8. During Examination-in-Chief, he deposed that he knew the accused, Tarsem Singh, who was a resident of his village Phulvariya. He further deposed that Gurdeep Kaur was his biological mother and that she died after the incident. He further deposed that he was the eldest among three brothers and one sister. He further deposed that his father, deceased Balvinder Singh, had earlier married Sukhavinder Kaur, whom he referred to as his Badi Maa. He further deposed that Sukhavinder Kaur had one daughter who was married prior to the incident. He further deposed that the accused Tarsem Singh had been visiting their house, ever since he became old enough to understand things. He further deposed that his grandmother disliked such visits and had instructed his father as well as his biological mother not to allow Tarsem Singh to visit the house. He further deposed that Tarsem Singh used to visit the house even in the absence of his father. He further deposed that the deceased Sarwan Singh Kalsi, who was a friend of his father, was a resident of Punjab and had come to stay at their house about three to four days prior to the date of the incident. He further deposed that their house was a double-storied structure. He further deposed that on the upper floor there were three rooms—one on the eastern side, one on the western side and one in the middle. He further deposed that he used to address his father as "Kaku". He further deposed that the incident occurred in the intervening night of 18/19.05.1999. He further deposed that on that night, his father and Sarwan Singh Kalsi were sleeping in the eastern room on the upper floor. He further deposed that in the middle room, he and his younger brother, Jagjit Singh, were sleeping on one cot, while on the adjacent cot his grandmother Nasib Kaur and his Badi Maa Sukhavinder Kaur were sleeping. He further deposed that his biological mother Gurdeep Kaur, along with her two younger children, was sleeping in the western room. He further deposed that a tube light was on in the middle room as Nasib Kaur had a habit of sleeping with the light on. He further deposed that at about 12:00 midnight, he and his brother woke up after hearing the sound of two gunshots fired from the eastern room. He further deposed that thereafter he saw Tarsem Singh and Gurdeep Kaur entering in their room from the eastern side, there being a door between the two rooms. He further deposed that Tarsem Singh was carrying a single-barrel gun (ek naali bandook) and Gurdeep Kaur was carrying a big knife (badi chhuri). He further deposed that Gurdeep Kaur was wearing only drawers (कच्छा) and vest (बनियान) while her face was covered with a red scarf. He further deposed that as soon as she entered the room, she stabbed Nasib Kaur on her body and face. He further deposed that at the same time Tarsem Singh fired upon Sukhavinder Kaur. He further deposed that his grandmother and his Badi Maa died as a result of the injuries sustained. He further deposed that thereafter his biological mother, Gurdeep Kaur, threatened him and his brother not to disclose anything to anyone, failing which Tarsem Singh would kill them. He further deposed that due to this threat he was frightened. He further deposed that after the incident, Tarsem Singh and Gurdeep Kaur left the house. He further deposed that he, thereafter, went to the eastern room and saw his father and Sarwan Singh Kalsi lying dead. He further deposed that he remained silent out of fear and that after about eight days, when the police arrested Tarsem Singh and Gurdeep Kaur, his fear subsided. He further deposed that only thereafter he disclosed the entire incident to the Investigating Officer.

9. During cross-examination, he deposed that his mother belonged to Punjab. However, he was not aware of the exact village or city from where she hailed. He further deposed that his badi maa was a resident of Sampurna Nagar and was first married to his father. He further deposed that she had one daughter, who was married in Khairtiha. He further deposed that her brother-in-law was a resident of Khairtiha and used to visit their house. He further deposed that he, along with his younger brother, used to visit Khairtiha and stay there for one to two days. He further deposed that the information regarding the murder of his badi maa and father reached Khairtiha in the morning and by that time the dead bodies had already been sealed. He further deposed that Tarsem Singh was not present when the dead bodies were being sealed. He further deposed that he was not capable of stating as to whose body was sealed first or last and that no paperwork was done in his presence. He further deposed that no blood sample was collected by the Inspector in his presence and that the Inspector did not question any witness in his presence. He further deposed that the Inspector did not call him to the police station even after eight to ten days of the incident and did not ask him anything about the occurrence, nor did he himself narrate anything to the Inspector. He further deposed that whatever was written by the Inspector was done on his own volition. He further deposed that the testimony given by him was not tutored and that he was not deposing for the first time. He further deposed that he studies at Palia School and that his younger brother, Jagjit, also studies in the same school. He further deposed that at the time of the incident the school was closed due to summer vacation. He further deposed that he was not well-versed in Hindi. He further deposed that he and his brother were sleeping in the same room in which his badi maa and grandmother were sleeping. He further deposed that his grandmother's name was Naseeb Kaur and she was killed while she was sleeping and no gunshot was fired at her. He further deposed that he heard three gunshots during the incident, out of which one was fired in his room and the second shot was heard from the eastern room. He further deposed that after the attackers fled, he and his brother came out of the room and at that time no one from the neighbourhood had arrived. He further deposed that he woke up Seva Ram (servant), who was sleeping downstairs. He further deposed that thereafter Seva Ram went to call the neighbours and then Darshan Singh, Balwant Singh and others came, but Tarsem Singh was not present at that time. He further deposed that when the police arrived, Gurdeep Kaur was present in the house and that there was no other person present except the two offenders. He further deposed that when he went to wake his grandmother Naseeb Kaur, she was already dead. He further deposed that he neither cried nor hugged any of the dead bodies. He further deposed that he and his brother left the house during the night and returned only after the police arrived. He further deposed that he did not inform any officer that his mother and Tarsem Singh were the murderers of his father, his badi maa and his grandmother. He further deposed that the offenders neither assaulted them nor fired upon them. He further deposed that it would be wrong to say that he and his brother, Jagjit Singh (PW-5), were not present at the time of the incident or that they reached the place after information was sent to Khairtiha. He further deposed that the dead bodies were lying with their heads towards the west and legs towards the east. He further deposed that the bodies were taken down from the cots and kept in the courtyard of the terrace in his presence. He further deposed that when the police arrived, all four bodies were kept in the courtyard in front of the eastern room. He further deposed that at about 4:00 P.M. the bodies were taken to the mortuary, but neither he nor his brother accompanied the bodies and he was unaware as to whether any family member accompanied them. He further deposed that the bodies were later brought back, after which he and his brother participated in the last rites. He further deposed that the offenders looted jewellery, cash and other valuable articles and scattered the contents of the storage boxes. He further deposed that he went to his father's room after he was already dead and clarified that his father's room was situated on the eastern side where he was sleeping. He further deposed that the main door of his room faced north, whereas his father's room was situated towards the south. He further deposed that he witnessed the occurrence from a place between the wall and the door of his father's room, though he did not inform the police about this fact. He further deposed that the offenders were carrying only a chhuri (knife) and a gun and further clarified that none of the offenders carried any other knife. He further deposed that his mother covered her hair with a dupatta and not her face. He further deposed that it would be incorrect to state that he had given a false statement or that he had been tutored regarding his deposition. He further deposed that he had no knowledge as to whether any private counsel had been engaged or whether his mother had been murdered. 10. PW-5 Jagjit Singh, son of deceased Balvinder Singh, was examined before the Trial Court. On the date of his deposition, the witness was 12 years of age. The Trial Court, before recording his testimony, conducted a preliminary inquiry to assess his competence to depose. Upon being questioned, the witness stated that he was studying in Class VII at Edmonton Public School, an English medium institution. When asked about the purpose of his presence in Court, he stated that he had come to give evidence and that the function of the Court is to punish the culprit/accused ("Mulzim ko saza dena"). On the basis of these responses, the Trial Court recorded a finding that although the witness was of tender age, he possessed sufficient understanding of the nature of questions and was competent to depose.

11. In his examination-in-chief, he deposed that he knew the appellant Tarsem Singh, who was a resident of his village Phulvariya. He further deposed that Gurdeep Kaur was his biological mother, Sukhavinder Kaur, the first wife of Balvinder Singh, was his "Badi Maa", and that Sarvan Singh Kalsi was his father's friend who had come from Punjab approximately five days prior to the date of the incident. He further deposed that Tarsem Singh used to frequently visit their house, both in the presence and absence of his father Balvinder Singh. He further deposed that his grandmother, Nasib Kaur, did not approve of these visits and had told his father not to allow Tarsem Singh to come to the house. He further deposed that the incident occurred on the night of 18.05.1999. He further deposed that on the same night, he was sleeping in the room situated on the upper floor along with his brother PW-4 Gurvinder Singh, his grandmother Nasib Kaur, and his "Badi Maa" Sukhavinder Kaur. He further deposed that his father Balvinder Singh and guest Sarvan Singh were sleeping in the eastern room, whereas his mother Gurdeep Kaur and his two younger siblings were sleeping in the western room. He further deposed that at around 12:00-1:00 a.m., he heard the sound of two gunshots emanating from his father's room. He further deposed that upon hearing the gunshots, he and his brother PW-4 woke up. They then saw Tarsem Singh and Gurdeep Kaur enter their room, where the tube light was on. He further deposed that Tarsem Singh was armed with a single-barrel gun, while Gurdeep Kaur was carrying a large knife (badi chhuri). He further stated that Gurdeep Kaur attacked his grandmother Nasib Kaur with the chhuri, and that Tarsem Singh fired at Sukhavinder Kaur, as a result of which both women succumbed to their injuries. He further deposed that his mother Gurdeep Kaur threatened both him and his brother that if they disclosed anything to the police, Tarsem Singh would kill them. He further deposed that thereafter Tarsem Singh left the house, but Gurdeep Kaur remained inside. He further deposed that on the next morning, he saw his father Balvinder Singh and Sarvan Singh lying dead in their room. He further deposed that he did not inform the police immediately due to fear, but disclosed the entire incident to the Investigating Officer after the arrest of Tarsem Singh, when his fear had subsided. 12. During cross-examination, he deposed that in all three gunshots were fired during the incident. He had awakened on hearing the first shot and thereafter heard two more shots. While verifying his statements, he further deposed that he had not informed the police that his mother had fired any shot, and that if any such statement was recorded under his name, he was unaware of the reason for the same. He further deposed that he informed the investigating officer that his mother threatened them (P.W. 4 & P.W. 5) saying that Tarsem would kill all three of them (including the mother) if they disclosed the truth, however, he did not know in what manner exactly did the investigating officer recorded this statement. He denied that his mother had stated that he would get into trouble if he told anyone about the incident. He further deposed that by the time the police arrived, he was no longer afraid and had informed them about the scene of the crime. He further deposed that Sukhavinder Kaur was lying on a cot and had been shot from close range from the western side; however, he corrected himself and clarified that the cot was placed in an East-West direction and not North-South as earlier stated. He further deposed that nothing was looted from the house-neither money nor jewellery-and that the alleged offenders had not scattered any household articles. He further deposed that neither he nor his brother, P.W.-4 Gurvinder Singh, left the cot until the offenders had departed, and thereafter both of them went to wake up the servant, Sewa Ram, but did not disclose to him the identity of the offenders. He also admitted that he did not inform the servant about the murder of his father, mother, and grandmother. He further deposed that he did not inform anyone about the incident until the date of his testimony, except the police. He further denied the suggestion that he had not witnessed the incident or that he was not present at the time of occurrence. He further deposed that the offenders did not assault him and that he had no knowledge as to whether there were bloodstains on his clothes. He further deposed that he did not took the dead bodies in his arms or cry over them, and that he was unaware as to whether the dead bodies were wrapped in cloth and sealed. He further deposed that when the police arrived in the morning, the dead bodies were lying on the cots in the rooms; however, the police did not complete any inquest proceedings regarding the bodies in his presence and subsequently took them away. He also stated that his brother did not accompany the police. He further deposed that at the time of the incident, his sister was two to three years younger than him.

13. PW-6 Dr. R.V. Singh, Senior Medical Officer, District Hospital, Kheri, conducted the post-mortem examinations of all four deceased persons on 19.05.1999 at different intervals of time and proved the reports (Ext. Ka-11 to Ka-14). He deposed that all the deceased had died approximately one day prior and that rigor mortis and post-mortem staining were present on the bodies.

On the body of deceased Sarwan Singh Kalsi, he found one firearm injury on the right side of the face causing extensive fractures of skull bones, with recovery of pellets and wadding material, along with as many as twelve incised wounds on different parts of the body including forehead, shoulder, arms, chest, forearm, hand, thigh and back, indicating repeated assault by a sharp-edged weapon and use of firearm.

On the body of deceased Naseeb Kaur, he found multiple grievous incised and stab wounds, including four deep incised wounds on the head and face causing extensive fracture of skull bones, along with several stab wounds on chest, forearms, back and other parts of the body, totaling about fifteen injuries, all indicative of a brutal assault by a sharp-edged weapon.

On the body of deceased Sukhvinder Kaur, he found a firearm injury of entry on the upper part of the face extending to the temporal region, with blackening and tattooing around the wound, and recovery of twenty-eight metallic pellets and wadding material from the cranial cavity, clearly indicating close-range firing.

On the body of deceased Balvinder Singh, he found a firearm injury on the chin causing extensive cranial damage along with a penetrating stab wound on the abdomen, resulting in injury to internal organs and accumulation of blood in the abdominal cavity.

He opined that the firearm injuries were caused by a gun and the remaining injuries were caused by a sharp-edged weapon such as a knife (chhuri), and that all the deceased died due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of the ante-mortem injuries.

14. During cross-examination, he deposed that injuries no. 1, 2, 3, and 4 on the body of deceased Naseeb Kaur could have likely been caused by some heavy sharp weapon like a pickaxe (ghadashi) or a billhook (banka).

15. PW-7 Surendra Tripathi, the Investigating Officer, deposed that on 19.05.1999 at about 1:30 A.M., complainant Gurdeep Kaur lodged a written report at Police Station Paliya, on the basis of which check FIR was prepared, which he proved as Ext. Ka-15, along with the corresponding General Diary entry, proved as Ext. Ka-16. He further proved that the inquest reports (panchayatnama) of the deceased persons, prepared by S.I. K.N. Singh, are Ext. Ka-3 to Ka-6. He further deposed that during investigation, blood-stained and plain soil were collected, which he proved as Ext. Ka-10, and empty cartridges recovered from the place of occurrence were proved as Ext. Ka-9. He further proved the site plan of the place of occurrence prepared by him as Ext. Ka-17. He further deposed that on 24.05.1999, accused Tarsem Singh was arrested and, on the basis of his disclosure statement, articles belonging to deceased Naseeb Kaur, namely gold earrings, bangles, a ring and a watch, were recovered, which he proved as Ext. Ka-2. He further deposed that on the same day, accused Gurdeep Kaur was arrested and at her instance a licensed single-barrel gun and a knife (badi chhuri) were recovered, which he proved as Ext. Ka-1. He further proved that after completion of investigation, charge-sheet was submitted, which he proved as Ext. Ka-20.

16. During cross-examination, he admitted that four empty cartridges were recovered from the place of occurrence, two from the upper room and two from the ground floor, and that the recovered firearm was the licensed gun of deceased Balvinder Singh. He further deposed that the recovered articles were not formally identified but were recognized by a neighbour. He denied the suggestion that the accused had been falsely implicated or that the recovery was fabricated.

17. CW-1 Rajendra Prasad Nishad, Sub-Inspector, Police Station Kheri, deposed that in compliance of the order dated 27.08.2003 passed by the Fast Track Court-IV against absconding accused Tarsem Singh, he executed the attachment proceedings on 04.09.2003 at the residence of the accused. He proved that the movable property of the accused was taken into police custody and attachment was carried out in the presence of witnesses. He further proved that the attached articles were handed over to Mangal Singh of village Ranjinganj Majra Lughouri under proper documentation and in presence of witnesses. He further deposed that the seizure memo was prepared on the spot, which was read over and explained to the witnesses and was duly signed by them. He also stated that the accused Tarsem Singh was absconding and his whereabouts were not known.

Court Analysis:

Credibility of Child Witnesses and Evidentiary Value of Their Testimony:

19. The conviction in the present case primarily rests upon the ocular version of PW-4 Gurvinder Singh and PW-5 Jagjit Singh, both of whom are stated to be eye-witnesses of the occurrence. A careful reading of their depositions reveals that they have furnished a vivid and graphic account of the incident, narrating the sequence of events with minute and specific details, including the manner in which the accused approached the spot, the role attributed to each accused, the nature of weapons carried, and the manner in which the assault was carried out.

20. The learned counsel for the appellant vehemently argued is that the conviction rests primarily on the testimonies of PW-4 and PW-5, who are minor children of the deceased, and therefore their evidence ought to be discarded being interested and susceptible to tutoring. This Court is unable to accept the said contention of the learned counsel for the following reasons:

a. Firstly, the competency of a witness is governed by Section 118 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, which lays down that every person is competent to testify unless the Court considers that due to tender age or other reasons such person is unable to understand the questions or give rational answers. Section 118 of Evidence Act, reads as under:

“Section 118. Who may testify.-All persons shall be competent to testify unless the Court considers that they are prevented from understanding the questions put to them, or from giving rational answers to those questions, by tender years, extreme old age, disease, whether of body or mind, or any other cause of the same kind.”

The law relating to appreciation of evidence of child witnesses is well settled. It is not the rule of criminal jurisprudence that the testimony of a child witness is inherently unreliable or liable to be discarded merely because of age. However, as a matter of judicial prudence, such evidence requires closer scrutiny, as a child witness is always susceptible to tutoring and impressionable influence.

i. The Supreme Court, in State of M.P. v. Ramesh, (2011) 4 SCC 786, has reiterated that an inference as to whether a child has been tutored can be drawn from the deposition itself. The Court observed that:

“14. In view of the above, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that the deposition of a child witness may require corroboration, but in case his deposition inspires the confidence of the court and there is no embellishment or improvement therein, the court may rely upon his evidence. The evidence of a child witness must be evaluated more carefully with greater circumspection because he is susceptible to tutoring. Only in case there is evidence on record to show that a child has been tutored, the court can reject his statement partly or fully. However, an inference as to whether child has been tutored or not, can be drawn from the contents of his deposition.”

ii. Similarly, in Pramila v. State of U.P., (2021) 12 SCC 550, it has been held that even the sole testimony of a child witness can form the basis of conviction, provided the Court is satisfied that the possibility of tutoring is ruled out. The Supreme Court emphasized in paragraph 5 of the case as under:

“5. ...where a child witness is to be considered, and more so when he is the sole witness, a heightened level of scrutiny is called for... The Court has, therefore, to satisfy itself that all possibilities of tutoring or otherwise are ruled out and what was deposed was nothing but the truth.”

iii. Moreover, learned counsel for the appellant placed reliance upon Ashok v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2025) 2 SCC 381, wherein the Supreme Court held that conviction could not be sustained when the sole child witness's testimony lacked sterling quality due to inconsistencies and delay, and that such evidence was unsafe to rely upon without corroboration, particularly when it amounted only to a weak circumstance insufficient to establish guilt beyond reasonable doubt. Learned counsel also relied upon Pradeep v. State of Haryana, (2023) 19 SCC 221, wherein the Supreme Court recognized that the testimony of a child witness is admissible and may form the sole basis of conviction if the Court is satisfied about the competence, truthfulness, and reliability of the witness; however, the Court simultaneously cautioned that a child witness of tender age is easily susceptible to tutoring and therefore such evidence must be subjected to careful judicial scrutiny, and that corroboration, though not a rule of law, remains a rule of prudence.

iv. Applying the aforesaid principles to the facts of the present case, this Court finds that the testimonies of PW-4 Gurvinder Singh and PW-5 Jagjit Singh stand on a firm footing. Both the witnesses were examined by the Trial Court after due satisfaction regarding their competency, and nothing has been brought on record to show that they were incapable of understanding the questions or giving rational answers.

b. Secondly, from a careful reading of their depositions, it is evident that both witnesses have given a natural, consistent and vivid account of the occurrence. They have categorically deposed that during the night of the incident, they were present inside the house when the accused-appellant Tarsem Singh along with co-accused Gurdeep Kaur entered the premises. They have specifically stated that the accused was armed with a firearm and a knife, and thereafter committed assault upon the deceased persons. The description given by the witnesses regarding the manner of entry, the weapons carried, and the sequence of assault clearly reflects that they had actually witnessed the occurrence.

i. It is also noteworthy that both the witnesses have stated that they were threatened by the accused not to disclose the incident. They have further explained that due to fear and trauma, they did not immediately narrate the entire incident. This explanation assumes significance. The witnesses were minor children who had just witnessed the brutal murder of their family members, including their father. In such circumstances, their silence or delayed disclosure cannot be termed unnatural; rather, it is a natural human reaction.

ii. The learned counsel for the appellant has laid much emphasis on alleged inconsistencies in their statements, such as the clothes Gurdeep Kaur was wearing at the time of the incident, inability of the child witnesses to answer whose body was sealed first, as to whether Gurdeep Kaur left the house after the occurrence or not, etc. However, upon careful scrutiny, it emerges that these discrepancies are minor in nature and relate to peripheral details. The core of their testimony, namely the presence of the accused, the manner of assault, and the weapons used, remains consistent and unshaken. It is well settled that minor inconsistencies are bound to occur, particularly in the testimony of child witnesses, and such discrepancies often lend credibility rather than detract from it.

c. Thirdly, the argument of tutoring, as advanced by learned counsel for the appellant, also does not hold ground. There is nothing in the cross-examination of these witnesses to suggest that they were tutored or that their statements were the result of external influence. Their deposition appears spontaneous and bears intrinsic truth. The details narrated by them are such that they could not have been fabricated without actual knowledge of the incident.

i. Moreover, the Trial Court has rightly observed that a child would not ordinarily falsely implicate his own mother in a serious offence such as murder, knowing fully well that such implication may lead to her punishment. This observation carries considerable weight. In the present case, the child witnesses have not only implicated the accused-appellant but have also deposed against their own mother, Gurdeep Kaur. Such conduct rules out any possibility of false implication and lends strong assurance to the truthfulness of their testimony.

d. Fourthly, it is also significant to note that both child witnesses, PW-4 and PW-5, did not sustain any injury during the occurrence, despite being present in the very same room where their grandmother Naseeb Kaur and Badi Maa Sukhvinder Kaur were brutally assaulted and killed. This circumstance, rather than creating any doubt, in fact lends further assurance to the prosecution case. The consistent version of both witnesses is that the accused, after committing the assault, threatened them with dire consequences if they disclosed the incident. In such a situation, it is wholly natural that the assailants would spare the children in order to avoid raising immediate alarm and to facilitate their escape. The absence of injuries on the child witnesses, therefore, is not unnatural but is in consonance with the prosecution version and the conduct attributed to the accused. It further supports the presence of the witnesses at the spot and the truthfulness of their testimony.

e. Lastly, it is also well settled that the testimony of a related witness cannot be discarded merely on the ground of relationship. On the contrary, such witnesses are often the most natural witnesses. In the present case, PW-4 and PW-5 being inmates of the house are the most natural witnesses to the occurrence and there is no reason to disbelieve them.

Effect of General Diary Entry vis-a-vis Testimony of PW-1:

21. From a perusal of the General Diary (GD) entry (Ext. Ka-16), which had been proved by PW-7, it emerges that PW-1 had accompanied co-accused Gurdeep Kaur to the police station during the night for the purpose of lodging the FIR. However, in his deposition before the Trial Court, PW-1 has stated that he came to know about the incident only in the morning and has not supported the prosecution case, thereby turning hostile.

22. This material inconsistency between the contemporaneous police record and the oral testimony of PW-1 cannot be lightly ignored. The presence of PW-1 at the police station at the time of lodging of the FIR clearly indicates that he had knowledge of the incident at the earliest point of time. His subsequent attempt to feign ignorance and disassociate himself from the prosecution case during trial demonstrates that he has not come forward with the true version of facts.

23. The conduct of PW-1 in resiling from his earlier position and withholding material facts strongly suggests that he has been won over by the accused party. It is a common phenomenon in criminal trials, particularly in cases involving serious offences, that witnesses succumb to pressure, inducement or influence and turn hostile in order to shield the accused.

24. It is well settled that the testimony of a hostile witness is not to be discarded in toto, and the Court can rely upon such part of the testimony which finds corroboration from other evidence on record. In the present case, the hostile stance of PW-1 does not demolish the prosecution case; rather, it necessitates a cautious appreciation of his evidence in the light of other reliable material available on record.

25. On the contrary, the inconsistency in the testimony of PW-1, when read with the GD entry, strengthens the prosecution case inasmuch as it reflects an attempt on his part to suppress the truth. The fact that he had accompanied the informant at the earliest stage but later denied knowledge of the occurrence clearly indicates that his testimony before the Court is not trustworthy.

26. It is also pertinent to note that the prosecution case does not hinge solely upon the testimony of PW-1. The same is supported by cogent and reliable evidence of other witnesses, including the eyewitnesses, medical evidence, recovery and forensic report. Therefore, even if PW-1 has turned hostile, the same does not create any dent in the prosecution case.

27. In view of the above, this Court is of the considered opinion that the conduct of PW-1 in giving a false and inconsistent statement before the Court, contrary to the contemporaneous GD entry, does not weaken the prosecution case. Rather, it indicates that the witness has attempted to shield the accused, and his testimony, to that extent, deserves to be discarded.

Recovery of Weapon, Forensic Evidence and Conduct of the Accused-Appellant:

28. This Court now proceeds to examine the evidentiary value of recovery effected at the instance of the accused persons, the accompanying forensic analysis, and the conduct of the accused-appellant. It is well settled that though recovery under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act is not substantive evidence of guilt, it constitutes a highly relevant incriminating circumstance, particularly when it is discovered pursuant to the disclosure statement of the accused and is supported by other evidence on record.

29. In the present case, the Investigating Officer has categorically deposed that on 24.05.1999, he arrested accused Tarsem Singh and, on the basis of his disclosure statement, recovered articles belonging to deceased Naseeb Kaur, namely gold earrings, bangles, a ring and a watch (Ext. Ka-2). He has further deposed that on the same day he arrested co-accused Gurdeep Kaur, who pointed out and led to the recovery of a licensed single-barrel gun and a large knife (badi chhuri) (Ext. Ka-1). The said recoveries, having been effected pursuant to disclosure statements, clearly attract the provisions of Section 27 of the Evidence Act and are admissible to the extent they relate to discovery of facts within the special knowledge of the accused.

30. The legal position with respect to such recoveries is well crystallized that the discovery of a fact in consequence of information received from an accused affords a guarantee of truth to that limited extent, as the information leading to discovery is presumed to be within the exclusive knowledge of the accused. In the present case, the recovery of personal belongings of the deceased as well as the weapon of assault at the instance of the accused persons constitutes a strong incriminating circumstance, particularly when there is no plausible explanation offered by the accused as to how he came to have knowledge of the same.

31. The argument of the appellant that independent witnesses have not supported the recovery is of no avail. It is a settled principle that the testimony of the Investigating Officer cannot be discarded merely on the ground that independent witnesses have turned hostile, if the official witness is otherwise found to be reliable and trustworthy. There is no rule of law that recovery must fail in the absence of independent corroboration, especially when the recovery is otherwise duly proved and stands corroborated by surrounding circumstances.

32. The contention regarding non-production of certain recovered articles or alleged lapses in handling of material exhibits also does not go to the root of the prosecution case, as it is well settled that defective or negligent investigation cannot be a ground for acquittal, unless such lapses create a serious dent in the prosecution case. In the present case, the factum of recovery and the use of weapon are otherwise established through ocular testimony, medical evidence and forensic report, therefore, such lapses do not materially affect the substratum of the case.

33. The forensic analysis report (Ext. Ka-41) indicates that the 12 bore S.B.B.L. gun bearing No. 1262 was subjected to examination along with four cartridges marked as E.C.-1 to E.C.-4. The report records the presence of lead and nitrite residues in the barrel of the said firearm, thereby clearly indicating that the weapon had been used. The ballistic expert has further opined that cartridges marked as E.C.-2 and E.C.-4 were fired from the said firearm, as they bore characteristics similar to the test cartridges (T.C.-1 and T.C.-2) discharged from the weapon. Though it has been observed that cartridges E.C.-1 and E.C.-3 could not be conclusively compared due to absence of sufficient individual characteristic marks, such inability does not dilute the evidentiary value of the report to the extent it positively establishes firing from the said weapon.

34. The learned counsel for the accused-appellant sought to raise a doubt by contending that as per the prosecution version, co-accused Gurdeep Kaur had fired only a single shot in retaliation from the licensed gun when the assailants were leaving the house, whereas the forensic report indicates that more than one cartridge was fired from the said firearm. This Court finds that the said contention, weakens the appellant's case because:

1. The written report states that after the assailants entered the house, committed the murders of four persons and were retreating from the ground floor, Gurdeep Kaur fired one shot from the licensed gun in retaliation. However, the investigation led to recovery of four empty cartridges from the scene of occurrence, out of which at least two cartridges have been conclusively matched with the licensed S.B.B.L. gun. This factual position assumes significance.

2. If the version of the defence is to be accepted that the said licensed gun was used only once for the purpose of retaliation, then, in the ordinary course, only one cartridge would have been found to be fired from that weapon. However, the forensic report clearly establishes that more than one cartridge was discharged from the said firearm. This circumstance indicates that the said gun was not used merely for a solitary act of defence but was in fact used more than once during the occurrence.

3. Furthermore, the evidence on record shows that three deceased persons had sustained firearm injuries. In such a situation, the recovery of multiple cartridges and the scientific matching of more than one cartridge with the licensed gun provides a strong and cogent indication that the said firearm formed part of the weapons used in the commission of the offence. The version that the firearm was used only for a single retaliatory shot thus stands rendered improbable in light of the scientific evidence.

35. It is also important to note that the inability of the ballistic expert to conclusively match cartridges E.C.-1 and E.C.-3 does not create any dent in the prosecution case. It is well settled that forensic evidence is corroborative in nature, and even partial matching is sufficient to lend assurance to the prosecution version. The absence of identifiable marks on certain cartridges is a known limitation in ballistic science and cannot be treated as a circumstance adverse to the prosecution.

36. The trial court has, therefore, rightly appreciated this aspect and has correctly observed that even if one proceeds on the assumption that a single shot was fired in retaliation, such fact would be of no consequence in the backdrop of a coordinated and brutal assault by multiple assailants. A solitary shot fired by one person would not have been sufficient to repel the attack. On the contrary, the forensic evidence demonstrates that the firearm was used in a manner consistent with the prosecution case.

37. Furthermore, the learned counsel for the accused-appellant argued that the Investigating Officer failed to segregate cartridges recovered from different places and prepared a single recovery memo also does not go to the root of the matter. Such lapse, at best, reflects lack of meticulousness in investigation. However, the core fact remains that empty cartridges were recovered from the scene, which corroborates the ocular version, medical evidence and the forensic report regarding use of firearm. It is trite that procedural lapses in investigation cannot outweigh substantive evidence establishing the occurrence.

38. The conduct of the accused-appellant is another relevant circumstance under Section 8 of the Evidence Act. From the evidence on record, it is apparent that the accused has failed to furnish any plausible explanation regarding the incriminating circumstances appearing against him in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C.. It is well settled that while the burden of proof primarily lies on the prosecution, when facts are especially within the knowledge of the accused, the failure to offer any explanation assumes significance under Section 106 of the Evidence Act and it is well settled that conduct often speaks louder than words, and the behaviour of the accused, when read in conjunction with other evidence, provides an additional link in the chain of circumstances.

39. In the present case, the recovery of incriminating articles at the instance of the accused, the corroborative forensic evidence indicating use of firearm, and the unexplained conduct of the accused collectively form a coherent and reliable set of circumstances. These circumstances are not to be viewed in isolation but in conjunction with the ocular testimony (especially of PW-4 and PW-5) and medical evidence, which together establish the prosecution case to the hilt.

40. Accordingly, this Court finds that the recovery of weapon and articles, the forensic evidence relating to firearm and cartridges, and the conduct of the accused-appellant constitute strong corroborative circumstances. The alleged discrepancies pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellant are minor, do not go to the root of the matter, and are insufficient to create any reasonable doubt in the prosecution case.

Ocular Evidence Corroborated by Medical Evidence:

41. It is a well-settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that where the ocular testimony of witnesses is found to be credible and trustworthy, the same is to be given primacy, and the medical evidence acts as a corroborative piece. In the present case, the ocular version furnished by PW-4 and PW-5 finds complete and consistent support from the medical evidence on record.

42. It is crystal clear that upon careful appreciation of the testimonies of PW-4 and PW-5, both eye-witnesses have consistently deposed in their examination-in-chief that they had seen the accused-appellant present inside their house at an odd hour, where his presence was wholly unnatural and unexplained. Once such a circumstance stands established, the burden shifts upon the accused to offer a plausible explanation. However, in the present case, the accused has failed to furnish any explanation in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., nor has he led any evidence in defence to rebut the said incriminating circumstance. This failure on the part of the accused constitutes an additional link pointing towards his guilt.

43. Learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on Zainul v. State of Bihar, 2025 INSC 1192, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated that where medical evidence renders the ocular account improbable or inconsistent on material particulars, the Court must exercise greater caution in placing reliance upon such testimony. There is no dispute with regard to the said legal proposition.

44. Both PW-4 Gurvinder Singh and PW-5 Jagjit Singh have categorically deposed that the accused-appellant Tarsem Singh was armed with a firearm, while co-accused Gurdeep Kaur was carrying a sharp-edged weapon (badi chhuri), and that both of them inflicted fatal injuries upon the deceased persons in a sequential manner inside the house.

45. The post-mortem reports of all four deceased persons, as proved by PW-6 Dr. R.V. Singh, clearly establish that the injuries sustained were a combination of firearm wounds and incised/stab wounds caused by a sharp-edged weapon. For instance, deceased Balvinder Singh and Sukhvinder Kaur sustained firearm injuries, while multiple incised and stab wounds were found on the bodies of Naseeb Kaur and Sarwan Singh Kalsi.

46. The nature, location and multiplicity of injuries, including firearm entry wounds with blackening and tattooing, presence of pellets and wadding pieces, as well as deep incised and stab wounds, fully correspond with the manner of assault as narrated by the eyewitnesses. The medical opinion that such injuries could be caused by a firearm and a sharp-edged weapon like a knife (badi chhuri) lends complete assurance to the ocular account.

47. There is no inconsistency between the ocular and medical evidence which may discredit the prosecution case. On the contrary, both are in complete harmony. It is well settled that unless medical evidence completely rules out the possibility of the occurrence as narrated by eyewitnesses, the ocular testimony cannot be discarded. In the present case, the medical evidence not only supports but reinforces the prosecution version.

48. Thus, the ocular testimony of PW-4 and PW-5 stands duly corroborated by the medical evidence, thereby strengthening the case of prosecution and lending credibility to the prosecution case.

Alleged Vague and Omnibus Questioning under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

49. Learned counsel for the appellant has contended that the statement of the accused recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. suffers from serious infirmity inasmuch as the incriminating circumstances were not put to the accused in a proper and specific manner, and that the questioning was vague and omnibus in nature, thereby causing prejudice to the appellant.

50. Before advertg to the said contention, it would be apposite to briefly notice the scope and object of Section 313 Cr.P.C. The provision casts a mandatory duty upon the Court to put to the accused all incriminating circumstances appearing against him in the prosecution evidence so as to afford him an opportunity to explain the same. The object of such examination is not merely procedural but substantive, as it enables the accused to offer his explanation and serves as an important safeguard against miscarriage of justice.

51. In the present case, learned counsel for the appellant has drawn attention to Question No. 11 put to the accused, which reads as under:

" प्रश्न नं० 11:- आपने गवाहान पी०डब्लू० 1 दर्शन सिंह, पी०डब्लू० 2 बसंत सिंह पी०डब्लू० 3 बलवन्त सिंह पी०डब्लू० 4 गुरुविन्दर सिंह, पी०डब्लू० 5 जगजीत सिंह पी०डब्लू० 6 डा० आर० बी० सिंह, पी०डब्लू० 7 सुरेन्द्र त्रिपाठी प्रभारी निरीक्षक के बयान को सुना। इस विषय में आपको क्या कहना है? उत्तर:- पुलिस के असर से झूठी गवाही देते हैं। "

52. It is contended that the aforesaid question is omnibus in nature and does not specifically put individual incriminating circumstances to the accused. This Court, however, finds that the said submission does not merit acceptance.

53. A perusal of the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. indicates that prior to the aforesaid question, specific questions had already been put to the accused covering all material and incriminating circumstances, including his presence at the place of occurrence, recovery of weapon and articles, and the evidence of prosecution witnesses. Thus, even if Question No. 11 appears to be general in nature, the same is merely cumulative and does not constitute the sole basis of examination.s

54. It is well settled that mere irregularity or defect in framing of questions under Section 313 Cr.P.C. would not vitiate the trial unless it is shown that prejudice has been caused to the accused. In the present case, no such prejudice is demonstrated. On the contrary, the accused was fully aware of the case against him and had adequate opportunity to explain the incriminating material.

55. Furthermore, the appellant, despite being afforded opportunity, did not choose to lead any defence evidence, as is evident from the order-sheet of the Trial Court. His response under Section 313 Cr.P.C. is a bald denial without any plausible explanation. Thus, even assuming that one of the questions was broadly framed, the same has not resulted in any failure of justice.

56. Thus, this Court is of the considered view that no prejudice has been caused to the appellant on account of the alleged defect in questioning under Section 313 Cr.P.C., and the same does not vitiate the trial. The contention raised by the learned counsel for the appellant is accordingly rejected.

Conclusion:

57. In view of the foregoing discussion, this Court is of the considered opinion that the testimony of PW-4 and PW-5, who are natural child witnesses of the occurrence, has been found to be cogent, credible and trustworthy. Their presence at the place of occurrence is natural and their version stands fully corroborated by the medical evidence as well as the forensic report. The nature of injuries, the weapons used, and the manner of assault, as deposed by them, find complete support from the post-mortem reports. The recovery of incriminating articles and weapon at the instance of the accused, coupled with the forensic evidence establishing the use of firearm, lends further assurance to the prosecution case. The conduct of the accused, his failure to furnish any plausible explanation under Section 313 Cr.P.C., and the inconsistency in the testimony of PW-1, read with the General Diary entry, further strengthen the prosecution version. The alleged discrepancies and contradictions pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellant are minor in nature and do not go to the root of the prosecution case. It is well settled that minor inconsistencies are bound to occur in truthful testimonies and cannot be a ground to discard otherwise reliable evidence. Thus, on an overall appreciation of the ocular evidence, medical evidence and forensic analysis on record, it stands established that PW-4 and PW-5, who are the eye witness of the incident, are credible and reliable and their testimonies inspire confidence. The evidence consistently points towards the guilt of the accused-appellant, leaving no reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with his innocence.

58. Accordingly, the criminal appeal is dismissed. The impugned judgment and order dated 05.09.2008 passed by the learned Special/Additional Sessions Judge, Lakhimpur Kheri in Sessions Trial No. 419 of 1999 are hereby affirmed.

59. The appellant, Tarsem Singh, is in jail and shall continue to serve out the remaining part of his sentence in accordance with law.

60. Pending applications, if any, shall stand disposed of.

61. Let a certified copy of this judgment along with the lower court record be transmitted to the court concerned forthwith, and in any case within a period of one week, for compliance.

First Appeal Defective No. 221 of 2022

State of U.P.

...Appellant

Versus

Uday Bhan (Deceased) & Anr.

...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the First Appeal filed by State against a deceased respondent, without impleading his legal heirs and representatives, is legally maintainable; and whether such defect can be cured by filing an application for substitution of legal heirs at a subsequent stage, particularly when the appellant had prior knowledge of the death of respondent.

Headnotes

Land Acquisition Act, 1894 - s. 54 - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - O. XXII R. 4 - Death of respondent prior to filing of appeal - Appeal filed against dead person - Maintainability - The instant matter arose from a First Appeal preferred by State of Uttar Pradesh challenging the judgment and award dated 31.03.2018 passed by Reference Court, whereby compensation was enhanced in favor of land owners - The appeal was filed after an inordinate delay of 1516 days - During the pendency of proceedings relating to condonation of delay, it came on record that one of respondents, Kailash Singh, had expired prior to institution of appeal - Despite having knowledge of his death through the proceedings and pleadings filed before the Court, the State failed to implead his legal heirs within the prescribed period of limitation and subsequently moved an application for substitution only after an abatement application was filed by legal heir of deceased respondent - The controversy before the High Court, therefore, centred around the maintainability of an appeal instituted against a deceased respondent and whether such defect could be cured by subsequent substitution of legal representatives.

Held: The abatement application of Kuwar Prakash Singh and substitution application of State along with delay condonation application are dismissed, being legally not maintainable because the appeal was filed against dead respondent Kailash Singh - Had he died after the filing of appeal, then, abatement and substitution application were legally maintainable - The appeal having being filed against dead respondent, was itself not legally maintainable, which was non-est, as such, no question of condoning the delay, in its filing arises - In view of the facts, all the applications being legally not maintainable are dismissed - Consequently, the appeal being filed against dead respondent Kailash Singh is also dismissed as a nullity - Accordingly, the impugned judgment and award dated 31.03.2018 of Reference Court affirmed. InRe: Civil Misc. Abatement Application No.9 of 2025

1. This application has been filed by Kuwar Prakash Singh the legal heir of deceased respondent no.1/1 Kailash Singh on the ground that Kailash Singh has died on 07.06.2021 and its information was also given to the appellant-State in the counter affidavit filed to the delay condonation application of the appellant, a copy of which was received by the State on 02.02.2024 but still the substitution application was not moved by the State within the prescribed period of limitation. It was further submitted that when the substitution application was not moved by the appellant, then this abatement application was filed on 16.09.2025 for abating the appeal and then substitution application along with the condonation of delay has been filed by the State on 24.09.2025. Learned counsel submitted that from the above facts, it is apparent that there was deliberate delay on the part of the appellant in not bringing on record the legal heir of deceased respondent Kailash Singh which cannot be condoned, keeping in view the conduct of the appellant.

Order on Civil Misc. Delay Condonation Application No.2 of 2022, Civil Misc. Delay Condonation Application No.10 of 2025, Civil Misc. Substitution Application No.11 of 2025 & First Appeal

1. According to office report, the instant appeal has been filed with a delay of 1516 days on 09.09.2022.

2. The instant appeal under Section 54 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 has been filed by the State for reduction of compensation awarded by the Reference Court through judgment and decree dated 31.03.2018 passed by the Additional District Judge & Judge Land Acquisition/FTC-II, Mau in L.A.R. No.46 of 1991 [Uday Bhan (Deceased) through legal heirs vs. State of U.P. through Collector, Mau] whereby a compensation @ Rs.2,00,000/- per acre has been awarded to the land owners along with other statutory benefits admissible under the Act.

3. Learned counsel for the State submitted that the delay in filing the appeal occurred because permission was sought from the higher officials and only after obtaining permission, the appeal was filed. Learned counsel submitted that ultimately the permission was granted by the State on 19.05.2022 for filing this appeal, thereafter, this appeal has been filed with delay on 09.09.1992. Learned counsel submitted that since the permission from the State was obtained with delay, as such, the delay in filing the instant appeal be condoned and thereafter, the appeal be decided on merits.

4. It was further submitted that only after filing of abatement application on 16.09.2025, the appellant became aware that the respondent Kailash Singh has died, as such, the substitution has been filed within the period of limitation, from the date of knowledge, on 24.09.2025. It was submitted that there is no delay in filing the substitution application, and if there is any delay, then it be condoned, and the application be allowed.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent land owners submitted that the award of the Reference Court was passed on 31.03.2018 but when the State did not pay the compensation as awarded by the Reference Court then the land owner was compelled to file execution proceeding, which was numbered as Execution Case No.5 of 2019 (Kailash Singh and others vs. State of U.P.), in which the District Government Counsel(D.G.C.) remained present, who from time to time sought adjournment in the matter, which was granted by the executing court. Learned counsel further submitted that when the State failed to pay the compensation then an order was passed by the executing court for attaching the account of the State. It was further submitted that the State moved an application to recall attachment, which was also dismissed by the executing court on 11.10.2021 but even then the appeal was not filed. Learned counsel further submitted that the executing court from time to time recorded the assurances given by the D.G.C. regarding filing of appeal by the State but deliberately neither the appeal was filed nor any payment was made to the land owners. Learned counsel further submitted that in the counter affidavit filed by the land owner to the delay condonation application of the State, it was informed that the land owner Kailash Singh has died and even the counter affidavit was filed by his heir Kuwar Prakash Singh but even then substitution application was not moved by the State within the prescribed period of limitation. It was further submitted that ultimately when the abatement application was filed by the land owner, then substitution application was filed on 24.09.2025, which was more than four years after the death of the respondent Kailash Singh, who died on 07.06.2021. Learned counsel submitted that it is apparent from the above facts that State has remained negligent in moving the substitution application as well as in pursuing the remedy before this Court and conduct of the State disentitles it from getting any relief from this Court. With these submissions, it was prayed that the substitution application of the State be dismissed since the appeal has already abated and the delay condonation application of the State be also dismissed.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

7. It is apparent that the judgment and award of the Reference Court was passed on 31.03.2018 and the execution case was filed by the land owner, which was numbered as Execution Case No.5 of 2019. The respondent land owner has filed certified copy of the proceedings of the execution case, which disclose that State was well aware of the execution proceedings but no appeal was filed within the prescribed period of limitation and even the account of the State was attached in compliance of the order of the executing court. It is further evident that the executing court also wrote a letter to the Secretary, Department of Revenue, State of U.P for making payment to the land owners but even then no appeal was filed by the State. Ultimately, the executing court was compelled to pass the order dated 03.08.2021 whereby the account of the State in the treasury was attached in order to make payment of the compensation to the land owners. It is further apparent that an application was moved by the State for recalling that order, which was also rejected. By order dated 03.08.2021 of the executing court, the decree holder was directed to take steps for the attachment of the account of the State. It is further apparent that Kuwar Prakash Singh moved an application disclosing that decree holder Kailash Singh has died on 27.06.2021 and an application was moved for bringing on record legal heir of the deceased decree holder, which was allowed on 27.08.2021. It is further apparent that by order dated 01.10.2021, the account of the Collector/District Magistrate, Mau in Union Bank of India, Collectorate Branch, Mau was attached for an amount of Rs.25,50,000/- but even then the appeal was not filed by the State.

8. It is further apparent that the instant appeal was filed by the State on 09.09.2022 with the delay of 1516 days and a delay condonation application was filed against which a counter affidavit was filed by the respondent land owner, who opposed the delay condonation on the above grounds. It is specifically averred in the counter affidavit that the appellant-State was very well aware of passing of the impugned judgment and decree by the Reference Court but deliberately no appeal was filed within the prescribed period of limitation. The counter affidavit has been filed by Kuwar Prakash Singh, who is the legal heir of deceased-respondent Kailash Singh, who died on 27.06.2021, prior to filing of the appeal, as such, the State was supposed to move impleadment application promptly, for bringing on record Kuwar Prakash Singh, but it was ultimately filed after a delay of more than three years, when an abatement application was moved by Kuwar Prakash Singh on 16.09.2025 to abate the appeal. It is apparent that the appeal was filed against the dead respondent Kailash Singh, and in the execution proceeding, the State was aware that he has died on 27.06.2021.

9. The above facts and circumstances amply demonstrate that the State has always been negligent in pursuing the remedy available to it and only on this ground that the permission for filing of the appeal was granted belatedly, the delay in filing the instant appeal cannot be condoned. It is further apparent that there was gross negligence on the part of the State in preferring this appeal, which was filed against dead respondent, and not bringing on record the legal heirs of deceased respondent Kailash Singh for more than three years, inspite of knowledge, for which there cannot be any plausible explanation because for bringing on record, the legal heir of deceased respondent, no permission of higher officials of the State was required.

10. It is apparent that the appeal of the State filed against dead respondent, is a nullity and non-est. The conduct of the State, debars it from getting any relief from this Court.

11. The High Court of Calcutta in the case of State of West Bengal vs. Manisha Maity and others 1963 SCC OnLine Cal 85, held as under:-

*“15. Rule 4 of Order 22 of the Code of Civil Procedure, providing for the procedure for substitution of the heirs and legal representatives of deceased defendants, no doubt applies to appeals and provides for substitution of the heirs of a deceased respondent. But the rule has no application when the appeal itself was preferred against a dead person. In other words, if the appeal had been preferred against a respondent, who was alive at the time of the filing of the appeal, but died subsequent thereto, his heirs and legal representatives may be brought on the record, by way of substitution, within the time allowed by law. If an application for substitution of the heirs of a respondent, who died during the pendency of the appeal, be not made within the time allowed by law, the appeal abates but rule 9 of Order 22 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides for a procedure for setting aside abatement. But if an appeal be preferred against a dead respondent, the appeal itself is still born and is no appeal in the eye of law. Nothing in Order 22 of the Code of Civil Procedure will revive the appeal, when the death of the respondent comes to light.

16. In order to prefer an appeal against a decree obtained by a person, who was dead at the time of the filing of the appeal, it would be necessary to make his heirs or legal representatives respondents to the appeal. The factum of the death of the decree-holder and names of his heirs or legal representatives may be incorporated, for greater safety, in an affidavit accompanying the memorandum of appeal, and an order may be sought from the appeal court to proceed with the appeal against the heirs of the person, who had obtained the decree.

17. The remedy of an appellant, who has unknowingly filed an appeal against a dead person, is to file an application for presentation of the appeal against the heirs of the dead person afresh. If the time for filing the appeal was in the meantime over, he is to present an application, under section 5 of the Limitation Act, therein explaining the delay in presenting the appeal afresh against the heirs of the dead person. If he can make out sufficient cause for making the belated prayer, the court may allow the same, amend the cause title of the memorandum of appeal by incorporation of the names of the heirs and legal representatives of the dead person and treat the appeal as a freshly presented appeal against the heirs.”

12. Similarly, the High Court of Delhi in the case of Ravinder Dabas vs. Govt. of NCT of Delhi 2023 SCC OnLine Del 4458, held as under:-

“11. Having heard learned counsels for the parties, this Court is of the view that the present appeal stands abated qua deceased respondent No. 3. Perusal of the appeal filed by the appellant herein demonstrates that it has been clearly stated on behalf of the appellant that Gian Chand died in the year 2020. Thus, the appeal was filed on behalf of the appellant against a dead person. An appeal filed against a dead person is clearly not maintainable and is a nullity. Thus, provisions under Order XXII Rule 4 CPC for bringing on record the legal heirs of deceased respondent No. 3, cannot be invoked by the appellant herein. The provision of Order XXII Rule 4 CPC will apply only in a case when a party dies during the pendency of the proceedings. A bare perusal of provisions of Order XXII Rule 4 CPC manifest that the said provisions apply only in case of death of the respondent during the subsistence of the case.”

(emphasis supplied)

13. In view of the above facts, the abatement application of Kuwar Prakash Singh and the substitution application of the State along with delay condonation application are dismissed, being legally not maintainable because the appeal was filed against dead respondent Kailash Singh. Had he died after the filing of appeal, then, abatement and substitution application were legally maintainable. The appeal having being filed against dead respondent, was itself not legally maintainable, which was non-est, as such, no question of condoning the delay, in its filing arises.

14. In view of the above facts, all the applications being legally not maintainable are dismissed. Consequently, the appeal being filed against dead respondent Kailash Singh is also dismissed as a nullity.

15. The impugned judgment and award dated 31.03.2018 of the Reference Court is affirmed.

Income Tax Appeal No. 4 of 2026

Principal Commissioner Of Income Tax I, Lucknow ...Petitioner
Versus
Medharaj Techno Concept Pvt. Ltd. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether, in exercise of jurisdiction u/s 260A of Income Tax Act, 1961, the High Court is required to interfere with the order of Income Tax Appellate Tribunal on the ground that the findings recorded by the Tribunal regarding the genuineness and explanation of cash deposits made during the demonetisation period are perverse, contrary to the evidence on record, or give rise to any substantial question of law.

Income Tax Act, 1961 - ss. 68, 260A - Appeal - Substantial question of law - Scope of interference - Demonetisation period - Cash deposits - Burden of proof - Cash credit - The instant matter arose from an Income Tax Appeal preferred by Revenue u/s 260A of Income Tax Act, 1961, challenging the judgment and order passed by Income Tax Appellate Tribunal, Lucknow, whereby the Tribunal deleted the addition made u/s 68 of Income Tax Act in respect of cash deposits made by the assessee during the demonetisation period - During assessment proceedings, the Assessing Officer treated the cash deposits as unexplained cash credits and made an addition, doubting the explanation furnished by assessee regarding availability of cash in hand - The assessee argued that the deposits represented cash balance duly reflected in the audited books of account, and no defect had been pointed out by Assessing Officer - The Tribunal, upon appreciation of material available on record, accepted the explanation of assessee and held that the addition was based merely on suspicion and conjectures - Aggrieved by order of Tribunal, the Revenue approached the High Court, raising the issue whether the findings recorded by Tribunal suffered from perversity or involved any substantial question of law warranting interference u/s 260A of Act.

Held: *Once the availability of cash in hand was established and Assessing Officer could not indicate anything to the contrary as to how that cash in hand was spent, the explanation of assessee that the cash in hand was deposited in the banks could not have been rejected by Assessing Officer - Thus, no substantial question of law arises in the present case, as there is no perversity in the findings of Tribunal whatsoever - Accordingly, appeal dismissed. 3. The revenue has raised the following substantial questions of law:-

"1. Whether, on the facts and in the circumstances of the case, the Ld. ITAT was justified in law in deleting the addition made under section 68 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, merely on the basis of availability of cash balance in the books of account, without examining whether the assessee had discharged the statutory onus of proving the genuineness and credibility of such cash balance?

2. Whether the Ld. ITAT erred in law in holding that the Assessing Officer could not make an addition under section 68 when the books of account were not rejected, ignoring the settled legal principle that unexplained cash credits can be brought to tax independently of rejection of books?

3. Whether the Ld. ITAT was correct in law in overlooking the relevance of abnormal cash deposits during the demonetisation period and in failing to apply the test of human probabilities, surrounding circumstances, and past business trends while adjudicating the issue under section 68?

4. Whether the Ld. ITAT has misapplied the ratio of decisions relating to suspicion versus proof, by treating a case involving unexplained cash deposits during demonetisation as one of mere estimation or conjecture, rather than one involving statutory burden of proof under section 68?"

4. Primarily, the issue engaging the attention of this Court in the present appeal is with regard to whether Tribunal has acted in a proper manner in appreciating the evidence that was provided by the assessee with regard to cash deposits made by them during the demonetization period so as to allow the appeal in their favour.

5. This Court finds that the Tribunal after considering all the evidences came to the conclusion that books of the assessee were duly audited and the Assessing Officer had not pointed out a single defect in the said books. The Tribunal further held that the Assessing Officer had completely disregarded the voluminous evidences filed by the assessee and had proceeded to disbelieve the explanation of the assessee without bringing on record anything to the contrary. The Tribunal while setting aside the assessment order arrived at a finding that the Assessing Officer had acted on presumption and on preponderance of probability and not on the evidences available on record. The relevant portion of the judgment of Tribunal is delineated below:-

"11. Though preponderance of probability is an accepted principle to judge reliability of evidences as held by the various Hon'ble Courts in plethora of cases but its application in judging the quality of evidences should be done in a reasonable manner. The action of the AO is not reasonable in as much as he was not able to point any defect in the books of account of the assessee. When as per the submission of the assessee, cash in hand was the source of the impugned cash deposit, then some further enquiries ought to have been made by the AO before rejecting the Assessee's explanation outright.

12. It will not be out of place at this juncture to refer to the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Dhakeshwari Cotton Mills Ltd vs. CIT (1954) 26 ITR 775 (SC) on the issue of suspicion vs. proof. The Hon'ble Apex Court held as under:

"As regards the second contention, although ITO is not fettered by technical rules of evidence and pleadings, and that he is entitled to act on material which may not be accepted as evidence in a court of law, but there the agreement ends; because it is equally clear that in making the assessment under section 23(3) he is not entitled to make a pure guess and make an assessment without reference to any evidence or any material at all and there must be something more than bare suspicion to support the assessment under section 23(3). The rule of law on this subject has been fairly and rightly stated by the Lahore High Court in the case of Seth Gurmukh Singh v. CIT [1944] 12 393. In the instant case, the Tribunal violated certain fundamental rules of justice in reaching its conclusions. Firstly, it did not disclose to the assessee what information had been supplied to it by the departmental representative. Next, it did not give any opportunity to the assessee to rebut the material furnished to it by him, and lastly, it declined to take all the material that the assessee wanted to produce in support of its case. The result was that the assessee had not had a fair hearing. The estimate of the gross rate of profit on sales, both by the ITO and the Tribunal, was based on surmises, suspicions and conjectures. The Tribunal took from the representative of the department a statement of gross profit rates of other cotton mills but did not show that statement to the assessee did not give him a opportunity to show that statement had no relevancy whatsoever to the case of the mill in question. It was not known whether the mills which had disclosed these rates were similarly situated and circumstanced. Not only did the Tribunal not show the information given by the representative of the department to the assessee, but it refused even to look at books and papers which assessee's representative produced before the Accountant Member in his chamber. The assessment in this case and in the connected appeal, was above the figure of Rs. 55 lakhs and it was just and proper when dealing with a matter of this magnitude not to employ unnecessary haste and show impatience, particularly when it was known to the department that the books of the assessee were in the custody of the Sub-Divisional Officer. Thus both the ITO and the Tribunal in estimating the gross profit rate on sales did not act on any material but acted on pure guess and suspicion. It was thus a fit case for the exercise of power under Article 136. In the result, the appeal was to be allowed and the order of the Tribunal was to be set aside and the case was to be remanded to it with direction that in arriving at its estimate of gross profits and sales it should give full opportunity to the assessee to place any relevant material on the point that it has before the Tribunal, whether it is found in the books of account or elsewhere and it should also disclose to the assessee the material on which the Tribunal is going to found its estimate and then afford him full opportunity to meet the substance of any private inquiries made by the ITO if it is intended to make the estimate on the foot of those enquiries."

13. The issue of cash deposits during demonetization has come up before various Benches of this Tribunal. The Ld. AR has also referred to many such cases during the course of his arguments. The Pune Bench of the ITAT has recently, vide order dated 24.04.2023, in Usha Nararayan Chaware vs. ITO deleted the addition of cash deposits during demonetization on proper explanation as to utilization of the cash deposit. The Bench noted that "Once the availability of cash in hand was established and it was not shown by the AO that such cash was spent elsewhere, the explanation of the assessee as to its utilization has to be accepted."

14. Keeping the above cited judicial precedents in mind and also on the facts of this case, we are of the considered view that the AO was not legally correct in making the impugned addition that that the Ld. First Appellate Authority has rightly deleted the said addition. Accordingly, the grounds raised by the Department are dismissed.

15. In the final result the appeal of the Department is dismissed."

6. Upon a perusal of the judgment of the Tribunal, it is crystal clear that the cash deposits by the petitioner during the period of demonetization were from the cash in hand that was available to the petitioner and was very much explained.

7. In light of the above, once the availability of the cash in hand was established and the Assessing Officer could not indicate anything to the contrary as to how that cash in hand was spent, the explanation of the assessee that the cash in hand was deposited in the banks could not have been rejected by the Assessing Officer. We are of the view that no substantial question of law arises in the present case, as there is no perversity in the findings of the Tribunal whatsoever.

8. The Hon'ble Apex Court has defined 'perversity' by tracing various earlier precedents in the case of Arulvelu v. State reported in (2009) 10 SCC 206 wherein the Supreme Court arrived at a conclusion, which is extracted hereinbelow:

"24. The expression "perverse" has been dealt with in a number of cases. In Gaya Din v. Hanuman Prasad ((2001) 1 SCC 501] this Court observed that the expression "perverse" means that the findings of the subordinate authority are not supported by the evidence brought on record or they are against the law or suffer from the vice of procedural irregularity.

25. In Parry's (Calcutta) Employees' Union v. Parry & Co. Ltd. [AIR 1966 Cal 31] the Court observed that "perverse finding" means a finding which is not only against the weight of evidence but is altogether against the evidence itself. In Triveni Rubber & Plastics v. CCE [1994 Supp (3) SCC 665: AIR 1994 SC 1341] the Court observed that this is not a case where it can be said that the findings of the authorities are based on no evidence or that they are so perverse that no reasonable person would have arrived at those findings.

26. In M.S. Narayanagouda v. Girijamma [AIR 1977 Kant 58] the Court observed that any order made in conscious violation of pleading and law is a perverse order. In Moffett v. Gough [(1878) 1 LR Ir 331] the Court observed that a "perverse verdict" may probably be defined as one that is not only against the weight of evidence but is altogether against the evidence. In Godfrey v. Godfrey [106 NW 814] the Court defined "perverse" as turned the wrong way, not right; distorted from the right; turned away or deviating from what is right, proper, correct, etc.

27. The expression "perverse" has been defined by various dictionaries in the following manner:

1. Oxford Advanced Learner's Dictionary of Current English, 6th Edn.

"Perverse. Showing deliberate determination to behave in a way that most people think is wrong, unacceptable or unreasonable."

2. Longman Dictionary of Contemporary English, International Edn.

Perverse. Deliberately departing from what is normal and reasonable.

3. The New Oxford Dictionary of English, 1998 Edn.

Perverse. Law (of a verdict) against the weight of evidence or the direction of the judge on a point of law.

4. The New Lexicon Webster's Dictionary of the English Language (Deluxe Encyclopedic Edn.)

Perverse. Purposely deviating from accepted or expected behavior or opinion; wicked or wayward; stubborn; cross or petulant.

5. Stroud's Judicial Dictionary of Words & Phrases, 4th Edn.

"Perverse. A perverse verdict may probably be defined as one that is not only against the weight of evidence but is altogether against the evidence."

9. Furthermore, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of S.R. Tewari v. Union of India reported in (2013) 6 SCC 602 has laid down the attributes of perversity in the following manner:-

"30. The findings of fact recorded by a court can be held to be perverse if the findings have been arrived at by ignoring or excluding relevant material or by taking into consideration irrelevant/inadmissible material. The finding may also be said to be perverse if it is "against the weight of evidence", or if the finding so outrageously defies logic as to suffer from the vice of irrationality. If a decision is arrived at on the basis of no evidence or thoroughly unreliable evidence and no reasonable person would act upon it, the order would be perverse. But if there is some evidence on record which is acceptable and which could be relied upon, the conclusions would not be treated as perverse and the findings would not be interfered with. (Vide Rajinder Kumar Kindra v. Delhi Admn. [(1984) 4 SCC 635: 1985 SCC (L&S) 131: AIR 1984 SC 1805], Kuldeep Singh v. Commr. of Police [(1999) 2 SCC 10: 1999 SCC (L&S) 429: AIR 1999 SC 677], Gamini Bala Koteswara Rao v. State of A.P. [(2009) 10 SCC 636: (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 372: AIR 2010 SC 589] and Babu v. State of Kerala [(2010) 9 SCC 189: (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1179].)"

10. The Delhi High Court in case of CIT v. Ajay Kapoor reported in 2013 SCC OnLine Del 2779 has further elaborated as to what constitutes 'perversity'. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment are extracted below:

"14. Perversity, in the present case, is occasioned due to two reasons: firstly, by wrongly placing onus on the revenue though the facts were in personal knowledge of the assessee, and secondly, by ignoring the admission of the respondent that they had indulged in unaccounted sales of Rs. 9.7 crores. In spite of admission and the seized document, it has been observed that there was no material with the revenue to prima facie justify any addition towards unrecorded investment in stock. Allegations, in the present case, are not based upon weighing of evidence but for altogether a wrong decision. The decision suffers from vice of irrationality, rendering it infirm in law. In Municipal Committee, Hoshiarpur v. Punjab SEB (2010) 13 SCC 216 it has been held that:

"28. If a finding of fact is arrived at by ignoring or excluding relevant material or by taking into consideration irrelevant material or if the finding so outrageously defies logic as to suffer from the vice of irrationality incurring the blame of being perverse, then the finding is rendered infirm in the eye of the law. If the findings of the Court are based on no evidence or evidence which is thoroughly unreliable or evidence that suffers from the vice of procedural irregularity or the findings are such that no reasonable person would have arrived at those findings, then the findings may be said to be perverse. Further if the findings are either ipse dixit of the Court or based on conjecture and surmises, the judgment suffers from the additional infirmity of non-application of mind and thus, stands vitiated. (Vide Bharatha Matha v. R. Vijaya Renganathan [(2010) 11 SCC 483: AIR 2010 SC 2685].)" 15. Earlier in Dhirajlal Girdharilal v. CIT (1954) 26 ITR 736 (SC) it was observed:-"

....if the court of fact, whose decision on a question of fact is final, arrives at this decision by considering material which is irrelevant to the enquiry, or by considering material which is partly relevant and partly irrelevant, or bases its decision partly on conjectures, surmises and suspicions, and partly on evidence, then in such a situation clearly an issue of law arise....

.....It is well established that when a court of fact acts on material, partly relevant and partly irrelevant, it is impossible to say to what extent the mind of the court was affected by the irrelevant material used by it in arriving at its finding. Such a finding is vitiated because of the use of inadmissible material and thereby an issue of law arises,"

16. In CIT v. Daulat Ram Rawat Mull (1973) 87 ITR 349 it has been held that onus of proving what is apparent is not real is on the party who claims it to be so. There should be direct nexus between the conclusions of fact arrived at, or inferred, and the primary facts upon which the conclusion is based. When irrelevant consideration and extraneous materials form the substratum of an order, or the authority has proceeded in a wrong presumption which is erroneous in law, as in the present case, question of law arises and when the said contention is found to be correct, then the order is perverse. A factual decision is perverse when it is without any evidence or when the factual decision, in view of the fact on record, cannot be reasonably entertained. Finding based upon surmises, conjectures or suspicion or when they are not rationally possible have to be struck down. In CIT v. S.P. Jain (1973) 87 ITR 370 (SC) it has been observed that a factual conclusion is regarded as perverse when no person duly instructed or acting judicially could upon the record before him, have reached the conclusion arrived at by the tribunal/authority."

11. As a sequel to the aforesaid judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and High Court, we are of the view that unless there is perversity in the findings of fact, no substantial questions of law would arise. Further more, as far as the present case is concerned, we find that findings of the Tribunal are supported by cogent evidence brought on record and they are not in any manner against law or suffers from any procedural irregularities.

12. Thus, we are unable to subscribe to the view of the learned counsel appearing for the revenue and reject that there is any perversity in the impugned judgment of the Tribunal. We hold that the findings are based on the available records that clearly indicates that the cash deposited in the banks was only the cash in hand available with the assessee. In the judgment of a Co-ordinate Division Bench of this Court one of us (Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf,J.) examined an identical issue wherein the Bench after examining a catena of judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court and High Court categorically held in Pr. CIT, Bareilly, UP Vs. Dharam Singh; (2025) 342 CTR 653: 245 DTR 369 (Allahabad High Court) that unless there is perversity in findings of fact, no substantial questions of law would arise.

13. In the present case, keeping in view the findings arrived at by the Tribunal to be in great detail and based on evidence brought on record by the assessee, we do not find any perversity whatsoever nor any substantial questions of law arises, which is required to be decided.

14. Accordingly, the appeal is dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

- (1) Competence of State government to make rules to prescribe the qualification for the post of Drug Inspector under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940.
(2) Vires of the Rule 8 of the U.P. Food and Drug Administration Department Gazetted Officers (Drug) Service (Third Amendment) Rules, 2015.

(A) Service law – Selection – Post of Drug Inspector – Qualification – Central government prescribed the qualifications vide Rule 49 of the Rules, 1945 made u/s 33(2)(b) r/w S. 21(1) of the Act, 1940 – However, the State government also framed the Rule 8 of the Rules, 2015 prescribing the qualification – Competence of State government to make rules and vires of Rule 8 was challenged – Writ court vide impugned judgment, quashed the selection – Validity challenged: (E-1)

Held: The State of U.P. lacks the competence to prescribe qualification for the post of Drug Inspector in view of Section 21(1) r/w Section 3(i) of the Act, 1940. Further, the Central Government, which is competent in this regard, has already prescribed the qualifications vide Rule 49 of the Rules, 1945 made under Section 33(2)(b) read with Section 21(1) of the Act, 1940. Apparently, under Rule 8, though, the essential qualifications as mentioned in Rule 49 of the Rules, 1945 have been mentioned but the proviso to Rule 49, which is not part of the essential qualifications prescribed by the Central Government, has been incorporated by the State Government in Rule 8 as an essential qualification which it could not have done – We, accordingly, declare Rule 8(ii)(a) to (c) of the Rules, 1945 as ultra vires. [Para 13 and 18]

Further held: Selection in pursuance to the said advertisement has already been completed and persons have been appointed, we, therefore, do not find it reasonable to quash the advertisement and selection held in pursuance thereof, especially as, those selected do possess the essential qualifications prescribed by the Central Government, and in addition to it, they also fulfill the requirements in the proviso to Rule 49, therefore, these reliefs are declined. Hon'ble Manjive Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Shri Anurag Shukla, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Vineet Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the respondent-petitioner, Shri R.K. Upadhyaya, learned counsel for the Commission and Shri Nishant Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State.

2. There are two cases before us. One is Special Appeal No. 163 of 2021 filed by the U.P. Public Service Commission challenging a judgment and order dated 08.01.2021 passed in Writ Petition No. 262 (S/S) of 2021 by which the selection to the post of Drug Inspector which was advertised on 10.08.2016 has been quashed. The other case is Writ A No. 8721 of 2022 filed by the petitioners wherein the vires of Rule 8 of U.P. Food and Drug Administration Department Gazetted Officers (Drug) Service (Third Amendment) Rules, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Rules, 2015') has been challenged apart from seeking a writ of Certiorari for quashing the advertisement dated 18.05.2018 for the post of Drug Inspector. A Mandamus has also been sought for issuance of fresh advertisement for direct recruitment to the aforesaid post as per essential qualifications prescribed under the statutory rules i.e. Rule 49 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945. The petitioners of this writ petition are respondents in the special appeal referred above, meaning thereby, they were petitioners in the writ petition out of which the said special appeal arises.

3. First and foremost, we will consider the relief prayed in the writ petition, specially with regard to the vires of Rule 8 of the Rules, 2015. Rule 8 of the Rules, 2015 reads as under:-

"8. Academic qualification

A candidate for direct recruitment to the post of Inspector of Drugs must possess the following qualifications:

(i) Degree in Pharmacy or Pharmaceutical Sciences or Medicine with specialization in Clinical Pharmacology or Microbiology or equivalent from a recognized University.

(ii) (a) Eighteen months' experience in the manufacture of at least one of the substances specified in Schedule 'C' to the Drug and Cosmetics Rules, 1945; or

(b) Eighteen months' experience in testing of atleast one of the substances specified in Schedule 'C' to the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 in laboratory approved for this purpose by the licensing authority; or

(c) Three years' experience in the inspection of firms manufacturing any of the substances specified in Schedule 'C' to the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 during the tenure of their services as Drug Inspector of any State Government or Central Government.

4. These rules have been made by the State Government in exercise of its powers under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India. Article 309 of the Constitution of India reads as under:-

"309. Recruitment and conditions of service of persons serving the Union or a State - Subject to the provisions of this Constitution, Acts of the appropriate Legislature may regulate the recruitment, and conditions of service of persons appointed, to public services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or of any State:

Provided that it shall be competent for the President or such person as he may direct in the case of services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union, and for the Governor of a State or such person as he may direct in the case of services and posts in connection with the affairs of the State, to make rules regulating the recruitment, and the conditions of service of persons appointed, to such services and posts until provision in that behalf is made by or under an Act of the appropriate Legislature under this Article, and any rules so made shall have effect subject to the provisions of any such Act."

5. As would be evident from a bare reading of the aforesaid Article, recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to public services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or of any State are to be regulated by Acts of appropriate legislature, subject to the provisions of the Constitution. It is not out of place to mention that the post of Drug Inspector is covered within the meaning of the term "Public Services" and is a post in connection with the affairs of the State of Uttar Pradesh. The proviso to Article 309 permits making of rules regulating recruitment and conditions of service of such persons, as referred hereinabove, until provision in that behalf is made by or under an Act of the appropriate legislature under Article 309 and any rules so made shall have effect, subject to the provisions of any such act. Thus, the rule making power vested with the State Government under the proviso to Article 309 is to be exercised, firstly, when such recruitment and conditions of service are not regulated by any enactment of an appropriate legislature. Secondly, such rules are subject to the provisions of any such enactment. The law in this regard is very well settled that if recruitment and conditions of service have been regulated by an enactment of an appropriate legislature and on the same subject there are rules which are in conflict with the enactment, then the enactment will prevail. Further, if any rules have been made under an enactment then they will prevail over a rule made under the proviso to Article 309, if the said rule has not been made under any enactment. We may in this regard refer to a recent judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court rendered in Civil Appeal No. 1725-1731 of 2023 and connected matters, State of Haryana Vs. Krishan Kumar.

6. Now, the contention of the counsel for the petitioner in the case at hand is that as regards recruitment and conditions of service on the post of Drug Inspector is concerned, the post finds mention in a central enactment i.e. Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 1940') which is referable to Entry 19 of the Concurrent List of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India. Section 21 thereof, reads as under:-

"21. Inspectors. - (1) The Central Government or a State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint such persons as it thinks fit, having the prescribed qualifications, to be Inspectors for such areas as may be assigned to them by the Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be.

(2) The powers which may be exercised by an Inspector and the duties which may be performed by him, the drugs or [classes of drugs or cosmetics or classes of cosmetics] in relation to which and the conditions, limitations or restrictions subject to which, such powers and duties may be exercised or performed shall be such as may be prescribed.

(3) No person who has any financial interest [in the import, manufacture or sale of drugs or cosmetics] shall be appointed to be an Inspector under this section.

(4) Every Inspector shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of section 21 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860). and shall be officially subordinate to such authority having the prescribed qualifications, as the Government appointing him may specify in this behalf."

7. On a reading of Sub-section 1 of Section 21, it is evident that the qualifications for the post of Inspector i.e. Drug Inspector have to be such as are prescribed. Now, the word 'prescribed' has been defined in Section 3(i) of the Act, 1940 to mean 'prescribed by rules made under the Act, 1940'. Reliance has then be placed upon Section 33 of the same act which mentions the power of the Central Government to make rules. Section 33(2)(v) empowers the Central Government specifically to make rules prescribing the qualifications of Inspector i.e. Drug Inspector. The general powers are also vested in the Central Government under Sub-Section 1. It may be pointed out at this stage that under the Act, 1940 there is no provision vesting any power in the State Government for prescribing qualification of Inspectors. Section 38 of the Act, 1940 prescribes the procedure as to how a rule made under Section 33 would be laid before the Parliament etc..

8. As, drugs and cosmetics is referable to Entry 19 of the Concurrent List of the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India, the State also has power to legislate over the subject. However, the State of Uttar Pradesh has not promulgated any such enactment pertaining to drugs and cosmetics that is the subject matter over which a central enactment i.e. the Act, 1940, exists. As already stated, the State Government has not been vested with any power to make Rules prescribing qualification for the post of Drug Inspector which is vested under Section 21(1) read with Section 33(2)(b) of the Act, 1940 in the Central Government. Reference may be made to the rules made by the Central Government in exercise of its powers under Section 33(2)(b) read with Section 21(1) of the Act, 1940 namely the Drugs & Cosmetics Rules, 1945. Rule 49 thereof reads as under:-

"49. Qualifications of Inspectors-- A person who is appointed an Inspector under the Act shall be a person who has a degree in Pharmacy or Pharmaceutical Sciences or Medicine with specialization in Clinical Pharmacology or Microbiology from a University established in India by law:

Provided that only those Inspectors—

(i) who have not less than 18 months' experience in the manufacture of at least one of the substances specified in Schedule C, or

(ii) who have not less than 18 months' experience in testing of at least one of the substances in Schedule C in a laboratory approved for his purpose by the licensing authority, or

(iii) who have gained experience of not less than three years in the inspection of firm manufacturing any of the substances specified in Schedule C during the tenure of their services as Drugs Inspectors ; shall be authorized to inspect the manufacture of the substances mentioned in Schedule C:

Provided further that the requirement as to the academic qualification shall not apply to persons appointed as Inspectors on or before the 18th day of October, 1993."

9. The submission on behalf of the petitioners is that the qualification for the post of Inspector, as prescribed by the Central Government under the said rules which have statutory force is a degree in Pharmacy or Pharmaceutical Sciences or Medicine with specialization in Clinical Pharmacology or Microbiology from a University established in India by law. The proviso to the said rule, as per Shri Anurag Shukla, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioners is referable to the duties to be performed by the Inspectors and creates an embargo on inspection of manufacture of substances mentioned in Schedule 'C' only by such Inspectors who fulfill the experience mentioned in Clause 1, 2 and 3 of the proviso. The submission is that apart from the aforesaid, the Drug Inspector performs many other functions and duties. Inspection of manufacture of substances mentioned in Schedule 'C' is only one of the functions, for which, only such Inspectors are entitled who fulfill the experience mentioned in Clause 1, 2 & 3 of the proviso, which does not mean that this experience is an essential qualification prescribed under Rule 49. The proviso has specific purpose in respect of a specific duty to be performed by the Drug Inspectors, which is only part of all the duties performed by them. A reference has been made to Section 22 and 23 pertaining to powers of Inspectors and procedure of Inspectors, as also, Rule 51 & 52 of the Rules, 1945 pertaining to duties of Inspectors.

10. Against the aforesaid background, it has been contended, firstly that in view of Section 21(1) read with Section 3(i) and Section 33(2)(b) of the Act, 1940, the Central Government alone is empowered under the aforesaid enactment to prescribe qualifications for the post of Drug Inspector, which has been done by the Rules, 1945. The State of Uttar Pradesh lacks competence to make rules prescribing qualifications for the post of Drug Inspector under the Act, 1940, and as there is an enactment i.e. the Act, 1940 and the Rules made thereunder i.e. the Rules, 1945 framed by the Central Government, prescribing qualifications for the post of Inspector, therefore, the field being covered by a Central enactment, there is no question of application of proviso to Article 309 to the subject at hand. Even otherwise, if any rule is made by the State Government under the proviso to Article 309, it will, in the event of conflict, have to give way to these rules made by the Central Government under an enactment. For this reason, he also referred to Article 254 of the Constitution of India in this very context, as has been considered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of State of Haryana Vs. Krishan Kumar and others, [2026 INSC 63]. For all these reasons, he has submitted that Rule 8 of the Rules, 2015 is ultra vires Section 21(1) read with Section 3(i) and Section 33(2) of the Act, 1940 read with Rule 49 of the Rules, 1945.

11. On being confronted with the aforesaid situation, learned State Counsel submitted that Entry 41 of the State list dealing with public services, empowers the State of Uttar Pradesh to make rules governing the terms and conditions pertaining to the services and posts connected with the affairs of the State of Uttar Pradesh, therefore, the rules are referable to the said Entry and it cannot be said that the State does not have the competence. However, on being confronted with the law as elucidated by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Krishan Kumar (Supra), which was also a case similar to the one at hand, wherein certain qualifications had been prescribed by the State of Haryana, which were in conflict with the rules made by the Central Government and the same were struck down by Hon'ble the Supreme Court, the State Counsel for obvious reasons could not dispute this legal position. Reference may be made in this regard to Paragraph 42 to 46 of the aforesaid dictum of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in this regard which reads as under:-

"Doctrine of Occupied Filed vis-a-vis Article 309 of the Constitution of India"

42. The question of applicability of Article 309 of the Constitution of India in the context of promotional rules arose in A.B. Krishna and Others Vs. State of Karnataka and Others. In this case, the Mysore Fire Force (Cadre Recruitment) Rules, 1971 were framed by the State of Karnataka under Section 39 of the Fire Force Act, 1964, being a State Act. The 1971 Rules required qualifying an examination for the purpose of promotion. This Court upheld the applicability of the 1971 Rules over an amendment made by the Governor of Karnataka to the Karnataka Civil Services (General Recruitment) Rules, 1977 in exercise of powers under Article 309 of the Constitution of India. The observations made in this regard are necessary below for ready reference:-

"8. The Fire Services under the State Government were created and established under the Fire Force Act, 1964 made by the State Legislature. It was in exercise of the power conferred under Section 39 of the Act that the State Government made Service Rules regulating the conditions of the Fire Services. Since the Fire Services had been specially established under an Act of the legislature and the Government, in pursuance of the power conferred upon it under that Act, has already made Service Rules, any amendment in the Karnataka Civil Services (General Recruitment) Rules, 1977 would not affect the special provisions Validly made for the Fire Services. As a matter of fact, under the scheme of Article 309 of the Constitution, once a legislature intervenes to enact a law regulating the conditions of service, the power of the Executive, including the President or the Governor, as the case may be, is totally displaced on the principle of "doctrine of occupied field". If, however, any matter is not touched by that enactment, it will be competent for the Executive to either issue executive instructions or to make a rule under Article 309 in respect of that matter.

9. It is no doubt true that the rule-making authority under Article 309 of the Constitution and Section 39 of the Act is the same, namely, the Government (to be precise, the Governor, under Article 309 and the Government under Section 39), but the two jurisdictions are different. As has been seen above, power under Article 309 cannot be exercised by the Governor, if the legislature has already made a law and the field is occupied. In that situation, rules can be made under the law so made by the legislature and not under Article 309. It has also to be noticed that rules made in exercise of the rule-making power given under an Act constitute delegated or subordinate legislation, but the rules under Article 309 cannot be treated to fall in that category and, therefore, on the principle of "occupied field", the rules under Article 309 cannot supersede the rules made by the legislature."

43. In light of the facts of the present appeals and the judgment of this Court in A.B. Krishna (Supra), we are of the considered opinion that the Doctrine of Occupied Field is applicable. The D&C Act being a central law confers power to the Central Government to prescribe the qualification for appointment of Inspectors, which has been exercised by framing the Drug Rules. Thus, it is the primary legislation on the subject and occupies the field. The Drug Rules, were framed by the Central Government in exercise of powers conferred by the D&C Act. The Rules of 2018 framed by the State of Haryana under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India cannot override the Drug Rules in so far as it relates to prescription of qualification for appointment of Inspector. Similar is the case in the State of Karnataka where the Rules of 2013 were framed in exercise of powers under Section 3(1)(b) of the KSCSA.

44. It is therefore apposite to underscore the material distinction in the manner of framing of the two sets of Rules. While the Rules of 2013 trace their authority to a State enactment, the Drug Rules emanate from a central legislation enacted under the Concurrent List, wherein the central law, along with the Rules framed thereunder, constitutes the primary and dominant regulatory framework. Consequently, the Rules of 2013 cannot be construed so as to invalidate or prevail over the central Drug Rules.

45. Additionally, Section 33(2)(b) read with Section 33(2)(n) of the D&C Act confer exclusive jurisdiction upon the Central Government to frame rules for the purpose of appointment of Inspector 'Expressio unius est exclusio alterius' means the "express mention of one thing excludes others." This internal aid to statutory interpretation further reinforces the legislative intent that the power to prescribe qualifications and conditions for appointment of Inspectors vests exclusively with the Central Government under the D&C Act. Once the Centre has consciously and expressly occupied the field by placing the Drug Rules framed under the D&C Act before both Houses of the Parliament as provided under Section 38, any inconsistent exercise of power by the State, even under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India, stands impliedly excluded.

46. Reverting to the issue as raised regarding inconsistency between the laws made by the Parliament and the laws made by legislature of the State is also a point which requires consideration. As discussed, the power for appointment to the post of DI/DCO is co-extensive with the Central and State Governments, and they may assign the duties as they think fit. As analysed above, under the D&C Act, the power to prescribe the qualification of Inspectors is the domain of the Central Government. In the previous paragraphs, it is also said that the provisions of the D&C Act regarding power of the Central Government to prescribe the qualification has not been amended by the respective States. Since the subject matter is under Entry No. 19 by Concurrent List of List III, therefore, on the subject occupied by the Central Legislation, the power of State legislation does not flow to the State on the subject so occupied."

12. Learned counsel for the Commission, though he does not have much of a locus in the matter, as the rules under challenge have been made by the State Government and Commission is only the recruiting authority, nevertheless, argued on the same lines as the State Counsel, and the said arguments are also not acceptable for obvious reasons.

13. We find merit in the submission of Shri Shukla, as regards Rule 8 of the Rules, 2015 framed by the State Government under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India being ultra vires Section 21(1) read with Section 3(i), Section 33(2)(b) of the Act, 1940 and Rule 49 of the Rules, 1945. The matter is squarely covered by the decision of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Krishan Kumar's case, (Supra) relevant extracts of which have already been quoted hereinabove. The State of U.P. lacks the competence to prescribe qualification for the post of Drug Inspector in view of Section 21(1) read with Section 3(i) of the Act, 1940. Further, the Central Government, which is competent in this regard, has already prescribed the qualifications vide Rule 49 of the Rules, 1945 made under Section 33(2)(b) read with Section 21(1) of the Act, 1940. Apparently, under Rule 8, though, the essential qualifications as mentioned in Rule 49 of the Rules, 1945 have been mentioned but the proviso to Rule 49, which is not part of the essential qualifications prescribed by the Central Government, has been incorporated by the State Government in Rule 8 as an essential qualification which it could not have done, firstly for the reason, it lacked competence to do so, which in fact, is an error so fundamental and fatal that no other reason is required for declaring the same as ultra vires but, additionally, it is also in conflict with Rule 49 of the Rules, 1945.

14. As regards, reliance placed by learned counsels appearing for the State and Commission on the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of S. Satyapal Reddy and Others Vs. Government of Andhra Pradesh and others, 1994 (4) SCC 391, the same has already been considered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Krishan Kumar (Supra) in Paragraph 47 and 48 which reads as under:-

"47. Learned Additional Solicitor General, Mr. Vikramjeet Banerjee appearing on behalf of the State of Haryana has heavily placed reliance on the judgment of S. Satyapal Reddy (Supra) wherein the qualification for appointment on the post of Assistant Motor Vehicles Inspector in the State of Andhra Pradesh as per State rules was an issue. In the facts of the said case, the Central Government framed the rules in exercise of power under Section 213(4) of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 vide S.O 443(E) dated 12.06.1989 prescribed a diploma in Mechanical Engineering as the 'minimum qualification' for appointment to the said post. The Government of Andhra Pradesh in exercise of powers under proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India, framed the Andhra Pradesh Transport Subordinate Service Rules, 1984 and enhanced the qualification of diploma into degree as qualification for appointment. In the said context, this Court held as under:

*"5. It is seen that marginal note in Section 213 for "appointment of Motor Vehicles Officers" indicates the subject-matter of the section. Sub-section (1) says that the State Government may, for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act, establish Motor Vehicles Department and "appoint as officers thereof such persons as it thinks fit". The power of appointment includes the power to select a fit and competent person who it thinks fit to hold the post and would discharge efficiently the functions assigned under the Act. It includes the power to prescribe qualifications to select suitable officers. The Parliament preserved that power to the State Government under Section 213(1) itself by allowing it to appoint the officers whom it finds fit to carry into effect the provisions of the Act. Sub-section (4) gives power to the Central Government, having regard to the object of the Act, by a notification in the Official Gazette "to prescribe minimum qualification" which the officers or class of officers thereof shall possess for being appointed as such officer or to the cadre belonging to the State Government. Under Entry 41 of List II (State List) of VIIth Schedule to the Constitution, the public service includes the services of the officers to be appointed under sub-section (1) of Section 213 of the Act. No doubt, as contended by the learned counsel for the appellants that the Act receives paramountcy, since under Entry 35, the subject under the Act covers the concurrent field. Sub-section (4) of Section 213 also preserves the power to prescribe qualifications higher than that "minimum qualification" prescribed by the Central Government to appoint the "said officers or any class thereof shall possess for being appointed as such."

48. In light of the said observations, if we examine the scheme of the Motor Vehicle Act, 1988, Section 213 deals with the appointment of Assistant Motor Vehicle Inspectors. Sub-section (iv) therein confers power on the Central Government to prescribe the 'minimum qualification' which the said officers or any class thereof shall possess for being appointed as such. However, prescribing the 'minimum qualification' i.e., holding a diploma in Mechanical Engineering was 'minimum' Section 213(iii) of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 also confers powers on the State Government to make rules for regulating the discharge of functions by officers of the motor vehicle department and in particular, and without prejudice to the generality of forgoing power, prescribe the uniform to be worn by them, the authorities to which they shall be sub-ordinate, the duties to be performed by them, the powers (including the powers exercisable by police officers under this Act) to be exercised by them and the conditions governing the exercise of such power. Therefore, to sustain the discharge of the duties of the powers were given to the State Government. In the said case, the State Government by its rules under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India prescribed the educational qualification as a degree in Mechanical Engineering for the post of Assistant Motor Vehicle Inspector. However, the said qualification was above that prescribed by the Central Government i.e., a diploma in Mechanical Engineering which was the minimum qualification. This Court while dealing with the issue has observed as under –

"7. It is thus settled law that Parliament has exclusive power to make law with respect to any of the matters enumerated in List I or concurrent power with the State Legislature in List III of the VIIth Schedule to the Constitution which shall prevail over the State law made by the State Legislature exercising the power on any of the entries in List III. If the said law is inconsistent with or incompatible to occupy the same field, to that extent the State law stands superseded or becomes void. It is settled law that when Parliament and the Legislature derive that power under Article 246(2) and the entry in the Concurrent List, whether prior or later to the law made by the State Legislature, Article 246(2) gives power, to legislate upon any subject enumerated in the Concurrent List, the law made by Parliament gets paramountcy over the law made by the State Legislature unless the State law is reserved for consideration of the President and receives his assent. Whether there is an apparent repugnance or conflict between Central and State laws occupying the same field and cannot operate harmoniously in each case the court has to examine whether the provisions occupy the same field with respect to one of the matters enumerated in the Concurrent List and whether there exists repugnancy between the two laws. Article 254 lays emphasis on the words "with respect to that matter". Repugnancy arises when both the laws are fully inconsistent or are absolutely irreconcilable and when it is impossible to obey one without disobeying the other. The repugnancy would arise when conflicting results are produced when both the statutes covering the same field are applied to a given set of facts. But the court has to make every attempt to reconcile the provisions of the apparently conflicting laws and the court would endeavour to give harmonious construction. The purpose to determine inconsistency is to ascertain the intention of Parliament which would be gathered from a consideration of the entire field occupied by the law. The proper test would be whether effect can be given to the provisions of both the laws or whether both the laws can stand together. Section 213 itself made the distinction of the powers exercisable by the State Government and the Central Government in working the provisions of the Act. It is the State Government that operates the provisions of the Act through its officers. Therefore, sub-section (1) of Section 213 gives power to the State Government to create Transport Department and to appoint officers, as it thinks fit. Sub-section (4) thereof also preserves the power. By necessary implication, it also preserves the power to prescribe higher qualification for appointment of officers of the State Government to man the Motor Vehicles Department. What was done by the Central Government was only the prescription of minimum qualifications, leaving the field open to the State Government concerned to prescribe if it finds necessary, higher qualifications. The Governor has been given power under proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution, subject to any law made by the State Legislature, to make rules regulating the recruitment which includes prescription of qualifications for appointment to a office or post under the State. Since the Transport Department under the Act is constituted by the State Government and the officers appointed to those posts belong to the State service, while appointing its own officers, the State Government as a necessary adjunct is entitled to prescribe qualifications for recruitment or conditions of service. But while so prescribing, the State Government may accept the qualifications or prescribe higher qualification but in no case prescribe any qualification less than the qualifications prescribed by the Central Government under sub-section (4) of Section 213 of the Act. In the latter event, ie.. prescribing lesser qualifications, both the rules cannot operate without colliding with each other. When the rules made by the Central Government under Section 213(4) and the statutory rules made under proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution are construed harmoniously, there is no incompatibility or inconsistency in the operation of both the rules to appoint fit persons to the posts or class of officers of the State Government vis-a-vis the qualifications prescribed by the Central Government under sub-section (4) of Section 213 of the Act."

15. Therefore, the reliance placed on the said decision is of no avail.

16. At this very stage, we may consider a Co-ordinate Bench Judgment dated 08.01.2026 rendered in Writ-A No. 82 of 2026, Deepak Kumar & 32 others Vs. State of U.P. & Another, wherein the similar issue, as has been considered herein, was involved and the rule was held to be intra vires, however, this judgment was rendered prior to judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Krishan Kumar (Supra), which has been rendered subsequently on 13.01.2026, therefore, the Co-ordinate Bench did not have the benefit of the aforesaid Supreme Court's decision. In view of this, there is no need to refer the matter to a larger Bench, as, the issue involved is directly covered by a Supreme Court decision which has been recently pronounced, which for obvious reasons, prevails, and by which, we are bound.

17. In fact, we find that in context of the Food Safety Act, 2006 also, a similar controversy arose where rules were made by the Government of Jharkhand in conflict with rules made by the Central Government and Hon'ble the Supreme Court in a recent decision dated 28.03.2025 rendered in Civil Appeal 10389 of 2024, Chandra Shekhar Singh Vs. State of Jharkhand, held that the State lacked the competence to make the rules, as the field was covered by the provisions of a central enactment and rules made by the Central Government.

18. We, accordingly, declare Rule 8(ii)(a) to (c) of the Rules, 1945 as ultra vires. Consequences shall follow accordingly as per law.

19. As regards, the other reliefs in the writ petition regarding quashing of the advertisement dated 18.05.2018 and issuance of a fresh advertisement for the post of Drug Inspector, we have been informed that selection in pursuance to the said advertisement has already been completed and persons have been appointed, we, therefore, do not find it reasonable to quash the advertisement and selection held in pursuance thereof, especially as, those selected do possess the essential qualifications prescribed by the Central Government, and in addition to it, they also fulfill the requirements in the proviso to Rule 49, therefore, these reliefs are declined. It is, however, made clear that in all pending and future selections for the post of Drug Inspector, the qualification prescribed shall be such, as is prescribed by the Central Government by Rules made under Section 33(2)(b) read with Section 21 and 3(i) of the Act, 1940 unless the statutory provision and law undergoes a change. The petition stands allowed in part in the aforesaid terms.

20. We, now, come to the Special Appeal No. 163 of 2021. In this appeal, the Writ Court has allowed the writ petition of the respondent-petitioners by considering the legal position as to the competence of the State Government to prescribe qualification for the post of Drug Inspector. The Writ Court has found that the State Government lacks such competence. This aspect has already been discussed by us while deciding the writ petition as aforesaid, therefore, we need not reiterate the same. To this extent, we do not find any error in the judgment of the learned Single Judge on the point of law decided by him, however, so far as, the relief granted by him is concerned, as he has quashed the advertisement dated 18.05.2016 and the selection held in pursuance thereof, therefore, this aspect requires consideration. This is for the reason, out of 27 posts of Drug Inspector which had been advertised, 23 have already been filled up, albeit after passing of the interim order in this appeal filed by the Commission, and no doubt, their joining is also subject to result of this appeal but, the fact of the matter is that these persons after joining in 2021 have been continuing for almost five years. Further, all of them possess the qualifications prescribed in Rule 49 of the Rules, 1945, and additionally, also possess the experience mentioned in the proviso to the said Rule, which though not an essential qualification, is satisfied by them, therefore, they being qualified, we find it inequitable and unjust to throw them out of service after five years, as all their experience would go waste. This aspect has also been dealt with while allowing the writ petition pertaining to the Advertisement of 2018, therefore, purely on facts, the selection, joining and appointment of the said candidates need not be interfered.

21. As regards the rights of respondent-petitioners to be considered for public employment having been violated and prejudice caused to them, it is informed that there is one selection to the post in question pending which is at its nascent stage, having been initiated in pursuance to the advertisement dated 22.12.2025, as informed by learned Counsel for the Commission, Shri R. R. Upadhyay. As, the respondent-petitioners were deprived of an opportunity to appear in the selection on account of prescription of qualifications in excess of what has been prescribed by the Central Government, and as, we have declared Rule 8 (ii)(a) to (c) ultra vires, therefore, it is equitable that the Respondent No's. 1 to 8 are permitted to participate in the selection which has been initiated as aforesaid in 2025 by being permitted therein to apply for the same, and further they should be considered as per law keeping in mind what has been stated hereinabove, provided they satisfy other conditions of recruitment as per law. The Commission is directed to make necessary arrangement to facilitate submission of applications by Respondent No's. 1 to 8 with respect to the aforesaid selection and consider them as per law. We have already observed and directed while deciding the writ petition earlier, that any selection to the post of Drug Inspector which is pending or which takes place in future will have to be considered in the light of the qualifications prescribed by the Central Government under Section 21(1) read with Section 3(i) and Section 33(2)(b) and Rules made thereunder, unless the law undergoes a change.

22. We have been told that Respondent no. 1 participated in the advertisement but did not submit requisite documents on account of which, he was not called for interview. Be that as it may, there are certain exceptions to the rule of estoppel in cases where a person has appeared in a selection and then proposes to challenge the same subsequently, one of the exceptions is, where there is an apparent error in the sense that the advertisement is in the teeth of statutory rules or law on the subject, as in this case. We are of the opinion that the writ petition, as also, the special appeal at the behest of Respondent No. 1, was / is maintainable as it falls in the aforesaid exception.

23. The judgment of learned Single Judge stands modified to the aforesaid extent. The appeal is allowed in part as stated hereinabove.

Special Appeal No. 1205 of 2025

Smt. Rinku Ram @ Rinku Devi & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

- (1) Maintainability of Habeas Corpus writ petition filed by the mother to take custody of her minor child.
- (2) Validity of the order dismissing the writ petition of Habeas Corpus on the ground that the remedy is available under the provisions of Guardians and Wards Act, 1890.

(A) Constitutional law – Writ of Habeas corpus – Maintainability – Matrimonial dispute – Custody matter – Mother filed writ petition alleging that the respondent-husband forcibly taken away the minor child and child was not handed over to her despite the order of C.W.C. – Writ petition was dismissed on the ground that the remedy is available under the provisions of Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 – Validity challenged: (E-1)

Held: The view taken by the learned Single Judge is contrary to the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Yashita Sahu's case – It is too late in the day to urge that a writ of habeas is not maintainable if the child is in the custody of another parent and the court can invoke its extraordinary writ jurisdiction for the best interest of the child – In custody matters, it is only the welfare of the child that is of paramount consideration and once we have arrived at a conclusion that writ petition could not be dismissed as not maintainable or the forum of the writ court as not the appropriate one, the matter has to be considered by the writ court on merits where the parties would have their full say. Case Arising From Judgment and order dated 06.11.2025 passed in Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 931 of 2025.

Advs. for the Appellant: Kamla Kant Mishra, Varun Mishra.

Advs. for the Respondents: Rakesh Pande (Sr. Adv.), Ram Kesh, Rajiv Singh (S.C.), Virendra Pratap Pal.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Bhansali, C.J.

Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. Heard Shri Kamla Kant Mishra, learned counsel for the appellants, learned Standing Counsel for respondents no. 1 to 5 and Shri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Ram Kesh for respondent no. 6.

2. This appeal is directed against order dated 06.11.2025, whereby learned Single Judge has dismissed Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 931 of 2025 filed by the appellants.

3. The writ petition was filed by Smt. Rinku Ram (appellant no. 1), mother of Vishwajeet (minor) (appellant no. 2), stating that the appellant no. 2 was born on 13.08.2024 out of the wedlock between appellant no. 1 and respondent no. 6 and matrimonial dispute arose between the parties to the marriage wherein some proceedings were allegedly sought to be initiated/undertaken at the instance of respondent no. 6. It was further stated that the child had been forcibly taken away by the respondent no. 6 and despite an order dated 10.09.2025 passed by the Child Welfare Committee ('C.W.C.'), whereby the respondent no. 6 was directed to handover custody of the child to the appellant no. 1, child was not handed over to her.

4. The learned Single Judge, on the first date of consideration of the writ petition, dismissed the same with the following observations:

“5. A writ of habeas corpus is a prerogative writ aimed at safeguarding an individual's liberty by providing an immediate and effective remedy for release from unlawful or improper detention. The writ can also be invoked to restore the custody of a minor to their lawful guardian if they have been wrongfully deprived of it. The detention of a minor by a person not entitled to legal custody is considered equivalent to illegal detention, warranting the issuance of a writ for the minor's custody.

6. The law governing guardianship and custody matters is primarily encapsulated in the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, under which a guardian may be appointed or entitled to custody upon a proper application filed by a person asserting such a claim.

7. Upon careful review of the facts in the present case, no evidence has been presented to establish that the custody of petitioner no.2 is illegal or improper. Therefore, the writ of habeas corpus, which is invoked for the release from illegal custody, is not applicable in the present case.

8. As regards the issue of custodial rights, it is open to the parties to approach the appropriate forum for the determination of such rights in accordance with the law."

5. This Court, by order dated 11.12.2025, issued notice to respondents no. 6 to 8, pursuant whereeto, appearance was put by them through counsel. On 02.02.2026, the Court granted time to the learned Standing Counsel to obtain instructions as to why the directions of the C.W.C. had not been complied with. Pursuant thereto, instructions were furnished by the learned Standing Counsel and following order was passed on 25.02.2026:-

"1. On 02.02.2026, learned Standing Counsel was granted time to obtain instructions as to why directions of the Child Welfare Committee (Annexure-3) have not been complied with, pursuant to which, instructions have been produced inter alia indicating that the SHO, Haldi, Ballia gave a report to the Superintendent of Police, Ballia regarding non-compliance based on which, the Superintendent of Police, Ballia has written a communication to the Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur where respondent no. 7 is posted requiring him to take appropriate steps.

2. It is surprising that despite the orders passed by this Court, the officers are busy in writing letters to one another and the child, contrary to the order passed by the Child Welfare Committee, is at Police Lines, Jaunpur.

3. Learned Standing Counsel prays for time to obtain further instructions in the matter.

4. If appropriate instructions are not produced by the next date, the Court will be constrained to summon Superintendent of Police"

6. The appeal was heard on 11.03.2026 and matter was adjourned after some hearing, on the request of the learned Senior Counsel appearing for respondent no. 6 and following order was passed:-

"1. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for respondent no. 6 submits that he has been briefed this morning only and seeks time to make submissions after getting full information qua the subject matter.

2. Learned Standing Counsel has produced factual reports of Senior Superintendent of Police, Jaunpur and S.H.O., Police Station Haldi, Ballia. Both the reports reinforce the observations/opinion of the Court that the officers of respondent no. 6, Police Constable, are providing full protection to the said respondent no. 6 in violating the directions of C.W.C., which conduct of the officers cannot be appreciated and appropriate orders in this regard would be passed while dealing with the main matter.

3. List on 18.03.2026, as fresh."

7. Thereafter, on 25.03.2026, learned Senior Counsel appearing for respondent no. 6 made a statement that the department had initiated proceedings against respondent no. 6 for not obeying the directions issued by the C.W.C., however, respondent no. 6 has challenged the order dated 10.09.2025 passed by C.W.C. by way of appeal, which is pending. He also expressed his concern about the custody of minor child and made a statement that he would try to convince his client to act in the interest of the family.

8. Today, learned Senior Counsel has made submissions that this Court may explore possibility of amicable settlement of the matrimonial discord between the parties through process of mediation and conciliation so that they may sit together and explore terms of settlement. He also submitted that his client is inclined to divorce the appellant no. 1, though no such proceedings have yet been initiated.

9. To this contention, learned counsel for the appellants made vehement submissions that proceedings of any other nature may or may not take place in future but, in so far as the present matter is concerned, the same is confined to custody of the minor child, who is of such a tender age of 15 months that it is only his mother, i.e. the appellant no. 1, who can take care of him.

10. Considering the stands taken by the counsel for the parties, we proceeded to hear the matter on merits.

11. Learned counsel for the appellants has made submissions that the respondent no. 6 was bound to obey the order passed by the C.W.C. and when the same was not obeyed, the learned Single Judge should have issued a writ of habeas corpus for production of appellant no. 2 before the Court and handover his custody to appellant no. 1, who is his mother and natural guardian. Further submission has been made that dismissal of the writ petition on the ground that remedy is available under the provisions of Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 is contrary to the position of law settled to the effect that a petition for habeas corpus cannot be dismissed only on this ground.

12. It is further submitted that the respondent no. 6, being in police service, has throughout been influential to a great extent so as to manage 'no action' against him, either by the Department or otherwise. Further submission has been made that the welfare of the son aged 15 months is always with his mother and, therefore, in the facts and circumstances of the case, interference by the writ court was warranted but the same has been denied on a ground which is not sustainable. In support of his submissions, learned counsel has placed reliance on the following judgments:-

(i) Arvinder Kaur Vs. State of Punjab and others: CRWP 5617 of 2020, decided on 09.11.2020;

(ii) Gohar Begum Vs. Suggi: AIR 1960 SC 93;

(iii) xxxxxx Vs. State of Kerala and others, Writ Petition (Civil) No. 35211 of 2024, 2024:KER:79513; decided on 25.10.2024;

(iv) Mohd. Irfan Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others: Special Appeal No. 1015 of 2014, decided on 11.12.2014;

(v) Kanchan Akshay Shinde Vs. The State of Maharashtra and others: Writ Petition No. 737 of 2026, decided on 10.03.2026

(vi) Manju Tiwari Vs. Rajendra Tiwari: AIR 1990 SC 1156;

(vii) Syed Saleemuddin Vs. Dr. Rukhsana: 2001 (2) R.C.R. (Criminal) 591;

- (viii) Tejaswini Gaud and others Vs. Shekhar Jagdish Prasad Tewari and others: 2019 (3) R.C.R. (Civil) 104;
 (x) Durgesh Kumar Ahuja Vs. Vineet Khurana and another (Delhi HC): 1985 Cri. L.J. 1195

13. Per contra, learned Senior Counsel appearing for respondent no. 6 has made submissions that the basis of the writ petition was an ex-parte order dated 10.09.2025 passed by the CWC and once the same is under challenge in appeal, no interference is warranted by this Court. It is further submitted that custody of the minor son with the respondent No. 6 cannot be said to be illegal as he, being his father, is also his natural guardian entitled to custody of the child and, therefore, the writ petition was otherwise not maintainable. He also made submission that welfare of the child is with the respondent No. 6 and not with the appellant No. 1 who cannot arrange funds for the well being of her son.

14. We have considered the submissions made and perused the material available on record.

15. We find that the claim of the appellant No. 1 to get custody of her minor son, who is now aged about 20 months, has not been considered by the writ court on merits and the opinion formed by the learned Single Judge is that availability of remedy under Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, renders the petition for Habeas Corpus either not maintainable or the writ court as not an appropriate forum.

16. In our opinion, the view taken by the learned Single Judge is contrary to the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Yashita Sahu Vs. State of Rajasthan and others: (2020) 3 SCC 67, wherein, after placing reliance on judgments in Elizabeth Dinshaw Vs. Arvand M. Dinshaw and others: (1987) 1 SCC 42, Nithya Anand Raghavan Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and another: (2017) 8 SCC 454 and Lahari Sakhamuri Vs. Sobhan Kodali: (2019) 7 SCC 311, it has been held that it is too late in the day to urge that a writ of habeas is not maintainable if the child is in the custody of another parent and the court can invoke its extraordinary writ jurisdiction for the best interest of the child.

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Gohar Begum (supra), quoted observations of Lord Denman C. J., in R. Vs. Greenhill, (1836) 4 Ad and El at p. 640: 111 ER at p. 927, as under:-

"When an infant is brought before the Court by habeas corpus, if he be of an age to exercise a choice, the Court leaves him to elect where he will go. If he be not of that age, and a want of direction would only expose him to dangers or seductions, the Court must make an order for his being placed in the proper custody."

"Where, as frequently occurs in the case of infants, conflicting claims for the custody of the same individual are raised, such claims may be enquired into on the return to a writ of habeas corpus, and the custody awarded to the proper person."

18. There is no need to refer judgments on the settled proposition of law that in custody matters, it is only the welfare of the child that is of paramount consideration and once we have arrived at a conclusion that writ petition could not be dismissed as not maintainable or the forum of the writ court as not the appropriate one, the matter has to be considered by the writ court on merits where the parties would have their full say.

19. The special appeal is, accordingly, allowed.

20. The order dated 06.11.2025 passed by the learned Single Judge is set aside.

21. Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 931 of 2025 is restored to its original number and status and the same shall be listed before appropriate Bench on 16.04.2026 as a fresh case.

...Applicant
Versus

State of U.P. & Ors .

...Opposite Parties

Issue for consideration

The applicant filed a petition to quash criminal proceedings u/s 363, 366, 376 IPC and section 34 of the POCSO Act, arising out of an FIR alleging the abduction of a minor girl.

Headnotes

A. Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 363, 366, 376 & section 34 of the POCSO Act-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 482(BNSS, 2023-Section 528)-Quashing of criminal proceedings-Subsequent developments-Amicable settlement and marriage between applicant and victim-Absence of any allegation of kidnapping, inducement or sexual assault in statements u/s 161 and 164 CrPC and deposition before Trial Court-Medical evidence assessing victim as major-Birth of a child from the wedlock-Informant filing counter-affidavit accepting compromise and expressing intent not to proceed-Continuation of trial would amount to abuse of process and disruption of matrimonial harmony-Application allowed.(Para 10 to 27)

Held

The court emphasized that while settlement in heinous offenses is ordinarily discouraged, it cannot turn a blind eye to ground realities or sacrifice substantial justice at the altar of technicalities when the parties are leading a happy married life with a child and the informant has entered into a compromise. Continuation of trial would serve no meaningful purpose, waste valuable judicial hours and cause undue harassment by disrupting a stable matrimonial relationship. Hence, entire proceedings quashed. Appearances for Parties

Adv. for Applicant(s)

Dharmendra Kumar Patel

Advs for Opposite Party(s)

Chandra Prakash Pandey, G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Counter affidavit filed today is taken on record.

2. Heard Sri Dharmendra Kumar Patel, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Brij Kishore Singh, Advocate holding brief of Sri Chandra Prakash Pandey, learned counsel for first informant/opposite party no.2 and Sri Prashant Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State.

3. Present application under Section 528 Bhartiya Nagrik Suraksha Sanhita (in short 'BNSS') has been filed seeking to quash the charge sheet no.225 of 2018 dated 13.09.2018 and cognizance/summoning order dated 25.09.2019 as well as proceeding of Special Session Trial No.195 of 2019 (State Vs. Akash), arising out of Case Crime No.207 of 2018, under Sections 363, 366 & 376 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act, Police Station Rajpura, District Bheem Nagar (Sambhal), pending in the court of learned Special Judge POCSO Act/ Additional Session Judge, Sambhal at Chandausi.

4. Brief facts of the case are that the opposite party no.2/ first informant lodged the first information report against the applicant on 20.06.2018 at 12:51 hours in respect of alleged incident dated 17.06.2018 at 9:00 A.M. The first information report was registered as Case Crime No.0207 of 2018, under Sections 363 and 366 of I.P.C. at Police Station Rajpura, District Bheem Nagar. The Investigating Officer, after due investigation, added Section 376 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act. The first informant stated in the first information report that his daughter, aged about 13 years was alone in the house and on 17.06.2018 she went to the field but did not return. The first informant later came to know that his daughter was taken by the applicant.

5. During the course of investigation, the victim was recovered by the police and her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded, wherein she has categorically stated that she left her house one month ago with the applicant and they have solemnized a court marriage in Ghaziabad. She is living as wife of the applicant in her village for the last one month. She is a major girl and she has solemnized her marriage on her own will. She further expressed her desire to live with the applicant, with whom she had been in a relationship for the past two years. Similarly, in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., the victim stated that no incident had taken place with her and she is a major girl. She joined the applicant on her own will and no offence has been committed with her.

6. The victim was medically examined, and no injury was seen on her body. As per report of the Chief Medical Officer, Sambhal, dated 07.08.2018, the victim was 18 years of age, a copy of which has been appended as Annexure No.5 to the present application. The Investigating Officer concluded the investigation in this matter and submitted the charge-sheet against the applicant on 13.09.2018. Learned court concerned took cognizance of offence vide order dated 25.09.2019. A compromise deed dated 13.12.2025 has been appended by the applicant as Annexure No.10 to the present application, which has been duly signed by the applicant and the victim. A copy of the birth certificate of the baby girl has also been appended along with the present application as Annexure No.11 and as per the birth certificate, a baby girl was born to the applicant and the victim on 10.12.2018. The marriage registration certificate of the applicant and the victim has also been appended as Annexure No.6 to the present application and as per the marriage registration certificate, the marriage between the applicant and the victim was registered on 03.07.2018.

7. The learned counsel for the opposite party no.2/ informant has also filed his vakalatnama along with counter affidavit, sworn by the informant/ opposite party no.2 of the present case, wherein it is accepted by the opposite party no.2/ informant that a compromise has taken place between the parties and he does not intend to proceed with the criminal case against the applicant. No averment of the affidavit filed in support of the application under Section 528 BNSS has been controverted by the informant/ opposite party no.2.

8. Per contra, the learned A.G.A. has opposed the prayer made by the applicant but could not dispute the fact that the marriage of the victim has been solemnized with the applicant. He further submitted that since the prosecutrix was a child within the definition of term 'child' as defined in the POCSO Act, therefore, subsequent development, if any will not wipe out the criminality committed by the applicant. Further, he admitted that no allegation was levelled by the victim against the applicant in her statements recorded under sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. in respect of her alleged kidnapping or rape.

9. I have heard rival submissions of the parties and perused the records.

10. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the victim was a major girl at the time of alleged incident and she was a consenting party with the applicant. She left her house on her own will and she did not level any allegation against the applicant when her statements were recorded under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. The marriage between the applicant and the victim was solemnized on 03.07.2018 at Arya Samaj Mandir Shastri Nagar, Ghaziabad and was got registered on the same day. Now the applicant and the victim have been blessed with a baby girl, who is aged about 7 years. The statement of the victim has already been recorded in the trial court on 16.09.2025 as PW-2, wherein too she stated that she solemnized her marriage with the applicant and since then she has been living in the house of the applicant. She claimed that at the time of incident she was aged about 19 years. No allegation has been levelled against the applicant when her statement was recorded in the trial court on 16.09.2025. It is further submitted by the learned counsel for the applicant that, in view of the statements made by the victim before the police, the Magistrate, and the learned trial court, no offence under Sections 363, 366, and 376 of the I.P.C., read with Section 3/4 of the POCSO Act, is made out against the applicant. Consequently, the impugned charge-sheet, cognizance order and the entire criminal proceedings, are liable to be quashed.

11. Reliance is placed by the learned counsel for the applicant on Juhi Devi vs. State of Bihar and Others, 2005(13) SCC 376; Suhani and Another vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2018 (3) AICLR 183 and this Court's decisions in Reena vs. State of U.P., 2012 (2) ACR 2349; Shaheen Parveen and Another vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2015(7) ADJ 713 and Sunil Tiwari vs. State of U.P. and Another, (Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 5471 of 2016), decided on 21.10.2016.

12. The applicant is accused of committing an offence under Sections 363 and 366 of the IPC. Section 363 of the IPC provides that whoever kidnaps any person from lawful guardianship shall be punished in terms of sentence provided in the provision.

13. "Kidnapping from lawful guardianship" has been defined under Section 361 of the IPC. The provision when extracted reads as under:

*"Whoever takes or entices any minor under [sixteen] years of age if a male, or under [eighteen] years of age if a female, or any person of unsound mind, out of the keeping of the lawful guardian of such minor or person of unsound mind, without the consent of such guardian, is said to kidnap such minor or person from lawful guardianship."

Explanation : The words "lawful guardian" in this section include any person lawfully entrusted with the care or custody of such minor or other person.

Exception : This section does not extend to the act of any person who in good faith believes himself to be the father of an illegitimate child, or who in good faith believes himself to be entitled to the lawful custody of such child, unless such act is committed for an immoral or unlawful purpose."

14. Section 366 of the IPC inheres that whoever kidnaps or abducts any woman with intent that she may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled to marry any person against her will, or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, shall be punished with a sentence, as provided in the provision. At the time of considering the allegations made in the F.I.R., whether the offence has been committed or not, the ingredients of the offence are required to be considered in context of the evidence collected during the course of investigation.

15. In the peculiar facts and circumstances of this case, the Court has minutely examined the facts that have emerged on investigation of the case. There is sufficient evidence on record to show that the prosecutrix has solemnized marriage with the applicant.

16. Somewhat similar facts came up for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Juhi Devi Versus State of Bihar and Others, reported in (2005) 13 SCC 376, where Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that prosecutrix who has attained the age of discretion, has a right to enjoy her liberties by virtue of constitutional guarantee. The relevant para is quoted below :-

"2. The petitioner herein is alleged to have married another person of her age and the 5th respondent herein, the father of the petitioner, objected to the said marriage. It seems that the petitioner had eloped with that person and the father of the petitioner-5th respondent, has filed a complaint and the petitioner was produced before the C.J.M., Patna. The petitioner claims that she was major and voluntarily left with her husband. The father of petitioner alleged that the petitioner was a minor and the question of age was referred to a Medical Board. The Medical Board opined that as on 17.05.2003, the petitioner must have been aged between 16 and 17 years. However, the father of the petitioner produced two certificates before the Revisional Court and contended that her date of birth is 12.10.1985 and she has not attained majority. However, the medical report shows that she must have been aged more than 16 years, even on 17.05.2003. Having regard to these facts, we are of the view that she must have attained majority and her stay at the remand home would not be in the interest of justice and we think that her continued stay at the remand home would be detrimental and she would be in a better environment by living with the person whom she had allegedly married. (Emphasis supplied)

17. A Division Bench of this Court in Smt. Reena Versus State of U.P. and Others (Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. -10180 of 2012), decided on 24.5.2012 observed that in pure and simple case of elopement of prosecutrix it is to be seen that her right to enjoy her liberties by virtue of the constitutional guarantees are not curtailed or encroached upon. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment are quoted below:-

"We find from facts of the case that it was a pure and simple case of elopement of petitioner, Smt. Reena with Rabdullah and the petitioner, thereafter went straight away to his house from where she appears recovered. There was some dispute in respect of the age of the girl but we find from argument appearing at page 20 of the present petition that the Chief Medical Officer, Maharajganj had assessed her 18 years of age. Thus, the lady was undisputedly above 18 years of age, if we add three years to the medically assessed age. In our considered view in case of being a conflict between the age recorded in any school document and that assessed by the doctor then only for the present purposes, the court should lean towards acting upon the opinion of the doctor furnished after carrying out scientific tests to assess the age of a victim. This is necessary as liberty of a person has to be protected. No person could be deprived of his liberty unless reasonable procedure has been adopted. Medical opinion on age may not be exact, but it is generally acceptance and it is based on scientific method of assessing the age. As such, inspite of there being some sort of margin in assessing the age and actual age, there could be chances that the assessed age is almost exact.

We have already noted that the personal liberty of a person should be paramount consideration in such cases and keeping that in view and for protecting the personal liberty of a person, the court should lean towards considering the medical age than to consider the age which is recorded in school documents. Besides, there is no dispute in the fact that the petitioner, Smt. Reena had eloped with Rabdullah on 3-3-2011 and had wet into his house and was living there. Under the present set of facts, there could not be any doubt that it is a simple and pure case of elopement and as such no offence or offences could be said to be constituted under the admitted facts.

...There is no age, as regards the personal liberty of a person. Anyone who is born as a human being and who is found living in India even if he is not an Indian, has a right to enjoy his or her liberties by virtue of the constitutional guarantees. Any order which curtails or encroaches upon the liberties of such a person and has always to be held falling short of the constitution requirements and safeguards and, as such, we have to struck down the same in exercise of the powers Under Article 226 of the Constitution of India."

18. In the instant case, the point for consideration is whether the applicant has committed offence in context of the victim or not. It will be appropriate here to mention the judgement dated 23.07.2015 of this Court passed in Writ Petition No. 3519(MB) of 2015 (Shaheen Parveen and Another Vs. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary, Home Department, and Others), where this Court observed that a girl who has attained the age of discretion and was on the verge of attaining majority and is capable of knowing what was good and what was bad for her, cannot be said to be a victim of inducement, particularly when the case of the victim/girl herself is that it was on her initiative and on account of her voluntary act that she had gone with the boy and got married to him. In such circumstances, desire of the girl/victim is required to be seen. Ingredients of Section 361 of the I.P.C. are required to be considered accordingly, and not in mechanical or technical interpretation. In this case the Charge sheet under Sections 363 and 366 of the IPC, was quashed where the prosecutrix was found to have attained the age of discretion and was just below 17 years of age. The prosecutrix gave the statement that she was neither kidnapped nor abducted who went in the company of the accused, willingly and knowingly. She has been living with petitioner No. 2 as his wife and was an expecting mother carrying a pregnancy of 31 weeks. This Court quashed the Charge sheet observing that substantial justice cannot be sacrificed at the altar of technicality. The relevant paragraphs are quoted below:-

"18. Petitioner No. 1 the victim/prosecutrix would be the best witness, rather the only witness of commission of offence under Sections 363/366 of the IPC. Surely, the victim will not support the prosecution case, as has been made evident by her in her statement, recorded in the course of investigation under Section 164 Cr.P.C., and therefore the trial would result in acquittal. During course of trial, considerable number of man hours would be wasted in prosecution/defending and judging the case. No useful purpose would be served and the entire exercise of trial would be in futility because the victim has declared that she was not victimised or kidnapped.

19. The facts that have emerged from the record make it evident that the impugned criminal proceedings have been initiated because mother of the Prosecutrix/victim (respondent No. -4) has not accepted the marriage of her daughter with petitioner No. 2.

20. In case, despite the evidence that has come on record, as noted above, proceedings are not quashed, petitioner No. -2 would be required to face criminal charges and undergo the agony of a trial.

21. We have also taken into account the fact that in case the petitioner No. 2 is allowed to be prosecuted, the matrimonial life of petitioner No. 1/the alleged victim would be disrupted. Her husband would be incarcerated and there would be no one to take care of her child, who is yet-to-be-born.

22. If a minor, of her own, abandons the guardianship of her parents and joins a boy without any role having been played by the boy in her abandoning the guardianship of her parents and without her having been subjected to any kind of pressure, inducement, etc and without any offer or promise from the accused, no offence punishable under Section 363 I.P.C. will be made out when the girl is aged more than 17 years and is mature enough to understand what she is doing. Of course, if the accused induces or allures the girl and that influences the minor in leaving her guardian's custody and the keeping and going with the accused, then it would be difficult for the Court to accept that minor had voluntarily come to the accused. In case the victim/prosecutrix willingly, of her own accord, accompanies the boy, the law does not cast a duty on the boy of taking her back to her father's house or even of telling her not to accompany him.

27. The writ Court considering totality of fact and circumstances, cannot ignore or disregard the welfare of the petitioners, particularly when the exercise of trial is going to be in futility, as observed hereinabove.

28. In view of the facts and circumstances of the case noted above, the Court is convinced that the impugned proceedings have been initiated in abuse of process of the Court and process of the law. A personal grudge against marriage of choice of the daughter is being settled by virtue of initiating impugned criminal proceedings, which would not be permissible in law. Such prosecution would abrogate constitutional right vested in the petitioners to get married as per their discretion, particularly when there is no evidence to indicate that the marriage is void.

29. The stand of the Prosecuting Agency that the victim was a few months below age of majority when she joined the company of the accused/petitioner No. 2, and therefore offence has been committed, cannot be accepted if ground reality is taken into account. It has come on record that the prosecutrix is an expecting mother and is carrying a pregnancy of 31 weeks. Coupled with this fact is the statement of the prosecutrix wherein she has said that she was neither kidnapped nor abducted, rather has been living with petitioner No. 2 as his wife. It is the prosecutrix who went in the company of the accused, willingly, knowingly, and rather than the accused taking the prosecutrix out of the custody of the lawful guardian; the victim herself had eloped with petitioner No. 2. In the considered opinion of the Court, substantial justice cannot be sacrificed at the altar of technicality, as is being concluded by the Investigating Agency.

30. In view of above, petitioner No. 2 cannot be said to have committed offence either under Section 363 I.P.C. read with Section 361 I.P.C. or under Section 366 I.P.C."

19. The Honble Apex Court in the case of S.Varadarajan vs. State of Madras, reported in AIR1965 SC 942, has interpreted the meaning of Section 361 of the IPC and has held that if the victim had voluntarily joined the accused then in such case it could not be said that the accused had taken her away from the protection of lawful guardian within the meaning of Section 361 of the Code. The judgment of S.Varadarajan (supra) is reproduced in its entirety:

"11. It must, however, be borne in mind that there is a distinction between "taking" and allowing a minor to accompany a person. The two expressions are not synonymous though we would like to guard ourselves from laying down that in no conceivable circumstance can the two be regarded as meaning the same thing for the purposes of section 361 of the Indian Penal Code. We would limit ourselves to a case like the present where the minor alleged to have been taken by the accused person left her father's protection knowing and having capacity to know the full import of what she was doing voluntarily joins the accused person. In such a case we do not think that the accused can be said to have taken her away from the keeping of her lawful guardian. Something more has to be shown in a case of this kind and that is some kind of inducement held out by the accused person or an active participation by him in the formation of the intention of the minor to leave the house of the guardian.

12. It would, however, be sufficient if the prosecution establishes that though immediately prior to the minor leaving the father's protection no active part was played by the accused, he had at some earlier stage solicited or persuaded the minor to do so. In our opinion if evidence to establish one of those things is lacking it would not be legitimate to infer that the accused is guilty of taking the minor out of the keeping of the lawful guardian merely because after she has actually left her guardian's house or a house where her guardian had kept her, joined the accused and the accused helped her in her design not to return to her guardian's house by taking her along with him from place to place. No doubt, the part played by the accused could be regarded as facilitating the fulfillment of the intention of the girl. That part, in our opinion, falls short of an inducement to the minor to slip out of the keeping of her lawful guardian and is, therefore, not tantamount to "taking".

Whatever may be the position with respect to an offence under that section and even assuming that a minor cannot in law abandon the guardianship of her lawful guardian, for the reason which we have already stated, the accused person in whose company she is later found cannot be held guilty of having taken her out of the keeping of her guardian unless something more is established.

After pointing out that there is an essential distinction between the words "taking" and "enticing" it was no doubt observed that the mental attitude of the minor is not of relevance in the case of taking and that the word "take" means to cause to go, to escort or to get into possession. But these observations have to be understood in the context of the facts found in that case. For, it had been found that the minor girl whom the accused was charged with having kidnapped had been persuaded by the accused when she had gone out of her house for answering the call of nature, to go along with him and was taken by him to another village and kept in his uncle's house until she was restored back to her father by the uncle later. Thus, here there was an element of persuasion by the accused person which brought about the willingness of the girl and this makes all the difference. In our opinion, therefore, neither of these decisions is of assistance to the State.

We are satisfied, upon the material on record, that no offence under section 363 has been established against the appellant and that he is, therefore, entitled to acquittal. Accordingly we allow the appeal and set aside the conviction and sentence passed upon him."

20. The Apex Court in the case of Shriram Urav Vs. State of Chhattisgarh in Criminal Appeal No(S). 41/2021, decided on 10.01.2025, also quashed the conviction as well as the sentence imposed upon the appellant on the ground that the appellant/accused and the complainant/victim had married each other.

21. Similarly, in the case of Dasari Srikant vs. State of Telangana reported in (2024) SCC OnLine SC 936, wherein, under identical circumstances and almost identical provisions the Supreme Court quashed the proceedings instituted against the accused therein. The relevant paragraph 8 to 10 of the Dasari Srikant (supra) read as under:-

"8. Since, the appellant and the complainant have married each other, the affirmation of the judgment rendered by the High Court would have the disastrous consequence on the accused appellant being sent to jail which in turn could put his matrimonial relationship with the complainant in danger.

9. As a consequence, we are inclined to exercise the powers under Article 142 of the Constitution of India for quashing the conviction of the accused appellant as recorded by the learned trial Court and modified by the High Court. 10. As a result, the impugned judgment dated 27th June, 2023 passed by the High Court and judgment dated 9th April, 2021 passed by the trial Court are hereby quashed and set aside."

22. The facts of the present case are very similar to the above judgments. Here also I find that the victim has not at all supported the prosecution version instead according to her she voluntarily went with the applicant-accused on the date of alleged offence. Thereafter, she married him. The victim also did not level any allegation against the applicant in her statement recorded under Section 161 and 164 of Cr.P.C. Therefore, by no stretch of imagination, it can be said that no offence under Sections 363, 366 & 376 of the I.P.C. read with Section 3/4 of the POCSO Act has been made out. The police has submitted chargesheet in a mechanical manner without due application of mind and unfortunately the trial court has also not considered the matter in correct perspective. Secondly, the question arises here as to whether the proceedings of criminal case under section 363, 366 & 376 of the IPC and 3/4 of the POCSO Act can be quashed by the High Court in the Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. or 528 BNSS, if the parties have settled their dispute amicably and living as husband and wife for a long period.

23. The Apex Court in the case of K. Dhandapani Vs. The State by the Inspector of Police, 2022 SCC onLine SC 1056 and Mafat Lal and Others vs. The State of Rajasthan, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 433, also quashed the proceedings against the accused therein on the grounds that the accused had solemnized marriage with the prosecutrix and secondly, the court cannot turn a blind eye to the said fact. Since the judgement rendered by Apex Court in the case of K. Dhandapani (supra) is a short one, therefore, the same is reproduced in its entirety:

"Leave granted.

The appellant who is the maternal uncle of the prosecutrix belongs to Valayar community, which is a most backward community in the State of Tamilnadu. He works as a woodcutter on daily wages in a private factory. FIR was registered against him for committing rape under Sections 5(j)(ii) read with Section 6, 5(I) read with Section 6 and 5(n) read with Section 6 of Protection of Child from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, 2012. He was convicted after trial for committing the said offences and sentenced to undergo rigorous Reason: imprisonment for a period of 10 years by the Sessions Judge, Fast Track Mahila Court, Tiruppur on 31.10.2018. The High Court, by an order dated 13.02.2019, upheld the conviction and sentence. Aggrieved thereby, the appellant has filed this appeal.

Mr. M.P.Parthiban, learned counsel appearing for the appellant, submitted that allegation against him was that he had physical relations with the prosecutrix on the promise of marrying her. He stated that, in fact, he married the prosecutrix and they have two children.

The appellant submitted that this Court should exercise its power under Article 142 of the Constitution and ought to do complete justice and it could not be in the interest of justice to disturb the family life of the appellant and the prosecutrix.

After hearing the matter for some time on 08 th March, 2022, we directed the District Judge to record the statement of the prosecutrix about her present status. The statement of the prosecutrix has been placed on record in which she has categorically stated that she has two children and they are being taken care of by the appellant and she is leading a happy married life.

Dr. Joseph Aristotle S., learned counsel appearing for the State, opposed the grant of any relief to the appellant on the ground that the prosecutrix was aged 14 years on the date of the offence and gave birth to the first child when she was 15 years and second child was born when she was 17 years. He argued that the marriage between the appellant and the prosecutrix is not legal. He expressed his apprehension that the said marriage might be only for the purpose of escaping punishment and there is no guarantee that the appellant will take care of the prosecutrix and the children after this Court grants relief to him.

In the peculiar facts and circumstances of this case, we are of the considered view that the conviction and sentence of the appellant who is maternal uncle of the prosecutrix deserves to be set aside in view of the subsequent events that have been brought to the notice of this Court. This Court cannot shut its eyes to the ground reality and disturb the happy family life of the appellant and the prosecutrix. We have been informed about the custom in Tamilnadu of the marriage of a girl with the maternal uncle.

For the aforesaid mentioned reasons, the conviction and sentence of the appellant is set aside in the peculiar facts of the case and shall not be treated as a precedent. The appeal is accordingly, disposed of. Pending application(s), if any, shall stand disposed of.

In case, the appellant does not take proper care of the prosecutrix, she or the State on behalf of the prosecutrix can move this Court for modification of this Order."

24. In another judgment of Mahesh Mukund Patel vs. State of U.P. and Others, reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 614, the Hon'ble Supreme Court quashed the proceedings of offence, punishable under Sections 354A, 363, 366, 376 of the IPC and Section 3 and 4 of the POCSO Act on the ground of marriage between the accused and the victim. It was brought on record that from the wedlock between the accused and the victim, two children were born, whose documents were produced alongwith the appeal. The Apex Court in this case quashed the proceedings on the ground that no purpose would be served by continuing the prosecution as it would cause undue harassment to the appellant/accused and the victim and their children.

25. The Supreme Court in another judgment of Madhukar and Others vs. The State of Maharashtra and Another, arising out of SLP (Criminal) No. 7212 of 2025, alongwith Prabhakar vs. The State of Maharashtra and Another, arising out of SLP (Criminal) No. 7495 of 2025, quashed the proceedings of Case Crime No.302 of 2023, dated 20.11.2023, under Sections 324, 141, 143, 147, 149, 452, 323, 504 and 506 of the IPC as well as quashed the proceedings of Case Crime No.304 of 2023, dated 21.11.2023, under Sections 376, 354-A, 354-D, 509 and 506 IPC on the basis of compromise between the parties. Paragraph nos.6, 7 and 8 of the said judgment are reproduced herein:-

"6. At the outset, we recognise that the offence under Section 376 IPC is undoubtedly of a grave and heinous nature. Ordinarily, quashing of proceedings involving such offences on the ground of settlement between the parties is discouraged and should not be permitted lightly. However, the power of the Court under Section 482 CrPC to secure the ends of justice is not constrained by a rigid formula and must be exercised with reference to the facts of each case.

7. In the present matter, we are confronted with an unusual situation where the FIR invoking serious charges, including Section 376 IPC, was filed immediately following an earlier FIR lodged by the opposing side. This sequence of events lends a certain context to the allegations and suggests that the second FIR may have been a reactionary step. More importantly, the complainant in the second FIR has unequivocally expressed her desire not to pursue the case. She has submitted that she is now married, settled in her personal life, and continuing with the criminal proceedings would only disturb her peace and stability. Her stand is neither tentative nor ambiguous, she has consistently maintained, including through an affidavit on record, that she does not support the prosecution and wants the matter to end. The parties have also amicably resolved their differences and arrived at a mutual understanding. In these circumstances, the continuation of the trial would not serve any meaningful purpose. It would only prolong distress for all concerned, especially the complainant, and burden the Courts without the likelihood of a productive outcome.

8. Therefore, having considered the peculiar facts and circumstances of this case, and taking into account the categorical stand taken by the complainant and the nature of the settlement, we are of the opinion that the continuation of the criminal proceedings would serve no useful purpose and would only amount to abuse of process."

26. In my considered opinion, no offence is made out under Sections 363, 366 & 376 of the I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act since the victim has not levelled any allegation against the applicant in relation to the aforementioned sections inasmuch as the victim at no point of time stated that she was sexually assaulted or abducted by the applicant. Therefore, the basic ingredient to constitute an offence punishable under Sections 363, 366 & 376 of I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act is missing. Contrary to this, the victim has solemnized marriage with the applicant and they are living a happy married life for the last several years and the opposite party no.2/first informant has also entered into settlement agreement with the applicant. If the proceedings of the trial court is not quashed by this Court, the applicant and the victim may sustain legal injury and the case of the applicant is squarely covered with the cases mentioned hereinabove.

27. In view of the discussion made herein above, the present application succeeds and is liable to be allowed. It is accordingly allowed.

28. The charge sheet no.225 of 2018 dated 13.09.2018 and cognizance/ summoning order dated 25.09.2019 as well as entire proceeding of Special Session Trial No.195 of 2019 (State Vs. Akash), arising out of Case Crime No.207 of 2018, under Sections 363, 366 & 376 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act, Police Station Rajpura, District Bheem Nagar (Sambhal), pending in the court of learned Special Judge POCSO Act/ Additional Session Judge, Sambhal at Chandausi, are hereby quashed, against the applicant.

29. No order as to costs.

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal application filed u/s 528 BNSS, seeking to quash a trial court's order that rejected a discharge application and subsequently framed criminal charges against the applicant. The case arises from an incident where the applicant was arrested in connection with the illegal transportation of cattle, leading to charges u/s 307 IPC for attempting to run over a police party.

Headnotes

Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 307 & Section 3/5A/8 of U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act,1955 & Section 11 of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act,1960-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 482(section 528 BNSS 2023)-Discharge and framing of charge-Scope of inquiry and jurisdiction of court-Maintainability of successive applications raising identical grounds already adjudicated and refused by a reasoned order-Lapses, manipulation, or contamination by investigating agency cannot form the sole ground for discharge or acquittal-Court must evaluate credible prosecution evidence de hors investigation defects to ensure justice is not subverted-Miniature trial and roving inquiry into pros, cons, or defense materials is impermissible at the pre-trial stage-Charges can be framed on strong suspicion, probative value and final guilt are strictly matters for trial-Application dismissed.(Para 12 to 33) (E-6)

Held

The court held that successive petitions under section 528 BNSS are not maintainable when they raise identical grounds previously rejected under Section 482 Cr.PC. The court further ruled that appreciation of evidence is a function of the trial court at the appropriate stage. At the stage of discharge the court is to examine the materials only with a view to be satisfied that prima facie case of the commission of offence alleged has been made out against the accused. Marshalling and appreciation of facts is not in the domain of the trial court at the time of considering discharge application.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Manish Tiwary, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Mayank Chandra, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Pankaj Kumar, learned A.G.A. appearing for the State respondents.

2. Present application has been filed for quashing the impugned order dated 14.8.2024 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge / FTC-II, Prayagraj as well as charges framing order dated 12.9.2024 in Session Trial No. 2554 of 2023 (State of U.P. vs. Aamir) arising out of Case Crime No. 372 of 2019, under Section 307 IPC, Section 3/5A/8 of U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 and Section 11 of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960, Police Station Shankargarh, District Prayagraj. Further prayer has been made seeking stay of the aforesaid case.

3. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant submitted that the first information report of the present case was lodged on 12.12.2019 under Section 307 IPC, Section 3/5A/8 of U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 and Section 11 of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960 as Case Crime No. 372 of 2019 at Police Station Shankargarh, District Prayagraj. It is alleged in the first information report that on 12.12.2019 while the police party was on patrolling duty, they received an information that a truck loaded with bulls is being transported illegally from Chitrakoot to Bihar. On the basis of this information, police party reached at the place of incident, where two persons managed to escape and five persons including the applicant were arrested by the police on spot. It is also alleged in the first information report that the driver of the truck tried to run over the police party but somehow they saved their life. The driver was running the truck at a very high speed and lost control and was apprehended by the police. On interrogation, the arrested persons disclosed their names. The applicant was one of the accused, who was arrested on spot. The names and identities of the escaped persons were disclosed by the spot arrested accused. On inspecting the truck, it was found that the truck was carrying 19 bulls. The truck was seized by the police and a recovery memo was prepared and thereafter the first information report was lodged against the applicant and other co-accused.

4. It is submitted by the learned Senior Counsel that the applicant was falsely implicated in the present case. Infact he was not arrested on spot and on 12.12.2019 at 10:50 hours Station House Officer, Ghoorpur, through his CUG number, called the applicant on his mobile to meet him. Subsequently, when the applicant reached Ghoorpur Police Station he was arrested by the police and a false recovery was shown by the police and he was made an accused in the present case and all the allegations are a work of fabrication by the police. The applicant was not arrested on spot as alleged by the police in the first information report dated 12.12.2019. The arrest of the applicant in the present case is against the material on record. At the time of alleged arrest of the applicant, he was accompanied by his Gunner and thereafter the applicant's Gunner was asked by the police to leave the place and in the absence of the Gunner, the applicant was taken into custody.

5. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant has next submitted that the investigation was handed over to the Investigating Officer, who did not conduct a fair and impartial investigation and charge-sheet was submitted against the applicant and other co-accused on 9.2.2020. The learned Magistrate wrongly and illegally took cognizance of the offence.

6. It is further submitted by the learned Senior Counsel that once the police report had been prepared, the matter was ordered to be investigated further vide order dated 20.9.2020 and as such further investigation in the matter took place. Several affidavits were filed by the witnesses to prove innocence of the applicant, which were made part of the case diary vide Parcha No. SCD-7 of the Case Diary. Thereafter the Investigating Officer recorded statement of the Gunner of the applicant in Parcha No. SCD-9 of the Case Diary, wherein the Gunner stated that the applicant was not present at the spot rather he was called from Kanpur City by the police of Police Station Ghoorpur and once he reached there, he was illegally detained by the police. The said Parcha No. SCD-9 was prepared on 24.8.2021, however, later on, the Investigating Officer removed the said parcha and appended a different parcha altogether numbering the same as Parcha No. SCD-9.

7. It is further submitted by the learned Senior Counsel that the statement of the Gunner of the applicant was again recorded vide Parcha No. SCD-18 dated 8.2.2022, however, this time the Gunner had stated nothing about the alleged incident. Thereafter, the Investigating Officer filed a supplementary charge-sheet on 8.2.2022 and the applicant challenged the validity and legality of the charge-sheet dated 8.2.2022 as well as the order dated 21.2.2022 by filing the Application u/s 482 No. 39035 of 2022 but no interference in the charge-sheet was made by this Court.

8. It is further submitted by the learned Senior Counsel that the applicant was subsequently released on bail. On his appearance, the copy of the charge-sheet and other relevant documents were supplied to him as per provision of Section 207 Cr.P.C. However, certain relevant documents were not provided to him. Therefore, the applicant moved an application before the court concerned to provide him Parcha No. SCD-9 of the Case Diary, which has been removed by the Investigating Officer during the course of investigation. The Parcha No. SCD-9 of the Case Diary makes it clear that the applicant was falsely implicated in the present case. The Gunner has given statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and stated that the applicant was called by the police of Police Station, Ghoorpur, District Prayagraj and no such incident as alleged in the first information report had taken place. This Parcha No. SCD-9 of the Case Diary was knowingly and illegally removed by the Investigating Officer after recording his statement in Parcha No. SCD-9 of the Case Diary. The Gunner had stated that the applicant at the time of alleged incident was in Kanpur and he was called by the police of Police Station Ghoorpur, where he was illegally detained and the Gunner was asked to return to police lines. It is also submitted that the said Parcha No. 9 of the Case Diary was prepared on 24.8.2024 but later on the same was removed by the Investigating Officer and another parcha altogether numbering the same as SCD-9 was appended. The conduct of the Investigating Officer goes to show that no fair or impartial investigation was conducted by him rather the investigation was tainted, faulty and defective and on the basis of faulty investigation, the applicant cannot be prosecuted in the present case. It is further submitted by learned Senior Counsel that he moved a discharge application under Section 227 Cr.P.C. before the learned trial court, which was wrongly and illegally rejected vide order dated 14.8.2024 and thereafter charges were framed on 12.9.2024. Both the orders dated 14.8.2024 and 12.9.2024 have been challenged by the applicant.

9. Per contra, the learned A.G.A. has submitted, on the basis of counter affidavit, that earlier the applicant filed an Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. No. 39035 of 2022 (Aamir vs. State of U.P. and another) on the same ground, in which the legality and validity of the charge-sheet was challenged and the prayer made in the aforesaid application for quashing the charge-sheet was refused by this Court vide order dated 17.1.2023 by a reasoned and detailed order. The applicant is again raising the same plea which has already been decided by this Court vide order dated 17.1.2023. The present application under Section 528 B.N.S.S. is not maintainable since the same arguments are being advanced in the present application which have already been adjudicated by this Court. It is further submitted by the learned A.G.A. that the allegations levelled in the first information report and the statements of the witnesses recorded during course of investigation, prima facie, makes an offence against the applicant. The charge-sheet cannot be quashed on account of faulty, defective or impartial investigation. The witnesses have supported the prosecution case, as mentioned in the first information report, when their statements were recorded during course of investigation. All the witnesses stated that the applicant was arrested from the spot.

10. It is further submitted by the learned A.G.A. that Parcha No. 8 of the supplementary case diary was prepared on 19.8.2021. Thereafter the Investigating Officer prepared Parcha No. SCD-8(2) on 24.8.2021 in which statement of the Gunner of the applicant got recorded. In his statement the aforesaid Gunner, namely, Abhimanyu Kumar Bind stated that on 12.9.2019, he was very well present with the applicant and when they were coming from Kanpur, the Station House Officer, Ghoorpur called the applicant, thereafter they reached at Police Station Ghoorpur at about 15:30 hours. The incident in the present case had taken place on 12.12.2019. According to the statement of the Gunner, the applicant along with his Gunner reached the Police Station Ghoorpur on 12.9.2019, though in the present case incident had occurred on 12.12.2019. Therefore, the presence of the applicant along with his Gunner at the Police Station Ghoorpur on 12.9.2019 has no relevance with this case.

11. It is also submitted by the learned A.G.A. that so far as missing of the Parcha No. SCD-8(2) dated 24.8.2021 is concerned, a preliminary inquiry was conducted by the department and after the inquiry, a conclusion was drawn by the Inquiry Officer that the then Station House Officer, Sub Inspector Brijesh Singh was at fault in the matter of missing of Parcha No. SCD-8(2). It is further submitted that on the basis of statements of the witnesses, involvement of the applicant was rightly found in the instant case. Thereafter the Investigating Officer recorded second statement of the Gunner vide Parcha No. SCD-18, who did not state anything regarding the incident dated 12.12.2019. Thereafter on the basis of evidence collected during investigation, the Investigating Officer filed supplementary charge-sheet on 8.2.2022. It is also submitted that the Investigating Officer rightly prepared the case diary but the next Investigating Officer in collusion with the applicant made some overwriting in Parcha No. SCD-8(2) and removed the same from the case diary and he was found guilty after inquiry.

12. It is further submitted that this is defence of the applicant that he was called by the police of Police Station Ghoorpur, District Prayagraj on 12.12.2019 and his defence cannot be appreciated at this stage. The impugned orders cannot be set aside on the ground that some manipulation was done by the Investigating Officer during the course of investigation and it is a subject matter of trial. Learned A.G.A. in last submitted that the impugned orders cannot be set aside at this stage when a prima facie offence is made out against the applicant. Learned trial court passed a well reasoned order dated 14.8.2024 and thereafter framed charge on 12.9.2024 after hearing the applicant.

13. I have heard rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

14. However, the question that arises is whether an accused may be discharged on account of faulty or impartial or defective investigation. In other words, can the benefit of defective investigation be extended to the accused-applicant?

15. The law relating to faulty or impartial or defective investigation has been discussed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court as well as this Court in several judgments and it has been held that an accused cannot be acquitted on account of defective or faulty investigation. In the case of Edakkandi Dineshan @ P. Dineshan and others vs. State of Kerala (Criminal Appeal No. 118 of 2013) decided on 6.1.2025, it has been held that the accused cannot claim acquittal on the ground of faulty investigation done by the prosecution agency. The relevant paragraph is reproduced hereunder:-

"22. A cumulative reading of the entire evidence on record suggests that the investigation has not taken place in a proper and disciplined manner. There are various areas where a properly investigation could have strengthened its case. In the case of *Paras Yadav & ors. vs. State of Bihar*⁵, the Apex Court observed as under:

"Para 8 - ..the lapse on the part of the Investigating Officer should not be taken in favour of the accused, may be that such lapse is committed designedly or because of negligence. Hence, the prosecution evidence is required to be examined de hors such omissions to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not. For this purpose, it would be worthwhile to quote the following observations of this Court from the case of Ram Bihari Yadav v. State of Bihar and others, J.T. (1998) 3 SC 290.

"In such cases, the story of the prosecution will have to be examined de hors such omissions and contaminated conduct of the officials otherwise the mischief which was deliberately done would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party and this would obviously shake the confidence of the people not merely in the law enforcing agency but also in the administration of justice."

Hence, the principle of law is crystal clear that on the account of defective investigation the benefit will not inure to the accused persons on that ground alone. It is well within the domain of the courts to consider the rest of the evidence which the prosecution has gathered such as statement of the eyewitnesses, medical report etc. It has been a consistent stand of this court that the accused cannot claim acquittal on the ground of faulty investigation done by the prosecuting agency. As the version of eyewitnesses in specifically naming the appellants have been consistent throughout the trial, we find that there is enough corroboration to drive home the guilt of the accused persons. When the testimony of PW1 Jitesh, PW 2 and PW4 is seen cumulatively, their versions can be seen to be corroborating each other. All of them being eyewitnesses, what is material to be seen is their stand is consistent when they said that it was A2 who was responsible for inflicting blows on both the deceased. It may not be out of place to mention that though the unfortunate incident took place at midnight around 1 am, it was a full moon night and as such, it was not pitch dark. This has also not been vehemently disputed by the defence counsel. Hence, the version put forth by the prosecution witnesses inspires confidence of this Court. The specific role attributed by the prosecution witnesses cannot be challenged on extraneous grounds which have been raised by the defense. There is no contradiction when it comes to assigning specific role to the above accused. Admittedly, there was an enmity between the witnesses as they were from different political groups. Moreover, it can be seen from the record that the Accused and the witnesses were well acquainted with each other as PW1, PW 2 and PW4 had defected from the CPI and had joined RSS. The witnesses could have tried to implicate anyone had they wished to take advantage of their past acquaintance and recent rivalry."

16. In the case of Ram Bali vs. State of U.P. (2004) 10 SCC 598, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that an accused cannot be acquitted on account of defect in investigation. The relevant part of Ram Bali (supra) is reproduced hereunder:-

"12. The investigation was also stated to be defective since the gun was not sent for forensic test. In the case of a defective investigation the Court has to be circumspect in evaluating the evidence. But it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigating officer if the investigation is designedly defective. (See Karnel Singh v. State of M.P. (1995 (5) SCC 518).

13. In Paras Yadav and Ors. v. State of Bihar (1999 (2) SCC 126) it was held that if the lapse or omission is committed by the investigating agency or because of negligence there had been defective investigation the prosecution evidence is required to be examined de hors such omissions carefully to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not and to what extent, such lapse affected the object of finding out the truth. The contaminated conduct of officials alone should not stand on the way of evaluating the evidence by the courts in finding out the truth, if the materials on record are otherwise credible and truthful; otherwise the designed mischief at the instance of biased or interested investigator would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party, and in the process to the community at large.

14. As was observed in Ram Bihari Yadav v. State of Bihar and Ors. (1998 (4) SCC 517) if primacy is given to such designed or negligent investigation, to the omission or lapses by perfunctory investigation or omissions, the faith and confidence of the people would be shaken not only in the Law enforcing agency but also in the administration of justice. The view was again reiterated in Amar Singh v. Balwinder Singh and Ors. (2003 (2) SCC 518). As noted in Amar Singh's case (supra) it would have been certainly better if the firearms were sent to the forensic test laboratory for comparison. But the report of the ballistic expert would merely be in the nature of an expert opinion without any conclusiveness attached to it. When the direct testimony of the eye-witnesses corroborated by the medical evidence fully establishes the prosecution version, failure or omission or negligence on the part of the IO cannot affect credibility of the prosecution version."

17. The law relating to defective investigation has been summarised by the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Chhote Lal vs. State of U.P. (Criminal Appeal No. 3382 of 2010) decided on 24.5.2019, wherein it has been held as hereunder:-

"22. Even assuming that there was some lacuna on the part of investigating agency while conducting investigation like not mentioning of crime number in the documents and some over writing in the documents, the same will not give any benefit to the accused. These deficiencies in the investigation are of insignificant nature.

It is settled proposition of law that for certain defects in investigation, the accused cannot be acquitted. This aspect has been considered in various decisions. In C. Muniappan v. State of Tamil Nadu; 2010 ((9) SCC 567, the following discussion and conclusion are relevant which are as follows:-

"55. There may be highly defective investigation in a case. However, it is to be examined as to whether there is any lapse by the IO and whether due to such lapse any benefit should be given to the accused. The law on this issue is well settled that the defect in the investigation by itself cannot be a ground for acquittal. If primacy is given to such designed or negligent investigations or to the omissions or lapses by perfunctory investigation, the faith and confidence of the people in the criminal justice administration would be eroded. Where there has been negligence on the part of the investigating agency or omissions, etc. which resulted in defective investigation, there is a legal obligation on the part of the court to examine the prosecution evidence de hors such lapses, carefully, to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not and to what extent it is reliable and as to whether such lapses affected the object of finding out the truth. Therefore, the investigation is not the solitary area for judicial scrutiny in a criminal trial. The conclusion of the trial in the case cannot be allowed to depend solely on the probity of investigation.

In Dayal Singh v State of Uttaranchal; 2012 (8) SCC 263, while reiterating the principles rendered in C. Muniappan (supra), the Apex Court held thus:

"18. ... Merely because PW 3 and PW 6 have failed to perform their duties in accordance with the requirements of law, and there has been some defect in the investigation, it will not be to the benefit of the accused persons to the extent that they would be entitled to an order of acquittal on this ground. ..."

In Gajoo v State of Uttarakhand; 2012 (9) SCC 532, while reiterating the same principle again, the Apex Court held that defective investigation, unless affects the very root of the prosecution case and is prejudicial to the accused should not be an aspect of material consideration by the Court. Since the Court has adverted to all the earlier decisions with regard to defective investigation and outcome of the same, it is useful to refer the dictum laid down in those cases:

20. In regard to defective investigation, this Court in Dayal Singh v. State of Uttaranchal while dealing with the cases of omissions and commissions by the investigating officer, and duty of the court in such cases, held as under: (SCC pp. 280-83, paras 27-36)

"27. Now, we may advert to the duty of the court in such cases. In Sathi Prasad v. State of U.P., this Court stated that it is well settled that if the police records become suspect and investigation perfunctory, it becomes the duty of the court to see if the evidence given in court should be relied upon and such lapses ignored. Noticing the possibility of investigation being designedly defective, this Court in Dhanaj Singh v. State of Punjab, held: (SCC p. 657, para 5)

"5. In the case of a defective investigation the court has to be circumspect in evaluating the evidence. But it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigating officer if the investigation is designedly defective.'

28. Dealing with the cases of omission and commission, the Court in Paras Yadav v. State of Bihar enunciated the principle, in conformity with the previous judgments, that if the lapse or omission is committed by the investigating agency, negligently or otherwise, the prosecution evidence is required to be examined de hors such omissions to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not. The contaminated conduct of officials should not stand in the way of evaluating the evidence by the courts, otherwise the designed mischief would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party.

29. In Zahira Habibullah Sheikh (5) v. State of Gujarat, the Court noticed the importance of the role of witnesses in a criminal trial. The importance and primacy of the quality of trial process can be observed from the words of Bentham, who states that witnesses are the eyes and ears of justice. The court issued a caution that in such situations, there is a greater responsibility of the court on the one hand and on the other the courts must seriously deal with persons who are involved in creating designed investigation. The Court held that: (SCC p. 398, para 42) "42. Legislative measures to emphasise prohibition against tampering with witness, victim or informant have become the imminent and inevitable need of the day. Conducts which illegitimately affect the presentation of evidence in proceedings before the courts have to be seriously and sternly dealt with. There should not be any undue anxiety to only protect the interest of the accused. That would be unfair, as noted above, to the needs of the society. On the contrary, efforts should be to ensure a fair trial where the accused and the prosecution both get a fair deal. Public interest in the proper administration of justice must be given as much importance, if not more, as the interest of the individual accused. In this courts have a vital role to play.'

30. With the passage of time, the law also developed and the dictum of the court emphasised that in a criminal case, the fate of proceedings cannot always be left entirely in the hands of the parties. Crime is a public wrong, in breach and violation of public rights and duties, which affects the community as a whole and is harmful to the society in general.

31. Reiterating the above principle, this Court in NHRC v. State of Gujarat held as under: (SCC pp. 777-78, para 6)

"6. ..."35. ... The concept of fair trial entails familiar triangulation of interests of the accused, the victim and the society and it is the community that acts through the State and prosecuting agencies. Interest of society is not to be treated completely with disdain and as persona non grata. The courts have always been considered to have an overriding duty to maintain public confidence in the administration of justice--often referred to as the duty to vindicate and uphold the 'majesty of the law'. Due administration of justice has always been viewed as a continuous process, not confined to determination of the particular case, protecting its ability to function as a court of law in the future as in the case before it. If a criminal court is to be an effective instrument in dispensing justice, the Presiding Judge must cease to be a spectator and a mere recording machine by becoming a participant in the trial evincing intelligence, active interest and elicit all relevant materials necessary for reaching the correct conclusion, to find out the truth, and administer justice with fairness and impartiality both to the parties and to the community it serves. The courts administering criminal justice cannot turn a blind eye to vexatious or oppressive conduct that has occurred in relation to proceedings, even if a fair trial is still possible, except at the risk of undermining the fair name and standing of the Judges as impartial and independent adjudicators." (Zahira Habibullah case, SCC p. 395, para 35)

32. In State of Karnataka v. K. Yarappa Reddy, this Court occasioned to consider the similar question of defective investigation as to whether any manipulation in the station house diary by the investigating officer could be put against the prosecution case. This Court, in para 19, held as follows: (SCC p.720)

"19. But can the above finding (that the station house diary is not genuine) have any inevitable bearing on the other evidence in this case? If the other evidence, on scrutiny, is found credible and acceptable, should the court be influenced by the machinations demonstrated by the investigating officer in conducting investigation or in preparing the records so unscrupulously? It can be a guiding principle that as investigation is not the solitary area for judicial scrutiny in a criminal trial, the conclusion of the court in the case cannot be allowed to depend solely on the probity of investigation. It is well-nigh settled that even if the investigation is illegal or even suspicious the rest of the evidence must be scrutinised independently of the impact of it. Otherwise the criminal trial will plummet to the level of the investigating officers ruling the roost. The court must have predominance and pre-eminence in criminal trials over the action taken by the investigating officers. The criminal justice should not be made a casualty for the wrongs committed by the investigating officers in the case. In other words, if the court is convinced that the testimony of a witness to the occurrence is true the court is free to act on it albeit the investigating officer's suspicious role in the case.'

33. In Ram Bali v. State of UP, the judgment in Karnel Singh v. State of M.P. was reiterated and this Court had observed that: (Ram Bali case (SCC p. 604, para 12)

"12. ... In case of defective investigation the court has to be circumspect [while] evaluating the evidence. But it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigation officer if the investigation is designedly defective.'

34. Where our criminal justice system provides safeguards of fair trial and innocent till proven guilty to an accused, there it also contemplates that a criminal trial is meant for doing justice to all, the accused, the society and a fair chance to prove to the prosecution. Then alone can law and order be maintained. The courts do not merely discharge the function to ensure that no innocent man is punished, but also that a guilty man does not escape. Both are public duties of the Judge. During the course of the trial, the learned Presiding Judge is expected to work objectively and in a correct perspective. Where the prosecution attempts to misdirect the trial on the basis of a perfunctory or designedly defective investigation, there the court is to be deeply cautious and ensure that despite such an attempt, the determinative process is not subverted. For truly attaining this object of a 'fair trial', the court should leave no stone unturned to do justice and protect the interest of the society as well.

35. This brings us to an ancillary issue as to how the court would appreciate the evidence in such cases. The possibility of some variations in the exhibits, medical and ocular evidence cannot be ruled out. But it is not that every minor variation or inconsistency would tilt the balance of justice in favour of the accused. Of course, where contradictions and variations are of a serious nature, which apparently or impliedly are destructive of the substantive case sought to be proved by the prosecution, they may provide an advantage to the accused. The courts, normally, look at expert evidence with a greater sense of acceptability, but it is equally true that the courts are not absolutely guided by the report of the experts, especially if such reports are perfunctory, unsustainable and are the result of a deliberate attempt to misdirect the prosecution. In Kamaljit Singh v. State of Punjab, the Court, while dealing with discrepancies between ocular and medical evidence, held: (SCC p.159, para 8)

"8. It is trite law that minor variations between medical evidence and ocular evidence do not take away the primacy of the latter. Unless medical evidence in its term goes so far as to completely rule out all possibilities whatsoever of injuries taking place in the manner stated by the eyewitnesses, the testimony of the eyewitnesses cannot be thrown out.'

36. Where the eyewitness account is found credible and trustworthy, medical opinion pointing to alternative possibilities may not be accepted as conclusive.

"34. ... The expert witness is expected to put before the court all materials inclusive of the data which induced him to come to the conclusion and enlighten the court on the technical aspect of the case by [examining] the terms of science so that the court although, not an expert may form its own judgment on those materials after giving due regard to the expert's opinion, because once the expert's opinion is accepted, it is not the opinion of the medical officer but [that] of the court."

Above proposition of law has been duly considered by the Apex Court in Hema (supra) and it has been further held by the Apex Court:

"(13) It is clear that merely because of some defect in the investigation, lapse on the part of the I.O., it cannot be a ground for acquittal. Further, even if there had been negligence on the part of the investigating agency or omissions etc., it is the obligation on the part of the Court to scrutinize the prosecution evidence de hors such lapses to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not and whether such lapses affect the object of finding out the truth."

18. Therefore, in view of the aforesaid law, it is clear that an accused cannot be acquitted on account of defects in investigation, much less discharged on the same grounds. It is a settled law that no benefit can be extended to the accused at the stage of discharge, if some defects have occurred during the course of investigation.

19. Now, this Court will examine the second contention of the parties, i.e., whether the evidence, led by the prosecution during course of investigation, is sufficient to proceed against the applicant or he may be discharged at this stage. In order to appreciate rival contentions, the relevant provision of Cr.P.C. and B.N.S.S. may be adverted to.

20. The procedure for trial before a court of session is provided under Chapter XVIII of the Cr.P.C. and Sections 227 and 228 Cr.P.C., which relate to discharge and framing of charges are extracted below:-

"227. Discharge.-- If, upon consideration of the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith, and after hearing the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in this behalf, the Judge considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons for so doing.

228. Framing of charge.--(1) If, after such consideration and hearing as aforesaid, the Judge is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence which—

(a) is not exclusively triable by the Court of Session, he may, frame a charge against the accused and, by order, transfer the case for trial to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or any other Judicial Magistrate of the first class and direct the accused to appear before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or, as the case may be, the Judicial Magistrate of the first class, on such date as he deems fit, and thereupon such Magistrate shall try the offence in accordance with the procedure for the trial of warrant-cases instituted on a police report;

(b) is exclusively triable by the Court, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

(2) Where the Judge frames any charge under clause (b) of sub-section (1), the charge shall be read and explained to the accused and the accused shall be asked whether he pleads guilty of the offence charged or claims to be tried."

21. Now, the procedure for trial before a court of sessions is provided under Chapter XIX of the BNSS and Section 250 and 251 of the BNSS are relating to discharge and framing of charge, which are reproduced hereunder:-

"250. Discharge.--(1) The accused may prefer an application for discharge within a period of sixty days from the date of commitment of the case under Section 232.

(2) If, upon consideration of the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith, and after hearing the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in this behalf, the Judge considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons for so doing.

251. Framing of charge. (1) If, after such consideration and hearing as aforesaid, the Judge is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence which-

(a) is not exclusively triable by the Court of Session, he may, frame a charge against the accused and, by order, transfer the case for trial to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or any other Judicial Magistrate of the first class and direct the accused to appear before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or the Judicial Magistrate of the first class, on such date as he deems fit, and thereupon such Magistrate shall try the offence in accordance with the procedure for the trial of warrant-cases instituted on a police report;

(b) is exclusively triable by the Court, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused within a period of sixty days from the date of first hearing on charge.

(2) Where the Judge frames any charge under clause (b) of sub-section (1), the charge shall be read and explained to the accused present either physically or through audio-video electronic means and the accused shall be asked whether he pleads guilty of the offence charged or claims to be tried."

22. The prerequisites for framing of charge were subject matter of consideration in Soma Chakravarty vs. State through CBI, reported in (2007) 5 SCC 403, and it was held that the court can frame the charge if on the basis of material on record it can form an opinion that the commission of offence by the accused was possible. The question as to whether the accused committed the offence can only be decided in the trial, and at the stage of framing of charge the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into and the said material has to be accepted as true. The paragraph no. 10 of Soma Chakravarty (supra) is reproduced hereunder:-

"10. It may be mentioned that the settled legal position, as mentioned in the above decisions, is that if on the basis of material on record the court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence. At the time of framing of the charges the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into, and the material brought on record by the prosecution has to be accepted as true at that stage. Before framing a charge the court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commitment of offence by the accused was possible. Whether, in fact, the accused committed the offence, can only be decided in the trial."

23. The question as to when discharge of an accused would be warranted in exercise of powers under Section 227 Cr.P.C. of the Code in the light of its scope and object was considered in P. Vijayan vs. State of Kerala and another, reported in (2010) 2 SCC 398, and it was held that at the stage of Section 227 Cr.P.C., the Court has merely to sift the elements in order to find out whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused and if the judge comes to a conclusion that there is sufficient ground to proceed, he will frame a charge under Section 228 Cr.P.C., if not, he will discharge the accused.

24. The scope of exercise of powers under Sections 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. with regard to framing of charge/discharge again fell for consideration in Sajjan Kumar Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, reported in (2010) 9 SCC 368, and it was held that at the stage of framing of charge under Section 228 or while considering discharge petition filed under Section 227 Cr.P.C., it is not for the Magistrate or a Judge concerned to analyse all the materials including pros and cons, reliability or acceptability thereof, and it is at the trial that the Judge concerned has to appreciate evidentiary value, credibility or otherwise of the material and veracity of various documents. The following principles were laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraph no. 21:-

"21. On consideration of the authorities about the scope of Section 227 and 228 of the Code, the following principles emerge:-

(i) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 of the Cr.P.C. has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

ii) Where the materials placed before the Court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the Court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

iii) The Court cannot act merely as a Post Office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the Court, any basic infirmities etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

iv) If on the basis of the material on record, the Court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

v) At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the Court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

vi) At the stage of Sections 227 and 228, the Court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value discloses the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

vii) If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal."

25. The relative scope and distinction between Sections 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. with regard to discharge of accused and framing of charge was discussed and explained in detail in Amit Kapoor vs. Ramesh Chander and another, reported in (2012) 9 SCC 460 and it was held that at the stage of Section 228, the Court is not concerned with proof, but with a strong suspicion that the accused has committed an offence and the final test of guilt is not to be applied at the stage of framing of charge. It was stated thus:-

It was stated thus :-

"17. Framing of a charge is an exercise of jurisdiction by the trial court in terms of Section 228 of the Code, unless the accused is discharged under Section 227 of the Code. Under both these provisions, the court is required to consider the 'record of the case' and documents submitted therewith and, after hearing the parties, may either discharge the accused or where it appears to the court and in its opinion there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence, it shall frame the charge. Once the facts and ingredients of the section exists, then the court would be right in presuming that there is ground to proceed against the accused and frame the charge accordingly. This presumption is not a presumption of law as such. The satisfaction of the court in relation to the existence of constituents of an offence and the facts leading to that offence is a sine qua non for exercise of such jurisdiction. It may even be weaker than a prima facie case. There is a fine distinction between the language of Sections 227 and 228 of the Code. Section 227 is the expression of a definite opinion and judgment of the Court while Section 228 is tentative. Thus, to say that at the stage of framing of charge, the Court should form an opinion that the accused is certainly guilty of committing an offence, is an approach which is impermissible in terms of Section 228 of the Code.

19. At the initial stage of framing of a charge, the court is concerned not with proof but with a strong suspicion that the accused has committed an offence, which, if put to trial, could prove him guilty. All that the court has to see is that the material on record and the facts would be compatible with the innocence of the accused or not. The final test of guilt is not to be applied at that stage."

26. In State of Tamil Nadu vs. N. Suresh Rajan and others, reported in (2014) 11 SCC 709, while considering the scope of exercise of jurisdiction and power by Court at the stage of framing of charges or discharge of accused under Sections 227 and 228 Cr.P.C., it was restated that no mini trial is contemplated at the stage of considering the discharge application and only probative value of materials has to be gone into to see if there is a prima facie case for proceeding against the accused without any requirement of going deep into the matter.

27. The exercise of powers under Section 227 Cr.P.C. of the Code and the matters to be considered and the extent of inquiry permissible on part of Court was again subject matter of consideration in Asim Shariff vs. National Investigation Agency, reported in (2019) 7 SCC 148, and it was reiterated that the judge while considering the question of framing of charge under Section 227 Cr.P.C. is to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out and the Court, at this stage, is not supposed to hold a mini trial by marshalling the evidence on record. It was held as follows:-

"18. Taking note of the exposition of law on the subject laid down by this Court, it is settled that the Judge while considering the question of framing charge under Section 227 CrPC in sessions cases (which is akin to Section 239 CrPC pertaining to warrant cases) has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out; where the material placed before the court discloses grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing the charge; by and large if two views are possible and one of them giving rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion against the accused, the trial Judge will be justified in discharging him. It is thus clear that while examining the discharge application filed under Section 227 CrPC, it is expected from the trial Judge to exercise its judicial mind to determine as to whether a case for trial has been made out or not. It is true that in such proceedings, the Court is not supposed to hold a mini trial by marshalling the evidence on record."

28. The relevant considerations to be made by the Court at the stage of Section 227 Cr.P.C. of the Code were discussed in M.E. Shivalingamurthy vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, Bengaluru, reported in (2020) 2 SCC 768 and it was reiterated that the Court at this stage, without making a roving inquiry into the pros and cons, is only required to consider the broad probabilities and the probative value of material on record is not to be gone into.

29. The ambit and scope of exercise of power under Sections 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. of the Code, are fairly well settled. It has been consistently held that the standard of test and judgment which is to be finally applied before recording of finding regarding the guilt or otherwise of the accused is not exactly to be applied at the stage of framing of charge. The test to be applied at this stage would be whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. The Court has clearly to sift the elements in order to find out whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused and if the trial court comes to a conclusion that there is sufficient ground to proceed, it will frame a charge under Section 228 Cr.P.C. of the Code, if not, it will discharge the accused. At the stage of framing of charge or considering discharge of the accused, no mini trial is contemplated and only probative value of material has to be gone into, to see if there is a prima facie case for proceeding against the accused.

30. In the case of State of Madhya Pradesh vs. Rakesh Mishra (2015) 13 SCC 8, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that only charge-sheet along with the accompanying material is to be considered at the stage of framing of charges, so as to satisfy whether a prima facie case is made out against the accused. The relevant paragraph no. 7 of Rakesh Mishra (supra) is reproduced hereunder:-

"7. The major argument advanced by the State of Madhya Pradesh before us has been that the High Court traversed beyond the permissible limit while deciding the legality of order framing charges, being a pre-trial stage. Various authorities have been cited before us to prove that point. However, it would suffice to say that the law on this point is crystal clear that only charge-sheet along with the accompanying material is to be considered at the stage of framing of charges, so as to satisfy whether a prima facie case is made out. It has to be the subjective satisfaction of the Court framing charges. In our opinion, the High Court has only examined the material before it against the prevailing law to reach its conclusions. Thus, the impugned judgment may not be assailable on this ground."

31. In the case of State (By the Inspector of Police, Chennai vs. S. Selvi and another (2018) SCC 455, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that at the stage of consideration of an application for discharge, the court has to proceed with the presumption that materials on record by the prosecution are true and evaluate such material with a view to find out whether the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose existence of the ingredients of the offences. The relevant paragraph of S. Selvi (supra) are reproduced hereunder:-

"6. It is well settled by this Court in a catena of judgments including Union of India v. Prafulla Kumar Samal [Union of India v. Prafulla Kumar Samal, (1979) 3 SCC 4 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 609], Dilawar Balu Kurane v. State of Maharashtra [Dilawar Balu Kurane v. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 2 SCC 135 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 310], Sajjan Kumar v. CBI [Sajjan Kumar v. CBI, (2010) 9 SCC 368 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1371], State v. A. Arun Kumar [State v. A. Anil Kumar Bhunja, (1979) 4 SCC 274 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 1038] that the Judge while considering the question of framing charge under Section 227 of the Code in sessions cases (which is akin to Section 239 CrPC pertaining to warrant cases) has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out; where the material placed before the court discloses grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing the charge; by and large if two views are equally possible and the Judge is satisfied that the evidence produced before him while giving rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion against the accused, he will be fully within his rights to discharge the accused. The Judge cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution, but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the statements and the documents produced before the court, any basic infirmities appearing in the case and so on. This however does not mean that the Judge should make a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the materials as if he was conducting a trial.

7. In Sajjan Kumar v. CBI [Sajjan Kumar v. CBI, (2010) 9 SCC 368 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1371], this Court on consideration of the various decisions about the scope of Sections 227 and 228 of the Code, laid down the following principles: (SCC pp. 376-77, para 21)

"(i) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 CrPC has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

(ii) Where the materials placed before the court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(iii) The court cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the court, any basic infirmities, etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

(iv) If on the basis of the material on record, the court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

(v) At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

(vi) At the stage of Sections 227 and 228, the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

(vii) If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal."

9. In the matter on hand, the main allegation against the first respondent-Accused 2 as found in the charge-sheet is that while the complainant along with the relevant documents proceeded to the residence of Accused 1 and 2 at Door No. 28, West Gopalapuram, Chennai-86, to get back his money due to him on 20-9-2011, at about 1730 hours, Accused 1 and 2 threatened the complainant, snatched away the documents from him, denied him permission to enter into their house and threatened him with dire consequences if he entered into their house. It is relevant to note that in the complaint dated 21-9-2011 it is stated that when the complainant went to West Gopalapuram and met the accused for an enquiry about payment, the accused got furious, beat him and with the help of four henchmen pushed him out of their house. On the basis of these discrepancies, the contention of the learned counsel for the accused that the case as made out by the prosecution cannot be believed inasmuch as the material on record is not consistent. It may give rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion, though appears to be attractive, but is not acceptable in view of entire material on record. On going through the judgment of the High Court, we find that the High Court has virtually appreciated the entire material on record as if the High Court is trying a criminal case. It would be difficult to lay down the rule of universal application as to how the prima facie case should be determined. Though the Judge has got power to sift and weigh the evidence, such sifting and weighing evidence is for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out for framing of charge. The test to determine a prima facie case would naturally depend upon the facts of each case. At this preliminary stage, the High Court was not justified in concluding that the accused is entitled for discharge merely on the ground of discrepancy in the timings of the incident. The question as to whether Respondent 1 was present on the place of incident or not during the relevant point of time or she had been in Calcutta as sought to be argued before this Court is a matter of proof. Such fact needs to be gone into by the trial court after recording the evidence."

32. Reverting to the facts of the present case, it is clear that the Investigating Officer has collected evidence in this case and recorded statements of several witnesses, who have given statements against the applicants. Even the statement of the Gunner Abhimanyu Kumar would not help the applicant-accused. Since he stated in his statement that he went to Kanpur with the applicant on 12.9.2019, whereas in the present case the incident had taken place on 12.12.2019. When second statement of the aforesaid Gunner was recorded, he did not state that he went to Kanpur with the applicant on 12.12.2019. The second statement of the Gunner has been appended as Annexure-13 to this application.

33. This Court is of the view that the charge can be framed on strong suspicion against the accused persons. There is no material contradiction with regard to the prosecution case mentioned in the first information report as well as in the statements of the witnesses. The statements of witnesses recorded by the Investigating Officer during course of investigation cannot be brushed aside at the stage of considering the discharge application or framing of charge. It is well settled law that at the stage of considering the discharge application, the defence of the accused cannot be taken into consideration. The ground taken by the applicant in the present application is disputed question of fact, which cannot be adjudicated at the time of framing of charge. This Court is of the view that the appreciation of evidence is a function of the trial court at the appropriate stage. It is crystallized judicial view that at the stage of discharge the court is to examine the materials only with a view to be satisfied that prima facie case of the commission of offence alleged has been made out against the accused. If there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed the offence, the court can justifiably say that prima facie case exists against the accused. Marshalling and appreciation of facts is not in the domain of the trial court at the time of considering discharge application. The broad test to be applied is whether the material on record, if unrebutted, makes a conviction reasonably possible. The final test of guilt is not to be applied at that stage.

34. Considering the facts, circumstances and material available on record, in view of the law laid down by Hon^{ble} Apex Court as well as Division Bench of this Court, I do not find any illegality, infirmity or perversity in the impugned orders dated 14.8.2024 and 12.9.2024, therefore, no case is made out to interfere in the impugned orders. The concerned trial court while passing the impugned orders dated 14.8.2024 and 12.9.2024 has considered all the relevant materials on record and decided the discharge application of the applicant in accordance with law in the light of well settled legal principle laid down by the Hon^{ble} Apex Court. The applicant has a remedy under the law to raise all such plea in his defence before the trial court at the appropriate stage.

35. In view of the above, the present application lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

36. No orders as to costs.

37. Registrar (Compliance) is directed to send a copy of this order to the trial court concerned.

1. This case is arising out of a disciplinary proceedings whereby the petitioner was awarded a punishment of dismissal from service. Basis of the disciplinary proceedings was an order passed by the petitioner while working as Zonal Officer of Nagar Nigam, Varanasi on an application for mutation in regard to a house situated in Varanasi purchased vide a registered sale deed. The petitioner has allowed the application vide an order dated 16.02.2022 and name of vendees were directed to be recorded in revenue records for the purpose of tax collection. Said order was passed after hearing parties including one Raj Kumar (a complainant). For reference, said order in its entirety is quoted below :-

प्रस्तुत प्रकरण मकान नं० डी० 28/105 के दाखिल खारिज के सम्बन्ध में है। वर्तमान समय में उक्त भवन पर ठाकुर राधा कृष्ण जी महादेव मूर्ति मालिक शिकायती श्रीमती शोभा मुखर्जी, पत्नी स्व० प्रोदियत कुमार मुखर्जी, श्री प्रशान्त कुमार, सुशान्त कुमार, गौतम कुमार पुत्रगण स्व० प्रोदियत कुमार मुखर्जी का नाम दर्ज है। भवन के मालिकान व उनके वारिसान तथा मुख्तारे आम के जरिये चार किता रजिस्टर्ड बैनामा से क्रय करके श्री मोहम्मद जावेद पुत्र हमीद अख्तर व आयशा खातून पत्नी जावेद अख्तर व जमाल अख्तर पुत्र हमीद अख्तर व इरम सबा पत्नी जमाल अख्तर ने दिनांक 17.03.2017 को आवेदन पत्र प्रस्तुत किया है कि उनका नाम भवन पर दर्ज किया जाय। कार्यालय द्वारा दिनांक 07.07.2021 को धारा 213 की नोटिस जारी की गई। इस पर श्री राजकुमार ने आपत्ति प्रस्तुत की। फलस्वरूप विषय विवादित होने की दशा में पत्रावली निस्तारण हेतु मेरे पूर्वाधिकारी के समक्ष विचाराधीन थी। उस समय तक निर्णय नहीं हो पाया। इसलिए पत्रावली मेरे समक्ष निस्तारण हेतु प्रस्तुत की गई।

मैंने सभी पक्षों को सुनवाई का समुचित अवसर देते हुए उनके तथ्यों को सुना तथा पत्रावली का अध्ययन किया। श्री राजकुमार ने स्वयं को कभी वादमित्र तो कभी प्रबन्धक व पुजारी कहकर आवेदन पत्र दिया है। जबकि पत्रावली के अध्ययन से स्पष्ट है कि उक्त भवन से इनका कोई सम्बन्ध नहीं है। हो सकता है

कि कभी पूजा पाठ करते रहे हों और उसी का अनुचित लाभ उठाकर भवन को हड़पने की गरज से तरह-तरह के धमकी भरे शिकायती पत्र दे व दिला रहे हैं। जिसका वास्तविकता से कोई वास्ता व सरोकार नहीं है।

जहाँ तक भवन में मंदिर होने की शिकायत है तो पत्रावली के अध्ययन से ज्ञात हुआ है कि भवन के मालिक जिलाधिकारी महोदय से आदेश प्राप्त करके लखनऊ उठा ले गये और वहाँ पर स्थापित कर दिया। यह कोई सार्वजनिक मंदिर नहीं था। भवन स्वामी अपनी सहूलियत के लिए पूजा पाठ करने हेतु अपने घर में स्थापित किये थे। श्री प्रशान्त कुमार मुखर्जी के आवेदन पत्र पर नगर मजिस्ट्रेट (द्वितीय) वाराणसी व क्षेत्राधिकारी, दशाश्वमेध, वाराणसी की जांच आख्या पत्र सं० 82/अ०न०म०(द्वितीय) दिनांक 18.01.2018 में स्पष्ट कहा गया है कि प्रशान्त मुखर्जी निवासी मकान नम्बर डी० 28/105 मोहल्ला पाण्डे हवेली, वाराणसी को दोनों शिवलिंग/नन्दी महाराज की मूर्ति को लखनऊ अपने निवास स्थान पर ले जाने एवं विधि विधान से स्थापित कर पूजा-पाठ करने में किसी प्रकार की कोई विधिक अड़चन प्रतीत नहीं होती है। तदनुसार जिलाधिकारी महोदय ने पत्र संख्या 4259/ची.री.-2018 दिनांक 12.02.2018 द्वारा प्रशान्त कुमार मुखर्जी को अवगत कराया। श्री राजकुमार स्वयं को मंदिर का पुजारी कहता है परन्तु पत्रावली में कोई ऐसा साक्ष्य नहीं पाया गया, जिससे प्रमाणित होता कि यह कभी पुजारी था और वर्तमान समय में जबकि मंदिर ही नहीं तो यह पूजा-पाठ किसकी करता है। जब भवन स्वामी अपना निजी मंदिर लखनऊ ले गये तो देवता लखनऊ चले गये। अब उस भवन में न कोई मंदिर है, न मूर्ति, न देवता है। भवन में एक दुकान लगभग 12x25 फीट जिसमें श्री राजकुमार के पुत्र मौके पर मिले एवं शेष आवासीय उपयोग में है। असेसमेंट नकल जो पत्रावली में संलग्न है, उसके अवलोकन से स्पष्ट है कि पूर्व में भी इस भवन में किरायेदार थे। श्री राजकुमार शिकायतकर्ता उक्त भवन से अपना कोई सम्बन्ध प्रमाणित करने में मेरे समक्ष असमर्थ रहे। अतः उनका शिकायती पत्र निरस्त किया जाता है।

अतः मकान नम्बर डी० 28/105 पर दर्ज सभी नाम को खारिज करके उस पर श्री मोहम्मद जावेद पुत्र हमीद अख्तर, आयशा खातून पत्नी जावेद अख्तर, जमाल अख्तर पुत्र हमीद अख्तर व इरम सबा पत्नी जमाल अख्तर का नाम दर्ज किया जाय। असंतुष्ट पक्ष चाहें तो न्यायालय की शरण ले सकते हैं।"

2. It is also brought on record that said order is challenged at behest of Raj Kumar (complainant), which is still pending before Competent Authority.

3. On basis of a complaint filed by aforesaid complainant that petitioner while passing above referred order has acted in irregular manner with undue haste and conferred undue favour upon applicants who have filed mutation application.

14. In aforesaid circumstances, a charge sheet dated 12.12.2022 was served upon petitioner on six charges. All charges were in reference of above referred order passed on application for mutation that petitioner has failed to take note that vendor has no power to make any sale deed through power of attorney since property in question was a public endowment property and registered accordingly in the records of Municipal Corporation and as such, caused damage to endowment property.

5. It was further alleged that the petitioner was failed to follow due process as well as not taken note of legal opinion provided by advocate for department and failed to take note that any public endowment property cannot be transferred and that a proceedings that no permission was prior sought to sell was ignored and further that above referred order was passed without conducting a spot inspection, which led to an act contrary to provisions of Rule 3(1) of U.P. Government Servant Conduct Rules, 1956 which has caused lowering of prestige of department as well as a misconduct of nature of unbecoming of a government servant.

6. The petitioner has submitted a reply to above referred charge sheet on 12.01.2023 and explained legal and factual position so far as order of mutation is concerned that it was based on a registered sale deed which has not been challenged as well as was not set aside by any competent Court. It was also explained that mutation proceedings being summary in nature does not declare title of parties over property in dispute. Referred order was passed under a quasi-judicial proceedings.

7. The complainant has participated in the proceedings and once he has challenged the order of mutation before Competent Court, no charges are made out.

8. Some facts were also mentioned that earlier deity situated in the concerned house was transferred to Lucknow under an order of District Magistrate, Varanasi as well as that on basis of given facts, it was not a public endowment rather a private endowment property. Once deity was transferred, the property loses its endowment character. Required due procedure was followed before order on mutation application was passed. Complainant failed to prove any point to challenge the mutation proceedings.

9. Subsequently, the Inquiry Officer conducted inquiry and an inquiry report dated 10.04.2023 was submitted wherein all six charges were found to be proved. For reference, relevant part of the inquiry report on each charge is quoted below :-

“विश्लेषण- अपचारी अधिकारी श्री रामेश्वर दयाल पर लगाये गये आरोप, उसके पठनीय साक्ष्य तथा अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा प्रस्तुत उत्तर एवं उसके समर्थन में दिये गये साक्ष्य के आलोक में विश्लेषण किया गया।

उक्त आरोप के सम्बन्ध में अपचारी अधिकारी ने अपने स्पष्टीकरण में यह कथन किया है कि तत्समय भवन सं० डी 28/105 नगर निगम कर निर्धारण पंजिका में ठाकुर राधाकृष्ण महादेव मूर्ति मालिक एवं बतौर सेवायत शोभा मुखर्जी पत्नी स्व० प्रद्योत कुमार मुखर्जी, प्रशान्त कुमार, सुशान्त कुमार गौतम पुत्रगण प्रद्योत कुमार मुखर्जी का नाम अंकित था। इन सभी भवन स्वामियों द्वारा भवन को पंजीकृत बैनामें द्वारा विक्रय किया गया है। तदनुसार ही अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा पंजीकृत बैनामें के आधार पर नामान्तरण आदेश दिनांक 16.02.2022 पारित किया गया है। अपचारी अधिकारी का यह भी कथन है कि भवन सं०-डी 28/105 कभी सार्वजनिक देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति नहीं रही है बल्कि व्यक्तिगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति रही है। इसमें किसी बाहरी व्यक्ति को प्रवेश का अधिकार नहीं था बल्कि मकान मालिक द्वारा अपनी सुविधा के लिए दो अदद शिवलिंग व नन्दी स्थापित किये गये थे जिनकी पूजा अर्चना मकान मालिक के परिवार द्वारा ही की जाती रही है। रजिस्टर्ड बैनामें को जब तक सक्षम न्यायालय द्वारा त्रुटिपूर्ण घोषित नहीं कर दिया जाता, तब तक उसे त्रुटिपूर्ण माना जाना न्याय संगत नहीं है। जब प्रशासन से अनुमति प्राप्त करके उपरोक्त शिवलिंग व नन्दी को मकान मालिक लखनऊ उठा ले गये तो वह भवन देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति नहीं रही। रजिस्टर्ड बैनामा और कब्जे को देखते हुए टैक्स की वसूली के निमित्त नामान्तरण आदेश जारी किया गया है। किसी देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति को क्षति नहीं पहुंचाई गई है।

अपचारी अधिकारी का उक्त कथन तर्क संगत नहीं है क्योंकि अपचारी अधिकारी ने यह स्वीकार किया है कि प्रश्नगत भवन नगर निगम कर निर्धारण पंजिका में ठाकुर राधाकृष्ण महादेव मूर्ति मालिक एवं बतौर सेवायत शोभा मुखर्जी पत्नी स्व० प्रद्योत कुमार मुखर्जी, प्रशान्त कुमार, सुशान्त कुमार, गौतम पुत्रगण प्रद्योत कुमार मुखर्जी का नाम अंकित था। सेवायत या मुख्तारे आम को देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति को विक्रय करने अथवा अन्य प्रकार से किसी दूसरे व्यक्ति को अन्तरित करने का अधिकार प्राप्त नहीं था। ऐसे में यदि बिना अधिकार के उक्त सम्पत्ति का बैनामा किया गया था तो मात्र दस्तावेज पंजीकृत होने के आधार पर नामान्तरण आदेश पारित किया जाना उचित नहीं था। अपचारी अधिकारी ने यह कहा है कि जब प्रशासन से अनुमति प्राप्त करके उपरोक्त शिवलिंग व नन्दी को मकान मालिक लखनऊ उठा ले गये तो वह भवन देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति नहीं रही। वस्तुतः अपचारी अधिकारी का उक्त कथन तर्कसंगत नहीं है क्योंकि शिवलिंग व

नन्दी को अन्यत्र उठा ले जाने मात्र से प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति का स्वरूप स्वमेव परिवर्तित नहीं माना जा सकता है। दूसरी ओर आरोप के पठनीय साक्ष्य के रूप में नगर आयुक्त, नगर निगम, वाराणसी के पत्र दिनांक 06-08-2022 में वर्णित तथ्यों से यह स्पष्ट है कि उक्त मूर्तियों को स्थानान्तरित करने के बावजूद प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति का स्वरूप परिवर्तित नहीं हुआ है। इस प्रकार यह स्पष्ट है कि प्रश्नगत भवन (देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति) के सम्बन्ध में सेवायत या मुख्तारे आम द्वारा किये गये त्रुटिपूर्ण बैनामे के आधार पर अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा पारित नामान्तरण आदेश दिनांक-16.02.2022 नियमों के विरुद्ध है। फलस्वरूप अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा धारित पद का दुरुपयोग करने एवं देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति को क्षति पहुंचाने का आरोप प्रमाणित होता है।

अपचारी अधिकारी श्री रामेश्वर दयाल पर लगाये गये आरोप, उसके पठनीय साक्ष्य तथा अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा प्रस्तुत उत्तर एवं उसके समर्थन में दिये गये साक्ष्य के आलोक में विश्लेषण किया गया।

द्वितीय आरोप में अपचारी अधिकारी को मुख्यतः यह आरोपित किया गया है कि देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के सम्बन्ध में सक्षम प्राधिकारी के अनुमति के पश्चात (मा० उच्च न्यायालय इलाहाबाद द्वारा रिट याचिका संख्या-56447/2003 श्यामल कुमार बनर्जी निर्मल रंजन मुखर्जी में मा० उच्च न्यायालय की अवधारणा एवं हिन्दू अप्राप्तवयता एवं संरक्षकता अधिनियम-1956 की धारा-8(2) अन्तर्गत हिन्दू देवता/मूर्ति के स्वामित्व की सम्पत्ति के अन्तरण के पूर्व सक्षम धारिता न्यायालय की अनुमति आवश्यक है) नामान्तरण किये जाने का प्रावधान है। उक्त का उल्लेख विधिक राय दिनांक-21-06-2021 में भी किया गया है। परन्तु अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा उक्त प्रक्रिया/नियम को पूर्ण किये बिना आदेश दिनांक-16-02-2022 निर्गत किया गया, जो कि नियमों के विपरीत है। इस सम्बन्ध में अपचारी अधिकारी का यह कथन है कि व्यक्तिगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति पर उ०प्र० हिन्दू सार्वजनिक धार्मिक संस्था (सम्पत्ति अपव्यय निवारण) अधिनियम 1962 के प्रावधान व्यवहारिक व प्रभावी नहीं हैं। अस्तु व्यक्तिगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति पर नामान्तरण के लिए पूर्व अनुमति की आवश्यकता नहीं है। इसी प्रकार नगर निगम द्वारा नामान्तरण से किसी के मालिकाना हक पर कोई प्रभाव नहीं पड़ता है, बल्कि नामान्तरण मात्र टैक्स की वसूली के लिए किया जाता है। यदि अपचारी अधिकारी के उक्त कथन को मान लिया जाय कि प्रश्नगत भवन सार्वजनिक देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति न होकर व्यक्तिगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति रहा है तो भी उक्त देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति को सेवायत या मुख्तारे आम को विक्रय करने अथवा अन्य प्रकार से किसी दूसरे व्यक्ति को अन्तरित करने का अधिकार प्राप्त नहीं था। ऐसे में यदि बिना अधिकार के उक्त सम्पत्ति का बैनामा किया गया था तो मात्र दस्तावेज पंजीकृत होने के आधार पर नामान्तरण आदेश पारित नहीं किया जा सकता था। इस प्रकार अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा पारित नामान्तरण

आदेश दिनांक 16-02-2022 नियम संगत नहीं है। इस परिप्रेक्ष्य में अपचारी कर्मचारी द्वारा उ०प्र० सरकारी कर्मचारी आचरण नियमावली, 1956 के नियम-3(1) का उल्लंघन किये जाने का आरोप प्रमाणित होता है।

विश्लेषण

अपचारी अधिकारी श्री रामेश्वर दयाल पर लगाये गये आरोप, उसके पठनीय साक्ष्य तथा अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा प्रस्तुत उत्तर एवं उसके समर्थन में दिये गये साक्ष्य के आलोक में विश्लेषण किया गया।

तृतीय आरोप में अपचारी अधिकारी को मुख्यतः यह आरोपित किया गया है कि प्रकरण में प्रस्तुत विधिक राय दिनांक-21-06-2021 में उल्लिखित है कि उक्त देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के विक्रय के बाबत फौजदारी मु.अ.स. 43/2018 अन्तर्गत मुकदमा सं०- 411/2018 आई.पी.सी. विचाराधीन है। साथ ही उल्लिखित है कि मु.स.-19/2016 उक्त सम्पत्ति के विक्रय की पूर्व अनुमति लिये जाने से सम्बन्धित है, जिसे निरस्त किये जाने हेतु वादी का प्रार्थना पत्र निस्तारित है। मुकदमे के परिप्रेक्ष्य में वादीगणों ने बगैर माननीय न्यायालय की अनुमति प्राप्त किये देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति को वसीयतनामे के विधिक प्रावधानों के विरुद्ध उक्त सम्पत्ति को निजी सम्पत्ति बताते हुए जरिये पंजीकृत विक्रय विलेख विक्रय कर दिया गया है, जो कि प्रथम दृष्टया विधि सम्मत नहीं है। अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा प्रकरण में दिनांक-16-02-2022 को आदेश पारित किये जाने के पूर्व न तो उक्त मुकदमों के सम्बन्ध में और न ही इस सम्बन्ध में प्राप्त विधिक राय पर कोई विचार किया गया तथा प्रकरण में कोई स्थिति स्पष्ट किये बिना आदेश दिनांक-16-02-2022 निर्गत कर दिया गया, जो विभागीय प्रक्रिया के विपरीत मनमानेपन को प्रदर्शित करता है।

उक्त आरोप के सम्बन्ध में अपचारी अधिकारी का यह कथन है कि उनके द्वारा पारित किया गया आदेश विधिक राय दिनांक-21-06-2021 के अनुसार ही है। इस परिप्रेक्ष्य में अपचारी अधिकारी का कथन ग्राह्य नहीं है। प्रश्नगत प्रकरण में अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा विधिक राय दिनांक-21-06-2021 के अन्तिम पैरा के सम्बन्ध में ध्यान आकृष्ट किया गया है, जिसमें यह उल्लिखित है कि न्यायालय में मुकदमें विचाराधीन रहने मात्र से नगर निगम के नामांकन की कार्यवाही बाधित नहीं होती है। नगर निगम स्वामित्व/स्वत्व का निर्धारण नहीं करता है। न्यायालय में मुकदमें विचाराधीन रहने मात्र से नगर निगम के नामांकन की कार्यवाही बाधित नहीं होती है। नगर निगम स्वामित्व/स्वत्व का निर्धारण नहीं करता है। नामांकन आवेदन का नियमानुसार निस्तारण आवश्यक है। अग्रेतर यह भी उल्लेख है कि उभय पक्षों की सुनवाई करते हुए प्रश्नगत स्थल का स्थलीय परीक्षण आख्या व दाखिल साक्ष्यों के बावत गुण दोष के आधार पर निस्तारण किया जाना विधि सम्मत है। वस्तुतः अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा विधिक राय दिनांक 21-06-2021 का समग्र रूप से संज्ञान ही नहीं लिया गया है। उक्त विधिक राय के प्रथम बिन्दु में यह स्पष्ट उल्लेख

है कि भवन उपरोक्त पर ठाकुर राधा कृष्ण श्री महादेव मूर्ति मालिक, सेवायत श्रीमती शोभा मुखर्जी पत्नी स्व० प्रद्योत मुखर्जी, श्री प्रशान्त कुमार, सुशान्त कुमार, गौतम कुमार पुत्रगण स्व० प्रद्योत कुमार मुखर्जी का नाम नगर निगम अभिलेखों में दर्ज है। उक्त सेवायतों प्रशान्त कुमार मुखर्जी वगैरह ने भवन उपरोक्त को जरिये पंजीकृत विक्रय-विलेख रजिस्ट्रीकृत दिनांक 07-03-2018 निजी सम्पत्ति बताते हुये विक्रय कर दिया गया है। पत्रावली में संलग्न साक्ष्यों/अभिलेखों, नगर निगम रिकार्ड, आख्या, वाद-पत्र, वसीयतनामा, आपत्ति-पत्र वगैरह के अनुसार भवन उपरोक्त देवता को अर्पित देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति है और विक्रेतागण उक्त सम्पत्ति के सेवायत हैं। सामान्यतः सेवायतों को देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति विक्रय करने का अधिकार विधितः प्राप्त नहीं है। विधि की दृष्टि से सेवाईत/सेवायत शब्द उस व्यक्ति से अभिप्रेत है जिसके माध्यम से मूर्ति कार्य करती है, मूर्ति की सम्पत्ति का स्वामित्व देवता के पास होता है, क्योंकि हिन्दू विधि में मूर्ति को एक विधिक व्यक्ति माना गया है, जिसका प्रबन्धक व अभिभोग सेवायत के पास होता है और स्वामित्व देवता में निहित होता है। ऐसी सम्पत्ति का विक्रय द्वारा हस्तान्तरण प्रारम्भ से ही शून्य होता है। देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के विलेख में उत्तराधिकार की शर्तें समर्पण का अंग होती हैं और एक बार देवी-देवता के पक्ष में सम्पत्ति का समर्पण कर दिये जाने पर वह सम्पत्ति अप्रतिसंहरणीय हो जाती है। सेवायत को यह भी अधिकार नहीं है कि वह मूर्ति की उपेक्षा कर अपने हित में सम्पत्ति का उपयोग करे। धनलाभ के लिए न तो मंदिर न तो मूर्ति और न ही सेवायती अधिकार का हस्तान्तरण विक्रय के रूप में किया जा सकता है। विशेष स्थितियों में विक्रय सक्षम न्यायालय की अनुमति से ही किया जा सकता है। प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के विक्रय के बाबत फौजदारी मु०अ०सं० 43/2018 अन्तर्गत धारा-419, 420 व 406 आई०पी०सी० विचाराधीन है।

विधिक राय दिनांक 21-06-2021 के द्वितीय बिन्दु में यह उल्लेख है कि प्रकीर्ण वाद सं०-19/2016 प्रशान्त कुमार मुखर्जी वगैरह बनाम राज्य सरकार उपरोक्त सम्पत्ति को देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति और स्वयं को सेवायत बताते हुये वादीगणों प्रशान्त कुमार वगैरह द्वारा उक्त भवन के किरायेदार राम कुमार वगैरह जिन्हें वादीगणों ने उक्त भवन में स्थित देवी देवताओं की मूर्तियों का पूजा-पाठ करने वाला बताया है, को विक्रय करने की अनुमति हेतु जिला जज वाराणसी की अदालत में सम्पत्ति में स्थित देवी देवताओं का पूजा-पाठ, रख-रखाव, राग-भोग, श्रृंगार वगैरह की उचित व्यवस्था तथा उक्त देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति की सुरक्षा हेतु दाखिल किया गया तथा उक्त प्रकीर्ण वाद में माननीय उच्च न्यायालय, इलाहाबाद द्वारा श्यामल रंजन मुखर्जी बनाम निर्मल रंजन मुखर्जी "2007(6) ए०एल०जे०-778" में किये गये निर्देश का भी वाद-पत्र में आधार लिया गया कि देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति को विक्रय करने के पूर्व माननीय न्यायालय से अनुमति प्राप्त किया जाना आवश्यक है। किन्तु वादीगणों ने उक्त मुकदमे को बिना अनुमति प्राप्त किये स्वयं निरस्त करने का प्रार्थना-पत्र मय शपथ-पत्र दिनांकित 27-07-2016 इस आधार पर प्रस्तुत किया कि उपरोक्त देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति वसीयतनामे के विधिक प्रावधानों के अनुसार किसी गैर ब्राह्मण को अन्तरित नहीं किया जा सकता है। अतः उपरोक्त मुकदमे के परिप्रेक्ष्य में वादीगणों ने बगैर माननीय न्यायालय की अनुमति प्राप्त किये देवोत्तर

सम्पत्ति के वसीयतनामे के विधिक प्रावधानों के विरुद्ध उक्त सम्पत्ति को निजी सम्पत्ति बताते हुये जरिये पंजीकृत विक्रय विलेख विक्रय कर दिया है, जो प्रथमदृष्टया विधि सम्मत नहीं है।

इस प्रकार उक्त विधिक राय से यह स्पष्ट है कि मु०स०-19/2016 प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के विक्रय की पूर्व अनुमति लिये जाने के सम्बन्ध में मा० न्यायालय में दाखिल किया गया था, परन्तु बाद में वादीगणों ने उक्त मुकदमे को बिना अनुमति प्राप्त किये स्वयं निरस्त करने का प्रार्थना-पत्र मय शपथ-पत्र दिनांकित 27-07-2016 इस आधार पर प्रस्तुत किया कि उपरोक्त देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति वसीयतनामे के विधिक प्रावधानों के अनुसार किसी गैर ब्राह्मण को अन्तरित नहीं किया जा सकता है। वादीगण का उक्त प्रार्थना-पत्र निस्तारित है। उक्त मुकदमे के परिप्रेक्ष्य में वादीगणों ने प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के विक्रय की अनुमति प्राप्त नहीं किया, अपितु देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के वसीयतनामे के विधिक प्रावधानों के विरुद्ध उक्त सम्पत्ति को निजी सम्पत्ति बताते हुए जरिये पंजीकृत विक्रय विलेख विक्रय कर दिया गया है, जो कि प्रथम दृष्टया विधि सम्मत प्रतीत नहीं होता है, क्योंकि सेवायतों को प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति को विक्रय करने का कोई अधिकार नहीं था। इससे यह भी स्पष्ट है कि अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा प्रकरण में दिनांक 16-02-2022 को आदेश पारित किये जाने के पूर्व न तो उक्त मुकदमे के सम्बन्ध में और न ही इस सम्बन्ध में प्राप्त विधिक राय पर कोई विचार किया गया तथा प्रकरण में कोई स्थिति स्पष्ट किये बिना आदेश दिनांक 16-02-2022 निर्गत कर दिया गया, जो विभागीय प्रक्रिया के विपरीत मनमानेपन को प्रदर्शित करता है। फलस्वरूप अपचारी अधिकारी के प्रति उ०प्र० सरकारी कर्मचारी आचरण नियमावली, 1956 के नियम-3(1) का उल्लंघन किये जाने का आरोप प्रमाणित होता है।

अपचारी अधिकारी श्री रामेश्वर दयाल पर लगाये गये आरोप, उसके पठनीय साक्ष्य तथा अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा प्रस्तुत उत्तर एवं उसके समर्थन में दिये गये साक्ष्य के आलोक में विश्लेषण किया गया।

चतुर्थ आरोप में अपचारी अधिकारी को मुख्यतः यह आरोपित किया गया है कि अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा निर्णय दिनांक - 16.2.2022 में जिलाधिकारी के पत्र संख्या - 4259/सी०टी०- 2018, दिनांक - 12.02.2018 का उल्लेख किया गया है। उक्त आदेश में देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के विक्रय/नामान्तरण के सम्बन्ध में कोई अनुमति नहीं दी गयी है। साथ ही भवन देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति नहीं रहा, का कोई प्रमाण उपलब्ध नहीं है। परन्तु उक्त तथ्य पर विचार किये बिना आदेश दिनांक-16.02.2022 पारित किया जाना नियमों के विपरीत है।

उक्त आरोप के सम्बन्ध में अपचारी अधिकारी का यह कथन है कि श्री प्रशान्त कुमार मुखर्जी ने इस आशय का आवेदन पत्र दिया था कि प्रश्नगत भवन बहुत ही पुराना जर्जर है जो प्रार्थी का पुरतैनी सम्पत्ति है जिसमें शिवलिंग स्थापित है। प्रार्थी उक्त भवन में पूजा पाठ करने या उसमें निवास करने की स्थिति में नहीं है। प्रार्थी ने अपने अन्यत्र क्रय किये भवन (लखनऊ) ले जाकर उक्त देवतागणों को विस्थापित कर विधि विधान के साथ प्राण-प्रतिष्ठा करके पूजा पाठ करने की अनुमति मांगी। इस पर अपर नगर मजिस्ट्रेट (द्वितीय) व क्षेत्राधिकारी (दशाश्वमेध) से जांच कराके लखनऊ ले जाने की अनुमति जिलाधिकारी महोदय ने दी। तदनुसार पक्ष ने शिवलिंग व नन्दी की मूर्ति को ले जाकर लखनऊ अपने निवास स्थान पर स्थापित कर दिये। उक्त भवन अब देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति रही ही नहीं है। वसीयतनामा के पैरा 03 में यह व्यवस्था दी गयी है कि भवन जर्जर हो जाने की स्थिति में उसे बेच कर दूसरा भवन क्रय करके उसमें देवतागण को स्थापित कर विधि सम्मत तरीके से प्राण प्रतिष्ठा कर उनका वंशानुक्रम में सेवा पूजा राग भोग आदि बिना व्यवधान के करता रहे।

देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के विक्रय / नामान्तरण के सम्बन्ध में कोई अनुमति नहीं दी गयी है। सेवायत या मुख्तार आम को देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति को विक्रय करने अथवा अन्य प्रकार से किसी दूसरे व्यक्ति को अन्तरित करने का अधिकार प्राप्त नहीं था। परन्तु, उक्त तथ्यों पर विचार किये बिना अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा आदेश दिनांक-16-02-2022 पारित किया जाना नियमों के विपरीत है। फलस्वरूप अपचारी अधिकारी के प्रति उ०प्र० सरकारी कर्मचारी आचरण नियमावली, 1956 के नियम-3(1) का उल्लंघन किये जाने का आरोप प्रमाणित होता है।

अपचारी अधिकारी श्री रामेश्वर दयाल पर लगाये गये आरोप, उसके पठनीय साक्ष्य तथा अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा प्रस्तुत उत्तर एवं उसके समर्थन में दिये गये साक्ष्य के आलोक में विश्लेषण किया गया।

आरोप संख्या-5 में अपचारी अधिकारी को मुख्यतः यह आरोपित किया गया है कि उनके द्वारा पत्रावली में दिनांक-23-12-2021 को उल्लिखित किया गया है कि प्रकरण में स्वयं निरीक्षण करने मौके पर जाऊँगा, अगली तिथि दिनांक-05-01-2022 नियत की जाती है। परन्तु स्थलीय निरीक्षण किये जाने का कोई उल्लेख नहीं है। साथ ही दिनांक-27-01-2022 को लिखा गया है कि आवेदन आपत्तिकर्ता अनुपस्थित है पत्रावली आदेश हेतु सुरक्षित की जाती है। बिना स्थलीय निरीक्षण के तथा पक्षों की अनुपस्थिति में वाद पत्रावली आदेश सुरक्षित किया जाना अपीलीय कार्यवाही में अनियमितता प्रदर्शित करता है।

उक्त आरोप के सम्बन्ध में अपचारी अधिकारी ने अपने स्पष्टीकरण में यह उल्लेख किया है कि चूँकि वह स्वयं प्रकरण की सुनवाई कर रहे थे, ऐसी स्थिति में अलग से निरीक्षण आख्या संलग्न करने का कोई औचित्य प्रतीत नहीं हुआ। उनके द्वारा स्वयं मौके का निरीक्षण किया गया जिसका पूर्णतया उल्लेख उनके द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक-16-02-2022 में दर्शित है। इस नामान्तरण के प्रकरण में जो भी आवेदन पत्र या आपत्ति पत्र प्राप्त हुये उसको दृष्टिगत रखते हुये सुनवाई का समुचित अवसर देते हुये विषय का निस्तारण किया गया है। अपचारी अधिकारी का उक्त कथन तर्क संगत न होने के कारण ग्राह्य किये जाने योग्य नहीं है। आरोप के पठनीय साक्ष्य के रूप में नगर आयुक्त नगर निगम, वाराणसी के पत्र दिनांक 06-08-2022 के प्रस्तर-7 में वर्णित तथ्यों से स्पष्ट होता है कि जोनल अधिकारी (अपचारी अधिकारी) ने दिनांक 23-12-2021 को लिखा कि प्रकरण में स्वयं निरीक्षण करने मौके पर जाऊँगा। अगली तिथि 05-01-2022 को नियत की जाती है। तत्पश्चात किसी भी दिन स्थलीय निरीक्षण किये जाने का कोई भी साक्ष्य नहीं है। दिनांक 27-01-2022 को लिखा गया कि आवेदक व आपत्तिकर्ता अनुपस्थित हैं, पत्रावली आदेश हेतु सुरक्षित की जाती है तथा दिनांक 16-02-2022 को अवैध अन्तरण के आधार पर नामान्तरण आदेश निर्गत कर देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति पर श्री मो० जावेद पुत्र हमीद अख्तर, आशा खातून पत्नी जावेद अख्तर, जमाल अख्तर पुत्र हमीद अख्तर व

इरन सबा पत्नी जमाल अख्तर का नाम अंकित किया गया। बिना स्थलीय निरीक्षण के तथा पक्षों की अनुपस्थिति में वाद पत्रावली आदेश में सुरक्षित करने का कोई औचित्य स्पष्ट नहीं होता है। वस्तुतः जोनल अधिकारी (अपचारी अधिकारी) से यह अपेक्षा थी कि वह प्रश्नगत सम्पत्ति का न केवल गहराई से स्थलीय निरीक्षण करते, अपितु निरीक्षण के सम्बन्ध में स्पॉट मेमो तैयार कर पत्रावली पर रखते, परन्तु उनके द्वारा ऐसा नहीं किया गया। जबकि, नगर आयुक्त, नगर निगम के पत्र दिनांक 06-08-2022 के प्रस्तर-5 में इस तथ्य का स्पष्ट उल्लेख है कि मौके पर अभी भी भवन में देवता स्थापित हैं तथा वहाँ पूजा-अर्चना होती है। इस प्रकार अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा प्रक्रिया के अनुसरण में गंभीर अनियमितता बरती गयी है और पक्षकारों की अनुपस्थिति में, मनमाने तौर पर नामान्तरण आदेश पारित किया गया है। फलस्वरूप अपचारी अधिकारी के प्रति यह आरोप प्रमाणित होता है।

अपचारी अधिकारी श्री रामेश्वर दयाल पर लगाये गये आरोप, उसके पठनीय साक्ष्य तथा अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा प्रस्तुत उत्तर एवं उसके समर्थन में दिये गये साक्ष्य के आलोक में विश्लेषण किया गया।

आरोप संख्या-6 में अपचारी अधिकारी को मुख्यतः यह आरोपित किया गया है कि उनके द्वारा देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति को सक्षम स्तर से अनुमति के बिना एवं अनाधिकृत दस्तावेजों के आधार पर अपीलिय प्रक्रिया में अनियमितता करते हुए अविधिक नामान्तरण से मौके पर कानून व्यवस्था के भंग होने की आशंका है तथा इससे नगर निगम वाराणसी की छवि भी धूमिल हुई है।

उक्त आरोप के सम्बन्ध में अपचारी अधिकारी ने अपने स्पष्टीकरण में यह कथन किया है कि भवन सं० डी.28/105 कभी भी सार्वजनिक देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति नहीं रही है, बल्कि व्यक्तिगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति रही है। मकान मालिक स्वयं के पूजा पाठ के लिए उसमें शिवलिंग और नन्दी की मूर्ति स्थापित किये थे। भवन में मकान मालिक रहते थे और किरायेदार भी थे। भवन जर्जर हो जाने के कारण मकान मालिक जिलाधिकारी के आदेश दिनांक 12-02-2018 के अनुसार दोनों शिवलिंग और नन्दी की मूर्ति को लखनऊ अपने निवास स्थान पर ले गये। इस प्रकार उनके द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक-16-02-2022 विधिक सम्मत है, किसी सम्पत्ति को कोई क्षति नहीं पहुँचायी गई है। अपचारी अधिकारी का उक्त कथन तर्क संगत न होने के कारण ग्राह्य किये जाने योग्य नहीं है। आरोप के पठनीय साक्ष्य के रूप में नगर आयुक्त, नगर निगम, वाराणसी के पत्र दिनांक 06-08-2022 में वर्णित तथ्यों से यह स्पष्ट है कि जिलाधिकारी, वाराणसी के पत्र दिनांक 12-02-2018 द्वारा प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति में स्थापित दोनों शिवलिंग/नंदी महाराज की मूर्ति को प्रार्थी को लखनऊ अपने निवास स्थान पर ले जाने एवं विधि विधान से स्थापित कर पूजा-पाठ करने के सम्बन्ध में अनापत्ति व्यक्त करने के क्रम में उक्त मूर्तियों को स्थानान्तरित करने के बावजूद प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति का स्वरूप परिवर्तित नहीं हुआ है और अब भी उक्त देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति में देवता स्थापित हैं तथा वहाँ पूजा-अर्चना होती है।

उक्त क्रम में यह भी उल्लेखनीय है कि विधिक राय दिनांक 21-06-2021 में वर्णित तथ्यों के अनुसार मु०स०-19/2016 प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के विक्रय की पूर्व अनुमति लिये जाने के सम्बन्ध में मा० जिला जज के न्यायालय में दाखिल किया गया था, परन्तु बाद में वादीगणों ने उक्त मुकदमे को बिना अनुमति प्राप्त किये स्वयं निरस्त करने का प्रार्थना-पत्र मय शपथ-पत्र दिनांकित 27-07-2016 इस आधार पर प्रस्तुत किया कि उपरोक्त देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति वसीयतनामे के विधिक प्रावधानों के अनुसार किसी गैर ब्राह्मण को अन्तरित नहीं किया जा सकता है। वादीगण का उक्त प्रार्थना-पत्र निस्तारित है। उक्त मुकदमे के परिप्रेक्ष्य में वादीगणों ने प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के विक्रय की अनुमति प्राप्त नहीं किया, अपितु देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के वसीयतनामे के विधिक प्रावधानों के विरुद्ध उक्त सम्पत्ति को निजी सम्पत्ति बताते हुए जरिये पंजीकृत विक्रय विलेख विक्रय कर दिया गया है, जो कि प्रथम दृष्टया विधि सम्मत प्रतीत नहीं होता है, क्योंकि सेवायतों को प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति को विक्रय करने का कोई अधिकार नहीं था। इससे यह भी स्पष्ट है कि अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा प्रकरण में दिनांक 16-02-2022 को आदेश पारित किये जाने के पूर्व न तो उक्त मुकदमे के सम्बन्ध में और न ही इस सम्बन्ध में प्राप्त विधिक राय पर कोई विचार किया गया। अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा इस तथ्य पर भी विचार नहीं किया गया कि जब वादीगणों द्वारा प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के विक्रय की अनुमति से सम्बन्धित वाद को बिना अनुमति प्राप्त किये स्वयं निरस्त करने का प्रार्थना-पत्र मय शपथ-पत्र इस आधार पर प्रस्तुत किया गया था कि उपरोक्त देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति वसीयतनामे के विधिक प्रावधानों के अनुसार किसी गैर ब्राह्मण को अन्तरित नहीं किया जा सकता है, तो पुनः उसी सम्पत्ति को गैर ब्राह्मण (दूसरे सम्प्रदाय के) श्री मो० जावेद को कैसे अन्तरित की जा सकती थी। प्रश्नगत देवोत्तर सम्पत्ति के सम्बन्ध में गैर ब्राह्मण (दूसरे सम्प्रदाय) को निष्पादित अनधिकृत दस्तावेज के आधार पर पारित अविधिक नामान्तरण आदेश से मौके पर कानून व्यवस्था के भंग होने की आशंका को बल मिलता है। फलस्वरूप अपचारी अधिकारी के प्रति उ०प्र० सरकारी कर्मचारी आचरण नियमावली, 1956 के नियम-3(1) का उल्लंघन किये जाने का आरोप प्रमाणित होता है।

उपरोक्तानुसार किये गये विश्लेषण एवं वर्णित तथ्यों के आधार पर अपचारी अधिकारी श्री रामेश्वर दयाल के विरुद्ध आरोप संख्या-6 प्रमाणित होता है।"

10. After inquiry report was served upon Disciplinary Authority, a show cause notice along with inquiry report was served upon the petitioner. The petitioner submitted reply on 02.06.2023 and finally, impugned order dated 16.11.2024/05.12.2024 was passed whereby on basis of proved six charges, punishment of removal from service without any bar to subsequent employment was passed. Relevant part of order is quoted below :-

अपचारी अधिकारी के विरुद्ध विरचित आरोप, जांच अधिकारी की जांच आख्या, अपचारी अधिकारी के अभ्यावेदन के परीक्षण से यह स्पष्ट है कि जांच अधिकारी द्वारा प्रेषित जांच आख्या के प्रस्तर-2 में स्पष्ट रूप से यह कथन अंकित किया गया है कि अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा साक्ष्यों सहित अपना लिखित स्पष्टीकरण दिनांक 16.01.2023 को प्रस्तुत किया गया है। उक्त स्पष्टीकरण में अपचारी अधिकारी द्वारा यह कथन किया गया है कि उन्हें इसके अतिरिक्त व्यक्तिगत रूप से और कुछ नहीं कहना है और न ही किसी साक्षी का बयान कराना है। उक्त से यह स्पष्ट है कि अपचारी अधिकारी को उनका पक्ष प्रस्तुत किये जाने हेतु जांच अधिकारी द्वारा पूर्ण अवसर दिया गया है। ऐसे में अपचारी अधिकारी के प्रत्यावेदन में उल्लिखित इस बिन्दु पर कि पुनः कोई जांच अधिकारी नामित किया जाय, का अवसर नहीं रह जाता है। चूँकि जांच अधिकारी द्वारा तथ्य सम्मत तथा समस्त बिन्दुओं पर गम्भीरतापूर्वक जांच की गयी है तथा अपचारी अधिकारी श्री रामेश्वर दयाल पर आरोप संख्या-1,2,3,4,5 तथा 6 सिद्ध पाये गये हैं।

7- अतएव अपचारी कार्मिक पर लगाये गये आरोपों, अपचारी कार्मिक द्वारा प्रस्तुत अभ्यावेदन तथा अपर आयुक्त (प्रशासन) वाराणसी मण्डल, वाराणसी की जांच आख्या दिनांक-10.04.2023 के परीक्षणोपरान्त श्री रामेश्वर दयाल, तत्कालीन कर निर्धारण अधिकारी/जोनल अधिकारी नगर निगम, वाराणसी सम्प्रति नगर निगम, मथुरा-वृन्दावन पर आरोप संख्या-1,2,3,4,5 तथा 6 जांच अधिकारी द्वारा सिद्ध पाया गया है तथा श्री दयाल अपने पदीय दायित्वों का सम्यक निर्वहन न करने के लिए दोषी हैं।

अतः श्री रामेश्वर दयाल, तत्कालीन कर निर्धारण अधिकारी/जोनल अधिकारी नगर निगम, वाराणसी सम्प्रति नगर निगम, मथुरा-वृन्दावन के विरुद्ध सम्यक विचारोपरान्त उ०प्र० सरकारी सेवक (अनुशासन एवं अपील) नियमावली, 1999 के नियम-3 में उल्लिखित दीर्घ शास्तियों के क्रम तीन के अनुसार सम्यक विचारोपरान्त निम्नवत दण्ड का विनिश्चय किया गया है:-

"(तीन) सेवा से हटाना जो भविष्य में नियोजन से निरहित नहीं करता हो"

11. Aforesaid order dated 05.12.2024 is under challenge before this Court.

12. Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Arpit Agarwal, learned counsel for petitioner has vehemently challenged the impugned order, though, he has not denied that in certain circumstances, a disciplinary proceedings can be initiated against an officer on an order passed under capacity of quasi judicial proceedings, however, he further submitted that in order to initiate disciplinary proceedings, in such circumstances, it must be seen that order in question i.e. order passed on mutation application was passed in an irregular manner or any undue haste or apparently with a view to confer undue favour upon applicant.

13. Learned Senior Advocate also submitted that no oral hearing was provided during inquiry and as such inquiry report was an ex-parte report. The findings returned by Disciplinary Authority are perverse such as petitioner has conducted a spot inspection before order on application for mutation was passed and it was recorded in the impugned order also, still Disciplinary Authority proceeded on an assumption that petitioner has not sought any report during mutation proceedings.

14. Learned Senior Advocate further referred that District Magistrate vide its order dated 12.02.2018 has allowed to shift the deity situated to a house at Lucknow for better puja and as application for that was allowed. As such, it was a private endowment property and not a public endowment property.

15. Learned Senior Advocate has also referred a judgment passed by Division Bench of this Court in Kaptan Singh vs. State of U.P. and another, 2014:AHC:95008-DB that in case of disciplinary proceedings where major punishment can be awarded and if conducted without oral hearing, it could be held that due procedure was not followed.

16. Learned Senior Advocate lastly submitted that there was no charge or finding that petitioner has conferred any undue favour upon applicant by allowing the mutation application and that in a given set of circumstances and on basis of proved charge, major punishment i.e. dismissal from service is shockingly disproportionate.

17. Per contra, Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri A.K. Srivastava, learned counsel for respondents and Sri Saurabh, learned Standing Counsel have submitted that disciplinary proceedings were conducted in due process. The petitioner was granted ample opportunities to place his case. The petitioner was called for oral hearing, however, he has submitted his written reply as well as he has made an endorsement that he was satisfied with procedure adopted. The petitioner has allowed mutation application without adhering to due process. He has not conducted any spot inspection as well as has not considered that in given circumstances, when property was of endowment, it could not be sold through power of attorney. The petitioner has failed to consider opinion given by the Government Advocate. No spot inspection was conducted. The punishment on proved charges were not shockingly disproportionate. The proceedings pending before Court was not taken note of.

18. I have considered above submissions and perused the records.

19. In given set of circumstances, petitioner has passed an order on mutation application wherein complainant was also a party as a quasi-judicial Authority. Law in regard to mutation proceedings is well settled that it is summary in nature. It does not declare any right, title of any property and during proceedings, in normal circumstances, registered sale deed can not be disputed specifically when no one has challenged the registered sale deed. An order passed under quasi-judicial proceedings could be challenged on a ground of illegality and only on a ground that an order is illegal would itself not become a ground to initiate disciplinary proceedings except when Officer has acted in a manner as would reflect on his reputation of integrity or good faith or devotion to duty; if there is prima facie material to show recklessness or misconduct in the discharge of his duty; if acted in a manner which is unbecoming of a Government servant; if acted negligently or that he omitted the prescribed conditions which are essential for the exercise of the statutory powers; if acted in order to unduly favour a party; and if actuated by corrupt motive.

20. So far as discussion of law in regard to summary proceedings of mutation, Court takes note of a judgment passed by Supreme Court in Karam Singh vs. Amarjit Singh and others, 2025 INSC 1238 wherein it was reiterated that it is well settled that mutation entries do not confer title and they serve a fiscal purpose i.e. to realize tax from a person whose name is reflected in revenue records and for that Supreme Court has referred its earlier judgments passed in Balwant Singh vs. Daulat Singh, (1997) 7 SCC 137 and Suraj Bhan vs. Financial Commissioner, (2007) 6 SCC 186. Relevant paragraphs of said order is quoted below :-

“16. In the instant case, the plaintiff instituted the suit by claiming title through succession to the estate of late Kartar Kaur. On the other hand, the defendants had set up a will alleged to have been executed by Kartar Kaur in their favour. Neither the plaint nor any document brought on record indicated that the will was probated or its validity was tested and upheld in regular civil proceedings inter-se parties. As far as mutation proceedings are concerned, it is well settled that mutation entries do not confer title. They serve a fiscal purpose, that is, to realize tax from the person whose name is recorded in the revenue records. Besides above, the plaint averments indicated that the mutation proceedings culminated in the year 2017 and the suit in question was instituted within three years thereafter.”

21. Now question remains whether petitioner while deciding application for mutation has committed misconduct so much as that disciplinary action be initiated which could culminate into a major punishment i.e. dismissal from service.

22. The respondents have not placed on record whether any statutory procedure is prescribed to decide an application for mutation so much as that it was blatantly disregarded by the petitioner, while deciding an application for mutation. A reference that no spot inspection was conducted is denied specifically and there was a reference also in the order on mutation application though not very specific but refers that a spot inspection was conducted. Otherwise also, the provisions of law were placed before the Court that spot inspection was mandatory though it may be a case that spot inspection was conducted as a custom or as a precaution prior to a decision on a mutation application.

23. So far as a legal position whether the Sevayat can make a sale deed or not, there is not much quarrel to a legal position that it cannot be looked during mutation proceedings specifically when registered sale deed was not questioned by a complainant or by any other aggrieved person before competent Civil Court. A proceedings pending does not directly challenge the sale deed.

24. Another factor that whether property in question was a public endowment or private endowment, Court takes note that deity has already been shifted from Varanasi to Lucknow with the permission of District Magistrate, Varanasi, therefore, subsequent to said act, property in question might have lost a position of a public endowment, though Court is not entering much into this controversy since it was not an issue raised in this writ petition except referred in consideration of disciplinary proceedings and otherwise also, during mutation proceedings, such aspect might not look into when application was filed on a registered sale deed.

25. An order passed by quasi-judicial Authority can be challenged before appropriate forum and only on a ground that an order is illegal cannot itself become a ground for initiating disciplinary proceedings. There must be much more than and for that Court takes note of few paragraph of a recent judgment passed by Supreme Court in Amresh Shrivastava vs. The State of Madhya Pradesh and others, 2025 INSC 417, which are quoted below :-

“14. The facts as have been narrated above are not in dispute. Two aspects which need to be considered are:

(1) Whether the chargesheet issued to the Appellant by the Respondent-State would fall within the scope of observations that have been carved out by this Court in K.K. Dhawan case (supra)?

(2) Whether inordinate unexplained delay in issuance of the chargesheet (in this case 14 years) would in itself be a ground for quashing the chargesheet issued to the appellant?

15. As regards the first question in K.K. Dhawan case (supra), this Court carved out the following situations where the government is not precluded from taking disciplinary actions for violation of the Code of Conduct:-

“(i) Where the officer had acted in a manner as would reflect on his reputation for integrity or good faith or devotion to duty;

(ii) If there is prima facie material to show recklessness or misconduct in the discharge of his duty;

(iii) if he has acted in a manner which is unbecoming of a Government servant;

(iv) if he had acted negligently or that he omitted the prescribed conditions which are essential for the exercise of the statutory powers;

(v) if he had acted in order to unduly favour a party;

(vi) if he had been actuated by corrupt motive however, small the bribe may be because Lord Coke said long ago "though the bribe may be small, yet the fault is great."

After carving out the above exceptions, this Court proceeded to further observe that mere technical violations or the fact that an order is wrong, if not falling under the above enumerated instances, does not warrant disciplinary actions. It was further reiterated that each case depends on its facts, and absolute rules cannot be postulated. The above instances as referred and reproduced hereinabove, are thus only a guide and not meant to be mandatorily adhere to without exception.

16. In the present case, we are of the considered view that the charges alleged against the Appellant in the chargesheet fall under the category of a wrongful order, which does not appear to have been influenced by extraneous factors or any form of gratification. It appears that the order has been passed in good faith, without any indication of dishonesty. Furthermore, the facts outlined in the Show Cause Notice do not suggest any such impropriety. The power exercised by the Appellant in his capacity as a Tehsildar, while passing the order of Land Settlement Order, cannot be considered of a nature that would warrant disciplinary proceedings against him.

The decision relied upon by the Counsel for the Appellant as mentioned above, supports this view. Consequently, the first question is answered in favor of the Appellant."

26. In above background, Court takes note of charge sheet and order passed by Disciplinary Authority that there is no charge that order passed in mutation application was influenced by extraneous factor or with any form of corrupt motive and in case the order was passed in good faith without any indication of dishonesty, entire disciplinary proceedings can be quashed.

27. The disciplinary proceedings was proceeded on allegations that by allowing mutation application, the petitioner has caused loss to an endowment property and further petitioner has not followed prescribed procedure to make a spot inspection as it is being mentioned in inquiry proceedings that deity were still available at property in question and puja was going on.

28. Another factor is considered in disciplinary proceedings that Sevayat of deity cannot make a sale deed, however, an important legal aspect has been missed in disciplinary proceedings that during mutation proceedings, Authority concerned cannot go beyond the registered sale deed to question it so much as that whether vendor has power to execute the sale deed or not, since it would be a case where even without challenge to sale deed before a competent Court, sale deed was disputed which cannot be done in a mutation proceedings.

29. The petitioner has followed the due process and on basis of registered sale deed which has not been challenged anywhere has allowed application for mutation. There is no proof that order was suffered with extraneous consideration though it may be a case that some legal mistakes were committed and for that purpose, it can be challenged before higher Forum and that complainant has challenged the same, therefore, a legal error, if any, can be cured by higher forum. Therefore, Court also relies upon a judgment of Supreme Court in Zunjarrao Bhikaji Nagarkar vs. Union of India, (1999) 7 SCC 409 that any error by quasi-judicial officer in a particular judgment/order does not automatically imply misconduct or favoritism. The disciplinary action requires clear evidence of extraneous influence beyond legal mistake to avoid judicial independence and as referred above, in present case, in the entire disciplinary proceedings, there is no iota of evidence of extraneous influence. It may be a case that petitioner has not carefully passed order on a mutation application or committed any legal error, though at this stage, Court does not find that there was a legal error. Still Court leaves it upon Authority where order of mutation is under challenge.

30. In overall circumstances, Court finds that charges as levelled in charge sheet cannot be proved as there is no legal provision that petitioner being a Tax Officer is bound to follow a legal opinion of a Government Advocate or he was bound to conduct a spot inspection or to verify whether vendor was competent to execute a sale deed and also to verify any legal proceedings pending except sale deed rather Court finds that initiation of disciplinary proceedings was itself faulty, therefore, it is a case where even under a limited review jurisdiction, order passed by Disciplinary Authority can be interfered being a rare case.

31. In aforesaid circumstances, when in a case such as case in hand, where disciplinary proceedings were based on 'no evidence' and where a person of normal procedure cannot support outcome of proceedings, Court finds that there is no justification to record remand present matter for fresh consideration since very foundation of disciplinary proceedings and nature of changes are suffered with various legal infirmities and therefore a case of interference is also made out. It would be a futile exercise to remand the same. In regard, Court takes note of following two paragraphs of Bhupinder Singh Gill vs. State of Punjab and others, 2025 INSC 83 :-

“33. Certain generic principles governing interference with orders of punishment that are passed following inquiry proceedings have evolved over a period of time. Law is well settled that an administrative order punishing a delinquent employee is not ordinarily subject to correction in judicial review because the disciplinary authority is the sole judge of facts. If there is some legal evidence on which the findings can be based, then adequacy or even reliability of that evidence is not a matter for canvassing before the high court in a writ petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution. However, should on consideration of the materials on record, the court be satisfied that there has been a violation of the principles of natural justice, or that the inquiry proceedings have been conducted contrary to statutory regulations prescribing the mode of such inquiry, or that the ultimate decision of the disciplinary authority is vitiated by considerations extraneous to the evidence and merits of the case, or that the conclusion of the disciplinary authority is ex facie arbitrary or capricious, so much so that no reasonable person could have arrived at such conclusion, or there is any other ground very similar to the above, the high court may in the exercise of its discretion interfere to set things right. After all, public servants to whom Article 311 of the Constitution apply do enjoy certain procedural safeguards, enforcement of which by the high court can legitimately be urged by such servants depending upon the extent of breach that is manifestly demonstrated.

35. It also needs to be emphasised that although the traditional concept of natural justice comprises of the two rules that prohibit anyone from being condemned unheard and anyone from being a judge of his own cause, jurisprudence on natural justice principles have seen a distinct shift ever since the decision in Maneka Gandhi v. India, (1978) 1 SCC 248 constitutionalised principles of natural justice, as held in Madhayamam Broadcasting Ltd. v. Union of India (2023) 13 SCC 401.

Drawing inspiration from such authorities, it would be apt to observe that in relation to disciplinary proceedings, subject to just exceptions, natural justice would envisage observance of procedural fairness before holding a public servant guilty of misconduct and imposing a punishment on him for such misconduct. While it is true that principles of natural justice supplement, and not supplant, the law, such principles have been declared by this Court to be a constituent feature of Article 14. Validity of any disciplinary action, whenever questioned, has to be tested on the touchstone of Articles 14, 16 and 21 as well as Article 311(2), wherever applicable. To test whether interference is warranted, this Court has laid down that the scrutiny ought to be confined to finding out whether the disciplinary proceedings have been conducted fairly; if not, an inference can be drawn that this has caused prejudice to the charged employee. Be that as it may, there can be no gainsaying that the consequences of violation of a fair procedure, which principles of natural justice embody, in a given situation has to be considered on a case-by-case basis bearing in mind that judicial review is not intended to be an appeal in disguise."

32. Accordingly, it is interfered and impugned order whereby petitioner was awarded major punishment is set aside and its legal consequence shall follow.

33. Writ petition is, accordingly, allowed.

CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE AMITABH KUMAR RAI, J.

Writ A No. 2497 of 2006

Kamla Kant Misra & Anr.

...Petitioners

Versus

C/M D.A.V. Inter College

...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

(1) Effect of non-compliance of the provisions of S. 18(8) of the Act, 1982 during the process of selection held for ad hoc appointment on the substantive vacancy.

(2) Permissibility to claim regularization under Section 33-G of the Act, 1982, when the initial appointment is itself illegal, being void ab initio.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Regularization – Post of Lecturer – Ad hoc appointment on substantive vacancy – Claimed to be selected and appointed by the Committee of Management – Since no financial approval was granted, the petitioner filed writ petition, in which an interim order was granted – On the strength of interim order, the petitioners was working and drawing salary – During the course, regularization u/s 33-G of the Act, 1982 was claimed, which was rejected by the DIOS – Validity challenged – Neither the reference as required under S. 18(8) of the Act, 1982 was made nor sub-section (7) was complied with during the selection process – Effect: (E-1)

Held: The petitioners were appointed by the Committee of Management not following the provisions contained in Section 18 of the Act of 1982 as existing on the date of their appointment, inasmuch as they were not selected by the Selection Committee referred to in Sub-section (8) of Section 18, nor the vacancies were advertised following Sub-section (7). Thus, the ad-hoc appointment of the petitioners on the substantive vacancies was not as per the provisions contained in Section 18 of the Act of 1982. [Para 36]

Further held: When the initial appointment itself is void and bad in law, then no such direction can be given for regularization solely on the basis that the petitioners are continuously working on their posts since the date of their initial appointment – The petitioners cannot be extended the benefit of Section 33-G of the Act of 1982 as their initial appointment on ad-hoc basis was dehors the statutory provisions and illegal, being void ab initio. [Para 39 and 44(c)]

Advs. for the Respondents: C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Amitabh Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anand Mani Tripathi, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Pandit Venktesh, learned counsel for the petitioners, and learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed seeking following reliefs :-

“(a) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 7.12.2005, contained in annexure no.31, passed by the opposite party no.3 and the G.O. dated 3.11.1997, issued by the opposite party no.2, contained in annexure no.33.

(b) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties no.2 to 5 and specifically the opposite party no.3 to accord the approval to the posts and salaries of the petitioners w.e.f. 1.7.97 and to pay the petitioners their salaries along with their arrears of salaries from the aforesaid date till date along with all the admissible allowances and increments as and when they fall due for the posts of Lecturer (Geography) and Lecturer (Biology) in the college of the opposite party no.1.

(c) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite party no.3 to give assent to the salaries of the petitioners deeming the appointments of the petitioners to be approved as per the provisions of clauses 2 (3)(iii) and 2(3)(iv) of the Removal of Difficulties (Second) Order, 1981 with an specific direction to the opposite parties no.2, 3, 4 and 5 to accord their approval to the salaries of the petitioners (specifically the opposite party no.3) and to release the same forthwith after treating the petitioners in continuous service w.e.f. 1.7.97 till date and to continue to pay the same to the petitioners in the form of their current salaries as and when it falls due along with all admissible allowances.

(d) Issue a writ, order or direction in the appropriate nature and manner declaring Section 18 and Section 33-E of the U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 as ultra vires.

(e) Issue a writ, order or direction in the appropriate nature and manner declaring the provision regarding the validity of the appointments till the end of the academic session, envisaged under Section 16 E (11) of U.P. Secondary Education Act, 1921. "

3. The counsel for the petitioners, Sri Anand Mani Tripathi at the outset submits that he is not pressing the relief nos.(d) & (e) whereby vires of Section 18 and Section 33-E U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act of 1982") as well as vires of Section 16 E (11) of the U.P. Secondary Education Act, 1921 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1921") have been challenged in the instant writ petition.

4. The brief facts, as per the narration in the memo of writ petition and as per the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the petitioners, are that two clear, vacant and sanctioned posts of Lecturer (Geography) and Lecturer (Biology) fell vacant in D.A.V. Inter College, Kanpur Nagar on the retirement of permanent incumbents on 30.06.1994. It is the case of the petitioners that after the retirement of permanent incumbents, namely, Sri Kripa Shanker Chowdhary and Sri Bisheshwar Prasad Srivastava, who were working on the posts of Lecturer (Geography) and Lecturer (Biology), respectively, the Committee of Management communicated the event of the vacancies to the District Inspector of Schools (in short, "D.I.O.S."), Kanpur Nagar through intimation/requisition dated 01.12.1994. A reminder was also sent by the Committee of Management of the College on 08.07.1996 and again on 15.03.1997, but no candidate was recommended by the D.I.O.S. for appointment on the aforesaid two vacant posts and as such, steps were taken by the Committee of Management of the College authorizing Manager to make selection for ad-hoc appointments. The Manager of the college, thereupon, initiate the process of selection through advertisement of the posts-in-question in two newspapers, namely, "Satya Samvad" and "Apna Abhiyan," in their issues dated 05.03.1997.

5. The petitioners, being duly qualified, having qualifications of M.A. Geography and M.Sc. Botany, respectively, applied in pursuance of the advertisement published in the newspapers on 05.03.1997 and they were called for interview along with other candidates, which was held on 21.06.1997. The petitioners were recommended on the basis of quality marks obtained in the interview for selection on the posts-in-question and thereupon the Committee of Management resolved in its meeting dated 26.06.1997 to appoint the petitioners on the posts of Lecturer (Geography) and Lecturer (Biology), respectively. Subsequently, the documents pertaining to the appointments were forwarded to the D.I.O.S., Kanpur Nagar for approval vide letter dated 26.06.1997 and the appointment letters dated 01.07.1997 were issued to the petitioners appointing them on the aforementioned posts. The appointment letters specifically provided that the appointment is an ad-hoc appointment which will continue till a regularly selected candidate joins.

6. It has been submitted that in furtherance of the appointment orders dated 01.07.1997, petitioners joined their respective posts on the same date i.e. 01.07.1997 and continued to work without any interruption, as no duly selected candidate for the aforesaid posts was sent by the U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board for appointment.

7. It is the case of the petitioners that despite repeated representations/reminders sent by the petitioners through Principal of the College, no financial approval was granted towards their salary for a long time. Lastly, the D.I.O.S., vide letter dated 07.12.2005, refused to grant financial approval for payment of salary to the petitioners on the ground that their appointments were in violation of the provisions contained in the Act of 1982, as the Committee of Management had no power to make such appointments. Feeling aggrieved, the petitioners filed the instant writ petition seeking the reliefs as indicated hereinabove.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioners has further contended that since the petitioners have been continuously working on their posts since 01.07.1997 and they are also getting salary in terms of the interim order dated 14.12.2005 passed by this Court in the instant writ petition, they are now entitled for regularization in terms of Section 33-G of the Act of 1982. It has further been submitted that the case of the petitioners for regularization under Section 33-G was rejected vide separate orders dated 15.02.2024 passed for petitioners nos. 1 and 2, rejecting their claim, against which both petitioners filed separate writ petitions, i.e., Writ A No. 7344 of 2024 (Kamla Kant Mishra vs. State of U.P. and 4 Others) and Writ A No. 7434 of 2024 (Shishir Krishna Sinha vs. State of U.P. and 4 Others) challenging their individual orders of rejection dated 15.02.2024.

9. During the pendency of aforesaid writ petitions, they also filed Writ A No. 19886 of 2024 (Kamla Kant Mishra vs. State of U.P. and 4 Others) and Writ A No. 19877 of 2024 (Shishir Krishna Sinha vs. State of U.P. and 4 Others) in which they prayed to reconsider their claim for regularization under Section 33-G of the Act of 1982 in terms of the judgment and order dated 30.09.2024 passed in Writ A No. 21492 of 2023 (Vinod Kumar Srivastava vs. State of U.P. and others).

10. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the petitioners that Writ A No. 7344 of 2024 and Writ A No. 19886 of 2024 filed by petitioner no.1 were connected and decided together vide judgment and order dated 19.12.2024, whereby Writ A No. 7344 of 2024 was allowed, quashing the rejection order dated 15.02.2024 and a direction was issued to reconsider the claim of petitioner no.1, i.e., Kamla Kant Mishra, for regularization in terms of the order dated 30.09.2024 passed in the case of Vinod Kumar Srivastava (supra), whereas Writ A No.19886 of 2024 was dismissed as having rendered Infructuous.

11. Likewise, the Writ A No. 7434 of 2024 and Writ A No. 19877 of 2024 filed by petitioner no.2 were also connected and decided together vide judgment and order dated 19.12.2024, whereby Writ A No. 7434 of 2024 was allowed, quashing the rejection order dated 15.02.2024, and a direction was issued to reconsider the claim of petitioner no.2 for regularization in terms of the order dated 30.09.2024 passed in the case of Vinod Kumar Srivastava (supra), whereas Writ A No.19877 of 2024 was dismissed as having rendered Infructuous.

12. Subsequently, in compliance of the directions passed in the aforesaid writ petitions for petitioner nos.1 and 2, the case of the petitioners were considered for regularization and rejected vide separate orders dated 19.08.2025 on the ground that since the issue of validity of ad-hoc appointments of the petitioners is pending consideration in the instant writ petition, it is not possible at this stage to dwell into the question of regularization under Section 33-G of the Act of 1982.

13. On the other hand, a counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of respondent nos.2 to 5, in which it has been indicated that the communication regarding vacancies, as alleged by the petitioners, was not received in the office of the D.I.O.S. and the ad-hoc appointments of the petitioners were made against the statutory provisions, inasmuch as the procedure for notifying the vacancies, as laid down in the Full Bench judgment in Radha Raizada case [(1994) Vol. III U.P.LBEC 1551], was not followed by the Committee of Management, as the vacancies were not advertised in newspapers having adequate circulation in U.P.

14. It has further been alleged in the counter affidavit that the Secondary Education Service Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Second) Order, 1981 (hereinafter referred to as "Second Order"), stood rescinded w.e.f. 25.01.1999 by U.P. Act No. 13 of 1999, by which Section 33-E was inserted. Thus, it has been argued that the claim of the petitioners cannot be sustained, as such rights were not saved upon repeal of the said Order. Reliance has been placed on the judgment passed in the case of Daya Shankar Pandey vs. State of U.P. and Others [(2001) Vol. I U.P.LBEC 741].

15. Thus, learned Standing Counsel has contended that since the initial appointment of the petitioners on ad-hoc basis is against the statutory provisions, the claim of the petitioners for regularization under Section 33-G of the Act of 1982 is misconceived and liable to be rejected.

16. It has been further submitted that the claim of the petitioners that they are working on the posts of Lecturer (Geography) and Lecturer (Biology), is also not correct in view of the fact that the Committee of Management of the College declared 37 teachers as surplus vide its letter dated 20.05.2006, in which the name of petitioner no. 1 finds place at serial no. 23 and the name of petitioner no. 2 finds place at serial no. 24. In furtherance of such declaration by the Committee of Management of the College; the Director of Education (Secondary), U.P., Lucknow, vide letter dated 24.02.2006, absorbed 15 teachers of the lecturer cadre and 22 teachers of L.T. Grade in other institutions. The petitioners, who were also declared surplus by the Committee of Management, were not absorbed by the State Government in other colleges; hence, the claim of the petitioners that they are discharging the functions of their respective posts is factually incorrect. It has been further submitted that the aforesaid absorption of surplus teachers was carried out by the State Government in terms of the order dated 18.11.2005 passed in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 70709 of 2005 at Allahabad.

17. Be that as it may, the undisputed fact which emerges from the pleadings available on record of the instant writ petition as well as on the basis of arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties, are that the petitioners were appointed on ad-hoc basis on the substantive vacancies which fell vacant on 30.06.1994 due to the retirement of Sri Kripa Shanker Chowdhary, who was working on the post of Lecturer (Geography) and Sri Bisheshwar Prasad Srivastava, who was working on the post of Lecturer (Biology).

18. The undisputed fact is also that the petitioners were appointed on ad-hoc basis by the Committee of Management and, as per their own version, the appointments were made under the provisions of the Second Order, under which the Committee of Management has the power to make such ad-hoc appointments.

19. In order to appreciate the arguments advanced by the parties, it is necessary to have a look at the statutory provisions regarding selection and appointment of teachers in Secondary Education Institutions, which were initially governed by the provisions contained in the Act, 1921. Subsequently, in order to bring uniformity and impartiality in the process of selection and appointment of teachers, the U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission and Board Ordinance, 1981 (hereinafter referred to as the "First Ordinance") was enacted, which was published in the U.P. Gazette (Extraordinary) dated 10.07.1981, which provided for the composition of a Commission, namely, the U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission, vide Section 3. It also provided for selection and recruitment of teachers for Secondary Education Institutions by the said Commission.

20. The term 'Institution' was defined in Section 2(e), which comprised all schools recognized under the Act, 1921, including institutions maintained by a local authority. Since the First Ordinance, which was given effect from 14.07.1981, could not be transformed into an Act, another Ordinance, i.e., U.P. Ordinance No. 23 of 1981 (hereinafter referred to as the "Second Ordinance"), was issued and it was also given effect from 14.07.1981 and the Second Ordinance also contained provisions similar to those in the First Ordinance. The Second Ordinance was published in the U.P. Gazette (Extraordinary) dated 27.10.1981.

21. The Second Ordinance was replaced by the Act of 1982, which received the assent of the President on 25.02.1982 and was published in the U.P. Gazette (Extraordinary) dated 26.02.1982 and it was given effect from 14.07.1981, except Section 21, which was left to be enforced on a date to be notified by the State Government.

22. Section 16(1) of the Act of 1982 provides that, subject to the provisions of Sections 18 and 33, every appointment of a teacher on or after 10.07.1981 shall be made on the recommendation of the Commission/Board (as the case may be). Sub-section (2) of Section 16 declares that any appointment of a teacher made in contravention of Section 16(1) is void.

23. Section 18 permitted appointment of ad-hoc teachers. Section 18 was amended and substituted w.e.f. 14.07.1992, by U.P. Act No.24 of 1982 providing the contingencies of making ad-hoc appointment, the procedure for such ad-hoc appointments and the tenure of such ad-hoc appointments. The amended Section 18 provided for a Selection Committee for selection of candidates for ad-hoc appointments comprising of D.I.O.S. (Chairman), Basic Shiksha Adhikari, District Inspector of Girls' Schools and where there is no such Inspectors, the Principal of the Government Girls' Intermediate College and where there are more than one such college, the senior-most Principal of such colleges and where there is no such college, the Principal of the Government Girls' Intermediate College as nominated by the State Government.

24. Then, by the U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission and Selection Boards (Amendment) Act, 1995 (U.P. Act No. 15 of 1995), published in the U.P. Gazette (Extraordinary) dated 08.08.1995, which came into force on 28.12.1994, a number of amendments were made in the Act of 1982. Section 18 was substituted, which reads as under:

"18. Ad-hoc teachers. -(1) Where the Management has notified a vacancy to the Commission in accordance with sub-section (1) of section 10 and the post of a teacher actually remained vacant for more than two months, the Management may appoint by direct recruitment or promotion a teacher on purely ad-hoc basis, in the manner hereinafter provided in this section.

(2) A teacher other than a Principal or Headmaster, who is to be appointed by direct recruitment may be appointed on the recommendation of the Selection Committee referred to in sub-section (8).

(3) A teacher other than a Principal or Headmaster, who is to be appointed by promotion, may in the prescribed manner be appointed by promoting the seniormost teacher, possessing prescribed qualifications "

(a) in the trained graduate's grade, as a lecturer, in the case of a vacancy in the lecturer's grade;

(b) in the Certificate of Teaching grade, as teacher in the trained graduate's Grade, in the case of a vacancy in the Trained graduate's grade.

(4) A vacancy in the post of a Principal may be filled by promoting the senior most teacher in the lecturer's grade.

(5) A vacancy in the post of a Headmaster may be filled by promoting the senior most teacher in the trained graduate's grade.

(6) For the purposes of making appointments under sub-sections (2) and (3), the Management shall determine the number of vacancies, as also the number of vacancies to be reserved for the candidates belonging to the Scheduled Castes, the Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes of citizen in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act, 1994 and, as soon as may be thereafter, intimate the vacancies to be filled by direct recruitment to the District Inspector of Schools and if the Management fails to intimate the vacancies and the post of a teacher has actually remained vacant for more than three months, the District Inspector of Schools may, subject to such directions as may be issued by the Director and after verification from such institution or from his own record, determine such vacancies himself.

(7) The District Inspector of Schools shall, on receipt of intimation of vacancies or as the case may be, after determining the vacancies under sub-, section (6), forward the same to the Deputy Director of Education in charge of the Region, who shall invite applications from the persons possessing qualifications prescribed under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 or the regulations made thereunder, for ad-hoc appointment to the post of teachers other than Principal or Head Master in such manner as may be prescribed.

(8) (a) For each region there shall be a Selection Committee for selection of candidates for ad-hoc appointment by direct recruitment comprising-

(i) Regional Deputy Director of Education;

(ii) Regional Deputy Director of Education (Secondary);

(iii) Regional Assistant Director of Education (Basic).

The Regional Deputy Director of Education who is senior shall be the Chairman.

(b) The Selection Committee constituted under Clause (a) shall make selection of the candidates, prepare a list of the selected candidates, allocate them to the Institutions and recommend their names to the Management for appointment under sub-section (2).

(c) The criteria and procedure for selection of candidates and the manner of preparation of list of selected candidates and their allocation to the Institution shall be such as may be prescribed.

(9) Every appointment of an ad-hoc teacher under sub-section (1) shall cease to have effect from the date when the candidate recommended by the Commission joins the post.

(10) The provisions of section 21-D shall mutatis mutandis apply to the teachers who are to be appointed under the provisions of this section.

25. The Sub-section (1) of Section 18 as amended by U.P. Act No.15 of 1995 refers to Section 10 of Act of 1982 which provides procedure of selection by direct recruitment on vacancies existing or likely to fall vacant during the year of recruitment. Thus, the Section 18 as substituted by U.P. Act No.15 of 1995 only related to the ad-hoc appointments to be made on substantive vacancy. For short term vacancies, the Second Order continued to remain in force till it was rescinded w.e.f. 25.01.1999 by U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board (Amendment) Act, 1999 by which Section 33-E was inserted in Act of 1982.

26. Section 18 of the Act of 1982 was further amended vide U.P. Act No. 25 of 1998, published in the U.P. Gazette (Extraordinary) dated 27.07.1998.

27. For the sake of consideration with regard to the validity of appointment of the petitioners on ad-hoc basis, Section 18 as amended by U.P. Act No. 15 of 1995, which came into force w.e.f. 28.12.1994, is relevant, as it is the case of the petitioners that they were appointed by the Committee of Management on the substantive posts which fell vacant due to the retirement of two lecturers during the subsistence of the period when Section 18, as substituted by U.P. Act No. 15 of 1995, was in force w.e.f. 28.12.1994 till 20.04.1998, when U.P. Act No. 25 of 1998 came into force.

28. Section 18(2) of the Act of 1982, which stood at the time of appointment of the petitioners on ad-hoc basis, provides that a teacher, other than the Principal or Headmaster, who is to be appointed by direct recruitment, can be appointed only on the recommendation of the Selection Committee referred to in sub-section (8). The composition of the Selection Committee, as per sub-section (8), comprised of the Regional Deputy Director of Education, Regional Deputy Director of Education (Secondary) and Regional Assistant Director of Education (Basic).

29. It is not in dispute that the petitioners were appointed by the Committee of Management without any reference to the Selection Committee as referred to in sub-section (8) of Section 18 of the Act of 1982 nor the applications for ad-hoc appointment were invited as per provision contained in Sub-section (7) and hence, the ad-hoc appointment of the petitioners was in blatant violation of the statutory provisions.

30. The argument of learned counsel for the petitioners inasmuch as that the ad-hoc appointment of the petitioners was made under the Second Order is without any basis, as the ad-hoc appointment of the petitioners was made on the substantive vacancies arising due to retirement of the serving incumbents on the post of Lecturer (Geography) and Lecturer (Biology), and not on short-term vacancies.

31. In this regard it would be proper to examine the scope of Removal of Difficulties Orders issued by State Government from time to time under Section 33 of the Act of 1982. Section 33 of the Act of 1982 empowered the State Government to issue orders for removing difficulties, which reads as under:-

“33. Power to remove difficulties. - (1) The State Government may, for the purposes of removing any difficulty, by a notified order, direct that the provisions of this Ordinance shall during such period as may be specified in the order, have effect subject to such adaptations, whether by modification, addition or omission, as it may deem to be necessary or expedient:

Provided that no such order shall be made after two years from the date of promulgation of this Ordinance.

(2) Every order made under sub-section (1) shall be laid before both the Houses of State Legislature.

(3) No order under sub-section (1) shall be called in question in any Court on the ground that no difficulty as is referred to in sub-section (1) existed or required to be removed.”

32. After enactment of the First Ordinance, neither Commission nor Selection Board was constituted, nor did the Ordinance come to be replaced by an Act. Hence, the U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981 (hereinafter referred to as the "First Order") was notified vide notification dated 31.07.1981, exercising powers under Section 33 of the Act, 1982, which provided for making ad-hoc appointment by the management on the substantive vacancy as well as on leave vacancy. Subsequently, the State Government issued another Order, i.e. the Secondary Education Service Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Second) Order, 1981, vide notification dated 11.09.1981, which is reproduced hereinbelow:-

“Whereas, the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission and Selection Boards Ordinance, 1981 (U.P. Ordinance No. 8 of 1981), was promulgated on July 10, 1981 with a view to establish a Secondary Education Services Commission and six or more Secondary Education Boards for selection of teachers in the institutions recognised under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (U.P. Act No. II of 1921);

And whereas, the establishment of the Commission and the Selection Boards is likely to take some time and even after the establishment of the said Commission and Boards, it may not be possible to make selection of the teachers for the first few months;

And whereas, a number of vacancies in the posts of teachers in various institutions recognised under the said Act exist and the failure or delay in filling up of such vacancies is likely to create difficulties;

And whereas, the filling up of certain short-term temporary vacancies caused by grant of leave to or on account of suspension of a teacher or otherwise, in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981 is likely to delay the appointment of substitutes in such vacancies;

Now, therefore, in exercise of the powers under sub-section (1) of Section 33 of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission and Selection Boards Ordinance, 1981 (U.P. Ordinance No. 8 of 1981), read with Section 21 of the U.P. General Clauses Act, 1904 (U.P. Act No. 1 of 1904), the Government is pleased to direct that the provisions of the said Ordinance shall have effect subject to the provisions of the following Order :

Short title and commencement. - (1) This Order may be called the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Second) Order, 1981.

Procedure for filling up short term vacancies. - (1) If short term vacancy in the post of a teacher, caused by grant of leave to him or on account of his suspension duly approved by the District Inspector of Schools or otherwise, shall be filled by the Management of the institution, by promotion of the permanent senior most teacher of the institution, in the next lower grade. The Management shall immediately inform the District Inspector of Schools of such promotion along with the particulars of the teacher so promoted.

(2) Where any vacancy referred to in clause (1) cannot be filled by promotion, due to non-availability of a teacher in the next lower grade in the institution, possessing the prescribed minimum qualifications, it shall be filled by direct recruitment in the manner laid down in clause (3).

(3)(i) The management shall intimate the vacancies to the District Inspector of Schools and shall also immediately notify the same on the notice board of the institution, requiring the candidates to apply to the manager of the institution along with the particulars given in Appendix 'B' of this Order. The selection shall be made on the basis of quality point marks specified in the Appendix to the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981, issued with Notification No. Ma-4993/XV - 7-1(79)-1981, dated July 31, 1982, hereinafter to be referred to as the First Removal of Difficulties Order 1981. The compilation of quality point marks shall be done under the personal supervision of the Head of Institution. ”

33. The inter-play and effect of provisions contained in the First and the Second Orders, in the context of provisions contained in Sections 16 and 18 of the Act of 1982, was considered by the Full Bench of this Court (Five Judges) in the case of Jahaj Pal v. District Inspector of Schools, 2019 SCC OnLine All 6998, and the relevant paragraphs 37 to 59 are as follows:-

"37. In order to bring uniformity, impartiality and objectivity in the process of selection and recruitment of teachers in Secondary Educational Institutions governed by Act, 1921, State Government issued a Radiogram on 07.04.1981 stopping all fresh selections and appointments of Principals etc. in all non-government aided schools. Validity of this Radiogram was considered by Supreme Court in Dr. Ramji Dwivedi vs. State of U.P. and others 1983 (3) SCC 52. Court held that power to issue such Radiogram had its source in Section 9(4) of Act, 1921. Once such direction was issued, Management had no power to make selection and appointment.

38. The aforesaid Radiogram followed by enactment of U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission and Selection Board Ordinance, 1981 (U.P. Ordinance No. 8 of 1981)(hereinafter referred to as "First Ordinance") published in U.P. Gazette (Extraordinary) dated 10.7.1981. It contemplated composition of a Commission, namely, U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission vide Section 3. It also provided for selection and recruitment of Teachers for Secondary Educational Institutions by the said Commission. The term 'Institution' was defined in Section 2(e) which comprised of all schools recognized under Act, 1921 including Institutions maintained by a local authority. It, however, excluded an 'Institution' maintained by State Government. Section 16 declares that any appointment made in violation of the provisions of First Ordinance would be void and reads as under:-

"16. Appointments to be made only on recommendations of the Commission or the Board. - (1) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 or the Regulations made thereunder –

(a) every appointment of a teacher specified in the scheduled shall, after the date of promulgation of this Ordinance, be made by the management only on the recommendation of the Commission;

(b) every appointment of a teacher (other than a teacher specified in the Schedule) shall, after the date of such promulgation, be made by the management only on the recommendation of the Board.

(2) Every appointment of a teacher, in contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1), shall be void." (emphasis added)

39. Section 3 contemplated establishment of a Commission while Section 12 contemplated establishment of Regional Selection Boards which may have jurisdiction over such local area as State Government may specify. It also permitted ad-hoc appointment of Teachers vide Section 18 where vacancy has been notified to Commission but no recommendation has been made within six months from the date of such notification. Sub-section (3) of Section 18, however, provided that every appointment of an ad-hoc Teacher under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of Section 18 shall cease to have effect from the earliest of the following dates:

(a) when the candidate recommended by Commission or the Board, as the case may be, joins the post;

(b) when the period of one month referred to in sub-section (4) of Section 11 expires;

(c) thirtieth day of June following the date of such ad-hoc appointment.

40. Section 32 provided that Act, 1921 and Regulations made thereunder, insofar as not consistent with First Ordinance or Rules or Regulations made thereunder, shall continue to be enforced for the purpose of selection, appointment, promotion, dismissal, removal, termination or reduction in rank of a Teacher.

41. Section 33 conferred power upon State Government to issue orders removing difficulties and read as under:-

"33. Power to remove difficulties. - (1) The State Government may, for the purposes of removing any difficulty, by a notified order, direct that the provisions of this Ordinance shall during such period as may be specified in the order, have effect subject to such adaptations, whether by modification, addition or omission, as it may deem to be necessary or expedient :

Provided that no such order shall be made after two years from the date of promulgation of this Ordinance.

(2) Every order made under sub-section (1) shall be laid before both the Houses of State Legislature.

(3) No order under sub-section (1) shall be called in question in any Court on the ground that no difficulty as is referred to in sub-section (1) existed or required to be removed." (emphasis added)

42. After enactment of First Ordinance, for more than six month, neither Commission or Selection Board was constituted nor Ordinance came to be replaced by Act. Since delay in selection and appointment of Teachers was causing grave loss to educational institutions and in particular, students in their studies, State Government intervened and issued a Removal of Difficulties Order i.e. U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981 i.e. First Order, vide notification dated 31.07.1981. It clearly stated that there was likelihood to take some time in the establishment of Commission/ Selection Boards and even functioning thereof would take further time. Further, it is said that a number of vacancies of Teachers were existing and continuing in Educational Institutions and delay in filling all such vacancies may create difficulties, hence First Order is being issued.

43. Para 2 of First Order conferred power upon Management to make ad-hoc appointments and reads as under:-

"2. Vacancies in which ad-hoc appointment can be made. - The management of an institution may appoint by promotion or by direct recruitment a teacher on purely ad-hoc basis in accordance with the provisions of this Order in the following cases, namely :-

(a) in the case of a substantive vacancy existing on the date of commencement of this Order caused by death, retirement, resignation or otherwise;

(b) in the case of a leave vacancy, where the whole or unexpired portion of the leave is for a period exceeding two months on the date of such commencement;

(c) where a vacancy of the nature specified in clause (a) or clause (b) comes into existence within a period of two months subsequent to the date of such commencement." (emphasis added)

44. Para 3 talks of duration of ad-hoc appointments and reads as under:

"3. Duration of ad hoc appointments. - Every appointment of an ad-hoc teacher under Paragraph 2 shall cease to have effect from the earliest of the dates, namely:-

(a) when the candidate recommended by the Commission or the Board joins the post; or

(b) when the period of six months from the date of such ad- hoc appointment expires." (emphasis added)

45. Paras 4 and 5 lay down the procedure for ad-hoc appointments by promotion and direct recruitment and Para 6 deals with eligibility for such appointments. Paras 4 and 5, relevant for our purposes, are reproduced as under :

"4. Ad hoc appointment by promotion.-(1) Every vacancy in the post of the Head of an institution may be filled by promotion :

(a) in the case of an Intermediate College, by the senior most teacher of the institution in the lecturer's grade;

(b) in the case of a High School raised to the level of an Intermediate College, by the Headmaster of such High School;

(c) in the case of a Junior High School raised to the level of a High School, by the Headmaster of such junior High School.

(2) Every vacancy in the post of a teacher in Lecturer's grade may be filled by promotion by the senior most teacher of the Institution in the trained graduate (L.T.) grade.

(3) Every vacancy in the post of a teacher in the trained graduate (L.T.) grade shall be filled by promotion by the senior most teacher of the Institution in the trained undergraduate (C.T.) grade.

(4) Every vacancy in the post of teacher in the trained undergraduate (C.T.) grade shall be filled by promotion by the senior most teacher of the Institution in the J.T.C. grade or B.T.C. Grade.

Explanation.-For the purposes of clauses (1) to (4) of this paragraph the expression "senior most teacher" means the teacher having longest continuous service in the institution in the lecturer's grade or the trained graduate (L.T.) grade, or trained undergraduate (C.T.) grade or J.T.C. or B.T.C. Grade, as the case may be."

"5. Ad hoc appointment by direct recruitment. - (1) Where any vacancy cannot be filled by promotion under Paragraph 4, the same may be filled by direct recruitment in accordance with clauses (2) to (5).

(2) The management shall, as soon as may be, inform the District Inspector of Schools about the details of the vacancy and such Inspector shall invite applications from the local Employment Exchange and also through public advertisement in at least two newspapers having adequate circulation in Uttar Pradesh.

(3) Every application referred to in clause (2) shall be addressed to the District Inspector of Schools and shall be accompanied :

(a) by a crossed postal order worth ten rupees payable to such Inspector;

(b) by a self addressed envelope bearing postal stamp for purposes of registration.

(4) The District Inspector of Schools shall cause the best candidates selected on the basis of quality points specified in Appendix. The compilation of quality points may be done on remunerative basis by the retired Gazetted Government servants under the personal supervision of such Inspector.

(5) If more than one teacher of the same subject or category is to be recruited for more than one institution, the names of the selected teachers and the names of the institutions shall be arranged in Hindi alphabetical order. The candidate whose name appears on the top of the list shall be allotted to the institution the name whereof appears on the top of the list of the institution. This process shall be repeated till both the lists are exhausted.

Explanation.- In relation to an institution imparting instruction to women the expression "District Inspector of Schools" shall mean the "Regional Inspectors of Girls Schools". (emphasis added)

46. State Government issued another order i.e. U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Second Order, 1981 i.e. Second Order, vide notification dated 11.9.1981. Second Order firstly substituted para 2 of First Order and deleted Sub-clauses (b) and (c), permitting ad-hoc appointment in leave vacancy. In fact, para 2 of First Order was substituted by virtue of para 5 of Second Order, as follows -:

"5. Substitution of Paragraph 2 of the (First) Removal of Difficulties Order, 1981. - In the First Removal of Difficulties Order, 1981, for Paragraph 2, the following paragraph shall be substituted, namely -

"2. The management of an institution may appoint by promotion or by direct recruitment, a teacher on purely ad-hoc basis in accordance with the provisions of this Order in case of a substantive vacancy caused by death, resignation or otherwise." (emphasis added)

47. Second Order separately deals with ad-hoc appointments to fill up short term vacancies. Para 2 of Second Order lays down procedure for filling up short term vacancies and reads as under:

"2. Procedure for filling up short term vacancies. - (1) If short term vacancy in the post of a teacher, caused by grant of leave to him or on account of his suspension duly approved by the District Inspector of Schools or otherwise, shall be filled by the Management of the institution, by promotion of the permanent senior most teacher of the institution, in the next lower grade. The Management shall immediately inform the District Inspector of Schools of such promotion along with the particulars of the teacher so promoted.

(2) Where any vacancy referred to in clause (1) cannot be filled by promotion, due to non-availability of a teacher in the next lower grade in the institution, possessing the prescribed minimum qualifications, it shall be filled by direct recruitment in the manner laid down in clause (3).

(3)(i) The management shall intimate the vacancies to the District Inspector of Schools and shall also immediately notify the same on the notice board of the institution, requiring the candidates to apply to the manager of the institution along with the particulars given in Appendix 'B' to this Order. The selection shall be made on the basis of quality point marks specified in the Appendix to the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981, issued with Notification No. Ma-4993/XV-7-1(79)-1981, dated July 31, 1981, hereinafter to be referred to as the First Removal of Difficulties Order, 1981. The compilation of quality point marks shall be done under the personal supervision of the Head of Institution.

(ii) The names and particulars of the candidate selected and also of other candidates and the quality point marks allotted to them shall be forwarded by the manager to the District Inspector of Schools for his prior approval.

(iii) The District Inspector of Schools shall communicate his decision within seven days of the date of receipt of particulars by him failing which the Inspector will be deemed to have given his approval.

(iv) On receipt of the approval of the District Inspector of Schools or, as the case may be, on his failure to communicate his decision within seven days of the receipt of papers by him from the manager, the management shall appoint the selected candidate and an order of appointment shall be issued under the signature of the Manager.

Explanation.- For the purpose of this paragraph -

(i) the expression 'senior most' teacher means the teacher having longest continuous service in the institution in the Lecturer's grade or the Trained graduate (L.T.) grade, or Trained undergraduate (C.T.) grade or J.T.C. or B.T.C. grade, as the case may be;

(ii) in relation to institutions imparting instructions to women, the expression 'District Inspector of Schools' shall mean the 'Regional Inspectress of Girls Schools';

(iii) 'short term vacancy' means a vacancy which is not substantive and is of a limited duration." (emphasis added)

48. Para 3 of Second Order talks of duration of ad-hoc appointment made against short term vacancies and reads as under:-

"3. Duration of ad-hoc appointment. - Every appointment of a teacher under Paragraph 2 of this Order shall cease from the earliest of the following dates, namely :

(a) when the teacher, who was on leave or under suspension joins the post; or

(b) when the period of six months from the date of such ad-hoc appointment expires; or

(c) when the short-term vacancy otherwise ceases to exit."

(emphasis added)

49. Para 4 of Second Order provides that in respect of appointment of a Teacher in Para 2 of Second Order, it shall be subject to conditions laid down in Para 6 of First Order, which talks of "eligibility for appointment". In other words, even for ad-hoc appointment in a short term vacancy, same eligibility conditions were made applicable to ad-hoc appointment to be made in a substantive vacancy under First Order.

50. The Appendix of First Order providing process of quality point marks was also amended but for the purpose of issue in the present case, we are not concerned with the same, hence, escaping it.

51. Then comes U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Third) Order, 1982 (hereinafter referred to as "Third Order") vide notification dated 30.1.1982. This Order made amendments in para 3 and 4 of First Order and para 3 of Second Order by para 2 and 3 which read as under:-

"2. Substitution of Paragraph 3 and amendment in Paragraph 4 of the U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981. - In the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981, issued vide Notification No. Ma-4993/XV-7 - 1(79)- 1981, Lucknow, dated July 31, 1981, -

(i) for paragraph 3, the following paragraph shall be substituted namely :

"3. Every appointment of an ad-hoc teacher under paragraph 2 shall cease to have effect when a candidate recommended by the Commission or the Board, as the case may be, joins the post."

(ii) in paragraph 4, for sub-clause (a) of clause (1), the following sub-clause shall be substituted, namely :

"(a) in the case of an Intermediate College, by the senior most teacher of the institution in the Lecturers' grade and in the case of a High School, by the senior most teacher of the institution in the Trained Graduate (L.T.) Grade;"

3. Amendment of Paragraph 3 of the U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Second) Order, 1981. - In the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Second) Order, 1981, in paragraph 3, clause (b) shall be omitted." (emphasis added)

52. Next is U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Fourth) Order, 1982 (hereinafter referred to as "Fourth Order") vide notification dated 14.4.1982. This Order made amendment of paras 5 and 7 of First Order and not relevant for the issues in question. However, Statement of Object and Reasons given in Fourth Order show that even till 14.4.1982, when Fourth Order was issued, Commission or Selection Boards were not established.

53. Then we move to U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Fifth) Order 1982 (hereinafter referred to as "Fifth Order"), issued vide notification dated 13.7.1983. The aforesaid Order dealt with the appointments of Teachers in Schools/Colleges maintained by Zila Parishad through a Selection Committee to be constituted by Appointing Authority.

54. Last in chain is U.P. Secondary Education Service Commission (Removal of Difficulties) (Sixth) Order, 1983 (hereinafter referred to as "Sixth Order") vide notification dated 13.7.1983. It deals with the appointments in schools and colleges maintained by Nagar Maha Palika Parishad.

55. The provisions of First Ordinance except Section 21 were given effect from 14.7.1981. Since First Ordinance could not be transformed in an Act, hence, another Ordinance i.e. U.P. Ordinance No. 23 of 1981 (hereinafter referred to as "Second Ordinance") was issued. It was also given effect from 14.7.1981, except Section 21. The Second Ordinance also contained similar provisions as were in First Ordinance. Second Ordinance was published in U.P. Gazette (Extraordinary) dated 27.10.1981.

56. The Second Ordinance came to be replaced by Act, 1982 which received assent of President on 25.2.1982 published in U.P. Gazette (Extraordinary) dated 26.2.1982. It was given effect from 14.7.1981, except Section 21, which was left to be enforced on a date to be notified by State Government.

57. Section 16 of Act, 1982 provided that subject to the provisions of Section 18 and 33, every appointment of a Teacher, on or after 10.7.1981, shall be made on the recommendation of Commission/Board (as the case may be). Sub-section 2 of Section 16 declares appointment of a Teacher, made in contravention of Section 16(1), void. Section 18 permitted appointment of ad-hoc Teacher which is similar to Section 18 of First and Second Ordinance. Section 33 of Act, 1982 conferred power upon State Government to notify orders to remove difficulties for implementation of Act, 1982. Second Ordinance was repealed vide Section 36 of Act, 1982 but acts done or actions taken under both Ordinances, were preserved and it was declared that same shall be deemed to have been done or taken under Act, 1982. Relevant Sections 16, 18, 33, and 36 of Act, 1982 as initially existed are reproduced as under:

"16. Appointments to be made only on recommendations of the Commission or the Board.- (1) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 or the Regulations made thereunder but subject to the provisions of Sections 18 and 33-

(a) every appointment of a teacher specified in the Schedule shall, on or after July 10, 1981, be made by the management only on the recommendation of the Commission ;

(b) every appointment of a teacher (other than a teacher specified in the Schedule) shall, on or after July 10, 1981, be made by the management only on the recommendation of the Board:

Provided that in respect of retrenched employees, the provisions of Section 16-EE of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921, shall apply with the modification that in sub-section (2) of the aforesaid section, for the words 'six months' the words 'two years' shall be deemed to have been substituted.

(2) Every appointment of a teacher, in contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1), shall be void."

"18. Ad hoc Teachers.-(1) Where the management has notified a vacancy to the Commission in accordance with the provisions of this Act, and-

(a) the Commission has failed to recommend the name of any suitable candidate for being appointed as a teacher specified in the Schedule within one year from the date of such notification; or

(b) the post of such teacher has actually remained vacant for more than two months, then, the management may appoint, by direct recruitment or promotion, a teacher on purely ad hoc basis from amongst the persons possessing qualifications prescribed under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 or the regulations made thereunder

(2) The provision of sub-section (1) shall also apply to the appointment of a teacher (other than a teacher specified in the Schedule) on ad hoc basis with the substitution of the expression 'Board' for the expression "Commission".

(3) Every appointment of an ad hoc teacher under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) shall cease to have effect from the earliest of the following dates, namely-

(a) when the candidate recommended by the Commission or the Board, as the case may be, joins the post;

(b) when the period of one month referred to in sub-section (4) of Section 11 expires;

(c) thirtieth day of June following the date of such ad hoc appointment.

"33. Power to remove difficulties.-(1) The State Government may, for the purposes of removing any difficulty, by a notified order, direct that the provisions of this Act shall, during such period as may be specified in the order, have effect subject to such adaptations, whether by way of modification, addition or omission, as it may deem to be necessary or expedient:

Provided that no such order shall be made after two years from the date of commencement of this Act.

(2) Every order made under sub-section (1) shall be laid before both the Houses of State Legislature.

(3) No order under sub-section (1) shall be called in question in any court on the ground that no difficulty as is referred to in sub-section (1) existed or required to be removed."

"36. Repeal and savings.-- (1) The Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission and Selection Boards (Second) Ordinance, 1981 (U.P. Ordinance No. 23 of 1981, is hereby repealed.

(2) Notwithstanding such repeal, anything done or any action taken under the Ordinance referred to in sub-section (1) or the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission and Selection Boards Ordinance, 1981 (U.P. Ordinance No. 8 of 1981), shall be deemed to have been done or taken under this Act, as if this Act were in force at all material times." (emphasis added)

58. Section 18, a substantive provision permitting ad hoc appointments, in certain contingencies, also provided tenure of such ad hoc appointments. However, to some extent, the aforesaid tenure was not identical as that was provided in First and Second Order and difference in three may be summarized in the form of chart as under:

Tenure under section 18	Tenure under First Order	Tenure under Second Order
Upto 13.7.1992	(A) From 31.7.1981 to 10.9.1981	(A) From 11.9.1981 to 30.1.1982
(i) When candidate recommended by Commission/Board joins the post.	(i) When candidate recommended by Commission/Board Joins the post.	(i) When the teacher on leave or under suspension joins the post.

(ii) One month period referred to in section 11(4) expires.	(ii) Six months period from the date of ad hoc appointment expires	(ii) When six months period from the date of ad hoc appointment expires.
(iii) 30th June following the date of ad hoc ap-ointment	(B) From 11.9.1981 to 29.1.1982	(iii) When short term va-cancy otherwise ceases to exist.
	(i) Above tenure was confined to ad hoc ap-ointment against sub-stantive vacancies.	(B) From 31.1.1982 to 24.1.1999
w.e.f. 14.7.1992 (i) When candidate rec-ommended by Commission/Board joins.	(C) From 30.1.1982 to 13.7.1992	(i) When the teacher who was on leave or under suspension joins the post.
	(i) Candidate recom-mended by Commission/Board joins the post.	(ii) When short term va-cancy otherwise ceases to exist.

59. The tenure of ad hoc appointment as provided under Section 18 enacted in Act, 1982 initially remained shadowed by the tenure provided in First and Second Order by virtue of Section 33 read with Section 36 but when Section 18 itself was amended and substituted w.e.f. 14.07.1992 providing the contingencies of making substantive appointment the procedure for such appointment and tenure as also the otherwise provisions of Removal of Difficulties Orders ceased. Therefore, after Section 18 as amended and substituted w.e.f. 14.07.1992, virtually the provisions of First Order got substituted and thereafter ad hoc appointment against substantive vacancies had to be made as per Section 18 of Act, 1982. Somewhat similar condition continued after substitution of Section 18 w.e.f. 28.12.1994. However, in respect of short term vacancies, Second Order continued to remain in force till it was rescinded w.e.f. 25.01.1999. "

34. The Full Bench in the case of Jahaj Pal (supra) after examining the provisions of Removal of Difficulties Order vis-a-vis Section 18 of the Act of 1982 concluded that after 14.07.1992, the ad-hoc appointment against substantive vacancies can only be made as per Section 18 of the Act of 1982.

35. Section 18 substituted w.e.f. 28.12.1994 vide U.P. Act No. 15 of 1995 remained in force till it was further substituted/amended by U.P. Act No. 25 of 1998, which came into effect on 20.04.1998.

36. The amendment made by U.P. Act No. 25 of 1998 w.e.f. 20.04.1998 is not relevant in the present case, inasmuch as the petitioners were appointed between the period 28.12.1984 and 20.04.1998. The admitted position is that ad-hoc appointment of the petitioners on the post of Lecturer (Geography) and Lecturer (Biology) was made on substantive vacancies and, as such, should be in conformity with the provisions contained in Section 18 of the Act of 1982 as existing on the date of their ad-hoc appointment. It is an undisputed case of the petitioners that they were appointed by the Committee of Management not following the provisions contained in Section 18 of the Act of 1982 as existing on the date of their appointment, inasmuch as they were not selected by the Selection Committee referred to in sub-section (8) of Section 18, nor the vacancies were advertised following Sub-section (7). Thus, the ad-hoc appointment of the petitioners on the substantive vacancies was not as per the provisions contained in Section 18 of the Act of 1982 (as existing on the date of their appointment); hence, the ad-hoc appointment of the petitioners was illegal and void ab initio.

37. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Shesh Mani Shukla Vs District Inspector of Schools, Deoria (2009 15 SCC 436), while dealing with the claim of a person whose appointment was not in accordance with the provisions of the First Order, held as hereunder:-

"19. It is true that the appellant has worked for a long time. His appointment, however, being in contravention of the statutory provision was illegal, and thus, void ab initio. If his appointment has not been granted approval by the statutory authority, no exception can be taken only because the appellant had worked for a long time. The same by itself, in our opinion, cannot form the basis for obtaining a writ of or in the nature of mandamus; as it is well known that for the said purpose, the writ petitioner must establish a legal right in himself and a corresponding legal duty in the State. (See Food Corpn. of India v. Ashish Kumar Ganguly, (2009) 7 SCC 734. Sympathy or sentiments alone, it is well settled, cannot form the basis for issuing a writ of or in the nature of mandamus. (See State of M.P. v. Sanjay Kumar Pathak, (2008) 1 SCC 456)I."

38. A similar view has been adopted by the Supreme Court in Pramod Kumar Vs U P Secondary Education Services Commission : (2008) 7 SCC 153, where it has been held that:

"18. ...An appointment which is contrary to the statute/statutory rules would be void in law. An illegality cannot be regularized, particularly, when the statute in no unmistakable term says so. Only an irregularity can be. [See Secy., State of Karnataka v. Umadevi (3), (2006) 4 SCC 1, National Fertilizers Ltd. v. Somvir Singh (2006) 5 SCC 493 and Post Master General, Kolkata v. Tutu Das (Dutta), (2007) 5 SCC 317.]"

39. The argument of the counsel for the petitioners that the petitioners are working continuously since their appointment, i.e., on 01.07.1997, and they are also getting salary in terms of the interim order dated 14.12.2005 passed in the instant writ petition, and hence, they are entitled for regularization under Section 33-G of the Act of 1982, is also misconceived, inasmuch as when the initial appointment itself is void and bad in law, then no such direction can be given for regularization solely on the basis that the petitioners are continuously working on their posts since the date of their initial appointment (though the respondents have denied their continuous working in view of the fact that the Committee of Management has declared them as surplus and the State Government has not absorbed them).

40. Learned counsel for the petitioners has laid much emphasis on the fact that the petitioners fulfill the conditions mentioned in Section 33-G of the Act of 1982 for consideration of regularization and that they have been continuously serving the institution from the date of such appointment and, as such, deserve to be given substantive appointment. In this regard, it would be appropriate to refer to paragraphs 173 to 177 of the judgment passed by the Full Bench in the case of Jahaj Pal (supra), which read as under:-

"173. The argument in fact ask to ignore a blatant breach of law that the beneficiaries of such breach should be given benefit. The mere fact of continuing in service ignoring statutory provision is of no legal consequence. None can claim a benefit arising from an illegality which continued to be flouted by them. In the cases where continuance was on account of interim orders passed by Court, argument suggests that the principle of Actus Curiae Neminem Gravabit should be ignored and an interim order of Court should be read as if it has conferred different right upon the beneficiary though ultimately his continuance was found erroneous and illegal and contrary to statutory provision contained in Para 3 of Second Order. We have no hesitation in rejecting this submission.

174. We find that term "continuously serving the Institution from the date of such appointment up to the date of commencement" in Section 33-B(1)(c) cannot be read as an illegal continuance or continuance pursuant to a judicial order which subsequently merges with final order where termination from the initial date when it was stayed, is found to be valid. In fact, we find answer to this aspect in Supreme Court decision in Committee of Management, Arya Nagar Inter College, Arya Nagar, Kanpur through its Manager and another Vs. Sree Kumar Tiwary and another (1997) 4 SCC 388. Therein, in a short-term vacancy, Sree Kumar Tiwary was appointed as ad hoc teacher on 01.07.1986. Short-term vacancy caused due to promotion of incumbent concerned on ad hoc basis to the next higher post. The said teacher, who was promoted on ad hoc basis, retired on 30.06.1988, therefore, in view of Para 3 of Second Order, Sree Kumar Tiwari, who was appointed on ad hoc basis in a short term vacancy, ceased, and came to be terminated. He challenged termination in writ petition before this Court wherein an interim order was passed. Subsequently, writ petition was dismissed but, in the meantime, giving benefit of Section 33-B(1)(a)(i) of Act, 1982, Sree Kumar Tiwari, who was continuing on the basis of interim order, was regularized. The question arose before Apex Court whether, as contemplated in Section 33-B(1)(a)(i)(c), allowing condition that incumbent must have continued to serve the Institution from the date of ad hoc appointment till the date Section 33-B came into force i.e. 07.08.1998. Supreme Court held that Sree Kumar Tiwari had continued by virtue of stay order and not by virtue of his own right under an order of appointment. Court held that continuation on the basis of interim order will not help Sree Kumar Tiwari and in view of Para 3 of Second Order, since he stood terminated on 30.06.1988 when short-term vacancy was converted into substantive vacancy, he was not entitled to claim benefit of Section 33-B, which was not in existence on that day, but, came to be enforced on 07.08.1993. The above decision makes it clear that requirement of "continuously serving the Institution on the date of commencement of Section 33-B" does not refer to illegal continuance or founded on some judicial order but must be by virtue of own right of incumbent concerned and a valid continuation.

175. Even otherwise, no interpretation of statutory provision can be made, which may encourage blatant breach of statute. When a person is bound to cease to continue as ad-hoc appointee, if any condition under Para 3 of Second Order is attracted, he could not have validly continued thereafter, at all. His legal termination comes into effect by operation of law. A declaration has been made in statutory provision about cessation and that has to be given effect to if rule of law has to prevail.

176. Sometimes, in a litigation initiated by a person who faces cessation of ad-hoc appointment under such statutory provision, an interim order is passed, the test would be whether date on which the incumbent ceased, was valid or not. If cessation was valid and final relief of declaring such cessation to be illegal cannot be granted, then the mere fact that such incumbent has continued on the basis of interim order will not amount to a new cause of action to such a person and such continuance cannot be read in order to give benefit under Section 33-B of Act, 1982.

177. The question, whether an interim order can confer a new right, which is not otherwise ultimately found in favour of such beneficiary and the case found liable for dismissal, has been considered time and again and issue has been answered against such beneficiaries. We do not propose to burden this judgment with all such authorities and we refer to a judgment of Apex Court dealing with this issue directly. In Raghvendra Rao etc. Vs. State of Karnataka and others, JT 2009 (2) SC 520 Court has observed:

"It is now a well-settled principle of law that merely because an employee had continued under cover of an order of Court, he would not be entitled to any right to be absorbed or made permanent in the service."

41. Though the judgment in the case of Jahaj Pal (supra) is in reference to Section 33-B of the Act of 1982, it is equally applicable in the facts and circumstances of the present case in reference to Section 33-G of the Act of 1982, as the only substantive difference between Section 33-B and Section 33-G is in reference to the cut-off dates for consideration of regularization.

42. The reliance of the learned counsel for the petitioners on the judgment dated 30.09.2024 passed in the case of Vinod Kumar Srivastava (supra) is also misconceived, as the directions contained in the said case would have applied only if it had been the case that the initial appointment of the petitioners made against substantive vacancies was as per the statutory provisions contained in Section 18 of the Act of 1982, i.e., that their appointments were in accordance with the law as existing on the date of initial appointment on 01.07.1997.

43. Reliance placed by learned counsel for the petitioners upon Section 16(E)(11) of the Act, 1921 is also misconceived and without any basis, as Section 16(E)(11) is for short-term vacancies, whereas the appointment of the petitioners was made on substantive vacancies.

44. In view of the above discussion, it can be succinctly summarised as hereunder:

(a) The ad-hoc appointment of the petitioners was made on substantive vacancies falling vacant due to retirements of serving incumbents, which could have been filled up only after following the procedure prescribed in Section 18 of the Act of 1982, as amended by U.P. Act No. 15 of 1995.

(b) The ad-hoc appointment of the petitioners was in gross violation of sub-section (7) & (8) of Section 18 of the Act of 1982, as amended by U.P. Act No. 15 of 1995, inasmuch as neither the vacancies were advertised as per sub-section (7) nor the selections were made by the Selection Committee constituted as per sub-section (8). Thus, the ad-hoc appointments of the petitioners were illegal and void ab initio.

(c) The petitioners cannot be extended the benefit of Section 33-G of the Act of 1982 as their initial appointment on ad-hoc basis was dehors the statutory provisions and illegal, being void ab initio.

(d) The term "continuously serving the institution from the date of such appointment up to the date of commencement" in Section 33-G (1) (c) refers to continuous service based on a valid appointment on ad-hoc basis. It does not encompass within it a continuity in service based on an illegal appointment on ad-hoc basis, dehors the statutory provisions, even though such continuity is based on interim order passed in judicial proceedings, as held in para 174 of the judgment passed by the Full Bench (five judges) of this Court while interpreting a similar provision contained in Section 33-B (1) (c) of the Act of 1982.

45. The writ petition stands dismissed. No order as to costs.

Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. This petition is directed against order 19.09.2025 passed by the Armed Forces Tribunal, Principal Bench, New Delhi.

2. The petitioners had filed Original Applications ('OAs') before the Tribunal under Section 14 of the Armed Forces Tribunal Act, 2007 whereby they were discharged from service locally on academic grounds and prayed for quashing of the impugned order, seeking reinstatement with all consequential benefits.

3. The OAs filed by the petitioners were heard along with few other OAs and the Tribunal by the order impugned came to the conclusion that the OAs were devoid of merit and consequently, dismissed the same. Aggrieved of the order passed by the Principal Bench of the Tribunal at New Delhi, the present petition has been filed.

4. Counsel for the respondents raised preliminary objection that as the order impugned has been passed by the Principal Bench of the Tribunal at New Delhi, this Court does not have the territorial jurisdiction to hear the matter.

5. Submissions have been made that the applicants in other OAs have already approached Delhi High Court, wherein counter affidavit has been called and to avoid conflicting decision qua the same common impugned order also, the petition be not entertained by this Court at Allahabad.

6. Counsel for the petitioners contested the submissions made. It has been submitted that in terms of Rule 6 of the Armed Forces Tribunal (Procedure) Rules, 2008 ('Rules, 2008'), the OA could have been filed with the Bench of the Tribunal within whose jurisdiction the petitioner was last posted or where the cause of action wholly or in part had arisen. However, sub-rule (2) of Rule 6 of the Rules, 2008 provides that a person who is ceased to be in service by reason of his retirement, dismissal, discharge at his option can file an application with the Bench of the Tribunal within whose jurisdiction such person is ordinarily residing at the time of filing of the application.

7. Submissions have been made that in fact the Original Application could only be filed before the Bench of the Tribunal at Visakhapatnam or based on the residence of the petitioner nos. 2, 3 & 4 with Bench at Lucknow and in view of the provisions of Rule 6 of the Rules, 2008 as the petition could have been filed at Lucknow, this Court would have jurisdiction to hear the matter.

8. Reliance has been placed on judgement in Punjab National Bank v. Shri Sakhroo Ram and others : Writ Petition No. 10385 of 2013 decided on 08.12.2025 by Madhya Pradesh High Court at Jabalpur Bench, Union of India and others v. Parashotam Dass : 2023 INSC 265, Paritosh Kumar v. Union of India and others : 2013 (9) ADJ 1, U.P. Rashtriya Chini Mills Limited v. State of U.P. and others : 1995(4) SCC 738 and Nasiruddin v. State Transport Appellate Authority : 1975(2) SCC 671.

9. Counsel for the respondents submitted that one of the petitioners Sachin Kumar son of Saheb Singh is not even the resident of Uttar Pradesh and that the issue would be governed by judgement in Rajendra Kumar Mishra v. Union of India and others : (2005) 1 UPLBEC 108.

10. We have considered the submissions made by counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

11. The issue, as raised in the present matter, is no more res-integra as Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India v. Alapan Bandyopadhyay : (2022) 3 SCC 133, while dealing with the said aspect with reference to Constitution Bench judgement in L. Chandra Kumar v. Union of India : (1997) 3 SCC 261 inter-alia came to the following conclusion :

"37. Further, it was held thus: (L. Chandra Kumar case)

"99. ...The jurisdiction conferred upon the High Courts under Articles 226/227 and upon the Supreme Court under Article 32 of the Constitution is part of the inviolable basic structure of our Constitution. While this jurisdiction cannot be ousted, other Courts and Tribunals may perform a supplemental role in discharging the powers conferred by Articles 226/227 and 32 of the Constitution. The Tribunals created under Article 323-A and Article 323-B of the Constitution are possessed of the competence to test the constitutional validity of statutory provisions and rules. All decisions of these Tribunals will, however, be subject to scrutiny before a Division Bench of the High Court within whose jurisdiction the Tribunal concerned falls."

38. When once a Constitution Bench of this Court declared the law that “all decisions of Tribunals created under Article 323-A and Article 323-B of the Constitution will be subject to the scrutiny before a Division Bench of the High Court within whose jurisdiction the Tribunal concerned falls”, it is impermissible to make any further construction on the said issue. The expression “all decisions of these Tribunals” used by the Constitution Bench will cover and take within its sweep orders passed on applications or otherwise in the matter of transfer of Original Applications from one Bench of the Tribunal to another Bench of the Tribunal in exercise of the power under Section 25 of the Act.

40. The law thus declared by the Constitution Bench cannot be revisited by a Bench of lesser quorum or for that matter by the High Courts by looking into the bundle of facts to ascertain whether they would confer territorial jurisdiction to the High Court within the ambit of Article 226(2) of the Constitution. We are of the considered view that taking another view would undoubtedly result in indefiniteness and multiplicity in the matter of jurisdiction in situations when a decision passed under Section 25 of the Act is to be called in question especially in cases involving multiple parties residing within the jurisdiction of different High Courts albeit aggrieved by one common order passed by the Chairman at the Principal Bench at New Delhi.”

12. It would be seen that Hon'ble Supreme Court with reference to the Constitution Bench judgement in the case of L. Chandra Kumar (Supra) came to a categorical conclusion that all decisions of Tribunals will be subject to the scrutiny before a Division Bench of the High Court 'within whose jurisdiction the Tribunal concerned falls'.

13. The Court further observed that the law declared by the Constitution Bench cannot be revisited by the High Courts by looking into the bundle of facts to ascertain whether they would confer territorial jurisdiction to the High Court within the ambit of Article 226(2) of the Constitution of India.

14. It was emphasized that if order passed by Principal Bench at New Delhi is to be called in question in cases involving multiple parties residing within the jurisdiction of different High Courts aggrieved by one common order, the same would result in indefiniteness and multiplicity. The said determination squarely applies to the present case.

15. In fact, in a case of present matter, Hon'ble Supreme Court indicated that the High Court should have confined its consideration to decide its own territorial jurisdiction without reference to the bundle of facts constituting the cause of action for filing Original Application in terms of Rule 6(2) of the Rules, 2008 involved therein, which is identical to the Rule cited by counsel for the petitioners.

16. The observations read as under :

“32. When once the High Court found the order impugned as one passed by the Principal Bench we have no hesitation to hold that the High Court should have confined its consideration firstly, to decide its own territorial jurisdiction for exercising the power of judicial review over the order dated 22.10.2021 passed by the Principal Bench in Personnel, Public Grievances and Pensions v. Alapan Bandyopadhyay in the correct perspective, without reference to the bundle of facts constituting the cause of action for filing O.A. No. 1619 of 2021 before the Kolkata Bench of the Tribunal founded on the cause of action referred to in Rule 6(2) of the Procedure Rules that decides the place of filing of an O.A."

17. In view of the above categorical law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court, we have no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that as the order impugned has been passed by the Principal Bench of the Tribunal, New Delhi, this Court would lack territorial jurisdiction to hear challenge to the said order.

18. So far as the judgements cited by counsel for the petitioners are concerned, the same have no application to the subject matter of the present case as in the case of Parashotam Dass (Supra), the only issue before the Hon'ble Supreme Court was maintainability of writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India against orders passed by the Armed Forces Tribunal.

19. The judgement in the case of Paritosh Kumar (Supra) deals with the dispute pertaining to the maintainability of proceedings before the Principal Seat and Bench. The judgement in the case of U.P. Rashtriya Chini Mills Limited (Supra) pertains to Article 226(2) of the Constitution of India qua which in the case of Alapan Bandyopadhyay (Supra), Hon'ble Supreme Court has clearly ruled that the said aspect need not be gone into.

20. Similarly, the judgement in the case of Nasiruddin (Supra), also inter-alia deals with maintainability of matters between Principal Seat and the Bench.

21. Judgement in the case of Sakhroo Ram (Supra) of the Madhya Pradesh High Court deals with a case where appellate jurisdiction for several States is conferred on one authority situated at other State, which is not the case here.

22. In view of above discussion, following the judgement in the case of Alapan Bandyopadhyay (Supra), it is held that the writ petition filed by the petitioners for lack of territorial jurisdiction is not maintainable before this Court. The same is, therefore, dismissed, leaving it open for the petitioners to approach appropriate forum in accordance with law.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE IRSHAD ALI, J.

Writ A No. 2968 of 2010

Pramod Kumar

...Petitioner

Versus

Union Of India

...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

- (1) Applicability of doctrine of proportionality in the matter of removal order passed on the charges of absent from duty.
- (2) Effect of non supply of enquiry report and not issuing show cause notice before passing the removal order.
- (3) Permissibility of awarding dwell punishment under the service jurisprudence

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Removal from service – Constable in CISE – Disciplinary proceeding – Quantum of punishment – Doctrine of proportionality – Applicability – Due to serious illness of mother and due to dislocation of right elbow of himself, the petitioner sought leave –However during illness, the charge sheet was issued – Charge of absent from duty was leveled – Reply was submitted, but was not considered – Enquiry was conducted exparte – No opportunity to defend including cross examine the witnesses was given – Effect: (E-1)

Held: Fairness and reasonableness in the action of the State whether in a criminal proceeding or otherwise are the hallmark of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. The doctrine of proportionality is one of the grounds on the basis whereof the power of judicial review could be exercised – The punishment awarded to the petitioner is disproportionate to the charges levelled against him as well as the absence from duties was on the medical grounds, which was to be taken into consideration while passing the order of removal. [Para 26 and 29]

Further held: Non supply of enquiry report with the show cause notice is violation of principle of natural justice and the order based on non-supply enquiry report with the show cause suffers from illegality and is not sustainable in the eye of law. [Para 33]

(B) Service jurisprudence – Dwell punishment – Deduction of salary and removal from service for the same charges were awarded – Permissibility: (E-1)

Held: The punishment awarded to the petitioner is dwell in nature, one by deducting salary and another by initiating disciplinary proceeding and removal from service, both cannot be initiated against an employee, by the respondents. Once salary was deducted there was no justification to initiate disciplinary proceeding on the same charges – This action of the respondents are wholly illegal, arbitrary and per se illegal. [Para 34 and 37]

Case Arising From

Impugned removal order dated 28.05.2007 passed by the Disciplinary Authority and order dated 04.02.2008 passed by the appellate authority and order dated 12.01.2009 passed by the revisional authority.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant: Padmesh Jain, Ashok Kumar, Colonel Ashok Kumar, L K Pathak, Radhika Singh, Rohit Kumar, Yatish Gupta, Richa Mishra.

Advs. for the Respondents: A.S.G., I.H. Farooqui, Raj Kumar Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Mrs. Radhika Singh has filed her Vakalatnama on behalf of the petitioner, which is taken on record.

2. Heard Mrs. Radhika Singh along with Mrs. Richa Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Raj Kumar Singh, learned counsel for all the respondents.

3. Mrs. Radhika Singh has filed written submission in the matter.

4. The present writ petition has been filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India challenging the impugned order dated 28.05.2007, Annexure No.1 to the writ petition, passed by the Disciplinary Authority, whereby the petitioner has been removed from service, an appeal was filed against the order of removal, which has also been dismissed, vide order dated 04.02.2008, Annexure No.2 to the writ petition. Against the order passed in appeal, revision was filed before the revisional authority i.e. opposite party no.3, which has also been rejected, vide order dated 12.01.2009, Annexure no.3 to the writ petition.

5. Factual matrix of the case is that the petitioner was appointed as a Constable in CISE (Central Industrial Security Force) on 18.06.1994 and had rendered about 13 years of long and satisfactory service. During the course of service in 1998, the petitioner's mother, aged about 65 years, fell seriously ill and remained under continuous treatment from time to time, including during the years 2003-2004. On compelling family circumstances, the petitioner sought transfer in the year 2001, however, the same was not considered. Instead, he was transferred from Hoshangabad to Anpara and thereafter to Varanasi Airport, vide order dated 30.11.2004. Despite the recommendation of Airport Commandant dated 14.0.8.2005 for immediate need of the petitioner, so that he could manage the treatment of his ailing and aged mother, ignored by the authorities, compelling the petitioner to avail leave during the period of 2001-2004, including leave without pay. The petitioner himself suffered serious ailments and remained on medical rest from 08.10.2005 to 12.10.2005 and thereafter continued to remain under medical treatment. Subsequently, due to the serious illness of his mother, the petitioner applied for leave w.e.f. 30.01.2006, which was also denied despite the opportunity of leave. In July, 2006, the petitioner again suffered a serious injury (dislocation of right elbow) and remained under continuous medical treatment from 14.07.2006 and advised rest on 25.07.2006 and further he was treated on 05.08.2006 and ultimately declared medically fit only on 25.01.2007.

6. During the period of illness a charge sheet was issued to the petitioner on 25.07.2006, which was served upon the petitioner on 21.01.2007. The petitioner submitted his reply on 23.02.2007 and further, vide representation dated 25.02.2007 and 27.02.2007 supplemented his reply. Inquiry was conducted with predetermination manner and effectively exparte order without giving opportunity of hearing to the petitioner was passed. The entire disciplinary action arose from 8.10.2005 to 12.10.2005 (5 days), 13.10.2005 to 27.12.2005 (76 days) and 30.01.2006 to 27.04.2006 (88 days).

7. The aforesaid medical leave were neither wilful or deliberate, but were occasioned due to compelling circumstances of the petitioner and his mother. The petitioner submitted medical certificate in reply given by him.

8. Without taking into consideration the reply submitted by the petitioner, an order of removal dated 28.05.2007 (Annexure No.1 to the writ petition) has been passed, which reveals that why ignorance, the petitioner has taken medical leave and has submitted medical documents, it proceed to treat the entire period of absence as misconduct without properly appreciating the medical condition and without assigning cogent reasons for discarding the medical evidence. The order further indicates that notices were allegedly sent and even affixed, which itself casts serious doubt on proper and effective service and consequently on the fairness of the inquiry proceedings. Against the order of removal dated 28.05.2007 an appeal was filed, which has also been rejected, vide order dated 04. 02.2008 and revision filed against order, has also been dismissed, vide order dated 12.01.2009.

9. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that copy of the inquiry report was not supplied to the petitioner along with show cause notice issued to him and this fact has been admitted in the impugned order of dismissal as well as in the order of appeal as well as in the revision. By stating that along with notice inquiry report was sent to the residential address of the petitioner, which could not be served upon him. The statement of fact in this regard has been made in paragraph 8 of the rejoinder affidavit, which has been replied in paragraphs 6 and 7 of the supplementary counter affidavit and there is no denial in regard to the statement of the fact made in rejoinder affidavit. Only statement of fact was made that in spite of best effort the notice could not be served due to nonavailability of the petitioner at the address given. However, the statement of fact made in the order of removal clearly indicate that notice was sent at the residential address of the petitioner at Lucknow, which was not served with the remark that it was incumbent upon the disciplinary authority to serve notice along with the inquiry report to the petitioner while he was on service.

10. It is further evident that inquiry was conducted exparte w.e.f. 17.01.2007 whereas the petitioner was served with relevant document only on 21.01.2007- 27.1.2007 clearly demonstrate denial of opportunity to the petitioner.

11. It is specifically stated that whenever the petitioner appeared before the Inquiry Officer, no effective opportunity to defend including cross examination of the witness was granted and the enquiry proceedings were conducted in predetermined mind. It is further submitted that the disclosure a serious procedural illegality in as much as the Inquiry Officer submitted a report on 26.2.2007 immediately after receiving the petitioner's reply dated 25.2.2007, which clearly indicate that the reply was not considered and inquiry report was pre decided, therefore the proceedings vitiated on coconut of non application of mind and colorable exercise of power.

12. Mrs. Radhika Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner next submitted that it is admitted position that copy of the enquiry report was not supplied to the petitioner and no show cause notice in regard to the proceeding of punishment was issued before passing the order of removal on 28.05.2007. Whereby mandatory requirement of reasonable opportunity was denied to the petitioner. She next submits that the impugned order further proceeds on presumptions rather than evidence that questions the genuineness of illness without any medical rebuttal or expert opinion which had already been separately punished by deducting salary for the leave granted to the petitioner.

13. She next submits that in the counter affidavit attempted to justify the impugned action by alleging that the petitioner is a habitual absentee. However, such reliance on past conduct is wholly impermissible in law when the same does not form part of the charge sheet. The petitioner in his rejoinder affidavit has categorically denied the proper service of notices and specifically stated that Hindi version of charge sheet and inquiry notice never effected upon the petitioner and the alleged service of his native place cannot be treated as valid service, when he was posted elsewhere.

14. The appellate authority in its order dated 04.02.2008 and the revisional authority vide order dated 12.01.2009 have also failed to consider the aforesaid material irregularities and have passed cryptic and non-speaking orders in a mechanical manner, whereby affirming the illegality committed by the disciplinary authority.

15. She next submits that punishment imposed upon the petitioner is shockingly disproportionate misconduct pertains only to absence under compelling medical and family circumstances, yet the petitioner has been inflicted with the extreme penalty of removal from service, which amounts to civil death. It is settled law that absence from duty does not amount to misconduct unless it is wilful and deliberate, and even otherwise, the punishment must be commensurate with the gravity of misconduct. In the present case, the penalty imposed is wholly excessive, arbitrary and violative of the doctrine of proportionality.

16. She next submits that the petitioner had rendered long and satisfactory service since 1994 and had earned rewards and appreciations during his service career, which have not been considered by the authorities while imposing the extreme punishment.

17. She next submits that from combined reading of the writ petition, counter affidavit and rejoinder affidavit, it is evident that the impugned orders suffer from violation of principles of natural justice, non application of mind, reliance on irrelevant considerations, disregard of relevant material and imposition of disproportionate punishment.

18. On the other hand in support of submissions rendered by Ms. Radhika Singh, she placed reliance in the case of Sheel Kumar Roy v. Secretary, Ministry of Defence & others (2007)12 SCC 462 and has placed reliance on paragraphs 4, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 22.

19. She further placed reliance in the case of Dr. Sunil Kumar Singh v. Bihar Legislative Council and others:(2026)2 SCC 364. She placed reliance on paragraphs no. 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47.

20. Shri Raj Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondents submits that the disciplinary authority has tried to serve enquiry report and show cause notice but due to non availability of the petitioner, the same could not be served. He further submits that the impugned order of removal, appellate order as well as revisional order do not suffer from any infirmity and just and valid order. He next submits that the reply to the averment made in paragraph 8 of the rejoinder affidavit, supplementary counter affidavit was filed and it was denied that the petitioner has not receive show cause notice along with enquiry report due to nonavailability of his address. Enquiry report was served in the impugned order of removal there is recital that the petitioner submitted representation against the show cause notice and enquiry report, therefore, the averment made in paragraph 8 of the rejoinder affidavit, are incorrect and not admissible in the eye of law.

21. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record as well as the judgement relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner as well as by Shri Raj Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondents on the point of doctrine as of proportionality denial of paragraphs 39 and 40 of the writ petition.

22. I have heard learned counsel for the petitioner as well as Shri Raj Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondents and perused the judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the parties. For deciding controversy involved in the present writ petition relevant paragraph of the judgment are being quoted below:-

The relevant paragraphs 4, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 22 of Sheel Kumar Roy v. Secretary, Ministry of Defence & Others: (2007) 12 SCC 462 is reproduced herein below for the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court:

"4. The medical recategorisation which was to take place on or about 21-10-1987 was delayed. He continued to be on medical leave and was categorised to be in CEE category for six months.

Thereafter he went on leave as a part of annual leave, but he allegedly overstayed for about 96 days. Some punishment was imposed on him by an order dated 5-12-1989. He prior to joining his present posting, was posted in another unit on 20-1-1990. ?? was allegedly found fit to join his duties. He was again summarily tried and awarded three days' pay fine despite the fact that his medical recategorisation had not been done timely. He was admitted to Medical Hospital, Ambala from 13-5-1990 to 7-6-1990 for medical recategorisation. He was granted casual leave for the period of 7-6-1990 to 18-6-1990 to visit his family, but he allegedly overstayed his leave again for 20 days, even though there is nothing to show as to whether he had been declared fit for joining his duties or not There is also nothing on record to show that any action was taken against him in respect thereof but admittedly he was admitted to Medical Hospital. Ambala for medical recategorisation. He was transferred to Command Hospital (Western Command) on 16-7-1990.

16. In any event, the respondents themselves should have explained in their counter-affidavit as to why the recommendations of the court of enquiry were not accepted. Once it is held that for the period of the purported absence in question or a part thereof he had not been absconding but was admitted in Military Hospital. Ambala Cantt, the matter deserved a deeper scrutiny at the hands of the competent authority. The movement orders in respect of the appellant who had been described as a patient clearly shows that he was admitted in Ambala Cantt Hospital on 11-7-1990. The movement order furthermore shows that he was also transferred to Chandigarh Hospital.

17. Fairness and reasonableness in the action of the State whether in a criminal proceeding or otherwise are the hallmark of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. The doctrine of proportionality is one of the grounds on the basis whereof the power of judicial review could be exercised. It was so held in Ex-Naik Sardar Singh v. Union of India [(1991) 3 SCC 213].

18. We may also notice that in Ranjit Thakur v. Union of India [(1987) 4 SCC 611] this Court held: (SCC p. 620, para 25)

"25 The question of the choice and quantum of punishment is within the jurisdiction and discretion of the court martial. But the sentence has to suit the offence and the offender. It should not be vindictive or unduly harsh. It should not be so disproportionate to the offence as to shock the conscience and amount in itself to conclusive evidence of bias. The doctrine of proportionality, as part of the concept of judicial review, would ensure that even on an aspect which is, otherwise, within the exclusive province of the court martial, if the decision of the court even as to sentence is an outrageous defiance of logic, then the sentence would not be immune from correction. Irrationality and perversity are recognised grounds of judicial review."

19. We although agree with the learned Additional Solicitor General that it is legally permissible to award more than one punishment in terms of Section 71 of the Act but we may notice that Section 39(a) specifically deals with the misconduct in respect of absence without leave. It is one thing to say that legally it is permissible to impose more than one punishments but then also it is another thing that in exercising the said power all attending situations which fell for consideration by the punishing authority in regard to the quantum thereof would not be taken into consideration. It is clear that the Commanding Officer in the summary court-martial proceedings failed to take into consideration the relevant fact and, thus, committed an error apparent on the face of the record. We are also of the opinion that in a case of this nature, imposition of both punishment of rigorous imprisonment for six years as also dismissal from service was wholly arbitrary in nature. It is also vitiated in law as all relevant facts were not taken into consideration.

22. Once it is held that arbitrariness of the Commanding Officer in the matter of holding the appellant and awarding punishment upon him is apparent on the face of the record, the impugned order must be held to be wholly unsustainable."

The relevant paragraphs 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 of Dr Sunil Kumar Singh v. Bihar Legislative Council and Others: (2026) 2 SCC 364 is reproduced herein below for the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court:

"(i) Service and Labour Laws

41. This Court has time and again highlighted the importance of proportionality when dealing with the question of punishment or disciplinary action for misconduct at the workplace, whether it be in public service or private organisations. The nature of the misconduct, the circumstances of the occurrence, the history and effect of the incident are all factors which ought to be taken into consideration.

42. For example, in Dev Singh v. Punjab Tourism Dev Corpn. Ltd [Dev Singh v. Punjab Tourism Dev Corpn. Ltd. (2003) 8 SCC 9 2003 SCC (L&S) 1198]. a public servant was penalised with dismissal from service for the offence of misplacing and losing an official file. This Court, in appeal, considered the facts that the employee was serving the Corporation for twenty years with a previously unblemished record, the misconduct was not deliberate or motivated, and the file was not shown to be of grave importance or sensitivity, reduced the punishment to withholding of increment of the employee. On the other hand, in a case involving a delinquent employee who did not join duty upon transfer, the Court considered his extended absence of over 233 days and his refusal to visit the appointed doctor to substantiate his claim for medical absence, and concluded that the punishment of removal from service was proportionate to the misdemeanour [LIC v. R Dhandapani, (2006) 13 SCC 613 (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 150]

43. Thus, service laws in India are riddled with such like precedents, mandating employers, including the Government, to take all circumstances into account and undertake proportionate action against such offences.

(ii) Administrative law

44. also places great importance on approaching decision-making with proportionality. For instance, blacklisting from government tender auctions, which is a harsh punishment is considered proportionate in dire cases, such as where the contractor has embezzled funds in collusion with government employees. [Kulja Industries Ltd. v. Western Telecom Project BSNL, (2014) 14 SCC 731] However, this Court has also protected contract awardees from withdrawal of the contract on mere hypertechnical grounds [City & Industrial Development Corpn of Maharashtra Ltd. v. Shishir Realty (P) Ltd., (2022) 16 SCC 527]

45. Even beyond government auction, proportionality ought to go to the root of decision-making by the Government The litmus test that needs to be administered is whether the harshest or strongest measure is necessarily required to be implemented in a given case In a situation where a lessee was in default of lease premium, rent, and interest due to underdeveloped surroundings, this Court held that the harsh step of resumption of the land as well as forfeiture of the already paid sum would be too harsh, when recovery proceedings are available. [Teri Oat Estates (P) Ltd. v. State (UT of Chandigarh), (2004) 2 SCC 130] On the other hand, this Court has also upheld the stronger step taken by the Railway Recruitment Board for re-test of limited candidates, when there was evidence of paper leaking and mass-cheating [All India Railway Recruitment Board v. K Shyam Kumar, (2010) 6 SCC 614 (2010) 2 SCC (L&S) 293]

(iii) Constitutional law

46. Constitutional law is perhaps the area of law where the term "proportionality" is used most commonly. This is so because the proportionality test, initially identified in Modern Dental College & Research Centre v. State of M.P [Modern Dental College & Research Centre v. State of M.P. (2016) 7 SCC 353 7 SCEC 1]? is widely used to consider the vires of legislative as well as executive actions.

47. The test of proportionality, thus, applies to cases where action is brought to protect the right guaranteed by the Constitution or other laws It largely seeks to identify whether the restriction sought to be placed on the right is proportionate to the objective sought to be achieved by the restriction. It often belies a comparison between the importance of the public purpose of the restriction on one hand and the public right on the other hand."

23. On perusal of the judgement referred herein above, it is apparent on record that the supply of enquiry report along with show cause notice is relevant material to be considered in deciding the controversy involved in the case.

24. The medical re-categorization which was to take place on or about 21.10.1987 was delayed. He continued to be on medical leave and was categorized to be in CEE category for six months. Thereafter he went on leave as a part of annual leave, but he allegedly overstayed for about 96 days. Some punishment was imposed on him by an order dated 5.12.1989. He prior to joining his present posting, was posted in another unit on 20.1.1990. He was alleged found fit to join his duties. He was again summarily tried and awarded three days' pay fine despite the fact that his medical re-categorization had not been done timely. He was admitted to Medical Hospital, Ambala from 13.5.1990 to 7.6.1990 for medical re-categorization. He was granted casual leave for the period of 7.6.1990 to 18.6.1990 to visit his family, but he allegedly overstayed his leave again for 20 days, even though there is nothing to show as to whether he had been declared fit for joining his duties or not. There is also nothing on record to show that any action was taken against him in respect thereof but admittedly he was admitted to Medical Hospital, Ambala for medical re-categorization. He was transferred to Command Hospital (Western Command) on 16.7.1990.

25. In any event, the respondents themselves should have explained in their counter affidavit as to why the recommendations of the court of enquiry were not accepted. Once it is held that for the period of the purported absence in question or a part thereof he had not been absconding but was admitted in Military Hospital, Ambala Cantt., the matter deserved a deeper scrutiny at the hands of the competent authority. The movement orders in respect of the appellant who had been described as a patient clearly shows that he was admitted in Ambala Cantt. Hospital on 11.7.1990. The movement order further more shows that he was also transferred to Caudigarh Hospital.

26. Fairness and reasonableness in the action of the State whether in a criminal proceeding or otherwise are the hallmark of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. The doctrine of proportionality is one of the grounds on the basis whereof the power of judicial review could be exercised. It was so held in Ex-Naik Sardar Singh v. Union of India [(1991)3 SCC 213].

27. It may also be noticed that in the case of Ranjit Thakur V. Union of India [(1987) 4 SCC 611] this Court held on Supreme Court Cases para 25, the question of the choice and quantum of punishment is within the jurisdiction and discretion of the court martial. But the sentence has to suit the offence and the offender. It should not be vindictive or unduly harsh. It should not be so disproportionate to the offence as to shock the conscience and amount in itself to conclusive evidence of bias. The doctrine of proportionality, as part of the concept of judicial review, would ensure that even on an aspect which is, otherwise, within the exclusive province of the court martial, if the decision of the court even as to sentence is an outrageous defiance of logic, then the sentence would not be immune from correction. Irrationality and perversity are recognized grounds of judicial review.

28. It is one thing to say that legally it is permissible to impose more than one punishments but then also it is another thing that in exercising the said power all attending situations which fell for consideration by the punishing authority in regard to the quantum thereof would not be taken into consideration. It is clear that the Commanding Officer in the summary court-martial proceedings failed to take into consideration the relevant fact and, thus, committed an error apparent on the face of the record. We are also of the opinion that in a case of this nature, imposition of both punishment of rigorous imprisonment for six years as also dismissal from service was wholly arbitrary in nature. It is also vitiated in law as all relevant facts were not taken into consideration.

29. In the present case also the punishment awarded to the petitioner is disproportionate to the charges levelled against him as well as the absence from duties was on the medical grounds, which was to be taken into consideration while passing the order of removal. Due to non consideration of this aspect of the matter the order vitiates in law, are taken into consideration while passing the impugned order.

30. In another judgment Sunil Kumar Singh (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court has considered the case of Dev Singh v. Punjab Tourism Dev Corpn. Ltd., wherein a public servant was penalised with dismissal from service for the offence of misplacing and losing an official file. This Court, in appeal, considered the facts that the employee was serving the Corporation for twenty years with a previously unblemished record, the misconduct was not deliberate or motivated, and the file was not shown to be of grave importance or sensitivity, reduced the punishment to withholding of increment of the employee. The Court further considers that in case involving a delinquent employee who did not join duty upon transfer, the Court considered his extended absence of over 233 days and his refusal to visit the appointed doctor to substantiate his claim for medical absence, and concluded that the punishment of removal from service was proportionate to the misdemeanor. The service laws in India are riddled with such like precedents, mandating employers, including the Government, to take all circumstances into account and undertake proportionate action against such offences.

31. Even beyond government auction, proportionality ought to go to the root of decision making by the Government. The litmus test that needs to be administered is whether the harshest or strongest measure is necessarily required to be implemented in a given case. In a situation where a lessee was in default of lease premium, rent, and interest due to underdeveloped surroundings, this Court held that the harsh step of resumption of the land as well as forfeiture of the already paid sum would be too harsh, when recovery proceedings are available. On the other hand the Court has also upheld the stronger step taken by the Railway Recruitment Board for re-test of limited candidates, when there was evidence of paper leaking and mass-cheating.

32. The Constitutional law is perhaps the area of law where the term "proportionality" is used most commonly. This is so because the proportionality test, initially identified in Modern Dental College & Research Centre v. State of M.P. (2016) 7 SCC 353. The test of proportionality, thus, applies to cases where action is brought to protect the right guaranteed by the Constitution or other law. It largely seeks to identify whether the restriction sought to be placed on the right is proportionate to the objective sought to be achieved by the restriction. It often belies a comparison between the importance of the public purpose of the restriction on one hand and the public right on the other hand.

33. This judgment fully considers the proportionality of the charges and its punishment. The punishment should not be disproportionate to the charges. In the case of Union of India and others Vs. Mohd. Ramzan Khan reported in AIR 1991 Supreme Court 471. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that non supply of enquiry report with the show cause notice is violation of principle of natural justice and the order based on non-supply enquiry report with the show cause suffers from illegality and is not sustainable in the eye of law.

34. In the present case dwell punishment has been awarded one by deduction of salary in the absence from duties and removal from service cannot be awarded to the petitioner. Once also punishment was awarded by deducting salary from the petitioner, therefore disciplinary proceedings would not have been initiated against the petitioner. This action of the respondents are wholly illegal, arbitrary and per se illegal.

35. The argument advanced by Shri Raj Kumar Singh by producing a judgment of this Court in Writ A No. 4233 of 2-14, Constable 339/381 C.P. Santosh Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and others, decided on 24.04.2019. Submission advanced by Shri Raj Kumar Singh is that the charges are not disproportionate to the matter involved, therefore on the proportionality of the charges is commensurate to the charges levelled. The judgement relied upon is distinguishable in nature as already considered in the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India which are reproduced herein above of the judgement which are liable to be considered in regard to the disproportionality of charges. Therefore the judgment placed reliance upon is distinguishable in nature and not applicable to the facts and circumstances of the present case.

36. In view of punishment awarded to the petitioner is disproportionate to the charges levelled against him.

37. The punishment awarded to the petitioner is dwell in nature, one by deducting salary and another by initiating disciplinary proceeding and removal from service, both cannot be initiated against an employee, by the respondents. Once salary was deducted there was no justification to initiate disciplinary proceeding on the same charges.

38. It is the admitted case of the party that enquiry report as well as show cause notice was not served upon the petitioner nor was given opportunity to file reply to the show cause notice, issued to the petitioner, therefore, the impugned orders dated 28.05.2007, 04.02.2008 and 12.01.2009 suffer from violation of principle of natural justice and are liable to be set aside by this Court.

39. In view of the reasons recorded above, the appellate court as well as the revisional court have also not considered the aforesaid aspect of the matter, and have passed the orders without considering the relevant material on record.

40. In view of the reasons recorded above, and facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned orders dated 28.05.2007, 04.02.2008 and 12.01.2009 are hereby set aside. The writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

41. However, the petitioner shall be permitted to join the post in as much as the arrears of salary with effect from 28.05.2007 till date and shall be paid regular salary month by month after reinstatement in service.

Versus

The State of U.P. & Ors.

...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

- (1) Validity of punishment order passed without fixing date, time and place for oral inquiry and cross examination of witnesses.
- (2) Applicability of U.P. Government Servant (Conduct) Rules, 1956 to the teachers of U.P. Basic Education.
- (3) Entitlement of the delinquent employee to be restored on his post on declaration of punishment order illegal, though he was retired during the pendency of writ petition filed against punishment order.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Punishment – Reversion from the post of Assistant Teacher, Junior Basic School to the same post in Primary School – Inquiry proceeding – Charge of working as Journalist in news paper was leveled – Reply to show cause notice was submitted – However, no date, time or place was fixed for oral inquiry and cross examination of witnesses – Effect – Applicability of the Rules, 1956 also felt into consideration: (E-1)

Held: After submission of reply to the show cause notice, no date, time or place was fixed for oral inquiry and cross examination of witnesses relied upon, therefore, the inquiry proceeding vitiates in law and is not sustainable in the eyes of law. [Para 14]

Held further: Entire order is based upon premise that the Rules, 1956 as applicable to U.P. Government Servants would apply to the teachers under U.P. Basic Education also. The same prohibits involvement in Journalism as involvement of the petitioner in journalism was guilty of misconduct – Rules of 1956 are not applicable to the teachers of U.P. Basic Education. In addition there to the Rule 12 of the Rules, 1981 does not prohibit the grant of employment to the person who is involved in journalism. Even otherwise, on the said basis, the impugned order was quashed by the Court. [15 and 16]

(B) Service law – The delinquent employee was retired during the pendency of writ petition filed against the punishment order – Subsequently, the punishment order was declared illegal – Entitlement of employee to be restored on his original post: (E-1)

Held: The petitioner cannot be restored as Assistant Teacher in Junior Basic School. The only remedy available to him is to provide consequential benefits of the post in case he was to be retained as Assistant Teacher, Junior Basic School . [Para 19]

Impugned order dated 30.10.2009 passed by respondent No. 2

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant: N.K. Seth (Sr. Adv.), Anveksha Shukla, Ravindra Pratap Singh, Ashish Chaturvedi.

Advs. for the Respondents: D. R. Misra, Rahul Shukla, Dr. Uday Veer Singh, Anil Kumar Chaubey (SC).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Sri N.K. Seth, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Ms. Anveksha Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner, Dr. Uday Veer Singh, learned counsel for Basic Education Officer - respondent No.3 and Sri Anil Kumar Chaubey, learned Standing Counsel for respondent - State.

2. By means of present writ petition, the petitioner is seeking writ of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 30.10.2009 passed by respondent No.2 contained as Annexure-1 to the writ petition by which the petitioner has been reverted from the post of Assistant Teacher, Junior Basic School to the post of Assistant Teacher, Primary School.

3. Factual matrix of the case is that the petitioner was granted appointment as Assistant Teacher in Junior Basic School on 18.02.1987. An alleged complaint was lodged against him by Sri Rakesh Kumar Awasthi in regard to working of the petitioner as Journalist in the news paper. On the basis of complaint, the petitioner was suspended vide order dated 28.03.2009.

4. The inquiry committee issued a letter to the petitioner and the petitioner submitted reply to the same on 02.04.2009. The petitioner was issued show cause notice on 11.05.2009 and he submitted reply in pursuance thereof. In reply, he stated that provisions of U.P. Government Servant (Conduct) Rules, 1956 are not applicable to the employees of Basic Education Department. An order was passed on 30.10.2009, whereby the petitioner has been reverted from the post of Assistant Teacher, Junior Basic School to the post of Assistant Teacher, Primary School.

5. Submission of learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is that no charge sheet was served upon the petitioner in regard to charges levelled against him. He submitted that no date, time and place has been fixed for conducting oral hearing and to examine the complainant in the matter, therefore, his submission is that the entire proceeding vitiated with the vices of principles of natural justice.

6. He further submitted that the person who lodged the alleged complaint against the petitioner has given application supported by affidavit that the application does not bear his own signature and is a forged one. In case the complainant would have called for oral hearing, he would have submitted application along with affidavit denying the complaint lodged against the petitioner.

7. He next submitted that in pursuance to Government Order issued, which is annexed as Annexure RA1 & RA2, it has been provided that the compliant lodged against an employee should be verified by calling the person who has lodged the complaint and an affidavit should also be taken from him. He submitted that in the present case no such exercise was done by the disciplinary authority and in a very cursory manner the order was passed. He also submitted that the provisions of U.P. Government Servant (Conduct) Rules, 1956 are not applicable to the employees of Basic Education Department, therefore, the order impugned is illegal and is liable to be quashed. In support of his submissions, he placed reliance upon following judgments:

B) Qaji Jamil Ahemad Vs. U.P.S.R.T.C., Lucknow and others; 2008 (26) LCD 1176.

8. On the other hand, learned counsel for respondent No.3 submitted that the Government Order referred in Annexure 1 & 2 pertains to Grade A Employees, therefore, the same is not applicable. He further submitted that proper opportunity of hearing was provided to the petitioner while passing the impugned order.

9. He next submitted that the impugned order does not suffer from any infirmity or illegality and is just and valid. He submitted that the petitioner is discharging duty as whole time Journalist, therefore, the teaching work in the institution has affected, therefore, proceeding was initiated against him for taking disciplinary action.

10. Learned Additional CSC for respondent - State also adopted the same arguments, as advanced by learned counsel for respondent No.3.

11. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record as well as law reports cited by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner.

12. To resolve the controversy involved in the matter, relevant portion of the judgments relied upon are being quoted below:

A) Tufail Ahmad (Supra):

"5. The said order has been passed merely on the ground that in the suit filed by Merajunnisan certain admissions were made as such the action of the respondent was contrary to the Government Services Conduct Rules which prohibits bigamy and after considering the material on record, the order of termination came to be passed.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner argues that the services of the petitioner are governed under Uttar Pradesh Basic Education (Teachers) Services Rules, 1981 (hereinafter referred to as "The Rules, 1981"). He argues that in terms of the said Rules, 1981, the appointment to be granted to the aspirant mandates the clarification of marital status, in fact the discretion is conferred upon the Board to grant the appointment to a person irrespective of his second marriage.

7. He thus argues that under the Rules, 1981, there is no bar on bigamy, he further argues that reliance on the U.P. Government Servant's Conduct Rules, 1956 (hereinafter referred to as "The Rules, 1956") is wholly unwarranted inasmuch as the said Rules, 1956 have never been adopted to the teachers employed under the U.P. Basic Education and are solely governed by Rules, 1981. He further argues that even the factum of marriage of the petitioner was not established in view of the fact that the suit filed was dismissed in default.

8. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 has tried to justify the order, however, he could not produce any material to demonstrate as to how the Rules, 1956 applicable to the U.P. Government Servants are applied to the teachers working with the U.P. Basic Education under the Rules, 1981.

9. The entire order is based upon the premise that the Rules, 1956 as applicable to U.P. Government Servants would apply to the teachers under U.P. Basic Education also and as the same prohibits bigamy, the petitioner was guilty of misconduct is faulty as the Rules, 1956 are not applicable to the teachers of U.P. Basic Education. In addition there to the Rule 12 of the Rules, 1981 does not prohibit the grant of employment to the person who has married twice, the order is clearly based upon misapplication of rules. Even otherwise, the factum of second marriage was disputed and not established in any Court of law as such the order dated 25.7.2019, which is Annexure -1 to the petition is clearly unsustainable and is quashed."

B) Qaji Jamil Ahemad (Supra):

"9. The learned counsel for the opposite parties has placed before us the record pertaining to the enquiry proceedings. The record reveals that after submission of the charge-sheet, a reply was submitted by the petitioner and no witnesses were examined by the department to prove the charges mentioned in the charge-sheet. In the absence of any evidence being led by the department, the charges cannot be said to be proved or established. It also cannot be said that the delinquent officer associated in the enquiry proceedings. The enquiry was conducted by the enquiry officer in violation of the principle of natural justice. It is settled law that after a charge-sheet is given to a delinquent employee, an oral enquiry is a must-whether the employee requests for it or not.

10. In the instant case, no witnesses were examined by the department to prove the charges mentioned in the charge-sheet. We are of the view that it is no enquiry in the eyes of law as no date, time and place of enquiry was fixed by the enquiry officer. The impugned removal order and the order passed by the appellate authority are legally not sustainable. In the result, the writ petition succeeds and is hereby allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 22.9.1995, passed by the State Public Services Tribunal, Lucknow is hereby set aside and the impugned removal order dated 3.11.1989 and the order passed by the appellate authority dated 15.10.1990 are hereby quashed with all consequential benefits. A liberty is granted to the opposite parties to hold a fresh enquiry in accordance with law from the stage the reply was submitted by the petitioner to the charge-sheet. The consequential benefits will be subject to the outcome of fresh enquiry. Since the petitioner has already attained the age of superannuation, the opposite parties shall conclude the disciplinary proceedings expeditiously."

13. The first question to be taken into consideration is that whether Rakesh Kumar Awasthi made a complaint to the Chief Election Commission of India against some officer of District including District Magistrate, District Forest Officer and Station House Officer of Police Station Safderganj, District Barabanki and in the said complaint allegation was also made against the petitioner to the effect that he has set up some teachers in certain news paper in order to favour a particular political party. Name of the petitioner was also mentioned in one of the teachers working for news papers Swatantra Bharat and Janmorch and in pursuance thereof, respondent No.3 constituted an inquiry committee consisting of Deputy Basic Education Officer and the petitioner was suspended pending inquiry against him.

14. After submission of reply to the show cause notice, no date, time or place was fixed for oral inquiry and cross examination of witnesses relied upon, therefore, the inquiry proceeding vitiates in law and is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

15. In regard to applicability of Rules of 1956, reliance has been placed in the case of Tufail Ahmad (Supra). On its perusal, it is transpired that entire order is based upon premise that the Rules, 1956 as applicable to U.P. Government Servants would apply to the teachers under U.P. Basic Education also. The same prohibits involvement in Journalism as involvement of the petitioner in journalism was guilty of misconduct.

16. In the said judgment, it has been held that Rules of 1956 are not applicable to the teachers of U.P. Basic Education. In addition there to the Rule 12 of the Rules, 1981 does not prohibit the grant of employment to the person who is involved in journalism. Even otherwise, on the said basis, the impugned order was quashed by the Court.

17. In the case of Qaji Jamil Ahemad (Supra), it has been held that due to non examination of witnesses to prove charges the Court was of the opinion that it is no inquiry in the eyes of law as no date, time and place of inquiry was fixed by the inquiry officer, therefore, the impugned order of removal was set aside holding that it is violation of principles of natural justice.

18. While dictating the judgment, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner pointed out that on attaining the age of superannuation, the petitioner has retired from service on 31.03.2020.

19. In view of fact came while dictation of judgment, the petitioner cannot be restored as Assistant Teacher in Junior Basic School. The only remedy available to him is to provide consequential benefits of the post in case he was to be retained as Assistant Teacher, Junior Basic School, therefore, on the facts and circumstances and reasons recorded above, the impugned order dated 30.10.2009 is hereby quashed.

20. The writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

21. However, direction is issued to the respondent - District Basic Education Officer to treat the petitioner as Assistant Teacher, Junior Basic School w.e.f. 28.03.2009 till date of retirement with a further direction to ensure payment of salary and arrears of the post till 31.03.2020, forthwith.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Effect of not providing opportunity of hearing before passing the orders of withholding the salary of the petitioner, who obtained the appointment relying upon a forged and fabricated document.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Withholding of salary – Assistant Teacher – Petitioner got appointment in the year 1989 – On asking to upload the documents of educational qualification on the Portal, it came into light that the petitioner's result of High School was showing as 'withheld' on the ground of non-submission of Transfer Certificate of Class IX – Petitioner's application for issuance of Class X marksheet and certificate was rejected on the ground of alleged non-submission of documents – Consequently, the salary was also withheld subject to production of original High School Marksheet and Certificate – Validity challenged – In enquiry, it came into light that the petitioner had produced a handwritten High School marksheet and a fabricated Transfer Certificate, on the strength of which, she secured admission in Class XII – Effect – Plea of violation of principle of natural justice was taken – Permissibility: (E-1)

Held: The petitioner has sought to rely upon a forged and fabricated document, thereby rendering her claim wholly untenable – Upon a comprehensive inquiry into the matter, it was conclusively found that the petitioner had indulged in acts of forgery in securing appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher – The conclusions drawn in the inquiry report leave no manner of doubt that the petitioner had systematically relied upon forged and fictitious documents to secure academic progression and consequential benefits, thereby vitiating the very foundation of her claim. [Para 55, 63 and 72]

Further held: Fraud vitiates all solemn acts. In cases where an action is founded upon fraud, the requirement of affording an opportunity of hearing is considerably diluted, and in appropriate cases, even dispensed with – Rejection of the petitioner's claim for issuance of the High School certificate and marksheet cannot be faulted. Consequential actions, including the withholding of salary, have also been initiated by the competent authority in accordance with law – The impugned orders cannot be faulted on the ground urged by the petitioner, and the challenge so raised is devoid of merit. Case Arising From Impugned orders dated 26.07.2025 and 13.08.2025 passed by the Additional Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Meerut Region, and the consequential orders dated 19.08.2025 and 20.08.2025 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Meerut.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant: Himanshu Bansal, Shivam Yadav.

Advs. for the Respondents: Shailendra Singh (SC).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Mr. Himanshu Bansal, learned Advocate has appeared on behalf of the petitioner and Mr. Shailendra Singh, learned Standing Counsel appeared for the State.

2. The petitioner has preferred instant writ petition challenging orders dated 26.07.2025, 13.08.2025 passed by the Additional Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Meerut Region and the consequential orders dated 19.08.2025 and 20.08.2025 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Meerut. The petitioner has further prayed for the direction upon the respondents to forthwith release the withheld salary of the petitioner along with all consequential benefits including arrears and continuity of service. It has further been prayed that the respondents may be directed to issue High School Marksheet and Passing Certificate of the petitioner in terms of the Gazette Notification of 1984 wherein the petitioner's name is recorded at Serial No. 725.

3. Placing brief facts of the case, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner was appointed way back in the year 1989 as an Assistant Teacher in Churh City Junior High School, Thatherwada, District Meerut and served up to the satisfaction of her superiors and there has been no complaint against her. At the time of appointment the educational documents submitted by her including High School Marksheet of the year 1984 (Roll no. 1233725) issued by St. Thomas Girls Inter College, Meerut were duly verified. Till date mark sheets of class 10th and class 12th as well as TET of the petitioner were not disputed and they still hold good ground in the eyes of law.

4. The controversy arose when the petitioner had to upload all details of her employment along with the documents of educational qualifications on Manav Sampada Portal as per requirements of the respondents. While doing so, the petitioner realized that Passing Certificate of High School was also required to be uploaded. The aforesaid certificate was withheld by Madhyamik Shiksha Board in the year 1984 due to non-submission of some papers and there was no requirement of any such certificate, therefore, the petitioner did not apply for Class-X passing certificate, however the handwritten marksheet of class 10th duly certified by the Principal of the School from where she had completed her Class-X was made available to her. Thus for uploading Class-X certificate as required by the respondent authorities, the petitioner approached Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Regional Office, Meerut requesting for issuance of marksheet and passing certificate of High School bearing roll no. 1233725 from St. Thomas Girls Inter College, Meerut, by means of moving an application dated 20.03.2024. On 30.08.2024 the Regional Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Meerut Region, informed the petitioner that as the result of High School Examination 1984 (Roll No. 1233725) was shown as 'withheld' on the ground that entry of her name in the admission register and Transfer Certificate of Class-IX had not been submitted by the institution. It was further mentioned that in terms of resolution of the Examination Committee dated 23.10.2019, the results of such candidates would remain withheld unless the requisite documents were furnished within two years and thereafter will be released on the orders of Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad. The petitioner had completed Class-X education in the year 1984 bearing Roll No. 1233725 and due to non deposit of her transfer certificate of Class-IX, the mark sheet/ passing certificate was not released. However on the basis of Class-X marksheet issued by the Principal which was duly certified, the petitioner passed her Class-XI and XII examinations. The petitioner on the advice of Regional Secretary, furnished all details by filing an affidavit dated 13.05.2024 along with notarized affidavit mentioning therein that her maiden name was Veena Breo and her name is Smt. Veena Menon, both are one and the same person.

5. The petitioner also deposited her Transfer Certificate and the Gazette issued by the Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, wherein name of the petitioner is surfaced at serial no. 725 indicating she has been declared passed with third division.

6. On the aforesaid, instead of issuing High School Certificate and marksheet, the Parishad started enquiring into the marksheet issued by the Principal of the School which was in accordance with the gazette notification as issued by the Parishad, wherein petitioner's name is surfaced at serial no. 725 and also started enquiry of Class-VIII Transfer Certificate which was produced by the petitioner and the same relates to District Etah.

7. Relying upon the aforesaid enquiry, without affording any opportunity of hearing or giving any notice to the petitioner, the Additional Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Meerut Region vide order dated 26.07.2025 rejected petitioner's application requesting for issuance of Class-X marksheet and certificate, solely on the ground of alleged non-submission of documents treating the petitioner's case not to be genuine.

8. The petitioner who has submitted her explanation on 28.07.2025 before the Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad in response to the allegations mentioned in the order dated 26.07.2025, the same has not been considered. Thereafter an order dated 13.08.2025 was passed by the Additional Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Meerut Region, without considering the fact that the Transfer Certificate which has been alleged by the respondents to be submitted by the petitioner, in fact has not been submitted by her. The petitioner has never attended the alleged school situated in District Etah. The aforesaid order dated 13.08.2025 was not given to the petitioner and also to the Department of the Basic Education, however, the said order was communicated to the petitioner on 25.08.2025.

9. The aforesaid order speaks about three documents produced before the Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad on 24.05.2025; (i) Affidavit dated 13.05.2025; (ii) Transfer Certificate of Class-VIII issued by Junior High School, Rustamgarh, District Etah; (iii) Handwritten marksheet issued by the Principal, St. Thomas Girls Inter College, Meerut.

10. On the aforesaid documents, an enquiry has been conducted by Madhyamik Shiksha Board. Aforesaid order though mentions the handwritten marksheet as produced by the petitioner, has not been issued by the Principal of the School as he has denied issuance of the same. However, it does not mention about the Gazette notification which clearly details the name of the petitioner which is shown at Sl. No. 725. In the aforesaid order the Transfer Certificate of Class-VIII as produced before the authorities relates to District Etah and the same has not been found to be forged during the enquiry.

11. Learned Counsel for the petitioner further submits that there was no occasion for the petitioner to go to District Etah for attending school as she is born and brought up in District Meerut. She has been educated in District Meerut up to Class-XII and has also got her TET certificate from Bihar.

12. Subsequent to the order dated 26.07.2025 the District Basic Education officer has passed order dated 19.08.2025 and 20.08.2025. By order dated 19.08.2025 the District Basic Education Officer has withheld the due salary of the petitioner granting three month's time to produce original High School Marksheet and Certificate. By order dated 20.08.2025 the District Basic Education Officer has modified the order dated 19.08.2025 reducing three month's time to fifteen days for production of the original High School Marksheet and Certificate. Thus, the impugned orders dated 26.07.2025, 13.08.2025, 19.08.2025 and 20.08.2025 are under challenge in this writ petition.

13. Learned Counsel for the petitioner contends that the impugned order dated 26.07.2025 passed by respondent no. 2 rejecting application of the petitioner requesting for issuance of Class-X Marksheet and Certificate is arbitrary as instead of issuing the certificate on the basis of Gazette notification wherein the petitioner's name finds place at Sl. No. 725 on the basis of which the Principal of St. Thomas Girls Inter College, Meerut has issued a handwritten marksheet and the enquiry has been conducted without any notice or opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

14. The aforesaid has been done, after the petitioner has put in nearly 35 years of service as Assistant Teacher ignoring the fact that the said handwritten marksheet as issued by the Principal of the said institution on the basis of gazette notification as issued by the board was placed before the authorities at the time of appointment as Assistant Teacher and same has been duly verified.

15. Learned Counsel for the petitioner further contends that another illegality has been committed by the respondents while getting Class-VIII transfer certificate issued from District Etah inquired, which infact has never been produced by the petitioner. He further submits that even otherwise the Class-VIII certificate does not have any bearing on Class-X educational certificate which the petitioner has duly passed. Relying upon the order dated 26.07.2025, the District Basic Education Officer has passed orders dated 19.08.2025 and 20.08.2025 without further enquiring upon the reality about Class-VIII certificate and the fact that the petitioner had already passed Class-X from the school, Principal of which had issued a handwritten marksheet on the basis of Gazette notification, that too, without giving any notice or opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

16. Learned Counsel for the petitioner next submits that impugned orders have been passed by completely opening new front when the petitioner was required to upload educational documents including High School marksheet on Manav Sampada Portal by reopening the case of the petitioner after 35 years of service about High School marksheet and enquiring such Class-VIII Transfer Certificate from District Etah which has never been produced by the petitioner.

17. The orders impugned have been passed in gross violation of principles of natural justice as no opportunity of hearing has ever been afforded to the petitioner. The authorities have passed the impugned orders arbitrarily ignoring the gazette notification of the year 1984 wherein petitioner's name finds place at Sl. No. 725 declaring her to have passed, instead emphasizing upon an alleged Class-VIII Transfer Certificate which has no bearing upon the petitioner's Class-X result.

18. While passing the orders impugned, the authorities have not considered the fact that as per settled position of law, Class-X gazette and marksheet are the only determinative records and the Transfer Certificate of Class-VIII issued from District Etah cannot have any bearing over Class-X marksheet and the said marksheet cannot be doubted or disputed on the basis of such alleged Transfer Certificate of Class-VIII.

19. Learned Counsel for the petitioner, further contends that the orders passed by the District Basic Education Officer are totally based upon the order as passed by the Additional Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, without independent application of mind. Proper disciplinary proceedings have not been initiated prior to passing of the orders impugned, therefore, the same is arbitrary and bad in the eyes of law. The respondents have also ignored the fact that Writ-A No. 9228 of 2013 was filed challenging the order passed by the Director of Education, whereby the representation for payment of salary was rejected on the ground that they did not fulfill minimum eligibility qualification as per U.P. Recognized Basic Schools Recruitment (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment of Conditions of Services of Teachers) Rules, 1978, which was disposed of by order dated 17.09.2019, wherein also High School marksheet of the petitioner was not disputed.

20. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that withholding the due salary of the petitioner and modification of the order dated 19.08.2025 reducing three month's time to fifteen days for production of the original High School Marksheet and Certificate clearly demonstrates the malafide intention and colourable exercise of powers by the authorities concerned.

21. In the written submissions as submitted on 09.03.2026, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed the facts of the case, which are thus:

a) The petitioner passed the High School Examination in the year 1984, conducted by the Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, U.P., bearing Roll No. 1233725, and her name is duly published in the official Gazette Notification at Serial No. 725.

b) Petitioner's result has been recorded as "withheld (CP category)", therefore, she approached the concerned institution, namely St. Thomas Girls Inter College, Meerut, from where she had appeared in the High School Examination. Upon verification of the Gazette Notification and the school records, the Principal In-Charge of the institution issued marksheet/certificate to the petitioner, certifying that she had appeared in the High School Examination in the year 1984 and had been declared successful therein. Such handwritten certificates were issued by the institution at the relevant point of time on the basis of the Gazette publication to enable students to pursue further studies when the formal marksheet had not been issued by the Board due to procedural reasons. On the strength of the said certificate, the petitioner thereafter pursued her further education, including Intermediate (Class XII) and other requisite qualifications, and after appointment as Assistant Teacher in the year 1989 all documents were duly verified by the authorities concerned.

c) Surprisingly, after 35 years of service, when education documents were to be uploaded on Manav Sampada Portal, a story has been built up regarding submission of forged Class-VIII certificate and the fact that the original marksheet and passing certificate has not been uploaded.

22. Learned counsel for the petitioner has raised two main issues for consideration while challenging the orders impugned:

i. Whether the respondents were justified in refusing to issue the High School marksheet and passing certificate to the petitioner despite the fact that her name finds place in the official Gazette Notification of the year 1984 issued by the Board, declaring her to have passed the High School Examination?

ii. Whether an alleged irregularity or discrepancy in a Class-VIII Transfer Certificate can legally invalidate or be used as a ground to deny issuance of a High School (Class-X) marksheet and certificate by the Board, particularly when the petitioner had duly appeared in the examination, was declared successful in the official Gazette, and the said qualification was accepted by the authorities at the time of appointment decades earlier?

23. While justifying his case, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that petitioner's name appears in the official Gazette Notification of the Board at Serial No. 725, declaring her to have passed the High School Examination, however, the respondents have ignored this official record and instead relied upon extraneous considerations such as an alleged Class-8 transfer certificate. It is well settled that entries in official records maintained by statutory authorities carry presumption of correctness. Therefore, the refusal to issue the marksheet despite the Gazette publication is arbitrary and perverse.

24. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the petitioner has not only passed the High School Examination but has also successfully completed the Intermediate (Class XII) Examination (Annexure no. 3 to the writ petition), and both the said certificates have been duly issued by the Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Uttar Pradesh. The petitioner thereafter pursued further studies and obtained the Basic Training Certificate (BTC), which is the prescribed training qualification for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher in the Basic Education Department. It is pertinent to submit that all these educational qualifications were acquired on the strength of the petitioner's High School and Intermediate certificates issued by the said Board. The petitioner's eligibility for appointment as Assistant Teacher was duly assessed and accepted by the competent authorities on the basis of these qualifications at the time of appointment in the year 1989. Thus, the petitioner's entire educational progression, including completion of Intermediate and the BTC training course, stands recognized by the competent authorities, and the same clearly demonstrates that the petitioner's qualifications have consistently been accepted by the respondents throughout her service career.

25. It has further been argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that even assuming, without admitting, that there existed any discrepancy relating to Class 8th Transfer Certificate the petitioner's educational record, the same could at best be construed as a procedural irregularity and not an illegality so as to justify the drastic action taken by the respondents. The petitioner's result in the High School Examination of the year 1984 stands duly published in the official Gazette issued by the Board, which constitutes an authentic public record maintained in the ordinary course of official business.

26. He next contends that the petitioner was appointed as an Assistant Teacher in the year 1989 and her educational qualification was duly accepted and verified by the competent authorities at the time of her appointment. The petitioner has thereafter rendered more than three decades of continuous and satisfactory service without any complaint or adverse remark. At no point during this long period did the respondents raise any objection regarding the petitioner's educational qualification. In such circumstances, the respondents cannot now be permitted to question the same at the fag end of the petitioner's career.

27. Learned counsel for the petitioner further contends that it is a settled principle of service jurisprudence that where an employee has served the department for long years and the alleged defect pertains merely to a procedural lapse or documentation issue, the same cannot be treated as an illegality so as to invalidate the employee's service or deprive her of salary and other service benefits. Courts have consistently held that minor procedural irregularities cannot defeat substantive rights, particularly when the employee has not obtained the benefit by practicing fraud or deliberate misrepresentation.

28. He further submits that the petitioner was appointed to the post of Assistant Teacher only after due verification of her educational qualifications by the competent authorities of the department. At the time of appointment, the petitioner had produced all the requisite certificates and documents, which were duly scrutinized and accepted by the concerned authorities. Thereafter, on the basis of the said qualifications, the petitioner continued in service for several decades and also pursued further studies required for her professional eligibility. In such circumstances, it is a settled principle of law that once the competent authorities themselves have verified and accepted the qualifications of an employee and allowed her to continue in service for a long period of time, the clock cannot now be rewound to reopen and question the very basis of such verification after the lapse of several decades. The respondents, having themselves undertaken the process of verification and having permitted the petitioner to serve the department for more than three decades, are now estopped from reopening the issue at this belated stage to the prejudice of the petitioner.

29. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that it is an undisputed and admitted position on record that the petitioner had appeared in the High School (Class X) Examination conducted by the Board in the year 1984. It is further not in dispute that on the strength of the said examination, the petitioner was permitted to pursue her further studies and thereafter appeared in the Intermediate (Class XII) Examination conducted by the competent Board. The petitioner successfully completed and passed the said Intermediate Examination as well. The fact that the petitioner was allowed to continue her academic course and was permitted to appear in the Intermediate Examination itself clearly establishes that the petitioner's High School qualification was duly recognized and accepted by the authorities at the relevant time. The subsequent educational progression of the petitioner, culminating in passing both the High School and Intermediate examinations, therefore stands as a consistent and undisputed factual position on record, which further demonstrates that the petitioner's educational credentials were never questioned by the authorities for several years.

30. He further argues that the present writ petition cannot be said to be premature in any manner whatsoever. The requirement of submission of the High School (Class-10) marksheet has been specifically insisted upon by the office of the District Basic Education Officer, Meerut, and the failure to produce the said marksheet has already resulted in adverse and coercive consequences against the petitioner. In fact, acting upon the communication issued by the Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad refusing issuance of the marksheet, the District Basic Education Officer has proceeded to pass consequential orders whereby the salary of the petitioner has been withheld and directions have been issued requiring the petitioner to produce the said certificate within a stipulated period. Thus, the impugned actions have already culminated in civil consequences affecting the petitioner's service and livelihood. In such circumstances, the cause of action has clearly arisen and the petitioner cannot be compelled to wait for further punitive action to be taken. The present writ petition has therefore been filed to challenge the impugned orders and the consequential action of withholding the petitioner's salary, and the same is fully maintainable in law and cannot be termed as premature.

31. To strengthen his submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner contended that the action of the respondents in withholding the petitioner's salary is squarely impermissible in law in view of the authoritative pronouncement of the Supreme Court in State of Punjab v. Rafiq Masih (White Washer), (2015) 4 SCC 334, wherein the Court has held that recovery of excess payments is not sustainable where the employee is not guilty of fraud or misrepresentation and where recovery would cause undue hardship and the recovery is impermissible when excess payments have continued for long periods, and when the employee has retired or is nearing retirement. The petitioner, having rendered more than three decades of unblemished service and being close to retirement, cannot be subjected to the harsh consequence of salary deprivation for no fault of her own.

32. He has also submitted that in an identical matter relating to non-issuance of a High School certificate, this Court in the case of Markandey Kumar Yadav vs. State of U.P. & Ors., has held that once a candidate had been issued a marksheet, permitted to pursue higher studies, and had qualified subsequent examinations, the Board was required to examine its own records and rectify the anomaly rather than deny certification. The Court specifically directed the Board to conduct an enquiry to ascertain how the candidate was allowed to appear in subsequent examinations despite alleged discrepancies (Order dated 18.07.2017), and ultimately the certificate was directed to be issued, rendering the petition infructuous (Order dated 11.10.2017). The present case stands on a stronger footing as the petitioner's educational progression and long service have been consistently recognized by the authorities.

33. It has been further argued on behalf of the petitioner that the insistence on production of a Transfer Certificate and consequential denial of educational benefits is legally unsustainable. The Madras High Court in the case of All India Private Schools Legal Protection Society vs. State of Tamil Nadu, has categorically held that Transfer Certificate is not a mandatory document for admission and cannot be used as a tool to obstruct a child's educational rights. The Court further held that procedural requirements cannot override the child's right to education and schools cannot impose conditions that defeat the object of the Right to Education Act. The ratio squarely applies in the present case where technical objections relating to records are being used to deprive the petitioner of lawful service and salary benefits.

34. It has been further argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that technical or procedural objections relating to educational records cannot be used to defeat substantive rights. The Madras High Court in All India Private Schools Legal Protection Society (supra), has held that procedural requirements such as insistence on Transfer Certificate cannot override the fundamental right to education and cannot be used as a ground to deny educational benefits. The Court has further ruled that additional procedural conditions which defeat statutory rights are impermissible. The same principle squarely applies here, where alleged discrepancies in historical records are being used to deny issuance of marksheet and to withhold salary, despite the petitioner's qualifications having been accepted and recognized throughout her long service.

35. Placing the aforementioned submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the impugned orders are unsustainable, thus the same may be quashed by this Court.

36. Learned Counsel for the State has placed his submissions in the following manner:

a. The petitioner first time submitted application on 20.03.2024 more than after 40 years for issuing the mark sheet and certificate of High School Examination Year 1984, Roll No. 1233725 along with affidavit, certified photocopy of handwritten mark sheet of High School Personal Examination Year 1984, Dainik Jagran Meerut edition of 21.02.2024, mentioning that her mark sheet/certificate of High School Year 1984 Roll No.-1233725 is actually lost.

b. The High School Examination Tabulation Chart of the 1984, petitioner was found at Serial No.1233725 result was withheld from the CP list due to non-submitting the relevant documents in the office of Respondent No. 2 by the petitioner.

c. Respondent No. 2 directed the petitioner through office letter dated 30.03.2024 to provide evidence regarding the process and eligibility related to declaration of the result of High School Examination year-1984, Serial No.1233725 from the CP list.

d. The petitioner submitted an affidavit on 20.03.2024 annexed the Class 8th forged and fabricated transfer certificate before the office of Respondent No. 2 regarding issuing fresh mark sheet (Annexed as Annexure CA-4 & 4(1) of the counter affidavit).

e. The respondent no. 2 wrote a letter on 24.08.2024 to the Principal, St. Thomas Girls Inter College, Meerut asking to send a report whether the High School hand written mark sheet was issued or not. Thereafter the Principal of the concerned Institution informed through his letter dated 29.08.2024 that the student's result (CP) is not complete in the school gazette and no handwritten mark sheet has been issued to the student by the school.

f. From the above, the enquiry officer submitted a report on 03.07.2025, therefore, on the basis of the enquiry report, letter dated 01.04.2025 of the District Basic Education Officer and report dated 29.08.2024 of the Principal St. Thomas Girls Inter College Meerut, the TC and High School handwritten mark sheet of examination year 1984, serial number-1233725 submitted by petitioner were found to be forged/fabricated and therefore, rejecting the representation of the petitioner.

g. The petitioner appeared in the high school personal examination in the year 1984, serial number 1233725, from the registered school St. Thomas Girls Inter College, whose result list has been withheld in the CP category. Despite the list being withheld in the CP category due to the petitioner's result being ineligible, she fraudulently prepared a handwritten High School mark sheet and a fake Class 11th TC from the school i.e. St. Thomas Girls Inter College, Meerut, and took admission in Class 12th in another school, namely, Bhagirathi Arya Inter College, Meerut, and succeeded in appearing in the Intermediate Institutional Examination in the year 1987, serial number 061944. The petitioner presented TC SR No. 12010 of her previous school, i.e., St. Thomas Girls Inter College Meerut, which was submitted at the time of admission in class 12, for confirmation of which the office's enquiry officer, Shri Sanjeev Kumar Sharma, has mentioned in his on-site enquiry report that:-

"परीक्षार्थिनी वीना मेनन द्वारा इण्टरमीडिएट परीक्षा वर्ष-1987, विद्यालय भागीरथी आर्य कन्य इण्टर कालेज मेरठ के प्रवेश के समय जो कक्षा-11 उत्तीर्ण स्थानान्तरण प्रमाणपत्र क्रमांक-12010 विद्यालय सेन्ट थॉमर्स गर्ल्स इण्टर कालेज मेरठ से निर्गत, प्रस्तुत किया था। उक्त कक्षा-11 उत्तीर्ण स्थानान्तरण प्रमाणपत्र क्रमांक-12010 का सम्बन्धित विद्यालय सेन्ट थॉमर्स गर्ल्स इण्टर कालेज मेरठ से सत्यापन /

परीक्षण किया गया। परीक्षण में पाया गया कि उक्त स्थानान्तरण प्रमाणपत्र विद्यालय सेन्ट थॉमर्स गर्ल्स इण्टर कालेज मेरठ से नहीं किया गया है। जिसकी पुष्टि सेन्ट थॉमर्स गर्ल्स इण्टर कालेज मेरठ के प्रधानाचार्य ने अपने पत्र दिनांक 25.10.2025 के द्वारा से भी की है। स्पष्ट है कि परीक्षार्थिनी द्वारा कक्षा-12 में प्रवेश हेतु कूटरचित/फर्जी स्थानान्तरण प्रमाणपत्र के आधार पर प्रवेश लिया गया है। तदनुसार परीक्षार्थिनी वीना मेनन का इण्टरमीडिएट परीक्षा वर्ष-1987, अनुक्रमांक- 061944 का परीक्षाफल निरस्त किया जाना समीचीन होगा।"

h. As a result of the said enquiry report and the Principal's letter dated 25.10.2025 confirming the petitioner's Class-11 Transfer Certificate as forged/fake, the result of the petitioner's Intermediate Institutional Examination 1987, Roll No. 061944 is pending consideration before the competent examination committee for cancellation. (Annexure No.CA-14).

i. In Chapter-XII, Regulation-10(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Board of Secondary Education Rules 1983-88, regarding the eligibility of individual candidates, it is mentioned that only individual candidates belonging to one of the following categories will be able to appear in the High School Examination:

“(एक) वे परीक्षार्थी, जिन्होंने निम्नलिखित में से कोई परीक्षा उत्तीर्ण की हो इस प्रतिबन्ध के साथ कि कथित परीक्षा उत्तीर्ण करने के पश्चात दो शैक्षिक वर्ष बीत चुके हैं:-

(क) जूनियर हाईस्कूल परीक्षा अथवा उत्तर प्रदेश में संचालित वह परीक्षा जो पहले हिन्दुस्तानी मिडिल परीक्षा कहलाती थी अथवा उत्तर प्रदेश के अतिरिक्त अन्य राज्यों के शिक्षा विभाग द्वारा संचालित अथवा मान्यता प्राप्त कोई समकक्ष परीक्षा।

(ख) परिषद अथवा शिक्षा विभाग उत्तर प्रदेश द्वारा मान्यता प्राप्त उच्चतर विद्यालय को कक्षा-8 की परीक्षा अथवा उत्तर प्रदेश या उसके बाहर स्थित सामान्य विद्यालय का अनुरूप परीक्षा इस प्रतिबन्ध के साथ कि यह स्कूल किसी ऐसी परीक्षा निकाय से सम्बद्ध या मान्यता प्राप्त है, जिसको परीक्षाएं परिषद द्वारा मान्यता प्राप्त है।”

In light of the above rule, it is confirmed that to appear in the High School Individual Examination, a candidate must have passed Class 9 or two academic years have passed since passing Class 8. Therefore, requesting a transfer certificate from the candidate/applicant is in accordance with the Board's regulations.

j. In the light of the aforesaid order of the Hon'ble Court, it is most respectfully submitted that in the matter in question, the petitioner concealing the facts on the basis of forged/fake records, sent the file to the competent Examination Committee of the Board of Secondary Education, Uttar Pradesh Prayagraj vide office letter dated 14.11.2025 for cancellation of the result of appearing/passing in the High School and Intermediate examination. The order of the Examination Committee on the matter on 18.11.2025 is as follows:

"समिति ने निश्चय किया कि परीक्षार्थिनी श्रीमती वीना मेनन द्वारा कक्षा 8 की कूटरचित एवं फर्जी टी०सी० के आधार पर कक्षा 9 में प्रवेश लेकर हाईस्कूल व्यक्तिगत परीक्षा वर्ष 1984 अनु०-1233725 से परीक्षा में सम्मिलित होने तथा अर्हता के अभाव में परीक्षाफल के सूची सी०पी० में रुके होने के बाद भी परिषदीय विनियमों के विपरीत पुनः कूटरचित एवं फर्जी अभिलेखों के आधार पर तथ्यगोपन करते हुए कक्षा 11 में प्रवेश लेकर इण्टरमीडिएट संस्थागत परीक्षा वर्ष 1987 अनु०-061944 से उत्तीर्ण किया गया है। अतः परीक्षार्थिनी श्रीमती वीना मेनन का हाईस्कूल व्यक्तिगत परीक्षा वर्ष 1984 अनु०-1233725 एवं इण्टरमीडिएट संस्थागत परीक्षा वर्ष 1987 अनु०-061944 का परीक्षाफल निरस्त किया जाय। परीक्षार्थिनी को निर्गत अंकपत्र एवं प्रमाण पत्र वापस प्राप्त किया जाय एवं जिला विद्यालय निरीक्षक द्वारा निरस्तीकरण की सूचना दैनिक समाचार पत्र में प्रकाशित करायी जाय।"

k. It is necessary to pass Class 8th examination for appearing in the High School examination and the petitioner was not found to be qualified in Class 8th and appeared in Examination of Class 10th against the provisions of Chapter-XII, Regulation-10 (1) of the Uttar Pradesh Board of Secondary Education Rules 1983-88.

l. The petitioner submitted an affidavit along with forged and fabricated transfer certificate of Class 8th before the respondent no. 2, due to which the petitioner was not entitled to appear in High School Examination, therefore, the entire certificates of the petitioner are found to be forged and fabricated.

m. One Manjul Kumar obtained the appointment on the basis forged mark sheet. The respondent-authority stopped his salary without passing any written order, thereafter, Manjul Kumar filed Writ-A No. 13670 of 20204, before this Hon'ble Court, and this Hon'ble Court vide order dated 24.08.2021 dismissed the writ petition filed by him, the operative portion of the order is being quoted herein below:

"...It is not disputed by the petitioner that the documents were duly verified by the competent authorities and the authorities conferring the certificates have certified that the documents relied upon by the petitioner are forged and manufactured documents. Petitioner in the circumstances would have no right to continue on the post and receive salary. The very foundation on which the appointment rests is non-est -- void abinitio. Nothing further has to be done by the authorities but to discontinue the appointment. In permitting the petitioner to continue in service and pay salary would perpetuate fraud and misrepresentation that would be negation of rule of law. Petitioner, his father (clerk) and the then Basic Education Officer were throughout aware that petitioner had obtained the appointment by fraud..."

n. That the petitioner's appointment as Assistant Teacher in the year 1989, after completion of 35 years of service, petitioner submitted application for issuing fresh mark sheet, after enquiry, petitioner's Class 8th Transfer Certificate as well as 11th mark sheet found forged and fabricated, due to the said reason petitioner's salary was stopped.

37. To strengthen his submissions, learned Standing Counsel has relied upon numerous judgments of this Court as well as Apex Court, which are thus:

a. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Jainendra Singh Vs. State of U.P., in Paragraph No.29.1 has observed as follows:

"29.1 Fraudulently obtained orders of appointment could be legitimately treated as voidable at the option of the employer or could be recalled by the employer and in such cases merely because the respondent employee has continued in service for a number of years, on the basis of such fraudulently obtained employment, cannot get any equity in his favour or any estoppels against the employer."

b. This Court in Writ (A) No.19634 of 2025, in Paragraph No. 5 observed as follows:-

"5. Learned counsel for the respondent-BSA further submits that it is a settled position of law that no opportunity of hearing or detailed inquiry is warranted in cases where an appointment has been secured by practicing fraud. This issue has already been discussed in several judgments passed by this Court in the cases of Virendra Kumar Mishra vs. State of UP and 4 Others, in Writ A No. 11846 of 2025, Shiv Kumar vs. State of U.P. and 8 Others, in Writ A No. 12839 of 2023, Pankaj Mathur vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others, in Writ A No. 12336 of 2025 and Deepa Magleena vs. State of U.P. And 4 Others, in Writ-A No. 10843 of 2025. The same has been held in the case of Kamlesh Kumar Nirankari vs. State of U.P. and 20 Others, in Writ A No.20140 of 2023, wherein this Court has observed that in case the employment has been obtained based on fraudulent documents on concealing facts, the beneficiary of such fraud cannot seek any inquiry in terms of Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999. Similar issue has also been settled in the case of Krishna Kant vs. State of U.P. and 2 Others, in Writ A No. 10029 of 2025."

c. One Virendra Kumar Mishra filed Writ-A No.11846 of 2025 before this Court, and this Court vide its judgment and order dated 19.08.2025, in Paragraph No. 24 & 25 has observed as follows:

"24. Thus, the law in case of appointment obtained fraudulently is well settled. Fraudulently obtained order of appointment or approval can be recalled by the authority concerned. In such cases merely because the employee continued in service for a number of years, on the basis of fraudulently obtained orders, cannot create any equity in his favour or any estoppel against the employer/authority. When an appointment or approval has been obtained by a person on the basis of forged documents, it would amount to misrepresentation and fraud on the employer. It would create no equity in his favour or any estoppel against the employer to cancel such appointment or approval since "Fraud and justice never dwell together.

25. In view of the foregoing analysis and observations, now, it is clear that when any selection/recruitment or appointment to some post was made illegally and it is noticed on the complaint or at subsequent stage that illegalities, irregularities, improprieties, procedural infirmities and deficiencies and defects have occurred, forgery or foul-play adopted or non observance of Act, rules, norms were made in process then the beneficiary candidate, who has become output and product of such defective and bad selection or outcome of spoiled system process, shall have no right or claim to the post or salary or any consequential benefits in the service."

d. One Kamlesh Kumar Nirankari filed Writ - A No. - 20140 of 2023 before this Hon'ble Court, and this Hon'ble Court vide its judgment and order dated 25.08.2025, in Paragraph No. 32, 33, 34, 35 & 36 has observed as follows:

"32. In the present case, the verification report categorically records that the documents submitted by the petitioner were forged. The petitioner was issued a show-cause notice and was called upon to produce the original certificates, but he failed to do so. In these circumstances, the respondents were justified in concluding that the appointment had been procured by fraudulent means.

33. The contention that a full departmental enquiry ought to have been held is without merit. Once it is established that the very entry into service was vitiated by fraud, there is no "termination" in the strict sense, but only a declaration that no valid appointment ever existed. The requirement of an elaborate enquiry, as mandated for proven misconduct of a regular employee, has no application to such cases.

34. In this view of the matter, when the petitioner had produced forged documents for getting appointment and nothing has been pointed out to controvert the findings recorded in the impugned order, the petitioner is not entitled to grant any relief as prayed.

35. Thus, where a person secures appointment on the basis of a forged marksheet or certificate or appointment letter and on that basis he or she has been inducted in Government service then he/she becomes beneficiary of illegal and fraudulent appointment. Such an appointment is illegal and void ab initio. Therefore, holding disciplinary proceedings envisaged by Article 311 of the Constitution of India or under any disciplinary rules including the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Staff Rules, 1973 or the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules 1999, shall not arise.

36. The forgery committed by the petitioner, for obtaining public employment on the basis of forged educational documents is the basic eligibility condition for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher. Therefore, it vitiates the process of his appointment. Thus, the appointment of the petitioner is void ab initio and he cannot be said to be a government servant. Therefore, his appointment has been lawfully cancelled by the impugned order."

e. The Apex Court in the case of Ram Chandra Singh Vs. Savitri Devi and others, has elaborately considered the meaning of the word fraud and its effects and held in paragraph nos. 15 to 34 as under:

"15. Commission of fraud on court and suppression of material facts are the core issues involved in these matters. Fraud as is well-known vitiates every solemn act. Fraud and justice never dwells together.

16. Fraud is a conduct either by letter or words, which induces the other person, or authority to take a definite determinative stand as a response to the conduct of former either by word or letter.

17. It is also well settled that misrepresentation itself amounts to fraud. Indeed, innocent misrepresentation may also give reason to claim relief against fraud.

18. A fraudulent misrepresentation is called deceit and consists in leading a man into damage by willfully or recklessly causing him to believe and act on falsehood. It is a fraud in law if a party makes representations which he knows to be false, and injury ensues therefrom although the motive from which the representations proceeded may not have been bad.

19. In Derry v. Peek, (1889) 14 AC 337, it was held: In an 'action of deceit the plaintiff must prove actual fraud. Fraud is proved when it is shown that a false representation has been made knowingly, or without belief in its truth, or recklessly, without caring whether it be true or false. A false statement, made through carelessness and without reasonable ground for believing it to be true, may be evidence of fraud but does not necessarily amount to fraud. Such a statement, if made in the honest belief that it is true, is not fraudulent and does not render the person making it liable to an action of deceit.

20. In Kerr on Fraud and Mistake at page 23, it is stated:

"The true and only sound principle to be derived from the cases represented by Slim v. Croucher is this that a representation is fraudulent not only when the person making it knows it to be false, but also when, as Jessel, M.R., pointed out, he ought to have known, or must be taken to have known, that it was false. This is a sound and intelligible principle, and is, moreover, not inconsistent with Derry v. Peek, A false statement which a person ought to have known was false, and which he must therefore be taken to have known was false, cannot be said to be honestly believed in.

A consideration of the grounds of belief, said Lord Herschell, "is no doubt an important aid in ascertaining whether the belief was really entertained. A man's mere assertion that he believed the statement he made to be true is not accepted as conclusive proof that he did so."

21. In Bigelow on Fraudulent Conveyances at page 1, it is stated:

"If on the facts the average man would have intended wrong, that is enough. "

It was further opined:

"This conception of fraud and since it is not the writer's, he may speak of it without diffidence), steadily kept in view, will render the administration of the law less difficult, or rather will make its administration more effective.

Further, not to enlarge upon the last matter, it will do away with much of the prevalent confusion in regard to 'moral' fraud, a confusion which, in addition to other things, often causes lawyers to take refuge behind such convenient and indeed useful but often obscure language as 'fraud upon the law. What is fraud upon the law? Fraud can be committed only against a being capable of rights, and fraud, upon the law' darkens counsel. What is really aimed at in most cases by this obscure contrast between moral fraud and fraud upon the law, is a contrast between fraud in the individual's intention to commit the wrong and fraud as seen in the obvious tendency of the act in question."

22. Recently this Court by an order dated 3rd September, 2003 in Ram Preeti Yadav v. UP. Board of High School & Intermediate Education and Ors. reported in JT 2003 (Supp. 1) SC 25 held:

"Fraud is a conduct either by letter or words, which induces the other person, or authority to take a definite determinative stand as a response to the conduct of former either by words or letter. Although negligence is not fraud but it can be evidence on fraud. (See Derry v. Peek (1889) 14 AC

337). In Lazarus Estate v. Berly [1956] 1 All ER 341] the Court of Appeal stated the law thus:

"I cannot accede to this argument for a moment "no Court in this land will allow a person to keep an advantage which he has obtained by fraud. No judgment of a Court, no order of a Minister, can be allowed to stand if it has been obtained by fraud. Fraud unravels everything". The Court is careful not to find fraud unless it is distinctly pleaded and proved; but once it is proved it vitiates judgments, contracts and all transactions whatsoever."

In S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu v. Jagannath [(1994) 1 SCC 1] this Court stated that fraud avoids all judicial acts, ecclesiastical or temporal."

23. An act of fraud on court is always viewed seriously. A collusion or conspiracy with a view to deprive the rights of the others in relation to a property would, render the transaction void ab initio. Fraud and deception are synonymous.

24. In Arlidge & Parry on Fraud, it is stated at page 21:

"Indeed, the word sometimes appears to be virtually synonymous with

"deception", as in the offence (now 16 repealed.) of obtaining credit by fraud. It is true that in this context "fraud" included certain kinds of conduct which did not amount to false pretences, since the definition referred to an obtaining of credit "under false pretences, or by means of any other fraud".

In Jones, for example, a man who ordered a meal without pointing out that he had no money was held to be guilty of obtaining credit by fraud but not of obtaining the meal by false pretences: his conduct, though fraudulent, did not amount to a false pretence. Similarly it has been suggested that a charge of conspiracy to defraud may be used where a "false front" has been presented to the public (e.g. a business appears to be reputable and creditworthy when in fact it is neither but there has been nothing so concrete as a false pretence. However, the concept of deception (as that (inter alia) it includes a misrepresentation as to the defendant's defined in the Theft Act 1968) is broader than that of a false pretence in intentions; both Jones and the "false front" could now be treated as cases of obtaining property by deception."

25. Although in a given case a deception may not amount to fraud, fraud is anathema to all equitable principles and any affair tainted with fraud cannot be perpetuated or saved by the application of any equitable doctrine including res-judicata.

26. In Smt. Shrisht Dhawan v. Shaw Brothers, it has been held that:

"Fraud and collusion vitiate even the most solemn proceedings in any civilized system of jurisprudence. It is a concept descriptive of human conduct, "

27. In S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu v. Jagannath (1994) 1 SCC 1] this Court in no uncertain terms observed:

"...The principle of "finality of litigation" cannot be passed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants. The Courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the 17 Court, must come with clean hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not process of the Court is being abused. Property-grabbers, taxevaders, bank-loan dodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court-process a convenient lever to retain the illegal gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person whose case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the Court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation... A fraud is an act of deliberate deception with the design of securing something by taking unfair advantage of another. It is a deception in order to gain by another's loss. It is a cheating intended to get an advantage... A litigant, who approaches the Court, is bound to produce all the documents executed by him, which are relevant to the litigation. If he withholds a vital document in order to gain advantage on the other side then he would be guilty of playing fraud on the Court as well as on the opposite party. "

28. In Indian Bank v. Satyam Fibres (India) Pvt. Ltd., this Court after referring to Lazarus Estates (supra) and other cases observed that 'since fraud affects the solemnity, regularity and orderliness of the proceedings of the Court it also amounts to an abuse of the process of the Court, that the Courts have inherent power to set aside an order obtained, by practising fraud upon the Court, and that where the Court is misled by a party or the Court itself commits a mistake which prejudices a party, the Court has the inherent power to recall its order.

It was further held:

"The judiciary in India also possesses inherent power, specially under Section 151 CPC, to recall its judgment or order if it is obtained by fraud" on Court, In the case of fraud on a party to the suit or proceedings, the Court may direct the affected party to file a separate suit for setting aside the decree obtained by fraud. Inherent powers are powers, which are resident in all Courts, especially of superior jurisdiction. These powers spring not from legislation but from the nature and the constitution of the tribunals or Courts themselves so as to enable them to maintain their dignity, secure obedience to its process and rules, protect its officers from indignity and wrong and to punish unseemly behavior. This power is necessary for the orderly administration of the Court's business."

29. In Chittaranjan Das v. Durgapore Project Limited and Ors., It has been held:

"Suppression of a material document which affects the condition of service of the petitioner, would amount to fraud in such matters. Even the principles of natural justice are not required to be complied within such a situation.

It is now well known that a fraud vitiates all solemn acts. Thus, even if the date of birth of the petitioner had been recorded in the service returns on the basis of the certificate produced by the petitioner, the same is not sacrosanct nor the respondent company would be bound thereby."

30. Keeping in view the aforementioned principles, the questions raised in these appeals are required to be considered. The High Court observed that the application of intervention filed by the appellant purported to be under Order XXVI, Rules 13 and 14(2) and Order XX, Rule 18 was not maintainable as they do not confer any power to court for setting aside a preliminary decree on the ground that it was obtained by practising fraud.

But once the principles aforementioned are to be given effect to, indisputably the court must be held to have inherent jurisdiction in relation thereto.

31. In Manohar Lal Chopra v. Raj Bahadur Rao Raja Seth Hiralal, the law is stated in the following terms:

"The Code of Civil Procedure is undoubtedly not exhaustive: it does not lay down rules for guidance in respect of all situations nor does it seek to provide rules for decision of all conceivable cases which may arise. The civil courts are authorized" to pass such orders as may be necessary for the ends of justice, or to prevent abuse of the process of court, but where an express provision is made to meet a particular situation the Code must be observed, and departure therefrom is not permissible."

32. In Sharda v. Dharmpal, a three-Judge Bench, of which both of us are parties, held that directing a person to undergo a medical test by a matrimonial court is implicit stating:"

38. Learned counsel for the State contends that the right to salary or pension after retirement flows from a valid and legal appointment. The consequential right of pension and monetary benefits can be given only if the appointment was valid and legal. Such benefits cannot be given in a case where the appointment was found to have been obtained fraudulently and rested on false affidavit and succession certificate.

39. He further submits that a person such as the petitioner, who has procured appointment as teacher on basis of forged/false affidavit and certificate, cannot be entitled for any sympathy and she is required to be dealt with strictly. The petitioner secured appointment on the basis of forged certificate or mark sheet, such appointment is illegal and void ab initio. Therefore, passed the impugned order dated 26.07.2025, 13.08.2025 passed by Additional Secretary, Secondary Education Board, Meerut and order dated 19.08.2025 & 20.08.2025 passed by District Basic Education Officer, Meerut withholding the salary of the petitioner are totally in accordance with law.

40. Learned counsel for the State next contends that the petitioner has also played fraud with the Court annexing aforesaid false documents with this writ petition as such in the interest of justice that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to dismiss the present writ petition as misconceived and also punish the petitioner of her conduct and direct the competent authority to recover the entire salary. She has secured appointment on the basis of forged certificate or mark sheet, such appointment is illegal and void ab initio, therefore, only disciplinary proceedings envisaged by Article 311 of the Constitution of India or under any disciplinary rules including the Uttar Pradesh Basic Staff Rules, 1973 or the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999, shall not arise.

41. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the State and perused the record.

42. The present writ petition has been instituted impugning the orders dated 26.07.2025 and 13.08.2025 passed by the Additional Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Meerut Region, as well as the consequential orders dated 19.08.2025 and 20.08.2025 issued by the District Basic Education Officer, Meerut. By virtue of the aforesaid orders, the petitioner's claim for issuance of the High School Certificate and mark sheet has been declined, and the petitioner's salary has also been withheld.

43. The petitioner has asserted that she successfully passed the High School Examination in the year 1984 and was thereafter duly appointed as an Assistant Teacher in the year 1989. It is further averred that subsequent to such appointment, the petitioner has rendered prolonged and continuous service spanning several years.

44. The controversy appears to have arisen when the petitioner was called upon to upload their educational credentials on Manav Sampada Portal for official purposes. In pursuance thereof, the petitioner sought issuance of the High School mark sheet and certificate after an inordinate lapse of nearly four decades. Upon due enquiry by the competent authority, it was revealed that the petitioner's result had been categorized under the "withheld C.P." category, on account of non-submission of the requisite foundational documents at the relevant point of time.

45. It is an admitted position on record that the petitioner submitted an application dated 20.03.2024, accompanied by a Transfer Certificate pertaining to Class VIII and a handwritten High School mark sheet purportedly issued by St. Thomas Girls School, Meerut. However, the petitioner has erroneously denied the material fact that the Transfer Certificate evidencing her having passed Class VIII from the institution concerned at Etah was not submitted by her.

46. On the contrary, the record reveals that the petitioner furnished a Transfer Certificate of Class VIII from an institution at Meerut, which does not correspond to the requisite foundational document expected to substantiate her academic credentials. Such inconsistency in the documents placed on record casts a serious doubt upon the veracity of the petitioner's claim.

47. The aforesaid fact pertaining to the submission of the Class VIII mark sheet stands duly established from the material available on record.

48. A detailed order dated 26.07.2025 has been passed by the Additional Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Meerut Region, wherein a comprehensive account of the inquiry conducted into the documents submitted by the petitioner along with her application dated 20.03.2024 seeking issuance of the High School marksheet and certificate, has been set forth.

49. Upon being apprised by the Parishad of certain technical impediments in processing a request for issuance of certificates made after an inordinate lapse of time, the petitioner proceeded to submit a fresh application. The same was accompanied by a duly sworn affidavit bearing her photograph, along with a Transfer Certificate evidencing her having passed Class VIII from Junior High School, Rustamgarh, Etah, duly certified by the District Basic Education Officer concerned. The aforesaid documents were submitted before the Parishad on 13.05.2024, which were received on 24.05.2024.

50. Upon receipt of the aforesaid documents, the Parishad undertook verification of the High School certificate through the Principal, St. Thomas Girls' Inter College, Meerut. In response thereto, the Principal, vide communication dated 29.08.2024, furnished the following information:

"उपरोक्त विषयक आपके पत्रांक संख्या क्षे०का०मा०शि०प/ मे०/ समन्वय /69 / दिनांक 24.08.24 जो दिनांक 28.08.24 को डाक द्वारा प्राप्त हुआ। हाइस्कूल व्यावगत, परीक्षा वर्ष - 1984 अनुक्रमांक-1233725 का हस्तलिखित अंक पत्र छात्रा जो वीना मैनन 236 मिशन कम्पाउन्ड द्वारा आपको प्रस्तुत किया गया हैं। विद्यालय के गजट में छात्रा का परीक्षाफल (सी०पी०) पूर्ण नहीं हैं। विद्यालय द्वारा कोई भी हस्तलिखित अंक पत्र छात्रा को निर्गत नहीं कराया गया है। छात्रा का परीक्षाफल घोषित करने का विद्यालय को कोई भी आदेश अभी तक प्राप्त नहीं हुआ हैं। पत्र आपको अग्रिम कार्यवाही करने हेतु प्रेषित।"

51. A communication dated 24.08.2024 was issued by the Parishad for the purposes of verification of the Class VIII Transfer Certificate purportedly issued by Junior High School, Rustamgarh, Etah, as well as the certification accorded thereto by the District Basic Education Officer.

52. Pursuant thereto, two reports came to be received, one dated 27.12.2024 and the other dated 01.04.2025, which were found to be mutually contradictory. While the former affirmed that the Class VIII pass certificate stood duly verified and certified by the District Basic Education Officer, the latter categorically refuted the same.

53. In view of such inconsistency, the Parishad deemed it appropriate to cause an independent verification. Accordingly, Shri Munindra Kumar, In-charge Deputy Secretary, was deputed to conduct an on-site inspection. Upon undertaking the requisite inquiry, he submitted his report dated 02.05.2025, which reads as follows:

"मेरे द्वारा दिनांक-02.05.2025 को जूनियर हाईस्कूल रुस्तम गढ़ एटा में उपस्थित होकर स्थलीय जांच / भौतिक सत्यापन किये जाने पर प्रधानाचार्य द्वारा अवगत कराया गया कि परीक्षार्थिनी द्वारा प्रस्तुत कक्षा-08 की टी०सी० मेरे द्वारा निर्गत नहीं की गई है। उक्त टी०सी० में अंकित सुमन लता नाम की कोई भी प्रधानाध्यापक या अन्य पद विद्यालय की स्थापना से लेकर अब तक नियुक्ति ही नहीं हुई है। परीक्षार्थिनी श्रीमती वीना मैनन से सम्बन्धित कोई भी अभिलेख विद्यालय में उपलब्ध नहीं है। जिससे स्पष्ट है कि श्रीमती वीना मैनन (सहायक अध्यापक) द्वारा कक्षा-08 उत्तीर्ण की कूट रचित टी०सी० प्रस्तुत की है। जो अनुचित एवं व्यक्तिगत लाभ प्राप्त करने की चेष्टा की है।"

54. As a measure of abundant caution, the Parishad undertook further inquiry to ascertain the veracity of the two contradictory reports submitted with respect to the verification of the Class VIII Transfer Certificate. In this regard, a communication dated 23.06.2025, received via email on 03.07.2025 from the office of the District Basic Education Officer, categorically clarified that the verification report dated 01.04.2025, as relied upon by the petitioner, was genuine and had indeed been issued from the said office. It was further unequivocally stated that no verification report dated 27.12.2024 had ever been issued by the said authority.

55. In light of the aforesaid clarification, the inescapable conclusion that emerges from the record is that the petitioner has sought to rely upon a forged and fabricated document, thereby rendering her claim wholly untenable.

56. Notwithstanding the aforesaid, the Parishad, in adherence to the principles of natural justice, afforded the petitioner an opportunity to establish the genuineness of the handwritten High School mark sheet submitted by her, as well as the Class VIII Transfer Certificate purportedly issued from Etah. However, the petitioner failed to furnish any response or material in support of her claim.

57. In such circumstances, the order dated 26.07.2025 passed by the Additional Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Regional Office, Meerut, is found to be in consonance with law and based upon due consideration of the material on record.

58. The matter was taken up by this Court, on 13.10.2025 and 28.10.2025 and the following orders were passed.

Order Dated: 13.10.2025:

1. Mr. S.C. Upadhyay, learned Standing Counsel, is directed to seek instructions from the U.P. Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad and all the respondents, in respect of the correctness of the petitioner's mark sheets of the 10th and 12th classes. The Secretary, U.P. Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad, is also directed to submit a photocopy of the record pertaining to the petitioner along with his clear comments.

2. Put up this case as fresh on 28.10.2025.

3. A copy of this writ petition shall also be handed over to the Secretary, U.P. Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad for going through the record pertaining to the educational qualification of the petitioner and submitting his report along with instructions in respect of correctness of her certificate.

4. In case any delinquency is found on the part of the Secretary, U.P. Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad for not giving clear instructions, action may be taken against him and the matter shall be handed over to the another senior authority for conducting the inquiry into the cause of action mentioned in the writ petition.

Order Dated 28.10.2025:

1. By means of the present petition, petitioner seeks the following reliefs:

"I. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari calling upon the records quashing the impugned orders dated 26.07.2025, 13.08.2025 passed by the Additional Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Meerut Region, and the consequential orders dated 19.08.2025 and 20.08.2025 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Meerut.

II. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to forthwith release the withheld salary of the petitioner along with all consequential benefits, including arrears and continuity of service.

III. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to issue the High School marksheet and passing certificate of the petitioner in terms of the Gazette Notification of 1984 wherein the petitioner's name is recorded at Serial No. 725."

2. Respondent nos. 2 and 3 are directed to file counter affidavit disclosing the information whether the alleged certificate has been issued from the Board or not.

3. Put up this matter as fresh on 12.11.2025."

59. A detailed inquiry was conducted by the Secretary of the Parishad. Pursuant thereto, the application dated 20.03.2024, submitted by the petitioner for issuance of a duplicate mark sheet and certificate pertaining to the High School Examination, 1984 (Roll No. 1233725), along with the challan form, affidavit, certified copies, photocopy of the handwritten mark sheet, and other supporting documents including the publication in Dainik Jagran, Meerut Edition dated February 21, 2024, asserting that the original mark sheet and certificate had been lost were duly examined by the Parishad.

60. Upon scrutiny of the record, it transpires that multiple affidavits have been submitted by the petitioner. However, these affidavits are materially inconsistent and contradictory in nature. In certain affidavits, the petitioner has averred that she has been employed in a government, semi-government, or private organization, whereas in others, she has categorically denied any such engagement. These inconsistencies cast serious doubt upon the veracity and credibility of the petitioner's claims and the authenticity of the documents relied upon by her.

61. Upon perusal of the record, it transpires that the petitioner had submitted an application dated 13.05.2024, accompanied by a photocopy of an affidavit and a countersigned Transfer Certificate issued by the Junior High School, Rustamgarh, Etah, pertaining to her studies in Classes VI to VIII. Thereafter, another communication dated 24.05.2024 was forwarded by the Director of Secondary Education, recommending reconsideration of the petitioner's request for issuance of her Intermediate Marksheet and Certificate.

62. It is further borne out from the record that the petitioner submitted multiple affidavits at different points in time. Notably, an affidavit dated 19.07.2025, amongst others, categorically stated that she was not employed in any government, semi-government, or private organization. However, in stark contradiction thereto, the petitioner subsequently submitted another application dated 05.08.2024, wherein she admitted to having committed an error earlier and filed a fresh affidavit declaring that she was, in fact, employed in a government and semi-government organization.

63. All the aforesaid documents, applications, and affidavits were duly taken into consideration while adjudicating upon the petitioner's application dated 20.03.2024 for issuance of a High School Marksheet and Certificate. Upon a comprehensive inquiry into the matter, it was conclusively found that the petitioner had indulged in acts of forgery in securing appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher.

64. The entirety of these findings and the detailed inquiry conducted in this regard have been elaborately set forth in the order dated 26.07.2025, whereby the petitioner's application for issuance of the High School Marksheet and Certificate came to be rejected.

65. As already noted hereinabove, for the purpose of adjudicating the petitioner's application dated 20.03.2024, a report was requisitioned from the Principal, St. Thomas Girls' Inter College, Meerut, with regard to the authenticity of the petitioner's High School marksheet. In compliance thereof, the Principal submitted a report dated 29.08.2024, unequivocally stating that no handwritten marksheet had ever been issued to the petitioner. It was further clarified that the petitioner's result was not declared in the Gazette and had, in fact, been placed under the "withheld" category (C.P.), and that no order for declaration of the said result has been received by the institution till date.

66. Furthermore, the District Basic Education Officer was directed to conduct an independent inquiry in respect of the Transfer Certificate pertaining to Class VIII. Upon due verification, the said Transfer Certificate was also found to be not genuine.

67. This Court does not deem it necessary to reiterate the entirety of the aforesaid inquiries in extenso, which have already been comprehensively dealt with in the impugned order rejecting the petitioner's application for issuance of the High School marksheet. Suffice it to observe that the cumulative findings arising from the said inquiries unmistakably establish that the petitioner had secured appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher by relying upon forged and fabricated documents.

68. In compliance with the directions issued by this Court, a comprehensive inquiry was conducted. Pursuant thereto, Sanjeev Kumar Sharma, who was appointed as the Inquiry Officer and was then posted as Deputy Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Region Meerut, submitted his report dated 25.10.2025.

69. As per the findings recorded in the aforesaid report, it has been conclusively established that the petitioner had produced a handwritten High School marksheet and a fabricated Transfer Certificate (T.C.) purportedly issued for Class XI from St. Thomas Girls Inter College, Meerut. On the strength of the said documents, the petitioner secured admission in Class XII at Bhagirathi Arya Inter College, Meerut and was consequently permitted to appear in the Intermediate Examination, 1987, under Roll No. 061944.

70. The record further reveals that, at the time of seeking admission in Class XII, the petitioner had submitted a Transfer Certificate bearing Serial No. 12010, allegedly issued by her previous institution, namely, St. Thomas Girls Inter School, Meerut. However, upon due verification, the Inquiry Officer categorically found the said Class XI Transfer Certificate to be forged and fabricated.

71. It has also been noted in the inquiry report that the result of the petitioner in the Intermediate Examination, 1987, remains under consideration before the competent Examination Committee for cancellation. In further substantiation of the findings, a communication dated 25.10.2025 issued by the Principal has been appended to the inquiry report.

72. The conclusions drawn in the inquiry report leave no manner of doubt that the petitioner had systematically relied upon forged and fictitious documents to secure academic progression and consequential benefits, thereby vitiating the very foundation of her claim.

73. It is evident from the record that due notices had been duly issued to the petitioner, affording her an opportunity to submit her reply prior to the proposed cancellation of her High School marksheet and certificate, as well as the Intermediate certificate, which prima facie appear to have been procured by practising fraud. Despite such opportunity having been extended, the petitioner failed to submit any response.

74. Instead of availing the said opportunity, the petitioner has chosen to invoke the writ jurisdiction of this Court by filing the present petition, seeking relief which, in the considered opinion of this Court, is wholly untenable in the eyes of law. It is a well-settled principle, consistently reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and various High Courts, that fraud vitiates all solemn acts. In cases where an action is founded upon fraud, the requirement of affording an opportunity of hearing is considerably diluted, and in appropriate cases, even dispensed with.

75. In the present case, the material on record unmistakably points towards deliberate misrepresentation and fabrication of documents by the petitioner. Consequently, the petitioner cannot be permitted to take advantage of her own wrong by invoking the equitable jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

76. From the foregoing discussion, it is manifestly clear that the petitioner had failed to satisfy the foundational eligibility conditions requisite for appearing in the High School Examination. The inquiry conducted in the matter further reveals that the petitioner's entire subsequent academic progression was predicated upon forged and fabricated documents.

77. In light of the aforesaid categorical findings, the rejection of the petitioner's claim for issuance of the High School certificate and marksheet cannot be faulted. Consequential actions, including the withholding of salary, have also been initiated by the competent authority in accordance with law.

78. The reliance sought to be placed upon the Gazette notification and other ancillary documents is wholly misconceived and devoid of merit. The material available on record unequivocally establishes that the petitioner's result had been recorded as "withheld", thereby dispelling any presumption of her having successfully completed the examination.

79. More importantly, the inquiry has categorically revealed that no direction or authorization was ever issued by the competent authority to the Principal of the concerned institution for issuance of any handwritten marksheet. In the absence of such authorization, the very foundation of the petitioner's claim stands vitiated, rendering her reliance upon such documents entirely untenable in the eyes of law.

80. Upon a meticulous and comprehensive inquiry, the competent authority has returned categorical findings to the effect that the documents relied upon by the petitioner are forged and fabricated. It is a settled principle of law that, in exercise of its writ jurisdiction, this Court does not act as an appellate forum to reappreciate or reassess findings of fact, unless such findings are demonstrated to be perverse, manifestly arbitrary, or wholly unsupported by the material on record.

81. In the present case, the findings impugned are firmly anchored in cogent and credible evidence, including official records, verification reports, and the unequivocal denial by the purported issuing institution regarding the authenticity of the documents in question. Significantly, the petitioner has failed to place any material on record to dislodge or controvert the said findings.

82. Consequently, the conclusions arrived at by the competent authority cannot be said to suffer from any illegality, arbitrariness, or perversity warranting interference by this Court. The decision-making process stands duly substantiated by evidence and is, therefore, immune from judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

83. This Court further finds that Chapter XII, Regulation 10.1 of the Uttar Pradesh Board of Secondary Education Rules, 1983-88, delineates three distinct categories of candidates who are eligible to appear in the High School Examination. The requisite conditions governing such eligibility have already been extracted above in paragraph 35(i).

84. A perusal of the record unmistakably reveals that the petitioner does not fall within any of the aforesaid categories. The foundational educational documents, namely those pertaining to Classes VIII, IX, and XI, have, upon due inquiry, been found to be forged and fabricated. In the absence of genuine foundational qualifications, the very edifice of the petitioner's claim stands vitiated.

85. Consequently, the assertion of the petitioner that her High School certificate is genuine is wholly untenable and devoid of any legal foundation. Such a claim, resting as it does upon tainted and fabricated documents, is liable to be rejected outrightly.

86. As regards the submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner that in early entry no. 9228 of 2013 filed assailing the order whereby the petitioner's representation for payment of salary came to be rejected, the High School certificate of the petitioner was not put in issue, this Court finds the said contention to be misconceived.

87. A perusal of the record reveals that the controversy pertaining to the authenticity and validity of the petitioner's High School certificate did not fall for consideration in the aforesaid writ proceedings. Consequently, no adjudication, much less any conclusive finding, was rendered by this Court on the said aspect. It is, therefore, not open to the petitioner to contend that the absence of any adverse observation therein amounts to a tacit affirmation of the genuineness of the said certificate.

88. The petitioner is equally unjustified in contending that the refusal to issue the mark sheet is arbitrary or unsustainable merely on the strength of the official gazette notification, wherein the petitioner's name finds mention at Serial No. 725, indicating that although she had appeared in the examination, her result was withheld under the C.P. category.

89. This Court is of the considered opinion that such a gazette notification, by itself, cannot be construed as conclusive proof of the petitioner having duly passed the examination, particularly in the absence of compliance with the mandatory regulatory requirements. The applicable regulations unequivocally mandate that a candidate must have fulfilled the foundational eligibility conditions, namely, passing of Class VIII or IX, prior to being permitted to appear in the High School Examination.

90. In the present case, once it stands established that the petitioner had not satisfied the said prerequisite conditions, the mere publication of her name in the gazette notification, reflecting a withheld result, does not ipso facto confer any legal sanctity upon the claim of having passed the examination. Consequently, such notification cannot be relied upon to authenticate or validate the petitioner's handwritten mark sheet, which is alleged to have been issued dehors the official records and in clear contravention of the prescribed procedure. Accordingly, the contention advanced by the petitioner in this regard is devoid of merit and is liable to be rejected.

91. Upon due consideration of the inquiries conducted, coupled with the admitted position that the petitioner did not possess the requisite eligibility to appear in the High School examination, this Court finds that even if, for the sake of argument, it is presumed that the High School mark sheet relied upon by the petitioner was procured by her, the same admittedly does not emanate from the competent authority, i.e., the Parishad.

92. In such circumstances, the impugned action cannot be characterised as a mere procedural irregularity or a lapse in documentation. Rather, it constitutes a patent illegality vitiated by fraud. The material on record unmistakably indicates that the petitioner has sought to secure appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher by placing reliance upon a mark sheet which lacks authenticity and has not been issued by the competent authority.

93. It is trite law that fraud vitiates all solemn acts. The petitioner, having consciously indulged in misrepresentation and having suppressed material facts, cannot be permitted to derive any advantage from such deceitful conduct. The very foundation of her appointment stands tainted, having been procured by practicing fraud upon the authorities.

94. In view thereof, no question arises of protecting or enforcing any purported substantive right in favour of the petitioner. Any benefit secured on the basis of fraud is non est in the eyes of law and liable to be annulled. Consequently, the contention of the petitioner, founded upon equitable considerations, is wholly untenable and deserves to be rejected.

95. Learned counsel for the petitioner has sought to place reliance upon certain judicial pronouncements in support of his submissions. However, upon a careful, contextual, and purposive analysis of the said judgments, this Court finds that the reliance so placed is wholly misconceived and devoid of merit. The cited judgments are clearly distinguishable on facts as well as on law, and do not support the case of the petitioner in any manner.

96. The reliance placed upon the decision in Rafiq Masih (supra) is wholly misplaced. The said judgment pertains to the issue of recovery of excess payments made to employees and is founded upon equitable considerations in situations where no element of fraud or misrepresentation is attributable to the employee. The ratio laid down therein has no application to the facts of the present case, where the very substratum of the petitioner's claim, i.e., her eligibility and foundational qualifications, is under serious cloud on account of established findings of fraud and fabrication. Consequently, the said decision does not come to the aid of the petitioner.

97. Similarly, the reliance placed upon the judgment in Markandey Kumar Yadav (supra) is equally misconceived. In the said case, the Court proceeded on the premise that the candidate's educational records were genuine and that the discrepancy arose on account of an administrative lapse on the part of the authorities. In contradistinction, the present case does not involve any mere procedural irregularity or administrative omission. Rather, it concerns substantive invalidity of the petitioner's claim, founded upon documents which, upon due inquiry, have been found to be forged and fabricated. The very edifice of the petitioner's eligibility is thus rendered unsustainable. Therefore, the said judgment is clearly distinguishable on facts and does not strengthen the case of the petitioner in any manner.

98. Likewise, the reliance placed upon the decision in All India Private Schools Legal Protection Society (supra) is equally misconceived and inapposite to the controversy at hand. The said judgment operates in an entirely different domain, namely, the Right to Education and the removal of procedural impediments faced by students in accessing educational opportunities. The present case, however, pertains to the verification and genuineness of educational qualifications in the context of public employment, where the standards of scrutiny are necessarily stringent and any element of fraud or fabrication strikes at the very root of the claim. The ratio of the aforesaid decision, therefore, has no application to the facts of the present case and does not advance the petitioner's cause in any manner.

99. In contradistinction, the judgments relied upon by the respondents are directly on point and enunciate binding principles of law which squarely govern the controversy involved in the present case. The ratio laid down therein is fully applicable to the facts at hand and lends complete support to the action impugned, thereby fortifying the stand taken by the respondents.

100. In Manjul Kumar (supra), it has been authoritatively held that where the very foundation of an appointment is tainted by forgery, the appointment itself stands vitiated and is liable to be treated as void ab initio. The principle enunciated therein applies with full force to the present case, where the petitioner's foundational educational qualifications themselves are shrouded in doubt and have, upon inquiry, been found to be forged and fabricated. Consequently, the petitioner cannot derive any legal sanctity from an appointment founded upon such tainted credentials.

101. The Apex Court in Jainendra Singh (supra) has unequivocally held that fraud vitiates every solemn act, including appointment to public service, and that mere length of service does not create any enforceable equity in favour of the employee.

102. In view of the aforesaid settled position of law, the contention advanced on behalf of the petitioner that she ought not to be disturbed after having rendered long years of service is wholly untenable. Such a plea cannot be countenanced when the very foundation of the appointment stands vitiated on account of fraud and the use of forged and fabricated documents. The equitable considerations sought to be invoked by the petitioner pale into insignificance in the face of established illegality.

103. In Garima Singh (supra), it has been held that where fraud is writ large on the face of the record, the principles of natural justice cannot be invoked as a protective shield by the wrongdoer. In such circumstances, the requirement of affording an opportunity of hearing stands substantially diluted and, in appropriate cases, may even be dispensed with. Accordingly, in cases where an appointment has been secured by practising fraud, no vested right accrues in favour of the appointee so as to insist upon strict adherence to the principles of natural justice. The law does not permit a person to take advantage of his own wrong, and any action founded upon fraud is liable to be nullified without being fettered by procedural technicalities.

104. Likewise, in Virendra Kumar Mishra (supra) and Kamlesh Kumar Nirankari (supra), this Court has consistently reiterated the settled principle that no right can emanate from a fraudulent act, and that the Courts must refrain from lending their imprimatur to claims founded upon deceit or misrepresentation. It has further been held that once the foundational documents are found to be forged and fabricated, the resultant appointment is rendered a nullity in the eyes of law and does not warrant any elaborate adjudicatory exercise. The ratio of the said decisions squarely applies to the facts of the present case, where the petitioner's claim is demonstrably rooted in fraudulent documentation, thereby disentitling her from any relief under the equitable jurisdiction of this Court.

105. From the aforesaid discussion, this Court unequivocally finds that the petitioner has failed to establish the existence of a validly acquired High School qualification. The documents relied upon by her are not only unreliable but are also vitiated by serious and substantive doubts as to their authenticity.

106. The case of the petitioner is not one of a mere procedural irregularity or administrative lapse; rather, it is a case of foundational illegality, striking at the very root of her claim. The precedents relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner are clearly distinguishable and inapplicable to the facts of the present case. On the contrary, the controversy is squarely covered by the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the respondents, which fully support the impugned action.

107. The petitioner has failed to make out any case warranting interference by this Court in exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction. She cannot be permitted to derive any advantage from the plea of long continuance in service or from any alleged lapse on the part of the authorities in not undertaking verification of documents at the time of appointment. The record clearly indicates that the petitioner was fully conscious of the fact that the handwritten marksheet, purportedly obtained from the institution, had never been issued by the competent authority.

108. Moreover, despite being aware that her result had been placed under the "withheld" (C.P.) category, as duly reflected in the Gazette notification, the petitioner proceeded to rely upon such fabricated documents. In such circumstances, the petitioner cannot be allowed to shift the burden onto the authorities or seek to take benefit of their omission, if any, when the very foundation of her claim is tainted by fraud and deliberate misrepresentation.

109. Once the very substratum and foundational basis of the petitioner's appearance in the High School examination is found to be non-genuine, the petitioner cannot be permitted to contend that, since the High School certificate and mark sheet have not yet been formally cancelled and continue to subsist on record, the impugned orders are rendered unsustainable in the eyes of law. Such a plea is wholly misconceived. A document, the origin whereof is tainted by fraud or fabrication, does not acquire legitimacy merely on account of the absence of a formal order of cancellation. Fraud vitiates all solemn acts, and no right can be founded upon a forged or fabricated document.

110. In a catena of decisions this Court as well as Apex Court have unequivocally held that no person can be allowed to take advantage of his own wrong and have also observed that fraud and justice can never dwell together. The Courts have also held that an appointment obtained on the basis of a false or fabricated certificate is void ab initio and confers no enforceable right, even if such certificate has not been formally cancelled.

111. In the present case, the competent authority, upon due inquiry, has already recorded findings and recommended cancellation of the High School as well as Intermediate certificates and mark sheets obtained by the petitioner. Such recommendation further fortifies the conclusion that the very edifice of the petitioner's claim stands vitiated.

112. This Court finds that the petitioner approached the authorities after an inordinate and unexplained delay of nearly four decades, seeking issuance of foundational educational documents. Such an extraordinarily belated claim, by its very nature, warrants strict scrutiny and cannot be entertained lightly. There is no illegality, perversity, or infirmity in the impugned action so as to warrant interference in exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The grounds raised by learned counsel for the petitioner are wholly devoid of merit and do not persuade this Court to take a view different from that arrived at by the authorities concerned.

113. In view above, the impugned orders cannot be faulted on the ground urged by the petitioner, and the challenge so raised is devoid of merit. The case set up by the petitioner does not merit acceptance, either in law or on equitable considerations. The claim is fundamentally vitiated by illegality, resting as it does upon forged and unreliable documents, and therefore fails to invoke the discretionary and equitable jurisdiction of this Court.

114. In view of the foregoing analysis and the settled principles of law governing the field, this Court finds no ground whatsoever to grant any relief to the petitioner. The writ petition, being devoid of merit, is accordingly dismissed.

115. No order as to costs.

116. This Court places on record its appreciation for the valuable assistance rendered by Ms. Anushka Gupta in extensive research of the judgments while preparing the present order. Her commendable efforts constrained me to note that she executes the entrusted task with due diligence.

THE HON'BLE SAURABH SHYAM SHAMSHERY, J.

Writ B No. 3987 of 2025

Versus

State of U.P. & Ors.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether the Consolidation Authorities were justified in expunging long standing revenue entries existing in favour of the petitioners and their predecessors from 1309-F till the basic year on the ground that petitioners failed to show any legal basis or order on which their names could have been recorded.

HEADNOTE

U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953, ss.9-A(2), 11, 48 – Objections filed by contesting respondents seeking expunction of names of petitioners from disputed holdings – Petitioners claimed co-tenancy rights on the basis of long standing revenue entries existing from 1309-F till the basic year and further pleaded that parties descended from common ancestors – Consolidation Officer allowed objections holding that entries in favour of predecessors of petitioners were made without any factual or legal basis – Settlement Officer of Consolidation dismissed appeal and affirmed findings – Deputy Director of Consolidation dismissed revision – Challenge in writ jurisdiction.

Held: Court took note of the settled legal position that even long standing revenue entries may be challenged if they are shown to have been made surreptitiously or without legal basis.

Consolidation Authorities recorded concurrent findings that in settlement records of 1291-F and subsequent years only Ganga was recorded and there was no explanation as to how names of predecessors of petitioners came to be recorded subsequently in 1309-F and 1334-F – Petitioners failed to establish any subsequent event, family arrangement, partition or other legal basis for recording of their names. Court further held that petitioners' plea of re-settlement was vague and unsupported by any material on record – Nature of entries in 1309-F showed predecessors of petitioners as 'sikmi cultivators' for a fixed period and such entries could not confer status of co-tenure holders – Writ petition dismissed. (Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. This case is arising out of objections filed u/s 9A (2) of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953. The objections filed by contesting respondents were allowed by an order dated 01.05.2010 passed by Consolidation Officer to the extent that name of predecessors of present petitioners were expunged despite being having long standing revenue entries on a ground that entries were made without any factual or legal basis.

2. A challenge on behalf of predecessors of petitioners to above referred order dated 01.05.2010 passed by Consolidation Officer, Pindara, Varanasi before Settlement Officer of Consolidation (SOC) Varanasi was remained unsuccessful as well as subsequent challenge before Deputy Director of Consolidation (DDC) also remained unsuccessful. The appeal was rejected vide an order dated 23.04.2016 and revision was dismissed vide an order dated 18.07.2025/27.08.2025.

3. Aforesaid orders dated 01.05.2010, 23.04.2016 and 18.07.2025/27.08.2025 are challenged in this writ petition.

4. Learned counsel for rival parties are in agreement that present writ petition can be decided without exchange of pleadings as all relevant documents are on record of present writ petition as well as legal issues are involved.

5. Sri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Y.V. Bajpai, learned counsel for petitioners has referred averments made in this writ petition specifically that Ganga s/o Shiv Dayal was recorded as sole tenure holder in 1291-F relating to Mahal Jwala Prasad (plot nos. 252, 485, 495, 498) and Mahal Jasoda Bibi (plot nos. 236, 238, 242, 477). Ganga continued to be recorded on referred plots as sole tenure holder till 1307-F Khatauni and thereafter in 1309-F Khatauni. Ganga was recorded on 210, 478, 235 whereas petitioners predecessor (Shiv Baran) was recorded as 236/2, 247, 250, 471/1 while Sumer was recorded as 236/3, 242, 252, 492, 498/3. Subsequently, successors of Ganga, Shiv Baran and Sumer were recorded in 1334-F, 1356-F and 1378-F as well as basic year of Khatauni of 1388-F. Present petitioners represent the line of Shiv Baran.

6. By referring above details, learned Senior Advocate has submitted that name of petitioners predecessors and their successors including petitioners were recorded at least from 1309-F to 1388-F i.e. for a very long period and admittedly, during said period, the respondents have never taken any step to get expunged the name of predecessors of petitioners, therefore, there would be a presumption that long revenue entries were genuine, however, without considering this aspect, all three Authorities under U.P.C.H. Act have passed orders against petitioners and allowed the objections filed by respondents' predecessors.

7. Learned Senior Advocate has also submitted that Ganga was common ancestor of rival parties, however, Kursinama submitted by petitioners' predecessors was wrongly rejected by the Consolidation Officer but substantially accepted by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. He also submitted that a finding that name of Sumer was for the first time recorded in 1334-F was contrary to record, since he was recorded for the first time in 1309-F and for that he referred khatauni of relevant fasli year.

8. Per contra, Sri Pradeep Kumar Rai, learned counsel for contesting respondents has submitted that only on a ground that objections were raised for the first time when consolidation proceedings were commenced would not make the entries in favour of predecessors of petitioners genuine, if there was no legal or factual basis for such entries as well as claim of common predecessors was also disputed.

9. Learned counsel also referred various part of all three impugned orders that since concurrent findings were based on material and after considering rival submissions, therefore, except being perverse in nature, writ court may not interfere it and that petitioners have not able to show any perversity.

10. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for respondents has placed reliance on judgments of this Court in Ram Prasad Singh vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation Camp Ballia and others, 1983 SCC Online All 643 ; Sri Ram and others vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Allahabad, 2011 0 Supreme (All) 709 as well as judgment of Supreme Court in Dharmraj and others vs. Chhitani and others, 2006 0 Supreme (SC) 1053 that the land in suit was settled by original zamindar and in order to prove co-tenancy, there must be some more substantive evidence, above than referred revenue entries of co-tenancy, however, predecessors of petitioners as well as petitioners remained failed to bring on record any such evidence or documents.

11. Heard learned counsel for rival parties and perused the records.

12. Before advertng to rival submissions, it would be appropriate if relevant part of all three impugned orders be quoted below :-

Order Date :- 01.05.2010 passed by Consolidation Officer

रामनरायन आदि का कोई हक पुरखा नहीं रहा। इस प्रकार किशोरी ने आ०वि० को रामनरायन आदि के पूर्वजों से शिकमी सीरदारी होना कहा है और उसने यह भी अपने बयान में जिरह में स्पष्ट कहा कि उनके व रामनरायन के खानदान का कोई एक पुरखा नहीं रहा। आखिर इन दोनों खानदान का कोई एक भी पूर्वज नहीं रहा है। किशोरी ने अपने बयान के जिरह दि० 30.10.98 में यह भी कहा है कि शिवदयाल को उपरोक्त भी उन्हें रामदयाल भी कहते हैं। किन्तु अपने जवाबदेही दि० 19.10.93 में उसके शिवदयाल व रामदयाल को अलग 2 व्यक्ति बताया है। इससे स्पष्ट है कि किशोरी आदि द्वारा अपने जवाबदेही में दिया गया कुर्सीनामे के विरुद्ध उसका स्वयं का बयान है किशोरी आदि व छोटे लाल आदि द्वारा कोई ऐसा सदस्य नहीं दिया गया है जिससे यह साबित हो कि रामदयाल व शिवदयाल व नन्हकूँ आपस में सगे भाई थे। और उनके पिता रामजियावन थे। बल्कि इसके विपरीत किशोरी के उपरोक्त बयानों से रामनरायन आदि व किशोरी आदि के परिवारों की असम्बद्धता साबित होती है। जहां तक किशोरी आदि द्वारा रामनरायन आदि के पूर्वजों मंगरू द्वारा सुमेर आदि जो किशमी पर जमीन दिये जाये का तथ्य किशोरी आदि द्वारा रखा गया। और इसके जरिये 1334फ0 से इन्द्राज का औचित्य का तर्क दिया गया है। वह स्वयं में विरोधाभासी व गलत है। यदि किशोरी आदि से पूर्वज सुमेर द्वारा मंगरू से कोई भूमि शिकमी पर ली गयी थी तो वह 1334 फ० में सहखातेदार कैसे दर्ज हो सकते हैं। इस प्रकार मेरी राय में किशोरी आदि द्वारा साक्ष्यों से 1334फ0 के इन्द्राज का औचित्य प्रमाणित करने में पूर्णतया विफल रहे। जहां तक छोटे लाल आदि द्वारा दिये जाने वाले साक्ष्यों का प्रश्न है। छोटे लाल ने अपने बयान में यह कहा है कि विवादित दोनों खातों की भूमि पैतृक है। किन्तु उसके द्वारा ऐसा कोई साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत किया गया है कि जिससे स्पष्ट हो कि उसके द्वारा दिये गये कुर्सीनामे में सबसे बड़े पूर्वज रामजियावन के जमाने की भूमि यह है। बन्दोबस्त 1291फ0 में भी यह भूमि गंगा वल्द शिवदयाल के नाम से दर्ज है। जो हरगिज पक्षों में सामान्य पूर्वज नहीं है। ऐसी सूरत में कोई भी साक्ष्य इस तथ्य का छोटे लाल आदि द्वारा दाखिल नहीं किया गया है। जिससे साबित हो कि आ०नि० पैतृक है। 1334फ0 में प्रथम बारी किस प्रकार उसके पूर्वजों के नाम दर्ज हुआ यह सवाल भी है। यद्यपि यह इन्द्राज पुराना है किन्तु कोई की इन्द्राज आधारहीन है तो वह जितना भी पुराना क्यों नहीं हो। उससे किसी भी व्यक्ति के पक्ष में स्वत्व का अधिकार प्राप्त नहीं हो सकता है। इस सम्बंध में मेरे समक्ष :

विपक्षी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का कथन है कि 1291 फस्ली के खाता सं०-15 व 21 में गंगा पुत्र शिवदयाल का नाम कुल 06 गाटा पर शरहमुअइन काश्तकार के रूप में अंकित है। यह गाटे आधार वर्ष के खाता सं०-78 में अंकित है, जबकि 1291 फस्ली के खाता सं०-60 में शिवदयाल का नाम बतौर दखीलकार अंकित है। यह गाटे आधार वर्ष के खाता सं०-79 में अंकित है। विद्वान अधिवक्ता के अनुसार 1334 फस्ली में पहली बार अपीलांट का नाम अंकित हुआ। उसके अनुसार आगरा काश्तकारी अधिनियम 1926 के धारा-16 की उप धारा-5 के अनुसार पंजीकृत अभिलेख के द्वारा ही दखीलकारी अधिकार प्रदान किये जा सकते हैं। अपीलकर्ता द्वारा कोई पंजीकृत अभिलेख नहीं प्रदान किया गया है। किशोरी ने बयान में कहा है कि शिकमी

से हमारा नाम आया। उनके अनुसार 1309 फ० में शिवबरन कुर्मी का नाम खाता सं०-53/31 में तथा सुमेर कुर्मी का नाम खाता सं०-52/31 में अंकित है। विद्वान अधिवक्ता के अनुसार यदि उपर्युक्त व्यक्ति हैं तो क्या सहखातेदार सब-टेनेन्ट हो सकता है

उभयपक्षों के विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं की बहस, अवर न्यायालय की पत्रावली तथा विधि व्यवस्था का भली-भाँति अवलोकन किया गया। जिससे स्पष्ट है कि अपीलकर्ता ने अपने अपील में जो कुर्सीनामा दिया है वह पूर्णतया सही है। वस्तुतः प्रतिवादी के रामनरायन ने अपने बयान में भी वही कुर्सीनामा दिया है। अतएव कुर्सीनामे के सम्बन्ध में कोई विवेचन करने की आवश्यकता नहीं है। वस्तुतः रामनरायन आदि के आपत्ति का मूल आधार यह है कि आराजी नेजाई गंगा पुत्र शिवदयाल की पैदाकरदगी है। प्रतिवादीगणों यानी अपीलकर्तागण का विवादित आराजी पर त्रुटिपूर्ण ढंग से नाम अंकित हुआ है। अतएव निरस्त हो। रामनरायन ने अपने बयान व जिरह में बार-बार स्वीकार किया है कि रामजियावन के तीन लड़के- रामदयाल, शिवदयाल, नन्हकू हैं। अतएव इन्हीं तीनों के साथ के हैं। दूसरे महत्वपूर्ण बात यह है कि अपील में कहा गया है कि मौरूसी व संयुक्त परिवार की सम्पत्ति में किसी एक साख के व्यक्ति का नाम कर्ता-खानदान की हैसियत से दर्ज हो जाने से अन्य शाखा के लोगों का सहखातेदारी कतई समाप्त नहीं हो जाता है, जबकि किशोरी ने अन्य में बयान तहरीरी तथा अपने बयान में कहा है कि परिवार में बंटवारा लगभग सौ वर्ष पूर्व हो गया है। इस दृष्टि से विभाजन 1307 फस्ली व 1291 फस्ली के बीच ही हो गया है। यह बात कागजी इन्द्राज से भी साबित है। कदाचित इसीलिये 51/31 व 52/31 में आपत्तिकर्तागण के मूरिस का नाम भाग दो में अंकित है। यहाँ यह भी उल्लेख करना आवश्यक है कि किशोरी ने अपने बयान में कहा है कि हमारे पूर्वजों ने शिकमी/सीरदारी से आराजी प्राप्त की, परन्तु इस बाबत कोई अभिलेखीय साक्ष्य नहीं दिया है। प्रतिवादी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का कथन सही है कि सह-काशतकार शिकमी नहीं हो सकता। तीसरे पत्रावली पर जो साक्ष्य कागजी उपलब्ध है उसमें 129 फस्ली का इन्द्राज खाता सं०-15 व 21 गंगा वल्द शिवदयाल का नाम शरहमुअइयन काशतकार के रूप में अंकित है, जो वर्तमान में आधार वर्ष के खाता सं०-78 में अंकित है, जबकि 1291 फस्ली के खाता सं०-60 में गंगा का नाम गाटा सं०-210 व 478 पर बतौर दखीलकार अंकित है। जो कि आधार वर्ष के खाता सं०-79 में अंकित है। अपीलकर्तागण के साथ का नाम पहली बार 1334 फस्ली में अंकित हुआ वह भी बकाशत के साथ जैसा कि अपील के पैरा-6 में प्रदर्शित किया गया है। इसी को आधार बनाकर कहा गया है कि आगरा काशतकारी अधिनियम 1926 लागू होने पर 1334 फस्ली के इन्द्राज सावधानी पूर्वक तैयार किये गये जो आधार वर्ष तक बदस्तूर हैं। अतएव इतनी लम्बी अवधि के इन्द्राज को निरस्त नहीं किया जा सकता। अपीलकर्ता द्वारा आर०डी० 2011 पृष्ठ-89 पर प्रदत्त व्यवस्था का उल्लेख किया गया है, जबकि प्रतिवादी के अधिवक्ता द्वारा 2015 आर०डी० 128 पृष्ठ-37 पर प्रदत्त व्यवस्था का हवाला दिया गया है। तदनुसार राजस्व प्रविष्टि उस व्यक्ति के वास्तविक भौमिक अधिकार का निर्णायक प्रमाण नहीं है, जिसका नाम उसमें दर्ज किया गया है। इसी प्रकार 1961 आर०डी० पृष्ठ-5 की व्यवस्था का उल्लेख करते हुये कहा गया है कि बन्दोबस्ती इन्द्राज को भी खण्डित किया जा सकता है, साथ ही 1986 ए०एल०आर० पेज-77 की

व्यवस्था दी गयी है। प्रतिवादी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का कथन है कि शरहमुअइयन का रिसेटेलमेन्ट नहीं हो सकता, क्योंकि शरहमुअइयन की भूमि में जमींदार को कोई अधिकार नहीं था। यह सही भी है कि बनारस में 1975 में स्थायी बन्दोबस्त लागू करके लगान की दर स्थायी कर दी गयी। इस प्रकार से शरहमुअइयन काश्तकारी यानी फिक्स रेट टेनेन्ट का अभ्युदय हुआ। इससे स्पष्ट है कि शरहमुअइयन काश्तकारी यानी फिक्स रेट टेनेन्ट की जा सकती थी। जहाँ तक दखीलकारी भूमि का प्रश्न है इसमें आगरा काश्तकारी अधिनियम की धारा-17(5) के अनुसार पंजीकृत विलेख के जरिये ही कोई टेनेन्सी की जा सकती है। परन्तु अपीलान्ट ने ऐसा कोई साक्ष्य नहीं दिया है। उक्त से स्पष्ट है कि 1334 फस्ली में अपीलकर्तागण के साथ का नाम विधि विरुद्ध तरीके से आया जो आधार वर्ष तक कायम रहा। 1986 ए०एल०आर० पृष्ठ-77 की व्यवस्था इस बाद पर पूर्णतया लागू होती है। तदनुसार दीर्घकालीन इन्द्राज का यदि आधार गलत है तो उसको निरस्त किया जा सकता है।

संक्षेप में यह सही है कि आधार वर्ष का इन्द्राज लम्बे समय से कायम, परन्तु उसका आधार त्रुटिपूर्ण है। अपीलकर्तागण ने संयुक्त परिवार/कर्ता-खानदान को आधार बनाकर अपना प्रतिवाद नहीं किया, बल्कि शिकमी/सीरदारी को आधार बनाया व आपसी बंटवारा को 100 वर्ष पूर्व होना स्वीकार किया है। ऐसी दशा में यद्यपि कि च०अ० ने विवेचन में कुछ त्रुटि की है। तथापि निष्कर्ष सही निष्पादित किया है। उपरोक्तानुसार दोनों अपीलें निरस्त होने योग्य हैं।"

Order date :- 18.07.2025 passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation

.... के निर्णय दिनांक 01.05.2010 के विरुद्ध अन्य प्रभावित पक्षकारों ने उपरोक्त दोनों अपीलें दाखिल की थी, मात्र किशोरी व बुझारत या बुझारत के लड़के लल्लन, रम्मन, गुदर द्वारा कोई अपील चकबन्दी अधिकारी के आदेश के विरुद्ध दाखिल नहीं की गयी थी। बन्दोबस्त ... चकबन्दी के द्वारा दिनांक 23.04.2016 को निर्णय पारित किये जाने के उपरान्त उक्त निर्णय के विरुद्ध कोशोरी, बुझारत पुत्रगण परताप द्वारा 25.04.2016 को तजवीजसानी प्रस्तुत किया गया, जो दोनों पक्षों की सुनवाई उपरान्त बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी के निर्णय दिनांक 03.04.... द्वारा निरस्त कर दिया गया है। किशोरी व लल्लन, रम्मन, गुदर पुत्रगण बुझारात द्वारा दाखिल निगरानी, बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी के निर्णय

.....715 नरेन्द्र बनाम सरदार सरवन सिंह, 2009(108) आर०डी० पृष्ठ-543 मु० रमजान बनाम डी०डी०सी०, 2003(94) आर०डी० पृष्ठ-535..... बनाम ए०डी०सी० गोरखपुर, 1984 आर०डी० पृष्ठ 133 राम प्रसाद बनाम डी०डी०सी० बलिया, 1997(80) आर०डी० पृष्ठ-276 गुरमुख सिंह डी० सी० आदि तर्क आदि दिया गया कि, कोई भी इन्द्राज कितना भी पुराना क्यों न हो, यदि वह आधारहीन है तो ऐसी प्रविष्टि के बार बार अभिलेखों में जाने से कोई अधिकार सृजित नहीं हो जाता है। 1984 आर० डी० पृष्ठ 133 राम प्रसाद बनाम डी०डी०सी० बलिया में उल्लिखित तथ्य लगभग उसी है जैसा कि प्रस्तुत मामले में है। उक्त में भी 1334 फसली की इन्द्री को आधारहीन मानते हुए उसे दौरान चकबन्दी अमान्य किया गया था। मामले में भी चकबन्दी व बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी द्वारा गहन परीक्षण के उपरान्त 1334 फसली के इन्द्राज को आधारहीन मानते हुए अपना निर्णय पारित किया गया है। इस न्यायालय की राय में भी कोई भी इन्द्राज यदि विधिक ढंग द्वारा अनुमन्य नहीं है तथा बिना किसी पर्याप्त आधार के खतौनी का कोई इन्द्राज है तो मात्र इन्द्राज से किसी को कोई हक सृजित नहीं हो जाता है। इस मुकदमें में रामनरायन आदि आपत्तिकर्तागण का विवादित सम्पत्ति पर तनहा कब्जा है, इस सम्बन्ध में कल्याण मित्र पुत्र रामआधार मित्र उम्र 70 साल निवासी दुग्गीपुर जो एक स्वतंत्र गवाह है, उसने अपने बयान व जिरह में स्पष्ट कहा है कि विवादित भूमि पर रामनरायन आदि का तनहा कब्जा दखल के तथ्य को कहा है। इसके विपरीत निगरानीकर्तागण की तरफ से राजदेव प्रसाद पुत्र स्व० कंधेया लाल को प्रस्तुत किया गया है, जिसकी उम्र मात्र 38 वर्ष है, उसने अपने जिरह में यह कहा है कि आराजी निजाई के किसी नम्बर के अगल-बगल मेरा नम्बर नहीं है। विवादित गाटों में से एक गाटा 477 के बावत उसने बयान में कहा है कि गाटा सं० 477 में रामनरायन आदि की पूर्व जोत है। उसका यह बयान निगरानीकर्तागण के केस के विरुद्ध है क्योंकि निगरानीकर्तागण ने खाते में अपना वैधानिक 1/3 अंश का तथ्य कहा है। इस प्रकार यह बयान भी उनके विरुद्ध जाता है। बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी ने अपने निर्णय में मौजूदा निगरानीकर्तागण के रि-सेटेलमेन्ट के तर्क को अस्वीकार किया है, इस हेतु इस न्यायालय में आगरा टेनेन्सी एक्ट 1926 की धारा 17 का उल्लेख करते हुए उक्त अधिनियम की धारा 17 की उप धारा 5 के अनुसार बिना किसी रजिस्टर्ड दस्तावेज के किसी भी दखीलकारी भूमि में दखीलकारी अधिकार उत्पन्न नहीं हो सकते हैं, के विधिक प्राविधान को विवेचित किया है जिससे यह न्यायालय भी सहमत है। अतः उपरोक्त समग्र तथ्यों के आधार पर इस न्यायालय का यह निश्चित मत है कि चकबन्दी अधिकारी का निर्णय दिन ता० 01-05-2010 जिसे बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी द्वारा पारित निर्णय दिन ता० 23-04-2016 के जरिये पुष्ट किया गया है, में किसी प्रकार का हस्तक्षेप व परिवर्तन अपेक्षित न होने के कारण प्रस्तुत सभी निगरानीयाँ निरस्त किये जाने योग्य हैं।

13. So far as law in regard to long standing revenue entries is concerned, Court takes note of a judgment of Supreme Court in Vishwa Vijay Bharati v. Fakhrul Hassan, 1976 (3) SCC 642 which was followed by Supreme Court in Dharam Singh (Dead) Through Legal Representatives and others vs. Prem Singh (Dead) Through Legal Representatives, (2019) 3 SCC 530 and its relevant paragraph no. 24 is quoted below :-

“24 The High Court has dealt with the above aspect of the matter and has held that continuation of entry after the order of deletion of the name of Amar Singh cannot confer any right. The judgment of this Court in Vishwa Vijay Bharati v. Fakhrul Hassan [Vishwa Vijay Bharati v. Fakhrul Hassan, (1976) 3 SCC 642] , has rightly been referred to and relied on by the High Court. This Court in para 14 of the judgment has laid down the following: (SCC p. 645)

“14. It is true that the entries in the revenue record ought, generally, to be accepted at their face value and courts should not embark upon an appellate inquiry into their correctness. But the presumption of correctness can apply only to genuine, not forged or fraudulent, entries. The distinction may be fine but it is real. The distinction is that one cannot challenge the correctness of what the entry in the revenue record states but the entry is open to the attack that it was made fraudulently or surreptitiously. Fraud and forgery rob a document of all its legal effect and cannot found a claim to possessory title...”

14. Above referred rival submissions and concurrent findings of three Authorities under U.P.C.H. Act has to be dealt with taking note of limited jurisdiction of writ to cause interference in concurrent findings of Authorities except being perverse. In this regard, Court takes note of a judgment passed by Supreme Court in Krishnanand (D) through LRs and others Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation reported in 2015 (1) SCC 553 and for reference, its paragraph 12 is quoted below :-

“12.The High Court has committed an error in reversing the findings of fact arrived at by the authorities below in coming to the conclusion that there was a partition. No doubt, the High Court did so in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution. It is a settled law that such a jurisdiction cannot be exercised for reappreciating the evidence and arrival of findings of facts unless the authority which passed the impugned order does not have jurisdiction to render the finding or has acted in excess of its jurisdiction or the finding is patently perverse. In the present case, though the High Court reversed the concurrent findings of the authorities below and came to the opposite conclusion on matter of facts, the High Court did not do so on the ground that the authorities below acted in excess of their jurisdiction or without jurisdiction or that the finding is vitiated by perversity.”

15. Court takes note of above legal position that long revenue entries can be challenged if made surreptitiously though possibility of any fraud or forgery was neither pleaded nor mentioned in impugned orders. Reason for allowing objections filed by predecessors of respondents by all three Authorities that they failed to show any legal basis or order on which their names could be recorded suddenly after many years, though they claimed common ancestors as to respondents.

16. Court takes note that name of predecessors of petitioners were recorded including their successors for a very long period i.e. from 1309-F till objections were made as well as that name of Sumer was recorded for the first time in 1309-F not in 1334-F as observed in order of Settlement Officer of Consolidation.

17. The Kursinama filed by Ram Narayan was though accepted by all parties but it would not be sufficient to support entries since they have not based their case entirely on common ancestors as well as they are failed to explain why Ganga was recorded solely since 1291-F and after many years, name of predecessors of petitioners were recorded in 1307/1309-F without any subsequent event such as family partition if they are from common ancestors.

18. From Kursinama, it is evident that when name of only Ganga was recorded in 1291-F, there was no reference of Ram Dayal or Nanku or their successor allegedly brother of Ganga, therefore, without any basis name of Sumer was recorded in 1309-F as well as in 1334-F, name of Ramdev and Partap of petitioner's side were recorded, however no reason was recorded for such entries i.e. were made without any basis, therefore, entries which were recorded suddenly and surreptitiously can not sustain and can be expunged.

19. In aforesaid circumstances, concurrent finding of three Authorities under U.P.C.H Act cannot be interfered being not shown as perverse. An argument of re-settlement being vague was also rightly rejected by Settlement Officer of Consolidation and upheld by Deputy Director of Consolidation. The statement of Kishor was found insufficient to prove the case of petitioners which was rejected after much deliberations by all three Authorities under U.P.C.H. Act. Nature of entries of petitioners in 1309-F was 'sikmi cultivator' for fixed period, therefore, they can not be considered as co-tenure holder. All above factor goes against the petitioners and were the basis of all three Authorities to expunge the entries.

20. Accordingly, present writ petition is dismissed.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether the Appellate Court was justified in allowing the appeal and decreeing the suit despite the fact that the plaintiffs failed to prove that the plots in dispute were ancestral property and failed to establish identity of the plots and continuity of entries, merely on the ground that there was a presumption of joint Hindu family and joint Hindu family nucleus in old times.

HEADNOTE

U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, s.229-B – Suit for declaration of co-tenancy rights – Plaintiffs instituted suit under Section 229-B claiming co-tenancy rights over the land in dispute on the ground that Fattu and Nanha were common ancestors of the parties and the plots in dispute had come down from the time of ancestors having been acquired out of the nucleus of joint Hindu family fund – Defendants contested the suit and denied that the plots in dispute were ancestral property – Trial Court dismissed the suit holding that the plot in question was not proved to be ancestral and identity of plots as well as continuity of entries were not established – Additional Commissioner allowed the appeal and decreed the suit on the ground that there was presumption of joint Hindu family as well as joint Hindu family nucleus fund in old times – Board of Revenue dismissed second appeal – Challenge in writ jurisdiction :

Held : There would be a presumption of joint Hindu family but there can be no presumption that a property standing in the name of a member of the joint Hindu family is also a joint family property – Property cannot be presumed to be joint family property merely because of existence of a joint family.

In the instant matter, Court held that the plot in question was not proved to be ancestral and identity of plots as well as continuity of entries of the plot in question had not been established – As such, co-tenancy rights could not be allowed only on the ground that there was presumption of joint family in old times – Additional Commissioner allowed the appeal on the ground that there was presumption of joint Hindu family as well as joint Hindu family nucleus fund in old times, which was contrary to law – The impugned orders dated 19.08.1974 passed by the Additional Commissioner and 12.08.1981 passed by the Board of Revenue were set aside – Writ petition allowed. 1. Heard Mr. R.K. Pandey, learned Counsel assisted by Mr. Chandra Shekhar Garg, learned Counsel for the petitioners, Mr. V.K. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Mr. Aman Srivastava, learned Counsel for private respondents and Mr. Om Anand, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. Brief facts of the case are that dispute relates to total 146 plots area 55.84 acres situated in Village Bansi, Pargana Bansi, District Lalitpur (Jhansi) as mentioned in paragraph no. 1 of the writ petition. Respondent no.1-B/ Janki, respondent no.2/ Bhaiya Lal, respondent no.3/ Hardas filed a suit under Section 229-B of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 hereinafter referred to as U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act claiming co-tenancy right along with defendant nos. 3 to 29 on the ground that Fattu and Nanha were common ancestors of the parties and land in suit is coming down from time of ancestors which was acquired out of the nucleus of the Joint Hindu Family Fund and parties have been in possession over the same. Defendant nos. 4,5,6,7,8,9,10,14 & 29 jointly filed written statement denying the plaintiff's claim. It was also mentioned in the written statement that land in suit exclusively belongs to aforementioned defendants and plaintiffs have no right and title in the land in suit nor they have been in possession over the land in suit. It was also mentioned in the written statement that suit is time barred. In the aforementioned suit, parties adduced oral and documentary evidences in support of their cases. Trial Court vide judgement and decree dated 30.10.1971 dismissed the plaintiff's suit recording finding that land in suit has not been proved to have come down from the time of common ancestor. Against the judgement and decree of Trial Court dated 30.10.1971, an appeal was filed by plaintiffs Janki and others before Commissioner which was registered as appeal no. 64 of 1971. The aforementioned appeal was heard by Additional Commissioner and the same was allowed vide judgement dated 19.8.1974 decreeing the plaintiff suit setting aside the judgement and decree of Trial Court. Against the judgement and decree dated 19.8.1974 passed by Additional Commissioner, petitioners filed second appeal before Board of Revenue which was registered as second appeal No. 9 (z) of 1974-1975. The aforementioned second appeal was dismissed by Board of Revenue vide judgement dated 12.8.1981 hence this writ petition on behalf of the petitioners for the following relief:-

"To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the order dated 12.8.1981 passed by opposite party no.1, and order dated 19.9.1974 passed by opposite party no. I-A."

3. This Court admitted the writ petition on 2.9.1981 and directed the parties to maintain status quo.

4. In pursuance of the order of this Court dated 2.9.1981, the parties have exchanged their pleadings.

5. Learned Counsel for the petitioners submitted that suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act filed by respondent nos. 2 to 4, respondent no. 1-B, 2 and 3 was dismissed by Trial Court in proper manner after framing issues and giving parties to lead evidence in accordance with law. He submitted that Additional Commissioner has decreed the plaintiff's suit in appeal without framing the point of determination as well as reversing the finding of fact recorded by Trial Court in proper manner. He submitted that second appeal filed by petitioners has been dismissed without considering the case as set up in second appeal. He submitted that in 1865 AD, there were only two plots and at present, there are 146 plots. He further submitted that Trial Court has recorded the finding of fact that acquisition were made at different time which is very much demonstrated from the different periods mentioned in respect to different plots in the khatauni ranging from 1303 fasli. He submitted that in case of plea of ancestral acquisition, identity as well as continuity should be same and Trial Court recording finding of fact that neither identity nor continuity remained same, as such, there was no scope for interference in appeal before Commissioner. He submitted that Board of Revenue and Additional Commissioner has erred in holding that acquisition were made out of the nucleus of joint Hindu family although there is no pleading that there was any nucleus in the family nor there is any finding to that effect. He submitted that no presumption attaches to the joint character of the property rather presumption attaches to the jointness of the family and any member of the joint family can acquire his separate property also. He submitted that no plea of amalgamation of khata was pleaded by the plaintiff in the plaint. He further submitted that admission of certain defendants has no binding effect on the contesting defendants. He further submitted that pedigree relied upon by the plaintiff has not been proved by them, as such, the suit cannot be decreed in any manner. He submitted that entries of 1865 fasli, 1303 fasli, 1309 fasli and 1359 fasli have been misread by Additional Commissioner as well as Board of Revenue. He submitted that Board of Revenue has decided the second appeal in illegal manner. He submitted that finding recorded by Additional Commissioner and Board of Revenue are based on surmises and conjectures, as such, the same cannot be sustained in the eye of law. He submitted that impugned judgement passed by Board of Revenue and Additional Commissioner should be set aside and judgement of Trial Court should be maintained.

6. On the other hand, learned Senior Counsel for private respondents submitted that Trial Court has not exercised the jurisdiction in proper manner accordingly Additional Commissioner has considered the entire aspect of the matter and decreed the plaintiff's suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act considering the evidence on record. He submitted that Board of Revenue has rightly maintained the judgement and decree passed by Additional Commissioner by dismissing the second appeal filed by petitioners. He submitted that revenue entry was properly taken into consideration in order to decide the suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act in proper manner. He submitted that there is a presumption of joint Hindu family as held by this Court from time to time and if any number of joint Hindu family is claiming exclusive right that he has to prove that how he has acquired right being member of joint Hindu family. He submitted that finding of fact recorded by Additional Commissioner as maintained in second appeal cannot be interfered with in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

7. I have considered the arguments advanced by learned Counsel for the parties and perused the records.

8. There is no dispute about the fact that suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act filed by contesting respondents was dismissed by Trial Court but in appeal, Additional Commissioner has decreed the plaintiff's suit. There is also no dispute about the fact that second appeal filed by petitioners was dismissed by Board of Revenue.

9. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the matter, the perusal of the issues framed by the Trial Court in the aforementioned suit will be relevant for perusal which are as under:-

"प्रश्न नं० : 1:- क्या प्रतिवादी, नं० 3 अभी भी राम दास को बेवा है और इस भूमि में सह काश्तकार है ?

प्रश्न नं० : 2: क्या वादीगण प्रतिवादी गण: 3 ता 29 के साथ, सीरदार है जिस प्रकार कहा है ?

प्रश्न नं० : 3: क्या वाद में पराव जस्ता न बनाने का दोष है ?

प्रश्न नं० : 4 वादी गण को क्या सहायता मिल सकती है ?

प्रश्न नं० : 5: क्या वाद में धारा 34 (5) एल० आर० एक्ट बाधक है ?

प्रश्न नं०: 6: क्या श्रौमतो झुनरी रामदास की कानूनी वारिस है ?"

10. The Trial Court dismissed the plaintiff's suit considering the issues framed in the proceeding as well as the evidences adduced by the parties holding that plot in question are not ancestral plot and identity of plot as well as continuity of entry is not established. Perusal of finding of fact recorded by Trial Court on issue no. 2 will be relevant which is as under:-

"प्रश्न नं० :2:- वादीगण ने अर्जी दावा के साथ बहुत सजरा दिया है और कहा है कि वह भूमि पूर्वजों में चली आ रही है और फरीकैन की मौरूसी काश्तकारी है। अपना बयान में हरदास वादी ने वंशावली बयान की है, मगर जिरह में उसने कहा है कि उसने नने व फतू को नहीं देखा है हटारे उसी के वह सजरा उसकी मां व कब्जे ने बताया है उसकी मां मर चुकी है वाको गौरा वह है, मगर उसे पेश नहीं किया है बादी ने कहा है कि भूमि फतू व नने के समय से चली आती है वादीगण ने खसरा व खतौनी की नकल अवश्य दाखिल की है उनको यह साबित करना होगा कि विवादित खाता इसी रूप से फतू व नने है अपने एकनानियत के साथ चला आता है मौरूसी भूमि साबित करने के लिए यह अति आवश्यक है कि वादीगण ने कोई ऐसी नकल दाखिल नहीं की है, जिससे विवादित खाता फतू और नने के नाम लिखा हो। खसरा 1865 ई० में दो नंबर फतू नाम लिखा है खतौनी 1303 पर आंशिक बल दिया गया है, मगर उसमें भी हम देखते हैं कि कुछ नंबरान खाता नंबर 17 में केवल दूरजू के नाम लिखी है और कुछ नंबरान खाता नंबर 26 में अमान, जवाहर पुत्रगण नन्हे दुर्गु पुत्र खगू व परिक्रत पुत्र रामवेद के नाम लिखे हैं। खसरा 1303 फ० में इंद्राज इसी प्रकार के अलग-अलग हैं एक नंबर 1186 पर अकेले पिरक्का का नाम, अन्य नंबरान पर अंकित दूरमु का नाम है, कुछ पर अमान का नाम है उसके अलावा एक बात और ध्यान में रखने की है कि खतौनी 1303 फसली में खाता नंबर 17 पर दुर्ग के नाम लिखे हैं, उन पर कोई कृषिकाल नहीं पड़ा है और जो नंबर खाता नंबर 26 पर अमान माद ने नाम लिखे है उन पर विभिन्न कृषि काल पड़े हैं इससे साबित होता है कि विवादित भूमि एक ही खाता हो और एक ही समय से नहीं आई है अगर कुल विवादित भूमि का खाता पहले फतू व नने का होता तो कृषि काल एक होता वादी की

हरी, गुल्ले और भुज्जे प्रतिवादीगण ने पहले जवाब दावा दिया मगर बाद में दरखास्त दी कि वह वादी के कथन को स्वीकार करते हैं इन लोगों के नाम भी मौजूदा खतौनी में लिखे हैं इसलिए वादीगण की ओर से कहा गया है कि वह लोग वादीगण का भाग स्वीकार करके अपवा भाग कम करते हैं इसलिए उनका कथन और स्वीकृतता को बहुत महत्व मिलना चाहिए और उसके आधार पर वादीगण का कथन स्वीकार होना चाहिए। हरी, गुल्ले व भुज्जे ने पहले जवाब दावा दिया और वादीगण के अधिकारों से इंकार किया है बाद में वह बदल गए और अब वादीगण का कथन स्वीकार कर लिया है। मेरी राय में यह किसी भी समय दावा स्वीकार कर सकते हैं, मगर उनके इस स्वीकार करने को कोई ठोस महत्व नहीं दिया जा सकता है और केवल उसी के आधार पर वादीगण का दावा पर कोई विशेष बल नहीं पड़ सकता। मैं वादीगण एवं अन्य प्रतिवादीगण के नाम इस भूमि पर नहीं है। पिछले इंद्राज में जो 1303 फसली में थे उनसे भी यह साबित नहीं होता है कि विवादित भूमि इसी दशा में फरीकैन के पूर्वजों के नाम रही है। मेरी राय में यह साबित नहीं है कि विवादित भूमि अपनी एकालियत के साथ इसी रूप में फरीकैन के पूर्वजों से चली आई है इसलिए उसको सब फरीकैन को मुश्तरका काशत नहीं कहा जा सकता है। 1359 फसली में यह भूमि गुंदे गयासी, बहारे, रामदास के नाम लिखी है। खतौनी 1377 फसली में वह भूमि गुंदे हल्का कुटे प्यारेलाल, हरी, परिक्त, गोरेलाल, भुज्जा, बहारे और बड़ी बहू के नाम लिखी है अब बड़ी बहू के स्थान पर श्रीमती झुनरी होना चाहिए जैसा कि ऊपर कहा गया है कि शहादत से यह साबित नहीं होता है कि विवादित भूमि सब फरीकैन की मौस्सी हो और एक ही पूर्वजों से अरसे से मूल रूप में चली आ रही हो इसलिए यह भी नहीं कहा जा सकता कि वादी का प्रतिवादीगण 3 ता 29 या 4 ता 30 के साथ सह सीरदार है। अतः प्रश्न का उत्तर वादी के खिलाफ दिया जाता है।"

11. In view of categorial finding of fact recorded by Trial Court considering the entry of 1303 fasli, 1359 fasli, 1366-68 fasli, 1377 fasli to the effect that plot in dispute is not proved to be ancestral as well as identity of plots and continuity of entry of the plot in question are not established, the first appellate Court cannot allow the appeal of plaintiff's on the ground that there was presumption of joint Hindu family as well as joint Hindu nucleous fund in the old time, as such, and judgement and decree of first Appellate Court which has been maintained in second appeal by Board of Revenue in arbitrary manner cannot be sustained in the eye of law.

12. This Court in the case reported in 1978 RD Page 51 Bala Charan and Others Vs. State of U.P. and Others has held that there would be a presumption of joint Hindu family but there can be no presumption of that a property standing in the name of a member of the joint Hindu family is also a joint family property. Paragraph no.5 of the judgement rendered by this Court in Bala Charan and Others (Supra) will be relevant for perusal which is as under:-

"5. In the case in hand no evidence was adduced on behalf of the opposite parties that there was nucleus from which the plots in question were acquired. It was not proved that the Patta was acquired out of the joint family funds, nor was it established that the income raised out of the plots in question was utilised by the other members of the joint Hindu family, nor any effort was made to show that the plots in question were blended with the joint family property and the opposite parties had thus acquired co-tenancy rights therein. The fact that the plots standing in the name of Mitthoo were held to be joint family property would not go to prove that the plots in question which stood in the name of Thakur were also joint family property. The Deputy Director of Consolidation had thus erred in holding that the opposite parties had acquired co-tenancy rights in the said plots. The Consolidation Officer had also erred likewise. In my view the Settlement Officer (Consolidation) had applied the correct principles of law to the facts of the case. The orders passed by the Deputy Director as also the Consolidation Officer cannot, therefore, be maintained."

13. Apex Court in the case reported in (2003) 10 Supreme Court Cases 310 D.S. Lakshmaiah and another vs. L. Balasubramanyam and another has held that property cannot be presumed to be joint family property merely because of existence of a joint family. Paragraph nos.17 to 21 of the judgment of Apex Court rendered in D.S. Lakshmaiah (Supra) will be relevant for perusal which are as under "-

"17. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the respondents having failed to discharge the initial burden of establishing that there was any nucleus in the form of any income whatsoever from Item No.2 property and no other nucleus was claimed, the burden remained on the respondents to establish that Item No.1 property was joint family property. In this view, the fact that the first appellant has not led any evidence to establish his separate income is of no consequence insofar as the claim of the respondents is concerned. Under these circumstances, for failure to lead evidence, the respondents' claim of Item No.1 to be joint family property would fail as rightly held by the first appellate court.

18. The legal principle, therefore, is that there is no presumption of a property being joint family property only on account of existence of a joint Hindu family. The one who asserts has to prove that the property is a joint family property. If, however, the person so asserting proves that there was nucleus with which the joint family property could be acquired, there would be presumption of the property being joint and the onus would shift on the person who claims it to be self-acquired property to prove that he purchased the property with his own funds and not out of joint family nucleus that was available.

19. Another contention urged for the respondents was that assuming Item No.1 property to be self-acquired property of appellant No.1, he blended the said property with the joint family property and, therefore, it has become the joint family property. Assuming the respondents can be permitted to raise such a plea without evidence in support thereof, the law on the aspect of blending is well settled that property separate or self-acquired of a member of joint Hindu family may be impressed with the character of joint family property if it is voluntarily thrown by the owner into the common stock with the intention of abandoning his separate claim therein but to establish such abandonment a clear intention to waive separate rights must be established. From the mere fact that other members of the family were allowed to use the property jointly with himself, or that the income of the separate property was utilized out of generosity to support persons whom the holder was not bound to support, or from the failure to maintain separate accounts, abandonment cannot be inferred, for an act of generosity or kindness will not ordinarily be regarded as an admission of a legal obligation {see Lakkireddi Chinna Venkata Reddy v. Lakkireddi Lakshamama [1964 (2) SCR 172] and K.V. Narayanan v. K.V. Ranganadhan & Ors. [(1977) 1 SCC 244]}.

20. In the present case, respondents have not led any evidence on the aforesaid aspects and, therefore, it cannot be held that the first appellant blended Item No.1 property into the joint family account.

21. In view of aforesaid discussion, Item No.1 property cannot be held to be joint family property. The impugned judgment of the High Court is, therefore, set aside and the appeal allowed and the judgment and decree of the first appellate court is restored. In the circumstances of the case, parties are left to bear their own costs."

14. Apex Court in the recent judgment reported in 2025 LiveLaw (SC) 494 Angadi Chandranna vs. Shankar & others reiterated the same view. Paragraph No.13 of the judgment of Apex Court rendered in Angadi Chandranna (Supra) will be relevant for perusal which is as under :-

"13. Further, it is a settled principle of law that there is no presumption of a property being joint family property only on account of existence of a joint Hindu family. The one who asserts has to prove that the property is a joint family property. If, however, the person so asserting proves that there was nucleus with which the joint family property could be acquired, then there would be presumption of the property being joint and the onus would shift on the person who claims it to be self-acquired property to prove that he purchased the property with his own funds and not out of joint family nucleus that was available. That apart, while considering the term ?nucleus? it should always be borne in mind that such nucleus has to be established as a matter of fact and the existence of such nucleus cannot normally be presumed or assumed on probabilities. This Court in R.Deivanai Ammal (Died) v. G. Meenakshi Ammal¹², dealt with the concept of Hindu Law, ancestral property and the nucleus existing therein. The relevant paragraphs are extracted below for ready reference:

"13. First let us consider the nature of the suit properties, namely, self-acquired properties of late Ganapathy Moopanar or ancestral properties and whether any nucleus was available to purchase the properties. Under the Hindu Law it is only when a person alleging that the property is ancestral property proves that there was a nucleus by means of which other property may have been acquired, that the burden is shifted on the party alleging self-acquisitions to prove that the property was acquired without any aid from the family estate. In other words the mere existence of a nucleus however small or insignificant is not enough. It should be shown to be of such a character as could reasonably be expected to lead to the acquisition of the property alleged to be part of the joint family property. Where the doctrine of blending is invoked against a person having income at his disposal and acquiring property, the reasonable presumption to make is that he had the income at his absolute disposal unless there is evidence to the contrary. If a coparcener desires to establish that a property in the name of a female member of the family or in the name of the manager himself has to be accepted and treated as property acquired from the joint family nucleus, it is absolutely essential that such a coparcener should not only barely plead the same, but also establish the existence of such a joint family fund or nucleus. Even if the joint family nucleus is so established, the prescription that the accretions made by the manager or the purchases made by him should be deemed to be from and out of such a nucleus does not arise, if there is no proof that such nucleus of the joint family is not an income-yielding apparatus. The proof required is very strict and the burden is on the person who sets up a case that the property in the name of a female member of the family or in the name of the manager or any other coparcener is to be treated as joint family property. There should be proof of the availability of such surplus income or joint family nucleus on the date of such acquisitions or purchases. The same is the principle even in the cases where moneys were advanced on mortgages over immoveable properties. The onus is not on the acquirer to prove that the property standing in his name was purchased from joint family funds. That may be so, in the case of a manager of a joint family, but not so in the case of all coparceners. For a greater reason it is not so in the case of female members.

14. The doctrine of blending of self-acquired property with joint family has to be carefully applied with reference to the facts of each case. No doubt it is settled that when members of a joint family by their joint labour or in their joint business acquired property, that property, in the absence of a clear indication of a contrary intention, would be owned by them as joint family property and their male issues would necessarily acquire a right by birth in such property. But the essential sine qua non is the absence of a contrary intention. If there is satisfactory evidence of an intention on the part of the acquirer such property to treat it as his own, but not as joint family property, the presumption which ordinarily arises, according to the personal law of Hindus that such property would be regarded as joint family property, will not arise.

15. It is a well-established principle of law that where a party claims that any particular item of property is joint family property, the burden of proving that it is so rests on the party asserting it. Where it is established or admitted that the family possessed some joint property which from its nature and relative value may have formed the nucleus from which the property in question may have been acquired, the presumption arises that it was joint property and the burden shifts to the party alleging self-acquisition to establish affirmatively that the property was acquired without the aid of the joint family. But no such presumption would arise if the nucleus is such that with its help the property claimed to be joint could not have been acquired. In order to give rise to the presumption, the nucleus should be such that with its help the property claimed to be joint could have been acquired. A family house in the occupation of the members and yielding no income could not be nucleus out of which acquisitions could be made even though it might be of considerable value.

16. In a Hindu joint family, if one member sues for partition on the foot that the properties claimed by him are joint family properties then three circumstances ordinarily arise. The first is an admitted case when there is no dispute about the existence of the joint family properties at all. The second is a case where certain properties are admitted to the joint family properties and the other properties in which a share is claimed are alleged to be the accretions or acquisitions from the income available from joint family properties or in the alternative have been acquired by a sale or conversion of such available properties. The third head is that the properties standing in the names of female members of the family are benami and that such a state of affairs has been deliberately created by the manager or the head of the family and that really the properties or the amounts standing in the names of female members are properties of the joint family. While considering the term 'nucleus' it should always be borne in mind that such nucleus has to be established as a matter of fact and the existence of such nucleus cannot normally be presumed or assumed on probabilities. The extent of the property, the income from the property, the normal liability with which such income would be charged and the net available surplus of such joint family property do all enter into computation for the purpose of assessing the content of the reservoir of such a nucleus from which alone it could, with reasonable certainty, be said that the other joint family properties have been purchased unless a strong link or nexus is established between the available surplus income and the alleged joint family properties. The person who comes to Court with such bare allegations without any substantial proof to back it up should fail.

17. It is also a well-established doctrine of Hindu Law that property which was originally self-acquired may become joint property if it has been voluntarily thrown by the coparcener into the joint stock with the intention of abandoning all separate claims upto it. But the question whether the coparcener has done so or not is entirely a question of fact to be decided in the light of all the circumstances of the case. It must be established that there was a clear intention on the part of the coparcener to waive his separate rights and such an intention will not be inferred from acts which may have been done from kindness or affection. The important point to keep in mind is that the separate property of a Hindu coparcener ceases to be his separate property and acquires the characteristics of his joint family or ancestral property, not by mere act of physical mixing with his joint family or ancestral property, but by his own volition and intention by his waiving or surrendering his special right in it as separate property. Such intention can be discovered only from his words or from his acts and conduct."

15. In the instant matter, plot in question was not proved to be ancestral as well as identity of plots and continuity of entry of the plot in question has not been established, as such, co-tenancy cannot be allowed only on the ground that there was presumption of joint family in the old time.

16. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case as well as ratio of law laid down by this Court as well as Apex Court, the impugned orders dated 12.8.1981 passed by Board of Revenue and 19.9.1974 passed by Additional Commissioner are liable to be set aside and the same are hereby set aside.

17. The writ petition stands allowed and the judgement of Trial Court dated 30.10.1971 is maintained. 18. No order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE SAURABH SHYAM SHAMSHERY, J.

Writ B No. 12565 of 1982

...Petitioner

Versus

D.D.C. & Ors.

...Respondents

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether the Deputy Director of Consolidation was justified in holding the contesting respondent to be an adhvasi and subsequently a sirdar merely on the basis of entries in his favour in 1356-F, 1359-F and 1362-F, without considering the nature and manner of such entries, whether they were recorded in accordance with the provisions of the Land Revenue Act, the fact that his name was subsequently struck off in 1365 Fasli, and the concurrent finding that his name had not been recorded for more than ten years prior to commencement of consolidation proceedings.

HEADNOTE

U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 – ss.9-A(2), 48 – U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 – s.20(b) – Disputed plots were recorded in the basic year in the names of predecessors-in-interest of the petitioners – Contesting respondent filed objections claiming adhvasi and consequential sirdari rights over the disputed plots on the basis of entries in 1356-F, 1359-F and 1362-F – Consolidation Officer rejected the objections holding that continuity of possession was not proved and that the entries relied upon were not genuine – Settlement Officer of Consolidation affirmed the findings and further held that possession recorded as 'Batai Nisfi' did not establish adverse possession – Deputy Director of Consolidation, in revision, reversed the concurrent findings and declared the contesting respondent to be adhvasi and sirdar in respect of certain plots – Challenge in writ jurisdiction.

Held: Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer of Consolidation recorded concurrent findings that the name of the contesting respondent was recorded on the disputed plots in certain Fasli years as sikmi with a note of Batai Nisfi, however, there was no entry in his favour in subsequent Fasli years and his name was not recorded for more than ten years before commencement of consolidation proceedings – Findings returned by the Revisional Authority that the contesting respondent had become an adhvasi and subsequently a sirdar on the basis of entries of 1356-F, 1359-F and 1362-F were erroneous since continuous possession of the contesting respondent was not proved – Entry of a sikmi tenant with a note of Batai Nisfi indicated permissive possession and not adverse possession.

Court further held that entries which are not genuine cannot confer adhvasi rights and an entry under Section 20(b) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act must be an entry made in accordance with law –

Consolidation Officer had recorded detailed reasons that there was no document to show possession of the contesting respondent after 1365-F and that the entries relied upon were not sufficient to establish adhivasi or sirdari rights – Deputy Director of Consolidation lightly interfered with the concurrent findings without considering the nature and manner of entries and without setting aside the findings recorded by the authorities below – Impugned orders passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation set aside – Judgments of the Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer of Consolidation restored – Writ petition allowed. Advs. for the Respondents: Chandrajeet Yadav, S.C., S.L. Yadav, Upendra Nath Yadav

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. Present writ petition, pending before this Court for last four decades, is arising out of objections filed in consolidation proceedings u/s 9A(2) of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (for short "U.P.C.H. Act").

2. Contesting respondents have filed objections in regard to plot nos. 1100, 4643, 1072, 3275, 883 in village Haraiya, District Azamgarh. Undisputedly, said plots were recorded in basic year in the name of Radhey Kishun Upadhyay and Shridhar Upadhyay (predecessors of present petitioner).

3. Basis of objections filed by contesting respondent-4 were that he was recorded over land in suit for substantial long time and therefore by virtue of law, he become adhivasi and sirdar being recorded in 1956-F and 1959-F, whereas petitioner has opposed said objections on substantial grounds that he is successor of Radhey Kishun Upadhyay and Shridhar Upadhyay, the original tenure holder and name of contesting respondents was recorded only as a 'sikmi tenant' with a note Batai Nisfi as well as that said entries were later on discontinued also and accordingly, entries were disputed being not genuine.

4. The Consolidation Officer vide a judgment dated 23.01.1971 rejected the objections filed by contesting respondent-4 and basis year entries which were in favour of Radhey Kishun Upadhyay and Shridhar Upadhyay were directed to be continued. For reference, relevant part of judgment of Consolidation Officer is quoted below :-

"In the Khata no. 188 and 73 Kharbhan has stated that he has been in possession of the five disputed plots for before the abolition of zamindari and that he filed a suit u/s 229B ZA Act which was decreed in his favour of copy of the judgment of the learned J.O. is on file, the case was decided after the village was brought under consolidation scheme as the judgment is dated 20.1.69 whereas notification u/s 41 was made in Aug.68. This judgment and the decree therefore is of no. This case is to be decided on merits. Plot no. 3275/-360 is recorded in the name of Kharbhan s/o Ram Gulam as Shikmi tenant with a note 'Batai Nisfi' plot no. 3643/- 288 is recorded in his name in class 19 but the disputed plot is 4643/-288. There is a mistake. An uncertified copy of Khasra 1364F is on file. These are remarks column entry in favour of Kharbhan but the plots are not clear, In the Consolidated Khasra 1353 to 1364 F main column entry continued in favour of Radha Krishna etc. In 1356F over plot no. 1072/ 316 Kabiz Kharbhan son of Ramgulam has been noted. This entry in 1357 F, 1358F, 1361F, 1362F, 1363F, and 1364F.

In 1365 F plot no. 1072/316 is in favour Kharbhan. On plot no. 1100/-174 possession of Kharbhan is noted in 1357 F, 1359F, 1361, 1362, 1363, 1364F. There is no such entry in 1365F against this plot on plot no. 3275, possession stands from 1358 F as noted in the consolidated khasra, there is no such entry in 1363F. There is ag. Remarks col. Entry against this plot in 1364 F and 65 F.I. have perused the statement of ARK who appeared before me with the khasra of 1365F. He stated that entry of remarks column in 1365F. Khasra is made but it has been struck off (plot no. 1072/-316 similarly in case of plot no. 3275/360 Remark Col. Entry has been made in red ink but it has been struck of, extract of khasra 1365F filed by the defdt. Radha Krishna shows that remarks col. Entry made there in was struck off. However, there are no papers on file to show the possession of Kharbhan over the suit and after 1365F since there are no such entry in favour of Kharbhan for the last more than ten years(before the start of consolidation) he can hardly before his claim of sirdary rights over the same the remarks column entry in possession of Kharbhan in 1359F after do not seem to be genuine because be unfit to have became adhivasi cum sirdar 1363. On the basis continuity of possession over the suit land is not proved from the records on file. The objectors Kharbhan has not been able to establish his claim of sirdari rights. Radha Krishna etc. are the kabiz tenure holders of the suit land, the issues are accordingly decided."

4. Aforesaid judgment was thereafter challenged by way of three Appeals filed by contesting respondents, however, all appeals were dismissed vide a judgment dated 07.05.1971 and findings returned by the Consolidation Officer were confirmed with further observation that it was not a case of adverse possession rather appellants had cultivated land in suit as Batai Nisfi. Relevant part of said judgment is quoted below :-

“I have heard the parties and gone through the evidence on file. The appellant has claimed possession on the disputed land since before the enforcement of ZA Act and have filed extract of khasra for 12 years to prove his possession. The entry of possession before 1365F to 1359F in favour of appellant are in the remarks col. Of the Khasra. As held in RD 1966 page 132 such entries are against law and cannot be recognised for going sirdari rights. As the peirod of possession upto 1359F is of no avail to the appellant. The entries of possession for 1361 F and do not show adverse possession of the appellant but show that he cultivated all land on batai. This conclusion is on the basis of the extract of khasra for 12 years filed by the applicant. Thus it is not proved that the applicant has enttered in adverse possession after the enforcement of ZA Act the and the lower court is justified in not giving him sirdari right I have no reason to interfere with the finding of the lower court.

The appeal has no force and is therefore dismissed. This will govern case no. 1025 and 1029 also.”

5. Contesting respondents being aggrieved by aforesaid two judgments have filed three Revision Petitions u/s 48 of 'U.P.C.H. Act' before the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Azamgarh who vide an order dated 26.10.1971 has partly allowed the revision petitions and interfered with concurrent findings returned by the Consolidation Officer and the Settlement Officer of Consolidation.

6. The Deputy Director of Consolidation has held that revisionist/contesting respondent-2 has able to prove to an extent that he was in possession of Gata No. 1072, 1100 and 3275 in 1358-F, 1359-F, 1361-F and 1362-F and accordingly, held that he became firstly adhivasi and later on sirdar of said plots and accordingly, allowed the revision petition partly to the extent of said three plots i.e. 1072, 1100 and 3275.

7. Thereafter, petitioners have filed a restoration/recall application before D.D.C. concerned which was allowed vide an order dated 03.10.1972 by D.D.C. itself. Thereafter, contesting respondents have challenged said order before this Court in Writ Petition No. 7615/1972. and this Court vide its order dated 25.08.1978 remanded the matter back to concerned D.D.C. to pass a fresh order. Accordingly, D.D.C. concerned had reconsidered and rejected the restoration/recall application vide an order dated 17.09.1982. Relevant part of Order dated 26.10.1971 passed by D.D.C. is mentioned hereinafter:-

उपरोक्त से यह प्रकट होता है कि प्रार्थी का कब्जा 1072 नम्बर पर केवल 56 फसली में दर्ज था तथा 1072, 1100 और 3275 नम्बर पर 59 फसली में दर्ज है। जमीन्दारी उन्मूलन अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत अधिवासी अधिकार 56 तथा 59 फसली के इन्द्राज के आधार पर ही हासिल होते हैं। अन्तर केवल यह है कि 56 फसली का इन्द्राज यदि नियमानुकूल है तो वह अधिवासी बनने के लिये पर्याप्त है। 59 फसली के इन्द्राज के लिये यह आवश्यक है कि काबिज व्यक्ति पूरे फसली साल में काबिज रहा हो। विपक्षी की ओर से यह तर्क

किया गया है कि 56 और 59 फसली में किये गये इन्द्राज नियमानुसार नहीं हैं। प्रार्थी का कब्जा खाना कैफियत में लिया है जबकि उसे शिकमी के खाने में दर्ज होना चाहिए। विपक्षी की ओर से इस सम्बन्ध में लैण्ड रिकार्ड मैनुअल के पैरा 87 पर बहुत बल दिया गया है किन्तु उक्त पैरे के प्रोवाइजो में यह भी उल्लेख है कि शिकमी के खाने में तभी इन्द्राज किया जायेगा जबकि बटवारा को यह इत्तममिनान हो जाये कि सम्बन्धित काश्तकारों के बीच में कोई मोआहिदा (कान्ट्रैक्ट) हो गया है। यदि काबिज व्यक्ति और असल काश्तकार के बीच में कोई मोआहिदा (कान्ट्रैक्ट) नहीं हुआ है तो कब्जे का इन्द्राज खाना कैफियत में किया जायेगा। इसलिये 1356 तथा 59 फसली में किये गये इन्द्राज अनियमित नहीं कहे जा सकते।

दाखिल सबूत से यह भलीभाँति साबित है कि प्रार्थी गाटा सं० 1072, 1100, और 3275 नम्बर पर 58, 59, 61, 62 फसली में काबिज रहा है। 1360 फसली में कागजात नहीं बने। अतः प्रार्थी नियुक्त तिथि पर इन तीनों नम्बरों का सीरदार हो जाता है। इन नम्बरों पर विपक्षीगण को मुखालिफाना कब्जे के आधार पर सीरदारी हक हासिल करने की अवधि समाप्त नहीं हुई है अतः बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी, चकबन्दी तथा चकबन्दी अधिकारी का आदेश आंशिक रूप से निरस्त कर यह आदेश दिया जाता है कि प्रार्थी गाटा सं० 1072, 1100, और 3275 का सीरदार दर्ज हो। मालगुजारी रास्टर रेट से लगाई जायेगी। यह आदेश उपरोक्त तीनों निगरानीयों पर लागू होगा।”

8. Aforesaid both orders dated 26.10.1971 and 17.09.1982 are challenged before this Court in present writ petition.

9. This Court has passed an interim order on 09.11.1982 that :-

“Issue notice returnable on the early date.

Meanwhile, petitioners may not be dispossessed from the land if they have not already been dispossessed.”

10. Sri Durgesh Kumar Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Vishnu Singh, learned counsel for petitioner has submitted that concurrent findings on facts as well as on law returned by two Authorities viz. C.O. and S.O.C. were lightly interfered by D.D.C. in revisional jurisdiction.

11. Learned Senior Advocate has further submitted that objections filed by contesting respondents so far as Gata No. 1072, 1100 and 3275 were accepted that he was recorded in 1356-F, 1358-F, 1359-F, 1361-F and 1362-F, however, a fact which was effectively considered by C.O. and S.O.C. that subsequently, in 1365-F, there was no entry in favour of contesting respondents on plot no. 3275. So far as plot no. 1072 is concerned, entry of respondent in 1365-F was made but it was struck off. Similarly was the case of plot no. 3275. The initial entries were recorded in remark column and subsequent entries were with remark 'batai nisfi'.

12. On plot no. 1100 also, there is no entry in 1365-F in favour of contesting respondents, therefore, nature of entries for 1356-F, 1358-F, 1359-F, 1361-F and 1362-F becomes important that entries were of 'sikmi tenant' with a note of Batai Nisfi. To declare respondents adhivasi and sirdar, on basis of revenue records of 1356-F and 1359-F, ignoring above referred facts, would not be a correct approach.

13. Learned Senior Advocate for petitioner has further submitted that in order to prove adverse possession, there must be a clear and inequivable evidence that possession was hostile to real owner. There must be animus of person doing those act which must be ascertained from facts and circumstances of the case, however, D.D.C. in a very cursory manner has interfered with concurrent findings of two authorities. Even there is no specific finding that concerned respondent was in hostile possession for more than 12 years.

14. Per contra, S/Sri ChandraJeet Yadav and Upendra Nath Yadav have vehemently opposed above submissions and placed heavy reliance upon the judgment of Deputy Director of Consolidation that once name of contesting respondents was recorded for many years, obviously, it would become hostile. Two Authorities i.e. C.O. and S.O.C. have misread revenue records so much as that they have ignored possession of contesting respondents on three plots referred above for a very long period as well as that petitioners have never taken steps for eviction. Respondents have become adhivasi and sirdar on basis of revenue entry of 1356-F and 1359-F and it were rightly considered by the D.D.C.

15. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the records.

16. It is a case where concurrent findings of two Authorities i.e. C.O. and S.O.C. were disturbed by Revisional Authority i.e. D.D.C. and Revisions were partly allowed qua to plot nos. 1072, 1100 and 3275 and that contesting respondent-2 has possession over said plots in nature of adverse possession as well as they become adhivasi and sirdar.

17. In order to consider rival submissions, Court proceeded to consider concurrent finding returned by the Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer Consolidation that name of contesting respondent was recorded on the above referred three plots in 1356-F, 1358-F, 1359-F, 1361-F and 1362-F as 'sikmi' with a note of Batai Nisfi, however, their name were not recorded in subsequent fasli years i.e. there was no entry in favour of contesting respondent (kharban) for last more than 10 years before consolidation commenced and that findings was not considered by Revisional Court, therefore, it was not set aside, despite it has legal consequence.

18. In view of above, one of basic ingredients to prove adverse possession is that hostile possession be continued for more than 12 years before it was raised but on basis of undisputed revenue record, it was absolutely missing.

19. In above circumstances, a findings returned by the Revisional Court on basis of revenue records of 1356-F, 1359-F, 1362-F and 1365-F were erroneous since it would fall short of requirement to prove adverse possession, when continuous possession of contesting respondent was not proved on basis of subsequent revenue entries as admittedly said respondents' name were not recorded thereafter.

20. In view of above, entry of 'sikmi tenant' with a note of Batai Nisfi would also become relevant that it was a permissive possession and not an adverse possession.

21. Otherwise also, Court finds that basic ingredient to prove adverse possession i.e. nec vi nec clam and nec precario are absolutely missing.

22. In this regard, Court takes note of a judgment of this Court in Mata Din Singh vs. DDC and others, 2023:AHC:158629 and for reference, relevant paragraph is quoted below :-

“28. Recently the Supreme Court in Uttam Chand (Dead) through LRs vs. Nath Ram (Dead) through LRs and others, 2020 (11) SCC 263 has reiterated earlier judgments and observed that -:

“15. The matter has been examined by a Constitution Bench in M. Siddiq (Ram Janmabhumi Temple-5 J.) v Suresh Das [M. Siddiq (Ram Janmabhumi Temple-5 J.) v. Suresh Das, (2020) 1 SCC 1] wherein, it has been held that a plea of adverse possession is founded on the acceptance that ownership of the property vests in another, against whom the claimant asserts possession adverse to the title of the other. The Court held as under: (SCC pp. 703-706, paras 1142-1143 & 1147-1150)

1142. A plea of adverse possession is founded on the acceptance that ownership of the property vests in another against whom the claimant asserts a possession adverse to the title of the other. Possession is adverse in the sense that it is contrary to the acknowledged title in the other person against whom it is claimed.

XXXXXXXXXXXX

1143. A person who sets up a plea of adverse possession must establish both possession which is peaceful, open and continuous possession which meets the requirement of being nec vi nec clam and nec precario. To substantiate a plea of adverse possession, the character of the possession must be adequate in continuity and in the public because the possession has to be to the knowledge of the true owner in order for it to be adverse. These requirements have to be duly established first by adequate pleadings and second by leading sufficient evidence. Evidence, it is well settled, can only be adduced with reference to matters which are pleaded in a civil suit and in the absence of an adequate pleading, evidence by itself cannot supply the deficiency of a pleaded case. Reading Para 11(a), it becomes evident that beyond stating that the Muslims have been in long, exclusive and continuous possession beginning from the time when the Mosque was built and until it was desecrated, no factual basis has been furnished. This is not merely a matter of details or evidence. A plea of adverse possession seeks to defeat the rights of the true owner and the law is not readily accepting of such a case unless a clear and cogent basis has been made out in the pleadings and established in the evidence.

1147. In Supt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Anil Kumar Bhunja [Supt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Anil Kumar Bhunja, (1979) 4 SCC 274 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 1038], R.S. Sarkaria, J. speaking for a three-Judge Bench of this Court noted that the concept of possession is polymorphous embodying both a right (the right to enjoy) and a fact (the real intention). The learned Judge held: (SCC p. 278, para 13)

13. It is impossible to work out a completely logical and precise definition of possession uniformly applicable to all situations in the contexts of all statutes. Dias and Hughes in their book on Jurisprudence say that if a topic ever suffered from too much theorising it is that of possession. Much of this difficulty and confusion is (as pointed out in Salmond's Jurisprudence, 12th Edn., 1966) caused by the fact that possession is not purely a legal concept. Possession, implies a right and a fact; the right to enjoy annexed to the right of property and the fact of the real intention. It involves power of control and intent to control. (See Dias and Hughes, ibid.) These observations were made in the context of possession in Section 29(b) of the Arms Act, 1959.

1148. In P. Lakshmi Reddy v. L. Lakshmi Reddy [P. Lakshmi Reddy v. L. Lakshmi Reddy, 1957 SCR 195 : AIR 1957 SC 314], Jagannadhadas, J. speaking for a three-Judge Bench of this Court dwelt on the classical requirement of adverse possession: (AIR pp. 317-18, para 4)

4. Now, the ordinary classical requirement of adverse possession is that it should be nec vi nec clam nec precario. (See Secy. of State for India in Council v. Debendra Lal Khan [Secy. of State for India in Council v. Debendra Lal Khan, 1933 SCC OnLine PC 65 : (1933-34) 61 IA 78] IA at p. 82.) The possession required must be adequate in continuity, in publicity and in extent to show that it is possession adverse to the competitor.

The Court cited the following extract from U.N. Mitra's Tagore Law Lectures on the Law of Limitation and Prescription: (AIR p. 319, para 7)

7. An adverse holding is an actual and exclusive appropriation of land commenced and continued under a claim of right, either under an openly avowed claim, or under a constructive claim (arising from the acts and circumstances attending the appropriation), to hold the land against him (sic) who was in possession. (Angell, Sections 390 and 398). It is the intention to claim adversely accompanied by such an invasion of the rights of the opposite party as gives him a cause of action which constitutes adverse possession. [6th Edn., Vol. I, Lecture VI, at p. 159]

This Court held: (AIR p. 319, para 7)

Consonant with this principle the commencement of adverse possession, in favour of a person implies that the person is in actual possession, at the time, with a notorious hostile claim of exclusive title, to repel which, the true owner would then be in a position to maintain an action. It would follow that whatever may be the animus or intention of a person wanting to acquire title by adverse possession his adverse possession cannot commence until he obtains actual possession with the requisite animus.

1149. In Karnataka Board of Wakf v. Union of India [Karnataka Board of Wakf v. Union of India, (2004) 10 SCC 779], S. Rajendra Babu, J. speaking for a two-Judge Bench held that: (SCC p. 785, para 11)

11. Physical fact of exclusive possession and the animus possidendi to hold as owner in exclusion to the actual owner are the most important factors that are to be accounted in cases of this nature. Plea of adverse possession is not a pure question of law but a blended one of fact and law. Therefore, a person who claims adverse possession should show: (a) on what date he came into possession, (b) what was the nature of his possession, (c) whether the factum of possession was known to the other party, (d) how long his possession has continued, and (e) his possession was open and undisturbed.

The ingredients must be set up in the pleadings and proved in evidence. There can be no proof sans pleadings and pleadings without evidence will not establish a case in law.

1150. In Annakili v. A. Vedanayagam [Annakili v. A. Vedanayagam, (2007) 14 SCC 308], this Court emphasised that mere possession of land would not ripen into a possessory title. The possessor must have animus possidendi and hold the land adverse to the title of the true owner. Moreover, he must continue in that capacity for the period prescribed under the Limitation Act."

23. The D.D.C has not considered claim of the respondent on basis of 'adverse possession' but on nature revenue entries that the respondent was recorded on plot no. 1072 in 1356-F as well as recorded on plot no. 1072, 1100 and 3275 in 1359-F, therefore, respondent became 'Adhivasi' and in regard to entry of 'sikmis' is concerned, the D.D.C. held that such entries would be made only after 'partition or any contract', therefore, 'sikmi' was a legal entry and further held that respondent became Sirdar on basis year i.e. in 1362-F so far as above referred three plots. The findings in regard to 'partition' or 'contract' were based on assumption and not on records, therefore, are unsustainable.

24. The Deputy Director of Consolidation has returned a finding that Respondent-2 become firstly adhivasi and later on sirdar in a very cursory manner only on basis that he was recorded in 1356-F, 1359-F and 1362-F on three plots without taking note nature and manner of entry, i.e., whether it was recorded in accordance with the provisions of Land Revenue Act as well as that subsequently, i.e., in 1365 Fasli his name was cut off. The Deputy Director of Consolidation has also ignored the findings of two authorities on basis of record that 10 years prior to consolidation proceedings commenced, name of Respondent-2 was not recorded. It would become more important when Deputy Director of Consolidation has not even considered plea of adverse possession.

25. I have already discussed in earlier paragraphs that plea of adverse possession raised by Respondent-2 in objection, was not legally made out. So far as entries of 1356-F, 1359-F and 1362-F are concerned, in this regard the Court takes note of judgments passed by Supreme Court in Bachan and another vs. Kankar and others, (1972) 2 SCC 555 that if entries are not genuine, it would not confer any Adivasi right and for that the Court takes note of detail reasons assigned by Consolidation Officer on basis of record that there was no document to show possession of respondent over suit land after 1365-F since there was no such entry in his favour for last more than 10 years before start of consolidation proceedings as well as that on basis of entries in remark column in 1356-F, 1359-F it cannot be a genuine entry, therefore, he cannot be declared Adivasi or Sirdar on basis of such nature of entry of 1362-F. The DDC without much deliberation on manner of entries of 1356-F, 1359-F and 1362-F has wrongly proceeded to declare that respondents became adhivasi and sirdar. Relevant paragraphs of above referred judgment are quoted below :-

"15. This Court in Sonawati v. Sri Ram [AIR 1968 SC 466(1968) 1 SCR 617 :] said that Section 20 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1951 conferred certain rights upon persons whose names were recorded in the revenue records in respect of agricultural land. In Sonawati case this Court found that there was strong evidence which was relied on by the Revenue Court that the name of Pritam Singh predecessor-in-interest of the appellants was surreptitiously entered in the Khasra. The first appellate court there did not at all consider that evidence. The surreptitious entry in Sonawati case was held by this Court to disentitle the appellants to any adhivasi right under Section 20 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act.

16. This Court recently in Ram Das v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Ballia, [(1971) 1 SCC 460 : AIR 1971 SC 673] dealt with the contention of the appellants on the one hand who were recorded as Sir Khudkasht-holders of the plots in dispute and the contention of the respondents on the other who were entered as sub-tenants in respect of those plots in the year 1356 Fasli. Suits were filed between the parties. A compromise was entered into the suits. It was admitted by the respondents that the appellants were Bhoomidars and that the respondents had no interest. The further admission in the compromise was that the entry in the revenue records in favour of the respondents was fictitious. The respondents subsequently applied for setting aside the compromise decrees on the ground that they had been obtained fraudulently. During the pendency of the suits consolidation proceedings under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 commenced. The Consolidation Authorities held that the suits were not maintainable because on the date on which the suits were filed the respondents had become sirdars. The appellants filed a writ petition under Article 226 challenging the order of the Consolidation Authorities. The High Court held in that case relying on the earlier decisions of that Court that even if the entry was fictitious the respondents who were recorded as occupants would, under Section 20(b) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1951 become adhvasi of the disputed land. This Court relying on the earlier decision in Sonawati case held that there was evidence to show that the entry was fictitious and the person whose name was entered on the record on the material date could not claim the right of an adhvasi.

26. The above referred case was followed in Chandrika Prasad vs. Pullo (D) by LR's and others, (2000) 4 SCC 227 and for reference, relevant paragraph is quoted below :-

5. It was submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that if the entry was not correct, it could not be regarded as an entry made according to law at all and the right to take or retain possession of the land could not be determined on the basis of an incorrect entry. He placed reliance on the decision of this Court in Bachan v. Kankar [(1972) 2 SCC 555 : (1973) 1 SCR 727 : AIR 1972 SC 2157] . In that judgment the nature of the entries in khasra or khatauni is discussed and it is also discussed as to how this entry should be made. This Court held that entries which are not genuine cannot confer adhvasi rights. It has been observed that an entry under Section 20(b) of the said Act, in order to enable a person to obtain adhvasi rights, must be an entry under the provisions of law and entries which are not genuine cannot confer adhvasi rights. In that judgment it has been stated that the High Court was wrong when it held that though the entry was incorrect, it could not be said to be fictitious. That observation, however, has to be understood in the context of what follows, namely, that an entry which is incorrectly introduced into the records by reason of ill-will or hostility is not only shorn of authenticity but also becomes utterly useless without any lawful basis. This judgment, in our view, does not lay down that all incorrect entries are fictitious but only lays down that a wrong entry or incorrect entry which has been made by reason of ill-will or hostility cannot confer any right under Section 20(b) of the said Act. This decision is clarified

by a subsequent judgment of this Court in Vishwa Vijay Bharati v. Fakhrul Hassan [(1976) 3 SCC 642 : 1976 Supp SCR 519 : AIR 1976 SC 1485] where it has been held as follows (at p. 1488 of AIR): (SCC p. 645, para 14)

“It is true that the entries in the revenue record ought, generally, to be accepted at their face value and courts should not embark upon an appellate inquiry into their correctness. But the presumption of correctness can apply only to genuine, not forged or fraudulent, entries. The distinction may be fine but it is real. The distinction is that one cannot challenge the correctness of what the entry in the revenue record states but the entry is open to the attack that it was made fraudulently or surreptitiously. Fraud and forgery rob a document of all its legal effect and cannot found a claim to possessory title.”

27. Above referred findings of Consolidation Officer were upheld by Settlement Officer of Consolidation, however, it was very lightly interfered by Deputy Director of Consolidation, therefore, interference is legally unsustainable as well as above discussed legal position is also against the contesting respondents.

28. Therefore, impugned judgment passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation is accordingly set aside and judgments passed by Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer of Consolidation are upheld.

29. Writ petition is, accordingly, allowed.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Matter pertains to:

(i) Whether the term “property” under Section 106 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 extends to the entire bank account or only to a particular amount therein alleged to be stolen or suspected to be involved in an offence;

- (ii) Whether a bank account can be frozen at the instance of the police without prior intimation to the account holder or the competent Magistrate in the light of the procedure prescribed under Section 106 BNSS;
- (iii) Whether Sections 106 and 107 BNSS operate independently and distinctly, with Section 106 governing seizure or temporary freezing of accounts and Section 107 governing attachment of accounts, and whether their applicability differs at different stages of investigation; and
- (iv) Whether any jurisdictional issue arises where bank accounts are maintained at one place but the transactions giving rise to the alleged suspicious amounts occur elsewhere, and consequently where jurisdiction of the Magistrate would vest.

HEADNOTE

Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 – ss.106, 107 – Constitution of India – Art.226 – Writ petitions challenging freezing of bank accounts by banks on instructions of police/cyber crime authorities in connection with cyber fraud complaints – Petitioners contended that accounts were frozen without notice, without compliance of Section 106 BNSS and without orders of Magistrate – Some petitioners further contended that entire accounts were frozen though alleged suspicious transactions involved only limited amounts – Questions arose regarding power of police to freeze accounts, distinction between seizure and attachment, and territorial jurisdiction of Magistrate.

Held: Bank account is "property" within the meaning of Section 106 BNSS and can be seized if found under circumstances creating suspicion of commission of an offence. The term "property" under Section 106 BNSS would extend only to that amount which is alleged or suspected to have been stolen or which is suspected to be involved in the commission of an offence and not to the entire amount lying in the bank account. Where only a particular amount lying in a bank account is alleged or suspected to be connected with an offence, power of seizure is limited to the extent of the alleged or suspicious amount and cannot be construed to permit freezing of the entire operation of the bank account. Banks can place a lien only to the extent of the amount alleged or suspected to be involved in the offence and operation of the account cannot be restricted beyond such amount.

Court held that freezing of a bank account at the instance of the police without prior intimation to the account holder or prior order of the Magistrate is permissible under Section 106 BNSS, provided the police officer forthwith reports the seizure to the Magistrate having jurisdiction as contemplated under Section 106(3) BNSS. Prior notice to the account holder is not required before or simultaneously attaching a bank account but a post facto report is mandatorily required to be submitted to the jurisdictional magistrate. However, neither Section 106 and Section 107 of the BNSS, nor any other law, prohibits bank authorities from informing account holders about the operational status of their accounts. While such intimation may not be required prior to seizure, banks shall inform the account holders after the seizure of the account, upon instructions from the investigating agencies. Bank account holders, being consumers of the banks, are at least entitled to be informed of the seizure of their accounts, which renders them non-operational, so as to protect themselves from hardships and to take appropriate legal recourse.

Court further held that Sections 106 and 107 BNSS operate independently and distinctly. Section 106 governs seizure or temporary freezing of property during investigation and Section 107 governs attachment of property. Seizure under Section 106 is a temporary measure available to the investigating agency, whereas attachment under Section 107 can be ordered only by the Magistrate in accordance with law.

Court also held that for the purposes of Section 106(3), jurisdiction would vest in the Magistrate having territorial jurisdiction over the place where the bank account is seized or frozen and not where the transaction giving rise to the suspicious amount occurred. (E-5)

2. All the present petitions have been filed by the respective petitioners being aggrieved by the action of the bank authorities in freezing their bank accounts. The grievance, in essence, pertains to the restrictions placed on the operation of bank accounts due to investigation of cyber offences where their account had alleged financial transaction. In the light of above-mentioned facts and circumstances petitioners have filed their respective petitions under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, praying for issuance of writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus to respondents for de-freezing of their bank accounts. Since the reliefs sought in all the petitions are substantially alike, and the matters arise out of similar set of facts involving identical questions of law, all the petitions were connected and taken up together for hearing. However, necessary facts pleaded in each writ petitions and submissions advanced on behalf of the parties in the respective petitions are being noticed separately.

3. In Writ-C No. 1489 of 2026 the fact in brief is that the petitioner has got a savings account no. (hereinafter referred as ?A/c No.?) 2340000109223949 in Punjab National Bank, Gwal Toli Branch, Kanpur Nagar. On 12.12.2025, the petitioner discovered his online transactions were stopped, thereafter he visited the branch manager the following day, where he was informed that his account had been freezed on instructions of the crime branch without specifying the reason for the freezing.

4. In Writ-C No. 889 of 2026, the factual matrix is that petitioner?s A/c No. 20348241556, maintained at the State Bank of India, Branch Suhag Nagar, Firozabad, was freezed by the respondent authorities without any prior notice, duration or reasons for the seizure. The petitioner alleges that this action was taken mechanically and without statutory authority, and despite submission of representation for de-freezing, no action was taken by the respondents.

5. The factual foundation of Writ-C No. 1768 of 2026 is account freezing of the petitioner?s A/c No. 520291001842711 in Union Bank of India, Ashok Nagar Branch District Kanpur and A/c No. 1969100100013506 in Punjab National Bank, Govind Nagar Branch District Kanpur. In this case, the investigating officer requested the respondent bank to put the disputed account on hold, which was under dispute in a private dispute in between parties. Following the seizure, the petitioner moved an application before the court of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar, but the accounts are still not de-freezed as pleaded by the petitioner.

6. The facts giving rise to Writ-C No. 2691 of 2026 is freezing of petitioner?s bank account maintained with the Bank of Baroda, Barkhera Branch, Pilibhit. The bank stopped transactions in the petitioner's account due to two specific transfers, i.e., Rs.60 received on 19.09.2023, for which there is Cyber Crime Acknowledgement No. 23109230080435, and transaction of Rs.1 transferred on 27.09.2023, for which there is Cyber Crime Acknowledgement No. 31109230128980.

7. In the case of the petitioner in Writ-C No. 648 of 2026, the facts are that petitioner's A/c No. 50100801261478 maintained at HDFC Bank, Phulpur Branch, District Prayagraj was arbitrarily freezed by the bank on the basis of instructions received from the Station House Officer (SHO), Cyber Station, Prayagraj, citing Cyber Police Portal Acknowledgement No. 21511250032616 dated 23.02.2025. The petitioner contends that his entire account has been blocked indefinitely, which is severely affecting his livelihood and family obligations, without the authorities supplying him any FIR, complaint, or judicial order in that regard. Furthermore, the petitioner asserts he is neither named as an accused nor has he been informed of any specific offence or investigation, and that the freezing action was carried out without providing any prior notice, opportunity of hearing, or recording of legal reasons under statutory provisions like Section 106 Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (herein after referred to as 'BNSS') (earlier Section 102 CrPC).

8. The fact in Writ-C No. 2711 of 2026 is that various accounts of the petitioner were freezed by the banks on the instructions of the Cyber Crime Police Station, District Ballia, on the basis of certain alleged illegal amounts were deposited into the petitioner's accounts from unknown sources. It is pleaded that the petitioner is a retired government employee who is currently engaged in a small agricultural business. He also pleads that he has not received any FIR, summons, or legal notice regarding any investigation, and that the freezing of his accounts, which include his pension and agricultural income, without any order from the Magistrate under Section 107 of the BNSS (earlier Section 102 CrPC) is arbitrary and illegal action of respondents. Details of total amount, i.e. Rs.9,31,759/- that has been freezed by different banks are given below.

Bank	A/c No.	Amount
State Bank of India, Branch-Agarsanda, Ballia (IFSC: SBIN0017598)	30380446638	Rs. 3,15,000/-
Axis Bank, Branch-Ballia (IFSC: UTIB0000897)	924010054535613 92402007180658	Rs. 9,759/- Rs. 26,000/-
HDFC Bank, Branch-Ballia (IFSC: HDFC0001885)	924020071806580	Rs. 4,50,000/-
Post Payment Bank (IPPB), Branch-Ballia (IFSC: IPOS0000001)	055110085655	Rs. 76,000/-
Airtel Payment Bank, Branch-Ballia (IFSC: AIRP0000001)	8334884806	Rs. 55,000/-

9. The relevant factual backdrop in Writ-C No. 1118 of 2026 is that the petitioner, maintains Indusind Bank A/c No. 158218574927 at the Firozabad branch, having balance of Rs. 9,46,898.39/- was freezed by the bank without prior notice, show-cause, or communication. Upon inquiry, the bank informed the petitioner that the account was freezed at the request of the Bengaluru Police. The petitioner contends that this action is arbitrary and illegal, as he has no involvement with any offence or criminal case.

10. The brief facts leading to Writ-C No. 2577 of 2026 are that the petitioner's A/c No. 50100572517727 maintained with HDFC Bank at Ballia, A/c No. 05511018380 in Post Payment Bank at Ballia, and A/c No. 92402007180664 in Axis Bank at Ballia are freezed on directions received from the Station House Officer, Cyber Crime Police Station at Ballia, with liens marked in the amounts of Rs. 50,000/- in HDFC Bank, Rs. 1,00,000/- in Post Payment Bank, and Rs. 90,000/- in Axis Bank. The Cyber Crime Branch verbally informed the petitioner that the accounts were freezed due to an inquiry into deposits from illegal sources. The petitioner pleaded that the investigating agency acted without the required magisterial permission or legal authority under sections 106 or 107 of the BNSS.

11. In Writ-C No. 2989 of 2026, the factual background is that the petitioner has A/c No. 0862000100303087 at the Punjab National Bank, Samthar Branch, District Jhansi. The petitioner is engaged in online trading activities from which he has received an amount of Rs. 2000/- into his bank account. Upon visiting his home branch, he was informed that a lien has been imposed on his account on the basis of several complaints initiated from two police stations in Bangalore City (Karnataka) and one from Rachakonda (Telangana). Despite submitting a detailed representation via email on 16.12.2025, and a follow-up mail on 20.12.2025, to the aforementioned cyber police units, the blanket freeze remains in place, which the petitioner contends is arbitrary and prevents him from meeting essential financial obligations.

12. So far as Writ-C No. 4227 of 2026 is concerned, the fact is that the petitioner has maintained his A/c No. 10208002044 with IDFC First Bank Maunath Bhanjan Branch, District Mau, regarding which he has got information on 31.12.2025 that his A/c was freezed in pursuance of directives issued by the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) due to multiple cybercrime complaints across several states. The freezing is linked to complaint made in various parts of the country with details provided in following table.

State	Amount	Complaint No.
Gujrat	Rs. 29,505 Rs. 10,495	910162582728 31106250119690
Karnataka	Rs. 41,694/-	31602250016485
Kerala	Rs. 41,694/-	31502250003378
Haryana	Rs. 5,000/- Rs. 40,000/-	181241168592 31301250006471; 910162582728
West Bengal	Rs. 41,250	23201250005445

13. Insofar as the petitioner in Writ-C No. 665 of 2026 is concerned, the fact is that the account holder is a government teacher who holds a bank A/c No. 30926051202 with State Bank of India, Branch Barsathi, District Jaunpur, which has been freezed since November 2024. The A/c was freezed due to the credit of Rs. 10,000/- from Bangalore City, District Karnataka. Due to freezing of the account, petitioner is facing hardship including not being able to make payment towards his home loan, which were previously debited as EMI from the same account. The petitioner contends that the bank's action is unjustified as the credit is a single transaction, which appears to be clerical error rather than any cybercrime.

14. Having set out the facts pleaded in the respective petitions, the submissions advanced by learned counsel appearing for the respective parties are recorded hereunder.

15. At the outset, Shri Shamasul Eslam, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner in the leading petition Writ-C No. 1489 of 2026, Ashish Rawat vs. Union of India and 6 others, submitted that the account in question has already been de-freezed. Shri Sanjay Singh, learned counsel appearing for respondents in the matter, did not dispute the same.

16. Shri S.F.A. Naqvi, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner in connected Writ-C No. 2711 of 2026, Tarkeswar Tiwari vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and 6 others, argued that the petitioner's bank accounts got freezed in different banks on the basis of instructions received from cyber-crime branch Ballia. He contended that neither the petitioner was informed by the bank, nor was any intimation sent to the concerned magistrate by the investigating agency, and therefore the freezing of the accounts was therefore carried out in a manner de hors the procedure prescribed under Section 106 of the BNSS.

17. Shri Naqvi further contended that even assuming that provisions of Section 106 BNSS were applicable, a debit bank account could not have been completely freezed and the same should be only up to the extent of suspected amount, that too after complying the procedure under Section 106 BNSS. He relies on the judgment of the High Court of Kerala in Headstar Global Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of Kerala & others, 2025 SCC OnLine Ker 3546, which was subsequently followed by the High Court of Bombay in Mr. Kartik Yogeshwar Chatur vs. Union of India & Ors., 2025 SCC OnLine Bom 4778 and the same was also discussed by High Court of Delhi in Malabar Gold and Diamond Limited and Others vs. Union of India and Others, 2026 SCC OnLine Del 297. On the basis of these judgments, he submitted that the act and conduct of respondent bank in freezing the account at the instance of investigating agency is liable to be held invalid and the bank should be directed to de-freeze the bank accounts of the petitioners forthwith.

18. Shri Naqvi further submitted that, insofar as the account with India Post Payments Bank bearing IFSC Code IPOS0000001 is concerned, the same has already been de-freezed and to that extent, the issue is resolved with India Post Payments Bank. However, he had further submitted that there are five more freezed bank accounts regarding which the petition is still required to be pressed.

19. Shri Ashutosh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner in connected Writ-C No. 648 of 2026, Mohammad Alqaish vs. State of U.P. and 2 others, and Shri Malik Juned Ahmed, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner in connected Writ-C No. 2577 of 2026, Priyanka Tiwari vs. State of U.P. and 4 others, had adopted submissions made by Shri S.F.A. Naqvi, learned Senior Advocate in Writ-C No. 2711 of 2026. However, Shri Ahmed, submitted that in Writ-C No. 2577 of 2026, three bank accounts are freezed for which the writ petition is being pursued.

20. Shri Sanjay Verma learned counsel appearing for petitioner in Writ-C No. 1768 of 2026, Mohammad Irfan vs. State of U. P. and 3 others, submitted that this court vide its order dated 30.01.2026 in above mentioned writ petition, has directed regional managers of respondent banks to file personal affidavit in this matter. Responding this, Shri Shrey Singh, learned counsel appearing for Union Bank submitted that the bank account of the petitioner had already been de-freezed and, in view of this development, he has filed an affidavit in the registry on 27.02.2026. Similarly, Shri Ramesh Kumar Shukla, appearing for Punjab National Bank submits that he has also filed affidavit stating that petitioner's account in question is de-freezed. After perusal of the above mentioned affidavits issues raised in the petition appears to be resolved.

21. Shri Vidya Kant Rai, learned counsel appearing for petitioner in connected Writ-C No. 2691 of 2026, Sarfaraj vs. State of U.P. and 2 others, and Shri Vijay Prakash Mishra, learned counsel appearing for the respondent bank in connected, submits that under the interim order of this Court, the account of the petitioner has been de-freezed while holding back the disputed amount in the bank account. In view of the above since the disputed amount has only been held back by the bank, otherwise the bank account has been made operational.

22. Shri Aditya Kumar Rai, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner in connected, Writ-C No. 2989 of 2026, Chandra Narayan Singh vs. Union of India and 5 others, in addition to the submissions made by other counsels as mentioned above, had submitted that the bank account of the petitioner, in which the suspicious amount was reported to have been transacted, is from different web links operating from different parts of the Country and therefore, there may be jurisdictional issue as to the power of the Magistrate in the above regard, insofar as the provisions contained under section 106 of the BNSS are concerned.

23. Shri Santosh Kumar Dubey, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner in the connected Writ-C No. 665 of 2026, Mayank Pratap Singh vs. Reserve Bank of India, New Delhi, and 2 others, submitted that the petitioner is a teacher in a Junior Basic School and his salary account has been freezed which is also the account for paying dues towards the advance given by the bank, and since the account has been freezed, the petitioner is getting the status of a defaulter, inasmuch as the bank as well as the Cyber Crime Department has failed to intimate the Magistrate concerned about the freezing of the account of the petitioner, which therefore, invalidates the act and conduct of the respondent bank in freezing the account.

24. Shri Vikrant Pratap Singh, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner in the connected Writ-C No. 889 of 2026, Yogesh Yadav vs. State of U.P. and another, has adopted the argument of Shri Santosh Kumar Debey, as, according to him, the alleged transaction took place through an account of a bank at Patna, Bihar, into the account of the petitioner at the Firozabad branch of the bank and hence has a jurisdictional issue.

25. Shri Vikrant Pratap Singh, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner in the connected Writ-C No. 1118 of 2026, Vishwadeep vs. State of U.P. and two others, had adopted the submissions advanced by Shri Santosh Kumar Dubey in the connected Writ-C No. 665 of 2026. Similarly, Shri Arun Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner appearing in connected Writ-C No. 4227 of 2026, Pawan Kumar vs. Union of India and 4 others, had also adopted submissions made by Shri Santosh Kumar Debey in Writ-C No. 665 of 2026.

26. Meeting the submissions made by the counsel appearing for petitioners in their respective petitions, Shri Tushar Kant, learned advocate appearing for the Union of India, has submitted that at present there is clarity in procedure at every step as the Standard Operating Procedure/ Guidelines (hereinafter referred to as the “SoP”) published by the Ministry of Home Affairs is in effect, which provides detail procedure for seizing and de-freezing of the bank account, although details of the complainant or victim shall not be provided to the suspect account holder even as per SoP. Hence, according to him, non-furnishing of the detail information to the bank account holder, does not invalidate freezing of the bank account. He has also submitted that the freezing of the account is an action to protect the account holder and to ensure that the account is not misused any further for the same crime, freezing without delay is necessary but it is to be freezed as per provisions of BNSS, which permits police to act in case of suspicion of crime.

27. Shri Anubhav Chandra, learned Standing counsel representing the State respondents submitted that provisions of the BNSS are very clear that the police is empowered under Section 106 BNSS to direct for seizure of the account and for that prior intimation to the account holder is not necessary and only the information is required to be given to the magistrate that too after seizure unlike the matter of attachment under Section 107 where the order of the magistrate is pre-requisite to the attachment.

28. Learned counsel appearing for the Union of India as well as the counsel for the Bank in connected Writ -C No. 2989 of 2026 submitted that since the account of the petitioner is in bank situated in a particular city where it is freezed, then having the cause of action there, the Magistrate of the concerned District where the Bank situates shall have jurisdiction under section 106 of BNSS and there is no issue about it, especially when there is no such incident referred by the petitioners where any magistrate has refused to entertain any such case.

29. After hearing learned counsel and careful perusal of records, we consider it appropriate, to present status of the bank accounts in each petition in a tabulated form for the sake of clarity and convenience. The table below present status thereof, as emerging from the records and submissions made during hearing.

30. Having considered the submissions of learned counsel for the petitioners, following questions emerge for the determination:

(i) Whether the term “property” under Section 106 BNSS extends to entire bank account or only to a particular amount therein alleged to be stolen or suspected to be involved in an offence.

(ii) Whether the bank can freeze accounts at the instance of the police without prior intimation to the account holder or the competent magistrate in the light of procedure prescribed under Section 106 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023.

(iii) Whether Sections 106 and 107 of BNSS operate independently and distinctly, with Section 106 BNSS governing seizure or temporary freezing of accounts and Section 107 BNSS governing attachment of the account, and whether their applicability differs at different stages of investigation.

(iv) Whether there arises any jurisdictional issue in the event bank accounts are maintained in one place, but the transactions giving rise to the alleged suspicious amounts occur elsewhere, and hence where the jurisdiction of a magistrate would vest.

31. At this stage, we proceed to examine the scope and ambit of Sections 106 and 107 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (BNSS), which is necessary for the determination of first, second and third issue, which fall for consideration in the present batch of petitions. Section 106 BNSS reads as under:

“106. Power of police officer to seize certain property.-(1) Any police officer may seize any property which may be alleged or suspected to have been stolen, or which may be found under circumstances which create suspicion of the commission of any offence.

(2) Such police officer, if subordinate to the officer in charge of a police station, shall forthwith report the seizure to that officer.

(3) Every police officer acting under sub-section (1) shall forthwith report the seizure to the Magistrate having jurisdiction and where the property seized is such that it cannot be conveniently transported to the Court, or where there is difficulty in securing proper accommodation for the custody of such property, or where the continued retention of the property in police custody may not be considered necessary for the purpose of investigation, he may give custody thereof to any person on his executing a bond undertaking to produce the property before the Court as and when required and to give effect to the further orders of the Court as to the disposal of the same:

Provided that where the property seized under sub-section (1) is subject to speedy and natural decay and if the person entitled to the possession of such property is unknown or absent and the value of such property is less than five hundred rupees, it may forthwith be sold by auction under the orders of the Superintendent of Police and the provisions of Sections 503 and 504 shall, as nearly as may be practicable, apply to the net proceeds of such sale.”

32. Section 107 BNSS is also related and same is reproduced below for easy reference:

“107. Attachment, forfeiture or restoration of property.-(1) Where a police officer making an investigation has reason to believe that any property is derived or obtained, directly or indirectly, as a result of a criminal activity or from the commission of any offence, he may, with the approval of the Superintendent of Police or Commissioner of Police, make an application to the Court or the Magistrate exercising jurisdiction to take cognizance of the offence or commit for trial or try the case, for the attachment of such property.

(2) If the Court or the Magistrate has reasons to believe, whether before or after taking evidence, that all or any of such properties are proceeds of crime, the Court or the Magistrate may issue a notice upon such person calling upon him to show cause within a period of fourteen days as to why an order of attachment shall not be made.

(3) Where the notice issued to any person under sub-section (2) specifies any property as being held by any other person on behalf of such person, a copy of the notice shall also be served upon such other person.

(4) The Court or the Magistrate may, after considering the explanation, if any, to the show-cause notice issued under sub-section (2) and the material fact available before such Court or Magistrate and after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard to such person or persons, may pass an order of attachment, in respect of those properties which are found to be the proceeds of crime:

Provided that if such person does not appear before the Court or the Magistrate or represent his case before the Court or Magistrate within a period of fourteen days specified in the show-cause notice, the Court or the Magistrate may proceed to pass the ex parte order.

(5) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (2), if the Court or the Magistrate is of the opinion that issuance of notice under the said sub-section would defeat the object of attachment or seizure, the Court or Magistrate may by an interim order passed ex parte direct attachment or seizure of such property, and such order shall remain in force till an order under sub-section (6) is passed.

(6) If the Court or the Magistrate finds the attached or seized properties to be the proceeds of crime, the Court or the Magistrate shall by order direct the District Magistrate to rateably distribute such proceeds of crime to the persons who are affected by such crime.

(7) On receipt of an order passed under sub-section (6), the District Magistrate shall, within a period of sixty days distribute the proceeds of crime either by himself or authorise any officer subordinate to him to effect such distribution.

(8) If there are no claimants to receive such proceeds or no claimant is ascertainable or there is any surplus after satisfying the claimants, such proceeds of crime shall stand forfeited to the Government.”

33. Bare reading of the aforementioned provisions indicate that it empowers the investigating agency, to take necessary steps for seizure or securing of property suspected to be connected with the commission of any offence during the course of the investigation. The object underlying the provision is to enable immediate and effective action so as to preserve the subject matter of the offence and to prevent its dissipation, particularly in cases of cyber-crime, where delay may defeat the ends of justice.

34. The Supreme Court, in State of West Bengal v. Anil Kumar Dey, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 2753, examined the powers of the police under Section 102 CrPC (now Section 106 BNSS) while addressing the following questions, and held that:

“2. The short but significant question that arises in this appeal is whether, when proceedings initiated against a person are only under the provisions of the Prevention of Corruption Act 1988, would it be open for the investigating authorities (police) to freeze the accounts of the accused persons under Section 102 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973. In other words, are the powers under Section 18A of the PC Act, which prescribes the application of the Criminal Law Amendment Ordinance, 19442 insofar as the proceedings of attachment are concerned, and the power under Section 102 Cr. P.C., i.e., the power of a police officer to seize certain property, co-existent or mutually exclusive.

9. The text of Section 102, Cr. P.C., has already been reproduced supra. From a studied analysis of the judgments of this Court involving this provision, the following principles/aspects can be highlighted:

9.1 Under this Section, property that is alleged/suspected to be stolen; is the object of crime; has a direct link to the commission of the offence, can be seized. [See: M.T. Enrica Lexie v. Doramma]

9.2 The police have the power to seize passports and bank accounts under this Section. [See: Tapas D. Neogy (supra), Suresh Nanda v. CBI, Teesta Atul Setalvad v. State of Gujarat]

9.3 Orders of freezing issued under this Section, can only be in effect to aid investigation. [See: Jermyn Capital LLC v. CBI] Once the investigation is complete, that ipso facto, does not entitle the person whose bank accounts have been frozen, to have them released. It shall, however, be open to them to apply to the concerned authority for the same, and the authority shall consider the same in accordance with law. [See: Teesta Atul Setalvad (supra)]

9.4 The police do not have the power to seize any immovable property. It cannot dispossess someone who is in possession of the immovable property. [See: Nevada Properties (P) Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra]

9.5 It is not an enabling provision under which the police may, to do justice, seize the property and hand it over to whom they believe to be the rightful owner thereof. [See: Nevada Properties (P) Ltd. (supra)]”

35. The issue regarding bank account being a property, is already settled by the Supreme Court in State of Maharashtra v. Tapas D. Neogy, (1999) 7 SCC 685 where the Apex Court has recognized that a bank account is “property” within the meaning of Section 102 CrPC, which is verbatim Section 106 BNSS after arrival of new criminal laws. Since the bank account is recognised as a property by the Supreme Court, it can undoubtedly be capable of being freed on instructions of the police or investigating authority during investigation. Relevant paragraph of the judgement of the Supreme Court in the matter of Tapas D. Neogy, (supra) observes that:

“12. Having considered the divergent views taken by different High Courts with regard to the power of seizure under Section 102 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and whether the bank account can be held to be ?property? within the meaning of the said Section 102(1), we see no justification to give any narrow interpretation to the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code. It is well known that corruption in public offices has become so rampant that it has become difficult to cope up with the same. Then again the time consumed by the courts in concluding the trials is another factor which should be borne in mind in interpreting the provisions of Section 102 of the Criminal Procedure Code and the underlying object engrafted therein, inasmuch as if there can be no order of seizure of the bank account of the accused then the entire money deposited in a bank which is ultimately held in the trial to be the outcome of the illegal gratification, could be withdrawn by the accused and the courts would be powerless to get the said money which has any direct link with the commission of the offence committed by the accused as a public officer. We are, therefore, persuaded to take the view that the bank account of the accused or any of his relations is ?property? within the meaning of Section 102 of the Criminal Procedure Code and a police officer in course of investigation can seize or prohibit the operation of the said account if such assets have direct links with the commission of the offence for which the police officer is investigating into. The contrary view expressed by the Karnataka, Gauhati and Allahabad High Courts, does not represent the correct law. It may also be seen that under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, in the matter of imposition of fine under sub-section (2) of Section 13, the legislatures have provided that the courts in fixing the amount of fine shall take into consideration the amount or the value of the property which the accused person has obtained by committing the offence or where the conviction is for an offence referred to in clause (e) of sub-section (1) of Section 13, the pecuniary resources or property for which the accused person is unable to account satisfactorily. The interpretation given by us in respect of the power of seizure under Section 102 of the Criminal Procedure Code is in accordance with the intention of the legislature engrafted in Section 16 of the Prevention of Corruption Act referred to above. In the aforesaid premises, we have no hesitation to come to the conclusion that the High Court of Bombay committed error in holding that the police officer could not have seized the bank account or could not have issued any direction to the bank officer, prohibiting the account of the accused from being operated upon. Though we have laid down the law, but so far as the present case is concerned, the order impugned has already been given effect to and the accused has been operating his account, and so, we do not interfere with the same.”

36. In view of a settled legal position on the issue that a bank account is “property”, we proceed to consider first issue, whether the entire amount lying in a bank account is to be treated as ?property? for the purposes of Section 106 BNSS, or only such portion thereof, which is alleged or suspected to have been stolen, or having a suspicion of it being connected with the commission of any offence. Section 106(1) BNSS empowers a police officer to seize any property, which in the present context includes a bank account, that may be alleged or suspected to have been stolen, or which is found under the circumstances giving rise to suspicion of the commission of any offence. The provision makes it clear, without any ambiguity that only such property, which is suspected to be stolen or is linked to suspicious circumstances is liable to be seized. Consequently, we hold that the power of seizure is limited to the extent of the alleged or suspicious amount and cannot be construed to permit freezing of the entire operation of the bank account in absence of twin conditions prescribed in Section 106 BNSS, which empowers the police officer to seize. Property being a specific amount, the entire amount lying in a bank account cannot be frozen and operation of bank account cannot be denied.

37. Having addressed the first issue, we now proceed to consider the second issue, whether the bank can freeze accounts at the instance of the police. A bare reading of the provision of Section 106 quoted above makes it explicit that the police officer can instruct for the seizure of any account or put a lien on a certain amount of any account if any of two conditions is being fulfilled: (i) the allegation or suspicion of the amount being stolen; (ii) there is suspicion that the amount is related to the commission of any offence. But compliance with Section 106(1) is sufficient only to instruct the bank for freezing and thereafter the police officer is required to take further steps for the continuation of such freezing of the account or part of the amount in any account. Section 106(2) provides that if the seizure was instructed by an officer who is subordinate to the officer in charge of a police station, then he shall forthwith report the seizure to that officer, and Section 106(3) provides that every police officer acting under Section 106(1) shall forthwith report the seizure to the Magistrate having jurisdiction where the property was seized. Considering this, we hold that the police officer can instruct the freezing of the bank account, as we hold it being “property” in case of bank account to be frozen under Section 106 BNSS, with full compliance of Section 106 BNSS and not de hors the same.

38. The next aspect of the second issue is, whether the account holder is required to be given prior intimation, and whether an order of a competent court is necessary before the seizure of a bank account or the property under Section 106 BNSS. Plain reading of Section 106 clearly indicates that the provision empowers police officer to seize property alleged or suspected to have been stolen or found under circumstances giving rise to suspicion of the commission of any offence. Nowhere in the statutory scheme there is any requirement that prior notice must be given to the owner of the property, or that a court order must be obtained before seizure like it is made for the attachment under Section 107 BNSS. The language of the provision is clear, unambiguous, and self-contained that the power to seize vests directly with the police officer, subject to the procedural safeguards envisaged in the statute itself. To interpret Section 106 BNSS as requiring prior intimation or a judicial order would affect the purpose behind the provision, which is protecting the property or getting it misused further for the similar offence.

39. The Supreme Court in Teesta Atul Setalvad v. State of Gujarat, (2018) 2 SCC 372 has already clarified that prior notice to the account holder is not required before or simultaneously attaching a bank account but a post facto report is mandatorily required to be submitted to the jurisdictional magistrate. The relevant paragraph of the judgment is quoted hereinbelow:

“20. As regards the procedure for issuing instructions to freeze the bank accounts, it is noticed that the same has been followed by giving intimation to the Magistrate concerned on 21-11-2014 as required in terms of Section 102 of the Code. There is nothing in Section 102 which mandates giving of prior notice to the account-holder before the seizure of his bank account. The Magistrate after noticing that the principle stated by the Division Bench of the Bombay High Court in Shashikant D. Karnik v. State of Maharashtra [Shashikant D. Karnik v. State of Maharashtra, 2007 SCC OnLine Bom 1191 : 2008 Cri LJ 148 (Bom)] has been overruled in terms of the Full Bench judgment of the Bombay High Court in Vinodkumar Ramachandran Valluvar [Vinodkumar Ramachandran Valluvar v. State of Maharashtra, 2011 SCC OnLine Bom 402 : 2011 Cri LJ 2522], rightly negated that contention. The Full Bench of the Bombay High Court has expounded that Section 102 does not require issuance of notice to a person before or simultaneously with the action attaching his bank account. In Adarsh Coop. Housing Society Ltd. v. Union of India [Adarsh Coop. Housing Society Ltd. v. Union of India, 2011 SCC OnLine Bom 974 : 2012 Cri LJ 520], the Division Bench of the Bombay High Court once again considered the issue and rejected the argument that prior notice to the account- holder was required to be given before seizure of his bank account. It also noted that the bank account need not be only of the accused but it can be any account creating suspicion about the commission of an offence. The view so taken commends us.”

40. Any interpretation that prior notice is mandatorily to be given by police officer, will unnecessarily curtail the power expressly granted under the statute and will frustrate the very object of enabling prompt action to preserve property connected with suspected offences. Therefore, we are of considered view that neither prior intimation to the account holder by the police nor taking the court order is a precondition to the exercise of the power of seizure under Section 106 BNSS although giving the information as per provision of Section 106(2) and 106 (3) is mandatory. However, neither Section 106 and Section 107 of the BNSS, nor any other law, prohibits bank authorities from informing account holders about the operational status of their accounts. While such intimation may not be required prior to seizure, banks shall inform the account holders after the seizure of the account, upon instructions from the investigating agencies. Bank account holders, being consumers of the banks, are at least entitled to be informed of the seizure of their accounts, which renders them non-operational, so as to protect themselves from hardships and to take appropriate legal recourse.

41. Having dealt with the aforementioned issues, the Court now proceeds to examine the next issue arising in the present petitions, i.e., whether Sections 106 and 107 BNSS operate independently and distinctly. In this regard, the Constitution Bench judgment of the Supreme Court in Nevada Properties Private Limited v. State of Maharashtra, (2019) 20 SCC 119, has distinguished power to seize and attach in following words:

“34... the reference is answered by holding that the power of a police officer under Section 102 of the Code to seize any property, which may be found under circumstances that create suspicion of the commission of any offence, would not include the power to attach, seize and seal an immovable property.”

42. Petitioners have relied upon various judgements passed by different High Courts on the issue of freezing of bank accounts. We now proceed to peruse those judgments while determining rest of the issues arise for consideration in these petitions.

43. In Headstar Global Pvt. Ltd., (supra), the dispute arose out of certain international business transactions, pursuant to which an FIR came to be registered, leading to the freezing of the bank account in that case. The Court, therein, examined the scope of the powers of the police to seize and attach property, particularly under Section 107 BNSS, in the course of investigation. Paragraph Nos. 12 and 13 of the said judgment are reproduced hereinbelow for ready reference:

“12. Going by Section 107 of BNSS, a police officer investigating a crime has to approach the jurisdictional Magistrate seeking attachment of any property believed to be derived directly or indirectly from criminal activity or the commission of an offence. The Magistrate may thereupon order attachment after hearing all parties concerned or issue an interim order for attachment, if issuing notice to the owner will defeat the purpose of attachment and seizure. After confirming that the attached property is the proceeds of crime, the Magistrate can direct the District Magistrate to distribute the property among those affected by the crime. Thus Section 107 confers the jurisdictional Magistrates with explicit authority to act swiftly in cases involving proceeds of crime.

13. Another aspect of importance is that, while Section 106 speaks of seizure, Section 107 deals with attachment, forfeiture and restoration. Seizure under Section 106 can be carried out by a police officer and an ex post facto report submitted to the Magistrate. On the other hand, attachment under Section 107 can be effected only upon the orders of the Magistrate. The logic behind this distinction being that the purpose of seizure is more to secure the evidence during an investigation, whereas attachment is intended to secure the proceeds of crime by preventing its disposal and thus ensuring its availability for legal procedure such as forfeiture and distribution to the victim/s.”

44. The judgment of the Kerala High Court in Headstar Global Pvt. Limited (supra) arises from facts and circumstances distinguishable from those in the present petitions. In fact, before the High Court of Kerala, the consideration of Section 106 BNSS was confined to the limited aspect of determining whether the property, which was amount in the bank account in that case, was stolen or not, and the outcome was that the amount in that bank account was not stolen and therefore the observation was made therein, that the police did not have power to direct for freezing under Section 106 BNSS. However, in the present batch of petitions, the bank accounts are freezed under circumstances giving rise to suspicion of the commission of an offence, mostly based on complaints of cybercrime. Observations in Headstar Global Pvt. Limited (supra), was in a fact of attachment, where Section 107 was applicable, however, in present batch of petitions, Section 107 BNSS is not attracted. Infact, the Kerala High Court, in Headstar Global Pvt. Ltd. (supra) has also observed that Sections 106 and 107 operate distinctly. Paragraph 13 of the judgment analyses and delineates the distinction between seizure under Section 106 BNSS and attachment under Section 107 BNSS, as is evident from the paragraph reproduced hereinabove.

45. In Kartik Yogeshwar Chatur (supra) before the High Court of Bombay, the High Court has observed that the investigating agency had issued communication to the Bank to freeze the bank accounts of the respective petitioners, however, in many cases, even such communication is not issued to the Bank, at least, the communication is not placed before the Court by the concerned Bank. In those circumstances, the Bombay High Court analysed the matter and, while agreeing with the findings of the High Court of Kerala in Headstar Global Pvt. Limited (supra), concluded that freezing of the account is not permissible under Section 106 BNSS. However, in our understanding and considered view, the aforesaid judgment ought not to be understood as laying down an absolute proposition that Section 106 BNSS does not empower the police to seize a bank account in any circumstance. Rather, it appears to contemplate that a complete freezing of a bank account would be impermissible under Section 106 BNSS where the amount in question is neither shown to be stolen, nor the entire balance is suspected to be connected with an offence. The observations, it seems, are directed towards situations involving a disputed or identifiable portion of funds, particularly where only a limited sum is under suspicion, in which case such amount may more appropriately be subjected to a lien or partial restraint instead of restricting the operation of the entire account. Accordingly, without departing from the settled legal principle, it could be understood as that the police is empowered to seize bank account or a specific amount therein, as the case may be, subject to the scope of the term “property” under Section 106(1), as discussed above, and further subject to the fulfilment of the twin preconditions noted hereinbefore, along with due compliance with Sections 106(2) and 106(3) BNSS.

46. In Malabar Gold and Diamond Limited and Others (supra), the High Court of Delhi has examined the powers under Sections 106 and 107 of BNSS, where the account of the petitioner was frozen due to a complaint of fraud during a business transaction. The Court framed questions for examination in the order, namely, whether the freezing of the petitioner’s bank account, without any allegation of complicity, was lawful, and whether the police authorities could debit-freeze the bank accounts under Section 106 of BNSS, particularly where such freezing allegedly violated the petitioner’s fundamental rights under Articles 19(1)(g) and 21 of the Constitution of India. The judgement refers to Headstar Global Pvt. Limited (supra), Kartik Yogeshwar Chatur (supra), and many other decisions of various High Courts, and thereafter proceeded to examine the powers of the investigating agency under Sections 106 and 107 of BNSS. The relevant paragraph of the judgment is reproduced as below:-

“17. The Court further observed that innocent and unwary account holders cannot be made to suffer merely because proceeds of crime may have temporarily passed through their accounts, unless investigation reveals their complicity or conscious receipt of such funds. More importantly, taking note of the recurring nature of such cases across various High Courts, the Court urged the Ministry of Home Affairs, Government of India, to frame uniform policies, standard operating procedures and guidelines, in consultation with all stakeholders, to strike a balance between effective investigation of cybercrime and protection of the rights and livelihoods of innocent account holders.

18. Thus, it is fairly trite now that Section 106 of the BNSS empowers the police only to seize property for evidentiary purposes and does not confer any authority to attach or debit-freeze bank accounts. Attachment or freezing of bank accounts, being measures directed at securing alleged proceeds of crime, can be undertaken only under Section 107 of the BNSS and strictly upon orders of a competent Magistrate, after following the prescribed procedural safeguards.”

47. The Delhi High Court also records in the judgment that Standard Operating Procedure (hereinafter referred to as ‘SOP’) has been framed by the Ministry of Home Affairs to deal with cases of cyber fraud/crime. The SOP has got issued on 02.01.2026, however, the Court has not gone into the details of the SOP because the action taken in that case, pre-date the issuance of the SOP and same is also the fact in present batch of petitions although same can be seen for deriving the outcome that the legislative intent is always there for the police to comply with the provisions of Section 106 BNSS.

48. The scope of the Standard Operating Procedure covers putting on hold, suspension and restoration of digital banking services for the bank accounts that were suspended due to any alleged involvement in cybercrime as identified on the basis of Citizen Financial Cyber Fraud Reporting and Management System (hereinafter referred to as “CFCFRMS”). It also covers seizure and release of the bank accounts or other instruments holding money or assets suspected to be involved in cybercrime. The SOP provides the guiding principles which are explained as follows:-

“Guiding Principles for the Standard Operating Procedure (SOP)

i) Putting on Hold of suspicious transactions and beneficiary account identification reported on CFCFRMS is done to prevent reported amount from being laundered and irretrievably lost in the exercise of powers under S. 168 read with S. 94 BNSS and under S. 106 BNSS. All such requests escalated through CFCFRMS shall be accompanied by notices delivered electronically under the afore mentioned provisions.

iv) Orders for Seizure of accounts or any property issued by a Police agency shall be done in the exercise of powers under Section 106 BNSS, Section 31 of the Banning of Unregulated Deposit Schemes Act, 2019 (BUDS Act) wherever applicable, or other extant law and should be done only with respect to an FIR, including an e-FIR and a copy of such FIR/e-FIR shall accompany such orders.”

49. The SoP also suggest that before issuing an order under section 106(3) BNSS, the Investigating Officers may conduct the verifications with the account holder and their bank and give a reasonable opportunity to submit an explanation for the disputed transaction. Point 9 of the SoP deals the process for holding the amount, suspension of digital banking services and seizure with respect to a bank account or any property. Point 9.1 explain the measures to be taken by bank and it provides all necessary precautions to ensure that the account of any person is not further misused as he has been already victim of cybercrime for which the complaint is already filed.

50. Considering above, we are of the view that Sections 106 and 107 BNSS operate at distinct stages and serve different purposes in the course of an investigation. Section 106 empowers the police to seize property that is alleged or suspected to have been stolen, or which is found under circumstances creating a suspicion of an offence, thereby preserving evidence or relevant property for investigative purposes and is a temporary measure. Section 107, on the other hand, contemplates attachment of property, which is not a temporary measure but till the conclusion of the trial, which is for longer term than initial investigation for which the prompt action is foreseen under Section 106 BNSS. Seizure under Section 106 is therefore immediate and investigatory in nature, while attachment under Section 107 is precautionary and may be invoked independently at both stages. It follows that the applicability of one provision does not automatically trigger the other, and each must be exercised in accordance with the specific object and scope envisaged as per provisions made under respective Sections.

51. The legislative framework of the BNSS deliberately segregates the powers over property into two distinct stages of investigation: "seizure" under Section 106 and "attachment" under Section 107. Attachment is a significantly more severe step than seizure, while seizure is a preliminary, emergent action taken by police to secure physical evidence requiring only post-facto intimation. Attachment constitutes a substantive deprivation of property rights, and strictly demands judicial application of mind followed by an order attachment. So while power under section 106 lies at the discretion at police, section 107 vests power with a Judicial Magistrate only.

52. While the factual matrices in such cases may vary, the consistent principle that emerges is that procedural requirements must be applied in a manner that advances the cause of justice and facilitates an effective investigation. In the light of these guiding principles, and upon an independent consideration of the statutory scheme, this Court will proceed to examine other issues at hand.

53. We now proceed to examine the last issue raised by some petitioners in the present batch of petitions, i.e., whether there is any jurisdictional issue to approach the magistrate under Section 106 BNSS if the financial transaction is being done from different parts of the Country or from anywhere beyond the jurisdiction of the magistrate court where the bank account is being frozen. To answer this issue, one should read Section 106, which clearly specifies that in sub-section (3) that every police officer acting under sub-section (1) shall forthwith report the seizure to the Magistrate having jurisdiction. Having this provision under Section 106(3), there is no iota of doubt that the jurisdiction is of the place where the account is being seized irrespective of the place from where the transfer or deposit is being made.

54. Upon consideration of the pleadings in the respective petitions and the submissions advanced by learned counsel appearing for the parties, it emerges that, except in WRIT-C No. 2691 of 2026, which was already before the learned jurisdictional Magistrate, there has been non-compliance with the requirements of Section 106 BNSS in the remaining matters. In view thereof, the petitioners in all other writ petitions have legal remedies, available to them for the non-compliance of Section 106 BNSS.

55. In view of the discussion and findings recorded hereinabove, we deem it necessary to issue the following directions to ensure that the rights of the account holders are protected while the ongoing investigation under Sections 106 and 107 BNSS proceeds:

55.1 Within week of production of a certified copy of this order, the concerned respondent bank shall place under lien only the amount specified by the investigating officer with respect to all bank accounts, which are subject matter of these petitions and restore the operation of the bank accounts forthwith, thereby making the accounts fully operational.

55.2 The petitioners are at the liberty to approach jurisdictional magistrate wherever the bank account is frozen in non-compliance of the Section 106 of BNSS or even in the event of compliance if they believe that the complete account is required to be defrozen as the allegation leading to the freezing is incorrect or unjustified.

55.3 The concerned police or investigating agency shall, while issuing any direction to a bank under Section 106 BNSS, clearly specify the amount suspected to be involved in the commission of an offence or alleged to be stolen, which is required to be held or restricted in the concerned account.

55.4 The concerned bank shall, upon effecting any seizure, freezing, or marking of lien on an account pursuant to such directions, promptly inform the account holder of the same, including the reason of such action and the resultant operational status of the account.

56. These WRIT-C No. 648 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 665 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 889 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 1118 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 2577 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 2711 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 2989 of 2026 and WRIT-C No. 4227 of 2026 are allowed in terms of the directions given above.

57. Petitions in WRIT-C No. 1489 of 2026 and WRIT-C No. 1768 of 2026 have rendered infructuous and accordingly are consigned to records.

58. In the light of submissions made by learned counsel in WRIT-C No. 2691 of 2026, we dispose of this petition with a direction that the amount that has been withheld by the bank shall abide by the final outcome of the order of jurisdictional magistrate.

59. No order as to cost.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether the District Level Committee was justified in rejecting the petitioners' claim for community forest rights under the Scheduled Tribes and Other Traditional Forest Dwellers (Recognition of Forest Rights) Act, 2006 by relying upon an interim order of the Supreme Court without examining whether the said interim order was applicable to the petitioners in the facts and circumstances of the present case?

HEADNOTE

Scheduled Tribes and Other Traditional Forest Dwellers (Recognition of Forest Rights) Act, 2006 – ss.3, 4 and 6 – Community forest rights – Forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes – Recognition and vesting of forest rights – Rejection of claim by District Level Committee – Committee relying solely upon interim order passed by Supreme Court in proceedings under Forest (Conservation) Act, 1980 – Legality –

Held: The object and reasons of the Act show that the same is for furtherance of the forest rights of the forest dwellers – The primary objective to be achieved by the Act is not only limited to recognizing and vesting the forest and occupation in forest land to these forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes but also to ensure their livelihood and food security – Section 3 provides for specific forest rights available to forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes and other traditional forest dwellers, including the right of ownership, access to collect, use and dispose of minor forest produce which has been traditionally collected within or outside village boundaries – Section 4 begins with a non-obstante clause and provides that notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the Central Government recognizes and vests forest rights in the forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes in respect of all forest rights mentioned in Section 3 – The legislature has not created any new rights for these forest dwellers, rather has recognized the existing rights and occupation of these people who had been traditionally restricted to this place of dwelling in forest – District Level Committee ought to have made an assessment of the forest rights of the forest dwellers taking into account the object and scope behind the Act – Authority concerned neither discussed nor appreciated the specific intent of the Act and has presumably short-circuited the existing rights of the petitioners by relying on an interim order of the Supreme Court without even discussing as to whether the said interim order is applicable to the petitioners in the present facts and circumstances or not – Impugned order has not taken into account the relevant provisions of the Act and has only dealt with the Supreme Court interim order passed in the year 2000, previous to enactment of the Act – Impugned order quashed – Authorities directed to grant opportunity of hearing to the petitioners and thereafter pass a reasoned order in accordance with law – Till such time the order is passed by the District Level Committee, the forest dwellers shall be vested with all their existing rights as enumerated in the Act, in accordance with law. CASE ARISING FROM

Impugned order dated 15.03.2021 passed by the District Level Committee rejecting the petitioners' claim for community forest rights.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner: Nandini Verma, Desh Deepak Singh, Rajat Srivastava.
Advs. for the Respondents: A.S.G.I., C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.
Hon'ble Abdhesh Kumar Chaudhary, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties.
2. This is a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India wherein the writ petitioner has prayed for the following substantial relief(s):

"i. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of writ or certiorari quashing the order dated 15.03.2021 passed by the District Level Committee annexed as Annexure No.1 to this writ petition.

ii. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of writ of mandamus commanding the District Level Committee, District Lakhimpur Kheri, to reconsider and decide the claim for community forest rights of the petitioners afresh, in a time bound manner and in accordance with the provisions of the Schedule Tribe and Other Traditional Forest Dwellers (Recognition of Forest Rights) Act, 2006 and Schedule Tribe and Other Traditional Forest Dwellers (Recognition of Forest Rights) Rules, 2007 (as amended by the Rules of 2012).

iii. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of writ of mandamus commanding the State Level Monitoring Committee to perform its functions in accordance with the provisions of the Schedule Tribe and Other Traditional Forest Dwellers (Recognition of Forest Rights) Act, 2006 and Schedule Tribe and Other Traditional Forest Dwellers (Recognition of Forest Rights) Rules, 2007 (as amended by the Rules of 2012) in the process of recognition, verification, and vesting of the rights to community forest resources."

3. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners has placed reliance on Sections 3(a), 3(b), 3(c), 4 and 6 of the Schedule Tribes and Other Traditional Forest Dwellers (Recognition of Forest Rights) Act, 2006 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") to buttress her arguments that the Act is for the benefit of the Schedule Tribes and other traditional forest dwellers, who are dwelling in the forest areas. She submits that these rights as per Section 3 of the Act include the community rights relating to rights of ownership, access to collect, use and dispose of minor forest produce including the jalauni lakadi and reeds, which have been traditionally collected within or outside of the village boundary. She submits that the Hon'ble Supreme Court judgement that has been relied in the impugned order was passed in the year 2000 and was in reference to the Forest (Conservation) Act, 1980. She submits that the impugned order does not take into account the factum of the Act overriding the interim order passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in W.P. No.337 of 1995.

4. Furthermore, she relies on a Circular No.23011/33/2010-FRA dated 08.11.2013, wherein certain clarifications have been issued to all the State Governments/UT Administrations. The relevant part of the Circular is delineated herein-below:

Sl.No.	Issue	Clarification
1.	Whether the provisions of the Forest Rights Act, 2006 supersede the provisions of Forest (Conservation) Act, 1980 and the Hon'ble Supreme Court judgment dated 13.11.2000 in I.A.No.2 in WP NO.337/1995	It is a well settled principle of statutory interpretation that a subsequent statute supersedes all preceding court judgments or orders of prior date. Section 4(1) of the Forest Rights Act, 2006, which recognizes and vests forest rights in the forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes in the States or areas in States where they are declared as Scheduled Tribes and the other traditional forest dwellers, lays down that the forest rights under Section 3(1) of the Act, including the right under Section 3(1)(h), are recognized and vested in the forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes and other traditional forest dwellers "notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force". This non-obstante clause, therefore, recognizes and vests the forest rights under Section 3(1) in accordance with the provisions of the FRA regardless of whether such forest rights might be contrary to other laws, which includes statutory law as well as judicial precedent, if any. Further, Section 4(7) of the Act provides that the forest rights under the said Act shall be conferred free of all encumbrances and procedural requirements, Including clearance under the Forest (Conservation) Act, 1980, requirement of paying the 'net present value' and 'compensatory afforestation' for diversion of forest land, except those specified In the said Act. The plain meaning of this provision Is that recognition and vesting of all forest rights, including the settlement and conversion of forest villages and other such villages into revenue villages under Section 3(1)(h), has been exempted from the requirements of Section 2 of the Forest (Conservation) Act, 1980, as well as the requirement of compensatory afforestation as well as payment of net present value. After operationalization of the Forest Rights Act, 2006 with effect from 31.12.2007, the interim order dated 13.11.2000 of the Apex Court in I.A.No.2 in WP NO.337/1995, which was passed in the context of the widespread violation of the provisions of the Forest (Conservation) Act, 1980 would, therefore, be guided by the provisions of Section 3(1)(h) of the FRA, 2006 and that the forest right relating to conversion of forest villages and other such villages into revenue villages under this Section has also to be vested and recognised as per the laid down procedure, like any other forest right specified in Section 3 (1) of the Act.

5. Per contra, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent has supported the impugned order stating that the Hon'ble Supreme Court judgement has been referred to in the said order, and accordingly, the claim of the petitioners has been rejected.

6. We have given a patient hearing to counsel for both the sides. Upon a perusal of the objects and reasons of the Act, one would see that the same is for furtherance of the forest rights of the forest dwellers. The preamble of the Act is set out herein:-

"An Act to recognise and vest the forest and occupation in forest land in forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes and other traditional forest dwellers who have been residing in such forests for generations but whose rights could not be recorded: to provide for a framework for recording the forest rights so vested and the nature of evidence required for such recognition and vesting in respect of forest land.

Whereas the recognised rights of the forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes and other traditional forest dwellers include the responsibilities and authority for sustainable use, conservation of biodiversity and maintenance of ecological balance and thereby strengthening the conservation regime of the forests while ensuring livelihood and food security of the forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes and other traditional forest dwellers;

And whereas the forest rights on ancestral lands and their habitat were not adequately recognised in the consolidation of State forests during the colonial period as well as in independent India resulting in historical injustice to the forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes and other traditional forest dwellers who are integral to the very survival and sustainability of the forest ecosystem;

And whereas it has become necessary to address the long standing insecurity of tenurial and access rights of forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes and other traditional forest dwellers including those who were forced to relocate their dwelling due to State development interventions."

7. Section 2(c) of the Act defines "forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes" to mean members or community of the Scheduled Tribes who primarily reside in and who depend on the forests or forest lands for bona fide livelihood needs and includes the Scheduled Tribe pastoralist communities. Admittedly, the petitioners are residents of village- Sariyapara, Tehsil- Palia Kalan, District- Lakhimpur and belong to the "Tharu" community, which has been notified as Scheduled Tribes by notification dated 24.06.1967, issued under Article 342 of the Constitution of India and are "forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes" within the meaning of the said provision.

8. Further, we see that the primary objective to be achieved by the Act is not only limited to recognizing and vesting the forest and occupation in forest land to these forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes but also to ensure their livelihood and food security.

9. It is in furtherance to the aforesaid objective that Section 3 of the Act provides for specific forest rights, which are available to such forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes and other traditional forest dwellers. Section 3 bestows on these forest dwellers various rights enumerated from Section 3(a) to 3(m) of the Act and a facial reading of these sections would show that these provisions also includes a right to collect and use of minor forest produce for their livelihood. Section 3(a), 3(b) and 3(c) of the Act relied by the petitioners requires specific mention and are being extracted as herein-below:-

“3. Forest rights of Forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes and other traditional forest dwellers.-(1) For the purposes of this Act, the following rights, which secure individual or community tenure or both, shall be the forest rights of forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes and other traditional forest dwellers on all forest lands, namely:-

(a) right to hold and live in the forest land under the individual or common occupation for habitation or for self-cultivation for livelihood by a member or members of a forest dwelling Scheduled Tribe or other traditional forest dwellers;

(b) community rights such as nistar, by whatever name called, including those used in erstwhile Princely States, Zamindari or such intermediary regimes;

(c) right of ownership, access to collect, use, and dispose of minor forest produce which has been traditionally collected within or outside village boundaries;”

10. It is to be further noted that Section 4 of the Act specifically deals with recognition and vesting of the forest rights as defined under Section 3 of the Act upon the forest dwellers. This Section begins with a non-obstante clause, wherein it states that notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force and subject to the provisions of this Act, the Central Government recognizes and vests forest rights in the forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes in States in respect of all forest rights mentioned in Section 3 of the Act.

11. Thus, keeping in mind the above provisions, it is patently clearly that the forest dwellers, who have been living for centuries in these forests, have been specifically provided the forest rights as mentioned in Section 3 of the Act and such rights have been vested upon them by virtue of Section 4 of the Act. Apparently, it seems that with the enactment of the Act, the legislature in its wisdom has not created any new rights for these forest dwellers, rather has recognized the existing rights and occupation of these people, who had been traditionally restricted to this place of dwelling in forest owing to various reasons. The said fact is further fortified from the use of the language in the objects appended to this Act, which starts with the words "An Act to recognize and vest....."

12. According to this Court, the object clearly demonstrates the scope and specific purpose behind its enactment. Time and again, it has been held by this Court that the true character of a law must be ascertained by its object, purpose and context. The District Level Committee has been given sweeping powers under the Act, inasmuch as Section 6(6) of the Act provides that a decision of the said Committee shall be final and binding on the records of the forest right. We do not find any plausible reason as to why the Committee ought not to have made an assessment of the forest rights of the forest dwellers, without taking into account the object and scope behind the Act..

13. Having, discussed the object and scope behind the enactment of the ‘Schedule Tribes and Other Traditional Forest Dwellers (Recognition of Forest Rights) Act, 2006’, we find ourselves in total disagreement with the impugned order. Although the impugned order has been passed on 15.03.2021, however we find that the Authority concerned has neither discussed nor appreciated the specific intent of the Act and has presumably short-circuited the existing rights of the petitioners by relying on an interim order of the Hon’ble Supreme Court, without even discussing as to whether the said interim order is applicable to the petitioners in the present facts and circumstances or not.

14. Thus, we hold that the impugned order, in our view, has not taken into account the relevant provisions of the Act and has only dealt with the Hon’ble Supreme Court interim order that was passed in the year 2000, previous to enactment of the Act.

15. In light of the same, the impugned order dated 15.03.2021 is quashed and set aside with a direction upon the authorities to grant an opportunity of hearing to the petitioners and/or their representatives, and thereafter, pass a reasoned order in accordance with law. The authority concerned shall be at liberty for requisition of all such records, which may be necessary for adjudication of the rights of the petitioners, including the latest judgement/order passed by the Hon’ble Supreme Court, if any, for arriving at a fair, legal and proper decision, keeping in mind the object to be achieved under the Act.

16. Keeping in view the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case, wherein livelihood of the forest dwelling Scheduled Tribes has been adversely effected, we provide that till such time the order is passed by the District Level Committee, the forest dwellers shall be vested with all their existing rights as enumerated in the Act, in accordance with law.

17. With the above directions, the writ petition is disposed of.

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal prosecution launched by the U.P. Pollution Control Board against M/s Simplex Infrastructures Limited and its Directors under section 37 of the Air (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1981.

Headnotes

A. Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 482- Air (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act,1981-Section 37,40-Offences by companies-Vicarious liability of Directors-Summoning order-Quashing of-Complaint filed against contractor company and its directors for operating an industrial project without mandatory environmental clearances and consent-Directors sought quashing of the summoning order on the ground that they had resigned from the company long before the commencement of project, relying on Form 32 and Form DIR-12-Conversely, the Pollution Control Board produced records from the Ministry of Corporate affairs portal for the year of the offence showing the applicants as active Directors-The defence of resignation and lack of active participation in the day-to-day business of the company involves highly disputed questions of fact-Such evidentiary disputes cannot be scanned, weighed, or adjudicated by the High Court under its inherent jurisdiction-Environmental statutes impose a collective responsibility upon the Board of Directors for compliance-Since a prima facie case exists based on official corporate registry records at the time of offence, the summoning order suffers from no illegality.(Para 13 to 21)

Held

The court found the trial court's order was perfectly legal as it rested on sufficient initial record from the year of the offense. Conflicting live data on the MCA (Ministry of Corporate affairs) online registry makes the date of resignation a disputed question of fact that must be adjudicated by the trial court. Environmental compliance u/s 40 of the Act, 1981 binds the entire board of directors collectively; individual directors cannot escape threshold prosecution by claiming a lack of specific knowledge. Appearances for PartiesAdvs. for Applicant(s)

Asim Kumar Singh, Ghandra Bhushan Pandey

Advs. for Opposite Party(s)

G.A., Ashok Kumar Verma

(Delivered by Hon'ble Brij Raj Singh, J.)

1. Since the common question of facts and law are involved in both the cases, therefore, they are being heard and decided by a common judgement.

2. Both the applications have been filed seeking quashing of the entire proceedings of Complaint Case No.101 of 2021, Uttar Pradesh Pollution Control Board Vs. M/s Simplex Infrastructures Limited, under Section 37 of the Air (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1981 (for short ?Air Act?) and the summoning order dated 14.03.2022 passed by the Special Judicial Magistrate, Pollution/CBI, Lucknow.

3. The facts, in nut shell, are that applicants are completely innocent and have been falsely implicated in the instant case by opposite party no.2 without ascertaining any fact regarding the functions of the company. It is said that on the basis of a written complaint filed by opposite party no.2 on 06.01.2021, a complaint case was registered before the Magistrate. However, the applicants denied the allegations made in the complaint as being false and misconceived.

4. The U.P. Rajya Vidyut Utpadan Nigam Limited in order to expand the Panki Thermal Power Station Plant started to establish 1 x 660 Megawatt capacity of Thermal Power Plant and the contract to construct the said power plant was given to the Bharat Heavy Electrical Limited on 31.03.2018. For the aforesaid project, the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climates Change, Government of India has approved the clearance and provided ?No Objection Certificate? on 29.06.2017. Thereafter, U.P. Pollution Control Board has also approved the clearance to the said project vide order dated 25.06.2018. Thereafter, Bharat Heavy Electricals Limited started to construct the expansion of Thermal Power Plant in the Panki, Kanpur. Bharat Heavy Electrical Limited in order to construct and complete the said project, hire some companies to do civil work for the project, thus, sublet its contract to those companies, in which M/s Simplex Infrastructure Limited is one of the companies, working and doing civil work through the sub-contract by the Bharat Heavy Electricals Limited from 19.12.2018. it is aid that since the entire project has got environmental clearance from the Central Government and the State Board, therefore, small companies working under the Bharat Heavy Electricals Limited do not require to take further consent from the State Board under Section 21 of the Act.

5. It is further said that the complainant did not conduct any such exercise, which is indicative of the fact that applicants have ceased to be Directors of the company w.e.f. 15.03.2014 and 20.09.2016 respectively, i.e. much before the establishment of the aforesaid project at Panki, Kanpur, but they have been implicated as co-accused because only being Directors of the company. From the aforesaid fact, it is clear that opposite party no.2 without verifying the fact pertaining to the role and responsibility of the Directors of the company and without any preliminary investigation to the fact that who is In-charge and responsible on behalf of the company in the ongoing project, falsely implicated the applicants in the case. Further, opposite party no.2 in its Annexure-3 submitted along with the complaint, has admitted that he did not ascertain the fact that whether applicants were In-charge of and were responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company. However, the Magistrate without taking into consideration the aforesaid facts, summoned the applicants.

6. Sri Chandra Bhushan Pandey, assisted by Sri Mohit Ashok and Ms. Tripti, learned counsel for the applicants has submitted that applicants no.1 and 2 in Application U/s 482 No.9058 of 2022 had ceased to be Directors of the Company w.e.f. 15.3.2014 and 20.9.2016 respectively and in fact, much before establishment of the said project at Panki, Kanpur. Form No.32 and Form No.DIR 12 issued in pursuance of Sections 303(2), 264(2) or 266(1)(a) and 266(1)(b)(i) of the Companies Act, 1956 would clearly indicate and verify the said fact. He has also invited attention of the Court towards the rejoinder affidavit, particularly Annexure-RA-1. It has been further submitted that in the complaint, there is no allegation to the effect that applicants were having day-to-day control over the company at the relevant time or they discharged their duty in the official capacity. It has been submitted that in such scenario, the entire complaint against the applicants is vitiated.

7. Learned counsel for the applicants has invited attention of the Court towards the complaint filed by the Board, wherein it is mentioned that applicants are the Directors of opposite party no.3 and in-charge as well as responsible for the conduct of the day-to-day business of opposite party no.3, who willfully operates its plant and conduct its business. The Board has not exercised due diligence as to what is the duty of the applicants and in what manner they committed the offence. Learned counsel for the applicants by placing reliance upon paragraphs 41 and 45 of the judgment of the Supreme Court rendered in the case of Sunita Palita and others Vs. Panchami Stone Quarry (2022) 10 SCC 152 has submitted that merely on the basis of holding a designation or office in a company would be a travesty of justice to drag Directors.

8. In rebuttal, Sri Ahok Kumar Verma, learned counsel appearing for the U.P. Pollution Control Board (opposite party no.2) has submitted that in the complaint, the applicants have been arrayed as Directors of the company, M/s Simplex Infrastructure Limited and as the offence is being committed by the aforesaid company and no consent as provided under the Water (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act (Hereinafter referred as "Water Act") and The Air (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act (Hereinafter referred as "Air Act") has been obtained, as such the environmental norms being not followed, the applicants being vicariously liable for the offence, are liable to be prosecuted. It is further submitted that in view of the provisions of Section 25 of the Water Act, M/s Simplex Infrastructure Limited is covered under the word used "Person" and further under Section 21 of the Air Act also the same word has been used and admittedly the construction work is being performed by M/s Simplex Infrastructure Limited, it hardly matters that it is operating under any agreement. In fact, it is operating the Industrial Plant as defined under Section 2(k) of the Air Act.

9. Counsel for opposite party no.2 has further submitted that the complainant has fully ascertained before filing the complaint by making inquiry online on the website of Ministry of Corporate Affairs, Government of India in respect of the industry of the applicants and further the applicants are in-charge of the company, the consent being policy of the concerned industry. He has further submitted that the offence is pertaining to the year 2020 and at the time of filing of the complaint through the website of the Ministry of Corporate Affairs, relevant papers were obtained, which indicate that applicants were Directors of the Company at the relevant time. He has submitted that the inspection report is also pertaining to the same year and if the website indicates that applicants were Directors, then the Board has rightly impleaded them. It has been further submitted that if it is a disputed question of fact, the same can be decided by the trial court and it cannot be scanned here.

10. Counsel for opposite party no.2 by relying upon the judgments of the Supreme Court rendered in the cases of U.P. Pollution Control Board vs. Dr. Bhupendra Kumar Modi and another (2009) 2 SCC 147 (Paras 36 and 37), Application U/s 482 No.67 of 2023, Nagarajan Krishna Murthy Dire. Geo/Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of U.P. and another, decided on 27.1.2023, and Criminal Misc. Case No.1295 of 2006, S.P. Rastogi vs. State of U.P. and another, decided on 9.7.2009, has submitted that in the case of S.P. Rastogi (supra), it is held that in case individual action of any person is not involved and is not in question, but in fact it is the Board of Directors, who are responsible for running of the Mill, they must be held responsible for running the Mill without any treatment plant. It cannot be said that one or two of the Board of Directors were not having any knowledge of the aforesaid fact or that they have nothing to do with the treatment plant but in fact they were duty bound as contemplated under the Act to setup a treatment plant, which they did not do and proceeded with the manufacturing deliberately and intentionally violating the provisions of Sections 25 and 26 of the Act. On the strength of the judgment passed in the case of S.P. Rastogi (supra), learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has submitted that the entire Board is responsible and all these questions can be decided by the trial court as in Applications filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., evidences cannot be weighed here, and this Court cannot do mini trial.

11. Counsel for opposite party no.2 has further submitted that the case of Sunita Palita (supra) is pertaining to the Negotiable Instrument Act, therefore, the said judgement is not applicable to the present case and reliance placed by the counsel for the applicants is misconceived. He has further submitted that present case is pertaining to pollution and air and there is specific violation of the Act, therefore, the offence is made out against the applicants and there is no illegality or infirmity in the summons issued by the trial court.

12. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

13. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sunita Palita (supra) has observed that Director of a company, who was in-charge or responsible for conduct of the business of the company at the relevant time, will be liable. The subject matter of the said judgement is pertaining to Sections 141 and 138 of Negotiable Instrument Act, whereas in the present case, there is violation of the Air Act and each and every Director is responsible in case of violation of the Act. Therefore, the case of Sunita Palita (supra) is not applicable to the present case.

14. The matter pertaining to water pollution has been discussed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dr. Bhupendra Kumar Modi (supra), in which it has been held that in the case of Moham Meakins's case there is observation that where an offence under the Act has been committed by a company every person who was in charge of and was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company is also made guilty of the offence by the statutory creation. Any director, manager or other officer of the company, who has consented to or connived in the commission of the said offence, is made liable for the punishment of the offence. Paragraphs 36 and 37 of the aforesaid judgement are quoted below:-

“36. It is useful to refer the facts and other details stated in the complaint as noted by this Court. Thomas, J. (as he then was) speaking for the Bench in paras 10 and 11 observed thus:-

“10. In the complaint filed by the appellant before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, the Company (M/s Mohan Meakins Ltd.) has been arrayed as the first accused and the other persons who were arrayed as Accused 2 to 10 were described as the Directors of the said Company. The 11th person arrayed in the complaint as accused is described as the Manager of the Company. The averments in the complaint show that the Distillery Unit of the Company at Daliganj, Lucknow, has been discharging noxious trade effluents into River Gomti and causing continuous pollution of the river. It was further averred in the complaint that on 19-9-1982, samples of trade effluents were collected by the officers empowered in this behalf, from the drain "just outside the plant inside the factory", and from the irrigation plant out of which the effluents were pumped into the river.

When the samples were analysed in the Industrial Toxicology Research Centre, Lucknow, it was revealed that the quality of effluents was beyond the standard laid down for the purpose. Therefore, it is alleged that the Company has violated Section 24 of the Act and thereby the Company is guilty of the offence under Section 43 of the Act.*

11. Where an offence under the Act has been committed by a company every person who was in charge of and was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company is also made guilty of the offence by the statutory creation. Any director, manager or other officer of the company, who has consented to or connived in the commission of the said offence, is made liable for the punishment of the offence."

This Court has also noted further allegations in the complaint against Managers or Directors of the Company which are as under:-

“12. In the above context what is to be looked at during the stage of issuing process is whether there are allegations in the complaint by which the Managers or Directors of the Company can also be proceeded against, when the Company is alleged to be guilty of the offence. Para 12 of the complaint reads thus:

“That the accused persons from 2 to 11 are Directors/ Managers/ Partners of M/s Mohan Meakins Distillery, Daliganj, Lucknow, as mentioned in this complaint are responsible for constructing the proper works and plant for the treatment of their highly polluting trade effluent so as to conform to the standard laid down by the Board. Aforesaid accused persons are deliberately avoiding to abide by the provisions of Sections 24 and 26 of the aforesaid Act which are punishable respectively under Sections 43 and 44 of the aforesaid Act, for which not only the Company but its Directors, Managers, Secretary and all other responsible officers of the accused Company, responsible for the conduct of its business are also liable in accordance with the provision of Section 47 of the Act."

The appellant has further stated in para 23 of the complaint that "the Chairman, Managing Directors and Directors of the Company are the persons responsible for the act and therefore, they are liable to be proceeded against according to the law".

Taking note of the averments in the complaint against the Directors, Managers and the ingredients of Section 47 of the Act, this Court declined to accept the reasoning of the High Court and Sessions Court for quashing the complaint thereby set aside both the orders and directed the trial Court to proceed with the case in accordance with law"

15. In the case of R.P. Rastogi (supra), this Court has observed that it cannot be said that one or two of the Board of Directors were not having any knowledge of the aforesaid fact or that they have nothing to do with the treatment plant but in fact they were duty bound as contemplated under the Act to set up a treatment plant, which they did not do. Relevant portion of the judgement is extracted herein below:-

"The question which falls for consideration is as to whether the petitioner and others who constitute the Board of Directors of the company, which is apparent from the minutes of the meeting of the Board of Directors appended along with the petition as contained in annexure no.9, in which Shri Sudhir Seth, Shri R.S. Sharma, Shri S.P. Rastogi and Smt. Krishna Seth have been shown as Directors of the company. The Mill was set up through the company. The company operates and functions through the Board of Directors and which function is to be discharged by an Individual Director and which function is to be discharged by all the Directors collectively is to be taken into consideration. The obtaining of consent is not individual action and the Board of Directors were duty bound to take action in this regard. The Mill was set up and was run without any consent order and the Board of Directors persistently knew that they are running the Mill without any consent order and without setting up any treatment plant. It was also in their knowledge that they have applied for grant of consent and that their application has also been rejected. Whether the running of the Mill without any consent order can-be termed to be liability of any one individual or the liability of the entire Board of Directors is a question to be considered in this case. The Mill being run without treatment plant cannot be allowed to run is in the knowledge of the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors is supposed to close the industry □t once as and when the consent has been refused or they should apply afresh in the changed circumstances for grant of consent. The Inspection report dated 01.01.1986 goes to indicate that they were running the Mill without; any consent order and without any treatment plant being set up.

"Section 47-Offence by Companies.

(1) Where the offence under this Act has been committed by a Company, every person who at the time the offence was committed, was in-charge of, and was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company, as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded and punished accordingly:

Provided that nothing contained in this sub section shall render any such person liable to any punishment provided in this Act, if he proves that the offence was committed without his knowledge or that he exercised all due diligence to prevent the commission of such offence.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in Sub Section 1 where an offence under this Act has been committed by a Company and it is proved that the offence has been committed with the consent or connivance of, or is attributable to any neglect on the part of, any Director, Manager, Secretary or other officer of the company, such Director, Manager, Secretary or other officer shall also be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly."

In Sub-Section (1) of Section 47 of the Act the words 'every person who at the time the offence was committed, was In-charge' relates to the functions of the Board of Directors collectively. The Parliament has used the words with certain caution and the harmonious construction has to be adopted for interpreting the aforesaid Section. This Section deals with two situations, one is where any person was in-charge of a particular act and was also responsible to the company for the conduct of the business he would be responsible but in case the function has to be performed by the entire Board of Directors, then the Board of Directors are to be presumed to be the persons who were in-charge and were responsible to the company at the time when the offence was committed.

In this case the individual action of any person is not involved and is not in question but in fact it is the Board of Directors, who are responsible for the running of the Mill. They must be held responsible for running the Mill without any treatment plant. It cannot be said that one or two of the board of Directors were not having any knowledge of the aforesaid fact or that they have nothing to do with the treatment plant but in fact they were duty bound as contemplated under the Act to set up a treatment plant, which they did not do and proceeded with the manufacturing deliberately and Intentionally violating the provisions of Sections 25 and 26 of the Act."

16. Similar question has been cropped up in the case of Nagarajan Krishna Murthy (supra) and this Court considering the entire facts and circumstances held as under:-

"15. Since public notice was issued to all the industries emanating air pollution situated in 16 cities of U.P. and the applicant's company is also bound to follow the directions issued by the Board. But the Company failed to perform the directions issued by the Board. Thus in my considered opinion, since a public notice was issued by the Board so it is the bounden duty of the applicant's Company and its director to comply such directions which was issued by the Board.

16. Keeping in view of the judgement of the Apex Court in U.P. Pollution Control Board vs. Dr. Bhupendra Kumar Modi (supra) and considering the provision of Section 40 of the Act, 1981 director of the company could not be absolved from the liability. Although in this complaint, project manager in-charge of the construction work, who was present at the site at the time of inspection was also responsible but no prosecution was launched by Board against him.

17. So far as quashing of entire proceedings is concerned, from the perusal of the material on record and looking into the facts of the case at this stage, it cannot be said that no offence is made out against the applicant. All the submission made relates to the disputed question of fact, which cannot be adjudicated upon by this Court. At this stage, only prima facie case is to be seen in the light of the law laid down by Supreme Court in cases of R.P. Kapur Vs. State of Punjab, A.I.R. 1960 S.C. 866, State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal, 1992 SCC (Cr.) 426, State of Bihar Vs. P.P.Sharma, 1992 SCC (Cr.) 192 and lastly Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another (Para-10) 2005 SCC (Cr.) 283. The disputed defence of the accused cannot be considered at this stage. Moreover, the applicants have got a right of discharge according to the provisions prescribed in Cr.P.C., as the case may be, through a proper application for the said purpose and he is free to take all the submissions in the said discharge application before the trial court.

18. So far as the cognizance and summoning order passed by the learned trial court is concerned, at the stage of taking cognizance, trial court can simply form an opinion as to whether the case is fit for taking and committing the matter for trial or not. In the present case, learned trial court clearly expressed his opinion that he perused all the record and clearly indicated that the material placed before him is sufficient to proceed the case. Every aspect is touched by learned trial court. So, the cognizance and summoning order is perfectly legal and there is no occasion to quash the same.”

17. An assertion has been made in the complaint against the applicants that they are Directors of the company and in-charge as well as responsible for the conduct of the day-to-day business of the company, who willfully operate its plant and conduct its business is required to comply with the mandatory provisions of the Act, so its liabilities under the Act in accordance with provisions of Section 40 of the Act with respect to that they have exercised all due diligence to prevent the contravention of the provision of the Act and are required to abide the mandatory provisions under the Act.

18. Sub-sections (1) and (2) of Section 40 of the Act provide that notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where an offence under this Act has been committed by a company and it is proved that the offence has been committed with the consent or connivance of, or is attributable to any neglect on the part of any director, manager, secretary or other officer of the company, such director, manager, secretary or other officer shall also be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

19. The complaint postulates allegation of negligence against the applicants, who were directors of the company, and they are responsible for the day-to-day affairs of the company, but they had denied their day-to-day affairs of the company as well as their discharge of function on the date of incident. These are the question of facts, which cannot be scanned here. The applicants may take their defence before the trial court, but certainly this Court cannot go into the merit of the case.

20. After discussing the aforesaid factual and legal aspect, it is not out of place to mention here that the offence is pertaining to the year 2020 and at the time of filling the complaint on the website of Ministry of Corporate Affairs, Government of India, the applicants were Directors of the company. The inspection report is also pertaining to the same year. Therefore, the applicants have been impleaded in the complaint. In view of the law declared by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dr. Bhupendra Kumar Modi (supra) and this Court in the case of R.P. Rastogi (supra), it is held that it is the Board of Directors, who are responsible for act or commission of the offence. It cannot be said that one or two of the Board of Directors were not having any knowledge of the aforesaid fact or they have nothing to do with the unit. This Court cannot weigh the evidence and do mini trial here. The defence advanced by the applicants cannot be scanned here, rather trial is required for this. Therefore, no illegality or infirmity in the impugned summoning order.

21. Both the applications being devoid of merit, are rejected. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

Issue for consideration

The applicant sought an order for the expeditious disposal of a public nuisance case pending since July 2024 before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Tehsil Baldirai, Sultanpur. Upon a preliminary objection by the State, the petition was converted from article 227 of the constitution to section 529 of the BNSS, prompting a Single Judge to refer the matter to a larger bench due to conflicting opinions on whether the High Court can monitor Executive Magistrate under that section.

Held

The court held that legal issue regarding the High Court's jurisdiction over Executive Magistrates under Section 529 BNSS requires authoritative determination by a larger bench. The matter was directed to be placed before the Chief Justice for the constitution of an appropriate bench to resolve whether the remedy for expeditious disposal before an Executive Magistrate lies under section 529 BNSS or Article 227 of the Constitution. 3. In compliance of said order, the petition has been converted into 3. In compliance of said order, the petition has been converted into an application under Section 529 of Bhartiya Nagrik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (in short "BNSS").

4. Heard Shri Sachin Pandey, learned counsel for the applicant and Shri Rao Narendra Singh, learned AGA-I assisted by Shri Piyush Kumar Singh, learned AGA for the State-opposite party nos.1 and 2.

5. The case under Section 152 BNSS preferred by the applicant is pending before Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Tehsil Baldirai, District-Sultanpur, who is an "Executive Magistrate" and he is under the superintendence of "District Magistrate", as provided under Section 17 of BNSS.

6. Section 529 BNSS provides that every High Court shall so exercise its superintendence over the Courts of Session and Courts of Judicial Magistrates subordinate to it as to ensure that there is an expeditious and proper disposal of cases by the Judges and Magistrates.

7. Further, from a bare perusal of Section 529 BNSS, it is clear that High Court shall exercise its superintendence over "the Courts of Session" and "Courts of Judicial Magistrates" whereas "Executive Magistrate" i.e. Sub-Divisional Magistrate does not come within the purview of Section 529 BNSS. The phrases used in Section 529 BNSS are "the Courts of Session" and "Courts of Judicial Magistrates".

8. Various provisions of BNSS, particularly, Sections 13, 14, 17, 152 of BNSS . Sections 13 of BNSS provides every Chief Judicial Magistrate shall be subordinate to the Sessions Judge; and every other Judicial Magistrate shall, subject to the general control of the Sessions Judge, be subordinate to the Chief Judicial Magistrate. Similarly, Section 14 of BNSS provides that in every district, the State Government may appoint as many persons as it thinks fit to be Executive Magistrates and shall appoint one of them to be the District Magistrate. At the same time, Section 17 of BNSS provides that all Executive Magistrates shall be subordinate to the District Magistrate, and every Executive Magistrate (other than the Sub-divisional Magistrate) exercising powers in a sub-division shall also be subordinate to the Sub-divisional Magistrate, subject, to the general control of the District Magistrate.

9. Relevant sections of BNSS are quoted herein-below:-

"Section 13. Subordination of Judicial Magistrates.

(1) Every Chief Judicial Magistrate shall be subordinate to the Sessions Judge; and every other Judicial Magistrate shall, subject to the general control of the Sessions Judge, be subordinate to the Chief Judicial Magistrate.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may, from time to time, make rules or give special orders, consistent with this Sanhita, as to the distribution of business among the Judicial Magistrates subordinate to him.

Section 14. Executive Magistrates.

(1) In every district, the State Government may appoint as many persons as it thinks fit to be Executive Magistrates and shall appoint one of them to be the District Magistrate.

(2) The State Government may appoint any Executive Magistrate to be an Additional District Magistrate, and such Magistrate shall have such of the powers of a District Magistrate under this Sanhita or under any other law for the time being in force as may be directed by the State Government.

(3) Whenever, in consequence of the office of a District Magistrate becoming vacant, any officer succeeds temporarily to the executive administration of the district, such officer shall, pending the orders of the State Government, exercise all the powers and perform all the duties respectively conferred and imposed by this Sanhita on the District Magistrate.

(4) The State Government may place an Executive Magistrate in charge of a sub-division and may relieve him of the charge as occasion requires; and the Magistrate so placed in charge of a sub-division shall be called the Sub-divisional Magistrate.

(5) The State Government may, by general or special order and subject to such control and directions as it may deem fit to impose, delegate its powers under sub-section (4) to the District Magistrate.

(6) Nothing in this section shall preclude the State Government from conferring, under any law for the time being in force, on a Commissioner of Police all or any of the powers of an Executive Magistrate.

Section 17. Subordination of Executive Magistrates.

(1) All Executive Magistrates shall be subordinate to the District Magistrate, and every Executive Magistrate (other than the Sub-divisional Magistrate) exercising powers in a sub-division shall also be subordinate to the Sub-divisional Magistrate, subject, to the general control of the District Magistrate.

(2) The District Magistrate may, from time to time, make rules or give special orders, consistent with this Sanhita, as to the distribution or allocation of business among the Executive Magistrates subordinate to him.

Section 152. Conditional order for removal of nuisance.

(1) Whenever a District Magistrate or a Sub-divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the State Government, on receiving the report of a police officer or other information and on taking such evidence (if any) as he thinks fit, considers-

(a) that any unlawful obstruction or nuisance should be removed from any public place or from any way, river or channel which is or may be lawfully used by the public; or

(b) that the conduct of any trade or occupation, or the keeping of any goods or merchandise, is injurious to the health or physical comfort of the community, and that in consequence such trade or occupation should be prohibited or regulated or such goods or merchandise should be removed or the keeping thereof regulated; or

(c) that the construction of any building, or, the disposal of any substance, as is likely to occasion conflagration or explosion, should be prevented or stopped; or

(d) that any building, tent or structure, or any tree is in such a condition that it is likely to fall and thereby cause injury to persons living or carrying on business in the neighbourhood or passing by, and that in consequence the removal, repair or support of such building, tent or structure, or the removal or support of such tree, is necessary; or

(e) that any tank, well or excavation adjacent to any such way or public place should be fenced in such manner as to prevent danger arising to the public; or

(f) that any dangerous animal should be destroyed, confined or otherwise disposed of, such Magistrate may make a conditional order requiring the person causing such obstruction or nuisance, or carrying on such trade or occupation, or keeping any such goods or merchandise, or owning, possessing or controlling such building, tent, structure, substance, tank, well or excavation, or owning or possessing such animal or tree, within a time to be fixed in the order?

(i) to remove such obstruction or nuisance; or

(ii) to desist from carrying on, or to remove or regulate in such manner as may be directed, such trade or occupation, or to remove such goods or merchandise, or to regulate the keeping thereof in such manner as may be directed; or

(iii) to prevent or stop the construction of such building, or to alter the disposal of such substance; or

(iv) to remove, repair or support such building, tent or structure, or to remove or support such trees; or

(v) to fence such tank, well or excavation; or

(vi) to destroy, confine or dispose of such dangerous animal in the manner provided in the said order, or, if he objects so to do, to appear before himself or some other Executive Magistrate subordinate to him at a time and place to be fixed by the order, and show cause, in the manner hereinafter provided, why the order should not be made absolute.

(2) No order duly made by a Magistrate under this section shall be called in question in any Civil Court.

Explanation.-A "public place" includes also property belonging to the State, camping grounds and grounds left unoccupied for sanitary or recreative purposes.

Section 529. Duty of High Court to exercise continuous superintendence over Courts.

Every High Court shall so exercise its superintendence over the Courts of Session and Courts of Judicial Magistrates subordinate to it as to ensure that there is an expeditious and proper disposal of cases by the Judges and Magistrates."

10. Sarjoo and Anr. Vs. Babadin and Anr 1975 CrLJ 1562 (Allahabad) is an authority over the present controversy. The relevant portion of the said judgement is quoted as hereunder:

"The argument based on Section 483 is, however, wholly misconceived. That section says that every High Court shall so exercise its superintendence over the Courts of Judicial Magistrates subordinate to it as to ensure that there is an expeditious and proper disposal of cases by such Magistrate. There is no question of expeditious disposal of any pending matter, as the case already stands decided. With regard to the exercise of superintendence for the proper disposal of cases, proceeding on the assumption that the supervisory power is both judicial and administrative, it is apparent that it can be exercised only over Judicial Magistrate and not Executive Magistrates. Under Section 6 of the Code, Executive Magistrates constitute a class of criminal Courts different from the class of criminal Courts manned by the Judicial Magistrates. Sections 11 to 15 deal with Judicial Magistrates, while Executive Magistrates have been dealt with by Section 20 to 23. Proceedings under Section 145 lie within the jurisdiction of Executive Magistrates and not judicial Magistrates. The impugned order was passed by an Executive Magistrate and there is thus no supervisory power to correct a mistake committed by such a Magistrate."

11. Co-ordinate Bench of this Court at Allahabad in the case of Manoj Kumar Yadav Vs. State of UP and 5 Others, 2025:AHC:88381 has observed as under :

"17. The aforesaid definition clearly provides a distinction between the Judicial Magistrates and Executive Magistrates and since the provisions of Section 483 Cr.P.C.(Section 529 of BNSS) have been made applicable to Judicial Magistrates, they are not applicable to the orders passed by an Executive Magistrate, hence relying upon the aforesaid provisions and case laws, it can be safely concluded that the High Court under Section 529 BNSS (Section 483 Cr.P.C.) is not required to make any superintendence over the working of a Executive Magistrate and no direction under Section 483 Cr.P.C. (Section 529 of BNSS) can be issued to the Executive Magistrates where a case under Section 133 Cr.P.C. is pending before it like the present one as prescribed in Section 483 Cr.P.C.(Section 529 of BNSS)."

12. After going through the order dated 07.04.2026 passed in case UNDER ARTICLE 227 No.1709 of 2026 and the judgments rendered in Sarjoo (Supra) and Manoj Kumar Yadav (Supra), this Court finds that there is contradictory opinion which requires consideration by a larger Bench. Therefore, I am of the considered opinion that the matter should be placed before the Hon'ble Chief Justice for referring the matter to a larger Bench for consideration of the following issue: "Whether while exercising the power conferred under Section 529 BNSS/Section 483 CrPC, the High Court can direct an "Executive Magistrate" for expeditious disposal of the cases or the remedy lies under Article 227 of Constitution of India?"

13. The record shall be placed before the Hon'ble Chief Justice for constituting a larger Bench of such strength, as his Lordship deems fit, for determination of the issue.

Held

The court ruled that a police report submitted after investigation of an NCR, which discloses only non-cognizable offences, is deemed to be a complaint under section 2(1)(h) BNSS; therefore, the Magistrate must proceed in accordance with the procedure applicable to complaint cases and not as a police case. He submits that initially the applicant lodged the first information report, on 27/11/2024, against the complainant and other co-accused persons, namely Vimla, Brijesh, and Mannu, which was registered as case crime number 0208/2024, under sections 131, 351(3) and 352 of B.N.S.S., Police Station Sangrampur District Amethi and in retaliation, a frivolous complaint was moved by the opposite party no. 2, on 12.12.2024, thereafter, the present false and concocted non-cognizable report dated 30/04/2025, has been registered, as NCR No. 02 of 2025, under sections 115(2) and 352 B.N.S (old Sections- 323 and 504), of IPC, at Police Station Sangrampur District Amethi and the investigating officer, without conducting fair and proper investigation, filed the chargesheet, on 10.01.2026 and the Magistrate has also taken cognizance and summoned the applicant, vide the summoning order dated 27/01/2026, in an unlawful and erroneous manner.

5. He argued that in fact the chargesheet could not have been filed against the applicant and even if that has been filed, the Magistrate should not have proceeded with the matter, a police case, as after the investigation, the chargesheet was filed under sections 115(2) and 352 B.N.S (sections- 323 and 504 of IPC), which are non-cognizable offences. He added that as per the provision prescribed under section 2(d) of Cr.P.C., corresponding to section 2(1)(h) of BNSS, the matter could be treated as a complaint case and the procedure should be followed by the trial court, as prescribed for, in the complaint cases. He further submitted that since the learned trial court has proceeded unlawfully, therefore, the whole proceeding vitiates in the eyes of law.

6. Per contra, the learned A.G.A. appearing for the State has opposed the contentions aforesaid. He submits that there is no fault on the part of the police as after receiving the direction of the Magistrate, the police proceeded in the matter for investigation and the charge sheet has been filed.

7. Upon considering the submissions of counsel for the parties and after perusal of the record, it is apparent that initially the criminal prosecution was instituted between the parties and once the final report was submitted, again an NCR was registered bearing NCR No. 02 of 2025, under sections 115(2) and 352 B.N.S (323 & 504 of I.P.C.), thereafter, the learned trial court proceeded and directed the police to investigate into the matter and the chargesheet was filed by the Police and the cognizance has been taken by the trial court under sections 115(2) and 352 of BNSS, while summoning the applicant for the aforesaid offenses.

8. When this Court examines the matter, it emerges that the charge sheet which was filed by the investigating officer, was considered by the trial court and cognizance has been taken, though, the chargesheet has been filed under sections 115(2) and 352 B.N.S. The matter was proceeded, on an NCR, instituted by the opposite party no. 2 and the trial court, while invoking the powers under section 174(2) of BNSS directed the police for investigation into the matter.

9. The provisions of section 174 (2) BNSS[155(2) of Cr.P.C.] reads as under:-

"(2) No police officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate having power to try such case or commit the case for trial."

10. Having perused the aforesaid provision, it reveals that once an NCR is registered, the recourse is provided under aforesaid provision. After filing of the NCR, it shall be entered into the book, kept for and the informant shall be referred to the Magistrate having the jurisdiction. In the present case, as soon as the NCR was registered, the information was referred to the Magistrate, whereafter, the direction was given for investigation into the matter by the Police and the police submitted its report, while coming to the conclusion that the offense under sections 115(2) and 352 of B.N.S.S is made out.

11. This Court is aware of the provision of section 2 (1)(h) of B.N.S.S., which reads as under:-

"2(1)(h) - "complaint" means any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate, with a view to his taking action under this Sanhita, that some person, whether known or unknown, has committed an offence, but does not include a police report.

Explanation. - A report made by a police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation, the commission of a non-cognizable offence shall be deemed to be a complaint; and the police officer by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be the complainant;"

12. The aforesaid provision provides that what would mean by 'complaint' and it is said that the 'complaint' means, any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate, with view of taking action, under this code, but does not include a police report and in explanation clause, it finds mention that a report made by a police officer, in a case, which discloses after investigation, the commission of non-cognizable offence, shall be deemed to be a complaint and the police officer shall be deemed to be the complainant.

13. Having the joint reading of the provisions of section 174(2) of B.N.S.S., with section 2(i)(h) of B.N.S.S., it emerges that as soon as, an NCR is lodged, the same would be registered and the matter would be referred by the police to the Magistrate concerned and such Magistrate shall, if so desire, on the basis of the evidences, direct the police to make an investigation and on receiving the police report, may exercise its power, in the matter of cognizable offenses. The explanation of section 2 (1)(h) is very clear in its terms, that, if such police report, after investigation is filed and discloses the commission of a non-cognizable offense, that shall be deemed to be a complaint. Meaning thereby that the Magistrate is empowered to direct for investigation by the Police, on receiving a non-cognizable report and if it is found, after the investigation that matter is one of cognizable offence, the Magistrate has all power to proceed in the matter as of a cognizable offenses, but, after the investigation, if the police filed a report of commission of a non-cognizable offense, then the bar of provisions of section 2 (1)(h) will come into play and in that circumstances, the matter will run as a complaint case and in that event, such report shall be treated as a complaint and the report made by the Police shall be treated as the complainant.

14. In the instant case, it is of worth consideration that after lodging of the NCR, the investigation was conducted, on the order passed by the trial court and the police submitted its report, under Section 115(2) and 352 of B.N.S.S. The aforesaid offences disclose the commission of non-cognizable offense. I am of the considered opinion that the case of the present applicant is covered with the explanation clause of Section 2(1)(h) of BNSS.

15. It is apt to say here that the learned trial court while passing the order impugned herein, has traveled beyond the provisions of law.

16. Consequently, the summoning order dated 27.01.2026 is unsustainable, therefore, the same is hereby set-aside.

17. The application is hereby allowed accordingly.

Held

The court ruled that where a sanction order actually exists, any dispute regarding its legal validity non-application of mind, or lack of authority is an issue of evidence to be raised strictly during the trial. The court cannot exercise its discretionary power to quash proceedings when the applicant approaches the court after a decade long delay while witness examination is already in progress. (E-6)

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for Applicant(s)

Surya Narayan Singh, Ajit Singh, Preeti Singh

Adv. for Opposite Party(s)

Aakash Prasad,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Shri Surya Narayan Singh Gaherwar, the learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Aakash Prasad, the learned counsel for the respondent-CBI.

2. By means of the instant petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the petitioner has challenged the validity of an order dated 11.05.2016, whereby sanction was granted for his prosecution. The petitioner has also sought quashing of the charge-sheet dated 23.05.2016 submitted in furtherance of RC No.0006/2015/A/0003 under Section 120-B read with Sections 409, 420, 468, 471, 460, 477, 201 IPC, Section 13(2) read with Section 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and Sections 65 and 66 of Information Technology Act.

3. The learned counsel for the respondent- CBI has raised a preliminary objection that the validity of an order granting prosecution sanction cannot be challenged at this stage and validity of the same can only be examined during the trial. He has placed reliance on a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Parkash Singh Badal v. State of Punjab & Others: (2007) 1 SCC 1, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the absence of sanction can be agitated at the threshold but the plea of invalidity of sanction on account of non-application of mind can only be raised during trial. The ratio laid down in Parkash Singh Badal v. State of Punjab & Others (supra) has been followed in Dinesh Kumar v. Chairman Airport Authority of India & Others: (2012) 1 SCC 532, in Director CBI & Others versus Ashok Kumar Aswal & Others (2015) 16 SCC 163 and in State versus G. Eashwaran; AIR 2015 SC 1848.

4. The learned counsel for the respondent CBI has also submitted that the prosecution sanction order was issued on 11.05.2016, whereas the present petition challenging its validity has been filed on 30.01.2026, and there is no explanation for the delay of almost a decade in challenging the validity of the prosecution sanction.

5. In reply to the aforesaid preliminary objection, the learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State Inspector of Police v. Surya Sankaran Karri: (2006) 7 SCC 172, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that when a sanction is granted by a person not authorized in law, the same being without jurisdiction, would be a nullity. However, it is relevant to note that the aforesaid observation was made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in an appeal challenging the judgment and order passed by the High Court in a criminal appeal against a judgment of conviction and sentence passed by the trial court. The question of illegality of prosecution sanction order was neither raised nor examined before the trial Court at the inception, before commencement of the trial or at any time during the trial and this question was also neither raised nor decided by the High Court and the question was examined by the Hon'ble Supreme Court while deciding the appeal against an order of the High Court setting aside the order of conviction. The Hon'ble Supreme Court criticized the trial court for having failed to take into consideration that the sanction had been accorded by a Senior Divisional Operations Manager, who was examined as PW-37 and who had accepted in his evidence that under the rules he was not the competent authority to remove the accused from service. However, he stated that he had been delegated with the power of removing the Chief Commercial Inspector of the Headquarters of the South Eastern Railway but the purported delegation of power had never seen the light of the day. No reliance could have been placed to conclude that the said witness was authorized to accord sanction.

6. In the case of Parkash Singh Badal v. State of Punjab & Others: (2007) 1 SCC 1, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as follows: -

“48.□The sanction in the instant case related to the offences relatable to the Act. There is a distinction between the absence of sanction and the alleged invalidity on account of non-application of mind. The former question can be agitated at the threshold but the latter is a question which has to be raised during trial.□”

7. In Dinesh Kumar v. Airport Authority of India: (2012) 1 SCC 532, the Hon'ble Supreme Court followed the aforesaid law laid down in Parkash Singh Badal (supra) and held that: -

“9.□While drawing a distinction between the absence of sanction and invalidity of the sanction, this Court in□Parkash Singh Badal□expressed in no uncertain terms that the question of absence of sanction could be raised at the inception and threshold by an aggrieved person. However, where sanction order exists, but its legality and validity is put in question, such issue has to be raised in the course of trial. Of course, in□Parkash Singh Badal, this Court referred to invalidity of sanction on account of non-application of mind.

10. In our view, invalidity of sanction where sanction order exists, can be raised on diverse grounds like non-availability of material before the sanctioning authority or bias of the sanctioning authority or the order of sanction having been passed by an authority not authorised or competent to grant such sanction. The above grounds are only illustrative and not exhaustive. All such grounds of invalidity or illegality of sanction would fall in the same category like the ground of invalidity of sanction on account of non-application of mind—a category carved out by this Court in Parkash Singh Badal, the challenge to which can always be raised in the course of trial.

13. In our view, having regard to the facts of the present case, now since cognizance has already been taken against the appellant by the trial Judge, the High Court cannot be said to have erred in leaving the question of validity of sanction open for consideration by the trial court and giving liberty to the appellant to raise the issue concerning validity of sanction order in the course of trial. Such course is in accord with the decision of this Court in Parkash Singh Badal and not unjustified.”

8. In CBI v. Ashok Kumar Aggarwal: (2014) 14 SCC 295, the Hon’ble Supreme Court followed the decisions in Parkash Singh Badal and Dinesh Kumar (supra) and categorically held that: -

“59. Undoubtedly, the stage of examining the validity of sanction is during the trial and we do not propose to say that the validity should be examined during the stage of inquiry or at pre-trial stage.”

9. In Surya Sankaran Karri (supra), the Hon’ble Supreme Court relied upon the judgment in State of Karnataka v. C. Nagrajswami, (2005) 8 SCC 370 wherein the Hon’ble Supreme Court has held that: -

“14. Ordinarily, the question as to whether a proper sanction has been accorded for prosecution of the accused persons or not is a matter which should be dealt with at the stage of taking cognizance. But in a case of this nature where a question is raised as to whether the authority granting the sanction was competent therefor or not, at the stage of final arguments after trial, the same may have to be considered having regard to the terms and conditions of service of the accused for the purpose of determination as to who could remove him from service.

15. Grant of proper sanction by a competent authority is a sine qua non for taking cognizance of the offence. It is desirable that the question as regards sanction may be determined at an early stage. (See Ashok Sahu v. Gokul Saikia [1990 Supp SCC 41] and Birendra K. Singh v. State of Bihar [(2000) 8 SCC 498].)”

This judgment does not take into consideration the precedents in the cases of Parkash Singh Badal, Dinesh Kumar and Ashok Kumar Aggarwal (supra) and it does not mandate that in all cases, it is mandatory to examine the validity of the prosecution sanction order at the inception of trial.

10. Moreover, in the present case, the prosecution sanction was granted on 11.05.2016, whereas the present petition challenging its validity has been filed on 30.01.2026 and there is no explanation for the delay of almost a decade in challenging the validity of the prosecution sanction. The trial is proceeding and the officer who had granted prosecution sanction has already been examined as PW-1.

11. In view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Prakash Singh Badal (supra), it would not be appropriate for this Court to examine the validity of the prosecution sanction order at this stage, more so on a petition filed after a delay of 10 years from the date of the prosecution sanction order, when examination of prosecution witnesses is already in progress.

12. Accordingly, this Court declines to examine the validity of the prosecution sanction order at this stage and it is left open for the petitioner to raise the plea of validity of the prosecution sanction order before the trial court at the appropriate stage.

13. The present petition is dismissed with the aforesaid observations.

Held

The court held that the statutory proviso to Section 223 BNSS creates a strict legislative departure from section 200 of the repealed CrPC by explicitly mandating a pre-cognizance hearing for the accused. The Supreme Court's ruling in Sarla Gupta is distinguished as it interpreted the old CrPC, whereas the BNSS framework successfully advances the stage of document disclosure. Consequently, the accused is entitled to receive copies of the complaint, any pre-cognizance statements, and all documents or section 50 PMLA statements relied upon by the ED. (E-6)

Advs. for Opposite Party(s)

Rohit Tripathi, Kuldeep Srivatava

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pranjal Krishna and Sri Amar Tiwari, the learned counsel for the petitioners,□ Sri Kuldeep Srivastava, the learned counsel for the opposite party-Directorate of Enforcement and perused the records.□

2. Both the aforesaid petitions have been filed under Section 528 BNSS challenging the validity of an order dated 13.01.2026, passed by the learned Special Judge, Anti-Corruption, C.B.I., Court No.3, Lucknow in Miscellaneous Case No.5058 of 2025, arising out of ECIR No.ALSZO/06/2020, under Section 3/4 of Prevention of Money Laundering Act, Police Station Enforcement Directorate, whereby the applications filed by the petitioners for being supplied copies of documents annexed to the complaint filed by the Directorate of Enforcement have been rejected.

3. As only a single legal point is involved in both the petitions, the Directorate of Enforcement has filed a counter affidavit in Application No. 1535 of 2026 only and the learned Counsel for ED has stated that the same may be read for deciding both the petitions and there is no requirement for filing a separate counter affidavit in the other petition.

4. Briefly stated, the facts of the case are that on 04.11.2019 the CBI had filed an F.I.R. bearing No. RC0062019A0016 in Police Station CBI/ACB, under Sections 120-B, 420, 477-A I.P.C. and Section 13(1)(a) read with 13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 against a company M/s JVL Agro Industries Limited, seven other named persons and some unknown public servants alleging that a complaint dated 02.11.2019 had been received from an Assistant General Manager of Bank of Baroda, Varanasi Region, Varanasi alleging commission of offences of criminal conspiracy, cheating, falsification of records and criminal misconduct by the Chairman, Directors/Guarantors of M/s JVL Agro Industries Limited, Chartered Accountant of M/s Singh Dixit and Company, Chartered Account of M/s Sparsh and Company and some unknown public servants, whereby the Bank of Baroda and Punjab National Bank had been cheated to the tune of Rs.1036.43 crores. The petitioners were not named in the F.I.R.

5. After investigation, the CBI submitted a charge sheet dated 27.12.2024 against M/s JVL Agro Industries Limited, Satya Narayan Jhunjunwala, Adarsh Jhunjunwala, Rajneesh Vishwakarma, Rahul Kumar Singh and Ashok Kumar Pandey for the offences under Sections 120-B, 409, 420, 467, 468, 471, 477A I.P.C. The petitioners were not named in the charge-sheet.

6. Thereafter the Directorate of Enforcement has filed a complaint in the Court of Special Judge, CBI-III, Lucknow against 25 parties, including some companies and some individuals, which also include M/s Supreme Technofabs Pvt. Ltd (the applicant in Application No.1535 of 2026) and Anil Kumar Khemka (the applicant in Application No.2175 of 2026. Annexure No.1 to the complaint contains a list of 81 documents which are relied upon by the Directorate of Enforcement and which runs into 2231 pages.

7. The Special Judge issued notices to the accused persons under Section 223(1) BNSS. The petitioners and the other accused persons filed applications before the Special judge requesting for being provided with the copies of the complaint along with all its annexures and the documents relied upon, to enable them to advance submissions. The application has been rejected by means of the impugned order dated 13.01.2026 holding that the accused persons are entitled to received the copies of the documents only after the Court takes cognizance of the offence under PMLA, whereas in the present case cognizance is yet to be taken. Mere filing of the charge-sheet or complaint does not entitle an accused person to demand copies of documents, before the Court takes cognizance of the offence.

8. Assailing the validity of the impugned order, Sri. Pranjali Krishna, the learned Counsel for the petitioner, has submitted that the proviso appended to Section 223 BNSS provides that no Court shall take cognizance of any offence without giving the accused an opportunity of hearing. The accused can avail the opportunity of hearing only when he is aware of the material against him that is being relied upon by the prosecution, because the accused has to explain and persuade the Court that the material does not make out a case for taking cognizance of the offence.

9. Per contra, Sri. Kuldeep Srivastava, the learned Counsel for the Directorate of Enforcement has submitted that Section 231 BNSS provides that copies of the material relied upon by the prosecution shall be provided to the accused when he appears before the Court in response to the summons issued by the Court after taking cognizance of the offence. He has submitted that the statute does not provide for providing copies of the prosecution material before the Court takes cognizance of the offence.

10. The learned counsel for the petitioner have placed reliance on a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sarla Gupta and another Vs. Directorate of Enforcement: (2025) 7 SCC 626 and a decision of the Karnataka High Court in the case of Basanagauda R.Patil Vs. Shivananda S. Patil: (2024) SCC OnLine Kar. 96, which has been followed by a coordinate Bench of this court in the case of Prateek Agarwal Vs. State of U.P. and another: 2024 SCC OnLine All 8212 and Rakesh Kumar Chaturvedi Vs. State of U.P. and another: 2025 SCC OnLine All 4884. He has also relied upon the judgment in the case of Kushal Kumar Agarwal v. Enforcement Directorate: 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1221.

11. The learned counsel for the ED has also placed reliance on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sarla Gupta and another Vs. Directorate of Enforcement: (2025) 7 SCC 626.

12. Section 223 of BNSS provides that a Magistrate having jurisdiction while taking cognizance of an offence on complaint shall examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses present. The proviso appended to Section 223 BNSS provides that cognizance of an offence shall not be taken by the Magistrate without giving the accused an opportunity of being heard.

13. Section 231 BNSS provides for providing copies of the prosecution documents to an accused person after cognizance of the offence is taken and the accused is summoned by the Court. It also provides that supply of documents in electronic form shall be considered as duly furnished.

14. In Kushal Kumar Agarwal v. Enforcement Directorate, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1221, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"5. This Court has taken a consistent view that a complaint filed by the Enforcement Directorate under Section 44 (1)(b) of the PMLA will be governed by Sections 200 to 204 of the CrPC. This view has been taken by this Court in the cases of Yash Tuteja v. Union of India 2024 SCC OnLine SC 533 and Tarsem Lal v. Enforcement Directorate (2024) 7 SCC 61. Therefore, the provisions of Chapter XVI, containing Sections 223 to 226, will also apply to a complaint under Section 44 of the PMLA. As the complaint has been filed after 1st July, 2024, Section 223 of the BNSS will apply to the present complaint."

15. In Sarla Gupta v. Enforcement Directorate, (2025) 7 SCC 626, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"33.□Now, we come to Section 208 CrPC. When a case is instituted by way of a complaint under Section 200 CrPC, if it appears to the learned Magistrate issuing process that the offence is triable by a Court of Session, the learned Magistrate is duty-bound to supply the copies of the statements recorded under Section 200 or Section 202 of all the persons examined by the learned Magistrate to the accused. He is also duty-bound to supply to the accused the statements and confessions, if any, recorded under Section 161 or Section 164, and any document produced before the learned Magistrate on which the prosecution proposes to rely. Even Section 208 does not permit withholding of any documents from the accused. If a document is bulky, it allows the accused to inspect it.

34. □ If we peruse Sections 209 and 238 CrPC (Sections 232 and 261 of the BNNS), these provisions reiterate the mandatory requirement of providing the documents referred to in Sections 207 and 208CrPC.

35. □ Both Sections 207 and 208, on the face of it, do not specifically apply to a complaint under Section 44(1)(b) of the PMLA. But, there is no reason why the principles laid down under Sections 207 and 208 should not be applied to a complaint under Section 44(1)(b) of the PMLA. The provisions are consistent with the principles of fair play. The object of the provisions is to protect the rights of accused persons. An accused is entitled to a fair trial as he has the right to defend himself. That is the essence of Article 21 of the Constitution. Therefore, once cognizance is taken on the basis of a complaint under Section 44(1)(b) of the PMLA, the learned Special Judge must direct that along with the process, a copy of the complaint and the following documents must be provided to the accused:

(a) Statements recorded by the learned Special Judge of the complainant and the witnesses, if any, before taking cognizance;

(b) The documents including the copies of the statements under Section 50 of the PMLA produced before the Special Court, along with the complaint, and the documents produced subsequently by the ED till the date of taking cognizance; and

(c) Copies of the supplementary complaints and the documents, if any, produced with supplementary complaints.

After cognizance is taken on the basis of the complaint, the ED cannot be heard to say that a document has been produced with the complaint or in the proceedings of the complaint, but it is not a relied upon document. The copies of documents must be supplied along with a copy of the complaint as required by sub-section (3) of Section 204CrPC [sub-section (3) of Section 227 BNSS].”

16. The conclusions drawn by the Hon’ble Supreme Court in Sarla Gupta case (supra) have been summed up in the following words: -

“Conclusion:

68. □ Hence, some of our important conclusions are as under:

68.1. □ When records, instruments or documents of title of the property are seized along with the property under Sections 17 and 18 of the PMLA, the accused from whom the same are seized is entitled to true copies thereof;

68.2. □ Once cognizance is taken on the basis of a complaint under Section 44(1)(b) of the PMLA, the learned Special Judge must direct that along with the process, a copy of the complaint and the following documents be provided to the accused:

(i) Statements recorded by the learned Special Judge of the complainant and the witnesses, if any, before taking cognizance;

(ii) The documents including the copies of the statements under Section 50 of the PMLA produced before the Special Court, along with the complaint, and the documents produced subsequently by the ED till the date of taking cognizance; and

(iii) Copies of the supplementary complaints and the documents, if any, produced with supplementary complaints.

68.3. □ We hold that a copy of the list of statements, documents, material objects and exhibits that are not relied upon by the investigating officer must also be furnished to the accused. As held by this Court, the object is to ensure that the accused has knowledge of the documents, objects, etc. in the custody of the investigating officer which are not relied upon so that at the appropriate stage, the accused can apply by invoking the provisions of Section 91CrPC (Section 94 BNSS) for providing copies of the documents which are not relied upon by the prosecution.

68.4. □ At the time of hearing for framing of charge, reliance can be placed only on the documents forming part of the charge-sheet. In case of the PMLA, at the time of framing charge, reliance can be placed only on those documents which are produced along with the complaint or supplementary complaints. Though the accused will be entitled to a list of documents, objects, exhibits, etc. that are not relied upon by the ED at the stage of framing of charge, in ordinary course, the accused is not entitled to seek copies of the said documents at the stage of framing of charge.

68.5. □ At the stage of entering upon defence, an accused can apply for the issue of process for the production of any document or thing in accordance with Section 233(3)CrPC [Section 256(3) BNSS]. At this stage, he can also apply for the production of a document or a thing that is in the custody of the prosecution but has not been produced. A fair trial is a part of the right guaranteed to an accused under Article 21 of the Constitution. The right to a fair trial of the accused includes the right to defend. The right to defend consists of the right to lead the defence evidence by examining the witnesses and producing the documents. Therefore, the accused is entitled to exercise his right at the stage of entering upon defence by compelling the prosecution or a third party to produce a document or a thing in their possession or custody. The court can decline the request of the accused for issuing process for the production of documents only on the limited grounds set out in sub-section (3) of Section 233CrPC.

68.6. □ When at the stage of defence evidence of the accused, documents are produced on the prayer of the accused and the accused desires to cross-examine any of the prosecution witnesses based on the said documents, it is always open for the accused to apply under Section 311CrPC (Section 348 BNSS) to recall a prosecution witness already examined for further cross-examination. The reason is that the right to effectively cross-examine the prosecution witnesses is also a part of the right to have a fair trial. The accused can exercise this right even if evidence of both sides is closed.

68.7. □ As compared to traditional penal statutes, at the time of trial of the offence under the PMLA, there is a huge negative burden put on the accused. Therefore, it is all the more necessary that sub-section (3) of Section 233CrPC [sub-section (3) of Section 256 BNSS] should be liberally construed in favour of the accused. The reason is that the constitutional validity of Section 24 has been upheld on the ground that the accused has a full opportunity to show that he has not violated the provisions of the PMLA. He is entitled to rebut the presumption. Therefore, if the Special Court refuses the prayer made by the accused in terms of sub-section (3) of Section 233 for compelling the attendance of any witness or for production of a document in custody of the ED or a third party, the accused will not be in a position to discharge the onerous burden on him under Section 24 of the PMLA. Hence, the valuable right of the accused under Section 233(3)CrPC needs to be protected.

68.8. □ At the time of hearing of an application for bail governed by Section 45(1)(ii) in connection with the offences under Section 3 of the PMLA, an accused is entitled to invoke Section 91CrPC (Section 94 BNSS) seeking production of unrelayed documents. If investigation or further investigation in progress, the ED is entitled to raise objection to production of documents sought by the accused on the ground that if the documents are disclosed at this stage to the accused, it may prejudice the investigation. Only if the court after perusing the documents is satisfied that the disclosure of the documents at that stage may prejudice the ongoing investigation, it can deny the prayer for the production of such documents."

17. A study of the judgment in the case of Sarla Gupta (supra) reveals that the Hon^{ble} Supreme Court has taken into considerations the provisions of Cr.P.C. and has emphasised on the principles of fair play and protection of the rights of accused persons to a fair trial by giving him the complete right to defend himself as a part of the Fundamental Right guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution. Under provisions of Cr.P.C., the accused had the right to defend himself only after the Court had taken cognizance of an offence and had summoned him to face the trial and keeping in view the provisions of Cr.P.C., the Hon^{ble} Supreme Court had held that upon appearance before the Court, the accused would be entitled to receive all the prosecution documents as mentioned in the judgment and noted above.

18. Cr.P.C. stands repealed and replaced by BNSS, which contains a proviso appended to Section 223 providing that the Court shall not take cognizance of an offence without giving the accused an opportunity of being heard. As the judgment in the case of Sarla Gupta (supra) takes into consideration the provisions of Cr.P.C., it does not take into consideration the proviso appended to Section 223 BNSS, providing an opportunity of hearing to the accused persons before the Court takes cognizance of an offence.

19. The judgment in the case of Sarla Gupta (supra) categorically lays down that upon appearance before the trial Court, an accused is entitled to receive copies of the entire prosecution material mentioned in the judgment. As under the proviso appended to Section 223 BNSS, the accused has been given an opportunity of hearing before the Court takes cognizance of an offence, it necessary follows that the accused will be entitled to receive copies of the documents mentioned in paragraph 68.2 of the judgment when he appears before the trial Court to explain as to why the trial Court should not take cognizance of the offence.

20. Section 223 of BNSS corresponds to Section 200 of the Cr.P.C. which did not contain a provision for an opportunity of hearing being provided to an accused person at the pre-cognizance stage. However, a Proviso has been added to Section 223 for giving opportunity of hearing to the accused persons at pre-cognizance stage. When the corresponding provision in the new statute that has replaced the earlier provision, has introduced a specific addition to the corresponding provision of the earlier statute, the unambiguous intention of the Legislature is to deviate from the earlier provision and there is no room for interpreting the provision in any other manner. The legislature has in its wisdom introduced the provision for giving opportunity of hearing to the accused persons at pre-cognizance stage and this statutory provision has to be implemented in a meaningful manner. The opportunity of hearing will not be effective and meaningful unless the accused is provided copies of the entire material relied upon by the prosecution as mentioned in paragraph 68.2 of the judgment of the Hon^{ble} Supreme Court in the case of Sarla Gupta (supra).

21. In Basanagouda R. Patil v. Shivananda S. Patil, 2024 SCC OnLine Kar 96, the Karnataka High Court held that: -

“10. Therefore, the procedural drill would be this way: -

A complaint is presented before the Magistrate under Section 223 of the BNSS; on presentation of the complaint, it would be the duty of the Magistrate/concerned Court to examine the complainant on oath, which would be his sworn statement and examine the witnesses present if any, and the substance of such examination should be reduced into writing. The question of taking of cognizance would not arise at this juncture. The magistrate has to, in terms of the proviso, issue a notice to the accused who is given an opportunity of being heard. Therefore, notice shall be issued to the accused at that stage and after hearing the accused, take cognizance and regulate its procedure thereafter.

11. The proviso indicates that an accused should have an opportunity of being heard. Opportunity of being heard would not mean an empty formality. Therefore, the notice that is sent to the accused in terms of proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 223 of the BNSS shall append to it the complaint; the sworn statement; statement of witnesses if any, for the accused to appear and submit his case before taking of cognizance. In the considered view of this Court, it is the clear purport of Section 223 of BNSS 2023.”

22. The aforesaid view of the Karnataka High Court has been followed and reiterated by coordinate Benches of this court in Prateek Agarwal (supra) and Rakesh Kumar Chaturvedi (supra).

23. In view of the foregoing discussions, this Court is of the considered view that the proviso appended to Section 223, which provides that an accused shall be granted an opportunity of hearing before the trial court takes cognizance of the offence, applies to complaints filed under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act. While giving an opportunity of hearing to an accused person under the aforesaid proviso, the learned Special Judge must direct that a copy of the complaint and the following documents be provided to the accused: -

(i) Statements recorded by the learned Special Judge of the complainant and the witnesses, if any, before taking cognizance;

(ii) The documents including the copies of the statements under Section 50 of the PMLA produced before the Special Court, along with the complaint, and the documents produced subsequently by the ED till the date of taking cognizance; and

(iii) Copies of the supplementary complaints and the documents, if any, produced with supplementary complaints.

24. Accordingly, the petitions are allowed. The impugned order dated 13.01.2026, passed by the learned Special Judge, Anti-Corruption, C.B.I., Court No.3, Lucknow in Miscellaneous Case No.5058 of 2025, arising out of ECIR No.ALSZO/06/2020, under Section 3/4 of Prevention of Money Laundering Act, Police Station Enforcement Directorate, whereby the applications filed by the petitioners for being supplied copies of documents annexed to the complaint filed by the Directorate of Enforcement have been rejected, is set aside. The application is allowed and the trial Court is directed to provide copies of the documents mentioned above to the petitioners. The parties shall bear their own costs of the case.

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a murder trial u/s 302 IPC, the trial court allowed the complainant's belated application u/s 311 CrPC to exhibit existing electronic records (Google search history and Whatsapp Chats) and summon two additional material witnesses. The accused challenged the order u/s 482 CrPC on grounds of evidentiary admissibility.

Headnotes

A. Criminal Procedure Code, 1973-Section 311-Power to summon material witness or examine person present-Locus standi of private complainant at a belated stage-Electronic documents and summoning additional material witnesses cannot be dismissed as unmaintainable on the ground of locus standi, as a filing by the Public Prosecutor is not mandatory precondition for the exercise of powers u/s 311 Crpc-The provision vests wide suo motu jurisdiction in the Court to ensure a "just decision" making it immaterial that the essential circumstances were brought to its notice by the complainant rather than the prosecution-The statute explicitly permits the exercise of this power "at any stage", the application cannot be rejected solely for being belated-Hence, no interference requires.(Para 12 to 17)

Held

The court held that a private complainant has the legal standing to bring essential facts to the court's notice u/s 311 Crpc and the court can invoke this power at any stage of a trial, even during final arguments, if the evidence is necessary for a just decision. No legal prejudice is caused to the defense by marking documents already available on the record as exhibits, as the accused retains a full opportunity to challenge their admissibility, reliability, and veracity during cross-examination and the subsequent stage of final appreciation of evidence. (Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Prashant Shukla, the learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Ganesh Dutt Bhatt, the learned AGA-I for the State.

2. By means of the instant petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C./ 528 BNSS, the petitioner has challenged the validity of an order dated 07.03.2026 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. XIX, Lucknow in Sessions Trial No. 262/2019 arising out of Case Crime No. 721/2018, under Section 302 IPC, Police Station Indira Nagar, District Lucknow, whereby an application filed by the complainant under Section 311 Cr.P.C. read with Section 165 of the Evidence Act has been allowed.

3. The aforesaid application was filed by the complainant after closure of the prosecution evidence, recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and commencement of submissions, stating that Google Search History (Document no. P-6), WhatsApp chat (Document no. P-5) and Media statement of the accused (Document no. P-18) are available on record but the same have inadvertently been left out from being marked as exhibits and she requested that the documents may be marked as exhibits. The complainant further stated that PW-1 has made a mention of accused's sister and the accused has also stated in her statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that about 15 days before the incident, the complainant had taken the phone of the accused and there are WhatsApp chat between the accused and her sister Ruchi Mishra. Therefore, her examination would be necessary for proper adjudication of the case. A further prayer made in the application was for examination of a neighbor of the accused Aradhana Mishra, whose name finds place in the list of witnesses but who has not been examined. She had counseled the accused on many occasions, as the accused felt troubled by having a daughter and she desired to have a son. Her testimony is essential for explaining the mental condition of the accused at the time of the incident.

4. The accused-petitioner filed objections against the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. inter alia stating that the documents P-5, P-6 and P-18 have not been proved and, therefore, they are not admissible in evidence. She alleged that the WhatsApp chat was made by the complainant herself. In absence of the mobile phone having been examined by the Forensic Science Laboratory, no electronic evidence would be admissible. She stated that the documents have been fabricated by the complainant herself.

5. The trial Court allowed the application by the impugned order dated 07.03.2026 holding that at the stage of deciding an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C., the Court is not required to adjudicate upon the reliability, genuineness or the probative value of the materials sought to be exhibited and these aspects are to be considered at the stage of appreciation of evidence. Formal exhibition of a document does not dispense with the requirement of its proof in accordance with law. The accused shall have full opportunity to challenge the admissibility and genuineness of the electronic record during cross examination and at the stage of appreciation of evidence. No prejudice would be caused to the accused by marking the documents already available on record as exhibits. The trial Court also noted that the complainant has filed a certificate under Section 65-B of the Evidence Act supported by an affidavit. Regarding summoning of additional witnesses, the trial Court stated that at the stage of deciding the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C., the Court is not required to determine in advance whether the entire testimony of the witnesses would be admissible or not. If the witness appears to be in a position to depose about the relevant facts, her examination cannot be refused merely on the ground that some parts of her evidence may ultimately be held to be hearsay.

6. The application was also opposed on the ground that it had been filed belatedly. The trial Court rejected this objection by relying upon a decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of P. Chhagan Lal v. M. Sanjay Saw: (2003) 11 SCC 486, wherein it has been held that the power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. can be exercised at any stage, even after closure of evidence of both sides, provided the evidence appears to be essential for rendering justice.

7. Assailing validity of the impugned order, the learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that a complainant has no authority to file an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. in a State case and the trial Court ought to have rejected the application as not maintainable.

8. In support of this contention, the learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on the decision in the case of Rekha Murarka v. State of West Bengal & Anr.: (2020) 2 SCC 474, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has examined the extent to which the complainant/victim can provide assistance to the Court and has held as follows:

"11.1. The use of the term "assist" in the proviso to Section 24(8) is crucial, and implies that the victim's counsel is only intended to have a secondary role qua the Public Prosecutor. This is supported by the fact that the original Amendment Bill to CrPC had used the words "coordinate with the prosecution". However, a change was later proposed and in the finally adopted version, the words "coordinate with" were substituted by "assist". This change is reflective of an intention to only assign a supportive role to the victim's counsel, which would also be in consonance with the limited role envisaged for pleaders instructed by private persons under Section 301(2). In our considered opinion, a mandate that allows the victim's counsel to make oral arguments and cross-examine witnesses goes beyond a mere assistive role, and constitutes a parallel prosecution proceeding by itself. Given the primacy accorded to the Public Prosecutor in conducting a trial, as evident from Sections 225 and 301(2), permitting such a free hand would go against the scheme envisaged under CrPC

11.5. However, even if there is a situation where the Public Prosecutor fails to highlight some issue of importance despite it having been suggested by the victim's counsel, the victim's counsel may still not be given the unbridled mantle of making oral arguments or examining witnesses. This is because in such cases, he still has a recourse by channelling his questions or arguments through the Judge first. For instance, if the victim's counsel finds that the Public Prosecutor has not examined a witness properly and not incorporated his suggestions either, he may bring certain questions to the notice of the Court. If the Judge finds merit in them, he may take action accordingly by invoking his powers under Section 311 CrPC or Section 165 of the Evidence Act, 1872. In this regard, we agree with the observations made by the Tripura High Court in Uma Saha v. State of Tripura [Uma Saha v. State of Tripura, 2014 SCC OnLine Tri 859] that the victim's counsel has a limited right of assisting the prosecution, which may extend to suggesting questions to the Court or the prosecution, but not putting them by himself." (Emphasis added)

9. A perusal of the aforesaid passage makes it clear that although the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the victim has a limited role in providing assistance to the Court, if the victim's counsel finds examination of a witness necessary, he may request the Court for invoking the powers under Section 311 Cr.P.C. In the present case precisely that has been done by the complainant. The complainant has requested the Court to invoke the power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. and the Court has accepted the request and has invoked the powers for the reasons recorded in the impugned order.

10. The learned counsel for the petitioner has next relied upon a decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dhariwal Industries Ltd. v. Kishore Wadhvani & Ors.: (2016) 10 SCC 378. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as follows: -

"17. We have already explained the distinction between Sections 301 and 302 CrPC. The role of the informant or the private party is limited during the prosecution of a case in a Court of Session. The counsel engaged by him is required to act under the directions of the Public Prosecutor. As far as Section 302 CrPC is concerned, power is conferred on the Magistrate to grant permission to the complainant to conduct the prosecution independently."

11. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has clearly held in Dhariwal Industries Ltd. v. Kishore Wadhvani & Ors. (supra) that the trial Court has the power to grant permission to the complainant to conduct the prosecution independently.

12. Section 311 Cr.P.C. reads as follows: -

"S. 311: Power to summon material witness, or examine person present - Any Court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or recall and re-examine any person already examined; and the Court shall summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to it to be essential to the just decision of the case."

13. A bare perusal of Section 311 Cr.P.C. makes it manifest that filing of an application by the Public Prosecutor is not a precondition for exercise of powers under Section 311 Cr.P.C. The Court can exercise power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. if it has reasons to believe that the circumstances for exercise of powers exist. It cannot be said that the reasons cannot be brought to the notice of the Court by the complainant. The Section by no means can be interpreted to mean that the Court can exercise this powers only suo moto. Moreover, if the Court has power to act suo moto, the power can be exercised if the Court is of the view that the circumstances warranting exercising powers under Section 311 Cr.P.C. exist. It is immaterial that the circumstances have been brought to the notice of the Court by the complainant or by any other person.

14. Therefore, I find no force in the submission of the learned Counsel for the accused ? applicant that the complainant had no locus standi to file the application and I hold that the application filed by the complainant could not be dismissed as not maintainable.

15. No other submission was advanced by the learned Counsel for the petitioner.

16. A perusal of the impugned order shows that the trial Court has passed the impugned order after a proper analysis of the relevant facts and circumstances of the case, on the basis of sound reasons. Inherent powers of this Court acknowledged by Section 482 Cr.P.C. are meant to be exercised to prevent the abuse of the process of any Court or to secure the ends of justice. The filing and allowing of the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. cannot be said to be an abuse of the process of law and there is no error or illegality in the impugned order which may be causing injustice to the petitioner.

17. In view of the foregoing discussion, I am of the considered view that there is no good ground to entertain the petition. The petition lacks merit and the same is dismissed.

Issue for consideration

The police arrested four individuals, including applicant, and seized playing cards and currency for alleged gambling. Without a Magistrate's permission the police investigated this non-cognizable offence, filed a charge-sheet and the lower court subsequently issued a summoning order. The applicants approached the High Court to quash the entire criminal proceedings.

Headnotes

A. Criminal Procedure code,1973-Section 482-Public Gambling Act,1867-Section 13-Quashing of proceedings-Offence carries a maximum punishment of six months, making it strictly a non-cognizable offence under Part II of the First Schedule of CrPC-Statutory bar on police-No police officer can investigate a non-cognizable case or file a charge-sheet without the express prior order of a competent Magistrate-Criminal proceedings initiated in absolute disregard of mandatory procedural safeguards constitute an abuse of process-Fit case for quashing under Bhajan Lal Guidelines.(Para 8 to 18)

Held

The court held that Section 13 of Public Gambling Act, 1867 is a non-cognizable offence. The police had no authority to investigate the matter or file a charge-sheet without a Magistrate's permission. The Magistrate's cognizance order on an illegal report was a grave error, and the entire criminal proceedings are quashed to prevent the abuse of process of law. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjay Kumar Pachori, J.)

1. In the instant case short question has been arisen as to whether the offence punishable under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867 is non cognizable offence?

2. The present application under section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as Cr.P.C.) has been filed with a prayer to quash the entire proceedings of Criminal Case No. 21 of 2024 arising out of Case Crime No. 153 of 2023, under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867, Police Station Jigana, District Mirzapur as well as cognizance/ summoning order dated 03.01.2024, pending in the Court of Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division)/F.T.C., Mirzapur .

3. Brief facts of the case are that the first information report dated 25.10.2023 has been lodged by Sub Inspector of local police based on recovery and arresting of 4 accused persons including the present applicant and five other persons under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act and recovered certain currency and playing cards. After completing investigation as State case, charge-sheet has been submitted on 13.12.2023 and cognizance/ summoning order was passed on 03.01.2024 by the concerned Magistrate.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that offence, under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act, as amended by the U.P. Amendment Act No. 21 of 1961, constitutes a non cognizable offence and it provides punishment for first offence is punishable with a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty rupees nor less than fifty rupees, or to rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month; and in the case of any subsequent offence punishable with a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees nor less than one hundred rupees, and rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months nor less than one month. It is further contended that as per Part II of first Schedule of the Cr.P.C., the offence under Section 13 of Gambling Act is a non-cognizable offence. Due to this reason the Investigating Officer has no power to start investigation without prior permission of concerned Magistrate.

5. It is further argued that as per allegations of the F.I.R. four persons had been arrested in chasing conditions. There is no pre-summoning evidence with regard to fact that the act of Gambling is taken place in public place or private place. It is further submitted that charge-sheet has been submitted against the other 5 persons on the basis of confessional statement of arrested co-accused persons before police which is irrelevant. It is further submitted that police report has been submitted as cognizable case after investigating a non cognizable case without any prior permission of Magistrate concerned under Section 155(2) of Cr.P.C. and cognizance order has also been passed thereupon.

6. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the prayer.

7. Heard Sri Shrey Singh and Ms. Ragini Gupta learned counsels for the applicant and Sri Kamleshwar Singh, learned A.G.A. is present and perused the material on record.

8. Before dealing with arguments of the parties, it is apposite to revisit the position of law. In this regard Section 13 of Public Gambling Act reproduced as under:

“Section 13. Gaming and setting birds and animals to fight in public streets –

A police officer may apprehend without warrant- any person found playing for money or other valuable thing, with cards, dice, counters or other instruments of gaming, used in playing any game not being a game of mere skill in any public street, place or thoroughfare situated within the limits aforesaid, or any person setting any birds or animals to fight in any public street, place or thoroughfare situated within the limits aforesaid, or any person there present aiding and abetting such public fighting of birds and animals. Such person when apprehended shall be brought without delay before a Magistrate, and shall be liable –

a. In the case of first offence to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty rupees nor less than fifty rupees; or to rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month; and

b. In the case of any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees nor less than one hundred rupees and rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months nor less than one month.

Destruction of instruments of gaming found in public streets - Any such police officer may seize all instruments of gaming found in such public place or on the person of those whom he shall so arrest, and the Magistrate may, on conviction of the offender, order such instruments to be forthwith destroyed.”

9. Scope of order of the Magistrate to investigate a non-cognizable offence is provided under Section 155(2) of Cr.P.C. for sake of convenience. Section 155 of Cr.P.C. is reproduced herein below;

(1) When information is given to an officer in charge of a police station of the commission within the limits of such station of a non-cognizable offence, he shall enter or cause to be entered the substance of the information in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the State Government may prescribe in this behalf, and refer, the informant to the Magistrate.

(2) No police officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate having power to try such case or commit the case for trial.

(3) Any police officer receiving such order may exercise the same powers in respect of the investigation (except the power to arrest without warrant) as an officer in charge of a police station may exercise in a cognizable case.

(4) Where a case relates to two or more offences of which at least one is cognizable, the case shall be deemed to be a cognizable case, notwithstanding that the other offences are non-cognizable.

10. 'Non-cognizable offence' and 'Cognizable offence' defined under Section 2(l) of Cr.P.C. and 2(c) of Cr.P.C. which are reproduced as under:

Section 2(l) non-cognizable offence" means an offence for which, and "non-cognizable case" means a case in which, a police officer has no authority to arrest without warrant.

Section 2(c) "cognizable offence" means an offence for which, and "cognizable case" means a case in which, a police officer may, in accordance with the First Schedule or under any other law for the time being in force, arrest without warrant.

11. After close scrutiny of the aforesaid provisions, it is crystal clear that no police officer can investigate a non cognizable offence without the order of the Magistrate having power to try such case or commit the case for trial and the police officer after passing such order may exercise same power in respect of investigation as may exercise in a cognizable offence. However, the officer has no power to arrest without warrant.

12. It is also settled position of a law that where a case relates two or more offences, if one case is cognizable, the case deemed to be a cognizable case.

13. Offence punishable under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act as per State amendment, is punishable with imprisonment for not exceeding six months nor less than one month. In Part II of first schedule of Cr.P.C. a list of classification of offences against other laws has been given wherein it has been provided that if any offence punishable with imprisonment for less than 3 years or with fine only, the case deemed to be in the category of non-cognizable offence.

14. It is also significant to note that there is no pre-summoning evidence with regard to the fact that the incident was take place at public place, public street as define under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act.

15. The cognizance order has been passed without considering the facts, circumstances and position of law as the charge-sheet has been submitted for a non-cognizable offence without any prior order for investigation of the Magistrate concerned having jurisdiction.

16. It is settled position of law that as illustrated in State of Haryana and others Vs. Bhajan Lal and others 1992 SCC (Cri.) 426 wherein 7 categories of cases have been formulated for quashing of FIR/complaint with regard to prevent the abuse of process of law and to secure the ends of justice. In the present case, the trial court has committed grave error in taking cognizance in the offence related to non-cognizable offence without any prior permission of Magistrate under Section 155(2) of Cr.P.C. for investigation.

17. Hence, the present application is liable to be allowed and the entire proceedings of Criminal Case No. 21 of 2024 arising out of Case Crime No. 153 of 2023, under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867, Police Station Jigna, District Mirzapur as well as cognizance/summoning order dated 03.01.2024, pending in the Court of Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division)/F.T.C., Mirzapur are liable to be quashed.

18. The present Application U/S 482 of Cr.P.C. is, accordingly, allowed.

Issue for consideration

In this case, the wife filed a maintenance application u/s 125 Cr.PC claiming Rs. 1,00,000 per month and subsequently sought amendment of the claim to Rs. 1,50,000 per month, which was allowed by the Family Court. The husband challenged the amendment order u/s 528 BNSS contending that the Code of Criminal Procedure contains no provision permitting amendment of the maintenance amount claimed in a pending section 125 proceeding.

Headnotes

A. Criminal Procedure Code, 1973-Section 125-Exercise of Power-Amendment application in maintenance case-Absence of statutory sanction-Family Court exceeded jurisdiction in permitting amendment of maintenance amount claimed-Impugned order quashed.(Para 7 to 10) Held

The court held that although maintenance provision u/s 125 to 128 Cr.PC are beneficial in nature and intended to protect dependants from destitution, there is admittedly no provision under the Code permitting amendment of the amount claimed in a pending application u/s 125 CrPC. Therefore, the Family Court acted without jurisdiction in allowing the amendment application seeking enhancement of the maintenance claim 1,00,000 per month to Rs. 1,50,000 per month. The impugned order dated 08.12.2025 was consequently set aside. The court further directed expeditious disposal of the interim maintenance application in accordance with the principles laid down in Rajnesh Vs. Neha. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

1. Heard Shri Mohd. Afzal, learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material brought on record.

2. The present application under Section 528 BNSS has been filed against the order dated 08.12.2025 passed on the amendment application No. 21-Aa filed by the opposite party no. 2 in pending maintenance case, bearing Criminal Misc. Case No. 950 of 2024 (Smt. Akansha Vs. Swaraj Singh Patil), under Section 125 Cr.P.C. before the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Court No. 02, Firozabad, whereby while rejecting the objections filed by the applicant the said amendment application has been allowed and the opposite party No. 2 has been permitted to amend the amount of interim maintenance as claimed in the said amendment application filed behalf of the opposite party No. 2 and directed the necessary amendments to be carried out within three days.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant contended that the private opposite party No. 2 had filed an application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. for grant of maintenance at the rate of Rs. 1,00,000/- per month on 19.06.2024, upon which the applicant filed his written statement to the said application. It is further contended that on 08.05.2025 the opposite party No. 2 filed an amendment application for amending the amount of monthly maintenance claimed from Rs. 1,00,000/- as mentioned in the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. to Rs. 1,50,000/- per month, further, praying for amendment to the extent that the salary of the applicant shall be amended as Rs. 1,20,00,000/-, which has been allowed by the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Firozabad by the impugned order.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant has argued that there is no provisions provided under the Code of Criminal Procedure for amendment to be allowed in the proceedings under Section 125, Cr.P.C., therefore, the order impugned is without jurisdiction and is liable to be quashed.

5. Learned A.G.A. for the State could not dispute the above submissions made on behalf of applicant, but he submits that the Judge, Family Court/Magistrate has ample power under the provisions of Section 125, Cr.P.C. to grant monthly maintenance allowance to the wife, children, father or mother on such monthly rate as the Magistrate/court deems fit, therefore, nomenclature of the application filed would not matter as the application for amendment of the amount of maintenance claimed was filed on account of changed circumstances of increase in price structure and on the basis of which it was urged that maintenance of Rs. 1,00,000/- was highly inadequate to meet needs of opposite parties No. 2. It is further argued that nomenclature of the application would not be of much relevance and the Magistrate has only directed that the amount so claimed, i.e., Rs. 1,00,000/- may be amended to Rs. 1,50,000/- per month but no direction for its payment has yet been issued, therefore, it is contended that filing of present application on behalf of the application has no merit and is deserved to be dismissed.

6. I have heard rival submissions advanced by both the parties.

7. Provisions of sections 125, 126, 127, 128 of Cr.P.C. are beneficiary in nature in order to ensure that wives, children and parent, who are unable to maintain themselves, may be maintained properly and they are not neglected by such person against whom maintenance is being claimed and who are otherwise legally liable to maintain them. Thus, the aforesaid provisions of Code of Criminal Procedure are beneficial legislation intended to secure the interest of the persons mentioned therein so as to prevent the vagaries of destitution and to ensure that they live a descent and honourable life.

8. There is no dispute between the parties that there is no provision in the Code of Criminal Procedure for amending the amount claimed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. and the application, which has been moved by the opposite parties No. 2 was for amendment to be incorporated in the amount of maintenance claimed under Section 125, Cr.P.C. which application has been allowed and such amendment has been permitted to be incorporated.

9. In view of the above admitted position, since the law does not permit for any amendment application to be allowed for amending the amount claimed in the proceedings under Section 125, Cr.P.C., the order impugned dated 08.12.2025 passed on the amendment application allowing it, cannot be sustained in the eye of law and the same is hereby set aside.

10. Accordingly, the present application under Section 528 BNSS is finally disposed of with the direction that the learned Principal Judge shall make its endeavour to decide the interim maintenance application as expeditiously as possible in accordance with law in view of the settled law as laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the matter of Rajnish Vs. Neha and another reported in 2021 (2) SCC 324.

Issue for consideration

A criminal litigation arising out of family-cum-property dispute. The applicants approached the High court u/s 482 CrPC seeking to quash a trial court's summoning order.

Headnotes

A. Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 420-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 482-Quashing of criminal proceedings-Cheating –essential ingredients-Absence of fraudulent or dishonest inducement at the inception of the transaction-Offence not made out-Commercial and civil disputes cloaked with a criminal texture-Mere repayment of loan installments or outstanding bank dues by a third party (father) does not alter or divest the legal status of the registered property owner or mortgagor-Bank Manager accepting outstanding dues to secure bank interest and returning title deeds to the true mortgagor does not commit any criminal offence or conspiracy-Summoning order quashed.(Para 31 to 33)

Held

The Court held that a civil dispute over property partition cannot be given a criminal cloak to exert undue pressure. It ruled that a third party's voluntary repayment of a bank loan does not alter or divest the legal ownership rights of the true mortgagor. Furthermore, a bank manager commits no criminal offence by accepting dues and returning title deeds to the registered owner, making the Magistrate's mechanical summoning order a clear abuse of process. Bhatt, the learned AGA-I for the State-opposite party No.1 in both the applications and Shri Abhishek Khare, the learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 in both the applications.

2. Both the present applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. have been filed challenging the validity of an order dated 08.04.2022 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-V, Court No.29, Lucknow in Misc. Case No.3649 of 2021, summoning the applicants to face trial for the offence under Section 420 I.P.C.

3. The opposite party no. 2 □ Rakeshwar Dayal Saxena, had filed an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. against- (i) Rajat Saxena (applicant No.1 in □Application u/S 482 No.4460 of 2022), (ii) Anil Saxena □(applicant No.2 in □Application u/S 482 No.4460 of 2022) and (iii) Anshul Srivastava, the then Manager (Senior) HDFC Ltd. (the applicant in □Application u/S 482 No.3270 of 2022) stating that Rajat Saxena is son of Rakeshwar Dayal Saxena and Anil Saxena is father-in-law of Rajat Saxena. There was a house purchased in the name of Rajat Saxena and her mother Raj Laxmi Saxena. The owners of the house Rajat Saxena and Raj Laxmi Saxena had taken a housing loan of Rs.17 lakhs from HDFC Ltd., Ashok Marg, Lucknow and thereafter they had taken a personal loan of Rs.12 lakhs. The house in question was mortgaged as security for repayment of the aforesaid loans. Smt. Raj Laxmi Saxena died on 04.11.2013. Thereafter, the complainant- Rakeshwar Dayal Saxena married another lady who is living with him as his wife. Rajat Saxena works abroad. From the averments made in the application, it appears that the relation between Rajat Saxena and Rakeshwar Dayal Saxena have turned sour. □

4. The opposite party no. 2 claims that since June 2014, he has continuously paid the installments towards repayment of the loan taken by his wife and son. Thereafter, under a conspiracy between all the accused persons, the Bank Manager Anshul Srivastava declined to receive the installments toward repayment of the loans □and he obtained a writing from the complainant that the complainant would not pay the installments towards repayment of the loan taken by his wife and son. Thereafter, the Bank declared the loans as non-performing assets and published a notice for auction of the house. The complainant filed S.A. No.319 of 2018 before the Debts Recovery Tribunal, Lucknow and he expressed willingness to deposit the entire dues of the Bank amounting to Rs.45,95,000/-, provided the Bank executes a sale deed in his favour under a private treaty.

5. It is further stated in the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. that in compliance of an order dated 18.12.2018 passed by the Debts Recovery Tribunal, Lucknow the Bank Manager Anshul Srivastava received Rs.45,95,000/- from the complainant and gave a No Dues Certificate on 29.01.2019 but under a conspiracy, he handed over the title deed of the house to Rajat Saxena. The complainant has stated that he has opened the locks of the house on 03.12.2019 and has started residing in it. He has stated that the accused persons have cheated him and are trying to usurp the house.

6. On 08.04.2022, the trial Court passed the impugned order summoning the applicants to face the trial.

7. The opposite party No.2 has filed a counter affidavit opposing the applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and the applicants have filed a rejoinder affidavit.

8. On 18.12.2018, the DRT, Lucknow had passed the following order in S.A. No.391 of 2018: -

“Case called out.

Ld. Counsel for both the parties are present.

Ld. Counsel for the applicant submits that in pursuance of order dated 20.9.2018 passed by this Tribunal, the applicant has deposited a sum of Rs 10.00 lacs. He is also willing to deposit the remaining dues of the respondent-F.I.

Ld. Counsel for respondent -F.I. submits that dues against the loan account are around Rs. 36.00 lacs. In case the applicant is willing to deposit the amount, he may deposit the same.

Ld. Counsel for applicant submits that he will deposit the amount provided the title deed of secured asset is returned to him.

Heard learned counsels for both the parties.

Applicant is directed to approach the respondent- F.I. with the above proposal and the amount quoted by the learned counsel for the respondent- F.I. The proposal to be submitted by the applicant will be considered by the respondent-F.I. u/r 5(d) of the Security Interest (Enforcement) Rules, 2002.

Fixed 18.1.2018 for further order.”

9. Thereafter, on 21.12.2018, the complainant gave a letter to the bank stating that he was willing to liquidate the loan accounts and he requested that the sale deed of the house No.5/71, Jankipuram Extension, Lucknow be released in his favour.

10. On 24.12.2012, the Bank Manager wrote a letter to the complainant stating that as directed in the order passed by the DRT, the bank will accept the payment from the complainant and will return the original title deed to him subject to closure of the loan account.

11. On 29.01.2019, the Bank gave a No Dues Certificate to the complainant and asked him to file the requisite application before the DRT for further orders to enable the bank to execute necessary documents of transfer in favour of the complainant. On 17.06.2019, the DRT passed the following order: -

“The file has been put up for passing order on the application dt. 1.2.2019 moved by the applicant. The applicant has prayed in this application that respondent bank be directed to transfer the property in favour of applicant through private treaty as per Rule 8(8) of the Security Interest (Enforcement) Rules, 2002.

The applicant has stated that he has paid the entire outstanding dues of the respondent FI. The respondent Financial Institution after accepting the entire outstanding dues from the respondent bank had issued a letter to the applicant dt. 29.1.2019. The respondent Financial Institution has directed the applicant to move an application before the Tribunal to hand over the possession of the property to him and to transfer the property in his favour.

In reply to the application dt. 01.2.2019 the respondent no.2 has filed objection. According to the respondent no.2 the property in question has not been sold in auction. The Loan account has been closed and nothing is due in the said loan account. The respondent no.2 has brought out that Smt. Raj Laxmi Saxena deceased was co-owner of the said property through registered sale deed dt. 16.10.2017. She died on 04.11.2013 leaving behind her applicant K.D Saxena (Husband) respondent no.2(son) and two daughters namely Smt. Roopali Srivastava and Smt. Roopali Srivastava as her legal heirs and successors. All the legal heirs have got equal share in the property left by the deceased. According to the respondent no. 2 the Securitization Application is no.2 maintainable. Preliminary objections have been filed which are yet to be decided. The S.A. as well as application dt. 01.2.2019 of the applicant is malafide, illegal, misconceived of and beyond the provisions of SARFEASI Act, 2002.

Heard the Ld. Counsel for the applicant and respondent ho.2 and. perused the record.

It is observed from Securitization Application that in paragraph 6D of the S.A. the same prayer has been made by the applicant. Hence, the issue involved in application dt. 08.2.2019 can be considered while disposing of the Securitization Application.

Fixed 30.7.2019 for filing objection in reply to the S.A. and final arguments.

Application dt. 01.2.2019 will be disposed of along with the S.A.”

12. The S.A. was disposed off finally by means of an order dated 28.10.2019, wherein it is recorded that: -

“The cause of action for presentation of Securitization Application of applicant was the measure taken by Respondent NO. 1 Financial Institution u/s 13(4) of SARFAESI Act, 2002. The Respondent No. q1 Financial Institution is not proceeding under the provisions of SARFAESI Act hence there is no cause of action now to SARFAESI Act hence there is no cause of action now to proceed with the matter. The order issuing notice relating to share of applicant and Respondent NO. 2 and other family members is pending before the Civil Court. This Tribunal is not competent to deal with the said issue of partition or right of properties. Since there is no cause of action, the Securitization Application deserve to be disposed off.”

13. On 22.12.2020, the opposite party no. 2 has filed the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. The learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate Fifth, Court No. 29, Lucknow passed an order dated 16.01.2021 registering the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint and on 08.04.2022, the impugned order was passed summoning the applicant to face the trial.

14. Challenging validity of the summoning order, the learned counsel for the applicants have submitted that Rajat Saxena and his mother Raj Laxmi Saxena were the owners of the house in question, they had borrowed the money from the Bank and they had mortgaged the house. The right of redemption of mortgage vests in the mortgagor. After death of Raj Laxmi Saxena, Rajat Saxena has remained the sole mortgagor. The applicants in Application no. 4460 of 2022 have denied the contention of the complainant that he had deposited the money and they have submitted that Rajat Saxena used to transfer money to his father Rakeshwar Dayal Saxena from being deposited in the bank and it was from the aforesaid money that the Rakeshwar Dayal Saxena used to deposit the installments but this fact is irrelevant at this stage. What is relevant is that mere deposit of installments toward repayment of loan amount would not alter the legal status of the mortgagor as well as the registered owner of the property.

15. Shri Nadeem Murtuza has submitted that the bank Manager- applicant in Application u/S 482 No.3270 of 2022 had not raised any demand from the complainant. It was the complainant himself who approached the bank for repayment of the dues of the bank. Being an officer of bank, the officer is duty bound to take all such actions as would be in the interest of the bank for recovery of the loan. By accepting money from the complainant in discharge of his official duties, the Bank Manager has not committed any offence.

16. The learned Counsel for the applicants have submitted that the facts of the case noted above do not even prima facie make out commission of any offence and filing of the complainant is an abuse of the process of law to put undue pressure upon the applicants in the ongoing civil dispute between the complainant and his son Rajat Saxena. They have placed reliance upon the judgment in the cases of Mitesh Kumar J. Sha v. State of Karnataka, (2022) 14 SCC 572, Dinesh Gupta v. State of Uttar Pradesh 2024 SCC Online SC 34, Mala Choudhary v. State of

Telangana, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1474 and Rikhab Birani v. State of U.P., 2025 SCC OnLine SC 823.

17. Sri. Abhishek Khare, the learned counsel for the complainant has submitted that non-execution of transfer deed in favour of the complainant amounts to cheating.

18. In Mitesh Kumar J. Sha v. State of Karnataka, (2022) 14 SCC 572, the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to some precedents in the following paragraphs: -

38. Having considered the relevant arguments of the parties and decisions of this Court we are of the considered view that existence of dishonest or fraudulent intention has not been made out against the appellants. Though the instant dispute certainly involves determination of issues which are of civil nature, pursuant to which Respondent 2 has even instituted multiple civil suits, one can by no means stretch the dispute to an extent, so as to impart it a criminal colour. As has been rightly emphasised upon by this Court, by way of an observation rendered in Indian Oil Corpn. v. NEPC India Ltd. [(2006) 6 SCC 736], as under:

“14. While no one with a legitimate cause or grievance should be prevented from seeking remedies available in criminal law, a complainant who initiates or persists with a prosecution, being fully aware that the criminal proceedings are unwarranted and his remedy lies only in civil law, should himself be made accountable, at the end of such misconceived criminal proceedings, in accordance with law.”

39. It was also observed:

“13. While on this issue, it is necessary to take notice of a growing tendency in business circles to convert purely civil disputes into criminal cases. This is obviously on account of a prevalent impression that civil law remedies are time consuming and do not adequately protect the interests of lenders/creditors. There is also an impression that if a person could somehow be entangled in a criminal prosecution, there is a likelihood of imminent settlement. Any effort to settle civil disputes and claims, which do not involve any criminal offence, by applying pressure through criminal prosecution should be deprecated and discouraged.”

40. On an earlier occasion, in G. Sagar Suri v. State of U.P. [(2000) 2 SCC 636], this Court has also observed:

“8. Jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code has to be exercised with great care. In exercise of its jurisdiction the High Court is not to examine the matter superficially. It is to be seen if a matter, which is essentially of civil nature, has been given a cloak of criminal offence. Criminal proceedings are not a short cut of other remedies available in law. Before issuing process a criminal court has to exercise a great deal of caution. For the accused it is a serious matter. This Court has laid certain principles on the basis of which the High Court is to exercise its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code. Jurisdiction under this section has to be exercised to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice.”

43. Recently, this Court in Randheer Singh v. State of U.P. [(2021) 14 SCC 626], has again reiterated the long standing principle that criminal proceedings must not be used as instruments of harassment. The Court observed as under:

“33. □ There can be no doubt that jurisdiction under Section 482CrPC should be used sparingly for the purpose of preventing abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. Whether a complaint discloses criminal offence or not depends on the nature of the allegation and whether the essential ingredients of a criminal offence are present or not has to be judged by the High Court. There can be no doubt that a complaint disclosing civil transactions may also have a criminal texture. The High Court has, however, to see whether the dispute of a civil nature has been given colour of criminal offence. In such a situation, the High Court should not hesitate to quash the criminal proceedings as held by this Court in Paramjeet Batra v. State of Uttarakhand, (2013) 11 SCC 673 : (2012) 4 SCC (Cri) 76] extracted above. □”

44. □ Moreover, this Court has at innumerable instances expressed its disapproval for imparting criminal colour to a civil dispute, made merely to take advantage of a relatively quick relief granted in a criminal case in contrast to a civil dispute. Such an exercise is nothing but an abuse of the process of law which must be discouraged in its entirety.”

19. In Dinesh Gupta v. State of Uttar Pradesh: (2024) 11 SCC 758, the issue involved was stated thus: -

“2. The core issue of the dispute, which involves financial transactions and agreements, clearly places it in the realm of civil and commercial law. Yet, the respondent chose to pursue criminal charges in a quest to abuse the criminal justice system with a motive to seek personal vengeance rather than seeking true justice. This unnecessary turning of a civil matter into a criminal case not only overburdens the criminal justice system but also violates the principles of fairness and right conduct in legal matters. The apparent misuse of criminal proceedings in this case not only damages trust in our legal system but also sets a harmful precedent if not addressed.”

(Emphasis added)

20. The Hon’ble Supreme Court found that the FIR in question, if proceeded further, would result in absolute abuse of process of court. It was a clear case of malicious prosecution. Hence, the same was quashed. Before parting with the case, the Hon’ble Supreme Court observed that a criminal complaint was filed and FIR was registered against the appellants despite the commercial nature of dispute. Such ill intended acts of abuse of power and of legal machinery seriously affect the public trust in judicial functioning. The Hon’ble Supreme Court imposed costs of Rs 25 lakhs on the respondent.

21. In Mala Choudhary v. State of Telangana, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1474, was a simple dispute involving non execution of a registered sale deed in terms of a so called oral agreement between the complainant and the appellants which was given a criminal color by the complainant. The complainant misused the process of police investigation so as to entangle the accused appellants in a false and frivolous prosecution for the offences punishable under Sections 406 and 420 of the Penal Code, 1860. The Hon^{ble} Supreme Court noted the drastic variance in terms of the consideration of the plot in question in the versions of the complainant in the FIR and in the plaint filed in the civil suit filed by him much after lodging the FIR. The Hon^{ble} Supreme Court quashed the FIR and imposed Rs.10,00,000/- costs on the complainant.

22. Rikhab Birani v. State of U.P., 2025 SCC OnLine SC 823 was yet another case where there was a dispute between the parties regarding non payment of sale consideration of a property in pursuance of an oral agreement. The complainant had filed applications under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. twice, which was dismissed both the times holding that the dispute was of a civil nature and no criminal offence was made out against the appellants. The complainant then directly approached the Police Station and got an FIR registered against the appellants for the offences punishable under Sections 420, 406, 354, 504 and 506 of the Penal Code, 1860, a charge-sheet was filed and the appellants were summoned to face trial. A petition under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. filed by the appellants for quashing of the criminal proceedings against them was dismissed by the High Court. The Hon^{ble} Supreme Court held that:

“15. In Lalit Chaturvedi v. State of Uttar Pradesh 2024 SCC OnLine SC 171, this Court quoted an earlier decision in Mohammed Ibrahim v. State of Bihar (2009) 8 SCC 751, wherein, referring to Section 420 of the IPC, it was observed that the offence under the said Section requires the following ingredients to be satisfied:

“18. Let us now examine whether the ingredients of an offence of cheating are made out. The essential ingredients of the offence of cheating are as follows:

(i) deception of a person either by making a false or misleading representation or by dishonest concealment or by any other act or omission;

(ii) fraudulent or dishonest inducement of that person to either deliver any property or to consent to the retention thereof by any person or to intentionally induce that person so deceived to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived; and

(iii) such act or omission causing or is likely to cause damage or harm to that person in body, mind, reputation or property.”

16. Reference was also made to the decision in V.Y. Jose v. State of Gujarat (2009) 3 SCC 78 and it was observed:

“7. Similar elucidation by this Court in V.Y. Jose v. State of Gujarat, explicitly states that a contractual dispute or breach of contract per se should not lead to initiation of a criminal proceeding. The ingredient of cheating, as defined under Section 415 of the IPC, is existence of a fraudulent or dishonest intention of making initial promise or representation thereof, from the very beginning of the formation of contract. Further, in the absence of the averments made in the complaint petition wherefrom the ingredients of the offence can be found out, the High Court should not hesitate to exercise its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. saves the inherent power of the High Court, as it serves a salutary purpose viz. a person should not undergo harassment of litigation for a number of years, when no criminal offence is made out. It is one thing to say that a case has been made out for trial and criminal proceedings should not be quashed, but another thing to say that a person must undergo a criminal trial despite the fact that no offence has been made out in the complaint. This Court in V.Y. Jose (supra) placed reliance on several earlier decisions in Hira Lal Hari Lal Bhagwati v. CBI, Indian Oil Corporation v. NEPC India Ltd., Vir Prakash Sharma v. Anil Kumar Agarwal and All Cargo Movers (I) (P) Ltd. v. Dhanesh Badarmal Jain.

19. It is the duty and obligation of the court to exercise a great deal of caution in issuing process, particularly when the matter is essentially of civil nature [G. Sagar Suri v. State of U.P., (2000) 2 SCC 636]. The prevalent impression that civil remedies, being time-consuming, do not adequately protect the interests of creditors or lenders should be discouraged and rejected as criminal procedure cannot be used to apply pressure [Vijay Kumar Ghai v. State of West Bengal, (2022) 7 SCC 124]. Failure to do so results in the breakdown of the rule of law and amounts to misuse and abuse of the legal process.

20. In yet another case, again arising from criminal proceedings initiated in the State of Uttar Pradesh [Deepak Gaba v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2023) 3 SCC 423] this Court was constrained to note recurring cases being encountered wherein parties repeatedly attempted to invoke the jurisdiction of criminal courts by filing vexatious complaints, camouflaging allegations that are ex facie outrageous or are pure civil claims. These attempts must not be entertained and should be dismissed at the threshold. Reference was made to a judgment of this Court in Thermax Limited v. K.M. Johny (2011) 13 SCC 412, which held that courts should be watchful of the difference between civil and criminal wrongs, though there can be situations where the allegation may constitute both civil and criminal wrongs. Further, there has to be a conscious application of mind on these aspects by the Magistrate, as a summoning order has grave consequences of setting criminal proceedings in motion. Though the Magistrate is not required to record detailed reasons, there should be adequate evidence on record to set criminal proceedings into motion. The Magistrate should carefully scrutinize the evidence on record and may even put questions to the complainant/investigating officer etc. to elicit answers to find out the truth about the allegations. The summoning order has to be passed when the complaint or chargesheet discloses an offence and when there is material that supports and constitutes essential ingredients of the offence. The summoning order should not be passed lightly or as a matter of course.

21. Lastly, we would refer to another detailed judgment of this Court in Sharif Ahmed v. State of Uttar Pradesh 2024 SCC OnLine SC 726, which draws out the ingredients required to establish an offence under Sections 406, 415, 420, 503 and 506 of the IPC in the following terms:

“37. The chargesheet states that the offence under Section 420 is not made out. The offence of cheating under Section 415 of the IPC requires dishonest inducement, delivering of a property as a result of the inducement, and damage or harm to the person so induced. The offence of cheating is established when the dishonest intention exists at the time when the contract or agreement is entered, for the essential ingredient of the offence of cheating consists of fraudulent or dishonest inducement of a person by deceiving him to deliver any property, to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he had not been deceived. As per the investigating officer, no fraudulent and dishonest inducement is made out or established at the time when the agreement was entered.”

23. When we examine the facts of the present case in light of the law laid down by the Hon’ble Supreme Court in the above mentioned cases, it appears that the house in question had been purchased in the name of Rajat Saxena and her mother Raj Laxmi Saxena and the complainant was not its co-owner. The owners of the house Rajat Saxena and Raj Laxmi Saxena had mortgaged the house with the Bank. Smt. Raj Laxmi Saxena died on 04.11.2013. The complainant claims that since June 2014, he was paying the installments towards repayment of the loan taken by his wife and son, but it would not make him the owner of the house. A default was committed in repayment of the loans and the Bank had published a notice for auction of the house. The complainant filed S.A. No.319 of 2018 before the DRT and expressed willingness to deposit the dues of the Bank, provided the Bank executes a sale deed in his favour under a private treaty.

24. A treaty is a written agreement between sovereign states or other subjects of international law that is governed by international law. There can be no treaty between a Bank and an individual willing to repay the loan taken by his son and wife. The complainant has not produced any written agreement executed between himself and the bank. The cheating alleged in the complaint is that the Bank Manager Anshul Srivastava received the dues from the complainant and gave a No Dues Certificate but he handed over the title deed of the house to Rajat Saxena under a conspiracy. The complainant has stated that he has opened the locks of the house on 03.12.2019 and has started residing in it. He has stated that the accused persons have cheated him and are trying to usurp the house.

25. The complainant had filed S.A. No. 391 of 2018 in DRT. It is recorded in the order dated 18.12.2018 passed by DRT that the complainant had voluntarily made an offer to deposit the Bank's dues provided Lucknow, provided the title deed of secured asset was returned to him. Thereafter, he gave a letter dated 21.12.2018 the bank stating that he was willing to liquidate the loan accounts and he requested that the sale deed of the house No.5/71, Jankipuram Extension, Lucknow be released in his favour. The Bank Manager wrote a letter dated 24.12.2012 to the complainant stating that as directed in the order passed by the DRT, the bank will accept the payment from the complainant and will return the original title deed to him subject to closure of the loan account. On 29.01.2019, the Bank gave a No Dues Certificate to the complainant and asked him to file the requisite application before the DRT for further orders to enable the bank to execute necessary documents of transfer in favour of the complainant.

26. It is important to note that the entire communication till this stage was without involvement of the mortgagor Rajat Saxena, but upon coming to know about the aforesaid facts, the mortgagor filed objections before DRT. The DRT disposed off the S.A. finally by means of an order dated 28.10.2019, which takes note of the contention of the mortgagor Rajat Saxena that the house was purchased in the name of Rajat Saxena and his mother Smt. Raj Laxmi Saxena deceased through registered sale deed dt. 16.10.2017. Smt. Raj Laxmi Saxena died on 04.11.2013 leaving behind her husband (the complainant Rekeshwar Dayal Saxena), a son Rajat Saxena and two daughters namely Smt. Roopali Srivastava and Smt. Roopsi Srivastava as her legal heirs and successors. All the legal heirs have got equal share in the property left by the deceased. Therefore, Rajat Saxena had become owner of 62.5% share in the house whereas the complainant and his two daughters had 12.5% share each. The complainant had concealed the fact that he had already filed Regular Suit No. 735 of 2016 in the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Lucknow for partition of the house. The mortgagor contended that he used to transfer money in the account of his father every month and his father used to deposit the installments towards repayment of loan from that money and he filed copies of account statements in support of this contention. The property cannot be transferred to one of the co-owners through a private treaty.

27. DRT disposed off the S.A. by means of an order dated 28.10.2019, wherein it is recorded that: -

“The cause of action for presentation of Securitization Application of applicant was the measure taken by Respondent NO. 1 Financial Institution u/s 13(4) of SARFAESI Act, 2002. The Respondent No. 1 Financial Institution is not proceeding under the provisions of SARFAESI Act hence there is no cause of action now to SARFAESI Act hence there is no cause of action now to proceed with the matter. The order issuing notice relating to share of applicant and Respondent NO. 2 and other family members is pending before the Civil Court. This Tribunal is not competent to deal with the said issue of partition or right of properties. Since there is no cause of action, the Securitization Application deserve to be disposed off.”

28. The aforesaid facts reveal that firstly the complainant claims to have made an offer to the Bank to repay the dues, but the Bank Manager has not made any demand to the complainant. Secondly, although the complainant had put a condition that the title deed of the house be handed over to him, the Bank Manager had replied that the bank will accept the payment from the complainant and will return the original title deed to him subject to closure of the loan, as directed in the order passed by the DRT. In the final order dated 28.10.2019, DRT stated that it has no jurisdiction to decide the claims to ownership of the property, and thereafter the Bank did not hand over the title deed of the house to the complainant.

29. The aforesaid facts do not even prima facie make out a case of cheating by the Bank Manager, as he had not demanded any money from the complainant, he did not commit any illegality in accepting repayment of the Bank's dues from the complainant and he had not made any promise to transfer ownership of the property to the complainant. Although he had initially promised to hand over title deed of the house to the complainant, handing over title deeds of an immovable property does not amount to transferring ownership of the property and even if the Bank had handed over the title deed of the house, the true owners of the house would not have become divested of their ownership rights.

30. The complainant has not disclosed the true market value of the house and prima facie it appears that the complainant himself had devised a mala fide design to grab the entire house and divest his son and daughters of their share in it by making paying some money to the Bank. These facts do not at all make out a case of cheating committed by the complainant's son. There is no allegation of commission of any act by the applicant no. 2 Anil Saxena and there was absolutely no ground to summon him to face the trial.

31. The ingredient of 'cheating', as defined under Section 415 of the IPC, is existence of a fraudulent or dishonest intention of making initial promise or representation thereof, from the very beginning of the formation of contract. Rajat Saxena and Anil Saxena had not made any promise to the complainant, much less a promise made with a dishonest intention. The Bank Manager had not made any inducement to the complainant, rather the complainant had himself approached the Bank manager for repayment of the amount and the Bank manager did not commit any wrong by accepting the dues of the Bank from the complainant, who is the father of the borrower - mortgagor.

32. It appears that the trial Court has passed the impugned order dated 08.04.2022 summoning the applicants, in a mechanical manner and without application of mind to the aforesaid facts which are evident on the face of the record, which vitiates the impugned summoning order.

33. In view of the foregoing discussion, both the present applications filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. are allowed. The impugned summoning order dated 08.04.2022 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-V, Court No.29, Lucknow in the Misc. Case No.3649 of 2021 is quashed and the complaint filed by the complainant is hereby dismissed.

Advs. for Opposite Party(s)

G.A., Jai Prakash Yadav

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

1. The case is taken up in the revised reading of the list. None appears for the opposite party no.2 although name of Sri Jai Prakash Yadav, learned counsel has been shown in the cause list as counsel for opposite party.

2. Heard Sri Arvind Agarwal, learned counsel for the applicants, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material on record.

3. A complaint dated 05.01.2021 was filed by the opposite party no.2 against the applicants in the Court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, District Firozabad being Complaint Case No. 312 of 2021 (Shivam Upadhyay Vs. Smt. Shaheen and others) Police Station Uttar, District Firozabad for summoning the accused applicants under Sections 120-B, 406, 420 I.P.C. and to punish them for the offence under the said Sections.

4. The complainant's story in brief is that he has sweet and friendly relations with the accused-applicants, as he has been doing job at Bangalore since 2016, on account of which, the accused-applicants visited his house at Firozabad. On 13.09.2019, the accused-applicants came to the house of the complainant and during conversation, the accused-applicants came to know that he is searching for a house on rent at Bangalore. The accused applicants told him that they have a house at Bangalore, which is vacant, and they are in need of money. Further, the accused-applicants ask him, if he could give them Rs.1 lacs as security and Rs. 15,000/- monthly rent they will rent that property to the complainant and the complainant may vacate the house, on a month's prior intimation. On vacation of the rented property, they would return Rs.1 lacs. It is further averred that due to congenial relation and since the complainant respected them as his father and mother, on 15.09.2019, he had transferred Rs. 10,000/-, on 17.09.2019 Rs. 80,000/- through net banking and Rs. 10,001/-. In this way, he had given Rs. 1,00,001/- as security. Thereafter, the complainant started residing at the house of the applicants at Bangalore and was paying rent besides electricity bill. It has also been stated that in the said house, Rs. 50,000/-, a gold chain weighing about 4 tola as well as necessary documents and clothes were kept and on 06.03.2022 due to Holi festival he returned to his house at District Firozabad. Trusting the applicants, he had handed over the keys of the house to the applicants but due to COVID-19 Pandemic, complete lockdown was imposed in the country as such neither he could to back to Bangalore nor resided in the said house and also he could not use the facilities of that house. The complainant gave intimation about vacation of the house at the initial stage of lockdown and has requested the applicants to return security amount of Rs. 1 lacs, cash, gold chain, clothes etc. that were kept in the house, but the accused-applicants were making excuses and had not returned the same. When the applicants did not return the same, the complainant sent a written notice dated 31.10.2020 through registered post but no heed had been paid. Thus the complaint was filed in the Court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, District Firozabad, on 05.01.2021. Upon the aforesaid complainant, the learned Magistrate, recorded the statements of the complainant as well as witnesses under Section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. After recording of evidence, the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate vide order dated 19.03.2021 has summoned the accused-applicants under Sections 406, 420 I.P.C. in Complaint Case No. 312 of 2021 (Shivam Upadhyay Vs. Smt. Shaheen and another). It is this summoning order as well as proceedings of aforesaid complaint case that are under challenge before this Court.

5. Learned counsel for the applicants has contended that the dispute is purely of contractual nature which has been dragged into criminal prosecution of the applicants. Learned counsel further contends that the perusal of the complaint would show that the entire offence is alleged to have been committed at Bangalore, whereas the complaint has been filed at District Firozabad. He further submits that the learned Magistrate without conducting the mandatory inquiry under Section 202 (1) Cr.P.C., has summoned the accused applicants to face trial under the charged Sections. Learned counsel further argued that the criminal proceedings can only be initiated in the local areas where the offence has been committed, as has been enshrined in Section 177 Cr.P.C. He further submits that in the instant case neither any inquiry under Section 202 (1) Cr.P.C. has been conducted nor the learned Magistrate has taken into consideration the provisions of Section 177 Cr.P.C. prior to summoning the applicants. It is thus contended that impugned order is not only illegal, arbitrary but is also without application of judicial mind, therefore, the summoning order as well as entire proceedings arising out of summoning order are liable to be quashed by this Court.

6. On the other side, learned A.G.A. has contended that the applicants came to the house of the applicants at District Firozabad and the deal had taken place at District Firozabad, therefore the complaint has rightly been filed at District Firozabad upon which the learned Magistrate summoned the accused-applicants, thus there is no illegality or perversity in the order impugned and the instant application is liable to be dismissed.

7. Section 177 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Cr.P.C), 1973, establishes the fundamental rule for territorial jurisdiction in criminal cases, stating that every offence shall "ordinarily" be inquired into and tried by a court within whose local jurisdiction the offence was committed.

8. The Supreme Court in Y. Abraham Ajith And Others Vs. Inspector of Police, Chennai And Another (2004) 8 SCC 100 has held in paragraph no.12 to 18 as under:

"12. The crucial question is whether any part of the cause of action arose within the jurisdiction of the Court concerned. In terms of Section 177 of the Code, it is the place where the offence was committed. In essence it is the cause of action for initiation of the proceedings against the accused.

13. While in civil cases, normally the expression "cause of action" is used, in criminal cases as stated in Section 177 of the Code, reference is to the local jurisdiction where the offence is committed. These variations in etymological expression do not really make the position different. The expression "cause of action" is, therefore, not a stranger to criminal cases.

14. It is settled law that cause of action consists of a bundle of facts, which give cause to enforce the legal inquiry for redress in a court of law. In other words, it is a bundle of facts, which taken with the law applicable to them, gives the allegedly affected party a right to claim relief against the opponent. It must include some act done by the latter since in the absence of such an act no cause of action would possibly accrue or would arise.

15. The expression "cause of action" has acquired a judicially settled meaning. In the restricted sense cause of action means the circumstances forming the infraction of the right or the immediate occasion for the action. In the wider sense, it means the necessary conditions for the maintenance of the proceeding including not only the alleged infraction, but also the infraction coupled with the right itself. Compendiously, the expression means every fact, which it would be necessary for the complainant to prove, if traversed, in order to support his right or grievance to the judgment of the Court. Every fact, which is necessary to be proved, as distinguished from every piece of evidence, which is necessary to prove such fact, comprises in "cause of action".

16. The expression "cause of action" has sometimes been employed to convey the restricted idea of facts or circumstances which constitute either the infringement or the basis of a right and no more. In a wider and more comprehensive sense, it has been used to denote the whole bundle of material facts.

17. The expression "cause of action" is generally understood to mean a situation or state of facts that entitles a party to maintain an action in a court or a tribunal; a group of operative facts giving rise to one or more bases for sitting; a factual situation that entitles one person to obtain a remedy in court from another person. (Black's Law Dictionary a "cause of action" is stated to be the entire set of facts that gives rise to an enforceable claim; the phrase comprises every fact, which, if traversed, the plaintiff must prove in order to obtain judgment. In "Words and Phrases" (4th Edn.), the meaning attributed to the phrase "cause of action" in common legal parlance is existence of those facts, which give a party a right to judicial interference on his behalf.

18. In Halsbury Laws of England (Fourth Edition) it has been stated as follows:

" 'Cause of action' has been defined as meaning simply a factual situation the existence of which entitles one person to obtain from the Court a remedy against another person. The phrase has been held from earliest time to include every fact which is material to be proved to entitle the plaintiff to succeed, and every fact which a defendant would have a right to traverse. 'Cause of action' has also been taken to mean that particular act on the part of the defendant which gives the plaintiff his cause of complaint, or the subject matter of grievance founding the action, not merely the technical cause of action".

9. Perusal of the record shows that in the complaint, the complainant has stated that he was residing at the house of the applicants at Bangalore, after paying Rs. 1 lacs as security, on a monthly rent of Rs. 15,000/- besides electricity bill. In the house Rs. 50,000/-, gold chain weighing about 4 tola as well as necessary documents and clothes were kept in the house and trusting the applicants, handed over the keys of the house of Bangalore, returned to his house at District Firozabad on 06.03.2020 due to Holi festival. Thereafter there was a complete lockdown in the country due to COVID-19 Pandemic as such he could neither return to Bangalore nor resided in the said house and also he could not avail the facilities of that house. The complainant gave intimation about vacation and had requested the applicants to return the security amount of Rs. 1 lacs, cash, gold chain, clothes etc. kept in the house but the accused-applicants were making excuses and had not returned the same, which itself demonstrates that the offence has been committed at Bangalore and not at District Firozabad. The complainant also sent a notice to the accused-applicants at Bangalore from District Firozabad and merely sending the notice does not demonstrate that the offence has been committed at District Firozabad. No part of cause of action is demonstrated to have arisen within the territorial jurisdiction of district Firozabad. Merely because the talks with regard to rented accommodation is stated to have taken place at the house of complainant at district Firozabad, does not give rise to any cause of action at district Firozabad as the whole incident and the subject matter of dispute lies outside the territorial jurisdiction of district Firozabad.

10. So far as contention of learned counsel for the applicants with regard to Section 202 (1) Cr.P.C. is concerned, that provision reads as under:-

"202(1). Any Magistrate, on receipt of a complaint of an offence of which he is authorised to take cognizance or which has been made over to him under section 192 may, if he thinks fit, [and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction] [Inserted by Act 25 of 2005, Section 19 (w.e.f. 23-6-2006).] postpone the issue of process against the accused, and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding."

11. However perusal of the record shows that in the instant case, neither an inquiry as provided under Section 202 (1) Cr.P.C. has been conducted by the learned Magistrate nor the learned Magistrate has taken into consideration the provisions of Section 177 of Code of Criminal Procedure and has summoned the accused-applicants therefore, taking into consideration the contents of the complaint as well as entire factual and legal aspects of the matter and also the submissions of learned counsel for the parties, it is crystal clear that as per factual scenario disclosed by the complainant in the complaint, the inevitable conclusion is that no part of cause of action arose in District Firozabad and therefore the Magistrate concerned had no jurisdiction to deal with the matter.

12. Accordingly, the entire proceedings of Complaint Case No. 312 of 2021 (Shivam Upadhyay Vs. Smt. Shaheen and another) under Sections 406, 420 I.P.C. Police Station North, District Firozabad pending before Chief Judicial Magistrate is quashed.

13. The application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed.

14. However, it is open for the complainant to file the complaint in the appropriate Court to be dealt with in accordance in law, if so advised.

Application U/S 528 BNSS. No. 7481 of 2025

Smt. Mayya @ Prem Kumari & Ors. ...Applicants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Issue for consideration

The key dispute is whether a Magistrate, while presiding over a session of a National Lok Adalat, has the legal authority to reject a police Final Report, entertain a protest petition, and order the matter to be registered as a criminal complaint case in the absence of a mutual compromise or settlement between the parties.

Headnotes

A. Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 323, 504, 506-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 482(Section 528 BNSS 2023)-Quashing of summoning order-Final Report submitted by police in NCR matter-Protest petition filed by complainant-Judicial Magistrate sitting in Lok Adalat rejected the police Final Report and ordered the matter to be registered as a complaint case-Subsequent regular court issued summoning orders against the accused applicants-Jurisdiction of Lok Adalat-Lok Adalats are purely conciliatory and advisory forums, not adjudicatory bodies-Rejecting a police report and taking cognizance are strictly judicial acts to be performed by a regular court-Where no compromise is arrived at, Lok Adalat is statutorily mandated to return the record to the regular court for disposal in accordance with law-Initial order passed by Lok Adalat converting the case into a complaint was completely without jurisdiction and nullity in law-It is settled principle of law that an initial order without jurisdiction taints and vitiates all subsequent consequential proceedings-Application allowed.(Para 7 to 22)

Held

The court held that Lok Adalat are strictly conciliatory forums lacking jurisdiction to adjudicate cases on merit, reject police Final Reports or register complaint cases. Because acts of taking cognizance are purely judicial functions reserved exclusively for regular courts, the initial Lok Adalat order was a jurisdictional nullity. Thus, Impugned Lok Adalat order, summoning order and entire criminal proceedings quashed as unsustainable. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Achal Sachdev, J.)

1. Learned counsel for the applicants, learned A.G.A. for the State and learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 are present.

2. From perusal of order sheet, it appears that this Court, vide order dated 11.08.2025, had granted three weeks time to the opposite party no. 2 to file counter affidavit but till date, no counter affidavit has been filed.

3. Learned A.G.A. submits that the matter has been decided in Lok Adalat which is not as per law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

4. Perused the record.

5. The protest petition had been filed against the final report no. Nil/2016 dated 10.12.2016 submitted in NCR No. 141/2015 against which the complainant/informant had filed his protest petition and the protest petition was treated as complaint by the court of Judicial Magistrate, Banda, in National Lok Adalat vide order dated 09.12.2017.

6. Learned counsel for the applicants, by way of the present application u/s 482 Cr.P.C., has challenged the order dated 09.12.2017 by which final report has been treated as complaint case in National Lok Adalat and also the impugned summoning order dated 28.03.2024 by which applicants have been summoned in Complaint Case No. 725/??/2017 (Gulab Singh Vs. Smt. Mayya Alias Prem Kumari and others) u/s 323, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station- Atarra, District- Banda.

7. Learned counsel for the applicants has drawn the attention of the Court to the judgement of Supreme Court in the case of State of Punjab and Ors. Vs. Ganpat Raj, (2006) 8 SCC 364.

8. A Magistrate has the legal authority to reject a police Final Report (FR) and instead treat the matter as a complaint case. However, this typically occurs in a regular court setting rather than during Lok Adalat proceedings, as Lok Adalats lack the jurisdiction to adjudicate or decide cases on merit if no settlement is reached.

9. Section 21 of the LSA Act provides that every award of a Lok Adalat shall be deemed to be a decree of a civil court, that it shall be final and binding on the parties to the dispute, and that no appeal shall lie against it. Similarly, section 22E, which deals with awards of a Permanent Lok Adalat, similarly declares that every award shall be final and binding on the parties and persons claiming under them, shall be deemed to be a decree of a civil court and shall not be called in question in any original suit, application or execution proceeding. Both provisions reflect a common legislative intent that such awards are to attain finality, are not appealable in the ordinary sense, and are to operate as decrees only for the limited purpose of execution. But in a case investigated by the police, when the police submit a report stating that no case is made out, the Magistrate has following primary options :

1) Accept the final report and close proceedings.

2) Disagree with the final report and take cognizance under Section 190(1)(b) Cr.P.C. based on the police papers.

3) Treat the protest petition/complaint as a complaint case under Section 190(1)(a) Cr.P.C. and proceed under Chapter XV (Sections 200-203 Cr.P.C.).

4) Direct further investigation.

10. If the Magistrate rejects the final report and registers the matter as a complaint, he must follow the complaint case procedure as laid out in Chapter XV of Cr.P.C,1973/Chapter XVI BNSS,2024

i) Record statements under Section 200 Cr.P.C.

ii) Conduct an inquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. if necessary.

iii) Only thereafter, if sufficient grounds exist, issue a process under Section 204 Cr.P.C.

11. The summoning order must reflect the application of the judicial mind. Courts have repeatedly held that a cryptic or mechanical order summoning the accused is invalid. (Pepsi Foods Ltd. and Another Vs. Special Judicial Magistrate & Others, 1998 CrLJ 01)

12. A Magistrate, while sitting as a member of Lok Adalat, has a limited jurisdiction regarding matters before him. The primary role of a Lok Adalat is to facilitate a settlement between the parties on the basis of their consent regarding the dispute. If no compromise is reached, the Lok Adalat must return the case to the regular court. It cannot perform judicial functions like rejecting an final report or deciding to treat it as a complaint case. Any judicial order rejecting a report and switching to a complaint procedure must be made by the regular court where the case was originally pending. Under the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987, Lok Adalats are purely conciliatory forums, not adjudicatory ones.

13. If, after rejection of final report, the matter is "registered as a complaint" in Lok Adalat, that order itself is procedurally questionable. Since Lok Adalat cannot adjudicate or direct cognisance, such an order has no independent legal sanctity unless it reflects a compromise. Criminal complaints cannot be "registered" by Lok Adalat in substitution of the Magistrate's judicial function.

14. The settled principle is that if the initial order is without jurisdiction, all subsequent proceedings?including a summoning order?stand vitiated and cannot survive. The Supreme Court has explicitly held that jurisdictional nullity taints every consequential step.

15. The Supreme Court has unequivocally held in Estate Officer vs. Colonel HV Mankotia (2021 SCC ONLINE SC 898) that Lok Adalats have no jurisdiction to decide cases on merits or pass judicial orders if a settlement is not reached. If parties do not reach a compromise, the Lok Adalat is statutorily bound to return the case file to the regular court for disposal according to law.

16. Acts such as "rejecting an FR" or "taking cognisance" are judicial functions that must be performed by a Magistrate in their regular court capacity, not as a member of a Lok Adalat panel. Once an order is found to be passed without jurisdiction, all subsequent proceedings automatically come to an end. If a Lok Adalat "registers" a complaint after FR rejection, that act is without jurisdiction (Lok Adalat cannot adjudicate or direct cognisance). Any summoning order flowing from such registration is vitiated because its foundation is void.

17. The order of the Lok Adalat in this case (extracted above), shows that it assumed a judicial role and ignored the absence of consensus while passing an order rejecting the Final Report in NCR No. 141 of 2015 and ordered the same to be registered as a complaint case.

18. For the sake of convenience, Sections 20 and 21 of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 are being reproduced hereinbelow :

20. Cognizance of cases by Lok Adalats.-(1) Where in any case referred to in clause (i) of sub-section (5) of section 19,? (i)(a) the parties thereof agree;

or (b) one of the parties thereof makes an application to the Court, for referring the case to the Lok Adalat for settlement and if such court isprima facie satisfied that there are chances of such settlement; or

(ii) the court is satisfied that the matter is an appropriate one to be taken cognizance of by the Lok Adalat, the Court shall refer the case to the Lok Adalat: Provided that no case shall be referred to the Lok Adalat under sub-clause (b) of clause (i) or clause (ii) by such court except after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard to the parties.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any cither law for the time being in force, the Authority or Committee organising the Lok Adalat under sub-section (1) of section19 may, on receipt of an application from any one of the parties to any matter referred to in clause (ii) of sub-section (5) of section 19 that such matter needs to be determined by a Lok Adalat, refer such matter to the Lok Adalat, for determination: Provided that no matter shall be referred to the Lok Adalat except after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard to the other party.

(3) Where any case is referred to a Lok Adalat under sub-section (1) or where a reference has been made to it under sub-section (2), the Lok Adalat shall proceed to dispose of the case or matter and arrive at a compromise or settlement between the parties.

(4) Every Lok Adalat shall, while determining any reference before it under this Act, act with utmost expedition to arrive at a compromise or settlement between the parties and shall be guided by the principles of justice, equity, fair play and other legal principles.

(5) Where no award is made by the Lok Adalat on the ground that no compromise or settlementcould be arrived at between the parties, the record of the case shall be returned by it to the court, from which the reference has been received under sub-section (1) for disposal in accordance with law.

(6) Where no award is made by the Lok Adalat on the ground that no compromise or settlement could be arrived at between the parties, in a matter referred to in sub-section (2), that Lok Adalat shall advice the parties to seek remedy in a court.

(7) Where the record of the case if returned under sub-section (5) to the court, such court shall proceed to deal with such case from the stage which was reached before such reference under sub-section (1).]

21. Award of Lok Adalat.- [(1) Every award of the Lok Adalat shall be deemed to be a decree of a civil court or, as the case may be, an order of any other court and where a compromise or settlement has been arrived at, by a Lok Adalat in a case referred to it under sub-section(1) of section 20, the court-fee paid in such case shall be refunded in the manner provided under the Court-fees Act, 1870 (7 of 1870).]

(2) Every award made by a Lok Adalat shall be final and binding on all the parties to the dispute, and no appeal shall lie to any court against the award.

19. Perusal of Annexure No. 1 shows that Complaint Case No. 725/नौ/2017 (Gulab Singh Vs. Smt. Mayya Alias Prem Kumari and others) was fixed in National Lok Adalat on 09.12.2017 and the following order was passed in the case :

20. The final report was rejected and case was registered as a complaint case. In consequence to order dated 09.12.2017, the order dated 28.03.2024 was passed in the case of Gulab Singh Vs. Smt. Mayya Alias Prem Kumari and others, arising out of order dated 09.12.2017 on protest petition filed on final report Nil/2016 dated 10.12.2016 in N.C.R. No. 141/2015 u/s 323, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station- Atarra, District- Banda and accused/applicant nos. 1, 2 and 3, namely, Smt. Mayya @ Prem Kumari, Smt. Ranjana and Km. Bandana were summoned as accused in the aforementioned case.

21. In the eyes of law and ratio given by the Supreme Court in a catena of judgements, the impugned cognizance/summoning order dated 28.03.2024, impugned order dated 09.12.2017 as well as entire proceedings of Complaint Case No. 725/नौ/2017 (Gulab Singh Vs. Smt. Mayya Alias Prem Kumari and others), are not sustainable in law and are hereby quashed.

22. The present application u/s 528 B.N.S.S. is accordingly allowed.

Issue for consideration

The applicant filed a third petition under section 482 Crpc to quash a 2019 charge-sheet and summoning order arising out of case crime no. 119 of 2018. He had previously filed two separate petitions u/s 482 CrPC challenging intermediate orders and processes in the same case-one of which was dismissed and the other disposed of with specific directions to surrender-thereby abandoning or failing to obtain the relief of quashing the entire underlying criminal proceedings.

Headnotes

Held

The court held that agitating a matter in parts by abandoning grounds in earlier rounds of litigation and resurrecting them in subsequent petitions constitutes an abuse of process of law, amounts to forum shopping and directly demeans the efficacy of the criminal justice administration system. 1. Heard Sri Manish Tiwary, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Praveen Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Yogesh Singh, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and Sri Ajay Singh, learned A.G.A.-I for State and perused the records.

2. The present application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicant- Ramdular Singh with the following prayer:-

"It is, therefore, most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to allow this application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. and quash the charge-sheet dated 16.02.2019 as well as summoning order dated 13.03.2019 and the entire proceedings of Case No. 330 of 2019 (State Vs. Ram Dular Singh and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 119 of 2018, under Sections 149, 420, 467, 468, 471, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station Lohta, District Varanasi, pending in the court of A.C.J.M.-IV, Varanasi.

It is further prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to stay the entire proceedings of Case No. 330 of 2019 (State Vs. Ram Dular Singh and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 119 of 2018, under Sections 149, 420, 467, 468, 471, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station Lohta, District Varanasi

And / or this Hon'ble Court be pleased to pass any order which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case."

3. An order dated 27.05.2024 was passed by another Bench of this Court which reads as under:-

"1. The judgment could not be pronounced on account of sufficient time has been lapsed.

2. The matter requires further clarification.

3. List for further hearing before appropriate Court in due course."

4. The said order dated 27.05.2024 was subjected to challenge by the applicant Ramdular Singh before the Apex Court in Special Leave to Appeal (Crl.) No. 11919 / 2024 (Ramdular Singh Vs. State of U.P. & Anr.) which stood disposed of by an order dated 02.12.2024 by which the Apex Court directed that till such time, the matter is considered next by the High Court, there shall be stay of proceedings before the trial court and the petitioner therein was granted liberty to seek extension of the stay order till disposal of the petition on merits. The roster Bench of this Court was requested to dispose of the petition in accordance with law as early as possible, preferably within three months from the date upon hearing all the parties. The said order reads as under:

“1. Read the office report dated 29th November, 2024.

2. Notice sought to be served on the respondent no.2 appears to have been returned with the postal remark □receiver went somewhere and will return only after 5-6 days, hence notice could not be served.”

3. Having regard to the short issue involved in the special leave petition, we do not consider it necessary to wait for the respondent no.2 to appear.

4. According to the petitioner, a civil dispute has been given the colour of a criminal offence and proceedings launched against him based on the complaint of the respondent no.2. He had approached the High Court with a petition¹ under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 challenging such proceedings. On 28th March, 2023, the High Court reserved judgment without, however, passing any interim order. Exactly 14 (fourteen) months later, i.e., on 27th May, 2024, the High Court de-reserved judgment and directed listing of the said petition before an appropriate Bench.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner expresses a grievance that in the absence of any order of stay passed by the High Court, the proceedings against the petitioner which continued have reached the stage of charges being framed, thereby effectively rendering the petition before the High Court infructuous.

6. We do not know the exact reason as to why the learned Judge of the High Court, despite lapse of 14 (fourteen) months since judgment was reserved, could not deliver the judgment and dispose of the petition one way or the other.

7. Be that as it may, without expressing any further comment on the matter of keeping a reserved judgment pending for 14 (fourteen) months and then not delivering the same, we request the roster bench of the High Court to dispose of the petition in accordance with law as early as possible, preferably within three months from date upon hearing all the parties. Should there be any lack of cooperation from any party, the High Court may proceed according to law.

8. Till such time, the matter is considered next by the High Court, there shall be stay of proceedings before the trial court, i.e., the court of the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-IV, Varanasi, in Case No. 330 of 2019. The petitioner shall be at liberty to seek extension of the order of stay till the disposal of the 1 Criminal Misc. Application No. 8190/2023 petition on merits.

9. With the aforesaid observation, the special leave petition stands disposed of.

10. Pending application(s), if any, shall stand disposed of."

5. Subsequently the matter came up for hearing before a co-ordinate Bench of this Court on 20.01.2025 and despite repeated calls since no one appeared to press the present application, the same was dismissed for want of prosecution, the order passed therein reads as under:-

"List revised. None is present for the applicant. However learned AGA for the State is present.

Vide order dated 04.12.2024 passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, a direction was issued to decide the instant matter, expeditiously.

Despite repeated call, none appeared for the applicant to press the instant application.

Case is dismissed for want of prosecution."

6. The order-sheet reflected that an application for recall was filed which was allowed vide order dated 08.04.2025 passed by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court and the petition was restored to its original number and status with a further order that the trial court shall defer the proceedings of the trial till the disposal of this application before this Court, the order reads as under:-

"Order on Recall Application

Heard Mr. Praveen Kumar Singh, the learned counsel for applicant, the learned A.G.A. for State opposite party 1 and Mr. Arvind Kumar Rai, the learned counsel representing first informant opposite party 2.

Perused the record.

This recall application has been filed by applicant seeking recall of the order dated 20.1.2025 passed by His Lordship Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J. For ready reference, same is reproduced herein under:-

"List revised. None is present for the applicant. However learned AGA for the State is present.

Vide order dated 04.12.2024 passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, a direction was issued to decide the instant matter, expeditiously.

Case is dismissed for want of prosecution."

Learned counsel for applicant submits that in view of the averment made in paragraph 5 of the affidavit filed in support of present application, he could not appear before Court at the time when present application was taken up in revised call. He, therefore, submits that there is no deliberate negligence or laches on the part of applicant in pursuing the present application. As such, the order dated 20.1.2025 is liable to be recalled."

Per contra, the learned A.G.A. representing State opposite party 1 and Mr. Arvind Kumar Rai, the learned counsel representing first informant opposite party 2 have opposed the present application. However, they could not dislodge the factual/equitable submissions urged by the learned counsel for applicant in support of prayer for recall of order dated 20.1.2025.

Having heard the learned counsel for applicant, the learned A.G.A. for State opposite party 1, Mr. Arvind Kumar Rai, the learned counsel representing first informant opposite party 2 and upon perusal of record, this Court finds there is no deliberate negligence or laches on the part of learned counsel for applicant in pursuing this application. Cause shown for non appearance of the learned counsel for applicant at the time when present application was taken up in revised call is devoid of any deliberate negligence or laches.

In view of above, the recall application filed by applicant is liable to be allowed.

Accordingly, the order dated 20.1.2025 is, hereby, recalled. The recall application shall stand allowed.

Order on the Application Under Section 482 Cr. P. C.

In view of order of date passed on the recall application, the present application under Section 482 Cr.P. C. shall stand restored to its original number and status.

In view of observations made by the Apex Court, vide order dated 02.12.2024 passed in Special Leave to Appeal (Crl.) No (s). 11919/2024 (Ramdular Singh Vs. State of U.P. & Anr.), Court below shall defer the proceedings of the trial till the disposal of this application before this Court.

List for admission on 7.5.2025."

7. In the meantime, a counter affidavit dated 14.03.2023 on behalf of the opposite party no.2 to which a rejoinder affidavit 23.03.2023 was filed on behalf of the applicant.

8. At the very outset, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 has submitted that although an order dated 18.10.2022 passed in Application U/S 482 No. 31531 of 2022 (Ram Dular Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Another) has been annexed as Annexure-2 to the affidavit but the fact that the said petition was also filed to quash the entire proceedings of the said case along with the prayer to quash the order dated 12.09.2022 passed by the A.C.J.M.-IV, Varanasi in Case No. 330 of 2019, arising out of Case Crime No. 435 of 2017, Police Station Lohta, District Varanasi stood disposed of by the said order giving directions for consideration of bail of the accused applicant therein and thus the prayer for quashing of the entire proceedings was not entertained by the Court and thus the present application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. being the second application for the same prayer is not maintainable. It is further submitted that even the fact that the applicant had even earlier also filed an Application U/S 482 No. 32968 of 2019 (Ram Dular Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Another) challenging the order dated 13.08.2019 passed by the trial court which was also dismissed vide order dated 11.09.2019 and the said order is annexed as Annexure-1 to the affidavit would also render the present petition not maintainable in as much as even at that point of time the grounds as are being tried to be raised in the present petition were available but were not taken up before this Court in the 482 Cr.P.C. petitions. The said orders have been placed before the Court which read as under:-

(i) Application U/S 482 No. 32968 of 2019 (Ram Dular Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Another):

"Heard applicant's counsel as well as learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

Counsel for the applicant has not been able to point out any such illegality, impropriety or incorrectness, much less than any abuse of Court's process which may permit this court to interfere in the impugned order. This is interlocutory order in nature.

In the Trial Court, the reasons for absence of the accused could not be explained. Lower revisional court also sought explanation but the same could not be given even before lower revisional court.

Counsel has been fair enough to admit that accused has not obtained bail so far and still is seeking his discharge without submitting to the jurisdiction of the Court. In such circumstances, there is absolutely no good reason for this Court to interfere with the impugned order.

The application lacks merit and it is dismissed."

(ii) Application U/S 482 No. 31531 of 2022 (Ram Dular Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Another):

9. It is submitted that as such this is the third petition by the same applicant with an intention to challenge the proceedings of the said case and get them quashed having been unsuccessful in two earlier petitions which is an attempt of forum hunting also.

10. Learned counsel for the applicant in order to meet out the said objection of learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 submitted that he has in all fairness disclosed the factum and filing of the said two earlier petitions in paragraph nos. 2 & 3 of the affidavit and now by way of the present application is challenging the validity of the charge-sheet dated 16.02.2019 as well as the summoning order dated 13.03.2019 and the entire proceedings in the present matter. He has placed before the Court paragraph 2, 3 & 4 of the affidavit which reads as under:-

"2. That prior to the present case, two more applications were filed under section 482 Cr.P.C. for a different cause in which one application under section 482 Cr.P.C. was filed challenging the impugned order dated 11.09.2019 and it was dismissed on the ground stating that there is absolutely no good reason for the Hon'ble Court to interfere with the impugned order as the applicant has not obtained bail and still is seeking his discharge without submitting to the jurisdiction of the Court. Copy of the order dated 11.09.2019 passed by this Hon'ble Court is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No.1 to this affidavit.

3. That further the applicant had also filed another application under section 482 Cr.P.C. challenging the coercive processes issued against the applicant vide order dated 12.09.2022 pending before the Court of learned ACJM-IV, Varanasi in which this Hon'ble Court vide order dated 18.10.2022 was pleased to dispose off the petition with the direction that the applicant shall surrender before the court below. Copy of the order dated 18.10.2022 passed by this Hon'ble Court is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No.2 to this affidavit.

4. That by way of the present application, the applicant is challenging the legality and validity of the charge sheet dated 16.02.2019 as well as summoning order dated 13.03.2019 in Case No.330 of 2019 (State Vs. Ram Dular Singh and others) arising out of Case crime no.119 of 2018 under sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 504, 506 IPC, Police Station Lohta, District Varanasi, pending in the Court of A.C.J.M.-IV, Varanasi."

11. Further learned counsel for the applicant submits that in so far as the prayer for quashing of the entire proceedings as prayed for in Application U/S 482 No. 31531 of 2022 is concerned, although the said petition stood disposed of finally vide order dated 18.10.2022 but the same was not considered and the applicant was directed to appear before the trial court within 15 days and secure bail and till that time the execution of the N.B.W. against him was stayed. It is submitted that thus the said petition during its disposal was confined only to issuance of N.B.W. It is submitted that thus the present petition u/s 482 Cr.P.C. is maintainable and cannot be dismissed on the ground of being a second petition and the objection as raised at the inception by learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 is totally misplaced.

12. Further learned counsel for the applicant argued that the proceedings are an abuse of process of Court and the two orders passed by the High Court do not amount to review of the order passed by the co-ordinate bench in the quashing petition being Criminal Misc. Application U/S 482 No. 31531 of 2022 (Ram Dular Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Another), since the said order did not address the issue of quashing although a prayer for quashing was in it but the relief therein was confined only to the aspect of issuance of non - bailable warrant and liberty was granted with regards to it only and thus this petition is maintainable raising the grounds/pleas which were not effectively raised in the said quashing petition. He submitted further that the High Court has the power to exercise its inherent jurisdiction at any stage of criminal proceedings in order to prevent abuse of law and manifest injustice and exercise of such power cannot be termed to be in violation of the provisions of Section 362 Cr.P.C.

13. He lastly by addressing on the merits of the matter submitted that the dispute between the parties is purely civil in nature and the admitted allegations can in no circumstance give rise to criminal prosecution. The criminal proceedings have been initiated against the accused-applicant with the sole intent of falsely implicating and harassing him.

14. This Court thus proceeds to examine the matter and this petition with the prayer as aforesaid as to whether this petition is maintainable at this instance or not.

15. The facts which culled out in the present matter are as under:-

(i) The applicant approached this Court by filing a petition being Application U/S 482 No. 32968 of 2019 (Ram Dular Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Another) with the following prayers:-

"It is therefore most respectfully prayed that Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to allow the present application and quashed/set aside the order dated 13-8-2019 passed by Incharge/Session Judge, Varanasi and further stay the proceedings of Criminal Case no-330 of 2019, C.C. No 119 of 2018, pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-IV, Varanasi during the pendency of Criminal Revision no-220 of 2019 otherwise applicant will suffer great loss and injury.

And/ or pass such other and further order which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case."

(ii) The said petition stood dismissed vide order dated 11.09.2019 passed by another Bench of this Court (Quoted in Para 8 (i) above).

(iii) Subsequently the applicant filed a petition being Application U/S 482 No. 31531 of 2022 (Ram Dular Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Another) with the prayer to quash the order dated 12.09.2022 passed by the A.C.J.M., Varanasi and to quash the entire proceedings as well.

(iv) The order dated 12.09.2022 was an order by which N.B.W. was issued against the applicant.

(v) The said petition Application U/S 482 No. 31531 of 2022 came to be disposed by an order dated 18.10.2022 passed by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court directing the applicant therein to appear within 15 days before the trial court concerned and till the said period the operation of the N.B.W. was stayed (Quoted in Para 8 (ii) above).

(vi) Subsequently this application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. comes out by the same applicant for an effort to get the proceedings against him terminated by an order from this Court u/s 482 Cr.P.C. which are pending before the trial court concerned.

(vii) The order summoning is dated 13.03.2019 which has been challenged after about 03 years before this Court and in between two petitions u/s 482 Cr.P.C. were filed by the same applicant before this Court with different prayers (amongst which one of the petitions carries a prayer to quash the proceedings of the trial court as well) which have been detailed as above.

(viii) The law on the subject is trite.

A. The Apex Court in the case of M.C. Ravikumar v. D.S. Velmurugan : 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1498 took up a question for consideration which reads as under:

“11.The short question that arises for our consideration is □Whether a second quashing petition under Section 482CrPCwould be maintainable on the grounds/pleas that were available to be raised even at the time of filing/decision of the first quashing petition ?”

The matter was the finally decided as under:

“13. This Court in catena of judgments has held that it is not open to an accused person to raise one plea after the other, by repeatedly invoking the inherent jurisdiction of the High Court under Section□482□CrPC, though all such pleas were very much available to him even at the first instance. We may hasten to add that there is no sweeping rule to the effect that a second quashing petition under Section□482□CrPC□is not maintainable and its maintainability will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. However, the onus to show that there arose a change in circumstances warranting entertainment of a subsequent quashing petition would be on the person filing the said petition. In this regard, we may gainfully refer to the observations made by this Court in the case of Bhisham Lal Verma v. State of UP, □2023 SCC OnLine SC 1399, which are extracted below for ready reference:□

“11. ... Though it is clear that there can be no blanket rule that a second petition under Section□482□Cr. P.C.□would not lie in any situation and it would depend upon the facts and circumstances of the individual case,it is not open to a person aggrieved to raise one plea after the other, by invoking the jurisdiction of the High Court under Section□482□Cr. P.C., though all such pleas were very much available even at the first instance. Permitting the filing of successive petitions under Section□482□Cr. P.C.□ignoring this principle would enable an ingenious accused to effectively stall the proceedings against him to suit his own interest and convenience, by filing one petition after another under Section 482 Cr. P.C., irrespective of when the cause therefor arose. Such abuse of process cannot be permitted.”

(Emphasis Supplied)

14. Furthermore, we are of the opinion that the order passed by the High Court in the second quashing petition amounted to review (plain and simple) of the earlier order passed by the co-ordinate bench of the High Court in the first quashing petition, since there was admittedly no change in circumstances and no new grounds/pleas became available to the accused-respondents, after passing of the order of dismissal in the first quashing petition. The order passed by the High Court is in gross disregard to all tenets of law as Section 362 CrPC expressly bars review of a judgment or final order disposing of a case except to correct some clerical or arithmetical error.

15. This Court has time and again held that the High Courts while exercising their inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC cannot override a specific bar laid down by other provisions of CrPC, i.e., to say that the High Court is not empowered to review its own decision under the purported exercise of its inherent powers. To fortify the aforesaid conclusion, we may gainfully refer to the observations made by this Court in the case of Simrikhia v. Dolley Mukherjee and Chhabi Mukherjee, (1990) 2 SCC 437, the relevant portions whereof are quoted below for ease of reference:

“6. In Superintendent & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Mohan Singh, (1975) 3 SCC 706, this Court held that Section 561A preserves the inherent power of the High Court to make such orders as it deems fit to prevent abuse of the process of the Court or to secure the ends of justice and the High Court must therefore exercise its inherent powers having regard to the situation prevailing at the particular point of time when its inherent jurisdiction is sought to be invoked. In that case the facts and circumstances obtaining at the time of the subsequent application were clearly different from what they were at the time of the earlier application. The question as to the scope and ambit of the inherent power of the High Court vis-a-vis an earlier order made by it was, therefore, not concluded by this decision.

7. The inherent jurisdiction of the High Court cannot be invoked to override bar of review u/s 362. It is clearly stated in Sooraj Devi v. Pyare Lal, (1981) 1 SCC 500 that the inherent power of the Court cannot be exercised for doing that which is specifically prohibited by the Code. The law is therefore clear that the inherent power cannot be exercised for doing that which cannot be done on account of the bar under other provisions of the Code. The court is not empowered to review its own decision under the purported exercise of inherent power. We find that the impugned order in this case is in effect one reviewing the earlier order on a reconsideration of the same materials. The High Court has grievously erred in doing so. Even on merits, we do not find any compelling reasons to quash the proceedings at that stage.”

16. In the instant case, the quashing by the High Court of a similar complaint, i.e., Criminal Complaint No. 41 of 2015 filed by the complainant against the accused-respondents in respect of properties situated at Thanjavur vide order dated 9th March, 2020 was an event that happened well before the dismissal of the first quashing petition under Section 482 CrPC and the said ground/plea was manifestly available to the accused-respondents while seeking adjudication of the first quashing petition. That being the situation, the accused-respondents were not at liberty to invoke the inherent jurisdiction of the High Court raising the aforesaid ground/plea at a later point of time by filing the second quashing petition.

B. The Apex Court in the case of Vijay Kumar Ghaiv. State of W.B. : (2022) 7 SCC 124 has in paragraphs 11, 12, 13, 14 and 17 while dealing with the issue of forum shopping and deprecating it has stated as follows:

“11. Predominantly, the Indian Judiciary has time and again reiterated that forum shopping takes several hues and shades but the concept of ‘forum shopping’ has not been rendered an exclusive definition in any Indian statute. Forum shopping as per Merriam-Webster Dictionary is:

The practice of choosing the court in which to bring an action from among those courts that could properly exercise jurisdiction based on determination of which court is likely to provide the most favourable outcome.

12. The Indian Judiciary's observation and obiter dicta has aided in streamlining the concept of forum shopping in the Indian legal system. This Court has condemned the practice of forum shopping by litigants and termed it as an abuse of law and also deciphered different categories of forum shopping.

13. A two-Judge Bench of this Court in Union of India v. Cipla Ltd. [Union of India v. Cipla Ltd., (2017) 5 SCC 262] has laid down factors which lead to the practice of forum shopping or choice of forum by the litigants which are as follows : (SCC pp. 318-20, paras 148-51 & 155)

148. A classic example of forum shopping is when litigant approaches one court for relief but does not get the desired relief and then approaches another court for the same relief. This occurred in Rajiv Bhatia v. State (NCT of Delhi) [Rajiv Bhatia v. State (NCT of Delhi), (1999) 8 SCC 525]. The respondent mother of a young child had filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the Rajasthan High Court and apparently did not get the required relief from that Court. She then filed a petition in the Delhi High Court also for a writ of habeas corpus and obtained the necessary relief. Notwithstanding this, this Court did not interfere with the order [Priyanka Bhatia v. State (NCT of Delhi), 1999 SCC OnLine Del 192] passed by the Delhi High Court for the reason that this Court ascertained the views of the child and found that she did not want to even talk to her adoptive parents and therefore the custody of the child granted by the Delhi High Court to the respondent mother was not interfered with. The decision of this Court is on its own facts, even though it is a classic case of forum shopping.

149. In Arathi Bandi v. Bandi Jagadrakshaka Rao [Arathi Bandi v. Bandi Jagadrakshaka Rao, (2013) 15 SCC 790 : (2014) 5 SCC (Civ) 475] this Court noted that jurisdiction in a court is not attracted by the operation or creation of fortuitous circumstances. In that case, circumstances were created by one of the parties to the dispute to confer jurisdiction on a particular High Court. This was frowned upon by this Court by observing that to allow the assumption of jurisdiction in created circumstances would only result in encouraging forum shopping.

150. Another case of creating circumstances for the purposes of forum shopping was World Tanker Carrier Corpn. v. SNP Shipping Services (P) Ltd. [World Tanker Carrier Corpn. v. SNP Shipping Services (P) Ltd., (1998) 5 SCC 310] wherein it was observed that the respondent/plaintiff had made a deliberate attempt to bring the cause of action, namely, a collision between two vessels on the high seas within the jurisdiction of the Bombay High Court. Bringing one of the vessels to Bombay in order to confer jurisdiction on the Bombay High Court had the character of forum shopping rather than anything else.

151. Another form of forum shopping is taking advantage of a view held by a particular High Court in contrast to a different view held by another High Court. In Ambica Industries v. CCE [Ambica Industries v. CCE, (2007) 6 SCC 769] the assessee was from Lucknow. It challenged an order [Ambica Industries v. CCE, 2003 SCC OnLine CESTAT 1365] passed by the Customs, Excise and Service Tax Appellate Tribunal (Cestat) located in Delhi before the Delhi High Court. Cestat had jurisdiction over the State of Uttar Pradesh, NCT of Delhi and Maharashtra. The Delhi High Court did not entertain the proceedings initiated by the assessee for want of territorial jurisdiction. Dismissing the assessee's appeal this Court gave the example of an assessee affected by an assessment order in Bombay invoking the jurisdiction of the Delhi High Court to take advantage of the law laid down by the Delhi High Court or an assessee affected by an order of assessment made at Bombay invoking the jurisdiction of the Allahabad High Court to take advantage of the law laid down by it and consequently evade the law laid down by the Bombay High Court. It was said that this could not be allowed and circumstances such as this would lead to some sort of judicial anarchy.

155. The decisions referred to clearly lay down the principle that the court is required to adopt a functional test vis-à-vis the litigation and the litigant. What has to be seen is whether there is any functional similarity in the proceedings between one court and another or whether there is some sort of subterfuge on the part of a litigant. It is this functional test that will determine whether a litigant is indulging in forum shopping or not.

14. Forum shopping has been termed as disreputable practice by the courts and has no sanction and paramountcy in law. In spite of this Court condemning the practice of forum shopping, Respondent 2 filed two complaints i.e. a complaint under Section 156(3) CrPC before the Tis Hazari Court, New Delhi on 6-6-2012 and a complaint which was eventually registered as FIR No. 168 under Sections 406, 420, 120-BIPC before PS Bowbazar, Calcutta on 28-3-2013 i.e. one in Delhi and one complaint in Kolkata. The complaint filed in Kolkata was a reproduction of the complaint filed in Delhi except with the change of place of occurrence in order to create a jurisdiction.

17. A two-Judge Bench of this Court in K. Jayaram v. BDA [K. Jayaram v. BDA, (2022) 12 SCC 815 : 2021 SCC OnLine SC 1194] observed : (SCC para 14)

¶14. It is necessary for us to state here that in order to check multiplicity of proceedings pertaining to the same subject-matter and more importantly to stop the menace of soliciting inconsistent orders through different judicial forums by suppressing material facts either by remaining silent or by making misleading statements in the pleadings in order to escape the liability of making a false statement, we are of the view that the parties have to disclose the details of all legal proceedings and litigations either past or present concerning any part of the subject-matter of dispute which is within their knowledge. In case, according to the parties to the dispute, no legal proceedings or court litigations were or are pending, they have to mandatorily state so in their pleadings in order to resolve the dispute between the parties in accordance with law.¶

The said petition was dismissed on various counts including forum hunting.

16. A ground abandoned by the applicant at the time of previous two petitions, although available at that time cannot be agitated at a subsequent period of time. The challenges in this matter have been in piecemeal by the applicant. Even a challenge of proceedings in Application U/S 482 No. 31531 of 2022 (Ram Dular Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Another) was abandoned by him but now the same is being taken up in a new petition being the present one.

17. Thus this Court holds that the present petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is a repeated attempt of the same applicant for setting aside the proceedings against him pending before the trial court which is not maintainable. This is even forum hunting by him.

18. The present petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is thus dismissed.

19. Pending application(s), if any, shall stand disposed of.

Issue for consideration

The applicant filed an application u/s 482 CrPC seeking to quash the entire criminal proceedings in the complaint case alleging rape under the false promise of marriage.

Headnotes

A. Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 375, 376-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 482-Quashing of proceedings-Rape Vs Consensual sex-Promise of marriage-Subsequent breach Vs. False promise from inception-Material of sterling quality showing consensual relationship turning acrimonious-Frivolous and vexatious proceedings-Private grudge-Abuse of process of court-Criminal proceedings maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive to settle a personal score out of retaliation cannot be sustained-Entire proceedings quashed.(Para 15 to 25)

Held

The court held that the offence of rape is not made out because Applicant no. 3 was always ready to marry. The breakdown of the alliance was caused solely by the conduct of the complainant whose prior relationship and private photos were exposed and her subsequent marriage to another man on the scheduled wedding date. Out of vengeance, the complainant filed a false case to settle a personal score. Applying the principles laid down in State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal and the structured four step test from Pradeep Kumar Keshawani, the court ruled that allowing the trial to continue would be a gross abuse of the judicial process. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Brij Raj Singh, J.)

1. The present application has been filed seeking quashing of the entire proceedings of Complaint Case No.53786 of 2022, Nazish Fatima Vs. Mohd. Abbas and others, Police Station

Hazratganj, District Lucknow and the summoning order dated 19.11.2022 passed by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-IV, Lucknow.

2. It is the case of the applicants that applicant no.1 is an old aged house-wife, whereas applicant no.2 is the retired Engineer from the U.P. State Cement Corporation and applicant no.3 is an engineering graduate, currently working in a private multinational company at Noida. It is said that applicants are innocent and have been falsely implicated by opposite party no.2 by making false allegation with oblique motive. It is said that applicant no.3 came in contact with opposite party no.2 through matrimonial website, namely, Shaadi.com and consequently both of them met at Barista Coffee House, Rana Pratap Marg, Hazratganj, Lucknow on 04.09.2021. Opposite party no.2 introduced herself as a conservative and religious person and informed that she is pursuing D.Pharm from the Integral University, Lucknow. Opposite party no.2 told applicant no.3 that her father had been residing and working in a Motor Garage, in Saudi Arabia for the past twenty five years and had recently returned to India during the Covid-19 pandemic and now he is running a General Store in Muftiganj, Lucknow. Due to the aforesaid, it was informed by the opposite party no.2 that there are compatibility issues in her family and thus, she wants to get married at the earliest and get settled in her life.

3. It is said that applicants no.1 and 2 after intimation to the family members of opposite Party no.2, visited her home along with close relatives on 30.10.2021 and the Engagement Ceremony of applicant no.3 and opposite party no.2 was done, wherein applicants no.1 and 2 also handed presented a Gold Ring, Cash of Rs.20,000/- and sweets etc. In return, the family members of opposite party no.2 visited the house of the applicants on 13.11.2021. On 13.02.2022, applicants no.1 and 2 visited the residence of opposite party no.2 to finalize the dates of marriage and on mutual agreement, the dates for Nikah and Walima were fixed as 04.11.2022 and 07.11.2022 respectively. Thereafter, parents of opposite party no.2 visited the residence of brother of applicant no.1 on 14.02.2022 on the occasion of the Birth Anniversary of Hazrat Ali and they spent time together discussing the future marriage plans.

4. It is said that shockingly in February, 2022, applicant no.3 started receiving messages on Instagram Id from an unknown person and on 23.02.2022, several obscene and vulgar photographs of opposite party no.2 were shared by the said person, who was identified as one Haris Javed Ansari by opposite party no.2. Applicant no.3 came to know that opposite party no.2 was in relationship with the aforesaid person, namely, Haris Javed Ansari of Shahjahanpur and, therefore, on the news of the engagement of applicant no.3 opposite party no.2, the said person decided to intervene and stop the marriage of applicant no.3. Applicant no.3 also came to know that one Aman Husaini of Varanasi was also in relationship with opposite party no.2 earlier and the photographs of opposite party no.2 are with Aman Husaini as well as with Haris Javed Ansari. The aforesaid details were informed to opposite party no.2 and her family members, on which on 27.02.2022, parents of opposite party no.2 called the applicants to Shahnajaf Imambara, Hazratganj and there opposite party no.2 took oath on the religious book that she has no relation with the aforesaid persons at present. On 03.03.2022, father of opposite party no.2 visited the house of the applicants and informed that he would take action against Haris Javed Ansari for sharing private photographs of opposite party no.2 on internet and thereafter opposite party no.2 visited Shahjahanpur along with her parents and called Haris Javed Ansari to the Police Station Sadar Bazar, Shahjahanpur and was made to sign the apology letter. Opposite party no.2 herself shared the photograph of the apology letter as well as the photograph of Haris Javed Ansari signing the apology letter and the mobile phone screen shot of Haris Javed Ansari as proof that he was the one messaging and sharing private photographs on Instagram application.

5. It is said that opposite party no.2 demanded Rs.15,000/- through Whats App chat from applicant no.3 and when the aforesaid transaction could not be done due to technical fault, opposite party no.2 got angry and blocked the WhatsApp of applicant no.3. Thereafter, parents of opposite party no.2 proceeded to get her marriage fixed with one Zaim Ali Zamin, whilst the applicants awaited response from them. The applicants could not comprehend when they came across the Wedding Invitation Card as well as the online invitation video of the marriage of opposite party no.2 with Zain Ali Zamin, which was scheduled to take place on 04.11.2022 itself, i.e. the date on which earlier the marriage of applicant no.3 was fixed with the opposite party no.2.

6. Sri Nadeem Murtaza assisted by Sri Shubham Tripathi and Inamuddin Ahmad, counsel for the applicants submits that in February, 2022, applicant no.3 started receiving messages on Instagram Id from an unknown person and on 23.02.2022 several obscene and vulgar photographs of opposite party no.2 were shared by the said person. This fact has been stated in paragraph-14 of the application. However, while replying to the said paragraph, opposite party no.2 has admitted the fact. He further submits that opposite party no.2 was in relation with the aforesaid person, namely, Haris Javed Ansari of Shahjahanpur and on the news of engagement of applicant no.3 with opposite party no.2, the said person decided to intervene and stop the marriage of opposite party no.2. It is submitted that in such scenario, the marriage could not be solemnized as certain differences arose between the parties as opposite party no.2 was in relation with another man. Since the marriage could not be solemnized, out of retaliation opposite party no.2 instituted the criminal proceedings by filing the present complaint against the applicants just to settle her personal score.

7. Counsel for the applicants further submits that even if it is assumed that there was physical relationship between applicant no.3 and opposite party no.2, then the same is consensual and such relationship does not come within the purview of Section 376 IPC.

8. Counsel for the applicants by placing reliance upon the judgement of the Hon^{ble} Supreme Court rendered in the case of Pradeep Kumar Keshawani Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1947 has submitted that there is a clear distinction between rape and consensual sex and in a case where there is a promise of marriage, the Court must very carefully examine whether the accused had actually wanted to marry the victim or had mala fide intention. He has further relied upon paragraph-20 of the aforesaid judgment, where four guidelines have been framed while entertaining the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and in guideline (ii) it is provided that whether the material relied upon by the accused, would rule out the assertions contained in the charges levelled against the accused, i.e., the material is sufficient to reject and overrule the factual assertions contained in the complaint, i.e., the material is such, as would persuade a reasonable person to dismiss and condemn the factual basis of the accusations as false. Counsel for the applicants has pointed out that the attending circumstances are very relevant in the present case, wherein it is established that opposite party no.2 had relationship with some other person on account of which the marriage could not be solemnized. Once this fact has been admitted, then the judgement of the Hon^{ble} Supreme Court rendered in the case of Pradeep Kumar Kesharwani (supra) comes to the rescue of the applicant.

9. Counsel for the applicants by placing reliance upon the judgement of the Hon^{ble} Supreme Court rendered in the case of Pramod Suryabhan Pawar Vs. State of Maharashtra and another, (2019) 9 SCC 608 has submitted that in the case of woman engaging in sexual relations on false promise to marriage, the Court has to be very careful and after examining the facts and circumstances of the case, the Court may take decision on the given facts.

10. Sri Rao Narendra Singh, learned AGA-I on the other hand by opposing the case has submitted that the offence is serious in nature, therefore, statement of the prosecutrix is self-sufficient to prosecute the applicants. Therefore, the trial court has rightly summoned the applicants and no interference is required by this Court.

11. Heard learned counsel for the applicants as well as learned AGA and perused the record. However, no one has put in appearance on behalf of opposite party no.2 though name of the counsels have been shown in the cause list.

12. Hon^{ble} Supreme Court in the case of Pramod Suryabhan Pawar (supra) held as under:-

“12 This Court has repeatedly held that consent with respect to Section 375 of the IPC involves an active understanding of the circumstances, actions and consequences of the proposed act. An individual who makes a reasoned choice to act after evaluating various alternative actions (or inaction) as well as the various possible consequences flowing from such action or inaction, consents to such action. In Dhruvaram Sonar which was a case involving the invoking of the jurisdiction under Section 482, this Court observed:

“15. ? An inference as to consent can be drawn if only based on evidence or probabilities of the case. ?Consent? is also stated to be an act of reason coupled with deliberation. It denotes an active will in mind of a person to permit the doing of the act complained of.”

This understanding was also emphasised in the decision of this Court in Kaini Rajan v State of Kerala:

“12. ? ?Consent?, for the purpose of Section 375, requires voluntary participation not only after the exercise of intelligence based on the knowledge of the significance of the moral quality of the act but after having fully exercised the choice between resistance and asset. Whether there was consent or not, is to be ascertained only on a careful study of all relevant circumstances.?”

14 In the present case, the ?misconception of fact? alleged by the complainant is the appellant?s promise to marry her. Specifically in the context of a promise to marry, this Court has observed that there is a distinction between a false promise given on the understanding by the maker that it will be broken, and the breach of a promise which is made in good faith but subsequently not fulfilled. In Anurag Soni v State of Chhattisgarh, this Court held:

“12. The sum and substance of the aforesaid decisions would be that if it is established and proved that from the inception the accused who gave the promise to the prosecutrix to marry, did not have any intention to marry and the prosecutrix gave the consent for sexual intercourse on such an assurance by the accused that he would marry her, such a consent can be said to be a consent obtained on a misconception of fact as per Section 90 of the IPC and, in such a case, such a consent would not excuse the offender and such an offender can be said to have committed the rape as defined under Sections 375 of the IPC and can be convicted for the offence under Section 376 of the IPC.”

Similar observations were made by this Court in Deepak Gulati v State of Haryana (“Deepak Gulati”):

“21. ? There is a distinction between the mere breach of a promise, and not fulfilling a false promise. Thus, the court must examine whether there was made, at an early stage a false promise of marriage by the accused..”

16. Where the promise to marry is false and the intention of the maker at the time of making the promise itself was not to abide by it but to deceive the woman to convince her to engage in sexual relations, there is a ?misconception of fact? that vitiates the woman?s ?consent?. On the other hand, a breach of a promise cannot be said to be a false promise. To establish a false promise, the maker of the promise should have had no intention of upholding his word at the time of giving it. The ?consent? of a woman under Section 375 is vitiated on the ground of a ?misconception of fact? where such misconception was the basis for her choosing to engage in the said act. In Deepak Gulati this Court observed:

“21. .. There is a distinction between the mere breach of a promise, and not fulfilling a false promise. Thus, the court must examine whether there was made, at an early stage a false promise of marriage by the accused; and whether the consent involved was given after wholly understanding the nature and consequences of sexual indulgence. There may be a case where the prosecutrix agrees to have sexual intercourse on account of her love and passion for the accused, and not solely on account of misrepresentation made to her by the accused, or where an accused on account of circumstances which he could not have foreseen, or which were beyond his control, was unable to marry her, despite having every intention to do so. Such cases must be treated differently.

“24. Hence, it is evident that there must be adequate evidence to show that at the relevant time i.e. at the initial stage itself, the accused had no intention whatsoever, of keeping his promise to marry the victim. There may, of course, be circumstances, when a person having the best of intentions is unable to marry the victim owing to various unavoidable circumstances. The ?failure to keep a promise made with respect to a future uncertain date, due to reasons that are not very clear from the evidence available, does not always amount to misconception of fact. In order to come within the meaning of the term ?misconception of fact?, the fact must have an immediate relevance?. Section 90 IPC cannot be called into aid in such a situation, to pardon the act of a girl in entirety, and fasten criminal liability on the other, unless the court is assured of the fact that from the very beginning, the accused had never really intended to marry her.? (Emphasis supplied)

18. To summarise the legal position that emerges from the above cases, the ?consent? of a woman with respect to Section 375 must involve an active and reasoned deliberation towards the proposed act. To establish whether the ?consent? was vitiated by a ?misconception of fact? arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman?s decision to engage in the sexual act.”

13. In the case of Pramod Kumar Navratna Vs. State of Chhattisgarh and others, 2026 SCC OnLine SC 154, Hon?ble supreme Court held as under:-

“18. It has been time and again settled by this Court, that the mere fact that the parties indulged in physical relations pursuant to a promise to marry will not amount to a rape in every case. An offence under Section 375 of the IPC could only be made out, if promise of marriage was made by the accused solely with a view to obtain consent for sexual relations without having any intent of fulfilling said promise from the very beginning and that such false promise of marriage had a direct bearing on the prosecutrix giving her consent for sexual relations. The issue for consideration is whether, given the facts and circumstances of the case and after examining the FIR, the High Court was correct in refusing to quash the ongoing criminal proceedings against the accused-appellant arising out of FIR No.213/2025 dated 06.02.2025 and the Chargesheet No.269/2025.

19. Upon a careful consideration of the record in the present case, we are unable to discern any material that would warrant the invocation of Section 376(2)(n) of the IPC. The facts of the present case unmistakably indicate towards a classic case of a consensual relationship turning acrimonious. Upon perusal of the records of the case, it is evident that the complainant-respondent No. 3 is a married lady with a ten years old child. The said marriage was solemnized on 02.06.2011 and although divorce proceedings are currently pending adjudication between her and her husband, by no stretch of imagination can it be held that the complainant-respondent No. 3 was eligible for being married with the accused-appellant on 18.09.2022, the date on which the first of the multiple instances of acts of rape on the false pretext of marriage has been committed by the accused-appellant are alleged. Therefore, even for the sake of argument, if the contention of the respondent No. 1 State and the complainant-respondent No. 3 is accepted that there indeed was a false promise of marriage based on which the accused-appellant indulged in sexual activities, such a promise would not be legally enforceable or even capable of being acted upon as the victim herself was not eligible for marriage, neither on the date of the first alleged act of offence i.e. 18.09.2022 nor on any subsequent dates wherein the parties indulged in the sexual activities, till the point of the date of registration of FIR i.e. 06.02.2025. The said embargo arises from sub-clause (i) of Section 5 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 which categorically prohibits marriage between two individuals if either of them have a living spouse. The said position of law has been reiterated under sub-clause (1) of Section 4 of the Special Marriage Act, 1954.

22. The Courts have to be extremely careful and cautious in identifying the genuine cases filed under Section 376(2)(n) of the IPC by identifying the essential ingredients to constitute the said offence. There should be a promise of marriage made by the accused solely with a view to obtain consent for sexual relations and without having any intent of fulfilling said promise from the very beginning, and that such false promise of marriage had a direct bearing on the prosecutrix giving her consent for sexual relations. Such genuine cases that deserve prosecution of the accused must be clearly demarcated from the litigation that arises from the cases of consensual relationships between consenting adults going acrimonious on account of dispute and disagreement or a future change of mind. In view of the aforesaid settled position of law, the respondent No. 1-State and the complainant -respondent no.3 has failed to place any material on record to show how the accused-appellant on the subsequent meetings managed to repeatedly coax and dupe the complainant-respondent no.3 into having physical relations with him on the false pretext of marriage considering the fact that within initial meetings, both parties were aware about the marital status of the victim and therefore it cannot be, by any stretch imagination said that the consent of the complainant-respondent No. 3 has been vitiated or obtained on fraud and misrepresentation made by the accused-appellant.

23. At this stage, it is material to refer to the decision of this Court in Mahesh Damu Khare v. State of Maharashtra, (2024) 11 SCC 398, wherein the following observations were made:

"29. It must also be clear that for a promise to be a false promise to amount to misconception of fact within the meaning of Section 90 IPC, it must have been made from the very beginning with an intention to deceive the woman to persuade her to have a physical relationship. Therefore, if it is established that such consent was given under a misconception of fact, the said consent is vitiated and not a valid consent."

14. Now, the question which falls for consideration is that whether the act of applicant no.3, as alleged in the complaint, comes within the purview of Section 376 IPC and whether the allegation of committing rape on the false promise of marriage by applicant no.3 is proved prima facie on the basis of averments made in the complaint coupled with the attending circumstances of the case. Before dealing with this issue, it is relevant to recollect the attending facts and circumstances of the case again, which run as under:-

"Applicant no.3 came in contact with opposite party no.2 through matrimonial website and thereafter they met at a Coffee House on 04.09.2021. After introduction of each other, parents of applicant no.3 visited the house of opposite party no.2 along with their close relatives on 30.10.2021 and engagement ceremony was also done, wherein they exchanged the gifts including gold ring and cash. After much deliberations, dates for Nikah and Walima were fixed as 04.11.2022 and 07.11.2022 respectively. In the meantime, applicant no.3 and opposite party no.2 met so many times and established physical relation on their free will and consent. All of sudden, in February, 2022, applicant no.3 received messages and obscene and vulgar photographs of opposite party no.2 on Instagram Id from an unknown person and later on it came to the knowledge of applicant no.3 that the said person is Haris Javed Ansari from Shahjahanpur. Applicant no.3 also came to know that one Aman Hussaini of Varanasi was also in relationship with opposite party no.2 earlier and the obscene and vulgar photographs of opposite party no.2 are also with him. After intervention of the parents of opposite party no.2, on 27.02.2022 at Shahnajaf Imambara, Hazratganj, Lucknow opposite party no.2 took oath on the religious Book ?Quran? that she has no relation with the aforesaid persons at present. Thereafter, father of opposite party no.2 visited the house of the applicants and informed them that he would take action against Haris Javed Ansari for the aforesaid act, pursuant to which they visited Shahjahanpur and at the Police Station Sadar Bazar, Shahjahanpur an apology letter was written and signed by Haris Javed Ansari and photograph of the same was also sent to applicant no.3. Thereafter, marriage of opposite party no.2 was fixed with one Zaim Ali Zamin without intimation to the applicants on 04.11.2022 i.e. the date on which earlier marriage of applicant no.3 was fixed with opposite party no.2.”

15. After going through the aforesaid attending facts and circumstances coupled with the allegation made in the complaint, it is amply clear that because of the conduct of opposite party no.2, the marriage could not be solemnized and parents of opposite party no.2 fixed the marriage of opposite party no.2 with another person without intimation to the applicants. It is not the case that promise of marriage was made by the accused solely with a view to obtain consent for sexual relations without having any intent of fulfilling said promise from the very beginning and that such false promise of marriage had a direct bearing on the prosecutrix giving her consent for sexual relations as narration of the aforesaid attending facts and circumstances of the case, clearly indicate that applicant no.3 is always ready to perform marriage with opposite party no.2 from the very beginning, but because of the intervening unfortunate developments regarding conduct of opposite party no.2, the marriage between them could not be solemnized, for which applicant no.3 cannot be blamed. One relevant fact is to be noted here that applicant no.3 and opposite party no.2 were in contact near about five months and during this period they established physical relation so many times on their free will and consent, but at no point of time, opposite party no.2 made a complaint that applicant no.3 physically assaulted or out of coercion he established physical relation with her. Hon’ble Supreme Court time and again held that mere fact that the parties indulged in physical relations pursuant to a promise to marry will not amount to a rape in every case and an offence under Section 375 IPC could only be made out if promise of marriage was made by the accused solely with a view to obtain consent for sexual relations without having any intent of fulfilling said promise from the very beginning and that such false promise of marriage had a direct bearing on the prosecutrix giving her consent for sexual relations. However, in the present case the essential ingredients are missing and the facts unmistakably indicate towards a classic case of a consensual relationship turning acrimonious.

16. Hon’ble Supreme Court in the case of Mohammad Wajid Vs. State of U.P., 2023 SCC OnLine SC 951 while dealing with the duty of the court in cases where an accused seeks quashing of an FIR or proceedings on the ground that such proceedings are manifestly frivolous, or vexatious, or instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance, held as under:-

“34. At this stage, we would like to observe something important. Whenever an accused comes before the Court invoking either the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC) or extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution to get the FIR or the criminal proceedings quashed essentially on the ground that such proceedings are manifestly frivolous or vexatious or instituted with the ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance, then in such circumstances the Court owes a duty to look into the FIR with care and a little more closely. We say so because once the complainant decides to proceed against the accused with an ulterior motive for wreaking personal vengeance, etc., then he would ensure that the FIR/complaint is very well drafted with all the necessary pleadings. The complainant would ensure that the averments made in the FIR/complaint are such that they disclose the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence. Therefore, it will not be just enough for the Court to look into the averments made in the FIR/complaint alone for the purpose of ascertaining whether the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence are disclosed or not. In frivolous or vexatious proceedings, the Court owes a duty to look into many other attending circumstances emerging from the record of the case over and above the averments and, if need be, with due care and circumspection try to read in between the lines. The Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the CrPC or Article 226 of the Constitution need not restrict itself only to the stage of a case but is empowered to take into account the overall circumstances leading to the initiation/registration of the case as well as the materials collected in the course of investigation. Take for instance the case on hand. Multiple FIRs have been registered over a period of time. It is in the background of such circumstances the registration of multiple FIRs assumes importance, thereby attracting the issue of wreaking vengeance out of private or personal grudge as alleged.? (Emphasis supplied).

17. If this Court considers the attending circumstances of the present case in the light of the aforesaid judgement, then it is clear that opposite party no.2 in order to settle her personal score and out of vengeance, instituted the present criminal proceedings by filing a complaint against the applicants subsequently on 02.06.2022 i.e. after applicant no.3 came to know about the conduct of opposite party no.3 and her physical relations with other persons, therefore, the offence under Section 376 IPC and allegation of rape by applicant no.3 on false promise of marriage is bereft of record.

18. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pradeep Kumar Kesharwani (supra) while dealing with the terms 'Rape' and 'consensual sex' and by relying upon the judgement of the Supreme Court rendered in the case of Deepak Gulati Vs. State of Haryana, (2013) 7 SCC 675 held as under "18. There is a clear distinction between rape and consensual sex and in a case where there is a promise of marriage, the court must very carefully examine whether the accused had actually wanted to marry the victim, or had mala fide motives and had made a false promise to this effect only to satisfy his lust, as the latter falls in the ambit of cheating or deception.

19. In the aforesaid context, we may refer to and rely upon the decision of this Court in the case of Deepak Gulati v. State of Haryana, (2013) 7 SCC 675. This Court made the following observations:

"18. Consent may be express or implied, coerced or misguided, obtained willingly or through deceit. Consent is an act of reason, accompanied by deliberation, the mind weighing, as in a balance, the good and evil on each side. There is a clear distinction between rape and consensual sex and in a case like this, the court must very carefully examine whether the accused had actually wanted to marry the victim, or had mala fide motives, and had made a false promise to this effect only to satisfy his lust, as the latter falls within a ambit of cheating or deception. There is a distinction between the mere breach of a promise, and not fulfilling a false promise. Thus, the court must examine whether there was made, at an early stage a false promise of marriage by the accuse; and whether the consent involved was given after wholly, understanding the nature and consequences of sexual indulgence. There may be a case where the prosecutrix agrees to have sexual intercourse on account of her love and passion for the accused, and not solely on account of mis-representation made to her by the accused, or where an accused on account of circumstances which he could not have foreseen, or which were beyond his control, was unable to marry her, despite having every intention to do so. Such cases must be treated differently. An accused can be convicted for rape only if the court reaches a conclusion that the intention of the accused was mala fide, and that he had clandestine motives.

21. Hence, it is evident that there must be adequate evidence to show that at the relevant time, i.e. at initial stage itself, the accused had no intention whatsoever, of keeping his promise to marry the victim. There may, of course, be circumstances, when a person having the best of intentions is unable to marry the victim owing to various unavoidable circumstances. The "failure to keep a promise made with respect to a future uncertain date, due to reasons that are not very clear from the evidence available, does not always amount to misconception of fact. In order to come within the meaning of the term misconception of fact, the fact, the fact must have an immediate relevance." Section 90, IPC cannot be called into aid in such a situation, to pardon the act of a girl in entirety, and fasten criminal liability on the other, unless the court is assured of the fact that from the very beginning, the accused had never really intended to marry her.? (Emphasis supplied)

19. Further, in the case of Pradeep Kumar Kesharwani (supra), Hon^{ble} Supreme Court has framed four guidelines for entertaining the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and in guideline (ii) it is provided that whether the material relied upon by the accused, would rule out the assertions contained in the charges levelled against the accused, i.e., the material is sufficient to reject and overrule the factual assertions contained in the complaint, i.e., the material is such, as would persuade a reasonable person to dismiss and condemn the factual basis of the accusations as false. For the sake of convenience, the aforesaid four guidelines framed by the Hon^{ble} Supreme Court are extracted herein below:-

“20. The following steps should ordinarily determine the veracity of a prayer for quashing, raised by an accused by invoking the power vested in the High Court under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.:-

(I) Step one, whether the material relied upon by the accused is sound, reasonable, and indubitable, i.e., the materials is of sterling and impeccable quality”

(II) Step two, whether the material relied upon by the accused, would rule out the assertions contained in the charges levelled against the accused, i.e., the material is sufficient to reject and overrule the factual assertions contained in the complaint, i.e., the material is such, as would persuade a reasonable person to dismiss and condemn the factual basis of the accusations as false.

(iii) Step three, whether the material relied upon by the accused, has not been refuted by the prosecution/complainant; and/or the material is such, that it cannot be justifiably refuted by the prosecution/complainant?"

(iv) Step four, whether proceeding with the trial would result in an abuse of process of the court, and would not serve the ends of Justice?

If the answer to all the steps is in the affirmative, judicial conscience of the High Court should persuade it to quash such criminal proceedings, in exercise of power vested in it under Section 482 of the Cr. P.C. Such exercise of power, besides doing justice to the accused, would save precious court time, which would otherwise be wasted in holding such a trial (as well as, proceedings arising therefrom) specially when, it is clear that the same would not conclude in the conviction of the accused. [(See: Rajiv Thapar v. Madan Lal Kapoor (Criminal Appeal No. 174 of 2013)]."

20. Recently, a three Judges Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sajal Bose Vs. The State of West Bengal and others, 2026 SCC OnLine SC 525 while dealing with the similar question held as under:-

"31. In view of the foregoing discussion and upon a cumulative consideration of the allegations in the FIR, the material collected during investigation, and the evidence placed before us, we are of the considered opinion that the present case falls squarely within the illustrative categories (1), (3) and (7) enumerated in paragraph 102 of Bhajan Lal (supra). Even if the allegations in the FIR and the material collected during investigation are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety, they do not prima facie constitute the necessary ingredients of offences alleged against the appellants. Further, the uncontroverted material available on record, to be specific, the CCTV footage, completely belies the allegation of their participation in the alleged offences so as to justify their being put to trial. Additionally, the attendant circumstances, particularly the admitted pre-existing disputes between the parties and the absence of specific and distinct overt acts attributed to the appellants, lend substance to their contention that the criminal proceedings are manifestly attended with malafide and have been initiated with an ulterior motive. In such circumstances, permitting the continuation of prosecution of the appellants would not advance the cause of justice but would instead amount to an abuse of the process of law.

32. Recently, this Court in Pradeep Kumar Kesarwani v. State of Uttar Pradesh, revisited and further elucidated the parameters governing the exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 of CrPC. While drawing guidance from earlier precedents, this Court delineated a structured four step test to assess the sustainability of a prayer for quashing criminal proceedings. The said decision underscores that where the material relied upon by the accused is of sterling and impeccable quality; is sufficient to negate the allegations in the complaint; remains unrefuted or incapable of justifiable refutation by the prosecution; and where continuation of the proceedings would amount to an abuse of the process of Court and not serve the ends of justice, the High Court would be justified in exercising its inherent powers to quash the proceedings. For ready reference, the relevant observations from the said judgment are reproduced hereinbelow: -

20. The following steps should ordinarily determine the veracity of a prayer for quashing, raised by an accused by invoking the power vested in the High Court under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.:

(i) Step one, whether the material relied upon by the accused is sound, reasonable, and indubitable, i.e., the materials is of sterling and impeccable quality?

(ii) Step two, whether the material relied upon by the accused, would rule out the assertions contained in the charges levelled against the accused, i.e., the material is sufficient to reject and overrule the factual assertions contained in the complaint, i.e., the material is such, as would persuade a reasonable person to dismiss and condemn the factual basis of the accusations as false.

(iii) Step three, whether the material relied upon by the accused, has not been refuted by the prosecution/complainant; and/or the material is such, that it cannot be justifiably refuted by the prosecution/complainant?

(iv) Step four, whether proceeding with the trial would result in an abuse of process of the court, and would not serve the ends of justice?

If the answer to all the steps is in the affirmative, judicial conscience of the High Court should persuade it to quash such criminal proceedings, in exercise of power vested in it under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. Such exercise of power, besides doing justice to the accused, would save precious court time, which would otherwise be wasted in holding such a trial (as well as, proceedings arising therefrom) specially when, it is clear that the same would not conclude in the conviction of the accused. [(See: Rajiv Thapar v. Madan Lal Kapoor (Criminal Appeal No. 174 of 2013))]?

33. Applying the aforesaid ratio to the case at hand, we find that the material relied upon by the appellants in the present case, particularly the CCTV footage forming part of the chargesheet, is of unimpeachable provenance and reliability, having been collected during investigation and forming part of prosecution's own record. The footage, which was heavily relied upon by both the sides during the course of arguments, upon careful scrutiny, does not depict the appellants participating in any act of assault or overt aggression, thereby substantially dislodging the factual foundation of the allegations against them. The said material stands unrefuted in any meaningful manner and is of such character that it cannot be lightly brushed aside even at the stage when the Court is considering a prayer for quashing the proceedings of the criminal case at its inception.

34. In this backdrop, compelling appellant Nos. 1, 2 and 3 to face a full-fledged criminal trial would serve no meaningful purpose. The continuation of such proceedings, in face of total lack of credible material connecting them with the alleged offences, would amount to misuse of the criminal process. The present case, therefore, satisfies each of the parameters delineated in Pradeep Kumar Kesarwani (supra). Where reliable and unimpeachable material demonstrably displaces the factual basis of the accusations and the prosecution is unable to effectively counter the same, the Court would be justified in invoking its inherent jurisdiction to prevent injustice. Such an approach not only accords justice to the accused but also obviates the wastage of precious judicial time on proceedings which, on the admitted material, do not hold a reasonable prospect of culminating in conviction."

21. It is relevant to mention here that the averments made in paragraph-14 of the application regarding the messages, obscene and vulgar photographs of opposite party no.2 sent on the Instagram ID of applicant no.3 by Haris Javed Ansari are also not rebutted by opposite party no.2 in paragraph-18 of the counter affidavit.

22. It is very strange to note that applicant no.3 has not broken the marriage, rather it is opposite party no.2, who had committed breach of promise as her parents fixed the marriage of opposite party no.2 with another person in consultation with her even without intimation to the applicants that too on 04.11.2022 i.e. the date on which earlier marriage of applicant no.3 was fixed with opposite party no.2, but in spite of that opposite party no.2 has made allegation against applicant no.3 for committing rape on false promise of marriage. Legal acts and laws are fundamentally designed to dispense justice, maintain social order and protect rights, rather than serve as tools for personal vengeance, retaliation or settling private scores. Hon'ble Supreme Court has time and again consistently held that using legal proceedings, such as criminal complaints to harass or pressure on opposite party constitutes an abuse of the legal process. In this regard, Hon'ble Supreme Court in the well known judgement in the case of State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 has delineated seven categories of cases, particularly category no.7, wherein such extraordinary jurisdiction may be invoked to prevent abuse of the process of law or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. For ready reference, the relevant extract of the said judgement is quoted below:-

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we have given the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge." (Emphasis supplied)

23. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Salib Vs. State of U.P., (2023) 20 SCC 194 again held as under:-

"26. At this stage, we would like to observe something important. Whenever an accused comes before the Court invoking either the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC) or extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution to get the FIR or the criminal proceedings quashed essentially on the ground that such proceedings are manifestly frivolous or vexatious or instituted with the ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance, then in such circumstances the Court owes a duty to look into the FIR with care and a little more closely. We say so because once the complainant decides to proceed against the accused with an ulterior motive for wreaking personal vengeance, etc. then he would ensure that the FIR/complaint is very well drafted with all the necessary pleadings. The complainant would ensure that the averments made in the FIR/complaint are such that they disclose the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence. Therefore, it will not be just enough for the Court to look into the averments made in the FIR/complaint alone for the purpose of ascertaining whether the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence are disclosed or not. In frivolous or vexatious proceedings, the Court owes a duty to look into many other attending circumstances emerging from the record of the case over and above the averments and, if need be, with due care and circumspection try to read in between the lines. The Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Section 482CrPC or Article 226 of the Constitution need not restrict itself only to the stage of a case but is empowered to take into account the overall circumstances leading to the initiation/registration of the case as well as the materials collected in the course of investigation. Take for instance the case on hand. Multiple FIRs have been registered over a period of time. It is in the background of such circumstances the registration of multiple FIRs assumes importance, thereby attracting the issue of wreaking vengeance out of private or personal grudge as alleged.”

24. Upon a cumulative consideration of the allegations in the complaint, the evidence placed on record and the attending circumstances enumerated above, prima facie, appears that they do not constitute the necessary ingredients of offence alleged against the applicants and the reliable and unimpeachable material demonstrably displaces the factual basis of the accusations and the prosecution is unable to effectively counter the same, the Court would be justified in invoking its inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to prevent injustice as such an approach not only accords justice to the accused but also obviates the wastage of precious judicial time on proceedings which, on the admitted material, do not hold a reasonable prospect of culminating in conviction. Therefore, I am of the considered opinion that the impugned proceedings cannot be sustained in law and the same deserve to be quashed.

25. Application is accordingly allowed and the entire proceedings of Complaint Case No.53786 of 2022, Nazish Fatima Vs. Mohd. Abbas and others, Police Station Hazratganj, District Lucknow and the summoning order dated 19.11.2022 passed by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-IV, Lucknow, are hereby quashed qua the applicants.

Issue for consideration

The dispute concerned possession of a shop situated at Mohalla Golaganj, Gonda. The applicant sought attachment of the shop u/s 164/165 BNSS alleging attempted encroachment, whereas opposite parties claimed tenancy and actual possession of the premises.

Headnotes

A. Bhartiya Nagrik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023-Section 164 and 165-Dispute regarding possession of immovable property-Attachment of shop by Magistrate-Revisonal Court setting aside attachment order-Validity-Opposite parties claiming tenancy and actual possession-Police report indicating possession with opposite parties-Proceedings u/s 164/165 BNSS are maintainable only where there exists a genuine dispute regarding actual possession likely to result in breach of peace-Where possession is admitted to be with one party, such party cannot be dispossessed through summary proceedings under BNSS-Remedy of landlord lies in appropriate civil proceedings for eviction-The Revisional Court rightly quashed the attachment order passed by the City Magistrate-Order affirmed-Application rejected.(Para 23,24)

Held

The court held that proceedings u/s 164/165 BNSS are intended to prevent breach of peace and not to adjudicate title or tenancy rights. Jurisdiction u/s 164/165 BNSS arises only when there is a bona fide dispute regarding actual possession of immovable property. A person in admitted or established possession cannot be dispossessed through summary preventive proceedings. Landlord-tenant disputes and questions of eviction must be resolved through appropriate civil proceedings. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Brij Raj Singh, J.)

1. Heard. Ms. Sudiksha Singh, holding brief of Sri Ashish Kumar Singh, learned counsel for applicant; Ms. Tanvi Jain, learned AGA-I for State and Ms. Saima Khan, learned counsel for opposite party nos.2 and 3.

2. By means of present application, applicant has challenged the order dated 01.11.2025 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Room No.1, Gonda (Revisional Court) in Criminal Revision No. 580 of 2024 (Dileep Soni and Another Vs. State of U.P. and Another), under Sections 438/440 of Bhartiya Nagrik Suraksha Sanhita (in short "BNSS") filed by the opposite party nos. 2 and 3 by which the Revisional Court set aside the order dated 24.10.2024 passed by City Magistrate, Gonda, under Section 164 of BNSS.

3. It has been submitted that applicant is old and widow lady whose son live out of town and house of applicant wherein the shop in question is situated at Mohalla Golaganj is registered on Form No.45 of Nagar Palika Parishad, Gonda in the name of Narain Kishore Tandon (husband of applicant) since 1946 and after the death of husband of applicant, his legal heir i.e. applicant and her son Bheeshm Tandon became owner and in possession of the house.

4. It has been further submitted that a temple was also constructed by husband of applicant in the premises of house and opposite party no.2, knowing the fact that applicant is old, ill and weak lady, is illegally trying to encroach a room for shop, therefore, the applicant gave an application to District Magistrate/City Magistrate, Gonda on 25.05.2024.

5. It has been further submitted that the police of Kotwali Nagar, District Gonda has submitted a report on 03.08.2024/05.08.2024, under Section 164 BNSS stating therein that due to dispute regarding possession, the situation was under tension and some unpleasant incident may took place between the parties and prayed for the necessary action and recommended to attach the property under Section 165 BNSS.

6. It has been further submitted that both parties appeared before the City Magistrate, Gonda and on 05.09.2024, applicant gave an application under Section 165(1) BNSS stating therein that opposite party nos.2 and 3 are trying to possess the shop of applicant and prayed therein to attach the shop and appoint the receiver.

7. It has been further submitted that opposite party no.2 also appeared before the City Magistrate, Gonda and on 19.09.2024 filed an objection on false and frivolous fact praying therein to quash the proceedings under Section 164 BNSS.

8. It has been further submitted that the City Magistrate has recorded finding that in Civil Suit No. 1459 of 2024 preferred by opposite party no.2, the description of the shop is different from the description of the shop described in the objection dated 19.09.2024 filed by opposite party no.2 and the map mentioned in police challani report and mentioned in the suit is not same and after giving proper opportunity of hearing to all parties, Magistrate has attached the shop in question vide order dated 24.10.2024.

9. It has been further submitted that opposite party nos.2 and 3 preferred a revision before the Revisional Court on 28.10.2024 on false and frivolous fact stating therein in para 12 of revision that the order has been passed ex-parte whereas the order has been passed after giving opportunity to both the parties.

10. It has been further submitted that applicant appeared before Revisional Court and filed her objection stating that no rent agreement has been executed by applicant and opposite party nos.2 and 3. The applicant also mentioned in para 5 of the objection that opposite party no.2 after drinking wine with his associates and friends abuses the applicant, taking the advantage of illness, oldness and weakness of applicant.

11. It has been further submitted that opposite party no.2 filed a civil suit for permanent injunction before Civil Judge (Junior Division)-I, Gonda on the false and frivolous fact on 01.07.2024 which was registered as Civil Suit No.1459 of 2024.

12. It has been further submitted that applicant appeared in the suit and filed her written statement denying all the wrong facts claimed by opposite party no.2, on 03.10.2025.

13. She has placed reliance on the judgment of this Court passed in Pawan Singhania v. State of U.P., reported in 2023 SCC OnLine All 4579. Relevant para is extracted herein-under:-

"6. Considering the rival contention of the parties, I am of the view that impugned order was passed mainly on the ground that civil suit is pending between the parties without looking to the nature of leave of civil suit and without even going into the question that civil suit is not regarding the possession but merely to protect the possession till the process of law adopted and from perusal of plaint of the suit No. 709 of 2009, it appears that there is no title dispute between the parties and private respondents did not claim ownership or possession on the basis of any right, therefore, there is no occasion to drop the proceeding under Section 145 Cr. P.C. when there is purely question of possession is pending before the Magistrate even in the judgement relied upon by the counsel for the revisionist. The Apex Court clearly observed that question of possession is involved then the Magistrate is empowered to take cognizance under Section 145 Cr. P.C. Even in the judgement of Full Bench of this court reported AIR 1959 All 141, Ganga Bux Singh v. Sukhdin has settled the issue. "It has been held that the proceedings under Sections 145 Cr. P.C. are only in the interest of the maintenance of peace and not in the interest of the preservation of the rights of any party. It was further held that the proceedings under Section 145 of the Code of Criminal Procedure are materially different from the proceedings in a proper suit. From the nature of the provisions it is clear that the Magistrate has been given this power primarily to preserve peace. The individual rights are affected only incidentally. The nature of the enquiry is quasi civil. It is an incursion by the criminal court in the jurisdiction of the civil court. It is, therefore, necessary that this incursion should be carefully circumscribed to the extend absolutely necessary discharging the function laid on the Magistrate of preserving the peace. The provisions of Section 145, Code of Criminal Procedure make that ample clear.

The Magistrate does not enquire into the merits of the claims of the parties or even their right to possess the subject of the dispute. He is only concerned with the question as to who was in actual physical possession on the relevant date. This also indicates that the starting point of the proceedings) must be the date when he was satisfied that an apprehension of a breach of the peace existed and not even he received the first information." 7. The Apex Court clearly held that proceeding under Section 145 Cr. P.C. cannot be dropped merely on the ground that one party had approached civil court not with regard to title or right to possession therefore in view of law and fact, the impugned order dated 28.04.2010 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Gorakhpur in Criminal Revision No. 217 of 2010 is absolutely erroneous and passed on non-application of mind, therefore, the impugned order is liable to be quashed and it is accordingly quashed.

14. Referring to para 6, it has been submitted that even if civil suit is pending between the parties without looking to the nature of leave of civil suit and without even going into the question that civil suit is not regarding the possession but merely to protect the possession till the process of law adopted, the Revisional Court has not applied its mind and the proceedings under Section 164 BNSS cannot be dropped merely on the ground that one party has approached the civil Court not with regard to title or right of the possession, therefore, in view of law laid and fact, the proceeding was illegal.

15. On the other hand, Ms. Saima Khan, learned counsel for opposite party nos.2 and 3 has submitted that opposite party no.2 is running shop and he has also filed electricity bill. The predecessor of applicant namely Narain Kishore Tandon (husband of applicant) was land lord of shop of question which is situated in Mohalla Golaganj. Answering opposite party no.2 was tenant of late Narain Kishore Tandon.

16. Ms. Saima Khan, learned counsel has invited attention of this Court towards the police report wherein it is mentioned that there is shop running by answering opposite party no.2 and applicant wants to evict him but opposite party no.2 does not want to evict the shop.

17. It has been submitted that once the possession of shop is admitted, it is open for applicant to file suit for eviction but proceeding under Sections 164/165 BNSS cannot be allowed. Answering opposite party nos.2 and 3 are getting their livelihood by running a jewellery shop and their possession should not be disturbed.

18. To buttress her arguments, she has placed reliance on following judgments of this Court:

i- Mahabirji Mandir Committee v. State of U.P., reported in 1992 SCC OnLine All 1154 : 1993 Cri LJ 2132

ii- Virendra Kumar v. State of U.P., reported in 2002 SCC OnLine All 1606 : 2003 Cri LJ 2709

19. Emphasis has been placed on paragraph 9 of the judgment passed in Virendra Kumar (Supra), is extracted herein-under :-

"9. The fact that the petitioner was all along in possession and never vacated disputed premises gains support from the Commission's report. As would appear from his report, he found certain documents belonging to the petitioner in the disputed shop. No explanation has been offered by respondent No. 3 as to how those papers could be found in the said premises when according to him, the petitioner having entered into a compromise left the premises in his possession. To my mind the petitioner continued to possess the said premises and used the same as shop till it was attached and receiver was appointed. In my opinion, it is a fit case where the Court in order to do justice to the petitioner should come to his rescue and put him back in possession of his tenanted premises in question."

20. Paragraphs 5 and 6 of the judgment passed in Mahabirji Mandir Committee (Supra), is extracted herein-under :-

"5. In order to appreciate the legal aspect of the case the provisions of S. 145, Cr. P.C. are necessary to be quoted. It is needless to say that a duty is cast on the Executive Magistrate to act in emergent situation and to exercise in public interest the power to prevent breach of the peace under the provisions of the Code, like Ss. 107/116, 144 and 145, Cr. P.C. No doubt all the proceedings including the proceedings under S. 145, Cr. P.C. are summary in nature but in every case the Magistrate has to act in a judicial manner and exercise his power strictly within the four corners of the Code. In this case it is the duty of the Magistrate to decide first the ambit of his jurisdiction and thereafter take a decision as to what provision in the particular facts and circumstances of the case can be invoked by him to preserve the peace and public tranquillity. The relevant provisions of S. 145, Cr. P.C. are as follows:?

"145. Procedure where dispute concerning land or water is likely to cause breach of peace.?

(1) Wherever an Executive Magistrate is satisfied from a report of a police officer or upon other information that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning any land or water or the boundaries thereof, within his local jurisdiction, he shall make an order in writing, stating the grounds of his being so satisfied, and requiring the parties concerned in such dispute to attend his Court in person or by pleader, on a specified date and time, and to put in written statements of their respective claims as respects the fact of actual possession of the subject of dispute.

(2) to (3)

(4) The Magistrate shall then, without reference to the merits or the claims of any of the parties to a right to possess the subject of dispute, peruse the statements so put in, hear the parties, receive all such evidence as may be produced by them, take such further evidence, if any, as he thinks necessary, and, if possible, decide whether any and which of the parties was, at the date of the order made by him, under sub-sec. (1), in possession of the subject of dispute.

Provided that if it appears to the Magistrate that any party has been forcibly and wrongfully dispossessed within two months next before the date on which the report of a police officer or other information was received by the Magistrate, or after that date and before the date of his order under subsection (1), he may treat the party so dispossessed as if that party had been in possession on the date of his order under sub-section(1).

(5) Nothing in this section shall preclude any party so required to attend, or any other person interested, from showing that no such dispute as aforesaid exists or has existed, and in such case the Magistrate shall cancel his said order, and all further proceedings thereon shall be stayed, but, subject to such cancellation, the order of the Magistrate under sub-sec. (1) shall be final.

(6)(a) If the Magistrate decides that one of the parties was, or should under the proviso to sub-sec. (4) be treated as being in such possession of the said subject, he shall issue an order declaring such party to be entitled to possession thereof until evicted therefrom in due course of law, and forbidding all disturbance of such possession until such eviction and when he proceeds under the proviso to sub-sec. (4), may restore to possession the party forcibly and wrongfully dispossessed.

(b) the order made under this sub-section shall be served and published in the manner laid down in sub-section (3).

*(7), (8), (9) and (10)" 6. From the bare perusal of S. 145, Cr. P.C. it is clear that the jurisdiction to initiate proceedings under S. 145, Cr. P.C. arises in case only when there is a dispute about actual possession of any immoveable property which is likely to lead to the breach of the peace. In my opinion for initiation of proceedings under S. 145, Cr. P.C. it is necessary that both the parties must disagree on the question of actual possession or claim possession within two months of the preliminary order. On the other hand in my opinion proceedings under S. 145, Cr. P.C. cannot be initiated e.g. if one party admits the other party's possession on the property in dispute then in these circumstances the Magistrate should not initiate proceedings under S. 145, Cr. P.C. the question of possession is not in dispute but the Magistrate finds that there is danger of the breach of the peace then the proper course is to take action under S. 107, 116, Cr. P.C. Thus, what is necessary to give jurisdiction to the Magistrate to act under S. 145, Cr. P.C. is the fact that there must be a dispute in respect of actual possession of the property in dispute. Similarly, if the claim is vague or if from the perusal of the application for initiation of proceedings under S. 145, Cr. P.C. it is proved that there is no dispute in respect of possession or if it appears that one party is in possession of the property in dispute from a very long time then in these circumstances the Magistrate has no jurisdiction to initiate the proceedings under S. 145, Cr. P.C. In the case of Makhan Lal Raina v. Addl. City Magistrate, Lucknow, 1989 LCD 143, this Court in similar circumstances quashed the order holding that the proceedings under S. 145, Cr. P.C. should not have been initiated because admittedly the first party was in possession of the property in dispute. In the instant case from the perusal of the application (Annexure 3) it is clear that the petitioner is in possession of the temple and is managing the affairs of the temple for a very long time i.e. 1986."*

21. She has submitted that it is clear that jurisdiction to initiate proceeding under Sections 164/165 BNSS, akin to Sections 145/146 CrPC (now repealed), arises in case there is dispute of actual possession of any immovable property, which is likely to lead to the breach of peace. There is a police report which shows possession of shop with answering-opposite party nos.2 and 3.

22. I have learned counsel for the contesting parties and have perused the records.

23. After going through record and the police report, it is clear that answering-opposite party nos.2 and 3 are claiming tenants of applicant and they are in possession of shop in question. The proceeding under Sections 126/135 BNSS has already been initiated between the parties by the Magistrate as is apparent from Police Report dated 03.08.2024. If there is any law and order situation certainly, the police is under obligation to look into the matter. The State Authority has to protect the parties but if actual possession is there with answering-opposite party nos.2 and 3, they cannot be dispossessed by proceeding under Sections 164/165 BNSS except in accordance with law by the order of Court. The case of answering-opposite party nos.2 and 3 is covered by the judgment of this Court passed in Mahabirji Mandir Committee (Supra) and Virendra Kumar (Supra).

24. The Revisional Court has rightly set aside the order passed by the City Magistrate vide impugned order, which is hereby affirmed. The application is, accordingly, rejected.

25. It is, however, made clear that the observation made by this Court will not be considered by any Court or Authority in future and whatever is observed in this case, is only applicable for disposal of this application.

Issue for consideration

In the present case applicant challenge to orders passed during rape case trial permitting expert examination of a disputed handwritten letter at the instance of the accused u/s 311 CrPC, refusing DNA testing of the accused with the child allegedly born from the prosecutrix, and dismissing an application u/s 319 CrPC for summoning additional accused persons.

Headnotes

A. Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 376, 313, 506-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Sections 311, 319-Expert examination of disputed handwriting-Accused relied upon a letter allegedly written by the prosecutrix to establish consent and sought handwriting comparison by an expert-Mere denial of authorship by the prosecutrix during cross-examination does not render the document inadmissible or foreclose scientific examination thereof-Trial court justified in permitting expert analysis of the disputed document, the same being relevant for effective adjudication of the defence case-Order allowing application u/s 311 CrPC upheld.(Para 10)

B. DNA Testing-Child allegedly born from relationship between prosecutrix and accused-DNA profiling of the accused and the child alleged to have been born from the sexual relationship would constitute crucial scientific evidence having direct nexus with the prosecution case-Rejection of such prayer solely on the grounds that the Investigating officer had not conducted the test or that the trial had reached an advanced stage held unsustainable-Application for DNA testing allowed.(Para 11, 12)

Summoning of additional accused-Section 319 CrPC-Revision challenging refusal to summon additional accused persons having been withdrawn by the petitioner, the same was dismissed as withdrawn.(Para 13)

Held

The court observed that both the prosecution and the defence are entitled to rely upon the best available evidence in a criminal trial. While the order allowing handwriting comparison was affirmed, the rejection of the prosecutrix's request for DNA profiling was held to be contrary to the interest of justice. The application for DNA testing consequently allowed. The remaining revision stood dismissed as withdrawn. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Bajaj, J.)

1. Petitioner-Complainant has filed the above three separate petitions, i.e. two petitions under Section 528 B.N.S.S. and 482 Cr.P.C. to challenge the orders dated 23.10.2024 and 25.8.2022 respectively, passed by Additional Sessions Judge/ FTC-2, Ghaziabad in Session Trial No. 776 of 2018, titled State Vs. Shashi Bhushan Gupta, arising out of Case Crime No. 188 of 2018, under Sections 376, 313, 506 I.P.C., registered at Police Station Kavi Nagar, District Ghaziabad, whereby the application moved by the accused-opposite party no.2 under Section 311 Cr.P.C. was allowed, whereas vide order dated 25.8.2022 the application by the prosecutrix for DNA test of the accused with his daughter born from the forcible physical relation has been dismissed. Criminal Revision Petition challenges the order dated 22.3.2021, whereby the application by petitioner under Section 319 Cr.P.C. seeking summoning of additional accused-relatives of the accused-opposite party no.2 has been dismissed.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner-prosecutrix has argued that the prosecutrix lodged the subject F.I.R. against the accused-opposite party no.2 and his relatives, who had allegedly raped her on 27.9.2015 in her house by use of force, and after committing the crime he threatened her not to disclose it to anyone, and accused had also promised that he would perform marriage with her. Learned counsel submits that as per the allegations, the prosecutrix turned pregnant, but the accused forced abortion of her pregnancy on 29.7.2016 in the clinic of Dr. Nisha Khurana, and thereafter, he continued to forcibly set up physical relations with her on the strength of her obscene videos prepared by him. As a result, the prosecutrix again turned pregnant and again the accused-opposite party no.2 requested for abortion and also threatened to kill her, if, she refuses for abortion. Broadly, on these allegations, the F.I.R. was registered for the alleged commission of offences punishable under Sections 376, 313, 506 I.P.C.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that after completion of investigation, the charge sheet was filed only against the accused-opposite party no.2, whereas other accused persons-his close relatives were exonerated. Learned counsel submits that after commencement of trial, the testimony of prosecutrix was recorded in the year 2020 and during her cross-examination, the accused had confronted her with a document-a letter in the handwriting of the prosecutrix, but she categorically denied the said document to be written by her. Learned counsel submits that once the prosecutrix had denied the said document set up by the accused-opposite party no.2, the trial court could not have ordered the examination of the handwriting of the said letter by an expert vide impugned order dated 23.10.2024 by accepting the application.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further argued that another application was moved by the prosecutrix-petitioner for conducting DNA test of the accused with the minor daughter of the prosecutrix alleged to be born as a result of forcible physical relations set up by him and the said application has been dismissed by the trial court vide impugned order dated 25.8.2022 on the ground that the investigating officer was not informed about such a test and the charge sheet filed against the accused is silent in this regard.

5. That apart, the application is dismissed on another ground that the trial has reached at an advanced stage. He submits that both these orders call for interference by this Court in exercise of inherent powers.

6. The prayer is opposed by learned counsel for the accused-opposite party no.2, who has argued that the trial court has rightly allowed the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. moved by the accused-opposite party no.2 as the accused has set up a defence that the letter written in the handwriting of the prosecutrix-petitioner to the accused would reveal her consent in setting up physical relations. He submits that the said letter is in the handwriting of the prosecutrix, and if, the said document which would have a direct bearing on the prosecution case, is not allowed to be analyzed by expert, it would result in prejudice to the accused. He prays that the petition challenging the impugned order dated 23.10.2024 be dismissed.

7. Learned counsel for the accused-opposite party no.2 has argued that the trial court vide order dated 25.8.2022 has given valid reasons while refusing DNA test as the request was made by the prosecutrix at a belated stage, therefore, the said order does not call for any interference by this Court.

8. However, learned counsel for the petitioner-prosecutrix does not press the revision petition challenging the impugned order dated 22.3.2021 dismissing her application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to summon the additional accused persons-opposite party nos.2 to 4.

9. The prayer for withdrawal of the revision petition seeking summoning of additional accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is not opposed by the learned counsel for the opposite party no.2.

10. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties and considering their submissions, this Court finds that merely because the prosecutrix had denied the handwriting in the subject letter to be in her handwriting when she was confronted during her cross-examination cannot be treated as a valid ground to deny the exercise of jurisdiction under Section 311 Cr.P.C. It is the case of the prosecutrix herself that she was allegedly raped on 27.9.2015 by use of force and subsequently also the accused exploited her resulting in her turning pregnant on two occasions. Though, according to prosecutrix, the first pregnancy was terminated, but the second pregnancy resulted in delivery of a child, therefore, if, the accused is making an attempt to rebut the prosecution evidence to prove consent by the prosecutrix, the examination of the handwriting in the subject letter by an expert would be a crucial piece of evidence for effective and proper adjudication. Even otherwise, if, the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. filed by the accused-opposite party no.2 is rejected, it would be amounting to depriving him of his right to fair trial. A perusal of the impugned order dated 23.10.2024 would show that the trial court has given valid reasons while accepting the application moved by the accused-opposite party no.2 under Section 311 Cr.P.C., therefore, the order dated 23.10.2024 does not call for any interference by this Court in exercise of inherent powers.

11.As far as the issue of conducting the DNA test of the accused-opposite party no.2 with the daughter delivered by the prosecutrix is concerned, the said report would also be a crucial piece of evidence having a direct bearing on the prosecution case, and the reasons given by the trial court that the trial has reached at an advanced stage or the investigating officer had not conducted the test, as a good ground to reject the prayer. Thus, the order dated 25.8.2022 is not sustainable.

12.As a result, the application filed by the petitioner-prosecutrix for comparison of DNA of the accused with the daughter of the prosecutrix is allowed and it is directed that the accused-opposite party no.2 shall give the requisite samples for the said purpose as and when directed by the trial court.

13.Resultnatly, the Application U/S 528 BNSS No. 12417 of 2025 is dismissed; the Application U/S 482 No. 42067 of 2022 stands allowed and the Revision Petition No. 1738 of 2021 is dismissed as withdrawn.

Issue for consideration

In the present case the woman died by hanging within three years of marriage. The victim's mother later moved an application to add a murder charge, which the trial court allowed mechanically without supporting medical or prima facie evidence on record. The applicants challenged this addition of charge.

Headnotes

State clarifies that addition of Section 302 IPC is not a mechanical mandate and requires independent evidentiary support-Court cannot alter or add charges in a routine manner without judicial application of mind and recording satisfaction-Impugned trial court order set aside.(Para 9 to 11)

Held

The court held that a charge under section 302 IPC should not be added automatically to every dowry death case unless independent supporting evidence or material is present on record. The court observed that the autopsy and statements from the medical examiner confirmed the cause of death as asphyxia resulting from hanging. The court allowed the application and remitted back to the Varanasi trial court to proceed with the trial expeditiously under existing charges. (E-6)

G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ali Hasan, learned counsel for the applicants, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. The present application under section 528 BNSS has been filed with a prayer to allow this application and quash the order dated 22.01.2026 passed by learned Additional District Judge, FTC-I, Varanasi in Sessions Trial No. 1275 of 2022 (State vs. Reyazuddin and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 268 of 2022 under sections 498-A, 304-B IPC and 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Lohta, District Varanasi.

3. In the instant matter, the Opposite Party No.2, Raziun lodged an FIR No. 0268 of 2022 dated 01.09.2022 under sections 498-A, 304-B IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act against the applicants alleging that his daughter Zahra, aged about 28 years, was married to Sultan (applicant no.2). The marriage was about three years old. Soon after the marriage, his daughter was constantly harassed for demand of dowry and all her jewellerys were sold and finally his son-in-law and his brother Babloo killed her by throttling her neck.

4. As per the post mortem report dated 01.09.2022, the immediate cause of death was asphyxia as a result of hanging, howsoever, viscera was preserved for chemical analysis and the following ante-mortem injuries were found:

(i) Ligature mark all around neck, 30 cm x 1-2 cm Hip of neck, obliquely placed with a gap of 9 cm over back of neck.

(ii) Ligature mark 20 cm below from top of head (upper end of ligature).

(iii) Ligature mark 04 cm below from Rt. Ear pinna, Ligature mark 03 cm below from Lt. Ear pinna, 05 cm above from sternum knoth.

(iv) Ligature mark 124 cm above from Rt. heel.

(v) Ligature mark in front of neck is 2 cm hence the total body length 146 cm.

(vi) Skin under ligature is parchmented, tissue underneath is ecchymosis.

5. After the investigation, the charge sheet was submitted under sections 498-A, 304-B IPC and 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act and after the committal, the charges were framed on 05.10.2023 against the applicants under sections 498-A, 304-B IPC and 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act.

6. On 16.10.2025, the opposite party no.2 moved an application for framing of the additional charge under section 302 IPC in the light of direction given by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajbir @ Raju and Another vs. State of Haryana (2010) 15 SCC 116.

7. Aggrieved by the said order, the applicants have preferred the present petition on the ground that the order impugned has been passed in a mechanical manner without application of mind and without recording the satisfaction whether the case under section 302 IPC is made out. It has further been stated that there is no evidence on record that it was a case of murder rather it is apparent that the deceased committed suicide after hanging which is corroborated with the medical evidence and the charges have already been framed under section 304B IPC.

8. Learned counsel for the applicants has further relied upon the decision rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in Jasvinder Saini and others vs. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi) 2013 (83) ACC 132 wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has emphasised that "Be that as it may the common thread running through both the orders is that this Court had in Rajbir's case (supra) directed the addition of a charge under Section 302 IPC to every case in which the accused are charged with Section 304-B. That was not, in our opinion, the true purport of the order passed by this Court. The direction was not meant to be followed mechanically and without due regard to the nature of the evidence available in the case. All that this Court meant to say was that in a case where a charge alleging dowry death is framed, a charge under Section 302 IPC can also be framed if the evidence otherwise permits. No other meaning could be deduced from the order of this Court."

9. In the case in hand and from perusal of records, it transpires that the deceased died within seven years of her marriage at her matrimonial home and the immediate cause of death was asphyxia due to hanging and the viscera was preserved, however, the chemical analysis report is not on record. The charges have been framed against the applicants under sections 498A, 304B IPC and section 3/4 D.P. Act. Thus, prima facie from perusal of evidence, there is no evidence or material on record to justify framing of a charge under section 302 IPC. It transpires that the order dated 22.01.2026 has been passed against spirit and tenor of the judgement rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in Jasvinder Saini's case. The doctor who conducted the autopsy in his statement recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C. has stated that "ligature mark was found and the immediate cause of death was Asphyxia as a result of hanging as the congestion was found in the abdomen, therefore, viscera was preserved." The application dated 16.10.2025 moved by mother of the deceased for framing of the additional charge under section 302 IPC does not disclose any reasoning or justification for invoking section 302 IPC except in the light of Rajbir's Case directives. The charge framed under section 304B IPC is neither defective nor any other evidence is available for the alteration of the charge.

10. Accordingly, keeping in view the observation made by Hon'ble Apex Court in Jasvinder Saini's case (supra), the order dated 22.01.2026 passed by learned Additional District Judge, FTC-I, Varanasi is hereby set aside and the matter is remitted back to the Court concerned to conclude the trial expeditiously in accordance with law after giving opportunity of hearing to both the parties.

11. With the aforesaid observation, the application under section 528 BNSS is allowed.

In the present case, the informant lodged an FIR alleging that the accused persons shared anti-national and objectionable Facebook posts containing derogatory remarks against the Prime Minister of India and RSS.

Held

The court held that the allegations in the FIR were supported by material collected during investigation and disclosed prima facie case. At the stage of cognizance and summoning, the court is only required to ascertain whether sufficient grounds exist for proceeding and not whether the accused are likely to be convicted. Since the pleas of false implication and innocence involved disputed questions of fact requiring trial, no case for exercise of inherent powers under section 528 BNSS was made out. (E-6)

G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Deepak Kumar Singh, learned counsel for applicants and learned AGA for State.

2. Present application has been preferred with prayer to quash entire proceeding of Criminal Case no. 12299 of 2025 (State vs. Sabbir Ansari and others) arising out of Case Crime no. 78 of 2025 under sections 353(2), 196(1)(a), 3(5), 352 and 351(2) of BNS, PS- Anapara, District Sonbhadra and also quash charge sheet dated 13.5.2025 as well as cognizance/summoning order dated 15.11.2025 passed by learned Additional Civil Judge (J.D.) Court No. 3, Sonbhadra.

3. Brief facts of the case are that opposite party no. 2/informant lodged FIR bearing Case Crime no. 78 of 2025 under sections 353(2), 196(1)(a) and 3(5) of BNS against applicants and another co-accused alleging therein that applicants have posted anti-national posts along with objectionable post against Prime Minister of India with derogatory remarks. The posts are alleged to be shared/circulate from Facebook ID of a Pakistani Youtuber. The Facebook account of accused persons shows that almost every post are anti-national, against Prime Minister of India and Rashtriya Swayamsewak Sangh(RSS).

4. After conducting detailed investigation, charge sheet submitted against the applicants on dated 13.5.2025, whereupon cognizance of offence has been taken up vide impugned order dated 15.11.2025 passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sonbhadra.

5. Learned counsel for applicants contended that from perusal of FIR and Case Diary, no specific date and time of alleged incident has been mentioned. Informant has lodged the present FIR only with mala fide intention and ulterior motive. Allegations made in the FIR are vague and without substantial evidence and the FIR is a result of malicious intent to harass the applicants. Without looking into the facts and circumstances of the case, learned Magistrate concerned has passed the order impugned in a mechanical manner without application of judicial mind which is illegal, unjust and against the principles of law and as such entire proceeding initiated against the applicants are liable to be quashed and set aside, since basically allegation has been fastened only on the basis of a post on Facebook.

6. Per contra, learned AGA vehemently opposed the prayer sought through instant application and submitted that entire arguments raised at the behest of applicants are subject matter of trial which involves appreciation of evidence and the same cannot be adjudicated at this stage, hence no interference is required.

7. After hearing rival submissions extended by learned counsels for the parties and perusing the records, this Court notes that Social Media has caught the imagination of People. People express their views on the social networking site. They now access social media through various application and devices. People invariably post information and express their opinion freely and openly on the Social Media. However sometimes the line is crossed when such information is posted without understanding the consequence of such instances. One way, if we consider life has become very easy and easily accessible where people can get together and express their views on certain issues. It is one way very good where the views of the people are known to everyone. But sometimes the Social Media is misused where people post such comments which hurts the feelings of others and triggers disharmony on a large scale.

8. The Information technology Act, 2000, categorically makes one liable on any illegal content posted on Social Media. Section 66(A) of Information Technology Act, 2000 defines the punishment for sending 'offensive' messages through a computer or any other device like a mobile phone or a tablet. However the Supreme Court declared Section 66(A) of Information and Technology Act, 2000 as unconstitutional. It has observed that the section has been widely misused. It laid down that it actually amounts to restraining citizens to exchange their views. This section has been misused by the police in various states to arrest innocent persons for posting critical comments about social and political issues and political leaders on social networking sites. The Court had said such a law hit at the root of the liberty and freedom of expression, the two cardinal pillars of Democracy. It said that it hit and went against the freedom of speech and expression which has been enshrined in the Constitution. The Court however upheld the validity of Section 69(B) of the Act of 2000 and the 2011 guidelines for the implementation of the Information and Technology Act, that allowed the Government to block websites, if their content had the potential to create communal disturbance, social disorder or affect India's relationship with other countries.

9. The Supreme Court delivered the above judgement on the bunch of petition filed over the misuse of the Penal provisions by the Government authority. A Public Interest Litigation was filed by a Delhi student, Ms. Shreya Singhal taking into account the law, it was held that the phrase of the section 66(A) of the Information Technology Act, 2000 is so wide and vague and incapable of being so judged objectively. It also stands unconstitutional to some extent as it falls against the article 14, 19(1)(a) and 21 of the Constitution.

10. Social Media is actually to express the views and opinions about any issues. Such rights should not be misused or overused. It is a duty or responsibility of every individual towards the society before posting anything in such social networking sites. In 2012, one of the early cases of misuse of Social Media came to the Government's attention, when morphed pictures and videos of earthquake victims began to go viral on the Social Media. Miscreants were morphing these images to show that these women were Muslim victims of civil riots in Assam and Burma. This was done to provoke further riots by vested interest and it did bring a reaction.

11. Another drawback of the Social Media is the evolution of adult videos or porn videos which are so easily accessible by minors, which is resulting in the changing behaviour of the society. Accessing the internet has become so easy these days that it is difficult to draw the line of restriction.

12. Section 196(1)(a) of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS), 2023 which replaced Section 153A of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) is attracted to a Facebook post when the content deliberately promotes enmity, hatred, or ill-will between different groups based on religion, race, place of birth, residence, language, caste, or community. Under this section, a post can lead to a cognizable offence (meaning police can register an FIR and arrest without a warrant), if it disrupts public harmony.

13. The key aspects attracting Section 196(1)(a) BNS are as under:

a. Intent (Mens Rea): The post must show a clear, deliberate intention to create disharmony, not just a vague statement.

b. Targeting Groups: The content must target a specific group (caste, religion, community), rather than merely criticizing a policy or Government.

c. Impact: The post is deemed likely to provoke breach of peace or cause enmity between communities.

Examples of Prohibited Content: Mocking a community using derogatory terms, promoting hatred based on religion, or attempting to cause violent conflict between groups.

Reasonable Person Test: The court assesses whether a "reasonable, strong-minded, firm and courageous" person would be swayed by the post to commit disorder, rather than focusing on a "weak and vacillating mind"

14. Through the post initiated by the applicant over Facebook amounted to a ?deliberate and malicious attempt? to outrage religious feelings. ?...on the face of it, the conduct of the applicant in depicting the Rashtriya Swayamsewak Sangh(RSS), which is a organization rendering its services to the various sections of society with its allied organization for last 100 years, along with the Prime Minister of this country who is indirectly elected by the majority of citizen of our country who invoked their right to vote for a particular political party.

15. The allegations fastened upon the applicants are corroborated with the evidence collected during investigation prima facie up to the satisfaction of learned Court concerned to take cognizance of offence in pursuance to Section 3(5), 196(1)(a), 351(2), 352 & 353(2) of BNS. This Court is of the opinion that at the stage of summoning, the Magistrate is only required to record a prima facie opinion, based on the material on record, and is not expected to hold a mini trial or to examine the defence of the accused. In judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in case of S.W. Palanitkar and Others v. State of Bihar and Another; (2002) 1 SCC 241 it was held that the test which was required to be applied was whether there is "sufficient ground for proceeding" and not whether there is "sufficient ground for conviction". In the case of Nupur Talwar v. Central Bureau of Investigation and Another; (2012) 11 SCC 465, it was reiterated that the limited purpose of consideration of material at the stage of issuing process being tentative as distinguished from the actual evidence produced during trial, the test to be applied at the stage was whether the material placed before the Magistrate was "sufficient for proceeding against the accused" and not "sufficient to prove and establish the guilt".

16. From perusal of the material on record, at this stage, it cannot be said that no offence is made out against the applicants. The assertions of false implication raised by the applicants are factual issues that requires proper adjudication by the trial court based on evidence and cannot be conclusively determined in proceedings under Section 528 BNSS. In proceeding u/s 528 BNSS, this Court is not inclined to hold mini-trial.

17. It is well settled that the inherent powers under Section 528 BNSS are to be exercised sparingly and with caution, primarily to prevent abuse of the process of the court or to secure the ends of justice. In the instant case, no sufficient ground have been made out to invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Section 528 BNSS. There is hardly any infirmity in the order dated 15.11.2025 passed by learned Court of Additional Civil Judge (J.D.) Court No. 3, Sonbhadra and as such no case of seeking interface by this Court is made out by learned counsel for applicants.

Criminal Breach of trust, Cheating, Grand Venice Project, Clubbing of FIRs, Parent FIR, Composite charge sheet, Vicarious liability of Directors, Prima facie case, Factual adjudication at Trial, Cancellation of bail, Commercial transaction.

1. Heard Sri Manish Tiwary, learned Senior Counsel for the applicants assisted by Sri Shivam Yadav, Sri Pranay Sharma, Sri Aditya Yadav and Sri I.K. Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel, Sri Pankaj Kumar Shukla learned counsel for the Opposite Party No. 2, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the materials available on record.

2. The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed with the prayer to quash the entire proceedings of Case No. 1559 of 2019 (State v. Satinder Singh Bhasin) arising out of Case Crime No. 353 of 2015, under Sections 406 and 420 I.P.C., Police Station Kasna, District Gautam Budh Nagar, pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate - II, Gautam Budh Nagar.

3. Brief fact of the present is that an FIR was lodged against the applicant - Satinder Singh Bhasin and one another for the offences punishable under Sections 406 and 420 of IPC, which was registered as Case Crime No. 353 of 2015. Investigating Officer, after thorough investigation, submitted a final report on 30.11.2016. Against the said final report, a protest petition was filed on 13.03.2017. Thereafter, Investigating Officer has submitted a charge sheet in the present case on 17.02.2019. In the present case, various FIRs were lodged against the present applicant and other persons with the allegations of large scale misappropriation of fund and cheating with regard to Grand Venice. Apart from the FIR No. 353 of 2015, Forty one (41) FIRs were lodged in the various districts of Uttar Pradesh and five (5) FIRs were lodged in New Delhi with the identical allegations. In the present case, Hon'ble Supreme Court, vide order dated 12.05.2022, has directed for clubbing of all FIRs i.e. Forty Six (46) and also directed to the Investigating Officer to submit a composite charge sheet. In compliance of order of Hon'ble Supreme Court, a composite charge sheet was submitted on 23.12.2022 under sections 420, 406 and 120 - B of IPC. Thereafter, a further supplementary charge-sheet was also submitted on 10.04.2025.

4. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicant vehemently submitted that the dispute between the parties is essentially civil in nature arising out of a commercial transaction. The allegations, even if taken at their face value, do not disclose the essential ingredients of offences punishable under Sections 406 and 420 I.P.C. It is submitted that there is no entrustment nor dishonest intention from the inception, which are sine qua non for constituting the said offences. It is further submitted that the project is ready and allotment has been handed over to various buyers.

5. Learned Senior Counsel has vehemently submitted that for fastening vicarious liability upon a Director or office bearers of a company, the company itself must be arraigned as an accused. It is further submitted that in the absence of the company being impleaded as a party, prosecution against its Directors or officers alone is not maintainable. It is further submitted that the vicarious liability in criminal law cannot be fastened upon a Director or officers of a company in the absence of specific allegations demonstrating their active role in the commission of the offence. It is further submitted that merely holding a position in the company is not sufficient to attract criminal liability unless there are clear and unambiguous averments indicating personal involvement.

6. It is further submitted that in the present case, the Investigating Officer after due investigation, has submitted the final report on 30.11.2016. Against the said final report, a protest petition was filed by the opposite party no. 2 on 13.03.2017. He further submitted that without passing any judicial order either accepting the final report or treating the protest petition as a complaint case, the learned Magistrate proceeded to direct further investigation. Pursuant thereto, a supplementary charge-sheet under Section 406 I.P.C. has been submitted. Learned counsel for the applicants has vehemently contended that the entire proceedings are vitiated in law. In absence of such order, the direction for submission of supplementary charge-sheet is wholly without jurisdiction.

7. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicants has vehemently submitted that parallel civil proceedings bearing Original Suit No. 448 of 2017 is pending in the court of Senior Civil Judge, Patiala House Courts, New Delhi. It is further submitted that insolvency proceedings is also pending before the National Company Law Tribunal. It is vehemently submitted that in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case, where appropriate civil proceedings are pending, present criminal proceedings is liable to be quashed. In support of their contentions, learned Senior Counsel for the applicants has placed reliance upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of G. Sagar Suri vs State of U.P. (2000) 2 SCC 636, S.K. Alag v. State of U.P. and Others (2008) 5 SCC 662 and Aneeta Hada Vs. Godfather Travels and Tours Private Limited (2012) 5 SCC 661.

8. Learned Senior Counsel appeared on behalf of opposite party no. 2 has opposed the submissions advanced by the learned Senior Counsel for the applicants. It is further submitted that the present case is very distinct in nature. It is further submitted that the FIR No. 353 of 2015 relates to the non-payment of rent for the use of shuttering material but the remaining FIRs, that are forty six (46), primarily relates with large scale fraud involving misappropriation of money and land. It is further submitted that the applicants, in connivance with others, induced a large number of innocent buyers to invest money in a project 'Grand Venice' and collected huge amounts running into crores of rupees, but failed to deliver the promised property, thereby causing wrongful loss to the investors and wrongful gain to himself. It is further submitted that if the present FIR No. 353 of 2015 is quashed by this Hon'ble Court, the remaining FIR would also be quashed. It is further submitted that in the interest of public at large, the present matter must be tried by Trial Court concerned.

9. It is further submitted that on the perusal of FIR and statements recorded under Section 161 of Cr.P.C., prima facie offence has been made out against the applicants. It is further submitted that the scope of inherent power of Hon'ble High Court is very restricted with regard to the quashing of Criminal Proceedings when the material available on record, prima facie, discloses the commission of offence. It is further submitted that pleas raised by the learned counsel for the applicants involve the factual questions, which can be adjudicated at the stage of trial.

10. It is further submitted that by Learned Senior Counsel for the opposite party no.2 that the Hon'ble Supreme Court, vide order dated 12.05.2022, has directed that Case Crime No. 353 of 2015 shall be treated as the parent FIR and all other 46 FIRs be clubbed with it. In compliance thereof, a composite charge-sheet has been filed and the proceedings are continuing in accordance with law. It is further submitted that in view of the said order, the challenge to the parent FIR would have far-reaching consequences, affecting not only the present case but also numerous connected FIRs, thereby prejudicing the rights of a large number of victims. It is further submitted that the material collected during investigation clearly discloses a prima facie case against the applicants and, therefore, the matter requires adjudication on evidence during trial. It is further submitted that proceedings by the Enforcement Directorate have been initiated, which further indicates the seriousness and magnitude of the alleged offence.

11. Learned Senior Counsel for the opposite party no.2 has submitted that the applicants in collusion with co-accused has fabricated and forged allotment letter dated 15.4.2015, wherein a GST Number was mentioned despite the fact that the GST was implemented on 01.07.2017. The conduct of applicants clearly shows that they have dishonest intention from the inception of the transaction. It is further submitted that the applicants and other co-accused were enlarged on bail by Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 6.11.2019. It is further submitted that the bail of the applicants and other co-accused has been cancelled by Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 02.04.2026 for not complying with the conditions of bail. It is further submitted that the conduct of the applicants clearly shows that they are not complying the order of Hon'ble Supreme Court.

12. At the outset, it is necessary to reiterate the settled legal position governing the exercise of inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 has exhaustively laid down the categories of cases wherein the High Court may exercise its inherent jurisdiction to quash criminal proceedings. However, it has been equally emphasized that such power is to be exercised sparingly and with great caution. Further, in M/s Neeharika Infrastructure Private Limited v. State of Maharashtra, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 315, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has categorically held that while exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the High Court should not embark upon an enquiry into the reliability or genuineness of the allegations and should refrain from interfering at the stage of investigation or when a prima facie case is disclosed. Guided by the aforesaid principles, this Court proceeds to examine the contentions raised by the applicants.

13. On perusal of records, it appears that in the present matter, an FIR was lodged against the applicants, namely Satinder Singh Bhasin, and another under Sections 406 and 420 IPC, registered as Case Crime No. 353 of 2015. It transpires that multiple FIRs were lodged against the present applicants and other co-accused persons in connection with alleged large-scale misappropriation of funds and cheating relating to the "Grand Venice" project. In all, 41 FIRs were registered in various districts of Uttar Pradesh and 5 FIRs were lodged in New Delhi on similar allegations. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, vide order dated 12.05.2022, directed that all the aforesaid 46 FIRs be clubbed together and further directed that Case Crime No. 353 of 2015 shall be treated as the parent FIR. It was also directed that a composite charge-sheet be submitted. It transpires that FIR No. 353 of 2015 is related to non-payment of money for the shuttering material supplied but other 46 FIRs are related to serious allegations of the misappropriation of the money and land. On the perusal of records, it is evident that only some documents are available on record with regard to other FIRs.

14. The submission advanced by the learned Senior Counsel with regard to the absence of specific allegations against the applicants has also been considered. However, the Court has also clarified that where material on record discloses prima facie involvement, the matter must proceed to trial. In the present case, whether the applicants had any active role or mens rea is a matter which requires evidence and cannot be conclusively determined at this stage.

15. The argument that the dispute is purely of civil nature does not persuade this Court at this stage. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in P. Swaroopa Rani vs. M. Hari Narayana Alias Hari Babu, (2008) 5 SCC 765 has held as under:-

"11. It is, however, well settled that in a given case, civil proceedings and criminal proceedings can proceed simultaneously. Whether civil proceedings or criminal proceedings shall be stayed depends upon the fact and circumstances of each case. (See M.S. Sheriff v. State of Madras [AIR 1954 SC 397] , Iqbal Singh Marwah v. Meenakshi Marwah [(2005) 4 SCC 370 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1101] and Institute of Chartered Accountants of India v. Assn. of Chartered Certified Accountants [(2005) 12 SCC 226 : (2006) 1 SCC (Cri) 544] "

On the perusal of the above mentioned judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court, it is evident that if a dispute gives rise to civil liability, it does not mean that criminal proceedings are not maintainable if the allegations disclose the ingredients of a criminal offence. It is also evident that the presence of a civil dispute does not bar criminal prosecution where allegations of fraud, cheating or dishonest intention are made out. In the present case, the allegations prima facie disclose inducement of a large number of persons and alleged misappropriation of funds, which cannot be brushed aside as a mere breach of contract.

16. This Court finds that it is not in dispute that the applicants were granted bail by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on 06.11.2019 and the same has subsequently been cancelled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 02.04.2026 due to non-compliance of the conditions of bail. It is also evident that the co ordinate bench of this court has granted the interim protection to the applicants in the present case, but the applicants did not disclose the fact that a charge sheet has already been submitted on 23.12.2022. The cancellation of bail by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on account of violation of conditions and the concealment of fact of submission of the charge sheet while obtaining the order dated 27.04.2023 are significant circumstances, which reflect upon the conduct of the applicants.

17. This Court has given thoughtful consideration to the submission advanced by the learned Senior Counsel for the opposite parties that the present case has been treated as the parent FIR pursuant to the directions issued by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. It is not in dispute that by virtue of the order passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, all the connected FIRs, arising out of identical and similar allegations, have been directed to be clubbed with the present FIR and a composite charge-sheet has also been submitted. Thus, the present FIR has assumed a central and pivotal position in the entire set of proceedings. In such circumstances, any interference with the parent FIR at this stage cannot be viewed in isolation. Quashing of the said FIR would inevitably have a cascading and far-reaching effect on all the connected FIRs, which have been consolidated pursuant to the directions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court. The consequence of such interference would be that the entire framework of investigation and prosecution, as structured under the directions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, may stand seriously affected. This would not only disrupt the course of trial but may also lead to multiplicity of proceedings and legal complications in respect of the connected matters. More importantly, the allegations in the present case pertain to large-scale financial irregularities and cheating affecting a substantial number of investors/victims. Therefore, any premature interference with the parent FIR would have the effect of prejudicing the rights and interests of a large number of victims, whose grievances are sought to be addressed through the consolidated proceedings.

18. In view of the aforesaid discussions, this Court does not find any good ground to exercise its inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to quash the impugned proceedings.

19. Accordingly, the present application is dismissed.

20. Application pending, if any, stands disposed of.

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to an application u/s 482 CrPC seeking the quashing of a summoning order issued in a criminal complaint case u/s 406 IPC for the offence of criminal breach of trust.

Headnotes

A. Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 406-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 482-Quashing of proceedings-Summoning order challenged-Matrimonial discord between families leading to financial transactions-Allegation of non-return of money advanced for purchasing a plot-Transaction held to be a civil loan rather than criminal breach of trust-Summoning order quashed for non-application of judicial mind-Application allowed. (Para 7 to 23)

Held

The court held that a financial transaction where money is voluntarily advanced to a relative for purchasing a plot constitutes a civil loan(lending) rather than an entrustment of property under criminal law. A mere breach of contract or failure to repay the debt cannot be criminalized u/s 406 IPC in the complete absence of a dishonest intention or mens rea at inception. Thus, the summoning order quashed. (Delivered by Hon'ble Achal Sachdev, J.)

1. The case has been taken up on mention slip given by Sri Dhruva Dixit, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2.

2. Heard Sri Vikrant Neeraj, learned counsel for the applicants and learned A.G.A. for the State.

3. However, the learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 is not present at the time of hearing.

4. The present application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been preferred by the applicants with a prayer to quash the summoning order dated 10.07.2019 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Room No. 4, Aligarh in Complaint Case No. 629 of 2017 (Suresh Chandra Vs. Amar Singh and Ors.) u/s 406 I.P.C., Police Station- Quarsi, District- Aligarh.

5. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that the applicants have been wrongly roped in, in the criminal case just to harass them. Fact of the matter is that the daughter of applicant no.1 and sister of applicant no. 2 was married to son of opposite party no. 2 on 28.11.2014. The applicants had given gifts as per their status and daughter of applicant no. 1 went to her in-laws house (sasural) and discharged her duties to the best of her abilities but opposite party no. 2, his son and his wife were not satisfied with the gifts provided at the time of marriage of their son and were making additional dowry demand from the applicants that were beyond the financial capabilities of applicant no. 1 and on being annoyed due to non-fulfillment of additional dowry demand, they treated the daughter of applicant no. 1 with cruelty and forced her out of her in-laws house (sasural) and from then onwards, she is being residing with the applicant no. 1.

6. The complainant in his complaint has stated that on 30.07.2017, the father of his daughter-in-law, Praveen, and her uncle came to the house of the complainant and told him that they should send her daughter-in-law, Praveen along with them as her mother was running unwell. It is also stated that they were short of Rs.1,00,000/- in buying a plot and asked for money and the same was provided by the complainant to the opposite party no.1 (applicant no. 1 herein). At the most, it can be said that applicant no. 1 had borrowed a sum of money from the complainant as he was running short of finances for purpose of buying a plot and the same was provided by the complainant to the opposite party no.1 (applicant no. 1 herein) to buy a plot.

7. The question arises whether giving of money for buying a plot to a person in relation can be termed as entrustment of property. The court distinction between □entrustment of property□ and □lending□ hinges on the transfer of ownership and the purpose of transfer and the resulting liability. □Entrustment□ and □lending□ both involve one person handing property to another but the underlying intent and legal consequences are entirely different. Entrustment occurs when a property is handed to other person for specific purpose or service with the clear expectation that the property or its result will be returned or handled according to instructions. Lending is a broader category where property is delivered to another person for their own use either for a said period or a specific cause after which it may be returned and if the person misappropriates the item that has been entrusted to him, it may be treated as criminal breach of trust but lending is generally governed by law of bailment and if the borrower fails to return it, it is usually a civil matter (breach of contract) unless there is a clear evidence of theft.

8. As per Black's Law Dictionary, the definition of both the terms, being, "entrustment" and "lending" are as under :-

Entrustment : To give (a person) the responsibility for something, usually after establishing a confidential relationship.

Lending : To allow the temporary use of (something), sometimes in exchange for compensation, on condition that the thing or its equivalent be returned.

9. In the context of Section 406 I.P.C., proceedings may be quashed if the complaint or F.I.R., even if taken at face value, does not disclose the essential ingredients of the offence. A clear absence of allegations regarding entrustment or dishonest misappropriation can be a ground for quashing. The Supreme Court in Anand Kumar Mohatta (S) v. State (Govt. Of NCT Of Delhi), emphasized the need to ascertain if the facts make out an offence under Section 406 I.P.C.

10. The punishment for an offence under Section 406 I.P.C. is imprisonment which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both. Consequently, as per Section 468(2)(c) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Cr.P.C.), the period of limitation for taking cognizance of such an offence is three years. The commencement of the limitation period can be contentious, particularly in cases involving commercial transactions where it might be argued to commence from the date of demand and refusal. Section 406 I.P.C. is generally not considered a continuing offence. However, Section 473 Cr.P.C. empowers a court to take cognizance of an offence after the expiry of the period of limitation if it is satisfied on the facts and in the circumstances of the case that the delay has been properly explained or that it is necessary so to do in the interests of justice.

11. Section 406 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (I.P.C.) prescribes the punishment for the offence of criminal breach of trust. This provision plays a crucial role in upholding fiduciary relationships and ensuring accountability for the misappropriation of property entrusted to another. Criminal breach of trust, as defined in Section 405 of the I.P.C., is a nuanced offence, requiring a careful examination of the elements of entrustment, dishonest misappropriation, and the violation of legal or contractual duties. Section 406 I.P.C. is intrinsically linked to Section 405 I.P.C., as the former provides punishment for the offence defined by the latter.

12. For the sake of convenience, Section 405 I.P.C. is being reproduced hereinbelow :

405. Criminal breach of trust - Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property, or with any dominion over property, dishonestly misappropriates or converts to his own use that property, or dishonestly uses or disposes of that property in violation of any direction of law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or of any legal contract, express or implied, which he has made touching the discharge of such trust, or wilfully suffers any other person so to do, commits criminal breach of trust.

This definition is further elucidated by two explanations, which create deeming fictions in specific employer-employee contexts.

Explanation 1 pertains to deductions made by an employer from an employee's wages for contribution to a Provident Fund or Family Pension Fund. If the employer defaults in remitting such contributions, they are deemed to have been entrusted with the amount and to have dishonestly used it.

Similarly, Explanation 2 addresses deductions for the Employees' State Insurance Fund, with a similar deeming provision for default in payment.

13. For a conviction under Section 406 I.P.C., the prosecution must prove the commission of criminal breach of trust as defined in Section 405 I.P.C. In Binod Kumar and Others v. State Of Bihar and Another, (2014) 10 SCC 663, the Supreme Court reiterated that the prosecution must prove:

(i) entrustment with property or dominion over it ; and

(ii) dishonest misappropriation, conversion, use, or disposal of that property in violation of law or legal contract.

14. The cornerstone of criminal breach of trust is 'entrustment'. The expression "entrusted" as used in Section 405 I.P.C. is not a term of art with a narrow technical meaning. Entrustment implies that the accused had voluntarily handed over property for a specific purpose, creating a relationship of trust and confidence.

15. At this stage, it is crucial to distinguish entrustment from other transactions. For instance, a mere transaction of sale does not amount to entrustment. Similarly, the Supreme Court in Indian Oil Corporation Vs. Nepe India Ltd. And Others, 2006 (6) SCC 736, held that hypothecation of goods as security for a debt does not constitute "entrustment" as required under Section 405 I.P.C., because ownership and possession (subject to the hypothecatee's rights) remain with the debtor. The absence of a clear allegation or proof of entrustment is fatal to a prosecution under Section 406 I.P.C., as highlighted in cases like Pradeep Kumar Alias Pradeep Kumar Verma Vs. State Of Bihar and Another, 2007 (7) SCC 413 and Arti And 3 Others Vs. State of U.P. and Another, Neutral Citation No. - 2024:AHC:152597. In K. Sampath Kumar Vs. State, where a contractor purchased cement, it was argued that there was no entrustment, leading to an alteration of the charge from Section 406 to Section 403 I.P.C. (dishonest misappropriation of property).

16. The second critical element is the "dishonest misappropriation or conversion" of the entrusted property. "Dishonestly" is defined in Section 24 I.P.C. as doing anything with the intention of causing wrongful gain to one person or wrongful loss to another. This implies a deliberate act of using the property for a purpose other than that for which it was entrusted, or converting it to the accused's own use.

17. The Apex Court in Anand Kumar Mohatta (supra) has held that the dishonest misappropriation or use must be "in violation of any direction of law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or of any legal contract, express or implied, which he has made touching the discharge of such trust."

18. This means the accused's actions must contravene either a statutory duty or a contractual term (whether express or implied) governing how the entrusted property was to be handled. This element underscores the fiduciary nature of the relationship and the breach of the specific terms of that trust.

19. Mens rea, specifically a "dishonest intention," is the lynchpin of the offence of criminal breach of trust. A mere failure to return property or a simple breach of contract does not automatically translate into a criminal breach of trust. The prosecution must establish that the accused acted with a dishonest mind. The Supreme Court in Indian Oil Corporation (supra) emphasized the distinction between a civil wrong (breach of contract) and a criminal offence, noting that criminal liability arises when elements like fraudulent or dishonest intention are present. The lack of dishonest intention can lead to the quashing of proceedings under Section 406 I.P.C. Dishonest intention is the sine qua non of the offence of criminal breach of trust. Mere failure to account for money does not constitute criminal breach of trust. The prosecution must establish that the accused dishonestly misappropriated or converted the property. A mere civil liability to pay does not attract Section 406 I.P.C. as held by the Apex Court in Velji Raghavji Mehta Vs. State of Maharashtra, (AIR 1965 SC 1433).

20. The Delhi Race Club case [Delhi Race Club (1940) Ltd. Vs. State of U.P. and Anr., (2024) 10 SCC 690], is a recent Supreme Court precedent emphasizing that commercial disputes should not be criminalized unless clear evidence of dishonest intention exists. It is now a strong authority for quashing criminal complaints in business debt recovery matters.

21. In the present complaint, it appears that a sum of money had been lent by the complainant to the opposite party no. 1 (applicant no. 1 herein) for buying a plot as he was running short of amount to enable him to purchase the property. There were no clear instructions as to how the money has to be used for a specific purpose. There is clear admission on the part of the complainant that the money had been provided to the opposite party no. 1 (applicant no. 1 herein) to enable him to purchase the plot.

22. The trial court has clearly ignored this aspect of law and the summoning order dated 10.07.2019 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Room No. 4, Aligarh in Complaint Case No. 629 of 2017 (Suresh Chandra Vs. Amar Singh and Ors.) u/s 406 I.P.C., Police Station- Quarsi, District- Aligarh, suffers from non-application of judicial mind and is unsustainable and is hereby quashed.

23. The present application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. is accordingly, allowed.

Issue for consideration

The matter arises from a double-murder trial where a material prosecution witness (the father of the deceased victim) supported the case in his examination-in-chief but completely retracted his testimony during cross-examination. Three years later, the victim's mother sought to recall and re-examine him u/s 311 CrPC, claiming his retraction was forced by threats.

Headnotes

A. Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (BNSS 2023)-Section 482/528, Section 311-Recall/Re-examination of witness-Scope of power- Filling up of lacuna-Belated applicaiton-Prayer to recall and re-examine a material prosecution witness(PW-3)-Witness supported the prosecution in examination-in-chief but completely resiled and retracted in cross-examination-recall application moved by the mother after a belated gap of more than three years from cross-examination alleging that the witness had resiled under threat-Power u/s 311 CrPC is highly discretionary, it must be exercised judicially-It cannot be invoked at a belated stage to fill up a lacuna in the prosecution case-Allegations of threat and coercion remained completely unsubstantiated as no date, time or particulars of incidents were disclosed-Order of the Trial Court rejecting the recall application upheld.(Para 10 to 16)

Held

The court ruled that the power u/s 311 CrPC cannot be invoked at a belated stage of more than three years to fill up a lacuna in the prosecution case. Unsubstantiated and delayed allegations of threat and coercion cannot be accepted as valid ground for recalling a witness when no timely complaint was ever made to the police or the court. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Saksham Srivastava, learned counsel for the applicant, learned AGA-I Shri Ratan Singh for the State and perused the record.

2. The present application under section 528 BNSS has been filed with a prayer to set aside the order dated 10.11.2025 passed by the Court of learned Additional District and Sessions Judge (4th), District Gautam Budh Nagar in Session Trial No. 50 of 2020 (State Vs. Sukhmeet and Others) in Case Crime No. 1310 of 2019 under sections 302 and 201 IPC, Police Station Surajpur, District Gautam Budh Nagar, pending before the concerned Court, whereby the learned Court has rejected the application moved by the applicant under section 311 Cr.P.C in a very routine and mechanical manner which is being annexed as Annexure No.2 to this present application, and to further direct the Court of learned Additional District and Sessions Judge (4th) District Gautam Budh Nagar to allow the P.W.-3 i.e., to be re-examined during the pendency of the aforesaid Session Trial.

3. To narrate the brief facts, the applicant Ramvati is the mother of the deceased Rahul who moved an application dated 14.08.2025 (38Kha) under section 311 Cr.P.C. praying for the re-examination of P.W.-3, Rishipal Singh (Father of the deceased).

4. In the instant matter, an FIR No. 1310 of 2019 was lodged on 03.09.2019 at 14:28 under sections 302, 201 I.P.C. by one Shri Harendra Singh at Police Station Surajpur, District Gautam Budh Nagar against unknown persons stating that two dead bodies were found lying in the jungle at village Jumpat in the field of Jagat Singh, near the service road. Both the deceased appeared to have been fire shot and thrown away in the field. During investigation, it was found that one of the deceased was son of the applicant namely Rahul and the other was Kuldeep Nagar, s/o Hari Narayan Singh. After the investigation, the charge sheet was submitted against the respondent-accused Nos. 2 to 4, namely, Sukhmeet, Yogesh alias Bachhi and Saurabh Rana.

5. During trial, the examination-in-chief of P.W.-3, Rishipal (father of the deceased Rahul) was recorded on 23.09.2021 and cross-examination was recorded on 28.07.2022.

6. The prosecution witness No.3, Rishipal, in his examination-in-chief supported the prosecution case but in his cross-examination, did not support the prosecution case and had retracted and resiled from his previous testimony. The said witness was not declared hostile and was not re-examined.

7. Thereafter, on 14.8.2025, the applicant moved an application under section 311 Cr.P.C. (38-kha) for recalling the prosecution witness, P.W.-3 Rishipal and to re-examine him on certain grounds as her husband, Rishipal did not swear the evidence out of his own free will and volition and had deposed under the coercion and threat meted out to him by local villagers who had close affinity with the accused persons and the accused persons posed a threat by going to the extent of eliminating him. An affidavit dated 06.10.2025 43-kha supporting the said application sworn by P.W.-3, Rishipal was filed after a gap of about 50 days affirming the facts mentioned in the application.

8. The learned Trial Court, after hearing the counsel for the applicant and the counsel for the accused rejected the application vide order impugned dated 10.11.2025 on the ground that P.W.-3, in his examination-in-chief dated 23.09.2021, had fully supported the prosecution case and due to paucity of time, the said witness was cross-examined on 28.07.2022 who retracted in his cross-examination and did not support the prosecution case and further deposed that he had given his testimony without any fear or coercion and was true and correct.

9. Per contra, learned State Counsel has opposed the aforesaid facts.

10. Upon having heard the learned counsel appearing for the parties and having gone through the material on record, it transpires that though the said witness in his cross-examination had completely resiled from the evidence adduced by him during his examination-in-chief but was not declared hostile by the prosecution and was neither re-examined. After a gap of about 3 years, the applicant moved an application under section 311 Cr.P.C for the re-examination of P.W.-3 to fulfil the lacuna and to make improvements. The trial is still at the stage of evidence, eight prosecution witnesses have been examined and no evidence under section 313 Cr.P.C. has been recorded.

11. It has been noticed that previously on 05.10.2023, the applicant moved an application under section 311 Cr.P.C. for re-examining P.W.-3 but no fact was disclosed that P.W.-3 was under threat perception or coercion and the said application was not moved by the public prosecutor but was moved under the signature of the private counsel and no signature of the prosecution witness or the first informant was found and the same was rejected.

12. Subsequently, applicant moved another application dated 14.08.2025 (38kha) through Assistant Public Prosecutor wherein the parties have been heard and impugned order has been passed rejecting the application on merit.

13. In the backdrop of aforesaid facts, it can be said that the application (38-kha) has been moved by the applicant, Smt. Ramwati (mother of deceased, Rahul) who is neither the first informant nor an eye witness nor has been examined as a prosecution witness. The P.W.-3, Rishipal (father of the deceased-Rahul) is a material witness and he in his examination-in- chief dated 23.09.2021 had supported the prosecution case. Thereafter, after a gap of ten months and five days, the said witness was cross-examined on 28.7.2022 wherein the witness retracted and resiled from his previous testimony. Despite the said fact, the P.W.-3 was not declared hostile by the prosecution and was neither re-examined. The trial is in progress and the application dated 14.08.2025 under section 311 Cr.P.C has been moved by the applicant at a belated stage after a gap of more than three years to fulfil the lacuna in a prosecution case and to reopen and to avail another opportunity to reconcile the discrepancies if any between the statements in the examination-in-chief and cross examination and further to explain any statement inadvertently made in cross examination and to remove any ambiguity in the deposition or suspicion caste on the evidence by cross examination and to re-examine P.W.-3, which may cause serious prejudice to the accused and may result in the miscarriage of justice. It appears that the applicant-mother has been sponsored by P.W.-3, Rishipal to rectify and improve the misgivings that happened while adducing his evidence during his testimony. The records reveal that applicant, Smt. Ramwati moved the application under section 311 Cr.P.C. on 14.08.2025 and the affidavit supporting the application has been sworn by P.W.-3 on 06.10.2025 after a gap of about 50 days with an averment that the contents of the application were in his personal knowledge but not a single instance i.e. date, time, place and other particulars has been disclosed or claimed that the evidence tendered during examination in chief or cross examination was not out of his own free will and volition but due to threat and coercion meted out to him in past five years from the accused or his associates though the applicant and her husband, Rishipal had ample opportunity to lodge the complaint or raise their grudge before the learned Trial Judge or to the Police Officers or to any prosecution agency but both remain indifferent and silent throughout.

14. In the recent pronouncement of the Supreme Court in the case of Raja Ram Prasad Yadav vs. State of Bihar and Another, 2013 (14) SCC 461, the Court has very exhaustively discussed the law on the subject of Section 311 Cr.P.C. which reads as follows:

“A conspicuous reading of Section 311 Cr.P.C. would show that widest of the powers have been invested with the Courts when it comes to the question of summoning a witness or to recall or re-examine any witness already examined. A reading of the provision shows that the expression ‘any’ has been used as a pre-fix to ‘court’, ‘inquiry’, ‘trial’, ‘other proceeding’, ‘person as a witness’, ‘person in attendance though not summoned as a witness’, and ‘person already examined’. By using the said expression ‘any’ as a pre-fix to the various expressions mentioned above, it is ultimately stated that all that was required to be satisfied by the Court was only in relation to such evidence that appears to the Court to be essential for the just decision of the case. Section 138 of the Evidence Act, prescribed the order of examination of a witness in the Court. Order of re-examination is also prescribed calling for such a witness so desired for such re-examination. Therefore, a reading of Section 311 Cr.P.C. and Section 138 Evidence Act, insofar as it comes to the question of a criminal trial, the order of re-examination at the desire of any person under Section 138, will have to necessarily be in consonance with the prescription contained in Section 311 Cr.P.C. It is, therefore, imperative that the invocation of Section 311 Cr.P.C. and its application in a particular case can be ordered by the Court, only by bearing in mind the object and purport of the said provision, namely, for achieving a just decision of the case as noted by us earlier. The power vested under the said provision is made available to any Court at any stage in any inquiry or trial or other proceeding initiated under the Code for the purpose of summoning any person as a witness or for examining any person in attendance, even though not summoned as witness or to recall or re-examine any person already examined. Insofar as recalling and re-examination of any person already examined, the Court must necessarily consider and ensure that such recall and re-examination of any person, appears in the view of the Court to be essential for the just decision of the case. Therefore, the paramount requirement is just decision and for that purpose the essentiality of a person to be recalled and re-examined has to be ascertained. To put it differently, while such a widest power is invested with the Court, it is needless to state that exercise of such power should be made judicially and also with extreme care and caution.

15. In this context, we also wish to make a reference to certain decisions rendered by this Court on the interpretation of Section 311 Cr.P.C. where, this Court highlighted as to the basic principles which are to be borne in mind, while dealing with an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. In the decision reported in Jamatraj Kewalji Govani vs. State of Maharashtra - AIR 1968 SC 178, this Court held as under in paragraph 14:-

“14. It would appear that in our criminal jurisdiction, statutory law confers a power in absolute terms to be exercised at any stage of the trial to summon a witness or examine one present in court or to recall a witness already examined, and makes this the duty and obligation of the Court provided the just decision of the case demands it. In other words, where the court exercises the power under the second part, the inquiry cannot be whether the accused has brought anything suddenly or unexpectedly but whether the court is right in thinking that the new evidence is needed by it for a just decision of the case. If the court has acted without the requirements of a just decision, the action is open to criticism but if the court's action is supportable as being in aid of a just decision the action cannot be regarded as exceeding the jurisdiction.” (Emphasis added)

16. In the decision reported in Mohanal Shamji Soni vs. Union of India and another - 1991 Suppl.(1) SCC 271, this Court again highlighted the importance of the power to be exercised under Section 311 Cr.P.C. as under in paragraph 10:-

“10?In order to enable the court to find out the truth and render a just decision, the salutary provisions of Section 540 of the Code (Section 311 of the new Code) are enacted whereunder any court by exercising its discretionary authority at any stage of enquiry, trial or other proceeding can summon any person as a witness or examine any person in attendance though not summoned as a witness or recall or re- examine any person in attendance though not summoned as a witness or recall and re-examine any person already examined who are expected to be able to throw light upon the matter in dispute; because if judgments happen to be rendered on inchoate, inconclusive and speculative presentation of facts, the ends of justice would be defeated.”

17. In the decision in Raj Deo Sharma (II) vs. State of Bihar - 1999 (7) SCC 604, the proposition has been reiterated as under in paragraph 9:-

“9. We may observe that the power of the court as envisaged in Section 311 of the Code of Criminal Procedure has not been curtailed by this Court. Neither in the decision of the five-Judge Bench in A.R. Antulay case nor in Kartar Singh case such power has been restricted for achieving speedy trial. In other words, even if the prosecution evidence is closed in compliance with the directions contained in the main judgment it is still open to the prosecution to invoke the powers of the court under Section 311 of the Code. We make it clear that if evidence of any witness appears to the court to be essential to the just decision of the case it is the duty of the court to summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person.? (Emphasis added)

18. In U.T. of Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Anr. vs. Fatehsinh Mohansinh Chauhan - 2006 (7) SCC 529, the decision has been further elucidated as under in paragraph 15:-

“15. A conspectus of authorities referred to above would show that the principle is well settled that the exercise of power under Section 311 CrPC should be resorted to only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof of such facts which lead to a just and correct decision of the case, this being the primary duty of a criminal court. Calling a witness or re-examining a witness already examined for the purpose of finding out the truth in order to enable the court to arrive at a just decision of the case cannot be dubbed as ?filling in a lacuna in the prosecution case? unless the facts and circumstances of the case make it apparent that the exercise of power by the court would result in causing serious prejudice to the accused resulting in miscarriage of justice.” (Emphasis added)

19. In Iddar & Ors. vs. Aabida & Anr. - AIR 2007 SC 3029, the object underlying under Section 311 Cr.P.C., has been stated as under in paragraph 11:-

“11. The object underlying Section 311 of the Code is that there may not be failure of justice on account of mistake of either party in bringing the valuable evidence on record or leaving ambiguity in the statements of the witnesses examined from either side. The determinative factor is whether it is essential to the just decision of the case. The section is not limited only for the benefit of the accused, and it will not be an improper exercise of the powers of the court to summon a witness under the section merely because the evidence supports the case for the prosecution and not that of the accused. The section is a general section which applies to all proceedings, enquiries and trials under the Code and empowers Magistrate to issue summons to any witness at any stage of such proceedings, trial or enquiry. In Section 311 the significant expression that occurs is ‘at any stage of inquiry or trial or other proceeding under this Code’. It is, however, to be borne in mind that whereas the section confers a very wide power on the court on summoning witnesses, the discretion conferred is to be exercised judiciously, as the wider the power the greater is the necessity for application of judicial mind.” (Emphasis added)

20. In P. Sanjeeva Rao vs. State of A.P.- AIR 2012 SC 2242, the scope of Section 311 Cr.P.C. has been highlighted by making reference to an earlier decision of this Court and also with particular reference to the case, which was dealt with in that decision in paragraphs 13 and 16, which are as under:-

“13. Grant of fairest opportunity to the accused to prove his innocence was the object of every fair trial, observed this Court in Hoffman Andreas v. Inspector of Customs, Amritsar (2000) 10 SCC 430. The following passage is in this regard apposite:

“In such circumstances, if the new counsel thought to have the material witnesses further examined, the Court could adopt latitude and a liberal view in the interest of justice, particularly when the court has unbridled powers in the matter as enshrined in Section 311 of the Code. After all the trial is basically for the prisoners and courts should afford the opportunity to them in the fairest manner possible”

16. We are conscious of the fact that recall of the witnesses is being directed nearly four years after they were examined-in-chief about an incident that is nearly seven years old. Delay takes a heavy toll on the human memory apart from breeding cynicism about the efficacy of the judicial system to decide cases within a reasonably foreseeable time period. To that extent the apprehension expressed by Mr. Rawal, that the prosecution may suffer prejudice on account of a belated recall, may not be wholly without any basis. Having said that, we are of the opinion that on a parity of reasoning and looking to the consequences of denial of opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses, we would prefer to err in favour of the appellant getting an opportunity rather than protecting the prosecution against a possible prejudice at his cost. Fairness of the trial is a virtue that is sacrosanct in our judicial system and no price is too heavy to protect that virtue. A possible prejudice to prosecution is not even a price, leave alone one that would justify denial of a fair opportunity to the accused to defend himself.” (Emphasis added)

21. In a recent decision of this Court in Sheikh Jumman vs. State of Maharashtra - (2012) 9 SCALE 80, the above referred to decisions were followed.

22. Again in an unreported decision rendered by this Court dated 08.05.2013 in Natasha Singh vs. CBI (State)- Criminal Appeal No.709 of 2013, where one of us was a party, various other decisions of this Court were referred to and the position has been stated as under in paragraphs 14 and 15:

“14. The scope and object of the provision is to enable the Court to determine the truth and to render a just decision after discovering all relevant facts and obtaining proper proof of such facts, to arrive at a just decision of the case. Power must be exercised judiciously and not capriciously or arbitrarily, as any improper or capricious exercise of such power may lead to undesirable results. An application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. must not be allowed only to fill up a lacuna in the case of the prosecution, or of the defence, or to the disadvantage of the accused, or to cause serious prejudice to the defence of the accused, or to give an unfair advantage to the opposite party. Further the additional evidence must not be received as a disguise for retrial, or to change the nature of the case against either of the parties. Such a power must be exercised, provided that the evidence that is likely to be tendered by a witness, is germane to the issue involved. An opportunity of rebuttal, however, must be given to the other party.

The power conferred under Section 311 Cr.P.C. must, therefore, be invoked by the Court only in order to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons, and the same must be exercised with great caution and circumspection.

The very use of words such as ‘any Court’, ‘at any stage’, or ‘or any enquiry’, trial or other proceedings’, ‘any person’ and ‘any such person’ clearly spells out that the provisions of this section have been expressed in the widest possible terms, and do not limit the discretion of the Court in any way. There is thus no escape if the fresh evidence to be obtained is essential to the just decision of the case. The determinative factor should, therefore, be whether the summoning/recalling of the said witness is in fact, essential to the just decision of the case.

15. Fair trial is the main object of criminal procedure, and it is the duty of the court to ensure that such fairness is not hampered or threatened in any manner. Fair trial entails the interests of the accused, the victim and of the society, and therefore, fair trial includes the grant of fair and proper opportunities to the person concerned, and the same must be ensured as this is a constitutional, as well as a human right. Thus, under no circumstances can a person’s right to fair trial be jeopardized. Adducing evidence in support of the defence is a valuable right. Denial of such right would amount to the denial of a fair trial. Thus, it is essential that the rules of procedure that have been designed to ensure justice are scrupulously followed, and the court must be zealous in ensuring that there is no breach of the same. (Vide Talab Haji Hussain v. Madhukar Purshottam Mondkar & Anr., AIR 1958 SC 376; Zahira Habibulla H. Sheikh & Anr. v.

State of Gujarat & Ors. AIR 2004 SC 3114; Zahira Habibullah Sheikh & Anr. v. State of Gujarat & Ors, AIR 2006 SC 1367; Kalyani Baskar (Mrs.) v. M.S. Sampooranam (Mrs.) (2007) 2 SCC 258; Vijay Kumar v. State of U.P. & Anr., (2011) 8 SCC 136; and Sudevanand v. State through C.B.I. (2012) 3 SCC 387.)”

23. From a conspectus consideration of the above decisions, while dealing with an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. read along with Section 138 of the Evidence Act, we feel the following principles will have to be borne in mind by the Courts:

a) Whether the Court is right in thinking that the new evidence is needed by it? Whether the evidence sought to be led in under Section 311 is noted by the Court for a just decision of a case?

b) The exercise of the widest discretionary power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. should ensure that the judgment should not be rendered on inchoate, inconclusive speculative presentation of facts, as thereby the ends of justice would be defeated.

c) If evidence of any witness appears to the Court to be essential to the just decision of the case, it is the power of the Court to summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person.

d) The exercise of power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. Cr.P.C. should be resorted to only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof for such facts, which will lead to a just and correct decision of the case.

e) The exercise of the said power cannot be dubbed as filling in a lacuna in a prosecution case, unless the facts and circumstances of the case make it apparent that the exercise of power by the Court would result in causing serious prejudice to the accused, resulting in miscarriage of justice.

f) The wide discretionary power should be exercised judiciously and not arbitrarily.

g) The Court must satisfy itself that it was in every respect essential to examine such a witness or to recall him for further examination in order to arrive at a just decision of the case.

h) The object of Section 311 Cr.P.C. simultaneously imposes a duty on the Court to determine the truth and to render a just decision.

i) The Court arrives at the conclusion that additional evidence is necessary, not because it would be impossible to pronounce the judgment without it, but because there would be a failure of justice without such evidence being considered.

j) Exigency of the situation, fair play and good sense should be the safe guard, while exercising the discretion. The Court should bear in mind that no party in a trial can be foreclosed from correcting errors and that if proper evidence was not adduced or a relevant material was not brought on record due to any inadvertence, the Court should be magnanimous in permitting such mistakes to be rectified.

k) The Court should be conscious of the position that after all the trial is basically for the prisoners and the Court should afford an opportunity to them in the fairest manner possible. In that parity of reasoning, it would be safe to err in favour of the accused getting an opportunity rather than protecting the prosecution against possible prejudice at the cost of the accused. The Court should bear in mind that improper or capricious exercise of such a discretionary power, may lead to undesirable results.

l) The additional evidence must not be received as a disguise or to change the nature of the case against any of the party.

m) The power must be exercised keeping in mind that the evidence that is likely to be tendered, would be germane to the issue involved and also ensure that an opportunity of rebuttal is given to the other party.

n) The power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. must therefore, be invoked by the Court only in order to meet the ends of justice for strong and valid reasons and the same must be exercised with care, caution and circumspection. The Court should bear in mind that fair trial entails the interest of the accused, the victim and the society and, therefore, the grant of fair and proper opportunities to the persons concerned, must be ensured being a constitutional goal, as well as a human right."

15. In view of the foregoing discussions and applying the various principles set out above, the factors noted by the Trial Court and the conclusion drawn are all appropriate and just and the order impugned does not call for any interference. The Trial Court shall proceed with the trial from the stage it was left and conclude the same, expeditiously, in accordance with law.

16. Accordingly, the application u/s 528 B.N.S.S. is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jitendra Kumar Sinha, J.)

1. Heard Sri Hari Nath Chaubey, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Shiv Dutt Shukla, learned AGA for the State-respondents and perused the record.

2. The present bail application under Section 483 of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, has been filed on behalf of applicant with a prayer to release him on bail in Case Crime No. 94 of 2025, under Sections 309(6), 317(2) BNS and Section 3/25 Arms Act, registered at Police Station Shivrajpur, District Kanpur Nagar, during pendency of the trial.

3. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the applicant that applicant is innocent and he has been falsely implicated in this case and he has been languishing in jail since 3.6.2025. It is further submitted that FIR has been lodged against three unknown persons and during investigation the name of the applicant has surfaced and some stolen articles are said to have been recovered from his possession. It is also submitted that the applicant undertakes that he will not misuse the liberty, if granted. It has also been pointed out that in the wake of heavy pendency of cases in the Court, there is no likelihood of any early conclusion of trial.

4. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. has opposed the prayer for grant of bail to the applicant.

5. FIR has been lodged against three unknown persons and as per FIR three unknown persons are said to have hit the scooty of the first informant as a result of which first informant and his wife fell down and thereafter three unknown persons are said to have snatched the bag containing jewellery, cash and mobile phones. During investigation, the applicant has been arrested and some stolen articles are said to have been recovered from his possession.

6. Upon considering the totality of facts, nature and the evidence reflected from record and without expressing any opinion on merits of the case, I find it to be a fit case for bail. Hence, the present bail application is ALLOWED.

7. Let the applicant- Aman Yadav involved in the aforesaid case crime be released on bail on his furnishing a personal bond of Rs. 50,000/- with two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the Court concerned with the following conditions :-

(i) The applicant shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat, or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the court or to any police officer or tamper with the evidence.

(ii) The applicant shall not pressurize/intimidate the prosecution witnesses.

(iii) The applicant shall remain present, in person, before the trial court on the dates fixed for (i) opening of the case, (ii) framing of charge and (iii) recording of statement under Section 351 of B.N.S.S.

(iv) The applicant shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present in the trial court.

(v) The applicant shall remain present before the trial court on each date fixed, either personally or through his counsel.

8. In case of breach of any of the above conditions, it shall be a ground for cancellation of bail.

9. It is clarified that anything said in this order is limited to the purpose of determination of this bail application and will in no way be construed as an expression on the merits of the case. The trial court shall be absolutely free to arrive at its independent conclusions on the basis of evidence led unaffected by anything said in this order.

Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 3360 of 2026

Mohit Yadav @ Mohit Kumar	...Petitioner
	Versus
State of U.P. & Ors.	...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether the First Information Report registered under the U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 was liable to be quashed on the ground that no joint meeting of the competent authorities had taken place for approval of gang chart as mandated by Rule 5(3)(a) of Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021, thereby vitiating the preparation of gang chart and the consequential FIR.

Headnotes

U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 - ss. 2(b)(i), 2(b)(xi), 2(b)(xiv), 2(b)(xxv), and 3(1) - Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 - Rules. 5(3)(a), 16 - Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 - s. 14 - Gang chart - Requirement of joint meeting - Competent Authorities - Approval - Procedural Compliance - Legality - FIR - Quashing of - Impugned order - The petitioner challenged the First Information Report dated 17.03.2026 registered under various provisions of U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 - The principal contention advanced was that the gang chart forming the foundation of prosecution had been prepared and approved without convening the mandatory joint meeting contemplated under Rule 5(3)(a) of Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 - It was urged that such non-compliance rendered the gang chart and the consequential FIR legally unsustainable - While the State produced the minutes of a joint meeting dated 23.02.2026 held between the Commissioner of Police and Deputy Commissioner of Police (East), Lucknow, wherein approval of proposed gang chart was deliberated and endorsed.

Held: From the perusal of the record reveals that the gang chart was prepared by the concerned Police Station, detailing the criminal activities of the gang, and subsequently presented for approval - It was forwarded to the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow, along with all relevant annexures - The Commissioner of Police, Commissionerate Lucknow, upon being satisfied that sufficient grounds existed for initiating action under the Act, approved the gang chart on 24.02.2026 - The legal requirement under Rule 5 of Rules, 2021, mandates that a joint meeting must be held between the head of police and head of district administration for approval of a gang chart - In the district of Lucknow, where the Police Commissionerate system is in force, the Commissioner of Police exercises the powers of an Executive Magistrate as envisaged u/s 14 of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS), 2023 - Furthermore, the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Gabbar Singh (infra) cited by learned counsel for the petitioner does not support the petitioner's stance - The argument that the signing of gang chart by various authorities on different dates constitutes a violation of Rule 5 is directly controverted by minutes of the meeting produced by State - In view of the fact that the procedural requirements of Rule 5(3)(a) and Rule 16 have been scrupulously followed, as such, the said judgment shall have no applicability in the instant case - Accordingly, the petition, being devoid of merit, dismissed. Appearances for Parties

Adv. for the Petitioner(s):

Ashok Kumar Singh Tomar

Adv. for the Respondent(s):

G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pramod Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Shiv Nath Tilhari, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing for the State-respondents. Shri Tilhari states that he accepts notice on behalf of respondent no. 4, the Inspector-in-Charge, Police Station Vikas Nagar, District Lucknow.

2. By means of the instant petition, the petitioner has challenged the First Information Report (FIR) dated 17.03.2026, registered as Crime No. 47/2026, under Sections 2(b)(i), 2(b)(xi), 2(b)(xiv), 2(b)(xxv), and 3(1) of the U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, at Police Station Vikas Nagar, District Lucknow.

3. The primary ground urged by the learned counsel for the petitioner while challenging the impugned FIR is that no joint meeting of the competent authorities took place during the preparation and approval of the gang chart, which is a mandatory requirement under the law. A copy of the said gang chart has been annexed as Annexure No. 2 to the writ petition.

4. The argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that as no joint meeting took place at the time of the preparation of the gang chart, there is a violation of Rule 5(3)(a) of the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as the Rules, 2021). Consequently as no joint meeting took place, the preparation of the gang chart and the lodging of the impugned FIR on the basis of the said gang chart vitiate the FIR itself; therefore, the FIR is liable to be quashed. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioner places reliance on the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Gabbar Singh @ Devendra Pratap Singh @ Rajesh Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2026 INSC 271.

5. On the other hand, Shri Shiv Nath Tilhari, learned Additional Government Advocate (AGA), produced a copy of the minutes of the joint meeting dated 23.02.2026, held between the Commissioner of Police and the Deputy Commissioner of Police (East), Lucknow. The said minutes are taken on record.

6. A perusal of the said minutes indicates that a joint meeting took place between the Commissioner of Police and the Deputy Commissioner of Police (East), Lucknow, on 23.02.2026. Reliance is placed on the said minutes and the approval of the gang chart, which was given on 24.02.2026.

7. The argument of Shri Tilhari is that the authorities have scrupulously adhered to the mandate of Rule 5(3)(a) of the Rules, 2021; consequently, there is no illegality or infirmity either in the preparation of the gang chart or in the impugned FIR lodged on the basis thereof.

8. Before advertng to the facts of the present case, it would be apposite to recapitulate the relevant provision of the Rules, 2021:-

"CHAPTER 3 PRINCIPALS RELATED TO GANG CHART

Rule - 5. General Rules.

(1) To initiate proceedings under this Act, the concerned Incharge of Police Station/Station House Officer/Inspector shall prepare a gang-chart mentioning the details of criminal activities of the gang.

(2) The gang-chart will be presented to the district head of police after clear recommendation of the Additional Superintendent of Police mentioning the detailed activities in relation to all the persons of the said gang.

(3) The following provisions shall be complied with in respect of gang-charts.

(a) The gang-chart will not be approved summarily but after due discussion in a joint meeting of the Commissioner of Police/District Magistrate/Senior Superintendent of Police/Superintendent of Police.

(b) X.

(c) X

(d) X

(e) X

Along with the above, a certified copy of the gang register kept at the police station shall also be attached with the gang-chart. In addition to the above, the information of crime and gang members mentioned in the gang-chart will also be updated on Interoperable Criminal Justice System (ICJS) portal and Crime and Criminal Tracking Network System (CCTNS).

Rule - 16. Forwarding of Gang-Chart- The following manner shall be followed in the forwarding of Gang-Chart:

(1) Forwarding of the gang-chart by the Additional Superintendent of Police: The Additional Superintendent of Police will not only take a quick forwarding action in the case but he will duly peruse the gang-chart and all the attached forms; and when it is satisfied that there is a just and satisfactory basis to pursue the case, only then will he forward the letter along with the recommendation given below on the gang-chart to the Superintendent of Police/Senior Superintendent of Police.

"Thoroughly studied the gang-chart and attached evidence. The basis of action under the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 exists. Accordingly, forwarded with recommendation."

(2) Forwarding of the gang-chart by the district police in-charge: When the gang-chart along with all the Forms is received by the Senior Superintendent of Police/Superintendent of Police with the clear recommendation of the Additional Superintendent of Police, he will also thoroughly analyze all the facts and when it is confirmed that all the formalities of the Act have been fulfilled and there is a legal basis for taking action in the case, then he should forward the gang-chart to the Commissioner of Police/District Magistrate stating that: "I have duly perused the gang-chart and attached forms and I am fully satisfied that all the particulars mentioned in the case are correct and there is a satisfactory basis for taking action under the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986. Accordingly, approved."

9. As it reveals that the matter relates to Police Station Vikas Nagar, District Lucknow, which falls under the Police Commissionerate, the relevant provision of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 is also expedient to mention hereinbelow:

"Section 14. Executive Magistrates:-

(1) X

(2) X

(3) X

(4) X

(5) X(6) Nothing in this section shall preclude the State Government from conferring, under any law for the time being in force, on a Commissioner of Police all or any of the powers of an Executive Magistrate."

10. From the Rules, 2021 & Act, 2023 quoted above, it is apparent that the joint meeting for the preparation of the gang chart, as envisaged in Rule 5(3)(a) of the Rules, 2021, is distinct from the forwarding of the gang chart, which is envisaged in Rule 16 of the Rules, 2021.

11. It is also clear that while a joint meeting may not be required for the formal act of recommendation itself, it is mandatory that the underlying decision to approve the gang chart is taken during a joint meeting.

12. Learned A.G.A. has produced a copy of the minutes of the meeting dated 23.02.2026. A perusal of the said minutes clearly demonstrates that the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow, and the Deputy Commissioner of Police (East), Lucknow, jointly convened the meeting and, after due deliberation, concluded that there are sufficient grounds for the approval of the proposed gang chart and there is no legal impediment in the same.

13. Further, a perusal of the record reveals that the gang chart annexed to the petition was prepared by the concerned Police Station, detailing the criminal activities of the gang, and subsequently presented for approval. It was forwarded to the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow, along with all relevant annexures. The Commissioner of Police, Commissionerate Lucknow, upon being satisfied that sufficient grounds existed for initiating action under the Act, approved the gang chart on 24.02.2026.

14. The issue raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the recommendations by the Commissioner of Police and other police officials were not made collectively on the same date. While the ACP recommended the gang chart on 12.02.2026, the Deputy Commissioner of Police (East) and the Joint Commissioner of Police made their recommendations on 23.02.2026, and finally, the Commissioner of Police approved the gang chart on 24.02.2026. It is contended by the learned counsel for the petitioner that these individual endorsements, made on different dates, do not constitute a 'joint meeting' as mandated under the Rules.

15. As discussed in the preceding paragraphs and in light of the relevant rules, it is evident that the 'joint meeting' envisaged under Rule 5(3)(a) is a distinct legal requirement, separate and different from the recommendations recorded in the gang chart during its preparation.

16. The legal requirement under Rule 5 of the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021, mandates that a joint meeting must be held between the head of the police and the head of the district administration for the approval of a gang chart. In the district of Lucknow, where the Police Commissionerate system is in force, the Commissioner of Police exercises the powers of an Executive Magistrate as envisaged under Section 14 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS), 2023.

17. Consequently, a joint meeting was duly convened on 23.02.2026, wherein the Commissioner of Police and the Deputy Commissioner of Police, upon collective deliberation, found sufficient grounds to approve the proposed gang chart. The gang chart was subsequently approved on 24.02.2026. Therefore, the contention raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the gang chart is vitiated because it was not approved during a joint meeting is legally untenable.

18. Furthermore, the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Gabbar Singh (Supra) cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner does not support the petitioner's stance. The argument that the signing of the gang chart by various authorities on different dates constitutes a violation of Rule 5 is directly controverted by the minutes of the meeting produced by the learned AGA. In view of the fact that the procedural requirements of Rule 5(3)(a) and Rule 16 have been scrupulously followed, as such, the said judgment shall have no applicability in the present facts and circumstances. Accordingly, the petition, being devoid of merit, is liable to be dismissed and it is, accordingly, dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether the confiscation of petitioner's vehicle u/s 5-A of U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 was legally sustainable in the absence of cogent material establishing that the cows were being transported outside the State of Uttar Pradesh for slaughter, and whether transportation of bovine animals within the State without recovery of beef or other incriminating material could justify confiscation of vehicle.

Headnotes

U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 - s. 5-A - U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Rules, 1964 - R. 16 - Illegal transportation of cow/cattle - Requirement of valid permit - Scope of - Statutory provisions - Transportation of bovine animals within State of Uttar Pradesh - Whether prohibited - Not prohibited - Vehicle ordered to be released - The petitioner challenged the order of District Magistrate, Ghazipur, as affirmed in appeal by Commissioner, Varanasi Division, whereby his Bolero Pick-Up vehicle bearing registration No. UP-70-JT-9507 was confiscated on the allegation that four cows were being illegally transported for slaughter - The vehicle was intercepted on 03.06.2024 on the basis of an alleged tip-off while carrying four cow animals -

According to the prosecution, the animals were being transported to State of Bihar for slaughter - The petitioner contended that neither beef nor any dead animal was recovered from the vehicle, that transportation was within State of Uttar Pradesh, and that no statutory prohibition existed against such transportation - It was further asserted that the seizure and continued detention of vehicle were arbitrary and had caused deprivation of livelihood and pecuniary loss.

Held: From a conjoint reading of provisions and the precedents of the High Court, it is abundantly clear that the statutory embargo is attracted only when the transportation is for the purpose of slaughter, particularly when such transportation is intended beyond the territorial limits of State of Uttar Pradesh - There is no blanket prohibition under the Act or Rules against transportation of bovine animals within the State - In the instant case, there is no cogent or admissible material on record to establish that the animals were being transported for slaughter outside the State - The mere fact that the vehicle was intercepted in proximity to State border does not, ipso facto, lead to a presumption of illegal intent - Such an inference is speculative and legally unsustainable - Further, the order dated 18.06.2024 passed in Bail Application No. 1073 of 2024 (Luvkush Shukla and another v. State of U.P.) by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Ghazipur records that neither any instrument used for slaughter nor any beef was recovered - No medical examination of the animals was conducted to indicate cruelty or injury - The said order further acknowledges that transportation of bovine animals within the State is not prohibited - The stand taken by the State is thus founded on mere conjectures and surmises, without any substantive evidentiary basis - The impugned orders suffer from manifest arbitrariness, non-application of mind, and are unsustainable in the eye of law - Thus, writ petition allowed, impugned orders quashed - Direction to release vehicle. From the Judgment and Order dated 14.08.2025 passed by the District Magistrate, Ghazipur in Case No. 222 of 2025 and Appellate Order dated 27.11.2025 passed by Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi in Case No. 3361 of 2025.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sandeep Jain, J.)

1. The instant writ petition has been filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, assailing the order dated 14.08.2025 passed by the District Magistrate, Ghazipur in Case No. 222 of 2025 (State of U.P. vs. Lav Kush Kumar Shukla) under Section 5-A of the U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955, as well as the appellate order dated 27.11.2025 passed by the Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi in Case No. 3361 of 2025 (Lav Kush Shukla vs. State of U.P. & others), whereby the Bolero Pick-Up vehicle bearing registration No. UP-70-JT-9507 has been confiscated in favour of the State on the allegation of illegal transportation of four cows for slaughtering.

2. The factual matrix, as borne out from the record, is that the petitioner's aforesaid vehicle was intercepted on 03.06.2024 at about 13:10 hours on the basis of an alleged tip-off while carrying four cow animals. The prosecution case is that the cows were being transported for slaughter to the State of Bihar, which is impermissible under the Act, 1955, and accordingly, the vehicle was seized and subsequently confiscated by the District Magistrate by order dated 14.08.2025, which has been affirmed in appeal.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that neither any beef nor any dead animal was recovered from the vehicle. It is further contended that the transportation, if any, was within the State of Uttar Pradesh, which is not prohibited under the provisions of the Act, 1955 or the Rules framed thereunder. It is urged that the impugned action is wholly arbitrary, without jurisdiction, and has resulted in deprivation of the petitioner's right to livelihood guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. It is further submitted that the petitioner has suffered pecuniary loss due to illegal seizure and continued detention of the vehicle and is, therefore, entitled to compensation.

4. Per contra, learned AGA submits that the petitioner failed to produce a valid permit at the time of interception, thereby violating the provisions of the Act, 1955. It is further contended that the animals were being transported for slaughter to the State of Bihar, and thus the confiscation is justified. The impugned orders have been supported as lawful.

5. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, including the impugned orders.

6. According to the office report, there is a delay of 43 days in filing this writ petition. In the facts and circumstances of the case, the delay is condoned.

7. For proper adjudication, it is apposite to refer to the relevant statutory provisions.

8. Section 5-A of The U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955, reads as under:

"5A.Regulation on transport of cow, etc.-(1) No person shall transport or offer for transport or cause to be transported any cow, or bull or bullock, the slaughter whereof in any place in Uttar Pradesh is punishable under this Act from any place within the State to any place

outside the State, except under a permit issued by an officer authorized by the State Government in this behalf by notified order and except in accordance with the terms and conditions of such permit.*

(2) Such officer shall issue the permit on payment of such fee not exceeding [five hundred rupees] for every cow, bull or bullock as may be prescribed :

Provided that no fee shall be chargeable where the permit is for transport of the cow, bull or bullock for a limited period not exceeding six months as may be specified in the permit.

(3) Where the person transporting a cow, bull or bullock on a permit for a limited period does not bring back such cow, bull or bullock into the State within the period specified in the permit, he shall be deemed to have contravened the provision of sub-section (1).

(4) The form of permit, the form of application therefor and the procedure for disposal of such application shall be such as may be prescribed.

(5) The State Government or any officer authorized by it in this behalf by general or special notified order, may, at any time for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself, as to the legality or propriety of the action taken under this section, call for and examine the record of any case and pass such orders thereon as it or he may deem fit.]

[(6) Where the said conveyance has been confirmed to be related to beef by the competent authority or authorised laboratory under this Act, the driver, operator and owner related to transport, shall be charged with the offence under this Act, unless it is not proved that transport medium used in crime, despite all its precautions and without its knowledge, has been used by some other person for causing the offence.

(7) The vehicle by which the beef or cow and its progeny is transported in violation of the provisions of this Act and the relevant rules, shall be confiscated and seized by the law enforcement officers. The concerned District Magistrate/Commissioner of Police will do all proceedings of confiscation and release, as the case may be.

(8) The cow and its progeny or the beef transported by the seized vehicle shall also be confiscated and seized by the law enforcement officers. The concerned District Magistrate/Commissioner will do all proceedings of the confiscation and release, as the case may be.

(9) The expenditure on the maintenance of the seized cows and its progeny shall be recovered from the accused for a period of one year or till the release of the cow and it's progeny in favour of the owner thereof whichever is earlier.

(10) Where a person is prosecuted for committing abetting, or attempting to an offence under section 3, 5 and 8 of this Act and the beef or cow-remains in the possession of accused has been proved by the prosecution and transported things are confirmed to be beef by the competent authority or authorized laboratory, then the Court shall presume that such person has committed such offence or attempt or abetment of such offence, as the case may be, unless the contrary is proved.

(11) Where the provision of this Act or the related rules in context of search, acquisition, disposal and seizure are silent, the relevant provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 shall be effective thereto.]"

9. Rule 16 of the U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Rules, 1964 reads as under:-

"(1) Any person intending to transport or the offer for transport or to cause to transport any cow, bull or bullock, the slaughter whereof is punishable under this Act in any place in Uttar Pradesh from any place within the State to any place outside the State shall apply for a permit to the officer authorised under Section 5-A of the Act on prescribed Form "G".

(2) The officer authorised under Section 5-A of the Act may grant such permit on payment of fee of Rs. 5.00 (Rupees five) per cow, bull or bullock to be deposited through treasury Challan under the receipt head '110 - Puashupalan - A - Other receipt (6) Misc.' In case the animal so transported is brought back to the State within the period of six months from the date of issue of the permit, the fee Rs. 5.00 shall be refunded to the permit-holder, if the refund is claimed. All animal intended to be transported shall be tattooed in right ear prior to the transportation from the State.

(3) Cow, bull or bullock transported without a valid permit shall be confiscated and shall be auctioned and the sale proceeds will be deposited under the receipt head given in sub-rule (2) above and such person, who causes unauthorised transport shall be prosecuted under Section 8 of the Act.

(4) The permit referred in sub-rule (2) shall be in Form 'H'.

(5) In the event of death of the cow, bull or bullock being so transported prior to its return, the permit-holder shall submit the death certificate from the local Veterinary Surgeon to the officer authorised under Section 5-A of the Act failing which he shall be liable for prosecution under Section 8 of the Act.

(6) These rules shall also apply to the cow, bulls or bullocks transported to cattle fairs, exhibitions and markets outside the State. The permit-holder shall have to submit a certificate of sale from the manager of such fairs, exhibitions and market to the officer authorised under Section 5-A of the Act on Form I failing which he shall be liable to prosecution under Section 8 of the Act.

(7) In case cow, bulls or bullocks are needed by another State Government of recognised institutions outside the State, such permit for transportation of animal will be granted on deposit of requisite fees by the party concerned under sub-rule (2), but the application shall have to be routed through the State Government concerned."

10. Further, this Court in the case of Kaliya vs. State of UP And Others 2023 SCC OnLine All 1974, held as under:-

"10. Having heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned A.G.A. and going through the record as well as provisions of the Act, I find that the moot question involved in this case is whether the present petitioner has violated any provision of law in transportation of cows and its progeny by the aforesaid vehicle and whether the impugned orders have been passed confiscating the said vehicle in accordance with law.

11. ***

12. A perusal of section 5-A(1) of the Act shows that the said provision shall come into place when the cow or its progeny is transported from within the State of U.P. to any other place outside the State and in that case, permit issued by the authorised officer of the State government shall be required.

13. There is nothing on record to show that the alleged recovered animals, i.e. the cows were being transported from within the State of U.P. to any other State. Therefore, from the plain reading of section 5-A of the Act, the permit is not required in the peculiar facts of this case.

14. The question involved in the case in hand has also come up for consideration before this court in Kailash Yadav v. State of U.P. 2008 (10) ADJ 623 wherein it has been held that no permit is required for transportation of cow or its progeny within the State of U.P. Section 5-A(6 to 8) provides for confiscation and release of vehicle by which beef or cow and its progeny is transported in violation of the provisions of the Act and relevant rules.

15. From perusal of sub sections (1 to 5) of section 5-A of the Act and the law laid down by this court in Kailash Yadav's case (supra), it is evident that there is no need of permit to transport cow(s) and its progeny within the State of U.P. Hence, such transportation of cow and its progeny cannot be said to be in violation of the Act. Consequently, it can also not be said that the seized vehicle has been used in violation of Section 5-A or any other provision of the Act. Therefore, the police has no power or jurisdiction to seize or confiscate the vehicle in question and the District Magistrate also could not have issued notice under section 5-A of the Act when there is nothing to substantiate that the animals were being transported from within the State to some other State. In other words, in case the animals were being transported within the State of U.P., no show cause notice under section 5-A of the Act could have been given.

16. A coordinate Bench of this Court vide judgment and order dated 25.8.2022 passed in Mohd. Shakib v. State of U.P. Application under section 482 CrPC No. 23143 of 2021 has held that no permit is required to transport cow and its progeny within the State of U.P. and therefore, it cannot be said that the seized vehicle in question was used in violation of section 5A(1) to (11) or any provisions of the Cow Slaughter Act. Relevant paras 12 and 13 of the judgment in Mohd. Shakib's case (supra) is reproduced as below:

"12. Now, it is to be considered whether permit is required for transportation of the cow or its progeny within the State of Uttar Pradesh. This question came up for consideration before this Court in Criminal Revision No. 131 of 2005 (Kailash Yadav v. State of U.P., 2008 (10) ADJ 623), wherein it is held that no permit is required for transportation of cow or its progeny within the State of Uttar Pradesh. Sub-section 5A (6 to 8) provides for confiscation and release of vehicle by which beef or cow and its progeny is transported in violation of the provision of this Act and the relevant rules. Sub-section 5A (6 to 8) reads as follows: ”

(6) Where the said conveyance has been confirmed to be related to beef by the competent authority or authorised laboratory under this Act, the driver, operator and owner related to transport, shall be charged with the offence under this Act, unless it is not proved that the transport medium used in crime, despite all its precautions and without its knowledge, has been used by some other person for causing the offence.

(7) The vehicle by which the beef or cow and its progeny is transported in violation of the provisions of this Act and the relevant rules, shall be confiscated and seized by the law enforcement officers. The concerned District Magistrate/Commissioner of Police will do all proceedings of confiscation and release, as the case may be.

(8) The cow and its progeny or the beef transported by the seized vehicle shall also be confiscated and seized by the law enforcement officers. The concerned District Magistrate/Commissioner will do all proceedings of the confiscation and release, as the case may be.

13. From the perusal of sub-section (1 to 5) of Section 5A of this Act and the law laid down by this Court in Kailash Yadav v. State of U.P. (supra), it is abundantly clear that there is no need of permit to transport cow and its progeny within the state of Uttar Pradesh. Therefore, transportation of a cow and its progeny within the state of Uttar Pradesh is not a violation of any of the provisions of the Cow Slaughter Act. Therefore, it cannot be said that the seized vehicle in question was used in violation of Section 5A (1) to (11) or any provisions of the Cow Slaughter Act, and therefore, police has no power or jurisdiction to seize or confiscate the vehicle in question. The District Magistrate, Varanasi has passed the impugned confiscation order dated 18.08.2021 in contravention of the law, as no permit is required to transport cow and its progeny within the state of Uttar Pradesh. In above circumstances, the impugned order dated 18.08.2021 passed by District Magistrate, Varanasi is without jurisdiction and the same is liable to be set-aside. Likewise, the revisional court has not considered the relevant provisions of Section 5A of Cow Slaughter Act while dismissing the criminal revision of the applicant, therefore, the impugned order dated 13.10.2021 passed by Special Judge (SC/ST Act), Chandauli is also against the provisions of law and is liable to be set-aside.”

11. Similarly, this Court again in the case of Munib vs. State of UP and 2 others 2024 SCC OnLine All 9631 held as under:-

”12. Thus transportation of cow etc. is regulated by Section 5A and Section 5A(7) confers power upon the District Magistrate/Commissioner of Police to confiscate the vehicle by which the beef or cow and its progeny is transported in violation of the provisions of this Act and the relevant Rules. A perusal of the F.I.R. indicates that none of the cow were maimed nor physically injured. Further, the allegation that they were being transported to West Bengal from Prayagraj for slaughtering requires no consideration as the condition precedent for the application of the section is that the cattle described in the Act should have been transported from any place in the State of U.P. to any place outside the State. Even if the story of seizure of cattle is believed then also 06 cattle are said to have been seized within the jurisdiction of Police Station Lalganj District Mirzapur namely within the State of Uttar Pradesh and admittedly, the border is far away. The fact remains that cattle were apprehended from within the State of U.P. and, therefore, it cannot be said that they were transported to a place outside the State of U.P.

13. ..Commission of offence is one of the requisite ingredients for passing an order of confiscation and an order of confiscation should not be passed automatically. Thus, there is no material, as exist on record, to justify the exercise of powers under Sub Section 7 of Section 5A. The same is clearly contrary to the mandates and powers conferred upon the District Magistrate.

14. The confiscation by its very connotation implies depriving a person of his property to which he is entitled to retain. Article 300A of the Constitution of India provides that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law. Arbitrary confiscation of the property which he might be using for his trade, profession or occupation is a serious encroachment on the fundamental right of a citizen under Article 19(1)(g) of the Constitution of India to carry on his trade, occupation or business. The procedure prescribed by law for confiscating the property as contained in Section 5A(7) of the Cow Slaughter Act, empowers the District Magistrate/Commissioner of Police to confiscate/seize the vehicle only if the conditions so prescribed under Sub Section 7 of Section 5A are fulfilled."

12. From a conjoint reading of the aforesaid provisions and the precedents of this Court, it is abundantly clear that the statutory embargo is attracted only when the transportation is for the purpose of slaughter, particularly when such transportation is intended beyond the territorial limits of the State of Uttar Pradesh. There is no blanket prohibition under the Act or the Rules against transportation of bovine animals within the State.

13. In the present case, there is no cogent or admissible material on record to establish that the animals were being transported for slaughter outside the State. The mere fact that the vehicle was intercepted in proximity to the State border does not, ipso facto, lead to a presumption of illegal intent. Such an inference is speculative and legally unsustainable. Significantly, it is not the prosecution case that any beef, carcass, or incriminating material was recovered from the vehicle.

14. Further, the certified copy of the order dated 18.06.2024 passed in Bail Application No. 1073 of 2024 (Luvkush Shukla and another vs. State of U.P.) by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Ghazipur records that neither any instrument used for slaughter nor any beef was recovered. It is also noted that no medical examination of the animals was conducted to indicate cruelty or injury. The said order further acknowledges that transportation of bovine animals within the State is not prohibited.

15. The stand taken by the State is thus founded on mere conjectures and surmises, without any substantive evidentiary basis. The impugned orders suffer from manifest arbitrariness, non-application of mind, and are clearly unsustainable in the eye of law.

16. It is also not in dispute that the vehicle has remained in the custody of the State since 03.06.2024, resulting in continuous deprivation of its use and consequent loss of livelihood to the petitioner. Such deprivation, occasioned by patently illegal State action, warrants award of reasonable compensation. The petitioner can file suit for claiming compensation for the damages suffered.

17. In view of the aforesaid, the writ petition deserves to be allowed.

18. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. Consequently, the impugned order dated 14.08.2025 passed by the District Magistrate, Ghazipur and the appellate order dated 27.11.2025 passed by the Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi are hereby quashed.

19. The State authorities are directed to release forthwith the vehicle bearing registration No. UP-70-JT-9507 in favour of the petitioner, if not already released, in accordance with law, within a week

U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970 - ss. 2(b), 3(1), 3(3) - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - ss. 147, 148, 149, 308, 427, 323, 504, 506 - The Scheduled Castes and The Scheduled Tribes (Prevention Of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - ss. 3(1)(d) - Externment order - Goonda - Ground - Two criminal cases - Habitual offender - Public threat - Legality of impugned orders - The petitioner challenged the order passed by Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue), Bulandshahr, and the appellate order of Commissioner, Meerut Division, whereby he was externed for a period of six months under the provisions of U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970 - The proceedings were initiated on the basis of two criminal cases registered against the petitioner at Police Station Khurja Nagar, District Bulandshahr - In response to the proceedings, the petitioner asserted that the criminal cases had been falsely lodged due to personal enmity, remained pending adjudication and had not culminated in any conviction - The authorities nevertheless concluded that the petitioner was a habitual offender whose activities generated fear and terror in the locality and, consequently, treated him as a "Goonda" under the Act - While State contended that the petitioner falls within the definition of 'Goonda' u/s 2 of Act of 1970 - It was further argued that conviction is not a prerequisite for initiating proceedings, and the pendency of criminal cases along with material on record sufficiently establishes his habitual criminal conduct and authorities, therefore, rightly held him to be a threat to public order and passed the externment order, which calls for no interference.

Held: It is apparent from the statutory scheme that conviction is specifically required only in respect of certain offences under special enactments such as the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act, the U.P. Excise Act, the Public Gambling Act, and the Arms Act - However, in respect of offences under the IPC, the Act does not mandate prior conviction as a prerequisite for initiating proceedings - It is further evident that the Act does not prescribe any fixed number of offences required to classify a person as a "Goonda," nor does it stipulate a specific time gap between offences for determining habituality - It is apparent that Court has consistently held that merely on the basis of one or two criminal cases, a person cannot be branded as a "Goonda" - Such punitive action of State causes irreparable damage to reputation of such person and his family - Accordingly writ petition allowed, impugned orders quashed. 1. The present writ petition has been instituted challenging the impugned judgment and order dated 02.06.2025 passed by the Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut in Appeal No. 720 of 2025 (Satendra vs. State of U.P.), as well as the order dated 12.02.2025 passed by the Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue), District Bulandshahr in Case No. 1650 of 2024 (State of U.P. vs. Satendra), whereby proceedings under Section 3(1) of the U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970 culminated in an externment order against the petitioner for a period of six months.

2. Factual matrix is that the record reveals that two criminal cases have been registered against the petitioner at Police Station Khurja Nagar, District Bulandshahr. The first case, being Case Crime No. 3 of 2022, was registered under Sections 147, 323, 504, 506 IPC along with Sections 3(1)(d) of the SC/ST Act. The second case, being Case Crime No. 445 of 2023, was registered under Sections 147, 148, 149, 308, 323, 427, 504, 506 IPC alongwith other allied provisions of the SC/ST Act.

3. On account of the aforesaid criminal cases, proceedings under Section 3(1) of the U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970 were initiated against the petitioner. After providing due opportunity of hearing and upon consideration of the submissions made by the petitioner, wherein it was contended that the aforesaid cases were falsely lodged due to personal enmity and are still pending without any conviction, the externment order came to be passed.

4. The authorities below have concurrently recorded a finding that the petitioner is a habitual offender, posing a menace to society, and that his activities have created an atmosphere of fear and terror in the locality, thereby dissuading members of the public from coming forward to depose against him. It has further been taken into account that charge-sheets have been submitted in the aforesaid cases and cognizance has already been taken by the competent court. Consequently, the petitioner has been adjudged to be a "Goonda" within the meaning of the Act of 1970 and has been externed under Section 3(3) thereof for a period of six months, which has been affirmed by the appellate authority, which are under challenge in the present writ petition

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner contended that only two criminal cases are pending against the petitioner and no conviction has been recorded therein. It was argued that mere pendency of two cases cannot justify branding the petitioner as a "Goonda" within the meaning of the Act of 1970. Reliance has been placed upon the judgment in Lalani Pandey @ Vijay Shankar Pandey vs. State of U.P. reported in 2011 (1) ADJ 434 as well as the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vijay Narain Singh vs. State of Bihar (1984) 3 SCC 14, to contend that habituality cannot be inferred from isolated incidents.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has submitted that the petitioner squarely falls within the ambit of the definition of "Goonda" as envisaged under Section 2 of the Act of 1970. It has been urged that it is not sine qua non that the person must have been convicted of the offences in question; rather, the pendency of criminal cases, coupled with the material available on record, is sufficient to warrant initiation of proceedings under the Act.

7. It has further been contended that the petitioner's involvement in multiple criminal cases within close proximity of time unequivocally demonstrates his habitual propensity to indulge in criminal activities. Learned A.G.A. submits that the authorities below have, upon due consideration of relevant material, rightly concluded that the petitioner is a habitual offender and a threat to public order, and therefore, the externment order does not warrant any interference by this Court in exercise of its extraordinary writ jurisdiction.

8. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the impugned orders as well as the material available on record.

9. Section 2(b) of the Act 1970 reads as under:-

"Goonda' means a person who?

(i) either by himself or as a member or leader of a gang, habitually commits, or attempts to commit, or abets the commission of an offences punishable under section 153 or section 153-B or section 294 of the Indian Penal Code or Chapter XV, Chapter XVI, Chapter XVII or Chapter XXII of the said Code ; or

(ii) has been convicted for an offence punishable under the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act, 1956 ; or

(iii) has been convicted not less than thrice for an offence punishable under the U. P. Excise Act, 1910 or the Public Gambling Act, 1867 or section 25, section 27 or section 29 of the Arms Act, 1959 ; or

(iv) is generally reputed to be a person who is desperate and dangerous to the community ; or

(v) has been habitually passing indecent remarks or teasing women or girls ; or

(vi) is a tout ;

10. A Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Lalani Pandey @ Vijay Shankar Pandey vs. State of UP, 2010 SCC OnLine All 2411, held as under:-

"14....In this case the accused has not been treated as 'goonda' on the grounds mentioned in clause 2 (b) (ii) to (vii) of the Act as referred above. He has been treated as goonda under clause 2 (b) (i) of the Act. As per definition of goonda as contained in clause 2 (b) (i) of the Act, a person *can be teated as goonda only when he is habitually involved in commission of offence as mentioned therein. The word goonda carries on the meaning that a person who by habit is involved to commit repeated offences as mentioned above will be treated as 'goonda'. One or two criminal cases against a person will not be sufficient to hold him that he is habitually involved in commission of such offences and he is a 'goonda'.

15. In the case of Shankar Ji Shukla v. Ayukt, Allahabad Mandal, Allahabad and Others 2005 (52) ACC 638 the word 'habitually' came for consideration before this Court. The court relying on its previous judgment in the case of Imaran @ Abdul Qaddus Khan v. State of U.P. And others reported in 2000 (Suppl.) ACC 171 (Alld) as well as the case of Vijay Narain Singh V State of Bihar and Others reported in (1984) 3 SCC 14 decided by the Hon'ble Apex Court held that a single or two acts of the accused will not be sufficient to hold that he is habitually involved in commission of the offences referred in the Act. The relevant observation of the Hon'ble court finds place in para 6 of the judgment which is being extracted below:

"?.. 6. The emphasis is on the work habitual and a single or two acts after a long gap does not amount to the term 'Habitually'. The expression 'habitually' means 'repeatedly' or 'persistently'. It implies a thread of continuity stringing together similar repetitive acts. Repeated, persistent and similar, but not isolated, individual and dissimilar acts are necessary to justify an inference of habit. It connotes frequent commission of acts or omissions of the same kind. Because, the idea of 'habit' involves an element of persistence and a tendency to repeat the acts or omissions of the same kind, if the acts or omissions in question are not of the same kind or even if they are of the same kind when they are committed with a long interval of time between them, they cannot be treated as habitual ones. Learned counsel for the petitioner further relied on the case of Imaran @ Abdul Qaddus Khan v. State of U.P. And Others. In Imran's case (supra), the Court relied on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Vijay Narain Singh v. State of Bihar and Others, for defining the term 'Goonda'. It was further held in Imaran's case (supra) that even the minority view which was taken in Vijay Narain's case (supra) was that the word 'habitually' means 'by force of habit'. From the facts found above I find that the petitioner is not a habitual offender and he cannot be brought under the term 'Goonda' as defined under the Act???"

16. In this case, in counter affidavit filed by Awadhesh Kumar Awasthi, Sub Inspector, P.S. Saraini, District Raebareli, it has been specifically stated that the petitioner has a criminal history of as many as 9 cases but in the impugned notice issued by the learned Additional District Magistrate, only two cases as referred above have been mentioned therein, therefore, the criminal history of rest cases cannot be a ground to treat the petitioner as goonda which do not find place in the impugned order. If the criminal history of those cases would have been mentioned in the impugned notice, they could be considered for holding the accused as goonda. Since only two criminal cases have been referred in the impugned notice issued by the learned Additional District Magistrate to the petitioner hence only those two cases cannot be considered to determine as to whether the petitioner is goonda.

18. In the case of Shankar Ji Shukla v. Ayukt, Allahabad Mandal, Allahabad and Others (supra), it has been held that a person cannot be held to be 'goonda' only on the basis of one or two acts, a person can be held to be goonda only when he is in habit of committing repeated offences. In this case, only two criminal cases have been shown against the accused which too were registered by the police in pursuant to the order passed by the Judicial Magistrate on the applications moved by the respective complainants under Section 156 (3) of the Code. The petitioner on the basis of these two cases cannot be said to be habitually involved in commission of offences as defined under Section 2 (1) (b) of the Act. He, therefore, cannot be held to be goonda..."

11. A Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Shahanshah vs. State of UP and 2 Others, Neutral Citation No.- 2022:AHC:35631 decided on 16.03.2022, held as under:-

"The Apex Court in the case Vijay Narain Singh versus State of Bihar and others, (1984) 3 SCC 14 observed that it is essential to refer to at least two incidents of commission of crime for applicability of Clause (i) of section 2(b) of the 1970 Act.

Since there is reference of one incident only in the notice in hand, it falls short of the legal requirement as provided in Clause (i) of section 2(b) of the 1970 Act.

Again, a Division Bench of this Court in Suresh Tewari Vs. State of U.P. and others decided on 23.5.2018, after considering the Apex Court judgement in Vijay Narain Singh Vs. State of Bihar, 1984 (3) SCC 14 and Full Bench judgement of this Court in Bhim Sain Tyagi Tyagi Vs. State of U.P. 1999 (39) ACC 321, while considering the issue relating to slapping of the penal provisions of the Act against an individual on basis of a solitary case, has observed as follows:-

"The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Vijay Narain Singh versus State of Bihar and others (1984) 3 SCC 14 has been pleased to hold that it is essential to refer to at least two incidents of commission of crime for applicability of Clause (i) of section 2(b) of the Act. Since there is reference of one incident only in the notice, it falls short of the legal requirement as provided in Clause (i) of section 2(b) and in this way the notice being illegal could be challenged before this Court as laid down by the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Bhim Sain Tyagi v. State of U.P. And others 1999 (39) ACC 321. If there had been reference of two or more incidents in the impugned notice, then the minimum legal requirement of section, 2(b) Clause (i) would have been satisfied, and then in that case sufficiency of the material on merits could not be challenged before this Court, but before the authority concerned as laid down in the Division Bench ruling in the case of Jaindendra @ Chhotu Singh Versus State of U.P. (supra). But since the impugned notice in the present case is short of the legal requirement, it could be challenged in this Court. The observations in para 12 of the ruling in the case of Jaindendra (supra) which have been quoted above, also support this conclusion."

12. A Division Bench of this Court again in the case of Govardhan vs. State of UP, Neutral Citation No.- 2023:AHC:169934-DB, held as under:-

"9. It is a fundamental right of every citizen to reside peacefully and profess his business, but if the executive authorities are issuing notice under this deterrent law, then they must be doubly sure about the individual's past image, his past credentials, his family, social educational background and after assessing all these factors if the executive authorities comes to the conclusion that individual is a "Goonda" or a potential threat to society at large and should be thrown out from the municipal limits, then only by well reasoned order, after applying his own independent judicial mind pass a well reasoned order for externment of that individual or even issue notice to that individual calling upon him to justify his past conduct.

*10. The public perception regarding the individuals' image carries weight. If the individual is enjoying a bad reputation and name in the area and coupled with the fact that he has got a chequered past then executive authorities are well within their right to issue notice to that individual or to pass an externment order for that individual. Trivial and insignificant offences having one or two in number would not make the person branded as a "Goonda". This adjective "Goonda" itself carries bundle load of bad name, and the executive authorities casually and irresponsibly brand a person as a Goonda, goes without saying, that his entire future and reputation would go to dogs and cause irreparable damage to his name and reputation of his family.

13. Similarly, a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Saurabh @ Saurabh Kumar vs. the State of UP and 2 Ors., Neutral Citation No. - 2025:AHC:131125-DB, while relying on the case of Goverdhan (supra), held as under:-

"3. From the perusal of the impugned notice, following cases are registered against the petitioner :-

(1) Case Crime No. 150 of 2024 under Sections 389, 504, 506, 120B IPC and Section 67 of I.T. Act.

(2) Case Crime No. 1042 of 2024 under Sections 352, 351(3) B.N.S., and

(3) Beat Report No. 37/04.04.2025.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that on the basis of two cases, the petitioner has been issued notice under Section 3 U.P.Control of Goondas Act, which is not justified. This Court in the case of Goverdhan Vs. State of U.P. passed in Crl. Misc. Writ Petition No. 12619 of 2023 has struck down such a notice on the ground that because of implication only in two cases, a person cannot be held to be a Goonda within the definition of the Act.

5. This Court deprecated such practice on the part of the Government Officials and struck down such notice in view of the settled legal position, the impugned notice cannot be said to be in accordance with law, it is accordingly quashed."

14. Section 2(b) of the U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970 defines a "Goonda" as a person who habitually commits, attempts to commit, or abets the commission of offences punishable under various provisions of the Indian Penal Code, including offences affecting the human body such as causing hurt or injury, use of criminal force, kidnapping, sexual offences, as well as offences against property, including criminal trespass, mischief, and cheating, etc.

15. It is apparent from the statutory scheme that conviction is specifically required only in respect of certain offences under special enactments such as the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act, the U.P. Excise Act, the Public Gambling Act, and the Arms Act. However, in respect of offences under the IPC, the Act does not mandate prior conviction as a prerequisite for initiating proceedings.

16. It is further evident that the Act does not prescribe any fixed number of offences required to classify a person as a "Goonda," nor does it stipulate a specific time gap between offences for determining habituality. However, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vijay Narain Singh (supra), has held that for invoking the provisions of such preventive legislation, the person must be shown to be a habitual offender, and if offences are committed with a long time gap, the element of habituality may not be established.

17. It is apparent that this Court has consistently held that merely on the basis of one or two criminal cases, a person cannot be branded as a "Goonda". Such punitive action of the State causes irreparable damage to the reputation of such person and his family.

18. Since in the instant case also, the petitioner has been branded as "Goonda" on the basis of only two criminal cases registered against him, hence, the proceedings initiated under the Act of 1970 are unsustainable and liable to be quashed.

19. Accordingly, the instant writ petition is allowed. Consequently, the impugned order dated 12.02.2025 and 02.06.2025 are quashed.

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether the confiscation of the petitioner's vehicle u/s 5-A of U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955, on the allegation of transporting bovine animals for slaughter without permit, was legally sustainable when there was no material showing that the animals were being transported outside the State of Uttar Pradesh and no beef or slaughtered animal remains were recovered from the vehicle.

Headnotes

U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 - ss. 3 , 5, 5-A(8), 5-B - Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960 - s. 11 - Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 226 - Confiscation of vehicle - Requirement of permit - Transportation of bovine animals within State - Presumption of intended slaughter - Legality of confiscation - Challenged before District Magistrate, dismissed - Appeal before Commissioner, dismissed - Impugned orders - Compensation granted - Restoration of vehicle - The petitioner's vehicle was intercepted by police at Police Station Saiyadraja, District Chandauli, on the basis of information regarding transportation of bovine animals for slaughter to Bihar - Ten bovine animals were allegedly recovered from the vehicle, leading to registration of an FIR under U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 and the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960 - Subsequently, proceedings for confiscation of vehicle were initiated u/s 5-A of Act, 1955, and the District Magistrate, Chandauli confiscated the vehicle, which order was affirmed by Commissioner, Varanasi Division - The petitioner challenged the orders before the High Court contending that there was no evidence of transportation outside the State or for slaughter and that the confiscation was based only on presumption - While, the State argued that petitioner failed to establish that the confiscated animals were not being transported to Bihar for slaughter - It is submitted further that the surrounding circumstances gave rise to a strong presumption against the petitioner and the confiscation and auction of vehicle were in accordance with law.

Held: Admittedly, no beef or slaughtered animal flesh was recovered from the vehicle - The sole basis of confiscation appears that the animals were allegedly being transported without permit - However, there is no cogent material on record to establish that the animals were in fact being transported to State of Bihar for slaughter - Mere interception of vehicle near the Bihar border cannot ipso facto justify such presumption. Suspicion, however strong, cannot substitute legal proof - The entire action of State in confiscating the petitioner's vehicle was arbitrary, illegal and unsupported by statutory provisions of Act of 1955 - It is equally disturbing that during pendency of proceedings before the Commissioner, the State proceeded to auction the vehicle without awaiting adjudication of petitioner's challenge - Such arbitrary action has caused grave prejudice to petitioner - The material on record further indicates that the vehicle was a commercial transport vehicle and the principal source of livelihood of petitioner - It also appears that the vehicle had been financed through Shriram Finance Ltd. and the petitioner was paying monthly loan instalments of Rs.9,843/- until August, 2024, but defaulted thereafter owing to seizure of vehicle - In the circumstances, the Court deems it just and proper to award compensation to petitioner - Accordingly, the State is directed to pay compensation @ Rs.15,000/- per month for a period of about twelve months from 08.09.2024 to 14.09.2025, totalling Rs.1,80,000/-, together with an additional sum of Rs.20,000/- towards mental agony and harassment - Accordingly, writ petition allowed. ORIGINAL JURISDICTION: Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. - 28877 of 2025

From the Judgment and Order dated 22.03.2025 passed by District Magistrate, Chandauli in Case No. 1253 of 2024 and also Order dated 27.11.2025 passed by the Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi in Case No. 3546 of 2025.

Adv. for the Respondent(s):

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sandeep Jain, J.)

1. The instant writ petition has been instituted under Article 226 of the Constitution of India assailing the impugned order dated 27.11.2025 passed by the Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi in Case No.3546 of 2025, Computerized Case No.C202514000003546 (Chandrabhan Kumar vs. State of U.P.), under Section 5-A(8) of the U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955, whereby the order dated 22.03.2025 passed by the District Magistrate, Chandauli in Case No.1253 of 2024, Computerized Case No.D202414180001253 (State vs. Moti Patel and others), under Section 5-A of the Act, 1955, was affirmed. By the said order, vehicle no. UP65-JT-0125 belonging to the petitioner was confiscated on the allegation that it was carrying ten bovine animals for slaughter to the State of Bihar without a permit, which was mandatory under the Act of 1955.

2. The factual matrix, as emerging from the record, is that on 08.09.2024 at about 14:00 hours, the police personnel of Police Station Saiyadraja, District Chandauli, acting upon information supplied by an informer, that certain vehicles were transporting cows and their progeny for slaughter to the State of Bihar, intercepted vehicle no. UP65-JT-0125 belonging to the petitioner. Upon search, ten bovine animals, namely six heifers, two cows, one bull and one bullock, were allegedly recovered therefrom. Consequently, the vehicle was seized and FIR being Case Crime No.162 of 2024, under Sections 3/5-A/8 and 5 of the U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955, as well as Section 11 of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960, was registered at Police Station Saiyadraja, District Chandauli against Moti Patel, Anup, Chandrabhan Kumar (owner of the vehicle), and one unknown person.

3. Since, according to the prosecution, the aforesaid bovine animals were being transported in contravention of the provisions of the Act of 1955, proceedings for confiscation of the vehicle were initiated by issuance of notice under Section 5-A(7) of the Act, 1955 by the District Magistrate, Chandauli. The petitioner submitted his reply asserting that the vehicle had been forcibly seized and that no animals were being transported therein.

4. The District Magistrate, however, was not satisfied with the explanation furnished by the petitioner and recorded a finding that under the provisions of the Act and the Rules framed thereunder, a permit was required for transporting the animals to the State of Bihar and further, the animals were being transported for slaughter. Since the vehicle had been intercepted near the Bihar border, a presumption was drawn that the vehicle was proceeding towards Bihar and the animals were intended for slaughter. Consequently, in exercise of powers under Section 5-A(7) of the Act, 1955, the vehicle of the petitioner was confiscated.

5. The petitioner preferred an appeal/revision before the Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi under Section 5-A(8) of the Act, 1955, which too came to be dismissed by the impugned order dated 27.11.2025. The Commissioner concurred with the view that a permit was necessary for transportation of the aforesaid animals.

6. It is pertinent to note that the order dated 22.03.2025 passed by the District Magistrate was initially challenged by the petitioner by means of Criminal Revision No.49 of 2025 (Chandrabhan Kumar vs. State of U.P. and another), which was dismissed by the District Judge, Chandauli vide order dated 16.06.2025 on the ground of lack of jurisdiction, holding that the competent authority under Section 5-A of the Act, 1955 was the Commissioner.

7. Thereafter, the petitioner approached this Court by filing Petition under Article 227 No.6375 of 2025 (Chandrabhan Kumar vs. State of U.P. and 3 others), which was disposed of by a Coordinate Bench vide order dated 04.08.2025 granting liberty to the petitioner to file Criminal Revision before the Divisional Commissioner within four weeks. Pursuant thereto, the petitioner filed Criminal Revision under Section 5-A(8) of the Act, 1955, which was dismissed by the impugned order dated 27.11.2025.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the action of the State in confiscating the petitioner's vehicle is wholly arbitrary, illegal and unsustainable in law. It is contended that the vehicle was apprehended within the State of Uttar Pradesh and no beef or slaughtered animal remains were recovered therefrom. It is further submitted that there was no material whatsoever to infer that the bovine animals were being transported to Bihar for slaughter and the confiscation order is founded merely upon conjectures and presumptions.

9. It is next submitted that the proceedings before the Commissioner were instituted on 29.08.2025 and an application for interim protection against operation of the order dated 22.03.2025 was also moved, yet no order was passed thereon. During pendency of the said proceedings, the State authorities proceeded to auction the vehicle for a paltry sum of Rs.85,000/-, despite the market value of the vehicle being more than Rs.7 lakhs. It is argued that the State acted in undue haste and in gross disregard of fairness, as it ought to have awaited the final outcome of the proceedings pending before the Commissioner.

10. It is further submitted that the petitioner has suffered grave economic loss, inasmuch as the vehicle constituted his sole source of livelihood and sustenance. Accordingly, it is prayed that the impugned orders be quashed and suitable compensation be awarded.

11. Per contra, Sri Sanjeev Singh, learned Additional Advocate General, assisted by Sri Pankaj Saxena and Ms. Seema Shukla, learned A.G.A., has sought to support the impugned orders contending that the petitioner failed to establish that the animals were not being transported to Bihar for slaughter. It is submitted that the surrounding circumstances gave rise to a strong presumption against the petitioner and that the confiscation and auction of the vehicle were in accordance with law. It is thus urged that no interference is warranted in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

12. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the impugned order and the documents submitted with the petition.

13. Section 5-A and 5-B of the Act, 1955, which are relevant, reads as under:-

“5-A. Regulation on transport of cow, etc.(1) No person shall transport or offer for transport or cause to be transported any cow, or bull or bullock, the slaughter whereof in any place in Uttar Pradesh is punishable under this Act, from any place within the State to any place outside the State, except under a permit issued by an officer authorised by the State Government in this behalf by notified order and except in accordance with the terms and conditions of such permit.

(2) Such officer shall issue the permit on payment of such fee not exceeding five hundred rupees for every cow, bull or bullock as may be prescribed:

Provided that no fee shall be chargeable where the permit is for transport of the cow, bull or bullock for a limited period not exceeding six months as may be specified in the permit.

(3) Where the person transporting a cow, bull or bullock on a permit for a limited period does not bring back such cow, bull or bullock into the State within the period specified in the permit, he shall be deemed to have contravened the provision of sub-section (1).

(4) The form of permit, the form of application therefore and the procedure for disposal of such application shall be such as may be prescribed.

(5) The State Government or any officer authorised by it in this behalf by general or special notified order, may, at any time, for the purpose of satisfying itself, or himself, as to the legality or propriety of the action taken under this section, called for and examine the record of any case and pass such orders thereon as it or he may deemed fit.

(6) Where the said conveyance has been confirmed to be related to beef by the competent authority or authorized laboratory under this Act, the driver, operator and owner related to transport, shall be charged with the offence under this Act, unless it is not proved that the transport medium used in crime, despite all its precautions and without its knowledge, has been used by some other person for causing the offence.

(7) The vehicle by which the beef or cow and its progeny is transported in violation of the provisions of this Act and the relevant rules, shall be confiscated and seized by the law enforcement officers. The concerned District Magistrate/Commissioner of Police will do all proceedings of confiscation and release, as the case may be.

(8) The cow and its progeny or the beef transported by the seized vehicle shall also be confiscated and seized by the law enforcement officers. The concerned District Magistrate/Commissioner will do all proceedings of the confiscation and release, as the case may be.

(9) The expenditure on the maintenance of the seized cows and its progeny shall be recovered from the accused for a period of one year or till the release of the cow and its progeny in favour of the owner thereof whichever is earlier.

(10) Where a person is prosecuted for committing, abetting, or attempting to an offence under Sections 3, 5 and 8 of this Act and the beef or cow-remains in the possession of accused has been proved by the prosecution and transported things are confirmed to be beef by the competent authority or authorized laboratory, then the court shall presume that such person has committed such offence or attempt or abetment of such offence, as the case may be, unless the contrary is proved.

(11) Where the provisions of this Act or the related rules in context of search, acquisition, disposal and seizure are silent, the relevant provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 shall be effective thereto.

5-B. Whoever causes any physical injury to any cow or its progeny so as to endanger the life thereof such as to mutilate its body or to transport it in any situation whereby endangering the life thereof or with the intention of endangering the life thereof does not provide with food or water shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than one year and which may extend to seven years and with fine which shall not be less than one Lakh rupees and which may extend to three Lakh rupees."

14. This Court in the case of Kaliya vs. State of UP And Others 2023 SCC OnLine All 1974, held as under:-

"10. Having heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned A.G.A. and going through the record as well as provisions of the Act, I find that the moot question involved in this case is whether the present petitioner has violated any provision of law in transportation of cows and its progeny by the aforesaid vehicle and whether the impugned orders have been passed confiscating the said vehicle in accordance with law.

12. A perusal of section 5-A(1) of the Act shows that the said provision shall come into place when the cow or its progeny is transported from within the State of U.P. to any other place outside the State and in that case, permit issued by the authorised officer of the State government shall be required.

13. There is nothing on record to show that the alleged recovered animals, i.e. the cows were being transported from within the State of U.P. to any other State. Therefore, from the plain reading of section 5-A of the Act, the permit is not required in the peculiar facts of this case.

14. The question involved in the case in hand has also come up for consideration before this court in Kailash Yadav v. State of U.P. 2008 (10) ADJ 623 wherein it has been held that no permit is required for transportation of cow or its progeny within the State of U.P. Section 5-A(6 to 8) provides for confiscation and release of vehicle by which beef or cow and its progeny is transported in violation of the provisions of the Act and relevant rules.

15. From perusal of sub sections (1 to 5) of section 5-A of the Act and the law laid down by this court in Kailash Yadav's case (supra), it is evident that there is no need of permit to transport cow(s) and its progeny within the State of U.P. Hence, such transportation of cow and its progeny cannot be said to be in violation of the Act. Consequently, it can also not be said that the seized vehicle has been used in violation of Section 5-A or any other provision of the Act. Therefore, the police has no power or jurisdiction to seize or confiscate the vehicle in question and the District Magistrate also could not have issued notice under section 5-A of the Act when there is nothing to substantiate that the animals were being transported from within the State to some other State. In other words, in case the animals were being transported within the State of U.P., no show cause notice under section 5-A of the Act could have been given.

16. A coordinate Bench of this Court vide judgment and order dated 25.8.2022 passed in Mohd. Shakib v. State of U.P. Application under section 482 CrPC No. 23143 of 2021 has held that no permit is required to transport cow and its progeny within the State of U.P. and therefore, it cannot be said that the seized vehicle in question was used in violation of section 5A(1) to (11) or any provisions of the Cow Slaughter Act. Relevant paras 12 and 13 of the judgment in Mohd. Shakib's case (supra) is reproduced as below:

"12. Now, it is to be considered whether permit is required for transportation of the cow or its progeny within the State of Uttar Pradesh. This question came up for consideration before this Court in Criminal Revision No. 131 of 2005 (Kailash Yadav v. State of U.P., 2008 (10) ADJ 623), wherein it is held that no permit is required for transportation of cow or its progeny within the State of Uttar Pradesh. Sub-section 5A (6 to 8) provides for confiscation and release of vehicle by which beef or cow and its progeny is transported in violation of the provision of this Act and the relevant rules. Sub-section 5A (6 to 8) reads as follows:"

(6) Where the said conveyance has been confirmed to be related to beef by the competent authority or authorised laboratory under this Act, the driver, operator and owner related to transport, shall be charged with the offence under this Act, unless it is not proved that the transport medium used in crime, despite all its precautions and without its knowledge, has been used by some other person for causing the offence.

(7) The vehicle by which the beef or cow and its progeny is transported in violation of the provisions of this Act and the relevant rules, shall be confiscated and seized by the law enforcement officers. The concerned District Magistrate/Commissioner of Police will do all proceedings of confiscation and release, as the case may be.

(8) The cow and its progeny or the beef transported by the seized vehicle shall also be confiscated and seized by the law enforcement officers. The concerned District Magistrate/Commissioner will do all proceedings of the confiscation and release, as the case may be.

13. From the perusal of sub-section (1 to 5) of Section 5A of this Act and the law laid down by this Court in Kailash Yadav v. State of U.P. (supra), it is abundantly clear that there is no need of permit to transport cow and its progeny within the state of Uttar Pradesh. Therefore, transportation of a cow and its progeny within the state of Uttar Pradesh is not a violation of any of the provisions of the Cow Slaughter Act. Therefore, it cannot be said that the seized vehicle in question was used in violation of Section 5A (1) to (11) or any provisions of the Cow Slaughter Act, and therefore, police has no power or jurisdiction to seize or confiscate the vehicle in question. The District Magistrate, Varanasi has passed the impugned confiscation order dated 18.08.2021 in contravention of the law, as no permit is required to transport cow and its progeny within the state of Uttar Pradesh. In above circumstances, the impugned order dated 18.08.2021 passed by District Magistrate, Varanasi is without jurisdiction and the same is liable to be set-aside. Likewise, the revisional court has not considered the relevant provisions of Section 5A of Cow Slaughter Act while dismissing the criminal revision of the applicant, therefore, the impugned order dated 13.10.2021 passed by Special Judge (SC/ST Act), Chandauli is also against the provisions of law and is liable to be set-aside."

15. This Court again in the case of Munib vs. State of UP and 2 others 2024 SCC OnLine All 9631 held as under:-

"12. Thus transportation of cow etc. is regulated by Section 5A and Section 5A(7) confers power upon the District Magistrate/Commissioner of Police to confiscate the vehicle by which the beef or cow and its progeny is transported in violation of the provisions of this Act and the relevant Rules. A perusal of the F.I.R. indicates that none of the cow were maimed nor physically injured. Further, the allegation that they were being transported to West Bengal from Prayagraj for slaughtering requires no consideration as the condition precedent for the application of the section is that the cattle described in the Act should have been transported from any place in the State of U.P. to any place outside the State. Even if the story of seizure of cattle is believed then also 06 cattle are said to have been seized within the jurisdiction of Police Station Lalganj District Mirzapur namely within the State of Uttar Pradesh and admittedly, the border is far away. The fact remains that cattle were apprehended from within the State of U.P. and, therefore, it cannot be said that they were transported to a place outside the State of U.P.

13. ..Commission of offence is one of the requisite ingredients for passing an order of confiscation and an order of confiscation should not be passed automatically. Thus, there is no material, as exist on record, to justify the exercise of powers under Sub Section 7 of Section 5A. The same is clearly contrary to the mandates and powers conferred upon the District Magistrate.

14. The confiscation by its very connotation implies depriving a person of his property to which he is entitled to retain. Article 300A of the Constitution of India provides that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law. Arbitrary confiscation of the property which he might be using for his trade, profession or occupation is a serious encroachment on the fundamental right of a citizen under Article 19(1)(g) of the Constitution of India to carry on his trade, occupation or business. The procedure prescribed by law for confiscating the property as contained in Section 5A(7) of the Cow Slaughter Act, empowers the District Magistrate/Commissioner of Police to confiscate/seize the vehicle only if the conditions so prescribed under Sub Section 7 of Section 5A are fulfilled."

16. The Apex Court in the case of Nilabati Behera (Smt.) Alias Lalita Behera(Through The Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee) vs. State of Orissa and Others (1993) 2 SCC 746, held as under:-

"34. The public law proceedings serve a different purpose than the private law proceedings. The relief of monetary compensation, as exemplary damages, in proceedings under Article 32 by this Court or under Article 226 by the High Courts, for established infringement of the indefeasible right guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution is a remedy available in public law and is based on the strict liability for contravention of the guaranteed basic and indefeasible rights of the citizen. The purpose of public law is not only to civilize public power but also to assure the citizen that they live under a legal system which aims to protect their interests and preserve their rights. Therefore, when the court moulds the relief by granting "compensation" in proceedings under Article 32 or 226 of the Constitution seeking enforcement or protection of fundamental rights, it does so under the public law by way of penalising the wrongdoer and fixing the liability for the public wrong on the State which has failed in its public duty to protect the fundamental rights of the citizen. The payment of compensation in such cases is not to be understood, as it is generally understood in a civil action for damages under the private law but in the broader sense of providing relief by an order of making 'monetary amends' under the public law for the wrong done due to breach of public duty, of not protecting the fundamental rights of the citizen. The compensation is in the nature of 'exemplary damages' awarded against the wrongdoer for the breach of its public law duty and is independent of the rights available to the aggrieved party to claim compensation under the private law in an action based on tort, through a suit instituted in a court of competent jurisdiction or/and prosecute the offender under the penal law.

35. This Court and the High Courts, being the protectors of the civil liberties of the citizen, have not only the power and jurisdiction but also an obligation to grant relief in exercise of its jurisdiction under Articles 32 and 226 of the Constitution to the victim or the heir of the victim whose fundamental rights under Article 21 of the Constitution of India are established to have been flagrantly infringed by calling upon the State to repair the damage done by its officers to the fundamental rights of the citizen, notwithstanding the right of the citizen to the remedy by way of a civil suit or criminal proceedings. The State, of course has the right to be indemnified by and take such action as may be available to it against the wrongdoer in accordance with law ? through appropriate proceedings. Of course, relief in exercise of the power under Article 32 or 226 would be granted only once it is established that there has been an infringement of the fundamental rights of the citizen and no other form of appropriate redressal by the court in the facts and circumstances of the case, is possible?."

17. Similarly, the Apex Court again in the case of Indibily Creative Private Ltd. And Others vs. Government of West Bengal And Others (2020) 12 SCC 436, has granted compensation for consequential financial losses caused by State authorities. In this case the petitioner suffered violation of fundamental rights under Articles 19(1)(a) & (g), 14 and 21. The respondent State authorities were directed to pay compensation of Rs 20 lakhs, which was a huge amount. The relevant para is extracted hereinbelow:-

"52. As a consequence of the pulling off of the film from the theatres where it was screened on 16-2-2019, the petitioners have suffered a violation of their fundamental right to free speech and expression and of their right to pursue a lawful business. This has been occasioned by the acts of commission and, in any event, of omission on the part of the State in failing to affirm, fulfil and respect the fundamental freedoms of the petitioners. We are clearly of the view that a remedy in public law for the grant of remedial compensation is required in the present case. We order and direct the respondents to pay to the petitioners compensation which we quantify at Rs 20 lakhs within a period of one month from the date of the present judgment."

18. It is undisputed that ten bovine animals, namely six heifers, two cows, one bull and one bullock, were allegedly recovered from the petitioner's vehicle. Admittedly, no beef or slaughtered animal flesh was recovered from the vehicle. The sole basis of confiscation appears to be that the animals were allegedly being transported without permit. However, there is no cogent material on record to establish that the animals were in fact being transported to the State of Bihar for slaughter. Mere interception of the vehicle near the Bihar border cannot ipso facto justify such presumption. Suspicion, however strong, cannot substitute legal proof.

19. Further, it is apparent that cruelty to animals under Section 5-B of the Act, 1955 may attract separate proceedings, but the authorities below have not recorded any categorical finding that the vehicle was liable to confiscation on account of cruelty inflicted upon the animals. Even otherwise, for invoking such provisions, there must be evidence of such physical injury or conditions of transport as would endanger the life of the animals. There must be such injury on the body of the animals which either endangers their life or mutilates their body. It is apparent that a simple injury which neither endangers their life nor mutilates their body, is not sufficient to attract the provision of Section 5-B of the Act. Besides this, the prosecution is bound to prove such injuries in accordance with law. In the instant case, neither such evidence has been brought on record by the prosecution nor there is any discussion on this aspect by the authorities below.

20. The only ground assigned in the impugned orders is absence of permit. However, for transportation of cows or its progeny within the State of Uttar Pradesh, no permit is required. In absence of reliable evidence that the animals were being transported outside the State for slaughter, the very substratum of the confiscation proceedings collapses.

21. This Court is, therefore, constrained to hold that the entire action of the State in confiscating the petitioner's vehicle was arbitrary, illegal and unsupported by the statutory provisions of the Act of 1955.

22. It is equally disturbing that during pendency of proceedings before the Commissioner, the State proceeded to auction the vehicle without awaiting adjudication of the petitioner's challenge. Such arbitrary action has caused grave prejudice to the petitioner.

23. The petitioner has disclosed in the rejoinder affidavit that the vehicle had been purchased in May, 2023 for Rs.5,20,000/-. Yet, the same was auctioned on 14.09.2025 for only Rs.85,000/-. Even after accounting for depreciation @10% per annum, the vehicle was worth about Rs.4 lacs at the time of auction. The sale for such grossly inadequate consideration demonstrates manifest arbitrariness.

24. The material on record further indicates that the vehicle was a commercial transport vehicle and the principal source of livelihood of the petitioner. It also appears that the vehicle had been financed through Shriram Finance Ltd. and the petitioner was paying monthly loan instalments of Rs.9,843/- until August, 2024, but defaulted thereafter owing to seizure of the vehicle.

25. In the circumstances, this Court deems it just and proper to award compensation to the petitioner. Accordingly, the State is directed to pay compensation @ Rs.15,000/- per month for a period of about twelve months from 08.09.2024 to 14.09.2025, totalling Rs.1,80,000/-, together with an additional sum of Rs.20,000/- towards mental agony and harassment.

26. Learned A.A.G. submits that, in the alternative, the State is prepared to restore the vehicle to the petitioner. In the event the vehicle is restored, the petitioner shall nevertheless be entitled to compensation towards loss of earnings from September, 2024 till the date of actual restoration, calculated @ Rs.15,000/- per month. But if the vehicle is not restored to the petitioner, then the petitioner is entitled to depreciated cost of the vehicle of Rs.4 lacs also, alongwith the above damages.

27. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the writ petition deserves to be allowed.

28. In view of the aforesaid analysis, the petitioner is entitled to the following reliefs from the State and its functionaries:-

- The petitioner be paid damages @Rs.15,000/- per month for the economic loss from 08.09.2024 till the restoration of vehicle.

-The petitioner be also paid damages of Rs.20,000/- for the mental agony and harassment.

- If the State fails to restore the vehicle to the petitioner, then, the petitioner is also entitled to depreciated cost of vehicle of Rs.4 lacs, but in this case, the petitioner will be entitled to damages @ Rs.15,000/- per month for only 12 months.

- The above amounts be paid to the petitioner within 15 days.

29. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned order dated 22.03.2025 passed by the District Magistrate, Chandauli and the order dated 27.11.2025 passed by the Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi are hereby quashed. The State is at liberty to realize the damages awarded to the petitioner from the concerned employees and officials.

Criminal Appeal No. 104 of 1989

Ram Das & Ors.

...Appellants

Versus

State of U.P.

...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the prosecution had proved the charge under S. 302 I.P.C. beyond reasonable doubt where the F.I.R. was lodged after more than 24 hours of the incident, the informant was not an eyewitness, one eyewitness turned hostile, the other eyewitness was found unreliable, the ocular evidence was not supported by the medical evidence, and an eyewitness cited by the prosecution was not examined. (Paras 23-33)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Murder - Appreciation of evidence - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 302 - Burden of proof in criminal trial - Prosecution required to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt - Where the case rests on direct evidence, credibility of eyewitnesses assumes significance - Held, prosecution failed to establish the charge beyond reasonable doubt. (Paras 23, 32, 33)

Criminal Law - Murder - Delay in lodging F.I.R. - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 302 - First Information Report lodged after more than 24 hours of the occurrence - Informant not an eyewitness - Evidence indicating that police had reached the place of occurrence on the same day at about 8:00 p.m. - No plausible explanation for lodging the F.I.R. on the next day in the afternoon - Held, F.I.R. lodged with inordinate delay without any plausible explanation raising serious doubt about the prosecution case. (Paras 23-25)

Criminal Law - Murder - Motive - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 302 - Though motive loses significance in a case based on direct evidence, where prosecution sets up a motive it must prove the same - No evidence to show that the deceased had shot the father of one of the appellants - Held, prosecution failed to prove the alleged motive. (Para 26)

Criminal Law - Murder - Eyewitness account - Evidence of hostile witness - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 161 - Eyewitness not supporting prosecution case and unable to identify assailants due to poor vision - Statement under S. 161 Cr.P.C. not a substantive piece of evidence and usable only for corroboration or contradiction - Held, statement recorded under S. 161 Cr.P.C. had no evidentiary value and testimony of the witness was of no help to the prosecution. (Para 27)

Criminal Law - Murder - Appreciation of testimony of related and interested witness - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 302 - Sole supporting eyewitness being cousin of deceased - Material contradictions between examination-in-chief and cross-examination regarding manner of occurrence - Held, testimony did not inspire confidence and was not reliable. (Para 28)

Criminal Law - Murder - Ocular evidence vis-à-vis medical evidence - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 302 - Witness stating that deceased was shot from behind while running - Post-mortem showing that except one injury, all gunshot entry wounds were on the front side of the body - Held, medical evidence did not corroborate ocular testimony creating serious doubt about the prosecution case. (Paras 29, 30)

Criminal Law - Murder - Non-examination of material eyewitness - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 302 - One eyewitness not examined by prosecution though cited as present at the scene - Other eyewitnesses found unreliable or hostile - Held, adverse inference liable to be drawn against the prosecution. (Para 31)

Criminal Law - Murder - Acquittal - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 302 - Trial Court convicting appellants on appreciation of evidence found erroneous - Prosecution failing to prove case beyond reasonable doubt - Held, conviction and sentence liable to be set aside and appellants acquitted. (Paras 32-34)

Held: In a criminal case, the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt - the F.I.R. was lodged after more than 24 hours of the incident and has been lodged with inordinate delay without any plausible explanation which raises serious doubt about the prosecution case - the prosecution failed to prove the motive for the appellants to commit the offence and there is no evidence to show that appellant Munender's father was shot by the deceased - the evidence of P.W.4 Baba Ravi Giri is of no help for the prosecution and the statement recorded under S. 161 Cr.P.C. has no evidentiary value - the testimony of P.W.2 Ram Deen does not inspire confidence and it is hard to rely upon it and being a relative and interested witness his testimony required careful scrutiny - the medical evidence does not corroborate the ocular testimony of P.W.2 Ram Deen which creates a serious doubt about the prosecution case - the non-examination of the other eyewitness gives rise to an adverse inference against the prosecution - the testimony of P.W.2 Ram Deen is not trustworthy or consistent and P.W.4 Baba Ravi Giri has not supported the prosecution case and P.W.3 Ram Ratan is not an eyewitness to the incident - the ocular evidence is not supported by the medical evidence and the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt - the Trial Court appreciated the evidence incorrectly and reached the conclusion of guilt in error based on conjectures and the conviction and sentence of the appellants are liable to be set aside - Appeal allowed. Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeal arising from the common judgment and order dated 12.01.1989 passed by the Ist Additional Session Judge, Farrukhabad in Session Trial No. 09 of 1985 connected with Session Trial No. 210 of 1985 convicting the appellants under S. 302 I.P.C. and sentencing them to imprisonment for life.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:

Ms. Tahira Kazmi, learned Amicus Curiae.

Advs. for the Respondents:

Ms. Divya Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate-I for the State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjiv Kumar, J.)

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred by three convicts Ram Das, Suraj Singh and Munendra against the common judgment and order dated 12.01.1989 passed by Sri Sarnam Singh, the then Ist Additional Session Judge, Farrukhabad, in Session Trial No. 9 of 1985 connected with Session Trial No.210 of 1985, under Section 302 Indian Penal Code (in short □I.P.C.□).

2. By the impugned judgment and order, the appellants, namely Ram Das, Suraj Singh and Munendra were held guilty of the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C., convicted and sentenced to suffer imprisonment for life.

3. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that the informant, Ram Ratan, son of Bhairav, a resident of Village Nardoli, Police Station Sikanderpur Baish, District Etah submitted a written application (tehrir) at Police Station Kampil, District Farrukhabad, stating therein that on 17.07.1984, his brother of full blood, Asha Ram, had gone to Kampil to meet his aunt (Bua). While returning to Village Nardoli along with Baba Ravi Giri, Sohan Lal and Ram Deen, near Village Nakara falling within local limits of Police Station Sikanderpur Baish, four men, namely Vinod Kumar, Ram Das, Suraj Singh and Munendra Singh, residents of Village Nagla Malikhan, Police Station Patiyali, District Etah, intercepted and surrounded them and pointed country-made pistols at his brother, Asha Ram and his companions. Despite repeated requests and entreaties to spare him, Munendra Singh instructed his companions to leave the others unharmed and thereafter shot at Asha Ram, declaring that Asha Ram had earlier killed his father, Kishan Pal and that the time had come to take revenge. Thereupon, Munendra Singh, Ram Das and Suraj Singh opened fire employing their country-made pistols to shoot the informant's brother, Asha Ram, causing his death on the spot. Vinod Kumar stood nearby, brandishing his country-made pistol (tamancha) and threatening the informant and others. Upon alarm being raised, all the accused fled from the scene towards Jinol. It is further said that on the previous day, the informant had gone to Police Station Sikandarpur, District Etah to lodge a report, but the same was not registered on the ground that the offence fell within the jurisdiction of Police Station Kampil. Thereafter, the informant proceeded to lodge the present First Information Report. The incident is stated to have occurred on 17.07.1984 at about 12:00 noon.

4. On the basis of this information, First Information Report being Case Crime No. 141 of 1984, Section 302 I.P.C. was lodged at Police Station Kampil on 18.07.1984 at 12:20 p.m.. The investigation was entrusted to D.R. Mishra, Station House Officer of the police station concerned. The Investigating Officer commenced investigation and reached the place of occurrence, from where he collected plain earth, bloodstained earth, bloodstained umbrella and a towel and prepared a recovery memo thereof. He also prepared the site-plan and recorded the statements of the informant and other witnesses. The inquest of the deceased was held, an inquest report was prepared and the body was sent for autopsy. The post-mortem of the deceased was conducted and the cause of death was opined as shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem gunshot injuries.

5. After investigation, a charge sheet was filed against Vinod Kumar, Ram Das and Suraj Singh under Section 302 IPC before the learned magistrate and a separate charge sheet was filed against Munendar Singh, also for an offence punishable under Section 302 IPC.

6. The magistrate took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. They appeared before the Court and were furnished copies of the relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C. Thereafter, the cases were committed to the Court of Sessions for trial. Before the Sessions Court, accused Vinod Kumar, Ram Das and Suraj Singh appeared in Sessions Trial No.09 of 1985, while accused Munender Singh appeared in Sessions Trial No.210 of 1985. Charges under Section 302 I.P.C. were framed against them, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. Since both the sessions trials arose out of the same incident, the Trial Court consolidated both the trials and Sessions Trial No. 09 of 1985 was treated as the leading case.

8. The prosecution has examined six witnesses to prove its case, namely, P.W.1 Constable Multan Singh, P.W.2 Ram Deen, P.W.3 Ram Ratan, P.W.4 Baba Ravi Giri, P.W.5 S.I. Data Ram, and P.W.6 Dr. Manohar Singhal.

9. P.W.1, Constable Multan Singh, a formal witness, proved the G.D. entry dated 18.07.1984 made at 12:20 p.m. at Police Station Kampil while being posted there as Head Moharrir, on the basis of the chik FIR Ext:Ka-1, the copy of which he has proved as Ext. Ka-2. In his cross-examination, he has said that no other report regarding any cognizable or non-cognizable offence was recorded either before or after this entry.

10. P.W.2 Ram Deen has said that he knew all the four accused . The deceased, Asha Ram was his cousin. At the time of the incident, he, along with Baba Giri, Asha Ram, the deceased and one more man were all returning from Village Kampil. He also said that they were proceeding to their village, Nardoli. When the party reached near a thatched structure located in Village Nakara, all the four accused emerged from Behaya tree, carrying country-made pistols. The assailants surrounded them and Munender Singh, Suraj Pal and Ram Das opened fire targeting Asha Ram, while Vinod threatened them not to come forward. Asha Ram died on the spot. The accused fled away. Thereafter, he sent information to Asha Ram's brother, Ram Ratan, through a messenger.

11. In his cross-examination, P.W.2 Ram Deen has said that Asha Ram had met him at Village Kampil along with Babu Ram and Ram Chander and they stayed there during the night. Ram Chander and Babu Ram are sons of Asha Ram. Baba Giri met at Lord Kailash Nath Temple at about 7:00 p.m. The next day, at about 7:00 a.m., they proceeded towards their village. At the time of the incident, he was present at the place of occurrence and was on his way back from Shamshabad to Kampil. Ravi Giri, Sohan Lal and Asha Ram were there with him. As soon as they reached near Chetram's hut, they saw the accused at a distance of 4-5 steps. The accused pulled out country-made pistols from their pockets and pounced upon the victims. The informant along with others ran to save themselves and the accused chased and followed them across a distance of about 8-10 paces. The informant had taken a lead, Sohan Lal was to his left, Ravi Giri to his right and Asha Ram was running behind him. They heard four shots ring out. Asha Ram sustained injuries and collapsed to the ground. The rest of the victim party stopped after running across 10 paces. Baba Giri and Sohan Lal were running at a distance of one step to his left and right respectively and Asha Ram was about 4-5 steps behind him. The accused fled away after Asha Ram collapsed to the ground. He has stated that he saw the occurrence after he stopped and turned his face back. He did not go to the police station and Ravi Giri went to Police Station Nardoli. The police came to the spot at about 8:00 p.m. The police arrived there, followed by Ram Ratan, his mother Phool Mati and 8-10 other persons. The police asked Ram Ratan to go and lodge a report. The police inspected the place of occurrence, prepared the site-plan and the Investigating Officer also recorded statements at the same place.

12. P.W.3, Ram Ratan, the informant, has said that Asha Ram was his brother, who was shot at about 12:00 noon while returning to his house at Nardoli from village Kampil, where his aunt (Bua) resides. Ram Deen, Ravi Giri and Sohan Lal accompanied Asha Ram and when they reached near Chetram's hut, all the four accused met on the way. They pounced upon Asha Ram and his companions, whereupon they pleaded for their life. In consequence the accused Munender Singh asked others to spare all but Asha Ram and further, said that Asha Ram had shot and killed his father and that they would take revenge. Vinod Kumar kept standing there, waving his country-made pistol and the rest of the three accused opened fire employing their country-made pistols, shot Asha Ram and killed him. Upon alarm, the accused ran towards Village Jinaula. Thereafter, he went to Police Station Sikanderpur, where the Police refused to lodge the report, saying that the incident falls under the local limits of Police Station Kampil. He also has said that he got the Tehrir scribed from his Bua's son, Jyoti Swaroop and thereafter affixed his signature over it. The witness has proved the Tehrir Ext. Ka-3 and stated that the FIR was lodged at Police Station Kampil. In his cross-examination, he has said that a Gram Pradhan election was conducted prior to incident, in which Devraj @ Mahendra Singh was one of the contestants. He has also said that he was not an eye-witness to the incident and lodged the report on the basis of information given by Ram Deen, Ravi Giri and Sohan Lal.

13. P.W.4, Baba Ravi Giri, is an eyewitness to the incident, but has not supported the prosecution case. He said that he could not identify the accused who committed the offence due to his poor vision. The witness was declared hostile and cross-examined by the prosecution. However, nothing material has emerged from his testimony in support of the prosecution case.

14. P.W.5 Data Ram, the Investigating Officer of the case, has stated about the investigation carried out by him and said that for a first he reached the place of occurrence and took the dead body into his custody. Thereafter, the inquest was held and a report prepared by S.I. Raja Ram along with the other connected papers, which he has proved as Ext. Ka-4 to Ka-9. He further said that he recorded the statements of the informant and other witnesses and on pointing out of the informant, prepared the site-plan of the place of occurrence, which he proved as Ext. Ka-9. He collected blood stained earth and plain earth from the place of occurrence, along with a blood stained umbrella and towel and prepared its recovery memo, which he proved as Ext. Ka-10. He also recorded the statement of Baba Giri on 18.07.1984 and filed its copy, which is in his own handwriting and has been proved as Ext. Ka-11. After collecting evidence, he filed a charge-sheet against the accused, except Munendra Singh. Thereafter, the charge-sheet against accused Munendra Singh was filed by S.I. Babu Ram Sagar, which has been proved through secondary evidence.

15. P.W.6 Dr. Manohar Singhal is a formal witness, who conducted the autopsy of the deceased, Asha Ram, on 19.04.1984 at 3:15 p.m. while on duty at District Hospital, Fatehgarh. He has stated that the deceased was about 40 years of age and average built. Rigor mortis had passed off from all limbs. The skin had peeled off at places. The body was swollen, with blisters present at several places. The scrotum and penis were swollen. Reddish froth was coming from the mouth and nostrils. The clothes were soiled with dirt and clotted blood at places. He found the following ante-mortem injuries on the body of the deceased:-

*(ii) Gunshot wound of entry 4 cm * 3.5 cm * chest cavity deep, present on the right side of the chest (lateral aspect), 12 cm below the axillary fold, oval in shape.*

*(iii) Multiple gunshot wounds of entry, 7 in number, present in an area of 14 cm * 12 cm over the left scapular region up to the midline, varying in size from 0.5 cm * 0.25 cm to 0.25 cm * 0.2 cm, skin to chest cavity deep.*

*(iv) Gunshot wound of entry 6 cm * 4 cm * abdominal cavity deep, present on the left side of the back near the midline, surrounded by multiple gunshot wounds of entry, 18 in number, in an area of 11 cm * 7 cm, varying in size from 0.5 cm * 0.5 cm to 0.2 cm * 0.2 cm, skin to cavity deep.*

*(v) Gunshot wound of entry 6 cm * 5 cm * □ abdominal cavity deep, present on the midline at the level of T12-L1, oval in shape.”*

16. During the internal examination, P.W.6 Dr. Manohar Singhal found that the C2, C3, and C4 cervical vertebrae, as well as T12 and L1, were fractured, the spinal cord was lacerated, the pleura was lacerated, the larynx and trachea were lacerated, both lungs were lacerated, the pericardium was lacerated and the stomach, intestines, liver, pancreas, spleen and both kidneys were lacerated. A total of 125 small and medium-sized pellets and 7(wads) were recovered from the dead body.

17. P.W.6, Dr. Manohar Singhal, has also said that the cause of death was shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries and the death could have occurred about two days earlier. The witness proved the post-mortem report (Ext. Ka-14) and said that Asha Ram could have died on 17.07.1988 at about 12:00 noon due to gunshot, fired from a country-made pistol. In his cross-examination, the witness said that injury Nos. 1 and 4 could have been caused when the assailant was at a higher level than the deceased. He further said that all the injuries were caused from a distance of more than four feet.

18. After the closure of the prosecution evidence, the statements of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein they denied the prosecution case and stated that the witnesses had deposed against them due to enmity. No evidence was adduced by the accused in their defence.

19. After hearing the arguments of both parties and perusing the evidence on record, the Trial Court came to the conclusion that the prosecution had proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused, Ram Das, Suraj Singh and Munender, while the charge against the accused Vinod was not proved. Accordingly, accused Vinod Kumar was acquitted and the appellants, Ram Das, Suraj Singh and Munender were convicted for the offence punishable under Section 302 IPC and sentenced to imprisonment for life.

20. Heard Ms. Tahira Kazmi, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the appellants and Ms. Divya Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate-I appearing on behalf of the State.

21. It is submitted on behalf of the appellants that the testimony of the eyewitnesses is not reliable. It is further submitted that the first informant, Ram Ratan is not an eyewitness to the alleged incident. Another eyewitness, Baba Ravi Giri has not supported the prosecution case and turned hostile. It is also submitted that the oral testimony is not corroborated by the medical evidence, which raises serious doubts about the prosecution case. It is further submitted that another eyewitness, Sohan Lal was never examined and although the incident is alleged to have taken place near the hut of Chetram, he was also not examined. There are material contradictions in the testimony of P.W.2, Ram Deen, which directly contradicts the chronology of events. It is further submitted that, according to P.W.2 Ram Deen, the deceased, Asha Ram was shot from behind while running, however, the post-mortem report indicates that the entry wounds are on the front side of the body and there is no entry wound on the back of the deceased. It is also submitted that there was no motive for the appellants to commit murder. Therefore, the prosecution case is highly doubtful and the Trial Court has convicted and sentenced the appellants without properly appreciating the evidence, on the basis of conjectures.

22. Per contra, learned A.G.A.-I has submitted that the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt. It is a daylight murder and the eye-witness account has duly proved the prosecution case. The oral testimony is consistent, reliable and trustworthy. It is also submitted that there are no major contradictions between the oral and medical evidence and minor contradictions in the oral testimony are likely to occur when a witness is cross-examined at length. Therefore, the appellants were rightly convicted. This appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

23. It is settled law that in a criminal case, the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The present case is based on direct evidence. The first argument on behalf of the appellants is that the F.I.R. has been lodged belatedly without any reasonable explanation for the delay, which raises a serious doubt about the prosecution case. In this regard, according to the prosecution, the incident occurred on 17.07.1984 at 12:00 noon and the F.I.R. was lodged on the next day, i.e., on 18.07.1984 at 12:20 p.m. This would mean that the F.I.R. was lodged after more than 24 hours of the incident. According to the check F.I.R., the distance of the place of occurrence from the Police Station is 7 miles. The informant, P.W.3 Ram Ratan, is a brother of full blood of the deceased, Asha Ram. Admittedly, Ram Ratan was not present at the place of occurrence at the time of the incident and he has stated on oath that he lodged the F.I.R. on the basis of information furnished by Ram Deen, Ravi Giri and Sohan Lal, as he did not witness the incident. The reason for the delay in lodging the F.I.R. has been explained by the prosecution that firstly, Ram Ratan went to Police Station Sikanderpur to lodge the F.I.R., where it was refused on the ground that the incident had occurred within the jurisdiction of Police Station Kampil. Thereafter, the informant went to Police Station Kampil, where he lodged the F.I.R.

24. It is relevant to mention that P.W.2, Ram Deen, the cousin of the deceased, is an eyewitness to the incident. He has testified that after the incident, he informed the deceased's brother, Ram Ratan. In his cross-examination, he has said that the police reached the place of occurrence at 8:00 p.m. followed by Ram Ratan, his mother Phool Mati and others. The police told Ram Ratan to go and lodge the F.I.R. The above testimony of P.W.2, Ram Deen, is significant because if the police had reached at the place of occurrence at about 8:00 p.m., the same day, then there was no reason for the informant to lodge the F.I.R. the next day in the afternoon. Therefore, the F.I.R. has been lodged with inordinate delay without any plausible explanation, which raises serious doubt about the prosecution case.

25. In this regard, the observation of the Supreme Court in Meharaj Singh (L/Nk.) v. State of U.P., (1994) 5 SCC 188, in paragraph 12 is relevant and reads as follows:

“ FIR in a criminal case and particularly in a murder case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence for the purpose of appreciating the evidence led at the trial. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the FIR is to obtain the earliest information regarding the circumstance in which the crime was committed, including the names of the actual culprits and the parts played by them, the weapons, if any, used, as also the names of the eye witnesses, if any. Delay in lodging the FIR often results in embellishment, which is a creature of an after thought. On account of delay, the FIR not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger also creeps in of the introduction of a coloured version or exaggerated story. With a view to determine whether the FIR, was lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, the courts generally look for certain external checks. One of the checks is the receipt of the copy of the FIR, called a special report in a murder case, by the local Magistrate. If this report is received by the Magistrate late it can give rise to an inference that the FIR was not lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, unless, of course the prosecution can offer a satisfactory explanation for the delay in dispatch or receipt of the copy of the FIR by the local Magistrate. Prosecution has led no evidence at all in this behalf. The second external check equally important is the sending of the copy of the FIR along with the dead body and its reference in the inquest report. Even though the inquest report, prepared u/s 174 Cr.P.C. is aimed at serving a statutory function, to lend credence to the prosecution case, the details of the FIR and the gist of statements recorded during inquest proceedings get reflected in the report. The absence of those details is indicative of the fact that the prosecution story was still in embryo and had not been given any shape and that the FIR came to be recorded later on after due deliberations and consultations and was then ante timed to give it the colour of a promptly lodged FIR.”

26. According to the prosecution, the motive for the appellants to commit the murder was that the appellant Munender swore revenge on Asha Ram, as he was under the impression that his father, Kishan Pal, had been shot dead by Asha Ram. This is a case of direct evidence and in such cases, motive loses its significance. However, it is relevant to note that if the prosecution sets up a case that there was a motive for the appellants to commit the offence, then it is its duty to prove the same like any other fact asserted by it. In this regard, the prosecution have failed to prove the motive for the appellants to commit the crime. There is no evidence to show that appellant Munender's father, Kishan Pal was shot by the deceased Asha Ram. Therefore, although motive has no significant role to play in this case, but the prosecution has failed to prove the alleged motive for the appellants to commit the offence.

27. According to the prosecution, at the time of the incident, the deceased Asha Ram was accompanied by Baba Ravi Giri, Sohan Lal and Ram Deen and the incident occurred in their presence. The prosecution has examined Ram Deen and Baba Ravi Giri to prove their case. Sohan Lal has not been examined by the prosecution for reasons best known to it. P.W.4 Baba Ravi Giri has not supported the prosecution case and has stated that he could not identify the assailants because of poor vision in his eyes. The witness was declared hostile by the prosecution and in his cross-examination, nothing material has come in support of the prosecution case. Therefore, the evidence of P.W.4 Baba Ravi Giri is of no help for the prosecution. The prosecution have proved the statement of Baba Ravi Giri recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. as Ext. Ka-11 during the evidence of the Investigating Officer, but it is settled law that a statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is not a substantive piece of evidence and such a statement can be used only for corroboration or contradiction of the witness during his examination before the Court. In the present case, the witness has not supported the prosecution case and said in his cross-examination that he did not give any such statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., Therefore, the statement of Baba Ravi Giri recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has no evidentiary value.

28. A perusal of statement of P.W.2, Ram Deen shows that his testimony also does not inspire confidence and it is hard to rely upon it. P.W.2, Ram Deen is a cousin of the deceased. Therefore, he is a relative and an interested witness. It is settled law that the testimony of a relative or interested witness has to be examined carefully. P.W.2, Ram Deen, in his examination-in-chief, has said that when he, along with Baba Ravi Giri, Asha Ram and another person, were returning to Village Nadauli, and reached near the hut of Chet Ram under Village Nakara, all the four accused emerged from the Behaya tree, surrounded them and Munender, Suraj Pal and Ram Das shot Asha Ram, as a result of which he died on the spot. Thus, according to P.W.2, Ram Deen, the deceased

Asha Ram was shot after the accused surrounded him. Whereas, in his cross-examination, he has stated that the appellants were carrying country-made pistols in their hands and pounced upon them, and they(the victim party) ran towards west. The appellants chased them and they ran together to save themselves and while running, he (P.W.2) was in the lead with Sohan Lal to his left and, Baba Ravi Giri to his right and the deceased Asha Ram behind him. He has also stated that while on the run, Baba Ravi Giri and Sohan Lal were one step away from him, and Asha Ram was 4-5 steps behind him. He has further said that he heard four shots ring out, and as soon as Asha Ram fell, the accused fled away. All this incident he saw after turning his face back, upon stopping.

29. According to the prosecution, the deceased was shot with a country-made pistol. As per the statement of Ram Deen, he, along with the deceased, Sohan Lal and Baba Ravi Giri, was running when Asha Ram was shot. According to Ram Deen, they were running in close proximity to each other, therefore, one or more of them ought to have sustained injuries from the dispersal of pellets. However, none of the witnesses or the persons accompanying Asha Ram sustained any gunshot injury, which casts doubt on the version of Ram Deen that the deceased was shot while running alongside him.

30. The statement of P.W.2 Ram Deen is also contradictory to the medical evidence on record. According to the post-mortem report of the deceased, Asha Ram sustained five gunshot entry wounds. Out of these, one was on the right side of the neck, another on the right side of the chest, the third was in the scapular region up to the midline, the fourth was over the abdominal cavity and the fifth was deep in the abdominal cavity along the mid-line at the level of the iliac crest. Therefore, except for the gunshot entry wound found in the scapular region up to the mid-line, all other gunshot entry wounds were on the front side of the body. However, according to Ram Deen, the deceased was shot from behind. Thus, the medical evidence does not corroborate the ocular testimony of P.W.2 Ram Deen, which creates a serious doubt about the prosecution case.

31. As the testimony of P.W.2 Ram Deen is found to be not credible and P.W.4, Baba Ravi Giri has not supported the prosecution case, the non-examination of the other eyewitness, Sohan Lal, by the prosecution gives rise to an adverse inference against the prosecution, as held by the Supreme Court in Hem Raj v. State of Haryana (supra) that an unexplained omission to examine independent eye-witness would give rise to an adverse inference, particularly, when the eye-witnesses actually produced were not found to be reliable and there were serious doubts about their presence at the spot.

32. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution has not been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The testimony of P.W.2, Ram Deen, is not trustworthy or consistent. P.W.4, Baba Ravi Giri, has not supported the prosecution case. P.W.3, Ram Ratan, is not an eyewitness to the incident. The ocular evidence is not supported by the medical evidence. The FIR has been lodged belatedly and there is no reasonable explanation for the delay in lodging the FIR.

33. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the Trial Court has appreciated the evidence on record incorrectly and reached the conclusion of guilt for the appellant, in error, based on conjectures and thus, the conviction and sentence of the appellants is liable to be set aside.

34 . In view of the above, the instant criminal appeal is allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 12.01.1989 passed by the Trial Court is set aside and the appellants, Ram Das, Suraj Singh and Munendra are acquitted.

35. The appellants, Ram Das, Suraj Singh and Munendra are on bail. They need not surrender. Their bail bonds are cancelled and the sureties discharged.

36. The appellants shall each execute a personal bond in the sum of Rs.20,000/- under Section 481 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding to Section 437-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973) for their appearance, in the event of an appeal being preferred against their acquittal.

37. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the Trial Court concerned alongwith the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

1. This criminal appeal, under Section 374 (2) Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short □Cr.P.C.□), has been preferred by appellant, Rameshwar Prasad Gupta, against judgment and order dated 31.01.1985 passed by Mr. Badri Niwas, Ist Additional Sessions Judge, Ballia, in Sessions Trial No. 124 of 1983 (State Vs. Lachia Devi and others), arising out of Case Crime No. 259 of 1982, under Sections 306 IPC, Police Station Sukhpura, District Ballia.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, appellant-Rameshwar Prasad Gupta, was convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for five years and awarded a fine of Rs.1000/- for offence punishable under Section 306 IPC, with default stipulation.

3. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that the first informant Paras Nath Gupta, son of Late Kedarnath Gupta, resident of Dildarnagar, Police Station Dildarnagar, District Ghazipur, filed a written application (Tahrir) dated 13.12.1982, at Police Station Sukhpura, District Ballia, stating therein that his daughter, Manju, was married to Rameshwar Prasad Gupta, son of Awadh Prasad, resident of Hanumanganj, Police Station Sukhpura, District Ballia, about two years ago. After the marriage, his daughter Manju was harassed by her sister-in-law (Jethani) for want of dowry. On 08.11.1982, his daughter wrote a letter to him, in which, she demanded a radio or Rs.2000/- for her in-laws. On 19.11.1982, Jagannath, from Hanumanganj, came and informed him that his (first informant□s) son-in-law, Rameshwar, is seriously ill and asked him to go to Sadar Hospital, Ballia. Thereupon, the first informant went to District Hospital, Ballia and also to the shop of his son-in-law, where he came to know that his daughter had been set ablaze and her last rites have also been performed. Thereafter, he kept inquiring about his daughter□s cause of death and came to know that she was burnt by her husband, mother-in-law and sister-in-law for want of dowry. Upon this information, FIR was registered under Case Crime No. 259 of 1982, under Section 306 IPC against the appellant, Rameshwar Prasad Gupta, co-accused Lallan Prasad Gupta, Smt. Lachia Devi and Smt. Sushila Devi.

4. The investigation of the case was entrusted to S.O. Hari Nath Sharma, Police Station, Sukhpura. The Investigating Officer reached at the place of occurrence and collected some articles and a letter written by deceased Manju Gupta addressed to her mother. He also inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site-plan (Ext. Ka-6). He recorded statements of the first informant and other witnesses and, after completion of investigation, filed charge-sheet against all the four accused, under Section 306 IPC, before the concerned Magistrate.

5. The learned Magistrate took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. They appeared before the Court and were furnished copies of relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C. and thereafter, the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial. The appellant and other co-accused persons appeared before the Trial Court and charge under Section 306 IPC was framed against them to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

6. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined P.W.1 Paras Nath Gupta, (father of the deceased and first informant), P.W.2 Radhika Devi, (mother of the deceased), P.W.3 Kailash Singh, (scribe of FIR), P.W.4 Hari Nath Sharma, (Investigating Officer) and P.W.5, Dr. G.K. Tripathi, (who conducted post-mortem examination of the deceased). Their testimony, in brief, is enumerated as under.

7. P.W.1 Paras Nath Gupta, is the father of the deceased and also the first informant of the case. He has deposed on oath that his daughter Manju Gupta was married to appellant Rameshwar Prasad Gupta. He had given Rs.3000/- in marriage along with some other goods. Only two-in-one radio could not be given, however, he had promised to give it later. After the marriage, his daughter went to her matrimonial house. Whenever, she visited her parental house, she used to tell her mother that her in-laws taunted and harassed her for not bringing a radio. She had told that her mother-in-law Lachia Devi, sister-in-law (Jethani) Sushila Devi, husband Rameshwar Prasad and brother-in-law (Jeth) Lallan, are demanding radio and caused her harassment. P.W.1 further stated that he had promised the appellant and co-accused to give a radio after sometime. His daughter insisted not to go to her in-laws house, however, somehow she was convinced to go to her matrimonial house.

8. It is further deposed by P.W.1 that on 05.11.1982, he received a letter from his daughter Manju (Ext. Ka-1), in which, she wrote to give Rs.2000/- or a radio. The incident occurred on 18.11.1982. Her daughter was living with her husband Rameshwar in village Hanumanganj. The next day of the incident, at about 12 noon, a person named Jagannath Prasad came and informed that his son-in-law Rameshwar is seriously ill and admitted in District Hospital, Ballia. Thereupon, he along with his friend Syed Hasan went to District Hospital, Ballia and came to know that his daughter Manju has died and her last rites have also been performed. Thereafter, he went to Lallan Prasad's shop, where his son-in-law Rameshwar Prasad was also present. He went to the hospital as well. He stayed the entire night with them and in the morning left for his village Dildarnagar. He kept inquiring about the cause of his daughter's death and came to know that her in-laws were taunting her with regard to demand of dowry and had set her ablaze and that they compelled her to such an extent that she committed suicide. It is further stated by P.W. 1 that thereafter he, along with his wife, Radhika met Superintendent of Police, Ballia, who asked him to go to Police Station Sukhpura, where his report was lodged on the basis of his written application (Tehrir), (Ext. Ka-2). P.W.1 has further stated that all the four accused harassed his daughter due to want of radio and his daughter used to say about her harassment with her friends.

9. In cross-examination, P.W.1 has stated that Jagannath Prasad had reached at his house at about 11:00 a.m. or 12 noon. He runs a hotel in Dildarnagar. He has two other daughters and a son. Rameshwar Prasad has a shop of ready-made garments at Meena Bazar Road. The accused also have a bangles shop at Meena Bazar. He has written in his application (Ext. Ka-2) that his daughter demanded a radio. He further stated that he had written in his application (Tahrir) that his daughter had demanded a radio, however, it was not written that the accused were demanding it. Under pressure, he had promised to give a radio to the accused. After the marriage, the accused did not post any letter demanding radio. Except for letter (Ext. Ka-1), deceased Manju did not write any other letter regarding demand of radio and her harassment by her in-laws, although, earlier, Manju had written many letters. Upon showing him letter dated 15.10.1982, the witness said that this letter is signed and written by his daughter Mala, which the witness has proved as Ext. Kha-1. He has further stated that he went to District Hospital Ballia, but nobody was found there. Thereafter, he went to Meena Bazar at about 06:00 p.m., at the shop of the accused, where Lallan Prasad was present. It is further stated that he does not remember the person, who told him that his daughter was burnt because many persons were present there. He could not ascertain at which place her daughter's cremation took place. He slept with accused Rameshwar Prasad, at the shop, the entire night. In hospital, he could not know that his daughter was brought and admitted in the hospital. He cannot tell name of any person from whom he inquired about the cause of his daughter's death. He has denied the suggestion that deceased Manju had demanded a radio for her own use because she used to live alone at the house and her sister-in-law and mother-in-law worked at the bangles shop. He also denied the suggestion that after the last rites of the deceased, he himself, along with his wife, came to the accused's house and proposed marriage of their another daughter Mala with Rameshwar, to which they refused and thereafter a false case was lodged against them.

10. P.W.2, Radhika Devi, is the mother of the deceased. She has stated on the same lines as stated by P.W.1. She has stated that during the Tilak ceremony, they could not give a two-in-one radio, but promised to give the same later on. Her daughter had written a letter prior to her death, in which she had asked to send a radio or Rs.2000/-. She has said that whenever her daughter came to her parental home, she used to say that her husband, sister-in-law and mother-in-law tease her and caused her harassment and she has belief that radio was the cause of her daughter's harassment, which compelled her to commit suicide. In cross-examination, P.W.2 has stated that they had not promised to give a radio though accused Rameshwar was raising demand for it.

11. P.W.3 Constable Kailash Singh is a formal witness, who scribed the chik FIR on 13.12.1982 and entered its gist in the G.D. at the Police Station. He has said that on the basis of Tahrir (Ext. Ka-2), given by the first informant, he had scribed the chik-FIR, which he has proved as Ext. Ka-3.

12. P.W.4 S.O. Hari Nath Sharma is the Investigating Officer of the case. He has stated about the investigation carried out by him and said that during investigation, he prepared the inquest report and collected post-mortem report and other papers. He recorded statements of the first informant, other witnesses and the accused. The informant had handed over him a letter written by the deceased. He searched accused Rameshwar Prasad's room on 12.12.1982 and found some suspicious articles, which he kept in his possession and prepared its recovery memo (Ext. Ka-4). He inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site-plan, which he has proved as Ext. Ka-6. After concluding investigation, he filed two charge-sheets before the competent court, which he proved as Exts. Ka-7 and Ka-8. As secondary witness, he has proved inquest and related papers written by S.I. P.N. Singh as Exts. Ka-9 to Ka-14.

13. In cross-examination, he has stated that the deceased was admitted in hospital in a burnt condition on 18.11.1982 at 06:30 p.m. and she died on 19.11.1982 at 08:30 a.m. She was alive when she was admitted in the hospital. He did not deem it necessary to record the statement of the doctor, who treated the deceased in the hospital, as he was provided the post-mortem report and all other papers. She was admitted by her in-laws and other people. He came to know that after her death, a fake proceeding for recording her dying declaration was conducted by the accused, but he did not record it in his case diary. Many people were secretly telling that the deceased was harassed by her in-laws, which compelled her to commit suicide, but he has not recorded their names in the case diary.

14. P.W.5 Dr. G.K. Tripathi, is a formal witness, who has conducted post-mortem of the deceased on 19.11.1982 at 03:45 p.m. in the District Hospital, Ballia. He has stated that the body of the deceased was average built. Rigor mortis was present over upper and lower part of body. Eyes and mouth were closed. There were no sign of decomposition. In the form of ante-mortem injuries, the entire body was burnt right from face, neck, chest, stomach and legs. It was 80-90 degree of burn. Both lungs were found congested and blood was present in all the chambers of heart. The stomach was found empty. There were gas and fecal matter in large intestine. In the opinion of the Doctor, the cause of death was shock, as a result of burn injuries and the death could have occurred on 19.11.1982 at 04:30 a.m. in District Hospital, Ballia. The doctor has proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-15 and has said that there were no other physical injury except for the burn injuries and burn injuries could have been caused on 18.12.1982 at 05:00-06:00 p.m.

15. In cross-examination, he has said that in the ordinary course of nature, at the time of cooking or from the flame of a lantern etc. or due to nervousness, this degree of burn is possible. There was no smell of kerosene oil etc. emanating from the body.

16. After closure of prosecution evidence, statements of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which, they denied the prosecution case. It was admitted that deceased Manju was married to appellant Rameshwar Prasad. It was also admitted that after marriage, Manju used to come to her parental house of her own will. It was further stated that witnesses are deposing against them due to enmity and the victim had died due to burn injuries while cooking. At the time of incident, the accused were not present at the home. Actually, informant Paras Nath wanted to solemnize marriage of his second daughter Mala with the appellant, Rameshwar Prasad, to which, the accused were not agreed and as a result, a false case has been lodged against them. It was further stated that at the time of incident, the accused were at the shop.

17. The defence has produced D.W.1, Dr. S.P. Narain as defence witness, who has stated that he was posted as Medical Officer, Ballia on 18.11.1982 and on that day at about 06:30 p.m., Smt. Manju wife of Rameshwar was brought in a burnt condition to the hospital by her brother-in-law (Jeth) Lallan Prasad. He found following ante-mortem injuries:

Superficial burn injuries over face, neck, chest and half of the back. Both arms and lower limbs were burnt. There was erythema and blisters at places over the body. It was about 90 per cent burn and the patient was conscious.

18. D.W.1 has stated that the injuries were kept under observation, which were caused by burn and were fresh in nature. He further said that he had brought accidental register prepared by him at the time of medical examination and proved the same as Ext. Kha-2. He also brought bed head ticket of the deceased prepared by him and other doctors. He has also said that he had sent a memo to S.D.M., Ballia for recording dying declaration of the injured, and in this regard, he had made an endorsement on memo book at Page No. 39, which he has proved as Ext. Kha-3. He has said that he had sent a carbon copy of this memo at 06:40 p.m. to S.D.M., Ballia, but he was not available. He has made endorsement in this regard at 08:00 p.m. He has also said that he has sent information to S.O. Kotwali, regarding this memo.

19. In cross-examination, D.W. 1 has said that S.D.M., Ballia was not available. He did not send memo to any other officer for recording dying declaration of the injured. He himself did not take any statement of the deceased Manju. She was talking and was conscious. She did not tell him, how she got burn injuries. As recording of her dying declaration had to take place, therefore, he did not ask of her burn injuries from herself or her family members. She was crying in pain at the time of admission in the hospital.

20. After hearing arguments of both the parties and perusing the material as well as evidence on record, the Trial Court came to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The testimony of prosecution witnesses was found consistent, reliable and trustworthy. It is also held by the Trial Court that ocular evidence is supported by medical evidence and the prosecution has proved that the appellant, Rameshwar Prasad Gupta, had committed offence of abetment to suicide. The Trial Court found that charge under Section 306 IPC is not proved against co-accused Lachia Devi Sushila Devi and Lallan Prasad Gupta, who were acquitted by the impugned judgment and order.

21. Heard Shri Kameshwar Singh, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Rajesh Kumar Rao, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State and perused the material available on record.

22. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that there is not sufficient evidence to prove the charge against the appellant. It is further submitted that the victim/deceased was not subjected to any cruelty or harassment by the appellant and she demanded a radio or Rs.2000/- from her mother through a letter for her personal use, as she remained alone during the daytime, while other family members had to be present at the shops. It is further submitted that essential ingredients of Section 306 IPC are not proved. It was her brother-in-law (Jeth) Lallan, who had admitted the deceased in District Hospital, Ballia and even the doctor had tried to get her dying declaration recorded, however, unfortunately it could not be recorded. It is also submitted that the first informant himself stayed with the appellant at his house the entire night, when the deceased had died and inquest was prepared and post-mortem was conducted.

23. Learned counsel for the appellant next submits that the death of the victim was accidental, due to burn injuries sustained while cooking and that is the reason, the FIR was not lodged by the first informant promptly and it was after about twenty five days, the FIR was lodged, as the first informant wanted to solemnize marriage of his other daughter Mala with the appellant, which proposal he had refused. It is further submitted that the alleged letter of the deceased does not disclose that the deceased was being subjected to any harassment or cruelty by the appellant. Therefore, the Trial Court failed to consider the evidence on record correctly and has illegally convicted and sentenced the appellant.

24. Per contra, learned AGA has submitted that the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt. The deceased was subjected to cruelty and harassment for want of a radio or Rs.2000/- by the appellant, which compelled her to commit suicide. There is consistency in the statement of witnesses, which are reliable and trustworthy. The ocular evidence is supported with medical evidence. Therefore, the appellant was rightly convicted by the Trial Court.

25. It is settled law that in a criminal case, the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. Here, in the present case, it is not in dispute that the appellant is the husband of deceased, Manju, and the first informant is her father. The first argument of the appellant is that the FIR has been lodged belatedly and there is no reasonable explanation of delay, which raises doubt over the prosecution case. In this regard, the prosecution case is that the incident occurred on 18.11.1982 at about 04:00 or 05:00 p.m. and thereafter, victim Manju was admitted in District Hospital, Ballia in a burnt condition, where on 19.11.1982, at about 04:30 a.m., she succumbed to her injuries. As per P.W.1 Paras Nath Gupta, the father of the deceased, on 19.11.1982, one person named, Jagannath, came to his house from Hanumanganj and informed that his son-in-law, Rameshwar Prasad, is seriously ill and is admitted in District Hospital, Ballia, thereupon, he went to District Hospital, Ballia and then at the shop of his daughter's brother-in-law, he came to know that his daughter was set ablaze by her in-laws and her last rites have also been performed. Then the first informant lodged the FIR on 13.12.1982 at 05.20 p.m. Therefore, the FIR was lodged after a delay of 25 days.

26. From the statement of P.W.1, Paras Nath Gupta, it emerges that on 19.11.1982 itself, he came to know that his daughter was killed, but surprisingly he did not lodge any FIR the same day or soon thereafter and the FIR was lodged belatedly after a gap of 25 days. The explanation of delay, given on behalf of the prosecution is that, in the meantime, the informant kept inquiring about the cause of death of his daughter. This explanation is not very convincing, as the first informant has stated that on the same day i.e.19.11.1982, he came to know that his daughter was killed by the appellant, so there was no reason why he would inquire further and wait for 25 days to lodge the FIR. The first informant has also not disclosed the name of any person(s) from whom he acknowledged that his daughter was set ablaze by the accused. It is also relevant that he stayed the entire night with the appellant, at his shop, and in the morning he left for his home. If he came to know that the appellant and his family had killed his daughter, then there was no reason for him to inquire from others about her death and also stay with the accused the entire night and lodge FIR after so much delay. In view of the above, no proper explanation of delay in lodging the FIR has been given by the prosecution, which raises serious suspicion over the prosecution case.

27. The lodging of FIR belatedly without any reasonable explanation and its effect has been well discussed by the Supreme Court in Meharaj Singh (L/NK.) v. State of U.P., (1994) 5 SCC 188, where it has been observed in para 12 as under:

“ FIR in a criminal case and particularly in a murder case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence for the purpose of appreciating the evidence led at the trial. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the FIR is to obtain the earliest information regarding the circumstance in which the crime was committed, including the names of the actual culprits and the parts played by them, the weapons, if any, used, as also the names of the eye witnesses, if any. Delay in lodging the FIR often results in embellishment, which is a creature of an after thought. On account of delay, the FIR not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger also creeps in of the introduction of a coloured version or exaggerated story. With a view to determine whether the FIR, was lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, the courts generally look for certain external checks. One of the checks is the receipt of the copy of the FIR, called a special report in a murder case, by the local Magistrate. If this report is received by the Magistrate late it can give rise to an inference that the FIR was not lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, unless, of course the prosecution can offer a satisfactory explanation for the delay in dispatch or receipt of the copy of the FIR by the local Magistrate. Prosecution has led no evidence at all in this behalf. The second external check equally important is the sending of the copy of the FIR along with the dead body and its reference in the inquest report. Even though the inquest report, prepared u/s 174 Cr.P.C. is aimed at serving a statutory function, to lend credence to the prosecution case, the details of the FIR and the gist of statements recorded during inquest proceedings get reflected in the report. The absence of those details is indicative of the fact that the prosecution story was still in embryo and had not been given any shape and that the FIR came to be recorded later on after due deliberations and consultations and was then ante timed to give it the colour of a promptly lodged FIR.”

28. In view of the above discussion and the decision of the Supreme Court in Maharaj Singh (supra), the inordinate delay in lodging the FIR in this case, with no proper explanation, raises serious doubt over the prosecution case.

29. Here, it is relevant to mention that the prosecution has examined only two witnesses of fact namely, Paras Nath Gupta (P.W.1) and Smt. Radhika Devi (P.W.2). P.W.1 Paras Nath Gupta is the father and P.W.2 Smt. Radhika is the mother of the deceased. It has come in their evidence that the husband and in-laws of their daughter were demanding a two-in-one radio or Rs.2000/- in dowry and in this connection they harassed the deceased. The appellant has denied any such demand of dowry and harassment. In this regard, the prosecution has produced an original letter (Ext. Ka-1) written by Manju, the deceased, to her mother Radhika Devi and it is submitted by the prosecution that in this letter it is disclosed that the appellant demanded a two-in-one radio or Rs.2000/- from the deceased, which goes to show that it was the appellant, at whose instance, she wrote this letter demanding the aforesaid items from her mother.

30. In this regard, a perusal of letter (Ext. Ka-1) reveals that this letter is written in a very plain and simple language and there is no whisper in it, which can give an impression that the deceased was being harassed by the appellant for want of a radio or Rs.2000/- in dowry. The deceased has simply written to her mother to send a two-in-one radio or Rs.2000/-. It has nowhere been mentioned in the letter that she was being asked to fulfil the said demand by the appellant. There is no content in the letter that the deceased was being harassed by the appellant for demand of these items. Allegedly, this letter was written about 13 days prior to the date of incident. It has come in evidence that the marriage of the deceased was solemnized with appellant on 10.03.1980 and after about two and a half years, this incident had occurred.

31. The appellant has been charged for offence punishable under Section 306 IPC, which is abetment to suicide. In this regard, in Jayedepsingh Pravinsingh Chavda & Others V State of Gujarat, 2025 (2) SCC 216, Hon^{ble} Supreme Court has observed as under:

“21. Section 306 of the IPC provides for punishment for the offence of abetment of suicide. It has to be read with Section 107 of the IPC which defines the act of ‘abetment’. The provisions read as follows: ‘

306. Abetment of suicide.-If any person commits suicide, whoever abets the commission of such suicide, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine.”

“107. Abetment of a thing.-A person abets the doing of a thing, who -”

First.-Instigates any person to do that thing; or

Secondly.-Engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing; or

Thirdly.-Intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing.

Explanation 1.-A person who by wilful misrepresentation, or by wilful concealment of a material fact which he is bound to disclose, voluntarily causes or procures, or attempts to cause or procure, a thing to be done, is said to instigate the doing of that thing.

Explanation 2.- Whoever, either prior to or at the time of the commission of an act, does anything in order to facilitate the commission of that act, and thereby facilitate the commission thereof, is said to aid the doing of that act.”

22. Section 306 of the IPC penalizes those who abet the act of suicide by another. For a person to be charged under this section, the prosecution must establish that the accused contributed to the act of suicide by the deceased. This involvement must satisfy one of the three conditions outlined in Section 107 of the IPC. These conditions include the accused instigated or encouraged the individual to commit suicide, conspiring with others to ensure that the act was carried out, or engaging in conduct (or neglecting to act) that directly led to the person taking his/her own life.

23. For a conviction under Section 306 of the IPC, it is a well- established legal principle that the presence of clear mens rea the intention to abet the act is essential. Mere harassment, by itself, is not sufficient to find an accused guilty of abetting suicide. The prosecution must demonstrate an active or direct action by the accused that led the deceased to take his/her own life.

The element of mens rea cannot simply be presumed or inferred; it must be evident and explicitly discernible. Without this, the foundational requirement for establishing abetment under the law is not satisfied, underscoring the necessity of a deliberate and conspicuous intent to provoke or contribute to the act of suicide.

24. The same position was laid down by this Court in S.S. Chheena v. Vijay Kumar Mahajan (2010) 12 SCC 190, wherein it was observed that:

“25. Abetment involves a mental process of instigating a person or intentionally aiding a person in doing of a thing. Without a positive act on the part of the accused to instigate or aid in committing suicide, conviction cannot be sustained. The intention of the legislature and the ratio of the cases decided by the Supreme Court is clear that in order to convict a person under Section 306 IPC there has to be a clear mens rea to commit the offence. It also requires an active act or direct act which led the deceased to commit suicide seeing no option and that act must have been intended to push the deceased into such a position that he committed suicide.”

25. To bring a conviction under section 306, IPC it is necessary to establish a clear mens rea to instigate or push the deceased to commit suicide. It requires certain such act, omission, creation of circumstances, or words which would incite or provoke another person to commit suicide. This Court in the case of Ramesh Kumar v. State of Chhattisgarh (2009) 9 SCC 918, defined the word “instigate” as under:

“20. Instigation is to goad, urge forward, provoke, incite or encourage to do ‘an act’. To satisfy the requirement of instigation though it is not necessary that actual words must be used to that effect or what constitutes instigation must necessarily and specifically be suggestive of the consequence. Yet a reasonable certainty to incite the consequence must be capable of being spelt out. The present one is not a case where the accused had by his acts or omission or by a continued course of conduct created such circumstances that the deceased was left with no other option except to commit suicide in which case an instigation may have been inferred. A word uttered in the fit of anger or emotion without intending the consequences to actually follow cannot be said to be instigation.”

26. The essential ingredients to be fulfilled in order to bring a case under Section 306, IPC are:

(i.) the abetment;

(ii) the intention of the accused to aid or instigate or abet the deceased to commit suicide.

27. Thus, to bring a case under this provision, it is imperative that the accused intended by their act to instigate the deceased to commit suicide. Thus, in cases of death of a wife, the Court must meticulously examine the facts and circumstances of the case, as well as assess the evidence presented. It is necessary to determine whether the cruelty or harassment inflicted on the victim left them with no other option but to end their life. In cases of alleged abetment of suicide, there must be concrete proof of either direct or indirect acts of incitement that led to the suicide. Mere allegations of harassment are insufficient to establish guilt. For a conviction, there must be evidence of a positive act by the accused, closely linked to the time of the incident, that compelled or drove the victim to commit suicide.

28. It is essential to establish that the death was a result of suicide and that the accused actively abetted its commission. This can involve instigating the victim or engaging in specific actions that facilitated the act. The prosecution must prove beyond doubt that the accused played a definitive role in the abetment. Without clear evidence of an active role in provoking or assisting the suicide, a conviction under Section 306 IPC cannot be sustained”.

29. The act of abetment must be explicitly demonstrated through actions or behaviors of the accused that directly contributed to the victim’s decision to take their own life. Harassment, in itself, does not suffice unless it is accompanied by deliberate acts of incitement or facilitation. Furthermore, these actions must be proximate to the time of the suicide, showcasing a clear connection between the accused’s behavior and the tragic outcome. It is only through the establishment of this direct link that a conviction under Section 306 IPC can be justified. The prosecution bears the burden of proving this active involvement to hold the accused accountable for the alleged abetment of suicide.

32. In view of the above legal position, mere harassment is not sufficient to constitute an offence under Section 306 IPC, unless it is accompanied by deliberate acts of incitement or facilitation and the act or omission of the accused should be proximate to the time of suicide, and should have clear connection between the accused’s behaviour and the tragic outcome.

33. From the evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2, it is not clear what kind of harassment was caused to the deceased by the appellant. Merely stating that the deceased was being harassed is not sufficient, but the nature and act or omission of the appellant, which constituted the harassment, has also to be disclosed and proved. It has nowhere been stated by both these witnesses regarding any act or omission of the appellant, which amounted to harassment of the deceased and the act or omission of the accused, that was proximate to the time of suicide and had clear connection between the accused’s behaviour and the tragic outcome.

34. Besides this, as per settled law, as discussed above, mere harassment is not sufficient to constitute an offence for abetment to suicide. As per prosecution, soon after marriage, the demand of a radio or Rs.2000/- was raised by the appellant and it continued up to the time of incident. If that was the case, though not proved, then what overt act was committed by the appellant, soon before the incident, which forced or compelled the deceased to take such extreme step to commit suicide, has not been proved.

35. Admittedly, the appellant has two shops out of them one is bangles shop. As per appellant, he runs bangles shop along with his mother and sister-in-law. During the day time the deceased used to live alone in the house and for this reason, the deceased had written a letter to her mother to send a radio or Rs.2000/- so that she could entertain herself in leisure time. It is the case of the appellant that the deceased caught fire while cooking in the house and at that time, the appellant and other family members were at the bangles shop and, after getting the news, they had taken her to the hospital where in the next morning, she died. In the meantime, the treating doctor, who had medically examined her tried to contact concerned S.D.M., District Ballia, to record dying declaration of the deceased, but unfortunately, the S.D.M. was not available. Therefore, her dying declaration could not be recorded.

36. In this regard, the defence has examined D.W.1 Dr. S.P. Narain, who has prepared injury report of the deceased, when she was taken to District Hospital, Ballia. He has stated that the deceased had sustained burns about 95 per cent burnt but was conscious, so he wrote a letter to S.D.M., District Ballia, to record her dying declaration and sent it twice to S.D.M. The defence has proved letter sent by the doctor to S.D.M. concerned. It has come in evidence that she was admitted by her brother-in-law (Jeth) in District Hospital, Ballia. So it gives force to the contention of the appellant and if the appellant had any design to cause death of the deceased or to abet her to commit suicide, then she would not have been taken to hospital.

37. It has come in the statement of P.W.4, the Investigating Officer, Hari Nath Sharma, that the Doctor did not try to get the dying declaration of the deceased recorded and any such step taken by the doctor is fake, but he has also stated that he has not mentioned any such observation in the case diary. So this is an afterthought statement of the Investigating Officer, without any substance in it. The defence has examined D.W.1, Dr. S.P. Narain, who has proved the injury report of the deceased, when she was admitted to District Hospital, Ballia and also the letter written to S.D.M., Ballia to record her dying declaration. The doctor has also stated that no smell of kerosene oil was emanating from the body of the deceased. All these evidences give weight to the defence version.

38. It is the case of the appellant that after the death of Manju, the first informant and his family came to him and proposed first informant's second daughter Mala's marriage with the appellant, which he refused and as a result, being annoyed, this FIR was lodged on false and concocted facts. The unexplained delay in lodging the FIR gives force to this contention of the appellant.

39. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court comes to the conclusion that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove that the appellant caused any harassment of the deceased and soon before the incident he committed any overt act or omission, which abetted the deceased to commit suicide by setting herself ablaze. There is no such evidence that the appellant committed any harassment to the deceased for want of dowry. Therefore, the Trial Court has failed to appreciate the evidence on record, correctly and as a result conviction and guilt of the appellant was passed on conjunctures.

40. In view of the above, the prosecution has not been able to prove charge under Section 306 IPC against the appellant and as a result the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence of the appellant for offence punishable under Section 306 IPC is not sustainable.

41. This appeal is, accordingly, allowed and impugned judgement and order dated 31.01.1985, convicting and sentencing the appellant, Rameshwar Prasad Gupta, under Section 306 I.P.C. is set aside and the appellant is acquitted of the charge under Section 306 I.P.C.

42. The appellant is on bail. His bail bonds and personal bonds are cancelled and the sureties discharged. He need not surrender.

43. The appellant shall execute a personal bond in the sum of Rs.25,000/- under Section 481 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding to Section 437-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973) for his appearance, in the event of an appeal being preferred against his acquittal.

44. Let a copy of this order be sent to the learned Trial Court concerned alongwith the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

Criminal Law - Culpable Homicide Not Amounting to Murder - Appreciation of Ocular and Medical Evidence - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 304 (Part 2), 34 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Legal Principle that prosecution must prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and testimony of chance witnesses requires careful scrutiny - FIR lodged promptly within 45 minutes of occurrence and place of occurrence fully established by recovery of blood stained earth and site-plan - testimony of eye-witnesses examined with caution and corroborated by medical evidence - involvement of appellant Dinesh established beyond reasonable doubt - conviction and sentence upheld. (Paras 29, 30, 31, 36, 38, 39, 40, 42, 46)

Criminal Law - Common Intention - Benefit of Doubt - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 304 (Part 2), 34 - Requirement of cogent evidence showing participation and role of co-accused - witnesses failed to assign any overt act to surviving appellant Suresh and his involvement in the crime was not fully established - charge not proved beyond reasonable doubt - appellant entitled to benefit of doubt and acquittal. (Paras 33, 35, 41, 43, 44)

Evidence - Chance Witnesses - Reliability and Identification of Accused - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Appreciation of Evidence - testimony of chance witnesses cannot be discarded outrightly but requires careful scrutiny - failure of prosecution to conduct identification of accused through witnesses not previously acquainted with them affected evidentiary value of such testimony against certain accused - testimony reliable only to the extent supported by identification and corroborative circumstances. (Paras 31, 32, 33, 35)

Criminal Law - Ocular and Medical Evidence - Corroboration - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 304 (Part 2) - doctor found stabbed wound over left thigh and femoral artery cut resulting in excessive blood loss and shock - medical evidence fully corroborated ocular version that appellant Dinesh stabbed the deceased with a knife - prosecution case fully established against appellant Dinesh. (Paras 18, 40)

Held: Prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against appellant Dinesh and the FIR has been lodged promptly and there is no inordinate delay in lodging the FIR - place of occurrence is fully established from the evidence on record - testimony of chance witnesses cannot be discarded outrightly but it requires careful scrutiny - testimony of P.W.3 Kailash Chandra fully supports the involvement of appellant Dinesh in the said crime and P.W.4 Hari Om Sharma is reliable and trustworthy and from his testimony the prosecution case is fully established - ocular testimony stands corroborated by the medical evidence and the victim died on account of shock and hemorrhage due to the injury caused by appellant Dinesh - appellant Dinesh is guilty of committing culpable homicide not amounting to murder and has been rightly convicted and sentenced by the learned Trial Court - so far as surviving appellant Suresh is concerned his involvement in the crime is not fully established and no overt act has been assigned to him - prosecution has failed to prove his involvement in the said crime and the charge against him is not proved beyond reasonable doubt and therefore he deserves benefit of doubt and acquittal - Appeal partly allowed. Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeal filed under S. 374(2) Cr.P.C. against the judgment and order dated 22.01.1985 passed by the 11th Additional Sessions Judge, Agra in Sessions Trial No. 291 of 1984 arising out of Case Crime No. 484 of 1983 whereby appellant Dinesh was convicted under S. 304 (Part 2) IPC and appellants Mahesh, Suresh and Madan Lal were convicted under S. 304 (Part 2) read with S. 34 IPC.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:

Mr. Vishvendra Singh

Advs. for the Respondents:

Shri Rajeev Pandey, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjiv Kumar, J.)

1. This Criminal appeal has been filed under Section 374(2) of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short □Cr.P.C.□) against judgment and order dated 22.01.1985 passed by Mr. V. D. Dubey, 11th Additional Sessions Judge, Agra in Sessions Trial No. 291 of 1984 (State Vs. Dinesh and others), arising out of Case Crime No. 484 of 1983, under sections 307 IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District Agra.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, the learned Trial Court convicted and sentenced appellant Dinesh to undergo three years rigorous imprisonment for offence punishable under Section 304 (Part 2) of Indian Penal Code, 1860, (in short IPC) and appellants Mahesh, Suresh and Madan Lal were convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for three years for offence punishable under Section 304 (Part 2) read with Section 34 IPC.

3. During the pendency of this appeal, appellants Mahesh and Madan Lal have died and vide order dated 03.08.2022, the appeal stood abated against them. Now this appeal survives only against appellant Dinesh and Suresh.

4. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that Hariom Sharma son of Gopal Das Sharma, resident of 30/73, Chitti Khana,, Police Station Kotwali, District Agra, filed a written application (Ext. Ka-1), before In-charge Police Station, Kotwali, District Agra, stating therein that today at about 11:45 a.m., he was having conversation with Nand Kishor @ Nandu, son of late Kullo Baba, resident of Chitti Khana, near Shri Bhawan's Scrap shop. In the meantime, Suresh, Mahesh, Dinesh, all sons of Narayan Das Kaachi, Mohalla Tila Bharon, Heeng Mandi, came and abused Nandu and said that he prevents them from coming to Chitt Khana, therefore, they would teach him a lesson. They caught hold of Nandu and when Nandu tried to escape, Dinesh took out a knife from his pocket and attacked Nandu, who sustained grievous injuries and fell on the ground. The first informant raised alarm, whereupon Raja Babu, son of Bangali Singh, Ramendra Nath son of Rajnath, residents of Chitti Khana and Shiv Kumar son of Jagdish Prasad, resident of Namak Mandi and Kailash Chandra son of Kundan, resident of Chitti Khana, arrived at the spot and witnessed the incident. Other people present there too witnessed the incident. Upon alarm being raised, the accused persons ran away from the spot. The first informant and other people brought Nandu to his house and subsequently he was taken to hospital by his family members.

5. Upon this information, FIR under Case Crime No. 484 of 1983, under Section 307 IPC was registered at Police Station Kotwali, District Agra on 17.12.1983 at 12:30 p.m. and the investigation of the case was entrusted to S.I. Vijendra Singh Yadav. The Investigating Officer commenced investigation and reached at the place of occurrence, from where he collected samples of plain earth and blood stained earth and prepared its recovery memo (Ext. Ka-9). He thereafter recorded the statements of first informant and other witnesses. The collected materials were sent for chemical examination. During treatment, the victim, Nandu, succumbed to his injuries and the case was converted under Section 302 IPC. Thereafter, his inquest was prepared and the body was sent for post-mortem examination. After concluding the investigation, the Investigation Officer filed charge-sheet against the accused persons under Section 302 IPC before learned C.J.M., Agra.

6. The concerned court took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused persons. They appeared before the court and were furnished with copies of prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C. and thereafter the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial. The accused appeared before the court of Sessions, where charge under Section 302 read with 34 IPC was framed against the accused Suresh, Mahesh and Madan Lal and charge under Section 302 IPC was framed against accused Dinesh. The said charge was read out and explained to them. The accused abjured the said charge, pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. The prosecution has examined eleven witnesses to prove its case, to wit, Ramendra Nath (P.W.1), Raja Babu Chauhan (P.W.2), Kailash Chandra (P.W.3), Hariom Sharma (P.W.4), Dr. Kishor Basantgi (P.W.5), Dr. R.K. Saxena (P.W.6), Shiv Shankar Tripathi (P.W.7), S.I. Shiromani Singh (P.W.8), S.S.I. Vijendra Singh (P.W.9), Inspector Baljeet Singh (P.W.10) and Constable Chandra Pal Singh (P.W.11). Their testimony, in brief, is enumerated as under.

8. P.W.1, Ramendra Nath, is an eye-witness of the alleged incident, who has deposed that on 17.12.1983 at about 11:45 a.m., he was going to Rawatpada to purchase fruits. Near Bhagwan's scrap shop, he saw the accused persons catching hold of Nandu, who were saying that he was trying to prevent them from coming to Chitti Khana and now they would teach him a lesson. In the meantime, accused Dinesh pulled out a knife from his pocket and stabbed, while Nandu was on a run. The knife struck Nandu just below the buttock to the left side. Shiv Kumar, Raja Babu, Kailash Lal, Hari Om and many other persons were present there.

9. In cross-examination, he has said that the scrap shop was 60-70 steps away from his house and there are two roads which go to his house. He heard the noise as soon as he had left his house and witnessed the incident after reaching on a turn. He further said that he had heard that Nandu was stabbed with knife. Nandu was stabbed before him. The shops were closed at the time of incident. It is also stated by him that he had not seen the accused persons prior to the incident and saw them only at the time of incident and thereafter in Court.

10. P.W.2, Raja Babu Chauhan, is also an eye-witness of the incident. He, in his examination-in-chief, has deposed that the incident is dated 17.12.1983, which took place near Shri Bhagwan's scrap shop at about 11:45 a.m. It is stated that at the relevant time, he was proceeding to purchase Khoya (condensed milk) from Khoya Mandi. As soon as he reached the place of occurrence, he heard some noise and, upon turning behind, saw somebody had stabbed someone and four persons were on a run. He further stated that he knows the accused persons, who are present in Court and their names are Dinesh, Suresh, Mahesh and Madan. He further said that Nandu was stabbed by a knife, however, he did not witness any person inflicting the blow of knife to Nandu. Hariom Sharma was shouting that knife has been struck. He further said that he had seen a knife in Dinesh's hand, stained with blood.

11. In cross-examination, P.W.2, Raja Babu Chauhan, said that he had told the Investigating Officer that Dinesh was holding a blood stained knife in his hand. The scrap shop of Shri Bhagwan was 50-60 steps away from Khoya Mandi. He deposed that as soon as, he reached the spot, an argument was taking place between Nandu and the accused. He then proceeded further to purchase Khoya, and thereafter Nandu was stabbed with a knife.

12. P.W.3, Kailash Chandra, is also one of the eye-witness. He, in his examination-in-chief, stated that at the time of incident he was filling water from tap near the scrap shop of Shri Bhawan. He said that he knows name of accused Dinesh, Mahesh, Suresh, but is not acquainted with them. The witness identified the accused persons by their faces and not by their names, but he identified appellant Dinesh by name also in court and said that he knows him since before. He further said that the appellants had surrounded Nandu and were saying that he was preventing them from coming to Chitti Khana. Nandu replied that they come there to tease girls, so he would, therefore, stop them. Thereupon, Dinesh pulled out a knife from his pocket and inflicted a blow over Nandu's left thigh and thereafter the accused fled away.

13. In cross-examination, P.W.3 has said that he knew only the name of appellant Dinesh, as Dinesh used to visit to Chitti Khana and had friendship with his brother. It is further stated that his house is situated at a distance of about one furlong from the place of occurrence. He further deposed that two shops were open at the time of incident and that after the incident, the shopkeepers left after closing the shops. He also stated that at the relevant time he was filling water near a shop.

14. P.W.4, Hariom Sharma, is the first informant and eye-witness of the incident. He has deposed in his examination-in-chief that at the time of incident, deceased Nand Kishor @ Nadnu was having a conversation with him near Shri Bhagwan's scrap shop, situated in Chitti Khana. In the meantime, all the four accused reached there and said to Nandu that he prevents them from coming to Chitti Khana and today they would teach him a lesson. They pulled Nandu and caught hold of him. The accused grappled with Nandu. When Nandu tried to run away, Dinesh pulled out a knife from his pocket and struck it at Nandu's left thigh. Nandu fell on the ground and blood splattered over the place of occurrence. Thereafter, Nandu was taken to his house and from there his uncle and mother took him to the hospital. P.W.4 himself went to the Police Station Kotwali and lodged the FIR.

15. In cross-examination, P.W.4 said that Nandu was his neighbour. The accused frequented the lane (Gali) since last 6-7 months. He further said that since the accused used to visit his neighbour, Sohan, and would sit there, therefore, he recognizes them. He never had any conversation with them and never asked their names. Nandu was caught hold by Dinesh and Madan and all of them surrounded him and thereafter pulled him down. When Nandu tried to escape, Dinesh pulled out a knife from his pocket and struck it over his thigh, as a result he fell on the ground. He further stated that Khoya Mandi is 20-25 steps away from the place of occurrence. Nobody came in front of Shri Bhagwan's Scrap shop because the shops were not open. The shops in Chitti Khana used to open at 12:00-12:30 p.m. whereas Khoya Mandi opens at 07:00 a.m. in the morning.

16. P.W.5 Doctor Kishor Basantgi is the person, who has furnished information of the death of Nandu to Police Station after he was admitted in S.N. Hospital, Agra.

17. P.W.6, Doctor R.K. Saxena has conducted autopsy of the deceased Nandu on 18.11.1983 at 02:00 p.m. He stated that the body was average built. Rigor mortis had passed through upper limb of the body and was present in the lower limb. He found following ante-mortem injuries:

(i) a stabbed wound 1 inch 4 cm x 1/2 cm x muscle deep over the bak left thigh. 8 and half inches above the knee. The direction of the wound was horizontal and straight and was three and half inches in depth. The margins of wound were cleanly cut.

(ii) stitched wound 1 cm x 1/2 cm in the back and inner lower of both knees.

18. In internal examination, both lungs, spleen and kidneys were pale. Both chambers of heart were empty. Femoral artery of left thigh was cut and a large quantity of blood was found between muscle and fat. Liver was found pale. Spleen and kidneys were pale. The cause of death was excessive blood loss and shock as a result of injury no.1, which was sufficient in the normal course to cause death. The witness has proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-3 and has said that due to excessive bleeding, the lungs and liver were pale and both chambers of heart were empty. Both chambers of heart were empty, because the arteries, which take blood to the heart were severed. It is correct that had the deceased received proper treatment, he could have been saved.

19. P.W.7, Shiv Shankar Tripathi, Assistant Director, FSL Agra, is a formal witness, who has proved FSL report and the articles sent for forensic examination.

20. P.W.8, S.I. Shiromani Singh Chauhan, has prepared inquest of the deceased in the mortuary at S.N. Hospital, Agra along with connecting papers on 17.12.1983 at 03:20 p.m. He has proved inquest report as Ext. Ka-5 and related as papers Exhibits. Ka-6 and Ka-7.

21. P.W.9, S.S.I. Vijendra Singh, is the first Investigating Officer of the case. He has stated about the investigation carried out by him. He deposed that he had reached at the place of occurrence and prepared its site-plan, which he proved as Ext. Ka-8. He also collected blood stained earth and prepared its recovery memo, which he proved as Ext. Ka-9. He has said that accused Suresh was arrested by him. In cross-examination, P.W.9 has said that the blood had splattered in an area of one or two steps, at the place of occurrence. The witness Raja Babu had told him the names of all the accused persons.

22. P.W.10, Inspector Baljeet Singh, has deposed that he is the second Investigating Officer of the case. He stated about the investigation carried out by him and said that he recorded statement of witnesses and sent the recovered articles for forensic examination. In cross-examination, he has said that P.W.3, Kailash Chandra, had not given him the statement that deceased Nandu was surrounded by all the accused.

23. P.W.11, Constable Chandra Pal Singh, is also a formal witness, who has proved chik FIR No. 438 scribed by Head Moharrir, Mahavir Prasad, as secondary witness and its G.D. No. 38 dated 17.12.1983 at 12:30. He has further stated that on 17.12.1983 by G.D. No. 40 at 14:35 p.m., the case was converted from Section 307 to 302 IPC, after the information from S.N. Hospital, Agra was received that the deceased was declared dead by the doctor. In cross-examination, he has said that before or after this case, no case of cognizable offence was reported at the police station.

24. After the closure of prosecution evidence, statement of accused were recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. in which they denied the prosecution case and stated that the witnesses are deposing falsely against them. They further said that they were not present at the place of occurrence or committed the offence. The defence has not adduced any evidence in their defence.

25. After hearing arguments of both parties and perusing the evidence on record, the learned Trial Court came to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, but observed that the case was made out for culpable homicide and not amounting to murder and accordingly, Dinesh was convicted for offence punishable under Section 304 (Part 2) IPC and rest of the appellants Mahesh, Suresh and Madan were convicted for offence punishable under Section 304 (Part 2) read with Section 34 IPC and all of them were sentenced for the terms as indicated above.

26. Heard Mr. Vishvendra Singh, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Rajeev Pandey, learned Additional Government Advocate on behalf of the State and perused the material available on record.

27. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the testimony of eye-witnesses is not reliable. It is further submitted that there are major contradictions in the statement of prosecution witnesses. The prosecution has failed to prove motive for the appellant to commit murder of the deceased. There is no evidence that the offence was committed in furtherance of common intention. The ocular testimony is not supported with medical evidence, therefore, the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside and the appellant deserves to be acquitted from the offence charged against them.

28. Per contra, learned AGA submits that this is a daylight murder case based on direct evidence. The witnesses examined by the prosecution are consistent, reliable and trustworthy. It is further submitted that there are no major contradictions in their testimony. The ocular testimony is supported by medical evidence. There was motive for the appellant to commit this crime. It is also argued that in a case based on direct evidence, the motive loses its significance, therefore, the appellants were rightly convicted and sentenced and this appeal has no force, which is liable to be dismissed.

29. It is well settled law that in a criminal case, the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. According to the prosecution, the incident occurred on 17.12.1981 at 11:45 a.m. and the FIR was lodged on 17.12.1983 at 12:30 p.m. itself, which means that within 45 minutes the FIR was lodged. The distance from the place of occurrence to the Police Station, according to the chik-FIR, is three furlong, therefore, the FIR has been lodged promptly and there is no inordinate delay in lodging the FIR. Learned counsel for the appellants has also not disputed the fact of prompt lodging of the FIR.

30. The appellants are named in the FIR and, according to the prosecution, the incident occurred near Shri Bhagwan's scrap shop in Chitti Khana, under Police Station Kotwali, District Agra. According to the prosecution, the deceased Nandu was caught hold of by the other accused, and when he attempted to escape, he was stabbed by appellant Dinesh. According to the prosecution, Nandu sustained one stabbed wound in the back side of left thigh 8.50 inches above from the knee. It has come in evidence that after sustaining injuries, Nandu fell on the ground and thereafter he was taken to his house and subsequently to the hospital. The Investigating Officer has collected samples of blood stained earth and plain earth from the place of occurrence and shown the above place of occurrence in the site-plan (Ext. Ka-8). The appellants have not alleged any other alternative place of occurrence, therefore, from the evidence on record, the place of occurrence is fully established.

31. To prove its case, the prosecution has examined four witnesses of fact namely, P.W.1 Ramendra, P.W.2 Raj Babu Chauhan, P.W.3 Kailash Chandra, P.W.4 Hariom Sharma. A close scrutiny of statement of all the above four witnesses goes to show that P.W.1 Ramendra Nath happened to be at the place of occurrence, while going from his house to Rawatpada to purchase fruits. P.W.2, Raja Babu Chauhan, happened to be there while going to purchase Khoya from Khoya Mandi. P.W.3, Kailash Chandra, happened to be there while filling water from the tap for his shop. Therefore, all the aforesaid three witnesses are chance witnesses. Their testimony, however, cannot be discarded outrightly, but it requires careful scrutiny.

32. On careful examination of the testimony of P.W.1, Ramendra Nath, it appears that in his examination-in-chief, he has supported the prosecution case by stating that the incident happened before him, while he was on his way to purchase fruits. However, in his cross-examination, he has said that he does not know the accused persons since before the incident. He happened to see them for the first time, at the time of incident and thereafter in the Court. Therefore, P.W.1 was not acquainted with the appellants prior to the incident or thereafter. Therefore, it was the duty of the prosecution to get the appellants identified from him before the Court. The prosecution did not conduct dock identification of the appellants through this witness. Therefore, his testimony is not reliable to establish that it was the appellants, who committed the offence.

33. So far as the testimony of P.W.2, Raja Babu Chauhan, is concerned, he has stated in his examination-in-chief that he knew all the four accused since before the incident. However, he has said that he did not see who stabbed knife to Nandu. He said that it was Hariom Sharma, who was shouting that □chaaku maar diya□. He has said that he saw accused fleeing from the spot and also saw the blood stained knife in Dinesh□s hand. This witness has been thoroughly cross-examined, but he remained consistent thorough out his testimony. Therefore, the statement of P.W.2, Raja Babu Chauhan, supports the prosecution case to the extent that it was appellant Dinesh, who was seen having a blood stained knife in his hand, while running away from the spot, just after the incident. So far as rest of the appellants are concerned, the testimony of this witness does not rope them in committing the said crime and he has not said anything else against rest of the appellants.

34. P.W.3, Kailash Chandra, happens to be the person, who has a shop nearby the place of occurrence. According to the prosecution, at the relevant time he was filling water from a tap for his shop and witnessed the incident. He has identified appellant, Dinesh, by name and face and rest of the appellants by face in court. He has also said that he knew appellant Dinesh since before the incident. He has said that all the appellants had surrounded Nandu and were saying that he stops them from coming to Chitti Khana. Nandu was saying that they come there to tease the girls, therefore, he would prevent them. Thereupon, appellant Dinesh pulled out a knife from his pocket and hit it on the left thigh of Nandu and subsequently all the appellants fled from the spot. This witness has not specifically stated what other appellants were doing at the time of incident. He has not assigned any role to other appellants. In cross-examination, he has said that he knows only accused Dinesh, out of all the accused persons, who used to come to his brother's house and with whom he had family terms.

35. In view of the above, if P.W.3 was neither acquainted with other appellants except Dinesh nor knew their names, then it was the duty of the prosecution to have the remaining appellants identified through him in Court and should have also asked him the specific roles played by other three appellants. The prosecution did not conduct any dock identification of the other appellants through this witness, therefore, so far as the other appellants are concerned, their involvement in the said crime is not corroborated by the testimony of P.W.3 Kailash Chandra.

36. So far as appellant Dinesh is concerned, this witness has been thoroughly cross-examined and he has remained consistent through out his testimony supporting the prosecution case that it was Dinesh, who had stabbed Nandu at the time of incident. There is nothing in his statement to indicate that he has been on inimical terms with the appellants or there was any other reason for him to depose falsely against the appellant. Therefore, the testimony of P.W.3, Kailash Chandra, fully supports the involvement of appellant Dinesh in the said crime.

37. Now, the statement of P.W.4, Hariom Sharma, remains to be examined, who happens to be the first informant also. He has supported the prosecution case in his statement and has said that he was present at the place of occurrence and was talking to Nand Kishor @ Nandu near Shri Bhagwan's Scrap shop. In the meantime, all the four accused namely, Dinesh, Mahesh, Suresh and Madan reached there and said to Nandu that he prevents them from coming to Chitti Khana and that today they would teach him a lesson. They caught hold of Nandu and grappled with him and when Nandu tried to escape, appellant Dinesh pulled out a knife from his pocket and hit it over his left thigh. Nandu fell on the ground and blood started oozing out from the wound. Thereafter, Nandu was taken to his house and subsequently to the hospital. He himself went to the Police Station Kotwali and lodged the FIR.

38. P.W.4, Hariom Sharma, has been cross-examined at length, but nothing material has emerged to discredit his testimony. This witness has been consistent through out and is thus, reliable and trustworthy. P.W.4, Hari Om Sharma, is a neighbour of the deceased. He has said that the accused used to come in his lane for the last six-seven months at his neighbour Sohan's house, thus, he knew him by his name. He himself had not conversed with Sohan. He has said that Dinesh and Madan had caught hold Nandu and rest of the accused were standing there. Then they thrashed Nandu to the ground. As soon as Nandu tried to escape, Dinesh pulled out a knife from his pocket and inflicted a blow to Nandu's left thigh, as a result he fell on the ground. He specifically said that he had seen knife in Dinesh's hand.

39. It has been submitted on behalf of learned counsel for the appellant that it has come in evidence that the shops were not open at the time of incident, therefore, there was no occasion for P.W.4 to remain present at his shop. This submission has no force, as the witness has specifically said that he was Nandu's neighbour and was talking to him at the place of occurrence, when the accused arrived there and attacked Nandu. Therefore, P.W. 4's presence at the place of occurrence had no connection with the opening of shop. There is nothing on record to show that this witness had any enmity against the appellants or there was any other reason that could prompt him to depose falsely against the appellants. Therefore, from the testimony of P.W.4, Hari Om Sharma, the prosecution case is fully established.

40. So far as the medical evidence is concerned, it fully corroborates the ocular testimony. It has come in evidence that the deceased was struck with knife by appellant Dinesh over the back side of his left thigh and the doctor has found the stabbed wound over on that part of the body. The artery was found cut and due to excessive bleeding from injury no.1, the victim died on account of shock and hemorrhage and the above injury, in the normal course, was sufficient to cause death. Both blood vessels supplying blood to the heart were found cut. In view of the above, the ocular testimony stands corroborated by the medical evidence.

41. As per prosecution, there was motive for the appellants to commit the crime, as it has come in evidence that deceased Nandu used to prevent them from coming to Mohalla Chitti Khana on account of their teasing girls, to which he objected. At the time of incident, the appellants reached at the place of occurrence to teach him a lesson and in the process Dinesh stabbed Nandu with a knife and Madan had caught hold of him. Mahesh and Madan Lal have died during the pendency of this appeal and the appeal has abated against them. So far as the surviving appellant, Suresh is concerned, from the testimony of all the four witnesses of fact as discussed above, it emerges that his involvement in the crime is not fully established. No overt act has been assigned to him, therefore, appellant Suresh deserves benefit of doubt.

42. As it has come in evidence that the appellants had reached at the place of occurrence together and they caught hold of Nandu and when he tried to escape, appellant Dinesh attacked him with a knife and that injury was fatal causing his death, therefore, the above said act of appellant Dinesh with other co-accused Madan Lal (since deceased) goes to show that they arrived at the place of incident pre-planned sharing common intention, but as there is no evidence against co-appellant Suresh and Mahesh (since deceased) and the evidence is only against appellant Dinesh and Madan Lal (since deceased), therefore, from the above discussion, this Court comes to the conclusion that the appellant Dinesh is guilty of committing culpable homicide not amounting to murder, therefore, he has been rightly convicted and sentenced by the learned Trial Court.

43. So far as surviving appellant Suresh is concerned, the prosecution has failed to prove his involvement in the said crime and the charge against him is not proved beyond reasonable doubt, therefore, he deserves to be acquitted of the offence under Section 304(2) read with 34 IPC.

44. In view of the above discussion, this appeal is allowed in part, and impugned judgement and order dated 22.01.1985, convicting and sentencing appellant, Suresh, under Section 304 (Part 2) read with Section 34 IPC is set aside and the said appellant is acquitted of the charge under Section 304 (Part 2) read with Section 34 IPC. He is on bail. His bail bonds and personal bonds are cancelled and the sureties discharged. He need not surrender.

45. The appellant Suresh shall execute a personal bond in the sum of Rs.25,000/- under Section 481 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding to Section 437-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973) for his appearance, in the event of an appeal being preferred against his acquittal.

46. In so far as appellant Dinesh is concerned, this appeal is dismissed on his behalf. He is found guilty of the offence punishable under Section 304 (Part 2) IPC and his conviction and sentence passed by the Trial Court is upheld. Appellant Dinesh is on bail. His bail bonds and personal bonds are cancelled and the sureties discharged. He is directed to surrender before the learned Trial Court within four weeks from today to undergo the remaining part of his sentence, failing which, the Trial Court is directed to adopt coercive measures for securing his presence.

47. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the Trial Court concerned along with the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

Counsel for Appellant (s) : A.D. Giri, Devendra Yadav, Mahesh Prasad Yadav; Counsel for Respondent(s) : A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Avnish Saxena, J.)

1. The present appeal under Section 374(2) CrPC is on judgment after 40 years. Out of six named accused-appellants, five have already passed away and the appeal is abated against them. The sole surviving appellant is appellant no.6, Chhotoo, who is presently 64 years of age.

2. The above particulars are mentioned at the threshold owing to the reason that the learned counsel for the appellant has not only argued the appeal solely on this aspect but has also laid before the court and relied on plethora of rulings on this aspect, which will be discussed at later part of the judgment.

3. The trial court while recording judgment of conviction dated 28.01.1986 against all the six accused-appellants in Sessions Trial No.82 of 1985 (State Vs. Kanhaiya and five others), arising out of Case Crime No.204 of 1984, Police Station Rani Ki Sarai, District Azamgarh, for offence under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307, 324, 323, 452 IPC has sentenced all the accused-appellants. As this Court is concerned about the appeal filed by the Chhotoo, who was shown in the F.I.R. carrying the lathi, danda (cane and stick) along with the co-accused Ramdev and Sudama was sentenced to two years rigorous imprisonment for offence under Section 147 IPC, one year rigorous imprisonment for offence under Section 323 IPC, two years rigorous imprisonment for offence under Section 452 IPC, four years rigorous imprisonment for offence under Section 307 read with 149 IPC and two years rigorous imprisonment for offence under Section 324 read with 149 IPC. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

4. The prosecution case set out from the first information report dated 21.12.1984 lodged at 1:30 a.m. for the incident carried out on 20.12.1984 at 11:30 p.m. lodged by the Ramnath s/o Ram Prasad that he has one month old property dispute with the accused-appellants, particularly, Ramdev Pasi. In the night of 20.12.1984, while the informant was sleeping in his house along with his family, there was a knock at the door. The informant's wife Asharfi Devi has opened the door, on which, Phool Chand carrying country made pistol, Kanhaiya having knife in his hand, Shobha carrying ballam (a traditional Indian short spear with broad iron blade), Ramdev, Sudama and Chhotoo having lathi and danda (cane and stick) in their hands barged into the house of informant, started beating Asharfi Devi, wife of informant, Shyamli, Belawati, daughters of informant and Sukendar son of informant. Hearing the cry of his family members, the informant came out of the room, on which, Phool Chandra has opened fire at him with the intention to kill. He suffered gunshot injuries on his neck and right thigh. He ran outside the house for rescue. The villagers including Dubri s/o Ram Saran, Sombaru s/o Ram Charan, reached at the place with torch in their hands. The accused-appellants then sprinted away. The accused-appellants were identified in the light of lantern, burning in the house of informant and in the torch light of the villagers.

5. The five members of the informant's family including the informant were badly injured and taken to the police station from where they were taken to Primary Health Center, Rani Ki Sarai, Azamgarh, where the injuries sustained by all the five family members were examined by Dr. C.P. Singh P.W.-5, from 2:10 a.m. to 3:30 a.m. on 21.12.1984.

6. The investigation was carried out by P.W.-4, the Inspector, Amar Shankar Chaubey, who has submitted the charge sheet, invoking the provisions of unlawful assembly and the offences carried in furtherance of common object by the unlawful assembly, in which Chhotoo was stated having being present with lathi in his hand.

7. After framing of charge on 24.05.1985, the trial began.

8. The prosecution has produced three witnesses of fact and the three formal witnesses. P.W.-1 Ram Nath and P.W.-2 Asharfi Devi were produced as injured eye witnesses and informant. P.W.-3 Dubri was produced as an independent eye witness, who came to the place of incident. The three formal witnesses are P.W.-4 Amar Shankar Chaubey, the Investigating Officer, P.W.-5 Dr. C.P. Singh, the doctor, who has carried out medico-legal examination of the injured and prepared the report and Dr. S.D.P. Gupta, the Radiologist, P.W.-6, who has taken X-ray and gave the report.

9. It is argued by the learned counsel for the sole surviving appellant that specific role of each accused has not been reflected from the testimonies of injured witnesses. The role of Chhotoo was of wielding lathi blows, but there is no specific statement that to whom Chhotoo has wielded lathi. The source of light is not proved because neither the lantern nor the torch was produced before the court. There is an admitted fact about the previous enmity of accused-appellants with the informant. The main accused Phool Singh was shown carrying the fire arm. The accused-appellant, who was having lathi in his hands, could only be assigned the role of causing voluntary hurt. Further submits that the sole surviving accused is 64 years of age old and ailing and therefore, the appeal should be decided accordingly. Learned counsel has relied on the cases of Labh Singh and Others v. State of Haryana¹, State of U.P. v. Sita Ram and Another², George Pon Paul v. Kanagalet and Others³, Manjappa State of Karnataka⁴ and Ramesh v. State of Uttar.

10. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that the first information report is lodged without delay. The four members of the family of informant were brutally beaten and the informant suffered gunshot injury on the vital part of his body, which is dangerous to life. The role assigned to accused-appellant is having lathi in his hand in furtherance of common object for committing the offence. It is proved in the trial that the accused-appellants had entered into the house of informant to commit offence having weapons in their hands. This shows the common object of the unlawful assembly of six accused persons of the same family. The trial court has rightly appreciated the entire evidences on record and convicted the accused-appellants invoking the provisions of unlawful assembly having a common object. The nature of the injuries on the person of the entire family members of informant including ten years old son of informant and 16 years old daughter of informant clearly shows the brutality. Hence, submitted that the appeal is devoid of merit and liable to be dismissed. Subsequently, submitted that the cases cited by the learned counsel for the appellants are the cases decided by Hon^{ble} the Supreme Court in Special

Leave to Appeal, wherein invoking the inherent powers of the Supreme Court under Article 142 of the Constitution of India, which is not available to this Court.

11. This Court has taken into consideration the rival submissions made by the parties and perused the record.

12. Following are the points of determination before this Court:-

(i) Whether the learned trial Judge has rightly appreciated the facts, circumstances, documents and evidences on record to reach the conclusion of conviction of six appellants for committing offence in furtherance of common object?

(ii) Whether the role of sole surviving accused-appellant has rightly been considered by the trial Judge in convicting him and sentencing him in consonance to the offences committed by him?

(iii) Whether the appellate court should show leniency in affirming the sentence if the conviction found to be just and proper outcome of appreciation of evidence, merely because the matters taken up for hearing after 40 years of pendency of appeal?

13. It would be apposite to consider the first two point of determination prior to the third.

14. The incident is stated to be of 20.12.1984 occurred at 11:30 p.m. The place of incident is the residence of prosecution witness-1, namely, Ram Nath. The allegation in the written information Exhibit Ka-7 reveals that informant, his wife, two daughters and a son were sleeping in their house, when there was a knock at the door. The informant's wife Asarfi Devi (P.W.-2) has opened the door. Six accused persons armed with different weapons barged into the house, started beating P.W.-2 Asarfi Devi and her children, who were sleeping with her. Hearing the cry of the family members, the informant came out from the room, who was confronted by the accused Phool Chandra. He was having countrymade pistol in his hand, challenged the informant and fired a shot. The informant, who came to rescue his family on being hurt with gunshot injury, ran outside his house for help. It is then, that the villagers including Dubri (P.W.-3) came to the spot. Then the accused-appellants sprinted away.

15. The police station is situated at a distance of 2 km from the place of incident. The informant and injured wife and children were taken to the police station, where the F.I.R. was lodged on 21.12.1984 at 1:30 a.m. on the written information of the informant Ram Nath, scribed by Rajaram.

16. Aman Shankar Chaubey (P.W.-4) has proved the chik F.I.R. as secondary witness, as this witness had worked with Head Constable Ram Dular Rai and identified his hand writing in the F.I.R. and letters (Exhibit Ka-9 to 13) for getting the medico-legal examination of the injured. The injured had been taken to PHC (Public Health Centre), Rani Ki Sarai, Azamgarh, where the medico-legal examination of five injured persons was carried out from 2:10 a.m. to 3:30 a.m.

17. In the written information, six persons were named, with specific mention about the weapons, they were carrying. Phool Chandra was with country-made pistol, Kanhaiya with knife, Sobha with ballam, Ramdev, Sudama and Chhotoo with lathi and danda in their hands.

18. P.W.-1 Ram Nath and P.W.-2 Asafri Devi, in their examination-in-chief, had made specific statements with precision about the weapons, the accused were carrying. They have also stated about the motive behind committing the offence, which was a property dispute, arose a month back, though in the cross-examination, the endeavour of accused-appellant was to show that the incident was committed by the dacoits, who were operating in the area, as the informant had sold his land and was having a huge cash in his home, which was the reason for the dacoity and inflicting of injuries on person of family members of P.W.-1. The suggestion of dacoity was denied by P.W.-1 & P.W.-2 with the statement that there were no jewellerys, articles or money looted in the incident.

19. In the cross-examination of P.W.-1 Ram Nath, it is revealed that after suffering the gunshot injuries, he became unconscious and regain consciousness in the hospital, but soon thereafter, he has released and stated himself that he regained consciousness at the Police Station and remained at the Police Station for one and half hours. The two injured witnesses, namely, Ram Nath and Asarfi Devi (P.W.1 and P.W.-2) were also questioned about the relationship of independent witness Dubri (P.W.-3) and Sombaru, who are the persons named as witnesses in the F.I.R., being independent witnesses Sombaru, is the son of Ram Charan and Dubri is the son of Ram Saran. Ram Charan and Ram Saran are real brothers.

20. The accused-applicants have tried to distract the witnesses in suggestive questions in their cross-examination to came out with the inference of false implication appellants in the case because of enmity, but the injured witnesses remained intact about the role of accused-appellants in the incident. The chain of incident and events are so inter-twined and pragmatic that there seems to be no chance of false implication or concoction of story to falsely implicate the accused. This evinces from the facts that at 11:30 a.m. on 20.12.1984, the incident took place. The police station is 2 km away from the place of incident. The injured were taken to the police station with the help of villagers, as all the five family members were badly injured. From the police station, the injured were taken to the Primary Health Centre before 2:10 a.m. on 21.12.1984. The trial court has rightly appreciated the evidences on the point of prompt lodging of F.I.R. reflects that the names of accused-appellants was rightly taken to be miscreants in committing the offence, without any chance of false implication.

21. As this Court as well as the trial court did not find any exaggeration in depicting the incidence, hence, the false implication in the F.I.R. is ruled out. The medico-legal examination reports of five injured family members including the informant further substantiates the stand, which are required to be reiterated:-

(I) Injury Report of Belawati aged 20 years D/o Ram Nath Pasi dated 21.12.1984 at 02:10 a.m. :-

Injuries:

1. Incised wound 3 cm x 0.5 cm x bone deep on the anterior surface of scalp 6.5 cm above mid of right eyebrow bleeding.

7. Complains of pain in front of chest with no apparent injuries.

8. Abrasions on front of both ankle joints with oozing.

Inference:

Injuries are simple in nature. No. 1, 2, 3 and 6 caused by some sharp and pointed object. No. 4 and 5 by hsrp edged object and No. 8 by friction. Nothing can be said about No. 7

Duration:

Fresh injuries.

22. P.W.-5 Dr. C.P. Singh has examined the above injuries, entered medico-legal report and proved the same in court as P.W.-5. In his cross-examination, he has stated that the injured suffered the injuries by knife and ballam, it could be both or either of the two. The injury on the person of Ram Nath was of fire arm injury, which could be from a distance of 12 feet. There is nothing reflected from the cross-examination of this witness, which created doubt as to the injuries suffered by the injured person.

23. P.W.-6 Dr. S.D.P. Gupta, who is the radiologist, has proved the X-ray report and X-ray plate pertaining to the gunshot injury, suffered by Ram Nath. He has not been cross-examined by the accused-appellants.

24. The injuries on the person of injured shows that Belawati, daughter of informant, suffered injuries by sharp and blunt object; Shyamli suffered injuries by sharp and blunt object; Sukendar Singh s/o informant also suffered injuries from sharp and blunt object; Ram Nath suffered fire arm injuries and Asarfi Devi suffered injuries by the weapon of sharp and point object. The cluster of injuries suffered by the injured clearly shows the weapons being used by the accused and rightly stated by P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 in their statements, which cannot be doubted.

25. So far as, the testimony of independent witness, Dubri (PW.-3) is concerned, he has stated in his examination-in-chief that he has seen the incident and identified the accused-appellants in the light of torch, which he has provided to the Investigating Officer and the Investigating Officer has returned the same to him on the same day. He has also stated to have taken the injured to the police station and thereafter to the hospital. In his cross-examination, the accused-appellants had tried to establish that this witness is inimical to the accused and in relation with the injured due to the reason, his testimony is false. He has produced the torch during his examination and even the trial Judge has asked specific question, about the torch, to this witness. This witness further stated that he has not seen Ram Nath being injured due to fire arm injury, because he came thereafter on the cry of Ram Nath. Nothing inconsistent is revealed from the statement of this witness and was rightly considered to be the independent eye witness, who has seen the accused-appellant exiting the house of informant and subsequently taken the injured to the police station and hospital.

26. The prosecution through the testimonies of witnesses have established the guilt of all the accused, who were provided with the role of committing the offence in furtherance of common object, being the family members, having property dispute with the injured.

27. So far as the role of sole surviving appellants Chhotoo is concerned, the witnesses of fact P.W.-1 Ram Nath, P.W.-2 Asarfi Devi and P.W.-3 Dubri have stated that Chhotoo was having lathi and danda along with Ramdev and Sudama. The sons and daughters of Ramnath suffered two injuries each by the blunt object, which is lathi and danda and Chhotoo, who was part of unlawful assembly, his role cannot be ignored even if he has not inflicted any injury.

28. P.W.-1 Ram Nath and P.W.-2 Asarfi Devi as well as P.W.-3 Dubri have specifically stated in their statements about the role of accused Chhotoo having lathi in his hand and becoming a member of the unlawful assembly, who had barged into the house of injured at night with deadly weapon in their hands. Hence, the conviction recorded by the trial court considering the sole surviving appellant is part of unlawful assembly, having the common object of inflicting injuries on the person of injured and eliminate P.W.-1 Ram Nath, who suffered gunshot injury, is established beyond the shadow of doubt. Therefore, conviction is affirmed.

29. So far as, the third point of consideration is concerned, it would be expedient to quote the judgment cited by the accused.

30. In the case of Labh Singh v. State of Haryana (supra), Hon'ble the Supreme Court has taken the view, while considering the sentence awarded in the old case of 1985, wherein, all the accused are senior citizen by then, that no useful purpose would be served in sending the accused to jail. The relevant paragraph numbers 3 to 6 are reiterated underneath:

“ 3. According to the impugned judgment passed by the High Court, Appellant 1 is more than 82 years of age and Appellants 2 and 3 are 72 and 62 years of age respectively.

4. This is an incident of 1985. The appellants have already undergone part of the sentence. Sending them to jail after a lapse of about 27 years, in the facts and circumstances of this case, would not be justified.

5. On a consideration of the totality of the facts and circumstances of this case, we are of the opinion that ends of justice would meet if we direct each of the appellants to pay Rs 1 lakh to the complainant/injured persons. We direct accordingly. Let the amount be deposited before the trial court within two weeks from today and after the amount is deposited, the trial court shall disburse the amount equally among the injured persons.

6. Consequently, the sentence of the appellants is reduced to the period already undergone by them, the impugned judgment is modified to the aforementioned extent and the appeal is partly allowed.”

31. In the case of State of U.P. v. Siyaram (supra), Hon^{ble} the Supreme Court has considered the old case and propensity to false implication, took the view to compensate than to further incarceration. The relevant paragraph number 4 is reiterated underneath:-

“4. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record. We are not inclined to interfere in the acquittal of Siyaram for the reasons recorded by the High Court, as the propensity to implicate falsely is not uncommon in India. We, however, do agree with Mr Dash that the reduction in the sentence in case of Jiya Lal to already undergone was somewhat inadequate but as the prosecution had been initiated in the year 1988, we are not inclined to interfere on the term of imprisonment. We, however, direct that the fine be increased to Rs 25,000 in all and in default of payment of fine the appellant Jiya Lal shall undergo 2 years' RI. The fine will be paid within three months from now to Banshi Lal, the injured and if Banshi Lal is not available, to his legal representatives.”

32. In the case of George Pon Paul v. Kanagalet (supra), Hon^{ble} the Supreme Court considered the passage of time, as a relevant factor to consider. The relevant paragraph numbers 4 to 6 are reiterated underneath:-

“4. The only question that remains is whether the custodial sentence as was imposed by the trial court was adequate or not i.e. confinement till rising of the court.

5. It appears from record that the fine amount has been deposited and the amount which was directed to be paid to PW 2 has already been paid.

6. Considering this fact and the long passage of time, it would be appropriate to restrict the period of sentence to the period already undergone. The appeals stand disposed of.”

33. In the case of Manjappa v. State of Karnataka (supra), Hon^{ble} the Supreme Court considered the long pendency of case and opined the adequate punishment would be the period of incarceration already undergone but enhanced the fine to be paid as compensation. The relevant paragraph numbers 14 to 16 are reiterated underneath:-

“14. At the same time, however, the fact remains that the High Court has reduced substantive sentence to a month and a half. It is also not in dispute that the appellant has undergone and has remained in custody for about fifteen days. Moreover, as on today, he is on bail. Hence, even though we are of the view that in the facts and circumstances of the case, provisions of Section 360 read with Section 361 of the Code are not attracted and Om Prakash [(2001) 10 SCC 477 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 799] does not help the appellant, it would not be appropriate now to direct the appellant to surrender and to suffer the remaining sentence for about a month. The incident is of 1997 and about 10 years have passed.

15. Keeping in view all the facts and circumstances, in our opinion, ends of justice would be met, if we order that the substantive sentence which the appellant has already undergone is held sufficient. We are also of the view that it would be appropriate if over and above the amount which the appellant herein has paid towards fine and also towards compensation to the injured victim, the appellant is ordered to pay an additional amount of Rs 10,000 (Rupees ten thousand only), to the complainant by way of compensation.

16. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal is partly allowed by holding that the sentence already undergone by the appellant is held sufficient and adequate in the facts and circumstances of the case. It is, however, ordered that the appellant will pay an additional amount of Rs 10,000 (Rupees ten thousand only) to the injured complainant within a period of one month from today over and above the amount of fine and compensation ordered to be paid by the courts below.”

34. In the case of Ramesh v. State of U.P. (supra), Hon^{ble} the Supreme Court has converted the offence of attempt to murder to the voluntary causing of grievous hurt in view of single injury and awarded punishment accordingly. The relevant paragraph numbers 3 and 4 are reiterated underneath:-

“3. The learned counsel for appellant has assailed the finding recorded by the High Court and the trial Judge and has urged that the appellant was implicated due to enmity. He urged that even though the High Court held that in the FIR the main part was specifically assigned to the appellant and one Jagat Singh but in the evidence it was confined to the appellant as the relations between the two were strained. The learned counsel further urged that the case of the prosecution was that the complainant was bitten by Jagat Singh and there being no injury of biting, the High Court committed an error in maintaining the conviction. We are not impressed by the argument. The learned counsel then urged that the High Court committed an error in convicting the appellant under Section 307, Penal Code, 1860. We do not propose to decide it as a matter of law. But we agree with the learned counsel for the appellant that in peculiar circumstances of the case it being a case of single injury in the back of neck the conviction can be altered to be under Section 324, Penal Code, 1860.

4. In the result the appeal succeeds and is allowed in part. The conviction under Section 307/34, IPC is converted to under Section 324, IPC and the sentence is reduced to the period already undergone. The appellant shall deposit a sum of Rs 3000 as fine within six months which shall be paid to the complainant. In default of payment he shall serve out the entire sentence. On deposit of fine the bail bond shall stand discharged.”

35. There is judicial discretion attached to reasoned sentencing. In the cases of State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Bablu⁵ and Abdul Waheed Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh⁶, Hon'ble the Supreme Court observed solemn duty of the Courts while imposing sentence that the same would be just, adequate and proportionate to the gravity of offence. Further observed that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice system and undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of system. Considering those principles the trial court rightly evaluated the role of the sole surviving appellant and adequately sentenced him on 28.01.1986 with just and adequate punishment. This Court in appeal has granted bail on 30.01.1986 and since then the sole surviving appellant is enlarged on bail. Now the point of concern is whether it would be rightful decision by appellate court to send the accused to serve the remaining sentence after elapse of 40 years.

36. In the case in hand, the accused-appellant was youngest in all the family members, carrying lathi or danda in his hand along with other two co-accused. The incident occurred 42 years back. There is nothing on record to show that the accused was a habitual criminal. Sending the sole surviving appellant to jail will not serve the purpose of basic principles of the law of punishment, which in India is not corporeal in nature but reformatory in its form. The intention of legislature in considering the act, conduct and behavior of convict for remission also evinces the same principle.

37. Therefore considering, the dictums of Hon'ble the Supreme Court; the analogy drawn up from the facts of the case; and involvement of the sole surviving appellant, his role in the occurrence vis-a-vis his age at the time of incident and as on date, this Court is of the view that the judicious and purposeful punishment would be to modify the punishment as below:-

37.1. The sentence awarded to Chhotoo son of Badan Pasi r/o Village Chuharapura, Police Station Rani Ki Sarai, Azamgarh is reduced to the period already undergone by him in Case Crime No.204/1984, under Sections 147, 323, 452, 324 read with 147 and 307 read with 147 of Indian Penal Code (S.T. Criminal Appeal No. 370 of 1985

Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela

...Appellant
Versus

State

...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the appellant was one of the miscreants who committed the offence, whether the identification of the appellant in test identification parade and in Court was proper, reliable and trustworthy, and whether the prosecution proved beyond reasonable doubt that the appellant participated in the crime. (Paras 34- 49)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Murder - Identification of accused - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S. 9 - Test Identification Parade (TIP) and dock identification - Legal principle that TIP is not substantive evidence and can be used only for corroboration of identification in Court - Identification in Court alone constitutes substantive evidence - Application to facts - Witnesses identified accused in jail during TIP but did not state in Court that the appellant was present at the time of incident, did not disclose his role in the crime and merely stated that they had identified him in jail and that he was present in Court - Long delay of about ten months in holding TIP and more than seven months thereafter in recording testimony in Court - Dock identification held not proper, reliable and trustworthy - Prosecution failed to prove participation of appellant in crime beyond reasonable doubt - Conviction set aside and appellant acquitted. (Paras 39, 40, 41, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50)

Criminal Law - Evidence - Identification evidence - Evidentiary value of Test Identification Parade - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S. 9 - TIP only corroborative and not substantive evidence - Requirement that accused must be properly identified in Court and linked to the role played in the occurrence - Application to facts - Though witnesses correctly identified appellant during TIP and prosecution proved that appellant was kept baparda after arrest, prosecution failed to establish substantive identification in Court - Mere statement that witness identified appellant in jail and that he was present in Court held insufficient - Benefit of doubt extended. (Paras 36, 38, 39, 40, 41, 44, 48, 49)

Criminal Law - Burden of proof - Conviction based on identification evidence - Prosecution must establish guilt beyond reasonable doubt - Application to facts - Place of occurrence, prompt FIR and homicidal death of deceased proved - However, no reliable evidence connecting appellant with commission of offence and no evidence that offence was committed by Fakkad dacoit gang or that appellant was member thereof - Trial Court failed to appreciate evidence correctly - Acquittal. (Paras 32, 33, 35, 48, 49, 50)

Held: TIP is not substantive evidence; it can only corroborate identification made in Court - The identifying witnesses only stated that they had identified the accused in jail and that he was present in Court; they did not state that he was one of the assailants or specify any role played by him in the occurrence - The TIP was conducted about ten months after the incident and the witnesses were examined in Court more than seven months thereafter. The dock identification was held not proper, reliable and trustworthy - The prosecution failed to prove the appellant's participation in the crime or connect him with the offence beyond reasonable doubt - Conviction and sentence under S. 302/34 IPC and S. 14 of U.P. Dacoity Affected Areas Act No.31 of 1983 was set aside and the appellant was acquitted – appeal allowed. (Paras 39, 41, 48- 50) (E-7)

Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Arising out of the judgment and order dated 08.01.1985 passed in Sessions Trial No.37 of 1983, State v Ram Swaroop, arising out of Case Crime No.503 of 1982, under S. 302 read with 34 IPC and S. 14 of U.P. Dacoity Affected Areas Act No.31 of 1983, Police Station Konch, District Jalaun, whereby the appellant was convicted under S. 302 read with 34 IPC and S. 14 of U.P. Dacoity Affected Areas Act No.31 of 1983.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:

Mr. Laxmi Narayan Rathour, learned counsel for appellant.

Advs. for the Respondents:

Mr. Ghanshyam Kumar, Learned Additional Government Advocate- I, on behalf of State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjiv Kumar, J.)

1. This appeal is directed by appellant Ram Swarup alias Chhotey Chela alias Mehtab Singh against the judgment and order of Mr. R.C. Gupta, the then Special Judge (Anti-Dacoity), Jalaun at Orai, dated 08.01.1985 passed in Sessions Trial No.37 of 1983, State v Ram Swaroop, arising out of Case Crime No.503 of 1982, under Section 302 read with 34 Indian Penal Code (in short IPC) and Section 14 of U.P. Dacoity Affected Areas Act No.31 of 1983, Police Station- Konch, District- Jalaun.

2. By the impugned judgment and order the appellant Ram Swarup has been held guilty and convicted under Section 302 read with 34 IPC and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life, for the offence punishable under Section 302 read with 34 IPC and Section 14 of U.P. Dacoity Affected Areas Act No. 31 of 1983. The appellant was however, not found guilty for offences punishable under Section 365 read with 511 IPC and Section 10/12 of U.P. Ordinance No.2 of 1983 and was accordingly, acquitted of the said offences.

3. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that the first informant, Ram Prakash son of Ram Ratan Gupta, a resident of Village- Kanausi, Police Station- Konch, District- Jalaun, filed a written application (tehrir) dated 17.12.1982 (Ext. Ka-3), before Incharge Police Station- Konch, District- Jalaun, stating therein that today i.e. on 17.12.1982 he was at his shop alongwith his mother Smt. Ram Pyari and servant Ram Singh son of Badri Kacchi. Kachare son of Teejan Kacchi and some persons, to wit, Prabhu son of Sewak Nai and Mahaveer Singh son of Manohar Singh were also present, as customers, in the first informant's shop. A light was there in and outside the shop. At about 06:15 p.m., four miscreants climbed up on the shop's platform (chabutara) wearing khakhi clothes. Out of them, two miscreants entered the shop, caught hold of his hand and tried to drag him outside. The first informant became nervous and shouted why he would go outside and pulled down one miscreant, by twisting his leg. Two miscreants, who were standing outside the shop opened fire employing their firearms, causing injuries to his mother, who fell down onto the floor of the shop. Upon their hue and cry and hearing the shots rang out, people rushed towards the shop. This led all the four miscreants too flee towards the North. None of those present, could apprehend the miscreants fearing for their lives. His mother died instantly and he had seen all the four miscreants clearly in the light, whom he can identify if they were produced before him. All the miscreants were young, and one of them was tall.

4. Upon this information, an FIR under Section 302 IPC in Case Crime No.503 of 1982 was lodged at Police Station- Konch on 17.12.1983 at about 09:30 p.m. against four unknown men. After lodging the FIR, the investigation was commenced by S.P. Singh the Station House Officer, Police Station- Konch, who reached the place of occurrence and collected blood stained and plain earth; blood stained clothes of the first informant; empty cartridges and missed cartridges; and a shoe of one of the miscreants from the place of occurrence. He prepared fard baramadagi Ext. Ka-8 to Ext. Ka-11, respectively. After recording the statement of first informant, the SHO inspected the place of occurrence and prepared a site plan, Ext. Ka-12.

5. During investigation the name of the appellants and others came to light and their test identification parade (TIP) was conducted. The appellant was identified by the witnesses. Earlier, the inquest of the dead body of deceased Ram Pyari was held, and thereafter, the body was sent for autopsy, where post-mortem was conducted. The blood stained earth and clothes etc., recovered from the place of occurrence, were sent for chemical examination. In the chemical examination report human blood was found on the blood stained earth and clothes. After investigation a charge-sheet was filed against the appellant under Section- 302 read with 34 IPC, 365 read with 511 IPC and 10/12 of Uttar Pradesh Dacoity Affected Areas Act No.31 of 1983.

6. The concerned court took cognizance and summoned the accused and furnished him copies of relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C. and thereafter, charges were framed against him under Section 302 read with 34 IPC and Section 10/12 of Uttar Pradesh U.P. Ordinance No.2 of 1983 and also under Section 365 read with 511 IPC and Section 10/12 of U.P. Dacoity Affected Areas No.31 of 1983. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. The prosecution examined ten witnesses in support of their case, to wit, P.W.1 Dr. E.A.K. Tiwari; P.W.2 SDM Bhagwan Das; P.W. 3 informant Ram Prakash; P.W.4 Ram Singh; P.W. 5 Constable Babu Lal; P.W.6 Constable Chandra Shekhar Tripathi; P.W. 7 Constable Siya Ram; P.W. 8 S.O. S.P. Singh; P.W.9 S.I. Bardani Singh and P.W.10 Constable Shiv Paras Singh.

8. P.W. 1 Dr. E.A.K. Tiwari, has conducted autopsy of the deceased Smt. Ram Pyari on 18.12.1982 at 02:30 p.m. while posted as a surgeon in the male Hospital, Konch. He has stated that, she was aged about 65 years, body average built and had grey hair. Rigor mortis was present all over the body. The body had not decomposed and some grains of sago (sabudana) were sticking over the body. He found following ante-mortem injuries over the body of the deceased:-

(i) Gunshot wound of entry 1.25 cm x muscle deep, circular in shape. The margins were clear cut inverted below pomum adami, almost in the middle of the body and there was no blackening or scorching present around the wound.

(ii) Gunshot wound of exit 1.5 cm x 1.5 cm x muscle deep below the left scapula, the margins were lacerated and everted.

Both these injuries were corresponding to each other and the direction was downwards, backward and everted.

Upon internal examination of injury no.1, the bullet had entered the thoracic inlet and after entering the upper left lung passed through it from back side after causing fracture to 7th rib in its course and it exists in the line of injury no.2.

In examination of throat there was blood around cord over injury no.1.

The 7th rib under injury no.1 was fractured and three pieces of cork were found and taken out. The left pleura was open having three milliliters blood, left lung was open at two spots. Large blood vessel was also lacerated in pieces under injury no.2. The death could have occurred about one day ago and the cause of death of was shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem gunshot injury. The doctor has proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-1 and stated that these injuries could have been caused on 17.12.1982 at about 06-06:15 or 06-06:30 p.m.

9. In cross-examination he disagreed, that in all the gunshot wounds there has to be blackening, scorching and tattooing present. He also does not agree that because the bullet had passed through the body, and pieces of cork were found in the body, then on this basis alone, it could be observed that the victim must have been shot from a close range. He has said that as no blackening or tattooing was present around injury no.1, it could have been caused from a distance of more than three feet. Since, the pieces of cork were found, the assailants might have been at a distance of two yards from the deceased.

10. P.W. 2 S.D.M. Bhagwan Das is a formal witness before whom the test identification parade (TIP) of the appellant Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela @ Mehtab Singh was held in District-Jalaun at Orai. He has stated that he recorded the statement of appellant in column no.1, of the memo and his specific mark of identification was mentioned in column no.4. The steps taken to conceal them is also mentioned therein. He has stated that all the witnesses were produced one by one for the purpose of test identification, and thereafter, each witness was taken at a place so that he could not gesticulate to other witness. He has stated that witnesses Ram Prakash and Ram Singh had correctly identified the appellant not committing any mistake. The witness has proved the test identification memo as Ext. Ka-2. He has also proved an application of the counsel for the accused given in jail as Ext. Kha-1 and other applications as Exts. Kha-2, 3 and 4.

11. P.W.3 Ram Prakash is the first informant of the case. He has stated that at the time of the incident he was sitting in his shop alongwith his mother, Khachere, Prabhu Nai, Mahaveer and Ram Singh. The bulb was lit. In the meantime, four miscreants came carrying rifles/ guns and tried to pull him out of the shop. He lay down in the shop to foil their attempt. In the meantime, his mother came to his rescue. The miscreants standing outside the shop, opened fire as a result his mother sustained injuries and fell to the ground dead. The villagers came running, carrying guns, to save them and upon return fire by the villagers, all the miscreants escaped towards the North. He had identified all the miscreants in the light produced by the bulb, and thereafter, he lodged the FIR at Police Station- Konch. He has proved tehrir Ext.Ka-3 and stated that a shoe of one of the miscreants was left back in his shop. He has also stated that he had gone to the jail to identify the miscreants and identified one of the them, who is present in Court. The witness has testified that he identified the appellant Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela @ Mehtab Singh in jail at Orai. He had seen the appellant at the time of the incident in his shop, and, thereafter, at the time of identification in jail, and in between he had not seen him nor knew him since before. The witness has identified one shoe of the miscreants, which was left behind in the shop as material Ext.1.

12. In his cross-examination, the witness has said that his shop is inside his house with an area of 10 feet x 10 feet. There is a platform (chabutara) outside the shop with a height of about 4 feet from the ground. His mother was sitting inside the shop, when the miscreants arrived. His servant was also sitting inside the shop and tried to rescue and his mother also clung to him, the customers also tried to rescue him. The miscreants who were outside the shop, fired in the air, as a result whereof the customers fled away from the spot and his servant also moved away and stood still. His mother kept clinging to him. Then the miscreants fired three rounds at him inside the shop, but it hit his mother. At the time of firing the other two miscreants had left him and his mother alone was clinging to him. Three pellets hit the wall of the shop and the fourth shot hit his mother. The gun was discharged from a distance of about 3 feet. His shop is at the end of the village. The incident took place for about five minutes. The miscreants were young. He could not notice any kind of mark of identification on the miscreants. After about 6 months from the date of the incident, one constable came to him and said that the miscreants had been arrested and he would have to go to jail to identify them. He was not shown the miscreants at the police station. He identified the miscreants in jail. The miscreants did not cover their faces at the time of the incident. Their faces were open and they were wearing police uniforms. In Jail 10 people were standing in a queue, wearing the same kind of kurtas. All the 10 persons were pale black colour, having the same height with no mustaches. The miscreants had come to kidnap him for ransom. The witness has denied the suggestion that the appellant was shown to him at the police station.

13. P.W. 4 Ram Singh, is the servant of the informant. He has said that at the time of incident, he himself, the first informant and first informant's mother were present. Four miscreants carrying guns arrived. Two of the miscreants entered inside the shop and commenced dragging the first informant Ram Prakash out of his shop and the rest of the miscreants opened fire. Ram Prakash's mother was clinging to him. Therefore, when the miscreants opened fire to shot him, the bullet hit his mother. Upon the hue and cry the miscreants ran away. He had identified the faces of miscreants in electric light from the bulb and had gone to the District Jail to identify the miscreants. He had identified one of the miscreants and after gesturing towards the appellant in Court, the witness has said that he had identified him in jail. He had seen the appellant at the time of the incident, and thereafter, during the test identification in jail. In between he had not seen the appellant elsewhere and also did not knew him earlier.

14. In his cross-examination he has said that, he was a servant at the first informant's shop since a year and a half last. The electricity supply remains uninterrupted round the clock in village Kanausi. He was sitting one step away from the first informant. When the miscreants tried to drag Ram Prakash out of the shop then he, Prabhu Nai and Ram Prakash's mother tried to save him. Ram Prakash twisted the leg of one of the miscreants and pulled him down. The miscreants emerged from the shop and started shooting. The witness ran into the house whereas Prabhu Nai ran inside the shop. After the miscreants ran away, he returned. The entire incident took place within five minutes. After first round of fire he ran inside the house. He had seen the faces of the miscreants. The miscreants did not try to destroy the bulb. All the persons whose test identification was conducted were standing in a line in jail. They were wrapped in blanket upto the chest, their kurta and shirt was not visible. All the four miscreants were pale, black in complexion. He did not pay any attention to marks of identification. All of them were of the same height and were aged about 28 years. The witness has stated that the appellant was not brought to village and neither he nor Ram Prakash were taken to police station. The witness has denied the suggestion that the appellant was identified at the police station and he was not present at the time of incident.

15. P.W. 5 Constable Babu Lal, is a formal witness who has stated that on 20.08.1983 he was posted as a Constable at Police Station- Madhaogarh and was on sentry duty at the station. During this period of time the appellant Ram Swarup was lodged in the lockup. He did not give any person opportunity to see or talk to him. The appellant was kept masked in a lockup.

16. P.W. 6 Constable Chandra Shekhar Tripathi, is also a formal witness, who has said that on 20.08.1983 at Police Station- Madhaogarh at 06:45 a.m. he and Constable Ravi Paras Singh brought the appellant Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela, masked, from police station- Madhaogarh to Court and from the Court to the District Jail- Orai. The appellant was kept masked and nobody was given an opportunity to see or talk to him.

17. P.W. 7 Constable Siya Ram is also a formal witness who has said that on 20.08.1983 he was posted at Police Station- Madhaogarh and was on duty on 20.08.1983 from 03:00 a.m. to 06:00 a.m. He was on sentry duty at the lockup, where the appellant Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela was kept masked (baparda). He did not give any person opportunity to see or talk to him.

18. P.W. 8 S.O. S.P. Singh, has proved the check FIR scribed by Constable Heera Lal and G.D. No. 39 dated 17.12.1982 at 07:30 p.m. He has stated that he commenced investigation in the case and recorded statements of the informant Ram Prakash and Constable Heera Lal at the police station. He searched for the accused and reached the place of occurrence by night. On 18.12.1982, the inquest of the deceased Ram Pyari was held before the Panch witnesses and a report prepared, which he proved as Ext. Ka-5. He has also proved related papers as Exts. Ka-6 and 7. He has stated that the dead body was sealed and handed over to Constables Dharmendra Kumar and Surendra Singh, alongwith related papers for the purpose of autopsy. He has stated that he inspected the place of occurrence and collected blood stained earth and plain earth and sealed them in separate boxes which he has proved as Exts. 2 and 3 and stated that he prepared a fard baramadagi, which he proved as Ext. Ka-8. The witness has further proved blood stained clothes, four empty cartridges, one missed cartridge of .12 bore and its memo of recovery. He has also said that he collected the shoe found at the place of occurrence and prepared a fard baramadagi, thereof.

19. During investigation it was found that incident was caused by a gang of Fakkad dacoits. The appellant Ram Swarup was brought to jail from Police Station- Madhaogarh, where his test identification was conducted on 22.08.1983 and upon result of the test identification, charge-sheet Ext. Ka-3 was filed in Court. He has also stated that blood stained clothes and blood stained earth were sent for chemical examination.

20. In his cross-examination he has said that in the site-plan, he has not shown the place from where the fire opened. He has shown place K and K-1 where the miscreants were standing and from where they had shot. The empty cartridges were recovered from under the platform (chabutara) and the wad was found from a place □O□ inside the shop. The distance of place K and K-1 from the place where the dead body was lying was about 2- 3 steps. The distance of Konch from Madhaogarh is about 55-60 kms. He has denied the suggestion that the accused was shown to the witnesses before identification.

21. P.W. 9 S.I. Bardani Singh, has said that on 18.08.1983, he alongwith S.I. Shankar Dayal Tripathi, and six constables, was busy in search of the members of Fakkad dacoit gang, when at about 09:00 p.m. upon a secret information he reached near the well on Jogi Bagh at 10:00 p.m. and arrested accused Ram Swarup and Krishna from there. Upon their search a country-made pistol (tamancha) and two cartridges were recovered from the possession of Ram Swarup and one country-made pistol and a cartridge from the possession of Krishna, which was sealed at the place of recovery. They confessed to committing dacoity and murder elsewhere. Therefore, they were kept masked (baparda) and brought to the police station Madhaogarh and lodged there on 20.08.1983. The appellant was kept masked since arrest, until he was taken to the police station. Nobody was given an opportunity to see or talk to him.

22. P.W. 10 Constable Shiv Paras Singh, is again a formal witness who has said that on 20.08.1983 he was on sentry duty from 06:00 a.m. to 03:00 p.m. at Police Station- Madhaogarh and the accused and another were kept there in lockup, masked. The same day at about 06:45 a.m. he and other constable brought accused and another, before the Magistrate for remand, duly masked and thereafter, they were lodged in jail. During the entire period the accused was kept masked and nobody was given opportunity to identify or see him.

23. After closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the appellant was recorded under Section 313 CrPC, where he has denied the prosecution case and stated that the police had got him identified from witnesses at the police station and the witnesses are deposing against him due to enmity. He has further said that on 16.08.1983 he was arrested from his house by the police.

24. In defence the appellant had examined two witnesses, to wit, D.W. 1 Mahendra Singh and D.W. 2 Jagdish Prasad.

25. D.W. 1 Mahendra Singh has stated that his cousin Vijay Singh is Pradhan of village- Kanheri. He knows the appellant Ram Swarup since the last 4-5 years and about 4-5 years ago the appellant lived at his maternal uncle's (mama) house in village- Kanheri.

26. D.W. 2 Jagdish Prasad has stated that he is the Gram Pradhan of Gopalpur and he knows accused Ram Swarup, who was arrested from his house about one year and three months ago by the police and after keeping him at the police station for 3-4 days he was challaned in this case.

27. In his cross-examination he has said that after arresting the accused three more persons were arrested by the police after 5-6 days.

28. The Trial Court after hearing the argument and upon a perusal of the evidence on record, came to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, and, accordingly, convicted the appellant and sentenced him for the offences punishable under Section 302 read with 34 IPC and Section 14 of U.P. Dacoity Affected Areas Act No.31 of 1983, as indicated above. The appellant was, however, acquitted of the offence punishable under Section 365 read with 511 IPC and Section 10/12 of U.P. Ordinance No.2 of 1983.

29. We have heard Mr. Laxmi Narayan Rathour, learned counsel for appellant and Mr. Ghanshyam Kumar, Learned Additional Government Advocate-I, on behalf of State, and perused the evidence on record.

30. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant, that the prosecution could not establish that the appellant was connected with members of Fakkad Dacoit Gang. It is also submitted that the evidence against the appellant is not reliable and actually the appellant was arrested from his house by the police on 16.08.1983 and after keeping him at the Police Station for two days, he was lodged in District Jail- Orai. It is also submitted that the appellant belongs to a poor family and is currently aged about 65 years.

31. The learned A.G.A on the hand, has submitted that the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt. There is evidence that the appellant is one of the miscreants who committed the said offence. It is also submitted that the first informant and his servant Ram Singh have identified the assailants at the time of commission of the offence and, thereafter, they identified the appellant in the District Jail during TIP. The evidence of the prosecution is consistent, reliable and trustworthy. Therefore, the appellant was rightly convicted and sentenced. Hence, this appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

32. In a criminal trial, the burden of proof always lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. In the present case, according to the prosecution on 17.12.1982 at about 06:15 p.m. The informant Ram Prakash alongwith his mother Smt. Ram Pyari, servant Ram Singh and some customers were present in his shop, when four unknown miscreants alighted to his shop. Two of them tried to drag the first informant out and the two others, who kept standing outside the shop, fired at him. The shots hit his mother. As a result she died on the spot. It is the case of the prosecution that there was a electricity bulb illuminating his shop and the first informant had identified the miscreants in the light sourced from the bulb. The FIR was lodged the same day at about 19:30 which means the FIR was lodged after one hour and 15 minutes of the incident. The distance of the place of occurrence from the police station according to check FIR (Ext. Ka-4), is 12 kilometers. Therefore, the FIR was lodged promptly and there is no delay in lodging the FIR. The appellant has also not raised any objection with regard to the promptness of the FIR, which was lodged against four unknown men.

33. The place of occurrence is the shop of the first informant in Village- Kanausi under Police Station- Konch, District- Jalaun. The Investigating Officer has collected blood stained earth and plain earth from the place of occurrence, which is the shop of the first informant. He also collected empty cartridges, missed cartridges, a bullet and a wad from the place of occurrence. A shoe was also recovered from there belonging to one of the miscreants, which was left there while the miscreants were on the run. The Investigation Officer has prepared a site-plan and the place of occurrence is shown inside the shop of the first informant. Beside this, the first informant in his testimony has said that the incident occurred in his shop. The servant of the first informant i.e. Ram Singh has also testified likewise. Therefore, from the above evidence, the place of occurrence is fully established. The appellants have not raised any objection with regard to the place of occurrence and also not suggested any other place of occurrence. Therefore, in the present case, the place of occurrence is fully established.

34. According to the prosecution, the offence was committed by four unknown miscreants. The FIR was lodged against four unknown men. According to the prosecution, the first informant identified by the light of an electric bulb. During investigation, the Investigation Officer arrested some persons, upon suspicion and a Test Identification Parade (TIP) was held inside the jail. Out of them one of the persons was the appellant Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela and the first informant Ram Prakash and his servant Ram Singh correctly identified him during the TIP. Thereafter, the Investigation Officer has submitted a charge-sheet before in Court.

35. Let us see whether the appellant is one of the miscreants, who committed the said offence. Before proceeding further, it is also relevant to mention that the inquest of the deceased Ram Pyari, the mother of the first informant was held and post-mortem examination also conducted alongwith other connecting papers. According to the post-mortem report, Ram Pyari sustained two gunshot wounds and (one entry wound and other exit wound) and both the injuries were interconnected each other. It was also found that some of the internal organs were lacerated due to the above injuries and the cause of death was shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem gunshot injuries. Therefore, it is established that deceased Ram Pyari was shot dead at the place of occurrence.

36. Here, in the present case, the prosecution has examined P.W.2 Bhagwan Das, S.D.M. Kannauj, District- Jalaun who conducted test identification parade in jail. He has proved test identification memo as Ext. Ka-2 and has said that Ram Prakash and Ram Singh correctly identified accused Ram Swarup @ Chhota Chela. Nothing material has come in his cross-examination to raise any doubt over the TIP conducted inside the jail. Beside this, according to the prosecution the appellant was arrested on 18.08.1983 by S.I. Bardani Singh (P.W.9) and his companion policemen, upon prior information and the accused confessed to committing this crime. Therefore, he was kept masked (baparda). The prosecution has examined P.W.10 Shiv Paras Singh; P.W.5 Constable Babu Lal; P.W.6 Constable Chandra Shekhar Tripathi; P.W. 7 Constable Siya Ram, and from their evidence, it comes out that the appellant was kept masked (baparda), after his arrest till he was lodged in the lockup of the Police Station- Madhaogarh and also upto the time he was lodged in jail. Nobody was given a chance to see and identify him.

37. It is argued on behalf of the appellant that he was shown to the witnesses in the police station prior to the TIP, but in this regard, no evidence of any kind has been adduced on behalf of the defence nor any material thing has come out from the statement of prosecution witnesses which could support his contention.

38. In view of the above evidence, prosecution has proved that after his arrest upto the time the appellant was lodged in jail, nobody was given a chance to see him. Here, in the present case, the incident occurred on 17.12.1982. The appellant was arrested on 18.08.1983, his test identification was carried out in jail on 09.09.1983. He was lodged in Madhaogarh jail on 20.08.1983. P.W. 10 brought him from Orai on 20.08.1983 at 11:00 p.m. and he was lodged in jail at 04:00 p.m. on the same day. Here, it is also relevant to note that after about 10 months of the incident, the TIP of the appellant was conducted in jail. In support of the prosecution case the first informant and his servant were examined in Court after more than seven months from the date when the TIP was conducted in jail.

39. It is settled law that TIP is not a substantive piece of evidence and it could be used only for corroboration and contradiction, with regard to the statement given by the witness produced in Court during trial. The substantive evidence is that, which is given on oath by a witness in Court.

40. Here, in the present case, according to the prosecution P.W. 3 Ram Prakash, the first informant and P.W. 4, his servant Ram Singh, have correctly identified the appellant in jail. Looking into the testimony of P.W. 3 Ram Prakash, at the time of incident, four unknown miscreants came at his shop with guns. Two of the miscreants tried to drag him outside the shop but he resisted and lay on the ground so that they could not drag him out, but when his mother came to his rescue. Then the miscreants standing outside the shop opened firing which hit his mother and she died at the spot. The first informant, in his testimony in Court, has said that he had identified all the four miscreants in the light of bulb and has said that he had gone to District Jail- Orai to identify the miscreants and had identified one of them who is present in Court. He has said that he had identified the appellant Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela in jail. P.W. 4 Ram Singh has also testified to the same effect and said that he had identified the faces of the miscreants in electric light from the bulb. He had gone to jail to identify them and had identified Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela in jail.

41. It is relevant to mention that both these witnesses have not said in Court, that appellant Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela was present at the time of incident and was one of the miscreants who had committed the offence. They have also not stated what role the appellant played at the time the crime was committed, and if he was one of the two miscreants, who were standing outside the shop or one of two who opened fire at the first informant or was he one of two miscreants who entered inside the shop and tried to drag the first informant out. They have simply said that they went to the District Jail and had identified him there and he is present in Court.

42. In view of the above evidence adduced by the prosecution, it has to be examined what is the evidentiary value of this evidence and whether it is proper and sufficient in regard to test identification of the appellant. In this regard a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Ashrafi and Ram Dhani v. State, AIR (1961) ALL 153, has discussed, in detail, about the evidentiary value of test identification parade during investigation and also dock identification of accused in Court, the relevant part of the holding in Ashrafi and Ram Dhani (supra) is as follows:

“33. CONDITIONS NECESSARY FOR ACCEPTABLE IDENTIFICATION EVIDENCE: The Court is bound to follow the rule that evidence as to the identification of an accused person must be such as to exclude with reasonable certainty the possibility of an innocent person being identified. In the very recent case of State of Madhya Pradesh v. Manka, 1980 MFC 216, a Division Bench of the Madhya Pradesh High Court, after examining some Indian English and American rulings, held:

"The evidence of identity must be thoroughly scrutinized, giving benefit of all doubt to the accused; but if after a thorough scrutiny there appears to be nothing on the record to suspect the testimony of the identification witnesses, the Court ought not to fight shy of basing a conviction on such evidence alone, because of the bare possibility that there could be honest though mistaken identification."

With great respect we agree with their Lordships.

The following twelve questions are apt to arise and must be answered by the Court to its satisfaction before it can accept the evidence:--

(1) Did the identifier know the accused from before?

(2) Did he see him between the crime and the test identification?

(3) Was there unnecessary delay in the holding of the test?

- (4) Did the Magistrate take sufficient precautions to ensure that the test was a fair one?
- (5) What was the state of the prevailing light?
- (6) What was the condition of the eye-sight of the identifier?
- (7) What was the state of his mind?
- (8) What opportunity did he have of seeing; the offenders?
- (9) What were the errors committed by him?
- (10) Was there anything outstanding in the, features or conduct of the accused which impressed him?
- (11) How did the identifier fare at other test identifications held in respect of the same offence?
- (12) Was the quantum of identification evidence sufficient?"

43. In the above decision, the Division Bench has discussed these points in detail with regard to their importance, precautions to be taken and their effect while conducting the identification, and, thereafter, the appreciation of evidence in this regard.

44. In view of the above, for reaching a satisfaction about the evidence of identification of the accused, we are of the considered view that every Trial Court has to be, further, careful during dock identification of an accused by a witness, in Court, by at least observing following precautions :

(1) Essentials of Valid Dock Identification:

>Direct Physical Pointing:

☐ The witness must clearly and unambiguously point to the accused in the dock from among the persons kept there.

☐ This ensures recognition is directed at the actual person present, not merely a name or rank number from the charge sheet.

☐ The actual role played by the accused, in the crime committed.

(2) Precise Descriptive Recording

☐ The Trial Judge should record the identification with specific noting:

> Position: e.g. □second from the left.□

> Distinct features: attire, height, facial hair, or other marks used by the witness.

> Such detail prevents perfunctory or omnibus identification and strengthens evidentiary reliability.

(3) Judicial Certification of Exactitude

(i) The judge has a proactive duty to endorse in the deposition that identification was made.

(ii) This includes:

□ A note that the accused in the dock was identified

□ The manner of identification (e.g., □witness pointed towards the second accused□)

□ A statement of judicial satisfaction that the person identified is the same accused.

(4) Individualization in Group Offences

(i) In cases of unlawful assembly or multiple accused, identification must not be generic.

(ii) Witnesses must link each accused's identity in the dock to a specific physical act/role, to prove their active participation.

(5) Prosecutorial Initiation

(i) It specifies that the Public Prosecutor must actively ask the witness to identify the accused in the dock.

(ii) This is a procedural duty of the prosecution, and failure to do so □cuts at the root□ of the case.

45. Beside the above, in Tukesh Singh and Others v State of Chhatisgarh, 2025 INSC 683, the Supreme Court had held:-

“21. In a case where there are eyewitnesses, one situation can be that the eyewitness knew the accused before the incident. The eyewitnesses must identify the accused sitting in the dock as the same accused whom they had seen committing the crime. Another situation can be that the eyewitness did not know the accused before the incident. In the normal course, in case of the second situation, it is necessary to hold a Test Identification Parade. If it is not held and if the evidence of the eyewitness is recorded after a few years, the identification of such an accused by the eyewitness in the Court becomes vulnerable. Identification of the accused sitting in the Court by the eyewitness is of utmost importance. For example, if an eyewitness states in his deposition that □he had seen A, B and C killing X and he knew A, B and C□. Such a statement in the examination-in-chief is not sufficient to link the same to the accused. The eye witness must identify the accused A, B and C in the Court. Unless this is done, the prosecution cannot establish that the accused are the same persons who are named by the eyewitness in his deposition. If an eyewitness states that “he had seen one accused assaulting the deceased with a sword, another accused assaulting the deceased with a stick and another accused holding the deceased to enable other accused to assault the deceased.” In such a case, the eyewitness must identify the accused in the open Court who, according to him, had assaulted the accused with a stick, who had assaulted the deceased with a sword and who was holding the deceased. Unless the eyewitnesses identify the accused present in the Court, it cannot be said that, based on the testimony of the eyewitnesses, the guilt of the accused has been proved.”

46. In Jayan v State of Kerala, LL 2021 SC 582, AIR ONLINE 2021 SC 920, the Supreme Court held :

“18. It is well settled that T.I Parade is a part of investigation and it is not a substantive evidence. The question of holding T.I Parade arises when the accused is not known to the witness earlier. The identification by a witness of the accused in the Court who has for the first time seen the accused in the incident of offence is a weak piece of evidence especially when there is a large time gap between the date of the incident and the date of recording of his evidence. In such a case, T.I Parade may make the identification of the accused by the witness before the Court trustworthy.

47. In Kattavellai v. State of Tamil Nadu, 2025 SCC Online SC 1439, the Supreme Court has held:

“no provision of law casts an obligation upon the investigating authorities to conduct a test identification parade. If it is conducted, the provision that governs is Section 162, Cr.P.C. The onus to show that the T.I.P. has been conducted in accordance with law lies on the prosecution, and only after this burden stands prima facie discharged, does the question of considering objections in this regard arise. It is not a substantive piece of evidence. Its only purpose is for the investigating authorities to analyse the correctness, or lack thereof, of the direction in which they are steering the investigation. The prosecution must establish that prior to the test identification parade being conducted, the witness had no opportunity to see the accused. In other words, the accused must be kept □baparda□. If the above has not been ensured, the evidence of the T.I.P. becomes inadmissible. It has also been held that if, prior to the T.I.P. the witness has the opportunity to see even the photograph of the accused person, such process becomes inconsequential”.

48. In view of the above legal position, it is clear that Section 9 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 makes the identification of accused admissible as □relevant fact□ in a Court of Law. It is only the identification of an accused in Court, which is substantive evidence. Whereas, evidence of identification in test identification parade is not substantive one and the same can be used only to corroborate the identification of the accused by the witness in Court. After about 10 months from the incident, TIP of accused in jail was conducted and more than 07 months thereafter, the statements of P.W.3 and P.W.4 were recorded in the Court. Such a long delay, coupled with non disclosure of presence of appellant and role played by him at the time of crime and other necessary details shows that the dock identification conducted by the prosecution during testimony of P.W.3 and P.W.4 in Court, was not proper, reliable and trustworthy. Thus the prosecution has failed to prove that the appellant participated in the crime. There is no other evidence adduced by the prosecution connecting the appellant to the crime.

49. In view of the above, we come to the conclusion that prosecution have failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, that the appellant was one of the assailants involved in the commission of the offence. There is also no evidence that the offence was committed by Fakkad dacoit gang and the appellant was one of the members of that gang. Therefore, the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. Thus, the learned Trial Judge has failed to appreciate the evidence on record, correctly and thereby came to the wrong conclusion of guilt of the appellant.

50. In view of the above, the instant criminal appeal is, accordingly, allowed. We set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 08.01.1985 passed in Sessions Trial No.37 of 1983 and appellant Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela is acquitted of the offence under Section 302 read with 34 IPC and Section 14 of U.P. Dacoity Affected Areas Act No.31 of 1983.

51. The appellant Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela is on bail. His bail bonds and personal bonds are cancelled and the sureties discharged. The appellant Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela, need not surrender.

52. The appellant Ram Swarup @ Chhotey Chela shall execute a personal bond to the sum of Rs. 25,000/- under Section 481 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding to Section 437-A of the Cr.P.C.) for his appearance, before the appellate court, in the event of an appeal being preferred against his acquittal.

53. Let a copy of this order be sent to the Trial Court concerned alongwith the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Abhinav Srivastava, the learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Anurag Kumar Singh, the learned counsel for the respondent- C.B.I.

2. The instant appeal was filed in the year 1998 by five appellants, namely, (i) Ram Narain Mehrotra, (ii) Jageshwar Prasad Mehrotra, (iii) Onkar Nath Mehrotra (iv) Nirankar Nath Mehrotra and (v) Smt. Neera Mehrotra, challenging the validity of a judgment and order dated 30.07.1998 passed by the Special Judge, Anti Corruption (West), U.P., Lucknow in Criminal Case No.02 of 1979, whereby the appellants have been convicted for the offence under Section 120-B I.P.C. read with Section 5(2) read with Section 5(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947 and have been sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of one year and to pay Rs.4,00,000/- as fine.

3. The appeal was admitted by means of an order dated 12.09.1998, the appellants were ordered to be released on bail and the payment of fine was also stayed pending disposal of the appeal.

4. During pendency of the appeal, appellant Nos.1, 2 and 4 have died and the appeal survives only in respect of the appellant Nos.3 and 5.

5. Briefly stated, the prosecution case arises out of alleged banking frauds committed by three firms during the year 1972 to 1975. One of the three firms- M/s Guru Prasad Ram Prasad, Kanpur, was reconstituted in the year 1965 and its partners were Ram Narain Mehrotra, Guru Prasad Mehrotra, Jageshwar Prasad Mehrotra and Nirankar Nath Mehrotra. The second firm- M/s MT and Company was constituted on 08.01.1972 and its active partners were Ram Narain Mehrotra and Anil Kumar Tandon, Onkar Nath Mehrotra was Manager of this firm. The third firm was M/s MT Agencies, Lucknow. Ram Narain Mehrotra, Anil Kumar Tandon, Smt. Prem Kumari Mehrotra and Smt. Neera Mehrotra were active partners of this firm and the aforesaid Onkar Nath Mehrotra was the Manager of this firm also.

6. Another accused B. N. Tandon was working as a Head Clerk in State Bank of India, Main Branch during the year 1973 to 1975. Yet another accused M. L. Agarwal was working as a Head Clerk in DDRR Section of the Main Branch, State Bank of India during the period October 1968 to January 1973 and thereafter he was promoted to the post of Officer Grade-II, but he continued to work on the same post till April 1973 and he also used to perform duties similar to that of co-accused B. N. Tandon.

7. Some fraudulent transactions came to light during an inspection of the bank made by an Officer on Special Duty, on the basis whereof three FIRs were lodged. During investigation, it came to light that out of 35 lost cheques, 8 cheques had been made to disappear by co-accused persons B. N. Tandon and M. L. Agarwal. 3 cheques related to firm M/s Guru Prasad Ram Prasad and M/s MT Agencies, 10 of the 25 lost cheques were received in branches of State Bank of India at Kanpur. It was alleged that co-accused B. N. Tandon had misplaced the cheques under conspiracy with other co-accused persons and B. N. Tandon had been seen going to meet Ram Narain Mehrotra in firm- M/s Guru Prasad Ram Prasad, Chowk, Kanpur.

8. The trial Court held that sanction for prosecution of co-accused M. L. Agarwal was valid but the sanction for prosecution of B. N. Tandon was not valid. Regarding the offence of criminal conspiracy alleged against the partners of the three firms, it was established that they had issued the cheques which establish that they were active partners of the firms. The amount for which the cheques had been issued were not available in the accounts of the firms. The accused persons made interpolations and forgery in the cheques and made them disappear from the bank by sending same to the other banks. By the time the cheques could return to the bank, enough time had elapsed.

9. Signature of the appellant no. 5 Smt. Neera Mehrotra have been proved by prosecution witness 12- S. N. Kakkar. This was done under the criminal Conspiracy with the accused persons- partners and Manager of the firms.

10. After a detailed analysis of the entire prosecution material, the trial court held that the appellants Nos.3 and 5 are guilty of entering into a criminal conspiracy for commission of offences under Section 5(2) read with Section 5(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947, and convicted them for the offence. The accused persons- appellants No.3 and 5 have been sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year.

11. The learned counsel for the appellants has not assailed the correctness of the findings of guilt and conviction recorded by the trial court and he has only submitted that appellant No.3 is presently aged about 90 years and appellant No.5 is a woman aged about 88 years. Both appellants have no previous criminal history.

12. The learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that both the appellants are suffering from old age ailments and it would not be justified to keep them incarcerated at this stage of their life for an offence allegedly committed more than a half century ago. Therefore, they should be granted the benefit under the Probation of Offenders Act.

13. Although the learned counsel for the respondent- CBI has advanced submissions in opposition of the appeal and supporting the order of conviction, he did not oppose the Court taking a lenient view, so far as sentencing is concerned, keeping in view the advanced age of the appellants.

14. Before proceeding to decide the request for granting the benefit of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958, it would be appropriate to have a look at the relevant provisions of the Probation Act, which are being reproduced below: -

"4. Power of court to release certain offenders on probation of good conduct.-(1) When any person is found guilty of having committed an offence not punishable with death or imprisonment for life and the court by which the person is found guilty is of opinion that, having regard to the circumstances of the case including the nature of the offence and the character of the offender, it is expedient to release him on probation of good conduct, then, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the court may, instead of sentencing him at once to any punishment, direct that he be released on his entering into a bond, with or without sureties, to appear and receive sentence when called upon during such period, not exceeding three years, as the court may direct, and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour:

Provided that the court shall not direct such release of an offender unless it is satisfied that the offender or his surety, if any, has a fixed place of abode or regular occupation in the place over which the court exercises jurisdiction or in which the offender is likely to live during the period for which he enters into the bond.

(2) Before making any order under sub-section (1) is made, the court shall take into consideration the report, if any, of the probation officer concerned in relation to the case.

(3) When an order under sub-section (1), the court may, if it is of opinion that in the interests of the offender and of the public it is expedient so to do, in addition pass a supervision order directing that the offender shall remain under the supervision of a probation officer named in the order during such period, not being less than one year, as may be specified therein, and may in such supervision order or impose such conditions as it deems necessary for the due supervision of the offender.

(4) The court making a supervision order under sub-section (3) shall require the offender, before he is released, to enter into a bond, with or without sureties, to observe the conditions specified in such order and such additional conditions with respect to residence, abstention from intoxicants or any other matter as the court may, having regard to the particular circumstances, consider fit to impose for preventing a repetition of the same offence or a commission of other offences by the offender.

(5) The court making a supervision order under sub-section (3) shall explain to the offender the terms and conditions of the order and shall forthwith furnish one copy of the supervision order to each of the offenders, the sureties, if any, and the probation officer concerned.

11. Courts competent to make order under the Act, appeal and revision and powers of courts in appeal and revision.-(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code or any other law, an order under this Act may be made by any court empowered to try and sentence the offender to imprisonment and also by the High Court or any other court when the case comes before it on appeal or in revision.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code, where an order under Section 3 or Section 4 is made by any court trying the offender (other than a High Court), an appeal shall lie to the court to which appeals ordinarily lie from the sentences of the former court.

(3) In any case where any person under twenty-one years of age is found guilty of having committed an offence and the court by which he is found guilty declines to deal with him under Section 3 or Section 4, and passes against him any sentence of imprisonment with or without fine from which no appeal lies or is preferred, then, notwithstanding anything contained in the Code or any other law, the court to which appeals ordinarily lie from the sentences of the former court may, either of its own motion or on an application made to it by the convicted person or the probation officer, call for the examine the record of the case and pass such order thereon as it thinks fit.

(4) When an order has been made under Section 3 or Section 4 in respect of an offender, the Appellate Court or the High Court in the exercise of its power of revision may set aside such order and in lieu thereof pass sentence on such offender according to law:

Provided that the Appellate Court or the High Court in revision shall not inflict a greater punishment than might have been inflicted by the court by which the offender was found guilty.

18. Saving of operation of certain enactments.-Nothing in this Act shall affect the provisions of Section 31 of the Reformatory Schools Act, 1897 (8 of 1897), or sub-section (2) of Section 5 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947 (2 of 1947) 3[ * ] or of any law in force in any State relating to juvenile offenders or borstal schools.

15. As per Section 18, the benefit of the Probation Act would not be available to a person guilty of committing offences under Section 5 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947. However, the appellants have been convicted for the offence of criminal conspiracy for committing an offence under Section 5(2) read with Section 5(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947, and they have not been held guilty of committing the substantive offences under Section 5(2) read with Section 5(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947. The appellants are not public servants and they could not be held guilty of the offences under Section 5(2) read with Section 5(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947. Therefore, I am of the view that the bar contained in Section 18 of the Probation Act will not apply to the present case.

16. In Lakhvir Singh v. State of Punjab, (2021) 2 SCC 763, the Hon'ble Supreme Court granted the benefit of the Probation Act to persons accused of offences under Section 307 IPC., on the following considerations: -

"17. The facts of the present case are that the appellants have not served out the minimum sentence of 7 years though they have served about half the sentences. They were aged under 19 and 21 years of age as on the date of offence but not on the date of sentence. The redeeming feature in their case is that the person who suffered, appears to have forgiven them, possibly with the passage of time. There is no adverse report against them about their conduct in jail otherwise the same would have been brought to our notice by the learned counsel for the State. Faced with the aforesaid legal position, this is a fit case that the benefit of probation can be extended to the appellants under the said Act in view of the provisions of Section 4 of the said Act on completion of half the sentence."

17. In Tarak Nath Keshari v. State of W.B.: (2024) 13 SCC 384, the Hon'ble Supreme Court followed the decision in the case of Lakhvir Singh (supra) and granted benefit of the Probation Act to the appellant, who was convicted of the offence punishable under Section 7 of the Essential Commodities Act, which provides a minimum sentence for the offence, on consideration of the facts that the offence was committed more than 37 years back and it was not pointed out at the time of hearing that the appellant was involved in any other offence. Before all the courts below, the appellant remained on bail. While entertaining his appeal, even this Court had granted him exemption from surrendering.

18. In Sunita Devi v. State of Bihar: 2024 SCC OnLine SC 984, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"28. Before passing the sentence on a convict, after rendering conviction, the Judge shall consider the feasibility of proceeding in accordance with the provisions of Section 360 of the CrPC, 1973 which speaks of releasing a convict on probation of good conduct or after admonition. Being a beneficial provision dealing with a reformatory aspect, it is the bounden duty of the Judge to consider the application of this provision before proceeding to hear the accused on sentence. While doing so, the Judge has to hear the accused and the prosecution. Similarly, the Court has to apply the salient provisions contained under Sections 3, 4 and 6 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1958"). If an offence is considered as an act against the society, the resultant action cannot be retributive alone, as equal importance is required, if not more, to be given to the reformatory part. The ultimate goal is to bring the accused back on the rails, to once again be a part of society. Any attempt to ignore either Section 360 of the CrPC, 1973 or the provisions as mandated in the Act, 1958 would make their purpose redundant. It looks as if these laudable provisions have been lost sight of while rendering a sentence. The ultimate objective is to prevent the commission of such offences in future. It can never be done by a retributive measure alone, as a change of heart at the behest of the accused is the best way to prevent an act of crime. Therefore, we have absolute clarity in our mind, that a trial court is duty bound to comply with the mandate of Section 360 of the CrPC, 1973 read with Sections 3, 4 and 6 of the Act, 1958 before embarking into the question of sentence. In this connection, we may note that sub-section (10) of Section 360 of the CrPC, 1973 makes a conscious effort to remind the Judge of the rigour of the beneficial provisions contained in the Act, 1958.

29. Hearing the accused on sentence is a valuable right conferred on the accused. The real importance lies only with the sentence, as against the conviction. Unfortunately, we do not have a clear policy or legislation when it comes to sentencing. Over the years, it has become judge-centric and there are admitted disparities in awarding a sentence.

30. In a country like ours, sentencing accused persons pursuant to a conviction, on a uniform pattern, would also be prejudicial. When it comes to sentencing, there are various factors such as age, sex, education, home life, social background, emotional and mental conditions, caste, religion and community that constitute aggravating and mitigating circumstances.

31. There is a distinction between knowledge and character. Knowledge is acquired, while character is formed. The formation of a person's character depends upon various factors. More often than not, a convict does not have control over the formation of his character. This leads to certain groups of people inheriting crime. In this connection, we can draw an analogy from nature itself. Before falling on the ground, rainwater remains the same. It is the soil which changes the character of the water. Rainwater partakes in the character of the soil, over which it does not have any control. The issues are extremely complex.

32. A decision of a Judge in sentencing, would vary from person to person. This will also vary from stage to stage. It is controlled by the mind. The environment and the upbringing of a Judge would become the ultimate arbiter in deciding the sentence. A Judge from an affluent background might have a different mindset as against a Judge from a humble one. A female Judge might look at it differently, when compared to her male counterpart. An Appellate Court might tinker with the sentence due to its experience, and the external factors like institutional constraints might come into play. Certainly, there is a crying need for a clear sentencing policy, which should never be judge-centric as the society has to know the basis of a sentence.

33. Sentencing shall not be a mere lottery. It shall also not be an outcome of a knee-jerk reaction. This is a very important part of the Fundamental Rights conferred under Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India. Any unwarranted disparity would be against the very concept of a fair trial and, therefore, against justice.

34. Various elements such as deterrence, incapacitation and reformation should form part of sentencing. There is a compelling need for a studied scrutiny of sentencing, to address in particular the reformatory aspect, while maintaining equality between different groups. Perhaps, much study is also required on the occurrence of repeat offences, which could be attributable to certain groups. The nexus between particular types of offences and the offenders forming their own groups has to be taken note of and addressed.

35. The concept of intuitive sentencing is against the rule of law. A Judge can never have unrestrictive and unbridled discretion, based upon his conscience formed through his understanding of the society, without there being any guidelines in awarding a sentence. The need for adequate guidelines for exercising sentencing discretion, avoiding unwanted disparity, is of utmost importance."

19. In Chellammal v. State, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 870, it has been held that: -

"28. Summing up the legal position, it can be said that while an offender cannot seek an order for grant of probation as a matter of right but having noticed the object that the statutory provisions seek to achieve by grant of probation and the several decisions of this Court on the point of applicability of Section 4 of the Probation Act, we hold that, unless applicability is excluded, in a case where the circumstances stated in sub-section (1) of Section 4 of the Probation Act are attracted, the court has no discretion to omit from its consideration release of the offender on probation; on the contrary, a mandatory duty is cast upon the court to consider whether the case before it warrants releasing the offender upon fulfilment of the stated circumstances. The question of grant of probation could be decided either way. In the event, the court in its discretion decides to extend the benefit of probation, it may upon considering the report of the probation officer impose such conditions as deemed just and proper. However, if the answer be in the negative, it would only be just and proper for the court to record the reasons therefor.

29. For the foregoing reasons and in the light of the factual matrix, we are unhesitatingly of the opinion that the Sessions Judge and the High Court by omitting to consider whether the appellants were entitled to the benefit of probation, occasioned a failure of justice. Consequently, there was no worthy consideration as to whether the appellants could be extended the benefit of probation."

20. In light of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the judgments noted above, no purpose will be achieved by placing the appellant Nos.3 and 5 aged 90 years and 88 years respectively, under incarceration and recovery of fine at this stage after expiry of more than half a century since commission of the offence. It will neither be reformatory, nor preventive, nor deterrent to place them in custody.

21. Accordingly, the appeal is disposed off by upholding the conviction of the appellant No. 3 and 5 and granting them the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958. As a period of almost four decades stands elapsed since the appellants were sentenced during which the appellants have not said to have committed any other offence, there is no need to place them under probation for any further period.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 801 of 2012

Anant Ram & Anr.

...Appellant

Versus

State of U.P.

...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the conviction under Ss. 364, 307/34 and 323/34 IPC could be sustained when the Trial Court proceeded on the basis that the accused was required to prove his innocence, discarded defence evidence on conjectures, and whether the prosecution had proved beyond reasonable doubt the intention to kill so as to attract Ss. 364 and 307 IPC.

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Appreciation of Evidence - Burden of Proof - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 364, 307/34 and 323/34 - Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 - Prosecution required to prove guilt beyond reasonable doubt and accused required only to create a doubt about the prosecution case and the probability of its defence - Trial Court acted under an impression that it is the accused who is required to prove his innocence rather than the prosecution being required to prove the guilt of the accused and convicted on the basis that preponderance of probabilities tilted against the accused - Such approach held unsustainable. (Paras 24-28)

Criminal Law - Defence Evidence - Appreciation of Defence Witnesses - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 364, 307/34 and 323/34 - Statements of defence witnesses regarding presence of accused at workplace discarded on conjecture that employees tend to save co-employees - Trial Court found no discrepancy in their statements and cross-examination - Conviction cannot be based on conjectures - Rejection of defence evidence held manifestly erroneous. (Paras 22, 25, 26)

Criminal Law - Appreciation of Evidence - Non-examination of Material Witnesses - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 364, 307/34 and 323/34 - Informant stated that named witnesses had seen the victim being taken away and had participated in search of victim - Such witnesses not examined and no witness involved in search examined - Serious doubt raised against prosecution case. (Paras 29, 30)

Criminal Law - Medical Evidence vis-a-vis Ocular Testimony - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 364, 307/34 and 323/34 - Victim stated that he had fallen unconscious and regained consciousness in hospital - Medical records and doctor did not support such version - Trial Court supplied a creative explanation and altered the meaning of testimony to sustain conviction - Liability of guilt fastened on conjectures and surmises held impermissible under law. (Para 31)

Criminal Law - Attempt to Murder and Kidnapping or Abducting in Order to Murder - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 307 and 364 - Requirement of intention to kill - Presence of only two assailants established though prosecution alleged four assailants - Numerous injuries caused but all simple in nature and no lethal weapon alleged to have been used - Facts indicated that intention was not to kill the victim and intention appeared to be to give a good beating - Offences under Ss. 364 and 307 not made out. (Paras 33-36)

Criminal Law - Abduction and Hurt - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 362 and 323 - When prosecution failed to establish intention of killing the victim, allegations at the most made out offence of abduction punishable under S. 365 and offence under S. 323 - Appellant No. 1 held guilty for committing offences under Ss. 362 and 323 IPC and granted benefit of S. 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act - Appellant No. 2 acquitted of all charges. (Paras 37-40)

Held: The trial court was acting under an impression that it is the accused who is required to prove his innocence rather than the prosecution being required to prove the guilt of the accused and after examination of the defense evidence the trial Court concluded that the preponderance of probabilities tilted against the accused and convicted the accused persons on this basis - the trial court committed a manifest error in discarding the statements of defence witnesses even when it found no discrepancy in their statements and even in their cross-examinations and its conclusion was based on mere conjecture - non-examination of named witnesses and of any witness involved in carrying out a search for the victim raises a serious doubt against the prosecution case - the trial court itself invited a creative explanation regarding the victim having fallen unconscious and fastened the liability of guilt on the accused persons purely on conjectures and surmises which is impermissible under law - in order to uphold a conviction under Ss. 307 and 364 it is necessary for the prosecution to prove that the accused persons intended to kill the victim and although numerous injuries have been caused to the victim all the injuries are simple in nature and no lethal weapon is alleged to have been used - the aforesaid facts indicate that the intention of the accused persons was not to kill the victim and the intention appears to be to give a good beating to the victim - the offences under Ss. 364 and 307 IPC are not made out against the appellants - appellant no. 2 entitled to acquittal and appellant no. 1 held guilty for committing offences under Ss. 362 and 323 IPC and granted benefit of S. 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act - Appeal partly allowed. Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeal arising from the judgment and order dated 31.05.2012 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 4, Barabanki in Sessions Trial No. 741 of 2004 arising out of Case Crime No. 176 of 2000 under Ss. 364, 324/34 and 307/34 IPC, Police Station Ram Nagar, District Barabanki.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for the Appellant:

Sri Farooq Ayoob.

Advs. for the Respondents:

Sri Rajiv Kumar Verma, learned AGA-I for the State of U.P.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Farooq Ayoob, the learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Rajiv Kumar Verma, the learned AGA-I for the State of U.P.

2. By means of the instant appeal, the appellants have challenged the validity of a judgment and order dated 31.05.2012 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 4, Barabanki in Sessions Trial number 741 of 2004, arising out of Case Crime Number 176 of 2000, under Sections 364, 324/34 & 307/34 IPC, Police Station Ram Nagar, District Barabanki.

3. The aforesaid case was instituted on the basis of an FIR lodged on 30.07.2000 at 20:15 hours against the appellants and two unnamed persons for committing offences under Sections 342, 323 & 324 IPC, stating that while the complainant Ashok Kumar was going from Rani Bazar to Chandpur along with his father Bhagauti Prasad and they had reached a culvert of village Narainipur, the accused persons came there on a jeep number UGO 6158. They forcibly made the informant's father Bhagauti Prasad sit in the jeep and took him away towards Masauli. The incident was witnessed by Hukum Chand, son of Sohan Lal and Shobha Lal, son of Vishesar, residents of Village Chandpur, Police Station Ram Nagar, District Barabanki. The informant gave this information to the persons present nearby and in his village. Several persons started searching for the informant's father and they came to know that the accused persons had beaten him up and kept him in a jungle near Gurela village. When the first informant and other persons reached the jungle, the accused persons ran away. The informant found his father in the jungle. There were injuries on his body, he took his father to the police station and lodged the FIR.

4. The victim was medically examined on 00:30 hours on 31.07.2000. There were as many as 12 injuries on his body, including a few burn injuries, but all the injuries were simple in nature and the X-ray examination report did not reveal any fracture. Though some teeth were found to be loose, the doctor opined that the teeth were loose naturally and the victim was suffering from pyorrhea. After investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted a charge-sheet for the offences under Sections 364, 323/34, 307/34 against the appellants Anant Kumar and Awdhesh Kumar.

5. The trial court framed charges for offences under Sections 364, 323/34 and 307/34. After examination of the injured and the informant, another person Munawwar was summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to face the trial.

6. In the statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the accused persons denied the charges. The appellant no. 1-Anant Ram stated that persons from the accused side had killed his sister. He had lodged an FIR in this regard. The appellant no. 2 Awadhesh Kumar stated that on 30/01/2000 i.e. the date of the incident, he was working as a daily wage labourer in Jaidpur Nursery of Forest Department since 8 a.m. till 5 p.m. The co-accused Munnavar stated that he had been falsely implicated.

7. The trial Court acquitted Munnavar but the appellants have been convicted.

8. Strangely, before dealing with the prosecution case, the trial court proceeded to examine the defense. It is recorded in the judgment that the learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the prosecution story is false. Sister of the appellant no. 1-Anant Ram had been killed by her husband and his family members for demanding dowry on 23.07.2000. Father of the appellant no. 1 had filed an FIR in Police Station Ram Nagar, District Barabanki on 26.07.2000 for offences under Section 498A, 304-B IPC and Sections 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act and the injured victim Bhagauti Prasad and his wife were also made accused in that case. In order to put undue pressure on the informants, a false story had been cooked up and the FIR has been lodged on the basis thereof. It was submitted on behalf of the appellants that FIR has been lodged after a considerable delay. It does not disclose any motive for commission of the offense. The prosecution witnesses have stated about a motive but there are contradictions in their statements. The informants have got a reason to falsely implicate the appellants. There was no evidence to establish that Bhagauti had been abducted with intent to kill him.

9. It was further submitted on behalf of the appellants that there are serious discrepancies in the statements of PW-1-Bhagauti Prasad and PW-2-Ashok Kumar, the statement of the Investigation Officer and the medical evidence, which creates doubt against the prosecution case. As per the prosecution case, two other persons, Hukum Chand and Shobha Lal, were present at the time of the incident and they have not been examined.

10. After narrating the defense case, the learned trial court proceeded to examine the prosecution case as per which the appellants and two other persons Munnavar and Shamsheer had abducted Bhagauti Prasad with intention of committing his murder. They took him to a jungle. They wanted to kill him by making him suffer a lot. They tied his hands, disrobed him and beat him up with kicks, fists, and sticks. They collected dried leaves, etc., and put him on fire. Besides that they burnt his eye. The appellant no. 1-Anant Ram suspected that his sister had been killed by the family members of her husband for demanding dowry. Bhagauti Prasad was uncle of the deceased's husband and he was also an accused. While the accused persons were assaulting the victim, they felt that the police was reaching the spot and, therefore, they fled.

11. The victim was examined as PW-1. He stated that while he and his son Ashok (the informant) were going from Rani Bazar to village Chandpur, the accused persons forcibly took him away in a Jeep, they gagged his mouth and took him towards Masauli. All four accused persons were beating him saying that he should be killed in the same manner as the sister of the appellant no. 1 was killed. He stated that they took him to Gurela jungle, disrobed him, tied his hands, beaten him up with kicks, fists and sticks and burnt him after collecting dried leaves etc. They had burnt his eye with a lighter. He stated that as his mouth was gagged, he had fallen unconscious. He regained consciousness in District Hospital Barabanki.

12. The informant was examined as PW-2 and he reiterated the aforesaid version. He stated that Hukum Chand and Shobha Lal were with them when the accused persons had taken away his father. Those persons were also accompanying them when a search was being made for his father. His father was found in Gurela jungle, from where he was taken to the police station.

13. The doctor who had examined the victim was examined as PW-5. He proved the Medico Legal examination report which states that the victim had suffered 12 injuries and he stated that the injuries were simple in nature. PW-7 was a dentist who stated that three upper teeth and four lower teeth were fake. The rest of the teeth were weak. The victim was suffering from Pyorrhea.

14. It is relevant to note that the victim was sent for Medico Legal Examination along with a letter of SHO and it does not mention that the victim was unconscious. The Medico Legal examination report mentions 12 simple injuries suffered by the victim and it also does not state that the victim had been brought in an unconscious condition.

15. The trial court concluded that although the victim had not suffered any grievous hurt, 5 out of 12 injuries suffered by him were burn injuries. The trial court has held that although only the appellants were named in the FIR and the charge-sheet was submitted against the appellants only, another person, Munnavar was summoned upon an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. filed by the prosecution, but his involvement in commission of the offence could not be proved and he has been acquitted.

16. The trial court commenced the discussion by dealing with the submission advanced on behalf of the accused persons that the incident took place on 30.07.2000 at about 2 p.m. whereas the FIR had been lodged at about 08:15 p.m. In case the victim had been abducted for committing his murder, the informant would have lodged the FIR without any delay. Instead of lodging the FIR, the informant set on a search for the victim without involving the police and he found out the victim and thereafter lodged the FIR, which raises doubt against the prosecution story. The trial court turned down this submission by observing that it has generally been observed that police avoids to register an FIR. In these circumstances, if the informant did not involve the police and instead he set out to search his father with the help of other persons and became successful in it, it does not create a doubt against the prosecution case and there is no unreasonable delay in lodging the FIR.

17. Regarding the second submission raised on behalf of the defense that the FIR does not disclose any motive for commission of the offense, the trial court held that in the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., the victim Bhagauti Prasad has stated that the accused persons were saying that he had killed his sister and, therefore, he should be killed. This statement discloses the motive.

18. Next, the trial court dealt with the submission made on behalf of the defense that even if it be assumed that Bhagauti Prasad was abducted, there is no evidence to establish that he had been abducted with the intention of committing his murder. The trial court held that the mere fact that Bhagauti Prasad did not suffer any grievous hurt, cannot lead to a conclusion that he had not been abducted with the intention to kill him. Bhagauti Prasad has stated that the appellant no. 1 was stating while beating him that the victim had to be killed. Bhagauti Prasad has also stated that when the accused persons got information that the police was reaching at the spot, they escaped. Although the police had not reached there, the victim's son Ashok Kumar and the other persons had reached there. The accused persons would have taken those persons as police officials and would have escaped.

19. The trial court dealt with the submission of the victim that there were discrepancies in the statements of the informant Ashok Kumar and the victim Bhagauti Prasad but the trial court held that there were no serious discrepancies in their statements. The minor discrepancies like the statement of the informant that doctor had given his father only powdered medicine whereas the victim had stated that the doctor had given him tablets, tonic and mixture, do not affect their testimony adversely.

20. Regarding the statement of the victim Bhagauti Prasad that he had fallen unconscious and regained consciousness in the district hospital, the trial court held that it should not be taken that Bhagauti Prasad had fallen unconscious with a medical point of view and the statement only indicates that the manner in which Bhagauti Prasad had been assaulted, had frightened him to that extent that he was not in a condition of understanding anything. He recovered from such a condition only on the following day in the hospital.

21. Regarding non-examination by Hukum Chand and Shobha Lal, the trial court held that nowadays a common man avoids appearing as a witness in criminal cases and, therefore, non-examination of Hukum Chand and Shobha Lal does not create a doubt against the prosecution case.

22. After dealing with the submissions made on behalf of the defense, the trial court proceeded to examine the defense evidence. It referred to the statement of DW-1-Gurudeen, who had stated that the appellant no. 2-Awadhesh Kumar had worked in Jaidpur Nursery with him since 8:00 a.m. till 5:00 p.m. on 30.07.2000 and during the entire duty period on the aforesaid date he had not gone away anywhere. A similar statement was given by DW-2, Premnath Tiwari, Forest Daroga. The trial court disbelieved their statements on the ground that normally there is a tendency in employees to save their co-employees and DW-1 and DW-2 had given evidence because of this tendency. It is recorded in the judgment that in the court's view, it is very easy that a daily wage laborer may go anywhere without taking leave.

23. As per the trial court, the preponderance of probability tilted in favor of the fact that the appellant no. 2 was involved in the incident and yet he showed his presence in Jaidpur Nursery. The trial court held that the aforesaid facts are sufficient for holding the appellants guilty of the offense under Sections 364, 307/34 and 323/34 I.P.C.

24. The judgment does not at all deal with the statements of prosecution witnesses and the submissions of Public Prosecutor. The trial court has merely dealt with the submissions of the defense counsel and has turned down all of them and has dealt with the defense evidence and has discarded the same. It shows that the trial court was acting under an impression that it is the accused who is required to prove his innocence rather than the prosecution being required to prove the guilt of the accused. After examination of the defense evidence, the trial Court concluded that the preponderance of probabilities tilted against the accused and convicted the accused persons on this basis. This is not the manner in which a trial court should proceed to decide a case.

25. DW-1-Gurudeen and DW-2 Premnath had stated that the appellant no. 2-Awadhesh Kumar had worked in Jaidpur Nursery with him since 8:00 a.m. till 5:00 p.m. on 30.07.2000 and during the entire duty period on the aforesaid date he had not gone away anywhere. The trial court has committed a manifest error in discarding their statements on the ground that normally there is a tendency in employees to save their co-employees and DW-1 and DW-2 had given evidence because of this tendency, even when it found no discrepancy in their statements and even in their cross-examinations. The trial Court has held that it is very easy that a daily wage laborer may go anywhere without taking leave but this is a mere conjecture and no conviction can be based on conjectures.

26. The trial court has held that the preponderance of probability tilted in favor of the fact that the appellant no. 2 was involved in the incident and yet he showed his presence in Jaidpur Nursery. The trial court held that the aforesaid facts are sufficient for holding the appellants guilty of the offense under Sections 364, 307/34 and 323/34 I.P.C.

27. In Anand Ramachandra Chougule v. Sidarai Laxman Chougala, (2019) 8 SCC 50, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"10. The burden lies on the prosecution to prove the allegations beyond all reasonable doubt. In contradistinction to the same, the accused has only to create a doubt about the prosecution case and the probability of its defence. An accused is not required to establish or prove his defence beyond all reasonable doubt, unlike the prosecution. If the accused takes a defence, which is not improbable and appears likely, there is material in support of such defence, the accused is not required to prove anything further. The benefit of doubt must follow unless the prosecution is able to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt."

28. In Vaibhav v. State of Maharashtra, (2025) 8 SCC 315, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"29. In criminal jurisprudence, it is a time-tested proposition that the primary burden falls upon the shoulders of the prosecution and it is only if the prosecution succeeds in discharging its burden beyond reasonable doubt that the burden shifts upon the accused to explain the evidence against him or to present a defence. In the present case, the version of the prosecution suffers from inherent inconsistencies and doubts, as discussed above, and in such a scenario, the inability of the appellant to explain certain circumstances could not be made the basis to relieve the prosecution from discharging its primary burden."

30. The High Court fell in a grave error in doing so, as it placed greater reliance on the loopholes in the appellant's version without first determining whether the chain of circumstances sought to be proved by the prosecution was complete or not. Pertinently, the inability of an accused to offer plausible explanation on certain aspects would not automatically absolve the prosecution of its evidentiary burden, which must be discharged first and beyond doubt."

31. In law, there is a significant difference in the evidentiary burden to be discharged by the prosecution and the accused. Whereas, the former is expected to discharge its burden beyond reasonable doubt, the latter is only required to prove a defence on the anvil of preponderance of probabilities. If the accused leads defence evidence in the course of a criminal trial, the same ought to be tested as probable or improbable in the facts and circumstances of the case."

29. Having referred to the prosecution evidence, it appears that the informant Ashok Kumar had stated that Hukum Chand and Shobha Lal had seen the victim being taken away by the accused persons and those persons were accompanying him while a search was made for the victim and he was found in a jungle. The victim Bhagauti Prasad did not state that Hukum Chand and Shobha Lal were accompanying him when he was abducted. This is not a minor discrepancy regarding description of the incident. It shows that Hukum Chand and Shobha Lal had not witnessed the incident and that is the reason that Hukum Chand and Shobha Lal have not been examined by the trial court although their names were mentioned as witnesses in the charge sheet.

30. Although the informant has stated that several persons were involved in carrying out a search for the victim, not a single witness has been examined by the prosecution who was involved in carrying out a search for the victim. This also raises a serious doubt against the prosecution case.

31. The victim stated that he had fallen unconscious and he regained consciousness in the district hospital on the following day. The letter sent by Station House Officer to the doctor for conducting medical examination of the victim mentions some injuries suffered by the victim, but it does not mention that the victim was unconscious. The medico-legal examination report also does not state that the victim was unconscious. The doctor has been examined before the trial court as PW5 and he has also not made any such statement. Strangely, the trial court itself invited a creative explanation that the statement made by the victim that he had fallen unconscious and regained consciousness the following day means that he had got frightened and he was not in a position to understand the things. This depicts that the Trial Court has fastened the liability of guilt on the accused persons purely on conjectures and surmises which is impermissible under law. The trial court is not expected to twist and turn the testimony of a prosecution witness to such a great extent as to change the statement altogether and override the medical evidence to the contrary in order to anyhow convict an accused person.

32. The trial court has held the appellants guilty of commission of offenses under Sections 323/34, 307/34, and 364 IPC. As has already been discussed above, the appellant no. 2 has been convicted merely on the basis of preponderance of probabilities and even the trial Court has not held that the prosecution could prove his guilt beyond reasonable doubt. Therefore, the conviction of the appellant no. 2 is not sustainable in law and he is entitled to be acquitted.

33. Sections 307 and 323, 364 IPC read as follows: -

“307. Attempt to murder.-Whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge, and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of murder, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; and if hurt is caused to any person by such act, the offender shall be liable either to imprisonment for life, or to such punishment as is hereinbefore mentioned.

Attempts by Life Convicts.-When any person offending under this section is under sentence of imprisonment for life, he may, if hurt is caused, be punished with death. * * *

323. Punishment for voluntarily causing hurt.-Whoever, except in the case provided for by section 334, voluntarily causes hurt, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both. * * *

364. Kidnapping or abducting in order to murder.-Whoever kidnaps or abducts any person in order that such person may be murdered or may be so disposed of as to be put in danger of being murdered, shall be punished with imprisonment for life or rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine.

34. In Sivamani v. State, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1581, the Hon'ble Supreme Court discussed some precedents on the point of relevance of injuries while examining a case under Section 307 IPC and held that: -

"9. In State of Madhya Pradesh v. Saleem, (2005) 5 SCC 554, the Court held that to sustain a conviction under Section 307, IPC, it was not necessary that a bodily injury capable of resulting in death should have been inflicted. As such, non-conviction under Section 307, IPC on the premise only that simple injury was inflicted does not follow as a matter of course. In the same judgment, it was pointed out that ??The court has to see whether the act, irrespective of its result, was done with the intention or knowledge and under circumstances mentioned in the section.?"The position that because a fatal injury was not sustained alone does not dislodge Section 307, IPC conviction has been reiterated in Jage Ram v. State of Haryana, (2015) 11 SCC 366 and State of Madhya Pradesh v. Kanha, (2019) 3 SCC 605. Yet, in Jage Ram (supra) and Kanha (supra), it was observed that while grievous or life-threatening injury was not necessary to maintain a conviction under Section 307, IPC, The intention of the accused can be ascertained from the actual injury, if any, as well as from surrounding circumstances. Among other things, the nature of the weapon used and the severity of the blows inflicted can be considered to infer intent."

(emphasis added)

35. In order to uphold a conviction under Sections 307 and 364, it is necessary for the prosecution to prove that the accused persons intended to kill the victim. As per the prosecution case, there were four assailants. They had the freedom to deal with the victim for a period of about six hours. The presence of only two assailants could be established and the prosecution could not prove the involvement of two other persons. Although numerous injuries have been caused to the victim, all the injuries are simple in nature. No lethal weapon is alleged to have been used in committing the offense. The aforesaid facts indicate that the intention of the accused persons was not to kill the victim. There was an animosity between the parties and the intention appears to be to give a good beating to the victim.

36. When the prosecution has failed to make out the intention of killing the victim, the offenses under sections 364 IPC and 307 IPC are not made out. The allegations, at the most, make out the offense of abduction, which is defined in Section 362 IPC and which is punishable under Section 365 IPC for imprisonment which may extend to seven years. For the offense under Section 323 IPC, the appellants have been sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year.

37. In view of the foregoing discussion, I am of the view that the offenses under sections 364 and 307 IPC are not made out against the appellants. Instead, the appellant no. 1 is held guilty for committing offenses under sections 362 and 323 IPC.

38. Although both the appellants have filed an application for giving them the benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, I have already held that the prosecution could not prove the guilt of the appellant no. 2 beyond reasonable doubt and have acquitted him of all the charges. The appellant no. 2 was accused in a case under section 307 IPC lodged from the victim's side, in which he already stands acquitted in that case. The learned AGA-I does not oppose the request for grant of the benefit of the Probation of Offenders Act.

39. Accordingly, the application for benefit of the Probation of Offenders Act to the appellant no. 1 Anant Kumar is allowed and he is granted benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act. As the appellant no. 1 was convicted in the year 2012 and during the past about 14 years, he has not committed any offense, the good conduct of the appellant no. 1 during the aforesaid period does not warrant keeping him on probation for any further period.

40. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed in the aforesaid terms.

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 815 of 2012

Manoj Kumar
State of U.P.

...Appellant
Versus
...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether, after acquittal of the accused of the charges under Ss. 498-A, 304-B, 302/34 IPC and Ss. 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, there was sufficient material to establish that the appellant had abetted his wife to commit suicide so as to sustain conviction under S. 306 IPC and whether S. 106 of the Evidence Act could be invoked to shift the burden upon the accused. (Paras 16, 25-38)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Abetment of Suicide - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 306 and 107 - Ingredients of abetment - Requirement of instigation, intentional aid, active act or direct act and clear mens rea - Conviction under S. 306 IPC cannot be sustained without evidence that the accused had abetted the deceased to commit suicide - In the present case, there was no allegation of commission of any act which may amount to instigating the deceased to commit suicide and there was no evidence that any incident took place in close proximity of time when the deceased committed suicide or that the quarrels were intended to induce the victim to commit suicide - Prosecution failed to establish that the appellant had abetted the deceased to commit suicide -

Offence under S. 306 IPC not made out - Conviction and sentence set aside. (Paras 17-27, 36-39)

Evidence - Burden of Proof - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S. 106 - Scope and applicability - S. 106 does not relieve the prosecution to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt and cannot be used to shift the burden of proving the offence from the prosecution to the accused - Applicability arises only when the prosecution has succeeded in proving facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding existence of certain other facts - In the present case, there was no evidence to even prima facie establish that the appellant had abetted the deceased to commit suicide - Trial Court erred in holding the appellant guilty merely because he could not explain the reason due to which his wife committed suicide - Conviction unsustainable. (Paras 28-37)

Held: The appellant as well as all the accused persons stand acquitted of the charge under S. 498-A IPC as it could not be established that they had subjected the deceased to cruelty - there is no allegation of commission of any act which may amount to instigating the deceased to commit suicide - the only evidence is the evidence of PW-2 that the appellant used to consume liquor and if the deceased objected against it he used to beat her in an inebriated condition - there was no evidence that any such incident took place in close proximity of time when the deceased committed suicide - there is no evidence that the quarrels were intended to induce the victim to commit suicide and there is no evidence that the quarrel had left the deceased with no option except to commit suicide - even if the victim committed suicide being aggrieved by the aforesaid conduct of the appellant there is no evidence to even prima facie establish that the appellant had abetted the deceased to commit suicide - the prosecution has not been able to discharge its burden of establishing beyond reasonable doubt that the appellant had abetted his wife to commit suicide - the trial court could not have held the appellant guilty just because the appellant could not explain the reason due to which his wife committed suicide - the prosecution failed to establish that the appellant had abetted the deceased to commit suicide - the offence under S. 306 IPC is not made out - the order of conviction and sentence is not sustainable in law and the appellant is entitled to acquittal - Appeal allowed. (Paras 25-38) (E-7)

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeal under S. 374(2) Cr.P.C. against the judgment and order dated 06.04.2012 passed by the learned Special Judge, E.C. Act, Gonda in Session Trial No. 217 of 2008 arising out of Case Crime No. 127 of 2008 under Ss. 498-A, 304-B (alternative S. 302/34 IPC) and Ss. 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Kaudiya, District Gonda.

Appearances for PartiesAdvs. for the Appellant:

Sri Pawan Kumar Mishra

Advs. for the Respondents:

Sri Mohd. Asif Khan, learned A.G.A.-I. for the State of U.P.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pawan Kumar Mishra, the learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Mohd. Asif Khan, the learned A.G.A.-I.

2. By means of the instant appeal filed under Section 374 (2) Cr.P.C, the appellant has challenged the validity of a judgment and order dated 06.04.2012 passed by the learned Special Judge, E.C. Act, Gonda in Session Trial No. 217 of 2008, arising out of Case Crime No. 127 of 2008, under Sections 498-A, 304-B (alternative Section 302/34 IPC) and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Kaudiya, District Gonda.

3. The aforesaid case was instituted on the basis of an FIR lodged against four persons - the appellant Manoj Kumar, his father Faujdar, mother Maya Devi and brother Pawan Kumar, stating that the informant had got his daughter married to the appellant Manoj Kumar about six years ago. Gauna ceremony was performed three years after the marriage. About one year after the Gauna, the accused persons started demanding Rs. 30,000/- as additional dowry. The informant had paid Rs. 10,000 and had committed to pay the balance amount soon. The appellant had taken the informant's daughter with him about 8 days ago and had stated that unless the balance amount of Rs. 20,000/- was paid within 10 days, his daughter would be set ablaze. His daughter was set ablaze on 10.04.2008, the FIR was lodged on 09.05.2008, i.e. after one month since the incident.

4. The victim was admitted to the District Hospital, Gonda at about 7:55 p.m. on 11.04.2008 and she died at 7:50 a.m. on 12.04.2008. An inquest report was prepared and postmortem examination report was prepared.

5. Charge-sheets were submitted against the appellant and his parents. The involvement of the appellant's brother Pawan Kumar could not be established during the investigation and he was exonerated.

6. The informant Goli Ojha (father of the deceased) was examined as PW-1. The mother of the deceased was examined as PW-2. The informant's brother was examined as PW-9. The other witnesses were police officials and the doctor who had conducted the postmortem examination of the dead body. The appellant denied the allegations in his statement recorded under Section 313 CrPC and he examined two witnesses: DW-1-Parmatma Prasad and DW-2-Lakshmi Narayan.

7. The informant PW-1 stated that his daughter's husband (the appellant) had taken her to the District Hospital, Gonda and she died in the Hospital. He did not know that his elder brother Mathura Prasad (PW-9) was present at the time of preparation of the inquest report. The FIR was lodged 28-29 days after the incident. He or any of his family members had not witnessed the incident. He denied the suggestion that the victim had set herself ablaze being disturbed by her ailment.

8. Mother of the victim (PW-2) stated that information of death of her daughter was received from her sasural (matrimonial home). Her daughter had been admitted to the hospital by her husband and his family members. She had gone to the District Hospital along with the elder brother of her husband. She stated that the elder brother of her husband was present at the time of preparation of the inquest report. She stated that the FIR was lodged about a month after the incident. She denied that the victim had opposed her husband from consuming liquor, an altercation followed between them and that she had suffered injuries in this incident.

9. The elder brother of the informant was examined as PW-9. He stated that the appellant's father had sent information by making a telephone call to a neighbour stating that the victim was not well, there was no hope of her survival and in case anyone wanted to see her, he should reach the hospital. He had gone to the District Hospital, Gonda along with the informant's wife (PW-2) after receiving the information. When he reached the hospital, the victim had already died. PW-9 stated that after death of the victim, his brother Goli (father of the victim) had given an information to the police. The police had come, the dead body was seen by the mother of the victim and an inquest report was prepared.

10. The post-mortem examination report mentions the cause of death to be shock and the doctor examined as PW-4 has proved that the victim had died due to burn injuries. There was no mark of injury on the dead body.

11. PW-1 stated that he could not tell the date, month and year of his daughter's wedding. He stated that at the time of marriage his daughter was aged 19 years. The Gauna ceremony was performed 3 years after the marriage. A similar statement was given by PW-2 also. PW-9 stated that the deceased got married about five-six-years ago. Five-six days after the marriage, the informant had brought her back home. She stayed in the house of her father for about five-six months and thereafter her gauna was performed.

12. Therefore, there was a discrepancy in the statements of PW-1 & PW-2 who stated that gauna was performed three years after the marriage and the statement of PW-9, who stated that it was performed five-six months after the marriage. PW-9 stated that the victim died six years after her marriage.

13. DW-1 Parmatma Prasad stated that the deceased had got married nine years prior to her death and he denied that she got married six years prior to her death. He also denied that gauna was performed three years after the marriage. DW-2 Lakshmi Narayan also gave a similar statement and he stated that the appellant got married in the year 2001, nine years prior to her death.

14. The trial court held that the prosecution could not establish the demand of dowry and harassment for this reason. The trial Court further held that although the PW-2 and PW-9 had reached the hospital, the informant PW-1 had falsely stated that he received information of the incident after one month and there is no explanation for the delay of one month in lodging the FIR.

However, as the victim has died of burning in the house of her husband, the reason for death was to be proved by her husband and his family members as per the provisions contained in Section 106 of the Evidence Act. The accused persons have failed to adduce evidence regarding reasons of the suicide committed by the victim. PW-2 has stated that the appellant used to consume liquor and if the deceased objected against it, he used to beat her in inebriated condition. The trial Court held that it indicates that the victim committed suicide being aggrieved by the aforesaid conduct of the appellant and, therefore, the appellant is liable to be convicted for the offence under Section 306 IPC. The trial court stated that as charges were framed under Sections 304B, 498A (alternatively Section 304/34) IPC. Section 306 IPC being an offence of lesser seriousness, the appellant can be convicted for the aforesaid offence without framing a charge.

15. The trial court has acquitted the other accused persons of all the charges.

16. As the trial court has acquitted the appellant of the charges under Sections 498A, 304B, 302/34 IPC and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, this Court has to examine whether there was sufficient material to establish that the appellant had abetted his wife to commit suicide.

17. Section 306 of the Code deals with 'abetment of suicide' which reads as under: -

"306. Abetment of suicide.-If any person commits suicide, whoever abets the commission of such suicide, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine."

18. "Abetment of a thing" has been defined under Section 107 of the Code in the following words:-

"107. Abetment of a thing--A person abets the doing of a thing, who?

First.-Instigates any person to do that thing; or

Secondly.-Engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing; or

Thirdly.-Intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing.?

Explanation 2 which has been inserted along with Section 107 reads as under:

'Explanation 2.-Whoever, either prior to or at the time of the commission of an act, does anything in order to facilitate the commission of that act, and thereby facilitates the commission thereof, is said to aid the doing of that act.'

19. In Ramesh Kumar v. State of Chhattisgarh: (2001) 9 SCC 618, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

“20. Instigation is to goad, urge forward, provoke, incite or encourage to do ?an act?. To satisfy the requirement of instigation though it is not necessary that actual words must be used to that effect or what constitutes instigation must necessarily and specifically be suggestive of the consequence. Yet a reasonable certainty to incite the consequence must be capable of being spelt out. The present one is not a case where the accused had by his acts or omission or by a continued course of conduct created such circumstances that the deceased was left with no other option except to commit suicide in which case an instigation may have been inferred. A word uttered in the fit of anger or emotion without intending the consequences to actually follow cannot be said to be instigation.”

20. In State of W.B. v. Orilal Jaiswal: (1994) 1 SCC 73, the Hon’ble Supreme Court has cautioned that: -

17. ...the Court should be extremely careful in assessing the facts and circumstances of each case and the evidence adduced in the trial for the purpose of finding whether the cruelty meted out to the victim had in fact induced her to end the life by committing suicide. If it transpires to the Court that a victim committing suicide was hypersensitive to ordinary petulance, discord and differences in domestic life quite common to the society to which the victim belonged and such petulance, discord and differences were not expected to induce a similarly circumstanced individual in a given society to commit suicide, the conscience of the Court should not be satisfied for basing a finding that the accused charged of abetting the offence of suicide should be found guilty...”

(Emphasis added)

21. In Chitresh Kumar Chopra v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi): (2009) 16 SCC 605, the Hon’ble Supreme Court held that there should be intention to provoke, incite or encourage the doing of an act by the latter. Each person’s suicidability pattern is different from the others. Each person has his own idea of self-esteem and self-respect. Therefore, it is impossible to lay down any straitjacket formula in dealing with such cases. Each case has to be decided on the basis of its own facts and circumstances.

22. In M. Mohan v. State: (2011) 3 SCC 626, the Hon’ble Supreme Court held that: -

“44. Abetment involves a mental process of instigating a person or intentionally aiding a person in doing of a thing. Without a positive act on the part of the accused to instigate or aid in committing suicide, conviction cannot be sustained.

45. The intention of the legislature and the ratio of the cases decided by this Court are clear that in order to convict a person under Section 306 IPC there has to be a clear mens rea to commit the offence. It also requires an active act or direct act which led the deceased to commit suicide seeing no option and this act must have been intended to push the deceased into such a position that he/she committed suicide.”

23. The aforesaid ratio has been followed in Prabhat Kumar Mishra v. State of U.P.: (2024) 3 SCC 665.

24. The learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Nipun Aneja v. State of U.P., 2024 SCC OnLine SC 4091, in which the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to numerous precedents on the point of what would constitute abetment to commit suicide and concluded that: -

“21. The ingredients to constitute an offence under Section 306 of the IPC (abetment of suicide) would stand fulfilled if the suicide is committed by the deceased due to direct and alarming encouragement/incitement by the accused leaving no option but to commit suicide... The problem is that the courts just look into the factum of suicide and nothing more. We believe that such understanding on the part of the courts is wrong. It all depends on the nature of the offence & accusation. ...”

25. In the present case, the appellant as well as all the accused persons stand acquitted of the charge under Section 498-A IPC as it could not be established that they had subjected the deceased to cruelty. There is no allegation of commission of any act which may amount to instigating the deceased to commit suicide.

26. The only evidence is the evidence of PW-2, who stated that the appellant used to consume liquor and if the deceased objected against it, he used to beat her in an inebriated condition. There was no evidence that any such incident took place in close proximity of time when the deceased committed suicide. There is no evidence that the quarrels were intended to induce the victim to commit suicide. There is no evidence that the quarrel had left the deceased with no option except to commit suicide.

27. Even if the trial Court came to the conclusion that the victim committed suicide being aggrieved by the aforesaid conduct of the appellant, it would only indicate that the victim was hypersensitive and she over reacted. It has not been shown that consuming liquor and quarrels were not common to the society to which the victim and the appellant belonged. The prosecution has failed to show that the appellant's intention behind consuming liquor was to provoke or incite the victim to commit suicide and that the deceased committed due to direct and alarming encouragement/incitement by the accused leaving no option but to commit suicide. The trial Court just looked into the factum of suicide and nothing more, and held the appellant guilty of the offence under Section 306 IPC without there being any evidence to prove that the appellant had abetted the deceased to commit suicide.

28. The trial Court has held that as the victim has died of burning in the house of her husband, the reason for death was to be proved by her husband and his family members as per the provisions contained in Section 106 of the Evidence Act.

29. Section 106 of the Evidence Act provides as follows: -

“106. Burden of proving fact especially within knowledge.-When any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him.

Illustrations

(a) When a person does an act with some intention other than that which the character and circumstances of the act suggest, the burden of proving that intention is upon him.

(b) A is charged with travelling on a railway without a ticket. The burden of proving that he had a ticket is on him.”

30. The trial Court held that PW-2 has stated that the appellant used to consume liquor and if the deceased objected against it, he used to beat her in an inebriated condition. The accused persons have failed to adduce evidence regarding reasons of the suicide committed by the victim. The trial Court held that it indicates that the victim committed suicide being aggrieved by the aforesaid conduct of the appellant and, therefore, the appellant is liable to be convicted for the offence under Section 306 IPC.

31. In Vikramjit Singh v. State of Punjab: (2006) 12 SCC 306, the Hon’ble Supreme Court held that: -

“14. Section 106 of the Evidence Act does not relieve the prosecution to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt. Only when the prosecution case has been proved the burden in regard to such facts which was within the special knowledge of the accused may be shifted to the accused for explaining the same. Of course, there are certain exceptions to the said rule e.g. where burden of proof may be imposed upon the accused by reason of a statute.”

32. In Joydeb Patra v. State of W.B., (2014) 12 SCC 444, the Hon’ble Supreme Court reiterated that: -

“10.....This Court has repeatedly held that the burden to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt is on the prosecution and it is only when this burden is discharged that the accused could prove any fact within his special knowledge under Section 106 of the Evidence Act to establish that he was not guilty. In Sucha Singh v. State of Punjab [(2001) 4 SCC 375] this Court held: (SCC p. 381, para 19)

“19. We pointed out that Section 106 of the Evidence Act is not intended to relieve the prosecution of its burden to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt, but the Section would apply to cases where the prosecution has succeeded in proving facts for which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding the existence of certain other facts, unless the accused by virtue of special knowledge regarding such facts failed to offer any explanation which might drive the court to draw a different inference.”

33. In Balvir Singh v. State of Uttarakhand, (2023) 16 SCC 575, the Hon^{ble} Supreme Court has elaborated upon the principles for invocation of Section 106 against an accused, in the following words: -

“35. Section 106 of the Evidence Act referred to above provides that when any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him. The word “especially” means facts that are pre-eminently or exceptionally within the knowledge of the accused. The ordinary rule that applies to the criminal trials that the onus lies on the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused is not in any way modified by the rule of facts embodied in Section 106 of the Evidence Act. Section 106 of the Evidence Act is an exception to Section 101 of the Evidence Act. Section 101 with its Illustration (a) lays down the general rule that in a criminal case the burden of proof is on the prosecution and Section 106 is certainly not intended to relieve it of that duty. On the contrary, it is designed to meet certain exceptional cases in which it would be impossible or at any rate disproportionately difficult for the prosecution to establish the facts which are, especially within the knowledge of the accused and which, he can prove without difficulty or inconvenience

*45. To recapitulate the foregoing : What lies at the bottom of the various rules shifting the evidential burden or burden of introducing evidence in proof of one's case as opposed to the persuasive burden or burden of proof i.e. of proving all the issues remaining with the prosecution and which never shift is the idea that it is impossible for the prosecution to give wholly convincing evidence on certain issues from its own hand and it is therefore for the accused to give evidence on them if he wishes to escape. Positive facts must always be proved by the prosecution. But the same rule cannot always apply to negative facts. It is not for the prosecution to anticipate and eliminate all possible defences or circumstances which may exonerate an accused. Again, when a person does not act with some intention other than that which the character and circumstances of the act suggest, it is not for the prosecution to eliminate all the other possible intentions. If the accused had a different intention that is a fact especially within his knowledge and which he must prove (see Professor Glanville Williams? The Proof of Guilt : A Study of the English Criminal Trial, Ch. 7, p. 127 and following) and the interesting discussion?para 527 negative averments and para 528??require affirmative counter-evidence? at p. 438 and foil, of Kenny's Outlines of Criminal Law, 17th Edn. 1958.*

* * *

49. Section 106 of the Evidence Act would apply to cases where the prosecution could be said to have succeeded in proving facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding death.

* * *

*51. To explain what constitutes a prima facie case to make Section 106 of the Evidence Act applicable, we should refer to the decision of this Court in *Mir Mohammad [State of W.B. v.

Mir Mohammad Omar, (2000) 8 SCC 382 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 1516] , wherein this Court has observed in paras 36 and 37, respectively, as under : (SCC p. 393)

“36. In this context we may profitably utilise the legal principle embodied in Section 106 of the Evidence Act which reads as follows: ‘When any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him.’”

37. The section is not intended to relieve the prosecution of its burden to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt. But the section would apply to cases where the prosecution has succeeded in proving facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding the existence of certain other facts, unless the accused by virtue of his special knowledge regarding such facts, failed to offer any explanation which might drive the court to draw a different inference.”

34. In M. Vijayakumar v. State of T.N.: (2024) 4 SCC 633, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under: -

“25. We are at a loss to understand as to how Section 106 of the Evidence Act could be applied in the case on hand against the appellant in view with facts narrated above. This section is an exception to the general rule laid down in Section 101 which casts burden of proving a fact on the party who substantially asserts the affirmative of the issue. Section 106 is not intended to relieve any person of that duty or burden. On the contrary, it says that when a fact to be proved, either affirmatively or negatively, is especially within the knowledge of a person, it is for him to prove it. This section, in its application to criminal cases, applies where the defence of the accused depends on his proving a fact especially within his knowledge and of nobody else.

26. In short, Section 106 of the Evidence Act cannot be used to shift the burden of proving the offence from the prosecution to the accused. It can only when the prosecution led evidence, which, if believed, will sustain a conviction or which makes out a prima facie case, that the question of shifting the onus to prove such fact(s) on the accused would arise. (See the decision in Sawal Das v. State of Bihar [Sawal Das v. State of Bihar: (1974) 4 SCC 193]”

35. Upendra @ Balveer versus State of U.P.: Neutral Citation No. ? 2024:AHC:172173-DB is a judgment rendered by the Division Bench of this Court where the appellant was charged under Sections 498-A, 304-B , 316 IPC and □ of D.P. Act, but the trial court found the charges under Sections 498-A, 304-B and □ of D.P. Act not proved against the appellant and convicted the appellant for offences under Section 302 and 316 IPC on the basis of a presumption drawn against him under Section 106 of the Evidence Act. The Division Bench held that such an interpretation of Section 106 was in fact a misreading of the aforesaid Section and the initial burden of establishing a prima facie case would still lie on the prosecution. It was observed that: -

“21. As far as the concept of Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act is concerned, that is misread by the learned trial Judge because when the offence like murder is committed in secrecy inside the house, the initial burden to establish the case would undoubtedly be upon the prosecution. In view of Section 106 Indian Evidence Act, there will be a corresponding burden on the inmates of the house to give cogent explanation as to how the crime was committed. The inmates of the house cannot get away by simply keeping quite and offering no explanation on the supposed premise that the burden to establish its case lies entirely upon the prosecution. Initial burden of proving that, as on the date of the alleged incident, the accused was present in the house or lastly seen with the deceased or that he was lastly in the company of the deceased at the time of the incident would be primarily upon the prosecution.

23. In our case, it is established fact that the appellant and his deceased wife used to reside in same house. Hence, the burden to prove factum of the death of the deceased cannot be shifted on the shoulders of the appellant unless the prosecution first of all discharged its burden by proving the fact that at the time of alleged occurrence or at the time when the deceased was put on fire, the appellant was also inside the house. Learned AGA, in this regard, has contended that appellant has not taken the plea that he was not in the house when the incident took place but this was the negative burden on the appellant accused. The prosecution has not brought forward any evidence which could at least establish the fact that the time of occurrence, the appellant was inside the house. Hence, there is no applicability of Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act in this case."

36. Apart from the statement of PW-2, that the appellant used to consume liquor and if the deceased objected against it, he used to beat her in an inebriated condition, there was no evidence that any such incident took place in close proximity of time when the deceased committed suicide and that the quarrels were intended to induce the victim to commit suicide. There is no evidence that the quarrel had left the deceased with no option except to commit suicide. Even if the trial Court came to the conclusion that the victim committed suicide being aggrieved by the aforesaid conduct of the appellant, there is no evidence to even prima facie establish that the appellant had abetted the deceased to commit suicide.

37. As the prosecution has not been able to discharge its burden of establishing beyond reasonable doubt that the appellant had abetted his wife to commit suicide, the trial court could not have held the appellants guilty just because the appellant could not explain the reason due to which his wife committed suicide.

38. In view of the foregoing discussion, I am of the view that the prosecution failed to establish that the appellant had abetted the deceased to commit suicide. The offence under Section 306 IPC is not made out. The order of conviction and sentence of the appellant passed by the trial court is not sustainable in law.

39. The appeal is allowed. The judgment and order dated 06.04.2012 passed by the learned Special Judge (EC Act), Gonda in Sessions Trial No. 217 of 2008 arising out of Case Crime No. 127 of 2008, under Sections 498-A, 304-B (alternative Section 302/34 IPC) and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Kaudiya, District Gonda, is set aside. The appellant is acquitted of the charges. The appeal was admitted by means of an order dated 12.06.2012 and the appellant was enlarged on interim bail by means of an order dated 27.09.2012 and he was required to deposit 50% of the amount of fine. This amount of fine should be refunded to the appellant.

40. The appellant is directed to comply with the provision of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. and execute bail bonds with sureties within a period of two weeks, to appear before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in case any appeal is filed against this order and the Hon'ble Supreme Court issues notice of the appeal and such bail bonds shall be in force for six months.

Counsel for Appellant(s) : Narendra Gupta
Counsel for Respondent(s) : G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant, learned AGA for the State, responded no.1 and perused the record.

2. Instant criminal appeal, under Section 14-A(1) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, has been preferred against the order dated 26/03/2026 passed by Special Judge, SC/ST Act, Sitapur in Criminal Miscellaneous Case No.75 of 2026, CIS No.127 of 2026, Smt. Sushila versus Fahimuddin Ansari, on application under Section 173(4) BNSS filed by defacto complainant respondent no.2, whereby the learned Special Judge, SC/ST Act has directed the SHO, Tambour, District, Sitapur, to register FIR under the appropriate sections and investigate the case according to the law. Compliance to be ensured within 10 days.

3. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that there are various discrepancies in the impugned order passed by learned Special Judge on the application under section 173(4) BNSS. The complainant has stated in said application under Section 173(4) BNSS that she had gone to get photocopies of her Aadhar card on 14.12.26 at the shop of the opposite party (appellant), where he tried to get her proximity and asked her address and on pretext of showing his second shop, he took her to his shop of fertilizer and seeds and brought her back to the photocopying shop. He asked her to sit there and engaged in obscene conversation with her and molested her. She anyhow rescued herself from his clutches. On reaching at her home, she narrated the incident to her family members. On the next day i.e. 15/02/2026, she moved an application at police station concerned and also made a complaint through the IGRS portal, but no action was taken. She also filed a complaint against the appellant by registered post to the Superintendent of Police, Sitapur and other higher officers, but no action was taken. Therefore, she was compelled to move the application before the court.

4. He next submitted that there is a distance of 90 kilometers between the "Jan Seva Kendra" operated by the appellant and the residence of the complainant. It is quite unnatural that she would have come to get Photocopies at his Graahak Seva Kendra. The procedural requirements of Section 173(4) BNSS, were not complied with by the complainant. She hatched a conspiracy to falsely implicate the appellant with ulterior motive to get compensation from the government due to her caste factor. She did not visit the police station on asking of higher authority regarding her complaint on the IGRS portal, the learned court below, while passing the impugned order, did not consider the submissions of the police station, wherein, it is stated that no such incident as alleged by the complainant had occurred. It is also stated therein that the appellant had come for her treatment at Kasba, Tambaur, and visited the Jan Seva Kendra operated by the opposite party where some hot talk occurred between them on the question of charges of photocopying. None of the neighbouring shop owners corroborated the incident on interrogation. The learned court below has made wrong observation that on the basis of the averments in the application filed by the applicant and from the report of the police station, it appears that the opposite party had misbehaved and molested the applicant. He also submitted that the applicant had also lodged another FIR vide Case

Crime No.141 of 2025 on 13/06/2025 against Deepak Shukla and Sushil Shukla in which she made allegation of molestation, use of criminal force, marpit and criminal intimidation. During the police investigation, the case was found false and final report was submitted.

5. Learned counsel for the appellant prayed for interim relief to stay the operation of the impugned order and submitted that on lodging of the FIR pursuant to the impugned order, the purpose of filing the present revision shall frustrate.

6. Per contra, learned AGA has submitted that the appeal is not maintainable against impugned order which is interlocutory as such in terms of Full Bench judgment of this Court in Father Thomas versus State of UP and Others, reported in 2011 (72) ACC 564, and Jagannath Verma and Others versus State of UP and Another, reported in 2014 (8) ADJ 439. The prospective accused in an order passed on application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. (173(4), BNSS. can not prefer an appeal or Revision against an order directing registration of FIR and investigation by police.

7. Learned AGA has also placed reliance on a recent judgment of single bench of this Court in Kamlesh Meena and Others versus State of UP and Others, reported in 2025 (5) ALJ 578 in support of his contentions. He submitted that in the impugned order, learned Special Judge has issued a direction to the Station House Officer concerned to register an FIR and investigate the case under appropriate sections in the light of applications under Section 173(4) BNSS. This is an interlocutory order and revision is not maintainable against such order.

8. Per contra, learned counsel for the appellant placed reliance on an interim order passed by this by Single Bench in Matters Under Article 227 No.1268 of 2026, dated 10/2/2026, wherein, an interim stay was granted against the impugned order passed by the learned CJM, Chandausi, District Sambhal on an application under Section 173(4) of BNSS, whereby learned CJM has issued direction to lodge an FIR and register the case against the petitioners who happen to be Additional Superintendent of Police, North, District Sambhal; being a public servant, before issuing directions under Section 174(3) BNSS, it was incumbent on learned CJM to comply with the provisions of Section 175(4) BNSS before issuing such an order. He also submitted that this is statutory appeal u/s 14(A)(1) of the Act and this Court has ample power to examine the impugned order and set it aside in an appropriate case.

9. I have gone through the judgments cited by learned counsel for the parties, as well as a recent judgment of the Hon?ble Supreme Court in Criminal Appeal No.352 of 2020, Om Prakash Ambadkar versus State of Maharashtra and Others in light of facts and circumstances of the case.

10. Ordinarily, provisions of Section 156(3) CrPC, which is replaced by Section 173(4) BNSS, are invoked by the complainant when the police authorities decline to register an FIR. In such circumstances, a private complaint may be made in the court of the magistrate or Special Judge, as the case may be, and the complainant may pray that police investigation be ordered under Section 156(3) of the CrPC or Section 173(4) of BNSS, as the case may be.

11. The Hon'ble Supreme Court discussed both the provisions, which are essentially pari materia in Om Prakash Ambadkar vs. The State of Maharashtra and others and observed in paragraphs 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, and 34, which are extracted as under:

"29. Section 175 of the BNSS corresponds to Section 156 of the Cr.P.C. Sub-section (1) of Section 175 of the BNSS is in pari materia with sub-section 156(1) of the Cr.P.C. except for the proviso which empowers the Superintendent of Police to direct the Deputy Superintendent of Police to investigate a case if the nature or gravity of the case so requires. Sub-section (2) of Section 175 the BNSS is identical to Section 156(2) of the Cr.P.C. Section 175(3) of the BNSS empowers any Magistrate who is empowered to take cognizance under Section 210 to order investigation in accordance with Section 175(1) and to this extent is in pari materia with Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. However, unlike Section 156(3) of the Cr.P.C., any Magistrate, before ordering investigation under Section 175(3) of the BNSS, is required to :

a. Consider the application, supported by an affidavit, made by the complainant to the Superintendent of Police under Section 173(4) of the BNSS;

b. Conduct such inquiry as he thinks necessary; and

c. Consider the submissions made by the police officer.

30. Sub-section (4) of Section 175 of the BNSS is a new addition to the scheme of investigation of cognizable cases when compared with the scheme previously existing in Section 156 of the Cr.P.C. It provides an additional safeguard to a public servant against whom an accusation of committing a cognizable offence arising in the course of discharge of his official duty is made. The provision stipulates that any Magistrate who is empowered to take cognizance under Section 210 of the BNSS may order investigation against a public servant upon receiving a complaint arising in course of the discharge of his official duty, only after complying with the following procedure: a. Receiving a report containing facts and circumstances of the incident from the officer superior to the accused public servant; and

b. Considering the assertions made by the accused public servant as regards the situation that led to the occurrence of the alleged incident.

31. A comparison of Section 175(3) of the BNSS with Section 156(3) of the Cr.P.C. indicates three prominent changes that have been introduced by the enactment of BNSS as follows: a. First, the requirement of making an application to the Superintendent of Police upon refusal by the officer in charge of a police station to lodge the FIR has been made mandatory, and the applicant making an application under Section 175(3) is required to furnish a copy of the application made to the Superintendent of Police under Section 173(4), supported by an affidavit, while making the application to the Magistrate under Section 175(3). b. Secondly, the Magistrate has been empowered to conduct such enquiry as he deems necessary before making an order directing registration of FIR. c. Thirdly, the Magistrate is required to consider the submissions of the officer in charge of the police station as regards the refusal to register an FIR before issuing any directions under Section 175(3).

32. The introduction of these changes by the legislature can be attributed to the judicial evolution of Section 156 of the Cr.P.C. undertaken by a number of decisions of this Court. In the case of Priyanka Srivastava v. State of U.P. reported in (2015) 6 SCC 287, this Court held that prior to making an application to the Magistrate under Section 156(3) of the Cr.P.C., the applicant must necessarily make applications under Sections 154(1) and 154(3). It was further observed by the Court that applications made under Section 156(3) of the Cr.P.C. must necessarily be supported by an affidavit sworn by the applicant. The reason given by the Court for introducing such a requirement was that applications under Section 156(3) of the Cr.P.C. were being made in a routine manner and in a number of cases only with a view to cause harassment to the accused by registration of FIR. It was further observed that the requirement of supporting the complaint with an affidavit would ensure that the person making the application is conscious and also to see that no false affidavit is made. Once an affidavit is found to be false, the applicant would be liable for prosecution in accordance with law. This would deter him from casually invoking the authority of the Magistrate under Section 156(3). The relevant observations made by the Court are reproduced hereinbelow: ?

27. Regard being had to the aforesaid enunciation of law, it needs to be reiterated that the learned Magistrate has to remain vigilant with regard to the allegations made and the nature of allegations and not to issue directions without proper application of mind. He has also to bear in mind that sending the matter would be conducive to justice and then he may pass the requisite order. The present is a case where the accused persons are serving in high positions in the Bank. We are absolutely conscious that the position does not matter, for nobody is above the law. But, the learned Magistrate should take note of the allegations in entirety, the date of incident and whether any cognizable case is remotely made out. It is also to be noted that when a borrower of the financial institution covered under the Sarfaesi Act, invokes the jurisdiction under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and also there is a separate procedure under the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993, an attitude of more care, caution and circumspection has to be adhered to.

28. Issuing a direction stating ?as per the application? to lodge an FIR creates a very unhealthy situation in society and also reflects the erroneous approach of the learned Magistrate. It also encourages unscrupulous and unprincipled litigants, like Respondent 3, namely, Prakash Kumar Bajaj, to take adventurous steps with courts to bring the financial institutions on their knees. As the factual exposition would reveal, Respondent 3 had prosecuted the earlier authorities and after the matter is dealt with by the High Court in a writ petition recording a settlement, he does not withdraw the criminal case and waits for some kind of situation where he can take vengeance as if he is the emperor of all he surveys. It is interesting to note that during the tenure of Appellant 1, who is presently occupying the position of Vice- President, neither was the loan taken, nor was the default made, nor was any action under the SARFAESI Act taken. However, the action under the SARFAESI Act was taken on the second time at the instance of the present Appellant 1. We are only stating about the devilish design of Respondent 3 to harass the appellants with the sole intent to avoid the payment of loan. When a citizen avails a loan from a financial institution, it is his obligation to pay back and not play truant or for that matter play possum. As we have noticed, he has been able to do such adventurous acts as he has the embedded conviction that he will not be taken to task because an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is a simple application to the court for issue of a direction to the investigating agency. We have been apprised that a carbon copy of a document is filed to show the compliance with Section 154(3), indicating it has been sent to the Superintendent of Police concerned.

29. At this stage it is seemly to state that power under Section 156(3) warrants application of judicial mind. A court of law is involved. It is not the police taking steps at the stage of Section 154 of the Code. A litigant at his own whim cannot invoke the authority of the Magistrate. A principled and really grieved citizen with clean hands must have free access to invoke the said power. It protects the citizens but when pervert litigations takes this route to harass their fellow citizens, efforts are to be made to scuttle and curb the same.

30. In our considered opinion, a stage has come in this country where Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. applications are to be supported by an affidavit duly sworn by the applicant who seeks the invocation of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate. That apart, in an appropriate case, the learned Magistrate would be well advised to verify the truth and also can verify the veracity of the allegations. This affidavit can make the applicant more responsible. We are compelled to say so as such kind of applications are being filed in a routine manner without taking any responsibility whatsoever only to harass certain persons. That apart, it becomes more disturbing and alarming when one tries to pick up people who are passing orders under a statutory provision which can be challenged under the framework of the said Act or under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. But it cannot be done to take undue advantage in a criminal court as if somebody is determined to settle the scores.

31. We have already indicated that there has to be prior applications under Sections 154(1) and 154(3) while filing a petition under Section 156(3). Both the aspects should be clearly spelt out in the application and necessary documents to that effect shall be filed. The warrant for giving a direction that an application under Section 156(3) be supported by an affidavit is so that the person making the application should be conscious and also endeavour to see that no false affidavit is made. It is because once an affidavit is found to be false, he will be liable for prosecution in accordance with law. This will deter him to casually invoke the authority of the Magistrate under Section 156(3). That apart, we have already stated that the veracity of the same can also be verified by the learned Magistrate, regard being had to the nature of allegations of the case. We are compelled to say so as a number of cases pertaining to fiscal sphere, matrimonial dispute/family disputes, commercial offences, medical negligence cases, corruption cases and the cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, as are illustrated in Lalita Kumari [(2014) 2 SCC 1 : (2014) 1 SCC (Cri) 524] are being filed. That apart, the learned Magistrate would also be aware of the delay in lodging of the FIR.?

33. In a recent pronouncement of this Court in the case of Babu Venkatesh v. The State Of Karnataka reported in (2022) 5 SCC 639, the observations made in Priyanka Srivastava (supra) were referred to and it was held as follows: :

24. This Court has clearly held that, a stage has come where applications under Section 156(3)Cr.P.C. are to be supported by an affidavit duly sworn by the complainant who seeks the invocation of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate.

25. This Court further held that, in an appropriate case, the learned Magistrate would be well advised to verify the truth and also verify the veracity of the allegations. The Court has noted that, applications under Section 156(3)Cr.P.C. are filed in a routine manner without taking any responsibility only to harass certain persons.

26. This Court has further held that, prior to the filing of a petition under Section 156(3)Cr.P.C., there have to be applications under Sections 154(1) and 154(3)Cr.P.C.. This Court emphasises the necessity to file an affidavit so that the persons making the application should be conscious and not make false affidavit. With such a requirement, the persons would be deterred from causally invoking authority of the Magistrate, under Section 156(3)Cr.P.C.. Inasmuch as if the affidavit is found to be false, the person would be liable for prosecution in accordance with law.?

34. In light of the judicial interpretation and evolution of Section 156(3) of the Cr.P.C. by various decisions of this Court as discussed above, it becomes clear that the changes introduced by Section 175(3) of the BNSS to the existing scheme of Section 156(3) merely codify the procedural practices and safeguards which have been introduced by judicial decisions aimed at curbing the misuse of invocation of powers of a Magistrate by unscrupulous litigants for achieving ulterior motives.?

12. With the above observation, the Supreme Court set aside the impugned order passed by the Magistrate, directing police investigation under Section 156(3) CrPC in a criminal appeal filed against the rejection of an application filed by the accused appellant in a case under Sections 323, 294, 500, 504 and 506 IPC against the appellant, who was a practicing advocate, and set aside the order of the High Court, passed under Section 482 CrPC, whereby the petition of the appellant for setting aside the impugned order passed by the trial court was dismissed.

13. This Court, in a recent judgment in Kamlesh Meena and others vs. State of U.P. and others, placing reliance on Full Bench judgment of this Court in Father Thomas vs. State of U.P. and Others also citing the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Om Prakash Ambedkar versus the State of Maharashtra and others and other leading cases on ambit and scope of the order on application under Section 156(3) CrPC, considered it in detail. This Court observed that in the latter part. Paragraphs 18 and 21 are extracted of as under:-

“ 18. In the latter part of Section 173(4) of B.N.S.S., it is provided that "failing which such aggrieved person may make an application to the Magistrate". Aforesaid phrase used in Section 173(4) of B.N.S.S., in my opinion, clearly denotes that in case all the remedies as mentioned under sub-section 1, sub-section 3 and initial part of sub-section 4 of Section 173 B.N.S.S. are exhausted, applicant/aggrieved person has a right to move an appropriate application before the Magistrate, who, in turn, either proceed on the aforesaid application and issue a direction for police investigation after registering the F.I.R., or treat it as a complaint and proceed accordingly, or reject the same on merits. In the instant matter, learned Magistrate came to conclusion that the cognizable offence is made out against the opposite parties in the complaint, thus, it would be justified to issue a direction for registration of an F.I.R. and investigation of the matter.

21. In this conspectus, as above, I am of the considered view that the present applicants, who are the prospective accused, have no locus standi to assail the direction for investigation under Section 173(4) read with 175 (3) B.N.S.S. before the summoning/cognizance stage. There is neither any abuse of process of court nor any ground made out to pass an order to interfere with the complaint u/s 173(4) for securing the ends of justice, in exercise of the inherent jurisdiction of this Court under Section 528 B.N.S.S."

14. In Father Thomas versus State of UP and others, the Full Bench of this Court held that the initial order of the Magistrate under Section 156(3) CrPC peremptorily reminds the police to perform its duty and investigate a cognizable offence. The orders for investigation under Section 156(3) CrPC, are only ancillary step in aid of the investigation or trial and are clearly interlocutory in nature and are not amenable to challenge in a criminal revision in view of the bar contained in Section 397(2) of the Code. An order under Section 156(3) CrPC, issuing a direction to police to register a case and investigate, is not amenable to challenge in a criminal revision or an application under Section 482 CrPC. It is not necessary for this Court to go into further questions, whether the said order is administrative in nature as urged by counsel for the revisionist and the learned Government Advocate. The Full Bench further held that the order of Magistrate in exercise of power under Section 156(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure directing the police to register and investigate is not open to revision at the instance of a person against whom neither cognizance has been taken nor any process issued.

15. Subsequently, a full bench of this court in Jagannath Verma and Others (supra) considered the judgment of Father Thomas (supra), and held that before the Full Bench in Father Thomas (supra), the controversy was whether a direction to the police to register a first information report in regard to a case involving a cognizable offense and for investigation is open to revision at the instance of a person suspected of having committed a crime, against whom neither cognizance has been taken nor any process issued. Such an order was held to be interlocutory in nature and, therefore, attracts the bar under subsection (2) of Section 397. An order of a Magistrate rejecting an application under Section 156(3) of the Court for the registration of the case by the police and for investigation is not an interlocutory order. Such an order is amenable to the remedy of a criminal revision under Section 397.

16. Amar Nath v. State of Haryana, AIR 1977 SC 2185 is a landmark judgement defining interlocutory orders. It has been defined in paragraph 6 as the term 'interlocutory order' in Section 397 (2) of the 1973 Code has been used in a restricted sense and not in any broad or artistic sense. It merely denotes orders of a purely interim or temporary nature which do not decide or touch the important rights or the liabilities of the parties. Any order which substantially affects the rights of the accused, or decides certain rights of the parties cannot be said to be an interlocutory order so as to bar a revision to the High Court against that order, because that would be against the very object which formed the basis for insertion of this particular provision in S. 397 of the 1973 Code. Thus, for instance, orders summoning witnesses, adjourning cases, passing orders for bail, calling for reports and such other steps in aid of the pending proceeding, may no doubt amount to interlocutory orders against which no revision would lie under Section 397 (2) of the 1973 Code. But orders which are matters of moment and which affect or adjudicate the rights of the accused or a particular aspect of the trial cannot be said to be interlocutory order so as to be outside the purview of the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court.

17. In Amar Nath's case, the order summoning the appellants in a mechanical manner after the police had submitted a final report against them leading to their release by the Judicial Magistrate, and the revision petition against the order of the Magistrate preferred before the Additional Sessions Judge by the complainant had also failed. Even the subsequent complaint by the complainant had been dismissed on merits. Against the dismissal of the latter complaint, the complainant preferred a revision. The Sessions Judge set aside the order of the Judicial Magistrate and remanded the case for further inquiry, whereupon the Magistrate straightaway summoned the appellants for trial. The High Court dismissed the revision of the complainant on premise that the judicial Magistrate's order being an interlocutory revision to the High Court was barred under Section 397(2). Since the Revision to the High Court was barred by Section 397(2), the High Court could not take up the case under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. In Appeal, Hon' ble Supreme Court held that the order which appeared to infringe substantial rights acquired by the appellants was considered an order of moment and not a mere interlocutory order, which would invite the bar to entertaining the revision under S. 397(2) of the Code.

18. The scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, Section 14A of the SC/SC Act provides as under:

"14A. Appeals (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), an appeal shall lie, from any judgment, sentence or order, not being an interlocutory order, of a Special Court or an Exclusive Special Court, to the High Court both on facts and on law.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (3) of section 378 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), an appeal shall lie to the High Court against an order of the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court granting or refusing bail.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, every appeal under this section shall be preferred within a period of ninety days from the date of the judgment, sentence or order appealed from:

Provided that the High Court may entertain an appeal after the expiry of the said period of ninety days if it is satisfied that the appellant had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal within the period of ninety days:

Provided further that no appeal shall be entertained after the expiry of the period of one hundred and eighty days.

(4) Every appeal preferred under sub-section (1) shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within a period of three months from the date of admission of the appeal.]"

19. Thus, on a bare perusal of aforesaid statutory provision for appeals under which present appeal has been preferred by the prospective accused against whom an order on application under Section 173 (4) BNSS for registration of case and investigation has been issued by learned Special Judge. It is obvious that appeal shall not lie from any interlocutory order. This provision corresponds to the provisions of Section 397(2) CrPC, which provides that the powers of revision conferred by sub-section (1) shall not be exercised in relation to any interlocutory order passed in any appeal, inquiry, trial or other proceeding.

20. From perusal of judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Om Prakash Ambadkar vs. The State of Maharashtra and others an inference may be drawn that High Court can quash an order passed on application under Section 173(4) BNSS, in appropriate and exceptional cases, moved by a person aggrieved by inaction of police officer or refusal on their part to record the information referred in sub-section (1) of section 173, whereon, an order for registration of FIR and investigation by police is directed by filing a petition under Section 482 CrP.C. or 528 BNSS on ground that the procedural requirements provided under Section 173(4) and Section 175 (3) BNSS are not complied or on averments in the application, no cognizable offense is made out as stated in para 31 of the judgment (supra) as said procedure, practices and safeguards are introduced in aforesaid sections of BNSS to curb the misuse of invocation of powers of Magistrate by unscrupulous litigants for achieving ulterior motives and Hon'ble Court has also enjoined a duty of Magistrate to apply his mind judicially by considering both the complaints and submissions of police officer thereby ensuring that requirement of passing reasoned order on application under Section 173(4) BNSS is complied with in a more effective and comprehensive manner.

21. However, in the light of Full Bench pronouncements of this Court in Father Thomas (supra) and Jagannath Verma and others (supra), the impugned order being interlocutory in nature, the prospective accused is debarred from challenging the said order by way of filing a criminal revision or statutory appeal under Section 14-A(1) of the Act 1989. Consequently, the appeal preferred against impugned order by prospective accused/appellant is not maintainable and deserves to be dismissed at the stage of admission.

22. Appeal is hereby dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Raghuvansh Misra, learned counsel for surviving appellant no. 2; Sri. G.N. Kanaujiya, learned A.G.A.-I on behalf of the State; perused the judgment and the Trial Court record.

2. The instant criminal appeal has been preferred by the appellants, namely, Brijendra Singh and Brij Raj Singh, against the judgment and order dated 29.04.1989 passed by the learned Special Additional Sessions Judge, Pilibhit, in Sessions Trial No. 282 of 1985 (State vs. Brijendra Singh and another), arising out of Case Crime No. 127 of 1985, under Section 302/34 IPC, Police Station Bilsanda, District Pilibhit.

3. By the impugned judgment and order dated 29.04.1989, the learned Special Additional Sessions Judge, Pilibhit convicted the appellants and sentenced them to life imprisonment under Section 302/34 IPC. Aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order, the appellants have preferred the present criminal appeal.

4. On the basis of a written report (Exhibit Ka-1) dated 24.06.1985, a first information report (Exhibit Ka-14) was registered at Police Station Bilsanda, District Pilibhit, on 24.06.1985 at 6:30 A.M., as Case Crime No. 127 of 1985, under Section 302 IPC, against the appellants, namely, Brijendra Singh and Brij Raj Singh.

5. The brief facts of the prosecution case revealed from the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) are that informant Surat Singh (PW-1) stated in his tahreeer that in my village, Bhuri Singh, son of Umray Singh, had no children. His nephew (sister's son), Brijendra Singh, son of Kadher Singh, resident of Nagariya, Police Station Sindhauli, whose in-laws (sasuarl) reside at Chhote Singh's house in our village, had been looking after Bhuri Singh's farming for a long time. Brijendra Singh repeatedly pressured his maternal uncle (Bhuri Singh) to transfer the land and property to his name. However, Bhuri Singh executed a sale deed for his house in my name. Due to this, Brijendra regarded grudge against me. He had stated several times that the land could only be acquired by killing Bhuri Singh. Based on this enmity, the incident occurred at approximately 1:00 A.M. at night. Bhuri Singh, my son Rishi Pal Singh, and I were lying in the courtyard talking amongst themselves. There was light from a lantern. Suddenly, Brijendra Singh and his friend Brij Raj Singh, son of Hanumant Singh, entered the house armed with guns from the north side. Brij Raj Singh is a resident of our village. Brij Raj Singh aimed his weapon at me and shouted, 'Kill them quickly, this is a good opportunity.' I raised an alarm, shouting "Save me! Save me!" Hearing the noise, Bhagwant Singh, son of Jangi Singh and Jagannath Singh, son of Bhudar Singh, arrived while flashing their torches. Right then, Brijendra Singh fired at Bhuri Singh with his illegal firearm. The bullet hit Bhuri Singh. After the shooting, Brijendra Singh and Brij Raj Singh fled toward the north. Bhuri Singh passed away on the spot, his body is currently at the house.

6. After registration of the first information report (Exhibit Ka-14), and upon receiving information about the alleged murder, the Investigating Officer, S.O. Rahat Singh (PW-7), reached the place of occurrence with the police party. PW-7 took the investigation of the case in his hands. PW-7 inspected the place of occurrence. He got the necessary police papers prepared and the panchayatnama of the deceased prepared by S.I. Dan Singh. He also got the dead body of the deceased Bhuri Singh sealed and sent it for postmortem examination. PW-7 recorded the statements of the informant and other prosecution witnesses under Section 161 CrPC. He also prepared the recovery memo of the torch and lantern as Exhibit Ka-2 in the presence of witnesses and returned the same to them upon taking an undertaking that, when required, they would produce the above articles.

7. The Investigating Officer, S.O. Rahat Singh (PW-7), collected blood-stained soil and plain soil from the place of the incident. He also seized pellets, a blood-stained kathri (blanket) and a charpai (cot), and prepared a recovery memo for these items, marked as Exhibit Ka-11. He then conducted a raid at the house of the accused, Brij Raj Singh, son of Hanumant Singh, in an attempt to recover the murder weapon (gun). However, the weapon was not found, and no other incriminating items were recovered. A memo of these proceedings was prepared and marked as Exhibit Ka-12.

8. The Investigating Officer, S.O. Rahat Singh (PW-7), prepared the site plan of the place of occurrence. However, he was subsequently transferred from Police Station Bilsanda to another location. Consequently, the charge sheet was filed by Sub-Inspector Lakhan Singh, which was marked as Exhibit Ka-13, against the appellants, namely Brijendra Singh and Brij Raj Singh.

9. Prosecution witness Dr. A.K. Srivastava (PW-4) conducted the postmortem examination of the deceased, Bhuri Singh and prepared the postmortem report, which was marked as Exhibit Ka-3. According to the report, the following ante-mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased:-

"(i) A gunshot wound of entry 4 cm x 4 cm x chest cavity deep in left side of chest, 3 cm from left nipple. Blackening & Tattooing present. Margins inverted. Oval in shape. Injury present at 6'o clock position.

(ii) Multiple gunshot wounds of exist in an area of 11cm x 6 cm in back of left side of chest. It was situated 4 cm below the angle of the Scapula (shoulder blade), where semi-clotted blood was present. This injury was related to injury number 1."

According to the opinion of the Dr. A.K. Srivastava (PW-4), cause of death was shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

10. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, learned Magistrate committed the case to the Sessions Court for trial. Charges were framed against the appellants by the Trial Court on 14.07.1987, under section 302/34 IPC. Appellants denied from the charges and claimed trial.

11. To substantiate its case, the prosecution examined a total of seven witnesses, namely, the informant Surat Singh (PW-1), Bhagwant Singh (PW-2), Jagannath Singh (PW-3), Dr. A.K. Srivastava (PW-4), Omhari (PW-5), Rishi Pal Singh (PW-6), and Rahat Singh (PW-7). In addition to the oral testimony, the prosecution also relied on documentary evidence marked as Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-14.

12. After the evidence of all prosecution witnesses was recorded, the appellants were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The appellants denied the allegations levelled against them and stated that they had been falsely implicated in the case due to prior enmity and at the instigation and influence of Jagannath Singh (PW-3).□The appellants further stated that the informant Surat Singh (PW-1), was interested in acquiring the house of the deceased, Bhuri Singh, while Jagannath Singh, the Pradhan, intended to acquire five acres of agricultural land belonging to the deceased, situated in the same village. It was also contended that Brijendra Singh, being the sole heir of Bhuri Singh, had been falsely implicated in the present case.

13. After hearing the arguments of both the prosecution and the defence, the learned Trial Court, vide order dated 29.04.1989, held the appellants guilty of the alleged offence and convicted and sentenced them to life imprisonment under Section 302/34 IPC. Aggrieved by the said judgment, the appellants have preferred the present criminal appeal before this Court.

14. During the pendency of the present criminal appeal, the appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh, has died. Accordingly, vide order of this Court dated 06.02.2026, the present criminal appeal in respect of appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh, stands abated. Hence, we are adjudicating the present criminal appeal solely in respect of the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh.

15. We have heard the arguments of the learned counsel appearing for the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh as well as the learned AGA appearing on behalf of the State-respondent. We have also perused the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 29.04.1989 passed by the learned Trial Court and have also gone through the entire oral and documentary evidence available on record.

16. The main thrust of the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, is that the prosecution has assigned to him only an ornamental role of exhortation. Brij Raj Singh neither had any motive nor has his participation been proved, inasmuch as, appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased) belonged to a different village and the prosecution evidence is inconsistent regarding his relationship with Brij Raj Singh. In the F.I.R., it is stated that Brij Raj Singh and Brijendra Singh were friends, whereas the informant (PW-1) has alleged that they were brothers. In any event, Brijendra Singh, who allegedly had a motive to eliminate the deceased, did not require any exhortation from Brij Raj Singh to commit the crime. It is further alleged that Brij Raj Singh kept PW-1 at gunpoint. If there was any motive, it was stronger against PW-1, and had he been at gunpoint, he would not have been spared. There is no evidence of any prior concert between Brijendra Singh and Brij Raj Singh so as to establish the participation of Brij Raj Singh in the commission of the crime. Even if the prosecution evidence is accepted at face value, the only allegation against the surviving appellant is that he exclaimed that the opportunity was good. From the words allegedly uttered by Brij Raj Singh, it cannot be inferred that his intention was to have the deceased murdered. Thus, the conviction of Brij Raj Singh with the aid of Section 34 of the IPC is not sustainable in the eyes of law. Therefore, the impugned judgment and order dated 29.04.1989 passed by the Trial Court is liable to be set aside, and the instant criminal appeal deserves to be allowed.

17. Per contra, learned AGA on behalf of the State-respondent submitted that the name of the surviving appellant, Brij Raj Singh, was mentioned in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) by the informant, Surat Singh (PW-1). He also submitted that, from the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, including informant Surat Singh (PW-1), the presence of surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, at the place of occurrence is clearly proved. Appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh exhorted appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), to utilize the opportunity by killing Bhuri Singh. Upon this exhortation, appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), fired a gunshot at Bhuri Singh, who died on the spot. The Trial Court, after appreciating the prosecution evidence, found ample role and evidence against the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, justifying his conviction under Section 302/34 IPC. The Trial Court properly appreciated the evidence, and there is no illegality or perversity in the reasoning and findings given in the impugned judgment and order dated 29.04.1989. Hence, the instant criminal appeal by the appellant lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

18. In the light of the above arguments and counter arguments of both sides, we find that in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), the only role assigned to the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, was that he pointed a gun towards informant Surat Singh (PW-1) and exhorted appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), to kill Bhuri Singh.

19. From a perusal of the evidence of the informant Surat Singh (PW-1), we find that PW-1 stated that appellants, Brijendra Singh and Brij Raj Singh had illegal guns in their hands. Upon seeing them, he raised an alarm. Bhagwan Singh and Jagannath Singh arrived at the scene and lit their torches. Thereupon, Brij Raj Singh stated that it was a good opportunity to utilize, following which Brijendra Singh fired a shot at Bhuri Singh. The shot hit him in the chest, and after receiving the injury, he fell down. The accused then fled towards the north. From a perusal of the evidence of informant Surat Singh (PW1), we further find that this witness testified regarding the enmity of the appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), towards the deceased, Bhuri Singh. This was because the deceased, Bhuri Singh, owned 50-60 bighas of agricultural land and was issueless. The appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), wanted to take the land of the deceased, Bhuri Singh, but Bhuri Singh did not want to give his land to him. Two years prior to this murder, Bhuri Singh had executed a sale deed for his house in favour of the informant, PW-1. Due to which, appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), regarded enmity with the deceased, Bhuri Singh.

20. From an overall appreciation and perusal of the evidence of informant Surat Singh (PW-1), it is apparent that there is not a single word stated in respect of the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, suggesting any motive that would have impelled or forced him to assist and exhort appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), to kill the deceased, Bhuri Singh. We find that the only reference, in simple words, which appears to be an afterthought and concocted with a view to implicate the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, regarding his presence at the place of occurrence along with appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), appears to be false, fabricated, and artificial.

21. It is also a notable fact that, according to the informant, the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, pointed a gun at him, however, he spared the informant's life and did not fire a single shot, either in the air or at any person present at the place of occurrence. We find it difficult to understand this peculiar circumstance as to why the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, would point a gun at the informant, Surat Singh (PW-1), and yet leave him unharmed, thereby allowing him to remain a witness capable of deposing against him before the Court. In other words, it appears improbable that the surviving accused, Brij Raj Singh, or any other accused person, would intentionally spare an individual without causing harm, knowing well that such a person could later testify against him in relation to the alleged offence.

22. Thus, upon a perusal of the evidence of the informant, Surat Singh (PW-1), it emerges that there is no statement from which it can be inferred that the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, was present at the place of occurrence with premeditation, pursuant to a prearranged plan, or with any criminal intent at the time of the commission of the offence by appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh. Further, from the testimony of this witness, we find no material on record to establish that the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, had prior concert with appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh, for the commission of the alleged offence.

23. In the evidence of PW-1, there is not a single statement showing any intention or motive that would have caused the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, to assist appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), or to be present at the place of occurrence with him. It is a settled principle of law that, without a motive or reason, no person would take part in a heinous crime like murder. A perusal of the entire evidence of informant Surat Singh (PW-1) shows that there is no evidence oral or documentary that Brij Raj Singh, by his own motive or desire, participated in the crime or was present at the place of occurrence.

24. Further, it is also clearly established that there was a dispute between prosecution witness Jagannath Singh (PW-3) and appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), regarding the agricultural land of deceased Bhuri Singh. It is further revealed that a case was pending between Jagannath Singh (PW-3) and appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), in respect of the agricultural land of the deceased Bhuri Singh. It is also revealed that Jagannath Singh (PW-3) has got executed a will from deceased Bhuri Singh in respect of his whole agricultural land in his favor. Thus, surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh had no enmity either from informant Surat Singh (PW-1) or from the deceased Bhuri Singh. Enmity was found to be established from the prosecution evidence between the appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased) and Jagannath Singh (PW-3). Jagannath Singh (PW-3), after the death of the deceased Bhuri Singh, forcibly took possession of all the agricultural land of the deceased and began to cultivate the whole land.

25. Thus, from the above discussion and perusal of the evidence of informant Surat Singh (PW-1), we are of the considered opinion that the presence of the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, at the place of occurrence and also his involvement, in the commission of the alleged crime is found to be highly suspicious and doubtful.

26. From a perusal of the evidence of prosecution witnesses, namely, Bhagwant Singh (PW-2) and Jagannath Singh (PW-3), it is evident that both witnesses turned hostile and did not support the prosecution case. Bhagwant Singh (PW-2) only stated that he had seen the appellants, Brijendra Singh and Brij Raj Singh, running away. However, during cross-examination, the hostile witness Bhagwant Singh (PW-2) admitted that Jagannath Singh is forcibly cultivating 50□60 bighas of the deceased Bhuri Singh's agricultural land. Jagannath Singh (PW-3) clearly stated that he did not witness the murder of Bhuri Singh and did not see the appellants committing the crime.

27. From a perusal of the evidence of Rishi Pal Singh (PW-6), it is revealed that this witness is the son of informant, Surat Singh (PW-1). In his examination-in-chief, PW-6 reiterated the same facts previously deposed by his father. During cross-examination, Rishi Pal Singh (PW-6) stated that after Bhuri Singh's death, appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), would be the heir to the land, as Bhuri Singh had no issue. He further stated that following Bhuri Singh's death, Jagannath Singh (PW-3) forcibly took possession of all of the deceased's land.

28. Thus, from a perusal of the evidence of Rishi Pal Singh (PW-6), it is apparent that there is no statement in respect of the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, explaining the reasons or motive behind his participation or presence at the place of occurrence. It is further clear that as his father, informant Surat Singh (PW-1), stated regarding the presence of surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh at the place of occurrence, PW-6 has also stated about the presence of the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh at the place of occurrence, in the same manner.

29. Further, no pre-planned act, pre-concert plan, or criminal act has been revealed within the evidence of Rishi Pal Singh (PW-6). Hence, it is apparent that with due consideration and afterthought, the name of the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, was added in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) by informant Surat Singh (PW-1). We have examined the findings and reasoning given by the Trial Court in this regard and find that, without properly discussing the essential elements of Section 34 of the IPC, namely, pre-planning, premeditation, presence, and prior concert with appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased), the Trial Court convicted the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, under Section 34 IPC solely on the basis of the statements of Surat Singh (PW-1) and Rishi Pal Singh (PW-6).

30. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Krishna Govind Patil v. State of Maharashtra, 1963 SCC Online SC 29, has held in paragraph- 6 that:

"..... It is well settled that common intention within the meaning of the section implied a pre-arranged plan and the criminal act was done pursuant to the prearranged plan. The said plan may also develop on the spot during the course of the commission of the offence; but the crucial circumstance is that the said plan must precede the act constituting the offence. If that be so, before a court can convict a person under Section 302, read with Section 34, of the Indian Penal Code, it should come to a definite conclusion that the said person had a prior concert with one or more other persons, named or unnamed, for committing the said offence."

31. Thus, in the light of the above legal principle as laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, it is clear that for convicting any person under Section 302 IPC with the help of Section 34 IPC, there must be a clear and definite finding based on cogent evidence available on record that appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh had prior concert with appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh for commission of the crime. This finding must establish that the accused person had a prior concert with one or other persons for the commission of the crime. In the present case at hand, it is clear from a perusal of the findings and reasoning as given by the Trial Court that there are no discussion or findings about the fact that surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh had prior concert with appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased) for the commission of the alleged crime.

32. The Trial Court solely on the basis of the evidence of informant Surat Singh (PW-1) and his son, Rishi Pal Singh (PW-6), incorrectly held that surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh was guilty of the alleged offence. Both witnesses had only made statements that the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh pointed a gun towards informant Surat Singh (PW-1), but did not fire any shot at him or towards any other person present at the place of the incident. The Trial Court, without keeping in mind this material fact and the ingredients of Section 34 IPC and without giving any finding on this point, has wrongly held the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh guilty for the commission of the alleged crime. Thus, we find force in the argument of learned counsel for surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh in this respect.

33. In view of the above discussions, we find that the conviction of the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, in the present case is not supported by any reliable evidence. The involvement of Brij Raj Singh in the commission of the alleged crime is, therefore, highly doubtful and suspicious. We also find that his presence at the place of occurrence is very uncertain, as there is no evidence showing any motive or reason for him to be there with appellant no. 1, Brijendra Singh (now deceased).

34. Thus, we find that the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 29.04.1989, passed by the learned Special Additional Sessions Judge, Pilibhit, in respect of the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, is not supported by any cogent evidence and is contrary to the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Krishna Govind Patil (supra). In light of the above discussions, we hold that the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 29.04.1989, insofar as it relates to the surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside.

35. In view of the above, we set aside the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 29.04.1989, passed by the learned Special Additional Sessions Judge, Pilibhit, in Sessions Trial No. 282 of 1985 (State vs. Brijendra Singh and another), arising out of Case Crime No. 127 of 1985, under Section 302/34 IPC, Police Station Bilsanda, District Pilibhit, in respect of surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh. Consequently, the present criminal appeal is allowed.

36. The surviving appellant no. 2, Brij Raj Singh, is on bail and he need not surrender. His bail bonds are cancelled, and the sureties are discharged from their liabilities.

37. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the Trial Court along with the lower court record forthwith for necessary compliance.

THE HON'BLE ABDUL SHAHID, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1235 of 1988

Pitambar Das

State of U.P.

...Appellant
Versus
...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether conviction of the appellant under Ss. 3/7 of the Essential Commodities Act, 1955 could be sustained in absence of proof of violation of any control order or any provision of S. 3 of the Act, 1955 and whether there was compliance of S. 7(1)(b) of the Act. (Paras 26-31)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Essential Commodities Act, 1955 - Conviction under Ss. 3/7 - Requirement of contravention of control order - Essential Commodities Act, 1955 - Ss. 3 and 7 - S. 3 is an enabling provision and penalty under S. 7 is attracted only when there is violation of a control order or any provision made under S. 3 - Prosecution failed to mention any control order alleged to have been violated and failed to establish contravention by the appellant - Conviction unsustainable and liable to be set aside. (Paras 26-31)

Criminal Law - Essential Commodities Act, 1955 - Mens rea - Essential Commodities Act, 1955 - Ss. 3 and 7 - Mens rea is an essential ingredient and prosecution must establish intentional contravention - Appellant was merely In-charge of the Purchasing Centre and not a dealer and prosecution failed to prove requisite ingredients of offence - Benefit of doubt available to appellant. (Paras 26-30)

Criminal Trial - Appreciation of Evidence - Contradictions and lapses in prosecution case - Essential Commodities Act, 1955 - Ss. 3/7 - Serious contradictions in testimony of prosecution witnesses, doubtful inspection, absence of evidence regarding nature and grade of wheat and defective investigation - Prosecution failed to prove case beyond reasonable doubt - Acquittal justified. (Paras 17, 19, 22, 23, 30, 31)

Criminal Law - Forfeiture - Non-compliance with statutory requirement - Essential Commodities Act, 1955 - S. 7(1)(b) - Prosecution neither specified any control order nor produced material showing compliance with S. 7(1)(b) - Mandatory statutory requirement not satisfied - Penalty under S. 7 could not be imposed. (Paras 8, 29, 30)

Held: The prosecution has failed to mention basic requirement of the violation of any control order or the violation of Section 3 of the Act - the appellant who was the mere In-charge of the Purchasing Centre and he is not a dealer hence the question of any violation of the control order prima-facie does not arise or come into existence - it is obligatory duty for initiation of the prosecution against any person that there must be act committed by accused in contravention of any control order or any violation of provision of Section 3 of the Act - there are serious contradictions in the story of the prosecution - there is no compliance of Section 7(1)(b) of the Act, 1955 - the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt - the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside and the appellant is entitled to acquittal of the charges under Sections 3/7 of the Essential Commodities Act, 1955 - Appeal allowed. (Paras 17, 19, 23, 26-31) (E-7)

Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeal arising from the judgment and order dated 20.05.1988 passed by the learned Special Judge, E.C. Act, Budaun, in Special Trial Case No. 8 of 1987 convicting the appellant under Ss. 3/7 of the Essential Commodities Act, 1955 and sentencing him to two years' rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 2,000/-.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:

Sri Amrendra Pratap Singh

Advs. for the Respondents:

Learned A.G.A. for the State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Shahid, J.)

1. Heard Sri Amrendra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the appellant, and the learned A.G.A. for the State. The record has been perused.

2. The present criminal appeal has been filed on behalf of the appellant, Pitambar Das, against the impugned judgment and order dated 20.05.1988 passed by the learned Special Judge, E.C. Act, Budaun, in Special Trial Case No. 8 of 1987 (State vs. Pitambar Das), whereby he has been convicted and sentenced to undergo two years' rigorous imprisonment and to pay a fine of Rs. 2,000/- under Sections 3/7 of the Essential Commodities Act, 1955.

3. The basic prosecution case is that the accused, Pitambar Das, was challenged by the police of Bisauli to stand trial for the offence punishable under Sections 3/7 of the Essential Commodities Act, 1955 (hereinafter referred to, for the sake of convenience, as the 'Act, 1955'), on the allegation that he was storing 12 quintals of wheat for illegal purposes. This was detected during an inspection conducted by Sri S.P. Dasmana, Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Bisauli, on 30.05.1984 at the Purchasing Centre of the U.P. Food Corporation of India (hereinafter referred to as the 'Purchasing Centre').

4. Learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on Section 3 of the Act, 1955, which reads as follows:

“3. Powers to control production, supply, distribution, etc., of essential commodities.?(1) If the Central Government is of the opinion that it is necessary or expedient so to do for maintaining or increasing supplies of any essential commodity or for securing their equitable distribution and availability at fair prices, or for securing any essential commodity for the defence of India or the efficient conduct of military operations, it may, by order, provide for regulating or prohibiting the production, supply, and distribution thereof and trade and commerce therein.”

4. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently submitted that the aforesaid provision is merely an enabling provision and there must be a control order in force. It is argued that only in the event of a violation of such control order can any person be arraigned as an accused. However, in the present case, the prosecution has neither referred to any control order nor provided details of any alleged violation thereof by the appellant/accused. It is further submitted that it is an admitted position that the appellant was only the in-charge of the purchasing centre and was not a licence holder; therefore, the question of violation of any control order does not arise.

5. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that there is no reference to any control order or its violation either in the prosecution case or in the judgment passed by the learned trial court. He has next submitted that it is the duty of the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, whereas in the present case, the prosecution has miserably failed to do so.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant has also relied upon Section 7 of the Act, 1955, which provides for penalties in cases of contravention of any order made under Section 3.

7. It is contended that Section 7 is attracted only when there is a violation of a control order or any provision made under Section 3 of the Act, 1955. In the present case, no such violation has been established against the appellant/accused; therefore, the question of invoking Section 7 does not arise.

8. It has further been argued that the prosecution has failed to prove, even prima facie, that any contravention was committed by the appellant so as to attract Section 7(1)(b) of the Act, 1955. Even assuming, for the sake of argument, that any violation had occurred, no action in accordance with Section 7(1)(b) has been demonstrated. The prosecution has neither specified any control order allegedly violated by the appellant nor produced any document to show forfeiture of the alleged excess 12 quintals of wheat said to have been recovered from the appellant for illegal purposes.

9. It is thus submitted that the impugned judgment and order are wholly illegal and unsustainable in the eyes of law, as no offence has been made out against the appellant/accused. Accordingly, the same are liable to be set aside, and the appellant/accused deserves to be acquitted.

10. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has submitted that the judgment and order passed by the learned trial court is strictly in accordance with law and does not suffer from any illegality or perversity. Therefore, the present criminal appeal is liable to be dismissed.

11. S.P. Dasmana, who deposed as P.W.-1, stated in his examination-in-chief that on 21.08.1987 he was posted as Sub-Divisional Magistrate (SDM), Bisauli, in May 1984. On 30.05.1984, in the afternoon, upon receiving complaints from farmers, he inspected the wheat procurement centre of the State Food and Essential Commodities Corporation Ltd., situated at Dahar Khakha, Bisauli, along with Shri Basant Ram Bisaria, N.T., Bisauli; Shri S.N. Srivastava, Supply Inspector; and Ashok Kumar.

12. He further deposed that as per the records, 1251 quintals of wheat ought to have been in stock; however, upon physical verification, 1263 quintals were found. Thus, 12 quintals of wheat were found in excess of the recorded stock. The inspection was conducted in the presence of the accused, Pitambar Das, who was the in-charge of the centre at that time. When questioned about the excess quantity, he failed to give any satisfactory explanation. The accused, Pitambar Das, along with the centre's accountant, Shri Kuldeep Kumar, sought time to examine the records, which was granted.

13. He further stated that on the next day, i.e., 31.05.1984, he again visited the said procurement centre; however, even on that day, after examining the relevant records, the accused could not provide any explanation for the excess quantity of wheat. In this regard, on 31.05.1984 itself, the accused wrote a statement in his presence, signed it, and handed it over to him. He also signed the same. The handwritten and signed statement of the accused is on record and has been marked as Ex. 1.

14. He further deposed that on the same day, he also got the filled wheat bags lying in stock at the procurement centre counted, prepared a statement thereof, and obtained the signatures of the Supply Inspector, Shri M.S. Srivastava, and the accused, Pitambar Das, on it. The said document has been marked as Ex. 2. From the procurement centre, he also took into possession the following documents relating to the purchase of wheat: one stock register, one food grain bill book, food grain bill books Nos. 48 and 49, food grain bill book No. 483, ledger book No. 704, ledger book No. 710, and ledger book No. 711. The written report (tehrir) of the incident was dictated by him at the spot, reduced into writing, read over, and signed by him. The same has been marked as Ex. Ka-3.

15. He further deposed that on the same day, at about 2:30 PM, he got the case registered at Police Station Bisauli. The accused produced the recovered excess wheat and related documents at the police station. The documents were later produced before the Court in sealed cover and marked as Exhibits 1 to 6. The seized registers, ledgers, and bill books bear his signatures as well as those of other staff members and the accused.

16. He further stated that one day prior to lodging the report, he had visited the centre and had taken the stock register with him. Wheat bags are stored at the procurement centre, and their grading is determined by FCI. Rejected wheat is also kept there. At the spot, he got the total stock counted and also conducted separate counts of Grade-1 and Grade-2 wheat. He did not obtain any information from FCI regarding grading.

17. He further stated that in Material Ex. 1, it is mentioned that entries of Grade-1 wheat commence from page 30 and entries of Grade-2 wheat from page 40. His signatures appear on page 4. He stated that he had examined the entire record and signed it after verification. However, he did not sign pages 40 and 41 and admitted that those entries were neither seen nor produced before him at that time. From the above testimony, it appears that P.W.-1 did not completely and carefully inspect the entire record and appears to have acted in haste. There is no specific mention of violation of any control order or any provision under Section 3 of the Act, 1955.

18. M.S. Srivastava, who deposed as P.W.-2, stated that he was posted as Supply Inspector, Bisauli. He deposed that on 30.05.1984, Shri S.P. Dasmana, SDM, Bisauli, inspected the wheat procurement centre in his presence, along with Shri Basant Ram Bisaria and Ashok Kumar Saxena. The accused, Pitambar Das, was present, and the inspection was conducted in his presence.

19. He stated that upon comparison of records and physical verification, 12 quintals of wheat were found in excess, for which the accused could not provide any explanation. One day's time was granted. On the next day, i.e., 31.05.1984, they again visited the centre, but the situation remained unchanged. The accused gave a written statement (Ex. Ka-1), which bears his signatures. A weighing statement (Ex. Ka-2) was also prepared. The written report (Ex. Ka-3) was prepared at the spot on the dictation of the SDM and signed by him. Relevant documents were seized and marked as Exhibits 1 to 7. In cross-examination, he admitted that no movement register was maintained and that he had not signed any document on 30.05.1984. He further admitted that he examined only the page of the register that was open and that he could not specify the grade of the alleged excess wheat. Thus, his presence at the time of inspection on 30.05.1984 becomes doubtful, which is a serious lacuna in the prosecution case. There are material contradictions between the statements of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, particularly regarding inspection and verification.

20. P.W.-3, Ajay Pal Singh, is a formal witness who proved the check FIR (Ex. Ka-11) and General Diary entry (Ex. Ka-12). His testimony does not materially advance the prosecution case. Mere production of formal documents is not sufficient to prove the case beyond reasonable doubt.

21. P.W.-4, Prem Narain, proved the sanction for prosecution dated 04.02.1987 (Ex. Ka-13).

22. P.W.-5, Maharaj Singh, the Investigating Officer, deposed regarding the steps taken during investigation and proved the site plan (Ex. Ka-14) and charge-sheet (Ex. Ka-15). However, in cross-examination, he admitted that he did not personally verify records from FCI, had no knowledge of grading of wheat, and verified only a limited number of bags. He also admitted that certain facts were not entered in the General Diary.

23. Thus, the investigation suffers from serious lapses. There is no clear evidence regarding the nature, grade, or illegality of the alleged excess wheat.

24. In his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the accused denied all allegations.

25. In defence, the appellant examined D.W.-1 Kuldeep Kumar, D.W.-2 Raja Babu Singh, and himself as D.W.-3.

26. Learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Nathulal vs State Of Madhya Pradesh AIR 1966 SC 43 that in the matter of the criminal proceeding mens rea is essential ingredients of criminal offence only where it is absolutely clear that implementation of the object of the statute would otherwise be defeated that mens rea may be necessary implementation be excluded from the statute.

27. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that, as per Section 7 of the Essential Commodities Act, an offence under Section 3 requires mens rea as an essential ingredient. The storage of food grains, as per Section 3(2) of the Madhya Pradesh Food Grains Dealers Licensing Order, 1958, was undertaken after applying for the requisite permit. The accused was not informed about the rejection of his application, and the storage of food grains was done under a bona fide belief that it would be legal to do so. Therefore, intentional contravention of Section 7 of the Act cannot be inferred.?

28. He has vehemently relied that there was no mention of any licensing order which has been violated by the appellant. He is not a dealer. There has been mens rea it has to proved by the prosecution. The story of the prosecution is consistently contrary and not corroborative to each other. In absence of the violation of any control order or any violation of provisions of Section 3 of the Act, no penalty could be imposed upon the appellant under Section 7 of the Act. There is also no compliance of Section 7(1)(b) of the Act.

29. Learned counsel has placed reliance on the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shambhu Dayal v. State of West Bengal* (1990), reported in 1990 LawSuit (SC) 287, wherein it has been observed that while conferring wide powers as above on the Collector, the legislature has also protected the dealer's interest by providing, that in the event, it is ultimately found that he was not guilty of contravention of any order made under section 3, he shall be paid the price realised with reasonable interest. But if the prosecution ends in a conviction, section 7(1)(b) enjoins that the property in respect of which the order was contravened 'shall be forfeited' to the Government. The language of this clause is clearly mandatory and leaves no option to the Court but to order forfeiture. This becomes clear if we read this clause in juxtaposition with clause (c) which confers a discretion on the Court to order forfeiture of any packing, covering or receptacle in which the essential commodity was found or any animal, E vehicle, vessel or any other conveyance which was used to carry the same.

30. There are serious contradictions in the story of the prosecution. The prosecution has failed to mention basic requirement of the violation of any control order or the violation of Section 3 of the Act. The prosecution has also failed to comply the provisions of Section 7(1)(b) of the Act. The appellant who was the mere In-charge of the Purchasing Centre and he is not a dealer hence the question of any violation of the control order prima-facie does not arise or come into existence. The alleged competent person who inspected the Purchasing Centre of the Food Corporation of India which is a Government Undertaking and even he fails to mention what kind of grade of the wheat was recovered in excess alleged to be 12 quintals of wheat from the wheat procurement centre, of F.C.1(Food Corporation of India) where the accused appellant was stated to be incharge. It is obligatory duty for initiation of the prosecution against any person that there must be act committed by accused in contravention of any control order or any violation of provision of Section 3 of the Act. There is no compliance of Section 7(1)(b) of the Act, 1955. Therefore, the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt.

31. In view of the foregoing discussion and the law laid down, the impugned judgment and order dated 20.05.1988 is hereby set aside. The appellant is acquitted of the charges under Sections 3/7 of the Essential Commodities Act, 1955. Consequently, his bail bonds and sureties stand discharged.

32. The criminal appeal is accordingly allowed.

1. This Criminal Appeal has been filed against a judgement and order dated 29.4.1987 passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Shahjahanpur in Sessions Trial No. 403 of 1986 whereby the learned Judge convicted and sentenced the appellants to life imprisonment under Sections 302/34 IPC and six months □ rigorous imprisonment under Section 323/34 IPC.

2. However, both the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

3. Pursuant to the order of this Court dated 08.09.2025, appeal filed on behalf of appellant Nos. 1 and 4 namely Rammu and Misri has been disposed of as abated. We are only concerned with the appeal filed on behalf of appellant Nos. 2 and 3 namely Chet Ram and Rameshwar.

Facts of the case

4. The facts that formed the bedrock of the present criminal appeal are that a written report was given by Bhikhari Lal (hereinafter referred to as the first informant) at the police station Khudaganj, district Shahjahanpur on 19.08.1986 with the allegations inter alia that Rajpal and Babu Ram lived in village Kapsenda, but started living in village Baraura for the last five or six years. They had constructed a house in this village. Rajpal had advanced a sum of Rs. 220/- (rupees two hundred twenty only) as loan to Rameshwar and Rameshwar had given his one and a half bigha of land to Rajpal in lieu of interest. It was agreed between the parties that whenever Rameshwar pays the amount, Rajpal would free the field. The first information report further recounts that Rameshwar took possession of the land, but did not return the money. A day before the occurrence Rajpal went to Rameshwar to demand the money, whereupon Rameshwar had said that he will give it. On the date of occurrence, at about 05:00 PM, Rameshwar, Chet Ram, Rammu and Misri armed with lathis went to the door of Rajpal and started beating him with lathis. At that time, Babu Ram and his wife Somwati were inside the house. The first informant was also inside the house of Rajpal. He and Babu Ram tried to save Rajpal, whereupon they also assaulted Babu Ram with lathis. Babu Ram and the first informant also plied lathis in self defence, due to which accused persons have also received injuries. Thinking Rajpal dead, they left him and fled. While the first informant was taking Rajpal (hereinafter referred to as the deceased) and Babu Ram (hereinafter referred to as the injured) to the police station on bullock-cart for lodging the report, on the way near village Sara at about 12:00 in the night, Rajpal succumbed to the injuries. Thereafter, the first informant returned to the village. Due to excessive rain, the first informant could not go to the police station to lodge the report. At the home, he got the report scribed (Ext. Kha-1) by Jaivir Singh and put his thumb impression after hearing it and handed over at the police station in the morning.

5. On the basis of the aforesaid report, a case was registered at case crime No. 84 of 1986, under Sections 302/323 IPC, police station Khudaganj, district Shahjahanpur at 08:15 AM on 19.08.2026.

6. After the registration of the case, the investigation of the case was entrusted to PW-4, SI Girish Kumar, who recorded the statement of the first informant Bhikhari and the Head Muharrir at the police station and then went to the spot with necessary papers. On the way there were two rivers, which were flooded at that time and there was excessive rain. He reached the spot, prepared inquest report, photo lash, challan lash, sample seal, letter to the Chief Medical Officer, Ext. Ka 5 to Ka-9. He recorded the statement of PW-2, Babu Ram, the injured and other witnesses. On the pointing out of the first informant and the witnesses, he prepared site plan Ext. Ka-10. He further deposed that on his return, he arrested accused Misri, Chet Ram and Rameshwar. However, accused Rammu surrendered in Court. After culmination of investigation and completing necessary formalities, the investigating officer submitted charge sheet against the accused Misri, Chet Ram and Rameshwar on 06.9.1986, Ext. Ka-12 and against accused Rammu on 22.09.1986, Ext. Ka-13.

7. As the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Sessions, the learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Sessions, where case was registered as Sessions Trial No. 403 of 1986 and learned Sessions Judge, Shahjahanpur vide order dated 05.12.1986 framed the charges against the appellants Rammu, Chet Ram, Rameshwar and Misri under Sections 302/34 and 323/34, which were read over and explained to the accused in Hindi. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

8. To bring home guilt of the appellant beyond the hilt, the prosecution has examined as many as five witnesses, out of which PW-1, Bhikhari Lal and PW-2, Baburam were the witnesses of facts and remaining are formal witnesses.

9. PW-1, Bhikhari Lal is the first informant of the case. In his examination-in-chief, he stated that he knows the accused Rameshwar, Chet Ram, Rammu and Misri. They are the resident of his village. Accused Rajeshwar had taken a sum of Rs. 220/- as loan from his brother Rajpal (deceased) a year before the occurrence. It was agreed that so long as he did not pay back the amount, deceased will cultivate the land and when the amount is paid, he will leave the land. A month before the occurrence, Rameshwar forcibly cultivated the land without repaying the amount, whereupon deceased made a demand of his money. Thereupon Rameshwar said that he would pay the money after roping the paddy. The talk took place in the morning of date of occurrence. The occurrence took place in the evening at about 05:00 PM. At that time, Rameshwar, Chet Ram, Rammu and Misri armed with lathis went to the door of Rajpal and started beating him with lathis, thereupon Rajpal fell down. At that time, he also reached there armed with lathi and plied lathi due to which accused persons have also received injuries. First of all the accused persons have assaulted Rajpal and thereafter Baburam. He also deposed that when the accused were assaulting the deceased, they were witnessing the same from inside the house. After the occurrence, accused fled.

10. PW-2, Babu Ram in his examination-in-chief has stated that at about 05:00 PM, on the date of occurrence, he was present at his house. He along with Raj Pal (deceased) lives in the same house. He along with his wife and maternal uncle-Bhikhari Lal were inside the house. Everything of outside was visible from the place where he was sitting inside the house. Rameshwar, Misri, Chet Ram and Rammu armed with lathis reached there and started beating the deceased. He further stated that he along with Bhikhari came out of the house and also plied lathis. He also received injuries. The accused persons went towards north after beating. Accused Rajeshwar had taken a sum of Rs. 220/- as loan from his brother Rajpal (deceased) a year before the occurrence. It was agreed that so long as he did not pay back the amount, deceased will cultivate the land and when the amount be paid, he will leave the land. A month before the occurrence, Rameshwar forcibly cultivated the land without repaying the amount, whereupon deceased made a demand of his money. Thereupon Rameshwar said that he would pay the money. The talk took place in the morning of date of occurrence and in the evening the incident in question took place.

11. PW-3, Dr. Santosh Kumar Medical Officer examined the injured Santosh Kumar at the District Hospital, Shahjahanpur at 10:00 AM on 20.3.1986 and found the following injuries:

1. Abraded contusion red, 3 cm x 1 cm over outer aspect of left arm, 4 cm above left elbow covered by dry scab.

3. Lacerated wound 3 cm x 4 cm muscle deep over dorsum of proximal inter phalangeal joint of 2nd toe with mild infection.

4. Tenderness over the right knee outer side. X-ray advised.

12. In the opinion of the doctor the injuries were two days old and were caused by blunt object. Injury No. 1 to 3 were simple in nature and for injury No. 4, x-ray was advised.

13. In his evidence, which was recorded on 03.2.1987, PW-3, Dr. Santosh Kumar opined that till date x-ray report has not been produced before him. In his cross-examination, doctor further opined that injuries received by the injured could have been received at 08:00 PM on 18.8.1986.

14. Evidence of PW-4, SI Girish Kumar Sharma has already been discussed above.

15. PW-5, Dr. P.K. Gupta, who conducted the autopsy on the cadaver of the deceased, found the following ante-mortem injuries:

“1. Contusion 8 cm x 4.5 cm on the left side 6 cm above the ear.

2. Contusion 9.5 cm x 4 cm on the left side of skull and temple 2 cm upward and above the left ear.

3. Contusion 4.5 cm x 3.5 cm on the left eyebrow.

4. Contusion 8.5 cm x 4 cm on the right shoulder posteriorly.

5. Contusion 7.5 cm x 3.5 cm on the right upper arm posteriorly 6 cm below the right shoulder joint.

(6) Contusion 5.5 cm x 4 cm on the neck posteriorly middle part.

7. Contusion 5.5 cm c 3 cm on the uppermost part of right side neck.”

16. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was due to coma as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

17. In addition to the aforesaid prosecution witnesses, Constable Sushil Chandra Tripathi and Constable Girija Shankar Dixit have filed their affidavit stating therein that they took the dead body and got the post mortem conducted

18. After the closure of the prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused-appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which they denied the charges.

19. Appellant-Rammu further stated that he was not present at the time of occurrence.

20. Appellant-Rameshwar in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. further stated that at about 08:00 PM he had gone to attend the call of nature and when he returned, he found Rajpal at his house. On being challenged, Babu Ram and Bhikhari also arrived. This happened at the north of Chaupal of Chet Ram, outside the room of Shri Ram. Thereafter, Rajpal, Babu Ram and Bhikhari assaulted him. On his cries, his brother Chet Ram and father Misri Lal also arrived.

21. Appellant-Chet Ram in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. further stated that on the date of occurrence at about 08:00 PM, Rajpal, Babu Ram and Bhikhari were abusing Rameshwar out side his house. Raj Pal, Babu and Bhikhari were assaulting Rameshwar. On the shrieks of Rameshwar, he also reached there and enquired as to why they were making noise, then Rameshwar told him that Rajpal had entered his house. Thereafter, they started plying lathi. He also plied lathi in self defence. He also received injury. Thereafter, he along with Misri and Rameshwar went to police station Khudaganj to get the report lodged. At 12:00 in the night, he got the report lodged. Thereafter, they went to the doctor to get himself treated. They stayed in the hospital throughout the night and in the morning at about 8-9 AM, police arrested them.

22. Appellant-Misri in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. stated that on the date of occurrence Rameshwar was not at home and when he returned, he found Rajpal in his house. Rameshwar tried to apprehend Rajpal, but in vain. Thereafter, Babu, Bhikhari and Rajpal came and started assaulting Rameshwar. On hearing the noise, he along with Chet Ram also reached there. All the three Babu, Bhikhari and Rajpal plied lathis. He also plied lathi in self defence. Thereafter, he went to police station Khudaganj at 10:00 PM to get the report lodged at 11:00 PM, he lodged the report. Thereafter, they went to hospital and stayed in the hospital throughout the night and in the morning, Daroga Ji arrested them.

23. Dr. S.C. Shukla has been produced as DW-1. He stated that on 18.8.1986, he was posted as Medical Officer as Primary Health Centre. In the night intervening 18/19.08.1986 at 1:00 AM, he examined Chet Ram, son of Ram Lal, resident of village Barora, police station Khudaganj, district Shahjahanpur and found the following injuries:

2. Contusion 4 cm x 2 cm on the right side of right calf muscle, colour red.

The injuries were simple, fresh and caused by blunt object.

24. On the same day at 01:30 AM, DW-1, Dr. S.C. Shukla also examined Misri, aged about 55 years, son of Shri Shobhi, resident of village Barora, police station Khudaganj, district Shahjahanpur and found the following injuries:

1. Lacerated wound 0.5 cm x 0.5 cm skin deep on the front of upper fifth of left leg at the level of left tibial tubersity. Fresh blood clot present in the wound.

2. Contusion 3 cm x 2 cm on the outer aspect of upper end of right FA, colour red."

The injuries were simple, fresh and caused by blunt object.

25. On the same day (18/19.8.1986) at 01:45 AM, DW-1, Dr. S.C. Shukla also examined Rameshwar, aged about 25 years, son of Shri Misra lal, resident of village Barora, police station Khudaganj, district Shahjahanpur and found the following injuries:

1. Lacerated wound 1 cm x 0.5 cm x skin deep on the left side of forehead above the left eyebrow, fresh blood clot.

2. Contusion 3 cm x 2 cm, on the outer aspect of lower end of right forearm, colour red."

The injuries were simple, fresh and caused by blunt object.

26. Accused-Rameshwar has examined himself as DW-2. He stated that on the date of occurrence at about 08:00 PM he had gone to attend the call of nature and when he returned, he found Rajpal at his house. On enquiry by Rameshwar about his (Rajpal) presence in his house, Rajpal left the house. Thereafter, Rajpal started abusing him. At that time Bhikhari and Babu Ram also arrived there armed with lathis. He also reached there and asked Rajpal as to why he is abusing. Bhikhari and Raj Pal took side of Rajpal. At that time, his brother Chet Ram, father Misri, Raj Kumar and Shanker also arrived. They were having lathis. Thereafter Bhikhari, Babu and Raj Pal started assaulting him with lathis due to which he along with Chet Ram, Misri received injuries. They assaulted in self defence. He also plied lathi in self defence. It is further stated that assault was made by Bhikhari, Babu and Raj Pal first and thereafter in self defence he along with Chet Ram and Misri assaulted them in self defence. After the incident, Rameshwar, Chet Ram and Misri went to police station and got the report lodged, which he proved as Ext. Kha-1. From the police station, they went to the hospital where they were medically examined. In the morning at about 08:00 police arrested them from the gate of the hospital.

27. Learned Sessions Judge, Shahjahanpur after hearing the learned counsel for the parties and assessing, evaluating and scrutinizing the evidence on record, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellants as indicated herein above.

28. Hence this appeal.

Submission on behalf of the appellants

29. Shri Amar Chandra, learned counsel for the appellants submits that it was a cross case and the accused-appellants have plied lathis in self defence and that the investigation has been carried out one sided.

30. Learned counsel for the appellants further submits that the learned Trial Court committed a manifest error of law by failing to consider the accused's defence, ignoring material evidence and skipping mandatory procedures, which violates principles of fair trial.

Submission on behalf of the State

31. On the other hand Shri S.K. Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate-I supported the findings of the learned trial court by stating that the learned trial court has correctly martialled the evidence and considered each and every aspect of the case while convicting the appellants.

Analysis and conclusion

32. Admittedly, there are two versions of the case. Report from the side of the accused was lodged at 00:15 AM on 18/19.08.1986 at the police station Khudaganj, district Shahjahanpur under Section 323/504 IPC by the appellant Rameshwar. In the report the time of incident has been shown as 08:00 PM on 18.08.1986 in which Raj Pal (deceased), Babu (injured) and Bhikhari (PW-1) have been nominated as accused. The report is reproduced as under:

"वादी ने बयान किया कि मैं टट्टी करने गया था राजपाल जो मेरे गांव का है मेरे घर आ गया जब मैं वापस आया तो मैंने पूछा कि रात में मेरे घर क्यू घुस आए तभी अभियुक्त घर से उठकर गांव में पश्चिम में पड़ी आबादी के पास खड़ा हो गया और मुझे गालियां देने लगा की साले मालदार बहुत बनता है मैंने कहा कि गालियां क्यू देता हैं इसी वक्त बाबू और भिखारी भी आ गए या मुझे लाठियों से मारने लगे मैंने शोर मचाया तो मेरे पिता मिश्री और मेरे भाई चेताराम आ गया उसे भी लाठियों से मारा इसी बीच शोर सुनकर गावाहन आ गई और ललकारने पर अभियुक्त भाग गए मैं अपने पिताजी और भाई के साथ रिपोर्ट लिखवाने आया हूं"

33. The aforesaid report has been marked as Ext. Kha-1.

34. From the side of the first informant the report has been lodged 08:15 AM on 19.08.1986 at police station Khudaganj, district Shahjahanpur under Section 302/323 IPC by Bhikhari Lal. In the report the time has been shown at about 05:00 PM on 18.08.1986 in which appellants Rameshwar, Chet Ram, Rammu and Misri have been nominated as accused. The report is reproduced as under:

"सेवा मे श्रीमान दरोगा जी थाना खुदागंज श्रीमान जी निवेदन है कि मेरे भान्जे राजपाल और बाबूराम मेरे गांव मे ही 6 साल से रह रहे है और यहीं मकान भी बना लिया है। मेरे भान्जे ने पिछले साल जेठ के महीना मे 220 रू रामेश्वर को उधार दिये थे और रामेश्वर ने ब्याज के बदले में अपनी डेढ बीघा जमीन राजपाल को दे दी थी और यह तय हुआ कि जब रामेश्वर पैसा दे देगा तभी राजपाल जमीन छोड़ देगा परन्तु अब रामेश्वर ने जमीन पर कब्जा कर लिया और राजपाल के पैसा भी नहीं दिये। कल राजपाल ने रामेश्वर से पैसे मांगे कि अभी तुझे पैसे देते है। कल समय करीब 5 बजे शाम लाठड्यां लेकर रामेश्वर पुत्र मिश्री, चेताराम पुत्र रम्मू, रम्मू पुत्र शोभी, मिश्री पुत्र शोभी जाटव हमारे गांव के राजपाल के दरवाजे पर आये और वही राजपाल को लाठियों से मारने लगे उस समय राजपाल के घर पर मै मेरा भान्जा बाबूराम और बाबूराम की घरवाली सोमवती मौजूद थे। मै और बाबूराम राजपाल को बचाने लगे तो वह लोग बाबूराम को भी लाठियो से मारने लगे बाबूराम और मैने अपने बचाव मे लाठी चलाई जिसमे उनके भी मामूली चोटे आई है। तब वह राजपाल को मरा समझ कर छोड़ कर भाग गये। मै बैलगाड़ी से अपने दोनो भान्जो को लेकर निगोही थाना रपट को जा रहा थी तभी रास्ते मे संडा गांव के पास रात को 12 बजे करीब राजपाल ने दम तोड़ दिया। तब मै वापस गांव आ गया। नदियो मे ज्यादा पानी होने के कारण रात मे मै रपट लिखाना थाना नहीं आ सका। तथा चुटैल भान्जे बाबूराम और मरे हुए राजपाल को गांव मे ही छोड़कर आया हूं। यह घटना गांव के लोगो ने भी देखी। मेरी रपट लिखकर कार्यवाही की जाये। प्रार्थी भिखारी लाल पुत्र कोमिल राम जाटव थाना खुदागंज निवासी वरौरा निशानी अंगूठा भिखारी लाल लेखक जयवीर सिंह s/o श्री सुन्दर सिंह नि० वरौरा थाना खुदागंज जि० शाहजहापुर 19.8.86 ई०"

35. PW-4, SI Girish Kumar Sharma, who is the investigating officer of the case, in his evidence has stated that accused-Rameshwar had lodged the report, which was NCR, which was entered vide report No. 2 at 00:15 AM on 19.08.1986 by Constable Clerk Shri Krishna, which was marked as Ext. Ka-11. He, however, admitted that the aforesaid report (NCR) lodged by the accused-appellant Rameshwar has not been investigated by him. In his cross-examination, PW-4, SI Girish Kumar Sharma was confronted with the report lodged of appellant-Rameshwar. The relevant part of cross-examination of PW-4, SI Girish Kumar Sharma is reproduced herein under for ready reference:

"गवाह को रपट N.C.R. दिखाई थी तो गवाह के कहा कि यह रपट मुल्जिम रामेश्वर ने लिखी थी। नकल रपट दाखिल की गई जिसपर Ext ख-1 डाला गया। जब मुल्जिम ने रपट लिखाई थी तो मैं थाने पर मौजूद था। जब तफतीश शुरू की तो मैंने मुल्जिम वाली रिपोर्ट नहीं देखी थी। और न ही तफतीश के दौरान उसे देखी थी। मुझे यह बात पता नहीं लगी थी रपट मुल्जिम ने इसी घटना के बारे में लिखाई थी। मुझे आज पता चला कि यह रपट इसी घटना से संबंधित थी। शंकर व राम कुमार के मैंने बयान नहीं लिये थे। ग्रीश सिंह व साधू सिंह पड़ोसियों के बयान लिये थे। यह गलत है कि उनके मकान चार पांच सौ कदम की दूरी पर हों। मुझे बाबूराम ने बताया था कि यह घटना गांव के और लोगो ने भी देखी। वादी के दरवाजे के सामने बाहर की तरफ एक छोटा सा छप्पर पड़ा है। इस छप्पर के नीचे मुझे कोई खून नहीं मिला। लाश मुझे इस छप्पर से दो तीन कदम बाहर मिली थी। नकशे में 'A' स्थान के पास पश्चिम में C लिखा मालूम होता है लेकिन मैंने लिखा नहीं है डाट पैन लीख करने के कारण बन गया हो। यह कहना गलत है कि मैंने मुकदमे को तरतीब देने के लिये ऐसा कह रहा हूँ। बाहर वाले C के पास लाइन बनाकर चार कदम मैंने लिखा है। यह गलत है कि जगाह तबदील करने के लिये ऐसी बात कह रहा हूँ। लाश जो कपड़े पहने हुए था वह भीगे हुये थे। लाश के ऊपर मोमजामा पड़ा हुआ था। उस मोमजामा को कबजे में नहीं लिया। मैंने यह नहीं नोट किया कि कपड़े भीगे हुये थे। यह कहना गलत है कि मुल्जिमानो को अस्पताल भेजा गया हो तथा डाक्टरी मुआयना हुआ हो। मुल्जिमान जाटव है। जब मुल्जिमानो को गिरफ्तार किया तब इनके पट्टी बंधी थी। चोटे पुरानी थी इसलिये डाक्टरी जांच नहीं कराई। मैंने पट्टी खोलकर चोटे नहीं देखी। चूंकि पट्टी बंधी थी इसलिये मैंने समझा चोटे पुरानी है। यह कहना गलत है कि मैंने जान बूझकर मुल्जिमान की चोटो का डाक्टरी मुआयना नहीं कराया और उनकी रिपोर्ट की तफतीश नहीं की।"

36. From the perusal of the evidence of PW-4, SI Girish Kumar Sharma, it is clear that no investigation was conducted by him on the report lodged by appellant-Rameshwar. It is also clear that he has not taken any steps to get the medical examination of the accused done after the arrest of the accused. In sum and substance, the investigation in this case is tainted and one sided. The investigating officer has not taken care to investigate the report lodged from the side of the appellant, which was on earlier point of time than the report lodged by the first informant of the case

37. Learned Trial Court while discussing the cross case set up from the side of the appellants has recorded the following finding:

"No specific enmity has been alleged by the accused persons in their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C.. They have simply said that they have been implicated due to enmity. The defence has claimed that Rajpal had gone to the house of Rameshwar at about 08:00 PM when he had gone to ease himself and when he returned, he enquired as to why he had gone at that hour whereupon he went away and started abusing. If we peruse the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. of the accused Rameshwar, we find that Bhikhari and Babu Ram reached there. This means that they reached at his house. He immediately stated that this took place in the northern corner of Chet Ram's Chaupal. The statement appears to be confused. When he appeared as a witness, he deposed on oath that Rajpal went away. Rajpal started abusing in the north-west corner of Chet Ram's Chaupal where Gram Samaj land was lying. At that place Bhikhari and Babu Ram reached there with lathis. They too reached there and said as to why he was abusing. Chet Ram, his father Misri, Ram Kumar and Shankar reached there. All had lathis. When he forbade Rajpal from abusing, Bhikhari was siding with Rajpal. Thereafter, Bhikhari, Babu and Rajpal plied lathis at him. He, Rameshwar, Chet Ram and Misri received injuries. He further deposed "in logon ne bachao men choten mari thin" This means that he had admitted in a sense the prosecution case that the injury to the accused was caused in self-defence. Soon after he deposed that he caused injuries in defence. First they plied lathi and then, he plied lathi in defence. It is significant to note here that the case taken up by the defence in the statement of Rameshwar on oath was not taken at the earliest opportunity. It is not disputed that an FIR was also lodged from the side of the accused persons which is Ext. Kha1. If it was a fact that the accused persons had plied lathis in self defence, it was the earliest opportunity when they could have said so but it was not said. It appears to me as argued by the learned counsel for the State that this case has been developed later on when legal opinion was available. In this view of the matter, I am of the opinion that it cannot be said that the case taken up by the defence is even probable."

38. Before analysing the finding recorded by the learned Trial Court, it would be apposite to refer the relevant portion of statement of the accused-appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

39. Appellant-Rameshwar in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. stated that at about 08:00 PM he had gone to attend the call of nature and when he returned, he found Rajpal at his house. On being challenged, Babu Ram and Bhikhari also arrived there. At that time, Rajpal, Babu Ram and Bhikhari started assaulting him. On his cries, his brother Chet Ram and father Misri Lal also arrived.

40. Appellant-Chet Ram in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. further stated that on the date of occurrence at about 08:00 PM, Rajpal, Babu Ram and Bhikhari were abusing Rameshwar out side his house. Raj Pal, Babu and Bhikhari were assaulting Rameshwar. On the shrieks of Rameshwar, he also reached there and enquired as to why they were making noise, then Rameshwar told him that Rajpal had entered his house. Thereafter, they started plying lathis. He also plied lathis in self defence.

41. Appellant-Misri in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. further stated that on the date of occurrence Rameshwar was not at home and when he returned, he found Rajpal in his house. Rameshwar tried to apprehend Rajpal, but in vain. Thereafter, Babu, Bhikhari and Rajpal came and started assaulting Rameshwar. On hearing the noise, he along with Chet Ram also reached there. All the three Babu, Bhikhari and Rajpal plied lathis. He also plied lathi in self defence.

42. From the perusal of statements of accused-appellants Rameshwar, Chet Ram and Misri, it is crystal clear that it was Babu, Bhikhari and Rajpal, who assaulted accused-appellant-Rameshwar and in self defence lathis were plied by the appellants Rameshwar, Chet Ram and Misri. It appears that the learned Trial Court while discussing the cross-case has misread the statement of the accused-appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. to hold the appellants aggressor and that the first informant and others have plied lathis in self defence.

43. Learned Trial Court at paragraph No. 10 of the impugned judgement has held that "the accused persons have also entered upon their defence and have examined DW-1, Dr. S.C. Shukla who had medically examined one of the accused persons."

44. It appears that the learned Trial Court has incorporated a wrong facts in the impugned judgement inasmuch as DW-1, Dr. S.C. Shukla has medically examined three accused persons (instead of one as held by the learned Trial Court), whose injuries have already been discussed above and at the cost of repetition, the same are reproduced below:

45. Injuries of accused-Chet Ram examined at 01:00 AM on 19.08.1986 examined by DW-1 Dr. S.C. Shukla:

2. Contusion 4 cm x 2 cm on the right side of right calf muscle, colour red. □

The injuries are simple, fresh and caused by blunt object.

46. Injuries of accused-Misri examined at 01:30 AM on 19.08.1986 examined by DW-1 Dr. S.C. Shukla

2. Contusion 3 cm x 2 cm on the outer aspect of upper end of right FA, colour red.

The injuries are simple, fresh and caused by blunt object.

47. Injuries of accused-Rameshwar examined at 01:45 AM on 19.08.1986 examined by DW-1 Dr. S.C. Shukla

1. Lacerated wound 1 cm x 0.5 cm x skin deep on the left side of forehead above the left eyebrow, fresh blood clot.

2. Contusion 3 cm x 2 cm, on the outer aspect of lower end of right forearm, colour red.

The injuries are simple, fresh and caused by blunt object.

48. From the above, it is apparent that the learned Trial Court has also not considered the injuries of the accused-appellants namely Rameshwar, Chet Ram and Misri.

49. We also find that report from the side of the appellants was lodged at 00:15 AM in the night intervening 18/19.08.1986 in which the incident was alleged to have taken place at 08:00 PM, whereas from the side of the first informant, the report was lodged at 08:15 AM on 19.08.1986, in which the incident was alleged to have taken place at 05:00 PM on 18.08.1986. The first information is delayed by more than 15 hours. Explanation tendered by the prosecution for the delay in lodging the first information report is that after the incident the first informant while going to the police station along with injured Raj Pal and Babu Ram to lodge the first information and when he reached near village Sanda at about 12:00 in the night, injured-Raj Pal (deceased) succumbed to the injuries. Thereafter, he returned back to village and could not go to the police station to lodge the first information report on account of flood in the river. The distance between the police station Khudaganj and the place of occurrence is 07 Kms. As per evidence of PW-1, Bhikhari, after the occurrence at 05:00 PM, he along with Raj Pal and Babu Ram left for the police station, which was about 07 Kms. and when he reached near village Sanda at about 12:00 in the night, injured-Raj Pal died and thereafter he returned to village. The explanation tendered by the prosecution is too hard to swallow inasmuch as the first informant could not cover the distance of 7 kms. in seven hours. Whereas as per version of the accused-appellants, the incident in question took place at 08:00 PM and their report has been lodged at 00:15 AM, i.e. in four hours and fifteen minutes.

50. Further the injury of the injured Babu Ram was examined at 10:00 AM on 20.3.1986, which was allegedly sustained at 05:00 PM on 18.03.1986, whereas the injuries of the accused-appellants were examined at 01:00 AM on 18/19.3.1986.

51. In view of the above, we are of the view that the learned Trial Court has failed to examine the case of the accused-appellants in respect of cross case in corrective perspective.
52. Accordingly, the order dated 29.4.1987 passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Shahjahanpur in Sessions Trial No. 403 of 1986 is set aside.

53. Consequently, the appeal is allowed.

54. Appellants Chet Ram and Rameshwar are on bail. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged.

55. Office is directed to send a copy of this order to the court concerned along with necessary documents for compliance and compliance report be submitted to this Court within two months.

Criminal Appeal No. 1548 of 2026

Rizwan

...Appellant

Versus

State of U.P.

...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether, for the purposes of suspension of sentence and release on bail pending appeal under S. 389 Cr.P.C., the appellant's contention that he had no intention or motive to commit the murder of the deceased and that the shot intended for the informant accidentally hit the deceased excluded the applicability of S. 302 IPC and brought the case within S. 304 IPC, or whether S. 301 IPC embodying the Doctrine of Transfer of Malice rendered the offence punishable under S. 302 IPC. (Paras 2, 4 and 7-10)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Suspension of Sentence Pending Appeal - Murder - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 301, 302, 307, 506 - Arms Act, 1959 - Ss. 3/25 - Doctrine of Transfer of Malice or Transmigration of Motive - Accused intending to cause death of one person but shot hitting and killing another person - Whether offence falls under S. 302 IPC or S. 304 IPC - Held, by virtue of S. 301 IPC, intention stands transferred to the actual victim and the offender would still be guilty of causing death - Submission that there was no intention to kill the deceased rejected - Bail declined. (Paras 7-10)

Criminal Law - Suspension of Sentence Pending Appeal - Consideration of Criminal Antecedents - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 389 - Extensive criminal history involving offences like murder, attempt to murder and dacoity with murder brought on record by the State - Criminal history not sufficiently explained in supplementary affidavit - Held, appellant was a man of criminal character and had been involved in commission of serious offences - No case for grant of bail made out. (Paras 9, 10)

Held: It is settled law that if a person has an intention to commit an offence or cause death of any person but kills one whose death he never intended to cause, he would still be guilty of causing death - the Doctrine of Transfer of Malice or Transmigration of Motive provides that where there is mens rea of committing an offence, it can be transferred to another - if a person has an intention to commit an offence or cause death of any person but kills one whose death he never intended to cause, he would still be guilty of causing death - a composite reading and understanding of S. 301 IPC, Doctrine of Transfer of Malice or Transmigration of Motive and the cases on the subject makes it quite implicit that the appellant is guilty of committing an offence of culpable homicide amounting to murder punishable under S. 302 IPC and that the intention to kill some other person is not material inasmuch as he had the intention of committing the aforesaid offence though accidentally he might have killed another person - the submission that he had no intention to cause death of the deceased is not acceptable - the appellant had been engaged in commission of offence like murder, attempt to murder and dacoity with murder and the criminal history was not sufficiently explained - taking into account that the appellant is a man of criminal character and had been involved in commission of offences like murder, attempt to murder and dacoity with murder etc. and the law laid down in Nanhe (supra), the appellant has not made out a case of bail and the bail application is liable to be rejected - bail application is accordingly rejected. (Paras 7-10) (E-7)

Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Application under S. 389 Cr.P.C. seeking suspension of sentence of conviction and release on bail pending appeal in Session Trial No. 658 of 2019 arising out of Case Crime No. 250 of 2019 under Ss. 307, 302, 506 IPC and Ss. 3/25 Arms Act, Police Station Baniyather, District Sambhal.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:

Shri Irshad Mohammad.

Advs. for the Respondents:

Learned A.G.A. for the State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jai Krishna Upadhyay, J.)

Criminal Misc. Bail Application / (Suspension of Sentence) Application

1. Heard Shri Irshad Mohammad, learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. The instant application has been filed under Section 389 of Cr.P.C. to suspend the sentence of conviction and to release the applicant on bail in Session Trial No. 658 of 2019 (State of U.P. versus Rizwan) arising out of Case Crime No. 250 of 2019, under Sections 307, 302, 506 (part-2) of I.P.C. and 3/25 Arms Act, Police Station - Baniyather, District ? Sambhal.

3. As per the prosecution case, on 27.8.2019 at about 6:00 PM, while the informant was at his shop and was paying wages to labourers, Rizwan arrived at the scene and demanded money from the informant and when he refused to give the money to him, he drew a pistol from his pocket and fired at him with intent to kill, which was missed. However, when he fired second time, the bullet struck Shakir, who was working nearby and as a result, a large crowd gathered there and Rizwan was apprehended and beaten, consequently he sustained injuries. Injured Shakir succumbed to his injuries during treatment.

4. Contention of the learned counsel for the applicant is that the applicant is innocent and has been falsely implicated. It has been further submitted that the appellant had no intention or motive to commit the murder of the deceased rather he wanted to cause death of the informant and by mistake it hit the deceased. Hence, offence under Section 302 IPC is not made out and the case cannot travel beyond the purview of Section 304 IPC. In paragraph no. 28 of the affidavit it has been mentioned that neither the appellant is previous convict nor has any criminal history to his credit. It has further been submitted that the appellant has served out more than five years and six months sentence. It has also been submitted that the conviction and sentence imposed by the learned trial Judge is against the weight of evidence on record. Recovery of murder weapon on the pointing out of the appellant is false and planted. The trial court has misread the evidence on record and convicted the appellant. The prosecution has not been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. Since there is no likelihood of early hearing of the appeal in near future, the appellant may be released on bail pending appeal.

5. In rebuttal, learned A.G.A. has opposed the bail application and submitted that the appellant has been rightly convicted by the trial court. Cogent and reliable evidence has been collected by the I.O. against him during investigation. The trial court has appreciated the evidence in right perspective. Lastly, it has been submitted that the Appellant is a man of criminal character and in this regard a list of cases lodged against him has been annexed with the counter affidavit which is as under :

6. We have perused the judgment of the Trial Court with the assistance of the learned counsel for the parties and have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties.

7. So far as the submission that appellant had no intention or motive to commit the murder of the deceased rather he wanted to cause death of the informant and by mistake it hit the deceased is concerned, it is settled law that if a person has an intention to commit an offence or cause death of any person but kills one whose death he never intended to cause, he would still be guilty of causing death. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Nanhe vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2024) 13 SCC 765 has held as under :

“10. In context with the argument that the appellant had no intention to kill the deceased and that he was accidentally killed though in fact he had fired the shot upon Mahendra with whom he had a quarrel/altercation a little earlier, it is relevant to refer to Section 301 IPC which reads as under:

“301. Culpable homicide by causing death of person other than person whose death was intended.-If a person, by doing anything which he intends or knows to be likely to cause death, commits culpable homicide by causing the death of any person, whose death he neither intends nor knows himself to be likely to cause, the culpable homicide committed by the offender is of the description of which it would have been if he had caused the death of the person whose death he intended or knew himself to be likely to cause.”

11. The aforesaid provision is based up on the ?Doctrine of Transfer of Malice or Transmigration of Motive? which provides that where there is ?mens rea? of committing an offence, it can be transferred to another. To illustrate the said doctrine, an example could be given of a person who had intention to kill a person but by mistake kills another person, then he would still be held guilty of committing murder even in the absence of intention to kill that particular person. In simpler words, if a person has an intention to commit an offence or cause death of any person but kills one whose death he never intended to cause, he would still be guilty of causing death.

12. In Shankerlal Kacharabhai v. State of Gujarat [Shankerlal Kacharabhai v. State of Gujarat, 1964 SCC OnLine SC 131 : AIR 1965 SC 1260], this Court while discussing the scope of Section 301 IPC held as under: (SCC OnLine SC para 10)

“10. ? It embodies what the English authors describe as the doctrine of transfer of malice or the transmigration of motive. Under the Section if A intends to kill B, but kills C whose death he neither intends nor knows himself to be likely to cause, the intention to kill C is by law attributed to him. If A aims his shot at B, but it misses B either because B moves out of the range of the shot or because the shot misses the mark and hits some other person C, whether within sight or out of sight, under Section 301, A is deemed to have hit C with the intention to kill him. What is to be noticed is that to invoke Section 301 of the Penal Code, 1860A shall not have any intention to cause the death or the knowledge that he is likely to cause the death of C.”

13. In a similar case where also, the victim was accidentally shot though the firing was intended to cause injuries to some other person, this Court in Rajbir Singh v. State of U.P. [Rajbir Singh v. State of U.P., (2006) 4 SCC 51 : (2006) 2 SCC (Cri) 209] held that the approach of the High Court in setting aside the order passed by the Special Judge solely on the ground that the firing was not aimed at the victim and that he was accidentally injured is completely in ignorance of the provision of Section 301IPC. The Supreme Court observed as under: (SCC p. 54, paras 5 & 7)

“5. We have heard the learned counsel for the appellant (the complainant), the learned counsel for Akhilesh Chauhan (Respondent 2) and have perused the records. The only reason given by the High Court for setting aside the order passed by the learned Special Judge framing charges against Respondent 2 is that the firing was not aimed at Pooja Balmiki but she accidentally received the injuries as she was passing through that way and was hit. The High Court completely ignored the provisions of Section 301IPC.”

The aforesaid provision clearly shows that if the killing took place in the course of doing an act which a person intends or knows to be likely to cause death, it ought to be treated as if the real intention of the killer had been actually carried out.

7. The fact that there was no intention to cause injury to Pooja Balmiki and she was accidentally hit can make no difference as according to the version of the prosecution, the accused intended to cause injuries by firearm to Hoti Lal and in attempting to carry out the same, also caused injuries to her. The reasons given by the High Court for quashing the charges are, therefore, wholly erroneous in law and cannot be sustained.”

14. In another case of similar nature i.e. Jagpal Singh v. State of Punjab [Jagpal Singh v. State of Punjab, 1991 Supp (1) SCC 549 : 1991 SCC (Cri) 721 : AIR 1991 SC 982], this Court held that under the ?Doctrine of Transfer of Malice or Transmigration of Motive? as per Section 301IPC, the accused has made himself punishable under Section 302IPC (simpliciter) as he accidentally shot a particular person, though, in fact he might have intended to kill another person and may have aimed the shot at that another person only.

15. A composite reading and understanding of the aforesaid provision of Section 301IPC, ?Doctrine of Transfer of Malice or Transmigration of Motive? and above cases on the subject, it is quite implicit that the appellant herein is guilty of committing an offence of culpable homicide amounting to murder punishable under Section 302 IPC and that the intention to kill some other person is not material inasmuch as he had the intention of committing the aforesaid offence though accidentally he might have killed another person.”

8. In view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Nanhe (supra), the submission made by the learned counsel for the appellant that he had no intention to cause death of the appellant is not acceptable.

9. Further, though the learned counsel for the appellant has mentioned in the affidavit that neither he is previous convict nor has any criminal history to his credit yet the learned AGA has brought on record a list of criminal cases lodged against the appellant which shows that the appellant had been engaged in commission of offence like murder, attempt to murder and dacoity with murder etc. In the supplementary affidavit filed on 16.4.2026 the learned counsel for the appellant has not sufficiently explained the criminal history of the appellant.

10. In view of the above discussions and taking into account the fact that the appellant is a man of criminal character and had been involved in commission of offences like murder, attempt to murder and dacoity with murder etc. and the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Nanhe (supra), we are of the view that the appellant has not made out a case of bail. The bail application is accordingly rejected.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1613 of 2012

Shanu

...Appellant

Versus

State of U.P.

...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether it is safe to convict the accused solely on the solitary statement of the prosecutrix which is sought to be corroborated by the evidence of her father and whether the evidence of the prosecutrix inspires confidence and appears to be absolutely trustworthy, unblemished and is of sterling quality. (Paras 20-23)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Rape and Gang Rape - Appreciation of Evidence - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 376(g), 342, 506, 120-B - Conviction based on solitary testimony of prosecutrix - Requirement that evidence must inspire confidence and be of sterling quality - Court required to examine whether testimony is absolutely trustworthy, unblemished and consistent with supporting material - Application to facts where prosecution version suffered from material discrepancies, absence of injuries, absence of medical corroboration, non-recovery of alleged weapons, unnatural conduct attributed to parties and failure to support prosecution case through material evidence - Held, evidence of victim not of sterling quality and could not form sole basis of conviction - Conviction and sentence set aside and appellants acquitted. (Paras 17-24)

Criminal Trial - Appreciation of Testimony of Prosecutrix - Sole Basis of Conviction - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 376(g), 342, 506, 120-B - Statement of prosecutrix can sustain conviction if it inspires confidence and appears to be absolutely trustworthy and of sterling quality - Material discrepancies raising serious doubt against prosecution version require corroboration - Application to facts where allegation of gang rape was not supported by medical evidence and several circumstances rendered prosecution story highly unlikely and unnatural - Held, trial court erred in treating uncorroborated statement of victim as gospel truth. (Paras 17-23)

Criminal Evidence - Medical and Scientific Evidence - Effect of Absence of Injuries and Forensic Support - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 376(g), 342, 506, 120-B - Though injury is not a sine qua non for deciding whether rape has been committed, factual matrix of each case must be considered - Application to facts where no mark of injury or sign of use of force was found, no sperms or gonococci were detected and alleged semen-stained salwar was not scientifically proved - Held, cumulative discrepancies raised serious doubt regarding prosecution case. (Paras 17, 22-23)

Held: The prosecution evidence revealed material discrepancies inasmuch as it was highly unlikely that a woman residing in the neighborhood will call a girl to her home abruptly in the afternoon and get her raped by her husband and another person while the woman will continue to sit outside the room where the rape was being committed - two persons are said to have raped the victim who was aged between 20-25 years and yet no mark of injury or sign of use of force was found on any part of her body - the victim said that the rapists had threatened with a knife and a pistol but no weapon has been recovered from any of the appellants - it is highly unnatural that the victim did not tell about the incident to her mother on the same day - the victim's mother has not been produced as a prosecution witness - the salwar alleged to contain semen stains was not scientifically proved - the allegation of commission of gang-rape is not supported by medical evidence - the aforesaid discrepancies are material discrepancies which raise serious doubt against the victim's statement and show that the evidence of the victim is not of sterling quality which may form the sole basis of conviction - the trial Court held the appellants guilty without taking into consideration the aforesaid relevant aspects of the matter and by treating the uncorroborated statement of the victim as gospel truth which vitiates the judgment of the trial Court - consequently the judgment and order convicting and sentencing the appellants was set aside and the appellants were acquitted of all the charges - (Paras 20-24) (E-7)

Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeals arising from the judgment and order dated 31.10.2012 passed by the Additional Session Judge (T.E.C.P.-5), Lucknow in Session Trial No. 1237 of 2008 arising out of Case Crime No. 92/07 under Ss. 342/376/506 I.P.C., P.S. Mall, Lucknow convicting and sentencing the appellants.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:

Shri Kunwar Rudra Pratap Singh.

Advs. for the Respondents:

Shri Mohd. Asif Khan, learned A.G.A.-I for the State of U.P.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Kunwar Rudra Pratap Singh, the learned counsel for the appellants and Shri Mohd. Asif Khan, the learned A.G.A.-I for the State of U.P. Vakalatnama of Shri Kunwar Rudra Pratap Singh is already there in Criminal Appeal Nos.1613 of 2012 and 1652 of 2012 and he has filed his vakalatnama in Criminal Appeal No.1625 of 2012, which is taken on record

2. All the three appellants in the aforesaid three appeals are present in person and they stated that they have already submitted bail bonds and sureties in furtherance of the order dated 01.04.2026 passed by this Court.

3. The learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the allegation in the present case is that Smt. Alia called the victim from her home, locked her inside a room along with Shakeel (husband of Smt. Alia) and Shanu and both of them raped the victim while Smt. Alia was sitting outside the room. He has submitted that it is highly improbable that a lady would call another young lady to her home, lock her inside with her husband and another person and get her raped while she would keep on sitting outside.

4. This was the entire submission advanced by the learned counsel for the appellants and upon request of the Court to elaborate the submissions and support the same with the material on record, the learned counsel for the appellant states that he has not brought his paper book. Therefore, the Court proceeds to examine the record and decide the appeal on its own, virtually without any assistance from the learned Counsel for the appellants.

5. All the aforesaid three appeals have been filed challenging the validity of the judgment and order dated 31.10.2012 passed by the learned Additional Session Judge (T.E.C.P.-5) Lucknow in Session Trial No. 1237 of 2008 arising out of Case Crime No. 92/07 under Sections 342/376/506 I.P.C., P.S. Mall, Lucknow whereby Shakeel (the appellant in Crl. Appeal No.1652/2012) and Shanu (the appellant in Crl. Appeal No.1613/2012) have been convicted for the offences under Section 376(g), 342 and 306 IPC and have been sentenced them for rigorous imprisonment for 10 years and payment of Rs.5,000/- each as fine for the offence under Section 376 (g) IPC, rigorous imprisonment for three months and payment of Rs.500/- each as fine for the offence under Section 342 IPC and three years rigorous imprisonment and payment of Rs.1,000/- as fine for the offence under Section 506 IPC. The trial Court has convicted Smt. Alia Begum (the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 1625 of 2012) for the offence under Section 376/120-B IPC and Section 342 IPC and has sentenced her to rigorous imprisonment for five years and payment of Rs.3,000/- fine for the offence under Section 376/120-B and rigorous imprisonment for three months and payment of Rs.500/- as fine for the offence under Section 342 IPC.

6. The record reveals that the FIR was lodged on the basis of a written complaint given by the complainant on 10.06.2007 at 14:10 hours stating that while the informant's daughter was working inside her home at about 03:00-04:00 pm on 06.06.2007, Alia wife of Shakeel, who resides in the neighborhood, called the victim's daughter on the pretext of making embroidery on a Kurta. When the informant's daughter reached the home of the appellants Alia, Shakeel and Shanu were present there under a plan. Both of them caught hold of the victim and took her inside a Kothri. Alia locked the kothri from the outside and kept on sitting there. Both the accused persons raped the victim. One of them threatened her with a knife and the other threatened her with the pistol. After reaching home, the victim did not tell anything to her mother in spite of being asked. Her father had gone somewhere outside. When he reached home, the victim gave information about the incident. Thereupon, the FIR was lodged.

7. The medico-legal examination report of the victim did not reveal any mark of injury on any part of her body, including her private parts. The hymen was old, torn and healed. The pathological examination report of vaginal swab slides did not reveal the presence of spermatozoa or gonococci. As per the X-ray examination report, the victim was over 18 years of age.

8. The informant was examined as PW-1 and he reiterated the FIR version. He stated that her daughter came back home weeping after the incident. Because of fear, she did not tell anything to her mother. When he made a phone call on 09.06.2007, the mother of the victim told him about the incident on the phone and thereafter he returned home in the night and lodged the First Information Report on 10.06.2007. The salwar worn by the victim at the time of the incident had stains of semen and it was deposited in the police station.

9. The victim was examined as PW-2. She stated that the incident took place at about 3-4 PM on 06.06.2007. She was making a kurta inside her home. Alia came there and asked her to accompany her to her home and make a kurta there. When she refused to go, Alia insisted. The victim went with her. The other appellants Shanu and Shakeel were present there. Shakeel pulled her inside. Alia locked the door from outside. Shakeel and Shanu threatened her with a knife and a pistol. Shakeel raped her first while Shanu was keeping her mouth shut and thereafter Shanu did the same thing while Shakeel kept her mouth shut. Thereafter both of them threatened her, Alia opened the door and she went home crying. She did not tell about the incident to her mother on the same day and told her about it later. Her father had gone to Delhi and he made a phone call on the same night. Her mother called her father home. When her father made a phone call on 09.06.2007, her mother told him all the things and thereafter her father returned home in the morning and she went to the police station to lodge a report. She also stated that her salwar was deposited in the police station.

10. The doctor who had medically examined the victim was examined as PW-5. She proved the medical examination report and she stated that there was no injury mark on any part of the body of the victim, including her private parts. The hymen was old torn. She had prepared vaginal swab slides for pathological examination and had referred the victim to a radiologist. She stated that although the hymen was old torn, she could not say with certainty that the victim was habitual of sexual intercourse. As per the X-ray examination report, the age of the victim could be about 20 years or at the most 25 years.

11. The doctor who had conducted the pathological examination report stated that no sperms or gonococci were found in the pathological examination of vaginal swabs.

12. In the statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C, the accused Shakeel stated that Bakrid festival occurred a few days prior to the incident. The fair price shop owner had given him one sack full of sugar for being distributed. He was distributing sugar. Mukhtar Ahmed (father of the victim) forcefully tried to take him to his home. An altercation had taken place at that time due to which reason Mukhtar Ahmed had falsely implicated him. However, the accused persons did not adduce any evidence.

13. The trial Court held that the informant was not present on the date of the incident. He was in Delhi. Upon coming to know about the incident, he came back and lodged the FIR. Therefore, the delay in lodging the FIR has sufficiently been explained.

14. On behalf of the accused persons, some discrepancies in the statement were highlighted like at page-8 of the statement, the victim had stated that as soon as she reached the door of the house of Alia, Shakeel caught hold of her hand and Alia locked the door. When Shakeel had pulled her, two-three bangles in her hand had got broken but she did not suffer any injury. The defense claimed that this statement has not been given in the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. or in the examination-in-chief. The trial Court held that this statement was made in response to a question put during cross examination and it cannot be said to be an improvement in the statement.

15. The defense counsel had contended that in case the victim had resisted commission of gang-rape, some marks of resistance would certainly be visible on her body but the medico-legal examination report reveals no mark of injury or sign of use of force and no evidence of intercourse. The trial Court rejected this submission on the ground that mere penetration is sufficient to make out the offence of rape and nothing more is required. The trial Court stated that the absence of sperm or gonococci in pathological examination report does not disprove commission of rape. The trial Court further held that although salwar of the victim is said to be having stains of semen and it was deposited with the police, it has not been sent for forensic examination, but this defect in prosecution would not give any benefit to the accused as the statement of the victim is sufficient to establish the guilt of the accused persons.

16. The trial Court further observed that there was a question in its mind that it appears to be quite unnatural that a lady will call any girl to her house and get her raped by her husband. The trial Court held that although it appears to be unnatural but it is not impossible. When the victim's statement describes the incident, the evidence would override the mere probabilities. The trial Court accordingly held the appellants Shakeel and Shanu guilty of the offences under Sections 376(g), 342 and 306 IPC and Smt. Alia for the offences under Section 120-B read with Section 376 IPC and 342 IPC.

17. In Lalliram v. State of M.P., (2008) 10 SCC 69, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that:

“11.It is true that injury is not a sine qua non for deciding whether rape has been committed. But it has to be decided on the factual matrix of each case. As was observed by this Court in Pratap Misra v. State of Orissa [(1977) 3 SCC 41] where allegation is of rape by many persons and several times but no injury is noticed that certainly is an important factor and if the prosecutrix's version is credible, then no corroboration is necessary. But if the prosecutrix's version is not credible then there would be need for corroboration. (See Aman Kumar v. State of Haryana [(2004) 4 SCC 379].)”

(Emphasis added)

18. In Rajesh Patel v. State of Jharkhand: (2013) 3 SCC 791, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

*“14.The prosecution case is that the appellant has committed the offence of rape on the prosecutrix on 14-2-1993. She is the solitary witness to prove the charge. The same is sought to be corroborated by her mother, PW 2 who has supported the prosecution case on the basis of narration of the alleged offence by the prosecutrix to her. It is an undisputed fact that both the appellant and the prosecutrix are classmates and had good acquaintance with each other as they were exchanging books. The case of the prosecution is that she had given her book to the appellant. She asked him to return the same and he asked her to go to his house on 14-2-1993 to take back the book. Accordingly, she went to the house of the appellant. When she entered the house he locked the door of the house from inside. At that time she had not raised an alarm, except stating that she insisted not to lock the door of the house as there were no other inmates in the house at that point of time. The version of the prosecutrix is that she could not raise alarm as the appellant had threatened her with a knife. Further case of the prosecution is that he had then committed the offence of rape on her. Further, she has stated that while the appellant was committing rape on her she got pain in her private part and at that point of time also she wanted to raise alarm, but he had shown the knife to her not to raise alarm. Thus, the prosecution story as narrated by the prosecutrix is most improbable and unnatural.

* * *

22. For the aforesaid reasons the prosecution case is not natural, consistent and probable to believe to sustain the conviction and sentence of the appellant for the alleged offence said to have been committed by him.”

(Emphasis added)

19. In Santosh Prasad v. State of Bihar: (2020) 3 SCC 443, the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to certain precedents in the following paragraphs: -

“5.4.1. In Raju v. State of M.P., (2008) 15 SCC 133], it is observed and held by this Court in paras 11 and 12 as under: (SCC p. 141)

“11. It cannot be lost sight of that rape causes the greatest distress and humiliation to the victim but at the same time a false allegation of rape can cause equal distress, humiliation and damage to the accused as well. The accused must also be protected against the possibility of false implication, particularly where a large number of accused are involved. It must, further, be borne in mind that the broad principle is that an injured witness was present at the time when the incident happened and that ordinarily such a witness would not tell a lie as to the actual assailants, but there is no presumption or any basis for assuming that the statement of such a witness is always correct or without any embellishment or exaggeration.

12. Reference has been made in Gurmit Singh case [State of Punjab v. Gurmit Singh, (1996) 2 SCC 384] to the amendments in 1983 to Sections 375 and 376 of the Penal Code making the penal provisions relating to rape more stringent, and also to Section 114-A of the Evidence Act with respect to a presumption to be raised with regard to allegations of consensual sex in a case of alleged rape. It is however significant that Sections 113-A and 113-B too were inserted in the Evidence Act by the same amendment by which certain presumptions in cases of abetment of suicide and dowry death have been raised against the accused. These two sections, thus, raise a clear presumption in favour of the prosecution but no similar presumption with respect to rape is visualised as the presumption under Section 114-A is extremely restricted in its applicability. This clearly shows that insofar as allegations of rape are concerned, the evidence of a prosecutrix must be examined as that of an injured witness whose presence at the spot is probable but it can never be presumed that her statement should, without exception, be taken as the gospel truth. Additionally, her statement can, at best, be adjudged on the principle that ordinarily no injured witness would tell a lie or implicate a person falsely. We believe that it is under these principles that this case, and others such as this one, need to be examined.”

5.4.2. In Rai Sandeep v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2012) 8 SCC 21], this Court had an occasion to consider who can be said to be a “sterling witness”. In para 22, it is observed and held as under: (SCC p. 29)

“22. In our considered opinion, the “sterling witness” should be of a very high quality and calibre whose version should, therefore, be unassailable. The court considering the version of such witness should be in a position to accept it for its face value without any hesitation. To test the quality of such a witness, the status of the witness would be immaterial and what would be relevant is the truthfulness of the statement made by such a witness. What would be more relevant would be the consistency of the statement right from the starting point till the end, namely, at the time when the witness makes the initial statement and ultimately before the court. It should be natural and consistent with the case of the prosecution qua the accused. There should not be any prevarication in the version of such a witness. The witness should be in a position to withstand the cross-examination of any length and howsoever strenuous it may be and under no circumstance should give room for any doubt as to the factum of the occurrence, the persons involved, as well as the sequence of it. Such a version should have co-relation with each and every one of other supporting material such as the recoveries made, the weapons used, the manner of offence committed, the scientific evidence and the expert opinion. The said version should consistently match with the version of every other witness. It can even be stated that it should be akin to the test applied in the case of circumstantial evidence where there should not be any missing link in the chain of circumstances to hold the accused guilty of the offence alleged against him. Only if the version of such a witness qualifies the above test as well as all other such similar tests to be applied, can it be held that such a witness can be called as a "sterling witness" whose version can be accepted by the court without any corroboration and based on which the guilty can be punished. To be more precise, the version of the said witness on the core spectrum of the crime should remain intact while all other attendant materials, namely, oral, documentary and material objects should match the said version in material particulars in order to enable the court trying the offence to rely on the core version to sieve the other supporting materials for holding the offender guilty of the charge alleged."

5.4.3. In Krishan Kumar Malik v. State of Haryana [(2011) 7 SCC 130], it is observed and held by this Court that no doubt, it is true that to hold an accused guilty for commission of an offence of rape, the solitary evidence of the prosecutrix is sufficient provided the same inspires confidence and appears to be absolutely trustworthy, unblemished and should be of sterling quality.

20. With the aforesaid decisions in mind, it is required to be considered, whether it is safe to convict the accused solely on the solitary statement of the prosecutrix which is sought to be corroborated by the evidence of her father (PW-1). Whether the evidence of the prosecutrix inspires confidence and appears to be absolutely trustworthy, unblemished and is of sterling quality?

21. The victim (PW-2) stated that while she was making a kurta at her home, Alia came there at about 3-4 pm on 06.06.2007 and asked her to accompany her to her home and make a kurta there. Initially she did not agree, but when Alia insisted, the victim went with her. The other appellants Shanu and Shakeel were present there. Shakeel pulled her inside. Alia locked the door from outside. Shakeel and Shanu threatened her with a knife and a pistol. Shakeel raped her first while Shanu was keeping her mouth shut and thereafter Shanu did the same thing while Shakeel kept her mouth shut. Thereafter, both of them threatened her, Alia opened the door and she went home crying.

22. A scrutiny of the prosecution evidence reveals the following discrepancies: -

(i) Firstly, it is highly unlikely that a woman residing in the neighborhood will call a girl to her home abruptly in the afternoon and get her raped by her husband and another person while the woman will continue to sit outside the room where the rape was being committed.

(ii) Secondly, two persons are said to have raped the victim, who was aged between 20-25 years and yet no mark of injury or sign of use of force was found on any part of her body.

(iii) Thirdly, the victim said that the rapists had threatened with a knife and a pistol, but no weapon has been recovered from any of the appellants.

(iv) Fourthly, it is highly unnatural that the victim did not tell about the incident to her mother on the same day. The victim said that she told about the incident to her mother later, but she did not specify as to when did she tell it to her mother.

(v) Fifthly, the victim's father had gone to Delhi and he made a phone call on the same night, her mother called her father home without knowing about the incident. From the aforesaid statement it appears that the victim firstly told about the incident to her mother, but the victim's mother has not been produced as a prosecution witness.

(vi) Sixthly, the victim stated that her salwar was deposited in the police station. The informant PW-1 stated that the salwar worn by the victim at the time of the incident has stains of semen on it. The salwar was produced before the trial Court as material exhibit no. 2 and it was proved by the PW-4 constable Kamta Ram, but he did not state that the salwar had any stain on it and no semen stains were shown to the Court. During cross-examination, PW-4 stated that he could not tell as to whether the salwar had any stains and what was the cause of the stains.

(vii) Seventhly, PW-5 - the doctor who had medically examined the victim, stated that there was no injury mark on any part of the victim's body of the victim, including her private parts. The hymen was old torn. PW- 7 the pathologist, stated that no sperms or gonococci were found in the pathological examination of vaginal swabs. Therefore, the allegation of commission of gang-rape is not supported by medical evidence.

23. The aforesaid discrepancies are material discrepancies which raise serious doubt against the victim's statement and the aforesaid discrepancies show that the evidence of the victim is not of sterling quality, which may form the sole basis of conviction. The trial Court has held the appellants guilty without taking into consideration the aforesaid relevant aspects of the matter and by treating the uncorroborated statement of the victim as gospel truth, which vitiates the judgment of the trial Court.

24. In view of the foregoing discussion, all the three appeals are allowed. The judgment and order dated 31.10.2012 passed by the Additional Session Judge (T.E.C.P.-5) Lucknow in Session Trial No. 1237 of 2008 arising out of Case Crime No. 92/07 under Sections 342/376/506 I.P.C., P.S. Mall, Lucknow convicting and sentencing the appellants is set aside. The appellants are acquitted of all the charges.

25. The appellants are directed to comply with the provision of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. and execute bail bonds with sureties within a period of two weeks, to appear before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in case any appeal is filed against this order and the Hon'ble Supreme Court issues notice of the appeal and such bail bonds shall be in force for six months.

26. Before parting with the case, I am constrained to observe that normally about 100 old Criminal Appeals are listed before this Bench on any single day, besides the fresh cases and criminal cases related to M.Ps., M.L.As., M.L.Cs., C.B.I., E.D. and acid attack victims. Although it is the duty of the Court to decide the case, the Court is entitled to receive assistance from the Advocates in deciding cases. More often than not, the Court has to deal with poor assistance or no assistance provided by the Advocate and at times, the Court has to deal with matters where the Advocates place incorrect facts or law before the Court. This creates a big obstacle in expeditious dispensation of justice and lack of proper assistance by the Advocates is a major cause of delay in decision of cases. The present bunch of three appeals has been decided by me practically without any assistance by the learned Counsel for the appellants, which resulted in consumption of much more time in deciding these appeals than was justifiable.

27. The Advocates are an integral part of justice dispensation. I have time and again been requesting the Advocates to provide better assistance to the Courts. I once again request the members of the bar to realize the importance of their role in justice dispensation, respect their professional duty and provide assistance to the Courts in dispensation of justice by advancing precise and concise submissions with the help of relevant law, to the best of their ability. Hope this request will not go in vain, like numerous previous requests.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE AVNISH SAXENA, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1735 of 1987

Brijbasi Lal & Anr.

...Appellant

Versus

State of U.P.

...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the trial court has rightly appreciated the testimonies of witnesses of fact and reached to the right conclusion of convicting the accused appellant? (Para 16)

Headnotes

Criminal Law — Appeal against conviction — appreciation of chance witnesses — Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 374(2) — Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 307 — evidence of chance witness requires a very cautious and close scrutiny and must adequately explain presence at place of occurrence, but cannot be discarded merely because the witness happened to be present by chance — where the two chance witnesses were inconsistent inter se, in conflict with the informant, and failed to explain their presence, their testimony was not inspiring confidence — conviction set aside and benefit of doubt granted. (Paras 17 to 27)

Criminal Law — attempt to murder — evaluation of ocular and medical evidence — Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 307 — medico legal evidence proved gunshot injuries on a vital part of the body and injuries were sufficient to cause death though simple in nature, but inconsistent ocular version, doubtful presence of chance witnesses, and defective investigation created reasonable doubt — accused entitled to benefit of doubt. (Paras 22 to 27)

Criminal Law — defective investigation — non-recovery of blood stained clothes, earth and weapon — Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 307 — faulty investigation by itself is not a ground for acquittal if the prosecution evidence is consistent, reliable, trustworthy and cogent, but where the prosecution version itself is infirm and the evidence of witnesses is not reliable, investigative lapses reinforce doubt — prosecution case failed. (Paras 24 to 27)

Criminal Law — recovery of weapon — failure to seize licensed gun and send it for ballistic examination — Indian Penal Code, 1860 -S. 307 — absence of weapon recovery and ballistic report, though not decisive by itself, became material in the facts of the case because the prosecution otherwise failed to establish a clinching chain of evidence connecting the accused with the offence — Hence the accused is entitled for benefit of doubt and shall be acquitted. (Paras 26 to 27)

Held: The two chance witnesses, Shiv Kumar Singh and Sughar Singh, were not only inconsistent in their statements regarding the occurrence but were also in conflict with the statement of the informant, Rajendra Singh - The prosecution failed to establish any reason for their presence at the place of occurrence - The prosecution version, as gathered from the testimonies of the three witnesses of fact, does not inspire confidence regarding the truthfulness of the prosecution case - The site plan, non-collection of blood-stained clothes, blood-stained earth, and the alleged weapon further weaken the prosecution case - The injured witness and the informant assigned different roles to the accused, Brijbasi and Keshav - The fact that the injured person was taken from District Mainpuri to District Etawah for treatment also creates doubt about the prosecution story - The prosecution failed to establish that the licensed gun of Subedar Singh was used in the incident - There are material discrepancies regarding the allegation of two shots being fired and the claim that one shot caused injuries to two persons - Consequently, there is no clinching evidence against the accused to sustain a conviction for the offence of attempt to murder - The accused is therefore entitled to the benefit of doubt and deserves to be acquitted – Appeal allowed.(Paras 24 to 31) (E-7)

Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Appeal against the judgment of conviction and sentence dated 26.06.1987 passed by IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Mainpuri in Session Trial No. 165 of 1986, State Vs. Brijbasi Lal and another, P.S.- Karhal, District- Mainpuri, under S. 307 IPC.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Respondents:

Sri Chandra Badan, learned AGA

(Delivered by Hon'ble Avnish Saxena, J.)

1. Heard Sri Aftab Alam, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Chandra Badan, learned AGA for the State.

2. Before proceeding with the case a parting observation of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Subal Ghorai Vs. State of West Bengal, is worth quoting wherein investigative agency and the trial court were advised to be careful and responsive while investigation and conducting trial. The quote is reiterated underneath:-

“59. we must express that the investigation of this case is far from satisfactory and recording of evidence is done in a casual manner. Justice is done only because of the inherent strength of the prosecution case and credible evidence of the honest rustic witnesses. Sessions cases involve the rights of the victims and rights of the accused. Even the society has a great stake in the proper conduct of sessions cases because they have relevance to the maintenance of law and order. Investigation of criminal cases must, therefore, be done very carefully and trials must be conducted with a sense of responsibility.”

THE APPEAL:-

3. This criminal appeal under Section 374(2) CrPC challenging the judgment of conviction has been preferred by two accused i.e. appellant no. 1 Brijbasi Lal S/o Chhote Singh (Father) and appellant no. 2- Keshav Singh @ Kallu S/o Brijbasi Lal (Son). During the pendency of appeal, father passed away and the criminal appeal abated against appellant no. 1- Brijbasi Lal. During the argument, the learned counsel for appellant submits that the sole surviving appellant Keshav Singh @ Kallu is also 78 years of age. The incident is of 04.12.1980, wherein the allegation against the sole surviving appellant is of opening fire at informant Rajendra Singh wherein Shiv Kumar Singh suffered gun shot injury. The role of exhortation is on the deceased. The trial court in judgment of conviction dated 26.06.1987 in Sessions Trial No. 165 of 1986 (State Vs. Brijbasi Lal and another) has awarded punishment of rigorous imprisonment of three years and Rs. 5000/- fine against the sole surviving appellant. In default of payment of fine, he was directed to undergo further one year rigorous imprisonment. There is no point of mentioning the punishment awarded on Brijbasi Lal (deceased).

INSIGHTFUL FACTS:-

4. Prior to disclosure of prosecution case certain glaring facts need to be mentioned at the threshold, reiterated underneath:-

4.1 Accused appellant Keshav Singh @ Kallu and the informant Rajendra Singh are neighbours and residents of Village- Mahalerpur, P.S.- Karhal, District- Mainpuri.

4.2 There is dispute regarding of possession of land between informant Rajendra Singh and deceased Brijbasi Lal, a proceeding under Section 145 CrPC was pending.

4.3 The injured witness Shiv Kumar Singh, who is a chance witness is resident of Village- Vikrampur, Civil Lines Etawah.

4.4 Eye Witness Sughar Singh is resident of Kausari Khera, P.S.- Nagla Kangar, Mainpuri, who is also a chance witness.

4.5 The father of informant, namely, Mulaim Singh also allegedly suffered gun shot injuries; but there is neither the medico legal examination report nor he is being produced as a witness in the court, hence the trial court has not relied the witness on the point of Keshav opened fire at Mulaim Singh on his injuries.

4.6 The licensed gun which was used by accused appellant Keshav Singh belongs to his grand father Subedar which has not been taken into custody by the police and no FSL report is obtained.

4.7 The incident is occurred at District Mainpuri whereas the FIR is registered at P.S.- Jaswant Nagar, District- Etawah.

5. The above facts are kept in mind while going through the record and necessary for appreciation of evidence.

THE PROSECUTION CASE AND TRIAL:-

6. The FIR got registered on 04.12.1980 at 19:30 hours, at P.S.- Jaswant Nagar, District- Etawah by Rajendra Singh-informant. The chik FIR registered as Case Crime No. 242 under Sections 307/34 IPC. exhibit Ka-4 does not disclose the distance of place of incident to the police station but mentioned that the incident is of Village- Mahalerpur, P.S.- Karhal. It is disclosed in the FIR that in front of the southern door of the informant house, there was a disputed land. The case under Section 145 CrPC was pending before the court of Sub Divisional Magistrate, Karhal between the informant and accused Brijbasi Lal S/o Chhote Lal Yadav. On the disputed plot the informant had already dugged the foundation. The Magistrate invoking Section 145 CrPC directed the parties not to use this land. Brijbasi Lal and his son due to the said dispute, became inimical to informant and family. On 04.12.1980 at about 5:00 p.m., Keshav Singh @ Kallu came to the disputed property with spade (Fawda) in his hand and started levelling the foundation. The informant has stopped him on account of pendency of the case. Accused Keshav Singh @ Kallu became infuriated and started hurling abuses. The informant stopped him for slang, on which Keshav Singh @ Kallu came with the licensed gun of his grand father (Chote Baba) Subedar. Brijbasi Lal then exhorted □मार साले को गोली से ,आज मौका है ' (to fire shot at him, its opportune time), Keshav Singh @ Kallu fired a shot with the intention to kill informant, Shiv Kumar Singh S/o Hakim Singh, Shyam Singh S/o Lal Singh, Putte Singh S/o Hajuri Singh of his village, Thakur Sughar Singh and Lal Ji S/o Chhote Lal of Village Kausari Khera were standing. Shiv Kumar Singh suffered gun shot injury and fell on ground, on which Brijbasi Lal and Keshav sprinted away. The informant with the help of his brother Kubhal Pal Singh taken the injured to the police station, where the FIR got registered by PW-6 Constable Atma Singh and investigation was entrusted on Sub Inspector Surendra Singh Sengar. The injured Shiv Kumar Singh was taken to district hospital Etawah, where his medico legal examination was carried out by Dr. C.L. Katiyar on 04.12.1980 at 10:25 p.m. After investigation the Investigating Officer has submitted charge sheet against the Brijbasi Lal for offence under Section 324 IPC. The trial commenced before the court of Magistrate initially against Brijbasi Lal for offence under Section 324 IPC. Witnesses have been recorded and in order dated 28.04.1983, Keshav Singh @ Kallu was summoned to face trial invoking Section 319 CrPC. Thereafter, the prosecution has moved an application that the offence is of attempt to murder and the Magistrate has no jurisdiction. In order dated 05.12.1983, the application of the prosecution was rejected. The prosecution went in Criminal Revision No. 286 of 1983 (State of U.P. Vs. Brijbasi Lal and another). The revisional court in order dated 18.08.1984 has allowed the revision directing the Magistrate to commit the case to the court of Sessions.

7. In pursuance to the direction of the revisional court, the case was committed to the Court of Sessions in order dated 01.07.1986 of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mainpuri.

8. Fresh charges against both the accused have been framed before the Court of Sessions on 04.08.1986. The sole surviving accused was charged for offence under Section 307 IPC.

9. The prosecution has produced in all seven witnesses. Three witnesses of fact and four formal witnesses.

10. Rajendra Singh, the informant is produced as PW-1; Shiv Kumar Singh, the injured is produced as PW-2 and Sughar Singh, eye witness is produced as PW-3; Dr. C.L. Katiyar, who has conducted medico legal examination of Shiv Kumar Singh (injured), was produced as PW-4; Hasin Akhtar, x-ray technician, who has taken out x-ray, was produced as PW-5; Constable Atma Singh, the scribe of Chik FIR and G.D., was produced as PW-6; and Sub Inspector Surendra Singh Sengar, the Investigating Officer was produced as PW-7.

11. The accused have not produced any witness in defence after recording of statement under Section 313 CrPC, wherein the accused appellant has denied having committed any offence as alleged and stated that he has been falsely implicated in the case.

THE JUDGMENT OF TRIAL COURT:-

12. The trial court has considered documentary evidence and ocular testimonies of the prosecution witnesses and held that the incident occurred at the southern door of the informant's house on 04.12.1980 at 5:00 p.m. The accused Keshav Singh @ Kallu has opened fire on the informant Rajendra Singh but Shiv Kumar Singh suffered gun shot injury, who was standing beside Rajendra Singh. The trial court did not found accused Keshav guilty of inflicting gun shot injury on Mulaim Singh, because he was neither produced before the court for his deposition nor his injury report was placed. The trial judge further held that Brijbasi Lal was instrumental in instigating and exhorting him to open fire. The trial court found consistency in the statement of informant, injured witness and eye witness and has denied their being chance witness, though it is dealt with in the judgment that injured witness and eye witness are residents of different places. There is not even an iota of discussion as to how and why the injured and eye witness were there at the house of informant Rajendra Singh. The only statement is that they often visit the house of Rajendra Singh and have no enmity with the accused. The learned trial court further found that the medico legal examination carried out by doctor is sufficient to establish that the Shiv Kumar Singh suffered gun shot injury. He found that the gun shot injury though simple in nature but suffered at the head of the injured, could be fatal to life. The learned trial court has found that the Investigating Officer has not carried out the investigation in fair and impartial manner and issued advisory to him to conduct future investigation in impartial and fair manner.

ARGUMENTS IN APPEAL:-

13. Learned counsel for appellant on being aggrieved by the observation made by the trial court in its judgment of conviction, has submitted that the incident is of District Mainpuri whereas the FIR is registered at Police Station of District Etawah. The injured Shiv Kumar Singh suffered injuries at his native place at Etawah wherein the accused appellant has been falsely implicated. The father of injured Shiv Kumar Singh, has not lodged any FIR. His statement is nowhere recorded during investigation. The incident was of winter month and according to injured, the incident occurred between 5:30 to 6:00 p.m. on 04.12.1980. It is the time of dusk. The statement of witnesses of fact is not conformity to the site plan, which has been prepared by the Investigating Officer at the instance of informant. The site plan does not show any wall in between the assailants and victim which is stated to be standing between two. There is discrepancy in the statement of witnesses pertaining to firing of two shots by Keshav Singh @ Kallu. There is no recovery of licensed gun which is stated to be used by accused in firing the detrimental shot. There is no injury report of Mulaim Singh. There is no witness from the same village, though their presence was mentioned in the FIR. It is mentioned in the FIR that the injured Shiv Kumar Singh is the resident of the same village. There is enmity between the accused appellant and informant which was a reason for false implication. The statement of eye witness and injured witness has not been recorded under Section 164 CrPC. There is no blood stained clothes recovered by the Investigating Officer. The distance between the place of incident and the place where FIR is lodged, is not mentioned. Incident is stated to be of 5:00 p.m. The injured was taken inside the house and thereafter with help of bullock cart, he was taken to Etawah from Mainpuri, despite that the FIR is lodged at 7:30 p.m. Further submits that the trial court has not rightly evaluated and appreciated the evidence on record and therefore, the accused shall be given benefit of doubt and acquitted.

14. Per contra, learned AGA submits that the incident is of attempt to murder wherein the accused appellant is held guilty for firing detrimental shot at Shiv Kumar Singh, who was present along with the informant Rajendra Singh at the southern door of his house. The prosecution has produced three witnesses of fact including the injured witness. Their statements are consistent and corroborative to each other as well as medico legal report. The trial court has rightly appreciated the testimonies of witnesses and reached to the conclusion that the detrimental shot was fired by the accused appellant. Further submits that the lapses in the investigation will not benefit the accused where the testimonies of witnesses of fact are sufficient in their deposition in establishing the case. Hence submits that the trial court has rightly convicted the accused appellant. The appeal is devoid of merit and liable to be dismissed.

APPRECIATION OF EVIDENCES:-

15. This Court has taken into consideration the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

16. The point of determination in the present appeal is whether the trial court has rightly appreciated the testimonies of witnesses of fact and reached to the right conclusion of convicting the accused appellant?

17. The two witnesses of fact namely Shiv Kumar Singh and Sughar Singh are the chance witnesses, as they were stated to be standing in front of the house of informant Rajendra Singh, when Shiv Kumar Singh suffered gun shot injury and Sughar Singh was the eye witness. The principles of law enunciated by the Hon^{ble} the Supreme Court on the point of testimonies of chance witness is reiterated underneath:-

Thangaiya v. State of T.N.2

“8. Coming to the plea of the accused that PW 3 was a □chance witness□ who has not explained how he happened to be at the alleged place of occurrence, it has to be noted that the said witness was an independent witness. There was not even a suggestion to the witness that he had any animosity towards the accused. In a murder trial by describing the independent witnesses as □chance witnesses□ it cannot be implied thereby that their evidence is suspicious and their presence at the scene doubtful. Murders are not committed with previous notice to witnesses; soliciting their presence. If murder is committed in a dwelling house, the inmates of the house are natural witnesses. If murder is committed in a street, only passers-by will be witnesses. Their evidence cannot be brushed aside or viewed with suspicion on the ground that they are mere □chance witnesses□. The expression □chance witness□ is borrowed from countries where every man's home is considered his castle and everyone must have an explanation for his presence elsewhere or in another man's castle. It is quite unsuitable an expression in a country where people are less formal and more casual, at any rate in the matter of explaining their presence. Therefore, there is no substance in the plea that PW 3's evidence which is clear and cogent is to be discarded.”

(Emphasis Supplied)

Sarvesh Narain Shukla v. Daroga Singh3

“19. We are also of the opinion that if the court comes to the conclusion that the testimony of a chance witness is credible, the evidence cannot be thrown out merely on the ground that the witness happened to be present by chance. Dangar Tewari stated that when he along with Ram Dutt Mishra had reached at the tri junction of the GT Road, Gopiganj on Mukund Lal's Bullet motorcycle they had heard sounds of firing by weapons and had seen the accused persons armed with shotguns, rifles, carbine and pistols firing at the Ambassador car after it had come to a stop after colliding with a bus coming from the Allahabad side and that the murders had been committed while the deceased were still in the car. The evidence of Ram Dutt Mishra is much to the same effect. Both these witnesses have specifically revealed the identity of the assailants and the manner of attack and explained their presence by stating that they had gone for darshan and were on their way back home. We also find that despite extensive cross-examination, no reasons are forthcoming on record as to why they would become false witnesses in a case of triple murder.”

Jarnail Singh v. State of Punjab 4

“22. The evidence of a chance witness requires a very cautious and close scrutiny and a chance witness must adequately explain his presence at the place of occurrence (Satbir v. Surat Singh, Harjinder Singh v. State of Punjab, Acharaparambath Pradeepan v. State of Karhala and Sarvesh Narain Shukla v. Daroga Singh. Deposition of a chance witness whose presence at the place of incident remains doubtful should be discarded (vide Shankarlal v. State of Rajasthan).

23. Conduct of the chance witness, subsequent to the incident may also be taken into consideration particularly as to whether he has informed anyone else in the village about the incident (vide Thangaiya v. State of T.N., Gurcharan Singh (PW 18) met the informant Darshan Singh (PW 4) before lodging the FIR and the fact of conspiracy was not disclosed by Gurcharan Singh (PW 18) and Darshan Singh (PW 4). The fact of conspiracy has not been mentioned in the FIR. Hakam Singh, the other witness on this issue has not been examined by the prosecution. Thus, the High Court was justified in discarding the part of the prosecution case relating to conspiracy. However, in the fact situation of the present case, acquittal of the said two co-accused has no bearing, so far as the present appeal is concerned. □

Harbeer Singh v. Sheeshpal 5

“23. The defining attributes of a □ chance witness □ were explained by Mahajan, J., in Puran v. State of Punjab. It was held that such witnesses have the habit of appearing suddenly on the scene when something is happening and then disappearing after noticing the occurrence about which they are called later on to give evidence.”

Suresh v. State of Haryana 6

“47. Generally, the chance witness, who reasonably explains his presence in the named location at the relevant time, may be taken into consideration and should be given due regard, if his version inspires confidence and the same is supported by surrounding circumstances. Nonetheless, the evidence of a chance witness requires a very cautious and close scrutiny. A chance witness must adequately explain his presence at the place of occurrence (refer to Satbir v. Surat Singh and Harjinder Singh v. State of Punjab. Deposition of a chance witness whose presence at the place of incident remains doubtful should be discarded (refer to Shankarlal v. State of Rajasthan). The behaviour of the chance witness, subsequent to the incident may also be taken into consideration particularly as to whether he has informed anyone else in the village about the incident (refer to Thangaiya v. State of T.N. [Thangaiya v. State of T.N.]).

18. The principles explained in the above quoted judgments is that the testimony of chance witness cannot be discarded but the witness required a very cautious and close scrutiny. If from the testimony it is inferred that the presence of chance witness is doubtful at the place of occurrence then his testimony would have been discarded. Hence the testimony of two chance witnesses namely Shiv Kumar Singh and Sughar Singh is required to be closely scrutinized.

19. PW-2 Shiv Kumar Singh in his examination-in-chief has stated that the incident occurred at 5:30 to 6:00 p.m., whereas the consistent statement of PW-1 Rajendra Singh and PW-3 Sughar Singh reveals that the incident is of 5:00 p.m. PW-2 further deposed that Keshav and Brijbasi were levelling the foundation. Whereas PW-1 Rajendra Singh has attributed the work of levelling the foundation only on Keshav Singh @ Kallu. PW-2 further states that Rajendra Singh stopped Keshav Singh @ Kallu and Brijbasi Lal from levelling the foundation on which Brijbasi started abusing Rajendra Singh. PW-1 Rajendra Singh in his testimony has not assigned the role of abuse him on Brijbasi either in his testimony or in the first information report. PW-2 further deposed that he has stopped them from hurling abuses. PW-1 Rajendra Singh in his testimony and FIR has not disclosed that Shiv Kumar Singh has stopped Brijbasi or Keshav Singh @ Kallu from hurling abuses. PW-2 in his testimony further exaggerated his presence by showing that upon his opposing Brijbasi from hurling abuse Keshav had fired shot at him on the exhortation of Brijbasi, who exhorts that □ज्यादा बक बक करता है, मार साले को तभी केशव ने गोली चलाई□. Whereas the role of exhortation attributed on Brijbasi Lal to instigate Keshav Singh @ Kallu to fire shot at Rajendra Singh and not at Shiv Kumar Singh. PW-1 Rajendra Singh in his testimony has also admitted the exhortation which he has mentioned in FIR. On the contrary, Rajendra Singh PW-1 has stated that the shot was fired at Rajendra Singh but Shiv Kumar Singh was standing beside him as such he suffered gun shot injury, whereas Shiv Kumar Singh has in his testimony taken a lead role. The examination-in-chief of PW-2 Shiv Kumar Singh is entirely in contrast with the examination-in-chief of PW-1 Rajendra Singh. During cross examination of PW-2 has stated that there is no enmity with the accused appellant. His statement has not been recorded by the Investigating Officer. He refuted the suggestion that he suffered injuries at Raja Ke Baag, Etawah. He has admitted that his father has not lodged any FIR. He has stated that he and Mulaim Singh were at a distance of a hand. There were two shots fired. Blood was splitted. He has given description about gun by which the accused has fired at him. Whereas Rajendra Singh PW-1 has stated that there was only one fire. The inconsistency in the statement of this witness is further to be looked into when the statement of other witnesses of fact is taken to consideration.

20. PW-3 Sughar Singh in his examination in chief has stated that he was sitting on the platform situated at the south of the house of Mulaim Singh where Mulaim Singh, Bharat Singh and Rajendra Singh were sitting, Shiv Kumar Singh was standing, Brijbasi Lal and Keshav Singh @ Kallu came to the disputed plot and started levelling the foundation. Rajendra Singh has stopped them on which Brijbasi Lal and Keshav Singh @ Kallu started abusing. Shiv Kumar Singh when objected for hurling abuse, Brijbasi Lal exhorted Keshav Singh @ Kallu to open fire at Shiv Kumar Singh on which Keshav Singh @ Kallu has fired at Shiv Kumar Singh, who suffered gun shot injury. He is not aware whether any other persons suffered gun shot injury. This witness is of Village Kausari Khera. He is stated to be sitting along with Mulaim Singh and is not aware whether Mulaim Singh suffered gun shot injury or not, though PW-1 has stated that Mulaim also suffered gun shot injury which came to know in the next morning when he returned home. In his cross examination, he has stated that there was only one fire. He was there for half an hour. Both witnesses PW-2 and PW-3 have stated differently about the place of occurrence from the place of occurrence shown in the site plan. The Investigating Officer PW-7 Sub Inspector Surendra Singh Sengar has prepared the site plan and showed that the foundation is on the East of the house of informant Rajendra Singh and West to the house of Brijbasi Lal, lying in the middle of their houses in North South direction there was no wall shown between the two houses except the foundation. The platform is shown on the North of the house of informant where Mulaim Singh was shown present at place □D□. The injured Shiv Kumar Singh was shown standing at place □A□ along with Rajendra Singh on the eastern door of the house of Rajendra Singh. The distance between Rajendra Singh and Shiv Kumar Singh with Mulaim Singh is 40 paces, though it is stated by the witnesses that Mulaim Singh was sitting adjacent to, where Rajendra Singh was standing along with other persons namely Shiv Kumar Singh, Sughar Singh, Lal Ji, Shyam Singh, Hakim Singh. It is pertinent to point here that the name of Hakim Singh is not shown in the FIR. In the site plan, two places have been shown from where accused Keshav has fired at Shiv Kumar Singh and at Mulaim Singh. From place □B□ Keshav has fired at Shiv Kumar Singh at place □A□ at a distance of 25 paces. From place □C□ he has fired at Mulaim at place □D□. There is discrepancy in the statement of witness pertaining to two shots fired by Keshav Singh @ Kallu.

21. PW-1 Rajendra Singh has stated that Shiv Kumar Singh is his nephew son of cousin sister. He stated that there is discrepancy in the site plan which he has denied being prepared by the Investigating Officer at his instance. He stated that at the time of incident, he was standing at the south eastern corner of his house. The site plan shows that he is on the eastern side of his house. He has stated that his father is at a distance 2 to 4 paces from him. He has stated about one shot fired by Keshav Singh @ Kallu. At no stretch of imagination it could be perceived that in a single shot fired two persons are injured one at standing position and one on a sitting position. Shiv Kumar Singh suffered injuries on his head whereas Mulaim Singh suffered injuries on his leg. He has stated that the firing was behind the wall. There is no wall between the two houses.

22. PW-4, Dr. C.K. Katiyar has stated in his examination in chief that he has conducted medico legal examination of injured Shiv Kumar Singh. He found four gun shot injuries on the person of injured Shiv Kumar Singh which he has examined at 19:45 p.m. on 04.12.1980. He found that injury no. 3 is the exit wound of injury no. 2. Injury nos. 2 and 3 are simple in nature. The injuries on the person of Shiv Kumar Singh are reiterated underneath:-

1. A gun shot wound of entry 0.4 cm x 0.4 cm x scalp deep on the left side of front of head. 4.5 cm above the outer and of left eye brow. Margins are inverted, contused, lacerated. The wound directed back wards. Soft clotted (fresh) blood is present.

2. Gun shot wound of entry 0.5 cm x 0.4 cm x scalp deep on the left side of head. 11 cm above the left ear. Margins are inverted, contused and lacerated and the wound is directed back-wards. Fresh clotted blood is present.

3. Gun shot wound of exit 0.5 cm x 0.5 cm x communicating freely with the injury no. 2. on the left side of the head. 4 cm behind the injury no. 2 margins are everted and lacerated. Fresh clotted blood is present.

4. Three gun shot wounds of entries in an area of 4cm x 3 cm on the front and middle part of the head. 9 cm.. above the ridge of nose. Each wound is measuring 0.4 cm x 0.4 cm into scalp deep. Margins are inverted contused and lacerated. Wounds are directed back wards. Fresh soft clotted blood is present. Injury no. one and 4 are under observation. Advised x-ray.

All the injuries are caused by some fire arm. Injury no. 2 and 3 are simple. Restore Kuo Advised x-ray.

Duration- All the injuries are fresh.

23. PW-5 Hasin Akhtar the x-ray technician has stated that he is the x-ray technician and proved x-ray plates. He submits that the x-ray report was prepared by Dr. R. C. Sharma and proved the report as exhibit Ka-3, in secondary evidence. The x-ray report reveals the multiple radiopaque F-B metallic shadow rounded spike shaped. PW-4 Dr. C.L. Katiyar stated that the injuries are simple in nature but dangerous to life.

24. Considering the statement of Dr. C.L. Katiyar, it is found that the injured Shiv Kumar Singh suffered gun shot injury on his vital part of body, which are sufficient to cause death though they are simple in nature but so far as the point is whether those injuries have been inflicted by accused Keshav, is concerned, the testimonies of three witnesses are inconsistent in nature. Moreover, the Investigating Officer who is part of prosecution witness and has collected material, prepared the site plan has stated differently in respect to the place of occurrence. The trail of blood from the place of occurrence has not been recovered. The mattress which was put on bullock cart and injured was taken to the police station and then to the hospital from that bullock cart. The blood stained mattress, the blood stained clothes and the blood stained earth were not recovered by the Investigating Officer.

25. On the point of taking into possession the blood stained earth and clothes during the investigation, Hon^{ble} the Supreme Court in catena of judgments has elaborated the principles wherein it is held that merely the faulty investigation will not be beneficiary to the accused, if the evidence of eye witnesses is consistent, reliable, trustworthy and cogent.

Dhanaj Singh v. State of Punjab 7

“5. In the case of a defective investigation the court has to be circumspect in evaluating the evidence. But it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigating officer if the investigation is designedly defective.”

Motilal v. State of Rajasthan⁸

“11.□It is true that a faulty investigation cannot be a determinative factor and would not be sufficient to throw out a credible prosecution version. But in the instant case there is no explanation offered even to explain the discrepancies.”

State of U.P. v. Wasif Haider 9

“24. In the present case, the cumulative effect of the aforesaid investigative lapses has fortified the presumption of innocence in favour of the respondent-accused. In such cases, the benefit of doubt arising out of a faulty investigation accrues in favour of the accused.

25. □ Although we acknowledge the gravity of the offence alleged against the respondent-accused and the unfortunate fact of a senior official losing his life in furtherance of his duty we cannot overlook the fact that the lapses in the investigation have disabled the prosecution to prove the culpability of the accused. The accused cannot be expected to relinquish his innocence at the hands of an inefficacious prosecution, which is ridden with investigative deficiencies. The benefit of doubt arising out of such inefficient investigation, must be bestowed upon the accused.”

Madan v. State of U.P. 10

“68. □ Another submission on behalf of the appellants is with regard to faulty investigation. No doubt that there have been certain lacunae in the police investigation. However, the evidence of eyewitnesses is consistent, reliable, trustworthy and cogent. Merely because there are certain lacunae in the investigation, it cannot be a ground to disbelieve the testimony of eyewitnesses. In this respect, we may refer to the observations of this Court in □ Karnel Singh □ v. □ State of M.P.”

“5. Notwithstanding our unhappiness regarding the nature of investigation, we have to consider whether the evidence on record, even on strict scrutiny, establishes the guilt. In cases of defective investigation the court has to be circumspect in evaluating the evidence but it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigating officer if the investigation is designedly defective.”

Edakkandi Dineshan v. State of Karhala 11

“26. □ A cumulative reading of the entire evidence on record suggests that the investigation has not taken place in a proper and disciplined manner. There are various areas where a proper investigation could have strengthened its case. In □ Paras Yadav □ v. □ State of Bihar.

“8. □ the lapse on the part of the investigating officer should not be taken in favour of the accused. It may be that such lapse is committed designedly or because of negligence. Hence, the prosecution evidence is required to be examined dehors such omissions to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not. For this purpose, it would be worthwhile to quote the following observations of this Court from □ Ram Bihari Yadav □ v. □ State of Bihar”

“13. □ In such cases, the story of the prosecution will have to be examined dehors such omissions and contaminated conduct of the officials otherwise the mischief which was deliberately done would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party and this would obviously shake the confidence of the people not merely in the law-enforcing agency but also in the administration of justice. □ “

27.□Hence, the principle of law is crystal clear that on the account of defective investigation the benefit will not inure to the accused persons on that ground alone. It is well within the domain of the courts to consider the rest of the evidence which the prosecution has gathered such as statement of the eyewitnesses, medical report, etc. It has been a consistent stand of this Court that the accused cannot claim acquittal on the ground of faulty investigation done by the prosecuting agency. As the version of eyewitnesses in specifically naming the appellants have been consistent throughout the trial, we find that there is enough corroboration to drive home the guilt of the accused persons. When the testimony of PW 1 Jitesh, PW 2 and PW 4 is seen cumulatively, their versions can be seen to be corroborating each other. All of them being eyewitnesses, what is material to be seen is their stand is consistent when they said that it was A-2 who was responsible for inflicting blows on both the deceased. It may not be out of place to mention that though the unfortunate incident took place at midnight around 1 a.m., it was a full moon night and as such, it was not pitch dark. This has also not been vehemently disputed by the defence counsel. Hence, the version put forth by the prosecution witnesses inspires confidence of this Court. The specific role attributed by the prosecution witnesses cannot be challenged on extraneous grounds which have been raised by the defence. There is no contradiction when it comes to assigning specific role to the above accused. Admittedly, there was an enmity between the witnesses as they were from different political groups. Moreover, it can be seen from the record that the accused and the witnesses were well acquainted with each other as PW 1, PW 2 and PW 4 had defected from CPI and had joined RSS. The witnesses could have tried to implicate anyone had they wished to take advantage of their past acquaintance and recent rivalry.”

26. It is true that faulty investigation will not be of any help to the accused appellant. In the present case, the Investigating Officer has also not collected the weapon or sent it to the ballistic report. It is clear from the prosecution case that the accused appellant had used the gun of his grand father Subedar Singh. It would be opt to consider the principles enunciated by Hon□ble the Supreme Court on the point of recovery of weapon. The same rulings are reiterated underneath:-

Mano v. State of T.N. 12

“16. Even if the recovery of the weapons as claimed was after a long period and those were not sent for forensic examination that does not in any way dilute the evidentiary value of the prosecution version.”

Abdulwahab Abdulmajid Baloch v. State of Gujarat 13

“37. Be that as it may, we feel that only because the recovery of a weapon was made and the expert opined that the bullet found in the body of the deceased was fired from one of the weapons seized, by itself cannot be the sole premise on which a judgment of conviction under Section 302 could be recorded. There was no direct evidence. The accused, as noticed hereinbefore, was charged not only under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the Penal Code but also under Section 302 read with Section 120-B thereof. The murder of the deceased was said to have been committed by all the accused persons upon hatching a conspiracy. This charge has not been proved.

38. The learned trial Judge himself opined that the recovery having been made after nine months, the weapon might have changed in many hands. In absence of any other evidence connecting the accused with commission of crime of murder of the deceased, in our opinion, it is not possible to hold that the appellant on the basis of such slander evidence could have been found guilty for commission of offence punishable under Section 302 of the Penal Code.”

Jagroop Singh v. State of Punjab 14

“34. In the case at hand, the accused persons were arrested after 18 days and recovery was made at that time. The bloodstain found on the weapon has been found in the serological report as human blood. In Sattatiya the recovery was doubted and additionally, non-matching of blood group was treated to be a lacuna. It is worth noting that the clothes and the weapon were sent immediately for chemical examination. Here the weapon was sent after 18 days as the recovery was made after that period. The accused have not given explanation as to how human blood could be found on the spade used for agriculture which was recovered at their instance. In this context, we may profitably reproduce a passage from John Pandian v. State.

“57. □ The discovery appears to be credible. It has been accepted by both the courts below and we find no reason to discard it. This is apart from the fact that this weapon was sent to the forensic science laboratory (FSL) and it has been found stained with human blood. Though the blood group could not be ascertained, as the results were inconclusive, the accused had to give some explanation as to how the human blood came on this weapon. He gave none. This discovery would very positively further the prosecution case.”

35. Thus viewed, we do not find any substantial reason to disbelieve the disclosure statement and the recovery of the weapon used. It is apt to mention here that the doctor, who has conducted the post-mortem, has clearly opined that the injuries on the person of the deceased could be caused by the weapon (blade of such spade) and the said opinion has gone unrebutted.

Ram Singh v. State of U.P. 15

27. □ In □ Munna Lal □ v. □ State of U.P. □ , this Court opined that since no weapon of offence was seized in that case, no ballistic report was called for and obtained. This Court took the view that failure to seize the weapon of offence on the facts and in the circumstances of the case, had the effect of denting the prosecution story so much so that the same together with non-examination of material witnesses constituted a vital circumstance amongst others for granting the appellants the benefit of doubt. □

CONCLUSION:-

27. Upon marshalling the entire evidence on record including the testimonies of the witnesses of fact and injured witness in the light of judicial pronouncements, this Court is of the view that the two chance witnesses Shiv Kumar Singh and Sughar Singh were not only inconsistent in their statements as to the occurrence, but also in conflict with the statement of informant Rajendra Singh. The prosecution has also failed to show the reason of their being at the place of incident the prosecution version culled out from the testimonies of three witnesses of fact is not inspiring confidence in the truthfulness of the prosecution case, as discussed. If the site plan, non collection of blood stained cloth, earth and weapon is taken to consideration, it is found that the injured and informant have narrated different role of accused Brijbasi and Keshav. Where

PW-1 deposed that Brijbasi has exhorted Keshav to fire at him. PW-2 and PW-3 have stated that Brijbasi has exhorted Keshav to fire at Shiv Kumar Singh. Further, taking of injured to District Etawah from District Mainpuri also creates doubt that despite Police Station- Karhal is nearer to the place of occurrence why the injured was taken to P.S.- Jaswant Nagar, Etawah. The injured is the resident of Etawah could be the reason of taking him to Etawah. The prosecution fail to establish that the licensed gun of Subedar Singh is used in the incident. There is discrepancies on the point of two shots fired and injury caused to two persons in one shot. Therefore, there is no clinching evidence against the accused to convict him for the offence of attempt to murder. Hence the accused is entitled for benefit of doubt and shall be acquitted.

28. In the case of *Jitendra Kumar Mishra alias Jittu Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh*¹⁶ Hon'ble the Supreme Court held that an appellate court should be slow in interfering with conviction recorded by courts below but where evidence on record indicates that prosecution has failed to prove guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt and that a plausible view, different from one expressed by trial court, can be taken. The appellate court should not shy away in giving benefit of doubt to the accused.

29. Thus, the judgment of conviction and sentence dated 26.06.1987 passed by IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Mainpuri in Session Trial No. 165 of 1986 (State Vs. Brijbasi Lal and another) P.S.- Karhal, District- Mainpuri, under Section 307 IPC, is hereby set aside.

30. The appellant no. 2 Keshav Singh @ Kallu S/o Brijbasi Lal, is acquitted for offence under Section 307 IPC.

31. Accordingly, the criminal appeal is allowed.

32. The material exhibits shall be disposed of as per law.

33. The accused appellant is on bail. His sureties executed bail bonds are discharged.

34. The record remitted, forthwith, as per law.

Criminal Appeal No. 1779 of 1984

Lakhi Pal & Ors.

State of U.P.

...Appellants

Versus

...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the appellants, in furtherance of their common intention, committed the murder of the deceased and caused injuries to the injured witness, and whether the objections regarding delay in lodging the FIR, ante-timing of the FIR, contradictions relating to inquest proceedings, place of occurrence, recovery of weapon and appreciation of evidence render the prosecution case doubtful. (Paras 53-96)

Headnotes

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -S. 154 -First Information Report -Testimony regarding reaching the hospital and thereafter the Police Station corroborated by injury report and check FIR -FIR lodged promptly -plea of delay and ante-timing held without force. (Paras 54,55,68,69,70)

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -S. 154 -First Information Report -Mere fact that the informant initially approached a Constable and thereafter submitted a written application would not render the oral version the first information -written application which moved the machinery of law and upon which investigation commenced constituted the First Information Report. (Para 57)

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -S. 174 -Inquest report-non-mentioning of names of appellants in the inquest report and connected papers does not lead to an inference that the FIR was not in existence -names of accused are not required under law to be incorporated in the inquest report. (Paras 59,60,61,62)

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -S. 174 -Inquest report-Contradictions regarding time of holding inquest and dispatch of dead body for autopsy held not very material -delay, if any, in preparing the inquest report and taking the dead body to the hospital for autopsy does not shake the otherwise sound foundation of the prosecution case. (Paras 63,64,65,66)

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 -First Information Report -Delay, if any, in reaching the FIR to the Court for signature by the Magistrate not material where documentary evidence establishes existence of the FIR and related papers before commencement of post-mortem examination. (Paras 67,68,69,70)

Indian Evidence Act, 1872 -Appreciation of Evidence -Place of occurrence -Consistent testimony of prosecution witnesses and site-plan prepared by the Investigating Officer fully corroborated the prosecution version and established the place of occurrence. (Paras 71,72,73,75)

Indian Evidence Act, 1872 -Injured Witness -Testimony of injured witness carries great evidentiary value and when corroborated by other eye-witnesses and documentary evidence forms a reliable basis for conviction. (Paras 76,77,78,79)

Indian Evidence Act, 1872 -Motive -In a case of direct evidence motive loses its significance -absence of proof of any immediate motive is of no relevance where eye-witnesses have fully supported the prosecution case. (Paras 81,82,83,84,85,86)

Indian Penal Code, 1860 -S. 452 -Parties residing in the same Gher and occurrence taking place within the common residential enclosure -technically offence under S. 452 IPC not made out and the case not one of house trespass. (Para 86)

Indian Evidence Act, 1872 -Appreciation of Evidence -Minor contradictions regarding manner of assault or injuries which do not go to the root of the matter and do not shake the basic version of witnesses cannot be annexed with undue importance. (Paras 87,88,89,91)

Indian Evidence Act, 1872 -Related Witness -Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness -evidence of a natural witness cannot be discarded merely because of relationship with the deceased. (Paras 90,91)

Indian Evidence Act, 1872 -S. 27 -Recovery of knife at the pointing out of an accused from the place of concealment proved through independent witness and Investigating Officer -recovery admissible in evidence and corroborative of the prosecution case. (Paras 92,93)

Indian Penal Code, 1860 -Ss. 302/34 and 324/34 -Ocular testimony supported by medical evidence -prosecution proved beyond reasonable doubt that the appellants, in furtherance of their common intention, attacked the deceased and caused injuries to the injured witness by sharp-edged weapons -conviction and sentence affirmed. (Paras 93,94,95,96)

Held: The FIR was lodged promptly and was not ante-timed - the written application on the basis of which investigation commenced constituted the First Information Report - non-mentioning of names of appellants in the inquest report does not create any suspicion regarding the prosecution case - contradictions relating to the time of holding the inquest and dispatch of the dead body for autopsy are not material and do not shake the otherwise solid foundation of the prosecution case - the place of occurrence stands fully established by oral and documentary evidence including the site-plan - the testimony of the injured witness and other eye-witnesses is natural, consistent and trustworthy - in a case of direct evidence motive loses its significance and absence of proof of immediate motive has no relevance - minor contradictions do not go to the root of the matter and cannot affect the basic version of the prosecution witnesses - recovery of the weapon of assault at the pointing out of an accused is admissible and corroborative - ocular testimony is fully supported by medical evidence - the prosecution have proved beyond reasonable doubt that the appellants, in furtherance of their common intention, attacked and murdered the deceased and caused injuries to the injured witness by a sharp-edged weapon - conviction and sentence under Ss. 302 read with 34 and 324 read with 34 IPC call for no interference and deserve affirmation - appeal dismissed. (Paras 54-70,71-75,76-79,81-96) (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjiv Kumar, J.)

1. This instant Criminal Appeal by the appellants Lakhi Pal, Satya Pal, Rishi Pal and Shri @ Jain is directed against the judgment and order dated 30.06.1984 passed by Mr. Y.S. Raizada, the then III Additional Sessions Judge, Ghaziabad in Sessions Trial No. 328 of 1983 (arising out of Case Crime No. 203 of 1993), under Sections 324, 325, 452 and 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC, Police Station Dadri, District Ghaziabad.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, all the appellants were found guilty, convicted and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life for the offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and two and a half years $\square$ rigorous imprisonment for the offence punishable under Section 324 read with Section 34 IPC. The Trial Court acquitted all the appellants of the offence punishable under Section 452 IPC. It was ordered that both the sentences shall run concurrently.

3. During the pendency of this appeal, appellant no.4, Shri @ Jain died and this appeal on his behalf was abated vide order dated 18.08.2025. Now this appeal survives on behalf of appellants nos.1, 2 and 3, to wit, Lakhi Pal, Satya Pal, Rishi Pal.

4. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that informant, Anil Kumar, son of Shri Shyama Singh, resident of village Senthli, Police Station Dadri, District Ghaziabad, filed a written application (tahrir) dated 02.08.1983 (Ext. Ka-2), before the Station House Officer, Police Station Dadri, District Ghaziabad, stating therein that he is serving in Army and currently posted in the Technical Branch. On 08.07.1983, he had come home on 64 days leave. There was a dispute with regard to 03-03 $\square$ bigha of land between his brother and his cousins (Tau's sons). His cousins did not want to share any part of the said land and due to the issue, yesterday i.e. 01.08.1983, a dispute arose between his brother and Rishi Pal and Lakhi Pal, which was pacified somehow. Yesterday evening, another cousin of his Rishi Pal, who is also in the army, came home on leave. Today i.e. 02.08.1983 at 06:30 p.m., Satya Pal, Rishi Pal, Shri @ Jain entered his house, armed with lathi, knives and khukhri and attacked him as well as his brother with an intention to kill. Lakhi Pal and Satya Pal stabbed his brother Gulbir with knives, Rishi Pal attacked with the Khukhri and Shri @ Jain assaulted with the lathi. Rishi Pal attacked him with the Khukhri, as a result of which his right hand's fingers were chopped off.

5. It is further alleged in the FIR that, upon alarm raised by him and his children, Rajbir Singh son of Tej Pal Singh and Ajab Singh son of Harvansh and others reached the place of occurrence. Beerbala and Neeti, wife and daughter of Gulbir Singh respectively, and Bina wife of Satendra were already present in the house, who witnessed the incident and saved them. He took his brother to Dadri with the help of villagers. In the hospital, the doctor declared his brother Gulbir dead and did his (the informant's) medical examination. It was said that he had come to the police station with his brother Gulbir Singh's dead body along with the villagers to lodge an FIR. The dead body was lying in front of the police station.

6. On the basis of the said written application, a check FIR (Ext. Ka-4), with Case Crime No. 203 of 1983, under sections 302, 325, 452, 324 IPC was registered against Lakhi Pal, Rishi Pal, Satya Pal and Shri @ Jain at Police Station Dadri, District Ghaziabad on 02.08.1983 at 10:00 p.m.

7. After registration of the FIR, investigation commenced. The Investigating Officer reached the place of occurrence and collected blood-stained earth, plain earth and also blood-stained slippers of the deceased, which he sealed in two separate boxes and prepared a recovery memo (Ext. Ka-15). The Investigating Officer arrested the appellants Satya Pal, Lakhi Pal and Rishi Pal on 03.08.1983 at about 12:00 noon. The appellant Lakhi Pal confessed to his crime and said that the knife, which he had employed in the assault was in his possession and which he concealed in a fodder bag (Bhuse ki bongi).

8. Upon this information, the Investigating Officer secured public witnesses and, at the pointing out of the accused Lakhi Pal, recovered a blood-stained knife from the fodder bag, which he sealed in a cloth and prepared a recovery memo (Ext. Ka-3).

9. The injured Anil Kumar was medically examined at P.H.C., Dadri and the doctor drew up an injury report (Ext. Ka-1). The inquest for the deceased Gulbir was held and an inquest report prepared along with other related papers. Thereafter, the dead body was sent for autopsy. Five ante-mortem injuries of the nature of incised wound and a healed scar on the right side scalp were found over the body and, in the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was shock and haemorrhage, as a result of ante-mortem injuries. The Investigating Officer recorded statements of informant and other witnesses. He also inspected the place of occurrence and prepared a site plan (Ext. Ka-14). The Investigating Officer also sent blood-stained knife for chemical examination. As per chemical analysis report, blood was found over a large part of it.

10. After completion of investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted a charge-sheet (Ext. Ka-17), under Sections 302, 324, 325 and 452 IPC before the Magistrate. The learned Magistrate took cognizance of the offence and summoned the appellants. The appellants appeared before the learned Magistrate and the Court furnished them copies of relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C. and thereafter, committed the case to the Court of Sessions for trial.

11. The accused appeared before the Sessions Court and charges under Sections 452, 302/34 and 325/34 IPC were framed against all the appellants. The appellants abjured the said charges, pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

12. The prosecution examined as many as nine witnesses to prove their case namely, P.W.1 Dr. P.K. Sharma, P.W.2 Anil Kumar (informant), P.W.3 Smt. Beerbala (wife of deceased Gulbir), P.W.4 Rajbir Singh, P.W.5 Constable Sukhpal Singh, P.W.6, Dr. R.L. Saraswat, P.W.7 S.I. Hari Dutta Sharma, P.W.8 Prem Pal Singh Chauhan (Investigating Officer) and P.W.9 Constable Prem Dutta Gautam. Their testimonies, in brief, are as under.

13. P.W.1 Dr. P.K. Sharma, Medical Officer, conducted medical examination of informant/injured Anil Kumar. He has said that on 02.08.1983 at about 09:45 p.m., he examined injuries of Anil Kumar, while being posted as Medical Officer at P.H.C., Dadri, Ghaziabad and found following injuries:

(i) Incised wound of the size of 2 cm x 0.5 cm x muscle deep at the outer side of thumb of the right hand. Bleeding was present.

(ii) Incised wound 1 cm x 0.5 cm x muscle deep over nail of right finger of the right hand. Bleeding was present.

(iii) Incised wound 2 cm x 0.5 cm x bone deep at the base of nail of index finger of his right hand. X-ray was advised.

14. In the opinion of the doctor, injury nos. 1 and 3 were caused by a sharp-edged weapon, such as a knife or a khukhri, whereas injury no.2 was caused by a blunt object. Injury no.2 was simple in nature, however, injury nos. 1 and 3 were kept under observation and an x-ray examination was advised. He has proved Anil Kumar's injury report as Ext. Ka-1 and said that these injuries could have been caused on 02.08.1983 between 06:00 and 06:30 p.m.

15. In his cross-examination, P.W.1 has said that injury nos. 2 and 3 could be caused by knives. He does not remember if somebody else had accompanied the injured Anil Kumar or not. He could tell about it only after perusing the record.

16. P.W.2 Anil Kumar is the informant as well as an injured witness in this case. He has supported the prosecution case and said that all the accused are his cousins (tau's sons). He deposed that he had four brothers, including Gulbir and all of them, including the appellants, reside within the same residential compound. There is a dispute relating to 03-03 □ bigha of land between him and accused. One day prior to the incident, an altercation took place between them over the said land. He further said that this land is situated at a short distance from village Senthli, towards the road. The appellants were unwilling to part with the said land and wanted to retain it themselves, which resulted in animosity between them. He further said that on 02.08.1983 at about 06:00 or 06:30 p.m., he and his brother Gulbir were sitting in house near the kitchen. He has also said that he is employed with the Army in the Technical Branch as a mechanic and had come to his village on leave. At the time, all the four accused arrived there. Out of them Lakhi Pal and Satya Pal were armed with knives, Rishi Pal was armed with khukhri and Shri @ Jain was armed with a lathi. All the four accused persons attacked them, whereupon they ran to save their lives. Lakhi Pal and Satya Pal inflicted knife blows upon Gulbir, while Rishi Pal stabbed him with a khukhri. Gulbir got injured and when P.W.2 Anil Kumar attempted to rescue his brother, Rishi Pal attacked him with the khukhri, causing him injuries. At the time of incident, his sister-in-law Beerbala wife of Gulbir and Bina wife of Satendra were also present. Upon their alarm, Rajbir, Ajab Singh and others also reached there, whereupon the accused fled from the place of occurrence.

17. It is further testified by P.W.2 that he took his brother Gulbir to the Dadri Hospital, where the doctor declared him dead and did a medical examination for the informant. Thereafter, he took his brother's dead body to Police Station Dadri along with others. As his right hand was injured, he got the application scribed by Rajbir, and then affixed his left hand's thumb impression thereon. The witness has proved the written application (tahrir) as Ext. Ka-2. During his deposition, a knife from a sealed bundle was taken out in Court, to which the witness said that it is the same knife with which Lakhi Pal had employed to cause injuries. The said knife was proved as Material Ext. 1.

18. P.W.2 Anil Kumar, in his cross-examination, has said that there are six or seven co-sharers of his house namely Shyam Singh, Ajit Singh, Mathan Singh, Kubi Singh and Tejpal Singh. The house was partitioned prior to his birth. The accused are sons of Ajit Singh, who is still alive. He further said that their house bears the same number with no wall in between. They never litigated regarding the partition of land. Ajab Singh did not accompany them to the police station, but his son Onkar went there. After about 2-2½ hours from the time of occurrence, they proceeded from the village to Police Station Dadri, which is 8-9 kilometres away. He further said that first they reached the hospital and thereafter proceeded to the police station. It took 1½-2 hours to reach the police station. They reached the hospital at about 09:00 p.m., and thereafter, reached the police station at about 09:30-09:45 p.m. He further deposed that his application was written outside the gate of the police station and it took 30 to 45 minutes for its preparation. He remained in the police station the entire night and sat near his brother's dead body. In the morning, inquest was done and prepared a report. He remained there till 08:00 a.m. and all through out this period of time, the dead body was lying outside the police station. From there, he was sent to the hospital and returned after one week to his house. In the meantime, he did not go to his village or the post-mortem house. Rajbir parted company at the police station on 03.08.1983.

19. P.W.2 further said that there is a door to the north of his house and a kitchen in front of his door and near the staircase. His brother was murdered on the staircase by the appellants. He himself was beaten on the lower portion of staircase. Gulbir could climb only one step of the staircase, when the appellants attacked and killed him. There was blood over the staircase and Gulbir fell after getting injured. The appellant Rishi Pal had attacked Gulbir with a Khukhri. Written application (Ext. Ka-2) was scribed by Rajbir himself. At the time of inquest, there was no bandage over the body of the deceased.

20. P.W.3 Smt. Beerbala is the deceased Gulbir's wife. She has deposed that at the relevant time, she was cooking in the kitchen. Her sister-in-law (Devrani), Bina, was present there. Her brother-in-law (Devar) and husband, Gulbir Singh, were also present there. At that time, Lakhi Pal, Satya Pal, Rishi Pal and Shri @ Jain arrived there. Satya Pal and Lakhi Pal were armed with knives and Rishi Pal was armed with a khukhri whereas Shri @ Jain wielded a lathi. They battered her husband Gulbir. Her husband ran to save his life towards the staircase and could climb only one step, when Lakhi Pal and Satya Pal attacked him with knives. Rishi Pal hit him with the khukhri and Shri with the lathi. There were blows from knives over Gulbir's chest and the lathi hit his head. When her brother-in-law Anil ran to save Gulbir, then Rishi Pal attacked him with the khukhri, in consequence whereof his right hand's fingers and thumb were chopped off. Upon hue and cry that entailed, Rajbir and Ajab Singh also reached at the spot.

21. P.W.3 has further said that prior to the above incident, all the four appellants had quarrelled with her husband as well as Anil Kumar regarding an issue over 3-3½ bigha of land. She also said that her husband was taken to Dadri Hospital, where the doctor declared him dead.

22. In her cross-examination, P.W.3 said that from the hospital, she went to the police station, but remained at the doorstep of the police station. She was crying and weeping. The dead body of her husband remained at the police station till the next morning. It is further said that she does not know whether any policeman came near the dead body. She herself did not see any policeman near the dead body. At 08:00-09:00 a.m., she returned to her village. She has further deposed that soon after entering inside the house, the appellants started beating her husband and attacked him with knives, khukhri and lathi. There were 4-5 blows by knives and her husband was beaten under the staircase and nowhere else. Her husband was not beaten in the courtyard. The Khukhri was of the size of about one and a half feet long. She had seen the injury caused by khukhri over Gulbir's chest and injuries caused by lathi over his forehead. At the time her husband was attacked, she ran to save him. She, however, did not fallen upon him.

23. P.W.4 Rajbir Singh has said that the families of the informant and the appellants live in the same mansion (haveli). At about 06:00-06:30 p.m., on the date of occurrence, he was in his courtyard with Ajab Singh. All the four appellants were quarrelling with Gulbir Singh and Anil Singh. Lakhi Pal and Satya Pal were carrying knives, Rishi Pal had on him a khukhri and Shri was wielding a lathi. Gulbir ran towards the staircase, but at the first step, he was killed. Lakhi Pal, Satya Pal attacked Gulbir with knives and Jain with the lathi. When Anil attempted to save Gulbir, Rishi Pal attacked him with the khukhri, as a result whereof his fingers were chopped off. Lakhi Pal was arrested before him and at his pointing out, a knife was recovered from a house near the mansion, kept in a fodder bag. The witness has proved the recovered knife as Material Ext. 1 and said that its recovery memo was prepared at the spot, which he proved as Ext. Ka-3.

24. In his cross-examination, P.W.4 has said that Om Pal Singh was Major in Army. The appellant Shri @ Jain is handicapped in his right leg. He has denied the suggestion that Station Officer Chauhan came to the village prior to this incident. He has further said that the police reached the place of occurrence and collected blood-stained earth from site. He remained at the police station the entire night and had reached there at 10:00-11:00 p.m. No inquest was held in the night. Till 06:00 a.m., he was at the police station and in the morning his signatures were obtained on the inquest report. The Gulbir's cadaver was sent for autopsy at 06:00 or 07:00 a.m., and thereafter, he left for his house. The khukhri was about one and a half feet long and it's iron blade was straight; not curved. He did not see the appellant Lakhi Pal attacking Gulbir and Rishi Pal hitting him with a khukhri. He further said that the appellant Rishi Pal had hit with a khukhri alone. Lakhi Pal and Satya Pal attacked the deceased with knives, when he was on the staircase. There were three to four knife injuries on the deceased Gulbir's abdomen.

25. P.W.5 Constable Sukh Pal Singh is a formal witness, who scribed the check FIR (Ext. Ka-4) on the basis of the written application Ext. Ka-2. He said that he entered its gist in G.D. No. 45 dated 02.08.1983 at 10:00 p.m. He has proved a copy of G.D. as Ext. Ka-5. He, in his cross-examination, has said that on 02.08.1983 at 01:15 a.m. a case under Sections 353 and 427 IPC was registered and, later on 03.08.1983 at 10:00 a.m., another case under Sections 457 and 380 IPC was registered at the police station. At about 10:00 p.m. on 02.08.1983, the Station Officer Rana alongwith S.I. Sahgal, S.I. D.P. Pal and S.I. Prem Pal Singh Chauhan proceeded to village Senthli and returned to the police station on 03.08.1983 at 11.55 a.m. S.I. Chauhan returned to police station on 03.08.1983 at 02:00 p.m. alongwith Lakhi Pal, Satya Pal and Rishi Pal.

26. P.W.6 Dr. R.L. Saraswat, has conducted the post-mortem examination of deceased Gulbir, son of Shyama Singh. He has said that on 03.08.1983, while posted as Medical Officer at M.M.G. Hospital, Ghaziabad, he conducted the deceased Gulbir Singh's post-mortem at 03:00 p.m., whose dead body was brought by Constables Prem Dutta and Ranvir Singh, posted at Police Station Dadri. He has said that the body was of average built and rigor mortis was present over the dead body. He found following ante-mortem injuries over the body:

- (i) Incised wound 3 cm x 1 cm x chest cavity deep over right side of chest in lower part.*
- (ii) Incised wound 3 cm x 1 cm x chest cavity deep a little inside to injury no.1.*
- (iii) Incised wound 3 cm x 0.5 cm x cavity deep in the stomach over left lower part of chest.*
- (iv) Incised wound 2.5 cm x 1 cm x cavity deep in the stomach over lower left side.*

27. On internal examination, right pleural cavity of lung was found filled with blood. The stomach, small intestine and liver were punctured below the external injuries. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was shock and haemorrhage, as a result of ante-mortem injuries. P.W. 6 has proved post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-6 and said that all the injuries were on the vital part of the body and, as a result of these injuries, the death could have occurred on 02.08.1983 at 06:30 p.m. He has also said that these injuries were caused by any sharp-edged weapon, such as a knife or a similar object. He has also said that these injuries could have been caused by sharp edged khukhri.

28. In his cross-examination, the witness has said that incised wound would be caused by sharp cutting object. The injuries from a sharp edged weapon used for stabbing would have more depth than length. Incised wound had smooth clean cut and well-defined edges.

29. P.W. 7 S.I. Hari Dutt Sharma is a formal witness, who prepared the inquest report at the direction of the In-Charge, Police Station Dadri, outside the police station on 02.08.1983. He has proved the inquest report as Ext. Ka-7 and related papers, such as, photo-nash, challan-nash, letter to CMO and letter to R.I etc. as Ext. Ka. 8 to 13 respectively.

30. In his cross-examination, P.W.7 has said that on 02.08.1983 at 10:55 p.m., he started with the inquest and completed it at 11:55 p.m., the same night. He handed over papers to concerned constable at about 12:00 mid night. At the time of holding the inquest, S.O. Suresh Pal Rana, Prem Dayal Singh Chauhan, R.K. Sahgal, Prem Dutt Gautam and Ranvir were also present. The Station Officer and Sub-Inspector, after inspecting the dead body, started their work inside the police station.

31. P.W.8, S.I. Prem Pal Singh Chauhan, is the Investigating Officer of this case. He has stated about the investigation carried out by him and deposed that on 02.08.1983, he recorded statement of informant Anil Kumar at the police station and went with him to the place of occurrence and, at his pointing out, prepared its site-plan on 02.08.1983, which he proved as Ext. Ka-14. He has also said that he collected sample of plain earth and blood-stained earth from the place of occurrence in two separate sealed boxes and prepared a recovery memo, which he proved as Ext. Ka-15. He recorded the statements of other witnesses and arrested the accused. He further stated that at the pointing out of accused Lakhi Pal, a blood stained knife was recovered from inside the house of the accused, which was sealed at the spot and its recovery memo prepared. He has proved the knife as Ext. 1 and its recovery memo as Ext. Ka-3. He has also said that he prepared the site map of the place of recovery of the knife, which he has proved as Ext. Ka-16. He has also proved the samples of blood-stained earth and plain earth as Exts. 2 and 3 and said that, after completing the investigation, he filed the charge-sheet before the competent court, which he proved as Ext. Ka-17. He has further said that blood-stained earth and plain earth were sent for chemical examination.

32. In his cross-examination, P.W. 8 has said that he inspected the place of occurrence at about 11:45 p.m. and thereafter prepared its site plan at the pointing out of Anil Kumar. He did not find any blood at letter-A, mentioned in the site plan. He has said that at 11:15 p.m., he along with informant Anil Kumar and other police personnel proceeded to the place of occurrence. He did not attempt to take any finger print from the recovered knife. In his cross-examination, he has said that the wife of deceased did not come to the police station at the time when the case was lodged. He had raided appellant's houses on 2/3.08.1983. He further stated that at the time of inspection of the place of occurrence and collecting sample of blood-stained earth from there, except for the informant Anil, no other eye-witness was present. At the time of arrest, appellant Lakhi Pal, had injuries over his head and both hands whereas the appellant Satya Pal had injuries over his back, head and shoulders. The date is blank in the column regarding sending the check FIR Ext. Ka- 4.

33. P.W. 9 Constable Prem Dutt Gautam is a formal witness, who had taken the dead body of the deceased for autopsy to Mohan Nagar Hospital and said that in the night of 02/03.08.1983, the sealed dead body was handed over to him, which he had conveyed to Mohan Nagar Hospital. He stated that he reached there in the morning on 03.08.1983 along with Constable Rajvir Singh.

34. In his cross-examination, P.W.9 has said that he proceeded from the police station at about 12:00 in the night by a tempo along with the dead body. There is a distance of 24-25 kilometres from Dadri to Mohan Nagar. He reached Mohan Nagar hospital within one and a half hours.

35. After closure of the prosecution evidence, the statement of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., where they denied the prosecution case and said that the witnesses are deposing against them due to enmity. They have further said that the accused Rishi Pal had come on leave from Army, however, on 01.08.1983, he went to his in-law's home and was not present in the village. They have also said that on 03.08.1983 at about 08:00-09:00 a.m., the police took Lakhi Pal along with accused Satya Pal and Rishi Pal, but left accused Shri @ Jain, on being handicapped. They have also stated that Rajbir's sister-in-law Bedbati and informant's mother Sukhdei are real sisters. Ajab Singh's wife and Gulbir's wife Beerbala are real sisters. Rajbir, D.S.P. and Narendra are his cousins. Narendra Singh had influence over police and has falsely implicated them in the case. They have also stated that Anil had illicit relationship with his sister-in-law Beerbala, which led to a quarrel between Anil and Gulbir, though this was pacified by people. On 02.08.1983, Gulbir came in a drunken condition and started an altercation with Anil, then Anil killed him. Thereafter, Rajbir, Narendra Singh and Ajab Singh, after consultation, have lodged a false case against the accused. Anil's brother Om Pal Singh is a Major in the Army. The accused have not adduced any evidence in their defence.

36. After hearing both the parties and examining the evidence on record, the learned Trial Judge came to the conclusion that the prosecution had proved their case beyond reasonable doubt.

The learned Trial Judge observed that the FIR was lodged promptly. The witnesses of fact are consistent in their testimony and have proved the case. The ocular testimony is supported by the medical evidence. Accordingly, the Trial Court after having found the appellants guilty convicted and sentenced them to the terms, as indicated above.

37. We have heard Mr. Sunil Vashisth and Mr. Kapil Kumar Rajor, learned Counsel for appellant no.1, Mr. Sunil Kumar, learned Counsel appearing for appellant nos.2 and 3 and Ms. Divya Ojha, learned AGA-I on behalf of the State and perused the evidence on record.

38. It is argued on behalf of the appellants that the FIR has been lodged belatedly and there is no explanation for the delay. It is further submitted that the FIR is ante-timed. It is next submitted that there is material contradiction with regard to the time, as to when the inquest report of the deceased was prepared, which raises doubt over the prosecution case and reveals that the FIR was lodged after much consultation and deliberation and, as such, it was ante-timed. It is next submitted that the place of occurrence is also doubtful and that there are material contradictions in the testimonies of the witnesses of fact regarding the place where the deceased and the injured were assaulted.

39. It is next argued on behalf of the appellants that the presence of P.W. 2 at the place of occurrence is highly doubtful. The recovery of the knife from appellant Lakhi Pal is fabricated and concocted. There is no public witness of the alleged recovery. Thus, the Investigating Officer has planted the knife on the appellant Lakhi Pal to give weight to the prosecution case.

40. It is further argued by learned counsel for the appellants that there are material contradictions in ocular and medical evidence, which raise serious doubts about the prosecution case. It is next submitted that appellant Shri @ Jain was, admittedly, handicapped, and therefore, it was not possible for him to participate with the other appellants and assault the deceased and/or the informant, which makes the prosecution case doubtful.

41. It is also submitted that there was illicit relationship between Beerbala, wife of the deceased, and the informant Anil Kumar. When the deceased objected to it, an altercation took place between them. The informant Anil Kumar himself assaulted and killed the deceased. Therefore, the appellants have no role in the alleged incident and have been falsely implicated in this case.

42. It is next submitted that there is delay in preparation of the inquest report and sending the dead body for post-mortem examination. Lastly, it is submitted that it is highly improbable that the site plan of the place of occurrence would be prepared at the instance of the informant, because according to the informant, after lodging the FIR, he did not return to his village for a week. Therefore, the entire evidence collected and produced in Court is fabricated, in order to implicate the appellants in this case. The Trial Court failed to appreciate the evidence in the correct perspective and discussed and analyzed the evidence incorrectly, thereby reaching a wrong conclusion regarding the guilt of the appellants.

43. On the other hand, it is submitted on behalf of the State that there is no delay in lodging the FIR. The FIR is prompt and not ante-timed. The contradictions in the testimony of witnesses of fact and the formal witnesses are minor, which could happen after a lengthy cross-examination of these witnesses. On material points, the witnesses are consistent regarding the guilt of the accused and the lodging of the FIR. It is also submitted that there are no contradictions in ocular and medical evidence and the evidence of all witnesses of fact regarding the commission of offence is fully corroborated by medical evidence. It is also submitted that recovery of the knife, used in the commission of the offence, at the behest of appellant Lakhi Pal is proved.

44. It is also argued that Shri @ Jain was handicapped, however, it was not such a disability, which could restrict his participation in the crime. With regard to preparation of the inquest report, the contradictions in the statement of witnesses of fact and the formal witnesses are minor, which do not raise any suspicion about the prosecution case. There is no delay in sending the dead body for post-mortem examination. The site plan was prepared at the pointing out of the informant the same night. It is next submitted that there is no evidence that the informant Anil Kumar and deceased's wife Beerbala had any illicit relationship between them, and the said contention of the defence is not believable.

45. Therefore, the prosecution have proved their case beyond reasonable doubt and the Trial Court has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellants.

46. In view of the evidence led in the case and the submissions of the rival parties, it is to be examined whether the prosecution have indeed been able to prove their case beyond reasonable doubt. It is settled law that in a criminal case, the burden of proof lies on the prosecution to prove their case beyond reasonable doubt.

47. In the present case, the incident occurred on 02.08.1983 at 06:30 p.m. in the courtyard of the informant, Anil Kumar's, house in village Senthli, under Police Station Dadri, District Ghaziabad. The FIR was lodged by the informant Anil Kumar on 02.08.1983 at 10:00 p.m. The FIR was thus lodged after three and a half hours from the time of incident. According to the check FIR, (Ext. Ka-4), the distance from the place of occurrence to the Police Station Senthli is ten kilometres. According to P.W.2 Anil Kumar, the informant, after the incident, he took his injured brother Gulbir to Dadri Hospital, where the doctor declared him dead. Thereafter, he went to Police Station Dadri along with Rajbir, carrying the dead body of his brother Gulbir. He has said that the Inspector directed him to keep the dead body outside the Police Station and asked him to bring a written report. Thereafter, he took a piece of paper from the Police Station and, as his right hand was injured, dictated the report to Rajbir Singh, who scribed the same. Next, he had affixed his left hand's thumb impression on the application, which the witness has proved as Ext. Ka-2.

48. The above witness has been cross-examined at length and it has come in his evidence that the tahrir (Ext. Ka-2) was written by Rajbir and he did not dictate it to him. On this point, it is argued by learned counsel for the appellants that this statement raises suspicion about the prosecution case that the written application was dictated by the informant and thus, the basis of prosecution case, in itself, is doubtful.

49. We do not agree with this submission. While discussing evidence of a witness, it is not proper and reasonable to pick out one or two sentence from here and there to form opinion, but his testimony, as a whole, is to taken into account for the purpose. Here, in the present case, the above statement is only a minor contradiction and, if we look into the entire testimony of P.W.2, then it appears that he had given this statement in view of the fact that his right hand was injured, and, therefore, the written application was scribed by Rajbir Singh. P.W. 4 Rajbir Singh, the scribe of the application, has himself said that he had written it upon the dictation of the informant, Anil Kumar.

50. Thus, in view of the above, the submission made on behalf of the appellants has no force. Beside this, Rajbir Singh is also a witness of fact, who witnessed the incident. Therefore, what he has written in the written information (tahrir) is an eye witness account, and on this ground as well, the FIR cannot doubted.

51. It has come in evidence that after the incident, the informant Rajbir Singh along with the injured Gulbir Singh and others went to the police station on a buffalo cart and prior to that they went to Dadri Hospital. It has been stated by P.W.3 Beerbala that she also went to the hospital and thereafter to the Police Station along with them and remained outside the gate of the police station.

52. It has come in the statement of P.W.1 Anil Kumar that after two or two and half hours of the incident, he proceeded from the village on a buffalo cart. It took him one and a half hour or two to reach the Police Station. They reached the hospital at about 09:00 p.m. and subsequently, the Police Station at 09:00-09:45 or 10:00 p.m.

53. On the basis of above statement, it is vehemently argued on behalf of the appellants that if time sequence is calculated in light of prosecution version, then it is not possible for the informant to reach the Police Station by 10:00 p.m., the time when, allegedly, the FIR was lodged.

54. We do not agree with this submission of the learned counsel for the appellants. The time stated by P.W.2, Anil Kumar, with regard to his reaching the hospital, and subsequently, the police station, appears to be only an approximate estimate on his part. There is no denial of fact that P.W.1 Anil Kumar is a villager. He has also said that he reached the hospital at about 09:00 p.m., and thereafter, the Police Station at about 09:30-09:45 p.m. or 10:00 p.m. Thus, he has stated both, the duration of time taken and the time when he reached at both these places. If we examine these fact closely, then the above statements have no adverse affect on the prosecution case. According to the injury report of the informant Anil Kumar, it was prepared at 09:45 p.m. and going by the check FIR, it was lodged on 02.08.1983 at 10:00 p.m. Both the timings, mentioned in injury report and check FIR, do support the timings testified to by P.W.1. The sequence of firstly reaching the hospital, and thereafter, the Police Station is fully corroborated from the testimony of P.W.2 Anil Kumar, P.W.3 Beerbala and P.W. 4 Rajbir Singh. Thus, their testimony in this regard is consistent, which is also supported by documentary evidence produced on behalf of the prosecution.

55. It is hypothetical to assume that the informant and others proceeded from the village only after about two and a half hours and the evidence of P.W.2 in this regard cannot be interpreted so narrowly. What this testimony means is that after the incident, the victim and the witnesses, arranged a buffalo cart, and thereafter, proceeded to the hospital; and, subsequently to the Police Station. Therefore, the submissions on behalf of appellants in this regard has no force.

56. It is next submitted on behalf of the appellants that according to the testimony of P.W.2 Anil Kumar, after reaching the Police Station, he informed the concerned Constable about the incident, who asked him to bring a written application, whereupon he got a written information (tahrir) scribed by Rajbir Singh and, on that basis, lodged the FIR. On this account, it is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that oral information given by the informant to the concerned Constable is the First Information Report and not the written application given by Anil Kumar. The verbal information given, is not proved and, therefore, the prosecution case is doubtful.

57. We do not find any force in this submission. The informant Anil Kumar was not well versed in the law. If he went to the Constable to intimate about the incident, and after being asked, wrote down the details of the occurrence, the mere fact that he approached the Constable would not render his initial version of the first information. According to G.D. No. 45 of the day, it is mentioned that the scribe of the written information, Rajbir Singh, was accompanying the informant Anil Kumar. It is the written application Ext. Ka-2 which moved the machinery of Ia to take its course and thereupon investigation commenced. Therefore, it is the tahrir, Ext. Ka-2, which is the first information report in this case.

58. It is also submitted on behalf of the appellants that there are major contradictions in the testimony of prosecution witnesses regarding the time at which the inquest of the deceased was held and the report prepared. It is also submitted that the inquest and other connected papers do not bear the names of the appellants, which lead to the inference that the FIR had not been drawn up till then and it was lodged ante-timed.

59. We are unable to accept this submission as well because the name of appellants are not required under law to be incorporated in the inquest report and other related papers. Besides this, the crime number, section and time of recording the FIR and other particulars are mentioned in the inquest report of the deceased and other accompanying documents. Therefore, it is not proper to conjecture that the first information report was not in existence, when the inquest was prepared.

60. In Shakila Khader v. Nausher Gama, AIR 1975 SC 1324, the contention raised that non-mentioning of a person's name in the inquest report would show that he was not an eye-witness of the incident was repelled on the ground that an inquest under Section 174 Cr.P.C. is concerned with establishing the cause of death and only evidence necessary to establish it need be brought out. The same view was taken in Eqbal Baig v. State of Andhra Pradesh, AIR 1987 SC 923 that the non-mentioning of the name of an eye-witness in the inquest report could not be a ground to reject his testimony. Similarly, the absence of the name of the accused in the inquest report cannot lead to an inference that he was not present at the time of commission of the offence, as the inquest report is not a statement of a person wherein all the names (accused and also the eye-witnesses) ought to have been mentioned.

61. It is well settled by a catena of decisions of the Supreme Court that the purpose of holding an inquest is very limited, viz., to ascertain whether a person has committed suicide or been killed by another or an animal or machinery or by an accident or has died under circumstances raising a reasonable suspicion that some other person has committed an offence. There is absolutely no requirement in law of mentioning the details of the FIR, names of the accused or the names of the eye-witnesses or the gist of their statement nor is it required to be signed by any eye-witnesses.

62. In view of the above legal position non-mentioning of names of appellants in the inquest does not raise any suspicion about the prosecution case.

63. There are some contradictions with regard to the time of holding the inquest and the preparation of a report, which we must notice. P.W.7 S.I. Hari Dutta Sharma, the Officer who held the inquest outside the premises of the Police Station, has said that he started preparing the inquest at 10:55 p.m. and completed it at 11:55 p.m. Thereafter, he handed over the concerned papers to the Constable at about 12:00 mid night and the cadaver was dispatched from the Police Station at 12:00 in the night. P.W. 9 Constable, Prem Dutt Gautam, is the official who carried the dead body of the deceased Gulbir Singh for post-mortem examination to Mohan Nagar Hospital. According to P.W.9, he received the dead body in the night of 02/03.08.1983 and reached Mohan Nagar Hospital in the morning of 03.08.1983.

64. It has come in the evidence of P.W.9 that he proceeded from the Police Station along with the dead body at about 12:00 mid night by a tempo. He has further said that Mohan Nagar Hospital is 24-25 kilometers away from Dadri. He reached Mohan Nagar Hospital within an hour and a half. He denied that the inquest was prepared in the morning after 08:00 a.m. On the other hand, P.W.2 Anil Kumar, P.W.3 Beerbala and P.W.4 Rajbir Singh have testified that the dead body of the deceased was lying outside the Police Station until the next morning, and, according to them, at about 07:00-08:00 or 08:30 a.m., the inquest was prepared and the body sent for autopsy.

65. Though these are contradictions regarding the time when the inquest of the deceased was held, but the testimony of P.W.9 Prem Dutt Gautam in this regard is very material, who says that he reached Mohan Nagar Hospital, along with the dead body, in the morning on 03.08.1983 and it took him about an hour and a half to reach there. If he had proceeded from Police Station at about 12:00 mid night and it took an hour and a half to reach the Mohan Nagar hospital, then he should have reached there by 01:30 or 02:00 a.m., whereas he has stated that he reached the hospital in the morning of 03.08.1983. This shows that perhaps due to the time taken in arrangement of the vehicle or something else, he proceeded to the hospital late from the Police Station for the autopsy and that is why P.W. 2, P.W.3, and P.W. 4 have said that they remained with the dead body outside the police station till the morning.

66. Therefore, the above contradictions are not very material and it is not in dispute that the post-mortem of the deceased was conducted on 03.08.1983 at 03:00 p.m. The dead body was taken to the hospital along with the inquest report and other necessary papers. Therefore, whatever the delay in preparing the inquest report and taking the dead body to the hospital for autopsy is immaterial, which does not shake the otherwise soul foundation of the prosecution case.

67. It is also submitted on behalf of the appellants that there is no date mentioned in the relevant column of the check FIR relating to the date of dispatch of the report from the police station and the check FIR bears signatures of the Magistrate on 17.08.1983, which raises doubt that the FIR was not lodged at the time mentioned in it.

68. We do not agree with this submission. The copy of the check FIR along with other papers, such as the inquest report and other related papers, were sent to the doctor for autopsy on 03.08.1983, and autopsy was conducted at 03:00 p.m., which shows that at least before that time all the above papers were in existence. According to the statement of P.W.5 Constable Sukhpal Singh, who scribed the check FIR, on 02.08.1983 at 10:00 p.m., another cognizable case was lodged on 02.08.1983 at 01:15 a.m. before this case and a cognizable case under Section 457/380 IPC was lodged at the Police Station on 03.08.1983 at 10 a.m. after this case.

69. It is presumed that the General Diary at the police station is prepared according to law in chronological order and there were two cases of cognizable nature lodged before and after the FIR of the instant case. This rules out the possibility that the G.D. was stopped and the FIR of this case was lodged ante-timed. So, the delay, if any, in reaching the FIR to the Court for signature by the Magistrate, is not very material. Therefore, in the absence of any evidence contrary to it, it cannot be assumed that the check FIR of this case was lodged belatedly and it was ante-timed.

70. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that there is no delay in lodging the FIR and it was lodged promptly.

71. So far as the place of occurrence is concerned, it is the courtyard of the informant Anil Kumar's house. It has come in evidence of P.W. 2 Anil Kumar, P.W. 3 Beerbala, and P.W. 4 Rajbir Singh that the incident took place in the courtyard of the informant and the accused live in the neighbourhood. There is no boundary wall between the houses of the parties. The incident occurred in front of the kitchen and also at the staircase. It has come in evidence that when Gulbir ran towards the staircase and had climbed just one step, he was attacked and assaulted with lathi. In this case, the informant Anil Kumar also sustained injuries and it has come in evidence that when he ran to save Gulbir, the appellant Rishi Pal attacked him with a khukhri, resulting in a cut to his right-hand thumb. It has come in the testimony of P.W. 3 Beerbala that her husband Gulbir was attacked only under the staircase and nowhere else, particularly in the courtyard. Upon this statement, it is submitted on behalf of the appellants that this statement does not support the prosecution case, which raises suspicion about the place of occurrence.

72. We do not agree with this submission also because it has come in evidence that at the time of the incident, the deceased, the injured and other witnesses as well as the appellants were inside the house, and upon the assault taking place, Gulbir ran towards the staircase, where he sustained injuries from a knife. In this situation, if P.W. 3 Beerbala failed to notice any such assault upon Gulbir at a place, other than the staircase, then it is quite natural, and on this ground alone, her evidence cannot be disbelieved.

73. The Investigating Officer has drawn up a site-plan of the place of occurrence and has said that he prepared it on the pointing out of the informant Anil Kumar. In the site-plan, he has shown the place where the accused attacked the informant Anil Kumar and Gulbir marked as letter □A□. He has also shown the place under the staircase, where the appellants surrounded Gulbir

Singh and attacked him, and the place from where, he recovered blood-stained and plain earth by letter-□B□. The kitchen is just near the place of the incident. The house of the informant and the accused are shown nearby. The above site-plan fully corroborates the oral testimony of the witnesses.

74. It is submitted on behalf of the appellants that in view of the statement of the informant Anil Kumar, that he was sent from the Police Station to the hospital and did not return to his house for about a week, it was not possible for the Investigating Officer to prepare the site-plan at the instance of informant Anil Kumar on the date and time alleged by the prosecution.

75. We do not agree with the submission also. The informant Anil Kumar has nowhere said that he did not leave the Police Station on the night when the FIR was lodged but said that he was at the Police Station till 08:00 a.m., the next morning. It has come in the testimony of P.W.7, the Investigating Officer that after the FIR was lodged at 10:00 a.m. on 02.08.1983, he proceeded along with other Police personnel and the informant Anil Kumar to the place of occurrence and prepared a site-plan at the pointing out of the informant in the night. P.W. 5 Constable Sukhpal Singh has said that after the FIR was lodged, the S.H.O. along with other Police personnel proceeded to village Senthli in a Jeep. The Investigating Officer has stated that he raided the house of the appellants the same night, but they were not found. Thereafter he returned to the Police Station. It appears that after the FIR was lodged, the Investigating Officer along with the informant went straight to the place of occurrence in village Senthli and, after inspecting the place of occurrence and preparing site-plan, raided the house of the appellants to arrest them. The Investigating Officer returned to the Police Station the same night. Therefore, along with him the informant would also have returned to the Police Station. As such, preparation of the site-plan by Investigating Officer, at the instance of the informant, cannot be doubted and the place of occurrence is fully established by the prosecution.

76. According to the prosecution, on 02.08.1983 at about 06:30 p.m. all the appellants, i.e. Lakhi Pal, Satya Pal, Rishi Pal and Shri @ Jain entered the house of the informant Anil Kumar and in furtherance of their common intention, attacked Gulbir Singh with knives and lathi causing his death and when the informant Anil Kumar rushed to rescue his brother, he too was attacked with a Khukhri by Rishi Pal, causing injuries on the fingers and thumb of his right hand. To prove this fact, the prosecution has examined P.W.2 Anil Kumar, P.W.3 Beerbala and P.W.4 Rajbir Singh. P.W.2 Anil Kumar is the injured witness as well as the younger brother of deceased Gulbir Singh. P.W.3 Beerbala is the widow of deceased Gulbir Singh and P.W.4 Rajbir Singh is the witness, whose house is situate within the same boundary wall, where the houses of both informant and appellants are situated. All the three witnesses above mentioned have supported the prosecution case in their respective testimonies and they are consistent how the incident occurred. They have fully supported the prosecution case.

77. It has come in their evidence that the appellants are cousins of P.W.2 Anil Kumar, the informant and the deceased Gulbir Singh, and they were residing in the same house. It has also come in evidence that there was a dispute regarding 3-3 1/2 bigha of land between them, and a day before the incident, there was altercation relating to the said land. It has figured in evidence that on 02.08.1983 at about 06:00-06:30 p.m., Anil Kumar along with his brother Gulbir Singh was sitting in their house near the kitchen, when appellant Lakhi Pal, Satya Pal armed with knives, Rishi Pal armed with khukhri and Shri @ Jain carrying a lathi, came over into their portion of the house and attacked the informant and his brother Gulbir. When they ran for shelter, Lakhi Pal and Satya Pal attacked with knives and Rishi Pal with Khukhri inflicted injuries to the deceased Gulbir Singh. As the informant Anil Kumar ran to save his brother Gulbir Singh, he too was attacked with a Khukhri by Rishi Pal, resulting in injuries to his right hand.

78. It has come in evidence that at the time of incident, Beerbala was cooking food in the kitchen and her sister-in-law (Devrani) Beena too was present there. The evidence shows that when Gulbir Singh ran to save his life, he was chased by the appellants and attacked with knives under the staircase. It was 06:00-06:30 in the evening, so the presence of Beerbala at the place of occurrence is quite natural. Similarly, the presence of P.W.2 Anil Kumar is also natural, as he was the younger brother of deceased and all of them were living jointly in the same house. The house of P.W.4 Rajbir Singh is also in the same Gher. Therefore, his presence there after hearing the commotion is also natural.

79. It has come in evidence that when alarm was raised, P.W.4 Rajbir Singh came out from his house besides Ajab Singh and others. Thereafter, the appellants accused fled from the place of occurrence. It has then come in evidence that the informant took his injured brother Gulbir Singh to the hospital in Dadri, where he was declared dead. He took his brother's dead body to the Police Station Dadri accompanied by Rajbir Singh and Beerbala and lodged the FIR. All the above witnesses of fact i.e. P.W.2 Anil Kumar, P.W.3 Veerbala and P.W.4 Rajbir Singh were exhaustively cross-examined, but no material contradiction have surfaced in their testimony so as to cast doubt on its veracity.

80. It is argued on behalf of the appellants that the informant Anil Kumar and Beerbala were into an illicit relationship, due to which, the informant himself attacked and killed Gulbir Singh. The defence has not produced any evidence in this regard. Importantly, the appellants have not given any such suggestion to P.W.2 Anil Kumar and P.W.3 Beerbala during their cross-examination, whom they claim were in illicit relationship.

81. The informant Anil Kumar was in military services and normally had to live away from home. Therefore, it is not normal for him to be involved in an illicit relationship of the kind suggested. During investigation, the appellants have not given any application or raised any such issue before any authority or the Police that the deceased was murdered by the informant himself and not them, due to the above reason. Had they raised such issue during investigation, this angle could also have been investigated. It is established that there was dispute between the parties regarding 3-3 □ bigha of land, which could have prompted the appellants to commit this offence. It is also remarked that this is a case of direct evidence, and in a case of direct evidence, motive loses its significance. Motive is a state of mind of a person, which cannot be seen from outside.

82. In the case of Thaman Kumar vs. State of Union Territory of Chandigarh, reported in (2003) 6 SCC 380: (AIR 2003 SC 3975), the Supreme Court has observed as under:-

"There is no such principle or rule of law that where the prosecution fails to prove the motive for commission of the crime, it must necessarily result in acquittal of the accused. Where the ocular evidence is found to be trustworthy and reliable and finds corroboration from the medical evidence, a finding of guilt can safely be recorded even if the motive for the commission of the crime has not been proved."

83. In the case of State of H.P. Vs. Jeet Singh reported in (1999) 4 SCC 370 : (AIR 1999 SC 1293), the Supreme Court has observed:

"No doubt it is a sound principle to remember that every criminal act was done with a motive but its corollary is not that no criminal offence would have been committed if the prosecution has failed to prove the precise motive of the accused to commit it. When the prosecution succeeded in showing the possibility of some ire for the accused towards the victim, the inability to further put on record the manner in which such ire would have swelled up in the mind of the offender to such a degree as to impel him to commit the offence cannot be construed as a fatal weakness of the prosecution. It is almost an impossibility for the prosecution to unravel the full dimension of the mental disposition of an offender towards the person whom he offended."

84. In the case of Molu and others v. State of Haryana, AIR 1976 SC 2499, the Supreme Court Hon'ble has held:

"It is well settled that where the direct evidence regarding the assault is worthy of credence and can be believed, the question of motive becomes more or less academic. Sometimes the motive is clear and can be proved and sometimes, however, the motive is shrouded in mystery and it is very difficult to locate the same. If, however, the evidence of the eye-witnesses is credit-worthy and is believed by the Court which has placed implicit reliance on them, the question whether there is any motive or not becomes wholly irrelevant."

85. Regarding motive for commission of the crime, the Supreme Court has in Suresh Chandra Bahri v. State of Bihar AIR 1994 SC 2420 observed:

"Sometimes motive plays an important role and becomes a compelling force to commit a crime and therefore motive behind the crime is a relevant factor for which evidence may be adduced. A motive is something which prompts a person to form an opinion or intention to do certain illegal act or even a legal act but with illegal means with a view to achieve that intention. In a case where there is clear proof of motive for the commission of the crime it affords added support to the finding of the Court that the accused was guilty for the offence charged with. But it has to be remembered that the absence of proof of motive does not render the evidence bearing on the guilt of the accused nonetheless untrustworthy or unreliable because most often it is only the perpetrator of the crime alone who knows as to what circumstances prompted him to a certain course of action leading to the commission of the crime."

86. Therefore, in view of the above discussion and the legal position, if for the sake of argument, it is assumed that the prosecution has failed to prove any immediate motive for the appellants to commit crime, it has no relevance in the present case, where the eye-witnesses have fully supported the prosecution case. So far as the role of appellant Shri @ Jain is concerned, though it has come in evidence that he is handicapped in his right leg, but it has also come in evidence that he can walk, so his participation in the crime cannot be doubted. It has come in evidence that the houses of both the parties are in the same Gher, where the incident has taken place. Therefore, technically the offence under Section 452 IPC is not made out and this is not a case of house trespass.

87. P.W.3 Beerbala has said that the knife blows were inflicted on his husband Gulbir Singh's chest and she was sobbing at the time of the incident. The above testimony is corroborated by medical evidence. She, being a rustic woman, if she has at one place said that that appellant Shri @ Jain had delivered a lathi blow to her husband's head, and this injury is not found in the autopsy report, on this ground alone, her entire testimony cannot be discarded. It may be possible that due to loss of her husband, she suffered shock and in that condition, if she testified to a certain fact, which does not go to the root of the prosecution case, it would have no adverse effect on the prosecution. She has been thoroughly cross examined and in the given circumstances it is quite possible and natural that some minor contradictions may occur in her testimony.

88. In Maqsoodan and Others v/s State of UP 1983 SCC (Cri.) 176 (Para 9) it was held that "minor inconsistencies in statements of witnesses and FIR in regard to number of blows inflicted and failure to state who injured whom, in the circumstances of the case, would not make the testimony of the witness unreliable---- On the contrary, they show that the witnesses were not tutored."

89. In Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v/s State of Gujarat (1983) 3 SCR 280: AIR 1983 SC 753 at page 756; M.P.Thakkar, J. observed " A witness though wholly truthful, is liable to be overawed by the court atmosphere and the piercing cross examination made by counsel and out of nervousness mess up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events, or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment. The sub-conscious mind of the witness sometimes so operates on account of the fear of looking foolish or being disbelieved though the witness is giving a truthful and honest account of the occurrence witnessed by him□perhaps it is sort of a psychological defence mechanism activated on the spur of the moment.□ It was also held in this case that □ Discrepancies which do not go to the root of the matter and shake the basic version of the witnesses therefore cannot be annexed with undue importance. More so when the all important □probabilities - factor□ echoes in favour of the version narrated by the witnesses."

90. The Supreme Court in Israr vs. State of U.P. (2005 (51) ACC 113), held:

".....Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the Court has to adopt a careful approach and analyze evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible."

91. In view of the above, the evidence of P.W. 3 Beerbala may have some contradictions regarding the injuries, but they are minor and do not go the root of the matter and with regard to the basic version, it is consistent and does not suffer from any major contradictions and is thus, reliable and trustworthy. She, being wife of the deceased, would be the last person to spare the real culprit and rope in innocents.

92. According to P.W.4 Rajbir Singh, he reached at the place of occurrence upon hearing the alarm raised and saw the incident. He has stated that he was in his courtyard along with Ajab Singh, when Lakhi Pal, Satya Pal carrying knives, Rishi Pal armed with Khukhri and Shri @ Jain had a quarrel with Gulbir Singh and Anil Kumar and challenged Gulbir Singh. Upon this, Gulbir Singh ran towards the staircase to save his life and when he embarked on the very first step of the staircase, the appellants Lakhi Pal and Satya Pal attacked him with knives and Shri @ Jain with a lathi, causing his death. When Anil Kumar came to his rescue, Rishi Pal attacked him with a Khukhri cutting off his fingers. He has stated that he was at a distance of 14-15 steps from the place, where the alleged incident took place. Therefore, he had a clear vantage to witness the incident. It has come in his statement that appellant Lakhi Pal was arrested by the Investigating Officer and, upon his pointing out, a knife was discovered from a bhuse ka bongi (straw bag) from the house. He has proved knife as Ext. Ka-1 and his signatures on the recovery memo Ext. Ka-3.

93. It has been submitted on behalf of the appellants that the alleged recovery of knife at the pointing out of Lakhi Pal is doubtful. We do not agree with this submission. The Investigating Officer has proved that after arresting Lakhi Pal, he recorded his statement, who stated that he could get the weapon of assault (knife) recovered, which he had hid in the house. Then, upon his pointing out, the knife was recovered and P.W.4 Rajbir Singh is one of the public witness of such recovery. Therefore, the recovery of the knife at the pointing out of Lakhi Pal is admissible in evidence under Section 27 Evidence Act. The injury report of P.W.2 Anil Kumar shows that he sustained incised and lacerated wounds over the fingers of his right hand. The doctor has stated that these were caused by a sharp edged weapon and also by a blunt object. P.W.3 Beerbala has also said that the deceased and injured were attacked with knives, khukhri and lathi. P.W.4 has also stated the same thing. Khukhri and knives are sharp edged weapons and lahti is a blunt object. It has come in evidence that Gulbir Singh sustained injuries from knives over his chest and in the post-mortem report also injuries of the nature of incised wound were found over his chest.

94. Thus, the ocular testimony is supported by medical evidence and the submission on behalf of the appellants has no force that there are major contradiction in ocular and medical evidence.

95. On the basis of above, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution have proved their case beyond reasonable doubt. It is established that it was the appellants, Lakhi Pal, Satya Pal, Rishi Pal and Jain @ Shri, who in furtherance of their common intention had attacked and murdered the deceased Gulbir and caused injuries to the informant Anil Kumar by a sharp-edged weapon.

96. Thus, all the appellants are guilty of offence punishable under Section 302 read with 34 and 324 read with Section 34 IPC. The Trial Court has appreciated the evidence on record correctly and rightly reached the conclusion of guilt against all the accused. The conviction and sentence of the appellants deserve to be affirmed.

97. Thus, the present appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed. The conviction and sentence of the appellants by impugned judgment and order dated 30.6.1984 is affirmed. The appellants Lakhi Pal, Satya Pal and Rishi Pal are on bail. Their personal bonds and bail bonds are cancelled and sureties discharged. They are directed to surrender before the learned Trial Court within two weeks from today to undergo their sentences, failing which, the Trial Court is directed to adopt coercive measures for securing their presence.

98. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the Trial Court concerned along with the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

Counsel for Respondents(s) : A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Bajaj, J.)

1. Appellant- Jagannath is aggrieved against the judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 8.7.1986 passed by VII Additional Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar in S.T. No. 336 of 1985, arising out of Case Crime No. 376 of 1985, under Section 376 IPC, registered at Police Station Chakeri, District Kanpur Nagar, whereby he has been convicted under Sections 452, 376/511 IPC, and sentenced to three years rigorous imprisonment.

2. The subject F.I.R. was registered on the basis of a written complaint dated 25.6.1985 submitted by Birju to Station House Officer Chakeri, District Kanpur Nagar, who alleged that he works in Ordinance Factory and as usual today on 25th June, 1985, he had gone for his work at 6:00 a.m. The wife of the appellant had gone to handle the cow-dung, whereas his 13 years old minor daughter was at home. Around 10:00 a.m. appellant's neighbour Jagannath s/o Bhajan Lal entered his house and started doing wrong act with his minor daughter. When complainant's daughter screamed, Laxmi Narayan s/o Babu Lal and Kishanlal s/o Ganga Ram arrived at the spot and Jagannath ran away. Complainant returned home around 7:30 p.m. and his daughter and wife disclosed about the entire incident, then they all traced Jagannath and brought him to the police station. The complainant requested for taking legal action against him. Broadly, on these allegations, the above F.I.R. bearing Case Crime No. 376 of 1985 was registered against the accused.

3. After registration of the F.I.R., the investigation in the case was conducted by Investigating Officer namely, Mamta Vidyarthi, Sub Inspector, who associated complainant Birju to inspect the spot of occurrence for preparation of the site plan. On 28.6.1985 Sri K.P. Goswami, S.I. conducted further investigation and recorded the statements of victim, complainant's wife Vimla, as well as witnesses, namely Laxmi Narayan, Kishan Lal and Rampal. During investigation, the victim's medical report dated 26.6.1985 was collected and finally the charge sheet was filed against the accused under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C., thereby sending him to face prosecution for commission of offences punishable under Section(s) 376/511 I.P.C (Exb. Ka-5).

4. Thereafter, the case was committed to the court of Additional Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar and vide order dated 18.11.1985, the charges against the accused were framed for alleged commission of offences punishable under Sections 452 and 376/511 I.P.C. The appellant-accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

5. The prosecution in order to prove the guilt of the accused had examined seven witnesses namely, Laxmi Narain (P.W.-1), Kishanlal (P.W.-2), Km. Sanjai (victim) (P.W.-3), Birju (complainant) (P.W.-4), Dr. S. Jabin (P.W.5), Constable Sonelal (P.W.-6), S.I. K.P. Goswami (P.W.-7), Dr. R.K. Gupta, Senior Radiologist (P.W.8) and Km. Mamta Vidyarthi (P.W.9). Besides, the prosecution also adduced documentary evidence i.e. written complaint (Exb.Ka-1), medical report of the victim (Exb.Ka-2), Check FIR (Exb. Ka-3), G.D. entry (Exb. Ka-4), Charge-sheet (Exb. Ka-5), site plan (Exb. Ka.6) and X-ray plate (Ex.1).

6. After completion of the prosecution evidence, the statement of accused-appellant was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 6.5.1986, who denied the prosecution evidence and pleaded false implication. However, no defence evidence was adduced by the accused.

7. Upon analyzing the prosecution case, evidence and other material on record, the trial court proceeded to convict the appellant-accused under Sections 452 & 376/511 I.P.C. and awarded substantive sentence of three years rigorous imprisonment. Aggrieved against the judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 8.7.1986, the appellant preferred this appeal.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant has argued that the evidence adduced by the prosecution to prove the charges against the accused is neither sufficient nor convincing, as the same does not take away the doubts from the prosecution case, therefore, conviction of appellant is not sustainable. Learned counsel submits that the FIR was registered after a long delay on 25.06.1985 at 11.35 p.m., whereas the occurrence had taken place at 10 a.m. Learned counsel has argued that the alleged occurrence is not supported by any cogent medical evidence, and further the complainant Birju- P.W.4 in his cross- examination denied his signatures on Ex.-1, i.e. the complaint, whereupon the FIR was registered, therefore, the whole case of prosecution becomes doubtful. He further submits that the accused after the alleged occurrence remained in the village and never ran away, therefore, it would also prove his innocence, but the trial court without noticing the serious discrepancies in the prosecution case has erroneously proceeded to convict the appellant. He has further argued that prosecution witness Kishal Lal P.W.2, complainant Birju P.W.4 and accused- Jagannath are members of a temple committee and they have a dispute, therefore, the appellant was falsely implicated. He further submits that the impugned judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 8.7.1986 is apparently against the evidence on record, therefore, the same deserves to be set aside.

9. Alternatively, learned counsel for the appellant has prayed that in case, the conviction of the appellant is upheld, some leniency be shown in the sentence part, which is disproportionate to the guilt of the accused.

10. On the other hand, Mr. Sanjay Singh, learned A.G.A.-I has argued that the prosecution evidence has convincingly proved the charges against the accused and the case of the prosecution is based upon the evidence of prosecutrix P.W.3. He submits that the victim had identified the accused, who attempted to rape her in her house and his presence is witnessed by the other witnesses, namely, Laxmi Narayan P.W.1 and Kishan Lal P.W.2, as they had seen him running away. He submits that the impugned judgment of conviction as well as order of sentence are based upon proper appreciation of evidence on record, therefore, he prays that the appeal be dismissed.

11. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties and considering their submissions, this Court finds that according to the prosecution, when the minor daughter of complainant Birju- P.W.4 was alone at home, at around 10 a.m. accused- Jagannath entered the house and finding the victim alone, he bolted the door and attempted to rape her. As per the version of the prosecutrix, he pulled strings of her bottom (Salwar) and attempted to rape by gagging her mouth, but on her screams, the accused ran away from the spot, who was seen by Laxmi Narayan P.W.1 and Kishan Lal P.W.2 as they had reached at the place of occurrence. The prosecutrix in her deposition before the trial court has clearly narrated about the involvement of accused in the commission of crime and presence of accused is also stated by witnesses Laxmi Naryan P.W.1 and Kishan Lal P.W.2. Though, a suggestion is put to the prosecutrix that as there is a dispute amongst the members of the temple committee consisting of witness complainant- Birju, witness Kishan Lal and accused Jagannath, but that suggestion has been specifically denied by prosecutrix P.W.3 and defence has not produced any evidence in order to lend support to the plea of false implication.

12. Further, the argument by the learned counsel for the appellant that the complaint Exb. Ka-1 given by Birju P.W.4 to the police is disowned, who has denied his signature on the said document during cross- examination, is also misplaced, as it is the consistent case of the complainant and other witnesses that after this occurrence, accused Jagannath was traced by complainant along with others and was produced before the police. Complainant Birju P.W.4 has clearly stated that he is an illiterate person and the complaint was written by one Rampal, which was signed by him. The signatures appended on the complaint would also show that the complainant is barely able to write his name and the handwriting in the complaint is of someone else. The Police Officer, namely, K.P.. Goswami P.W.7, who registered the FIR also testified before the Court that the complaint was given by Birju, therefore, this Court has no hesitation in holding that the complaint by Birju Exb. Ka-1 cannot be doubted.

13. The document whereupon Birju P.W.4 denied his signatures is not the complaint given to the police relating to the alleged occurrence dated 25.6.1985, but is a kind of apology allegedly signed by him on 19.2.1982, that he had done something wrong with his daughter, but no convincing evidence in this regard has been produced by the defence, and only suggestions were put to the complainant and his daughter, which were clearly denied by them. A reading of the document Ex.1 would clearly reveal that it is addressed to the Police Officer levelling allegations against Birju having done something wrong with Vimla's daughter, but it is not signed by any person. Of course, the alleged apology by Birju is signed at bottom, but he categorically denied his signatures on this document. Most importantly, the said document is signed by various witnesses, but the date of signatures of the witnesses is different which is recorded as 19.2.1983. Thus, the defence adopted by the accused appellant relating to an event which is not connected with the occurrence dated 25.6.1985, would not raise any doubt in the prosecution case.

14. No doubt, there is no injury suffered by the victim, but considering the nature of occurrence, which is an attempt to commit rape, and the medical evidence cannot be said to have favoured the accused or raising a doubt in the prosecution case, therefore, the said ground is also without any merit. A perusal of the record would show that the trial court has rightly convicted the appellant- accused by giving valid reasons in the impugned judgment dated 8.7.1986, therefore, impugned judgment of conviction dated 8.7.1986 does not call for any interference.

15. However, considering the alternative prayer made by the learned counsel for the appellant, this Court finds that the occurrence had taken place in the year 1985 and this appeal is pending for the last four decades, therefore, considering the long pendency of the appeal as well as the fact that the appellant may have reached at the advanced age, who was 42 years old at the time of recording his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. this Court deems it appropriate to modify the sentence imposed upon the appellant.

16. The law regarding concession of probation in cases of attempt to commit an offence punishable with life imprisonment stands clarified by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Haryana Vs. Prem Chand, (1997) 7 SCC 756, and the relevant extract of the judgment is reproduced here as under:-

3. If the conviction of the appellant were to be one under Section 376 IPC he could have been awarded imprisonment for life or one extending to 10 years. But the offence for which the respondent has been found guilty, is for attempt to rape. Therefore, it is idle to contend that the respondent has been held guilty for an offence which would attract imprisonment for life, disentitling him to the benefit of probation under the aforementioned two statutes. Section 57 of the IPC clearly points out that in calculating fractions of terms of imprisonment, imprisonment for life shall be reckoned as imprisonment for 20 years. Thus, on employment of Section 511 IPC, the punishment for the offence, for which an attempt has been made, would be for a term which may extend to one half of the longest term of imprisonment provided for the offence. Therefore, for offence under Sections 376/511 IPC, the respondent could be awarded imprisonment up to 10 years. On this reasoning, his case for probation was clearly made out, be it under Section 360 CrPC or under Section 4 of the Probation Act. The Court of Session, therefore, was not wrong in extending to him such benefit and the High Court committed no error in declining to interfere therein. The appeal thus has no merit and is, therefore, dismissed.

17. Thus, considering the nature of offence as well as the sentence imposed upon the convict by the trial court, this Court deems it appropriate to extend the concession of Probation to the appellant under Section 4 Probation of Offenders Act, 1958, keeping in view the law on the subject.

18. Consequently, the order of sentence dated 8.7.1986 is modified and it is ordered that the appellant be released on probation for a period of one year subject to his furnishing the requisite bonds/undertaking to the satisfaction of the trial court.

19. Resultantly, the appeal is partly allowed, and while upholding the impugned judgment of conviction dated 8.7.1986, an even date order on sentence is modified to the above noted extent.

Counsel for Respondent(s) : Govt. Advocate

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Ajay Kumar-II, J.)

1. The instant Criminal Appeal at the instance of convict - accused has been directed against the judgment and order dated 30.03.2013 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court no.5, Agra in Sessions Trial No.1474 of 2008 (State Vs. Ashiq and others) arising out of Case Crime No.290 of 2008, under Sections 304/34, 326/34 IPC, Police Station - Rakabganj, District Agra convicting and sentencing the appellant under Section 304 I.P.C. read with Section 34 I.P.C. for life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. Rs.20,000/- with stipulation of default clause.

2. Brief facts, as culled out from the record, are that the informant Pradeep gave a written report on 21.07.2008 at the Police Station Rakabganj, District Agra that his daughter Vineeta is a student of class IX in Anglo Bengali School and she had been photographed at a fair by her friend Pooja's brother Ashiq son of Raj Kumar with his friend Amit. Both Ashiq and Amit used to blackmail his daughter by showing her photograph. Amit also used to demand money and call her at his place. Kishore and Sethi are also involved with them. On 20.07.2008 in the evening, Ashiq came on the roof of the informant along with Amit, poured kerosene oil on his daughter and Amit set her ablaze and thereafter both of them fled away from the spot. At that time, the daughter of the informant was alone in the house. The whole incident was narrated to the informant by his daughter in severely burnt condition, who was admitted in emergency ward and according to Doctors, she has sustained 90% burn injuries.

3. On 20.7.2008, the victim was admitted in S.N. Medical College, Agra for treatment and on the same day at 10:30 P.M. the dying declaration (Ext. Ka-12) of the victim was recorded.

4. On the basis of the written report (Ext. Ka-1), First Information Report (Ext. Ka-12) was registered at Police Station concerned on 21.7.2008 at 3:10 A.M. as Case Crime No.290 of 2008 under Sections 326 IPC read with 34 IPC against the accused persons and the investigation was handed over to Sub-Inspector Lalit Kumar Tyagi.

5. Vineeta was admitted for treatment in the Emergency Department of S.N. Medical College, Agra on the date of incident i.e. 20.07.2008 at around 7:45 P.M., where her dying declaration (Ex.Ka.-17) was recorded by Additional City Magistrate-III, Agra, P.W.9 in presence of Dr. Brahmdev, P.W.10. at 10:40 P.M. During the course of treatment, the victim died at 6:20 A.M. on 21.7.2008 and in this matter offence of section 304 IPC was added.

6. Sub-Inspector Lalit Kumar Tyagi, P.W.7 started the investigation and during the course of investigation he prepared inquest report (Ex.Ka.-3) on 21.07.2008 and sent the body of deceased Vineeta for postmortem examination. Dr. Sunehri Lal, P.W.5 conducted the postmortem of the deceased and prepared her postmortem report (Ex.Ka.-11). The Investigating Officer inspected the spot and took possession of the plastic container and half burnt plastic mat and prepared its recovery memo (Ex.Ka.-15). He also inspected the place of incident on 22.07.2008 and prepared the site plan (Ex.Ka.-14) on the spot. Thereafter, the investigation was transferred to Sub-Inspector

G.C. Seth and was further transferred to Sub-Inspector Dinesh Pal Singh, who after recording the statement of various witnesses submitted charge-sheet (Ex.Ka.-16) against accused Ashiq, Kishore and Sethi under Sections 304, 326, 34 IPC and investigation against accused Amit was kept pending.

7. On 21.07.2008 at 3:15 P.M., the autopsy of the deceased was performed by Dr. Sunehri Lal, P.W.5 who found following injuries on her person :

(i) Superficial to deep burn injuries all over the body except skull region. Scalp hairs singed.

(ii) Surgical dressing all over the body except head.

(iii) Cut open mark is seen at right elbow area.

As per opinion of the Doctor, the cause of death of the deceased was due to shock, as a result of extensive burn injury. The postmortem report is Ex. Ka.-11.

8. The learned Magistrate took cognizance of the offences on 23.10.2008 and committed the case to Court of Session, as the charged offences were triable by the Court of Session.

9. After hearing both the parties, charges were framed against accused under Sections 304/34 and 326/34 IPC. However, the accused denied the charges and claimed trial.

10. Trial started and in support of it's case, prosecution examined as many as nine witnesses, who are as follows:

P.W.1 Pradeep (the informant of the case and father of the deceased), P.W.2 Dabbu (the uncle of the deceased), P.W.3 Mithilesh (aunt of the deceased and wife of P.W.2), P.W.4 Ashok Kumar (witness of Inquest), P.W.5 Dr. Sunehri Lal (autopsy surgeon, who conducted the postmortem of the deceased and prepared the autopsy report), P.W.6 Head Constable Dinesh Kumar (the scribe of the chik F.I.R.), P.W.7 S.I. Lalit Kumar Tyagi (first Investigating Officer, who prepared inquest report, site plan and recovery memo), P.W.8 S.I. Ganesh Pal Singh (the subsequent Investigating Officer, who completed the investigation and submitted the charge-sheet against accused persons), P.W.9 Garima Yadav, (the then Addl. City Magistrate-III, who recorded the dying declaration of the deceased) and P.W.10 Dr. Brahmdev (the then Chief Medical Officer, Emergency, S.N. Medical College, Agra, who gave fitness certificates prior to and after recording of dying declaration).

11. In support of oral version, following documents were filed and proved on behalf of the prosecution:

Written report (Ex.Ka.-1), letter sent to S.S.P. (Ex.Ka.-2), Inquest Report (Ex.Ka.-3), Copy of G.D. No.15 at 7:15 A.M. dtd. 21.07.2008 (Ex.Ka.-4), Letter sent to C.M.O. (Ex.Ka.-5), Police Paper No.13 (Ex.Ka.-6), Information to police regarding death of the deceased (Ex.Ka.-7), Copy of G.D. dtd. 21.07.2008 regarding death of victim (Ex.Ka.-8), Letter to C.M.O. by I.O. (Ex.Ka.-9), Photo Nash (Ex.Ka.-10), Postmortem Report (Ex.Ka.-11), Chik F.I.R. (Ex.Ka.-12), Copy of Report No.4 at 3:10 A.M. dtd. 21.07.2008 (Ex.Ka.-13), Site Plan (Ex.Ka.-14), Recovery Memo (Ex.Ka.-15), Charge-sheet (Ex.Ka.-16) and Dying Declaration of the deceased (Ex.Ka.-17).

Plastic bag and partially burnt mat were also produced and proved as Material Ex.-1 and Material Ex.-2.

12. After conclusion of evidence, statements of accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which they pleaded that on the basis of misunderstanding, a false incident has been accepted as true and on that basis a false report has been lodged. They have been falsely implicated in this case. They further pleaded that charge-sheet has been filed on the basis of flawed investigation. They further stated that a boy named Ashiq was chasing the deceased and because of wrong pronunciation of name of said boy the name has been wrongly recorded as Ashish, which fact is proved by the prosecution evidence available on record. The present appellant has specifically stated that as his name has been wrongly written in the dying declaration because of wrong pronunciation, therefore, he has been falsely implicated. The present appellant was specifically asked in question no.2 and 3 of his additional statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. on 05.02.2013 that he has signed as Ashiq as well as Ashish Kumar on various dates on the order-sheets and the defence witness D.W.1 in his cross-examination has stated that he is acquainted with the father of the accused Ashish and after perusing Paper No.37, which was an affidavit available on record, he (D.W.1) stated that on the aforesaid affidavit photograph of the father of accused Ashiq alias Ashish namely, Raj Kumar is affixed and executant of affidavit has further been identified as Raj Kumar by D.W.1. In the said affidavit, in paragraph no.2, it was specifically written that Ashish and Ashiq are the names of his (executant's) son. The appellant in answer to the aforesaid question no.2 and 3 has stated that he was initially taken into custody with the name Ashiq, therefore, on the asking of court moharrir, he was signing as Ashiq. As far as the said affidavit is concerned, he denied having any knowledge of the same, however, he has submitted that the aforesaid false affidavit was tendered on the asking of police. In support of its case, defence has examined D.W.1 Sunny and D.W.2 Ramesh Chandra.

13. Trial Court after having heard learned counsel for parties and after going through entire record, vide impugned judgment and order, convicted and sentenced only the accused-appellant under Section 304/34 IPC by observing that as per Section 71 of I.P.C. the offence under Section 326 I.P.C. has merged with the offence under Section 304 I.P.C. However, the other accused persons were acquitted by the trial court. Hence, feeling aggrieved with said judgment and order, present accused-appellant has filed this appeal. However, no appeal has been reported to be filed against the acquittal of accused Kishore and Sethi.

14. Heard Sri Abhishek Mayank, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Nagendra Kumar Srivastava, learned A.G.A for the State and perused the entire record.

15. Assailing the findings, learned counsel appearing for appellant vehemently argued that the first information report was actually registered against one muslim boy named Ashiq from Mantola and appellant name is Ashish, who has been falsely implicated in this case because of wrong mentioning of his name while recording the dying declaration. This fact is duly admitted by informant Pradeep P.W.1 and informant's brother Dabbu P.W.2. It was further argued that the deceased was not in a fit state to give dying declaration and the dying declaration is also not recorded in question-answer form. The doctor, who gave fitness certificate, in his cross-examination has clearly stated that because of missing of alphabet, name of Ashiq might have been recorded as Ashish. It was further submitted that no reliance can be placed on dying declaration of the deceased. It was Ashiq against whom the present F.I.R. was registered and appellant has been falsely implicated in this case. The prosecution case is totally baseless and from the evidence available on record, no case is made out as against the appellant. It was further argued that the learned trial court has misinterpreted the evidence available on record and has not given any weightage to the defence evidence which was against the norms of the established legal principles. No ingredient to bring home the guilt of the accused under section 304/34 IPC was proved by the prosecution. On the basis of analysis of prosecution evidence, no guilt against the accused appellant is established and proved. Learned trial court misread the evidence and wrongly convicted and sentenced the appellant. It was lastly argued that this appeal relates to the year 2013 and the appellant is in jail for a considerable period of time. The sentence for life imprisonment awarded to the appellant by the trial court is very harsh and excessive.

16. Learned A.G.A. for the State vehemently opposed the submissions made on behalf of the appellant and submitted that the present appellant is known by Ashish as well as Ashiq. There is no dispute regarding the identity of present appellant. The deceased in her dying declaration has categorically named appellant Ashish with necessary particulars that Ashish is her neighbour and resides in their street. The present appeal has been filed with the name of appellant as Ashiq and appellant himself is claiming that he is Ashish not Ashiq. The dying declaration of the deceased has been duly proved by the prosecution, which is a trustworthy piece of evidence and it alone is sufficient to convict the appellant. The appellant has committed a very gruesome act, as a result of which the deceased died on account of ante mortem burn injuries. Hence, while going through the evidence on record, it cannot be said that the offence under Section 304/34 IPC is not made out against the appellant. The learned trial court has not committed any error of law or of fact, in convicting and sentencing the accused-appellant under Section 304/34 IPC. There is no merit in the appeal and learned A.G.A. thus urged for the dismissal of appeal.

Oral Evidence on Record.

17. Informant Pradeep is the father of the deceased Vineeta, who has been examined as P.W.1. Pradeep P.W.1, in his deposition, has stated that his daughter Vineeta was a IXth grade student. She was taken by her friend Pooja who is sister of Ashiq, to a fair on 14.04.2008, where Pooja called Ashiq and Amit, and got photographs taken of Vineeta with Amit. Thereafter, Ashiq, Amit, Kishore and Sethi started blackmailing her. On 20.07.2008 at 7:00 P.M., Amit and Ashiq came to his roof while Kishore and Sethi were standing on the Ashiq's rooftop. At that time, he was in his house downstairs and his daughter was on the rooftop. Ashiq and Amit poured kerosene oil on his daughter and set her on fire causing 90% burns. He thereafter admitted his daughter in the Emergency Ward. He got scribed the written report / Tehrir, which was read over to him and thereafter he signed the same. This witness proved the written report / Tehrir as Ex.Ka.-1. He further stated that his daughter in burnt condition told him that Ashiq and Amit have set her on fire. At the time of incident, his brother Dabbu and Dabbu's wife Mithlesh also came on spot. Earlier, an application regarding blackmailing was given by him to S.S.P., Agra on 03.07.2008, carbon copy of which bearing signature of this witness has been proved by him as Ex.Ka.-2. He further confirmed after looking at the photograph available on record that the said photograph was of his daughter Vineeta and Amit. The accused used to blackmail her on the strength of said photograph.

18. P.W.1 Pradeep was cross-examined and in his cross-examination, which remained inconclusive on 29.09.2009, this witness has stated that he had not complained regarding Ashiq and Amit to their fathers regarding blackmailing, because their fathers are influential persons. A perusal of the cross-examination conducted by defence on 29.09.2009 reveals that no material cross-examination of this witness was done on this date. Remaining cross-examination of this witness was recorded thereafter on 20.04.2010 i.e. about 6 months after recording of his examination-in-chief and cross-examination in part. In the remaining cross-examination conducted on 20.04.2010, this witness stated that accused, who is present in Court, is not Ashiq. Ashiq was a muslim boy of Mantola, who used to harass his daughter Vineeta. On the date of incident, he had seen him alongwith Amit coming out from his house. It was Ashiq of Mantola who had burnt his daughter. Surprisingly this specific cross-examination was not done on first available opportunity i.e. 29.09.2009, however, when this witness was further cross-examined after a delay of about 6 months then this witness stated that a muslim boy named Ashiq was the real assailant who had burnt his daughter. This witness has also stated that his daughter told him the name of aforesaid Ashiq not the Ashiq present in the Court. On the request of A.D.G.C, an opportunity to cross examine this witness was provided to prosecution without declaring this witness as hostile. In his cross-examination by prosecution, this witness stated that the name of sister of accused Ashish present in the Court is Pooja. He has not named Ashish in the written report.

19. Brother of the informant Dabbu P.W.2 in his deposition has stated that he was standing downstairs at his house, when his wife shouted that Ashiq and Amit had burnt Vineeta. Vineeta was his niece and she was on the terrace. He went to terrace and saw that Vineeta was lying in a burned state. This witness is not an eyewitness but arrived immediately on the spot and had seen Vineeta lying in a burned state. He even tried to extinguish the fire and had taken Vineeta to the hospital in a burnt condition who died during the course of treatment on 21.07.2008. This witness was declared hostile on the request of prosecution and was cross-examined. In his cross-examination by the prosecution, this witness stated that he had not seen Ashiq, Kishore and Sethi running from the spot. However, this witness has stated that Ashiq, Kishore and Sethi, who are present in the Court, are the residents of his colony / mohalla. This witness was also cross-examined by defence in which he stated that accused Ashiq, who is present in Court, is Ashish of his colony. Accused Ashiq is a muslim boy of Mantola.

20. Sister-in-law / bhabhi of the informant Mithlesh has been examined as P.W.3, who in her deposition has stated that on the date, time and place of incident, she heard the shrieks of her niece Vineeta and on reaching at the spot, she saw Vineeta burning. She had not seen anyone pouring kerosene on Vineeta and setting her on fire. This witness was also declared hostile and was cross-examined by the prosecution in which she stated that Ashish is her neighbour and she does not know Ashiq. This witness was not cross-examined by defence.

21. Ashok Kumart P.W.4 is a witness of inquest and has proved the inquest report as Ex.Ka.-3. This witness has not been cross-examined by the defence.

22. Dr. Sunehri Lal P.W.5 is the autopsy surgeon, who has conducted postmortem examination of the deceased Vineeta and has proved the same as Ex.Ka.-11 along with 10 police papers, which have been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-3 to Ex.Ka.-10. This autopsy surgeon, in his deposition has stated that he found superficial to deep burn marks all over the body of deceased except her face as ante-mortem injuries. The hair on the head was singed. There was a cut mark on the right forearm. No abnormality was found in the head and neck. In the opinion of this doctor, shock as a result of ante-mortem burn injuries, was the cause of the death of the deceased. In his cross-examination, this witness has stated that burn injuries sustained by the deceased could have been caused in an effort to commit suicide by burning.

23. Head Constable Dinesh Kumar P.W.6, who was the scribe of the first information report, is a formal witness who has proved the first information report as Ex.Ka.-12 and G.D. Report No.4 dated 21.07.2010 as Ex.Ka.-13.

24. Sub Inspector Lalit Kumar Tyagi P.W.7 was the first Investigating Officer of this case who conducted the inquest proceedings and has prepared the inquest report Ex.Ka.-3. On 22.07.2008, he also recorded the statement of the informant, inspected the place of incident and prepared the site plan, which has been proved by him as Ex.Ka.-14. He also took into possession a plastic container and partial burnt plastic mat from the scene of the crime and prepared recovery memo, which has been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-15. This witness also seized a 5 litre blue plastic container without lid and a plastic mat which was compressed due to burning, from the place of incident. This witness has proved the blue plastic container as Material Ex.Ka.1, partially burnt plastic mat as Material Ex.-2 and bundle of cloth as Material Ex.-3.

25. Sub Inspector Ganesh Pal Singh P.W.8, the subsequent Investigating Officer of the case recorded further statement of the informant Pradeep and statement of witnesses of inquest and that of accused Kishore and Sethi and finally submitted the charge-sheet, which has been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-16.

26. Garima Yadav P.W.9 in her deposition has stated that on 20.07.2008, she was posted as A.C.M.-III and she recorded the dying declaration of the victim Vineeta, who was admitted in the Emergency Ward of S.N. Medical College, Agra. After issuance of fitness certificate by the doctor, she started writing the dying declaration of the victim at 10:40 P.M. on that day and in her dying declaration she (deceased) told her name as Vineeta and has stated that “Ashish had set her on fire. He is her neighbour and lives in the same lane. He has her photographs. He poured oil on her and set her ablaze. She did not know the time and there was no one else at the home at that time”. Owing to bandage on the victim's hands, thumb impression of her right leg toe was taken on the dying declaration and after her statement was completed, the doctor again certified that Vineeta was conscious during her statement. This witness has proved the dying declaration of Vineeta as Ex.Ka.-17. She was cross-examined by the defence and in her cross-examination she stated that victim Vineeta, was in general ward, where other patients were present. No one was beside her to tell. The curtain was drawn, preventing anyone from seeing her. She has specifically denied the defence suggestion that victim might have told the name of accused Ashiq but she may have written the same as Ashish.

27. Dr. Brahmdev P.W.10 is the doctor who has certified the fitness of Vineeta both prior to recording of her dying declaration and after recording of her dying declaration. P.W.10 in his examination-in-chief has stated that on 20.07.2008, he was posted as Chief Medical Officer (Emergency) at S.N. Medical College, Agra and on that day at 10:35 P.M. the victim Vineeta was admitted in Emergency Ward in a burnt condition for treatment. Before recording her dying declaration by the Magistrate, this witness was asked to provide a written report regarding the victim, which was given by him as under :

“ The victim Vineeta was fully conscious to give statement and she was having some difficulty in pronouncing the words.

After completing the statement of the victim, this witness certified that □the victim remained conscious during her statement and she remained conscious even after her statement.”

He further stated that aforesaid two reports are in his handwriting and signed by him prior to and after recording of the statement of the victim on Ex.Ka.-17. He also stated that there may be a difference in the alphabet while being pronounced by victim.

This witness was cross-examined by the defence and in his cross-examination, he deposed that because of mistake of alphabet, instead of name of Ashiq it could have been Ashish. However, there was no cross-examination on the point of fitness of victim of this witness by defence.

28. The main contention / arguments of the learned counsel for the appellant was that the first information report was registered against one muslim boy named Ashiq, who was from Mantola and appellant has been falsely prosecuted and wrongly convicted. The second argument was that the dying declaration is very brief and it is not recorded in question-answer form and as the deceased was burnt more than 90%, therefore, in the totality of the circumstances the dying declaration is not reliable. Last contention was that the sentence awarded to the appellant is excessive.

Analysis

29. In the light of above arguments, following questions arise for consideration in present appeal :

(i) Whether Ashiq named in the first information report and Ashish named by the deceased in her dying declaration is one and the same person or not and whether Ashiq of Mantola is the real accused not the appellant ?

(ii) Whether the dying declaration of the deceased is reliable or not ?

(iii) Whether the prosecution could be said to have proved its case against the appellant - convict beyond reasonable doubt ?

(vi) Whether the sentence awarded to the appellant is excessive or not ?

30. The most crucial aspect of the present case is that all prosecution witnesses of facts have turned as hostile, a fact which has been strongly pressed by the defence in its favour by arguing that Ashiq of Mantola was the real accused, not the appellant, which is admitted by father and uncle of victim in their deposition as P.W.1 and P.W.2.

31. The word 'hostile' or 'hostile witness' has not been used in the Evidence Act. The word 'hostile witness' carries a specific significance under the English Law, but the position in India is different and here it is left to the discretion of the Court to allow a party to cross-examine its own witness, regardless of a declaration of hostility. Hon'ble Apex Court in K.P. Tamilmaran Vs. The State Rep. by Deputy Superintendent, 2025 INSC 576 / 2025 SCC OnLine SC 958 in para 31 has observed that :

"The phrase 'hostile witness' is commonly used in criminal jurisprudence and court proceedings. We too cannot escape the blame of using the term 'hostile witness' in our judgment. We do it for pragmatic reasons. Some words like 'hostile witness' in this case are now a part of our legal vocabulary. There is no point in inventing or substituting new words or phrases, at least in the present case, and we leave that for the future. But what is necessary, however, is to explain the meaning of the term as it is now to be understood. The phrase 'hostile witness' has come to be used for a witness who gives a statement contrary to the story of the side for which he/she is a witness. All the same, because a witness has supported some, though not all, aspects of a case, it would not automatically mean that this witness has to be declared 'hostile'. A party can cross-examine its own witness under Section 154 Evidence Act, even without getting a declaration of 'hostility'. The only restriction to cross-examination under Section 154 Evidence Act is that the party, who seeks to cross-examine its own witness, must obtain the leave of the Court. Whether there is a declaration of 'hostility' or not, one thing is clear that evidence of witness, who has been cross-examined under Section 154 Evidence Act by the party who called such witness, cannot be washed off entirely and it is for the Court to see what can be retrieved from such evidence."

32. Hon'ble Apex Court in Koli Lakhmanbhai Chandabhai vs. State of Gujarat 1999 (8) SCC 624, has held that evidence of hostile witness can be relied upon to the extent it supports the version of prosecution and it is not necessary that it should be relied upon or rejected as a whole. It is settled law that evidence of hostile witness also can be relied upon to the extent to which it supports the prosecution version. Evidence of such witness cannot be treated as washed off the record. It remains admissible in the trial and there is no legal bar to base his conviction upon his testimony, if corroborated by other reliable evidence.

33. In Ramesh Harijan vs. State of U.P. 2012 (5) SCC 777, the Hon'ble Apex Court has also held that it is settled legal position that the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. The evidence of such witness cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether.

34. In State of U.P. vs. Ramesh Prasad Misra and another 1996 AIR (Supreme Court) 2766, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that evidence of a hostile witnesses would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon.

35. Hon'ble Apex Court in Sat Paul V. Delhi Administration (1976) 1 SCC 727 in para 52 has observed that :

“52. From the above conspectus, it emerges clear that even in a criminal prosecution when a witness is cross-examined and contradicted with the leave of the court, by the party calling him, his evidence cannot, as a matter of law, be treated as washed off the record altogether. It is for the Judge of fact to consider in each case whether as a result of such cross-examination and contradiction, the witness stands thoroughly discredited or can still be believed in regard to a part of his testimony. If the Judge finds that in the process, the credit of the witness has not been completely shaken, he may, after reading and considering the evidence of the witness, as a whole, with due caution and care, accept, in the light of the other evidence on the record, that part of his testimony which he finds to be creditworthy and act upon it. If in a given case, the whole of the testimony of the witness is impugned, and in the process, the witness stands squarely and totally discredited, the Judge should, as matter of prudence, discard his evidence in toto.”

36. A 3-Judge Bench of Apex Court in the case of Khujji @ Surendra Tiwari v. State of Madhya Pradesh (1991) 3 SCC 627, relying on it's previous cases of Bhagwan Singh v. State of Haryana (1976) 1 SCC 389, Sri Rabindra Kuamr Dey v. State of Orissa (1976) 4 SCC 233, Syad Akbar v. State of Karnataka (1980) 1 SCC 30, has held that the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. It was further held that the evidence of such witnesses cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether but the same can be accepted to the extent their version is found to be dependable on a careful scrutiny thereof. Relying on the aforesaid judgments, Apex Court has taken a similar view in the case of Selvamani v. State Rep. by the Inspector of Police (2024) 19 SCC 112 and has held that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant parts thereof which are admissible in law, can be used by the prosecution or the defence.

37. Thus, the law can be summarized to the effect that evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant part thereof, which are admissible in law, can be used by prosecution or the defence. The maxim ‘falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus’ i.e. ‘false in one thing, false in everything', is not applicable to our criminal justice system. It is for the Court to distinguish the wheat from the chaff while dealing with the deposition of a hostile witness. A witness may be allowed to be cross-examined by the party who calls him under Section 154 (1) of the Evidence Act and sub-section 2 of this section makes it clear that nothing in this section shall disentitle the person so permitted under sub-section (1), to rely on any part of the evidence of such witness. Law is well settled that the evidence of a witness, who has been cross-examined by the side which produced him, cannot be totally discarded. It is also settled law that the evidence of hostile witness can also be relied upon by the prosecution to the extent to which it supports the prosecution version of the incident. The evidence of such witness cannot be treated as washed off the records; it remains admissible in trial and there is no legal bar to even base the conviction of the accused upon such testimony, if corroborated with other reliable evidence. There can be several reasons for a witness to turn hostile and the Court must look into these factors while evaluating the evidence given by a hostile witness. Therefore, we will be evaluating the depositions of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 in the light of above noted well settled position of law regarding admissibility and reliability of hostile witnesses.

Question No.1 : Whether Ashiq named in the first information report and Ashish named by the deceased in her dying declaration is one and the same person or not or whether Ashiq of Mantola is the real accused not the appellants ?

38. In the present case this is the strongest argument of the defence and, therefore, we have considered oral and documentary evidence in this regard very minutely and we find that in written report / Tehrir Ex.Ka.1, Ashiq son of Raj Kumar has been described as brother of Pooja, who is stated to be the friend of the deceased. The deceased Vineeta in her dying declaration (Ex.Ka.-17) has described Ashish as the only accused, whom she stated to be her neighbour and resides in her street. It has also been stated by her that he is having photographs of the deceased.

39. Informant Pradeep P.W.1 in his examination-in-chief has stated that his daughter's friend Pooja who is also the sister of Ashiq, took his daughter in a fair on 14.04.2008 where Pooja called Ashiq and Amit and took photographs of deceased with Amit. Thereafter Ashiq, Amit, Kishore and Sethi were blackmailing his daughter. In his examination-in-chief he has supported the contents of the written report / Tehrir and has alleged that Amit and Ashiq have burnt his daughter. He also stated that Amit and Ashiq came on her rooftop and Kishore and Sethi were standing on the rooftop of Ashiq, which clearly signifies that Ashiq was his neighbour and was having his home nearby.

40. In the site plan prepared by the Investigating Officer, house of appellants is shown to be the adjacent one with a gap of mere 2 feet and it is shown that from the rooftop of appellants, he alongwith other accused came on rooftop of informant's house by using stairs. However, in his cross-examination P.W.1 has specifically stated that father of both Ashiq and Amit are very influential and, therefore, he had not made complaint against Ashiq and Amit either to their fathers or to the residents of his colony.

41. P.W.1's cross-examination on 09.07.2009 remained unconcluded and was deferred for next date. However, he was cross-examined thereafter only on 20.04.2010 and in the very beginning of his cross-examination, he stated that Ashiq was a muslim boy of Mantola. It seems that during this period from 09.07.2009 to 20.04.2010, this witness was won over by the defence and that is why in the very beginning of his cross-examination done on 20.04.2010, this witness has stated that accused present in the Court is not Ashiq and thereafter stated that Ashiq is a muslim boy of Mantola. This question could have been asked very easily on the previous date of his cross-examination i.e. 09.07.2009. In his remaining cross-examination on 20.04.2010, he has stated that it was Ashiq of Mantola who has burnt his daughter. He further stated that he does not know Pooja. Surprisingly, during his cross-examination, this witness stated that his daughter has informed him the name of Ashiq, however, accused present in the Court is not Ashiq. At this juncture, when this witness deviated from the prosecution story, on the request of A.D.G.C., the prosecution was granted permission to cross-examine this witness and in the cross-examination done by A.D.G.C. he stated that he does not know that name of sister of accused Ashiq, who is present in Court is Pooja or not. Then, he himself stated that he was Ashish. He further stated that he know accused Ashish whose father name is Raj Kumar. This witness was not asked any question regarding his statement made in examination-in-chief, when he stated that Pooja is the sister of Ashiq and his said statement remained uncontroverted in his cross-examination. However, in the cross-examination done by A.D.G.C., he has stated that name of brother of Pooja is Ashish, meaning thereby that brother of Pooja is Ashiq and Ashish both.

42. P.W.2 Dabbu has stated in his examination-in-chief that Ashiq and Amit burnt Vineeta. However, this witness was declared hostile and nothing material came out in his cross-examination done by A.D.G.C. However, in the cross-examination done by the defence, this witness specifically stated that accused Ashiq present in Court is Ashish of his colony. But Ashiq of Mantola, who was a muslim boy, was the culprit. However, the fact remains that in the cross-examination by the defence, this witness has fairly conceded that accused Ashiq present in Court is Ashish of their colony.

43. P.W.3 Mithlesh, who is the wife of P.W.2 and sister-in-law of P.W.1, was declared hostile and in her cross-examination by A.D.G.C., she stated that Ashish is her neighbour and Ashiq is not her neighbour.

44. Perusal of the trial court record reveals that father of appellant namely, Raj Kumar has given an affidavit on 30.08.2008, wherein he has specifically stated that Ashiq and Ashish Kumar are the names of his son and his school name is Ashish, whereas he is called Ashiq in their home. The aforesaid affidavit is still available in original records of the learned trial Court, which was filed in support of the application moved by appellant - convict for declaring him as juvenile and sending his case to Juvenile Justice Board. The aforesaid application is dated 29.08.2008 and affidavit is dated 30.08.2008. To rebut this contention, Raj Kumar has not been examined as defence witness. In the written report / Tehrir Ex.Ka.-1 as well as in the charge-sheet Ex.Ka.-16, the name of accused is mentioned as Ashiq son of Raj Kumar. The deceased in her dying declaration Ex.Ka.-17 has named the assailant as her neighbour and resident of their street. P.W.1 in his cross-examination has admitted that the name of father of accused Ashish present in Court is Raj Kumar. P.W.2 in his cross-examination by A.D.G.C. has stated that accused Ashiq, Kishore and Sethi present in Court are his neighbours and accused Ashiq present in Court is Ashish of their colony. P.W.3 in his cross-examination by A.D.G.C. has stated that Ashish is her neighbour.

45. Perusal of the record of the trial Court reveals that the case was committed by the name of accused Ashiq. Charge was framed against appellant Ashiq as accused Ashiq on 15.01.2009. Appellant □ convict Ashiq signed as Ashiq continuously from 19.12.2008 to 22.11.2011 and it is only on 02.12.2011, he firstly signed as Ashiq alias Ashish. Thereafter he signed as Ashiq alias Ashish on 15.12.2011, 23.12.2011, 16.01.2012 & 31.01.2012 and thereafter he started signing as Ashish Kumar from 22.02.2012 onwards.

46. Informant Pradeep P.W.1 remained present for recording of his deposition on 06.03.2009, 06.04.2009, 13.05.2009, 22.05.2009, 16.06.2009 and his examination-in-chief was recorded only on 09.07.2009 and his cross-examination was deferred for the next date i.e. 29.07.2009. However, on 29.07.2009, learned defence counsel failed to turn up to cross-examine him, inspite of availing specific opportunity of 15 minutes at 2:30 P.M., therefore, opportunity to cross-examine this witness was closed by learned trial Court vide it□s order dated 29.07.2009. Thereafter application of defence for recalling P.W.1 for remaining cross-examination was allowed by the trial court on 03.12.2009 and informant was accordingly summoned. On 20.04.2010, informant came present and was cross-examined and prosecution also cross-examined this witness. It is first time on 20.04.2010, the alleged consensual defence was developed that Ashiq was a muslim boy of Mantola colony. However, even on 20.04.2010 the appellant Ashiq has signed as Ashiq and continued to sign as Ashiq till 22.11.2011. Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.3265 of 2009 filed by appellant Ashiq was rejected by this Court on 22.01.2010 and even before this Court, no such plea was taken by the appellant accused Ashiq. Thus, it appears that, on account of a long gap between the examination-in-chief and remaining cross-examination, the informant and his family members were won over by the accused and that is why informant resiled from the version as deposed in the examination-in-chief, which fully incriminate the appellant □ convict.

47. In this background, the deposition of two defence witnesses is also very important. Sunny D.W.1 in his cross-examination by the prosecution has stated that accused Ashiq resides at a distance of 8 to 10 houses from his house, whereas in his examination-in-chief he has stated Ashiq to be resident of different colony. After stating that accused Ashiq resides at a distance of 8 to 10 houses from his house, this witness himself stated that he is not residing near the house of Ashiq but resides near the house of Ashish. He confirmed the name of accused present in Court as Ashish and name of his father as Raj Kumar. This witness in his cross-examination has fairly conceded that there is an affidavit available on record on which photograph of father of accused Ashish alias Ashiq is affixed. In paragraph 2 of the said affidavit, it is specifically mentioned that Ashish and Ashiq are the names of his son. Therefore, this witness has confirmed the fact that Raj Kumar, the father of appellant, has admitted in his affidavit that appellant Ashiq is known by both names i.e. Ashish and Ashiq.

48. Ramesh Chandra D.W.2 in his examination-in-chief toed the line of defence, however, in his cross-examination he has fairly admitted that his house situate at a distance of 7 to 8 houses from the house of Ashiq. He (D.W.2) further stated that he know Ashiq very well and name of his father is Raj Kumar. Therefore, even the defence witnesses are supporting the prosecution story that appellant is known by both names Ashiq as well as Ashish.

49. The most important scenario in this case, which emerged from the very beginning i.e. from written report / Tehrir, is that Ashiq son of Raj Kumar is the brother of Pooja. The accused-appellant in his statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. has not denied that his sister name is not Pooja. When accused Ashiq's father name is mentioned as Raj Kumar and his sister name is specifically mentioned as Pooja in the written report / Tehrir, then it is clear that the aforesaid Ashiq was not a muslim boy, rather a hindu boy. It is only after the defence has won over father of the deceased after a considerable lapse of time that a consensual defence version was agreed upon that Ashiq was a muslim boy of Mantola. The deceased Vineeta in her dying declaration has specifically stated that it was Ashish, who is her neighbour and is having her photograph, who has actually burnt her. The dying declaration is, therefore, clear that her neighbour Ashish has burnt her. Therefore, in the totality of the circumstances, it is apparent that the appellant is having two names Ashiq and Ashish and is also the neighbour of informant.

50. The informant Pradeep P.W.1 in his written report / Tehrir has specifically mentioned that accused Ashiq is the brother of Pooja and Pooja was the friend of his daughter Vineeta. In the first information report, father's name of Ashiq is specifically written as of Raj Kumar. However, he (P.W.1) later on in his deposition as P.W.1 seems to be won over by defence and, therefore, he toed the consensual line of defence that aforesaid Ashiq was a muslim boy of Mantola. Therefore, he toed into this consensual defence version to the fullest extent and his brother Dabbu P.W.2 also toed in the same. Pradeep P.W.1, Dabbu P.W.2, Mithlesh P.W.3, Sunny D.W.1 and Ramesh Chandra D.W.2 all have specifically stated that appellant Ashish is their neighbour. The trial court has considered this aspect of defence and rightly found that Ashiq and Ashish is the one and the same guy. In our considered opinion appellant Ashiq is Ashish and he is known by both names.

51. It is the case of defence that Ashiq, a muslim boy from Mantola, was the real culprit. However, in the first information report, aforesaid Ashiq is specifically stated to be the brother of Pooja as well as son of Raj Kumar. Therefore, this defence version does not inspire any confidence and cannot be accepted at all. It was Ashiq, who was a hindu boy, whose father name is Raj Kumar and sister name is Pooja, who is the neighbour of informant, who is alleged to have committed the crime. Therefore, we are of the opinion that alleged Ashiq, a muslim boy of Mantola, was not the real accused and appellant is known by Ashish as well as Ashiq. Question No.1 is answered accordingly. The trial court has thus rightly found that Ashish is also having another name Ashiq.

Question No.2 : Whether the dying declaration of the deceased is reliable or not ?

52. Garima Yadav P.W.9 has recorded the dying declaration of Vineeta on 20.07.2008 at 10:40 P.M. Before recording the dying declaration, P.W.9 obtained the fitness certificate of Dr. Brahmdev P.W.10 and only after issuance of fitness certificate, she recorded the dying declaration of Vineeta. After recording the dying declaration, she again obtained the fitness certificate of Dr. Brahmdev P.W.10. It is the contention of learned counsel for the appellant that the victim was having some difficulty in pronunciation, therefore, P.W.9 wrongly recorded the name of accused Ashish instead of Ashiq. To buttress this argument, learned counsel for the appellant drew the attention of this Court on the statement of P.W.10, wherein he has specifically stated that there may be a difference in the alphabet while pronouncing and because of mistake of alphabet, instead of name of Ashiq it could have been recorded as Ashish. It is pertinent to mention here that the dying declaration was recorded by Garima Yadav, P.W.9, who in her cross-examination has denied the suggestion of defence in this specific respect that victim might have told the name of Ashiq and she might have written the name of Ashish instead. P.W.10, in his deposition, has not stated that the victim told the name of accused in her dying declaration as Ashiq, moreover P.W.10 is not the witness, who has recorded the dying declaration, but a medical expert, who has given certificate of fitness. It was P.W.9, who has recorded the dying declaration of victim and she has firmly stated that victim has told the name of Ashish. Moreover, it is the case of prosecution from the very beginning that it was Ashiq son of Raj Kumar, who was the assailant and a neighbour of victim. Therefore, there is no force in the argument so raised by learned counsel for the appellant that name of Ashish has been wrongly recorded instead of Ashiq due to pronunciation difficulty. The dying declaration of the deceased recorded by P.W.9 is proved as Ex.Ka.-17, which is reproduced verbatim here-in-below :-

"नाम विनीता। आशीष ने जलाया। पड़ोसी है गली में रहता है। फोटो है मेरी उसके पास। तेल डालकर जलाया। टाइम नहीं पता है घर में कोई और नहीं था।"

53. A dying declaration is admitted in evidence on the principle of proesumitur mentiri i.e. a man will not meet his maker with a lie in his mouth. Dying declaration does not require any corroboration as long as it creates confidence in the mind of the Court and is free from any form of tutoring. In Lakhan V. State of MP(2010) 8 SCC 514, the Apex Court in para no.9 of its judgment has observed as under :-

"9. The doctrine of dying declaration is enshrined in the legal maxim nemo moriturus praesumitur mentire, which means 'a man will not meet his Maker with a lie in his mouth'. The doctrine of dying declaration is enshrined in Section 32 of the Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter called as 'the Evidence Act') as an exception to the general rule contained in Section of the Evidence Act, which provides that oral evidence in all cases must be direct i.e. it must be the evidence of a witness, who says he saw it. The dying declaration is, in fact, the statement of a person, who cannot be called as witness and, therefore, cannot be cross-examined. Such statements themselves are relevant facts in certain cases."

54. In Khushal Rao v. State of Bombay AIR 1958 SC 22, Kusa v. State of Orissa (1980) 2 SCC 207 and in Meesala Ramakrishan v. State of A.P. (1994) 4 SCC 182 (SCC p. 183, para 4) it has been held that the law is well settled that the conviction can be founded solely on the basis of dying declaration, if the same inspires full confidence.

55. In Ranjit Singh v. State of Punjab (2006) 13 SCC 130, it has been held that: (SCC p. 134, para 13)

"conviction can be recorded on the basis of a dying declaration alone, if the same is wholly reliable, but in the event there exists any suspicion as regards the correctness or otherwise of the said dying declaration, the courts in arriving at the judgment of conviction shall look for some corroborating evidence."

56. The Apex Court in Nanhau Ram v. State of M.P. 1988 Supp SCC 152 has held that normally, the court, in order to satisfy itself whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration, looks up to the medical opinion. But, where the eyewitness said that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the dying declaration, the medical opinion cannot prevail. While dealing with the evidence of the declarant's mind, the Constitution Bench in Laxman v. State of Maharashtra (2002) 6 SCC 710, has laid down thus: (SCC pp. 713-14, para 3)

“The juristic theory regarding acceptability of a dying declaration is that such declaration is made in extremity, when the party is at the point of death and when every hope of this world is gone, when every motive to falsehood is silenced, and the man is induced by the most powerful consideration to speak only the truth. Notwithstanding the same, great caution must be exercised in considering the weight to be given to this species of evidence on account of the existence of many circumstances which may affect their truth. The situation in which a man is on the deathbed is so solemn and serene, is the reason in law to accept the veracity of his statement. It is for this reason the requirements of oath and cross-examination are dispensed with. Since the accused has no power of cross-examination, the courts insist that the dying declaration should be of such a nature as to inspire full confidence of the court in its truthfulness and correctness. The court, however, has always to be on guard to see that the statement of the deceased was not as a result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. The court also must further decide that the deceased was in a fit state of mind and had the opportunity to observe and identify the assailant. Normally, therefore, the court in order to satisfy itself whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration looks up to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitnesses state that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the declaration, the medical opinion will not prevail, nor can it be said that since there is no certification of the doctor as to the fitness of the mind of the declarant, the dying declaration is not acceptable. A dying declaration can be oral or in writing and any adequate method of communication whether by words or by signs or otherwise will suffice provided the indication is positive and definite.”

57. In the State of MP V. Dal Singh (2013) 14 SCC 159, an issue arose regarding the acceptability of dying declaration where the victim suffered from 100% burn injuries and had placed her thumb impression on her statement and the ridges and curves were clearly found on the thumb impression. The Apex Court in para 30 of this judgement has observed that “There may also be in a given case, a situation where a part of the body may bear upon it severe burns, but a small part of the body may have none. When burns occur on the scalp, they may cause greater difficulties. They can usually be distinguished from wounds inflicted before the body was burnt by their appearance, their position in areas highly susceptible to burning, and on fleshy areas by the findings recorded after internal examination. Shock suffered due to extensive burns is the usual cause of death, and delayed death may be a result of inflammation of the respiratory tract, caused by the inhalation of smoke. Severe damage to the extent of blistering of the tongue and the upper respiratory tract can follow due to the inhalation of smoke.”

58. The Apex Court in para 16 of PV Radhakrishnan V. State of Karnataka (2003) 6 SCC 443 has observed that

“The residuary question whether the percentage of burns suffered is a determinative factor to affect the credibility of the dying declaration and the improbability of its recording. There is no hard-and-fast rule of universal application in this regard. Much would depend upon the nature of the burn, part of the body affected by the burn, impact of the burn on the faculties to think and convey the idea or facts coming to mind and other relevant factors. Percentage of burns alone would not determine the probability or otherwise of making the dying declaration”

59. In Ram Bihari Yadav V. State of Bihar & Ors. MANU/SC0302/998 in para 9, the Apex Court has held that “Generally, the dying declaration ought to be recorded in the form of questions and answers but if a dying declaration is not elaborate but consists of only a few sentences and is in the actual words of the maker the mere fact that it is not in question-answer form cannot be a ground against its acceptability or reliability. The mental condition of the maker of the declaration, alertness of mind, memory and understanding of what he is saying, are matters which can be observed by any person. But to lend assurance to those factors having regard to the importance of the dying declaration, the certificate of a medically trained person is insisted upon. In the absence of availability of a doctor to certify the above-mentioned factors, if there is other evidence to show that the recorder of the statement has satisfied himself about those requirements before recording the dying declaration there is no reason as to why the dying declaration should not be accepted.”

60. The Hon’ble Apex Court in para 22 of Atbir V. Govt. (NCT of Delhi) (2010) 9 SCC 1 has observed as under :

“(i) Dying declaration can be the sole basis of conviction if it inspires the full confidence of the court.

(ii) The court should be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind at the time of making the statement and that it was not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination.

(iii) Where the court is satisfied that the declaration is true and voluntary, it can base its conviction without any further corroboration.

(iv) It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that the dying declaration cannot be the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborated. The rule requiring corroboration is merely a rule of prudence.

(v) Where the dying declaration is suspicious, it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence.

(vi) A dying declaration which suffers from infirmity such as the deceased was unconscious and could never make any statement cannot form the basis of conviction.

(vii) Merely because a dying declaration does not contain all the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected.

(viii) Even if it is a brief statement, it is not to be discarded.

(ix) When the eyewitness affirms that the deceased was not in a fit and conscious state to make the dying declaration, medical opinion cannot prevail.

(x) If after careful scrutiny, the court is satisfied that it is true and free from any effort to induce the deceased to make a false statement and if it is coherent and consistent, there shall be no legal impediment to make it the basis of conviction, even if there is no corroboration.”

61. The Apex Court in Paniben v. State of Gujarat (1992) 2 SCC 474 has laid down some factors, which can be considered to determine when a dying declaration should be accepted. The relevant para 18 of this judgment is reproduced herein below :-

“(i) There is neither rule of law nor of prudence that dying declaration cannot be acted upon without corroboration. (See Munnu Raja v. State of M.P. [(1976) 3 SCC 104 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 376 : (1976) 2 SCR 764])

(ii) If the court is satisfied that the dying declaration is true and voluntary it can base conviction on it, without corroboration. (See State of U.P. v. Ram Sagar Yadav [(1985) 1 SCC 552 : 1985 SCC (Cri) 127 : AIR 1985 SC 416] and Ramawati Devi v. State of Bihar [(1983) 1 SCC 211 : 1983 SCC (Cri) 169 : AIR 1983 SC 164] .)

(iii) The court has to scrutinize the dying declaration carefully and must ensure that the declaration is not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination. The deceased had an opportunity to observe and identify the assailants and was in a fit state to make the declaration. (See K. Ramachandra Reddy v. Public Prosecutor [(1976) 3 SCC 618 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 473 : AIR 1976 SC 1994] .)

(iv) Where a dying declaration is suspicious, it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence. (See Rasheed Beg v. State of M.P. [(1974) 4 SCC 264 : 1974 SCC (Cri) 426])

(v) Where the deceased was unconscious and could never make any dying declaration the evidence with regard to it is to be rejected. (See Kake Singh v. State of M.P. [1981 Supp SCC 25 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 645 : AIR 1982 SC 1021])

(vi) A dying declaration which suffers from infirmity cannot form the basis of conviction. (See Ram Manorath v. State of U.P. [(1981) 2 SCC 654 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 581])

(vii) Merely because a dying declaration does not [Added by official Corrigendum No. F.3/Ed. B.J./107/2003 dated 28-10-03] contain the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected. (See State of Maharashtra v. Krishnamurti Laxmipati Naidu [1980 Supp SCC 455 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 364 : AIR 1981 SC 617] .)

(viii) Equally, merely because it is a brief statement, it is not to be discarded. On the contrary, the shortness of the statement itself guarantees truth. (See Surajdeo Ojha v. State of Bihar [1980 Supp SCC 769 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 519 : AIR 1979 SC 1505] .)

(ix) Normally, the court in order to satisfy whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration looks up to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitness said that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the dying declaration, the medical opinion cannot prevail. (See Nanhau Ram v. State of M.P. [1988 Supp SCC 152 : 1988 SCC (Cri) 342 : AIR 1988 SC 912])

(x) Where the prosecution version differs from the version as given in the dying declaration, the said declaration cannot be acted upon. (See State of U.P. v. Madan Mohan [(1989) 3 SCC 390 : 1989 SCC (Cri) 585 : AIR 1989 SC 1519] .)

(xi) Where there are more than one statements in the nature of dying declaration, the one first in point of time must be preferred. Of course, if the plurality of the dying declaration could be held to be trustworthy and reliable, it has to be accepted. (See Mohanlal Gangaram Gehani v. State of Maharashtra [(1982) 1 SCC 700 : 1982 SCC (Cri) 334 : AIR 1982 SC 839] .”

62. The Hon’ble Apex Court in Irfan alias Naka Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, 2023 SCC OnLine 1060 in para 62 has affirmed the aforesaid factors for determining when a dying declaration should be accepted. However, the Apex Court has made it clear that these factors will only affect the weight of the dying declaration and not its admissibility. In this case, there were two dying declarations, which were not found consistent and were rather found contradictory to the oral evidence on record.

63. The Apex Court in PV Radhakrishnan V. State of Karnataka (2003)6SCC443 in para 12 and in Naeem V. State of UP (2024) 3 SCR 36 in para 6, has observed that a dying declaration carries great evidentiary weight but lacks the safeguard of cross-examination, so courts must ensure it inspires full confidence. The declaration must be free from tutoring, prompting, or imagination, and the deceased must have been in a fit mental state with a clear opportunity to identify the assailant. Once the court is satisfied of its truth and voluntariness, a conviction can be based solely on it without corroboration. The rule requiring corroboration is not an absolute rule of law but merely a rule of prudence. Thus, a credible and reliable dying declaration alone is sufficient to sustain a conviction.

64. The Apex Court in Surajdheo Ojha & Ors. V. State of Bihar 1980 (Supp) SCC 769 in para 3 observed that

“Moreover, the deceased has also given a short statement which is a proof of the manner in which the deceased was assaulted. The shortness of the statement itself, appears to be the guarantee of its truth. Even the Doctors who examined the deceased do not say, that having regard to the injuries, the deceased would have become unconscious immediately. In this view of the matter we are fully satisfied about the truth of the dying declaration.”

65. Law thus can be summarized that a credible and reliable dying declaration alone is sufficient to sustain a conviction. The rule requiring corroboration is not an absolute rule, but merely a rule of prudence. A dying declaration, even if brief or short in nature, holds significant evidentiary value under Indian law and is well recognized as an exception to the hearsay rule under Section 32(1) of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. It is well settled that the value of a dying declaration depends not upon its length but upon its truthfulness, clarity, and the conscious state of the declarant. The absence of elaborate detail does not diminish its legal sanctity. Whenever there is a brief dying declaration it is indicative of the fact that it is neither the result of tutoring nor prompting. The shortness of the statement is itself a guarantee of its veracity.

66. Generally, the dying declaration ought to be recorded in the form of questions-answers but if a dying declaration is not elaborate but consists of only a few sentences and is in the actual words of the maker the mere fact that it is not in questions-answer form cannot be a ground against its acceptability or reliability.

67. If a person recording the dying declaration finds the victim / deceased to be in a fit physical and mental condition to make a statement, absence of fitness certificate in respect of such state of deceased is not essential in every case. The percentage of burns marks on the deceased is not a determinative factor in assessing the credibility of a dying declaration, as mental fitness depends on various factors such as the nature and impact of injuries, not solely on the extent of physical harm. The mental condition of the maker of the declaration, alertness of mind, memory and understanding of what he is saying, are matters which can be observed by any person. But to lend assurance to those factors having regard to the importance of the dying declaration, the certificate of a medically trained person is insisted upon. In the absence of availability of a doctor to certify the above mentioned factors, if there is other evidence to show that the recorder of the statement has satisfied, himself about those requirements before recording the dying declaration there is no reason as to why the dying declaration should not be accepted. Normally the court looks to the medical opinion about the fit condition of the declarant at the time of making the statement. But this cannot be an inelastic rule. If the person who records the statement or the witness to the declaration tenders satisfactory evidence as to the fit mental condition, the Dying Declaration will be accepted.

68. In the light of the above principles, the acceptability of the alleged dying declaration in the instant case has to be considered. The dying declaration is only a piece of untested evidence and must, like any other evidence, satisfy the court that what is stated therein is the unalloyed truth and that it is absolutely safe to act upon it. If after careful scrutiny, the court is satisfied that it is true and free from any effort to induce the deceased to make a false statement and if it is coherent and consistent, there shall be no legal impediment to make it the basis of conviction, even if there is no corroboration.

69. The incident happened on 20.07.2008 at 7:00 P.M., thereafter victim Vineeta was admitted to hospital and her dying declaration was recorded by P.W.9 on the same day i.e. 20.07.2008 at 10:40 P.M. Meaning thereby that the dying declaration of the victim was recorded within 3 hours 40 minutes of the occurrence of incident. The victim expired at 6:20 A.M. on the next day i.e. 21.07.2008. Vineeta in her dying declaration has specifically stated that “My name is Vineeta. Ashish has burned her. He is a neighbour and lives in the street. He has my photo. He burned her by pouring oil. I don't know the time, there was no one else in the house.”. Her dying declaration is a brief and precise statement in which she has not only named her neighbour Ashish but even the manner of incident has been precisely stated by her that she was burnt by pouring oil. Victim has also specifically stated that accused is having her photograph. The reliability of aforesaid dying declaration Ex.Ka.-17 is further strengthened by the fact recorded in her statement that at the time of incident, there was no one else in the house. The then Additional Additional City Magistrate-III, Agra, Garima Yadav P.W.9 in her deposition has proved the dying declaration of the victim Vineeta as Ex.Ka.-17. Prior to recording of dying declaration she obtained the fitness certificate of Dr. Brahmdev, P.W.10. and only after issuance of fitness certificate, she started writing the dying declaration and after writing down the same, she again obtained the certificate of P.W.10 that victim Vineeta was conscious during and after her statement. There was no suggestion by the defence to this witness P.W.9 that victim Vineeta was not in a fit state of mind at the time of giving her dying declaration. Informant has deposed that Ashiq and Amit have burnt his daughter, whereas Vineeta has named only Ashiq. Therefore, this fact further confirms that dying declaration of Vineeta is not the result of tutoring.

70. Dr. Brahmdev, P.W.10. has given certificates on the dying declaration i.e. Ex.Ka.-17. This doctor P.W.10 firstly gave a certificate prior to recording of dying declaration of victim and also gave a certificate after recording of the dying declaration. This doctor certified that Vineeta was fully conscious to give statement prior to recording of dying declaration and after completing the statement of Vineeta, this witness again certified that victim remained conscious during her statement and also remained conscious even after her statement. Although word “fitness” is missing in the deposition of this witness as well as in his certificate, but there is not an iota of evidence available either in the deposition of this witness or in the deposition of P.W.9 that victim was not mentally fit to give statement. No suggestion to this witness was also given by the defence that victim was not mentally fit to give statement. Surprisingly, autopsy surgeon Dr. Suneheri Lal P.W.5 was also not cross-examined on the point of possibility of fitness of the deceased / victim at about 10:40 P.M. on 20.07.2008.

71. We have perused the postmortem report of the deceased as well as deposition of P.W.5, the autopsy surgeon and it is clear that there was no burn injury on the face of the victim or even on her skull. It is specifically mentioned in deceased’s antemortem injuries that there was superficial to deep burn injuries all over her (deceased) body except skull region. It was also observed that scalp hair were singed, which is indicative of the fact that scalp was not burnt and only hair were singed. P.W.5 has specifically stated that there were no burn marks on her face. He further stated that no abnormality was found in the head and neck of the deceased. Resultantly, we are of the considered opinion that victim though was fully conscious before, during and after recording of her dying declaration but was also medically fit to give statement. The victim / deceased in her dying declaration has clearly stated that only the appellant was involved in the incident. Therefore, from the totality of the circumstances, we are of the opinion that prosecution has been able to prove the dying declaration of the deceased Vineeta as Ex.Ka.-17 and the same is brief, precise and reliable. In her dying declaration, the deceased has specifically named the appellant as an assailant, who has burnt her by pouring oil. The deceased has also given sufficient particulars from which the appellant could be very easily identified i.e. the appellant is her neighbour. Question No.2 is answered in the affirmative and the learned trial court has rightly found the dying declaration of deceased as reliable one.

Question No.3 : Whether the prosecution could be said to have proved it's case against the appellant - convict beyond reasonable doubt ?"

72. The prosecution has successfully proved the dying declaration of the deceased as Ex.Ka.-17 and as per aforesaid dying declaration, it was accused Ashish, who has burnt the deceased Vineeta by pouring oil upon her. The dying declaration Ex.Ka.-17 of the deceased is brief, precise and having necessary particulars to identify the assailant. Her dying declaration Ex.Ka.-17 is a reliable evidence and conviction of the appellant can be sustained only on the strength of aforesaid dying declaration without there being any corroboration. However, from the record, the prosecution has also been able to sufficiently corroborate the aforesaid dying declaration from the depositions of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 along with ocular and documentary medical evidence.

73. The first information report was lodged against Ashiq son of Raj Kumar, who is the brother of victim's friend Pooja, clearly meaning thereby that Ashiq was a hindu boy. Prosecution has been able to prove that Ashiq named in the first information report is the same guy, who has been named as Ashish by the victim in her dying declaration. We have already arrived on this conclusion that appellant Ashiq is one and the same guy having two names i.e. Ashiq and Ashish.

74. Informant P.W.1 in his deposition has specifically stated that Ashiq is the brother of Pooja. P.W.1 has also proved that on the date, place and time of incident, his daughter Vineeta was burned and had sustained burn injuries because of which she died on the next day. We have already arrived on the conclusion that after a period of about 6 months of recording his examination-in-chief and part cross-examination, this witness was won over by the defence and that is why he toed into a consensual line of defence that Ashiq was a muslim boy of Mantola. However, the defence has miserably failed to prove that Ashiq named in the first informant report was a muslim boy of Mantola.

75. P.W.2 and P.W.3 have also supported the prosecution version as far as date, place, time and manner of incident is concerned i.e. their niece Vineeta was burned on the date, place and time of incident.

76. Ocular as well as documentary medical evidence proved it on record that the deceased Vineeta sustained burn injuries and she died due to shock, as a result of extensive burn injuries. Therefore, ocular as well as documentary medical evidence corroborate this part of prosecution story that the deceased suffered burn injuries on the date and time of the alleged incident and she finally succumbed to her injuries due to shock, as a result of extensive burn injuries.

77. Site plan Ex.Ka.-14 also proves that the house of appellant is adjoining to the house of informant and, therefore, appellant is the immediate neighbour of the victim / deceased. Moreover, P.W.7 also recovered a plastic container and partially burnt plastic mat from crime scene, which also strengthen the prosecution story.

78. In the totality of the circumstances, the prosecution has been able to successfully prove the dying declaration of the deceased, which is a reliable piece of evidence. In the present case, the dying declaration Ex.Ka.-17 is in itself sufficient to convict the appellant, however, in the present case, the aforesaid dying declaration also finds sufficient corroboration from the depositions of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3. The depositions of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3. are consistent as far as date, time and place of incident is concerned. All of these witnesses have also consistently deposed that deceased sustained burn injuries on the date, time and place of incident. The prosecution has been able to successfully prove that the appellant Ashiq is also known by Ashish. The ocular as well as documentary medical evidence strengthen the prosecution story that the deceased sustained burn injuries on her body at the time of incident and ultimately she succumbed to her burn injuries within 12 hours of the incident. The case of the defence was that it was Ashiq, a muslim boy of Mantola, who was the real culprit, but the defence has miserably failed to prove the very defence taken by it. It has been proved on record that Ashiq alias Ashish is son of Raj Kumar and brother of Pooja, therefore, he is a hindu boy having necessary particulars both in the first information report as well as deceased's dying declaration, therefore, the prosecution has been successfully able to prove its case against the appellant - convict beyond reasonable doubt. Question No.3 is accordingly decided in the affirmative.

Question No.4 : Whether the sentence awarded to the appellant is excessive or not ?

79. The appellant was charged under Section 304/34 IPC and has been convicted under the same section. The appellant has been sentenced to undergo life imprisonment with a fine of Rs.20,000/- and in case of default in deposit of fine amount, he has been further sentenced to undergo additional imprisonment of two years R.I. The trial Court has not specified that the appellant has been convicted under Part-I or Part-II of Section 304 IPC. However, it is apparently clear that as appellant has been sentenced for life imprisonment, therefore, he has been convicted under Part-I of Section 304 IPC. A person can be sentenced to imprisonment for life or imprisonment of either description which may extend to 10 years and shall also be liable to fine.

80. In the present case, in additional statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. in the year 2013, the accused has stated his age to be about 23 years. Therefore, at the time of commission of offence i.e. 20.07.2008, the appellant was about 18 years of age and the deceased was a school going girl of about 16 years at the time of incident. The prosecution has successfully proved that appellant poured oil on the deceased and thereafter deceased was burned. The appellant was immediate neighbour of the victim. The victim Vineeta sustained such extensive burn injuries that she died within 12 hours of the incident. Therefore, it is clear that burn injuries were caused to the deceased by appellant with intention to cause such bodily injuries as were likely to cause death. The accused is presumed to know the consequences of his actions, of having poured oil on the deceased and setting her on fire. Burning a person alive, is a gruesome act. No one in such cases, can claim that he did not act in a cruel and unusual manner. It is a case of burning a person alive and therefore, it is the duty of the Court to deal with it in most severe and strict manner and award the maximum penalty prescribed by the law in order that it may operate as a deterrent to other persons from committing such heinous crimes. Though the trial court did not frame charge under section 302 IPC, which could have been lawfully framed, but the present case is a case, where a minor school going girl has been burned alive by appellant, therefore, the trial Court has rightly awarded the maximum penalty prescribed under section 304 Part-I i.e. life imprisonment to the appellant and no ground to interfere in the sentence so awarded to the appellant is made out. Therefore, question no.4 is decided in the negative.

81. No good ground to interfere in the well reasoned judgment of the trial court is made out. Thus there is no merit in the present appeal. Consequently, the judgment and sentence dated 30.03.2013, passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.5, Agra is hereby 'Affirmed'.

82. The appellant is in jail. He shall undergo the remaining jail sentence.

83. Let a copy of the judgment be provided immediately to the appellant through Superintendent Jail, free of cost.

84. The record of the 'Trial Court' be sent back immediately with a copy of this judgment for necessary information and compliance.

85. The appeal fails and is hereby Dismissed.

86. Before parting with this case, we direct State Government to consider the case of appellant - convict for grant of remission, if not considered already, in the light of directions issued by Hon^{ble} Supreme Court in Suo Moto Writ Petition (Crl.) No. 4 of 2021 titled In Re : Policy Strategy for Grant of Bail, 2025 INSC 239. The appellant is continuously languishing in jail from the date of his arrest. As per custody certificate dated 14.11.2025, the appellant ☐ convict had already undergone a period of 17 years 3 months and 15 days without remission and his total sentence including remission as per aforesaid custody certificate was 19 years 11 months and 27 days as on 14.11.2025. Therefore, order on remission shall be passed within a period of two months from the date of receipt of copy of this judgment, as per existing State policy of remission. Chairman and Secretary, District Legal Services Authority, Agra are also directed to ensure compliance of directions issued by Hon^{ble} Supreme Court in aforesaid case qua appellant - convict.

87. Registrar Compliance is directed to send a copy of this judgment to Chief Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh and a copy to Chairman / Secretary, District Legal Services Authority, Agra for ensuring compliance of directions issued in Para 86 of this judgment.

2. Vide order dated 12.09.2018, passed by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court, the instant criminal appeal stands abated qua appellant no. 1-Danna alias Ramesh.

Brief Facts

3. The fact of the prosecution case is that a written report was filed on 16.09.1980 by Dr. Amit Rastogi, resident of Civil Line, Moradabad stating inter-alia that since 1979, Dassa alias Ramesh was employed at his residence for domestic work. Thereafter, in September 1979, Dassa alias Ramesh brought along with him two other persons, namely, Sohan and Barati and got them employed at his residence. Since then, all three had been working at his place. Sohan used to work in the dispensary, while the other two performed household duties. On the night intervening 14/15.09.1980, at about 11□12 midnight, while we were asleep, cries were heard from the room where these three servants used to stay. The cries appeared to say, □Babuji, save me.□ Upon hearing the cries, he along with his father Dr. J.N. Rastogi and neighbors Kamal Rai Sharma and Girish Chandra Jaikwal woke up and came out. They made inquiries from the servants Dassa and Barati, who stated that they were asleep and had heard nothing. Upon asking about Sohan, they stated that he was sleeping. They searched around but, found nothing suspicious, they went back to sleep. In the next morning, only Barati came inside the house. Upon being asked about Sohan and Dassa, he stated that both had left early in the morning by train, and that he would go to the tailor to collect clothes. Thereafter, they all engaged in their respective work. However, Barati did not go to his room during the day, took his meals downstairs, and repeatedly visited the coal room without any apparent reason. This created suspicion and we questioned him about the other two servants, but he did not give any satisfactory reply and slept in the verandah instead of his room that night. Today, at about 11:00 p.m., upon hearing dogs barking and the sound of a rickshaw, he woke up and looked outside. He saw a rickshaw standing at the gate and Dassa alias Ramesh standing there. He stopped him and asked about the matter. He stated that he had come to take money for a ticket. Upon suspicion, he detained Dassa and called his neighbors Girish Chandra Jaikwal, Dr. J.N. Rastogi, and Kamal Rai Sharma. In their presence, when questioned about Sohan, Dassa confessed that he had committed a mistake and requested to be saved. He stated truthfully that few days back, three of them had gambled, in which Sohan had won Rs. 200/- and Barati had won Rs. 100/-. Sohan had given the money to someone known to him. When their own money was exhausted, they demanded money from Sohan, but he refused. This led to anger, and both of them conspired to kill Sohan. On the night at about 11□12 PM, while Sohan was sleeping on a cot, they attacked him with an iron weapon (लोहे का दाव). When he raised alarm, they gagged him, pressed him down, and repeatedly assaulted him, causing his death. Thereafter, they placed the body in a sack, covered it with wood and coal, tied the sack, and hid it in the coal room. Dassa then led us to the coal room and showed us the dead body of Sohan lying inside the sack. When asked about the weapon used in the commission of the offence, Dassa stated that Barati had concealed the iron weapon (लोहे का दाव) somewhere, the location of which is known only to him. The aforesaid written report was marked Ext.Ka.1.

4. On the basis of aforesaid written report, a First Information Report was lodged on 16.09.1980 at 00:30 hours at Case Crime No. 1293 of 1980, under Section 302/201 I.P.C., Police Station Civil Line, District Moradabad. The said First Information Report was marked as Ext.Ka.4.

5. After registration of the aforesaid case, the law set into motion and investigation of the aforesaid case started.

6. The First Information Report of this case was written by Head Moharir Babu Ram Sharma (PW-4). Thereafter, S.S.I Narottam (PW-6) has started the investigation of the aforesaid case. He, along with S.I. Nathu Singh, Constable Abdul Wahid Khan and two Home Guards left for the place of incident i.e. residence of Dr. J.S. Rastogi. He recovered the dead body of Sohan (hereinafter referred to as □deceased□). The dead body was packed in a sack. After taking out the dead body, his clothes were taken into possession and recovery memo was prepared, which was marked as Ext.Ka.7. Thereafter, the inquest proceedings on the dead body of the deceased was conducted. The photo lash, challan lash, letter to CMO, Sample and letter to R.I. were prepared, which were marked as Ext.Ka.8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 respectively. The dead body of the deceased was sealed and sent for post-mortem examination. Thereafter, he recorded the statement of Dr. Amit Rastogi and Kamal Rai Sharma. He has also prepared a Site Plan, which was marked as Ext.Ka.14. He also recorded the statement of S.I. Nathu Singh. He also got an information, from an informer, that the accused Barati was hiding in a servant□s room in the house of one Satyapal. On this information, he reached to the house of Satyapal and took Barati into his custody. Upon an interrogation, accused-Barati confessed his guilt and told that the murder of Sohan was committed with an iron weapon (लोहे का दाव), which was hidden in a briefcase kept in his own room. Thereafter, he along with two witnesses namely P.K. Das and Rakesh Chandra along with accused Barati walked ahead to the accused room. The accused Barati took out a key from his pocket, opened the lock of the room, went inside and showed the briefcase which was kept on the table. Thereafter, accused Barati opened the briefcase and showed the iron weapon kept in it and told that this is the weapon of crime. The bloodstained underwear, towel, piece of carpet, cotton, belt and shirt, which were kept in the briefcase were taken into possession, which was marked as Ext.Ka.16. The lock and the key was also taken into possession. Recovery memo was prepared and marked as Ext.Ka.15. On 17.09.1980, he recorded the statement of Rakesh Chandra.

7. After culmination of investigation, the investigating officer submitted charge-sheet on 14.12.1980, which was marked as Ext.Ka.20.

8. As the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Sessions, the learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Sessions, where the case was registered as Sessions Trial No. 550 of 1981. Learned Ist Additional Sessions Judge, Moradabad, vide order dated 27.07.1982, framed charges against the accused-appellants for the offence under Sections 302 read with 34 I.P.C. and Section 201 I.P.C., which were read over and explained to the accused-appellants in hindi, who pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

9. To bring home guilt of the accused-appellants beyond the hilt, the prosecution has examined as many as six prosecution witnesses, out of whom Dr. Amit Rastogi (PW-1/informant), Dr. J.S. Rastogi (PW-2) and Girish Chandra Jakwal (PW-3) are the witnesses of fact, whereas, Babo Ram Sharma (PW-4), Umesh Chandra Tyagi (PW-5) and S.S.I. Narottam (PW-6) are formal witnesses. Dr. Shashi Rastogi has also been examined as (CW-1).

10. Dr. Amit Rastogi (PW-1/informant), in his deposition, has reiterated the prosecution version given in the F.I.R. However, he further stated that his father namely Dr. J.S. Rastogi had prepared the written report, upon which he had put his signatures. The report was written by his father on his dictation. Thereafter, they proceeded to police station along with said written report as well as with the accused Danna. On the basis of written report, first information report was lodged. Thereafter, Sub Inspector from Police Station Civil Line accompanied him and his father to his house. The dead body of Sohan was recovered and sent for post-mortem examination.

11. Dr. J.S. Rastogi (PW-2), in his deposition, has stated that the deceased Sohan was his servant working at his dispensary and residing in his house. Besides Sohan, two other servants, namely Danna and Barati, were also employed and all three used to reside together in a room situated above the garage. On the night of 14/15.09.1980, while sleeping, he heard cries of □ Babuji Bachao□. He, along with his son Dr. Amit and neighbours, searched for the source of the cry but could not find anything. On inquiry, Danna and Barati stated that they had not heard any noise and that Sohan was sleeping. In the next morning, Barati informed him that Sohan and Danna had left for their village. As Sohan did not reach the dispensary, the compounder came and took the key to open it. Later, during the night, Danna returned, and upon questioning in the presence of neighbours, he confessed that due to a dispute over gambling money, he and Barati had murdered Sohan by assaulting him with an iron made weapon while he was asleep, and thereafter concealed the body in a sack in the coal room. He further stated that Danna led them to the place where the dead body was concealed. Thereafter, he prepared a written report, went to the police station, and lodged the FIR. The police recovered the dead body from the indicated place, prepared the inquest, sealed the body, and sent it for post-mortem examination. He also proved a letter allegedly written by accused Danna, identifying his handwriting, which was marked as Exhibit Ka-2, and the envelope as Exhibit Ka-3.

12. Girish Chandra Jakwal (PW-3), in his deposition, has stated that he resides adjacent to the house of Dr. Amit Rastogi. His house is situated at a distance of about 10 steps from the house of PW-1. He further stated that in the night intervening 14.15.09.1980, he was sleeping in his room. He heard a cry saying □ Babu Ji, Save Me□. The cry appeared to be coming from the direction of Dr. Rastogi□s house. Upon hearing the same, he came out of his house and proceeded towards his residence. There, he saw Dr. Amit Rastogi, Dr. J.S. Rastogi, and the neighbour Kamal Rai Sharma already present. The house of Kamal Rai Sharma is adjacent to that of Dr. J.S. Rastogi, separated only by a wall. They searched around to ascertain the source of cries, but could not find anything. Both the servants of Dr. Rastogi namely Danna and Barati had also came out from their quarters and upon enquiry, they stated that they were asleep and know nothing about the cry. When they asked about the third servant i.e. Sohan, they stated that he is sleeping. On the following night, Dr. Amit Rastogi called him. Dr. J.S. Rastogi and Kamal Rai Sharma were also present. They again questioned Danna regarding Sohan. At that time, Danna confessed and said □ Babu Ji, forgive me, I have committed a mistake, Please save me□. Accused Danna disclosed that few days earlier, they were gambling. Sohan had won Rs. 200/- from him and Rs. 100/- from Barati, and had already given that money to someone known to him. When he and Barati ran out of money, they demanded some money from Sohan, but he refused. This enraged them, and during the night, while Sohan was asleep, both of them assaulted him with a weapon (लोहे का दाव) and killed him. Accused Danna further stated that when Sohan cried out, they muffled his mouth with a quilt and continued assaulting him until he died. Thereafter, they placed his dead body in a sack, filled it with sawdust, tied the sack, and concealed it in the coal room. Thereafter, accused Danna led us to the coal storage room and showed the dead body of the deceased kept inside a sack. When we asked about the weapon used, he stated that Barati could provide that information as he had hidden it somewhere.

13. Babo Ram Sharma (PW-4), in his deposition, has stated that on 16.09.1980, he was posted as Head Moharir at Police Station Civil Lines, Moradabad. At about 12:30 am, Dr. J.S. Rastogi submitted a written report (Ext.Ka.1) at the police station. Based upon the said written report, he prepared chik report (Ext.Ka.4). The case was registered and an entry to that effect was made in the General Diary. Dr. Rastogi had also brought with him the accused Danna @ Ramesh, who was thereafter taken into custody and lodged in the lock-up.

14. Umesh Chandra Tyagi (PW-5), in his deposition, has stated that on 16.09.1980, he conducted the post-mortem examination on the dead body of Sohan. The body was brought by Constable Abdul Waheed Khan, Home Guard Shamim and one Suresh. The age of the deceased was approximately 22 years. Upon examination, following ante-mortem injuries were found :-

(i) Incised wound of 1 cm x 0.5 cm bone deep on the right side of the forehead, about 05 cm above the right eye.

(ii) Lacerated wound of 4 cm x 1 cm bone deep just below the right eye.

(iii) Lacerated wound, 3 cm □ 2 cm, muscle-deep, on the front side of the left arm.

(iv) Incised wound, 2 cm □ 1 cm, muscle-deep, about 2 cm away from injury no. 3.

(v) Abrasion with bluish discoloration, 12 cm □ 6 cm, on the front of the neck below.

The doctor has opined that the death had occurred within approximately three days prior to the post-mortem. The cause of death was shock and hemorrhage resulting from the aforesaid injuries.

15. S.S.I. Narottam (PW-6), in his deposition, has stated that he had conducted the investigation, recorded the statements of the witnesses, effected the recovery of the dead body and weapon, and upon completion of the investigation, submitted charge-sheet before the concerned court.

16. Dr. Shashi Rastogi (C.W.1), in her deposition, has stated that she is wife of Dr. Amit Rastogi (PW-1/informant). She was married to Dr. Amit Rastogi about eight years ago. After marriage, she resided in Lucknow till December, 1979 as her husband was also pursuing his post-graduation. In December, 1979, she and her husband have joined the Provincial Medical Services (PMS) and were posted at Moradabad. She along with her husband, father-in-law and mother-in-law resided at the house situated at Civil Lines, Moradabad. From their wedlock, a child was born in the year 1978. At that time, three servants were employed in the house namely Danna (used to perform domestic work), Barati (used to perform cleaning) and Sohan (used to work in her father-in-law's dispensary). They all reside together in a room located above the garage of the house. She further stated that on the night when Sohan was murdered, she was present in the house but was asleep and did not hear anything. Her husband did not wake her or inform her about the incident that night. Her bedroom was situated on the first floor of the bungalow. She came to know about the incident on the third day that deceased Sohan had been murdered by Danna and Barati. The allegation made by the accused persons that she had illicit relations with the deceased Sohan is completely false. She never engaged Sohan for any of her personal work.

17. After closure of the prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused-appellants namely Danna alias Ramesh and Barati has been recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., who denied the charges levelled against them and further stated that Shashi (wife of Dr. Amit Rastogi) had illicit relations with the deceased Sohan. They were granted leave. When they returned, they came to know that Sohan had been murdered and they have been falsely implicated in this case.

18. Learned Ist Additional Sessions Judge, Moradabad after hearing the learned counsel for the parties and assessing, evaluating and scrutinizing the evidence on record, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellants as indicated herein above.

19. Hence, the instant appeal.

Submissions on behalf of the Accused-Appellant

20. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant no. 2 assailed the impugned judgment and order dated 03.09.1985 passed by the trial court on the ground that the entire prosecution case rests on circumstantial evidence. The settled principle of law is that such a chain must be complete and must unerringly point towards the guilt of the accused. In the present case, the chain is clearly broken at several crucial links.

21. It is further submitted that the alleged confession made by the appellant no. 1-Danna before PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 is highly doubtful, and such confession cannot be made the sole basis of conviction.

22. It is next submitted that in this case, no truly independent witness has been examined to lend the credibility to the prosecution version, as the neighbours, who were examined, are closely associated with the complainant.

23. It is next submitted that the recovery of the dead body from the coal room is shown at the instance of appellant-Danna, but the place is within the complainant's premises and accessible to all. The alleged recovery of the weapon at the instance of Barati, suffers lack of independent corroboration and there is no forensic report to conclusively connect the recovered article with the crime.

24. It is next submitted that the alleged motive of gambling dispute over a small amount is trivial and insufficient to drive the accused to commit such a heinous crime. The prosecution has failed to establish a strong and compelling motive.

25. It is further submitted that the accused-appellants have been falsely implicated and suggested an alternative theory involving strained relations and suspicion within the household.

26. In view of the above deficiencies, it is submitted that the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The appellants are entitled to benefit of doubt and deserve acquittal.

Submissions on behalf of Respondent-State

27. Per-contra, learned A.G.A. appearing on behalf of the State has supported the impugned judgment and order by contending that the conviction, recorded by the trial court, is well reasoned and based upon cogent evidence.

28. It is submitted that the prosecution has successfully established a complete chain of circumstances i.e. cry for help heard from the servants' quarter, sudden disappearance of the deceased, confession and recovery of the dead body and recovery of weapon and bloodstained articles. These circumstances form a consistent and unbroken chain pointing only towards the guilt of the accused-appellants.

29. It is next submitted that the testimonies of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 are natural, consistent and corroborate each other on material particulars. It is also submitted that the confession made by the appellant-Danna was voluntary, made before multiple witnesses and was consistent with subsequent recovery of the dead body. It is further submitted that weapon in crime was also recovered at the instance of appellant-Barati. The recovery provide strong corroboration to the prosecution case.

30. It is further submitted that the injuries found on the body of the deceased are consistent with the assault by a hard and sharp objection, supporting the prosecution version. It is next submitted that the dispute over gambling money is admitted and even a small motive can lead to grave offences. It is further submitted that the allegation of illicit relationship is baseless and unsupported by any evidence.

Analysis and Conclusion

31. Heard Mr. Salman Ahmad, learned Amicus Curiae appearing on behalf of the appellant no. 2-Barati and Mr. S.K. Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate-Ist for the State of U.P.

32. We have considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel appearing on behalf of respective parties. We have also carefully perused the entire record of the case including the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, documentary evidence and medical report.

33. The issue for consideration in the present appeal is □ whether the prosecution has successfully established an uninterrupted and conclusive chain of evidence leading unequivocally to the guilt of the accused-appellants?□

34. It is a settled proposition of law that in cases based purely on circumstantial evidence, the prosecution must establish a complete chain of circumstances which must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and inconsistent with any other hypothesis. The circumstances must be of a conclusive nature and tendency.

35. The Hon□ble Supreme Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda vs. State of Maharashtra¹ has laid down the five golden principles governing cases based on circumstantial evidence, which require:

- (a) the circumstances must be fully established;
- (b) the facts so established must be consistent only with the hypothesis of guilt;
- (c) the circumstances must be conclusive;
- (d) they must exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and
- (e) there must be a complete chain of evidence.

36. In State of U.P. Vs. Ashok Kumar Srivastava², it was pointed out that great care must be taken in evaluating circumstantial evidence and if the evidence relied on is reasonably capable of two inferences, the one in the favour of the accused must be accepted. It was also pointed out that the circumstances relied upon must be found to have fully established and cumulative effect of all the facts so established must be consistent only with the hypothesis of guilt.

37. In the case of Hanumant Govind Nargundkar v. State of M.P.³, Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should in the first instance be fully established, and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

38. In the case of Padala Veera Reddy v. State of A.P.⁴, Hon'ble Apex Court opined as under:

"10. Before advertng to the arguments advanced by the learned Counsel, we shall at the threshold point out that in the present case there is no direct evidence to connect the accused with the offence in question and the prosecution rests its case solely on circumstantial evidence. This Court in a series of decisions has consistently held that when a case rests upon circumstantial evidence such evidence must satisfy the following tests:

(1) the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn, must be cogently and firmly established;

(2) those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards guilt of the accused;

(3) the circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and none else; and

(4) the circumstantial evidence in order to sustain conviction must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence.

39. In the case of Ramreddy Rajesh Khanna Reddy v. State of A.P.⁵, Hon'ble Apex Court again considered the case of conviction based on circumstantial evidence and held as under:

"26. It is now well settled that with a view to base a conviction on circumstantial evidence, the prosecution must establish all the pieces of incriminating circumstances by reliable and clinching evidence and the circumstances so proved must form such a chain of events as would permit no conclusion other than one of guilt of the accused. The circumstances cannot be on any other hypothesis. It is also well settled that suspicion, however grave it may be, cannot be a substitute for a proof and the courts shall take utmost precaution in finding an accused guilty only on the basis of the circumstantial evidence."

40. In the case of Sattatiya v. State of Maharashtra⁶, Hon'ble Apex Court held as under:

"10. We have thoughtfully considered the entire matter. It is settled law that an offence can be proved not only by direct evidence but also by circumstantial evidence where there is no direct evidence. The court can draw an inference of guilt when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be totally incompatible with the innocence of the accused. Of course, the circumstances from which an inference as to the guilt is drawn have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and have to be shown to be closely connected with the principal fact sought to be inferred from those circumstances." This Court further observed in the aforesaid decision that:

"17. At this stage, we also deem it proper to observe that in exercise of power under Article 136 of the Constitution, this Court will be extremely loath to upset the judgment of conviction which is confirmed in appeal. However, if it is found that the appreciation of evidence in a case, which is entirely based on circumstantial evidence, is vitiated by serious errors and on that account miscarriage of justice has been occasioned, then the Court will certainly interfere even with the concurrent findings recorded by the trial court and the High Court--Bharat v. State of M.P., (2003) 3 SCC 106. "

41. The decision in Sharad Birdichand Sarda (Supra) has recently been followed by Hon^{ble} Supreme Court in catena of judgement including Laxman Prasad alias Laxman Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh⁷ and R. Sreenivasa Vs. State of Karnataka⁸.

42. The Supreme Court in the case of Pankaj vs. State of Rajasthan⁹, has held that “when the genesis and the manner of the incident is doubtful, the accused cannot be convicted.” It also referred to Bhagwan Sahai vs. State of Rajasthan¹⁰, which states that once the prosecution is found to have suppressed the origin of the occurrence, the only proper course is to grant the benefit of doubt.

43. In the present case, the first circumstance relied upon by the prosecution is the alleged extra-judicial confession made by accused Danna before PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3, who are not independent witnesses. It is well settled that an extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence and requires strong corroboration. Reference may be made to Sahadevan and Another v. State of Tamil Nadu¹¹, wherein the Hon^{ble} Supreme Court has held that such confession must inspire confidence and should be corroborated by other reliable evidence. In the instant case, the alleged confession appears doubtful and unnatural, particularly in view of the circumstances in which it is said to have been made, and does not inspire confidence to form the sole basis of conviction.

44. The second circumstance pertains to the recovery of the dead body from the coal room. Admittedly, the said place is situated within the premises of the complainant and was accessible to all the inmates of the house. Thus, the recovery cannot be said to be exclusively at the instance of the accused so as to conclusively connect them with the crime.

45. The third circumstance relates to the recovery of the alleged weapon of offence and bloodstained articles at the instance of accused Barati. However, no independent witness of unimpeachable character has been examined to prove the said recovery. Further, the absence of any forensic report connecting the recovered article with the crime creates a serious dent in the prosecution case.

46. Another important aspect is the absence of a strong motive. The alleged motive of a gambling dispute over a meagre amount does not appear to be sufficiently grave to impel the accused to commit such a heinous offence.

47. It is also noteworthy that the prosecution has failed to examine any truly independent witness. The witnesses examined are either interested or closely associated with the complainant, which necessitates cautious scrutiny of their testimonies.

48. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court finds that the chain of circumstances in the present case is not complete. The circumstances relied upon by the prosecution do not form an unbroken chain pointing only towards the guilt of the accused-appellants. On the contrary, several missing links and inconsistencies create reasonable doubt in the prosecution story.

49. It is a cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that suspicion, however strong, cannot take the place of proof. The benefit of doubt must always go in favour of the accused.

50. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Goverdhan and Another vs. State of Chhattisgarh¹² wherein, the Court has held as under:-

“20. As per Section 3 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, a fact can be said to have been proved when, after considering the matters before it, the court either believes it to exist or considers its existence so probable that a prudent man ought, under the circumstances of the particular case, to act up on the supposition that it exists. The court undertakes this exercise of examining whether the facts alleged including the particular criminal acts attributed to the accused are proved or not.

21. It is also to be noted that the law does not contemplate stitching the pieces of evidence in a watertight manner, for the standard of proof in a criminal case is not proof beyond all doubts but only beyond reasonable doubt. In other words, if a clear picture emerges on piecing together all evidence which indicates beyond reasonable doubt of the role played by the accused in the perpetration of the crime, the court holds the accused criminally liable and punishes them under the provisions of the penal code, in contradistinction to the requirement of proof based on the preponderance of probabilities as in case of civil proceedings.

22. It will be relevant to discuss, at this juncture, what is meant by □reasonable doubt□. It means that such doubt must be free from suppositional speculation. It must not be the result of minute emotional detailing, and the doubt must be actual and substantial and not merely vague apprehension. A reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or amerey possible doubt, but a fair doubt based upon reason and common sense.”

51. The Supreme Court in the case of Jitendra Kumar Mishra @ Jittu vs. State of Madhya Pradesh¹³, has held as under :

“We are conscious of the fact that the appellate court should be slow in interfering with the conviction recorded by the courts below but where the evidence on record indicates the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt and that a plausible view, different from the one expressed by the courts below can be taken, the appellate court should not shy away in giving the benefit of doubt to the accused persons.”

52. Consequently, this Court is of the considered opinion that the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused-appellants.

53. Accordingly, the criminal appeal is allowed. The judgment and order dated 03.09.1985 passed by the learned Ist Additional Sessions Judge, Moradabad in Sessions Trial No. 550 of 1981 is hereby set aside.

54. The appellant no. 2-Barati is acquitted of all the charges levelled against him. He is on bail, his bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged.

55. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the court concerned for compliance.

56. Mr. Salman Ahmad, learned Amicus Curiae shall be paid a sum of Rs. 15,000/- (rupees fifteen thousand only) for his assistance to the Court in deciding this criminal appeal.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Bajaj, J.)

1. Appellant-Amar Nath Singh is aggrieved against the judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 9.12.1986 passed by IInd Additional Sessions Judge, Azamgarh in Sessions Trial No. 72 of 1985, arising out of Case Crime No. 124 of 1984, under Section 376 I.P.C., registered at Police Station Maharajganj, District Azamgarh, whereby he stands convicted and sentenced to seven years rigorous imprisonment alongwith fine of Rs. 5,000/-, and in the event of default, he has been ordered to undergo further rigorous imprisonment of one year.

2. The above F.I.R. was registered on the basis of a written complaint by prosecutrix submitted before Station House Officer Maharajganj, District Azamgarh, who stated that she is a resident of village Molanapur Prathvipal, Police Station Maharajganj and used to take her goat for grazing at Sivan. On 7.10.1984 at around 5:00 p.m., I took my goat for grazing on the eastern side of village in a mango orchard, where my mother at some distance was cutting grass. Amar Nath Singh @ Jhinku Singh s/o Bansh Gopal Singh, who belongs to our village was also working nearby in his agricultural fields. My goat entered the Pigeon Pea fields of Chandrika Master, So I went there, then suddenly Jhinku Singh came lifted me and took inside the Pigeon Pea fields. I struggled and screamed, but he threw me on the ground and lifted my clothes (Peticoat and Sari) and raped me. On hearing of screams, my mother and Gayatri Singh s/o Ram Aadhar Singh, Ram Chandar Singh s/o Shiv Poojan Singh came there at the spot and on seen them, he ran away towards his house. I was bleeding and could not walk before I fainted. I was brought by other persons and as it was late night, no vehicle was available to reach police station. My mother brought me to Parshurampur Hospital by Rickshaw where doctor refused treatment and asked to go to police station. The complainant alongwith her mother reached the police station by Rickshaw to lodge the report. Broadly, on these allegations, the F.I.R. was registered against the accused for alleged commission of offence punishable under Section 376 I.P.C.

3. After registration of the F.I.R., the investigation in the case was conducted by Investigating Officer namely, Mukteshwar Singh, who recorded the statements of witnesses namely, Gayatri Singh and Ram Chandar Singh. During investigation, the injury report was collected and the site plan was also prepared. The statements of other formal witnesses were also recorded and finally the charge sheet was filed against the accused under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. thereby sending him to face prosecution for commission of offence of rape.

4. Thereafter, the case was committed to the court of sessions and vide order dated 10.10.1985 the charges against the accused were framed for alleged commission of offence punishable under Section 376 I.P.C. The appellant-accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

5. The prosecution in order to prove the guilt of the accused had examined five witnesses namely, Katwari-victim (P.W.-1), Ramchandar (P.W.-2), S.I. Mukteshwar Singh (P.W.-3), Dr. S.D.P. Gupta (P.W.-4) and Dr. B. Kumar (P.W.-5). Besides, the prosecution also adduced documentary evidence i.e. written complaint (Exb.Ka-1), site plan (Exb.Ka-2), recovery memo (Exb.Ka-3), Charge Sheet (Exb.Ka-4), check report (Exb.Ka-5), Carbon Check report (Exb.Ka-6), X-Ray report (Exb.Ka-7), medical report (Exb.Ka-8) and supplementary medical report (Exb.Ka-9), which were proved by the relevant witnesses prosecutrix (P.W.-1), Investigating Officer-Mukteshwar Singh, Dr. B. Kumar (P.W.-5) and Dr. S.D.P. Gupta (P.W.-4).

6. After completion of the prosecution evidence, the statement of accused-appellant was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 13.11.1986, who denied the prosecution evidence and pleaded false implication. No evidence was adduced by the accused-appellant in defence.

7. Upon analyzing the prosecution case, evidence and other material on record, the trial court proceeded to convict the appellant-accused under Section 376 I.P.C. and sentenced him to seven years rigorous imprisonment alongwith fine. Aggrieved against the judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 9.12.1986, the appellant preferred this appeal.

8. Mr. Ronak Chaturvedi, Advocate being Amicus Curiae appeared on behalf of appellant and argued that the complainant has falsely implicated the appellant in this case at the behest of witnesses namely, Ramchandar Singh and Gayatri Singh, who have a dispute with appellant's father namely, Bansh Gopal Singh and father of prosecutrix namely, Rampati Kahar was an employee of both these persons. Learned counsel submits that there are material contradictions in the statements of prosecution witnesses as Ramchandra (P.W.-2) does not mention about the presence of the mother of the prosecutrix at the place of occurrence, whereas prosecutrix (P.W.-1) stated that on hearing her cries, her mother alongwith Gayatri Singh arrived at the spot. Learned counsel for the appellant has referred to the site plan to argue that according to the version of prosecutrix (P.W.-1), her mother was working at Point-D, which is vacant land of the accused from where she alongwith Gayatri Singh arrived at the spot, and the witness Ram Chandra (P.W.-2), who was working at Point-C also reached there, but the presence of the mother and Gayatri Singh is not mentioned by Ram Chandra (P.W.-2) in his deposition before the trial court.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that though according to the prosecution, mother of the prosecutrix alongwith Gayatri Singh arrived at the place of occurrence, but during trial they were not examined as prosecution witnesses and this omission renders the prosecution case doubtful. Learned counsel has argued that the medical evidence does not conclusively support the prosecution case as Dr. B. Kumar (P.W.-4) in her deposition clearly mentioned that the injuries suffered by the prosecutrix could be caused by a fall also. Learned counsel submits that the evidence adduced by the prosecution suffers from major discrepancies and the onus has not been discharged by the prosecution beyond doubt, therefore, the benefit of doubt ought to have been extended to the accused by the trial court. He prays that the impugned judgment of conviction as well as order of sentence dated 9.12.1986 be set aside, and the appellant be acquitted of the charges.

10. On the other hand, Mr. Sanjay Singh, learned A.G.A.-I has argued that the material witness P.W.-1 (prosecutrix) has candidly supported the prosecution case by identifying the accused involved in commission of crime against her, and further, the victim suffered injuries as a result of use of force by accused, which are proved by Dr. B. Kumar (P.W.-5). Learned A.G.A. has referred to the testimony of Dr. S.D.P. Gupta, Radiologist (P.W.-4) to argue that the age of the prosecutrix was below 15 years., therefore, according to him, the prosecution evidence has proved the charges against the accused beyond doubt, and analyzing the entire evidence on record, the trial court has rightly convicted the appellant under Section 376 I.P.C. He prays that the appeal be dismissed.

11. Learned counsel for the parties have been heard and with their assistance, case file and the trial court record has been perused carefully.

12. Upon hearing the learned counsel for the parties and considering their submissions, this Court finds that the appellant was put to trial for raping the prosecutrix (victim) by use of force and the occurrence took place in an agricultural field where the victim was grazing her goat and accused came there and committed the alleged crime. The entire case of the prosecution relating to the occurrence dated 7.10.1984 at around 5:00 p.m. is primarily based on the testimony of the prosecutrix. A perusal of complaint dated 8.10.1984 (Exb.Ka-1) shows that the victim specifically named the accused-appellant, who raped her and as a result of commission of crime, she suffered profuse bleeding and injuries. The version contained in F.I.R. is reiterated by the prosecutrix when she appeared during trial as P.W.-1. This material witness was subjected to lengthy cross-examination by the defence, but her testimony has gone unimpeached and the witness candidly stood by her stand, accusing the appellant involved in commission of crime against her.

13. According to the version of the prosecutrix, when her goat was grazing, her mother was also working at some distance nearby a field and accused-appellant was also working in his agricultural field. The witness deposed that the accused forcibly put her on the ground and after lifting her clothes raped her. The prosecution case is further supported by the medical evidence as well as medical examination of victim conducted on 8.10.1984 at Women Hospital, Azamgarh (Exb.Ka-8) reveals that her pervaginal examination shows laceration (lacerated wound 0.5 cm X 0.3 cm X muscle deep over the vagina). The medical report by Dr. B. Kumar (P.W.-5) has mentioned that the victim suffered bleeding and her hymen was freshly torn (ruptured). Fourchette was also lacerated with 0.3 cm X 0.3 cm X muscle deep injury and pervagina examination was painful.

14. Apart from this, injury was found present in the shape of abrasion on both sides of □laviamajora□ as well as over □laviaminora.□ In addition to the above injuries, the medical examination of the prosecutrix was further extended to analyze her age and as per medical report (Exb.Ka-9), her age was found to be below 15 years.

15. The prosecution has further relied upon the evidence of independent witness namely, Ramchandra (P.W.-2), who had arrived at the place of occurrence on hearing the screams of prosecutrix and a reading of his testimony would show that he found the prosecutrix naked and bleeding. The accused was attempting to wipe off the blood, who on seeing the witness, ran away from the spot. This witness has also specifically mentioned about the presence of the accused at the place of occurrence and particularly his conduct after commission of crime. Though, the accused had set up a defence that the father of prosecutrix namely, Rampati was an employee of Ramchandra (P.W.-2) and Gayatri Singh, who had also arrived at the place of occurrence, but was not examined as a witness, who had a dispute with Bansh Gopal (father of accused), therefore, at the instance of Gayatri

Singh and Ramchandra, the appellant-accused was falsely implicated. In this context, the reliance has been placed upon a certified copy of complaint dated 13.10.1983 (Exb.Kha-1), wherein it was alleged that goat of Rampati entered their field and when Bansh Gopal was taking it to the cattle home, he forcibly snatched the goat, but there is nothing on record to suggest that the said complaint was ever acted upon. Even otherwise, the alleged dispute between Bansh Gopal (father of accused) and Ramchandra etc. may not be of much significance to the subject occurrence leading to the prosecution of the accused.

16. Further, assumably if, the said defence is true, the complainant would falsely implicate Bansh Gopal instead of his son, but the evidence on record actually proves the presence of the accused-appellant at the place of occurrence. The bleeding suffered by the victim is proved by the medical evidence beyond doubt and further, the clothes worn by the victim at the time of occurrence, got blood stains, which were also produced before the trial court as case property.

17. Merely, because the mother of the prosecutrix and Gayatri Singh, who had also arrived at the place of occurrence were not examined by prosecution would not throw any doubt on the version of the prosecution case, particularly in the light of the testimony of prosecutrix (P.W.-1). As noticed above, the evidence and material witnesses (P.W.-1 and P.W.-2) have clearly proved the involvement of the accused-appellant in commission of crime, the appellant-accused cannot derive any benefit for non examination of the mother of the prosecutrix and Gayatri Singh.

18. The last argument advanced by learned counsel for the appellant that the injuries suffered by the victim could be a result of fall is also without any merit, as the suggestion put to Dr. B. Kumar (P.W.-5) was not put to the victim, and on the contrary, the suggestion by the defence that the prosecutrix suffered injury while urinating has been specifically denied by her. Most importantly, a perusal of the impugned judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 9.12.1986 would show that the trial court has carefully examined the facts, circumstances and evidence on record to ascertain the involvement of the accused-appellant in commission of crime. The findings and observations made by the trial court in the impugned judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 9.12.1986 are founded upon proper appreciation of prosecution evidence as well as material on record.

19. Further, it is not a case where the evidence adduced by prosecution gives rise to any doubt, much less to favour the defence. The evidence adduced by the prosecution is not only consistent to the guilt of the accused, but if, examined conversely, it is inconsistent to his innocence as well. Consequently, this Court does not find any meritorious ground to interfere with the impugned judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 9.12.1986.

20. Resultantly, the appeal fails and is hereby dismissed. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below forthwith.

Act), Kannauj.

Advs. for the Respondents:

Learned A.G.A. appearing for the State respondent;

none appeared for opposite party no.2 despite service of notice.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Madan Pal Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Sarvesh Kumar Dubey, learned counsel for the appellants, and learned A.G.A. appearing for the State respondent. Despite the fact that notice has been served upon opposite party no.2 personally as per the office report dated 28th September, 2024, no one appears for opposite party no.2 even in the revised reading of the list.

2. By means of the present criminal appeal under Section 14A(1) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, the appellants are challenging the charge-sheet dated 22nd May, 2022, cognizance/summoning order dated 23rd November, 2022 as well as entire proceedings of Session Case No. 963 of 2022 (State Vs. Raja & Others), under Sections 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Section 3 (1) (da) of S.C./S.T. Act arising out of Case Crime No. 108 of 2022, pending in the Court of Special Judge (S.C./S.T. Act), Kannauj.

3. While assailing the impugned order, the contention of the learned counsel for the appellant is that the learned Special Judge has not applied judicial mind while passing the order, as the same has been made on a printed proforma in which the name of the accused, case crime number and sections have been filled in by hand.

4. Relying upon the decision of this Court and the Hon'ble Apex Court in Ankit vs. State of U.P. and another, reported in JIC 2010 (1) 432, it is submitted that the impugned order, being on a printed proforma, is clearly without application of judicial mind and is liable to be quashed on this ground alone.

5. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the prayer but has admitted that the impugned order has been passed on a printed proforma. Therefore, in view of the decision in Ankit (supra), it is submitted that the Special Judge concerned may be directed to pass a fresh order.

6. I have considered the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant and the learned A.G.A. and have also perused the record.

7. The certified copy of the summoning order has been appended with the paper book. On perusal of the same, it is evident that it is a typed proforma in which the blanks have been filled in by the Special Judge in handwriting, leading to the conclusion that the order has been passed in a mechanical manner without application of judicial mind.

8. In the case of Ankit (supra), the co-ordinate Bench of this Court has not only castigated and deprecated the practice of passing proforma orders in a fill-in-the-blanks manner but also directed the Registrar General of this Court to issue a circular letter. The relevant paragraphs are reiterated hereinbelow:

"10. The manner in which the impugned order has been prepared shows that the learned magistrate did not at all apply his judicial mind at the time of passing this order and after the blanks were filled up by some employee of the court, he has put his initial on the seal of the court. This method of passing judicial order is wholly illegal. If for the sake of argument it is assumed that the blanks on the printed proforma were filled up in the handwriting of the learned magistrate, even then the impugned order would be illegal and invalid, because an order of taking cognizance or any other judicial order cannot be passed by filling up blanks on a printed proforma. Although, as held by this Court in the case of Megh Nath Gupta & another vs. State of U.P. and another 2008 (62) ACC 826, in which reference has been made to the cases of Deputy Chief Controller Import and Export vs. Roshan Lal Agrawal 2003 (46) ACC 686 (SC), U.P. Pollution Control Board vs. Mohan Meakins AIR 2000 SC 1456 and Kanti Bhadra vs. State of West Bengal 2000 (40) ACC 441 (SC), the magistrate is not required to pass a detailed reasoned order at the time of taking cognizance on the charge-sheet, but it does not mean that such an order can be passed by filling up blanks on a printed proforma. At the time of passing any judicial order, including an order taking cognizance on the charge-sheet, the court is required to apply its judicial mind and even such an order cannot be passed in a mechanical manner. Therefore, the impugned order is liable to be quashed and the matter has to be sent back to the court below for passing a fresh order on the charge-sheet after applying judicial mind.

If approved by the Hon?ble Administrative Committee, let a circular letter be issued by the Registrar General directing all the judicial officers in Uttar Pradesh that printed proforma should not be used in passing judicial orders.

The Registrar General is directed to send a copy of this order to Sri Talevar Singh, the then Judicial Magistrate, Saharanpur, through the District Judge concerned for his future guidance."

9. Circular Letter No. 28/Admin. 'G-II' dated 04.12.2021 (Allahabad) in reference to "Printed Proforma" and Circular No. 8159/Admin. G-II dated 07.07.2025 in reference to "pre-printed rubber stamps" or "pre-typed proformas" have also been issued by the High Court in this regard.

10. Despite a series of decisions of the Apex Court and this Court disapproving such practice of passing orders on printed proforma, it is painful and unfortunate to note that the appellant in the present case has been summoned by such an order, wherein blanks have been filled in without applying judicial mind. Such an order has already been held unsustainable by this Court in the case of Ankit (supra), relying on several decisions of the Apex Court.

11. In view of the above, the conduct of the judicial officers concerned in passing orders on printed proforma by filling up blanks without application of judicial mind is objectionable and deserves to be deprecated. The summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter, and the order must reflect that the Special Judge has applied his mind to the facts as well as the law applicable thereto.

12. Accordingly, the present appeal is allowed. The impugned cognizance/summoning order dated 23rd November, 2022 passed by the Special Judge, SC/ST Act, Kannauj, is hereby quashed. The court concerned is directed to pass a fresh, well-reasoned order after applying judicial mind to the facts of the case.

Criminal Revision No. 1049 of 2026

State of U.P. & Anr.

...Opposite Parties

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether the petitioner could be convicted u/s 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 for dishonour of cheque when, as per the terms of agreement between the parties, the cheque was to be encashed only after sanction of loan and transfer of ownership of vehicle, but the said conditions remained unfulfilled and no legally enforceable debt or liability existed against the petitioner.

Headnotes

Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 - s. 138 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - ss. 251, 313 - Dishonour of cheque - Legally enforceable debt - Presumption u/s 139 - Rebuttal of presumption - Tractor with Trolley sale agreement - Conditional cheque - Loan sanction - Transfer of ownership - Admission of complainant - Accused never borrowed amount from complainant - Impugned orders - Acquittal - The petitioner challenged the judgment dated 15.12.2025 passed by Sessions Judge, Chitrakoot, whereby his criminal appeal was dismissed and the judgment of conviction dated 10.09.2025 passed by trial court in Complaint Case No. 1771 of 2021 u/s 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 was affirmed - The complainant alleged that an agreement dated 03.03.2021 was executed between the parties for sale of a Tractor with Trolley for a consideration of Rs. 3,55,000/- and petitioner issued a cheque for the said amount - It was agreed that the cheque would be cleared after transfer of ownership of vehicle and sanction of loan in favour of petitioner - The cheque was subsequently presented and dishonoured due to insufficient funds, followed by issuance of demand notice and filing of complaint u/s 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act - The petitioner contended that the transaction of sale was incomplete as the ownership of Tractor was never transferred and the loan was never sanctioned, therefore, dishonour of cheque could not constitute breach of a legally enforceable debt - The complainant opposed the revision stating that the cheque belonged to petitioner's account and the statutory ingredients of the offence were satisfied.

Held: Notably, the complainant in her complaint has specifically averred that on verification from the Bank, the loan amount not deposited in the account of accused, therefore, she had the knowledge that for lack of finance facility in favour of accused the cheque would not be cleared - Though despite this knowledge the complainant presented the cheque, but there is no averment in complaint that before presentation either accused was informed or he asked the complainant to present the cheque - The complainant in her cross examination suffered vital admission regarding execution of agreement dated 03.03.2021 and conditions to get the ownership of vehicle transferred in his name, before en-cashing the cheque of Rs. 3,55,000/- - Further the complainant also admitted that the accused never borrowed the amount of Rs. 3,55,000/- from her - Most importantly, the complainant deposed before the trial court that the Tractor is still with her, therefore, it becomes clear that the transaction of sale of vehicle between the parties failed for variety of reasons and the presumption attached to cheque that it was issued for discharge of legal liability or enforceable debt stands sufficiently rebutted - Impugned orders set aside, criminal revision allowed. Case Arising From

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION: Criminal Revision No. - 1049 of 2026

From the Judgment and Order dated 15.12.2025 passed by the Sessions Judge, Chitrakoot in Criminal Appeal No. 43 of 2025 and also Order dated 10.09.2025 passed in Complaint Case No. 1771 of 2021.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for the Revisionist(s):

Dev Prakash Singh

Advs. for the Opposite Party(s):

Gyanendra Kumar Gyani, Sai Girdhar

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Bajaj, J.)

1. Petitioner-Surendra Singh has preferred this Criminal Revision to challenge the judgement dated 15.12.2025 passed in Criminal Appeal No. 43 of 2025 by Sessions Judge, Chitrakoot, whereby his Criminal appeal has been dismissed, and the judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 10.09.2025, passed in Complaint Case No. 1771 of 2021 titled Smt. Shanti Devi versus Surendra Singh under section 138 Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881 has been upheld.

2. The sentence of six months simple imprisonment along with a fine of Rs. 5,32,500/- and in default of payment of fine, additional three months further imprisonment awarded to the petitioner-convict by the trial court has also been upheld.

3. Briefly, the facts leading to the revision petition are that the opposite party no. 2-complainant filed a Criminal Complaint, bearing no. 1771 of 2021 under Section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 (hereinafter referred to as "NI Act") with the allegations that on 3rd March, 2021 an agreement was reduced in writing between the complainant and accused, in the presence of the witnesses, whereby a Tractor with Trolley bearing Registration No. U.P. 96 E/0304 was agreed to be sold to the accused against a total sale consideration of Rs. 3,55,000/-, and in this regard a cheque bearing no. 003653 drawn at IDBI Bank, Branch- Karwi, City- for an amount of Rs. 3,55,000/- dated 05.03.2021 was issued. At the stage of agreement, the accused stated that after transfer of ownership of Vehicle in his name from the concerned Department, he would obtain loan against it and deposit in his account for clearance of the cheque issued in favour of complainant, but even after a month of the agreement, the accused informed that the loan has not been sanctioned and as and when it is sanctioned, the cheque can be en-cashed. According to the complainant the Tractor along with Trolley was given to the accused, and that upon verification from the Bank, she came to learn that the requisite amount is not credited in the account of the purchaser, therefore, on the next date, she along with her husband went to the house of the accused, who refused to either pay the money or return the Tractor. On 28.04.2021, the Cheque presented by the complainant was returned on 29.04.2021 by the bank with the remarks "insufficient funds" and thereafter the complainant sent a demand notice dated 19.05.2021 through her Advocate, but neither any response was sent by the accused nor any payment was made. Therefore, the complaint under section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act was filed on 13.07.2021 for prosecution of accused.

4. After recording the pre-summoning evidence, the accused was summoned vide order dated 14.09.2021, and pursuant to the same he appeared and was released on bail. In his statement under Section 251 Cr.P.C. he denied the accusations and claimed trial.

5. In support of the complaint, the complainant examined herself as P.W.-1, whereas her husband Shivkaran Prajapati appeared as P.W.-2. The complainant also adduced documentary evidence i.e. the Cheque No. 003653, return memo, demand notice, receipt of Registered Post and the agreement dated 03.03.2021.

6. After the completion of the evidence of the complainant, the accused in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. denied the prosecution evidence and pleaded false implication, who explained that the cheque in question was given as a security which was misused. However, no defence evidence was adduced by the petitioner.

7. Upon considering the evidence on record, the trial court vide judgment dated 10.09.2025, proceeded to convict the accused-petitioner under Section 138 "N.I. Act" and imposed the sentence as noticed above.

8. Being dissatisfied with the said judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 10.09.2025, the convict preferred a Criminal Appeal bearing no. 43 of 2025 and the same has also been dismissed through the impugned judgment dated 15.12.2025. Hence this Criminal Appeal.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the cheque in question was given to the complainant against the purchase of Tractor Trolley from complainant and the sale price was fixed as Rs. 3,55,000/- and at that very stage it was clarified that the cheque would be cleared only after sanctioning of the loan against the said Vehicle after transfer of ownership in the name of the accused. Learned counsel has further argued that the complaint itself contains an averment that no loan was given to the accused, and before presenting the Cheque the complainant had verified it from the Bank also, when she came to learn that the sufficient amount is not available in the account of the accused. Thus, according to the learned counsel, the Cheque could be presented by the complainant, only if, the accused-purchaser would get the loan, but the same was not sanctioned as the ownership of the Tractor throughout remained in the name of the complainant.

10. Learned counsel has further pointed out that the vehicle in question is still in possession of the complainant, therefore, this material admission would establish that the transaction relating to purchase of Tractor was never complete, therefore, the dishonor of Cheque alone cannot be construed as breach of contract on the part of the accused, much less a liability of legally enforceable debt. Therefore, the impugned judgment of conviction dated 10.09.2025 passed by the trial court is bad in law, and the appellate court also fell into error of law while dismissing the petitioner's appeal. He prays that the impugned judgment be set aside and the petitioner be acquitted in the subject case.

11. The prayer is opposed by Mr. Gyanendra Kumar Gyani, learned counsel for the complainant who has argued that the entire case of the prosecution/complainant is founded upon the documentary evidence and the accused has neither disputed his signatures on the cheque nor questions the cheque which belonged to his account, therefore, in the event of refusing to make the payment to the complainant despite issuance of demand notice, it becomes clear that the ingredients to constitute the offence are complete. Thus, the trial court rightly convicted the petitioner. He submits that the appellate court has also affirmed the judgment of conviction dated 10.09.2025 passed by the trial court and the impugned judgment does not call for any interference by this Court in exercise of revisional jurisdiction.

12. Heard Shri Dev Prakash Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Gyanendra Kumar Gyani, learned counsel for the complainant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

13. Before examining the prosecution evidence on record as well as the merits to test the correctness and validity of the impugned judgments convicting the petitioner, this Court deems it appropriate to analyze the statutory provisions relating to the prosecution of an accused for dishonour of cheque punishable under Section 138 "N.I. Act". The said Section reads as under:-

"138. Dishonour of cheque for insufficiency, etc., of funds in the account."

Where any cheque drawn by a person on an account maintained by him with a banker for payment of any amount of money to another person from out of that account for the discharge, in whole or in part, of any debt or other liability, is returned by the bank unpaid, either because of the amount of money standing to the credit of that account is insufficient to honour the cheque or that it exceeds the amount arranged to be paid from that account by an agreement made with that bank, such person shall be deemed to have committed an offence and shall, without prejudice to any other provisions of this Act, be punished with imprisonment for a term which may be extended to two years, or with fine which may extend to twice the amount of the cheque, or with both: Provided that nothing contained in this section shall apply unless"

(a) the cheque has been presented to the bank within a period of six months from the date on which it is drawn or within the period of its validity, whichever is earlier;

(b) the payee or the holder in due course of the cheque, as the case may be, makes a demand for the payment of the said amount of money by giving a notice in writing, to the drawer of the cheque, [within thirty days of the receipt of information by him from the bank regarding the return of the cheque as unpaid;

(c) the drawer of such cheque fails to make the payment of the said amount of money to the payee or, as the case may be, to the holder in due course of the cheque, within fifteen days of the receipt of the said notice.

Explanation.-For the purposes of this section, "debt or other liability" means a legally enforceable debt or other liability.]"

14. A reading of the above would make it clear, that where the account holder has issued a cheque for payment to any other person for discharge, in whole or in part of any debt or any other liability, and if the same is dishonoured, the drawer is said to have committed the above offence, but before presentation of the complaint, three conditions contained in Proviso to Section 138 "N.I. Act" are required to be fulfilled by the complainant: 1) the cheque, was presented before the Bank within the validity period; 2) the holder of the cheque makes a demand for payment of said amount of money by giving a notice in writing within a period of 30 days from the receipt of information regarding dishonor of cheque from the Bank and the drawer of the cheque fails to make the payment of money to the holder of the cheque or the payee within 15 days of the receipt of the statutory notice. Once these conditions are fulfilled, a valid cause of action accrues in favour of complainant for prosecution of the accused.

15. Further, Section 118 "N.I. Act", contains the special rules of evidence in the nature of presumptions in respect of negotiable instruments, which also includes a presumption that every negotiable instrument was made or drawn for consideration, until the contrary is proved. Similarly, Section 139 "N.I. Act" also lays down a presumption that the holder of the cheque received the cheque for discharge, whole or in part, of any debt or other liability, unless the contrary is proved.

16. The prosecution of the accused under Section 138 "N.I. Act", is governed by Chapter XX Code of Criminal Procedure i.e trial of summons case by Magistrate.

17. The legislature in its wisdom has laid down a summary procedure for such trials, perhaps for this reason a presumption has been attached to the cheque/negotiable instrument in question that it was issued by accused against a consideration, and further the holder of the cheque received the cheque, towards discharge, in whole or in part of any debt or other liability. The aim of the "N.I. Act" is to strengthen the mercantile transactions by attaching credibility to cheque/negotiable instruments, and in order to shorten the trial procedure the complainant is not required to initially discharge the onus regarding liability of the accused. Thus, it is abundantly clear that the statute has placed reverse onus upon the accused to rebut the statutory presumptions attached to the cheque/negotiable instruments. 18. Essentially, in a trial under Section 138 "N.I. Act", the courts are required to ascertain, if, the accused, has successfully shattered the presumption attached to the cheque in question.

19. Now while reverting back to the facts of the case in hand and considering the respective submissions of the learned counsel for the parties, this Court finds that the prosecution of the petitioner-accused arose from breach of an agreement dated 03.03.2021, whereby the complainant had agreed to sell her Tractor and Trolley bearing Registration No. U.P. 96E/0304 to the accused against a sale consideration of Rs. 3,55,000/-, which was given to the complainant through cheque bearing no. 003653 dated 15.03.2021. A perusal of the complaint would also show that in all fairness the complainant clearly mentioned in the complaint that the cheque was to be cleared after sanction of loan in favour of the accused, that too after completion of formalities of transfer of ownership of vehicle in his favour.

20. During the course of hearing, it is fairly conceded by learned counsel for the complainant that the transfer of the ownership of the Tractor in favour of the accused was never entered, as it remained in the name of the complainant. Thus, the loan which was to be obtained by the accused on the basis of transfer of ownership of purchased vehicle was never disbursed, and the cheque on presentation dishonored for insufficient funds. The cheque is dated 15.03.2021, and as per agreement between the parties the accused assured that the cheque would be cleared in 13 days only after the sanction of loan, whereas in essence as per the word and promise of the accused the cheque was to be presented only after sanctioning the loan, but the said condition remained unfulfilled.

21. Notably, the complainant in her complaint has specifically averred that on verification from the Bank the loan amount not deposited in the account of the accused, therefore, she had the knowledge that for lack of finance facility in favour of accused the cheque would not be cleared. Though despite this knowledge the complainant presented the cheque, but there is no averment in the complaint that before presentation either accused was informed or he asked the complainant to present the cheque.

22. Apart from the above, the complainant in her cross examination suffered vital admission regarding execution of agreement dated 03.03.2021 as well as the conditions to get the ownership of vehicle transferred in his name, before en-cashing the cheque of Rs. 3,55,000/-.

Further the complainant also admitted that the accused never borrowed the amount of Rs. 3,55,000/- from her. Most importantly, the complainant deposed before the trial court that the Tractor is still with her, therefore, it becomes crystal clear that the transaction of sale of vehicle between the parties failed for variety of reasons and the presumption attached to the cheque in question that it was issued for discharge of legal liability or enforceable debt stands sufficiently rebutted.

23. Admission is the best evidence which can be used against a party, and surprisingly, the trial court notices the vital admissions suffered by the complainant, but still it proceeded to convict the accused on the ground that the cheque was issued by the accused which belonged to his account. Further, this Court finds that the appellate court has also failed to exercise the jurisdiction in a judicious manner, while affirming the judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 10.09.2025 passed by the trial court. The approach adopted by the trial court as well as the appellate court in convicting the petitioner in the facts and circumstances of the case is erroneous in law, and is result of misreading of evidence as well as law on the subject.

24. As a result, this Court has no hesitation in holding that the impugned judgment dated 15.12.2025 passed by the appellate court affirming the judgment dated 10.09.2025 passed by the trial court suffers from grave illegality and impropriety, therefore, interference is warranted by this Court in exercise of revisional jurisdiction.

25. Resultantly, the revision petition succeeds and the impugned judgment dated 10.09.2025 passed in Complaint Case No. 1771 of 2021 as well as order dated 15.12.2025 in Criminal Appeal No. 43 of 2025 are set aside and petitioner-Surendra Singh is acquitted in the Complaint Case No. 1771 of 2021 titled Smt. Shanti Devi versus Surendra Singh.

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether the Juvenile Justice Board was justified in invoking s. 15 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 and referring the revisionist for trial as an adult when the medical opinion assessed his age as "about 16 years" and he had not completed 16 years of age on the date of alleged offence.

Headnotes

Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 - ss. 15, 18 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - ss. - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - ss. 452, 302, 506 - About 16 years - Determination of age - Preliminary assessment in heinous offences - Applicability - Word "about" used in age determination not synonymous with "completed" - Interpretation of - An FIR was lodged against the revisionist and others in Case Crime No. 134 of 2017 under various ss. of IPC, alleging that the accused persons allegedly abused certain women and assaulted the complainant's father when he objected and subsequently attacked him with a knife while he was sleeping, resulting in his death - During the proceedings, the revisionist was declared a juvenile by Juvenile Justice Board on the basis of a medical age determination report assessing his age to be about 16 years - Despite the absence of any significant adverse material in District Probation Officer's report, the Juvenile Justice Board conducted a preliminary assessment u/s 15 of Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 and referred the matter to Children's Court for trial as an adult - Aggrieved thereby, the revisionist challenged the orders of Juvenile Justice Board and Children's Court, contending that on the date of occurrence he was approximately 15 years and 6 months old and, therefore, s. 15 of Act was inapplicable to him.

Held: There is no settled legal principle that specifically deals with the interpretation of term "about," which is commonly used by courts in determining age - When the exact age of child is not known and there is no documentary evidence available, a medical examination is conducted to determine age as per mandate of s. 94(2)(iii) of JJ Act, 2015 - However, such medical opinion does not provide an exact age and is only an estimate on the basis of any ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test - While considering the medical report given by CMO, the JJ Board should interpret it in a manner that benefits the child and serves the interests of justice - The Board should not simply adopt the age mentioned in report without proper consideration and application of mind - The JJ Board ought to have given benefit of a margin of error in age determination, as recognized by judicial precedents - Although, the order regarding the determination of age has not been challenged - Only the preliminary assessment order has been challenged - The Board conducted a preliminary assessment on the basis that the child in conflict with law was approximately 16 years of age, whereas u/s 15 of J.J. Act, a preliminary assessment requires the child's age to be 16 years or more as of date of incident - Thus, "about" could not be construed as "completion" provided u/s 15 of J.J. Act, 2015 - Accordingly, impugned orders set aside, thus, criminal revision allowed - Remanded back. [Paras 12, 13, 14, 16, 17] (E-13)

Case Arising From

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION: Criminal Revision No. - 5278 of 2025

From the Judgment and Order dated 16.07.2024 passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge/Special Judge (POCSO), Court No. 2, Ghaziabad in Criminal Case No. 65 of 2018 and also Order dated 20.03.2018 passed by Juvenile Justice Board, Ghaziabad in Case No. 76 of 2017 arising out of Case Crime No. 134 of 2017, Police Station Shahibabad, Ghaziabad.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for the Revisionist(s):

Gaurav Tiwari, Sanjay Chaturvedi

Adv. for the Opposite Party(s):

G.A., Gaurav Singh Tomar, Inder Pal Singh Tomar

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jai Prakash Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2, as well as Sri Ashutosh Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the entire material available on record.

2. This criminal revision has been filed under Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 for setting aside the judgment and order dated 16.07.2024 passed by learned Additional District and Sessions Judge/Special Judge (POCSO), Court No. 2, Ghaziabad in Criminal Case No. 65 of 2018 (State vs. Anash), and order dated 20.03.2018 passed by the learned Juvenile Justice Board, Ghaziabad in Case No. 76 of 2017 (State vs. Anash), arising out of Case Crime No. 134 of 2017, under Sections 452, 302, 506 IPC, Police Station Shahibabad, District Ghaziabad.

3. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the present criminal revision arises out of an FIR dated 26.01.2017 lodged by opposite party no. 2 against the revisionist and others, registered as Case Crime No. 134 of 2017 under Sections 452, 302, and 506 I.P.C. at Police Station Sahibabad, District Ghaziabad. As per the prosecution case, on 21.01.2017 at about 9:00 P.M., the accused persons allegedly abused certain women and assaulted the complainant's father when he objected. Thereafter, in the intervening night of 25/26.01.2017 at about 1:30 A.M., the said person was allegedly attacked with a knife while sleeping, resulting in his death.

4. It is submitted that the revisionist was declared a juvenile by the Juvenile Justice Board, Ghaziabad, vide order dated 26.09.2017 on the basis of the medical report of the Chief Medical Officer dated 03.06.2017, which assessed his age to be about 16 years on that date. Accordingly, on the date of the incident, the revisionist was approximately 15 years and 6 months old and, therefore, below 16 years of age. Learned counsel contends that the District Probation Officer's report dated 21.11.2017 does not disclose any adverse material or criminal antecedents against the revisionist, except a vague apprehension regarding bad company.

5. Despite this, the Juvenile Justice Board, by order dated 20.03.2018, referred the matter to the Children's Court for trial of the revisionist as an adult. It is argued that such referral is contrary to Section 15 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, which applies only to children aged 16 years or above on the date of commission of the offence. Since the revisionist was below 16 years, the preliminary assessment and mental status examination were without jurisdiction and contrary to law. It is further submitted that the learned trial court wrongly rejected the application dated 17.01.2023 and arbitrarily closed the opportunity to cross-examine Dr. Saket Nath Tiwari, thereby causing prejudice to the revisionist.

6. Learned counsel further submits that the mental status examination report is neither conclusive nor sufficient to justify trial of the revisionist as an adult. Since Section 15 itself was inapplicable, the consequential provisions of Section 18 of the Act also could not have been invoked. The impugned orders are stated to be based on conjectures, unsupported by evidence, and contrary to the scheme and provisions of the Juvenile Justice Act. It is lastly submitted that the revisionist has already undergone the maximum period of three years contemplated under the Act, and therefore continuation of the proceedings is wholly unjustified. Accordingly, the impugned orders passed by the Juvenile Justice Board and the learned trial court are liable to be set aside.

7. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the revisionist has placed reliance upon the judgment of High Court of Delhi at New Delhi in the case of Raju vs. State (GNCT of Delhi) reported in 2025 SCC OnLine Del 6361.

8. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 and learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the submissions made by the learned counsel for the revisionist and has submitted that the judgment and order of the courts concerned are in accordance with law.

9. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

The core of this revision rests on the age of the accused. A report from the Chief Medical Officer dated 03.06.2017, determined the revisionist was about 16 years old at that time. Consequently, the Juvenile Justice Board, Ghaziabad determined the age of child in conflict with law about 16 years declared him a juvenile on 26.09.2017. Crucially, the learned counsel for the revisionist argues that on the actual date of the incident 26.01.2017, the revisionist was approximately 15 years and 6 months old.

10. The learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the revisionist has been wrongly assessed under Section 15 of the JJ Act. This provision applies only when a child in conflict with law has completed the 16 years of age or above.

11. Here, it would be relevant to go through the opening line of Section 15, which clearly states:

"In case of a heinous offence alleged to have been committed by a child, who has completed or is above the age of sixteen year". This makes it clear that the child must have completed 16 years of age."

In the present case, the age of the revisionist has been recorded as "about 16 years." As per Black's Law Dictionary-

"The word "about" is generally construed to mean "approximately", "nearly", or "close to" a specific amount, time, or quantity"

The word "about" is generally understood to mean something that is not exact but approximate. Therefore, it indicates that the revisionist has not yet completed 16 years of age.

12. The Court, while adjudicating the present judgment, has dealt with the following two issues:

Firstly, the issue that arises for consideration is whether the terms “completed” and “about” are synonymous with each other.

The words ‘completion’ and ‘about’ are not synonymous in legal interpretation, as each conveys a distinct meaning and legal effect. The term “completion” denotes the finalization, fulfillment, or full execution of an act or obligation. In contrast, the word “about” is ordinarily used to indicate approximation, relation, or reference to a subject matter, without implying finality or conclusiveness. Under principles of statutory and contractual interpretation, courts generally assign words their ordinary and contextual meanings unless expressly defined otherwise. Therefore, treating ‘completion’ and ‘about’ as synonymous would be legally unsustainable, as such interpretation may alter the objective of the act and create ambiguity in the construction of the statute.

The JJ Board failed to properly consider the use of the word "about 16 years" and incorrectly treated the revisionist as having completed 16 years, thereby wrongly declaring him as an adult. On the bare perusal of Section 15 of the JJ Act, the revisionist was not eligible for assessment under this provision. Section 15 of the JJ Act, 2015 reads as under:-

Section 15. Preliminary assessment into heinous offences by Board.

(1) In case of a heinous offence alleged to have been committed by a child, who has completed or is above the age of sixteen years, the Board shall conduct a preliminary assessment with regard to his mental and physical capacity to commit such offence, ability to understand the consequences of the offence and the circumstances in which he allegedly committed the offence and may pass an order in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 18:

Provided that for such an assessment, the Board may take the assistance of experiences psychologists or psycho-social workers or other experts.

Explanation. For the purposes of this section, it is clarified that preliminary assessment not a trial but is to assess the capacity of such child to commit and understand the consequence of the alleged offence.

(2) Where the Board is satisfied on preliminary assessment that the matter should be disposed of by the Board, then the Board shall follow the procedure, as far as may be, for trial in summons case under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974):

Provided that the order of the Board to dispose of the matter shall be appealable under sub-section (2) of section 101:

Provided further that the assessment under this section shall be completed within the period specified in section 14.

Secondly, the issue that arises for consideration is whether a child in conflict with law, who has neither attained nor completed the age of 16 years, can be subjected to an assessment under Section 15 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015.

There is no settled legal principle that specifically deals with the interpretation of the term "about," which is commonly used by courts in determining age. When the exact age of the child is not known and there is no documentary evidence available, a medical examination is conducted to determine the age as per mandate of section 94(2)(iii) of the JJ Act, 2015. However, such medical opinion does not provide an exact age and is only an estimate on the basis of any ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test.

13. Therefore, while considering the medical report given by the CMO, the JJ Board should interpret it in a manner that benefits the child and serves the interests of justice. The Board should not simply adopt the age mentioned in the report without proper consideration and application of mind.

14. Further, the JJ Board ought to have given the benefit of a margin of error in age determination, as recognized by judicial precedents.

Reference may be made to the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Vinod Katara Vs. State of M.P., reported in 2022 SCC Online SC 1204, wherein, the Hon'ble Apex Court held:

"60. The bone ossification test is not an exact science that can provide us with the exact age of the person. As discussed above, the individual characteristics such as the growth rate of bones and skeletal structures can affect the accuracy of this method. This Court has observed in Ram Suresh Singh v. Prabhat Singh, (2009) 6 SCC 681; (2010) 2 SCC (Cri) 1194, and Jyoti Prakash Rai v. State of Bihar. (2008) 15 SCC 223; (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 796, that the ossification test is not conclusive for age determination because it does not reveal the exact age of the person, but the radiological examination leaves a margin of two years on either side of the age range as prescribed by the test irrespective of whether the ossification test of multiple joints is conducted. The courts in India have accepted the fact that after the age of thirty years the ossification test cannot be relied upon for age determination. It is trite that the standard of proof for the determination of age is the degree of probability and not proof beyond reasonable doubt".

15. In view of the above, the revisionist should have been given the benefit of this margin, and the assessment under Section 15 of the JJ Act was not justified.

16. Although, the order regarding the determination of age has not been challenged in this revision. Only the preliminary assessment order has been challenged. The Board conducted a preliminary assessment under Section 15 of the Act on the basis that the child in conflict with law was approximately 16 years of age, whereas under Section 15 of the J.J. Act, a preliminary assessment requires the child's age to be 16 years or more as of the date of incident.

17. From the above discussion and in the considered opinion of this Court, "about" could not be construed as "completion" provided under Section 15 of the J.J. Act, 2015.

18. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the impugned order dated 20.03.2018 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, Ghaziabad and the order dated 16.07.2024 passed by the learned trial court cannot be sustained in the eyes of law.

19. Accordingly, the criminal revision is allowed.

20. The impugned judgment and order dated 16.07.2024 passed by the learned Additional District and Sessions Judge/Special Judge (POCSO), Court No. 2, Ghaziabad and the order dated 20.03.2018 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, Ghaziabad are hereby set aside.

21. It is directed that the case of the revisionist shall be dealt with strictly in accordance with the provisions applicable to a juvenile under the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015.

22. The matter is remanded back to the Juvenile Justice Board, Ghaziabad to proceed afresh in accordance with law.

23. Before parting with the judgment, I would like to express my appreciation to my Research Associate, Ms. Divya Pandey for her thorough research and assistance to the Court in the instant case.

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether the Family Court committed illegality and material irregularity in allowing the application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. and awarding maintenance to wife without framing any specific point for determination regarding the allegation of unchastity raised by the husband in his written statement, which was a statutory bar to the wife's claim for maintenance.

Headnotes

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - ss. 125 - Maintenance - Grant of maintenance to wife - Allegation of adultery by husband - Necessity of determination - Framing of Issues - Family Court - Evidence - Written Statement - Pleadings - Opportunity to adduce evidence - Material irregularity - Revisional jurisdiction - Remand - The revisionist-husband challenged the judgment and order dated 27.06.2025 passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Gorakhpur in Case No. 39 of 2021 u/s 125 Cr.P.C., whereby the application filed by the wife for maintenance was partially allowed and the revisionist was directed to pay Rs. 4,000/- per month as maintenance - The revisionist contended that he had specifically pleaded in his written statement that the opposite party-wife was living an unchaste life and had an illicit relationship with another person - However, the trial court failed to frame any issue or point for determination regarding such allegation and passed the maintenance order without recording any finding on the said aspect - The opposite party and the State opposed the revision, submitting that no issue regarding chastity was framed and therefore, no evidence on such aspect could be considered - It was further argued that the revisionist failed to demonstrate any illegality or irregularity in the impugned order.

Held: Although no assertion regarding chastity of opposite party no. 2 was present in petition u/s 125 Cr.P.C. but the allegation of unchastity of opposite party no. 2 has been made in written statement filed by revisionist before the trial court - But the trial court did not frame any point for determination in this regard - Consequently no finding on that point could be given by trial court which causes serious injustice to revisionist, set aside - The impugned orders suffers from material irregularities - Accordingly, instant criminal revision allowed - The Trial Court is directed to frame a specific point for determination regarding unchastity of opposite party no. 2 and, thereafter, after affording adequate opportunity to parties to adduce evidence, if court requires necessary, to pass fresh order/judgment in accordance with law, expeditiously and without causing any undue delay. Advs. for the Revisionist(s):

Saurabh Yadav, Suraj Raj

Advs. for the Opposite Party(s):

G.A., Kailash Chaudhary, Nitesh Kumar Chaudhary

(Delivered by Hon'ble Lakshmi Kant Shukla, J.)

1. Rejoinder affidavit filed on behalf of revisionist, is taken on record.

2. Heard Mr. Saurabh Yadav, the learned counsel for revisionist, Mr. Gyanendra Singh, the learned AGA representing State-opposite party no. 1 and Mr. Kailash Choudhary, learned counsel representing opposite party no. 2 and perused the record.

3. The present revision has been preferred by revisionist Ramraj challenging the impugned judgment and order dated 27.06.2025 passed by learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Gorakhpur (hereinafter referred to as trial court) in Case No. 39/2021, under section 125 Cr.P.C. (Kumari Shushila Vs. Ramraj) wherein the trial court partially allowed the application of opposite party no. 2/the complainant under section 125 Cr.P.C. and the revisionist was ordered to pay Rs. 4,000/- monthly as maintenance to opposite party no. 2 the wife of revisionist.

4. Feeling aggrieved from that order the present criminal revision has been filed on the grounds that the impugned order has manifest error of law. It is absolutely illegal, unjust, improper, arbitrary against the evidence on record, hence the same is liable to be set aside by this Court invoking the revisional jurisdiction.

5. To elaborate his submission learned counsel appearing on behalf of revisionist urged that the revisionist has claimed in his objection that the opposite party no. 2 is leading unchastity life but the trial court failed to frame any issue in this regard and consequently no finding in this record has been recorded by the trial court and it is thus contended that the impugned order is not sustainable in law. In support of his submission he placed reliance upon paragraph 8 and 10 of the written statement which occurs at page 90 of the paper book. The relevant paragraph nos. 8 and 10 of the aforesaid written statement are quoted here under:-

"8. यह कि याची का अश्व नी कुमार पुत्र अज्ञा त ग्र ा म व पोस्ट -बरईपार, हाल मुकामनहर चौराहा, डोहिरया कला, पोस्ट -मिनवा, थाना-सहजनवाँ, जनपद-गोरखपुर के साथ अनैतिक सम्बन्ध था जिसके सम्बन्ध में अश्व नी कुमार की पत्नी मीना देवी ने दिनांक 27-12-2020 को थानाध्यक्ष सहजनवाँ, गोरखपुर को एक शिकायती प्रार्थना पत्र दी थी जिसकी छायाप्रति शपथ पत्र के साथ संलग्न है। जिस पर एनेक्चर सं०-1 डाला गया है।

10- यह कि याची का चाल-चलन ठीक नहीं था इसीलिए वह शपथकर्ता के साथ रहकर वैवाहिक जीवन का निर्वार बखूबी नहीं की और शपथकर्ता को वैवाहिक जीवन से वंचित रखी। याची व शपथकर्ता के बीच में कई बार सुलह-समझौता हुआ लेकिन याची ने सुलह समझौता का कभी पालन नहीं किया।"

6. Per contra learned AGA as well as learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 submitted that there no issue was framed regarding chastity of opposite party no. 2. In such circumstances if there any evidence regarding unchastity or chastity had been adduced, such evidence could not be taken into consideration. It is further submitted that the parties are bound to lead evidence confining the issues framed in the matter and submitted that the revisionist could not show any material irregularity in the impugned order. The jurisdiction of trial court on the matter is not disputed so this criminal revision is liable to be set aside and impugned order is liable to be confirmed.

7. Having heard the submissions urged by learned counsel appearing on behalf of revisionist regarding fact of unchastity claimed by revisionist and non framing of issue in this regard is clearly borne out from the record. Section 125 of Cr.P.C. entitles the wife, children and parents having no sufficient means of maintenance to get maintenance from husband, parents or children as the case may be, having sufficient means to maintain his wife, his/her parents or children as the case may be. In addition to that the wife has to qualify certain additional qualifications to get maintenance from her husband. Section 125 Cr.P.C. reproduced herein under:-

" 125. Order for maintenance of wives, children and parents.

(1) If any person having sufficient means neglects or refuses to maintain

(a) his wife, unable to maintain herself, or

(b) his legitimate or illegitimate minor child, whether married or not, unable to maintain itself, or

(c) his legitimate or illegitimate child (not being a married daughter) who has attained majority, where such child is, by reason of any physical or mental abnormality or injury unable to maintain itself, or

(d) his father or mother, unable to maintain himself or herself.

a Magistrate of the first class may, upon proof of such neglect or refusal, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, at such monthly rate, as such Magistrate thinks fit, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct:

Provided that the Magistrate may order the father of a minor female child referred to in clause (b) to make such allowance, until she attains her majority, if the Magistrate is satisfied that the husband of such minor female child, if married, is not possessed of sufficient means.

[Provided further that the Magistrate may, during the pendency of the proceeding regarding monthly allowance for the maintenance under this sub-section, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the interim maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, and the expenses of such proceeding which the Magistrate considers reasonable, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct:

Provided also that an application for the monthly allowance for the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding under the second proviso shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within sixty days from the date of the service of notice of the application to such person.)

Explanation: For the purposes of this chapter,-

(a) "minor" means a person who, under the provisions of the Indian Majority Act 1875 is deemed not to have attained his majority;

(b) "wife" includes a woman who has been divorced by, or has obtained a divorce from, her husband and has not remarried.

(2) Any such allowance for the maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding shall be payable from the date of the order, or, if so ordered, from the date of the application for maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be.]

(3) If any person so ordered fails without sufficient cause to comply with the order, any Magistrate may, for every breach of the order, Issue a warrant for levying the amount due in the manner provided for levying fines, and may sentence such person, for the whole or any part of each month's allowance for the maintenance or the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be, remaining unpaid after the execution of the warrant, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month or until payment if sooner made;

Provided that no warrant shall be issued for the recovery of any amount due under this section unless application be made to the Court to levy such amount within a period of one year from the date on which it became due:

Provided further that if such person offers to maintain his wife on condition of her living with him, and she refuses to live with him, such Magistrate may consider any grounds of refusal stated by her, and may make an order under this section notwithstanding such offer, if he is satisfied that there is just ground for so doing.

Explanation. If a husband has contracted marriage with another woman or keeps a mistress, it shall be considered to be just ground for his wife's refusal to live with him.

(4) No wife shall be entitled to receive an [allowance for the maintenance or the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be] from her husband under this section if she is living in adultery, or if, without any sufficient reason, she refuses to live with her husband, or if they are living separately by mutual consent.

(5) On proof that any wife in whose favour an order has been made under this section is living in adultery, or that without sufficient reason she refuses to live with her husband, or that they are living separately by mutual consent, the Magistrate shall cancel the order"

8. Due to existence of Clause 4 to section 125 of Cr.P.C. if wife leads her life in adultery she cannot claim any maintenance from her husband meaning thereby if specific pleading in this regard is made by husband i.e. crucial point which must be determined prior to order of payment of any maintenance. It is apparent from perusal of written statement of revisionist occurred on page 90 of paper book that the revisionist has placed specific versions disclosing the name and address of co-adulterer. Though the revisionist is defendant/opposite party before the trial court and the case was filed by opposite party no. 2. Though the provision under section 125 Cr.P.C. is a part of criminal proceeding but when such proceeding is initiated the provisions of civil procedure code applies. In Vijay Kumar Prasad Vs. State of Bihar (2004) 4 SCC 468 and Savitri Vs. Govind Singh Rawat (1985) 4 SCC 337 it is held by Hon'ble Apex Court that the jurisdiction exercised by Magistrate under Chapter IX Cr.P.C. is not strictly criminal in nature and that proceedings under section 125 Cr.P.C. are essentially civil in nature. In Jaiminiben Hirenbbhai Vyas and Another Vs. Hirenbbhai Rameshchandra Vyas and Another (2015) 2 Supreme Court Cases 385 the Apex Court has held that every final order under section 125 Cr.P.C. and other sections referred to in sub-section (c) of Section 354 must contain points for determination, the decision thereon and the reasons for such decision. In other words, Section 125 and Section 354(6) must be read together. In Shailesh Kumar Yadav Vs. State of U.P. and Another order dated 14th November, 2025 passed by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court it is observed that several judgments passed by the learned Trial Court have been decided without framing any points for determination. A perusal of the record further shows that the trial court decided the section 125 Cr.P.C. application without framing any points for determination, which is mandatory as per Section 354(6) Cr.P.C. This provision requires that every order under section 117 or sub-section (2) of Section 138, and every final order made under Section 125, Section 145, or Section 147, shall contain the point or points for determination, the decision thereon, and the reasons for the decision. It is clarified that in the absence of framing any points for determination, it is difficult to ascertain the basis on which the Trial Court passed the order or awarded the maintenance amount.

9. At the stage of framing of points for determination the trial court should be very cautious while considering the provisions contained under section 125 of Cr.P.C. Living in adultery constitutes a statutory Bar to the entitlement of a wife to get maintenance meaning thereby it is the legal requirements that the petition of wife in this regard must contained the pleading that the she is not living in adultery in any manner whatsoever.

10. In view of above discussions, I am of the considered opinion that although no assertion regarding chastity of opposite party no. 2 was present in petition under section 125 Cr.P.C. but the allegation of unchastity of opposite party no. 2 has been made in written statement filed by revisionist before the trial court. But the trial court did not frame any point for determination in this regard. Consequently no finding on that point could be given by the trial court which causes serious injustice to the revisionist in the matter.

11. In view of above, the impugned judgment and order dated 27.06.2025 passed by learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Gorakhpur in Case No. 39/2021, under section 125 Cr.P.C. suffers from material irregularities, therefore, the same is liable to be set aside invoking its revisionist jurisdiction and present criminal revision deserves to be allowed.

12. Accordingly, the present criminal revision is hereby allowed. The Judgment and order dated 27.06.2025 passed by learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Gorakhpur is hereby set aside.

13. The Trial Court is directed to frame a specific point for determination regarding unchastity of opposite party no. 2 and, thereafter, after affording adequate opportunity to the parties to adduce evidence on the said issue, if court requires necessary, to pass fresh order/judgment in accordance with law, expeditiously and without causing any undue delay.

Criminal Revision No. 6123 of 2025

Versus

State of U.P. & Anr.

...Opposite Parties

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether the delay in conducting preliminary assessment u/s 15 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, would invalidate the assessment and cause miscarriage of justice to the revisionist, thereby requiring interference with the order directing that the revisionist be treated as a major and tried as an adult.

Headnotes

Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 - ss. 15, 20 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - s. - 376 - The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 - ss. 3/4 - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Model Rules, 2016 - Rule 10A(1) - Child in conflict with law - Heinous offence - Preliminary assessment - Mental and physical capacity - Understanding consequences of offence - Juvenile Justice Board - Children's Court - Adult trial - Transfer of juvenile - Delay in assessment - Statutory provision - Rehabilitation - Psychological evaluation - Age determination - Victim's appeal - POCSO proceedings - Fair trial - Procedural safeguards - Judicial delay - Scope of - The revisionist challenged the order passed by the Special Judge, POCSO Court, Budaun in Criminal Appeal whereby the appellate court set aside the order of Juvenile Justice Board and directed that the revisionist be treated as a major during trial - An F.I.R. was lodged against the revisionist under provisions of I.P.C. and POCSO Act alleging sexual assault upon the victim - During the alleged occurrence, the age of revisionist was 17 years 11 months and 19 days, and he claimed juvenility on the basis of his School Leaving Certificate - His application for being treated as a juvenile was initially rejected, but after directions of High Court, the Juvenile Justice Board conducted preliminary assessment under provisions of Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 and declared him a juvenile - The victim preferred an appeal against the order of Juvenile Justice Board, and Special Judge, POCSO Court, considering the gravity of offence and preliminary assessment report, modified the order and directed that the revisionist be tried as an adult - The revisionist contended that the preliminary assessment conducted after considerable delay violated provisions of Juvenile Justice Act and adversely affected his right to fair trial.

Held: Section 20 of JJ Act addresses the specific scenario where a child has attained 21 years but is yet to complete the prescribed term at a place of safety - At that stage, the Children's Court undertakes a fresh evaluation to determine whether the person has reformed or rehabilitated sufficiently to be released, or must serve the remaining term in an adult prison - A 4-year delay could therefore push the case into the ambit of s. 20 - In essence, a 4-year delay due to High Court pendency does not automatically invalidate the preliminary assessment, but significantly strengthens a juvenile's argument that any psychological evaluation now conducted is unreliable and that the assessment order if it goes against him deserves heightened judicial scrutiny - Accordingly, impugned order upheld, thus, criminal revision devoid of merit, dismissed. Case Arising From

From the Judgment and Order dated 13.10.2023 passed by the Special Judge POCSO Court, Badaun in Criminal Appeal No. 21 of 2013.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for the Revisionist(s):
Raghuvansh Mishra

Advs. for the Opposite Party(s):
Arvind Kumar Sahu, G.A., Praveen Kumar Srivastava

(Delivered by Hon'ble Achal Sachdev, J.)

1. Heard Sri Raghuvansh Misra, learned counsel for the revisionist, learned A.G.A. for the State and Sri Praveen Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2.

2. The present criminal revision has been preferred, being aggrieved by the order dated 13.10.2023 passed by the Special Judge, POCSO Court, Budaun in Criminal Appeal No. 21/2013 (Victim A Vs. State of U.P. and Anr.)

3. Facts giving rise to present revision are that an appeal was preferred by the revisionist, Urvesh @ Pravesh Kumar before the Children's Court pursuant to direction given in the order dated 14.09.2021 passed by this Court in Criminal Revision No. 163 of 2019 [Urvesh @ Pravesh Kumar (Minor) Vs. State of U.P. and Another]. wherein, vide order dated 14.09.2021, this Court quashed the order dated 04.08.2018 passed by the learned 8th Additional Sessions Judge/POCSO Court, Budaun in Misc. Case No. 95 of 2018 and had directed the Sessions Court to pass a fresh order after considering the entire evidence and material. After consideration, a fresh order dated 13.10.2023 was passed by the Special Judge, POCSO Court, Budaun in Criminal Appeal No. 21/2013 [Victim 'A' v. State of U.P. and Anr.] wherein the Special Judge has passed an order whereby the revisionist was ordered to be treated a major during the trial. The revisionist is working as worker at sweet shop and earns merely Rs. 7000/- per month to earn his bread and butter. In the present matter, an F.I.R. bearing Case Crime No. 15 of 2018 was lodged on 23.01.2018 by the informant, the victim, under Section 376 I.P.C. at Police Station- Kadar Chowk, District- Budaun against the revisionist wherein it has been alleged that the revisionist had sexually assaulted the victim. In the matter, investigation was conducted and a charge-sheet dated 10.03.2018 was submitted by the Investigating Officer under Section 376 I.P.C. and 3/4 POCSO Act whereupon cognizance of the matter was taken by the 8th Additional Sessions Judge/POCSO Court, Budaun on 25.04.2018. The date on which the alleged sexual harassment was committed, the age of the revisionist was 17 years 11 months and 19 days, and hence a minor. The date of birth of the minor is 03.02.2000 which is clearly stated in the School Leaving Certificate of the revisionist dated 28.01.2018. Subsequent to the cognizance being taken by the 8th Additional Sessions Judge/POCSO Court, Budaun, an application was preferred by the revisionist on 12.02.2018 through his father before the trial court/POCSO and his plea for being treated as a juvenile was initially rejected by the trial court on 04.08.2018, but the High Court, on 14.09.2021, set aside the order dated 04.08.2018 and directed reconsideration, pursuant to which the trial court on 25.11.2021 declared him a juvenile. Following a mental assessment under the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, the Juvenile Justice Board on 12.12.2022 directed that he be tried as a juvenile; however, on an appeal by the victim, the Special Judge (POCSO Court), Budaun, vide order dated 13.10.2023, set aside the decision of the Juvenile Justice Board and held that the revisionist should be treated as a major during trial.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist argues that the order dated 13.10.2023 passed by the Children Court/Special Judge (POCSO Act), Budaun, in Criminal Appeal No. 21/2023, Victim 'A', resident of village Gangpur, Police Station- Kadarchowk, District- Budaun Vs. State of UP and Another violates express provisions contained in Section 15 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 and has also placed reliance on the guidelines of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Barun Chandra Thakur Vs. Master Bholu & Anr. 2022 SCC Online SC 870. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the judgment highlights the tension between the victim's right to justice and juvenile's right to rehabilitation and reinforces that children in conflict with law cannot be automatically treated as adults; due process must be followed and sets a benchmark for future cases involving heinous offences by juveniles, ensuring that transfer to adult courts is not routine but based on rigorous assessment. The Barun Chandra Thakur (supra) case is a landmark ruling that underscores the importance of scientific, expert-driven assessment before treating juveniles as adults in heinous crimes. It strengthens procedural safeguards while acknowledging the gravity of offences, ensuring justice remains both fair and humane.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that as per the provisions contained in Section 15(1) of The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 and the rules enacted thereunder, the Juvenile Board was duty bound to conduct preliminary assessment of the child in conflict with law who is aged between 16 -18 years and has been accused of having committed a heinous offence in light of provisions contained therein. Learned counsel for the revisionist has drawn attention of the Court to the fact that the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection) Act, 2015 or the Model Rules enacted in support thereof do not lay down any guidelines or framework to facilitate the Board in making a proper preliminary assessment on the relevant aspects and only liberty that has been given to the Board is to obtain assistance of an experienced psychologist or a psycho social worker. The task of preliminary assessment under Section 15 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection) Act, 2015, has its own implications as regards the trial of the case.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist has further submitted that Section 15(1) mandates that in the case of a heinous offence alleged to have been committed by a child who has completed or is above the age of sixteen years, the Juvenile Justice Board (JJB) shall conduct a preliminary assessment concerning :

- (a) His mental and physical capacity to commit such an offence,
- (b) His ability to understand the consequences of the offence, and
- (c) The circumstances in which he allegedly committed the offence.

And only then, the Board may pass an order in accordance with Section 18(3) and, in holding a preliminary assessment, it may take the assistance of experienced psychologists, psycho-social workers, or other experts. Crucially, the statute clarifies that a preliminary assessment is not a trial, but is only to assess the capacity of the child. Only juveniles committing heinous offences defined under Section 2(33) as offences carrying a minimum imprisonment of 7 years or more are eligible for preliminary assessment under Section 15. Learned counsel for the revisionist has drawn the attention of the Court to paragraphs 45 and 76 of the Barun Chandra Thakur (supra) that underscores the importance of scientific, expert-driven assessment before treating juveniles as adults in heinous crimes. It strengthens procedural safeguards while acknowledging the gravity of offences, ensuring justice remains both fair and humane.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted further that vide order dated 13.10.2023 passed by the appellate court in criminal appeal preferred by the victim against the order declaring the revisionist as a juvenile, the appellate court directed the trial of the revisionist as an adult and the appellate court failed to consider the fact that the preliminary assessment of the revisionist was conducted after four years from the date of the alleged offence and on the date of preliminary assessment of the accused/revisionist, the accused had become a major and belated preliminary assessment, in absence of a speaking order explaining the delay, has adversely affected valuable rights of the revisionist to a fair trial.

8. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 has argued that the delay in preliminary assessment had been caused by acts of the accused. He further submits that an F.I.R. bearing Case Crime No. 15/2018, under Section 376 I.P.C. was lodged by the informant on 23.01.2018 against accused/revisionist and after investigation, a charge-sheet was preferred before the Children Court/POCSO Court, Budaun and cognizance of the offence was taken by the court on 25.04.2018. Subsequent to the cognizance, father of the accused preferred an application before the Juvenile Justice Board and the same was rejected in the absence of any reliable document. The accused/revisionist filed a Criminal Revision No.3163/2019 before the Allahabad High Court and vide order dated 14.09.2021, the revision was allowed, and the trial court was directed to decide the matter afresh after considering the entire evidence and materials available on record. In pursuance of the order dated 14.09.2021 passed in the revision, the Juvenile Justice Board, Budaun, passed a fresh order holding the accused/revisionist to be a Juvenile after conducting a preliminary assessment of the accused/revisionist in terms of Section 15 of J.J. Act and decided to proceed with the trial. Aggrieved by the order dated 12.12.2022, the victim preferred an appeal under Section 101 of J.J. Act. The appellate court, vide order dated 13.10.2023, modified the order of Juvenile Justice Board, Budaun, owing to gravity of offence and preliminary assessment report. The order under challenge does not suffer from any irregularity.

9. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 further submits that the time frame for completion of preliminary assessment is merely directory and where the delay in conducting the preliminary assessment arises due to judicial intervention, the delay won't result in lapse of proceeding. In essence, a 4-year delay due to High Court pendency does not automatically invalidate the preliminary assessment, but significantly strengthens a juvenile's argument that any psychological evaluation now conducted is unreliable and that the assessment order if it goes against him, deserves heightened judicial scrutiny.

10. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

11. At the very outset, it would be pertinent to mention here that the present revision is directed to the modification of the order of the Juvenile Justice Board in a criminal appeal preferred by the victim, whereunder, the appellate court had directed the trial of the child in conflict with law as an adult.

12. Section 15 of The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, is being reproduced below for the sake of convenience :-

15. Preliminary assessment into heinous offences by Board. - (1) In case of a heinous offence alleged to have been committed by a child, who has completed or is above the age of sixteen years, the Board shall conduct a preliminary assessment with regard to his mental and physical capacity to commit such offence, ability to understand the consequences of the offence and the circumstances in which he allegedly committed the offence, and may pass an order in accordance with the provisions of sub section (3) of section 18:

Provided that for such an assessment, the Board may take the assistance of experienced psychologists or psycho-social workers or other experts.

Explanation. - For the purposes of this section, it is clarified that preliminary assessment is not a trial, but is to assess the capacity of such a child to commit and understand the consequences of the alleged offence.

(2) Where the Board is satisfied on preliminary assessment that the matter should be disposed of by the Board, then the Board shall follow the procedure, as far as may be, for trial in summons case under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 :

Provided that the order of the Board to dispose of the matter shall be appealable under sub-section (2) of section 101 :

Provided further that the assessment under this section shall be completed within the period specified in section 14.

13. Section 14 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection) Act, 2015 is also being reproduced below for the sake of convenience :-

14. Inquiry by Board regarding child in conflict with law. - (1) Where a child alleged to be in conflict with the law is produced before the Board, the Board shall hold an inquiry in accordance with the provisions of this Act and may pass such orders in relation to such child as it deems fit under sections 17 and 18 of this Act.

(2) The inquiry under this section shall be completed within a period of four months from the date of first production of the child before the Board, unless the period is extended. for a maximum period of two more months by the Board, having regard to the circumstances of the case and after recording the reasons in writing for such extension.

(3) A preliminary assessment in case of heinous offences under Section 15 shall be disposed of by the Board within a period of three months from the date of first production of the child before the Board.

(4) If an inquiry by the Board under sub-section (2) for petty offences remains Inconclusive even after the extended period, the proceedings shall stand terminated :

Provided that for serious or heinous offences, in case the Board requires further extension of time for completion of the inquiry, the same shall be granted by the Chief Judicial Magistrate or, as the case may be, the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, for reasons to be recorded in writing.

(5) The Board shall take the following steps to ensure fair and speedy inquiry, namely :

(a) At the time of initiating the inquiry, the Board shall satisfy itself that the child in conflict with the law has not been subjected to any ill-treatment by the police or by any other person, including a lawyer or probation officer, and take corrective steps in case of such ill-treatment;

(b) in all cases under the Act, the proceedings shall be conducted in simple manner as possible, and care shall be taken to ensure that the child, against whom the proceedings have been instituted, is given a child-friendly atmosphere during the proceedings;

(c) Every child brought before the Board shall be given the opportunity of being heard and participate in the inquiry;

(d) cases of petty offences shall be disposed of by the Board through summary proceedings, as per the procedure prescribed under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973;

(e) inquiry of serious offences shall be disposed of by the Board, by following the procedure, for trial in summons cases under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973;

(f) inquiry of heinous offences, -

(i) for child below the age of sixteen years as on the date of commission of an offence shall be disposed of by the Board under clause (e);

(ii) for a child above the age of sixteen years as on the date of commission of an offence shall be dealt with in the manner prescribed under section 15.

14. It is laid down in Section 15(1) of the aforesaid Act that the Board is assisted by a practicing professional with a degree in child psychology or psychiatry. A legal-aid counsel must be provided through the District Legal Aid Service Authority, who must be present with the child during the assessment. Rule 10A (1) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Model Rules, 2016, provides further guidance with respect to the implementation of Section 15 of the JJ Act. The rule states as under :-

"10A. Preliminary assessment into heinous offences by Board. –

(1) The Board shall in the first instance, determine whether the child is of sixteen years of age or above; if not, it shall proceed as per the provisions of section 14 of the Act.

(2) For the purpose of conducting a preliminary assessment in case of heinous offences, the Board may take the assistance of psychologists or psycho-social workers or other experts who have experience of working with children in difficult circumstances. A panel of such experts may be made available by the District Child Protection Unit, whose assistance can be taken by the Board or could be accessed independently.

(3) While making the preliminary assessment, the child shall be presumed to be innocent unless proved otherwise.

(4) Where the Board, after preliminary assessment under section 15 of the Act, passes an order that there is a need for trial of the said child as an adult, it shall assign reasons for the same and the copy of the order shall be provided to the child forthwith.

15. Section 15(2) provides that where the Board is satisfied on preliminary assessment that the matter should be disposed of by the Board, it shall follow the procedure for trial in summons cases under the CrPC. This order is appealable under Section 101(2).

16. If the Board finds that the child needs to be tried as an adult, it transfers the trial to a Children's Court. The Children's Court then conducts a trial and passes an appropriate order considering the special needs of the child and principles of justice but it cannot award death sentence or life imprisonment without possibility of release.

17. A preliminary assessment in case of heinous offences under Section 15 is to be disposed of by the Board within a period of three months from the date of first production of the child before the Board.

18. However, the critical legal question is whether this timeline is mandatory or directory. The Supreme Court, in the case Child in Conflict with Law through his Mother Vs. State of Karnataka & Another, 2024 SCC Online SC 798, has authoritatively settled this :

“The provision of Section 14(3) of the Act, providing three months for completion of a preliminary assessment under Section 15, is not mandatory, and is directory. The period can be extended, for reasons to be recorded in writing, by the Chief Judicial Magistrate or the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate.”

19. In summary, Section 15 creates a two-tier gateway, the JJB first assesses whether the child should be treated as a juvenile or referred to a Children's Court for adult trial. It is a delicate balancing act between accountability for serious crime and the juvenile justice system's core philosophy of rehabilitation over punishment.

20. In Mumtaz Ahmed Nasir Khan and Ors. Vs The State of Maharashtra & Ors., MANU/MH/1902/2019, the Bombay High Court has stated and reiterated that the preliminary assessment is not a trial. The relevant excerpts are produced below :

33. As Section 15 permits, the Board may, during the preliminary assessment, take the assistance of experienced psychologists, psycho-social workers or other experts. First, the preliminary assessment is "not a trial." Second, it is, instead, an inquiry to assess the child's capacity to commit the alleged offence and to understand its consequences. On inquiry, the Board must satisfy itself in its preliminary assessment about the juvenile's mental and physical capacity, his ability to understand the consequences of the offence, and so on. Then, if the Board is "satisfied on preliminary assessment that the matter should be disposed of", it will follow "the procedure, as far as may be, for trial in summons case under CrPC. " The Board's order is appealable under sub-section (2) of Section 101.

21. The question that arises for consideration is whether the delay in the preliminary assessment would amount to a miscarriage of justice, as alleged by the learned counsel for the revisionist.

22. Where the delay was not attributable to the Board or the State, but arose because the matter was pending before the High Court (e.g., the juvenile or another party had approached the High Court and proceedings were stayed), several important legal consequences follow :

(a) The delay is legally excused. Courts have consistently held that delay caused by judicial proceedings particularly High Court or Supreme Court orders cannot be attributed to either party as culpable delay. The period during which a stay or pendency operates is effectively excluded from consideration.

(b) The assessment is of the child's capacity at the time of the offence. This is a crucial point: the preliminary assessment is not a trial, but is to assess the capacity of the child to commit and understand the consequences of the alleged offence i.e., the assessment is backwards-looking to the time the offence was committed, not the current age or capacity of the child.

(c) The child turning 18 or even older during pendency does not bar the assessment. As per Section 5 of the Act, the inquiry can be continued by the Board and orders may be passed in respect of such person as if such person had continued to be a child. If such person is not released on bail, he shall be placed in a Place of Safety during the process of inquiry.

23. Even where the delay is excused legally, courts will scrutinize the assessment very carefully on account of the time gap. The following consequences arise in practice :

(a) Reliability of psychological evaluation is compromised. From a neurobiological perspective, the development of cognitive behavioural attributes like decision-making, risk-taking, impulsivity, and judgement continues until the early 20s. If the child was, say, 17 at the time of the offence but is now 21, a psychological evaluation conducted today will not accurately reflect his mental and emotional maturity at the time of the offence. This is a major ground of challenge.

(b) The assessment must still be meticulous. The evaluation of mental capacity and ability to understand the consequences of the offence cannot be relegated to the status of a perfunctory and routine task, as the fate of the child precariously rests on it. After a 4-year gap, the Board must be even more careful in reconstructing the developmental state of the child at the time of the alleged offence.

(c) Prejudice to the juvenile is a ground for challenge. The juvenile can argue before the Children's Court or High Court that the delay even if caused by the High Court proceedings has resulted in practical prejudice: witnesses may have become unavailable, records may be stale, and the psychological baseline of the child at the time of the offence can no longer be reliably assessed.

24. At this juncture, provisions of Section 20 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection) Act, 2015 assume importance and are being reproduced below :-

20. Child attained age of twenty-one years and yet to complete prescribed term of stay in place of safety. - (1) When the child in conflict with the law attains the age of twenty-one years and is yet to complete the term of stay, the Children's Court shall provide for a follow up by the probation officer or the District Child Protection Unit or a social worker or by itself, as required, to evaluate if such child has undergone reformatory changes and if the child can be a contributing member of the society and for this purpose the progress records of the child under sub-section (4) of section 19, along with evaluation of relevant experts are to be taken into consideration.

(2) After the completion of the procedure specified under sub-section (1), the Children's Court may –

(i) decide to release the child on such conditions as it deems fit which includes appointment of a monitoring authority for the remainder of the prescribed term of stay;

(ii) decide that the child shall complete the remainder of his term in a jail:

Provided that each State Government shall maintain a list of monitoring authorities and monitoring procedures as may be prescribed.

25. Section 20 of the JJ Act addresses the specific scenario where a child has attained 21 years but is yet to complete the prescribed term at a place of safety. At that stage, the Children's Court undertakes a fresh evaluation to determine whether the person has reformed or rehabilitated sufficiently to be released, or must serve the remaining term in an adult prison. A 4-year delay could therefore push the case into the ambit of Section 20.

26. In essence, a 4-year delay due to High Court pendency does not automatically invalidate the preliminary assessment, but significantly strengthens a juvenile's argument that any psychological evaluation now conducted is unreliable and that the assessment order if it goes against him deserves heightened judicial scrutiny.

27. In light of the above analysis, order dated 13.10.2023 was passed by the Special Judge, POCSO Court, Budaun in Criminal Appeal No. 21/2013 (Victim A Vs. State of U.P. and Anr.), keeping in sight the procedural as well as societal impact of crime, does not suffer from any infirmity and is liable to be upheld.

28. The present criminal revision has been preferred with an oblique purpose of hindering the trial and is devoid of merit.

29. It is accordingly dismissed.
