rs.14,37,427/- for the check period of 01.01.2012 to 30.06.2017 - Respondent no.4 is Inspector/investigating officer of Vigilance Establishment, Bareilly Sector, Bareilly - The petitioner in his petition has admitted the fact that he had received notice on 17.11.2023, issued by office of respondent no.3 for getting recorded his statement in investigation of the crime and his statement was recorded on 20.11.2023 - The petitioner further stated that he has submitted the entire relevant documents and evidence pertaining to his source of income during the check period before the respondent no.3/ Superintendent of Police, Vigilance Establishment, Bareilly Sector, Bareilly - It is clear that he has availed the opportunity of putting his case before the investigating officer and he had also provided all the relevant evidence and documents for the check period in question to the respondent no.3 - In his petition the petitioner has stated that the respondent no.4 had refused to take the relevant documents and evidence pertaining to source of income of the petitioner during the check period - In the light of averments made by petitioner in his petition and the law laid down by Supreme Court in the case of Nitya Dharmananda Case (infra), it is not necessary to direct the investigating officer to reconsider the evidence/documents produced by the petitioner in investigation of case - Thus, petition lacks merit, dismissed. 2. Present writ petition has been filed by the petitioner with following prayer:-

"(i) To issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondent nos.2, 3, 4 to consider the evidence/documents produced by the petitioner in investigation of Case Crime No.0001 of 2023, under section 13(1)(b) read with 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, Police Station Bareilly Sector (Vigilance Establishment), District U.P. Vigilance Establishment, within stipulated time as may be fixed by this Hon'ble Court."

3. The petitioner in his petition has submitted that on 15.10.2009 he was appointed as Assistant Engineer in Uttar Pradesh Jal Nigam and after getting promotion now he is discharging his duties as Executive Engineer. During entire service period of petitioner neither any illegalities nor irregularities have been found against the petitioner or any complaint were filed or made against him by anyone and his entire service record was unblemished. On 08.12.2020 the respondent no.1 has ordered for initiating Open Vigilance Inquiry against the petitioner regarding disproportionate asset which is numbered as Open Inquiry No.183 of 2020 for the check period 01.01.2012 to 30.06.2017. Thereafter the vigilance inquiry was conducted and concluded by the Vigilance Establishment, Bareilly Sector Bareilly and report was submitted before the respondent no.1 regarding the inquiry on 18.03.2021. The petitioner has cooperated in the inquiry and had supplied all the relevant documents regarding the assets acquired during the check period, including his salary, agriculture income, income from rents and income received from other sources etc., however inquiry officer has not considered the same and submitted report with recommendation for permission of investigation under section 13(1)(b) read with 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act as amended. On 16.12.2022 the respondent no.1 has granted permission for registering the FIR and conducting investigation under the provision of Prevention of Corruption Act, hence the Vigilance Inquiry Officer has lodged FIR on 18.03.2023 against the petitioner which is registered as Case Crime No.0001 of 2023, under section 13(1)(b) read with 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act as amended, at Police Station Bareilly Sector (Vigilance Establishment), District U.P. Vigilance Establishment. Thereafter on 07.11.2023 the petitioner has received notice issued by the office of the respondent no.3 for getting recorded the statement in investigation of the aforesaid criminal case. In pursuance of the notice dated 07.11.2023 the petitioner got his statement recorded on 20.11.2023 and also submitted the entire relevant documents/evidence pertaining to the source of income during the check period. The investigating officer of the case i.e. respondent no.4 also has not considered the documents/evidences produced by the petitioner before him for explaining satisfactorily about the source of income of the petitioner. In such compelling circumstances the petitioner has moved the representations before the respondent no.1 on 05.01.2024, 25.4.2024 and 01.05.2024 and also submitted entire evidence for explaining source of income. Thereafter respondent no.1 considering the representations of petitioner has passed an order on 27.05.2024 and directed the respondent no.2 i.e. Director, Vigilance to consider and include the points mentioned in the representations and also consider the evidence in the investigation of the aforesaid criminal case. During the investigation the respondent no.4 called for report from the Tehsil of home district of petitioner and the Tehsildar, Tehsil Jalaun District Jalaun has submitted detailed report dated 14.10.2024, which showed head wise income received from the different crops and also mentioned his income from cash crops. The impugned FIR shows that the petitioner had earned an amount of Rs.14,37,427/- in excess from the valid source of income and in this regard the petitioner in his statement before the investigating officer has categorically mentioned the income gain during check period with evidence, which was not considered during the open inquiry. This was in violation of the provisions of paragraph no.107 of the Police Regulation. The mandatory provision of Explanation-I of section 13(1) of Prevention of Corruption Act had also not been complied with.

4. Aggrieved by the act of respondent no.4 the petitioner again made a representation before the respondent no.1 on 21.07.2025, citing violation of mandatory rules and regulations that had to be followed during investigation. It was also stated that the act of respondent no.4 was arbitrary and against the principal of natural justice. Non consideration of valid sources of income of the petitioner will adversely affect the petitioner in defending his case. The petitioner is innocent and law abiding person and has not committed any offence as alleged. The investigation of the aforesaid case is pending since 2023 and about 2 years have passed but the respondent no.4 was not intending to conclude the investigation of the case. The cardinal principle of law is that delay in justice amounts to denial of justice and the right to speedy justice is fundamental right of the petitioner.

5. Perusal of record shows that an FIR dated 18.03.2023 under section 13(1)(b) read with 13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 was registered on the basis of inquiry report conducted by Uttar Pradesh Vigilance Establishment, Bareilly Sector Bareilly, in compliance of the Uttar Pradesh Vigilance Establishment, confidential letter No.1464/39-1-20-2M(1)/2019 dated 08.12.2020, in regard to an excess income of the petitioner from unknown sources of Rs.14,37,427/- for the check period of 01.01.2012 to 30.06.2017. The respondent no.4 is Inspector/investigating officer of Vigilance Establishment, Bareilly Sector, Bareilly.

The petitioner in his petition has admitted the fact that he had received notice on 17.11.2023, issued by the office of respondent no.3 for getting recorded his statement in the investigation of the aforesaid case crime and his statement was recorded on 20.11.2023. The petitioner further stated that he has submitted the entire relevant documents and evidence pertaining to his source of income during the check period before the respondent no.3/ Superintendent of Police, Vigilance Establishment, Bareilly Sector, Bareilly.

6. From the above submission made by the petitioner in his petition it is clear that he has availed the opportunity of putting his case before the investigating officer and he had also provided all the relevant evidence and documents for the check period in question to the respondent no.3. Nowhere in his petition the petitioner has stated that the respondent no.4 had refused to take the relevant documents and evidence pertaining to source of income of the petitioner during the check period.

7. The High Court in exercise of writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India or under Section 528 BNSS / 482 Cr.P.C. cannot direct the investigating officer to collect the specific evidence or accept particular documents tendered by the accused. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Nitya Dharmananda v. Gopal Sheelum Reddy, (2018) 2 SCC 93 has held that High Court in writ jurisdiction or in exercise of jurisdiction under section 528 BNSS/ 482 Cr.P.C. cannot micromanage investigation or convert themselves into investigating organizations. The disproportionate asset cases under section 13(1)(e) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 are evidence intensive. The prosecution must prove assets disproportionate to the known sources of income, and the accused can explain the reason of the source of income at the trial stage. If the accused earlier was given notice/opportunity during investigation to submit explanation/document and he did so, the refusal by the investigating officer to accept further/later documents does not normally violate natural justice or fairness, as the accused can produce them as defence evidence during trial (313 CrPC/ 351 BNSS, defence witness under section 243 CrPC/ 266 BNSS in documents under section 294 CrPC/ 330 BNSS). In extraordinary circumstances, when refusal to accept documents may cause miscarriage of justice or is patently malafide and arbitrary, or violate rights under Article 21 of the India Constitution that the High Court may issue directions to consider the material evidence or conduct limited further inquiry.

8. In the light of averments made by the petitioner in his petition and the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Nitya Dharmananda Case(Supra), we do not find it necessary to direct the investigating officer to reconsider the evidence/documents produced by the petitioner in investigation of Case Crime No.0001 of 2023, under section 13(1)(b) read with 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, Police Station Bareilly Sector (Vigilance Establishment), District U.P. Vigilance Establishment, hence the relief no.1, as prayed by the petitioner is declined.

9. In so far as the relief no.2 is concerned, giving direction to the investigating agencies to conclude the investigation in time bound manner, where the petitioner himself has repeatedly

(Delivered by Hon'ble Brij Raj Singh, J.)

1. The instant appeal under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C. has been filed challenging the judgment and order dated 28.05.1998 passed by IXth Additional District and Sessions Judge, Lucknow (in short "trial Court") in Criminal Case No. 85 of 1995, under Sections 8/21 of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (in short "NDPS Act") Police Station - Narcotics Department, District - Lucknow whereby the appellant has been convicted and sentenced under Sections 8/21 of NDPS Act for a period of ten years rigorous imprisonment along with the fine of Rs. 1,00,000/- and in default of payment of fine, to undergo additional five years' rigorous imprisonment.

2. Heard Shri Kunwar Sushant Prakash, learned counsel for the accused-appellant and Sri S. M. Singh Royekwar, learned Counsel for the Union of India/Central Bureau of Narcotics.

3. The case of prosecution, as per material available on record, is that on 27.02.1995, at about 10:00 AM, a secret information was received that one person namely accused-appellant Vinai Kumar Sharma is staying in Room No. 25, Hotel Manisha, Ganesh Ganj, Lucknow, and that he has come from Delhi with the intention to purchase heroin. It was informed that Mohd. Islam @ Farooq Son of Mohd. Shami @ Haroon, resident of Tikra Patti, P.S. Jaidpur, District Barabanki, would bring heroin from his village and deliver the same to accused-appellant Vinai Kumar Sharma in Room No. 25 of Hotel Manisha, and that the monetary transaction would also take place in the said hotel. Believing the information, Rajdhari Singh, Sub-Inspector, Central Narcotics Bureau, Lucknow Camp, Zaidpur (Barabanki), after consulting his seniors at Lucknow, constituted a preventive team led by S.C. Sarkar, Superintendent (Preventive), Barabanki Zaidpur Camp. The team reached Hotel Manisha at about 12:00 noon and inspected the register at the Hotel Counter. They proceeded to Room No. 25 along with two public witnesses. The Room was found locked from inside. Upon knocking, one person opened the door who, on inquiry, disclosed his name as Vinai Kumar Sharma, son of Ram Charan Lal, resident of Room No. 88, Govind Park, Chander Nagar, P.S. Krishna Nagar, Delhi. On being further asked whether anybody else was present in the Room, he stated that another person known to him was also present, whose name is Mohammad Islam, resident of Village Tikra Patti, District

Barabanki. Upon being called, the second person came to the door and disclosed his name as Mohd. Islam @ Farooq, son of Mohd. Shami @ Haroon, resident of Village Tikra Patti, P.S. Zaidpur, District Barabanki. Since the names and particulars matched with those given in the secret information, both the persons were informed about the purpose of the visit and were asked whether they wished their personal search and search of the premises to be conducted before a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer. Both accused-appellant Vinai Kumar Sharma and Mohd. Islam declined and consented to be searched by the preventive team itself. Thereafter, in the presence of witnesses, Rajdhari Singh, Sub-Inspector, and Faiyaz Ahmad along with witnesses, entered the Room and commenced search. During search, a red coloured hand bag was found under the pillow on the bed. On being asked, accused-appellant Vinai Kumar Sharma stated that the bag contained Rs. 23,000/-, which he admitted to be his own money, brought from his home, and that he intended to purchase heroin from Mohd. Islam @ Farooq, present in the Room. He further stated that one packet of heroin had already been given to him, while another packet remained with Mohd. Islam, and that he was about to check the purity of the heroin by consuming it, after which he intended to decide the price, but before that, the team arrived. On being asked to produce the heroin in his possession, he took out one plastic-wrapped packet from the right pocket of his blue jeans, which was opened by Constable Faiyaz Ahmad in the presence of witnesses, and found to contain brown-coloured, semi-moist substance, which was seized under Sections 8, 21 of NDPS Act. Thereafter, Mohd. Islam was asked whether he also possessed any heroin, to which he admitted, and produced one plastic-wrapped packet from the left pocket of his brownish-khaki trousers, which, when was opened by Constable Faiyaz Ahmad in presence of witnesses, was found to contain brown-coloured, semi-moist substance, which was also seized under Sections 8, 21 of NDPS Act. Thereafter, both recovered packets were tested with the field testing kit, and the substance was found to be heroin. On weighing the substance on the weighing scale available at the spot, the heroin recovered from accused-appellant Vinai Kumar Sharma weighed 120 grams, and the heroin recovered from Mohd. Islam weighed 80 grams. From each packet, two samples of 5 grams each were drawn for chemical examination and were separately sealed in tin containers. The recovered heroin from Vinai Kumar Sharma was marked "A", and the two sample containers were marked "A1" and "A2". Similarly, the recovered heroin from Mohd. Islam @ Farooq was marked "B", and the two sample containers were marked "B1" and "B2". After apprising both accused persons of the offence under Sections 8, 21 of NDPS Act. Accused-appellant Vinai Kumar Sharma and Mohd. Islam were arrested along with the seized heroin. A recovery-cum-seizure memo was prepared on the spot, read over to all present, and upon admitting it to be correct, it was signed by the witnesses, accused persons and members of the team, with their signatures/thumb impressions.

4. Accused-appellant Vinai Kumar Sharma was summoned by the trial Court and the trial Court framed charge against the appellant under Sections 8C, 21 of the NDPS Act and the said charge was read over and explained to the accused-appellant, who thereafter, denied the possession of 120 gms heroin and claimed trial. Upon denial, the appellant was put to trial.

5. To prove its case, the prosecution examined Seizing Officer Rajdhari Singh/PW-1, Superintendent S.C. Sarkar/PW-2, Independent Witness Manager Harishankar Agnihotri/PW-3, Investigating Officer P. K. Shah/PW-4, Malkhana Incharge G.K. Mukherji/PW-5 and Constable Subhash Chandra Dubey/PW-6.

6. In response to the question(s) put to the accused-appellant in terms of Section 313 Cr.P.C., the accused-appellant denied the case of prosecution. He also denied the incident and deposed before the Court that he has been falsely implicated and he also denied the factum of recovery. He accepted that at 08 O' clock in the morning, he was arrested at Hotel Manisha and recovery of Rs.30,765/- was made from him. He further made allegation against the employees of Narcotics Department that they wanted to grab the said amount, which was found in his possession. The accused-appellant made protest that is why he has been falsely implicated.

7. Thereafter, the trial Court after due consideration of the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and evidence available on record passed the judgment of conviction and sentenced, detailed in para 1 of this judgment, which has been assailed in the present appeal.

8. Seizing Officer Rajdhari Singh/PW-1, in examination-in-chief, has stated that on 27.02.1995, he was posted as Sub-Inspector, Zaidpur, District Barabanki. On that day he received a secret information that a person named Vinai Kumar, who had come from Delhi, was staying at Manisha

Hotel, Ganesh Ganj, Lucknow, and that he would purchase heroin from Mohd. Islam @ Farukh, resident of Village Tikra Patti, District Barabanki, and return to Delhi. He recorded this secret information in D.R.I. Form No. 1 in his own handwriting. The informer was brought along with Constable Faiyyaz Ahmad. This information is written in his own handwriting and bears his signatures. He also obtained the signatures of Faiyyaz Ahmad on it. This information is Exhibit Ka-1. After receiving the information, he and constable Faiyyaz Ahmad came to Lucknow, and after discussing with their officers, an immediate team was constituted consisting of S.C. Sarkar, Superintendent; Ashok Kumar, Inspector; Faiyyaz Ahmad, Constable; Om Prakash Gupta, Constable; Kamlakar Pandey, Constable; Ram Kripal, Constable, and they proceeded on government vehicle No. UP-32-0042 with driver K.K. Seth. They reached Manisha Hotel, checked the entry of Room No. 25 as pointed out by the informer at the counter, and along with hotel employees Harishankar Agnihotri and Sudhir Kumar Dixit reached Room No. 25 and knocked on the door. Accused-appellant Vinai Kumar opened the door. PW-1 asked him his name and address. He disclosed his name as Vinai Kumar S/o Ram Charan Lal R/o Govind Park, P.S. Krishna Nagar, Delhi. PW-1 then asked whether any other person was in the Room. He said that there was another person who had come to meet him. He was called and PW-1 asked his name and address. He disclosed his name as Mohd. Islam @ Farukh, resident of Village Tikra Patti, District Barabanki. After that, PW-1 told them that whether they wanted to be searched in the presence of a Magistrate or Gazetted Officer, but both consented to be searched by me and the team. Thereafter, PW-1 and Constable

Faiyyaz Ahmad, both witnesses, and our officers exchanged personal searches, and then entered the Room. Upon entering the Room and during search, a red hand bag was found below the pillow on the bed, which Vinai Kumar claimed as his own and stated that Rs. 23,000/- were kept in it and that the money belonged to him. The money was counted in his presence and verified. He stated that the money was brought to purchase heroin and take it to Delhi. When asked whether the heroin had arrived, he said that the other person, Mohd. Islam, had brought two packets of heroin, out of which one packet had been given to him, which he was testing for purity, and that the other packet was with Islam, and during that time they arrived. Thereafter, Vinai Kumar took out a packet of heroin from the right pocket of his jeans. It was opened and tested with the testing kit, and it was confirmed to be heroin. Then Mohd. Islam took out another packet of heroin from the left pocket of his pants, which was also opened and tested, and confirmed to be heroin. Both packets were weighed one by one on the scale. The heroin recovered from Vinai Kumar weighed 120 grams, and the heroin recovered from Islam @ Farukh weighed 80 grams. From both packets, two samples of 5 grams each were taken for chemical examination. The samples and the remaining material were sealed separately. A seizure memo (fard) was prepared at the spot in his handwriting and bearing his signature. The signatures of the witnesses were obtained, and accused Vinai Kumar signed and accused Mohd. Islam affixed his thumb impression. The seizure memo was also signed by his officer S.C. Sarkar, and one copy each was given to both accused, and their signatures and thumb impressions were obtained. The seizure memo is Exhibit Ka-2, written and signed by him, and is on record.

9. Superintendent S.C. Sarkar/PW-2 stated on oath that he is a Gazetted Officer. On 27.02.1995, he was posted as Superintendent, Central Narcotics Bureau, Jaidpur, Barabanki. On that day, he was present in Lucknow. On the same day, at about 11:00 a.m., S.I. Rajdhari Singh and Constable Faiyyaz Ahmad came to meet him in the office. They presented before him the written information DRI-1, Exhibit Ka-1, and apprised him of the information. He read Exhibit Ka-1 and signed and consulted the Deputy Narcotics Commissioner and formed a team to apprehend the accused persons. The team consisted of S.C. Sarkar, S.I. Rajdhari Singh, Constable Faiyyaz Ahmad, Kamalddhar Pandey, Ram Kripal, and Ashok Kumar, Inspector. They took the government jeep UP-32-0043 with driver K.K. Seth and proceeded to Manisha Hotel, Ganesh Ganj, Lucknow. They went to the hotel counter and checked the hotel register for Room No. 25 as informed by the informer. Taking the two hotel employees, Harishankar Agnihotri and Sudhir Kumar Dixit, they went to Room No. 25. They knocked on the door and got it opened. The accused-appellant Vinai Kumar Sharma opened the door. They asked his name and address. He disclosed his name as Vinai Kumar Sharma, son of Ramcharan Lal, resident of Govind Park, P.S. Krishna Nagar, Delhi. They also asked him whether anyone else was inside the Room. He said there was another person named Islam. He was also called and was asked his particulars. He stated his name was Islam @ Farooq, son of Haroon, resident of Village Tikra, District Barabanki. He introduced himself and told them that he is a Gazetted Officer and that he had information that they were in possession of heroin. He also asked them whether they wanted to be searched in the presence of

Magistrate or any other Gazetted Officer. They said that he could conduct the search. The officers and witnesses searched each other and then entered the Room. During the search, a red hand-bag was found under the pillow on the bed, which Vinai Kumar claimed to be his. It contained 23,000 rupees, which he stated belonged to him. On counting, the amount was confirmed. Upon further questioning, he stated that the money had been brought to purchase heroin. He took out a packet from his pocket and handed it over, saying that it contained heroin. He also stated that the second packet was with Islam. Islam took out a packet from the left pocket of his trousers and gave it, stating that it contained heroin. Both packets were tested with the testing kit and both were confirmed to contain heroin. The packets were weighed separately. From Vinai Kumar's packet, 120 grams of heroin was found and from Islam's packet, 80 grams of heroin was found. Two samples of 5 grams each were taken from each of the two packets. All four samples and the remaining heroin in both packets were sealed separately. The packets and samples were signed and thumb-marked by the officers, witnesses and the accused persons. The seizure memo, Exhibit Ka-2, was written by S.I. R.D. Singh. It bears the signatures and thumb impressions of all the officers, witnesses and the accused persons. One copy each was given to both accused persons, on which their signatures and thumb impressions were taken. Exhibit Ka-2 is the same memo on which his signatures also appear. The statements of both accused persons were recorded by Shri Rajdhari Singh. Whatever the accused stated was written down, read over to them, and their signatures and thumb impressions were taken. Both accused were arrested. Until the samples and the heroin remained with them, no one was allowed to touch or tamper. On 01.03.1995, two samples-one of accused Vinai Kumar and one of accused Islam-were sent for examination to the Chemical Examiner, Government Opium Factory, Neemuch, Madhya Pradesh, through the letter, Exhibit Ka-9, which was typed under his direction; it is on record and bears his signature. The Chemical Examiner's Report is Exhibit Ka'10, which is also on record.

10. Independent Witness Manager Harishankar Agnihotri/PW-3 in examination-in-chief stated that on 27.02.1995, he was working as the Manager of Manisha Hotel. The accused-appellant Vinai Kumar was staying in Room No. 25 of his Hotel. On the same day, at about 12:00 noon, officers and staff of the Narcotics Department came to the hotel and inquired about Vinai Kumar. As per the register, they were informed about Room No. 25. He told them that Vinai was staying there. He, along with Sudhir Dixit, accompanied them to the Room. The door was knocked by them and Vinai Kumar opened the door. The officers asked his name. There was another person in the Room. They were told that their search would be conducted. They mutually searched each other and Vinai Kumar was searched. Vinai Kumar took out a packet from the pocket of his pants. It contained brownish substance. Some money was also recovered from the purse. He does not remember the exact amount, whether the amount was Rs. 23,000/- or Rs. 25,000/-. The material recovered from Vinai Kumar was weighed, and it might have been 120 grams, from which two samples were taken. The recovered material and samples were sealed. A partially typed carbon copy of the seizure memo was prepared on which his signatures exist. A written statement was also taken, what was spoken was written, and it was read over to the person. Exhibit K-6 was recorded, on which my signatures also appear. His signatures were also obtained on the seized material and samples. The document Exhibit K-12 contains his handwriting and signatures.

11. Malkhana Incharge P.K. Shah/PW-4 identified signature of R.A. Rai on order dated 19.05.1995 (Ex.Ka.12) and deposed that R.A. Rai was no more. He also proved site plan (Ex.Ka.12) and complaint (Ex.Ka.15).

12. Constable G.K. Mukherji/PW-5, in-charge of Malkhana, was also examined and he deposed that the four samples were sent by Rajdhari Singh/PW-1 in Malkhana and he proved photocopy of Malkhana Register (Ex.Ka.16).

13. Subhash Chandra Dubey/PW-6 proved photocopy of receipt of sample (Ex.Ka.17).

14. Shri Kunwar Sushant Prakash, learned counsel for the appellant, on the basis of written submissions, has submitted that the matter pertains to year 1995. Almost 30 years have passed and present age of the accused-appellant is about 72 years. It has been submitted that there is no compliance of Section 50 as well as Section 52A of NDPS Act. In the statement of Rajdhari Singh/PW-1, it is mentioned that after searching the room of the Hotel, the accused-appellant was given two options whether he wanted to be searched before Gazetted Officer or before the Police Party itself. The accused-appellant had opted to be searched before Police Party.

15. Learned counsel has further pointed out that at page 27 of the paper-book, Rajdhari Singh/PW-1 has stated that in the present case he did not obtain warrant from the Magistrate for the reason that a Gazetted Officer was present with him. He further deposed in cross-examination that the Gazetted Officers were always present with him. Therefore, there was no requirement to take any Magistrate. He further deposed before the Court that the accused-appellant was informed that Gazetted Officer was present with Raiding Party. When he was asked for search before Gazetted Officer or Magistrate, then the accused-appellant offered for search before Raiding Party. He further deposed that he did not write the fact that officer was present with him.

16. It has been further pointed out by learned counsel that from the statement of PW-1, it is admitted by prosecution witness that no information/application was given to the Magistrate, as per Section 52A of NDPS Act. The gazetted officer was present along with raiding party.

17. It has been further submitted that accused person was informed that Gazetted Officer is accompanying the Raiding Party, therefore, without taking separate consent from accused-appellant and without taking his consent in writing the search was conducted, which is a violation of Section 50 of the NDPS Act,

18. It has been further submitted by learned counsel that although it cannot be said by any stretch of imagination that prosecution complied with Section 50 of NDPS Act, but if for the sake of argument, if it's hypothetically presumed that prosecution did complied with the mandate of Section 50 of NDPS Act, even so, oral consent given by the accused-appellant was given in the impression that they were being searched in the presence of Gazetted Officer and actually, he was misled to give his consent before Gazetted Officer, who was part of the Raiding Party, cannot, as per the law, search the accused person.

19. Learned counsel has further invited attention of the Court towards page-38 of the paper book, the statement of S.C. Sarkar/PW-2, wherein he has stated that he is a Gazetted Officer. He deposed before the Court that he introduced himself as Gazetted Officer and told accused-appellant that he was informed that accused-appellant was in possession of the heroin. He asked him whether he wished to be searched either before the Magistrate or before the Gazetted Officer, on which he had said that the Raiding Party could search him.

20. Learned counsel has submitted that aforesaid deposition of PW-2 indicates that he was present as a part of the Raiding Team. It has been submitted that the accused was not told that it is his right to be searched in presence of Magistrate or Gazetted Officer other than the one who is leading the Raiding Party and as such, this violates the mandatory provisions of Section 50 of the NDPS Act, which requires that accused should be informed about his right in clear terms that he has right to be searched in presence of a Gazetted Officer other than one who is accompanying the Raiding Party.

21. Learned counsel has placed reliance on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in the case of Vijaysinh Chandubha Jadeja v. State of Gujarat, (2011) 1 SCC 609 and judgment of Calcutta High Court passed in the case of Mainul Haque v. Union of India, 2014 SCC OnLine Cal 18359.

22. Learned counsel has further pointed out that at page 46 of the paper-book, PW-2, who admitted that a personal search of the accused did take place and the same resulted in the recovery of contraband from the pocket of the accused. In his words "फैयाज़ ने तलाश ली थी पहले उसके बैग से 23000 रुपये बरामद हुआ और उसने बताया कि हेरोइन खरीदने के लिए लाया हूँ। हेरोइन की बरामदगी विनय कुमार की पैंट की दहिनी जेब से हुई बरामदशुदा हेरोइन का वजन फैयाज के किया था 120 ग्राम विनय कुमार से तथा 80 ग्राम इस्लाम से हुई बरामद हुयी".

23. Learned counsel has further submitted that aforesaid admission of PW-2 indicates that the search of the accused-appellant was done prior to recovery. PW-3, Hari Shankar Agnihotri, the Manager of Manisha hotel, had nowhere stated about compliance of Sections 50 and 52A of the NDPS Act. However, at page 48 of the paper-book, he has stated in the cross-examination that the personal search of the accused-appellant had taken place.

24. It has further been submitted that after taking into consideration the statements of PW-2 and PW-3, it is apparent that personal search of the accused-appellant had taken place. Thus, there is violation of Section 50 of the NDPS Act.

25. By pointing page 86 of the paper book, learned counsel has submitted that recovered contraband produced in the Court was different from the one which was allegedly recovered from the accused and the aforesaid discrepancy was unrebutted by prosecution. Had the prosecution complied with the provisions of Section 52A of the NDPS Act, such discrepancies would have been avoided.

26. Learned counsel has relied on the judgment of Honorable Supreme Court, passed in the case of Ranjan Kumar Chadha v. State of H.P., 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1262. Reliance has also been placed on paragraph 44 the judgment of Delhi High Court in Dharambir v. State, 2018 SCC OnLine Del 12305.

27. To support his argument with regard to Section 52A of the NDPS Act, he has relied on the judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in Yusuf v. State, (2024) 14 SCC 217 : 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1328 and Mangilal v. State of M.P., (2023) 19 SCC 364 : 2023 SCC OnLine SC 862.

28. Per Contra, Sri S.M. Singh Royekwar, learned Counsel for the Union of India/Central Bureau of Narcotics, on the basis of written submissions, has submitted that in the present case, the contraband was handed over by the accused-appellant himself from the right pocket of his pant to the Raiding Team during general questioning by the members of the Raiding Team at the time of raid.

29. It has been further submitted that the contraband was not recovered as a result of body search of the accused-appellant, rather he himself has handed over the contraband substance to the Raiding Team. It was also not recovered from any other container which was in the possession of the accused-appellant. Hence, rigors of Section of 50 of NDPS Act would not be applicable in the present case.

30. It has been further submitted that from reading of the various judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, though they deal with different facts and situations regarding recovery unlike the case in hand. The only safe and sure proposition is deduced that in case of voluntary handing over or surrendering of the contraband by the accused-appellant to the prosecution team, Section 50 of NDPS Act would not get attracted.

31. He has relied upon paragraphs 110 to 121 passed in Ranjan Kumar Chadha (Supra).

32. It has been further submitted that factum of recovery as a result of appellant's own voluntary act of surrendering/handing over of the contraband to the Raiding Team has been proved by the prosecution witnesses. Statements of PW-1 (examination-in-chief at page nos. 17 of the paper book), PW-2 (examination-in-chief at page no. 40 of the paper book) and PW-3 (examination-in-chief at page no. 48 of the paper book).

33. It has been further submitted that during cross-examination also, no material contradiction in the testimony of the said prosecution witnesses could be elicited by the defence during trial. Minor variation in the narration of the facts in the oral testimonies of a few prosecution witnesses namely PW-2 (cross-examination at page no. 46 of the paper book) makes no serious dent to the prosecution story. PW-1 and PW-3 remained thoroughly intact during their cross-examination also.

34. It has been further submitted that no suggestion has been made to the said prosecution witnesses by the Defence, either in this behalf.

35. It has been further submitted that even if it is assumed that the contraband was not voluntarily handed over by the accused-appellant, even then since the recovery has been made from closed confines of the Hotel Room in which the accused-appellant was present as per his own statement recorded under Section 313 CrPC and as per Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, the onus lies upon the accused-appellant to explain the recovery from his possession, which has not been discharged by him in the case in hand.

36. It has been further submitted that Physical evidence of recovered contraband (Ex.1) has been proved by the prosecution witnesses PW-1 & PW-2 by exhibiting the same during trial. During cross-examination, neither any question was put nor any suggestion was made by the defence to such prosecution witnesses as regards change of colour of the contraband. At no place in the testimony of the said witnesses, as available in the paper book, any mention has been made in this behalf.

37. The chemical examination report (Ext.Ka.10) is admissible in evidence under Section 293 CrPC, which has been proved by PW-1 (examination-in-chief at page no.22 of the paper book) and PW-2 (examination-in-chief at page no.42 of the paper book) also. As per chemical examination report, the recovered contraband was heroin. During the trial proceedings, the defence did not seek to summon the author of the chemical examination report and question him as regards the change of colour of the contraband.

38. The accused-appellant has also not questioned the chain of safe custody of the contraband in any manner. Complete chain of safe custody of the contraband right from the stage of seizure till production in the court during trial has been duly established by the prosecution witnesses i.e. PW-1 in his oral testimony (examination-in-chief at page no. 21 of the paper book) and PW-5 (examination-in-chief at page no. 54 of the paper book).

39. It has been further submitted that the provisions of Section 52-A NDPS Act, in the manner as projected by the counsel for the accused-appellant, would not get attracted while drawing samples at the time of seizure of the contraband. The sampling for the purposes of chemical examination of the contraband was done in accordance with the procedure as prescribed in Standing Instructions No.1/88, as prevalent at the time of recovery.

40. The requirement, as prescribed in Section 52-A(2) of NDPS Act, with regard to drawing of samples or making inventory of recovered contraband or taking photographs of the contraband and issuance of certificate to the same effect by the Magistrate concerned will get attracted only for the purposes of disposal of the contraband. After the physical evidence is disposed of and not produced as primary physical evidence, as per Section 52-A(4). The said compliance as provided in Section 52-A (2) may serve as primary evidence.

41. He has relied on the paragraphs 33 and 38 to 43 of judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in the case of Bharat Aambale Vs State of Chhattisgarh: 2025 SCC OnLine SC 110 : (2025) 8 SCC 452.

42. He has further submitted that in the present case, the primary evidence recovered contraband (Heroin) in physical form was produced before the Court during trial and proved by the prosecution witnesses namely PW-1 (examination-in-chief at page no. 36 of the paper book) and PW-2 (examination-in-chief at page no. 43 of the paper book). Hence, there is no occasion for compliance of Section 52-A of NDPS Act.

43. He has lastly submitted that the judgment and order under appeal requires no interference by this Court and the appeal preferred by the accused-appellant deserves to be dismissed.

44. I have heard learned counsel for the contesting parties and have perused the records.

45. It would be apt to discuss first the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the parties.

46. In Paragraph 66 of the judgment passed in the case of Ranjan Kumar Chadha (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has delineated ten requirements envisaged by Section 50 of NDPS Act. Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that Section 50 is a mandatory provision, which is a right of the person as well as obligation for the prosecution. Where, the person to be searched declines to exercise this right, the police officer shall be free to proceed with the search. However, if the suspect declines to exercise his right of being searched before a Gazetted Officer or Magistrate. While informing the right, only two options of either being searched in presence of a Gazetted Officer or Magistrate must be given, who also must be independent and in no way connected to the Raiding Party.

47. Relevant extract of the report is as under :-

“66. From the aforesaid discussion, the requirements envisaged by Section 50 can be summarised as follows:-

(i) Section 50 provides both a right as well as an obligation. The person about to be searched has the right to have his search conducted in the presence of a Gazetted Officer or Magistrate if he so desires, and it is the obligation of the police officer to inform such person of this right before proceeding to search the person of the suspect.

(ii) Where, the person to be searched declines to exercise this right, the police officer shall be free to proceed with the search. However, if the suspect declines to exercise his right of being searched before a Gazetted Officer or Magistrate, the empowered officer should take it in writing from the suspect that he would not like to exercise his right of being searched before a Gazetted Officer or Magistrate and he may be searched by the empowered officer.

(iii) Before conducting a search, it must be communicated in clear terms though it need not be in writing and is permissible to convey orally, that the suspect has a right of being searched by a Gazetted Officer or Magistrate.

(iv) While informing the right, only two options of either being searched in presence of a Gazetted Officer or Magistrate must be given, who also must be independent and in no way connected to the raiding party.

(v) In case of multiple persons to be searched, each of them has to be individually communicated of their right, and each must exercise or waive the same in their own capacity. Any joint or common communication of this right would be in violation of Section 50.

(vi) Where the right under Section 50 has been exercised, it is the choice of the police officer to decide whether to take the suspect before a Gazetted Officer or Magistrate but an endeavour should be made to take him before the nearest Magistrate.

(vii) Section 50 is applicable only in case of search of person of the suspect under the provisions of the NDPS Act, and would have no application where a search was conducted under any other statute in respect of any offence.

(viii) Where during a search under any statute other than the NDPS Act, a contraband under the NDPS Act also happens to be recovered, the provisions relating to the NDPS Act shall forthwith start applying, although in such a situation Section 50 may not be required to be complied for the reason that search had already been conducted.

(ix) The burden is on the prosecution to establish that the obligation imposed by Section 50 was duly complied with before the search was conducted.

(x) Any incriminating contraband, possession of which is punishable under the NDPS Act and recovered in violation of Section 50 would be inadmissible and cannot be relied upon in the trial by the prosecution, however, it will not vitiate the trial in respect of the same. Any other article that has been recovered may be relied upon in any other independent proceedings."

48. In Ranjan Kumar Chadha (Supra), it is held that Section 50 would not apply if nothing incriminating is recovered from the person of the accused. In the same judgment, Hon'ble Supreme Court has drawn distinction where it is held that upon conducting the search of the bag, opium was recovered and the Court acknowledged the divergent views and noted that the decision of SK. Raju @

Abdul Haque @ Jagga Vs. State of West Bengal, (2018) 9 SCC 708 was not considered while deciding State of Punjab Vs. Baljinder Singh (2019) 10 SCC 473. In the case of Kallu Khan v. State of Rajasthan, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 1223, wherein the search and seizure was made from the accused's motorcycle. The Court while holding that the search cannot be said to be vitiated on account of non-compliance of Section 50 as the same only applies to a search of a person.

49. Relevant paragraphs relied upon by learned counsel for CBN are quoted herein-under:-

110. However, it is pertinent to note that although Pawan Kumar (supra) has been referred to and considered in SK. Raju (supra) yet, the Court in SK. Raju (supra) overlooked the fact that in Pawan Kumar (supra) also the search was not only of the person of the accused but also of his bag. Even in such circumstances, the larger Bench in Pawan Kumar (supra) took the view that Section 50 would not apply if nothing incriminating is recovered from the person of the accused. Thus, there is an apparent conflict between the two decisions.

Section 50 not applicable when recovery made from bag, conveyance, etc.

111. A three-Judge Bench in the State of Punjab v. Baljinder Singh, (2019) 10 SCC 473 considered the question:-

"8.

If a person found to be in possession of a vehicle containing contraband is subjected to personal search, which may not be in conformity with the requirements under Section 50 of the Act; but the search of the vehicle results in recovery of contraband material, which stands proved independently; would the accused be entitled to benefit of acquittal on the ground of non-compliance of Section 50 of the Act even in respect of material found in the search of the vehicle? "

112. In the aforesaid case, poppy husk was recovered from the accused's vehicle. This Court, while explaining the object of Section 50 and relying on the Constitution Bench judgment in Vijaysinh Chandubha Jadeja (supra), held that:-

"10. Section 50 of the Act affords protection to a person in matters concerning "personal search" and stipulates various safeguards. It is only upon fulfilment of and strict adherence to said requirements that the contraband recovered pursuant to "personal search" of a person can be relied upon as a circumstance against the person.

Xxx

12. Subsequently, another Constitution Bench of this Court in Vijaysinh Chandubha Jadeja v. State of Gujarat, had an occasion to consider the case from the standpoint whether the person who is about to be searched ought to be informed of his right that he could be searched in the presence of a gazetted officer or a Magistrate. While considering the said question, this Court also dealt with the judgment rendered in Baldev Singh's case and the discussion in paragraphs 24 and 29 was as under:

"24. Although the Constitution Bench in Baldev Singh case [(1999) 6 SCC 172] did not decide in absolute terms the question whether or not Section 50 of the NDPS Act was directory or mandatory yet it was held that provisions of sub-section (1) of Section 50 make it imperative for the empowered officer to "inform" the person concerned (suspect) about the existence of his right that if he so requires, he shall be searched before a gazetted officer or a Magistrate; failure to "inform" the suspect about the existence of his said right would cause prejudice to him, and in case he so opts, failure to conduct his search before a gazetted officer or a Magistrate, may not vitiate the trial but would render the recovery of the illicit article suspect and vitiate the conviction and sentence of an accused, where the conviction has been recorded only on the basis of the possession of the illicit article, recovered from the person during a search conducted in violation of the provisions of Section 50 of the NDPS Act. The Court also noted that it was not necessary that the information required to be given under Section 50 should be in a prescribed form or in writing but it was mandatory that the suspect was made aware of the existence of his right to be searched before a gazetted officer or a Magistrate, if so required by him. We respectfully concur with these conclusions. Any other interpretation of the provision would make the valuable right conferred on the suspect illusory and a farce.

Xxx

29. In view of the foregoing discussion, we are of the firm opinion that the object with which the right under Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act, by way of a safeguard, has been conferred on the suspect viz. to check the misuse of power, to avoid harm to innocent persons and to minimise the allegations of planting or foisting of false cases by the law enforcement agencies, it would be imperative on the part of the empowered officer to apprise the person intended to be searched of his right to be searched before a gazetted officer or a Magistrate. We have no hesitation in holding that insofar as the obligation of the authorised officer under sub-section (1) of Section 50 of the NDPS Act is concerned, it is mandatory and requires strict compliance. Failure to comply with the provision would render the recovery of the illicit article suspect and vitiate the conviction if the same is recorded only on the basis of the recovery of the illicit article from the person of the accused during such search. Thereafter, the suspect may or may not choose to exercise the right provided to him under the said provision."

(Emphasis supplied)

113. The Court went on to hold that Section 50 would be applicable only to the personal searches and not to the searches of vehicles or bags. This was in line with the ratio laid down in Pawan Kumar (supra) and Baldev Singh (supra). This Court held that:-

"15. As regards applicability of the requirements under Section 50 of the Act are concerned, it is well settled that the mandate of Section 50 of the Act is confined to "personal search" and not to search of a vehicle or a container or premises.

16. The conclusion (3) as recorded by the Constitution Bench in Para 57 of its judgment in Baldev Singh clearly states that the conviction may not be based "only" on the basis of possession of an illicit article recovered from personal search in violation of the requirements under Section 50 of the Act but if there be other evidence on record, such material can certainly be looked into.

17. In the instant case, the personal search of the accused did not result in recovery of any contraband. Even if there was any such recovery, the same could not be relied upon for want of compliance of the requirements of Section 50 of the Act. But the search of the vehicle and recovery of contraband pursuant thereto having stood proved, merely because there was non-compliance of Section 50 of the Act as far as "personal search" was concerned, no benefit can be extended so as to invalidate the effect of recovery from the search of the vehicle. Any such idea would be directly in the teeth of conclusion (3) as aforesaid."

(Emphasis supplied)

114. It is pertinent to note here that in Baljinder Singh (supra) the decision of SK. Raju (supra) was not looked into, however, the decision in the case of Dilip (supra) was considered and held to be not laying down the correct law on the ground that it did not consider the decision of Baldev Singh (supra). This Court held that:-

"18. The decision of this Court in Dilip's case, however, has not adverted to the distinction as discussed hereinabove and proceeded to confer advantage upon the accused even in respect of recovery from the vehicle, on the ground that the requirements of Section 50 relating to personal search were not complied with. In our view, the decision of this Court in said judgment in Dilip's case is not correct and is opposed to the law laid down by this Court in Baldev Singh judgments."

Settling the conflict between SK. Raju and Baljinder Singh

115. The High Court of Delhi in Akhilesh Bharti v. State, 2020 SCC OnLine

Del 306 : (2020) 266 DLT 689, had the occasion to look into the cleavage of opinion expressed in Baljinder Singh (supra) and SK. Raju (supra). The High Court therein, noted the thin line of distinction drawn by SK. Raju (supra) where the contraband is recovered from an object which is held by the accused in his hand. In such a situation the High Court held that even if nothing is recovered from the person, Section 50 ought to be complied with. The High Court held as under:

26. It is essential to observe that vide the verdict of the Hon'ble three Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court dated 05.09.2018 in "SK. Raju alias Abdul Haque alias Jagga v. State of West Bengal" (2018) 9 SCC 708, it has specifically been observed to the effect that where merely a bag carried by a person is searched without there being any search of his person, Section 50 of the NDPS Act, 1985 will have no application but if the personal search of the accused is also conducted, the provisions of Section 50 of the NDPS Act, 1985 would wholly apply. The verdict of the Hon'ble Supreme Court dated 15.10.2019 in "State of Punjab v. Baljinder Singh" is also a verdict of the Hon'ble three Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in which the personal search of the accused did not result into recovery of any contraband but there was a recovery of contraband effected from the vehicle in which the accused persons were seated with one of them being the driver. Though, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in "State of Punjab v. Baljinder Singh" (supra) has observed to the effect that the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dilip's case is not correct and is opposed to the decision to the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Baldev Singh's judgments, the observations in the verdict of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in "S.K. Raju alia Abdul Haque alias Jagga v. State of West Bengal" (supra) dated 05.09.2018 (which are not adverted to in "State of Punjab v. Baljinder Singh" (supra) dated 15.10.2019) lay down a fine distinction and in these circumstances thus, where the contraband is recovered from an object which is held by an accused in his hand and the search of the person of such an accused is also conducted which lead to no recovery of any contraband, though, there are recoveries of other personal assets of a person from his personal search, in view of the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in "SK. Raju alia Abdul Haque alias Jagga v. State of West Bengal" (supra), the non compliance of Section 50 of the NDPS Act, 1985 would prima facie vitiate the recovery."

116. Akhilesh Bharti (supra) referred to above was considered by a co-ordinate Bench of the Delhi High Court in Kamruddin v. State (NCT of Delhi), 2022 SCC OnLine Del 3761, and held as under:-

23. In the decision of S.K. Raju (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has clearly held that since the search of the person of the appellant therein was also involved, therefore, Section 50 of the NDPS Act would be attracted in that case and accordingly the requirement of Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act was insisted.

24. So far as the decision relied upon by learned APP for the state in the case of State of HP v. Pawan Kumar is concerned, it is to be stated that in paragraph No. 17 of the decision in the case of S.K. Raju (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court has taken note of the decision in the case of Pawan Kumar (supra). The distinction between the two situations has been considered and if a bag, article or container etc. being carried by an accused is subjected to search independently without there being any search of the person of the appellant, the decision in the case of Pawan Kumar (supra) would have application. However, in a case where the person of accused is subjected to search along with the search of bag, article or container which he holds in his hand, there is requirement of compliance of Section 50 of the NDPS Act. "

(Emphasis supplied)

117. It appears that the Delhi High Court laboured under an erroneous impression that in Pawan Kumar (supra) the search was only of the bag and not of the accused. However, at the cost of repetition, we state that in Pawan Kumar (supra) the search was of both the accused as well as the bag which he was carrying. This is evident from para 2 of the judgment in Pawan Kumar (supra) wherein it has been observed as under:-

"2. ... A search of the accused and the bag being carried by him was then conducted and 360 gm of opium wrapped in polythene was found inside the bag..."

(Emphasis supplied)

118. In Than Kunwar v. State of Haryana, (2020) 5 SCC 260, this Court took a different view. In the said case, the personal search of the accused did not lead to any recovery. However, upon conducting the search of the bag, opium was recovered. This Court acknowledged the divergent views and noted that the decision of SK. Raju (supra) was not considered while deciding Baljinder Singh (supra). However, the latter was applied and was read to be in line with Baldev Singh (supra). It was held that:-

"22. Having regard to the judgment by the three-Judge Bench, which directly dealt with this issue, viz., the correctness of the view in Dilip (supra) reliance placed by the appellant on para 16 may not be available. As already noticed, we are not oblivious of the observation which has been made in the other three-Judge Bench judgment of this Court in SK. Raju (supra), which it appears, was not brought to the notice to the Bench which decided the case later in Baljinder Singh (supra). We notice however that the later decision draws inspiration from the Constitution Bench decision in Baldev Singh (supra). We also notice that this is not a case where anything was recovered on the alleged personal search. The recovery was effected from the bag for which it is settled law that compliance with Section 50 of the Act is not required. "

119. Baljinder Singh (supra) was followed by this Court in Kallu Khan v. State of Rajasthan, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 1223, wherein the search and seizure was made from the accused's motorcycle. This Court while holding that the search cannot be said to be vitiated on account of non-compliance of Section 50 as the same only applies to a search of a person, held as under:-

"15. Simultaneously, the arguments advanced by the appellant regarding non-compliance of Section 50 of NDPS Act is bereft of any merit because no recovery of contraband from the person of the accused has been made to which compliance of the provision of Section 50 NDPS Act has to follow mandatorily. In the present case, in the search of motor cycle at public place, the seizure of contraband was made, as revealed. Therefore, compliance of Section 50 does not attract in the present case. It is settled in the case of Vijaysinh (supra) that in the case of personal search only, the provisions of Section 50 of the Act is required to be complied with but not in the case of vehicle as in the present case, following the judgments of Surinder Kumar (supra) and Baljinder Singh (supra). Considering the facts of this case, the argument of non-compliance of Section 50 of NDPS Act advanced by the counsel is hereby repelled."

120. Similarly, in a recent judgment, this Court in Dayalu Kashyap v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2022) 12 SCC 398, held that an extended view of Section 50 cannot be given to include a polythene bag containing narcotics being carried by the accused. This Court rejected the argument that as three options were given to the accused to get himself searched from the officer which was in violation of Section 50, the search conducted, even of the polythene bag, ought to be vitiated. It was held as under:-

"4. The learned counsel submits that the option given to the appellant to take a third choice other than what is prescribed as the two choices under sub-section (1) of Section 50 of the Act is something which goes contrary to the mandate of the law and in a way affects the protection provided by the said section to the accused. To support his contention, he has relied upon the judgment of State of Rajasthan v. Parmanand [State of Rajasthan v. Parmanand, (2014) 5 SCC 345], more specifically, SCC para 19. The judgment in turn, relied upon a Constitution Bench judgment of this Court in State of Punjab v. Baldev Singh [State of Punjab v. Baldev Singh, (1999) 6 SCC 172] to conclude that if a search is made by an empowered officer on prior information without informing the person of his right that he has to be taken before a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate for search and in case he so opts, failure to take his search accordingly would render the recovery of the illicit article suspicious and vitiate the conviction and sentence of the accused where the conviction has been recorded only on the basis of possession of illicit articles recovered from his person. The third option stated to be given to the accused to get himself searched from the Officer concerned not being part of the statute, the same could not have been offered to the appellant and thus, the recovery from him is vitiated.

5. In the conspectus of the facts of the case, we find that the recovery was in a polythene bag which was being carried on a kanwad. The recovery was not in person. The learned counsel seeks to expand the scope of the observations made by seeking to contend that if the personal search is vitiated by violation of Section 50 of the NDPS Act, the recovery made otherwise also would stand vitiated and thus, cannot be relied upon. We cannot give such an extended view as is sought to be contended by the learned counsel for the appellant."

FINAL ANALYSIS

121. The only idea with which we have referred to the various decisions of this Court starting with Balbir Singh (supra) till Dayalu Kashyap (supra) is to highlight that Section 50 of the NDPS Act has been tried to be interpreted and understood in many ways. As noted earlier, in some of the decisions of this Court, the concept of "inextricably linked to person" was applied. In other words, if the bag, etc. is in immediate possession of the accused and the search is undertaken of such bag, etc., even then, according to those decisions, Section 50 would be applicable. It could legitimately be argued that the interpretation of Section 50 restricting its scope only to the search of a person of the accused would frustrate the object as the apprehension of the person concerned may continue to subsist that he may still be implicated by the police or any other person for more stringent punishment of carrying commercial quantity by getting rid of the rigor of the mandatory provision of Section 50 by implanting the contraband in a vehicle, bag, etc. accompanying the person. What we are trying to convey has been explained in the case of State v. Klein [See : John C. Derrnbachet.al., A Practical Guide to Legal Writing and Legal Method (1994)]. In the said case, the issue before the U.S. Court was that whether a person can be held guilty for the offence of burglary more particularly when such person did not enter the house per se but tried to steal the object with the help of tree snips. The statute clearly declared that for burglary to happen, the defendant should be physically present. In this case, although the defendant never entered the house, yet he did extend his tree snips through the window. The Court held that, "there is no meaningful difference between the snips and his arm because the penetration by the snips was merely an extension of Klein's person." Therefore, in the said case, the object which a person was carrying was held to be part of his body. A similar view could also have been adopted while interpreting the term "personal search". However, in view of plain and unambiguous statutory provision, there is no scope of interpreting Section 50 in any other manner than the interpretation explained in Baldev Singh (supra) and Pawan Kumar (supra)."

50. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Yusuf (Supra) has held that it is manifest from Section 52 of NDPS Act that upon seizure of the contraband, it has to be forwarded either to the officer-in-charge of the nearest police station or to the officer empowered under Section 53 who is obliged to prepare an inventory of the seized contraband and then to make an application to the Magistrate for the purposes of getting its correctness certified. It has been further laid down that the samples drawn in the presence of the Magistrate and the list thereof on being certified alone would constitute primary evidence for the purposes of the trial.

51. Relevant extract of the report is extracted herein-under :-

"13. It is an admitted position on record that the samples from the seized substance were drawn by the police in the presence of the gazetted officer and not in the presence of the Magistrate. There is no material on record to prove that the Magistrate had certified the inventory of the substance seized or of the list of samples so drawn.

14. In Mohanlal [Union of India v. Mohanlal], (2016) 3 SCC 379 : (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 864 case, the Supreme Court while dealing with Section 52-A of the NDPS Act clearly laid down that it is manifest from the said provision that upon seizure of the contraband, it has to be forwarded either to the officer-in-charge of the nearest police station or to the officer empowered under Section 53 who is obliged to prepare an inventory of the seized contraband and then to make an application to the Magistrate for the purposes of getting its correctness certified. It has been further laid down that the samples drawn in the presence of the Magistrate and the list thereof on being certified alone would constitute primary evidence for the purposes of the trial.

15. In the absence of any material on record to establish that the samples of the seized contraband were drawn in the presence of the Magistrate and that the inventory of the seized contraband was duly certified by the Magistrate, it is apparent that the said seized contraband and the samples drawn therefrom would not be a valid piece of primary evidence in the trial. Once there is no primary evidence available, the trial as a whole stands vitiated."

52. In the case of Arif Khan v. State of Uttarakhand, (2018) 18 SCC 380 : (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 176, Hon'ble Supreme Court has recorded the finding that a search and recovery made from the appellant of the alleged contraband "charas" does not satisfy the mandatory requirements of Section 50.

"23. It is the case of the prosecution and which found acceptance by the two courts below that since the appellant-accused was apprised of his right to be searched in the presence of either a Magistrate or a gazetted officer but despite telling him about his legal right available to him under Section 50 in relation to the search, the appellant-accused gave his consent in writing to be searched by the police officials (raiding party), the two courts below came to a conclusion that the requirements of Section 50 stood fully complied with and hence the appellant was liable to be convicted for the offence punishable under the NDPS Act.

24. We do not agree to this finding of the two courts below as, in our opinion, a search and recovery made from the appellant of the alleged contraband "charas" does not satisfy the mandatory requirements of Section 50 as held by this Court in Vijaysinh Chandubha Jadeja [Vijaysinh Chandubha Jadeja v. State of Gujarat, (2011) 1 SCC 609 : (2011) 1 SCC (Cri) 497] . This we say for the following reasons:

24.1. First, it is an admitted fact emerging from the record of the case that the appellant was not produced before any Magistrate or gazetted officer.

24.2. Second, it is also an admitted fact that due to the aforementioned first reason, the search and recovery of the contraband "charas" was not made from the appellant in the presence of any Magistrate or gazetted officer.

24.3. Third, it is also an admitted fact that none of the police officials of the raiding party, who recovered the contraband "charas" from him, was the gazetted officer and nor they could be and, therefore, they were not empowered to make search and recovery from the appellant of the contraband "charas" as provided under Section 50 of the NDPS Act except in the presence of either a Magistrate or a gazetted officer.

24.4. Fourth, in order to make the search and recovery of the contraband articles from the body of the suspect, the search and recovery has to be in conformity with the requirements of Section 50 of the NDPS Act. It is, therefore, mandatory for the prosecution to prove that the search and recovery was made from the appellant in the presence of a Magistrate or a gazetted officer."

53. In the case Mangilal (Supra), Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that Subsection (2) of Section 52-A of the NDPS Act mandates a competent officer to prepare an inventory of such narcotic drugs with adequate particulars and this provision has been inserted in NDPS Act just to provide fair play in the process of investigation. It is mandatory rule, as envisaged in Section 52A of NDPS Act which requires the physical presence of a Magistrate followed by an order facilitating his approval either for certifying an inventory or for a photograph taken, apart from list of samples drawn.

54. Relevant extract of the report is herein-under :-

“5.Sub-section (2) of Section 52-A of the NDPS Act mandates a competent officer to prepare an inventory of such narcotic drugs with adequate particulars. This has to be followed through an appropriate application to the Magistrate concerned for the purpose of certifying the correctness of inventory, taking relevant photographs in his presence and certifying them as true or taking drawal of samples in his presence with due certification. Such an application can be filed for anyone of the aforesaid three purposes. The objective behind this provision is to have an element of supervision by the Magistrate over the disposal of seized contraband. Such inventories, photographs and list of samples drawn with certification by Magistrates would constitute as a primary evidence. Therefore, when there is non-compliance of Section 52-A of the NDPS Act, where a certification of a Magistrate is lacking, any inventory, photograph or list of samples would not constitute primary evidence.

6.The obvious reason behind this provision is to inject fair play in the process of investigation. Section 52-A of the NDPS Act is a mandatory rule of evidence which requires the physical presence of a Magistrate followed by an order facilitating his approval either for certifying an inventory or for a photograph taken, apart from list of samples drawn.

7.In due compliance of Section 52-A(1) of the NDPS Act the Ministry of Finance (Department of Revenue) issued Notification No. G.S.R. 339(E) dated 10-5-2007 which furnishes an exhaustive manner and mode of disposal of drugs ending with a certificate of destruction:

4.Manner of disposal.-(1) Where any narcotic drug or psychotropic substances has been seized and forwarded to the officer-in-charge of the nearest police station or to the officer empowered under Section 53, of the Act, or if it is seized by such an officer himself, he shall prepare an inventory of such narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances as per Annexure 1 to this notification and apply to any Magistrate under sub-section (2) of Section 52-A as per Annexure 2 to this notification.

(2) After the Magistrate allows the application under sub-section (3) of Section 52-A, the officer mentioned in clause (1) above shall preserve the certified inventory, photographs and samples drawn in the presence of the Magistrate as primary evidence for the case and submit details of the drug consignments to the Chairman of the Drug Disposal Committee for a decision by the committee on the disposal. The officer shall send a copy of the details along with the drug consignments to the officer-in-charge of the godown.

4.2.Mode of disposal of drugs.-

(i) Opium, morphine, codeine and thebaine shall be disposed of by transferring to the Government Opium and Alkaloid Works under the Chief Controller of Factories.

(ii) In case of drugs other than the drugs mentioned in clause (i), the Chief Controller of Factories shall be intimated by the fastest means of communication available, details of drug consignments that are ready for disposal.

(iii) The Chief Controller of Factories shall indicate within 15 days of the date of receipt of the communication, the quantities of drugs, if any, that are required by him to supply as samples under Rule 67-B.

(iv) Such quantities of drugs, if any, as required by the Chief Controller of Factories under clause (iii) shall be transferred to him and the remaining quantities of drugs shall be destroyed as per the procedure outlined in Para 4.1.2.

(v) Destruction shall be by incineration in incinerators fitted with appropriate air pollution control devices, which comply with emission standards. Such incineration may only be done in places where adequate facilities and security arrangements exist. In order to ensure that such incineration may not be a health hazard or polluting, consent of the State Pollution Control Board or Pollution Control Committee, as the case may be, should be obtained. Destruction shall be carried out at the presence of the Members of the Drug Disposal Committee.

4.4. Certificate of destruction.-A certificate of destruction (in triplicate) containing all the relevant data like godown entry number, gross and net weight of the drugs seized, etc. shall be prepared and signed by the Chairman and members of the Drug Disposal Committee as per format at Annexure 3. The original copy shall be pasted in the godown register after making necessary entries to this effect, the duplicate to be retained in the seizure case file and the triplicate copy will be kept by the Drug Disposal Committee. Details of disposal of drugs shall be reported to the Narcotics Control Bureau in the Monthly Master Reports. "

55. Calcutta High Court in the case of Ishdan Seikh v. Union of India, 2022 SCC OnLine Cal 1545 has made observation that a Gazetted Officer who had proceeded to the place of occurrence after entertaining reasonable belief that the accused persons may be carrying narcotic substance cannot be said to be an independent person.

56. Relevant paras are extracted herein-under :-

14. The next question which arises is whether offer made by NCB officers to the appellants that they have a right to be searched before a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer or a Gazetted Officer, who is a member of the raiding party is in consonance with the statutory requirements of Section 50 or not.

15. In State of Rajasthan v. Parmanand (supra), negating the argument on behalf of the prosecution that an offer to be searched before the nearest Magistrate or Gazetted Officer or a Gazetted Officer of the raiding party is a valid compliance of Section 50 of the NDPS Act, the Court held as follows:-

"19. We also notice that PW10 SI Qureshi informed the respondents that they could be searched before the nearest Magistrate or before the nearest Gazetted Officer or before PW5 J.S. Negi, the Superintendent, who was a part of the raiding party. It is the prosecution case that the respondents informed the officers that they would like to be searched before PW5, J.S. Negi by PW10 SI Qureshi. This, in our opinion, is again a breach of Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act. The idea behind taking an accused to the Magistrate or the nearest Gazetted Officer, if he so requires, is to give him a chance of being searched in the presence of an independent officer. Therefore, it was improper for PW10 SI Qureshi to tell the respondents that a third alternative was available and that they could be searched before PW5 J.S. Negi, the Superintendent who was part of the raiding party. PW5 J.S. Negi cannot be called an independent officer. We are not expressing any opinion on the question whether if the respondents had voluntarily expressed that they wanted to be searched before PW5 J.S. Negi, the search would have been vitiated or not. But PW10 SI Qureshi could not have given a third opinion to the respondents when Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act does not provide for it and when such opinion would frustrate the provisions of Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act. On this ground also, in our opinion, the search conducted by PW10 SI Qureshi is vitiated."

16. In the present case, the appellants were misled by the incorrect offer given to them that they could be searched by a Gazetted Officer who is a member of the raiding party. A Gazetted Officer who had proceeded to the place of occurrence after entertaining reasonable belief that the accused persons may be carrying narcotic substance cannot be said to be an independent person before whom the law contemplates a search. In this backdrop, acceptance of the offer by the appellants to be searched before an officer who is a member of the raiding party cannot be said to be a voluntary expression of their desire to be searched before such officer. There is a clear misdirection in law in the offer given to the appellants and accordingly they were misled to agree to a search before an officer who was a member of the raiding party. By no stretch of imagination, such acknowledgment on their part can be said to be a voluntary relinquishment of the right enshrined under Section 50 of the NDPS Act.

17. Crux of the safeguard enshrined in Section 50 of the NDPS Act is that an accused should be made aware of his right to be brought before a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer prior to a personal search. Such offer may be oral or in writing but the terms of the offer must be clear, unequivocal and not create confusion in the mind of an accused with regard to the lawful requirements prior to the search in any manner whatsoever."

57. Calcutta High Court in the case of Mainul Haque (Supra) has held that Section 50 of NDPS Act is mandatory provision and a person is to be searched by an officer duly authorized under Section 42 of the Act the search must be carried out in the presence of a Gazetted Officer. The Court deprecated this practice that the appellant had produced the contraband when the Raiding Party intercepted the accused along with contraband then the officers could not have been aware that the accused would voluntarily produce the heroin from his possession.

58. Relevant paras are extracted herein-under :-

"20. It is crystal clear that the offer letter and acceptance letter of the accused persons were written by the raiding officer. Thereafter search took place. Therefore, compliance of Section 50 is very much required. It cannot be accepted that the accused voluntarily handed over the heroin. Therefore as per Section 50 of the NDPS Act it is mandatory that when a person is to be searched by an officer duly authorised under Section 42 of the Act the search must be carried out in the presence of a gazetted officer of the Central Exise, Narcotics, Customs, Revenue, Intelligence or any other departments of the Central Government including Para Military Forces or Armed Forces as empowered in that behalf or by nearest Magistrate. There are catena of Hon'ble Supreme Court Judgments where it has been held that the provisions of Section 50 of the NDPS Act are mandatory. However, they would be applicable only when the search is carried out of individual.

21. The submission of Mr. Tushar Kanti Mukherjee that a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate was not required to be present when the appellants were searched because they voluntarily produced the contraband, is untenable. When the raiding party set out to intercept the appellants and to seize the heroin on the receipt of the information, the officers could not have been aware that the appellants would voluntarily produce the heroin from their possession. Obviously therefore, the search was required to be conducted in accordance with Section 50 of the NDPS Act. A Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate should have been present. P.W.3, a Gazetted Officer of the NCB, accompanied the raiding team. But his presence would not be in compliance of Section 50 of the Act. In the case of State of Rajasthan v. Paramanand reported in (2014) 5 SCC 345. The communication of the right of a person who is about to be searched under Section 50 of the NDPS Act is not an empty formality. Moreover, the mere presence of a Gazetted Officer in the raiding party would not be sufficient compliance of Section 50 of the Act. The provision under Section 50 of the Act, mandating the presence of either a Gazetted Officer or Magistrate when a body search is conducted, has been incorporated in order to ensure that an independent Gazetted Officer or Magistrate is available so that the raid, the search and the seizure are done in a completely transparent manner and to avoid the possibility of false implication. The evidence on record establishes that there is a breach of Section 50 of the Act in this case."

59. The case of Dharambir (Supra) is about the non-compliance of Section 50 of NDPS Act.

60. Relevant paras of the report are extracted herein-under:-

43. The law laid down in the above-extracted passages from Arif Khan (supra), needless to say, binds this Court under Article 14 of the Constitution of India, inter alia for the reason that the Supreme Court has chosen to rely on the earlier decision, of its own Constitution Bench, in Vijaysinh Chandubha Jadeja v. State of Gujarat, (2007) 1 SCC 433.

44. It is undisputed, in the present case, that the search of the appellant, and his car, were conducted by the raiding party, and not by the Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer. Neither were the appellant and his car produced before any Magistrate or Gazetted Officer. The plea, of the respondent, that, as the appellant had been apprised of his right to have himself, and his car, searched by the Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer, and he had himself agreed to be searched by the raiding party, the mandate of Section 50 stood fulfilled, though attractive, cannot sustain, as an identical plea, raised in similar facts, stands negated in Arif Khan (supra)."

61. Section 52-A has been extensively considered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bharat Aambale (Supra), wherein it is held that if there is procedural non-compliance of Section 52-A, it does not necessarily vitiate the trial and the case should be viewed in the context of overall evidence. If the prosecution can otherwise establish the chain of custody, corroborate the seizure with credible testimony, and prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, the mere non-compliance with Section 52-A may not be fatal.

62. Hon'ble Supreme Court has gone further to the extent by clarifying the scope and purport of Section 52-A sub-section (4) by observing that sub-section (4) of Section 52-A provides that every court trying an offence under the NDPS Act, shall treat the inventory, photographs and samples of the seized substance that have been certified by the Magistrate as primary evidence.

63. It is further observed that the primary evidence for proving possession will always be the seized substance itself. In order to mitigate the challenges in preservation of such substance till the duration of trial, due to pilferage, theft, degradation or any other related circumstances, the legislature consciously incorporated sub-section (4) in Section 52-A to bring even the inventory, photographs or samples of such seized substance on the same pedestal as the original substance, and by a deeming fiction has provided that the same be treated as primary evidence.

64. Relevant paragraphs of the report is extracted herein-under:-

33. Thus, from above it is clear that the procedure prescribed by the Standing Order(s)/Rules in terms of Section

52-A of the NDPS Act is only intended to guide the officers and to ensure that a fair procedure is adopted by the officer in charge of the investigation, and as such what is required is substantial compliance of the procedure laid therein.

33.1. We say so because, due to varying circumstances, there may be situations wherein it may not always be possible to forward the seized contraband immediately for the purpose of sampling. This could be due to various factors, such as the sheer volume of the contraband, the peculiar nature of the place of seizure, or owing to the volatility of the substance so seized that may warrant slow and safe handling. There could be situations where such contraband after being sampled cannot be preserved due to its hazardous nature and must be destroyed forthwith or vice-versa where the nature of the case demands that they are preserved and remain untouched. Due to such multitude of possibilities or situations, neither can the police be realistically expected to rigidly adhere to the procedure laid down in Section 52-A or its allied Rules/Orders, nor can a straitjacket formula be applied for insisting compliance of each procedure in a specified timeline to the letter, due to varying situations or requirements of each case.

33.2. Thus, what is actually required is only a substantial compliance of the procedure laid down under Section 52-A of the NDPS Act and the Standing Order(s)/Rules framed thereunder, and any discrepancy or deviation in the same may lead the court to draw an adverse inference against the police as per the facts of each and every case.

XXXXXX

38. Even in cases where there is non-compliance with the procedural requirements of Section 52-A, it does not necessarily vitiate the trial or warrant an automatic acquittal. The courts have consistently held that procedural lapses must be viewed in the context of the overall evidence. If the prosecution can otherwise establish the chain of custody, corroborate the seizure with credible testimony, and prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, the mere non-compliance with Section 52-A may not be fatal. The emphasis must be on substantive justice rather than procedural technicalities, and keeping in mind that the salutary objective of the NDPS Act is to curb the menace of drug trafficking.

39. At this stage we may clarify the scope and purport of Section 52-A sub-section (4) with a view to obviate any confusion. Sub-section (4) of Section 52-A provides that every court trying an offence under the NDPS Act, shall treat the inventory, photographs and samples of the seized substance that have been certified by the Magistrate as primary evidence.

40. What this provision entails is that, where the seized substance after being forwarded to the officer empowered is inventoried, photographed and thereafter samples are drawn therefrom as per the procedure prescribed under the said provision and the Rules/Standing Order(s), and the same is also duly certified by a Magistrate, then such certified inventory, photographs and samples have to mandatorily be treated as primary evidence. The use of the word "shall" indicates that it would be mandatory for the court to treat the same as primary evidence if twin conditions are fulfilled being: (i) that the inventory, photographs and samples drawn are certified by the Magistrate, AND (ii) that the court is satisfied that the entire process was done in consonance and substantial compliance with the procedure prescribed under the provision and its Rules/Standing Order(s).

41. Even where the bulk quantity of the seized material is not produced before the court or happens to be destroyed or disposed of in contravention of Section 52-A of the NDPS Act, the same would be immaterial and have no bearing on the evidentiary value of any inventory, photographs or samples of such substance that is duly certified by a Magistrate and prepared in terms of the said provision. We say so, because sub-section (4) of Section 52-A was inserted to mitigate the issue of degradation, pilferage or theft of seized substances affecting the very trial. It was often seen that, due to prolonged trials, the substance that was seized would deteriorate in quality or completely disappear even before the trial could proceed, by the time the trial would commence, the unavailability of such material would result in a crucial piece of evidence to establish possession becoming missing and the outcome of the trial becoming a foregone conclusion. The legislature being alive to this fact, thought fit to introduce an element of preservation of such evidence of possession of contraband in the form of inventory, photographs and samples and imbued certain procedural safeguards and supervision through the requirement of certification by a Magistrate, which is now contained in sub-section (4) of Section 52-A. In other words, any inventory, photographs or samples of seized substance that was prepared in substantial compliance of the procedure under Section 52-A of the NDPS Act and the Rules/Standing Order(s) thereunder would have to mandatorily be treated as primary evidence, irrespective of the fact that the bulk quantity has not been produced and allegedly destroyed without any lawful order.

42. Section 52-A sub-section (4) should not be conflated as a rule of evidence in the traditional sense i.e. it should not be construed to have laid down that only the certified inventory, photographs and samples of seized substance will be primary evidence and nothing else. The rule of "Primary Evidence" or "Best Evidence" is now well settled. In order to prove a fact, only the best evidence to establish such fact must be led and adduced which often happens to be the original evidence itself. The primary evidence for proving possession will always be the seized substance itself. However, in order to mitigate the challenges in preservation of such substance till the duration of trial, due to pilferage, theft, degradation or any other related circumstances, the legislature consciously incorporated sub-section (4) in Section 52-A to bring even the inventory, photographs or samples of such seized substance on the same pedestal as the original substance, and by a deeming fiction has provided that the same be treated as primary evidence, provided they have been certified by a Magistrate in substantial compliance of the procedure prescribed. This, however, does not mean that where Section 52-A has not been complied, the prosecution would be helpless, and cannot prove the factum of possession by adducing other primary evidence in this regard such as by either producing the bulk quantity itself, or examining the witnesses to the recovery, etc.

43. What Section 52-A sub-section (4) of the NDPS Act does is it creates a new form of primary evidence by way of a deeming fiction which would be on a par with the original seized substance as long as the same was done in substantial compliance of the procedure prescribed thereunder, however, the said provision by no means renders the other evidence in original to be excluded as primary evidence, it neither confines nor restricts the manner of proving possession to only one mode i.e. through such certified inventory, photographs or samples such that all other materials are said to be excluded from the ambit of "evidence", rather it can be said that the provision instead provides one additional limb of evidentiary rule in proving such possession. Thus, even in the absence of compliance of Section 52-A of the NDPS Act, the courts cannot simply overlook the other cogent evidence in the form of the seized substance itself or the testimony of the witnesses examined, all that the courts would be required in the absence of any such compliance is to be more careful while appreciating the evidence."

65. Now, this Court has to analyze the submissions of the contesting parties.

ANALYSIS :-

66. Physical evidence of recovered contraband has been proved by the prosecution witnesses i.e. Seizing Officer Rajdhari Singh/PW-1 and Superintendent S.C. Sarkar/PW-2, which was exhibited before the trial Court. The accused-appellant had not put any question during cross-examination nor any suggestion was made by the defence to prosecution witnesses as regards to change of colour of contraband substance. At no place during cross-examination at the time of testimony of the witnesses there is any mention in this behalf regarding anything to change of colour of contraband substance.

67. The chemical examination is admissible in the evidence under Section 293 Cr.P.C. ,which has been physically proved by Rajdhari Singh/PW-1 and S.C. Sarkar/PW-2 and as per report, the recovered contraband was heroin.

68. It has also born out from the record that during the trial the defence did not seek to summon the author of chemical examination report and to question him as regards to change of the colour of the contraband.

69. The accused-appellant has also not questioned the chain of safe custody of the contraband in any manner. Complete chain of safe custody of the contraband right from the stage of seizure till production in the court during trial has been duly established by the prosecution witness Rajdhari Singh/PW-1 in his oral testimony.

70. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the submission made by learned counsel for the accused-appellant that recovered contraband produced in the Court was different from the one which was allegedly recovered from the accused-appellant is not sustainable and is rejected.

71. The argument has been advanced that there is non-compliance of Section 52-A of the NDPS Act. The said argument would not get attracted while drawing samples at the time of seizure of the contraband. The sampling for the purposes of chemical examination of the contraband was done in accordance with the procedure as prescribed in Standing Instructions No.1/88, as prevalent at the time of recovery.

72. Section 52-A has been extensively considered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bharat Aambale (Supra), wherein it is held that if there is procedural non-compliance of Section 52-A, it does not necessarily vitiate the trial and the case should be viewed in the context of overall evidence. If the prosecution can otherwise establish the chain of custody, corroborate the seizure with credible testimony, and prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, the mere non-compliance with Section 52-A may not be fatal.

73. Hon'ble Supreme Court has further observed that the primary evidence for proving possession will always be the seized substance itself. In order to mitigate the challenges in preservation of such substance till the duration of trial, due to pilferage, theft, degradation or any other related circumstances, the legislature consciously incorporated sub-section (4) in Section 52-A to bring even the inventory, photographs or samples of such seized substance on the same pedestal as the original substance, and by a deeming fiction has provided that the same be treated as primary evidence.

74. Thus, the argument of non-compliance of Section 52-A of NDPS Act as advanced by Shri Kunwar Sushant Prakash, learned counsel for the accused-appellant is also not sustainable, in view of the law laid down by Supreme Court in the case of Bharat Aambale (Supra). At the same time, argument of Sri S. M. Singh Royekwar, learned Counsel for the Union of India/Central Bureau of Narcotics is upheld.

75. Now, crucial part of compliance of Section 50 of NDPS Act is to be analyzed by this Court.

76. In the case of Ranjan Kumar Chadha (Supra), it has been observed that Section 50 is a mandatory provision, which is a right of the person as well as obligation for the prosecution. Where, the person to be searched declines to exercise this right, the police officer shall be free to proceed with the search. However, if the suspect declines to exercise his right of being searched before a Gazetted Officer or Magistrate. While informing the right, only two options of either being searched in presence of a Gazetted Officer or Magistrate must be given, who also must be independent and in no way connected to the Raiding Party.

77. At page 27 of the paper-book, Rajdhari Singh/PW-1 has stated that in the present case he did not obtain warrant from the Magistrate for the reason that a Gazetted Officer was present with him. He further deposed in cross-examination that the Gazetted Officers were always present with him. Therefore, there was no requirement to take any Magistrate. He further deposed before the Court that the accused-appellant was informed that Gazetted Officer was present with Raiding Party. When he was asked for search before Gazetted Officer or Magistrate, then the accused-appellant offered for search before Raiding Party. He further deposed that he did not write the fact that the officer was present with him.

78. In the case of Ishdan Seikh (Supra), Calcutta High Court has observed that a Gazetted Officer who had proceeded to the place of occurrence after entertaining reasonable belief that the accused persons may be carrying narcotic substance cannot be said to be an independent person.

79. In the same vein, in the case of Mainul Haque (Supra), Calcutta High Court has held that Section 50 of NDPS Act is mandatory provision and a person is to be searched by an officer duly authorized under Section 42 of NDPS Act and the search must be carried out in the presence of a Gazetted Officer.

80. The statement of S.C. Sarkar/PW-2 at page-38 of the paper- book is relevant and is to be seen in present case where he stated that he introduced himself as Gazetted Officer and told accused-appellant that he was in possession of the heroin. He asked him whether he wished to be searched either before the Magistrate or before the Gazetted Officer, on which he had said that the Raiding Party could search him.

81. Thus, statement of S.C. Sarkar/PW-2 indicates that he was present as a part of Raiding Team. The accused appellant was not told that it was his right to be searched before a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer other than the one, who is leading the Raiding Party, as such this violates the mandatory provisions of Section 50 of NDPS Act.

82. The NDPS Act requires that accused should be informed about his right in clear terms that he has right to be searched in presence of a Gazetted Officer other than one who is accompanying the Raiding Party.

83. Shri S.M. Singh Royekwar, learned counsel for Union of India has made argument that contraband was picked out by the accused-appellant from his pant and the same was handed over to the Raiding Party. It is not a case where body search was to be done since he had handed over the contraband substance himself, therefore, there is no need of compliance of Section 50 of NDPS Act.

84. This argument cannot be sustained for various reasons. The cross-examination of Rajdhari Singh/PW-1 at page-15 of the paper book indicates that the accused-appellant was firstly searched by Raiding Party and thereafter, the room was searched. After search of his body, he had handed over the contraband substance to Rajdhari Singh/PW-1, which is deposed at page-17 of the paper-book. Similarly, S.C. Sarkar/PW-2, the Gazetted Officer who was present has also deposed before the Court during cross-examination that he had given options to the accused-appellant whether he wanted to be searched before a Gazetted Officer, he told that he may be searched by him also because he was a Gazetted Officer. S.C. Sarkar/PW-2 has further deposed that the contraband substance was recovered from the right pocket of the pant of the accused-appellant.

85. Harishankar Agnihotri/PW-3, who was Manager of Hotel at relevant point of time, has also deposed before the Court that Raiding Party entered into the room of the accused-appellant and the Raiding Party asked the name of the accused-appellant and the accused-appellant was searched by the Raiding Party and the contraband substance was recovered from the pant of the accused-appellant.

86. Para 6 of the complaint filed by the Investigating Officer further goes to indicate that there was suspicion of having illegal contraband substance in possession of accused-appellant and Islam alias Farukh that is why they were searched. Further, para 9 of the complaint indicates that the accused-appellant had handed over the contraband substance to the Raiding Party. The complaint also indicates that firstly the search procedure of the accused-appellant was adopted and thereafter, the recovery was made.

87. Once the search is to be made then, certainly Section 50 of NDPS Act has to be complied with, but, after going through the statements of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3, the version of complaint, it is apparent that the search of the body of the accused-appellant was made first and thereafter, the recovery of contraband substance was made from his possession. There is non-compliance of Section 50 of NDPS Act, which has been deprecated by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ranjan Kumar Chadha (Supra) and Arif Khan (Supra) as well as by Calcutta High Court in the cases of Mainul Haque (Supra) and Ishdan Seikh (Supra).

88. This Court finds substance in the argument of Shri Kunwar Sushant Prakash, learned counsel for the accused-appellant regarding non-compliance of Section 50 of NDPS Act.

89. In view of aforesaid reason, the conviction and sentence of the appellant-accused deserves to be set-aside.

90. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed and the impugned judgment dated 28.05.1998 passed by the trial Court in Criminal Case No. 85 of 1995 is hereby set-aside. The appellant is acquitted of charges under Sections 8/21 of NDPS Act.

91. The appellant - Vinai Kumar Sharma is in jail since 08.04.2025 and as per custody certificate sent by Superintendent, District Jail, Lucknow, he was in jail for 06 years, 03 months and 10 days and as on date of judgment, the period in jail comes to 06 years, 11 months and 24 days. A release order will be issued by the trial Court in pursuance of the present judgment immediately, to secure his release from jail custody, if he is not wanted in any other case.

92. Appellant is directed to furnish a personal bond and two sureties in each like amount to the satisfaction of the trial Court within two weeks of actual release from jail in terms of Section 437-A CrPC with undertaking to appear before appellate court as and when appeal is filed against this judgment and he is required to appear before the court.

93. Office/Registry is directed to send the copy of this judgment for necessary compliance along with trial Court record to the court concerned forthwith.

94. The trial Court to send compliance report within four weeks.

95. A copy of this judgment be also sent to Senior Superintendent, District jail, Lucknow forthwith.

96. The Court keeps record the assistance rendered by Mr. Ankur Garg, Research Associate of this Court.

Appearances for PartiesAdvs. for the Appellant:

Kiran Yadav, Sanjay Kumar Yadav

Advs. for the Respondents:

G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Ajay Kumar-II, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Sanjay Kumar Yadav, the learned counsel for appellant and the learned A.G.A. for State-opposite party-1.

2. Challenge in this Criminal Appeal is to the judgment dated 30.08.2025 passed by Sessions Judge, Azamgarh, in Sessions Trial No. 28 of 2012 (State vs. Ram Karan Yadav and others), Sessions Trial No. 491 of 2014 (State vs. Jai Prakash @ Prakash Yadav and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 376 of 2011, under Sections 302/149, 147 IPC, Police Station Raunapar, District Azamgarh and Session Trial No. 29 of 2012 (State vs. Vijai Yadav), arising out of Case Crime No. 515 of 2011, under Section 3/25 Arms Act, Police Station- Raunapar, District Azamgarh, whereby the accused opposite parties 2 to 9 have been acquitted by Court below of the charges framed against them.

3. Brief facts of the case are that the first informant-appellant moved a Written Report dated 02.08.2011 by stating that her husband had gone to Chandpatti to sell milk in the morning. On 02.08.2011, at around 12:00 noon, Subhash, Ramkaran, Rambadan and Heera were sitting in ambush 1 km west from Vishen Ka Pura Chowk with a four wheeler and one motor cycle. There was a land dispute with Subhash. They had also threatened her husband. Her husband's vehicle was pushed and he was made to fall. He got up and ran away. By then, aforesaid persons chased and caught her husband and broke his legs and hands by running the car over him, due to which, he died on the spot. She was taken by her son Jaikesh on a bicycle and after getting medicines when they reached the spot, they identified all the aforesaid persons. Meanwhile, one Niranjana Yadav also came on the spot. All the three persons have seen the incident.

4. On the aforementioned Written Report (Tehrir) of appellant, FIR against the named accused persons as Case Crime No. 376 of 2011, under section 302/34 IPC at 4:00 pm on 02.08.2011 at Police Station Raunapar, District Azamgarh was registered.

5. After completion of investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against opposite parties 2 to 9 under Sections 302/34, 147 IPC. Another charge-sheet was also submitted against opposite party 5 Vijai Yadav, under Section 3/25 Arms Act. Thereafter cognizance was taken upon same and the cases were committed to the Court of Sessions. After hearing both the parties, the charges were framed against opposite parties 2 to 9, under Sections 302/149, 147 IPC and charge under Section 3/25 Arms Act was also separately framed against opposite party 5 Vijai Yadav.

6. In order to prove its case, prosecution adduced eight prosecution witnesses, namely, P.W.-1 Smt. Mewati Yadav (the informant/wife of deceased), P.W.-2 Jaikesh (son of the deceased), P.W.-3 Dr. Santosh Kumar (Autopsy Surgeon), P.W.-4 Parmarath Yadav (witness of panchnama), P.W.-5 Ramkrishna Dwivedi (1st Investigating Officer), P.W.-6 Rampreet Yadav (witness of prosecution sanction), P.W.-7 Harigovind Singh (Scribe of FIR) and P.W.-8 Tejbahadur Singh (the then In-charge Inspector and 2nd Investigating Officer). The witnesses adduced by the prosecution have given their respective oral evidence and also proved 27 prosecution papers, namely, Written Report (Tehrir) as Ex. Ka-1, Post Mortem Report as Ex. Ka-2, Inquest Report (Panchayatnama) as Ex. Ka-3, Police Form-13 as Ex. Ka-4, Letter to C.M.O. as Ex. Ka-5, Photonash as Ex. Ka-6, letter to Inspector as Ex. Ka-7, Site Plan as Ex. Ka-8, Recovery memo of blood stained earth and plain earth as Ex. Ka-9, Recovery memo of blood stained grass as Ex. Ka-10, Recovery memo of spectacles of the deceased as Ex. Ka-11, Recovery memo of one pair slippers of deceased as Ex. Ka-12, Recovery memo of motorcycle as Ex. Ka-13, Copy of Report No.9 regarding arrest of accused Rambadan Yadav as Ex. Ka-14, Copy of Report No.14 regarding arrest of accused Heera Yadav as Ex. Ka-15, Recovery memo of motorcycle and country made pistol on the spot as Ex. Ka-16, Site Plan of recovery memo of motorcycle on the pointing out of accused Vijai Yadav as Ex. Ka-17, Recovery memo of Bolero Car as Ex. Ka-18, Charge-sheet against accused Ramkaran Yadav, Rambadan Yadav, Vijai Yadav, Lal Bahadur Yadav and Heera Yadav as Ex. Ka-19, Sanction for prosecution as Ex. Ka-20, Check FIR (Case Crime No. 515/2011) as Ex. Ka-21, G.D. as Ex. Ka-22, Charge-sheet against accused Vijai Yadav as Ex. Ka-23, Charge-sheet against accused Jai Prakash @ Prakash Yadav, Hariprakash Yadav, Ramesh Yadav and Subhash Yadav as Ex. Ka-24, Check FIR (Case Crime No. 376/2011) as Ex. Ka-25, G.D. Entry as Ex. Ka-26 and report of FSL (Forensic Science Laboratory) as Ex. Ka-27.

7. In statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C., the accused-opposite parties 2 to 9 denied the prosecution version and the commission of alleged incident. They stated that P.W.-1 and P.W.2 have given false evidence against them. It has also been stated that they are innocent and have been falsely implicated due to enmity.

8. The defence got examined Sant Ram Yadav as D.W.-1, Lekhpal Jagarnath Singh as D.W.-2 and Dr. Sanket as D.W.-3 to prove the innocence of the accused. The defence has proved documents, namely, papers regarding Farmer Accidental Insurance Scheme as Ex. Kha-1, Report of Lekhpal regarding benefit of Insurance Scheme as Ex. Kha-2, Information letter regarding The Oriental Insurance Company Limited as Ex. Kha-3, Registration Form of Farmer Accidental Insurance Scheme as Ex. Kha-4, Death Certificate of the Insured person issued by the Lekhpal as Ex. Kha-5, Witness Certificate as Ex. Kha-6, Death Certificate as Ex. Kha-7, Report of Sub Divisional Magistrate dated 16.08.2011 as Ex. Kha-8, Medical Form of Subhash Yadav as Ex. Kha-9, Paper Nos. 191 Kha/1 and 191 Kha/3 as Ex. Kha-10 and Paper Nos. 192 Kha/2 and 192 Kha/4 as Ex. Kha-11.

9. By the impugned judgment dated 30.08.2025, Court below has acquitted the accused of the charges under Sections 302/149, 147 IPC and opposite party 5 Vijai Yadav, under Section 3/25 Arms Act.

10. Thus, feeling aggrieved by the impugned judgment passed by Court below, the present appeal has been preferred by the informant-appellant.

11. Learned counsel for appellant submits that the accused committed murder of appellant's husband at 12:00 noon on 02.08.2011 in her presence. The incident was seen not only by the appellant but by her son Jaikesh and one Niranjana Yadav also. Informant and her son Jaikesh are the eye witnesses of aforesaid murder, but, Court below has wrongly disbelieved their trustworthy testimonies and has thereby committed gross illegality. The eye-witness account as stated by informant and her son Jaikesh is fully supported by medical evidence and enmity due to land dispute between the parties was the motive behind this murder. Court below has erred law in acquitting the accused persons. The impugned judgment of acquittal is against the weight of the evidence on record and therefore, same is liable to be set-aside by this Court.

12. Learned A.G.A. for State-opposite party-1 has however vehemently opposed the present appeal. According to the learned A.G.A., Court below has correctly appreciated the testimonies of the eye witnesses and therefore, rightly come to the conclusion that P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are not the eye witnesses of the alleged incident. Court below has also rightly found that the injuries found on the body of the deceased are not such injuries, which could have been caused on account of a four wheeler running over the body of deceased several times. As both P.W.-1 and P.W.2 have not been found to be eye witnesses of the incident, therefore, Court below has rightly acquitted the accused. Lastly, it has been argued that no ground to interfere in the impugned judgment and order is made out, therefore, learned A.G.A. urged for the dismissal of present appeal.

13. We have heard the learned counsel for appellant as well as the learned A.G.A. for State-opposite party-1 and perused the record.

14. The trial Court while acquitting the accused, has recorded the following findings:

1. Registration of the First Information Report at the concerned regarding Police Station on the alleged date and time, was found to be suspicious raising doubts regarding credibility of the prosecution case.

2. P.W.-1 Mewati Devi and P.W.-2 Jaikesh were found to be chance witnesses.

3. The presence of P.W.-1 and P.W.2 on the spot at the time of incident, was found to be doubtful.

4. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have made highly contradictory statements in their evidence regarding several material details of incident.

5. The evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 does not in any way corroborate the ante mortem injuries found on the body of the deceased and their evidence in this regard, is completely contradictory to the medical evidence available on record. In short, the medical evidence does not corroborate the ocular version of the occurrence.

6. As per evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, total nine persons were seated in a four wheeler and the deceased was driven on and off by the offending vehicle 3-4 times with intention to kill but not a single crush injury was found on the body of deceased.

7. After appreciating the evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, they were found not to be present on the spot at the time of incident and therefore, both of them did not see the incident happening. The evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 was thus found to be not trustworthy.

15. After recording the above findings, Court below concluded that since prosecution has failed to prove the charges against the accused persons beyond reasonable doubt by means of the impugned judgment, acquitted the accused of the charges framed against them.

16. While considering the scope of interference in an appeal against acquittal, it has been held by the Supreme Court that if two views are possible, one supporting acquittal and other indicating conviction, the High Court should not, in such a situation, reverse the order of acquittal recorded by Court below.

17. Reference in this regard be made to the judgment of Supreme Court in Bharwad Jakshibhai Nagjibahi and others vs. State of Gujarat, (1995) 5 SCC 602, which is most appropriately applicable to the facts of the present case. Paragraph-9 of the report is relevant for the controversy in hand and is accordingly, reproduced herein-below:-

" Law is now well settled that though the Cr.P.C. does not make any distinction between the powers of the Appellate Court while dealing with an order of conviction or of acquittal, normally the Appellate Court does not disturb an order of acquittal in a case where two views of the evidence are reasonably possible. But the above principle is not applicable where the approach of the trial Judge in dealing with evidence is manifestly erroneous and the conclusions drawn are wholly unreasonably and perverse. In the instant case, we find that the High Court was fully conscious and did not transgress the bounds, of its appellate powers while dealing and reversing the order of acquittal."

18. While dealing with an appeal against acquittal the Apex Court in Babu Sahebagouda Rudragoudar Vs. State of Karnataka, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 561, has observed as under:

"39. Thus, it is beyond the pale of doubt that the scope of interference by an appellate Court for reversing the judgment of acquittal recorded by the trial Court in favour of the accused has to be exercised within the four corners of the following principles:-

(a) That the judgment of acquittal suffers from patent perversity;

(b) That the same is based on a misreading/omission to consider material evidence on record;

(c) That no two reasonable views are possible and only the view consistent with the guilt of the accused is possible from the evidence available on record.

40. The appellate Court, in order to interfere with the judgment of acquittal would have to record pertinent findings on the above factors if it is inclined to reverse the judgment of acquittal rendered by the trial Court."

19. It has also been observed in above-mentioned judgment that an Appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by Court below. It has further been observed that the Appellate Court can interfere with the order of acquittal only if it comes to a finding that the only conclusion, which can be recorded on the basis of the evidence on record was that the guilt of the accused was proved beyond a reasonable doubt and no other conclusion was possible.

20. The Supreme Court in Gamini Bala Koteshwara Rao vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, (2009) 10 SCC 636, has observed that interference in an appeal against acquittal should be rare and in exceptional circumstance. It was further held that it is open to the High Court to reappraise the evidence and conclusion arrived at by Court below. However, it is limited to those cases where the judgment of Court below was perverse. This Court went to declare that the word "perverse", as understood in law, has been understood to mean, "against the weight of evidence". If there are two views and Court below has taken one of the views merely because another view is plausible, the Appellate Court will not be justified in interfering with the verdict of acquittal.

21. Having heard the learned counsel for appellant, the learned A.G.A. for State-opposite party-1 upon evaluation of the impugned judgment including the reasons recorded therein, in the light of deposition of the injured witness i.e. appellant and keeping in mind the limitation with a Court of appeal dealing with a judgment of acquittal, this Court finds that following four questions arise for consideration in present appeal:-

i. Whether the inference drawn by Court below that registration of FIR on the alleged date and time is suspicious, which raises doubt on credibility of the prosecution case, is legally sustainable.

ii. Whether P.W.1 Mewati Devi and P.W.2 Jaikesh are chance witnesses.

iii. Whether the presence of P.W.1 Mewati Devi and P.W.-2 Jaikesh on the spot at the time of the incident is doubtful and their testimonies are not trustworthy.

iv. Whether reasons recorded by Court below in support of its conclusion that prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt, are cogent and valid reasons or illusory and against the weight of evidence on record, therefore, illegal and perverse.

Question No. i. Whether the inference drawn by Court below that registration of FIR on the alleged date and time is suspicious, which raises doubt on credibility of the prosecution case, is legally sustainable?.

22. As per prosecution version, the alleged incident took place on 02.08.2011 at around 12:00 noon, the FIR of which was registered at 4:00 p.m. on the same day at Police Station Raunapar, District Azamgarh, on a Written Report (Tehrir) moved by Mewati Devi, the widow of deceased. The factum of the registration of the FIR was also mentioned in G.D. No. 29, time 16:00 hours on 02.08.2011. As per prosecution version, the informant-appellant Mewati Devi and Jaikesh are the eye witnesses of the alleged incident. The informant-appellant Mewati Devi in her deposition as P.W.-1 has stated that she got scribed the Written Report (Tehrir) (Ex. Ka-1) out side the concerned police station from some person. In her cross-examination, she stated that said Written Report (Tehrir) was written on the spot where her husband died. She further stated that while writing the Written Report (Tehrir), Police Official from the Police Station Raunapar also came on the spot including S.H.O. (Bade Daroga) and some Constables and her application was taken by S.H.O. concerned on the spot. Aforementioned disclosure in her cross-examination reveals that she had not gone to the police station for registration of the FIR, someone on the spot wrote down the Written Report (Tehrir) upon her dictation and same was delivered to the Police Official present on the spot.

23. As per the testimony of P.W.-5 Investigating Officer, Ramkrishna Dwivedi, the said FIR was registered in his absence and he got the copy of the Check FIR, etc. on the spot. Whereas the informant-appellant herself is stating that she handed over her written application to S.H.O. concerned on the spot. There is, thus material contradiction regarding timing of registration of the FIR in evidence of P.W.-1 informant-appellant and P.W.-5 Investigating Officer.

24. The factum of registration of the FIR was also mentioned in G.D. No. 29, time 16:00 hours dated 02.08.2011 (Ex. Ka-26) wherein, it has been mentioned that Mewati Devi came with one Niranjana Yadav to the Police Station and gave written application, whereas the informant-appellant in her cross-examination has stated that the said application was handed over to the concerned S.H.O. on the spot.

25. The said Check FIR was received in the Court of concerned Chief Judicial Magistrate on 06.08.2011 and surprisingly, the said Check FIR was also seen by the concerned Circle Officer only on 04.08.2011, which is evident from the cross-examination of the P.W.-5, Investigating Officer as is mentioned at page-36 of the impugned judgment. This also shows that said Check FIR was not only seen/forwarded by the concerned Circle Officer with the delay of two days, but same has been sent to the concerned C.J.M. with delay of four days. Resultantly, the time and date on which the said FIR is stated to be registered, becomes highly suspicious.

26. After carefully considering aforesaid aspects of present case as recorded by Court below in para-32 of impugned judgment, we are of the considered opinion that the finding recorded by Court below with regard to registration of the FIR at the concerned police station at the alleged time and date, being suspicious raises doubt on the credibility of prosecution case, is legally sustainable. Therefore, question no.i is answered in the affirmative.

Question No. ii. Whether P.W.1 Mewati Devi and P.W.2 Jaikesh are the chance witnesses?.

27. As per narration in the FIR, the alleged incident was seen by the wife Mewati Devi and son Jaikesh of the deceased, when they were returning back after getting medicines for Mewati Devi. Therefore, both of them are stated to be eye witnesses of the alleged incident. However, in the Written Report (Tehrir) (Ex. Ka-1) only four persons, namely, Subhash, Ramkaran, Rambadan and Heera were named by P.W.-1 Mewati Devi and names of other accused were disclosed during the course of investigation.

28. P.W.-1 Mewati Devi in her examination-in-chief, has stated that she and her son Jaikesh went to the Doctor for taking medicines. Her son Jaikesh took her on bicycle for getting medicines. When they were returning at around 12:00 noon on 02.08.2011 accused Subhash Yadav, Ramkaran Yadav, Rambadan Yadav, Vijai Yadav, Heera Yadav, Hari Prakash, Jai Prakash, Ramesh Lal Bahadur and three unknown persons who had covered their faces with clothes, were riding on a four wheeler whereas accused Vijai Yadav was driving a motor-cycle. Her husband's vehicle was pushed and thereafter, he got up and ran away. By then, aforesaid accused chased and caught her husband. They thereafter got him back to the spot and thereafter, a four wheeler was run over her husband 3-4 times and murdered her husband on the spot.

29. P.W.-2 Jaikesh (son of the deceased) also deposed on similar lines as his mother Mewati Devi. However, this witness Jaikesh has stated that accused Subhash Yadav, Ramkaran Yadav, Rambadan Yadav, Heera, Vijai, Jai Prakash, Hari Prakash, Ramesh and Lal Bahadur were on the four wheeler. This witness has also stated that when his father was being mercilessly beaten by the accused persons, he and her mother shouted, whereupon accused Vijai Yadav placed country made pistol on the head of his mother because of which, they stopped shouting. In the meanwhile, Hari Prakash, Jai Prakash, Lal Bahadur, Ramesh, Heera, Ramkaran, Rambadan, who had caught hold of his father asked Subhash to drive the Bolero vehicle over and above his father.

30. The incident took place 1 km west from Vishen Ka Puura Chowk on a road. Smt. Mewati Devi P.W.-1, (wife of the deceased) and Jaikesh P.W.-2 (son of the deceased) are chance witnesses interested in conviction of accused because of their inimical dispositions towards appellant. Let us examine their evidence with caution and close scrutiny in order to ascertain whether their presence on the spot is properly explained and whether they fall under the category of wholly reliable witnesses in order to base conviction of accused on their testimonies. At the same time it will have to be kept in mind that merely because the eye witnesses are the family members of the deceased, their evidence cannot per se be discarded. Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. Ordinarily a close relation would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. At the same time it needs to be kept in mind while appreciating evidence of such witness that when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge, along with the guilty. In the case of Balraje @ Trimbak Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2010) 6 SCC 673, the Apex Court has held that when the eye witnesses are stated to be interested and inimically deposed against the accused, it would not be proper to conclude that they would shield the real culprit and rope in an innocent person. If after careful analysis and scrutiny of their evidence, the reason given by the witnesses appears to be clear, cogent and credible, there is no reason to discard the same.

31. A chance witness is the one who happens to be at the place of occurrence of an offence by chance, and therefore, not as a matter of course. In other words, he is not expected to be at the said place. A person walking on a street witnessing the commission of an offence can be a chance witness. Merely because a witness happens to see an occurrence by chance, his testimony cannot be eschewed though a little more scrutiny may be required at times. This again is an aspect which is to be looked into in a given case by the court. The evidence of a chance witness therefore, requires a very cautious and close scrutiny and a chance witness must adequately explain his presence at the place of occurrence. Deposition of a chance witness whose presence at the place of incident remains doubtful should be discarded (vide Shakarlal vs. State of Rajasthan [(2004) 10 SCC 632: 2005 SCC (Cri) 579]).

32. The evidence of chance witness can be accepted provided statement of such witness adequately explains the presence of such witness and such evidence stands the test of caution and close scrutiny.

33. Admittedly, the place of alleged incident is neither the residence of the deceased nor his work place, rather it is a public road. Admittedly, in the early morning, the deceased left alone for selling milk in Chandpatti. It is the case of the prosecution that P.W.-1 Mewati Devi on the fateful day, at about 10:00 a.m. suddenly, fell ill and therefore, went to Chandpatti market on a bicycle with her minor son Jaikesh. As per prosecution story, Mewati Devi P.W.-1 became ill only after her husband had left home for selling milk. In this background, Mewati Devi P.W.-1 first visited the Doctor and after getting medicines in due course, started her return journey and during her return journey, she arrived at the spot, where she alongwith her minor son Jaikesh witnessed the incident. In this prosecution story, Mewati Devi P.W.-1 and Jaikesh P.W.-2 both were aware of the fact that the deceased was also there in Chandpatti market for selling milk. Therefore, it is very surprising that instead of contacting deceased, they had visited Doctor at their own and took medicines. It is also an admitted fact that said Chandpatti market is about 5 kms from their home. In this background, it is abundantly clear that both Mewati Devi P.W.-1 and Jaikesh P.W.-2 are chance witnesses, who are alleged to be present on the alleged spot. Therefore, in our opinion, conclusion of Court below regarding these witnesses to be chances witnesses, is a right conclusion. Therefore, question no.ii is answered in the affirmative.

Question No. iii. Whether the presence of P.W.1 Mewati Devi and P.W.-2 Jaikesh on the spot at the time of the incident is doubtful and their testimonies are not trustworthy?.

34. Law regarding appreciation of evidence of chance witnesses is well settled. In the present case, both Mewati Devi P.W.-1 and Jaikesh P.W.-2 are wife and son of the deceased respectively. Therefore, these witnesses are family members of the deceased. In this background, their evidence needs to be carefully analyzed specifically with the objective whether these witnesses were actually present on the date, time and place of the incident. If the answer to this question is in the affirmative, only then it can be evaluated that their evidence is trustworthy or not.

35. Mewati Devi P.W.-1 and Jaikesh P.W.-2 both have stated that they were returning on bicycle after getting medical treatment from Chandpatti market and they had witnessed the incident while returning home from said Chandpatti market. Mewati Devi P.W.-1 in her cross-examination has stated that she left home for Chandpatti market at 10:00 a.m. and met the Doctor at about 11:00 a.m., Doctor took approximately two hours to examine her and thereafter she was administered glucose.

36. Similarly, Jaikesh, P.W.-2 in his cross-examination has stated that he took her mother for medical treatment at 10:00 a.m. He further stated that the distance from Chandpatti market to his home is about 5 km. He arrived in the Hospital within 40-45 minutes and Doctor examined his mother for about 20-25 minutes.

37. Mewati Devi P.W.-1 has specifically stated that she was administered glucose whereas her son Jaikesh P.W.-2 has stated that Doctor did not administer glucose to her mother and an injection was administered to her. If their statements are presumed to be true then in that eventuality, not less than 40-45 minutes were taken by these witnesses from start of their journey upto their arrival at hospital. Mewati Devi P.W.-1 has stated that

Doctor took approximately 2 hours to examine her and his son Jaikesh has stated that Doctor took 20-25 minutes. Therefore, as per statement of P.W.-1, it was already 12:00 noon in hospital, whereas P.W.2 Jaikesh, it was already 11:30 a.m. at the hospital, even if it is presumed that these witnesses started their return journey at 11:30 a.m., in that eventuality too, possibility of presence of both P.W.-1 Mewati Devi and Jaikesh P.W.-2 at spot, (which is approximately 4 km from the hospital) at 12:00 noon becomes completely doubtful.

38. We, are therefore, of the opinion that conclusion drawn by Court below regarding the presence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 being doubtful at the time of incident, is a right conclusion drawn from due appreciation of evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 at page 38, 39 and 40 of the impugned judgment.

39. Mewati Devi P.W.-1 in her evidence has stated that at the time of incident, a four wheeler was being driven by accused Lal Bahadur, whereas her son Jaikesh P.W.-2 has stated that it was Subhash Yadav, who was driving the said four wheeler. Therefore, there is material contradiction in the testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 regarding the person who was actually driving the said vehicle, which is alleged to have caused the alleged incident. The whole prosecution story is that the deceased was run over 3-4 times by the four wheeler. In this background, it was very important for both of these witnesses to clearly specify who was actually driving the vehicle at the time of incident. The said material contradiction cannot be ignored.

40. P.W.-1 in her deposition has also stated that nine accused were sitting in the Bolero vehicle at the time of incident. However, Jaikesh P.W.-2 has stated in his deposition that Hariprakash, Jaiprakash, Lal Bahadur, Subhash, Ramesh, Hira, Ramkaran and Rambadan laid the deceased on the road and asked Subhash Yadav to run the vehicle over the deceased and Subhash Yadav drove the vehicle over the deceased 3-4 times moving it back and forth. Thus, there is material contradiction in the evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 regarding manner in which the said incident had occurred. If both the witnesses were actually present at the spot, certainly then there would not have been such material contradictions in their testimonies regarding the manner in which the incident had occurred and name of accused, who was driving the offending vehicle.

41. P.W.-1 Smt. Mewati Devi and P.W.-2 Jaikesh both have stated that road on which the incident is alleged to have occurred is going from North to South whereas the Investigating Officer, P.W.-5 has stated that road of the incident, goes from East to West. Court below has specifically recorded that in site plan (Exhibit A-8), the road of the incident is shown from the East to West. If these prosecution witnesses were actually present at the spot, they would certainly have known in which direction the road is, on which the incident is alleged to have occurred.

42. As per depositions of P.W.1 and P.W.2, the deceased's body was lying in the middle of road. P.W.1 has not stated that the deceased was lifted by anyone. However, as per the inquest report Exhibit A-3, the deceased's body was found at the location "X" located on the southern side of the road and not in the middle of road which again raises doubts on the presence of these witnesses on the spot, at the time of occurrence.

43. P.W.-2 Jaikesh in his examination-in-chief has stated that accused stuffed his father's mouth with mud and grass and in this background when these two witnesses were present at the spot, then mud and grass must have been present in the deceased's mouth even after his death. However, post mortem report does not mention any grass or mud in the deceased's mouth. The Autopsy Surgeon in his cross-examination has stated that during the course of post mortem no pieces of grass were found in the mouth of deceased.

44. Therefore, the statements of Smt. Mewati Devi, P.W.1 and Jaikesh P.W.2 are highly contradictory and the presence of these witnesses at the time of incident, is also highly doubtful.

45. As per prosecution story, the deceased was run over by Bolero Vehicle 3-4 times, although there is material contradiction in the deposition of P.W.1 and P.W.2 regarding the manner of incident. However, both these witnesses have consistently, stated that deceased was run over 3-4 times by Bolero Vehicle. As per prosecution story and depositions of P.W.1 and P.W.2 both hands and legs of the deceased were broken. Therefore, it is very important to find out whether there is any crush injury on the body of the deceased or not and whether hands and legs of accused were also broken or not.

46. During the post-mortem examination, P.W.-3 observed the following ante mortem injuries on the body of the deceased Singhasan Yadav:

1. An abrasion measuring 0.5 cm x 0.4 cm on the left side of the face, below the left eye.

2. An abrasion measuring 12 cm x 0.4 cm on the back of the left forearm.

3. Multiple abraded contusions measuring 65 cm x 20 cm on the back of the arm and forearm.

4. Lacerated wound measuring 3 cm x 1 cm x muscle-deep on the front of the right arm.

5. Multiple abraded contusions measuring 72 cm x 32 cm across the abdomen and down the chest.

6. Multiple abraded contusions measuring 50 cm x 20 cm on the right side of the back, from the shoulder down to the gluteal region.

7. Multiple abraded contusions measuring 60 cm x 15 cm down to the waist and left lower limb.

8. An abrasion 0.2 cm x 2 cm on the right knee.

47. On internal examination of the deceased's body, P.W.-3 stated that all the chest bones (ribs), sternum, and coccyx were broken. The right and left lungs were lacerated. There was approximately one litre of blood in the chest cavity. The membrane covering the heart was torn. The heart was empty and weighed 1.50 grams. The stomach membrane was torn. There was approximately one litre of blood in the stomach. The liver was ruptured. The spleen was ruptured.

48. Thus, it is apparently, clear that none of the hands and legs of the deceased were found broken. Moreover, there is not a single crush injury on the body of the deceased. When a Bolero vehicle is run over 3-4 times over a normal human being that too if 8-9 persons are sitting in such Bolero vehicle, then in that eventuality, there ought to be some crush injury on the body of a normal human being. It is true that all the ribs of the deceased were broken and although lungs were also lacerated, however, only multiple abraded contusions were found over his chest and his back but no crush injury and/or no broken bone of hands and legs of the body of the deceased was also found. Therefore, version of the prosecution, i.e. the deceased was run over by Bolero vehicle several times over his body and the legs and hands were broken, does not find support from his post mortem report. In short the ocular version of the occurrence is not corroborated by the medical evidence on the record. This also raises doubt on the veracity of the version of incident put forward by P.W.1 and P.W.2 again raising serious doubt regarding their presence on the spot at the time of the incident. As a cumulative result of above findings, Court below has rightly come to the conclusion that P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 were not present at the time of incident and their testimonies are not trustworthy. Therefore, question no.iii is answered in the affirmative.

Question No. iv. Whether reasons recorded by Court below in support of it's conclusion that prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt, are cogent and valid reasons or illusionary and against the weight of evidence on record, therefore, illegal and perverse.

49. Court below finally came to the conclusion that P.W.1 and P.W.-2 are not eye witnesses of the incident. They were not present at the scene of incident or at the time of incident. They did not see the incident. Thus, the statements made by P.W.1 and P.W.2 in their respective deposition that on the day of incident, P.W.1 and P.W.2 had gone to Chandpatti market for medical treatment and after getting the medical treatment, when they were returning home, on the way at 12 noon they saw the incident taking place that nine accused persons, sitting in a four wheeler Bolero vehicle, with intention to kill the deceased, laid the deceased on the road and killed him, is not reliable in any way. The evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 does not support the prosecution. The prosecution story is not found to be beyond any reasonable doubt by their evidence. Therefore, the prosecution has failed to prove the charges levelled against the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

50. So far as the veracity of above reasons recorded by Court below to conclude that the guilt of accused does not stand established beyond reasonable doubt also cannot be said to be illegal or perverse. The findings/reasons returned by Court below are based upon due evaluation of allegations made in the complaint in the light of evidence on record. Court below has assigned specific reasons for coming to the conclusion that no offence under any of charging Section is made out against accused. Upon examination by us of the said findings in the light of depositions of the prosecution witnesses as noted in the impugned judgment, we could not come across any such fact on the basis of which, any of the findings qua the charging sections recorded by Court below can be said to be illegal, perverse or erroneous. As such, the conclusion drawn by Court below that no criminality as alleged to have been committed by the accused-opposite parties 2 to 9 is borne out from the record is neither illegal nor perverse. Therefore, question no.iv is answered in the affirmative.

51. In view of the discussion made above, we do not find any perversity in the judgment so as to interfere with the findings returned by Court below. The conclusion drawn by Court below is the outcome of due appreciation of evidence on record. No misreading or omission could be pointed out by the learned counsel for appellant. Being the last Court of fact, we have ourselves evaluated the evidence on record to find out whether there is any perversity in the impugned judgment or Court below has misconstrued any material evidence. However, we could not gather any such fact from the record so as to conclude that the conclusion drawn by Court below is against the weight of evidence on record. It thus, cannot be said that only the view consistent with the guilt of accused is possible as per the evidence on record. We, therefore, do not find any good ground to entertain the present appeal filed under Section 413 BNSS, which consequently fails and is, accordingly dismissed.

3. Brief facts of the case are that on 01-08-2015, first informant/ appellant Satyapal son of Chhote Lal, resident of Akbarpur, Police Station Gunnaur, District Badaun, submitted a written report (Tehrir) (Exhibit Ka-1) stating therein that in the morning of 01.08.2015, there was a quarrel between his brother Jabar Singh and the children of Chander son of Lekhraj, of the village. When his brother, Jabar Singh went to complain about this to Chander, Kanhaiya and Manveer both sons of Chander, they started quarreling. Hearing the same, his mother, Mrs Savitri, and he reached the spot and tried to intervene. Kanhaiya shot at his mother on the head with a .315 bore pistol at around 10:00 am. When his brother Jabar Singh and he challenged the accused, they fled into the forest. His mother, Mrs Savitri, was seriously injured. His wife, Sunita, witnessed the incident. The gunfire caused widespread panic. The residents of house went into hiding and those nearby closed their doors.

4. On the aforementioned written report (Ext. Thereafter, the cases were committed to the Court of Sessions. After hearing both the parties, charges were framed against charge-sheeted accused on 30.06.2016, under Sections 302/34 IPC and separate charge under Section 3/25 of Arms Act was also framed against accused Chander. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

7. After the prosecution evidence was over, all the adverse/ incriminating circumstances relied upon by the prosecution were disclosed to the accused - opposite parties 2 to 4, in question answer form for their version of the occurrence as per mandate of Section 313 Cr.P.C. They denied all the suggestions put to them by repeatedly saying that it is false or they have been falsely implicated or the prosecution case is false or the depositions of prosecution witnesses are false. They further stated that they are innocent and have been falsely implicated due to village enmity.

8. By the impugned judgment dated 24.09.2025, Court below has acquitted the accused-opposite parties 2 to 4 of the charges framed against them under Sections 302/34 IPC and 3/25 of the Arms Act.

9. Thus, feeling aggrieved by the impugned judgment passed by Court below, the present criminal appeal has been preferred by appellant, who is the first informant of case.

10. Learned counsel for appellant submits that the impugned judgment is illegal, erroneous and, therefore, liable to be set-aside by this Court. He further submits that Court below without appreciating the evidence adduced by the appellant, has illegally and erroneously, acquitted the accused-opposite parties 2 to 4 of the charges levelled against them. PW-2 and PW-7 are eye witnesses of the incident, who have supported the evidence given by appellant as PW-1. The prosecution version of the occurrence also stands corroborated by the medical evidence, but Court below by ignoring the same, has arrived at the conclusion that no case as alleged by the prosecution, is made out against the accused opposite parties, hence, wrongly acquitted them. As such, the impugned judgment is illegal and perverse and therefore liable to be set-aside by this Court.

11. Learned A.G.A. for State-opposite party-1 on the other hand has vehemently opposed the present appeal. He submits that the impugned judgment passed by Court below does not suffer from any illegality of law or fact much less a legal error so as to warrant interference by this Court. Court below has examined the prosecution case in the light of the evidence on record threadbare without leaving any aspect of the matter untouched. Prosecution has failed to prove that deceased sustained firearm injuries. Court below has thus, rightly acquitted the accused. Lastly, it has been argued that no ground to interfere in the impugned judgment is made out. Learned A.G.A. thus urged for dismissal of the present appeal.

12. We have heard the learned counsel for appellant as well as the learned A.G.A. for State-opposite party-1 and perused the record.

13. The trial Court while acquitting the accused-opposite parties 2 to 4 by means of the impugned judgment has recorded the following findings:

(i) As per written report Ext. Ka-1, accused Kanhaiya shot at deceased Mrs. Savitri on her head at around 10:00 AM with a .315 Bore country made pistol.

(ii) Satyapal PW-1, during investigation, gave statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the Investigating Officer that accused Kanhaiya shot at his mother on head with a .315 Bore country made pistol at around 10:00 AM.

(iii) Sub Inspector Ayyub Khan PW-3 has proved the inquest report as Ext. Ka-2, wherein, witnesses of inquest (Panchas) concluded that the deceased Smt. Savitri died from gunshot injury and a large bullet whole is visible behind the left ear of deceased near her head and neck. Deceased's sons informant Satyapal and Jabar Singh were included as witnesses of inquest (Panchas).

(iv) Satyapal PW-1, in his examination- in-chief, had deposed that at the time of incident, accused Chander struck his mother on her head with an iron rod and accused Manveer also struck with a stick. On the instigation of Manveer and Chander, accused Kanhaiya with intention to kill her, fired a shot at her from a distance of 15-20 paces with .315 Bore country made pistol. Bullet struck his mother on her head, on left side and went through. During cross examination, he stated that bullet passed through and through immediately after hitting her. He further stated that at the same time his mother was struck by an iron rod on the place where gunshot injury (bullet wound) was caused.

(v) Jabar Singh PW-2 in his examination-in-chief has stated that accused Kanhaiya fired at his mother Smt. Savitri with an intention to kill her and accused Chander hit her with an iron rod. During cross examination, he stated that only one shot was fired and that shot hit on his mother's head. Bullet entered from one side and came out from the other side.

(vi) Sunita PW-7 (wife of informant Satyapal PW-1) stated in her examination-in-chief that accused Chander hit her mother-in-law with an iron rod with an intention to kill her, accused Kanhaiya fired at her by a country made pistol and accused Manveer struck her with a stick.

(vii) Dr. Ikrar Ahmad PW-5, Autopsy Surgeon, has proved post mortem report of the deceased Savitri as Ext. Ka-11. This witness found two ante mortem injuries on the body of deceased. First injury was lacerated wound measuring 4.5 cm x 2cm deep behind left ear. The margins of wound were irregular. There was no blackening or tattooing. There was an underlying bone fracture inside the wound. Second ante mortem injury was a swelling measuring 6cm x 3cm located on lower jaw and chin on the left side. There was a fracture on the lower jaw. This witness in his cross-examination has stated that he neither found bullet nor pellet in injury no. 1. There was no blackening or tattooing. In his opinion, this injury was not a gunshot injury and this injury could not have been caused by bullet. If injury no. 1 had been caused before and thereafter a stick is being hit on injury no. 1 even then injury no. 1 could not be caused. Injury no. 1 could have been caused if a person accidentally fell on hard surface or was struck by a hard object. This witness specifically stated that injury no. 1 is unlikely to have been even caused by friction of a bullet. No firearm injury of entry or exit was found by this witness on the body of deceased.

(viii) As per testimonies of PW-1 and PW-2, deceased Savitri was hit by bullet and at the same time, she was also struck by an iron rod and a stick. If that be so, the deceased's body would have sustained 03 ante mortem injuries i.e. one firearm injury and 02 from stick and iron rod respectively. Autopsy Surgeon has clearly stated that deceased's ante mortem injuries were not caused by gunshot as no bullet or pellet was found inside the injuries sustained by the deceased on her head and there was no blackening or tattooing around said injury. There was no injury consistent with entry wound or exit wound of firearm in the deceased's body. If a person is injured by a gunshot and bullet passes through the body, in that eventuality, deceased's body is left with an entry wound and an exit wound. Therefore, the manner and weapon used by the accused as stated by prosecution witnesses regarding injuries inflicted on the deceased Savitri are not consistent with the opinion recorded by Autopsy Surgeon in Ext. Ka-11 i.e. post mortem report of the deceased. While relying upon judgments of Apex Court in State of Bihar vs. Bishwanath Rai and others, AIR 1997 SC 3818, Smt. Nagindra Bala Mitra and another vs. Sunil Chandra Ray and another, 1960 SCR (3) 1, Mani Ram and others vs. State of U.P., 1994 supp. (2) SCC 289 and Pruthviraj Jayantibhai Vanol vs. Dinesh Dayabhai Vala, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 493, Court below found the prosecution story to be doubtful.

(ix) Statements of informant Satyapal was not found to be consistent at different stages of the evidence. Jabar Singh PW-2 in his cross-examination has stated that he too sustained injuries in the incident but he did not undergo medical examination. This witness in his statement has only implicated accused Chander and Kanhaiya and excluded Manveer. However, informant Satyapal PW-1 has stated that no one except her mother sustained injuries.

(x) Savita PW-7 in her cross-examination has stated that she was also injured by stick but did not seek medical treatment for her minor injuries.

(xi) Witnesses of fact presented by prosecution i.e. PW-1, PW-2 and PW-7 have not deposed in accordance with prosecution story. The prosecution story remained constant during investigation, but was changed during trial. Earlier only one accused Kanhaiya was shown to be involved in the incident but later on the involvement of accused Chander and Manveer was also shown in the incident. During trial, Jabar Singh PW-2 and Sunita PW-7 gave statement that they too have sustained injuries during incident. However, informant Satyapal PW-1 has clearly stated that no one except his mother sustained injuries. The prosecution story was found to be continuously improved upon, to make it more serious, by showing involvement of more and more accused. Prosecution also tried to show that PW-2 and PW-7 also sustained injuries.

(xii) As per prosecution story in addition to informant, 03 other persons were present at the place of incident i.e. 02 women and 01 man. Even if there was a dispute between two parties it is difficult to believe why 03 accused would attack a woman alone while two sons of woman stood there as mute spectators. Normally, if someone attacks an elderly woman, his sons would undoubtedly come forward to save her. This is not the case in hand. The initial story against the accused was to the effect that Kanhaiya shot deceased Savitri. However, post mortem report showed no bullet injury. Later during trial, evidence was presented that in addition to bullet injury, accused Chander inflicted injury with an iron rod and accused Manveer with a stick. Thus prosecution evidence was not found to be credible.

(xiii) Recovery of country made pistol and empty cartridge was alleged to be made on the pointing of accused Chander from staircase inside his house. Despite this, no public witness was called. The prosecution did not even prove the original FIR in court regarding recovery of country made pistol and empty cartridge. Simultaneously, iron rod and .315 Bore country made pistol were also recovered at the pointing out of accused Chander, but the iron rod was not presented before court. As per the prosecution story, it was accused Kanhaiya who fired by a country made pistol on the head of deceased. However, surprisingly, pistol and empty cartridge was recovered on the pointing of accused Chander and not at the pointing of accused Kanhaiya. Recovery of country made pistol and empty cartridge was thus found to be suspicious.

(xiv) Serious contradictions were found by Court below in the testimonies of prosecution witnesses. Prosecution witnesses have given different evidence regarding the incident at every stage. There was no consistency in their testimonies, rendering the prosecution narrative suspicious. Prosecution has failed to prove that accused Chander, Kanhaiya and Manveer murdered deceased Savitri in furtherance of a common intention. Prosecution has also failed to prove the recovery of illegal country made pistol and cartridge.

14. After recording above findings, Court below came to the conclusion that prosecution has failed to prove the charges levelled against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt and thus acquitted them vide judgment dated 24.09.2025.

15. While considering the scope of interference in an appeal against acquittal, it has been held by the Supreme Court that if two views are possible, one supporting acquittal and other indicating conviction, the High Court should not, in such a situation, reverse the order of acquittal recorded by Court below. Reference in this regard be made to the judgment of Supreme Court in Bharwad Jakshibhai Nagjibahi and others vs. State of Gujarat, (1995) 5 SCC 602, which is most appropriately applicable to the facts of the present case. Paragraph-9 of the report is relevant for the controversy in hand and is accordingly, reproduced herein-below:-

" Law is now well settled that though the Cr.P.C. does not make any distinction between the powers of the Appellate Court while dealing with an order of conviction or of acquittal, normally the Appellate Court does not disturb an order of acquittal in a case where two views of the evidence are reasonably possible. But the above principle of is not applicable where the approach of the trial Judge in dealing with evidence is manifestly erroneous and the conclusions drawn are wholly unreasonably and perverse. In the instant case, we find that the High Court was fully conscious and did not transgress the bounds, of its appellate powers while dealing and reversing the order of acquittal."

16. The Apex Court in Babu Sahebagouda Rudragoudar Vs. State of Karnataka, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 561, which clearly reach an appeal against acquittal has observed as under:

"39. Thus, it is beyond the pale of doubt that the scope of interference by an appellate Court for reversing the judgment of acquittal recorded by the trial Court in favour of the accused has to be exercised within the four corners of the following principles:-

(a) That the judgment of acquittal suffers from patent perversity;

(b) That the same is based on a misreading/omission to consider material evidence on record;

(c) That no two reasonable views are possible and only the view consistent with the guilt of the accused is possible from the evidence available on record.

40. The appellate Court, in order to interfere with the judgment of acquittal would have to record pertinent findings on the above factors if it is inclined to reverse the judgment of acquittal rendered by the trial Court."

17. It has also been observed in above-mentioned judgment that an Appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by Court below. It has further been observed that the Appellate Court can interfere with the order of acquittal only if it comes to a finding that the only conclusion, which can be recorded on the basis of the evidence on record was that the guilt of the accused was proved beyond all reasonable doubts and no other conclusion was possible.

18. In Gamini Bala Koteswara Rao vs. State of Andra Pradesh, (2009) 10 SCC 636, it was observed that interference in an appeal against acquittal should be rare and in an exceptional circumstance. It was further held that it is open to the High Court to reappraise the evidence and conclusion arrived at by Court below. However, it is limited to those cases where the judgment of Court below was perverse. The Court further went to declare that the word "perverse", as understood in law, has been understood to mean, "against the weight of evidence". If there are two views and Court below has taken one of the views merely because another view is plausible, the Appellant Court will not be justified in interfering with the verdict of acquittal.

19. Having heard the learned counsel for appellant, the learned A.G.A. for State-opposite party 1 and upon evaluation of the impugned judgment including the reasons recorded therein, in the light of depositions of 03 prosecution witnesses of fact i.e. PW-1, PW-2 and PW-7 and keeping in mind the limitations with a Court of appeal dealing with a judgment of acquittal, this Court finds that the following questions arise for consideration in present appeal:-

(i). Whether conclusion drawn by Court below that prosecution has failed to prove that deceased sustained any firearm injury, is legally sustainable.

(ii). Whether reasons recorded by Court below in support of its conclusion that prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt are cogent and valid reasons or illusory being against the weight of evidence on record, therefore, illegal and perverse.

Question No. 1

(i). Whether conclusion drawn by Court below that prosecution has failed to prove that deceased sustained any firearm injury, is legally sustainable.

20. Autopsy Surgeon Dr. Ikrar Ahmad conducted post mortem of the body of deceased Savitri and has testified as PW-5. This witness found following ante mortem injuries on the body of deceased:-

(i) A lacerated wound measuring 4.5 cm x 2cm skull deep behind left ear. The margins of this wound were irregular. There was no abraded colour around this wound. There was no blackening or tattooing. An underlying bone inside this wound was found fractured.

(ii) A swelling measuring 6cm x 3cm on left side of lower jaw and chin. Lower jaw below this injury was found fractured.

21. PW-5 Dr. Ikrar Ahmad in his cross-examination has clearly stated that no bullet or pellet was found in injury no. 1. There was no blackening or tattooing either. In his opinion, injury no. 1 was neither a bullet injury nor it could have been caused by a pellet. In his opinion, this injury could not have been caused even if injury no. 1 has been caused first by a firearm followed by the blow of stick over it. If some person accidentally falls on hard surface and his head struck with a hard object, in that eventuality, injury no. 1 can be caused. Injury no. 1 cannot even be caused by the friction of bullet. There was no injury of entry or exit wound of firearm on the body of deceased. Testimony of this autopsy surgeon is categorical and clear that no firearm injury was found on the body of deceased. Moreover, injury no. 1 which is a lacerated wound and found on the skull of deceased, was not having any blackening or tattooing as there is no entry wound and corresponding exit wound on the skull of deceased. No bullet or pellet was found inside the skull of deceased. Therefore, in this background, said injury is neither a bullet injury nor a firearm injury. A careful analysis of the evidence of this witness makes it abundantly clear that deceased was not having any ante mortem firearm injury on her body. In our opinion, the prosecution has miserably failed to prove that deceased had sustained any firearm injury. Court below has discussed in detail regarding this aspect of alleged firearm injury in Para-25 of the impugned judgment (pages 13 and 15 of the paper book). It has rightly come to the conclusion that prosecution has failed to prove that deceased Savitri sustained any firearm injury, raising serious question mark on the prosecution story and thus, has rightly found prosecution story to be a suspicious one. Question No. 1 is accordingly answered in the affirmative.

Question No. 2

(ii). Whether reasons recorded by Court below in support of its conclusion that prosecution has failed to establish guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt or cogent and valid reasons or illusionary and against the weight of evidence on record, therefore, illegal and perverse.

22. Court below upon evaluation of prosecution witnesses of fact, finally came to the conclusion that serious contradictions have emerged in the testimonies of prosecution witnesses. The prosecution witnesses have not presented concrete and consistent evidence to support the prosecution narrative beyond reasonable doubt. The witnesses of fact have given different evidence regarding incident at every stage. There is no consistency in their testimonies rendering the prosecution narrative suspicious. The evidence presented by prosecution does not prove that accused Chander, Kanhaiya and Manveer murdered Savitri Devi in furtherance of their common intention. The prosecution has also not been able to prove that illegal country made pistol and cartridge were recovered from accused Chander, as a result, Court below acquitted the accused opposite parties.

23. So far as the veracity of above reasons recorded by Court below to conclude that the guilt of accused does not stand established beyond reasonable doubt also cannot be said to be illegal or perverse. The findings/reasons returned by Court below in support of above conclusion are based upon due evaluation of the allegations made in first information report in the light of evidence on record. Court below has assigned specific reasons for coming to the conclusion that no offence under any of the charging Section is made out against accused. Upon examination by us of the said findings in the light of depositions of the prosecution witnesses as noted in the impugned judgment, we could not come across any such fact on the basis of which, any of the findings qua the charging sections can be said to be illegal, perverse or erroneous. Infact the prosecution itself could not prove the fact that deceased sustained any firearm injury by it's own evidence. As such, the conclusion drawn by Court below that no criminality as alleged to have been committed by the accused-opposite parties 2 to 4 is borne out from the record is neither illegal nor perverse.

24. Out of abundant caution, we are examining the depositions of informant Satyapal PW-1, Jabar Singh PW-2 and Sunita PW-7. The informant Satyapal and Jabar Singh are real brothers and sons of deceased Savitri. Sunita is wife of informant Satyapal and daughter-in-law of deceased Savitri.

25. Informant- appellant Satyapal lodged the FIR by submitting a written report (Ext. Ka-1) at Police Station Gunnaur, District Sambhal. The incident is said to have taken place on 01.08.2015 and the timing of incident as reported in written report is 10:00 am. FIR was lodged within an hour of the incident i.e. by 11:00 am on 01.08.2015.

26. As per FIR, accused Chander, Kanhaiya and Manveer were quarrelling with informant's brother Jabar Singh. Informant, his mother Savitri and his wife Sunita arrived at the spot after hearing the noise and informant's mother Savitri when tried to intervene, at that time, accused Kanhaiya shot at his mother on her head. In the FIR, no role other than quarrelling has been assigned to accused Channder and Manveer. No weapon whatsoever has been assigned to both of these accused. A clear and categorical case has been put forward in the FIR that accused Kanhaiya shot at Smt. Savitri on her head with a .315 Bore country made pistol.

27. Informant- appellant Satyapal in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has clearly stated that accused Kanhaiya shot at his mother on her head with .315 Bore country made pistol but he did not state anything regarding accused Chander or Manveer that these two accused had also inflicted any injury on the deceased with the help of an iron rod or stick. Similar were the statements of PW-2 and PW-7 during course of investigation.

28. Therefore, from the very beginning, the prosecution brought out a specific story wherein it has been specifically alleged that accused Kanhaiya shot at Savitri on her head with .315 Bore country made pistol and she died on account of gunshot injury. This story continued even while narrating opinion of inquest witnesses and thereafter in the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of the witnesses of fact during course of investigation by the Investigating Officer.

29. Oral and documentary medical evidence has belied this prosecution version of the incident as narrated in FIR and continued during investigation as no firearm injury was found on the body of deceased Savitri.

30. However, after post mortem report was prepared, it became abundantly clear that no gunshot injury was found on the body of deceased, therefore, prosecution witnesses who are sons and daughter-in-law of deceased developed a new story wherein it has been alleged that accused Kanhaiya caused through and through gunshot injury by a .315 Bore country made pistol and simultaneously accused Chander stuck deceased with an iron rod and accused Manveer struck her with a stick.

31. During trial, PW-1 Satyapal in his examination-in-chief has stated that accused Chander hit his mother on her head with an iron rod and accused Manveer also hit her with a stick. On the instigation of accused Manveer and Chander, Kanhaiya fired a shot from a .315 Bore country made pistol and the bullet hit his mother on the left side of her head and went out. In his cross-examination he stated that bullet immediately went out after hitting and iron rod was struck on firearm injury.

32. Jabar Singh PW-2 in his examination-in-chief has stated that accused Kanhaiya fired a shot by his country made pistol at his mother Savitri and accused Chander hit her with an iron rod.

33. Sunita PW-7 in her examination-in-chief has stated that accused Chander hit her mother-in-law with an iron rod and accused Kanhaiya fired from a country made pistol. Accused Manveer also attacked with a stick.

34. As per depositions of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-7, the bullet fired from a country made pistol passed through head of deceased Savitri after it struck her. At this juncture, it is very important to observe that informant PW-1 Satyapal was a witness of inquest and in the inquest report (Ext. Ka-

2), all the witnesses of inquest have stated that Savitri Devi died on account of a gunshot injury.

35. The very prosecution story that the deceased sustained gunshot injury even if it is presumed to be a through and through gunshot injury is completely falsified by the medical evidence available on record. The prosecution has miserably failed to prove that deceased suffered any firearm injury.

36. Moreover, the prosecution witnesses of fact PW-1, PW-2 and PW-7 have not only deviated from the basic prosecution story as unfolded in the FIR and have tried to create a different story by alleging specific role of accused Chander and Manveer in the occurrence and tried to explain that the injury of lacerated wound found on skull of deceased by stating that deceased was also struck with an iron rod after being hit by a bullet. This new narrative which has been placed on record only during the course of trial is a clear deviation from the basic prosecution story as unfolded in FIR. We may point out that though the FIR is not an encyclopedia of the prosecution case, but it does disclose the basic prosecution case. (Vide Manoj and others Vs. State of Maharashtra, (1999) 4, SCC 268, Subhash Kumar and others Vs. State of Uttrakhand, (2009) 6 SCC 641 and Achhar Singh Vs. State of H.P. (2021) 5 SCC 543). The witnesses have themselves departed from the basic prosecution case as unfolded in the FIR for which no plausible explanation has come forward.

37. PW-2 and PW-7 in their cross examination have stated that they have also sustained injuries during the incident. However, no such narrative was either made in FIR nor was it mentioned by these witnesses in their statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. whereas informant- appellant Satyapal PW-1 has clearly stated that no other person other than his mother got injured in the incident. Thus, it is apparently clear that there are serious contradictions in the depositions of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-7 qua the occurrence.

38. PW-2 Jabar Singh has alleged the role of accused Kanhaiya and Chander only and has not alleged any role of accused Manveer. PW-2 has not stated anything whether accused Manveer also attacked or not and what weapon, if any, was used by accused Manveer in the incident.

39. As per prosecution story, PW-1, PW-2 and PW-7 are alleged to be eye witnesses. Mother of PW-1 and PW-2 is alleged to have sustained injuries in their presence. As per prosecution story both these witnesses stood mute spectators while their elderly mother was being attacked by accused. In this background when they have allegedly witnessed the incident as a mute spectators, the version put forth in the written report (Ext. Ka-1) as well as inquest report that only accused Kanhaiya shot at their mother and caused firearm injury on her head, did not find support from the post mortem report then these witnesses developed a new story of assault upon their mother by accused Chander and Manveer with an iron rod and stick, while still maintaining that their mother was also shot and had received through and through gunshot injury. PW-1, PW-2 and PW-7 have tried to modulate and improve their versions while deposing on oath. Their testimonies are full of embellishments and contradictions. Belated introduction of accused Chander and Manveer by alleging their active participation in crime in question with an iron rod and stick and thereby causing injuries with these new weapons of offence to deceased Savitri, appears to be a clear manipulation, devised to implicate the accused- opposite parties 3 and 4. Apex Court in Govind Mandavi vs. State of Chhattishgarh, 2025 INSC 1399, found vital omission in First Information Report (as in present case) and held that such an omission completely impeaches the credibility of the prosecution case. Moreover, the medical evidence belies the basic prosecution story that the deceased sustained gunshot injury. Therefore, prima facie, presence of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-7 on the spot at the time of incident also seems to be doubtful and their depositions lacks consistency credibility and reliability.

40. Moreover, as per prosecution story, it was accused Kanhaiya who had shot at deceased Savitri but surprisingly the alleged illegal country made pistol has been recovered on the pointing of accused Chander. No independent witness of recovery has been produced by the prosecution. Even iron rod allegedly used in the incident and allegedly recovered at the pointing of accused Chander was not produced before Court, therefore, the alleged recovery also seems to be a suspicious one.

41. We are, therefore, of the opinion that reasons recorded by Court below in respect of it's conclusion that prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt are cogent and valid reasons. The same are not illusionary but logically drawn upon the appreciation of the evidence on record. Question No. 2 is also answered accordingly.

42. In view of the discussion made above, we do not find any illegality or perversity in the impugned judgment so as to interfere with the findings returned by Court below. The conclusion drawn by Court below is the outcome of artificial appreciation of the evidence on record. No misreading or omission could be pointed out by the learned counsel for appellant. Being the last Court of fact, we have ourselves evaluated the evidence on record to find out whether there is any perversity in the impugned judgment i.e. Court below has either ignored any vital evidence or misconstrued any material evidence. However, we could not gather any new fact from the record nor could we find that Court below has misconstrued any evidence on record so as to conclude that the conclusion drawn by Court below is against the weight of evidence on record. It thus, cannot be said that only the view consistent with the guilt of accused is possible as per the evidence on record. We, therefore, do not find any good ground to entertain the present appeal filed under Section 413 BNSS, which consequently fails and is, accordingly dismissed.

By the judgment and order impugned passed by the learned Trial Court, all the appellants have been convicted for the offence punishable under Section 147 IPC and sentenced to undergo one year's rigorous imprisonment and imprisonment for life for offence punishable under Section 302 read with 149 IPC. It was further directed by the Trial Court that all the sentences shall run concurrently.

3. During the pendency of both these appeals, appellant no.1 Lala in Criminal Appeal No. 1071 of 1987 has died and the appeal against him, therefore, abated. The abatement was recorded vide order dated 03.11.2025. In Criminal Appeal No. 1069 of 1987, appellant no.1 Udai Narain, appellant no. 2, Dayaram, appellant no.3, Jai Ram, appellant no.4, Ram Awadh, appellant no.5, Maharani Deen, appellant no.8 Hari and appellant no.9, Ram Sunder @ Bhola Pradhan have died and the above appeal against them has been abated vide order dated 03.11.2025.

4. Now Criminal Appeal No. 1071 of 1987 survives to be heard on behalf of appellant no.2 Amrit Lal alone and Criminal Appeal No. 1069 of 1987 on behalf of appellant no. 6 Harish Chandra and appellant no.7 Kallu.

5. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that informant Ram Kishor s/o Bhagirathi, resident of Bhadri, Police Station Soraon, District Allahabad, filed a written information (Tehrir) (Ext. Ka-1) before the In-charge, Police Station Soraon on 08.07.1982, saying that he was a labourer. His brother Ram Dulare used to guard the crop of bhata (brinjal) sown near the south-west bank of the canal located in village Bhadri. Today also, he went there to guard the crop. At about 01:00 a.m. in the wee hours, the informant's uncle Pancham came over to him and told him that near the (railway) station, some people were beating Ram Dulare and threatening him to work for them, instead of working for the assailants' opponents. Thereupon, he along with, his uncle Pancham and Nanku (cousin) reached the vicinity of the railway station and heard some noise that was coming from the west of the railway line. They reached there and saw that Udai Narain s/o Mahadev, Dayaram s/o Jaggu, Jai Ram s/o Mahadev, Ram Awadh s/o Baij Nath, Lala Ram s/o Jhurai, Maharani Deen s/o Lala, Harish Chandra s/o Ram Awadh, Kallu s/o Ram Sewak, Hari s/o Gurai, Amrit Lal s/o Shyam Lal and Ram Sunder Pradhan @ Bhola s/o Punni were battering Ram Dulare, kicking and punching him, besides thrashing him with sticks (danda) in Ram Awadh's agricultural field. The informant and his uncle touched the assailants' feet and imploringly asked them why they were beating the poor man so much. Jairam said that since he works as a labourer for their opponents but not for them, they would insert lathi in his rectum. Then Amrit Lal pulled him down and Udai @ Udai Narain inserted a lathi in his rectum. The informant's brother died in agony at the spot. During the occurrence, a number of persons from the village reached there, who also requested the appellants not to beat Ram Dulare. The appellants left the scene of crime upon seeing the informant's brother dead and threatening him that if he lodged a first information with the Police, he too would be killed.

6. On the basis of the said written information, an FIR, giving rise to Case Crime No. 109 of 1982, under Section 302 IPC, was registered at Police Station Soraon on 08.07.1982 at 06:05 a.m. against all the eleven accused and investigation commenced. The Investigating Officer reached the place of occurrence and collected blood stained dhoti from the deceased's body and prepared a recovery memo (Ext. Ka-11). The inquest report (Ext. Ka-2) relating to the deceased was prepared along with connected papers. Thereafter, the dead body was sent for autopsy. In the post-mortem report, ten ante-mortem injuries were found over the body of the deceased and in the doctor's opinion, the cause of death was coma, as a result of head injury.

7. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of the informant and other witnesses, inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site plan (Ext. Ka-12), and after concluding the investigation, filed charge-sheet (Ext. Ka-13) against all the eleven accused under Sections 147, 148 and 302 IPC before the Magistrate.

8. The learned Magistrate took cognizance of the offence and summoned all the accused. All the accused appeared before the learned Magistrate and were furnished copies of the relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 of the Criminal Procedure Code (for short 'Cr.P.C.') Thereafter, the case was committed for trial to the Court of Sessions by the learned Magistrate. In the Court of Sessions, all the accused appeared. The court framed charges under Sections 147, 302 read with Section 149 IPC against the accused, who denied the said charge, pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

9. The prosecution has examined four witnesses to prove its case. They are P.W.1, Ram Kishor (the informant and eye-witness), P.W.2 Pancham (eye-witness), P.W.3 Dr. A.K. Nigam (Medical Officer, who conducted the post-mortem examination) and P.W.4 S.I. Arjun Singh (Investigating Officer). Their testimony, in brief, is enumerated hereunder.

10. P.W.1 Ram Kishor is the informant and an eye-witness of the incident. He, in his examination-in-chief, has stated that about four and a half years ago, he was at his home. At about 01:30 in the night, his uncle Pancham came to him and said that some men from the village are beating Ram Dulare on the western side of the station. Ram Dulare was his real brother, so he, along with Pancham and Nanku, went to the station and heard some noise coming from the west. When they reached the spot, they saw that Ram Dulare was being beaten in Ram Awadh's field of bottle gourd by accused Udai Narain, Jai Ram, Daya Ram, Ram Sundar @ Bhola, Harish Chandra, Ram Awadh, Kallu Ram, Lala, Maharani Deen, Hari and Amrit Lal. All the accused were residents of his village. Therefore, he knows them from before. Udai Narain, Jai Ram, Bhola @ Ram Sunder and Daya Ram were beating Ram Dulare with lathi, whereas the rest of the accused were subjecting him to fisticuffs and kicks. It was moonlight. The accused Jai Ram said that Ram Dulare was working for his opponent (Bhayia Lal) and not for him and pushed him, abusing. Ram Dulare was pushed in a drain situate in the western direction. The informant and others beseeched Jai Ram to spare him, whereupon Jai Ram asked his associates to force a lathi into his anus and kill him. Thereupon, the assailants forced a stick (danda) into his rectum. He died there. Some residents of the village Kripa Shankar, Devki Nandan, Ram Dhan, Ram Sukh and others also arrived and asked the accused to desist, but they did not pay heed. After Ram Dulare died, they fled the spot, leaving the dead body and held out threats that if the informant went to the police station, he too would be killed. Thereafter, the informant carried Ram Dulare to the Police Station on a cot, purchased a piece of paper on the way and wrote out a report. He reached the police station with the dead body and lodged the report. He received a copy of the report and proved the written information (tahrir) as Ext. Ka-1. He has also said that the deceased was farming a crop sharing basis (batai) for Bhaiyalal @ Bhaiya Ram using his field, where brinjal (bhanta) crop was sown.

11. In his cross-examination, P.W.1 has said that about 20-25 persons accompanied him up to the road with the dead body. About 6-7 persons saw the incident. He received the information about the maar-peat at 01:00 a.m and reached the place of occurrence with others at 01:30 a.m. He reached there from the road along with Nanku, Pancham and Chinau. The above route is long and there is another route up to the place of occurrence, which is short in distance and passes through Chamrauti. The other villagers went from the shortest route and reached there before him. P.W.1 reached there empty handed, though he knew that his brother was being beaten. The villagers themselves reached there and he did not ask them to accompany him. From the railway line, he saw four persons beating Ram Dulare with lathis and rest punching and kicking him. He reached there and requested them not to assault Ram Dulare, but they still continued beating him for about half an hour. Amrit Lal did not put the deceased down. About three inches lathi was thrust in his rectum. As a result, blood oozed out and dropped in the field. Blood was oozing out of Ram Dulare's nose. He put his thumb impression upon Ext. Ka-1 at the police station and at the same time the above application was written. He purchased the paper at the Soraon roundabout. He has also said that the application (tahrir) was written prior to reaching at the Police Station, as he was taking the dead body there. Therefore, he had written in the report that 'he has brought the dead body to the police station'. Chinau son of Ram Nath was not present at the place of occurrence. He did not tell the Investigating Officer that he runs a private canteen in IFFCO.

12. P.W.2 Pancham is said to be an eye-witness, who has stated that he is illiterate and on the date of incident, he was returning home after blocking the flow of water while irrigating his paddy crop. A person met him near the station and told him that Ram Dulare was being beaten by some people. He ran to the informant's home and told him that Ram Dulare was being beaten near the station. Then, Nanku and Chhinu were woken up and all of them reached Ram Awadh's field. They saw that all the eleven accused were beating Ram Dulare. Jai Ram, Udai @ Udai, Daya Ram and Bhola were armed with lathi, which they were employing to batter, Ram Dulare whereas rest of the accused were treating him to fisticuffs and kicks. They beseeched the assailants not to do so, but Jai Ram said that he (the victim) works for the opponents and exhorted others to beat him and drive a stick (lathi) up his anus. Ram Dulare fainted. Then accused Udai @ Udai drove a lathi up his anus. As a result he died. The above incident occurred at about 01:00 or 01:30 in the night. The appellants fled the spot, threatening the witnesses with dire consequences, if they reported the incident to the police station etc. It was a moonlit night. They identified appellants, who belonged to their own village. Thereafter, they carried the cadaver to the police station on a cot and on way, near the Soraon intersection, purchased a piece of paper and wrote out the first information (tahrir) and gave it to the Police at the station where the FIR was lodged. He has also stated that the inquest report was prepared by the Sub-Inspector, which he has proved as Ext. Ka-2.

13. In his cross-examination, P.W.2 has stated that he does not know the person who gave him information that Ram Dulare was being beaten. The inquest report was read over to him by the Investigating Officer and then, he appended his signature to it. He did not tell the Investigating Officer that the deceased was brought to the station, where the application was written in the light and then came to the police station to lodge the FIR. There were 8 to 10 persons, who gathered at the spot. There were injuries over the entire body caused by the lathi blows and blood was oozing out from the rectum. About 8-10 fingers deep, the lathi was inserted in the deceased's rectum, in consequence whereof fecal matter came out and blood was already oozing out, which fell on the ground.

14. P.W.3, Dr. A.K. Nigam, has conducted autopsy on the deceased Ram Dulare on 09.07.1982. He has stated that on

09.07.1982, while posted as Medical Officer at the Moti Lal Nehru Hospital, Allahabad, the dead body of Ram Dulare was brought to him for post-mortem examination at 03:30 p.m. by Constables Raj Mangal and Buddhan Khan, both posted at Police Station Soraon. He has stated that the deceased had died about one and a half day ago. The deceased was of strongly built. Rigor mortis had passed through the upper limb of the body but present in lower limbs. He found following ante-mortem injuries on the corpse:

(iii) Contusion 5 cm x 2.5 cm on the left side of chest 2 cm lateral to the nipple.

(iv) Contusion 10 cm x 3/4 of the abdomen of the left side lower part extending from pubic region 1 cm above the anterior superior iliac spine.

(v) Contusion 6 cm x 1.5 cm on the right upper arm middle part back.

(vi) Lacerated wound 0.5 cm x 0.5 cm x muscle deep on the left leg middle part inner side.

(vii) Multiple contusion on the back in an area of 15 cm x 12 cm.

15. It was found that the parietal bone was fractured and there was hematoma under the occipital bone. The brain was congested. The stomach had partially digested food material and was full. Small intestine was empty and large intestine was half full. The cause of death was coma due to head injury. He has proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-3 and stated that the above injuries could have been caused by lathi and danda. The death could have occurred on 08.07.1982 at 01:00 in the night. Injury nos. 8, 9 and 10 could be or could not be caused due to something being inserted in the rectum. He handed over deceased's dhoti and underwear to the constable after post-mortem, which he proved as Exts. 1 and 2. He has stated that there may be a variation of six hours regarding the time of death on either side. Injury nos. 8, 9 and 10 are not on the rectum. Rectum was normal and there was no internal injury to the stomach. There were no sign of escape of blood from the nose and rectum.

16. P.W.4 S.O. Arjun Singh, is the Investigating Officer of the case, who has stated that the FIR was lodged in his presence. The informant had brought the dead body along with him to the police station. Upon a written application of the informant, the Head Constable Ram Charan Singh scribed the check FIR. He further stated that he is familiar with his handwriting and signature and the witness has proved the check FIR as Ext. Ka-4. He has further stated that his signatures are on Ext. Ka-4. He has also stated that the Head Moharrir Ram Charan Singh entered gist of the FIR in G.D. No. 5 at 06.05 a.m., a copy whereof has been proved as Ext. Ka-5. The Investigating Officer has stated that on the basis of FIR, he commenced the investigation. The inquest report of the deceased was prepared along with connected papers. He has proved the inquest report as Ext. Ka-2. He has also stated that he collected blood stained dhoti of the deceased and prepared its recovery memo, which is proved as Ext. Ka-11. He has proved the dhoti as material Ext.-1. He inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site-plan, which he has proved as Ext. Ka-12. Thereafter, he recorded the statements of the informant and other witnesses. After concluding the investigation, he filed a charge-sheet in the competent court, which is proved as Ext. Ka-15. He has also stated that it is written in the inquest report that villagers were committing maar-peeet and shouting chor-chor, whereby the death had occurred.

17. The prosecution have produced the following documentary evidence in support of their case namely, Written application (Ext. Ka-1), Inquest Report (Ext. Ka-2), Post-mortem Report (Ext. Ka-3), First Information Report (Ext. Ka- 4), G.D. (Ext. Ka-5), Photo-nash (Ext. Ka-6), Challan-nash (Ext. Ka-7), Sample Seal (Ext. Ka.-8), Letter to C.M.O. (Ext. Ka-9), Letter to R.I. (Ext. Ka-10), Recovery Memo of blood stained Dhoti (Ext. Ka-11), Site Plan Index (Ext. Ka-12) and Charge-sheet (Ext. Ka-13).

18. After conclusion of the prosecution evidence, the statement of accused 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded, in which they denied the prosecution case and said that the witnesses have deposed against them due to enmity. Accused Amrit Lal, Kallu and Harish Chandra have stated that the deceased was killed by someone else while committing theft somewhere, but under the pressure of Ranjeet and Vijay Bahadur and in connivance with the Police, they have been falsely implicated in this case. The appellants have not produced evidence in their defence.

19. After hearing both the parties and examining the evidence on record, the learned trial court found that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the appellants were held guilty, convicted and sentenced. The learned Trial Judge observed that the entries in the inquest report regarding information that the informant's brother Ram Dulare was killed by the villagers upon suspicion of being a thief is hearsay and inadmissible in evidence. The learned Trial Court also observed that the doctor, who carried out the autopsy and wrote the post-mortem examination report, has concealed injuries over the rectum and this negligence of the doctor would not give any benefit to the defence. It was also observed that if direct evidence is cogent and reliable, then hyper-technical medical evidence would have no bearing on the prosecution case. It was also observed that enmity is a double-edged weapon, which could cause an offence to be committed, and on the other hand, a person could be falsely implicated in a case. After so observing, the learned Trial Court convicted and sentenced the appellants.

20. Aggrieved by the judgment of the learned Trial Court, the appellants have preferred this appeal.

21. We have heard Mr. P.K. Singh along with Mr. Manoj Kumar Patel and Mr. Divyanshu Nandan Tripathi, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of appellant no.2 in Criminal Appeal No. 1071 of 1987 and on behalf of appellant nos. 6 and 7 in Criminal Appeal No. 1069 of 1987. Mr. Ghan Shayam Kumar, learned AGA-I has been heard on behalf of the State in both the appeals.

22. It is submitted on behalf of the appellants that the alleged incident occurred at odd hours. It was a blind murder and nobody had seen the occurrence. It is also submitted that the presence of alleged eye-witnesses on the spot is highly doubtful. The witnesses examined in Court are relatives of the deceased and interested witnesses. Their testimony, therefore, is not trustworthy and reliable.

23. It is next submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the FIR has been lodged belatedly after about six hours and there is no explanation for all the delay in lodging the FIR. It is further submitted that allegedly, the surviving appellants were present on the spot and there are general allegations against them. According to the prosecution, they were not carrying any weapons and thus, were not part of unlawful assembly. They had no common object to murder the deceased. The incident occurred far away from the outskirts of the village. There was no source of light.

24. It is also submitted that in rural areas, generally, people gather at a place where some dispute occurs, just to watch it, and merely by standing at the place of occurrence, they cannot be considered as member of the unlawful assembly.

25. Learned AGA appearing on behalf of the State has submitted that the appellants are named in the FIR. The FIR was prompt and there was no delay in lodging it. All the appellants formed an unlawful assembly. Some of the appellants were armed with lathi and all of them, in furtherance of their common object, battered the deceased, as a result whereof, he died on the spot.

26. It is also submitted that ocular testimony is supported by the medical evidence. Merely because witnesses are relatives does not ipso facto become a ground to reject their testimony. There are no major inconsistencies in evidence and other connected circumstances to raise doubt about the worth of their testimony. The prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt and the Court has rightly convicted the appellants. Therefore, both these appeals have no force and are liable to be dismissed.

27. In a criminal trial, the burden of proof always lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. As per the prosecution story, the alleged incident occurred in the dark hours of night, away from abadi of the village and its populated area. There was no source of light, except for the moonlight. According to the post-mortem report, the deceased sustained ten ante-mortem injuries of the nature of contusions and lacerated wounds over different parts of the body, and there were fractures over the parietal and occipital bone; hematoma was present under the occipital bone. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was coma as a result of head injury. The autopsy was done on 09.07.1982 at 3:30 p.m. In the opinion of the doctor, death had occurred about one and a half day ago. The above period shows that the death might have occurred some time in the night of 08.07.1982. Looking into the injuries of the deceased, it is clear that this is not a case of natural death, but murder. Now, we have to see whether it was the appellants, who committed the murder of the deceased as alleged by the prosecution.

28. The prosecution has examined two witnesses of fact to prove the incident. They are P.W.1 Ram Kishor and P.W.2 Pancham. P.W.1 Ram Kishor is the real brother of the deceased and P.W.2 Pancham, his uncle. Therefore, both these witnesses are relatives of the deceased and thus, they are interested witnesses. But, merely being relative witnesses does not render their testimony unreliable and what is required is that evidence of such witnesses be examined very carefully in the light of other evidence on record.

29. Upon a perusal of the testimony of both these witnesses as well as the manner in which they say the incident had happened, their presence at the spot, is highly doubtful. According to the prosecution, P.W.2 Pancham was in his field, irrigating the paddy crop and he was there till after midnight, when a person met him near railway station and told him that the deceased Ram Dulare was being beaten by some men. The prosecution has not disclosed the identity of the person who gave this information to Pancham. P.W. 2 Pancham has also stated that he does not know the person, who gave him the information. It is very unlikely that some unknown person would pass on such information to a stranger like Pancham, expecting that it would reach the relevant person. If that unknown person knew that the informant was the deceased's brother then he would have passed on this information to the informant himself. Thus, the very first source of such information is highly doubtful.

30. Moreover, according to P.W.2 Pancham, after receiving the information, he came running to Kishor's house and passed on to him the information that Ram Dulare was being beaten on the west side of the railway station. Thereafter, Nanku and Chhinu were awakened. All of them reached Ram Awadh's field and saw all the appellants present there. P.W.1 Ram Kishore has stated that his uncle Pancham told him that Ram Dulare was being beaten by some men from the village towards the western side of the railway station, in the field of Ram Awadh, where a crop of bottlegourd was sown. Therefore, he along with Pancham, Chhinau, and Nanku went there and saw the appellants battering the deceased.

31. It has come in evidence of P.W. 1 that on that particular night at about 01:00, he received information that his brother was being beaten and at about 1:30 a.m., i.e. after half an hour he proceeded to the place of occurrence. He has stated that from railway line, he saw that four persons were beating him with sticks (lathi) and the rest were resorting to fisticuffs and kicks. He then reached the place of occurrence and saw the appellants still beating the deceased. He has also stated that he requested the appellants not to beat the deceased, but they kept on the violence for half an hour. Some villagers too were also present there. They also requested the appellants not to beat Ram Dulare. Therefore, as per P.W.1 Ram Kishor, the above episode of assault by the appellants continued for about an hour. In view of the testimony of P.W.1 and P.W.2, it is made out that the deceased was being battered, which led a stranger to give this information to Pancham, who was returning from his paddy field, and he, in turn, apprised the informant about it. Upon receipt of this information, the informant and Pancham collected some persons from the village and, thereafter, reached the place of occurrence, which was away from the populated area of the village, in a field of Ram Awadh near the railway line. All this must have taken a considerable time.

32. In view of the above evidence, it is highly unnatural and improbable that it would take about an hour or so for the eleven assailants to beat the deceased Ram Dulare and cause only ten injuries. If the accused appellants had a common object to kill the deceased, they would not have taken about an hour to accomplish the evil deed. As per the post-mortem report, the deceased had received ten injuries, and according to prosecution, out of the eleven assailants, three were carrying sticks (lathi). Normally, it would not have taken more than five to ten minutes for the 11 assailants to commit this crime. It is highly unnatural that the appellants would keep on beating the deceased up to a considerable time so that people may reach the spot and identify them. Thus, the manner and duration, up to which the alleged incident is stated to have happened, is highly unlikely.

33. There is one more aspect which raises serious doubt about the presence of informant and Pancham, the two witnesses of fact, examined by the prosecution, at the place of occurrence. It has come in evidence of P.W.1 Ram Kishor and P.W.2 Pancham that after receiving the information, they left home for the place of occurrence empty handed. This conduct of the witnesses is very unnatural. After receipt of information that Ram Dulare was being beaten by a group of men, the normal conduct of the informant and his uncle Pancham would have been to pick up a danda or lathi, or any other kind of weapon in hand before leaving for the scene of crime to save the deceased. This conduct of both these witnesses going empty handed to the place of occurrence raises serious doubt whether they, in fact, reached there, and latter part of the incident happened before their eyes.

34. It is also noteworthy to mention that according to the prosecution, the three appellants were carrying lathi and there was no other weapon with them. In such a situation, the conduct of P.W.1 and P.W.2 in not trying to save the deceased and let him be done to death before their eyes is also not reasonable and natural conduct. If the appellants had any dangerous weapon on them like firearms, it could have been understandable for them not to come forward to save the deceased but, lathi were not such a weapon as to deter a person from saving his close relative, like a real brother or nephew.

35. Further, P.W.1 stated that it was after receiving the news that the informant and his uncle Pancham along with Nanku and Chhinau left their house for the spot taking a longer route by road, whereas the other villagers reached there prior to them via the Chamrauti which is shortest route to the place of occurrence. This conduct of the informant is also unnatural. After receiving such startling news, a man of ordinary prudence (P.W.1) should have proceeded via the shortest route to save his brother, rather than take a longer route, and, also, go there empty handed. Therefore, going empty handed via a longer route, without any reasonable explanation, raises suspicion about the presence of the informant and his uncle Pancham at the spot, at the time of occurrence.

36. Besides this, there are major contradictions in ocular and medical evidence. According to P.W.1 Ram Kishor and P.W.2 Pancham, the deceased was beaten up by all the appellants, who treated him to fisticuss, lathi blows and kicks at the instigation of the appellants Jai Ram. The appellant Amrit Lal pulled the deceased down, whereas Udai @ Udai Narain thrustured his lathi in the deceased's anus, on account of which, he died on the spot. P.W.1 Ram Kishor has said that the appellant Jai Ram exhorted on to drive a lathi in the deceased's anus, and, thereafter, a lathi was drove into his rectum. P.W.2 Pancham has stated that it was Udai, who drove the lathi into the deceased's rectum. P.W.1 has stated that lathi was drove about three inches into the anus orifice, due to which blood oozed out and dropped onto the ground (the field). P.W.2 Pancham has stated that about 8 to 10 angul lathi was inserted, as a result whereof, fecal matter came out; he started bleeding and the blood dropped on to the ground.

37. Therefore, both the witnesses have stated that serious injuries were caused to the deceased by thrusting a lathi in deceased's anus and due to injuries sustained by the deceased, there was bleeding from his nose and rectum. But, according to P.W.3, Dr. A.K. Nigam, Medical Officer, who conducted the post-mortem examination of the deceased, there were no sign of bleeding from nose or rectum. He has also stated that the rectum was normal and there was no internal injury in the stomach also.

38. The above observation and the injuries found on the body of the deceased are contrary to the verbal account of P.W.1 and P.W.2. In the post-mortem examination, there were injury nos. 8, 9 and 10 of the nature of contusion on the back of hip and posterior part of right thigh, left thigh and hip and inner part of right hip. The doctor has stated that these injuries were not found on the rectum. There is no evidence that the doctor was partisan or negligent in conducting the post-mortem examination. The nature and number of injuries found on the person of deceased are material. These are not opinions of the doctor, which could be considered in the light of oral evidence, but material part of medical evidence, which show the nature of injuries and the part of body over where the injuries were found. In case of conflict between direct evidence of eye-witnesses and evidence of medical expert, the eye-witness version is to be accepted, unless the medical evidence completely belies the ocular version. In the present case, the medical evidence completely rules out the direct evidence of eye-witnesses. The injuries found on the dead body do not support the dock evidence, and thus, there are material contradictions in the ocular and medical evidence, which raise serious doubts about the prosecution case.

39. The burden was on the prosecution to prove that it were the appellants, who caused injuries and murdered Ram Dulare in the manner, alleged by the prosecution. The prosecution has utterly failed to prove it from the oral and medical evidence, read together.

40. It is argued on behalf of the appellants that it was a blind murder and the deceased was killed by someone else. There was a rumour that the deceased was beaten by the villagers over suspicion that Ram Dulare was a thief, and, in this regard, the appellants have drawn the attention of this Court to an entry in the inquest report where it is mentioned that the deceased was beaten by the villagers, after being suspected as a thief and died as a result thereof. P.W.2 Pancham is one of the pancha of the inquest report and has stated in Court that after reading out of the above inquest report to him, he put his thumb impression upon it. In this regard it may be noted that the purpose and nature of the inquest report is only to know the apparent cause of the death and other entries in the inquest report are not very material. The defence has not asked any question in this regard from the witness P.W. 4, who prepared the inquest report, to clarify this point, so any argument in this regard can not be accepted.

41. In Podda Narayana v. State of A.P., AIR 1975 SC 1252, it was held by the Supreme Court that the proceedings under Section 174 Cr.P.C. have a very limited scope. The object of the proceedings is merely to ascertain whether a person has died under suspicious circumstances or an unnatural death, and if so, what is the apparent cause of the death. The question regarding the details as to how the deceased was assaulted or who assaulted him or under what circumstances he was assaulted, is foreign to the ambit and scope of the proceedings under Section 174. Neither in practice nor in law was it necessary for the Police to mention those details in the inquest report. It is, therefore, not necessary to enter all the details of the overt acts in the inquest report.

42. It is clear from the above discussion that it was a blind murder and the deceased was murdered by someone else, in the dark hours of night, away from the abadi of the village.

43. In view of above discussion, we find that P.W.1 Ram Kishor and P.W.2 Pancham had not seen the incident and their testimony is not reliable and trustworthy. There are major contradictions in ocular and medical evidence. The prosecution has not produced any other independent witness, who were allegedly present at the place of occurrence.

44. In Hem Raj v. State of Haryana 2005 (10) SCC 614, the Supreme Court has held that non-examination of independent witness, by itself, may not give rise to an adverse inference against the prosecution. However, when the evidence of eye-witnesses raises serious doubts about their presence at the time of occurrence, the unexplained omission to examine the independent witness would assume significance. The above authority applies to the present case. According to the prosecution, there were many eye-witnesses and villagers at the spot when the incident occurred. The presence of eye-witnesses, at the place of occurrence, is highly doubtful. The prosecution has not explained why other eye-witnesses were not examined. This aspect of the matter assumes significance and gives rise to an adverse inference against the prosecution.

45. In view of the above discussion, the presence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 at the spot is highly doubtful and it appears that they had not seen the incident. They reached the spot when the deceased had already died and after other villagers had already reached there. It is alleged on behalf of the appellants that there is party politics in the village and they are falsely implicated due to this partybandi. In this regard, P.W.1 Ram Kishor has admitted in his statement that there are two parties in the village, one belonging to Bhayia Lal (whom the informant supports) and the other party is of the appellants. Therefore, the argument of appellants' in this regard has force and a false implication of theirs cannot be ruled out.

46. It is submitted on behalf of appellants that the FIR is ante-timed and dictated by the Police, after consultation and thus loses its significance. In this regard, it may be noted that it has come in evidence of P.W.1 that he had affixed his thumb impression upon Ext. Ka-1 at the police station. On the one hand, he has stated that it was written on way to the Police Station at Soraon, after purchasing a piece of paper there and P.W.2 has stated that it was scribed at the Soraon roundabout. They then proceeded to the Police Station. On the contrary, it has come in the evidence of P.W.1 that it was written, when he signed it meaning thereby, at the police station. He has also said that the name of witness Chhinai was mentioned in the FIR, though he was not present at the spot. This statement is contrary to his previous statement as well as that of P.W.2, that after waking up Chhinai, they went to the place of occurrence, along with Chhinai. On the other hand, the I.O. has said that P.W.2 had given a statement to the Police, whereafter written information (tehrir) was written at the railway station in the electric light and not at the Soraon roundabout. Besides this, it is mentioned in the FIR that "लाश लेकर थाने आया हूँ" In this regard P.W.1 has stated that as he was taking the dead body to the Police Station, so he had written these words in advance. The above explanation is not satisfactory. These words would normally have been written after reaching the police station. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the above contradictions have resulted in the F.I.R. losing its significance.

47. In view of the testimony of P.W.1 and P.W.2 that there was bleeding from the nose and blood oozed out from the deceased's rectum and some blood also dropped at the place of occurrence, the I.O. has said that he searched for the blood

Counsel for Appellant(s) : Ashok Kumar Singh Bais, S.k. Agarwa

Counsel for Respondent(s) : D.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjiv Kumar, J.)

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred by the appellants, namely, Smt. Omwati wife of Hukum Singh, Vijay Pal and Om Pal sons of Chhajju Singh, residents of Village, Bhaila, Police Station Deoband, District Saharanpur, against the judgment and order dated 11.06.1991, passed by the Court of the VIth Additional Sessions Judge, Saharanpur, in Session Trial No.103 of 1990, under Sections 304-B/34 and 201 Indian Penal Code (in short 'I.P.C.'), Police Station Deoband, District Saharanpur.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, appellant, Smt. Omwati has been convicted and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life for the offence punishable under Section 304-B/34 IPC. The appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal have been convicted and sentenced to undergo seven years' rigorous imprisonment for the offence punishable under Section 304-B/34 IPC. All the appellants have also been convicted and sentenced to undergo three years' rigorous imprisonment for the offence punishable under Section 201 IPC also. All the sentences have been directed to run concurrently.

3. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order, this appeal has been filed by all the three convicts. During the pendency of this criminal appeal, appellant No. 1, Smt. Omwati, has died, and the appeal against her stands abated vide order dated 02.09.2025. Therefore, the appeal has been heard on behalf of the surviving appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal.

4. The brief facts of the prosecution case are that the informant, Satyapal Singh, son of Sube Singh, resident of village, Kapsadh, Police Station Sardhana, District Meerut, filed a written report (Ext. Ka-1) before the In-charge, Police Station, Deoband, District Saharanpur, dated 13.10.1988, wherein it was said that the marriage of his sister, Vimlesh, was solemnized with Jai Bhagwan more than five years ago in village, Bhaila. After the marriage, whenever his sister came over to parents' village Kapsadh, she would say that her in-laws were demanding a television and cash. Whenever the informant went to village Bhaila, the same demand was made to him as well, but due to his poor financial condition, he could not fulfill the demand. The appellant, Omwati (mother-in-law of his sister) would regularly harass the informant's sister in this regard. On the night of 11/12 October 1988, at about 11:00 p.m., his sister was murdered by her mother-in-law, Smt. Omwati, Vijay Pal, and Om Pal by administering poison. Soon thereafter her dead body was cremated. The above incident was witnessed by several residents of the village, including Dharampal son of Fakira and Mahipal son of Shadhu Singh, resident of village, Sabirpur and they went over to informant's village and informed him about it. On the basis of written report (Ext. Ka-1), a chik FIR (Ext. Ka-6) was registered as Case Crime No.416 of 1988, under Sections 302, 201 I.P.C., and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, at Police Station Deoband on 13.10.1988 at 20:30 hours.

5. The investigation was conducted by the Circle Officer, R.D. Singh, who recorded the statements of the informant and other witnesses and also collected the burnt bones and ashes of the deceased from the place where her dead body was cremated. He prepared the recovery memo (Ext. Ka-4). He also inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site plan (Ext. Ka-3). After completing investigation, he filed a charge-sheet against the appellants, Smt. Omwati, Vijay Pal and Om Pal, under Sections 304-B, 201 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Saharanpur.

6. The learned Magistrate took cognizance of the offence and summoned the appellants. The relevant prosecution papers were furnished to the appellants under Section 207 Cr.P.C. and the case was committed to the Court of Session on 18.04.1990 for trial.

7. The appellants appeared before the Court of Session and charges under Sections 302/34, 304-B/34 and 201/34 Indian Penal Code were framed against the appellants. They pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

8. The prosecution examined six witnesses in support of the prosecution case; namely, P.W.1, Satyapal Singh, (brother of the deceased), P.W.2, Dharampal, P.W.3, Mahipal, P.W.4, Kishan Singh, P.W.5, Rohitash and P.W.6, R.D. Singh (the Investigating Officer).

9. Out of these six witnesses, P.W.1 Satyapal Singh (brother of the deceased and the informant) has proved the written report, (Ext.Ka-1) and said that his sister, Vimlesh was married to Jai Bhagwan, son of Hukum Singh, about five years ago. Smt. Omwati was her mother-in-law whereas Vijay Pal and Om Pal were brothers of Hukum Singh, Jai Bhagwan's father. Whenever his sister would visit her parent's home, she complained about the demand of dowry and harassment by her mother-in-law. The same demand was also made to him, which he could not fulfill on account of his poverty. About one year and nine months ago, Dharampal and Mahipal came to his house and informed him that on the night of 11/12.10.1988, at about 11:00 p.m., his sister had been killed by Omwati, Vijay Pal, and Om Pal by administering poison mixed in milk and her body cremated on their plot at about 4:00 a.m. Thereafter, the informant went to village Bhaila, made inquiries from different persons, and lodged the FIR.

10. P.W.2, Dharampal, is stated to be a witness, who was present in village Bhaila on the day of the incident. According to P.W.2, he along with Mahipal had gone to purchase a jhota-buggi. They selected the jhota of Jai Bhagwan. Upon Jai Bhagwan's request they stayed at his gher as it had become dark. At about 10-11 p.m., a woman came to Jai Bhagwan's gher and told him that his wife had been poisoned. Thereupon, he went to Jai Bhagwan's house alongwith Mahipal. Some residents of the village, Bhaila were also present there. Vimlesh was lying on a cot and she was vomiting. Omwati, Vijay Pal, and Om Pal were also present there. Vimlesh said to Jai Bhagwan, "अब तो थारे चैन पड़ जायगी, टेलीविजन, सोफासेट व नकद रुपया मिल जायेगा," and also said, "मुझे ओमवती, विजय पाल व ओमपाल ने गेहूँ में रखने की गोली दूध में खिला दी है।" After saying so, she died. Thereafter, the appellant, Omwati said, "मेरी बुद्धि खराब हो गयी थी। मैंने अनाज में रखने की गोली इसे दूध के साथ दे दी।" Thereafter, at about 4:30 a.m., they took Vimlesh's dead body to their plot and burnt it. He has also said that he objected asking the appellants not to burn the body, but they did not agree.

11. P.W.3 Mahipal is also a man, who was present in village Bhaila along with P.W.2 at the time of occurrence. He said that after receiving information that poison had been administered to Vimlesh, he, along with Jai Bhagwan and Dharampal, went Vimlesh's house, where she was suffering in agony and asking Omwati whether her desire for a sofa set, TV, and cash had been fulfilled. Thereafter, she died. The appellants were present there and Vimlesh did not say anything else. We asked Omwati, what she had done, she said that she had committed a mistake and had administered a wheat pill tablet mixed in milk. Thereafter, the appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal insisted on performing her last rites. He told the appellants to inform the Police about the incident, but they refused. Thereafter they picked up the dead body and carried it to their plot.

12. P.W.4, Kishan Singh, a resident of the same village where the incident occurred, has not supported the prosecution case and turned hostile. He said that he does not know the circumstances under which Vimlesh died.

13. P.W.5, Rohitash, also a resident of the village, has also turned hostile and said that he was not present at the time when Vimlesh died.

14. P.W.6, R.D. Singh, Circle Officer, was the Investigating Officer of the case. He said that he conducted the investigation, inspected the place of occurrence, and prepared its site plan (Ext. Ka-2). Thereafter, he went to the place where the deceased was burnt and prepared its site plan (Ext. Ka-3). He also said that he collected the cremated bones and ashes of the deceased from the place where the body was cremated and prepared the recovery memo (Ext. Ka-4). After collecting evidence, he filed a charge-sheet against the appellants, Omwati, Vijay Pal, and Om Pal.

15. After closure of the prosecution evidence, statements of the appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In their statements, they have admitted that Vimlesh was married to Jai Bhagwan, but they said that the marriage was solemnized about 8-9 years ago. It was also said that Vijay Pal and Om Pal are not the brothers of Hukum Singh. They have denied the prosecution case and said that during the days when this incident occurred, Vimlesh was pregnant. On the night of the incident, Vimlesh suffered a miscarriage, due to which she died. This information was conveyed to her parental home (a reference to her relation thus). The informant, Satyapal, came over before whom Vimlesh's last rites were performed.

16. The accused have produced D.W.1, Pratap Singh, in their defence. D.W.1 has stated, on oath, that he knows the informant and the accused. The marriage of Jai Bhagwan (husband of the deceased) was solemnized about 11 years ago. He participated in the marriage. He has heard that Jai Bhagwan's wife died due to miscarriage. He participated in her last rites. The informant, Satyapal Singh, and others from the deceased's parents side were also present there. She died at about 4:00 a.m., and her last rites were performed at about 10:00 a.m.

17. The learned Trial judge, after considering the evidence, adduced by both parties, passed the impugned judgment and order dated 11.06.1991, whereby the appellants, Smt. Omwati, Vijay Pal, and Om Pal, were convicted and sentenced under Sections 304B/34 and 201 I.P.C. as indicated above.

18. Heard Mr. Ashok Kumar Singh Bais, learned Counsel for the appellants and Ms. Divya Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate-I for the State.

19. It is submitted on behalf of the appellants that the learned Trial Court has not properly considered the evidence of both parties. The marriage of the deceased, Vimlesh, was solemnized with Jai Bhagwan about 8-9 years ago. The appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal, are not the relatives of Jai Bhagwan (husband of the deceased) and do not reside with Smt. Omwati (mother-in-law of the deceased). They would not have gained directly or indirectly from any demand for dowry. There is no evidence that they demanded dowry or subjected the deceased to torture or harassment for want of dowry. There is also no evidence that they administered poison to the deceased or assisted Smt. Omwati in administering it. There is no evidence to show that they cremated the dead body of the deceased and thereby caused the disappearance of evidence of the crime. It is also said that P.W.2 Dharampal and P.W.3, Mahipal are chance witnesses as well as interested witnesses, being relatives of P.W.1 Satyapal Singh (informant). Therefore, their evidence is not reliable.

20. On the other hand, the learned A.G.A. has submitted that the prosecution has proved its case against the appellants. P.W.1, Satyapal Singh is the deceased's brother and has supported the prosecution case regarding the demand of dowry and the torture of the deceased. P.W.2, Dharampal and P.W.3, Mahipal were present in the village when the deceased died. They have supported the prosecution case. There is no ambiguity in the prosecution evidence. The deceased gave her dying declaration before Dharampal and Mahipal, and there was an extra-judicial confession by her mother-in-law, Omwati as well. It is also submitted that appellants administered poison to deceased, Vimlesh, and after her death, secretly burnt her dead body on their plot at about 4:00 a.m. Thus, the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt.

21. In the present case, the appellants have been convicted for offence punishable under Section 304-B and 201 I.P.C. Section 304-B IPC reads as follows:-

“(1) Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death.

Explanation. For the purposes of this sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961).

(2) Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life.”

22. In Harjit Singh v. State of Punjab; (2006) 1 SCC 463, the Supreme Court held that, in cases falling under Section 304-B IPC, the prosecution must prove the following essential ingredients for the offence of 'dowry death'.

(a) The death of a woman must have been caused by any burns or bodily injury, or must have occurred otherwise than under normal circumstances;

(b) The death must have been caused within seven years of her marriage;

(c) Soon before her death, she must have been subjected to cruelty or harassment by the husband or any relative of her husband; and

(d) Cruelty or harassment must be for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry. "

23. The Supreme Court has further held that if the aforesaid four ingredients are established by the prosecution, then the death can be called a 'dowry death', and the husband and/or relatives of the husband, as the case may be, shall be deemed to have caused the dowry death. The word 'dowry' has been defined under Section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 which provides that dowry means any property or valuable security given or agreed to be given either directly or indirectly by one party to a marriage to the other party to the marriage or by the parents of either party to a marriage or by any other person, to the other party to the marriage or to any other person. The dowry must be given or agreed to be given at or before or any time after the marriage in connection with the marriage of the said parties.

24. Section 113-B Indian Evidence Act raises a presumption as to the 'dowry death', which reads as follows:-

"When the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman had been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death.

Explanation. For the purposes of this section, dowry death shall have the same meaning as in section 304-B of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860). "

25. In the light of above legal position, it has to be seen whether the prosecution has proved its case. According to the prosecution, the deceased, Vimlesh, was married to Jai Bhagwan since about five years before her death. P.W.1, Satyapal Singh, brother of the deceased, has said that the marriage of his sister, Vimlesh, was solemnized with Jai Bhagwan about five years ago. The defence has not put any question to this witness to rebut or contradict the said fact. The effect of failure to cross-examine a witness fell for consideration of the Supreme Court in State of U.P. Vs Nahar Singh (Dead) and Others (1998) 3 SCC 56, in which, the informant (P.W.1) was not cross-examined by the appellant on the point of explanation of delay in lodging the complaint. It was held that since the evidence of P.W.1 had remained unchallenged on the explanation of delay, the same ought to have been believed by the High Court.

26. Further, in Muddasani Venkata Narsaiah (Dead) through Lrs Vs Muddasani Sarojana, (2016) 12 SCC 288, the Supreme Court has observed that a party is obliged to put his case in cross-examination of witnesses of the opposite party. The rule of putting one's version in the cross-examination is not merely a technical one but is one of essential justice. In case of non-cross examination of the witness on a particular fact, the Court would presume that the witness account has been accepted.

27. Again, in Arvind Singh V State of Maharashtra, (2020) 8 SCC 302, it was held that the prosecution is required to bring home the guilt beyond reasonable doubt. It would be open to the accused to raise such reasonable doubt by cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses to discredit them in respect of their truthfulness and veracity. A party intending to bring evidence to impeach or contradict the testimony of a witness must give an opportunity to the witness to explain or answer when the witness is in the witness box.

28. The principle then is clear that unless the witness is cross-examined on a particular point while in the witness-box and afforded an opportunity to explain, his evidence on that point would be treated to have been accepted by the opposite side. Thus, the testimony of P.W.1 on the point of marriage of the deceased would be treated to be accepted by defence.

29. On the other hand, the appellants, in their statements, recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., have said that the marriage of Vimlesh was solemnized 8-9 years ago. The defence has produced D.W.1, Pratap Singh, who has said that the marriage of Vimlesh was solemnized about eleven years ago. The period of marriage, he has said is not as per defence case. D.W.1, in his deposition, has given the date of marriage also, but no documentary proof in this regard has been produced by the defence. The Investigating Officer has also not collected any documentary proof with regard to the date or time period of the deceased's marriage. The prosecution has contradicted this witness by giving a suggestion otherwise. D.W.1 has not explained the reason why he would still remember the deceased's date of marriage after such a long lapse of time. Even the appellants have not given the date of marriage of the deceased. Thus, the testimony of D.W.1, on this point, is not reliable.

30. In view of the above, it is held that the deceased, Vimlesh, was married to Jai Bhagwan about five years ago since before her death.

31. According to the prosecution, the deceased was administered poison by mixing it in milk, as a result of which, she died. On the other hand, it is the case of the defence that the deceased was pregnant and on the fateful night, there was a miscarriage, due to which, she died. In the present case there is no inquest report and post-mortem report for the deceased. In either of the two eventualities, the death of the deceased cannot be held normal. Therefore, the death of the deceased occurred otherwise than under normal circumstances.

32. The FIR was lodged by P.W.1, Satyapal Singh, the deceased's brother. It has nowhere been said in the FIR that the appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal ever demanded dowry from the deceased or the informant and harassed the deceased due to the above demand. The allegation of demand of dowry is against the appellant Omwati (the mother-in-law of the deceased) alone. P.W.1, Satyapal Singh has said that it was Omwati, the mother-in-law of the deceased, who was demanding a television and cash in dowry. Due to the said demand, she harassed the deceased. P.W.1, Satyapal Singh, has not deposed of any particular act of cruelty or harassment by Omwati. He has not spoken of any instance when the alleged demand of dowry or harassment of the deceased took place.

33. Learned counsel for the appellants drew the attention of the Court to Criminal Appeal No.1076 of 2014 (Karan Singh vs. State of Haryana), decided on 31.01.2025 by the Supreme Court. The said case also related to a dowry death, where there were allegations regarding demand of dowry and cruelty or harassment meted out to the victim. In that context, the Supreme Court held that while deposing about the demand of dowry, the witnesses had not stated any particular act of cruelty or harassment by the appellant, which is an essential ingredient of Section 304-B IPC. The aforesaid judgment is fully applicable to the present case, as the informant in the present matter too has not deposed to any specific act of cruelty or harassment of the victim.

34. The appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal are residents of the same village, Bhaila. There is no evidence to show that they live together with co-appellant, Omwati. According to the prosecution, the appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal are the maternal uncles-in-law of the deceased, and P.W.1 Satyapal Singh, has said that they are brothers of Hukum Singh (father of Jai Bhagwan). Both appellants have denied that they are brothers of Hukum Singh and said that Hukum Singh's father was Kashi Ram, whereas their father's name is Chhajju Singh. They live separately from Omwati.

35. To attract the offence under Section 304-B IPC, the prosecution has to prove that the cruelty was committed by the husband or the relatives of the deceased's husband. In the present case, the prosecution has failed to prove that the appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal, are relatives of Jai Bhagwan, the husband of the deceased. According to P.W.1, he received information about the death of his sister the next day. Therefore, P.W.1 is not an eye-witness to the incident and his statement is only with regard to the demand of dowry and harassment of his sister, a fact which, the prosecution have failed to prove.

36. The prosecution has examined P.W.2, Dharampal and P.W.3, Mahipal to prove that the appellants committed murder of the deceased and the deceased made a dying declaration before them in this regard. Thereafter, in order to cause destruction of evidence of the crime, her dead body was cremated in the early hours of the next day. Upon a perusal of the testimony of both these witnesses, their evidence does not inspire confidence, and it is very hard to believe their version of the story. Admittedly, both these witnesses are residents of another village. Therefore, their presence at the place of occurrence is not normal and both of them are chance witnesses. Being chance witness their testimony is to be closely scrutinized.

37. It has come out in P.W.1, Satyapal Singh's evidence that P.W.2, Dharampal, is the elder brother of Sompal, to whom his other sister is married. Thus, P.W.2, Dharampal, is a relative of the informant. P.W.3, Mahipal, is also a distant relative of the informant. The prosecution's case is that both these witnesses went together to the village of Bhaila to purchase a jhota-buggi. According to the statement of P.W.2, Dharampal, they liked and selected Jai Bhagwan's jhota-buggi. According to

P.W.3, Mahipal, they also settled the price to purchase this jhota-buggi. However, since it was late for them to return to their respective villages, they stayed overnight at the house of Jai Bhagwan. It has come out in the testimony of P.W.2, Dharampal that he did not purchase the jhota-buggi from Jai Bhagwan, but instead purchased it from Jalalabad about 20-25 days later. P.W.3, Mahipal, has also stated that Dharampal purchased a jhota-buggi after 5-7 days of the incident from someone else. The prosecution has not clarified why Dharampal refused to purchase the jhota-buggi from Jai Bhagwan later, despite initially liking it and agreeing to purchase it. This lends weight to the appellants' argument that the purpose of their visit to Bhaila was concocted. Both P.W.2 and P.W.3 are resident of Shabbirpur, and, according to P.W.2, Dharampal their village is 4 miles away from Bhaila. It has come in evidence of P.W.2 and P.W.3 that the price to purchase the jhota buggi was settled by 6:00 p.m. It was not too late for them to return home to their village. Therefore, their stay in village, Bhaila is not a normal event or happening.

38. Besides this, P.W.2 Dharam Pal said that he did not go to the Police Station to lodge the report, as he did not deem it necessary. On the other hand, P.W.3 Mahipal said that they would have lodged the FIR at the Police Station if someone had allowed them to do so. P.W.3 had said that the appellants would not let them go. Therefore, the two witnesses could not go to the Police Station to lodge a report. Both the above stands are contradictory to each other and the reason shown by both of them in not going to the Police Station to lodge an FIR is not very convincing and dependable.

39. According to P.W.1 Satyapal Singh, on the next day of the incident, he went to village, Bhaila and inquired of the villagers regarding the cause of his sister's death. Thereafter, he lodged the FIR on the following day. P.W.1 has not disclosed the name of any person from whom he gathered information about the cause of her death. The prosecution has not produced any such person in support of the prosecution case. The prosecution has produced P.W.4, Kishan Singh and P.W.5, Rohitash, both residents of the same village, where the incident occurred. Both of them have not supported the prosecution case and turned hostile.

40. It has come in the testimony of P.W.1, Satyapal Singh that Jai Bhagwan, (the husband of the deceased), was the love son of his parents. His father had died, and he was living with his mother. He had his own house and agricultural land in the village. The appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal lived separately and had no close relations with Jai Bhagwan. They would not have benefited by the demand of any such dowry. There is also no evidence that they raised a demand for dowry and harassed the deceased. The facts necessary to reverse the burden and attract the presumption under Section 113-B of the Evidence Act have not been proved by the prosecution vis a vis the appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal. In view of the above, the burden was on the prosecution to prove the reason, which led the appellants to commit the dowry death of the deceased with the help of co-appellant, Omwati. The prosecution has failed to establish such motive for them to commit this crime.

41. According to the prosecution, the deceased had made a dying declaration before Dharampal and Mahipal. Section 32

(1) Indian Evidence Act, dealing with the admissibility of dying declaration by a person relating to cause of his own death, is as follows:

“32. Cases in which statement of relevant fact by person who is dead or cannot be found, etc., is relevant.

Statements, written or verbal, or relevant facts, made by a person who is dead, or who cannot be found, or who has become incapable of giving evidence, or whose attendance cannot be procured, without an amount of delay or expense which under the circumstances of the case appears to the Court unreasonable, are themselves relevant facts in the following cases :

(1)When it relates to cause of death. - When the statement is made by a person as to the cause of his death, or as to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, in cases in which the cause of that person's death comes into question. Such statements are relevant whether the person who made them was or was not, at the time when they were made, under expectation of death, and whatever may be the nature of the proceeding in which the cause of his death comes into question.

(2).....”

42. It is settled law that a dying declaration is an important piece of evidence under Section 32(1), Evidence Act and if a dying declaration is found to be reliable, true and voluntary, then there is no need for corroboration by witnesses and conviction can be recorded on its basis alone. But, at the same time, a dying declaration like any other evidence has to be tested on the touchstone of credibility to be acceptable. This is more so, as the appellants do not get an opportunity to question the veracity of the statement by cross-examination.

43. In the light of above legal position, the version given by P.W.2, Dharampal and P.W.3, Mahipal with regard to the dying declaration by the deceased is not reliable. P.W.2, Dharampal and P.W.3 Mahipal have said that while they were staying at the Gher with Jai Bhagwan on the fateful night at about 10-11 p.m., a woman came to the gher and informed Jai Bhagwan that his wife had been administered poison. Thereafter, they along with Jai Bhagwan, went to his house where few men and women of the village were already present. The appellants, Omwati, Vijay Pal and Om Pal were also present there. P.W. 2, Dharmpal has said that Vimlesh was lying on a cot and was vomiting. Then Vimlesh said to Jai Bhagwan, “अब तो थारे चैन पड़ जायगी, टेलीविजन, सोफासेट व नकद रूपया मिल जायेगा।” and also said, “मुझे ओमवती, विजय पाल व ओमपाल ने गेहूँ में रखने की गोली दूध में खिला दी है।” After saying so, she died.

44. In his cross-examination, P.W.2, Dharampal has deposed differently by saying that Vimlesh was slightly unconscious and was murmuring that her mother-in-law had administered a tablet used for preserving wheat and Vimlesh died while murmuring these words. In his cross-examination, he did not say that Vimlesh said anything against the surviving appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal of their involvement in the crime.

45. P.W.3, Mahipal has deposed that Vimlesh was in severe agony and said to Omwati that the latter's desire for a television, sofa set and cash was fulfilled or not ? Thereafter, she died and did not utter any other word. In this statement too, there is nothing said against the surviving appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal that they administered poison to the deceased or assisted Omwati in administering it. There is no case that Jai Bhagwan, the husband of the deceased, demanded dowry or was involved in his wife's death. So why the deceased, Vimlesh would utter words to Jai Bhagwan about fulfillment of his demand for dowry. The Investigating Officer has not taken down the statement of Jai Bhagwan though he is said to have been present on the spot. In view of these contradictions with regard to the dying declaration of the deceased, the dying declaration of the deceased is not believable or reliable. Importantly, there is nothing in the dying declaration against appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal that they played a role in the death of the deceased.

46. It is also relevant to mention that the Investigating Officer recorded the statements of P.W.2 and P.W.3 after more than three months of the date when the FIR was lodged. The prosecution has not given any explanation for this delay. Though the names of these witnesses were mentioned in the FIR, being material witnesses, their statements should have been recorded promptly. The belated recording of their statements without sufficient reason, also raises suspicion about the prosecution case.

47. The appellant, Omwati, who died during the pendency of this appeal, had made on extra-judicial confession before Dharampal and Mahipal. It is a settled principle of the law that an extra-judicial confession made by an accused, under Section 24 Evidence Act, is a weak piece of evidence.

48. In the present case, the extra-judicial confession was made by the co-appellant, Omwati, against whom the appeal has abated. According to P.W.2 Dharampal and P.W.3 Mahipal, she did not say anything in her extra-judicial confession against the surviving appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal, regarding their participation in the offence. Therefore, this point does not require any further consideration by this Court.

49. It is the prosecution case that after the death of the deceased, her dead body was cremated by the appellants at about 4:00 a.m. in a plot of land belonging to the appellants. The Investigating Officer has collected the burnt bones and ashes from the place where the dead body was cremated, and, according to the site-plan, it was a plot and not a cremation ground. There is no evidence that the plot belonged to the appellants. P.W.2 Dharampal has said that he did not go with the dead body for cremation, along with others, and had returned to his house. P.W.3 Mahipal has said that the appellants took the dead body to their plot and he returned to his house. None of the above two witnesses said that the dead body of the deceased was cremated in their presence.

50. It has come in the statements of P.W.2 and P.W.3 that many villagers were present at the house, including Omwati (mother-in-law) and Jai Bhagwan (husband of the deceased). The prosecution has not proved who lit the pyre. It has also not been proved in clear terms that the appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal, cremated the dead body along with co-appellant Omwati in order to cause the disappearance of evidence of the crime. In absence of such evidence, it can not be said that the appellants cremated the dead body and caused disappearance of evidence.

51. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the Trial Court failed to appreciate evidence in the proper prospective and without applying the settled principles of law, assumed that not informing the informant about the death of the deceased and cremation of the dead body by night raised suspicion that the appellants were involved in the crime. The learned Trial Court also wrongly assumed that the appellants committed the offence and believed the prosecution case on the ground that Jai Bhagwan, the husband of the deceased, was not roped in this case, which rules out the possibility of a false implication of the appellants. It is a settled principle of the law that strong suspicion alone is not sufficient to convict an accused, and suspicion, no matter how strong, cannot replace legal proof in a criminal trial. Proof is established through evidence presented by the prosecution. Suspicion is the distance between "may be true" and "must be true." The prosecution evidence must cover this distance with 'clear, cogent and unimpeachable' evidence to bridge the gap. A Court cannot base a conviction on mere conjectures or to accept suspicion as proof, even if the accused fails to explain certain things. Therefore, there is no concrete evidence against the surviving appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal regarding their involvement in the offence.

52. The prosecution has failed to prove the essential ingredients of dowry death against the appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal. It is not proved that they are relatives of the deceased's husband. There is no evidence that they demanded dowry. It is also not proved that they committed cruelty vis-a-vis the deceased soon before her death. In view of the absence of essential ingredients, the presumption of dowry death against the appellants, under Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act, is not attracted, as already remarked. It is also material to note that the appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal did not live in the same house with the deceased and would not benefit by the demand of dowry. There is also no evidence that they cremated the dead body of the deceased to destroy the evidence of the crime. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the Trial Court has not appreciated the evidence in correct prospective. The learned Trial Judge has illegally convicted the appellants. Thus, the impugned judgment and order passed by the Trial Court is liable to be set aside and the appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal deserve to be acquitted.

53 . In view of the above, the criminal appeal is allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 11.06.1991 passed by the Trial Court is set aside and the appellants, Vijay Pal and Om Pal are acquitted of offence punishable under Section 304-B and 201 IPC.

54. The appellant, Vijay Pal is in custody. He is ordered to be released forthwith, if not wanted in any other case. The appellant, Om Pal is already on bail. He need not surrender. His bail bond is cancelled and the sureties are discharged.

55. The appellants shall execute personal bonds in the sum of Rs.25,000/- each under Section 481 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding to Section 437-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973) for their appearance, in the event of an appeal being preferred against them acquittal.

56. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the Trial Court concerned along with the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, the learned Trial Judge has convicted and sentenced the appellant Bhola Nath Dubey to undergo imprisonment for life, finding him guilty of the offence punishable under Section 302 read with 34 IPC and the appellant Arbind Singh to imprisonment for life for offence punishable under Section 302 IPC.

3. The present Criminal Appeal in regard to accused appellant no. 2 Bhola Nath Dubey son of Deo Narain has abated, by an order of the Court dated 22nd August, 2025. Therefore, the present Criminal Appeal now proceeds on behalf of appellant No. 1/convict, Arbind Singh, only.

4. The brief facts of the prosecution case are that the informant Ram Murat son of Bihari Singh, resident of Village- Bhaishwar, Police Station- Ghorawal, District- Mirzapur submitted a written information (tehrir) dated 15.09.1982 (Ext. Ka-2) before Incharge, Police Station- Ghorawal, District- Mirzapur, stating therein that on 14/15.09.1982 at about 12 midnight the informant's father Bihari Singh son of Jhuri Singh, aged about 60 years, was sleeping on a cot in the living room (Baithka) situate towards northern side of his house. On the other cots, two in number, the informant, his cousin Shiv Murat (fufera bhai), and Gauri Shankar, were sleeping. Upon hearing (aahat) some one's footsteps the informant got up. He woke up Shiv Murat and Gauri Shankar. Four miscreants came near the door of the Baithka. The informant flashed his torch to spot them. One of the miscreants shot at his father, leading the informant to raise alarm. The miscreants made good then escape as were chased. Meanwhile, Ram Surat son of Lalji a resident of the adjacent house, came out of (his house) with his torch. The miscreants were chased across some distance but they fled away towards the south. One of the miscreants was identified as Arbind Singh son of Biswanath Singh and other was Bhola Pandit both residents of Village- Bhaiswar, Police Station- Ghorawal. He had identified the rest of the two miscreants, by face. When they returned to the living room (Baithka), the informant found his father lying dead on the cot.

5. Upon this information a chik FIR (Ext. Ka-16) under Section 302 IPC, bearing Case Crime No. 51 of 1982, was lodged at police station Ghorawal, District Mirzapur, against accused Arbind Singh, Bhola Pandit and two unknown men. The investigation of the case was entrusted to Station Officer of the Police Station, Diwakar Mishra. The inquest report was prepared alongwith connected papers. The post-mortem examination of the deceased was done, whereupon it was found that the deceased had sustained firearm injuries and the cause of death was opined as shock and hemorrhage as a result of the ante-mortem injuries. The investigating officer inspected the torch and prepared its supurdaginama marked (Ext. Ka-4). He prepared a fard baramadgi of one lungi, found after a few days towards southern side of the house, which he proved as (Ext. Ka-5). The Investigating Officer prepared site-plan of the place of recovery, marked Ex. Ka-22. The I.O. also collected a sample each of plain earth and blood stained earth, a bullet, bloodstained clothes and blood stained strap (baandh) from the place of occurrence and prepared its fard baramadgi (Ext. Ka-19). He recorded the statements of the informant and other witnesses. The sample of blood stained earth, one bullet, bedsheet, strap (baandh), and dhoti were sent for chemical examination. According to the chemical examination report (Ext. Ka-25) human blood was found on all the items and the blood group was also ascertained. The I.O. inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site-plan which he proved as Ext. Ka-18. After completion of investigation, the Investigating Officer filed a charge-sheet (Ext. Ka 23) against appellants/ convicts Arbind Singh and Bhola Nath Dubey under Section 302 IPC, before Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mirzapur.

6. The learned Magistrate took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. The accused appeared before the Court. The Magistrate furnished copies of the relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C., and thereafter, committed the case for trial to the Court of Sessions on 25.10.1983.

7. The Court of Sessions summoned the accused. A charge under Section 302 IPC was framed against the appellant Arbind Singh whereas a charge under Section 302 read with 34 IPC was framed against the appellant Bhola Pandit. Both the appellant pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

8. The prosecution examined five witnesses before the Court in support of their case, to wit, P.W.1- Ram Murat (informant and eye-witness), P.W. 2- Gauri Shankar (eye-witness), P.W. 3- Dr. S.K. Gupta (conducted post-mortem of the deceased), P.W. 4- Constable Fateh Bahadur Singh (carried dead body for post-mortem to Mirzapur) and lastly P.W. 5- Diwakar Mishra, the investigating officer of the case.

9. P.W. 1- Ram Murat, is the son of deceased Bihari. He is the informant and an eye-witness of the case. He has said on oath that he knows appellants Arbind Singh and Bhola Pandit. There was enmity between him and the appellants ante-dating the incident. He originally hailed from belonged to District Varanasi. In the year 1971, his father had purchased 11 Bigha of land in Village- Bhaiswar and after migrating from Varanasi started living here. In 1969, while his father was irrigating his agricultural land by Chakra Nala of river Nakhar, Arbind Singh blocked the flow of water and upon objection Arbind Singh had battered his father employing sticks. Thereupon, the informant had lodged a complaint before the Collector and the Superintendent of Police, a carbon copy whereof he has proved as (Ext. Ka-1). He has further testified that since a year before the incident, on account of the village Pradhan election both parties were not on good terms. In Village Bhaiswar his house is located towards northern side with a courtyard (sehan) adjacent to it and to the north of courtyard there is a living room (Baithka), with a door towards the east. On the fateful day at about 12 midnight, his father was sleeping on a cot inside this living room (Baithka), where the informant was also sleeping on a separate cot. He had a with him. On the third cot Gauri Shankar and Shiv Murat were sleeping. Upon hearing some aahat (sound of footsteps), the informant woke up and saw four persons at the door. He then woke up Shiv Murat and Gauri Shankar. The informant flashed his torch and identified Arbind Singh and Bhola Pandit. Arbind was holding a revolver in hand whereas Bhola Pandit was carrying a ballam. The rest of the two miscreants were wielding lathis, whom he could not identify. The appellant Arbind Singh shot his father causing injuries to his head and the right eye. He raised alarm, whereupon, Ram Surat and others reached there, carrying a torch. The appellants fled towards south. They who were chased through some distance, but they fled away. Thereafter, the informant returned to the living room (Baithka) where he found his father Bihari lying dead with blood on his cot and some blood had also spilt on to the earth. Due to fear he did not go anywhere and stayed in the house. The next morning he wrote down an application in his own hand and took it to Police Station Ghorawal, at about 08.30 a.m., which he gave to the constable. The witness has proved his tehrir as (Ext.-Ka-16). He has further stated that the I.O., after recording his statement at the Police Station, came over to the deceased's village for investigation. During investigation the informant and Ram Surat had shown him their respective torches of which he prepared a supurdagi nama (Ext. Ka-3). There was a torch lying on his father's cot, which was inspected by the I.O. and he wrote down its supurdagi nama as (Ext. Ka-4).

10. In his cross-examination P.W. 1, Ram Murat has said that he had sent the application to the Superintendent of Police and the Collector by registered post, one or two months prior to the festival of Nag Panchami in 1979. Witness Gauri Shankar's house is adjacent to his house and Gauri Shankar would sleep at Ram Murat's house occasionally. The lantern was lit in the Baithka and it was a dark night. Upon hearing the noise of footsteps, he woke up but did not raise alarm and went over quietly to Shiv Murat's and Gauri Shankar's cots woken them up, otherwise the intruders would have fled. The miscreants opened fire after the informant had flashed his torch. He forgot to write in his first information that appellant Arvind Singh was carrying a revolver and Bhola Pandit a ballam. His father was shot from a distance of one foot and the bullet hit his head and passed through his right eye. The assailant had shot him in a bending position. None of the accused had covered their faces. He went to the Police Station on a bicycle. He had asked Ram Surat and Gauri Shankar, whether they would depose before mentioning their names in the FIR. On 15.09.1982, there was a case pending in the Mirzapur Court where he was an accused. About two to three years prior to this incident a case was lodged against him, Ram Surat, Gauri Shankar and others in which both the accused (of this case) had deposed against them. There was a case regarding one Prabhawati's murder lodged against him at the behest of Arvind Singh. There was another case of maarpeet lodged against him and his father. Teju Kaal has also lodged a case against him, Ram Surat, Shiv Murat and Gauri. Prior to this incident Premanand had lodged a case regarding the theft against this witness which was compromised. In that case, Inspector Pachmi Ram had come along with Arvind Singh and Baba to arrest them. In that case there were other accused, to wit, Vullu, Sharda and Ram Surat, alongside him. While being arrested by the Inspector, they obstructed. He has admitted that there are many cases pending against them.

11. P.W. 2- Gauri Shankar is another eye-witness of the incident. He has said that he knows the appellant Arbind Singh and Bhola Pandit. The deceased Bihari was his Mama (maternal uncle). About one and a half years ago at about 12 midnight, Bihari was asleep on a cot in front of the door to his baithaka whereas the witness himself, Shiv Murat and Ram Murat were sleeping on two other cots. Ram Murat and Shiv Murat woke him up, and when Ram Murat flashed his torch, they saw the appellants Arbind Singh, Bhola Pandit besides two other persons standing at the Baithaka of door. Arbind Singh was wielding a revolver and Bhola, a ballam and the two others had danda on them. As soon as, Ram Murat flashed his torch, Arbind Singh shot Bihari with his revolver which hit Bihari on the back side of head, behind the ear passing through the right eye of the deceased; and, after hitting the earthen (मिटटी का) pillar the bullet dropped onto the deceased's cot. Upon their alarm Ram Surat came over with a torch. The appellants fled towards southwards. They were chased through some distance but they fled away. Thereafter, P.W. 2 returned to the Baithaka and saw Bihari lying dead. There was blood over his bed, cot and also splattered on the earth. At the time of this incident, the appellant Arbind Singh was wearing a kurta and lungi and the lungi present before the Court is the same, which Arbind Singh was wearing at the time of incident. The aforesaid lungi was found on 16.09.1982 at about 04.00 p.m. towards the southern side of the informant's house in a drain. The I.O. had collected this lungi and prepared a fard baramadgi, which he proved as (Ext. Ka-5).

12. In his cross-examination, the P.W. 2 has said that the Lungi was found in a drain and it was not taken to the police station the same day. Except for the rainy seasons, he sleeps in his own house, but in the rainy season he would sleep in Bihari's Baithka, because it has many windows. To the north of his own house, there is Oshara having windows. When they returned after chasing the appellants the bullet was found lying on the deceased's cot. Ram Murat was not attacked when he flashed the torch. Ram Murat had awakened them saying that get up, let us see who are these persons. After the appellants had fled away 25-50 persons of the village visited at the place of occurrence. He has admitted that there is a dispute regarding the irrigation of land between him and the appellant Arvind Singh. He lodged a complaint regarding maarpeet against Arvind Singh and others, which was dismissed. In a case under Section 304 I.P.C. he was accused along with Uma, Ram Murat and others. The appellant Bhola did not reside in village Bhaiswar, but would frequent it.

13. P.W. 3 Doctor S.K. Gupta, is an expert witness who has conducted the post-mortem examination of the deceased cadaver on 16.09.1982 at 03.00 p.m. in District Hospital, Mirzapur. He has said that the deceased was aged about 60 years. Rigor mortis had passed away from the upper part of the body and was passing through the lower parts. Blood was oozing from the nose and right ear. There were blisters over the nose. Mouth was open and the entire body was swollen. He found following ante-mortem injuries over the body:-

(i) Fire-arm wound of entry 1cm x 1cm x cranial cavity at right back side of the head. The margins of wound were inverted and lacerated.

(ii) The right eye ball was torn and bulging out and bleeding.

(iii) Right occipital bone was fractured, corresponding with injury no. 1, caused by fire-arm.

Brain towards right side of injury no. 1 was lacerated and it was corresponding to injury no. 1. About one ounce of blood and clotted blood was present. Superior plate of the orbit of right eye was fractured. There was semi-digested food in the stomach. The small intestine was filled with gases and there was fecal matter in the large intestine. The gall bladder was empty. In the opinion of the doctor the cause of death was shock and hemorrhage as a result of injury no. 1. In his opinion injury no. 1 was caused by a shot from a revolver. The exit of injury no. 1 was corresponding to the eye ball of the right eye. The assault could have occurred from a distance of 3 to 4 feet or more than that distance. The death of the deceased would have occurred at about 12 midnight on 14/15.09.1982. He has proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-6.

14. In his cross-examination, P.W. 3 Dr. S.K. Gupta, has said that the above injury could be caused by gun shot from a distance of more than 4 feet because there was no blackening and scorching around the margins of the injury. The direction of the above injury was parallel to the body of deceased, while in the lying position.

15. P.W. 4- Constable, Fateh Bahadur Singh, is a formal witness who took the dead body of the deceased for post-mortem to Mirzapur, after the inquest report was prepared.

16. P.W. 5- S.O., Diwakar Mishra, is the Investigating Officer of this case. He has proved the chik FIR, Ext. Ka-16 as secondary witness of Head Constable, Shiv Shankar Singh, the scribe of the FIR. He has also proved G.D. No. 6 as Ext. Ka-17. He has said that he recorded the statements of witnesses. The inquest report of the deceased was prepared along with relevant connected papers. He has proved inquest report as Ext. Ka-10, related papers photo nash, challan laash, letter to the CMO and the letter to the R.I. sample seals etc. as Ext. Ka-7 to 13. He has also stated that he inspected the place of occurrence and prepared a site-plan which he proved as Ext. Ka-18. He collected samples of plain earth and blood stained earth from the place of occurrence and kept it in sealed boxes which he proved as Ext. 2 and 3. He recovered a bullet lying under the deceased's cot which he proved as Ext. 4. He has also taken sample of blood stained bedsheet (Kathari), Ext. 5, blood stained pillow, Ext. 6, plastic box, Ext. 7, the strap (baandh) of the cot, Ext. 8, blood stained baniyan, Ext. 9 and prepared a fard baramadgi, marked as Ext. Ka-19. He has also prepared a recovery memo (supurdagi nama) for the torch kept on the deceased's cot marked as Ext. Ka-4. He also inspected torches of witness, Vikram and Bullu which were in running condition and he proved it as Ext. 3. He raided houses in search of the appellants but they were not found. On 17.09.1982, Shiv Murat handed him over the lungi, Ext. 1, which was left by accused at the place of occurrence and prepared its fard baramadgi which he proved as Ext. 5. After completion of investigation he submitted a charge-sheet, Ext. Ka-23, before learned Magistrate.

17. In his cross-examination he has said that the office of the Circle officer, Churk, was about 40 km away from the police station and there is vehicular connectivity between the two. The chik report is sent the same day to the Circle Officer, if it is lodged before 12 noon, and in other cases, the next day. The date is 17.09.1982 endorsed on the chik under C.O.s signature. The date of receipt at the office of Circle Officer is not mentioned in the G.D. of 15.09.1982. There was (मिट्टी का) pillar in the middle of the Baithka, 6-7 steps away from eastern wall. The deceased's cot was two and half balisht (a measure of man's palm and fingers from thumb to the little finger, outstretched) way from the pillar. There was a bullet mark at the height of about 5 balisht on the earthen pillar, which was about two and half balisht higher than the placing of the deceased's cot. The informant had not told him that due to fear he did not go to the police station the same night. Gauri Shankar had not told him that appellant Shiv Murat's lungi was recovered in his presence.

18. The following documentary evidence has been produced by the prosecution to prove its case; Exhibit Ka-1, Tehrir dated 29.08.1982, Exhibit Ka-2, Tehrir dated 15.09.1982, Exhibit Ka-3 and Exhibit Ka-4, Recovery memo and supurdginama of torch, Exhibit Ka-5, Recovery memo of Lungi, Exhibit Ka-6 post-mortem report, Exhibit Ka-7 Letter to R.I., Exhibit Ka-8 Letter to the C.M.O., Exhibit Ka-9 Report regarding post-mortem, Exhibit Ka-10 Inquest report, Exhibit Ka-11 Copy of Chik FIR, Exhibit Ka-12 naksha laash, Exhibit Ka-13 Challan laash, Exhibit Ka-14 Sample of Seal, Exhibit Ka-15 G.D. No.22, Exhibit Ka-16 Chik FIR, Exhibit Ka-17 G.D., Exhibit Ka-18 site-plan, Exhibit Ka-19 Recovery memo of blood stained and plain earth and bullet blood stained, Exhibit Ka-20 Search memo of Arbind Singh, Exhibit Ka-21 Search memo of Bhola Nath Dubey, Exhibit Ka-22 site-plan of the place where the Lungi was recovered, Exhibit Ka-23 the charge-sheet, Exhibit Ka-24 Chemical Examination Report, Exhibit Ka-25 report of the chemical examiner, Material Exhibit-1 Lungi, Material Exhibit 2 and 3 sample of blood stained and plain earth, Exhibit 4 Bullet, Exhibit 5 blood stained Kathri, Exhibit 6 pillow, Exhibit 7 tobacco dibia, Exhibit 8 blood stained baandh, and Exhibit 9 blood stained baniyan.

19. After the closure of prosecution evidence, statements of the appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein they denied the prosecution case and stated that false evidence has been adduced against them and that due to enmity they have been falsely implicated in the present case.

20. The accused did not produce any evidence in their defence.

21. After hearing both the parties and perusal of record, the learned Trial Judge convicted the appellant- Arbind Singh under Section 302 and appellant Bhola Nath Dubey under Section 302 IPC read with 34 IPC. The Trial Court observed that there was motive for the appellants to commit Bihari's murder, because Bihari had purchased a land in the village and there was dispute with regard to its irrigation with Arbind Singh. There was a factional dispute relating to election of the Gram Pradhan which served as a motive as well. Though, the incident had occurred in the dark of night but a torch was flashed across the faces of the appellants, leading the assailants to be recognized by the witnesses. The presence of Gauri Shankar in the deceased Bihari's Baithka is well explained and the FIR was lodged promptly. There is no inordinate delay in lodging the FIR. The learned Trial Judge also observed that the FIR was not ante-timed. P.W. 1, Ram Murat and P.W. 2, Gauri Shankar had proved the occurrence. There are no material contradictions in ocular and medial evidence. In view of the above, the Trial Court convicted the appellants and sentenced them as indicated above.

22. We have heard rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

23. It is submitted on behalf of the surviving appellant that the FIR was lodged belatedly and there is no plausible explanation regarding the delay. It is also submitted that the FIR is ante-timed and the date and time of lodging the FIR were endorsed later showing an earlier time. It is also submitted that the eye-witnesses are close relatives of the deceased and they are highly interested witnesses. Therefore, their testimony is not reliable. It is further submitted that the presence of the eye witnesses at the place of occurrence is also highly doubtful. It is next submitted that there are material contradictions in the testimony of PW-1- Ram Murat and PW-2, Gauri Shankar, which makes their presence at the place of occurrence very doubtful. The prosecution have not produced any other independent witness which renders the prosecution case unreliable. It is further submitted that there are major contradictions in the ocular evidence and medical evidence which does not support the prosecution case.

24. It is also submitted that the deceased and the eye witnesses P.W.1 and P.W.2 had criminal history and the deceased might have been killed by someone else in the dark hours of the night, and the appellants have been falsely implicated in this case due to enmity (party bandi). It is also submitted that the appellants had no motive to kill the deceased, particularly an immediate motive. Therefore, the prosecution was unable to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the Trial Court has not appreciated the evidence on record correctly. Thus the impugned judgment is illegal and the conviction and sentence awarded to the appellant is not sustainable.

25. On the other hand, it is submitted on behalf of the State that there is no delay in lodging the FIR. It was promptly lodged. PW-1 and PW-2 are natural witnesses who were present at the time of the incident and they have supported the prosecution case. There are no major contradictions in their testimony. Thus, their testimony was reliable and trustworthy. It is also submitted that there are no major contradictions in ocular evidence and medical evidence. There was motive for the appellants to commit the murder of the deceased, as earlier there arose a dispute between the parties and due to the Gram Pradhan election, there was party rivalry in the village which led the appellants to harbor animosity against the deceased. Therefore, there was motive for the appellants to commit this murder.

26. It is further submitted that though it was dark in the night, but the witnesses had torches in their hands and they had identified the appellants when the torch light was flashed across their faces. The appellants are residents of the same village. Therefore, they were known to the witnesses, who flawlessly identified them. Thus, the prosecution case was proved beyond reasonable doubt and the Trial Court has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellants. Therefore, this appeal is liable to be dismissed.

27. In the light of submissions of both parties and evidence on record we have to see that whether the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. It is settled law that in a criminal case the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. In the present case, according to the prosecution, on 14/15.09.1982 at about 12 midnight, the appellants came to the place of occurrence, which was the Baithka of the informant, with an intention to commit the murder of Bihari, the informant's father, and in furtherance of their common intention, the appellant/ convict Arvind Singh shot Bihari with a revolver, as a result of which Bihari died on the spot.

28. In the present case, the date and time of Bihari's death is not disputed. Doctor S.K. Gupta, PW-3, has conducted the post-mortem examination of the deceased and found that the deceased sustained two fire arm ante-mortem injuries. The one was a firearm entry wound on the right side of the back of skull, margins inverted and lacerated. The other injury was that the right eyeball was lacerated and bulging out. In his opinion injury no. 1 was caused by fire from a revolver. The exit of injury no. 1 was corresponding to the eye ball of the right eye and there was a fracture of the occipital bone. The deceased's brain towards right side of injury no. 1 was lacerated and it was corresponding to injury no. 1. In view of the medical examination report, it is clear that the deceased had died due to a head injury caused by firearm.

29. Further, PW-1, Ram Murat and PW-2 Gauri Shankar, have said in their dock evidence that the alleged incident took place at 12 midnight of 14/15.09.1982. In this regard, Doctor S.K. Gupta, who has conducted the post-mortem examination on 16.9.1982 at 3 p.m., has opined that death could have taken place about one and a half day prior to the post-mortem examination. Thus, the above time tallies, with the time and date stated by the eye witnesses which supports the prosecution case. Therefore, the date and time as well as the death of deceased Bihari are not disputed and they are established by the prosecution.

30. So far as the place of occurrence is concerned, it is also not disputed by the defence. In this regard, PW-1 Ram Murat and PW-2 Gauri Shankar, have categorically stated that the deceased was murdered while he was sleeping on his cot in the Baithka. It has also come in evidence that there were gunshot injuries to the deceased and he was bleeding. Blood had also dropped down on deceased's cot as well as on the floor under the cot.

31. The Investigating Officer, PW-5 Diwakar Mishra, has inspected the place of occurrence on the morning following the incident and found that the dead body of the deceased was lying on the cot in the Baithka. He also found a bed-sheet, pillow, and kathri soaked in blood and blood-stained earth under the cot. He also found that the straps (baandh) of the cot were also soaked in blood. The Investigating Officer collected the above articles as well as samples of plain earth and blood-stained earth and sent them for chemical examination. In view of the chemical examination report (Exhibit Ka-24) these articles carries human blood. Thus, the ocular evidence as well as the evidence collected by the I.O. at the place of occurrence and also the fact that the body of the deceased was found lying at the cot of the Baithka, proves that the deceased was killed at the place of occurrence as alleged by the prosecution. The defence has also not suggested any alternative place of occurrence where the murder of the deceased could have taken place. Therefore, the place of occurrence is established by the prosecution.

32. It is submitted on behalf of the appellants that the FIR was lodged belatedly and it was ante-timed, and thus, the prosecution case is not believable. In this regard, the prosecution case is that the incident occurred on 14/15.09.1982 at 12 midnight, and the FIR was lodged by the informant Ram Murat, son of Bihari, on 15.09.1982 at 8:30 a.m. at Police Station-Ghorawal, District Mirzapur.

33. Upon a perusal of the chick FIR, it is clear that the distance of the police station from the place of occurrence is eight miles. The FIR was lodged about 8^{1/2} hours after the time of incident. In this regard, PW-1, Ram Murat has said that due to fear, he did not go to the police station the same night, and in the morning, he himself wrote down the application (tehrir) and went to the police station on a bicycle and lodged the FIR. The reason shown by the informant for lodging the FIR, belatedly, does not appeal to us. Here, it is pertinent to note that it has come in evidence that after the incident, many residents of the village reached the spot, and right through the night they were visiting the place of occurrence but, the informant did not ask any villager to accompany him to go the police station to lodge an FIR. Here, it is also noteworthy that according to PW-1 and PW-2, they chased the assailants across a certain distance and after the assailants fled away, they returned to the place of occurrence. It has also come in evidence that there were some criminal cases lodged against the informant and the deceased. In one such case, both the appellants of this case had deposed against the informant and PW-2 Gauri Shankar, the other witness of this case. There was one case regarding theft lodged against the informant, and in that case, the police inspector came to arrest the informant, and at that particular time, the appellant Arbind Singh and Babu, had accompanied the police personnel. It has also come in evidence of PW-1 that when the inspector tried to arrest the informant Ram Murat in that case, he obstructed the arrest, and in this regard, another case was lodged against him.

34. Further, according to PW-2 Gauri Shankar, in the case under Section 304 IPC regarding culpable homicide not amounting to murder, the informant, himself, and others were accused, and in another case with regard to attempt to commit culpable homicide not amounting to murder both of them along with others were accused. Therefore, upon looking at the above evidence, it is clear that both the informant and PW-2 Gauri Shankar had criminal antecedents, and the deceased too have criminal history. It is also clear that in some such criminal cases the appellants of this case stood with the other side.

35. In view of the above background, it is not natural on the informant's part not to proceed to the police station the same night to lodge an FIR, though he chased the assailants with the other villagers, knew them well and almost all the persons of the village had reached the place of occurrence, which they kept visiting the entire night some coming in and others leaving. In view of the above, it cannot be said that the informant would have had any fear in proceeding to the police station to lodge an

FIR. The informant has not disclosed any reason for the delay in lodging the FIR in the written report. In view of the evidence of the I.O. that the informant did not tell him, that due to fear he did not go to the Police Station during the night to lodge the FIR, this reason put forward to explain the delay cannot be accepted. Therefore, there is inordinate delay in lodging the FIR, and the delay has not been satisfactorily explained by the prosecution. In Thulia Kali Vs. State of Tamil Nadu 1972 (3) SCC 393, the Supreme Court has held that on account of delay, the FIR not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger creeps in of the introduction of colored version, exaggerated account or concocted story as a result of deliberation and consultation. Thus, the delay in lodging the FIR should be satisfactorily explained. It was also held that if the witnesses examined have given contradictory evidence and there is discrepancy on the point and the prosecution fail to examine other independent material witnesses then it would make the Court draw an adverse inference against the prosecution. In Mohd. Muslim Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (now Uttarakhand) 2023 (7) SCC 350, it has been held by the Supreme Court that the FIR in a murder case is vital and valuable piece of evidence. Infirmities in the FIR casts doubt on its authenticity, depletes its evidentiary value and entitles the accused to the benefit of doubt.

36. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that the FIR was ante-timed and lodged later on with an earlier time mentioned in it. In this regard, upon a perusal of evidence, it appears that the office of the Circle Officer, Robertsganj, is about 40 kilometers away from the police station and it has come in evidence that generally, those chik FIR which are lodged before 12 noon are sent to the Circle Officer the same day, and in case FIRs lodged after 12 noon, they are sent to the Office of Circle Officer the next day. In the present case, the FIR was lodged at 8:30 a.m., which means it was lodged before 12 noon. The record shows that the FIR reached the Office of the Circle Officer the next day.

37. The prosecution has not clarified why the FIR was not sent to the Office of the Circle Officer the same day, which was against the general practice, raising suspicion that it was anti-timed.

38. The Supreme Court in Meharaj Singh (L/Nk.) v. State of U.P., (1994) 5 SCC 188, has observed in para 12 of the report:

“FIR in a criminal case and particularly in a murder case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence for the purpose of appreciating the evidence led at the trial. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the FIR is to obtain the earliest information regarding the circumstance in which the crime was committed, including the names of the actual culprits and the parts played by them, the weapons, if any, used, as also the names of the eye witnesses, if any. Delay in lodging the FIR often results in embellishment, which is a creature of an after thought. On account of delay, the FIR not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger also creeps in of the introduction of a coloured version or exaggerated story. With a view to determine whether the FIR, was lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, the courts generally look for certain external checks. One of the checks is the receipt of the copy of the FIR, called a special report in a murder case, by the local Magistrate. If this report is received by the Magistrate late it can give rise to an inference that the FIR was not lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, unless, of course the prosecution can offered a satisfactory explanation for the delay in dispatch or receipt of the copy of the FIR by the local Magistrate. Prosecution has led no evidence at all in this behalf. The second external check equally important is the sending of the copy of the FIR along with the dead body and its reference in the inquest report. Even though the inquest report, prepared u/s 174 Cr. P.C. is aimed at serving a statutory function, to lend credence to the prosecution case, the details of the FIR and the gist of statements recorded during inquest proceedings get reflected in the report. The absence of those details is indicative of the fact that the prosecution story was still in embryo and had not been given any shape and that the FIR came to be recorded later on after due deliberations and consultations and was then ante timed to give it the colour of a promptly lodged FIR.”

39. In view of the above, there was inordinate delay in lodging the FIR without reasonable explanation which raises doubt over the prosecution case.

40. It is next submitted on behalf of the appellant that there was no motive for the appellants to commit the offence. On the other hand, it is argued on behalf of prosecution that the appellant had motive enough to commit the offence because Bihari had purchased land in the appellant's village in the year 1971, and thereafter, set up residence there. In the year 1979 when he was irrigating his agricultural land the appellant Arbind Singh had caused obstruction and raised some dispute in this regard. Thereupon P.W. 1 Ram Murat had sent a report to the Office of the Superintendent of Police and the Collector. P.W. 1 Ram Murat, has proved this application as (Ext. Ka-1). There is a postal receipt alone in this regard and no other evidence to prove that this application ever reached the Office of the Superintendent of Police or the Collector and if so what action was taken on this application by these officers, has been produced. Even if it is assumed, that the above complaint had reached to the Superintendent of Police, then all that it shows is that there was a dispute regarding the irrigation of land and that too in the year 1979, whereas the incident in the present case occurred on 15.09.1982 i.e., after about 3 years from the alleged dispute. There is no evidence to show that between these three years, the appellants and the deceased ever reached grudges against each other or then. The above dispute is also not of such a serious nature that it would prompt the appellants to commit murder of the deceased, after 3 years of the event, in such a manner.

41. Further, it has been argued on behalf of the prosecution that there was an election of the village Gram Pradhan where the informant and appellants were supporters of rival parties and this rivalry had prompted the appellants to commit murder of the deceased. It is also argued that the election of the Gram Pradhan was held about a year prior to the occurrence and Gopal Singh, brother of the appellant Arbind Singh was seeking election to the post of the Gram Pradhan. His opponent was Vikram Singh. The deceased and P.W. 1 Ram Murat were supporting Vikram Singh and it is on account of this rivalry that the appellants had developed grudge against the deceased and his family, which prompted them to commit murder. This argument, even if it is believed to be true, has no force. Even if it is assumed to be true, it does not give any immediate cause for the appellants to murder the deceased, because the above election was held about a year ago and there is no evidence that in the intervening period both the parties had any other dispute or quarrel of a serious nature. It is very unlikely that suddenly after about one year of the elections for post of Gram Pradhan, the alleged grudge emanating from the Gram Pradhan election would prompt the appellants to commit the murder of the deceased. Additionally, it may be noted that according to prosecution the enmity was between the informant and his father on one side and appellants on the other. It is highly unlikely that under these circumstances the appellants would target the deceased Bihari alone and leave the informant unhurt and not even threaten him, if he was present at the spot. Therefore, from the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the motive for the appellants to commit the murder is very weak and not reliable. Though, this case is based on direct evidence, and, in a case of direct evidence, it is settled law that the motive loses its significance, but, it is also relevant to mention that if a party alleges motive to commit a crime then failure to prove such motive would certainly have some effect on its case.

42. Now let us see whether the direct evidence, in the form of eye witness account, adduced by the prosecution establishes that the appellants have committed the offence. In this regard, the prosecution has examined P.W. 1 Ram Murat and P.W. 2 Gauri Shankar to support its case. P.W. 1 Ram Murat is the son of the deceased and P.W. 2 Gauri Shankar is a nephew (bhanja) of the deceased. Therefore, both these witnesses are the relative- witness of the deceased, and thus, interested witnesses also. In Seeman @ Veeranam Vs. State, Inspector of Police, 2005 SCC (Cri) 1893, and in Baliraj Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2017 AIR (SCW) 2114, the Supreme Court has held that the witness could be a relative but, that does not mean, that his testimony is to be totally rejected. In such a case, it is the paramount duty of the Court to be more careful in the matter of scrutiny of evidence of an interested witness, and if, on such scrutiny it is found that the evidence of the interested witness is worth credence, the same would not be discarded merely on the sole ground that the witness is an interested witness. It is also held that, it is well settled that it is the quality of evidence and not the quantity which is required to be judged by the Court to place reliance on the testimony.

43. Therefore, with regard to a relative- witness, it is settled law that merely on account of being related to the deceased, the evidence of the witness cannot not be discarded and the only precaution the Court would have to bear in mind is that the testimony of such witnesses should be examined carefully by looking at other attending circumstances of the case. Here, in this case as discussed above, the deceased as well as the informant and the eye witness Gauri Shankar, were involved in many criminal cases together and had criminal antecedents as well. The appellants had deposed against them in one such case and accompanied the inspector in another, to cause the informant's arrest. The argument on behalf of the appellants is that deceased who had criminal antecedent would have many enemies, and it may be that he was eliminated by some other person; and a blind murder as it was, led the informant to take benefit of the dispute due to partybandi, in order to falsely implicate them in this case.

44. After a careful examination of the testimony of P.W. 1 and P.W. 2, it comes out that the presence of both these witnesses is highly doubtful at the place of occurrence, at the time of incident. There are not only major contradictions in their testimony but also the manner in which they have described the incident to have taken place. The account is highly improbable and no reliance can be placed on their testimony. According to prosecution at the time of incident, P.W. 1 and P.W. 2, both were sleeping in the Baithka, alongwith the deceased. In this regard so far as the presence of P.W. 2 Gauri Shankar is concerned, he has said that his house is near that of the deceased. The reason given by Gauri Shankar to sleep in the deceased's Baithka is that except in rainy season, he sleeps in his own house and in the rainy season, he sleeps in the deceased's Baithka because it has many windows and his Oshara has only one window. The above reason given by P.W. 2 to be sleeping in the deceased's Baithka on the fateful day, is very weak. He has a separate house nearby, with an Oshara that has windows. There was no reason for him to sleep in the Baithka of the deceased. He has stated that he was awakened by P.W. 1, Ram Murat and when he got up he saw four men at the door. The informant flashed a torch across their faces, whereupon one of them shot the deceased from his country-made pistol.

45. According, to P.W. 2, the fire was shot from a distance of 5-6 feet and he has stated that after the shooting the appellants fled the spot. On the other hand, it is stated by P.W. 1 Ram Murat, that accused Arbind

Singh shot the deceased, after bending over him, from a distance of one foot. Therefore, the distance from which, and the manner in which the deceased was shot is given a different account of by P.W. 1 and P.W. 2. Here, it is also relevant to mention that according to PW-1, when he heard the noise of footsteps while sleeping, he did not raise alarm but quietly went to Gauri Shankar's cot and awakened him. Though, it is not clear, but from the evidence adduced by the prosecution, it can be gathered that the doors of Baithka were open, which is why the appellants were seen at the door. When the torch was flashed across their faces, they shot the deceased. In such a situation, when doors were open, and the informant had heard footsteps of someone at odd hours of the night, the normal reaction for him would have been to raise alarm so that the intruders who come from outside would flee, knowing that people inside were alert and not sleeping. The reason given by the informant for not raising an alarm is that he thought that the persons would run away, if he indeed raised it. The above reason is also very weak and unnatural because, at odd hours of the night, if one hears foot steps of strangers approaching his house with doors open, then his first reaction would be to suspect that they had come with bad intentions. In such a situation, the informant should have suspected that the persons who are approaching the Baithka may be miscreants or were there with an ulterior motive. The normal conduct for him would have been to raise alarm rather than keep silence and wake up his roommates. The above conduct also raises suspicion regarding the presence of the informant and Gauri Shankar at the place of occurrence.

46. Additionally, it is stated that the torch was flashed by the informant across the miscreant's faces and one of them fired only one shot leaving the informant and other men in the Baithka unhurt. It has also come in evidence that the other men in the Baithka were neither threatened nor any attempt made to assault them. It has also come in evidence that, it was dark in the night and appellants were not covering their faces, though they live in the same village. Normally, the assailants would have concealed their identity by covering their faces before committing such a crime. If they chose a dark night to commit this offence then there was a possibility for them to cover their faces, but when the torch was flashed at them, they would have apprehended that their identity was disclosed and would have attempted an assault on other inmates or at least threatened them. Further, the sole source of light, the torch, has not been produced by prosecution in Court and no reason for this lapse is given. Therefore, the witnesses testimony about the manner in which the appellants committed the offence is not reliable. The prosecution has not examined the other man, who was also sleeping in the Baithka and no reason has been assigned for his non-examination in Court. In Hem Raj v State of Haryana 2005 (10) SCC 614, the Supreme Court has held that non-examination of independent witness by itself may not give rise to adverse inference against the prosecution. However, when the evidence of the eye-witnesses raise serious doubts on the point of their presence at the time of occurrence, the unexplained omission to examine the independent witnesses would assume significance. The above guidance squarely applies in the present case. In view of the above authority, as the presence of P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 is found doubtful at the place of occurrence and their testimony not reliable and trustworthy, non-production of other witness of fact by the prosecution would lead to an adverse inference about the prosecution case.

47. It has been submitted on behalf of the appellants that there are material contradictions in ocular and medical evidence also which totally rules out the possibility of the appellants committing the murder in the manner alleged by the prosecution. In this regard, the examination of evidence, both ocular and medical, shows they contain material contradictions which raises doubt about the manner in which the incident took place.

48. As per the post-mortem report of the deceased, there were two ante-mortem injuries, one was a firearm wound of entry over right side of scalp on the back side. The margins were inverted and lacerated which means that the deceased was shot at this point and the second injury was that the right eyeball was lacerated and bulging out with bleeding present, when the bullet passed through the right eye. In the internal examination, it was found that the firearm wound on the right eye corresponds to injury no. 1, and there was fracture of the occipital bone on the right side. In view of the above medical condition, it is clear that the deceased had died due to a head injury caused by a firearm. It has come in evidence that at the time of the incident, the deceased was sleeping on a cot of with a height of 2.5 balisht (handspan) (which is the measure of the distance between the tip of the thumb and the tip of the little finger when the hand is spread out). According to P.W. 1, the deceased was shot from a distance of 01 foot, but the autopsy report says there was no blackening, tattooing or scorching around the wound of entry.

49. In Modi's book on Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology, twenty- third edition (Reprint 2011), at page 721, it is mentioned that, 'Blackening is found, if a firearm like a shotgun is discharged from a distance of not more than three feet and a revolver or pistol discharged within about two feet. In the absence of powder residue, no distinction can be made between one distant shot or another., as far as distance is concerned. Scorching in the case of latter firearms is observed within a few inches, while some evidence of scorching in the case of shotguns may be found even at one to three feet. Moreover these signs may be absent when the weapon is pressed tightly against the skin of the body, as the gases of the explosion and the flame smoke and particles of gunpowder will all follow the track of the bullet in the body.'

50. Therefore, in case of firearm injury from a firearm having a short barrel (like a revolver in this case) there would be blackening and scorching, if the weapon was discharged from a distance of less than 3 feet. P.W.1 has not said that the deceased was shot pressing the barrel of the revolver to the skin of the head. In view of the above, the testimony of P.W. 1 becomes doubtful and it is not believable that the shooting was from a distance of one foot. It has come in the testimony of P.W.1 and P.W. 2 that the deceased was lying on the cot when he was shot over the back of his head. In view of the testimony of P.W.3 Dr., S.K. Gupta, the direction of the injuries of the deceased was parallel, if he was lying on the cot.

51. Here, in this case PW-2 Gauri Shankar has said that the bullet passed through the right eye, struck an earthen pillar, and landed on the cot of the deceased. The I.O. has also said that he found a bullet mark on the earthen pillar at a height of five balisht from the ground.

The above manner of assault on the victim is highly improbable and it is not possible that the deceased was shot in such a manner, while in a lying down position on the cot with a height of two and half balisht from the ground. If the deceased was shot while in the lying position on the cot, then it was not possible that the bullet would exit from the right eye and hit the earthen pillar at the height of 5 balisht, situated at about two and half balisht from the cot of the deceased. In such a situation the bullet would not take the upward direction, through the right eye and hit the earthen (मिट्टी का) pillar at double the height of the point of entry. Further, if P.W.1 is believed that the deceased was shot in a lying down position and the assailant shot him from a distance of one foot after bending over him, then the direction of bullet, after exit from the right eye, would not have been upward; rather it would be downwards. Therefore, the manner in which P.W.1 has testified, that the deceased was shot, is not believable.

52. According to the testimony of P.W. 2 the appellant had shot the deceased from the door in a standing position and in that case also, it was not possible for the bullet to take the direction upward after hitting the deceased over back of head, while lying on the cot. In either of the situation, it is highly improbable that the injuries were caused by the appellants to the deceased in the manner, as claimed by the prosecution. Thus, there are material contradictions in ocular and medical evidence and the medical evidence totally rules out the presence of P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 at the place of occurrence.

53. In view of the above findings, we come to the conclusion that the presence of P.W. 1 Ram Murat and P.W. 2 Gauri

Shankar, at the place of occurrence is highly doubtful and there are material contradictions in their testimony, regarding the manner in which the incident is said to have occurred. There are also material contradictions in ocular and medical evidence. Therefore, looking into the facts of the case, it cannot be ruled out that the deceased was murdered by someone else and the appellants have been falsely implicated in this case.

54. Therefore, the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. In this regard, the conviction recorded by the Trial Court is based on incorrect appreciation of facts and evidence, and the conclusion of guilt of the appellants is based on conjectures. Thus, the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside, and the appellants deserve to be acquitted of the charges framed against them.

55. Thus, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the Trial Court is liable to be set aside.

56. In view of the above, the instant criminal appeal is, accordingly, allowed. We set aside the judgment and order dated 20.07.1984 passed by the Trial Court i.e., the Additional Sessions Judge, Mirzapur in Sessions Trial No. 101 of 1983 and acquit the surviving appellant, Arbind Singh, of the charge under Section 302 read with 34 IPC.

57. Appellant No.1, Arbind Singh is on bail. His bail bonds and personal bond are cancelled and the sureties discharged. Appellant No. 1 Arbind Singh, need not surrender.

58. Appellant No. 1, Arbind Singh shall execute a personal bond in the sum of Rs.25,000/- under Section 481 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023

(corresponding to Section 437-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973) for his appearance, in the event of an appeal being preferred against his acquittal.

59. Let a copy of this order be sent to the learned Trial Court concerned alongwith the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

Counsel for Appellant(s) : Dharmendra Singhal (Senior Advocate), Shivendra Raj Singhal Counsel for Respondent : A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjiv Kumar, J.)

1. The instant Criminal Appeal, under Section 374 (2) Cr.P.C., has been preferred by appellants/convicts Narendra and Surendra, both sons of Jagram Singh, residents of Village- Hazipur, Police Station- Siana, District- Bulandshahr, against the judgment and order dated 03.11.1987 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Bulandshahr in Session Trial No. 87 of 1987, State Vs. Narendra and another, under Section 302/34 IPC, Police Station-Siana, District- Bulandshahr.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, the Trial Court has convicted and sentenced the appellants to undergo imprisonment for life for the offence punishable under Section 302 read with 34 Indian Penal Code (in short 'IPC').

3. The present Criminal Appeal in regard to appellant no. 2/convict Surendra has abated, by order dated 12th September, 2025. Therefore, the present Criminal Appeal now proceeds vis-a-vis appellant No. 1/convict, Narendra only.

4. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that the informant Atar Singh son of Girwar Singh, a resident of Village-Buklana, Police Out-Post Bugrasi under Police Station- Narsaina, District-Bulandshahr, submitted a written information (tehrir) (Ext. Ka-1) before the officer- in-charge of Police Out Post-Bugrasi, Police Station- Narsaina, District-Bulandshahr, alleging that today, i.e., on 18.7.1985, at about 2:30 p.m., the informant was moving from his tubewell towards his fields, when he heard someone shrieking. Thereupon, he ran towards that direction and saw Kamlesh wife of Hotilal, also moving fast from her grove. Both of them saw Narendra and Surendra, both sons of Jagram Singh, residents of Village-Hazipur, Police Station- Siana, alongwith two other companions, catching hold of Hotilal and beating him. They raised alarm, as a result, whereof the accused ran away through their arhar field. When they reached Hotilal, they found him dead.

5. It has also been alleged that the informant had identified the other two persons also, and it is further said that there was litigation pending regarding land between Hotilal, Surendra and Narendra. Condition of Kamlesh was not good in health on account whereof he had come to lodge the report. The dead body was lying on the spot. Upon this information, a chik FIR giving rise to Case Crime No. 39 of 1985, under Section 302 IPC (Ext. Ka-2), was registered at Police Outpost- Bugrasi, Police Station- Narsaina, District Bulandshahr, on 18.7.1985 at 16:30 hours under Section 302 IPC. Thereafter, investigation commenced. The investigating officer collected samples of plain earth and blood-stained earth and a blood-stained dhoti from the place of occurrence and prepared its fard baramadgi (Ext. Ka-14).

6. The inquest was done and a report prepared alongwith other related papers on 18.7.1985. Thereafter, the dead body was sent for autopsy. In the post-mortem examination seven ante-mortem injuries were found on various parts of the dead body. There was abraded contusions, lacerated wounds, abrasions, and contusions on the left side of the forehead with bleeding from the nose present. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was coma as a result of ante-mortem head injuries. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of informant and other witnesses and inspected the place of occurrence. He prepared a site-plan of the place of occurrence, which he proved as (Ext. Ka-13). The blood-stained earth, plain earth, blood-stained dhoti, bushshirt, and underwear were sent for chemical examination. According to the chemical examination report, human blood was found, with blood group A. On the blood-stained earth, the result could not be ascertained as the blood was disintegrated.

After collecting evidence, the Investigating Officer filed a charge sheet against the appellants Narendra and Surendra under Section 302 IPC before the competent court.

7. The Magistrate's Court took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. The appellants appeared before the Court, and the learned Magistrate furnished them relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 CrPC. Thereafter, the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial. The appellants appeared before the Court of Sessions, where a charge under Section 302 read with 34 IPC was framed against both of them, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

8. The prosecution examined seven witnesses, to wit, PW-1 Atar Singh, PW-2 Smt. Kamlesh, PW-3 Constable Narottam Singh, PW-4 SI Satya Prakash Sharma, PW-5 Dr. A.K. Bansal, PW-6 SI K.V. Singh, and PW-7 Constable Ram Saran Singh.

9. PW-1, Atar Singh, the informant of the case, has said on oath that the appellants Narendra and Surendra were real brothers and nephews (bhanja) of the deceased Hotilal. At about 2:30 p.m., Hotilal was murdered about two years ago. The witness was returning from his tubewell when he heard shrieks from Hotilal who was in his grove. He ran in that direction, and Kamlesh wife of the deceased, also ran in the same direction. Both of them saw that two men had caught hold of Hotilal in his field near his grove, and the appellants Narendra and Surendra were beating him with mallets (mungris). Upon seeing this, they raised alarm, whereupon all the four men ran away.

Hotilal had died, with blood oozing out of his mouth. He has also said that there was a case pending between Hotilal on one hand and Narendra and Surendra on the other regarding 56 bighas of the deceased's land, and that the possession of this land was with Hotilal. It was on this that the appellants Narendra and Surendra had murdered him. The witness has proved the written report (tehrir) as (Ext. Ka-1) and said that Smt. Kamlesh had covered Hotilal's dead body by her dhoti.

10. In his cross-examination, P.W. 1 Atar Singh said that his tubewell is about 10-15 meters away from the field when the deceased was murdered. The deceased was the appellants' maternal uncle (mama) and the disputed land was recorded in the name of Hotilal's father. Later on the appellants' name were entered in the records. There was litigation pending with regard to possession of the said land between the appellants and the deceased Hotilal and his brother Ram Chandra since 1957. The deceased was aged about 50 years at the time of the incident. He was an ex-army man and had retired about 7-8 years ago. Hotilal's first wife was Pushpa of who had borne him three children. She had left him. Kamlesh is aged about 30-35 years. Hotilal looked after his crops and at the time of the incident, a crop of maize and urd was sown over this land. The witness heard screams when proceeding to his field from the tubewell, and after hearing the screams Kamlesh was seen proceeding from the west. The appellants were beating Hotilal under a tree. About 3-5 yards away from the place of occurrence there was a crop of maize. One miscreant was holding the deceased's hands and the other his lower hands. The appellants Surendra and Narendra were battering Hotilal. The witness himself was about 20-25 yards away from the place of occurrence. When he reached there he saw blood spilt over there. The appellants ran away making there way through the Arhar crop and he did not see whether the crop was damaged or not. He left Kamlesh near the dead body and proceeded to the village within 10-15 minutes. He proceeded to the police station at about 03:00 - 03:30 p.m. on foot. He reached Police Outpost Bukrasi and lodged the report there. The I.O. met him at the Police Outpost and recorded his statement at 04:00- 04:30 p.m. He told the I.O. that the appellants had assaulted employing mungris.

11. PW-2 Smt. Kamlesh is the wife of the deceased. According to her, on the fateful day, at about 2:30 pm., she was in her grove and her husband was in the field near the grove. She saw two men catch hold of Hotilal, and appellants Narendra and Surendra beating him with mallets (mungris). Atar Singh also witnessed the incident. When they raised alarm, the appellants and their two companions fled away. As a result of injuries, Hotilal died. She has also said that there is about 55-56 bighas of land belonging to her, and a case is pending against appellants Narendra and Surendra regarding this land. Due to the above reason, Hotilal was murdered. The names of the appellants are entered in the record, but the physical possession is with hers.

12. In her cross-examination P.W. 2, Smt. Kamlesh has said that she belongs to Culcutta. Hotilal had married her and brought her here from Culcutta, about 10 years ago. Her husband had a first wife Pushpa of whom he had two sons and a daughter. At the time of marriage she was 30 years old whereas Hotilal was about 50 years old. The appellants' names were entered over the land but she is in possession. The field where the deceased was murdered was given on Batai to Atar Singh. Since Hotilal was ill he had given the field on Batai to Atar Singh a year ago. She and Hotilal had taken lunch after weeding the crop. There was no one around at that time. Thereafter, both of them took rest and after a while she left towards, the south of the field for harvesting Jowar crop. Thereafter, she heard screams. Her husband was taking rest under a tree about 2-3 feet away from maize crop. She heard her husband's scream from a distance of about 20-25 yards and ran towards the place of occurrence. She saw that Narendra and Surendra were assaulting her husband whereas the two other miscreants were catching hold of Hotilal. Both the appellants had assaulted her husband alongwith miscreants and about 3-4 blows were deliver in her presence. She had denied the suggestion that she and Atar Singh had illicit relationship and it was they who had killed the deceased and falsely implicated the appellants in this case.

13. PW-3, Head Constable Narottam Singh is a formal witness who has scribed the chick FIR (Ext. Ka-2) on the basis of the written information (tehrir) by the informant. He has also stated that he entered the gist of the FIR in GD No. 18, the copy whereof he has proved as (Ext. Ka-3). He has also said that on 19.7.1985, Constable Vishwanath Singh, deposited two sealed boxes at the Police Out-Post, which he kept in the Malkhana, and entered its gist in G.D. No. 11, which he proved as (Ext. Ka-4). He has also said that Constable Rameshwar Dayal and Ram Saran had brought receipts of clothes in a sealed packet to the Police Out-Post, which he deposited in Malkhana vide G.D. No. 19, which he has proved as (Ext. Ka-5). He has also proved G.D. No. 12 as (Ext. Ka-6).

14. In cross-examination P.W. 3, Head Constable Narottam Singh has said that the special report of this crime was sent to Sadar Hospital by Constable Rakesh Kumar, the same day at about 05:00 p.m. and there are Rakesh Kumar's signature on the margin of G.D. No. 21. Constable Rakesh Kumar returned to the Police Outpost at 10:00 a.m. on 19.07.1985. It is true that date 24.07 is endorsed under Chief Judicial Magistrate's signature.

15. PW-4, SI Satya Prakash Sharma, is the investigating officer of the case, and he has spoken about the investigation he conducted. He has said that he reached at the place of occurrence where the dead body was lying. Thereafter, he appointed panchas and then the panchayatnama (inquest) was prepared which he has proved as (Ext. Ka-7). He has also proved the related papers, such as the challan nash, letter to CMO, letter to R.I., photo nash, and photo lash, as (Exts. Ka-8 to Ka-12). He has also said that he inspected the place of occurrence at the pointing out of the informant and prepared its site-plan, which he has proved as (Ext. Ka-13). He collected plain earth and blood-stained earth from the place of occurrence, as well as the ladies dhoti spread over the dead body, and sealed them in separate boxes. Thereafter, he prepared its fardbaramadgi, which he has proved as (Ext. Ka-14). He recorded the statements of informant and other witnesses and searched for the accused. Further investigation was done by K.P. Verma. He has also proved the proceedings regarding attachment of the appellants' property under Sections 82/83 CrPC, which he proved as (Ext. Ka-15). He has also said that the samples of blood-stained dhoti, bushshirt, and underwear were sent for chemical examination.

16. In his cross-examination P.W. 4, SI Satya Prakash Sharma has said that the starting time of preparation of inquest, in column no. 1, is missing in the inquest report, Exhibit Ka-7. In column no. 2, the cause of death and the nature of FIR is not written. In column no. 3, the distance from the place of occurrence to the Police Station is not written. He has not mentioned in the inquest the nature of weapon by which the injuries were caused. During investigation the appellants did not move any application. He has denied the suggestion that he had taken down the statement of Atar Singh after perusing the post-mortem report. The tubewell of Atar Singh was about 50 steps away to the West-South of the grove. Many fields of Wheat, Maize and Urd crops were sown on both sides of chak road. In his opinion the weapon of assault was not clear, and, therefore, he had not mentioned it in the inquest report. He has recorded the statement of Atar Singh before the inquest report was prepared.

17. PW-5, Dr. A.K. Bansal is a formal witness, who conducted the post-mortem examination of the deceased Hotilal on 19.7.1985 at 4 p.m., while posted as a Medical Officer at the District Hospital, Bulandshahr. He has said that the deceased was about 52 years old and had died one day ago. The rigor mortis had started passing through the hands and was present in his legs. He found the following ante-mortem injuries on the body:

(1) Abraded contusion 10 cm x 6 cm on left side forehead with left black eye and haemorrhage in the left eye. Blood on the nose was present. Skull shape was deformed.

(ii) Lacerated wound 3 cm x 1 cm x bone deep on left side of head.

(iv) Abraded contusion 8 cm x 4 cm right side neck. Blood from right ear present.

(v) Contusion 10 cm x 3 cm right side chest.

On internal examination the doctor found that there was blood under the skin below injury no. 1 and 2. There were multiple fractures on the head; the frontal bone, parietal temporal bone and occipital bone were fractured. Brain tissues were lacerated with blood; the left part of the brain was lacerated. Below injury no. 3, there was fracture in the jaw bone. Below injury nos. 5 and 6, ribs no. 4 and 5 were fractured and underneath the lungs were also lacerated.

18. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was coma as a result of ante-mortem injuries. The doctor has proved the post-mortem report as (Ext. Ka-16) and said that the injuries could have been caused on 18.07.1985 at about 2:30 pm. He has also said that injuries no. 5 and 6 could have been caused by mungris and by dandas.

19. In his cross-examination P.W.5, Dr. A.K. Bansal has said that the time of death could not be the intervening night of 18/19.07.1987. All the injuries could have been caused by Mungri meaning a flat small cane with a thin handle which is generally used in the washing of clothes.

20. PW-6, SI K.V. Singh is the second I.O. of the case and he has said that during investigation, he proceeded to initiate proceedings under Sections 82/83 Cr.P.C. against the accused and, after completion of investigation, filed a charge sheet before the competent court, which he proved as (Ext. Ka-17). The defence had not cross-examine him.

21. PW-7, Constable Ram Saran Singh, is also a formal witness, who carried the dead body of the deceased for post-mortem to the Post-mortem House, Bulandshahr. He too has not been cross-examined by the defence.

22. The prosecution has produced the following documentary evidence in support of their case: Exhibit Ka-1 written report (tehrir); Exhibit Ka-2 chik FIR; Exhibit Ka-3 G.D. No. 18; Exhibit Ka-4 G.D. No. 11; Exhibit Ka-5 G.D. No. 19; Exhibit Ka-6 G.D. No. 12; Exhibit Ka-7 panchayatnama (inquest report); Exhibit Ka-8 Challan nash; Exhibit Ka-9 Letter to C.M.O.; Exhibit Ka-10 Letter to R.I.; Exhibit Ka-11 Photo nash; Exhibit Ka-12 Photo of the dead body; Exhibit Ka-13 site plan; Exhibit Ka-14 Recovery memo of blood stained and plain soil; Exhibit Ka-15 Proceedings regarding attachment of the accused's property under Sections 82/83 CrPC; Exhibit Ka-16, the Post-mortem report; Exhibit Ka-17 Charge-sheet; and Exhibit Ka-18 the report of the chemical examiner.

23. Statements of the appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein both of them admitted that they are real brothers. Smt. Kamlesh is the widow of the deceased, and both of them are nephews (bhanja) of the deceased Hoti Lal. They also admitted that there was litigation pending regarding 55-56 bighas of land between them and deceased Hotilal and said that they are in actual possession of the said land. They have also said that Atar Singh wanted to grab the land in connivance with Kamlesh and thus has falsely implicated them in this case.

24. The appellants have filed certified copy of the Atar Singh's testimony dated 08.05.1985 in Case No. 50 of 1984, a copy of Khasra for Fasli Year 1381-1392, a copy of the S.D.M's order dated 02.08.1982 in Case No. 133 of 1980, a copy of the Khatauni for the Fasli year 1391 and a copy of the Khasra for the Fasli Year 1393. The defence did not adduce any oral evidence.

25. After hearing both parties and perusing the evidence on record, the Trial Court came to the conclusion that the prosecution had proved their case beyond reasonable doubt and thus convicted appellants Narendra and Surendra for the offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC, sentencing them to undergo imprisonment for life. The Trial Court observed that appellants had motive to commit the murder of Hotilal and there was no evidence that the informant Atar Singh and Kamlesh had any illicit relationship or any motive to commit his murder. The FIR was lodged promptly and it was not ante-timed. The place of occurrence is well established. The presence of P.W. 1, Atar Singh and P.W. 2 Smt. Kamlesh at the spot cannot be disputed and their presence at the place of occurrence is quite natural. There is no material contradiction between the ocular and medical evidence. Accordingly, the Trial Court convicted appellants and sentenced them as indicated above.

26. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order dated 03.11.1987, this criminal appeal has been filed on behalf of both the convicts, but, as already said, abated on behalf of Surendra.

27. We have heard the rival submissions of learned Counsel for the parties and perused the record.

28. It is submitted on behalf of the learned counsel for the appellant that the FIR has been lodged belatedly and there is no plausible explanation of delay, raising suspicion about the prosecution case. It is also submitted that the FIR is ante-timed and in the inquest report there is no time mentioned with regard to the commencement of inquest. The special report of the crime sent to the Chief Judicial Magistrate was also received late in the Chief Judicial Magistrate's Office which raises suspicion that the FIR was lodged late with an earlier date and time mentioned in it. It is further submitted that there was no motive for the appellants to commit the murder of the deceased. With regard to the land dispute litigation was pending in Court and admittedly the appellant's name including that of the deceased were entered in the revenue record. Therefore, there was no reason for the appellants to commit this crime.

29. It is further submitted that there was illicit relationship between the informant Atar Singh and Kamlesh, wife of the deceased. The deceased after knowing about it objected to it which led both of them to kill the deceased and get rid of him.

30. Per contra, it is submitted on behalf of the State that this is a case of direct evidence and P.W. 1, Atar Singh and P.W. 2, Kamlesh have witnessed the incident. There was no illicit relationship between Atar Singh and Kamlesh and the defence had not produced any evidence in this regard. There was motive for the appellants to commit murder of the deceased as there was a land dispute between both of them and possession was with the deceased. Therefore, in order to grab the land, the appellants have committed murder of the deceased. It is further submitted that the FIR was lodged promptly and there was no delay in lodging the FIR. Even if it is assumed that there was delay in sending the special Report of crime to the Chief Judicial Magistrate and the I.O. failed to mention the time of commencement of investigation in the inquest report it is no more than a mere lapse on the part of the I.O. which will have no bearing on the prosecution case, proved as it is by direct evidence. In view of the above, the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt and thus, this appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

31. The first submission of the appellant is that the FIR was lodged belatedly and the prosecution has failed to give sufficient reason for the delay, rendering the prosecution case not reliable. In this regard, a perusal of record shows that the incident occurred on 18.07.1985 at 02.30 p.m. The place of occurrence is Village- Buklana falling under the reporting Police Out-Post Bugrasi, Police Station- Narsaina, District- Bulandshahar. In the chik FIR (Ext. Ka-2), the distance from the place of occurrence to the Police Out-Post is 4 km. The FIR was lodged on 18.07.1985 at 04.30 p.m.. Therefore, within 2 hours of the incident the FIR was lodged by informant Atar Singh. In this regard, P.W. 1, Atar Singh has said that he himself wrote down the application at his house, and, thereafter, he proceeded to the police station on foot at about 03-3.30 p.m. alongwith Sukhvir and Trilok Chand. He has also said that he reached the Police Out-Post Bukrashi and lodged the FIR.

32. In this regard, P.W. 3 Constable, 599, Narottam Singh, has said that he was posted as a Constable Clerk at the Police Out-Post- Bugrasi and on 18.07.1985 at 04.30 p.m. the informant Atar Singh brought a written information (tehrir) (Ext. Ka-1) with him and on the basis thereof, he scribed the chik FIR in his own hand writing, which he proved as (Ext. Ka-2). He has also said that he entered the gist of the case in G.D. No. 18, the same day which he proved as (Ext. Ka-3). The above witness has not been cross-examined on the aspect of delay in lodging the FIR. In view of the statement of Atar Singh and P.W. 3 Constable Narottam Singh, it is established that the FIR was lodged promptly and there is no delay in lodging the FIR.

33. It is further submitted on behalf of the appellants that the FIR was lodged ante-timed and in this regard they have submitted that in the inquest report, the time of commencement of investigation has not been mentioned. Besides this the special report of the crime was also sent late to the Chief Judicial Magistrate's Office. It shows that the FIR was lodged ante-timed. We do not agree with this submission of the appellants. P.W. 3 Constable Narottam Singh, the scribe of the chik FIR, has said that the Special Report of the case was sent the same day at 05.00 p.m., through Constable Rakesh Kumar and a reference to that effect was made in the General Diary of the day bearing No. 21. He has further said that Constable Rakesh Kumar returned at 10.00 a.m. on 19.07.1985 and a reference in this regard was also made in the General Diary. He has also said that the signature of the Chief Judicial Magistrate on the chik FIR bears the date 24.07, below his signature. So, according to the date under signatures of the CJM it was put up before him late. But, it does not mean that the FIR was also sent late from the Police Out-Post. No question regarding delay in sending the FIR was asked of the IO so that he could get an opportunity to explain it.

34. The Supreme Court in Sunil Kumar v. State of Rajasthan reported in 2005 SCC (Cri.) 654 has observed:

"Additionally, no question was asked of the Investigating officer as to the reason for the alleged delayed dispatch of the F.I.R. Had this been done, the investigating officer could have explained the circumstances. That having not been done, no adverse inference can be drawn."

35. In view of the above, the submission of the appellants in this regard has no force. Beside this, the entries in general diary of a police station are made in chronological order and there is presumption that the official work is performed as per practice and rules. There is no evidence to the contrary adduced by the defence to rebut the presumption. It is proved that the special report of the said crime was sent the same day at 5 p.m.. Therefore, it rules out any possibility of lodging the FIR on an ante-timed basis.

36. It is true that the inquest report does not carry the time of its commencement of its but at the bottom on the first page of the inquest report, time '19.05' hours is mentioned regarding the conclusion of inquest proceedings. It means that the inquest proceedings were completed at 19.05 hours, and these must have commenced prior to that time. This means that the time of commencement of the inquest was omitted a mention of in the inquest report, inadvertently, by the officer conducting it. The above inquest report mentions the FIR, case crime number and other details of the case which shows that non-mentioning of the commencement of investigation is just an inadvertent lapse and would in no way adversely affect the prosecution case.

37. Beside this, the post-mortem report of the deceased was conducted on 19.07.1985 at 04.00 p.m. where, in the report the doctor has mentioned the papers sent alongwith the dead body for autopsy. It shows that the inquest and related papers were already prepared before the body was sent for autopsy. There is no such evidence which would show that the FIR was lodged ante-timed. Therefore, the submission of the appellants in this regard has no force.

38. So far as death of the deceased Hotilal at the place of occurrence is concerned that, for a fact is not disputed. According to the prosecution, the deceased Hotilal was murdered on 18.07.1985 at 02.30 p.m. in his agricultural field situate in Village- Buklana, Police Station- Narsaina, District- Bulandshahr. P.W. 1, Atar Singh and P.W. 2, Smt. Kamlesh have said that the deceased was murdered at the above date, time and place. P.W. 5, Doctor A.K. Bansal who has conducted the autopsy on the deceased is cadaver has also opined that death could have occurred at 02.30 p.m. on 18.07.1985. He has denied the suggestion of the defence that death could have occurred in the midnight of 18/19.07.1985. The Investigating Officer has prepared a site-plan of the place of occurrence. In the above site-plan the place of occurrence is near a mango tree in the agricultural field of the deceased, Hotilal. The Investigation Officer had also collected plain earth and blood-stained earth and a dhoti from the place of occurrence which were sent for chemical examination. In chemical examination report (Ext. Ka-18) human blood was found in the blood-stained earth and on the dhoti. The inquest was also done at the place of occurrence. In view of the above, time of death of the deceased and the place of occurrence are fully established.

39. The prosecution has produced two witnesses of fact to prove its case. Of them P.W. 1 Atar Singh, is the informant of this case and P.W. 2 Smt. Kamlesh, is the wife of the deceased. Both of them have categorically testified that it was the appellants alongwith two unknown men, who murdered the deceased. Their testimony with regard to the incident is consistent and there are no major contradictions there to raise doubts about its veracity. According to P.W. 1, Atar Singh, at the time of incident, he was moving from his tubewell to the field, which he had taken on Batai from Hotilal, when he saw the murder take place. He has said that he heard the deceased scream and ran towards that side. He also saw Smt. Kamlesh running in the same direction as she too heard the scream. It has come in his cross-examination that at about 11.00 a.m., on the said date he had gone to his tubewell to take some rest after doing work in his own field. It has also come in evidence that his own field is near the tubewell. The location of the tubewell and the field of this witness near the place of occurrence has not been challenged by the defence in the cross-examination of P.W. 1 Atar Singh. Therefore, P.W. 1 Atar Singh is a natural witness and his presence at that the time, near the place of occurrence cannot be doubted. He has said that deceased Hotilal was in his field of maize and urd was resting under the mango tree, when the murder took place. He has also said that Smt. Kamlesh was working in the grove from where she rushed to the place of occurrence. It has come in evidence that beside these two persons, there was nobody near the vicinity. He has said that he left Smt. Kamlesh near the dead body and went to the village where he wrote down the report. He has clearly said that two persons had caught hold of Hotilal while both the appellants battered him with Mungri. He has admitted that he did not mention the weapon (Mungri) in his report and has attributed the omission to the fact that he was perplexed while scribing the first information. But, in his statement to the Investigating Officer, under Section 161 Cr.P.C., he has disclosed the weapon (mungari) which was used in the commission of the offence. He has said that his statement was recorded at the Police Out-Post the same day at about 4.00-4.30 p.m. So the informant has promptly disclosed the weapon of assault to the I.O., ruling out any improvement.

40. In view of the above, if the weapon of assault is not mentioned in the FIR it would have no adverse effect on the prosecution case, as it is well settled law that the FIR is not an encyclopedia wherein every minute detail of the incident must be scripted. Therefore, P.W. 1 Atar Singh has fully supported the prosecution case, that it was the appellants who committed the murder of Hotilal.

41. P.W. 2, Smt. Kamlesh is the deceased is wife, and, therefore, a relative-witness; and, also interested one. Relationship is not a factor in itself to affect the credibility of a witness as held by

Supreme Court in Rizan v. State of Chhattisgarh, A.I.R. 2003 S.C.976.

42. Further, in the case of Dalip Singh and others vs. State of Punjab (AIR 1953 SC 364), it has been laid down by the Supreme Court:-

"A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily a close relation would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalization. Each case must be judged on its own facts."

43. In Masalti and others V. State of U.P., AIR 1965 SC 202, the Supreme Court observed:-

"But it would, we think, be unreasonable to contend that evidence given by witnesses should be discarded only on the ground that it is evidence of partisan or interested witnesses..... The mechanical rejection of such evidence on the sole ground that it is partisan would invariably lead to failure of justice. No hard and fast rule can be laid down as to how much evidence should be appreciated. Judicial approach has to be cautious in dealing with such evidence; but the plea that such evidence should be rejected because it is partisan cannot be accepted as correct."

44. The observations of Supreme Court in Israr vs. State of U.P. (2005 (51) ACC 113) in para 12 of the judgment are also worth mentioning:-

".....Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the Court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible."

45. Lastly, in Seeman @ Veeranam Vs. State, Inspector of Police, 2005 SCC (Cri) 1893, and in Baliraj Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2017 AIR (SCW) 2114, the Supreme Court has held that the witness could be a relative but that does not mean that his testimony is to be totally rejected. In such a case, it is the paramount duty of the Court to be more careful in the matter of scrutiny of evidence of an interested witness, and if, on such scrutiny it is found that the evidence the interested sole witness is worth credence, the same would not be discarded merely on the ground that the witness is an interested one. It is also held that, it is well settled that it is the quality of the evidence and not the quantity which is required to be judged by the Court to place reliance on it.

46. In view of the above, the testimony of P.W.2 Kamlesh cannot be rejected solely on the ground that she is related to the deceased. What is required is that her testimony be examined carefully in the foreshadow of other evidence on record. It has come in evidence that Smt. Kamlesh, P.W. 2, is the second wife of the deceased. It has also come in evidence that Pushpa, the first wife of the deceased had left the deceased. Thereafter, he married P.W. 2, Smt. Kamlesh. It has also come in evidence that the deceased was an ex-armyman. P.W.2 has supported the prosecution case and has said that she had gone over to the field in the morning, carrying a meal for her husband. She has given full details of the occurrence and has corroborated the prosecution case. She has said that the appellants Narendra and Surendra were beating her husband with Mungri whereas the other two assailants had caught hold of him from both sides. She has also said that the tiffin-carrier was left under the mango tree. She did not know if the I.O. had taken it in his possession or not. She has also said that a bangle of her's was broken and its lay at the place of occurrence. In this regard, it is submitted on behalf of the appellants that the I.O. has not collected or shown the broken bangles at the place of occurrence which raises doubt about Smt. Kamlesh's presence there. It is also submitted that according to the prosecution the appellants fled the spot through a field with an Arhar crop of the height of about 5 feet. It would have been damaged but the I.O. has not collected any evidence in this regard raising suspicion about the prosecution case. We do not agree with these submissions on behalf of the appellants. If the I.O. committed a lapse by not collecting the broken bangles from the place of occurrence or taken note of any damage to the Arhar crop, this mistake/lapse on the I.O's part would not in itself raise any suspicion about the prosecution case. It is settled law that if the prosecution case is otherwise proved by oral and medical evidence, then a defective investigation would not be a ground to disbelieve it.

47. In regard to a defective investigation the Supreme Court in State of Punjab vs. Hakam Singh, (2005) 7 SCC 408 and Dhanaj Singh vs. State of Punjab, (2004) 3 SCC 654 has observed that any irregularity or deficiency in investigation by the I.O. need not necessarily lead to rejection of the prosecution case when it is otherwise proved. The only requirement is use of extra caution in evaluation of evidence. A defective investigation cannot be fatal to the prosecution where ocular testimony is found credible and cogent.

48. It is, further, held by Supreme Court in Ambika Prasad & Another v/s State (Delhi Administration) with others, (2000) 2 SCC 646 that in a case of defective investigation it would not be proper to acquit the accused if the case is otherwise established conclusively. A criminal trial is meant for doing justice to the accused, the victim and the society so that law and order is maintained. A judge does not preside over a criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. A judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape. One is as important as the other. Both are public duties which a judge has to perform. (Para 8 and 10 of the judgment in Criminal Appeal No. 1152 of 1997 decided on 21-1-2000 per G.B. Patnaik and M.B. Shah JJ.)

49. In Gopal v/s State of U.P. ACC 1999(39) page 98 a Full Bench of the Allahabad High Court it was held that "Investigation of the case, if faulty, even mischievous or collusive should not be a ground to reject the ocular testimony of the informant who lodged the F.I.R. promptly. Each and every case has to be decided on the intrinsic evidence. If the eyewitnesses are believable the mere weakness of the investigation should not be a ground to reject their testimony." see of the report.

50. The Supreme Court considered the issue in Dhanaj Singh @ Shera and Others v/s State of Punjab 2004 All JIC 399 SC, it was held:

In the case of defective investigation the Court has to be circumspect in evaluating the evidence. But it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the Investigating Officer if the investigation is designedly defective."Para 5.

51. It has been observed by Supreme Court in State of Punjab vs. Hakam Singh, (2005) 7 SCC 408 and Dhanaj Singh vs. State of Punjab, (2004) 3 SCC 654 that any irregularity or deficiency in investigation by the I.O. need not necessarily lead to rejection of the case of prosecution case when it is otherwise proved. The only requirement is use of extra caution in the evaluation of evidence. A defective investigation cannot be fatal to the prosecution where ocular testimony is found credible and cogent.

52. It is next submitted on behalf of the appellants that Atar Singh and Smt. Kamlesh had an illicit relationship and when it came to the deceased Hotilal's notice, he objected to it. In order to carry on with their relationship, both of them planned to eliminate Hotilal. Thus it was Atar Singh and Smt. Kamlesh who had committed the murder and the appellants were falsely implicated in this case. We do not agree with this submission also. For one there is no hint of evidence which may suggest that Atar Singh and Smt. Kamlesh had any illicit relationship. Both of them have denied any such relationship. Though Smt. Kamlesh was the deceased's second wife and there was a age difference about 15-20 years between them, but on this ground alone it cannot be assumed that there was an illicit relationship between Kamlesh and Atar Singh. Secondly, if the above murder was committed by the informant and Smt. Kamlesh, the accused could have raised this issue or made an application to the concerned police officer/competent authority to investigate this crime from this angle too. There is no evidence on record to show that the appellants ever said anything in this regard to the I.O. or moved an application to the concerned officer regarding the involvement of the informant and Smt. Kamlesh in the commission of this offence. Merely by suggesting such a thing without producing evidence or raising this issue earlier, would not in itself give rise to any suspicion regarding the involvement of informant and Smt. Kamlesh in the said crime. The incident occurred in broad daylight so there was source of light for witnesses to see the occurrence.

53. In view of the above discussion, P.W. 1 Atar Singh and P.W. 2 Smt. Kamlesh, have fully supported the prosecution case and there are no inconsistencies or major contradictions in their statements, which may raise doubt about their evidence.

54. It is submitted on behalf of the appellants that there was no motive for the appellants to commit the murder and they have been falsely implicated in this case.

On the other hand, it is submitted on behalf of the State that there was a land dispute between the deceased and the appellants and litigation in this regard was also pending before the competent Court. The appellants are the deceased's sister's son (bhanja). There was reason thus for them to commit the murder in order to grab the deceased's land.

55. Before discussing the above point, it is to be noted that this case is based on direct evidence and there is an eye-witness account of the said crime. It is settled law that in a case based on direct evidence, motive loses its significance.

56. The observations of Supreme Court in the case of Nathuni Yadav and others v. State of Bihar and another, 1997 (34) ACC 576 are worth mentioning:

"Motive for doing a criminal act is generally a difficult area for prosecution. One cannot normally see into the mind of another. Motive is the emotion which impells a man to do a particular act. Such impelling cause need not necessarily be proportionally grave to do grave crimes. Many a murders have been committed without any known or prominent motive. It is quite possible that the aforesaid impelling factor would remain undiscoverable. Lord Chief Justice Chambell struck a note of caution in 'Reg v. Palmer' thus: 'but if there be any motive which can be assigned I am bound to tell you that the adequacy of that motive is of little importance. We know, from experience of Criminal Courts that atrocious crimes of this sort have been committed from very slight motives; not merely from malice and revenge, but to gain a small pecuniary advantage, and to drive off for a time pressing difficulties."

In the case of State of H.P. Vs. Jeet Singh, (1999) 4 SCC 370 : (AIR 1999 SC 1293), the Supreme Court has made the following observations:

"No doubt it is a sound principle to remember that every criminal act was done with a motive but its corollary is not that no criminal offence would have been committed if the prosecution has failed to prove the precise motive of the accused to commit it. When the prosecution succeeded in showing the possibility of some ire for the accused towards the victim, the inability to further put on record the manner in which such ire would have swelled up in the mind of the offender to such a degree as to impel him to commit the offence cannot be construed as a fatal weakness of the prosecution. It is almost an impossibility for the prosecution to unravel the full dimension of the mental disposition of an offendoffender towards the person whom he offended."

57. Regarding the motive for commission of a crime, the Supreme Court has observed thus in Suresh Chandra Bahri v. State of Bihar, AIR 1994 SC 2420 (para 21 of the report at page 2429):

"Sometimes motive plays an important role and becomes a compelling force to commit a crime and therefore motive behind the crime is a relevant factor for which evidence may be adduced. A motive is something which prompts a person to form an opinion or intention to do certain illegal act or even a legal act but with illegal means with a view to achieve that intention. In a case where there is clear proof of motive for the commission of the crime it affords added support to the finding of the Court that the accused was guilty for the offence charged with. But it has to be remembered that the absence of proof of motive does not render the evidence bearing on the guilt of the accused nonetheless untrustworthy or unreliable because most often it is only the perpetrator of the crime alone who knows as to what circumstances prompted him to a certain course of action leading to the commission of the crime."

58. In Molu and others v. State of Haryana, AIR 1976 SC 2499, the Supreme Court has held as under in para 11 of the report at page 2505:

"It is well settled that where the direct evidence regarding the assault is worthy of credence and can be believed, the question of motive becomes more or less academic. Sometimes the motive is clear and can be proved and sometimes, however, the motive is shrouded in mystery and it is very difficult to locate the same. If, however, the evidence of the eye-witnesses is credit-worthy and is believed by the Court which has placed implicit reliance on them, the question whether there is any motive or not becomes wholly irrelevant."

59. In Suresh Chandra Bahri v. State of Bihar AIR 1994 SC 2420 in para 21 of the report at page 2429 it was observed by Supreme Court:

"Sometimes motive plays an important role and becomes a compelling force to commit a crime and therefore motive behind the crime is a relevant factor for which evidence may be adduced. A motive is something which prompts a person to form an opinion or intention to do certain illegal act or even a legal act but with illegal means with a view to achieve that intention. In a case where there is clear proof of motive for the commission of the crime it affords added support to the finding of the Court that the accused was guilty for the offence charged with. But it has to be remembered that the absence of proof of motive does not render the evidence bearing on the guilt of the accused nonetheless untrustworthy or unreliable because most often it is only the perpetrator of the crime alone who knows as to what circumstances prompted him to a certain course of action leading to the commission of the crime."

60. In Thaman Kumar vs. State of Union Territory of Chandigarh, reported in (2003) 6 SCC 380: (AIR 2003 SC 3975), the Supreme Court remarked:

"There is no such principle or rule of law that where the prosecution fails to prove the motive for commission of the crime, it must necessarily result in acquittal of the accused. Where the ocular evidence is found to be trustworthy and reliable and finds corroboration from the medical evidence, a finding of guilt can safely be recorded even if the motive for the commission of the crime has not been proved."

61. In view of above legal position, proof of motive is not very material in this case, which is based on direct evidence. Even then, if we look into the present case it is not in dispute that a litigation regarding an agriculture land was pending between the deceased Hotilal and the appellants/convicts Surendra and Narendra. It has also come in evidence that the names of appellants were recorded in the revenue records. It has come in the prosecution evidence that the possession of disputed land remained with the deceased. It has also come in evidence that the appellants had won the case in the Court of the

S.D.M., but on appeal preferred by Hotilal, the judgment of the S.D.M. was set aside by the Appellate Court and the case remanded for hearing afresh to the court of first instance. On account of this litigation the appellants could have been prompted to kill Hotilal in order to grab the said land. Nonetheless, as discussed above the witnesses of fact namely Atar Singh and Kamlesh have proved the case that the appellants did caused death of Hotilal by battering him with Mungari. So, even if it is assumed that the prosecution has failed to prove motive for the appellants to commit this offence, it has no significance after all.

62. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that there are major contradictions in ocular and medical evidence which totally falsifies the prosecution case. We do not agree with this submission also because it has come in the testimony of P.W. 1 Atar Singh and P.W. 2 Smt. Kamlesh that the appellants committed Hotilal's murder by hitting him with Mungri, and when they reached near the place of occurrence they saw the appellants hit the deceased Hotilal with Mungris two to three times. P.W.1 has said that appellants were hitting Hotilal with Mungri and the other two were catching hold. One held by his lower limbs and the other his hands. Both of them saw the incident from about 25 paces. P.W.2 has said that the appellants had assaulted the deceased with small Mungri. The mungri were 1-1/12 feet long and round in shape. The appellants hit him 3-4 times over and she could not say the number of blows, delivered to the chest and head.

63. P.W. 3, Doctor A.K. Bansal, who conducted the autopsy of the deceased, has opined that injury nos. 5 and 6 could have been caused by Mungri and all the injuries sustained by the deceased could have been caused by a Mungri, a flat small cane with a thin handle generally used in the washing of clothes. There were seven ante-mortem injuries found over the dead body of the deceased of the nature of abraded contusion, lacerated wound and contusion. The frontal bone, parietal temporal bone and occipital bone of the skull were fractured. The bone of lower jaw under injury no. 3 was also fractured. 4th and 5th rib under injury nos. 5 and 6 were also fractured and underneath the ribs the lung was also lacerated. Thus the nature of injuries and the opinion of the doctor fully corroborate the ocular testimony of P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 that the deceased was assaulted with Mungri whereby he sustained these injuries resulting in his death.

64. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the Trial Court has appreciated the evidence on record correctly arriving at the right conclusion, holding the appellants guilty, and, accordingly, convicting and sentencing them.

65. Therefore, the present appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed. We affirm the impugned judgment and order dated 03.11.1987 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Bulandshahr.

66. Appellant no.1/convict Narendra is on bail. His personal bond is cancelled and the sureties discharged. He is directed to surrender before the Trial Court within two weeks from today to undergo the remaining part of his sentence, failing which, the Trial Court is directed to adopt coercive measures for securing his presence.

67. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the learned Trial Court had suppressed material facts regarding her employment and income in her application and affidavit before the trial court, while the husband bore the responsibility of maintaining his aged parents and other familial obligations - Despite these assertions, the Family Court awarded maintenance, which led to the filing of the present revision challenging the legality and propriety of impugned order.

Held: As per the provision of s. 125(1) (a), the opposite party no. 2 is not entitled to get any maintenance from her husband/revisionist as she is an earning lady and able to maintain herself - Learned counsel for the revisionist has alleged that she did not come before the trial court with clean hands - A perusal of the affidavit filed by the opposite party no.2 clearly reflects that she has not mentioned that she is an earning lady as well as a perusal of application u/s 125 Cr. P.C. reflects that she has claimed herself as an illiterate and unemployed woman but when the document filed by the revisionist was shown to her before the trial court, she has admitted about her income during her cross-examination - Thus, it is clear that she did not come before the trial court with clean hands - The opposite party no. 2 does not deserve any sympathy and is not entitled to receive maintenance from the revisionist, criminal revision allowed. Case Arising From

REVISIONAL JURISDICTION: Criminal Revision
No. - 2487 of 2024

From the Judgment and Order dated 17.02.2024 passed by the Principle Judge, Family Court, Gautam Budha Nagar in Case No.683 of 2019.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Revisionist:

Shreesh Srivastava, Sujan Singh

Advs. for the Opposite Party:

G.A., Nandini Mishra

(Delivered by Hon'ble Madan Pal Singh, J.)

1. Case called out in the revised call. None has appeared on behalf of the opposite party no.2 to press the present revision. Hence this criminal revision is being decided after hearing the arguments of learned counsel for the revisionist as well as learned AGA.

2. Heard Sri Sujan Singh, learned counsel for the revisionist and learned A.G.A. for the State.

3. This criminal revision has been filed by the revisionist with prayer to set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 17.02.2024 passed by the Principle Judge, Family Court, Gautam Budha Nagar in Case No.683 of 2019 (Neha Sahu Vs. Ankit Saha), under Section 125 Cr.P.C., whereby the revisionist has been directed to pay Rs. 5,000/- per month to the opposite party no.2 as maintenance allowance from the date of filing of the application.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that opposite party no. 2 did not approach the trial court with clean hands by filing her application under Section 125 Cr.P.C., wherein she claimed that she is unemployed and has no source of income. When as matter of fact, the opposite party no.2 is a Post-Graduate, a Web Designer by qualification, and is working as a Senior Sales Coordinator in Keiath Telecom Pvt. Ltd., getting salary of Rs. 36,000/- per month. Hence, she does not deserve any sympathy and is not entitled to receive maintenance on this very ground. Despite the aforesaid fact, trial court has awarded the maintenance allowance of Rs. 5,000/- per month merely to balance the income between the parties.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that, as per the provision of Section 125 Cr.P.C., maintenance can be awarded to a wife only when she is unable to maintain herself or has no sufficient source of income. It is next submitted that the revisionist has the responsibility of maintaining his aged parents, whereas opposite party no. 2 has no such liability. Learned counsel for the revisionist has drawn the attention of the Court towards affidavit filed by opposite party no. 2 before the trial court, which is paper nos. 67-70, wherein the details of her liabilities have been mentioned as "nil." Thus, the sole contention of learned counsel for the revisionist is that opposite party no. 2 has sufficient means to maintain herself, and in such circumstances, she is not entitled to receive any maintenance from the revisionist.

6. Learned AGA has opposed the submissions as advanced by the learned counsel for the revisionist and submits that the amount awarded by the trial to make the parties as equal status to enjoy their lives but could not disputed the fact that the opposite party no. 2 is well educated lady, and is working as a Senior Sales Coordinator in Keiath Telecom Pvt. Ltd., getting salary of Rs. 36,000/- per month.

7. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, submissions made by learned counsel for the revisionist and learned AGA as well as perusal of record and order passed by learned trial court. A perusal of page no. 15 of the impugned judgment reflects that the opposite party no.2 is a Post-Graduate, a Web Designer by qualification, and is working as a Senior Sales Coordinator in Keiath Telecom Pvt. Ltd., getting salary of Rs. 36,000/- per month. The trial court while passing the impugned judgment has not taken into consideration the liability of the revisionist and has awarded Rs. 5000/- per month to make the parties equal status to enjoy.

8. For ready reference, Section 125 Cr.P.C. is quoted hereunder:-

125. (1) If any person having sufficient means neglects or refuses to maintain-

(a) his wife, unable to maintain herself, or

(b) his legitimate or illegitimate child, whether married or not, unable to maintain itself, or

(c) his legitimate or illegitimate child (not being a married daughter) who has attained majority, where such child is, by reason of any physical or mental abnormality or injury unable to maintain itself, or

(d) his father or mother, unable to maintain himself or herself.

9. From the perusal of Section 125 Cr.P.C., it is clear that maintenance can be awarded to the wife, when she is unable to maintain herself.

10. A perusal of the paragraph 23 of the impugned judgment which is at internal page no. 12 of the impugned indicates that in the affidavit filed before the trial court, the opposite party no. 2 herself admitted that she is a Post-Graduate, Web Designer by qualification, and is working as a Senior Sales Coordinator in Keiath Telecom Pvt. Ltd., getting salary of Rs. 34,000/- per month but in her cross-examination she has further admitted that she is earning of Rs. 36,000/- per month and such amount, for a wife who has no other liability, cannot be said to be meagre, whereas the revisionist has the responsibility of maintaining his aged parents and other social obligations.

11. Thus, this Court is of the view that as per the provision of Section 125(1) (a), the opposite party no. 2 is not entitled to get any maintenance from her husband/revisionist as she is an earning lady and able to maintain herself.

12. On the second issue, learned counsel for the revisionist has alleged that she did not come before the trial court with clean hands. A perusal of the affidavit filed by the opposite party no.2 at page no. 67-70 clearly reflects that she has not mentioned that she is an earning lady as well as a perusal of application under Section 125 Cr. P.C. paper no. 33 to 38 at paragraph no. 16 reflects that she has claimed herself as an illiterate and unemployed woman but when the document filed by the revisionist was shown to her before the trial court, she has admitted her aforesaid income during her cross-examination. Thus, it is clear that she did not come before the trial court with clean hands.

13. It is settled law that when a person approaches a Court, he should approach the Court not only with clean hands but also with clean mind, clean heart and clean objective. It is a law of nature that one should not be enriched by the loss or injury to another. The judicial process should never become an instrument of appreciation or abuse or a means in the process of the Court to subvert justice. No litigant has a right to unlimited drought on the Court time and public money in order to get his affairs settled in the manner he wishes. Easy, access to justice should not be misused as a licence to file misconceived and frivolous petitions. If a petitioner is guilty of suppression of very important fact his case cannot be considered on merits. Thus, a litigant is bound to make "full and true disclosure of facts".

14. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Rekha Sharad Ushir Vs. Saptashrunji Mahila Nagari Sahkari Patsansta Ltd. reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC641, para no. 11 is reproduced herein below:

" 11. It is settled law that a litigant who, while filing proceedings in the court, suppresses material facts or makes a false statement, cannot seek justice from the court. The facts suppressed must be material and relevant to the controversy, which may have a bearing on the decision making. Cases of those litigants who have no regard for the truth and those who indulge in suppressing material facts need to be thrown out of the court."

15. In view of the said judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court, the opposite party no. 2 does not deserve any sympathy and is not entitled to receive maintenance from the revisionist.

16. Accordingly, the impugned judgment and order dated 17.02.2024 passed by the Principle Judge, Family Court, Gautam Budha Nagar in Case No.683 of 2019 (Neha Sahu Vs. Ankit Saha), under Section 125 Cr.P.C. is hereby set aside.

17. Accordingly, the instant criminal revision is allowed.

State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether the trial court had lawfully exercised its jurisdiction u/s 319 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 in summoning the revisionists as additional accused in a sessions trial u/s 302 IPC, despite their not having been charge-sheeted by the Investigating Officer, and whether the evidence adduced during trial was of such quality and degree as to satisfy the statutory threshold namely, stronger than a mere prima facie case so as to justify their being tried together with the accused already facing trial.

Headnotes

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - s. 302 - Code of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - s. 319 - The instant criminal revision arose out of an order dated 21.04.2025 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, E.C. Act, Azamgarh in Sessions Trial No. 196 of 2016, pertaining to an offence u/s 302 IPC, whereby the trial court, in exercise of powers u/s 319 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, summoned the revisionists to face trial along with the other accused - The prosecution case originated from an FIR in which the revisionists were named and specific roles were attributed to them in connection with the homicidal incident, however, upon completion of investigation, the Investigating Officer did not submit a charge-sheet against them - During the course of trial, the testimonies of prosecution witnesses, particularly P.W.-1, P.W.-3 and P.W.-4, allegedly disclosed material indicative of complicity of revisionists - On the basis of such evidence emerging during trial, the court below formed an opinion that the revisionists ought to be tried together with the charge-sheeted accused and consequently passed the impugned summoning order, which has been challenged in the instant criminal revision.

Held: The evidence recorded by the court during trial is thus to be accorded primacy and for the purpose of exercise of power u/s 319 of the Code would have to be given weight over the material which was collected during the course of investigation - The contention which has been sought to be raised placing reliance upon the material collected by the investigating officer during the course of investigation, for the purpose of exercise of powers u/s 319 of the Code, thus cannot be accepted - The power u/s 319 of the Code to summon even those persons who are not named in the charge-sheet to appear and face trial, being unquestionable and the object of the provision being not to allow a person who deserves to be tried to go scot-free by being not arraigned in the trial in spite of possibility of his complicity which can be gathered from the evidence during the course of trial, the order passed u/s 319 of the Code summoning the revisionists does not contain any material error so as to warrant inference - Thus, criminal revision is accordingly dismissed. REVISIONAL JURISDICTION: Criminal Revision No. - 2607 of 2025

From the Judgment and Order dated 21.04.2025 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, E.C. Act, Azamgarh in Sessions Trial No. 196 of 2016.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for the Revisionist:

Ashish Gupta

Adv. for the Opposite Party:

Amrendra Nath Rai, G.A., Nidhi Rai

(Delivered by Hon'ble Devendra Singh-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashish Gupta, learned counsel for the revisionists, Sri Amrendra Nath Rai, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and learned Additional Government Advocate, for the State-opposite party.

2. The present criminal revision has been filed against the order dated 21.04.2025 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, E.C. Act, Azamgarh in S.T. No.196 of 2016 (State vs. Vedprakash Rai @ Mahanth Rai), under Section 302 IPC, Police Station-Gambhirpur, District-Azamgarh, whereby the revisionist has been summoned by the trial court in exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

3. Learned counsel for the revisionists has sought to assail the order passed by the trial court by referring to the factual aspects of the case to contend that the revisionists have been falsely implicated in the criminal case. He has submitted that the jurisdiction under Section 319 of the Code is to be exercised in an extra-ordinary situation where there is a strong possibility of the conviction of the accused, who is proposed to be summoned, and the powers are not to be exercised in a routine manner. It is further pointed out that the Investigating Officer did not find any material against the revisionist and no charge-sheet having been submitted against them, there was no further material on the basis of which the trial court could have summoned the revisionist.

4. On the other hand, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and learned Additional Government Advocate have controverted the assertions made by the counsel for the revisionists by drawing attention to the fact that the revisionists herein were named in the FIR and specific role has been assigned to them. Attention has also been drawn to the fact that the testimony of P.W.-1, P.W.-3 and PW-4 during the course of trial have pointed to the complicity of the revisionists and their clear role in the incident. It is also contended that the testimony before the trial judge would have to be given more weight than the report submitted by the Investigating Officer pursuant to the investigation.

5. Rival contentions fall for consideration.

6. The ambit and scope of the powers of the Magistrate under Section 319 of the Code were considered in the Constitution Bench judgment of the Supreme Court in Hardeep Singh and Others vs. State of Punjab; (2014) 3 SCC. Referring to the object of the provision it was held that the object of the provision is that the real culprit should not get away unpunished and in a situation where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial. It was stated thus :-

"8.The constitutional mandate under Articles 20 and 21 of the Constitution of India, 1950 provides a protective umbrella for the smooth administration of justice making adequate provisions to ensure a fair and efficacious trial so that the accused does not get prejudiced after the law has been put into motion to try him for the offence but at the same time also gives equal protection to victims and to society at large to ensure that the guilty does not get away from the clutches of law. For the empowerment of the courts to ensure that the criminal administration of justice works properly, the law was appropriately codified and modified by the legislature under CrPC indicating as to how the courts should proceed in order to ultimately find out the truth so that an innocent does not get punished but at the same time, the guilty are brought to book under the law. It is these ideals as enshrined under the Constitution and our laws that have led to several decisions, whereby innovating methods and progressive tools have been forged to find out the real truth and to ensure that the guilty does not go unpunished.

9. The presumption of innocence is the general law of the land as every man is presumed to be innocent unless proven to be guilty. Alternatively, certain statutory presumptions in relation to certain class of offences have been raised against the accused whereby the presumption of guilt prevails till the accused discharges his burden upon an onus being cast upon him under the law to prove himself to be innocent. These competing theories have been kept in mind by the legislature. The entire effort, therefore, is not to allow the real perpetrator of an offence to get away unpunished. This is also a part of fair trial and in our opinion, in order to achieve this very end that the legislature thought of incorporating provisions of Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure. It is with the said object in mind that a constructive and purposive interpretation should be adopted that advances the cause of justice and does not dilute the intention of the statute conferring powers on the court to carry out the abovementioned avowed object and purpose to try the person to the satisfaction of the court as an accomplice in the commission of the offence that is the subject matter of trial.

*12. Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure springs out of the doctrine judex damnatur cum nocens absolvitur (Judge is condemned when guilty is acquitted) and* this doctrine must be used as a beacon light while explaining the ambit and the spirit underlying the enactment of Section 319 CrPC.

13. It is the duty of the court to do justice by punishing the real culprit. Where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial. The question remains under what circumstances and at what stage should the court exercise its power as contemplated in Section 319 CrPC.

17. Section 319 CrPC allows the court to proceed against any person who is not an accused in a case before it. Thus, the person against whom summons are issued in exercise of such powers, has to necessarily not be an accused already facing trial. He can either be a person named in Column 2 of the chargesheet filed under Section 173 Code of Criminal Procedure or a person whose name has been disclosed in any material before the court that is to be considered for the purpose of trying the offence, but not investigated. He has to be a person whose complicity may be indicated and connected with the commission of the offence.

18. The legislature cannot be presumed to have imagined all the circumstances and, therefore, it is the duty of the court to give full effect to the words used by the legislature so as to encompass any situation which the court may have to tackle while proceeding to try an offence and not allow a person who deserves to be tried to go scot free by being not arraigned in the trial in spite of possibility of his complicity which can be gathered from the documents presented by the prosecution.

19. The court is the sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency. The desire to avoid trial is so strong that an accused makes efforts at times to get himself absolved even at the stage of investigation or inquiry even though he may be connected with the commission of the offence."

7. As regards the degree of satisfaction required for invoking the powers under Section 319 of the Code, it was held that the test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes un rebutted, would lead to conviction. It was observed as follows :-

"105. Power under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure is a discretionary and an extra-ordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court not necessarily tested on the anvil of Cross-Examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes un rebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure. In Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure the purpose of providing if "it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence" is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused." The words used are not "for which such person could be convicted". There is, therefore, no scope for the Court acting under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

8. The question as to in what situations the power under the section can be exercised in respect of persons not named in the FIR or named in the FIR, but not charge-sheeted or discharged was also considered, and it was held that a person whose name does not appear even in the FIR or in the charge-sheet or whose name appears in the FIR and not in the charge-sheet, can still be summoned by the court provided the conditions under the section stand fulfilled. It was observed as follows :-

"111. Even the Constitution Bench in Dharam Pal (CB) has held that the Sessions Court can also exercise its original jurisdiction and summon a person as an accused in case his name appears in Column 2 of the chargesheet, once the case had been committed to it. It means that a person whose name does not appear even in the FIR or in the chargesheet or whose name appears in the FIR and not in the main part of the chargesheet but in Column 2 and has not been summoned as an accused in exercise of the powers under Section 193 Code of Criminal Procedure can still be summoned by the court, provided the court is satisfied that the conditions provided in the said statutory provisions stand fulfilled.

xxx

117.6 A person not named in the FIR or a person though named in the FIR but has not been chargesheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure provided from the evidence it appears that such person can be tried along with the accused already facing trial. However, in so far as an accused who has been discharged is concerned the requirement of Sections 300 and 398 Code of Criminal Procedure has to be complied with before he can be summoned afresh."

9. The word 'evidence' as used under Section 319(1) of the Code was also considered and it was held as follows :-

"84. The word "evidence" therefore has to be understood in its wider sense both at the stage of trial and, as discussed earlier, even at the stage of inquiry, as used under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure. The court, therefore, should be understood to have the power to proceed against any person after summoning him on the basis of any such material as brought forth before it. The duty and obligation of the court becomes more onerous to invoke such powers cautiously on such material after evidence has been led during trial.

85. In view of the discussion made and the conclusion drawn hereinabove, the answer to the aforesaid question posed is that apart from evidence recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure. The "evidence" is thus, limited to the evidence recorded during trial."

10. The principles with regard to exercise of power by the court to summon an accused under Section 319 of the Code were reiterated in S. Mohammed Ispahani Vs. Yogendra Chandak and others; (2017) 16 SCC, and it was held that the power under Section 319 to summon even those persons who are not named in the charge-sheet to appear and face trial, is unquestionable. It was observed thus:-

"28. Insofar as power of the Court Under Section 319 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, to summon even those persons who are not named in the charge sheet to appear and face trial is concerned, the same is unquestionable. Section 319 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is meant to rope in even those persons who were not implicated when the charge sheet was filed but during the trial the Court finds that sufficient evidence has come on record to summon them and face the trial. In Hardeep Singh's case (supra), the Constitution Bench of this Court has settled the law in this behalf with authoritative pronouncement, thereby removing the cobweb which had been created while interpreting this provision earlier. As far as object behind Section 319 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is concerned, the Court had highlighted the same as under:

19. The court is sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the Rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency. The desire to avoid trial is so strong that an Accused makes efforts at times to get himself absolved even at the stage of investigation or inquiry even though he may be connected with the commission of the offence."

11. The power to proceed against persons named in FIR with specific allegations against them, but not charge-sheeted, was reiterated in Rajesh and others Vs. State of Haryana; (2019) 6 SCC 368, and it was held that persons named in the FIR but not implicated in charge-sheet can be summoned to face trial, provided during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused.

12. The exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code for summoning an additional accused again came up for consideration in Saeeda Khatoon Arshi Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another; (2020) 2 SCC 323 and it was held that it is the duty of the court to give full effect to the words used by the legislature so as to encompass any situation which the court may have to tackle while proceeding to try an offence and not allow a person who deserves to be tried to go scot-free by being not arraigned in the trial in spite of the possibility of his complicity which can be gathered from the documents presented by the prosecution.

13. In the case at hand the trial court has taken note of the fact that the revisionists were not only named in the FIR but they were assigned the role in the incident. The testimony of P.W.-1, P.W.-3 and PW-4 as being indicative of the complicity of the revisionists have also been referred. Upon considering the settled legal position with regard to the exercise of powers under Section 319, the court below has passed the order summoning the revisionists.

14. The FIR version as also the testimony of the P.W.-1, P.W.-3 and PW-4 before the trial judge being indicative of the complicity of the revisionists, though not arraigned as accused in the charge-sheet, it was open to the trial court to form a view that the revisionists be tried together with the other accused, and for the said purpose summon the revisionists in exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code.

15. The broad principles which have been laid down for exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code underline the object of the enactment that the real perpetrator of the offence should not get away unpunished and in a situation where the investigating agency for any reason does not array any culprit as an accused the court would not be powerless in calling the accused to face trial; rather it would be duty of the court to do justice by punishing the real culprit.

16. The test which has been laid down with regard to the degree of satisfaction required for invoking the powers under Section 319 is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes un rebutted, would lead to conviction.

17. The power to proceed under Section 319 has also been held to be exerciseable in respect of persons though named in the FIR but not charge-sheeted provided the court is satisfied that the conditions provided under the section stand fulfilled.

18. Section 319 (1) of the Code envisages that where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

19. The word evidence used under Section 319(1) of the Code has been held to be understood to refer to the evidence recorded during trial, and also any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, to be utilized for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court.

20. The evidence recorded by the court during trial is thus to be accorded primacy and for the purpose of exercise of power under Section 319 of the Code would have to be given weight over the material which was collected during the course of investigation. The contention which has been sought to be raised placing reliance upon the material collected by the investigating officer during the course of investigation, for the purpose of exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code, thus cannot be accepted.

21. The power under Section 319 of the Code to summon even those persons who are not named in the charge-sheet to appear and face trial, being unquestionable and the object of the provision being not to allow a person who deserves to be tried to go scot-free by being not arraigned in the trial inspite of possibility of his complicity which can be gathered from the evidence during the course of trial, the order passed under Section 319 of the Code summoning the revisionists does not contain any material error so as to warrant inference.

22. Subject to aforesaid observations the instant criminal revision is, accordingly, dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to consideration of a Government Appeal under S. 378 Cr.P.C. against the judgment and order dated 22.05.1985 whereby the accused-respondents were acquitted of charges under Ss. 147, 148, 302 read with S. 149 IPC, and whether the said acquittal suffered from perversity or illegality warranting interference by the appellate court. (Paras 1, 6, 28-29)

Headnotes

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 147, 148, 302 r.w. S. 149 IPC - Criminal Trial - Acquittal - Interference in Appeal - Appellate court will not interfere unless findings are perverse or illegal.

Evidence - Appreciation - Eye-witnesses - Witnesses found to have made material contradictions, embellishments and improvements vis-à-vis statements under S. 161 Cr.P.C. - Evidence not inspiring confidence.

Evidence - Interested / Planted Witnesses - Prosecution witnesses projected as eye-witnesses but presence at scene doubtful and conduct unnatural.

Motive - Enmity - Enmity a double-edged weapon; can be ground for false implication.

Proof - Suspicion - Suspicion, however strong, cannot take the place of proof.

(Paras 6, 12-22, 28)

Held: Prosecution witnesses Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) were not eye-witnesses to the incident; their evidence suffered from major and material contradictions and improvements and did not inspire confidence - Trial Court rightly disbelieved the prosecution version as the alleged eye-witnesses remained mute spectators, made no attempt to save the deceased, nor raised alarm despite presence of nearby village and passers-by - The alleged motive based on enmity and rivalry was insufficient; prosecution appeared to have falsely implicated the accused on suspicion and doubt - Though homicidal death stood proved by medical evidence, there was no direct, circumstantial or incriminating evidence connecting the accused-respondents with the crime - No perversity or illegality was committed by the trial Court; acquittal was based on proper appreciation of evidence - Government Appeal dismissed, confirming the judgment and order of acquittal dated 22.05.1985. Advs. for the Respondents:

Learned counsel for the accused-respondents

(Delivered by Hon'ble Salil Kumar Rai, J.
& Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

1. This Government Appeal No. 2576 of 1985 under Section 378 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the State against the judgment and order dated 22.05.1985 passed by learned IVth Additional District and Sessions Judge, Gorakhpur in Session Trial No. 64 of 1984, whereby the accused-respondents, namely, Shanti Vijay Singh, Shatru Vijay Singh, Chandra Vijay Singh, Rama Singh, Hazari Bania, Ram Samujh, Ramapati Singh, Shreeram Yadav, Murlidhar Shukla and Paras Yadav have been acquitted of the charge under Sections 147, 302 read with Section 149 IPC. The accused-respondents Ram Briksh Singh, Sesh Vijay Singh and Rajeshwari Lal have been acquitted of the charge under Sections 148 and 302 IPC.

2. As per prosecution version, facts of the case are that on 12.08.1982, which was Sri Krishna Janmastmi day, deceased Girijashankar Lal was going to Lakshmipur market on a cycle alongwith his younger daughter Km. Pushpa, who was seated in his front on the frame of the cycle. Complainant Nalin Kumar was following him and was at a distance of 10-15 paces. At about 10.30 A.M., when Sri Girijashankar Lal reached on the Kacha road near the grove of Sri Yunus Khan, accused Ram Briksh Singh and Shesh Vijai Singh armed with country-made pistol, accused Rajeshwari Lal armed with knife and rest of the accused carrying lathies emerged from the said grove and surrounded Sri Girijashankar Lal. He stopped the cycle and Km. Pushpa immediately got down from the cycle with a push. Thereafter, Ram Briksh Singh and Shesh Vijai Singh fired with their country-made pistols, consequently he sustained injuries and tumbled down. Thereafter, accused persons lifted and took him near the ditch lying to the east of the road and threw him down there. Whereafter, accused Rajeshwari Lal sawed his neck with his knife. Rest of the accused had been holding Sri Girijashankar Lal and when Sri Girijashankar Lal died, the accused persons threw his dead body in the water in the nearby ditch. When accused Rajeshwari Lal was cutting the neck of Sri Girijashankar Lal, Km. Pushpa was entreating the accused and begging for the life of her father, but accused Shanti Vijai Singh threatened and pushed her back. Pancham and Ayodhya, who were coming from the road, saw this occurrence, when the accused noticed their presence on the spot, they threatened and chased them and they fled away raising hue and cry. The accused then ran away. Nalin Kumar, Pancham and Ayodhya then came back to the spot and in the meantime some other villagers also reached there. Complainant Nalin Kumar asked them to supervise the dead body. He started for the police station on his cycle. After covering a distance of 5-6 Km., when he reached in village Mohnapur Dhala, he purchased some papers and prepared a report giving details of this occurrence, took it to Police Station Purandarpur and lodged the same there at 12.15 P.M.

3. Thereafter, on the information of complainant Nalin Kumar, a case was registered against the named accused persons under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302 IPC. Investigation of the case was handed over to S.I. Ravindranath Pandey (PW-5). He started investigation of the case, inspected the place of incident, prepared the panchayatnama (inquest report) of the deceased Girijashankar Lal, sent his body for autopsy and also prepared the site plan. After completing all the formalities of the investigation, he submitted charge-sheet against the accused persons in the court of concerned Magistrate. Thereafter, the case was committed to the court of Sessions for trial. The accused Shanti Vijay Singh, Shatru Vijay Singh, Chandra Vijay Singh, Rama Singh, Hazari Bania, Ram Samujh, Ramapati Singh, Shreeram Yadav, Murlidhar Shukla and Paras Yadav were charged under Sections 147, 302 read with Section 149 IPC and accused Ram Briksh Singh, Shesh Vijay Singh and Rajeshwari Lal under Sections 148, 302 IPC. The accused pleaded not guilty to the charges and claimed trial.

4. In the trial Court, the prosecution produced Pancham (PW-1), informant Nalin Kumar (PW-2), Pushpa (daughter of Girijashankar Lal) (PW-3), Constable Gauri Shankar Singh (PW-4), S.I. Ravindra Nath Pandey (PW-5) and Dr. G.N. Tiwari (PW-6). The prosecution also adduced documentary evidence.

5. Thereafter, the statements of all accused/respondents were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. All accused pleaded their innocence and they stated that they were falsely implicated in this case due to village enmity and rivalry because of the elections of Gram Pradhan of village Ghurchiha. The defence adduced Murlidhar Mishra as DW-1 in their support and also filed documentary evidence.

6. The trial Court, after appreciating and evaluating the prosecution evidence, as available on record, found that prosecution witnesses Pancham (PW-1), informant Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) were not eye-witnesses to the incident. Since the prosecution was unable to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, the trial Court acquitted all accused persons, namely, Shanti Vijay Singh, Shesh Vijay Singh, Shatru Vijay Singh, Chandra Vijay Singh, Rajeshwari Lal, Ram Singh, Hazari Bania, Ram Samujh, Ramapati Singh, Rambriksh, Shreeram Yadav, Murlidhar Shukla and Paras Yadav.

7. In light of the office report dated 24.07.2025, which is based on the letter dated 19.03.2024 of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Gorakhpur, the appeal is declared to have abated so far as it concerns accused/respondent nos. 1, 5, 7, 8, 10, 11, 12 and 13, namely, Shanti Vijay Singh, Rajeshwari Lal, Hazari Bania, Ram Samujh, Rambriksh, Shreeram Yadav, Murlidhar Shukla and Paras Yadav. The appeal survives for adjudication only so far as it concerns accused/respondent nos. 2, 3, 4, 6 and 9, namely, Shesh Vijay Singh, Shatru Vijay Singh, Chandra Vijay Singh, Ram Singh and Rampati Singh.

8. Learned A.G.A. for the State submitted that the date, time and place of the murder were fully established and the trial Court was not justified in recording a finding contrary to the evidence on record. Pancham (PW-1) is an independent witness, while Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) are members of the deceased's family, therefore, all witnesses are quite natural in this case. It is also submitted that, despite their tender age, Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) withstood the test of cross-examination. The minor inconsistencies pointed out by the learned trial Court were not sufficient to discard their testimony. In view of the above arguments, it is again submitted that, taking any view of the matter and considering the total facts and circumstances of the case and the material available on record, the order of acquittal is not justified in the eyes of law. Hence, the Government Appeal deserves to be allowed and the judgment and order of acquittal dated 22.05.1985 passed by the trial Court is liable to be set aside.

9. Per contra, learned counsel for the accused-respondents submitted that the judgment and order of acquittal dated 22.05.1985 passed by the learned trial Court is fully justified and based on appreciation of evidence and law. It is also submitted that it was a blind murder of the deceased Girijashankar Lal. The prosecution has adduced Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) as eye-witnesses of the incident, but these so-called eye-witnesses could not withstand the cross-examination. The trial Court found that Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) are only planted and projected eye-witnesses. All the three witnesses of the so-called incident are not the eye-witnesses of the incident. The trial Court, in proper and legal manner, appreciated and evaluated the evidence adduced by the prosecution and found that Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) were not eye-witnesses of the incident. The order of acquittal passed by the trial Court is fully supported by evidence and reason. No mistake about appreciation of evidence and application of law has been committed by the trial Court. Thus, learned counsel for the accused-respondents has submitted that the instant Government Appeal filed by the State has no merit and is liable to be rejected.

10. In view of the above arguments of learned A.G.A. for the State and learned counsel for the accused-respondents, we have gone through all the evidence available on record. Apart from this, we have also gone through the judgment and order of acquittal dated 22.05.1985 passed by the trial Court.

11. From perusal of the evidence available on record, it is evident that, as per the prosecution story, the incident occurred on 12.08.1982 and it is said that Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) (daughter of the deceased Girijashankar Lal) witnessed the incident with their own eyes.

12. From perusal of the evidence given by prosecution witness Pancham (PW-1), we find that, in his examination-in-chief, this witness supported the prosecution story as narrated in the first information report, which was lodged by Nalin Kumar (PW-2), but when we examined his cross-examination, we find that he could not stand in his cross-examination. At the same point of fact, this witness has stated a different version in his evidence.

13. It is also evident that this witness has given evidence contrary to his statement recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. In other words, Pancham (PW-1) has given a totally different and improved version in the Court than the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. It is also evident from the statement of this witness that when confronted with his earlier statement, the witness has stated that "if darogaji has not written this fact in my statement, I cannot give any reason for it." Due to the inconsistencies, embellishments, material and major improvements, the trial Court did not find this witness reliable. We have also perused the evidence of this witness and find that evidence of this witness does not inspire confidence and is, therefore, considered untrustworthy. The trial Court also found that this witness is not reliable because of the material contradictions and improvements in his statements.

14. Nalin Kumar (PW-2) is the informant of this case. As per the prosecution story, this witness was also going with the deceased Girijashankar Lal on the date of the incident, i.e., 12.08.1982. In his examination-in-chief, this witness stated that he was going behind his maternal uncle (mausa), the deceased Girijashankar Lal, on another bicycle. We find that in his examination-in-chief, this witness has given his evidence as per the version of the F.I.R., which was written by him. In other words, what was stated by this witness in the F.I.R., all those facts and statements were reiterated and stated in his examination-in-chief by this witness.

15. PW-2 Nalin Kumar has got the F.I.R. of this case registered at police station Purandarpur and thereafter, the investigation of the case was started by the police. It is stated in his evidence by the informant Nalin Kumar (PW-2) that he was residing with his maternal uncle (mausa), the deceased Girijashankar Lal, in village Ghurchiya for his education. It was also stated that his uncle was a librarian at Sardar Patel Inter College, Lakshmipur, and he himself was a student there. When we have gone through his cross-examination, we find that this witness stated this statement, which was not given by him in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. From this, it is amply clear that this witness stated in his evidence that this statement was not given by him to the Investigating Officer. Meaning thereby, this witness totally improved his evidence in the Court from his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. given to the police. The major and material contradictions in his evidence were found by the trial Court. We also find that in the evidence of this witness, major and material contradictions and improvements have been made by this witness at the time of recording his evidence in the trial Court. The contradictions and improvements that are committed by this witness are so material and grievous that in such a situation, as per the law of evidence, the statement of this witness as given in the trial Court could not be believed to be true and reliable. From perusal of the evidence of this witness, we find that evidence of this witness does not inspire any confidence. Due to this reason, the trial Court not relied and believed the evidence of this witness. The trial Court found that this witness was also not present at the place of occurrence on 12.08.1982. The trial Court has also given this finding that "if he actually lives in the village and received education in the said intermediate college, the prosecution could file his admission form, mark-sheet, transfer certificate, scholar register showing the name of his local guardian, which would have proved that he was living in the village. His non-appearing in the supplementary examination and passing of the Intermediate examination in 1983 as a private candidate go to show that he never lived with the deceased and was never a student of that college." Thus, from the appreciation of the evidence of informant Nalin Kumar (PW-2), the trial Court found that this witness was not living with the deceased Girijashankar Lal at village Ghurchiya at the time of the incident. The trial Court also found that this witness was not an eye-witness of the incident. The prosecution, after due deliberation, produced this witness as both informant and eye-witness. Reasoning given by the trial Court is fully supported by the evidence in this respect that this witness is not an eye-witness. Learned trial Court also found that the so-called conduct of this witness is very much suspicious and unnatural to human behaviour. Thus, we are also of the considered opinion that Nalin Kumar (PW-2) is not an eye-witness of the incident and he was not present at the scene of occurrence when the incident occurred on 12.08.1982 as alleged by the prosecution.

16. Pushpa, who is daughter of the deceased Girijashankar Lal, is PW-3 in this case. It is stated by the prosecution that on the date of incident, the deceased Girijashankar Lal was going to Laxmipur market for purchasing Pooja samagri for Sri Krishna Janmashtami festival. PW-3 Pushpa was also accompanying her father Girijashankar Lal. It is stated that Pushpa (PW-3) was sitting in front of the bicycle of his father deceased Girijashankar Lal. As per the prosecution story and the statement of this witness, incident took place in her presence. This witness in her examination-in-chief fully supported the first information report and also corroborated the evidence of Pancham (PW-1) and Nalin Kumar (PW-2). We find that three prosecution witnesses, such as, Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) stated the same way in their examination-in-chief and supported the prosecution case but this witness also could not stand creditworthy and reliable in her cross-examination. During her cross-examination, defence cross-examined this witness and she has also conceded that "if darogaji had not written this fact in my statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., then I cannot give reason for it." We found that this witness also travelled behind her statement given to the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and in her examination-in-chief, she narrated totally different and improved statement. From this, it becomes amply clear that this witness during recording her statement totally improved and changed her version in the Court. We also found that major and material contradictions that go to the root of the prosecution story, has been committed by this witness in her statement. From perusal of the evidence of this witness Pushpa (PW-3), it is amply clear that this witness was also not an eye-witness of the occurrence dated 12.08.1982. This witness was not going with her father deceased Girijashankar Lal for purchasing Pooja samagri and her salwar-suit. Learned trial Court has given lengthy and reasonable discussion and rightly appreciated the evidence of this witness and has found that this witness was projected to strengthen the prosecution story. The trial Court in right perspective and in legal manner disbelieved the veracity of this witness. We found no illegality or perversity in appreciating the evidence of this witness by the trial Court.

17. From the evidence available on the record, it appears that prosecution tried to project Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2), Pushpa (PW-3) as eye-witnesses of the incident. Pancham (PW-1) in his evidence has stated that he himself had seen the occurrence committed by the accused and Nalin Kumar, Pushpa and Ayodhya had also seen the commission of the occurrence and they were also present at the scene of the occurrence. In the same way, Nalin Kumar (PW-2) has also stated that Pancham (PW-1), Pushpa (PW-3) and Ayodhya had also seen the commission of the occurrence by the accused persons. Nalin Kumar (PW-2) has also stated that apart from him, Pancham, Pushpa, Ayodhya are also eye-witnesses of the incident and they were also present at the scene of the crime.

18. In the same way, Pushpa (PW-3) has also stated in her evidence that, apart from her, Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Ayodhya were also present at the scene of the crime and they had seen commission of the crime with their own eyes but the trial Court, after evaluating and appreciating the evidence of all three prosecution witnesses, found that all the above three prosecution witnesses were not present at the scene of the crime. Their presence at the place of occurrence was highly doubtful and suspicious. We have also gone through the evidence of all three prosecution witnesses and we find that the prosecution tried to plant and project Pancham, Nalin Kumar and Pushpa as eye-witnesses of the incident. However, the prosecution miserably failed in its attempt to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt.

19. We found that as per prosecution story, Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) and Ayodhya were present at the scene of the occurrence when accused-respondents were committing the crime but we are surprised to see that four persons from the deceased' side were present at the place of occurrence at a distance of 10-12 paces but none of them tried to save the life or make a hue and cry against the accused persons.

20. It is also clear from the evidence that from the scene of crime, village Rudrapur was situated about 100-150 paces but prosecution witness Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) only as per the prosecution story were present at the spot, but they all were stood as a moot spectator to the commission of crime. None of the prosecution witnesses made any attempt to save the life of deceased Girijashankar Lal and also all the three prosecution witnesses not tried to get help from any other villagers/persons. Although village Rudrapur was near at a distance of about 100-150 paces. Time of commission of the occurrence was 10:30 A.M. and at that time, pathway may be full of passers-by. Apart from the prosecution witnesses, many other people may come and go from the road where incident took place. No single injury of abrasion or fire-arm injury of pellet has been received by the prosecution witnesses, such as, Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3).

21. In view of the above facts, it is clearly evident that prosecution purposely projected Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2), Pushpa (PW-3) as eye-witnesses of the incident, but in reality Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2) and Pushpa (PW-3) are not the eye-witnesses of the incident and they were not present at the place of occurrence.

22. On the point of motive, trial Court in respect of enmities between some of the accused and deceased Girijashankar Lal on one hand, and between accused Shanti

Vijay Singh and deceased Girijashankar Lal on the other hand are concerned, trial Court in para 22 of the judgement has fully discussed the motive about commission of the crime. As per the prosecution story, the motive for commission of the crime was enmity between some of the accused and Girijashankar Lal, secondly between accused Shanti Vijay Singh and Girijashankar Lal, who were rival candidates in the elections of Pradhan and thirdly Shanti Vijay Singh and others, who are the erstwhile Zamindars, who used to ill-treat the poor villagers and Girijashankar Lal used to provide succour to the villagers. The trial Court fully discussed the so-called above three kinds of enmities between the deceased Girijashankar Lal and accused persons and found that only on the ground of enmity, accused-respondents were falsely implicated in this case. We have also perused the evidence in this regard and also finding given by the trial Court on the point, then we find that prosecution only on the ground of enmities and rivalry between the deceased Girijashankar Lal and accused-respondents, has falsely implicated the accused-respondents in this case.

23. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sushil And Others v. State of U.P., 1995 SSC (Cri.) 388 and in the case of State of Punjab v. Sucha Singh, (2003) 3 SCC 153, has held that "enmity is a double edged weapon which cut both ways. It may constitute motive for the commission of the crime and at the same time it may also provide a motive for false implication." Therefore, only on the basis of enmity, the accused-respondents cannot be connected with the crime and held guilty for the crime. For holding guilty any man for the commission of any crime, full proof evidence either circumstantial or direct or last seen together must be present so cogently that accused persons could be connected with the crime on the basis of that evidence. Thus, it appears and evident from the evidence that prosecution on the ground of enmities and rivalry falsely implicated the accused-respondents in this case for commission of the crime.

24. We also found that due to so-called enmity and rivalry between the deceased Girijashankar Lal and accused-respondents, prosecution falsely implicated accused/respondents in this case. Prosecution due to so-called enmity and rivalry only on the ground of suspicion and doubt has falsely implicated the accused-respondents in this case but suspicion and doubt, however, so strong cannot take place of proof or evidence. For holding any person guilty for any crime, strong evidence beyond reasonable doubt must be adduced by the prosecution.

25. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Odisha v. Banabihari Mohapatra And Another, Special Leave Petition (Criminal) No. 1156 of 2021; decided on 12.02.2021 has held that "it is well settled by a plethora of judicial pronouncement of this Court that suspicion, however strong cannot take place of proof. An accused is presumed to be innocent unless proved guilty beyond reasonable doubt."

26. This proposition had also been asserted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sujit Biswas v. State of Assam; reported in AIR 2013 SC 3817. Thus, we find that due to so-called enmities and rivalry, accused-respondents were implicated in this case on the ground of suspicion and doubt without any cogent and reliable evidence against them.

27. From the postmortem report of deceased Girijashankar Lal, Ext.Ka-15, prepared by medical witness Dr. G.N. Tiwari (PW-6), total six injuries were found on his body. From perusal of the postmortem report, it is clear that the deceased Girijashankar Lal was murdered by gunshot injury and also by cutting his respiratory system by sharp-edged weapon but there is no direct evidence against the accused-respondents and there is also no indirect evidence or incriminating material from which accused-respondents can be connected with the crime. Thus, we find that so-called eye-witnesses as projected by the prosecution, i.e., Pancham (PW-1), Nalin Kumar (PW-2), Pushpa (PW-3) were not an eye-witnesses of the incident. Prosecution could not adduce any circumstantial evidence and also prosecution could not produce any incriminating material against the accused persons by which accused-respondents could be held guilty for commission of the crime.

28. In light of the above observations and discussions of the evidence, we find that no perversity or illegality was committed by the trial Court regarding the order of acquittal in respect of the accused-respondents. We are also of the considered view that acquittal order passed by the trial Court is fully based on evidence on the record and supported by lengthy reasoning, therefore, in view of the above, we find no force in the arguments of learned A.G.A. in this respect, hence we find the Government Appeal is liable to be rejected.

29. The Government Appeal is, accordingly, dismissed confirming the judgment and order dated 22.05.1985 passed by learned trial Court.

30. Office to send copy of this judgment to the trial Court. The trial Court records be transmitted.

Special Appeal Defective No. 387 of 2025

Vinay Mohan ...Appellant
Versus
Smt. Nidhi Singh & Anr. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Maintainability of Special Appeal against the Judgment an order passed by Single Judge in an application u/s 24 CPC.

(2) Definition of word 'Judgment' used in Rule 5 of Chapter VIII of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952.

(3) Effect of exclusory provision of S. 105 CPC on the maintainability of appeal.

Headnotes

(A) Practice and procedure – Special Appeal – Maintainability – Impugned order was passed in a petition arising out of proceeding u/s 24 CPC – Against which Special Appeal was filed – Preliminary objection on its maintainability was raised – Question of scope of the word ‘Judgment’ used in Ch. VIII Rule 5 also felt into consideration. (E-1)

Held : An order passed under Section 24 CPC is not a judgment, therefore, an appeal is not amenable on this count under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952. [Para 5]

Further held : Right to appeal is not inherent unless it is specifically provided by the statute. Since the Code of Civil Procedure does not specially provide for an appeal against an order passed on a transfer application under Section 24 CPC and at the same time by implication excludes an appeal against such an order by virtue of Section 105 CPC, therefore, the Division Bench opined that merely for the reason Rule 5 Chapter VIII of the Rules of the Court, 1952 is silent in this regard it would not confer jurisdiction of appeal, if any contrary interpretation is made and the appeal is held to be maintainable it would amount to conferring jurisdiction of appeal which otherwise is not specifically provided but is expressly as well as by implication excluded by Section 105 C.P.C. [Para 6]

Appearances for Parties

Appellant-in-person

Adv. for the Respondents : Vikas Pandey, Advocate

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. Heard Shri Vinay Mohan -appellant in person and Shri Vikas Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the respondent no. 1.

2. This is an appeal under Chapter VIII, Rules 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 challenging a judgment and order dated 20.05.2025 passed by learned Single Judge of this Court in Transfer Application (Civil) No. 166 of 2022.

3. Though, the appellant appearing in person sought to address the Court on merits of the matter, but, first and foremost the question arose as to whether this appeal against the order impugned is maintainable under Chapter VIII, Rules 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 or not ? The aforesaid provision reads as under:-

"5. Special appeal.- An appeal shall lie to the Court from a judgment (not being a judgment passed in the exercise of Appellate Jurisdiction) in respect of a decree or order made by a Court subject to the Superintendence of the Court and not being an order made in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction or in the exercise of its power of Superintendence or in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction or in the exercise of jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution in respect of any judgment, order or award (a) of a tribunal, Court or statutory arbitrator made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, or (b) of the Government or any officer or authority, made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of Appellate or Revisional jurisdiction under any such Act of one Judge."

4. It is true that the order has been passed on an application under Section 24 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 which is not in exercise of any appellate or revisional jurisdiction but under the jurisdiction vested in the High Court under Section 24 of the CPC. First and foremost it has been held in a catena of decisions that such an order passed under Section 24 CPC is not a judgment within the meaning of the term as used in Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 and similar provisions contained in Letter Patent Appeal Rules etc. pertaining to other High Courts. We may in this context refer to a co-ordinate Bench judgment rendered in the case of Amit Khanna Vs. Smt. Suchi Khanna reported in 2009 (1) AWC 929, wherein this issue was considered at length and referring to various decisions including the judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court reported in AIR 1953 SC 198; Asrumati Debi v. Kumar Rupendra Deb Raikot it was opined that an order of transfer under Section 24 is not a judgment within the meaning of Clause 15 of Letters Patent (Calcutta) and, therefore, is not appealable under the said provision. Such an order neither affects the merit of the controversy between the parties to the suit nor does it terminate or dispose of the suit on any ground. Therefore, an order of transfer cannot be placed in the same category as an order rejecting a plaint or one dismissing a suit on a preliminary ground. In this context the Division Bench also considered the Supreme Court decision reported in (2006) 5 SCC 399; Midnapore Peoples' Coop. Bank Ltd. and Ors. Vs. Chunilal Nanda and Ors. and the decisions cited therein. The Division Bench ultimately opined that an order passed by the learned Single Judge of this Court on a transfer application falls in the category 4 or 5 (Para 11) as categorized in Midnapore's case (supra), meaning thereby, it was either a routine order which was passed to facilitate the progress of the case till its culmination in the final judgment or it was an order which may cause some inconvenience or some prejudice to a party, but which do not finally determine the rights and obligations of the parties. Such an order is made only to facilitate the final decision but it in itself is not a decision at all to be called a judgment.

5. In view of this, as, an order passed under Section 24 CPC is not a judgment, therefore, an appeal is not amenable on this count under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952.

6. This apart, there is another aspect of the matter. Such an appeal is maintainable under the aforesaid provision only if it has not been expressly or impliedly taken away by appropriate legislation. The Division Bench in Amit Khanna's case (supra) relied upon a constitution Bench judgment of the Supreme Court rendered in the case of South Asia Industries (P) Ltd. Vs. S.B. Sarup Singh and Ors. reported in AIR 1965 SC 1442 in this regard. Based on the discussion, it opined that an appeal against an order passed under Section 24 CPC is not prescribed under Section 104 CPC and it is specifically excluded by Section 105 CPC, according to which -"Save as otherwise expressly provided, no appeal shall lie from any Order made by a Court in the exercise of its original or appellate jurisdiction; but, where a decree is appealed from, any error, defect or irregularity in any order, affecting the decision of the case, may be set forth as a ground of objection in the memorandum of appeal." Thus, no appeal is maintainable from any order of the Court passed in exercise of its original or appellate jurisdiction except against orders which have been made appealable under Section 104 CPC. Right to appeal is not inherent unless it is specifically provided by the statute. Since the Code of Civil Procedure does not specially provide for an appeal against an order passed on a transfer application under Section 24 CPC and at the same time by implication excludes an appeal against such an order by virtue of Section 105 CPC, therefore, the Division Bench opined that merely for the reason Rule 5 Chapter VIII of the Rules of the Court, 1952 is silent in this regard it would not confer jurisdiction of appeal, if any contrary interpretation is made and the appeal is held to be maintainable it would amount to conferring jurisdiction of appeal which otherwise is not specifically provided but is expressly as well as by implication excluded by Section 105 C.P.C. The Division Bench in Amit Khanna (supra), thus, opined that in the above scenario the right of special appeal as contemplated by Rule 5 Chapter VIII of the Rules of the Court, even though the same is independent to the provisions of C.P.C., against the order of the single judge passed on a transfer application under Section 24 C.P.C. stands impliedly excluded.

7. The Division Bench in Amit Khanna (supra) was followed by another Division Bench in Special Appeal No. 1126 of 2018; Akshay Gupta Vs. Smt. Swati Gupta decided on 16.11.2018. In this very context we may refer another judgment, also by a Division Bench of this Court, rendered in the case of Mahendra Pratap Bhatt Vs. Saroj Mahana reported in 2016 (5) ADJ 282, wherein, after considering the Division Bench judgment in Amit Khanna's case (supra) and certain other decisions, especially, the Supreme Court decision rendered in the case of Subal Paul Vs. Malina Paul and Anr. reported in 2003 (5) JT 193, it was opined that in Amit Khanna (supra) the aforesaid decision in Subal Paul (supra) as regards the purport and application of Section 104 C.P.C. was not considered and ultimately the Division Bench opined that irrespective of the Division Bench judgment in Amit Khanna's case (supra), as, the case before it was one where the order impugned was without jurisdiction which was not the case in Amit Khanna (supra), and as it was of the opinion that essentially the impugned judgment was one passed in exercise of powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, therefore, it entertained the appeal. We are of the opinion that the said judgment turns on its own facts. In the case at hand, it is not, as, if the judgment impugned is without jurisdiction, therefore, the judgment rendered in Mahendra Pratap Bhatt (supra) does not apply in this appeal, instead, the judgments rendered in Amit Khanna (supra) and Akshay Gupta (supra) apply. In the case of Akshay Gupta (supra) not only the judgment in Amit Khanna (supra) but also Mahendra Pratap Bhatt (supra) have also been considered and it was opined that from a joint reading of the judgments in the said cases it would be evident that special appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules, 1952 against an order passed by learned Single Judge on an application filed under Section 24 C.P.C. would not be maintainable except where the order passed by the learned Single Judge is without jurisdiction, which is not case in this appeal before us.

8. We are, therefore, of the considered opinion that on both the grounds, firstly that an order passed under Section 24 C.P.C. is not a judgment so as to maintain an appeal against such an order under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules, 1952, secondly, such an appeal is barred by Section 105 C.P.C., therefore, holding that this appeal is maintainable will be contrary to the letter and intent of Section 104 read with Section 105 C.P.C. as held by the Division Bench in the case of Amit Khanna (supra) with which we concur.

9. As regards the Supreme Court decision in Subal Paul (supra) that was a case where special appeal arose out of proceedings under Section 299 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 and Hon'ble the Supreme Court has held that the rigor of Section 104 C.P.C. would not apply to the said proceedings because the appeal was prescribed under special enactment and not the C.P.C. In the case at hand the factual position is different, as, the order which has been impugned, has been passed under Section 24 C.P.C. and not under any special enactment, therefore, the decision in Subal Paul (supra) also does not help the appellant herein.

10. The appellant has relied upon the decision reported in AIR 2006 Kerala 58; K.V. Balan and Anr. Vs. Sivagiri Sree Narayana Dharma Sanghom Trust and Ors., 2001 (1) ECrc 109; Neelam Kanwar Vs. Devinder Singh Kanwar, AIR 2017 SC 1345; Krishna Veni Nagam Vs. Harish Nagam and other judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Shyam Sel and Power Limited and Anr. Vs. Shyam Steel Industries Ltd. decided on 14.03.2022 and judgment of Bombay High Court rendered in the case of Amruta Vs. Sachin decided on 01.08.2025. None of the decisions cited by the appellant appearing in person help his case in view of the above discussion.

11. For all these reasons, we are of the opinion that the special appeal is not maintainable.

12. Accordingly, the special appeal is dismissed as not maintainable.

Headnotes

A. Service Law – Specialization of an employee should not be used as a tool against him, as a specialist can well render his services with cool and calm state of mind and if he is being transferred from one place to another, in an unpleasant situation, perhaps his/her skill being specialist; would have of no avail; for the Bank or any of the Institution. (Para 16)

The petitioner being Law Manager, renders special services, in term of clause of the transfer policy of the Bank. He has been transferred frequently, which is against the transfer policy. The authorities undoubtedly have to look into the interest of the Bank/Institution but at the same time, it has also to be considered that if the employees of the Bank or any Institution are given conducive atmosphere of working, the same may enhance the productivity of such Institution, as the employees are ultimately the human beings. This principle cannot be a strait-jacket formula but the same shall be applicable in the peculiar facts and circumstances of each and every case. (Para 16)

B. Clause 1.3 of the transfer policy provides that normal tenure of the officer at one place of the posting will be three years of active service and further clause 1.07 also provides that the Bank shall make all endeavour to complete the transfer exercise by 30th June of every year and the mid session transfer shall be considered only in case of promotion and administrative exigencies. When this Court examines the whole scenario of the transfer of the petitioner as well as the transfer policy, it is apparent that post of the petitioner is transferable as per Regulations 1979 and for putting unanimity, the Bank itself has issued an exhaustive transfer policy. The petitioner, who served more than nine years outside the State, while working at Nagpur and Jabalpur, was transferred in the State of Uttar Pradesh and was posted at Zonal Office Kanpur in the year 2023 and in between two years, he has been transferred from Kanpur to Bahraich and again from Bahraich to Salem in Tamil Nadu, in the month of July 2025. Normal tenure, which is provided for posting at one place, is three years of active service, whereas the petitioner within two years has been transferred two times and that too, lastly about 2000 kms away, in the mid term. (Para 14, 15)

The order impugned dated 10.11.2025 (which is reiteration of earlier ground of rejection and Bank authorities failing to consider the request of the petitioner for cancellation of his transfer in terms and conditions as provided in the transfer policy of the Bank) and the subsequent orders thereof, are hereby quashed. (Para 17, 18)

The petitioner is given liberty to move a fresh claim, agitating all the grounds, before the competent authority. For this period, the effect and operation of the impugned transfer order dated 18.7.2025 shall remain stayed and the petitioner shall not be forced to join on the transferred place of posting. (Para 19 to 21)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Vivek Kumar Shukla, Shweta Shukla

For Respondent(s): A.S.G.I., Gopal Kumar Srivastava, Surya Prakash

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Vivek Kumar Shukla and Ms. Shweta Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Asit Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Gopal Kumar Srivastava and Mr. Akash Deep Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 2 to 5 and Mr. Varun Pandey, learned counsel for the Union of India.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has assailed the transfer order dated 18.7.2025 issued by the Corporate Office, HRM, Indian Bank which is communicated by Assistant General Manager, HRM, Indian Bank. Further prayer is made for quashing of the order dated 4.10.2025 passed by the Grievance Redressal Authority and the order dated 10.11.2025 passed by the appellate authority alongwith the order dated 5.8.2025, by which the petitioner is relieved.

3. He submitted that against the transfer order, the petitioner moved a letter on 21.7.2025 before the Grievance Redressal Cell and, when that remained unheard, within a period 15 days, he filed a writ petition bearing Writ-A No. 9921 of 2025 wherein this Court was pleased to pass the order on 1.9.2025, which is quoted hereinunder:-

"1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Arvind Kumar, learned counsel, who files memo on behalf of respondent no.1, and Sri Gopal Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for respondents no.2 and 3.

2. With the consent of learned counsels for the parties the matter is being decided finally.

3. The petitioner is aggrieved by the transfer order dated 18.07.2025, a copy of which is Annexure-1 to the petition, whereby the petitioner has been transferred from Bahraich to Salem.

4. It has also been pointed out by Sri Srivastava that the petitioner has already been relieved on 05.08.2025. He also states that as the petitioner has been relieved as such his entire matter now would be considered by the competent authority where the petitioner has been transferred.

5. Various grounds have been taken by the learned counsel for the petitioner to challenge the said order.

6. However, it has been pointed out that in terms of Clause 26 of the Transfer Policy for Officers up to scale III issued by the Indian Bank, a copy of which is Annexure-5 to the petition, the petitioner can raise his grievance before the Zonal Officer/FGMO Corporate Office and that the petitioner has already raised his grievance vide grievance dated 21.07.2025, a copy of which is Annexure-4 to the petition. As such, it is prayed that the said grievance be directed to be decided by the competent authority who is said to be respondents no.2 and 3.

7. Accordingly, considering Clause 26 of the Transfer Policy the writ petition is disposed of with a direction to the competent authority to consider and dispose of the grievance as raised by the petitioner, a copy of which is Annexure-4 to the petition, in accordance with law and relevant rules which grievance would be decided within a period of two weeks from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

8. Till then no coercive action has been taken against the petitioner in pursuance to the impugned transfer order dated 18.07.2025."

4. Further submission is that vide the aforesaid order, the competent authority of the Bank was directed to consider the grievance of the petitioner as per clause 26 of the transfer policy and it was also provided that till the decision is taken no coercive action shall be taken against him. He submitted that in compliance of the order aforesaid, the order dated 8.9.2025 has been passed but the grievance of the petitioner has not been redressed and the request of the petitioner has been rejected and, being aggrieved, the petitioner again moved writ petition bearing Writ-A No.11252 of 2025, wherein again an order was passed on 25.9.2025, for deciding the representation of the petitioner afresh and again protection was granted for not taking any coercive action against the petitioner. The order dated 25.9.2025 passed in Writ-A No.11252 of 2025 is quoted as under:-

"1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Asit Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Gopal Kumar Srivastava, Advocate & Sri Akash Deep Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondents no. 2 to 4.

2. At the very outset, Sri Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate informs that the order dated 18.09.2025, a copy of which is annexure 3 to the writ petition per which the representation of the petitioner dated 21.07.2025 has been rejected, has been withdrawn. He further states that now a fresh decision would be taken on the representation by the Chief General Manager (CDO/CLO) which is the next higher authority to the General Manager (HRM) who effected the initial order of transfer dated 18.07.2025.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner is satisfied with the aforesaid.

4. Considering the aforesaid, the writ petition is disposed of leaving it open for the competent authority to decide the representation of the petitioner a fresh as per statement given by Sri Asit Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the respondents which would be decided within a period of ten days, the time frame as suggested by Sri Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate in accordance with law and the relevant rules.

5. Till then, no coercive action shall be taken against the petitioner in pursuance to the transfer order dated 18.07.2025.

6. It is further provided that in case any grievance of the petitioner still subsist it would be open for the petitioner to approach the competent Court of law"

5. He submitted that once the order was not passed, the petitioner again approached this court by way of filing Writ-A No.12942 of 2025 wherein on 11.11.2025 following order was passed:-

"It has been informed by Mr. Asit Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Mr. Gopal Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 2, 3 & 4 that the appeal against the order passed on representation has been decided on 10.11.2025 by the competent authority.

Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that he may be permitted to withdraw instant petition with liberty to file afresh while challenging the subsequent order dated 10.11.2025. He further submits that a copy of this order has been furnished to the learned counsel for the petitioner today in itself in the Court.

With the aforesaid observations, instant writ petition is dismissed as withdrawn with the liberty as sought above."

6. Referring the aforesaid, he submitted that the order dated 11.11.2025 passed by appellate authority was placed before this Court and the writ petition was dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to the petitioner to challenge that order and now, against the transfer order as well as the order passed by the appellate authority, present writ petition has been preferred.

7. Submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner was initially appointed on the post of Law Officer in the Allahabad Bank on 23.9.2013 and he was posted at Nagpur and thereafter, he was transferred to Jabalpur in the year 2017 and he served at Jabalpur till 5.2.2023 and on 6.2.2023, he joined at Zonal Office, Kanpur as Senior Manager and, hence, the petitioner rendered more than nine years of services outside the home State.

8. Adding his arguments, he submitted that on 29.5.2025, within span of two years and three months, the petitioner has again been transferred as Senior Manager, Zonal Office, Indian Bank, Bahraich and just after two months, he has again been transferred on 18.7.2025 from Zonal Office, Baraich to Zonal Office Salem, Tamil Nadu, vide impugned transfer order dated 18.7.2025 and being aggrieved, the petitioner preferred an appeal, as per para 26 of the transfer policy, before the Chief General Manager on 21.7.2025. He argued that the Bank, for making unanimity in the transfer policy, has issued transfer policy for officers upto scale III. He submitted that as per clause 1.3 of the transfer policy of the Bank, normal tenure of an officer at one place of posting, has been provided as three years and it has also been provided in clause 1.6 that the Bank shall endeavour to complete transfer by 30th June of every year and mid term transfer shall only be considered in case of promotion and administrative exigencies. He has also drawn attention towards clause 5.5 of the transfer policy and submitted that the transfer policy also envisages that all endeavour shall be made to accommodate officers in respect of linguistic region so as to ensure seamless customer service to the maximum extent possible. He argued that the transfer of the petitioner is being done frequently and in the mid-term, which is not permitted under the policy.

9. He also submitted that within the period of three years, the petitioner has been transferred from Zonal Office Bahraich to Zonal Office Salem at Tamil Nadu, which is two thousand kilometers away, moreso, the official language of State of Tamil Nadu is 'Tamil' and the customers can be dealt with mostly in the local language, which would be a hurdle in communication between the petitioner and the customers. Secondly, even after serving more than nine years outside the State, the petitioner has again been transferred within a span of two years, out of the State, i.e., more than thousand kilometers away in State of Tamil Nadu.

10. He has also emphasized that within a period of two months, he has been transferred from one place to another, which shows that there is implied mala fide intention of the authorities, best known to them only. He submitted that once the policy itself says that all endeavour shall be made regarding the transfer upto 30th June of every year then there was no occasion to transfer the petitioner in the month of July 2025. He added that the petitioner is a human being and transferring the petitioner in frequent way, that too, thousand kilometers away, in another State, amounts to harassment and that also shows that something is running behind the back of the petitioner in the Bank. He submitted that the transfer of the petitioner has been done on whims and fancies of the Bank officers and in fact, it is not due to any exigency but for the reason of being an expert. He also added that being an expert is one of the special quality of an employee but the same shall not be used as a tool for harassment of his goodness.

11. Lastly, he submits that wife of the petitioner is a bank employee serving at Kanpur and if the petitioner is transferred thousand kilometers away, his whole personal and family life shall be ruined. Thus, submission is that the transfer of the petitioner is violative of the transfer policy of the Bank itself and, as such, the transfer order dated 18.7.2025 and subsequent adversarial order passed thereof may be quashed.

12. Per contra, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the Bank has opposed the contentions aforesaid and submits that the petitioner is specialized officer, i.e., Senior Manager Law Scale-III and looking into the administrative exigency, i.e., special services of the petitioner, being a Law Manager, in consonance with clause 5.2 of the transfer policy, he has been transferred from Zonal Office Bahraich to Zonal Office Salem, Tamil Nadu. He argued that the petitioner's services are governed with the provisions of Indian Bank Officers Service Regulations, 1979 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Regulations, 1979') and Regulation 47 of the said Regulations provides that 'every officer is liable to transfer to any office or branch of the Bank to any place of India', therefore, the transfer of the petitioner has been made in consonance with the provisions of law and Regulation 47 of the Regulations 1979, and the clause 5.2 of the Transfer Policy is concomitant and, therefore, there is no unlawfulness or any contradiction thereof. He also added that the transfer is an incident of service and no officer can claim posting at a particular place, more particularly, when the Regulation 47 of the Regulations 1979 specifically provides regarding the transfer of an employee from one branch to another branch in India and, more particularly, this policy is well known to the petitioner, from the first date of his joining, in the Bank. Adding his arguments, he submitted that clauses 1.2, 4.0, 6.2 and 24.2 including 25.1 very clearly speak about the transfer of a bank employee and the terms and conditions thereof, has strictly been followed by the Bank. He next added that so far as the ground is taken that the wife of the petitioner is working at Kanpur, the same has been taken for the first time before this Court and in appeal, this ground had not been take by the petitioner.

13. Concluding his arguments, he submitted that as per the settled law started from Shilpi Bose (Mrs) and others Vs. State of Bihar and others reported in 1991 Supp (2) SCC 659, upto this time, the Supreme Court has time and again reiterated that the transfer can only be interfered if the same is hit with malice or mala fide or there is frequent transfers or if those are against the provision of any law. Thus, submission is that there is no merit in the writ petition, therefore, the same may be dismissed.

14. Upon considering the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of the record, it emerges that the petitioner came into service of the respondent Bank on 23.9.2013 and since 2013 to 5th February 2023, he was working outside the home district. In the State of Uttar Pradesh, the petitioner has been transferred from one place to another within span of two years as once the petitioner was transferred from Jabalpur to Kanpur on 5.2.2023, he was again transferred on 29.5.2025 to Zonal Office at Bahraich and further within a period of two months, i.e., on 18.7.2025, he has been transferred from Zonal Office Bahraich to Zonal Office Salem in State of Tamil Nadu, i.e., thousand kilometers away from the place of posting.

15. When this Court examines the whole scenario of the transfer of the petitioner as well as the transfer policy, it is apparent that post of the petitioner is transferable as per Regulations 1979 and for putting unanimity, the Bank itself has issued an exhaustive transfer policy. Clause 1.3 of the transfer policy provides that normal tenure of the officer at one place of the posting will be three years of active service and further clause 1.07 also provides that the Bank shall make all endeavour to complete the transfer exercise by 30th June of every year and the mid session transfer shall be considered only in case of promotion and administrative exigencies. The petitioner, who served more than nine years outside the State, while working at Nagpur and Jabalpur, was transferred in the State of Uttar Pradesh and was posted at Zonal Office Kanpur in the year 2023 and in between two years, he has been transferred from Kanpur to Bahraich and again from Bahraich to Salem in Tamil Nadu, in the month of July 2025. Normal tenure, which is provided for posting at one place, is three years of active service, whereas the petitioner within two years has been transferred two times and that too, lastly about two thousand kilometers away, in the mid term.

16. The petitioner being Law Manager, renders special services, in term of clause of the transfer policy of the Bank. He has been transferred frequently, which is against the transfer policy. This court is of considered opinion that specialization of an employee should not be used as a tool against him, as an specialist can well render his services with cool and calm state of mind and if he is being transferred from one place to another, in an unpleasant situation, perhaps his/her skill being specialist; would have of no avail; for the Bank or any of the Institution. In fact, the authorities undoubtedly have to look into the interest of the Bank/Institution but at the same time, it has also to be considered that if the employees of the Bank or any Institution are given conducive atmosphere of working, the same may enhance the productivity of such Institution, as the employees are ultimately the human beings. This principle cannot be a strait-jacket formula but the same shall be applicable in the peculiar facts and circumstances of each and every case.

17. This Court has also noticed that reiterating the same ground, the decision has been taken by the Bank while rejecting the request of the petitioner for cancellation of his transfer and, therefore, this Court has twice intervened in the matter. This time also, the order dated 10.11.2025 is reiteration of earlier ground of rejection and the Bank authorities have also failed to consider the request of the petitioner cancelling of his transfer in terms and conditions as provided in the transfer policy of the Bank.

18. In view of the above submissions and discussions, the order impugned dated 10.11.2025 and the subsequent orders thereof, are hereby quashed.

19. The petitioner is given liberty to move a fresh claim, agitating all the grounds, before the competent authority, within a period fifteen days and on receiving such representation, the competent authority is directed to consider and decide the same within further period of six weeks, strictly in accordance with law.

20. The order passed on representation shall be communicated by the competent authority to the petitioner.

21. For the aforesaid period, the effect and operation of the impugned transfer order dated 18.7.2025 shall remain stayed and the petitioner shall not be forced to join on the transferred place of posting.

22. The writ petition is allowed accordingly.

Issue for consideration

Whether a fresh attachment order could have been passed in the garb of reinstating petitioner in service, when the petitioner prior to suspension was posted in District Mathura and operation of suspension order was stayed?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – Code of Civil Procedure, 1908: Section 144 - The party aggrieved is required to be placed in the same position in which he/she was prior to passing of the order which was impugned and has either been stayed or quashed. The said principle is an existing rule of justice, equity and fair play. (Para 11)

Although specific provisions of the Code Civil Procedure are not applicable in writ jurisdiction, but the general principles, particularly that of restitution, would be applicable in the present case as well. (Para 12)

Earlier, petitioner while being posted as Food Safety Officer at Mathura was suspended vide order dated 16.10.2025 which was challenged in Writ A No.13092 of 2025 and vide order dated 19.11.2025, the operation of suspension order was stayed. It is submitted that in pursuance thereof, impugned order dated 17.12.2025 has been passed but instead of posting petitioner at the original place of posting, he has been attached to the Head Office at Lucknow. (Para 3)

It is submitted that once the petitioner prior to suspension was posted in District Mathura and with the stay order of this Court in operation, the fresh attachment order could not have been passed in the garb of reinstating petitioner in service. (Para 4)

In present case, it being evident that impugned order dated 17.12.2025 is not in consonance with the directions issued by this Court on 19.11.2025, the same is quashed by issuance of a writ in the nature of certiorari, directing opposite party no.2 i.e. Commissioner Food Safety and Drug Administration, Sector-C, Aliganj, Lucknow to post petitioner in the place where he was posted prior to issuance of suspension order. For Petitioner(s): Ajay Kishor Pandey, Tanveer Ahmad Lari

For Respondent(s): C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Mathur, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for petitioner and learned State counsel for opposite parties.

2. Petition has been filed challenging order dated 17.12.2025 whereby petitioner has been attached to the Headquarter at Lucknow.

3. It is submitted that earlier, petitioner while being posted as Food Safety Officer at Mathura was suspended vide order dated 16.10.2025 which was challenged in Writ A No.13092 of 2025 and vide order dated 19.11.2025, the operation of suspension order was stayed. It is submitted that in pursuance thereof, impugned order has been passed but instead of posting petitioner at the original place of posting, he has been attached to the Head Office at Lucknow.

4. It is submitted that once the petitioner prior to suspension was posted in District Mathura and with the stay order of this Court in operation, the fresh attachment order could not have been passed in the garb of reinstating petitioner in service.

5. It is further submitted that since inquiry proceedings are already continuing against petitioner in District Agra Division, it is necessary for petitioner to continue in his earlier place of posting, particularly since no proceedings against petitioner are ongoing at Lucknow.

6. Learned State counsel has been provided written instructions dated 19.12.2025, a copy of which is taken on record and as per which even by passing of impugned order, no adverse effect would occasion to petitioner since he is continuing in service. It is also indicated that serious charges have been levelled against petitioner and therefore it will not be conducive for petitioner's posting in his erstwhile place.

7. Upon consideration of submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties and perusal of material on record, the fact pertaining to petitioner's suspension and stay thereof as indicated here-in-above are admitted.

8. In the considered opinion of this Court, once the suspension order of petitioner dated 16.10.2025 was stayed in its entirety, it was incumbent upon opposite parties to have continued petitioner in his place of posting prior to passing of the suspension order.

9. However instead of adopting the aforesaid method, opposite parties in the garb of reinstating petitioner in service, have attached him at Lucknow.

10. The aforesaid procedure is totally alien to service jurisprudence and even otherwise the concept of prejudice being caused is irrelevant since opposite parties were bound to comply with direction issued by this Court.

11. The aspect can also be considered in terms of principles of restitution as specified in Section 144 of the Code of Civil Procedure whereby the party aggrieved is required to be placed in the same position in which he/she was prior to passing of the order which was impugned and has either been stayed or quashed. The said principle is an existing rule of justice, equity and fair play. The said proposition has been considered by Supreme Court in the case of Citibank N.A. v. Hitten P. Dalal

[(2016) 1 SCC 411] in the following manner:-

"17. In Kerala SEB v. M.R.F. Ltd. (1996) 1 SCC 597 also the view taken by this Court was similar. But it was further clarified that the Court has a duty that in the matter of restitution justice be done as per facts of the case. In granting relief of restitution the Court "should not be oblivious of any unmerited hardship to be suffered by the party against whom action by way of restitution is taken." This Court favoured a pragmatic view and grant of relief in a manner as may be reasonable, fair and practicable without causing unmerited hardships to either of the parties. In South Eastern Coalfields Limited v. State of M.P., (2003) 8 SCC 648, this Court re-emphasized that restitution is for meeting the ends of justice and depends upon the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case. This Court further clarified in para 27 that as held by Privy Council in the case of Jai Berham vs. Kedar Nath Marwari, AIR 1922 PC 269, Section 144 CPC is rather a statutory recognition of an already existing rule of justice, equity and fair play and therefore even apart from Section 144 the Court has inherent jurisdiction to order restitution so as to do complete justice between the parties. This Court approved the view of the Privy Council that the Court has to act rightly and fairly according to the circumstances, towards all parties involved.

19. In the ultimate analysis we find that the law on restitution under Section 144 of the CPC is quite well settled. It vests expansive power in the Court but such power has to be exercised to ensure equity, fairness and justice for both the parties. It also flows from more or less common stand of parties on the principle of law that for ascertaining the value of the property which is no longer available for restitution on account of sale etc., the Court should adopt a realistic and verifiable approach instead of resorting to hypothetical and presumptive value. It is also one of the established propositions that in the context of restitution the Court should keep under consideration not only the loss suffered by the party entitled to restitution but also the gain, if any, made by other party who is obliged to make restitution. No unmerited injustice should be caused to any of the parties."

12. Although specific provisions of the Code Civil Procedure are not applicable in writ jurisdiction, but the general principles, particularly that of restitution, would be applicable in the present case as well.

13. In view of aforesaid facts and circumstances, it being evident that impugned order dated 17.12.2025 is not in consonance with the directions issued by this Court on 19.11.2025, the same is quashed by issuance of a writ in the nature of certiorari, directing opposite party no.2 i.e. Commissioner Food Safety and Drug Administration, Sector-C, Aliganj, Lucknow to post petitioner in the place where he was posted prior to issuance of suspension order.

14. Resultantly, petition succeeds and is allowed at the admission stage itself. Parties to bear their own costs.

Writ A No. 16556 of 2024

Manoj Kumar Mishra ...Petitioner

State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether the delayed issue of the regularization order would divest the petitioner of the right to receive pension under the old pension scheme that was in vogue at the time when his right to regularization crystallized?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – Uttar Pradesh Palika (Centralised) Services Rules, 1966: Rules 21-A, 31 - The delayed issue of the regularization order on 11.10.2006 would not divest the petitioner of the right to receive pension under the old pension scheme that was in vogue at the time when his right to regularization crystallized. Apparently, the petitioner had been appointed on an ad hoc basis way back on 07.03.1995, and that ad hoc appointment had to be against a vacant post, substantive or temporary, as the said Rule contemplates. There was, therefore, no justification for the respondents to have delayed issuing regularization orders after the amendment was notified on 10.04.2003. Therefore, the State's inaction or prolixity in issuing the necessary regularization order would not divest the petitioner of his right to regularization that accrued u/Rule 21-A(1) of the Rules of 1966 at the relevant point of time, when the old pension scheme was still in force. (Para 14 to 16)

If a different view of the matter is taken and one were to go simply by the date of regularization and the prevalent pension scheme, it would introduce an element of arbitrariness, in that, that the State could delay issuing the regularization order, to which the petitioner was entitled under the Rules on the date the Rule came into force until such time that the new pension scheme was introduced. There is no valid justification offered by the respondents for all the delay between 10.04.2003, when Rule 21- A

came into force and 11.10.2006, when the regularization order was actually issued. The petitioner must, therefore, be held entitled to the benefit of the old pension scheme that was in force prior to 01.04.2005, the date of the regularization order notwithstanding. (Para 17)

B. The entitlement to pension has to be limited to the date when the petitioner was actually regularized or in a case, such as this, when he was entitled to be regularized, but wrongfully deprived due to the respondents' inaction. It cannot be anything more. The contention of the petitioner that he is entitled to pension w.e.f. 07.03.1995, when he was appointed on ad hoc basis cannot be accepted. (Para 23)

A mandamus is issued, directing the Principal Secretary, Nagar Vikas, Government of U.P., Lucknow, the Director, Local Bodies, U.P., Lucknow and the Secretary, Agra Development Authority, Agra, to ensure amongst themselves payment of pension and gratuity to the petitioner, reckoning his entitling service w.e.f. 10.04.2003 and pay the pension with effect from the month following his retirement, together with arrears, which will carry simple interest at the rate of 6% per annum.

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

For Respondent(s): Suresh C. Dwivedi, C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition has been instituted by the petitioner, Manoj Kumar Mishra, a retired Assistant Engineer (Civil), belonging to the U.P. Palika Centralised Service, seeking our mandamus, ordering the respondents to sanction and fix his pension and gratuity, taking into account his entire length of service from 07.03.1995 to 30.06.2024, that is to say, including the period during which he worked ad hoc. The petitioner has further prayed that he be paid his monthly pension regularly, together with arrears, and, further, that gratuity be also determined and paid to him.

2. The petitioner's case is that he was appointed as a Junior Engineer (Civil) on daily-wages w.e.f. 29.05.1985 with the Nagar Palika Parishad, Mainpuri. He has remained in employment continuously ever since. In the year 1995, proceedings were taken by the State Government to grant appointment as Junior Engineers (Civil) under Rule 31 of the Uttar Pradesh Palika (Centralised) Services Rules, 1966 (for short, 'the Rules of 1966') to persons working on daily-wage/ contract/ ad hoc basis in the various Nagar Nigam/ Nagar Palika Parishad. In the aforesaid proceedings, the petitioner's name was also included for consideration. On 07.03.1995, an order was issued by the State Government, whereby 58 persons were appointed as Junior Engineers (Civil) under Rule 31 of the Rules of 1966. The petitioner's name figures at serial No.53 of the said list. In terms of the order dated 07.03.1995, the petitioner submitted his joining report to the Director, Local Bodies, U.P., Lucknow. He was posted at Nagar Palika Parishad, Mahoba, where he joined and discharged duties assigned to him. The petitioner was transferred and posted to different establishments. His work and conduct was always found satisfactory. There was no complaint with regard to his performance etc. by his superiors.

3. The petitioner's appointment vide order dated 07.03.1995 was an ad hoc appointment under Rule 31 of the Rules 1966. The Rules of 1966 were amended on 10.04.2003 vide the Uttar Pradesh Palika (Centralised) Services (Twenty-First Amendment) Rules, 2003, which introduced Rule 21-A into the said Rules. It provided for regularization of ad hoc employees, which applies to the petitioner's case. The petitioner asserts that under Rule 21-A of the Rules of 1966, as amended by the 21st Amendment, his services should have been regularized in the year 2003 itself, but on account of the respondents' lethargy, there was a time lag in issuing the necessary regularization orders. A regularization order, relating to the petitioner along with some other employees, was made on 11.10.2006 by the Director, Local Bodies, U.P., Lucknow.

4. At the time when the regularization order was made, the petitioner was posted with the Nagar Nigam, Agra. He continued with that Nagar Nigam until the year 2016, when he was transferred to the Nagar Palika Parishad, Kayamganj, District Farrukhabad. In the year 2017, the petitioner was moved to the Agra Development Authority, Agra. While working with the Development Authority aforesaid, he was promoted as an Assistant Engineer (Civil) in the year 2023. He retired from service on 30.06.2024 upon attaining the age of superannuation. The petitioner says that regular deductions from his salary were made towards his GPF from the month of March, 1995 until his retirement. During his service, he was sanctioned several benefits worked out on the basis of his length of service, reckoned w.e.f. 07.03.1995.

5. On 23.05.2017, an office order was issued by the Director, Local Bodies, whereby benefits of financial upgradation were sanctioned to persons, whose names appear in the said order. The petitioner's name finds place at serial No.41 of the last mentioned order. A perusal of the order indicates, as the petitioner says, that on completion of 10 years' satisfactory service, he was sanctioned his first financial upgradation w.e.f. 01.12.2008, and, upon completion of 16 years of service, a second financial upgradation w.e.f. 09.03.2011. It is also said that the benefit of the Assured Career Progression (ACP) scheme was sanctioned for the petitioner, computing his service from the month of March, 1995. The case of the petitioner is that upon retirement, he was paid his provident fund and dues on account of leave encashment. However, he was neither paid gratuity nor sanctioned or disbursed his pension. Apparently, as the petitioner acknowledges, he has been denied his pension and gratuity on ground that his services were regularized on 11.10.2006, and that being a date subsequent to 01.04.2005, the new pension scheme had come into force, which was a contributory pension scheme and the old pension scheme had been abolished.

6. It is pleaded on behalf of the petitioner that he was appointed on 07.03.1995 in accordance with Rule 31 of the Rules of 1966. This appointment, though called ad hoc, is indeed one made in accordance with Rules and is not ad hoc in the sense in which the term is understood. Since the petitioner has functioned continuously from 07.03.1995, after being appointed under Rule 31 of the Rules of 1966, followed by regularization in service on 11.10.2006, the entire period has to be reckoned as regular service, entitling him to pension under the pre-existing or old pension scheme.

7. It is also asserted that the entitlement of the petitioner to regularization would crystallize under the Amendment of 2003 to the Rules of 1966 in the month of April, 2003. The delay in issue of the regularization order is a lapse on the respondents' part, for which the petitioner cannot be denied his right, that would otherwise accrue. It is also pleaded that the regularization order, albeit issued on 11.10.2006, would relate back to the date of the petitioner's entitlement to regularization. The petitioner represented his cause to the Director, Local Bodies in June, 2021, but the representation did not elicit response. No action was taken.

8. It is the denial of the petitioner's pension and gratuity, which has brought him to this Court.

9. A notice of motion was issued on 25.10.2024. A counter affidavit filed on behalf of the Agra Development Authority on 14.11.2024. Two separate counter affidavits were filed, one on behalf of the State, and the other, the Director, Local Bodies, on 09.12.2024 in Court. These were taken on record. Mr. Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Aditendra Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner, waived his right to file a rejoinder.

10. Parties having exchanged affidavits, the writ petition was admitted to hearing, which proceeded forthwith. It was re-heard on 02.06.2025, connecting it to Writ-A No.17940 of 2024. We do not think that connection of the two writ petitions was required, because a different set of rules apply to the petitioners in the two writ petitions, notwithstanding the similarity of cause of action and relief. This petition was heard further on 18.07.2025, 04.08.2025, 19.08.2025 and 25.08.2025, when judgment was reserved.

11. Heard Mr. Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Kauntey Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Akhilesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Standing Counsel on behalf of respondent Nos. 1 and 2, Mr. S. C. Dwivedi, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the Agra Development Authority and Mr. Kunal Shah, learned Amicus Curiae.

12. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, we find that the petitioner was appointed as a daily-wager way back on 29.05.1985. Some orders were made by the State Government under Rule 31 of the Rules of 1966 to appoint daily-wagers, who had worked for three years or more, prior to 01.10.1994, and were in service on 07.03.1995 on ad hoc basis. It is not in dispute that the petitioner was found fit and eligible to be appointed on ad hoc basis under Rule 31 of the Rules of 1966 as a Junior Engineer. Now, this was not an appointment de hors the rules, but had some regularity about it. Rule 31 of the Rules of 1966 reads:

“31. Ad hoc and temporary officiating appointments.- Notwithstanding anything contained in Rule 21, the State Government may also make ad hoc appointments or temporary officiating arrangements for the posts falling vacant substantively or temporarily”

13. Rule 21-A was introduced in the Rules of 1966 vide notification dated 10.04.2003. It reads:

“21-A. Regularisation of ad hoc appointments.- (1) Any person who-

(i) was directly appointed on ad hoc basis before June 30, 1998 and is continuing in service as such on date of commencement of these rules;

(ii) possessed requisite qualifications prescribed under Rule 12 for regular appointment at the time of such ad hoc appointment; and

(iii) has completed or as the case may be, after he has completed three years continuous service, shall be considered for appointment in permanent or temporary vacancy as may be available on the basis of his service record and suitability before any regular appointment is made in such vacancy in accordance with the provisions contained in these rules.”

(2) In making regular appointment under these rules reservation for the candidates belonging to the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes, Backward Classes and other categories shall be made in accordance with the orders of the Government in force at the time of recruitment.

(3) For the purpose of sub-rule (1) Government shall constitute a, Selection Committee and consultation with the Commission shall not be necessary.

(4) The Director of local bodies shall prepare an eligibility list of the candidates, arranged in order of seniority as determined from the date of order of their ad hoc appointment and if two or more persons are appointed together, from the order in which their names are arranged in the said appointment order. The list shall be placed before the Selection Committee along with their character rolls and such other service records pertaining to them as may be considered necessary to judge their suitability.

(5) The Selection Committee shall consider the case of the candidates on the basis of their records referred to in sub-rule (4).

(6) The Selection Committee shall prepare a list of selected candidates, the names in the list being arranged in order of seniority and forward it to the Government and the Director of Local Bodies.

(7) The Government or Director of Local Bodies shall, subject to the provisions of sub-rule (2) of this rule and sub-rule (1) of Rule 6, make appointment from the list prepared under sub-rule (6) of these rules in order in which their names stand in the list.

(8) Appointments made under sub-rule (7) shall be deemed to be made under relevant provision contained in Rule 21.

(9) A person appointed under this rule shall be entitled to seniority only from the date of order of appointment after selection in accordance with this rule and shall, in the cases, be placed below the persons appointed in accordance with the procedure for direct recruitment contained in Part V of these rules prior to the appointment of such person under this rule.

(10) If two or more persons are appointed together under this rule, their seniority inter se shall be determined in the order mentioned in the order of appointment.

(11) The services of a person, appointed on ad hoc basis who is not found suitable or whose case is not covered by sub-rule (1) of this rule, shall be terminated forthwith and on such termination, he shall be entitled to receive one month's pay."

14. The petitioner was regularized under Rule 21-A of the Rules 1966, because he had been working for the requisite number of years, as contemplated under the relevant Government Order, galvanizing the process of regularization under Rule 21-A. He was found to have the necessary qualifications under the Rules and the regularization certainly contemplated the existence of a vacancy. It would also be noticed that when the petitioner was given an ad hoc appointment, that too was against a post, that was substantively or temporarily vacant. Rule 21-A also required that ad hoc appointees be considered for regularization before any regular appointment was made under the Rules of 1966.

15. It is asserted in paragraph No.25 of the writ petition that the petitioner was entitled to regularization in February, 2003, that is to say, the date when Rule 21-A was introduced in the Rules of 1966, and, further, that the mere fact that there existed a default on the respondents' part in passing timely orders, cannot affect the petitioner's legal entitlement, which means his entitlement to pension etc. The said paragraph is not specifically denied in the counter affidavit about the factum of delay in taking action for the petitioner's regularization. All that is said is that the petitioner was appointed on a regular basis to the post of Junior Engineer (Civil) against a vacant post by means of the Directorate's letter dated 11.10.2006. There is no justification offered as to why the delay occurred. There is no assertion of the fact that there was no vacant post, against which the petitioner could be regularized, when Rule 21-A was introduced.

16. Apparently, the petitioner had been appointed on an ad hoc basis way back on 07.03.1995, and that ad hoc appointment had to be against a vacant post, substantive or temporary, as the said Rule contemplates. There was, therefore, no justification for the respondents to have delayed issuing regularization orders after the amendment was notified on 10.04.2003. Therefore, the State's inaction or prolixity in issuing the necessary regularization order would not divest the petitioner of his right to regularization that accrued under Rule 21-A(1) of the Rules of 1966 at the relevant point of time, when the old pension scheme was still in force. The delayed issue of the regularization order on 11.10.2006 would not divest the petitioner of the right to receive pension under the old pension scheme, that was in vogue at the time when his right to regularization crystallized.

17. If a different view of the matter is taken and one were to go simply by the date of regularization and the prevalent pension scheme, it would introduce an element of arbitrariness, in that, that the State could delay issuing the regularization order, to which the petitioner was entitled under the Rules on the date the Rule came into force until such time that the new pension scheme was introduced. There is no valid justification offered by the respondents for all the delay between 10.04.2003, when Rule 21-A came into force and 11.10.2006, when the regularization order was actually issued. The petitioner must, therefore, be held entitled to the benefit of the old pension scheme, that was in force prior to 01.04.2005, the date of the regularization order notwithstanding.

18. This issue was answered, the way we have understood it, in State of U.P. and others v. Chandra Mohan Yadav Retired Junior Engineer Civil, Nagar Nigam, 2025 SCC OnLine All 5210, where it has been held:

“16. There is, however, another aspect which may not be lost sight of. All the writ petitioners were appointed initially on temporary basis in late 1980s and they were offered ad hoc appointments with effect from 7.3.1995. They possessed requisite qualification for appointment to the post. By virtue of Rule 21-A(1), their services were liable to be considered for regularisation soon after the introduction of Rule 21-A(1) in the Rules, 1966. Merely because the State did not consider their services for regularisation for sufficiently long would not be a valid ground to allow the State to contend now that since their entry into service is after 1.4.2005, therefore, they would not be entitled to the benefit under the Old Pension Scheme.”

19. The aforesaid decision of the Division Bench was assailed before the Supreme Court by means of Special Leave to Appeal (C) No(s).22890-22893/2025, State of U.P. and another v. Chandra Mohan Yadav and another, where the Supreme Court vide order dated 22.08.2025 declined to grant leave and dismissed the petition for grant of special leave.

20. The issue is also covered by another Bench decision of this Court in State of U.P. and others v. Raj Bahadur Pastor, 2022 (3) ADJ 5 (DB).

21. Likewise, in State of U.P. and another v. Badri Narayan Agnihotri and others, 2022:AHC:92589-DB, it was held in the context of the same Rule 21-A of the Rules of 1966, which is subject matter of consideration in the present matter, thus:

“A perusal of the aforesaid provisions of the Service Rules governing the field, it is borne out that an ad-hoc appointment is not to be treated as substantive appointment and an ad-hoc appointee becomes a Member of the Service only on the appointment to a post in the cadre of the Centralized Services under the Rules. The writ petitioner / respondent admittedly was appointed as Revenue Inspector on ad-hoc basis on 25.8.1989 and was regularized by order dated 5.2.2008 and thus became a Member of the Service of the Municipal Corporation, Kanpur on regularization of his services i.e. on 5.2.2008. The New Pension Scheme has been introduced w.e.f. 1.4.2005 and in such view of the matter, the learned counsel for the appellants appears to be justified in submitting that the writ petitioner / respondent is entitled for Old Pension Scheme and not the New Pension Scheme.

However, we find that the writ petitioner / respondent was directly appointed on ad-hoc basis on 25.8.1989 i.e. on a date anterior to June 30, 1998 mentioned under Rule 21-A (i) and has been continuing in service as such on the date of commencement of the Rules, 2003 and possessed the requisite qualifications prescribed under Rule 12 for regular appointment and has also completed three years continuous service was liable to be considered for appointment in permanent or temporary vacancy and as such, absorbed as "Member of the Service" since July, 2001 and in such view of the matter, he would stand entitled to the Old Pension Scheme. The State Government has proceeded to regularize the services of the writ petitioner / respondent only in the year 2008 even though he stood entitled to the same in the year 2001 itself. In our opinion, the writ petitioner / respondent could not be deprived of his absorption as a member of the services merely on account of the lackadaisical attitude of the Government."

22. The aforesaid judgment of the Division Bench, upholding the Single Judge, when put in issue before the Supreme Court by the State vide Special Leave Petition (Civil) Diary No(s). 29048/2022, The State of Uttar Pradesh and another v. Badri Narayan Agnihotri and others, decided on 21.11.2022, was affirmed and the SLP dismissed. The following remarks of the Supreme Court in Badri Narayan Agnihotri (supra) are illuminating:

"Respondent No.1- employee joined service on ad-hoc basis as Revenue Inspector in Municipal Corporation, Kanpur on 25.08.1989. Rule 21-A of The Uttar Pradesh Palika (Centralized) Services (Twenty First Amendment) Rules, 2003 indicates that such of the ad-hoc employees who have completed 3 years of continuous service, a right is conferred upon them to be considered for appointment, in permanent or temporary vacancy as may be available on the basis of his services record and suitability before any regular appointment is made in accordance with the provisions contained in these Rules.

The learned counsel for the respondent contends that as he was appointed on ad-hoc basis as Revenue Officer on 25.08.1989 and on completing 3 years of services in the month of August 1992, he became eligible to be considered for appointment in permanent/temporary vacancy as available and his suitability was to be considered on the basis of his service record.

Much before the new Pension Scheme came into force with effect from 01.04.2005, the rights were confirmed in favour of the employee seeking regular employment in terms of Rule 21-A (iii). It was never the case of the petitioner that there was no vacancy, permanent or temporary, available against which his candidature would have been considered for regular appointment prior to his order of regular appointment passed by the authorities on 05.02.2008."

23. The contention of the petitioner that he is entitled to pension w.e.f. 07.03.1995, when he was appointed on ad hoc basis, however, cannot be accepted. The entitlement to pension has to be limited to the date when the petitioner was actually regularized or in a case, such as this, when he was entitled to be regularized, but wrongfully deprived due to the respondents' inaction. It cannot be anything more.

24. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. A mandamus is issued, directing the Principal Secretary, Nagar Vikas, Government of U.P., Lucknow, the Director, Local Bodies, U.P., Lucknow and the Secretary, Agra Development Authority, Agra, to ensure amongst themselves payment of pension and gratuity to the petitioner, reckoning his entitling service w.e.f. 10.04.2003 and pay the pension with effect from the month following his retirement, together with arrears, which will carry simple interest at the rate of 6% per annum. The arrears shall be paid within a period of two months from the date of communication of this order.

The current pension shall be paid regularly month-by-month forthwith. Likewise, due gratuity shall be paid to the petitioner, also within a period of two months from the date of communication of this order.

25. There shall be no order as to costs.

26. Let a copy of this judgment be communicated to the Principal Secretary, Nagar Vikas, Government of U.P., Lucknow, the Director, Local Bodies, U.P., Lucknow and the Secretary, Agra Development Authority, Agra by the Registrar (Compliance).

Writ B No. 757 of 2024

Kaushal Kishore & Ors. ...Petitioner
Versus
Deputy Director of Consolidation/ Chief Revenue Officer, Gonda & Ors.
...Respondent

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

- (i) What is the true scope of powers vested with the Deputy Director of Consolidation in terms of Section 48(3) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953, i.e., whether it is corrective in nature or adjudicatory;
- (ii) Whether the power of reference can be exercised by the Deputy Director of Consolidation after a notification is issued under Section 52(1) of the Act;
- (iii) Whether reference proceedings can be said to be saved in terms of Section 52(2) of the Act.

HEADNOTE

Reference under Section 48(3) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 – Nature and scope – Whether reference power is inherent or adjudicatory – Exercise of reference power after de-notification under Section 52(1) – Saving of reference proceedings under Section 52(2) – Effect of closure of consolidation operations – Jurisdiction of consolidation authorities post de-notification

HELD:

Issue (i): Nature and scope of "Reference" under Section 48(3).

Disputes between parties which fall in the categories mentioned in Sections 9-A, 9-B and 9-C, Sections 12 and 21 of the Act have a clear trajectory, i.e., they are filed before the Consolidation Officer and decided after affording an opportunity to lead evidence and hearing by the Consolidation Officer; the order is appealable before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation and if still dissatisfied, the aggrieved party can further invoke the provision of revision before the Deputy Director of Consolidation in terms of Section 48(1) of the Act. The orders passed under the aforesaid sections cannot be ordinarily varied, modified or changed by taking recourse to a reference. However, there may still be disputes which may not clearly be within the parameters of Sections 9-A, 9-B or 9-C or Sections 12 and 21 of the Act, but they may arise while attempting to give effect to the Scheme of Consolidation, on account of any error in preparation of records or anomalies, difficulties and disputes which may occur on the ground level while implementing the Scheme on the spot, which come to the notice of the Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer of Consolidation, who, being the first responders in terms of the Act, take note, hear the parties and, where some genuine grievance occurs or surfaces, are required to refer the same to the highest authority, i.e., the Deputy Director of Consolidation.

The Court held that the power of reference may arise out of the corrective and executory jurisdiction but it partakes the nature of adjudication, and since the power of reference is somewhat different than the power of revision, hence, the legislature has provided for a two tiered hearing, one before the Consolidation Officer or the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, as the case may be and the other before the Deputy Director of Consolidation himself. It was emphasised that the power of reference is exercised not in an ordinary course, hence, it should be resorted to sparingly with utmost caution and only in expedient circumstances, and that the power of reference though may arise out of the corrective and executory jurisdiction but it partakes the nature of adjudication and it matures through a decision making process which makes it adjudicatory in nature and it has the effect of binding the parties and also makes it subject to challenge like any order of the Deputy Director of Consolidation passed in its revisional jurisdiction. Question No. (i) was answered accordingly. (Paras 112, 116, 137, 187-188)

Issue (ii) & (iii): Effect of de-notification under Section 52(1) and saving under Section 52(2).

The Court held that upon the issuance of notification under Section 52(1), the consolidation authorities lose their jurisdiction and any proceeding initiated by them after the date of notification would be rendered without jurisdiction and non est, and further that if the Deputy Director of Consolidation cannot suo-moto exercise its revisional powers under Section 48(1) upon de-notification, on the same premise it cannot be held to exercise the power of reference after the de-notification. It was held that the power of reference cannot be exercised by the Deputy Director of Consolidation after the notification is made in terms of Section 52(1) of the Act. The Court further held that only those proceedings, including a reference, which are pending either before the Constitutional Courts or before the Consolidation Authorities on the date of notification under Section 52(1) are saved under Section 52(2) of the Act and not otherwise, and that only such reference proceedings, i.e., where reference has been made or in such cases where hearing on the reference is pending before the Consolidation Officer/Settlement Officer of Consolidation or pending before the Deputy Director of Consolidation on the date of notification under Section 52(1), can be treated to be pending and are saved under Section 52(2) of the Act". Accordingly, Questions Nos. (ii) and (iii) were answered. (Paras 170-171, 184-186) (E-5)

I EXORDIUM:-

1. This Full Bench endeavors to answer seminal questions of importance relating to the scope and exercise of powers under Section 48 (3) of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953

(hereinafter referred to as, 'the Act') by the Authorities empowered under the Act and whether such powers can be exercised after de-notification of the village from the consolidation operations in terms of Section 52(1) and (2) of the Act.

2. A large number of petitions involving the aforesaid questions flood this Court and more often than not, keep engaging the attention of this Court. In one such case, in WRIT-B No.757 of 2024 - Kaushal Kishore and others v. Deputy Director of Consolidation / Chief Revenue Officer, Gonda and others, a learned Single Judge of this Court noticing the divergent opinions on the issue rendered by the different Single Judges and different Division Benches of this Court, found it appropriate to refer the matter to a Larger Bench for an authoritative pronouncement.

3. The reference order dated 20.12.2024 noticed a string of judgments which propagated the view that the consolidation authorities do not loose their jurisdiction even after de-notification of the village under Section 52(1) and (2) of the Act, rather they retain the powers to correct the records.

4. The judgments approving the aforesaid view are (i) Ram Bahadur v. DDC and others, 1974 RD 53 (DB); (ii) Brij Bir Singh and another v. DDC, Meerut Camp of Muzaffarnagar and others, 1987 RD 66; (iii) Mukhtar v. DDC, Azamgarh and others, 1993 RD 457 (DB); (iv) Ram Pati v. DDC, Banda and others, 1999 RJ 926; (v) Abdul Sami and others v. DDC and others, 2015 (1) ADJ 214 and (vi) Shiv Shankar and another v. State of U.P. and others, 2018 RD (138) 297.

5. The other set of decisions, which propagate the view that after de-notification of the village, the consolidation authorities are denuded of their jurisdiction, except in cases where the proceedings are saved in terms of Section 52(2) of the Act, are (i) Ghafoor v. Additional Commissioner, 1979 RD 76 (DB); (ii) Raja Ram and others v. DDC, Lucknow, 1986 RD 387 (DB); (iii) Hari Ram v. DDC, Azamgarh and others, 1989 RD 281 (DB); (iv) Nanhki v. DDC, Pratapgarh and others, 1995 (13) LCD 1; (v) Ram Narain and others v. DDC Barabanki, 2020 (147) RD 185; (vi) Smt. Malti Devi v. State of U.P. and others, 2021 (151) RD 3; (vii) Sri Pal and others v. DDC, Raebareli and others, MANU/UP/2145/2017; (viii) Raj Karan Singh v. Chief Revenue Officer, MANU/UP/3069/2019 and (ix) Smt. Jagrani @ Ram Jiyayi v. DDC, Shrawasti and others, 2024 (164) RD 238.

6. Looking into the gravity of the questions involved and its impact on a large number of petitions, this Court invited the Members of the Bar to address this Court on the questions referred, for a threadbare consideration of the law relating to the questions to be resolved by this Full Bench.

7. Primarily, on behalf of the petitioners Shri U.S. Sahai, learned counsel supported the view that after de-notification of the village under Section 52(1) of the Act, the consolidation authorities lose their jurisdiction, except where the proceedings are saved in terms of Section 52(2) of the Act.

8. Members of the Bar, who addressed the Court were led by Dr. R.S. Pandey, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Ankit Pandey, who also advanced his submissions in favour of the view that Consolidation Authorities after the de-notification lose their jurisdiction, including to entertain a reference, except where the proceedings are saved under Section 52(2) of the Act.

9. Per contra, Shri Prithish Kumar, learned Additional Advocate General for the State of U.P. assisted by Shri Nishant Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel along with Shri Vishwas Saraswat, Shri Amal Rastogi and Shri Utkash Srivastava, contended that the authorities retain power after de-notification, including the power to entertain and decide a reference. This view was also subscribed by the other learned Members of the Bar, who made submissions, namely, Shri Arun Kumar, Shri Saurabh Yadav and Shri Ishan Kumar Gupta.

II QUESTIONS REFERRED:-

10. The questions referred to this Full Bench are as under: -

(i) What is the true scope of powers vested with the Deputy Director of Consolidation in terms of Section 48(3) of the Act i.e. to say whether it is corrective in nature or adjudicatory;

(ii) Whether the power of reference can be exercised by the Deputy Director of Consolidation after a notification is issued in terms of Section 52(1) of the Act;

(iii) Whether the reference proceedings can be said to be saved in terms of Section 52(2) of the Act.

III SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONERS:-

11. Dr. R.S. Pandey, learned Senior Counsel and Shri U.S. Sahai, learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that the power of reference as per Section 48(3) of the Act, as envisaged in the U.P. Consolidation and Holdings Act, 1953, was not a part of the original legislative scheme. The said provision came to be incorporated in the Act by an amendment which came into effect on 02.03.1963. By virtue of the amendment, the power of reference was introduced and bestowed on Deputy Director of Consolidation (in short, 'the DDC'), who is the highest authority in the hierarchy of adjudicating authorities under the Act.

12. It was contended that the consolidation operations begin in the village by notification under Section 4(1) of the Act and the same are concluded by de-notifying the village by issuing a notification under Section 52(1) of the Act. Between these two notifications, the consolidation authorities continue to exercise their powers as conferred under the Act.

13. It was submitted that only such proceedings under the Act are saved which fall within the ambit of Section 52(2) of the Act. Such proceedings are the ones which on the date of such notification made under Section 52(1) of the Act are pending before the Constitutional Courts or any of the Consolidation Authorities and any such other proceedings which require the orders passed, by the Constitutional Courts and other Consolidation Authorities, after the de-notification in terms of Section 52(1) of the Act to be implemented and given effect to.

14. It was also urged that powers of reference can be exercised only by the DDC, however, such powers cannot be exercised suo motu which is in contrast to the powers of revision conferred on the DDC in terms of Section 48(1) of the Act. The revisional powers can be exercised by the DDC even suo motu, but the same is not true insofar as the powers of reference is concerned, which necessarily has to originate before the Consolidation Officer (hereinafter referred to as 'CO') or the Settlement Officer of Consolidation (hereinafter referred to as 'SOC').

15. It was, thus, urged that where the power of reference emanates at the core level i.e. before the CO and the SOC and in terms of Section 52(1) of the Act, when the village is de-notified and the CO and SOC loose their jurisdiction, it cannot be gainfully urged or contended that the same CO or SOC can retain their jurisdiction for the purpose of making a reference to the DDC under Section 48(3) of the Act, as this would be an incongruous proposition.

16. It was further submitted that the manner in which Section 48(3) of the Act has been worded, would indicate that invocation of power of reference is bifurcated in two parts. First, when a matter comes before the CO or the SOC as the case may be, in course of discharge of their respective duties and he finds that certain issues or some matter requires attention and otherwise the matter or issue has already crossed a certain stage of the consolidation operations and it is not within their domain to look into it, then they can refer such issue or matter by reference to the DDC. However, prior to making such a reference, the CO and the SOC are required to afford an opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned. Second, the other part of that Section provides that once the DDC takes note of such a reference then he too is obliged to decide the same after affording an opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned.

17. Sub-section (2) of Section 48 of the Act further states that while deciding a reference, the DDC could exercise all the power provided in sub-section (1) of Section 48 of the Act, which necessarily is the power of revision. Therefore, it was urged that in terms of Section 52(1) of the Act, upon de-notification, if the CO, SOC and DDC lose their jurisdiction then there can be no occasion for empowering the authorities to retain any jurisdiction through the window of reference and if it was so envisaged then it could have very well been incorporated in the Act itself, which has not been done explicitly.

18. It was urged that detailed procedure is prescribed for conducting the consolidation operations, as shall be evident from a perusal of the Act and the Rules. Moreover, there are certain executive instructions issued from time to time which have been complied and are known as the U.P. Consolidation Manual. It is from these three sources that the entire consolidation operations are carried out.

19. The Scheme of the Act envisages that once the consolidation operations are complete only then the recommendation is made for issuing a notification under Section 52 (1) of the Act. Accordingly, when by and large, the consolidation operations have achieved their objective only then the notification under Section 52(1) of the Act is issued and its consequence is that the Consolidation Authorities are denuded of their jurisdiction as the village stands de-notified.

20. If such is the consequence of de-notification then there can be no reason to leave some residuary powers with the CO/SOC/DDC as the case may be, in the garb of reference proceedings as that would run counter to the Act as then no proceedings would attain finality and it would also create a source of manipulation as whichever matter, though otherwise had attained finality, could be reopened by taking recourse to the powers of reference, which cannot be the intention of the Act.

21. It was also submitted that Section 27 of the Act clearly provides that after the new records are prepared in terms of the Act, the same attain presumptive value and after the de-notification, if at all, there is any discrepancy or any right is claimed contrary to the said entries, then such claims can be adjudicated and if required the entries can be rectified by the revenue authorities, but not by the consolidation authorities.

22. It was also urged, illustratively, that there may be a situation where some proceedings may have been decided (prior to the notification under Section 52(1) of the Act). However, the Consolidation Authorities while preparing the records discover some discrepancy, then in such circumstances, the CO and the SOC, if find that any order has attained finality and by giving effect to the said order, some right of another person is affected, or some discrepancy is discovered which may not fall within the ambit of Section 42-A of the Act then in such circumstances, the CO or the SOC can make a reference to the DDC, who may adjudicate, after putting the parties to notice and after hearing them. Any proceeding of this nature which is in aid of proper conduct of consolidation operations, maintenance of the records and entries contained in such consolidation record, has a sanctity attached and is binding on parties.

23. Submission was that in such circumstances, the powers of reference can be exercised and by subscribing to such a view, the provisions of the Act can be harmoniously construed. Nevertheless, it cannot be gainfully proposed that this power can be exercised post the notification under Section 52(1) of the Act as such proceedings cannot be termed to be saved in terms of Section 52(2) of the Act. The proceedings which are saved in terms of Section 52(2) of the Act are the ones which remain pending either before the Consolidation Officer, the Appellate or the Revisional authorities under the Act or pending before the Constitutional Courts, at the time of issuance of notification under Section 52(1) of the Act.

24. It was thus submitted that the powers under Section 48(3) of the Act are adjudicatory but such adjudication has to take place prior to the notification under Section 52(1) of the Act and it cannot be initiated after the de-notification nor such a reference is saved in terms of Section 52(2) of the Act.

25. Dr. Pandey, learned Senior Counsel while assisting the Court on the questions before it, specifically urged that the provisions of the Act and the Rules must be seen in context with certain provisions contained in the U.P. Consolidation Manual and he has specifically referred to Regulation 201(Ga), 236(Ga) and 240(Ga) contained in Chapter-X under the Heading 'Correction of Records'. He urged that Regulations 602(4) and 606 in Chapter XII of the U.P. Consolidation Manual indicate that such powers of correction can be exercised only prior to notification under Section 52(1) of the Act.

26. It was urged that the basic object of the Act is to allot compact area in lieu of scattered plots to the tenure holders to facilitate large scale cultivation. The Act does not deal with the substantive rights, which are primarily governed by the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 and now after it has been repealed, by the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006. The U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 in that context is only a procedural Act and it lays special emphasis on the consolidation of plots for the tenure holders for giving encouragement to agriculture.

27. According to Dr. Pandey there are clear indications in the Act that the powers of reference in terms of Section 48(3) of the Act can only be exercised for the purposes of ensuring that the orders passed during the consolidation operations prior to notification issued under Section 52(1) of the Act are given effect to and while doing so or while preparing the records if any discrepancy is noticed and by correcting such record, the right of some tenure holder is affected or in order to give effect to an order passed in favour of one tenure holder some other tenure holder is affected then in such circumstances, the CO or SOC may find it difficult to settle such a matter and to avoid any overlapping of jurisdiction or to avoid any error of exercise of jurisdiction, which may vitiate the proceedings, hence, in such circumstances, a reference can be made and the DDC has been conferred with the powers to decide the same after affording an opportunity of hearing to the parties in terms of Section 48(1) of the Act with the ultimate object that the final records be prepared, error free, so that upon de-notification of the village under Section 52(1) of the Act, the final records can be handed over to the revenue authorities and necessarily such powers can be exercised only prior to de-notification of the village.

28. It was submitted that in the Act, against an order passed under Section 9-A of the Act, an appeal is provided before the SOC prescribing a limitation of 21 days. However, there is no limitation for filing a revision under Section 48(1) or 48(3) of the Act. Thus, where timelines have been prescribed and there is no timeline prescribed in terms of Section 48(3) of the Act even then some reasonable timeline has to be read into it. What would be a reasonable period can be seen on the basis of the scheme and objects of the Act but it cannot be left without any control as that would lead to an anomaly, leaving a window open for manipulation and it may result in doing more mischief than what the Act in the first place tries to curtail. Actually, this very concern was voiced in the DO dated 6th November, 2023 issued by the Consolidation Commissioner, as noticed in the reference order.

29. Moreover, in certain circumstances where a party has any grievance and some discrepancy is noticed after the notification under Section 52(1) of the Act and if he is permitted to get such right or discrepancy rectified through adjudication by Consolidation Authorities then it will have the impact of diluting the bar of Section 11-C of the Act and it will also rob the orders and records prepared of its sanctity and finality.

30. Learned counsel for the petitioners Shri U.S. Sahai and Dr. Pandey, learned Senior Counsel while canvassing the above noted propositions and in support of their contentions have referred to the decisions of this Court in Ghafoor (supra); Raja Ram (supra); Hari Ram (supra); Nanhki (supra); Ram Narain (supra); Smt. Malti Devi (supra) and Smt. Jagrani @ Ram Jiayai (supra).

31. Reliance has also been placed on a decision of the Apex Court in Babu Verghese and others v. Bar Council of Kerala and others, (1999) 3 SCC 422 and a decision of this Court in Krishna v. State of U.P., 2014 (123) LCD 754 (DB) to contend that if the Act prescribes something to do in a particular manner then it should be done in that manner alone and not otherwise. Decision of this Court in Mohd. Kallu v. D.D.C. and others, 2002 (93) RD 206 and Ram Pujan and others v. D.D.C., Gazipur and others, 2000 (91) RD 433 has been referred to indicate the scope of powers conferred on the DDC.

IV SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF STATE AND RESPONDENTS: -

32. Shri Pritish Kumar, learned Additional Advocate Government for the State of U.P., leading the submissions on behalf of the State and the private respondents has structured his submissions to proffer that the powers of reference in terms of Section 48(3) of the Act is in the nature of inherent power which is available with the DDC to do complete justice between the parties but is to be exercised in extraordinary cases where manifest injustice has been occasioned.

33. It was further urged that the powers to initiate a reference is necessarily vested with an authority subordinate to the DDC that is by a CO or the SOC but the inbuilt mechanism is such that before a reference is actually made to the DDC, first it must pass the scrutiny of referring authority, that is the CO or the SOC, who is obliged to confer a right of hearing to the parties concerned and only if it finds that the matter requires the attention of the highest authority, that is the DDC, only then it would make such a reference.

34. When the reference reaches the DDC, he examines the reference and the DDC is also obliged to afford an opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned. If he comes to the conclusion that it requires some indulgence then the DDC would pass the necessary orders. Section 48(2) of the Act clearly provides that the DDC while exercising its powers of reference would be entitled to exercise all such powers as are vested in him in terms of Section 48(1) of the Act. Needless to say, such powers are very wide and this goes on to indicate that such powers would be used to ensure that any gross injustice or any patent illegality, if occurred, may not be perpetuated.

35. Since, the powers under Section 48(3) of the Act are deep and pervasive and akin to inherent powers, hence they are to be exercised with caution, but at the same time, it also must be noticed that the powers under Section 48(3) are not circumscribed by any condition or limitation, giving a clear indication that such powers have been conferred to meet any unexpected contingency.

36. Elaborating his submissions, the learned Additional Advocate General submitted that certain errors which may not be clerical or arithmetical so as to fall within the ambit of Section 42-A of the Act but if required to be corrected, can be done in terms of Section 48(3) of the Act. It was also urged that certain matters which may be pending before the consolidation authorities at any stage, that is to say before the CO or SOC in appeal or before the DDC in revision and then orders are passed subsequent to the notification under Section 52(1) of the Act, then to carry out or implement such orders, the power of reference can be utilized. Even in cases, where the consolidation authorities for some reason have failed to incorporate an order passed during the consolidation operations which was necessary to be done, hence, to meet such situation, the powers of reference can be invoked.

37. Learned Additional Advocate General further urged that the manner in which the aforesaid Section 48 of the Act came to be amended in the year 1962 and power of reference was conferred along with the power of revision, indicates that while exercising the power of reference, the DDC could use its revisional powers, this is a clear indicator that in matters where certain discrepancies may have occurred during consolidation operations and requires correction then even post de-notification, in order to meet such contingencies the powers of reference can be used to correct, adjudicate and also re-examine any finding, either of law or of fact which may have been recorded either by the CO or the SOC, in order to do the complete justice between the parties.

38. This power is so conferred and can be exercised without any fetter of even Section 52(1) of the Act as it is born out of necessity, otherwise if an error which may have occurred while the consolidation operations were in progress and it was not discovered or rectified during the consolidation operations, then post de-notification such errors would continue to be reflected in the records and it may not be amenable for rectification/correction/adjudication as then the bar of Section 49 of the Act would operate and the Civil and the Revenue Courts would not be in a position to undo the wrong. It is for the aforesaid reason that the power under Section 48(3) is saved and can be exercised by the authority post the de-notification under Section 52(1) of the Act.

39. It has further been urged that departmental order dated 06.11.2023 mentioned in the reference order passed by the learned Single Judge in Kaushal Kishore (supra), is merely advisory and it cannot be said to have an overbearing effect on the statutory provisions. In support of his submissions, learned Additional Advocate General has referred to the decisions of this Court in Sidh Narain v. D.D.C.: 2008 (1) AWC 219 and another decision of Parag Memorial Education Institution v. Gram Panchayat Sarehri and others: 2024:AHC-LKO:21919.

40. The crux of the entire submissions on behalf of the respondents State and some other Members of the Bar namely, Shri Saurabh Yadav, Shri Arun Kumar and Shri Ishan Kumar Gupta, who adopted the line of reasoning proposed by the learned Additional Advocate General, is that the power under Section 48(3) of the Act is adjudicatory and is not merely corrective as the DDC has wide powers which are akin to inherent powers and can be exercised to do complete justice between the parties or to meet any unexpected contingency and such powers can be invoked even after the notification under Section 52(1) of the Act. Since the powers are extraordinary, hence they are to be used sparingly and no straight-jacket formula for universal applicability can be laid down, rather exercise of powers under Section 48(3) of the Act will have to be tested on case to case basis.

V BIRDS EYE VIEW OF THE ACT:-

41. At the outset, it will be appropriate to consider the entire scheme and nature of the Act to ascertain the nature of the powers exercised by the Authorities and for a better understanding of the Act. For this the Court would delve into the Act of 1953, Rules of 1954 and certain Forms which are appended to the Act and are prepared by the Consolidation Authorities which are of significance and also refer to certain provisions contained in the U.P. Consolidation Manual for a comprehensive understanding.

42. The Act of 1953 was enacted primarily to consolidate the agricultural holdings in the State of Uttar Pradesh with the larger object of giving impetus and development to agriculture. It will be worthwhile to keep in mind that soon after independence, major steps were taken to boost agriculture and to achieve the aforesaid, a very important piece of legislation was introduced in the State of Uttar Pradesh namely the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (hereinafter referred to as the Act of 1950). The Act of 1950 abolished the complicated and numerous categories of tenure holders, both proprietary and cultivatory and also introduced several provisions for securing the rights of the tenure holders and this apart, the Act of 1950 introduced reforms for the benefit of landless persons and persons belonging to marginalized sections.

43. Having secured that, the State took the next step to consolidate the land holdings so that all the land held by a tenure-holder could be in a Block which was beneficial for promoting large scale agricultural activities making it more viable and productive, apart from the fact that it would result in substantially reducing the boundary disputes and would also make it feasible for irrigation, help in controlling pests and insects, insulating the crops, thereby increasing the yields.

44. This led to the advent of the U.P. C.H. Act of 1953 and it repealed the earlier

C.H. Act of 1939. The Apex Court in Attar Singh v. State of U.P. and others :1959 RD 149 (SC), considered the scope and object of the Act and the relevant portion reads as under: -

“3. Before we take these points seriatim, it is useful to refer to the background of this legislation. As far back as 1939, the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act 8 of 1939, was passed. It was, however, of little effect, because it could only be applied when more than one-third of the proprietors of the cultivated area of a village applied for an order of consolidation of the village. It was, therefore, felt that some kind of compulsion would be necessary in order to achieve consolidation of holdings in villages. That consolidation would result in improving agricultural production goes without saying and it was with the object of encouraging the development of agriculture that consolidation schemes with a compulsory character were taken up in various States, after the recommendation of The Famine Inquiry Commission 1944, in its Final Report; (See p. 263). The State Bombay was the first to pass an Act called the Bombay Prevention of Fragmentation and Consolidation of Holdings Act, (Bom 62 of 1947). This was followed by the impugned Act in Uttar Pradesh. The object of the Act is to allot a compact area in lieu of scattered plots to tenure-holders so that large scale cultivation may be possible with all its attendant advantages. Thus, by the reduction of boundary-lines saving of land takes place and the number of boundary-disputes is reduced. There is saving of time in the management of fields inasmuch as the farmer is saved from travelling from field to field, which may be at considerable distances from each other. Proper barriers such as fences, hedges and ditches can be erected around a compact area to prevent trespassing and thieving. It would further be easier to control irrigation and drainage and disputes over water would be reduced considerably where compact areas are allotted to tenure-holders. Lastly, the control of pests, insects and plant-disease is made easier where farmers have compact areas under cultivation. These advantages resulting from consolidation of holdings are intended to encourage the development of agriculture and larger production of food grains, which is the necessity of the day.

4. With these objects in mind, the Act was passed by the U.P. Legislature in 1953 and received the assent of the President on March 4, 1954. It was published in the gazette on March 8, 1954, and declarations under Section 4 were made for the major part of the State of Uttar Pradesh, including the petitioners' village, in July, 1954.

5. The scheme of the Act is as follows:-

When consolidation of a village is taken up, the first thing that is done is to correct the revenue records, and Sections 7 to 12 deal with that. Then comes the second stage of preparing what are called statements of principles; (see Sections 14 to 18). Objections to these principles are entertained and decided and thereafter the principles are confirmed under Section 18. Then comes the third stage (vide Sections 19 to 23), which deals with the preparation of the statement of proposals. Objections to this are also invited and disposed of, and then proposals are confirmed under Section 23. After the proposals have been confirmed, we come to the last stage in which the confirmed proposals are enforced; (see Sections 24 onwards). It will be clear therefore from the objects of the Act and the advantages that accrue from its implementation that it is a piece of legislation, which should be a boon to the tenure-holders in a village and should also lead to the development of agriculture and increase of food production. ...”

45. This Court in Moolchand v. DDC and others; 2007 (103) RD 469 considered the scope and the object of the Act in paragraphs 10, 11 and 12 and the same reads as under: -

“10. The U.P.C.H. Act does not deal with the grant of substantive rights to be given to the tenure holders. Therefore, it is clear that substantive rights are to be governed by the provisions contained in the U.P. Act, No. 1 of 1951. The U.P.C.H. Act is only procedural with regard to the consolidation of holdings.

11. After start of consolidation proceedings the Revenue Court or the Civil Court cannot decide claims to land and such pending proceedings are to abate in view of section 5 of the U.P.C.H. Act. The abatement is only for adjudication of rights by the Consolidation Courts with regard to pending cases. Further bar is only that fresh institution of cases may be made before the Consolidation Courts under section 9/12 of the U.P.C.H. Act. The Revenue Court and Civil Court may not entertain such matters during consolidation period. The U.P.C.H. Act does not provide for devolution, restriction on transfer, extinction of rights, conferment of rights, classes of tenure, etc.

12. The effect upon notification under section 4 or 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act is given in section 5 of the U.P.C.H. Act. From a reading of these sections in particular section 5 it is clear that the effect of notification is only for maintenance of records, permission from Settlement Officer Consolidation for change of use of the holding, pending proceedings with regard to declaration of rights or interest in any land or for adjudication of rights in regard to which proceedings can or ought to be taken under the U.P.C.H. Act, shall abate. No other effect of the start of consolidation operations is given.”

46. Now having had an idea of the object and purpose of the Act, it would be gainful to take a glance through the important provisions and ascertain how the Act unfolds.

47. The U.P.C.H. Act of 1953 is divided in 5 Chapters. Though, Chapter I comprises of 3 Sections which inter-alia primarily contains the definitions of various terms used in the Act.

Chapter II commences with Section 4 up to Section 12-D and relates to revision and correction of maps and records. Chapter III relates to preparation of consolidation Scheme, while Chapter IV deals with the enforcement of scheme and Chapter V is titled as miscellaneous.

48. Under the scheme of the Act, Consolidation operations commence with declaration and notification issued by the State Government under Section 4(2) of the Act in respect of an area to which the consolidation operations pertain. The effect of the notification issued under Section 4 is contained in Section 5. Relevant Sections 4 and 5 of the Act are reproduced hereinafter:-

“4. 49. A perusal of Section 5(2) above would reveal that any proceedings pending before any Civil or Revenue Court would stand abated and it is the Consolidation Courts which would have primacy and would be competent to decide the matters before it.

50. Sections 7 and 8 deal with revision of village maps, field book and current annual registers. Thereafter, the statement of principles is prepared in terms of Section 8-A. Section 8 and Section 8-A are being reproduced hereinafter: -

"8. Revision of the field-book and the current annual register, determination of valuations and shares in joint holdings- (1) Upon the revision of

51. Importantly, Section 9, Section 9-A, Section 9-B, Section 9-C and Section 10 deal with the adjudicatory powers which are conferred on the consolidation officer who is the court of first instance in the hierarchy of adjudicating authorities under Act. Section 9, 9-A, 9-B, 9-C are being reproduced hereinafter: -

(2) All cases which are not disposed of by the Assistant Consolidation Officer under sub-section (1), all cases relating to valuation of plots and all cases relating to valuation of trees, wells or other improvements for calculating compensation therefor, and its appointment amongst, co-owners, if there be more owners than one, shall be forwarded by the Assistant Consolidation Officer to the Consolidation Officer, who shall dispose of the same in the manner prescribed.

(3) The Assistant Consolidation Officer, while acting under subsection (1) and the Consolidation Officer, while acting under sub-section (2), shall be deemed to be a court of competent jurisdiction anything to the contrary contained any other law for the time being in force notwithstanding.

9-B. Disposal of objections on the Statement of Principles- (1) Where objections have been filed against the Statement of Principles under section 9, the Assistant Consolidation Officer shall after affording opportunity of being heard to the parties concerned and after taking into consideration the views of the Consolidation Committee, submit his report to the Consolidaiton Officer who shall dispose of the objections in the manner prescribed.

(2) Where no objections have been filed against the Statement of Principles within the time provided therefor under section 9, the Consolidation Officer shall, with a view to examining the correctness, make local inspection of the unit, after giving due notice to the Consolidation Committee and may thereafter make such modification or alterations in the Statement of Principles as he may consider necessary.

(3) Any person aggrieved by an order of the Consolidation Officer under sub-section (1), or sub-section (2), may within 21 days of the date of the order, file an appeal before the Settlement Officer, Consolidation whose decision except as otherwise provided by or under this Act, shall be final.

(4) The Consolidation Officer and the Settlement Officer, Consolidation shall before deciding an objection or an appeal make local inspection of the unit after giving due notice to the parties concerned and the Consolidation Committee.

9-C. Partition of joint holdings- (1) The Assistant Consolidaiton Officer or the Consolidation Officer may partition joint holdings under section 9-A notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in 178 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, or any other law, and may also partition the same suo moto.

(2) The partition of joint holdings shall be affected on the basis of shares, provided that there the tenure-holders concerned agree, it may be affected on the basis of specific plots.

52. Any tenure holder who may face issues relating to claims regarding the land, partition of joint holdings, may file objections against the statement of principles at this stage.

53. Any adjudication made by the Consolidation Officer in terms of Section 9-A, 9-B or 9-C, is appealable in terms of Section 11 within the period of limitation i.e. 21 days from the date of the order, before the Settlement Officer, Consolidation (SOC). Section 11 reads as under: -

“11. Appeals- (1) Any party to the proceedings under section 9-A aggrieved by an order of the Assistant Consolidation Officer or the Consolidation Officer under that section, may within 21 days of the date of the order, file an appeal before the Settlement Officer, Consolidation, who shall after affording opportunity of being heard to the parties concerned give his decision thereon which except as otherwise provided by or order under this Act, shall be final and not be questioned in any court of law.

(2) The Settlement Officer, Consolidation, hearing an appeal under sub-section (1) shall be deemed to be a court of competent jurisdiction, anything to the contrary contained in any law for the time being in force notwithstanding.”

54. However, Section 11-A creates a bar which is akin to the plea of res-judicata/constructive res-judicata. Section 11-A reads as under: -

“11-A. Bar on objections-No question in respect of-

(i) claims to land,
(ii) partition of joint-holdings, and
(iii) valuation of plots, trees, wells and other improvement where the question is sought to be raised by a tenure-holder of the plot or the owner of the tree, well or other improvements recorded in the annual register under section 10, relating to the consolidation area which has been raised under section 9 or which might or ought to have been raised under that section,] but has not been so raised shall be raised or heard at any subsequent stage of the Consolidation proceedings.”

55. Section 11-A bars all objections in respect of claim to land, partition of joint holdings and valuation of lands amongst others relating to the consolidation area which had been raised under Section 9 or which might or ought to have been raised under the said Section but were not raised. By virtue of Section 11-A, such objections cannot be raised or be heard at any subsequent stage of the consolidation proceedings.

56. At this stage, it will also be relevant to notice that Section 11-C grants leverage or a reprieve to certain lands which vest in the State or Gaon Sabha or with any Authority, and to extent the bar of Section 11-A does not apply to such lands. Section 11-C reads as under:-

“[11-C. In course of hearing of an objection under section 9-A or an appeal under section 11 or in proceedings under section 48, the Consolidation Officer, the Settlement Officer (Consolidation) or the Director of Consolidation, as the case may be, may direct that any land which vests in the State Government or the Gaon Sabha or any other local body or authority may be recorded in its name, even though no objection, appeal or revision has been filed by such Government, Gaon Sabha, body or authority.]”

57. Thus, it would be seen that the tenure holders have been conferred with a right of raising objections regarding the statement of principles, claim to land, partition of their joint holdings, valuation regarding plots, trees and other improvements including wells, to be raised at the appropriate level and time before the Consolidation Officer. Any order of the Consolidation Officer can be assailed in an appeal as per Section 11 before the SOC within the period of 21 days as prescribed. This is indicative of the fact that the proceedings are intended to be taken to its logical conclusion as quickly as possible and consolidation proceedings are not intended to go on forever.

58. The applicability of bar of Section 11-A is also indicative of the fact that a person contesting the consolidation proceedings must do so with all earnestness and responsibility as it may have a grave consequence, if not raised at the correct time and stage.

59. Section 12 relates to changes which occur during consolidation operations and which may affect the rights or interests of a tenure-holder which may have been recorded in the revised records. Sub-section (2) of Section 12 clearly provides that the provisions of Section 7 to 11 apply to the decisions made under Section 12(1) of the Act clearly indicating that the aforesaid provisions are not summary in nature rather has the import of regular proceedings which is akin to proceedings held under Section 9-A of the Act.

60. At this stage, it will also be relevant to notice that the Act envisages preparation of consolidation documents/forms which contain valid information and are integral part of the scheme of the Act. The entries and information contained in such forms which are prepared at different stages of consolidation operations, is indicative of rights, disputes, spot positions amongst many other information which can lead to finality, unless challenged and corrected, as per the Scheme of the Act.

61. In this regard, Form CH-2-A which appended to the Act and is relatable to Rules 18 to 23 of the U.P.C.H. Rules, 1954, inter alia is one of the first forms which is issued upon commencement of consolidation operations and it is being noticed for clarity and better understanding:-

67. The extensive exercise undertaken during consolidation operations is with the objective to compact the land holdings and as far as the records are concerned, they are to be updated, corrected and prepared with the idea to maximize the detailed inputs so that the ultimate records prepared are error free and such records prepared can be handed over to the Revenue Authorities in terms of Section 27 of the Act.

68. At this stage, it will be relevant to notice Section 27 of the Act which reads as under: -

“27. New revenue records- [(1)

As soon as may be, after the final consolidation scheme has come into force, the District Deputy Director of Consolidation shall cause to be prepared for each village a new map filed-book and record-of rights in respect of the Consolidation area, on the basis of the entries in the map, as corrected under section 7, the Khasra Chakbandi, the annual register prepared under section 10 and the allotment orders as finally made and issued in accordance with the provisions of this Act. The provisions of the U. P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 shall subject to such modification as may be prescribed, be followed in the preparation of the map and records.

(2) All entries in the record-of rights prepared in accordance with the provision of sub-section (1) shall be presumed to be true until the contrary is proved.

(3) After the issue of notification under section 52, the Collector shall, instead of the map, field-book and record-of-rights previously maintained by him maintain the map, field-book and record-of rights prepared in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) [and the provisions of the U. P. Land Revenue Act,

1901, relating to the maintenance and correction of such map, field book and record-of-rights shall mutatis mutandis apply.”

69. The aforesaid provision makes it clear that all entries to the records of rights prepared during consolidation operations shall be presumed to be true until the contrary is proved. Sub-section 3 mandates that after the issue of notification under Section 52, the Collector instead of the map, field book and record of rights previously maintained by him, shall henceforth maintain the map, field book and record of rights prepared in terms of Section 27(1) of the U.P.C.H. Act of 1953 and the provisions of Section 28 and 33 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 would be applicable for maintenance of such records and the provisions in this regard relating to maintenance and correction as provided in the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 would be squarely applicable.

70. Section 27 is followed by Section 28 which relates to delivery of possession and thereafter Sections 29, 29-A, 29-AA, 29-B, 29-C and Section 30 relate to grant of compensation which may affect a tenure holder whose standing crop is also delivered alongwith the delivery of possession. How such compensation is to be recovered and other incidental matters relating to the reduction of land revenue where a tenure holder has contributed some land for public purpose and how compensation is to be granted for the land contributed by tenure holders and the impact and consequences which ensues upon such exchange and delivery of possession, has been considered in these provisions.

71. The entire scheme of consolidation and how it is implemented is provided alongwith complete hierarchy of courts who are the adjudicating authority, their appellate authority coupled with the fact that the orders passed during adjudication by the consolidation courts including the revisional authority, are final between the parties and unless set aside, they have binding impact and would also operate as res-judicata in subsequent proceedings attaching finality to it. This is in context with disputes which may be inter-se the tenure-holders and individuals.

72. In continuation, Chapter-V of the Act relates to miscellaneous aspects and the few important provisions to be considered to answer the questions under consideration herein would include Section 42-A, which contains the power of correction. The power of revision and reference is contained in Section 48 and then Section 49 which bars the jurisdiction of civil and revenue courts and finally Section 52 relates to close of consolidation operations.

73. In the aforesaid legislative backdrop, apart from the substantive provisions as noticed above, which are integral to the scheme of the Act and in order to give a complete robust functionality to the Act, the legislature framed Rules known as the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules 1954. Mention may be made of Rules 18 to 23, Rule 25, Rule 26, Rule 46, Rule 48-B, Rule 49, Rule 50, Rule 54-A, Rule 71, Rule 82 to 86, Rule 90, Rule 93, Rule 97 to 100 and Rule 101-A, Rule 104, Rule 109 and 109-A to understand the working and execution of the consolidation operations.

74. However, for the purpose of this reference, Rules 90, 97, 98, 99, 100 and 100-A and CH Form 41 and 45 are being reproduced hereinafter: -

"90. Section 27. - (1) The Consolidator shall thereafter cause a final map to be prepared showing only the new numbers, their boundaries and, where necessary, conventional signs. It shall be checked by the Consolidator, Assistant Consolidation Officer and the Consolidation Officer before it is signed by the Settlement Officer. Consolidation whose designation shall be mentioned below his signature. The final map, thus prepared shall after copies thereof have been traced out as laid down in sub-rule (2), be sent to the press for reproduction where such reproduction is necessary in view of the provisions of Rule 101. On being received back from the press, the final map shall be placed in the Consolidation Volume meant for the Collector's Record Room.

(2) Two copies of the final map shall be traced out. In these copies the boundaries of the old plots existing within a new plot shall be indicated by dotted lines without the serial numbers of the old plots being shown there in the existing soil classes shall also be marked within thick red lines on these maps, the different soil classes being described by the suitable abbreviations written boldly in red ink over each kind of soil. The copies thus traced out shall be checked by the Consolidator, the Assistant Consolidation Officer and the Consolidation Officer before these are checked and signed by the Settlement Officer, Consolidation. A copy of this map shall be placed in each of the two Consolidation Volumes mentioned in Rule 100-A.

97. Section 27. - The Consolidation Lekhpal shall, with help of the Khasra Mutabiqat and other relevant records mentioned in sub-section (1) of Section 27, prepare the Khatauni in C.H. Form 45 in duplicate.

98. The Khasra Mutabiqat and the Khatauni in C.H. Form 45 prepared by the Consolidation, Lekhpal shall be checked cent per cent by the Consolidator. 25 per cent of the entries of these records shall be checked by the Assistant Consolidation Officer and five per cent by the Consolidation Officer. The Khatauni in C.H. Form 45 shall then be published in the village.

99. Section 27. - After the khatauni has been prepared new khata numbers shall be entered in Column 5 of Khasra Mutabiqat.

100. All cuttings and overwritings in the Khasra Mutabiqat and the Khatauni shall be signed and dated by the person responsible for such cuttings and overwritings and also by the Assistant Consolidation Officer. There shall be no erasures anywhere. An Errata List in respect of each of the record mentioned above shall be prepared by the Consolidation Lekhpal in C.H. Form 6-B and shall be attested by the Consolidator. It shall also be signed by the Assistant Consolidation Officer. Such a list after being signed by the Settlement Officer, Consolidation shall be attached to each copy of the record when it is bound.

100A. The Khasra Mutabiqat along with the final village map and the Khatauni in C.H. Form 41 shall constitute the Consolidation Volume. Two such volumes shall be prepared. One of it shall be consigned to the Collector's Record Room and the other shall be delivered to the Tahsildar for being made over to the Lekhpal. Thereafter the Director of Consolidation shall take steps to notify the village under Section 52."

76. The purpose of referring to the aforesaid Scheme is not only to help comprehend how the Act operates given the legislative scheme but also, how it achieves its object and purpose. The Act, as unfolded above, would reveal that it is a Code in itself. The endeavour is that the provisions of the Act be construed in a harmonious manner to carry forward the legislative intend rather than to stultify any provision or the scheme of the Act.

VI CONFLICTING DECISIONS: -

77. Now, it will be appropriate to consider the conflicting decisions of this Court which has led to this reference:-

78. Let us notice the reasoning expressed by different Benches of this Court to hold that the Consolidation

Authorities do not lose jurisdiction simplicitor but retain powers to correct the records: -

(i) In Ram Bahadur v. DDC and others: 1974 RD 53 (DB) the Division Bench of this Court has held as under: -

“2. The issuance of the Notification does not, however affect the orders passed by the High Court the Supreme Court under the provisions of the Constitution of India or in cases or proceedings pending under this Act on the date of issue of notification under subsection (1) and orders passed will have to be given effect to notwithstanding anything contained in the Notification. In Dilawar Singh's case, 1972 All WR (HC) 557 AIR 1973 Allahabad 411 the Division Bench observed that the term “proceedings” in Section 52 (2) has been used in the comprehensive sense of proceedings commencing from the one which is initiated before the Consolidation Officer and including that taken in the appeal Court. It was held that an appeal does not initiate a fresh proceeding. On the institution of the appeal the proceedings, which had become dormant on the decision of the trial Court revive and remain pending, the only difference being that they are now pending in a different Court, namely, the Court of appeal. It was also held that the notification under Section 52 (1) does not have the effect of destroying vested rights of the litigants. For instance, if a litigant has a right of appeal against a particular order he can exercise it notwithstanding the publication of the notification under Section 52 (1) and the moment an appeal is filed the effect in law is that the original proceedings stand revived.

* * *

4. We have seen the decision of the learned Single Judge in Mohd. Saddiq v. Deputy Director, (1967 All WR (HC) 228). In that decision no reasons have been given for the view that an application for setting aside the ex parte decree does not fall within the purview of Section 52 (2) as a proceeding which involves or affects a revival of the original proceedings and from that point of view making the original proceeding pending within the meaning of Section 52 (2). In our opinion, this decision does not lay down the law correctly.”

(ii) In Brij Bir Singh and Another v. DDC, Meerut Camp of Muzaffarnagar and others: 1987 RD 66 the Court has held as under: -

“5. The first point which requires determination is as to, whether the effect of the order dated 8-7-64 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation which became final between the parties in all respects during the pendency of the consolidation proceedings, before the issuance of notification under Section 52(1) of the Act, can be sought to be given effect to by the successful party after the notification under Section 52(1) has been issued. The reply to this argument is not too far to seek. The relevant provisions of the Act coupled with the intention of the legislature in enacting the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act has to be ascertained. Under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, unlike the provisions of U.P.Z.A and LR Act, when any order has been passed in favour of any party, its effect has to be given in the relevant revenue papers and in the relevant C.H. Forms by the consolidation authorities themselves. No application to give effect to that order is required-In other words, there is no provision Under the Act for the execution of any order under the Act, unlike in a suit filed under Section 9 of the Code of Civil Procedure or under the Specific Relief Act or under Section 202 or 203 of U.P.Z.A and L.R.Act.

12. it is, thus, clear that the intention of the Legislature was that if an order has to be passed by a particular consolidation authority, it has to be given effect to in revenue papers and if the same has not been given effect to by either side, in that event the successful party should not suffer. There is a maxim 'Actus Curae Neminem Gravabit', which means that an act of the Court shall prejudice no man. It is, thus, clear that once an order was passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation in favour of the contesting Respondents, which became final and if the consolidation authorities failed to carry out that order or to give effect in the revenue papers, it is not for the contesting Respondents to suffer. Further that order could have been given effect to during the consolidation operations by making an application for correction of papers and even after the close of the consolidation operation. The application for correction of papers, even if moved by the contesting Respondents, for which there was no limitation provided, it could not be said that application became time barred. In case the Petitioners have any grievance they could have challenged the order dated 8-7-64. But they did not do so. Now there no justification on their part to object to the application for correction of papers moved on behalf of the successful party. In case there would have been any limitation provided for application for correction of papers, the Petitioners would have been justified in raising the objection. But as there was no limitation provided for that application, it can be moved either during the consolidation operations or after the close of consolidation operation. Even during the consolidation operation the Legislature did not require the successful party to make an application for execution for seeking effect to a particular order. It was for the consolidation authorities to carry out the effect of the order passed in favour of a party.

13. The scope for reference has not been defined under Section 48(3). It has been left to the discretion of the Court. There is no denying the fact that where grounds have not been stated in the text the task of a court becomes heavier. In this connection it is better to quote an observation in C.K. Allen's Law. In the Making, (6th Edn.) at page 1292 as follows:

“The Judge himself addresses his task in much the same way as a counsel. His decision is given in the form of a structure of logic, in which he may use any material which he considers ad rem. Even purely unofficial practice may be prayed in aid as precedent to interpret documents (or statute). If the matter is governed by the clear and unambiguous prevision of a statute, his task is simplified. In a great many cases, no statute is applicable and even if it is applicable it is frequently the reverse of clear and unambiguous. The Judge must then proceed as Bacon laid down long ago either by parity of reasoning or by use of examples or by rules of natural reason and discretion.”

14. There is no limitation provided for making application for a reference nor there is any condition laid down under Section 48(3) beyond which the reference cannot be preferred by any subordinate consolidation authorities. The only requirement of Section 48(3) of the Act was that after hearing the parties concerned a reference can be made to the Deputy Director of Consolidation regarding any order under Section 48(1) i.e. to ascertain the correctness, legality or propriety of an order. In the instant case I don't think there could be any better case for "propriety of an order" Where an order between the parties has become final and the same was not given effect to in the revenue papers, then the intention of the Legislature Legis was that such order passed in favour of any party to be given effect to by the consolidation authorities and has there was no necessity for making any appl application for execution of that order. Under these circumstances, even if after the close of consolidation operation an application for correction of papers was moved seeking effect of the order which became final, the prayer in that application could be granted only by making a reference, particularly when the consolidation authorities were actually functioning in the area as provided under Rule 109-A. In case the Deputy Director of Consolidation was not functioning in the area or in the District, his power would then be exercised by the Assistant Collector or some other appropriate revenue authority. But as in the instant case the Settlement Officer (Consolidation) directed the Consolidation Officer to submit a reference purporting to be a reference under Section 48(3) of the Act, I don't find that there Was any mistake or error in that order The Deputy Director of Consolidation was justified in rejecting the revision against that order preferred by the present Petitioners.

15. As regards the case of Raja Ram v. D.D.C., 1982 All LJ 871 (supra), relied upon by the learned Counsel for the Petitioners, suffice it to say that in that case a suit for partition was pending between the parties at the time of application under Section 109-A was filed and in that circumstances this Court took the view that the parties can press their claim in the partition suit and Section 49 of the Act would not apply. In the instant case the application for correction of papers was correctly moved by the contesting Respondents seeking effect of the order dated 8- 7-1964 which had become final and it was the duty of consolidation authorities to have given effect to that order when the e consolidation operation was not closed in the area by issuing a notification under Section 52(1) of the Act. But as the application was made by the contesting Respondents, I am of the view that the ends of justice requires that that application should be allowed by making a reference under Section 48(3) of the Act. Further the aforesaid case of Raja Ram v. D.D.C. (supra), appears to be based on particular facts of that case and with profound regards have to say that that case law is not the whole law, but is governed by the facts of a particular case. In this connection I am reminded of an observation made by Lord Macmillan, who was a distinguished Judge of his time, in Berch v. Brown, (1931) A.C. page 631, to the effect that "precedent should be stepping stones and not halting places".

(iii) In Mukhtar v. DDC, Azamgarh and others: 1993 RD 457 (DB) the Court has held as under: -

11. From the entire scheme of the Act and the Rules framed there- under it thus becomes clear that the duty for revising the revenue records is cast on the Consolidation Authorities and it is for the Consolidation Authorities to implement the orders which are passed under the Act. The Scheme of the Act is not like the scheme which has been provided under the Code of Civil Procedure in the sense that after obtaining a judgment and decree in his favour a party has to apply for execution within a certain period of limitation prescribed to get the fruits of the decree. Here under the Act the duty is enjoined on the Consolidation Authorities themselves to implement the orders which have been passed under the Act and duty is cast on the person in whose favour the decision has been given to make an application to the authorities under the Act for implementation of that order within any prescribed period of limitation. In our opinion, till the order passed by the Consolidation authorities on 13-5-1974 was not finally implemented by the Consolidation Authorities as contemplated under the Rules, the proceedings under the Act would be deemed to be pending. The order which has been passed in favour of the contesting respondents was to be incorporated by the Consolidation Authorities in the revenue records. The consolidation Authorities having not done so, the proceedings in respect thereof can not be said to have been concluded before de-notification of the village. The proceedings for correcting the revenue records in pursuance of the order dated 13-5-1974 would necessarily be taken to be pending on the date of the notification issued under Section 52(1) of the Act. The Consolidation Authorities were thus bound to implement the directions contained in the final order dated 13-5-1974 under the Act even though a notification under Section 52(1) of the Act had taken place. In our opinion, the view by learned Single Judge in the case of Raja Ram (supra) does not lay down the correct law.”

(iv) In Ram Pati v. DDC, Banda and others: 1999 RJ 926 the Court has held as under: -

“5. From the entire scheme of the Act and the Rules framed there- under it thus becomes clear that the duty for revising the revenue records is cast on the Consolidation Authorities and it is for the Consolidation Authorities to implement the orders which are passed under the Act. The Scheme of the Act is not like the scheme which has been provided under the Code of Civil Procedure in the sense that after obtaining a judgment and decree in his favour a party has to apply for execution within a certain period of limitation prescribed to get the fruits of the decree. Here under the Act the duty is enjoined on the Consolidation Authorities themselves to implement the orders which have been passed under the Act and duty is cast on the person in whose favour the decision has been given to make an application to the authorities under the Act for implementation of that order within any prescribed period of limitation. In our opinion, till the order passed by the Consolidation authorities on 13-5-1974 was not finally implemented by the Consolidation Authorities as contemplated under the Rules, the proceedings under the Act would be deemed to be pending. The order which has been passed in favour of the contesting respondents was to be incorporated by the Consolidation Authorities in the revenue records. The proceedings for correcting the revenue records in pursuance of the order dated 13-5-1974 would necessarily be taken to be pending on the date of the notification issued under Section 52(1) of the Act. The Consolidation Authorities were thus bound to implement the directions contained in the final order dated 13-5-1974 under the Act even though a notification under Section 52(1) of the Act had taken place. In our opinion, the view by learned Single Judge in the case of Raja Ram (supra) does not lay down the correct law."

(v) In Abdul Sami and Others v. DDC and others: 2015 (1) ADJ 214, the Court has held as under: -

"8. Upon hearing learned counsel for the parties and upon a perusal of the record, especially the decision cited on behalf of respondents, which holds as follows: -

"From the entire scheme of the Act and the Rules framed thereunder it thus becomes clear that the duty for revising the revenue records is cast on the Consolidation Authorities and it is for the Consolidation Authorities to implement the orders which are passed under the Act. The Scheme of the Act is not like the scheme which has been provided under the Code of Civil procedure in the sense that after obtaining a judgment and decree in his favour a party has to apply for execution within a certain period of limitation prescribed to get the fruits of the decree. In our opinion, till the order passed by the Consolidation authorities on 13.5.1974 was not finally implemented by the Consolidation Authorities as contemplated under the Rules, the proceedings under the Act would be deemed to be pending. The order which has been passed in favour of the contesting respondents was to be incorporated by the Consolidation Authorities in the revenue records. The Consolidation Authorities having not done so, the proceedings in respect thereof can not be said to have been concluded before de-notification of the village. The Consolidation Authorities were thus bound to implement the directions contained in the final order dated 13.5.1974 under the Act even though a notification under section 52 (1) of the Act had taken place. In our opinion, the view taken by learned Single Judge in the case of Raja Ram (supra) does not lay down the correct law"

(vi) In Shiv Shankar and Another v. State of U.P. and others: 2018 RD (138) 297, the Court has held as under: -

"8. Rule 109-A of the Rules framed under U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act casts a duty upon the consolidation authorities to give effect to the orders passed. No specific application is required for such implementation and, therefore, the question of application being barred by limitation does not arise. In Mukhtar v. Dy. Director of Consolidation, Azamgarh and others: 1993 RD 457, a Division Bench of this court has taken a view that the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act casts a duty on consolidation authorities to implement the orders which are passed under the Act. The Division Bench held that since duty is cast upon the consolidation authorities to implement the order passed under the Act, the proceeding to implement the order, if not already implemented, would be deemed pending on the date of notification under Section 52 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act and as such the proceedings can continue even after notification under Section 52 of the Act. This Court is therefore of the view that the objection taken by the learned counsel for the petitioner that application under Rule 109-A was not maintainable because consolidation operations had come to a close pursuant to a notification under Section 52 of the Act, is worthy of rejection and is, accordingly, rejected"

79. In short, the aforesaid decisions are based on the premise that record-keeping is the work of the Authorities and thus a person cannot be punished for the inaction of the State Authorities and the power of reference is primarily considered to be corrective in nature, contextually.

80. Now this Court deems appropriate to notice the decisions which hold that after the notification issued under Section 52(1) of the Act of 1953, the Consolidation Authorities lose their jurisdiction to adjudicate.

(i) In the case of the Ghafoor v. Additional Commissioner: 1979 (RD) 76 (DB), a Division Bench of this Court has held as under: -

"1. After publication of the notification under Section 52 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act the Petitioner moved an application before the Sub-Divisional Officer praying for correction of map prepared by the consolidation authorities on the ground that there was some discrepancy in the map as well as in C.H. Form 45. The application filed by the Petitioner was rejected by the Sub-Divisional Officer on the ground that because Consolidation operations were over in the village, as such the map cannot be on. The corrected under Section 28 of the Land Revenue Act or under any other section. Petitioner filed an appeal before the Commissioner, Lucknow Division and the Additional Commissioner relying on Ganga Glass Works (Private) Ltd., Balawali v. State of U.P. 1973 AWR 620 held that the map prepared by the consolidation authorities was final and the revenue authorities were incompetent to make any correction. In that case the learned Single Judge after taking into consideration the provisions of Sections 42A and 27(1) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act held that Section 42A of the Consolidation of Holdings Act does enable the authorities to correct the size and shape of plots in the map prepared under Section 27(1) by referring to the record of rights. and Section 27(1) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act is only for the purpose of specifying the procedure for preparation of the map and record. As such the Consolidation authorities alone were competent to make any alteration in the map prepared by the consolidation authorities. From the facts of the said case it is not clear when the cause of action arose and whether the village was still under consolidation and whether notification under Section 52 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act had been published. There is yet another Section 27 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act and a perusal of Section 27(2) shows that the entries which were made earlier were final and conclusive and a presumption of correctness was attached to them meaning thereby that the said presumption could be rebutted. Section 27(3) of the U.P.

Consolidation of Holdings Act provides that after the issue of notification under Section 52, the Collector shall, instead of the map, field-book and record-of-rights previously maintained by him, maintain the map, field-book and record-of rights prepared in accordance with the provisions of the U.P. Land Revenue Act 1901 relating to the maintenance and correction of such map, field-book and record of rights shall mutatis mutandis apply.

2. Thus after consolidation operations are over and the notification under Section 52 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act is published shed it is the Collector who is to maintain the map, field-book etc., and such a map and field-book can be corrected under the Land Revenue Act and under such circumstances the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act does not go to the extent of rendering the provisions of the U.P. Land Revenue Act nugatory, so far as correction of map prepared during consolidation operations is concerned.

3. Our attention has been drawn to another case Mohammad Raza v. Board of Revenue 1973 AWR 621 in which it was held that a map prepared by the consolidation authorities is not necessarily final and conclusive and a map incorrectly drawn up cannot be treated as final and conclusive and can be corrected under Section 28 of the Land Revenue Act.

4. Looking to the provisions of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act and the Land Revenue Act, we are in agreement with the view expressed in Mohammad Raza v Board of Revenue (supra) and we hold that if a map is subsequently found incorrect and it is not in conformity with the document prepared by the consolidation authorities, the same can in suitable cases be e corrected subsequent under Section 52 of the U.P. Consolidation of to the publication of the notification Holdings Act by the Collector in exercise of power under Section 28 of the Land Revenue Act. Thus we are of the view that law laid down in Ganga Glass Works (Private) Ltd., Balawali v. State of U.P. (supra) is not a good law.

5. Thus the powers of the Collector under Section 28 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act for correcting the map in suitable cases are intact notwithstanding the map has been prepared by the consolidation authorities who have adjudicated the rights and title of the parties. In case there is any discrepancy in the map and final document has been prepared by the consolidation authorities, the same can be corrected in proceedings under Section 28 of the Land Revenue Act provided the right, interest and title of the party which have been finally adjudicated or have become final are not involved.

6. In the present case after notification under Section 52 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act was published, an application was moved by the Petitioner for correction of the map and the Petitioner tendered evidence that the map was not in conformity with the entries which were made in C.H. Form 45. It was obligatory on the authorities to correct the map in case they were satisfied that there was some discrepancy between the map and the entries in C.H. Form 45 and it is on a mistaken view of law that they have refused to grant this relief to the Petitioner."

(ii) In Raja Ram and Others v. DDC, Lucknow: 1982 (RD) 387 (DB), the Court has held as under: -

"8. In accordance with R. 109A read with Section 52 (2) of the U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act the contesting opposite parties could not approach the consolidation authorities for getting requisite entry as no case was pending on the date of denotification under Section 52 (1) of the U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act. The proceeding giving rise to the present writ petition is wholly without jurisdiction and deserves to be quashed. The ruling reported in 1981 Rev Dec 307: (1981 UPLT NOC 207), is inapplicable to the facts and circumstances of the present case. In that case no question of applicability of R. 109A was involved, hence that case does not throw any light upon the question under my consideration in the present writ petition. The revisional Court through the impugned judgment dated 29-10-1974 has tried to give effect to the order dated 23-7-1965. I think it has exceeded its jurisdiction in passing the impugned order dated 29-10-1974. without considering the question whether the contesting opposite parties could move any application under R. 109A under the U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act in the present case. In my opinion the contesting opposite parties could not invoke the jurisdiction of the consolidation authorities under R. 109A under the Act after denotification under Section 52 of the U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act on the facts and circumstances involved in the present"

(iii) In Hari Ram v. DDC, Azamgarh and others: 1989 (RD) 281 (DB), the Division Bench of this Court has held as under: -

"2. We find that on 29th October, 1987 an objection was preferred by the petitioner before the Deputy Director of Consolidation. The position of law is well settled. The Deputy Director of Consolidation has no jurisdiction to exercise power under Section 48 (3) of the Act if a de notification has already taken place under Section 52 of the Act. The Deputy Director of Consolidation, therefore, will first record a finding as to whether a Notification under Section of the Act had, in fact, been issued on 13th February 1982. If he finds that such a notification exists and if he also finds that the land which is the subject matter of dispute is covered by the said Notification, he shall desist from exercising any power under Section 48 (3) of the Act. With his direction the petition is disposed of finally."

(iv) In Nanhki v. DDC, Pratapgarh and others: 1995 (13) LCD 1, the Division Bench of this Court has held as under: -

"3. The order of the Deputy Director of Consolidation has been challenged only on the ground of dictum. According to learned Counsel for the petitioner, after the village where the land in dispute is situate was de notified under Section 52 (1) of the Act vide notification dated 8th March, 1979, published in the gazette on 5th May, 1979, the application for correction of records and of the age map village on any ground whatsoever cannot be entertained by the Consolidation Authorities nor they are left with the power to pass orders on the same and, therefore, impugned order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation is illegal and liable to be quashed by the writ of certiorari.

4. Learned Counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on two judgments of this Court. The first judgment is of a Division Bench of this Court reported in Hari Ram v. DDC, Azamgarh and others, 1989 RD 281. This Court was approached by means of a writ petition for issue of the writ of prohibition by one Hari Ram who happened to be opposite party in a case which was pending before the Deputy Director of Consolidation under Section 48 (3) of the Act. In the writ position it was alleged by him that although consolidation proceedings in the village where the land was situate has come to an end by issue of Notification under Section 52 (1) of the Act. Deputy Director of Consolidation wrongly proceeded with the reference under Section 48 (3) of The Act. It was argued on his behalf that if a notification under Section 52 (1) of the Act has been issued, the village goes out of the consolidation and the Consolidation Authorities cease to have jurisdiction to either entertain any application or pass orders for correction of papers or whatever purpose. The Division Bench of this Court while finally disposing of this writ petition at the admission stage passed the order directing the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Azamgarh to find record a finding as to whether Notification under Section 52 (1) of the Act had been issued in respect of the land in dispute and to determine as to whether the village where land in dispute is situate, has been denotified. The direction further was that in case it was found that the land has ceased to be the subject matter of the consolidation proceedings, the Deputy Director of Consolidation shall not proceed with the application and shall not pass any order thereon in as much as in such situation he lacks jurisdiction to entertain and decide the Application.

5. The second judgment on which reliance has been placed by learned Counsel for the petitioner, is a single Bench judgment in the case of Raja Ram v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, U.P., Lucknow and others, 1982 RD 387. In this case, an application for Correction of papers was made under Section 42-A of the Act for the purposes of carrying out of Consolidation orders passed by the Consolidation Authorities and the Deputy Director of the basis of that application exercising powers under Section 48 of the Act passed orders for the correction of papers. The Court held that when the village has been de-notified under Section 52 (1) of the Act, the Deputy Director of Consolidation loses jurisdiction to entertain the application and pass orders under Section 42-A of the Act either in the garb of making notification or for execution of the orders earlier passed by the Consolidation Authorities.

7. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioner in that case was that since the village had been denotified, the application for correction of papers was not maintainable. This contention of the petitioner made in that case was rejected by the learned Single Judge holding that for purpose of carrying out the orders earlier passed by Consolidation Authorities application was maintainable and the Consolidation Authorities were competent to pass orders thereon. This view of the learned Single Judge is in direct conflict with the view taken by another learned Single Judge in the case of Raja Ram (supra) as well as with the view taken by Division Bench in the case of Hari Ram (supra). Since the view taken by the Single Judge in the case of Raja Ram is fully supported and endorsed by the view taken by the Division Bench in the case of Hari Ram (supra), in my opinion, the view taken by the learned Single Judge in the case of Brij Bir Singh cannot prevail and it cannot be said to be a correct view. In the normal course where the Court is faced with two conflicting views taken by coordinate benches, the case is to be referred to a larger bench. In this case, this course is not required to be adopted as the view taken by this Court in the case of Raja Ram (supra) has fully been endorsed by the Division Bench of this Court which will be deemed to have overruled the view taken by the learned single Judge in the case of Brij Bir Singh (supra).

8. Learned Counsel for the respondents has further cited another case reported in Kamta Prasad v. Board of Revenue, U.P., Lucknow and others, 1986 RD 206. This too is a case of correction of papers for carrying out orders passed by Consolidation Authorities. Here, the learned Single Judge held that for carrying out the orders of the Consolidation Authorities after denotification of the village under Section 52 (1) of the Act, Revenue Authorities will have Jurisdiction to make necessary corrections. This judgment also supports the view taken in case of Raja Ram and the view taken by the Division Bench in Hon Ram's case. I am, therefore, of the opinion that Consolidation Authorities will have no power to entertain any application for is de-notified by issue of Notification under Section 52 (1) correction of papers after the village of the Act as thereafter land is no more subject matter of consolidation proceedings."

(v) In Ram Narain and others v. DDC, Barabanki: 2020 (147) RD 185, the Court has held as under: -

"13. This Court has perused the judgment and order dated 07.08.2015 passed in the case of Pateshwan Dutt Pandey (supra). In the said case, a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court considered the scope of application under Section 42-A of the Consolidation of Holdings Act after notification under Section 52 of the Act had already been issued. This Court relied upon the Division Bench judgement rendered in Gafoor v. Addl. Commissioner, Lucknow and others: 1979 RD 76 (DB). Hari Ram v. D.D.C. Azamgarh; 1989 RD 281, Ghamari v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Ballia and others; 2003 94 RD 90 and Sant Lal and Ors. v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Allahabad and Ors.; 2015 (1) JCLR 310, where this Court had considered the limitation of jurisdiction of consolidation authorities after section 52 notification was issued closing the consolidation operations.

14. The Co-ordinate Bench pointed out the exceptions that have been carved out by the judicial precedents for entertaining the application under Section 42-A of the Act. There were only two exceptions carved out. Firstly, the cases which are pending under Article 226 of the Constitution of India at the time of notification and were decided after de-notification, and secondly, the cases which were pending before the consolidation authorities at the time of de-notification and judgments were rendered thereafter. In all other cases, the remedy for the Tenure holder is to approach the Collector, where the records had been sent by the Consolidation Authorities after Section 52 notification is issued for correction of map to be carried out in conformity with the confirmed map prepared by the consolidation authorities and as per area of plot/chak mentioned in C.H. Form 41 and C.H. Form 45.

15. This Court has also considered the judgments rendered by Co-ordinate Bench in Pooran Singh v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Meerut and others; 2008 (105) RD 469 and Dr. Sukhbeer Singh v. Commissioner, Meerut and others, 2014 (32) LCD 1912, and held that the aforesaid two judgments were given in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the cases as mentioned in the said judgments, and cannot help in advancement of petitioner's case that even after Section 52 notification has been issued, application under Section 42-A of the Act can be entertained."

(vi) In Smt. Malti Devi v. State of U.P. and others: 2021 (151) RD 3, the Court relied upon the earlier judgment in One of the judgments cited before this Court, passed in Sripal and two others v. D.D.C. Raebareli & two others: 2017 (137) RD 189 wherein this Court considered the law settled by earlier Benches of this Court as well as the Board of Revenue and held that "After Notification under section 52 the only consolidation operations which continue are those referred under sub-section (2) of section 52 and any order referred therein can be given effect under Rule 109-A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules 1954. The exercise of power under section 42-A is not referred in sub-section (2) of section 52."

(vii) In Sri Pal & Others v. DDC, Raebareli and others: 2017 (137) RD 189, the Court has held as under: -

18. On a conjoint reading of section 52 and 27(3) it is evident that during consolidation 1 operations and prior to its ceasing in terms of section 52, it is the Consolidation Authorities who are empowered to correct the records. The opening line of sub-section (3) of section 27 makes is amply clear that after closure of Consolidation Operations on issuance of Notification under section 52 it is the Collector who shall maintain the map, field-book and record of rights prepared in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 27 of the Act 1953 i.e. during consolidation operations, and the provisions of the U.P. Land Revenue Act 1901 relating to the maintenance and correction of such map, field-book and record of rights shall mutatis-mutandis apply in respect thereof.

x x x

33. In view of the above discussion, even though no limitation is prescribed for correction under section 42-A, the Revisional Court cannot be faulted for having arrived at the conclusion, inter alia, that the proceedings under section 42-A after de-notification under section 52 were not maintainable, and the remedy, if any, was under section 28 or 33/39 of the Land Revenue Act 1901, however, in this regard the Court would like to add a caveat, as Maiku had Initiated a regular suit under section 229-B, therefore, it would have to be seen as to what was the decision rendered therein and its effect on the maintainability of subsequent proceedings under section 28 or 33/39. Subject to this condition, if the contention of the petitioner is correct i.e. without there being any order of any Consolidation Authority in favour of Jalpa or Ram Avtar for recording of their names in respect of Basic Year Khata No. 26, an entry was made in their favour in respect of the sald Khata in C.H. Form 11 which continued in C.H. Form 23, 41 and 45 then it was certainly a fundamental error which would go to the root of the matter as has also been observed by the Revisional Court and in such a situation the records would be liable to correction so as to ensure substantial justice, as, in such a factual scenario the entry would be without any basis i.e. fake entry, and in such a situation injustice cannot be allowed to be perpetrated. In such a case remedy would be under section 33/39 of the Act 1901 before the Collector who also happens to be the District Deputy Director, Consolidation in view of the above discussion and the deficiency in the material before it, especially the absence of order dated 19.12.1970 and the judgment in the suit under section 229-B as also its plaint, this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is unable to consider the pleas raised herein or Interfere with the order of the revisional Court, which it finds to be just and proper, subject of course to the above observations, therefore, the writ petition is dismissed.”

(viii) In Raj Karan Singh v. Chief Revenue Officer; MANU/UP/3069/2019, the Court has held as under: -

“4. Whatever be the merits of the controversy involved, one feature is striking i.e. once notification under section 52 of the Act, 1953 had been published on 10.4.1982 then there was no way that any reference could have been prepared under section 48(3) of the Act, 1953. It is settled legal position that any correction thereafter could either be under Rule 109 i.e. in the event the claimant is able to satisfy that there was a valid order passed under any provision of the Act, 1953 during consolidation operations which was not given effect in the records prepared during consolidation or thereafter, or under section 33/39 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 (corresponding provision of section 38 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006) by virtue of section 27 of the Act, 1953 under which after closure of consolidation operations the records are remitted to the Collector who is the custodian obliged to maintain and correct the same.”

(ix) In Smt. Jagrani @ Ram Jiyayi v. DDC, Shrawasti and others; 2024 (164) RD 238, this Court has held as under: -

“20. It is now to well settled to be disputed that in terms of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953, the consolidation operations commenced with the notification issued under Section 4 of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953.....

21. Similarly, Section 52 of the Act of 1953 clearly provides that upon the denotification of the village under Section 52 of the Consolidation operation come to end and thereafter no Consolidation Authorities have been conferred with the powers to entertain or deal with the matter unless as provided in Section 52 itself

22. In light of the aforesaid and considering the facts which are before this Court which are apparently not disputed, are that, villages in question were denotified on 31.03.2008, accordingly no Consolidation Authorities could have entertained any application under the Act after the date of the denotification.

23. Another fact which is not disputed is that Raja Ram made his application under Section 12 of the Act on 14.07.2015 as evident from annexure no.2, hence the said application having been moved after the date of denotification was per se not maintainable and the Consolidation Officer was denuded of all jurisdictions to have passed any order thereon. Thus, the order passed by the Consolidation Officer dated 08.11.2016 was per se inherently without jurisdiction and void ab initio. Though the said order was assailed by Smt. Jagrani in an appeal before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation who allowed the appeal on 28.09.2017 but the fact remains that once the order of the Consolidation Officer after denotification were void ab initio for the same reason, the Settlement Officer of Consolidation was also denuded of jurisdiction to have passed the order. It was actually a fit case for Smt. Jagrani to have assailed the order of Consolidation Officer straight away by filing writ petition before this Court but nevertheless the said course was not adopted.

x x x

30. In light of the aforesaid, this Court is of the clear view that the proceedings after denotification as initiated by Raja Ram were wholly without jurisdiction and all the orders passed by the Consolidation Officer dated 08.11.2016, the order passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation dated 28.09.2017 and the order impugned dated 09.05.2019 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation are all without jurisdiction and void ab initio.

31. Attempt of Shyam Lal to seek a substitution on the basis of Will in proceedings under Article 226 where the impugned orders are per se without jurisdiction, hence this Court does not permit Sham Lal to be impleaded. For the aforesaid reason this Court finds that the entire proceedings initiated at the behest of Raja Ram by filing an application under Section 12 of the U.P. Consolidation Holdings Act, 1953 to be without jurisdiction and are quashed and all impugned orders i.e. 08.11.2016 passed by the Consolidation Officer, 28.09.2017 passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation and 09.05.2019 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation shall also stand quashed. The parties shall be at liberty of getting their rights adjudicated before the competent revenue court who shall consider and decide the title to the estate of Bachowa on the basis of contested plea by the respective parties and for the said purpose all plea are left open for the parties to be raised and decided by the Revenue Courts.

That the aforesaid decisions which primarily state that after the notification under Section 52(1) of the Act, the Consolidation Authorities lose their jurisdiction. Even they have been sited on the basic premise based on the postulate contained in Section 52(1) of the Act and there has been no indepth analysis of the Scheme and the Provisions of the Act relating to the power of reference, hence, the aforesaid decision also do not come to the aid to hold determinitatively whether the Consolidation Authorities lose their jurisdiction after the notification under Section 52 (1) of the Act."

81. After considering the aforesaid decisions, this Court at the outset notices that a Division Bench of Ram Bahadur (Supra) was the first case in point of time where it was held that the Consolidation Authorities would have jurisdiction after the notification is made under Section 52(1) of the Act of 1953 on the premise that Section 52 of the Act of 1953 does not destroy the rights of the parties.

82. The observations made in the said case was in a different context. It was held that if an appeal or revision is filed with an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act and the delay is condoned, then the appeal or revision is to be heard on merits and so it was held that in such a situation the proceedings are revived.

83. It is further relevant to notice that thereafter came the other Division Bench decision of this Court in case of Ghafoor (Supra) wherein it was held that the Consolidation Authorities lose their jurisdiction upon notification made under Section 52 (1) of the Act of 1953. The Division Bench in Ghafoor (Supra) did not consider the decision of the earlier Division Bench in case of Ram Bahadur (Supra).

84. At the same time, it would be noticed that another Division Bench in Hari Ram (Supra) held that the Consolidation Authorities do not have jurisdiction after the notification issued under Section 52 (1) of the Act of 1953. However, even the Division Bench in case of Hari Ram (Supra) did not notice the earlier Division Bench decision of Ram Bahadur (Supra). Even the later Division Bench decision of Mukhtar (supra) which held that the Consolidation Authorities do have jurisdiction, did not notice the earlier Division Bench decision of Hari Ram (Supra).

85. Thus, it would be seen that though there are two Division Bench decisions, namely Ram Bahadur (Supra) and Mukhtar (Supra), which hold that the Consolidation Authorities do not lose their jurisdiction after Section 52(1) Notification, however, there are two other Division Bench cases of Ghafoor (Supra) and Hari Ram (Supra) which hold that the Consolidation Authorities lose jurisdiction upon notification made under Section 52(1) of the Act of 1953 and in the same vein, there are several decisions of learned Single Judges who have also taken contrary views which are not in conformity with each other.

86. With due respect to the aforesaid decisions which have been given on their particular facts, many provisions have not been noticed in those judgments and thus they do not constitute binding precedents before this Larger Bench, which is examining the questions threadbare.

VII ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSIONS OF QUESTION NO.1

87. Now the stage is set to analyze the questions referred and for the sake of expediency, question no.(1) as aforesaid is being reproduced hereinafter:-

“What is the true scope of powers vested with Deputy Director of Consolidation in terms of Section 48(3) of the Act of 1953 that is to say whether it is corrective in nature or adjudicatory.”

88. At the outset, it will be trite to state that the scope of reference has not been defined in the Act. It has been left to the discretion of the Court. There is no denying the fact that where grounds have not been stated in the text, the task of a court becomes arduous. In this regard it will be apt to quote an observation of Sir Carleton Kemp Allen made in his classic work of jurisprudence, ‘Law In the Making’, (6th Edn.) at page 1292 as follows: -

“The Judge himself addresses his task in much the same way as a counsel. His decision is given in the form of a structure of logic, in which he may use any material which he considers ad rem. Even purely unofficial practice may be prayed in aid as precedent to interpret documents (or statute). If the matter is governed by the clear and unambiguous provision of a statute, his task is simplified. In a great many cases, no statute is applicable and even if it is applicable it is frequently the reverse of clear and unambiguous. The Judge must then proceed as Bacon laid down long ago either by parity of reasoning or by use of examples or by rules of natural reason and discretion.”

89. It will also be relevant to recollect a latin Maxim, ‘Contemporanea exposito est optima et fortissinia in lega i.e' the best way to interpret a document or statute is to see how it was understood at the time it was made.

90. Keeping the observations of C.K. Allen and the maxim as a guiding beacon, this Court proceeds and at the outset notes that power of reference as provided in Section 48(3) was not a part of the original Act of 1953. This was introduced by an amendment in the Act vide the Uttar Pradesh Jot Chakbandi (Sanshodhan) Adhiniyam 1962 (U.P. Act No.VIII of 1963) which came into effect on 08.03.1963. By this amending Act large number of amendments were incorporated in the principal Act.

91. Thus, for the said reason, it will also be relevant to notice the statement, objects and reasons for introducing the said amendments. They are being reproduced hereinafter for ready reference: -

“उत्तर प्रदेश जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम, 1953 जब पिछली बार उ०प्र० अधिनियम संख्या 38, 1958 द्वारा संशोधित किया गया था, तब से यह आवश्यक समझा गया है कि चकबन्दी की प्रक्रिया को और परिष्कृत किया जाय ताकि प्रति एकड़ चकबन्दी की लागत को, जो अन्य राज्यों के अपेक्षाकृत अधिक है, कम करने के उद्देश्य से चकबन्दी क्रियाओं की अवधि में कमी की जाय। चकबन्दी क्रियाओं में अड़चने आने और देरी होने का एक सब से बड़ा कारण यह रहा है कि विभिन्न चकबन्दी प्राधिकारियों के पास वाद-कार्य जमा हो गया है। यह प्रस्ताव है कि विभिन्न प्रक्रियाओं को दो वर्गों में मिला दिया जाय

जिससे आपत्तियां, अपील आदि प्रस्तुत करने के प्रक्रम कम हो जायेंगे और इस प्रकार खातेदारों को होने वाली बहुत की असुविधायें दूर हो जायेंगी तथा चकबन्दी क्रियाओं की लागत में कमी हो जायेगी। यह भी प्रस्ताव है कि 1958 के संशोधन अधिनियम द्वारा प्रचलित की गयी द्वितीय अपीलों की व्यवस्था समाप्त कर दी जाय क्योंकि उनसे कार्यवाहियां तो अनावश्यक रूप से बढ़ जाती हैं, लेकिन खातेदारों को कोई विशेष लाभ नहीं होता। खातेदार द्वारा सार्वजनिक प्रयोजनों के लिए अपनी जोत से अंशदान करने के परिणामस्वरूप उसकी मूल जोत में कमी हो जाने से उसके द्वारा देय मालगुजारी की धनराशि के समायोजन के सम्बन्ध में इस समय अधिनियम में कोई विशेष उपबन्ध नहीं है। चूंकि खातेदारों को इस मामले में कुछ कठिनाई हुई है इसलिये ऐसे मामलों में मालगुजारी कम करने के संबंध में उचित उपबन्ध सम्मिलित करने का प्रस्ताव है। चकबन्दी क्रियाओं की लागत को वसूल करने से संबंधित उपबन्धों को संशोधित करना आवश्यक है क्योंकि लाभार्थियों के एक वर्ग से लागत वसूल करने में कठिनाई हुई है। कुछ कठिनाई रिट के उन मुकदमों में उच्च न्यायालय की आज्ञाओं को कार्यान्वित करने में भी हुई है जो ऐसे क्षेत्रों के बारे में थे जिनके संबंध में उक्त अधिनियम की धारा 52 के अधीन औपचारिक रूप से चकबन्दी क्रियायें बन्द करने की विज्ञप्तियां जारी की जा चुकी थीं, और परिणामतः चकबन्दी अधिकारियों से उन क्षेत्रों के क्षेत्राधिकार ले लिये गये थे। उक्त विषयों के

संबंध में उचित उपबन्ध बनाने तथा अन्य छोटी-मोटी त्रुटियां दूर करने के उद्देश्य से यह विधेयक पुरःस्थापित किया जाता है।

हुकुम सिंह विसेन
राजस्व मंत्री।"

92. It will be worthwhile to mention that Section 39 of the Amending Act VIII of 1963 amended Section 48 of the Principal Act, of 1953 by which the power of reference was introduced.

93. It will be apposite to notice both the unamended Section 48 and how it fared after the amendment made in 1963.

Unamended Section 48: -

"48. Power of Director of Consolidation to call for records and to revise orders:- The Director of Consolidation may call for the record of any case if the Officer (other than the Arbitrator) by whom the case was decided appears to have exercise a jurisdiction so vested in him by law or to have failed to exercise jurisdiction so vested, or to have acted in the exercise of his jurisdiction illegally or with substantial irregularity and may pass such orders in the case as it think fit."

Section 48 after it was amended vide amending Act VIII of 1962, reads as under:

"48. Revisions and reference-(1) The Director of Consolidation may call for and examine the record of any case decided or proceedings taken by any subordinate authority for the purpose of satisfying himself as to the regularity of the proceedings ; or as to the correctness legality or propriety of any order 5[other than an interlocutory order] passed by such authority in the case or proceedings and may, after allowing the parties concerned an opportunity of being heard, make such order in the case or proceedings as he thinks fit.

(2) Power under sub-section (1) may be exercised by the Director of Consolidation also on a reference under sub-section (3).

(3) Any authority subordinate to the Director of Consolidaiton may, after allowing the parties concerned an opportunity of being heard, refer the record of any case or proceedings to the Director of Consolidation for action under sub-section (1).

Explanation [(1)-For the purposes of this section, Settlement Officer, Consolidation, Consolidation Officer, Assistant Consolidation Officer, Consolidators and Consolidaiton Lekhpals shall be subordinate to the Director of Consolidation.

Explanation (2)- For the purpose of this section the expression 'interlocutory order' in relation to a case or proceeding, means such order deciding any matter arising in such case or proceedings or collateral thereto as does not have the effect of finally disposing of such case or proceeding.

* * *

This Section 48 of the Act was further amended in the year 2002 and Explanation (3) was inserted, which is being reproduced hereinbelow : -

"Explanation (3) - The power under this section to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of any order includes the power to Examine any finding, whether of fact or law recorded by any subordinate authority, and also includes the power to re-appreciate any oral or documentary evidence."

94. The impact of amendment in Section 48(1) was further enlarged by introducing the Explanation (3). This amendment of 2002 was given retrospective effect and post amendment, huge powers of revision with the Deputy Director of Consolidation got enhanced with a flavor which generally is akin to appellate powers.

95. Prior to the Amendment of 2002, the consistent view emerging from the judicial trend was that if while exercising the powers under Section 48(1) of the Act 1953, the Director of Consolidation came to a conclusion that the finding of the Consolidation Officer or the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, as case may be, was not in accordance with law, then being the revising authority the Director of Consolidation could only set aside the findings and remit the matter to the court below for reconsideration but could not supplement its own view, which was the role of a revising authority in the classic sense.

96. While enacting the Amending Act 2002, the legislature clearly noticed that Section 48 was being amended to clarify that the revising authority had the right to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of any order, including the power to examine any finding whether of fact or law and it also included the power to re-appreciate any oral or documentary evidence. Thus, it would indicate that post 2002 amendment, all powers were conferred with the Director of Consolidation who being the highest adjudicating Authority under the Act, could examine all issues, both of law and fact and its power of revision was made more akin to the power exercised by an Appellate Authority, though the nomenclature continued to refer to such powers as revision.

97. The idea being, that the Consolidation Act which envisages to achieve the goal of compacting the land holdings for the benefit of tenure holders, to encourage large scale farming and agricultural activities, reduce boundary disputes and making it more viable for agriculture, hence all issues that arise during consolidation operations may be decided within the ambit of the Act by the adjudicating authorities empowered under the Act itself, so that once the consolidation operations draw to an end, then all loose ends are taken care of. Once the new records are prepared during consolidation operation and are handed over to the revenue authorities, then they must continue to be maintained by the Collector. Such records have presumptive value and sanctity is attached to the records so prepared, making it final and binding in light of Section 27 and its effect on the tenure holders as per Section 49 of the Act and unless the contrary is proved in accordance with law.

98. In this given backdrop, the question still arises what was the purpose and scope of introducing the power of reference by the Amending Act of 1962.

99. In the U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953, the word 'reference' has not been defined. Even in the contemporaneous Act i.e. U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950, the word 'reference' has not been defined. However, The word 'reference' finds mention in Section 113 of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 and it reads as under:-

“113. Reference to High Court.-

Subject to such conditions and limitations as may be prescribed, any Court may state a case and refer the same for the opinion of the High Court, and the High Court may make such order thereon as it thinks fit:

[Provided that where the Court is satisfied that a case pending before it involves a question as to the validity of any Act, Ordinance or Regulation or of any provision contained in an Act, Ordinance or Regulation, the determination of which is necessary for the disposal of the case, and is of opinion that such Act, Ordinance, Regulation or provision is invalid or inoperative, but has not been so declared by the High Court to which that Court is subordinate or by the Supreme Court, the Court shall state a case setting out its opinion and the reasons therefore, and refer the same for the opinion of the High Court.

Explanation.-In this section, "Regulation" means any Regulation of the Bengal, Bombay or Madras Code or Regulation as defined in the General Clauses Act, 1897, (10 of 1897) or in the General Clauses Act of a State."

100. A perusal of the aforesaid provision would reveal that the object of Section 113 appears to enable a subordinate authority to obtain the opinion of the highest authority in a non-appealable case, on a question which has created a reasonable doubt, to avoid committing an error which may not be remedied later. Accordingly, the subordinate authority may seek the opinion of the higher authority.

101. The aforesaid power of reference as per Section 113 C.P.C. is purely discretionary and it is an enabling provision to help a subordinate authority where it may come to a cross road relating to a question of law and to avoid any error, the opinion of the superior/the highest authority may be sought. Considering, the way reference has been worded in C.P.C., it would reveal that the power of reference is apparently consultative in nature and not adjudicatory.

102. However, the power of reference in context of the Act of 1953 is somewhat different. It does not appear to be consultative in nature. Moreover, the learned Additional Advocate General has sought to urge that power of reference is akin to inherent powers.

103. Examining this proposition first, it will be relevant to ascertain how and who can exercise inherent powers. The inherent powers generally are conferred on the courts of law which are classically constituted under the Constitution whether it be the High Court and the Supreme Court who are also courts of record. The courts of original civil jurisdiction exercise inherent powers, which has been recognized by Section 151 C.P.C. Significantly, Section 151 does not confer powers, rather it recognizes the inherent powers vested with the Civil Courts

104. A judicial authority constituted under a special statute cannot be presumed to have inherent powers unless it is specifically so conferred on it by the Statute under which it is constituted.

105. This can be seen in context with the fact that the Code of Civil Procedure envisages the conferment/recognition of inherent powers under Section 151 C.P.C. and simultaneously, it may also be noticed that the power of substantive review is also conferred by the Statute and it finds place in Section 114 read with Order 47 C.P.C.

106. In contrast, the U.P.C.H. Act, 1953 is a special Statute which is a Code in itself, but it does not import the provisions of the C.P.C. as a whole. Neither there is any indication that the Courts/Adjudicatory Authorities constituted under the U.P.C.H. Act of 1953 have inherent powers nor they have been conferred with the power of review

107. This aspect was noticed by a Full Bench of this Court in Smt. Anar Kali v. Deputy Director of Consolidation: 1997 (15) LCD 921 (FB), wherein the question before the Full Bench was: -

“Whether it is open for the Consolidation authorities to review/recall their final orders exercising inherent powers even though the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 does not vest them any review jurisdiction?”

108. The Full Bench answered the aforesaid question in the following words: -

“23. On the authoritative pronouncements made by the Supreme Court in the aforementioned decisions, the legal position which is manifest is that the Deputy Director of Consolidation while exercising the power of revision vested in him under the Consolidation Act exercises quasi judicial powers and in the absence of any provision in the Consolidation Act, which expressly or by necessary implication vests in him the power of review, he cannot exercise such power. It follows that the Deputy Director of Consolidation is not competent to revive a revision proceeding disposed of by him by a final order on a review application filed by one of the parties.

24. The question that remains to be considered is whether the Deputy Director of Consolidation as a Court or Tribunal has an inherent power of review and in exercise of such power he can reconsider the previous order passed by him? A further question that arises ancillary in this connection is whether the Deputy Director of Consolidation is a Court and, therefore, has inherent power of review? In the case of Associated Coment Company Ltd. v. P.N.Sharma and another (AIR 1965 SC 1895) the Supreme Court, construing the meaning of 'Tribunal' for the purposes of Articles 136 (1) and 227 of the Constitution, held that judicial functions and judicial powers are one of the essential attributes of a sovereign State, and on consideration of policy, the State transfers its judicial functions and powers mainly to the Courts established by the Constitution; but that does not affect the competence of the State, by appropriate measures, to transfer a part of its judicial powers and functions to Tribunals by entrusting to them the task of adjudicating upon special matters and disputes between par-ties. The Court further observed that it is really not possible or even expedient to attempt to describe exhaustively the features which are common to the Tribunals and the Courts and features which are distinct and separate; that the basic and fundamental feature which is common to both the Courts and the Tribunals is that they discharge judicial functions and exercise judicial powers which inherently vests in a sovereign State. In considering the question about the status of any body or authority as a Tribunal under Article 136 (1) the main test to be applied is whether the body or authority has been constituted by the State and has been clothed with the State's inherent judicial power to deal with disputes between parties and determining them on the merits fairly and objectively. In order to be a tribunal, it is essential that the power of adjudication must be derived from a statute or a statutory rule. An authority or body deriving its power of adjudication from an agreement of the parties, such as a private arbitrator or a tribunal acting under section 10A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, does not satisfy the test of a tribunal within meaning of Article 136. It matters little that such a body or authority is vested with the trappings of a Court. The Arbitration Act, 1940 vests an arbitrator with some of the trappings of a court, so also the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 vests an authority acting under section 10A of the Act with many of such trappings, and yet, such bodies and authorities are not tribunals. The Supreme Court further held that the word 'tribunal' in Article 227 of the Constitution also has the same meaning as in Article 136.

25. In the case of Sri Dadu Dayal Mahasabha v. Sukhdev Arya and another (1989 (15) ALR 871), a two Judges Bench of the Supreme Court held that the position is well established that a court has inherent power to correct its own proceeding when it is satisfied that in passing a particular order it was misled by one of the parties. Referring to a decision of the Patna High Court in Sadho Saran Rai and others v. Anant Rai and others (AIR 1923 Patna 483) with approval the Court held that the principle was correctly discussed in the judgment pointing out the distinction between case of fraud practised upon the court and fraud practised upon a party. The Supreme Court held that the same principle applies where a suit is permitted to be withdrawn on the basis of prayer purported to have been made on behalf of the plaintiff. The decision was rendered by the Supreme Court in a civil appeal arising from a suit (Suit No. 116 of 1974) which was disposed of by the Additional District Judge, Jaipur. The Supreme Court considered the case in the light of section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

34. Coming to the provisions of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, it is our considered view that the consolidation authorities, particularly the Deputy Director of Consolidation while deciding a revision petition exercises judicial or quasi judicial power and, therefore, his order is final subject to any power of appeal or revision vested in superior authority under the Act. The consolidation authorities, particularly the Deputy director of Consolidation, is not vested with any power of review of his order and, therefore, cannot reopen any proceeding and cannot review or revise his earlier order. However, as a judicial or quasi judicial authority he has the power to correct any clerical mistake/arithmetical error, manifest error in his order in exercise of his inherent power as a tribunal.

36. The question that remains to be considered relates to vesting of power of review in the Deputy Director of Consolidation by application of Section 220 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901. Sri Radhey Shyam, learned counsel for the contesting respondents, strenuously urged that in view of the provisions of Section 41 of the Consolidation Act and Section 220 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act it should be held that power of review is vested in the Deputy Director of Consolidation who is the final revisional authority under the Consolidation Act. No doubt, Section 41 of the Consolidation Act makes provisions of Chapters IX and X of the U.P. Land Revenue Act applicable to all proceedings, including appeals and applications under the former Act. Section 220, which is a part of Chapter X, vests power of review in the Board of Revenue subject to certain conditions/restrictions specified in the Section. The question is, in the absence of any specific provision of review in the Consolidation Act, can it be said that the power of review vested in the Board of Revenue can be exercised by the consolidation authorities, particularly the Deputy Director of Consolidation? In our considered view, the question has to be answered in the negative. There is no provision in Section 41 or in any other Section of the Consolidation Act which empowers modification of any provision of the Land Revenue Act for the purposes of application to consolidation proceedings. Further Section 41, as we read it, merely provides that the procedures prescribed under Chapters IX and X of the Land Revenue Act will be applicable to all proceedings including appeals and applications under the Consolidation Act. Substantive provisions in the aforementioned Chapters of the Land Revenue Act, which have no pari material provisions in the Consolidation Act, cannot have any application to proceedings under the said Act. If a proceeding cannot be initiated under the Consolidation Act, the question of application of the provisions of Chapters IX and X of the Land Revenue Act to such a proceeding does not arise. In the absence of any specific provision vesting power of review in the authorities under the Consolidation Act, such a proceeding cannot be initiated at all. Therefore, Section 220 of the Land Revenue Act is of no assistance for the purposes of the proceedings under the Consolidation Act. Alternatively, assuming that Section 220 applies to consolidation proceedings and an analogy is drawn between the proceedings under the two Acts, it is the Director of Consolidation, being the highest authority under the Consolidation Act, who can inferentially be said to have a power of review as provided in Section 220 of the Land Revenue Act and not the Deputy Director of Consolidation, who is one of the revisional authorities under the Consolidation Act. This question was considered by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Qadam Singh and another v. Ganga Saran and Ram Saran (1960 (58) ALJ 836) in which this Court, construing Section 41 of the Consolidation Act, made the following observation: -

“Chapter X of the Land Revenue Act includes Section 220 which confers upon the Board of Revenue the power to review its own orders in certain circumstances, and it is contended that in applying this Section to proceedings under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act a power of review must be deemed to be conferred upon the Deputy Director of Consolidation who corresponds to the Board of Revenue in so far as he is the final court of Revision. In our opinion this argument is not well founded, for section 41 makes no provision for the modification, alteration or adaptation of any of the Sections in Chapters IX and X of the Land Revenue Act in their application to proceedings under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act. Section 220 specifically confers the power to review its own decision on the Board of Revenue and on no other authority, and it is not possible for this Court to hold that under that Section read with Section 41 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act a power to review its own decision is conferred upon all Deputy Directors of Consolidation."

109. Having noticed the dictum in Smt. Anar Kali (supra) and now taking note of Sections 38, 39, 41 of the Act, it appears that the Act does not import the provisions of C.P.C. and, therefore, the principles of 'legislation by reference' and 'legislation by incorporation' cannot be applied to the U.P.C.H. Act of 1953 to broaden the scope of the Act so as to read in the inherent powers or the power of substantive review, in proceedings governed by the U.P.C.H. Act of 1953. Moreover, this Court does not doubt the correctness of the reasoning of another Bench of co-equal strength in Smt. Anar Kali (supra) rather this Court is in agreement with it.

110. It will be pertinent to put forward that Courts do not legislate but only interpret and this does not permit the Court to read something which is not present in the Act, unless it is a case of casus omissus, which it is not. The Apex Court in State of Jharkhand v. Govind Singh, (2005) 10 SCC 437 in Para 16 to 22 held as under: -

16. It is true that this Court in interpreting the Constitution enjoys a freedom which is not available in interpreting a statute and, therefore, it will be useful at this stage to reproduce what Lord Diplock said in Duport Steels Ltd. v. Sirs [(1980) 1 All ER 529 : (1980) 1 WLR 142] (All ER at p. 542c-d):

"It endangers continued public confidence in the political impartiality of the judiciary, which is essential to the continuance of the rule of law, if judges, under the guise of interpretation, provide their own preferred amendments to statutes which experience of their operation has shown to have had consequences that members of the court before whom the matter comes consider to be injurious to the public interest."

17. Where, therefore, the "language" is clear, the intention of the legislature is to be gathered from the language used. What is to be borne in mind is as to what has been said in the statute as also what has not been said. A construction which requires, for its support, addition or substitution of words or which results in rejection of words, has to be avoided, unless it is covered by the rule of exception, including that of necessity, which is not the case here. [See Gwalior Rayons Silk Mfg. (Wvg.) Co. Ltd. v. Custodian of Vested Forests [1990 Supp SCC 785 : AIR 1990 SC 1747] (AIR at p. 1752), Shyam Kishori Devi v. Patna Municipal Corpn. [AIR 1966 SC 1678 : (1966) 3 SCR 466] (AIR at p. 1682) and A.R. Antulay v. Ramdas Srinivas Nayak [(1984) 2 SCC 500 : 1984 SCC (Cri) 277] (SCC at pp. 518, 519).] Indeed, the court cannot reframe the legislation as it has no power to legislate. [See State of Kerala v. Mathai Verghese [(1986) 4 SCC 746 : 1987 SCC (Cri) 3] (SCC at p. 749) and Union of India v. Deoki Nandan Aggarwal [1992 Supp (1) SCC 323 : 1992 SCC (L&S) 248 : (1992) 19 ATC 219 : AIR 1992 SC 96] (AIR at p. 101).]

18. The question is not what may be supposed and has been intended but what has been said. "Statutes should be construed, not as theorems of Euclid", Judge Learned Hand said, "but words must be construed with some imagination of the purposes which lie behind them". (See Lenigh Valley Coal Co. v. Yensavage [218 FR 547].) The view was reiterated in Union of India v. Filip Tiago De Gama of Vedem Vasco De Gama [(1990) 1 SCC 277 : AIR 1990 SC 981] (SCC p. 284, para 16).

19. In D.R. Venkatachalam v. Dy. Transport Commr. [(1977) 2 SCC 273 : AIR 1977 SC 842] it was observed that courts must avoid the danger of a priori determination of the meaning of a provision based on their own preconceived notions of ideological structure or scheme into which the provision to be interpreted is somewhat fitted. They are not entitled to usurp legislative function under the disguise of interpretation.

20. While interpreting a provision the court only interprets the law and cannot legislate it. If a provision of law is misused and subjected to the abuse of process of law, it is for the legislature to amend, modify or repeal it, if deemed necessary. (See CST v. Popular Trading Co. [(2000) 5 SCC 511 : AIR 2000 SC 1578]) The legislative casus omissus cannot be supplied by judicial interpretative process.

21. Two principles of construction - one relating to casus omissus and the other in regard to reading the statute as a whole - appear to be well settled. Under the first principle a casus omissus cannot be supplied by the court except in the case of clear necessity and when reason for it is found in the four corners of the statute itself but at the same time a casus omissus should not be readily inferred and for that purpose all the parts of a statute or section must be construed together and every clause of a section should be construed with reference to the context and other clauses thereof so that the construction to be put on a particular provision makes a consistent enactment of the whole statute. This would be more so if literal construction of a particular clause leads to manifestly absurd or anomalous results which could not have been intended by the legislature. "An intention to produce an unreasonable result", said Danckwerts, L.J. in Artemiou v. Procopiou [(1966) 1 QB 878 : (1965) 3 All ER 539 : (1965) 3 WLR 1011 (CA)] (All ER p. 544 I), "is not to be imputed to a statute if there is some other construction available". Where to apply words literally would "defeat the obvious intention of the legislation and produce a wholly unreasonable result", we must "do some violence to the words" and so achieve that obvious intention and produce a rational construction. [Per Lord Reid in Luke v. IRC [1963 AC 557 : (1963) 1 All ER 655 : (1963) 2 WLR 559 (HL)] where at AC p. 577 (All ER p. 664 I) he also observed: "This is not a new problem, though our standard of drafting is such that it rarely emerges."]

22. It is then true that, "when the words of a law extend not to an inconvenience rarely happening, but due to those which often happen, it is good reason not to strain the words further than they reach, by saying it is casus omissus, and that the law intended quae frequentius accident". "But", on the other hand, "it is no reason, when the words of a law do enough extend to an inconvenience seldom happening, that they should not extend to it as well as if it happened more frequently, because it happens but seldom". (See Fenton v. Hampton [(1858) 11 Moo PC 347 : 6 WR 341] .) A casus omissus ought not to be created by interpretation, save in some case of strong necessity. Where, however, a casus omissus does really occur, either through the inadvertence of the legislature, or on the principle quod semel aut bis existit praetereunt leges, the rule is that the particular case, thus left unprovided for, must be disposed of according to the law as it existed before such statute - casus omissus et oblivioni datus dispositioni communis juris relinquatur; "a casus omissus", observed Buller, J. in Jones v. Smart [ITR 44 : 99 ER 963] (TR at p. 52 : ER at p. 967), "can in no case be supplied by a court of law, for that would be to make laws"

111. Again, the Apex Court in Lifestyle Equities C.V. v. Amazon Technologies Inc., 2025 SCC OnLine SC 2153 held as under: -

"56. The well-settled principles required to be followed by a court while interpreting a provision of a statute is that the intention of the legislature is primarily to be gathered from the language used, and consequently, a construction which results in rejection of words as meaningless, has to be avoided. It is not a sound principle of construction to brush aside words or phrase in a statute as being inapposite surplusage if they can have appropriate application in circumstances conceivably within the contemplation of the statute. In interpretation of statutes, the courts always presume that the legislature inserted every part thereof for a purpose and the legislative intention is that every part of the statute should have effect. The legislature is deemed not to waste its words, or to say anything in vain. [See: Mithilesh Singh v. Union of India, (2003) 3 SCC 309].

57. Similarly, in the case of Padma Sundara Rao v. State of Tamil Nadu, (2002) 3 SCC 533, it was held that two principles of construction - one relating to casus omissus, and the other in regard to reading the statute as a whole appear to be well-settled. Under the first principle, the rule of casus omissus cannot be supplied by the court except in the case of clear necessity. The rule of casus omissus should not be readily inferred and for that purpose, all the parts of a statute or section must be construed together and every clause of a section should be construed with reference to the context of the statute and other clauses thereof, so that the construction to be put on a particular provision makes a consistent enactment of the whole statute. This would be more so, if literal construction of a particular clause leads to manifestly absurd or anomalous results, which could not have been intended by the legislature. Therefore, if the language is plain, there is no necessity of taking aid of external aid for gathering the real intention of the legislature.

58. Over and above, we should bear in mind the following well-known rule of interpretation of the statute reiterated by this Court in the case of Union of India v. Deoki Nandan Agarwal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 323:

"It is not the duty of the Court either to enlarge the scope of the legislation or the intention of the Legislature when the language of the provision is plain and unambiguous. The Court cannot rewrite, recast or reframe the legislation for the very good reason that it has no power to legislate. The power to legislate has not been conferred on the Courts. The Court cannot add words to a statute or read words into it which are not there. Assuming there is a defect or an omission in the words used by the Legislature the Court could not go to its aid to correct or make up the deficiency. Courts shall decide what the law is and not what it should be. The Court of course adopts a construction which will carry out the obvious intention of the Legislature but could not legislate itself. But to invoke judicial activism to set at naught legislative judgment is subversive of the Constitutional harmony and comity of instrumentalities."

(Emphasis supplied by the Supreme Court)

112. Thus, keeping the aforesaid principles in mind, this Court finds that the submission of the learned Additional Advocate General for the State and respondents regarding the power of reference being in the nature of the inherent powers does not find favour with this Court, as it does not align with the scheme of the Act. Even otherwise, if at all, such powers were to be conferred, then while exhaustive amendments were introduced in the year 1962 instead of incorporating a power of reference which in a sense is a limited discretionary power and if the legislature wanted to confer inherent powers, the same could have been done by explicit language but it has not been done.

113. Moreover, if the legislature wanted to confer inherent powers and was of the view that it should be titled as 'reference', then there was no need to provide in Section 48(2) that the Deputy Director of Consolidation would exercise powers under Section 48(1) while dealing with a revision. As noticed above, the Full Bench of this Court in Smt. Anar Kali (supra) has clearly held that the Director of Consolidation cannot exercise inherent powers to review in exercise of its power under Section 48(1) of the Act. Thus for all the aforesaid reasons, it clearly reflects the intention of the legislature that it did not intend to confer inherent powers by introducing the power of reference.

114. Now if the power of reference is not akin to inherent powers and the word 'reference' has not been defined under the Act, it makes the task of this Court more arduous to interpret the scope of reference. If sub-section (3) of Section 48 of the U.P.C.H. Act is examined, it would indicate clearly that the power to refer a matter in reference to the Deputy Director of Consolidation can only emanate and is vested with an authority subordinate to the Deputy Director of Consolidation and authority subordinate to the Deputy Director of Consolidation are the Settlement Officer of Consolidation or Consolidation Officer or Assistant Consolidation Officer.

115. It would also be pertinent to notice that there is a clear distinction between the exercise of powers by an authority in revision and in appeal, and these powers are in contrast to the power of reference.

116. The power of reference cannot be confused nor it can be treated as a mechanism to allow the subordinate authority to reopen or review its own decision, which power has not been conferred by the Act. Thus, what cannot be done directly cannot be done indirectly either.

117. The Full Bench of this Court in Smt. Anar Kali (supra) categorically held that the consolidation authorities do not have any inherent power to review or recall their own final orders on merits. In contradistinction, the Act provides the powers of correction in Section 42-A which on a plain reading of the said provision is referable to the Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer of Consolidation, who may correct a clerical or arithmetical error apparent on the face of the record in any document prepared under any provision of this Act.

118. It is conspicuous to note that Section 42-A does not refer to the Deputy Director of Consolidation and it only refers to the Consolidation Officer and the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. However, noticing Section 44-A of the Act, it would reveal that any power which can be exercised by a subordinate authority can also be exercised by the superior authority. Thus, by necessary implication even if any such clerical or arithmetical error which falls within the domain of Section 42-A, which otherwise can be exercised only by the Consolidation Officer and the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, can also be exercised by the Director of Consolidation by referring to Section 44-A, as has been held by the Full Bench of this Court in Smt. Anar Kali (supra).

119. It is too well settled to be disputed that what cannot be done directly cannot be done indirectly also. This proposition has been laid down in Taylor v. Taylor: (1876) 1 ChD 426 and it has been followed and accepted as an undisputed postulate till today. The Apex Court in Dharani Sugars & Chemicals Ltd. v. Union of India: (2019) 5 SCC 480 in Para 54 and 55 has held as under: -

“54. The corollary of this is that prior to the enactment of Section 35-AA, it may have been possible to say that when it comes to RBI issuing directions to a banking company to initiate insolvency resolution process under the Insolvency Code, it could have issued such directions under Sections 21 and 35-A. But after Section 35-AA, it may do so only within the four corners of Section 35-AA.

55. The matter can be looked at from a slightly different angle. If a statute confers power to do a particular act and has laid down the method in which that power has to be exercised, it necessarily prohibits the doing of the act in any manner other than that which has been prescribed. This is the well-known rule in Taylor v. Taylor

[Taylor v. Taylor, (1875) LR 1 Ch D 426], which has been repeatedly followed by this Court. Thus, in State of U.P. v. Singhara Singh [State of U.P. v. Singhara Singh, (1964) 4 SCR 485 : AIR 1964 SC 358 : (1964) 1 Cri LJ 263 (2)] , this Court held: (Singhara Singh case [State of U.P. v. Singhara Singh, (1964) 4 SCR 485 : AIR 1964 SC 358 : (1964) 1 Cri LJ 263 (2)] , SCR pp. 490-91 : AIR p. 361, para 8)

“8. The rule adopted in Taylor v. Taylor [Taylor v. Taylor, (1875) LR 1 Ch D 426] , Ch D at p. 431 is well recognised and is founded on sound principle. Its result is that if a statute has conferred a power to do an act and has laid down the method in which that power has to be exercised, it necessarily prohibits the doing of the act in any other manner than that which has been prescribed. The principle behind the rule is that if this were not so, the statutory provision might as well not have been enacted. A magistrate, therefore, cannot in the course of investigation record a confession except in the manner laid down in Section 164. The power to record the confession had obviously been given so that the confession might be proved by the record of it made in the manner laid down. If proof of the confession by other means was permissible, the whole provision of Section 164 including the safeguards contained in it for the protection of accused persons would be rendered nugatory. The section, therefore, by conferring on magistrates the power to record statements or confessions, by necessary implication, prohibited a magistrate from giving oral evidence of the statements or confessions made to him.” ...

120. Thus, if any of the subordinate authorities i.e. the Consolidation Officer or the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, after allowing the parties concerned an opportunity of being heard, can refer the record of any case or proceedings to the Deputy Director of Consolidation, then it necessarily implies that the records of 'any case' or 'proceedings' as referred to the Deputy Director of Consolidation for action under sub-section (1) would relate to proceedings which are live, in the sense that it relates to such issues which occur when the consolidation operations are in currency.

121. It may also be extremely pertinent to note that none of the adjudicating authorities under the U.P.C.H. Act 1953 have been granted the power to review its orders. Thus, in light of the above discussions, it is clear that by resorting to reference, the authorities cannot exercise inherent power or the power of review to achieve something indirectly, which they are prohibited to do directly.

122. Now it is to be seen as to whether the power of reference is corrective or adjudicatory and what can be circumstance in which such power of reference may be exercised.

123. Taking the matter forward, it would reveal that during the currency of the consolidation operations in the village as noticed in the earlier part of the judgment, in order to compact the land holding and while preparing a provisional scheme of consolidation, the consolidation authorities are required to fulfill conditions enumerated in Section 19 of the Act. Moreover, Rules 46 to 54-A of the Rules of 1954 detail the manner in which the consolidation scheme is prepared. Further details in this regard and its step by step working has been supplemented by executive instructions which have been compiled and consolidated in the U. P. Consolidation Manual.

124. The provisional consolidation scheme is subject to the disposal of objections and is confirmed under section 23 of the Act. It is from this point onwards that the enforcement of the scheme commences, which is part of Chapter IV of the Act i.e. from Section 24 till Section 33.

125. It will be of extreme importance to note certain significant instances as illustration where a reference can be made to understand the scope of reference. While the provisional scheme of consolidation is prepared the authorities have the right to determine the valuation of plots, including the right to make deductions for contribution made for public purposes, compensation to be determined for trees, wells and other improvements which are held by one but are allotted to other tenure holder. This exercise may not be directly pitted against two individuals but it can cause grievances for the tenure holders against the authorities.

126. There can be cases giving rise to grievances, when provisions are made for Chak Roads and Chak Guls and matters relating to mutual exchange of Chak between tenure holders.

127. There can be cases arising out of preparation of records and entries made therein. These are sensitive matters, as they are the basis of the rights and value relating to the holdings of the tenure holders. Incorrect entries can have repercussions. Needless to say that these entries are all made by the Authorities, which if not made correctly, then it may affect a tenure holder seriously, as during consolidation operations, the original plot numbers also change including the area and in this regard CH Form 41 and CH Form 45 assumes importance.

128. Moreover, the consolidation proceedings involve compacting the land holdings which may necessarily entail re-location of tenure holder and this also has an impact over the agricultural yields. Though the Act envisages that land holder is re-located at a place having the value of land which the land holder originally possessed but it may necessarily not appease all of the tenure holders.

129. There can be cases, where while dealing with a dispute between two land holders relating to value of land holdings etc., a view is taken by an Authority at some stage. However, later in respect of different land holders, some additional issues crop up before the Authorities and they may wish to revisit this earlier decision and of course in absence of any power to re-visit, such Consolidation Authorities can only seek the guidance of the highest authority and in order to do so, prepare a reference and forward the same to the DDC who then can resolve the dispute, after hearing the parties.

130. In another scenario, even when while preparing C.H. Forms with the ultimate object of preparing the final records, if any authority i.e. Consolidation Officer or the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, comes across any discrepancy or error which may not fall within the sense of clerical or arithmetical error as envisaged in Section 42-A, then in such circumstances the Consolidation Officer and the Settlement Officer of Consolidation considering the gravity and the extent of the error or discrepancy which may impact surrounding tenure holders, after hearing the affected parties concerned, can refer the matter to the Deputy Director of Consolidation in terms of Section 48(3).

131. It will also be relevant to observe that the disputes between individuals which fall in category of disputes under Sections 9, 9-A, 9-B and 9-C of the Act are decided and prior to the final Scheme of consolidation, if disputes arise or there are grievances, they too are to be decided, but all of this is done before the final records are prepared.

132. Knowing that the Consolidation Officers and the Settlement Officers of Consolidations do not have the power to review, while preparing several documents and C.H. Form which form part of record prepared under the Consolidation operations, they may come across orders passed on the judicial side, which may require to be reconciled and it may impact more than one tenure holder. In such a case it is not within the jurisdiction of the Consolidation Officer or the Settlement Officer of Consolidation to either adjudicate or review its order but in order to give a complete and a comprehensive meaning to the scheme of consolidation and to iron out creases, including giving affect to orders passed on judicial side and to avoid any interpolation and manipulation, it may require the indulgence of the Deputy Director of Consolidation, who may receive the reference and then again after affording full opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned, decide the reference and while deciding such a reference, it can exercise all the powers as envisaged in sub section (1) of Section 48 of the Act. These are few instances which have been noticed illustrations and they by no means are exhaustive.

133. Thus, when the scheme of consolidation is prepared, it should as far as possible, be error free and accommodate as far as possible all tenure holders keeping the principles of section 19 of the Act in mind which in turn leads to preparation of the final records which have sanctity and finality subject to the extent as provided in Section 27 of the Act.

134. This Court is of the opinion that the need for reference, as provided in the Act of 1953, emerges from the need to ensure minimal discrepancy and error free preparation of records, keeping in mind the large scale of operations, the dynamics involved in preparing a consolidation scheme which has the impact of displacing tenure holder, compacting their tenure holdings and making provisions for public utility lands, amongst others, which go a long way in aligning the village area towards future developments. Such large scale exercise culminates in preparation of new records, in consonance with the scheme of Consolidation.

135. Thus, at any stage where any discrepancy is discovered or some right is affected, after the adjudicating stage relating to an aggrieved party or it is noticed by the authority, while discharging their duties and to ensure that this correction or discrepancy does not become a tool in the hands of any party or authority to oppress any tenure holder, hence this power of reference and can be exercised. While doing so, the power of the Consolidation Officer and the Settlement Officer of Consolidation is curtailed, only to refer the same to the highest authority i.e. Deputy Director of Consolidation, who after hearing the parties, can do complete justice by invoking its power as in Section 48(1) of the Act.

136. In light of the aforesaid discussions, the scope of reference can be understood as under:-

(i) Disputes between parties which fall in categories mentioned in Sections 9-A, 9-B and 9-C, Section 12 and 21 of the Act have a clear trajectory i.e. they are filed before the CO and decided after affording an opportunity to lead evidence and hearing by the CO, akin to an adversarial litigation. This order of CO is appealable before the SOC in terms of Section 11 and if still dissatisfied, the aggrieved party can further invoke the provision of Revision before the DDC in terms of Section 48(1) of the Act. The orders passed under the aforesaid sections cannot be ordinarily varied, modified or changed by taking recourse to a reference.

(ii) However, there may still be disputes, which may not clearly be within the parameters of Sections 9-A, 9-B or 9-C or Sections 12 and 21 of the Act, but they may arise while attempting to give effect to the Scheme of Consolidation. These disputes may be on account of any error in preparation of records or anomalies, difficulties and disputes which may occur on the ground level while implementing the Scheme on the spot. Such disputes come to the notice of the CO and SOC, who being the first responders in terms of the Act, take note, hear the parties and where some genuine grievance occurs or surfaces, they are required to refer the same to the highest authority i.e. the DDC.

(iii) Since, the CO and SOC are not empowered to take notice and decide any matter (as in dispute) other than as mentioned in the Act in terms of Sections 9-A, 9-B, 9-C and Sections 12 and 21 of the Act, hence, while executing or implementing or correcting the records or considering the scheme of consolidation, in case any dispute, discrepancy or anomaly or difficulty arises, it can be referred to the DDC under the powers of reference and while deciding a reference, the DDC may invoke all such powers as are envisaged in Section 48(1) of the Act to do complete justice and ensure that the Scheme is implemented in terms of the principles mentioned in Section 19 of the Act and this would also go a long way in preparation of the final and new records, including the village maps, which as far as possible be error free so that they become the final records to be handed over to the Collector in terms of Section 27 of the Act.

(iv) Thus, the reference though may arise out of the corrective and executory jurisdiction but it partakes the nature of adjudication as the Section 48(3) of the Act itself provides for a two tiered hearing, before two authorities, at two different stages. Moreover, the instances noticed hereinabove are only illustrative and not exhaustive.

137. Thus, the power of reference as discussed above may be born out of corrective jurisdiction but it is not merely and only corrective (as seen in contra distinction to corrections which are envisaged in Section 42-A) in nature but it matures through a decision making process which makes it adjudicatory in nature and it has the effect of binding the parties and also makes it subject to challenge like any order of the DDC passed in its revisional jurisdiction.

138. Thus, the question no.1 is answered as above.

VIII ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSIONS OF QUESTIONS NO. 2 AND 3:-

139. To recapitulate the terms of questions no.2 and 3 and to put its analysis in a proper perspective, it will be appropriate to reproduce the said questions here.

(ii) Whether the power of reference can be exercised by the Deputy Director of Consolidation after the notification is made in terms of Section 52 (1) of the Act;

(iii) Whether the reference proceedings can be said to be saved in terms of Section 52 (2) of the Act.”

140. The answer to the aforesaid two questions primarily depends on the interpretation given to sub Section 1 and 2 of Section 52 of the Act. For clarity, Section 52 of the Act is being reproduced hereinafter: -

“52. Close of consolidation operations. - (1) As soon as may be, after fresh maps and records have been prepared under sub-section (1) of Section 27, the State Government shall issue a notification in the Official Gazette that the consolidation operations have been closed in the [unit and the village or villages forming a part of the unit] shall then cease to be under consolidation operations :

Provided that the issue of the notification under this section shall not affect the powers of the State Government to fix, distribute and record the cost of operations under this Act.

(1-A) The notification issued under sub-section (1) shall be published also in a daily newspaper having circulation in the area and in such other manner as may be considered proper.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), any order passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction in cases of writs filed under the provisions of the Constitution of India, or in cases of proceedings pending under this Act on the date of issue of the notification under sub-section (1), shall be given effect to by such authorities, as may be prescribed and the consolidation operation shall, for that purpose, be deemed to have not been closed.

(3) Where the allotment or lease of any land made before the Consolidation Scheme becomes final under Section 23, is cancelled by an order under sub-section (4) of Section 198 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (U.P. Act No. 1 of 1951) and such order becomes final, then notwithstanding anything contained in the provisions of this Act, such order shall be given effect to by such authorities, as may be prescribed, in the following manner, and the consolidation operation shall, for that purpose, be deemed to have not closed, namely –

(a) the value of the land which was the subject-matter of such allotment or lease shall first be ascertained in the manner prescribed;

(b) the value referred to in clause (a) shall be deducted from the total value of land allotted to the tenure-holder concerned during consolidation proceedings;

(c) the tenure-holder shall be entitled, during consolidation proceeding, to land equivalent in valuation to the said land.”

141. It is apparent from a bare reading of Section 52, that it is the State Government which issues a notification in the official gazette that the consolidation operations are closed in a unit and the village or the villages forming a part of the unit.

142. It is also imperative to note that sub-section (1) of Section 52 of the Act mentions that as soon as may be, after fresh maps and records have been prepared under sub-section (1) of Section 27 of the Act, thereafter the State Government would issue a notification.

143. It will also be relevant to notice that the words incorporated in sub-section (1) of Section 27 of the Act, more specifically, ‘under Sub Section 1 of Section 27’, were introduced by the amending Act No. 55 of 1976 which was enforced w.e.f. 18.11.1976.

144. Section 52 (2) of the Act starts with a non-obstante clause and provides that notwithstanding anything contained in Sub Section 1, any order passed by a court of competent jurisdiction in cases of writs filed under the provisions of the Constitution of India or in cases or proceedings pending under this Act on the date of the issue of notification under sub-section (1) shall be given effect to by such Authorities as may be prescribed and the consolidation operations shall for that purpose be deemed to have not been closed.

145. It appears from a bare perusal of the aforesaid sub-section (2), that it has 3 components and in order to understand the same clearly, it has been split as under: -

(i) It has a non-obstante clause and therefore it is independent of sub-section (1) of Section 52 and it creates an exception to the general rule as provided in Sub Section (1);

(ii) The aforesaid exception carved out by this sub-section (2) is intended to have an over-riding effect on sub-section (1) and is relatable to (a) cases which are pending before the Constitutional Courts, which obviously refers to the High Court and the Supreme Court and (b) cases or proceedings which are pending before the Consolidation Authorities and

(iii) By introducing a deeming provision, it will be assumed that despite the notification having been made in terms of sub-section (1), which otherwise clearly indicates that the consolidation operations have come to an end, yet because of the said legal fiction, it would be taken that the consolidation operations have not been closed.

146. A perusal of sub-section (1) of Section 52 of the Act indicates the stage when it would be found expedient for the State Government to issue a notification is when the fresh maps and records have been prepared in terms of Section 27 (1) of the Act.

147. Before proceeding further, it will also be relevant to notice Section 49 of the Act, in order to see the interplay of the provisions, hence Section 49 of the Act is also being reproduced hereinafter for ready reference: -

“49. Bar to Civil Court jurisdiction. - Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law Courts for the time being in force, the declaration and adjudication of rights of tenure-holder in respect of land, lying in an area, for which a notification has been issued under sub-section (2) of Section 4, or adjudication of any other right arising out of consolidation proceedings and in regard to which a proceeding could or ought to have been taken under this Act, shall be done in accordance with the provisions of this Act and no Civil or Revenue Court shall entertain any suit or proceeding with respect to rights in such land or with respect to any other matters for which a proceeding could or ought to have been taken under this Act :

Provided that nothing in this section shall preclude the Assistant Collector from initiating proceedings under Section 122-B of the U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950(U.P. Act No. 1 of 1951) in respect of any land, possession over which has been delivered or deemed to be delivered to a Gram Sabha under or in accordance with the provisions of this Act.”

148. It will be relevant to state that during consolidation operations, the power of Revenue Courts or other Courts where any matter is pending is suspended. After de-notification, the Revenue and other Courts regain their jurisdiction. Thus, it can safely be stated that during the consolidation operations, there is an eclipse over the jurisdiction of the Revenue and the Civil Courts and the moment the village is de-notified, the eclipse vanishes. The Apex Court in Prashant Singh v. Meena: (2024) 6 SCC 818 has held as under: -

10. On a plain reading, we find that Section 49 of the 1953 Act contemplates bar to the jurisdiction of the civil or Revenue Court for the grant of declaration or adjudication of rights of tenure-holders in respect of land lying in an area for which consolidation proceedings have commenced. Section 49 of the 1953 Act is a provision of transitory suspension of jurisdiction of civil or Revenue Court only during the period when consolidation proceedings are pending. Notably, such suspension of jurisdiction of these Courts through the non obstante provision is only with respect to the declaration and adjudication of rights of tenure-holders. In other words, unless a person is a pre-existing tenure-holder, Section 49 does not come into operation.”

149. Certain postulates which can admit of no two views in law may be considered: -

(a) The land revenue records are maintained under the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901. The substantive rights of the tenure holders are governed by the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 and with the advent of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 both the aforesaid Acts have been repealed, however, from the date of enforcement of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 i.e. from 11.02.2016, the rights henceforth whether they relate to record keeping or the substantive right are governed by the Code of 2006.

(b) The Collector of the District is the interface of the Government and he is the nominated officer of the Government responsible for preparation and maintenance of all revenue records.

(c) Section 14 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 provides that the State Government shall appoint in each District an Officer who shall be the Collector of the District and who shall throughout his district exercises all the powers and discharge all the duties conferred and imposed on a Collector by this Act or for any law for the time being in force.

(d) In continuation, Section 28 of the Act of 1901 specifically confers a power on the Collector to maintain the map and field book of each village in his district and he is also to record any changes in the boundaries of each village and correct any errors which are shown to have been made in such map or field book.

(e) Similarly, the Collector in terms of Section 31 of the Act of 1901 is to prepare and maintain in the prescribed form a list of all villages and to show there in the prescribed manner the areas (i) liable to fluvial action, (ii) having precarious cultivation and (iii) the revenue whereof either wholly or in part being released, compounded, redeemed or assigned. Such registers are to be revised every five years in accordance with the rules.

(f) Section 33 of the Act of 1901 relates to the Annual Register and it confers a duty on the Collector to maintain the record of rights. Apart from the above, Section 29(3) empowers the Collector to erect proper boundary marks on such village or fields or to repair or renew such boundary marks as prescribed, to be lawfully erected.

(g) The Collector apart from above also exercises quasi-judicial functions in deciding matters relating to mutation arising out of succession or transfer which are disputed or is in contravention of the provisions of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950.

150. There are various other duties of the Collector but the point which is being noticed is that the Collector is the single most important officer responsible for preparation of record of rights, field book and annual registers and he is also the custodian of the said records.

151. At this stage, it will be worth while to notice the definitions of Director of Consolidation, Deputy Director of Consolidation and District Deputy Director of Consolidation, as mentioned in Section 3(4), 3(4-A) and 3(4-B) of the Act, which are being reproduced hereinafter: -

3(4) “Director of Consolidation” means the person appointed as such by the State Government to exercise the powers and perform the duties of the Director of Consolidation under this Act or the rules made thereunder and shall include and Additional Director of Consolidation and a Joint Director of Consolidation;

(4-A) “Deputy Director of Consolidation” means a person appointed as such by the State Government to exercise such powers and perform such duties of the Director of Consolidation as may be delegated to him by the State Government and shall include a District Deputy Director of Consolidation and Assistant Director of Consolidation;

(4-B) “District Deputy Director of Consolidation” means a person who is for the time being the Collector of the District;”

152. Upon a bare reading of the aforesaid definition, it would be trite to state that prior to commencement of the consolidation operations, the Collector of the District exercises powers under the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 (and after the advent of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, under the Code of 2006), as the case may be.

153. However, when a notification is issued by the State Government under Section 4 of the Act then it becomes lawful for any officer or Authority, who may be empowered in this behalf by the District Deputy Director of Consolidation, to enter upon and survey, in connection with rectangulation or otherwise, and to take levels of any land in such area, to fix pillars in connection with rectangulation and also to do all acts necessary to ascertain the suitability of the area for consolidation operations. This officer can be the District Deputy Director of Consolidation [who is the Collector as per Section 3 (4-B)], or his delegate.

154. It is in this context that upon the commencement of consolidation operations, the powers of the Collector cease in respect of the villages or units which are placed under consolidation in terms of Section 4 notification and it comes within the ambit of the District Deputy Director of Consolidation and the Deputy Director of Consolidation.

155. Now in this regard, a reading of Section 27 of the Act reveals that in terms of Section 27(1) of the Act as soon as the final consolidation scheme comes into force and the District Deputy Director of Consolidation (which in terms of the definition is the Collector) causes to be prepared for each village, a new map, field book and record of rights in respect of the consolidation area (these are the same records which under the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 and after its repeal in terms of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 was maintained by the Collector).

156. Once, this stage is reached in terms of Section 52(1), it is conveyed by the District Deputy Director of Consolidation to the State Government that the village is ready to be de-notified and after receiving such input and being satisfied, the State Government issues the notification which has the effect of closing the consolidation operations.

157. Before proceeding any further, it will also be pertinent to notice that Section 52 of the Act was quite differently worded in the original Act of 1953 and post amendment Section 52 has undergone a major change.

158. In order to appreciate, it will be worth while to refer to the original Section 27 as it was incorporated in the Act of 1953 prior to amendment and the same reads as under: -

Unamended Section 27: -

“27. New Revenue Records. -

(1) As soon as may be after the consolidation Scheme has come into force the State Government shall issue a notification under Section 48 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 in the official Gazette for preparation of a new village map, Khasra and record of rights, in respect of each village included in the consolidation operations and thereupon fresh records shall be prepared in accordance with the provisions of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901.

(2) All entries in the records of rights prepared in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) shall be final and conclusive.”

Now Amended Section 27:-

27. New revenue records□ (1) As soon as may be, after the final consolidation scheme has come into force, the District Deputy Director of Consolidation shall cause to be prepared for each village a new map filed-book and record-of rights in respect of the Consolidaiton area, on the basis of the entries in the map, as corrected under section 7, the Khasra Chakbandi, the annual register prepared under section 10 and the allotment orders as finally made and issued in accordance with the provisions of this Act. The provisions of the U. P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 shall subject to such modification as may be prescribed, be followed in the preparation of the map and records.

(2) All entries in the record-of rights prepared in accordance with the provision of sub-section (1) shall be presumed to be true until the contrary is proved.

(3) After the issue of notification under section 52, the Collector shall, instead of the map, field-book and record-of-rights previously maintained by him maintain the map, field-book and record-of rights prepared in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) and the provisions of the U. P. Land Revenue Act, 1901, relating to the maintenance and correction of such map, field book and record-of-rights shall mutatis mutandis apply.”

159. Taking a view of Section 27 as incorporated in the original Act of 1953 would indicate that sub-section (2) clearly states that all entries in the record of rights prepared under sub-section (1) shall be final and conclusive whereas after amendment brought in by the U.P. Act No. 8 of 1963 all entries in the records of right prepared in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) have been made presumptive and are presumed to be true until the contrary is proved. Moreover, by the same amending Act 8 of 1963, sub-section (3) has been introduced in Section 27 which was not present in the original Act of 1953.

160. The impact of Section 52 of the Act prior to the amendment in 1963, was that once the consolidation operations were completed in the sense that new records had been prepared, then the entries made therein had a seal of finality i.e., they were final without any exception.

161. In such circumstances, if at all, any error occurred then it was not open for any Authority to examine the same and it could be only the Consolidation Authorities alone who could undo the error.

Illustratively, if this situation subsisted i.e. to say the finality given in the unamended original Act persisted then perhaps there could be a situation where even after closure of consolidation operations, the powers could be held to have been retained by the Consolidation Authorities to undo a wrong for an error which occurred as no other Authority would have had the right to correct or undo a wrong. Moreover, in view of the unamended provision it would operate as a complete bar for any Authority to examine or re-open the said issue i.e. whether it be the Revenue Court or the Civil Courts and Section 49 of the Act would come into operation.

162. However after Section 27 was amended by the U.P. Act 8 of 1963 and it is this very same amending Act by which inter alia Sections 48, 52 of the Act were also amended.

163. Now, upon considering the impact of the amended provisions as noticed above it would lean towards the reasoning that the new records prepared in terms of Section 27 would be taken to be correct and true having a presumptive value unless the contrary is proved. As noticed above, sub-section (3) has been appended to Section 27 by the amendment No. 8 of 1963 and the legislature has consciously used the words as “After the issue of notification under Section 52, the Collector shall, instead of the map, field-book and record of rights previously maintained by him, maintain the map, field-book and record of rights prepared in accordance with the provisions of Sub-section (1) and the provisions of Sections 28 and 33 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 shall apply to the maintenance of such map, field book and record of rights, as the case may be.” meaning thereby that once the notification of closure of consolidation has been made in terms of Section 52 and the Collector, who otherwise till such time the consolidation operations were in force is known as the District Deputy Director of Consolidation, would still retain the right to examine the records, but now in terms of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 (After its repeal in terms of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006) as Collector of the District.

164. The position as obtained in law would be that prior to the amendment introduced in the year 1963, the entries in the new revenue records prepared under Section 27 of the Act would attain finality without any exception and, therefore, there could have been some consideration for the submission that the consolidation authorities may have some residuary right to correct or rectify its records even though the notification under Section 52(1) may have been issued.

165. However, after the amendment, the position is clearly amplified, that the entries in the new revenue records are now made presumptive unless the contrary is proved and, moreover, after the notification under Section 52, the Collector would continue to have the right to examine and maintain the records, i.e. to say being the Collector, he continues to discharge his functions and duties primarily of keeping the revenue records error free and in case of any error discovered, the Collector would still have the right to correct the same in terms of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 and after its repeal in terms of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006.

166. It is for this very same reason and by the amending Act No. 8 of 1963 that Sections 217, 48 and 52(1) also came to be amended. Thus, when the new records are prepared in terms of Section 27(1), the stage arrive, for advising the State Government to issue a notification under Section 52(1) for closure of the consolidation proceedings.

167. Moving further and in accordance with the Scheme of the Act, it would indicate that the exception which is saved in terms of sub-section (2) of Section 52 are those proceedings which on the date of the notification made under sub-section (1) of Section 52 are either engaging attention of the Constitutional Courts i.e. the High Court and the Hon^{ble} Supreme Court or those proceedings which on the date of the said notification are pending before any of the adjudicating authorities under the U.P. C.H. Act i.e. Consolidation Officer, Settlement Officer of Consolidation or the Deputy Director of Consolidation, as the case may be.

168. Section 52 (2) does not only contain a non-obstante clause but it also has a deeming effect and thus it is to be given a strict meaning, as deeming provision cannot be liberally construed and it does not permit the Court to read something into the provision which is not envisaged as that would not only violate the provision but would also run contrary to the scheme of the Act and rob it of its finality.

169. The scope of a deeming provision has been considered by the Apex Court in State of Punjab v. Davinder Singh (2025) 1 SCC 1, Para-115 to 117 read as under: -

“(b) Scope of deeming fiction

115. The use of the phrase “deemed to be” is not conclusive of a legal fiction. [See Consolidated Coffee Ltd. v. Coffee Board, (1980) 3 SCC 358, paras 11,

12; Bhuwarka Steel Industries Ltd. v. Union of India, (2017) 5 SCC 598, paras 36, 37, 43, 44] The word deemed is used for many purposes, such as for the artificial construction of a word and to clarify uncertain constructions, or plainly just to mean “regarded as being”. [St. Aubyn v. Attorney General, 1952 AC 15 at p. 53 (HL) (Lord Radcliffe)] A legal fiction is essentially a presumption that certain facts which do not exist in fact, will be treated as real and existing for the purpose of law. Courts have evolved two principles on the operation of legal fictions. The first principle is that a legal fiction must be confined to its “legitimate field”, for the specific purpose for which it was created. [Industrial Supplies (P) Ltd. v. Union of India, (1980) 4 SCC 341, para 25; K. Prabhakaran v. P. Jayarajan, (2005) 1 SCC 754, para 39 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 451; See Bengal Immunity Co. Ltd. v. State of Bihar, (1955) 6 STC 446 : 1955 SCC OnLine SC 2] In Bengal Immunity Co. Ltd. v. State of Bihar (1955) 6 STC 446, a seven-Judge Bench of this Court held that legal fictions are created only for a certain purpose and they must be confined only to that “legitimate field”. In its decision in that case, this Court held that the deeming fiction in the Explanation to Article 286(1)(a), before the Constitution (Sixth Amendment) Act, 1956, (by which a sale was deemed to have taken place in the State where the goods were delivered because of the direct sale) only applied to Article 286(1)(a) and not to Article 286(2). This Court held that the scope of Article 286(1)(a) which barred a State from imposing tax on sales outside the State, was different from the scope of Article 286(2) which stated that unless otherwise provided by law, State laws could not tax a sale or purchase which took place in the course of inter-State trade or commerce. [Bengal

Immunity Co. Ltd. v. State of Bihar, (1955) 6 STC 446 : 1955 SCC OnLine SC 2: "... A legal fiction pre-supposes the correctness of the state of facts on which it is based and all the consequences which flow from that state of facts have got to be worked out to their logical extent. But due regard must be had in this behalf to the purpose for which the legal fiction has been created. If the purpose of this legal fiction contained in the Explanation to Article 286(1)(a) is solely for the purpose of sub-clause (a) as expressly stated it would not be legitimate to travel beyond the scope of that purpose and read into the provision any other purpose howsoever attractive it may be. The legal fiction which was created here was only for the purpose of determining whether a particular sale was an outside sale or one which could be deemed to have taken place inside the State and that was the only scope of the provision. It would be an illegitimate extension of the purpose of the legal fiction to say that it was also created for the purpose of converting the inter-State character of the transaction into an intra-State one. This type of conversion could not have been in the contemplation of the Constitution-makers and is contrary to the express purpose for which the legal fiction was created as set out in the Explanation to Article 286(1)(a)." (emphasis supplied)

116. The second principle is that the scope of the legal fiction must be extended to the consequences which "logically" flow from its creation. The opinion of Lord Asquith in East End Dwellings Co. Ltd. v. Finsbury Borough Council [East End Dwellings Co. Ltd. v. Finsbury Borough Council, 1952 AC 109 (HL)] is the leading case for this proposition. The Law Lord observed that the effect of a legal fiction must not be limited to treating facts that do not exist as real but must be expanded to understand the effects and consequences that flow from the legal fiction. [East End Dwellings case, 1952 AC 109 at pp. 132-33 (HL): "If you are bidden to treat an imaginary state of affairs as real, you must surely, unless prohibited from doing so, also imagine as real the consequence and incidents which, if the putative state of affairs had in fact existed, must inevitably have flowed from or accompanied it. ... The statute says that you must imagine a certain state of affairs; it does not say that having done so, you must cause or permit your imagination to boggle when it comes to the inevitable corollaries of that state of affairs." However, a law creating a deeming fiction cannot create presumptions in favour of a legal consequence but only presumptions about facts from which certain legal consequences may follow.

117. In Delhi Cloth & General Mills Co. Ltd. v. CTO [Delhi Cloth & General Mills Co. Ltd. v. CTO, (1976) 3 SCC 443], the constitutional validity of the Kota Municipal Limits (Continued Existence) Validating Act, 1975 was challenged. The Municipalities Act prescribed a mandatory procedure for delimitation of municipalities including a public notice inviting objections. This mandatory procedure was flouted in the inclusion and exclusion of certain villages to and from the Kota municipality in the State. The Validating Act provided that notwithstanding the mandatory provisions of the Municipalities Act, those villages would be deemed to have always continued to exist as they do within the limits of Kota municipality. The Court held that the Validating Act required the deeming of a legal position rather than the deeming of a fact from which such legal consequence would follow. The Bench found that this was not a permissible creation of a fiction.

Article 341 must be interpreted based on the above principles.”

170. In the given circumstance and situations as considered by this Court while answering the question no. (i), if a reference is pending on the date of the notification made under Section 52(1) then such a reference proceeding would stand saved in terms of Section 52(2) of the Act. However, if no such reference was pending on that given date then apparently the same cannot be initiated after the date of the notification under sub-section (1) of Section 52 of the Act as the necessary implication of the said notification is that all the Consolidation Authorities lose their right and any proceeding initiated by them after the date of notification would be rendered without jurisdiction and non-est.

171. Section 48(3) i.e. power of reference may be a different and an independent power but it cannot rise above the power conferred in terms of Section 48 (1) of the Act and for the said reason, if the DDC cannot suo-moto exercise its revisional powers under Section 48 (1) upon de-notification, on the same premise it cannot be held to exercise the power of reference after the de-notification.

172. However, after the de-notification, if any eventuality arises to correct an error and as explained in the preceding paragraphs then the Collector can, upon any discrepancy or error in the new records prepared under the consolidation proceedings being brought to its notice, correct it. This intent is clear as for this very purpose sub-section (2) of Section 27 has been rephrased by the amendment and new sub-section (3) was added to Section 27 by the amending Act of 1963.

173. Thus, any Consolidation Authority, may it be the Consolidation Officer, the Settlement Officer of Consolidation or the Deputy Director of Consolidation, upon the issuance of notification under Section 52(1) lose his jurisdiction, then he cannot be permitted to indirectly exercise the power to take a fresh look at any document or order by taking recourse to a proceeding under the garb of a reference.

174. It will also be relevant to notice that the executive instructions which have been issued by the State Government which have been compiled and forms a part of the Consolidation Manual, if seen, especially Chapter X, it relates to rectification of records. Regulation 200-Ga, Regulation 241-ka and the Explanation appended thereto and moreover considering Chapter XXI which relates to the notification made under Section 52, Regulation 598, 601, 602, 605 and 606, it would clearly indicate the intent of the State is to the fact that the Consolidation Authorities were never intended to be permitted to entertain or initiate any reference proceedings after the notification under Section 52(1) of the Act was issued.

175. This Court for clarity and ease of reference is reproducing Regulations 598, 601, 602, 605 and 606 which forms part of the Chapter XII under the head Notification under Section 52 and is part of the U.P. Consolidation Manual as under: -

६०५- जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम की धारा ५२ (१) के अन्तर्गत ग्रामों की विज्ञप्ति के लिए प्रस्ताव चकबन्दी आयुक्त को, नियम १०० तक के अन्तर्गत राजस्व अभिलेखागार में

चकबन्दी जिल्द जमा करने के पश्चात्, प्रस्तुत किया जाना चाहिए। अधिनियम की धारा ५२ (१) के अन्तर्गत ग्रामों की विज्ञप्ति की तिथि, विज्ञप्ति जारी हो जाने के पश्चात्, राजस्व अभिलेखागार में भी बाद में चकबन्दी जिल्दों में अंकित की जा सकती है।

६०६- जब तक कब्जा बदलने के बाद नये अभिलेख बनाकर चकबन्दी योजना समाप्ति की घोषणा नहीं की जाती है, तब तक अभिलेख सम्बन्धी कार्य जिले के सामान्य राजस्व प्रशासन को सौंपा नहीं जा सकता। फल यह होता है कि कृषकों का भूमि बेचने, खरीदने तथा अन्य कारण से दाखिल-खारिज करवाने और अभिलेखों के उद्धरण आदि लेने के लिए चकबन्दी के अधिकारियों के पास ही दौड़-धूप करनी पड़ती है। जब चकबन्दी कार्य अभिलेख बनाने के स्तर पर पहुंचता है, तो विभिन्न चकबन्दी अधिकारियों व कर्मचारियों की संख्या कम हो जाती है; उनके पुराने मुख्यालय, जो सम्बन्धित ग्रामों के पास ही हुआ करते थे, तोड़ दिए जाते हैं। नये मुख्यालय अधिकतर न केवल ग्रामों से दूर होते हैं, वरन् कार्य के पुनर्गठन के कारण, जो कई बार करना पड़ता है, मुख्यालयों के स्थान बदले भी जाते हैं, जिससे काश्तकारों को यह पता नहीं चलता कि उन्हें किस अधिकारी के पास और कहाँ जाना है। इस व्यर्थ की परेशानी और व्यय से उनमें असंतोष होना स्वाभाविक है। इसके साथ-साथ अभिलेख बनाने और धारा ५२ (१) के अन्तर्गत प्रकाशन में अनावश्यक विलम्ब का एक और भीषण परिणाम हो सकता है। नये अभिलेख बनाने के

लिए जोत चकबन्दी आकार पत्र, २-क से लेकर जोत-चकबन्दी आकार-पत्र २३ तक के सभी अभिलेख लेखपालों आदि के हाथ में रहते हैं। अधिक समय तक अभिलेख उनके पास रहने से उनमें फर्जी इन्दाजों की सम्भावना उत्पन्न होती है। यही परिस्थिति नये माल अभिलेखों की तैयारी उनकी जांच तथा उन्हें तहसील और जिलाधिकारी के अभिलेखागारों में भेजने में विलम्ब से भी उत्पन्न हो सकती है।

अतः यह आवश्यक है कि नये अभिलेख तैयार करके ग्रामों का धारा ५२ (१) के अधीन प्रकाशन, सम्पूर्ण कार्य की समाप्ति के लिए निर्धारित अवधि की समाप्ति के अधिक से अधिक एक मास के अन्दर अवश्य करा दिया जाये। प्रकाशन में अकारण अधिक विलम्ब कर उत्तरदायित्व बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी, चकबन्दी पर हो होगा। चकबन्दी मैनुअल आकार पत्र ५८ के निर्देश पर विवेचनात्मक टिप्पणी में वे उन सभी ग्रामों की संख्या प्रति मास प्रदिष्ट करेंगे, जिनका प्रकाशन, कब्जा बदलने के एक साल या उससे अधिक समय में, धारा ५२ (१) के अन्तर्गत किसी कारण से नहीं हुआ।

६०६-क चकबन्दी योजना के पुष्टीकरण के पश्चात् अन्तिम अभिलेखों की तैयारी तथा धारा ५२ (१) की विज्ञप्ति में अनावश्यक विलम्ब न हो तथा अभिलेखों में जालसाजी की सम्भावना समाप्त हो सके इसके लिए निम्नलिखित निर्देशों का पालन नितांत आवश्यक है:-

(१) सामान्यतः जी कर्मचारी वर्ग प्रस्तावित चकबन्दी योजना की तैयारी के स्तर

तक कार्य करें उसी स्टाफ से अन्तिम अभिलेखों की तैयारी कराकर धारा ५२ की विज्ञप्ति हेतु प्रस्ताव निर्देशालय प्रस्तुत कराया जाय।

(२) सहायक चक्रबन्दी अधिकारी, चकबन्दी अधिकारी तथा बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी उत्तर प्रदेश जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम तथा इसके अन्तर्गत बनी नियमावली व उत्तर प्रदेश चकबन्दी मैनुअल में विभिन्न स्तर पर विभिन्न अभिलेखों की जांच सम्बन्धित अधिकारियों से प्रभावी रूप से तथा अनिवार्य रूप से की जानी चाहिए।

(३) अभिलेखों की तैयारी तथा जांच के सम्बन्ध में प्रशासनिक संयुक्त उप/सहायक संचालक चकबन्दी भी आवश्यकतानुसार जांच करके यह सुनिश्चित करें कि कार्य नियोजित कार्यक्रम के अनुसार, निर्धारित मानक के अनुरूप एवं सही तरीके से किया जा रहा है जो अधिकारी/कर्मचारी कारगुजारी निर्धारित मानक के अनुसार कार्य न करें अथवा जो लक्ष्य पूरा न करें उनके विरुद्ध कड़ी प्रशासनिक कार्यवाही करने अथवा सेवा से पृथक करने पर विचार किया जाना चाहिए तभी कार्य को प्रगति में सुधार सम्भव हो सकेगा। यह सुनिश्चित करना प्रशासनिक अधिकारियों का व्यक्तिगत उत्तरदायित्व होगा।

(४) निर्देशालय पर कार्यरत जोनल अधिकारियों को भी यह आवश्यक है कि वे अपने क्षेत्र के जनपदों में उपरोक्त निदेशों का अनुपालन सुनिश्चित करें और किसी भी कार्य के दोषपूर्ण पाये जाने पर उसे सही करने हेतु समुचित निर्देश एवं मार्ग दर्शन देकर दोषी

अधिकारियों/कर्मचारियों को दण्डित करने हेतु इस आशय का प्रस्ताव प्रस्तुत करें जिससे कि इस प्रकार की गड़बड़ियों को पुनरावृत्ति भविष्य में समाप्त करायी जा सकें।

176. This Court is also conscious of the fact that this U.P. Consolidation Manual may not strictly have the statutory force but nevertheless since they are executive instructions issued by the State-Government, at least they are binding on the State Government and the State Government cannot take a contrary view and to that extent the submission of the learned Additional Advocate General does not find favour with this Court.

177. It is in furtherance of this intent that the State itself had issued a departmental order dated 06th November, 2023 wherein in paragraph 6 and 7 it has stated as under: -

6. धारा-52(1) के प्रख्यापन के पश्चात् जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम की धारा 42-क के अन्तर्गत चकबन्दी अधिकारी द्वारा अभिलेखों में कोई भी संशोधन न किया जाय। प्रायः इस प्रकार की प्रवृत्ति चकबन्दी अधिकारियों में व्याप्त है और धारा-52 (1) के प्रख्यापन के पश्चात् भी वह बन्दोबस्त में परिवर्तन कर देते हैं। ऐसी प्रवृत्ति पर पूर्ण अंकुश लगाया जाय क्योंकि यह अधिकार सिर्फ चकबन्दी क्रियाओं के गतिमान रहने के दौरान ही चकबन्दी अधिकारीगण को प्राप्त है। चकबन्दी क्रियाएं समाप्त हो जाने के पश्चात् इस अधिकार का दुरुपयोग चकबन्दी अधिकारी द्वारा न किया जाय। ऐसा कृत्य अधिकारातीत है, यदि इस प्रकार का प्रकरण प्रकाश में आएगा तो

सम्बन्धित के विरुद्ध कठोर कार्यवाही की जायेगी।

178. 7-प्रायः यह देखा गया है कि जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम की धारा-48(3) के अन्तर्गत ऐसे विषयों पर भी सन्दर्भ बनाकर उप संचालक चकबन्दी द्वारा अनुमोदित कर दिया जा रहा है जो उनकी परिधि में नहीं आता है। ऐसे प्रकरण जिनको धारा-52(1) के प्रख्यापन के पश्चात् राजस्व संहिता की धारा-30, 31 व 38 के अन्तर्गत राजस्व प्राधिकारियों को संज्ञान लेकर कार्यवाही करनी चाहिए परन्तु ऐसे प्रकरणों को भी उप संचालक चकबन्दीगण धारा-48 (3) जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत ग्रहण कर वर्षों पश्चात् सुव्यवस्थित बन्दोबस्त में परिवर्तन कर दे रहे हैं। ऐसा कृत्य अधिकारातीत है, यदि इस प्रकार का प्रकरण प्रकाश में आयेंगे तो सम्बन्धित के विरुद्ध कठोर कार्यवाही की जायेगी।"

179. Another aspect of the matter which can be seen is the fact that all such proceedings which are saved in terms of Section 52 (2) i.e. to say, the proceedings pending before the Constitutional Courts and the proceedings pending before the Consolidation Authorities on the date of the notification and if any orders are passed subsequent to the date of the notification under Section 52(1) and in order to give effect to those orders, the Consolidation Authorities have already been conferred with powers which are recognized in Rule 109-A of the Rules of 1954 which have been framed under the Rule making powers contained in Section 45 (3) of the Act.

180. Thus, this also clearly indicates that any order which is passed in proceedings which are saved in terms of Section 52 (2) then in order to give effect to those orders, the Consolidation Authorities would have the power but nevertheless such powers are executory in nature and not in the nature of reference. Thus, for the said reason also, it cannot be said that the Consolidation Authorities continue to exercise power of reference after the date of notification made under Section 52(1) of the Act.

181. Another limb of submission made by the learned Additional Advocate General was that in order to undo fraud the powers of reference can be used. It is also a feeble argument for the reason that it is too well settled that fraud nullifies everything. In such a case if the consolidation operations are in currency, the consolidation authorities would definitely have the jurisdiction to consider the issue of fraud if raised appropriately. Even otherwise if this issue of fraud is discovered after the closure of consolidation operations even then as noticed above, the Collector shall have the right to consider this aspect and any finality cannot be attached to an entry or an order which is an outcome of fraud. However, what is fraud and how it affects judicial proceedings was considered by the Apex Court in the case of Ram Chandra Singh v. Savitri Devi: (2003) 8 SCC 319, Union of India v. Ramesh Gandhi: (2012) 1 SCC 476 and by this Court in the case of Bhagwan Das Chela Balram Das v. District Magistrate, Ambedkarnagar and others: 2023 (1) ADJ 342 [LB].

182. Accordingly, in light of the aforesaid discussions, the submissions and suggestions made by the learned Additional Advocate General and other members of the Bar canvassing the proposition that the power of reference is akin to inherent powers and can be exercised even after the notification under Section 52(1) is issued, does not fall in line or in sync with the legislative scheme of the Act.

183. The line of decisions as led by Gafoor (supra) and other decisions which have followed it are in sync with the Scheme of the Act and though they have been decided on their own facts, the proposition that after de-notification consolidation authorities lose their jurisdiction is held to be good law. All decisions from Ram Bahadur (supra) as noted in this judgment and other decisions which hold that consolidation authorities retain the powers of correction of records after a notification is issued under Section 52(1) of the Act, are overruled and held to be not good law.

184. For the purpose of clarity, it is once again reiterated that only those proceedings, including a reference, which are pending either before the Constitutional Courts or before the Consolidation Authorities on the date of notification under Section 52(1) and any order which is passed in such proceedings after the date of the notification in Section 52(1) and its effect is to be carried out and given effect to in terms of Rule 109-A of the Rules of 1954 to that extent, the proceedings and the powers are saved by the Consolidation Authorities and not otherwise.

185. In light of the aforesaid discussions, it is held that the power of reference cannot be exercised by the Deputy Director of Consolidation after the notification is made in terms of Section 52(1) of the Act. Only such reference proceedings i.e. where reference has been made or in such cases where hearing on the reference is pending before the CO or the SOC as the case may be, can be treated to be pending on the date of notification made under Section 52(1) then such cases can be said to be saved in terms of Section 52(2) of the Act.

186. Questions nos. (ii) and (iii) are answered thus.

IX SEQUITUR:-

187. In light of the detailed discussions recorded hereinabove, the scope of reference under the Act can be succinctly put as under: -

(i) It relates to such disputes which may occur on account of any error in preparation of records or anomalies arising or difficulties created as well as such disputes which may occur on the ground level while implementing the scheme of consolidation in light of the guiding principles mentioned in Section 19 of the Act as well as relatable to preparation of final records. The reference may arise out of corrective and executory jurisdiction but it is adjudicatory in nature, as it has the impact of an order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation which is binding and unless challenged, is final between the parties.

(ii) Since the power of reference is some what different than the power of revision, hence, the legislature has provided for a two tiered hearing, one before the Consolidation Officer or the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, as the case may be and the other before the Deputy Director of Consolidation himself. The power of reference is exercised not in an ordinary course, hence, it should be resorted to sparingly with utmost caution and only in expedient circumstances which have been detailed in the earlier part of this judgment, which have been noted to be illustrative and not exhaustive.

(iii) As explained in this judgment, the power of reference is born out of corrective jurisdiction but it is adjudicatory in nature.

188. Insofar as when the power of reference can be exercised, it is held that the power of reference cannot be exercised after de-notification of the village in terms of Section 52(1) of the Act and the reference proceedings are not saved in terms of Section 52(2) except in those cases where on the date of notification under Section 52(1), the reference is pending either before the Consolidation Officer/Settlement Officer of Consolidation in terms of first tier of hearing and/or pending before the Deputy Director of Consolidation in terms of the second tier hearing.

189. The questions referred to this Full Bench stands answered. Now, the matter may be placed before the Court concerned to decide the matter on its own merits.

Writ B No. 15591 of 2016

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether the petitioner/defendant's defence in the partition suit that the Will dated 10.01.1961, being one granting a life estate to the plaintiff, Parwati, did not entitle her to seek partition, was open to be determined by the Revenue Court, when the said claim was not raised during consolidation proceedings and whether it attracted the bar under Section 49 of the Consolidation of Holdings Act.

HEADNOTE

Constitution of India, Art. 226 – U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, Ss. 169(3), 176 – U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953, Ss. 4, 9, 49 & 52 – Registration Act, 1908, Ss. 17 & 40 – Will relating to agricultural land – Requirement of registration – Will dated 10.01.1961 does not require compulsory registration – Requirement of registration came in with effect from 23.08.2004 – A bhumidhar with transferable rights could devise a life estate in favour of his wife with reversion to his blood relatives – Validity of bequest of limited/life estate – Dispute of pure title – Defendant's defence based on Will never raised during consolidation proceedings – Bar under S. 49 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act attracted – Suit for partition by a co-sharer not barred by S. 49 – Revenue Court's jurisdiction to investigate the nature and extent of the plaintiff's right and title based on the Will barred – Final consolidation records showing parties recorded as bhumidhar to the extent of a half share each – Board of Revenue committed no error in restoring the Trial Court's decree.

HELD:

Ram Narain on 10.01.1961 executed a Will granting a life estate to his wife, Smt. Parwati, with reversion to his blood relatives. During consolidation, Smt. Parwati and Ramgopal were recorded as co-bhumidhars to the extent of half share each in the joint khata. No objection u/s 9 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 was filed by Ramgopal disputing the nature or extent of Smt. Parwati's title. In 1992, Smt. Parwati instituted a suit for partition. Ramgopal filed a written statement disputing Smt. Parwati's status as the lawfully wedded wife and contending that Smt. Parwati had only a life estate and no right to seek partition. The Trial Court passed a preliminary decree for partition in favour of Smt. Parwati for her half share. Ramgopal's appeal was allowed and the suit for partition was dismissed. The Board of Revenue restored the preliminary decree dated 28.02.1994 passed by the Trial Court.

Held: A dispute relating to title about tenure land covered by the ZA & LR Act, if not raised after the issue of a notification under Section 4(1) of the CH Act, cannot, afterwards, be raised. Section 49 of the CH Act envisages a constructive bar to the adjudication of rights by a Civil or Revenue Court, not limited to rights arising out of consolidation proceedings, but the declaration and adjudication of the rights of tenure holders in respect of land falling in an area, for which, a notification under Section 4(2) of the CH Act has been issued. Court held that under the unamended Section 169(3) of the ZA & LR Act, a Will relating to agricultural land executed prior to 23.08.2004 did not require compulsory registration. The Will dated 10.01.1961, therefore, was not invalid merely because it was unregistered. It was held that a bhumidhar with transferable rights can bequeath a limited estate or life interest in favour of a legatee, and such a bequest was legally permissible under the ZA & LR Act. The Court noted that during consolidation proceedings, Smt. Parwati and Ramgopal were recorded as co-bhumidhars to the extent of half share each in the khata. It was held that the defendant, who propounds the Will to establish a life estate for the plaintiff, could and ought to have raised the plea that the plaintiff had only a life estate under the Will during consolidation proceedings, as it raised a dispute as to the nature and extent of title. Having failed to do so, the defendant was barred by Section 49 of the CH Act from raising such a title dispute in subsequent partition proceedings. The suit for partition of the parties' shares in accordance with the determination made by the Consolidation Authorities can proceed and a final decree too can be passed in accordance with the preliminary decree. The Court held that the Board of Revenue committed no error in restoring the preliminary decree of the Trial Court granting partition on the basis of the shares determined during consolidation. The High Court dismissed the writ petition. (Paras 19, 24, 28 & 34) (E-5)

This is a defendant's writ petition arising out of a suit for partition under Section 176 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (for short, 'ZA & LR Act').

2. The suit for partition was instituted by Smt. Parwati, widow of Ram Narain, against Ramgopal, her late husband's brother, claiming a half share in the suit property (hereinafter referred to as 'land in dispute') on foot of a bhumidhari right that she inherited from her late husband, Ram Narain, upon his demise. She sought a decree of partition and separate possession of her half share. A written statement was filed by Ramgopal before the Sub-Divisional Officer, where the suit has been instituted, resisting the plaintiff's claim on ground that Parwati was not Ram Narain's lawfully wedded wife, and for the said reason, through a devise made by Ram Narain, Parwati was given a life estate alone in the land in dispute. She had no right to seek partition or separate possession. A copy of Ram Narain's Will dated 10.01.1961 was filed along with the written statement and a typewritten copy thereof has been annexed to the writ petition.

3. The Trial Court framed the following issues (translated into English from Hindi) :

(1) Whether the plaintiff, Parwati, and defendant No.1, Ramgopal, are co-tenure holder bhumidhar in possession of the land in dispute?

(2) What are the shares of the plaintiff, Parwati, and defendant No.2 (sic), Ramgopal, in the disputed land?

(3) To what relief is the plaintiff entitled?

(4) Whether the plaintiff has the right to seek partition?

(5) Whether the plaintiff has the right to alienate the land in dispute by Gift, Will, Mortgage etc.?

(6) Whether the defendant's case is barred by Section 49 of the Consolidation of Holdings Act?

(7) Whether the document mentioned in paragraph No.14 of the W.S. is forged and illegal?

4. The Trial Court answered Issue No.1 in the affirmative; Issue No.2, holding that the plaintiff and the defendant had a half share, as recorded during the consolidation proceedings; Issues Nos.3 and 4 have been decided together in terms of the remark that the plaintiff is a recorded co-tenure holder and there is nothing written in the Will about partition. The answer to the issues is not explicit; Issue No.5 has been answered holding that since the plaintiff is a bhumidhar with transferable rights, she has every right to alienate, but if the Will were proved, the right would end; Issue No.6 has been answered, holding that the suit is not barred by Section 49 of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (for short, 'the CH Act'); and, Issue No.7 has been decided, holding that though it was not necessary for the Will to be registered, but the fact that for 33 years, after its execution, no rights were asserted on the basis thereof, renders it suspicious. There is a remark to the effect also in answering this issue that there is nothing said about division of crops. The Trial Court held that the plaintiff had a half share in the land in dispute and passed a preliminary decree to that effect on 28.02.1994.

5. The defendant, Ramgopal, carried an appeal to the Commissioner, Kanpur Division, Kanpur from the preliminary decree passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer. This appeal came up for hearing before the Additional Commissioner, Kanpur Division, Kanpur, being Appeal No.127 of 1994 on 20.01.1995. It was allowed by the Additional Commissioner and the suit dismissed.

6. The plaintiff carried a second appeal to the Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad, which was registered as Second Appeal No.35 of 1994-95 before the Board. The Board, by the judgment and decree impugned dated 14.01.2016, allowed the second appeal, set aside the Additional Commissioner's decree and restored that of the Trial Court.

7. Aggrieved, this writ petition has been instituted by the heirs and LR's of the defendant, Ramgopal under Article 226 of the Constitution. It need be mentioned here that Ramgopal, the original defendant, apparently passed away sometime after the judgment in the second appeal was delivered or after it was reserved by the Board, and before the institution of this writ petition. His heirs and LR's have, therefore, instituted this writ petition, representing his estate and are arrayed as petitioner Nos.1/1 to 1/5/2. The heirs of Ramgopal, who have actually instituted this writ petition in his right, are seven in number and shall be collectively referred to as 'the defendant', unless the context requires otherwise.

8. The plaintiff, Parwati, passed away pending the second appeal before the Board and her heir and LR, Smt. Kamla Kushwaha, was substituted on record. Here, Smt. Parwati's estate is represented by respondent Nos.1/1, Smt. Kamla Kushwaha, her LR, heir and daughter. Parwati, represented by her L.R., shall be called, "the plaintiff".

9. Heard Mr. Shashi Kant Shukla, learned Counsel for the defendant, Mr. Udayan Nandan, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the plaintiff and Mr. Sanjay Kumar Ray, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of respondents Nos. 3 and 4, representing the State. No one appeared for the Gaon Sabha.

10. Upon hearing learned Counsel for parties, what we find is that the remark in the judgment of the Board of Revenue that the Will was not registered tends to show that the Board overturned the judgment of the Additional Commissioner on the premise that an unregistered Will created no rights in favour of the legatee.

11. A reading of the provision to Section 169 of the ZA & LR Act shows that under the unamended provisions of Section 169(3) of the ZA & LR Act, all that was required is that the Will had to be made in writing and attested by two witnesses. When we say unamended here, we mean to refer to Section 169(3) of the ZA & LR Act as it stood before the amendment made by U.P. Act No. 27 of 2004 with effect from 23.08.2004. It was with effect from 23.08.2004 that U.P. Act No. 27 of 2004 amended sub-Section (3) of Section 169 of the ZA & LR Act to provide that a Will relating to agricultural land governed by the said Act had to be in writing, attested by two witnesses and registered. The requirement of registration, therefore, came in with effect from 23.08.2004. There was no such requirement earlier.

12. In the present case, the Will is a document dated 10.01.1961 and the testator, Ram Narayan son of Lallu died some time before 28.07.1992, as the written statement was filed on that date in the suit before the Sub-Divisional Officer, taking a defence based on the Will of 1961.

13. The difference of opinion between the two learned Judges of this Court In re-Sobhnath Dube; In the Matter of the Goods of Late Kashinath Dube, 2015 SCC OnLine All 7548: 2015 (128) RD 507 on one hand, and, that in Jahan Singh v. State of U.P. and others, AIR 2017 All 247, on the other, about the retrospective application of the amended provisions of Section 169(3) of the ZA & LR Act to a will executed before the amendment, but which takes effect later after U.P. Act No.27 of 2004 came into force, would not be at all relevant in this case. The reason is that the Will was one dated 10.09.1961 and the testator died some time before 28.07.1992. The result would be that the Will would take effect before U.P. At No. 27 of 2004 came into effect on 23.08.2004. Therefore, so far as the Will, that is subject matter of action here, is concerned, there can be no cavil that it never required compulsory registration by dint of the amended provisions of sub-Section (3) of Section 169 of the ZA & LR Act.

14. Much later, a Division Bench of this Court in Pramila Tiwari v. Anil Kumar Mishra, AIR 2024 All 227 held the provisions of Section 169(3) of the ZA & LR Act, as amended by U.P. Act No.27 of 2004, to the extent these provided for compulsory registration of wills relating to agricultural land, void on ground that these were repugnant to Section 17 read with Section 40 of the Registration Act, 1908, a central legislation. Therefore, on any view of the law applicable, the Will, subject matter of action here, is not required to be compulsorily registered. The Board of Revenue in proceeding on the premise that the unregistered Will here is not legally enforceable, a finding that has been recorded rather in the passing and in words lacking certitude, cannot be countenanced. The Will dated 10.01.1961 does not require compulsory registration by dint of Section 169(3) of the Act of 1950. It is held, accordingly.

15. Admittedly, the testator in this case Ram Narain, a bhumidhar with transferable rights, could devise a life estate in favour of his wife, Smt. Parwati with a reversion to his blood relatives. The principle that a bhumidhar can bequeath his bhumidhari rights by Will, granting a limited right and a lifetime interest to the legatee in view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Jagan Singh (Dead) through LRs v. Dhanwanti and another, (2012) 2 SCC 628, is well settled. The Will in this case, propounded by the defendant, if proved in accordance with law, cannot be held an invalid bequest on ground that it grants a lifetime estate alone to the legatee, Ram Narain's widow, under Section 169(3) of the ZA & LR Act.

16. This brings us to the most important question, whether the defendant's defence in the suit that the Will dated 10.01.1961, being one granting a life estate to the plaintiff, Parwati, did not entitle her to seek partition, was open to be determined by the Revenue Court, the said claim never being raised during consolidation proceedings held under the CH Act. There is no cavil that there were consolidation operations in the village that went through full course and came to be de-notified under Section 52 of the CH Act before the suit was instituted. In those proceedings, the plaintiff, Parwati, was recorded in the khata, along with Ramgopal, as bhumidhar to the extent of a half share or a moiety.

17. In the supplementary counter affidavit, a copy of the CH Form 41, relating to Mauza Tajpur, has been filed as Annexure No. SCA-1. In the joint khata of parties, Parwati widow of Ram Narain and Ramgopal son of Lallu, are recorded in Column 8 as bhumidhar to the extent of a half share each. Final consolidation forms were drawn on this basis. CH Form 41 and CH Form 45 are also annexed to the supplementary counter affidavit. A perusal of CH Form 45 again shows that in the joint khata of parties, Parwati widow of Ram Narain and Ramgopal son of Lallu are recorded as co-sharers. The two apparently hold a half share each in the khata. In the six yearly khatauni for the fasli years 1389-1394 again Parwati widow of Ram Narain and Ramgopal son of Lallu are recorded as bhumidhar alone, giving rise to the inference that the two of them hold a half share in the khata that Parwati inherited from her husband, Ram Narain.

18. It is true that Ram Narain inherited the land in dispute from his father, Lallu, along with his brothers. There is no concept of a Joint Hindu family property in tenure land governed by the ZA & LR Act. The ZA & LR Act predicates a uniform civil code for all citizens and, therefore, a bhumidhar, upon the demise of his predecessor-in-title, succeeds to the bhumidhari as his own property and not one that is a Joint Hindu family property or coparcenary. At the same time, a bhumidhar, who has inherited property from his predecessors, can devise by Will a limited estate, as claimed to be done in the present case, in Parvati's favour, by Ram Narain.

19. The question that then arises is, if during consolidation operations, Parvati, who was admittedly recorded as a co-sharer along with her deceased husband's brother, Ramgopal, in the khata, was not challenged about her right by filing an objection under Section 9 of the CH Act, questioning her rights as a bhumidhar recorded to the extent of a half share by Ramgopal, can Ramgopal now say that she has a life estate alone under Ram Narain's Will, when she seeks partition. There is admittedly nothing to show in the rights recorded during consolidation, or right through the proceedings under the CH Act, until the drawing up of the final consolidation records that might suggest that Parvati had a life estate alone as a bhumidhar.

20. It was submitted with formidable force by Mr. Shashi Kant Shukla that a co-sharer during consolidation, who is at peace with others, would not oblige those others to file objections under Section 9 of the CH Act and seek partition of the khata upon pain of losing their right to partition on account of the bar under Section 49 of the CH Act. The reason is, as Mr. Shukla rightly submits, that co-sharers, who are living at peace during consolidation proceedings, would not lose their right to seek partition at a later point of time, when the animus to separate comes into existence. A partition suit by one of the co-sharers, who have remained joint with their share recorded during consolidation proceedings, until denotification under Section 52 of the CH Act, would have a right at any time to seek partition and sue for it. We agree that a suit for partition by a co-sharer of a joint holding, that has suffered consolidation under the CH Act, would not be barred by Section 49.

21. In support of his submission, Mr. Shukla has placed reliance upon a Bench decision of this Court in Ram Briksha v. Dy. Director of Consolidation and others, 2017 SCC OnLine All 4417: 2017 (6) ALJ 610. Reference was made to a Larger Bench by a learned Single Judge, where three questions, directly bearing on the issue, were involved. These questions were answered in Ram Briksha (supra) in the following terms :

Issue No. I

63. Whether use of words "could or ought to have been taken" in latter part of Section 49 of the Act, compulsorily forces the co-sharers, who are living jointly, peacefully and have no grievance against their father/brother/co-sharer, whose name is recorded in representative capacity, or they were willing to live jointly, due to situation of their family, i.e. (father and minor son), (mother and minor son), (brother and minor brother) and (some co-sharer was student and had gone abroad for study and fully depends upon other co-sharers) etc., to file an objection under Section 9 of the Act for separation of his share?

A. Because of the words "could or ought to have been taken" in latter part of Section 49 of the Act, same does not compulsorily force the co-sharers, who are living jointly, peacefully and have no grievance against their father/brother/co-sharer whose name is recorded in representative capacity or they were willing to live jointly due to situation of their family and who have not filed an objection under Section 49 of the Act for separation of their share inasmuch as under the provisions of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953, it is the statutory obligation cast upon the authorities and the incumbent, who has been holding the property in question in the representative capacity to get the records corrected and in case in designed manner the obligation in question has not been discharged by Consolidation Authorities as well as by the incumbent holding the property in the representative capacity, men in such a situation Section 49 of the Act would not at all be attracted and such situation would be covered under the contingency of planned fraud to drop the name of other co-sharers from the revenue records.

Issue No. II

64. Whether by operation of law, the parties can be thrown into litigation against their will need and by not raising claim to land or partition and separation of the chak their right to property can be taken away in spite of protection available under Article 19(1) (f) and now Article 300-A of the Constitution?

A. The answer is that a party cannot be thrown in litigation against their will/need and by not raising claim to land of, partition and separation of chak, their rights to property cannot be taken away under the protection provided for under Article 19(1)(f)/Article 300-A of the Constitution of India.

Issue No. III

65. Whether, in spite of well settled legal principle in respect of joint property, right of a co-sharer will come to an end under Section 49 of the Act, on the notification under Section 52, due to not claiming partition of his share and separate chak in his name, although, mere had been no ouster from joint property?

A. The rights of the co-sharers will not at all come to an end under Section 49 of the Act, on the notification under Section 52 due to not claiming partition of his share and separate chak in his name and till there is no ouster from the joint property his right in the property will continue to exist.

22. The position of the law, which Mr. Shukla emphasizes, is well settled and he is right in stating the principle that he urges, but the question is that this is not a case, where the plaintiff has been non-suited because she did not file objections under Section 9 of the CH Act. There was not even an issue, if her suit seeking partition is barred by Section 49 of the CH Act. To the contrary, Issue No.6, framed here, is not about the suit for partition being barred by Section 49, but the defendant's defence, based on the Will, being barred under the aforesaid provision.

23. There is little cavil that if Parwati and Ramgopal did not file objections under Section 9 of the CH Act while the consolidation operations were current and before the denotification under Section 52, because they did not want to partition at that time, the plaintiff's cause of action to sue for partition, when one of the co-sharers intended to separate, cannot be held barred by Section 49. But, this is a case where applying these principles are besides the point. It is not a simple case where parties have a moiety in the joint khata, which the plaintiff wants partitioned.

24. To the contrary, there is an underlying dispute of pure title between parties, which has necessarily arisen during consolidation, but not objected to by the defendant. That dispute is that whereas the plaintiff says that she has inherited intestate a half share in the khata, being her deceased husband's share, Ramgopal, the defendant says that Parvati does not have an absolute bhumidhari estate to the extent of the moiety that she claims. He asserts that it is not an estate that she has inherited intestate from her husband, but one taken under the Will dated 10.01.1961. The Will has given her a life estate alone, as distinguished from an absolute and unlimited bhumidhari. The dispute, therefore, is not about the plaintiff's moiety in the joint khata, but the nature of her right, to wit, whether it is unlimited and absolute or just a life estate, which she cannot seek partition of or assign or bequeath.

25. Now, this is a pure question of title, which had to be raised during consolidation proceedings by the party, who thought that the nature of the other's estate was incorrectly recorded by the Consolidation Authorities. Even if one of the parties thought that the Consolidation Authorities did not err in recording the nature of their respective estates, it has to be seen the way the Consolidation Authorities have recorded the rights or shares of both parties, vis-a-vis the nature of their right and title in the khata. A plain reading of CH Form-11, which comes at a quite late stage of the consolidation proceedings, in this case shows that in the said CH Form, as already noticed, the plaintiff, Parvati, and defendant, Ramgopal, were shown in Column-8 as shareholders of a moiety.

26. Column 8 in CH Form-11 carries the following particulars, according to the specified form in the rules : The name of the tenure holder with details of shares if partitioned on the basis of shares. The entry of a half share in Column 8 for the plaintiff and the defendant clearly shows that the two of them held a moiety each, though they might not have decided to partition by metes and bounds. That decision was taken much later, when the suit was filed.

27. However, in the nature of consolidation proceedings, title of a person has to be recorded. It is at the cynosure of these proceedings, quite apart from the creation of compact chak. It is for this reason that all issues of title, amongst the chak holders, that arise during consolidation, have been entrusted exclusively to be decided under the CH Act, be it Section 9-A or 12 thereof. The same position about the plaintiff and the defendant holding a moiety each in the khata is reflected in C.H. Form 45, again, subject to the right of the parties to seek a partition of their share, whenever they willed.

28. The jurisdiction is all encompassing. It is also much settled for a principle that a dispute relating to title about tenure land covered by the ZA & LR Act, if not raised after the issue of a notification under Section 4(1) of the CH Act, cannot, afterwards, be raised. Section 49 of the CH Act envisages a constructive bar to the adjudication of rights by a Civil or Revenue Court, not limited to rights arising out of consolidation proceedings, but the declaration and adjudication of the rights of tenure holders in respect of land falling in an area, for which, a notification under Section 4(2) of the CH Act has been issued. In fact, in the scheme of things, the CH Act envisages a final settlement of all rights relating to land of a tenure holder, which is subject to consolidation proceedings, also constructively, if not raised, before proceedings for carving of compact chak commence.

29. One of the early and most eloquent authorities on the point is Rishal Singh v. Board of Revenue, U.P., Alld. and others, 1969 SCC OnLine All 394 : 1970 RD 413. In Rishal Singh (supra), it was held by Hari Swarup, J. :

5. Section 49 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act/hereinafter referred to as the Act) provides that notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force the declaration of adjudication of rights of tenure-holders in respect of land lying within an area for which a notification has been issued under Section 4 or adjudication of any right arising out of consolidation proceedings and in regard to which a proceeding could or ought to have been taken under this Act, shall be done in accordance with the provisions of this Act and no civil or revenue Court shall entertain any suit or proceeding with respect to right in such land or with respect to any other matters for which the proceeding could or ought to have been taken under this Act'. Interpreting this section along with Section 5 of the Act, the Supreme Court in the case of Ram Adhar Singh v. Ram Roop Singh ([1968 A.W.R. 14 SC.]) held: 'Section 49 excludes the jurisdiction of Civil Courts to entertain any suit or proceeding with respect to rights in respect of lands covered by the notification, under Section 4, or with respect to any other matter for which a proceeding could or ought to have been taken under the Act'. Admittedly the opposite parties could have taken the plea before the consolidation authorities under Sections 9 and 9-A of the Act to the effect that they were the exclusive owners of the plots and that the petitioner had no right therein. It is also not denied that no such action was taken. The adjudication on this point is therefore, barred by the provisions of Section 49 of the Act. Section 9-A(1)(ii) provides that where no objections are filed the Asstt. Consolidation Officer shall, after making such enquiry, as he may deem necessary, correct the mistakes. Section 10 of the Act deals with the preparation and maintenance of the revised annual register in accordance with the order passed under Section 9-A of the Act. Any order passed under Section 9-A of the Act is appealable under Section 11 of the Act and the same becomes final and not liable to be questioned in any court of law. If no appeal is filed the order of the Asstt. Consolidation Officer remains final. Subsection (3) of Section 9-A provides that the Asstt. Consolidation Officer while acting under sub-section (1) of Section 9-A of the Act shall be deemed to be a court of competent jurisdiction notwithstanding anything contained in any other law. It may be that the Asstt. Consolidation Officer is not a court in the strict sense of the term but for the purposes of determining the rights of the parties to the land which is brought under consolidation he is deemed to be a court and any order passed by him directing the making of corrections or not ordering any corrections in the event it is not necessary will be deemed to be final and not questionable in any civil or revenue court. This is the effect of Section 49 read with Section 5 of the Act.

6. After the proceedings under Section 9-A of the Act are over, the land which is subject to consolidation scheme is brought into the common consolidation pool and thereafter the land distributed to various persons who have contributed to the pool. The Chaks are thereafter formed and proceedings are taken for finalisation of the chaks. After the Chaks are ultimately formed information is given by form No. 25 and thereafter the entries are made in the revenue records under Section 27 of the Act and form No. 45 is prepared to show the names of the parties and the consolidated areas which they have been allotted. After the consolidation comes to an end the rights of the parties get crystallised and new areas get allotted to the Chak-holders. These also become final.

30. In Rakesh Kumar Minor u/g Smt. Shanti Devi v. Board of Revenue, U.P. and others, 1972 SCC OnLine All 81 : 1972 RD 326, it was held by Satish Chandra, J. (as the learned Chief Justice then was), speaking for the Division :

6. Sec. 49 by its first clause declares that adjudication of rights of tenure-holders shall be done in accordance with the provisions of the Consolidation of Holdings Act while the second clause thereof debars civil or revenue court from entertaining any suit or proceeding with respect to rights which could or ought to have been so adjudicated. The defence in the present suit raises a question as to adjudication of right with respect to the plots in dispute. Such a defence cannot be entertained by the revenue court if "a proceeding could or ought to have been taken under the Act" with respect to the rights now sought to be questioned.

7. When Consolidation proceedings commenced the plaintiff was entered as a co-tenant. The defendant did not say that they were unaware of the consolidation proceedings or the state of entries at that time. Har Swarup had died in 1936. The cause of action for adjudication of the question whether his widow inherited any share in the family properties arose on his death. After his death the defendant could have instituted a suit for the adjudication of the plaintiff's title. On commencement of Consolidation proceedings he could have raised a dispute about it by filing an objection under Sec. 9 of the Act. There is nothing upon which it could be held that the defendant could not have taken proceedings under the Act for the adjudication of the plaintiff's right or title. If he could, then Sec. 49 bars the civil or Revenue court from entertaining such a question of title.

8. The plaintiff's suit is of course not barred because it proceeds to enforce the entries made in Consolidation proceedings. The cause of action for the present suit arose after the closure of the consolidation proceedings, as is apparent from the plaint. The plaint is not asking for any disturbance of the entries made during the Consolidation operations. It is the defence which raises questions the acceptance of which will mean the setting aside and cancellation or ignorance of the entries made in consolidation proceedings; and that is, under the circumstance of the case, not permissible. Sec. 49 was a clear bar to this plea in defence.

31. Much later in the day, in Shri Ram and others v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Allahabad and others, 2011 SCC OnLine All 417 : (2011) 112 RD 734, one of the questions, that were referred for consideration to the Division Bench by a learned Single Judge, was to the following effect :

(IV) Whether the provisions of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act have an over riding effect over all other Acts for the time being in force keeping in view the provisions of Section 49 and have the exclusive jurisdiction to decide right, title and interest of claimants relating to land tenures upon a notification under Section 4 or not?

32. In answering Question No. IV, it was opined by their Lordships of the Division Bench in Shri Ram (supra) :

As noted above, Section 5(2) of the Act, 1953 provides for abatement of all proceedings for the correction of records and every suit and proceedings in respect of declaration of rights or interest in any land laying in the area, or for declaration or adjudication of any other right in regard to which proceeding can or ought to be taken under this Act, pending before any Court or authority whether of the first instance or of appeal, reference of revision.

A plain reading of Section 49, indicates that after the issuance of notification under sub-section (2) of Section 4 for declaration and adjudication of right of tenure-holder or adjudication of any other right, the forum is the consolidation court and no Civil or Revenue Court shall entertain any suit or proceedings with respect to rights in such land.

Section 49 of the Act, contains two prohibitions, firstly for an area which has been notified under sub-section (2) of Section 4, no Civil or Revenue Court shall entertain any suit or proceedings during currency of notification under Section 4(2) and secondly, even after consolidation proceedings are over, no civil or revenue court shall entertain any suit or proceedings in respect of rights in such land for which a proceeding could or ought to have been taken under this Act.

Section 49 of the Act, 1953 came up for consideration before this Court and the Apex Court in several cases.

The judgment of the Apex Court in Sita Ram v. Chhota Bhonde, 1990 RD, 439 had elaborately considered Section 49 of the Act, 53. Following was laid down by the apex Court in the aforesaid judgement.

“From a perusal of Section 49 it is evident that declaration and adjudication of rights of tenure-holders in respect land lying in an area for which a notification has been issued under Section 4(2) and adjudication of any other right arising out of consolidation proceedings and in regard to which a proceeding could or ought to have been taken under the Act, had to be done in accordance with the provisions of the Act only and the jurisdiction of the civil or revenue courts to entertain any suit or proceeding with respect to any other matter for which a proceeding could or ought to have been taken under the Act, has been taken away. The language used in Section 49 is wide and comprehensive. Declaration and adjudication of rights of tenure-holders in respect of land lying in the area covered by the notification under Section 4(2) of the Act and adjudication of any other right arising out of consolidation proceedings and in regard to which a proceeding could or ought to have been taken under the Act, would cover adjudication of questions as to title in respect of the said lands. This view also finds support from the other provisions of the Act and the amendments that have been introduced therein.”

33. This question was also considered by the Supreme Court in Madan Mohan Mishra v. Chandrika Pandey (Dead) by Lrs., (2009) 3 SCC 720. Though the facts in Madan Mohan Mishra (supra) show that after issue of notification under Section 4 of the CH Act had attained finality and the plaintiff, who was appellant before the Supreme Court, filed another suit for a decree of injunction, and, in the alternative, for the recovery of possession, the bar under Section 49 of the CH Act was held all encompassing. It was remarked by the Supreme Court in Madan Mohan Mishra :

20. Jurisdiction of the civil court not only in respect of the matters which are specified therein but also the matters which could and ought to have been the subject-matter of the proceedings under the said Act is barred. The words of the said section are absolutely clear and unambiguous.

23. In Audhar v. Chandrapati [(2003) 11 SCC 458] a Division Bench of this Court upon noticing Section 49 of the 1953 Act, opined that Section 49 of the 1953 Act confers exclusive jurisdiction under the Act and the jurisdiction of the civil court is barred, stating: (SCC pp. 463-64, paras 17-19)

“17. ... The authorities under the Consolidation Act of 1953 could justifiably conclude their proceedings under that Act despite pendency of second appeal against the order of the first appellate court declaring the proceedings in the civil suit to have abated.

18. We find that the main issue on facts is concluded against the appellants. The lands in the khatas in question are found to be tenancy lands of the classes 'bhumidhari' and 'sirdari'. They are not sir or khudkasht lands. Under the special mode of succession provided under the tenancy law widow Akashi inherited absolute title to 1/4th share of her husband and she could execute a valid gift deed in favour of her daughters.

19. The present legal position as it stands during pendency of the second appeal before the High Court is that the civil court's decree declaring the gift deed as invalid has not attained finality because during pendency of proceedings before the first appellate court after remand by the High Court, proceedings under the Consolidation Act of 1953 had commenced and the jurisdiction of the civil court stood ousted. We, therefore, find no merit in any of the contentions advanced on behalf of the appellants.”

24. Yet again in Narender Singh v. Jai Bhagwan [(2005) 9 SCC 157] this Court, upon noticing GND, stated the law, thus: (SCC p. 160, paras 10-11)

“10. The learned counsel for the respondents is right in his reply that the lands being exclusively recorded in the name of the father, the sons who claim joint ownership in the lands could and ought to have approached the authorities under the Act for getting them jointly recorded in the revenue papers. Such proceedings for recording them as joint owners having not been initiated under the Act of 1953, the High Court was right in invoking bar against such plea in the suit in accordance with Section 49 of the Act. We find that the contention advanced and accepted by the High Court gets full support from the following observations of this Court in Sita Ram [Sita Ram v. Chhota Bhone, 1991 Supp (1) SCC 556] : (SCC p. 564, para 13)

‘13. In the instant case Respondent 1 was claiming an interest in the land lying in the area covered by notification issued under Section 4(2) on the basis that he is the son of Chhota, brother of Nanha and that the lands were recorded in the name of Nanha in a representative capacity on behalf of himself and his other brothers. This claim which fell within the ambit of Section 5(2) had to be adjudicated by the consolidation authorities. Since it was a matter falling within the scope of adjudicatory functions assigned to the consolidation authorities under the Act the jurisdiction of the civil court to entertain the suit in respect of the said matter was expressly barred by Section 49 of the Act and the suit of the appellant was rightly dismissed on that ground.'

11. The argument that revenue entry in the name of the father should have been treated as in representative capacity for the sons is misleading. Whether the father was karta and manager of the family and as such could be recorded in representative capacity for all co-owners in the family was also a question of title which fell within exclusive jurisdiction of the authorities under the Act."

25. The jurisdiction of the civil court, therefore, is clearly barred as it is evident that subject-matter of both the suits is agricultural lands only. It is not, therefore, necessary for us to go into the question with regard to the effect of a prayer made in a suit for setting aside the deed of gift in terms of Section 31 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 or otherwise.

34. What, therefore, in our opinion, bars the jurisdiction of the Revenue Court into examining the nature of parties' right, title and interest in the land in dispute is the fact that the defendant, who propounds the Will to establish a life estate for the plaintiff, never did so during consolidation proceedings, when he could and ought have done it, attracting the bar under Section 49 of the CH Act. While the suit would not be barred for the relief of partition in accordance with the determination of shares made by the Consolidation Authorities, reflected in the final consolidation forms and other proceedings, it would not be open to the Revenue Court to investigate and determine the nature and extent of the plaintiff's title on the basis of

Will dated 10.01.1996 that the defendant propounds to limit the plaintiff's interest to a life estate in the land in dispute. The Revenue Court's jurisdiction to investigate the extent of the plaintiff's right and title to the land in dispute, based on the Will propounded by the defendant, would be barred by Section 49 of the CH Act.

35. As already remarked, the suit for partition of the parties' shares in accordance with the determination made by the Consolidation Authorities can proceed and a final decree too can be passed in accordance with the preliminary decree. The Board of Revenue has, therefore, committed no error in restoring the Trial Court's decree.

36. No other point was pressed.

37. In the result, this petition fails and stands dismissed.

38. There shall be no order as to costs.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

(i) Whether the claim of the petitioner institutions for reimbursement of fee and scholarship for the academic sessions 2013-14, 2014-15 and 2016-17 was barred by limitation;

(ii) Whether the objection of lapse of budgetary allocation and absence of claims by students disentitles the petitioners from reimbursement; and

(iii) Whether the petitioners are entitled to interest on delayed payment of scholarship and fee reimbursement and, if so, at what rate.

HEADNOTE

Uttar Pradesh Anusuchit / Anusuchit Janjati / Samanya Varg / Alpsankhyak / Pichhdi Jati Dashmottar Chhatravritti Yojna, 2012 – Fee reimbursement and scholarship – Writ petitions seeking payment of scholarship and reimbursement of fee for academic sessions 2013-14, 2014-15 and 2016-17 – Scholarship withheld on the ground of pendency of inquiry – Inquiry admittedly concluded and no allegation established against the petitioners – Authorities acknowledging liability and raising demand for allocation – Subsequent rejection of claim by State Government – Objections raised regarding limitation, lapse of budgetary allocation, absence of student claims and scheme providing for transfer of scholarship to students' bank accounts – Claim of interest on delayed payment.

HELD:

Claim of the petitioners was held not barred by limitation. District Social Welfare Officer had sent letters stating that a demand for allocation of the amount had been raised and that as soon as the amount is received from the State Government, the amount will be transferred to the bank accounts of the students, which amounted to a clear and categorical admission regarding liability of payment. Under the scheme, the limitation period would start running after the scholarship amount is transferred to the bank accounts of the students, which admittedly was not done and therefore the claim has not become barred by limitation and is still continuing.

Objection regarding lapse of budgetary allocation rejected. State Government ought to have made payment of the amount of scholarship as per the prescribed timeline and the delay was not attributable to the petitioners. Denial of payment on the ground of delay, when the inquiry stood concluded and no one was found guilty, would amount to punishing the petitioners for a wrong which has not been committed by them, which is impermissible. It is a basic principle of dispensation of justice that no person can be punished for a wrong which he has not committed.

Mere fact that students have not come forward to challenge non-payment of scholarship money will not take away the petitioners' right to claim payment of the amount of fee, when the petitioners had taken admission of the students under the scheme without charging any fee, imparted education for the full course duration and the students had completed their studies. Petitioners were suffering losses due to non-payment of scholarship to the students, who in turn would have paid the amount to the petitioners.

On the question of interest, held that interest is not a penalty or punishment at all, but is the normal accretion on capital. When a person is deprived of the use of his money to which he is legitimately entitled, he has a right to be compensated for the deprivation.

However, the claim of compound interest at the rate of 18% per annum was held to be not justified. Interest directed to be paid at the maximum rates prevailing in nationalised banks on fixed deposits. Impugned office memorandum dated 15.01.2025 quashed and writ of mandamus issued directing payment of fee reimbursement along with interest. Writ petitions allowed. Appearances for Parties

Advs For Petitioner: Apoorva Tewari, Shivang Tiwari, Vinod Kumar Singh, Balbir Singh, Paavan Awasthi.

Advs For Respondents: C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Apoorva Tewari, the learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri S.K. Khare, the learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State of U.P. and perused the records.

2. The petitioner-C-MAT Business School has filed petition bearing Writ-C No. 8584 (M/S) of 2018 and Centre for Management and Technology has filed Writ Petition No. 8585 (M/S) of 2018 seeking issuance of a Writ of Mandamus commanding the opposite parties to make payment of scholarship and fee reimbursement to them for the students admitted in the institution for the courses mentioned in para 4 of the writ petitions for the academic sessions 2013-14, 2014-15 and 2016-17 in consonance with the provisions contained in Uttar Pradesh Anushuchit / Anusuchit Janjati / Samanya Varg / Alpsankhyak / Pichhdi Jati Dashmottar Chhatravritti Yojna, 2012.

3. On 28.09.2021, an order was passed in Writ Petition Nos. 8584 & 8585 recording that the fee reimbursement for the session 2013-14 had not been made to the petitioners without assigning any reason. In regard to academic sessions 2014-15 and 2016-17, show cause notices had been issued to the petitioners and they had submitted replies to the notices but no decision had been taken thereon. The learned Standing Counsel was granted time to seek instructions in the matter whether the inquiry had been concluded and why the money allocated for the year 2013-14 had not been paid to the petitioners. On 14.03.2022, this Court granted two weeks further time to the learned Standing Counsel directing for filing a specific affidavit indicating:-

A. As to why the scholarship for the year 2013-14, 2014-15 and 2016-17 had not been paid?

B. As to whether any inquiry was pending for the purpose of scholarship reimbursement for the aforesaid years and if not

C. what was the impediment in reimbursement of the scholarship for the aforesaid years?

4. The Deputy Director, Directorate Social Welfare, U.P. filed a supplementary affidavit stating that in the year 2013-14, there were certain complaints regarding financial irregularities that took place in the year 2012-13. Therefore, the amount allocated for the year 2013-14 could not be disbursed and it lapsed. The supplementary affidavit specifically stated that the inquiry against the petitioners' institution has been conducted by a committee headed by the Additional District Magistrate. The Committee submitted its report on 07.05.2015. Another inquiry pertaining to the year 2016-17 had also been completed by the District Statistical Officer, Gautam Budh Nagar, Noida and no inquiry was pending against the petitioners thereafter. The inquiry report mentions that no allegation could be established in inquiry. Therefore, there is no allegation that any irregularity or illegality has been committed by any of the petitioners.

5. It was also stated in the supplementary affidavit that the Director, Social Welfare had sent a letter dated 26.05.2022 to the State Government for reimbursement of the amount of scholarship but the State Government rejected the request by means of a letter dated 14.06.2022. A copy of the letter dated 14.06.2022 written by the State Government to the Director Social Welfare was annexed with this supplementary affidavit.

6. Thereafter orders were passed in Writ Petition Nos. 8484 and 8485 (M/S) of 2018 granting liberty to the petitioners to challenge the order dated 14.06.2022. The petitioners accordingly filed Writ C Nos. 4838 of 2024 and 4836 of 2024 challenging validity of the order dated 14.06.2022 passed by the State Government. Both the writ petitions were disposed off by separate orders passed on 29.05.2024 on identical terms, setting aside the order dated 14.06.2022 for the reason that the order was not a reasoned order. The matter was relegated to the State Government to take a fresh decision after affording opportunity of hearing to the petitioners.

7. It is after the aforesaid remand, that the State Government has passed the impugned office memorandum dated 15.01.2025 which has been challenged by filing Writ C Nos. 1647 of 2025 and 1668 of 2025.

8. The order states that the scheme provides for transfer of the amount of scholarship to the bank accounts of the beneficiary students directly and there is no provision for payment of scholarship amount to the institutions. The matter is quite old and there is every possibility that bank accounts of several students would not be in operation. In such circumstances, if the department transfers the amount of scholarship to the bank accounts of the students, the transactions would fail. The order further states that no student has raised claim for payment of reimbursement of fee or payment of scholarship. The institutions are demanding payment of money due to which there is every possibility of mis-utilization of Government money.

9. The State has filed counter affidavits in both the writ petitions opposing the writ petitions mainly on two grounds - the first is that the scheme does not provide for payment of scholarship money to the institution and it provides for payment of amount by transferring the same to the bank accounts of the students, no student has come forward for claiming the scholarship amount and the petitioner institutions have no right to claim the payment directly; the second objection raised in the counter affidavit is that the matter is quite old, the budgetary allocation for payment of scholarship stands lapsed and presently there is no budgetary allocation for payment of the amount.

10. The Uttar Pradesh Anushuchit/Anusuchit Janjati Dashmottar Chhatravritti Yojna, 2012 provides that the students eligible to get benefits under the scheme will be admitted to the concerned educational institutions without paying any fee. The petitioners took admission of the students, imparted education to them for 4 years i.e. 2013-14, 2014-15, 2015-16 and 2016-17. Students were paid scholarship for the session 2015-16 only and no amount was paid as scholarship to the students for the years 2013-14, 2014-15 and 2016-17. The scheme provides that the students shall transfer the amount to the educational institutions within 15 days since its receipt in their bank accounts. The students received the scholarship amount for the year 2015-16 and they in turn paid the same to the petitioner institutions. They did not get any amount as scholarship for the rest of the years and, consequently, they did not pay any amount towards fee to the petitioner institutions.

11. The petitioners had taken admission of the students under the scheme without charging any fee, they imparted education to the students who completed their respective courses and left the institutions. Having completed their education and having got their marks-sheets / certificates / degrees etc., the students are no more aggrieved by non-payment of scholarship. It is the petitioner institutions, who had to receive money after the same was paid as scholarship by transferring the same to the students bank account. Due to non payment of money by transferring the same to the students' account, the petitioner institutions could not get the money payable towards their fees although they have imparted education to the students for three academic sessions.

12. In these circumstances, the petitioners are aggrieved by non payment of scholarship amount by the State due to which reason the students did not pay fee to the petitioners and, therefore, the mere fact that students have not come forward to challenge non-payment of scholarship money, will not take away the petitioners' right to claim payment of the amount of fee when the petitioners have imparted education to the students admitted under the scheme, without charging any fee.

13. So far as the objection of the State regarding budgetary allocation having lapsed is concerned, the budgetary allocation is made on yearly basis. The State Government ought to have made payment of the amount of scholarship as per the timeline prescribed in the government order dated 26.09.2012 i.e. by the 31st day of January of the particular year, or in any case, before the end of the respective financial years. The State Government itself committed default in payment of the amount within time or even thereafter by the end of the financial years. The reason assigned for non-payment of the amount was pendency of some inquiry which admittedly stood concluded wherein the petitioners have not been found guilty of committing any misconduct. In these circumstances, denial of payment of scholarship to the petitioners on the ground of delay, which delay is not attributable to the petitioners, will amount to punishing the petitioners for a wrong which has not been committed by them. It is basic principle of dispensation of justice that no person can be punished for a wrong which he has not committed.

14. The learned Standing Counsel has also opposed the writ petitions on the ground that the claim of payment of fee stands barred by the period of limitation as the scholarship for the year 2013-14 was payable on 31.01.2014 and the writ petition has been filed in the year 2025.

15. In reply to the aforesaid objection, the learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that the District Social Welfare Officer, Gautam Budh Nagar had sent letters dated 24.07.2015 to the petitioners stating that a demand for allocation of the amount had been raised for the session 2013-14. As soon as the amount is received from the State Government, the amount will be transferred to the bank accounts of the students. This amounts to a clear and categorical admission regarding liability of payment of amount and this would refresh the running of limitation. Writ Petition Nos. 8584 of 2018 and 8585 of 2018 were filed on 22.03.2018, which was within the limitation period.

16. Further, the scheme provided that the State Government would transfer the scholarship amount to the bank accounts of the students and the students will in turn pay the amount of fee to the petitioners within 15 days since receipt of the amount in their bank accounts. Therefore, the limitation period would start running after the scholarship amount is transferred to the bank accounts of the students, which has not been done in the present case. Therefore, this Court is of the considered view that the claim of the petitioner has not become barred by the limitation and it is still continuing.

17. In view of the aforesaid observation, I find no force in any of the objections raised by the learned Standing Counsel and since the only objection due to which the payment of scholarship was withheld, was that an inquiry was pending in the matter and the inquiry stands concluded in which no one has been found guilty, there is no impediment in payment of the amount of scholarship and fee reimbursement.

18. As the students have completed their studies without payment of any fee to the petitioners in anticipation of payment of scholarship, they have no grievance left and they have not come forward to claim the payment of scholarship and it is the petitioners who are suffering losses due to non payment of scholarship to the students, who in turn would have paid the amount to the petitioners, the petitioners are entitled to be paid the amount of scholarship and fee of the students as per the details already uploaded by them on the official portal.

19. The petitioners have claimed compound interest at the rate of 18% per annum from the date the amount became due till the date of actual payment of the amount. The learned counsel for the petitioners has placed reliance on a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dr. Purnima Advani & Anr. v. Govt. of NCT & Anr.: (2025) 7 SCC 269, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under: -

“14. The concept of awarding interest on delayed payment has been explained by this Court in Karnataka Bank v. RMS Granites (P) Ltd.: 2024 SCC OnLine SC 4695, we quote the following observations:

“16. It may be mentioned that there is misconception about interest. Interest is not a penalty or punishment at all, but it is the normal accretion on capital. For example if A had to pay B a certain amount, say ten years ago, but he offers that amount to him today, then he has pocketed the interest on the principal amount. Had A paid that amount to B ten years ago, B would have invested that amount somewhere and earned interest thereon, but instead of that A has kept that amount with himself and earned interest on it for this period. Hence equity demands that A should not only pay back the principal amount but also the interest thereon to B. [See: Alok Shanker Pandey v. Union of India: (2007) 3 SCC 545.]”

15. Thus, when a person is deprived of the use of his money to which he is legitimately entitled, he has a right to be compensated for the deprivation which may be called interest or compensation. Interest is paid for the deprivation of the use of money in general terms which has returned or compensation for the use or retention by a person of a sum of money belonging to other.

16. As per Black's Law Dictionary (7th Edn.): "interest" is the compensation fixed by agreement or allowed by law for use or detention of money or for the loss of money of one who is entitled to its use, especially, the amount owned to a lender in return for the use of the borrowed money.

17. As per Stroud's Judicial Dictionary of Words and Phrases (5th Edn.): interest means, inter alia, compensation paid by the borrower to the lender for deprivation of the use of his money.

18. In Irrigation Deptt., State of Orissa v. G.C. Roy: (1992) 1 SCC 508, a Constitution Bench of this Court opined that a person deprived of use of money to which he is legitimately entitled has a right to be compensated for the deprivation, call it by any name. It may be called interest, compensation or damages. This is also the principle of Section 34 of the Civil Procedure Code.

19. The essence of interest as held by Lord Wright in Riches v. Westminster Bank Ltd.: 1947 AC 390 (HL), at AC p. 400, is that it is a payment, which becomes due because the creditor has not had his money at the due date. It may be recorded either as representing the profit he might have made if he had had the use of the money, or, conversely, the loss he suffered because he had not that use.

20. In CIT v. Sham Lal Narula: 1962 SCC OnLine Punj 35, a Division Bench of the High Court of Punjab articulated the concept of interest as under: (SCC OnLine Punj)

"The words "interest" and "compensation" are sometimes used interchangeably and on other occasions they have distinct connotation. "Interest" in general terms is the return or compensation for the use or retention by one person of a sum of money belonging to or owed to another. In its narrow sense, "interest" is understood to mean the amount which one has contracted to pay for use of borrowed money. ... In whatever category "interest" in a particular case may be put, it is a consideration paid either for the use of money or for forbearance in demanding it, after it has fallen due, and thus, it is a charge for the use or forbearance of money. In this sense, it is a compensation allowed by law or fixed by parties, or permitted by custom or usage, for use of money belonging to another, or for the delay in paying money after it has become payable."

(emphasis supplied by Supreme Court)

21. The appeal filed against the aforesaid decision was dismissed by this Court in Sham Lal Narula v. CIT: 1964 SCC OnLine SC 151.

22. In Hello Minerals Water (P) Ltd. v. Union of India: 2024 SCC OnLine All 2187, a Division Bench of the Allahabad High Court explained the concept of interest as under:

"31. We may mention that we are passing the direction for interest since interest is the normal accretion on capital.

32. Often there is misconception about interest. Interest is not a penalty or punishment at all. For instance, if A had to pay a certain sum of money to B at a particular time, but he pays it after a delay of several years, the result will be that the money remained with A and he would have earned interest thereon by investing it somewhere. Had he paid that amount at the time when it was payable then B would have invested it somewhere, and earned interest thereon. Hence, if a person has illegally retained some amount of money then he should ordinarily be directed to pay not only the principal amount but also the interest earned thereon.

33. Money doubles every six years (because of compound interest). Rupees hundred in the year 1990 would become rupees two hundred in the year 1996 and it will become Rs 400 in the year 2002. Hence, if A had to pay B a sum of Rs 100 in the year 1990 and he pays that amount only in the year 2002, the result will be that A has pocketed Rs 300 with himself. This clearly cannot be justified because had he paid that amount to B in the year 1990, B would be having Rs 400 in the year 2002 instead of having only Rs 100. Hence, ordinarily interest should always be awarded whenever any amount is detained or realised by someone, otherwise the person receiving the amount after considerable delay would be losing the entire interest thereon which will be pocketed by the person who managed the delay, it is for this reason that we have ordered for payment of interest along with the amount realised as export pass fee."

Interest is normal accretion on capital

23. If on facts of a case, the doctrine of restitution is attracted, interest should follow. Restitution in its etymological sense means restoring to a party on the modification, variation or reversal of a decree or order what has been lost to him in execution of decree or order of the court or in direct consequence of a decree or order. The term "restitution" is used in three senses, firstly, return or restoration of some specific thing to its rightful owner or status, secondly, the compensation for benefits derived from wrong done to another and, thirdly, compensation or reparation for the loss caused to another.

24. In Hari Chand v. State of U.P.: 2011 SCC OnLine All 283, the Allahabad High Court dealing with similar controversy in a stamp matter held that the payment of interest is a necessary corollary to the retention of the money to be returned under order of the appellate or revisional authority. The High Court directed the State to pay interest @ 8% for the period, the money was so retained i.e. from the date of deposit till the date of actual repayment/refund.

25. In ONGC Ltd. v. Commr. of Customs: (2007) 10 SCC 484, SCC para 6, the facts were that the assessment orders passed under the Customs Act creating huge demands were ultimately set aside by this Court. However, during pendency of appeals, a sum of Rs 54,72,87,536 was realised by way of customs duties and interest thereon. In such circumstances, an application was filed before this Court to direct the respondent to pay interest on the aforesaid amount w.e.f. the date of recovery till the date of payment. The appellants relied upon the judgment in South Eastern Coalfields Ltd. v. State of M.P.: (2003) 8 SCC 648, this Court explained the principles of restitution in ONGC as under:

"6. The appellant is a public sector undertaking. The respondent is the Central Government. We agree that in principle as also in equity the appellant is entitled to interest on the amount deposited on application of principle of restitution. In the facts and circumstances of this case and particularly having regard to the fact that the amount paid by the appellant has already been refunded, we direct that the amount deposited by the appellant shall carry interest @ 6% per annum. Reference in this connection may be made to Pure Helium India (P) Ltd. v. ONGC: (2003) 8 SCC 593 and McDermott International Inc. v. Burn Standard Co. Ltd.: (2006) 11 SCC 181"

(emphasis supplied by Supreme Court)

Compensation

26. The word "compensation" has been defined in P. Ramanatha Aiyar's Advanced Law Lexicon, 3rd Edn. 2005, p. 918 as follows:

"An act which a court orders to be done, or money which a court orders to be paid, by a person whose acts or omissions have caused loss or injury to another in order that thereby the person damnified may receive equal value for his loss, or be made whole in respect of his injury; the consideration or price of a privilege purchased something given or obtained as an equivalent, the rendering of an equivalent in value or amount; an equivalent given for property taken or for an injury done to another; the giving back an equivalent in either money which is but the measure of value, or in actual value otherwise conferred; a recompense in value, a recompense given for a thing received, recompense for the whole injury suffered, remuneration or satisfaction for injury or damage of every description, remuneration for loss of time, necessary expenditures, and for permanent disability if such be the result; remuneration for the injury directly, and proximately caused by a breach of contract or duty; remuneration or wages given to an employee or officer."

27. In Union of India v. Tata Chemicals Ltd.: (2014) 6 SCC 335, this Court held that when the collection is illegal, the Revenue is obliged to refund such amount with interest as money so deposited was retained and enjoyed by it. No discrimination can be shown between the assessee and the Revenue in paying interest on the refund of tax. Money received and retained without right, carries with it the right to interest. There being no express statutory provision for payment of interest on the refund of excess amount/tax collected by the Revenue, the Government cannot shrug off its apparent obligation to reimburse the deductor's lawful monies with accrued interest for the period of undue retention of such monies. Obligation to refund money received and retained without right implies and carries with in the right to interest. The relevant observations are as under:

"38. Providing for payment of interest in case of refund of amounts paid as tax or deemed tax or advance tax is a method now statutorily adopted by fiscal legislation to ensure that the aforesaid amount of tax which has been duly paid in prescribed time and provisions in that behalf form part of the recovery machinery provided in a taxing statute. Refund due and payable to the assessee is debt-owed and payable by the Revenue. The Government, there being no express statutory provision for payment of interest on the refund of excess amount/tax collected by the Revenue, cannot shrug off its apparent obligation to reimburse the deductor's lawful monies with the accrued interest for the period of undue retention of such monies. The State having received the money without right and having retained and used it, is bound to make the party good, just as an individual would be under like circumstances. The obligation to refund money received and retained without right implies and carries with it the right to interest. Whenever money has been received by a party which ex aequo et bono ought to be refunded, the right to interest follows, as a matter of course. "

(emphasis supplied by Supreme Court)

22. Opposing the prayer for grant of interest, the learned Standing Counsel has submitted that the judgment in the case of Dr. Purnima Advani involved the question of payment of interest on delay in refund of stamp duty. He has submitted that the present case case regarding reimbursement of fee and scholarship amount under a scheme does not involve any such statutory liability and, therefore, the judgment in the case of Dr. Purnima Advani will not apply to the facts of the present case.

21. It is true that Dr. Purnima Advani (supra) arose from the Stamp Act but there is no provision in the Stamp Act for payment of interest on refund of the amount of stamp, and this was the precise submission of the learned Counsel for the Government in that case, which was rejected by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraph 13 of the judgment, which is as follows: -

"13. The submission of the learned counsel appearing for the respondents that there is no provision in the statute for the payment of interest on refund of the amount of the e-stamp paper that was lost by the appellants herein, is without any merit. The subject General Mandamus is a salutary advancement of the law, calculated to insulate and protect a citizen from unfair treatment by the State."

22. Therefore, the ratio laid down in Dr. Poornima Advani (Supra) cannot be distinguished on the ground that the case arose from the Stamp Act. Moreover, the cases referred in Dr. Poornima Advani (Supra), namely Karnataka Bank v. M/s R.M.S. Granites Pvt. Ltd., Riches v. Westminster Bank Ltd., Hello Minerals Water (P) Ltd. v. Union Of India did not arise from any such statute. In Hello Minerals Water (P) Ltd., the Division Bench of this Court has held that money doubles every six years (because of compound interest). Rs. hundred in the year 1990 would become Rs. two hundred in the year 1996 and it will become Rs. 400 in the year 2002. Hence, if A had to pay B a sum of rupees 100 in the year 1990 and he pays that amount only in the year 2002, the result will be that A has pocketed Rs. 300 with himself. This clearly cannot be justified because had he paid that amount to B in the year 1990, B would be having Rs. 400 in the year 2002 instead of having only Rs. 100/-. Hence, ordinarily interest should always be awarded whenever any amount is detained or realized by someone, otherwise the person receiving the amount after considerable delay would be losing the entire interest thereon which will be pocketed by the person who managed the delay. The aforesaid principle laid down in Hello Minerals Water (P) Ltd. squarely covers the claim of interest on delayed payment by the petitioners in the present case.

23. However, the claim of payment of compound interest at the rate of 18% per annum does not appear to be justified and it would be just to award payment of interest at the maximum rates being paid by Nationalized Banks on fixed deposits..

24. Accordingly, all the Writ Petitions are allowed. A Writ of Certiorari is issued quashing the impugned Office Memorandum dated 15.01.2025 rejecting the petitioners claim for reimbursement of the amount of fee of the students. Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to challenge to the order dated 30.04.2024 passed by the Chairman, Lucknow Development Authority, relating to Plot No. 1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar, and prayer for issuance of a writ of mandamus restraining the respondents from allotting the said plot to any other person, on the basis of alleged housing pattas granted by the Gram Sabha in the years 1973 and 1981, and dispute as to whether the petitioner's house is situated on Khasra No. 55 (acquired land) or Khasra No. 88 (non-acquired land).(Paras 1, 8, 19, 24)

Held: The petitioner's claim based on alleged housing pattas of 1973 and 1981 was unsustainable, as the allottee did not fall within the eligible categories under S. 122-C, and the pattas were issued without mandatory prior approval of the Assistant Collector, rendering them invalid - Joint survey conducted by the revenue authorities and officials of the Lucknow Development Authority using Electronic Total Station (ETS) established that the petitioner's house is situated on Khasra No. 55, which had

A- The Challenge

1. Petitioner has prayed for quashing of order dated 30.04.2024 passed by the Chairman Lucknow Development Authority (hereinafter referred as L.D.A.) in relation to plot no. 1/205, and has also prays for a writ in the nature of mandamus, commanding the respondent not to allot plot no. 1/205, Vineet Khand belonging to the petitioner to anyone else.

B- Rival Submissions

2. The case of the petitioner as has been put by Sri Anshuman Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner is that his father Kaushal Kishore Shukla had earlier filed Writ Petition No.8426 (M/B) of 2009 in relation to House No.A-1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow challenging the order dated 12.08.2009 passed by the Lucknow Development Authority. The said writ petition was dismissed for want of prosecution on 07.03.2024. The petitioner has filed a recall application on 11.03.2024, which is pending for consideration, in which counsel for private respondent got an adjournment on 26.04.2024. It is also stated that Writ Petition No.1970 (M/B) of 2001 was filed by the father of private respondent, Sri V.D. Keshari against the Lucknow Development Authority and this writ petition was clubbed with Writ Petition No.8426 (M/B) of 2009 and was decided by this Court vide order dated 07.03.2024 directing the Lucknow Development Authority to consider the representation of Vimal Chand Keshari, who had been substituted on account of death of his father V. D. Keshari, who died in the meantime.

3. It is also the case of the petitioner that his father Kaushal Kishore Shukla was an ex-Army person and one plot of land in Gram Sabha, Khargapur Husariya admeasuring 8 Biswas was given to him by the Gram Pradhan by executing 2 pattas on 21.12.1973 and 02.09.1981 respectively. The plot in question i.e. 1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar has been developed after the Lucknow Development Authority (hereinafter referred as L.D.A.) has taken over the Gram Sabha land of Village Khargapur Husariya. It has been stated that petitioner's father Late Kaushal Kishore Shukla constructed a house for his family, which was numbered as House No.54 of Village Husariya and the name of the family members of Late Kaushal Kishore Shukla were shown in Pariwar Register of Gram Sabha, Khargapur Husariya. The Gram Sabha had passed a resolution in favour of Late Kaushal Kishore Shukla as he, being a Havaldar in Indian Army, had fought in the Indo-Pakistan War in the year 1971 and had been awarded a Special Service Medal with clasp while serving in Indian Peace Keeping Force in Sri Lanka. It has been stated in the writ petition that the house constructed by the father of the petitioner was assessed by the Nagar Mahapalika in the year 1992 and the Nagar Nigam gave it as House No. 1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar. The Nagar Nigam is collecting the house tax from the father of the petitioner since 2002.

4. It is stated in the writ petition that under Section 198(4) of the U.P.Z.A.L.R. Act only the Collector is empowered to cancel a patta if any irregularities is found therein and such patta can only be cancelled after issuing a show cause notice and the limitation for cancellation of such patta is five years. However, no such show cause notice was ever issued by the Collector to the father of the petitioner since the inception of the two pattas dated 21.12.1973 and 02.09.1981. It has further been stated that the requirement of approval of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate was added only in the year 1975 and before 1975, the prior approval for grant of patta by Gram Sabha was not required. The Lucknow Development Authority has got no statutory authority to cancel or ignore the pattas granted by the Gram Sabha in violation of Sections 198(4), (5) and (6) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. It has also been stated that although the petitioner has been threatened to be thrown out from his plot, other similarly situated nine persons/patta holders were adjusted by providing them housing sites over their patta land.

5. It has also been stated that the petitioner and his family have been in continuous possession over Plot No.1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar for the past 51 years as his father had constructed the house over the said plot of land of Khasra No.88 of Village Khargapur Husariya. Further submission has been made that V.D. Keshari, father of private respondent, had applied for a Lower Income Group house in Tikait Rai Housing Scheme of Lucknow Development Authority, but surprisingly his allotment was shifted to Gomti Nagar Scheme against the Rules and he was given 5,810 Sq. Ft. of land in the posh area of Gomti Nagar and besides this, his wife Smt. Kamla Keshari was also allotted Plot No.A-3/272, Vishwas Khand, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow. It is stated that both the spouses could not have been allotted a house or plot in the same city by the Lucknow Development Authority as it is against the Rules.

6. It has also been stated that on query being made by the father of the petitioner from the Lucknow Development Authority with regard to illegal allotment to the father of private respondent, it has been informed that application of V.D. Keshari is undated and was accepted sometimes in 1988, whereas allotment of developed plots in Vineet Khand itself had been started only in the year 1989. It has been submitted that it is not clear as to how in the year 1988 one A Type plot of 5810 Sq. Ft. was allotted to V.D. Keshari.

7. It has also been stated that a Resolution was passed by the Lucknow Development Authority in its Board meeting held on 27.11.1998 that patta holders of earlier Gram Sabha land would be adjusted against their plots after taking Development charges. This resolution was never acted upon in relation to the petitioner, but other patta holders were adjusted.

8. It has also been stated in the writ petition that the order impugned states that House No. A-1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar is not situated over Khasra No.88, but it is situated over Khasra No.55, whereas no survey was done to find out on which Khasra Plot Number House No. A-1/205 Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar is situated. The Public Information Officer's comments and the report of the Lucknow Development Authority submitted before the Grievance Redressal Committee of Vidhan Sabha has been filed as Annexure-21 to the writ petition.

9. Initially, when the writ petition was filed, counsel for the petitioner and the counsel for the Lucknow Development Authority were heard and notices were issued to private respondent and the Court had observed that till the next date of listing the petitioner shall not be evicted from the house and no demolition of the house shall be carried out. The petitioner was also restrained from raising any new constructions or creating any third party rights on the plot in dispute.

10. Later on, an application for recall of such order was filed by the counsel for private respondent, namely, C.M. Application No.2 of 2024, wherein it was stated that in pursuance of allotment made by the Lucknow Development Authority to the father of OP. no. 4, the entire sale consideration was deposited in the year 1999. The Court after going through the affidavit filed in support of the Application for Recall, modified its order dated 07.05.2024 to the extent that house of the father of petitioner, which was said to be constructed only upon 645 Sq. Ft. of land and the appurtenant land thereto admeasuring only 2 Biswa as alleged to have been granted by way of patta in 1973 by the Gram Sabha concerned, should not be disturbed. The rest of the land, which is in dispute, was directed to be demarcated and handed over to the allottee, who had already paid the entire sale consideration to the Lucknow Development Authority. The Court also directed the listing of the writ petition along with the records of Writ Petition No.8426 (M/B) of 2009, Kaushal Kishore Shukla Vs. Lucknow Development Authority and others, and Writ Petition No.170 (M/B) of 2001, V.D. Keshari Vs. Lucknow Development Authority and others, and Writ Petition No. 1701 (M/B) of 1998, Kaushal Kishore Shukla Vs. Lucknow Development Authority and others, decided on 11.06.1998.

11. In the application for Recall of interim order dated 07.05.2024 filed by private respondent, Vimal Chand Keshari, it was stated that the entire writ petition had misleading averments and the interim order dated 07.05.2024 had been obtained on the basis of misrepresentation and concealment. Though, the lease in favour of the petitioner's father is said to have been made initially on 15.12.1973 by a Resolution passed by the Gaon Sabha actual allotment in Prescribed Form 5 had not been filed along with the petition. Also, Kaushal Kishore Shukla had retired in 1990. Having been in active service as havaldar/clerk in the Indian Army, he could not be said to be belonging to reserved category or landless or living Below Poverty Line. Also, allotment of housing site could not have been made to him a second time in 1981 as alleged in the petition. The L.D.A. had acquired the land somewhere in the year 1980, and the land vested initially in the State Government and thereafter in the L.D.A. It allotted plot no. 1/205, Vineet Khand in favour of the father of the private respondent.

12. It was also stated that it seems that after such acquisition of land in Vineet Khand, late Kaushal Kishore Shukla had got prepared documents in 1981, and he claimed Two Pattas, to have been given to him, one of which was of 2 Biswa and the other of 6 Biswa. Currently, the petitioner was in possession of almost 7000 ft² of land. However Resolution which the petitioner is alleging to have been passed by the Gram Sabha in 1973 was only for 2 Biswa of land which comes to around 2600 ft². Kaushal Kishore Shukla has encroached on much more land than was allegedly allotted in his favour. The Gaon Sabha Husariya has also not been impleaded as respondent in the petition otherwise facts regarding alleged allotment of Housing Patta in favour of the petitioner's father would have been verified. Such land on which the petitioner's house is built is situated on the main road in front of Jaipuria school and the construction of the petitioner is only 645.50 ft². The father of private respondent was a retired judicial officer who was allotted 540 m² of land Plot No. 1/205 which comes to around 5810ft.²

13. It was stated by the private respondent that while filing the petition, the petitioner has resorted to concealment as he had not given reference of Writ Petition

No. 1701 M/ B of 1998, which Kaushal Kishore Shukla had filed. He has also not given reference of Regular Suit no. 233 of 1995, which had been filed by Kaushal Kishore Shukla against L.D.A. in which application for Interim Injunction was rejected by the Court of Munsif Havali on 31.03.1998. The father of the petitioner had also filed Writ Petition No. 1701 (M/B) of 1998, which was disposed of by this court on the first date. True copies of the order dated 25.04.1995 and of order dated 31.03.1998 passed by Munsif Havali Lucknow in Civil Suit no. 233 of 1995 have been filed as Annexures to such application for Recall.

14. Sri Sharad Pathak, learned counsel for private respondent has pointed out the plaint of Regular Suit No.233 of 1995, which has been filed as Annexure to his Counter Affidavit, and has stated that in paragraph-1 of such plaint, the petitioner's father had stated that Khasra No.88(Min.) admeasuring 8 Biswa in Village Khargapur Husariya was allotted to him in 1973 by the Gram Sabha Khargapur Husariya as housing site and the plaintiff- Kaushal Kishore Shukla was given the possession in 1973 by the Gram Panchayat and he built his house in 1980 over the said housing site. A boundary wall was also constructed. It was also stated that in the plaint the plaintiff - Kaushal Kishore Shukla had planted 40 Eucalyptus Trees, 8 Mango Trees, 3 Guava Trees, 10 Poplar Trees and 10 other trees in the open land surrounding his house. On the northern side of the plot, the boundary is mentioned as Sadak Sarkari. An allegation was made against in the plaintiff that the defendant-Lucknow Development Authority that they had tried to interfere in the possession of the plaintiff on various dates and an attempt was made to demolish the house and the boundary wall of the disputed house/property situated in Khasra No.88, Village Husariya

15. Further, it has been pointed out by Sri Sharad Pathak from the Writ Petition No. 1701 (M/ B) of 98 that was filed earlier by the petitioner's father in 1998, a copy of which has been filed as Annexure to the Counter Affidavit that, in the said writ petition, father of the petitioner had stated that the respondents were threatening to demolish his house in Village Husariya, Post Malesemau, Lucknow, now also known as Vineet Khand-I, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow and that he had constructed a house on the plot of land Khasra No. 88 admeasuring 6 Biswas on 02.09.1981, after getting permission and patta from the Gram Sabha Khargapur Husariya, Lucknow. The then Pradhan of the Gram Sabha had given patta on 02.09.1981. It has been stated in the Counter Affidavit of the private respondent that there is no mention in the said writ petition of alleged earlier patta granted in 1973 of 2 Bigha land for housing purposes. The said Writ Petition No. 1701 (M/B) 1998 was disposed of on the first day itself by this Court by observing that counsel for the Lucknow Development Authority had stated that the Lucknow Development Authority would act only in accordance with law.

16. It has been submitted by the counsel for the private Respondent that later Writ Petition No. 8426 (M/B) 2009 was filled praying for a writ in the nature of Certiorari quashing Annexure-1, which is a letter dated 12.08.2009 issued by the Under Secretary, Lucknow Development Authority indicating that an earlier letter had been issued on 12.11.2008 wherein it has been stated that Plot No.A-1/205 Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar may be taken from him and it its place, father of the petitioner may be adjusted by giving a plot to him in Gomti Nagar Vistar Yojana at current rate of Rs.112.50 per Sq. Mtr. However, the father of the petitioner had not given any consent for such adjustment. Father of the petitioner was informed that registry has to be executed in favour of the allottee of plot in Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar, in case no consent is given by Kaushal Kishore Shukla, then demolition of the petitioner's encroachment would be undertaken soon. A prayer was made in this Writ Petition No. 8426(M/B) 2009 for issuance of a Mandamus to regularize the occupancy of House No.1-205 Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar in favour of the father of the petitioner after taking requisite Development Charges. A prayer was further made for quashing the allotment order made in favour of opposite party no.2 V. D. Keshari i.e. father of private respondent.

17. Since Writ Petition No.8426 (M/B) of 2009 was listed along with writ petition filed by V.D. Keshari, namely, Writ Petition No.1970 (M/B) of 2001 and no counsel appeared to press this petition, while the writ petition filed by the petitioner's father was dismissed for want of prosecution, writ petition filed by the father of private respondent Late V.D. Keshari (Substituted by Vimal Chand Keshari) was disposed of with the observation that in case a representation is moved by him to the Vice- Chairman/Secretary, Lucknow Development Authority raising his grievance and annexing therewith all documents in support of his claim, the same shall be considered and a decision will be taken in accordance with law by a reasoned and speaking order, within four weeks from the date a certified copy of the order dated 07.03.2024 was produced before the Vice Chairman.

18. Writ Petition No.1970 (M/B) of 2001 filed by V.D. Keshari, father of private respondent was only for issuance of a writ in the nature of Mandamus commanding opposite parties to perform its legal obligations by executing and registering the deed of conveyance in respect of Plot No.A-1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar and to deliver its vacant possession to the allottee after removal of encroachments thereon.

19. Sri Sharadh Pathak, learned counsel for private respondent while arguing the matter on merits has submitted further that the petitioner in his writ petition has stated that the house was constructed by his father on Khasra No.88. However, a survey was done by a joint team of revenue officials and the officials of the Lucknow Development Authority and it was found that house of the father of the petitioner had actually been constructed over Khasra No.55, which land had already been acquired by notification issued under Sections 4 and 6 of the U.P. Land Acquisition Act and the compensation has been paid to the recorded tenure holders. It has also been argued that petitioner concealed the report of the Consolidation Officer dated 27.04.2024, wherein it was apparent that the land upon which the petitioner's father had constructed the house was on Khasra No.55 and not on Khasra No.88. Actually, a major portion of Khasra No.88 is lying vacant, upon which illegal encroachments had been made by some other villagers. It has been argued that it appears that when the Colony was being developed, the father of the petitioner moved towards the main road by leaving the land on which he was claiming to be allotted a housing patta. It has also been submitted that patta that has been relied upon and stated to have been issued in favour of Kaushal Kishore Shukla, is apparently not a genuine housing site allotment as the father of the petitioner was working as Havaladar in the Army and was not Below Poverty Line and he belonged to General Category, therefore, he was not falling within any of the categories as provided under Section 198(F) of the U.P.Z.A.L.R. Act for preferential allotment.

20. It has also been submitted that petitioner's father had initially claimed that patta had been given to him by the Gram Sabha on 15.12.1973 for 2 Biswa of land and then again in 1981 for 6 Biswa of land i.e. total 8 Biswa land is alleged to have been allotted. The 1981 patta is apparently in violation of the amended provisions of the U.P.Z.A.L.R. Act, which requires prior permission of the Assistant Collector in-charge of Sub Division for grant of patta. Also, by that time the father of the petitioner was not landless and not Below Poverty Line.

21. Sri Ratnesh Chandra, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Lucknow Development Authority has pointed out from the Counter Affidavit filed on behalf of L.D.A. on 26.03.2025 praying for dismissal of the petition that plot no. 1/205 Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar was allotted in favour of V.D. Keshari on 18.07.1988 in pursuance of Cash Down Payment policy. Since, there was unauthorised construction and possession over the said plot, so he could not be delivered the possession of such plot and he preferred Writ Petition No. 1970 (M/B) of 2001 before this Court, which was finally decided by this Court by order dated 07.03.2024, directing the substituted petitioner Vimal Chand Keshari to file a fresh representation before the Chairman/

Secretary Lucknow Development Authority, and such representation would be considered and decided in accordance with law by reasoned and speaking order.

22. In compliance of such order dated 07.03.2024 Vimal Chand Keshari had preferred representation on 11.03.2024 in pursuance of which hearing took place on 22.04.2024. Vimal Chand Keshari, son of V.D. Keshari and Rakesh Kumar Shukla, son of Kaushal Kishore Shukla were present and made their detailed submissions. The records relating to the case were also perused and thereafter a reasoned and speaking order has been passed, which has been challenged in the petition.

23. It has also been stated in paragraph 8 of such Counter Affidavit filed by L.D.A. that earlier also the Vice Chairman by his order dated 05.05.1998 had directed that possession of plot no. 1/205 to be delivered to V.D. Keshari and Kaushal Kishore Shukla be allotted some other plot on the prevailing rates in some other Yojna. Kaushal Kishore Shukla submitted various applications before different authorities for getting executed sale deed in respect of plot no. 1/205 Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar. He did not give consent for allotment of another plot in another Scheme at prevailing rates, and the earlier order dated 05.05.1998 stood automatically cancelled.

24. Also, in the said Counter Affidavit of the Lucknow Development Authority, genuineness of the alleged Housing patta allotment made in 1973 and 1981 of 8 Biswa of land in khasra no. 88 village has been strongly disputed. Such Patta was not allotted in accordance with the provisions of the U.P.Z.A.L.R. Act and could not be treated to be a valid document. Even otherwise the land on which the petitioners father had constructed his house has been identified as Khasra No.55, for which payment of compensation has been made to the recorded tenure holders on completion of acquisition thereof. At no point of time, the L.D.A. had admitted that the house was situated over Khasra No.88, only the submission of the father of the petitioner was recorded in various orders that his house was situated over Khasra No. 88. However, after due survey, it has been found that the plot in question 1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar is falling over Khasra No. 55 and not Khasra no. 88. Copy of Survey done through Electronic Total Station method on 23.04.2024, by the Tehsildar, the Revenue Inspector, the Area lekhpal, and the Surveyor has been filed as annexure CA 6 to the Counter Affidavit.

25. Sri Ratnesh Chandra, learned counsel for the Lucknow Development Authority has pointed out Annexure-CA-6 of Counter Affidavit filed by private respondent, which is a report of the joint team of the revenue officials and the officials of the Lucknow Development Authority along with a private company namely M/s P.C.S. Management Consultancy Private Limited, which was engaged to find out the location of Plot No.88 and Plot No.55 of Village Khargapur, Husariya, Lucknow. Earlier also, measurement and demarcation was tried to be done, but the same could not be carried out because of difficulty in determining Fixed Points. Therefore, M/s P.C.S. Management Consultancy Private Limited team was engaged. They along with revenue team and the team of the Lucknow Development Authority officials had resorted to Electronic Total Station (ETS) Survey, which is a computerized survey and Khasra No.232, area 0.013 hectare recorded as Nala was taken as a Fixed Point. Such Nala was later on converted into a road when the Gomti Nagar Vineet Khand- I Scheme was developed. From this Road/Nala/Khasra No.232, the location of Khasra No.55 and Khasra No.88 was found. The house of the petitioner's father was found to be situated at Plot No.55 and not on Plot No.88 and Plot No.55 admeasuring 0.6100 hectares had already been acquired in the land acquisition proceedings and compensation was paid to the recorded tenure holders, Ram Prasad, Santosh Kumar and others.

26. It has been stated by the Lucknow Development Authority in its Counter Affidavit that since it is clear that House on Plot No.1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar is constructed over part of Khasra No.55, which has been acquired after payment of compensation to the recorded tenure holders by the impugned order dated 30.04.2024, the possession of the said plot was directed to be taken within a period of one week and it was directed that the same be handed over to private respondent in the impugned order dated 30.04.2024.

27. It has been pointed out by Shri Ratnesh Chandra from page 18 of the writ petition which is the impugned order dated 30.04.2024, that Vice-Chairman, Lucknow Development Authority has dealt with the allotment made in favour of V.D. Keshari. The records relating to such allotment had been examined by the Vice-Chairman and it was found that Plot No.1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar had been given on the basis of a Scheme floated by the Lucknow Development Authority to V.D. Keshari on 18.07.1988. The allottee had deposited the entire amount of sale consideration along with interest thereon and the stamp papers were also made available by the allottee, but because of the unauthorised encroachment over such plot of land by the petitioner's father, the sale deed could not be executed. It has also been mentioned in the impugned order that father of the petitioner had been given a choice to take another plot of land in Gomti Nagar Vistar Yojana and Shri V.D. Keshari be given the possession of Plot No.1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar. However, he had refused such option given by the Lucknow Development Authority by its letter dated 05.05.1998. It has also been mentioned in the impugned order that V.D. Keshari, the erstwhile allottee, died on 09.11.2016 and private respondent, his son, has been allotted Plot No.A-1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar on the basis of Will made out in his favour by his father.

28. In the Rejoinder Affidavit filed by the petitioner, it has been mentioned that Writ Petition No.8426 (M/B) of 2009 was filed by Late Kaushal Kishore Shukla and Writ Petition No.1970 (M/B) of 2001 was filed by Late V.D. Keshari. V.D. Keshari in his writ petition had alleged that he has been allotted Plot No.1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar by the Lucknow Development Authority, whereas Late Kaushal Kishore Shukla had said that a housing site was allotted by the Land Management Committee and Gram Sabha Khargapur Husariya and such land was never acquired by the Lucknow Development Authority. Since the very inception of the case, the Lucknow Development Authority had stated that House No.A-1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar was situated over Khasra No.88 and it could not now turn around and say that the house is constructed on Khasra no. 55 on the basis of report made by a survey committee. It has also been stated in the Rejoinder Affidavit that although in the impugned order, mention has been made that the petitioner was heard along with private respondent by the Vice- Chairman, Lucknow Development Authority, in fact he was not heard at all and it was a one sided order. The allotment in favour of Late V.D. Keshari was illegal and the sale deed was never executed in favour of Late V.D. Keshari, therefore, his legal representatives could not have been allotted the plot in question only on the basis of a Will. It has also been stated that Late V.D. Keshari has fraudulently applied for allotment of plot in Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar, although, his wife had already been allotted House No.A-3/272, Vishwas Khand, Gomti Nagar.

29. In the Rejoinder Affidavit to the Counter Affidavit filed by the Sri Sharad Pathak, Counsel for the private respondent which has been filed on 20.08.2025, the petitioner has reiterated the contents of the writ petition and contents of Writ Petition No. 8426 (M/B) of 2009 filed by the father of the petitioner. Denying the contents of para 2 of the Counter Affidavit where in allegation of misrepresentation and deliberate concealment has been made by private respondent, it has been stated that the order dated 11.06.1998 was annexed in Writ Petition No. 8426 (M/B) of 2009. Writ Petition No. 4177 (M/B) of 2024 has been filed against order dated 30.04.2024. which order is an altogether new order and therefore there was no need of mentioning the order dated 11.06.1998, which was passed in reference to a different order passed by the L.D.A. It has also been stated that Writ Petition No.1701 (M/B) of 1998 related to a different cause of action and had no concern with the present petition which has been filed against order dated 30.04.2024. It has also been stated that in petition no. 1701 (M/B) of 1998 and petition no. 8426 (M/B) of 2009, this court had directed L.D.A. to take appropriate action. Therefore, Regular Suit no. 233 of 1995 became redundant and it was not necessary to carry on with it any further or to mention it in the Writ Petition No.4177 (M/B) of 2024.

30. In Paragraph 6 of such Rejoinder Affidavit, it has been stated that actually the father of the petitioner was allotted a total of 10,000 ft.² of land through two Pattas. Two Biswa of land i.e. 272 2 ft.² was given in 1973, and at that time approval from the SDM was not required. Later on, housing patta of 6 Biswa of land was given in 1981, i.e. 816 6 ft.² Later on, some land was taken by the L.D.A. for construction of Road and for carving out plot no. 1/206, 1/204, 1/203F. Presently only 6500 ft.² of land is available with the petitioner. It has also been stated that after the order dated 29.05.2024, the L.D.A. has demolished the boundary wall of the petitioner on 05.06.2024. The house of the petitioner is constructed over 1100 ft.² of the land and not 645 ft.² only as alleged by the respondents.

31. It has also been argued by Sri Anshuman Singh that the Lucknow Development Authority could not be allowed to change its stand and take an altogether different stand by saying that the super imposition of Google map was done and House No.A-1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar belonging to the petitioner was found over Khasra No.55. No Survey commission was ever conducted and only on the basis of such non-existent Survey, the location of the house of the petitioner cannot be ascertained. A dispute has also been raised regarding the survey that was allegedly conducted on 23.04.2024 as it has been stated that such survey has taken the entire Nala as Fixed Point. As per the Survey Rules, no Fixed Point can be taken over Nala Road or River at all as these things have no corners and only two parallel arms over which Fixed Point cannot be taken until there is corner. It has also been argued that an alternate land was offered by the father of the petitioner on the current rate in 1998, whereas, the petitioner's house was constructed over a plot given to his father in 1973 sometimes in 1981.

C. Examination of pleadings by the Court:-

32. Since the records of Writ Petition No. 1701 (M/B) 2005: Kaushal Kishore Shukla v. State of U.P. and others and Writ Petition No. 8426 (M/B) 2009 had been summoned by an earlier order and they were tagged to the instant writ petition, we have perused the said records.

33. Writ Petition No.- 1970 (M/B) of 2001 was filed by V.D. Keshari, father of the private respondent, praying for a direction to be issued to the L.D.A. to perform its legal obligation by executing and registering deed of conveyance in respect of plot no. A - 1/205, Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar, and also to deliver its vacant possessions to the petitioner after removal of encroachment thereon within time as prescribed by the Court; and also for a direction to the Lucknow Development Authority not to transfer the said plot in question, either as a whole or in piecemeal by way of allotment to any other person.

34. A perusal of the record of this petition shows that when the writ petition was taken up as fresh on 27.04.2001, the Court noted that the petitioner had already deposited the entire amount for the plot in question and directed the Standing Counsel for the L.D.A. to seek instructions in the matter, and in the meantime, the respondents were directed not to allot the plot in question to any other person till next date of listing of the Court.

35. Writ Petition No.1970(M/B) of 2001 was dismissed for want of prosecution on 03.04.2013. An application for restoration was filed on 24.07.2014, which was dismissed for want of prosecution on 13.01.2017. V. D. Keshari had died on 09.11.2016 and an application for substitution and an application for recall were filed which were both allowed on 08.11.2017. The petition was listed for hearing, but no one appeared to the court and writ petition was again dismissed for want of prosecution on 22.05.2018. An application for recall of order dated 22.05.2018 was filed which was rejected by this Court by its order dated 09.08.2019. Again application for recall was filed, which was eventually allowed and writ petition was restored to its original number on 20.04.2022 by this Court on 09.11.2016. Vimal Chand Keshari S/o V.D. Keshari had sought substitution as he had been appointed to succeed upon the property in dispute on the basis of a registered Will deed executed by his father on 21.08.2015 in his favour.

36. Writ Petition No. 1970(M/B) of 2001 was directed to be listed along with Writ Petition No. 8426(M/B) of 2009, Kishore Shukla Vs. L.D.A. on 20.03.2023. Writ Petition No. 8426 (M/B) of 2009 was filed by Kaushal Kishore Shukla, the predecessor in interest of Rakesh Kumar Shukla, praying for a writ in the nature of mandamus to the respondent L.D.A. to regularise the occupancy of the petitioner of house no. 1/205 Vineet Khand, Gomti Nagar after taking requisite development charges, etc: The petitioner also prayed for a writ in the nature of certiorari for quashing illegal and backdated, fraudulent allotment Order contained in Annexure, 15 to the petition by which it allotted plot no. 1/205, Vineet Khand to opposite party no. 2, V.D. Keshari as on the said land on which petitioners' house exists for the last 28 years and to allot any other plot in favour of opposite party no. 2. It was also prayed that a high-level enquiry into bungling and fraud in allotment against the rules and removal of relevant L.D.A. records be also made.
