113. Aforesaid argument therefore, has no merit and we also did not find that repeal of GG Act, 1895 by Repeal Act, 2017 takes away right of State of resumption, which has already acquired long back under the terms of lease and is attracted by Section 4 thereof. Sixth question is thus answered holding that neither Clause 3(c) of lease deed is arbitirary nor can be assailed by petitioners-lessees after enjoying other conditions of lease-deed.

114. Seventh question is "whether mere possession of petitioners over land in dispute confers any right upon them to resist entry of owner of land and can it insist upon owner to follow any particular procedure before compelling petitioner to vacate land in dispute."

115. In this respect, it is contended that even if petitioners are rank trespassor, the fact is that petitioners are in possession of land in dispute and therefore by application of force, petitioners cannot be evicted. Petitioners, at the best, are unauthorized occupants in terms of U.P. Act, 1972 and therefore, atleast procedure prescribed in the said Act has to be followed. Further continued possession of petitioners over land in dispute entitles petitioners notice under Section 106 read with Section 116 TP Act, 1882, since principle of 'holding over' will apply, or in any case, State can evict petitioners by filing a suit for eviction, which is a remedy available in common law. In this regard, reliance is placed on certain authorities namely Bishan Das and others Vs. State of Punjab and others AIR 1961 SC 1570, Express Newspapers Pvt. Ltd. and others Vs. Union of India (1986) 1 SCC 133, Yar Mohammad and another vs. Lakshmi Das and others AIR 1959 Allahabad 1 and Lallu Yeshwant Singh (dead) by his legal representative vs. Rao Jagdish Singh and others, AIR 1968 SC 620.

116. It is also contended that terms of lease read with GG Act, 1895 cannot be resorted to by respondents since GG Act, 1895 has already been repealed by Repealing and Amending (Second) Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as "Repeal Act, 2017) and therefore, provisions of GG Act, 1895 are not available to respondents to dispossess petitioners and cannot be resorted to.

117. With regard to applicability of TP Act, 1882 we have already discussed the matter in the light of GG Act, 1895. Law laid down in Azim Ahmad Kazmi and others vs. State of U.P. and Another (2012) 7 SCC 278 is very clear and holds the field. At the pain of repetition, we may observe that Supreme Court has clearly held that in the matter of Government Grant, it is governed by provisions of GG Act, 1895 and no other Statute including TP Act, 1882 will have any application. Court has also said that procedure prescribed under lease deed for re-entry / resumption of land is a special procedure and that can be followed for re-entry and no other Statute and no other procedure is to be observed.

118. So far as application of Section 116 of TP Act, 1882 is concerned we find nothing to show that Section 116 of TP Act, 1882 has any application in the case in hand. It is attracted only when an assent of landlord has been obtained for continuation of lease after expiry of lease period, which is not the case in hand. These aspects have been dealt with in Shanti Prasad Devi and others vs. Shankar Mahto and others (2005) 5 SCC 543, which has been followed in Delhi Development Authority Vs. Anant Raj Agencies Pvt. Ltd. (supra).

119. Now, we come to the question of applicability of UP Act, 1972.

120. As we have already said that in view of declaration made under Section 2 of GG Act, 1895, as amended in Uttar Pradesh, no Statute will govern conditions of Government Grant and instead it will specifically be governed only by terms of Government Grant. Therefore, it is not necessary for State to follow procedure of U.P. Act, 1972, though it is also available and under the provisions thereof admittedly petitioner is 'unauthorized occupant'.

121. Above contention can be examined from another angle. Petitioner's possession at the best can be juridical possession though it is admittedly unlawful and illegal. Property is a legal concept that grants and protects a person's exclusive right to own, possess, use and dispose of a thing. The term property does not suggest a physical item but describes a legal relationship of a person to a thing. Real property consists of lands, tenements and hereditaments. Land refers to ground, the air above, the area below the Earth's surface and everything that is erected on it. Tenements include land and certain intangible rights recognized by municipal laws related to lands. A hereditaments embraces every tangible or intangible interest in real property that can be inherited. An interest describes any right, claim or privilege that an individual has towards real property. Law recognizes various types of interests in real property which may justify possession over property of person concerned. A non-possessory interest in land is right of one person to use or restricted use of land that belongs to other person such as easementary rights. Non-possessory interest does not constitute ownership of land itself. Holders of a non-possessory interest in real property do not have title and owner of land continues to enjoy full right of ownership, subject to any encumbrances. An encumbrance is a burden, claim or charge on real property that can affect the quality of title and value and/or use of property. Encumbrances can represent non-possessory interests in real property.

122. Possession is also of two kinds namely, (a) de facto possession, and (b) de jure possession. De facto possession is when a person being in actual physical possession and de jure possession is possession in law. Constructive possession would be a possession through a representative, agent, tenant or a trustee. A person in de facto possession could be in adverse possession. In a civilized society some protection of possession is essential. The methods of protection recognized are :

(i) Possessor can be given certain legal rights, such as a right to continue in possession free from interference by others; and

(ii) Protective possession by prescribing criminal penalties for wrongful interference and wrongful dispossession.

123. When certain legal right are given to a person, one of the mode is that possessory right in rem are supported by various rights in personam against those who violate possessor's right; he can be given a right to recover compensation for interference and for dispossession, and a right to have his possession restored to him. But, whenever such a person invoked such remedies, one of the question would be, whether a person invoking them actually has any possession to be protected. In other words, it has to be examined whether a person is in possession of an object? However, legal concept of possession is not restricted to commonsense concept of possession, namely physical control. Possession in fact is not a simple notion. Whether a person is in possession of an article, depends on various factors namely nature of article itself and attitudes and activities of other persons.

124. Possession may be 'lawful' or 'unlawful' or even 'legal' or 'illegal'. Acquisition of legal possession would obviously be lawful and would, of necessity, involve occurrence of some event recognized by law whereby subject matter falls under the control of the possessor. Problem, however, arises where duration for which possession recognized is limited by Grantor or law. Continuance of possession beyond prescribed period is not treated as a 'lawful possession'. If a landlord does not consent to lease being continued, possession of tenant would not be lawful unless there is some Statute providing otherwise. Nature of possession being not lawful, would entitle landlord to regain possession. Thus, a lawful possession is state of being a possessor in the eyes of law. Possession must be warranted or authorized by law; having qualifications prescribed by law and neither contrary to nor forbidden by the law. However, law recognizes possession as a substantive right or an interest. Continued possession of a person is recognized by law as a sufficient interest capable of being protected by possessor, right being founded on mere fact of possession. Possession is a good title of right against anyone who cannot show a better title. However, when a person in possession may not be lawful, recovery of possession by owner must have sanction of law and it cannot proceed to dispossess the other in a forcible manner not recognized in law. In some authorities, possession of a person, who has entered therein initially, validly, but subsequently become unlawful, has been given a different meaning i.e. juridical possession. A tenant holding over without consent of landlord would be a juridical possession though his possession is not lawful. It is said that possession of tenant, post efflux of lease period, would not be treated as lawful possession still he would not be treated as a rank trespasser. Thus, here concept of possession as juridical possession has been introduced.

125. A person having juridical possession though illegal and unlawful, by a sheer executive fiat may not be thrown out of possession of the land. But where terms of lease, which is the genesis of claim of such person provides manner in which Lessor can re-enter land and such procedure has been recognized by Statute and also upheld by Supreme Court in Azim Ahmad Kazmi and others vs. State of U.P. and Another (supra), and Lessor follow such procedure, it cannot be said that eviction is being resorted to illegally or without following lawful method.

126. Now, coming to question of applicability of Section 106 TP Act, 1882, we find that there is no necessity of any quit notice in this case. It is an admitted case that lease stood expired on 14.03.1962 and thereafter it has not been renewed. In such circumstances, status of even valid lessee would be that of "Tenant at sufference" while petitioners position is even worst to that.

127. In case of a lessee, who has entered into possession of a land validly in terms of lease deed, after expiry of period of lease or determination thereof, status of such lessee, if possession continued, would be that of "Tenant at sufference", therefore, even a quit notice is not necessary to be given and Section 106 TP Act, 1882 is not at all attracted. Relying on earlier decision in R.V. Bhupal Prasad vs. State of A.P. (1995) 5 SCC 698 in a recent decision in Sevoke Properties Ltd. vs. West Bengal State Electricity Distribution Company Ltd. AIR 2019 SC 2664, Court held that once it is admitted by lessee that term of lease has expired, lease stood determined by efflux of time and in such case, a quit notice under Section 106 is not required to be given. Court has said as under :

"Once the lease stood determined by efflux of time, there was no necessity for a notice of termination Under Section 106."

128. In the above authority, Court held that after expiry of period of lease, status of Lessee becomes that of 'Tenant at sufferance'. 'Tenant at sufference' is one who comes into possession of land by lawful title, but who holds it by wrong after termination of term or expiry of lease by efflux of time. The tenant at sufferance is one who wrongfully continues in possession after extinction of a lawful title. There is little difference between him and a trespasser. Quoting from Mulla's Transfer of Property Act (7th Edn.) at page 633, Court observed that tenancy at sufferance is merely a fiction to avoid continuance in possession operating as a trespass. It has been described as the least and lowest interest which can subsist in reality. It, therefore, cannot be created by contract and arises only by implication of law when a person who has been in possession under a lawful title continues in possession after that title has been determined, without consent of person entitled. A "tenancy at sufferance" does not create relationship of landlord and tenant. Court further quoted from page 769 of Mulla's transfer of Property Act (7th Edition), that act of holding over after expiration of term does not necessarily create a tenancy of any kind. If lessee remains in possession after determination of term, the common law Rule is that he is a tenant at sufferance.

129. It is in this backdrop we find that authorities relied by petitioners are inapplicable to the facts of this case and will not help petitioners at all.

130. The first authority cited is Bishan Das and others Vs. State of Punjab and others (supra) in which a Constitution Bench had an occasion to consider fundamental right of property vis-a-vis infringement therewith by executive orders. Therein, one Lala Ramji Das, , carrying on a joint family business in the name and style of "Faquir Chand Bhagwan Das", desired to construct a Dharmasala on a Nazul property of the then State of Patiala. In 1909, he sought permission of Government to construct a Dharmasala on the said land, since it situate near Barnala Railway Station, and therefore would have been convenient to Travellers who come to that place. It appears that initially for the same purpose, Patiala Government had granted permission to Choudhuris of Barnala bazar, but they could not do so for want of funds. Therefore when Ramji Das sought permission in the name of firm Faquir Chand Bhagwan Das in May, 1909, same was granted and communicated by Assistant Surgeon, In-charge of Barnala Hospital, who was presumably In-charge of Public Health Arrangements at Barnala. The sanction was subject to certain conditions, namely, no tax shall be taken for the land; shopkeepers will arrange 'Piao' for passengers; plans of building shall be presented before sanctioning authority; cleanliness and sanitary rules shall be followed by the persons maintaining Dharmasala and no permission to construct any shop will be granted and if any condition is violated, State shall dispossess them from the land in dispute.

131. Dharmasala was constructed in 1909 and inscription on the stone to the following effect was made:

"Dharmasala Lala Faquir Chand Bhagwan Das, mahajan, 1909."

132. Though a condition was imposed for not permitting construction of any shop, but as a matter of fact, a number of shops were later constructed, with the permission of authorities concerned, for meeting expenses of maintenance of Temple and Dharmasala. A complaint was made in 1911 against Ramji Das that he was utilizing Dharmasala for his private purpose but it remained unheeded. On the complaint made, some inquiry was also conducted by Tehsildar wherein Ramji Das got his statement recorded in January, 1925. On 07.04.1928, Revenue Minister, Patiala State, passed an order stating that though land on which Dharmasala had been built, was originally Government land (nazul property), it would not be proper to declare it as such and Dharmasala should continue to exist for the benefit of the public. Ramji Das or any other person will not be competent to transfer land and if such transfer is made, it would be unlawful and invalid and in such event, Government will escheat. Further inquiry was also made and it appears that Ramji Das was given permission to make a raised platform and other extensions etc. On 10.09.1954, one Gopal Das, Secretary, Congress Committee, Barnala, filed a petition to Revenue Minister, Patiala, making various allegations against Ramji Das. Thereupon an inquiry was conducted by Tahsildar, who found that Dharmasala was constructed by Ramji Das on Government land, that Dharmasala was for public benefit; and, that Ramji Das had been its Manager throughout. He, however, said that Ramji Das was bound to render accounts which he failed considering that property belong to him and, therefore, he should be removed and past accounts be called for. When the matter went for opinion of Legal Remembrancer of State Government, it was pointed out that Dharmasala and Temple, though built on Government land, but not Government property. It also said that though Ramji Das was repudiating the existence of a Public Trust, he was working as Trustee of a Trust created for public purposes of a charitable or religious nature and could be removed by State only under Section 92 Civil Procedure Code. Ramji Das died on 10.12.1957. Petitioner Bishan Das and others came to manage Dharmasala, Temple and the shops etc. On 23.12.1957, Gopal Das and some others, describing themselves as members of public, made an application that since Ramji Das was dead, new arrangements should be made for proper management of Dharmasala which is used for the benefit of the public. Again a search of old papers was made and this time Sub-Divisional Officer, Barnala, recommended that in the interest of Government, Municipal Committee, Barnala, should take immediate charge of management of Dharmasala. This recommendation was affirmed by Deputy Commissioner, Sangrur, and pursuant to the said order, Kanungo presumably dispossessed Bishan Das and others from part of Dharmasala on 07.01.1958, and, charge thereof was given to Municipal Committee, Barnala. These orders were challenged alleging that the same were without any authority of law and violative of fundamental rights enshrined under Articles 14, 19 and 31 of the Constitution.

133. The defence taken was that property is trust property of a public and charitable character, hence Bishan Das and others were not entitled to claim any property rights in respect thereof.

134. Supreme Court observed in Para-10 that even if it is assumed that the property is Trust property, no authority of law authorized State or its Executive Officers to take action against Bishan Das and others in respect of Dharmasala. Government counsel sought to argue that Bishan Das and others were trespassers and land on which Dharmasala situate belong to Government, hence Government was entitled to use minimum of force to eject trespassers, but this defence was rejected by holding that it is a clear case of violation of fundamental right of Bishan Das and others. Supreme Court said that nature of sanction granted in 1909 in respect of land whether it was a lease or licence, with a Grant or an irrevocable licence are questions of fact, need not be gone into by it, but admitted position is that land belonged to Government who granted permission to Ramji Das on behalf of joint family firm to build a Dharmasala, Temple and Shops and manage the same during his life time. After his death his family members continued with management. Thus, they were not trespassers at all in respect of Dharmasala, Temple and Shops; nor could it be held that Dharmasala, Temple and Shops belong to State. The question whether Trust created was public or private is irrelevant. Court said that a Trustee, even of a Public Trust, can be removed only by procedure known to law. He cannot be removed by an executive fiat. The maxim, what is annexed to the soil goes with the soil, has not been accepted as an absolute rule of law in India and in this regard, Supreme Court referred to the decisions in Thakoor Chunder Parmanick Vs. Ramdhone Bhuttacharjee (1866) 6 W.R. 228; Lala Beni Ram Vs. Kundan Lall (1899) L.R. 26 I.A. 58 and Narayan Das Khettry Vs. Jatindranath (1927) L.R. 54 I.A. 218. Court said that a person who bona fide puts up constructions on land belonging to others with their permission would not be a trespasser, nor would the buildings so constructed vest in the owner of the land by application of maxim quicquid plantatur solo, solo credit. It said:

"It is, therefore, impossible to hold that in respect of the dharmasala, temples and shops, the State has acquired any rights whatsoever merely by reason of their being on the land belonging to the State. If the State thought that the constructions should be removed or that the condition as to resumption of the land should be invoked, it was open to the State to take appropriate legal action for the purpose."

(Emphasis added)

135. Court said that even if State proceeded on the assumption that there was a Public Trust, it could have taken appropriate legal action for removal of Trustees by way of Suit under Section 92 C.P.C. and not otherwise. Constitution Bench then said:

" .. that does not give the State or its executive officers the right to take the law into their own hands and remove the trustee by an executive order.

136. Court concluded its findings in Para-14 of the judgment as under:

"The facts and the position in law thus clearly are (1) that the buildings constructed on this piece of Government land did not belong to Government, (2) that the petitioners were in possession and occupation of the buildings and (3) that by virtue of enactments binding on the Government, the petitioners could be dispossessed, if at all, only in pursuance of a decree of a Civil Court obtained in proceedings properly initiated."

137. Court passed serious stricture against State authorities holding that the executive action taken by State and its Officers is destructive of the basic principle of rule of law. Hence action of Government in taking law into their hands and dispossessing petitioners by sheer display of force, exhibits a callous disregard of normal requirements of rule of law, apart from what might legitimately and reasonably be expected from a Government functioning in a society governed by a Constitution which guarantees to its citizens against arbitrary invasion by the executive on peaceful possession of property. Supreme Court reiterated what was said in its earlier judgment in Wazir Chand Vs. The State of Himachal Pradesh AIR 1954 SC 415 that State or its executive officers cannot interfere with the rights of others unless they can point out some specific rule of law which authorizes their acts. Supreme Court seriously deprecated State and said:

"We have here a highly discriminatory and autocratic act which deprives a person of the possession of property without reference to any law or legal authority. Even if the property was trust property it is difficult to see how the Municipal Committee, Barnala, can step in as trustee on an executive determination only."

138. Aforesaid decision has no application in the case in hand, inasmuch as, here State has exercised its power following terms and conditions laid down under lease-deed, which were made to prevail over any Statute providing otherwise, including TP Act, 1882 vide Section 2 of GG Act, 1895. Further, respondents, in exercise of right of resumption/re-entry, have not straightway went to dispossess petitioners but notice in question has been given to them, giving time to vacate the premises whereafter respondents proposed to take further action for taking possession. Therefore, it cannot be said that no notice has been given to petitioners in the present case.

139. Express Newspapers Pvt. Ltd. and others Vs. Union of India (1986) 1 SCC 133 is a matter which was decided in a Writ Petition filed under Article 32 of Constitution by aforesaid Newspaper Company having its Establishment in Express Buildings at 9-10, Bahadurshah Zafar Marg, New Delhi, which was a land on perpetual lease from Union of India, under a registered Indenture of Lease, dated 17.03.1958. Five petitioners, who filed above Writ Petition before Supreme Court included Indian Express Newspaper (Bombay) Private Limited of which Express Newspapers Private Limited was a subsidiary and petitioners-3, 4 and 5, namely, Sri Ram Nath Goenka was Chairman of the Board of Directors, Nihal Singh was the Editor-in-chief of the Indian Express and Romesh Thapar was the Editor of the Paper published from Express Buildings. Union of India; Lt. Governor of Delhi, Sri Jagmohan; Municipal Corporation of Delhi; Zonal Engineer (Buildings) and Land and Development Officer were impleaded as respondents-1 to 5. The validity of notice of re-entry upon forfeiture of lease issued by Engineer Officer, Land and Development Office, New Delhi on 10.03.1980 was challenged. The notice required petitioners to show cause why Union of India should not re-enter upon and take possession of demised premises i.e. plots nos. 9 and 10, Bahadurshah Zafar Marg, together with Buildings built thereon under Clause 5 of Indenture of Lease, dated 17.03.1958, for committing breach of Clauses 2(14) and 2(5) of lease-deed. Another notice was issued earlier on 01.03.1980 by Zonal Engineer (Buildings), Municipal Corporation, City Zone, Delhi requiring Express Newspapers Pvt. Ltd., New Delhi to show cause why aforesaid buildings being unauthorized, be not demolished under Sections 343 and 344 of Delhi Municipal Corporation Act, 1957 (hereinafter referred to as "DMC Act, 1957"). A challenge was made, besides others, on the ground of personal vendetta against Express Group of Newspapers and also being violative of Articles 14, 19(1)(a) and 19(1)(g) of the Constitution. The questions posed by Supreme Court, to be of far reaching consequence for maintenance of federal structure of Government, were:

(1) Whether the Lt. Governor of Delhi could usurp the functions of the Union of India, Ministry of Works and Housing and direct an investigation into the affairs of the Union of India i.e. question the legality and propriety of the action of the then Minister for Works and Housing in the previous Government at the center in granting permission to Express Newspapers Pvt. Ltd. to construct new Express Building with an increased FAR of 360 with a double basement for installation of a printing press for publication of a Hindi Newspaper on the western portion of the demised premises i.e. Plots No. 9 and 10, Bahadurshah Zafar Marg, New Delhi with the Express Buildings built thereon?

(2) Whether the grant of sanction by the then Minister for Works and Housing and the consequential sanction of building plans by him of the new Express Building was contrary to the Master Plan and the Zonal Development Plans framed under the Delhi Development Act, 1957 and the municipal bye-laws, 1959 made under the DMC Act, 1957 and therefore the lessor i.e. the Union of India had the power to issue a notice of re-entry upon forfeiture of lease under Clause 5 of the indenture of lease dated March 17, 1958 and take possession of the demised premises together with the Express Buildings built thereon and the Municipal Corporation had the authority to direct demolition of the said buildings as unauthorized construction under Sections 343 and 344 of the DMC Act, 1957?

(3) Whether the threatened action which the petitioners characterise as arbitrary, illegal and irrational was violative of Article 19(1)(a) read with Article 14 of the Constitution?

140. Thereafter Court analyzed the facts of case in detail and respective arguments and from Para-45 to 47 we find that Government of India and Lt. Governor of Delhi were Head-on to each other and even Counsel's role was not appreciated by Court. In the light of arguments advanced by parties, in para-59 of judgment, Court formulated eight questions. The issue of maintainability of writ petition under Article 32 was also raised and it was considered by Supreme Court in the judgment from para-66 onwards. It held that building in question was necessary for running press, any statutory or executive action to pull it down or forfeit the lease, would directly impinge on the right of freedom of speech and expression under Article 19(1)(a) and therefore, writ petition was maintainable. Court said:

"... impugned notices of re-entry upon forfeiture of lease and of the threatened demolition of the Express Buildings are intended and meant to silence the voice of the Indian Express. It must logically follow that the impugned notices constitute a direct and immediate threat to the freedom of the press and are thus violative of Article 19(1)(a) read with Article 14 of the Constitution."

141. Since, land in dispute was Government land, provisions of Government Grants Act, 1895 (hereinafter referred to as "GG Act, 1985") were also relied on by Government and, therefore, Supreme Court examined provisions thereof also. It held that GG Act, 1895 is an explanatory or declaratory act. It said:

"Doubts having arisen as to the extent and operation of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 and as to the power of the Government to impose limitations and restrictions upon grants and other transfers of land made by it or under its authority, the Act was passed to remove such doubts as is clear from the long title and the preamble. The Act contains two sections and provides by Section 2 for the exclusion of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 and, by Section 3 for the exclusion of, any rule of law, statute or enactment of the Legislature to the contrary."

142. In Express Newspapers Pvt. Ltd. and others Vs. Union of India (supra) Court further said:

"It is plain upon the terms that Section 2 excludes the operation of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 to Government grants. While Section 3 declares that all provisions, restrictions, conditions and limitations contained over any such grant or transfer as aforesaid shall be valid and shall take effect according to their tenor, notwithstanding any rule of law, statute or enactment of the Legislature to the contrary. A series of judicial decisions have determined the overriding effect of Section 3 making it amply clear that a grant of property by the Government partakes of the nature of law since it overrides even legal provisions which are contrary to the tenor of the document."

143. Having said so, Supreme Court found that the stand taken on behalf of Union of India that there was non compliance of mandatory requirement of Clause-6, therefore notice of re-entry was valid, is not correct.

144. Court then noted some contradictions in Constitution Bench judgment in Bishan Das and others Vs. State of Punjab and others (supra) and

State of Orissa Vs. Ram Chandra Dev AIR 1964 SC 685.

145. In State of Orissa Vs. Ram Chandra Dev (supra), Constitution Bench observed:

"Ordinarily, where property has been granted by the State on condition which make the grant resumable, after resumption it is the grantee who moves the Court for appropriate relief, and that proceeds on the basis that the grantor State which has reserved to itself the right to resume may, after exercising its right, seek to recover possession of the property without filing a suit. **"

146. It was observed that existence of a right is the foundation for a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution. In Para-84 Court said that in cases involving purely contractual issues, the settled law is, where statutory provisions of public law are involved, writs will be issued and referred to its earlier judgment in Mohammed Hanif Vs. State of Assam (1969) 2 SCC 782. Thereafter it also considered provisions of Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorized Occupants) Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1971") and observed that Express building was constructed with the sanction of lessor, i.e., Union of India on plots demised on 'perpetual lease' by registered lease-deed dated 17.03.1958 hence cannot be regarded as 'public premises' belonging to the Central Government under Section 2(e). That being so, Act, 1971 has no application.

147. Court then considered other provisions relating to power of Lt. Governor, and Central Government and factual aspects involved in the matter, which, in our view, are not relevant for the purpose of this Case. Court also examined applicability of doctrine of estoppel but that has also not been raised in these matters, hence it is not necessary to examine it.

148. One aspect we may notice hereat that detailed judgment has been written by Hon'ble A.P. Sen, J. Justice E.S. Venkataramiah has agreed with the judgment of Hon'ble A.P. Sen, J in relation to the aspect that Lt. Governor of Delhi, Sri Jagmohan, has taken undue interest in getting notices issued to Express Newspapers and this action is not consistent with normal standards of administration. Notices were issued under pressure of Lt. Governor of Delhi, hence violative of Article 14, suffers with arbitrariness and non application of mind. His Lordship said that it was not necessary to express any opinion on the contention based on Article 19(1)(a) of Constitution. Hon'ble Venkataramiah further said that question relating to civil rights of the parties flowing from lease deed cannot be disposed of in a petition under Article 32 of Constitution since questions whether there has been breach of the covenants under the lease, whether lease can be forfeited, whether relief against forfeiture can be granted etc. are foreign to the scope of Article 32 of Constitution which should be tried in a regular civil proceeding. His Lordship further said in Para-202 of judgment as under:

"One should remember that the property belongs to the Union of India and the rights in it cannot be bartered away in accordance with the sweet will of an Officer or a Minister or a Lt. Governor but they should be dealt with in accordance with law. At the same time a person who has acquired rights in such property cannot also be deprived of them except in accordance with law."

149. Having said so, while agreeing with ultimate order of quashing of notices, Hon'ble Venkataramiah, J. said:

"I express no opinion on the rights of the parties under the lease and all other questions argued in this case. They are left open to be decided in an appropriate proceeding."

(Emphasis added)

150. Hon'ble R.B. Misra, J. also agreed with Hon'ble A.P. Sen and E.S. Venkataramiah, JJ that the notices challenged in writ petition are invalid, having no legal consequences and must be quashed for reasons detailed in both the judgments. His Lordship, however, said that other questions involved in the case are based upon contractual obligations between the parties and can be satisfactorily and effectively dealt with in a properly instituted suit and not by way of writ petition on the basis of affidavits which are so discrepant and contradictory in that case. Hon'ble R.B. Misra, J. in para 207 of judgment said:

"207. The right to the land and to construct buildings thereon for running a business is not derived from Article 19(1)(a) or 19(1)(g) of the Constitution but springs from terms of contract between the parties regulated by other laws governing the subject, viz., the Delhi Development Act, 1957, the Master Plan, the Zonal Development Plan framed under the Delhi Municipal Corporation Act and the Delhi Municipal Bye-laws, 1959 irrespective of the purpose for which the buildings are constructed. Whether there has been a breach of the contract of lease or whether there has been a breach of the other statutes regulating the construction of buildings are the questions which can be properly decided by taking detailed evidence involving examination and cross-examination of witnesses."

151. Thus the above judgment also has no application to the facts of present case. On the contrary, majority view expressed in above judgment is that right to land and to construct building is not derived from Articles 19(1)(a) or 19(1)(g) of Constitution but springs from promise of contract between the parties. Whether there has been breach of contract of lease or there has been breach of any provision regulating lease rights and construction of building etc. are such questions which can be properly decided by taking detailed evidence involving examination and cross examination of witnesses and therefore, such rights can be enforced in common law proceedings by filing suit. In the present case, the right of re-entry is being enforced as per terms of Grant which prevailed over any other law.

152. In Yar Mohammad and another vs. Lakshmi Das and others AIR 1959 Allahabad 1, a Full Bench of this Court considered following question :

"Whether the jurisdiction of the Civil Court is barred by virtue of Section 242 of the U. P. Tenancy Act in respect of suit filed under Section 9 of the Specific Relief Act for obtaining possession over agricultural land from which the plaintiff alleged his illegal dispossession within six months of the date of the-suit".

153. Therein plaintiffs instituted suit on 30.11.1948 for possession under Section 9 of Specific Relief Act, 1877 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1877") alleging that they were in actual possession of land in dispute (land was admittedly an agricultural land) but wrongfully dispossessed by defendants in November 1948. Defendants contested the suit and disputed correctness of above allegations of plaintiffs and pleaded that they were in possession of land as tenants of plaintiffs for more than 12 years, hence, plaintiffs cannot eject them. They also pleaded that suit was filed under Section 9 of Act, 1877 only to evade jurisdiction of Revenue Court. Trial Court i.e. learned Munsif rejected plea of lack of jurisdiction raised by defendants, accepted the case set up by plaintiffs and decreed the suit. Defendants then filed revision no.461 of 1952, which resulted in Reference, to a Larger Bench. The issue was with respect to applicability of Section 242 of U. P. Tenancy Act, 1939. Court said that Section 242 confers exclusive jurisdiction upon Revenue Court and takes away jurisdiction of Civil Court only in respect of two kinds of actions.

(i) suits or application of the nature specified in the Fourth Schedule of the Act; and

(ii) suits or applications based on a cause of action in respect of which any relief can be obtained by means of a suit or application specified in that schedule.

154. It was held that in order to attract Section 242, one has to demonstrate that action would fall under either of the above-mentioned two categories and if does not, jurisdiction of Civil Court is not ousted and Revenue Court will have no jurisdiction to entertain the action.

155. Then construing the cases, which may resort to Section 9 of Act, 1877, Court said that Section 9 gives a special privilege to persons in possession who take action promptly. In case they are dispossessed, Section 9 entitles them to succeed simply by proving:

(1) that they were in possession,

(2) that they have been dispossessed by the defendant,

(3) that dispossession is not in accordance with law, and

(4) that dispossession took place within six months of the suit.

156. No question of title either of plaintiffs or of defendants can be raised or gone into in an action brought under Section 9 of Act, 1877. Plaintiffs will be entitled to succeed without proving any title on which he can fall back upon and defendant cannot succeed even though he may be in a position to establish the best of all titles. Restoration of possession under Section 9 is however subject to a regular suit and person who has real title or even better title cannot be prejudiced in any way by a decree of a suit under Section 9. A person having real or better title always has a right to establish his title in a regular suit and get possession back. The objective and idea behind Section 9, as the Court observed, is, that law does not permit any person to take law in his own hands and to dispossess a person in actual possession, without having recourse to a Court or Institution, in an illegal manner. In other words, objective of Section 9 is to discourage people from taking law in their own hands, how-ever good title they may have. In the interest of public order, self-help is not permitted so far as possession over Immovable property is concerned Section 9 is intended to discourage and prevent proceedings which might lead to serious breaches of peace. It does not allow a person who has acted high-handedly by wrongfully dispossessing a person in possession from deriving any benefit from his own unjustified act. Section 9, infact, provides for a summary and quick remedy for a person who is in possession but illegally ousted therefrom without his consent. Court observed that 'Possession' is prima facie evidence of title and if a person who is in possession is dispossessed, he has a right to claim back possession from the person who dispossesses him. In an ordinary common law proceedings, a person who has a title, is entitled to possession and cannot be deprived of his right of possession by a person, who has no title or inferior to the former. Court said that for Section 9, claim of title is not allowed to be set up and possession wrongfully taken, has to be restored. Full Bench therefore, answered question formulated above in negative.

157. In our view, above judgment has no application to the facts of this case for the reason that title of land is not in dispute, inasmuch as, it is admitted case of all the petitioners that land in dispute is 'Nazul', hence it is owned and vested in Government. It is also not in dispute that petitioner-1 of W.P. 1 got possession of land in dispute on transfer with permission of Lessor. However petitioner-1 further transferred land without such permission. This is illegal. Hence petitioner-1 of W.P.-1 has no actual possession over land in dispute and possession of others is illegal.

158. In the present case right of re-entry is being exercised by respondent-State in terms of lease-deed whereunder even original lessee was obliged to surrender/hand over possession to State Government.

159. We may also note hereat that in the case in hand, lease was governed by provisions of GG Act, 1895 and Section 2, as amended in State of U.P., has excluded provisions of U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939 for governing rights etc. of parties. Only provisions contained in lease-deed shall apply and have to be given effect to as if U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939 was not passed. Therefore also, reliance placed on the aforesaid judgment is of no consequence.

160. Lallu Yeshwant Singh (dead) by his legal representative vs. Rao Jagdish Singh and others, AIR 1968 SC 620 is a judgment which came before two Judges Bench of Supreme Court from a dispute raised under Qanoon Mal Riyasat Gwalior Samvat, 1983 (hereinafter referred to as "Qanoon Mal") that is from Madhya Pradesh. Under Section 326 of Qanoon Mal, a suit was filed by Yeshwant Singh and others i.e. plaintiffs against Rao Jagdish Singh and others (defendants) in the Court of Tehsildar for possession of some agricultural land. Plaintiffs set up a case that they were in possession of land and forcibly dispossessed by defendants, therefore, should be restored their possession. Tehsildar decreed the suit and order was affirmed in appeal by Collector as well as Commissioner. Revision was also dismissed by Board of Revenue and decree passed by Tehsildar was maintained. Section 326 of Qanoon Mal broadly provided summary remedy as is provided in Section 9 of Act, 1877. In para 7 of the judgment, Supreme Court has referred to both the provisions and said that both are broadly similar. High Court took a different view holding that it was not necessary for a Lessor to resort to Court for obtaining possession and if there is default by plaintiff, it could have been dispossessed by defendants. Supreme Court said that no person can take law in its own hand and in such matter, where provisions providing summary procedure for restoration of illegal dispossession of land have been made, the same can be resorted to by the person who has been illegally dispossessed. Supreme Court affirmed Full Bench judgment of this Court in Yar Mohammad (supra). Here also we do not find applicability of this judgment to the case in hand for the reasons we have already said in respect of judgment in Yar Mohammad (supra).

161. The decision in State of U.P. Vs. Zahoor Ahmad and another (supra), we find, instead of helping petitioners, supports the view which we have taken hereinabove. The State of U.P. vs. Zahoor Ahmad and another (supra) was a matter which came up before two Judges Bench of Supreme Court arising from action by State in respect of certain land which fell within reserved forest in State of Uttar Pradesh. Zahoor Ahmad was granted lease of a plot of land at Chandan Chowki, Sonaripur Range in North Kheri Forest Division for an annual rent of Rs.100/-. The aforesaid land was part of Reserved Forest of which State of U.P. is the proprietor. Lease was granted for one year commencing from 18.03.1947. It was renewed on 10.06.1948 with effect from 18.03.1948 for one year and again in 1949 for further one year. Ultimately lease expired on 18.03.1950. State of U.P., after termination of lease, allowed Zahoor Ahmad to continue in possession of land on condition settled between the parties that Licensee i.e. Zahoor Ahmad would pay Rs.1,000/- as annual rent for occupation till 15.07.1950. Even after determination of lease on 15.7.1950, Zahoor Ahmad i.e. Licensee continued in possession and State of U.P. allowed him to remain in possession for three years beyond 15.07.1950 though for this period Zahoor Ahmad did not agree to give any undertaking of making payment of annual rent of Rs.1,000/-. A letter dated 04.12.1951 was issued to Zahoor Ahmad asking him to pay Rs.3,000/- for the year 1950-51. Letter further provided that if Zahoor Ahmad do not agree to pay Rs.3,000/- for the year 1950-51, amount of rent would be reduced to Rs.1800/- but he would not be allowed lease in future in any circumstance. The fact remains that Zahoor Ahmad was allowed to continue in occupation of land without any agreement as to the amount of rent payable for 1950-51. On 29.10.1952, Conservator of Forests sent a letter that Zahoor Ahmad can be allowed to run the mill beyond 15.07.1950 for three years if he pays Rs.3,000/- per annum, and for one year only, if he is ready to pay Rs.1,800/- but thereafter lease would not be renewed. Notice also said that he was only Licensee and should remove his plant and vacate the premises within one month and pay Rs.6,000/- as damages for use and occupation. Zahoor Ahmad did not pay the amount, hence a suit for recovery of damages was filed by State of U.P. High Court came to the conclusion that Licensee (Zahoor Ahmad) was allowed to continue with the consent of State of U.P. though there was no written agreement about rate of rent and lease was granted for industrial purposes. Under Section 106 of TP Act, 1882, such lease is for year to year basis. The lease could have been terminated by six months notice and since no such notice was given, therefore, tenancy was not validly terminated. With respect to amount of rent, Court took the view that under Section 116, renewal would mean the same terms and conditions as made applicable in previous lease. High Court therefore decreed the suit for payment of rent of Rs.3,000/-. Possession was allowed by

State with its consent. Thus, High Court took the view that 'holding over' was applicable under Section 116. State Government bye-passing provision of TP Act, 1882 sought to rely on GG Act, 1895. Whether the kind of above lease, granted by State could have been brought within the purview of GG Act, 1895, Supreme Court examined this issue by referring to two judgments. In one, lease of forest land of Sunderbans was held to be a 'Grant' while, in another, Grant of Khas Mahal was not held to be as 'Grant'. In Jnanendra Nath Nanda vs. Jadu Nath Banerji AIR 1938 Cal 211 two leases of two lots were granted by Sunderban Commissioner on behalf of Secretary of State. The land comprised in the lots were 'waste lands' of the Government. 'Waste lands' of Sunderbans were not property of any subject. Sunderbans was vast impenetrable forest. It was the property of East India Company and later on vested in Crown by virtue of an Imperial Statute. Court found that history of legislation showed that grants of Sunderbans lands were treated to be 'Crown Grants' within meaning of 'Crown Grants Act'. In another matter i.e. Secretary of State for India in Council vs. Lal Mohan Chaudhuri, AIR 1935 Cal 746 in respect of Khas Mahal, lease was granted by Government. It was held that lease of Khas Mahal does not come within the category of 'Grant' as contemplated in GG Act, 1935. Having said so, in para 13 of judgment, Court said that lease granted to Zahoor Ahmad was for the purpose of erecting a temporary rice mill and for no other purpose. The mere fact that State is the lessor will not by itself make above lease a 'Government Grant' within the meaning of GG Act, 1895. We may reproduce para 13 of the judgment in State of U.P. vs. Zahoor Ahmad (supra) as under :

"The lease in the present case was for the purpose of erecting a temporary rice mill and for no other purpose. The mere fact that the State is the lessor will not by itself make it a Government grant within the meaning of the Government Grants Act. There is no evidence in the present case in the character of the land or in the making of the lease or in the content of the lease to support the plea on behalf of the State that it was a grant within the meaning of the Government Grants Act."

162. When a question arose whether High Court has rightly applied Section 116 of TP Act, 1882, Supreme Court, in this context, referred to a judgment of this Court in Lala Kishun Chand vs. Sheo Dutta, AIR 1958 All. 879 wherein after expiry of lease of Nazul land, Licensee was permitted by Board of Revenue to continue in occupation as tenant and rent was also realized from him and held that in these facts, Section 116 TP Act, 1882 was rightly applied.

163. In the present case, it is not the case of any of the petitioners that after expiry of lease on 14.03.1962, they have been permitted to remain in possession of disputed Nazul land and rent has been accepted by respondents or they have paid rent.

164. Even if what is said by petitioners is taken to be correct, we do not find that Section 116 is applicable in the case in hand at all. Section 116 of TP Act, 1882 reads as under :

"116. Effect of holding over.- If a lessee or under-lessee of property remains in possession thereof after the determination of the lease granted to the lessee, and the lessor or his legal representative accepts rent from the lessee or under lessee, or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession, the lease is, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, renewed from year to year, or from month to month, according to the purpose for which the property is leased, as specified in section 106."

165. Twin conditions to attract principle of "holding over" vide Section 116 of TP Act, 1882, which need be satisfied are:

(i) After determination of lease, lessor or his representative has accepted rent from lessee or under lessee or assent to his continuing in possession; and

(ii) Lessee or under-lessee has remained in possession.

166. Both the above conditions are absent in this case. Hence Section 116 of T.P. Act, 1882 has no application at all.

167. The last question up for consideration is "whether re-entry/resumption of land by Lessor i.e. State Government is valid?"

168. So far as validity of resumption of land for 'public purpose' is concerned, it could not be disputed that land has been sought to be required by State in 'public purpose'. Allahabad City has been selected for development as a Smart City and respondents have pleaded that demand of lot of land has been made by various Government departments since various Offices, Workshops, Parks, Parking places etc. have to be constructed. The land in dispute has been found suitable for 'Sports Field'. Development of 'Sports Field' is a public purpose. In fact, on this aspect, no substantial argument has been made and in our view, resumption of land by State is for 'public purpose'.

169. Having answered all the above issues, we may also observe that litigation initiated by petitioners on the one hand has given enough time to continue to hold and enjoy land in dispute and simultaneously denied opportunity to respondent authorities to take possession of land in question for the purpose of carrying out developmental activities where time is a matter of essence. Impugned notice was issued on 18.08.2018 and for more than fifteen months petitioners have already availed benefit of possession of land in dispute and enjoyed the same without spending even a single penny towards rent, damages, compensation etc. for such enjoyment. Land in question is required for developmental activities, in furtherance of developing Prayagraj City as "Smart City". Developmental activities required an early action, but, by indulging in litigation, petitioners have already delayed it sufficiently, therefore, even if what petitioners' claim that they should have been given notice or sufficient time to vacate, the same has already been achieved as petitioners had already enough time with them. It is, thus, a fit case where we do not find that any other technicality should be allowed to intervene and, earliest is the better that possession of land is transferred to respondents so that developmental activities may proceed without any further delay.

170. However, considering the facts and circumstances and also the fact that petitioners have already enjoyed interim order passed by this Court and continued in possession over land in dispute for the last almost more than a year, we direct petitioners to vacate disputed land within one month from the date of delivery of judgment.

171. In view of above discussion, we do not find any merit in both the petitions. Subject to above direction about vacation of land in dispute, the writ petitions are dismissed.

172. No costs.

A. Administrative law - Violation of the principles of natural justice - Blacklisting - before any executive decision maker proposed any action like blacklisting, adverse action or debarring it is necessary that opportunity of hearing & representation against the said proposed action be given to the affected party - respondent authorities failed to give specific notice to the petitioner showing their intention to blacklist him on the strength of the alleged irregularities - impugned order not sustainable in the eyes of law and deserves to be set aside. (Para 8 & 9)

The claim of the petitioner of the security amount of Rs. 34 lakhs which has been withheld by the respondents even after the expiry of 18 months from the date of completion of the project and just in order to defeat the legitimate claim of the petitioner the impugned order of blacklisting the petitioner's firm has been passed so as to defeat the legitimate refund of the security deposit. (Para 4)

Held: - Before blacklisting or putting a person on a holiday list a person has to be given full opportunity of hearing as the order of blacklisting or keeping on holiday list has an adverse civil consequence and is a harshest possible action. (Para 9)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Samit Gopal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Tarun Agrawal, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Baleshwar Chaturvedi, learned counsel for the Respondent-Corporation.

2. The matter was taken up on 12.12.2019 and instructions were supplied by learned counsel for the respondent (Corporation) which were taken on record. Today with the consent of both the counsels the matter is being finally heard and decided.

3. The petitioner has filed the present writ petition for issuance of writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the order dated 12.09.2019 passed by the respondent No. 2 by which the petitioner has been put on holiday list for three years. The said order is Annexure 10 to the writ petition. The facts of the present case relate to tender No. 45-EWCA / 2016-17 floated by the respondent No. 2 for the supply and erection of material for construction of 33KV single circuit solar power plant line from 220KV s/s, Gokul, Mathura to proposed Solar Power plant of 5MW in District Mathura on semi turnkey basis. The petitioner emerged as the lowest bidder for the said work and was thus issued a letter of intent dated 22.03.2017 by the respondent No. 2. A copy of the same has been annexed as Annexure No. 1 to the writ petition. Subsequently, a formal contract was executed between the respondent No. 1 and the petitioner on 03.04.2017. As per the contract the work was to be completed by 22.07.2017 but the contract also envisaged extension of time in the event of unforeseen circumstances. The total value of the contract was provided in Clause 5 of the same. As per Clause 5.1 of the contract 60% of the material cost was to be paid after successful inspection and delivery of material at site, further Clause 5.2 provided 30% payment of the material cost upon erection of the material, Clause 5.3 provided that the balance payment of 10% against supplies will be done after satisfactory commission and handing over of the project. The petitioner was further required to deposit permanent security deposit equivalent to 10% of the contract value as per Clause 7 of contract. The said amount worked out to Rs. 34 lakhs.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner argued that the present writ petition is confined to the fact that the claim of the petitioner of the security amount of Rs. 34 lakhs which has been withheld by the respondents even after the expiry of 18 months from the date of completion of the project and just in order to defeat the legitimate claim of the petitioner the impugned order of blacklisting the petitioner's firm has been passed so as to defeat the legitimate refund of the security deposit. It has further been argued that the work of the project was completed on 29.12.2017 and thereafter letter dated 29.12.2017 was sent to the Executive Engineer in the office of the respondent No. 1 informing him about the completion of the project and requesting him to take over the said line and it has further been argued that an inspection was conducted by the Deputy Director, Electrical Safety, Government of U.P., Aligarh Region, Aliagarh and after the said inspection he gave permission of the line by energizing it. It has further been pointed out that a letter dated 17.01.2018 was issued by the said Deputy Director in which he has categorically recorded that the solar link line erected by the petitioner be completed with all the relevant rules and regulations. The said argument is based on Annexures 5 and 6 of the writ petition. It has further been argued that the testing and commissioning of the line was thereafter completed and the petitioner requested the respondent No. 2 to take over the plant vide various letters dated 20.02.2018, 12.03.2018, 31.07.2018, 12.09.2018 and 12.11.2018 but for the reasons best known to them the said plant was not formally taken over by the respondents. It has further been pointed out that in spite of the same the respondents were satisfied by the performance of the plant and thereby they released the entire payment to the petitioner and only the security amount of Rs. 34 lakhs was withheld. On the strength of the averment in paragraph 22 of the writ petition it has been argued that by releasing the balance amount of 10% which would thereby make the payment to the petitioner complete for the satisfactory commissioning and handing over of the project the respondents had satisfied themselves about the successful commissioning of the plant. The balance amount was thus drawn on 09.07.2019. It has further been argued that till 29.06.2019 the plant was working as desired and there was no reported defect by the respondents. Upon the lapse of the period of 18 months the petitioner requested the releasing of the security amount of Rs. 34 lakhs but instead of releasing the said amount a notice dated 03.09.2019 was issued by the respondents which is Annexure 8 to the writ petition.

5. Our attention has been drawn to the said notice whereby it has been observed that on preliminary enquiry some shortcomings have been found in the plant which have been mentioned in the said notice and subsequently the petitioner has been called upon to submit his reply on 06.09.2019 by 03 p.m. The petitioner submitted his detailed reply on 06.09.2019 itself which was duly received in the office of the respondent No. 2 on 06.09.2019. The said reply is Annexure 10 to the writ petition which bears the signature and date of the concerned receiving person. It has further been argued that the impugned order dated 12.09.2019 Annexure 11 to the writ petition has been passed in an arbitrary manner and in utter violation of principles of natural justice without even considering the detailed reply of the petitioner and even the fact that there was no reference in the said notice of blacklisting of the petitioner due to the insufficiencies in the work as mentioned in the same. The question of blacklisting as referred to in the notice dated 03.09.2019 was only in the event the petitioner could not furnish his reply within the stipulated period as mentioned in the said notice. Further the learned counsel for the petitioner argued that the principles of natural justice have not been followed in the present case at all as the respondents have not considered the reply dated 06.09.2019 of the petitioner and even the petitioner was not heard.

6. Learned counsel for the respondent (Corporation) to the contrary has argued that the impugned order dated 12.09.2019 has been passed after considering the matter in detail and also considering the reply of the petitioner dated 06.09.2019. The said argument of the learned counsel for the respondents is based on the basis of his instructions dated 11.09.2019 which have been supplied by him to the Court on 12.12.2019 which is on record. He further argued that there is no illegality and arbitrariness in the impugned order dated 12.09.2019 but he could not dispute the fact that the reply of the petitioner submitted to respondent No. 2 on 06.09.2019 to the show cause notice dated 03.09.2019 does not find mention in the impugned order.

7. From the facts as emerge from the records and arguments of the learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned counsel for the respondent (corporation) the impugned order dated 12.09.2019 does not anywhere reflect that the reply of the petitioner dated 06.09.2019 was considered by the authorities. From perusal of the impugned order dated 12.09.2019 it is clear that there is no reference by the authority concerned that the reply of the petitioner dated 06.09.2019 was considered and any hearing was afforded to the petitioner before passing of the said order. The impugned order is confined only to the fact that the same is being passed as some deficiencies have been found in the newly constructed 33KV line and hence the petitioner is being blacklisted for a period of three years from the date of the said order. In the notice dated 03.09.2019 it was not mentioned that if the authorities are not satisfied with the reply of the petitioner then they shall proceed to initiate steps for blacklisting of the petitioner. The said notice is related to the question of blacklisting the petitioner was only confined to the fact that if the reply to the said notice was not given within the said stipulated period then proceedings for blacklisting shall be taken up. Further there is no adjudication in the impugned order about the point-wise reply given by the petitioner to the said notice. In the judgment of Gorkha Security Services vs. Government (NCT of Delhi and others) reported in 2014 (9) SCC 105 it has been held that the authorities must issue a specific show cause notice to the contractor indicating a clear intention to blacklist him before passing any order of blacklisting. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has in para 21 of the same held as follows:-

"The central issue, however, pertains to the requirement of stating the action which is proposed to be taken. The fundamental purpose behind the serving of show-cause notice is to make the noticee understand the precise case set up against him which he has to meet. This would require the statement of imputations detailing out the alleged breaches and defaults he has committed, so that he gets an opportunity to rebut the same. Another requirement, according to us, is the nature of action which is proposed to be taken for such a breach. That should also be stated so that the noticee is able to point out that proposed action is not warranted in the given case, even if the defaults/breaches complained of are not satisfactorily explained. When it comes to blacklisting, this requirement becomes all the more imperative, having regard to the fact that it is harshest possible action."

8. That as per the settled principles of law it has been held that before any executive decision maker proposed any action like blacklisting, adverse action or debarring it is necessary that opportunity of hearing & representation against the said proposed action be given to the affected party. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Raghunath Thakur vs. State of Bihar & Ors reported in 1989 (1) SCC 229 has held:-

"20. Blacklisting has the effect of preventing a person from the privilege and advantage of entering into lawful relationship with the Government for purposes of gains. The fact that a disability is created by the order of blacklisting indicates that the relevant authority is to have an objection satisfaction. Fundamental of fair play require that the person concerned should be given an opportunity to represent his case before he is put on the blacklist."

9. In the present case the respondent authorities have failed to give specific notice to the petitioner showing their intention to blacklist him on the strength of the alleged irregularities. Further the impugned notice does not anywhere reflect that the authorities have considered the detailed reply of the petitioner dated 06.09.2019 (Annexure 9 to the writ petition). In view of the settled proposition of law by the Apex Court in catena of decisions some of which as has been referred above, it is absolutely clear that before blacklisting or putting a person on a holiday list a person has to be given full opportunity of hearing as the order of blacklisting or keeping on holiday list has an adverse civil consequences and is a harshest possible action. Thus we are of the considered opinion that there has been a complete violation of the principles of natural justice in the instant case. The impugned order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and deserves to be set aside.

10. Hence, a writ in the nature of certiorari is issued quashing the impugned order dated 12.09.2019 passed by the respondent No. 2 vide letter No. 1037 /वि0का0/म/आ/0 (Annexure 10 to the writ petition).

11. It is hereby further provided that the petitioner shall submit fresh reply to the notice dated 03.09.2019 to the respondent No. 2 within a period of three weeks from today along with a certified copy of this order and the respondent No. 2 is further directed to decide the same afresh within a further period of three weeks from the date of receipt of the said reply with a reasoned and speaking order in accordance with law.

12. The writ petition thus succeeds and is allowed.

13. No order as to cost.

Contract law- Contract between the Petitioner and North Central Railway- Arbitration clause- Principles of Natural justice -not applicable in contract in private law-Writ Jurisdiction cannot be exercised -for enforcement of pure and simple commercial contract.

Held, that in the matter of pure and simple commercial contract, extraordinary constitutional remedy under Article 226 is not a substitute for getting the contract executed or for allowing damages to a party for alleged breach of contract since remedy lies in common law by filing suit for enforcement of contract wherever it is permissible or for damages/ compensation for alleged wrongful breach of contract. Reason being that such matters involves recording of evidence, oral and documentary, and remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution cannot be made a substitute of common law civil proceedings and parties must avail such remedy. (Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J.
Hon'ble Rajendra Kumar-IV, J.)

1. Heard Sri Abhijit Mukherji, learned counsel for petitioner and Sri Vivek Kumar Rai, Advocate for respondents.

2. This writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed by sole petitioner-M/s Veekay General Industries, praying for issue of a writ of certiorari quashing modification advice/ notice dated 26.06.2018 (Annexure-17 to writ petition) amending date of delivery to 26.12.2018. Petitioner has also prayed for issue of a writ of mandamus commanding Respondents-2 to 4 to issue a fresh and reasonable last date of delivery to petitioner firm and also directing Respondent-2 to cancel Purchase Order No. 60155048178096 since drawing approval and site was not made ready in time before consuming four months time out of six months of delivery time.

3. By way amendment petitioner has also prayed for issue of a writ of certiorari quashing cancellation advise dated 05.02.2019, communication dated 06.02.2019 calling for penalty of forfeiture of security and consequential letter for encashment of bank guarantee.

4. Facts, in brief, giving rise to present writ petition are that petitioner is a partnership firm engaged in the business of making Escalators. North Central Railway, i.e., Respondents-2 and 3 floated a tender notice for installation of two Escalators, one at Aligarh Railway Station and another at Tundla Railway Station. Petitioner submitted bid dated 24.07.2017 (Annexure-1 to writ petition) stating in para 8 thereof that delivery period is within six months from the date of LOA/Purchase Order, prototype approval, GAD/manufacturing clearance by Railways / Consignee/ Authorized Representative and subject to Site Readiness/ Timely Clearances at Railway/ Consignee End for execution of work, whichever is later. Tender was opened on 25.07.2017. Vide letter dated 31.07.2017, Deputy Chief Material Manager (C), Allahabad (hereinafter referred to as "DCMM (C)") informed petitioner that he has not accepted delivery schedule as per tender. It advised petitioner to accept delivery schedule as per tender, i.e., within six months from the date of Purchase Order (PO). Petitioner was required to give reply within three days. Petitioner submitted reply vide letter dated 02.08.2017 and therein, besides other, with respect to delivery schedule it said, as under:

"It is our endeavor to execute your work at the earliest and even before the delivery schedule. However, in practice we have found that there are several factors/agencies that are beyond our scope of work and/or control which pose challenges in timely completion of work, thereby resulting in requirement of extensions. Thus we only sought to bring to your kind notice that there are possible reasons for the same. We remain committed on our endeavor to execute your work at the earliest and within your stipulated tender schedule of within 06 months.

You may notice that earlier the Purchase Orders used to be in two parts i.e. one for supply portion and one for installation portion. After the introduction of GST the entire tender is now being evaluated as a single works contract. In your tender your have also specified that no price variation will be given on the installation portion, thus in order to ensure transparency we submitted this clause that our original purchase invoice be used to determine the final amount that becomes payable. We have also done back to back tie up with our principle manufacturer/ supplier with the same price variation formula that you are offering us i.e. our purchase rates are fixed for escalators at 6m+/-0.6% change in price on every variation of 0.15m. If you have a more suitable option for working out the final rate for supply of escalator please suggest/ assist us on the same for incorporation in awaited Purchase Order to avoid any confusions later."

5. On 28.09.2017 North Central Railway from the Office of Principal Chief Materials Manager, Allahabad (hereinafter referred to as "PCMM") issued a letter of acceptance. The delivery schedule mentioned therein was six months. Petitioner submitted drawings for two Escalators at Aligarh and Tundla vide letter dated 31.10.2017. Railway vide letter dated 07.11.2017 required petitioner to submit documents till 23.10.2017 as per Research, Design and Standard Organization, Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as "RDSO") specifications mentioned in Clause 2.16.2, Annexure-3 of letter of acceptance. Petitioner also submitted bank guarantee. Railway issued Purchase Order No. 60155048178096 on behalf of President of India through PCMM on 09.11.2017. RDSO sent letter dated 10.11.2017 to PCMM stating that Purchase Order was released on 28.09.2017 but copy was not marked to RDSO as such it became aware of Purchase Order only on 24.10.2017 after receiving email from the Firm and hence one and half months has lost. It also stated that Firm still has not submitted necessary documents as per list of submittals mentioned in RDSO specification. It should be advised to submit those documents by 23.11.2017 so that scrutiny of documents can be done for preparation of Work Test Certificate (hereinafter referred to as "WTC").

6. Thereafter a joint inspection at Tundla Railway Station was carried on 21.10.2017. Petitioner submitted drawing to Senior Divisional Electrical Engineer of two Escalators at Aligarh and one at Tundla alongwith detailed Railway's Scope Work for Escalator Installation. On 28.11.2017 petitioner also sent drawings to Executive Director, RDSO. Pursuant to RDSO's letter dated 10/14.11.2017, PCMM vide letter dated 01.12.2017 requiring petitioner to submit all necessary documents to RDSO. Petitioner replied vide letter dated 13.12.2017 that it has submitted necessary Preliminary Design Documents vide letter dated 28.11.2017 and further said that petitioner is working on the balance required documents and/ or calculations highlighted by RDSO and will submit shortly for approval. Vide letter dated 20.12.2017 petitioner stated that due to pendency of approval from Railways it is not in a position to start manufacturing of Escalators, therefore, delivery of six months period be refixed from the date of WTC/ Manufacturing Clearance. Vide letter dated 29.12.2017 Senior Material Manager sent intimation for approval of drawings. On 12.01.2018 Railway wrote petitioner to confirm address of communication in order to ascertain delay.

7. Finally on 15.01.2018 approved GADs were received by petitioner. Vide letter dated 02.02.2018, petitioner informed Senior Divisional Electrical Engineer that RDSO has informed petitioner to relocate Escalator Control Panel Location outside the truss. Petitioner submitted revised GAD (Rev. 2) in line with RDSO's requirement vide letter dated 02.02.2018. Vide letter dated 05.02.2018 petitioner sent progress report and stated that since it was not in a position to start manufacturing of Escalators due to non availability of Work Test Certificate, therefore, considering delay in approval by Railway, delivery period of six months be refixed so as to commence from the date of Work Test Certificate/ Manufacturing Clearance by Railway.

8. Again vide letter dated 07.03.2018 petitioner informed Deputy Chief Electrical Engineer, Allahabad that GAD submitted vide letter dated 02.02.2018 is pending for approval at Railway / Consignee; all technical parameters have been freezed by RDSO to start manufacturing, therefore, Railway should refix delivery period of six months from the date of pending GAD approvals which is necessary for manufacturing of Escalators. It was also pointed out that top notches of both locations at Aligarh and Tundla were incomplete and that requires to be completed before the work of Escalators start.

9. On 12.03.2018 petitioner received amended drawings approved by Competent Authority. A copy of acknowledgment receipt and letter dated 12.03.2018 sent by petitioner acknowledging receipt of approved GADs is Annexure-16 to writ petition. Respondent-2, however, issued Modification Advice / Notice dated 26.06.2018 impugned in the present writ petition amending Purchase Order dated 09.11.2017 and delivery period from existing was amended as 26.12.2018. However, conditions No. 1 to 4 in the aforesaid letter read as under:

"1. Please note that the above extension in delivery date is subject to recovery of an amount equal to full liquidated Damages for delay in supply of stores after the expiry of the Contract Delivery period notwithstanding the grant of the extension. You may now tender the stores (Balance of stores) for Inspection in terms of this letter and any stores already tendered by you for inspection but not inspected will be now inspected accordingly.

2. The above extension will also be subject to the following conditions:

a. That no increase in price on account of any statutory increase in or fresh imposition in Customs Duty/ Sales Tax/ Freight or on account of any other Tax or Duty leviable in respect of the stores specified in the said Acceptance of tender which take place after ..... shall be admissible on such of the stores as are delivered after the said date, and

b. That notwithstanding any stipulation in the contract for increase in price on any other ground, no such increase which takes place after the said date shall be admissible on such of the stores as are delivered after ....

c. But nevertheless the purchaser shall be entitled to benefit of any decease in price on account of reduction on or remission of customs duty, Excise Duty, Sales Tax or on account of any other Tax or Duty or on other ground as stipulated in the price Variation Clause which takes place after expiry of the above mentioned date viz, ...

3. Please intimate immediately your acceptance of this extension on the above condition. Please note that in the event of declining to accept the extension on the said conditions, the contract shall be cancelled and the outstanding quantity of stores shall be purchased at your risk and cost under the terms of the contract.

4. Please notice that no further extension would be granted. This is to be treated as final Notice and action for risk purchase will be arranged in the event of default without any further reference to you."

10. Petitioner vide letter dated 30.06.2018 informed that site is not ready as top notches and other proposed requirements are not complete so as to start civil work by petitioner. It, therefore, requested Senior Divisional Electrical Engineer to direct concerned authorities to complete work to be performed by Railway at the site so that petitioner may start its work. Further, vide letter dated 29.06.2018, petitioner requested PCMM to refix delivery period without LD/DC. On behalf of PCMM Deputy Chief Material Manager issued letter dated 03.08.2018 stating that DP extension with LD and DC up to 26.12.2018 was issued and petitioner was advised to supply material within extended delivery period, failing which action will be taken as per condition of contract.

11. Petitioner made a joint inspection with Senior Engineer and found that minimum civil work, i.e., top notches was not complete. Railway officials, however, informed that by the time Escalators material reached the site, required civil work would stand completed. Next joint inspection was made on 28.08.2018 and on 14.09.2018 but top notches still was not found complete. Ultimately top notches were ready on 10.10.2018 but due to barricading and collection of heavy debris etc. suitable measurement could not be made. Since Railway was not considering extension of delivery time though fault lay upon them, hence present writ petition has been filed.

12. A counter affidavit has been filed by respondents wherein issue of Purchase Order dated 09.11.2017 and its amendment with respect of date of delivery vide letter dated 26.06.2018 is not disputed. It is said that letter of acceptance clearly stated delivery period as six months. Firm accepted this condition and on confirmation submitted security deposit of Rs. 10 lacs in the form of bank guarantee. Letter dated 31.07.2017 was issued reminding the Firm that it must accept delivery schedule as per tender schedule, i.e., six months from the date of Purchase Order. Further, with respect to submission of documents to RDSO, petitioner himself delayed the matter. Petitioner having failed to comply with terms of contract cannot wriggle out thereof and in any case there is an arbitration clause in agreement and writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India for modification of terms of contract or for enforcement of contract is not admissible.

13. Since during pendency of writ petition, delivery time expired, hence PCMM issued cancellation advise dated 05.02.2019, giving reason of failure to supply. It also imposed penalty of forfeiture of security deposit. By way of amendment aforesaid cancellation and forfeiture has also been challenged.

14. Facts stated above, ex facie, show that here is a case of simple enforcement of contract. Moreover, it is not a mere enforcement of contract but even terms of contract are sought to be modified by intervention of Court by invoking jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution. Under the contract, earlier six months period of delivery was extended upto 26.12.2018 but petitioner wants it to be extended in his own terms.

15. Thus the question is, "whether for enforcement of a pure and simple commercial contract, jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India should be exercised", and, secondly, "whether the terms and conditions of contract can be directed to be modified at the instance of one party, by Court, in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution"?

16. It is true that remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is not absolutely barred but it has been held repeatedly that in the matter of pure and simple commercial contract, extraordinary constitutional remedy under Article 226 is not a substitute for getting the contract executed or for allowing damages to a party for alleged breach of contract since remedy lies in common law by filing suit for enforcement of contract wherever it is permissible or for damages/ compensation for alleged wrongful breach of contract. Reason being that such matters involves recording of evidence, oral and documentary, and remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution cannot be made a substitute of common law civil proceedings and parties must avail such remedy.

17. An exception has been carved out however in cases where contract is "statutory contract" but it has not been disputed before us by counsel for parties that agreement/ contract, in the case in hand, is not a statutory contract.

18. In Bareilly Development Authority vs. Ajai Pal Singh, AIR 1989 SC 1076 Court held that if a person is aggrieved in respect of non statutory and purely contractual rights flowing from a contract, remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution is not available. Court said that no writ or order can be issued under Article 226 so as to compel the authorities to remedy a breach of contract, pure and simple.

19. In Kerala State Electricity Board and another Vs. Kurian E. Kalathil and others, 2000(6) SCC 293 Court said that if a term of contract is violated, ordinarily remedy is not the writ petition under Article 226. Disputes arising out of terms of such contract or alleged breaches have to be settled by ordinary principles of law of contract. Court said that such case is a matter for adjudication by a Civil Court or in arbitration if provided for in the contract.

20. Referring to Bareilly Development Authority vs. Ajai Pal Singh (supra), and State of U.P. and others vs. Bridge & Roof Co. (India) Ltd., AIR 1996 SC 3515, Court in The Rajasthan State Industrial Development and Investment Corporation and Anr. vs. Diamond and Gem Development Corporation Ltd. and Anr., 2013(5) SCC 470 observed as under:

"There can be no dispute to the settled legal proposition that matters/disputes relating to contract cannot be agitated nor terms of the contract can be enforced through writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution. Thus, writ court cannot be a forum to seek any relief based on terms and conditions incorporated in the agreement by the parties."

21. In Rajasthan State Industrial Development and Investment Corporation (supra), Court further said:

"It is evident from the above, that generally the court should not exercise its writ jurisdiction to enforce the contractual obligation. The primary purpose of a writ of mandamus, is to protect and establish rights and to impose a corresponding imperative duty existing in law. It is designed to promote justice (ex debito justiceiae). The grant or refusal of the writ is at the discretion of the court. The writ cannot be granted unless it is established that there is an existing legal right of the applicant, or an existing duty of the Respondent. Thus, the writ does not lie to create or to establish a legal right, but to enforce one that is already established. While dealing with a writ petition, the court must exercise discretion, taking into consideration a wide variety of circumstances, inter-alia, the facts of the case, the exigency that warrants such exercise of discretion, the consequences of grant or refusal of the writ, and the nature and extent of injury that is likely to ensue by such grant or refusal. " (Emphasis added)

22. In State of U.P. and others vs. Bridge & Roof Co. (supra) Court said:

"Firstly, the contract between the parties is a contract in the realm of private law. It is not a statutory contract. It is governed by the provisions of the Contract Act or, may be, also by certain provisions of the Sale of Goods Act. Any dispute relating to interpretation of the terms and conditions of such a Contract cannot be agitated, and could not have been agitated, in a writ petition. That is a matter either for arbitration as provided by the contract or for Civil Court, as the case may be." (Emphasis added)

23. In Zonal Manager, Central Bank of India vs. Devi Ispat Ltd. and Ors., 2010(11) SCC 186 Court said:

"It is settled law that the disputes relating to interpretation of terms and conditions of a contract could not be examined/challenged or agitated in a petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution. It is a matter for adjudication by a civil court or in arbitration, if provided for in the contract or before the DRT or under the Securitization Act. "

24. Reliance is sought to be placed on behalf of petitioner on Supreme Court's judgment in Union of India and others vs. Tantia Construction Pvt. Ltd.,

2011(5) SCC 697 but we find that aforesaid judgment lends no help to petitioner in the case in hand. It was a case decided on its own facts. There was an agreement between Railway and Tantia Construction Pvt. Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as the "Contractor"). Railway insisted upon Contractor to execute certain additional work worth Rs. 36.11 crores under existing agreement for which Contractor did not agree. Railway then issued a notice requiring Contractor to execute enlarged/ extended quantity of work contract which was challenged in writ petition stating that Contractor is ready and abide to work contract already executed and it cannot be forced to agree for additional work in respect of extended portion on same terms and conditions. Contractor in writ petition did not challenge terms and conditions of existing agreement but was aggrieved by action of railway whereby it was compelling Contractor to execute extended quantify of work contract/ additional work contract for which Contractor was not ready. A Single Judge of Calcutta High Court quashed letter issued by railway for additional/ extended work contract and said judgment was upheld by Division Bench as well as Apex Court. Court observed that Contractor expressed its unwillingness to take extended work and agreed to complete balance work of initial contract and for extended work he cannot be compelled. It is in these facts and circumstances Court did find that writ petition was maintainable.

24. Learned counsel for petitioner than contended that entire fault lay with Railway and without giving any opportunity of hearing and notice it has cancelled contract, therefore, here is a case of violation of principle of natural justice also.

25. We find that the Railway issued contract on certain conditions which petitioner wanted to be modified to which Railway did not agree. It has been held time and again that principles of natural justice are not applicable when a contract in private law is terminated. Cancellation of contract in private law is not a quasi judicial act hence observance of principles of natural justice are not required and atleast cancellation of contract by either party cannot be challenged on the ground that it is in violation of principles of natural justice.

26. In State of Gujarat and Ors. vs. Meghji Pethraj Shah Charitable Trust and Ors., 1994(3) SCC 552, it has been held:

"We are unable to see any substance in the argument that the termination of arrangement without observing the principle of natural justice (audi alteram partem) is void. The termination is not a quasi-judicial act by any stretch of imagination; hence it was not necessary to observe the principles of natural justice. It is not also an executive or administrative act to attract the duty to act fairly. It was - as has been repeatedly urged by Sri Ramaswamy - a matter governed by a contract/agreement between the parties. If the matter is governed by a contract, the writ petition is not maintainable since it is a public law remedy and is not available in private law field, e.g., where the matter is governed by a non-statutory contract." (emphasis added)

27. Following aforesaid decision in Pimpri Chinchwad Municipal Corporation and Ors. vs. Gayatri Construction Company and Anr., 2008(8) SCC 172 Court has held that in the matter of non-statutory contract, High Court should not have entertained writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution.

28. In view of above, we are clearly of the view that it is not a fit case where this Court must exercise its public law remedy available under Constitution which is extraordinary, discriminatory remedy and instead petitioner must be relegated to avail its alternative remedy by invoking arbitration clause in the agreement or avail common law remedy in Civil Court.

29. Writ petition is accordingly dismissed.

A. Constitution of India - Article 243-O – Bar to interference by courts in electoral matters - Allahabad High Court Rules' 1952 – scope of Chapter V Rule 6 - Reference to a larger Bench – held - reference cannot be made for the mere necessity of creating a precedent - an issue being of importance by itself, cannot be a ground for referring the matter to the Larger Bench. (Para 49 & 60)

Judicial intervention in election matters should be minimal - No absolute bar in exercise of discretionary jurisdiction in a writ by the Constitutional Court - Each matter has to be examined with due care and circumspection by the Court keeping in mind the self imposed limitations and the Constitutional bar under 243-O of the Constitution of India - No straight-jacket formula - The whole idea of self imposed limitations is to provide an internal remedy in such cases without compelling the parties to go all the way to the Constitutional courts or increase the burden of that Court, unnecessarily. (Para 59)

Held: - The questions referred are hypothetical and are only of the academic importance as it is not known whether the issues raised survive or not - Reference cannot be answered by the Larger Bench even if it is of the view that the settled law has not been considered by the Division Bench while making the reference - the questions referred cannot be answered as questions of general importance as there was no conflict - the reference to the Full Bench was not properly made and it is annulled, accordingly.(Para 62 & 65)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sunita Agarwal, J. & Hon'ble Mahesh Chandra Tripathi, J. & Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Manish Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, Shri Neeraj Tripathi learned Addl. Advocate General assisted by Shri Shashank Shekhar Singh learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel and Shri Tarun Agarwal learned counsel appearing for the State Election Commission.

2. This Larger Bench has been constituted under the orders of Hon'ble the Chief Justice on a reference made by the Division Bench vide judgment and order dated 29.09.2015.

3. For the elections of Panchayats, namely Gram Panchayat, Kshetra Panchayat, Zila Panchayat, State of U.P., process had been initiated in the year 2015. During the said process, a Government order dated 11.08.2015 was issued to adopt certain procedure for reservation and allotment of seats with some modification as provided in the earlier Government order dated 09.07.2010. After receipt of objections on the list of the constituencies, it appears that the District Magistrate had proceeded to decide all objections by means of an order dated 13.09.2015. It appears that at this stage, a number of writ petitions were filed by different persons challenging the manner and methodology adopted by the State Government in delimitation of constituencies, reservation and allotment of seats. Objections were raised on the decision of the State Government vide Government order dated 05.09.2015 wherein it was notified that in Three-tier Panchayat Elections, the proceedings for reservation and allotment of seats for Pramukh, Kshetra Panchayat; members, Kshetra Panchayat and member of Zila Panchayat would continue as per the time-table notified for the same, whereas, the proceedings for reservation and allotment of seats for the Gram Panchayats be kept in abeyance till further orders were passed.

4. In addition to the challenge made against the decision of the District Magistrate on the objections of the petitioner to the list of reservation and allotment of seats, another issue raised was that there was no justification for postponing the elections of Gram Panchayats though the term of Gram Panchahyats was about to expire and further that in Three-tier system, without elections for Gram Panchayats, the constitution of Kshetra Panchayat and Zila Panchayat was not possible. The relief, thus, was sought to issue writ in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to re-frame the reservation of territorial constituency of Zila Panchayat.

5. Before the Division Bench, the original records from the office of the District Magistrate in the matter of application of reservation as per U.P. Panchayat Raj (Reservation and Allotment of Seats and Offices) Rules' 1994 in respect of particular seats in each District were summoned by the order dated 22.09.2015. While examining the said record, certain objections were made by the Division Bench in the order dated 23.09.2015, which is quoted in the referral order. On 24.09.2015, certain more records were examined by the Court and it had framed the issues which arose for consideration before it. The matter was fixed for further hearing on 28.09.2015.

6. The relevant observations of the Division Bench in the order dated 24.09.2015 are quoted herein:-

"how can the elections for Zila Panchayat be held without the first level of three tier panchayat elections, namely, village panchayat elections being first held and then the intermediatory level elections of kshetra panchayat."

7. It appears that on 24.09.2015, when the matter was taken up, State had raised objections regarding maintainability of the writ petitions before the District Magistrate. To strengthen its stand, reliance had been placed upon the judgment of the Coordinate Bench in the case of Rishipal Singh vs. State of U.P. and others; as well as in Rajesh Kumar Singh vs. State of U.P. and other. The order dated 24.09.2015 passed in the case of Rishipal Singh as reproduced in the referral order is relevant to be extracted hereunder:-

"The relief which has been sought in these proceedings which have been instituted as a public interest litigation is as follows:

"A. Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the Respondent Authorities to cancel the reservation of the seat of Ward No.18 of Zila Panchayat, Meerut to the other backward class (OBC) category and instead of it the said seat may be declared as Unreserved (UR) in the coming Zila Panchayat Elections."

On 21 September 2015, the State Election Commission has issued a notification for elections to the Zila Panchayats. In view of the constitutional bar contained in Article 243-O of the Constitution, it would not be appropriate or proper for the Court to entertain the petition once the electoral process has been initiated. Hence, we decline to exercise our writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution on that ground. The petition is, accordingly, dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs."

8. Having noticed the said order passed by the Coordinate Bench, the Division Bench which has referred the question to the larger Bench passed an order dated 28.09.2015 noticing the argument of learned counsel for the petitioners that constitutional remedies as provided under Article 226 of the Constitution of India being basic feature of the Constitution cannot be taken away and the Writ Court can examine the legality of the statutory provisions, in case, they are in violation of the constitutional provisions, including the provisions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of India. It was argued that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has already held that even the laws put under the 9th Schedule are amenable to exercise of writ jurisdiction. The provisions of U.P. Zila Panchayat Kshetra Panchayat Adhiniyam' 1961 cannot be elevated to any higher position than the Acts put in the 9th Schedule.

9. The arguments of the State-respondents, on the other hand, was that the writ petitions were liable to dismissed in view of the Constitutional bar contained in Article 240-O of the Constitution. The Court though had proceeded to examine the said question as reflected in its order dated 28.09.2015, but on 29.09.2015, on the arguments raised by the learned Advocates for the parties, the Division Bench in its referral order dated 29.09.2015, had recorded its disagreement with the view taken by the Coordinate Bench in the case of Rishi Pal Singh (in its order dated 24.09.2015), and observed that the view taken by the said Bench that once the notification for elections of Zila Panchayat had been issued by the State on 21.09.2015, the Constitutional bar under Article 243-O of the Constitution of India in entertaining the writ petition got attracted, was not correct.

10. After having considered the submissions advanced by the learned Advocates on the said issue, it has proceeded to record in paragraph No.'11' of the referral order as under:-

"11. Having considered the submissions advanced by learned counsels at bar with reference to the judgments relied upon, we find that the self-imposed restrictions by a Writ Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India in matters of holding of elections have been stringently resorted to, and any interference in the process of elections is ordinarily discouraged. In matters where process of election has commenced interference by Writ Court at the intermediate stage is ordinarily not to be resorted. It has been emphasized time and again by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that once the process of election has commenced, any person aggrieved should be allowed to raise his grievance by filing an election petition only. However, in cases where election is not being held in accordance with the Constitution or there are inherent defects or breaches of election law rendering the whole election itself a farce, would warrant an interference under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is the moot question?"

11. Proceeding further, the decision of the Constitution Bench in the case of L. Chandra Kumar Vs. Union of India and others was noted to observe that the power of judicial review by the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution and Hon'ble Supreme Court under Article 32 is an integral and essential feature of the Constitution and, therefore, constitutes part of its basic structure. It was then observed in paragraph No.'18' of the referral order that subject to the inherent limitation on the scope of the exercise of power of High Court under Article 226, in matters relating to holding of elections, the Court was of the considered opinion that the constitutional bar contained in Article 243-O of the Constitution would not be a bar on the jurisdiction of the Constitutional Courts under Article 226 & 32 of the Constitution of India and, therefore, it could not confirm to the view expressed by the Co-ordinate Bench in the judgement and order dated 24.09.2015 in Rishi Pal.

12. In paragraph No.'20' of the referral order, the Division Bench has expressed the difficulty it faced to accept the view taken by the Co-ordinate Bench in Rishi Pal Singh, in the following words:-

"20. This Bench finds it difficult to accept the law as laid down by the Division Bench of this Court in Public Interest Litigation (PIL) No. 54008 of 2015 (Rishipal Singh Vs. State of U.P. And others) to the effect that though reservation of seats for the elections is under challenge but once the notification for election of Zila Panchayat has been issued, it would not be appropriate or proper for the Court to entertain the petition once the electoral process has been initiated, in view of the constitutional bar contained in Article 243-O of the Constitution of India."

13. It has further recorded in paragraph No.'21' as under:-

"21. In our opinion, if the very process of holding election or implementation of reservation under the Rules, in respect of the various constituencies of Zila Panchayat has to be challenged, then the only remedy available to a person, not belonging to the reserved category in question for which the seat has been reserved, is to file petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. He has no remedy elsewhere. His challenge to the process of reservation may ultimately succeed or may not succeed, is a different issue, but it cannot be said that the writ petition is not maintainable. The writ petition raising such issue, in our opinion, have to be entertained, notwithstanding the bar contained in Article 243-O of the Constitution of India."

14. In the light of the above, following questions have been referred for examination by the Larger Bench:-

"(a) Whether, constitutional remedy of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, which has been recognised as a basic feature of constitution in L. Chandra Kumar Vs. Union of India, 1997 (3) SCC 261 could be curtailed in view of the bar created under Article 243-O of the Constitution of India?

(b) Whether, a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can be refused to be entertained for the reason that a notification for holding the Panchayat elections has been issued by the State in view of Article 243-O of the Constitution of India, even where:

(i) vires of election laws is questioned,

(ii) Government Orders issued for effecting the election are stated to be in breach of election laws/arbitrary,

(iii) actual implementation by the State of election laws/Government Orders is stated to be in breach of the provisions,

(iv) any other similar issue?

(c) Whether, the High Court in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can interfere in the election process, if the elections are not being held in accordance with the Constitution of India or there is inherent defects or breaches of the election law making the entire election a mockery or a farce?

(d) Whether, this Court would permit ongoing process of election, in the facts of the present case, or not?

(e) Whether, the vires of the election laws as well as reservation of seats can be subjected to challenge only in a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India or else the aggrieved person is rendered remedy less?

(f) Whether, the judgment of the Division Bench in the case of Rishipal Singh vs. State of U.P. and others (supra) has laid down the correct law?

15. It is pertinent to note at this stage, that at the point of time when the referral order was passed, the elections were in progress and various writ petitions were filed raising different issues including some relating to reservation of the various constituencies.

16. It is admitted that the elections were held in the year 2015 and the Panchayats in Three-tier system namely Gram Panchayat, Kshetra Panhayat and Zila Panchayat had been constituted. Nothing has been brought before us to state that any issue having legal ramifications on the elections held in the year 2015 have been brought to challenge which would have required invocation of powers of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

17. In the light of the abovenoted facts, we first proceed to examine as to whether in all propriety, this Larger Bench has to answer the questions referred to it or issues have become academic now. We also propose to examine the circumstances in which the reference has been made to note as to whether the decision of the Co-ordinate Bench in Rishipal Singh, correctness of which has been doubted by the referral Bench, came in its way and it could not have entered into or adjudicated the dispute, on its own, in view of the conflict of opinion. Further, whether the doubts raised by it to make the reference before the Larger Bench, in fact, arose or not.

18. As far as the first issue is concerned, as noted above, the writ petitions in this bunch were filed against the order of the District Magistrate, Azamgarh in the matter of reservation and allotment of constituencies for Three-tier Panchayat elections, i.e. Gram Panchayat, Kshetra Panchayat and Zila Panchayat. The prayer for mandamus was to command the respondent to re-frame the reservation of territorial constituencies so that a particular ward may not be reserved in any category. The challenge was, thus, to the realtime exercise done by the State Government for delimitation, reservation and allotment of seats. In so far as the Gram Panchayats are concerned, the entire procedure for the purpose has been provided in Section 11 (f) & 12 of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act' 1947 read with the U.P. Panchayat Raj (Reservation and Allotment of Seats and Offices) Rules' 1994. Another dispute with regard to the Government notification dated 13.09.2015 was only this much that without elections of Gram Panchayats, which were postponed by the State Government by the said notification, the constitution of Kshetra Panchayat and Zila Panchayat was not possible.

19. It is informed by Sri Neeraj Tripathi learned Additional Advocate General and Sri Tarun Agarwal learned counsel for the State Election Commission that the elections for constitution of Three-tier local bodies namely Gram Panchayat, Kshetra Panchayat and Zila Panchayat had been completed in the year 2015 itself. The dispute raised by the petitioners before the Division Bench that the constitution of Kshetra Panchayat and Zila Panchayat would not be possible in view of the postponement of elections of Gram Panchayat, therefore, was rendered infructuous in the year 2015 itself.

20. Now the issue with regard to the reservation and allotment of territorial constituencies for the elections of Zila Panchayat and Kshetra Panchayat, i.e. actual exercise done by the State is concerned, it appears that a preliminary objection was raised by the State and the Election Commission regarding maintainability of the writ petition in view of the issuance of notification for election to the Zila Panchayat by the State Election Commission. The argument was that in view of the Constitutional bar contained in Article 243-O of the Constitution, once the election process had been initiated, the exercise of writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India to challenge the actual exercise of reservation and allotment of seats, was not possible. In other words, the plea of bar of Article 243-O of the Constitution of India was raised by the State to entertain the constitutional remedy in view of the nature of the dispute before the Division Bench.

21. On the said plea, with due regards, the Division Bench was required to examine the issue and express its opinion. The only reason why the Division Bench opined that the matter should be referred to the Larger Bench was, that it was of the view that the Constitutional bar contained in Article 243-O of the Constitution would not be an absolute bar on the jurisdiction of the Constitutional Courts under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and that a Co-ordinate Bench while delivering the judement and order dated 24.09.2015 took a contrary view.

22. We have already reproduced the order of the Co-ordinate Bench in the preceding paragraph, which was found in contradiction by the Division Bench referring the matter to the larger Bench.

23. Having carefully read the order in Rishi Pal Singh, it is found that the Division Bench therein had refused to entertain the writ petition, at the outset, noticing that in view of the notification issued by the State Election Commission, considering the Constitutional bar contained in Article 243-O of the Constitution, it would not be appropriate or proper for the Court to entertain the public interest writ petition, once the election process had been initiated. Expressing the said view, the Court had declined to exercise writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution on that ground only. From the bare reading of the said judgment, we may notice here that the opinion of the Division Bench in Rishi Pal Singh was not on any question of law adjudicated by it, rather it was passed in view of the nature of relief sought in the case before it. The challenge to the election process was brought by way of a Public Interest Litigation. The Court therein found that after notification of the Election Commission, the issues raised before it could not be adjudicated. In our opinion, the dismissal of PIL in Rishi Pal Singh on the ground stated therein was neither a law laid down by it nor was binding as a precedent upon the Bench referring the matter, restricting it from entering into the preliminary objection or the controversy in the bunch of writ petitions raised before it.

24. It appears that only reason which weighed in the mind of the Division Bench that the matter should be referred to the Larger Bench as various questions of law of general public importance may arise in the trial of the said cases or other cases in future.

25. The observations in paragraph Nos.'20' & '21' of the reference order quoted above reflect the difficulties expressed by the Division Bench in deciding the issues raised before it.

26. In our opinion, the dismissal of the Public Interest Litigation by the Division Bench in Rishi Pal Singh was more of a question of judicial propriety rather than on the power to exercise jurisdiction to adjudicate on the question of law raised before that Bench.

27. It appears that within the limits of self-imposed restrictions which is to be exercised in the matter of elections by a Writ Court, the Division Bench dealing with the Public Interest Litigation had refused to entertain the writ petition after notification was issued by the Election Commission.

28. In this context, it would not be out of place to mention here that the Constitutional Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Laxmi Charan Sev Vs. A.K.M. Hasan Usman has made a clear statement in paragraph No.'28' as under:-

"28.We have expressed the view that preparation and revision of electoral rolls is a continuous process, not connected with any particular election. It may be difficult consistently with that view, to hold that preparation and revision of electoral rolls is a part of the 'election' within the meaning of Article 329(b). Perhaps, as stated in Halsbury in the passage extracted in Ponnuswami, the facts of each individual case may have to be considered for determining the question whether any particular stage can be a part of the election process in that case. In that event, it would be difficult to formulate a proposition which will apply to all cases alike."

29. The aforesaid observations though were made in the interim order of the courts but in the final order, the Constitutional Bench reiterates the above view in the following words:-

"The order dated March 30, 1982 which we will presently reproduce, contains our reasons in support of this conclusion. Very often, the exercise of jurisdiction, especially the writ jurisdiction involves questions of propriety rather than of power. The fact that the Court has the power to do a certain thing does not mean that it must exercise that power regardless of the consequences."

30. The question of conflict between the jurisdiction conferred in the High Court under Article 226 and the embargo created by the Constitution under Article 329 was firstly considered in the case of N.P. Ponnuswami vs Returning Officer, Namakkal. The law enunciated in N.P. Ponnuswami (supra) was extensively dealt with in Mohindra Singh Gill Vs. Chief Election Commissioner, the Constitutional Bench noticed two types of decisions and two types of challenges in paragraph No.'29' of the report:-

(i) The first relates to proceedings which interfere with the progress of the election and;

(ii) the second which accelerates the completion of elections and acts in furtherance of an election.

A third category has been evolved in the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the case of Election Commission of India Vs. Ashok Kumar & others, wherein the Apex Court has observed that there may be a situation where something has happened which is calling foul of the law of election and by the time an election petition is filed and judicial assistance secured, material evidence may be lost. If the wrong committed is left undone in such a case until after the result of election, the relief actually given may not amount to anything at all. The invocation of the constitutional remedy under Article 226 or Article 32 of the Constitution of India may be possible even during the election process.

31. We may note that we are not called upon to answer whether in the facts of the cases at hand, the aforesaid third category of question for interference in election arises or not.

32. In Election Commission of India Vs. State of Haryana, the Constitutional Bench noticed the following observations in interim order of A.K.M. Hasan4 with approval:-

"The imminence of the electoral process is a factor which must guide and govern the passing of orders in the exercise of the High Court's writ jurisdiction. The more imminent such process, the greater ought to be the reluctance of the High Court to do anything, or direct anything to be done, which will postpone that process indefinitely by creating a situation in which, the Government of a State cannot be carried on in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution."

33. In Digvijiay Mote Vs. Union of India9, Anugrah Narain Singh & another Vs. State of U.P. & others, C. Subrahmanyam Vs. K. Ramanjaneyullu & others, it is held that where non-compliance of provision of the Act, governing the election is a ground for election petition, the writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India should not have been entertained.

34. The law settled by the Apex Court in Ashok Kumar has been followed consistently in umpteen number of decisions.

35. We may clarify that we are not on the issue of entertainability of the bunch of writ petitions by the Division Bench as the said issue was required to be adjudicated by it in view of law laid down by the Apex Court in the matter of scope of interference in the election process in writ jurisdiction.

36. We are only scrutinizing whether the decision in Rishipal was binding on the Division Bench and it could not have addressed the controversy before it on the question of entertainability of the writ petitions.

37. In the case of Tika Ram and others versus State of U.P and others, the Apex Court has observed that a decision does not become precedent unless a question is directly raised and considered therein, so also it does not become the law declared unless the question is actually decided upon.

38. With greatest of respect, we are of the view that there was no conflicting opinion facing their Lordships, preventing them from deciding the question itself.

39. After due deliberations of the Counsels for the parties, hearing them at length, we do not find that the questions which were framed by the Division Bench in the referral order, actually arose for adjudication before it in the bunch of writ petitions. For instance, on question (b), we find that before the Division Bench:-

(i) vires of election law was not questioned;

(ii) arbitrariness of the government order issued in the process of election being in breach of election laws was not an issue;

(iii) the issue regarding actual implementation by the state of the election laws being in breach of the legal provision may be the issue which would have arisen for consideration, had it decided to entertain the writ petition.

40. Similarly, the questions (c), (d), (e) are the issues of larger general importance framed by the Division Bench which may or may not have arisen for consideration, had it entered into the issues on merits.

41. We, however, do not find it proper to express any opinion as to whether the said issues would have arisen, had the Division Bench entertained the writ petition, as this is not the question before us to answer.

42. Now, Question-(a) pertains to the law laid down by the Apex Court in L. Chandra Kumar (supra) which, in our opinion, could have been read and duly applied by the Division Bench for answering the question before it, i.e., as to whether it would entertain the writ petition in the light of the notification issued by the State Election Commission for elections of the Zila Panchayat and the bar under Article 243-O of the Constitution of India is attracted or not. The said issue though has been discussed in few paragraphs of the reference order and some views have been expressed by the Division Bench in paragraph Nos.'20' & '21' of the reference order but whether the said question arose for consideration in the facts and circumstances of these cases, i.e. in the nature of the controversy and the issues before it or not, is not clear.

43. Lastly, question (f), with due respect, is not a proper question as expressed above. The Division Bench in the case of Rishi Pal Singh did not lay down any legal proposition so as to make it a binding precedent on any other Co-ordinate Bench or the Benches of lesser strength of this Court.

44. Thus, in absence of a binding precedent, there was no conflict facing the Division Bench which has made the reference. The question No.(f) regarding the correctness of law laid down by the Division Bench in Rishi Pal Singh, in our respectful opinion, did not arise at all.

45. The point is whether this is a reference under Chapter V Rule 6 of the Allahabad High Court Rules' 1952:-

46. The scheme of Chapter V Rule 6 of the Allahabad High Court Rules' 1952 provides as under:-

"6. Reference to a larger Bench:- The Chief Justice may constitute a Bench of two or more Judges to decide a case or any question of law formulated by a Bench hearing a case. In the latter event the decision of such Bench on the question so formulated shall be returned to the Bench hearing the case and that Bench shall follow that decision on such question and dispose of the case after deciding the remaining questions, if any, arising therein."

47. The reading of the said provision goes to show that on conflicting opinion expressed by two Benches of the same strength, larger Bench may be constituted by Hon'ble the Chief Justice to decide the questions of law formulated by the Bench hearing the case.

48. Before a Full Bench of this Court in Suo Moto Action Taken by the Court

Vs. I.C.I.C.I. Bank Limited, Allahabad, a question arose as to whether the reference made by the Division Bench was proper or not and further whether the academic issues on question of law had to be answered by the Full Bench.

49. Considering the scope of Chapter V of Rule 6 of the High Court Rules, it was held therein that reference cannot be made for the mere necessity of creating a precedent. If a question of law of whatever importance arises before the Division Bench, ordinarily, the Division Bench should decide it itself and not refer it to a Larger Bench, unless there is conflict of precedent, which makes it impossible for the Division Bench to decide this way or other. It was further held that where the questions of law are formulated by a Division Bench for reference and decision, the case has to be alive before the Division Bench itself. Thus, in other words, in both eventuality where there is no conflict of precedent or the case is not alive before the Division Bench, reference to a Larger Bench should not be made for the mere necessity of creating a precedent. Paragraph '13', '14', '18', '19', '20' of the said report are relevant to be reproduced herein:-

"13. We respectfully follow the Kerala special Bench judgment relied upon by Mr. Mitra appeared for ICICI, being the case of Babu Premarajan reported at . Passages would be found at page 449 to the effect that if a question of law of whatever importance arises before the Division Bench, ordinarily the Division Bench should decide it itself and not refer it to a larger Bench, unless there is a conflict of precedent, which makes it impossible for the Division Bench to decide this way or the other. This was opined in Kerala, even though there was a rule of the High Court which, on a plain reading, appeared to allow two Hon'ble Judges of a Division Bench to refer any questions to a larger Bench merely on their Lordships agreement.

14. As such, if the writ petition before the Hon'ble Division Bench is still alive, the Division Bench is fully at libertyin its own aisdoun to decide all the questions itself and indeed all the questions purportedly got referred to the larger Bench.

18. The other point is whether it is a reference under Chapter V Rule 6 that the Division Bench has in reality resorted to. The said rule is quoted below:-

"6. Reference to a larger Bench.- The Chief Justice may constitute a Bench of two or more Judges to decide a case or any question, of law formulated by a Bench hearing a case. In the latter event the decision of such Bench on the question so formulated shall be returned to the Bench hearing the case and that Bench shall follow that decision on such question and dispose of the case after deciding the remaining questions, if any, arising therein .

19. The first part of the rule refers to constitution of a Bench by the Chief Justice himself by use of his own administrative discretion. This is not one such case.

20. So far as the second part of the rule is concerned, where the questions of law are formulated by a Division Bench for reference and decision, the case has to be alive before the Division Bench itself. If the case is alive in the present case, then also a reference under the second limb, is, with the greatest of respect, improper, because nothing prevented the Division Bench from deciding the questions itself. There were no conflicting Division

Benches facing their Lordships and as such, the Kerala principle mentioned above applies with full force."

50. In saying so, the Full Bench has relied upon the Full Bench judgment of Kerala High Court in Babu Premarajan Vs. Superintendent of Police, Kasaragode & others, wherein even the rule of the Kerala High Court permitted the Division Bench to refer any question to a Larger Bench merely on their Lordships agreement.

51. The said Rule of Kerala High Court Rules' which was subject matter of consideration therein reads as under:-

.....Powers of a Bench of two Judges.--The powers of the High Court in relation to the following matters may be exercised by a Bench of two Judges, provided that if both Judges agree that the decision involves a question of law they may order that the matter or question of law be referred to a Full Bench.....

52. The Kerala High Court had noted therein the meaning of word "reference" in Stroud's Judicial Dictionary of Words and Phrases, 4th edition, Volume I, page 65, to observe in para '49' as under:-

"Meaning of Reference:- Reference has been stated to mean the sending of a pending case, for some question therein, by the Court in which it is pending to a private person or some other tribunal to hear and determine the cause of the question."

Para '49' of the report:-

49. The last question referred for our decision Is viz. whether a reference by a Division Bench to a Full Bench is permissible merely because both Judges in a Division Bench so agree that the decision involves a question of law. Section 4 has been reproduced in para 6 above. It deals with the powers of a Bench of two Judges, Indeed powers of the High Court. The proviso says that when both Judges agree that the decision involves a question of law, they may order that the matter or question of law be referred to a Full Bench. Whereas in Section 3, a single Judge is required to refer the entire case for being heard and determined by a Bench of two Judges, Under Section 4, a Division Bench may refer the entire case or question of law to a Full Bench. Assuming that to be so, it is difficult to appreciate why a Division Bench should not decide the question of law and merely because both the Judges agree that the decision involves a question of law. It should be referred to a Full Bench or the entire matter be referred to a Full Bench.

If a question of law arises before a Division Bench, which situation is not uncommon, is it open to a Division Bench not to decide it and refer it to a Full Bench. One can understand when there is a conflict of Division Bench decisions on a question of law and there is no subsequent decision of the Apex Court on the point; in such a situation a reference to Full Bench would undoubtedly be justified. In the light of the cases we have discussed above, there is no doubt that the power of two Judges in a Division Bench to refer a question of law to a Full Bench must be exercised sparingly and only in cases where there is a conflict of opinion of Division Benches of this Court and there is no latter decision of the Apex Court on that point. Obviously, if there is a subsequent decision of the Apex Court which resolves the conflict or, in the light of which, one of the Division Bench decisions must be taken to be impliedly overruled and the other Impliedly upheld, the Division Bench is obliged to follow the view which has been impliedly upheld by the subsequent decision of the Apex Court. Our answer to the third question would, therefore, be that the provisions of Section 4 of the Act contemplate a reference by a Division Bench, not merely because both the Judges of the Division Bench agree that the decision involves a question of law. Such a reference by a Division Bench to a Full Bench is permissible only if there is a conflict of Division Bench decisions of this Court and there is no latter decision of the Apex Court resolving the said conflict directly or impliedly."

53. Thus, from the above discussion, it is found that when it appears to a Single Bench or a Division Bench that there are conflicting decisions of the Co-ordinate strength of the same Court or that a question of law of importance having conflicting views arises in the trial of a case, the Judge or the Bench passes an order that the papers be placed before the Chief Justice of the High Court with the request to form the Special or Full Bench to hear and decide the case on the questions raised in the case.

54. Normally, the judge concerned should make a reference briefly indicating reasons for his views which necessitated to refer the matter to a Larger Bench but the same is not indispensable.

55. At the same time, we may clarify that if reasons are not stated in respect of the order of reference, the Full Bench cannot decline to answer the questions referred to it. The brief reasons for making a reference, however, has to be indicated so as to enable the Larger Bench to know the minds of Hon'ble Judge(s) making the reference.

56. In the instant matter, as expressed above, we could not find any conflict between two decisions which warranted a reference before the Larger Bench.

57. The questions, in the reference order, framed by the Division Bench, assuming conflict of opinion in the election matters, with due respect, are sweeping. On a plain reading of the order of reference, it appears that their Lordships have referred the questions to the Larger Bench with a view to create a precedent assuming that those questions of law of importance may arise in election matters and an authoritative pronouncement of a Larger Bench is needed on the subject.

58. The pronouncement by a Full Bench, with due regards to the learned Judges referring the matter, on hypothetical conflict, would not be a proper judicial exercise.

59. We may note that there is difference between the question whether a writ petition would lie to the High Court and as to the scope of interference in writ jurisdiction. From the decisions referred above, it can be seen that judicial intervention in election matters should be minimal. Though, there cannot be an absolute bar in exercise of discretionary jurisdiction in a writ by the Constitutional Court. Each matter has to be examined with due care and circumspection by the Court keeping in mind the self imposed limitations and the Constitutional bar under 243-O of the Constitution of India. There cannot be a straight-jacket formula. The whole idea of self imposed limitations is to provide an internal remedy in such cases without compelling the parties to go all the way to the Constitutional courts or increase the burden of that Court, unnecessarily.

60. In our considered view, an issue being of importance by itself, cannot be a ground for referring the matter to the Larger Bench.

61. Further, the last question which remains to be considered that if nothing survives, then answering the questions referred, as issues of general importance, by us would be an academic exercise. The Full Bench in Suo Moto Action has held that such an exercise is beyond the jurisdiction of the Court. Paragraph Nos.'24', '25' & '26' are relevant to be quoted as under:-

"24. .....It is the problem of the Court having no jurisdiction to answer questions of law merely academically and in the vacuum. Mr. Prasad has already filed another writ petition No. 13778 of 2006 where by he specifically challenges the same contract of the debt collector as being contrary to public policy. But in the case before the Division Bench, which is before us, either nothing survives or something survives for which the Division Bench is itself to give its decision including those on points of law.

25. If nothing survives, then our answering the questions referred as public interest law points, would suffer from this problem that, the declaration of law would be wholly academic and a mere enunciation of law made by the Court without there being a case surviving in which to make the pronouncement. That such declaration might be used later on by the parties to have even their own rights declared, in one particular manner, is no reason or argument why the Court can have seisin or jurisdiction over mere points of law referred as such.

26. The Courts have jurisdiction to decide on points of law only when those arise in relation to and are incidental to questions raised by parties affecting their own rights, liabilities and interest. The Court is all the time deciding questions of law, but it is a paradox that the Court has no jurisdiction to decide a question of law, and a question of law only, like a Professor answering questions to a persistent law student."

62. We, therefore, find that the questions referred are hypothetical and are only of the academic importance as it is not known whether the issues raised survive or not. The reference cannot be answered by the Larger Bench even if it is of the view that the settled law has not been considered by the Division Bench while making the reference. Furthermore, the questions referred cannot be answered as questions of general importance as there was no conflict.

63. Moreover, from amongst the questions referred, those which arise in the facts and circumstances of the instant case(s), if alive, are left open to be answered by the Division Bench.

64. We may clarify that we do no express any opinion as to whether the issues raised in the bunch of writ petitions are still alive or not.

65. We, however, hold that the reference to the Full Bench was not properly made and it is annulled, accordingly.

66. It is further clarified that the observations made herein above are in order to examine whether the reference was properly made and none of them would cause prejudice to the rights and contentions of the parties in any proceeding whether in the bunch before the Division Bench, or in any other matter.

67. The reference to the Larger Bench, accordingly, stands answered.

68. The writ petitions shall now be placed before the regular Bench according to the roster for disposal in light of the above.

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Dinesh Kumar Singh, Sri Sushil Kumar Shukla

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Administrative law – Principles of natural justice – principles of natural justice have to be complied with - recent trend - prejudice – Even in those cases where procedural requirements have not been complied with, the action has not been held ipso facto illegal, unlawful or void unless it is shown that non-observance had prejudicially affected the applicant - unless and until any prejudice is caused to the petitioner, notice and opportunity is not required to be given - unless prejudice is shown, the impugned order or action cannot be struck down . (Para 11, 12, 21 & 28)

The terms and conditions of the contract not duly complied with by the petitioner after submission of his bid - the bid was rightly cancelled by the respondents - security amount - rightly forfeited as per Clause 30.3 of the ITB -The concept `natural justice' is not a fixed one - Rules of natural justice are not embodied rules and they cannot be imprisoned within the strait-jacket of a rigid formula - In the instant case as well, no purpose will be served in remitting the matter back to the authority for decision afresh after providing opportunity of hearing to the petitioner, in as much as the defect is incurable; no amount of explanation can change the ultimate result, being a fait accompli - The petitioner can by no means negate the admitted fact. 19. Dharampal Satyapal Limited Vs. Deputy Commissioner of Central Excise, Gauhati and Others, (2015) 8 SCC 519

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J.)

1. Heard Sri D. K. Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel on behalf of respondents.

2. The petitioner has preferred the present writ petition challenging the order dated 24.10.2017 passed by the respondent no.4 namely Superintending Engineer Rural Engineering Department Meerut Division, Meerut with the further prayer to direct the respondent no.4 to execute the agreement of package no.5257 in favour of the petitioner adding the GST amount in the bid of petitioner.

3. The facts in brief as contained in the writ petition are that the petitioner is A class registered Government Contractor. The respondent no.4 published an advertisement on 12.6.2014 inviting tenders from registered Contractors for upgrading of Meerut-Karnal road being package number 5257 along-with other packages. The petitioner submitted his tender along-with other Contractors. In the bid submitted by the petitioner it was noted that if CGST and SGST is implemented, the same shall be included in the bid of the petitioner. The bid was opened on 23.08.2017 and the bid of the petitioner was duly accepted on 7.10.2017 but without adding the amount of GST and as such the petitioner submitted an application in this regard on 10.10.2017.

4. It is contended by Sri D. K. Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner that without considering the request of the petitioner, the respondent no.4 issued a letter dated 12.10.2017 to the effect that in case the petitioner does not produce the performance security till 16.10.2017 the action will be taken against him as per Clause No.30.3 of the ITB (General Condition of Contract). After the aforesaid letter was received by the petitioner, he wrote a letter dated 14.10.2017 again stating that he is not ready to sign the contract without adding the amount of GST. It is further contended that without considering the aforesaid objection of the petitioner respondent no.4 passed the order dated 24.10.2017 by which the claim of the petitioner was rejected and security amount submitted by the petitioner was forfeited. He further submitted that the order dated 24.10.2017 passed by the respondent no.4 is totally illegal and arbitrary. The amount of security would be forfeited only if the agreement has been executed by the Contractor and after the implementation of GST by the Government, it was a mandatory requirement to add the GST in the Contract. The amount of security would only be forfeited after the acceptance of the bid but since in the present case bid itself was not accepted the amount of security could not be forfeited. Further argument was made that the order dated 24.10.2017 was passed without giving any notice and opportunity to the petitioner. The order dated 24.10.2017 was passed without assigning any reasons.

5. In the counter affidavit filed by the respondents it is stated that e-tender was invited pursuance to the instructions as per Standard Bidding Document for Pradhan Mantri Gram Sadak Yojana (hereinafter referred as PMGSY) for construction of Meerut-Karnal Road, Rithali to Pali via Chur Kalandi, District Meerut.

6. It is stated in paragraph 6 of the counter affidavit that after going through the entire standard bidding documents for PMGSY, the petitioner applied for the tenders. It is further stated that in the bid amount GST was not added since when the bids were invited at that time the GST was not invoked. After the petitioner was declared successful bidder, he was duty bound to execute the bond but since the bond was not executed by the petitioner within time hence as per Clause 30.3 the action was taken against him. Clause 30.3 of the Standard Bidding Documents reads as follows :-

"Failure of successful bidder to comply with the requirement of delivery of Performance Security of two and a half percent of Contract Price plus additional security for unbalanced bids as per provisions of Clause 30.1 shall constitute sufficient ground for cancellation of award and forfeiture of the Bid Security. Such successful bidder who fails to comply with the above requirements is liable to be debarred from participating in bids under PMGSY for a period of one year."

7. It was further argued that under Clause 13.3. of the bid document it is clearly provided that all duties, taxes, royalties and other levies payable by the Contractor under the Contract, or for any other cause, shall be included in the rates, prices, and total bid price submitted by the Bidder.

8. In view of the aforesaid it was argued by the learned Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents that the order passed by the respondent no.4 dated 24.10.2017 is absolutely perfect and valid order and does not call for any interference by this Court specially under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

9. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

10. From perusal of the record it is clear that after the bid was accepted on 4.9.2017 and the same was loaded on the website, objections were invited within five days. It is clear from the record that the objection pertaining to GST was submitted by the petitioner for the first time on 15.9.2017. Since the terms and conditions of the contract were not duly complied with by the petitioner after submission of his bid, the bid was rightly cancelled by the respondents. In so far as the security amount is concerned, the same was rightly forfeited as per Clause 30.3 of the ITB.

11. In so far as the notice and opportunity is concerned, it is well settled that unless and until any prejudice is caused to the petitioner, notice and opportunity is not required to be given. Nothing has been stated in the entire writ petition nor any argument has been raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner that what prejudice has been caused to the petitioner in the absence of opportunity of hearing.

12. It is settled law that principles of natural justice have to be complied with. One of the principles of natural justice is audi alteram partem ("Hear the other side"). But it is equally well settled that the concept `natural justice' is not a fixed one. It has meant many things to many writers, lawyers, jurists and systems of law. It has many colours, shades, shapes and forms. Rules of natural justice are not embodied rules and they cannot be imprisoned within the strait-jacket of a rigid formula.

13. Seven decades before in the case of Russel v. Duke of Norfolk reported in (1949) 1 All ER 109 : 65 TLR 225 (CA), it was held that "There are, in my view, no words which are of universal application to every kind of inquiry and every kind of domestic tribunal. The requirements of natural justice must depend on the circumstances of the case, the nature of the inquiry, the rules under which the tribunal is acting, the subject- matter that is being dealt with, and so forth".

14. In the case of Byrne v. Kinematograph Renters Society reported in (1958) 2 AllER 579 :: 1958 (1) WLR 762, it was held that "What, then, are the requirements of natural justice in a case of this kind? First, I think that the person accused should know the nature of the accusation made; secondly, that he should be given an opportunity to state his case; and thirdly, of course, that the tribunal should act in good faith. I do not think that there really is anything more".

15. Similar view was taken by the Supreme Court in the case of Union of India v. P.K. Roy reported in AIR 1968 SC 850 : 1968 (2) SCR 186. The revelant paragraph 11 of the aforesaid judgement is quoted below:-

"(11).....the extent and application of the doctrine of natural justice cannot be imprisoned within the strait jacket of a rigid formula. The application of the doctrine depends upon the nature of the jurisdiction conferred on the administrative authority, upon the character of the rights of the persons affected, the scheme and policy of the statute and other relevant circumstances disclosed in the particular case".

16. Apart from the same in the leading case of case of A.K. Kraipak v. Union of India reported in 1969 (2) SCC 262 it was held that :-

"20.What particular rule of natural justice should apply to a given case must depend to a great extent on the facts and circumstances of that case, the framework of the law under which the enquiry is held and the constitution of the Tribunal or body of persons appointed for that purpose. Whenever a complaint is made before a court that some principle of natural justice had been contravened the court has to decide whether the observance of that rule was necessary for a just decision on the facts of that case".

17. The Supreme Court in the case of Board of High School v. Kumari Chitra reported in 1970 (1) SCC 121 observed that the Board cancelled the examination of the petitioner who had actually appeared at the examination on the ground that there was shortage in attendance at lectures. Admittedly, no notice was given to the candidate before taking the action. On behalf of the Board it was stated that the facts were not in dispute and therefore, `no useful purpose would have been served' by giving a show cause notice to the petitioner. The Supreme Court was pleased to set aside the decision of the Board of holding that the Board was acting in a quasi-judicial capacity and, therefore, it ought to have observed the principles of natural justice.

18. In the case of Malloch v. Aberdeen Corporation reported in 1971 (2) AllER 1278 (HL), it was held that :-

".....It was argued that to have afforded a hearing to the appellant before dismissing him would have been a useless formality because whatever he might have said could have made no difference. If that could be clearly demonstrated it might be a good answer".
(emphasis supplied)

19. In the case of S.L. Kapoor v. Jagmohan reported in 1980 (4) SCC 379 it was held by the Supreme Court that :-

"24.....The non-observance of natural justice is itself prejudice to any man and proof of prejudice independently of proof of denial of natural justice is unnecessary. It 'll comes from a person who has denied justice that the person who has been denied justice is not prejudiced".
(emphasis supplied)

20. In the case of R.S. Dass v. Union of India reported in 1986 Supp SCC 617 :: 1987 (2) ATC 628 it was held that :-

" 25. It is well established that rules of natural justice are not rigid rules, they are flexible and their application depends upon the setting and the background of statutory provision, nature of the right which may be affected and the consequences which may entail, its application depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case".

21. The recent trend, however, is of `prejudice'. Even in those cases where procedural requirements have not been complied with, the action has not been held ipso facto illegal, unlawful or void unless it is shown that non-observance had prejudicially affected the applicant.

22. In the case of ECIL Vs. B. Karunakar reported in 1993 (4) SCC 727, the Supreme Court after considering the several cases was pleased to hold that "it was only if the Court/Tribunal finds that the furnishing of the report "would have made a difference" to the result in the case that it should set aside the order of punishment."

23. The law laid down by the Supreme Court in the aforesaid case was again reiterated and followed in subsequent cases by the Supreme Court specially in the case of State Bank of Patiala Vs. S. K. Sharma reported in 1996 (3) SCC 364 :: 1996 SCC (L & S) 717 and M. C. Mehta V. Union of India reported in 1999 (6) SCC 237.

24. In Aligarh Muslim University Vs. Mansoor Ali Khan reported in (2000) 7 SCC 529, the Apex Court held that though the rules of natural justice have been violated but the order impugned cannot be set aside as no prejudice has been caused. Referring to several cases, and after considering the theory of "useless" or "empty formality" and noting "admitted or undisputed" facts, the Court held that the only conclusion which could be drawn was that " had the petitioner been given notice", it "would not have made any difference" and, hence, no prejudice has been caused.

25. In the case of Ajit Kumar Nag v. Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. reported in 2005 (7) SCC 764 :: 2005 SCC (L & S) 1020, it was held by the Supreme Court that principles of natural justice are not rigid or immutable hence they cannot be imprisoned in the strait-jacket formula. It was held by the Supreme Court that :-

"We are aware of the normal rule that a person must have a fair trial and a fair appeal and he cannot be asked to be satisfied with an unfair trial and a fair appeal. We are also conscious of the general principle that pre- decisional hearing is better and should always be preferred to post- decisional hearing. We are further aware that it has been stated that apart from Laws of Men, Laws of God also observe the rule of audi alteram partem. It has been stated that the first hearing in human history was given in the Garden of Eden. God did not pass sentence upon Adam and Eve before giving an opportunity to show cause as to why they had eaten the forbidden fruit. [See R. v. University of Cambridge, (1723) 1 Str 557 : 93 ER 698] But we are also aware that the principles of natural justice are not rigid or immutable and hence they cannot be imprisoned in a straitjacket. They must yield to and change with exigencies of situations. They must be confined within their limits and cannot be allowed to run wild. It has been stated: " `To do a great right' after all, it is permissible sometimes `to do a little wrong'." [Per Mukharji, C.J. In Charan Lal Sahu v. Union of India, 1990 (1) SCC 613 (Bhopal Gas Disaster), SCC p. 705, para 124.] While interpreting legal provisions, a court of law cannot be unmindful of the hard realities of life. In our opinion, the approach of the Court in dealing with such cases should be pragmatic rather than pedantic, realistic rather than doctrinaire, functional rather than formal and practical rather than precedential".

26. In the case of P.D. Agrawal v. State Bank of India & Ors. reported in 2006 (8) SCC 776 :: 2007 (1) SCC (L & S) 43, this Court restated the principles of natural justice and indicated that they are flexible and in the recent times, they had undergone a `sea change'. If there is no prejudice to the employee, an action cannot be set aside merely on the ground that no hearing was afforded before taking a decision by the authority.

27. The Supreme Court in the case of Ranjit Singh v. Union of India reported in 2006 (4) SCC 153 :: 2006 SCC (L & S) 631 referring to the relevant case-law, was pleased to held that :-

"In view of the aforementioned decisions of this Court, it is now well settled that the principles of natural justice were required to be complied with by the disciplinary authority. He was also required to apply his mind to the materials on record. The enquiry officer arrived at findings which were in favour of the appellant. Such findings were required (sic sought) to be overturned by the disciplinary authority. It is in that view of the matter, the power sought to be exercised by the disciplinary authority, although not as that of an Appellate Authority, but is akin thereto. The inquiry report was in favour of the appellant but the disciplinary authority proposed to differ with such conclusions and, thus, apart from complying with the principles of natural justice it was obligatory on his part, in the absence of any show-cause filed by the appellant, to analyse the materials on record afresh. It was all the more necessary because even CBI, after a thorough investigation in the matter, did not find any case against the appellant and thus, filed a closure report. It is, therefore, not a case where the appellant was exonerated by a criminal court after a full-fledged trial by giving benefit of doubt. It was also not a case where the appellant could be held guilty in the disciplinary proceedings applying the standard of proof as preponderance of the probability as contrasted with the standard of proof in a criminal trial i.e. proof beyond all reasonable doubt. When a final form was filed in favour of the appellant, CBI even did not find a prima facie case against him. The disciplinary authority in the aforementioned peculiar situation was obligated to apply its mind on the materials brought on record by the parties in the light of the findings arrived at by the inquiry officer. It should not have relied only on the reasons disclosed by him in his show-cause notice which, it will bear repetition to state, was only tentative in nature. As the Appellate Authority in arriving at its finding, laid emphasis on the fact that the appellant has not filed any objection to the show-cause notice; ordinarily, this Court would not have exercised its power of judicial review in such a matter, but the case in hand appears to be an exceptional one as the appellant was exonerated by the inquiry officer. He filed a show-cause but, albeit after some time the said cause was available with the disciplinary authority before he issued the order of dismissal. Even if he had prepared the order of dismissal, he could have considered the show-cause as he did not leave his office by then. The expression "communication" in respect of an order of dismissal or removal from service would mean that the same is served upon the delinquent officer". (See State of Punjab v. Amar Singh Harika reported in AIR 1966 SC 1313).

28. The Apex Court in the case of Haryana Financial Corporation and another Vs. Kailash Chandra Ahuja reported in (2008) 9 SCC 31 has considered in great detail the consequence of non-observance of principles of natural justice. The Apex Court has held that the recent trend of judgment is that unless prejudice is shown, the impugned order or action cannot be struck down. It has been observed as under:-

"The recent trend, however, is of "prejudice". Even in those cases where procedural requirements have not been complied with, the action has not been held ipso facto illegal, unlawful or void unless it is shown that non-observance had prejudicially affected the applicant.

In Malloch Vs. Abendeen Corpn., Lord Reid said : (All ER p. 1283a-b)

"....it was argued to have afforded a hearing to the applicant before dismissing him would have been a useless formality because whatever he might have said could have made no difference. If that could be clearly demonstrated it might be a good answer".

(emphasis supplied)

Lord Guest agreed with the above statement, went further and stated: (All ER p.1291b-c)

"...A great many arguments might have been put forward but if none of them had any chance of success then I can see no good reason why the respondents should have given the appellant a hearing, nor can I see that he was prejudiced in any way".

29. The Supreme Court in the case of Dharampal Satyapal Limited Vs. Deputy Commissioner of Central Excise, Gauhati and Others reported in (2015) 8 SCC 519 held as under :-

"there was no legal duty to supply a hearing if a hearing would not change the ultimate conclusion reached by the decision-maker.' In Dharampal (Supra), the Supreme Court, while answering the question whether recovery proceedings could be initiated without a show-cause notice under Section 11-A of the Excise Act which was mandatory, held that a show cause notice was required to be issued before passing an order of recovery irrespective of the fact whether Section 11-A of the Excise Act was attracted in the case and it was not open for the authorities to dispense with the requirement of the rules of natural justice on the presumption that no prejudice was to be caused to the aggrieved persons by not issuing a show cause notice. At the same time, the Supreme Court observed, that the courts were empowered to consider as to whether any purpose would be served in remanding the case keeping in mind whether any prejudice was caused to the person against whom the action was taken. In the aforesaid case, the Supreme Court, while holding that there was an infraction of the rules of natural justice refused to interfere on behalf of the assessee and remand back the matter to the concerned authority to take fresh decision after issuing a show cause notice to the assessee as such an exercise, in the facts of that case, would have been futile and no prejudice was caused to the assessee because of no show cause notice having been issued to him.

In this regard the relevant observations of the Supreme Court are reproduced below :-

" 11.2. Whether recovery proceedings can be initiated without show-cause notice under Section 11-A of the Excise Act, which is mandatory?

37. Therefore, we are inclined to hold that there was a requirement of issuance of show-cause notice by the Deputy Commissioner before passing the order of recovery, irrespective of the fact whether Section 11-A of the Act is attracted in the instant case or not.

39. We are not concerned with these aspects in the present case as the issue relates to giving of notice before taking action. While emphasizing that the principles of natural justice cannot be applied in straight-jacket formula, the aforesaid instances are given. We have highlighted the jurisprudential basis of adhering to the principles of natural justice which are grounded on the doctrine of procedural fairness, accuracy of outcome leading to general social goals, etc. Nevertheless, there may be situations wherein for some reason - perhaps because the evidence against the individual is thought to be utterly compelling - it is felt that a fair hearing 'would make no difference' - meaning that a hearing would not change the ultimate conclusion reached by the decision-maker - then no legal duty to supply a hearing arises. Such an approach was endorsed by Lord Wilberforce in Malloch v. Aberdeen Corporation, who said that:

'...A breach of procedure...cannot give (rise to) a remedy in the courts, unless behind it there is something of substance which has been lost by the failure. The court dos not act in vain'.

Relying on these comments, Brandon LJ opined in Cinnamond v. British Airports Authority that:

'...no one can complain of not being given an opportunity to make representations if such an opportunity would have availed him nothing'. In such situations, fair procedures appear to serve no purpose since 'right' result can be secured without according such treatment to the individual.

40. In this behalf, we need to notice one other exception which has been carved out to the aforesaid principle by the Courts. Even if it is found by the Court that there is a violation of principles of natural justice, the Courts have held that it may not be necessary to strike down the action and refer the matter back to the authorities to take fresh decision after complying with the procedural requirement in those cases where non-grant of hearing has not caused any prejudice to the person against whom the action is taken. Therefore, every violation of a facet of natural justice may not lead to the conclusion that order passed is always null and void. The validity of the order has to be decided on the touchstone of 'prejudice'. The ultimate test is always the same, viz., the test of prejudice or the test of fair hearing.

43. In view of the aforesaid enunciation of law, Mr Sorabjee may also be right in his submission that it was not open for the authority to dispense with the requirement of principles of natural justice on the presumption that no prejudice is going to be caused to the appellant since the judgment in R.C. Tobacco [(2005) 7 SCC 725] had closed all the windows for the appellant.

44. At the same time, it cannot be denied that as far as courts are concerned, they are empowered to consider as to whether any purpose would be served in remanding the case keeping in mind whether any prejudice is caused to the person against whom the action is taken. ....

45. Keeping in view the aforesaid principles in mind, even when we find that there is an infraction of principles of natural justice, we have to address a further question as to whether any purpose would be served in remitting the case to the authority to make fresh demand of amount recoverable, only after issuing notice to show cause to the appellant. In the facts of the present case, we find that such an exercise would be totally futile having regard to the law laid down by this Court in R.C. Tobacco [(2005) 7 SCC 725].

48. Therefore, on the facts of this case, we are of the opinion that non-issuance of notice before sending communication dated 23-6-2003 has not resulted in any prejudice to the appellant and it may not be feasible to direct the respondents to take fresh action after issuing notice as that would be a mere formality."

30. In the instant case as well, no purpose will be served in remitting the matter back to the authority for decision afresh after providing opportunity of hearing to the petitioner, in as much as the defect is incurable; no amount of explanation can change the ultimate result, being a fait accompli. The petitioner can by no means negate the admitted fact.

31. In view of the same, we are of the considered view that the order passed by the respondent no.4 dated 24.10.2017 does not call for any interference by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

32. The writ petition is devoid of merits and is accordingly dismissed.

33. No order as to costs.

A. The land Acquisition Act, 1894 - Section 11 - award – acquisition is final and conclusive - land acquired vests with the Government - No provision under the Land Acquisition Act or any other law which directs for re-conveyance of the acquired land to the tenure holders for any reason -Government Order supplements the statutory provisions - no overriding effect upon the statutory provisions - if the Act does not provide for the re-conveyance of the acquired land to the erstwhile owners for any reason, it cannot be done by means of a simple Government Order - Petitioner directed to pursue his remedy before the appropriate authority. (Para 9, 10 & 15)

Land acquired under the provision of the Land Acquisition Act not utilized by the Development Authority for the industrial purpose - Petitioner submitted representation before the Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority for the lease back of the land in view of the Government Order. (Para 2, 5 & 6)

Held: - No writ in the nature of mandamus can be issued to any authority to consider any claim set up by any person on the basis of a Government Order which is violative and contrary to the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act. (Para 12)

Writ Petition dismissed. (E-7)

List of cases cited: -

1. Ravindra Kumar Vs. District Magistrate, Agra and others, 2005 (2) AWC 1650

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Mithal, J.
Hon'ble Vivek Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Uma Nath Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondents No. 1 and 2.

2. The petitioner by means of this petition seeks a direction upon the respondent No.3 Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority to decide his representation dated 20.09.2013 for leasing out the land which was acquired from the petitioner in view of the Government Order dated 24.04.2010.

3. There is no dispute to the fact that the land of the petitioner, Khasra No. 356 area 1800 square meters situate in village Sakipur, Pargana Dadri, Tehsil Sadar, District Gautam Buddh Nagar, was acquired by the State of U.P. for the benefit of the Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority in accordance with the provisions of Land Acquisition Act.

4. In respect of the said acquisition, an award has also been pronounced under Section 11 of the Act and the acquisition is final and conclusive.

5. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the aforesaid land has not been utilized by the Development Authority for the industrial purpose and as such in view of the Government Order dated 24.04.2010, the petitioner is entitled for the lease back of the said land as has been done in the case of one Khajan Singh.

6. It is in respect of such lease back of the land that the petitioner has submitted the aforesaid representation.

7. The aforesaid Government Order provides that in view of public resentment against the acquisition in matters where de-notification of the land has been accepted, the acquired land may be given on lease to the tenure holders at the level of the authority on the approval of the Board.

8. The language of the aforesaid Government Order makes it clear that the lease back policy is applicable where proceedings for de-notification of the acquired land have been approved. In the case at hand, we do not find that there is any averment to the above effect so as to bestow the benefit of leasing out the acquired land in favour of the petitioner.

9. In addition to the above, there is no provision under the Land Acquisition Act or any other law which directs for re-conveyance of the acquired land to the tenure holders for any reason. The land which has been acquired vests with the Government and cannot be re-conveyed to the tenure holders in the absence of any provision in this regard in the concerned Statute.

10. It is well settled that a Government Order simply supplements the statutory provisions but has no overriding effect upon the statutory provisions. Thus, if the Act does not provide for the re-conveyance of the acquired land to the erstwhile owners for any reason, it cannot be done by means of a simple Government Order.

11. A Full Bench of this Court in the case of Ravindra Kumar Vs. District Magistrate, Agra and others, 2005 (2) AWC 1650, dealing with somewhat a similar controversy regarding a Government Order providing for employment to one of the family members of those whose land has been acquired, held that the Land Acquisition Act is a self-contained Code and any Government Order providing for any benefit not mentioned in the Act would be inconsistent with the intention of the Parliament and as such Government Order providing for such extra benefits would be violative of the Act and would be invalid.

12. It further held that no writ in the nature of mandamus can be issued to any authority to consider any claim set up by any person on the basis of a Government Order which is violative and contrary to the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act.

13. It is also pertinent to mention here that the petitioner is not entitle to any parity with the case of Khajan Singh as the principle of parity is not applicable where the benefit has been extended contrary to the law. There are no pleadings to the effect that the aforesaid Khajan Singh was given the benefit of the aforesaid Government Order as per law.

14. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, we do not find any merit in this petition for exercising the discretionary jurisdiction not even for directing to consider the representation of the petitioner.

15. Accordingly, the writ petition is dismissed with liberty to the petitioner to pursue his remedy before the appropriate authority.

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE RAMESH SINHA, J.
THE HON'BLE AJIT KUMAR, J.

Writ C No. 65211 of 2009

Narendra Giri Mahant ...Petitioner
Versus
Union of India & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Nisheeth Yadav, Sri C.B. Yadav, Sri Anand Kumar Yadav

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.S.G.I., Sri Pramod Kumar Singh, Sri Prashant Mathur, Sri Vinod Kumar Shukla, Sri Satish Kumar Rai

A. Sanction - Cantonments Act, 2006 - No development activity in the form of erection or re-erection of the building, even in respect of area in occupation of civilian if the land falls in the cantonment area, can be carried out except with the prior sanction of competent authority.

This implies that even in cases where there are temples in the defence area and are in occupancy of civilian or math or mahant for that matter, such math or mahant or civilian cannot carry out or undertake any exercise of erection or re-erection of the temple structure eve within the temple premises except with prior sanction of the competent authority under the Cantonment Act, 2006. The permission so granted in the present case in the year 2004 will automatically deemed to have seized with enforcement of the Cantonment Act, 2006. (Para 43 and 47)

Editor's note

The High Court has settled the legal position with respect to the right of an individual private person to raise construction over the land or in respect of building which is recorded in the GLR as a private land/building in occupation of a private individual either under lease or grant or mere occupancy before and after coming into force of Cantonments Act, 2006. Prior to the enforcement of Act of 2006, erection or re-erection of building in civil area requires sanction by the Cantonment Board, otherwise penal consequences follow (Sections 178A and 179 of Act of 1924). Pursuant to which vide letter dated 06.03.2004 the Board has granted permission/sanction to the Mahant of temple to carry out renovation or repair works only. The letter dated 06.03.2004 which is only a one-time measure cannot be read as to include the permission/sanction by the Board to raise new structures in the temple premises.

The Act of 2006 has widened the powers of the Board and authority designated thereunder. Now, the building erection or re-erection includes any material alterations or enlargement of any building and its existing structure. The Board has power to sanction the work of erection or re-erection which shall be valid for 2 years only from the date of sanction, extended only upon sanction by the Board. Penal consequences will be attracted in case of illegal erection or re-erection. This implies that even in respect of area in occupation of civilian if the land falls in the cantonment area then no development activity in the form of erection or re-erection of the building can be carried out except with prior sanction of the competent authority.

That even though the Board via letter dated 06.03.2004 has granted permission/sanction to repair and renovate the temple and not to raise new structures in it thereby invalidating all the permanent or temporary structures built beyond the temple premises (4335 Sq.Ft. as given in GLR and verified by spot inspection) , automatically becomes inoperative after the enforcement of Act of 2006.

1. Chief Executive Officer Vs. Surendra Kumar Vakil and ors (1993) SCC 555

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J.
Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri C.B.Yadav, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Nisheeth Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Parashant Mathur, learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 4, Sri S.K.Rai, learned counsel for respondent no. 3 and Sri P.K.Singh, learned counsel for respondent 1,2,5 and 6. and Sri Ajay Singh, learned Advocate who has placed before us the report and the survey map prepared by Prayagraj Development Authority today in a sealed cover. We have opened the sealed cover in Court and have perused. Survey map and report of measurement are taken on record. Sri Vikas Budhwar learned Advocate Commissioner who has submitted joint report with Mr. Kunal Shah, learned Advocate as directed by us, is also present.

2. The petitioner Narendra Giri before this Court claims to be Mahant of Sri Bare Hanuman Jee Temple just below the bandh and in close proximity of OD Fort, Allahabad, has approached this Court by means of this writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution against the order dated 19th November, 2009 issued by the Defence Estate Officer Allahabad Circle wherein direction has been issued to Mahant Narendra Giri to remove encroachment consisting of RCC foundation and Plinth Beam encroaching the Defence land measuring 2404.50 Sq. ft. within five days of the receipt of the notice/letter/order , failing which, necessary action is to be taken against the Mahant at his own risk and cost.

3. A detailed counter affidavit, supplementary counter affidavit have been filed by respondent no. 3, namely, Deference Estate Officer, Allahabad Circle and Chief Executive Officer, Allahabad respectively and rejoinder affidavit and supplementary rejoinder affidavit have also come to be filed by the petitioner and thus, pleadings have been exchanged in the matter.

4. Since, encroachment was seriously disputed by the Mahant, the rival parties have come up with their own measurement report of the alleged encroachment and the area in which temple situates, this Court passed a detailed order on 12.10.2019 directing for survey and measurement exercise and submission of report thereof in the presence of the independent Advocates Commissioners, by the Prayagraj Development Authority with the consent of the parties. The order dated 10.12.2019 passed by us is reproduced hereunder:

"1. Supplementary rejoinder affidavit has been filed today by Sri Nisheeth Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioners, which is taken on record.

2. Heard Sri C. B. Yadav, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Nisheeth Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Prashant Mathur, learned counsel for the respondent No.4 and Sri Pramod Kumar Singh, learned counsel appearing for respondent Nos.5 and 6.

3. In this petition, the petitioners are aggrieved against the action undertaken by the respondent Nos.3 and 4 by putting them to notice to remove certain encroachments/constructions around the main temple of Lord Mahabir (Hanuman) in the close vicinity of the fort, on the ground that these constructions are unauthorized one and have been carried out in an area which belongs to the defence force.

4. Assailing the notice, the argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner is that it is the respondents themselves who had sanctioned for construction vide letter dated 06.03.2004 addressed to the Divisional Commissioner in which the total area for which the construction was permitted stood as 6270 sq. feet as a land belonging to the temple and, therefore, the constructions that have been undertaken under the authority issued by the Defence Officer himself, the petitioner cannot be charged for raising any unauthorized constructions over the defence land.

5. A counter affidavit has been filed in the matter in which the respondents have admitted vide Annexure CA-1 issued by the Chief Executive Officer in which qua Survey No.94/71 the total area ad-measuring 4335 sq. feet have been shown to be belonging to the temple of Lord Mahabir (Hanuman) and termed as a private land vide G.L.R. No.94.

6. The counsel appearing for the respondents submits that the letter issued by the authority that is being relied upon by the petitioner was not issued by the competent authority to grant permission to carry out constructions and, it is contended, as per the Government's United Provinces Notifications dated 26.07.2016 it is the General Officer Commanding the Division, who can grant such sanctions. He has further taken us to the paragraph 15 in which it has been stated that unauthorized constructions have come up involving an area of 619.31 sq. feet on a land comprising Survey No.93 as well which, however, has been disputed by the petitioner in their rejoinder affidavit.

7. Both the rival parties have brought before this Court their own survey map on the basis of which they claim their respective stand to be correct. Since both the parties have annexed the map prepared by their own agency or authority and they stand contrary to each other, no definite conclusion can be drawn about the exact area in which the temple is situate and the area which is claimed or alleged to be having unauthorized constructions at the end of those who are taking care of the temple or are managing the affairs of the temple. In such a situation, therefore, to arrive at a definite conclusion as to whether the constructions have really been carried out in violation of the Rules and are liable to go for want of due sanction and further to ensure as to whether disputed constructions/encroachment is over an area beyond 4335 sq. feet that includes main temple, it is necessary that in the presence of both the rival parties and two Advocates to be nominated by this Court, a survey with accurate measurement of the land in question is carried out by an independent Government agency or its instrumentality.

8. At this stage, both the parties agreed for the survey and the measurement exercise of the land in question to be carried out by the Prayagraj Development Authority in presence of both the parties and also the two learned Advocates, namely, Sri Vikas Budhwar and Sri Kunal Shah.

9. In view of the above, we are issuing following directions:

(a) The Prayagraj Development Authority shall undertake to carry out measurement work through their skilled officers, of the main temple premises where Lord Mahabir (Hanuman) rests and shall prepare a map accordingly.

(b) The measurement shall be separately conducted of the area towards the east and west of the main temple including the constructed area with separate details of constructed area and the walls surrounding the open space as well and will prepare a map with accurate measurement accordingly.

(c) The survey and measurement exercise will also be carried out in respect of any temporary or permanent structure around the temple and its premises and a separate map thereof shall be prepared.

(d) The measurement shall clearly demarcate the main temple area, open area around the temple and constructed area around the temple.

(e) The entire constructions whether permanent or temporary around the main temple and the vacant land will be taken as disputed land except the main temple, so as to facilitate the measurement exercise.

(f) The map will clearly outline the limits of 4335 sq. feet area including the main temple and its structure in the centre of it.

(g) The report so prepared shall be duly signed by the authority preparing, official who carry out measurement exercise on the spot, the two learned Advocates appointed by the High Court and Officer of the respondent duly authorized for the said purpose as well as an authorized person of the petitioner in that behalf as well.

(h) The measurement will be carried out by 16.12.2019 as directed herein above from 02:00 p.m. onwards and report prepared by the officials of the Development Authority shall be submitted to this Court on or before 19.12.2019 in a sealed cover. The expenses shall be borne by the petitioner of the agency who shall carry out the measurement and the survey of the area as per our directions contained herein above.

(i) The temple will remain closed during measurement and survey. The District Magistrate as well as Inspector General of Police, Prayagraj Zone are directed to provide adequate security on the spot so that the measurement and survey work is carried out peacefully without any interference by a third party and the general people except the contesting parties, namely, the petitioner and the respondents, shall be kept away from the premises where the measurement exercise will be carried out as directed herein above.

(j) Learned Advocates Sri Vikash Budhwar and Sri Kunal Shah shall prepare a separate joint report under their signatures about the conduct of survey in their presence and the manner and method in which it has been carried out.

(k) The District Administration shall also ensure that learned Advocates Sri Vikas Budhwar and Sri Kunal Shah are escorted to the place in question for the exercise and are escorted back to their respective places and for that it will contact learned counsels through the Registrar (Protocol), High Court.

10. The Registrar General is directed to supply a complete set of entire pleadings of this case to both the learned Counsels within 48 hours and to communicate this order to the Secretary, Prayagraj Development Authority, District Magistrate, Prayagraj and Inspector General of Police, Prayagraj Zone within 48 hours to ensure the compliance. A copy of this order shall also be supplied to the learned Advocates Sri Vikas Budhwar and Sri Kunal Shah within 48 hours.

11. Put up this matter on 19th December, 2019."

5. In compliance of the aforesaid order, measurement exercise has been carried out by Prayargraj Development Authority with the help of their skilled men and in the presence of the Advocate Commissioners. The Advocate Commissioners have also submitted their report to this Court today and so also the Prayagraj Development Authority has submitted a detailed report and maps prepared by them on the scale given thereunder. We have shown map and records to the counsels of the respective parties and since map and report was prepared by the officials of the Prayagraj Development Authority in the presence of the authorized representatives of the parties, they have not disputed the same and admitted it to be correct report and agreed that Court may decide the matter taking judicial notice of the report and survey map.

6. Sri C.B.Yadav, learned Senior Advocate has agreed with report and submitted that area that have been shown in the map is in access to the area over which temple of Bade Hanuman Jee known as Mahavir Jee recorded in the General Land Register as Survey No. 71, as he has not disputed also CA-1 to the counter affidavit filed by respondent no. 3, wherein area of the temple recorded is 4335 Sq.ft. as a private land and the occupancy has been shown of the then Mahant Purushottam Giri.

7. The facts and controversy involved in the present case can be drawn in a narrow compass like this that temple of Mahavir Jee (Bade Hanuman Jee) is continued to be recorded as private land in the Defence area as Survey No. 71 in the General Land Register maintained by the Cantonment Board, Allahabad. The temple situates with Hanuman Jee resting under it (hereinafter referred to as temple) and the structure to that effect is not disputed. It so happened that one Arun Khanna, Army Colonel, it appears acting on behalf of the then Commander of the area, issued some letter to the Commissioner Allahabad Division, Allahabad on 06th March, 2004 according permission for renovation / repair of the Temple with condition that no new structure should be constructed and no construction should be done outside the area measuring 6270 Sq.ft. of GLR No. 94, Survey No. 71 recorded as land belonging to temple. It is claimed by Mahant that it is on account of this permission accorded on behalf of Commander that constructions have come. However, it appears that when constructions were in progress as late as in the year 2009 that notice was issued to the Mahant on 12th November, 2009 by the Administrative Officers for the Command that an unauthorized construction was being carried out near the temple in question and the land where constructions were being raised, was claimed to be Defence Land as per U.P. State Gazette Notification dated 28th July, 1916.

8. The notice was replied through Advocate by the Mahant vide letter dated 15.11.2009 claiming legal rights for carrying out constructions in the form of repair and renovation as per permission granted under the letter dated 6th March, 2004 by the then Colonel Arun Khanna. The reply was responded by the Colonel Pradeep Arora of the Command that permission granted was restricted to area of circle shown as Red in the map appended and the constructions that were being carried out were in fact in the area of the Defence land. Moreover, it was stated in the reply that permission was one time sanction for such an activity in the year 2004 and not to operate in perpetuity or ad-infinitum and it is thereafter finally order has come to be passed on 19th November, 2009, which is impugned in the present writ petition.

9. Thus issue involved in the present case is three fold: firstly:- whether the permission granted under the letter dated 06h March, 2004 can be said to be permission to raise new construction around temple area and was to operate in perpetuity; secondly:- (i) What exactly is the area of temple premises to be called as such and the exact area of main temple and; (ii) whether the constructions in dispute fall within the area of temple premises ? and thirdly any construction over a private land so registered/recorded in the GLR notified under the Cantonment Board, can be raised without prior sanction of the Cantonment Board or any competent authority in that behalf.

10. In so far as first and second issues are concerned, they are related to each other and so have to be dealt with together. From perusal of pleadings, we find that the permission that was accorded on behalf of Commander was specifically for renovation/repair of the temple with strict conditions that no new structure should be constructed and no constructions should be done outside the 6270 Sq.ft. area of the GLR No. 94, Survey No. 71 as a land belonging to the temple.

11. In order to find answer to the first issue whether the permission accorded under the letter dated 06th March, 2004, can be construed as only one time measurement and for a limited purpose or permission in perpetuity, it is necessary to appreciate the permission quoted under the letter dated 6th March, 2004 that runs as under:

"2. Permission is hereby accorded for renovation/repair of Hanuman Temple at Sangam with conditions that no new structure should be constructed and no construction should be done outside the 6270 Sq. ft area of GLR 94, Survey No. 71, the land belonging to the temple, and no portion of the renovation temple including the flag pole on top of the temple should be more than 52 ft from ground level."

12. From the words and expressions as have come up in the aforesaid letter, it is clearly deducible that permission was limited to the extent of renovation/repair of Hanuman temple with no permission for new structure and also no permission beyond the area 6270 Sq.ft. This letter is admitted to the petitioner and it is claimed that the constructions whatever have come up in the year 2009 were saved being within four corners of conditions mentioned in the letter. A bare reading of the aforesaid letter clearly shows that :

a. the permission was for renovation or repair of Hanuman Temple only;

b. no new structure was permitted to be constructed; and.

c. no construction should be done outside the area 6270 Sq.ft.

13. The words and expression "no construction should be done outside the 6270 Sq.ft and no new structure should be constructed" are to be reached in conjunction with permission for renovation and repair of Hanuman Temple. Thus, the permission accorded was to carry out renovation and repair work only qua Hanuman Temple structure and then any such renovation and repair work should not be done beyond the area of 6270 Sq.ft. provided their existed any such structure of the Hanuman Temple upto that area.

14. We have held in the preceding paragraph that it is difficult to find answer as to how new construction permanent in nature can be claimed to be permitted under the letter and in any view of the fact, no new construction was permitted, rather it was renovation and repair work only of Hanuman Temple was to be done and, for which, permission was accorded.

15. It appears that when petitioner started raising new constructions that the encroachment notice was issued on 12th November, 2009 and then in reply to that had been submitted by the petitioner on 15.11.2009, but we do not find any whisper in any of the paragraphs of the reply that construction was carried out in the form of repair or renovation work of Hanuman Temple. All that is claimed is that the activity was carried out per permission accorded under the letter dated 6th March, 2004 in the area surrounding the Hanuman Temple. Paragraph 1 to 7 of the reply of the petitioner dated 15.11.2009 (in the form of the notice) to letter dated 12th November, 2009 of administrative officer, is reproduced hereunder:

"1. That the Lord Bada Hanuman Temple a renounced Temple in religious field of the world. My client is seer of Lord Bada Hanuman Temple and is managing the entire affairs of the Temple. The Temple of Lord bada Hanuman is very much old, which history is not traceable. The Temple, aforestated, is situated in the bank of Triveni "SANGAM". Under the U.P. State Gazette Notification referred in the letter dated 12.11.2009 the construction is not permissible on the Defence land.

2. That in order to manage the affairs of the Temple and to allow the devotees to perform their rituals in around the Temple an area of 6270 Sq. ft. of GLR 94, Survey No. 71 has been carved out where temporary construction has already been made since long back.

3. That on account of huge rush of devotees, temporary structure was required to be repaired/renovated, and as such, permission of the same was accorded by the Head Quarter, Sub Area, Allahabad on 6.3.2004 by Sri Arun Khanna, Colonel by asking the Commissioner, Allahabad Division, Allahabad, Sri Dev Dutt. A copy of the letter dated 6.3.2004 is being enclosed with this notice as Annexure No. 1.

4. That on account of money crisis the renovation/repair of the surrounding of the Temple could not be done. However, devotees of Lord Hanuman finally donated certain money, for which my client has not thinks over the issue of the renovation/repair of the structures standing thereon.

5. That unfortunately even in religious place Cantonment Board, Allahabad has reported about unauthorized construction, factually which is not correct. Without examining the factors of construction, without taking into account the letter/permission accorded by Head Quarter of Sub Area, Allahabad about beatification of area of SANGAM and Re-construction of HANUMAN Temple, you, Naveen Thapa, Lt. Colonel issued this restrained order dated 12.11.2009 .A copy of the letter/restrained order dated 12.11.2009 is being enclosed with this notice as Annexure No. 2.

6. That my client has not violated any terms and conditions, referred in U.P. State Gazette Notification dated 28th July, 2016 as referred in the letter dated 12.11.2009. My client is intended to renovate/repair of the Lord Hanuman Temple and surrounding thereto, which is within the area of 6270 Sq. ft. of GLR 94, Survey No. 71 and not beyond that. For this renovation/repair of the Lord Hanuman Temple and surrounding thereto, permission has already been accorded on 6.3.2004 by Head Quarter, Sub Area, Allahabad. No construction beyond the permission accorded therein is being done by my client, but in the garb of the false report submission by Cantonment, Allahabad about unauthorized construction at Lord Hanuman Temple, the letter/restrained order has been issued on 12.11.2009.

7. That since no construction beyond the sanction accorded on 6.3.1994 is being done by my client, therefore, in view of the facts and circumstances as well as taking into account the religious field of the devotees visiting the Lord Bada Hanuman Temple everyday regularly and for their performance of Pooja etc. , you are hereby requested to kindly withdraw the restrained order/letter dated 12.11.2009 bearing no. 111185/Gen/Adm. And allow my client to start the renovation/repairing work of the Lord Hanuman Temple and surrounding thereto as per sanction accorded on 6.3.2004 and further be pleased to accept the blessing of the Lord Hanuman for yourself and family and also for the Nation."

16. We find above answer given to the effect that permission was only for the renovation and repair of the Hanuman Temple and not of any structure in any area surrounding the temple where it could have been claimed that there existed structure that also needed repair or renovation. It is also not the case of the petitioner in the pleadings raised in the writ petition either.

17. Thus the answer to the first issue is that the contents of the letter only establish a case of permission for repair/renovation as one time measure. The general rule in matters of sanction of map for new construction is also time bound. Even otherwise if structure has reached to a stage to be called as dilapidated, its renovation will always be a time bound activity and once a building is renovated/repaired, it may require only regular maintenance. This issue will be answered, partly with the third issue as well, later in this judgment.

18. In order to find answer to the second issue, we have to first determine part (i) of it, as to what is the exact area of the temple recorded as Survey No. 71 in the General Land Register maintained by the Cantonment Board. Annexure-CA-1 to the counter affidavit filed by respondent no. 3 shows the area of temple as 4335 Sq.ft. described as a temple of Mahabir, classified as a private land in the occupancy of the then Mahant Purushottam Giri. So it is an occupancy right qua temple land and only to the extent of an area of 4335 Sq.ft.

19. This Annexure CA-1 has come to be referred to in paragraph 4 of the counter affidavit and in pleadings in support thereof have been further raised in paragraph 5 and 6. Paragraphs 4,5 and 6 are quoted as under:

"4(CA). That at the out set it is submitted that the present petition filed by the petitioner is not maintainable as a bare perusal of GLR No. 94, Survey No. 71 reveals that the Mahant Purshottam Giri is holder of occupancy right of temple of Mahavir of 4335 Sq. fr. Area. The objection regarding mutation of the petitioner are already on record. Photostate copy of the GLR No. 94, Survey No. 71 is annexed herewith and marked as Annexure CA-01

5. That a bare perusal of the notice dated 19.11.2009 as issued from the office of Defence Estate Office and the notice issued from the Cantt. Board dated 18.11.2009 would reveal that the said encroachment is made on the defence land is on G.L.R. Survey No. 93 Fort Cantt. Allahabad which is classified B-4 land measuring about 76.65 Acres which in fact is an offence U/s 247 of the Cantt Act, 2006 and as such a show cause notice was issued from the office of Cantt. Board for the said alleged encroachment. Photostat copy of the notice No. E/Fort/BH/2009-2010/570 dated 18.11.2009 is annexed herewith and marked as Annexure CA-2.

A perusal of document filed in support of the claim of the petitioner reveals that a reference of GLR No. 94, Survey No. 71 is made by the petitioner, in fact as per the GLR entry of Survey No. 93 maintained with the Defence Estates Officer the same is classified as B-4 land consisting of area 76.65 acres of vacant (agricultural land)owned by the Government of India and is under the management of Military Estates Officer now known as Defence Estate Officer. Photostat copy of the GLR No. 93 including the site plan map of the encroached site is annexed herewith and marked as Annexure CA-3.

From the submission made above, it is thus abundantly clear that the present encroachment by way of pucca construction which is sought to be carried out by the petitioner is on Survey No. 93 for which suitable action was initiated by the deponent being Chief Executive Officer, Cantt. Board, Allahabad and not on GLR No. 94 Survey No. 71 as mentioned by the petitioner in the petition and in the supporting document.

6. That from the submission made above it is clear that the petitioner has no legal enforceable right to make any construction in the name of erection or re-erection of survey No. 94/71 and 93 as prayed through the present petition. The alleged permission dated 6.3.2004 on the basis of which the claim of the petitioner has been made is also about GLR No. 94 Survey No. 71 and not the GLR No. 93 for which the action for encroachment as contemplated under the Rules have been initiated by the respondent. The claim of the petitioner is thus devoid of any merits."

20. In the rejoinder affidavit in paragraph 3, it has been claimed in reply to the paragraph 4, that petitioner succeeded the earlier Mahant but the reply relevant to the issue is given in paragraph 4 of rejoinder affidavit. In said paragraph, it has been pleaded that temple area of

Bade Hanuman Jee is 6270 Sq. ft. as per the sanction accorded under the letter dated 06th March, 2004 and it is claimed that no construction has been raised beyond the area measuring 6270 Sq. ft. at any point of time by the management of the temple in question, so there is no encroachment as such. Paragraph 4 of the rejoinder affidavit is reproduced hereunder:

"4. That the contents of paragraph nos. 5 and 6 of the Counter Affidavit are total misconceived and the same stand denied. In reply thereto, it is submitted that the total area for part of GLR No. 94/71, recorded in the name of Bade Hanuman Ji Temple is 6270 Sq. Ft, and therefore, when the permission was sought by the Commissioner, Allahabad Division, Allahabad in order to beautify the area of Sangam and beautification of Hanuman Temple, permission was accorded on 06.03.2004 by Colonel Arun Khanna, indicating that no new construction could be constructed and no construction could be turned down outside 6270 Sq. ft. area of GLR Survey No. 71/94, the land belonging to the the temple. Thus, the entire allegation as referred in paragraphs of the Counter Affidavit that the land of Hanuman Temple is only 4335 Sq.ft., which is factually incorrect. As per permission no construction beyond 6270 Sq.ft has been acted upon at any point of time by the Management of Lord hanuman Temple. There is no encroachment at any point of time at present also. Therefore, the notice issued by the authorities without making proper inspection and measurement is factually illegal."

21. This paragraph 4 has been sworn on the basis of personal knowledge so naturally the personal knowledge is based only upon letter dated 06th March, 2004. It is a question to be enquired into on what ground this letter showed area of the temple as 6270 Sq.ft. against the area recorded in the GLR No. 94, Survey No. 71 as 4335 Sq.ft only. A short counter affidavit has come to be filed in the matter, this time on behalf of respondent no. 4, namely, Chief Executive Officer, Cantonment Board, Allahabad, in which vide paragraph 10, it has been stated that the permission dated 6th March, 2004 cannot constitute a legal permission as power to permit erection or re-erection lies with competent authority only, even in respect of property in occupancy of a civilian. It has been further reiterated that the area as recorded in the GLR No. 94, Survey No. 71 is not as claimed by the petitioner and so the permission granted under the letter dated 6th March, 2004 was not a permission either under the Cantonments Act nor, an exercise of power conferred upon the Defence Estate officer in that regard.

22. Reliance has been further placed in the counter affidavit (vide paragraph 11) upon the General Administration Department notification issued by the then Government of United Provinces on 26th July, 1916 that restrains any construction activity in the vicinity of the OD Fort in the Allahabad District within 1000 yards but for the permission to be accorded in writing with approval of the General Officer Commanding. The relevant clause 2 of the notification (supra) in its entirety is reproduced hereunder:

"In exercise of the power conveyed by section 3, sub section (1) of the Indian Works of Defence Act, 1903 (VII of 1903), His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of he United Provinces of Agra and Oudh is hereby pleaded to declare that it is necessary to impose restrictions upon the use and enjoyment of the lands in the vicinity of Allahabad Fort in the Allahabad district and which are more particularly set forth in the sketch plant of the land referred to, a copy of which has been deposited in the office of the Collector of the Allahabad district.

2. that, from and after the publication of the public notice mentioned in section 3, sub-section (2) of the said Act, the restrictions mentioned in section 7(a) and 7(b) of the said Act shall attach to the land within the said zone, lying within 1,000 yards from the orest of the glaois of the said fort, viz:-

(I) No verification shall be made in the ground level and no building, wall, bank, or other construction of permanent materials above the ground, shall be maintained, or erected, added to, or altered.

Provided that, with the written approval of the General Officer Commanding the Division, and on such conditions as he may prescribe, variation in ground level, huts, fences and other constructions of wood, or other materials, casily destroyed, or removal, may be maintained, erected, added to , or altered.

Provided that, with the general permission of the General Officer Commanding the Division, the railway authorities are exempted from this prohibition in respect of their beng allowed to load, unload and stak ovr the whole area such ballash, bricks, sleepers, or other materials as may be required from time to time for the construction or maintenance of the railway.

Provided, also, that any person having control of lands as owner, lessee, or occupier hall be bound forthwith to destroy or remove such huts, fences, or other constructions without compensation upon the order in writing signed by the General Officer Commanding the Division.

(ii) No wood, earth, stone, brick, gravel, sand, or other material shall be stacked, stored or otherwise accumulated.

Provided that, with the written approval of the General officer Commanding the Division and on such conditions as he may prescribed, road ballast, manure, and agricultural produce, may be erected from the prohibition.

Provided, also, that any person having control of the land as owner, lessee, or occupier shall be bound forthwith to remove such road ballast, manure or agricultural produce without compensation on the requisition of the General Officer Commanding the Division.

(iii) Live hedges, rows or clumps of trees, or orchards shall not be maintained places added to, or altered otherwise than with the written approval of the General Officer Commanding the Division and on such conditions as he may prescribe.

(iv) No surveying operations shall be conducted otherwise than by or under the personal supervision of a public servant duly authorisied in this behalf by the General Officer Commanding the Division, and

(v) where any building, wall, bank, or other construction above the ground has been permitted under this notification to be maintained, erected, added to, or altered, repairs shall not. Without the written approval of the General Officer Commanding the Division, be made with materials different in kind from those employed in the original building, wall, bank or other construction.

Provide further that nothing in this notification shall apply to existing buildings, entered in schedule "B" attached to the plan mentioned in paragraph 1 hereof, or to variations of ground level, banks, hedges, etc, so long as these remain unaltered as they exist on the date of this notification. "

23. In reply to the said paragraph in the supplementary rejoinder affidavit what has been stated is that there is no encroachment beyond the area shown in the GLR. Paragraph 10 of the short counter affidavit and reply thereof in paragraph 11 of the short rejoinder affidavit are reproduced hereunder:

"10 (SCA):- That in reply to the contents of para no. 8 of the rejoinder affidavit, the content of Para no. 11, 12 and13 of the counter affidavit are reiterated. The respondent most humbly submits that the contents of para under reply are with the sole intent to mislead to this Hon'ble Court in the light of the fact that the general officer commanding the division has not authority whatsoever vested in his offices to grant any permission whatsoever ."

"11. (SRA) That the contents of paragraph no. 7,8,9 and 10 of the Supplementary counter affidavit filed by respondent no. 4 are not admitted, in the manner, as stated, hence denied. It is submitted that the petitioner has not encroached the land either of Defence or Cantonment Board or any GLR beyond the private land allotted to the petitioner's temple rather the map, which has been filed alongwith the order dated 06.03.2004 clearly demonstrates the correct facts. Bhajan-Pravachan Hall already is in existence in 2004, in which much hue and cry has been made by the respondent no. 4 for fresh construction. It is factually incorrect, and therefore, the same is denied."

24. From the above discussions with reference to the pleadings of the respective parties, the admitted position comes to be that the land recorded in the GLR No. 94, survey no. 71 is taken to be the land over which temple in question is recorded with total area of 4335 Sq.ft. The petitioners have not come up with any such evidence to disprove that entry, rather they have come to admit the area recorded as property of temple and are only banking upon permission accorded under the letter dated 06th March, 2004 qua their rights to the extent of 6270 square meter.

25. From the legal provisions relied upon by the respondent as quoted hereinabove, it goes without saying that there has to be sanction of the Commander but sanction has to be read in respect of an area recorded in the GLR because sanction is given to civilian occupant in a defence area qua the property so recorded. The Hanuman Temple is recorded as private property in the occupancy of the then Mahant possibly from whom the present Mahant is claiming to be a descent. So there could not be any permission but for an area recorded in the occupation of civilian. This Court does not find any document to corroborate the area described under the letter dated 06th March, 2004 and fail to find any justification for mentioning the area as 6270 Sq.ft to carry out repair/renovation of temple as per GLR No. 94, survey no. 71 as a land belonging to the temple, opposed to the one recorded in the GLR. In the absence of any such record to corroborate the area under the sanction letter, the sanction granted under the order dated 06th March, 2004 cannot be said to be legal one qua an area beyond 4335 Sq.ft. Merely because sanction has been granted qua a particular mentioned area and which does not find support from the land register on which basis right is claimed, one cannot establish his rights or title, even in terms of possessory / occupancy rights on the basis of such letter or sanction. So therefore, we conclude and hold that temple premises is the area mentioned in the GLR and the petitioner could not have raised any construction temporary or permanent beyond the area of 4335 Sq.ft recorded as survey no. 71 of GLR No. 94 as temple in occupation of Mahant.

26. Coming to the part (ii) of the second issue qua the disputed constructions we proceed to examine whether the disputed constructions can be said to have come up beyond the area of the temple recorded in the GLR and whether constructions in question are in fact in the surrounding area within 4335 Sq.ft. or beyond that surrounding area of the temple. It is, therefore, also necessary to get the exact area of the temple and its structure. Since, now we have received survey map and measurement report conducted and prepared by the Prayagraj Development Authority in the presence of the respective parties and the Advocates Commissioner and that has not been disputed, it is this report that will give answer to the above issue.

27. Before, we proceed to examine the report, we would like to refer the Advocate Commissioners report submitted by Sri Vikas Budhwaar and Sri Kunal Shah, learned Advocates, in which, it has been stated that the survey exercise and measurement was concluded as per our order dated 6.12.2019. A hand written report which bears signatures of Pawan Kumar Shukla representative of Narendra Giri, Sri Amit Kumar Singh, Chief Executive Officer Cantonment Board, Sri Prashant Mathur, Advocate for Cantonment Board, Sri Rajiv Kumar Shukla, Sub Divisional Officer-II, Defence Estate Officer Allahabad Circle, Sri Pramod Kumar Singh, Ministry of Defence, Sri S.Thapa and Punjab Singh, representatives of OD Fort has been appended to the report of Advocate Commissioners dated 16.12.2019 that runs as under:.

"Spot Inspection Report dated 16.12.2019

In compliance of the order dated 10.12.2019 passed by Hon'ble High Court in Civil Misc. Writ Petition NO. 65211 of 2019 (Narendra Giri Mahant of Bade Hanuman Ji Temple Vs. U.O.I. & Others)

We Vikas Budhwar, Advocate and Kunal Shah in the capacity of Court appointed Advocate Commissioner reached the site being the Temple at 1:50 P.M. On 16.12.2019.

At the site when the survey/measurement activity was to be carried out Sri Pawan Kumar Shukla who was identified by the (petitioner-Mahant namely Shri Narendra Giri) and nominated as his representative for survey, Sri Amit Kumar Mane Chief Executive Officer, Cantonment Board along with his counsel Sri Prashant Mathur, Advocate for Cantonment Board were also present. Also present were Sri Rajiv Kumar Shukla Sub Divisional Officer-II Defence Estate Officer, Allahabad Circle, Advocate Pramod Kumar Singh for Ministry of Defence, Sri S. Thapa along with Punjab Singh for OD Fort were also present.

To carry out the measurement/survey activity the following officers of the Prayagraj Development Authority were present.

i. Sri Dayanand Prasad Secretary PDA

ii. Sri. S.D.Sharma ` Executive Engineer PDA

iii. Sri T.P.Sngh Town Planner PDA

iv. Smt. Archana Ojha Tehsildar PDA

v. Sri R.S. Verma L.O. PDA

The measurement activity was commenced at 2:30 P.M. In compliance of the order of the High Court.

Firstly, the measurement of Main Temple premise was undertaken. The measurement were arrived at and reported/recorded in presence of concerned party by P.D.A.

Thereafter, the measurment of the area towards the east of the temple was carried out and the details of the measurements were recorded/reported in the presence of the concerned party by PDA

The measurement of temporary/permanent structure towards the east of the temple were carried out separately in presence of parties.

Thereafter the measurement of the area towards the west of the main temple was carried and details of permanent and temporary existing towards the west of the temple was recorded by the official of P.D.A. in presence of concerned party.

Likewise, measurement towards the north & the south of the temple was also carried out in the presence of parties by P.D.A.

The survey exercise/measurement was concluded at 3:55 P.M. The entire exercise of measurement was carried out in a peaceful environment. No dispute of any nature arose from any of the fraction. The parties were satisfied with the measurement/survey.

The District Administration had provided adequate security at the site which ensured peaceful execution of measurement/survey.

In compliance of the order dated 10.12.2019 passed by the Hon'ble High Court the undersigned has prepared this joint spot inspection report detailing the manner in which the survey activity was carried out.

Further with the consent of the parties the measurement so recorded by the PDA on 16.12.2019 has been forwarded for computerized development i.e. Map etc. detailing the measurement, construction existing at the spot to PDA which will develop the same by tomorrow i.e. 17.12.2019 as due to paucity of time instant development cannot be done.

The joint inspection report will be followed by a typed and detail report by the Advocate Commissioner."

28. Now the detailed typed joint report of the Advocate Commissioners that runs in seven paragraphs is reproduced hereunder:

"1. That as per the order dated 16.12.2019 passed in w.p. no. 65211 of 2009 being Narendra Giri Vs. Union of India and other the spot inspection was conducted on 16.12.2019 in the presence of the following parties.

I. Pawan Kumar Shukla (representaive of Narendra Giri),

ii. Sri Amit Kumar Mane (Chief Executive Officer Cantonment Board);

iii. Sri Prashant Mathur (Advocate for Cantonment Board);

iv. Sri Rajiv Kumar Shukla (Sub Divisional Officer-II Defence Estate Officer, Allahabad Circle);

v. Sri Pramod Kumar Singh (Ministry of Defence);

vi. Sri. S. Thapa; and

vii. Punjab Singh (representtive of OD Fort).

The measurement was carried out by the following officials of Prayagraj Development Authority:

1. Sri Dayanand Prasad (Secretary PDA);

ii. Sri S.D. Sharma (Executive Engineer PDA);

iii. Sri T.P.Singh (Town Planner PDA);

iv. Smt. Archana Ojha (Tehsildar PDA); and

v. Sri R.S. Verma (Law Officer PDA)

2. That the measurement activity commenced on 2:30 P.M. And concluded at 3:55 P.M. On 16.12.2019.

3. That the measurement activity commenced in the following manner.

a. Firstly, the measurement of Main Temple premise was undertaken. The measurement were arrived at and reported/recorded in presence of concerned party by P.D.A.

b. Thereafter, the measurement of the area towards the east of the temple was carried out and the details of the measurement were recorded/reported in the presence of the concerned party by P.D.A.

c. The measurement of temporary/permanent structure towards the east of the temple were carried out separately in presence of parties.

d. Thereafter the measurement of the area towards the west of the main temple was carried and details of permanent and temporary existing towards the west of the temple was recorded by the official of P.D.A in presence of concerned party.

e. Thereafter measurement towards the north and the south of the temple was also carried out in the presence of parties by P.D.A.

4. That the entire exercise of measurement was carried out in a peaceful environment. No dispute of any nature arose from any of the fraction. The parties were satisfied with the measurement/survey.

5. That after the completion of the measurement/survey when the stage of preparation of the map giving the outline with regard to the area/measurement and the temporary/permanent construction so existing was to be reflected in the map which was to be prepared then the officials of P.D.A. Apprized the parties including the advocate commissioner's so appointed by the Hon'ble High Court of Judicature at Allahabad that it is not possible to make the map immediately on the site in question as it will require sufficient time to sketch the map and to identify the permanent and temporary constructions including the measurement so recorded therein.

6. That accordingly the officers of the P.D.A. Apprised the parties including the Advocate Commissioner's that the map will be provided by 17.12.2019.

7. That a specific query was raised by the advocate commissioner before the parties concerned as to whether they have any objection to the same that the map will be prepared subsequently and it cannot be prepared over the site in question, then the respective parties including their representatives and counsels apprised the advocate commissioner that they have no objection as the measurements were taken in their presence and they were satisfied with the measurement which had been recorded.

8. That the said fact which transpired during the entire exercise conducted on 16.12.2019 was recorded in the spot inspection report dated 16.12.2019 which was signed by the respective parties and their representatives.

9. That on 16.12.2019 the officials of the PDA assured that they will provide the map containing the measurements and the nature of the constructions existing on the site in question by 17.12.2019 but the same has not been provided . Thus the map is not being appended alongwith the compliance affidavit.

10. That for the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court the following documents are being submitted before the Hon'ble Court in purported compliance of the order dated 10.12.2019 passed in W.P. No. 65211 of 2009 which are as under:

I. (Hand Writing) Spot Inspection Report dated 16.12.2019 (containing 3 pages);

ii. Typed copy of spot Inspection Report dated 16.12.2019 (containing 4 pages); and 11. That the present spot inspection report along with the annexures are being filed before this Hon'ble Court in compliance of the order dated 10.12.2019 passed in the aforesaid writ petition the same may be kept and be treated as part of the record."

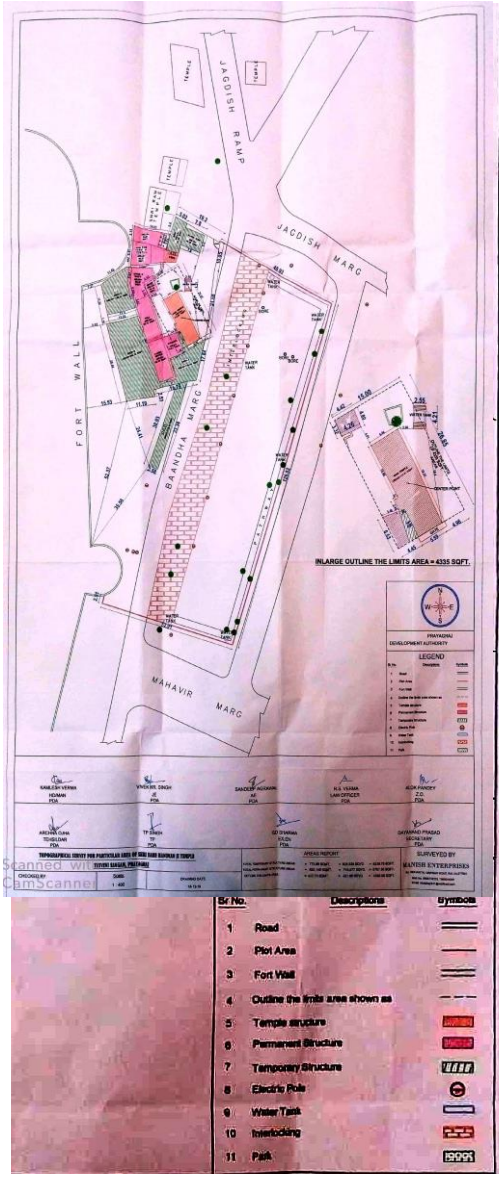
29. Now, we proceed to examine the survey report of Prayagraj Development Authority placed before us in sealed cover by learned counsel appearing for Prayagraj Development Authority. As we go through the survey report, we find that the area which has been outlined with dotted dash shown in the 'legend' as outline of the area of the main temple and surrounding in total as 4335 Sq.ft. with width shown to be 15 meters and the length as 26.85 mt, totaling to 402.75 Sq.mt. (approx 4335 Sq.ft.), wherein a part of the back of the varandah on western south is within the area of 4335 Sq.ft. and so also part of the office area on western north is also shown inside the temple premises. The permanent structure that have been shown with red shaded lines are disputed permanent constructions and mostly beyond the area of 4335 Sq.ft. This constructed area includes the flower center area 85.18 Sq.Mt. (approx 916.366 square ft.) and office and shops area 86.30 Sq.mt. (approx 928.95 Sq.ft.) with exception to certain area of varandah and office referred to above. Sri Ram Janki Temple area 59.57 Sq.mt. (approx 642,25 Sq.ft.) then further construction have been carried out of another Sri Hanuman Jee temple with an area to the tune 5.42 Sq.mt. (approx 578.88 Sq.ft.)

30. The temporary structure (shown with green shaded lines) as Hawan Kund Shed area to the extent of 48.36 square meter (approx 520.30 Sq.ft.) and 53.99. square meter (approx 580.82 Sq.ft.) towards north east of the temple premises. Yet another shed has come up in the south as 115.16 square meters (approx 10238.89 Sq.ft.) south. All these structures are shown as green shaded area and are referred to as temporary structure.

31. None of the respective parties have disputed this above measurement exercise nor, put any objection to the survey map and measurement report prepared by P.D.A.

32. The scanned print of the map with measurement details submitted by PDA and referred to above is reproduced hereunder:



33. Since above measurement report and the map have not been disputed by any of the counsels of the respective parties, it is taken to be admitted. Thus the report is found prepared on the spot without any dispute and objection. Accordingly, the ultimate and inevitable conclusion drawn by us is as under:

a. The main temple area where Hanuman Jee rests and structure above stands is 113,91 Sq.mt. (approx 1,225.44 Sq.ft.)

b. Temple premises is the area that includes temple structure (113,91 Sq.mt.) and the surroundings is 4335 Sq.ft (approx 402.75 Sq. mt.)

c. Except for a part of area of office (west north corner) and part of Verandah (west south corner) of temple premises, the entire constructions shown with red shaded lines are unauthorized constructions.

(i) Part of office area inside premises is 14.143 square meter (approximately 152.152 Sq.ft).

(ii) Part of varandah with additional temporary structure inside the premises is 16.062 Sq.mt. (approximately 172.81 Sq.ft.)

d. Since permission under the letter dated 6th March, 2004 was only for renovation and repair of temple, it would mean only the main temple and the surrounding, shown in the survey map/ report prepared by the PDA, with dotted lines were open space is available and should continue to remain open space upto the extent of 4335 Sq.ft..

e. the words renovation and repair in the letter dated 06.03.2004 can only mean improvement upon and retaining the existing structure and not a permission for creating any new structure.

f. there is no pleading by the petitioner that there existed any structure permanent or temporary except main temple within an area of 4335 Sq.ft.

described as Temple of Mahbir Jee in the GLR.

34. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also not sought any time to raise any objection and rather has made a request that after measurement exercise was carried out on the spot in the presence of representatives of Mahant of temple on 16th December, 2019 and since the permanent structure shown with red shaded lines has been found beyond the area shown in the GLR as 4335 Sq.ft. the Mahant has applied to the Ministry of Defence, Government of India on 18.12.2019 to regularize the constructions that have come up beyond the area 4335 Sq.ft. and so the structure that have already come up over the land which is a Defence land quite beyond the area of the private land of the temple, may not be demolished until decision is taken by the Government of India.

35. However, no such letter has been placed before this Court, so it can be safely concluded with the admission of respective parties that except for certain area of the office and verandah and office towards west-south and the west north respectively of the temple premises, the entire constructions that are permanent in nature, beyond the temple premises (4335 Sq.ft.) are upon the Defence land and as such constructions, therefore, are liable to go. Except for transfer of land by Ministry of Defence, Government of India to the temple management, the constructions cannot be taken/deemed to be regularized and since as on date there is no such permission accorded qua permanent constructions beyond the area of 4335 Sq. ft. of the Hanuman Temple and its premises, such constructions deserve to be demolished.

36. Now, we take up the third issue which is regarding rights of an individual private person to raise construction over the land or in respect of the building which is recorded in the GLR as a private land/ building in occupation of a private individual either under lease or grant or a mere occupancy prior to the coming into force of Cantonments Act, 2006. Till 14.09.2006, the Cantonments Act, 1924 was in promulgation with regard to the development activity in the area notified as an cantonment area. It is the authority created under the Cantonments Act and the Board constituted thereunder exercise same power as by a municipality in a civil municipal area.

37. Section 178-A provides for sanction of the construction in the name of erection or re-erection of a building in a civil area only. There is previous sanction of the Executive Officer and then any exercise of erection or re-erection without sanction has been described as punishable offence in view of section 179 of the Act of 1924. Section 178 A and 179 of the Act of 1924 are reproduced hereunder:

"CHAPTER XI

Control Over Building, Streets, Boundaries, Trees, Etc. Buildings

178-A. Sanction for building:-

No person shall erect or re-erect a building on any land in a cantonment-

(a) in an area, other than the civil area, except with the previous sanction of the Board,

(b) in a civil area, except with the previous sanction of the Executive Officer, nor otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter and of the rules and bye-laws made under this Act relating to the erection and re-erection of buildings.

179. Notice of new buildings-

:-1. Whoever intends to erect or re-erect any building in a cantonment shall apply for sanction by giving notice] in writing of his intention,- a). Where such erection or re-erection is in an area, other than the civil area, to the Board;

b). Where such erection or re-erection is in a civil area to the Executive Officer:)

(2) For the purposes of this Act, a person shall be deemed to erect or re-erect a building who-

(a) makes any material alteration or enlargement of any building, or

(b) converts into a place for human habitation any building not originally constructed for that purpose, or

(c) converts into more than one place for human habitation a building originally constructed as one such place, or

(d) converts two or more places of human habitation into a greater number of such places, or

(e) converts into a stable, cattle-shed or cowhides any building originally constructed for human habitation, or

(ee) convets into a dispensary, stall, shop, warehouse, godown, factory or garage any building originally constructed for human habitation, or

(f) makes any alteration which there is reason to believe is likely to affect prejudicial the stability or safety of any building or the condition of any building in respect of drainage, sanitation or hygiene, or

(g) makes any alteration to any building which increases or diminishes the height of, or area covered by, or the cubic capacity of, the building, or which reduces the cubic capacity of any room in the building below the minimum prescribed by any bye-law made under this Act.

180A -SECTION 180A: POWER OF BOARD UNDER CERTAIN SECTIONS EXERCISABLE BY EXECUTIVE OFFICER:-

The powers, duties and functions of the Board under section 181, sub-section (1) of section 182, section 183-A and section 185 (excluding the proviso to sub-section (1) and the proviso to sub-section (2) of the said section 185) shall be exercised or discharged in a civil area by the Executive Officer."

38. In the present case the issue is of sanction quoted in the year 2004 as no erection or re-erection could have been carried out without sanction and so to the extent of renovation/repair permission so granted under the letter dated 6th March, 2004 could have been pressed into service as one time measure. Now with enforcement of the Cantonments Act, 2006 with its publication on 14.09.2006 any development activity in respect of civil occupancy building or land, the provisions of 2006 Act would be applicable and so also in the present case as notice is qua constructions carried in the year 2009.

39. We find that notice was issued in the year 2009 and, therefore, it has to be seen as to whether respondent had any authority to carry out any development activity in the form of raising permanent structure or construction over and above the land inclusive of the temple premises without prior sanction of the competent authority.

40. From the reading of the various provisions of Chapter IX,X and XI of the Cantonments Act, 2006, we find that the powers of the Cantonment Board and authority designated thereunder have been quite widened and are more akin to the municipal functions. Chapter (X) deals with town planning and control over the building etc. Section 233 provides for preparation of plan for the land use in the cantonment area and Section 233 provides for sanction of building. Section 235 provides for notice by the person who wants to erect or re-erect or repair the building. Section 233 requires a person to notify the purpose and then powers lies with the Board / Authority to sanction or refuse sanction and the Board reserves the right to order stoppage of building work in certain cases; then Section 242 provides for completion of erection or re-erection of the building and to give completion notice and then Section 243 provides for prescribed period of limitation for sanction to follow and if within the prescribed period of 2 years, no construction/ re-erection has taken place, a further application for extension of time shall be given to the competent authority, namely, Board or executive officer as the case may be. The Board also reserves power under Section 245 to prescribe a reasonable period within which work has to be completed then completion certificate is issued under Section 246 and under Section 247 notice is given where illegal erection or re-erection of building is carried out and then Section 248 gives power to stop the work and even order for demolition .Section 249 also provides for to seal an unauthorized construction and then Section 250 bars the jurisdiction of Civil Court in such matters.

Section 235 of the Cantonments Act, 2006 defines erection or re-erection vide sub-section 2 as under:

"(2) For the purposes of this Act, a person shall be deemed to erect or re-erect a building who-

(a) makes any material alteration or enlargement of any building; or

(b) converts into a place for human habitation any building not originally constructed for human habitation; or

(c) converts into more than one place for human habitation a building originally constructed as one such place; or

(d) converts two or more places of human habitation into a greater number of such places; or

(e) converts into a stable, cattle-shed or cow- house any building originally constructed for human habitation; or

(f) converts into a dispensary, stall, shops, warehouse, godown, factory or garage any building originally constructed for human habitation; or

(g) makes any alteration which there is reason to believe is likely to affect prejudicially the stability or safety of any building or the condition of any building in respect of drainage, sanitation or hygiene; or

(h) makes any alteration to any building which increases or diminishes the height of, or area covered by, or the cubic capacity of, the building, or which reduces the cubic capacity of any room in the building below the minimum prescribed by any bye- law made under this Act."

(emphasis added)

41. From perusal of the above, therefore, it is clear that building erection or re-erection will include any material alteration or enlargement of any building and its existing structure. Then we find that Section 243 provides that sanction of erection or re-erection of building shall be only for 2 years from the date of sanction and if work is not carried out during this period, one can apply to the Board or executive officer as the case may be, and in case if construction of building has been started but could not be completed within specified reasonable period as may be provided by executive officer or the board then such construction work will not be continued unless prior sanction is obtained.

42. Section 247 provides for punishment against the person who continues or completes erection or re-erection of the building without giving any valid notice as required by Section 235 and 236 or before any sanction has been issued or without complying with direction as contained under Section 238 and also in cases where sanction has been refused and yet construction work is being carried out. Section 247 and Section 248 and 249 relevant for the purpose, are reproduced hereunder:

"247. Illegal erection and re-erection- Whoever begins, continues or completes the erection or re-erection of a building-

(a) without having given a valid notice as required by sections 235 and 236, or before the building has been sanctioned or is deemed to have been sanctioned; or

(b) without complying with any direction made under sub-section (1) of section 238; or

(c) when sanction has been refused, or has ceased to be available or has been suspended by the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, the Command, under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 58, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty thousand rupees and the cost of sealing the illegal construction and its demolition.

248. Power to stop erection or re-erection or to demolish:-(1) A Board may, at any time, by notice in writing, direct the owner, lessee or occupier of any land in the cantonment to stop the erection or re-erection of a building in any case in which the Board considers that such erection or re-erection is an offence under section 247 and may, in any such case or in any other case in which the Board considers that the erection or re-erection of a building is an offence under section 247, within twelve months of the completion of such erection or re-erection in like manner, direct the alteration or demolition, as it thinks necessary, of the building, or any part t hereof, so erected or re-erected:

Provided that the Board may, instead of requiring the alteration or demolition of any such building or part thereof, accept by way of composition such sum as it thinks reasonable:

Provided further that the Board shall not, without the previous concurrence of the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, the Command, accept any sum by way of composition under the foregoing proviso in respect of any building OR land which is not under the management of the Board.

(2) A Board shall by notice in writing direct the owner, lessee or occupier of any land in the cantonment to stop the erection or re-erection of a building in any case in which the order under section 238 sanctioning the erection or re-erection has been suspended by the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, the Command, under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 58, and shall in any such case in like manner direct the demolition or alteration, as the case may be, of the building or any part thereof so erected or re-erected where the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, the Command, thereafter directs that the order of the Board sanctioning the erection or re-erection of the building shall not be carried into effect or shall be carried into effect with modifications specified by him:

Provided that the Board shall pay to the owner of the building compensation for any loss actually incurred by him in consequence of the demolition or alteration of any building which has been erected or re-erected prior to the date on which the order of the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, the Command, has been communicated to him.

249. Power to seal unauthorized constructions:-(1) It shall be lawful for the Chief Executive Officer, at any time, before or after making an order of demolition under section 248 or of the stoppage of erection of any building, or execution of any work, to make an order directing the sealing of such erection or work or of the premises in which such erection or work is being carried on or has been completed at the cost of the offender in such manner as may be prescribed by rules for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Act or for preventing any dispute as to the nature and extent of such erection or work.

(2) Where any erection or work or any premises in which any erection or work is being carried on, has or, has been sealed, the Chief Executive Officer may, for the purpose of demolishing such erection or work in accordance with the provisions of this Act, order such seal to be removed.

(3) No person shall remove such seal except--

(a) under an order made by the Chief Executive Officer under sub-section (2); or

(b) under an order of an appellate authority in an appeal made under this Act.

(4) Any person who contravenes the provisions contained in sub-section (3) shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to six months or with fine which may extend to twenty thousand rupees, or with both."

(emphasis added)

43. From reading of the above provisions, it is absolutely clear that even in respect of area in occupation of civilian if the land falls in the cantonment area then no development activity in the form of erection or re-erection of the building can be carried out except with prior sanction of the competent authority. So even in cases where there are temples in the defence area and are in occupancy of civilian or math or mahant for that matter, such math or mahant or civilian cannot carry out or undertake any exercise of erection or re-erection of the temple structure even within temple premises except with prior sanction of the competent authority under the Cantonments Act, 2006. The permission so granted in the present case in the year 2004 will automatically deemed to have seized with enforcement of Cantonments Act, 2006 and any construction in the name of erection or re-erection of the temple structure even in the temple premises could not have been carried out except with prior sanction and permission of the competent authority under the Cantonments Act, 2006.

44. Besides above the Cantonments Act, 2006 does not abolish or repeal the notification of the Government of United Provinces dated 26th July, 1916 that is a special notification restraining construction activity in the vicinity of the ordinance depot fort, Allahabad to wit, within 1000 yards except with prior sanction of the General Officer Commanding of the Division.

45. In the present case, we do not find that any such sanction has been accorded to the petitioner to raise new construction or raise any permanent structure removing old one within the area of the 1000 yards from the wall of the OD Fort except direction/ letter dated 6th March, 2004 for repair or renovation. So answer to the 3rd question is that no construction and no development activity in the name of raising construction or re-erection of a building as defined under Section 235 (2) (a)(g)(h) can be carried out except with prior sanction of the competent authority under Cantonments Act, 2006 and that too in the close vicinity of the fort i.e. 1000 yards from the fort wall as per notification of 1916 (supra). The survey map and report (supra) submitted in this case clearly shows that permanent structures/constructions have come up in various forms within 1000 yards of the Fort.

46. The survey report and the discussions held above give ample answer to the second querry because there is no permission accorded by the competent authority of the Cantonment Board to raise constructions over and above the Defence land at all. The permission under the letter dated 6th March, 2004 cannot be read as permission to raise construction over and above the Defence land.

47. In the present case, we find that area where temple situate is a Defence land, the Mahant of Hanuman temple is a mere occupant of the temple which is recorded as private land. Any development activity, therefore, in and around the temple within the temple premises will be in the nature of altering the structure and if to be carried out, it necessarily requires prior permission from the competent authority of the Cantonment Board. As far as notification of the Government of United Provinces referred to in the counter affidavit dated 26th July, 1916 appended with counter affidavit is concerned, it clearly goes to demonstrate that no such activity can be carried out within 1000 yards from the orest of the glaois of the OD Fort.

48. The measurement that has been carried out and the map prepared clearly show that the constructions have been carried out only within the limit of 1000 yards of the Fort wall and therefore, constructions are held to be illegal for want of sanction of the competent authority.

49. The Apex Court in the case of Chief Executive Officer v. Surendra Kumar Vakil and Others (1993) SCC 555 has clearly held that even in respect of private land of which civilian could be a grantee or a lessee any construction can be carried out only with prior sanction of the competent authority and if no such sanction has been obtained, such authority is well within its right not only to question the same but order for removal /demolition and if occupier does not demolish such constructions voluntarily, the authority can get that demolished at the cost of the occupant.

50. At this stage, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner Sri C.B.Yadav submits that since constructions have been found to be beyond area of 4335 Sq.ft. recorded in the GLR No. 94 and Survey No. 71 as per the measurement exercise carried out by the Prayagraj Development Authority in the presence of the representatives of the petitioner and the officers concerned, and the report has been prepared to that count, Mahant has applied on 18.12.2019 for grant of sanction/ regularization of the existing structure and the Magh Mela is shortly to be organized in the area, some reasonable time may be allowed to remove the standing constructions in questions shown as red shaded, beyond the area of 4335 Sq.ft recorded as private land of Hanuman Temple premises in question.

51. To the above request, learned counsel for the respondents has no objection and we also find that since Magh Mela is shortly to begin, it would be in the public interest to grant sufficient time to the petitioner to remove unauthorized constructions.

52. In view of above, therefore, we hereby direct that petitioner shall remove all the constructions permanent and temporary beyond the area 4335 Sq.ft.. shown in the map prepared by the Prayagraj Development Authority (supra) within a period of three months from today and positively by 19th of March, 2020, failing which it would be open for the respondent to carry out necessary exercise for removal of the unauthorized constructions.

53. Writ petition thus stands disposed of with the aforesaid observations and directions.

54. The registry is directed to supply certified copy of the survey map and the report to the respective parties, if they apply for the same.

55. However, before we part with the case, we may record our appreciation for the tremendous task undertaken by the Advocate Commissioners in rendering their assistance in the matter by preparing spot inspection report quite meticulously in respect of the inspection carried out by the Prayagraj Development Authority.

C.S.C., Sri Shivam Yadav

A. Compensation - Land Acquisition - in view of the Full Bench decision in Gajraj Singh case, petitioners have received compensation amount as also the additional compensation at the rate of 64.70%, however they are seeking direction for allotment of developed abadi plot to the extent of 10% of their acquired land - whether the petitioners who were neither parties in the writ petitions which had been decided along with the Gajraj Singh case nor had their land been acquired under the notifications which were subject matter of challenge in the Gajraj Singh case and connected matters can claim allotment of developed abadi plot to the extent of 10% of their acquired land.

The directions issued by the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh under paragraph 482(4) in terms of which the authority was to take a decision as to whether benefit of additional compensation and allotment of abadi plot to the extent of 10% was to be given, was confined to those land holders whose writ petitions challenging the notification has been dismissed earlier and to those who had not approached the court to challenge the notifications which were subject matter of challenge in the writ petitions decided along with the case of Gajraj Singh. The directions had been made in view of the peculiar facts of the case having regard to the extensive development which had taken place subsequent to the acquisition proceedings and thereafter the Supreme Court in the case of Savitri Devi had made it clear that the directions issued by the Full Bench shall not be treated as precedent in future cases. (Para 26)

The directions under paragraph 482(4) of the judgment aforesaid were not in respect of those persons such as the petitioners in the present case whose land had been acquired in terms of notifications which were not subject matter of challenge in the case of Gajraj Singh and connected matters. Thus the decision of not giving additional developed abadi land to the persons such as petitions cannot be held to be either arbitrary or discriminatory, more so, when the said decision was based on the reasoning that the authority had not developed land to allot to these landowners. (Para 27)

B. Land Acquisition Act - right to claim additional benefit in lieu of acquisition of land - repelled in the case of Ravindra Kumar by Full Bench.

Land Acquisition is a self-contained Code providing the procedure to be followed for acquisition as well as for assessment of the valuation and payment of fair and just compensation to the persons whose and were acquired and in the absence of any statutory provision no other claim can be raised as a matter of right. (Para 21)

1. Vakalatnama filed by Sri Prem Chandra Saroj learned counsel, on behalf of the petitioners, is taken on record.

2. Heard Sri Prem Chandra Saroj, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Shivam Yadav, learned counsel for the fourth respondent, and Sri Mata Prasad, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondents.

3. The present writ petition has been filed seeking a direction to the respondents to allot developed abadi plot to the petitioners to the extent of 10% of their acquired land in view of the Full Bench decision of this Court in Gajraj Singh and others Vs. State of U.P. and others.

4. The petitioners claim to be owners of certain land parcels situate in Village Soharkha Jahidabad, Pargana and Tehsil Dadri, District Gautam Budh Nagar which were subject matter of acquisition proceedings in terms of notification dated 31.07.2005 issued under Section 4 (1)/17(4), and the notification dated 27.07.2006 issued under Section 6/17 (1) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894. The petitioners admit to having received compensation amount and also additional compensation at the rate of 64.70% in view of the Full Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Gajraj Singh and others (supra).

5. It is an admitted position that the petitioners did not challenge the land acquisition proceedings. The writ petition is also silent as to whether the notifications under which the land of the petitioners was acquired, were under challenge in the bunch of writ petitions which were decided along with the case of Gajraj Singh and others.

6. Learned counsel appearing for the State respondents and also the learned counsel for the Noida Authority have submitted that the benefit granted by the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh and others would not be applicable to the case of the petitioners for the reason that the petitioners were neither parties in the writ petitions which had been decided along with the case of Gajraj Singh and others nor there is any assertion by the petitioners that the notifications under which their land had been acquired were subject matter of challenge in the case of Gajraj Singh and others. Further more, it has been submitted that in terms of the direction contained in the Full Bench judgment, the Noida Authority had taken a decision not to allot the abadi plot to the extent of 10% to those land owners who had not approached the writ court and had not challenged the acquisition proceedings.

7. The question which thus falls for consideration is as to whether as per the directions in the case of Gajraj Singh and others, the petitioners, who were neither parties in the writ petitions which had been decided along with the case of Gajraj Singh and others nor had their land been acquired under the notifications which were subject matter of challenge in the writ petitions decided by the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh and others and connected matters, could claim entitlement to allotment of abadi plot to the extent of 10% of their acquired land.

8. In the case of Gajraj Singh and others, the writ petitions challenging the notifications in respect of land acquisition proceedings with respect to tracts of land situate in different villages of Greater Noida and Noida were decided and the writ petitions were disposed of in terms of the following directions :-

"481. As noticed above, the land has been acquired of large number of villagers in different villages of Greater Noida and Noida. Some of the petitioners had earlier come to this Court and their writ petitions have been dismissed as noticed above upholding the notifications which judgments have become final between them. Some of the petitioners may not have come to the Court and have left themselves in the hand of the Authority and State under belief that the State and Authority shall do the best for them as per law. We cannot loose sight of the fact that the above farmers and agricultures/owners whose land has been acquired are equally affected by taking of their land. As far as consequence and effect of the acquisition it equally affects on all land losers. Thus land owners whose writ petitions have earlier been dismissed upholding the notifications may have grievances that the additional compensation which was a subsequent event granted by the Authority may also be extended to them and for the aforesaid, further spate of litigation may start in so far as payment of additional compensation is concerned. In the circumstances, we leave it to the Authority to take a decision as to whether the benefit of additional compensation shall also be extended to those with regard to whom the notifications of acquisition have been upheld or those who have not filed any writ petitions. We leave this in the discretion of the Authority/State which may be exercised keeping in view the principles enshrined under Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

482. In view of the foregoing conclusions we order as follows:

1. The Writ Petition No. 45933 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 47545 of 2011 relating to village Nithari, Writ Petition No. 47522 of 2011 relating to village Sadarpur, Writ Petition No. 45196 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45208 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45211 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45213 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45216 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45223 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45224 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45226 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45229 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45230 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45235 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45238 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 45283 of 2011 relating to village Khoda, Writ Petition No. 46764 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 46785 of 2011 relating to village Sultanpur, Writ Petition No. 46407 of 2011 relating to village Chaura Sadatpur and Writ Petition No. 46470 of 2011 relating to village Alaverdipur which have been filed with inordinate delay and laches are dismissed.

2. (i) The writ petitions of Group 40 (Village Devla) being Writ Petition No. 31126 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 59131 of 2009, Writ Petition No. 22800 of 2010, Writ Petition No. 37118 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 42812 of 2009, Writ Petition No. 50417 of 2009, Writ Petition No. 54424 of 2009, Writ Petition No. 54652 of 2009, Writ Petition No. 55650 of 2009, Writ Petition No. 57032 of 2009, Writ Petition No. 58318 of 2009, Writ Petition No. 22798 of 2010, Writ Petition No. 37784 of 2010, Writ Petition No. 37787 of 2010, Writ Petition No. 31124 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 31125 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 32234 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 32987 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 35648 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 38059 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 41339 of 2011, Writ Petition No. 47427 of 2011 and Writ Petition No. 47412 of 2011 are allowed and the notifications dated 26.5.2009 and 22.6.2009 and all consequential actions are quashed. The petitioners shall be entitled for restoration of their land subject to deposit of compensation which they had received under agreement/award before the authority/Collector.

2(ii) Writ petition No. 17725 of 2010 Omveer and others Vs. State of U.P. (Group 38) relating to village Yusufpur Chak Sahberi is allowed. Notifications dated 10.4.2006 and 6.9.2007 and all consequential actions are quashed. The petitioners shall be entitled for restoration of their land subject to return of compensation received by them under agreement/award to the Collector.

2(iii) Writ Petition No.47486 of 2011 (Rajee and others vs. State of U.P. and others) of Group-42 relating to village Asdullapur is allowed. The notification dated 27.1.2010 and 4.2.2010 as well as all subsequent proceedings are quashed. The petitioners shall be entitled to restoration of their land.

3. All other writ petitions except as mentioned above at (1) and (2) are disposed of with following directions:

(a) The petitioners shall be entitled for payment of additional compensation to the extent of same ratio (i.e. 64.70%) as paid for village Patwari in addition to the compensation received by them under 1997 Rules/award which payment shall be ensured by the Authority at an early date. It may be open for Authority to take a decision as to what proportion of additional compensation be asked to be paid by allottees. Those petitioners who have not yet been paid compensation may be paid the compensation as well as additional compensation as ordered above. The payment of additional compensation shall be without any prejudice to rights of land owners under section 18 of the Act, if any.

(b) All the petitioners shall be entitled for allotment of developed Abadi plot to the extent of 10% of their acquired land subject to maximum of 2500 square meters. We however, leave it open to the Authority in cases where allotment of abadi plot to the extent of 6% or 8% have already been made either to make allotment of the balance of the area or may compensate the land owners by payment of the amount equivalent to balance area as per average rate of allotment made of developed residential plots.

4.The Authority may also take a decision as to whether benefit of additional compensation and allotment of abadi plot to the extent of 10% be also given to;

(a) those land holders whose earlier writ petition challenging the notifications have been dismissed upholding the notifications; and

(b) those land holders who have not come to the Court, relating to the notifications which are subject matter of challenge in writ petitions mentioned at direction No.3.

5. The Greater NOIDA and its allottees are directed not to carry on development and not to implement the Master Plan 2021 till the observations and directions of the National Capital Regional Planning Board are incorporated in Master Plan 2021 to the satisfaction of the National Capital Regional Planning Board. We make it clear that this direction shall not be applicable in those cases where the development is being carried on in accordance with the earlier Master Plan of the Greater NOIDA duly approved by the National Capital Regional Planning Board.

6. We direct the Chief Secretary of the State to appoint officers not below the level of Principal Secretary (except the officers of Industrial Development Department who have dealt with the relevant files) to conduct a thorough inquiry regarding the acts of Greater Noida (a) in proceeding to implement Master Plan 2021 without approval of N.C.R.P. Board, (b) decisions taken to change the land use, (c) allotment made to the builders and (d) indiscriminate proposals for acquisition of land, and thereafter the State Government shall take appropriate action in the matter."

9. In terms of the aforementioned directions, particularly the directions issued under paragraph 482(3), it was held that all the petitioners in the bunch of writ petitions would be entitled for payment of additional compensation to the extent of 64.70% in addition to the compensation already received and also would be entitled for allotment of developed abadi land to the extent of 10% of their acquired area.

10. In paragraph 482 (4), the Authority was directed to take a decision as to whether benefit of additional compensation and allotment of abadi plot to the extent of 10% was to be given to those land owners whose writ petitions challenging the notifications had been dismissed earlier and also those land holders who had not come to the Court to challenge the notifications which were subject matter of challenge in the writ petitions decided along with the case of Gajraj Singh and others. It may be pertinent to note that there was no direction for grant of payment of additional compensation/allotment of abadi land or for consideration of the said benefits by the Authority in respect of those persons whose land had been acquired in terms of notifications which were not subject matter of challenge in the case of Gajraj Singh and others and connected bunch of writ petitions.

11. The judgment in the case of Gajraj Singh and others was challenged before the Supreme Court in the case of Savitri Devi vs. State of U.P. and others, and the same was affirmed after duly taking notice of the facts of the case where the High Court was faced with a scenario where, on the one hand, invocation of urgency provisions under Section 17 and dispensing with the right to file objections under Section 5-A, was found to be illegal and on the other hand, there was a situation where because of delay in challenging the acquisitions by the landowners, developments had taken place in the villages and in most of the cases, third party rights had been created.

12. It was in the face of this situation that the Court in the case of Gajraj Singh and others came out with a solution which was equitable to both the sides by way of providing them a practical and workable solution by adequately compensating the landowners in the form of compensation as well as allotment of developed abadi land at a higher rate i.e. 10% of the land acquired of each of the landowners against the eligibility under the policy to the extent of 5% and 6% in the case of land parcels under the Noida and Greater Noida respectively.

13. The Supreme Court in the case of Savitri Devi also took note of the fact that directions had been issued by the High Court in the peculiar circumstances of the case and would not form a precedent for future cases. The relevant extracts from the judgment in the case of Savitri Devi are as follows:-

"44. We have also to keep in mind another important feature. Many residents of Patwari village had entered into agreement with the authorities agreeing to accept enhanced compensation @ 64.7%. This additional compensation was, however, agreed to be paid by the authorities only in respect of landowners of Patwari village. The High Court has bound the authorities with the said agreement by applying the same to all the land owners thereby benefiting them with 64.7% additional compensation. There could have been argument that the authorities cannot be fastened with this additional compensation, more particularly, when machinery for determination for just and fair compensation is provided under the Land Acquisition Act and the land owners had, in fact, invoked the said machinery by seeking reference Under Section 18 thereof. Likewise, the scheme for allotment of land to the land owners provides for 5% and 6% developed land in Noida and Greater Noida respectively. As against that, the High Court has enhanced the said entitlement to 10%. Again, we find that it could be an arguable case as to whether High Court could grant additional land contrary to the policy. Notwithstanding the same, the Noida authority have now accepted this part of the High Court judgment after the dismissal of the appeals filed by the Noida authority, and a statement to that effect was made by Mr. Rao.

45. We may point out that while dismissing the appeals of Noida authority, following remarks were made:

9. Insofar as allotment of 10 per cent of the plots is concerned, the High Court, in exercise of its discretionary power, has thought it fit, while sustaining the notification issued by the authority for protecting them for allotting 10 per cent of the developed plots; and, there again they have put a cap of 2,500 sq.mtrs. In fact, in the course of the order, the High Court has taken into consideration the agreement that was entered into by the authority with the villagers of Patwari and, in some cases, the authority itself has agreed to raise 6 to 8 per cent of the developed plots to the agriculturists. The High Court has also taken into consideration the observations made by this Court in the case of Bondu Ramaswamy v. Bangalore Development Authority 2010 (7) SCC 129, where this Court has gone to the extent of directing the authorities to allot 15 per cent of the developed plots. In our view and in the peculiar facts and circumstances of these cases, since the relief that is given to the Respondents/agriculturists is purely discretionary relief by the Court in order to sustain the notification issued by the authorities, we do not find any good ground to interfere with the impugned judgment(s) and order(s) passed by the High Court, at the instance of the Petitioners/Appellants/ authorities, namely, NOIDA and Greater NOIDA.

10. This order shall not be treated as a precedent in any other case.

46. Thus, we have a scenario where, on the one hand, invocation of urgency provisions under Section 17 of the Act and dispensing with the right to file objection under Section 5A of the Act, is found to be illegal. On the other hand, we have a situation where because of delay in challenging these acquisitions by the landowners, developments have taken place in these villages and in most of the cases, third party rights have been created. Faced with this situation, the High Court going by the spirit behind the judgment of this Court in Bondu Ramaswamy came out with the solution which is equitable to both sides. We are, thus, of the view that the High Court considered the ground realities of the matter and arrived at a more practical and workable solution by adequately compensating the land owners in the form of compensation as well as allotment of developed Abadi land at a higher rate i.e. 10% of the land acquired of each of the landowners against the eligibility and to (sic under) the policy to the extent of 5% and 6% of Noida and Greater Noida land respectively.

47. Insofar as allegation of some of the Appellants that their abadi land was acquired, we find that this allegation is specifically denied disputing its correctness. There is specific averment made by the NOIDA Authority at so many places that village abadi land was not acquired. It is mentioned that abadi area is what was found in the survey conducted prior to Section 4 Notification and not what is alleged or that which is far away from the dense village abadi. It is also mentioned that as a consequence of the acquisition, the Authority spends crores and crores of rupees in developing the infrastructure such as road, drainage, sewer, electric and water lines etc. in the unacquired portion of the village abadi. During the course of hearing, Chart No. 2 in respect of each village of Greater Noida was handed over for the consideration of this Court, wherein the amount spent by the Authority on the development, including village development (which is the unacquired village abadi), has been given in Column No. 4 thereof. It has been the consistent stand of the NOIDA Authority that prior to the issuance of Section 4 Notification under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, survey was conducted and the abadi found in that survey was not acquired. In fact, affidavits in this respect have also been filed not only in this Court but also in the High Court. We have mentioned that there has been a long gap between acquisition of the land and filing of the writ petitions in the High Court by these Appellants challenging the acquisition. If they have undertaken some construction during this period they cannot be allowed to take advantage thereof. Therefore, it is difficult to accept the argument of the Appellants based on parity with three villages in respect of which the High Court has given relief by quashing the acquisition.

48. To sum up, following benefits are accorded to the land owners:

48.1- increasing the compensation by 64.7%;

48.2- directing allotment of developed abadi land to the extent of 10% of the land acquired of each of the land owners;

48.3- compensation which is increased at the rate of 64.7% is payable immediately without taking away the rights of the landowners to claim higher compensation under the machinery provided in the Land Acquisition Act wherein the matter would be examined on the basis of the evidence produced to arrive at just and fair market value.

49. This, according to us, provides substantial justice to the Appellants.

Conclusion

50. Keeping in view all these peculiar circumstances, we are of the opinion that these are not the cases where this Court should interfere Under Article 136 of the Constitution. However, we make it clear that directions of the High Court are given in the aforesaid unique and peculiar/specific background and, therefore, it would not form precedent for future cases.

51. We may record that some of the Appellants had tried to point out certain clerical mistakes pertaining to their specific cases. For example, it was argued by one Appellant that his land falls in a village in Noida but wrongly included in Greater Noida. These Appellants, for getting such clerical mistakes rectified, can always approach the High Court.

52. The Full Bench judgment of the High Court is, accordingly, affirmed and all these appeals are disposed of in terms of the said judgment of the Full Bench."

14. Pursuant to the directions issued under paragraph 482 (4) of the judgment in the case of Gajraj Singh and others the respondent authority took a decision in its Board meeting for paying additional compensation to the extent of 64.70% to all land owners whether they had challenged the notifications or not. A decision was also taken not to allot abadi plot to the extent of 10% to those land owners who had not approached the writ court and had not questioned the acquisition proceedings. This decision of the authority was based on the fact that such huge area of developed abadi land was not available so as to allot it to all such persons who did not approach the Court.

15. The contention of the petitioners that irrespective of the fact whether the notifications issued in respect of land acquisition proceedings were under challenge along with the bunch of cases decided by the Full Bench they should be granted the same benefit regarding developed abadi plot as was granted by the Full Bench is liable to be rejected, for the reason that in the case of Gajraj Singh and others the Full Bench granted relief to the petitioners and to such persons whose earlier writ petitions challenging the notifications had been dismissed or who had not come to the Court challenging the notifications which were subject matter of challenge in the writ petitions, in view of the peculiar facts of the case having regard to the extensive development which had taken place subsequent to the acquisition proceedings, and also that the Supreme Court in the case of Savitri Devi had made it clear that the directions issued by the Full Bench shall not be treated as a precedent in future cases.

16. We may also refer to the case of Mange @ Mange Ram Vs. State of U.P. and others, where in a similar set of facts, certain petitioners, whose lands had been acquired under notifications, which were challenged not by the petitioners but by other similarly situate landowners, filed writ petitions in the year 2016 praying that they being similarly situate with those landowners, who had filed writ petitions and challenged the acquisition proceedings, were also entitled to claim the same relief, which had been granted to the writ petitioners in terms of the judgment in the case of Gajraj Singh and others and upheld in the case of Savitri Devi. The claim raised by the petitioners therein was turned down by this Court after recording a conclusion that the benefit granted by the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh and others cannot be extended to the petitioners even though they may be similarly situate and the action of the respondents in not giving additional developed abadi land was neither arbitrary nor discriminatory. The observations made in the judgment are as follows :-

"11. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and having perused the direction given by the Full Bench in Gajraj's case (supra) as well as the decision of the Supreme Court in Savitri Devi (supra), we find that the judgment of the Full Bench was affirmed by the Supreme Court in Savitri Devi (supra). While affirming the decision, the direction of the Full Bench in paragraph 484(4) to the authority to consider the case for payment of additional compensation and allotment of developed abadi plot to those land owners, who had not challenged the acquisition proceedings or whose writ petitions were dismissed earlier was also affirmed by the Supreme Court. Based on such direction, the authority took a decision to pay additional compensation to all the land owners irrespective of the fact as to whether they had challenged the acquisition proceedings or not. But with regard to allotment of developed abadi land, the authority took a decision not to allot to those land owners, who had not approached the writ Court on the ground that they have no developed land to allot to these land owners. The fact that the authority does not have any developed land for allotment has not been disputed as no rejoinder affidavit has been filed nor any evidence has been brought on record. We also find that such decision taken by the Board is neither arbitrary nor discriminatory.

12. The Full Bench in order to save the acquisition proceedings had issued the direction for payment of additional compensation and for allotment of developed abadi plots in the extenuating facts and circumstances of the case. The Supreme Court acceded to the said consideration holding that the Full Bench was justified in issuing such directions in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case and in order to save the acquisition proceedings from the vice of arbitrariness. The Supreme Court while affirming the decision of the Full Bench categorically held that the said decision would not be treated to form a precedent for future cases. The Supreme Court held:

"50. Keeping in view all these peculiar circumstances, we are of the opinion that these are not the cases where this Court should interfere under Article 136 of the Constitution. However, we make it clear that directions of the High Court are given in the aforesaid unique and peculiar/specific background and, therefore, it would not form precedent for future cases."

13. Thus, we are of the opinion that the ratio decendi of the Full Bench cannot be applied to similarly situated persons. The said benefit given by the Full Bench cannot be extended to the petitioners, even though they may be similarly situated and their land had been acquired under the same notification.

14. We are of the view that the action of the respondents in not giving additional developed abadi land to the petitioners is neither arbitrary nor discriminatory, especially when there is no evidence to dispute the fact that the respondents have no developed land with them for allotment."

17. The aforementioned judgment in the case of Mange @ Mange Ram Vs. State of U.P. and others decided along with other connected matters was subjected to challenge before the Supreme Court and came to be decided in terms of the judgment in Khatoon and others Vs. State of U.P. and others4.

18. The question as to whether the landowners were entitled to claim benefit of the judgment passed by the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh and others, which had been upheld in the case of Savitri Devi, insofar as it related to allotment of additional abadi plot was considered by the Supreme Court in aforementioned case of Khatoon and others and the contention sought to be raised on the basis of the principles underlying Article 14 of the Constitution was repelled after taking notice of the fact that insofar as allotment of abadi plot is concerned the High Court in the case of Gajraj Singh and others had confined the relief only to the petitioners therein and for other landowners the matter was left to discretion of the authority concerned which had declined to extend the said relief. It was held that the appellants had neither any legal right nor any factual foundation to claim the relief of allotment of additional developed abadi plot. Furthermore, it was taken note of that the relief in the case of Gajraj Singh was granted by the High Court in exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 and was confined to the petitioners therein, and even the Supreme Court in Savitri Devi case held that said directions were not to be treated as precedent and were limited only to the facts obtaining in that case. The relevant observations made in the judgment in the case of Khatoon and others are being extracted below :-

"16. In other words, the case of the appellant writ petitioners before the High Court was that the reliefs, which were granted to the landowners by the Full Bench in Gajraj case and affirmed by this Court in Savitri Devi case be also granted to the appellants because their lands were also acquired in the same acquisition proceedings in which the lands of the writ petitioners of Gujraj case was acquired. In effect, the relief was prayed on the principles of parity between the two landowners qua State.

17. It is, however, pertinent to mention that so far as the direction of the High Court to award additional compensation payable @ 64.70% was concerned, the same was already implemented by the State by paying the compensation to all the landowners including the appellants without any contest.

18. In this view of the matter, the only question before the High Court in the appellants' writ petitions that remained for decision was as to whether the appellants are also entitled to claim the relief of allotment of developed abadi plot to the extent of 10% of their acquired land subject to maximum of 2500 Sq.M.in terms of the judgment in Gajraj case and Savitri Devi case.

36. Therefore, the only question that now survives for consideration in these appeals is whether the appellants are entitled to get the benefit of second direction issued by the High Court in Gajraj, namely, allotment of developed abadi plot to the appellants.

37. In our considered opinion, the appellants are not entitled to get the benefit of the aforementioned second direction and this we say for the following reasons.

38. First, the High Court in Gajraj had, in express terms, granted the relief of allotment of developed abadi plot confining it only to the landowners, who had filed the writ petitions. In other words, the High Court while issuing the aforesaid direction made it clear that the grant of this relief is confined only to the writ petitioners [see conditions 3(a) and (b)].

39. Second, so far as the cases relating to second category of landowners, who had not challenged the acquisition proceedings (like the appellants herein) were concerned, the High Court dealt with their cases separately and accordingly issued directions which are contained in conditions 4(a) and (b) of the order.

40. In conditions 4(a) and (b), the High Court, in express terms, directed the Authority to take a decision on the question as to whether the Authority is willing to extend the benefit of the directions contained in conditions 3(a) and (b) also to second category of landowners or not.

41. In other words, the High Court, in express terms, declined to extend the grant of any relief to the landowners, who had not filed the writ petitions and instead directed the Authority to decide at their end as to whether they are willing to extend the same benefit to other similarly situated landowners or not.

42. It is, therefore, clear that it was left to the discretion of the Authority to decide the question as to whether they are willing to extend the aforesaid benefits to second category of landowners or not.

43. Third, as mentioned supra, the Authority, in compliance with the directions, decided to extend the benefit in relation to payment of an additional compensation @ 64.70% and accordingly it was paid also. On the other hand, the Authority declined to extend the benefit in relation to allotment of developed abadi plot to such landowners.

44. Fourth, it is not in dispute, being a matter of record, that when the Authority failed to extend the benefit regarding allotment of additional abadi plot to even those landowners in whose favour the directions were issued by the High Court in Gajraj and by this Court in Savitri Devi, the landowners filed the contempt petition against the Authority complaining of non-compliance with the directions of this Court but this Court dismissed the contempt petition holding therein that no case of non-compliance was made out.

45. In our view, the appellants have neither any legal right and nor any factual foundation to claim the relief of allotment of additional developed abadi plot. In order to claim any mandamus against the State for claiming such relief, it is necessary for the writ petitioners to plead and prove their legal right, which should be founded on undisputed facts against the State. It is only then the mandamus can be issued against the State for the benefit of writ petitioners. Such is not the case here.

47. One cannot dispute that the Act does not provide for grant of such reliefs to the landowners under the Act. Similarly, there is no dispute that the State paid all statutory compensation, which is payable under the Act, to every landowner. Not only that every landowner also got additional compensation @ 64.70% over and above what was payable to them under the Act.

48. The reliefs in Gajraj were granted by the High Court by exercising extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution and keeping in view the peculiar facts and circumstances arising in the case at hand. They were confined only to the landowners, who had filed the writ petitions. Even this Court in Savitri Devi case held that the directions given be not treated as precedent for being adopted to other cases in future and they be treated as confined to that case only.

51. In our opinion, therefore, there is no case made out by the appellants for grant of any relief much less the relief of allotment of additional developed abadi plot. If we entertain the appellants' plea for granting them the relief then it would amount to passing an order contrary to this Court's directions contained in para 50 of the order passed in Savitri Devi case."

19. The question as to whether the benefit of the directions issued by the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh and others for providing additional compensation to the extent of 64.70% and developed abadi plot to the extent of 10% of the land acquired was liable to be extended to such tenure holders also whose lands were not acquired in terms of the notifications which were under challenge in the case of Gajraj Singh and others, has also been considered by a coordinate Division Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Rameshwari and 3 others Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others and in terms of judgment dated 3.5.2017, it has been held as follows :-

"A perusal of the Full Bench judgement in the case of Gajraj Singh (Supra) goes to show that in order to save the acquisition proceedings, direction for payment of additional compensation and allotment of developed abadi plot was issued in peculiar facts and circumstances, particularly, the fact that extensive development had taken place even though the Full Bench found that opportunity to file objection under Section 5A Act had been wrongly denied to the tenure holders. However, the benefit extended to the land owners in lieu of saving the acquisition proceedings, even though the same were found to be illegal and liable to be quashed, was restricted to the acquisition proceedings challenged before it.

However, the question of extending the benefits of additional compensation and allotment of developed abadi plot to such land holders whose challenge to the land acquisition notification already stood dismissed or such land holders who did not approach this Court challenging the land acquisition notification though the said notifications were subject matter of challenge before the Full Bench, was left open to be decided by the authority. As already noticed above, in pursuance of the aforesaid directions, the authority took a decision in its Board meeting for making payment of additional compensation to the extent of 64.7% to all land holders whether they had put challenge to the land acquisition notifications or not. However, in respect of allotment of abadi plot to the extent of 10%, the authority took a decision not to extend the benefit to such land holders who had not approached the writ court and had not questioned the acquisition proceedings.

In the case in hand, the petitioners' land was acquired by means of notification dated 09.09.1997. Equally admitted fact is that the petitioners accepted the award and did not come forward to challenge the land acquisition proceedings. Not only that, notification dated 9.9.2017 whereunder an area 1275-18-18 including Gata no. 582 area 6-5-13, 538 area 0-15-6, 609 area 1-2-12 and 615 area 9-10-10 of the petitioners situate at village Tugalpur was acquired was not subject of matter of challenge before the Full Bench.

In view of above facts and discussions, it is clear that the relief which was granted by the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh (Supra) affirmed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Savitri Devi (Supra) cannot be made applicable to the acquisition proceedings which were not assailed and were not subject matter of adjudication before the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh (Supra). Thus, we are of the considered opinion that the ratio dicendi of the Full Bench does not stand attracted in the case of the petitioners and they cannot claim parity with those tenure holders who were before the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh (Supra). The petitioners are thus not entitled to the relief claimed in this petition. The impugned order therefore, does not suffer from any infirmity requiring any interference by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

Writ petition fails and accordingly stands dismissed."

20. A similar view has been taken in a recent judgment of this Court in Ramesh and others Vs. State of U.P. and others, wherein it was stated as follows:-

"14.Moreover, the directions issued by the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh and others under para 482 (4) in terms of which the Authority was to take a decision as to whether benefit of additional compensation and allotment of abadi plot to the extent of 10% was to be given, was confined to those land holders whose writ petitions challenging the notifications had been dismissed earlier and to those who had not approached the court to challenge the notifications which were subject matter of challenge in the writ petitions decided along with the case of Gajraj Singh and others. The directions under para 482 (4) were not in respect of those persons such as the petitioners in the present case whose land had been acquired in terms of notifications which were not subject matter of challenge in the case of Gajraj Singh and others and connected matters."

21. The question as to whether claim for any additional benefit can be raised as a matter of right in lieu of acquisition of land was subject matter of consideration before a Full Bench of this Court in Ravindra Kumar Vs. District Magistrate, Agra and others, wherein the claim sought to be raised for appointment in service in lieu of acquisition of land was repelled and it was held that the Land Acquisition Act is a self-contained Code providing the procedure to be followed for acquisition as well as for assessment of the valuation and payment of fair and just compensation to the persons whose land were acquired and in the absence of any statutory provision no other claim can be raised as a matter of right. The observations made in the judgment in this regard are as follows:-

"21. The Land Acquisition Act is a self-contained Code and provides the procedure to be followed for acquisition as well as for assessment of the valuation and payment of fair and just compensation as per market value of the person whose land is acquired. In addition to that market value of the land interest @ 12% is also given from the date of publication of the Notification vide Section 23 (1-A). Besides that, a sum of 30% on such market value is also paid as solatium for distress and for inconvenience or difficulties caused to the person on account of compulsory acquisition of the land vide Section 23 (2) of the Act. Therefore, a person whose land is acquired not only gets adequate compensation as per market value of the land but also gets interest on the amount of compensation (@) 12% from the date of notification under Section 4 of the Act as well as an amount of solatium, which is 30% of the amount of compensation. Neither the Land Acquisition Act nor the regulations provides that in the event of acquisition of the land one of the family members of the landholder shall be given employment in addition to the amount of compensation. Therefore, in the absence of any statutory provision or any promise, the petitioner respondent cannot claim appointment as a matter of right nor can the respondent make such appointment."

22. In view of the foregoing discussion it follows that the directions issued by the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh and others for payment of additional compensation and developed abadi plot were in respect of the petitioners in the bunch of writ petitions which were decided by the Full Bench. The question of extending the benefit of additional compensation and allotment of developed abadi plot to such landholders whose writ petitions challenging the notifications had been dismissed earlier and also those landholders who had not approached the Court challenging the notifications which were subject matter of challenge before the Full Bench, was left open to be decided by the authority.

23. It was in pursuance of the aforesaid directions that the authority took a decision at its board meeting for payment of additional compensation to the extent of 64.70% to all landholders whether they had chosen to challenge the land acquisition notifications or not; however, insofar as allotment of developed abadi plot to the extent of 10% of the acquired land is concerned the authority took a decision not to extend the said benefit to such landholders who had not approached the writ court and had not raised any challenge to the acquisition proceedings.

24. In the present case, the land of the petitioners was acquired in terms of proceedings initiated by means of the notification dated 31.07.2005 issued under Section 4(1)/17(4), and the notification dated 27.07.2006 issued under Section 6/17 (1) of the Act 1894. Admittedly the petitioners did not choose to challenge the land acquisition proceedings and it is also not the case of the petitioners that the notifications in terms of which the land of the petitioners was acquired were subject matter of challenge in the writ petitions which were decided by the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh and others.

25. This Court may also take note of the fact that there was no direction in the judgment of the Full Bench for grant of payment of additional compensation or allotment of abadi land or for consideration of the said benefits by the authority in respect of those persons whose land had been acquired in terms of the notifications which were not subject matter of challenge in the case of Gajraj Singh and Others and connected bunch of writ petitions.

26. The directions issued by the Full Bench in the case of Gajraj Singh and others under paragraph 482 (4) in terms of which the Authority was to take a decision as to whether benefit of additional compensation and allotment of abadi plot to the extent of 10% was to be given, was confined to those land holders whose writ petitions challenging the notifications had been dismissed earlier and to those who had not approached the court to challenge the notifications which were subject matter of challenge in the writ petitions decided along with the case of Gajraj Singh and others. These directions had been made in view of the peculiar facts of the case having regard to the extensive development which had taken place subsequent to the acquisition proceedings and thereafter the Supreme Court in the case of Savitri Devi had made it clear that the directions issued by the Full Bench shall not be treated as a precedent in future cases.

27. The directions under paragraph 482 (4) of the judgment aforesaid were not in respect of those persons such as the petitioners in the present case whose land had been acquired in terms of notifications which were not subject matter of challenge in the case of Gajraj Singh and others and connected matters. The decision taken by the respondent authority in not giving additional developed abadi land to the persons such as the petitioners thus cannot be held to be either arbitrary or discriminatory, moreso, when the said decision was based on the reasoning that the authority had no developed land to allot to these landowners.

28. It is admitted to the petitioners that the entire compensation amount as payable in terms of the provisions contained under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 has been paid to them and over and above that they have also been paid additional compensation at the rate of 64.70%. The additional benefit by way of allotment of 10% developed abadi plot which is sought by the petitioners not being founded on any legally enforceable right no mandamus can be claimed for grant of such benefit.

29. For the aforestated reasons the petitioners are not entitled for the reliefs prayed for.

30. The writ petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE ALOK MATHUR, J.
Writ Tax No. 318 of 2016

Ajai Kumar Singh Khandelial ...Petitioner
Versus
Principal Comm. of Income Tax, Gorakhpur & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Suyash Agarwal

C.S.C., Sri Praveen Kumar, S.C.

A. Tax – Reassessment - Income Tax Act, 1961: Sections 40A(3), 143(3), 147, 148, 264; Income Tax Rules, 1962: Rule 6DD – The question for consideration before the Court is as to whether the deposit of amount in cash in bank account of beneficiary/supplier can be held to be covered under provisions of Rule 6DD(c)(v) of the Rules, 1962 and for which purpose can it be said to be a payment by use of "electronic clearing system" through bank account.

Transaction by depositing cash directly in the bank account of the beneficiary is not routed through any clearing house nor is the money sent through electronic mode and therefore such a transaction cannot be covered by Rule 6DD(c)(v) and benefit of the provision cannot be given to the petitioner. (Para 20, 26 & 29)

B. Onus is on the assessee to show that he is covered by any of the exception provided in S. 40A(3) or in Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962 - In the present case the amount was directly deposited in the account of the seller i.e. M/s Jalan Synthetics. The petitioner also could not lead any evidence to show that he had deposited the amount on the instructions of M/s Jalan Synthetics or due to any business exigency. In absence of such evidence, the assessing authority was held to have rightly denied the benefit of exemption to the petitioner. (Para 24, 26, 30 & 31)

C. The application was preferred by petitioner u/s 264, the scope of which is different from that of an appeal u/s 246 – Petitioner challenged the re-assessment order passed u/s 148/148(3) and not the notice u/s 147. The assessing authority duly considered the application and has recorded a finding against the petitioner. It is settled that jurisdiction under Art. 226 is limited to examining the decision -making process and not the decision itself. Therefore, the Court did not interfere as no infirmity was found in the impugned order. (Para 18, 19, 28 & 30)

Precedent followed: -

1. Attar Singh Gurmush Singh Vs. Income Tax Officer, 1991 SCR (3) 405 (Para 24)

2. Municipal Council, Neemuch Vs. Mahadeo Real Estate, (2019) 10 SCC 738 (Para 28)

Petition challenges order dated 19.01.2016, passed by Principal Commissioner, Income Tax, Gorakhpur.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur,J.)

1. Heard Sri Suyash Agarwal, learned counsel for the petitioner as well as Sri Praveen Kumar, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The petitioner by means of this writ petition has challenged the order passed by the Principal Commissioner, Income Tax, Gorakhpur thereby he has rejected the application preferred by the petitioner under Section 264 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 1961").

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that petitioner is proprietor of M/s Purushottam Das Ajai Kumar, Asif Ganj, Azamgarh and is engaged in the business of retail trading of ready made and other clothes in the name of the proprietary concern. For the assessment year 2008-09, the petitioner's firm filed income tax return which included income of Rs.34,912/- earned from the house property besides business income of Rs.1,70,304/-. The petitioner got his firm's accounts audited with net profit of Rs.1,61,012/- showing @ 2.00% and gross profit of Rs.8,67,837/- being 44.33% of the gross receipt.

4. It has been further submitted on behalf of petitioner that he disclosed about the advance given to supplier's account as well as copy of the account of M/s Jalan Synthetics, Varanasi before the assessing authority which clearly demonstrated that on various dates the amount of payment has been deposited by the petitioner in UBI, Varanasi bank on their instructions. It has further been contended that the assessing authority while passing the assessment order for the assessment year 2008-09, did not raise any objection relating to the aggregate amount of Rs.3,40,000/- deposited on various dates in the bank account of M/s Jalan Synthetics.

5. The assessment proceedings were completed in exercise of power under Section 143(3) of the Act, 1961 on the income of Rs.2,80,004/- by order dated 10.11.2010 and giving appeal effect it was revised at Rs.1,99,804/-.

6. The petitioner received a notice dated 30.03.2013, issued under Section 148 of the Act, 1961, stating therein that the authorities had reason to believe that cash payment of Rs.3,40,000/- had been made by the petitioner to M/s Jalan Synthetics for the assessment year 2008-09, in violation to the provisions of Section 40A(3) of the Act, 1961, which is other than by making payment through crossed account payee cheque or crossed bank draft, as such the same is liable to be disallowed and added back to the income of the petitioner.

7. The petitioner objected to the notice issued under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 and submitted that he had truly and faithfully disclosed all the facts necessary. He further stated that payment of Rs.3,40,000/- was genuine and that there is no violation of Section 40(3) of the Act, 1961 read with Rule 6DD of the Income Tax Rules, 1962 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules, 1962") and further that payment of Rs.3,40,000/- in cash to M/s Jalan Synthetics is also reflected in their ledger accounts and therefore, there was no basis for reopening of the assessment proceedings.

8. The assessing authority not being satisfied by the reply submitted by the petitioner proceeded to make addition of Rs.3,40,000/- in the income of the petitioner and disallowed the benefit/exemption under Section 40A(3) of the Act, 1961 for the reason that payment exceeding Rs.20,000/- was made other than crossed cheque or bank draft.

9. The petitioner being aggrieved by the order dated 14.03.2014, preferred an application under Section 264 of the Act, 1961 before the Principal Commissioner, Income Tax, Gorakhpur on 07.04.2014.

10. By means of impugned order dated 19.01.2016, the Principal Commissioner, Income Tax, Gorakhpur has considered the application of the petitioner and has rejected the same holding that the petitioner had clearly misrepresented in his return as well as audit report with respect to application of Section 40A(3) of the Act, 1961 read with Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962 and concluded that the payment made to M/s Jalan Synthetics Ltd. is not covered by any exemption. The assessing authority had carried out only limited examination in good faith with respect to the genuineness of the party and believed the assessee and auditor. He has further stated that there is difference between a document and information and despite documents being on record it was on the basis of the fresh information that the petitioner has concealed his income in violation of Section 40A(3) of the Act, 1961. It was within the competence and jurisdiction of the authority to reopen the assessment under Section 148 of the Act, 1961 and therefore up held the order passed by the assessing authority.

11. Assailing the order of the Principal Commissioner, Income Tax, Gorakhpur, the petitioner has urged that the revenue has misinterpreted the provisions of Section 40A(3) of the Act and Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962 and that the amount of Rs.3,40,000/-, deposited on various dates in the bank account of M/s Jalan Synthetics, would be covered under Rule 6DD(c)(v) of the Rules, 1962 as the same has been done by use of "electronic clearing system" through the Bank. It is further submitted that there was no new information in possession of respondent no. 2 for invoking reassessment under Section 147 of the Act, 1961, as the documents on the basis of which re-assessment has taken place, were already on record at the time of original assessment and same can not be converted as fresh information in the course of examination by the audit party.

12. Sri Praveen Kumar, learned counsel for the respondents on the other hand has submitted that scope of Section 264 of the Act, 1961 is very limited and in exercise of powers the Principal Commissioner, Income Tax, Gorakhpur is empowered to hold limited enquiry into the grounds raised by the assessee and thereupon examining and passing appropriate orders. Power under Section 264 of the Act, 1961 cannot be equated with the power of appeal which lies to the appeal under Section 246 of the Act and in this regard he has submitted that the Principal Commissioner, Income Tax has duly enquired into the allegations made by the assessee and has rejected the application after due consideration of the same and therefore there was no infirmity in order rejecting the application preferred by the assessee and concluded that the writ petition be dismissed.

13. On merits Sri Praveen Kumar, learned counsel for the respondents submits that the assessee had made misrepresentation in his returns, declaring that no amount was admissible or it is liable under Section 40A(3) of the Act and Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962 and same was also mentioned in the audit report under Section 44AB of the Act, 1961. he also submitted that only account number of M/s Jalan Synthetics was submitted by the assessee and no proof that the amount of payment had been deposited on their instructions. He further vehemently urged that the assessee had failed to prove that payment to M/s Jalan Synthetics was not made by cheque or bank draft on account of some business exigency, as the cash payment made by the petitioner was in contravention to the provisions of Section 40A(3) of the Act, 1961.

14. With regard to the issue regarding reopening of the assessment under Section 147 of the Act, 1961, he has submitted that the assessing authority had recorded sufficient reasons with regard to the fact that certain items of income though taxable had escaped notice of the assessing authority and therefore the same did not amount to change of opinion and therefore there was no infirmity in the same.

15. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

16. The petitioner who carries on the business of retail trade in ready made and other clothes had given advance to the suppliers bank account i.e. M/s Jalan Synthetics while depositing total amount of Rs.3,40,000/- on various dates between 12.06.2007 to 01.12.2007, in the UBI Bank, Varanasi in account no. 303505040010515.

17. In the return filed by the assessee he had declared that inadmissible expenses under Section 40A(3) of the Act read with Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962 were nil and the same was also mentioned in the audit report. The assessing authority having no reason to disbelieve the aforesaid declaration made by the assessee, which was subsequently reopened in exercise of powers contained in Section 148 of the Act, 1947. The assessing authority, after giving opportunity of hearing to the assessee has made re-assessment by means of order dated 14.03.2014 and added Rs.3,40,000/- in the income of the assessee.

18. The application was preferred by the petitioner under Section 264 of the Act, 1961, against re-assessment proceedings and the impugned order passed by the Principal Commissioner, Income Tax also mentions that the assessee has filed application only against the order of assessment.

19. It seems that the issue pertaining to the validity of the order under Section 147 of the Act, 1961 was not raised by the assesseee in his application and his only grievance was with regard to the re-assessment order. In para 22 of the writ petition the petitioner has stated that he is aggrieved by the re-assessment order passed under Section 148/143(3) of the Act, 1961 and the notice under Section 147 of the Act was not challenged.

20. The main question which falls for consideration of this Court is as to Whether the deposit of amount in cash in the bank account of M/s Jalan Synthetics can be held to be covered under the provisions of Rule 6DD(c)(v) of the Rules, 1962? and for which purpose it can be said to be a payment by use of "electronic clearing system" through bank account.

21. It is relevant to reproduce the provisions of Section 40A(3) of the Act, 1961 and Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962, which are reproduced herein below :

"Section 40A(3) - Where the assessee incurs any expenditure in respect of which a payment or aggregate of payment made to a person in a day, otherwise than by an account payee cheque drawn on a bank or account payee bank draft, or use of electronic clearing system through a bank account, exceeds ten thousand rupees, no deduction shall be allowed in respect of such expenditure."

"Rule 6DD - No disallowance under sub-section (3) of section 40A shall be made and no payment shall be deemed to be the profits and gains of business or profession under sub-section (3A) of section 40A where a payment or aggregate of payments made to a person in a day, otherwise than by an account payee cheque drawn on a bank or account payee bank draft, exceeds twenty thousand rupees in the cases and circumstances specified hereunder, namely :-

(a) where the payment is made to-

(i) the Reserve Bank of India or any banking company as defined in clause (c) of section 5 of the banking Regulation Act, 1949 (10 of 1949);

(ii) the State bank of India or any subsidiary bank as defined in section 2 of the State Bank of India (Subsidiary Banks) Act, 1959 (38 of 1959);

(iii) any co-operative bank or land mortgage bank;

(iv) any primary agricultural credit society or any primary credit society as defined under section 56 of the Banking Regulation Act, 1949 (10 of 1949);

(v) the Life Insurance Corporation of India established under Section 3 of the Life Insurance Corporation Act, 1956 (31 of 1956);

(b) where the payment is made to the Government and, under the rules framed by it, such payment is required to be made in legal tender;

(c) where the payment is made by -

(i) any letter of credit arrangements through a bank;

(ii) a mail or telegraphic transfer through a bank;

(iii) a book adjustment from any account in a bank to any other account in that or any other bank;

(iv) a bill of exchange made payable only to a bank;

(v) the use of electronic clearing system through a bank account;

(vi) a credit card;

(vii) a debit card.

22. Initially Section 40A(3) of the Act, 1961 which requires payment in respect of expenses which exceed Rs.2500/- to be made by means of crossed cheque or crossed bank draft, on failure to do so, payment made were disallowed in computation of income. In order to remove hardship to smaller assessees the ceiling limit was increased to Rs.10,000/- and later on it was increased to Rs.20,000/- by means of Finance Act, 2017 which was made effective on 01.04.2018. Section 40A(3) of the Act, 1961, has a non obstantive clause which has over riding provision. It operates inspite of any thing to the contrary contained in any other provision of the Act, 1961 relating to computation of income under the head "profits and gains of business or profession", the Legislature as thus made it clear that provisions of Section 40A of the Act, 1961 will apply in place of other contrary provisions of this Act relating to computation of income. Sub Section 3 empowers the assessing authority to disallow deducting any expenditure in respect of which payment is made of any sum exceeding Rs.20,000/- otherwise than by crossed cheque or crossed bank draft.

23. Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962 refers to cases and circumstances in which payment of sum exceeding Rs.20,000/- made by a mode otherwise than by crossed cheque or by crossed bank draft.

24. A combined reading of Section 40A(3) of the Act alongwith Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962 would indicate that the provisions have been inserted by Legislature to prevent transactions of above Rs.20,000/-. It is also necessary to mention here that validity of Section 40A of the Act, 1961 has been up held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Attar Singh Gurmush Singh Vs. Income Tax Officer, 1991 SCR (3) 405, holding that onus is on the assessee to show that he is covered by any of the exception provided or in Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962 and in the present case the amount was directly deposited in the account of the seller i.e. M/s Jalan Synthetics.

25. The term "use of electronic clearing system through bank account" would necessarily include the transaction of funds by electronic mode through clearing system. Any transfer of funds through use of electronic clearing system through a bank account would mean a transfer of funds through electronic mode of transfer i.e. RTGS, IMPS, NEFT etc., where the funds are transferred through the bank account of one individual into the bank account of beneficiary through electronic means. When the funds are transferred through electronic clearing system then at least two banks or two branches of the same bank have to be involved then only the money is transferred through electronic clearing system between them.

26. In the present case, the question which arises for consideration is that in case, cash is deposited directly in the bank account of the beneficiary, can the benefit of Rule 6DD(c)(v) of the Rules, 1962, can be given to the assessee. Such transaction by depositing cash directly in the bank account of the beneficiary is not routed through any clearing house nor is the money send through electronic mode and therefore such a transaction in my considered opinion cannot be covered by Rue 6DD(c)(v) of the Rules, 1962, and therefore benefit of the provision cannot be given to the petitioner. The petitioner also could not lead any evidence to show that he had deposited the amount on the instructions of M/s Jalan Synthetics or due to any business exigency. In absence of such evidence, the assessing authority rightly denied the benefit of exemption to the petitioner.

27. The impugned order dated 19.01.2016, passed by the Principal Commissioner, Income Tax has considered the reply given by the petitioner and has concluded that in respect to the transfer of funds made by the petitioner, benefit of Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962 is not attracted and therefore computation made by the assessing authority has been up held.

28. The jurisdiction of writ Court in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is limited to examining the decision making process and not the decision itself. This position of law has been constantly reiterated by the Hon'ble Apex Court in its various pronouncements. The Apex Court in its recent judgment in the case of Municipal Council, Neemuch v. Mahadeo Real Estate, (2019) 10 SCC 738, has observed as under :

"13.In the present case, the learned Judges of the Division Bench have arrived at a finding that such a sanction was, in fact, granted. We will examine the correctness of the said finding of fact at a subsequent stage. However, before doing that, we propose to examine the scope of the powers of the High Court of judicial review of an administrative action. Though, there are a catena of judgments of this Court on the said issue, the law laid down by this Court inTata Cellularv.Union of India[Tata Cellularv.Union of India, (1994) 6 SCC 651] lays down the basic principles which still hold the field. Para 77 of the said judgment reads thus:

"77. The duty of the court is to confine itself to the question of legality.

Its concern should be:

1. Whether a decision-making authority exceeded its powers?

2. Committed an error of law,

3. committed a breach of the rules of natural justice,

4. reached a decision which no reasonable tribunal would have reached or,

5. abused its powers.

Therefore, it is not for the court to determine whether a particular policy or particular decision taken in the fulfilment of that policy is fair. It is only concerned with the manner in which those decisions have been taken. The extent of the duty to act fairly will vary from case to case. Shortly put, the grounds upon which an administrative action is subject to control by judicial review can be classified as under:

(i) Illegality : This means the decision-maker must understand correctly the law that regulates his decision-making power and must give effect to it.

(ii) Irrationality, namely, Wednesbury unreasonableness.

(iii) Procedural impropriety.

The above are only the broad grounds but it does not rule out addition of further grounds in course of time. As a matter of fact, inR.v.Secy. of State for Home Department, ex p Brind[R.v.Secy. of State for Home Department, ex p Brind, (1991) 1 AC 696 : (1991) 2 WLR 588 (HL)] , Lord Diplock refers specifically to one development, namely, the possible recognition of the principle of proportionality. In all these cases, the test to be adopted is that the court should, "consider whether something has gone wrong of a nature and degree which requires its intervention'."

14.It could thus be seen that the scope of judicial review of an administrative action is very limited. Unless the Court comes to a conclusion that the decision-maker has not understood the law correctly that regulates his decision-making power or when it is found that the decision of the decision-maker is vitiated by irrationality and that too on the principle of "Wednesbury unreasonableness" or unless* it is found that there has been a procedural impropriety in the decision-making process, it would not be permissible for the High Court to interfere in the decision-making process. It is also equally well settled that it is not permissible for the Court to examine the validity of the decision but this Court can examine only the correctness of the decision-making process."

29. Applying the above principles to the facts of the present case, it is seen that the reassessment proceedings were initiated on account of the fact that it was discovered that the assessee had misrepresented in his return with regard to the payments made to M/s Jalan Synthetics of Rs.3,40,000/- in cash which were deposited in their bank account and such a transfer was not admissible in the light of provisions of Section 40A(3) of the Act and Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962, and therefore, in the reassessment proceedings the said amount was added to the income of the assessee.

30. The reassessment order was assailed by moving an application under Section 264 of the Act, 1961. The assessing authority has duly considered the application of the assessee and after considering the same has recorded a finding that the assessee has clearly misrepresented in his return as well as audit report with respect to Section 40A(3) of the Act and Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962 and therefore the case of the petitioner is not covered by any of the exceptions. No evidence was led by the assessee to demonstrate that the cash was deposited at the instance of M/s Jalan Synthetics, so as to give benefit of Rule 6DD of the Rules, 1962, to the petitioner.

31. Learned counsel for the petitioner-assessee also could not demonstrate that the impugned order is bereft of reasons or that it is perverse or that it has failed to consider the relevant material or document and therefore in absence of any of such infirmity the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner cannot be accepted and the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

32. In the light of discussion made above, this Court does not find any merit in the contentions raised by the petitioner. The writ petition is accordingly dismissed.

A. Tax – Classification - Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017: Section 101; Uttar Pradesh Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017; Customs Tariff Act, 1975: Chapter 38 – Appellate Authority for Advanced Ruling for Goods and Services Tax, has classified the product in question, 'odomos' as mosquito repellant, whereas the petitioner contends it to be a medicament. Holding in favour of Revenue, Court held as follows:

The "Common Parlance test" or the "Market Identity Test" for classification of the product was satisfied - Appellants pitched the product in their sale material and advertisements as a mosquito repellant. It is matter of common knowledge that public or market identity of the product is as a mosquito repellant. 'Odomos' is not normally prescribed as a medicine by a registered medical practitioner and is available in stores and establishments of all types including 'kirana stores', their sale not being restricted to chemists/druggists alone. (Para 7, 8, 30, 31 & 32)

"Chemical Composition Test" - The mere fact that the ingredients are purified or added with some preservatives does not really alter their character - Active ingredient of the product is NNDB which is the improved version - formula of DEET. The essential quality of DEET is mosquito repelling. The NNDB was introduced to overcome the itchiness caused by the DEET. The basic component of the product is DEET while the quality enhancements are created by the NNDB. There is no scientific or expert evidence that NNDB imparts its essential character to the product. (Para 10, 25, 35 to 38)

B. General Interpretation Rules: Rule 3 – Resort cannot be had to a general entry called "others" or any other heading when the product clearly falls under a specific classification heading -
The description under heading no. 38089191, i.e., "Repellants for insects such as flies, mosquito" is far more specific as compared to the description under the other heading under consideration, i.e., heading no. 30049099 which is "Other". (Para 11, 12, 45 & 46)

C. Constitution of India: Art. 226 - Scope of judicial review – The order of Appellate Authority can be judicially reviewed and not appealed against.

Judicial review is confined to the decision-making process and is not directed against the decision itself. The court in judicial review examines the manner in which the decision was made. Merely because two views are possible, a court sitting in judicial review shall not exercise its discretion in favour of an alternative view to that of the authority. In the facts of the present case, two views are not even possible. (Para 53)

Present petition is against order dated 19.08.2019, passed by the Appellate Authority for Advance Ruling for Goods and Services Tax, Uttar Pradesh.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot,J.)

1. The petitioner has invoked the extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, being aggrieved by the order dated 19.08.2019 passed by the Appellate Authority for Advance Ruling for Goods and Services Tax, Uttar Pradesh. The order assailed in the writ petition dated 19.08.2019 has been passed under Section 101 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 and Uttar Pradesh Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017.

2. By means of the impugned order dated 19.08.2019, in the instant writ petition, the Appellate Authority has upheld the ruling of the Authority for Advance Ruling classifying odomos (product in issue), under HSN 38089191 of Chapter 38 of the Customs Tariff Act, 1975. The petitioner has also prayed that a writ in the nature of mandamus to be issued for classification of the product odomos as medicine under heading no. 3004 of the Customs Tariff Act, 1975.

3. Sri Atul Gupta, learned advocate for the petitioner contends that the product in question odomos is a medicament and has been incorrectly classified as a mosquito repellent. The Appellate Authority misdirected itself in law by overlooking the fact that the product odomos has all characteristics of a medicine and is used as such. He further submits that the chemical composition of the product in question also establishes that the essential character of the product is that of a medicine.

4. Learned advocate for the Revenue on the other hand submits that the product was correctly classified under the appropriate entry / heading by the Authority for Advance Ruling as well as the Appellate Authority under the Act. Learned advocate for the Revenue also pointed out the process of reasoning adopted by the authorities below and the material in the record, to contend that there was no flaw in the decision making process.

5. Heard the learned advocate for the parties.

6. The controversy will be decided by us in the following sequence. The salient findings of the impugned order passed by the Appellate Authority shall be followed by a summarisation of the nature and scope of an enquiry to determine the classification of products under fiscal statutes. The authorities in point shall be detailed thereafter. The narrative shall be taken forward by consideration of the decision making process and the nature of findings by the authority below within limits of judicial review. Finally, the correctness of the order shall be seen in light of such discussion.

7. A perusal of the impugned order dated 19.08.2019 passed by the Appellate Authority, reveals that the line of enquiry made by the Appellate Authority into how the appellant / petitioner identified and sold the product in the market yielded the following results:

"13.6. As stated in preceding paragraphs, the appellant declare prominently on the packing of the goods under reference that it is "mosquito repellent cream". The advertisement and publicity of these goods is also done as a mosquito repellent. It would also not be out of place to mention that the appellant's own websitewww.dabuar.com, describes Odomos as a 'mosquito repellent'. No doubt, that characteristic of these goods, which aid in prevention of vector borne diseases by preventing mosquito bites, is also mentioned; however, it is a matter of common knowledge that public or market identity of the product is as a mosquito repellent."

8. After investigation into the characteristics of the product as understood in common parlance or as perceived by the common-person or the market and its usage, the Appellate Tribunal set forth the following findings :-

"13.6. ...All of the above to state the common truth that the primary motive of the common person, for using materials like the subject goods, is to save and protect themselves from mosquito bites even if there is no or negligible incidence of mosquito borne diseases in their localities. This is also borne out by the fact that odomos is not normally prescribed as a medicine by a registered medical practitioner and is available in stores and establishments of all types including "kirana stores", their sale not being restricted to chemists/druggists alone. It neither controls the disease for which mosquitoes are carrier nor develops preventive characteristics inside human body to fight against vector borne diseases. Therefore, the market identity in common parlance of the subject goods is as a mosquito repellent and their usefulness in preventing mosquito borne diseases (again derived from their characteristic quality of being a mosquito repellent) is of a subsidiary/supplementary nature."

9. On the foot the aforesaid enquiry, the Appellate Tribunal held as follows:

"13.7. ...However, first of all, as stated hereto before, the primary test of classification is that of common parlance, applying which, we unequivocally arrive at the identity of the product as a mosquito repellent."

10. The Appellate Authority while upholding the conclusions of the Authority for Advance Ruling on the chemical composition of the product in question found as under:

"13.7. ...We also observe, that the appellants have stated that the active ingredient in their product is NNDB which is an improved version/formula of DEET, the active component of many mosquito repellents. The substance DEET is mentioned in the schedule to the "Insecticides Act, 1968" as an insecticide and by corollary, its improved version, i.e., NNDB would also be an insecticide. In this context, it is pertinent that mosquito repellents are classified at heading no. 38089191 of the Customs Tariff as a sub-category of insecticides."

11. Coming to the final and the decisive issue of the correct classification, the Appellate Authority looked to the previous classification of the product under the Central Excise regime. Further in view of the unaltered composition & unchanged of the product decided the issue thus:

"13.4. We observe that the applicant was clearing the same goods i.e. 'Odomos' as mosquito repellent under Chapter heading 3808 before the advent of GST, i.e., under the Central Excise regime. Further, there is no change in the composition or intended usage of these goods after the introduction of GST and the packing thereof bears a clear declaration that the product therein is a mosquito repellent cream."

12. The Appellate Authority invalidated the argument to classify the product under heading no. 3004909 under Heading No.3004 in the following terms:

"13.4. ...Undoubtedly, the description under heading no. 38089191, i.e., "Repellents for insects such as flies, mosquito" is far more specific as compared to the description under the other heading under consideration, i.e., heading no.30049099 which is "Other" (meaning medicaments other than all those explicitly specified in the other sub-headings of heading no.3004)."

13. Finally, in the wake of the aforesaid reasoning, the Appellate Authority conclusively ruled as follows :-

"In view of the foregoing discussions and findings we hereby uphold the Ruling in Order No.25 dated 20.02.2019 of the Authority for Advance Ruling that "Odomos is well covered under Chapter 38 of Customs Tariff Act and is classified under HSN 38089191."

14. The contours of an enquiry into classification of goods, have been delineated by the authority. The judicial pronouncements on the subject are consistent and have laid down the law with clarity.

15. The revenue raising intent of the taxing statute for which the products are differently classified is the guiding philosophy of such enquiry. Consequently, the understanding of the product in popular parlance / commercial language and its usage in the market are adopted, while scientific and technical meanings of the terms and expressions used are eschewed.

16. In case the scientific and technical meanings attached to the products stand at variance to the popular understanding or perception of the product, the former will yield to the latter. The manner in which the consumers use the product and perceive its nature, is a step in furtherance of the enquiry. The object, characteristics and composition of the product are also factored in determining the classification of the product.

17. The narrative will now be reinforced with good authority.

18. The general rules of interpretation of taxing statutes provide the setting for construing the tariff entries and will guide the judgment of this Court. In Oswal Agro Mills Ltd. and others v. Collector of Central Excise and others, reported at 1993 Supp (3) SCC 716, the Hon'ble Supreme Court summarized the canons of interpretation of taxing statutes thus:

"4. The provisions of the tariff do not determine the relevant entity of the goods. They deal whether and under what entry, the identified entity attracts duty. The goods are to be identified and then to find the appropriate heading, sub-heading under which the identified goods/products would be classified. To find the appropriate classification description employed in the tariff nomenclature should be appreciated having regard to the terms of the headings read with the relevant provisions or statutory rules or interpretation put up thereon. For exigibility to excise duty the entity must be specified in positive terms under a particular tariff entry. In its absence it must be deduced from a proper construction of the tariff entry. There is neither intendment nor equity in a taxing statute. Nothing is implied. Neither can we insert nor can we delete anything but it should be interpreted and construed as per the words the legislature has chosen to employ in the Act or rules. There is no room for assumption or presumptions. The object of Parliament has to be gathered from the language used in the statute. ... Therefore, one has to gather its meaning in the legal setting to discover the object which the Act seeks to serve and the purpose of the amendment brought about. The task of interpretation of the statute is not a mechanical one. It is more than mere reading of mathematical formula. It is an attempt to discover the intention of the legislature from the language used by it, keeping always in mind, that the language is at best an imperfect instrument for the expression of actual human thoughts. It is also idle to expect that the draftsman drafted it with divine prescience and perfect and unequivocal clarity. Therefore, court would endeavour to eschew literal construction if it produces manifest absurdity or unjust result. In Manmohan Das v. Bishun Das a Constitution Bench held as follows:

".. The ordinary rule of construction is that a provision of a statute must be construed in accordance with the language used therein unless there are compelling reasons, such as, where a literal construction would reduce the provision to absurdity or prevent the manifest intention of the legislature from being carried out."

19. The Hon'ble Supreme Court also noticed the purpose of fiscal statutes while undertaking the exercise to determine the classification of products under the Customs Tariff Act, 1975 in Commissioner of Central Excise, Nagpur v. Shree Baidyanath Ayurved Bhavan Limited, reported at (2009) 12 SCC 419 as under:

"49. The primary object of the Excise Act is to raise revenue for which various products are differently classified in the new Tariff Act. Resort should, in the circumstances, be had to popular meaning and understanding attached to such products by those using the product and not to be had to the scientific and technical meaning of the terms and expressions used. The approach of the consumer or user towards the product, thus, assumes significance. What is important to be seen is how the consumer looks at a product and what is his perception in respect of such product. The user's understanding is a strong factor in determination of classification of the products."

20. The Courts have consistently adopted the "common parlance test" as the most reliable standard for interpreting terms and entries in taxing statutes. This is ofcourse subject to various exceptions where the statutory text is completely contrary to the "common parlance" context. The common parlance test is also considered an extension of the established canons of statutory interpretation of taxing statutes.

21. The common parlance test was summarized and adopted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dunlop India Ltd. v. Union of India and others, reported at (1976) 2 SCC 241, wherein it was observed as under:

"29. It is well established that in interpreting the meaning of words in a taxing statute, the acceptation of a particular word by the trade and its popular meaning should commend itself to the authority.

34. We are, however, unable to accept the submission. It is clear that meanings given to articles in a fiscal statute must be as people in trade and commerce, conversant with the subject, generally treat and understand them in the usual course. But once an article is classified and put under a distinct entry, the basis of the classification is not open to question. Technical and scientific tests offer guidance only within limits. Once the articles are in circulation and come to be described and known in common parlance, we then see no difficulty for statutory classification under a particular entry."

22. The issue whether the commercial idiom used in the trade by the dealer and the consumer alike provided a definitive guide to understanding the nature of the entry fell for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Indian Aluminium Cables Ltd. v. Union of India and others, reported at (1985) 3 SCC 284. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Indian Aluminium Cables Ltd. (supra) ruled thus :-

"12.... This Court has consistently taken the view that, in determining the meaning or connotation of words and expressions describing an article in a tariff schedule, one principle which is fairly well settled is that those words and expressions should be construed in the sense in which they are understood in the trade, by the dealer and the consumer. The reason is that it is they who are concerned with it and, it is the sense in which they understand it which constitutes the definitive index of the legislative intention."

23. The absurdity of adopting the technical meanings over "common parlance" in fiscal statutes was highlighted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Reliance Cellulose Products Ltd. Hyderabad v. Collector of Central Excise, Hyderabad-I Division, Hyderabad reported at (1997) 6 SCC 464 by holding as under:

"20. In other words, if the word used in a fiscal statute is understood in common parlance or in the commercial world in a particular sense, it must be taken that the Excise Act has used that word in the commonly understood sense. That sense cannot be taken away by attributing a technical meaning to the word. But if the legislature itself has adopted a technical term, then that technical term has to be understood in the technical sense. In other words, if in the fiscal statute, the article in question falls within the ambit of a technical term used under a particular entry, then that article cannot be taken away from that entry and placed under the residuary entry on the pretext that the article, even though it comes within the ambit of the technical term used in a particular entry, has acquired some other meaning in market parlance. For example, if a type of explosive (RDX) is known in the market as Kala Sabun by a section of the people who uses these explosives, the manufacturer or importer of these explosives cannot claim that the explosives must be classified as soap and not as explosive."

24. Similarly, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shree Baidyanath Ayurved Bhavan Ltd. v. Collector of Central Excise, Nagpur, reported at (1996) 9 SCC 402 applied the common parlance test to classify the product "Dant Lal Manjan", which was in issue. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that "Dant Lal Manjan" did not qualify as a medicament under the Central Excise Act, by setting forth the following reasons:

"3.... The Tribunal rightly points out that in interpreting statutes like the Excise Act the primary object of which is to raise revenue and for which purpose various products are differently classified, resort should not be had to the scientific and technical meaning of the terms and expressions used but to their popular meaning, that is to say the meaning attached to them by those using the product. It is for this reason that the Tribunal came to the conclusion that scientific and technical meanings would not advance the case of the appellants if the same runs counter to how the product is understood in popular parlance."

25. The twin test of common parlance and the ingredients contained in the product were succinctly summed up by the Hon'ble Supreme Court for the purpose of classification of products enumerated in tariff schedules in Naturalle Health Products (P) Ltd. v. Collector of Central Excise, Hyderabad, reported at (2004) 9 SCC 136, by holding as follows:

"42. We are also of the opinion that when there is no definition of any kind in the relevant taxing statute, the articles enumerated in the tariff schedules must be construed as far as possible in their ordinary or popular sense, that is, how the common man and persons dealing with it understand it. If the customers and the practitioners of Ayurvedic medicine, the dealers and the licensing officials treat the products in question as Ayurvedic medicines and not as Allopathic medicines, that fact gives an indication that they are exclusively Ayurvedic medicines or that they are used in Ayurvedic system of medicine, though it is a patented medicine. This is especially so when all the ingredients used are mentioned in the authoritative books on Ayurveda. As rightly contended by the counsel for the appellants, the essential character of the medicine and the primary function of the medicine is derived from the active ingredients contained therein and it has certainly a bearing on the determination of classification under the Central Excise Act. As held inAmrutanjan case[Amrutanjan Ltd.v.CCE, (1996) 9 SCC 413 : (1995) 77 ELT 500] , the mere fact that the ingredients are purified or added with some preservatives does not really alter their character."

26. The twin test method evolved by the Hon'ble Supreme Court was applied to determine the classification of a product as a cosmetic or medicament in Puma Ayurvedic Herbal (P) Ltd. v. Commissioner, Central Excise, Nagpur, reported at (2006) 3 SCC 266. The two classification determining tests created by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Puma Ayurvedic Herbal (supra) are as under:

"2. ... In order to determine whether a product is a cosmetic or a medicament a twin test has found favour with the courts. The test has approval of this Court also vide*CCE v.Richardson Hindustan Ltd.*[(2004) 9 SCC 156] There is no dispute about this as even the Revenue accepts that the test is determinative for the issue involved. The tests are:

I. Whether the item is commonly understood as a medicament which is called the common parlance test. For this test it will have to be seen whether in common parlance the item is accepted as a medicament. If a product falls in the category of medicament it will not be an item of common use. A user will use it only for treating a particular ailment and will stop its use after the ailment is cured. The approach of the consumer towards the product is very material. One may buy any of the ordinary soaps available in the market. But if one has a skin problem, he may have to buy a medicated soap. Such a soap will not be an ordinary cosmetic. It will be medicament falling in Chapter 30 of the Tariff Act.

II. Are the ingredients used in the product mentioned in the authoritative textbooks on Ayurveda?"

27. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Commissioner of Central Excise, New Delhi v. Cannaught Plaza Restaurant Private Limited, New Delhi reported at (2012) 13 SCC 639, declined to import conditions or restrictions contemplated in statutes with different objects and purposes to fiscal statutes by finding as under:

"46. We are unable to persuade ourselves to agree with the submission. It is a settled principle in excise classification that the definition of one statute having a different object, purpose and scheme cannot be applied mechanically to another statute. As aforesaid, the object of the Excise Act is to raise revenue for which various goods are differently classified in the Act. The conditions or restrictions contemplated by one statute having a different object and purpose should not be lightly and mechanically imported and applied to a fiscal statute for non-levy of excise duty, thereby causing a loss of revenue. [See Medley Pharmaceuticals Ltd. v. CCE and Customs (SCC p. 614, para 31) and CCE v. Shree Baidyanath Ayurved Bhavan Ltd.] The provisions of PFA, dedicated to food adulteration, would require a technical and scientific understanding of "ice-cream". These provisions are for ensuring quality control and have nothing to do with the class of goods which are subject to excise duty under a particular tariff entry under the Tariff Act. These provisions are not a standard for interpreting goods mentioned in the Tariff Act, the purpose and subject of which is completely different."

28. The definitions of terms in statutes having different objectives, purposes and schemes cannot be applied mechanically to fiscal statutes. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Commissioner of Central Excise, Nagpur v. Shree Baidyanath Ayurved Bhavan Limited, reported at (2009) 12 SCC 419 held thus:

"55. True it is that Section 3(a) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 defines "Ayurvedic, siddha or unani drug" but that definition is not necessary to be imported in the new Tariff Act. The definition of one statute having different object, purpose and scheme cannot be applied mechanically to another statute. As stated above, the object of the Excise Act is to raise revenue for which various products are differently classified in the new Tariff Act."

29. The stage is set to return to the facts of the case.

30. The materials in the records before the authorities below corroborate the fact that the petitioners pitched the product in their sale material and advertisements as a mosquito repellent. Various mosquito repelling qualities are identified as defining characteristics of the subject goods in the market.

31. The product is not normally prescribed as a medicine by medical practitioner as a drug. There is no restriction on sales. The product is sold on demand at the counters in shops and establishments. Sales are not restricted to chemists/druggists alone.

32. The product is a mosquito repellent by virtue of its mosquito repelling characteristics and is so understood in common parlance. The dealers identify and sell the product as a mosquito repellent. Customers purchase the same and use it in the like manner.

33. These facts were conclusively established before the authorities below. In the wake of the said findings the common parlance test or the market identity test for classification of the product was satisfied. The conclusion that the product is a mosquito repellent is a logical sequitor of the above process of reasoning.

34. The said findings of the authorities below are consistent with the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in successive judicial pronouncements discussed earlier.

35. The Appellate Authority while finding for the Revenue has observed that the active ingredient of the product is NNDB which is the improved version - formula of DEET. The essential quality of DEET is mosquito repelling. The NNDB was introduced to overcome the itchiness caused by the DEET. The basic component of the product is DEET while the quality enhancements are created by the NNDB.

36. Mosquito repellent quality of DEET is the dominant chemical characteristic of the product, the hallmark of its identity, and also the defining usage feature of the product.

37. There is no scientific or expert evidence in the record to support the pleading or the case of the assessee / respondent that the NNDB imparts its essential character to the product.

38. No material / supporting scientific evidence from the record was shown to this court to establish that the creation of NNDB denudes the essential mosquito repellent quality of DEET in the product. The material in the record supports the conclusion by the authority below that the mosquito repellent characteristic of DEET is retained in the final product and forms its essence. The Appellate Authority also opined that DEET is a pesticide.

39. The plea of the assessee is a bald defence raised after the revenue had discharged its burden regarding the composition and nature of the product.

40. The holding of the Appellate Authority that the active component of the product is DEET and that NNDB is its improved version cannot be called perverse. The chemical composition test created by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, has been correctly applied by the Appellate Authority to construe the product as a mosquito repellent. For like reasons, contention of the respondent / assessee cannot be viewed with favour by this Court.

41. The interpretation of various entries and headings relating to classification of goods is guided both by the rules framed in that regard and judicial authority in point.

42. The entry being adopted by the revenue and under which the product has been classified by the authorities below is extracted hereunder:

"3.45 The relevant entries under Heading 3808 of the Customs Tariff Act are as under:

Tariff Item	Description of goods
3808	Insecticides, rodenticides, fungicides, herbicides, anti-sprouting products and plant-growth regulators, disinfectants and similar products
3808 91 91	- - - Repellents for insects such as flies and - mosquitoes

43. The tariff/heading being favoured by the respondent - assessee is reproduced hereunder:

3004	Medicaments (excluding goods of heading 3002, 3005 or 3006) consisting of mixed or unmixed products for therapeutic or prophylactic uses, put up in measured doses (including those in the form of transdermal adminstration systems) or in forms or packings for retail sale
3004 90 99	--- Other

44. The General Rules For Interpretation of Import Tariff which guided the Appellate Authority in determination of the classification of the goods, will also aid this discussion. The relevant rules are set out hereunder for ease of reference :-

"3. When by application of rule 2(b) or for any other reason, goods are, prima facie, classifiable under two or more headings, classification shall be effected as follows:

(a) The heading which provides the most specific description shall be preferred to headings providing a more general description. However, when two or more headings each refer to part only of the materials or substances contained in mixed or composite goods or to part only of the items in a set put up for retail sale, those headings are to be regarded as equally specific in relation to those goods, even if one of them gives a more complete or precise description of the goods.

(b) Mixtures, composite goods consisting of different materials or made up of different components, and goods put up in sets for retail sale, which cannot be classified by reference to (a), shall be classified as if they consisted of the material or component which gives them their essential character, insofar as this criterion is applicable.

(c) When goods cannot be classified by reference to (a) or (b), they shall be classified under the heading which occurs last in numerical order among those which equally merit consideration."

45. Under rule 3 of the general interpretation rules, resort cannot be had to a general entry called "others" or any other heading when the product clearly falls under a specific classification heading.

46. In Commissioner of Central Excise, Nagpur v. Shree Baidyanath

Ayurved Bhavan Limited, reported at (2009) 12 SCC 419, the Hon'ble Supreme Court while interpreting the Rule 3 (a) of the aforesaid Rules held as under:

"56. There is no doubt that a specific entry must prevail over a general entry. This is reflected from Rule 3(a) of the general Rules of interpretation that states that Heading which provides the most specific description shall be preferred to Headings providing a more general description."

47. A perusal of the classification heading no. 38089191 shows that the product in question is a neat fit into the description of products laid down therein. No laboured process of reasoning is required since the heading no.38089191, is clear as daylight.

48. The conclusion of the Appellate Authority in this regard are consistent with the Rules of interpretation and judicial authority in point.

49. The invocation of the general entry called "others" by the petitioner is clearly misconceived, since the product in question is covered by a specific description in the heading under which the product has been classified.

50. This Court is not persuaded to take a different view in the light of the preceding discussion.

51. The preceding discussion establishes that all attributes of mosquito repellents relevant for a judicial enquiry of this nature are found in the product in question.

52. The reliance placed by the petitioner / asseessee on the judgment of this Court rendered in the case of M/s Balsara Hygiene Products Limited reported at 1986 UPTC 367 (All.) is misplaced. The entry which was under consideration before this Court in M/s Balsara Hygiene Products Limited (supra) issued under Section 3 of the Uttar Pradesh Sales Tax, 1948 and read as "Medicines and pharmaceutical preparations including insecticides and pesticides". The said entry included insecticides and pesticides within the broader category of medicines and pharmaceutical preparations. This is in complete contradistinction to the entry under the tariff heading no.3808 which is in issue in this writ petition. The rival classifications of medicament vs mosquito repellent were not examined by this Court in the case of M/s Balsara Hygiene Products Limited (supra) while the same are directly in issue in the instant writ petition.

53. Before proceeding to the last part of the discussion, the scope and limitation of judicial review, which guide the exercise of discretionary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India may be stated. Judicial review is confined to the decision making process and is not directed against the decision itself. The court of judicial review examines the manner in which the decision was made. In judicial review the Court scrutinizes the correctness of the decision making process and not the decision itself. The concern of the Court exercising powers of judicial review is procedural propriety in the decision making process. While exercising powers of judicial review the Court has to find whether the decision making authority acted within its jurisdictional limits, committed errors of law, adhered to the principles of natural justice or acted in breach thereof, and whether the decision is perverse or not. The powers of judicial review are thus distinct from powers of an appellate court. The order of Appellate Authority can be judicially reviewed and not appealed against.

54. The courts exercising judicial review do not ordinarily substitute the decision of the authority by their judgment. Merely because two views are possible, a court sitting in judicial review shall not exercise its discretion in favour of an alternative view to that of the authority.

55. From the records pleadings and the arguments of the learned counsel for both the parties, this Court finds that the petitioners were given full opportunity of hearing before the authorities below. The Appellate Authority as well as Original Authority have adhered to the principles of natural justice while deciding the controversy. The order of the Appellate Authority assailed in the instant writ petition reflects due application of mind to the relevant facts and material in the record. The order is supported with cogent reasons. No arbitrariness or perversity in the findings of the Appellate Authority could be pointed out during the course of arguments. In fact two views are not even possible in the facts of this case. The Appellate Authority as well as the Original Authority have observed full procedural propriety.

56. This is not a fit case to judicially review the impugned order. Consequently, we decline to exercise our discretionary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India in favour of the petitioner.

57. In the wake of the preceding discussion, we find that there is no palpable infirmity in the classification of the product in the order passed by the Appellate Authority. The order passed by the Appellate Authority is liable to be upheld and stands affirmed accordingly.

58. The writ petition is misconceived and is liable to be dismissed and is accordingly dismissed.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE BISWANATH SOMADDER, J.
THE HON'BLE AJAY BHANOT, J.

Writ Tax No. 1313 of 2019

Mr. Deepak Gupta ...Petitioner
Versus
Assistant Commissioner Income Tax Noida & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri R.R. Agarwal, Sri Suyash Agarwal

Counsel for the Respondents:
S.S.C.

A. Tax – Income Tax Act, 1961: Section 131, 142(1), 147, 148, 151 - Scope of the expression 'reason to believe' discussed.
The word 'reason' in the phrase 'reason to believe' would mean cause or justification. If the Assessing Officer has cause or justification to know or suppose that income has escaped assessment, it can be said to have reason to believe the same. The expression cannot be read to mean that the Assessing Officer should have finally ascertained the fact by legal evidence or conclusion. (Para 19)

The objections of the petitioner were dealt with on a point to point basis. In order dated 26.11.2019 it was found that necessary pre-requisite of S.147 that "there should be escapement of income" stood fulfilled. The reasons recorded in that regard are found to be valid. Due approval u/s 151 was taken from the competent authority. (Para 25, 28)

B. Income Tax Act, 1961: Section 151 – Approval u/s 151, prior to initiation of proceedings u/s 148 is a jurisdictional pre-requisite and is not liable to be interfered with in the light of insufficient pleadings. Not appending approval along with objection is not sufficient to decline the presumption of correctness in favour of authorities. However, the assessee is fully entitled to a copy of the order passed u/s 151 and correspondingly, the Assessing Officer is obliged to hand-over a copy of the same, as and when the assessee seeks for it. (Para 9, 10, 28, 29)
Petition disposed of. Reassessment proceedings are not interfered with.

Precedent followed:

1. Assistant Commissioner of Income Tax Vs Rajesh Jhaveri Stock Brokers (P) Ltd., (2007) 291 ITR 500 (Para 19)

2. Prashant S. Joshi Vs Income Tax Officer, Ward 19 (2) (4), (2010) 324 ITR 154 (Para 20)

3. N.D. Bhatt, IAC Vs I.B.M. World Trading Corporation, (1995) 216 ITR 811 (Para 21)

4. Hindustan Lever Ltd. Vs R.B. Wadkar, (2004) 268 ITR 332 (Para 22)

Present petition is against the notice dated 22.10.2019, 'reasons to believe' recorded on 22.03.2019 and orders dated 28.10.2019 and 26.11.2019.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Biswanath Somadder,J. & Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot,J.)

1. The Revenue drew proceedings against the petitioner-assessee for reassessment of income which had allegedly escaped assessment for the Assessment Year 2012-13. The petitioner has assailed various orders taken out by the Revenue at different stages in pursuance of the reassessment proceedings initiated under the relevant provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (hereafter referred to as (I.T. Act, 1961)

2. The petitioner has assailed the notice issued under Section 142 (1) of the I.T. Act, 1961 dated 22.10.2019 requiring the petitioner to furnish details, documents and accounts which were necessary to process the case under the relevant provisions of law. The petitioner has also impugned the "reasons to believe" recorded on 22.03.2019 by the assessing officer to support the formation of opinion of the Revenue as required under Section 147 of the I.T. Act, 1961. Lastly the petitioner has laid a challenge to the orders dated 28.10.2019 and 26.11.2019 disposing of the objections of the petitioner against the issuance of the notice under Section 148 of the I.T. Act, 1961 for the Assessment Year 2012-13.

3. Sri R.R. Agarwal, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Suyash Agarwal, learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the only submission made on behalf of the petitioner is that the mandatory prior approval required under Section 151 of the I.T. Act, 1961 from the Principal Commissioner, Income Tax, Noida, was not obtained before initiation of the aforesaid reassessment proceedings. In the absence of such approval under Section 151 of the I.T. Act, 1961 from the competent authority the proceedings against the petitioner which are assailed in the instant writ petition, have no legs to stand on and are devoid of jurisdiction. This is the sole submission made by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner.

4. Per contra, learned counsel for the Revenue, Sri Subham Agarwal calls attention to various assertions made in the orders impugned dated 28.10.2019 and 26.11.2019 to contend that the requisite approval from the competent authority under Section 151 of the I.T. Act, 1961 was taken prior to the initiation of the proceedings in the manner contemplated by law. He further contends to the material on the basis of which the satisfaction was arrived at by the authorities to come to the conclusion that income of the petitioner had escaped assessment for the Assessment Year 2012-13 was credible and duly considered by the Revenue before initiating reassessment proceedings.

5. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

6. The sole contention of the petitioner-assessee that prior approval required from the competent authority under Section 151 of the I.T. Act, 1961 was not obtained before issuing notice under Section 148 of the I.T. Act, 1961 will be considered first. The objection in this regard was also taken by the assessee before the authorities below. It was raised in the objections against issuance of notice under Section 148 of the I.T. Act, 1961.

7. The assessing authority dealt with the aforesaid objection regarding grant of prior approval by the competent authority under Section 151 of the I.T. Act, 1961 before issuance of notice under Section 148 of the I.T. Act, 1961. The assessing authority in its order dated 28.10.2019 specifically recorded "Further, the notice u/s 148 was issued after taking prior approval u/s 151 from the Ld. Pr. Commissioner of Income Tax, Noida."

8. Similarly the order dated 19.11.2019 disposing of the self same objection of the petitioner-assessee against the issuance of notice under Section 148 of the I.T. Act, 1961 stated as follows:

"In this regard, please find the copy of approval taken from higher authorities and copy of statement of Shri Ashok Kumar Kayan."

9. The findings returned by the authorities in the orders disposing of the objections of the petitioner under Section 148 of the I.T. Act, 1961 are official acts and hence attract the presumption of correctness in their favour. This legal presumption of correctness is the prop and the pillar of legitimacy of all official acts. The presumption is rebuttable. However, the burden lies upon the petitioner to rebut the presumption. The petitioner on his part has taken the following plea in the writ petition to rebut the said presumption:

"That the order of the respondent no.1, dated 28.10.2019 in para 3.2 as stated that it is supplying the copy of the approval of the respondent no. 2, granted u/s 151 (1) of the Act, after accepting the objection of the petitioner relating to the decision of Sabh Infrastructure Ltd. (Supra) & Godawari Saraf (Supra) but no such approval was appended along with the objection dated 26.11.2019, as such the petitioner has reason to believe that no such mandatory approval as provided u/s 151 (1) of the Act, has been granted by the respondent no. 2, in pursuance of the guidelines of Sabh Infrastructure Ltd. (supra)."

10. We are afraid the aforesaid pleading is deficient and does not at all discharge the burden of proof which lay squarely upon the petitioner to reverse the presumption of correctness of the findings in the orders passed by the revisional authorities in discharge of their official duties. There is no reason or basis to decline the presumption of correctness in favour of the said findings so recorded in the orders passed by the revisional authorities regarding approval under Section 151 of I.T. Act, 1961 before initiation of proceedings under Section 148 of the I.T. Act, 1961. This Court has not been shown any reason or material to doubt the correctness of the finding recorded in the orders dated 28.10.2019 and 26.11.2019 that the notice under Section 148 of the I.T. Act, 1961 was issued after taking prior approval under Section 151 of the I.T. Act, 1961 from the Ld. Pr. Commissioner of Income Tax, Noida. This finding has not been shown to be perverse in any manner and is not liable to be interfered with by this Court. The argument on behalf of the petitioner is accordingly rejected.

11. There is more to the controversy.

12. The "reasons to believe" of the Assessing Officer that income had escaped assessment have been recorded in meticulous detail on 22.03.2019 by the assessing authority. The material on which such "reasons to believe" were founded are also disclosed in the order. The order dated 22.03.2019 passed by the Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Circle-1, Noida, regarding sufficiency of "reasons to believe" on which foot the proceedings under Section 147 of the I.T. Act, 1961 are liable to be initiated, contains a recital regarding information from credible sources regarding tax fraud in the case of M/s DLS Exports Pvt. Ltd. and related beneficiaries.

13. The enquiry made in pursuance of the aforesaid information revealed that one Devesh Upadhyay a well known Kolkata based entry operator admitted that he used the bank accounts of the companies which were under his sole control and management for layering the funds and providing accommodation entries in the form of bogus Share Capital/Premium, bogus LTCG/STCG. Statements of Ashok Kayan, Bikash Surekha and Sunil Kayan were also recorded on oath under Section 131 of the I.T. Act, 1961. The said persons in their statements admitted that their bank accounts were used for layering funds and providing accommodation entries in the form of bogus Share Capital/Premium, bogus LTCG/STCG to several beneficiaries. The name of the petitioner appeared in the list of the beneficiaries.

14. In the face of such statements and evidences it was recommended that during assessment proceedings the Assessing Officer is required to record the statements again for corroborating the evidences so collected.

15. In the wake of such material emanating from the said enquiry the Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Circle-1, Noida recorded his satisfaction and set forth his "reasons to believe" regarding the escapement of tax in the following manner:

" I have perused the above information and it is seen that the name of assessee Shri Deepak Gupta is appearing at Sr. No. 125 and it is seen that the assessee is one of the beneficiaries and received Rs. 49,10,240/- from the sale proceeds of the shares of M/s DLS Exports Pvt. Ltd. From the enquiries conducted, it has been established that M/s DLS Exports Pvt. Ltd, was involved in layering of funds and providing accommodation entries in the form of bogus LTCG/STCL to several beneficiaries and assessee is one of them. I have analysed the details from the return filed by the assessee for A.Y. 2012-13 and it is seen that the assessee has not declared any Capital Gain in his return of income. It is clear from the details available on record that the assessee has concealed the capital gain of Rs. 40,10,240/- has escaped assessment for AY 2012-13 with the meaning of provisions of Section 147 of the I.T. Act, 1961."

16. Accordingly proceedings under Section 147 of the I.T. Act, 1961 were initiated to assess the escaped income for Assessment Year 2012-13.

17. At this stage it would be apposite to reflect on some relevant aspects of the statements given by Ashok Kumar Kayan under Section 131 of the I.T. Act, 1961 under oath before the income tax authority at Kolkata which was part of the investigations which led to unearthing of the surreptitious transactions which facilitated the escapement of assessment. In the telling of the said Ashok Kumar Kayan under oath the modus of operandi of the parties to the bogus transactions to facilitate escapement of income was thus described:

"Q.7 Please state the modus of operandi in respect to providing bogus LTCG/STCL through Penny Stock.

Ans. I would like to state that there was a syndicate working in Penny Stock. At first level, client with unaccounted cash approach to the entry operators for getting LTCG. The entry operator in turn approach a set of broker who are in their network. The brokers work in co-ordination with each other so that trades are time synchronised and the scrips remains with cartel of broker and entry operator only. The share prices are rigged so that a penny stock gets a high value over a period of one year. Once, the scrips are retain beyond a period of one year in the clients accounts they are sold to some jammakharchi company which are operated by the same set of entry operator so the client get LTCG. Further, since the jammakharchi client has purchased the scrips at the higher rate, the rates are lowered over a period of time so that they get capital losses which they can claim in their return of income. Hence, while the individual clients incur long term capital gain, the jamma kharchi company clients earns short term capital loss and there is tax evasion at both the levels."

18. A perusal of the "reasons to believe" required under Section 147 of the I.T. Act, 1961 and stated in the order dated 22.03.2019 establishes the fact that the escapement of the income of the petitioner from assessment for the relevant assessment years was part of a larger network which facilitated defrauding of the Revenue on an organised and systematic basis. The authority had credible material before it to come to this conclusion. Further the authority while recording its reasons under Section 147 of the I.T. Act, 1961 on 22.03.2019 duly applied its mind to all the relevant materials in the record.

19. The scope of the expression "reason to believe" and the nature of the belief formed by the assessing officer that the income for any assessment year has escaped assessment arose for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Assistant Commissioner of Income Tax Vs Rajesh Jhaveri Stock Brokers (P)

Ltd. reported at (2007) 291 ITR 500. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Asstt. CIT Vs Rajesh Jhaveri Stock Brokers (P) Ltd (supra) held thus:

"Section 147 authorises and permits the Assessing Officer to assess or reassess income chargeable to tax if he has reason to believe that income for any assessment year has escaped assessment. The word 'reason' in the phrase 'reason to believe' would mean cause or justification. If the Assessing Officer has cause or justification to know or suppose that income had escaped assessment, it can be said to have reason to believe that an income had escaped assessment. The expression cannot be read to mean that the Assessing Officer should have finally ascertained the fact by legal evidence or conclusion.....At that stage, the final outcome of the proceeding is not relevant. In other words, at the initiation stage, what is required is 'reason to believe', but not the established fact of escapement of income. At the stage of issue of notice, the only question is whether there was relevant material on which a reasonable person could have formed a requisite belief. Whether the materials would conclusively prove the escapement is not the concern at that stage. This is so because the formation of belief by the Assessing Officer is within the realm of subjective satisfaction."

20. Dealing with the scheme of Section 147 to 163 in a composite fashion was considered by the Hon'ble Bombay High Court in Prashant S. Joshi Vs Income Tax Officer, Ward 19 (2)(4), reported at (2010) 324 ITR 154. The Hon'ble Bombay High Court elucidated the scope of the provisions as under:

"9. Section 147 provides that if the Assessing Officer has reason to believe that any income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment for any assessment year, he may subject to the provisions of Sections 148-163, assess or reassess such income and also any other income chargeable to tax, which has escaped assessment and which comes to his notice subsequently in the course of the proceedings under the section. The first proviso to Section 147 has no application in the facts of this case. The basic postulate which underlines Section 147 is the formation of the belief by the Assessing Officer that any income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment for any assessment year. The Assessing Officer must have reason to believe that such is the case before he proceeds to issue a notice under Section 147. The reasons which are recorded by the Assessing Officer for reopening an assessment are the only reasons which can be considered when the formation of the belief is impugned. The recording of reasons distinguishes an objective from a subjective exercise of power. The requirement of recording reasons is a check against arbitrary exercise of power. For it is on the basis of the reasons recorded and on those reasons alone that the validity of the order reopening the assessment is to be decided. The reasons recorded while reopening the assessment cannot be allowed to grow with age and ingenuity, by devising new grounds in replies and affidavits not envisaged when the reasons for reopening an assessment were recorded. The principle of law, therefore, is well settled that the question as to whether there was reason to believe, within the meaning of Section 147 that income has escaped assessment, must be determined with reference to the reasons recorded by the Assessing Officer. The reasons which are recorded cannot be supplemented by affidavits. The imposition of that requirement ensures against an arbitrary exercise of powers under Section 148."

21. Similarly the Division Bench of the Hon'ble Bombay High Court in N.D. Bhatt, IAC Vs I.B.M. World Trading Corporation reported at (1995) 216 ITR 811, construed the ambit of Section 148 and observed as under:

" It is also well settled that the reasons for reopening are required to be recorded by the assessing authority before issuing any notice under section 148 by virtue of the provisions of section 148 (2) at the relevant time. Only the reason so recorded can be looked at for sustaining or setting aside a notice issued under section 148. In the case of Equitable Investment Co. (P.) Ltd. vs. ITO [1988] 174 ITR 714 a Division Bench of the Calcutta High Court has held that where a notice issued under section 148 of the IT Act, 1961, after obtaining the sanction of the CIT, is challenged, the only document to be looked into for determining the validity of the notice is the report on the basis of which the sanction of the CIT has been obtained. The IT Department cannot rely on any other material apart from the report."

22. The same principal was reiterated in another Division Bench judgment of the Hon'ble Bombay High Court in Hindustan Lever Ltd. Vs R.B. Wadkar reported at (2004) 268 ITR 332.

"...the reasons are required to be read as they were recorded by the AO. No substitution or deletion is permissible. No additions can be made to those reasons. No inference can be allowed to be drawn based on reasons not recorded. It is for the AO to disclose an open his mind through reasons recorded by him. He has to speak through his reasons.... The reasons recorded should be clear and unambiguous and should not suffer from any vagueness. The reasons recorded must disclose his mind. Reasons are the manifestation of mind of the AO. The reasons recorded should be self-explanatory and should not keep the assessee guessing for the reasons. Reasons provide link between conclusion and evidence. The reasons recorded must be based on evidence. The AO, in the event of challenge to the reasons must be able to justify the same based on material available on record.... That vital link is the safeguard against arbitrary reopening of the concluded assessment. The reasons recorded by the AO cannot be supplemented by filing affidavit of making oral submission, otherwise, the reasons which are lacking in material particulars would get supplemented, by the time the matter reaches to the Court, on the strength of affidavit or oral submissions advanced."

23. In the light of the facts found in the earlier part of the judgment and the position of law distilled in the immediately preceding paragraphs, this Court finds that the satisfaction arrived at by the authority satisfies all the requirements of law as contemplated under Section 147 of the I.T. Act, 1961 and explained by judicial pronouncements in that regard.

24. The petitioner was granted full opportunity to state his case before the authorities in his objections against the issuance of notice under Section 148 of the I.T. Act, 1961 for the Assessment Year 2012-13. The petitioner duly availed the aforesaid remedy. The authorities while deciding the objections of the petitioner passed detailed speaking orders which again reflect due application of mind on the facts and material in the record.

25. The Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, Circle-5(1) (1), Gautam Buddh Nagar while disposing of the aforesaid objection of the petitioner against issuance of the notice under Section 148 in its order dated 26.11.2019 considered the objections of the petitioner. The objections of the petitioner were dealt with on a point to point basis. While passing the order dated 26.11.2019 the competent Revenue Authority found that necessary pre-requisite of Section 147 that "there should be an escapement of income" stood fulfilled. The reasons recorded in that regard were found to be valid. The authority also noticed the admission of the assessee that he had "incurred Long Term Capital Gain of Rs. 47,43,264/- during Financial Year 2011-12, however, the same has not been disclosed in his ITR."

26. The validity of the refusal of the request of the petitioner to cross examine Ashok Kumar Kayan, Sunil Kumar Kayan, Devesh Kumar Kayan whose statements were part of the material, was also affirmed in the following terms;

" In this regard, it is clarified that the undersigned cannot compel any other person for such cross examination as all these persons are not residing within 200 km. From the office of the undersigned. Therefore they cannot be summoned/called upon for such cross examination. The Income Tax Act, 1961 does not have any provision which may empower the undersigned to enforce the cross examination of a third party by the assessee. However, the statements of Shri Ashok Kumar Kayan are being provided to the assessee for ready reference."

27. No provision was pointed out during the course of the argument which could compel us to take a differing view from that of the authority passing the order dated 26.11.2019.

28. Before parting, we would like to deal with another issue in the interest of justice. We have already found as a matter of fact that the recital in the order dated 28.10.2019 as well as order dated 26.11.2019 that the due approval under Section 151 of the I.T. Act, 1961 was taken from the competent authority is not liable to be interfered with in light of the insufficient pleadings. However, the nature of right of the assessee to be provided a copy of the order of prior approval under Section 151 of the I.T. Act, 1961 as understood by the authority passing the order dated 28.10.2019 has to be adverted to. The authority denied a copy of the approval granted by the competent authority under Section 151 of the I.T. Act, 1961 to the petitioner for the following reasons:

" However, the AR of the assessee has contested that the copy of approval was not provided with the reasons recorded. In this regard, it is informed that the approvals taken from higher authorities are internal matter of the department for communication hence, the same cannot be provided. Further, the assessee has cited case law of Hon'ble Delhi High Court in support of his claim. It is hereby clarified that the case law of Hon'ble Delhi High Court is not binding on the undersigned. However, if the assessee has case laws of jurisdictional High Court or Hon'ble Supreme Court, the same may be communicated accordingly. Therefore, the above ground of the assessee is not acceptable hence rejected."

29. The aforesaid finding of the Revenue authority is unsustainable in law. Approval under Section 151 of the I.T. Act, 1961, prior to initiation of proceedings under Section 148 of the I.T. Act, 1961 is a jurisdictional pre-requisite. In the absence of such approval the proceedings would fall to the ground for want of jurisdiction. As such, the assessee is fully entitled to a copy of the order passed under section 151 of the I.T. Act, 1961 and correspondingly, the Assessing Officer is obliged to hand-over a copy of the same, as and when the assessee seeks for it.

30. There is no infirmity in the reassessment proceedings and the same are not liable to be interfered with.

31. The writ petition is accordingly disposed of finally.

32. Let a copy of this judgment and order be transmitted by the Registry to the Principal Commissioner of Income Tax, Uttar Pradesh, for circulation.

THE HON'BLE MANOJ KUMAR GUPTA, J.

Appeal U/S 37 Of Arbitration And Conciliation Act 1996 No. 2 of 2020

M/s D.H.B. Narendra Construction (J.V.) ...Appellant

Versus

Union of India & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Manoj Kumar Tewari

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 - Section 37 - challenge to- application u/s 9 of the Act-restraining the Railways from cancelling the work contract and from forfeiting security-relief sought is not granted-no evidence to establish that the layout and design were not handed over to the appellant in time-an injunction could not be granted. (Para 4, 5 & 6)

As a first principle of law, in case of breach of a contract which could be compensated in terms of money, the relief for specific performance could not be granted. Any injunction order restraining the respondents from not terminating the contract, extending the time limit under which contract was to be executed and restraining the respondents from interfering in the execution of the work by the appellant, is nothing but an order by the Court directing specific performance of the contract and that too on terms varied by it. such an injunction could not be granted.

Appeal U/S 37 Of Arbitration & Conciliation Act 1996 dismissed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta,J.)

1. The instant appeal under Section 37 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act 1996 has been filed challenging the order passed by District Judge, Ballia dated 18.12.2019, in Misc. Case No. 15 of 2019, rejecting the application filed by the appellant under Section 9 of the said Act.

2. In brief, the facts giving rise to the instant appeal are that the appellant was awarded a work order on 26.12.2018 by the Railways for construction of platforms, gate lodge, signal and station building, foot-over bridge and other miscellaneous works between Ballia and Karimuddinpur, in connection with doubling work of the railway line. The case of the appellant is that the Railways did not provide design for certain sectors to the appellant. Consequently, the work could not be started in those sectors. In other sectors, where layout design was provided to the appellant, it claims to have executed substantial part of the work. The appellant was served with a notice dated 24.7.2019, requiring it to show cause as to why the contract be not terminated for not being able to execute it within time. The appellant apprehending that in pursuance of the said show cause notice, its contract would be cancelled, approached the Court under Section 9, seeking an injunction restraining the Railways from cancelling the work contract dated 26.12.2018, or from forfeiting security tendered in respect thereof and for a further direction that the time under the contract be extended till March 2020 and the Railways be restrained from interfering in the execution of the remaining work by the appellant.

3. The Railways contested the application and asserted that the appellant had failed to abide by the terms of the work order dated 26.12.2018. The work layout was duly handed over to the appellant on 1.11.2018, but the appellant failed to execute the work. The work to be executed is of public importance. Delay on the part of the appellant in execution thereof has resulted in escalation of the cost. The appellant is not entitled to any injunction.

4. The court below after considering the pleadings and evidence led before it, held that there was no evidence on record to establish that the designs and layouts were not handed over to the appellant in time. It is also held that work under the contract was of special significance and any delay would have serious adverse consequence. Thus, the appellant was not found to be having any prima facie case in its favour, nor balance of convenience lies with it.

5. Counsel for the appellant submitted that the appellant had a strong prima facie case as the designs and layouts were not made available to it in time. Consequently the appellant cannot be held liable for delay. It is also submitted that the layout plan was handed over to the appellant during monsoon period when there was flood in the area where work was to be executed. Consequently, there was no default on the part of the appellant and the show cause notice issued to the appellant in relation to termination of contract, is wholly illegal.

6. The relief which the appellant had sought by filing application under Section 9 of the Act, if granted, would amount to an order by Court specifically enforcing the work contract between the parties. As a first principle of law, in case of breach of a contract which could be compensated in terms of money, the relief for specific performance could not be granted. Any injunction order restraining the respondents from not terminating the contract, extending the time limit under which contract was to be executed and restraining the respondents from interfering in the execution of the work by the appellant, is nothing but an order by the Court directing specific performance of the contract and that too on terms varied by it. In considered opinion of this Court, such an injunction could not be granted.

7. This Court therefore finds no illegality in the impugned order to warrant interference. The appeal lacks merit and is dismissed.

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
Puneet Chandra

A. Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 - Section 2(b) - challenge to-wilful disobedience of opposite party in deciding the representation of the petitioner-chairman decided the representation by a reasoned and speaking order-hence, rejecting the petitioner representation stating that he was not an employee of Nagar Nigam at the time of transfer from Firoz Gandhi Unchahar Thermal Power Project. (Para 4)

It is ordinarily true that in contempt jurisdiction a Judge cannot exercise writ jurisdiction. In contempt jurisdiction either the Judge can punish for contempt or discharge the contemnor. However, in exceptional circumstances, the court can issue directives in contempt jurisdiction in order to secure the ends of justice. (Para 2)

B. Doctrine of Stare decisis - In contempt jurisdiction, a Judge cannot exercise a writ jurisdiction and therefore, prayer of the petitioner for issuing certain directions is refused. 7. Narendra Singh Vs. St. of Punjab reported in AIR 2014 SC 1839 (Supp.)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Rakesh Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Manish Kumar, Senior Advocate, assisted by Shri Puneet Chandra, learned counsel appearing for contemnor-opposite party.

2. Contention of learned counsel for petitioner is that writ court vide order dated 08.05.2017, permitted the petitioner to make detailed representation to opposite party no.1 and in case such a representation is made by the petitioner, the same was to be decided by the Chairman, opposite party no.1 with a reasoned and speaking order within a period of three months from the date a certified copy of the order is placed before him. It has further been submitted by learned counsel for petitioner that opposite party has full knowledge of the judgment and order passed by the writ court but has not decided the representation of the petitioner. Next submission of learned counsel for petitioner is that the land of the petitioner and various other persons were taken by opposite party and 166 candidates have been granted appointment by the opposite party. However, arbitrarily, the opposite party has not provided appointment to the petitioner although he was bound to appoint him. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied on the judgment of this Court reported in (2004) (2) UPLBEC 1404 U.P. Nursing Home Association and others vs. Rajesh Kumar Srivastava and others wherein para 7, the court has held as under:

"No doubt it is ordinarily true that in contempt jurisdiction a Judge cannot exercise writ jurisdiction. In contempt jurisdiction either the Judge can punish for contempt or discharge the contemnor. However, in exceptional circumstances as we have held in Dr. Ravindra Kumar Goel's case (supra), the court can issue directives in contempt jurisdiction in order to secure the ends of justice. The view was taken by the Division Bench decision of this Court in Abida Begam vs. RCEO (Supra), and we reiterated it in Dr. Ravindra Kumar Goel's case (Supra)."

3. Thus, it is submitted that in view of the law laid down by the Division Bench of this Court, directions can be issued in the contempt jurisdiction to secure the ends of justice to the petitioner and opposite party may be directed to provide appointment to the petitioner.

4. Per contra, Shri Manish Kumar, learned counsel for contemnor submitted that in compliance of the order passed by the writ court, the representation of the petitioner has been considered and decided by a reasoned and speaking order dated 7.9.2019 and reasons have been stated in detail and while rejecting the representation of the petitioner, finding has been given that petitioner was not an employee of Nagar Nigam at the time of transfer from Firoz Gandhi Unchahar Thermal Power Project.

5. Learned counsel further submitted that it has been categorically mentioned in the rejection order that petitioner had continued his job since 31.7.1987 and had been confirmed as peon w.e.f. 01.02.1992 as such the petitioner was regular employee of DAV Public School since 01.02.1992 and has accepted the job of peon in DAV Public School and is working as regular employee since 1992 therefore, nothing more is required to be done by the authority. In support, he has relied upon the judgment reported in (2014) 3 SCC 373 Sudhir Vasudeva, Chairman and Managing Director, Oil and Natural Gas Corporation Limited and others. The relevant para no.19 is reproduced as under :-

"The power vested in the High Courts as well as this Court to punish for contempt is a special and rare power available both under the Constitution as well as the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. It is a drastic power which, if misdirected, could even curb the liberty of the individual charged with commission of contempt. The very nature of the power casts a sacred duty in the Courts to exercise the same with the greatest of care and caution. This is also necessary as, more often than not, adjudication of a contempt plea involves a process of self-determination of the sweep, meaning and effect of the order in respect of which disobedience is alleged. The Courts must not, therefore, travel beyond the four corners of the order which is alleged to have been flouted or enter into questions that have not been dealt with or decided in the judgment or the order violation of which is alleged. Only such directions which are explicit in a judgment or order or are plainly self -evident ought to be taken into account for the purpose of consideration as to whether there has been any disobedience or willful violation of the same. Decided issues cannot be reopened; nor can the plea of equities be considered. The Courts must also ensure that while considering a contempt plea the power available to the Court in other corrective jurisdictions like review or appeal is not trenched upon. No order or direction supplemental to what has been already expressed should be issued by the Court while exercising jurisdiction in the domain of the contempt law; such an exercise is more appropriate, in other jurisdictions vested in the Court, as noticed above."

6. It is thus submitted by learned counsel for the contemnor that direction of the court was only to decide the representation of the petitioner by a reasoned and speaking order, the same has been done, the contemnor has passed a well reasoned order.

7. He submitted that in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid case Sudhir Vasudeva, (Supra) this Court being a contempt court cannot travel beyond its jurisdiction. He has also relied on judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of (2019) 8 SCC 280 Ashok Kumar and others vs. Depinder Singh Dhesi and others. Relevant paras 16 and 17 are reproduced as hereunder::

"16. In the present case, serious objection has been raised on behalf of Department that the concerned candidates had enrolled themselves in courses leading to Degrees in Engineering through Distance Education Mode without express permission of the Department and/or the Department did not recognise the Degrees in Engineering awarded through Distance Education Mode or that the concerned candidates were not granted any study leave to pursue such courses. If the Degrees were so obtained in violation of the norms and parameters laid down by the concerned Department, the matter assumes completely different complexion. The directions issued by this Court in the judgment and the Order never directed to confer such advantages which the candidates were otherwise not enjoying on the date when the judgment and clarificatory Order were passed. If there was serious infirmity in the Degrees so obtained by the candidates, the matter ought to be sorted out either through representation or through properly instituted challenge in that behalf. If the promotion was not granted and was not being enjoyed as on the day, when the judgment was passed, there was no violation of any direction issued by this Court. As is evident, the representations made by the Contempt Petitioner claimed conferral of certain status and benefits which they were not enjoying earlier. If there be any grievance on that front, the entitlement needs to be established in proceedings other than a Contempt Petition.

17. Mr. Maninder Singh, learned Senior Advocate, was, therefore completely justified in relying upon the following observations passed by this Court in J.S. Parihar v. Ganpat Duggar and Ors. MANU/SC/0037/1997 : (1996) 6 SCC 291:

"6. The question then is whether the Division Bench was right in setting aside the direction issued by the learned Single Judge to redraw the seniority list. It is contended by Mr. S.K. Jain, the learned Counsel appearing for the Appellant, that unless the learned Judge goes into the correctness of the decision taken by the Government in preparation of the seniority list in the light of the law laid down by three Benches, the learned Judge cannot come to a conclusion whether or not the Respondent had willfully or deliberately disobeyed the orders of the Court as defined Under Section 2(b) of the Act. Therefore, the learned Single Judge of the High Court necessarily has to go into the merits of that question. We do not find that the contention is well founded. It is seen that, admittedly, the Respondents had prepared the seniority list on 2-7-1991. Subsequently promotions came to be made. The question is whether seniority list is open to review in the contempt proceedings to find out whether it is in conformity with the directions issued by the earlier Benches. It is seen that once there is an order passed by the Government on the basis of the directions issued by the court, there arises a fresh cause of action to seek redressal in an appropriate forum. The preparation of the seniority list may be wrong or may be right or may or may not be in conformity with the directions. But that would be a fresh cause of action for the aggrieved party to avail of the opportunity of judicial review. But that cannot be considered to be the wilful violation of the order. After re-exercising the judicial review in contempt proceedings, a fresh direction by the learned Single Judge cannot be given to redraw the seniority list. In other words, the learned Judge was exercising the jurisdiction to consider the matter on merits in the contempt proceedings. It would not be permissible Under Section 12 of the Act. Therefore, the Division Bench has exercised the power Under Section 18 of the Rajasthan High Court Ordinance being a judgment or order of the Single Judge; the Division Bench corrected the mistake committed by the learned Single Judge. Therefore, it may not be necessary for the State to file an appeal in this Court against the judgment of the learned Single Judge when the matter was already seized of the Division Bench."

8. Having considered the rival submissions of learned counsel for parties, this Court has noticed that writ Court vide its order dated 08.05.2017, directed the contemnor to decide the representation of the petitioner by a reasoned and speaking order.

9. The contemnor vide its order dated 07.09.2019, has decided the representation of the petitioner by a reasoned and speaking order therefore, the direction issued by the writ court has been duly complied in its letter and spirit by the contemnor and no willful disobedience can be alleged on the contemnor in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ashok Kumar and others and in case of Sudhir Vasudeva (Supra).

10. So far as the argument of learned counsel for petitioner regarding law laid down by the Division Bench of this Court in UP Nursing Home Association and others (Supra) is concerned, in that case this Court has reiterated the views expressed by it in the case of Dr. Ravindra Kumar Goel and others vs. State of U.P. and another decided on 27.4.2004 in Special Appeal No.320 of 2004, there were peculiar facts and particularly background in which the directions were issued to secure the ends of justice while exercising the contempt jurisdiction. The directions issued were under exceptional circumstance, otherwise, in para 7 of the judgment in U.P. Nursing Home Association (Supra), the Division Bench has reiterated the view that in contempt jurisdiction, a Judge cannot exercise a writ jurisdiction and therefore, prayer of the petitioner for issuing certain directions is refused. Even otherwise, under Article 141 of the Constitution, the law declared by the Hon'ble Supreme Court being the law of the land is binding on all Courts and Tribunals and authorities in India including this Court. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Narendra Singh vs. State of Punjab reported in AIR 2014 SC 1839 (Supp.) has again held that the law declared by the Supreme Court in the form of judgment became binding precedent upon the High Courts and subordinate Courts and has to be followed under Article 141 of the Constitution of India. Therefore, in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sudhir Vasudeva (Supra) and Ashok Kumar and others (Supra) as well as keeping in view the significant characteristics of the doctrine of stare decisis, the contempt petition is dismissed.

11. Consigned to record.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 147, 304/149, 504, 506 - Appeal against conviction.

In present case the injury on the person of deceased were not on vital part. Rather over upper and lower limbs with back and trial has concluded that it was not with intention to cause death or to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death. Though, those injuries were grievous, resulting fracture as well as death of injured on the same day of occurrence. (para 10)

On the basis of facts and evidence placed on record, prosecution was successful to prove its case against appellants. (para 9)

The argument is for quantum of section it was apparently of ten years rigorous imprisonment with fine, which seems to be not in proportion to degree of offence, because each of the convicts appellants are of no criminal antecedent. They remained in prison since last more than six years in this case crime number. On the facts and circumstances and balancing the societal need of punishment with their chance of reformation for bringing them in main stream of society, sentence of eight years rigorous imprisonment with fine, as above, seems to suffice the cause of justice. (para 10)

The appeal is partly allowed. (E-2)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This appeal under Section 374(2) of Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C.') has been filed by Niyamullah, Mahendra, Sahendar, Wakeel, Naushad, Kalimullah, Anaruddin and Enmul Huda @ Dugru against judgment of conviction and sentence made therein in Sessions Trial No. 163 of 2004 (State Vs. Niyamullah and others), arising out of Case Crime No. 151 of 2004, under Sections 147, 304/149, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station Kolhuee, District Maharajganj with connected Sessions Trial No. 31 of 2005 (State Vs. Anaruddin) and Sessions Trial No. 92 of 2005 (State Vs. Enmul Huda @ Dugru) by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Maharajganj, whereby each of the convicts-appellants were convicted for offences punishable under Section 304 Part-I read with 149, 147, 504, 506 I.P.C. and they have been sentenced with ten years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs.10,000/- each under Section 304 Part-I read with 149 I.P.C., one year rigorous imprisonment under Section 147 I.P.C., six months rigorous imprisonment under Section 504 I.P.C. and six months rigorous imprisonment under Section 506 I.P.C. In case of default in making fine, each of the convicts-appellants were to undergo one year rigorous imprisonment. There was direction for concurrent running of sentences and adjournment of previous imprisonment, if any.

2. Memo of appeal contends that learned trial court failed to appreciate facts and law placed on record. The convicts-appellants No. 5 and 8 were not named in first information report, which was lodged by first informant himself, wherein PW-2 Izhar Ali was shown to be the eyewitness, accompanying the first informant, but subsequently, they were added. It itself shows that both these witnesses of fact were not with clean hands. Rather, they have falsely implicated convicts-appellants due to their personal enmity. PW-3 Nandlal and PW-4 Jumrat Ali were also not shown to be the eyewitness account in first information report, but subsequently introduced as eyewitness account. There was no intention to cause death of deceased. Rather, the only said intention was, though not admitted, for offence punishable under Section 325 I.P.C. Hence, the conviction of appellants under Section 304 Part-I I.P.C. was unsustainable and was against the evidence on record. X-ray report of deceased has not not been proved by the prosecution or any witness. On the score of this too, finding was erroneous. A general allegations against appellants, except appellant nos. 5 and 8, was levelled with no disclosure as to who had caused the stone injury on the lower back of deceased. It seems that the said injury, which could be a reason for the death of deceased, situated on the left lower back, was due to falling down from a height into a pit hole, in which he got his limbs and lower back injured, but subsequently due to previous enmity, this false implication occurred. Appellants are in jail since 20.12.2013. The conviction and sentence of appellants is contrary to law, on the point of sentencing too. The same is not proportionate to offence. Rather, it is too severe. Hence, this appeal is liable to be allowed. Accordingly, this appeal be allowed and judgment of conviction and sentence made therein be set aside. Further, appellants be acquitted from the charges levelled against them.

3. From the very perusal of record of trial court and impugned judgment, it is apparent that first information report (Ext.Ka-3) was got lodged by way of presenting a written report, signed by informant Mahboob Alam at Police Station Kolhuee, District Maharajganj on 25.09.2004 at 21.50 P.M. against Anaruddin, Kalimullah, Niyamullah, Wakeel, Mahendra and Sahendar, all R/o Saakinaan Kamharia Bujurg, Tola Bargadhia, P.S. Kolhuee, Maharajganj, for offences punishable under Sections 147, 308, 325 I.P.C. for an occurrence, which took place at about 4 P.M. on the same day i.e. 25.09.2004, within the area of village Kamharia Bujurg, with this contention that informant Mahboob Ali along with his cousin Izhar Ali, was on his way to their home from 'Eksadawa Chauraha' on 25.09.2004 and when about 4 P.M. they reached near wooden bridge, they found that Anaruddin, S/o Ali Hasan, Kalimullah, S/o Jafar, Niyamullah, S/o Jafar, Wakeel, S/o Furd, Mahendra and Sahendar, S/o Chinni Lal, were beating informant's brother Mashoor Alam, by lathi, who was lying on ground and shouting for help. Upon this noise, he and his cousin along with Yogender, S/o Sundar rushed on spot. They intended to save injured, but accused persons, while seeing those persons, reaching on spot, ran towards river. His brother was unconscious, having fracture over both upper and lower limbs. This assault was owing to previous enmity. Injured was taken to Bankati, Farenda Hospital from where doctor opined for taking to Sadar Hospital, Gorakhpur, where he was got admitted and this information was submitted for taking legal recourse. Injured was medically examined at District Hospital, Gorakhpur and medico legal report (Ext.Ka-16) was got prepared by Dr. Hiralal of District Hospital, Gorakhpur. Injured was having following injuries:-

3. Lacerated wound 1cm x 0.5cm x muscle deep on anterior aspect of right lower leg just below the right knee joint.

5. Lacerated wound 1cm x 0.5cm on front of left lower leg, 7cm below the left knee joint.

7. Abrasion 2cm x 2cm on lateral aspect of left lower leg. 7cm above the left ankle joint.

Owing to above injuries, while being under treatment, injured succumbed and this information was transmitted at above police station, whereupon inquest proceeding was got conduced by Investigating Officer at District Hospital, Gorakhpur on 26.09.2004 at 12.30 P.M., wherein witness of inquest opined death owing to above anti mortem injuries, for which he was under treatment. Accordingly, documents, connected with inquest proceeding i.e. letter to C.M.O., letter to Range Inspector, Police Form No. 13, Photo Dead Body, Specimen Seal, by which this dead body was sealed after wrapping in a cloth, were got prepared. This dead body along with those documents were sent for its autopsy examination, which was got conducted at mortuary of District Hospital, Gorakhpur on 26.09.2004 by Dr. R.P. Prasad, wherein autopsy examination report (Ext. Ka-4) was got prepared. The anti mortem injuries, found on the person of deceased, were as follows:-

1 Contused traumatic swelling 10cm x 5cm deformity on right upper arm on cutting underlying bone fractured.

2. Contused traumatic swelling 12cm x 6cm deformity on left forearm on cutting underneath both bone fractured.

3. Lacerated wound 1cm x 1cm x muscle deep on the back of left upper arm on lower end.

4. Stitched wound 6cm long having two stitches on the left lower leg outer aspect on cutting wound is muscle deep.

5. Lacerated wound 3cm x 1cm x muscle deep on outer aspect of left leg.

6. Stitched wound 4 cm long having 1 stitched on upper part of medial aspect leg on cutting wound is bone deep underlying bone fractured.

7. Stitched wound 6cm long having stitches on the right lower leg, wound is deep, on cutting underlying bone fractured.

8. Contusion 15 x 2cm on this left lower back.

4. Investigating Officer visited spot, prepared site map, took statements under Section 161 of Cr.P.C., thereafter, filed charge sheet against Niyamullah, Mahendra, Sahendar, Wakeel, Naushad and Kalimullah, who were apprehended and Enmul Huda @ Dugru, as absconder, for offences punishable under Sections 147, 304, 504, 506 I.P.C., whereupon Magistrate took cognizance. Subsequently, charge sheet for other absconding accused persons were filed, over which cognizance was taken. Firstly, Sessions Trial No. 163 of 2004, was committed to court of Sessions Judge by Court of C.J.M., Maharajganj, for accused Niyamullah, Mahendra, Sahendar, Wakeel, Kalimullah and Naushad. Subsequently file of Anaruddin was committed and this was Sessions Trial No. 31 of 2005. Thereafter, file of Enmul Huda @ Dugru was committed to court of Sessions, which was Sessions Trial No. 92 of 2005. As all these three sessions trial were arising out of one and common Case Crime No. 151 of 2004 of Police Station Kolhuee for one and same offences, punishable under Sections 147, 304/149, 504, 506 I.P.C., hence, Additional Sessions Judge consolidated all these three sessions trial by making leading Session Trial No. 163 of 2004 (State Vs. Niyamullah and 5 others), wherein evidence were recorded. After hearing learned counsel for both sides, charges were framed in all those three sessions trial against those accused persons for offences, as above, and it was read over and explained, whereupon accused persons pleaded not guilty and claimed for trial. Prosecution examined PW-1 Mahboob Alam, PW-2 Izhar Ali, PW-3 Nandlal, PW-4 Jumrat Ali, PW-5 Constable Ramanand Bharti, PW-6 Dr. R.P. Prasad, PW-7 S.I. Nirahuram, PW-8 S.I. Dilip Kumar Bind, PW-9 Constable Ramdas Bharti, PW-10 Arun Kumar Srivastava, Pharmacist, PW-11 Dr. Harilal. Thereafter, for having explanation, if any, of accused over incriminating evidence furnished by prosecution and getting version of defence, statement under Section 313 of Cr.P.C., were got recorded, wherein each of the accused persons said that the entire evidence of prosecution was false, nobody was eyewitness of the occurrence, name of Naushad and Enmul Huda @ Dugru was not there in first information report and it was subsequently added, prosecution witness Nos. 3 and 4 were not eyewitness account of occurrence, rather they were inimical witness, against whom there had been so many cases, both in civil and criminal side and it was admitted by these witnesses in their statements. The injuries found on the person of deceased were not with intention to cause death or cause such bodily injuries, as was likely to cause death. Rather, it was fracture of both upper and lower limbs by some other reason by some other person in above time of occurrence of night, wherein false implication was made. The factual investigation was also erroneous. Charge sheet was filed on dishonest investigation. In defence, documentary evidence for showing previous litigation in between were filed. After hearing learned public prosecutor and learned counsel for defence impugned judgment of conviction, whereby all eight accused persons were convicted for offences levelled against them and after hearing over quantum of sentence, sentence as above, were imposed by impugned judgment. Against this judgment, this appeal was filed wherein Enmul Huda @ Dugru and Naushad were enlarged on bail under Section 389(1) Cr.P.C. But bail to rest of convicts-appellants were rejected. Though, they were on bail during trial and it was never misused by any of them. They have been taken in custody on date of judgment dated 19.12.2013 and since then for these six years they are languishing in jail.

5. The convict-appellant Mahendra died during appeal. Hence his appeal stood abated. Now, the appeal of seven convicts-appellants is pending.

6. Learned counsel for convicts-appellants argued that none of the injuries, found over the person of deceased, were on vital part. Rather, they all were on upper and lower limbs as well as back and they all were caused by lathi that is not a dangerous weapon. The assault of stone was said by PW-1. No injury over abdomen caused by stone was held by Medical Officer in its medical examination. PW-10 Arun Kumar Srivastava is pharmacist, who in his statement has proved Ext. Ka-15 regarding injuries sustained by Mahboob Alam and entry of same in EOPD register (from 19.09.2004 to 09.10.2004) on 25.09.2004 at serial no. 32/11682, wherein he was entered to be attended by Medical Officer at 7.30 PM and this information of his death was entered to be transmitted at 8.15 PM of the date. This entry of register has bee proved as Ext. Ka-15 and statement of PW-11 Dr. Harilal is of this fact that all injuries i.e. seven in number, found by him, were by hard blunt object and were simple in nature, other than six injuries no. 1 to 4 and 6, for which X-ray was advised and matter was referred for Ortho specialist. Medico legal report (Ext.Ka-16) was got prepared by this witness under his handwriting and signature and all these injuries were not on vital party of deceased. Hence, there was no intention to cause death or bodily injury likely to cause death or with knowledge that by such injury death is likely to occur. Rather injuries were of lathi-danda. They were seven in medico legal report and eight in autopsy examination report. All were over upper and lower limbs, resulting fracture of them and no injury was over the head, brain, chest and ribs. Hence, this was in maximum a case punishable under Section 325 I.P.C. or under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. The witness of fact PW-1 Mahboob Alam and PW-2 Izhar Ali were with material contradiction regarding place of occurrence, sequence of occurrence and mode of occurrence. Initially, report was got lodged against six persons, but during recording of statements, it was added that two accused persons were making exhortation for assaulting for fracture of upper and lower limbs of deceased and rest were assaulting, whereas no such contention was there in first information report. PW-3 Nandlal and PW-4 Jumrat Ali were highly inimical and interested witnesses. There were vast contradiction in their testimony with regard to testimony of PW-1 Mahboob Alam and PW-2 Izhar Ali. Hence, for Naushad and Enmul Huda @ Dugru, no case was made out. Vicarious liability under Section 149 I.P.C may also be not fastened against them because the only testimony is that they were given exhortation, but no such recital was there in F.I.R.. Rather, this was embellishment and exaggeration. For other appellants, maximum accusation said to be proved by prosecution was for offences punishable under Section 304 Part II I.P.C. But trial court has convicted for offence punishable under Section 304 Part-I I.P.C. wherein maximum sentence of ten years with fine of Rs.10,000/- had been awarded to each of them. Whereas they are languishing in jail since last six years, after the date of judgment, and were also in jail before their bail. Hence, this was sufficient and cogent sentence. Hence, they be maximum sentenced with above period undergone and those two convicts-appellants, for whom there is embellishment and exaggeration, be acquitted of the charges.

7. Learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for informant Sri K.K. Rao has vehemently opposed the contention of learned counsel for appellants that this poor victim in young age was badly beaten by convicts-appellants, resulting eight injuries of such dimension causing fracture over both upper and lower limbs and owing to it, he succumbed during treatment on that very day. Hence, it was a brutal homicide requiring no leniency. Learned Sessions Judge had appreciated facts and law placed on record and had passed impugned judgment of conviction and thereafter, impugned sentencing was made commensurate to nature and degree of offence. Hence, this appeal be dismissed.

8. Chik F.I.R. (Ext.Ka-3) was got registered upon the written report (Ext.Ka-1), having signature of informant Mahboob Alam, wherein accusation of assault was assigned against Anaruddin, Kalimullah, Niyamullah, Wakeel, Mahendra and Sahendar and it was said to be witnessed by Yogender and informant Mahboob Alam i.e. no recital of any exhortation made by Naushad or Enmul Huda @ Dugru was there. This report was got lodged after injured was admitted at District Hospital, Gorakhpur. This condition was settled that it was not registered under anxiety or any hurry or by other person other than informant, who had rushed on spot instantly and who is real brother of deceased. While being examined as PW-1 in examination-in-chief, the same contention has been made by this witness Mahboob Alam "जब कठवा के पुल के आगे पूरब पहुंचे तो देखे की मेरे ही गांव के अन्नारुद्दीन कलीमुल्लाह व नियामुल्ला व महेंद्र सहेंद्र वकील मार रहे थे ।ट मेरे भाई मशहूर आलम को लाठी डंडा से मार रहे थे ।ट मेरे भाई गिर गए थे बेहोश हो गए थे चिल्ला भी रहे थे।ट" Subsequently, in other lines, this has been said that Enmul Huda and Naushad were making exhortation for fracture of both upper and lower limbs of his brother, which were made by accused persons and they all ran towards field. But this story of giving exhortation was not said in first information report, which was got registered by this PW-1. When asked as to why this was not written in first information report, in cross-examination, this witness has said "जब मैंने मजरूब अपने भाई को देखा उस समय वह बोलने के हालत में थे चिल्ला रहे थे कि मेरी उनसे बात हुई थी वह कहे कि अमुक.अमुक आदमी हमको मार कर भाग गए है ट मैंने उनके कहने पर उन आदमियों को दौड़ाने का कोई प्रयास नहीं किया मेरे बाद वहा पर पहुंचने वाले योगेंद्र नन्दलाल व मेरे चाचा का लड़का बसूलल्लाह थेट". Meaning thereby, this witness could gather information from his injured brother, who was under conscious at that time and subsequently he became unconscious and died during treatment. He could not disclose or converse subsequently, but he told who had beaten him, but the names of those two exhorters were not there. The cross-examination at page 11 reveals that when this informant rushed on spot, he found that his brother was lying at the northern side of road having injuries i.e. beginning of the quarrel or assault was not witnessed by any of the witnesses of fact. Rather after hearing rescue call, they all rushed there and found above occurrence, wherein names of Naushad and Enmul Huda were not said either to I.O. under Section 161 Cr.P.C. or in first information report and it was subsequently developed. PW-2 Izhar Ali is the next alleged eyewitness account, who was accompanying informant and was son of deceased. He too has narrated in examination-in-chief that while he heard hue and cry, he along with his uncle rushed on spot and found that two persons were making exhortation. They were Enmul Huda @ Dugru and Naushad. They were saying for fracture of upper and lower limbs of his father and this was witnessed by this witness whereas Anaruddin, Niyamullah, Kalimullah, Wakeel, Mahendra and Sahendar were giving assault by lathi-danda over his father, who had fallen thereat. Meaning thereby no assault was being made by Enmul Huda @ Dugru and Naushad, but name of those two were not in first information report or in the statement given under Section 161 Cr.P.C. In further development, in cross-examination, this witness has said that when his father gained sense he narrated "मेरे पिता को होश हुआ तो बताये कि हमें अनरुद्दीन नियामुल्ला कलीमुल्लाह सहेंद्र महेंद्र वकील यह लोग मार रहे थे तुम लोग अब तक कहा थे दो आदमी ललकार रहे थे इनामुलहुदा उर्फ़ डुगरु और नौशाद यह भी पिता जी ने बताया थे पिताजी ने यह भी बताया कि थाने पर जाकर उपरोक्त नाम बताकर रपट दर्ज कर दोट" Meaning thereby, this witness was not eyewitness account of alleged assault. Rather, he gained information from his father, who directed for getting case lodged at police station. Even then, names of these Enmul Huda @ Dugru and Naushad were not written in Ext.Ka-1 or said in statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Though, this witness has categorically said "जब मैं घटना वाले जगह पर पंहुचा उस समय मेरे पिता बेहोश थे वहा कुछ लोग इकठ्ठा हो गए थे" Meaning thereby, while this witness reached on spot injured was unconscious and few others were gathered on spot, then this story that informant along with his nephew rushed on spot and found such occurrence goes away. This witness has further said "जब तक हम लोग घटना वाली जगह पर अपने पिता के साथ रहे तब तक मेरे पिता बोलने के हालत में नहीं थे एकसड़वा से पहले बोले थे और उन्होंने मुल्जिमान का नाम हमसे बताया था॰ उस समय मेरे चाचा मेरे साथ नहीं थे ॰ मुल्जिमान कि नाम के बारे में मेरे पिता केवल हमें बता दिए थे और कहा था कि थाने जाकर इन मुल्जिमान का नाम दर्ज करना किसी हालत में न छोड़ना ॰" Meaning thereby, even after direction by injured to his son, who was all alone at that time, and direction to informant by his son, names of these accused were not entered in Ext.Ka-1. According to this version, this PW-2 was not present on spot at the time of occurrence. Rather, he could know about occurrence and names of assailants through his father. PW-3 Nandlal and PW-4 Jumrat Ali, admittedly are the witnesses against whom there had been criminal and civil litigation from accused appellants side and even their father and other family members were with conviction in those litigation. Hence, they are proved to be inimical witness and for appreciation of their testimony a great caution and precaution is to be taken. PW-3 has categorically said in examination-in-chief that when he saw and found that those named persons assaulting injured by lathi-danda, Naushad and Enmul Huda were making exhortation for breaking the upper and lower limbs of deceased. But, this was not mentioned in first information report (Ext.Ka-1). Rather, it was subsequently developed. The same is the situation with PW-4 that when he reached on spot there were 15-20 person on spot i.e. he too was not the first hand perceiver of the facts. The testimony of these two witnesses regarding their presence on spot is inconsistent with statement of PW-1 and PW-2. Hence, certainly accusation against Enmul Huda @ Dugru and Naushad becomes doubtful. They were not named in the first information report nor instantly said by injured nor were given in statement, but in subsequent development their names were added, but they were not making any assault. Rather, they were said to giving exhortation. Hence, their conviction was with failure of appreciation of facts and law on record. They deserve to be given benefit of doubt and their conviction seems to be set aside. Accordingly, their appeal merits to be allowed.

9. Regarding, Mahendra appeal has been abated, but regarding Niyamullah, Sahendar, Wakeel, Kalimullah and Anaruddin, the argument is for quantum of sentence, whereas on the basis of facts and evidence placed on record, prosecution was successful to prove its case against them. Their names was there in the instantly reported F.I.R. It has been proved by witnesses PW-1 and PW-2 coupled with formal witnesses with no evidence in defence.

10. Regarding quantum of sentence Section 304 Part-I provides for imprisonment for life, or imprisonment for ten yeas and fine and Section 304 Part-II provides for imprisonment for ten years, or fine or both. Section 304 i.e. punishment for culpable homicide not amounting to murder provides that whoever commits culpable homicide not amounting to murder shall be punished with imprisonment for life, or imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death. In present case the injury on the person of deceased were not on vital part. Rather over upper and lower limbs with back and trial has concluded that it was not with intention to cause death or to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death. Though, those injuries were grievous, resulting fracture as well as death of injured on the same day of occurrence. Hence, conviction under Section 304 Part-1 was justified, but regarding sentence it was apparently of ten years rigorous imprisonment with fine, which seems to be not in proportion to degree of offence, because each of the convicts-appellants are of no criminal antecedent. They remained in prison since last more than six years in this case crime number. On the facts and circumstances and balancing the societal need of punishment with their chance of reformation for bringing them in main stream of society, sentence of eight years rigorous imprisonment with fine, as above, seems to suffice the cause of justice.

11. Accordingly, this appeal succeeds and is allowed for convicts-appellants Naushad and Enmul Huda @ Dugru. The impugned judgment and order of conviction dated 20.12.2013, passed by the Trial Court, is hereby set aside and the appellants Naushad and Enmul Huda @ Dugru are acquitted of all the charges. They are on bail. They need not to surrender. Their sureties are discharged.

12. Keeping in view the provisions of section 437-A Cr.P.C. appellants Naushad and Enmul Huda @ Dugru are directed to forthwith furnish a personal bond and two reliable sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of trial Court before it, which shall be effective for a period of six months, along with an undertaking that in the event of filing of Special Leave Petition against the instant judgment or for grant of leave, the appellant on receipt of notice thereof shall appear before the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

13. The conviction of convicts-appellants Niyamullah, Sahendar, Wakeel, Kalimullah and Anaruddin are confirmed. Their appeal is being partly allowed on the point of quantum and their imprisonment of ten years and fine under Section 304 Part-I/149 I.P.C. is being substituted by eight years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.10,000/-. For rest of sentences, they shall remain, as such, and intact.

14. Let a copy of this judgment along with lower court's record be sent back to the court concerned for immediate change of warrant of sentence, as above, and follow up.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Devendra Kumar Upadhyaya, J.)

1. This application by the applicant-appellant-Vishwas Pandey has been moved with the prayer to suspend the operation of the order appealed against i.e. the judgment and order of conviction dated 18.01.2018 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (E.C.Act), Gonda in Sessions Trial No.264 of 2012 which had emanated from Case Crime No.559 of 2012, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 504, 506, 307, 302 IPC and Section 27/30 Arms Act, Police Station Kotwali Nagar, District Gonda whereby he has been convicted of the offences under Sections 147, 304/149, 504 and 506, IPC and has accordingly been sentenced.

2. The applicant-appellant at present is enlarged on bail pursuant to the order dated 17.05.2018 as corrected vide order dated 21.05.2018 passed by this Court in Criminal Appeal No.126 of 2018.

3. The appellant is an Assistant Professor in Shia P.G. College, Lucknow having been appointed in the said capacity in the year 2017. Shia P.G. College is affiliated to Lucknow University and accordingly conditions of service of the applicant-appellant are governed by the provisions of U.P. State Universities Act and the First Statutes of Lucknow University.

4. It has been submitted on behalf of the applicant-appellant that pursuant to the order passed by this Court enlarging him on bail, he was released from jail on 26.05.2018 and soon thereafter he received a show cause notice dated 12.05.2018 issued to him by the Hony Joint Secretary/Manager of the College whereby he has been informed that Managing Committee of the College in its meeting held on 11.05.2018 passed a resolution to issue notice to the applicant-appellant seeking his clarification and explanation as to why has he been absent from the college without any information since 15.02.2018.

5. It has been averred in the instant application that reply to this notice was submitted by the applicant-appellant on 28.05.2018 to the Manager of the College whereby he requested permission of the college authorities to allow him to join his duties and further that his absence from duty with effect from 16.01.2018 may be condoned.

6. The show cause notice dated 12.05.2018 and reply submitted by the applicant-appellant to the said notice are available on record as annexure nos. 2 and 3 respectively with the application. In his reply submitted on 28.05.2018, it has been stated by the applicant-appellant that he had applied for one month's leave without pay from 16.01.2018, however, in the meantime the applicant-appellant was convicted vide judgment and order of the trial court dated 18.01.2018 for the offences under Sections 147, 304/149, 504 and 506, IPC. It has further been averred in the said reply that the applicant-appellant has preferred an appeal challenging the judgment and order of conviction which has been admitted by this Court and vide order dated 17.05.2018 he has been enlarged on bail and that after being released on bail, the applicant-appellant has been contacting the college authorities, however, he has not been allowed to join his duties in view of the show cause notice dated 12.05.2018. Narrating these facts the applicant-appellant vide his reply dated 28.05.2018 has prayed that he may be permitted to join his duties.

7. It has further been averred in the instant application that another show cause notice dated 13.08.2018 has again been issued by the Hony Joint Secretary of the College Management informing the applicant-appellant that in the meeting of Managing Committee of the College held on 18.07.2018, it was resolved to give the applicant-appellant last chance to clarify as to why and on what grounds his services may not be terminated.

8. In the background of aforesaid two notices issued by the College, the one dated 12.05.2018 and the other dated 13.08.2018, this application has been moved by the applicant-appellant with the prayer to suspend the operation of the judgment and order of conviction so that he can submit his joining and he may give adequate reply to the show cause notice so that the applicant-appellant is not faced with a situation where his services from employment of the College shall get terminated.

9. Lengthy arguments have been raised by Dr. L.P.Misra and the Sri Vaibhav Kalia, learned counsel for applicant-appellant, Sri H.G.S. Parihar, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri A.P. Misra, learned counsel for complainant and Sri Madan Mohan Pandey, learned Additional Advocate General for the State.

10. We have given our anxious consideration to rival submissions made by learned counsel representing the respective parties and have also perused the material available on record.

11. It has been submitted by Dr. L.P. Misra, learned counsel for the applicant-appellant, that under Section 389 of Code of Criminal Procedure this Court is well within its jurisdiction to pass an order suspending not only execution of sentence but the judgment and order of conviction as well during pendency of this appeal. He has further submitted that the incident on the basis of which the trial against the applicant-appellant was held wherein he has been convicted, started on a sudden quarrel and since there was a fight between two groups of persons, it is significant to determine as to who was the aggressor and further that merely on the basis of presence of applicant-appellant at the time and place of occurrence, he could not have been convicted. It has further been argued on behalf of the applicant-appellant that mere presence on the place of occurrence without any motive or mens rea on his part would not have resulted in his conviction. He has drawn attention of the Court to certain paragraphs of the judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial court and has submitted that it is proved from the evidence available on record that it was the complainant and not the accused persons who were aggressors.

12. Dr. L.P Misra, learned counsel for applicant-appellant has further taken us to that portion of the judgment and order of conviction where trial court has opined that incident had happened unfortunately. It has thus been argued by learned counsel for applicant-appellant that appeal is likely to be allowed ultimately and that such possibility is a relevant factor which may be taken into account while considering any prayer for suspending the order of conviction.

13. On behalf of the applicant-appellant, judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Rama Narang vs. Ramesh Narang and others, reported in (1995) 2 SCC 513 has been relied upon where Hon'ble Apex Court has held that scope of Section 389 Cr.P.C. extends to conferring power on the appellate court to stay the operation of the order of conviction as well in case the order of conviction is to result in some disqualification. The judgment in the case of Ravikant S. Patil vs. Sarvabhouma S. Bagali, reported in (2007) 1 SCC 673, has also been relied upon by the applicant-appellant to buttress the submission that in certain situations the order of conviction may become executable inasmuch as it may result in incurring of some disqualification under other enactments and that in such cases it is permissible to invoke the power under Section 389 (1) of the Code for staying the conviction as well. Reliance has also been placed by learned counsel for applicant-appellant on the case of Navjot Singh Sidhu vs. State of Punjab and another, reported in (2007) 2 SCC 574 where legal position in respect of power of appellate court to suspend an order of conviction under Section 389 of Code of Criminal Procedure has been summarized and reiterated, according to which the appellate court can suspend or grant stay of order of conviction, however, the person seeking suspension of conviction is to draw attention of the appellate court to the consequences that may arise if the conviction is not stayed.

14. We may hasten to note that Rama Narang (supra) was a case relating to disqualification under Section 267 of the Companies Act, 1956 which provided that Managing Director of a Company shall incur disqualification if he is found to have committed an offence involving moral turpitude. Similarly, Ravikant S. Patil (supra) and Navjot Singh Sidhu (supra) relate to disqualification under Representation of the People Act, 1951.

15. Referring to judgment in the case of K.C.Sareen vs. CBI, Chandigarh reported in (2001) 6 SCC 584, submission has been made by learned counsel representing the applicant-appellant that the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the said case does not have any application in this case for the reason that in K.C.Sareen (supra) suspension of conviction was sought by a Bank Officer who was convicted under Section 13 (2) of Prevention of Corruption Act and it is in this background that Hon'ble Supreme Court upheld the order of High Court wherein the High Court had refused to suspend the conviction under the Prevention of Corruption Act.

16. Taking the Court to various paragraphs of this judgment, it has been stated by learned counsel for applicant-appellant that it may not be appropriate to pass an order by the appellate court suspending the conviction in a situation where conviction is under Prevention of Corruption Act for the reason that when public servant convicted of corruption is allowed to continue to hold public office, it may have demoralizing effect on other employees and consequently the same may result in erosion of the confidence of the people in public institutions. However, in the same breathe, it has been submitted on behalf of the applicant-appellant that the present case does not involve conviction of the applicant-appellant for either corruption or for any offence involving moral turpitude and accordingly since the applicant-appellant is faced with a situation where his services as Assistant Professor in the college may get terminated, it will be appropriate and is warranted in the facts of the case that the judgment and order of conviction may be suspended/stayed.

17. Per contra, relying upon a judgment of a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Irfan and others vs. State of U.P. reported in 2009 (66) ACC 413, it has been argued by Sri H.G.S.Parihar, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri A.P.Misra, learned counsel representing the complainant that considering the facts and circumstances of the case it would be highly improper to suspend the order of conviction.

18. Sri Madan Mohan Pandey, learned Additional Advocate General appearing for the State has vehemently opposed the prayer for suspension of conviction though he does not dispute the jurisdiction of this Court to pass an order suspending the conviction as well, in an appropriate case under Section 389 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. He has further stated that the power of suspension of conviction should be exercised only in exceptional circumstances only where failure to stay conviction may lead to irreversible consequences and not in any other case. In support of his submission Sri Pandey has made reference to the judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of State of Rajasthan vs. Salman Salim Khan, (2015) 15 SCC 666, Shyam Narain Pandey vs. State of U.P, (2014) 8 SCC 909, State of Maharashtra through C.B.I. vs. Bala Krishna Dattatrya Kumbhar (2012) 12 SCC 384, Sanjay Dutt vs. State of Maharashtra (2009) 5 SCC 787, State of Maharashatra vs. Gajanan and another (2003) 12 SCC 432, Union of India vs. Attar Singh and another (2003) 12 SCC 424, Deputy Director of Collegiate Education vs. S. Nagoor Meera (1995) 3 SCC 377, Dattukulangara Madhavan vs. Majeed and others, (2017) 2 JIC 380 (SC) and Masalti vs. State of U.P., AIR 1965 SC 202. He has further argued that the Court while considering the prayer for suspension of conviction is required to take into consideration seriousness of offence for which the applicant-appellant has been punished and if it is found that convict is involved in crime which is outrageous and if conviction is stayed, it would have serious impact on the public perception then in such circumstances stay of conviction would be impermissible. Drawing attention of the Court to paragraph 15 of the judgment of the apex Court in the case of State of Maharastra vs. Bala Krishna Dattatrya Kumbhar (supra) he has argued that relief of staying the operation of conviction cannot be granted only on the ground that an employee may lose his job if conviction is not suspended. Paragraph 15 in the case of State of Maharastra vs. Bala Krishna Dattatrya Kumbhar (supra) is as follows:

"15. Thus, in view of the aforesaid discussion, a clear picture emerges to the effect that the appellate court in an exceptional case, may put the conviction in abeyance along with the sentence, but such power must be exercised with great circumspection and caution, for the purpose of which, the applicant must satisfy the Court as regards the evil that is likely to befall him, if the said conviction is not suspended. The Court has to consider all the facts as are pleaded by the applicant, in a judicious manner and examined whether the facts and circumstances involved in the case are such, that they warrant such a course of action by it. The court additionally, must record in writing, its reasons for granting such relief. Relief of staying the order of conviction cannot be granted only on the ground that an employee may lose his job, if the same is not done."

19. In his submission, Sri Pandey has thus stated that merely because applicant-appellant is faced with some action against him at the hand of the management of the College, the prayer for suspension of conviction may not be granted.

20. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record available before us, what we find is that it is the two notices dated 12.05.2018 and 13.08.2018 issued by the Manager of the College to the applicant-appellant which has prompted him to file the instant application.

21. There is no quarrel on the legal principle that in appropriate case this Court has been vested with the jurisdiction and authority under Section 389 of Code of Criminal Procedure to suspend the order appealed against that is to say to suspend the conviction as well along with the sentence. The question, however, which falls for our consideration is as to whether two notices dated 12.05.2018 and 13.08.2018 issued by the Management of the College to the applicant-appellant can be construed to form any cause of action to the applicant-appellant to seek the prayer made in this application for suspension of conviction. Though it has been contended on behalf of the applicant-appellant that by issuing aforesaid two notices, specially the subsequent notice dated 13.08.2018, the Management of the College, where applicant-appellant is presently employed as Assistant Professor, intends to terminate his services on the ground of his conviction by the judgment and order which is under appeal herein, however, a careful reading of the aforesaid two show cause notice and the relevant provisions contained in the First Statues of Lucknow University governing Conditions of Services of Teachers of Associated Colleges lead us to conclude that the present application is misconceived.

22. Conditions of Service of Teachers of Associated College of Lucknow University are governed by the provisions contained in Part-I of Chapter XVII of the First Statues of Lucknow University which have been framed under U.P. State University Act and as such the same have statutory force.

23. Statue 17.04 is relevant for the purpose of appropriately appreciating the issue involved herein which is quoted herein below:-

"17.04. (1) A teacher of an associated college (other than a Principal) may be dismissed or removed or his services terminated on one or more of the following grounds:

(a) willful neglect of duty;

(b) misconduct, including disobedience to the orders of the Principal;

(c) breach of any of the terms of contract of service;

(d) dishonesty connected with the University or College examination;

(e) scandalous conduct or conviction for an offence involving moral turpitude;

(f) physical or mental unfitness;

(g) incompetence;

(h) abolition of the post with the prior approval of the Vice-Chancellor.

(2) A Principal of an associated college may be dismissed or removed, or his services terminated on grounds mentioned in clause (1) or on the ground of continued mismanagement of the college.

(3) Except as provided by clause (4), not less than three months' notice (or whose notice is given after the month of October, then three months' notice or notice ending with the close of the session whichever if longer) shall be given on either side for terminating the contract, or in lieu of such notice, salary for three months (or longer period as aforesaid) shall be paid:

Provided that where the Management dismisses or removes or terminates the services of a teacher, under clause (1) or clause (2) or when the teacher terminates the contract for breach of any of its terms by the Management, no such notice shall be necessary;

Provided further that parties will be free to waive the condition of notice, in whole or in part by mutual agreement.

(4) In the case of any other teacher appointed in a temporary or officiating capacity his services shall be terminable, by one months' notice or on payment of salary in lieu thereof on either side".

25. According to the aforequoted Statue 17.04 of the First Statutes a teacher of an associated college may be dismissed or removed or his services can be terminated on one or more grounds given in sub-clause (1) of Statue 17.04.

26. Statue 17.06 is also relevant which reads as under:-

"17.06. (1) No order dismissing removing or terminating the services of a teacher on any ground mentioned in clause (1) or clause (2) of Statue 17.04 (except in the case of a conviction for an offence involving moral turpitude or of abolition of post) shall be passed unless a charge has been framed against the teacher and communicated to him with a statement of the grounds on which it is proposed to take action and he has been given adequate opportunity.

(i) of submitting a written statement of his defense;

(ii) of being heard in person, if he so chooses; and

(iii) of calling and examining such witness in his defense as he may wish;

Provided that the Management or the officer authorized by it to conduct to inquiry may for sufficient reasons to be recorded in writing, refuse to call any witness.

(2) The Management may, at any time ordinarily within two months' from the date of the Inquiry Officer's report pass a resolution dismissing or removing the teacher concerned from service, or terminating his services mentioning the grounds of such dismissal, removal or termination.

(3) The resolution shall forthwith be communicated to the teacher concerned and also be reported to the Vice - Chancellor for approval and shall not be operative unless to approved by the Vice-Chancellor.

(4) The Management may, instead of dismissing removing or terminating the services of the teacher, pass a resolution inflicting a lesser punishment by reducing the pay of the teacher for a specified period or by stopping increments of his salary for a specified period not exceeding three years and or may deprive the teacher of his pay during the period, if any, of his suspension. The resolution by the Management inflicting such punishment shall be reported to the Vice-Chancellor and shall be operative only when and to the extent approved by the Vice-Chancellor."

27. According to Statue 17.06, an order of dismissal or removal of a teacher cannot be passed on any ground mentioned in clause (1) of Statue 17.04 unless a charge has been framed against the teacher and communicated to him and appropriate disciplinary proceedings are drawn and conducted by providing adequate opportunity to the teacher, of contesting the charges except in case of conviction for offence involving moral turpitude or in case of abolition of post.

28. The provisions contained in Statue 17.04 read with Statue 17.06, thus, unequivocally provide that no teacher can be dismissed or removed, neither his services can be terminated without conducting full-fledged disciplinary proceedings against him for any lapse or misconduct, though requirement of conducting full-fledged disciplinary inquiry proceeding has an exception as provided in Statue 17.06 (1) of the First Statues and under this exception requirement of conducting disciplinary proceedings can be dispensed with in case services of teacher are to be terminated in case of conviction of a teacher for offence involving moral turpitude.

29. In the light of the aforequoted Statues 17.04 and 17.06, we will now examine the nature of show cause notices issued by the Management of the College to the applicant-appellant.

30. The first show cause notice issued on 12.05.2018 only states that the Managing Committee of the College has passed resolution on 11.05.2018 observing therein that the applicant-appellant has been absent from the College without information since 15.02.2018 and therefore the Committee has decided to issue notice seeking his clarification and explanation. This show cause notice makes a mention of unauthorized absence from duty which may or may not be a misconduct or lapse on the part of the applicant-appellant leading to either his dismissal or removal from service. It certainly is not a notice requiring explanation from him as to why his services may not be terminated for his conviction for an offence involving moral turpitude as has been mentioned in Statue 17.04 (1) (e) of the First Statues.

31. We further observe that notice dated 12.05.2018 cannot be said to be charge sheet for alleged misconduct or lapse on the part of the applicant-appellant for his unauthorized absence from duty. Thus, by issuing the said notice dated 12.05.2018, it cannot be inferred that any disciplinary proceeding in respect of charge or lapse relating to unauthorized absence from duty against the applicant-appellant is pending which may create an impression in his mind that he may be faced with a situation where he may be dismissed or removed from service.

32. So far as the second show cause notice dated 13.08.2018 is concerned, this again makes a mention of the decision taken by the Management of the College on 18.07.2018 and informs the applicant-appellant that the Committee of Management has decided to give him last chance to clarify as to why his services may not be terminated. This notice cannot be construed to be a notice for termination of service of the applicant-appellant on the ground of his conviction for an offence involving moral turpitude for the reason that it does not indicate the resolve or decision of the Managing Committee of the college to terminate services of the applicant-appellant on the said ground. It is further observed that before issuing any show cause notice seeking termination of service of a teacher under Statue 17.04 (1) (e) of the First Statues, it is imperative for the Committee of the Management of the College to determine that teacher concerned has been convicted for offence involving moral turpitude. No such determination from the show cause notice dated 13.08.2018 is reflected.

33. To the contrary, if the show cause notice dated 13.08.2018 is read in juxtaposition with the show cause notice dated 12.05.2018, what transpires is that the college authorities intend to take some action for the alleged unauthorized absence from the duty. The show cause notice dated 13.08.2018 is accompanied by the decision of the Managing Committee taken in its meeting held on 18.07.2018 which mentions about the application submitted by the applicant-appellant seeking leave without pay and also reply dated 28.05.2018 furnished by him to the show cause notice dated 12.05.2018.

34. Resolution dated 18.07.2018 further states that the Managing Committee cannot allow the applicant-appellant to join his duties till he gets the order of conviction quashed by the High Court. Mentioning these background facts, the resolution further states that one more show cause notice be given to the applicant-appellant to clarify the current position and further that if no change is reported then his services will be terminated. This resolution however does not make a mention of conviction of the applicant-appellant for an offence involving moral turpitude.

35. As to whether the Committee of Management has denied the applicant-appellant joining his duties in the College is not the subject matter of this case, hence we refrain ourselves from giving any finding on this issue.

36. As observed above, for taking action leading to termination of services of a teacher of an associated college under Statue 17.04 (1) (e) of the First Statues, determination that teacher concerned is convicted for offence involving moral turpitude appears to be sine qua non. Neither the notices dated 12.05.2018 and 13.08.2018 nor the resolution of the Managing Committee of the College, dated 18.07.2018 reflect any such determination. We have no reason to believe that the Managing Committee of the College will not act in accordance with the requirement of law as per Statues 17.04 and 17.06 of the First Statues which inter alia provide that in case of misconduct or lapse a teacher can be dismissed or removed or his services can be terminated only after conducting disciplinary proceedings except in case of conviction for an offence involving moral turpitude. For terminating the service of teacher on the ground of his conviction for any offence involving moral turpitude, the employer (in this case, Management of the College) needs to determine that the teacher concerned has been convicted for offence involving moral turpitude.

38. In absence of any such determination in the show cause notices dated 12.05.2018 and 13.08.2018 and also in the resolution of the Managing Committee, dated 18.07.2018, we are not persuaded to infer that applicant-appellant is faced with any irreversible consequences because of non suspension of judgment and order of conviction which is under challenge in appeal.

39. For the discussion made and reasons given above, we do not find any substance in the prayer made in the application seeking suspension of order of conviction. The application is, thus, rejected.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE DEVENDRA KUMAR UPADHYAYA, J.
THE HON'BLE MOHD. FAIZ ALAM KHAN, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1517 of 2007

&
Criminal Appeal No. 1606 of 2007

Ranjit ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Virendra Mohan, Arvind Kumar, Brajendra Singh, Mahesh Chandra Verma, Maneesh Kumar Singh, Shrawan Kumar, Soniya Mishra

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 302 IPC, 307/34 - SC/St Act,1989- Section 3(2) (V) - Appeal against conviction.

Section 134 of Evidence Act does not require any particular number of witnesses to prove any fact. Plurality of witnesses in a criminal trial is not the legislative intent. It is not the quantity but quality which matters. Therefore, if the testimony of a witness is found reliable on the touch stone of credibility, accused can be convicted on the basis of testimony of even single witness. (para 28)

It is well settled that the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. (para 41)

The testimony of an injured eye-witness needs corroboration from the so-called independent witness(es). When the statement of injured eye-witness is found trustworthy and reliable, the conviction on that basis could always be recorded, of course, having regard to all the facts and surrounding factors. (para 42)

To discard the testimony of injured person very strong and cogent reasons are required and no such major contradictions are present in the evidence of injured witness P.W.-3. (para 44)

P.W.-3 is an injured witness and his testimony has also been corroborated by medical evidence, therefore we do not have any reason to doubt the trustworthiness and acceptability of the evidence of this witness. (para 44)

If this one piece of evidence is not proved, it does not mean that the entire case of prosecution would be discarded on that point alone. If the remaining pieces of evidence available on record achieve the requisite standard i.e., proof beyond reasonable doubt against appellant/ accused, they can safely be convicted. (para 45)

The appeals rejected. (E-2)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mohd. Faiz Alam Khan, J.)

1. Heard Shri Shrawan Kumar, learned counsel for the appellant - Ranjit and Shri Diwakar Singh, Advocate, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant - Lallu @ Lala Ram as well as learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. These criminal appeals have been preferred by appellants against the judgment and order dated 26.5.2007, passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Kheri in Sessions Trial No. 852 of 2005, arising out of Crime No. 387 of 2005, under Sections 302 IPC, 307/34 IPC and Section 3(2) (V) SC/ST Act, relating to Police Station Pasgawan, District Kheri, whereby appellant Ranjit has been convicted and sentenced under Section 302 IPC for Life imprisonment and fine of Rs. 1000/-, under Section 307 IPC read with Section 34 IPC for a period of ten yeas and fine of Rs. 5000/- and also in default of payment of fine the appellant is sentenced for six months imprisonment and appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram has been convicted and sentenced under Section 302 IPC for life imprisonment and fine of Rs. 1000/- and under Section 307 IPC read with Section 34 IPC for a period of ten yeas and fine of Rs. 5000/- and also in default of payment of fine the appellant is sentenced for six months imprisonment.

3. Brief facts necessary for disposal of these appeals are that informant Sher Singh son of Badri Yadav, R/o Village Kashipur, District Kheri submitted a written information on 4.4.2005 at 4.10 A.M. at Police Station Pasgawan, District Kheri stating therein that he is a resident of village Kashipur, Police Station Pasgawan and in the intervening night of 3/4.4.2005 his father Badri Yadav was sleeping in a "Baggar'(A room usually situated in the outer portion of the house for multifarious activities) along with one Dal Chand Raidas. His two sons Pushpendra and Manoj were also sleeping in the same "Baggar' at a short distance from Badri Yadav and he was sleeping on the roof of the house. It is further stated that his father, namely, Badri Yadav on 18-19 March had executed a sale deed in his favour pertaining to land admeasuring 7 Bighas and he was residing with him since long. His brothers Lallu @ Lala Ram (Appellant), Sarnam and Devi were angry with him on this score. It was further stated that litigation pertaining to the same land was also pending in between Dalchand and Ram Kali and appellant Ranjit was doing pairvi of that case on behalf of Ram Kali. His father also testified in favour of Dal Chand in that case and due to this reason appellant Ranjit was having enmity with his father.In the intervening night of 3/4.4.2005 at about 12.00 O' clock his brother Lallu @ Lala Ram, Ranjit and Gajram committed murder of his father Badri Yadav by assaulting him with 'Banka' and by firing from country made pistol. It was also stated that Dalchand also sustained fire-arm injuries in the incident and on hearing the sound of Gun shots he, his sons as well as Ram Autar had seen accused persons committing the crime and running away, in the light of torches.Ranjit was armed with 'Banka' and other accused persons were armed with 'country made pistols'.

4. On the basis of the aforementioned written information an FIR was registered at Police Station Pasgawan, District Kheri on 4.4.2005 at 4.10 A.M. against Lallu @ Lala Ram, Ranjit and Gajram under Sections 302/307 IPC at Case Crime No. 387 of 2005 and the investigation of the crime was entrusted to Shri Ram Pradeep Yadav, S.H.O., Police Station Pasgawan.

5. The Investigating Officer of the crime, namely, Ram Pradeep Yadav after taking over the investigation of the case proceeded to the place of occurrence and inspected the spot on the pointing of informant and prepared the site plan (Ext. Ka-20) of the scene of occurrence. He also got the inquest report (Ext. Ka-14) of the body of the deceased and other necessary papers prepared for the purpose of post mortem of the body of the deceased i.e. sample seal (Ext. Ka-15) Challan Lash (Ext. Ka-16), photo lash (Ext. Ka-17), Chitthi R.I. (Ext. Ka-18), Chitthi C.M.O. (Ext. Ka-19). He also collected the simple and blood stained soil, blood stained piece of quilt and cushion (Gadda) from the spot and prepared a memo of the same as (Ext. Ka-8). He also inspected the torch presented by informant Sher Singh and also prepared a seizure memo of the same (Ext. Ka-9).The Investigating Officer also inspected the "ladder' which was stated to have been used by the informant for sleeping on the roof of the house and after inspecting the same he prepared a memo (Ext. Ka-10) of the same and placed the same in the custody of informant.

6. The postmortem on the body of deceased Badri Yadav was performed by P.W.6- Dr. Akhilesh Khare on 5.8.2005 at 3.00 P.M. at District Hospital, Kheri He found the body of deceased of about 65 years, a person of average built, rigor mortis had passed from both the upper and lower extremities and postmortem staining was present on the back. The skin was pealed off at places of abdomen and distended. On internal examination, 2nd and 3rd ribs of right side were found fractured. The small intestine was found containing gases while faecal matter and gases were found in large intestine. The gallbladder was half full and spleen and kidneys were found pale.

Following ante-mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased:-

(i) Incised wound 8 cms. x 2 cms. x bone deep over left angle of mouth and face underlying muscles vessels upper and lower jaw found cut.

(ii) Incised wound 10 cms. x 1 cm. x bone deep over chin, 1cm. behind tooth cut underlying lower jaw found cut.

(iii) Incised wound 6 cms. x 1 cms. x bone deep over chin 1.5 cm. below Inj. No.2 underlying lower jaw found cut.

(iv) Multiple incised wound in an area of 10 cms. x 5 cms. vertebra deep over front and left side of neck 4 cms. below chin underlying muscles, vessels, trachea, occiphagus and 2nd central vertebra, spinal cord found cut.

(v) Incised wound 4 cms. x 1 cm. x bone deep over back of ring finger and little finger.

(vii) Fire-arm wound of exit 2 cms. x 2 cms. x chest cavity deep on upper part of right side of chest 8 cms. above right nipple at 12 O' clock position, margins inverted, irregular echymosed, on dissection underlying both pleura, both lung found lacerated and 1.5 Lt. Clotted and fluid blood present in chest cavity and injury no.7 communicating to Injury No. 6 through and through.

The cause of death of the deceased was found to be shock and hemorrhage which was the result of ante-mortem injuries.

7. The injuries sustained by injured Dal Chand were examined on 4.4.2005 at 5.45 A.M. by Dr. Ranjendra Prasad (P.W.7) who was posted as Medical Officer at District Hospital Kheri. Following injuries were found on the person of Dal Chand:-

(i) Fire-arm wound of entry 1.0 cm. x 0.8 cm. x depth not probed on upper part of chest just below medial end of right cervical, clotted blood present, margins inverted, echymosed. KUO advised x-ray.

(ii) Fire-arm wound of exit 2.00 cms. x 1.00 cm. x depth not probed on right side of chest 7 cms. away from right nipple, clotted blood present, margin everted, KUO advised x-ray.

X-Ray was advised for both the injuries. The injuries were stated to have been caused by fire-arm weapons and duration of both the injuries were described fresh. The x-ray report dated 4.4.2005 available on record as Ext. Ka-2 reveals that heterogeneous opacity was noticed in right lung (upper and middle zone) of the injured.

8. The investigation officer also caused the arrest of the appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram and recovered a country made pistol and cartridgeson his pointing out, from his house which was allegedly used by him in the commission of offence and also prepared a recovery memo of the same.

9. The second Investigating Officer of the crime, Shri Shiv Ram Yadav recorded the statement of the witnesses and also took the police custody remand of accused Ranjit and a 'Banka' was recovered from his pointing, which was concealed by him in the southern room of his house. The 'Banka', so recovered was sealed and a recovery memo of the same (Ext. Ka-11) was prepared. The Investigating Officer after collecting sufficient evidence submitted charge sheet against accused Lallu @ Lala Ram, Ranjit and Gajram under Sections 302, 307/34 IPC and Section 3(2) 5 SC/ST Act.

10. The case being triable by the Sessions Court was committed to the Court of Session and charges under Sections 302, 307/34 IPC were framed against appellants. Both appellants denied the charges and claimed trial.

11. The prosecution in order to prove its case before the trial court produced following documentary evidence:-

(i) Written Information (Ext. Ka-1)

(ii) X-ray report pertaining to injured Dal Chand (Ext. Ka-2).

(iii) Site plan (Ext. Ka-3)

(iv) Site plan (Ext. Ka-4)

(v) Charge sheet (Ext. Ka-5)

(vi) Postmortem report of deceased Badri (Ext. Ka-6)

(vii) Chemical analysis report (Ext. Ka-7)

(viii) Memo of seizure of plain and blood stained soil (Ext. Ka-8)

(x) Memo of seizure of ladder and Gobar Gas bulb (Ext. Ka-10)

(xi) Memo of recovery of Banka (Ext. Ka-11)

(xii) Chick FIR (Ext. Ka-12)

(xiii) G.D. Kayami (Ext. Ka-13)

(xiv) Inquest Report (Ext. Ka-14)

(xv) Sample of seal (Ext. Ka-15)

(xvi) Chalian Lash (Ext. Ka-16)

(xviii) Chitthi R.I. (Ext. Ka-18)

(xix) Chitthi CMO (Ext. Ka-19)

(xx) Site plan of the place from where Banka is recovered(Ext. Ka- 20)

12. Apart from the above mentioned documentary evidence the prosecution also relied on the testimony of following witnesses:-

(i) P.W.1- Sher Singh (informant)

(ii) P.W.2- Pushpendra (Eye witness)

(iii) P.W.3-Dal Chand (injured witness)

(iv) P.W.4- Dr. V.K. Verma (radiologist)

(v) P.W.5- Shiv Ram Yadav (Investigating Officer)

(vi) P.W.6- Dr. Akhilesh Khare (who conducted postmortem)

(vii) P.W.7- Dr. Rajendra Prasad (who examined injuries of injured PW-3 Dal Chand)

(viii) P.W.8- Ram Autar (Eye witness)

(ix) P.W.9- Head Constable-Ram Prakash (Scribe of Chick FIR and G.D.)

(x) P.W.10- Ram Autar Singh-Sub Inspector (who prepared inquest report)

(xi) P.W.11- S.I. Ram Pradeep Yadav (Investigating Officer)

(xii) P.W.12- S.I. B.D. Arun (who caused recovery of Banka)

After completion of evidence of prosecution the statement of appellants was recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C.

wherein both appellants have stated that they have been falsely implicated in the case on the basis of enmity and false recoveries on their pointing have been shown by the police. They claimed that they are innocent and have been framed on the basis of enmity and party-bandi. The accused persons in their defence have placed before the trial court certified copy of a judgment (Ext. Kha-1) dated 12.2.2007 passed by Consolidation Officer Salya in Case No. 2869/31/04-05, under Section 9 Ka (2) of Consolidation Act, Pargana Pasgawan, Tehsil Mohammadi, District Kheri in Dal Chand Vs. State. Certified copy of objections (Ext. Kha-2) filed by Smt. Bitana w/o Bhikhari filed in the above mentioned case and certified copy of statement of witness Ram Autar s/o Chokhe Lal R/o Village Kashipur, P.S. Pasgawan, District Kheri recorded in Crl. Case No. 772/05 under Section 25(1)-B Arms Act, Police Station Mohammadi, District Kheri (Ext. Kha-3) were also submitted by them.

13. Trial court after considering the evidence tendered by the prosecution and accused persons and after appreciating the same came to the concussion that the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against appellants Lallu @ Lala Ram and Ranjit and thereby convicted both of them under Sections 302 IPC and 307 IPC read with Section 34 IPC in the manner recorded in the second paragraph of this judgment. The trial Court did not find accused Gajram guilty of any offence and therefore acquitted him of all the charges. The trial court also did not find the charges under Section 3(2) (V) of SC/ST Act proved against all accused persons.

14. Learned counsels for the appellants have submitted that the trial court in utter disregard to the evidence available on record has convicted the appellants for the offence which they have not committed and the findings of the trial court pertaining to the guilt of the appellants are not based on evidence available on record.

It is overwhelmingly submitted that the main eye witnesses of the crime, namely P.W.1- Sher Singh and P.W. 2- Pushpendra have not supported the case of the prosecution, but the trial Court, even in absence of any reliable evidence, has convicted the appellants on the basis of unreliable testimony of P.W.3- Dal Chand and P.W.8- Ram Autar, while it was evident on record that Dal Chand and Ram Autar are brothers and are interested in conviction of the appellants on the basis of enmity.

It is next submitted that FIR in the matter has been lodged ante-time and the trial court has ignored this glaring fact, which was itself sufficient to discard the prosecution case. P.W.3 Dal Chand is stated to be the prime witness of the incident and is stated to have sustained fire-arm injuries but even if the incident as narrated by P.W.3- Dal Chand is believed then it was impossible for P.W.3- Dal Chand to have recognized the real assailants in absence of any source of light. The theory of prosecution that gobar gas lamp was lighting in the baggar could not be believed in the back ground facts and evidence on record. The prosecution story pertaining to the presence of P.W.3 in the baggar owned by deceased Badri is also not believable as no quilt or cushion of P.W.3- Dal Chand was recovered by the Investigating Officer, while the quilt and "Gadda' (Cushion) which at the time of incident was being used by the deceased Badri Yadav was recovered by the Investigating Officer. The above factual matrix completely rules out the presence of P.W.3- Dal Chand at the spot at the time of incident.

It is next submitted that the ocular evidence has also not been supported by the medical evidence and keeping in view that the informant of the case, namely, P.W.1- Sher Singh and eye witness P.W.2- Pushpendra have not supported the case of the prosecution the trial Court has materially erred in convicting the appellant. The recovery of Banka and country made pistol at the instance of appellant Ranjit and appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram is highly doubtful. The testimony of P.W.8- Ram Autar who is brother of P.W.3- Dal Chand is also not acceptable and there is no reason shown by the prosecution as to why he was shown to be the witness of both recoveries and therefore in absence of any independent witness of the above mentioned recoveries the evidence of P.W.-8 pertaining to the recovery could not be accepted.

(i) Smt. Gargi Vs. State of Haryana, AIR 2019 SC 1086.

(ii) Sudarshan and others Vs. State of Maharastra, 2014 (12) SCC 312.

(iii) Hira Lal Yadav Vs. State of Jharkhand, 2013 SCW 2278.

(iv) Shiv Lal and others Vs. State of Chhatisgarh, 2011 (9) SCC 561.

(v) Anand Mohan Vs. State of Bihar, 2012 (7) SCC 225.

(vi) A. Shankar Vs. State of Karnatka, 2011 (6) SCC 279.

15. Per contra learned AGA submits that the prosecution has been able to prove its case before the trial court beyond all reasonable doubts and the court below has appreciated the evidence of the prosecution witness keeping in view the established principles of appreciation of evidence. P.W.3- Dal Chand is an injured witness of the incident and he has sustained grievous fire-arm injuries, which could not be self inflicted. His presence on the spot is proved beyond all reasonable doubt as he was a close friend of deceased Badri. The role of firing with a country made pistol has been assigned by the injured witness P.W.3- Dal Chand to the appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram while the role of inflicting injuries to deceased Badri Yadav by a "Banka' has been attributed to appellant Ranjit. The injuries of fire-arm has been found on the person of P.W.3- Dal Chand as well as on the person of deceased Badri Yadav. While injuires which can be sustained by "Banka' has been found on the person of deceased Badri Yadav. The Investigating officer has also collected the piece of quilt and cushion and also the blood stained and plain soil from the baggar wherein the incident had happened.

It is next submitted that the instant case is based on direct evidence of eye witnesses and therefore though the motive is not of any significance but the prosecution has been able to successfully prove that the deceased Badri executed a sale deed of his agriculture land admeasuring 7-8 Bighas in favour of P.W.1- Sher Singh and due to this his other sons including appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram were angry with him. The aforesaid sale deed in favour of P.W.1- Sher Singh is stated to have been executed on 18-19 of March, 2005, while the incident had occurred in its close proximity on 4.4.2005. It has been also proved that P.W.3- Dal Chand and P.W.8- Ram Autar were having litigation with a woman, named, Ram Kali who was claiming herself to be the wife of their uncle Bhikhari and was also demanding share in his land. The said litigation was pending in the revenue court. Therefore, there was sufficient motive and opportunity available to the appellants to commit the crime.

It is further submitted that keeping in view the quality of evidence available on record, the trial court has rightly convicted the appellants and therefore, no interference is warranted in the same and the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

16. We have considered the submissions of learned counsels for the appellants as well as of learned AGA. Perusal of evidence available on record would reveal that P.W.1, namely, Sher Singh is the informant of the First Information Report. He has stated in his statement, recorded before the trial court, that in the night of the occurrence his father Badri Yadav was sleeping in the baggar(Room) along with Dal Chand and at some distance from him his sons Pushpendra and Manoj were sleeping on their cots, while he was sleeping on the roof of the house. He further stated that his father some days before the incident had executed a sale-deed of his land in his favour . He denied to have seen appellants committing the crime in the light of torch and the bulb lighting in the baggar. He stated that when he reached in the baggar, he did not see any one. He acknowledged to have lodged the FIR but in the same breath has stated that the FIR was lodged by him on the information provided by the villagers and he only put his signatures on the application which was not read over to him. After being declared hostile this witness denied to have given any statement to the Investigating Officer under Section 161 of the Cr.P.C.. However, he has admitted that accused Gajram is a witness of sale deed executed in his favour and he is having very good relations with him.

17. P.W.2- Pushpendra, who is the son of P.W.1- Sher Singh has stated that on the fateful night he was sleeping in the baggar at some distance from the deceased. He denied to have any knowledge with regard to any litigation pending in between P.W.3- Dal Chand and Ram Kali and also that in this case parivi on behalf of Ram Kali was being done by the appellant- Ranjit. He also denied to have witnessed the crime being committed by the appellants as according to him there was complete darkness. He admitted that the incident occurred at about 12.00 O' clock in the night and P.W.3- Dal Chand as well as his brother Manoj was also lying in the "baggar' along with deceased Badri Yadav. This witness after being declared hostile has denied to have given any statement under Section 161 of the Cr.P.C to the Investigating Officer.

18. P.W.3- Dal Chand is the injured witness of the case. He stated that on the night of the occurrence he was sleeping in the baggar with deceased Badri as they were very close friends. He after taking his dinner used to come to the house of Badri and used to have a talk with him about the village. This witness has further stated that some days before the incident, deceased Badri Yadav had executed a sale deed of his 7 bighas agricultural land in favour of P.W.2- Sher Singh and due to this other sons of Badri Yadav, namely, Lallu @ Lala Ram, Sarnam and Devi were angry with him. A litigation with Ram Kali, pertaining to the land of his uncle Bhikhari, was also pending in a revenue

Court and appellant Ranjit was doing pairvi in that case on behalf of Ram Kali and he was also annoyed with him.

Narrating the incident he has stated that at the time of incident a gobar gas bulb was lighting in the "baggar' and two grand sons of Badri Yadav, namely, Pushpendra and Manoj were lying in the baggar at some distance from him. Sher Singh was sleeping on the roof of the house and he and Badri were lying on the ground of baggar. At about 12.00 O, clock in the night a gun shot was fired. He made an attempt to stand up, however, at the same time second Gun shot was fired which hit him in his chest. At the same time Sher Singh put on his "Torch' from the roof and he in that light as well as in the light of the bulb of the Gobar gas saw Lallu @ Lala Ram as the person who was firing. He also saw that Ranjit of his village was assaulting Badri Yadav with a Banka and Lala Ram was having a country made pistol in his hand by which he fired at him and Badri Yadav. On a hue and cry made by them many villagers assembled at the scene of crime and the accused persons fled away from there.

19. P.W.4- Dr. V.K. Verma, who at the time of incident was posted as radiologist in District Hospital, Lakhimpur Kheri and had performed x-ray of the injured Dal Chand and prepared x-ray report on the basis of x-ray plates has proved X-ray report as Ext. Ka-2 and x-ray plates as material Ext. 1&2 and stated that in the x-ray of injured Dal Chand, heterogeneous opacity was found in the right lung.

20. P.W.5-Shri Shiv Ram Yadav was posted as Circle Officer, Police at the relevant point of time and stated to have recorded the statement of accused Gajram, Scribe of FIR Ganesh Chandra Pandey, Mahesh Chandra, S.I. Ram Autar Singh, Pushpendra. Manoj and Ram Autar. He also inspected the place of recovery of country made pistol and also prepared the site plan, Ext. Ka-3. He also stated to have recorded the statement of witness of inquest report and also of injured Dal Chand. He after recording statement of appellant Ranjit took him on Police custody remand and a "Banka' has been recovered on his pointing out from a room of his house. This witness has proved the recovery memo of Banka as also the site plan of the place of recovery of Banka as Ext. Ka-4.

21. P.W.6- Dr. Akhilesh Khare, who was posted as a Medical Officer in District Hospital on 5.8.2005 is stated to have performed the postmortem on the same day at 3.00 P.M. on the body of the deceased Badri Yadav. He proved the postmortem report (Ext. Ka-6) to have been prepared in his hand writing and signatures . The details of the postmortem report has been elaborately given in paragraph 6 this judgment. He opined that death of the deceased Badri Yadav had occured due to excessive bleeding and shock due to ante-mortem injures and also that the injuries caused to Badri Yadav were caused by fire-arm and sharp-edged weapon like "Banka'.

22. P.W.7- Dr. Rajendra Prasad has stated to have medically examined P.W.3-Dal Chand on 4.4.2005 at 5.45 A.M. who was brought to him by police constable Rajendra Prasad Yadav. He noticed one fire-arm injury of entry and one fire-arm wound of exit on his person and has proved the injury report (Ext. Ka-7) under his signatures and writing . According to him the above injuries were caused by fire-arm (country made pistol). Both the doctors, namely, P.W.6- Dr. Akhilesh Khare and P.W.7- Dr. Rajendra Prasad have stated that injuries on the person of deceased and injured might have been inflicted at 12.00 O' clock in the intervening night of 3-4.4.2005. Injury report of P.W.3-Dal Chand has been dealt with elaborately in para 7 of this judgment.

23. P.W.8- Ram Autar is stated to have heard a sound of gun shot fired at about 12.00 O' clock in the intervening night of 3-4.4.2005 and stated to have come out of his house and saw that appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram armed with country made pistol of .315 bore and appellant Ranjit armed with Banka were emerging out from the baggar of Badri Yadav. He claimed to have seen the appellants in the light of bulb which was lighting in the baggar. When he went in side he saw that Badri Yadav was lying dead after sustaining fire-arm and Banka injuries while his brother Dal Chand was lying in injured condition. He brought Dal Chand to the Police Station from a tractor-trolley along with Sher Singh and Tule Ram and the FIR of the incident was lodged by P.W.1- Sher Singh . He also stated that Badri Yadav had executed a sale deed of his land in favour of his son Sher Singh and other sons of Badri Yadav including Lallu @ Lala Ram were angry with Badri Yadav on this score and a revenue case was also pending between Dal Chand and his aunt Ram Kali wherein appellant Ranjit was doing pairvi on behalf of Ram Kali. He also stated that one Sub-Inspector of Police came to the place of occurrence after the incident and collected plain and blood stained soil and also inspected torch, ladder, Gobar gas apparatus from which a bulb was lighting and also that a memo of the above proceedings was prepared as Ext. Ka-8, Ka-9 and Ka-10. He also stated to be a witness of the recovery of a country made pistol of .315 bore and one empty and 2 live cartridges on the pointing out of appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram. He further stated to be a witness of the recovery of a Banka from the house of Ranjit at his pointing out and proved the recovery memo (Ext. Ka-11) prepared with regard to this recovery.

24. P.W.9- Head Constable Ram Prakash has proved the chick FIR and G.D. Kayami to be written in his hand writing as (Ext. Ka-12) and (Ext. Ka-13).

25. P.W.10- S.I. Ram Autar Singh has stated to have prepared the inquest report (Ext. Ka-14) of the body of Badri Yadav on the direction of the Station House Officer and also the necessary papers i.e. specimen seal (Ext. Ka-15), Chalan lash (Ext. Ka-16), photo lash (Ext. Ka-17), letter R.I. (Ext. Ka-118), letter C.M.O. (Ext. Ka-19) in his signatures and hand writing and also to have prepared the memo (Ext. Ka-8) of seizing blood stained and plain soil and piece of quilt and cushion. He also stated to have inspected the torch of Sher Singh, ladder, Gobar gas bulb and also to have prepared memo Ext. Ka-9 and Ext. Ka-10 in this respect. On being re-examined he proved material Ext, blood stained and plain soil, blood stained cushion and blood stained quilt as material Ext. No.s 3,4,5 and 6, respectively.

26. P.W.11- S.I. Ram Pradeep Yadav has stated that he prepared site plan of the place of occurrence on the pointing out of Sher Singh and proved the same as Exit. Ka-20 and also that the inquest report was prepared under his direction. He stated to have arrested the appellant Lallu @ Lala

Ram and to have recovered one country made pistol, one empty and two live cartridges on his pointing. He also claimed to have prepared the recovery memo of country made pistol and cartridges.

27. P.W. 12- S.I. B.D. Arun has stated to have taken appellant Ranjit on police custody remand and a Banka is stated to have recovered on his pointing from a room of his house pertaining to which a recovery memo (Ext. Ka-11) was prepared by him. The "Banka' has also been exhibited as material Ext. 7.

28. Having perused evidence available on record we are of the considered view that there cannot be any doubt in the proposition that Section 134 of Evidence Act does not require any particular number of witnesses to prove any fact. Plurality of witnesses in a criminal trial is not the legislative intent,. It is not the quantity but quality which matters. Therefore, if the testimony of a witness is found reliable on the touch stone of credibility, accused can be convicted on the basis of testimony of even single witness. This principle was highlighted in Vadivelu Thevar V/s state of Madras; AIR 1957 SC 614, wherein it is held by Hon,ble Apex Court that

"On a consideration of the relevant authorities and the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, the following propositions may be safely stated as firmly established :

(1) As a general rule, a court can and may act on the testimony of a single witness though uncorroborated. One credible witness outweighs the testimony of a number of other witnesses of indifferent character.

(2) Unless corroboration is insisted upon by statute, courts should not insist on corroboration except in cases where the nature of the testimony of the single witness itself requires as a rule of prudence, that corroboration should be insisted upon, for example in the case of a child witness, or of a witness whose evidence is that of an accomplice or of an analogous character.

(3) Whether corroboration of the testimony of a single witness is or is not necessary, must depend upon facts and circumstances of each case and no general rule can be laid down in a matter like this and much depends upon the judicial discretion of the Judge before whom the case comes.

"The contention that in a murder case, the Court should insist upon plurality of witnesses, is much too broadly stated."

"The Indian Legislature has not insisted on laying down any such exceptions to the general Rule recognized in Section 134 quoted above. The Section enshrines the well recognized maxim that "Evidence has to be weighed and not counted." Our Legislature has given statutory recognition to the fact that administration of justice may be hampered if a particular number of witnesses were to be insisted upon.

"It is not seldom that a crime has been committed in the presence of only one witness, leaving aside those cases which are not of uncommon occurrence, where determination of guilt depends entirely on circumstantial evidence. If the Legislature were to insist upon plurality of witnesses, cases where the testimony of a single witness only could be available in proof of the crime, would go unpunished. It is here that the discretion of the presiding judge comes into play. The matter thus must depend upon the circumstance of each case and the quality of the evidence of the single witness whose testimony has to be either accepted or rejected. If such a testimony is found by the court to be entirely reliable, there is no legal impediment to the conviction of the accused person on such proof. Even as the guilt of an accused person may be proved by the testimony of a single witness, the innocence of an accused person may be established on the testimony of a single witness, even though a considerable number of witnesses may be forthcoming to testify to the truth of the case for the prosecution."

"Generally speaking oral testimony in this context may be classified into three categories, namely (1) wholly reliable (2) wholly unreliable (3) neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable. In the first category of proof, the Court should have no difficulty in coming to its conclusion either way- it may convict or may acquit on the testimony of a single witness, if it is found to be above reproach or suspicion of interestedness, incompetence or subornation. In the second category, the Court equally has no difficulty in coming to its conclusion. It is in the third category of cases, that the Court has to be circumspect and has to look for corroboration in material particulars by reliable testimony, direct or circumstantial. There is another danger in insisting on plurality of witnesses. Irrespective of the quality of the oral evidence of a single witness, if courts were to insist on plurality of witnesses in proof of any fact, they will be indirectly encouraging subornation of witnesses. Situations may arise and do arise where only a single person is available to give evidence in support of a disputed fact. The Court naturally has to weigh carefully such a testimony and if it is satisfied that the evidence is reliable and free from all taints which tend to render oral testimony open to suspicion, it becomes its duty to act upon such testimony."

29. In Lallu Manjhi vs. State of Jharkhand, AIR 2003 SC 854 Hon,ble Supreme Court held in Para 10 of the report, that "The Law of Evidence does not require any particular number of witnesses to be examined in proof of a given fact. However, faced with the testimony of a single witness, the Court may classify the oral testimony into three categories, namely (i) wholly reliable, (ii) wholly unreliable, and (iii) neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable. In the first two categories there may be no difficulty in accepting or discarding the testimony of the single witness. The difficulty arises in the third category of cases. The Court has to be circumspect and has to look for corroboration in material particulars by reliable testimony, direct or circumstantial, before acting upon testimony of a single witness."

30. In AIR 2003 SUPREME COURT 3617, Sucha singh v/s State of Punjab Honble Apex Court after considering Masalti and others vs. State of U.P. MANU/SC/0074/1964, State of Punjab v. Jagir Singh (AIR 1973 SC 2407) and Lehna v. State of Haryana (2002 (3) SCC 76), opined as under:- "Stress was laid by the accused-appellants on the non-acceptance of evidence tendered by some witnesses to contend about desirability to throw out entire prosecution case. In essence prayer is to apply the principle of "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" (false in one thing, false in everything). This plea is clearly untenable. Even if major portion of evidence is found to be deficient, in case residue is sufficient to prove guilt of an accused, notwithstanding acquittal of number of other co-accused persons, his conviction can be maintained. It is the duty of Court to separate grain from chaff. Where chaff can be separated from grain, it would be open to the Court to convict an accused notwithstanding the fact that evidence has been found to be deficient to prove guilt of other accused persons. Falsity of particular material witness or material particular would not ruin it from the beginning to end. The maxim "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" has no application in India and the witnesses cannot be branded as liar. The maxim "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" has not received general acceptance nor has this maxim come to occupy the status of rule of law. It is merely a rule of caution. All that, it amounts to, is that in such cases testimony may be disregarded, and not that it must be disregarded. The doctrine merely involves the question of weight of evidence which a Court may apply in a given set of circumstances, but it is not what may be called 'a mandatory rule of evidence'. (See Nisar Ali v. State of Uttar Pradesh (AIR 1957 SC 366). Merely because some of the accused persons have been acquitted, though evidence against all of them, so far as direct testimony went, was the same does not lead as a necessary corollary that those who have been convicted must also be acquitted. It is always open to a Court to differentiate accused who had been acquitted from those who were convicted. (See Gurcharan Singh and another v. (AIR 1956 SC 460). The doctrine is a dangerous one specially in India for if a whole body of the testimony were to be rejected, because witness was evidently speaking an untruth in some aspect, it is to be feared that administration of criminal justice would come to a dead stop. Witnesses just cannot help in giving embroidery to a story, however, true in the main. Therefore, it has to be appraised in each case as to what extent the evidence is worthy of acceptance, and merely because in some respects the Court considers the same to be insufficient for placing reliance on the testimony of a witness, it does not necessarily follow as a matter of law that it must be disregarded in all respects as well. The evidence has to be shifted with care. The aforesaid dictum is not a sound rule for the reason that one hardly comes across a witness whose evidence does not contain a grain of untruth or at any rate exaggeration, embroideries or embellishment. (See Sohrab s/o Beli Nayata and another v. State of Madhya Pradesh, 1972 3 SCC 751) and Ugar Ahir and others v. State of Bihar (AIR 1965 SC 277). An attempt has to be made to, as noted above, in terms of felicitous metaphor, separate grain from the chaff, truth from falsehood. Where it is not feasible to separate truth from falsehood, because grain and chaff are inextricably mixed up, and in the process of separation an absolutely new case has to be reconstructed by divorcing essential details presented by the prosecution completely from the context and the background against which they are made, the only available course to be made is to discard the evidence in toto. (See Zwinglee Ariel v. State of Madhya Pradesh (AIR 1954 SC 15) and Balaka Singh and others v.state of punjab (AIR 1975 SC 1962). As observed by this Court in State of Rajasthan v. Smt. Kalki and another (AIR 1981 SC 1390), normal discrepancies in evidence are those which are due to normal errors of observation, normal errors of memory due to lapse of time, due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of occurrence and those are always there however honest and truthful a witness may be. Material discrepancies are those which are not normal, and not expected of a normal person. Courts have to label the category to which a discrepancy may be categorized. While normal discrepancies do not corrode the credibility of a party's case, material discrepancies do so. These aspects were highlighted recently in Krishna Mochi and others v. State of Bihar etc. (2002 (4) JT (SC) 186)."

31. A perusal of the evidence in the background of the legal position mentioned herein-above would reveal that P.W. 1- Sher Singh who is the informant of the case and his son P.W.2- Pushpendra who claimed to be eye witness of the crime have not supported the case of the prosecution in the court. Both these witnesses have only supported a part of the prosecution version with regard to the fact that few days before the incident Badri Yadav had executed a sale deed of 7-8 Bighas of his land in favour of P.W. 1- Sher Singh. It is also admitted by these witnesses that the incident had actually occurred in the intervening night of 3-4.4.2005 and at that point of time P.W.3- Dal Chand was inside the "baggar' with deceased Badri Yadav and two sons of P.W.1- Sher Singh, namely, Pushpendra and Manoj were also inside the baggar. It is to be recalled at this juncture that it is a peculiar case where a son (Lala Ram @ Lallu) has been charged with committing the murder of his father Badri Yadav and the informant of the crime is also another son of the deceased Sher Singh, meaning thereby that informant P.W.1- Sher Singh is the real brother of appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram and P.W.-2 Pushpendra is the real nephew of the appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram. Therefore it is evident on record that these two witnesses, namely, P.W. 1- Sher Singh and P.W. 2- Pushpendra have resiled from their statements given under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. only to save appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram.

A three Judges Bench Of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Molu and others v. State of Haryana AIR 1976 SUPREME COURT 2499 has opined as under :-

"11. Finally it was argued by the appellants, following the reasons given by the Sessions Judge, that there was no adequate motive for the accused to commit murder of two persons and to cause injuries to others. It is well settled that where the direct evidence regarding the assault is worthy of credence and can be believed, the question of motive becomes more or less academic. Sometimes the motive is clear and can be proved and sometimes. however, the motive is shrouded in mystery and it is very difficult to locate the same. If, however, the evidence of the eye-witnesses is credit-worthy and is believed by the Court which has placed implicit reliance on them, the question whether there is any motive or not becomes wholly irrelevant. For these reasons, therefore, we agree with the High Court that the prosecution has been able to prove the case against the appellants beyond reasonable doubt."

32. Keeping in view the above mentioned legal position as well as the statement of P.W.1- Sher Singh and P.W.2- Pushpendra this much portion of their evidence is reliable that in the intervening night of 3-4.4.2005 at 12.00 O' clock deceased Badri Yadav, P.W.3- Dal Chand, Pushpendra and Manoj were sleeping inside the baggar and P.W.1- Sher Singh was sleeping on the roof of the house and at that time Gun shots were fired and Badri Yadav died of Banka and fire-arm injuries while Dal Chand sustained fire-arm injuries and few days before incident deceased Badri Yadav had executed sale deed of his agricultural land in favour of Sher Singh.

33. It is also apparent on record that appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram is the son of deceased Badri Yadav. In the FIR it has been stated that on 18-19 March Badri yadav executed a sale deed of 7 Bighas of land in favour of P.W.1- Sher Singh, due to which appellant Lalla ram@ Lallu was angry with him along with his two other brothers- Sarnam and Devi. It is also stated in the FIR that litigation pertaining to some agricultural land was also pending in a revenue court in between Dal Chand and Ram Kali. The appellant Ranjit was allegedly doing pairvi in that case on behalf of Ramn Kali and the father of Sher Singh namely Badri Yadav had also testified in favour of Dal Chand and on this score Ranjit was having enmity with Badri Yadav also. It is also mentioned in the FIR that due to the aforesaid reasons deceased Badri was living with informant - Sher Singh. We have already discussed the testimony of P.W.1- Sher Singh, P.W.2- Pushpendra, who are hostile witness and we have also reached to a conclusion as to which part of their testimony is reliable and can be acted upon.

So far as the necessity of prosecution to prove motive of crime is concerned, in Praful Sudhakar Parab v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2016 SUPREME COURT 3107 Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under :-

"16. .....Motive for committing a crime is something which is hidden in the mind of accused and it has been held by this Court that it is an impossible task for the prosecution to prove what precisely have impelled the murderer to kill a particular person. This Court in Ravinder Kumar and another v. State of Punjab, 2001 (7) SCC 690 : (AIR 2001 SC 3570), has laid down following in paragraph 18:

"18.....It is generally an impossible task for the prosecution to prove what precisely would have impelled the murderers to kill a particular person. All that prosecution in many cases could point to is the possible mental element which could have been the cause for the murder. In this connection we deem it useful to refer to the observations of this Court in State of Himachal Pradesh v. Jeet Singh {1999 (4) SCC 370 : (AIR 1999 SC 1293)}:

"No doubt it is a sound principle to remember that every criminal act was done with a motive but its corollary is not that no criminal offence would have been committed if the prosecution has failed to prove the precise motive of the accused to commit it. When the prosecution succeeded in showing the possibility of some ire for the accused towards the victim, the inability to further put on record the manner in which such ire would have swelled up in the mind of the offender to such a degree as to impel him to commit the offence cannot be construed as a fatal weakness of the prosecution. It is almost an impossibility for the prosecution to unravel the full dimension of the mental disposition of an offender towards the person whom he offended."

Keeping in view the above legal position we are of considered opinion that the prosecution is not obliged to prove those facts which are either impossible for the prosecution to prove or which are locked up in the mind of the accused person(s) i.e. as to what tempted them to commit the crime. Therefore, the cases which are based on direct evidence of the eye witnesses should be decided on the basis of the quality and probative value of the evidence of such eye witnesses.

34. Coming to the testimony of P.W.3- Dal Chand, who is stated to be a close friend of deceased Badri Yadav , it is evident that he has supported the version of the First Information Report in his testimony and has also stated about the execution of the sale deed by Badri Yadav pertaining to 7-8 Bighas in favour of P.W.1- Sher Singh and also that his other sons including appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram were having enmity with him on this score. This witness is also stated about the pendency of a litigation with regard to the agricultural land between him and Ram Kali and also that appellant Ranjit was doing pairvi on behalf of Ram Kali in that case. P.W.3- Dal Chand has also stated in his cross- examination that Ram Kali was claiming herself to be the wife of his uncle Bhikhari and this litigation was pertaining to the agricultural land of Bhikhari. It is further stated by him that he was claiming the said land on the basis of a Will. However, their Will was not upheld by Revenue Court. It is also stated by him that whereabouts of his uncle Bhikhari was not known for 10-12 years prior to the incident and also that the appellant Ranjit is nephew of his uncle Bhikhari on the basis of village relations.

It is further stated by P.W.3- Dal Chand that the deceased Badri Yadav was his close friend and villagers used to ask Badri Yadav as to why he had given more than half share of his land to his one son Sher Singh.

35. P.W.8- Ram Autar has also corroborated the version of FIR pertaining to the execution of sale deed of his agriculture land by the deceased Badri in favour of his son Sher Singh with regard to 7-8 Bighas of land and also that his other sons, namely, Sarnam, Lallu @ Lala Ram and Devi were angry with him. He also corroborated the fact of pendency of a litigation between Dal Chand and Ram Kali wherein the appellant Ranjit was doing pairvi on behalf of Ram Kali. In his cross examination he maintained that he was also a party in that litigation and Ranjit was procuring the witnesses in that case for Ram Kali.

36. Perusal of record would further reveal that the appellants have also filed documentary evidence in the shape of a certified copy of the judgment of Consolidation Officer, dated 15.10.2004 (Ext. Kha-17) passed in Case No. 2869/31/04-05 Dal Chand and others Vs. State. This case was started on an application moved by one Smt. Bitana, who claimed herself to be the wife of Bhikhari. P.W.3- Dal Chand and P.W. 8- Ram Autar were also parties in this case. Ext. Kha-2 is a certified copy of the objections filed by Smt. Bitana, wife of Bhikhari and Ext. Kha-3 is a certified copy of the statement of Ram Autar recorded in Criminal Case No. 77205 under Section 25 Arms Act. Though it is not clear whether Smt. Bitana and Smt. Ram Kali are one and same person or whether Smt. Bitana was also known as Smt. Ram Kali, but the evidence available on record sufficiently proves this fact that the appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram was annoyed by the execution of the sale deed of 7-8 Bighas of agricultural land by his father (deceased Badri yadav) in favour of his real brother P.W.1- Sher Singh and also that Ranjit was also keeping enmity with Dal Chand. Moreover instant case is based on the testimony of the eye witnesses who have seen the crime being committed by the appellants. Therefore the motive in this case is not of much importance. Nevertheless, the prosecution has been successful in proving that there was sufficient motive with the appellants to commit offence.

37. Coming to the next submission of learned counsel pertaining to the non availability of any source of light at the spot and that in absence of any source of light it was not possible for any one to witness the real assailants, it it may be noticed that the case of the prosecution is consistent on the point that the incident occurred at about 12.00 O' clock in the mid night and the witnesses have seen the occurrence in the light of torch and the light which was emanating from a bulb lighted from the Gobar gas/ cell, which was lighting at the time of incident in the baggar. P.W.3- Dal Chand and P.W.8- Ram Autar (who was residing adjacent to the scene of occurrence) have stated that at the time of occurrence a Gobar gas bulb was lighting in the baggar and the same was fitted with the Gobar gas apparatus. Investigating Officer, who arrived at the spot after the incident has also found a bulb fitted with Gobar gas apparatus in side the baggar where the deceased and Dal Chand were sleeping. The Investigating Officer has also prepared a memo Ext. Ka-10 pertaining to the seizure of the bulb and apparatus and also a memo of torch of Sher Singh. The place where the bulb was lighting has also been shown by the Investigating Officer in the site plan (Ext. Ka-3) by the word "E". Therefore it is evident and proved on record that though the incident had occurred in the night but there was sufficient light in and around the place of occurrence and P.W.1- Sher Singh was also having a torch with him, in the light of which appellants could easily be identified. Moreover, appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram is the son of the deceased Badri Yadav and Ranjit was doing the pairvi in a case against Dal Chand and both these persons were well known to the witnesses, therefore there is no possibility of any error so far as identification of the appellants as the perpetrators of the crime is concerned. Hence, we do not find any force in this submission of learned counsel for the appellants.

38. It is further argued by learned counsel for the appellants that P.W.3- Dal Chand was not in a position to see as to who had committed the crime. He could only see with his one eye and on this score his evidence could not be relied on.

In Krishna Mochi and Ors. vs. State of Bihar, MANU/SC/0327/2002 Hon,ble Supreme Court held as under :-

"As observed by this Court in State of Rajasthan v. Smt. Kalki and Anr. MANU/SC/0254/1981 : 1981CriLJ1012 , normal discrepancies in evidence are those which are due to normal errors of observation, normal errors of memory due to lapse of time, due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of occurrence and those are always there however honest and truthful a witness may be. Material discrepancies are those which are not normal, and not expected of a normal person. Courts have to label the category to which a discrepancy may be categorized. While normal discrepancies do not corrode the credibility of a party's case, material discrepancies do so. Accusations have been established against accused-appellants in the case at hand."

In Gangabhavani vs. Rayapati Venkat Reddy and Ors. Reported in

MANU/SC/0897/2013 it has been held as under:-

"In State of U.P. v. Naresh MANU/SC/0228/2011 : (2011) 4 SCC 324, this Court after considering a large number of its earlier judgments held: In all criminal cases, normal discrepancies are bound to occur in the depositions of witnesses due to normal errors of observation, namely, errors of memory due to lapse of time or due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of occurrence. Where the omissions amount to a contradiction, creating a serious doubt about the truthfulness of the witness and other witnesses also make material improvement while deposing in the court, such evidence cannot be safe to rely upon. However, minor contradictions, inconsistencies, embellishments or improvements on trivial matters which do not affect the core of the prosecution case, should not be made a ground on which the evidence can be rejected in its entirety. The court has to form its opinion about the credibility of the witness and record a finding as to whether his deposition inspires confidence.

Exaggerations per se do not render the evidence brittle. But it can be one of the factors to test credibility of the prosecution version, when the entire evidence is put in a crucible for being tested on the touchstone of credibility.

Therefore, mere marginal variations in the statements of a witness cannot be dubbed as improvements as the same may be elaborations of the statement made by the witness earlier. The omissions which amount to contradictions in material particulars i.e. go to the root of the case/materially affect the trial or core of the prosecution's case, render the testimony of the witness liable to be discredited.

*A similar view has been reiterated by this Court in Tehsildar Singh and Anr. v. State of U.P. MANU/SC/0053/1959 : AIR 1959 SC 1012; Pudhu Raja and Anr. v. State, Rep. by Inspector of Police MANU/SC/0761/2012 : JT 2012 (9) SC 252; and Lal Bahadur v. State (NCT of Delhi) MANU/SC/0333/2013 : (2013) 4 SCC 557).

10. Thus, it is evident that in case there are minor contradictions in the depositions of the witnesses the same are bound to be ignored as the same cannot be dubbed as improvements and it is likely to be so as the statement in the court is recorded after an inordinate delay. In case the contradictions are so material that the same go to the root of the case, materially affect the trial or core of the prosecution case, the court has to form its opinion about the credibility of the witnesses and find out as to whether their depositions inspire confidence."

39. Honble Apex Court long back in the matter of Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v State of Gujarat as reported in AIR 1983, 753, MANU/SC/0090/1983 in para-5, observed and settled following principles for appreciation of evidence without entering into re-appraisal or re-appreciation of the evidence in the context of minor discrepancies. The principles laid down are as under:

(1) By and large a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident. It is not as if a video tape is replayed an the mental screen.

(2) Ordinarily it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events. The witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which so often has an element of surprise. The mental faculties therefore cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb the details.

(3) The powers of observation differ from person to person. What one may notice, another may not. An object or movement might emboss its image on one person's mind, whereas it might go unnoticed on the part of another.

(4) By and large people cannot accurately recall a conversation and reproduce the very words used by them or heard by them. They can only recall the main purport of the conversation. It is unrealistic to expect a witness to be a human tape recorder.

(5) In regard to exact time of an incident, or the time duration of an occurrence, usually, people make their estimates by guesswork on the spur of the moment at the time of interrogation. And one cannot expect people to make very precise or reliable estimates in such matters. Again, it depends on the time-sense of individuals which varies from person to person.

(6) Ordinarily a witness cannot be expected to recall accurately the sequence of events which take place in rapid succession or in a short time span. A witness is liable to get confused, or mixed up when interrogated later on.

(7) A witness, though wholly truthful, is liable to be overawed by the Court atmosphere and the piercing cross-examination made by counsel and out of nervousness mix up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events, or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment. The sub-conscious mind of the witness sometimes so operates on account of the fear of looking foolish or being disbelieved though the witness is giving a truthful and honest account of the occurrence witnessed by him - perhaps it is a sort of a psychological defence mechanism activated on the spur of the moment."

40. Perusal, of the evidence on record in the back ground of submissions of Ld. Counsel for appellants if tested on the touchstone of the above mentioned legal position, would reveal that P.W.1- Sher Singh in his statement has stated that he after hearing the sound of a gun shot did not see the appellants running away from the scene and when he reached the spot no assailant was present there. As has been observed herein before that P.W.1- Sher Singh has chosen not to support the prosecution case due to the fact that appellant Lallu Ram @ Lala Ram is his real brother but his malafide is apparent on the face of his evidence when he has stated that he could not see the assailants and he lodged the First Information Report against the appellants on the basis of information provided by the villagers and he only put his signatures on the written application without having any knowledge of the contents of the same. He has also stated that he only know to make signatures and he is an illiterate person. A perusal of FIR would reveal that P.W.1- Sher Singh has claimed himself to be an eye witness of the incident. In his cross examination he has stated that co-accused Gajram was a witness of the sale deed executed by Badri in his favour and he is having very cordial relations with him. P.W.2- Pushpendra is the son of Sher Singh, therefore there is no doubt that both these witnesses have turned hostile only to sheild their brother and uncle Lallu @ Lala Ram and they have been actually won over.

41. In Paramjeet Singh alias Pamma vs. State of Uttarakhand (2010) 10 SCC 439, it was held as under:-

"16. The fact that the witness was declared hostile at the instance of the Public Prosecutor and he was allowed to cross-examine the witness furnishes no justification for rejecting en bloc the evidence of the witness. However, the court has to be very careful, as prima facie, a witness who makes different statements at different times, has no regard for the truth. His evidence has to be read and considered as a whole with a view to find out whether any weight should be attached to it. The court should be slow to act on the testimony of such a witness; normally, it should look for corroboration to his testimony. (Vide State of Rajasthan v. Bhawani (2003) 7 SCC 291.)

17. This Court while deciding the issue in Radha Mohan Singh v. State of U.P. (2006) 2 SCC 450 observed as under: (SCC p. 457, para 7)

"7. ... It is well settled that the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. The evidence of such witness cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether but the same can be accepted to the extent his version is found to be dependable on a careful scrutiny thereof."

18. In Mahesh v. State of Maharashtra (2008) 13 SCC 271, this Court considered the value of the deposition of a hostile witness and held as under: (SCC p. 289, para 49)

"49. ... If PW 1 the maker of the complaint has chosen not to corroborate his earlier statement made in the complaint and recorded during investigation, the conduct of such a witness for no plausible and tenable reasons pointed out on record, will give rise to doubt the testimony of the investigating officer who had sincerely and honestly conducted the entire investigation of the case. In these circumstances, we are of the view that PW 1 has tried to conceal the material truth from the Court with the sole purpose of shielding and protecting the appellant for reasons best known to the witness and therefore, no benefit could be given to the appellant for unfavourable conduct of this witness to the prosecution."

19. In Rajendra v. State of U.P. (2009) 13 SCC 480, this Court observed that merely because a witness deviates from his statement made in the FIR, his evidence cannot be held to be totally unreliable. This Court reiterated a similar view in Govindappa v. State of Karnataka (2010) 6 SCC 533 observing that the deposition of a hostile witness can be relied upon at least up to the extent he supported the case of the prosecution.

20. In view of the above, it is evident that the evidence of a person does not become effaced from the record merely because he has turned hostile and his deposition must be examined more cautiously to find out as to what extent he has supported the case of the prosecution."

Both P.W.1- Sher Singh and P.W.2- Pushpendra have stated that Dal Chand at the time of incident was in baggar with deceased Badri Yadav and the incident had occurred at about 12.00 O'clock in the night. Perusal of the testimony of P.W.1- Sher Singh would further reveal that he has admitted the presence of sufficient light and he was also holding a torch in his hand at the time of incident. P.W.3- Dal Chand had also stated that at the fateful night he talked with Badri till late in the night and two sons of Badri, namely, Pushpendra and Manoj were also sleeping in the same room while Sher Singh was sleeping on the roof of the house.

According to him Badri and he were lying on the ground and at midnight a gun shot was fired where-after he tried to get up but at the same time second gun shot was fired which hit him on his chest and P.W.1- Sher Singh put on his torch and in the light of his torch and of gobar gas bulb he saw the assailants as Lallu @ Lal Ram who fired at them and Ranjit who was assaulting deceased Badri Yadav with Banka. He further stated that at the time of incident he was not sleeping and his eyes had blinked for a moment.

42. Referring to a portion of his evidence, it has been submitted that this witness could not see with his one eye and therefore he could not have witnessed the incident. We are unable to concur with this submission of learned counsel for the appellants on the ground that the evidence of a witness could not be read in piecemeal and the same has to be perused in totality. We have very carefully gone through the testimony of this witness and have found that he has stated that he could see only with his one eye. However, in the same breath he has stated that he could read and write without the aid of spectacles. The fact that he, during his cross examination, could not tell the details of a tree standing about 100 meters away from the place where his statement was being recorded is of no consequence to doubt the authenticity and reliability of his otherwise truthful evidence. It is to be remembered that P.W.3- Dal Chand is an injured witness, his presence at the time of incident has even been admitted by the hostile witness P.W.2- Pushpendra who was also sleeping in the same baggar (room) and his friendship with the deceased Badri Yadav is a proved fact and he (Dal Chand) used to sleep in the baggar of Badri Yadav and used to talk with him till late in the night, as a matter of routine. Having perused the entire evidence of this witness we do not find any material contradictions or embellishments in his testimony which may brand him as unreliable. Contrary to this, having examined his testimony with utmost care and caution, we find his evidence unblemished and trustworthy. He was injured in the incident and the nature of injuries sustained by him has added a flavor of acceptability to his otherwise trustworthy evidence. We are, therefore, see no reason as to why he will falsely implicate Lallu @ Lala Ram i.e. son of his close friend for committing the murder of his father i.e. Badri Yadav.

In Ramesh Bhagwan Manjrekar and Ors. Vs. State of Maharashtra reported in MANU/MH/0161/1996 Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under :-

"21. It is well settled that the evidence of an injured witness can be the sole basis; in fact the best basis, for either recording or sustaining a conviction. This is because injuries ensure the presence of a witness. And once that is ensured the limited question which remains is that of his credibility and truthfulness. After going through the evidence of Shaikh Jalaluddin we not only find it to be truthful but also in consonance with probabilities and medical evidence."

In Mohar and Ors. Vs. State of U.P. reported in MANU/SC/0808/2002 it was held that "The testimony of an injured witness has its own efficacy and relevancy. The fact that the witness sustained injuries on his body would show that he was present at the place of occurrence and had seen the occurrence by himself. Convincing evidence would require to discredit an injured witness. Similarly, every discrepancy in the statement of witness cannot be treated as fatal. the discrepancy which do not affect the prosecution case materially cannot create any infirmity."

In the case of Akhtar and Ors. Vs. State of Uttaranchal, MANU/SC/0556/2009 Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under :-

"13. In the case of Krishan v. State of Haryana 2006 (12) SCC 459, this Court has taken the view that if the prosecution case supported by two injured eye-witnesses Similarly, in the case of Surender Singh v. State of Haryana MANU/SC/0393/2006 : (2006)9SCC247 , this Court has opined that the testimony of an injured witness has its own relevancy and efficacy. The fact that the witness was injured at the time and in the same occurrence lends support to the testimony that the witness was present during occurrence and he saw the happening with his own eyes.

14 . This Court has taken the view in State of M.P. v. Mansingh MANU/SC/0596/2003 : (2003)10SCC414 that the evidence of injured witnesses has greater evidentiary value and unless compelling reasons exist, their statements are not to be discarded lightly. It was contended by the appellant that the testimony of Jamil Ahmed (PW-2) and Mobin (PW- 3) cannot be relied on as these two eye witnesses were allegedly highly interested witnesses and were related to the deceased. In our considered view, merely because the witnesses in question were related to the deceased cannot be a ground for non-acceptance of their evidence, which otherwise was found to be trustworthy. It is true that these two witnesses are related to the deceased but at the same time one cannot lose sight of the fact that these two witnesses were also injured witnesses. It is extremely difficult to believe that the injured witnesses who themselves got injured and whose close relatives lost their lives would shield the real culprits and name somebody else only due to some enmity. The defence had ample opportunity to cross-examine these two injured eye witnesses but records show that no suggestions were put to them as to how they received the injuries, mentioned in the medical reports. In fact, various documents filed by the defence with respect to litigation among themselves itself give the unmistakable impression that there was indeed motive to attack the deceased and the injured witnesses. and if their (injured eye-witnesses) testimony is consistent before the police and the court and corroborated by the medical evidence, their testimony cannot be discarded."

Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jarnail Singh and Ors. Vs. State of Punjab reported in MANU/SC/1584/2009 held as under :-

"19. Darshan Singh (PW-4) was an injured witness. He had been examined by the doctor. His testimony could not be brushed aside lightly. He had given full details of the incident as he was present at the time when the assailants reached the tube well.

20. In Shivalingappa Kallayanappa v. State of Karnataka MANU/SC/0053/1995 : 1994 Supp (3) SCC 235, this Court has held that the deposition of the injured witness should be relied upon unless there are strong grounds for rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies, for the reason that his presence on the scene stands established in case, it is proved that he suffered the injury during the said incident.

21. I n State of U.P. v. Kishan Chand and Ors. MANU/SC/0652/2004 : (2004) 7 SCC 629, a similar view has been re-iterated observing that the Testimony of a stamped witness has its own relevance and efficacy. The fact that the witness sustained injuries at the time and place of occurrence, lends support to his testimony that he was present during the occurrence. In case the injured witness is subjected to lengthy cross examination and nothing can be elicited to discard his testimony, it should be relied upon vide Krishan and Ors. v. State of Haryana (2006) 12 SCC 459. Thus, we are of the considered opinion that evidence of Darshan Singh (PW-4) has rightly been relied upon by the courts below."

In Abdul Sayeed Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh reported in MANU/SC/0702/2010, Hon'ble Supreme Court while discussing about the weight to be attached to an injured witness was pleased to held as under :-

"26. The question of the weight to be attached to the evidence of a witness that was himself injured in the course of the occurrence has been extensively discussed by this Court. Where a witness to the occurrence has himself been injured in the incident, the testimony of such a witness is generally considered to be very reliable, as he is a witness that comes with a built-in guarantee of his presence at the scene of the crime and is unlikely to spare his actual assailant(s) in order to falsely implicate someone. "Convincing evidence is required to discredit an injured witness". (Vide Ramlagan Singh and Ors. v. State of Bihar MANU/SC/0216/1972 : AIR 1972 SC 2593; Malkhan Singh and Anr. v. State of Uttar Pradesh MANU/SC/0164/1974 : AIR 1975 SC 12; Machhi Singh and Ors. v. State of Punjab MANU/SC/0211/1983 : AIR 1983 SC 957; Appabhai and Anr. v. State of Gujarat MANU/SC/0028/1988 : AIR 1988 SC 696; Bonkya alias Bharat Shivaji Mane and Ors. v. State of Maharashtra MANU/SC/0066/1996 : (1995) 6 SCC 447; Bhag Singh and Ors. State of Maharashtra MANU/SC/0352/2010 : (2010) 6 SCC 673).

27. While deciding this issue, a similar view was taken in, Jarnail Singh v. State of Punjab MANU/SC/1584/2009 : (2009) 9 SCC 719, where this Court reiterated the special evidentiary status accorded to the testimony of an injured accused and relying on its earlier judgments held as under:

"Darshan Singh (PW 4) was an injured witness. He had been examined by the doctor. His testimony could not be brushed aside lightly. He had given full details of the incident as he was present at the time when the assailants reached the tubewell. In Shivalingappa Kallayanappa v. State of Karnataka MANU/SC/0053/1995 : 1994 Supp (3) SCC 235, this Court has held that the deposition of the injured witness should be relied upon unless there are strong grounds for rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies, for the reason that his presence on the scene stands established in case it is proved that he suffered the injury during the said incident.

In State of U.P. v. Kishan Chand MANU/SC/0652/2004 : (2004) 7 SCC 629, a similar view has been reiterated observing that the testimony of a stamped witness has its own relevance and efficacy.

The fact that the witness sustained injuries at the time and place of occurrence, lends support to his testimony that he was present during the occurrence. In case the injured witness is subjected to lengthy cross- examination and nothing can be elicited to discard his testimony, it should be relied upon (vide Krishan v. State of Haryana (2006) 12 SCC 459). Thus, we are of the considered opinion that evidence of Darshan Singh (PW 4) has rightly been relied upon by the courts below."

28. The law on the point can be summarized to the effect that the testimony of the injured witness is accorded a special status in law. This is as a consequence of the fact that the injury to the witness is an in-built guarantee of his presence at the scene of the crime and because the witness will not want to let his actual assailant go unpunished merely to falsely implicate a third party for the commission of the offence. Thus, the deposition of the injured witness should be relied upon unless there are strong grounds for rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies therein."

In Manjit Singh vs. The State of Punjab, MANU/SC/1195/2019 it was held in para 13.2. of the report that there is no Rule that in every criminal case, the testimony of an injured eye-witness needs corroboration from the so-called independent witness(es). When the statement of injured eye-witness is found trustworthy and reliable, the conviction on that basis could always be recorded, of course, having regard to all the facts and surrounding factors.

Having considered the entire evidence of PW-3 Dal Chand with care and caution we are of the considered view that the trial court does not appear to have committed any illegality or to say any irregularity in accepting the reliable and trustworthy evidence of PW-3 Dal Chand. P.W.8- Ram Autar has also seen both appellants running away from the scene of crime with Country made pistol and Banka in their hands. Having considered the evidence of this witness with care and caution, the same also appears to be reliable and trustworthy in the facts and circumstances of the case. Therefore in our considered opinion no illegality has been committed by trial court in accepting his testimony.

43. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the nature of fire-arm injuries found on the person of deceased Badri Yadav and injured P.W.3-Dal Chand could not be inflicted by the gun shots fired from the place situated outside a four feet boundary wall and even if the evidence of prosecution is taken on its face value if the gun shots were fired from beyond the 3-4 ft high boundary wall trajectory of the fire arm injuries should be downwards.

44. We have perused the postmortem report of deceased Badri Yadav which is available on record as Ext. Ka-6 as well as injury report of Dal Chand (Ext. Ka-7). Perusal of both these reports would reveal that the deceased Badri Yadav had received incised wound at 5 places of his person including multiple incised wounds over front and left side of his neck, while Dal Chand received one fire-arm wound of entry and also one fire-arm wound of exit corresponding to the fire-arm wound of entry on the left side of his chest. According to P.W.6- Dr. Akhilesh Khare who has conducted postmortem on the dead body of Badri Yadav the death of the deceased Badri Yadav had occurred due to shock and hemorrhage caused by ante-mortem injuries. He has further stated the time of death of deceased Badri Yadav at about 12.00 O' clock in the intervening night of 3-4.4.2005. P.W.7- Dr. Rajendra, who examined the injuries of P.W.3- Dal Chand, has also proved the injury report (Ext. Ka-7) and has stated that the injuries sustained by Dal Chand were fresh and were caused by fire-arm like country made pistol and these injuries might have been sustained at about 12.00 O' clock in the intervening night of 3-4.4.2005. P.W. 1, Sher Singh has stated to have heard sound of gun shots while P.W.3- Dal Chand and P.W. 8- Ram Autar, who is a neighbour, have also stated to have heard the sound of Gun shots. P.W.3- Dal Chand who has sustained fire-arm injuries in the incident has seen the appellant Lallu @ Lal Ram firing from country made pistol and Ranjit assaulting Badri Yadav with Banka. P.W.8- Ram Autar has seen the appellants running away after committing crime with weapons in their hands and after entering the "baggar' found Badri Yadav dead and Dal Chand in seriously injured condition. Therefore consistent case of the prosecution is that deceased Badri Yadav and P.W.3- Dal Chand were assaulted by Lallu @ Lala Ram by firing gun shots from country made pistol while appellant Ranjit assaulted Badri Yadav alone by Banka. The injuries sustained on the body of the deceased Badri Yadav could have been inflicted by firearm and Banka while the injuries found on the person of Dal Chand could have been caused by fire-arm, therefore in our considered opinion there is no difference between ocular and medical evidence and in fact medical evidence fully supports the ocular evidence in material particulars. The submission that injuries of a particular trajectory or dimension have not been sustained by the deceased and injured person is of no consequence. More over the testimony of an injured witness can not be brushed aside on the basis of minor contradictions and improvements. To discard the testimony of injured person very strong and cogent reasons are required and no such major contradictions are present in the evidence of injured witness P.W.-3 Dal Chand.

In Ramkant Rai v. Madan Rai and Ors. as reported inMANU/SC/0780/2003 : 2004CriLJ36 , the Apex Court observed in ParaNo. 22 as under:

"22. It is trite that where the eyewitnesses' account is found credible and trustworthy, medical opinion pointing to alternative possibilities is not accepted as conclusive. Witnesses, as Bantham said, are the eyes and ears of justice. Hence the importance and primacy of the quality of the trial process. Eyewitnesses' account would require a careful independent assessment and evaluation for their credibility which should not be adversely prejudged making any other evidence Including medical evidence, as the sole touchstone for the test of such credibility. The evidence must be tested for its inherent consistency and the inherent probability of the story; consistency with the account of other witnesses held to be credit-worthy; consistency with the undisputed facts the 'credit' of the witnesses; their performance In the witness-box; their power of observation etc. Then the probative value of such evidence becomes eligible to be put into the scales for a cumulative evaluation."

Appreciation of evidence of P.W.-3 Dal Chand, in the back drop of above mentioned law would reveal that the testimony of this witness is reliable and trustworthy and his presence at the spot is proved beyond all reasonable doubt. He is an injured witness and his testimony has also been corroborated by medical evidence, therefore we do not have any reason to doubt the trustworthiness and acceptability of the evidence of this witness.

45. It is also pertinent to mention here that though the trial court has disbelieved the recovery of country made pistol at the instance of appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram on the pretext that neither the recovery memo pertaining to the recovery of country made pistol nor the pistol itself was produced in the court, perusal of record would reveal that the trial court in its judgment has mentioned that a criminal case under Section 25 Arms Act with regard to this recovery is pending before the Judicial Magistrate, Mohammadi and the appellants have filed a document Ext. Kha-3 which is the statement of P.W.8- Ram Autar recorded in that case. It is strange that the trial court despite being aware of the pendency of that case before the judicial magistrate did not bother to try that case along with instant case while it was the duty of the trial court to try that case together with the instant case. Therefore, the trial court has extended the benefit of its own wrong to the appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram and has recorded that the recovery of country made pistol from Lallu @ Lala Ram has not been proved. We do not want to disturb such finding of the trial court but would like to clarify that the recovery of any weapon on the pointing of accused, allegedly used in the crime, is a piece of evidence amongst many pieces of evidence on which the prosecution rely in seeking conviction of accused person(s) and if this one piece of evidence is not proved, it does not mean that the entire case of prosecution would be discarded on that point alone. If the remaining pieces of evidence available on record achieve the requisite standard i.e. proof beyond reasonable doubt against appellant/ accused, they can safely be convicted.

46. The recovery of Banka from appellant- Ranjit on his pointing out has been proved by the reliable testimony of P.W.8- Ram Autar and P.W.12- Sub Inspector B.D. Arun who have proved the fact of recovery of "Banka' on the pointing of appellant Ranjit from his house.

47. We are also not inclined to appreciate the submission of learned counsel for the appellants with regard to the fact that the FIR in the case is ante timed. We have carefully scanned the oral as well as documentary evidence available on record and have found that the FIR of the incident was lodged at 4.10 A.M. while the incident has occurred at about 12.00 O' clock in the mid-night and the distance of Police Station from the spot is 7 Km. P.W.9- Head Constable Ram Bux has proved the fact of lodging the FIR and also that substance of this information was entered in the G.D. (Ext. Ka-13). Inquest of the dead body of Badri Yadav has begun at 6.30 A.M. On 4.4.2005 which is evident from inquest report Ext. Ka-14 and it contains all necessary details. P.W.1- Sher Singh though has not supported the prosecution story in full, but has supported this much of the prosecution story that he lodged the FIR (Ext. Ka-1) . However, he claimed that the contents of FIR were not read over to him and he only put his signature on it. We are not inclined to accept this explanation of this witness, as it is evident on record that he has turned hostile only to support his real brother Appellant Lallu @ Lalaram. P.W. 3- Dal Chand who had gone with P.W.1- Sher

Singh to lodge the FIR has also stated to have accompanied Sher Singh along with his brother to Police Station for the purpose of lodging of FIR. The fact that at one place of his statement he stated that Ext. Ka-1 was written in front of him in the after-noon is of no consequence because it is probable that he may be confused by the fact that he is also a witness of the recovery memo of country made pistol recovered at the instance of appellant Lallu @ Lala Ram and a recovery memo pertaining to that recovery was also written in his presence. Therefore We do not find any substance in this argument of the learned counsels for the appellants.

48. In Gangadhar Behera and others v State of Orissa, reported in MANU/SC/0875/2002 it is held in para 18 and 19 of the report as under :-

"18. Exaggerated devotion to the rule of benefit of doubt must not nurture fanciful doubts or lingering suspicion and thereby destroy social defence. Justice cannot be made sterile on the plea that it is better to let hundred guilty escape than punish an innocent. Letting guilty escape is not doing justice according to law. [See: Gurbachan Singh v. Satpal Singh and Ors. MANU/SC/0034/1990 : 1990CriLJ562]. Prosecution is not required to meet any and every hypothesis put forward by the accused. [See State of U.P. v. Ashok Kumar Srivastava MANU/SC/0161/1992 : [1992]1SCR37]. A reasonable doubt is not an imaginary trivial or merely possible doubt, but a fair doubt based upon reason and common sense. It must grow out of the evidence in the case. If a case is proved perfectly, it is argued that it is artificial; if a case has some flaws inevitable because human beings are prone to err, it is argued that it is too imperfect. One wonders whether in the meticulous hypersensitivity to eliminate a rare innocent from being punished, many guilty persons must be allowed to escape. Proof beyond reasonable doubt is a guideline, not a fetish. [See Inder Singh and Anr. v. State (Delhi Admin.). MANU/SC/0093/1978 : 1978CriLJ766]. Vague hunches cannot take place of judicial evaluation. "A judge does not preside over a criminal trial, merely to see that no innocent man is punished. A judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape. Both are public duties." (Per Viscount Simon in Stirland v. Director of Public Prosecution (1944 AC (PC) 315) quoted in State of U.P. v. Anil Singh AIR 1988 SC 1988. Doubts would be called reasonable if they are free from a zest for abstract speculation. Law cannot afford any favourite other than truth.

19. In matters such as this, it is appropriate to recall the observations of this Court in Shivaji Sahebrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra MANU/SC/0167/1973 : 1973CriLJ1783 :*

".....The dangers of exaggerated devotion to the rule of benefit of doubt at the expense of social defence and to the soothing sentiment that all acquittals are always good regardless of justice to the victim and the community, demand especial emphasis in the contemporary context of escalating crime and escape. The judicial instrument has a public accountability. The cherished principles or golden thread of proof beyond reasonable doubt which runs through the web of our law should not be stretched morbidly to embrace every hunch, hesitancy and degree of doubt....."

".....The evil of acquitting a guilty person light-heartedly as a learned author Glanville Williams in 'Proof of Guilt' has sapiently observed, goes much beyond the simple fact that, just one guilty person has gone unpunished. If unmerited acquittals become general, they tend to lead to a cynical disregard of the law, and this in turn leads to a public demand for harsher legal presumptions against indicated 'persons' and more severe punishment of those who are found guilty. Thus too frequent acquittals of the guilty may lead to a ferocious penal law, eventually eroding the judicial protection of the guiltiness....."

".....a miscarriage of justice may arise from the acquittal of the guilty no less than from the conviction of the innocent....."

49. In view of the reasons given herein above, we do not find any force in this appeal and the same is liable to be dismissed.

50. The appeals filed by the appellants, namely, Ranjit and Lallu @ Lala Ram are, thus, dismissed and the judgment and order of the court below dated 26.5.2007 is affirmed.

51. As per record of this Court and report of office dated 18.12.2019, the appellants- Ranjit and Lallu @ Lala Ram are in jail. They will serve out the sentence as ordered by the trial court.

Shri Diwakar Singh learned Amicus Curiae will get Rs. 10,000/- as his fee/ honorarium for his assistance rendered in this case.

A copy of this judgment be immediately sent to the trial court for compliance.

A. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 374(2) & Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 302/34 - recovery of weapon has no significance when eye-witness account is there against the said accused-one accused held guilty while rest of the two accused has given benefit of doubt. (Para 25, 26, 27, 28, 29 & 30)

Criminal Appeal partly allowed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Kumar Singh-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Dilip Kumar, learned Sr. Advocate assisted by Sri Akhilesh Singh, learned counsel for the appellants, Sri Arun Kumar, learned counsel for the complainant and Sri A.R. Chaursaiya, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This criminal. Appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 31.8.1985 passed by the Sessions Judge, Sri Surya Prasad, in S.T. No. 34 of 1985 (State Vs. Hirday Ram and three others), whereby the accused-appellants Hirday Ram, Adiram, Rajvir and Udaivir have been held guilty under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and have been sentenced to imprisonment for life each.

3. The prosecution's case as mentioned in the F.I.R. is that on 5.7.1984, first informant Raghuvir Singh (PW-1) along with his uncle Ram Bharose (deceased) S/o Genda Lal, his father Lajja Ram S/o Genda Lal, his cousin brother Sukhvir Singh S/o Ram Bharose, were constructing wall of their house towards South by engaging a mason (mistri) namely Doji Ram S/o Gopi Jatav, R/o Village- Oodhan, P.S. Kurra, who was doing construction work and the material of work was being supplied by the first informant and the above mentioned persons and by this construction a door was being opened towards pond. Towards South-West of the said pond was located the house of Hirday Ram S/o Manjan of his village and adjoining to his own house towards South was the field of Hirday Ram. Seeing the said door being opened Hirday Ram (accused-appellant no. 1) and his sons namely Rajvir (accused appellant no. 3), Udaivir (accused appellant no. 4) and real brother of Hirday Ram namely Adiram (accused-appellant no. 2) came near the said wall and started saying that they should not try to open the door towards the pond because that would be detrimental to them. At this, the first informant's uncle Ram Bharose told that pond did not belong to them and they would certainly open the door in that direction. Thereafter, the accused-appellants named above became deeply annoyed and started abusing them and would say that they would not allow the door to be opened in that direction. Thereafter, the first informant's uncle again stated that they could not stop him and simultaneously he along with Adiram directed his sons that they should bring gun and pistol. In the meantime, when the dispute was escalating between them, some villagers namely Ahibaran Singh (PW-2) S/o Sahookar, Aayaram S/o Sudhar Singh and Soran Singh Yadav R/o Dara Mauja Ginauli, P.S. Danahar reached there and tried to counsel Hirday Ram and other accused persons but Rajvir armed with his single barrel gun of 12 bore and Udaivir armed with country made pistol reached there and while the construction of the said wall was going on, both Rajvir and Udaivir, from the front of their house from across the pond took aim towards the first informant and other persons and fired upon them which resulted in his uncle Ram Bharose (deceased) receiving fire arm injury of pallets who became badly injured because of the pallet injuries and succumbed to the injuries while accused-appellants Hirday Ram, Adiram, Rajvir and Udaivir fled towards South from there. This occurrence happened at about 4:00 pm in the evening.

4. The first informant prepared the written report (Ext. Ka-1) and on the basis of said report HC-10 C.P. Surendra Singh lodged a criminal case against all the appellants named above under Section 302 IPC on 5.7.1984 at 7:30 p.m. promptly and prepared the chick F.I.R. (Ext. Ka-2) and made entry of the said case in G.D. No. 27 dated 5.7.1984 at 7:30 p.m. (Ext. Ka-3). The investigation of the case was handed over to S.O. Sukhvir Sharma (PW-4), who has stated that on 5.7.1984 at 7:30 p.m., the first informant Raghuvir Singh had lodged a report of this case at P.S. Kurra, District- Mainpuri in his presence and, thereafter, he immediately started the investigation of this case. He recorded statements the same day of constable Surendra Singh at the P.S. concerned and also recorded statements of first informant Raghuvir Singh the same day at P.S. and, thereafter, departed for the place of occurrence to village Vikauna along with force and reached at about 9:00 p.m. but because of lack of light, he could not prepare panchayatnama. Thereafter, he made effort to search for the accused persons who could not be found. In the said night itself he remained in village Vikuna itself and on the next day i.e. on 6.8.1984 at about 6:00 a.m. he searched house of the accused persons but no illegal weapon or licencee gun could be recovered. He recorded statements of witness Ahibaran Singh, witness- Asha Ram Singh at 6:40 a.m. and, thereafter, in his supervision the panchayatnama of the deceased Ram Bharose was filled up by S.I. V.L. Sharma which was written by him and was also signed by him, the same also bears signatures of panchas and his own signature as well, which is Ext. Ka-4. Thereafter, the dead body was sealed and the same was dispatched for post-mortem along with all the relevant papers i.e. chalan nash, photo nash, chitthi C.M.O, chitthi R.I. and sample seal which are Ext. Ka-5 to Ka-9 respectively through constable Hanuman Singh and Home-guard Nempal the same day. He also collected the blood stained soil as well as plain soil from the place of occurrence and sealed them in separate containers and prepared its memo which is Ext. Ka-10. Thereafter he made spot inspection at the instance of first informant Raghuvir Singh and prepared site plan in his hand writing which is Ext. Ka-11.

5. Thereafter, he again on the same day i.e. on 6.7.1984 took search of the houses of the accused and prepared its memo in his hand writing which is Ext. Ka-12. On 7.7.1984, he recorded statements of other witnesses and also made search for the accused but they could not be found. On 9.7.1984, he received a sealed envelope from the doctor sahab, who had conducted post-mortem and in that, were found the pallets which were taken out of the body of the deceased and the same were deposited at P.S. vide G.D. No. 27. Again on 13.7.1984, he made search for the accused but they could not be found, although they surrendered before the court and, thereafter, he took their statements in jail and after concluding the investigation on 31.7.1984, he submitted charge sheet against the accused persons which is Ext. Ka-13. He had also sent the material collected during investigation for chemical examination.

6. On the basis of evidence gathered by police, charge was framed against the accused-appellants under Section 302 read with 34 IPC on 11.2.1985 to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. For proving this case, from the side of prosecution, first informant Raghuvir Singh as PW-1, Ahibaran Singh, eye-witness of the occurrence as PW-2, HC-10 C.P. Surendra Singh, who had prepared the chick F.I.R. and G.D. as PW-3 and the Investigating Officer S.O.- Sukhbir Sharma as PW-4, were examined. Thereafter the prosecution evidence was closed and the statements of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

8. All the accused-appellants denied to have committed any offence and have further stated that they have been implicated falsely in the present case due to enmity and they have further denied the truthfulness of the entire evidence which has been gathered by the Investigating Officer, although no documentary evidence or oral evidence has been adduced from their side in support of their defense.

9. On the basis of above mentioned evidence, learned trial court has held the accused-appellants guilty and has awarded them aforementioned punishment, hence the present appeal.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently argued that accused as well as complainant side are collateral, meaning thereby they are related to each other and that there was no motive for the accused to kill the deceased. Particularly he emphasized that the evidence reflects that two main assailants namely Rajvir and Udaivir are said to have fired from a distance at about 30-35 yards from across the pond and drew the attention of the court towards statement of PW-1 in which he had stated that Udaivir and Rajvir armed with gun and country made pistol had come near the wall. Pointing out towards the said statement, it was argued that after having come to the wall which was being constructed, these two accused-appellants are stated to have fired from 30 to 35 yards distance from across the pond, which would suggest that had they any intention to kill the deceased, they would not have gone back to the distance of 30-35 yards and would fire from there when they had already come near the said wall. Therefore that would reflect that at the most they had intention to scare off the deceased from raising construction of the said wall and not to kill him. Therefore, it was argued that the punishment under Section 302 IPC should be converted under Section 304 (I) IPC. Further it was argued that PW-1 has clearly admitted in cross-examination that he had written in the report wrong, this fact, that Rajvir by gun and Udaivir with country made pistol had aimed towards them with an intention to kill and had fired which hit his uncle Ram Bharose because he was in grief. Further attention was drawn towards the fact that in examination-in-chief, PW-1 has clearly stated that Rajvir had made fire from his house across the pond at his uncle by the gun which hit his uncle Ram Bharose, who fell down by the side of the wall after getting injured. Further it is argued that these statements clearly reflect that the first informant had deliberately implicated the whole family of the accused persons because in fact it was only Rajvir who had made fire upon his uncle which hit him and which finally resulted in his death, while the others namely Hirday Ram and Adiram have been falsely implicated. First two having been assigned the role of exhortation and the third one i.e. Udaivir having been assigned the role of using country made pistol in firing upon not the deceased but the other witnesses which did not him them. Further it is argued that no recovery has been made of any weapon from any of the accused-appellants and, therefore, if at all any accused could be held guilty that could be only Rajvir and none else as they have been falsely implicated and even Rajvir could at the most have been convicted under Section 304(I) IPC.

11. On the other hand, learned counsel for the complainant as well as learned A.G.A. for the State have vehemently argued in favour of upholding judgment of conviction passed by the learned trial court stating that there is no infirmity in the conclusion drawn by the learned trial court on the basis of evidence on record in holding all the four accused guilty because they were all involved and there was clear cut case of exhortation made on behalf of the Hirday Ram and Adiram, while other two i.e. Rajvir and Udaivir were assigned the role of making fire upon the deceased by respective weapons i.e. S.B.B.L gun and country made pistol.

12. To appreciate the respective arguments made on behalf of both the sides, we have to evaluate the entire evidence which has come on record.

13. PW-1, informant, has stated on oath in examination in chief that his father's name is Lajja Ram, who had two brothers. His father is Lajja Ram and Ram Bharose (deceased) was his uncle. Sukhvir Singh is son of his uncle Ram Bharose. The accused person in court namely Hirday Ram and Adiram are real brothers and accused Udaivir Singh is son of Hirday Ram and other son of Hirday Ram is Rajvir, who is accused in this case. Further he has stated that his house is in southern direction of the village. The house of his uncle Ram Bharose and his own house is one and the same and towards west of this house there is pond and towards South of that house is also pond and towards East of that pond is the agricultural field of accused persons. Towards South of the southern pond is located the house of the accused and towards East of that house of the accused is also pond. Further he has stated that accused Hirday Ram and his uncle Ram Bharose, both are Sadhu of each other and the family member of PW-1 and the accused are collateral. He has given statement before court on 5.8.1985 that about 13 months back, he along with his uncle Ram Bharose were constructing a wall and his cousin brother Sukhbir Singh was also getting wall of his house constructed through Doji Ram, who was being supplied construction material by them. His uncle was opening a door towards pond in the southern wall of his house, seeing which accused Hirday Ram, Adiram, Rajvir and Udaivir reached there near the said wall and restrained his uncle from opening the said door stating that, that would cause harm to them. At this, his uncle told that the said pond did not belong to them and they would not stop from opening the door in that direction. Thereafter, the accused who were present in court started abusing his uncle and when the accused stated that they would not allow the door to be opened, accused Hirday Ram and Adiram exhorted Udaivir and Rajvir to bring their gun and pistols and after that hearing abusing and quarrel, Ahibaran Singh, Asha Ram and various other peoples who were passing by, through that way, also reached there. One Soran Singh also came there and all of them tried to convince all the accused appellants, in the meantime Udaivir and Rajvir both armed with gun and pistol respectively came near wall. At that time his uncle was picking up the bricks and right then Rajvir made a fire upon PW-1's uncle from in front of his house which hit his uncle Ram Bhrose, who getting injured, fell down on the other side of the wall. The second fire was made by Udaivir Singh by country made pistol upon them (PW-1 and others) which did not hit them. Thereafter, his uncle was taken to hospital in a buffalo cart but as soon as he was placed in cart, he succumbed. This firing incident took place around 4:00 p.m. and all the four accused fled towards South-western direction in fields. His uncle Ram Bharose had fell down after getting injured by fire arm injury, at that place blood had fallen due to injury. Further, he has stated that he had written report the same day in his own hand writing which is Ext. Ka-1.

14. In cross-examination, this witness has stated that at the time of occurrence the said pond was full of water and the wall, which was being constructed, was at a distance about 30 to 35 yards away from the house of the accused and from the said distance only, both the fires were made. If one would travel by the side of the pond, the distance of the said house from the house of the accused would be around 40 to 50 yards. To the north of his house, is the house of Gayadeen and Ranjeet and adjoining to the house of PW-1 is house of Kuchu Lal. Further he has stated that towards South of his wall is a passage and towards South of his wall there are few bricks and subsequently denied also that there were any bricks. Towards north of the said wall of his house, there were few bricks. At the time when fire was made, some bricks were lying towards southern side of the said wall and the field towards southern side of the said wall belonged to the Hirday Ram, accused which must be around to 2 - 3 bighas. Prior to the construction of the said wall, there used to live cattle in Gher. After raising the wall they were trying to convert Gher into residential portion. He further stated that earlier there existed a wall but subsequently stated that earlier there was only a foundation and not the wall, rather on the said foundation the wall was being constructed. Further it is stated that there was open area in Gher towards the pond. The said wall, which was being constructed, was about 30 to 35 hands long. The construction of the said wall was started on the date of incident itself in the morning. Doji is a mason while work of providing material to the mason was being done by them only. By the time incident took place 3-4 'radda' had been laid and the mason was sitting towards West of the said wall while Ram Bharose was towards South of the said wall. There must have been distance of 2 to 3 steps between mason and Ram Bharose (deceased) while at distance of about one to two steps towards North from the said mason, must have been the place where PW-1 and others were standing. At the time when fire was made Ram Bharose was bent and was picking the bricks having his face towards north. The Ram Bharose received one fire. He had written wrong in the report that Rajvir by gun and Udaivir by country made pistol, had aimed towards them, with an intention to kill, in which his uncle got injuries, because he was in grief. The report was began to be written about one or half hour after the incident of fire which was being written inside the Gher by him. They were standing close to the deceased for about half an hour and, thereafter, he started writing report. During this period of half an hour a lot of people had collected there. Approximately 10 to 20 persons had gathered there but he had written report sitting separate and at the time when he was writing the same there was no body. At the time when he was writing report in Gher, witness Soran Singh, Ahibaran Singh and Asha Ram were not a Gher. When the abusing was going on between two sides, right then these witnesses had come and this abusing had continued for five to ten minutes. Further it is stated that Lajja Ram and Sukhbir were near the dead body while he was writing report, although further he stated that prior to writing report by him, all the three witnesses have left the place. He had not talked to Ahibaran Singh and Asha Ram at the said place. When the abusing took place between the two sides, at that time the ladies of the house had also come on the spot. Further he has stated that after having written report, he had immediately left for the police station which was located about 6 to 7 miles from the place of incident and after lodging of the report at police station, police also started for the place of occurrence immediately and he reached the place of occurrence only after police had reached there. He had spent about two hours at police station and the police personnel had come to the spot on bicycles. The son of Ram Bharose had not accompanied him to police station rather when he returned from police station, his son was standing by the side of the deceased. Lajja Ram was also present, although Ahibaran Singh, Asha Ram and Soran Singh were not present and then he had reached near the dead body, the S.O. was sitting on the cot near the dead body. Only little writing work could be completed in respect to the dead body because it had become dark and S.O. could complete writing work next day in the morning. Further it is stated that he knows wife of Mehtab Singh namely Katori, regarding snatching the jewellery of Katori, a case was filed against father of PW-1 Lajja Ram and Ram Bharose. But accused Hirday Ram was not a witness in that case against his father. He denied the suggestion that Ram Bharose was murdered in some other circumstances at some other place and that the report was lodged after consultation at the police station concerned due to enmity.

15. The other eye-witness Ahibaran Singh (PW-2) has stated in examination-in-chief that he knows the accused who were present in court who belong to his village. In his statement recorded on 6.8.1985, he has stated that about 13 months ago Ram Bharose was murdered at about 4:30 pm, at that time he was near his field of corn which was about 50 steps away from the place of incident. At that time accused and Ram Bharose and others were involved in an altercation, when he reached there. Besides him, Asha Ram had also arrived there who was ploughing the field and after some time Soran Singh also reached there and till then altercation was going on. The accused were saying that the door should not be opened towards pond while Ram Bharose was saying that he would open the door in that direction and on this, abusing took place between two sides. Hirday Ram told his son Rajvir and Udaivir to bring their pistol and gun for firing upon them and this was also stated by Adiram to them. Thereafter, the accused Rajvir and Udaivir went towards their house and came out with gun in the hand of Rajvir and country made pistol in the hand of Udaivir. Rajvir made a fire across the pond from the western side from a distance about 30 to 35 yards, which hit Ram Bharose, who fell down after getting hit and Udaivir also made fire upon Raghuvir and others but the same did not hit them and, thereafter, accused fled towards southern side. Further he has stated that they all reached near Ram Bharose and lifted him to be placed in a buffalo cart to be taken to a hospital but as soon as he was kept in the said cart, he died and therefore his dead body was kept in Baithak. Further he has stated that Doji Ram, mason, would not give statement because he is a weak person and because of being threatened by the mohamdans, he has colluded with the accused sides.

16. In cross-examination, he has stated that the abusing continued approximately for half an hour and during this period, 4 to 6 persons had come there which were namely Mulayam Singh, Asha Ram, Soran Singh, Ahibaran Singh, some other ladies and children. At the time when Ram Bharose received fire arm injury, he had bent to lift the brick with his face towards the ground about 2 to 3 steps away from Ram Bharose. Towards West, there was mason and towards East of him, was Ahibaran Singh, Asha Ram was about 7 steps away. When the fire arm hit the deceased, then in the West was standing mason and towards East was standing the PW-2 and others. The mason was sitting on the wall. Ram Bharose was being abused. During this period of abusing, sometimes work of construction used to stopped and sometimes it used to be continued. About one and ½ steps away from the wall of Ram Bharose, the bricks were being lifted by Ram Bharose which were being given to mason. Further it is stated that all the four including PW-2 and 3 were standing about three steps away from the said wall towards South and all of them were standing at a distance from each other at about one and one half steps. Rajvir was towards South when he made fire which hit Ram Bharose in the left side in his body in scapular region.

17. In cross-examination, this witness has further stated that the son of Ram Bharose namely, Sukhbir must be around 24-25 years of age who was present at the place where wall was being constructed. At the time when the fire hit the deceased, Sukhbir had gone to take Gara. Lajja Ram and Raghuvir were standing at a distance of five to six steps towards North from mason Doji Ram, while Sukhbir had gone for bringing 'Gara' from near the well which must have been around 25 steps away from there. The deceased Ram Bharose fell down after getting hit although he kept standing for about two to four minutes after getting hit but as soon was he was about to be kept in buffalo cart, he died. The buffalo cart was parked in the Gher at a distance of about six steps. He does not recollect whether any blood had fallen, while Ram Bharose was placed in the said cart. From the place where Ram Bharose had fallen after getting hit at a distance, about two steps, there was baithak in which his dead body was kept. Further he has stated that a false case was initiated against him regarding having fired upon Ranjeet in which Adiram had given a false evidence in which he had been acquitted. He had denied the suggestion that he was not present on the spot at the time of incident.

18. Apart from above two eye-witnesses' statement, it would be appropriate to refer to the injuries received by the deceased. It is evident from the judgment of the trial court that as many as seven injuries were found to have been sustained by the Ram Bharose (deceased) on his person by Dr. M.C. Gulecha, who conducted the post-mortem, which are as follows:-

(2) Two fire arm wounds of entrance on left side back 6 cms below lower and of scapula, 3 cms away from each other. Size 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm x cavity deep.

(3) Fire arm wound of entrance 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm, muscle deep on left gluteal region 14 cms below upper border of hip bone.

(4) Fire arm wound of entrance of 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm x muscle deep on middle of back of left thigh.

(5) Fire arm wound of entrance 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm x muscle deep on middle of back of left knee joint.

(6) Fire arm wound of entrance 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm x muscle deep on calf muscle, 12 cms below knee.

(7) Fire arm wound of entrance 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm x muscle deep on back of left upper arm 6 cms above elbow joint.

19. The said injury memo has been marked as Ext. Ka-15 because learned counsel for the accused had admitted its genuineness. In the said post-mortem report, it has been opined by the doctor that deceased died as a result of above-mentioned ante-mortem injuries.

20. We would like to also take into consideration the site plan and evaluate as to whether in the light of statements given by PW-1 and PW-2, the site plan appears to be correctly prepared.

21. In the site plan Ext. Ka-11, by "A" is shown the place where the deceased was picking up the bricks and by "B" is shown the place which is 35 yards away across the river, towards South from where, fire was made upon the deceased Ram Bharose, who fell down at place "C" after getting injured. The distance between place "A" and "C" is shown to be three steps only. Beside the wall, there blood was also found spilt. From the place shown by "B", the other accused Udaivir is stated to have made fire upon witnesses by country made pistol. From "D" is shown the place where witnesses were standing which was at a distance of seven to eight steps from the place shown by "A" and by "E" is shown the place which is five steps away from the place where accused Hirday Ram and Adiram were standing at the time when fire was made by accused. By "F" is shown the place where dead body was found for preparation of panchayatnama. From the place of incident, the field of Ahibaran Singh is shown at a distance of 50 steps away and the field of Asha Ram is shown at a distance of 55 steps away. From "G" is shown the place from where Soran Singh and others heard the quarrel/abusing and from there they reached the place of occurrence and by "double arrow" is shown the place from where accused had fled in the south after giving effect to the occurrence.

22. If we read the statement of PW-1 and PW-2 in the light of above site plan, no infirmity is found as regards the occurrence having taken place at the place shown by "A" which is towards southern side of the house of the informant where wall is shown being constructed and from "B" which is 30-35 yards away from "A" towards south of the place where incident occurred and from this place shown by "D" main accused-Rajvir is stated by PW-1 to have fired by his gun which hit the deceased.

23. Learned counsel for the appellants has tried to convince the court though unsuccessfully that PW-1 has stated that Rajvir and Udaivir, both initially came with their respective arms near the wall where the deceased got hit and subsequently they returned to a place near their house shown by "B" which is at a distance about 30-35 yards away across the pond from where Rajvir fired upon the deceased, therefore, Rajvir could not be attributed the intention to kill the deceased as if he had the said intention he would not have returned to place "D" and would have made fire from close range at place shown by "A" itself.

24. We are not convinced with the said argument because it appears that learned counsel for the appellants is trying to draw wrong conclusion by the statement of PW-1 that the accused Rajvir had, initially after being armed with the said weapon came near the wall where new wall was being raised, in fact the said wall, from where he is said to have fired, was being referred the wall of his own house and from there he is said to have fired upon the deceased from a distance of about 30 to 35 yards away and the same is also corroborated by the medical examination report because no tattooing or blackening has been found in the injuries caused to the deceased. All the said injuries which are mentioned above are pallet injuries which were possible to be caused by single arm as these were pallet injuries in dispersed area. As regards other accused Udaiveer, it has come in evidence of PW-1 and PW-2 that the fire made by the country made pistol by him did not hit anyone, therefore, we are of the opinion that it is only Rajvir, who ought to have been held guilty by the learned trial court instead of Udaivir and other two accused Hirday Ram and Adiram, who were attributed the role of exhortation.

25. There appears to be element of truth in the argument of learned counsel for the appellants that since all the accused belong to one family, the entire family has been sought to be implicated by attributing role to two out of them of exhortation and to the remaining two of making fire upon the deceased and others but the said version does not appear to be true. It is the duty of the court to sift grain from the chaff and we find that the statement of PW-1 and PW-2, who are said to be present on the place of incident when this occurrence happened, proved that it was only Rajvir whose shot actually caused serious injuries to the deceased which resulted in his death, therefore, he ought to have been held guilty of charge under Section 302 simplicitor.

26. We are also not inclined to agree with the view of the learned counsel for the appellants that the said act of the accused Rajvir would fall under Section 304(I) IPC as no intention could be imputed to him to cause death of the deceased, who belonged to the same family and was a collateral because if someone is aiming upon somebody with a fire arm and actually opening fire, it cannot be said that he would not have an intention to kill a person upon whom he fired after taking aim, because intention will definitely be attributed of killing in this case.

27. We are although of the opinion that other three accused out of whom one Hirday Ram is reported to have died in the year 1999 and his appeal has been abated on 17.7.2018, do not appear to have any role to play in giving effect to the present occurrence because informant himself has admitted that he had lodged some part in the complaint wrongly because of being under grief, hence it could not be ruled out that their implication may have been made because of enmity with a view to implicating the whole family.

28. Further argument of learned counsel for the appellants that no recovery of any weapon of assault was made from the accused-Rajvir does not appeal to reason because when eye-witness account is there against the said accused who had made fire upon the deceased, recovery of weapon has no significance.

29. The statement of PW-3 and PW-4 being formal witnesses is not being analyzed in detail. In our opinion, by the analysis which we have made above, we are of the confirmed opinion that accused-Rajvir only deserves to be held guilty under Section 302 IPC simplicitor and rest of the two accused namely Adiram and Udaivir need to be given benefit of doubt.

30. Accordingly, we allow the appeal of Adiram and Udaivir, they are not held guilty under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and deserve to be acquitted, while accused Rajvir deserves to be held guilty under Section 302 IPC simplicitor and also hold that no prejudice would be caused by holding him guilty under Section 302 IPC simplicitor, though no charge under Section 302 IPC simplicitor has been framed against him by the trial court because he has been given full opportunity to defend himself. The appeal of the accused- Rajvir is dismissed, he shall be taken into custody, his bail bonds shall stand discharged.

31. Accordingly, the present appeal is partly allowed.

32. The accused-appellants Adiram and Udaivir are already on bail, hence they need not be taken into custody. The trial court shall obtain bail bonds from them under Section 437 (1) Cr.P.C.

33. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the trial court forthwith for necessary information and compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 3079 of 1985

Bijendra Singh & Anr.
...Appellants (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri R. S. Yadav, Sri Ajay Kumar Srivastava, Sri Jitendra Pal Singh Chauhan

Counsel for the Opposite Party:

A. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 374(2) & Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302/34 - contradiction in oral and medical evidence as no injury was found on the naval region of the deceased -It appears to be improbable that a person may inflict gandasa blows on head and face while the head is held by another person- Therefore, this part of the prosecution story is highly improbable and doubtful- the conviction of the appellants cannot be sustained. (Para 17)

B. Motive -The motive for committing the crime is assigned to the appellant. appellant's father had transferred his 11-12 bighas of land to the deceased. The deceased was trying to get her name mutated on the said land, which was objected by the appellant. from the evidence on record that the deceased Ram Devi was issue-less, therefore, after her death appellant Bijendra alone would inherit entire properties of his father, and that being so, there was no reason for the appellant Bijendra to have committed murder of his step mother. 1. Akhtar Vs St. of Uttaranchal (2009) 13 SCC 722

2. Sadique and ors.Vs St. of UP, reported in 1981 Cr.L.J. 379,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Varma, J.)

1. By the impugned judgment dated 08.11.1985, the learned 2nd Addl. Sessions Judge, Aligarh convicted accused appellants Bijendra and Smt Khazani for the offence punishable under section 302/34 Indian Penal Code and sentenced them to under go life imprisonment.

2. The prosecution case, in brief, is that on 25/26.12.1984, a written report (Ex-ka-1) was submitted by Smt Kartari (Informant/P.W.-1) at Police Station Tappal, District Aligarh wherein she alleged that she was living with her maternal uncle Ramchand's house in village Palar after her marriage. Bijendra (appellant no.1) is son of Ram Chand. His wife and his family were also living in the same house for quite some time. Ram Chand, after the death of Bijendra's mother married (कराब) Ram Devi. Ram Chand had transferred the house and 11-12 bighas of land to Ram Devi. After his death, Ramdevi wanted to get her name mutated in the land and her share in land segregated. This annoyed accused Brijendra, who 9-10 days prior to the incident had told her not to do so. Ram Devi was issue-less. She did not heed Brijendra's advice, causing Brijendra to threaten her. It was then asserted by the informant that, on the fateful night at about 12 O'clock when she and her son Jaggo were sleeping in her maternal uncle's house. They were awakened by shrieks of (mami) Rama devi and saw that Bijendra was inficting gandasa blows at Mami's naval (नार) and an unknown person was holding mami's head and Bijendra's wife Khajani (co accused-appellant no. 2) was holding her legs. When they raised an alarm Bijendra threatened them. After killing Ramdevi, he and the unknown person went outside. It was also asserted that due to fear, informant and her son remained in the house whole night. In the morning after getting the complaint transcribed by Bishambhar the same was sent to the Police Station.

3. On the basis of the said written report, the First Information Report (Ex-Ka-5) was lodged on 26.12.1984 at 8.15 a.m, vide Case Crime No. 152, under Section 302 IPC against the accused appellants at P.S. Tappal, District Aligarh. The investigation was entrusted to Mahavir Singh (P.W.-5). The inquest (Ex-Ka-4) on the dead body of the deceased was conducted on 26.12.1984 at 10 a.m and thereafter it was sent for autopsy. The postmortem report is available on record as Ex-Ka-16. As per Dr J. L. Agarwal, following ante-mortem injuries were found:-

1. Incised wound 12 cm X 2.5 cm X bone deep into right side scalp 10 cm on the ear.

2. Incised wound 3 cm X 3 cm X bone deep into right side joint 12 cm above right eye brow longitude.

3. Incised wound 2 cm X 12 cm X bone deep in right side face and middle of neck with muscular rim and body, trachea and jaw.

4. Abrasion 3 cm X 1 cm in the left shoulder.

5. Lacerated would 1 cm X ½ cm on the lob of left ear.

4. The police submitted charge-sheet (Ex-Ka-13) only against the appellants Bijendra and Smt Khazani under Sections 302/34 IPC. The third unknown accused of the F.I.R. could not be traced out by the police.

5. During the course of trial, the prosecution produced five witnesses in support of its case. PW-1 Smt Kartari, is the informant and eye witness. Another eye witness is PW-2 Jaggo son of PW-1. The scribe of the F.I.R. Bishamber is PW-3. Budh Singh, a witness of extra judicial confession is PW-4. The investigating officer of the case is Mahaveer Singh, who is PW-5.

6. Opportunity was accorded to the accused appellants as per provisions of section 313 Cr.P.C, to explain the adverse and incriminating circumstances against them in the prosecution evidence. Both denied all the circumstances appearing against them in prosecution evidence and claimed false implication. Accused Bijendra stated that he is the only son of his father and the prosecution witness wanted to implicate him falsely to grab his property.

7. The doctor who conducted autopsy was not examined before the trial court. The formal proof of the post-mortem report was dispensed with, as its contents were admitted by the defence.

8. The trial Court relied upon the evidence of eye witnesses viz. P.W.-1 Smt Kartari and P.W.-2 Jaggo and held the appellants guilty and convicted and sentenced them as mentioned. Hence this appeal.

9. Heard learned counsel for the appellants, Mr S. A. Murtaza, learned AGA and perused the material on record.

10. Learned counsel for the appellants at the first instance submitted that the doctor, who conducted the postmortem examination of the deceased Smt. Ram Devi, was not examined in the court, though the same has been marked as exhibit by the court. Such a procedure adopted by the trial court could not be approved, as the contents of the postmortem report could not be admitted under Section 294 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, unless, the same was duly proved by the doctor, who had prepared the same.

11. The submission of the learned counsel for the appellants is legally not sustainable, in view of the settled position of law that if the genuineness of any document filed by a party is not disputed by the opposite party, it can be treated as substantive evidence under sub-section (3) of Section 294 Cr.P.C. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of Akhtar Vs State of Uttaranchal (2009) 13 SCC 722, has observed that if the defence has admitted the genuineness of the postmortem report before the trial court, the genuineness and veracity of the document stands proved and shall be treated as valid evidence under Section 294 Cr.P.C. The relevant portion is quoted below:-

"21. It has been argued that non-examination of the concerned medical officers is fatal for the prosecution. However, there is no denial of the fact that the defence admitted the genuineness of the injury reports and the post mortem examination reports before the trial court. So the genuineness and authenticity of the documents stands proved and shall be treated as valid evidence under Section 294 of the CrPC. It is settled position of law that if the genuineness of any document filed by a party is not disputed by the opposite party it can be read as substantive evidence under sub-Section (3) of Section 294 CrPC. Accordingly, the post-mortem report, if its genuineness is not disputed by the opposite party, the said post-mortem report can be read as substantive evidence to prove the correctness of its contents without the doctor concerned being examined."

12. We may also refer to a Full Bench decision of this Court, reported in 1981 Cr.L.J. 379, Sadique and other Vs State of UP, wherein it was held -

"(Para-9)-" It is open to the prosecution or the accused to dispute the genuineness of a document filed by the opposite party under Sub-section (1) of Section 294, Cr. P.C. In such a case the signatory of the document must be examined by the party filing the document to prove his signature and also the correctness of its contents and the evidence of the signatory will be the substantive evidence and the document may be used to corroborate or discredit his testimony. But where the genuineness of a document filed by the prosecution or the accused under Sub-section (1) of Section 294, Cr. P.C. is not disputed by the opposite party, Sub-section (3) of Section 294, Cr, P.C. is applicable and such a document may be read as substantive evidence. Section 294, Cr. P.C. is a new section as it had no equivalent in the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898. It is based on the rule of evidence that facts admitted need not be proved contained in Section 58, Evidence Act. The object of enacting this section appears to be to avoid the time of the Court being wasted by examining the signatory of the document filed by the prosecution or the accused under Sub-section (1) of Section 294, Cr. P.C. to prove his signature and the correctness of its contents if its genuineness is not disputed by the opposite party. If the signature and the correctness of the contents of a document filed by the prosecution or the accused under Sub-section (1) of Section 294, Cr. P.C. whose genuineness is not disputed by the opposite party are still required to be proved by examining the signatory of the document, the very object of enacting Section 294, Cr. P.C. will be defeated. We are, therefore, of the opinion that all documents filed by the prosecution or the accused under Sub-section (1) of Section 294, Cr. P.C. whose genuineness is not disputed by the opposite party may be read as substantive evidence under Sub-section (3) of Section 294, Cr. P.C."

13. In view of the aforesaid legal position the genuineness of the postmortem report, filed by the prosecution, has since been admitted by the defense the same can be read as substantive evidence.

14. The learned counsel for the appellants next contended that from the deposition of the PW-1 before the trial court, the authenticity of the F.I.R. becomes quite doubtful because according to the F.I.R., PW-1 is the author of the F.I.R. but PW-1 stated in her cross-examination that the F.I.R. was got written by the police Inspector at about 10 a.m. when she had come to the place of incident.

15. We have examined the version of the F.I.R. and the deposition of the informant PW-1. From the contents F.I.R. it is evident that the author of the F.I.R. is PW-1, and PW-3 Bishambhar is the scribe. We further find from the contents of the F.I.R., that it was written by the said scribe in the village of incident itself and thereafter the said scribe went to the police station to lodge the same, which was registered at the police station at 8.30 a.m. Whereas, the PW-1, in her statement before the trial court deposed that said PW-3 Bishambhar (scribe of the F.I.R.) had called the Police Inspector in the village of incident and thereafter the Police Inspector had got the F.I.R. written on which she had put her thumb impression. This witness further stated that all this was done at about 10 a.m. This part of the statement of PW-1 is extracted below:-

"मुझे गांव की औरतों ने चुपाया था फिर दरोगा जी आ गये थे विशम्बर बुलवाया था फिर लिखा पढ़ी करी फिर अंगूठा रिर्पोट पर लगया था सुबह के 10 बजे थे दरोगा जी ने मुझसे अंगूठा लगाने को कहा था। दरोगा जी ने कहा था कि तू पढ़ी तो है नहीं अंगूठा लगा दे दरोगा जी ने पढ़कर सुनाई थी।"

that the F.I.R. was got written by the Police Inspector. This being so, the F.I.R. version that the F.I.R. was dictated by the PW-1 and PW-3 Bishambhar scribed the same stands discredited. From the aforequoted evidence it is also apparent that the F.I.R. was got written by the police Inspector at about 10 a.m. and if this is so, the prosecution case that F.I.R. was lodged at the police station at 8.30 a.m. also stands falsified. From the said substantive evidence on record it cannot but be held that the F.I.R. of this case has been prepared with the confabulation and manipulation of the police and the same was not lodged at the police station at the time when it is said to have been lodged. In these facts once the very authenticity of the F.I.R. becomes doubtful the entire prosecution case becomes doubtful.

17. Learned counsel for the appellants then contended that though PWs 1 and 2 are said to be eye witnesses of the incident but from the evidence on record a reasonable doubt is created that they have not seen the incident. To appreciate this argument of the learned counsel we have examined the evidence on record and we find substance in the submissions of the appellants' counsel. We find that there is a material contradiction between medical and oral evidence, in asmuch as, in the F.I.R. the informant PW-1 has stated that the appellant Bijendra inflicted gandasa blows on the naval region of the deceased but in the post-mortem report there is no injury on the naval region. In fact all the gandasa injuries are on face and head. Faced with this situation the prosecution gave up the initial or the founding prosecution story that Bijendra inflicted gandasa blows on the naval region. The said two eye witnesses testified that appellant Bijendra inflicted gandasa blows on the deceased. In this regard we also notice another significant fact on record which belies the eye witness account of the said witnesses. These witnesses have deposed in the trial that when the appellant Bijendra was inflicting gandasa blows on the deceased one unknown accused had held the deceased by her head. From the post mortem report it is evident that except one lacerated wound and one abrasion, all other gandasa injuries are on the right side of head and face of the deceased. This would be possible only when the deceased was sleeping turning to her left side and her right side was exposed, that is why all the injuries are on right side of her head and face. Thus from the nature of the injuries it cannot be believed that one accused had held the deceased by her head while another accused was inflicting gandasa blows on the head and face. It appears to be improbable that a person may inflict gandasa blows on head and face while the head is held by another person. Therefore, this part of the prosecution story is highly improbable and doubtful. This circumstance clearly speak that the said two eye witnesses have not seen the incident and are giving false version with regard to manner of assault on the deceased. Once we hold the eye witnesses are unreliable on the manner of assault, and as noticed above, there is also contradiction in oral and medical evidence as no injury was found on the naval region of the deceased the conviction of the appellants cannot be sustained.

18. Now we may also deal with the motive as pleaded by the prosecution. The motive for committing the crime is assigned to the appellant Bijendra. According to prosecution appellant Bijendra's father Ramchand had transferred his 11-12 bighas of land to the deceased Smt. Ram Devi. The deceased was trying to get her name mutated on the said land, which was objected by the appellant Bijendra. However, when the deceased did not listen to the objections of the appellant and continued to pursue her efforts in that regard the appellant Bijendra murdered her. We find from the evidence on record that the deceased Ram Devi was issue-less, therefore, after her death appellant Bijendra alone would inherit entire properties of his father, and that being so, there was no reason for the appellant Bijendra to have committed murder of his step mother, who, according to evidence on record, had brought up the appellant after the appellant's mother had died when the appellant was only 7-8 years old. Even other-wise the prosecution story that the father of the appellant Bijendra had transferred his 11-12 bighas of land to the deceased and the deceased was making endeavors in the consolidation proceedings to get her name mutated on that property does not merit acceptance as the prosecution has not proved by documentary evidence the fact of transfer of said land in favour of the deceased by her husband Ramchand and the fact that the deceased had initiated any mutation proceedings for recording of her name on the said transferred properties. In the circumstances we are unable to accept the version of motive as set up by the prosecution. On the other hand there may be a reason or motive for the PW-1 to implicate the two appellants in this case, as she was aware that if the appellants are convicted she would be a beneficiary of the properties of the father of the appellant Bijendra. It was for this reason that the defence has given a suggestion in the trial that it is not the appellants but the informant had murdered the deceased.

19. Hence, on the cumulative evaluation of the evidence on record and testing the prosecution evidence on the anvil of probabilities we are of the view that the prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of the appellants beyond all reasonable doubts and as such the appellants are entitled to get the benefit of doubt. We, therefore, allow the appeal and set aside the judgement and order of conviction and sentence of the appellants and acquit them of the charges. The appellants are on bail, their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged.

2. Govind Singh Vs. St.of Chhattisgarh 1139 LawSuit (SC) 1129

1. The appellant being aggrieved by the judgement and order dated 20.9.2014 passed by the Addl. Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Azamgarh passed in S.T. No.535 of 2012 State Vs. Vinay Kumar Pandey, district Azamgarh has preferred the present appeal by which the trial court has convicted and sentenced him under Section 302 IPC for imprisonment of life and further fine of Rs.10,000/- and in default of payment of fine, he has been ordered to undergo three months additional imprisonment.

2. The informant Jagdish Prasad Pandey submitted a written report on 8.7.2012 to the Station Officer of Police Station Ahraula, district Azamgarh for lodging a FIR against the accused Vinay Kumar Pandey (husband of the deceased), Sriram Pandey (father-in-law), Smt. Gayatri w/o Sriram Pandey (mother-in-law), Muniya, d/o Sriram Pandey (Nanad), Dileep Kumar S/o Sriram Pandey (devar of the deceased), elder brother-in-law of Vinay Kumar Pandey narrating that the informant had married his daughter Amrawati Devi according to Hindu rites and traditions five years ago to Vinay Kumar Pandey and he has given dowry in the marriage according to his means. After the marriage, the in-laws of the deceased namely Sriram Pandey, mother-in-law Smt. Gayatri, husband Vinay Kumar Pandey, Nanad Muniya, Devar Dileep Kumar and elder brother-in-law of Vinay Kumar Pandey namely Gaya Prasad used to cruel treat the deceased for want of dowry. When the informant visited the house of the in-laws of his daugher , she told him about the said harassment and torture made to her by her in-laws on which he pacified his daughter that every thing would be fine but after some days when the harassment and torture increased then informant brought his daughter to his house. After lapse of some days due to intervention of relatives, he sent his daughter to the in-laws house but after one or two days again her in-laws started harassing her. On 1.7.2012 at about 11 in the night he received an information from an unknown call that his daughter has been burnt to death by pouring kerosene oil for want of dowry by the aforesaid accused persons. On receiving the said information on phone, the informant along with his son Sachchidanand, wife Asha Devi and father Ram Keerat and also some persons of his village rushed immediately on a vehicle at her in-laws house then he was informed by the villagers that his daughter has been burnt and has been taken to the Azamgarh in a critical condition. Thereafter the informant along with other persons rushed to Azamgarh by vehicle and came to know that his daughter has been admitted in Vidya Hospital, Sidhari. When they reached the said hospital, they did not find any person of the family of his daughter's in-laws. The informant was getting her daughter Amrawati medically treated and when her condition deteriorated then on 6.7.2012 in the evening she was referred to Sadar Hospital, Azamgarh by the doctor. On reaching the gate of Sadar Hospital, his daughter Amrawati succumbed to her injuries. He gave information about the incident at Sadar Kotwali, Azamgarh where after the inquest procedings, post-mortem was conducted on the body of the deceased. After the post-mortem, the dead-body of the deceased was handed over to him. Thereafter he performed her last rites. After committing the said incident, none of the family member of Vinay Kumar Pandey had come to see his daughter. The daughter of the informant was burnt to death due to want of dowry, he gave the said written report to the concerned police station for taking necessary action. As per postmortem report following injuries were found on the body of the deceased:-

"About 55-60% burn injuries on the both lower extremities except lower part of both leg and foot and lower 2/3rd both of trunk, most of the part of abdomen both breast and lower 2/3rd of left upper extremities pealing of skin present all over the burnt area and wound woos white, pus present at places, singeing of hairs present.

As per postmortem report, cause of death was septicemia shock due to antemortem burn".

3. On the basis of the written report lodged by Jagdish Prasad Pandey, an FIR was registered against the aforesaid accused persons namely Vinay Kumar Pandey, Sriram Pandey, Smt. Gayatri, Muniya, Dileep Kumar and Gaya Prasad which was registered as case crime no.273 of 2012 u/s 498-A, 304-B IPC and ¾ Dowry Prohibition Act on 8.7.2012 at 19.30 hours. The FIR was endorsed in the G.D No.16.

4. The Investigating Officer carried on the investigation of the case and made a spot inspection about the place of occurrence and recorded the statement of the witnesses u/s 161 Cr.P.C. He prepared the site-plan Ext.Ka-9 and after investigation of the case, he submitted charge sheet against the accused Vinay Kumar Pandey u/s 498-A, 304-B IPC and ¾ Dowry Prohibition Act which was marked as Ext.Ka-12.

5. The case was committed to the Court of Sessions and the trial court framed charges against the accused-appellant Vinay Kumar Pandey 498-A, 304-B IPC and ¾ Dowry Prohibition Act on 19.1.2013 and further on 22.3.2013 an alternative charge under Section 302 IPC was framed against the appellant.

6. The accused denied the charge and claimed his trial. The dying-declaration of the deceased was recorded by the Nayab Tehsildar Ramashankar Pathak (P.W.7) under the orders of the S.D.M., Azamgarh which has been proved as Ext.Ka-2.

7. The prosecution in support of it's case has examined P.W.1 Asha Devi, P.W.2 Jagdish Prasad, P.W.3 Heera Lal, P.W.4 Ram Lal Pandey, P.W.5 Ashok Kumar Pandey, P.W.6 Awadhesh, P.W.7 Nayab Tehsildar Ramashankar Pathak (retired), P.W.8 Dr. Amod Kumar, P.W.9 Satyanarayan Chauhan Nayab Tehsildar.

8. The accused have admitted the prosecution documents.

9. The statement of the accused was recorded u/s 313 Cr.P.C. He denied the prosecution case and also denied the allegation made in dying-declaration of the deceased against him. He stated that he was not present at the time of the incident and reached the hospital on receiving the information. He has donated the blood to the deceased and also performed her last rites.

10. Heard Sri Sushil Kumar Dwivedi, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Amrit Raj Chaurasia, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

11. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently argued that all the prosecution witnesses including the informant i.e. P.W.1 to P.W.6 who are family members of the deceased and other persons of the village have admitted the factum of the marriage with the deceased but they have denied the prosecution case against the appellant who have stated that the deceased was never tortured by the appellant for want of dowry and on the other hand the relationship between the two was cordial. He submited that so far as dying-declaration of the deceased is concerned, the said dying-declaration is unworthy to be believed as P.W.7 namely Ramashankar Pathak though has recorded the dying-declaration of the deceased on 2.7.2012 at 2.10 P.M under the orders of the S.D.M, Azamgarh but no orders of the S.D.M has been produced before the trial court which may show that he had visited the hospital for recording dying-declaration of the deceased Amrawati. He further submitted that the doctor Vivek Prakash who has given the fitness certificate that the deceased was fully conscious to give her statement on 2.7.2012 at 2.10 p.m and again when her statement was completed at 2.30 p.m. on the same day she remained conscious while giving the statement at Vidya Hospital, Azamgarh, the said doctor was not produced to prove the certificate of fitness. Hence the dying-declaration of the deceased wherein allegation has been made against the appellant for throwing burning lantern (Dibhari) in anger by the appellant on the deceased should not be relied upon.

12. He further submitted that even if the dying-declaration of the deceased is believed by this Court, then the conviction and sentence of the appellant under Section 302 IPC for life imprisonment by the trial court is against the evidence on record and the case would not travel beyond Section 304 Part-II IPC and the appellant who has already served out the sentence of seven years of imprisonment may be released and his conviction under Section 302 IPC by the trial court be set-aside. In support of his arguments, he has placed reliance on the judgement of the Apex Court reported in 2019 LawSuit (SC) 1139 Kalabai Vs. State of M.P. Paragraph No.16 and 17 of the said judgement is quotted herebelow:-

[16] Learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on the judgement of this Court in Hari Shankar (supra). In the above case the appellant had also picked up a burning kerosene wick-stove and threw it on the deceased. Kerosene from stove spilled over the clothes they caught the fire. The deceased in the said case also died as a result of the burns received by him.This Court held that since the appellant had thrown a burning stove on the deceased, he would have known that his act was likely to cause burns resulting in death. It is useful to extract paragraphs 2, 3 and 4 of the judgement which is to the following effect:

"2. Only question that we have to consider in this appeal is what offence can be said to have been committed by the appellant on the basis of the facts found by the High Court. It has been held that while the appellant, deceased Bheem Singh and one Shah Megan were taking tea in the tea-club of the Air Force, 32 Wing (MT Section), an exchange of words took place between the appellant and the deceased on account of the demand made by the appellant for returning Rs.50,000/- which he had advanced to the deceased. The appellant became angry and picked up the burning kerosene wick-stove and threw it on the deceased. Kerosene from the stove spilled over the clothes of the deceased and as the burning wicks came in contact with his clothes they caught fire. The deceased ultimately died as a result of the burns received by him.

3. What was submitted by the learned counsel for the appellant was that the appellant had no enmity with the deceased. He had no intention to kill the deceased as by killing him he could not have recovered the amount of Rs.50,000/- which he had advanced to the deceased. He further submitted that the quarrel between the two took place all of a sudden and in the heat of the moment the appellant had picked the stove and had thrown it towards the deceased. He, therefore, submitted that it was merely a rash and negligent act on the part of the appellant. We cannot agree with the submission of the learned counsel. Since the appellant had thrown a burning stove on the deceased, he would have known that his act was likely to cause burns resulting in death. In view of the facts and circumstances of the case, he can be said to have committed an offence under Section 304 Part II IPC.

4. We, therefore, allow this appeal partly, alter the conviction of the appellant from under Section 302 to Section 304 Part II IPC and reduce the sentence of imprisonment for life to rigorous imprisonment for five years."

[17] Following the above decision, we are of the view that the present is also a case where in the facts and circumstances of the case, the appellant can be said to have committed offence under Section 304 Part II IPC.

13. He has further placed reliance upon the judgement of the Apex Court in 2019 LawSuit (SC) 1129 Govind Singh Vs. State of Chhattisgarh. Paragraph No.7 and 8 of the said judgement is quotted herebelow:-

[7] The entire occurrence was in a spur of moment. There was quarrel between the father and daughter as to where the bulb is to be put on. In the sudden quarrel and in spur of the moment, the appellant threw the chimney lamp on his daughter. The occurrence was sudden and there was no premeditation. The chimney lamp was burning there which the appellant had picked up and thrown on the deceased. Since the occurrence was in sudden quarrel and there was no premeditation, the act of the accused would fall under Exception 4 to Section 300.

[8] The conviction of the appellant-accused under Section 302 IPC is modified as the one under Section 304 Part-II IPC. As per jail certificate, the appellant-accused had undergone about 10 years, 2 months and 25 days as on 26.8.2017. By now, the appellant-accused has undergone about eleven years and eight months of imprisonment. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and the period of imprisonment which the appellant-accused has undergone, the sentence of imprisonment is modified to the period already undergone.

14. Per contra learned AGA on the other hand has opposed the argument of learned counsel for the appellant and has argued that as per the dying-declaration of the deceased, the appellant is said to have thrown the burning lantern (dibhari) on the deceased. There was some bitterness between the appellant and his wife as it appears from the dying-declaration and after the incident, the appellant did not make any effort to save the deceased from fire and had gone away. The deceased was rescued by her Jeth and Chachia Sasur who rushed her to Vidya Hospital. The appellant did not visit the hospital to inquire about the welfare of the deceased. He submitted that as per dying-declaration, the deceased has stated that since his marriage her husband used to hate her on the ground that he was more handsome than his wife. He argued that the trial court had framed alternative charge under Section 302 IPC against the appellant and found on the basis of evidence on record that the conduct of the appellant goes to show that he had intention to kill his wife by throwing the burning lantern (dibhari) on her and had gone away to sleep. Thus the trial court has rightly convicted the appellant under Section 302 IPC. Hence he prayed that the appeal of the appellant be dismissed.

15. In order to examine and appreciate the rival contentions of learned counsel for the parties, it would be appropriate to consider the submissions in the light of the dying-declaration of the deceased which is the basis of the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 IPC for life imprisonment by the trial court. The dying-declaration of the deceased recorded by the P.W.7 on 2.7.2012 at 2.10 p.m. at Vidya Hospital, Azamgarh which is Ext.Ka-2 is reproduced here under:-

नि0अ0 अमरावती''

16. The marriage of the deceased Amrawati with the appellant is admitted to the parties. Though the case was registered for offence under Section 498-A, 304-B IPC and ¾ D.P. Act, the charges were framed against the appellant by the trial court for offence u/s 498-A, 304-B IPC and ¾ D.P. Act on 19.1.2013 and alternative charge was framed against the appellant by the trial court under Section 302 IPC on 22.3.2013.

17. As all the witnesses of fact have turned hostile including the family members of the deceased who have stated before the trial court that the deceased was not harassed by the appellant for want of dowry and moreover the relationship between them was cordial, hence the trial court has acquitted the appellant under Section 498-A, 304-B IPC and ¾ D.P. Act but taking into account the dying-declaration of the deceased, it has convicted the appellant under Section 302 IPC for life imprisonment. As the informant P.W.2 Jagdish Prasad Pandey and his wife Amrawati P.W.1 Asha Devi who are the parents of the deceased and other witnesses of fact i.e. P.W.3 to 6 have turned hostile and not supported the prosecution case. Hence we do not think it proper to discuss their evidence and proceed to examine the case under Section 302 IPC against the appellant which the trial court found proved against the appellant in the light of the dying-declaration of the deceased.

18. From the perusal of the dying-declaration of the deceased, it is apparent that the appellant was posing himself to be handsome husband and well of as compared to the family members of the deceased on account of which he used to hate the deceased. The deceased was living with her parents for about one and half years and due to intervention of some relatives, she was sent back by her parents to the house of the appellant. On the day of the incident i.e. on 1.7.2012 in the evening at 8 p.m. when she was cooking food, her sister-in-law who was not of good character, had some altercation with the husband of the deceased and husband was beating her sister-in-law on which her husband became annoyed with her and had thrown a burning lantern on her and she screambed and her Jeth who was taking the food came and rescued her. Her husband after throwing the burning lantern (dibhari) on her went to sleep in the house. She was admitted by her Jeth and Chachiya Sasur who rushed her to the hospital and admitted her. Her husband did not come to see the deceased in the hospital.

19. Thus from the dying-declaration of the deceased it is apparent that though the incident which has taken place appears to be a sudden quarrel between the appellant and his sister and the deceased intervened to save her husband's sister from her husband who out of anger had thrown the burning lantern (dibhari) on her and went to sleep goes to show that the appellant can not be said to have any intention to burn the deceased to death but he would likely known that due to the said act, the deceased would die on account of fire. The deceased was rescued by her Jeth who rushed her to the hospital along with her Chachiya Sasur as it appears from her dying-declaration itself. The case law which have been relied upon by learned counsel for the appellant of the Apex Court squarely covers the case of the appellant wherein the Apex Court in a similar situation has come to the conclusion that the conviction of the appellant of the said case would not attract the offence under Section 302 IPC. Hence has set-aside the conviction of the accused-appellant and altered the conviction under Section 304 Part-II IPC.

20. So far as the argument of learned counsel for the appellant regarding the veracity of the dying-declaration of the deceased is concerned is of not much significance as P.W.7 has categorically stated before the trial court that he recorded the dying-declaration of the deceased in the presence of Dr. Vivek Prakash at 2.10 p.m on 2.7.2012 who has certified about the mental condition of the deceased before recording her dying-declaration and also after same was completed at 2.30 p.m. on the same day and simply because no orders of the S.D.M, Azamgarh has been produced by the prosecution before the trial court of the S.D.M concerned for recording the dying-declaration by P.W.7 Ramashankar Pathak and Dr. Vivek Prakash who certified the mental fitness of the deceased have not been produced the said dying-declaration cannot be disbelieved as P.W.7 has proved the dying-declaration (Ext.Ka-2) before the trial court and further he has categorically stated that the two certificates by which Dr. Vivek Prakash has certified about the mental state of the deceased. Moreover, the accused has admitted the prosecution documents which includes the dying-declaration also. Therefore, in view of Section 294(3) Cr.P.C, the two certificates regarding mental fitness of deceased issued by Dr. Vivek Prakash at the time of recording the dying-declaration of deceased by P.W.7 requires no formal proof. Hence the dying-declaration Ext.Ka-2 proved by P.W.7 cannot be discarded. Thus having considered the submissions of learned counsel for the appellant particularly in the light of the dying-declaration of the deceased, we are of the opinion that conviction of the appellant under Section 302 IPC cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. Therefore, the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 IPC by the trial court is set-aside and he is convicted under Section 304 Part II IPC. Now comes the question which is to be determined by this Court regarding the quantum of sentence which may be imposed on the appellant for offence u/s 304 Part II IPC.

20. The learned counsel for the appellant has argued that as the appellant has already served out seven years and two months, hence he may be released. Considering the said argument of learned counsel for the appellant we are of the considered opinion that taking into account his conduct in not saving his wife after the incident nor, had taken her to hospital soon after the incident and in fact the Jeth and Chachiya Sasur rescued the deceased and rushed her to hospital coupled with the fact that the deceased remained alive for about a week after the incident and yet the appellant did not even visit to enquire about her welfare and condition and are also of the opinion that ends of justice would be served if appellant is convicted and sentenced to ten years rigorous imprisonment under Section 304 Part II IPC.

21. In view of the foregoing discussions and preposition of law as has been laid down by the Apex Court and relied upon by the counsel for the appellant, we convict the appellant under Section 304 Part II IPC and sentence him to ten years R.I. accordingly. The appellant is stated to be in jail. He shall serve out the sentence as awarded by this Court

22. The appeal stands partly allowed.

Criminal Appeal No. 4229 of 2018

Anand Babu ...Appellant (In Jail)

Sri Sanjay Rajpoot

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
A.G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 498A, 304B - D.P. Act, 1961 - Section 4 - Appeal against conviction.

The expression 'Soon before her death" used in section 304B I.P.C. and section 113B of the Evidence Act is present with the idea of proximity text. No definite period has been indicated and the expression "soon before hear death" is not defined. The determination of the period which can come within the term "soon before" is left to be determined by the courts, depending upon facts and circumstances of each case. (para 25)

Though, the Court has visualized that direct ocular testimony is rarely available in dowry death case and in most of such offence direct evidence is hardly available and such cases are usually proved by circumstantial evidence. This section as well as section 113B of the Evidence Act enact a rule of presumption i.e. if death occurs within seven years of marriage in suspicious circumstances. (para 27)

Now convict appellant being husband was expected to explain the situations, which were under his personal knowledge, as was required u/s 106 of Evidence Act. But explanation given by this convict appellant is that deceased had committed suicide by jumping before train owing to depression. (para 42)

Hence on this score too convict appellant failed to prove whether and under which circumstance the trial court failed to appreciate facts and evidence placed on record. (para 44)

Appeal is dismissed. (E-2)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This appeal under section 374(2) of Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as Cr.P.C.) has been filed by convict appellant Anand Babu against judgment of conviction and sentence made therein dated 4.6.2018 passed by Court of Sessions Judge, Pilibhit, in S.T. No. 288 of 2014, State Vs. Anand Babu and others, arising out of Case Crime No. 724 of 2014, u/s 498A, 304B I.P.C and 4 D. P. Act, P.S. Jahanabad, District Pilibhit.

2. In brief, memo of appeal contends that the trial court failed to appreciate facts and law placed before it. There was no evidence against appellant. Marriage between deceased and appellant, was solemnized on 8.6.2014, in a simple manner with no dowry nor any demand at the time of marriage or subsequent to marriage. No evidence with regard to demand of dowry or cruelty with regard to it was there on record. Spouse were living happily and no complaint, in any manner, was there prior to present incident. Both families were farmers, having no status to claim or fulfill demand of dowry. Both of witnesses were declared hostile and they have not supported prosecution, even then impugned judgment of conviction with deterrent sentence was passed. Autopsy examination report reveals cause of death due to head injury and it was an accident. But learned Sessions Judge, Pilibhit, failed to appreciate the facts and law placed on record. Hence this appeal for setting aside impugned judgment of conviction and sentence made therein with further prayer for acquittal from charges levelled against appellant.

3. Perusal of impugned judgment and record of lower court reveals that F.I.R. (Ext. Ka1), chik F.I.R. (Ext. Ka2) of Case Crime No. 724 of 2014, u/s 498A, 304B I.P.C and 4 D. P. Act, P.S. Jahanabad, District Pilibhit, dated 29.6.2014 registered at 17.35 hours, for an occurrence of 27.6.2014, having no specific mention of time upon F.I.R. having computerised typing and signature of complainant Sunil Kumar over it (Ext. Ka1) against Anand Babu (husband), Shakuntala Devi (mother-in-law), Guddu Joshi (brother-in-law), Vijay Joshi (brother-in-law), Shanker (brother-in-law-Bahnoi), Gita (wife of Shanker) and Shrawan Kumar (father-in-law), with this contention that informant Sunil Kumar was a resident of Mohalla Dubey, P.S. Bisalpur, District Pilibhit, and since last 15 years he was residing at Delhi and working as labourer, for maintaining his family, residing there at. His sister Savita was married to Anand Babu, resident of Mohalla Mishran Tola @ Joshi Tola, P.S. Jahanabad, District Pilibhit, about three months back at Delhi. This was second marriages of both Anand Babu and Savita. After some time of marriage Anand Babu (husband), Shrawan Kumar (father-in-law), Shakuntala (mother-in-law), Guddu and Vijay (brothers of Anand Babu), their brother-in-law (Bahnoi) Hari Shanker and their Sister Gita demanded Rs. One lac for doing business. They started demanding dowry from Savita and as a result cruelty was being committed with her. Informant, along with his father Ram Prakash, brother Sushil and nephew Akash went to Jahanabad for making persuasion to accused persons that he was not in a capacity to make payment of dowry of Rs. One lac. Please do bear. But it was of no avail and persistent demand of dowry with cruelty was there. On 27.6.2014 information about murder of Savita was received through telephone. Informant along with his family members rushed at spot and found dead body at mortuary. Savita, informant's sister, was murdered for dowry by her in-laws and an attempt to make it a case of accident was made. Whereas this was a dowry death. Hence this report.

4. Inquest report (Ext. Ka5) was got prepared by S.I. Phool Singh, upon information received through telephone from Circle Officer, Jahanabad, on 27.6.2014 at 10.00 A.M. regarding lying of a dead body of deceased lady at Platform no. 2 of Railway Station, who had met with some accident at railway track. Inquest proceeding started at 11.30 A.M. Death was held to be owing to antemortem injuries caused by dashing of rail, but it was opined to get it examined under autopsy examination for which requisite papers, challan dead body (Ext. Ka6), Photo dead body (Ext. Ka7), specimen seal of sealing dead body (Ext. Ka8), letter to R.I. (Ext. Ka9) and letter to C.M.O. (Ext. Ka10) were got prepared and those papers, along with sealed intact dead body, were carried to Medical Officer (PW5) Dr. D. N. Singh, who was on postmortem duty, where autopsy examination was conducted and autopsy examination report (Ext. Ka4) under handwriting and signature of Dr. D. N. Singh was got prepared at the time of autopsy examination. External and internal examinations of dead body, which was under sealed intact position, and was duly identified by police personnel, who brought it, was got made, wherein three antemortem injuries (1) lacerated wound 8 cm x 6 cm x bone deep on occipital region, underlying bone fracture, (2) lacerated wound 7 cm x 4 cm x scalp deep on forehead, and (3) defused abraded contusion present at multiple places all over body along with few lacerated wound over back. Haemotama was present in occipital lobe right side with profusing of blood in brain tissue. Bleeding from nose and ear was present resulting death owing to coma and hemorrhage due to antemortem injuries.

5. Investigation resulted in submission of charge sheet (Ext. Ka13) against Anand Babu, Guddu, Vijay, Shakuntala @ Maharani and Shrawan Kumar. Magistrate took cognizance on 13.8.2014 over charge sheet.

6. As the offence punishable u/s 304B I.P.C. was exclusively triable by Court of Sessions, hence after making compliance of provisions of section 207 Cr.P.C., file was committed to the Court of Sessions, under section 209 Cr.P.C., for making its trial.

7. Learned Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge (E.C. Act), Pilibhit, vide order dated 30.9.2014 heard learned learned Public Prosecutor as well as learned counsel for defence, thereupon charges for offences punishable under above sections were framed against accused persons. Charges levelled by Sri Yogesh Chandra Tripathi, Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge (E.C. Act), Pilibhit, in English translation by Court itself, is being reproduced as below:

"I, Yogesh Chandra Tripathi, Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge (E.C. Act), Pilibhit, charge you accused (1) Anand Babu, (2) Guddu, (3) Vijay, (4) Smt. Shakuntala Devi @ Maharani, (5) Shrawan Kumar, as follows-

First- That Anand Babu was married with Savita, sister of informant Sunil Kumar, D/o Ram Prakash, resident of Mohalla Dubey, P.S. Bisalpur, District Pilibhit, three months back to her death and after marriage, you being husband and in-laws demanded Rs. One Lac in dowry and owing to failure in fulfillment of the same, you did cruelty by way of physical and mental torture resulting cruel treatment with her. Thereby you committed offence punishable u/s 498A I.P.C. within the cognizance of this court.

Second- You demanded Rs. One Lac in dowry from informant's sister after her being at your house and in case of default you did assault and cruelty with her. You with a cruel behaviour assaulted her and owing to demand of dowry and failure of its fulfillment you made murder of her on 27.6.2014, thereby you committed offence of dowry death punishable u/s 304B I.P.C. within the cognizance of Court.

Third- You after marriage of Savita, informant's sister, with Anand Babu and her being at your house did demand of Rs. One lac in additional dowry, thereby committed offence punishable u/s 4 of D.P. Act within cognizance of this court.

In alternate

That you with a joint intention for fulfillment of common object did assault over informant's sister Savita on 27.6.2014 at your house, thereby she was murdered. Hence, you committed offence punishable u/s 302 read with 149 I.P.C. within the cognizance of this court.

I hereby direct you for trial for above charge.

Dated: 30.09.2014

Sd/- Illegible

(Yogesh Chandra Tripathi)

Addl. Sessions Judge/ Special Judge (E.C. Act), Pilibhit."

8. Charges were read over and explained to accused persons, who pleaded not guilty and claimed for trial.

9. Prosecution examined PW1- informant Sunil Kumar, PW2- HC Rita Tomar, PW3- Sushil Kumar Joshi, PW4- Ram Prakash, PW5- Dr. D. N. Singh, PW6- S.I. Phool Singh, PW7- Dy. S.P. Investigating Officer Indu Siddhartha and PW8- Suresh Chandra.

10. With a view to have explanation of accused persons, if any, over incriminating material brought on record by prosecution, statements of accused persons were got recorded u/s 313 Cr.P.C. in which each of accused persons denied the accusation and pleaded their innocence by alleging testimonies to be false. It was said in common that deceased committed suicide by jumping before train over railway track owing to her depression. Because she was previously married with Govind and was blessed with two kids, who were with Govind and against her wishes she was married with Anand Babu, under pressure of her family members. She remained under depression. There was no demand of dowry or cruelty with regard to it nor a question of such demand ever arisen. Previous marriage with Govind was not broken by a decree of divorce and this fact was hidden, while performing marriage with Anand Babu. No evidence in defence was given by accused persons.

11. After hearing learned public prosecutor as well as learned counsel for defence, learned Sessions Judge, Pilibhit, passed the impugned judgment, wherein accused-appellant Anand Babu was convicted for offences punishable u/s 498A, 304B I.P.C. read with section 4 D. P. Act. He was acquitted of charge levelled as alternative charge for offence punishable u/s 302 read with 149 I.P.C.

12. One accused Vijay was minor and juvenile in conflict with law. Hence, his file was got separated and transmitted to Juvenile Justice Board, Pilibhit, for making trial.

13. Rest of accused persons Guddu, Smt. Shakuntala Devi @ Maharani and Shrawan Kumar were acquitted of the charges levelled against them. No State Appeal against judgment of acquittal of Guddu, Shakuntala Devi @ Maharani and Shrawan Kumar is there.

14. This appeal is only by convict appellant- husband Anand Babu against judgment of conviction as well sentence. It was awarded after hearing learned Public Prosecutor as well as learned counsel for defence on the quantum of sentence and was in the tune of ten years R.I. for offence punishable u/s 304B I.P.C., two years R.I. and fine of Rs. 10,000/-, in case of default of payment of fine six months additional imprisonment, for offence punishable u/s 498A I.P.C. and one year's R.I. and fine of Rs. 5000/- and in case of default four months additional imprisonment for offence punishable u/s 4 D.P. Act with direction for concurrent running of sentences and adjustment of previous incarceration, if any, in this case crime number towards sentence awarded, as above.

15. Against the judgment of conviction and sentence made therein convict appellant Anand Babu (husband) has filed this criminal appeal.

16. Heard Sri Sanjay Rajpoot, learned counsel for accused-applicant and Sri Munna Lal, learned AGA for the State.

17. Learned counsel for appellant argued that this was second marriage performed by informant and his family members without any information or disclosing about erstwhile marriage of Savita with Govind or her two kids being with Govind. This was against wishes of Savita resulting her depression. The marriage was performed at Delhi at Arya Samaj temple that too without any dowry and in a very ordinary manner. Both sides i.e. bride and groom sides are poor farmers and residents of Pilibhit having no means of living except doing job of labourer and 'Pheriwala' for their two time meals. No demand of dowry in the tune of Rs. One lac was ever made nor there was any cruelty with regard to it. Even then this judgment of conviction and sentence was passed. There was great inconsistency and material contradiction amounting exaggeration and embellishment in the testimonies of prosecution witnesses. This all had arisen bonafide doubt in the case of prosecution, but the trial court failed to appreciate facts and law placed before it. It was neither dowry death nor a murder. Rather the death was owing to an accident due to suicide, committed by the deceased. Instantly information was given to informant and his family members, who got this delayed report lodged against accused persons. On the same set of evidence, learned trial Judge passed judgment of acquittal for co-accused persons, but convict appellant has been convicted and sentenced on the evaluation of same evidence; merely because of his being husband of deceased. Hence this appeal with above prayer for setting aside impugned judgment of conviction and sentence made therein with a further prayer for judgment of acquittal against the charges levelled against him.

18. Learned AGA vehemently oppose the arguments of learned counsel for appellant. It was argued by learned AGA that after having information of unnatural death, within three months of marriage, the informant and his family members had rushed at the spot and found her dead and her dead body was lying at mortuary, where autopsy examination was got conducted. After performing last rituals, this F.I.R. was got lodged and it was with all precise accusation of dowry death against accused persons. Prosecution by its four witnesses of fact, as well formal witnesses, has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. As convict appellant was husband, demand of dowry to the tune of Rs. One lac was made at Delhi followed by subsequent demand of dowry. Prosecution case was proved in their testimonies by factual witnesses. Hence, judgment of conviction and sentence was awarded against husband-convict appellant. For rest of accused persons, who were not instrumental in demand of dowry or cruelty with regard to it, the case could not be proved beyond reasonable doubt. Hence judgment of acquittal for them was passed. It was correct appreciation and marshaling of facts placed on record and proper with due application of law in making judgment of conviction. Before sentencing, both sides were heard over quantum of sentence and under correct perception of law with supported precedents, sentence of ten years R.I. with other sentences were awarded. Hence, judgment of conviction and sentence made therein is with full support of fact and evidence placed on record coupled with correct perspective of law propounded by various Courts. Hence this appeal, being devoid of merit, deserves to be dismissed.

19. Section 304-B of I.P.C. was inserted by Act No. 43 of 1986 w.e.f. 19.11.1986 that:-

1. Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death.

There is an explanation that for the purpose of this sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961).

2. Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life.

20. The Apex Court in Pathan Hussain Basha Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, AIR 2012 SC 3205 has propounded that if a married woman dies in unnatural circumstances at her matrimonial home within seven years from her marriage and these are allegations of cruelty or harassment upon such married woman for or in connection with demand of dowry by the husband or relatives of the husband, the case would squarely come under "dowry death" and there shall be a presumption against the husband and the relatives.

21. The Apex Court in many cases has propounded that where the evidence revealed that accused-husband killed deceased-wife for not satisfying his dowry demand but nothing on record to show involvement of co-accused in-laws with the offence committed by the accused, co-accused in-laws are not guilty of offence under sections 304B I.P.C.

22. The Apex Court in Kashmir Kaur Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 2013 SC 1039 has propounded that in a case of trial for dowry death the essential ingredients to attract the provisions of section 304B I.P.C. for establishing offence are (a) that soon before the death of the deceased she was subjected to cruelty and harassment in connection with the demand of dowry, (b)

the death of the deceased woman was caused by any burn or bodily injury or some other circumstance, which was not normal, (c) such death occurs within seven years from the date of her marriage, (d) that the victim was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband, (e) such cruelty or harassment should be for or in connection with demand of dowry, and (f) it should be established that such cruelty and harassment was made soon before her death.

23. The Apex Court in Banshi Lal Vs. State of Haryana, AIR 2011 SC 691 has propounded that the court has to analyse the facts and circumstances as leading to death of the victim and decide if there is any proximate connection between the demand of dowry and act of cruelty or harassment and the death. Meaning thereby cruelty or harassment with regard to demand of dowry soon before death is a crucial ingredient to be proved by prosecution before attracting any provisions of section 304B I.P.C.

24. Apex Court in Mustafa Shahdal Shaikh Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2013 SC 851 has propounded that "soon before death" means interval between cruelty and death should not be much. There must be existence of a proximate and live links between the effect or cruelty based on dowry demand and the concerned death. If the alleged incident of cruelty is remote in time and has become stale enough not to disturb the mental equilibrium of the woman concerned, it would be of no consequence.

25. This has again be reiterated by Apex Court in Kaliyaperumal Vs. State of Tamil Nadu, AIR 2003 SC 3828 that the expression 'Soon before her death" used in the substantive section 304B I.P.C. and section 113B of the Evidence Act is present with the idea of proximity text. No definite period has been indicated and the expression "soon before hear death" is not defined. The determination of the period which can come within the term "soon before" is left to be determined by the courts, depending upon facts and circumstances of each case. Suffice, however, to indicate that the expression 'soon before' would normally imply that the interval should not be much between the concerned cruelty or harassment and effect of cruelty based on dowry demand and the concerned death. If alleged incident of cruelty is remote in time and has become stale enough not to disturb mental equilibrium of the woman concerned, it would be of no consequence.

26. Regarding presumption under section 113B of the Evidence Act in this very ruling the Apex Court has propounded that the presumption shall be raised only on proof of the following essentials:-

1. The question before the court must be whether the accused has committed the dowry death of a woman.

2. The woman was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or his relatives.

3. Such cruelty or harassment was for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry.

4. Such cruelty or harassment was soon before her death.

27. Though, the Apex Court has visualized that direct ocular testimony is rarely available in dowry death case and in most of such offence direct evidence is hardly available and such cases are usually proved by circumstantial evidence. This section as well as section 113B of the Evidence Act enact a rule of presumption i.e. if death occurs within seven years of marriage in suspicious circumstances. This may be caused by burns or any other bodily injury. Thus, it is obligatory on the part of the prosecution to show that death occurred within seven years of marriage. If the prosecution would fail to establish that death did not occur within seven years of marriage, this section will not apply.

28. Before going any further, it would be relevant to mention here that section 113-B of Indian Evidence Act, 1872, provides that when the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman had been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the Court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death. The explanation to the section provides that expression 'dowry death' shall have the same meaning as in section 304B of IPC. Section 304B of the IPC defines 'dowry death' and provides punishment for said offence. Section 304B IPC provides that where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise, than under normal circumstances, within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any other relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called 'dowry death', and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death.

29. Sub-section 2 of section 304-B further provides that whoever commits dowry death shall be punished for imprisonment for a term which may not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life. It is relevant to mention here that section 498A provides punishment for an offence of cruelty by husband or a relative of husband of a woman.

30. Their Lordships of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Satvir Singh and others vs. Sate of Punjab and another, (2001) 8 SCC 633 has observed as under:

"20. Prosecution, in a case of offence under Section 304B IPC cannot escape from the burden of proof that the harassment or cruelty was related to the demand for dowry and also that such cruelty or harassment was caused soon before her death. The word dowry in Section 304B has to be understood as it is defined in Section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961. That definition reads thus:

"2. In this Act, 'dowry' means any property or valuable security given or agreed to be given either directly or indirectly -

(a) by one party to marriage to the other party to the marriage; or

(b) by the parents of either party to a marriage or by any other person, to either party to the marriage or to any other person;

at or before or any time after the marriage in connection with the marriage of the said parties, but does not include dower or mahr in the case of persons to whom the Muslim Personal Law (Shariat) applies.

31. Thus, there are three occasions related to dowry. One is before the marriage, second is at the time of marriage and the third is "at any time" after the marriage. The third occasion may appear to be an unending period. But the crucial words are "in connection with the marriage of the said parties". This means that giving or agreeing to give any property or valuable security on any of the above three stages should have been in connection with the marriage of the parties. There can be many other instances for payment of money or giving property as between the spouses. For example, some customary payments in connection with birth of a child or other ceremonies are prevalent in different societies. Such payments are not enveloped within the ambit of "dowry". Hence the dowry mentioned in Section 304B should be any property or valuable security given or agreed to be given in connection with the marriage.

32. It is not enough that harassment or cruelty was caused to the woman with a demand for dowry at some time, if Section 304B is to be invoked. But it should have happened soon before her death. The said phrase, no doubt, is an elastic expression and can refer to a period either immediately before her death or within a few days or even a few weeks before it. But the proximity to her death is the pivot indicated by that expression. The legislative object in providing such a radius of time by employing the words soon before her death is to emphasise the idea that her death should, in all probabilities, have been the aftermath of such cruelty or harassment. In other words, there should be a perceptible nexus between her death and the dowry related harassment or cruelty inflicted on her. If the interval elapsed between the infliction of such harassment or cruelty and her death is wide the court would be in a position to gauge that in all probabilities the death would not have been the immediate cause of her death. It is hence for the court to decide, on the facts and circumstances of each case, whether the said interval in that particular case was sufficient to snuff its cord from the concept "soon before her death".

33. Their Lordships of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Rajinder Singh v. State of Punjab, (2015) 6 SCC 477 has observed as under:

"7. The primary ingredient to attract the offence under Section 304B is that the death of a woman must be a "dowry death"."Dowry" is defined by Section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961, which reads as follows:

"2. Definition of "dowry".-In this Act, "dowry" means any property or valuable security given or agreed to be given either directly or indirectly-

(a) by one party to a marriage to the other party to the marriage; or

(b) by the parents of either party to a marriage or by any other person, to either party to the marriage or to any other person, at or before or any time after the marriage in connection with the marriage of the said parties, but does not include dower or mahr in the case of persons to whom the Muslim Personal Law (Shariat) applies

Explanation I.- [] Explanation II.-The expression "valuable security" has the same meaning as in Section 30 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860)."

8. A perusal of this Section shows that this definition can be broken into six distinct parts:

(1) Dowry must first consist of any property or valuable security - the word "any" is a word of width and would, therefore, include within it property and valuable security of any kind whatsoever.

2) Such property or security can be given or even agreed to be given. The actual giving of such property or security is, therefore, not necessary.

3) Such property or security can be given or agreed to be given either directly or indirectly.

4) Such giving or agreeing to give can again be not only by one party to a marriage to the other but also by the parents of either party or by any other person to either party to the marriage or to any other person. It will be noticed that this clause again widens the reach of the Act insofar as those guilty of committing the offence of giving or receiving dowry is concerned.

5) Such giving or agreeing to give can be at any time. It can be at, before, or at any time after the marriage. Thus, it can be many years after a marriage is solemnised.

6) Such giving or receiving must be in connection with the marriage of the parties. Obviously, the expression "in connection with" would in the context of the social evil sought to be tackled by the Dowry Prohibition Act mean "in relation with" or "relating to".

9. The ingredients of the offence under Section 304-B have been stated and restated in many judgments. There are four such ingredients and they are said to be:

(a) death of a woman must have been caused by any burns or bodily injury or her death must have occurred otherwise than under normal circumstances;

(b) such death must have occurred within seven years of her marriage;

(c) soon before her death, she must have been subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband; and

(d) such cruelty or harassment must be in connection with the demand for dowry."

34. Hence, the present case is to be scrutinized in view of above settled principles of law and factual evidence proved on record.

35. PW1-informant Sunil Kumar, in his testimony, has categorically stated that his sister Savita, who was previously married with Govind, but was with dissolution of her marriage, was married with convict appellant Anand Babu three months prior to her unnatural death. This date of marriage and Marriage certificate (Ext. Kha11), which was of Arya Samaj Temple, Tishajari, Delhi, having photographs of Anand Babu and Savita affixed over it, was proved by this witness and this fact has not been disputed in his cross-examination. Rather fact of marriage with convict appellant on 8.4.2014 was undisputed before trial court as well as before this appellate court by learned counsel for appellant. The main thrust was made by learned counsel for appellant that the second marriage with convict appellant was without a valid divorce decree regarding erstwhile marriage of deceased with Govind. This aspect is of no avail because admittedly, marriage was performed and certificate (Ext. Kha11) of same is on record. It was said from very beginning that previous marriage with Govind was dissolved by mutual consent. Dissolution of marriage by a decree of divorce is a legal mandate for dissolution of marriage. But even under Hindu Marriage Act ritual of dissolution of marriage by way of mutual consent in lower trodden community or any community having this custom prevailed therein has been held to be a way of dissolution of marriage. Moreso, the validity of same may be a question before Family Court or a Civil Court, regarding declaration of status of marriage in between parties. But regarding criminal trial for an offence of dowry death, it has been propounded by Apex Court at many times, particularly in Reema Agarwal Vs. Anupam, AIR 2004 SC 1418 that inspite of marriage being illegal or unrecognized, the same shall be held to be a marriage in a criminal trial regarding cruelty with regard to demand of dowry and for domestic violence. In the present case, marriage is admitted fact. Hence illegality or irregularity is of no consequence for this trial. This marriage was performed on 8.4.2014 and this unnatural death of bride-deceased occurred on 27.6.2014. It is also an undisputed fact. This has been proved by testimony of PW1, regarding which, there is no contradiction, exaggeration or embellishment. This witness has categorically said that after having information of death of his sister Savita, he along with his family members rushed at the place of her in-laws and found dead body of his sister at mortuary. After getting the same, after autopsy examination, last rituals were performed then after report of this case by way of presenting a computerised application having signature of this witness i.e. Exhibit Ka1 was presented at P.S. Jahanabad, where this case crime number was got registered against accused persons. No contradiction or exaggeration regarding registration of this case crime number is there in his testimony. It has further been corroborated by testimony of PW2- Head Constable Reeta Tomar, who in her testimony, has averred that while being posted as constable clerk at P.S. Jahanabad on 29.6.2014, she, on the basis of Ext. Ka1, brought by Sunil, who was accompanied by Parveen and Manoj Pandey and had come at P.S. Jahanabad at 17.35 hours, got case crime number registered vide chik no. 186 of 2014 by way of making entry in General Diary, which was prepared under one and common process by pasting carbon beneath it under handwriting and signature of this witness and the same is on record as Exhibit ka2- chik F.I.R. and Exhibit Ka3- General Diary entry. A suggestive question was put to this witness that this report was got lodged under dictation of police personnel and this has been vehemently answered in negative. It has further been reiterated that Sunil Kumar gave this FIR (Ext. Ka1) to this witness and on the basis of which, this case crime number was registered at above given time, date and place under handwriting and signature of this witness. Regarding this testimony, in answer to question put u/s 313 Cr.P.C., there is no denial regarding registration of case crime number by this witness. Rather a false implication has been answered. But this witness has categorically proved formal registration of this case crime number and there is corroboration by PW1 and PW2.

36. PW3- Sushil Kumar Joshi is further a witness of fact and brother of deceased, who has said that deceased was married with Anand Babu as per Hindu rituals on 8.4.2014. All accused persons are husband and his blood relatives. They demanded Rs. One lac from the deceased and within ten to 11 days of marriage Rs. 10,000/- was demanded from this witness. He paid Rs. 5000/- but again within 10 to 11 days Rs. 20,000/- was demanded. It was said to be beyond his capacity then after a telephonic demand from his father was made by accused persons in the tune of Rs. One lac. Father of this witness along with Akash went to accused for persuading, but they were not amenable and persistent demand of Rs. One lac in dowry was there for which deceased made complaint to her parents. There was complaint of torture too and on 27.6.2014 an information regarding death of his sister was received. He along with his father and brother rushed at Pilibhit and found dead body of his sister at mortuary. After autopsy examination, dead body was handed over to them and it was taken at Bisalpur, where last rituals were performed on 28.6.2014. Then after on 29.6.2014 this FIR was got lodged, upon report of his brother. In cross-examination, it has specifically been said by this witness that deceased was previously married. But after personal settlement, she was residing at her parental house. Subsequently, she was married with Anand Babu and this witness was a witness of above marriage. It was performed at Arya Samaj Temple, Delhi. Within 20-24 days of marriage there was demand of dowry from father of this witness, whereas within ten days Anand Babu demanded money of Rs.10,000/- from this witness and he without disclosing to any one of his family members paid Rs. 5000/- to Anand Babu. Anand Babu had gone Delhi within ten days of marriage for making demand and then after he made persistent demand of Rs. One lac, which could not be fulfilled. This unnatural death occurred within three months of marriage. There is no contradiction, exaggeration and embellishment in the testimony of this witness. It is fully corroborated by statement of PW2.

37. PW4- Ram Prasad is father of deceased and he has said in his testimony the case of prosecution in full tune. Specific mention of demand of Rs. One lac in dowry by convict appellant and incapacity to make payment of same has been said by this witness. Information of death under unnatural circumstances on 27.6.2014, was received by this witness, though it was reported to be a death owing to rail side accident and this was communicated by his nephew at 2.00 P.M. of 27.6.2014. He along with his family members rushed at Pilibhit and on the same day at about 7 to 7.30 P.M. he reached Pilibhit and found dead body of his daughter at mortuary. Marriage was performed at Arya Samaj Temple at Delhi on 8.4.2014 and this was under initiation of sister and brother-in-law (Bahnoi) of Anand Babu. Regarding demand of dowry and incapacity to make payment of same then after persistent demand coupled with cruelty, there is no contradiction, exaggeration or embellishment in testimony of this witness. Rather this witness is a fully natural witness with full reliability and his testimony is fully corroborated by testimonies of PW1 and PW3. Though, since very beginning the case of defence is that deceased committed suicide by jumping before a train i.e. death under unnatural circumstances is not disputed. But plea of suicide is being taken. Whereas PW5 Dr. D. N. Singh in his testimony has proved medico legal examination in autopsy examination of deceased, which was brought in sealed intact position along with papers of inquest proceeding by constable of P.S. Jahanabad, wherein injuries were found, as written in inquest report. Postmortem report (Ext. Ka5) prepared under signature of this witness and above antemortem injuries were cause of this death as those injuries caused coma and hemorrhage resulting death. In examination in chief, this witness, has categorically said that all these three injuries, written as above, may be caused by hard blunt object. But in cross-examination a suggestive question was put that they may be of rail accident and it was answered in affirmative. There is no crush injury over deceased. Injuries were over head resulting fracture of occipital bone, laceration of scalp deep over forehead. Even if, it was owing to jumping before train, there is no evidence of jumping before train brought on record by convict appellant against whom there was presumption of dowry death u/s 113B of Evidence Act. But as against it, there was testimony of Investigating Officer-PW7 wherein she has categorically said in her testimony in chief that during investigation sister of convict appellant had made statement that deceased had asked her sister-in-law Rita Devi for taking her at her home. Because she was being tortured by her in-laws and there is no rebuttal or contradiction or cross-examination of this peace of evidence said by investigating officer in her testimony. This Rita Devi was sister of convict appellant and she has narrated against appellant before this investigating officer, but Rita Devi has not been examined in defence for making rebuttal of this testimony. Death of deceased is unnatural, even if, it may be suicide, is unnatural for bringing ingredient of dowry death fulfilled, as provided u/s 304B I.P.C.

38. In the present case, prosecution by these evidence of fact i.e. PW1, PW3 and PW4 has successfully proved that marriage of deceased with convict appellant was performed on 8.4.2014. Deceased died under unnatural circumstances because of coma and hemorrhage caused by antemortem injuries found over her person under unnatural circumstances on 27.6.2014. There had been persistent demand of dowry coupled with cruelty in the tune of Rs. One lac and this was even one week before the above unnatural death. Convict appellant is husband of deceased. Hence all necessary ingredients of dowry death were proved by prosecution and presumption of offence of dowry death having committed by accused, who was her husband, was there. It was incumbent upon husband- convict appellant Anand Babu to give evidence in defence for rebutting above presumption raised u/s 113B of Evidence Act. But no evidence in defence has been given by convict appellant.

39. PW6- S.I. Phool Singh, is the investigating officer, who conducted inquest proceeding on 27.6.2014 and in his testimony he categorically proved that after having information of lying of a dead body of a lady at platform no. 2 of railway station from his Circle Officer, he along with relevant documents rushed at spot and did perform inquest proceeding under his handwriting and signature. Requisite papers, challan dead body, photo dead body, specimen seal of seal by which dead body was sealed intact, letter to R.I. and letter to C.M.O. were prepared by this witness and this was opined by witnesses of inquest proceeding to be death owing to antemortem injuries, but examination in autopsy examination was needed. Hence those documents were got prepared and then sealed intact dead body along with those documents were sent for its autopsy examination. The spot map, where this death was said as well as the spot, where this dead body was lying, was got prepared by this witness. These documents have been formally proved by this witness and regarding it there is no contradiction or dispute by learned counsel for defence. Rather those proceedings have been undisputed and even said to have been death owing to suicide by jumping before train at railway track by deceased herself.

40. PW7- Dy. S.P. Investigating officer Mrs. Indu Siddhartha, in her testimony, has proved investigation of Case Crime No. 724 of 2014, u/s 498A, 304B I.P.C and 4 D. P. Act, P.S. Jahanabad, District Pilibhit, wherein she has formally proved site plans, Ext. Ka11 and Ext. Ka12 and charge sheet Ext. Ka13 to be under handwriting and signature of this witness. She has categorically said that track man was examined by her, who had said about death owing to jumping before train by unknown lady. This has been said by convict appellant Anand Babu too. But it was unnatural death, which has been proved by prosecution and this was within three months of marriage, wherein all through there was demand of dowry coupled with cruelty with regard to it.

41. PW8- Suresh Chandra, in his testimony, has said that he himself had not seen the lady jumping before train. Rather it was hearsay. Hence his testimony is of no avail for this trial.

42. Now convict appellant being husband was expected to explain the situations, which were under his personal knowledge, as was required u/s 106 of Evidence Act. But explanation given by this convict appellant is that deceased had committed suicide by jumping before train owing to depression, which she was suffering because her marriage was performed against her wishes and she was under depression because her two kids were living with her erstwhile husband. Even if this statement of convict appellant is to be accepted, then he, being husband, was duty bound for being careful for reporting matter to his in-laws regarding situation of mental depression of deceased. But no such information was either given to police nor to informant side nor even this unnatural happening was reported at police station by convict appellant. Rather this criminal machinery was put in motion by presenting Exhibit Ka1 by informant. Convict appellant was not present in the inquest proceeding too. He did not perform last rituals of deceased. These all circumstances, even otherwise, goes against him.

43. Apex Court in Trimukh Maroti Kirkan Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2007) 10 SCC 445 has propounded as under:

"14. If an offence takes place inside the privacy of a house and in such circumstances where the assailants have all the opportunity to plan and commit the offence at the time and in circumstances of their choice, it will be extremely difficult for the prosecution to lead evidence to establish the guilt of the accused, if the strict principle of circumstantial evidence, as notice above, is insisted upon by the Courts. A Judge does not preside over a criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. A Judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape. Both are public duties."

44. Hence on this score too convict appellant failed to prove whether and under which circumstance the trial court failed to appreciate facts and evidence placed on record. Hence, from over all appreciation of facts and evidence placed on record, it is apparently clear that judgment of conviction passed by learned Trial Judge is fully based on evidence and supported by it. There is no illegality or irregularity in it.

45. So far as sentence regarding appellant is concerned, it is always a difficult task requiring balancing of various considerations. The question of awarding sentence is a matter of discretion to be exercised on consideration of circumstances aggravating and mitigating in the individual case.

46. It is settled legal position that appropriate sentence should be awarded after giving due consideration to the facts and circumstances of each case, nature of offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. It is obligation of Court to constantly remind itself that right of victim, and be it said, on certain occasions persons aggrieved as well as society at large can be victims, never be marginalised. The measure of punishment should be proportionate to gravity of offence. Object of sentencing should be to protect society and to deter the criminal in achieving avowed object of law. Further, it is expected that Courts would operate the sentencing system so as to impose such sentence which reflects conscience of society and sentencing process has to be stern where it should be. The Court will be failing in its duty if appropriate punishment is not awarded for a crime, which has been committed not only against individual victim but also against society to which criminal and victim belong. Punishment to be awarded for a crime must not be irrelevant but it should conform to and be consistent with the atrocity and brutality with which the crime has been perpetrated, enormity of crime warranting public abhorrence and it should 'respond to society's cry for justice against the criminal'. [Vice Sumer Singh Vs. Surajbhan Singh and others, (2014) 7 SCC 323, Sham Sunder Vs. Puran, (1990) 4 SCC 731, M.P. Vs. Saleem, (2005) 5 SCC 554, Ravji Vs. State of Rajasthan, (1996) 2 SCC 175].

47. In the present case aggravating and mitigating circumstances, narrated as above, prove that dowry death was committed by convict appellant.

48. Apex Court in Ashok Kumar Vs. State of Rajasthan, 1991(1) SCC 166 has propounded as under:

"Bride burning is a shame of our society. Poor never resort to it. Rich do not need it. Obviously because it is basically an economic problem of a class, which suffers both from ego and complex. Unfortunately, the high price rise and ever increasing cost of lving coupled with enormous growth of consumer goods effacing difference between luxury and essential goods appear to be luring even the new generation of youth, of best service, to be as much part of the dowry menace as their parents and the resultant evils flowing out of it. How to curb and control this evil? Dowry killing is a crime of its own kind where elimination of daughter-in-law becomes immediate necessity. If she or her parents are no more able to satiate the gree and avarice of her husband and their family members, to make the boy available, once again in the marriage market. Eliminate it and much may stand resolved automatically ... ... …"

49. Hence, sentencing too of convict appellant was adequate and commensurate to degree of offence on this score. The appeal is liable to be dismissed.

50. The appeal is dismissed accordingly.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE RAM KRISHNA GAUTAM, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 5738 of 2011

Shyam Lal & Ors. ...Appellants (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri D.N. Joshi, Sri Deepak Srivastava

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
A.G.A., Sri Shashi Kant Singh

A. Common object- for applicability of section 149, there need not be a prior meeting of minds. It is enough that each has the same object in view. It is the knowledge which is necessary to attract the liability. Common object of unlawful assembly is different from common intention as it can develop during course of incident at the spot.

B. Plea of alibi- when the accused takes plea that when the occurrence took place, he was somewhere else. An alibi is not an exception envisaged in the IPC. It is a rule of evidence u/s 11 of evidence act- facts inconsistent with the fact in issue are relevant.

C. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 374(2), Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 147, 304/149, 323/149 - counterblast- Engagement of accused in job of raising construction-places were in close vicinity-their presence on spot at the time of occurrence cannot be ruled out-plea of alibi could not be proved to the satisfaction of the court- inconsistency in the statement of witnesses in their examination in chief in cross-offence punishable u/s 147, 323/149 are proved against the accused- but offence u/s 304/149 is not proved beyond reasonable doubt-appeal partly allowed for offence u/s 304/149. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This appeal under Section 374(2) of Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C.') has been filed by Shyam Lal, Bijai alias Ram Sajivan, Kallu alias Ram Ujagir, Udal alias Udairaj, Awadhraj, Girdhari and Sudama Prasad against judgment of conviction and sentence made therein in Sessions Trial No. 108 of 2004, State Versus Shyam Lal and others, arising out of Case Crime No. 162 of 2004, under Sections 147, 304/149, 323/149 I.P.C., Police Station Durgaganj, District Sant Ravidas Nagar, Bhadohi, passed by court of Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, Bhadohi- Gyanpur, wherein convicts-appellants have been sentenced with one year's simple imprisonment and fine of Rs.1,000/- and in case of default one month's additional simple imprisonment for offense punishable under Section 147 I.P.C., ten years' rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.5,000/- each and in default three months' additional simple imprisonment under Section 304/149 I.P.C., six months simple imprisonment and fine of Rs.500/- and in case of default one month's

2. Memo of appeal is with this ground that trial court failed to appreciate facts and evidence placed on record. First information report, lodged by complainant, was based on wrong facts. PW-1 Jitendra Kumar was not present on spot at the time of alleged occurrence, because he was neither injured nor his presence is beyond doubt. There was no public witness of alleged occurrence. Statement of prosecution witnesses were full of contradictions. Medical evidence was not in support of prosecution case. Hence, this appeal is with a prayer for setting aside impugned judgment of conviction and sentence dated 17.09.2011 with a further prayer for grant of acquittal against charges levelled against appellants.

3. From the very perusal of trial court record, it is apparent that Jitendra Kumar, S/o Ram Shiromani, R/o Village Gangarampur, P.S. Durgaganj, District Sant Ravidas Nagar, filed a written report (Ext.Ka-1) at Police Station Durgaganj on 12.07.2004 with this contention that on above date at about 9.30 A.M., there occurred quarrel in between Shyamlal, Kallu @ Ram Ujagir, Udal @ Udairaj, Bachai @ Ram Sajivan, Awadhraj, all sons of Bansi and Sudama Prasad and Girdhari, S/o Ramnath and informant's side regarding construction of chak road from the land of informant. Those named accused persons, being armed with lathi-danda, did assault by lathi-danda and brick pelting, resulting injuries to ladies of informant's house as well as Madan Lal, Dharamraj, Shyam Bihari, Sri Nath and Ravindra Kumar. They were taken to Government Hospital, Gyanpur, from where they were taken to Kabir Chaura Hospital, Varanasi. Informant's aunt Photo Devi was also accompanying them, who came back and apprised that others were under treatment, whereas Ravindra Kumar died, while reaching Kabir Chaura Hospital. This occurrence was witnessed by many persons, hence request for taking legal recourse was made. On the basis of this written report (Ext.Ka-1), Chik F.I.R. (Ext.Ka-19) was got registered at 00.10 P.M. on 13.07.2004 as Case Crime No. 162 of 2004, under Sections 147, 149, 336, 323, 304 I.P.C., at Police Station Durgaganj. This registration of case crime number was entered in General Diary Entry at Report No. 20 of the day. The matter was investigated, wherein Spot Map (Ext.Ka-4) was got prepared, brick parts, lying thereat, on the place of occurrence, was taken in custody by way of preparing recovery memo (Ext.Ka-2), injured Smt. Kamla Devi, Smt. Shivrati Devi, Sumitra Devi, Shrinath and Chhabbi Devi were got medically examined at Primary Health Centre, Suriyawan and their Medico Legal Reports are Ext.Ka-11, Ext.Ka-6, Ext.Ka-8, Ext.Ka-9, Ext.Ka-12. Medico Legal Report of Photo Devi is Ext.Ka-10, of Balraji Devi is Ext.Ka-7 and of Madan Lal is Ext.Ka-5. Deceased Ravindra Kumar died and his inquest proceeding was got conducted, wherein Inquest Report (Ext.Ka-13), Letter R.I. (Ext.Ka-14), Letter C.M.O. (Ext.Ka-15), Photo Dead Body (Ext.Ka-16), Police Form-13 (Ext.Ka-17) was got prepared. Thereafter, dead body along with those documents was sent for its autopsy examination under sealed intact position. It was got examined under autopsy examination and report of autopsy examination (Ext.Ka-3) was on record. Statement of witnesses were recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., whereupon Charge Sheet (Ext.Ka-18), under handwriting and signature of Investigating Officer, for offences punishable under Sections 147, 323/149, 325/149, 304/149 I.P.C., was got filed, whereupon Magistrate took cognizance.

4. As offence, punishable under Section 304 I.P.C., was exclusively triable by court of Sessions, hence learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Bhadohi-Gyanpur, vide order dated 25.10.2004, committed this file to Court of Sessions Judge, Bhadohi at Gyanpur, where it was registered as Sessions Trial No. 108 of 2004. After receipt of this file in the court of Sessions Judge, Bhadohi at Gyanpur, after framing of charges, this case was made over to the court of Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.3, Bhadohi at Gyanpur for its trial. In the court of Sessions Judge, Bhadohi, Public Prosecutor / learned D.G.C. (Criminal), opened its case and after hearing learned counsel for accused charges against Shyamlal, Bachai alias Ram Sajivan, Kallu alias Ram Ram Ujagir, Udal alias Udairaj, Awadhraj, Girdhari and Sudama Prasad were framed on 08.12.2004 by the then Sessions Judge, Bhadohi at Gyanpur. Charges levelled against those accused persons in vernacular language is being translated in English by Court itself and is being reproduced as below:-

1. On 12.07.2004 at 9.30 A.M. in Village Gangarampur, within area of Police Station Durgaganj, District Sant Ravidas Nagar, Bhadohi, you with intention to kill Ravindra Kumar, made an unlawful assembly and thereby you committed offence punishable under Section 147 I.P.C. within cognizance of this Court.

2. On above date, time and place, you in furtherance of common intention, assaulted Ravindra Kumar by lathi-danda and brick-stone pelting, which was a culpable homicide not amounting to murder, punishable under Section 304/149 I.P.C. within cognizance of this Court.

3. On above date, time and place, you in furtherance of common intention, you did grievous hurt by giving assault by lathi-danda and brick pelting to Smt. Balraji, thereby committed offence under Section 325/149 I.P.C. within cognizance of this Court.

4. You on above date, time and place by lathi-danda and pelting brick and stone did voluntarily assault and hurt over Madan Lal, Smt. Shivpatti, Smt. Baliraji, Smt. Sunita Devi, Shrinath, Smt. Photo, Smt. Kamla Devi and Smt. Chhabbi Devi, thereby committed offence under Section 323/149 I.P.C. within cognizance of this Court.

5. The charges were read over to accused persons, who pleaded not guilty and claimed for trial. Prosecution examined PW-1 Jitendra Kumar, PW-2 Smt. Sumitra Devi, PW-3 Madan Lal, PW-4 Dr. A.K. Singh, PW-5 Shyam Lal, PW-6 Nagendra Prasad Mishra Pharmacist, PW-7 Islamul Haq Khan, PW-8 S.I. Radhey Shyam Pushkar, PW-9 C.P. 156 Shankar.

6. With a view to have explanation of accused persons over incriminating materials furnished by prosecution and the version of defence, accused persons were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein each of accused answered accusation and testimony of PW-1 Jitendra Kumar, PW-2 Smt. Sumitra Devi, PW-3 Madan Lal, PW-4 Dr. A.K. Singh, PW-5 Shyam Lal, PW-6 Nagendra Prasad Mishra Pharmacist, PW-7 Islamul Haq Khan, PW-

8 S.I. Radhey Shyam Pushkar, PW-9 C.P. 156 Shankar to be false, fictitious and fabricated, given under animosity. Evidence in defence was said to be given. Shyam Lal narrated in reply to question no. 13 "मुझे वादी पक्ष के लोगो ने मारा था इसका मुक़दमा मेरे भाई राम सजीवन ने किया है क्रॉस केस से बचने के लिए झूठा मुक़दमा किया गया" (Prosecution side had assaulted us, for which case was got lodged by my brother Ram Sajivan and with a view to save themselves from criminal liability, this false accusation was got lodged) [English translation by Court itself]. The same is reply of almost each of accused persons except assertions given by Ram Sajivan that on 12.07.2004 at about 9.30 A.M. chak road was being constructed for use by accused persons from the field of accused Sudama under his consent, which was damaged by Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiromani, Dharamraj and Madan. This was protested. Shyam Bihari, Dharamraj, Ram Shiromani and Madan give assault by lathi-danda, wherein Shyam Lal, Udairaj, Ram Ujagir, Balraji and Pintu were badly injured, for which case was got registered by this accused at Police Station Durgaganj and with a view to save themselves from criminal liability, this false case has been got lodged as counter blast of same. Convict-appellant Ram Ujagir has also said like so. The same is the version of convict-appellant Udairaj. Convict-appellant Awadhraj has pleaded his alibi that he was taken by police of Durgaganj at 8.00 A.M. on 12.07.2004 and he was restrained and confined under Section 51 read with 107/116 Cr.P.C. but falsely implicated in this occurrences. Convict-appellant Sudama Prasad, too, had taken plea of alibi that he was not present on spot on above date, time and place. Rather, he was busy in making construction of house of Pratap Dhobi, since 8 A.M. to 5 P.M., on the above date of occurrence. Girdhari also took plea of alibi that he was at Village Dhanaura regarding construction of house as labourer.

7. In defence, Jadawati Devi as DW-1 has said that Sudama was raising construction of her house on 12.07.2004 since 7 A.M. and was present thereat. DW-2 Mohd. Jumrati as DW-2, for proving presence of Girdhari Lal at his house for raising construction has been examined. Learned trial Court made trial of Sessions Trial No. 108 of 2004 along with its cross case Sessions Trial No. 98 of 2005; State of U.P. Vs. Shyam Bihari & others, arising out of N.C.R. No. 14 of 2004, under Sections 323/34, 504 I.P.C and passed impugned judgment of conviction in Sessions Trial No. 108 of 2004, wherein Shyam Lal, Bijai alias Ram Sajivan, Kallu alias Ram Ujagir, Udal alias Udairaj, Awadhraj, Girdhari and Sudama Prasad were held guilty for offence of rioting punishable under Section 147 I.P.C., culpable homicide not amounting to murder punishable under Section 304/149 I.P.C., voluntarily causing simple hurt, punishable under Section 323/149 I.P.C. They were acquitted for charges levelled for causing grievous hurt punishable under Section 325/149 I.P.C. After hearing over quantum of sentence, impugned judgment sentencing the convicts-appellants, as above, was passed, for which this appeal.

8. No appeal by State regarding acquittal under Section 325/149 I.P.C. is there.

9. In Sessions Trial No. 98 of 2005, which was a cross case version, judgment of conviction and sentence made therein for offence punishable under Sections 323/34, 504 I.P.C. was passed against Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiroman, Dharm Nath and Madan and after hearing over quantum of sentence, they have been sentenced with six months simple imprisonment and fine of Rs.500/- and in default one month additional simple imprisonment under Section 323/34 I.P.C with further imprisonment of one year simple imprisonment and fine of Rs.1000/- and in default one month additional simple imprisonment under Section 504 I.P.C. with a direction for concurrent running of sentences. The judgment of conviction and sentence made therein has been challenged by convicts-appellants Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiroman, Dharm Nath and Madan in Criminal Appeal No. 5969 of 2011, Shyam Bihari Vs. State of U.P., arising out of N.C.R. No. 14 of 2004, Police Station Durgaganj, District Sant Ravidas Nagar, Bhadohi. Above appeal has been heard and is being decided by separate judgment in it, together with this appeal.

10. Learned counsel for appellants argued that trial court failed to appreciate facts and law placed on record. Appellants were not aggressor. There was no unlawful assembly to commit murder or culpable homicide nor any such injury caused by lathi-danda was found over persons of deceased Ravindra in its inquest or autopsy examination report, because injuries found in external examination were abrasions. It was said by PW-2 wife of deceased that three persons, namely, Kallu, Bachai and Shyam Lal did assault over Ravindra, they ride over his chest and exerted pressure over his neck, resulting injuries, which caused his death owing to Asphyxia and internal injury to trachea and laceration of lungs. It was not the object of unlawful assembly because all those appellants were said to have rushed on spot, where chak road was being constructed, and it was being damaged, resulting a quarrel, wherein this occurrence took place, but trial court failed to appreciate it and sentenced each of appellants for offence of culpable homicide punishable under Section 304 I.P.C. which was not under common object of unlawful assembly. Hence, this appeal with above prayer.

11. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the aforesaid argument with this contention that trial court has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellants on the basis of statements recorded before it, wherein each of convicts-appellants, under joint mens rea, in furtherance of their common object of unlawful assembly did assault over Ravindra and other injured witnesses, wherein Ravindra succumbed to above injury and it was culpable homicide not amounting to murder, punishable under Section 304 read with 149 I.P.C., for which there was no illegality or irregularity. Other sentences were also in accordance with facts and law placed on record. This appeal is devoid of merit. Hence, the same is to be dismissed.

12. Section 149 I.P.C. provides that if an offence is committed by any member of an unlawful assembly in prosecution of the common object of that assembly, or such as the members of that assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of that object, every person who, at the time of the committing of that offence, is a member of the same assembly, is guilty of that offence i.e. there must be an unlawful assembly, commission of an offence by any member of an unlawful assembly, such offence must have been committed in prosecution of the common object of the assembly; or must be such as the members of the assembly knew to be likely to be committed. If these three elements are satisfied, then only a conviction under Section 149, I.P.C., may be substantiated, and not otherwise. None of the Sections 147, 148 and 149 applies to a person who is merely present in any unlawful assembly, unless he actively participates in the rioting or does some overt act with the necessary criminal intention or shares common object of the unlawful assembly. Use cannot be made of Section 149 for the purpose of establishing the guilt of the accused constructively except in cases falling under the Penal Code. For applicability of Section 149 there need not be a prior meeting of minds. It is enough that each has the same object in view. The elements of Section 149 are: (i) Commission of an offence by any member of an unlawful assembly; (ii) Commission of the offence in prosecution of the common object of the unlawful assembly; and (iii) the offence must be such as the members of the unlawful assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of the common object. As has been propounded by Apex Court in Dharam Pal v. State of U.P.; AIR 1994 Supreme Court 1546, that where ingredients of Section 149 are not present, it is difficult to hold the accused liable with the aid of Section 149. Sections 149 and 34 relate to vicarious or collective liability and surfacially involve some amount of resemblance and overlapping. Section 34 is restricted to common intention and does not embrace any knowledge. Under Section 149 it is the knowledge which is necessary to attract the culpability. It has been held by Supreme Court that common object of unlawful assembly is different from common intention as it can develop during course of incident at the spot coinstante. The meaning of prosecution of common object is attainment of common object and 'object' means purpose or design and in order to make it common it must be shared by all and no proof of overt act is necessary. Section 149, I.P.C. makes every member of an unlawful assembly, at the time of committing of the offence, guilty of that offence. The section creates a constructive or vicarious liability of the members of the unlawful assembly for the unlawful acts, committed pursuant to the common object, by any other member of that assembly. However, the vicarious liability of the members of the unlawful assembly extends only to the acts done in pursuance of the common object of the unlawful assembly, or to such offences as the members of the unlawful assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of that object. Once the case of a person falls within the ingredients of the section, the fact that he did nothing with his own hands, would be immaterial. He cannot put forward the defence that he did not with his own hands, commit the offence committed in prosecution of the common object of the unlawful assembly or such as the members of the assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of that object. The basis of the constructive guilt under Section 149 is mere membership of the unlawful assembly with the requisite common object or knowledge. Thus, once the Court holds that certain accused persons formed an unlawful assembly and an offence is committed by any member of that assembly in prosecution of the common object of that assembly, or such as the members of the assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of that object, every person who at the time of committing of that offence was a member of the same assembly is to be held guilty of that offence. After such a finding it would not be open to the Court to see as to who actually did the offensive act or require the prosecution to prove which of the members did which of the offensive acts. The prosecution would have no obligation to prove it. In other words it is not open to the Court to acquit members of the unlawful assembly for lack of corroboration as to their participation, as was propounded in Lalji v. State of U.P.; AIR 1989 SC 754. "In prosecution of the common object" this phrase means that the offence committed was immediately connected with the common object of the unlawful assembly, of which the accused were members. The act must be one which must have been done with a view to accomplish the common object attributed to the members of the unlawful assembly. Expression in prosecution of common object in Section 149 is to be strictly construed as equivalent to in order to attain common object. Hence, existence of common object and offence committed in pursuance of common object is to be established by prosecution. Doing some overt act is not necessary to bring home charge under Section 149. Common object of the unlawful assembly can be gathered from the nature of the assembly, arms used by them and the behaviour of the assembly at or before scene of occurrence. It is an inference to be deduced from the facts and circumstances of each case. To ascertain whether a particular person shared the common object of the unlawful assembly it is not essential to prove that he committed some illegal over act or had been guilty of some illegal omission in pursuance of the common object. Once it is demonstrated from all the facts and circumstances of a given case that he shared the common object of the unlawful assembly in furtherance of which some offence was committed or he knew it was likely to be committed by any other person, he would be guilty of that offence. Undoubtedly, commission of an overt act by such a person would be one of the tests to prove that he shared the common object, but is not the sole test, as has been propounded in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Thakkidiram Reddy and others; AIR 1998 Supreme Court 2702

13. In present case, admittedly, quarrel occurred in between both sides at a place where chak road was being constructed. Accused Shyam Lal, Bijai @ Ram Sajivan, Kallu @ Ram Ujagir, Udal @ Udairaj, Awadhraj, Sudama Prasad and Girdhari were said to be present on above spot and they were armed with lathi-danda. They assaulted injured Ravindra, as a result of which he died. The common object of giving assault to any of the injured was not said by PW-1 Jitendra Kumar in Ext.Ka-1. Rather at about 9.30 AM on 12.07.2004, there occurred quarrel at the place of construction of chak road, wherein assault by lathi-danda and pelting of brick and stone was said, resulting injuries to injured persons. This has been specifically said in cross-examination of this witness that both sides had entered into some written compromise on 16.06.2004 regarding construction of this disputed chak road. It was under mediation by the then Village Pradhan and other members of village assembly and on 11.07.2004 chak road was being constructed as per above compromise. Land of Jagannath and Sudama was adjacent to above chak road. A dilapidated house of this witness PW-1 and of accused was under sharing because both sides were residing in this house at any time. This chak road was for beneficial enjoyment of complainant / informant PW-1 Jitendra

Kumar, Sudama and accused persons. Soil was led over this chak road. A suggestive question has been put to this witness that on that date at about 7 A.M. Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiromani, Dharamraj and Madan damaged above chak road by spade, which was protested by Ram Sajivan. Matter reached up to police station. S.O., Durgaganj rushed on spot and both Shobhnath and Awadhraj were taken at Police Station, Durgaganj at about 8 A.M. Thereafter, this occurrence took place at about 9.30 A.M. The injuries of accused side was not explained by this witness though question in cross-examination were put. A question regarding cross case was also put, but this witness could not explain about it. Meaning thereby, this PW-1 has said that he was not aware about injury to other side or any cross case to present case, being tried together, but it has specifically been said by this witness at page no. 8 of statement that accused persons were assembling for entering in quarrel. They were Awadhraj, Udairaj, Shyamlal, Kallu, Bachai, Girdhari, Sudama, Madanlal, Shrinath, Shyam Bihari and ladies i.e. both sides were present and there occurred some abuse i.e. affray was caused. Some persons other then those rushed on road and pelting of stones started. It ran for five minutes. Complainant side were also present thereat and due to pelting of stones, injury was caused to Madan Lal, Sursatti Devi, Dharamraj, Photo Devi, Shrinath, Hirawati Devi, Latera Devi and Kamla Devi. Sobhnath was not injured in it. Shrinath was injured at his leg. Madan Lal was injured over his head i.e. injury to either side was admitted by this witness and this unlawful assembly was with object of quarreling over chak road. It was not with any object of giving assault or causing culpable homicide nor there was knowledge of this fact of culpable homicide of deceased Ravindra, for which PW-2, wife of deceased, has categorically said that it was Kallu, Bachai and Shyam Lal, who caused those injuries, resulting his death.

14. PW-1 informant Jitendra Kumar in his examination-in-chief has said on oath that on 12.07.2004 at about 9.30 A.M., there occurred a quarrel regarding construction of chak road, wherein Kallu Ram, Shyam Lal, Udairaj, Bachai Ram, Ram Sajivan, Awadhraj, Sudama Prasad and Girdhari Lal, armed with lathi-danda, brick and stone, did assault, resulting injuries to Madan Lal, Dhramraj, Shyam Bihari, Shrinath and Ravindra Nath. Ladies of informant's house Photo Devi, Sursatti Devi, Chhabbi Devi, Kamla Devi, Latera Devi and Durga Devi, were also beaten by lathi-danda and brick pelting by those accused persons. This occurrence resulted death of Ravindra Nath, S/o Shobh Nath, while he reached at Kabir Chaura Hospital, Varanasi and this was owing to assault made by accused persons. This occurrence was reported by written F.I.R. under handwriting and signature of this witness, which is Ext.Ka-1 on record and brick-stone were taken in possession by I.O. under witness-ship of this witness by way of preparation of recovery memo, having his signature over it and the same recovery memo is on record. It was prepared by Investigating Officer in his presence, which is Ext.Ka-2 on record. In cross-examination this witness has categorically said that he was not present at Kabir Chaura Hospital, when Ravindra died. That is why he is not aware about the time of death of Ravindra. But it was of about 11.30 A.M. As this witness was not present at Kabir Chaura Hospital, hence his testimony is on the basis of information given by Photo Devi, but this witness has categorically said that Photo Devi, Sursatti Devi, Madan Lal, Dharm Raj, Shyam Bihari, Shrinath, Durga Devi and Kamla Devi were at Kabir Chaura Hospital. Inquest of dead body was got conducted and it was examined under autopsy examination. Cross case version has been said by learned counsel for defence and same was being tried together with present Sessions trial. Hence, this occurrence at above time, date and place, wherein persons were injured and under this injury Ravindra died was undisputed fact. This occurrence, owing to construction of chak road, was also undisputed. Inquest report Ext.Ka-13 has been proved by PW-7 Islamul Haq Khan, the then Station Officer of Police Station, Suriyawan, who has said in his examination-in-chief that while being posted as Sub-Inspector of Police Station Suriyawan on 13.07.2004, Case Crime No. 162 of 2004, under Sections 147, 149, 336, 323, 304 I.P.C. of Police Station Durgaganj was investigated for filling inquest proceeding, wherein inquest proceeding of deceased Ravindra Kumar, S/o Sobhnath, R/o Gangarampur, P.S. Durgaganj was got performed and deceased was having injuries written in it. This inquest report was Ext.Ka-13 and for getting autopsy examination conducted, requisite documents Letter R.I. (Ext.Ka-14), Letter C.M.O. (Ext.Ka-15), Photo Dead Body (Ext.Ka-16), Police Form-13 (Ext.Ka-17) were got prepared under handwriting and signature of this witness and the same are on record. This dead body under intact sealed position along with those documents were sent for autopsy examination. Regarding it, there is no material contradictions, exaggeration or embellishment in examination in cross. Although, this has further been corroborated by testimony of Dr. A.K. Singh PW-4 that while being posted as Medical Officer Maharana Balwant Singh Hospital, on 13.07.2004 he was deputed on postmortem examination duty, where dead body of Ravindra Kumar, under wrap of cloth, fully intact, sealed along with specimen seal, was brought and after comparing seal it was got identified by Constable Balendra Yadav and Chhotey Lal of Police Station Durgaganj. Autopsy examination of dead body was got conducted. The deceased Ravindra was of average body built, of 30 years age, having rigor mortise present over limbs, eyes were closed, frost and mucus with blood was oozing from nostrils and he was having following injuries:-

1. Bloody frost oozing from nostrils and mouth opening.

2. Multiple abrasions 5cmx1.5cm over left side of neck towards lower side just at right clavicle bone.

3. Abrasion 2cmx1cm right side of neck towards lower side chest above right clavicle.

4. Abrasion 1cmx1cm over left mastoid region.

6. Abrasion 1cmx1cm right side over back, 5cm below right scapula.

Under internal examination, brain and its membrane was congested. Left lung and its membrane was congested and lacerated. Trachea was lacerated and there was blood in the upper muscles of neck. Left lung was congested and lacerated. Blood was present in the cavity. Right chamber of heart was with blood. Left was empty. Teeth were 16/16. Stomach was empty. Digestive material with gases were in small intestine. Faecal matter with gases was in the large intestine. Urinary bladder was empty. Death was one day old and due to Asphyxia and shock, owing to throttling. Autopsy examination report (Ext.Ka-3) was prepared under handwriting and signature of this witness. Regarding, this autopsy examination, internal and external situation of deceased body and cause of death, as above, there is no contradiction, exaggeration or embellishment.

15. PW-6 Nagendra Prasad Mishra, Chief Pharmacist, is the secondary evidence, examined for proving medico legal report of injured Madan Lal, Shivrati, Smt. Balraji, Smt. Sumitra Devi, Shrinath, Smt. Photo Devi, Kamla Devi and Smt. Chhabbi Devi, who were examined at Government Hospital. These medico legal examination reports were entered in Medico Legal Register from page no. 8 to 15, wherein original medico legal reports are there and those, filed on record, were copy of same medico legal reports, which were compared and proved to be copy of same. This was exhibited as Ext.Ka-5 to Ext.Ka-12.

17. The statements of accused recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. and stand of defence during trial was that on 12.07.2004 at 9.30 A.M. there occurred a quarrel in between both sides, wherein cross cases were got registered and there was use of lathi-danda with pelting of brick-stone, resulting injury to both sides. Sessions Trial No. 98 of 2005; State vs. Shyam Bihari & Ors. is also under trial before this Court with this sessions trial. Informant Ram Sajivan has lodged case for this occurrence against Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiroman, Dharm Nath and Madan at Police Station Durgaganj, District Sant Ravidas Nagar, Bhadohi. Meaning thereby, this occurrence was not a disputed one and injury on both sides were undisputed. The medico legal reports of injured, who have been examined in this trial is on record.

18. PW-2 Sumitra Devi has said that occurrence took place on 12.07.2004 at about 9.30 A.M. when Bachai, Shyam Lal, Awadhraj, Udal, Kallu, Girdhari and Sudama, armed with lathi-danda, came at the door of this witness. This quarrel was regarding chak road. This was protested by Shrinath and he was beaten by them. This witness along with her husband Ravindra Kumar (deceased), her father-in-law Shobhnath tried to intervene and save Shrinath. Then, Kallu, Bachai, Shyam Lal with others did assault over these three wherein Ravindra was badly beaten by Kallu, Bachai and Shyam Lal. Upon exhortation made by Shyam Lal, Kallu, Bachai and Shyamlal gave lathi blow to Ravindra Nath and thereupon they pressed his chest and neck. Thereafter, this witness, her father-in-law Shobhnath and her sister-in-law tried to save Ravindra, wherein Bachai assaulted this witness and Udal, Girdhari and Sudama assaulted her sister-in-law. Ravindra Nath, Shobhnath, this witness, her sister-in-law, Latera Devi, Chhabbi Devi, Photo Devi and Ram Shiromani were also injured. Madan Lal and Dharm Raj too were injured. All injured were examined at Government Hospital, Suriyawan. Her husband was taken at Gyanpur, from where he was referred to Government Hospital, Kabir Chaura, Varanasi, but he died just after reaching at above Hospital and this death was owing to above injuries. Meaning thereby, injuries to accused persons Madan Lal and Dharm Raj too are undisputed fact and this injury was not free fight assault. Rather a quarrel occurred when abuse was made. This was protested by Shrinath. He was assaulted, wherein interception was made by Ravindra, his wife Sumitra Devi and his father Shobhnath. Then they were assaulted. Specific role of giving assault over Ravindra was assigned against Kallu, Bachai and Shyamlal, who gave assault over Ravindra upon exhortation of Shyam Lal by riding over his chest and pressing his neck. Thereafter, Shobhnath and this witness tried to save Ravindra. Then they were assaulted. Hence, this culpable homicide was not under furtherance of common object of unlawful assembly, but this was subsequent development in which upon exhortation made by Shyam Lal, Kallu, Bachai and Shyam Lal did above assault over chest and neck of Ravindra, resulting injuries, which resulted his death. Deceased Ravindra was given assault by lathi-danda, but no fracture of any bone was there. Rather laceration of lung resulting presence of blood in cavity and fracture of trachea resulting blood in respiratory tract was there. It was owing to pressing over chest by riding over it. The accused persons were armed with lathi-danda stone and brick, but they had not given any bony fracture injury over deceased Ravindra, rather above injury, which resulted his death, was owing to laceration of lungs etc. for which specific allegation of this eyewitness is against Kallu, Bachai and Shyam Lal, who were members of unlawful assembly. But, the object of committing death or causing multiple abrasions on Ravindra could not be gathered from above sequence of occurrence, rather it was informed as overt act of above Kallu, Bachai and Shyam Lal, resulting death of deceased Ravindra. Hence, trial court failed to appreciate these facts and evidence placed on record and convicted each of convict-appellant for offence punishable under Sections 304/149 I.P.C. Rather, it was a proved case for offence punishable under Section 304 I.P.C. against Kallu, Bachai and Shyam Lal only. For rest, this finding is not proved against beyond doubt.

19. This witness has said that accused persons did pelting of brick and stones. Ladies of family of accused also did stone pelting. Prior to this quarrel, this stoning was made. It was 2-4 pelting and it was at the house of this witness, but who did this pelting could not be said by this witness nor she could recognize those ladies, who did this pelting. Meaning thereby, both sides did quarrel. Pelting of stones was made, which resulted injury to complainant side, hence offence punishable under Section 323/149 and 147 I.P.C. was proved, but it was not the common object of unlawful assembly that culpable homicide of Ravindra was to be committed nor unlawful assembly did this offence in pursuance of that common object nor they were aware of this fact. Neither it was intended nor any fracture by lathi-danda was caused nor death was owing to above injury made by lathi-danda, rather it was injury caused by sequence written, as above. Hence, this offence punishable under Section 304/149 I.P.C. was not object of above unlawful assembly and accused other then Kallu, Bachai and Shyam Lal may not be held constructively liable for those offence. Rather, it was an act of Kallu Bachai and Shyam Lal only.

20. PW-5 Shyam Lal, who is formal witness, was erstwhile Investigating Officer of Case Crime No. 162 of 2004, under Sections 147, 149, 336, 323, 304 I.P.C. and he visited spot and prepared spot map upon pointing of informant Jitendra Kumar, which is in handwriting and signature of this witness, proved and exhibited as Ext.Ka-4 on record. He took brick and stones in his possession by way of preparation of recovery memo Ext.Ka-2 under his handwriting and signature. In cross-examination, this witness has said that till his visit on spot he was not aware about cross case version nor about injuries sustained by accused side and in the course of investigation he could not be aware as to whether dilapidated house shown in the site map was of accused side or of complainant side or of both. He has formally proved investigation made by him, for which there is no material contradiction.

21. PW-9 is Sub Inspector Radhey Shyam Pushkar, Investigating Officer, who has said that in his investigation of Case Crime No. 162 of 2004, under Sections 147, 149, 336, 323, 304 I.P.C., P.S. Durgaganj, he got the statement of injured witnesses recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Their medico legal report entered in case diary. The inquest proceeding were copied in case diary. Medical Officer statement was recorded in case diary. Remand for accused persons were taken. Then, witnesses were examined. Thereafter, charge sheet under his handwriting and signature Ext.Ka-18 was submitted before Court, which is on record. In cross examination he has said this case crime number was registered in his absence and investigation was deputed to this witness on 16.07.2004. Prior to it, he is not aware of facts. Formal investigation has been proved by this Court witness.

22. Hence, on the basis of overall appreciation of above evidence, it is proved that accused persons Shyam Lal, Bijai alias Ram Sajivan, Kallu alias Ram Ujagir, Udal alias Udairaj, Awadhraj, Girdhari and Sudama Prasad rushed at the place of occurrence, which was being constructed, where they entered in a quarrel with complainant side, followed by assault under furtherance of common object of above unlawful assembly.

23. Plea of alibi, proved by DW-1 Jadawati Devi and DW-2 Mohd. Jumrati were regarding engagement of accused in job of raising construction, but both the places were in close vicinity and it cannot be ruled out that their presence on above spot at that time may not be possible. Even, there is inconsistency in the statement of these witnesses from their examination-in-chief in cross.

24. Hence, offence punishable under Sections 147 and 323/149 I.P.C. were proved against them, for which learned Sessions Judge has sentenced after hearing over quantum of sentence and sentence is commensurate to offence committed by them. For this part, this appeal merits its dismissal.

25. Regarding conviction and sentence for offence punishable under Section 304/149 I.P.C., the conviction and sentence for appellants Shyam Lal, Bijai @ Ram Sajivan and Kallu @ Ram Ujagir was based on facts and evidence on record. Hence for them, this appeal merits its dismissal. For rest of convicts-appellants Udal @ Udairaj, Awadhraj, Girdhari and Sudama Prasad, constructive liability for offence punishable under Section 304/149 I.P.C is not proved beyond reasonable doubt. Hence, there appeal for this piece of offence is liable to be allowed. Accordingly, conviction and sentence for this section against convict appellants Udal @ Udairaj, Awadhraj, Girdhari and Sudama Prasad is to be set aside.

26. Accordingly, this appeal is partly allowed. Impugned judgment of conviction dated 17.09.2011, for offence punishable under Sections 147, 323/149 I.P.C. against each of convicts-appellants is confirmed and appeal for it is being dismissed.

27. Appeal of Shyam Lal, Bijai @ Ram Sajivan and Kallu @ Ram Ujagir is being dismissed in toto. The conviction and sentence awarded against them is being confirmed.

28. The appeal of convicts-appellants Udal @ Udairaj, Awadhraj, Girdhari and Sudama Prasad for conviction and sentence for offence punishable under Sections 304/149 is being allowed on the basis of benefit if doubt. Their conviction is being set aside and they are acquitted for this offences.

29. Keeping in view the provisions of section 437-A Cr.P.C. convicts-appellants Udal @ Udairaj, Awadhraj, Girdhari and Sudama Prasad are directed to forthwith furnish a personal bond and two reliable sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of trial Court before it, which shall be effective for a period of six months or till order of appeal in appellate court, if any, regarding acquittal for offence punishable under Section 304/149 I.P.C..

30. Let a copy of this judgment along with lower court's record be sent back to the court concerned for amendment of warrant of conviction and sentence as per above conviction and sentence and for immediate compliance.

31. The convicts-appellants Shyam Lal, Bijai alias Ram Sajivan, Kallu alias Ram Ujagir, Udal alias Udairaj, Awadhraj, Girdhari and Sudama Prasad are on bail. Their sureties are discharged. They shall surrender before the trial court within fifteen days from the date of judgment, where they shall be sent for jail for suffering sentences awarded to them.

List of cases cited: -

1. L. Chandra Kumar Vs. Union of India, AIR 1997 SC 1125

2. Devinder Singh and others vs. State of Punjab through CBI (2016) 12 SCC 87

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal,J.)

1. Heard Sri Bhvya Sahai, Advocate, holding brief of Sri Brijesh Sahai, learned counsel for revisionist, learned A.G.A. for State of U.P. and perused the record.

2. This criminal revision under Section 401 read with Section 397 Cr.P.C. has been filed aggrieved by judgment and order dated 03.12.1987 passed by Sri Y.K.Singhal, Vth Additional District and Sessions Judge, Saharanpur, in Criminal Appeal No.51 of 1985 whereby appeal was dismissed and judgment and order dated 07.02.1985 passed by Sri Vishram Singh, Magistrate Nakur, Saharanpur in Case No.502 of 1982 by which Revisionist was convicted under Sections 466 and 471 IPC and sentenced to undergo one year simple imprisonment and fine of Rs.100 under Section 466 IPC, and, six months' simple imprisonment and fine of Rs.50/- under Section 471 IPC, has been confirmed. Both the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

3. Learned counsel for Revisionist contended that, if a document of a Court is allegedly forged, no cognizance can be taken under Section 466 IPC unless complaint is made by Court itself, which has not been done in the present case. Therefore, entire proceedings are illegal. He further submitted that Revisionist was a 'Peon' in Election Tribunal, who was deputed duty of serving summons and this was a part of an 'official duty' to be discharged by him, thus, without sanction under Section 195 or 197 Cr.P.C., cognizance could not have been taken. Since in the present case, no such sanction was obtained, therefore, entire proceedings are illegal.

4. Learned A.G.A. submitted that Section 466 IPC is applicable where a document is forged, and purported to have been made by a 'public servant' in official capacity and therefore, it is rightly applied. Further Section 195 Cr.P.C. has no application since 'Election Tribunal' is not a 'Court' in terms of Section 195(3) Cr.P.C. Section 197 is also inapplicable since Revisionist is not a person who is to be removed with the sanction of State or Central Government.

5. I have examined the submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties and perused the record.

6. Sections 466 and 471 IPC, as applicable at the relevant time, reads as under :

"466. Forgery of record of Court or of public register, etc.-Whoever forges a document*, purporting* to be a record or proceeding of or in a Court of Justice, or a register of birth, baptism, marriage or burial, or a register kept by a public servant as such, or a certificate or document purporting to be made by a public servant in his official capacity, or an authority to institute or defend a suit, or to take any proceedings therein, or to confess judgment*, or a* power of attorney*, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine."*

"471. Using as genuine a forged document.-Whoever fraudulently or dishonestly uses as genuine any document which he knows or has reason to believe to be a forged document, shall be punished in the same manner as if he had forged such document."

7. On perusal of above provisions, I find that in order to attract Section 466 IPC, following ingredients have to be shown :

(i) The document is question was a forged document.

(ii) It was forged by Accused;

(iii) Such document is purported to be :

(a) A record of the proceeding of Court of Justice;

(b) A Register of Birth, baptism, marriage or burial.

(c) A Register kept by public servant.

(d) A certificate or document purporting to be made by a public servant in his official capacity.

(e) An authority to institute or defend a suit or take any proceeding therein or to confess judgment, or

(f) A power of attorney.

8. The term 'Forgery' has been defined in Section 463 IPC and what would constitute 'making a false document' has been defined in Section 464 IPC. Sections 463 and 464 IPC, as applicable at the relevant time, read as under :-

"463. Forgery.-Whoever makes any false document or part of a document with intent to cause damage or injury, to the public or to any person, or to support any claim or title, or to cause any person to part with property, or to enter into any express or implied contract, or with intent to commit fraud or that fraud may be committed, commits forgery."

"464. Making a false document.-A person is said to make a false document-

First-Who dishonestly or fraudulently makes, signs, seals or executes a document or part of a document, or makes any mark denoting the execution of a document, with the intention of causing it to be believed that such document or part of document was made, signed, sealed or executed by or by the authority of a person by whom or by whose authority he knows that it was not made, signed, sealed or executed, or at a time at which he knows that it was not made, signed, sealed or executed; or

Secondly.--Who, without lawful authority, dishonestly or fraudulently, by cancellation or otherwise, alters a document in any material part thereof, after it has been made or executed either by himself or by any other person, whether such person be living or dead at the time of such alteration; or

Thirdly--Who dishonestly or fraudulently causes any person to sign, seal, execute or alter a document, knowing that such person by reason of unsoundness of mind or intoxication cannot, or that by reason of deception practised upon him, he does not know the contents of the document or the nature of the alteration."

9. In the present case, record shows that an Election Petition No.53 of 1982 was instituted by Randu against Jeevad and others before Election Tribunal/Presiding Officer under U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1947"). Summons were issued. Neki Ram, Revisionist who was Peon in the office of Prescribed Authority/Election Tribunal was deputed duty of serving summons upon defendants/respondents in the aforesaid Election Petition.

10. As per Section 12-C of Act, 1947 read with Rule 24 of U.P. Panchayat Raj Rules, 1947 "hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1947"), Sub-Division Officer is Prescribed Authority before whom election petition can be presented and he constitute Election Tribunal. Appointment of a Class IV employee in the office of Sub-Divisional Officer is governed by recruitment, appointment and condition of service of Class IV employees i.e. Group 'D' Employees Service Rules, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1985"), which is a Rules framed under Proviso to Article 309 of Constitution of India. Appointing Authority of a Class IV employee in district level offices and offices subordinate thereto is a District Level Officer.

11. It was alleged that Randu, accused, in collusion with other co-accused got an endorsement made by Revisionist on the summons that copy of summons alongwith Election Petition (plaint) has been served upon Jeevad. Actual endorsement made, reads as under :

''श्रीमान जी एक किता समन मय अर्जी दावे के जीवण को दे दिया गया''

"Sir, one summon alongwith plaint was handed over to Jeevad."

(English Translation by Court)

12. Jeevad was illiterate. His signatures were forged on the summons. The said summons was submitted in Election Tribunal. For this forgery, Revisionist and others were tried in Case No.502 of 2002 under Sections 466, 471, 120B IPC. Trial Court found that Revisionist has made forgery in respect of service of summons upon Jeevad and aforesaid forged document was submitted in Election Tribunal for further proceedings of Election Petition. Court, therefore, found that it was a 'forged' document purported to be made by a 'public servant' in official capacity. Aforesaid document amounts to a forged certificate of service, hence Section 466 IPC is attracted. It cannot be said that Section 466 IPC is applicable only to a document of a Court or document or proceeding of a Court but it includes within its ambit the documents or certificate purporting to be made by a 'public servant' in his official capacity. This otherwise submission advanced by Sri Sahai is rejected.

13. Now I come to argument relating to sanction. In order to attract Section 195 Cr.P.C., it has to be seen whether 'Election Tribunal' can be said to be 'Court' or not. Sub-section (3) of Section 195 Cr.P.C. clearly excludes 'Election Tribunal' from being treated as a 'Court'. Section 195(3) Cr.P.C. reads as under :-

"In Clause (b) of sub-section (1), the term "Court" means a Civil, Revenue or Criminal Court, and includes a tribunal constituted by or under a Central, Provincial or State Act if declared by that Act to be a Court for the purposes of this section." (emphasis added)

14. Section 195 Cr.P.C. will be attracted only when an Election Tribunal can be said to be a 'Court' within the meaning of Section 195(3). It could not be disputed by learned counsel for Revisionist that 'Election Tribunal' is not a Civil, Revenue or Criminal Court. He, however, submitted that it include 'Tribunal' within its ambit. But I find that Tribunals, included within term 'Court' defined under Section 195(3) Cr.P.C., are of restricted nature namely such 'Tribunal' must have been constituted by or under a Central, Provincial or State Act and declared by such Act to be a 'Court' for the purpose of Section 195 Cr.P.C.

15. It is not shown that Prescribed Authority/'Election Tribunal' has been so declared under the provisions of Act, 1947 to constitute a 'Court' for the purpose of Section 195 Cr.P.C. Distinction between 'Court' and 'Tribunal' has been considered by a seven Judges judgment in L. Chandra Kumar Vs. Union of India, AIR 1997 SC 1125.

16. In common parlance, it cannot be doubted that 'Election Tribunal' is a Tribunal constituted by a Provincial Act i.e. Act, 1947 but in absence of any declaration made by said Act to treat 'Election Tribunal' as a Court, in my view, Section 195 Cr.P.C. is not attracted.

17. Thus argument advanced with reference to Section 195 Cr.P.C. i.e. first issue is answered against revisionist.

18. Now coming to issue of want of sanction under Section 197 (1) Cr.P.C., here also I find that it has no application in the case in hand. Section 197 Cr.P.C. reads as under :

"197. Prosecution of Judges and public servants.

(1) When any person who is or was a Judge or Magistrate or a public servant not removable from his office save by or with the sanction of the Government is accused of any offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, no Court shall take cognizance of such offence except with the previous sanction-

(a) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of the Union, of the Central Government;

(b) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of a State, of the State Government:

Provided that where the alleged offence was committed by a person referred to in clause (b) during the period while a Proclamation issued under clause (1) of article 356 of the Constitution was in force in a State, clause (b) will apply as if for the expression "State Government" occurring therein, the expression" Central Government" were substituted.

(2) No Court shall take cognizance of any offence alleged to have been committed by any member of the Armed Forces of the Union while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government.

(3) The State Government may, by notification, direct that the provisions of sub- section (2) shall apply to such class or category of the members of the Forces charged with the maintenance of public order as may be specified therein, wherever they may be serving, and thereupon the provisions of that sub-section will apply as if for the expression "Central Government" occurring therein, the expression "State Government" were substituted.

(3-B) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Code or any other law, it is hereby declared that any sanction accorded by the State Government or any cognizance taken by a Court upon such sanction, during the period commencing on the 20th day of August, 1991 and ending with the date immediately preceding the date on which the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1991, receives the assent of the President, with respect to an offence alleged to have been committed during the period while a Proclamation issued under clause (1) of article 356 of the Constitution was in force in the State, shall be invalid and it shall be competent for the Central Government in such matter to accord sanction and for the Court to take cognizance thereon.

(4) The Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be, may determine the person by whom, the manner in which, and the offence or offences for which, the prosecution of such Judge, Magistrate or public servant is to be conducted, and may specify the Court before which the trial is to be held."

19. It is admitted that Sub-Section (2) has no application herein. Thus, I confined my scrutiny to Section 197(1) only. Essential conditions to be satisfied for attracting Section 197(1) Cr.P.C, are -

(i) Offence mentioned therein is committed by public servant, Judge or Magistrate;

(ii) The public servant employed in connection with the affairs of the Union or a State is not removable from his office save by or with the sanction of the Central Government or the State Government as the case may be.

(iii) The protection is available only when the alleged act done by the public servant is reasonably connected with the discharge of his official duty and is not merely a cloak for doing the objectionable act.

(iv) If in doing his official duty, he acted in excess of his duty, but there is reasonable connection between the act and the performance of the official duty, the excess will not be sufficient ground to deprive the public servant of protection.

(v) The question is not as to the nature of the offence such as whether the alleged offence contained an element necessarily dependent upon the offender being a public servant, but whether it was committed by a public servant acting or purporting to act as such in discharge of his official capacity.

(vi) It must be shown that the official concerned was accused of an offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty. The act must fall within the scope and range of the official duties of the public servant concerned. It is the quality of the act which is important and the protection of this section is available if the act falls within the scope and range of his official duty.

(vii) The act can be performed in discharge of his official duty as well as in dereliction thereof.

20. Thus, the first condition to apply while attracting Section 197 Cr.P.C. is that not only person concerned must be a 'public servant' but also he should be such a public servant who can be removed only with sanction of Central Government or State Government and not otherwise.

21. In the present case, Revisionist is a Class IV employee. It could not be shown by learned counsel for Revisionist that Class IV employee in State Government service is liable to be removed only with the sanction of State Government. On the contrary, I find that statutory rules have been framed in respect of Class IV employees working in various departments and district level. Authority competent to appoint and remove Class IV employees in Districts are District Level Officers.

22. Therefore, the very first condition that in order to attract Section 197(1), public servant must be such whose removal is possible only with sanction of State Government is not attracted. Revisionist does not come within the category of aforesaid 'public servant'. Hence, Section 197(1) Cr.P.C. is not attracted at all.

23. In order to attract provision relating to sanction, Supreme Court has considered the matter at length in Devinder Singh and others vs. State of Punjab through CBI (2016) 12 SCC 87 and has culled out certain principles as under :

"I. Protection of sanction is an assurance to an honest and sincere officer to perform his duty honestly and to the best of his ability to further public duty. However, authority cannot be camouflaged to commit crime.

II. Once act or omission has been found to have been committed by public servant in discharging his duty it must be given liberal and wide construction so far its official nature is concerned. Public servant is not entitled to indulge in criminal activities. To that extent Section 197 Code of Criminal Procedure has to be construed narrowly and in a restricted manner.

III. Even in facts of a case when public servant has exceeded in his duty, if there is reasonable connection it will not deprive him of protection Under Section 197 Code of Criminal Procedure There cannot be a universal Rule to determine whether there is reasonable nexus between the act done and official duty nor it is possible to lay down such rule.

IV. In case the assault made is intrinsically connected with or related to performance of official duties sanction would be necessary Under Section 197 Code of Criminal Procedure, but such relation to duty should not be pretended or fanciful claim. The offence must be directly and reasonably connected with official duty to require sanction. It is no part of official duty to commit offence. In case offence was incomplete without proving, the official act, ordinarily the provisions of Section 197 Code of Criminal Procedure would apply.

V. In case sanction is necessary it has to be decided by competent authority and sanction has to be issued on the basis of sound objective assessment. The court is not to be a sanctioning authority.

VI. Ordinarily, question of sanction should be dealt with at the stage of taking cognizance, but if the cognizance is taken erroneously and the same comes to the notice of Court at a later stage, finding to that effect is permissible and such a plea can be taken first time before appellate Court. It may arise at inception itself. There is no requirement that accused must wait till charges are framed.

VII. Question of sanction can be raised at the time of framing of charge and it can be decided prima facie on the basis of accusation. It is open to decide it afresh in light of evidence adduced after conclusion of trial or at other appropriate stage.

VIII. Question of sanction may arise at any stage of proceedings. On a police or judicial inquiry or in course of evidence during trial. Whether sanction is necessary or not may have to be determined from stage to stage and material brought on record depending upon facts of each case. Question of sanction can be considered at any stage of the proceedings. Necessity for sanction may reveal itself in the course of the progress of the case and it would be open to accused to place material during the course of trial for showing what his duty was. Accused has the right to lead evidence in support of his case on merits.

IX. In some case it may not be possible to decide the question effectively and finally without giving opportunity to the defence to adduce evidence. Question of good faith or bad faith may be decided on conclusion of trial. "

24. Applying above principles, when I examined the facts of this case, it cannot be doubted that official duty of Revisionist was to serve summon upon parties to whom summons were issued. It was not at all his duty to make a false endorsement on the document regarding service and also forged signature of addressee. The nature of allegation and charge found proved against revisionist does not come within the official duty of Revisionist and in this regard, I find no manner of doubt that Section 197 is not attracted. Therefore, in respect of issue no.2 also I find no force in the submission.

25. However, whether, as a matter of fact, act of accused-Revisionist can be said to be in discharge of official duties or not require evidence. Therefore, I am not expressing any final opinion on this aspect. Even otherwise, this aspect has a little relevance in the present case for the reason that accused-revisionist having not satisfied the category of 'public servant' on which Section 197(1) Cr.P.C. is applicable therefore, requirement of sanction in the case of accused-Revisionist is an imaginary issue. I, therefore, reject the submission advanced otherwise and answer issue-2 against Revisionist.

26. No other argument has been advanced.

27. Dismissed.

28. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

3.Surinder SinghDeswal @ Col. S. S. Deswal Vs Virender Gandhi AIR 2019 SC 2956

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suresh Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. This revision has been filed against the impugned judgment and order dated 23.10.2019 passed by District and Sessions Judge, Hapur, in Criminal Appeal No. 98 of 2019 and impugned judgment and order passed by C.J.M./A.C.J.M., Hapur dated 23.9.2019 and order dated 25.9.2019 sentencing the accused appellant in case no. 34 of 2019 previously entered complaint no. 8496/2015 under Section 138 N.I. Act, P.S.-Hapur Kotwali, District- Hapur whereby the learned court below convicted and sentenced 1 years simple imprisonment for the offence under Section 138 N.I. Act and fine of Rs. 1 crore 20 lacs.

2. Heard Sri Mangla Prasad Rai, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Vikas Srivastava, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Saumitra Dwivedi, learned counsel for the opposite party and the learned A.G.A. for the State.

3. Brief facts of the case are that the proceedings under Section 138 of the N.I. Act were initiated against the revisionist with the allegation that two cheque no. 789636 and cheque no. 789637 dated 20.7.2014 for a sum of Rs. 50-50 lacs each was issued by the revisionist, which has been bounced. Respondent no. 1 filed complaint case before the A.C.J.M, under Section 138 N.I. Act. The proceeding of complaint case has ultimately resulted in order of conviction awarding of one year simple imprisonment together with imposition of fine of Rs. 1crores 20 lacs. The amount of fine to be appropriated by paying Rs. 1crore 15 lacs to the complainant (respondent no. 1) and balance of Rs. 5 lacs to be deposited to the State.

4. Aggrieved by this judgment dated 25.9.2019 the revisionist has preferred an appeal before Sessions Court. This appeal has been admitted on 23.10.2019 and the revisionist has been enlarged on bail under Section 389 Cr.P.C. Further order has been passed upon the application filed by the revisionist to stay the conviction order/sentence awarded by learned Magistrate meanwhile respondent no. 1 also filed the application under Section 148 of the N.I. Act with prayer that whole fine should not be stayed as mandate given in Section 148 of the N.I. Act. After hearing Sessions Court passed the order to furnish 30% of the fine awarded by the trial court deposited within 30 days.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionist filed revision on two grounds the first ground is to set aside the judgment and order dated 23.9.2018 passed by ACJM, Hapur and second prayer is to set aside the order dated 23.10.2018 passed by Sessions Court.

6. So far as regards first prayer upon which the revisionist has challenged the order dated 25.9.2019 by filing revision with submission that the judgment under revision is manifestly erroneous, not sustainable in law and learned trial court failed to appreciate the evidence adduced by the complainant (respondent). It is further submitted that learned trial court has passed its judgment without any relevant and cogent reason. It has further been submitted that execution of the cheque has not been proved. He further prayed to allow the revision and set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 25.9.2019 passed by ACJM, Hapur. On perusal of the record it appears that revisionist has already availed the statutory remedy before Sessions Court under Section 374 (3) Cr.P.C. by way of filing an appeal and thus the revisionist have full opportunity to review or re-appreciate the evidence as adduced in trial court. The appeal is a continuation of the proceeding only such proceeding where parties were same and they are adversely affected by the judgment, then they may file appeal. As stated above as the revisionist has already availed opportunity of appeal before Sessions Court and appeal is admitted on 23.10.2019 before Sessions Court and presently appeal is pending before Sessions Court and every aspects of the case shall be tested during appeal. So by way of revision the revisionist cannot avail the parallel remedy. The revisionist cannot challenge the legality or impropriety of the order passed by the trial court and therefore, no remedy can be granted to the revisionist so far as regards to the first prayer for setting aside the judgment and order dated 25.9.2019 passed by the trial court..

7. So far as regard the second prayer by way of revision is concerned, revisionist filed an application under Section 389 of the Cr. P.C. for suspension of sentence and releasing him on bail, during pendency of appeal. Meanwhile, the respondent (complainant) also filed the application before Sessions Court with prayer to comply the provision as envisaged in Section 148 (i) of the N.I. Act. By considering the provisions of amended Section 148 of the N.I. Act, which has been amended by Amendment Act No. 20/2018, which came into force w.e.f. 1.9.2018, the appellate Court, while suspending the conviction and sentence under Section 389 of the Cr.P.C. Learned appellate court directed that the execution and suspension of conviction of appellant (revisionist) subject to deposit of 30% of the amount of compensation/fine awarded by the learned trial Court.

8. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the revisionist vehemently submitted that in the present case as the criminal proceedings were initiated and the complaints were filed against the accused for the offence under Section 138 of the N.I. Act, prior to the amendment Act came into force, Section 148 of the N.I.Act, as amended shall not be applicable. It is further submitted by the learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the revisionist that the legal proceedings, whether civil or criminal, are to be decided on the basis of the law applicable on the date of the filing of the suit or alleged commission of offence by the trial Court or the appellate Court, unless the law is amended expressly with retrospective effect, subject to the provisions of Article 20 (1) of the Constitution of India.

9. It is further submitted by the learned counsel for the revisionist that as per Section 357 (2) of the Cr.P.C., no such fine is payable till the decision of the appeal. It is submitted that therefore also the first appellate Court ought not to have passed any order directing the appellants to deposit 30% of the amount of fine/compensation, pending appeal. In support of his above submission, learned Counsel has heavily relied upon the decision of this Court in the case of Vipin Kumar Vs. State of U.P. AIRONLINE 2018 ALL 4035 in which this Court held the right of appeal is statutory right available to accused and that deposit of such amount cannot be made a condition precedent for admission of appeal. It has also been held that ends of justice would be met if part of the order which directs furnishing of bank guarantee to the extent of 25% is modified and substituted with a direction to furnish personal bond and security in the form of surety of like amount to the extent of 25% of the amount..

10. Learned counsel for the revisionist also submitted that once the appeal is admitted under the provisions contained under Section 357 (2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, there shall be an automatic stay of the condition to deposit fine and that the conditions imposed by the appellate court in that regard is without jurisdiction.

11. Learned counsel for the revisionist placed reliance upon a decision of Hon'ble Apex Court in that Dilip S. Dhanukar v. Kotak Mahindra Bank, reported in (2007) 6 SCC 528. Honble Apex Court interpreted the provisions of Section 357 (2) Cr.P.C., which has bee quoted below:-

"73. i) In a case of this nature, Sub-Section (2) of Section 357 of the Code of Criminal Procedure would be attracted even when Appellant was directed to pay compensation;

ii) The Appellate Court, however, while suspending the sentence, was entitled to put the appellant on terms. However, no such term could be put as a condition precedent for entertaining the appeal which is a constitutional and statutory right;

iii) The amount of compensation must be a reasonable sum;

iv) The Court, while fixing such amount, must have regard to all relevant factors including the one referred to in Sub-Section (5) of 357 of the Code of Criminal Procedure;

v) No unreasonable amount of compensation can be directed to be paid.

12. The Hon'ble Apex Court has clarified that right of appeal is statutory right available to accused and that deposit of such amount cannot be made a condition precedent for admission of appeal. The Court has further clarified that appellate court shall be at liberty to put the appellant to terms which has to be reasonable and fair. The appellate court therefore while admitting the appeal and staying sentence has jurisdiction to put the apellant to terms which are reasonable and fair.

13. On account of the above submission and relying upon the aforesaid decision learned counsel for the revisionist prayed to allow the present revision and further prayed to quash and set aside the impugned order passed by the appellate court by which the revisionists have been directed to deposit 30% of the amount of the compensation/fine considering the provisions of Section 148 N.I. Act as amended.

14. Learned counsel for the respondent submitted that contention of the learned counsel for the revisionist has no substance. It is submitted that first of all amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act is procedural in nature and therefore there is no question of applying the same retrospectively. It is further submitted that as such no vested right of the appeal of the appellants has been taken away or affected by amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act. It is submitted that in the present case, admittedly, the appeals were preferred after the amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act came into force and therefore Section 148 of the N.I. Act, as amended, is rightly invoked/applied by the learned first appellate Court. It is submitted that therefore the amendment so brought in the Act by insertion of Section 148 of the N.I. Act is purely procedural in nature and not substantive and does not affect the vested rights of the appellants, as such, the same can have a retrospective effect and can be applied in the present case also. It is vehemently contended that after amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act the provisions of Section 357 (2) Cr.P.C. shall not be applicable.

15. Before arriving at any conclusion, I want to discuss the object behind the amendment made in Section 148 of the N.I. Act. With the objective of reducing delay in proceedings pertaining to dishonour of cheques and to provide interim relief to the payee in such cases, the Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Bill of 2017 was tabled before the Lok Sabha. The Central Government has been receiving several representations from the public, including the trading community, relating to the pendency of cheque bounce cases. The same may be imputed to the delay tactics adopted by unscrupulous drawers of dishonoured cheques on account of the ease of filing of appeals and obtaining stay on proceedings. As a result of this, injustice is caused to the payee of a dishonoured cheque who has to spend considerable time and resources in court proceedings to realise the value of the cheque. Such delays compromise the sanctity of cheque transactions.

16. As per the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Bill of 2017, the Negotiable Instruments Act of 1881 is proposed to be amended with a view to address the issue of undue delay in final resolution of cheque dishonour cases so as to provide relief to payees of dishonoured cheques and to discourage frivolous and unnecessary litigation which would save time and money". Further, it is expected that "the proposed amendments will strengthen the credibility of cheques and help trade and commerce in general by allowing lending institutions, including banks, to continue to extend financing to the productive sectors of the economy.

17. In the wake of current scenario, The Negotiable Instruments (Amendment) Act, 2018 passed by both the Houses (Lok Sabha on July 23, 2018; Rajya Sabha on July 26, 2018; and notified on August 02, 2018) has come as a breather for the aggrieved Drawees. Non-payment because of cheque dishonor contribute majorly towards business inconsistencies leading not only to an cash flow, but also chain of inconveniences/incalculable losses forced upon them involuntarily.

18. Further, delayed justice owing to lengthy court procedures add to the woes. Therefore, the Amendment Act aims to give potency in enforcing quick relief and to act as a deterrent for future cases by enhancing credibility of cheques as a negotiable instrument. Briefly, following are the key features of the latest 2018 amendment vide the added Sections 143-A and 148:

(a) Interim compensation to Drawee up to 20% of the cheque amount in case of either summary trial or summons case where the Drawer pleads not guilty;

(b) In addition to the above amount, if the Drawer appeals against the compensation awarded by the trial court to the Drawee, the appellate court can further order minimum of 20% of the awarded amount to be deposited/released to the Drawee; and

(c) In both (1) and (2), the amount is to be deposited within 60 days of the courts order, extendable by another 30 days subject to courts satisfaction.

19. A very pertinent feature of this interim compensation is that at the courts discretion it may be also recovered as if it were a fine under Section 421 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 implying that the courts have the power to issue a warrant for attachment and sale of any moveable property belonging to the offender (Drawer); or issue a warrant to the District Collector to realise the amount as arrears of land revenue from the moveable/immoveable property of the defaulter (Drawer).

20. Thus, the Drawer of the cheque is made liable to prosecution and partial payment upon dishonour of the cheque implying that the provisions are punitive as well as compensatory, that is, the punitive aspect leading to compensation. It can be ascertained that the Legislature has made a remarkable move by bringing this amendment in the interest of speedy justice.

21. The bill seek to achieve objective, introduce Amended Section 148 of the N.I. Act is as under:-

""148. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), in an appeal by the drawer against conviction under 138 of the N.I. Act, the Appellate Court may order the appellant to deposit such sum which shall be a minimum of twenty per cent of the fine or compensation awarded by the trial Court:

Provided that the amount payable under this subsection shall be in addition to any interim compensation paid by the appellant under Section 143 A.

(2) The amount referred to in subsection (1) shall be deposited within sixty days from the date of the order, or within such further period not exceeding thirty days as may be directed by the Court on sufficient cause being shown by the appellant.

(3) The Appellate Court may direct the release of the amount deposited by the appellant to the complainant at any time during the pendency of the appeal:

Provided that if the appellant is acquitted, the Court shall direct the complainant to repay to the appellant the amount so released, with interest at the bank rate as published by the Reserve Bank of India, prevalent at the beginning of the relevant financial year, within sixty days from the date of the order, or within such further period not exceeding thirty days as may be directed by the Court on sufficient cause being shown by the complainant."

22. Every question raised by the revisionist in revision has already been settled by Hon'ble Apex Court in Surinder Singh Deswal @ Col. S. S. Deswal Vs Virender Gandhi AIR 2019 SC 2956, the relevant paragraph nos. 8, 9 and 10 are quoted below:-

"8. It is the case on behalf of the appellants that as the criminal complaints against the appellants under Section 138 of the N.I. Act were lodged/filed before the amendment Act No. 20/2018 by which Section 148 of the N.I. Act came to be amended and therefore amended Section 148 of the N.I. Act shall not be made applicable. However, it is required to be noted that at the time when the appeals against the conviction of the appellants for the offence under Section 138 of the N.I. Act were preferred, Amendment Act No. 20/2018 amending Section 148 of the N.I. Act came into force w.e.f. 1.9.2018. Even, at the time when the appellants submitted application/s under Section 389 of the Cr.P.C. to suspend the sentence pending appeals challenging the conviction and sentence, amended Section 148 of the N.I. Act came into force and was brought on statute w.e.f. 1.9.2018. Therefore, considering the object and purpose of amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act and while suspending the sentence in exercise of powers under Section 389 of the Cr.P.C., when the first appellate court directed the appellants to deposit 25% of the amount of fine/compensation as imposed by the learned trial Court, the same can be said to be absolutely in consonance with the Statement of Objects and Reasons of amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act.

8.1 Having observed and found that because of the delay tactics of unscrupulous drawers of dishonoured cheques due to easy filing of appeals and obtaining stay on proceedings, the object and purpose of the enactment of Section 138 of the N.I. Act was being frustrated, the Parliament has thought it fit to amend Section 148 of the N.I. Act, by which the first appellate Court, in an appeal challenging the order of conviction under Section 138 of the N.I. Act, is conferred with the power to direct the convicted accused - appellant to deposit such sum which shall be a minimum of 20% of the fine or compensation awarded by the trial Court. By the amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act, it cannot be said that any vested right of appeal of the accused - appellant has been taken away and/or affected. Therefore, submission on behalf of the appellants that amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act shall not be made applicable retrospectively and more particularly with respect to cases/complaints filed prior to 1.9.2018 shall not be applicable has no substance and cannot be accepted, as by amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act, no substantive right of appeal has been taken away and/or affected.. Therefore the decisions of this Court in the cases of Garikapatti Veeraya (supra) and Videocon International Limited (supra), relied upon by the learned senior counsel appearing on behalf of the appellants shall not be applicable to the facts of the case on hand. Therefore, considering the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act stated hereinabove, on purposive interpretation of Section 148 of the N.I. Act as amended, we are of the opinion that Section 148 of the N.I. Act as amended, shall be applicable in respect of the appeals against the order of conviction and sentence for the offence under Section 138 of the N.I. Act, even in a case where the criminal complaints for the offence under Section 138of the N.I. Act were filed prior to amendment Act No. 20/2018 i.e., prior to 01.09.2018. If such a purposive interpretation is not adopted, in that case, the object and purpose of amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act would be frustrated. Therefore, as such, no error has been committed by the learned first appellate court directing the appellants to deposit 25% of the amount of fine/compensation as imposed by the learned trial Court considering Section 148 of the N.I. Act, as amended.

9. Now so far as the submission on behalf of the appellants that even considering the language used in Section

148 of the N.I. Act as amended, the appellate Court "may" order the appellant to deposit such sum which shall be a minimum of 20% of the fine or compensation awarded by the trial Court and the word used is not "shall" and therefore the discretion is vested with the first appellate court to direct the appellant - accused to deposit such sum and the appellate court has construed it as mandatory, which according to the learned Senior Advocate for the appellants would be contrary to the provisions of Section 148 of the N.I. Act as amended is concerned, considering the amended Section 148 of the N.I. Act as a whole to be read with the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the amending Section 148 of the N.I. Act, though it is true that in amended Section 148 of the N.I. Act, the word used is "may", it is generally to be construed as a "rule" or "shall" and not to direct to deposit by the appellate court is an exception for which special reasons are to be assigned. Therefore amended Section 148 of the N.I. Act confers power upon the Appellate Court to pass an order pending appeal to direct the Appellant Accused to deposit the sum which shall not be less than 20% of the fine or compensation either on an application filed by the original complainant or even on the application filed by the Appellant Accused under Section 389 of the Cr.P.C. to suspend the sentence. The aforesaid is required to be construed considering the fact that as per the amended Section 148 of the N.I. Act, a minimum of 20% of the fine or compensation awarded by the trial court is directed to be deposited and that such amount is to be deposited within a period of 60 days from the date of the order, or within such further period not exceeding 30 days as may be directed by the appellate court for sufficient cause shown by the appellant. Therefore, if amended Section 148 of the N.I. Act is purposively interpreted in such a manner it would serve the Objects and Reasons of not only amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act, but also Section 138 of the N.I. Act. Negotiable Instruments Act has been amended from time to time so as to provide, inter alia, speedy disposal of cases relating to the offence of the dishonoured of cheques. So as to see that due to delay tactics by the unscrupulous drawers of the dishonoured cheques due to easy filing of the appeals and obtaining stay in the proceedings, an injustice was caused to the payee of a dishonoured cheque who has to spend considerable time and resources in the court proceedings to realise the value of the cheque and having observed that such delay has compromised the sanctity of the cheque transactions, the Parliament has thought it fit to amend Section 148 of the N.I. Act. Therefore, such a purposive interpretation would be in furtherance of the Objects and Reasons of the amendment in Section 148 of the N.I. Act and also Sec 138 of the N.I. Act.

10. Now so far as the submission on behalf of the appellants, relying upon Section 357 (2) of the Cr.P.C. that once the appeal against the order of conviction is preferred, fine is not recoverable pending appeal and therefore such an order of deposit of 25% of the fine ought not to have been passed and in support of the above reliance placed upon the decision of this Court in the case of Dilip S. Dhanukar (supra) is concerned, the aforesaid has no substance. The opening word of amended Section 148 of the N.I. Act is that "notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure.....". Therefore irrespective of the provisions of Section 357 (2) of the Cr.P.C., pending appeal before the first appellate court, challenging the order of conviction and sentence under Section 138 of the N.I. Act, the appellate court is conferred with the power to direct the appellant to deposit such sum pending appeal which shall be a minimum of 20% of the fine or compensation awarded by the trial Court."

23. In view of the above and for the reasons stated above, I am of the view that applicability of the provision under Section 148 of the N.I. Act is mandatory. Deposit of fine not less than 20% is condition precedent for admission of appeal and provision under Section 357 (2) Cr.P.C. are not made applicable during admissibility and pendency of appeal. Section 148 of the N.I. Act can be applied to complaint filed prior to 1.9.2018. I see no reason to interfere with the impugned order dated 23.10.2019 passed by the appellate sessions court directing the Appellants to deposit 30% of the amount of fine/compensation pending appeals. The order of appellate court is perfectly legal. There is no illegality or perversity in the order dated 23.10.2019.

24. Revision filed by the revisionist is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed.

25. Revision is dismissed..

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajeev Misra,J.)

1. Present First Appeal under Section 19 of Family Courts Act 1984 (hereinafter referred to as Act 1984) has been filed by Appellant i.e. wife challenging judgement dated 13.03.2015 and decree dated 27.03.2015 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghaziabad in Suit No. 367 of 2005 (Sri Rajendra Pal Singh Vs. Smt. Shashi Bala) filed by Plaintiff i.e. husband under Section 13 (I) of Hindu Marriage Act 1955 (hereinafter referred to as Act 1955) whereby aforesaid Suit has been decreed resulting in annulment of marriage of parties held on 04.12.1996.

2. We have heard Mr. Satyendra Kumar Singh, learned counsel for Defendant-Appellant (hereinafter referred to as Appellant) and Mr. Tarun Agarwal, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Pankaj Agarwal, learned counsel representing Plaintiff-Respondent (hereinafter referred to as Plaintiff).

3. Plaintiff filed Original Suit No.237 of 2004 (Sri Rajendra Pal Singh Vs. Smt. Shashi Bala) under Section 13 (1) of Act 1955 for a decree of divorce on the ground of 'cruelty' committed by Appellant. According to plaint allegations, marriage of Plaintiff was solemnized with Appellant on 04.12.1996 at Aligarh in accordance with Hindu Rites and Customs. From aforesaid wedlock two children namely Krishan Kant and Jatin Pal were born. Appellant was working as a teacher in Government Girls Inter College, Vijay Nagar, Ghaziabad but on her request transferred to Moradabad. Plaintiff is working in Indian Navy and posted at Sena Bhawan, New Delhi. Accordingly, Plaintiff is getting handsome salary. As such, Plaintiff can maintain his family including Appellant and himself. Subsequently, relationship between Plaintiff and Appellant became strained. According to Plaintiff, it is Appellant, who is responsible for such sorry state of affairs; she is a short tempered lady with bad character; her behaviour towards Plaintiff as well as other relatives of Plaintiff was never cordial; she is guilty of telling lies and further uncareful to maintain good relations; she was completely under pressure of her parents; not willing to keep good and cordial relations with Plaintiff; Parents of Appellant are greedy and want to extort money earned by Plaintiff as well as Appellant; she used to leave residence of Plaintiff without informing him; used to absent herself from School; went to some unknown place without informing Plaintiff; when Plaintiff attempted to enquire about such conduct, she became furious and did not categorically reply to the query made by Plaintiff. In such circumstances, according to Plaintiff, minor children were facing difficulty and further their future was also said to be in dark. Appellant left house of Plaintiff in 1999. However, due to intervention of some respectable persons a compromise was arrived at between parties on 22.04.1999. She committed breach of aforesaid compromise, which was unbecoming of an obedient wife. Appellant ultimately abandoned house of Plaintiff on 28.02.2004. Since then Appellant is not residing with Plaintiff. On the aforesaid factual premise, it was prayed that suit filed for divorce be decreed.

4. Suit was contested by Appellant. She accordingly filed a written statement dated 06.07.2005 denying plaint allegations. Additional pleas were also raised by Appellant. Factum regarding marriage and birth of two children from wedlock of parties was admitted. She also admitted of serving as Lecturer at Government Girls Inter College, Vijay Nagar, Ghaziabad but later on transferred to Cantt. Moradabad. It was further admitted that Plaintiff is working in Indian Navy and posted at New Delhi. However, rest of the averments made in plaint were denied. According to Appellant wild allegations have been made by Plaintiff against Appellant without there being any cogent reason behind the same; charges levelled against her character have caused physical and mental cruelty upon her; behavior of with her was rude and abusive; it was Plaintiff, who has tortured physically and mentally for demand of dowry; Plaintiff himself was of a shady character as he frequently used to stay at his Bhabhi's residence at Kavi Nagar, Ghaziabad; when aforesaid conduct of Plaintiff was objected by Appellant, Plaintiff cooked a false story against her; it is only when aforesaid conduct of Plaintiff became unbearable that Appellant went to Moradabad and is residing there since then. On the aforesaid defence, Appellant pleaded for dismissal of suit for divorce filed by Plaintiff.

5. Court below upon consideration of pleadings of parties framed following two issues for consideration:

A. Whether Plaintiff is entitled to decree of divorce on grounds mentioned in the plaint.

B. Any other relief, if admissible.

6. After issues were framed by Court below, parties went to trial. Plaintiff in support of his case adduced himself as P.W.-1, V. P. Singh as P.W.-2, Smt. Ram Saheli Sharma as P.W.-3 and Dr. Ramesh Kumar Verma as P.W.-4. Further vide list of documents (Paper No. 19 Ga), Plaintiff filed large number of documentary evidence in proof of his case. Appellant in support of her defence adduced only herself as D.W.-1. No other witness was adduced by Appellant nor any documentary evidence was filed by her in support of her defence.

7. Court below upon consideration of pleadings, oral and documentary evidence on record decided issues framed by it. In respect of Issue no.1, Court below concluded that Plaintiff is clearly entitled to grant of decree of divorce in terms of Section 13 (1) (1b) of Act 1955 i.e. on the ground of 'desertion'. Court below however concluded that Plaintiff has failed to establish commission of any physical or mental 'cruelty' upon him by Appellant. In the opinion of Court below, from material filed by Plaintiff it is apparent that it is Plaintiff, who has committed mental cruelty upon Appellant. However, since it is an admitted position that Appellant has 'deserted' Plaintiff for the last 11 years and aforesaid fact, is an admitted fact therefore same is not required to be proved under Indian Evidence Act. Consequently, suit for divorce filed by Plaintiff was decreed by Court below on the ground of 'desertion' vide judgement dated 13.03.2015 and decree dated 27.03.2015.

8. Feeling aggrieved by aforesaid judgement and decree passed Court below, wife i.e. Appellant has now approached this Court by means of present First Appeal.

9. Mr. Satyendra Kumar Singh, learned counsel for Appellant in challenge to judgement and decree passed by Court below submits that same are patently illegal and in excess of jurisdiction. According to learned counsel for Appellant, Court below while passing aforesaid judgement and decree has only considered case of Plaintiff; no attempt has been made to find out why Appellant was forced to leave matrimonial home on 28.02.2004 alongwith her two children; Plaintiff was also under moral and legal obligation to maintain his wife and minor children; There did not exist any explanation on the part of Plaintiff for his failure to discharge aforesaid moral and legal obligation; In fact, there is complete silence on the part of Plaintiff right from 28.2.204 in not taking any action for restitution of conjugal relationship between parties or to discharge of his moral and legal obligations; and the same denote the clever attitude of Plaintiff.

10. Mr. Tarun Agarwal, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Pankaj Agarwal, learned counsel for Plaintiff submits that Court below has decreed suit of Plaintiff on the ground of proved 'desertion' which is perfectly just and legal. He further submits that parties have been living separately since 28.02.2004 and therefore, Court below has done justice to parties by decreeing suit for divorce filed by Plaintiff. He has further tried to support impugned judgement and decree on the strength of findings recorded therein as well as observations made by Court below.

11. Varied arguments raised by counsel for parties give rise to only determination as under:

A. Whether judgement and decree passed by Court below on the ground of 'desertion' on part of Appellant can be sustained in law and fact.

12. Since the issue involved in present appeal relates to Section 13 of Act 1955, it is appropriate to reproduce the same for ready reference:

" 13 Divorce. --(1) Any marriage solemnized, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, may, on a petition presented by either the husband or the wife, be dissolved by a decree of divorce on the ground that the other party--

(i) has, after the solemnization of the marriage, had voluntary sexual intercourse with any person other than his or her spouse; or

(i-a) has, after the solemnization of the marriage, treated the petitioner with cruelty; or

(i-b) has deserted the petitioner for a continuous period of not less than two years immediately preceding the presentation of the petition; or

(ii) has ceased to be a Hindu by conversion to another religion; or

(iii) has been incurably of unsound mind, or has been suffering continuously or intermittently from mental disorder of such a kind and to such an extent that the petitioner cannot reasonably be expected to live with the respondent.

Explanation.--In this clause,--

(a) the expression "mental disorder" means mental illness, arrested or incomplete development of mind, psychopathic disorder or any other disorder or disability of mind and includes schizophrenia;

(b) the expression "psychopathic disorder" means a persistent disorder or disability of mind (whether or not including sub-normality of intelligence) which results in abnormally aggressive or seriously irresponsible conduct on the part of the other party, and whether or not it requires or is susceptible to medical treatment; or

(iv) has been suffering from a virulent and incurable form of leprosy; or

(v) has been suffering from venereal disease in a communicable form; or

(vi) has renounced the world by entering any religious order; or

(vi) has not been heard of as being alive for a period of seven years or more by those persons who would naturally have heard of it, had that party been alive;

Explanation. In this sub-section, the expression 'desertion' means the desertion of the petitioner by the other party to the marriage without reasonable cause and without the consent or against the wish of such party, and includes the wilful neglect of the petitioner by the other party to the marriage, and its grammatical variations and cognate expressions shall be construed accordingly.

(1-A) Either party to a marriage, whether solemnised before or after the commencement of this Act, may also present a petition for the dissolution of the marriage by a decree of divorce on the ground--

(i) that there has been no resumption of cohabitation as between the parties to the marriage for a period of one year or upwards after the passing of a decree for judicial separation in a proceeding to which they were parties; or

(ii) that there has been no restitution of conjugal rights as between the parties to the marriage for a period of one year or upwards after the passing of a decree for restitution of conjugal rights in a proceeding to which they were parties.

(2) A wife may also present a petition for the dissolution of her marriage by a decree of divorce on the ground,---

(i) in the case of any marriage solemnised before the commencement of this Act, that the husband had married again before such commencement or that any other wife of the husband married before such commencement was alive at the time of the solemnisation of the marriage of the petitioner: Provided that in either case the other wife is alive at the time of the presentation of the petition; or

(ii) that the husband has, since the solemnisation of the marriage, been guilty of rape, sodomy or bestiality; or

(iii) that in a suit under section 18 of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956 (78 of 1956), or in a proceeding under section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) [or under the corresponding section 488 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (5 of 1898), a decree or order, as the case may be, has been passed against the husband awarding maintenance to the wife notwithstanding that she was living apart and that since the passing of such decree or order, cohabitation between the parties has not been resumed for one year or upwards; or

(iv) that her marriage (whether consummated or not) was solemnised before she attained the age of fifteen years and she has repudiated the marriage after attaining that age but before attaining the age of eighteen years.

Explanation. --This clause applies whether the marriage was solemnised before or after the commencement of the Marriage Laws (Amendment) Act, 1976 (68 of 1976).

STATE AMENDMENT

Uttar Pradesh.-- In its application to Hindus domiciled in Uttar Pradesh and also when either party to the marriage was not at the time of marriage a Hindu domiciled in Uttar Pradesh, in section 13--

(i) in sub-section (1), after clause (i) insert (and shall be deemed always to have been inserted) the following

"(1-a) has persistently or repeatedly treated the petitioner with such cruelty as to cause a reasonable apprehension in the mind of the petitioner that it will be harmful or injurious for the petitioner to live with the other party; or", and

(ii) for clause (viii) (since repealed) substituted and deem always to have been so substituted for following.

" (viii) has not resumed cohabitation after the passing of a decree for judicial separation against that party and--

(a) a period of two years has elapsed since the passing of such decree, or

(b) the case is one of exceptional hardship to the petitioner or of exceptional depravity on the part of other party; or"."

13. Section (1) (i-b) of Act of 1955 provides that a decree of divorce can be granted in case after the solemnization of marriage, the petitioner has been treated with 'cruelty'. Similarly Section 13 (I) (i-b) of Act 1955 provides for grant of decree of divorce provided the other party has 'deserted' petitioner for a continuous period of not less than two years immediately preceding the presentation of the petition.

14. Admittedly, Plaintiff filed above mentioned suit for divorce on the grounds of 'cruelty' as well as 'desertion'. Court below upon consideration of pleadings as well as oral and documentary evidence on record concluded that Plaintiff has failed to prove commission of physical or mental 'cruelty' by Appellant upon him. To the contrary, Court below conluded that in fact 'cruelty' has been committed by Plaintiff upon Appellant. Therefore, plea of 'cruelty' raised by Plaintiff, as a ground of divorce, stands negated by Court below. There is no cross appeal by Plaintiff or a regular appeal challenging aforesaid finding recorded by Court below. As such, conclusion drawn by Court below that Plaintiff has failed to establish commission of physical or mental 'cruelty' by Appellant upon him has become final. Consequently, this Court cannot examine correctness of aforesaid finding recorded by Court below.

15. Court below has decreed suit of Plaintiff on the ground of desertion. On evaluation of pleadings and material on record Court below has concluded that Appellant has deserted Plaintiff on 28.02.2004 and since then parties are living separately. Court below has further observed that upto date of delivery of judgement, more than 11 years have rolled by and parties have not met each other. Reference was also made to various other pleadings showing intention of parties not to live together. On aforesaid factual premise, Court below concluded that there is proved 'desertion' on the part of Appellant and consequently decreed suit for divorce filed by Plaintiff.

16. Mr. Satyendra Kumar Singh, learned counsel for Appellant submits that in order to decree a suit for divorce on the ground of 'desertion' precondition provided in Section 13 (I) (ib) of Act 1955 has to be fulfilled on the date of presentation of plaint. According to counsel for Appellant, date of 'desertion' on the part of Appellant stated in plaint is 28.02.2004 whereas plaint itself was presented on 07.03.2005. He thus submits that on the date of presentation of plaint, a period of two years had not rolled by and therefore, mandatory requirement of Section 13(I) (ib) of Act 1955 was not fulfilled. Consequenlty, Court below could not have decreed suit of Plaintiff on the ground of 'desertion'. As such, judgement and decree passed by Court below is manifestly illegal and liable to be set aside by this Court.

17. Mr. Tarun Agarwal, Advocate on the other hand has supported impugned judgement and decree passed by Court below. According to counsel for Plaintiff, irrespective of factual scenario that period of two years had not elapsed on the date of presentation of plaint, yet it is an undisputed fact that Appellant has remained in 'desertion' for the last 15 years. He has also referred to pleadings of parties showing their disinclination for residing together. He thus urged that even if decree passed by Court below cannot be sustained on the ground of proved 'desertion', still it can be maintained on the ground of 'irretrievable break down' of marriage. Forcing the parties to live together after such a long period of self imposed isolation would itself cause injustice rather than doing justice to parties.

18. Section 13(I) (ib) of Act 1955 is a mandatory provision and therefore, if a suit for divorce is filed on the ground of 'desertion', the precondition provided in above Section for grant of decree of divorce on the ground of desertion must be fulfilled on the date of presentation of suit. Admittedly, date of desertion by Appellant, pleaded in plaint is 28.02.2004 whereas plaint was presented on 07.03.2005. Evidently, period of two years of desertion on the part of Appellant had not expired on the date of presentation of plaint. Therefore, precondition provided in Section 13(I) (i-b) of Act 1955 was not fulfilled on the date of presentation of suit. Subsequent events which have taken place after the institution of suit are irrelevant as same cannot be taken into consideration under scheme of Act 1955. Therefore, we have no hesitation to hold that decree passed by Court below decreeing suit for divorce filed by Plaintiff on ground of 'desertion' is manifestly illegal.

19. With regard to the argument relating to irretrievable break down of marriage, we find from perusal of plaint that no such ground was pleaded in the plaint. Therefore, question that crops up for consideration is "whether a decree of reversal can be passed on a ground which was not the subject matter of adjudication before the Court below."

20. The issue relating to irretrievable break down of marriage has been considered by a Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal No. 525 of 2006 (Smt. Kavita Sharma Vs. Neeraj Sharma) decided on 7.2.2018, wherein it has been observed as follows in paragraph 28:-

"28. The above findings recorded by Court below could not be shown perverse or contrary to record. Having considered the fact that parties are living separately from decades, we are also of the view that marriage between two is irretrievable and has broken down completely. Irretrievable breakdown of marriage is not a ground for divorce under Act, 1955. But, where marriage is beyond repair on account of bitterness created by the acts of the husband or the wife or of both, Courts have always taken irretrievable breakdown of marriage as a very weighty circumstance amongst others necessitating severance of marital tie. A marriage which is dead for all purposes cannot be revived by the Court's verdict, if the parties are not willing. This is because marriage involves human sentiments and emotions and if they are dried-up there is hardly any chance of their springing back to life on account of artificial reunion created by the Court's decree. On the ground of irretrievable marriage, Courts have allowed decree of divorce and reference may be made to Naveen Kohli v. Neelu Kohli (2006) 4 SCC 558 and Rishikesh Sharma Vs. Saroj Sharma, 2006(12) SCALE 282. It is also noteworthy that in Naveen Kohli v. Neelu Kohli (supra) Court made recommendation to Union of India that Act, 1955 be amended to incorporate irretrievable breakdown of marriage as a ground for grant of divorce. "

21. Similarly this Court in First Appeal No. 792 of 2008 (Ashwani Kumar Kohli Vs. Smt. Anita) decided on 17.11.2016 has also considered this question and observed as follows in paragraphs 7, 8, 10, 11, 12 and 13:-

"7. Therefore, point for adjudication in this appeal is "whether a decree of reversal can be passed by granting divorce to the appellant on the ground which was not subject matter of adjudication before the Court below and is being raised for the first time in appeal".

8. Under the provisions of Act, 1955 there is no ground like any "irretrievable breakdown of marriage", justifying divorce. It is a doctrine laid down by judicial precedents, in particular, Supreme Court in exercise of powers under Article 142 of the Constitution has granted decree of divorce on the ground of irretrievable breakdown of marriage.

10. This aspect has been considered by this Court in Ram Babu Babeley Vs. Smt. Sandhya AIR 2006 (All) 12 = 2006 AWC 183 and it has laid down certain inferences from various authorities of Supreme Court, which read as under:-

"(i) The irretrievable break down of marriage is not a ground for divorce by itself. But while scrutinizing the evidence on record to determine whether the grounds on which divorce is sought are made out, this circumstance can be taken into consideration as laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Savitri Pandey v. prem Chand Pandey, (2002) 2 SCC 73 and V. Bhagat versus D. Bhagat, AIR 1994 SC 710.

(ii) No divorce can be granted on the ground of irretrievable break down of marriage if the party seeking divorce on this ground is himself or herself at fault for the above break down as laid down in the case of Chetan Dass Versus Kamla Devi, AIR 2001 SC 1709, Savitri Pandey v. prem Chand Pandey, (2002) 2 SCC 73 and Shyam Sunder Kohli v. Sushma Kohli, (2004) 7 SCC 747.

(iii) The decree of divorce on the ground that the marriage had been irretrievably broken down can be granted in those cases where both the parties have levelled such allegations against each other that the marriage appears to be practically dead and the parties can not live together as laid down in Chandra Kala Trivedi versus Dr. SP Trivedi, (1993) 4 SCC 232.

(iv)The decree of divorce on the ground that the marriage had been irretrievably broken down can be granted in those cases also where the conduct or averments of one party have been so much painful for the other party (who is not at fault) that he cannot be expected to live with the offending party as laid down in the cases of V. Bhagat versus D. Bhagat, (supra), Ramesh Chander versus Savitri, (1995) 2 SCC 7, Ashok Hurra versus Rupa Bipin Zaveri, 1997(3) AWC 1843 (SC),

1997(3) A.W.C. 1843(SC) and A. Jayachandra versus Aneel Kaur, (2005) 2 SCC 22.

(v) The power to grant divorce on the ground of irretrievable break down of marriage should be exercised with much care and caution in exceptional circumstances only in the interest of both the parties, as observed by Hon'ble Apex Court at paragraph No. 21 of the judgment in the case of V. Bhagat and Mrs. D. Bhagat, AIR (supra) and at para 12 in the case of Shyam Sunder Kohli versus Sushma Kohli, (supra)."

11. The above authorities have been followed by this Court in "Pradeep Kumar Vs. Smt. Vijay Lakshmi' in 2015 (4) ALJ 667 wherein one of us (Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal,J.) was a member of the Bench.

12. In Vishnu Dutt Sharma Vs. Manju Sharma, (2009) 6 SCC 379, it was held that under Section 13 of Act 1955 there is no ground of irretrievable breakdown of marriage for granting decree of divorce. Court said that it cannot add such a ground to Section 13, as that would amount to amendment of Act, which is the function of legislature. It also referred to some judgments of Supreme Court in which dissolution of marriage was allowed on the ground of irretrievable breakdown but held that those judgments do not lay down any precedent. Supreme Court very categorically observed as under:-

"If we grant divorce on the ground of irretrievable breakdown, then we shall by judicial verdict be adding a clause to Section 13 of the Act to the effect that irretrievable breakdown of marriage is also a ground for divorce. In our opinion, this can only be done by the legislature and not by the Court. It is for the Parliament to enact or amend the law and not for the Court. Hence, we do not find force in the submission of learned counsel for the appellant."

13. The above view has been followed in Darshan Gupta Vs. Radhika Gupta (2013) 9 SCC 1. Similar view was expressed in "Gurubux Singh Vs. Harminder Kaur' (2010) 14 SCC 301. This Court also has followed the above view in Shailesh Kumari Vs. Amod Kumar Sachan 2016 (115) ALR 689."

22. In the case in hand, we find that the parties have not been living separately on account of their own free will. Record shows that it is plaintiff, who has refused to keep Appellant alongwith minor children with him. Appellant has categorically pleaded that intention of Plaintiff since beginning was to spoil matrimonial life. Plaintiff never discharged his liability towards Appellant i.e. his wife nor paid attention towards his children. In this view of matter, argument raised by learned counsel for Appellant that there has been an irretrievable break down of marriage has no factual foundation. That apart, this Court in Ashwani Kumar Kohli (supra) has held that divorce cannot be granted on the aforesaid ground particularly when such a plea is raised by one party alone. In addition to aforesaid, decree of divorce was not prayed for on ground of irretrievable break down of marriage as parties are alleged to have been living separately since 28.02.2004. Plaint of above mentioned divorce suit was presented in 2005 whereas divorce petition was finally decided vide judgement dated 13.03.2015 and decree dated 27.03.2015 passed by Principal Judge (Family Court), Ghaziabad in Suit No. 367 of 2005 (Sri Rajendra Pal Singh Vs. Smt. Shashi Bala). For a period of eleven long years, Plaintiff kept quiet and now for the first time, this issue has been raised. Thus we are of the considered opinion that Plaintiff is estopped from raising this plea.

23. In the light of law laid down by Apex Court and the facts of case, the following undisputed position emerges. Appellant has left her matrimonial home on 28.02.2004. From 28.02.2004 till today, i.e. for more than fifteen years parties, they have been living in isolation. There is no evidence on record that Plaintiff made any attempt for restitution of conjugal rights. There is also no evidence showing action taken by Plaintiff in discharge of his moral and legal obligations towards his wife i.e. Appellant and minor children. Court below has recorded conclusive finding that it is Plaintiff who has committed physical / mental 'cruelty' upon Appellant and not vice-versa. In view of aforesaid findings, it cannot be said that Appellant has 'deserted' Plaintiff and that too without any reasonable cause. On the contrary, she has been forced to leave her matrimonial home.

24. In the aforesaid backdrop, we are unable to uphold impugned judgement and decree passed by Court below. The appeal succeeds and is allowed. Impugned judgement dated 13.03.2015 and decree dated 27.03.2015 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghaziabad in Suit No. 367 of 2005 (Sri Rajendra Pal Singh Vs. Smt. Shashi Bala) are hereby set aside. Aforesaid suit filed by Plaintiff shall stand dismissed.

25. Considering the facts and circumstances of case, we quantify the cost at Rs.2 Lakhs to be paid by Plaintiff to Appellant within a period of one month from today by means of an account payee draft drawn in favour of Appellant, failing which, Court below shall proceed to recover same as if it is recovery pursuant to an order passed by Court below itself.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION

THE HON'BLE PRADEEP KUMAR SRIVASTAVA, J.

Second Appeal No. 1045 of 2019

Dharmendra Yadav ...Appellant
Versus
Girish Kumar Sahni ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Manish Goyal, Sri Nikhil Mishra

Counsel for the Respondent:
Sri Sunil Dutt Kautilya, Sri H.N. Singh, Sri Vineet Kumar Singh

A. Licence cannot be revoked, if the licencee acting upon the licence had executed a work of permanent character as contemplated by section 60(b) of the Easement Act. (Para 26)

B. Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Section 100 - challenge to-decree of suit-appellant was in possession of the shop as licencee-nature of licence whether revocable or irrevocable was in issue before the appellate court-fixture on the wall of disputed shop is not at all an improvement of permanent character-no material on record to show that any construction was made inside the shop-raising of wall or removal of existing wall may not amount to permanent structure-thus, licence in favour of appellant remains of revocable nature-conclusion arrived at by the lower appellate court is legally sustainable. (Para 12 to 17, 31 to 42)

C. Licence is merely for the use of the licensed property by the grantee and it does not create any interest in the property and a licencee is not legally entitled to maintain a suit for possession against the grantor. (Para 17)

D. The respondent was a licensee, and he must be deemed to be always a licensee. It is not open to him during subsistence of the licence or in the suit for recovery of possession of the property instituted after the revocation of the licence to set up title to the property in himself or anyone else. It is his plain duty to surrender possession of the property as a licensee and seek his remedy separately in case he has acquired title to the property subsequently through some other person. (Para 37)

Second Appeal dismissed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pradeep Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Shri Manish Goyal, Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Nikhil Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri H.N Singh, Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Vineet Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. This second appeal has been filed by defendant-appellant Dharmendra Yadav against the judgement and decree dated 21.09.2019 passed by Additional District Judge, Court No. 2, Allahabad in Civil Appeal No. 109 of 2018 arising out from Original Suit no. 1095 of 2011 between both the parties by which the learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 2, Allahabad has partly reversed the impugned judgement of the learned trial court in Original Suit No. 1095 of 2011 passed on 20.09.2018 by which Civil Judge (SD), Allahabad and has decreed the suit in toto.

3. From the perusal of the record attached with this second appeal, it appears that the civil suit no. 1095 of 2011 was filed by the respondent Girish Kumar Sahini (plaintiff in the suit) against the appellant Dharmendra Yadav (defendant in the suit) for mandatory injunction in respect of disputed shop no. 3, Bahuguna Market, Allahabad, alleging that the plaintiff purchased the said disputed shop on 27.03.2003 from Allahabad Development Authority by a registered sale deed. On or around 01.05.2003, the defendant gave a proposal for purchasing the disputed shop on payment of Rs. 4,50,000/- and also promised to get the sale deed executed within 6 months after paying the sale amount. Relationship between the parties was cordial and the defendant requested the plaintiff to give him the disputed shop on licence. Because of cordial relationship and on the assurance of defendant, he gave the shop to the defendant on his request on licence. The defendant, however, neither made the payment of sale amount to the plaintiff nor he took any step for execution of the sale deed. Realizing the dishonest intention of the defendant, in December 2006, the plaintiff refused to sell the said shop to him and asked him to vacate the shop and demanded Rs. 4,500/- monthly as damages. Defendants' brother Rakesh Yadav had purchased the shop no. 4 of Bahuguna Market and the defendant without any permission of the plaintiff demolished the intervening wall existed between shop no. 3 and 4 and converted the same into one shop. The plaintiff gave notice to defendant on 02.09.2011 revoking the licence and asking the possession of the said disputed shop with a monthly damage at the rate of Rs. 4,500/-. The defendant did not deliver back the possession of the shop nor paid the damage. Hence, the suit was filed by the plaintiff.

4. The defendant in his written statement denied the allegations of the plaintiff and stated that the plaintiff entered into an agreement to sell the disputed shop to defendant on a consideration of Rs. 4,50,000/- and the same was paid by the defendant and thereafter the plaintiff delivered the possession of the shop. The plaintiff is bound to execute the sale deed of the disputed shop on the basis of the said agreement to sale. After getting possession of the disputed shop, the defendant made a lot of development and spent enough money on the disputed shop and renovated it for the purpose of business. He was never a licensee nor the possession was delivered to him as licensee and the plaintiff took the whole amount and gave him the shop. The defendant was always ready and prepared to get the sale deed executed. It was agreed between them that the defendant or his brother Rakesh would make the payment of Rs. 4,50,000/- to plaintiff and the plaintiff after purchasing the disputed shop from Allahabad Development Authority will execute sale deed in favour of defendant. In pursuance of the said contract, the defendant paid Rs. 80,000/- by account payee cheque drawn on Oriental Bank of Commerce dated 01.02.2003. The remaining amount of Rs. 3,70,000/-was paid in cash on 01.05.2003. Raising legal pleas of Section 41 of Special Relief Act, Order 7 Rule 11(D) C.P.C., the defendant has stated that the plaintiff is not entitled for any relief. The defendant has given adequate reply in response to the notice of the plaintiff dated 02.09.2011. Shop no. 2, 3 and 4 of the Bahuguna Market are situated in a row and above these shops, residential accommodation is situated and the same has been allotted by the Allahabad Development Authority. Shop no. 2 is allotted to defendant and shop no. 4 is allotted to his brother Rakesh Yadav and shop no. 3 (disputed) is allotted to plaintiff. The plaintiff is not entitled to get back the possession over the disputed shop. The defendant has a joint family with joint business and shop no. 3 is run jointly by him and his brother Rakesh Yadav.

5. Replication has been filed by the plaintiff in which the earlier allegations of the plaint has been repeated and it has been alleged that the defendant is bound to vacate the disputed shop and the payment of Rs. 80,000/- made by Rakesh Yadav has no connection with the disputed shop.

6. The learned court below framed the following issues:-

1. Whether Rs. 4,50,000/- has not been paid to the plaintiff by the defendant as per agreement

2. Whether the possession of disputed shop no. 3, Bahuguna Market, Allahabad has been given to the defendant by the plaintiff as licensee as alleged in para 4 of the plaint? If yes whether defendant is in possession over disputed shop no. 3 as licensee?

3. Whether the defendant has removed middle wall situated between disputed shop no. 3 and shop no. 4 as alleged in para 4 of the plaint and both has been amalgamated? If yes whether the plaintiff is entitled to get restored status quo ante?

4. Whether the alleged license given to the defendant has been revoked by the plaintiff through notice dated 02.09.2011? If yes then effect?

5. Whether defendant has not handed over the possession of the disputed shop in compliance of the notice to the plaintiff? If yes whether the plaintiff is entitled to get possession of the disputed shop no. 3?

6. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to get Rs. 4,500/- per month from the defendant from 18.10.2008 to 18.02.2011, total Rs. 1,62,000/- as use of the shop and compensation and Rs. 2,275/- as expenses of notice total Rs. 1,64,275/-?

7. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to get Rs. 200 per day as uses of the disputed shop from the defendant as compensation?

8. Whether suit is barred by order 7 rule (11D) of the Civil Procedure Code as alleged in para 12 of the written statement?

9. Whether suit is under valued?

10. Whether the court fee paid is insufficient?

11. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to get any relief?

7. Evidence was given from both the sides by way of oral evidence and documentary evidence.

8. After hearing both the sides the learned Civil Judge (SD), Allahabad by his judgement dated 20.09.2018 partly decreed the suit of plaintiff for necessary expenses against water tax, house tax, property tax with 9% simple interest per annum till the continuation of the licence. For remaining relief the suit was dismissed.

9. Against this judgement, the appeal was filed by the plaintiff numbered as Civil Appeal No. 109 of 2018 which was decided by the impugned judgement of Additional District Judge, Court No. 2, Allahabad vide judgement and order dated 21.09.2019. by which the appeal has been allowed and the suit of the plaintiff has been decreed with the direction to the defendant to restore the previous status of the disputed shop and hand over the possession within 30 days. Defendant has been also directed to pay Rs. 4,500/- per month to the plaintiff as damage for use and occupation from the date of service of notice i.e. 03.09.2011 till he does not vacate the disputed shop. It has also been directed that if the defendant fails to comply, the plaintiff shall be at liberty to get restored the possession of the disputed shop and realize the damages according to law.

10. Aggrieved by the judgement of the first appeal this second appeal has been filed.

11. The appellant has raised following substantial question of law in this second appeal:

1. Whether the plaintiff-respondent was entitled to the equitable remedy in form of a decree of mandatory injunction having approached the court with unclean hands by deliberately concealing the fact that he was not entitled to enter into any agreement in relation to the property in dispute without prior approval of Allahabad Development Authority?

2. Whether the suit filed by the plaintiff-respondent was liable to be dismissed being vague as the plaint did not disclose the nature or terms of the licence alleged to have been granted to the defendant-appellant?

3. Whether the findings of the lower Appellate Court are perverse in as much as it ignored the statement of the witnesses and misread the statement of the witness of defendant and also did not notice the cross-examination of the plaintiff and further went beyond the pleadings and misplaced itself by placing undue reliance upon inapplicable provisions of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, Indian Contract Act, 1872 and The Indian Easement Act, 1882?

4. Whether the lower appellate court erred in holding that the defendant-appellant is not entitled to claim benefit of Section 60(b) of the Indian Easements Act, 1882 without reversing the categorical finding arrived at by the learned trial curt holding that the conditions prescribed under Section 60(b) of the Act were met by the defendant-appellant?

5. Whether the lower appellate court was justified in setting aside the finding of trial court without setting out the reasons as per the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sarju Pershad v. Jwaleshwari Pratap Narain Singh (reported in AIR 1951 SC 120)?

12. The learned senior advocate for the appellant has referred to the judgement in Hero Vinoth (minor) v Seshamal (2006) 5 SCC 545 in order to show the meaning of 'substantial question of law' which is a pre-condition for exercising the jurisdiction of second appeal. There, the Supreme Court has laid down:

"A question of law having a material bearing on the decision of the case (that is, a question, answer to which affects the rights of parties to the suit) will be a substantial question of law, if it is not covered by any specific provisions of law or settled legal principle emerging from binding precedents, and, involves a debatable legal issue. The question of law raised will not be considered as a substantial question of law, if it stands already decided by a larger Bench of the High Court concerned or by the Privy Council or by the Federal Court or by the Supreme Court. A substantial question of law will also arise in a contrary situation, where the legal position is clear, either on account of express provision of law or binding precedent, but the court below has decided the matter, either ignoring or acting contrary to such legal principle. In second type of cases, the substantial question of law arises not because the law is debatable, but because the decision rendered on a material question, violates the settled position of law."

13. The learned Senior Advocate for the appellant has argued that the plaintiff filed a suit for mandatory injunction which is an equitable relief and for that relief the plaintiff was legally expected to come with clean hands. The suit premises was allotted to the plaintiff by ADA and in the allotment letter it is a condition that for a period of 5 years, he would not transfer the shop. He accepted payment from the defendant, concealing the terms of allotment, and transferred the shop to the defendant. The learned lower appellate court completely ignored this fact and committed error in giving relief to the plaintiff.

14. There is no dispute with regards to the terms of allotment. But, it is not admitted by the plaintiff that he entered into an agreement to sell out the alleged shop to the defendant and for that he took the total consideration amount. The learned appellate court has found that it was not correct that any agreement to sale was executed by the plaintiff in favour of the defendant. Presumption could also be not raised as a contract to sale for immovable property is required to be in writing and it should be registered. There is no contract in writing and as such there is no question of registration. Therefore, oral agreement to sell immovable property is not enforceable at law nor the same can create any right in respect of the disputed shop in favour of the defendant. Therefore, this argument is of no avail as there is no transfer of the shop and no agreement to sell was ever executed by the plaintiff. A finding to that affect has been given by both the courts below and that finding, being a finding of fact, has become final and cannot be interfered in second appeal. There is yet another reason to render the submission of the appellant-defendant baseless as the defendant himself has alleged that shops no. 2,3 and 4 are situated in a row and are constructed by ADA. Out of these 3 shops, shop no.2 has been allotted to the defendant and shop no. 4 has been allotted to his brother. Shop no. 3 has been allotted to the plaintiff. The defendant claims that his family is joint. In such situation, when two adjacent shops are allotted to him and his brother, it can be presumed that he must be having full knowledge of that condition in the allotment letter. As such he cannot be permitted to say that the plaintiff did not inform him about the aforesaid condition and he was misled by the plaintiff.

15. Another argument is that the learned lower appellate court reversed the finding of the trial court without assigning reasons for setting aside the findings and it raises substantial question of law. The learned appellate court overlooked the fact that the trial court has greater opportunity of appreciating the oral evidence and the lower appellate court should be very slow in differing with the conclusion of the trial court unless the finding arrived at by the learned trial court is wholly improbable. From the perusal of the record attached and the judgements of the two courts below, it is clear that the learned trial court concluded that the appellant-defendant was in possession of the shop as licensee and that finding of fact was never challenged in the first appeal and the same became final. The only issue before the appellate court was with regards to the nature of licence whether revocable or irrevocable. Therefore, that part of the argument has no force that the lower appellate court did not give finding determining the status of appellant-defendant.

16. It has been also submitted that the plaint of the plaintiff was vague as he did not disclose the terms of licence. For two reasons this argument lacks merit. Firstly, the definition of 'license' itself. The term 'license' has been defined in section 52 of the Easement Act defines license as follows:

"52. "license" defined- Where one person grants to another, or to a definite number of other persons, a right to do, or continue to do, in or upon the immovable property of the grantor, something which would, in the absence of such right, be unlawful, and such right does not amount to an easement or an interest in the property, the right is called a license."

17. It is not necessary that for the purpose of creation of license any instrument be written and the grant of license may be express or implied as provided by section 54 of the Act. The learned trial court on the basis of evidence on record recorded the finding that the defendant was in possession of the disputed shop on the basis of implied license. License, therefore, is merely for the use of the licensed property by the grantee and it does not create any interest in the property and a licensee is not legally entitled to maintain a suit for possession against the grantor. There was an oral understanding between both that within six months a sale deed will be executed on payment of consideration amount and it has come in the statement of the plaintiff that for this six months, the plaintiff gave the disputed shop on license because of cordial relationship and on the request of the defendant. Moreover, the license is in respect of a shop and therefore, the use thereof is limited for that purpose by necessary implication. In a case of implied license, it is not possible to spell out the terms and conditions of the license except that the same was given to the licensee on his request for use the same as a shop. Therefore, I do not find any force in this argument.

18. The learned counsel to the appellant-defendant has further argued that the learned lower appellate court pointed out that once the learned trial court reached to finding that the defendant is a licensee, on the basis of oral agreement, made out a third case of irrevocable licence in favour of the defendant, whereas, the defendant never pleaded himself to be licensee, and dismissed the suit so far as relief of eviction and possession is concerned. The submission of the learned counsel is that he was in possession of the disputed shop on the basis of the agreement between the parties and not on the basis of any license granted by the plaintiff and therefore, he was wrongly considered to be a licensee and as such the court below committed an error in arriving at the conclusion of license.

19. In Himmatrao Marotrao Dhobale v Arun Gulabrao Jichkar 2014 SCC On Line Bom 1252, as referred by the learned senior advocate for the respondent-plaintiff to contradict the argument advanced from the side of the appellant-defendant, there was pleading of plaintiff that the defendant is a licensee of the suit plot which was denied by the defendant who stated that he offered to purchase the suit land but the plaintiff avoided and later on in the knowledge of the plaintiff, he constructed a house thereon. A plea of estoppal was taken. The same was rejected and the trial court concluded on the basis of evidence on record that the plaintiff proved the defendant to be licensee and the defendant cannot be denied the benefit of section 60(b) of the Easement Act on the ground that he denied himself to be licensee. Once it is found that despite deficiency in the pleadings, the parties knew the case and proceeded to trial on those issues by producing evidence, it would not be open to a party to raise the question of absence of pleading in appeal. To further authenticate this view, the judgement in Bhagwati Prasad v Shri Chandramouli AIR 1966 SC 735 may be referred.

20. In view of above discussion, even if the appellant-defendant did not plead himself to be licensee, he rather denied that he is a licensee of the disputed shop, once a finding was reached that he was a licensee in the disputed shop and that finding of the trial court was not disturbed by the learned lower appellate court, section 60 (b) of the Easement Act became applicable.

21. So far as the argument with regard to the oral agreement is concerned, the law is settled that oral agreement to sell immovable property has no legal affect and is not admissible in evidence altogether. In Mool Chand Bakhuru v Rohan (2002) 2 SCC 612, the issue before the Court was whether a person, claiming to be a proposed vendee, can protect his possession of an immovable property on the plea of part performance under section 53-A of the Transfer of Property Act on the basis of an oral agreement, the terms of which have not been reduced in writing? Section 53-A of the Transfer of Property Act reads as follows:

"53A. Part performance.- Where any person contracts to transfer for consideration any immovable property by writing signed by him or on his behalf from which the terms necessary to constitute the transfer can be ascertained with reasonable certainty, and the transferee has, in part performance of the contract, taken possession of the property or any part thereof, or the transferee, being already in possession, continues in possession in part performance of the contract and has done some work in furtherance of the contract, and the transferee has performed or is willing to perform his part of the contract, then, notwithstanding that where there is an instrument of transfer, that the transfer has not been completed in the manner prescribed therefor by the law for the time being in force, the transferor or any person claiming under him shall be debarred from enforcing against the transferee and persons claiming under him any right in respect of property of which the transferee has taken or continued in possession, other than a right expressly provided by the terms of the contract: provided that nothing in this section shall affect the rights of a transferee for consideration who has no notice of the contract or part-performance thereof."

22. It is clear from the above provision itself that in order to attract the said provision, there should be an agreement to transfer immovable property for consideration and it should be in writing and signed by the transferor coupled with delivery of possession of such property and the vendee cannot protect his possession on the basis of an oral agreement. This view finds support from the judgement in Nathulal v Phoolchand (1969) 3 SCC 120 and

Sardar Govindrao Mahadik v Devi Sahai (1982) 1 SCC 237. In Mool Chand Bakhuru (supra), there was no agreement in writing and only letters of the vendor were brought on record in which he had shown his willingness to sell his immovable property. The Supreme Court remarked:

"At the most it is an admission of an oral agreement to sell and not a written agreement. Statutorily, the emphasis is not on a written agreement only. In addition, the emphasis is on the terms of the agreement as well which can be ascertained with reasonable certainty from the written document. There was no meeting of minds. Admission made by Mool Chand of an oral agreement to sell does not spell out the other essential terms of the agreement to sell such as the time frame within which the sale deed was to be executed and as to who would pay the registration charges etc. the letters written by Mool Chand cannot be taken to be an agreement to sell within the meaning of Section 53A spelling out the terms of an agreement for sale."

23. In the case in hand, the learned trial court, after taking into consideration the evidence on record, arrived at the conclusion that there was no written agreement to sell of the disputed shop executed between the parties. This finding of fact was never challenged by the appellant by filing any appeal and therefore, that finding of fact became final and that cannot be subjected to scrutiny in the second appeal. Consequently, it is also not relevant what money was advanced and by whom, by the appellant or his brother. The learned trial court also gave finding that the appellant-defendant was a licensee in the disputed shop and that has also not been challenged by the defendant by filing any appeal against that finding and therefore, that finding of fact also became final and the same cannot be put to scrutiny in this second appeal. Therefore, the dispute involved a limited question of revocability of the licence in view of section 60(b) of the Easement Act.

24. The learned trial court held that the possession of the defendant over the disputed shop was based on implied licence and because the plaintiff failed to establish terms of licence and the notice for revocation was ineffective as the possession was delivered on the basis of oral agreement and the agreement continued between the parties and also that the defendant had removed the intervening wall between the disputed shop and the other shop, the licence was neither revoked nor was revocable.

25. The lower appellate court, however, concluded that once it is found that there was no agreement in writing, the defendant could not protect his possession on the basis of oral agreement if any and the provision of section 53A of the Transfer of Property Act could not be attracted. This finding was based on the settled position of law in view of the judgements in Nathulal (supra) Sardar Govindrao Mahadik (supra) and Mool Chand Bakhuru (supra). Further, the learned lower appellate court concluded on the basis of joint reading of sections 2(d), 2(g), 2(h), 8, 31 and 39 of the Indian Contract Act, sections 5, 9, 53A, 54 and 49 of the Transfer of Property Act and section 17 of the Indian Registration Act and several judgements that a contract for sale of immovable property is required to be not only in writing but also the same is required to be registered, otherwise, the same will have no legal effect and will not be enforced in a court of law and the same shall not be admissible in evidence except in a suit for specific performance of a contract or as evidence of any collateral transaction not required to be affected by registered instrument. It was further held by the learned lower appellate court that a licence does not create a right or interest in the property and the licensee is not legally entitled to a notice to quit before eviction, even then, the plaintiff served a legal notice dated 2.9.2011 revoking the licence and to vacate and deliver the possession of the shop after restoring the intervening shop status quo anti before filing of the suit. After service of this notice, the defendant was legally expected to vacate and deliver back the possession of the disputed shop.

26. As pointed out earlier in this judgement, the moment it was held concurrently by both the courts below that the appellant-defendant was a licensee in the disputed shop, the issue of revocability of the license ought to be determined whether the defendant denied or accepted the plea of license or not. Section 60 of the Easement Act reads as follows:

"License when revocable.- A license may be revoked by the grantor, unless-

(a) it is coupled with a transfer of property and such transfer is in force;

(b) the licensee, acting upon the license, has executed a work of a permanent character and incurred expenses in the execution."

27. The very provision of section 60 shows that license is revocable in the first case when coupled with transfer of the property which is subject matter of such license. Needless to mention that transfer means a transfer which is legally effected and enforceable within the provisions of the Indian Contract Act read with the Transfer of Property Act and the Indian Registration Act. Therefore, in the facts of this case section 60(a) is not applicable. In this case the provision of section 60(b) has been sought to be applied from the side of the appellant-defendant which relates to the execution of work of permanent character in the disputed shop.

28. The submission of the learned counsel for the appellant is that the learned trial court after considering the pleadings and evidence on record, gave a categorical finding that the licence in favour of the appellant-defendant had become irrevocable because of permanent construction made therein. Another argument which has been advanced by the appellant is that after taking disputed shop from the plaintiff, he made development of permanent nature in the said shop. He has submitted that plaintiff respondent has himself admitted this fact. Moreover, the defendant-appellant has made categorical pleading and has tendered positive evidence to show that construction of permanent nature was made in the disputed shop. This fact has not been controverted by the plaintiff respondent, either in pleading or in evidence.

29. Learned counsel to the appellant has also submitted that in order to determine the nature of construction, whether it is permanent or temporary, the nature of the constructed structure and the intention with which it was made, is relevant factor. Evidence on record clearly indicates that the construction of permanent nature has been made in the shop with the intention of using the same for a long period. It has been further submitted that the learned trial court, after considering the pleadings and evidence of the parties gave a finding that the defendant-appellant made construction of permanent nature in the disputed shop but, the learned appellate court has ignored this fact and has even not considered this aspect. Admittedly, the wall between the two shops was removed in order to make the same a single showroom and this shows that the disputed shop was materially altered and permanent construction was raised which is continuing since the year 2003. In support of this contention, the learned counsel has taken reference of the judgement in Venkatalal G. Pittie v Bright Bros (Pvt) Ltd., AIR 1987 SC 1939. He has also referred two other judgements on this aspect of two different High Courts in Surya Properties Pvt. Ltd. v Vimalendu Nath Sarkar, AIR 1964 CAL 1 and Leena Roy Choudhary v Indumati Bose, AIR 1980 Patna 120

30. In Venkatalal (supra), the Supreme Court has discussed the principle for determination of a permanent construction. A perusal of the facts of the case shows that the suit was filed for arrears of rent and vacation of the tenanted premises on the basis of unauthorized construction of permanent nature, damage to wall and floor. A suit was also filed for removal of the unauthorized construction and to restore the suit premises in its original condition. The Supreme Court held that the court has to come to the conclusion regarding work of permanent character on the examination of the nature of structure, the nature of the duration of structure, the annexation and other relevant factors for erecting the constructions by the tenant on the demised premises and the mere fact that a different view can be taken by the trial court, the appellate court cannot interfere with such finding. It is very much clear from the perusal of the said judgement that on fact, judgement was delivered in a very different scenario and there was not much dispute with regard to the fact that permanent construction was raised by the tenant which included new and permanent flooring, tenant had sunk in pillars and stanchions into the flooring for the support of cabins and several rooms, therefore, the learned trial court came to the conclusion that the cabin lofts and pillars supporting the same were attached to the flooring as well as to the walls and columns of the made structure, therefore, it was found to be a permanent structure. In my view, Venkatalal (supra) has been decided on different facts as it was found that construction of permanent nature was erected by the tenant. In the case in hand before this Court, except removal of intervening wall and some fixture, there is no construction made as such by the appellant-defendant inside the disputed shop.

31. In Surya Properties (supra), as referred in Leena Roy Choudhary (supra) while defining 'permanent structure', the Calcutta High Court remarked that 'structure' must be distinguished from the words like 'fixture' and it means something constructed as 'building.' The Court held,

".....in deciding whether a construction is permanent or temporary two factors are of primary importance namely, the nature of structure and the intention with which it is made. If the nature of the structure is such that the structure will endure for a long time, i.e.

so long as the tenant expects to remain there as a lessee, and the intention of the lessee in constructing the structure is that he shall use it as long as he remains a lessee, the construction will be regarded as a 'permanent construction' within the meaning of S. 108(p) of the T.P. Act even though the consideration may be capable of removal without causing permanent damage to the leased premises."

32. In Leena Roy Choudhary (supra), the issue of breach of terms of tenancy was involved as the appellant had constructed without permission of the landlord a kitchen of brick wall on open terrace demolishing side walls of the old kitchen and also made unauthorized alteration in the stair case and varandah. The first appellate court held this construction and demolition to be material alteration in the tenanted portion and directed for eviction of the tenant. The second appeal against this decision was dismissed by the High Court. Needless to mention here that all the above referred cases were factually different as admittedly permanent construction was found to have been raised.

33. Reference has been also taken of the two judgements of this court in Amjad Khan v Shafiuddin AIR 1925 All 203 and Sitara Shahjahan Begam v Munna AIR 1927 All 342, the first relating to licensee and the other was a case of lessee and in both the cases permanent construction was admittedly raised and therefore, no benefit would result to the appellant-defendant in the facts of the case in hand except that in the first case, the legal position has been reiterated that a license cannot be revoked, if the licensee acting upon the license had executed a work of a permanent character. The same view has been further affirmed in Manzoor Ahamad v Muhammad Abdul Jamil AIR 1933 All 842.

34. In Ram Sarup Gupta v Bishun Narain Inter College (1987) 2 SCC 555, a building and attached open land was leased and the same was converted into a licence in order to facilitate the recognition of the school. Thereafter, the grantor revoked the licence and asked to vacate and deliver possession. It was found that to meet the needs of school, permanent construction was raised on open land. The trial court dismissed the suit and the same was affirmed by the High Court. Matter reached to the Supreme Court. Keeping in view that the licence was granted to school of the building and attached open land for the purpose of imparting education, the Court dismissed the appeal and laid down as under:

"The principle behind section 60 is that if a person allows another to build on his land in furtherance of the purpose for which he had granted licence, subject to any agreement to the contrary, he cannot turn round later on to revoke the licence. Section 60 is not exhaustive. The parties may agree expressly or impliedly that a licence which is prima facie revocable not falling within either of the two categories of licence as contemplated by section 60 of the Act shall be irrevocable. Similarly, even if the two clauses of section 60 are fulfilled to render the licence irrevocable yet it may not be so if the parties agree to the contrary. Such agreements may be in writing or otherwise and their terms and conditions may be express or implied. A licence may be oral also and in that case terms, conditions and the nature of the licence can be gathered from the purpose for which the licence is granted coupled with the conduct of the parties and the circumstances which may have led to the grant of licence."

35. The learned counsel to the respondent-plaintiff has pointed out that it was on the appellant-defendant to show by cogent evidence that the alteration made by him in the disputed shop was of permanent character and mere fixture inside on the walls befitting the same for the purpose of running shop, will not be taken to be an improvement of permanent nature. He has also submitted that it was the incumbent duty of the appellant-defendant to bring on record through commission or otherwise, the position of alteration claimed to be permanent in nature. In support of his arguments, the learned counsel has referred the judgement in Shanker Gopinath Apte v Gangabai Hariharrao Patwardhan AIR 1976 SC 2506, Sant Lal Jain v Avtar Singh AIR 1985 SC 857.

36. In Shanker Gopinath Apte (supra), the appellant claimed to be in possession of disputed land as tenant under a power of attorney on the basis of a written letter sent by the appellant to the respondent accepting the terms of power of attorney and agreeing to pay Rs. 2000/- per year, though the object of the power of attorney was to arm the appellant with a written authority to evict unauthorized occupants and to put appellant in possession as a potential purchaser. The appellant failed to prove himself tenant. He thereafter raised the plea in appeal of being licensee, without any such plea taken or evidence given before the courts below, and claimed that the license was irrevocable as he had executed the work of permanent character. The Supreme Court observed as under:

"But having spent some time in chasing the argument, we are constrained to say that such evidence as there is on the record seems inadequate to prove the improvements made or expenses incurred by the appellant. He has admitted in the evidence that the figures which he gave in his examination-in-chief as regards amount spent on improvements were stated from memory and that he has not produced his accounts to corroborate the oral word. Only one thing need to be stated: even assuming that the appellant has executed work of a permanent character on the land it cannot be said that he has done so "acting upon the licence" as required by section 60(b) of the Easement Act. If he really improved the land by executing a work of a permanent character, he did so in the belief that being a tenant he will become a statutory purchaser of the land, or that the oral agreement of sale will one fine day be implemented. The execution of work would therefore be in his capacity as a tenant or a prospective purchaser and not in his capacity as a licence."

37. In Sant Lal Jain (supra), the licensor instead of filing a suit for possession, filed a suit for permanent injunction after revocation of licence. It was held as under by the Supreme Court:

"Further, the respondent was a licensee, and he must be deemed to be always a licensee. It is not open to him during subsistence of the licence or in the suit for recovery of possession of the property instituted after the revocation of the licence to set up title to the property in himself or anyone else. It is his plain duty to surrender possession of the property as a licensee and seek his remedy separately in case he has acquired title to the property subsequently through some other person."

38. In the present case, no such construction has been shown to have been erected by the defendant. It was alleged in the plaint by the plaintiff that the wall between the two shops was removed in order to make it one shop. Removal of wall and raising of wall are two different things. Raising of wall may amount to a permanent structure, whereas, removal of existing wall between two shops may not amount to permanent structure as there is no construction on the surface area of the shop nor there is any reduction in the surface area.

39. In this case, the disputed property is a shop constructed and allotted by ADA to be used as shop. Therefore, presumably, the surface area was covered by construction and because it was constructed by ADA, it can be inferred that the same must have been constructed according to approved plan and map. Admittedly, the intervening wall of the disputed shop and the adjacent shop was removed by the defendant. There appears to be no material on record to show that any construction was made inside the disputed shop. Fixture on the wall is not at all an improvement of permanent character. As such, the license in favour of the appellant-defendant remains of revocable nature and the conclusion arrived at by the learned lower appellate court is legally sustainable.

40. On the basis of above discussion, I find that all the questions raised by the appellant-defendant involves only question of fact which have been adequately addressed by the learned lower appellate court. There is no concealment of any such fact with regards to the terms of allotment which was not in the knowledge of the appellant-defendant. There is no vagueness in the plaint assertion. The judgement of the learned lower appellate court is based on the material on record and nothing substantial has been missed, misread and ignored so far as pleading and the evidence of the parties is concerned. There is no error in the finding that the defendant is not entitled to the benefit of section 60(b) of the Easement Act. Despite the fact that the same was not discussed in depth and detail, as discussed above, the finding recorded so by the learned lower appellate court is a pure question of fact and on the basis of above discussion, I find that no otherwise conclusion was possible on the basis of facts alleged and evidence produced by the parties. The learned lower appellate court, by impugned judgement, has reversed the judgement of the learned lower court so far as it was decided against the respondent-plaintiff, on the sound reasons considering the evidence and law applicable to the facts and circumstances of the case.

41. On the basis of above discussion, I find that no substantial question of law is involved in this second appeal. The appeal lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

42. Accordingly, this second appeal is dismissed. The appellant-defendant shall vacate the disputed shop within 4 months and deliver back the possession thereof to the respondent -plaintiff.

43. The office is directed to transmit a certified copy of this judgement to the court below forthwith.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rakesh Srivastava,J.)

1. List has been revised. Service on respondent no. 1 has been dispensed with. No one appears on behalf of respondent nos. 2 & 3 in spite of sufficient service.

2. This first appeal from order under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "Act'), has been filed by Smt. Ranjana Rawat, the wife of Brijesh Kumar (the deceased), against the judgment and award dated 31.07.2015 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No. VII, Faizabad in Claim Petition No.101 of 2014, (Smt. Ranjana Rawat v M/s. Flora and Fauna Housing and Land Development Private Limited and others), seeking enhancement of compensation.

3. On 04.03.2014, at about 5 p.m., a truck bearing Registration No. UP 22T 1211 owned by M/s Flora and Fauna Housing and Land Development Private Limited (respondent no. 1) and driven by Santosh Kumar (respondent no. 2) dashed against a tractor trolley bearing Registration No. UP 51F 1948. The accident took place near Banveerpur crossing on National Highway 28. As a result of the said accident, Brijesh Kumar, Vijay Kumar, Gullan alias Ajay Kumar and Rajit Ram sustained grievous injuries. All the injured persons were taken to District Hospital, Faizabad, where Vijay Kumar died during treatment. The deceased was referred to Trauma Centre, Lucknow and during treatment at Lucknow, he too died in the intervening night of 04/05.03.2014.

4. Smt. Ranjana Rawat, the claimant-appellant, claiming herself to be the wife of the deceased, filed a claim petition under Section 166 of the Act. Through the claim petition, the appellant claimed compensation to the tune of Rs 19,21,000/-, alongwith interest @ 14% per annum. She pleaded that the accident was caused due to the rash and negligent driving on the part of driver of the truck owned by respondent no. 1. At the time of his death, the deceased was 25 years old and was a mason and a driver of a L.M.V. earning Rs 6,000/- per month. Kamlau (respondent no.3), the father of the deceased was impleaded as an opposite party in the claim petition.

5. In their written statement respondent nos. 1 & 2, the owner and driver of the truck, denied the averments made in the claim petition. It was inter alia stated by them that the alleged accident did not take place with the truck bearing Registration No. UP 22T 1211. They stated that the driver of the truck was a skilled driver who had a valid and effective driving licence. They additionally mentioned that the said truck was insured with the New India Assurance Company Ltd and hence, the insurance company would be liable to pay the compensation, if any. Respondent no. 4, the insurance company, also denied the averments made in the claim petition in its written statement.

6. Respondent no. 3, the father of the deceased, in his written statement, denied the right of the claimant to get compensation by alleging that the claimant was not married to the deceased and did not live in his house. He claimed that being the father of the deceased, he was entitled to get the compensation.

7. The Tribunal, on the basis of the pleadings of the parties, framed as many as five issues. In support of the claim petition, the appellant examined herself as PW 1 and Ranjit Ram as PW 2. The appellant also filed documentary evidence in support of her case. The respondents did not examine any witnesses in defence and also did not file any documentary evidence.

8. The Tribunal, after analyzing the oral and documentary evidence on record, and after considering the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties, repelled the contention advanced on behalf of respondent no. 3 that the appellant was not the legally wedded wife of the deceased and was not entitled to compensation. The Tribunal further held that it was a case of composite negligence and relying upon the decision of the Apex Court in the case of T.O. Antony v. Karvarnan, (2008) 3 SCC 748, held that the petition was maintainable against the offending truck.

9. The Tribunal held that the deceased was an unskilled labourer and in the absence of any documentary evidence on record assumed the notional income of the deceased as Rs 3,000/- per month. It was also determined that the deceased was married to the appellant and his age was between 25 to 30 years. The Tribunal held that the appellant, as well as respondent no. 3, the father of the deceased, were entitled to compensation. Accordingly, the Tribunal deducted one-third (1/3rd) towards the personal and living expenses of the deceased, and determined that the effective loss of earnings to the family was Rs 2,000/- per month (or Rs 24,000/- per annum). The Tribunal then applied the multiplier of 18 and declared that the dependents were entitled to get the total compensation of Rs 4,32,000/- along with interest at the rate of 7% per annum from the date of the claim petition. It apportioned the compensation between the appellant and respondent no. 3 in the ratio of 70:30. Respondent nos. 1 & 2 were held to be liable and the insurance company (respondent no. 4) was directed to pay the aforesaid compensation to the appellant and respondent no. 3.

10. Sri Amit Tripathi, learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the notional income awarded to the appellant is on the lower side. He has further submitted that the Tribunal committed an error of law in not awarding any amount towards future prospects and under the conventional heads. Sri Inderpreet Singh Chaddha, learned counsel for respondent no. 4 on the other hand has supported the impugned order.

11. Heard the learned counsel for the contesting parties and perused the impugned judgment and award as well as the material brought on record.

12. In so far as the income of the deceased is concerned, the Tribunal has held that the deceased was a labourer and since no positive proof of the income was lead, relying upon the case of Laxmi Devi (supra), income of Rs 3,000/- per month was taken as notional income. The income assessed by the Tribunal appears to be on the lower side.

13. In New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Smt. Resha Devi & Ors, 2017 (3) ALJ 199, a Division Bench of this Court comprising of Hon'ble Krishna Murari and Prashant Kumar, JJ, in paragraph nos. 9, 10 & 11 of the said report has held as under:--

"9. The next submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that income of Rs.100/- per day presumed by the tribunal is extremely on higher side is without any force and not liable to be accepted. Tribunal in recording the said claim has relied upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Laxmi Devi and another v. Mohammad Tabbar and others, 2008 (2) TAC 394 SC wherein notional income to unskilled labour was presumed to be Rs.100/- per day. Much water has flown since 2008. It is a matter of common knowledge that with the rise in price index, there has been considerable increase in the wages of salaried as well as self employed person. The average income of even a daily labour in 2014 when the accident took place cannot be presumed to be less than Rs.200/- per day. In our considered opinion, the tribunal committed a manifest error of law in presuming the notional income of the deceased to be Rs.100/- per day.

10. In the case of Santosh Devi v. National Insurance Company Limited and others (2012) 6 SCC 421 in paragraph 17 of the reports has observed as under :

"17. Although the wages/income of those employed in organised sectors has not registered a corresponding increase and has not kept pace with the increase in the salaries of the government employees and those employed in private sectors, but it cannot be denied that there has been incremental enhancement in the income of those who are self-employed and even those engaged on daily basis, monthly basis of even seasonal basis. We can take judicial notice of the fact that with a view to meet the challenges posed by high cost of living, the persons falling in the latter category periodically increase the cost of their labour. In this contest, it may be useful to give an example of a tailor who earns his livelihood by stitching clothes. If the cost of living increases and the prices of essentials go up, it is but natural for him to increase the cost of his labour. So will be the cases of ordinary skilled and unskilled labour, like, barber, blacksmith, cobbler, mason, etc.

11. There can be no exact uniform rule for measuring the value of the human life and the measure of damages cannot be arrived at by precise mathematical calculations. Obviously award of damages would depend upon the particular facts and circumstances of the case but the element of fairness in the amount of compensation so determined is the ultimate guiding factor. In such view of the matter, presumption of Rs.100/- per day as notional income even for a unskilled labour in the year 2014 appears to us to be frugal and by no stretch of imagination to be just even the minimum wages fixed by the State Government is much higher than that looking to the rise in cost index. We are of the considered upon that notional income of an unskilled labour could not be less than Rs.200/- per day. (emphasis supplied)

14. In New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Smt. Meena Devi, FAFO No. 2390 of 2015, another Division Bench of this Court opined as under:-

"So far as the income of the deceased, as assessed by the Tribunal as Rs.3000/- per month, is concerned, learned counsel for the appellant has contended that even an iota of evidence was not produced with regard to the income of the deceased and such the Tribunal erred in assessing the income of the deceased to be at Rs.3000/- per month and awarding future prospects as the deceased was not in a permanent job. In this connection it is to be noted that as per the evidence on record, the accident occurred in the year 2014 and now-a-days, an ordinary mason, skilled labour or coolie earns Rs.200-300/- per day and looking to the income as Rs.3000/- per month assessed by the Tribunal, it cannot be said that it was on higher side, rather it was on the lower side. Further more, looking to the fact that the deceased might have spent 1/5th of the income upon him and taking his age between 35-40 years, as assessed by the Tribunal, at the time of his death, if the income is calculated, then the income assessed was rather on meager side."

15. Again in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Shyam Lal, FAFO No. 2010 of 2016, this Court has held as under:-

"In so far as the presumption of Rs.200/- per day as notional income is concerned, we do find any fault with the same. It is a matter of common knowledge that in recent past there has been considerable increase in the wages and earning of the employee as well as self-employed person. Admittedly, the accident took place on 07.09.2014. A presumption of notional income of Rs.200/- per day even for unskilled daily labour can, by no stretch of imagination, be said to be on the higher side. Thus, we do not find any fault in the Tribunal presuming the said income for determination of compensation." (emphasis supplied)

16. The purpose of compensation under the Act is to fully and adequately restore the aggrieved to the position prior to the accident. The Apex Court in Raj Kumar v. Ajay Kumar, (2011) 1 SCC 343, explained "just compensation" in the following words:-

"5. The provision of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 ("the Act", for short) makes it clear that the award must be just, which means that compensation should, to the extent possible, fully and adequately restore the claimant to the position prior to the accident. The object of awarding damages is to make good the loss suffered as a result of wrong done as far as money can do so, in a fair, reasonable and equitable manner."

17. In this case the accident and death occurred in the year 2014. In view of the discussions made above, it would be proper to assess the income of the deceased as Rs 200/- per day. It is true that a labourer may not get work every day, hence the income of the deceased is assessed as Rs 5,000/- per month.

18. The next question relates to the addition of future prospects. The Tribunal, in the present matter, has denied future prospects to the claimants by relying upon the judgment in Reshma Kumari v. Madan Mohan and others, (2013) 9 SCC 65. The issue regarding future prospects has now been settled by a Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra). The relevant portion of the said report is being reproduced below for ready reference:

"56. The seminal issue is the fixation of future prospects in cases of deceased who are self-employed or on a fixed salary. Sarla Verma v. DTC, (2009) 6 SCC 121, has carved out an exception permitting the claimants to bring materials on record to get the benefit of addition of future prospects. It has not, per se, allowed any future prospects in respect of the said category.

57. Having bestowed our anxious consideration, we are disposed to think when we accept the principle of standardisation, there is really no rationale not to apply the said principle to the self-employed or a person who is on a fixed salary. To follow the doctrine of actual income at the time of death and not to add any amount with regard to future prospects to the income for the purpose of determination of multiplicand would be unjust. The determination of income while computing compensation has to include future prospects so that the method will come within the ambit and sweep of just compensation as postulated under Section 168 of the Act."

"We are inclined to think that there can be some degree of difference as regards the percentage that is meant for or applied to in respect of the legal representatives who claim on behalf of the deceased who had a permanent job than a person who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. But not to apply the principle of standardisation on the foundation of perceived lack of certainty would tantamount to remaining oblivious to the marrows of ground reality. And, therefore, degree-test is imperative. Unless the degree-test is applied and left to the parties to adduce evidence to establish, it would be unfair and inequitable. The degree-test has to have the inbuilt concept of percentage. Taking into consideration the cumulative factors, namely, passage of time, the changing society, escalation of price, the change in price index, the human attitude to follow a particular pattern of life, etc., an addition of 40% of the established income of the deceased towards future prospects and where the deceased was below 40 years an addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years would be reasonable."

19. In Hem Raj v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., (2018) 15 SCC 654, the Apex Court has held as under:-

"6. The learned counsel for the Insurance Company submitted that in the absence of actual evidence of income the principle of adding on account of future prospects cannot be applied where income is determined by guesswork.

7. We are of the view that there cannot be distinction where there is positive evidence of income and where minimum income is determined on guesswork in the facts and circumstances of a case. Both the situations stand at the same footing. Accordingly, in the present case, addition of 40% to the income assessed by the Tribunal is required to be made. The Tribunal made addition of 50% while the High Court has deleted the same."

20. In so far as addition of non pecuniary damages towards loss of consortium, loss of estate and funeral expenses is concerned, this issue has also been settled in the case of Pranay Sethi (Supra). The relevant portion of the said report is extracted below:-

"52. ...The conventional and traditional heads, needless to say, cannot be determined on percentage basis because that would not be an acceptable criterion. Unlike determination of income, the said heads have to be quantified. Any quantification must have a reasonable foundation. There can be no dispute over the fact that price index, fall in bank interest, escalation of rates in many a field have to be noticed. The court cannot remain oblivious to the same. There has been a thumb rule in this aspect. Otherwise, there will be extreme difficulty in determination of the same and unless the thumb rule is applied, there will be immense variation lacking any kind of consistency as a consequence of which, the orders passed by the tribunals and courts are likely to be unguided. Therefore, we think it seemly to fix reasonable sums. It seems to us that reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs 15,000, Rs 40,000 and Rs 15,000 respectively. The principle of revisiting the said heads is an acceptable principle. But the revisit should not be fact-centric or quantum-centric. We think that it would be condign that the amount that we have quantified should be enhanced on percentage basis in every three years and the enhancement should be at the rate of 10% in a span of three years. We are disposed to hold so because that will bring in consistency in respect of those heads."

21. In view of the foregoing discussions, it is apparent that the Tribunal has erred in assuming the notional income of the deceased as Rs 3,000/- per month and in not awarding any amount towards future prospects and conventional heads.

22. Thus, in the light of the above mentioned principles, the compensation awarded by the Tribunal needs to be determined again. Notional income of the deceased is assessed as Rs 5,000/- per month (or Rs 60,000/- per annum). Considering the principles of dependence, one-third (1/3rd) of the income of the deceased is liable to be deducted towards the amount which he would have spent upon himself, if he had remained alive. After deducting one-third from his annual income towards his personal and living expenses, his contribution to the family is assessed as Rs 40,000/- per annum. Since the age of the deceased was less than 40 years, an addition of 40% of the annual income should be made on account of future prospects on the basis of Pranay Sethi (supra). The annual income of the deceased would thus be Rs 56,000/-. Considering the age of the deceased, a multiplier of 18 is to be applied. Accordingly, the loss of dependency is assessed as Rs 10,08,000/-. In addition to the above, the claimants are also entitled to Rs 15,000/- towards funeral expenses, Rs 15,000/- for loss of estate and Rs 40,000/- towards loss of consortium.

23. Thus the total compensation to which the claimants are entitled is Rs 10,78,000/- The compensation is accordingly increased from Rs 4,32,000/- to Rs 10,78,000/-. The increased amount shall carry interest @ 7% per annum from the date of claim petition.

24. At this juncture, it is relevant to refer to the judgment of the Apex Court in Ranjana Prakash v. Divisional Manager, (2011) 14 SCC 639, wherein it has been laid down that in the absence of an appeal on behalf of the claimants, the compensation awarded by the Tribunal cannot be enhanced. Paragraphs 7 and 8 of the judgment are reproduced below:

"7. This principle also flows from Order 41 Rule 33 of the Code of Civil Procedure which enables an appellate court to pass any order which ought to have been passed by the trial court and to make such further or other order as the case may require, even if the respondent had not filed any appeal or cross-objections. This power is entrusted to the appellate court to enable it to do complete justice between the parties. Order 41 Rule 33 of the Code can however be pressed into service to make the award more effective or maintain the award on other grounds or to make the other parties to litigation to share the benefits or the liability, but cannot be invoked to get a larger or higher relief. For example, where the claimants seek compensation against the owner and the insurer of the vehicle and the Tribunal makes the award only against the owner, on an appeal by the owner challenging the quantum, the appellate court can make the insurer jointly and severally liable to pay the compensation, along with the owner, even though the claimants had not challenged the non-grant of relief against the insurer. Be that as it may.

8. Where an appeal is filed challenging the quantum of compensation, irrespective of who files the appeal, the appropriate course for the High Court is to examine the facts and by applying the relevant principles, determine the just compensation. If the compensation determined by it is higher than the compensation awarded by the Tribunal, the High Court will allow the appeal, if it is by the claimants and dismiss the appeal, if it is by the owner/insurer. Similarly, if the compensation determined by the High Court is lesser than the compensation awarded by the Tribunal, the High Court will dismiss any appeal by the claimants for enhancement, but allow any appeal by the owner/insurer for reduction. The High Court cannot obviously increase the compensation in an appeal by the owner/insurer for reducing the compensation, nor can it reduce the compensation in an appeal by the claimants seeking enhancement of compensation." (emphasis supplied)

25. In the case at hand, the present appeal has been filed by Smt. Ranjana Rawat, the claimant-appellant alone. Neither any appeal has been filed by Kamlau (respondent no. 3, the father of the deceased) nor any cross objection has been preferred by him in the present appeal and, as such, in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Ranjana Prakash (supra) the compensation awarded to Kamlau, respondent no. 3 cannot be enhanced in this appeal which has been filed only by widow of the deceased.

26. As already mentioned above, the Tribunal has apportioned the compensation between the appellant and respondent no. 3 in the ratio of 70:30. Thus, the appellant would be entitled to 70% of Rs 10,78,000/- along with interest as mentioned above, whereas the respondent no. 3 would be entitled to 30% of Rs 4,32,000/- along with interest as awarded by the Tribunal.

27. In view of the above, the appeal is allowed. The impugned judgment and award stands modified to the extent indicated above.

28. The parties shall bear their respective costs.

(Para 16 & 18)

First Appeal From Order dismissed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Kumar Mishra-I, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

2. This first appeal from order has been preferred against the judgment and award dated 29.2.2016 passed in Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge (Court No.7) Muzaffar Nagar in M.A.C.P. No. 308 of 2014-Smt. Kamlawati and others Versus Versus Narbir Singh and another whereby the concerned tribunal awarded compensation amount to the tune of Rs. 4,34,000/- carrying on 7% interest to the claimant respondents under various heads.

3. The facts relevant for adjudication of this appeal discernible from the record appear to be that in this case allegations are that some accident took place on 30.12.2013 at 7.30 p.m. on distillery crossing by the side of G.T. Road in district Muzaffarnagar when a motorcycle Splendor Plus No . U.P. 15-A.B.3978 on which two persons were riding was about to stop then it was hit by some bus coming from Muzaffar Nagar side due to which the motor cycle went out of control and it collided with Virendra Kumar, who was standing by the side of the road due to which Virendra Kumar sustained several injuries on his person, he was taken to Muzaffar Nagar medical college where he was hospitalized on 30.12.2013 around 9 a.m. where he succumbed to his injuries on 31.12.2013 at 7.40 a.m. Post mortem examination on the dead body of the deceased was conducted.

4. In view of the aforesaid accidental death, claim was preferred by the present claimant-respondents before the aforesaid claim tribunal wherein the insurer of the aforesaid offending motorcycle U.P. 15-A.B. 3978 was also impleaded as opposite party no. 2 along-with owner of the vehicle as opposite party no. 1. The case was contested between the parties and written statement was filed whereupon the tribunal framed as many as five issues.

5. Issue no. 1 related to fact whether the accident in question was caused on 30.12.2013 at 7.30 a.m. and at that point of time aforesaid Virendra Kumar along-with Sudheer was standing hundred meters away from the distillery crossing at G.T. Road within police station Mansurpur, waiting for his son when a bus coming from Muzaffar Nagar side collided with one motorcycle No. U.P. 15-A.B. 3978 on which two persons were riding, when the motorcycle was about to stop and at that point of time the bus hit it due to which the motorcycle went out of control resultantly collided with Virendra Kumar due to which Virendra Kumar sustained injuries and died during the course of treatment. If yes, its effect ?

6. Issue no. 2 related to the fact whether the road accident was caused by the driver of the motorcycle No. U.P. 15-A.B. 3978 and the accident was the outcome of contributory negligence of the deceased Virendra Kumar, if yes its effect ?

7. Issue no. 3 related to the fact whether on the aforesaid date and time the driver of the aforesaid motorcycle No. U.P. 15-A.B. 3978 was possessing a valid and effective driving licence ?

8. Issue no. 4 related to the fact whether the aforesaid vehicle was insured with the present appellant on the date and time of the accident and the same was being given in accordance with the terms and conditions of the insurance policy?

9. Issue no. 5 related to the fact of quantum of compensation, as to what compensation and from whom and to what proportion the claimants are entitled to receive?

10. Both the sidesfiled their papers, which have been taken on record and described in the body of the award of the tribunal, the same need not be repeated for the sake of convenience. However, in case as and when the context arises, the same will be referred.

11. The claimant got examined three witnesses P.W. 1 Kamlawati, P.W. 2 Jai Prakash and P.W. 3 Sudhir and the opposite party/owner got examined D.W. 1 Pawan Kumar. The tribunal after considering the merit of the case and after hearing the arguments allowed the claim petition to the aforesaid extent, consequently, this appeal.

12. Sri Sushil Kumar Mehrotra, learned counsel for the National Insurance Company Ltd. has vehemently contended that it is a case of blind accident, in fact, no one saw the accident having been caused by the involvement of the motorcycle in question. The story of accident was cooked up by the claimant in order to obtain compensation from a vehicle which was insured with some company and in their bid they somehow involved the present motorcycle, which was insured with the appellant company.

13. The learned counsel added that the entirety of the case, the evidence on record and the allegations if properly scrutinized give impression that it is purely a case of hit and run thus confined to the provisions of section 161 of the Motor Vehicles Act. Therefore, the compensation amount to the tune of over Rs. 4 lakhs is not justified and the amount which is admissible and permissible for cases confined to 'hit and run' alone should have been awarded, which the insurance company is ready, if so directed, though there is no responsibility on the insurance company because it was the unknown offending vehicle/bus which caused the accident. The investigation was done and final report was submitted. This aspect exposes the claim of the claimant-respondent. The testimony of P.W. 3 Sudhir does not inspire confidence. Further, the eye witness account of P.W. 3 Sudhir should have been interpreted and appreciated with utmost caution in view of the prevailing facts and circumstances of the case and the sanctity which is normally attached to the testimony of witnesses in the cases like the present one should not be presumed to be so and presumption of truthfulness of the testimony was erroneously taken to be the guiding factor while determining the point of the accident. The learned counsel concluded by claiming that assuming it to be that any such accident took place and it really hit the motor cycle as claimed then the things are obvious and the principal of 'Res ipsa loquitur' 'the thing cannot tell a lie, the person can' will apply. The very manner of committing the accident presupposes negligence of the bus driver itself and thatis super added by the negligence of the motorcyclist. Someone claims that it was about to stop then the precautionary brakes as was expected to be applied to the motorcycle was not applied properly and in case it was parked, then it was not properly parked and the accident took place because of wrong parking. Viewing from any angle, the only outcome would be reflection of negligence of both the drivers of the offending vehicles involved in the accident then in this situation proportional damage should have been fixed on each of the two involved vehicles, which has not been done properly by the tribunal and the insurance company of the motorcycle cannot be solely made responsible to pay the compensation amount, as such. It is not a case of joint trotfeasors but there are separate and different trotfeasors for which the responsibility of each trotfeasor is to be assessed on the basis of the respective claim. The deceased himself did not take precaution and exposed himself to the risk by standing nearer to the road, that way he also contributed towards the accident.

14. While replying to the aforesaid argument learned counsel for the claimant-respondent vehemently claimed that the case of the claimant-respondent has been proved satisfactorily beyond all doubt by production of eye witness account as P.W.3. P.W. 3 was cross examined extensively by the insurance company but nothing adverse emerged which may lead to accept the aforesaid contention raised by the insurance company that the accident was the outcome of the rash and negligent driving of the bus by the bus driver and no such accident ever took place and the driver of the insured vehicle was negligent and the deceased himself was negligent. On all these points there is no material emerging from the cross examination of P.W. 3 which can be considered to be favourable to the insurance company. May be that the circumstances are not consistent and there is some inherent improbability but that improbability cannot be stretched to a situation claiming that the deceased died in different manner rather than the one claimed by the claimant respondents. Had there been no accident, and had there been no situation as claimed by the claimant-respondents then the insurance company would have been competent enough and would have come out specifically with the testimony disclaiming the incident in question. Merely filing of the final report by police, would not be suffice to throw away the claim of the claimant-respondents. In such cases of motor accidentlodging of FIR and other police formalities are not necessary. The sanctity of the witnesses is given highest place and the witness produced by the claimant respondent side out and out proved the factum of the incident and the tribunal has rightly observed that the deceased did not contribute to the incident and the driver of the offending motor cycle also did not contribute to the accident.

15. Learned counsel for the claimant-respondents, however claimed that the amount of compensation awarded was reduced by the tribunal which is not justified. However, it should be just and proper as claimed by the claimant- respondent.

16. I have considered the respective submissions of the learned counsel and also perused the record and particularly the award in question. Learned counsel for the insurance company has also engaged the attention of this Court to the testimony of D.W. 1, and has claimed that this testimony of the driver of the motorcycle in question is relevant for defining the correct position. The correct position is that the motorcycle had been parked and on that point of time when the alleged incident took place, the driver of the motorcycle had in the meanwhile gone for toilet, therefore, the claim that the motorcycle was about to stop or it was parked stands refuted. On this point learned counsel for the claimant respondent engaged attention of this Court to the testimony of P.W. 3. Testimony of P.W. 3 is reflectory of fact that the incident in question was primarily originated by the bus, which was unknown, however, it hit the motorcycle from behind which in consequence dashed with the deceased Virendra Kumar, due to which he sustained injuries and died during course of treatment. On this point the cross examination done has not come out with any perceptible flaw or error to be construed in favour of the appellant that the testimony is nottruthful on the point of accident. In view of the consistent testimony of P.W. 3 obviously, it cannot be said that the deceased ever contributed towards the accident. Further, it is a claim petition under section 163-A of the Motor Vehicle Act wherein the point of negligence need not be specifically established to the ambit claimed by the insurance company. Therefore, the finding in so far as on issue no. 1 is concerned as recorded by the tribunal is on the face just and consistent and the same need no interference by this Court.

17. In so far as the entire quantam of compensation is concerned, then the tribunal has rightly assessed the compensation and has under various heads assessed the monthly income to Rs.3,000/- which amount was reduced by 1/3 margin while assessing the annual income, thus, annual income was calculated to Rs. 24000/- and after adding 30% as future prospect say Rs.7200/- in the annual income, it was assessed to Rs. 31,200/-.

18. Thereafter, applying the multiplier of 15 the compensation amount was assessed to Rs. 4,14,000/- then Rs. 5,000/- was awarded for loss of estate, Rs.5,000/- for loss of love and affection and Rs. 5,000/- for funeral expenses and under head of loss of company of the husband Rs. 5000/- was awarded, thus aggregating to Rs. 4,34,000/-. This amount along-with 7% interest was awarded as over all compensation and under circumstances in cannot be said to be either unreasonable or excessive and the finding recorded by the tribunal on all the issues are liable to be confirmed. Consequently, the appeal being without any force is liable to be dismissed and the judgment and award dated 29.2.2016 passed in M.A.C.P. No. 308 of 2014 is hereby confirmed.

19. The entire amount of compensation shall be paid to the claimant respondent in the proportion as directed by the tribunal. At this stage, money deposited by the insurance company at the time of presentation of this appeal i.e. Rs. 25,000/- shall be remitted to the trial court if it has not been done so far and the insurance company is directed to deposit the remaining entire amount outstanding with the tribunal concerned within a period of 30 days from today by adjusting the amount, if any, already deposited and paid.

20. However, the learned counsel for the insurance company claimed that for completing official formalities, some more time is needed for ensuring the compliance for which he prays for two and half months period at least. The plea is sustained.

21. The amount of compensation may be deposited in two and half months from today.

22. Consequently, this appeal is dismissed.

23. Costs easy.

1. The following questions have been referred for our consideration by a Division Bench of this Court vide reference order dated 24.05.2018 passed in Writ Petition No. 4529(M/B) of 2018; Mahindra & Mahindra Financial Services Ltd. Vs. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary, Transport & Others:-

"1. Whether in view of Sections 2(g), 2(h), 4, 9, 10, 12, 13, 14 and 20 of the Act, 1997 read with Sections 39, 50 and 51 of the Act, 1988 and other relevant provisions of the said enactments and the Rules of 1998 and 1989, a Financier of a motor vehicle/ transport vehicle in respect of which a hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation agreement has been entered, is liable to tax from the date of taking possession of the said vehicle under the said agreements, even if, its name is not entered in the Certificate of Registration or not? If not, who is liable in this regard?

2. Whether the judgments rendered in the case of Lakhimpur Finvest Company Ltd. (supra), Manish Mukhriya (supra) and Shri Prakash (supra) and/or the judgments rendered in the case of Amar Nath Chaubey (supra) and Shriram Transport Finance Company Limited (supra), lay down the law correctly on the issue framed as Question No. 1 ?"

2. The Court had issued notice to opposite party no. 4 but inspite of service being sufficient as per Rules of the Court no one has appeared before us to argue the matter on his behalf.

3. We have heard Shri Amol Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Amitabh Kumar Rai, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State.

Facts

4. Although, we are not required to decide any factual issues involved in the writ petition nevertheless a brief narration of relevant facts would help in understanding the issues before us. Petitioner is the Financier who had extended a loan to opposite party no. 4 for purchase of a transport vehicle. The terms of loan were reduced in writing in form of an agreement dated 26.06.2012. It is not in dispute that the agreement involved hypothecation of the vehicle, thereby creating a charge in respect thereof in favour of the Financier as security for loan advanced. It is also not in dispute that said agreement contained a condition entitling the petitioner to take possession of the hypothecated vehicle in the event of default and also the right to sell it. Opposite party no. 4 defaulted in payment of loan amount. Accordingly, Petitioner-

Financier took possession of the vehicle in question on 09.12.2014. Opposite party no. 4 informed the Registering Authority on 09.12.2014 about possession of the vehicle having been taken by Financier. Opposite party no. 4-registered owner had paid all taxes prior to the date of such possession. Tax in respect of the vehicle for the period 01.01.2015 to 31.12.2017 remained unpaid. Accordingly, a notice dated 06.07.2016 was issued to opposite party no. 4 i.e. registered owner, who, being aggrieved, filed a writ petition before this Court bearing No. 11147(M/B) of 2019; Jamil Ahmad Vs. State of U.P. challenging said notice on the ground that possession of the vehicle having been taken by the Financier he was not liable to pay tax for the period subsequent to such possession and it was the Finance Company which was under an obligation to pay the same. Writ Court, without issuing notice to the petitioner-Financier, who was a party therein, decided the petition vide judgment dated 22.05.2017 observing therein that it is not disputed by the learned counsel for the parties that controversy involved in the said writ petition is similar to the one decided in the case of Daya Shanker Yadav Vs. State of U.P. and Anr. reported in 2008(1) AWC 801 and is squarely covered by it and, accordingly, it disposed of the petition of opposite party no. 4 in terms of judgment in Daya Shanker Yadav' case (supra) by permitting the petitioner to submit a fresh representation before the Taxation Officer who was directed to take a decision thereon in terms of Para 28(1) of the judgment in Daya Shanker Yadav (supra). Petitioner, who is the Financier, was not heard in the said writ petition. Consequent to the above, a notice dated 06.01.2018 was issued to the petitioner-Financier under Rule 18(2) of the U.P. Motor Vehicles Taxation Rules, 1998 holding him liable to pay the tax due and it is this notice which is under challenge in the writ petition filed by the Financier out of which the instant reference has arisen for our consideration.

5. The vehicle in question is a public service vehicle as per Section 2(o) of the U.P. Motor Vehicles Taxation Act, 1997 read with Section 2(35) of the Motor Vehicles Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, therefore, it is a "transport vehicle' within the meaning of Section 2(n) of the Act, 1997.

Contention of rival parties

6. Contention of Shri Amol Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner was that since transport vehicle in question was not registered in name of the petitioner-company and it continued to be registered in name of the borrower, therefore, he alone was responsible, and not the Company, for payment of any tax, additional tax and/or penalty. Fact that the vehicle had been possessed by the finance company on 09.12.2014 under a loan/hypothecation agreement was not relevant in this regard in view of Section 9(2) of the Act, 1997 and also in view of the fact that even as per definition of "Owner' and "Operator', it is the registered owner who is the "Owner'. It was also his contention that mere taking of possession by the Financier is not relevant unless Certificate of Registration and other documents are also surrendered by the registered owner and vehicle is registered in its name, as, otherwise, finance company would not be able to either use the vehicle or sell it. He took us through various provisions of Section 2(g), 2(h), 4, 9, 10, 12, 13, 14, 20 and Section 37, 50 and 51 of the Act, 1988. He relied upon various decisions rendered in the case of Lakhimpur Finvest Company Ltd. Vs. State of U.P. and Ors. reported in 2005 (2) AWC 1608 All., Amar Nath Chaubey Vs. State of U.P. and Ors. rendered in Writ Tax No. 521 of 2017, Manish Mukhriya Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2015 (4) ALJ 248, Sri Prakash Vs. State of U.P. and Ors. rendered in Writ Tax No. 41 of 2016, Radhika Prasad Vs. State of U.P. and Ors. rendered in Writ Petition No. 333 (M/B) of 2015, Sriram Transport Finance Company Ltd. Vs. State of U.P. and Ors. rendered in Writ Tax No. 217 of 2017, HDFC Bank Ltd. Vs. Reshma and Ors. reported in 2013 (3) SCC 679, Purnya Kala Devi Vs. State of Assam and Anr. reported in 2014 (4) SCC 142, Naveen Kumar Vs. Vijay Kumar and Ors. reported in 2018 (3) SCC 1. His contention was that it is the registered owner who was liable to pay tax even for the period subsequent to the date of taking possession by the Financier till the vehicle was got registered in the name of the Financier. It was also his contention that for the period prior to such possession also it was the registered owner who was responsible to pay tax.

7. On the other hand Shri Amitabh Kumar Rai, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State also took us through various provision of the Act, 1997 as referred hereinabove, especially Section 9(2), 9(3), 13 and 20. He contended that Section 9(2) was not attracted in the present case as it did not involve transfer of vehicle. He relied upon decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Purnya Kala Devi (supra), wherein, definition of "Owner' contained in Section 2(30) of the Act, 1998, similar to the definition in Section 2(h) of the Act, 1997, was considered and it was held that person in possession and control of the vehicle under an agreement of lease, hypothecation or hire-purchase would be the owner. Based on it he contended that finance company having taken possession of the vehicle on 09.12.2014 was liable to tax from date of such possession, it being the owner, as, after such possession the registered owner was neither in possession nor in control of the vehicle and the fact that he was the registered owner or had a permit in his name, was irrelevant. In this regard he also relied upon definition of "Operator' in Section 2(g) of the Act, 1997 which according to him supported his contention. He referred to provisions of Section 13 of the Act, 1997 to contend that after having taken possession of the transport vehicle, petitioner-Financier should have submitted a declaration in Form-A as per Rule 7 of the Rules, 1998 and if it failed to do so it can not take any advantage of its lapse. In this context he also contended that if the petitioner-Financier claims that the vehicle is not in use as such no tax is required to be paid, then it had to take recourse to Section 12 of the Act, 1997.

8. With reference to Section 20 of the Act, 1997 Shri Rai contended that Section 20 of the Act, 1997 provides for recovery of tax/additional tax/ penalty as arrears of land revenue. Section 20(3) of the Act, 1997 provides that the Taxation Officer shall raise a demand in the form as may be prescribed, from the "Owner' or "Operator', as the case may be, for arrears of tax and additional tax and penalty of each year, which shall also include arrears of tax/ additional tax/ penalty, if any, of the preceding years. Section 20(3) is the only provision requiring the Taxation Officer to raise a demand for payment of taxes and penalty. It is so, because the liability is already fixed on the "Owner' or "Operator' to make a declaration in the prescribed form and to pay taxes according to the declaration as per Section 13 of the Act, 1997 read with Rule 7 and 8 of the Rules, 1998. Rule 18 (1) of the Rules, 1998 envisages a situation when the "Owner' or the "Operator' has not made any declaration under Section 13 of the Act, 1997 and in such a situation the Taxation Officer on receiving information shall require the concerned person to file declaration in Form "A' (as provided under rule 7) and may further serve upon the person a special notice in Form "E'. The notice in Form "E' requires filing of declaration and also to pay the tax due within 15 days from the date of service of the notice, meaning thereby, that the person not filing the declaration under Section 13 of the Act, 1997 is given a notice under rule 18(1) by the Taxation Officer for filing a declaration and to pay the taxes which are due, within 15 days. The notice under rule 18(1) also does not postulate determination of taxes by the Taxation Officer, but, it requires payment of taxes which are due as per the declaration to be filed in pursuance to the notice in Form "E'.

9. Section 20(3) of the Act, 1997 read with rule 18(2) and (3) envisages a situation when despite service of notice under rule 18(1) or in case of default of owner operator in payment of taxes despite making declaration under Section 13, the Taxation Officer is required to raise demand in the prescribed Form E-1. Form E-1 requires the Taxation Officer to raise a specific demand with respect to tax/ additional tax and penalty and hence, while issuing notice under Section 20(3) and raising a demand in "Form E-1', the Taxation Officer has to determine the liability to tax and penalty.

10. It was further submitted that in a case where a declaration is filed under Section 13, the Taxation Officer under Section 20(3) is in a position to raise demand for each year, otherwise, in a case where no such declaration is filed, the demand can be raised on receiving information as provided under rule 18(1) of the Rules, 1998. Section 20(3) of the Act, 1997, thus, provides for raising of a demand from the "Owner' or "Operator, determining their liability, as the case may be, which means that the Taxation Officer while raising a demand has to fix the liability of payment of tax under the scheme of the Act, 1997 otherwise, the definition of "Operator' or "Owner' in the Act, 1997 as in the manner defined may have no relevancy. It was submitted that thus, while raising a demand under Section 20(3), Taxation Officer is required to fix liability of the person liable to pay the tax for the period it is due.

11. According to him Section 50 of the Act, 1988 relates to transfer of ownership of motor vehicle which does not get attracted in the present case and the relevant provision which is attracted is Section 51 relating to motor vehicles under hypothecation/lease/hire purchaseagreement. In this regard he contended that Petitioner-finance company did not take any steps in terms of Section 51(5), as such, it is not open for it to say that unless the Financier becomes the registered owner it is not liable to pay taxes, specially as, being in possession of the vehicle, a Financier is liable to pay such tax and penalty, if any, for the period vehicle is in its possession.

12. In the context of Section 9(3) he contended that the expression "jointly and severally' for the purpose of fixing liability of taxes and penalty used in Section 9(3) of the Act, 1997 connotes that the owner and operator are liable for payment of tax to the extent of their liability, however, the State Government is authorized to recover the liability of taxes from either of them. However, the Taxation Officer while raising a demand for payment of taxes and penalty under Section 20(3) has to determine the liability of each separately. Section 20(3) of the Act, 1997 categorically provides that the Taxation Officer shall raise a demand in the form as may be prescribed from the owner or operator, as the case may be, meaning thereby that the Taxation Officer has to determine the liability of each separately and raise a demand accordingly, however, recovery by the State Government can be made from either of them. Section 13 and 20 of the Act, 1997 read with rule 7, 8 and 18 of the Rules, 1998 also postulate raising a demand separately from the owner/operator. In the present case, it is not disputed that by virtue of definition of the term "operator' and "owner' in the Act, 1997 it is the petitioner-company which is solely liable for payment of tax from the date of taking possession of the vehicle. He submitted that none of the decisions relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner supported the petitioner-Financier's case. Section 9(2) of the Act, 1997 is not attracted in a case where the vehicle after possession by the Financier is not transferred. It is attracted only when the vehicle is transferred by the registered owner or by the Finance Company after possession. In Amar Nath Chaubey's case (supra) Section 9(3) of the Act, 1997 was not taken into consideration. In Kamil Hussain's case (supra) Section 51(5) of the Act, 1988 as well as Section 9(3) of the Act, 1997 were not taken into consideration. Discussion on Question No. 1

13. U.P. Motor Vehicles Taxation Act, 1997 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 1997') is a Taxing Statute which as per its long title provides for imposition of tax and additional tax in the State of Uttar Pradesh on motor vehicles engaged in transport of passengers and goods for hire. Motor vehicles to which it applies, are regulated by an enactment of Parliament known as the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 1988'). Rules known as Central Motor Vehicles Rules, 1989 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules, 1989) have been made by the Central Government, under the Act, 1988. U.P. Motor Vehicles Rules, 1998 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules, 1998) have also been made by the State Government under the Act, 1988.

14. Before referring to provisions of the Act, 1997 it would be fruitful to refer to relevant provisions of the Act, 1988 especially those relating to registration of motor vehicles as contained in Chapter-IV and some of the definitions contained in Chapter-I.

15. Section 39 of the Act, 1988 prohibits use and driving of any motor vehicle in any public place or any other place unless the vehicle is registered in accordance with Chapter- IV of the Act, 1988. Section 40 obligates every owner of a motor vehicle to get it registered in terms thereof.

16. An application for registration of a vehicle is required to be moved under Section 41 by or on behalf of the owner of a motor vehicle. As per Rule 47 of the Rules, 1989 an application for registration of a motor vehicle is to be made in Form-20 to the Registering Authority and it should be accompanied by the documents mentioned in the said Rule including a Sale Certificate in Form-21. At Serial No. 1 of Form-20 full name of the person to be registered as registered owner is required to be mentioned. At the bottom there is a "Note' wherein it is to be mentioned as to whether the motor vehicle is subject to hire-purchase agreement/lease agreement or hypothecation, with details of the Financier with whom such agreement is entered. After these details the Financier has to put his signature.

17. Form-21 i.e. the Sale Certificate also contains a stipulation as to whether the vehicle is held under an agreement of hire-purchase/lease/ hypothecation, if so, the person with whom such agreement has been entered.

18. On completion of formalities in terms of Section 41 of the Act, 1988 read with Rule 48 of the Rules, 1989, the Registering Authority is required to issue to the owner of the motor vehicle a Certificate of Registration in Form-23 which contains name of the registered owner and at the bottom there is a "Note' with regard to the motor vehicle being subject to hire-purchase/lease/hypothecation agreement and the Financier with whom such agreement has been entered, if it is so. Below these details, the specimen signature of the Financier has to be affixed. This is in keeping with the requirement of Section 51(1) and (2). Similar provision exists in Section 43(3) for temporary certificate of registration.

19. Thus, the name of the Financier is not entered in the Certificate of Registration as the registered owner. It is the name of the hirer, lessee or hypothecator which is mentioned as registered owner where the vehicle is subject to such agreement.

20. Section 50 deals with action to be taken by the transferor and transferee consequent to transfer of ownership of a motor vehicle for recording transfer of ownership in the Certificate of Registration by the registering authority. This is required when the motor vehicle changes hands due to sale, or inheritance or purchase in public action conducted by the Government. It lays down penal consequences for non reporting of such transfer. The Rules corresponding to Section 50 are Rules 55, 56 and 57 of the Rules, 1989.

21. Section 50 is as under:-

"50. Transfer of ownership.--(1) Where the ownership of any motor vehicle registered under this Chapter is transferred,--*

(a) the transferor shall,--

(i) in the case of a vehicle registered within the same State, within fourteen days of the transfer, report the fact of transfer, in such form with such documents and in such manner, as may be prescribed by the Central Government to the registering authority within whose jurisdiction the transfer is to be effected and shall simultaneously send a copy of the said report to the transferee; and

(ii) in the case of a vehicle registered outside the State, within forty-five days of the transfer, forward to the registering authority referred to in sub-clause (i)--

(A) the no objection certificate obtained under section 48; or

(B) in a case where no such certificate has been obtained,--

(I) the receipt obtained under sub-section (2) of section 48; or

(II) the postal acknowledgment received by the transferee if he has sent an application in this behalf by registered post acknowledgment due to the registering authority referred to in section 48, together with a declaration that he has not received any communication from such authority refusing to grant such certificate or requiring him to comply with any direction subject to which such certificate may be granted;

(b) the transferee shall, within thirty days of the transfer, report the transfer to the registering authority within whose jurisdiction he has the residence or place of business where the vehicle is normally kept, as the case may be, and shall forward the certificate of registration to that registering authority together with the prescribed fee and a copy of the report received by him from the transferor in order that particulars of the transfer of ownership may be entered in the certificate of registration.

(2) Where--

(a) the person in whose name a motor vehicle stands registered dies, or

(b) a motor vehicle has been purchased or acquired at a public auction conducted by, or on behalf of, Government, the person succeeding to the possession of the vehicle or, as the case may be, who has purchased or acquired the motor vehicle, shall make an application for the purpose of transferring the ownership of the vehicle in his name, to the registering authority in whose jurisdiction he has the residence or place of business where the vehicle is normally kept, as the case may be, in such manner, accompanied with such fee, and within such period as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

(3) If the transferor or the transferee fails to report to the registering authority the fact of transfer within the period specified in clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1), as the case may be, or if the person who is required to make an application under sub-section (2) (hereafter in this section referred to as the other person) fails to make such application within the period prescribed, the registering authority may, having regard to the circumstances of the case, require the transferor or the transferee, or the other person, as the case may be, to pay, in lieu of any action that may be taken against him under section 177 such amount not exceeding one hundred rupees as may be prescribed under sub-section (5):

Provided that action under section 177 shall be taken against the transferor or the transferee or the other person, as the case may be, where he fails to pay the said amount.

(4) Where a person has paid the amount under sub-section (3), no action shall be taken against him under section 177.

(5) For the purposes of sub-section (3), a State Government may prescribe different amounts having regard to the period of delay on the part of the transferor or the transferee in reporting the fact of transfer of ownership of the motor vehicle or of the other person in making the application under sub-section (2).

(6) On receipt of a report under sub-section (1), or an application under sub-section (2), the registering authority may cause the transfer of ownership to be entered in the certificate of registration.

(7) A registering authority making any such entry shall communicate the transfer of ownership to the transferor and to the original registering authority, if it is not the original registering authority."

22. Rule 55 of the Rules, 1989 which is relevant, is as under:-

"55. Transfer of ownership.- (1) Where the ownership of a motor vehicle is transferred, the transferor shall report the fact of transfer in Form 29 to the registering authorities concerned in whose jurisdiction the transferor and the transferee reside or have their places of business.

(2) An application for the transfer of ownership of a motor vehicle under sub-clause (z) of clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 50 shall be made by the transferee in Form 30, and shall be accompanied by--

(i) the certificate of registration;

(ii) the certificate of insurance; and

(iii) the appropriate fee as specified in rule 81.

(3) An application for transfer of ownership of a motor vehicle under subclause (ii) of clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 50 shall be made by the transferee in Fonn 30 and shall, in addition to the documents and fee referred to in sub-rule (2), be accompanied by one of the following documents, namely:--

(a) a no objection certificate granted by the registering authority under subsection (3) of section 48; or

(b) an order of the registering authority refusing to grant the no objection certificate under subsection (3) of section 48; or (c) where the no objection certificate or the order, as the case may be, has not been received, a declaration by the transferor that he has not received any such communication together with--

(i) the receipt obtained from the registering authority under subsection (2) of section 48; or

(ii) the postal acknowledgement received from the registering authority where the application for no objection certificate has been sent by post."

23. Transfer of ownership under Section 50(a)(i) and (ii) read with Rule 55 also covers a transfer of ownership of a vehicle by the borrower with consent of the Financier to a third person free from encumbrances as is evident from Form 29 and 30.

24. Transfer of ownership of a motor vehicle is not dependent upon compliance of Section 50. It is complete when ingredients of transfer as prescribed in law are satisfied. In case of Sale such transaction is regulated by the Sale of Goods Act. Non compliance of Section 50 merely makes the transferor or transferee, as the case may be, liable to penal action under the Act, 1988 but it does not avoid liability to tax etc. nor does it make the transfer invalid or void. Section 50 (Old Section 31 of the Act, 1939) is attracted only as a consequence of such transfer of ownership of motor vehicle.

25. A separate and special provision has been made regarding motor vehicles subject to hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation agreement and transactions based thereon, in Section 51. Rules corresponding to it are Rule 60 and 61 of the Rules, 1989.

26. Section 51 is as under:-

"51. Special provisions regarding motor vehicle subject to hire-purchase agreement, etc.-- (1) Where an application for registration of a motor vehicle which is held under a hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation agreement (hereafter in this section referred to as the said agreement) is made, the registering authority shall make an entry in the certificate of registration regarding the existence of the said agreement.

(2) Where the ownership of any motor vehicle registered under this Chapter is transferred and the transferee enters into the said agreement with any person, the last registering authority shall, on receipt of an application in such form as the Central Government may prescribe from the parties to the said agreement, make an entry as to the existence of the said agreement in the certificate of registration and an intimation in this regard shall be sent to the original registering authority if the last registering authority is not the original registering authority.

(3) Any entry made under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), may be cancelled by the last registering authority on proof of the termination of the said agreement by the parties concerned on an application being made in such form as the Central Government may prescribe and an intimation in this behalf shall be sent to the original registering authority if the last registering authority is not the original registering authority.

(4) No entry regarding the transfer of ownership of any motor vehicle which is held under the said agreement shall be made in the certificate of registration except with the written consent of the person whose name has been specified in the certificate of registration as the person with whom the registered owner has entered into the said agreement.

(5) Where the person whose name has been specified in the certificate of registration as the person with whom the registered owner has entered into the said agreement, satisfies the registering authority that he has taken possession of the vehicle from the registered owner owing to the default of the registered owner under the provisions of the said agreement and that the registered owner refuses to deliver the certificate of registration or has absconded, such authority may, after giving the registered owner an opportunity to make such representation as he may wish to make (by sending to him a notice by registered post acknowledgment due at his address entered in the certificate of registration) and notwithstanding that the certificate of registration is not produced before it, cancel the certificate and issue a fresh certificate of registration in the name of the person with whom the registered owner has entered into the said agreement:

Provided that a fresh certificate of registration shall not be issued in respect of a motor vehicle, unless such person pays the prescribed fee:

Provided further that a fresh certificate of registration issued in respect of a motor vehicle, other than a transport vehicle, shall be valid only for the remaining period for which the certificate cancelled under this sub-section would have been in force.

(6) The registered owner shall, before applying to the appropriate authority, for the renewal of a permit under section 81 or for the issue of duplicate certificate of registration under sub-section (14) of section 41, or for the assignment of a new registration mark under section 47, or removal of the vehicle to another State, or at the time of conversion of the vehicle from one class to another, or for issue of no objection certificate under section 48, or for change of residence or place of business under section 49, or for the alteration of the vehicle under section 52, make an application to the person with whom the registered owner has entered into the said agreement, (such person being hereafter in this section referred to as the financier) for the issue of a no objection certificate (hereafter in this section referred to as the certificate).

Explanation.--For the purposes of this sub-section and sub-sections (8) and (9), "appropriate authority" in relation to any permit, means the authority which is authorised by this Act to renew such permit and, in relation to registration means the authority which is authorised by this Act to issue duplicate certificate of registration or to assign a new registration mark.

(7) Within seven days of the receipt of an application under sub-section (6) the financier may issue, or refuse, for reasons which shall be recorded in writing and communicated to the applicant, to issue, the certificate applied for, and where the financier fails to issue the certificate and also fails to communicate the reasons for refusal to issue the certificate to the applicant within the said period of seven days, the certificate applied for shall be deemed to have been issued by the financier.

(8) The registered owner shall, while applying to the appropriate authority for the renewal of any permit under section 81, or for the issue of a duplicate certificate of registration under sub-section (14) of section 41, or while applying for assignment of a new registration mark under section 47, submit with such application the certificate, if any, obtained under sub-section (7) or, where no such certificate has been obtained, the communication received from the financier under that sub-section, or, as the case may be, a declaration that he has not received any communication from the financier within the period of seven days specified in that sub-section.

(9) On receipt of an application for the renewal of any permit or for the issue of duplicate certificate of registration or for assignment of a new registration mark in respect of a vehicle which is held under the said agreement, the appropriate authority may, subject to the other provisions of this Act,--

(a) in a case where the financier has refused to issue the certificate applied for, after giving the applicant an opportunity of being heard, either--

(i) renew or refuse to renew the permit, or

(ii) issue or refuse to issue the duplicate certificate of registration, or

(iii) assign or refuse to assign a new registration mark;

(b) in any other case,--

(i) renew the permit, or

(ii) issue duplicate certificate of registration, or

(iii) assign a new registration mark.

(10) A registering authority making an entry in the certificate of registration regarding--

(a) hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation agreement of a motor vehicle, or

(b) the cancellation under sub-section (3) of an entry, or

(c) recording transfer of ownership of motor vehicle, or

(d) any alteration in a motor vehicle, or

(e) suspension or cancellation of registration of a motor vehicle, or

(f) change of address, shall communicate by registered post acknowledgment due to the financier that such entry has been made.

(11) A registering authority registering the new vehicle, or issuing the duplicate certificate of registration or a no objection certificate or a temporary certificate of registration, or issuing or renewing, a fitness certificate or substituting entries relating to another motor vehicle in the permit, shall intimate the financier of such transaction.

(12) The registering authority where it is not the original registering authority, when making entry under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), or cancelling the said entry under sub-section (3) or issuing the fresh certificate of registration under sub-section (5) shall communicate the same to the original registering authority."

27. Rule 60 and 61 of the Rules, 1989 are as under:-

"60. Endorsement of hire-purchase agreements, etc.-An application for making an entry of hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation agreement in the certificate of registration of a motor vehicle required under sub-section (2) of section 51 shall be made in Form 34 duly signed by the registered owner of the vehicle and the financier and shall be accompanied by the certificate of registration and the appropriate fee as specified in rule 81."

"61. Termination of hire-purchase agreements, etc.- (1) An application for making an entry of termination of agreement of hire purchase, lease or hypothecation referred to in sub-section (3) of section 51 shall be made in Form 35 duly signed by the registered owner of the vehicle and the financier, and shall be accompanied by the certificate of registration and the appropriate fee as specified in rule 81.

(2) The application for the issue of a fresh certificate of registration under sub-section (5) of section 51 shall be made in Form 36 and shall be accompanied by a fee as specified in rule 81.

(3) Where the registered owner has refused to deliver the certificate of registration to the financier or has absconded then the registering authority shall issue a notice to the registered owner of the vehicle in Form 37."

28. Section 51(1) requires that, where the application is for registration of a motor vehicle held under any of the agreements referred above, the registering authority shall make an entry in the Certificate of Registration regarding the existence of said agreement. Sub-section 2 of Section 51 relates to a situation where ownership of any motor vehicle registered under Chapter-IV of the Act, 1988 is transferred and the transferee enters into a hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation agreement with any person subsequent to such registration and in such an eventuality the application as mentioned in Rule 60 of the Rules, 1989 is required to be made in Form-34 which should be duly signed by the registered owner of the vehicle and the Financier. Sub-section 3 of Section 51 relates to cancellation of entry made under Sub-section (1) and (2) on proof of termination of such agreement obviously on satisfaction of the conditions of such agreement. The result is striking off the "Note' in the Certificate of Registration regarding the vehicle being the subject of such agreement on an application being filed in terms of Rule 61(1) in Form- 35 which is as under:-

29. Sub-section 4 of Section 51 prohibits any entry regarding transfer of ownership of a motor vehicle held under above-mentioned agreements without written consent of the "Financier'. This provision by itself does not bar an otherwise valid transfer nor does it invalidate such transfer.

30. Sub-section 5 of Section 51 deals with a situation where the "Financier' takes possession of the vehicle from the registered owner owing to default of the latter under provisions of the agreement and registered owner refuses to deliver the Certificate of Registration or has absconded. In this situation if the Financier satisfies the Registration Authority about existence of these facts then such authority can cancel the Certificate and issue a fresh Certificate of Registration in the name of the "Financier' in terms of the said provision. Though the word "Financier' has not been used as such in Sub-section (5), description of the person referred therein is of the "Financier' as defined in Rule 2(d) of the Rules, 1998. Corresponding Rule in this regard is Rule 61(2), which has already been quoted earlier. The relevant Forms in this regard are Form 36 and 37 which are as under:-

31. Even at the cost of repetition it needs to be stated that section 51 is a special provisions dealing with motor vehicles subject to hire-purchase, lease and hypothecation agreement and is separate from Section 50 which deals with transfer of ownership by sale, inheritance or purchase in public auction.

32. We may also refer to definition of "Owner' contained in Section 2(30) of the Act, 1988, which is as under:-

"(30) "owner" means a person in whose name a motor vehicle stands registered, and where such person is a minor, the guardian of such minor, and in relation to a motor vehicle which is the subject of a hire-purchase, agreement, or an agreement of lease or an agreement of hypothecation, the person in possession of the vehicle under that agreement;"

33. The term "Financier' is defined in Rule 2(d) of the Central Motor Vehicle Rules, 1989 as under:-

"2. Definitions.- In these rules, unless the context otherwise requires,-

(a) .....

(b) .....

(c) .....

(d) "financier' means a person with whom the registered owner of a motor vehicle has entered into an agreement of hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation in respect of such vehicle and whose name is entered in the certification of registration as referred to in Form 34;"

34. This discussion of the provisions of the Act, 1988 would be relevant when we consider the liability to tax and penalty under the Act, 1997.

35. Tax on such motor vehicles which are registered under the Act, 1988, is required to be paid as per the Act, 1997.

36. Section 4 of the Act, 1997 is the taxing provision. In respect of motor vehicles other than a transport vehicle a one-time tax is to be paid at the rate applicable in respect of such motor vehicles subject to the provisos to the said section. In respect of other vehicles, monthly, quarterly, or annual tax is required to be paid under Section 4(1-A) to (3), subject to the provisos to the said provisions.

37. Section 4-A deals with levy of special tax in respect of certain vehicles covered by temporary permit. Section 6 deals with additional tax on public service vehicle.

Section 4 of the Act, 1997 is as under:-

"4. Imposition of tax.- (1) Save as otherwise provided in this Act or the rules made thereunder, no motor vehicle other than a transport vehicle, shall be used in any public place in Uttar Pradesh unless a one-time tax at the rate applicable in respect of such motor vehicle, as may be specified by the State Government by Notification in the Gazettee has been paid in respect thereof:

Provided that in respect of an old motor vehicle instead of a one time tax, annual tax applicable to such motor vehicle as may be specified by the State Government by Notification in the Gazette may be paid.

Provided further that in respect of an old motor vehicle instead of a one-time tax, annual tax applicable to such motor vehicle, as specified in Part "C' of the First Schedule may be paid.

Provided also that from the date of commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles Taxation (Amendment) Act, 2014 no motor vehicles other than a transport vehicle shall be sued in any public place after the expiry of validity of registration under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 unless a green tax at the rate applicable to such motor vehicles as may be specified by notification, by the State Government has been paid in respect thereof.

(1-A) Save as otherwise provided in this Act or the rules made thereunder no three wheeler motor cab and goods carriage having gross vehicle weight not exceeding 3000 kilograms, shall be used in any public place in Uttar Pradesh unless yearly tax at such rate of such motor vehicle, as may be specified by the State Government by notification in the Gazette, has been paid in respect thereof:

Provided that in respect of a motor vehicle under this sub-section in lieu of yearly tax such amount of one time tax may be payable as specified by the State Government by notification in the Gazette.

(2) Save as otherwise provided by or under this Act no goods carriage other than those specified in sub-section (1-A), construction equipment vehicles, specially designed vehicles, motor cab (other than three wheeler motor cab), maxi cab and public service vehicles owned or controlled by the State Transport Undertaking, shall be used in any public place in Uttar Pradesh unless a quarterly tax at the rate applicable to such motor vehicle as may be specified by the State Government by notification in the Gazette, has been paid in respect thereof.

Provided that in respect of a motor vehicle under this sub-section instead of quarterly tax, an yearly tax at such rate as may be specified by the State Government may be payable.

(2-A) Save as otherwise provided by or under this Act no public service vehicle other than those referred in sub-section (1-A) and sub-section (2) shall be used in any public place in Uttar Pradesh unless a monthly tax at such rate as may be notified by the State Government is paid in respect thereof:

Provided that in respect a motor vehicle under this sub-section instead of monthly tax, a quarterly or an yearly tax at such rate as may be notified by the State Government may be payable.

(2-B) Where any reciprocal agreement relating to taxation of goods carried by road is entered into between the Government of Uttar Pradesh and any other State Government or a Union Territory, the levy of a tax under sub-section (1-A) or sub-section (2) shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the said sub-section, be in accordance with the terms and conditions of such agreement:

Provided that the tax so levied shall not exceed the tax which would otherwise been levied under the Act.

(3) Where any motor vehicle other than a transport vehicle is found plying as a transport vehicle, such tax therefore as may be notified by the State Government, shall be payable."

38. Various Sub-sections of Section 4 deal with various categories of vehicles. Sub-section 1 deals with motor vehicles other than transport vehicles. Sub-section (1-A) to (3) deals with transport vehicles of various categories such as three wheeler motor cab and goods carriage; construction equipment vehicles; specially designed vehicles; motor cab (other than three wheeler motor cab); maxi cab and public service vehicle owned and control by the State Transport Undertaking; public service vehicle other than those referred in Section (1-A) and Sub-section (2). Sub-section (2-B) and (3) relate to taxation of goods carrier and taxation of a motor vehicle other than a transport vehicle which is found plying as a transport vehicle.

39. Tax is in respect of a motor vehicle and is required to be paid before its use. If one keeps a vehicle liable to tax without paying tax or taking recourse to section 12 then he is liable to tax.

40. As per Sections 4, 9 and 10 of the Act, 1997 no motor vehicle including a transport vehicle can be used unless tax payable under Section 4 read with Section 9 of the said Act, has been paid. Such tax is required to be paid at the time of registration in the event of one-time tax, as also in the event of first payment of tax in cases where tax is to be paid on monthly, quarterly or annually basis, as the case may be.

41. Section 9 of the Act, 1997 deals with payment of tax and penalty. It reads as under:-

"9. Payment of tax and penalty.-(1) Subject to the provisions of Section 11 :

(i) the tax payable under sub-section (1) of Section 4 shall be paid at the time of the registration of the vehicle under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 :

Provided that in respect of an old motor vehicle, the tax shall be payable in advance on or before the fifteenth day of January in each year;

(ii) the tax payable under sub-section (1-A) of Section 4, shall be payable in advance for one year at the time of the registration of the vehicle under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 and thereafter on or before the fifteenth day of the first calendar month of each year next following;

(iii) the tax payable under sub-section (2) Section 4 shall be payable in advance for one quarter at the time of registration of the vehicle under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 and thereafter on or before the fifteenth day of the first calendar month of each quarter next following.

(iv) (a) the tax payable under sub-section (2-A) of Section 4 shall be payable in advance for one year calendar month at the time of the registration of the vehicle under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 and thereafter on or before the fifteenth day of each calendar month next following;

(b) the special tax payable under Section 4-A in respect of vehicles covered by temporary permit issued for the conveyance of passengers on special occasions, such as to and from fairs and religious gathering or to carry marriage parties, tourist parties or such other reserved parties shall be paid at the time of issuance of such temporary permit.

(2) When any person transfers a motor vehicle registered in his name to any other person, then without prejudice to the liability of the transferor in this regard, the transferee shall be liable to pay the arrears of tax, additional tax and penalty, if any, in respect of motor vehicle so transferred, due on or before the date of its transfer, as if the transferee was owner of the said motor vehicle during the period for which such tax, additional tax or penalty is due.

(3) Where the tax or additional tax in respect of a motor vehicle is not paid within the period specified in sub-section (1), in addition to the tax or the additional tax due, a penalty at such rate not exceeding the due amount as may be prescribed, shall be payable, for which the owner and the operator if any shall be jointly and severally liable.

(4) In computing the amount of tax, additional tax or penalty under this Act, the amount shall be rounded off to the nearest rupee, that is to say a fraction of a rupee being fifty paise or more shall be rounded off to the next higher rupee and any fraction less than fifty paise shall be ignored."

42. As per Section 9(1), Tax referred in Section 4(1) i.e. one-time tax in respect of motor vehicles other than transport vehicles, is payable at the time of registration of the vehicle under the Act, 1988 subject to the proviso contained therein. Tax under Sub-section 1 of Section 4-A- in respect of other vesicles (Transport Vehicles) referred therein is payable in advance for one year at the time of registration of the vehicle under the Act, 1988 and thereafter, on or before the 15th day of the first calendar month of each year next following. Such tax as referred in Sub-section (2) of Section 4 is payable in advance for one quarter similarly at the time of registration and, thereafter, on or before the 15th day of the first calendar month of each quarter next following. The tax referred under Sub-section (2-A) of Section 4 is accordingly payable for one calendar month at the time of registration and thereafter, on or before the 15th day of each calendar month next following. Special tax under Section 4-A is to be paid at the time of issuance of temporary permits.

43. Section 9(2) deals with liability to pay tax, additional tax and penalty due on or before the date of transfer of a motor vehicle which is transferred by the registered owner to any other person i.e. it deals with arrears of such tax and penalty pertaining to the period prior to such transfer. It does not deal with liability to tax due after the date of such transfer.

44. This provision makes the transferee liable to arrears of tax and penalty due on or before the date of transfer of a motor vehicle deeming him to be owner of the said motor vehicle for the period relating to which such tax and penalty is due, although, he was not actually the owner of it during such period. A legal fiction has thus been created treating the transferee to be the owner for the said period. This, however, is without prejudice to the liability of transferor in this regard.

45. In cases covered by transfers referred in Section 9(2) both the transferor (registered owner) and the transferee (deemed owner) are liable to pay tax, additional tax and penalty due on or before the date of its transfer as per option of the Taxation/Recovery Officer, leaving them to sort out their claims inter se, as per law.

46. The object of the provision is to facilitate smooth realization of tax/revenue by the State in a case of transfer of a vehicle. The rationale behind such provision is that whosoever purchases a vehicle should satisfy himself that all taxes etc. in respect thereof have been duly paid by the transferor. If not, he should ask him to do so before the transfer takes place. This secures the interest of revenue under the Act, 1997. However, if he does not do so, then, he buys not only the vehicle but also the liability to pay tax etc. even for the period prior to such transfer, knowingly.

47. The sine qua non of Section 9(2) is that it applies to transfer of a vehicle by the registered owner, to any other person. If the transfer is not by the registered owner and it is not to any other person then Section 9(2) will not apply. Secondly, it deals with liability to pay tax etc. due on or before the date of such transfer but not after such transfer.

48. The term "Transfer' used in Section 9(2) is not defined under the Act, 1997 nor the Act, 1988 or the Rules made thereunder. In a case involving sale of a motor vehicle it would be regulated by the Sale of Goods Act.

49. The transfer envisaged under Section 9(2) is not dependent on compliance of Section 50 of the Act, 1988 and Rule 55 of the Rules, 1989 nor is it invalidated or incomplete for this reason, meaning thereby, even if such transfer is not recorded in the registration records and Certificate of Registration, it is still valid and consequences will follow in law accordingly. Reference may be made in this regard to the decisions reported in AIR 1986 AP 62;Madineni Kondaiah and others etc. Vs. Yaseen Fatima and others, etc., AIR 1980 SC 871;Panna Lal Vs. Chand Mal and Ors., 1992 Cr.L.J. 2476;Virendrakumar J. Handa Vs. Dilawarkhan Alij Khan and Ors., 1985 Cr.L.J. 951 (Para 17);V. Parakashan Vs. K.P. Pankajakshan and Anr., (1979) 16 ACC 274; Kalpnath Singh Vs. Sheo Nath Rai, 1977 MhLJ 656; Kishan Panduranj Kagde Vs. Baldev Singh Gian Singh and Ors. and (1999) 3 SCC 754; G. Govindan Vs. New Assurance Co. Ltd. and ors. (Para 14 and 18) wherein the Full Bench of Andhra Pradesh High Court in the case of Madineni Kondaiah (supra) has been approved. All these decisions relate to the Old Act, 1939 and Section 31 thereof but the observations and principles expounded apply to the New Act of 1988 also, as the provision is similar to Section 51 thereof.

50. This, however, does not take away the obligation under Section 40 of the Act, 1988 upon the owner to get the vehicle registered nor does it avoid other consequences including penal consequences which may follow under the Act, 1988 or the Act, 1997 for failure to do so.

51. What it means is that if a motor vehicle has been validly transferred, liability under Section 9(2) will get attracted irrespective of non compliance of Section 50 and Rule 55 referred above. Section 50 and Rule 55 are only a consequence of such transfer which is also evident from the language used therein.

52. Section 9(3) deals with non payment of tax or additional tax within the period specified under Section 1 of Section 9 and the liability in this regard. In such an eventuality it provides that in addition to the tax or the additional tax due, a penalty, as may be prescribed, shall be payable for which the owner and the operator, if any, shall be jointly and severally liable. The use of the words "in addition to the tax or the additional tax due' followed by the words "a penalty.....' leaves no doubt that the provision not only makes the "Owner' and "Operator', if any, jointly and severally liable with regard to the "penalty' but also with regard to "tax or additional tax due'. The use of the words - "where the tax or additional tax in respect of a motor vehicle is not paid within the period specified in Sub-section 1.....' is indicative of the fact that the provision speaks of liability to pay arrears of tax and additional tax.

53. Thus, it is the "Owner' and the "Operator', if any, of a motor vehicle who is liable to pay the tax or the additional tax due within the period specified in Section 9(1) in respect of a motor vehicle, and the penalty, if any, as well as the arrears thereof in the event of its non payment within such period. If in respect of a vehicle there is an "Owner' and an "Operator', both, then they are jointly and severally liable.

54. Section 9(3) speaks of "Owner' and "Operator'. It does not speak of registered owner alone.

55. This is in consonance with Section 13 which requires the "Owner' or "Operator' of every motor vehicle to make a declaration in respect of such vehicle and makes them liable to pay tax, accordingly. The procedural provision corresponding to Section 13 is contained in Rule 7.

56. Section 13 of the Act, 1997 reads as under:-

"13. Declaration by person keeping vehicle, for use.-(1)The owner or operator of every motor vehicle shall make a declaration in respect of it in the prescribed form and shall deliver the declaration within the prescribed time to the Taxation Officer and shall pay to him the tax or the additional tax which he appears by such declaration to be liable to pay in respect of such vehicle, as required by or under this Act.

(2) Where a motor vehicle is altered so as to render the owner or operator thereof liable to payment of enhanced tax or additional tax under Section 14, such owner or operator shall make, within the prescribed time, an additional declaration in the prescribed form showing the nature of the alteration made and shall deliver it to the Taxation Officer and shall pay to him the difference in tax or additional tax payable under Section 14."

57. Rule 7 of the Rules, 1998 as substituted by the notification dated 28.04.1999 reads as under:-

"7. Presentation of declaration.- (1) Every person who either on the commencement of the Act or thereafter, on becoming possessed of a motor vehicle which becomes liable to tax shall within fifteen days of such vehicle becoming so liable, complete, sign and deliver to the Taxation Officer the declaration in Form A.

(2) A separate declaration shall be made in respect of every motor vehicle."

58. Rule 7 as substituted vide Notification dated 28.04.1999 requires every person who either on the commencement of the Act or thereafter, on "becoming possessed' of a motor vehicle which becomes liable to tax, to complete, sign and deliver to the Taxation Officer the declaration in Form "A' within 15 days of such vehicle becoming so liable.

59. Form-A referred in Rule 7 of the Rules, 1998 is as under:-

60. Thus, as per Section 13, the "Owner' or "Operator' of every motor vehicle is required to make a declaration in respect of it in Form A, deliver it within the prescribed time (as per Rule 7) to the Taxation Officer and pay to him Tax which he appears by such declaration to be liable to pay in respect of such vehicle as required by or under the Act, 1997.

61. Provisions of Section 13 and Rule 7 apply when any person comes into possession of a motor vehicle which becomes liable to tax, which will include a Financier in possession of such vehicle under a lease, hire-purchase or hypothecation agreement as also the borrower in such possession. This aspect shall be further dealt with hereinafter while considering Section 2(h) and 2(g) which define "Owner' and "Operator'.

62. The contents of Form-A are also indicative of the fact that it is imperative on the part of such person to get the vehicle registered in his name and submit such declaration. Its contents are to be read in consonance with the substantive provision contained in Section 13 read with Rule 7 and not in conflict with it.

63. Thus, tax under the Act, 1997 is on the vehicle and has to be paid before its use.

64. The tax payable is thus determined in terms of Section 4 read with Section 9 based on the aforesaid declaration under Section 13 read with Rule 7 depending upon the category of the vehicle and the use to which it is to be subjected.

65. Reference may also be made in this regard to Rule 18(1) and (2) according to which the Taxation Officer on receiving information that a person is keeping or operating a motor vehicle, may require him to furnish a declaration in Form- "A' in respect thereof and may serve upon him at once a special notice in Form- "E'. Rule 18(1) and (2) read as under:-

"18. Notice to owners or operators of Motor Vehicles.- (1) The Taxation Officer on receiving information that a person is keeping or operating a motor vehicle, may require him to complete, sign and deliver a declaration in Form "A' in respect thereof, and may serve upon him at once a special notice in Form "E'. Such notice may be sent to the person by registered post or may be served personally on him or if the service cannot be affected personally on him, on any adult male member of his family residing with him. If the notice cannot be served in the manner aforesaid, it may be served by affixing it to some conspicuous part of his place of residence or business, or in such other manner as the Taxation Officer may think fit.

(2) Nothing in this rule shall be deemed to absolve any person who keeps or operates a motor vehicle from the obligation imposed upon him by sub-section (1) of Section 13 and Rule 7 in respect of making a declaration in the event of no notice having been served."

66. Form- E is as under:-

*"Form - E
[See Rule 18]
Notice to Owner of a Motor Vehicle

To,
Address.....

Take notice that you are hereby required to fill up, sign and deliver to the undersigned the form of declaration enclosed in respect of every motor vehicle kept by you for use, and to pay the tax due on every such vehicle before the expiration of 15 days from the date of service of this notice.

Failure to deliver the declaration or to pay the constitutes an offence under Section 10 of the Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles Taxation Act.

Date.....20.....

Signature of Taxation Officer"

67. Reference may also be made in this regard to Rule 9(3) of the Rules, 1998 which in the context of method of payment of tax mentions that every person who is required to make a declaration under Rule 7 or additional declaration under Rule 8 shall pay the tax due on the motor vehicle at the time of presenting the declaration in respect thereof. Rule 9(3) is as under:-

"9. Method of payment of tax.- (1).....

(2) Every person who is required to make a declaration under Rule 7 or additional declaration under Rule 8 shall pay the tax due on the motor vehicle at the time of presenting the declaration in respect thereof."

68. As already stated the "person' required to make the declaration under Rule 7 or 8 has to be the one who has "become possessed' of the motor vehicle as is mentioned in Rule 7 which will include a possession by the Financier under a hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation agreement as also such possession by the borrower. This aspect shall be further dealt with hereinafter.

69. Another provision which is relevant for our purpose is Section 20 which reads as under:-

"20. Recovery of tax.--(1) Arrears of any tax or additional tax or penalty payable under this Act shall be recoverable as arrears of land revenue.

(2) The tax, the additional tax and penalty payable under this Act shall be first charge on the motor vehicle including its accessories, in respect whereof it is due.

(3) The Taxation Officer shall raise a demand in the form as may be prescribed from the owner or operator, as the case may be, for the arrears of tax and additional tax and penalty of each year, which shall also include the arrears of tax, additional tax or penalty, if any, of preceding years."

70. The recovery envisaged under Section 20 therein is of arrears of tax, additional tax or penalty. These are recoverable as arrears of land revenue. The arrears of such tax as is mentioned in Section 20(3) include arrears for the preceding years. Thus, arrears can be of the same year and also of the preceding years.

71. The arrears of such tax are "first charge' on the motor vehicle under Sub-section 2 of Section 20, meaning thereby, in the event of non payment of arrears of tax, the motor vehicle in respect to which the tax is payable can be attached or detained and put to sale so as to recover the dues as arrears of land revenue, as, this is one of the modes prescribed for recovery of arrears of land revenue.

72. Even as per Section 22(1) of the Act, 1997 if it is found that a motor vehicle has been or is being used without payment of tax, additional tax or penalty it can be detained under Section 22(1) and if the tax etc. due in respect thereof is not paid within forty-eight hours of its seizure, the Transport Commissioner, apart from other action under the said Act, can cause the vehicle to be sold by public auction in the manner prescribed and sale proceeds of such vehicle shall be adjusted towards the tax etc. which is due as per Section 22(3). Section 22 is as under:-

"__22. Detention of a motor vehicle in case of non-payment of tax.__- (1) Where an officer authorized by the State Government in this behalf, has reason to believe that a motor vehicle has been or is being used by a person without payment of tax, additional tax or penalty if any, he may seize and detain the a motor vehicle and for the purpose take, or cause to be taken, such steps as may be considered, by him necessary, for the safe-custody of the motor vehicle and, in particular, require the driver of such vehicle to convey it to the nearest police station or any other place specified by him :

Provided that the officer seizing the vehicle, shall, within forty-eight hours of such seizure, send a report of such seizure to the concerned Taxation Officer.

(2) A motor vehicle seized or detained under this section shall be released by the Taxation Officer immediately on payment of the tax, additional tax, penalty or other amount due for the non-payment whereof the vehicle was so seized or detained.

(3) Where the tax, additional tax, penalty or other amount due for the non-payment whereof a motor vehicle has been seized or detained under this section, is not paid under sub-section (2) within the period of forty-five days from the date of seizure or detention of the Vehicle, the Transport Commissioner may, without prejudice to any other action that may be taken under this Act, cause the vehicle to be sold by public auction in the manner prescribed and the sale proceeds of such vehicle shall be adjusted towards the tax, additional tax, the penalty or the other amount due in respect of such vehicle and the expenses, if any, of such auction and the balance, if any, shall be refunded to the owner of the operator of the vehicle."

73. Section 20(3) of the Act, 1997 is also in consonance with the provisions contained in Section 9(3), as, it obligates the Taxation Officer to raise a demand for tax etc. in the form as may be prescribed from the "Owner' or "Operator', as the case may be. Now, the words ''as the case may be' have been understood to mean "depending upon the circumstances' or "as the situation may be' or "whichever is appropriate in the events which happen'. Reference may be made in this regard to the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Subramaniam Shanmugham Vs. M.L. Rajendran and Ors. reported in (1987) 4 SCC 215.

74. Thus, the language used in Section 20(3) is also indicative of the fact that if in a given situation there is an "Owner' as also an "Operator' then the demand could be raised from either of them as their liability under Sub-section 3 of Section 9 is joint and several, however, in a given case, such as that of a "motor vehicle other than a transport vehicle', where there is no operator, the Taxation officer will raise a demand from the owner alone. This is what the words "as the case may be' mean and they convey the same meaning as is the consequence of use of the words "if any' in Sub-section 3 of Section 9. The words ''as the case may be' are indicative of a scenario where there is an owner as also an operator or only an owner or an operator, and action to be taken under Section 20(3) accordingly. This is how we understand the provision contained in Section 20(3).

(Emphasis supplied by us)

75. On similar lines the corresponding Rule to Section 20(3) is Rule 18(3) wherein also the Taxation Officer is required to send a notice under Sub-section (3) of Section 20 in Form E-1 to the owner or operator, as the case may be, of the vehicle.

76. Rule 18(3) records as under:-

"18. Notice to owners or operators of Motor Vehicles.-

(1) .....

(2) .....

(3) The Taxation Officer, for arrears of tax or additional tax or penalty, shall send a notice under sub-section (3) of Section 20 in Form -1 to the owner or operator, as the case may be, of the vehicle. The notice shall be served in the manner prescribed under sub-rule (1)."

77. Form E- 1 is as under:-

Therefore, a notice is, hereby, sent to you for payment of due amount/production of payment certificate (if already paid) within 15 days from the date of issue of this notice. If the due amount is not paid/payment certificate (if any) is not produced within the above prescribed time, the due amount shall be recovered as arrears of land revenue under the provisions of Section 20 of the aforesaid Act.

78. Although, Section 20(3) refers to owner or operator, as the case may be, the notice issued under corresponding Rule 18(3) in Form-E-1 is addressed to the "registered owner' obviously as the Registering Authority's/ Taxation Officer's records would contain his name.

79. Thus, even under Rule 18(3) there is a reference to liability of "Owner' or "Operator', as the case may be, as is referred in Section 20(3), which is tune with the use of the words "Owner or Operator', if any, in Section 9(3).

80. This view is further fortified by a reading of Section 12 of the Act, 1997. Sub-section 1 of Section 12 speaks of "any person' in the context of non use of vehicle and refund of tax relating to transport vehicles but in Sub-section 2 which applies to motor vehicles, including a transport vehicle, the words ''operator or, as the case may be, owner.....' have been used which leave no doubt that the provision will apply ''as the case may be', which means depending upon the circumstances, meaning thereby, depending whether in a given case there is an operator (as in the case of transport vehicle) or only an owner (as in the case of other vehicles) or both (Transport vehicles). While referring to a "motor vehicle other than a transport vehicle' in Sub-section (5) only the word ''owner' has been used obviously as the Act, 1997 does not envisage an "operator' in respect of such vehicles. Again in Sub-section 7 the words ''an operator of a transport vehicles' are used. In Sub-section 8, with reference to motor vehicle, which includes a transport vehicle, the words ''operator, or, as the case may be, the owner.....' have been used and the rationale behind it has already been explained earlier in the context of discussing Section 9(3) and 20(3). Corresponding Rule 22 of the Rules, 1998 however refers to the term "owner' only. The rule however can not be read in conflict with the substantive provision contained in Section 12 and has to be read, understood and applied in consonance with it and not otherwise.

81. Under Section 9(3) it is the "Owner' and the "Operator', if any, of the motor vehicle who shall be jointly and severally liable. Likewise under Section 20(3) it is the "Owner' or "Operator', as the case may be, who can be proceeded for recovery of arrears of tax etc. Section 13 also refers to liability of "Owner' or "Operator' in this regard. Rule 7 and Rule 9(3) have also to be understood and applied accordingly. It is therefore imperative to consider the terms "owner' and "operator' as defined in the Act, 1997.

82. The term ''owner' has been defined in Section 2(h) of the Act, 1997 as under:-

"(h) "owner" in respect of motor vehicle means the person whose name is entered in the Certificate of Registration issued in respect of such vehicle, and where such vehicle is the subject of an agreement of hire purchase or lease or hypothecation, the person in possession of the vehicle under that agreement and where any such person is a minor, the guardian of such minor;"

83. The definition of "Owner' applies to "motor vehicles'. As the term "motor vehicle' occurring in Section 2(h) of the Act, 1997 in the context of the definition of "Owner' has not been defined in the Act, 1997 it takes within its sweep all motor vehicles irrespective of their sub-categories in view of Section 2(28) of the Act, 1988 read with Section 2(o) of the Act, 1997. It includes transport vehicles.

84. In the definition of "Owner' in Section 2(30) of the Act, 1988, which has been quoted earlier, the words "and in relation to a motor vehicle' have been used, whereas, in Section 2(h) of the Act, 1997 the words "where such vehicle is' have been used in the context of a vehicle being under a hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation agreement. In Section 2(30) the opening line starts with the words "unless the context otherwise requires' whereas, it is not so in Section 2(h). Except for these differences, which are not relevant in the context of the questions referred to us, the two definitions are similar.

85. The definition of "owner' contained in Section 2(30) of the Act, 1988 came up for consideration before the Supreme Court in the case of Purnya Kala Devi Vs. State of Assam and Anr. report in (2014) 14 SCC 142 in the context of liability in an accident claim and the Supreme Court explained the provision and the intent of the legislature in this regard in Paragraph 16 as under:-

"The High Court failed to appreciate that at the relevant time the offending vehicle was under the requisition of Respondent No. 1 State of Assam under the provisions of the Assam Act. Therefore, Respondent No. 1 was squarely covered under the definition of "owner" as contained in Section 2(30) of the 1988 Act. The High Court failed to appreciate the underlying legislative intention in including in the definition of "owner" a person in possession of a vehicle either under an agreement of lease or agreement of hypothecation or under a hire-purchase agreement to the effect that a person in control and possession of the vehicle should be construed as the "owner" and not alone the registered owner. The High Court further failed to appreciate the legislative intention that the registered owner of the vehicle should not be held liable if the vehicle was not in his possession and control."

86. Thus, the Supreme Court while considering the provision of Section 2(30) took note of the underlying legislative intention in including in the definition of "Owner' a person in possession of a vehicle under the agreements referred therein to the effect that a person in control and possession of the vehicle should be construed as the "Owner' and not alone the registered owner. Thus, both were to be the owners but in the facts of the said case which related to a motor accident claim the person in possession and control of the vehicle was held liable.

87. As per Section 2(h) "Owner' in respect of a motor vehicle is its registered owner and if such vehicle is the subject of an agreement of hire-purchase or lease or hypothecation, the person in possession thereof under that agreement is also its owner. Thus, the registered owner alone is not the owner. It depends upon the factual position, whether the vehicle is the subject of hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation agreement or not ? If it is, then the person in possession of such vehicle under that agreement would be the owner, irrespective of the fact whether his name is entered in the Certificate of Registration or not. If the vehicle is not the subject of such agreement it is the person whose name is entered in the Certificate of Registration who is the owner. The analogy is the same as in Purnya Kala Devi's case (supra), though, the context is different.

88. The intention of the Legislature is clear that the registered owner should not be held liable to tax etc. if the vehicle is not in his possession and control instead it is in the possession of someone else under the agreements referred hereinabove who would become its owner based on such possession, except of course if there are arrears of tax etc. for the period during which he was in possession and control.

89. The provision contained in Section 2(h) is in two parts. The first part refers to the registered owner, whereas, the second part refers to the person in possession under the agreements referred therein. There is no reference to "registered owner' in the second part of Section 2(h). Thus, the person in possession under the second part even if he is not the registered owner, yet, he falls within the definition of "Owner' as contained in Section 2(h). It does not require the person in possession of the vehicle under such agreements to be its registered owner also so as to qualify as "Owner'. Further, possession under such agreement under Section 2(h) refers to actual possession of the vehicle whether it be of the borrower or Financier. This is how a similar definition contained in Section 2(30) of the Act, 1988 has been understood by the Supreme Court. Rule 7 of the Rules, 1998, as discussed earlier, needs to be seen in this regard. A contrary understanding of Section 2(h) by a Division Bench of this Court in Amar

Nath Chaubey's case (supra) is, thus, incorrect.

90. Thus, the first part of section 2(h) applies to a scenario where there is no such agreement nor any possession under it and the second part applies where the vehicle is under such agreement and its possession is under such agreements, whether of the borrower or Financier.

91. Possession under such agreements as is referred in the second part of Section 2(h) does not mean only the possession of the "Financier' consequent to a breach of agreement by the borrower based on the existence of a clause permitting such possession. It also covers possession of the vehicle by the borrower (registered owner) himself, if it is also under such agreement, which is possible, as, normally, such agreements are entered prior to purchase (except when they are entered subsequently as per Section 51(2) of the Act, 1988) and a reference to such agreement is made in the Sale Certificate in Form-21 referred in Rule 47(1)(a). Reference may be made in this regard to Form-21 as it indicates that it is to be issued by the Manufacturer/Dealer who delivers the vehicle to the purchaser with an endorsement thereon that the vehicle is held under an agreement of hire-purchase/ lease/hypothecation, therefore, the possession referred in the second part of Section 2(h) includes the possession of the borrower in the normal course under such agreement (who may also be the registered owner) and also the possession taken by the Financier consequent to breach of such agreements, as the case may be.

92. At this stage, it is necessary to clarify that in the definition of "Owner' whether contained in Section 2(30) of the Act, 1988 or Section 2(h) of the Act, 1997, the reference in the first part of definition to the person whose name is entered in the Certificate of Registration or a person in whose name the motor vehicle has been registered refers to the registered owner and not the entry made in such Certificate with regard to the Financier as is mentioned in Section 41 of the Act, 1988 which has already been discussed earlier. Any other understanding of the said words would be incongruous to the object and scheme of the Act, the provision contained therein and would make it unworkable.

93. ''Operator' is defined in Section 2(g) of the Act, 1997 as under:-

"(g) "operator" in respect of a transport vehicle means a person whose name is entered in the permit or in an authorisation certificate issued under the Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles (Special Provisions) Act, 1976, and where there is no such permit or authorisation certificate, the person whose name is entered in the Certificate of Registration in respect of such vehicle, and where the transport vehicle is the subject of a hire purchase agreement, the person in possession of the vehicle under that agreement and where any such person is a minor, the guardian of such minor;"

94. The definition of operator applies only to transport vehicles.

95. The term "transport vehicle' is defined in Section 2(n) of the Act, 1997 to mean a goods carriage or a public service vehicle. Goods carriage is further defined in Section 2(d) of the said Act. Public service vehicle is not defined in the Act, 1997, therefore, in view of Section 2(0) of the said Act the meaning assigned to it under Section 2(35) is to be applied to the Act, 1997.

96. On a reading of Section 2(h), what comes out is that "Operator', in respect of a transport vehicle, is the person whose name is entered in the Permit or Authorization Certificate. If not, then the person whose name is entered in the Certificate of Registration in respect of such vehicle and if such vehicle is the subject of a hire-purchase agreement then the person in possession of it under that agreement is the owner. This is based on the same analogy as referred in the context of Section 2(h). Thus, if the vehicle is under a hire-purchase agreement the person in possession of the vehicle under such agreement, who could be the borrower (registered owner) or the Financier, is the owner, otherwise it is the permit holder or authorization certificate holder and in its absence the registered owner who is the owner.

97. Although, under Section 66 of the Act, 1988 a permit is mandatory for using the vehicle as a transport vehicle, Section 2(g) covers a situation where there is no such permit, such as, in the case of illegal plying of a vehicle as a transport vehicle. Moreover, the registered owner and the permit holder may be two different persons, as such, this possibility has also been taken into account.

98. Noticeably, the third part of Section 2(g) is confined to a transport vehicle which is the subject of a hire-purchase agreement and does not extend to a transport vehicle which may be the subject of other two types of agreements referred in the definition of "Owner' in Section 2(h) i.e. a lease or hypothecation.

99. The definition of operator in Section 2(4) of the Bombay Motor Vehicles (Taxation of Passengers) Act, 1958 which was considered by the Supreme Court in the case of State of Maharashtra and Ors. Vs. Sundaram Finance and Ors. reported in (1999) 9 SCC 1 is different from the definition of "Operator' contained in Section 2(g) of the Act, 1997, therefore, reliance placed on the said decision by Shri Amol Kumar learned counsel for the petitioner, is misplaced.

Joint and Several liability of ''Owner' and Operator under Section 9(3) of the Act, 1997.

100. Having discussed the term "Owner' and "Operator' as appearing in the Act, 1997, their meaning and scope, we proceed to discuss their joint and several liability as prescribed in Section 9(3).

101. As per Section 9(3) the liability to pay tax, additional tax and penalty under the Act, 1997 is upon the owner and the operator, if any, jointly and severally.

102. Joint and several liability referred in Section 9(3) applies when there is an "Owner' and "Operator' both. It is only when both of them exist that the concept has any application, not otherwise. This is borne out from the use of the words ''if any' after the words "Owner' and "Operator' in Section 9(3), which means, ''if there is any such operator', as, the Legislature was conscious of the fact that the Act, 1997 did not envisage an "Operator' in respect of "motor vehicles other than transport vehicles', though it did so in respect of a "Transport Vehicle'. Hence, the use of the words "if any' in Section 9(3).

103. The Act, 1997 does not envisage an "Operator' for the purposes of "motor vehicles other than transport vehicles', as such, there is no question of joint and several liability in respect of such vehicles under Section 9(3) and it is the "Owner' alone who would be liable.

104. This principle is thus restricted in its application to "transport vehicles', as, the Act, 1997 envisages an "Owner' and "Operator' both, only in respect thereof as per Section 2(h) and Section 2(g).

105. Principle of "joint and several liability' as applicable in the field of contract, Tort, taxation etc. has been applied statutorily through Section 9(3) of the Act, 1997. The rationale behind such a principle is to facilitate easy realization and recovery of tax. What if, one of them (owner or operator) is an insolvent? Hence, such a provision.

106. Reference may be made in this regard to Jowitt's Dictionary of English Law wherein the term "Joint and Several' has been explained as under:-

"Joint and several. An obligation entered into by two or more persons is joint and several when each is liable severally and all are liable jointly. A liability may be imposed, whether by statute, contract or otherwise, on two or more persons jointly and severally; in which case, again, each is liable severally and all are liable jointly. For judicial and statutory constructions and definitions in different contexts see Stroud's Judicial Dictionary."

107. Same term has been explained in Black Law Dictionary as under:-

"joint and several, (Of liability, responsibility, etc.) apportionable at an adversary's discretion either among two or more parties or to only one or a few select members of the group; together and in separation."

108. The term Joint and Several liability has been explained in Advanced Law Lexicon as under:-

"Joint and several liability. A liability is said to be joint and several when the creditor may sue one or more of the parties to such liability separately or all of them together at his option"

109. When the liability is joint and several it is open to the claimant to claim relief against both or either one of them, may be, the softer target, as regards the entire claim and not merely his share, leaving the two who are jointly liable to work out there relative liability or responsibility. This is what is meant by liability being joint and several. This legal proposition is borne out from a reading of the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Khenyei (supra) wherein the phrase "jointly and severally liable', its purport and import came up for consideration. The decision of the Madras High Court in the case of J. Jeyasingh (supra) is also relevant in this regard.

110. Now, in a scenario involving "transport vehicles', in respect to which, the Act, 1997 envisages two persons i.e. the owner and operator, liability to arrears of tax, additional tax and penalty being joint and several under Section 9(3) of the Act, 1997 as already discussed, considering the object and rationale behind such principle of joint and several liability and its incorporation by the Legislature in Section 9(3) of the Act, 1997, which is a taxing statute, either can be held liable for the entire liability irrespective of his/their share of the liability, leaving the parties to sort out and work out their relative and respective liabilities inter se, as per law.

111. As already stated, as per Section 20(3) read with Rule 18(3), the Taxation Officer is required to raise a demand in prescribed Form from the "Owner' or "Operator', as the case may be. No doubt the prescribed Form E-I is addressed to the registered owner but this, as stated earlier, is only on account of the fact that it is the registered owner alone who would be recorded in the records of the Registering Authority and Financier would only be mentioned in the "Note' and there would be no mention of possession having been taken by the Financier unless intimation in this regard is given either by the registered owner or the Financier himself or otherwise but as and when such information is given by the concerned person, may be after issuance of notice to the registered owner or is otherwise received, the Taxation Officer would come to know about the aforesaid facts and would be at liberty to proceed against either the registered owner or the one in possession of the transport vehicle under an agreement of hire-purchase/lease/ hypothecation, as per his choice, especially as, the contents of Form E-1 will not supersede or override the substantive provision contained in Section 9(3) and 20(3) nor the provision of Rule 18(3).

112. As regards contention of Shri Amitabh Kumar Rai, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State in this regard that the Taxation Officer can determine their proportionate liability, well, if both the parties are available and there is material which enables him to do so, he can do it, especially where indisputably the liability is of arrears of tax and/or penalty for the period prior to the date of possession of the vehicle by the Financier, when the vehicle was in possession of the registered owner, as, there is no bar in the Act, 1997 in this regard. However, in the event he is unable to do so, he has the option to proceed against either of them i.e. the owner or operator where both exit, as in the case of a transport vehicle, for the entire liability as per his choice, leaving it open to them to settle their inter se claim separately as per law.

113. Thus, the concept of joint and several liability for the reasons already mentioned, will not have any application in respect of "motor vehicle other than transport vehicle'. It will apply in case of "transport vehicle', as aforesaid.

Current liability to tax, additional tax and penalty from the date of possession by Financier

114. Now, the Question No. 1, which has been referred to us, is essentially as to whether the Financier is liable to tax from the date of taking possession of the vehicle under the agreements referred earlier, even if, its name is not entered in the Certificate of Registration, or not ? If not, who is liable in this regard.

115. As regards liability to pay tax etc. from the date of taking possession, in respect of a ''motor vehicle other than a transport vehicle', the Financier becomes its owner under Section 2(h) when he takes possession of the vehicle under an agreement of hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation, irrespective of the fact whether he is the registered owner or not as already discussed, and as thereafter he alone can use it, as such, he is liable to pay tax, additional tax and penalty which fall due for payment after such possession i.e. current tax and additional tax including arrears arising in respect thereof and penalty if any from the date of such possession.

116. He is in possession of the vehicle on which there is a statutorily ordained "first charge' for the tax etc. due under the Act in view of Section 20(2) of the Act. 1997, therefore, he is liable from the date of possession.

117. Moreover, as already discussed, even as per Rule 7 of the Rules, 1998 once the Financier ''becomes possessed' of the vehicle he is required to submit a declaration in Form- A and as per Rule 9(3) of the Rules, 1998 and one who presents the declaration referred in Rule 7 has to pay the tax. This declaration is obviously in the context of current liability to tax from the date of possession and arrears which arise therefrom.

118. Language of Section 9(3) determines current liability to pay tax, additional tax etc. and arrears thereof, both.

119. In respect of a ''transport vehicle' also, the Financier on taking possession of such a vehicle under a hire-purchase, lease or hypothecation agreement, becomes its "Owner', and also its "Operator' if the agreement is of hire-purchase. Even if it is not a hire-purchase agreement, and the Financier does not becomes its operator from the date of such possession, it is still its owner under Section 2(h) who is in possession under the other two types of agreement, and, thus, would be liable along with the permit holder/authorization certificate holder or the registered owner, as the case may be, who, in this case, would be the "Operator', jointly and severally, in terms of Section 9(3), as discussed earlier. Their liability would be in keeping with the concept of joint and several liability as elucidated in the earlier part of this judgment.

120. The fact that the Financier's name is not yet entered in the Certificate of Registration would be of no consonance as it is not a prerequisite for being the "Owner' or "Operator' in such a scenario under Section 2(h) and 2(g). In fact "Ownership' and "Operatership' based on possession of a vehicle which is subject to the aforesaid agreements and that with reference to entry in the name of Certificate of Registration have been defined separately and distinctly in Section 2(g) and Section 2(h).

121. The Financier is thus liable to pay tax etc. as aforesaid.

122. In this context, the Financier can very well say that the Certificate of Registration or permit, not being in his possession and the same being in possession of the borrower who has not delivered the same to the Financier, inspite of possession of the vehicle being taken by the latter, it is therefore not liable to pay tax even from the date it takes possession of the vehicle unless it is registered in its name and till then liability will continue with the registered owner, as was in fact argued by Shri Amol Kumar, especially when, it did not intend to use the vehicle and intended to get the benefit of Section 2 of Section 12 of the Act, 1997. However this argument is fallacious for the reason which follows.

123. Apart from the reasons already given, this argument would not be available to the Financier for the simple reason that from the date of such possession of the vehicle it becomes the owner under Section 2(h) and if the vehicle is under a hire-purchase agreement its "Operator' also under Section 2(g), may be, along with the registered owner or permit holder or holder of authorization certificate, as the case may be. The ownership or operatorship based on possession as is referred in Section 2(h) and Section 2(g) is not dependent on the name of such person in possession being entered in the Certificate of Registration as its registered owner etc., as already discussed, and as is also evident from the provisions themselves.

124. Moreover, if the Certificate of Registration or token is not given by the registered owner, such Financier, under Sub-section 5 of Section 51 of the Act, 1988 read with Rule 61 of the Rules, 1989, can satisfy the Registering Authority that he has taken possession of the vehicle from the registered owner owing to his default under the said agreement and that the registered owner refuses to deliver the Certificate of Registration or has absconded, and such authority, may, after giving the registered owner an opportunity to make such representation as he may wish to make and notwithstanding that the Certificate of Registration is not produced before it, cancel the Certificate and issue a fresh Certificate of Registration in the name of the person with whom the registered owner had entered into such agreement, but, if the Financier does not take recourse to Section 51(5) then he can not take advantage of his lapse, especially in view of Section 2(g), 2(h), 9(3), 20(3) and Section 13 of the Act, 1997 read with Rule 7, 9(3) and 18 of the Rules, 1998 as discussed hereinabove. As stated earlier Form-A referred in Section 13 read with Rule 7 is also indicative of the requirement of the Financier, in such a situation, to get its name entered in the Certificate of Registration in respect of the vehicle in question and submit a declaration in Form-A. This is also the requirement under the Act, 1988.

125. Section 51(5), it appears, applies, even in cases where, on possession being taken by the Financier, as aforesaid, Certificate of Registration is handed over by the registered owner to it, as is evident from the contents of Form-36, as already quoted, which is referred in Rule 61(2) of the Rules, 1989 read with Section 51(5) of the Act, 1988.

Liability to pay arrears of tax, additional tax and penalty from the date of possession by the Financier

126. The words "from the date of taking possession of the said vehicle' occurring in Question No. 1 can not only be understood as a reference to current liability to pay tax etc. arising from the date of such possession which has already been dealt with by us, but, it can also be understood as a reference to liability to pay tax etc. as existing on the date of taking possession i.e. arrears of tax etc., which may become payable by the Financier once it takes possession of the vehicle. As for example, if there are arrears of tax of Rs. 1 lac in respect of a motor vehicle, as also penalty thereon, which had not been paid by the registered owner (borrower) and the Financier takes possession of such vehicle on account of breach of agreement by the borrower (registered owner), then, whether in this scenario the Financier would be liable for these arrears in respect of such vehicle under Section 9(3) and 20(3) ?

127. Section 9(3) and 20 of the Act, 1997 speak of liability to pay tax etc. which has not been paid in time i.e. arrears thereof and recovery of such arrears of tax etc., not only of the current year, but, also of preceding years. The liability is on the "Owner' or "Operator', if any, jointly and severally, under Section 9(3) and "as the case may be' under Section 20(3). These phrases have already been discussed by us earlier.

128. As already stated, in the case of "a motor vehicle other than a transport vehicle, as, one time tax is required to be paid, that too, at the time of registration of the vehicle, without which, it would not be registered nor can it be used, there would normally not be any dispute relating to liability to pay such arrears nor regarding their recovery.

129. In the case of a "transport vehicle', both the "Owner' and "Operator' would be jointly and severally liable under Section 9(3) and 20(3) as per the application of this concept, which has already been discussed in the earlier part of the judgment.

130. In case of arrears of tax etc. pertaining to the period prior to taking of possession of vehicle by Financier i.e. the period during which the registered owner/ permit holder etc. was in possession and control of it, as the latter was the owner or operator, as the case may be, during such period, and must have furnished a declaration in this regard in Form-A under Section 13 read with Rule 7, he was liable to pay such tax etc., therefore, recovery of such arrears should primarily and firstly be made from him. The Taxation Officer should proceed to recover such arrears from such registered owner or permit holder or authorization certificate holder, who was primarily liable in this regard. Only when it is not possible to recover it from such a person, may be on account of the fact that he is absconding or is untraceable or his whereabouts are not known or he has become insolvent or there are similar other reasons jeopardizing the interest of revenue, Taxation Officer can proceed to recover such arrears from the Financier who has taken possession of the vehicle, in respect of which such arrears are due.

131. It could be asked why should the Financier be made liable for recovery of arrears of tax and penalty for a period prior to such possession merely because he had taken possession of the vehicle on account of breach of agreement, that too, subsequently ? Would it not be unfair and equitable ? Would it not put a premium on default by the registered owner (borrower), by making the Financier unfairly liable ?

132. This is where Section 20(2) becomes relevant. According to this provision, such tax, additional tax and penalty payable under Act, 1997, which has not been paid i.e. the arrears thereof, as is mentioned in Section 20(1), shall be the ''first charge' on the motor vehicle including its accessory under Section 20(2). Thus, the "first charge' regarding arrears of tax etc. being on such motor vehicle, possession of which has been taken by the Financier, his liability in this regard is self evident for this very reason. If such arrears can not be recovered from the registered owner as aforesaid then recovery of arrears of tax etc. as arrears of land revenue under Section 20 may have to be effected by attachment and sale of the motor vehicle which is in possession of the Financier. In such a scenario the Taxation Officer can proceed against the Financier to recover the arrears accordingly. The Financier may in order to avoid attachment and sale of the vehicle pay the arrears and, if possible, recover the amount from the borrower by adopting such legal remedies as may be prescribed and permissible, but, it can not escape the rigour of Section 20(2) read with Section 22 of the Act, 1997.

133. As stated earlier, under Section 22 if such a vehicle regarding which tax etc. have not been paid has been or is being used it can be detained and if the tax due is not paid within forty-eight hours it can be put to public auction and sale proceeds derived from it can be used to satisfy the dues.

134. Thus, process of recovery can be adopted for arrears of tax due in respect of such vehicle, including arrears for the period prior to taking of possession of the transport vehicle by the Financier in this manner by detaining and selling the vehicle in possession of the Financier, unless the Financier chooses to avoid such action by paying the arrears. In such an eventuality he can, if possible, recover the payment from the registered owner, as per law. This is the scheme of the Act, 1997, which is a taxing statute.

135. In view of the above discussion, the decisions relied upon by Shri Amol Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner, including the decisions in the case of Naveen Kumar (supra) and HDFC Bank Ltd. (supra), do not lead us to any other view of the matter, especially in view of the scheme of the Act, 1997 and Rules, 1998 and as the liability which has been considered herein is tax liability.

136. Although we are of the view that a transaction such as the one under the agreements referred above attracts the definition of owner and operator under section 2(g) and 2(h) and not the concept of "deemed ownership' under Section 9(2) and consequently it attracts the liability under section 9(3)and 20(3) and not section 9(2) as it is not a voluntary act of transfer of ownership by the registered owner, assuming that it is covered under the term "transfer' under section 9(2), the financier, as transferee/ deemed owner, would still be liable to pay tax etc due on or before the date of such transfer i.e. arrears of tax as already discussed. The rationale behind the provision has already been mentioned. Here again this would be without prejudice to liability of the transferor in this regard. Thus the taxation officer can proceed against both of them on almost the same analogy as discussed in the context of section 9(3).

137. The distinction if any between Section 9(2) and 9(3) in this regard is on account of existence of a deeming clause in Section 9(2) and the transfer referred therein being a voluntary act as already discussed earlier, whereas, taking of possession based on breach of agreement is more of a compulsion to avoid loss and secure the loan and there is no deeming clause applicable in this regard nor does the concept of joint and several liability come into play when the Financier was neither owner nor operator during the period of such arrears.

138. Whether it be the liability under Section 9(2) or 9(3), the fact that the name of the transferee or Financier, as the case may, has not yet been entered in the Certificate of Registration, after such transfer or possession of the vehicle, is, for reasons already given, irrelevant so far as tax due on the vehicle is concerned.

139. As already stated, as regards "motor vehicles other than a transport vehicle' liability regarding arrears in respect thereof would be practically Nil as one time tax is paid. If a dispute regarding liability to pay arrears of tax etc. in respect of motor vehicles other than transport vehicles does arise it will have to be determined keeping in mind the enunciation of the law as aforesaid. The Financier on taking possession of the vehicle will be liable accordingly.

140. It is not out of place at this stage to mention that when the registered owner (borrower) is in arrears of tax etc. then intimation of such arrears and the liability of the registered owner to pay such arrears of tax is sent not only to the registered owner but is also sent to the Financier under Rule 18(3) read with Form E-I of the Act, 1997, as quoted earlier, on his address, meaning thereby, the Financier can avoid such further liability by taking suitable action either for possession of the vehicle treating it to be a breach of agreement, if there is any such condition in the agreement or, they can avoid such liability by ensuring such conditions being incorporated in the agreements with the borrower.

141. Question No. 1 is answered accordingly.

Discussion on Question No. 2.

142. In view of the discussion made by us in the context of Question No. 1 and after having gone through the judgments referred in Question No. 2 we are of the view that the decision of this Court in the case of Manish Mukhriya (supra) and another decision in both the cases of Lakhimpur Finvest Company Ltd. of 2005 and 2011 some of the provisions such as Section 9(2), 20(2), 51 and the concept of joint and several liability under Section 9(3), which we have considered, have not been considered, therefore, in so far as the said decisions are not in consonance with our judgment and are in conflict with it, they do not lay down the law correctly.

143. As regards decision of this Court in the case of Daya Shanker Yadav (supra), it does not decide any of the issues referred to us. It only considers the requirement of issuance of notice prior to recovery of tax, therefore, the said decision is not relevant to the questions which we have considered.

144. As regards decision in the case of Shri Prakash (supra) the petition in the said case was dismissed only on the failure of the petitioner to show to the Court the relevant provision under which a registered owner ceased to be liable to tax because possession of the vehicle had been taken over by the Financier. The decision does not consider relevant provisions of the Act and the Rules nor the law on the subject, as has been done by us, therefore, it does not contain any "ratio decidendi' which may constitute a binding precedent on the subject nor is it relevant in the context of the questions under consideration.

145. The Division Bench in Amar Nath Chaubey's case (supra) incorrectly introduced the concept de jure and de facto possession to the second part of the definition of owner in Section 2(h) of the Act, 1997 requiring the person in possession to be its registered owner also. The Division Bench also erred in applying Section 9(2) the way it did ignoring the stipulation in the provision which makes the transferee i.e. the deemed owner, liable to arrears of tax for the period prior to transfer of the vehicle, without prejudice to the liability of the transferor i.e. the registered owner, as such, it is for the Taxation Officer to proceed against either of the two as per his choice keeping in mind the principle of fairness and reasonableness as also the interest of the revenue which the provision seeks to protect. The Division Bench in Amar Nath Chaubey's case (supra) did not consider Section 9(3) at all. The provisions of Section 50 and 51 are a consequence of an otherwise valid transfer of a movable property in law and they by themselves do not constitute a prior requirement for a valid transfer as already held by us hereinabove. There is nothing in Section 51 or any other provision of the Act, 1988 to persuade us to hold that a lease, hire-purchase or hypothecation agreement is determined or terminated only when recourse is taken to Section 51. In fact, Section 51(3) is to the contrary and it applies where both the parties to the agreement have determined the agreement and they are required to apply under the said provision with proof of termination of such agreement which negates the proposition advanced by the Division Bench. The liability of a Financier who takes possession of a vehicle to pay tax etc. including arrears thereof is unrelated to the factum of its name being entered in the Certificate of Registration, as already opined by us.

146. The Division Bench in Amar Nath Chaubey's case (supra) has also observed that in the event a person in physical possession of the vehicle is held liable to pay tax it may cause difficulties for the Transport Authorities to find out the person in possession of the vehicle in absence of any information or proper application regarding the use or transfer of the vehicle so as to saddle him with the liability, therefore, completion of formalities regarding transfer or change of possession are necessary before shifting the liability of payment of tax from the registered owner to any other person. No doubt, the view expressed by the Division Bench has practical relevance but in a taxing statute we are required to consider the liability to pay tax, additional tax, penalty etc. in the light of the provisions contained therein construing the statutory provisions strictly. While it is true that in the event a Financier takes possession of the vehicle but does not get a fresh Certificate of Registration issued in his name in terms of Section 51(5), then, the Taxation Officer would not be able to know of the said transaction so as to impose and enforce liability to tax upon the Financier but then in such an eventuality he would make the registered owner liable as per the Act, 1997 and the Rules, 1998 as already discussed in the context of question no. 1 whereupon, the registered owner would obviously come forward and inform him about the transaction, unless he disputes it. In the latter case he would be liable and in the former, the Taxation Officer, on getting knowledge of the possession by the Financier, will issue notice to him under Rule 18 of the Rules, 1998 for the tax payable from the date of such possession as the details of the Financier are also mentioned in the Certificate of Registration and registration records maintained by the Registering Authority. Moreover, intimation of arrears of tax is also sent to the Financier under Rule 18(3)

147. The fact that the name of the Financier, after taking possession of such vehicle, is not entered in the Certificate of Registration as the registered owner, is of no consequence in this regard, as, the provisions contained in Sub-section (3) of Section 9, Sub-section (3) of Section 20 and Section 2(g) and 2(h) do not contemplate any such requirement in the case of a vehicle, covered under the relevant agreements, already discussed hereinabove, which is in possession of the Financier under such agreement. All that is necessary is the possession of the motor vehicle. If it has been taken by the Financier under such agreement, he would be liable, of course, along with the operator, if any, jointly and severally.

148. Moreover, for the reasons already given, neither the provisions of Section 50 and 51 nor the corresponding Rules contained in Rule 61 regarding entry of name in the Certificate of Registration or issuance of fresh certificate to Financier have any relevance whatsoever so far as liability in such a scenario to pay tax, additional tax or penalty under Sub-Section 3 of Section 9 read with Section 20 of the Act, 1997 is concerned. If the action under Section 51(3) and/or (3) read with Rule 61(2) is held to be a necessary prerequisite for liability to tax etc. then it would render part of definition of "Operator' and "Owner' regarding possession meaningless and superfluous in this context, as, such eventuality would in any case be covered by the first part of Section 2(h) and second part of Section 2(g). The words "Owner' and "Operator' occurring in Section 9 and 20 have to be read in consonance with the definition clause contained in Section 2(g) and (h) as already discussed.

149. The word used in Section 9(3) and 20 of the Act, 1997 is not "registered owner' but "Owner', therefore, for purposes of liability to tax etc., the Act, 1997, in view of Section 2(h) therein, envisages the onus not only on the "registered owner' but also on the person in possession under the agreements referred earlier. The same analogy/principle applies to the liability of "Operator' under Section 2(g). In the context of the questions referred to us the fact that the name of the Financier is not entered in the Certificate of Registration, is irrelevant. What is relevant is whether he has taken possession of the vehicle under the agreements referred earlier or not.

150. As such, for the reasons given hereinabove and the reason already given in the context of our discussion while answering Question No. 1, we are of the view that the decision in Amar Nath Dubey' case (supra), in so far as it is contrary to the law as clarified and declared by us by this judgment, can not be said to be good law.

151. For these very reasons the decisions in Writ Tax No. 201 of 2017; Kamil Hussain and Writ Tax No. 217 of 2017; Shriram Transport Finance Company Ltd. also do not lay down the law correctly.

152. Question No. 2 is answered accordingly.

153. Registry is directed to place the record of the writ petition along with our judgment before the appropriate Bench for further proceedings.

A. Appointment- The Constitution of India- Art. 14, 15, 16 and 21-A - Assistant teachers in primary school-such candidates called for counselling in the district who have completed training from the very same district-a reasonable classification-children should begin their schooling through the medium of their mother tongue.

Held, the said provision has got a purpose and object i.e. the children are taught by a person who is very well familiar with the local habitat and also speaks local dialect. Further the first preference for appointment is given to the candidates who have undergone the training qualification from the district concerned because such candidates are already acquainted with the demographic conditions, local dialect and traditions from where the children who are to be taught come from. (Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Dhari Singh, J.)

1. As common questions of law and facts arise in all writ petitions and as such all these writ petitions are being decided together by this common judgment and order.

2. In the instant bunch of writ petitions, all petitioners have assailed the validity of the Rule (14(1)(a) of the U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981, (in short '1981 Rules') which provides the appointing authority to invite applications from candidates possessing prescribed training qualification from the district concerned.

3. Petitioners, inter alia, have also challenged the condition 6 (Kha) as contained in the guideline dated 26.12.2016 issued by the Secretary, U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad to the extent that the candidates doing B.T.C. Training shall be allowed to apply in the district of their training alone in the first instance. They have also prayed that they may be permitted to appear in the counselling of the other district of their choice removing "District Preference".

4. Brief facts of the case are that vide Government Order No.3300/ 79-5-201604127/ 2013 dated 15.12.2016, a selection process for appointing 12,460 Assistant Teachers in the Primary Schools run under U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad was initiated. In pursuance of the aforesaid Government Order dated 15.12.2016, the Secretary, U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad issued a Letter No.Ba.Sh.Pa./ 12836 - 12932/ 2016-17 dated 20.12.2016 declaring the schedule as also the vacancies in the districts across the State of U.P. A guideline was also issued by the Secretary, U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad in pursuance to the Government Order dated 15.12.2016. Thereafter, in compliance of the letter dated 20.12.2016, online applications were invited from the eligible candidates for the post of Assistant Teachers by the respective District Basic Education Officers. All the petitioners have applied in various districts against notified vacancies.

5. Vide Circular No.Ba.Sh.Pa./ 16887 - 17056/ 1216 - 17 dated 02.03.2017, the Secretary, U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad had issued a definite schedule fixing 18.03.2017 to 20.03.2017 for First Counselling, 25.03.2017 for Second Counselling and 31.03.2017 was fixed for issuing appointment letters. In paragraph 2 of the Circular dated 02.03.2017, it has been provided that only such candidates shall be called for counselling in the district who have completed Training (B.T.C., V.B.T.C., Urdu B.T.C.) from the very district.

6. Petitioners have submitted on-line applications against the notified vacancies at various districts. Vide Circular No.Ba.Sha.Pa./16887-17056/1216-17 dated 02.03.2017, the Secretary, U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad has issued a definite schedule fixing 18.03.2017 to 20.03.2017 for first counsel, 25.03.2017 for second counselling and 31.03.2017 for issuing appointment letters. In para 2 of the said Circular, it is provided that only such candidates shall be called for counselling in the district who have done Training (BTC, VBTC, Urdu BTC) from the very district.

7. The instant bunch of writ petitions has been filed by petitioners with the object that the children are entitled for good quality of education under the provisions of Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 and the same cannot be achieved without appointing meritorious candidates.

8. Sri Anil Tiwari, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Apoorva Tewari along with other learned Advocates appearing for petitioners has contended that the fundamental right to free and compulsory education to all children of 6 to 14 years of age is guaranteed by Article 21-A of the Constitution of India. The purpose of enacting Free and Compulsory Education is to provide good quality of education to the children but the same cannot be achieved without appointing meritorious teachers. If the procedure adopted for appointing Assistant Teachers fails to ensure the appointments of meritorious Teachers, it depicts arbitrariness and hit by Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

9. In support of his contention, learned Counsel has placed reliance to para 8 of Radhey Shyam Singh v. Union of India; (1997) 1 SCC 60, which is as follows:

"8. It is needless to emphasis that the purpose and object behind holding a recruitment examination is to select suitable and best candidates out of the lot and such an object can only be achieved by making a common select list of the successful candidates belonging to all the zones. On the other hand if zone-wise selection is made then various candidates who appeared in some of the zones and secured more marks than those who are selected from other zones would be deprived of their selection resulting into great injustice and consequent discrimination. Thus there can be said to exist no nexus between the aforesaid process of zone-wise selection and the object to be achieved, that is, the selection of the best candidates. That being so the process of selection as envisaged in paragraph 16 of the advertisement in question and reproduced in the earlier part of this judgment would lead to discriminatory results because by adopting the said process of zone-wise selection would result in the devaluation of merit at the selection examination by selecting a candidate having lesser marks over the meritorious candidate who has secured more marks and consequently the rule of equal chance for equal marks would be violated. Such a process would not only be against the principles enunciated in Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution but it would also result in heart burning and frustration amongst the young men of the country. The rule of equality of opportunity for every individual in the country is an inalienable part of our constitutional guarantee and that being so a candidate who secures more marks than another is definitely entitled to get preference for the job as the merit must be the test when selecting a candidate for recruitment for the posts which are advertised. In the present case admittedly the process of selection as envisaged in paragraph 16 of the advertisement in question is violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India as it has been demonstrated from the marks st of the appellants placed before us at the Bar during the course of arguments that they had secured more marks than those secured by some of the selected candidates."

10. Learned Counsel appearing for petitioners has also placed reliance to paragraph 58 of Subramaniam Swamy v. Director, CBI; (2014) 8 SCC 682, which is as follows:

"58. The Constitution permits the State to determine, by the process of classification, what should be regarded as a class for purposes of legislation and in relation to law enacted on a particular subject. There is bound to be some degree of inequality when there is segregation of one class from the other. However, such segregation must be rational and not artificial or evasive. In other words, the classification must not only be based on some qualities or characteristics, which are to be found in all persons grouped together and not in others who are left out but those qualities or characteristics must have a reasonable relation to the object of the legislation. Differentia which is the basis of classification must be sound and must have reasonable relation to the object of the legislation. If the object itself is discriminatory, then explanation that classification is reasonable having rational relation to the object sought to be achieved is immaterial."

11. During the course of argument, learned Counsel for the petitioner has also invited the attention of this Court towards "The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009" (in short RTE Act, 2009) and submitted that the Parliament has enacted the said Act with the following objects:

"1. and 2. ….

3. Consequently, the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Bill, 2008 is proposed to be enacted which seeks to provide -

(a) that every child has a right to be provided full time elementary education of satisfactory and equitable quality in a formal school which satisfied certain essential norms and standards;

(b) to (d) …..

4. The proposed legislation is anchored in the belief that the values of quality, social justice and democracy and the creation of a just and humane society can be achieved only through provision of inclusive elementary education to all. Provision of free and compulsory education of satisfactory quality to children from the disadvantaged and weaker sections is, therefore, not merely the responsibility of schools run or supported by the appropriate Governments, but also of schools which are not dependent on Government Funds.

5. and 6. ...

Further, Section 8(g) of the aforesaid Act is as under:

8. Duties of appropriate Government. - The appropriate Government shall -

(a) to (f) ….

(g) ensure good quality elementary education conforming to the standards and norms specified in the Schedule;

(h) & (i) ..."

12. Learned Counsel appearing for the petitioner has next contended that the aforesaid discrimination shall defeat the intent of RTE Act, 2009. The petitioners apprehend that the instant selection process for appointment of 12,460 Assistant Teachers, due to strict adherence to Clause (a) of sub-Rule (1) of Rule 14 of 1981 Rules, would be plagued by the same illegal, unreasonableness and arbitrariness as were the earlier selection process for appointment of Assistant Teachers.

13. The learned Counsel appearing for petitioners has submitted that the condition for "inviting applications from candidates possessing prescribed training qualification from the district concerned" as contained in Clause (a) of sub-Rule (1) of Rule 14 of 1981 Rules is absolutely arbitrary as there is no reasonable nexus between the classification and the object sought to be achieved by inclusion of the condition. It is absolutely unreasonable and violation of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution. It has further been submitted that strict adherence to the aforesaid conditions amounts to violation of reservation policy which is detrimental to the General Category candidates as provided in Section 3(1) of the U.P. Public Service Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes Act, 1994.

14. Learned Counsel appearing for petitioners has invited attention of this Court towards paras 6 & 7 of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in Govind A Mane v. State of Maharashtra; (2000) 4 SCC 200. Para 6 and 7 read as under:

"6. The law, thus, having been laid down clearly by this Court, the High Court was not justified in dismissing the Writ Petition. Since it is not disputed by the respondents that for the purpose of admission to B.Ed Course, seats were distributed districtwise without indicating any material to show the nexus between such distribution and the object sought to be achieved, it would be violative of Article 14 of the Constitution.

7. Unfortunately, the whole matter relates to the year 1995 and, today, after a lapse of five years, it would not be possible to direct that the appellants may be admitted in B.Ed Course. All that can be said is that if any further steps are taken by the respondents for fresh admission to B.Ed Course, the appellants should also be given an opportunity to seek admission in that Course."

15. Learned Counsel appearing for petitioners has further submitted that vide Government Order dated 12.09.2012, online applications were invited for B.T.C., V.B.T.C. and Urdu B.T.C. Training but in paragraph 2 of the said Government Order, it has clearly been provided that for the aforesaid training, the applicant shall apply in the Training Institute located in the district of his domicile/ residence. It is compulsory to present domicile certificate from the district concerned or else the candidature shall be deemed cancelled. Thus necessarily the basis for B.T.C. Training in a district would remain the domicile/ residence in that district.

16. Sri Anil Tiwari, learned Senior Advocate has submitted that the preparation of merit list at district wise and restricting the selection of meritorious candidates, who belongs to other districts, amounts to a discrimination and such act of the State Government is in violation of Articles 15(1) and 16(2). In support of his submissions, Sri Anil Tiwari, learned Senior Advocate has relied upon paras 44 to 50 of State of U.P. Vs. Anant Kumar Tiwari; 2003 (3) AWC 2060. Paras 44 to 50 reads as under:

"44. A merit list of all the applications received will be prepared on the basis of quality points of the educational and other qualifications in accordance with the provisions given in the Government orders mentioned above at the State level, which will be prepared in proportion to the total vacancies for training. The above list will be arranged district-wise, in conformity with the vacancies available in the district and a provision of reservation as per the rules will be ensured. The candidates on the merit list shall be allotted as per the following, in order of merit:

(a) Home district of the candidate ;

(b) Another district of the Division, wherein home district is located ;

(c) Nearest Division to the home district Division of the candidate where the vacancy is available.

45. The plea taken by learned Advocate General that the students ought to be taught in the local dialect which differs from region to region in the State of U.P. is misconceived, inasmuch as, by restricting the prospective applicants of the home district to apply in that district only presumably by virtue of birth alone in that district does not serve the purpose, as that person may have studied elsewhere and may have forgotten the dialect of the home district. Further Art.15(1) and Art.16(2) of the Constitution put a complete prohibition upon the State from discriminating persons on the basis of birth and place of residence in the matter of employment within the State. In the case of English Medium Students Parents Association, ((1994) 1 SCC 550 : AIR 1994 SC 1702) (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court had held that:*

"All educational experts are uniformly of the opinion that pupils should begin their schooling through the medium of their mother tongue. There is great reason and justice behind this. Where the tender minds of the children are subject to an alien medium the learning process becomes unnatural, If inflicts a cruel strain on the children which makes the entire transaction mechanical. Besides, the educational process becomes artificial and torturous. The basic knowledge can easily be garnered through the mother tongue. The introduction of a foreign language tends to threaten to atrophy the development of mother tongue. When the pupil comes of age and reaches the Vth standard level, the second language is required to take it as a second language. At the secondary stage the three-language formula is introduced. However, in cases of non-Kannada speaking students grace marks up to 15 are awarded. Certainly, it cannot be contended that a student studying in a school from Karnataka need not know the regional language. It should be the endeavour of every State to promote the regional language of the State. In fact, the Government of Karnataka has done commendably well in passing this Government order. Therefore, to contend that the Imposition of study of Kannada throws an undue burden on the students is untenable. Again to quota Mahatma Gandhi :

"The medium of instruction should be altered at once and at any cost, the provincial languages being given their rightful place. I would prefer temporary chaos in higher education to the criminal waste that is daily accumulating."

As rightly contended by the learned Advocate General where the State by means of the Impugned Government order desires to bring about academic discipline as a regulatory measure it is a matter of policy. The State knows how best to implement the language policy. It is not for the Court to interfere."

46. Here, it is not the case that a different regional language is to be taught* to the students in different local areas. The subject in the course is same throughout the State. The medium of teaching is also the same. Only the dialect differs which too has been taken care of by providing allocation of seats in the home district to the candidates under the Government order dated 14.9.2001 out of the merit list prepared at the State level. In the case of Arun Tiwari (supra), the facts were that the assistant teachers in Madhya Pradesh are governed by the Madhya Pradesh Non-Gazetted Class III Education Service (Non-Collegiate Service) Recruitment and Promotion Rules, 1973, which provided for direct recruitment by competitive examination followed by an interview. During the Eighth Plan period, i.e., from 1992 to 1997 the Central Government sponsored a scheme known as Operation Blackboard Scheme. Under this scheme the Government of India gave financial clearance to the State of Madhya Pradesh to implement this scheme by appointing additional teachers in all primary middle schools which had only one teacher In order to improve the standards of education. In order to implement the scheme the State of Madhya Pradesh decided to fill in about 7,000 to 11,000 posts of Assistant Teachers in such schools. The recruitment Rules of 1973 were amended on 10.5.1993 by adding a proviso, which empowers the State Government to prescribe the criteria and procedure for selection of candidates in any circumstances. The State Government provided that selection of Arts teachers in 1993 will be made by committee instead of Junior Service Selection Board by inviting applications from employment exchange and making selection district-wise. Certain persons, who did not even possess the prescribed qualifications, challenged the selection process. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held as follows :

"The next contention relates to inviting applications from employment exchanges Instead of by advertisement. This procedure has been resorted to looking to the requirements of a time bound scheme. The original applicants contended that if the posts had been advertised, many others like them could have applied. The original applicants, who so complain, however, do not possess the requisite qualifications for the post. As far as we can see from the record, nobody, who had the requisite qualifications has complained that he was prevented from applying because advertisement was not issued. What is ; more important, in the special circumstances requiring a speedier process of selection and appointment, applications were invited through employment exchanges for 1993 only. In this context, the special procedure adopted is not unfair. The State has relied upon the case of Union of India Vs. Hargopal, ((1987) 3 SCC 308 : AIR 1987 SC 1227) where Government institution enjoining that the field of choice should, in the first instance, be restricted to candidates sponsored by the employment exchanges, was upheld as not offending Arts. 14 and 16 of the Constitution. In the case of Delhi Development Horticulture Employees' Union v. Delhi Admn., ((1992) 4 SCC 99) (SCC at p 111) : (AIR 1992 SC 789), this Court approved of recruitment through employment exchanges as a method of preventing malpractices. But in the subsequent and more recent case of Excise Supdet. V. K.B.N. Visweshwara Rao, (1996 AIR SCW 3979) this Court has distinguished Unionof India v. Hargopal,((1987) 3 SCC 308 : AIR 1987 SC 1227), on the basis of special facts of that case. It has observed that the better course for the State would be to Invite applications from employment exchanges as well as to advertise and also give wide publicity through T.V., Radio, etc. The Court had to consider whether persons, who had applied directly and not through employment exchanges should be considered. This Court upheld their claim for consideration.

There are different methods of inviting applications. The method adopted in the exigencies of the situation in the present case cannot be labelled as unfair, particularly when, at the relevant time, the two earlier decisions of this Court were in vogue." 46. The Apex Court in the case of Kailash Chand Sharma V. State of Rajasthan, (2002) 5 JT (SC) 591 : ((2002) 6 SCC 562 : AIR 2002 SC 2877) had that the award of bonus marks to the residents of the district and the residents of the rural areas of the district amounts to Impermissible discrimination and there is no rational basis for such preferential treatment. In paragraphs 14 and 15 of the reports, the Apex Court has held as follows : "Before proceeding further we should steer clear of a misconception that surfaced in the course of arguments advanced on behalf of the State and some of the parties. Based on the decisions which countenanced geographical classification for certain weighty reasons such as socio-economic backwardness' of the area for the purpose of admission to professional colleges, it has been suggested that residence within a district or rural area of that district could be a valid basis for classification for the purpose of public employment as well. We have no doubt that such a sweeping argument which has the overtones of parochialism is liable to be rejected on the plain terms of Art. 16(2) and in the light of Art. 16(3). An argument of this nature files in the face of the peremptory language of Art. 16(2) and runs counter to our constitutional ethos founded on unity and integrity of the nation. Attempts to prefer candidates of a local area in the State were nipped in the bud by this Court since long past. We would like to reiterate that residence by itself-be it be within a State, region, district or less area within a district cannot be a ground to accord preferential treatment or reservation, save as provided in Art. 16(3). It is not possible to compartmentalize the State into district with a view to offer employment to the residents of that district on a preferential basis. At this juncture it is appropriate to undertake a brief analysis of Art. 16".

Article 16, which under Clause (1) guarantees equality of opportunity for all citizens in matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the State reinforces that guarantee by prohibiting under Clause (2) discrimination on the ground only of religion, race, caste, sex, descent, place of birth, residence or any of them. Bee it noted that in the allied Article 15, the word 'residence' is omitted from the opening clause prohibiting discrimination on specified grounds. Clauses (3) and (4) of Article 16 dilute the rigour of Clause (2) by (i) conferring an enabling power on the Parliament to make a law prescribing the residential requirement within the State in regard to a class or classes of employment or appointment to an office under the State and (ii) by enabling the State to make a provision for the reservation of appointments or posts in favour of any backward class of citizens which is not adequately represented in the services under the State. The newly introduced Clauses (4A) and (4B), apart from Clause (5) of Article 16 are the other provisions by which the embargo laid down in Article 16(2) in somewhat absolute terms is lifted to meet certain specific situations with a view to promote the overall objective underlying the Article. Here, we should make note of two things, firstly, discrimination only on the ground of residence (for place of birth) in so far as public employment is concerned is prohibited ; secondly, Parliament is empowered to make the law prescribing residential requirement within a State or Union Territory as the case may be, in relation to a class or classes of employment. That means, in the absence of Parliamentary law, even the prescription of requirement as to residence within the State is a taboo. Coming to the first aspect, it must be noticed that the prohibitory mandate under Article 16(2) is not attracted if the alleged discrimination is on grounds not merely related to residence, but the factum of residence is only taken into account in addition to other relevant factors. This effect, is the import of the expression 'only'."

47. In paragraphs 24, 25 and 32 the Apex Court further held as follows :

"24. Before examining the further pleas in support of the impugned action taken by the State it would be apposite to refer to the decision in State of Maharashtra v. Raj Kumar, on which reliance has been placed by the High Court and reference has been made in the course of arguments before us. In that case a rule was made by the State of Maharashtra that a candidate in order to be treated as a rural candidate must have passed S.C.C. examination which is held from a village or a town having only 'C' type municipality: The object of the rule, as pointed out by this Court, was to appoint candidates having full knowledge of rural life and its problems so that they would be more suitable for working as officers in rural areas. The rule was struck down on the ground that there was no nexus between classification made and the object sought to be achieved because "as the rule stands any person, who may not have lived in a village at all can appear for S.C.C. examination from a village and yet become eligible for selection,"The rule was held to be violative of Articles 14 and 16. Another point discussed by the Court about the propriety of giving bonus marks for the rural candidates and the Court held thus :

"The rules also provide that viva-voce board would put relevant questions to judge the suitability of candidate for rural areas and to test whether or not they have sufficient knowledge of rural problems, and this no doubt amounts to a sufficient safeguard to ascertain the ability of the candidate regarding his knowledge about the affairs of the village. In such a situation there was absolutely no occasion for making an express provision for giving weightage, which would virtually convert merit into demerit and demerit into merit and would be per se violative of Article 14 of the Constitution as being an impermissible classification. The rule of weightage as applied in this case is mainly unreasonable and wholly arbitrary and cannot be sustained."

25. This decision is not a direct authority for the proposition that a citizen cannot be preferred for employment under the State on the ground that he or she hails from rural area. However, what has been laid down in regard to the first point assumes some relevance in the cases on hand. The criterion for Identifying a rural candidate was held to be irrelevant, as it had no nexus with the object sought to be achieved. In the present case, the position is much worse as the impugned circular does not spell out any criteria or indicia to determine whether an applicant is a rural candidate."

32. The justifiability of the plea stemming from the premise that uplifting the rural people is an affirmative action to improve their lot can be tested from the concrete situation which confronts us in the present cases. We are here concerned with the selections to the posts of teachers of primary schools, the minimum qualification being S.C.C. coupled with basic training course in teaching. Can the Court proceed on the assumption that the candidates residing in the town areas with their education in the schools or colleges located in the towns or its peripheral areas stand on a higher pedestral than the candidates, who had studied in the rural area schools or colleges? Is the latter comparatively a disadvantaged and economically weaker segment when compared to the former? We do not think so. The aspirants for the teachers jobs in primary schools be they from rural area or town area do not generally belong to affluent class. Apparently they come from lower middle class or poor background. By and large, in the pursuit of education, they suffer and share the same handicaps as their fellow citizens in rural areas. It cannot be said that the applicants from non-rural areas have access to best of the schools and colleges which the well-to-do class may have. Further, without any data, it is not possible to presume that the schools and colleges located in the town-small or big and their peripheral areas are much better qualitatively, that is to say, from the point of view of teaching standards or infrastructure facilities so as to give an edge to the town candidates over the rural candidates."

48. The Apex Court also repelled the plea regarding local dialect and residence of rural area with the following observations ((2002) 6 SCC 562 : AIR 2002 SC 2877, Paras 36, 39):

"Shri Rajeev Dhawan appearing for the selected candidates, who have filed S.L.P. (C) No. 10780 of 2001, did his best to support the impugned circular mainly on the second ground, namely, better familiarity with the local dialect. The learned counsel contends that when the teachers are being recruited to serve in gram panchayat areas falling within the concerned panchayat samiti, those hailing from the particular district and the rural areas of that district are better suited to teach the students within that district and the panchayat areas comprised therein. He submits that the local candidates can get themselves better assimilated into the local environment and will be in a better position to interact with the students at primary level. Stress is laid on the fact that though the language/mother tongue is the same, the dialect varies from district to district and even within the district. By facilitating selection of local candidates to serve the panchayat run schools, the State has not introduced any discrimination on the ground of residence but acted in furtherance of the goal to impart education. Such candidates will be more effective as primary school teachers and more suitable for the Job. It is therefore, contended that the classification is grounded on considerations having nexus with the object sought to be achieved and is not merely related to residence. We find it difficult to accept this contention, though plausible it is. We feel that undue accent is being laid on the dialect theory without factual foundation. The assertion that dialect and nuisances of the spoken language varies from district to district is not based upon empirical study or survey conducted by the State. Not even specific particulars are given in this regard. The stand in the counter-affidavit (extracted supra) is that each zone has its distinct language. "If that is correct the Zila Parishad should have mentioned in the notification that the candidates should know particular language to become eligible for consideration. We are inclined to think that reference has been made in the counter to 'language' ; instead of dialect rather inadvertently. As seen from the previous sentence, the words dialect and language are used as Inter-changeable expressions, without perhaps understanding the distinction between the two. We therefore, take it that what is meant to be conveyed in the counter is that each zone has a distinct dialect or vernacular and therefore local candidates of the district would be in a better position to teach and interact with the students. In such a case, the State Government should have identified the zones in which vernacular dissimilarities exist and the speech and dialect vary. That could only be done on the basis of scientific study and collection of relevant data. It is nobody's case that such an exercise was done. In any case, if these differences exist zone-wise or region-wise, there could possibly be no justification for giving weightage to the candidates on the basis of residence in a district. The candidates belonging to that zone, irrespective of the fact whether they belong to X, Y or Z district of the zone could very well be familiar with the allegedly different dialect peculiar to that zone. The argument further breaks down, if tested from the standpoint of award of bonus marks to the rural candidates. Can it be said reasonably that candidates, who have settled down in the town will not be familiar with the dialect of that district? Can we reasonably proceed on the assumption that rural area candidates are more familiar with the dialect of the district rather than the town area candidates of the same district? The answer to both the questions in our view cannot be in the negative. To prefer the educated people residing in villages over those residing In towns-big or small of the district, on the mere supposition that the former (rural) candidates will be able to teach the rural students better would only amount to creating an artificial distinction having no legitimate connection to the object sought to be achieved. It would then be a case of discrimination based primarily on residence which is prescribed by Article 16(2)". "38. One more serious infirmity in the impugned circular is that it does not spell out any criteria or indicia for determining whether the applicant is a resident of rural area. Everything is left held with the potential of giving rise to varying interpretations thereby defeating the apparent objective of the rule. On matters such as duration of residence, place of schooling etc. there are bound to be controversies. The authorities, who are competent to issue residential certificates are left to apply the criteria according to their thinking which can by no means be uniform. The decision in State of Maharashtra v. Raj Kumar, is illustrative of the problem created by vague or irrelevant criteria. In that case a rule was made by the State of Maharashtra that a candidate will be considered a rural candidate if he had passed S.S.C. examination held from a village or a town having only 'C' type municipality. The object of the rule, as noticed by this Court, was to appoint candidates having full knowledge of rural life so that they would be more suitable for working as officers in rural areas. The rule was struck down on the ground that there was no nexus between classification made and the object sought to be achieved because "as the rule stands, any person, who may not have lived in a village at all can appear for S.S.C. examination from village and yet become eligible for selection." The rule was held to be violative of Articles 14 and 16. When no guidance at all is discernible from the Impugned circular as to the identification of the residence of the applicants especially having regard to the Indefinite nature of the concept of residence, the provision giving the benefit of bonus marks to the rural residents will fall foul of Article 14.

49. The aforementioned decision has been subsequently followed by the Apex Court in the case of Harshendra Choubissa v. State of Rajasthan, (2002) 6 JT (SC) 553: ((2002) 6 SCC 393 : AIR 2002 SC 2897). In paragraph 12 of the report, the Apex Court has held as follows :

"12. The second ground urged by the State is equally Irrelevant and untenable. Most of the reasons given by us in the judgment just delivered in teachers' cases will hold good to reject this plea. No factual details nor material has been placed before us to substantiate that the spoken language and dialect varies from district to district. It will not be reasonable to assume that an educated person belonging to a contiguous district or districts will not be able to effectively communicate with the people of the district in which he is appointed or that he would be unfamiliar with the living conditions and culture of that district. He cannot be regarded as an alien in a district other than his native district. If any classification has to be done in this regard, it should be based on a scientific study but not on some broad generalization. If any particular region or area has some peculiar socio-cultural or linguistic features warranting a differential treatment for the purpose of deploying personnel therein, that could only be done after conducting a survey and identifying such regions or districts. That is the minimum, which needs to be done. There is no factual nor rational basis to treat each district as a separate unit for the purpose of offering public employment. Above all, it is wrong to assume that the candidates belonging to rural areas than the candidates living in nearby towns. The criteria of merit cannot be allowed to be diluted by taking resort to such artificial differentiation and irrelevant assumptions. On the material placed before us, we have no hesitation in holding that the addition of bonus marks to the applicants belonging to the same district and the rural areas of that district would amount to discrimination, which falls foul of Articles 14 and 16."

50. Applying the principles laid down by the Apex Court in the aforementioned cases to the present case, we find that restricting the selection and preparation of merit list at the District level are not all justified and it amounts to discrimination. In the present case taking into consideration the exigencies the State Government had decided to prepare the merit list at the State level and for restoring it to District level the reasons advanced by the State Government are irrelevant. Thus, the action of the State in restoring the preparation of merit list from State level to District level is arbitrary and is violative of Articles 15(1) and 16(2) of the Constitution of India."

17. Sri Anil Tiwari, learned Senior Advocate has next submitted that the merit of a candidate cannot be demerit merely on the ground that he is not the resident of the district for which the post has been advertised. The doctrine of equality enshrined under Article 16 cannot be let loose on considerations that are not permissible under the Constitution. Learned Senior Advocate has placed reliance in the case of Deepak Kumar Suthar v. State of Rajasthan; (1992) 2

RLR 692 (Paras 35, 39, 40 & 42). He has further submitted that awarding bonus marks to the candidates who belongs to the same district is also violation of Articles 14 and 16. He has again placed reliance to para 12 and 13 of Harshendra Choubissa v. State of Rajasthan; (2002) 6 SCC 393, which reads as under:

"12. The second ground urged by the State is equally irrelevant and untenable. Most of the reasons given by us in the judgment just delivered in teachers' cases will hold good to reject this plea. No factual details nor material has been placed before us to substantiate that the spoken language and dialect varies from district to district. On the material placed before us, we have no hesitation in holding that the addition of bonus marks to the applicants belonging to the same district and the rural areas of that district would amount to discrimination which falls foul of Articles 14 and 16.

13. We now come to the question of relief. We are of the view that for the reasons set out in the judgment delivered by us today in Kailash Chand Sharma case [(2002) 6 SCC 562] the judgment of the High Court has to be given prospective effect so that its impact may not fall on the appointments already made prior to the date of judgment. That is also the view taken in Deepak Kumar Suthar case which has been followed in the impugned order of the High Court. However, in Writ Petition (C) No. 6256 of 1999, the High Court did not make it clear that the judgment will operate prospectively, though in the other impugned order the High Court gave effect to the judgment without touching the appointments made before 21-10-1999. We are of the view that the date of application of the judgment should be from 27-7-2000 which was the date on which Writ Petition No. 5 of 2000 was allowed by the learned Single Judge holding that the notification in regard to bonus marks for the purpose of selection of Gram Sewaks was invalid. The other important fact which should be taken into account in moulding the relief is that at the instance of three persons who applied for the posts advertised by the Zila Parishads of Barmer and Bikaner, it is not proper to set aside the entire selection, especially when none of the appointed candidates were made parties before the High Court. We are, therefore, inclined to confine the* relief only to the parties who moved the High Court for relief under Article 226, subject, however, to the application of the judgment prospectively from 27-7-2000. Accordingly, we direct as follows:

1. The claims of the three writ petitioners who are respondents herein should be considered afresh in the light of this judgment vis-a-vis the candidates appointed on or after 27-7-2000 or those in the select list who are yet to be appointed. On such consideration, if those writ petitioners are found to have superior merit in case the bonus marks of 10% and/or 5% are excluded, they should be offered appointments, if necessary, by displacing the candidates appointed on or after 27-7-2000.

2. The appointments of Gram Sewaks made up to 26-7-2000 need not be reopened and reconsidered in the light of the law laid down in the judgment."

18. Per contra, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents has vehemently opposed the contentions made by the learned Counsel appearing on behalf of petitioners.

19. Sri Upendra Nath Misra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Neel Kamal Misra, learned Counsel appearing for private respondents has raised a preliminary objection towards the maintainability of the writ petitions on the ground that after participating in selection process, the petitioners cannot challenge the validity of selections. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance in the case of Dhanjay Malik and others Vs. State of Uttaranchal and others; (2008) 4 SCC 171, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has categorically held that where a person participates in a selection process without any demur, then in such a case, he is stopped from challenging the same.

20. Sri Upendra Nath Misra, learned Senior Advocate has further submitted that the petitioners are the participants of the selection held for the post of Assistant Teachers, which was advertised on 25.06.2016 against 16,448 vacancies. At that time the then existing Rule 14(1)(a) of U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981, the candidates who were possessing the prescribed qualification and training, were asked to submit their applications for appointments from the concerned district. The petitioners who had already participated in the selection challenged the Circular dated 03.08.2016 whereby counselling was convened for the aforesaid selection. Simultaneously the petitioners had challenged the vires of Rule 14 (1)(a) of U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981, as it was then existing. A writ of certiorari was prayed for quashing para 6 (Kha) of the guidelines dated 25.06.2016, inasmuch as, it provides that the candidates with BTC training will be considered in the district of training in the first counselling. Apart from that, a writ of mandamus was also prayed for allowing the petitioners to appear in the counselling of the district of their choice, instead of compelling to approach only in the district, from where they completed their BTC Training. The process of the selection was completed in August, 2016 in which all the answering respondents herein were duly selected for appointment as Assistant Teachers for different districts according to the then existing Rules. Therefore, it is not open for petitioners to challenge their appointment after participating in the aforesaid selection.

21. Sri Mishra has again submitted that the factual matrix of the case is that 1981 Rules was promulgated on 03.01.1981 and in the original Rule itself, provision for district preference was contained in Rule 14(1) (a). Rule 14 and

15(2) were amended on 17.07.1981 in which it was provided that for preparation of select list according to the place of residence, but under special circumstances, the candidate could have been sent to the other district but would be placed at the bottom of seniority. On 09.11.2011, 12th amendment took place and Rule 14(3) was amended providing weightage to the marks obtained by the candidate in the Teachers Eligibility Text (TET). On 30.11.2011 an advertisement for recruitment of 72,825 vacancies of assistant teachers was issued, which was to be held on the basis of Teachers Eligibility Test marks but in March 2012, the said advertisement was subsequently cancelled. After the change of Government in State of U.P. in March 2012, 15th amendment of the Service Rules took place on 31.08.2012, which changed the basis of selection from giving weightage to TET marks to "quality point marks" to be calculated on the basis of academic qualification. On 07.12.2012, a fresh advertisement was issued for recruitment for 72,825 vacancies of Assistant Teachers but then it was made on the basis of quality point marks, instead of TET marks. The said procedure of selection made on basis of quality point marks was challenged in the case of Shiv Kumar Pathak Vs. State which was allowed and Rule 14(3) was set aside as being ultra vires and simultaneously advertisement dated 7.12.2012 was also quashed. The Special Leave Petition against the aforesaid judgment dated 07.12.2012 was filed by the State, wherein Hon'ble Apex Court as an interim measure directed the State to fill up the vacancies as per advertisement dated 30.11.2011. In the year, 2015, the recruitment of 66,655 candidates was made against the advertised vacancies of 72,825 on the basis of TET marks. During the pendency of the aforesaid bunch of case (title State Vs. Shiv Kumar Pathak) pending in Hon'ble Apex Court, the State Government made about 99,132 more appointments in parts. The aforesaid appointment of 99,132 teachers was also challenged before this Hon'ble Court in the case of Deepak Sharma v. State, in which 15th and 16th amendment of the Rules were challenged and simultaneously the said appointment was also challenged on the ground that no weightage of TET marks was given though it was prescribed by NCTE under clause 9(b) of its statutory guidelines dated 11.02.2011. On 1.12.2016, a Division Bench of this Hon'ble Court, had struck down Rule 14(3) (a) in the case of Deepak Sharma Vs. State, on the ground that not giving weightage of TET marks was against the mandatory guidelines of National Council for Teachers Education (NCTE) and the said special appeals were disposed of and the selection of 99,132 teachers was not upheld by this Hon'ble Court, but status quo was directed to be maintained till disposal of pending special leave petitions in the case of State v. Shiv Kumar Pathak. Against the aforesaid judgment dated 01.12.2016, several special leave petitions were filed by the selected candidates of both 1st and 2nd selections, leading of which was Ram Kumar Patel Vs. State of U.P. Meanwhile, the NCTE filed an affidavit before Hon'ble the Apex Court for saying that the stipulation regarding weightage to TET marks under clause 9(B) of the NCTE guidelines was not mandatory. Thus, the Hon'ble Apex Court vide order dated 25.07.2017 held that since the notification of the NCTE dated 11.02.2011 to the extent of suggesting weightage to TET marks can be held to be merely a guideline, therefore, weightage to

TET marks was not mandatory and therefore, State Rules may not be held to be void. Thus, the judgment of the Divisions Bench of this Court dated 01.12.2016 was set aside vide order dated 25.07.2017. As a result of the aforesaid judgment, both 1st Selection (for 15,000 vacancies) and 2nd Selection (for 16,448 vacancies) stand protected/ saved by the Apex Court in which the applicants were appointed.

22. It is also submitted that in the meantime, the judgment in the pending case of State Vs. Shiv Kumar Pathak was also pronounced, in which, it was held that the computation of quality point marks was not violative of Article 14. Though 15th amendment about introducing quality point marks was upheld but since the 66,655 appointments were already made under the interim order of Hon'ble Apex Court against 72,825 post on the basis of the advertisement dated 30.11.2011 (i.e. on the basis of TET marks only therefore the same were protected without any interference).

23. Sri Upendra Nath Misra has urged that even if vires of any provision granting any preference is not approved and declared unconstitutional, the selections already made should not be disturbed in order to avoid multiplicity of litigation, therefore, the appointment already made in the first and second selection need not be disturbed and deserve to be protected without any interference. He also urged that despite declaring a particular provision as ultra vires, the Courts have protected the selections and appointments already made before the pronouncement of the judgment. He has relied upon the following judgments:

"V.N. Sunanda Reddy and others Vs. State of A.P. and others; 1995 Supp (2) SCC 235.

15. Before parting we may mention one submission on behalf of the Telugu medium students. It was submitted that if the weightage given to them in recruitment is to be found fault with, those Telugu medium candidates who have already been appointed may not be disturbed otherwise irreparable injury will be caused to them. It was also submitted that those Telugu medium students whose appointments could not be made on account of the pendency of these proceedings may be given one more chance to compete for future recruitment on such posts and for that purpose suitable age relaxation may be given to them as otherwise they will be out of the employment market. In our view this request is quite reasonable and deserves to be granted. We, therefore, direct that despite our finding that 5 per cent weightage given to the Telugu medium graduates in the present case is violative of Articles 14 and 16(1) of the Constitution, those Telugu medium graduates who have already been appointed on the strength of such weightage and who are working on their posts concerned should not be disturbed and their appointments will not be adversely affected by the present judgment. On the other hand, those Telugu medium graduates who have been selected on the strength of the weightage but to whom actual appointments have not been given on account of pendency of the present proceedings should be given a chance to compete for such posts as and when future recruitment to such posts is resorted to and for that purpose only once suitable age relaxation may be given to them in case they are otherwise found suitable on merits to be appointed in such future direct recruitment to such posts. In other words, only on account of the fact that they have become age barred, they should not be enied appointments on the strength of their meritorious performance. This will be by way of only one-time concession about age relaxation.

Radhey Shyam Singh and others Vs. Union of India and others; (1997) 1 SCC 60

10. The argument advanced by the learned counsel for the respondents that this process of zonewise selection has been in vogue since 1975 and has stood the test of time cannot be accepted for the simple reason that it was never challenged by anybody and was not subjected to judicial scrutiny at all. If on judicial scrutiny it cannot stand the test of reasonableness and constitutionality it cannot be allowed to continue and has to be struck down. But we make it clear that this judgment will have prospective application and whatever selections and appointments have so far been made in accordance with the impugned process of selection shall not be disturbed on the basis of this judgment. But in future no such selection shall be made on the zonal basis. If the Government is keen to make zonewise selection after allocating some posts for each zone, it may make such scheme or rules or adopt such process of selection which may not clash with the provisions contained in Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India having regard to the guidelines laid down by this Court from time to time in various pronouncements. In the facts and circumstances of the case we make no order as to costs. The appeals and writ petitions are allowed as indicated above.

Triveni Chandra Pandey Vs. State of Jharkhand (Uttarakhand High Court); Special Appeal No.360 of 2012 decided on 26.11.2013

25. This Court has been informed that pursuant to the selections of the year 2011-2012, which have been challenged before this Court appointment has already been made and such appointed candidates are presently teaching as Primary School Teacher. Although the criteria fixed by the State authorities of residence was patently in violation of Article 16(2) of the Constitution of India, the fact remains that such teachers who have been teaching, their appointment will not be disturbed, but in future, the State Authorities shall not fix residence or place of birth, as a criteria of appointment in any public job. To that extent this order is made applicable prospectively. However, since the challenge to the criteria of residence was primarily by the appellant - Triveni Chandra Pandey, it is hereby directed that subject to the marks, which he has received and vacancy, candidature of the petitioner shall also be considered for appointment as a Primary School Teacher, in any other district in Uttarakhand as well, where a candidate having lower quality points then him has been given appointment. Needful be done within a reasonable time."

24. Dr. L.P. Mishra, learned Counsel appearing for private respondents has argued that the children have right to free and compulsory education up to the age of 14 years and the said object can only be fulfilled if such children are imparted education in their mother tongue based on the local dialect of concerned district where children reside and take primary education. Section 29(2)(f) of the RTE Act, 2009 casts a duty on the teachers to impart education in mother tongue and in view of the duties and functions in Section 24 of the RTE Act, 2009, every teacher can only fulfill the said object if such teacher is of the concerned district from where he has obtained the training because such person are already acquainted with the demographic conditions, local dialect and traditions, from where the children who are to be taught come from. The knowledge and understanding of local dialect is essential for a teacher in the rural areas for a better classroom transaction with small children and their parents.

25. Sri L.P. Mishra, learned Senior Advocate has submitted that the parliament had enacted the RTE Act, 2009 with an object to provide free and compulsory education to all children of the age of six to fourteen years. Section 2(c) defines the child and Chapter II provides for the right to free and compulsory education. Chapter III provides for the duties of the appropriate Government, local authority and parents. Chapter IV defines the responsibilities of schools and teachers whereas Chapter V provides curriculum and completion of elementary education. Chapter VI provides protection of rights of children and Chapter VII contains miscellaneous provisions.

26. Dr. L.P. Mishra, learned Senior Advocate has relied and emphasized on the provisions of Section 29 of the RTE Act, 2009 which is as follows:

"Curriculum and evaluation procedure.-(1) The curriculum and the evaluation procedure for elementary education shall be laid down by an academic authority to be specified by the appropriate Government, by notification.

(2) The academic authority, while laying down the curriculum and the evaluation procedure under sub-section (1), shall take into consideration the following, namely:-

(a) conformity with the values enshrined in the Constitution;

(b) all round development of the child;

(c) building up child's knowledge, potentiality and talent;

(d) development of physical and mental abilities to the fullest extent;

(e) learning through activities, discovery and exploration in a child friendly and child-centered manner;

(f) medium of instructions shall, as far as practicable, be in child's mother tongue:

(g) making the child free of fear, trauma and anxiety and helping the child to express views freely:

(h) comprehensive and continuous evaluation of child's understanding of knowledge and his or her ability to apply the same."

27. Dr. L.P. Mishra, learned Senior Advocate has also invited the attention of this Court towards relevant sections of The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Rules, 2010, which is as under:

"3. Composition and functions of the School Management Committee

(1) A School Management Committee (hereinafter in this rule referred to as the said Committee) shall be constituted in every school other than an unaided school within six months of the appointed date, and reconstituted every two years.

(2) Seventy five percent of the strength of the said Committee shall be from amongst parents or guardians of children.

(3) The remaining twenty-five percent of the strength of the said

Committee shall be from amongst the following persons, namely:

(a) one-third members from amongst the elected members of the local authority, to be decided by the local authority:

(b) one-third members from amongst teachers from the school, to be decided by the teachers of the school;

(c) one-third members from amongst local educationists or children in the school, to be decided by the parents in the said Committee.

28. Dr. L.P. Misrha, learned Senior Advocate has contended that in an International research published in International Journal of Humanities and Management Sciences after an elaborate studies and recommendations of United Nations Organization, The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization and other International Agencies have recommended the Mother Tongue to be the medium of instructions for the children at Primary Level. Mother tongue is the first language which a child speaks. The mother tongue is used at home and in the community. He has further contended that the celebration of International Mother Language Day proclaimed in 1999 by UNESCO and marked on 21 February each year, is one of the examples. Encouraging education in the mother tongue, alongside bilingual or multilingual education, is one of the principles set out by UNESCO.

29. It has again been contended by Dr. L.P. Misrha, learned Senior Advocate that it is also a right of a child to be taught in his/her mother tongue at least at primary level because it is a language that he/she knows well and can use to form sentences and expresses himself/ herself. Those children understanding the instruction in mother tongue are more likely to enter the school at proper age, appropriate times, attend school regularly and less likely to drop out as compared to those who receive instruction in a foreign language. Experiments proved that a lack of education in a first language was a reason for children dropping out, while children having access to instruction in their mother tongue were more likely to be enrolled and attending school. Classroom using first language of children as instruction language were more than three times less likely to drop out and five times less likely to repeat the year. Thus mother tongue is the best key to success in education and to achieve the goal of RTE Act. So it is advised that the mother tongue should be used as a medium of instruction for educational achievements and growth as well as for national development and reconstruction.

30. Mr. Ramesh Kumar Singh, Learned Additional Advocate General has supported the arguments advanced by Sri Upendra Nath Misra and Sri L.P. Mishra and submitted that the State Government is well within its right to prepare merit list at the district level for the special reasons that teaching in Basic Primary Schools has to be made in the local dialect and the persons belonging to that district alone are well versed in the local dialect.

31. We have heard learned Counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record including the affidavits exchanged between the parties.

32. Petitioners have challenged the the provisions of Clause (a) of sub-Rule

(1) of Rule 14 of the U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981, by which applications were invited from the applicants/ candidates possessing prescribed training qualifications from the district wise only, on the ground that it violates Articles 14, 15, 16, and 21-A of the Constitution of India as also the aim and objects of The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009.

33. The object of the RTE Act, 2009 is that every Indian citizen should have the right to get education which is not inferior to another and also to provide primary education to the children in their own local language as well as to ensure that the persons who have been appointed for giving the education at the primary stage should be familiar with the atmosphere and local culture and understanding. The moot question before us to consider is whether the provisions of the scheme are in violation of Article 21-A of the Constitution of India and whether the State has failed to establish just and reasonable classification with intelligible differentia to achieve the objects enshrined.

34. The instant bunch of writ petitions have been filed before this Court to answer the following substantial questions:

"(1) Whether in view of the frame and purport of The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, the engagement or appointment of Assistant Teachers (Primary) by preparing a merit list at District Level, not at State Level is against the provisions of Articles 14, 15, 16 and 21-A of the Constitution of India as stated by the petitioners?

(2) Whether in view of the frame and purport of The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, the engagement of the Assistant Teachers (Primary) giving preference to the place of domicile or residence and/ or local area is permissible in law?"

35. The crux of the argument advanced by learned Counsel appearing for the petitioners is that the district wise process of selection adopted by the State did not provide equal opportunity to the candidates appearing in different districts though the competitive examination was same in all the districts. Since the vacancies available in each districts were not indicated, the petitioners were denied the opportunity of appearing at the competitive examination from a centre of a district where the number of the vacancies was large there being more and better chances of selection. Thus the petitioners were denied the opportunity of competing with the candidates of other centres. It has also been submitted that the candidates appearing in a district having large number of vacancies were declared selected though they had secured marks less than the candidates in other district where the vacancies were less by reason of which the candidates securing even more marks than the candidates in other district could not be selected. He, therefore, urged that the process and method of district-wise selection of candidates adopted by the Commission was violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India as it had resulted in selection of candidates of inferior quality in one district while the candidates of superior merit in the other district could not be selected. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for the respondents supported the process of selection and submitted that the district wise selection was adopted in order to enable the candidates from a particular district to be absorbed in the same district and the State Government recruiting the candidates to the post of Assistant Teachers for primary schools on district basis and they were completed the same and the person who was selected has already been appointed and serving as Assistant Teacher in the same district since long, therefore, they could not be disturbed. It has also been submitted that the composition of district and scheme of holding the examination on district basis was given in the advertisement and the candidates were free to choose the district from which they desired to appear in the recruitment examination and to choose the centre. It has also been stated that since the petitioners had appeared in the examination, but could not be selected and as such they cannot be permitted to challenge the process of selection now.

36. The primary schools in the State of U.P. run by the U.P. Basic Education Board (hereinafter referred to as the Board) in the State of U.P. for the last several years and there had been a shortage of teachers, as a result of which, the State Government was finding it difficult to fulfill its obligations as mandated by Article 45 of the Constitution of India to provide free and compulsory education for all children until they complete the age of 14 years. It appears that in the State of U.P., the State Government runs a training college in each district, where the persons are given training in teaching and on successful completion thereof are awarded Basic Teacher's Certificate (in short "BTC").

37. As per the Government Order No.3300/ 79-5-201604127/ 2013 dated 15.12.2016, the selection process for appointing 12,460 Assistant Teachers in primary schools run by the Parishad/ Board in the State of U.P. was initiated. In pursuance of the aforesaid Government Order dated 15.12.2016, the Secretary, U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad/ Board issued Letter No.Ba.Sh.Pa./ 12836 - 12932/ 2016-17 dated 20.12.2016 declaring the Schedule as also the vacancies in the district across the State. The Board has also issued Guidelines on 28.12.2016.

38. In pursuance of the aforesaid letter dated 20.12.2016 of the Secretary, U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad, advertisement inviting on-line applications against the notified vacancies of Assistant Teachers were published by the respective District Basic Education Officer(s).

40. Before us, the grounds of challenge is two-fold, firstly, whether the preparation of merit list district-wise is arbitrary and violative of Articles 14, 15, 16 and 21 of the Constitution of India and also contrary to the provisions of 1981 Rules. Secondly, whether causing discrimination on the basis of domicile or place of residence in the selection process is violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India.

41. Before us, it was argued by the State as well as by the private respondents that the petitioners, who have participated and remained unsuccessful cannot challenge the impugned advertisement and the selection process by filing the present bunch of writ petitions, the Government has taken a policy decision of recruitment and appointment of such persons, who possessed the qualifications as mentioned in the advertisement, which cannot be open to challenge being the policy decision, the successful candidates have not been impleaded and the writ petitions are liable to be thrown away on this ground alone and lastly that the State Government has also taken policy decision by issuing the Government order dated 15.12.2016 and the advertisement is in discharge of the State obligation under Article 45 the Constitution and cannot be challenged.

42. The petitioners are aggrieved by the Government order dated 15.12.2016 issued by the State Government by which the merit list was to be prepared at the district level. It is an admitted fact that the petitioners have appeared in the examination knowing the guidelines/ conditions as mentioned in the Government Order and the advertisement and after being unsuccessful, they approached this Court challenging the same.

43. Before analysis of legal issues involved, it is necessary to first address the preliminary issue. The maintainability of the very challenge by the respondents has been questioned on the ground that petitioners having partaken in the selection process cannot later challenge it due to mere failure in the selection. It is well settled that the principle of estoppel prevents a candidates from challenging the selection process after having failed in it as reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in plethora of judgments.

44. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Union of India and others. v. N. Chandra Shekharan and others. 1998 (3) SCC 594, has held as under:

"It is not in dispute that all the candidates were made aware of the procedure for promotion before they sat for the written test and before they appeared before the Departmental Promotion Committee. Therefore, they cannot turn around and contend later when they found they were not selected by challenging that procedure and contending that the marks prescribed for interview and confidential reports are disproportionately high and that the authorities cannot fix a minimum to be secured either at interview or in the assessment or confidential report."

45. In the case of Inder Sen Mittal v. Housing Board, Haryana and others; 2002 (3) SCC 175, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has also held as follows :

"In case the ground of attack flows from agreement between the parties which would undoubtedly be a lawful agreement, and the same is raised at the initial stage, the Court may set it right at the initial stage or even subsequently in case the party objecting has not participated in the proceedings or participated under protest. But if a party acquiesced to the invalidity by his conduct by participating in the proceedings and taking a chance therein cannot be allowed to turn round after the award goes against him and is estopped from challenging validity or otherwise of reference, arbitration proceedings and/or award inasmuch as right of such a party to take objection is defeated.

Where ground is based upon breach of mandatory provision of law, a party cannot be estopped from raising the same in his objection to the award even after he participated in the arbitration proceedings in view of the well-settled maxim that there is no estoppel against statute.

If, however, basis for ground of attack is violation of such a provision of law which is not mandatory but directory and raised at the initial stage, the illegality, in appropriate case, may be set right, but in such an eventuality if a party participated in the proceedings without any protest, he would be precluded from raising the point in the objection after making of the award."

46. In the case of Manish Kumar Sahi v. State of Bihar and others; (2010) 12 SCC 576, in para 16, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"16. We also agree with the High Court that after having taken part in the process of selection knowing fully well that more than 19% marks have been earmarked for viva voce test, the petitioner is not entitled to challenge the criteria or process of selection. Surely, if the petitioner's name had appeared in the merit list, he would not have even dreamed of challenging the selection. The petitioner invoked jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India only after he found that his name does not figure in the merit list prepared by the Commission. This conduct of the petitioner clearly disentitles him from questioning the selection and the High Court did not commit any error by refusing to entertain the writ petition. Reference in this connection may be made to the judgments in Madan Lal v. State of J&K [(1995) 3 SCC 486 : 1995 SCC (L&S) 712 : (1995) 29 ATC 603] , Marripati Nagaraja v. Govt. of A.P. [(2007) 11 SCC 522 : (2008) 1 SCC (L&S) 68] , Dhananjay Malik v. State of Uttaranchal [(2008) 4 SCC 171 : (2008) 1 SCC (L&S) 1005] , Amlan Jyoti Borooah v. State of Assam [(2009) 3 SCC 227 : (2009) 1 SCC (L&S) 627] and K.A. Nagamani v. Indian Airlines [(2009) 5 SCC 515 : (2009) 2 SCC (L&S) 57] ."

47. In the instant case, it is clear that petitioners have impugned the legislation/ Scheme of the Government in question after having participated in the recruitment process. In D. Sarojakumari v. K. Helen Thilakom and others; (2017) 9 SCC 478, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"4. The main ground urged on behalf of the appellant is that Respondent 1 having taken part in the selection process could not be permitted to challenge the same after she was unsuccessful in getting selected. The law is well settled that once a person takes part in the process of selection and is not found fit for appointment, the said person is estopped from challenging the process of selection.

5. In G. Sarana v. University of Lucknow [G. Sarana v. University of Lucknow, (1976) 3 SCC 585 : 1976 SCC (L&S) 474] , the petitioner after appearing in the interview for the post of Professor and having not been selected pleaded that the experts were biased. This Court did not permit the petitioner to raise this issue and held as follows: (SCC p. 591, para 15)*

"15. We do not, however, consider it necessary in the present case to go into the question of the reasonableness of bias or real likelihood of bias as despite the fact that the appellant knew all the relevant facts, he did not before appearing for the interview or at the time of the interview raise even his little finger against the constitution of the Selection Committee. He seems to have voluntarily appeared before the committee and taken a chance of having a favourable recommendation from it. Having done so, it is not now open to him to turn round and question the constitution of the committee."

6. In Madan Lal v. State of J&K [Madan Lal v. State of J&K, (1995) 3 SCC 486 : 1995 SCC (L&S) 712] , the petitioner laid challenge to the manner and method of conducting viva voce test after they had appeared in the same and were unsuccessful. This Court held as follows: (SCC p. 493, para 9)*

"9. ... Thus the petitioners took a chance to get themselves selected at the said oral interview. Only because they did not find themselves to have emerged successful as a result of their combined performance both at written test and oral interview, they have filed this petition. It is now well settled that if a candidate takes a calculated chance and appears at the interview, then, only because the result of the interview is not palatable to him, he cannot turn round and subsequently contend that the process of interview was unfair or the Selection Committee was not properly constituted."

48. In the latest judgment rendered in the case of Dr. (Major) Meeta Sahi Vs. State of Bihar and others; 2019 SCC

Online SC 1632, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"19. However, we must differentiate from this principle insofar as the candidate by agreeing to participate in the selection process only accepts the prescribed procedure and not the illegality in it. In a situation where a candidate alleges misconstruction of statutory rules and discriminating consequences arising therefrom, the same cannot be condoned merely because a candidate has partaken in it. The constitutional scheme is sacrosanct and its violation in any manner is impermissible. In fact, a candidate may not have locus to assail the incurable illegality or derogation of the provisions of the Constitution, unless he/she participates in the selection process."

49. However, this exception does not apply in the present case because no illegality or discrimination has been established by the petitioning candidates.

50. The cadre of Assistant Teachers in primary schools run by the Board, as mentioned in 1981 Rules, is a local cadre. The training in District Institute of Educational Training is a district-based training of teachers education at district level. It is to feed and provide teachers duly trained for primary education in its localities. The very purpose of District Institute is to establish an institute at District level so that sufficient number of local teachers are available to provide primary education in the vicinity. The very purpose is to localise the primary education and the area is also localised. After training, in case any candidate applies for appointment in any junior basic school, the application is to be moved to the District Basic Education Officer of the district and the selection committee is also comprised of the District Level education officers. The very purpose of the present special training is to have primary teachers of the District available to teach in primary schools in far remote areas of the district. Moreover, all the educational experts are uniformly of the opinion that pupils should begin their schooling through the medium of their mother tongue and there is a great reason of thinking behind this. Where the tender minds of the children are subjected to an alien medium, the learning process becomes unnatural and inflicts a cruel strain on the children, which makes the entire transaction mechanical. Besides, the educational process becomes artificial and torturous. The basic knowledge can easily be garnered through the mother tongue. It should be the endeavour of every State to promote the regional language of that State and that is why the Government Order provided for a district level selection of the candidates for being given training in special B.T.C. In view of above facts and prevailing situations, the State Government's decision to make selection on the basis of merit list prepared at the district level is justified.

51. In the instant case, the petitioners have challenged the vires of Rule 14(1)(a) of 1981 Rules and the guidelines issued on 26.12.2016 after having participated in the recruitment process. It is settled law that petitioners having taken part in the selection process and being found lower in merit to the selected candidates could not at this stage be permitted to turn around and that once a person takes part in the process of selection and is not found fit for appointment, the said person is estopped from challenging the process of selection. Therefore, having failed to challenge the legislation prior to taking part in the selection process, the present petition must fail.

52. In the instant case, an issue was also raised that whether the petitioners were placed in a disadvantageous position, as compared to other candidates, simply because the qualifying/ cut-off marks may be different in different districts of the State.

53. In fact, in Balbir Kaur v. U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board, (2008) 12 SCC 1, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that:

"there is no warrant for accepting as a general proposition that a region wise or district wise selection is per se violative of equality clause enshrined in Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution. It would be discriminatory only when the person, who alleges discrimination, demonstrates certain appreciable disadvantages, qua similarly situated persons, which he would not have faced but for the impugned State action. Therefore, the onus was on the writ petitioners to show by cogent material that by resorting to region wise selection, they were placed in some disadvantageous position as compared to their counterparts or that in this process merit was the casualty."

54. In the present case, it is understood that the petitioners have failed to discharge this onus since the region/ district wise selection process is open to all candidates. Therefore, it cannot be said that the petitioners were placed in a disadvantageous position, as compared to other candidates, simply because the qualifying/cut-off marks may be different in different districts of the State.

55. Now we have to examine that whether the Scheme of the Government for selection of the Assistant Teachers in the State on merit list prepared at District Level and not at State Level is violative of Articles 14, 15, 16 and 21-A of the Constitution of India.

56. To adjudicate the issue, it is necessary to examine the entire scheme floated by the Government of U.P.

57. The Uttar Pradesh Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981 was framed in exercise of the powers conferred under sub-section (1) of Section 19 of the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Act, 1972. The relevant provisions of the said 1981 Rules are given below:

"2. Definitions - (1) In these rules unless the context otherwise requires:

Provided further that the Board may, with the previous approval of the State Government, create from time to time such number of temporary posts as it may deem fit.

14. Determination of vacancies and preparation of list.-(1) In respect of appointment, by direct recruitment to the post of Mistress of Nursery Schools and Assistant Master or Assistant Mistress of Junior Basic Schools under clause (a) of Rule 5, the appointing authority shall determine the number of vacancies as also the number of vacancies to be reserved for candidates belonging to Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes; Other Backward Classes and other categories under Rule 9 and notify the vacancies in at least two leading news papers having adequate circulation in the State as well as in the concerned district inviting application from candidates possessing prescribed training qualification from the district concerned and who have passed Teacher eligibility test, conducted by Government of Uttar Pradesh.

(2) The appointing authority shall scrutinize the applications received in pursuance of the advertisement and prepare a list of such persons as appear to possess the prescribed academic qualifications and be eligible for appointment. (3) The names of candidates in the list prepared under sub-rule (2) shall then be arranged in such manner that their names shall be placed in descending order on the basis of the marks obtained in Teacher Eligibility Test conducted by the Government of Uttar Pradesh:

Provided that if two or more candidates obtain equal marks, the can didates senior in age shall be placed higher.

(4) No person shall be eligible for appointment unless his or her name is included in the list prepared under sub-rule (2).

(5) The list prepared under sub-rule (2) and arranged in accordance with sub rule (3) shall be forwarded by the appointing authority to the Selection Committee.)

17. Procedure for direct recruitment to a post for teaching a langauge.-(1) The Selection Committee shall require the candidates mentioned in the lists referred to in sub-rule (6) of Rule 14 and sub-rule (2) of Rule 15, as the case may be, to appear at a written examination which shall be of one hundred marks.

(2) In the written examination under sub-rule (1). the candidates will be required to write an essay on a current topic in the language in respect of which the post is to be filled. A candidate who obtained less than fifty marks in the written examination shall be disqualified for appointment.

(3) The marks obtained by a candidate, who is not disqualified under sub-rule (2) in the written examination shall be added to his quality points awarded in accordance with the Appendix.

(4) The Selection Committee shall prepare a list of candidates, qualified in the written examination under Sub-rule (2) in such manner that the candidates who have passed the required training course carlier in point of time shall be placed higher than those who have passed the said training course later and the candidates who have passed the training course in a particular year shall be arranged in accordance with the aggregate of marks obtained by the said candidates in the written examination and quality points. If two or more such candidates obtain equal marks, the candidate senior in age shall be placed higher in the list. The number of names in the list shall be larger (but not larger by more than twenty-five per cent) than the number of vacancies. The Selection Committee shall forward the list to the appointing authority.

(5) The list prepared under sub-rule (4) shall remain valid for one year from the date of its preparation.

'[17-A. Procedure for direct recruitment to a post for teaching sub-objects other than language.-(1) The Selection Committee shall consider the candidates for selection on the basis of the list referred to in sub-rule (6) of Rule 14 or sub-rule (2) of Rule 15, as the case may be, and prepare a list of selected candidates in the order in which their names appear in the said list. If two or more candidates have equal quality points, the name of the candidate who is senior in age shall be placed higher in the list. The Selection Committee shall forward the list to the appointing authority.

(2) The list prepared under sub-rule (1) shall remain valid for one year from the date of its preparation.

(3) Where the number of selected candidates is more than the number of vacancies and all the selected candidates do not get appointments under sub-rule (1) of Rule 19, the District Basic Education Officer shall forward the list of such selected candidates as have not been able to get appointment due to non-availability of vacancies, along with their applications and other particulars, to the Regional Assistant Director of Education (Basic), for the purposes of utilising the list in a district within his region where sufficient number of selected candidates are not available to fill the vacancies in such district.

(4) On receiving the list referred in sub-rule (3), the Regional Assistant Director of Education (Basic), shall forward the list along with the applications and other particulars of the selected candidates, to a District Basic Education Officer within his region, where sufficient number of candidates are not available to fill the vacancies. In so forwarding the list, the Regional Assistant Director of Education (Basic) shall take into account the options given by selected candidates in regard to his posting in districts.

(5) On receiving the list referred to in sub-rule (4), the District Basic Education Officer shall place the list along with applications and other particulars of the candidates, before the Selection Committee constituted under Rule 16.

(6) The Selection Committee shall consider the candidates mentioned in the list referred to in sub-rule (4) and prepare a list of selected candidates in accordance with sub-rule (1) and include their names at the bottom in the list prepared under sub-rule (1) and forward the entire list to the appointing authority.

(7) Where the list forwarded to the Regional Assistant Director of Education (Basic) under sub-rule (3) cannot be utilized in his region due lo non-availability of vacancies, the Regional Assistant Director of Education (Basic) shall forward the list to the Secretary of the Board who shall thereafter forward the list to a District Basic Education Officer in whose district sufficient number of candidates are not available to fill the vacancies. In so forwarding the list, the Secretary of the Board shall take into account the options given by selected candidates in regard to their postings in districts.

(8) On receiving the list referred to in sub-rule (7), the District Basic Education Officer shall place the list along with applications and other particulars of the candidates, before the Selection Committee constituted under Rule 16.

(9) The Selection Committee shall consider the candidates mentioned in the list referred to in sub-rule (7), and prepare a list of selected candidates in accordance with sub-rule (and include their names at the bottom in the list prepared under sub-rule (1) and forward the entire list to the appointing authority.]"

58. In exercise of the powers under sub-section (1) of Section 19 of the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Act, 1972, the 1981 Rules was amended as The Uttar Pradesh Basic Education (Teachers) Service (Twenty Five Amendments) Rules, 2018. For ready reference, Rule 14 (1)(a) of 1981 Rules reproduced as under:

[14. Determination of vacancies and preparation of list - (1) (a) in respect of appointment, by direct recruitment to the post of Mistress of Nursery Schools and Assistant Master or Assistant Mistress of Junior Basic Schools under clause (a) of Rule 5, the appointing authority shall determine the number of vacancies as also the number of vacancies to be reserved for candidates belonging to Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes, Backward Classes and other categories under Rule 9 and in at least two newspapers having adequate circulation in the State as well as in the concerned district inviting applications from candidates possessing prescribed training qualification and Teacher Eligibility Test passed, conducted by the Government or by the Government of India and passed Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government.

(b) The Government may from time to time decide to appoint the candidates, who are graduates along with B.Ed./ B.Ed. (Special Education)/ D.Ed. (Special Education) and who have also passed Teacher Eligibility Test conducted by the Government or by the Government of India, as Trainee Teachers. These candidates after appointment will have to undergo six months special training programme in elementary education recognised by National Council of Teacher Education (NCTE). The appointing authority shall determine the number of vacancies as also the number of vacancies to be reserved for candidates belonging to Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes, Backward Classes, and other categories under Rule 9 and advertisement would be issued in at least two leading daily news papers having adequate circulation in the State as well as in concerned district inviting applications from candidates who are graduates along with B.Ed./B.Ed. (Special Education)/ D.Ed. (Special Education) and who have also passed Teacher Eligibility Test conducted by the Government or by the Government of India.

(c) The trainee teachers, after obtaining the certificate of successful completion of six months special training in elementary education, shall be appointed as assistant teachers in junior basic schools against substantive post in regular pay-scale. The appointing authority will be duty bound to appoint the trainee teachers as assistant teachers within one month of issue of certificate of successful completion of said training.

(2) The appointing authority shall scrutinise the applications received in pursuance of the advertisement under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-rule (1) of Rule 14 and prepare a list of such persons as appear to possess the prescribed academic qualifications and be eligible for appointment.

(3)(a). The names of candidates in the list prepared under sub-rule (2) in accordance with clause (h) of sub-rule (1) of Rule 14 shall then be arranged in such manner that the candidate shall be arranged in accordance with the quality points and weightage as specified in the Appendix I:

Provided that if two or more candidates obtain equal marks, the candidate senior in age shall be placed higher:

(b) The names of candidates in the list prepared under sub-rule (2) in accordance with clause (c) of sub-rule (1) of Rule 14 shall then be arranged in such manner that the candidate shall be arranged in accordance with the quality points specified in the Appendix II:

Provided that if two or more candidates obtain equal marks, the candidate senior in age. shall be placed higher.

(c) The names of candidates in the list prepared in accordance with clause (d) of sub-rule (1) of Rule 14 for appointment as assistant teacher shall be same as the list prepared under clause (b) of sub-rule (3) of Rule 14 unless the candidate under the said list is unable to successfully complete the six months special training course in elementary education in his first attempt. If the candidate successfully completes the six months special training in his second and final attempt, the candidate's name shall be placed under the names of all those candidates who have completed the said six months special training in their first attempt.

(4) No person shall be eligible for appointment unless his or her name is included in the list prepared under sub-rule (2).

(5) The list prepared under sub-rule (2) and arranged in accordance with clauses (a) and (b) of sub-rule (3) of Rule 14 shall be forwarded by the appointing authority to the Selection Committee.]"

59. From perusal of entire Scheme, it is apparent that the Scheme is to be implemented by taking care of the basic units of local areas with a view to teach the children in their mother tongue for developing their personalities and confidence. The Scheme is having a very wide amplitude with an aim and object to create an interest of education in the children below 14 years of age and to achieve the goal of education in the State of U.P. as per the Right to Education Act at foundation level. It is also found necessary in the Scheme that such an ambitious project to educate all the children even in most backward areas of the State of U.P., for implementation of such scheme, it is necessary that the children of such local areas should be taught in their own dialect and preferably by their own people. The Scheme requires knowledge of the area concerned from various aspects including its social, economical, local, cultural and specific regional dialect.

60. The same issue was already adjudicated by a Full Bench of Rajasthan High Court in the case of Rajkumar and others vs. Stae of Rajasthan and others; AIR 2016 Rajasthan 176. Paras 26 to 32 reads as under:

"26. In Chiranji Lal v. Union of India (AIR 1951 SC 41), Hon'ble Supreme Court held that mere differentiation or inequality of treatment does not per se amount to discrimination with the inhabitation of the equal protection clause. To attract the operation of the clause, it is necessary to show that the selection or differentiation is unreasonable or arbitrary, that it does not rest on any rational basis having regard to the object which the Legislature has in view. In the same case it was observed that the Court should not adopt a doctrinaire approach which might choke all beneficial legislation.

27. The U.S. Supreme Court in Arkansas Gas Co. v. Railroad Commission (261 US 379, while discussing the concept of equality, held that mere production of inequality is not enough to hold that equal protection has been denied. For, every selection of person for regulation produces inequality in some degree. The inequality produced, in order to encounter the challenge of the Constitution, must be "actually and palpably unreasonable and arbitrary". The governance is not a simple thing. It encounters and deals with the problems which come from persons in an infinite variety of relations. Classification is the recognition of those relations, and, in making it a wide latitude of discretion and judgment must be given.

28. As already discussed, the object of the NRHM is to provide accessible, affordable and accountable quality health service to the poorest households in the remotest rural regions. To achieve this object the thrust of the mission is on establishing a fully functional community owned, decentralised health delivery system with inter sectoral conversance at all levels to ensure simultaneous action on a wide range of determinants of health like water, sanitation, education, nutrition, social and general quality. The scheme is having multi tasks and for that purpose local team headed by health and sanitation committee at panchayat level are to be formed. The scheme in so many words emphasise aid and assistance of local residents in its implementation and further to have their service as experts and resource persons. The scheme demands uninterrupted availability of the staff responsible to execute different programmes. It also requires setting up of planning teams and committees by local residents on habitation/village, gram panchayat, primary health centre and cluster level basis. Further pertinent to notice that the engagement of the staff in NRHM from locals is neither a concession nor a reservation, but a tactics for effective implementation of the scheme. The locals are certainly in better position to identify the specific health issues of the area concern with more effective persuasive value to bring the inhabitants of area within the fold of NRHM. The needs noticed indicate that engagement of para-medical staff by examining merit at district level is in accordance with the frame and purport of the National Rural Health Mission. It is a just and reasonable classification with intelligible differentia to achieve the objects enshrined. Accordingly, the first question referred to us is answered by holding that engagement of para medical staff with preparation of merit at District level does not violate Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

29. The second question is that whether while engaging para-medical staff in National Rural Health Mission, any reference the place of residence and or local criteria is permissible in law or not?

30. We are of the view that in light of the complete scheme of NRHM as discussed, the assistance and support of the locals in its implementation is essential and, therefore, for the purpose of engagement of staff, if preference is given on basis of the place of residence and/or local criteria among the equals, then that is not irrational or in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. The engagement of staff under National Rural Health Mission at district level and by providing preference to the locals, equals have not been treated differently without any justifiable reasons. As such there is no violation of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. The second question referred is also answered accordingly.

31. The judgments given by learned single Bench in Dema Ram (supra) (SB Civil Writ Petition No.1120/2008), Manoj Kumar Sharma (Supra) (SB Civil Writ Petition No.4298/ 2008), Santh Lal Yadav (Supra) (SB Civil Writ Petition No.741/2008) and Division Bench in Dinesh Kumar (Supra) (DB Civil Special Appeal No.615/2008) do not lay down correct law.

32. Let the writ petitions SB Civil Writ Petition Nos.6207/ 2009, 6632/2009, 6770/2009, 6943/2009, 6978/ 2009, 9163 /2010 and 7995/2011 be listed before single Bench and DB Civil Special Appeals (Writ) No.113/2013, 114/2013 and 115/2013 be listed before Division Bench for their disposal on merits by keeping in mind the answers to the questions referred to the Larger Bench."

61. In the case of Kumari Shrilekha Vidyarthi and Others v. State of U.P. and Others, (1991) 1 SCC 212, Hon'ble Apex Court has held that "the question, whether an impugned act is arbitrary or not, is ultimately to be answered on the facts and in the circumstances of a given case. An obvious test to apply is to see whether there is any discernible principle emerging from the impugned act and if so, does it satisfy the test of reasonableness" and that: "it is for the person alleging arbitrariness who has to prove it. This can be done by showing in the first instance that the impugned State action is uninformed by reason inasmuch as there is no discernible principle on which it is based or it is contrary to the prescribed mode of exercise of the power or is unreasonable. If this is shown, then the burden is shifted to the State to repel the attack by disclosing the material and reasons which led to the action being taken in order to show that it was an informed decision which was reasonable.

62. Being a big State like Uttar Pradesh, several local dialects are in use in different zones and areas of the State. There are some important dialects which are spoken in the State of U.P. in different zones/ districts or local areas like Awadhi, Braj, Bundeli, Bagheli, Kannauji, Khadi Boli and Bhojpuri.

63. We have also considered the reasons behind the impugned legislation and Scheme. A number of educational experts are uniformly of the opinion that children should begin their schooling through the medium of their mother tongue. There is great reason and justice behind this. Where the tender minds of children are subjected to an alien medium, the learning process becomes artificial. It inflicts a cruel strain on the children which makes the entire transaction mechanical. The basic knowledge can easily be garnered through the mother tongue. It is a well settled law that Article 14 of the Constitution forbids class legislation but it does not forbids reasonable classification. The applications for appointment of Assistant Teachers in basic schools run and managed by the U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad are invited at the district level because there exists separate cadre of service of teachers under the 1981 Rules for each local area. The term local area as defined in Rule 2(i) means the area over which a local body exercises jurisdiction.

64. In view of the aforesaid discussions, we are of the view that the 1981 Rules contains a provision that a candidate who has obtained training from a district will be given preference in selection and appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher in the district concerned. The said provision has got a purpose and object i.e. the children are taught by a person who is very well familiar with the local habitat and also speaks local dialect. Further the first preference for appointment is given to the candidates who have undergone the training qualification from the district concerned because such candidates are already acquainted with the demographic conditions, local dialect and traditions from where the children who are to be taught come from. The knowledge and understanding of local dialect is essential for a teacher in the rural areas for a better classroom transaction with small children and their parents. The preference in appointment of a candidate who completed his training from a particular district is justified for the reason that if a candidate who has completed his training from Mathura where Braj Bhasha is spoken, is appointed in Gorakhpur where Bhojpuri is spoken will face difficulty in communicating the small children of that area and also their parents and due to lack of communication between the teacher and the child including parents, the quality of education will certainly be affected and, therefore, the provisions of preference is not at all violative of Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India.

65. In the present case, the State has shown that the purpose of a region/ district wise recruitment is to ensure that the teachers in local primary schools are attuned to the local requirements, which, needless to say, differs from district to district and region to region in a vast state like Uttar Pradesh. Moreover, to reiterate, the petitioners cannot contest that any discrimination has been meted out to them, since the region/ district wise selection process was open to all candidates. Therefore, the State has discharged its burden by demonstrating that there were cogent reasons for prescribing region/ district wise recruitment, which is open to all candidates, and that no discrimination/ arbitrariness resulted from prescribing such a process.

66. In view of the discussions made above, the preparation of merit list at District Level is not against the provisions of Articles 14, 15, 16 and 21-A of the Constitution of India and the engagement of the Assistant Teachers (Primary) on the basis of domicile or place of residence in the selection process is not violative of Articles 14 and 16 Constitution of India.

67. Accordingly, all the writ petitions being devoid of merit are hereby dismissed. No order as to costs.

A. Fair price shop-cancelled-considering statements-of card holders recorded behind the back-such copies not supplied-no opportunity of hearing to cross-examine witnesses-violation of natural justice-and of G.O dated 29.07.2004 - impugned order quashed.

B. Held, in view of the settled legal position, the cancellation of the petitioner's fair price shop agreement / license is ostensibly in contravention of the principles of natural justice and cannot be sustained. The Appellate Authority has also failed to rectify the error committed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and as such the order passed by the Appellate Authority is also liable to be set aside alongwith the order of the Competent Authority.

Writ Petition allowed. (E-8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rakesh Srivastava, J.)

1. Under challenge in this writ petition is an order dated 28.6.2016 passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Tehsil Rudauli, District Faizabad, respondent no. 3 herein, whereby the fair price shop license of the petitioner has been cancelled as well as the order dated 17.2.2017 passed by the Deputy Commissioner (Food), Faizabad Division, Faizabad, respondent no. 2 herein, whereby the appeal preferred by the petitioner against the said order has been rejected.

2. On the complaint made by M/s Raja Ram, Jhigai, Ganga Ram and others on 23.2.2016, the Regional Food Officer, Rudauli made a spot inspection and recorded the statements of card holders present and on the basis of the report submitted by him the respondent no. 2 by his order dated 27.2.2016 suspended the license / agreement of the petitioner. By the same order the petitioner was required to show cause within the time mentioned therein.

3. On 29.3.2016, the petitioner submitted his reply denying the charges levelled against him. Alongwith his reply the petitioner enclosed a letter of Gram Pradhan and 100 card holders to show that the charges leveled against him were unfounded. Thereafter, the respondent no.3, recorded the statement of some card holders behind the back of the petitioner and straightway proceeded to pass an order dated 28.6.2016 cancelling the license of the petitioner without holding any inquiry and without affording any opportunity of cross examination to the petitioner. The appeal preferred by the petitioner against the said order has been dismissed by the respondent no. 2 by his order dated 17.2.1017.

4. Heard Sri M.K. Dixit, learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State-respondents and perused the record. After hearing the counsel for the parties, this Court is of the considered opinion that the writ petition deserves to be allowed. There is substance in the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner that the license of the petitioner has been cancelled without following the procedure laid down in the Government order dated 29.07.2004 as also in violation of the principles of natural justice.

5. The State Government has issued a Government order dated 29.07.2004, laying down the procedure for suspending/ cancelling the fair price shop license/agreement. As per clause 4 of the Government order dated 29.07.2004, before cancelling the fair price shop license, the Competent Authority is obliged to issue a show cause notice containing the charges levelled against the licensee. The Competent Authority is required to pass a speaking order after holding an oral inquiry in accordance with the principles of natural justice.

6. In Puran Singh v. State, (2010) 2 UPLBEC 947, a Full Bench of this Court has held that paragraph nos. 4 and 5 of the Government order dated 29.07.2004 contemplate a full fledged inquiry before the license/ agreement of a fair price shop is cancelled. The Full Bench has held that as per the Government order dated 29.07.2004 an opportunity of hearing is required before passing an order of cancellation.

7. In Writ - C No. 3611 of 2014, Sanjay Kumar v. State, following Puran Singh (Supra) a learned Single Judge of this Court has held as follows:

"The procedure for holding an inquiry for cancelling the licence of the fair price shop has been provided in the Government Order dated 29.07.2004 read with U.P. Essential Commodities Distribution Order 2004.

The aforesaid Government Order and Distribution Order came up for consideration before the Full Bench of this Court in case of Puran Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others 2010 (3) ADJ 659 (FB). The Court considering para 4 and 5 of the Government Order dated 29.07.2004 held that it contemplates a full-fledged inquiry pursuant to the show cause notice for cancellation and then a final decision in the matter.

The aforesaid decision was followed by the learned Single Judge in his judgement and order dated 28.11.2014 passed in Writ-C No. 12737 of 2013 and referring to paragraph 35 of the Full Bench decision in Puran Singh's case his Lordship observed that a full-fledged inquiry is necessary before cancelling the agreement and it would require service of the charges, along with material in support of each charge, the information about the place and date of inquiry, the statements of persons on whose complaint inquiry was started or in a case of suo-motu inquiry, the statements of the persons appearing before the Inquiry Officer.

In other words it means that an independent inquiry before passing an order of cancellation of licence to run a fair price shop is mandatory and a show cause notice simplicitor is not sufficient to conform to the principles of natural justice.

It is obligatory upon the authorities to hold a full-fledged inquiry against the fair price shop dealer, after serving of the charge sheet with regard to the date and place where the hearing will took place and to give an opportunity of hearing. This is in addition to the show cause notice issued for the purposes of suspension of the licence of the fair price shop."

8. In Laloo Singh v. State, (2015) 6 All LJ 613 this Court has held that the cancellation of an agreement/license of a party is a serious business and cannot be taken lightly. In order to justify the action taken to cancel such an agreement/license, the authority concerned has to act fairly and in complete adherence to the rules/guidelines framed for the said purposes including the principles of natural justice.

9. This Court in Rajpal Singh v. State of U.P. and others, 2008 (26) LCD 891 has held that where fair price shop license of a dealer is cancelled by placing reliance on the report of the Supply Inspector and the copy of the report is not furnished to the dealer, such an order is in contravention of the principles of natural justice and is liable to be set aside.

10. In the present case, a perusal of the order dated 28.2.2016 would show that the license of the petitioner has been cancelled only on the basis of the statements of the card holders recorded behind the back of the petitioner and that too without supplying copies of the said statements to the petitioner and without affording an opportunity to the petitioner to cross examine the witnesses. A copy of the report submitted by the Area Food Officer has also not been supplied to the petitioner. Moreover, in his order, the respondent no. 3 has not at all discussed the grounds urged by the petitioner in his reply in support of his defence. Admittedly, the license of the petitioner has been cancelled without affording any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and without holding any inquiry, whatsoever.

11. In view of the settled legal position, the cancellation of the petitioner's fair price shop agreement / license is ostensibly in contravention of the principles of natural justice and cannot be sustained. The Appellate Authority has also failed to rectify the error committed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and as such the order passed by the Appellate Authority is also liable to be set aside alongwith the order of the Competent Authority.

12. For the aforesaid reasons, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned order dated 28.06.2016 passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Tehsil Rudauli, District Faizabad and the order dated 17.02.2017 passed by the Additional Commissioner (Food), Faizabad Division, Faizabad are hereby quashed.

13. No order as to cost.

Jay Devi Dubey ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Vishva Nath Pratap Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Aprajita Bansal

A. Election petition filed - challenging election on ground-some persons illegally elected in electoral roll-not maintainable-alternative remedy-Rule-10-objection-any entry in electoral roll-election petition rightly rejected.

B. Held, After exhaustively dealing with the provisions of the Act and the Rules pertaining to preparation and revision of electoral rolls mentioned above, a Division Bench of this Court in Mudi v. State Election Commission and others, AIR 2001 All 21 has opined that the election of a returned candidate cannot be challenged on the ground that the electoral roll was incorrectly prepared. Paras of the said report is being extracted below:

In view of the aforesaid provision, a challenge to the correctness of electoral roll cannot be permitted to be raised after the publication of the final electoral roll. If a person feels that name of a dead person or a person who is not eligible to be included in the electoral roll has been included in the electoral roll, his remedy lies in filing an application at the opportune time for correction of the entry. Similarly, if the name of someone has not been included in the electoral roll though he is eligible for the said purpose, he ought to make an application in that regard within the prescribed period. The decision of the Assistant Electoral Registration Officer in these matters is subject to an appeal and sub-rule (4) of Rule 21A attaches finality to the order passed in appeal. The provisions of the Act and the Rules thus provide a complete safeguard against any wrong inclusion or wrong omission of name in the electoral roll. After publication of the final roll, the same is immune from any challenge at a subsequent stage. Once the process of election has begun, they can neither be challenged by means of a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution nor in an election petition filed under Section 12C of the U. P. Panchayat Raj Act which gives the procedure for challenging the election of a person as pradhan.
Election Petition dismissed. (E-8)

1. Jyoti Basu v. Debi Ghosal, (1982) 1 SCC 691

2. Mudi v. State Election Commission and others, AIR 2001 All 21

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rakesh Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Shri Vishva Nath Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, the learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents and Ms. Aprajita Bansal, learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent no. 2.

2. The order dated 11.08.2017 passed by the Prescribed Authority, dismissing the election petition filed by the petitioner as well as the order dated 10.10.2017 passed by District Judge, Ambedkar Nagar dismissing the revision preferred by the petitioner are under challenge in the present writ petition.

3. The petitioner contested the election for the office of Pradhan of Gram Panchayat, Mahmadpur Odarpur which was held in the year 2015. In the said election 1160 votes were cast out of which the petitioner secured 359 votes whereas the returned candidate Reena Dubey polled 372 votes. Reena Dubey was declared elected by 13 votes. The petitioner filed an election petition under Section 12-C of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 (for short "Act') challenging the election of Reena Dubey. The Prescribed Authority held that improper inclusion or exclusion of voters in the electoral roll could not be a ground for challenging the election. Consequently, the election petition was dismissed as not maintainable. The revision preferred by the petitioner against the said order has been dismissed by the District Judge at the admission stage. Both these orders are under challenge in the present petition.

4. The learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the name of 22 persons who were minors was wrongly included in the electoral roll. The counsel submits that section 12-C of the Act does not prohibit the Prescribed Authority from entertaining any question regarding the validity of the electoral roll. His submission is that the electoral roll is prepared under Section 9 of the Act and proper procedure for preparing the electoral roll was not followed which attracts Section 12-C of the Act.

5. It is no more res integra that the right to contest in an election is a statutory right and the election of an elected candidate can be declared null and void only on the grounds provided in the statutory enactment. In Jyoti Basu v. Debi Ghosal, (1982) 1 SCC 691, the Apex Court has opined as under:

"8. A right to elect, fundamental though it is to democracy, is, anomalously enough, neither a fundamental right nor a common law right. It is pure and simple, a statutory right. So is the right to be elected. So is the right to dispute an election. Outside of statute, there is no right to elect, no right to be elected and no right to dispute an election. Statutory creations they are, and therefore, subject to statutory limitation. An election petition is not an action at common law, nor in equity. It is a statutory proceeding to which neither the common law nor the principles of equity apply but only those rules which the statute makes and applies. It is a special jurisdiction, and a special jurisdiction has always to be exercised in accordance with the statute creating it. Concepts familiar to common law and equity must remain strangers to election law unless statutorily embodied. A court has no right to resort to them on considerations of alleged policy because policy in such matters as those, relating to the trial of election disputes, is what the statute lays down. In the trial of election disputes, court is put in a strait-jacket." (emphasis supplied)

6. The grounds on which the election to the office of Pradhan could be challenged under Section 12-C of the Act have been enumerated in Section 12-C(1). Section 12-C(1) reads as under:

"12-C. Application for questioning the elections.--(1) The election of a person as Pradhan or as member of a Gram Panchayat including the election of a person appointed as the Panch of the Nyaya Panchayat under Section 43 shall not be called in question except by an application presented to such authority within such time and in such manner as may be prescribed on the ground that--

(a) the election has not been a free election by reason that the corrupt practice of bribery or undue influence has extensively prevailed at the election, or

(b) that the result of the election has been materially affected--

(i) by the improper acceptance or rejection of any nomination; or

(ii) by gross failure to comply with the provisions of this Act or the rules framed thereunder."

7. In the present case, the election of respondent no. 7 has not been disputed on the ground of corrupt practice or undue influence. The grievance of the petitioner is that gross illegality was committed in preparing the electoral roll as 22 minors have been included as voters although they were not eligible. The petitioner's submission may be correct or incorrect but the difficulty before the Prescribed Authority was that he was bound by the statutory provisions. Inclusion of ineligible voters in the electoral roll is not a ground on which the election of respondent no. 7 could be challenged.

8. Section 9 of the Act envisages an electoral roll for each territorial constituency and Section 9-A deals with the right to vote. Section 9 (relevant portion) and Section 9-A which have a bearing on the controversy at hand are being extracted below:

"9. Electoral roll for each territorial constituency.-(1) For each territorial constituency of a gram panchayat, an electoral roll shall be prepared, in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the Rules made thereunder, under the superintendence, direction and control of the State Election Commission.

(1A) Subject to the superintendence, direction and control of the State Election Commission, the Mukhya Nirvachan Adhikari (Panchayat) shall supervise, and perform all functions relating to the preparation, revision and correction of the electoral rolls in the State in accordance with this Act and the Rules made thereunder.

(2) The electoral roll referred to in sub-section (1) shall be published in the prescribed manner and upon its publication it shall, subject to any alteration. addition or modification made in accordance with this Act and the Rules made thereunder, be the electoral roll for that territorial constituency prepared in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

(3) Subject to the provisions of sub-sections (4), (5), (6) and (7) every person who has attained the age of 18 years on the first day of January of the year in which the electoral roll is prepared or revised and who is ordinarily resident in the territorial constituency of a gram panchayat shall be entitled to be registered in the electoral roll for that territorial constituency.

Explanation to sub-section 3 and sub-sections 4 to 7 omitted

(8) Where the State Election Commission is satisfied after making such enquiry as it may deem fit, whether on an application made to it or on its own motion that any entry in the electoral roll should be corrected or deleted or that the name of any person entitled to be registered should be added in the electoral roll, it shall, subject to the provisions of this Act and Rules and orders made thereunder, correct, delete or add the entry, as the case may be:

Provided that no such correction, deletion or addition shall be made after the last date for making nominations for an election in the gram panchayat and before the completion of that election:

Provided further that no deletion or correction of any entry in respect of any person affecting his interest adversely shall be made without giving him reasonable opportunity of being heard in respect of the action proposed to be taken in relation to him.

(9) The State Election Commission may, if it thinks it necessary so to do for the purposes of a general or bye-election, direct a special revision of the electoral roll for any territorial constituency of a gram panchayat in such manner as it may think fit :

Provided that subject to the other provisions of this Act, the electoral roll for the territorial constituency, as in force at the time of issue of any such direction, shall continue to be in force until the completion of the special revision so directed."

Sub-sections 10 to 12 omitted.

9-A Right to vote etc.- Except as otherwise provided by or under this Act, every person whose name is for the time being included in the electoral roll for a territorial constituency of a Gram Panchayat shall be entitled to vote at any election and be eligible for election, nomination or appointment to any office in that gram panchayat or the concerned Nyaya Panchayat.

Proviso omitted.

9. In exercise of the power conferred by sub-section (2) of Section 9 and Section 110 of the Act, the State Government has made the U. P. Panchayat Raj (Registration of Electors) Rules, 1994 (for short "Rules'). The Rules lays down the procedure for preparation and revision of electoral rolls. Rule 9 enables any person whose name is not included or whose name has been wrongly included in the electoral roll of some other territorial constituency of the gram panchayat or whose name is struck off the rolls by reason of any disqualification, to apply to the Assistant Electoral Registration Officer for inclusion of his name in the roll. Rule 10 permits objection to be made against any entry in the electoral roll either at the instance of the person concerned or at the instance of a third person. Rule 16 provides that an Assistant Electoral Registration Officer shall hold a summary enquiry into every application in respect of which notice has been given under Rule 15 and shall record a decision thereon. At the hearing the person to whom such notice was issued, shall be entitled to be present and to be heard. The Assistant Electoral Registration Officer may, in his discretion require any person to whom such notice has been issued to be present and may also require that the evidence tendered by any person shall be given on oath and may administer oath for the purpose. Rule 18 casts a duty on the Assistant Electoral Registration Officer to take remedial action if the name of a dead person or of persons who cease to be, or are not, ordinarily resident in the area of the territorial constituency, have been included in the roll. He is also required to prepare a list of the names and other details of such persons and exhibit a notice on the notice board in his office with a copy of the list along with the notice as to the time and place at which the question of deletion of such names from the roll shall be considered and further after considering. Furthermore, any verbal or written objections that may be preferred, he is required to decide whether all or any of the names be deleted from the rolls. Rule 19 deals with final publication of the roll and sub-rules (1) and (2) are being reproduced below :

"19. Final publication of roll.-- (1) The Electoral Registration Officer shall thereafter publish the roll together with the list of amendments under Rules 15, 16. 17 and 18, by making a complete copy thereof available for inspection and displaying a notice in Form 7 at his office.

(2) On such publication the roll together with the list of amendments shall be electoral roll for the territorial constituency.

(3) ..…."

10. Rule 21A provides for appeal and sub-rule (1) thereof lays down that an appeal shall lie from any decision of the Assistant Electoral Registration Officer under Rules 16, 18 or 21 to the District Magistrate.

11. Thus, it is apparent that a detailed and elaborate procedure has been provided for preparing the electoral roll and it has been further provided that no correction alteration or deletion can we made in the roll after the last date of filing nomination.

12. After exhaustively dealing with the provisions of the Act and the Rules pertaining to preparation and revision of electoral rolls mentioned above, a Division Bench of this Court in Mudi v. State Election Commission and others, AIR 2001 All 21 has opined that the election of a returned candidate cannot be challenged on the ground that the electoral roll was incorrectly prepared. Paragraph 8 and 9 of the said report is being extracted below:

"8. In view of the aforesaid provision, a challenge to the correctness of electoral roll cannot be permitted to be raised after the publication of the final electoral roll. If a person feels that name of a dead person or a person who is not eligible to be included in the electoral roll has been included in the electoral roll, his remedy lies in filing an application at the opportune time for correction of the entry. Similarly, if the name of someone has not been included in the electoral roll though he is eligible for the said purpose, he ought to make an application in that regard within the prescribed period. The decision of the Assistant Electoral Registration Officer in these matters is subject to an appeal and sub-rule (4) of Rule 21A attaches finality to the order passed in appeal. The provisions of the Act and the Rules thus provide a complete safeguard against any wrong inclusion or wrong omission of name in the electoral roll. After publication of the final roll, the same is immune from any challenge at a subsequent stage. Once the process of election has begun, they can neither be challenged by means of a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution nor in an election petition filed under Section 12C of the U. P. Panchayat Raj Act which gives the procedure for challenging the election of a person as pradhan.

9. Ours is the biggest democracy and the second most populous country in the world and, consequently, the electoral rolls are also big containing large number of names. The authorities entrusted with the duty of preparation of electoral roll can possibly have no personal knowledge about the correctness of every entry. If the people of the area do not take appropriate steps for deletion of the name of a dead person or the name of a person who is not qualified to be entered in the electoral roll of a panchayat, the same may continue to find place till the time of the election and voting. It is practically impossible to have an absolutely accurate electoral roll. The State machinery has to spend considerable time and energy in holding an election and it also involves huge public expenditure. If the ground of error or mistake in the electoral roll is entertained, every election will be under a peril of being set aside although the authorities have conducted the election in a most fair and impartial manner following the Rules and the candidates have also conducted themselves fairly without committing even the slightest breach of the law. This will lead to great uncertainly and will not be conducive to the growth of a healthy and vibrant democracy. Therefore, after the notification for election has been issued, no writ petition should be entertained challenging the correctness of the electoral roll. The election of the returned candidate can also not be challenged on the said ground either by filing a writ petition or by means of an election petition as provided in the statute. However, if some gross procedural error has been committed in the preparation of the electoral roll, like not publishing the draft electoral roll or not giving opportunity for making an application for either deletion or addition of names, the action of the authorities in such cases will not be immune from challenge under Article 226 of the Constitution provided the same is made promptly and before the notification for holding the election is issued." (emphasis supplied)

13. In view of the settled legal position, the election petition filed by the petitioner challenging the election of respondent no. 7 to the office of Pradhan, on the ground that some persons were illegally included in the electoral roll was not maintainable and has rightly been dismissed by the Prescribed Authority. For the same reason, the revision preferred by the petitioner against the said order has been dismissed by the District Judge at the admission stage. No case for interference with the impugned orders is made out.

14. The writ petition is absolutely misconceived and is accordingly dismissed at the admission stage.

15. Costs made easy.

A. Fair Price shop-license cancelled-on the basis of-statements & affidavits filed by card holders submitted behind the back-such affidavits were not provided-no opportunity to cross examine such card holders-copy of report of area supply inspector also not provided-grounds urged in defence has not been dealt in impugned order-order quashed.

Writ Petition allowed. (E-8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rakesh Srivastava,J.)

1. The petitioner was a fair price shop licensee. The Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Gonda - respondent no.3 herein, by his order dated 11.04.2018, has cancelled the license of the petitioner. The appeal preferred by the petitioner against the said order has been dismissed by the Additional Commissioner (Admin), Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda - respondent no.2, by his order dated 13.07.2018. Both the said orders are under challenge in this writ petition.

2. On the complaint made by one Manoj Kumar regarding the alleged irregularities being committed by the petitioner in the distribution of the essential commodities, the Area Supply Inspector allegedly made a spot inspection, recorded the statement of 28 card holders / their family members present on the spot and submitted his report to the respondent no. 3 on 06.02.2018. On the basis of the said report, license of the petitioner was suspended by the respondent no. 3. By the same order the petitioner was required to submit his reply to the charges levelled against him within the time mentioned in the said order. A perusal of the suspension order cum show cause notice would show that it only contained the gist of statements alleged to have been made by 28 card holders.

3. On 14.03.2018 the petitioner submitted his reply to the show cause notice and denied the charges levelled against him. Alongwith his explanation, the petitioner submitted the affidavits of 18 card holders to show that the charges leveled against the him were unfounded. After receiving the petitioner's reply, respondent no. 3 accepted the affidavits filed by 14 card holders behind the back of the petitioner. Thereafter, the respondent no.3, by his order dated 11.04.2018, cancelled the fair price shop license of the petitioner holding that the allegations made against the petitioner were proved. The order dated 11.04.2018 was passed without furnishing to the petitioner the copies of the affidavits filed by the witnesses and without affording any opportunity to the petitioner to cross examine them. The appeal preferred by the petitioner against the said order has been dismissed by the respondent no. 2 by his order dated 13.07.2018.

4. Sri Ram Kumar Srivastava, the learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the license of the petitioner has been cancelled by the respondent no. 3 without following the procedure laid down in the Government order dated 29.07.2004. The counsel submits that neither the copies of the statements of the card holders alleged to have been recorded by the Area Supply Inspector nor a copy of the report submitted by him was furnished to the petitioner. He has further submitted that the affidavits filed by 14 card holders behind the back of the petitioner were also not made available to the petitioner and he was also not given any opportunity to cross examine them. The counsel submits that the cancellation order having been passed without holding any inquiry and in gross violation of the principles of natural justice cannot be sustained. He has further submitted that the order of respondent no. 3 was challenged by the petitioner before the respondent no. 2, specifically on the aforesaid ground. However, the respondent no. 2 dismissed the petitioner's appeal without considering and recording any finding on the issues raised before him. Per contra the learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State-respondents has supported the impugned order.

5. Heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

6. The State Government has issued a Government Order dated 29.07.2004, laying down the procedure for suspending/ cancelling the fair price shop license/agreement. Paragraph nos. 2, 4, and 5 of the said Government Order being relevant are being quoted below:

"2. उक्त पृष्ठभूमि में मुझे यह कहने का निदेश हुआ है कि ग्रामीण एवं शहरी क्षेत्रों की उचित दर की दुकानों के निलम्बन /निरस्तीकरण के सम्बन्ध में निम्न प्रक्रिया का पालन किया जाए।

(1) उचित दर की दुकान का निलम्बन मात्र किसी व्यक्ति की शिकायत के आधार पर नहीं किया जाय। यदि किसी दुकानदार के विरूद्ध किसी स्रोत से शिकायत प्राप्त होती है तो पहले उसकी प्रारम्भिक जांच करायी जाए। यदि प्रारम्भिक जांच में दुकानदार के विरूद्ध ऐसी गम्भीर अनियमितताएं प्रथम दृष्टया सिद्ध हो रही हों जिनके आधार पर दुकानदार की दुकान निरस्त होने की सम्भावना हो तभी दुकान को निलम्बित किया जाय और साथ ही साथ दुकानदार को कारण बताओ नोटिस जारी किया जाए कि उसकी दुकान क्यों न निरस्त कर दी जाए। यदि प्रारम्भिक जांच में पाया जाय कि अनियमितता इतनी गम्भीर नहीं है कि दुकान के निरस्तीकरण की सम्भावना हो तो केवल कारण बताओ नोटिस जारी किया जाय। निलम्बन आदेश/कारण बताओं नोटिस एक स्पीकिंग आर्डर होना चाहिए तथा उसमें प्रारम्भिक जांच में पायी गयी उन सभी अनियमितताओं का विवरण होना चाहिए जिनका उत्तर दुकानदार से अपेक्षित हो।

(2) (क) खाद्य विभाग के अधिकारियों / जिला प्रशासन के अधिकारियों /अन्य प्राधिकृत व्यक्तियों द्वारा उचित दर की दुकान के आकस्मिक निरीक्षण के दौरान यदि पाया जाता है कि दुकानदार द्वारा कोई गम्भीर अनियमितता की गयी है तो भी दुकान को नियुक्ति अधिकारी द्वारा अपने विवेक का प्रयोग करते हुए निलम्बित किया जा सकता है।

(ख) खाद्य विभाग के अधिकारियों / जिला प्रशासन के अधिकारियों / अन्य प्राधिकृत व्यक्तियों द्वारा यदि दुकानदार कोई अनियमित कार्य, वितरण में गड़बड़ी या अनुसूचित वस्तुओं की कालाबाजारी करते हुए पकड़ा जाता तो भी नियुक्ति अधिकारी द्वारा अपने विवेक का प्रयोग करते हुए दुकान को निलम्बित किया जा सकता है।

उक्त परिस्थितियों में दुकान के निलम्बन की स्थिति में भी स्पीकिंग आर्डर से निलम्बन आदेश जारी किया जायेगा जिसमें सभी अनियमितताओं का उल्लेख होगा तथा दुकानदार को कारण बताओ नोटिस जारी किया जायेगा कि क्यों न उसकी दुकान निरस्त कर दी जाय।

4. निलम्बित की गयी दुकानों के विरूद्ध जांच की कार्यवाही अधिकतम एक माह में अनिवार्य रूप से पूरी की जायेगी तथा जांच में सम्बन्धित दुकानदार को सुनवाई का पूरा मौका दिया जायेगा। सम्बन्धित दुकानदार का यह दायित्व होगा कि वह जांच में अपना पूरा सहयोग दे ताकि जांच का कार्य जल्दी से जल्दी पूरा किया जा सके तथा नियुक्ति प्राधिकारी द्वारा प्रकरण में गुण–दोष के आधार पर अन्तिम निर्णय लिया जा सके। यदि दुकानदार द्वारा जांच में सहयोग नहीं दिया जा रहा हो और जांच में विलम्ब करने का प्रयास किया जा रहा हो तो दुकानदार को इस आशय का भी नोटिस जारी किया जायेगा और अपना पक्ष रखने का अन्तिम अवसर प्रदान किया जायेगा।

5. जांच की कार्यवाही अधिकतम एक माह में पूर्ण करके नियुक्ति प्राधिकारी द्वारा प्रकरण में अन्तिम निर्णय लिया जायेगा और गुण दोष के आधार पर एक स्पीकिंग आर्डर जारी किया जायेगा। इस आदेश में यह स्पष्ट उल्लेख होना चाहिए कि सम्बन्धित दुकानदार को सुनवाई का अवसर दिया गया और उसे सुना गया। यदि दुकानदार ने जांच में सहयोग नहीं किया हो और सुनवाई के अवसर का जानबूझकर उपयोग न किया हो तो अन्तिम आदेश में इस बात का भी पूरा उल्लेख होना चाहिए कि दुकानदार को अवसर प्रदान किया गया तथा अन्तिम नोटिस दिया गया परन्तु उसने जानबूझ कर अवसर का उपयोग नहीं किया और जांच में सहयोग नहीं किया।"

7. As per clause 4 of the Government Order dated 29.07.2004, before cancelling the fair price shop license, the Competent Authority is obliged to issue a show cause notice containing the charges levelled against the licensee. The Competent Authority is required to pass a speaking order after holding an oral inquiry in accordance with the principles of natural justice. As per the said Government order, in case the license holder is not cooperating in the inquiry, the Competent Authority is obliged to again issue a notice to that effect and afford a last opportunity to the license holder.

8. In Puran Singh v. State, (2010) 2 UPLBEC 947, a Full Bench of this Court has held that paragraph nos. 4 and 5 of the Government order dated 29.07.2004 contemplate a full fledged inquiry before the license/ agreement of a fair price shop is cancelled. The Full Bench has held that as per the Government order dated 29.07.2004 an opportunity of hearing is required before passing an order of cancellation.

9. In Writ - C No. 3611 of 2014, Sanjay Kumar v. State, following Puran Singh (Supra) a learned Single Judge of this Court has held as follows:

"The procedure for holding an inquiry for cancelling the licence of the fair price shop has been provided in the Government Order dated 29.07.2004 read with U.P. Essential Commodities Distribution Order 2004.

The aforesaid Government Order and Distribution Order came up for consideration before the Full Bench of this Court in case of Puran Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others 2010 (3) ADJ 659 (FB). The Court considering para 4 and 5 of the Government Order dated 29.07.2004 held that it contemplates a full-fledged inquiry pursuant to the show cause notice for cancellation and then a final decision in the matter.

The aforesaid decision was followed by the learned Single Judge in his judgement and order dated 28.11.2014 passed in Writ-C No. 12737 of 2013 and referring to paragraph 35 of the Full Bench decision in Puran Singh's case his Lordship observed that a full-fledged inquiry is necessary before cancelling the agreement and it would require service of the charges, along with material in support of each charge, the information about the place and date of inquiry, the statements of persons on whose complaint inquiry was started or in a case of suo-motu inquiry, the statements of the persons appearing before the Inquiry Officer.

In other words it means that an independent inquiry before passing an order of cancellation of licence to run a fair price shop is mandatory and a show cause notice simplicitor is not sufficient to conform to the principles of natural justice.

It is obligatory upon the authorities to hold a full-fledged inquiry against the fair price shop dealer, after serving of the charge sheet with regard to the date and place where the hearing will took place and to give an opportunity of hearing. This is in addition to the show cause notice issued for the purposes of suspension of the licence of the fair price shop."

10. In Laloo Singh vs. State, (2015) 6 All LJ 613 this Court has held that the cancellation of an agreement/license of a party is a serious business and cannot be taken lightly. In order to justify the action taken to cancel such an agreement/license, the authority concerned has to act fairly and in complete adherence to the rules/guidelines framed for the said purposes including the principles of natural justice.

11. This Court in Rajpal Singh v. State of U.P. and others, 2008 (26) LCD 891 has held that where fair price shop license of a dealer is cancelled by placing reliance on the report of the Supply Inspector and the copy of the report is not furnished to the dealer, such an order is in contravention of principles of natural justice and is liable to be set aside.

14. In the present case, a perusal of the order dated 11.04.2018 would show that the license of the petitioner has been cancelled only on the basis of the statements and affidavits filed by the card holders and that too without supplying copies of the said statements / affidavits to the petitioner and without affording an opportunity to the petitioner to cross examine them. A copy of the report submitted by the Area Supply Inspector has also not been supplied to the petitioner. Moreover, in his order, the respondent no. 3 has not at all discussed the grounds urged by the petitioner in his reply in support of his defence. Admittedly, the license of the petitioner has been cancelled without affording any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and without holding any inquiry, whatsoever.

15. In view of the settled legal position, the cancellation of the petitioner's fair price shop agreement / license is ostensibly in contravention of the principles of natural justice and cannot be sustained. The Appellate Authority has also failed to rectify the error committed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and as such the order passed by the Appellate Authority is also liable to be set aside alongwith the order of the Competent Authority.

16. For the aforesaid reasons, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned order dated 11.04.2018 passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and the order dated 13.07.2018 passed by the Additional Commissioner (Admin) are hereby quashed.

17. No order as to cost.

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Challenging-impugned order-dismissing sec-5 limitation application-filed in an appeal-whether maintainable u/Art 227-to be treated as order disposing application and order passed in appeal-decree to be prepared-resulting in consequential dismissal of appeal-would facilitate filing of Second Appeal u/s.100.

B. Held, In this view of the matter, as, considering the decision of the Supreme Court in Shyam Sunder Sharma (supra), even such orders passed on application under section 5 of the Act 1963, are to be treated as not only disposing the said application but are also to be treated as an order passed in appeal, rejecting it, irrespective of the fact whether or not a consequential order of dismissal is passed in such appeal and a second appeal would lie under section 100 C.P.C. against such an order, a decree of such an order should also be prepared treating it an order passed on the appeal itself, resulting in consequential dismissal of the appeal. This is the ratio of the Full Bench of the Kerala High Court om Thambi's case (supra) wherein the provisions of the C.P.C., Limitation Act and various decisions on this issue have been considered elaborately, which has been approved by the Supreme Court in Shyam Sunder's case (supra). In fact, it would be in the fitness of things if the Civil Courts while dismissing an application under section 5 of the Act 1963 also pass consequential orders dismissing the appeal itself, as is also mandated under section 3 of the Limitation Act 1963, as, in such a scenario, a decree of such an order would necessarily be prepared in terms of the existing provisions of the C.P.C. and this would facilitate filing of a second appeal or its hearing and decision thereon. It is ordered accordingly. In view of the above this petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is dismissed as not maintainable subject, however, to the observations made hereinabove.

Writ Petition dismissed as not maintainable. (E-8)

16. Gulab Chand v. Kudi Lal, AIR 1952 MB

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. By means of this petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India the petitioner has challenged an order dated 24.4.2019 passed by the Additional District Judge (Court No.4)/Special Judge (E.C. Act), Sitapur, dismissing the application of the petitioner under section 5 of the Limitation Act 1963 (hereinafter referred as 'Act 1963') which was filed alongwith the appeal filed by the petitioners against the judgment and decree passed in O.S. No. 141 of 1999 allowing the suit of the private opposite parties herein. The application under section 5 was registered as Civil Misc. Case No.91 of 2014 and the same has been dismissed by the Appellate Court.

2. A question arose during the course of hearing as to the maintainability of this petition and whether a second appeal under section 100 C.P.C. would not lie against the impugned judgment ? In response, the learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the order which has been impugned herein does not fall within the definition of decree under section 2(2) of the Code of Civil Procedure Code 1908, as it does not conclusively determine the rights of the parties with regard to all or any of the matters in controversy in the appeal arising out of the suit, instead it only rejects the application under section 5 of the Limitation Act 1963 which was registered as a separate miscellaneous case. As no decree of such an order is prepared, a second appeal under section 100 C.P.C. will not lie as it lies against appellate decrees.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon a decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Ratan Singh v. Vijai Singh and others, AIR 2001 SC 279 in support of his contention.

4. At first blush the submission of the petitioners' counsel appeared to be quite attractive, especially in view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Ratan Singh (supra) wherein, the provision contained in section 2(2), C.P.C., defining a decree, had been considered and it was held that an order dismissing an application under section 5 of the Act 1963 would not be a decree and that the order rejecting the memorandum of appeal consequent to rejection of the application under section 5 of the Act 1963 was merely an incidental order. In the said decision the Supreme Court approved the Full Bench decision of the Calcutta High Court in Mamooda Khateen & ors. V. Benian Bibi & ors., AIR 1976 Calcutta 415. The Supreme Court approved the reasoning of the Full Bench that when an appeal is barred by limitation, it cannot be admitted at all until the application under section 5 of the Act 1963 is allowed and until then the appeal, even if filed, will remain in limbo. If the application is dismissed, the appeal becomes otiose. Approving the said view, the Supreme Court disapproved the contrary view taken by other High Courts. The Privy Council decision in Nagendra Nath Dey & anr. V. Suresh Chandra Dey & anr., AIR 1932 PC 165, was also considered in Ratan Singh (supra), but it was observed that the said decision does not help in the context of the case before it, as, it related to the scope and interpretation of Article 182 of the old Limitation Act and in this regard it noticed serious departure made by the Parliament in the existing Limitation Act.

5. However, this court finds that in a subsequent decision in the case of Shyam Sunder Sharma v. Pannna Lal Jaiswal & ors., AIR 2005 SC 226, a three Judge Bench of the Supreme Court did not approve of the earlier view taken in the case of Ratan Singh (supra) and it held that an order passed on an application under section 5 of the Act 1963 rejecting the same is nevertheless an order passed in appeal. It disapproved the Full Bench decision of the Calcutta High Court in Mamooda Khateen & ors. (supra) and approved another Full Bench decision of the Kerala High Court in Thambi v. Mathew, AIR 1988 Ker. 48, wherein it was held that an appeal presented out of time was nevertheless an appeal in the eyes of law for all purposes and an order dismissing the appeal was a decree and that could be the subject of a second appeal.

6. It is fruitful to refer to the decision of the Full Bench of the Kerala High Court in Thambi's case (supra) wherein their Lordships noticed the provision of Order XLI Rule 3-A C.P.C. and then held as under :

"It is clear from sub-rule (1) that there is a proper presentation of the appeal filed out of time if it is accompanied by an application to condone delay supported by an affidavit setting forth the grounds for the condonation of delay. Sub-rule (2) requires the application to be finally decided by the court before it proceeds to deal with the appeal under rule 11 or rule 13, as the case may be. A dismissal of the application for condonation of delay results in the dismissal of the appeal which can only be under R. 11. S. 3 of the Limitation Act also requires an appeal filed after the prescribed period of time to be dismissed subject to the provisions contained in Ss. 4 - 24. Sub-rule (3) of R. 3A does not render an appeal properly presented under sub-rule (1), a proposed appeal. Sub-rule (3) in spite of its language would only mean that no stay of the execution of the decree appealed against shall be granted before the court after hearing the appeal under R. 11 decides to admit the same. An appeal presented out of time is nevertheless an appeal in the eye of law for all practical purposes (vide Musala Annaji Rao v. Boggarapu Papaiah Setty, AIR 1975 Abdg Ora 73). The question, whether an appeal properly presented with a petition to condone the delay can be admitted or not, is at the second stage and to reach that stage the application has to be disposed of finally. Sec. 3 of the Limitation Act also makes it obligatory on the part of the court to dismiss an appeal presented out of time subject, of course, to the provisions of Ss. 4 - 24. In a case, where an appeal has been admitted and then dismissed on a preliminary objection raised at the hearing disclosing the fact that the appeal was filed out of time, is it possible to say that the order dismissing the appeal, though on the ground of limitation, is not a decree? The question is whether a dismissal of the appeal after considering an application to condone the delay should be treated differently. An appeal filed out of time is required to be dealt with by the appellate court under S. 3 of the Limitation Act and an order dismissing the appeal is a decree that can be subject of a second appeal as held by the Full Bench in Haji Hassan Rowther's case (AIR 1972 Ker 56). Sub-rule (4) of R. 11 of O. 41, CPC requires an appellate court, not being the High Court, dismissing an appeal under sub-rule (1) to deliver a judgment and a decree is to be drawn up in accordance with the judgment. It is thus clear that the dismissal of an appeal under O.41, Rule 11 postulates the drawing up of a decree which can be the subject of a further appeal under Order 41, Rule 1 read with O. 42, CPC. Sub-rule(4) of R. 11 does not dispense with the need of a decree when the High Court dismisses an appeal under sub-rule (1). The only exception is that it need not deliver a judgment recording its reasons for dismissing the same. It seems to us clear that R. 3A of O. 41 introduced by the CPC. Amendment Act, 1976 does not in any way affect the principle laid down by the Full Bench in Haji Hassan Rowther's case and by Viswanatha Iyer, J. in Kunhiraman's case (1979 KLT 718)."

7. Their Lordships also took note of a Division Bench of the Allahabad High Court rendered as early as in 1884 in Gulab Rai v. Mangli Lal, ILR (1884) Allahabad 42, wherein it was held as under :

"In the Civil Procedure Code there is no separate provision which allows the appellate court to "reject" a memorandum of appeal on the ground of its being barred by limitation. S. 543 is limited to cases in which the memorandum of appeal is not drawn up in the manner prescribed by the Code, and it is only by applying S. 54(c), mutatis mutandis, (as provided by the last part of S. 582), to appeals that the Code can be understood to make provision for rejection of appeals as barred by limitation. However, S. 4 of the Limitation Act clearly lays down that every "appeal presented after the period of limitation prescribed therefor shall be dismissed." It is, therefore, clear that the order of the District Judge in this case must be taken to be one which falls under the definition of "decree" within the meaning of S. 2 of the Code, as the order, so far as the Judge was concerned, disposed of the appeal."

8. The Full Bench also noticed decision of the Supreme Court in Mela Ram & sons (supra) v. the Commissioner of Income Tax, Punjab, (1956) 29 ITR 607 (SC), wherein inter alia the Supreme Court affirmed the decision of the Madras High Court in Commissioner of Income v. Shahzadi Begum AIR 1952 Madras 232, which had held that if the appeal is dismissed as incompetent or is rejected as it was filed out of time and no sufficient cause was established, it results in an affirmation of the order appealed against.

9. The Supreme Court in Mela Ram (supra) also affirmed another decision of the Calcutta High Court reported in AIR1954 Cal. 468, in which it had been held that an appellate order may not, directly and by itself, confirm or reduce or enhance or annul an assessment and may yet dispose of the appeal. If it does so, it is immaterial whether the ground is a finding that the appeal is barred by Limitation or a finding that the case is not fit one for extension of time or both.

10. Referring to the aforesaid cases the Supreme Court in Mela Ram (supra) concluded, as observed by the Full Bench, that there is, thus, abundant authority for the position that section 31 should be liberally construed so as to include not only orders passed on a consideration of the merits of the assessment, but also orders which dispose of the appeal on preliminary issues such as limitation and the like.

11. The Full Bench also noticed the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Rani Chaudhari v. Lt. Col. Suraj Jit Choudhary, (1982) 2 SCC 596, which had been followed in Mela Ram's case (supra) wherein it had been held as under:

"In the present case, the appeal was dismissed as barred by limitation. That it was an appeal even though barred by time is clear from Mela Ram & Sons v. C.I.T. (AIR 1956 SC 367) where Venkatarama Ayyar J., speaking for the Court, after referring to Nagendra Nath Dey v. Suresh Chandra Dey, (AIR 1932 PC 165), Raja Kulkarni v. State of Bombay (AIR 1954 SC 73) and Promotho Nath Roy v. W. A. Lee (AIR 1921 Cal 415) held that "an appeal presented out of time is an appeal, and an order dismissing it as time-barred is one passed in appeal". There can be no dispute then that in law what the respondent did was to file an appeal and that the order dismissing it as time-barred was one disposing of the appeal."

12. The Full Bench of the Kerala High Court went on to observe that disposal of an appeal filed out of time can only be by way of dismissal as provided for in section 3 of the Limitation Act. An appeal registered under Rule 9 of Order LXI C.P.C. is to be disposed off according to law and a dismissal of the appeal for the reason of delay in its presentation after the dismissal of an application for condonation of delay is in substance and effect a confirmation of the decree appealed against. This Full Bench decision was affirmed by the Supreme Court in Shyam Sunder Sharma's case(supra).

13. With regard to its earlier decision in Ratan Singh's (supra) the Supreme Court in Shyam Sunder Sharma's case (supra) held that it was in conflict with the ratio of the decision in the case of Mela Ram (supra) and the decision in Rani Chaudhary v. Lieutenant Col. Suraj Jeet Chaudhary, 1982 (2) SCC 586, as also, the Privy Council's decision in Nagendra Nath Dey (supra), which, though referred, was not applied on the ground that it was based on Article 182 of the Old Limitation Act 1908. The Supreme Court was of the view that the decision in Sheodon Singh v. Dariao Kunwar, AIR 1966 SC 1332 wherein also it was held that dismissal of an appeal from a decree on the ground that the appeal was barred by limitation, was a decision in the appeal and that such dismissal, when it confirms the decision of the Trial Court on the merits, itself amounts to the appeal being heard and finally decided on the merits, whatever may be the ground for dismissal of the appeal, was also not noticed in Ratan Singh's case (supra) and latter was in conflict with the said decision. Thus, the earlier decision in Ratan Singh's case (supra) was impliedly overruled.

14. Now in view of the Three Judge Bench decision of the Supreme Court in Shyam Sunder Sharma's case (supra) two things are clear, one, that an order dismissing an application under section 5 of the Limitation Act 1963 for extending limitation for filing the appeal is also an order passed in appeal and the Full Bench of the Calcutta High Court when it held that an order rejecting a time-barred memorandum of appeal consequent upon refusal to condone the delay in filing that appeal was neither a decree nor appealable, did not lay down a correct law. In this view of the matter the irresistible conclusion is that a second appeal would lie against such an order as has been impugned in this writ petition as referred hereinabove.

15. Similar view has also been expressed by two coordinate Benches of this Court in the case of Smt. Premwati & anr. V. Smt. Munni Devi, (2009) 106 RD 697 and Rajendra Pal Singh v. Addl. District Judge, Ghaziabad 2016 (2) ADJ 699. In the latter case a specific plea was raised that the order impugned therein merely dismissed the section 5 application but it nowhere stated that the appeal would also stand dismissed, therefore, the argument advanced was that the petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India would be maintainable against such an order, but, this argument was repelled in view of the authoritative pronouncements discussed in the said judgment, as have also been referred hereinabove.

16. There is another three Judges Bench decision of the Supreme Court in the case of S. Kalawati v. Durga Prasad & anr., AIR 1975 SC 1272, wherein, a similar issue as to whether an order passed not on merits of the appeal but otherwise such as on an application for condonation of delay in filing the appeal, non-prosecution or for any other reason, would amount to an order passed in appeal was considered, and it was held that unless the Court had applied its mind to the case and after consideration affirmed it the order cannot be said to be one of affirmance and after noticing the decision of the Privy Council in Abdul Mazid v. Jawahar Lal, ILR 1904 (36) Allahabad 350; decision of the Bombay High Court in Kursondas Dharamse v. Gangabai, ILR 1907 (32) Bombay 108 and the decision in Gulab Chand v. Kudi Lal, AIR 1952 MB the Supreme Court opined that the principle behind majority of decisions is thus to the effect that where an appeal is dismissed on the preliminary ground that it was not competent or for non-prosecution or for any other reason the appeal is not entertained, the decision cannot be said to a "decision, on appeal" nor of affirmance. It is only where the appeal is heard and the judgment delivered thereafter, the judgment can be said to be a judgment of affirmance. However, in view of the later decision by a Three Judges' Bench of the Supreme Court in Shyam Sunder Sharma (supra) the legal position at present is as discussed earlier i.e. such an order is an order passed in the appeal, hence appealable under section 100 C.P.C.

17. There are, however, certain practical difficulties in filing a second appeal in such circumstances notice of which needs to be taken by the Court. In the State of U.P. when a time-barred first appeal is filed under the Code of Civil Procedure alongwith an application under section 5 of the Limitation Act 1965 for extension of limitation and condonation of delay, it is the application which is registered as a miscellaneous case, as has happened in this case and is decided first. Only when the delay is condoned the appeal is registered. If the delay is not condoned, the application under section 5 is dismissed and the matter is laid to rest. More often then not no consequential orders are passed on the appeal, dismissing it. As the order rejecting the application under section 5 is not treated as one passed on the appeal, but, is treated as an order passed in the miscellaneous case, no decree is prepared in terms of section 2(2) C.P.C. This creates a practical difficulty in filing a second appeal against such an order under section 100 C.P.C. There was consensus at the Bar that against such an order dismissing the application for condonation of delay under section 5 of the Act 1963 without any consequential order for dismissal of the appeal a decree is not prepared by the Civil Courts in this State under the existing provisions of section 2(2) the Code of Civil Procedure 1908.

18. It is not out of place to refer to Section 3 of the Limitation Act 1963 reads as under :

"Section 3. Bar of limitation.- (1) Subject to the provisions contained in sections 4 to 24 (inclusive), every suit instituted, appeal preferred, and application made after the prescribed period shall be dismissed, although limitation has not been set up as a defence."

19. This provision also mandates dismissal of the appeal itself if it is time-barred and application under section 5 for extension of limitation/condonation of delay is rejected.

20. In this view of the matter, as, considering the decision of the Supreme Court in Shyam Sunder Sharma (supra), even such orders passed on application under section 5 of the Act 1963, are to be treated as not only disposing the said application but are also to be treated as an order passed in appeal, rejecting it, irrespective of the fact whether or not a consequential order of dismissal is passed in such appeal and a second appeal would lie under section 100 C.P.C. against such an order, a decree of such an order should also be prepared treating it an order passed on the appeal itself, resulting in consequential dismissal of the appeal. This is the ratio of the Full Bench of the Kerala High Court om Thambi's case (supra) wherein the provisions of the C.P.C., Limitation Act and various decisions on this issue have been considered elaborately, which has been approved by the Supreme Court in Shyam Sunder's case (supra). In fact, it would be in the fitness of things if the Civil Courts while dismissing an application under section 5 of the Act 1963 also pass consequential orders dismissing the appeal itself, as is also mandated under section 3 of the Limitation Act 1963, as, in such a scenario, a decree of such an order would necessarily be prepared in terms of the existing provisions of the C.P.C. and this would facilitate filing of a second appeal or its hearing and decision thereon. It is ordered accordingly.

21. In view of the above this petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is dismissed as not maintainable subject, however, to the observations made hereinabove.

22. Based on this judgment petitioner can apply for preparation of a decree of the order impugned. In the meantime he can prefer a second appeal relying upon Rule 6-A of Order XX C.P.C. He should annex the original decree of the Trial Court to facilitate valuation etc. of the second appeal.

23. Let a copy of this judgment be circulated amongst District Judges in the State of U.P., who in turn shall circulate the same amongst other Judges of the District so that the practical difficulty being faced in filing second appeal as pointed out by the Members of the Bar, is removed.

24. The Registrar General of this Court shall take necessary steps for circulation of this judgment as aforesaid.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE PANKAJ KUMAR JAISWAL, J.
THE HON'BLE ALOK MATHUR, J.

Misc. Bench No. 34971 of 2019

M/S Ajmani Leasing & Finance Ltd. ...Petitioner

Versus

U.O.I. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Shishir Chandra, Vishnu Pratap Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.S.G.

A. Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 - Challenging order-cessation of permission-granted to the petitioner company-to carry on the business of Non-Banking Financial Institution (NBFI)-on account of-failure in complying-with the directions-issued by RBI-regarding achievement of the specified Net Owned Fund (NOF)-under section 45-IA (6)-matters involving policy decision and economic tests-judicial review-limited-unless decision found contrary to-any statutory provision or Constitution-Court would not interfere-principal of natural justice-duly complied.

B. Held, that in the matter of policy decision and economic tests, the scope of judicial review is very limited. Unless the decision is shown to be contrary to any statutory provision or the Constitution, the Court would not interfere with an economic decision taken by the State. The Court cannot examine the relative merits of different economic policies and cannot strike down the same merely on the ground that another policy would have been fairer and better. It was further held that it is neither within the domain of the Courts, nor the scope of judicial review to embark upon an enquiry as to whether a particular public policy is wise or whether better public policy can be evolved, nor are the Courts inclined to strike down a policy at the behest of a petitioner merely because it has been urged that a different policy would have been fairer or wiser or more scientific or more logical. Wisdom and advisability of economic policy are ordinarily not amenable to judicial review. In matters relating to economic issues the Government has, while taking a decision, right to "trial and error" as long as both trial and error are bona fide and within the limits of the authority. For testing the correctness of a policy, the appropriate forum is Parliament and not the Courts.

C. After considering the facts of the case as well as the principles enunciated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, we are of the opinion that principles of natural justice was compiled by the Bank by giving a show cause notice and considering the reply of petitioner before cancelling the registration. The impugned order cannot be set-aside on the ground of the same having been passed in violation of principles of natural justice. Apart from this, the petitioner has failed to indicates as to how he was prejudicial in not being afforded an opportunity of personal hearing. We do not find any merit in the contention of the petitioner in this regard.

Writ Petition dismissed. (E-8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Kumar Jaiswal,J. & Hon'ble Alok Mathur,J.)

1. Heard Sri Shishir Chandra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Surya Bhan Pandey, learned Assistant Solicitor General of India, assisted by Sri Varun Pandey, learned counsel for the respondent no.1.

2. The petitioner, which is a non-banking financial company, is aggrieved by the order dated 30.10.2018 passed by the respondent no.3-Deputy General Manager, Reserve Bank of India, Department of Non-Banking Supervision, Kanpur under Section 45-IA(6) of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 (hereinafter referred to as "1934 Act"), whereby permission granted to the petitioner's company for carrying the business of Non-Banking Financial Institution (NBFI) has been ceased. The petitioner has also challenged the appellate order dated 26.08.2019 passed by the respondent no.1-Ministry of Finance, Department of Financial Services, Union of India, under Section 45-IA (7) of 1934 Act, whereby the appeal filed by the petitioner, bearing No.F No. 25/247/2019/BOA-II : in re: M/s Ajmani Leasing & Finance Ltd. Vs. Reserve Bank of India, against the order dated 30.10.2018, has been dismissed.

3. Brief facts of the case are that the petitioner's company was incorporated on 12.8.1988 under the Companies Act, 1956 and was granted a Certificate of Registration, bearing No. A-12.00284 dated 10.1.2001 by the Reserve Bank of India (hereinafter referred to as "Bank") and on reclassification of the Company as an Asset Finance Company, CoR No.A-1200284, dated 21.9.2007 was issued to it, under the provisions of Section 45-IA of 1934 Act to carry on the business of a non-banking financial institution (NBFI) subject to fulfilling the requirements under Chapter III-B of the 1934 Act and complying the directions, regulations including prudential norms issued by the Bank from time to time as also the terms and conditions under which the said Certificate of Registration was issued to it. The said Certificate of Registration was cancelled by the Reserve Bank of India vide order dated 30.10.2018 in terms of Section 45-IA (6) of 1934 Act on account of its failure to comply with the directions of the Reserve Bank of India as regard achievement of the specified Net Owned Fund (NOF).

4. The petitioner's company, thereafter, had challenged the aforesaid order dated 30.10.2018 by filing appeal, which was registered as F No. 25/247/2019/BOA-II : in re: M/s Ajmani Leasing & Finance Ltd. Vs. Reserve Bank of India. The appellate authority, vide order dated 26.08.2019, dismissed the appeal on the ground that the writ petitioner/appellant company has failed to achieve a NOF of Rs.200.00 before 1st April, 2017 and has also not given any valid reasons for not achieving the same. Paras 5 and 6 of the order dated 26.08.2019 (supra) are relevant, which reads as under :-

"5. In its reply dated 20th June, 2018 to the Show Cause Notice of RBI, the appellant company had stated that their business in previous years had gone through tough and stressful situation due to inconsistent state government policies towards Vikram and Auto permits in Lucknow. It was a very hard time for the industry and as a result, the Non-Performing Assets increased. The appellant further requested RBI to give time till June, 2019 to meet the requirements of the RBI notification. In his appeal also, the appellant has reiterated his request for time upto June, 2019. In addition, the appellant company has raised the issues of natural justice and not being granted reasonable opportunity of being heard.

6. After going through the records and hearing the arguments put before me, it is observed that the RBI circular dated 10th November, 2014 read with notification dated 27th March, 2015 had clearly prescribed a NOF of Rs.200.00 lakh as on 31st March, 2017 for NBFCs to commence or carry on the business of NBFI. It was also stated in the circular that NBFCs failing to achieve the prescribed ceiling within the stipulated time period shall not be eligible to hold the CoR as NBFCs and RBI will initiate the process for cancellation of CoR against such NBFCs. The appellant company, in its reply dated 20th June, 2018 to the SCN, had sought time upto June, 2019 which was not granted by the RBI and the CoR was cancelled. As regards the contentions of the appellant invoking principles of natural justice for not being granted reasonable opportunity of being heard before cancellation of CoR, it is observed that RBI has specifically vide letter dated 19th October, 2015 specified the details of its notification dated 27th March, 2015 and advised the appellant to submit plans for increasing the NOF to the prescribed levels in view of its NOF being only Rs.88.89 lakh as on 31st March, 2015. Thus, ample opportunity was provided to the appellant. Its contention that due to inconsistent policy on autos they faced hardships cannot be taken as a reason for not following a statutory requirement of doing business. It is observed that reasonable opportunity of being heard does not necessarily mean an opportunity of personal hearing."

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has fairly admitted the fact that the notification dated 27.03.2015 specifying Rs.200 Lakhs as NOF for NBFCs to commence or carry on business has not been challenged by the petitioner. However, he submits that while passing the impugned order dated 26.08.2019, the appellate authority erred in not considering the fact that prior to passing the order dated 30.10.2018, no opportunity was granted to the writ petitioner, therefore, the impugned order is liable to be quashed.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has assailed the impugned order dated 26.08.2019 on the ground that he was not given an opportunity of hearing and the respondents have acted in a most unreasonable manner without considering the reasons stated by the petitioner in reply to the show cause notice and, therefore, the impugned order is vitiated in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside.

7. Heard the learned counsels for the parties.

8. The Bank in exercise of the powers under sub- Clause (b) of sub-Section (1) of Section 45-IA of the 1934 Act, and in supersession of Notification No.132/CGM (VSNM)-99 dated 20.04.1999, specified Rs.200 Lakhs as NOF requirement for an NBFC to commence or carry on the business of Non-Banking Financial Institutions. The notification provided that an NBFC holding a Combined Operating Ratio (CoR) issued by the Reserve Bank of India, may continue to carry on the business of a Non-Banking Financial Institution, if such company has NOF of (i) 100 Lakhs of rupees before April 1, 2016; and (ii) 200 Lakhs of rupees before April 1, 2017.

9. The writ petitioner is a NBFC who was granted CoR in terms of Section 45-IA of the 1934 Act. The respondents do not dispute the power of the Reserve Bank of India to fix the monetary limit of NOF required to be furnished by NBFCs. In fact, this power is traceable to Section 45-IA(a)(b) of the Act. The writ petitioner having not disputed the power of the Reserve Bank of India to fix the NOF, can obviously not challenge the date fixed by the Reserve Bank of India for complying with the said norms.

10. The notification dated 27.03.2015 applies to NBFCs who seek to commence business and also to the existing NBFCs who want to carry on the business. Thus, the writ petitioner was forewarned as early as March, 2015 that, if he wants to carry on business of NBFCs, he has to achieve NOF of 100 lakhs of rupees before April 1, 2016 and 200 Lakhs of rupees before April 1, 2017. Admittedly, the writ petitioner did not achieve the said monetary limit fixed in the notification within the cut of date.

11. What is required to be seen is whether the respondents were justified in cancelling the CoR granted to the writ petitioner for non-compliance of the NOF requirement within the time stipulated. The respondent issued show cause notice dated 07.06.2018. The attention of the writ petitioner was invited to the CoR issued by the Reserve Bank of India underSection 45-IAof the 1934 Act and the respondents were reminded that as per the provisions of Section 45- IA(6) of the 1934 Act, by which the Reserve Bank of India is empowered to cancel the CoR issued to a company on account of any of the reasons referred to in sub-Clauses (i) to (v) of that sub-Section. Further, the respondents were informed that in terms of the Revised Regulatory Framework for NBFCs (RBI/2014-15/520DNBR (PD) CC.No.024/03.10.001/2014-15) read with notification dated 27.03.2015, the Reserve Bank of India had specified Rs.200 lakhs of rupees as the NOF required for NBFCs to commence or carry on the business of non-banking financial institution.

12. It was submitted that as per the records available with the RBI, the writ petitioner was holding CoR on the date of issuance of the aforementioned direction and has failed to achieve the NOF of 200 lakhs of rupees before April 1, 2017, thus, violating the provisions under which the Company was permitted to continue the business of a non-banking financial institution. Thus, the writ petitioner was informed that he has acted in violation of the directions issued by the Reserve Bank of India in exercise of its powers under Chapter III- B of the 1934 Act while conducting its business as a non-banking financial institution. The writ petitioner was called upon to show cause within fifteen days of the receipt of the order as to why the CoR issued to him should not be cancelled under Section 45-IA(6) of the 1934 Act and penal action be not initiated against the writ petitioner for offences punishable under Section 58 of the 1934 Act.

13. The writ petitioner submitted his reply within the time permitted in which, he accepted the fact that he has not complied with the requirement of NOF of 200 lakhs of rupees before April 1, 2017. The writ petitioner stated that his business has been affected due to the inconsistent State Government policies towards Vikram and auto permits in Lucknow, as a result the non-performing assets increased, and the Courts have failed in providing timely justice which may have helped the company recover its outstanding dues. Accordingly, he sought for withdrawal of the show cause notice. The respondents passed an order dated 30.10.2018 rejecting the reply given by the writ petitioner as not being satisfactory and also having violated the statutory provisions contained in Section 45-M of the 1934 Act, cancelled the CoR in terms of Section 45- IA(6) of the 1934 Act.

14. To consider the submissions of the writ petitioner, we need to refer to Section 45-IA of 1934 Act which is as follows:-

"45-IA. Requirement of registration and net owned fund.-

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Chapter or in any other law for the time being in force, no non-banking financial company shall commence or carry on the business of a non-banking financial institution without-

(a) obtaining a certificate of registration issued under this Chapter; and

(b) having the net owned fund of twenty five lakh rupees or such other amount, not exceeding two hundred lakhs, as the bank may, be notification in the Official Gazette, specify.

(2) Every non-banking financial company shall make an application for registration to the bank in such form as the bank may specify:

Provided that a non-banking financial company in existence on the commencement of the Reserve Bank of India (Amendment) Act, 1997 shall make an application for registration to the bank before the expiry of six months from such commencement and notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1) may continue to carry on the business of a non-banking financial institution until a certificate of registration is issued to it or rejection of application for registration is communicated to it.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub- section (1), a non-banking financial company in existence on the commencement of theReserve Bank of India (Amendment) Act, 1997 and having a net owned fund of less than twenty five lakh rupees may, for the purpose of enabling such company to fulfill the requirement of thenet owned fund, continue to carry on the business of a non-banking financial institution-

(i) for a period of three years from such commencement; or

(ii) for such further period as the bank may, after recording the reasons in writing for so doing, extend, subject to the condition that such company shall, within three months of fulfilling the requirement of the net owned fund, inform the bank about such fulfilment:

Provided that the period allowed to continue business under this sub-section shall in no case exceed six years in the aggregate.

(4) The Bank may, for the purpose of considering the application for registration, require to be satisfied by an inspection of the books of the non-banking financial company or otherwise that the following conditions are fulfilled:-

(a) that the non-banking financial company is or shall be in a position to pay its present or future depositors in full as and when their claims accrue;

(b) that the affairs of the non-banking financial company are not being or are not likely to be conducted in a manner detrimental to the interest of its present or future depositors;

(c) that the general character of the management or the proposed management of the non-banking financial company shall not be prejudicial to the public interest or the interests of its depositors;

(d) that the non-banking financial company has adequate capital structure and earning prospects;

(e) that the public interest shall be served by the grant of certificate of registration to the non-banking financial company to commence or to carry on the business in India;

(f) that the grant of certificate of registration shall not be prejudicial to the operation and consolidation of the financial sector consistent with monetary stability and economic growth considering such other relevant factors which the bank may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify; and

(g) any other condition, fulfilment of which in the opinion of the bank, shall be necessary to ensure that the commencement of or carrying on of the business in India by a non-banking financial company shall not be prejudicial to the public interest or in the interest of the depositors.

(5) The Bank may, after being satisfied that the conditions specified in sub-section (4) are fulfilled, grant a certificate of registration subject to such conditions which it may consider fit to impose.

(6) The Bank may cancel a certificate of registration granted to a non-banking financial company under this section if such company-

(i) ceases to carry on the business of a non-banking financial institution in India; or

(ii) has failed to comply with any condition subject to which the certificate of registration had been issued to it; or

(iii) at any time fails to fulfil any of the conditions referred to in clauses (a) to (g) of sub-section (4); or

(iv) fails-

(a) to comply with any direction issued by the bank under the provisions of this Chapter; or

(b) to maintain accounts in accordance with the requirements of any law or any direction or order issued by the bank under the provisions of this Chapter; or

(c) to submit or offer for inspection its books of accounts and other relevant documents when so demanded by an inspecting authority of the bank; or

(v) has been prohibited from accepting deposit by an order made by the bank under the provisions of this Chapter and such order has been in force for a period of not less than three months:

Provided that before cancelling a certificate of registration on the ground that the non-banking financial company has failed to comply with the provisions of clause (ii) or has failed to fulfil any of the conditions referred to in clause (iii) the bank, unless it is of the opinion that the delay in cancelling the certificate of registration shall be prejudicial to public interest or the interest of the depositors or the non-banking financial company, shall give an opportunity to such company on such terms as the bank may specify for taking necessary steps to comply with such provisions or fulfilment of such condition:

Provided further that before making any order of cancellation of certificate of registration, such company shall be given a reasonable opportunity of being heard"

15. The 1934 Act was enacted to constitute the Reserve Bank of India to regulate the issue of bank notes and keeping of reserves of the view of securing monetary stability in the country and generally operate the currency and credit of the country to its advantage. The Reserve Bank of India being an expert body with regard to operation of the credit system for securing monetary stability in the country and it is expected to take decisions by taking into consideration all the relevant aspects, laws and the policies of the government, and in this regard there is very little scope of judicial intervention.

16. The notification dated 27/03/15 was issued by the Reserve Bank of India, Department of Non-banking Regulation, Central Office, Mumbai, which provided that a non-banking financial company holding a certificate of registration issued by reserve bank of India and having net owned fund of less than 200 lakh of rupees, may continue to carry on business of non-banking financial institution, if such company achieved net owned fund of:-

(i) 100 lakh of rupees before 01/04/16

(ii) 200 lakh of rupees before 01/04/17.

17. The petitioner's have candidly admitted that he has not fulfilled the NOF requirement before the cut-off dates as prescribed in the aforesaid notification, and in terms of provisions contained in Section 45-IA (6) of the 1934 Act has cancelled the registration on the ground that the petitioner has failed to comply with the directions issued by the bank.

18. The impugned order rejecting the appeal of the petitioner has been mainly assailed on the ground that he was not provided with an opportunity of personal hearing before passing of the impugned order and, therefore, the same is liable to be set aside score alone. The notification dated 27/03/15 itself provided that the petitioner was to achieve the NOF of 100 lakh of rupees before 01/04/16 and 200 lakh of Rupees before 01/04/17 which was admittedly not achieved by him. The petitioner submitted a reply in response to the show cause notice on 20/06/18. The reply submitted by the Company was duly considered by the Reserve Bank of India and the same is not found to be satisfactory and, therefore, by means of the order dated 30/10/18, the certificate of registration dated 21/09/07 was cancelled after recording a finding that the company is not eligible to continue to carry on the business of a non-banking financial institution on account of its failure to comply with the directions of the reserve bank as regard achievement of specified NOF, and it was further recorded that the bank is satisfied that no public interest will be served in allowing the company to continue to undertake the business of the non-banking financial institution.

19. The petitioner preferred an appeal against the aforesaid order to the Central Government assailing the order of cancellation of registration on the ground that the same having been passed in violation of principles of natural Justice, that it vague in as much as it did not specify the provisions which had not been complied by the petitioner, and also that the petitioner had a concrete plan for raising its NOF.

20. The Central Government by means of the impugned order dated 20/10/18 has rejected the appeal after considering the grounds stated by the petitioner in the appeal. Before the appellate authority, the petitioner was granted an opportunity of hearing to present his case. The appellate authority while rejecting the appeal of the petitioner relied upon the notification dated 27/03/15, and held that the petitioner had failed to achieve the prescribed ceiling within the stipulated time period and, therefore, he is not eligible to hold the certificate of registration as NBFC.

21. With regard to the contention of the petitioner that he was not afforded an opportunity of hearing before cancellation of the registration, it was held that the petitioner was granted reasonable opportunity of being heard before cancellation of the registration and that by means of notification dated 27/03/15, he was advised to submit plans for increasing the NOF to the prescribed level, but the NOF was only 88.89 lakhs as on 31/03/15 and ample opportunity was provided to him to raise the NOF and the ground taken by the petitioner with regard to the inconsistent policy on the autos as well as other hardship would not be a reason for not following the statutory requirement of doing business. It was also held that the reasonable opportunity of being heard does not necessarily mean an opportunity of personal hearing.

22. It is clear that a show was notice was issued to the petitioner before cancellation of the registration and it was indicated in the show cause notice that the petitioner has not achieved the NOF within the stipulated period prescribed in the notification of 2015. The reply submitted by the petitioner was duly considered. It cannot be said that no opportunity of hearing was given to the petitioner.

23. To consider the contention of the petitioner that it was mandatory to provide opportunity of personal hearing, it would be necessary to consider the pronouncements of the Apex Court in this regard.

24. In Ashok Kumar Sonkar vs Union Of India & Others : (2007) 4 SCC 54, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed:-

"In P.D. Agrawal v. State Bank of India and Others[(2006) 8 SCC 776], this Court observed :

"The Principles ofnaturaljusticecannot be put in astraightjacketformula. It must be seen in circumstantial flexibility. It has separate facets. It has in recent time also undergone a sea change."

It was further observed :

"Decision of this Court in S.L. Kapoor vs. Jagmohan & Ors. [(1980) 4 SCC 379], whereupon Mr. Rao placed strong reliance to contend that non-observance of principle of natural justice itself causes prejudice or the same should not be read "as it causes difficulty of prejudice", cannot be said to be applicable in the instant case. The principles of natural justice, as noticed hereinbefore, has undergone a sea change. In view of the decision of this Court inState Bank of Patiala & Ors. vs. S.K. Sharma[(1996) 3 SCC 364] and Rajendra Singh vs. State of M.P. [(1996) 5 SCC 460], the principle of law is that some real prejudice must have been caused to the complainant. The Court has shifted from its earlier concept that even a small violation shall result in the order being rendered a nullity. To the principal doctrine of audi alterem partem, a clear distinction has been laid down between the cases where there was no hearing at all and the cases where there was mere technical infringement of the principal. The Court applies the principles ofnaturaljusticehaving regard to the fact situation obtaining in each case. It is not applied in a vacuum without reference to the relevant facts and circumstances of the case. It is no unruly horse. It cannot be put in a straightjacket formula. [See Viveka Nand Sethi vs. Chairman, J. & K. Bank Ltd. & Ots. (2005) 5 SCC 337 and State of U.P. vs. Neeraj Awasthi & Ors. JT2006

(1) SC 19. See also Mohd. Sartaj vs. State of U.P. (2006) 1 SCALE 265.]"

25. In the case of Arcot Textile Mills Ltd vs Reg. Provident Fund Commissioner : (2013) 16 SCC 1, it was observed by the Apex Court :-

"25. We may state with profit that principles of natural justice should neither be treated with absolute rigidity nor should they be imprisoned in a straight-jacket. It has been held in Ajit Kumar Nag v. General Manager (PJ), Indian Oil Corpn. Ltd., Haldia and Others*[14] that the maxim audi alteram partem cannot be invoked if the import of such maxim would have the effect of paralyzing the administrative process or where the need for promptitude or the urgency so demands. It has been stated therein that the approach of the Court in dealing with such cases should be pragmatic rather than pedantic, realistic rather than doctrinaire, functional rather than formal and practical rather than precedential. The concept of natural justice sometimes requires flexibility in the application of the rule. What is required to be seen the ultimate weighing on the balance of fairness. The requirements of natural justice depend upon the circumstances of the case.*

26. In Natwar Singh v. Director of Enforcement and Another[15], this Court while discussing about the applicability of the rule had reproduced the following passage:-

"It is not possible to lay down rigid rules as to when the principles of natural justice are to apply: nor as to their scope and extent. Everything depends on the subject-matter:" [see R. v. Gaming Board for Great Britain, ex p Benaim and Khaida[16] at QB p. 430 C], observed Lord Denning, M.R.

... Their application, resting as it does upon statutory implication, must always be in conformity with the scheme of the Act and with the subject-matter of the case."

27. In this context, we may fruitfully refer to the verdict in Kesar Enterprises Limited v. State of Uttar Praesh and Others[17] wherein the Court was considering the applicability of principles of natural justice to Rule 633(7) of the Uttar Pradesh Excise Manual. The said Rule provided that if certificate was not received within the time mentioned in the bond or pass, or if the condition of bond was infringed, the Collector of the exporting district or the Excise Inspector who granted the pass shall take necessary steps to recover from executant or his surety the penalty due under the bond. A two- Judge Bench referred to the decisions in Swadeshi Cotton Mills v. Union of India[18], Canara Bank v. V.K. Awasthy[19] and Sahara India (Firm) v. CIT[20] and came to hold as follows:-

"30. ... we are of the opinion that keeping in view the nature, scope and consequences of direction under sub-rule (7) of Rule 633 of the Excise Manual, the principles of natural justice demand that a show- cause notice should be issued and an opportunity of hearing should be afforded to the person concerned before an order under the said Rule is made, notwithstanding the fact that the said Rule does not contain any express provision for the affected party being given an opportunity of being heard."

28. Regard being had to the discussions made and the law stated in the field, we are of the considered opinion that natural justice has many facets. Sometimes, the said doctrine applied in a broad way, sometimes in a limited or narrow manner. Therefore, there has to be a limited enquiry only to the realm of computation which is statutorily provided regard being had to the range of delay. Beyond that nothing is permissible. We are disposed to think so, for when an independent order is passed making a demand, the employer cannot be totally remediless and would have no right even to file an objection pertaining to computation. Hence, we hold that an objection can be filed challenging the computation in a limited spectrum which shall be dealt with in a summary manner by the Competent Authority."

26. Applying the principles enunciated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court with regard to principles of natural Justice, it is clear that Section 45-IA(6)(v) 1934 Act provides for cancellation of certificate of registration after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

27. In the facts of the present case, it has been admitted that the petitioner did not comply with the requirement of the end NOF before the cut-off date of April 1 2017. This is not a case where if opportunity of personal hearing was afforded to the petitioner they could have pleaded before the authority about the reasons for non-compliance of the notification of 2015, and in our considered opinion in the present set of circumstances, no useful purpose would have been served in providing an opportunity of personal hearing to the petitioner, taking into account the fact that he has already admitted that he did not comply with the notification of 2015. The business of the petitioner is subject to obtaining a licence from the reserve bank of India after fulfilling certain conditions prescribed by the Bank from time to time. The petitioner is under a duty to comply with the directions of the reserve bank as provided in section 45IA of 1934 Act, and the statute itself mandates that in case the direction are not complied then the registration is liable to be cancelled, and that there is no escape from the statutory provisions. It is further needless to say that the petitioner does not have a right to carry on the business of non-banking finance company without complying with the directions of the Reserve Bank of India. We further take into account the fact that it has not been argued or submitted by the petitioner that they suffered any prejudice on being denied opportunity of personal hearing, and therefore sufficient opportunity of hearing was provided to them by putting them under notice and considering the reply before proceeding to cancel their registration.

28. Hon'ble Supreme Court inVillianur Iyarkkai Padukappu Maiyam vs. Union of Indiareported in (2009) 7 SCC 561 held that in the matter of policy decision and economic tests, the scope of judicial review is very limited. Unless the decision is shown to be contrary to any statutory provision or the Constitution, the Court would not interfere with an economic decision taken by the State. The Court cannot examine the relative merits of different economic policies and cannot strike down the same merely on the ground that another policy would have been fairer and better. It was further held that it is neither within the domain of the Courts, nor the scope of judicial review to embark upon an enquiry as to whether a particular public policy is wise or whether better public policy can be evolved, nor are the Courts inclined to strike down a policy at the behest of a petitioner merely because it has been urged that a different policy would have been fairer or wiser or more scientific or more logical. Wisdom and advisability of economic policy are ordinarily not amenable to judicial review. In matters relating to economic issues the Government has, while taking a decision, right to "trial and error" as long as both trial and error are bona fide and within the limits of the authority. For testing the correctness of a policy, the appropriate forum is Parliament and not the Courts.

29. After considering the facts of the case as well as the principles enunciated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, we are of the opinion that principles of natural justice was complied by the Bank by giving a show cause notice and considering the reply of petitioner before cancelling the registration. The impugned order cannot be set-aside on the ground of the same having been passed in violation of principles of natural justice. Apart from this, the petitioner has failed to indicates as to how he was prejudicial in not being afforded an opportunity of personal hearing. We do not find any merit in the contention of the petitioner in this regard.

30. For the reasons stated herein above, we are of the considered view that there is no infirmity in the appellate order dated 26/08/19 and the order of cancellation of registration dated 30/10/18.

31. The petition being devoid of merits is hereby dismissed. No order as to costs.

A. Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 245 - CJM u/s 245 Cr.P.C dropped Section 452 IPC, though offences punishable u/s 323, 504, 506 IPC were prima facie present - In revision Sessions Judge held that by framing charge under Section 452 of IPC, no loss will be caused to the applicants - Held - Ingress & trespass was said by the complainant in his own portion of premises where he was residing and on the basis of it, direction was given by the learned Sessions Judge.

Matter Under Article 227 dismissed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This Application, under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, has been filed by the Applicants, Mahesh Kumar, Suresh Kumar and Rudresh, against State of U.P. and Dinesh Kumar Agrawal, with a prayer for setting aside impugned order, dated 18.4.2016, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Sant Kabir Nagar, in Criminal Revision, filed against the order of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sant Kabir Nagar, dated 15.3.2016, passed in Complaint Case No. 2190 of 2010, Dinesh Kumar Agrawal vs. Mahesh Kumar and others.

2. Learned counsel for applicants argued that the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sant Kabir Nagar, in Complaint Case No.

2190 of 2010, while deciding Application, moved, under Section 245 of Cr.P.C., held that offence, punishable under Section 452 of Indian Penal Code (IPC), was not made out, at the stage of evidence, recorded, under Section 244 of Cr.P.C., though offences, punishable, under Sections 323, 504, 506 of IPC were prima facie present. Hence, offence, under Section 452 of IPC was dropped. Against this order of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sant Kabir Nagar, Criminal Revision was preferred by complaint, Dinesh Kmar Agrawal, wherein, learned Sessions Judge, Sant Kabir Nagar, admitted revision, relying upon version of Opposite party no.2, and came to conclusion that by framing charge under Section 452 of IPC, no loss will be caused to the applicants. Thus, directed for framing of charge by Chief Judicial Magistrate. Against this order, passed in revision, this Application, for invoking jurisdiction of superintendence of the High Court, over subordinate courts, regarding misuse of process of law, has been moved, under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

3. Learned AGA, representing State of U.P., has vehemently opposed this Application.

4. Heard learned counsel for both sides and gone through the impugned order as well as materials placed on record.

5. From very perusal of impugned order, dated 18.4.2016 of Sessions Judge, Sant Kabir Nagar, it is apparent that statement of complainant, PW-1, recorded under Section 244 of Cr.P.C., on 3.3.2016, was entered in it, wherein, complainant has admitted that complainant, Dinesh Kumar Agrawal and present applicants, Mahesh Kumar, Suresh Kumar and Rudresh are real brothers. All of them were residing in a single premises, side by side, after partition amongst themselves, though no separate house number was yet allotted and on the basis of this statement, offence of criminal trespass, punishable, under Section 452 of Cr.P.C. was held to be not made out by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sant Kabir Nagar, but his finding has not been changed by learned Sessions Judge, rather a direction for decision at the time of judicial decision making, regarding offence, punishable under Section 452 of IPC, was given.

6. No doubt, complainant and three accused persons were residing in one and common premises, but it was specifically said that there had been a mutual partition in that premises, but no separate house number was allotted, but ingress and trespass was said by the complainant in his own portion of premises where he was residing and on the basis of it, direction was given by the learned Sessions Judge. Hence, there remains nothing illegal or irregular in the order of the learned Sessions Judge. More so, accused persons are having opportunity to make cross-examination of witnesses of prosecution on this point and it is a question of fact to be seen by the Trial court on the basis of evidence led before it. Hence, there remains nothing for any indulgence to be granted by this Court, in exercises of power of superintendence, over subordinate court, vested in the High Court, by way of Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

7. Accordingly, this proceeding, being devoid of merits, stands dismissed, but with a direction to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sant Kabir Nagar that, while recording his finding, he will not be influenced, either by the findings of learned Sessions Judge or observations made by this Court, hereinabove, in this order. Judicial decision making shall be taken on the basis of evidence led before the Magistrate.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Bashir Ahmad Khan, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Ravi Agrawal alongwith Sri Rakesh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The present petition has been filed seeking a prayer to set aside the order dated 24.11.2018 passed by the Civil Judge (Junior Division)-I, Hapur in Original Suit No.199 of 2017 (Sanjeev Kumar & Ors. Vs. Siraj Ahmad & Ors.) whereby the application (Paper No.90Ga) filed by the petitioners under Order VII Rule 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 19081 has been rejected.

3. The petitioners also seek to assail the order dated 23.07.2019 passed by the District Judge, Hapur in Civil Revision No.75 of 2018 (Siraj Ahmad & Ors. Vs. Sanjeev Kumar & Ors.) in terms of which the order rejecting the application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC has been affirmed.

4. The only ground which has been sought to be canvased on behalf of the petitioners to support their claim for rejection of plaint under Order VII Rule 11 CPC is by placing reliance upon Section 85 of the Waqf Act, 19952 to contend that the property in question being a waqf property the jurisdiction of the civil court would be barred.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents has supported the orders passed by the courts b0…….elow by submitting that no material was placed on record by the petitioners to support their claim that the property in question is a waqf property. It has further been submitted that there was no material to show that the property was included in the list of auqaf published under the Act, 1995 and the claim of the petitioners which was based merely on certain revenue entries could not be accepted.

6. In order to examine the rival contentions the scope of the provisions under Order VII Rule 11 CPC is required to be considered and it has also to be seen as to whether, in the facts of the case the jurisdiction of the civil court would be barred in view of the provisions contained under Section 85 of the Act, 1995.

7. Section 9 CPC enables any person, as a matter of right, to file a suit of a civil nature excepting those, the cognizance whereof is either expressly or impliedly barred.

8. The two conditions which are required to be fulfilled for a civil court to have jurisdiction are; (a) the suit must be of a civil nature; and (b) the cognizance of such a suit should not have been expressly or impliedly barred.

9. The expression "civil nature" and the scope of jurisdiction of a civil court under Section 9 CPC was considered in the case of Most Rev. P.M.A. Metropolitan & Ors. Vs. Moran Mar Marthoma & Anr.3, and it was held as follows:-

"28. ...The expansive nature of the section is demonstrated by use of phraseology both positive and negative. The earlier part opens the door widely and latter debars entry to only those which are expressly or impliedly barred. The two explanations, one existing from inception and latter added in 1976 bring out clearly the legislative intention of extending operation of the section to such religious matters where right to property or office is involved irrespective of whether any fee is attached to the office or not. The language used is simple but explicit and clear. It is structured on the basic principle of a civilised jurisprudence that absence of machinery for enforcement of right renders it nugatory. The heading which is normally key to the section brings out unequivocally that all civil suits are cognizable unless barred. What is meant by it is explained further by widening the ambit of the section by use of the word 'shall' and the expression, "all suits of a civil nature" unless "expressly or impliedly barred".

29. Each word and expression casts an obligation on the court to exercise jurisdiction for enforcement of right. The word 'shall' makes it mandatory. No court can refuse to entertain a suit if it is of description mentioned in the section. That is amplified by use of expression 'all suits of civil nature'. The word 'civil' according to dictionary means "relating to the citizen as an individual; civil rights". In Black's Legal Dictionary it is defined as "relating to provide rights and remedies sought by civil actions as contrasted with criminal proceedings". In law it is understood as an antonym of criminal. Historically the two broad classifications were civil and criminal. Revenue, tax and company etc. were added to it later. But they too pertain to the larger family of 'civil'. There is thus no doubt about the width of the word 'civil'. Its width has been stretched further by using the word 'nature' along with it. That is even those suits are cognizable which are not only civil but are even of civil nature. In Article 133 of the Constitution an appeal lies to this Court against any judgment, decree or order in a "civil proceeding". This expression came up for construction in S.A.L. Narayan Row v. Ishwarlal Bhagwandas (AIR 1965 SC 1818). The Constitution Bench held "a proceedings for relief against infringement of civil right of a person is a civil proceedings". In Arbind Kumar Singh v. Nand Kishore Prasad (AIR 1968 SC 1227) it was held "to extend to all proceedings which directly affect civil rights". The dictionary meaning of the word 'proceedings' is "the institution of a legal action, any step taken in a legal action". In Black's Law Dictionary it is explained as:

"In a general sense, the form and manner of conducting juridical business before a court or judicial officer. Regular and orderly progress in form of law, including all possible steps in an action from its commencement to the execution of judgment. Term also refers to administrative proceedings before agencies, tribunals, bureaus, or the like."

The word 'nature' has been defined as "the fundamental qualities of a person or thing; identity or essential character; sort; kind; character". It is thus wider in content. The word 'civil nature' is wider than the word "civil proceeding". The section would, therefore, be available in every case where the dispute has the characteristic of affecting one's rights which are not only civil but of civil nature."

10. A litigant having grievance of a civil nature thus has a right to institute a suit in a civil court unless its cognizance is either expressly or impliedly barred. In Dhulabhai Vs. State of M.P.4 it was held that the exclusion of the jurisdiction of civil court is not to be readily inferred and such exclusion must be clear.

11. Reference may also be had to the judgment in the case of Secretary of State Vs. Mask & Company5 which is the leading decision on the point that exclusion of jurisdiction of civil courts is not to be readily inferred but that such exclusion must either be explicitly expressed or clearly implied. The observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"...It is settled law that the exclusion of the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts is not to be readily inferred, but that such exclusion must either be explicitly expressed or clearly implied. It is also well settled that even if jurisdiction is so excluded, the Civil Courts have jurisdiction to examine into cases where the provisions of the Act have not been complied with, or the statutory tribunal has not acted in conformity with the fundamental principles of judicial procedure…"

12. The aforementioned legal position was reiterated in Firm Seth Radha Kishan (Deceased) represented by Hari Kishan Vs. the Administrator, Municipal Committee, Ludhiana6 wherein it was stated that at the mere conferment of special jurisdiction on a tribunal in respect of any matter does not itself exclude the jurisdiction of civil courts. The observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"7. Under S. 9 of the Code of Civil Procedure the Court shall have jurisdiction to try all suits of civil nature excepting suits of which cognizance is either expressly or impliedly barred. A statute, therefore, expressly or by necessary implication, can bar the jurisdiction of civil Courts in respect of a particular matter. The mere conferment of special jurisdiction on a tribunal in respect of the said matter does not in itself exclude the jurisdiction of civil Courts. The statute may specifically provide for ousting the jurisdiction of civil Courts; even if there was no such specific exclusion, if it creates a liability not existing before and gives a special and particular remedy for the aggrieved party, the remedy provided by it must be followed. The same principle would apply if the statute had provided for the particular forum in which the said remedy could be had. Even in such cases, the Civil Court's jurisdiction is not completely ousted. A suit in a civil Court will always lie to question the order of a tribunal created by a statute, even if its order is, expressly or by necessary implication, made final, if the said tribunal abuses its power or does not act under the Act but in violation of its provisions."

13. The inherent right in every person to bring a suit of civil nature unless the same is barred by statute was emphasised in the case of Smt. Ganga Bai Vs. Vijay Kumar & Ors.7, in the following words:-

"15. ...There is an inherent right in every person to bring suit of a civil nature and unless the suit is barred by statute one may, at one's peril, bring a suit of one's choice. It is no answer to a suit, howsoever frivolous the claim, that the law confers no such right to sue. A suit for its maintainability requires no authority of law and it is enough that no statute bars the suit…"

14. A similar view was taken in the case of Dhannalal Vs. Kalawatibai & Ors.8 wherein it was stated that plaintiff is dominus litis and it is for him to choose the forum unless there be a rule of law excluding access to the said forum. The observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"23. Plaintiff is dominus litis, that is, master of, or having dominion over, the case. He is the person who has carriage and control of an action. In case of conflict of jurisdiction the choice ought to lie with the plaintiff to choose the forum best suited to him unless there be a rule of law excluding access to a forum of the plaintiff's choice or permitting recourse to a forum will be opposed to public policy or will be an abuse of the process of law."

15. In the case at hand the plea which has been sought to be raised on behalf of the petitioners for rejection of plaint under Order VII Rule 11 CPC is based on the contention that the suit property having been shown in the revenue records as a "kabristan" (graveyard) as a consequence the same would be a waqf property and in view of the bar under Section 85 of the Act, 1995 the jurisdiction of the civil court would be barred.

16. In order to appreciate the aforementioned contention the provision contained under Section 85 may be adverted to. For ease of reference Section 85 is being reproduced below:-

"85. Bar of jurisdiction of civil courts.--No suit or other legal proceeding shall lie in any civil court, revenue court and any other authority in respect of any dispute, question or other matter relating to any wakf, waqf property or other matter which is required by or under this Act to be determined by a Tribunal."

17. The expression "waqf" has been defined under Section 3(r) of the Act, 1995, and the same is extracted below:-

"3. Definitions.--In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires,-- x x x x x

(r) "waqf" means the permanent dedication by any person, of any movable or immovable property for any purpose recognised by the Muslim law as pious, religious or charitable and includes--

(i) a waqf by user but such waqf shall not cease to be a waqf by reason only of the user having ceased irrespective of the period of such cesser;

(ii) a Shamlat Patti, Shamlat Deh, Jumla Malkkan or by any other name entered in a revenue record;

(iii) "grants", including mashrut-ul-khidmat for any purpose recognised by the Muslim law as pious, religious or charitable; and

(iv) a waqf-alal-aulad to the extent to which the property is dedicated for any purpose recognised by Muslim law as pious, religious or charitable, provided when the line of succession fails, the income of the waqf shall be spent for education, development, welfare and such other purposes as recognised by Muslim law, and "waqif" means any person making such dedication;"

18. Section 5 of the Act, 1995 provides for publication of list of auqaf in the Official Gazette, which reads as follows:-

"5. Publication of list of auqaf.--(1) On receipt of a report under sub-section (3) of section 4, the State Government shall forward a copy of the same to the Board.

(2) The Board shall examine the report forwarded to it under sub-section (1) and forward it back to the Government within a period of six months for publication in the Official Gazette a list of Sunni auqaf or Shia auqaf in the State, whether in existence at the commencement of this Act or coming into existence thereafter, to which the report relates, and containing such other particulars as may be prescribed.

(3) The revenue authorities shall--

(i) include the list of auqaf referred to in sub-section (2), while updating the land records; and

(ii) take into consideration the list of auqaf referred to in sub-section (2), while deciding mutation in the land records.

(4) The State Government shall maintain a record of the lists published under sub-section (2) from time to time."

19. In terms of Section 36 of the Act, 1995 every waqf whether created before or after commencement of the Waqf Act, 1995 is required to be registered at the office of the Waqf Board9, and in terms of sub-section (8) thereof every application for registration of waqf is required to be made within three months from the date of; (a) commencement of the Act, 1995, (b) the creation of the waqf, (c) the establishment of the Board, as the case may be. The relevant provisions in this regard are being extracted below:-

"36. Registration.--(1) Every waqf, whether created before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be registered at the office of the Board.

x x x x x

(8) In the case of auqaf created before the commencement of this Act, every application for registration shall be made, within three months from such commencement and in the case of auqaf created after such commencement, within three months from the date of the creation of the waqf:

Provided that where there is no Board at the time of creation of a waqf, such application will be made within three months from the date of establishment of the Board.

Comments: Registration of every waqf at the office of the Board is a sine qua non to its valid creation. Every application for registration of waqf shall be made within three months from the date of (a) the commencement of this Act, (b) the creation of the waqf, (c) the establishment of the Board, as the case may be."

20. A plain reading of the provisions under Section 36 lead to the inference that registration of every waqf at the office of the Board is a sine qua non to its valid creation.

21. The Act, 1995 provides for publication of the list of auqaf under Section 5 after receipt of a report of survey under sub-section (3) of Section 4 and it is also enjoined upon the Revenue Authorities to include the list of auqaf published in the Official Gazette, while updating the land records.

22. The courts below have recorded that the petitioners have not been able to place any material on record that the property in question, which according to them was entered in revenue records, as "kabristan", was a waqf property, as per the requirement under the Act, 1995, by way of its inclusion in the list of auqaf which is required to be published in the Official Gazette or by way of its registration as a waqf before the Board.

23. As regards the reliance sought to be placed on certain revenue entries wherein the property is stated to be entered as "kabristan" this Court may take into consideration that it is settled law that the revenue records do not confer title and even if the entries in the record of rights may be held to carry value that by itself would not confer any title upon the person claiming on the basis of the same.

24. The Supreme Court in Guru Amarjit Singh Vs. Rattan Chand & Ors.10 held that entry in revenue records are not proof of title, and it was stated as follows:-

"2. ...It is settled law that entries in the Jamabandi are not proof of title.

They are only statements for revenue purpose. It is for the parties to establish the relationship or title to the property unless there is unequivocal admission…"

25. A similar position was reiterated in Jattu Ram Vs. Hakam Singh11, and it was held as follows:-

"3. ...The sole entry on which the appellate court placed implicit reliance is by the Patwari in Jamabandi. It is settled law that the Jamabandi entries are only for fiscal purpose and they create no title…"

26. In Union of India & Ors. Vs. Vasavi Cooperative Housing Society Limited & Ors.12 the same legal position has again been stated in the following terms:-

"21. This Court in several judgments has held that the revenue records do not confer title. In Corpn. of the City of Bangalore v. M. Papaiah (1989) 3 SCC 612 this Court held that: (SCC p. 615, para 5)

"5. ...It is firmly established that the revenue records are not documents of title, and the question of interpretation of a document not being a document of title is not a question of law."

In Guru Amarjit Singh v. Rattan Chand (1993) 4 SCC 349 this Court has held that: (SCC p. 352, para 2)

"2. ...that entries in the Jamabandi are not proof of title."

In State of H.P. v. Keshav Ram (1996) 11 SCC 257 this Court held that: (SCC p. 259, para 5)

"5. ...an entry in the revenue papers by no stretch of imagination can form the basis for declaration of title in favour of the plaintiffs."

27. This Court may also take notice of the fact that the Act, 1995 has been enacted to provide for the better administration of auqaf for the matters connected therewith or incidental thereto, and as per Section 85, the bar of jurisdiction of the civil courts is in respect of any dispute, question or other matter relating to any waqf, waqf property or other matter which is required by or under the Act, 1995 to be determined by a Tribunal, therefore, it is only those matters which are required by or under the Act, 1995 to be determined by a Tribunal that the bar under Section 85 would apply. It is also seen from the scheme of the Act, 1995 that the jurisdiction of the civil courts is not completely ousted.

28. A similar plea with regard to the ouster of jurisdiction of civil courts in view of the provision contained under Section 85 of the Act, 1995 was considered in the case of Sayed Ekram Saha & Ors. Vs. Debendra Kumar Pati & Ors.13 and the said contention was repelled after taking notice of the fact that no material was placed on record to establish that the property involved in the suit was enlisted property in the list of auqaf prepared under the Act, 1995. The relevant observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"6. A whole reading of the aforesaid provisions makes it clear that first of all the property must be a auqaf property finds place in the list prepared following section 5 of the Act based on the preliminary survey following the provisions contained in Section 4 of the Act and in the event any dispute regarding the status of such property under the list, the Tribunal constituted under the Act has been given power to decide such matters.

So far as provision under Section 81(5) is concerned, it also leaves no doubt that the Tribunals have the same power like the Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure while trying a suit or executing a decree or order. Taking into consideration the claim of Sri Nayak, learned counsel that Civil Court has all powers to decide the dispute even involving waqf property has no force. Power given under Section 83 (5) of the Act is limited to the extent following the powers of Civil Court following the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to trial of a suit or executing a decree or order and nothing beyond that. Looking to the claim of Sri Nayak, learned counsel for the petitioner, this Court finds even though the petitioners claimed in the court below that the property being waqf property, a civil suit is barred under Section 85 of the Act, but for no material to establish that the property involved in the suit is enlisted property involving the list of Waqf or auqafs as prepared under Sections 4 and 5 of the Act, a civil suit at this stage is not barred…"

29. The jurisdiction of civil court is plenary in nature and unless the same is ousted expressly or by necessary implication, it will have jurisdiction to try all types of suits. The ouster of jurisdiction, it is well settled, cannot be inferred readily and onus lies on the person asserting the ouster and vesting of jurisdiction in some other court, tribunal or authority. Section 9 CPC enables any person, as of right, to file a suit of civil nature excepting those, the cognizance whereof is expressly or by necessary implication barred.

30. Order VII Rule 11(d) CPC is one of such provisions which provides for rejection of plaint, if it is barred by any law. The provision therein being in the nature of an exception the same must be strictly construed and the embargo thereunder to the maintainability of the suit must be apparent from the averments in the plaint.

31. The courts below having recorded findings to the effect that no material was placed on record by the petitioner to show that the suit property is a waqf or a waqf property or relates to any other matter which is required to be determined by a Tribunal constituted under the Act, 1995, the bar under Section 85 whereunder the jurisdiction of civil courts is ousted, has rightly been held to be not attracted and in view of the same the application of the petitioners for rejection of the plaint has been turned down. The orders passed by the courts below therefore cannot be faulted with.

32. This Court may also take notice of the fact that the power of superintendence conferred under Article 227, is to be exercised most sparingly and within the parameters which have been summarized in the case of Shalini Shyam Shetty & Anr. Vs. Rajendra Shankar Patil14, and also in the case of Radhey Shyam & Anr. Vs. Chhabi Nath & Ors.15.

33. Counsel for the petitioners has not been able to point out any material error or illegality in the orders passed by the court below so as to warrant interference in exercise of power under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

34. The petition thus fails and is accordingly dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Abu Bakht, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Shailendra, learned counsel appearing for respondent nos.1 and 2.

2. The present petition has been filed against the order dated 01.05.2018 passed by the Additional District Judge, Court No.8, Kanpur Nagar in Civil Appeal No.139 of 2016 rejecting the amendment application whereby certain amendments had been sought by the petitioner-defendant in his written statement. The petitioner also seeks to assail the order dated 17.09.2019 whereby another amendment application (Application No.132Ga) again seeking certain amendments in the written statement filed by the petitioner-defendant has also been rejected.

3. Contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the amendments in question were necessitated due to the fact that certain legal points came to the knowledge of the counsel of the petitioner-defendant subsequently and since the said points had not been mentioned in the written statement they were necessary and to be raised at the stage of appeal.

4. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent-plaintiffs submits that the original suit which had been filed in the year 2008 had been decreed vide judgment dated 29.05.2015 and thereafter the petitioner-defendant had preferred an appeal in the year 2016 and as such the amendments which are being sought in the written statement at the stage of appeal are only with a view to linger the proceedings and the amendment applications have rightly been rejected.

5. The order dated 01.05.2018 whereby the first amendment application of the petitioner has been rejected takes note of the fact that the amendments which were sought were basically with a view to raise a plea with regard to insufficiency of court fee and that the trial court while deciding the suit had framed a specific issue as to whether the suit was undervalued and there was deficiency of court fee and the said issue had been decided by an order dated 14.10.2010 answering the same in the negative and accordingly it was not necessary for the petitioner to seek an amendment in his written statement raising the issue at the stage of appeal. The court below has however held that the legal submissions on the issue of valuation of the suit and the court fee can be raised by the petitioner at the stage of hearing of the appeal.

6. The order dated 17.09.2019 whereby the second amendment application moved by the petitioner has been rejected takes notice of the fact that an earlier amendment application filed by the petitioner on 28.03.2017 wherein similar amendments had been sought had already been rejected by an order dated 01.05.2018. The court below has also taken note of the fact that the suit had been decreed on 25.05.2015 and during the pendency of the suit no such amendment had been sought by the petitioner-defendant and the filing of the amendment application at the belated stage of appeal was clearly with a view to delay the proceedings and accordingly the same was rejected and the matter was posted for hearing.

7. The rival contentions which fall for consideration relate to the scope of the powers of the Court to allow amendment of pleadings under Order VI Rule 17 of the Civil Procedure Code, 19081.

8. The purpose and object of rules relating to pleadings being to decide the real controversy between the parties and not to punish them for their negligence, the provisions relating to the amendment of pleadings are usually to be liberally construed with a view to promoting the ends of justice and not for defeating them, and consequently the courts generally allow all amendments that may be necessary for determining the real question in controversy between the parties.

9. The proviso to Rule 17 under Order VI, as inserted by the Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act, 20022, however, restricts and curtails the power of the court to allow amendment of pleadings by enacting that no application for amendment is to be allowed after the trial has commenced unless the court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of the trial.

10. The proviso to Rule 17, as per the Amendment Act, 2002, has introduced the "due diligence" test, which requires that the court must be satisfied that in spite of "due diligence" the party could not discover the ground pleaded in the amendment. The term "due diligence" has been specifically used so as to provide a test for determining whether to exercise the discretion in situations where amendment is being sought after commencement of the trial.

11. The object of introducing the proviso to Rule 17 was considered in the case of Chander Kanta Bansal Vs. Rajinder Singh Anand3, and it was held as follows:-

"11. ...The proviso limits the power to allow amendment after the commencement of trial but grants discretion to the court to allow amendment if it feels that the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial in spite of due diligence. It is true that the power to allow amendment should be liberally exercised. The liberal principles which guide the exercise of discretion in allowing the amendment are that multiplicity of proceedings should be avoided, that amendments which do not totally alter the character of an action should be granted, while care should be taken to see that injustice and prejudice of an irremediable character are not inflicted upon the opposite party under pretence of amendment.

12. With a view to shorten the litigation and speed up the trial of cases Rule 17 was omitted by amending Act 46 of 1999. This rule had been on the statute for ages and there was hardly a suit or proceeding where this provision had not been used. That was the reason it evoked much controversy leading to protest all over the country. Thereafter, the Rule was restored in its original form by amending Act 22 of 2002 with a rider in the shape of the proviso limiting the power of amendment to some extent. The new proviso lays down that no application for amendment shall be allowed after the commencement of trial, unless the court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial. But whether a party has acted with due diligence or not would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. This would, to some extent, limit the scope of amendment to pleadings, but would still vest enough powers in courts to deal with the unforeseen situations whenever they arise.

13. The entire object of the said amendment is to stall filing of applications for amending a pleading subsequent to the commencement of trial, to avoid surprises and the parties had sufficient knowledge of the other's case. It also helps in checking the delays in filing the applications. Once, the trial commences on the known pleas, it will be very difficult for any side to reconcile. In spite of the same, an exception is made in the newly inserted proviso where it is shown that in spite of due diligence, he could not raise a plea, it is for the court to consider the same. Therefore, it is not a complete bar nor shuts out entertaining of any later application. As stated earlier, the reason for adding proviso is to curtail delay and expedite hearing of cases.

x x x x x

15. As discussed above, though first part of Rule 17 makes it clear that amendment of pleadings is permitted at any stage of the proceeding, the proviso imposes certain restrictions. It makes it clear that after the commencement of trial, no application for amendment shall be allowed. However, if it is established that in spite of "due diligence" the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial depending on the circumstances, the court is free to order such application.

16. The words "due diligence" has not been defined in the Code. According to Oxford Dictionary (Edition 2006), the word "diligence" means careful and persistent application or effort. "Diligent" means careful and steady in application to one's work and duties, showing care and effort. As per Black's Law Dictionary (18th Edition), "diligence" means a continual effort to accomplish something, care; caution; the attention and care required from a person in a given situation. "Due diligence" means the diligence reasonably expected from, and ordinarily exercised by a person who seeks to satisfy a legal requirement or to discharge an obligation. According to Words and Phrases by Drain-Dyspnea (Permanent Edition 13-A) "due diligence", in law, means doing everything reasonable, not everything possible. "Due diligence" means reasonable diligence; it means such diligence as a prudent man would exercise in the conduct of his own affairs.

17. It is clear that unless the party takes prompt steps, mere action cannot be accepted and file a petition after the commencement of trial.…"

12. The provisions contained under Order VI Rule 17 proviso as introduced in the year 2002 again came up for consideration in the case of J. Samuel Vs. Gattu Mahesh & Ors.4 wherein the principles relating to allowing amendments under Order VI Rule 17 were reiterated and the object of the proviso and the meaning and significance of "due diligence" of the parties seeking amendment was also stated. The observations made in the judgment in this regard as follows:-

"18. The primary aim of the court is to try the case on its merits and ensure that the rule of justice prevails. For this the need is for the true facts of the case to be placed before the court so that the court has access to all the relevant information in coming to its decision. Therefore, at times it is required to permit parties to amend their plaints. The court's discretion to grant permission for a party to amend his pleading lies on two conditions, firstly, no injustice must be done to the other side and secondly, the amendment must be necessary for the purpose of determining the real question in controversy between the parties. However, to balance the interests of the parties in pursuit of doing justice, the proviso has been added which clearly states that:

"...no application for amendment shall be allowed after the trial has commenced, unless the court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial."

19. Due diligence is the idea that reasonable investigation is necessary before certain kinds of relief are requested. Duly diligent efforts are a requirement for a party seeking to use the adjudicatory mechanism to attain an anticipated relief.

An advocate representing someone must engage in due diligence to determine that the representations made are factually accurate and sufficient. The term "due diligence" is specifically used in the Code so as to provide a test for determining whether to exercise the discretion in situations of requested amendment after the commencement of trial.

20. A party requesting a relief stemming out of a claim is required to exercise due diligence and it is a requirement which cannot be dispensed with. The term "due diligence" determines the scope of a party's constructive knowledge, claim and is very critical to the outcome of the suit.

23. ...The entire object of the amendment to Order VI Rule 17 as introduced in 2002 is to stall filing of application for amending a pleading subsequent to the commencement of trial, to avoid surprises and that the parties had sufficient knowledge of other's case. It also helps checking the delays in filing the applications. (Vide Aniglase Yohannan v. Ramlatha (2005) 7 SCC 534, Ajendraprasadji N. Pandey v. Swami Keshavprakeshdasji N. (2006) 12 SCC 1, Chander Kanta Bansal v. Rajinder Singh Anand (2008) 5 SCC 117, Rajkumar Gurawara v. S.K. Sarwagi and Co. (P) Ltd. (2008) 14 SCC 364, Vidyabai v. Padmalatha (2009) 2 SCC 409 : (2009) 1 SCC (Civ) 563 and Man Kaur v. Hartar Singh Sangha (2010) 10 SCC 512 : (2010) 4 SCC (Civ) 239)."

13. Reference may also be had to the judgment in the case of Revajeetu Builders and Developers Vs. Narayanaswami and Sons & Ors.5 wherein some of the important factors which may be kept in mind while dealing with an application filed under Order VI Rule 17 have been enumerated in the following terms:-

"63. On critically analysing both the English and Indian cases, some basic principles emerge which ought to be taken into consideration while allowing or rejecting the application for amendment:

(1) whether the amendment sought is imperative for proper and effective adjudication of the case;

(2) whether the application for amendment is bona fide or mala fide;

(3) the amendment should not cause such prejudice to the other side which cannot be compensated adequately in terms of money;

(4) refusing amendment would in fact lead to injustice or lead to multiple litigation;

(5) whether the proposed amendment constitutionally or fundamentally changes the nature and character of the case; and

(6) as a general rule, the court should decline amendments if a fresh suit on the amended claims would be barred by limitation on the date of application.

These are some of the important factors which may be kept in mind while dealing with application filed under Order 6 Rule 17. These are only illustrative and not exhaustive.

64. The decision on an application made under Order 6 Rule 17 is a very serious judicial exercise and the said exercise should never be undertaken in a casual manner. We can conclude our discussion by observing that while deciding applications for amendments the courts must not refuse bona fide, legitimate, honest and necessary amendments and should never permit mala fide, worthless and/or dishonest amendments."

14. In a recent judgment in the case of M. Revanna Vs. Anjanamma & Ors.6, it has been held that after commencement of trial amendment of pleadings is not permissible except under conditions stated in the proviso and the burden is on the person seeking the amendment after commencement of trial to show "due diligence" on his part as contemplated under the proviso. The relevant observations in the judgment are as follows:-

"7. Leave to amend may be refused if it introduces a totally different, new and inconsistent case, or challenges the fundamental character of the suit. The proviso to Order 6 Rule 17 CPC virtually prevents an application for amendment of pleadings from being allowed after the trial has commenced, unless the court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of the trial. The proviso, to an extent, curtails absolute discretion to allow amendment at any stage. Therefore, the burden is on the person who seeks an amendment after commencement of the trial to show that in spite of due diligence, such an amendment could not have been sought earlier. There cannot be any dispute that an amendment cannot be claimed as a matter of right, and under all circumstances. Though normally amendments are allowed in the pleadings to avoid multiplicity of litigation, the court needs to take into consideration whether the application for amendment is bona fide or mala fide and whether the amendment causes such prejudice to the other side which cannot be compensated adequately in terms of money."

15. A similar view was taken in the case of Vijay Hathising Shah & Anr. Vs. Gitaben Parshottamdas Mukhi & Ors.7 wherein the order passed by the High Court setting aside the order of the Trial Court rejecting the amendment application was held to be unsustainable and the order of the Trial Court was restored. The observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"9. In our view, the trial court was right in rejecting the application. This we say for more than one reason. First, it was wholly belated; second, Respondent 1-plaintiff filed the application for amendment of the plaint when the trial in the suit was almost over and the case was fixed for final arguments; and third, the suit could still be decided even without there being any necessity to seek any amendment in the plaint. In our view, amendment in the plaint was not really required for determination of the issues in the suit."

16. The aforementioned legal position has been reiterated in recent judgments of this Court in Madhaw Asharam Charitable Trust Hanuman Mandir & Anr. Vs. Shri Shamshul Khuda Khan8 and Hari Narayan Vs. Shanti Devi9.

17. In the case at hand the court below upon due consideration of the facts of the case has come to the conclusion that the amendments which were being sought to come at the stage of appeal were not bona fide and the same were only with a view to delay the proceedings.

18. No material has been placed on record on behalf of the petitioner to discharge the burden that in spite of due diligence the amendments which are being sought could not have been sought during the pendency of the proceedings at the stage of trial.

19. This Court may also take notice of the fact that the power of superintendence conferred under Article 227, is to be exercised most sparingly and within the parameters which have been summarized in the case of Shalini Shyam Shetty & Anr. Vs. Rajendra Shankar Patil10, and also in the case of Radhey Shyam & Anr. Vs. Chhabi Nath & Ors.11.

20. Counsel for the petitioner has not been able to point out any material error or illegality in the orders passed by the court below so as to warrant interference in exercise of power under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

21. The petition lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

A. Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 – Section 190 (1) (a) Cr.P.C.- Cognizance – The Court has to make Prima Facie satisfaction on the allegations made in the Complaint-

The correctness of the allegations made in the Complaint and in the statements of the witnesses u/s 200/202 Cr.Pc can only be adjudged on the basis of evidence led during the trial. At the stage of taking cognizance the Magistrate has to see only that a prima facie case is made out on the basis of the Complaint. (Para 10)

B. Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 – Section 190 (1) (a) Cr.P.C- Defence of the accused- Involvement of the person and not of his innocence or any version in defence of the accused is not to be seen.

At the stage of cognizance, court is concerned with the involvement of the person and not of his innocence, therefore any version in defence of the accused is not to be seen and the same has to be adjudicated by the magistrate during the course of the trial. (Para 12)

C.Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 482 – Scope-The High Court is not to appreciate and analyse factual aspect of case because the same is a question of evidence before the trial Court.

What is necessary is to see whether an error is committed by the Magistrate while taking cognizance of the offence on the basis of facts alleged and materials placed before it and the Court cannot look into or appreciate evidence under Section 482 Cr.P.C. (Para 10, 13)

Exercising the extraordinary power of the Court conferred under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the applicant directed to appear before the Court concerned within three weeks from the date certified copy is issued, alongwith his counsel and the learned Court of Magistrate concerned is directed to record his appearance through counsel, without taking him into custody subject to his producing proper bail bonds and sureties to the satisfaction of the Court concerned, on the same day of the appearance. Case law/ Judgements relied upon:-

1. Mohd. Allauddin Khan Vs. St. of Bih.& ors, AIR 2019 SC 1910

2. Arnesh Kumar Vs. St. of Bih.& Anr., (2014) 8 SCC 273

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Kunvar Srivastav, J.)

1. The case is called out.

2. In the revised call of the list, learned counsel Sri S.K. Upadhyay, Advocate appears on behalf of the applicant to press his case. Learned A.G.A. for the State is also present.

3. In the nut shell, the case, as emerging from the materials available on record, seems to have arisen from a matrimonial dispute which is long drawn. The parties to the marriage respectively, the applicant-Ravindra Kumar Yadav and the opposite party no.2-Anita Yadav entered into their marital life by virtue of marriage on 23.04.2000. Thereafter, they fell into dispute and differences in their marital life which resulted into going out of the wife from her matrimonial home. Consequent thereupon, a suit for restitution of conjugal rights was filed by the applicant-husband which was decreed on 28.09.2005 in his favour.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant vehemently press this fact for the reason to show the justification of the complaint filed by the opposite party no.2-wife on 22.04.2006 which is subsequent to decree of restitution of conjugal rights.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant further states that instead of obeying the decree of Conjugal Rights, she (opposite party no.2) remained busy in continuing the dispute on this way or that way and therefore, filed a complaint against the applicant on 27.06.2006 with an allegation that a motor bike was given, by the parents of the complainant in dowry which was fraudulently and deceitfully converted into the name of applicant. As such, she charged him for committing offences under Section 420, 467, 468 and 506 of I.P.C.

6. Learned counsel further argues that in the above context, the statements under Section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. were recorded and the Court took cognizance of offences under Section 420, 467, 468 and 506 of I.P.C. and issued summons vide order dated 20.01.2007.

7. The order sheet reveals that effort of personal service upon opposite party no.2, of notice of the case was repeatedly made but all went in vain. However, from the materials available on record, it becomes clear that the opposite party no.2-the wife is residing in Lucknow separately and also, neither the registered post A.D. nor the processes issued by the Court could be served upon her.

8. Learned A.G.A. for the State is present. The legal issue involved necessary for disposal of application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is to be addressed by him. Therefore, heard the case to decide it finally on merit.

9. The moot question involved in the case is that whether the Court was justified in taking the cognizance of offence under Section 420, 467, 468 and 506 of I.P.C. and the another question that whether the defence, as argued by the learned counsel for the applicant may be taken into consideration for quashing the summoning order at this stage by the High Court in application under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

10. So far as, the power of taking cognizance of the Court is concerned, undoubtedly, the Court has to make prima facie satisfaction as to the allegations made in the complaint and the supporting evidences. The record shows that the complainant has pleaded the factum of marriage with the applicant and presentation of motor bike as gift in the marriage with him. While hearing the revision, it is not disputed on the part of applicant also. So far as the allegations as to changing ownership fraudulently in deceitful manner is concerned, if originally the bike is not in the name of the applicant and if allegation is made that mutation of the name of the applicant is made in place of his wife without her knowledge and consent in the papers namely registration of the vehicle though is to be adjudged on the basis of evidences on establishing it true or false in the course of trial, but that is sufficient for satisfaction of magistrate for taking cognizance of offence to call the accused-applicant for trial. Before holding any allegation as true or discarding the same holding false, what is necessary is to see whether an error is committed by the Magistrate while taking cognizance of the offence on the basis of facts alleged and materials placed before it. It is not necessary to look into or appreciate evidences whether it is contradictory, inconsistent, false or true etc. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in appeal against the order of High Court held in AIR 2019 SC 1910 (Mohd. Allauddin Khan Vs. State of Bihar and others) that the High Court had no jurisdiction to appreciate the evidences of the proceedings under Section 482 Cr.P.C. because where there are contradictions or the inconsistencies in the statements of the witnesses, is essentially an issue relating to appreciation of evidences and the same can be gone into by the Judicial Magistrate during trial, when the entire evidence is adduced by the parties. Para 17 of the judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court quoted hereunder:

"17. In our view, the High Court had no jurisdiction to appreciate the evidence of the proceedings Under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short "Cr.P.C.") because whether there are contradictions or/and inconsistencies in the statements of the witnesses is essentially an issue relating to appreciation of evidence and the same can be gone into by the Judicial Magistrate during trial when the entire evidence is adduced by the parties. That stage is yet to come in this case."

11. All facts of complaint stated before the Court of magistrate supported with applicant statement on oath by the complainant and her witness alongwith the documents relating to the name over the documents relating to bike showing the name of complainant and afterwards the conversion into the name of applicant, is prima facie fulfilling elements of offences charged over the accused-applicant namely under Sections 420, 467 and 468 of the I.P.C., as they are defined in the I.P.C.

12. It is argued by the applicant that all these allegations have arisen out of matrimonial dispute. After the marriage transfer of the name was consented. But this is a defence, it may or may not be consented is to be adjudged by the magistrate, if pursuant to the summon, the applicant who is accused, appears before it and put his said defence alongwith evidences. The Court has to weigh the evidences of both the parties in the light of pending matrimonial dispute, keeping into consideration that the complaint is filed after a decree of restitution of Conjugal Rights. It would be too early to record any finding in this regard by this Court.

13. As such, at this stage, the Court sitting under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is not capable to weigh the evidences put forth or proposed by the applicant under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

14. In view of the above, the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. does not deserve to be allowed for quashing of the summoning order and further proceeding.

15. In criminal law, the accused faces the risk of losing personal liberty. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in an erudite judgment in Arnesh Kumar Vs. State of Bihar and Anr., (2014) 8 SCC 273 expressed a serious concern about the manner in which arrests were being made in matrimonial disputes under Section 498-A of the Indian Penal Code. Directions were given in all states to instruct their police not to mechanically resort the power of arrest under Section 41 of the Cr.P.C. and imply the provision of notice under Section 41-A of the Cr.P.C.

16. In present case, the accused-applicant was summoned after taking cognizance of the offences by the magistrate vide order dated 20.01.2007 fixing a date for his appearance on 08.03.2007. The court passing the summoning order was Special Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, CBI (Ayodhya Prakaran Lucknow) whereas, the case according to the accused, pertains to district Barabanki and thereafter, the proceeding was transferred to Fourth Additional Civil Judge, Junior Division, Room No.36. In the light of the aforesaid facts, the applicant takes the plea of having been mislead thereby. He specifically stated in affidavit para 24 that the order of Summoning has not been served upon the petitioner and as and when it has come into knowledge of the petitioner, he managed the fund and get the copy of the court and the delay in approaching this Hon'ble is neither deliberate nor intentional.

17. The issuance of process by the magistrate after taking cognizance of the offences against the accused is only with a view to procure and ensure the attendance of the accused in trial. In a case, where after a prolonged litigation the parties are in bitter relation between them and the accused-applicant is feared of the coercive processes like arrest and detention into custody, if willing to appear before the Court so as to get the proceeding pending against him, his appearance should be facilitated in the interest of justice.

18. In the present case, the materials on record are sufficient to reveal that the parties by reason of matrimonial dispute arisen just after their marriage in the year 2000, fell into bitter relations with each other. However, a decree of restitution of Conjugal Rights is passed in favour of the applicant, even then instead of getting into the matrimonial life, again the parties are litigating several cases, the present case is one of them.

19. Exercising the extraordinary power of the Court conferred under Section 482 Cr.P.C., this Court directs the applicant to appear before the Court concerned within three weeks from the date certified copy is issued, alongwith his counsel and the learned Court of Magistrate concerned is directed to record his appearance through counsel, without taking him into custody subject to his producing proper bail bonds and sureties to the satisfaction of the Court concerned, on the same day of the appearance.

20. In doing so, the learned court is directed not to enforce the coercive process/orders, if any, passed by it for the purpose of taking him into custody or to make his arrest. The purpose, as discussed here in above is only to decide the case between the parties and not to harass by physical arrest.

21. Learned A.G.A. would have no objection in passing such direction to the Court concerned as the interest of the State is also in getting dispose of huge pendency in the criminal courts.

22. It is further made clear that if the parties are willing and consented to get their dispute settled amicably by way of compromise then the same may be taken by the Court into consideration for the purpose of disposal of the case as soon as possible.

23. With the aforesaid observations, the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is disposed of.

A. Jurisdiction - extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution or inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. for quashing the criminal proceedings can be exercised if the proceedings were instituted with mala fide intention or with ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge.

The revenue record remains in the custody of the revenue officials. It cannot be believed that some manipulation has been done without the involvement of the revenue officials. No revenue official has been made an accused. It is not possible to manipulate the revenue record without the involvement of the revenue official. It is the duty of the Court to ensure that the criminal prosecution is not used as an instrument of harassment or for seeking private vendetta. (Para 22)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Kumar Singh, J.)

1. The present petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed for quashing the proceedings including the summoning order dated 6.6.2009 and the order dated 30.9.2009 issuing bailable warrant against the petitioners passed in Complaint Case No.3482 of 2009, pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate IInd, Faizabad (Now Ayodhya).

2. The case of the petitioners is that Gata Nos.799, 1011, 1013, 1014 and 1015 are recorded in the name of Udasin Sangat Datavya Evam Lok Sansthan, Ranopali, Ayodhya of which Damodar Das, Disciple (Chela) Mahadeo Das was the Mahanth and Sarvrahkar. After the death of Damodar Das, petitioner no.1, Mahant Kalyan Das, became the Mahanth and sarvrakar as per inheritance and succession on the basis of registered Will duly executed by Mahanth Damodar Das. Name of the petitioner no.1 was recorded as Mahanth and Sarvrakar vide mutation order passed under Section 33/39 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act and name of Damodar Das was deleted. A report dated 1.1.2004 was sent by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Faizabad to the Additional District Magistrate (Administration), Faizabad stating therein that on the basis of the report of the Tehsildar, Sadar, Faizabad dated 1.1.2004, mutation of name of Mahanth Damodar Das in khatauni as Sarvrakar was wholly legal and correct. It was further said that in view of the report of the Tehsildar and perusal of the copies of the khataunis, the order passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate on 20.11.2001 was correct. It was further said that it was not required to initiate fresh proceedings under the Uttar Pradesh Ceiling of Land Holdings Act. The Sub-Divisional Magistrate forwarded his comments along with the report of the Tehsildar dated 1.1.2004 to the Additional District Magistrate (Administration), Faizabad.

3. Ram Bahadur Singh, respondent no.2/complainant filed a case under Section 33/39 of the Uttar Pradesh Land Revenue Act, 1901 on 27.2.2006 for correction of the revenue records in respect of the above gata numbers before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Faizabad. It was alleged that in the khatauni of fasli years 1375-1377 against Gata Nos.278, 279 and 389 in place of his father Rajkaran Singh, S/o Ramdhari Singh, name of Bhartendra Vikram S/o K.K. Nair and Smt. Shakuntala Nair, W/o K.K. Nair had been wrongly recorded. Similarly, in Gata No.889, in place of applicant's father, name of Sripal S/o Nanku, R/o Village Ranopali had been wrongly recorded. It was also stated that during the course of the consolidation proceedings when it came to the knowledge of the father of the applicant that name of the aforesaid two persons had been wrongly recorded against Gata Nos.278, 279 and 389, he filed Case No.1035, under Section 9A(2) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act. The aforesaid case was decided by the Consolidation Officer vide order dated 2.7.1977 against his father. Against the order dated 2.7.1977 passed by the Consolidation Officer, father of respondent no.2 filed an appeal before the Settlement Officer Consolidation under Section 11(1) of the Consolidation of Holdings Act. The aforesaid appeal was decided vide order dated 6.9.1977 in favour of the father of respondent no.2. Settlement Officer, Consolidation directed that names of Bhartendra Vikram, Shakuntala Nair and Sripal be expunged and in their place name of the father of the respondent no.2, Rajkaran Singh S/o Rambali Singh be mutated. It was stated that due to consolidation proceedings, the aforesaid gata numbers got changed and for fasli years 1398-1403 the aforesaid gata numbers were changed to 799, 1011, 1013, 1014 and 1015, which were part of Khata No.394 in the name of father of respondent no.2, Rajkaran Singh.

4. Father of respondent no.2 died on 27.3.1992 and, according to the succession, respondent no.2's name was mutated against the aforesaid gata numbers in place of his father vide order dated 19.11.1992 for fasli years 1398 to 1403.

5. It was alleged that after fasli year 1403, new khatauni was prepared without there being any order by any competent authority. The area Lekhpal and Kanoongo by mistake recorded the Gata Nos.799, 1011, 1013, 1014 and 1015 being part of plot no.662 in favour of the petitioners. It was further said that respondent no.2 could come to know only in the month of November, 2005 and after obtaining the necessary documents, he filed the aforesaid complaint. Thus, in sum and substance, the allegation in the aforesaid application was that by mistake of Lekhpal and Kanoongo, the aforesaid land of Gata Nos.799, 1011, 1013, 1014 and 1015 of plot no.662 got recorded in the name of the petitioners.

6. Petitioner no.1 filed objection on 5.9.2006 to the said application filed by respondent no.2. He claimed that the land in question belonging to the Sangat Ashram. It was specifically stated that no case was ever contested/filed by the father of respondent no.2 against Martand Vikram Nair and Smt. Shakuntala Nair. The case set up by the father of respondent no.2 was based on forged and fabricated documents and, the papers, which were filed, were nothing but forged documents and the same were prepared by manufacturing the revenue record. It was further stated that the aforesaid land in question was of the Sangat Ashram, Ranopali and, the case set up by the father of respondent no.2 was liable to be rejected being based on forged and fabricated document. It was further said that Mahanth Damodar Das filed an application under Section 9 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act against Shakuntala Nair and Martand Vikram Nair claiming that in place of Shakuntala Nair and Martand Vikram Nair, name of Ashram and his name as Sarvrakar should again be recorded. The case was finally decided in Appeal No.1860-1251 under Section 11(1) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act (Udasin Sangat Ashram, Ranopali Vs. K.K. Nair and others) on 6.9.1977. The Settlement Officer, Consolidation directed that in the basic year of the Village Ranopali against the names of Martand Vikram Nair and Smt. Shakuntala Nair in khatauni nos.278 and 279, name of Sangat Ashram, Ranopali should be recorded as khatedar. It was further said that the documents i.e. khatauni for fasli years 1386-1391 for khata Nos.356, 357 and 706 filed along with the application are completely false and fabricated. Khatauni for the fasli years 1392-1397 and 1398-1403 were also prepared committing forgery and manipulation. Thus, the case of the petitioner no.1 from the very beginning had been that the application filed by the father of respondent no.2 was based on forged and fabricated revenue record, which got prepared by manipulation and it was prayed that the said application be rejected. It was further stated in the petition that petitioner no.3 on coming to know the forgery and manipulation committed in the revenue record by respondent no.2 and his brothers, moved an application before the Inspector, Police Station Kotwali City, Faizabad and the Senior Superintendent of Police, Faizabad, but when the FIR was not registered, he moved an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Faizabad. In compliance of the order passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Faizabad in the aforesaid application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., an FIR vide Case Crime No.311 of 2008, under Sections 419, 420, 467, 468 and 471 IPC against respondent no.2 and his brothers, Virendra Bahadur Singh and Kewal Bahadur Singh, S/o Late Rajkaran Singh was lodged at the Police Station Kotwali City, District Faizabad on 21.1.2008. Respondent no.2 and his brothers preferred Writ Petition No.1144 (MB) of 2008 for quashing of the aforesaid FIR before this Court. However, vide order dated 7.2.2008, the aforesaid writ petition was dismissed by this Court. The police submitted the charge sheet in the aforesaid case against respondent no.2 and his two brothers under Sections 419, 420, 467, 468 and 471 IPC in the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Faizabad.

7. Respondent no.2, who is working as Peon in the Nazarat of the Civil Court, Faizabad moved an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. on 15.7.2008 after charge sheet was submitted and the cognizance was taken in Case Crime No.311 of 2008 for registration of the FIR against the petitioners. It was stated that against the order dated 2.7.1977 passed by the Consolidation Officer, Makbara, Faizabad in Case No.1035, under Section 9A(2) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, father of respondent no.2 filed an appeal before the Settlement Officer, Consolidation being Appeal No.1262, under Section 11(1) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, which was decided on 6.9.1977 in favour of the father of respondent no.2 and a direction was issued that against Khata Nos.278, 279 and 389 of Village Ranopali, in place of Bhartendra Vikram, Shakuntala Nair and Sripal S/o Nanku, name of father of respondent no.2 should be recorded as sirdar. It was said that in pursuance of the aforesaid order passed by the Settlement Officer, Consolidation, in khatauni of fasli year 1386-1391, name of father of respondent no.2 got recorded in Gata Nos.799, 1011, 1013, 1014 and 1015, which are part of Khata No.394 from fasli year 1386-1391, 1392-1397 and 1397-1403. After the death of father of respondent no.2 on 27.3.1992, vide order dated 19.11.1992 name of respondent no.2 and his two brothers got recorded against those gata numbers in fasli years 1398-1403, which became kahata No.394.

8. In paragraph 8 of the aforesaid complaint, it was stated that after the fasli year 1403, without there being any order from the competent officer, by mistake of Area Lekhpal and Kanoongo, the aforesaid land of Gata Nos.799, 1011, 1013, 1014 and 1015 got recorded in the name of Sangat Ashram, Ranopali, Ayodhya and was shown as part of Plot No.662. It was also stated that when this fact came to the knowledge of late Mahanth Damodar Das, who was the Mahanth and Sarvrakar of the Ashram, he accepted the aforesaid mistake and Case No.68, under Section 33/39 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act was filed in the court of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Faizabad for correcting the revenue entries/record. Tehsildar in his report, had specifically stated that the land in Gata Nos.799, 1011, 1013, 1014 and 1015 was of the father of respondent no.2, Late Rajkaran Singh and because of mistake of Area Lekhpal and Kanoongo, it was wrongly recorded as part of Plot No.662 belonging to the Sangat Ashram, Ranopali. It was alleged that unfortunately the revenue record could not get corrected and, therefore, respondent no.2 filed Case No.5/22/135, under Section 33/39 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act in the court of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Faizabad for correction of the revenue record in respect of Gata Nos.799, 1011, 1013, 1014 and 1015 and prayed that in place of the name of Sangat Ashram, Ranopali, Ayodhya, his name and names of his two brothers should be mutated. It was also alleged that as soon as the petitioners came to know about the case filed by respondent no.2 under Section 33/39 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, they got removed the revenue record of fasli year 1387 (page no.64) where the land of Gata Nos.799, 1011, 1013, 1014 and 1015 was ordered to be recorded in the name of father of respondent no.2, late Rajkaran Singh and got inserted a forged order for recording the name of the Sangat Ashram, Ranopali against the aforesaid gata numbers. When this fraudulent and forged act came to the knowledge of respondent no.2 during the course of inspection of revenue record for the purposes of case filed by him on 27.2.2006 in the court of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Faizabad in 5/22/135, under Section 33/39 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, then respondent no.2 gave a complaint in the police station for registration of the FIR. However, the FIR was not registered. Thereafter, he moved an application on 18.6.2008 before the Senior Superintendent of Police. However, no action was taken on the aforesaid application. Therefore, on 15.7.2008 the present application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was moved for a direction to register an FIR and investigate the offence. The Chief Judicial Magistrate, Faizabad passed an order on 2.9.2008 treating the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. filed by respondent no.2 as a complaint case.

9. From perusal of the complaint, it is evident that respondent no.2 did not disclose the case pending against him in pursuance of the FIR registered at Case Crime No.311 of 2008, Police Station Kotwali City, District Faizabad. The statement of the complainant/respondent no.2 under Section 200 Cr.P.C. reiterated the allegation that revenue record in respect of Gata Nos.799, 1011, 1013, 1014 and 1015 of fasli year 1387 (Page no.64) was removed fraudulently and the forged order was mentioned for recording those gata numbers in the name of Sangat Ashram, Ranopali. Statement of Kewal Bahaur Singh, brother of respondent no.2 recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C. was also made almost the same allegation. Manoj Kumar in his statement recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C. also stated that he had been seeing the possession of respondent no.2 and his brothers on the land in question. The petitioners have no concern about the said land. The petitioners want to grab the land by manipulating the record. The Judicial Magistrate-II, Faizabad vide order dated 6.6.2009 had summoned the petitioners under Sections 420, 467, 468 IPC in the aforesaid complaint case. Thereafter, on 30.9.2009 passed an order issuing bailable warrants against the petitioners.

10. An additional supplementary affidavit dated 1.11.2018 has also been filed on behalf of the petitioners. Along with the aforesaid affidavit, a copy of the order dated 28.7.2011 passed by the Additional Officer (First), Faizabad in Case No.7/9/12/4/5/22/135, under Section 33/39 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act (Now under Section 32 of the Revenue Code, 2006) filed by respondent no.2 for correction of the revenue entry in respect of Gata Nos.799, 1011, 1013, 1014 and 1015 has been placed on record as Annexure No.SA-1. The Additional Officer (First) by a detailed order dated 28.7.2011, has dismissed the aforesaid application filed by respondent no.2. Against the aforesaid order, revision preferred by respondent no.2, has also been dismissed by the Additional Commissioner (Administration), Faizabad Division, Faizabad vide order dated 25.6.2013. The said order has been placed on record as Annexure SA-2 to the supplementary affidavit.

11. Learned Additional Officer (First), Faizabad in his order dated 28.7.2011 has rejected the contention of respondent no.2 and his two brothers that page no.64 of fasli year 1387 was removed and by manipulation in pursuance of the forged order dated 6.9.1977, name of Sangat Ashram, Ranopali was recorded. Learned Additional Officer (First) has specifically held that respondent no.2 and his brothers could not file any khatauni before the fasli year 1375-1377, which could establish that the land in question was their ancestral property. Respondent no.2 had also not filed any khasra in respect of fasli year 1359 nor he has filed any receipt depositing in the land revenue in respect of the aforesaid land. Learned Additional Commissioner has affirmed the findings of the learned presiding officer. These two orders have been challenged by respondent no.2 and his brothers in Writ Petition No.7360 (MS) of 2013 before this Court. This Court on 19.11.2013 passed the following order in the aforesaid writ petition :-

"The main dispute is as to whether any order in favour of petitioner was passed by S.O.C. on 06.9.1977 or not. Annexure 3 to the writ petition is copy of the said order. It is mentioned in the said order that it is in respect of three appeals, i.e., Appeal No.1260, 1261 and 1262. Number of the appeal alleged to have been filed by petitioner's father Raj Karan Singh was 1262. Learned counsel for the contesting respondent has also shown photostat copy of certified copy of judgment of the same officer of the same date but it contains only number of two appeals, i.e. 1260 and 1261.

Learned Standing Counsel Shri Anil Kumar Yadav is directed to immediately verify from the record room of Faizabad as to whether files of appeal no. 1260, 1261 and 1262, if filed, are available or not. If files are available they must be shown to the Court. Learned counsel for the petitioner is also directed to file copy of the order dated 02.7.1977, alleged to have been passed by the C.O. against Raj Karan, father of the petitioner against which Appeal no. 1262 was allegedly filed.

Put up as fresh on 21.11.2013.

Office is directed to supply a copy of this order free of cost to Shri Anil Kumar Yadav, learned Standing Counsel."

12. The petitioners/respondent no.2 and his brothers, have been seeking adjournments in the aforesaid case, which is evident from the order-sheet dated 31.10.2013, 6.11.2013, 8.11.2013, 11.11.2013, 14.11.2013, 21.11.2013, 22.11.2013, 25.11.2013, 2.12.2013, 9.11.2016 and 6.12.2017. No order has been passed in favour of the petitioners till date in the aforesaid writ petition.

13. Respondent no.2 has filed counter affidavit, in which it has been stated that the petitioners are involved in several criminal cases of similar nature and various proceedings are pending against them. The contents of complaint filed before the Magistrate have been reiterated and, it has been stated that the petitioners had manipulated the revenue record and fraudulently and by manipulation, name of the Ashram as well as petitioners had got recorded in the revenue record in place of respondent no.2 and his brothers.

14. The question whether the order dated 6.9.1977 was passed in respect of three appeals i.e. Appeal No.1260, 1261 and 1262, the last appeal being allegedly filed by the father of respondent no.2 or it was only in respect of Appeal Nos.1260 and 1261, has been adjudicated by the two competent authorities and, the contention of respondent no.2 has not been accepted. The writ petition is pending before this Court and, the final adjudication is still to be done by this Court. Respondent no.2 has not got any interim order from this Court in the pending writ petition.

15. Sri Ravi Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that the impugned proceedings are nothing but counter blast to the FIR lodged by petitioner no.3, in which charge sheet has been submitted and, respondent no.2 and his brothers are facing prosecution. He has further submitted that their petition challenging the proceedings in pursuance of the FIR registered at Case Crime No.311 of 2008 has been dismissed by this Court. He has also submitted that the dispute is of civil nature and, the impugned proceedings have been initiated against the petitioners with mala fide intention. Respondent no.2 and his brothers have not been successful in the other proceedings. Filing of the complaint before the learned Magistrate is a counter blast measure. They have tried to give colour to the civil dispute as a criminal offence. He has also submitted that respondent no.2 had filed an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. without disclosing the true and correct facts. He has not disclosed the lodging of the FIR and the proceedings against him and his brothers in the complaint. He, therefore, submits that the impugned proceedings are nothing but an abuse of process of the Court, which have been filed with ulterior motive to falsely implicate the petitioners and, therefore, they are liable to be set aside.

16. On the other hand, Sri Hemant Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for respondent no.2 has submitted that the complaint discloses the commission of the offence by the petitioners. The complaint is neither frivolous nor fictitious. The allegations set out in the complaint clearly constitute the offence for which cognizance has been taken by the learned Magistrate and, therefore, this Court should not be quashed the proceedings. He has further submitted that defence of the petitioners should not be considered while adjudicating the present petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

17. I have considered the submissions advanced by the parties carefully and perused the record.

18. In sum and substance, the allegation by respondent no.2 in the complaint is that the petitioners have manipulated the revenue record in respect of fasli year 1387. They have removed page no.64 in which the order for recording/mutating the name of father of respondent no.2 was recorded and they have manipulated that page by inserting another page and mentioning the order for recording the name of the Ashram and the petitioners. Two competent officers have not found any substance in these allegations and the case filed by respondent no.2 and his brothers under Section 33/39 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act has been dismissed. Respondent no.2 has not got any relief from this Court. He is seeking adjournment in the case, which is evident from the order-sheet.

19. It is also important to mention here that the first FIR was registered on the complaint of petitioner no.3. After investigation, charge sheet has been filed. Trial against respondent no.2 and his two brothers is in progress before the competent court. From the narration of facts, it appears that the impugned proceedings have been initiated as a counter blast measure by respondent no.2.

20. Supreme Court in several judgements including the leading judgement in the case of State of Haryana and others Vs. Bhajan Lal and others, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335, wherein as illustration the Supreme Court in paragraph 102 has explained the circumstances on which the High Court should exercise its jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. or Article 226 of the Constitution of India for quashing the criminal proceedings. Paragraph 102 of the aforesaid judgement is extracted herein-below:-

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

21. In the present case, it appears that the impugned proceedings have been instituted with mala fide intention with ulterior motive and the case is covered under category (7) of paragraph 102 of the aforesaid judgement.

22. The revenue record remains in the custody of the revenue officials. It cannot be believed that some manipulation has been done without involvement of the revenue officials. No revenue official has been made an accused. It is not possible to manipulate the revenue record without the involvement of the revenue official. It is the duty of the Court to ensure that the criminal prosecution is not used as an instrument of harassment or for seeking private vendetta.

23. The Supreme Court in the case of Inder Mohan Goswami and another Vs. State of Uttaranchal and others, (2007) 12 SCC 1 while dealing with the power of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in paragraph 46 of the judgement held as under :-

"46. The court must ensure that criminal prosecution is not used as an instrument of harassment or for seeking private vendetta or with an ulterior motive to pressurise the accused. On analysis of the aforementioned cases, we are of the opinion that it is neither possible nor desirable to lay down an inflexible rule that would govern the exercise of inherent jurisdiction. Inherent jurisdiction of the High Courts under Section 482 CrPC though wide has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when it is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the statute itself and in the aforementioned cases. In view of the settled legal position, the impugned judgment cannot be sustained."

24. Supreme Court in the case of Indian Oil Corpn. Vs. NEPC India Ltd. and others, (2006) 6 SCC 736 has also lays down the parameters for quashing of criminal complaint/proceedings. Paragraphs 12 and 13 of the aforesaid judgement are extracted herein below:-

"12. The principles relating to exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure to quash complaints and criminal proceedings have been stated and reiterated by this Court in several decisions. To mention a few--Madhavrao Jiwajirao Scindia v. Sambhajirao Chandrojirao Angre [(1988) 1 SCC 692 : 1988 SCC (Cri) 234] , State of Haryana v.

Bhajan Lal [1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] , Rupan Deol Bajaj v. Kanwar Pal Singh Gill [(1995) 6 SCC 194 : 1995 SCC (Cri) 1059] , Central Bureau of Investigation v. Duncans Agro Industries Ltd. [(1996) 5 SCC 591 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 1045] , State of Bihar v. Rajendra Agrawalla [(1996) 8 SCC 164 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 628] , Rajesh Bajaj v. State NCT of Delhi [(1999) 3 SCC 259 : 1999 SCC (Cri) 401] , Medchl Chemicals & Pharma (P) Ltd. v. Biological E. Ltd. [(2000) 3 SCC 269 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 615] , Hridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma v. State of Bihar [(2000) 4 SCC 168 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 786] , M. Krishnan v. Vijay Singh [(2001) 8 SCC 645 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 19] and Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. v. Mohd. Sharaful Haque [(2005) 1 SCC 122 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 283] . The principles, relevant to our purpose are:

(i) A complaint can be quashed where the allegations made in the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety, do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out the case alleged against the accused.

For this purpose, the complaint has to be examined as a whole, but without examining the merits of the allegations. Neither a detailed inquiry nor a meticulous analysis of the material nor an assessment of the reliability or genuineness of the allegations in the complaint, is warranted while examining prayer for quashing of a complaint.

(ii) A complaint may also be quashed where it is a clear abuse of the process of the court, as when the criminal proceeding is found to have been initiated with mala fides/malice for wreaking vengeance or to cause harm, or where the allegations are absurd and inherently improbable.

(iii) The power to quash shall not, however, be used to stifle or scuttle a legitimate prosecution. The power should be used sparingly and with abundant caution.

(iv) The complaint is not required to verbatim reproduce the legal ingredients of the offence alleged. If the necessary factual foundation is laid in the complaint, merely on the ground that a few ingredients have not been stated in detail, the proceedings should not be quashed. Quashing of the complaint is warranted only where the complaint is so bereft of even the basic facts which are absolutely necessary for making out the offence.

(v) A given set of facts may make out: (a) purely a civil wrong; or (b) purely a criminal offence; or (c) a civil wrong as also a criminal offence. A commercial transaction or a contractual dispute, apart from furnishing a cause of action for seeking remedy in civil law, may also involve a criminal offence. As the nature and scope of a civil proceeding are different from a criminal proceeding, the mere fact that the complaint relates to a commercial transaction or breach of contract, for which a civil remedy is available or has been availed, is not by itself a ground to quash the criminal proceedings. The test is whether the allegations in the complaint disclose a criminal offence or not.

13. While on this issue, it is necessary to take notice of a growing tendency in business circles to convert purely civil disputes into criminal cases. This is obviously on account of a prevalent impression that civil law remedies are time consuming and do not adequately protect the interests of lenders/creditors. Such a tendency is seen in several family disputes also, leading to irretrievable breakdown of marriages/families. There is also an* impression that if a person could somehow be entangled in a criminal prosecution, there is a likelihood of imminent settlement. Any effort to settle civil disputes and claims, which do not involve any criminal offence, by applying pressure through criminal prosecution should be deprecated and discouraged. In G. Sagar Suri v. State of U.P. [(2000) 2 SCC 636 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 513] this Court observed: (SCC p. 643, para 8)

"It is to be seen if a matter, which is essentially of a civil nature, has been given a cloak of criminal offence. Criminal proceedings are not a short cut of other remedies available in law. Before issuing process a criminal court has to exercise a great deal of caution. For the accused it is a serious matter. This Court has laid certain principles on the basis of which the High Court is to exercise its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code. Jurisdiction under this section has to be exercised to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice."

25. It is also well settled that the dispute which is essentially of a civil nature and has given a cloak of criminal offence, the High Court should quash the criminal proceedings to prevent the abuse of process of the Court. In the present case, except for a photocopy of the order dated 9.6.1977 passed by the Settlement Officer Consolidation, wherein three appeals i.e. 1260, 1261 and 1262 have been decided, there is no other evidence which would demonstrate that the petitioners had committed any offence. As mentioned above, the contention raised by respondent no.2 and his brothers regarding the manipulation in the revenue record by the petitioners has not found favour before the two competent revenue authorities.

26. In view of the aforesaid fact, this Court is required to consider whether in the facts and circumstances of the case, it would be justified to allow the impugned proceedings to continue against the petitioners or to quash them.

27. The Supreme Court in Criminal Appeal No.1395 of 2018, Anand Kumar Mohatta and another Vs. State (Govt, of NCT of Delhi), Department of Home and another,, decided on 15.11.2018, has held that the High Court should quash the proceedings if it comes to the conclusion that allowing the proceedings to continue, would be an abuse of the process of the Court or that the ends of justice require that the proceedings are required to be quashed.

28. Supreme Court in the case of State of Karnataka V.L. Muniswamy and others, 1977 (2) SCC 699 in paragraph 7 of the judgement held as under under:-

"7. ..... In the exercise of this wholesome power, the High Court is entitled to quash a proceeding if it comes to the conclusion that allowing the proceeding to continue would be an abuse of the process of the Court or that the ends of justice require that the proceeding ought to be quashed. The saving of the High Court's inherent powers, both in civil and criminal matters, is designed to achieve a salutary public purpose which is that a court proceeding ought not to be permitted to degenerate into a weapon of harassment or persecution. In a criminal case, the veiled object behind a lame prosecution, the very nature of the material on which the structure of the prosecution rests and the like would justify the High Court in quashing the proceeding in the interest of justice. The ends of justice are higher than the ends of mere law though justice has got to be administered according to laws made by the legislature. The compelling necessity for making these observations is that without a proper realisation of the object and purpose of the provision which seeks to save the inherent powers of the High Court to do justice, between the State and its subjects, it would be impossible to appreciate the width and contours of that salient jurisdiction."

29. In view of the aforesaid, this Court finds that the continuation of the impugned proceedings would be an abuse of the process of the Court. The proceedings have been initiated with ulterior motive to achieve for extraneous purposes as a counter blast to the FIR registered at Case Crime No.311 of 2008 against respondent no.2 and his brothers.

30. Thus, the petition is allowed and the summoning order dated 6.6.2009 and the order dated 30.9.2009 issuing bailable warrant against the petitioners passed in Complaint Case No.3482 of 2009, pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate IInd, Faizabad (Now Ayodhya) and the entire proceedings of the aforesaid complaint case are hereby quashed.

CRIMINAL SIDE

THE HON'BLE DINESH KUMAR SINGH-I, J.

Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No. 4741 of 2015

Smt. Mahadevi & Ors. ...Applicants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicants:
Sri Rakesh Kumar Singh, Sri K.K. Roy

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
A.G.A., Sri Hemendra Pratap Singh

A. Inherent Jurisdiction - Section 482 - Cr.P.C. - at the stage of charge sheet factual query and assessment of defence evidence is beyond purview of scrutiny under Section 482 Cr.P.C. - allegation being factual in nature can be decided only through evidence before Trial Court.

The Court observed that whether the accused has intention to cheat opposite party no. 2 from the very beginning or not is subject matter of evidence because if they had taken Rs. 1 Lac under the agreement to sell without having any intention to fulfill the said agreement, both the offences of criminal breach of trust as well as cheating would be constituted. It would appear that the accused never had any intention to honor the agreement and kept the money extended to them which would be nothing but criminal misappropriation of the said amount. Whether the said amount was paid to the deceased by opposite party no. 2 or not is again a subject matter of evidence. Hence, it cannot be said that no prima-facie case under Section 420 and 406 IPC would be made out. (Para 16)

B. Simultaneous/parallel proceedings - if a civil suit is maintainable for specific performance of contract - simultaneously, criminal proceedings can also lie, if criminal breach or cheating has been committed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Kumar Singh-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rakesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the applicants, Sri Hemendra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2, Sri G.P. Singh, learned A.G.A. and perused the record.

2. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C has been moved with a prayer to quash the impugned charge-sheet dated 12.11.2014 arising out of Case Crime No. 261 of 2014 under sections 420 and 406 IPC Police station Hathras Gate, District Hathras registered as Case No.73 of 2015 (State vs. Smt. Mahadevi and others) pending in the Court of A.C.J.M., Hathras and to direct that no coercive action may be taken against the applicants in pursuance of the charge-sheet dated 12.11.2004.

3. The main argument of the learned counsel for the applicant is that the FIR was lodged 11 years after the date of occurrence and in the grounds taken by him in affidavit filed in support of the application it has been mentioned that the opposite party no. 2 had filed an original suit no. 200 of 2004 (Prem Singh and another vs. Smt. Mahadevi and 4 others) in which he had also moved an application under Order 39 Rule 2(A) CPC seeking punishment for committing contempt of court but when he did not succeed there, he lodged this FIR. This is nothing but purely civil dispute between the parties. There is no independent witness of the occurrence and the statements of the witnesses are stereo typed. The facts mentioned in the FIR and the complaint cannot be taken as gospel truth, this is nothing but malicious prosecution and entire proceeding needs to be quashed.

4. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.. 2 though had appeared but has not filed any counter affidavit and his main argument has been that no averment was made by the applicant that the agreement to sell was a fraudulent document.

5. In order to appreciate the arguments of the respective parties, it is essential to give here the facts of the case in brief, which are as follows:

6. As per FIR, the opposite party no. 2 Ranveer Singh, one Indal Singh son of Deepa resident of Khera Baramai, P.S. Mursan had executed an agreement to sell on 03.02.2003 of his land in favour of opposite party no. 2 Ranveer Singh, Prem Singh and Preetam Singh after having received Rs.one lac and thereafter Indal Singh died. In the said agreement to sell the wife of Indal Singh Smt. Maha Devi accused-applicant no. 1 was a witness but Maha Devi and her sons namely, Har Prasad, Mahendra, Satya Prakash, Kailashi had executed a sale deed on 19.10.2013 playing fraud upon opposite party no. 2 and his co-sharers in favour of Nem Singh, accused-applicant no. 6, Prem Singh accused-applicant no.7, Raj Kumar accused-applicant no. 8 in collusion with Omwati accused-applicant no.10, Sushma Chaudhary and Omveer Rana fraudulently, in which witnesses were namely Rameshwar, Jagdish Prasad Sharma, Subodh Kumar, Pritam Singh, Ajit Singh and Chandravir who were also involved in this conspiracy despite the fact that there was a status quo order passed by the court below on 25.5.2006 in respect of the said property.

7. After investigating the case, the Investigating Officer has submitted charge-sheet, which is annexed Annexure-1 to the affidavit. Out of the total 17 persons named in the FIR, only against 10 persons charge sheet has been submitted while proceedings were dropped against seven persons by the Investigating Officer.

8. It is revealed from the perusal of the record that on 03.02.2003 one Indal had entered into an agreement to sell with Prem Singh, Preetam Singh and Ranveer Singh (opposite party no..2) under certain conditions which were to be fulfilled within a certain period of time, failing which agreement to sell was to have no force and its copy has been annexed as Annexure-3 to the affidavit. The said conditions incorporated in the agreement to sell were flouted and hence the same became non est. In the meantime, Indal Singh i.e. father of the applicant nos. 2 to 5 and husband of applicant no. 1 died, thereafter on 8.10.2013 the wife of Indal accused-applicant no. 1 and her sons executed a registered sale deed in favour of the applicant nos. 6, 7 and 8 by which certain portion of their property was sold by Mahadevi and her sons i.e. accused applicants nos. 1 to 5. After the conditions of the agreement to sell were flouted and the said property was not transferred through registered sale deed in favour of Prem Singh and Ranveer Singh then they filed civil suit being Civil Suit No. 200 of 2004 (Prem Singh and another vs. Smt. Mahadevi and 4 others) before the Civil Judge (S.D.), copy of the plaint is annexed as Annexure-5, with a prayer to issue a direction to the opposite parties to execute sale deed after having taken remaining consideration amount and an alternative prayer was also made that if the sale deed is not possible to be executed then an amount of Rs.66,667/- be directed to be paid to the opposite party no. 2.

9. The opposite parties in the suit, accused in the present case had filed their objection on 14.12.2004 in which it was mentioned that the deceased Indal Singh was not competent to sell the disputed property as he was suffering from mental ailment for which he was being treated since 2011. This fact was known to the opposite party no. 2. Therefore, the opposite party no. 2 taking advantage of the mental illness of the deceased Indal Singh had got prepared a forged agreement to sell, benefit of which cannot be taken by opposite party no. 2. There was no question of payment of any consideration amount to the deceased Indal Singh. The allegation that an amount of Rs.10.00 lace was paid from the side of the opposite party no. 2 to the applicants was concocted. There was no obligation on the part of the applicant nos. 1 to 5 to be bound by the agreement to sell allegedly executed by Indal as it was void document. The notice which was served upon the applicant nos. 1 to 5 from the side of opposite party no. 2 post death of Indal Singh was appropriately replied by the applicants. It was very apparent that from the side of the opposite party no. 2 an attempt was being made to grab the property of the deceased Indal Singh. The applicant nos. 1 to 5 did not have any knowledge of such agreement to sell. It is further mentioned that on 25.5.2006 the trial court passed an order of the status quo in regard to that property which is annexed as Annexure-7 to the affidavit. On 25.11.2013 the opposite party no.. 2 moved an application no. 144 of 2013 in the said suit under order 39 rule 2A seeking punishment to be awarded to the applicant nos. 1 to 5 for committing contempt of court for executing registered sale deed on 21.10.2013 and 26.10.2013, copy of which is annexed as Annexure-8 to the affidavit. When he failed to get a relief in the said application before civil court, this false FIR has been lodged against the applicants after 11 years. Matter is purely of civil nature. The charge-sheet indicates that the Investigating Officer has recorded statements of three witnesses namely Ranveer Singh opposite party no. 2, Dhiraj Singh and Nihal Singh and rest of the four witnesses are formal witnesses and on the basis of their statements a prima-facie case is made out, charge-sheet has been submitted under section 420 and 406 IPC against the 10 accused-applicants named above.

10. This court has to see as to whether offences under section 406 and 420 IPC are made out or not in the light of the averments made in the FIR because if it is found that on the basis of averments made in the FIR, the offences under the abovementioned sections would not be constituted then only charge-sheet could be quashed.

11. Time and again it has been highlighted by Supreme Court that at the stage of charge sheet factual query and assessment of defence evidence is beyond purview of scrutiny under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The allegations being factual in nature can be decided only subject to evidence. In view of settled legal proposition, no findings can be recorded about veracity of allegations at this juncture in absence of evidence. Apex Court has highlighted that jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. be sparingly/rarely invoked with complete circumspection and caution. Very recently in Criminal Appeal No.675 of 2019 (Arising out of S.L.P. (Crl.) No.1151 of 2018) (Md. Allauddin Khan Vs. The State of Bihar & Ors.) decided on 15th April, 2019, Supreme Court observed as to what should be examined by High Court in an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and in paras 15, 16 and 17 said as under:

"15. The High Court should have seen that when a specific grievance of the applicant in his complaint was that respondent Nos. 2 and 3 have committed the offences punishable under Sections 323, 379 read with Section 34 IPC, then the question to be examined is as to whether there are allegations of commission of these two offences in the complaint or not. In other words, in order to see whether any prima facie case against the accused for taking its cognizable is made out or not, the Court is only required to see the allegations made in the complaint. In the absence of any finding recorded by the High Court on this material question, the impugned order is legally unsustainable.

16. The second error is that the High Court in para 6 held that there are contradictions in the statements of the witnesses on the point of occurrence.

17. In our view, the High Court had no jurisdiction to appreciate the evidence of the proceedings under Section 482 of the Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short "Cr.P.C.") because whether there are contradictions or/and inconsistencies in the statements of the witnesses is essentially an issue relating to appreciation of evidence and the same can be gone into by the Judicial Magistrate during trial when the entire evidence is adduced by the parties. That stage is yet to come in this case."

(Emphasis added)

12. It is clear that from the side of the applicant, copies of the statement of witnesses have not been annexed but as per averments made in the FIR it is being scrutinized whether the offence under the abovementioned sections is found to be made or not.

13. For offence under section 406 IPC, following ingredients are required to be satisfied.

i) Entrusting any persons with property or with any dominion over property;

ii) The person entrusted (a) dishonestly misappropriating or converting to his own use that property; or (b) dishonestly using or disposing of that property or wilfully suffering any other person to so to do in violation.

(i) of any direction of law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or

(ii) of any legal contract made touching the discharge of such trust.

14. And as for as offence under section 420 IPC is concerned following are the necessary ingredients.

(i) There must be deception i.e. the accused must have deceived someone;

(ii) That by the said deception, the accused must induce a person,

(a) to deliver any property; or

(b) to make, alter or destroy the whole or part of the valuable security or any thing which is signed or sealed and which is capable of being converted into a valuable property.

(iii) That the accused did so dishonestly.

15. In the present case the plea taken by the opposite party no. 2 is that applicant nos. 1 to 5, who are wife and children of deceased Indal Singh, who is alleged to have executed an agreement to sell of his property in favour of Ranveer Singh, (opposite party no.2), Prem Singh and Pritam Singh for an amount of Rs.3,97,000/- and out of the said amount Rs.one lac was taken as advance on 03.02.2003 i.e. on the date of registered agreement while rest of the amount was to be paid at the time of execution of sale deed within one year. In the said agreement, wife of Indal i.e. accused-applicant no. 1 (Smt. Maha Devi) was witness. Later on Indal was served notice to execute sale deed but to no avail. Subsequently, Indal died, a notice thereafter was served upon his legal heirs i.e accused-supplicant nos. 1 to 5 to execute sale deed but they did not execute the same in favour of opposite party no. 2. Then O.S. No. 200 of 2004 was filed by opposite party no. 2 for specific performance of contract. While the said O.S. was pending, the applicant nos. 1 to 5 executed a registered sale deed of the said land in favour of accused-applicant nos. 6 to 8 on 19.10.2013 in which accused nos. 9 to 10 were also colluding. It is apparent that in the said civil suit no.200 of 2004 the accused nos. 1 to 5 had set up plea that Indal was not in a fit mental state to execute the agreement to sell nor did he take any consideration amount from the side of opposite party no. 2 and that therefore they had liberty to execute the sale deed in favour of opposite party nos. 6 to 8 and that no cheating or criminal breach of trust was committed by them.. On the other hand, the case of opposite party no. 2 is that an amount of Rs.one lac has been received by deceased Indal who was husband of applicant no. 1 and father of applicant nos. 2 to 5, therefore, being legal heirs of Indal, they were duty bound to execute the sale deed in favour of opposite party no. 2 in pursuance of terms and conditions of the agreement to sell dated 07.02.2003. Since till 2013 they did not execute the sale deed in favour of opposite party no. 2, instead executed the sale deed in favour of applicant nos. 6 to 8 who, in collusion with co-accused purchased the said land, therefore all the accused-applicants have committed offence under section 420 and 406 IPC because applicant nos. 1 to 5 never intended to sell the said land and had, with ill intention to usurp the advanced sum of Rs. One lac, taken the said amount.

16. I find that whether accused had intention to cheat opposite party no.2 from the very beginning or not is subject matter of evidence because if they had taken Rs. One lac under the agreement to sell without having any intention to fulfill the said agreement, both the offences of criminal breach of trust as well as cheating would be constituted. It would appear that the accused never had any intention to honour the agreement and kept the money extended to them (i.e. the deceased who was the husband of applicant no.1 and father of applicant nos. 2 to 5) which would be nothing but criminal misappropriation of the said amount. Whether the said amount was paid to deceased by opposite party no. 2 or not is again a subject matter of evidence. Hence, in my opinion, at this stage, it cannot be said that no prima-facie case under section 420 and 406 IPC would be made out.

17. In a catena of judgments of Apex Court, it has been held that even if a civil suit is maintainable for specific performance of contract that would not mean that a criminal proceedings would not lie if a criminal breach of trust or cheating has been committed. In civil proceedings the remedy of getting the contract executed would be granted but in criminal proceedings the punishment would be awarded for having committed offence under section 406 and 420 IPC.

18. I would like to rely on V. Ravi Kumar vs. State 2018 SCC Online SC 2811, paragraphs nos. 29, 33, 37 are as under.

"29. There can be no doubt that a mere breach of contract is not in itself a criminal offence, and gives rise to the civil liability of damages. However, as held by this Court in Mridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma. v. State of Bihar8, the distinction between mere breach of contract and cheating, which is a criminal offence, is a fine one. While breach of contract cannot give rise to criminal prosecution for cheating, fraudulent or dishonest intention is the basis of the offence of cheating. In this case, in the FIR, there were allegations of fraudulent and dishonest intention including allegations of fabrication of documents, the correctness or otherwise whereof can be determined only during trial when evidence is adduced."

33. In Vesa Holdings (P) Ltd.v.State of Kerala, this Court observed:

"12. The settled proposition of law is that every breach of contract would not give rise to an offence of cheating and only in those cases breach of contract would amount to cheating where there was any deception played at the very inception."

13. It is true that a given set of facts may make out a civil wrong as also a criminal offence and only because a civil remedy may be available to the complainant that itself cannot be a ground to quash a criminal proceeding. The real test is whether the allegations in the complaint disclose the criminal offence of cheating or not."

"37. In this case, it cannot be said that there were no allegations whichprima facie constitute ingredients of offences under Sections 420, 409 and 34 of the Indian Penal Code in complaint. There were clear allegations of fraud and cheating which prima facie constitute offences under Section 420 of the Indian Penal Code. The correctness of the allegations can be adjudged only at the trial when evidence is adduced. At this stage, it was not for the High Court to enter into factual arena and decide whether the allegations were correct or whether the same were a counter-blast to any proceedings initiated by the respondents."

19. In view of above, I am of the view that it would be inappropriate to interfere in the present matter under inherent jurisdiction of the Constitution. Accordingly, application deserves to be dismissed and is dismissed.

Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri R.B. Singh, Sri Syed Ahmad Faizan, Sri Syed Farman Ahmad Naqvi

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
A.G.A.

A. First Information Report - after registration of the FIR and commencement of investigation, a second FIR relating to the same incident was lodged - the test of sameness is to be applied to ascertain whether both the FIRs relate to the same incident in respect of the same occurrence or are in regard to the incidents which are two or more parts of the same transaction - in case the answer is in affirmative, the second FIR is liable to be quashed.

Both the first information reports have been lodged against the same accused i.e., applicant by the two officers of the same department. Though the complainant/informant of both the aforesaid FIRs is different person, both the complainant/informant have lodged their respective FIRs in their official capacity on behalf of the same department and not in their personal capacity. (Para 29)

After reading the aforesaid facts and after applying the principle of sameness, it is explicitly clear that the second FIR is cryptic and does not stand the test laid down by the Apex Court. (Para 31)

1. Perusal of the order-sheet records that despite several orders, notices issued to opposite party no.2 has not been returned back after service nor any body has appeared on his behalf till date.

2. Learned counsel for the applicant states that since the impugned first information report had been lodged in the official capacity by the first informant/opposite party no.2 and probably, he must have retired from service, notice issued to opposite party no.2 has returned back at all times.

3. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed to quash the charge-sheet dated 20th August, 2008 in Case No. 7710 of 2008 arising out of Case Crime No. 457 of 2008, under Sections 420, 468, 467 and 471 I.P.C., Police Station-Quarsi, District-Aligarh.

4. Heard Mr. Syed Farman Ahmad Naqvi, learned counsel for the applicant and Mr. Amit Singh Chauhan and Mr. Prashant Kumar, learned Additional Government Advocates for the State as well as perused the entire materials available on record.

5. Brief facts, as born out from the record, are that a first information report has been lodged on 27th May/June, 2008 by Pramod Kumar in the capacity of Deputy Commandant, 45th Vahini P.A.C. Aligarh for the alleged incident dated 23rd April, 1988 against the applicant with the allegation that on 23rd April, 1988, the applicant, namely, Md. Yusuf Khan, S/o Late Mohd. Sultan Khan, R/o village Chhetarpur, Police Station-Sakaldeehan, District-Chandauli, having been appointed as cook in the P.A.C. Department, was posted at Aligarh. At the time of appointment, the applicant had disclosed his forged date of birth as "01th November, 1969" while concealing his correct date of birth i.e. "3rd January, 1965" as also he had disclosed his qualification as Class IX passed while concealing that he was declared fail in the High School Examination. The aforesaid facts had also been verified from the transfer certificate issued by the Principal, Janta Higher Secondary School, Boobash Dheena. At the time of appointment he had also filed an affidavit, wherein he had undertaken that all the facts in the form of information furnished by him and documents submitted by him were true and genuine, whereas after verification it was found that all were forged. For the aforesaid forgery committed by the applicant, the informant had also conducted a preliminary enquiry and after enquiry, on the basis of statements and records it was found that after misleading the department, he had obtained appointment on the basis of forged and fabricated documents and filed a false affidavit, while concealing his correct date of birth and qualification. Seeing the grievous offence, as committed by the applicant, the informant has lodged the first information report against the applicant, which was registered as Case Crime No. 457 of 2008, under Sections 420, 468, 467 and 471 I.P.C., Police Station-Quarsi, District-Aligarh. After conducting statutory investigation of the aforesaid case crime number, under Chapter XII Cr.P.C., the Police has submitted charge sheet against the applicant on 20th August, 2008 against which, present application, under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed.

6. On the present matter being placed before this Court, on 10th April, 2009, a Coordinate Bench of this Court passed following order:

"Heard learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A.

The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed for quashing the charge sheet dated 20.08.2008 of Case Crime No. 457 of 2008, Case No. 7710 of 2008, under Sections 420, 468, 467, 471 I.P.C., Police Station Quarsi, District Aligarh.

It is contended by learned counsel for the applicant that at the time of appointment of the applicant under Dying in Harness Rules, the applicant submitted all his educational certificates to the opposite party no.2 and thereafter, the opposite party no.2 on 01.09.2006 lodged an F.I.R. in Case Crime No. 620 of 2006, under Sections 420, 464, 466, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C., against which the applicant filed a Criminal Misc. Writ Petition before the Division Bench of this Court and this Court had granted interim order on 04.10.2006 and thereafter, final report has been submitted in the aforesaid case on 04.12.2006. It is next contended by learned counsel for the applicant that thereafter, the applicant proceed on medical leave and when the applicant sent a letter for joining, the opposite party no.2 again lodged an F.I.R. in case Crime No. 457 of 2008, under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C. on 27th June, 2008 with the same allegation as was made in the earlier F.I.R. dated 01.09.2006. It is last contended by learned counsel for the applicant that lodging of second F.I.R. and submission of charge-sheet is bad in law and cannot be sustained.

Issue notice to opposite party no.2 returnable within a period of four weeks. Steps be taken within a week.

Learned A.G.A. prays for and is granted four weeks' time to file counter affidavit. Opposite party no.2 may also file counter affidavit within the same period.

As prayed by learned counsel for the applicant one week thereafter, is granted for filing rejoinder affidavit.

List immediately, after expiry of the aforesaid period before appropriate Bench.

Till the next date of listing, no coercive action shall be taken against the applicant in the aforesaid case."

7. Mr. Syed Farman Ahmad Naqvi, learned counsel for the applicant has informed the Court that for the same offence, as alleged to have been committed by the applicant, departmental proceedings were also initiated against the applicant and after enquiry, the applicant has been terminated from service. Against the termination order, the applicant has approached this Court by means of a writ petition, which is still pending before this Court.

8. Learned counsel for the applicant further informed the Court that for the same offence, as alleged to have been committed by the applicant, a first information report had been lodged on 1st September, 2006 by Ramyash Singh, in the official capacity as Assistant Commandant, 45th Vahini, P.A.C. Aligarh under Sections 420, 464, 466, 467, 468 and 471 I.P.C., Police Station Quarsi, District-Aligarh, which has been registered as Case Crime No. A 91 of 2006. After conducting statutory investigation, under Chapter XII Cr.P.C., the Police has submitted final report on 4th December, 2006. Learned counsel for the applicant further informed that after submission of the Police report in the aforesaid case, the applicant proceeded on medical leave and when the applicant sent a letter for joining, along with medical report, mentioning his fitness, the opposite party no.2 (informant in the present case) has lodged the first information report which has been registered as Case Crime No. 457 of 2008, under Sections 420, 468, 467 and 471 I.P.C., Police Station-Quarsi, District-Aligarh, in which charge-sheet has been submitted on 20th August, 2008 against which the present application, under Section 482 Cr.P.C., has been filed.

9. It is submitted by Mr. Naqvi, learned counsel for the applicant that the second first information report dated 27th May/June, 2008 for the same cause of action/offences/incident could not have been lodged and entertained as law prohibits lodging of the second first information report in respect of the same offence. To bolster the contention that the second FIR could not have been entertained, the learned counsel for the applicant has commended this Court to the following decisions of the Apex Court:

(1) In Kari Choudhary Versus Most. Sita Devi & Others; AIR 2002 SC 441;

(2) T.T. Antony v. State of Kerala and others reported in (2001) 6 SCC 181;

(3) Pandurang Chandrakant Mhatre and others v. State of Maharashtra reported in (2009) 10 SCC 773;

(4) Babubhai v. State of Gujarat and others reported in (2010) 12 SCC 254; and

(5) Amitbhai Anil Chandra Shah Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation & Another, reported in (2013) 6 SCC 348.

10. Mr. Naqvi, learned counsel for the applicant, therefore, submits that in view of the settled law as laid down in various judgments by the Apex Court, the impugned charge-sheet dated 20th August, 2008 submitted in pursuance of the second first information report lodged on 23rd April, 2008 against the applicant for the same offence, cannot be legally sustained and is liable to be quashed.

11. Mr. Amit Singh Chauhan and Mr. Prashant Kumar, learned A.G.As. for the State, per contra, has vehemently opposed the submissions as urged by the learned counsel for the applicant, by submitting that there is no absolute prohibition in law for lodging of a second FIR and, more so, when allegations are made from different spectrum or, for that matter, when different versions are putforth by different persons and there are different accused persons. In support of their plea, they have placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Surender Kaushik & Others Versus State of Uttar Pradesh & Others reported in (2013) 5 SCC 148.

12. This Court has considered the submissions as urged by the learned counsel for the applicant and the learned A.G.A. for the State as well as gone through the entire materials brought on record.

13. Before coming to the merits of the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties, it would be relevant to refer Chapter XII of the Code, which deals with information to the police and their powers to investigate. As provided under Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred as the "Code/Cr.P.C."), every information relating to commission of a cognizable offence, either given orally or in writing is required to be entered in a book, to be kept by the officer-in-charge of the concerned police station. The said FIR, as mandated by law, should pertain to a cognizable case. Section 2(c) of the Code defines "cognizable offence" which also deals with cognizable cases.

14. For ready reference, Sections 2 (c), 154 and 156 (3) Cr.P.C., which are relevant for deciding the present application, read as follows:-

"cognizable offence" means an offence for which, and "cognizable case" means a case in which, a police officer may, in accordance with the First Schedule or under any other law for the time being in force, arrest without warrant;

"154. Information in cognizable cases.

(1) Every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer in charge of a police station, shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and be read Over to the informant; and every such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person giving it, and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the State Government may prescribe in this behalf.

(2) A copy of the information as recorded under sub- section (1) shall be given forthwith, free of cost, to the informant.

(3) Any person aggrieved by a refusal on the part of an officer in charge of a police station to record the information referred to in subsection (1) may send the substance of such information, in writing and by post, to the Superintendent of Police concerned who, if satisfied that such information discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, shall either investigate the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by any police officer subordinate to him, in the manner provided by this Code, and such officer shall have all the powers of an officer in charge of the police station in relation to that offence."

156. Police officer' s power to investigate cognizable case.

(1) Any officer in charge of a police station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XIII.

(2) No proceeding of a police officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

(3) Any Magistrate empowered under section 190 may order such an investigation as above- mentioned."

15. If the primary requirement is satisfied, an FIR is to be registered and the criminal law is set in motion and the officer-in-charge of the police station takes up the investigation. The question that has emerged for consideration in this case is whether after registration of the FIR and commencement of the investigation, a second FIR relating to the same incident on the basis of a direction issued by the learned Magistrate under Section 156(3) of the Code can be registered.

16. For apposite appreciation of the issue raised, it is necessary to refer to certain authorities which would throw significant light under what circumstances entertainment of second FIR is prohibited.

17. In Kari Chaudhary (Supra), the Apex Court has observed that of course it is settled law that there cannot be two first information reports against the same accused in respect of same case, but when there are rival versions in respect of same episode, they would normally take the shape of two different first information reports and investigation can be carried on under both of them by the same investigating agency.

18. For ready reference, paragraph nos. 11 and 12 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Kari Choudhary (Supra) read as follows:

"11. Learned counsel adopted an alternative contention that once the proceeding initiated under FIR No. 135 ended in a final report the police had no authority to register a second FIR and number it as FIR 208. Of course the legal position is that there cannot be two FIRs against the same accused in respect of the same case. But when there are rival versions in respect of the same episode, they would normally take the shape of two different FIRs and investigation can be carried on under both of them by the same investigating agency. Even that apart, the report submitted by the court styling it as FIR No. 208 of 1998 need be considered as an information submitted to the court reading the new discovery made by the police during investigation the persons not named in FIR No. 135 are the real culprits. The quash the said proceeding merely on the ground that final report had been laid in FIR No. 135 is, to say the least, too technical. The ultimate object of every investigation is to find out whether the offences alleged have been committed and, if so, who have committed it.

12. Even otherwise the investigating agency is not precluded from further investigation in respect of an offence in spite of forwarding a report under Sub-section (2) of Section 173 on a previous occasion. This is clear from Section 173(8) of the Code." (emphasis added)

19. In T.T. Antony (supra), it was canvassed on behalf of the accused that the registration of fresh information in respect of the very same incident as an FIR under Section 154 of the Code was not valid and, therefore, all steps taken pursuant thereto including investigation were illegal and liable to be quashed. The Bench, analyzing the scheme of the provisions of Sections 154, 155, 156, 157, 162, 169, 170 and 173 of the Code, came to hold that only the earliest or the first information in regard to the commission of a cognizable offence satisfies the requirements of Section 154 of the Code and, therefore, there can be no second FIR and consequently, there can be no fresh investigation on receipt of every subsequent information in respect of the same cognizable offence or the same occurrence or incident giving rise to one or more cognizable offences. It was further observed that on receipt of information about a cognizable offence or an incident giving rise to a cognizable offence or offences and on entering the FIR in the station house diary, the officer in charge of a police station has to investigate not merely the cognizable offence reported in the FIR but also other connected offences found to have been committed in the course of the same transaction or the same occurrence and file one or more reports as provided in Section 173 of the Code.

20. It would be worthwhile to reproduce paragraph nos. 20, 28 and 35, in the case of T.T. Antony (Supra), the Apex Cour, which read as follows:

""20. From the above discussion it follows that under the scheme of the provisions of Sections 154, 155,156, 157, 162, 169, 170 and 173 Cr.P.C only the earliest or the first information in regard to the commission of a cognizable offence satisfies the requirements of Section 154 Cr.P.C. Thus there can be no second FIR and consequently there can be no fresh investigation on receipt of every subsequent information in respect of the same cognizable offence or the same occurrence or incident giving rise to one or more cognizable offences. On receipt of information about a cognizable offence or an incident giving rise to a cognizable offence or offences and on entering the FIR in the station house diary, the officer in charge of a police station has to investigate not merely the cognizable offence reported in the FIR but also other connected offences found to have been committed in the course of the same transaction or the same occurrence and file one or more reports as provided in Section 173 Cr.P.C.

28.....In our view, in sending information in regard to the same incident, duly enclosing a copy of the report of the commission of inquiry, to the Inspector General of Police for appropriate action, the Additional Chief Secretary adopted the right course of action. Perhaps the endorsement of the Inspector General of Police for registration of a case misled the subordinate police officers and the said letter with regard to the incident of November 25, 1994 at Kuthuparamba was registered again under Section 154 of Cr.P.C. which would be the second FIR and, in our opinion, on the facts of this case, was irregular and a fresh investigation by the investigating agency was unwarranted and illegal. On that date the investigations in the earlier cases (Crime Nos.353 and 354 of 1994) were pending. The correct course of action should have been to take note of the findings and the contents of the report, streamline the investigation to ascertain the true and correct facts, collect the evidence in support thereof, form an opinion under Sections 169 and 170 Cr.P.C., as the case may be, and forward the report/reports under Section 173(2) or Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. to the concerned Magistrate. The course adopted in this case, namely, the registration of the information as the second FIR in regard to the same incident and making a fresh investigation is not permissible under the scheme of the provisions of the Cr.P.C. as pointed out above, therefore, the investigation undertaken and the report thereof cannot but be invalid. We have, therefore, no option except to quash the same leaving it open to the investigating agency to seek permission in Crime No.353/94 or 354/94 of the Magistrate to make further investigation, forward further report or reports and thus proceed in accordance with law.

*35. For the aforementioned reasons, the registration of t*he second FIR under Section 154 of Cr.P.C. on the basis of the letter of the Director General of Police as Crime No.268/97 of Kuthuparamba Police Station is not valid and consequently the investigation made pursuant thereto is of no legal consequence, they are accordingly quashed. We hasten to add that this does not preclude the investigating agency from seeking leave of the Court in Crime No.353/94 and Crime No.354/94 for making further investigations and filing a further report or reports under Section 173(8) of Cr.P.C. before the competent Magistrate in the said cases. In this view of the matter, we are not inclined to interfere with the judgment of the High Court under challenge insofar as it relates to quashing of Crime No. 268/97 of Kuthuparamba Police Station against the ASP (R.A.Chandrasekhar); in all other aspects the impugned judgment of the High Court shall stand set aside." (Emphasis added)

21. In Pandurang Chandrakant Mhatre (supra), the Apex Court referred to cases of T.T. Antony (supra), Ramesh Baburao Devaskar v. State of Maharashtra, and Vikram v. State of Maharashtra and opined that the earliest information in regard to the commission of a cognizable offence is to be treated as the first information report and it sets the criminal law in motion and the investigation commences on that basis. Although the first information report is not expected to be an encyclopaedia of events, yet an information to the police in order to be first information report under Section 154(1) of the Code, must contain some essential and relevant details of the incident. A cryptic information about the commission of a cognizable offence irrespective of the nature and details of such information may not be treated as first information report. After so stating, the Bench posed the question whether the information regarding the incident therein entered into general diary given by PW-5 is the first information report within the meaning of Section 154 of the Code and, if so, it would be hit by Section 162 of the Code. It is worth noting that analyzing the facts, the Court opined that information given to the police to rush to the place of the incident to control the situation need not necessarily amount to an FIR.

22. In Babubhai (supra), the Apex Court, after surveying the earlier decisions, expressed the view that the court has to examine the facts and circumstances giving rise to both the FIRs and the test of sameness is to be applied to find out whether both the FIRs relate to the same incident in respect of the same occurrence or are in regard to the incidents which are two or more parts of the same transaction. If the answer is in the affirmative, the second FIR is liable to be quashed. However, in case the contrary is proved, where the version in the second FIR is different and they are in respect of two different incidents/crimes, the second FIR is permissible. In case the accused in the first FIR comes forward with a different version or counterclaim in respect of the same incident, investigation on both the FIRs has to be conducted.

23. In paragraph nos. 14, 17, 20 & 21, in the case of Babubhai (Supra), the Apex Court has observed as follows:

"14. In Upkar Singh Vs. Ved Prakash & Ors. (2004) 13 SCC 292, this Court considered the judgment in T.T. Antony (supra) and explained that the judgment in the said case does not exclude the registration of a complaint in the nature of counter claim from the purview of the court. What had been laid down by this Court in the aforesaid case is that any further complaint by the same complainant against the same accused, subsequent to the registration of a case, is prohibited under the Cr.P.C. because an investigation in this regard would have already started and further the complaint against the same accused will amount to an improvement on the facts mentioned in the original complaint, hence, will be prohibited under section 162 Cr.P.C. However, this rule will not apply to a counter claim by the accused in the first complaint or on his behalf alleging a different version of the said incident. Thus, in case, there are rival versions in respect of the same episode, the Investigating Agency would take the same on two different FIRs and investigation can be carried under both of them by the same investigating agency and thus, filing an FIR pertaining to a counter claim in respect of the same incident having a different version of events, is permissible.

17. In Rameshchandra Nandlal Parikh Vs. State of Gujarat & Anr. (2006) 1 SCC 732, this Court reconsidered the earlier judgment including T.T. Antony (supra) and held that in case the FIRs are not in respect of the same cognizable offence or the same occurrence giving rise to one or more cognizable offences nor are they alleged to have been committed in the course of the same transaction or the same occurrence as the one alleged in the First FIR, there is no prohibition in accepting the second FIR.

20. Thus, in view of the above, the law on the subject emerges to the effect that an FIR under Section 154 Cr.P.C. is a very important document. It is the first information of a cognizable offence recorded by the Officer In-Charge of the Police Station. It sets the machinery of criminal law in motion and marks the commencement of the investigation which ends with the formation of an opinion underSection 169 or 170 Cr.P.C., as the case may be, and forwarding of a police report under Section 173Cr.P.C. Thus, it is quite possible that more than one piece of information be given to the Police Officer In- charge of the Police Station in respect of the same incident involving one or more than one cognizable offences. In such a case, he need not enter each piece of information in the Diary. All other information given orally or in writing after the commencement of the investigation into the facts mentioned in the First Information Report will be statements falling under Section 162 Cr.P.C.

21. In such a case the court has to examine the facts and circumstances giving rise to both the FIRs and the test of sameness is to be applied to find out whether both the FIRs relate to the same incident in respect of the same occurrence or are in regard to the incidents which are two or more parts of the same transaction. If the answer is affirmative, the second FIR is liable to be quashed. However, in case, the contrary is proved, where the version in the second FIR is different and they are in respect of the two different incidents/crimes, the second FIR is permissible. In case in respect of the same incident the accused in the first FIR comes forward with a different version or counter claim, investigation on both the FIRs has to be conducted." (Emphasis added)

24. In Amitbhai Anilchandra Shah (Supra), the Apex Court has clearly observed that there can be no second FIR, hence there can be no fresh investigation on receipt of every subsequent information in respect of same cognizable offence or the same occurrence or incident giving rise to one or more cognizable offences, therefore, second FIR can be held to be invalid and quashed, as per the scheme of Code of Criminal Procedure and fundamental rights of an accused provided under Articles 14, 20 and 21 of the Constitution of India.

25. In paragraph-37, 38 and 60 in the case of Amitbhai Anilchandra Shah (Supra), the the Apex Court has observed as follows:

"37. This Court has consistently laid down the law on the issue interpreting the Code, that a second FIR in respect of an offence or different offences committed in the course of the same transaction is not only impermissible but it violates Article 21 of the Constitution. In T.T. Anthony (supra), this Court has categorically held that registration of second FIR (which is not a cross case) is violative of Article 21 of the Constitution. The following conclusion in paragraph Nos. 19, 20 and 27 of that judgment are relevant which read as under:

"19. The scheme of CrPC is that an officer in charge of a police station has to commence investigation as provided in Section 156 or 157 CrPC on the basis of entry of the first information report, on coming to know of the commission of a cognizable offence. On completion of investigation and on the basis of the evidence collected, he has to form an opinion under Section 169 or 170 CrPC, as the case may be, and forward his report to the Magistrate concerned under Section 173(2) CrPC. However, even after filing such a report, if he comes into possession of further information or material, he need not register a fresh FIR; he is empowered to make further investigation, normally with the leave of the court, and where during further investigation he collects further evidence, oral or documentary, he is obliged to forward the same with one or more further reports; this is the import of sub-section (8) of Section 173 CrPC.

20. From the above discussion it follows that under the scheme of the provisions of Sections 154, 155, 156, 157, 162, 169, 170 and 173 CrPC only the earliest or the first information in regard to the commission of a cognizable offence satisfies the requirements of Section 154 CrPC. Thus there can be no second FIR and consequently there can be no fresh investigation on receipt of every subsequent information in respect of the same cognizable offence or the same occurrence or incident giving rise to one or more cognizable offences. On receipt of information about a cognizable offence or an incident giving rise to a cognizable offence or offences and on entering the FIR in the station house diary, the officer in charge of a police station has to investigate not merely the cognizable offence reported in the FIR but also other connected offences found to have been committed in the course of the same transaction or the same occurrence and file one or more reports as provided in Section 173 CrPC.

27. A just balance between the fundamental rights of the citizens under Articles 19 and 21 of the Constitution and the expansive power of the police to investigate a cognizable offence has to be struck by the court. There cannot be any controversy that sub-section (8) of Section 173 CrPC empowers the police to make further investigation, obtain further evidence (both oral and documentary) and forward a further report or reports to the Magistrate. In Narang case it was, however, observed that it would be appropriate to conduct further investigation with the permission of the court. However, the sweeping power of investigation does not warrant subjecting a citizen each time to fresh investigation by the police in respect of the same incident, giving rise to one or more cognizable offences, consequent upon filing of successive FIRs whether before or after filing the final report under Section 173(2) CrPC. It would clearly be beyond the purview of Sections 154 and 156 CrPC, nay, a case of abuse of the statutory power of investigation in a given case. In our view a case of fresh investigation based on the second or successive FIRs, not being a counter-case, filed in connection with the same or connected cognizable offence alleged to have been committed in the course of the same transaction and in respect of which pursuant to the first FIR either investigation is under way or final report under Section 173(2) has been forwarded to the Magistrate, may be a fit case for exercise of power under Section 482 CrPC or under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution."

The above referred declaration of law by this Court has never been diluted in any subsequent judicial pronouncements even while carving out exceptions.

38. Mr. Rawal, learned ASG, by referring T.T. Anthony (supra) submitted that the said principles are not applicable and relevant to the facts and circumstances of this case as the said judgment laid down the ratio that there cannot be two FIRs relating to the same offence or occurrence. Learned ASG further pointed out that in the present case, there are two distinct incidents/occurrences, inasmuch as one being the conspiracy relating to the murder of Sohrabuddin with the help of Tulsiram Prajapati and the other being the conspiracy to murder Tulsiram Prajapati - a potential witness to the earlier conspiracy to murder Sohrabuddin. We are unable to accept the claim of the learned ASG. As a matter of fact, the aforesaid proposition of law making registration of fresh FIR impermissible and violative of Article 21 of the Constitution is reiterated, re-affirmed in the following subsequent decisions of this Court:

1. Upkar Singh vs. Ved Prakash (2004) 13 SCC 292

2. Babubhai vs. State of Gujarat & Ors. (2010) 12 SCC 254

3. Chirra Shivraj vs. State of A.P. AIR 2011 SC 604

4. C. Muniappan vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2010) 9 SCC 567.

In C. Muniappan (supra), this Court explained "consequence test", i.e., if an offence forming part of the second FIR arises as a consequence of the offence alleged in the first FIR then offences covered by both the FIRs are the same and, accordingly, the second FIR will be impermissible in law. In other words, the offences covered in both the FIRs shall have to be treated as a part of the first FIR.

60. In view of the above discussion and conclusion, the second FIR dated 29.04.2011 being RC No. 3(S)/2011/Mumbai filed by the CBI is contrary to the directions issued in judgment and order dated 08.04.2011 by this Court in Writ Petition (Criminal) No. 115 of 2009 and accordingly the same is quashed. As a consequence, the charge sheet filed on 04.09.2012, in pursuance of the second FIR, be treated as a supplementary charge sheet in the first FIR. It is made clear that we have not gone into the merits of the claim of both the parties and it is for the trial Court to decide the same in accordance with law. Consequently, Writ Petition (Criminal) No. 149 of 2012 is allowed. Since the said relief is applicable to all the persons arrayed as accused in the second FIR, no further direction is required in Writ Petition (Criminal) No. 5 of 2013."

(Emphasis added)

26. In Surender Kaushik (Supra) referred by the learned Additional Government Advocates for the State, the Apex Court has observed that the lodging of two FIRs is not permissible in respect of one and the same incident. The concept of sameness has been given a restricted meaning. The rival versions in respect of same incident do not take different shapes and in that even, lodging of two first information reports is permissible. Thus counter-first information report in respect of same or connected incident is permissible.

27. For ready reference, paragraph nos. 24 and 25 in the case of Surender Kasuhik (Supra) is quoted herein-under:

"24. From the aforesaid decisions, it is quite luminous that the lodgment of two FIRs is not permissible in respect of one and the same incident. The concept of sameness has been given a restricted meaning. It does not encompass filing of a counter FIR relating to the same or connected cognizable offence. What is prohibited is any further complaint by the same complainant and others against the same accused subsequent to the registration of the case under the Code, for an investigation in that regard would have already commenced and allowing registration of further complaint would amount to an improvement of the facts mentioned in the original complaint. As is further made clear by the three-Judge Bench in Upkar Singh (supra), the prohibition does not cover the allegations made by the accused in the first FIR alleging a different version of the same incident. Thus, rival versions in respect of the same incident do take different shapes and in that event, lodgment of two FIRs is permissible.

25. In the case at hand, the appellants lodged the FIR No. 274 of 2012 against four accused persons alleging that they had prepared fake and fraudulent documents. The second FIR came to be registered on the basis of the direction issued by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate in exercise of power under Section 156(3) of the Code at the instance of another person alleging, inter alia, that he was neither present in the meetings nor had he signed any of the resolutions of the meetings and the accused persons, five in number, including the appellant No. 1 herein, had fabricated documents and filed the same before the competent authority. FIR No. 442 of 2012 (which gave rise to Crime No. 491 of 2012) was registered because of an order passed by the learned Magistrate. Be it noted, the complaint was filed by another member of the Governing Body of the Society and the allegation was that the accused persons, twelve in number, had entered into a conspiracy and prepared forged documents relating to the meetings held on different dates. There was allegation of fabrication of the signatures of the members and filing of forged documents before the Registrar of Societies with the common intention to grab the property/funds of the Society. If the involvement of the number of accused persons and the nature of the allegations are scrutinized, it becomes crystal clear that every FIR has a different spectrum. The allegations made are distinct and separate. It may be regarded as a counter complaint and cannot be stated that an effort has been made to improve the allegations that find place in the first FIR. It is well-nigh impossible to say that the principle of sameness gets attracted. We are inclined to think so, for if the said principle is made applicable to the case at hand and the investigation is scuttled by quashing the FIRs, the complainants in the other two FIRs would be deprived of justice. The appellants have lodged the FIR making the allegations against certain persons, but that does not debar the other aggrieved persons to move the court for direction of registration of an FIR as there have been other accused persons including the complainant in the first FIR involved in the forgery and fabrication of documents and getting benefits from the statutory authority. In the ultimate eventuate, how the trial would commence and be concluded is up to the concerned court. The appellants or any of the other complainants or the accused persons may move the appropriate court for a trial in one court. That is another aspect altogether. But to say that it is a second FIR relating to the same cause of action and the same incident and there is sameness of occurrence and an attempt has been made to improvise the case is not correct. Hence, we conclude and hold that the submission that the FIR lodged by the fourth respondent is a second FIR and is, therefore, liable to be quashed, does not merit acceptance."

28. The instant case is required to be examined in the light of the aforesaid settled legal propositions for which it is necessary for this Court to examine the facts and circumstances giving rise to both the first information reports and the test of sameness is to be applied to find out whether both the first information reports relate to the same incident in respect of the same occurrence or are in regard to the incidents, which are two or more parts of the same transaction. If the answer is affirmative, the second first information report is liable to be quashed. However, in case, the contrary is proved, where the version in the second first information report is different and they are in respect of the two different incidents/crimes, the second first information report is permissible. In case in respect of the same incident the accused in the first information comes forward with a different version or counter claim, investigation on both the FIRs has to be conducted.

29. If both the first information report reports dated 1st September, 2006 and 27th May/June, 2008 lodged against the present applicant are read together, it becomes clear that the incident was of 23rd April, 1988, when the applicant was appointed as cook in 45th Vahini P.A.C. Aligarh under Dying-in-Harness Rules and it was alleged in both the first information reports that the applicant had obtained appointment on the basis of forged and fabricated documents and affidavit while concealing his correct date of birth and qualification and for the aforesaid same offence punishable under Sections 420, 468, 467 and 471, both the first information reports have been lodged against the same accused i.e. applicant by the two officers of same department i.e. 45th Vahini P.A.C., Aligarh. Though the complainant/informant of both the aforesaid first information reports is different person, both the complainant/informant have lodged their respective first information report in their official capacity on behalf of the same department i.e. 45th Vahini P.A.C., Aligarh and not in their personal capacity.

30. After reading of the aforesaid facts and after applying the principle of sameness, this Court finds that both the first information reports relate to the same incident in respect of the same occurrence, therefore, the submissions made by the learned counsel for the applicant has substance. The second first information report dated 28th May/June, 2008 is liable to be quashed. The judgment relied upon by the learned Additional Government Advocates for the State in the case of Surender Kaushik (Supra) is not applicable in the facts of the present as in the instant case, there is no rival versions or any improvisation in respect of the same incident in both the first information reports.

31. In the light of the judgements of the Apex Court, referred to above, it is explicitly clear that the second first information report is cryptic and does not stand the test laid down by the Apex Court.

32. Accordingly, the present criminal misc. application succeeds and is allowed. The second first information report dated 28th May/June, 2008 and the impugned charge-sheet dated 20th August, 2008 in Case No. 7710 of 2008 arising out of Case Crime No. 457 of 2008, under Sections 420, 468, 467 and 471 I.P.C., Police Station-Quarsi, District-Aligarh, are quashed leaving it open for opposite party no.2 to file protest petition, if not already filed, in Case Crime No. 457 of 2008, under Sections 420, 468, 467 and 471 I.P.C., Police Station-Quarsi, District-Aligarh. In case the final report submitted by the Police in the said case has already been accepted by the court concerned, opposite party no.2 may file a fresh application for re-investigation of the matter in pursuance of the earlier first information report lodged by him against the applicant.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE

THE HON'BLE SUDHIR AGARWAL, J.

Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No. 11175 of 2004

Ravinder Talwar ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Oposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri G.S. Chaturvedi, Sri Samit Gopal

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
A.G.A.

A. Requirements of Section 340 Cr.P.C - two conditions are required to be fulfilled - first, false affidavit in a proceedings before Court - second, in the opinion of the Court it should be expedient in the interest of justice to make an inquiry against such a person in relation to offence committed - in order to form an opinion, the Court is empowered to conduct preliminary enquiry - after the opinion is formed, the Court makes a complaint to the Magistrate of First Class concerned.

Absence of preliminary enquiry to reach such a finding would not vitiate the finding reached by the Court regarding the opinion. (Para 16)

There is no magic in recording the words that "Court find it expedient in the interest of justice that inquiry should be made" but from the order of court, it should appear that Court formed such opinion. (Para 23)

The Court, under Section 340 Cr.P.C., is not to decide guilt or innocence of party against whom proceedings are to be taken before Magistrate. At this stage, Court only considers whether it is expedient in the interest of justice that an enquiry should be made for any offence affecting administration of justice. (Para 17)

B. Section 195 Cr.P.C. - procedure given under Section 340 Cr.P.C. is required to be observed in order to proceed against the offences given under Section 195 (1)(b)(i).

The offences under Section 195(1)(b)(i) Cr.P.C. is a serious offence and relates to public confidence in the system of justice, therefore, Section 195(1)(b) should be adopted cautiously and only when the Court is satisfied that prosecution of person concerned is in the interest of justice. Court must be satisfied about the deliberate falsehood as a matter of substance and that there is a reasonable foundation for the charge. There may be cases where a false affidavit may have been filed or offence under Section 195 (1)(b) might appear to have been committed, yet proceedings ought to be initiated only when the Court is satisfied that it is expedient in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made or a complaint should be directed to be filed. (Para 13)

C. Natural Justice - no opportunity of hearing is required to be given against whom the complaint is filed.

The Scheme of the Statute would clearly show that there is no statutory requirement to afford an opportunity of hearing to persons against whom Court may file complaint before Magistrate for initiating prosecution for committing an offence under Section 195(1)(b) of Cr.P.C. (Para 17)

Application u/s 482 rejected. (E-10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri G.S. Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Samit Gopal, learned counsel for applicant and learned AGA for State of U.P.

2. This application under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as "Cr.P.C.") has been filed by applicant- Ravinder Talwar with a prayer that proceedings of Criminal Complaint Case No. 3505 of 2000, High Court of Judicature at Allahabad through its Registrar General Vs. Ravinder Talwar and another, under Sections 193, 196, 205, 209, 466, 468 IPC, Police Station Cantt., District Allahabad, pending in the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad, be quashed. A further prayer has been made to quash order dated 24.06.2000 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad (hereinafter referred to as "C.J.M.") in the above criminal complaint case.

3. Facts in brief, giving rise to the present application, are that a Writ Petition

No. 282 of 1989 was filed in the name of Kashi Ram son of Sri Kabool Ram Sharma through Power of Attorney Holder Ravinder Talwar seeking a declaration that U.P. Excise (Amendment) Act, 1998 (hereinafter referred to as "Amendment Act, 1998") is ultravires. Further a mandamus was also prayed for refund of entire wholesale vending fee of foreign liquor under licence F.L.II. An affidavit in support of writ petition was sworn by one Sri Suresh Kumar Goel son of Sri Banarh Das, resident of 8/427, Kamoh Katera, Saharanpur being Pairokar of agent deputed by Principal.

4. Contesting writ petition, Excise Authorities filed reply wherein a copy of affidavit sworn by Kashi Ram himself was appended stating that he has not authorized anyone to file writ petition in the High Court.

5. Taking cognizance of this fact and observing that above affidavit shows that Power of Attorney Holder as well as deponent of affidavit, both, have played fraud with Court and presentation of writ petition amounts to filing of a false affidavit, a Division Bench consisting of Hon'ble Ravi S. Dhavan, J. (as His Lordships then was) and Hon'ble B. Dikshit, J., vide order dated 22.07.1999 directed Registrar General of this Court to file a complaint against both the above persons, namely, Ravinder Talwar i.e. applicant and Suresh Kumar Goel. Both these persons were directed to answer charge before C.J.M. and findings and result of proceedings were directed to return to High Court for conclusion of proceedings and further action under Procedure of High Court for Uttar Pradesh (Act No. 13 of 1869). Writ Petition, however, was dismissed by above judgement.

6. Pursuant to above direction, a complaint got registered as Complaint Case No. 3505 of 2000 by Registrar General vide complaint dated 24.06.2000, under Sections 193, 196, 205, 209, 466, 468 IPC. C.J.M. vide order dated 24.06.2000 summoned accused persons under aforesaid Sections. The above proceedings have been challenged in the present application.

7. It is contended that complaint in question is purported to have been filed under Section 195 Cr.P.C. which is not attracted; procedure and requirement of Section 340 Cr.P.C. is also not satisfied, inasmuch as, there is no finding recorded by Division Bench in its judgement dated 22.07.1999 that "it is expedient in the interest of justice to make an inquiry"; Court has not applied its mind regarding condition whether it was expedient in the interest of justice to make an inquiry into false affidavit given by accused applicant and in absence of such observation, Section 340 Cr.P.C. is not attracted. In support of his contention, learned counsel for applicant has placed reliance on a Supreme Court's decision in B.K. Gupta Vs. Damodar H. Bajaj and Others 2001 (9) SCC 742.

8. A short question up for consideration is "whether complaint has been made in compliance of requirement of Section 340 read with 195 Cr.P.C. or not".

9. Section 340 Cr.P.C., reads as under:-

"340. (1) When, upon an application made to it in this behalf or otherwise any Court is of opinion that it is expedient in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made into any offence referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 195, which appears to have been committed in or in relation to a proceeding in that Court or, as the case may be, in respect of a document produced or given in evidence in a proceeding in that Court, such Court may, after such preliminary inquiry, if any, as it thinks necessary,-

(a) record a finding to that effect;

(b) make a complaint thereof in writing;

(c) send it to a Magistrate of the first class having jurisdiction;

(d) take sufficient security for the appearance of the accused before such Magistrate, or if the alleged offence is non- bailable and the Court thinks it necessary so to do, send the accused in custody to such Magistrate; and

(e) bind over any person to appear and give evidence before such Magistrate.

(2) The power conferred on a Court by sub-section (1) in respect of an offence may, in any case where that Court has neither made a complaint under sub-section (1) in respect of that offence nor rejected an application for the making of such complaint, be exercised by the Court to which such former Court is subordinate within the meaning of sub-section (4) of section 195.

(3) A complaint made under this section shall be signed,-

(a) where the Court making the complaint is a High Court, by such officer of the Court as the Court may appoint;

(b) in any other case, by the presiding officer of the Court.

(4) In this section," Court" has the same meaning as in section 195."

(Emphasis added)

10. A perusal of Section 340 Cr.P.C. shows that first of all, it is applicable in respect of such cases which are covered by Section 195(1)(b) Cr.P.C. and thus, I reproduce above section also:-

"195(1) No Court shall take cognizance -

(b)(i) of any offence punishable under any of the following sections of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), namely, Sections 193 to 196 (both inclusive), 199, 200, 205 to 211 (both inclusive) and 228, when such offence is alleged to have been committed in, or in relation to, any proceeding in any Court, or

(ii) of any offence described in Section 463, or punishable under Section 471, Section 475 or Section 476, of the said Code, when such offence is alleged to have been committed in respect of a document produced or given in evidence in a proceeding in any Court, or

(iii) of any criminal conspiracy to commit, or attempt to commit, or the abetment of, any offence specified in sub-clause (i) or sub- clause (ii), except on the complaint in writing of that Court, or by such officer of the Court as that Court may authorise in writing in this behalf, or of some other Court to which that Court is subordinate" (Emphasis added)

11. Section 195(1)(b)(i) Cr.P.C. covers offenses under Sections 193 to 196, 199, 200, 205 to 211 and 228 IPC and, therefore, it cannot be doubted that procedure under Section 340 Cr.P.C. has to be observed. It is not the case of applicant that complaint has not been filed by competent authority. The only argument is that requirements of Section 340 Cr.P.C. are not satisfied.

12. The object of Section 340 Cr.P.C. is to provide a safeguard against frivolous and vexatious prosecution. For taking action under Section 340 Cr.P.C. it is no doubt true that Court has to form an opinion that it is expedient in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made for an offence referred to in Section 195(1)(b) Cr.P.C. which appears to have been committed or in relation to a proceeding in that Court.

13. This Court in Syed Asadullah Kazmi Vs. Additional Magistrate 1988 (3) Crimes 330 (All) has observed that Sections 340 and 195 Cr.P.C. are closely connected and in order to have a harmonious consideration, they should be read together. An offence under Section 195(1)(b)(i) Cr.P.C. is a serious offence and relates to public confidence in the system of justice, therefore, Section 195(1)(b) should be adopted very cautiously and only when Court is satisfied that prosecution of person concerned is in the interest of justice. Section 340 Cr.P.C. commenced with words "It is expedient in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made" and this is a guiding factor constituting a foundation for proceeding of this nature. In other words, it is only in glaring cases of deliberate falsehood where Court should direct that an inquiry should be made or complaint should be filed but this discretion has to be exercised judicially in the light of all relevant circumstances, and not with a view to satisfy personal feelings or vindictiveness. Court must be satisfied about the deliberate falsehood as a matter of substance and that there is a reasonable foundation for the charge. There may be cases where a false affidavit may have been filed or offence under Section 195(1)(b) might appear to have been committed, yet proceedings ought to be initiated only when Court is satisfied that it is expedient in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made or a complaint should be directed to be filed.

14. It is not necessary to burden this judgement with number of authorities on the subject but suffice it to refer a few very straight on the point.

15. In B.K. Gupta (supra), learned Single Judge of Bombay High Court while deciding writ petition found that a false statement on oath was made and litigant also adduced evidence known to be false and fabricated. Exercising power under Section 340 Cr.P.C., learned Single Judge issued notice to accused to show-cause for having committed offence referred to under Section 195(1)(b) Cr.P.C.. Thereupon concerned person appeared through counsel and learned Single Judge found that incumbent had intentionally made false statement on oath and adduced evidence known to be false and fabricated, therefore, direction was issued for filing complaint before Magistrate against said person. This order was challenged before Supreme Court and it was argued that learned Single judge has not applied its mind whether it was expedient in the interest of justice that a complaint be filed against such person. Supreme Court said that there are two conditions on fulfillment whereof, a complaint can be filed against a person who has given a false affidavit or evidence in a proceeding before Court. First, such person has given a false affidavit in a proceeding before Court and secondly, in the opinion of Court, it is expedient in the interest of justice to make an inquiry against such a person in relation to an offence committed by him. Court allowed appeal after recording its finding that from record, it could not find application of mind by learned Single Judge on the aspect that it was expedient in the interest of justice to make an inquiry.

16. Section 340 Cr.P.C. then came up for consideration before a three Judges' Bench in Pritish Vs. State of Maharashtra 2002 (1) SCC 253. Therein State Government for construction of a canal under Arunwati Project in 1985 sought to acquire 3.9 acres of land. Land Acquisition Officer awarded compensation of Rs. 24,000/- for entire land. Owner being dissatisfied with award went for reference under Section 18 of Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as "L.A. Act, 1894") whereon Reference Court on the basis of evidence adduced by parties increased compensation to Rs. 10,30,000/-, besides other benefits like solatium etc., vide award dated 23.04.1993. Appellant Pritish was one of the beneficiary of this award which was made on the basis of evidence adduced by parties including Pritish. Land owners still felt dissatisfied with such enhancement and moved further in appeal to High Court but it was dismissed. In 1995, some persons of locality brought to the notice of Reference Court that land owners had wrangled a whopping enhancement after playing chicanery on the Court by producing forged copies of sale deeds for supporting their claim for enhancement. The documents marked as Exts. 31, 32 and 35 were fabricated copies of sale deeds. Reference Court made inquiry and found such documents forged. It called upon relevant record from Sub-Registrar and found that documents presented before it were forged. Court thus found that appellant Pritish and one Rajkumar Anandrao Gulhane have committed offence affecting administration of justice by making forged documents. Court passed an order for filing complaint in writing against above two persons before Magistrate concerned. The person who complaint about this forgery felt that action should have been taken against some others also, hence, preferred an appeal before District Judge who passed an order on 12.08.1996 directing that complaint should be filed against five more persons besides appellant Pritish and Rajkumar Anandrao Ghulane whereagainst Reference Court has passed order. Those five persons went to High Court and got proceedings against them quashed. Pritish came to High Court filing an appeal under Section 341 and said that Reference Court has passed order in violation of principles of natural justice and made inquiry without giving any opportunity to him. Learned Single Judge repelled contention and observed that under Section 340 Cr.P.C., no opportunity is required to be given to person against whom complaint is to be filed and such person has no right to be heard. Same issue was raised before Supreme Court. Referring to Section 340, Court observed that basic requirement to apply Section 340 is formation of an opinion by Court that it is expedient in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made for an offence which appears to have been committed. In order to form such opinion, Court is empowered to hold a preliminary inquiry. Even without holding such preliminary inquiry, Court can form such opinion when it appears to Court that such offence is made out in relation to a proceeding in that Court. When Court forms such an opinion, it is not mandatory that Court should make a complaint. Section 340 confers power to do so but it does not mean that Court should give a complaint but once Court decides to do so, then Court should make a finding to the effect that on the fact situation it is expedient in the interest of justice that offence should further be probed into. If Court finds it necessary to conduct a preliminary inquiry to reach such a finding, it is always open to Court to do so, though absence of any such preliminary inquiry would not vitiate a finding reached by Court regarding its opinion. Further, preliminary inquiry contemplated is not for finding whether a particular person is guilty or not. The purpose of preliminary inquiry, if Court opts to conduct it, is only to decide whether it is expedient in the interest of justice to inquire into the offence which appears to have been committed or not. Court also examined inquiry as defined in Section 2(g) of Cr.P.C. and said that observation made by Court that it is expedient to hold inquiry means an inquiry to be conducted by Magistrate. Once Court forms an opinion, whether it is after conducting preliminary inquiry or not, it is expedient in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made into an offence, said Court has to make a complaint in writing to Magistrate of First Class concerned as such offences are all falling within the purview of warrant case as defined under Section 2(x) Cr.P.C., Magistrate concerned has to follow the procedure prescribed in Chapter XIX of Cr.P.C.. Section 343 Cr.P.C. specifies that Magistrate to whom complaint is made under Section 340 or 341 Cr.P.C. shall proceed to deal with the case as if it were instituted on a police report. That being so, Magistrate on receiving complaint, shall proceed under Section 238 to 243 of Cr.P.C. Thus, the legal right of person against whom complaint is made to be heard, arises only when Magistrate calls accused to appear before him and not earlier thereto.

17. The scheme of Statute would clearly show that there is no statutory requirement to afford an opportunity of hearing to persons against whom Court may file complaint before Magistrate for initiating prosecution for committing an offence under Section 195(1)(b) of Cr.P.C.. Having said so, it was further observed by Supreme Court that Section 340 Cr.P.C. is not to decide guilt or innocence of party against whom proceedings are to be taken before Magistrate. At that stage, Court only consider whether it is expedient in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made for any offence affecting administration of justice.

18. In M.S. Sheriff and Another vs. State of Madras and Others AIR 1954 SC 397, a Constitution Bench said that no expression on the guilt or innocence of persons should be made by Court while passing an order under Section 340 of Cr.P.C.. An exercise at that stage is not for finding whether any offence was committed or who committed the same. The scope is confined to see whether Court could then decide on the materials available that the matter requires inquiry by a criminal Court and that it is expedient in the interest of justice to have it inquired into. This decision of Constitution Bench has also been followed by a three Judges' Bench in Pritish (supra) observing that Court when decide to make a complaint under Section 340 is not to record finding of guilt or innocence of person against whom complaint is to be made before Magistrate.

19. Above authorities explain as to what is required to be done and what is the scope of consideration by Court whether an offence enumerated under Section 195(1)(b) has been committed.

20. In Prem Sagar Manocha Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) 2016 (4) SCC 571, in connection with FIR No. 287 of 1999 registered as P.S. Mehrauli (Jessica Lal Murder Case), Police sought an expert opinion from State Forensic Science Laboratory, Rajasthan by letter dated 19.01.2000 on the following three questions:

"1. Please examine and opine the bore of the two empty cartridges present in the sealed parcel.

2. Please opine whether these two empty cartridges have been fired from a pistol or a revolver.

3. Whether both the empty cartridges have been fired from the same firearm or otherwise."

21. Appellant Prem Sagar Manocha was working as Deputy Director of said Laboratory. He forwarded a report dated 04.02.2000 with following result of examination:

"(i) The caliber of two cartridge cases (C/1 and C/2) is .22.

(ii) These two cartridge cases (C/1 and C/2) appear to have been fired from pistol.

(iii) No definite opinion could be given on two .22 cartridge cases (C/1 and C/2) in order to link firearm unless the suspected firearm is available for examination."

22. During trial before Sessions Court, New Delhi, 101 witnesses were examined for prosecution and appellant Prem Sagar Manocha was witnessed PW-95. Trial Court acquitted all ten persons. In Appeal, Delhi High Court convicted all of them vide judgement dated 20.12.2006. Conviction was also upheld by Supreme Court vide judgment in Sidhartha Vashisht @ Manu Sharma vs. State (NCT of Delhi) 2010 (6) SCC 1. Anguished by conduct of some witnesses turning hostile, High Court in appeal against acquittal, conducted suo motu proceedings against 32 witnesses including appellant Prem Sagar Manocha. In respect of appellant, High Court was of the opinion that he had reflected a shift in the stand from written opinion and that is how, helped accused, which is an offence under Section 193 IPC. Court, therefore, directed for registration of a case under Section 340 Cr.P.C. vide order dated 22.05.2013 whereagainst Sri Manocha filed an appeal before Supreme Court. Supreme Court relied on an earlier judgement in Pritish (supra) and said that Section 340 Cr.P.C. can be successfully invoked even without a preliminary inquiry since the whole purpose of inquiry is only to decide whether it is expedient in the interest of justice to inquire into the offence which appears to have been committed. Thereafter, in para-13 of judgement quoted relevant part of High Court's order and said that said order shows that High Court did form an opinion after inquiry.

23. There is no magic in recording the words that "Court find it expedient in the interest of justice that inquiry should be made" but from order of Court, it should appear that Court has formed such opinion. Court also referred to an earlier Section 479-A of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (hereinafter referred to as "Cr.P.C., 1898") which became Section 340 Cr.P.C. and pointed out distinction that under old statute, it was mandatory to record a finding after preliminary inquiry regarding the commission of offence but the word "shall' as it was in Section 479-A of Cr.P.C., 1898 is substituted by word "may' in Section 340 Cr.P.C. as a result thereof it is no more mandatory that Court should record a finding. What is now required is only recording the finding of preliminary inquiry which is meant only to form an opinion of Court, and that too, opinion on an offence which appears to have been committed, as to whether the same should be duly inquired into.

24. I find a very recent judgement in Sh. Narendra Kumar Srivastava Vs. State of Bihar and Others 2019 AIR (SC) 2675, dealing with this aspect. It is held therein that requirement of formation of opinion of Court that it is expedient in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made, is with an objective that prosecution should be ordered if it is in the larger interest of administration of justice and not to gratify feelings of personal revenge or vindictiveness or to serve the ends of a private party. Court referred to an earlier decision in Santokh Singh vs. Izhar Hussain and Another (1973) 2 SCC 406 and observed that too frequent prosecutions for such offences tend to defeat its very object. It is only in glaring cases of deliberate falsehood where conviction is highly likely that Court should direct prosecution.

25. Now, I proceed to examine the order of this Court whether satisfy the requirement of law as discussed above.

26. An extraordinary constitutional remedy under Article 226 was invoked by filing a writ petition under Article 226 before this Court in the name of Kashi Ram, (petitioner) but he himself did not file writ petition. Instead, it was filed through Ravinder Talwar who claims to be a Holder of Power of Attorney of Kashi Ram. Writ petition involves an important question of vires of Amendment Act, 1998 and also seeks a mandamus that entire vend fee deposited by petitioner should be refunded. State Government and Excise Department while contesting writ petition filed an affidavit of Kashi Ram son of Kabool Ram Sharma stating that he has not authorized anyone to file writ petition. Meaning thereby, a writ petition involving serious issue of constitutional validity of a Statute was filed by an unauthorized person, making false claim that he was holding Power of Attorney of Kashi Ram and authorized to file writ petition. Court prima facie found that it is a case of fraud played upon Court and it may have resulted in interfering with legislation at the instance of a person who had no authority to bring an action in writ Court. Observation of Court that this kind of fraud cannot be allowed to encourage, so as to bring any unwarranted writ petition before this Court, shows that administration of justice in larger public interest required action in such matter and also inquiry need be conducted against person concerned who has played fraud with Court. Court has observed that in a fraudulent manner and by filing an unauthorized writ petition with a false affidavit, an attempt was made to utilize prerogative jurisdiction of Court and to seek extraordinary remedy by claiming that legislative enactment is ultravires and also to seek refund from Excise Department and this is a serious matter.

27. In my view, impugned order of Court if read as a whole, it cannot be said that Court has not recorded its opinion that it is expedient in the interest of justice that an inquiry should be made, inasmuch as, entire order of Court shows that Court found that action in question amounts to playing fraud with Court and unauthorized and unwarranted invocation of prerogative writ jurisdiction that too involving such a serious matter cannot be encouraged which shows that Court was clearly of the opinion that larger public interest required inquiry in the matter. For considering the compliance of requirement of Section 340 Cr.P.C. one has to look into substance of the order and should not expect a technical literal compliance by using the word stated in the Statute. If order shows substantive compliance and requirement of statute, such order does not require any interference.

28. Hence, I do not find any substance in the argument advanced on behalf of applicant.

29. No other point has been argued.

30. Application lacks merits and is accordingly dismissed.

31. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anil Mullick learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Abhinav Prasad, learned A.G.A. on behalf of the state.

2. This 482 Cr.P.C. application has been preferred for quashing the charge sheet No.119 dated 13.8.2001, under Section 2/3 The U.P. Gangster & Anti Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, Police Station Kotwali, District Meerut, pending in the Court of learned Special Judge Gangster Act, Meerut.

3. The facts of the case are that a first information report was lodged against the applicant as case crime No.166 of 2000, under Sections 2/3 of the U.P. Gangster & Anti Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, Police Station Kotwali, District Meerut and only on the basis of a single case i.e. case crime no.166 of 2000, under Section 384/506 I.P.C. read with Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Meerut, after investigation the Investigating Officer has submitted charge sheet against four persons including the applicant. The trial of the said case commenced and after the trial the applicant was acquitted by the judgment and order dated 27.4.2001 passed in Criminal Case No.871 of 2000.

4. During the pendency of the aforesaid trial a first information report was lodged against the accused, including the applicant on 13.8.2000 under Section 2/3 of the U.P. Gangster Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act 1986 (hereinafter referred to as "Gangster Act") only. The sole basis of lodging of the first information report against the applicant was the implication in case crime no.166 of 2000, under Section 384/506 I.P.C. read with Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Meerut, he was acquitted on 27.4.2001. Before acquittal chargesheet dated 15.12.2007 was filed against the applicant.

5. Counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the state stating that the applicant is an accused in the eye of law who has involved himself in anti-social activities. During investigation of the case evidence also came to light that the applicant formed a gang which is involved in extortion of money from innocent people and therefore he was implicated in the case under Gangster Act. Even after acquittal in case crime no.166 of 2000, under Section 384/506 I.P.C. read with Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Meerut, he cannot be discharged from the proceedings under the Gangster Act and he does not deserve any relief from this Court.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the very basis of initiation of F.I.R. under Gangster Act was the statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of case crime no.166 of 2000, under Section 384/506 I.P.C. read with Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Meerut. Learned counsel submitted that said basis for initiation of F.I.R. under Gangster Act has been disbelieved by the trial Court as the applicant has been acquitted in the aforesaid crime, which acquittal order has not been challenged as yet. It is further contended that once very basis of initiation of Gangster's Act proceedings diminished, the entire trial procedure and rigmarole of proceedings of criminal trial under that Act will be nothing but only wastage of time of Court. The learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pritam Singh and another vs. State of Punjab, AIR, 1956 Supreme Court 415 in support of his contention that once the revisionist was acquitted by the competent court for the case crime no.166 of 2000, under Section 384/506 I.P.C. read with Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, his trial under the provisions of Gangster Act would not be justified since the basis of implication in the case under the Gangsters Act was the case registered against the applicant in case crime no.166 of 2000, under Section 384/506 I.P.C. read with Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act. His contention is that his trial under the Gangster's Act would require trial regarding the same offence which was not found to have been proved by the trial court in the earlier case. He has relied upon the following observations of the Apex Court in the above mentioned case:-

"The effect of a verdict of acquittal pronounced by a competent Court on a lawful charge and after a lawful trial is not completely stated by saying that the person acquitted cannot be tried again for the same offence. To that it must be added that the verdict is binding and conclusive in all subsequent proceedings between the parties to the adjudication.

The maxim 'res judicata pro veritate accipitur' is no less applicable to criminal than to civil proceedings. Here, the appellant having been acquitted at the first trial on the charge of having ammunition in his possession, the prosecution was bound to accept the correctness of that verdict and was precluded from taking any steps to challenge it at the second trial".

7. In support of his contention learned counsel has further placed reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of N.R. Ghosh vs. the State of West Bengal, AIR 1960 Supreme Court (SC) 239 and has relied upon in paragraph 22 of the same reads as under:-

"The principle stated in the section is that when a person has once been tried by a court of competent jurisdiction for an offence and convicted or acquitted of it, he shall not while the conviction or acquittal remains in force, be tried again for the same offence. In order, therefore, that the appellant may have the benefit of the section he must have been tried by a court of competent jurisdiction. Furthermore, such acquittal must be in force."

8. Reference to the Apex Court judgment in the case of Manipur Administration, Manipur vs. Thokchon Veere Singh, AIR 1965 (SC) 87 has also been made wherein paragraph 6 are as follows:-

Before referring to the decision of this Court in Pritam Singh v. State of Punjab(1) it would be convenient to refer to and put aside one point for clearing the ground. Section 403, Criminal Procedure Code embodies in statutory form the accepted English rule of autre fois acquit. This section is as follows:-

"403 (1) A person who has been once tried by a Court of competent jurisdiction for an offence and convicted or acquitted of such offence shall, while such conviction or acquittal remains in force, not be liable to be tried again for the same offence, nor on the same facts for any offence for which a different charge from the one made against him might have been made under s. 236, or for which he might have been convicted under section 237. (2) A person acquitted or convicted of any offence may be afterwards tried for any distinct offence for which a separate charge might have been made against him on the former trial under section 235, sub-section (1). (3) A person convicted of any offence constituted by any act causing consequences which, together with such act, constituted a different offence from that of which he was convicted may be afterwards tried for such last mentioned offence, if the consequences had not happened, or were not known to the Court to have happened, at the time when he was convicted.

(4) A person acquitted or convicted of any offence constituted by any acts may, notwithstanding such acquittal or conviction, be subsequently charged with, and tried for, any other offence constituted by the same acts which he may have committed if the Court by which he was first tried was not competent to try the offence with which he is subsequently charged.

(1) A.T.R. 1956 S.C. 415.

(5) Nothing in this section shall affect the provisions of section 26 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, or section 188 of this Code.

Explanation-The dismissal of a complaint, the stopping of proceedings under section 249, the discharge of the accused or any entry made upon a charge under section 273, is not an acquittal for the purposes of this section." Section 26 of the General Clauses Act which is referred to in s. 403 enacts:

"26. Where an act or omission constitutes an offence under two or more enactments, then the offender shall be liable to be prosecuted and punished under either or any of those enactments, but shall not be liable to be punished twice for the same offence."

We might also, in this connection, refer to Art. 20(2) of the Constitution since it makes provision for a bar against a second prosecution in an analogous case. That provision reads:

"20(2). No person shall be prosecuted and punished for the same offence more than once." As has been pointed out by this Court in State of Bombay v. S. L. Apte(1), both in the case of Art. 20(2) of the Constitution as well as s. 26 of the General Clauses Act to operate as a bar the second prosecution and the consequential punishment thereunder, must be for "same offence" i.e., an offence whose ingredients are the same. It has been pointed out in the same decision that the V Amendment of the American Constitution which provides that no person shall be subject, for the same offence, to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb, proceeds on the same principle.

9. Reliace on Apex Court judgment in the case of Lalta and others vs. State of U.P., AIR 1970 (SC) 1381 has been made, wherein case of Pritam Singh's (supra) and Manipur Administration's case (supra) have been accepted as binding authorities on the issue. Reference to Municipal Corporation of Delhi vs. Shiv Singh 1971 (1) SCC 422 has been made where Section 26 of the general clauses Act 1897 were considered regarding the question of double jeopardy in relation to prosecution of an accused for single offence under two enactments and it was held that Section 26 of the general clauses Act prevents accused from double penalty. This judgment has been relied by the counsel to advance the proposition that the prosecution of the revisionist under the general provisions of Indian Penal Code and then under the provisions of Special Act i.e., Gangster Act on the basis of implication in the case under Section I.P.C., wherein he has been acquitted should not be permitted.

10. Counsel for the applicant has referred to the judgment, Bhagat Ram vs. State of Rajasthan (1972) 2 SCC 466, wherein the Apex Court held that even if an order of acquittal is passed by Division Bench of the Court, it is not open for the third Judge of the same Court in a subsequent stage of the same proceedings to convict the person unless the judgment of the Division Bench is set aside by the Supreme Court. In view of the principle embodied in Section 403 I.P.C.

11. The counsel has relied upon the judgment, Masood Khan vs. State of U.P. (1974) 3 SCC 469, wherein the issue decided was that for getting the benefit of the principle of issue of estoppel both the proceedings should be criminal proceedings and where one proceeding is civil and the other is criminal, the benefit of this principle will not be extended to the accused. Reference to V.K. Agrawal, Assistant Collector of Customs vs. Vasant Raj Bhagwan Ji Bhatia and others, (1988) 3 SCC 467 has also been made.

12. Learned counsel for the applicant has argued that in the present case the prosecution of the applicant is being made under the Gangsters Act. After acquittal under the provisions of I.P.C. If two constructions are possible one leading to anamoly, absurdity and unconstitutionality should be avoided.

13. Learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the judgment in the case of Kolla Vira Raghav Rao vs. Gorantla Vlalalalalal Rao, (2011) 2 SCC 703. In this case the Apex Court disapproved the prosecution of the accused under Section 420 I.P.C. After he was convicted under Section 138 N.I. Act, holding that the subsequent prosecution is barred by article 20(2) and Section 300(1) Cr.P.C. once the facts are the same.

14. After considering the authorities cited by the counsel for the applicant it is clear that the applicant was implicated in the Gangsters Act only on account of involvement in the case crime no.166 of 2000, under Section 384/506 I.P.C. read with Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act. The proceedings under the Gangsters Act are not independent proceedings. The implication of the applicant in the offence under the Gangsters Act was only because of the one case registered against him as case crime no.166 of 2000, under Section 384/506 I.P.C. read with Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, as clear from the gang chart annexed with the affidavit in support of this 482 Cr.P.C. application. The definition of gang is given in Section 2(b) which is as follows:-

Section 2:-

(b)"Gang" means a group of persons, who acting either singly or collectively, by violence, or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion, or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person, indulge in antisocial activities, namely:

(i) offences punishable under Chapter XVI, or Chapter XVII, or Chapter XXII of the Indian Penal Code (Act No. 45 of 1860), or

(ii) distilling or manufacturing or storing or transporting or importing or exporting or selling or distributing any liquor, or intoxicating or dangerous drugs, or other intoxicants or narcotics or cultivating any plant, in contravention of any of the provisions of the U. P. Excise Act, 1910 (U. P. Act No. 4 of 1910), or the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic

Substances Act, 1985 (Act No. 61 of 1985), or any other law for the time being in force, or

(iii) occupying or taking possession of immovable property otherwise than in accordance with law, or setting-up false claims for title or possession of immovable property whether in himself or any other person, or

(iv) preventing or attempting to prevent any public servant or any witness from discharging his lawful duties, or

*(v) offences punishable under the Suppression of [Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Act, 1956 (Act No. 104 of 1956)], or

(vi) offences punishable under Section 3 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867 (Act No. 3 of 1867), or

(vii) preventing any person from offering bids in auction lawfully conducted, or tender, lawfully invited, by or on behalf of any Government department, local body or public or private undertaking, for any lease or rights or supply of goods or work to be done, or (viii) preventing or disturbing the smooth running by any person of his lawful business, profession, trade or employment or any other lawful activity connected therewith, or

(ix) offences punishable under Section 171-E of the Indian Penal Code (Act No. 45 of 1860), or in preventing or obstructing any public election being lawfully held, by physically preventing the voter from exercising his electoral rights, or (x) inciting others to resort to violence to disturb communal harmony, or (xi) creating panic, alarm or terror in public, or

(xii) terrorising or assaulting employees or owners or occupiers of public or private undertakings or factories and causing mischief in respect of their properties, or

(xiii) inducing or attempting to induce any person to go to foreign countries on false representation that any employment, trade or profession shall be provided to him in such foreign country, or

(xiv) kidnapping or abducting any person with intent to extort ransom, or

(xv) diverting or otherwise preventing any aircraft or public transport vehicle from following its scheduled course.

15. A perusal of the aforesaid sections shows that the applicant was implicated in an offence under chapter 16, I.P.C. and therefore he was implicated in the case under the Gangsters Act. There is only one case shown against the applicant in the gang chart in which the applicant was acquitted by the competent Court and therefore his implication and trial under Section 2/3 of the Gangsters Act was not justified.

16. From the law of the Apex Court as discussed above it is crystal clear that the trial of the applicant for an offence under Section 2/3 of the Gangsters Act is not justified. In view of the fact that only one case is registered against him and he has been acquitted in that case.

17. In view of the above consideration of the facts of the case and law cited the charge sheet No.119 dated 13.8.2001, under Section 2/3 The U.P. Gangster & Anti Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986, Police Station Kotwali, District Meerut, pending in the Court of learned Special Judge Gangster Act, Meerut, is hereby quashed.

18. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. henceforth is allowed.

1. This application under Section 482 of Cr.P.C. has been filed by Sanjay Verma against State of U.P. and another, with a prayer for setting aside impugned charge-sheet and cognizance taking order dated 31.5.2016, in Criminal Case No. 889 of 2016, State Vs. Sanjay Verma, under Sections 354 of I.P.C., P.S. Kotwali, District Ballia, pending before Court of A.C.J.M. Ist, Ballia.

2. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. representing the State.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant argued that opposite party No. 2 Rekha Verma, who is informant-complainant of present case, lodged under Section 354 of IPC, is an accused in a case of murder of Omji Verma, which was manipulated by her to be shown as a railway accident death whereas FIR was got lodged and matter was investigated wherein, final report was submitted, against which protest petition was filed and order for further investigation was prayed. This is a false case lodged as counter blast for alleged occurrence after a delay. This offence under Section 354 of IPC as Case Crime No. 567 of 2016, was got registered, upon an application moved under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C., wherein, investigation resulted in submission of charge-sheet No. 71 of 2016 dated 3.4.2016. Cognizance by Magistrate was taken on 31.5.2016. Occurrence was said to be of 3.11.2015 and case was registered on 15.3.2016. In between, above case of murder was got registered, wherein, she has moved an application regarding no enmity with anyone and it being death under railway accident. This was an offence of murder. Hence, this counter blast case was a result of concoction. But, trial Court failed to appreciate it, hence, this application for preventing abuse of process of law. Thereby, prayer for setting aside impugned charge-sheet and cognizance taking order with entire proceeding of above criminal case was prayed for.

4. Learned counsel for other side vehemently opposed with this contention that complainant is widow lady of 25 years, with no issue. Accused applicant is real brother of her husband. With a view to oust her from her property, this false case was got registered because death was owing to railway accident and investigation resulted in submission of final report. This case was reported by G.R.P. too, that it was a case of accident. In the present case, he was subjected to molestation in her room, wherein, accused was residing being elder brother of her deceased husband. For this, she ran from pillar to post for getting cae registered and ultimately, this could be registered and investigated, wherein, charge-sheet has been submitted and cognizance has been taken. Hence, this application.

5. Having heard learned counsels for both sides as well as learned AGA and gone thourgh the material placed on record, it is apparent that a case under Section 302 of IPC was got registered by way of application moved under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. for murder of Omji Verma but it resulted in submission of final report and in police record too, it was a case of railway accident. Moreso, this Court is not to give any opinion about facts of above case or any proceeding regarding it but so far as present case is concerned and there is accusation of molestation by complainant-informant against accused-applicant, who is real brother of her deceased husband and it has been substantiated by her in her statement recorded under Section 161 of Cr.P.c. Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet and Magistrate applied its legal mind and thereby, took cognizance over this offence under Section 354 of IPC, which was substantiated by facts on record.

6. This Court in exercise of inherent power under Section 482 of cr.P.C., is never expected to make meticulous analysis of facts and evidence for filing of charge-sheet or not, charge-sheet has been filed on the basis of evidence collected by Investigating Officer. There seems no misuse of process of law as propounded by Apex Court:-

"Saving of inherent power of High Court, as given under Section 482 Cr.P.C, provides that nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. Meaning thereby this inherent power is with High Court (I) to make such order as may be necessary to give effect to any other order under this Code (II) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court (III) or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. But Apex Court in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Gaurishetty Mahesh, JT 2010 (6) SC 588: (2010) 6 SCALE 767: 2010 Cr. LJ 3844 has propounded that "While exercising jurisdiction under section 482 of the Code, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable apprehension of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of the trial Judge/Court". In another subsequent Hamida v. Rashid, (2008) 1 SCC 474*, hon'ble Apex Court propounded that "Ends of justice would be better served if valuable time of the Court is spent in hearing those appeals rather than entertaining petitions under Section 482 at an interlocutory stage which after filed with some oblique motive in order to circumvent the prescribed procedure, or to delay the trial which enable to win over the witness or may disinterested in giving evidence, ultimately resulting in miscarriage of Justice". In again another subsequent* Monica Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2008) 8 SCC 781*, the Apex Court has propounded "Inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself." While interpreting this jurisdiction of High Court Apex Court in* Popular Muthiah v. State, Represented by Inspector of Police, (2006) 7 SCC 296 has propounded "High Court can exercise jurisdiction suo motu in the interest of justice. It can do so while exercising other jurisdictions such as appellate or revisional jurisdiction. No formal application for invoking inherent jurisdiction is necessary. Inherent jurisdiction can be exercised in respect of substantive as well as procedural matters. It can as well be exercised in respect of incidental or supplemental power irrespective of nature of proceedings".

Regarding prevention of abuse of process of Court, Apex Court in Dhanlakshmi v. R.Prasana Kumar, (1990) Cr LJ 320 (DB): AIR 1990 SC 494 has propounded "To prevent abuse of the process of the Court, High Court in exercise of its inherent powers under section 482 could quash the proceedings but there would be justification for interference only when the complaint did not disclose any offence or was frivolous vexatious or oppressive" as well as in State of Bihar v. Murad Ali Khan, (1989) Cr LJ 1005: AIR 1989 SC 1*, Apex Court propounded "In exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 High Court would not embark upon an enquiry whether the allegations in the complaint are likely to be established by evidence or not".*

7. Meaning thereby, exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is within the limits. This appeal merits its dismissal.

8. Dismissed, accordingly.

9. Interim order, if any, got vacated.

10. However, in view of the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case, it is directed that in case the applicant appears and surrenders before the court below within 30 days and no more from today and applies for bail, his prayer for bail shall be considered and decided in view of the settled law laid by this Court in the case of Amrawati and another Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2004 (57) ALR 290 as well as judgement passed by Hon'ble Apex Court reported in 2009 (3) ADJ 322 (SC) Lal Kamlendra Pratap Singh Vs. State of U.P. Till then no coercive measure shall be taken against the applicant.

11. With the aforesaid directions, this application is finally disposed of.

A. Criminal Law-Code of Criminal Procedure - Section 164 - Application filed by the applicant no. 1 to record her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. rejected- As a rule, statement under section 164 Cr.P.C. may be recorded only of a person sponsored by the investigating agency-Only exception is the confessional statement of an accused person under investigation-Before recording which the Magistrate may first call for a police report and also seek identification of such a person -No right can be claimed by the applicant no. 1 to get her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. as admittedly, she had not been sponsored by the investigating agency. Also, from the perusal of the affidavit of the mother of the applicant no. 1, it appears that that the application was filed only to dilute the statement of the applicant no. 1, as recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saumitra Dayal Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Harsh Sharma holding brief of Shri. Akhilesh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the applicants and Sri Ankit Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed to quash the order dated 27.07.2018 passed by the Addl. Sessions Judge, Court No. 5, Aligarh by which that court has rejected the application filed by the applicant no. 1 to record her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. in Criminal Misc. Application No. 313 of 2018 that had been filed with reference to Case Crime No. 399 of 2018, under Section- 306 IPC, Police Station- Quarsi, District- Aligarh.

3. In short, an FIR was lodged on 23.03.2018 alleging commission of offence under Section 306 IPC. During the police investigation in that case, a statement of the applicant no. 1, is claimed to have been recorded by the Investigating Officer on 29.04.2018, under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Such statement has given rise to the dispute in the present case. The applicant no. 1 alleges her statement had been wrongly recorded by the police. On 23.6.2018, her mother filed an affidavit before the S.S.P., Aligarh making that allegation and basically sought to dilute the prosecution case, at this stage. No action appears to have taken on such application and the investigation remained pending. On 5.7.2018 the applicants then filed an application before the learned Court below to record the statement of applicant no. 1 under Section 164 Cr.P.C. Admittedly, the applicant had not been sponsored by the investigating agency and while no order had been passed on the aforesaid application, on 07.07.2018, the investigating agency submitted a charge sheet under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. whereon cognizance was taken by the learned Court below on the same date without first passing any order on the application filed by the present applicants - under Section 164 Cr.P.C. Subsequently, on 27.07.2018, the impugned order has been passed by which the learned Court below has rejected the application filed by the applicant no. 1 to record her statement under section 164 Cr.P.C.

4. While rejecting that application, the learned Court below has observed since it had already taken cognizance on 07.07.2018 and therefore there remained no occasion to record a statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C.

5. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that the learned Court below has completely erred in rejecting the application to record the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. He would submit that the language of Section 164(1) is clear. A statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. may be recorded at any time during investigation or at any time afterwards but before the commencement of the inquiry or trial. Insofar as other than taking cognizance no other step had been taken by the learned Magistrate as may establish that the inquiry or the trial had commenced, it remained open to the learned Court below to record the statement of the applicant no. 1 under Section 164 Cr.P.C.

6. Second, since the applicant is not a stranger but a person who had been questioned by the investigating agency, her statement should have been recorded under section 164 Cr.P.C. In this regard, he further submitted that in the facts of the present case, the police report had been submitted under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. and not under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. He submits that on the own showing of the investigating agency, the investigation was pending. Therefore, undeniably the stage for recording statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. did survive.

7. As to the need for her statement to be recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., it has been submitted, since the police had not conducted a fair and proper investigation inasmuch as the statement of the applicant no. 1 who is a key witness had been recorded in a manner so as to aid the accused persons, the applicant no. 1 was within her rights to approach the learned Court below to get her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C.

8. Learned counsel for the applicants has relied on a decision of the Jharkhand High Court in the case of Reshma Khan Vs. State of Jharkhand passed in Criminal Revision No. 999 of 2014 decided on 20.01.2015, wherein it has been observed as below:

"4. .....On plain reading of the provisions it is apparent that the Magistrate has the power to record the statement of a witness under Section 164 (5) Cr.P.C. but the judicial discretion has to be exercised on consideration of the facts of the case.

7. In the instant case the petitioner is the informant of the case. She has categorically stated that her L.T.I. was taken by the police when she was admitted in the hospital and she never made the statement which was converted by the police as her fard bayaan. She has stated that she approached the police to take her statement when she learnt that a person against whom she had no grievance has been made an accused by the police after getting her LTI on a blank paper. She even wrote to the Superintendent of Police in this matter but the investigating officer did not record her statement.

8.....

9. It is well settled that when the case is under investigation by the investigating agency, the court's power is restricted in interfering with the investigation. However, as is abundantly clear from the emergent factual scenario the petitioner being the informant had approached the court for recording her statement being distressed and aggrieved with the attitude of the investigating agency.

In such circumstances the Magistrate should have exercised his judicial discretion under the provision of Section 164 Cr.P.C. before rejecting the prayer of the petitioner."

9. Last, it has been submitted that no prejudice may be caused, if such statement was to be recorded in support of the prosecution case and not in the aid of defence. Here great emphasis was laid on the fact that the applicant no. 1 is not a stranger to the criminal case inasmuch as her statement had been recorded by the police itself and that therefore she had not rushed to the learned Magistrate to set up a false defence.

10. Sri Ankit Srivastava, learned AGA has opposed the motion. He would submit that once the investigation had been concluded and cognizance of the offence had been taken, there did not survive any stage for the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. to be recorded.

11. As to the right claimed by the applicants, he submits, no person, in whatever capacity, can approach the learned Magistrate to get his statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., unless he is sponsored by the investigating agency, except a person under investigation, who may approach the Magistrate to get his confessional statement recorded or a person covered by provision of section 164(5A) Cr.P.C. Even in the case of a confessional statement, it has been submitted that a police report would necessarily have to be first called by the learned Magistrate before a such statement may be recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C.

12. As to the statement of any other person who may want his statement to be recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., it has been submitted, he must be sponsored by the investigating agency. Reliance has been placed on a decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Jogendra Nahak & Others Vs. State of Orissa & Others reported in 2000 (1) SCC 272 wherein it has been observed as below:

"2. A strange motion has been made before the High Court of Orissa by four persons who are strangers to a criminal case for direction to a magistrate to record their statements under Section 164 of the CrPC (for short 'the Code').

.....

20. In re C.W. Cases (supra) Govinda Menon, J. of the Madras High Court (as he then was) expressed the view that:

It is not necessary that the Magistrate should be moved by the police in order that he might record a statement. There may be instances where the police may not desire to have recorded, the statement of a witness for some reason or other. In such a case, there is nothing preventing the witness to go to the Magistrate and request him to record the statement and if a Magistrate records his statement and transmits the same to the court where the enquiry or the trial is to go on, there is nothing wrong in his action.

21. Nevertheless learned Single Judge sounded a note of caution like this:

But such a thing will be very exceptional, as there is always a discretion in the Magistrate to refuse to record the statement. Ordinarily, when a police officer requests the Magistrate to record the statement, of a witness on oath under Section 161 Cr.P.C., such a request will not be refused by the Magistrate. But when a private party seeks to invoke the powers of a Magistrate under Section 164, Cr.P.C. the Magistrate has got a very wide discretion in acting or refusing to act.

22. The same approach was made by Single Judges in State of Orissa v. A.P. Das (supra) and in Kunjukutty v. State of Kerala (supra).

23. If a Magistrate has power to record statement of any person under Section 164 of the Code, even without the investigating officer moving for it, then there is no good reason to limit the power to exceptional cases. We are unable to draw up a dividing line between witnesses whose statements are liable to be recorded by the Magistrate on being approached for that purpose and those not to be recorded. The contention that there may be instances, when the investigating officer would be disinclined to record statements of willing witnesses and therefore such witnesses must have a remedy to have their version regarding a case put on record, is no answer to the question whether any intending witness can straightaway approach a Magistrate for recording his statement under Section 164 of the Code. Even for such witnesses provisions are available in law, e.g. the accused can cite them as defence witnesses during trial or the court can be requested to summon them under Section 311 of the Code. When such remedies are available to witnesses (who may be sidelined by the investigating officers) we do not find any special reason why the Magistrate should be burdened with the additional task of recording the statements of all and sundry who may knock at the door of the court with a request to record their statements under Section 164 of the Code.

25. Thus, on a consideration of various aspects, we are disinclined to interpret Section 164(1) of the Code as empowering a magistrate to record the statement of a person unsponsored by the investigating agency. The High Court has rightly disallowed the statements of the four appellants to remain on record in this case. Of course, the said course will be without prejudice to their evidence being adduced during trial, if any of the parties requires it." (emphasis supplied)

13. Further, reliance has been placed on a decision of this Court in the case of Nafeesa Vs. State of U.P. and Others reported in 2015 (5) ADJ 648 wherein following the decision in the case of Jogendra Nahak & Others Vs. State of Orissa & Others (supra), it was observed as under:

"1. The question raised by way of this petition is as to whether a witness, of his own has the right to approach a Magistrate to record his statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C.; and whether such Magistrate is under a legal obligation to record the statement of such witness under Section 164 Cr.P.C., when investigation in a criminal offence is going on?

12. Considering the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India, and extracted hereinabove, it becomes clear that a Magistrate cannot take note of an individual approaching him directly with a prayer that his/ her statement may be recorded in connection with some occurrence involving a criminal offence. If liberty is given to anybody, and everybody, to approach a Magistrate for recording of statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. in connection with an occurrence involving criminal offence, and if Magistrates are put under an obligation to record their statement, there is every likelihood that persons sponsored by accused/ culprits might be asked to approach court of the Magistrate for creating record/ evidence in defence with the purpose to help an accused/benefactor. If such a provision is made by way of giving liberty to a person unsponsored by the investigating agency to give statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., entire investigation process would be derailed.

13. In the opinion of this Court, investigation is a searching enquiry for ascertaining facts; detailed or careful examination. Such Investigation is to be conducted by an investigating agency. In case persons individually are permitted to create "evidence in the process of investigation", the process of investigation would be interfered.

15. Considering the above it becomes illusory and apparent that only a police officer or an investigator can sponsor a witness to a Magistrate for recording of statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C." (emphasis supplied)

14. Other than the confessional statement by an accused person another category of cases where a statement may be recorded under section 164 Cr.P.C. is of persons covered under sub-section 5A of that section. Clearly, such is not the case before us.

15. Having considered the arguments so advanced by learned counsel for the parties, it is first to be noted that a Full Bench of this Court in the case of Raja Ram Vs. State reported in AIR 1966 All 192 had the occasion to consider the following question:

"Whether a confession recorded by a Magistrate under Section 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure after the police had completed its investigation and submitted a charge-sheet, but before the Magisterial enquiry has commenced, is inadmissible in evidence."

16. The concurrent opinion of each of the three judges (comprising the full bench), on the above question was in the negative, and it was held that a statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. may be recorded after the conclusion of investigation upto before the commencement of the inquiry or the trial. The third opinion expressed by Justice D.P. Uniyal specifically dealt with the point in time when an inquiry may be treated to have commenced. That question was answered in the following words:

"24. Under the provisions of the Code the inquiry under Chapter XVIII commences when the Magistrate takes cognisance of the offence within the meaning of Section 190 (1). After the police had submitted a report under Section 173 cognisance of the offence could be taken by the Magistrate under clause (b) of Subsection (1) of Section 190. In the circumstances of this case the Magistrate would have taken cognisance of the offence when he applied his mind to the contents of the police report for the purpose of proceeding in the manner indicated in Section 207-A of Chapter XVIII of the Code.

25. Sub-section (3) of Section 207-A gives an indication as to the point of time when the inquiry may be said to commence. That sub-section reads thus: "At the commencement of the inquiry the Magistrate shall when the accused appears or is brought before him, satisfy himself that the documents referred to in Section 173 have been furnished to the accused, and if he finds that the accused has not been furnished with such documents or any of them he shall cause the same to be so furnished."

Sub-section (4) and the subsequent sub-sections provide how the Magistrate should proceed to record evidence produced on behalf of the prosecution and empower the Magistrate to summon such evidence as he may consider necessary, and to call upon the accused if necessary to make a statement in regard to the accusation against him. It would thus appear that the inquiry commences only after the Magistrate is satisfied that the documents referred to in Section 173 have been supplied to the accused and when the Magistrate proceeds to take the evidence in support of the prosecution case." (emphasis supplied)

17. That being the correct principle, in the present case, it has not been examined by the learned court below whether the documents as required by Section 173(4) Cr.P.C. had been supplied to the accused person on any date prior to 27.07.2018. Thus, at present it cannot be said whether the inquiry had or had not commenced. To that extent, the reasoning given by the learned Court below is incomplete or inadequate. The correct principle to be applied by the learned Court below would have to be one as had been laid down in the full bench of this Court, noted above. However, a decision on that point may not be necessary in the facts of the present case, in view of what follows herein.

18. In so far as it is the admitted case of the applicant no. 1 that she was not seeking to get her confessional statement recorded, then, irrespective of the stage of the proceedings, her statement could not have been recorded under section 164 Cr.P.C. since she had not been sponsored by the investigating agency. Therefore, the pre-condition to record such statement was not satisfied. In this regard the decision of the Supreme Court, in the case of Jogendra Nahak & Others Vs. State of Orissa & Others (supra) appears to categorically and unequivocally prescribe - only a person sponsored by the investing agency can approach the Magistrate to get his statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. The only exception that exists to that inferred principle is the confessional statement of an accused person under investigation.

19. The submission that the said principle would apply only against strangers to the accusation who may rush to the learned Magistrate only to create false or frivolous evidence in support of the accused persons and thus seek to scuttle the investigation is unfounded. From a plain reading of the decision, in Jogendra Nahak & Others Vs. State of Orissa & Others (supra), the clear principle of law laid down does not create or allow for such an exception to arise or exist. To that extent the principle laid down by the Supreme Court appears to be absolute. It was followed by another coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Nafeesa Vs. State of U.P. and Others (supra) where the informant approached the learned Magistrate on second occasion to record her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., though such statement had also been recorded earlier.

20. Then, the Supreme Court had the occasion to consider its decision in Jogendra Nahak & Others Vs. State of Orissa & Others (supra), in the case of Mahabir Singh Vs. State of Haryana reported in 2001 (7) SCC 148. The latter was a case where the learned Magistrate had proceeded to record a statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., alleged to be a confessional statement, without prior verification of the identity of that person. In that context, it was observed as below:

"20. The sub-section makes it clear that the power of the Magistrate to record any confession or statement made to him could be exercised only in the course of investigation under Chapter XII of the Code. The section is intended to take care of confessional as well as non-confessional statements. Confession could be made only by one who is either an accused or suspected to be an accused of a crime. Sub-sections (2), (3) and (4) are intended to cover confessions alone, dehors non-confessional statements whereas Sub-section (5) is intended to cover such statements. A three Judge Bench of this Court in Jogendra Nahak v. State of Orissa, 1999 CriLJ 3976 has held that so far as statements (other than confession) are concerned they cannot be recorded by a Magistrate unless the person (who makes such statement) was produced or sponsored by investigating officer. But the Bench has distinguished that aspect from the confession recording for which the following observations have been specifically made
(SCC p. 275, para 12)

"12. There can be no doubt that a confession of the accused can be recorded by a Magistrate. An accused is a definite person against whom there would be an accusation and the Magistrate can ascertain whether he is in fact an accused person. Such a confession can be used against the maker thereof. If it is a confessional statement, the prosecution has to rely on (SIC)against the accused.

21. We have no doubt that an accused person can appear before a Magistrate and it is not necessary that such accused should be produced by the police for recording the confession. But it is necessary that such appearance must be "in the course of an investigation" under Chapter XII of the Code. If the Magistrate does not know that he is concerned in a case for which investigation has been commenced under the provisions of Chapter XII it is not permissible for him to record the confession. If any person simply barges into the Court and demands the Magistrate to record his confession as he has committed a cognizable offense, the course open to the Magistrate is to inform the police about it. The police in turn has to take the steps envisaged in Chapter XII of the Code. It may be possible for the Magistrate to record a confession if he has reason to believe that investigation has commenced and that the person who appeared before him demanding recording of his confession is concerned in such case. Otherwise the Court of a Magistrate is not a place into which all and sundry can gatecrash and demand the Magistrate to record whatever he says as self-incriminatory." (emphasis supplied)

21. No prior verification having been made, for that reason, the alleged confessional statement recorded by the Magistrate (in that case), was treated to be an idle exercise of power, of no consequence or legal effect.

22. Also, the Supreme Court in the case of Ajay Kumar Parmar Vs. State of Rajasthan reported in 2012 (12) SCC 406 reiterated the principle laid down in the case of Jogendra Nahak & Others Vs. State of Orissa & Others (supra) after taking note of the distinction, on facts, drawn by that Court to the aforesaid judgment in the case of Mahabir Singh Vs. State of Haryana (supra). In that case, a statement of the informant/victim (being a person covered under section 164 (5A) Cr. P.C.), was recorded by the Magistrate, upon an application of the informant/victim though she had not been sponsored/produced by the investigating agency. By that statement, the informant falsified the F.I.R. allegations. However, a charge-sheet was filed. Relying on the disputed statement (under Section 164 Cr.P.C.) of the victim, the Magistrate did not take cognizance and acquitted the accused person. It was observed by the Supreme Court as below:

"11. A three-Judge Bench of this Court in Jogendra Nahak v. State of Orissa, held that sub-section (5) of Section 164, deals with the statement of a person, other than the statement of an accused i.e. a confession. Such a statement can be recorded, only and only when, the person making such statement is produced before the Magistrate by the police. This Court held that, in case such a course of action, wherein such person is allowed to appear before the Magistrate of his own volition, is made permissible, and the doors of court are opened to them to come as they please, and if the Magistrate starts recording all their statements, then too many persons sponsored by culprits might throng before the portals of the Magistrate's Courts, for the purpose of creating record in advance to aid the said culprits. Such statements would be very helpful to the accused to get bail and discharge orders.

12. The said judgment in Jogendra Nahak case was distinguished by this Court in Mahabir Singh v. State of Haryana, on facts, but the Court expressed its anguish at the fact that the statement of a person in the said case was recorded under Section 164 CrPC by the Magistrate, without knowing him personally or without any attempt of identification of the said person, by any other person.

13. In view of the above, it is evident that this case is squarely covered by the aforesaid judgment of the three-Judge Bench in Jogendra Nahak, which held that a person should be produced before a Magistrate, by the police for recording his statement under Section 164 CrPC. The Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sirohi, who entertained the application and further directed the Judicial Magistrate, Sheoganj, to record the statement of the prosecutrix, was not known to the prosecutrix in the case and the latter also recorded her statement, without any attempt at identification, by any court officer/lawyer/police or anybody else."

23. Thus, in the first place, as a rule, statement under section 164 Cr.P.C. may be recorded only of a person sponsored by the investigating agency. By way of an exception to that rule, a confessional statement (of person facing criminal investigation), may be recorded by the Magistrate, if he has reason to believe that the person seeking to make such a statement is an accused person in a criminal investigation and further, such person seeks to get recorded his confessional statement. Also, for that purpose, the Magistrate may first call for a police report and also seek identification of such a person, before proceeding to record his statement.

24. The Jharkhand High Court, in the case of Reshma Khan Vs. State of Jharkhand (supra) has clearly held contrary to the view taken by the Supreme Court in Jogendra Nahak & Others Vs. State of Orissa & Others (supra). The view taken therein had been disapproved by the Supreme Court while dealing with a similar view that had been then taken by the Madras, Orissa and Kerala High Courts.

25. In view of the above clear position of law, no right can be claimed by the present applicant no. 1 to get her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. as admittedly, she had not been sponsored by the investigating agency. Also, from the perusal of the affidavit of the mother of the applicant no. 1, it appears that that the application was filed only to dilute the statement of the applicant no. 1, as recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C.

26. Therefore, for the above reasons, the order passed by the learned court below does not warrant any interference, though for reasons different from those contained in the impugned order.

27. The present application lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

A. Dishonor of cheque - Section 141 - Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881 - cheque issued by Company - company was not impleaded as a party to the complaint proceedings - as per the Judgments of Supreme Court in case of Aneeta Handa and Himanshu as well as the provisions of Section 141 of the Act, the 'company' who has issued the cheque should be impleaded as the party to the complaint filed under Section 138 of the Act.

That the provisions of Section 141 postulates that if the person committing an offence under Section 138 is a company, every person, who at the time when the offence was committed was in charge of or was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished and in absence of the company being arraigned as an accused, a complaint against the applicant was not maintainable. (Delivered by Hon'ble Rajiv Joshi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Amit Daga, learned counsel for the applicant and learned AGA for the State. Nobody has put in appearance on behalf of O.P. No.2 in spite of service of notice to him.

2. The present petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed for quashing the order dated 2.5.2018 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.5, Jhansi, in Criminal Revision No. 190 of 2017 (Sumesh Sahani Vs. State of U.P. & Anr.) as well as summoning order 30.4.2013 passed Judicial Magistrate Court No. 12 Jhansi, in Criminal Complaint Case No. 475 of 2013 and entire proceedings of Criminal Complaint Case No. 475 of 2013, under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act') P.S. Kotwali, District- Jhansi, pending before the court of Judicial Magistrate Court No. 12 Jhansi.

3. It reflects from the record that the O.P. No.2 has filed a complaint under Section 138 of the Act against the applicant for dishonoring of cheque dated 12.12.2012 amounting to Rs. 3.5 lacs. As per the complaint as well as from the cheque (appended at page 25 of the paper book), it is apparent that the cheque in question was issued by the company "Essex Construction Private Ltd." which is incorporated under the Companies Act, a copy of the certificate of incorporation has been appended at page 54.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submits, the complaint is wholly incompetent since the cheque (giving rise to the complaint) was issued by the 'company' Essex Construction Private Ltd. and the said company that was not impleaded as an accused person in the complaint. Reliance has been placed on

Section 141 of the Act and also upon the judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court in the Case of Aneeta Hoda and others Vs. God Father Travels and Tours Pvt. Limited and others, (2012 (5) SCC-661) as well as in the Case of Himanshu Vs. B Shivamurthy & Anr. (2019 Law Suit SC 86).

5. On the other hand, learned AGA justified the prosecution by stating that the partners of the company have been arrayed as an accused, therefore, there is no necessity for impleading the company as an accused person.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

7. At the very outset, it may be pointed out that, there is no dispute to the fact that the cheque has been issued by the company incorporated under the Companies Act.

8. The provisions of Section 141 of the Act are relevant, which read thus:-

"141. Offences by companies.-

(1) If the person committing an offence under section 138 is a company, every person who, at the time the offence was committed, was in charge of, and was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company, as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly:

Provided that nothing contained in this sub-section shall render any person liable to punishment if he proves that the offence was committed without his knowledge, or that he had exercised all due diligence to prevent the commission of such offence. [Provided further that where a person is nominated as a Director of a company by virtue of his holding any office or employment in the Central Government or State Government or a financial corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be, he shall not be liable for prosecution under this Chapter.]

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where any offence under this Act has been committed by a company and it is proved that the offence has been committed with the consent or connivance of, or is attributable to, any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other officer of the company, such director, manager, secretary or other officer shall also be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

Explanation.-- For the purposes of this section,--

(a) "company" means any body corporate and includes a firm or other association of individuals; and

(b) "director", in relation to a firm, means a partner in the firm."

9. A plain reading of the provision makes it clear, if the person committing the offence is a "company", in that event every natural person responsible for such commission as also the artificial person namely the company shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly. Also, certain other natural persons may be held guilty, if so proved. By way of the Explanation (a) attached to that provision of law, the term 'company' (specifically for the purpose of Section 141 of the Act), has been defined to mean a body corporate or a firm or any other association of individuals.

10. In this regard, paragraph nos. 42 & 43 of the decision of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Aneeta Hoda and others Vs. God Father Travels and Tours Pvt. Limited and others, may be referred, which are quoted hereinunder:

"42. ..... Applying the doctrine of strict construction, we are of the considered opinion that commission of offence by the company is an express condition precedent to attract the vicarious liability of others. Thus, the words "as well as the company" appearing in the Section make it absolutely unmistakably clear that when the company can be prosecuted, then only the persons mentioned in the other categories could be vicariously liable for the offence subject to the averments in the petition and proof thereof. One cannot be oblivious of the fact that the company is a juristic person and it has its own respectability. If a finding is recorded against it, it would create a concavity in its reputation. There can be situations when the corporate reputation is affected when a director is indicted.

"43. In view of our aforesaid analysis, we arrive at the irresistible conclusion that for maintaining the prosecution under Section 141 of the Act, arraigning of a company as an accused is imperative. The other categories of offenders can only be brought in the dragnet on the touchstone of vicarious liability as the same has been stipulated in the provision itself."

11. The similar view has been taken by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the latest judgment in the case of Himanshu Vs. B. Shivamuthy & Anr. and held that the provisions of Section 141 postulate that if the person committing an offence under Section 138 is a company, every person, who at the time when the offence was committed was in charge of or was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished and in absence of the company being arraigned as an accused, a complaint against the applicant was not maintainable.

12. From the aforesaid decisions of the Hon'ble Apex Court as well as provisions of Section 141, it is apparent that if the "company" who has issued the cheque, has not been arraigned as an accused, than the complaint under Section 138 of N.I. Act cannot be processed.

13. In view of the above, the order dated 2.5.2018 passed by Additional Sessions Judge and order dated 30.4.2013 passed Judicial Magistrate Court No. 12 Jhansi, in Criminal Complaint Case No. 475 of 2013 cannot be sustained in the eyes of law, and are hereby quashed.

14. The present application stands allowed. No order as to costs.

Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No. 35595 of 2019

Sharad Agrawal ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Anil Kumar Pathak, Sri Anuj Srivastava, Sri G.S. Chaturvedi

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.G.A., Sri Aushim Luthra, Sri Manish Tiwari

A. Simultaneous/parallel proceedings - matter gave rise to both civil and criminal liabilities - probate proceedings were going on in civil court while forgery case were going on in criminal court - mere pendency of civil litigation (probate proceedings) does not vitiate criminal proceedings and does not absolve the accused from criminal liability - both proceedings can run concurrently.

The interference is ordinarily done by this Court in those matters where it is found that the ingredients of the criminal offence are not made out from the allegations of the F.I.R. and it is found that deliberately a criminal complexion has been lent to a controversy which is essentially of civil nature. But the cases where rank forgery as reflected from the allegations and the ingredients of offences are apparently made out, the criminal prosecution is not shut down just because of the pendency of civil case. Punishment of imprisonments etc. has to be awarded to the guilty persons in the criminal forum while the civil damages or the annulment of forged documents has to be done in the civil forum. In cases of rank fraud and forgery both the forums have got to be necessarily approached to get complete relief and in order to bring the guilty accused to justice. (Para 11)

While addressing an hypothetical situation of incongruent findings by different Courts on identical and similar issue in case of simultaneous proceedings in two forums,, the Hon'ble Apex Court kept in perspective that the decision of one Court has not been declared by the legislature to be binding on other Court always and has not been recognized as relevant except under certain circumstances and for certain limited purposes only. The only relevant consideration to avoid such kind of incongruity was to avoid the eventuality of embarrassment. No strait jacket cut and dried formula can be laid down in this regard and it all depends from case to case and the nature of two proceedings that are pending at two forums in the light of which the Courts are required to form their opinion whether twin proceedings ought to be allowed to go simultaneously or not and whether on ought to be preferred to the other or whether one of them deserves to be stayed till the other is decided. (Delivered by Hon'ble Karuna Nand Bajpayee, J.)

1. Sri Aushim Luthra, Advocate has filed his vakalatnama on behalf of opposite party no.2, which is taken on record.

2. This application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed seeking the quashing of the cognizance order dated 16.1.2018 passed by the Metropolitan Magistrate-III, Kanpur Nagar in Case No. 1663 of 2018, State versus Sharad Agarwal and others and revisional order dated 24.12.2018 passed by the Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar in Criminal Revision No. 231 of 2018, Sharad Agarwal versus State of U.P. and others whereby the aforesaid criminal revision has been dismissed affirming the order dated 16.1.2018 of the Magistrate. The applicant has also sought for quashing of the N.B.W. order dated 31.8.2019 passed by the Special Judicial Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar as well as the entire proceedings of aforesaid Case No. 1663 of 2018, State versus Sharad Agarwal and others pending before the court below.

3. Heard Sri G.S. Chaturvedi, learned Senior counsel assisted by Sri Anuj Srivastava and Sri Anil Kumar Pathak, Advocates for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and Sri Manish Tiwari, Advocate assisted by Sri Aushim Luthra, learned counsel for opposite party no.2. Perused the record.

4. Submission of learned counsel for the applicant is that probate proceedings are going on in the civil court where the same issues are to be adjudicated and, therefore, the criminal proceedings are not desirable to be adopted in the case. Further submission is that there is no such express evidence of denial of signature on the will and, therefore, the will cannot be said to be forged. It is also submitted that in the case of co-accused the Court has stayed the proceeding of the case, hence the present applicant may also be given the same relief. Certain other contentions have also been raised by the applicant's counsel but all of them relate to disputed questions of fact. The court has also been called upon to adjudge the testimonial worth of prosecution evidence and evaluate the same on the basis of various intricacies of factual details which have been touched upon by the learned counsel. The veracity and credibility of material furnished on behalf of the prosecution has been questioned and false implication has been pleaded.

5. Learned counsel appearing for opposite party no. 2 while rebutting the submissions of learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that there is overwhelming evidence collected during the investigation affirming the presence of testator at the relevant point of time in the hospital at Medanta situated at Gurgaon, which is hundreds of miles away from the place of execution of the will, which is said to be executed at Kanpur and thus the claim of her presence at a different place at the time of execution of will is nothing but implied denial of the signature and even if it has not been done in so many words it does not signify anything else than denial of the genuineness of the signature. Further submission is that the contents of the will also reveal some expressions which conclusively prove the concocted nature of the document. Learned counsel has tried to submit that one of the witnesses of the said will contains the parentage written as 'late' Shiv Mangal Singh. while on the day of the will he was very much alive and died much later which also proves that on the alleged day there was no such will executed and the forgery is glaringly apparent on the face of record. Regarding the pendency of probate proceeding it has been submitted that if a particular document is forged it naturally can be cancelled or annulled only by the competent civil court and, therefore, the proceedings in the civil court have got to be resorted to for that purpose. So far as the law with regard to maintainability of criminal prosecution in regard to matters which also disclose civil liability is concerned, the same has been well settled by a catena of Apex Court's decisions. In many of the disputes the facts and circumstances are such that the matter gives rise to civil and the criminal liabilities both. The matters with regard to civil liability are decided on the basis of preponderance of probability while the matters relating to the criminal liability are to be decided on the basis of proof beyond reasonable doubt. Both of the proceedings can go on against an accused simultaneously and he can be held liable for both the liabilities. The criminal prosecution and the proceedings with regard to civil liability of the same accused are not mutually exclusive to each other. The criminal prosecution should not necessarily wait till the decision of the civil court.

6. It may be observed that the law regarding sufficiency of material which may justify the summoning of accused and also the court's decision to proceed against him in a given case is also well settled. The court has to eschew itself from embarking upon a roving enquiry into the last details of the case. It is also not advisable to adjudge whether the case shall ultimately end in conviction or not. Only a prima facie satisfaction of the court about the existence of sufficient ground to proceed in the matter is required.

7. Through a catena of decisions given by Hon'ble Apex Court this legal aspect has been expatiated upon at length and the law that has evolved over a period of several decades is too well settled. The cases of (1) Chandra Deo Singh Vs. Prokash Chandra Bose AIR 1963 SC 1430 , (2) Vadilal Panchal Vs. Dattatraya Dulaji Ghadigaonker AIR 1960 SC 1113 and (3) Smt. Nagawwa Vs. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi 1976 3 SCC 736 may be usefully referred to in this regard.

8. The Apex Court decisions given in the case of R.P. Kapur Vs. State of Punjab AIR 1960 SC 866 and in the case of State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal 1992 SCC(Cr.) 426 have also recognized certain categories by way of illustration which may justify the quashing of a complaint or charge sheet. Some of them are akin to the illustrative examples given in the above referred case of Smt. Nagawwa Vs. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi 1976 3 SCC 736. The cases where the allegations made against the accused or the evidence collected by the Investigating Officer do not constitute any offence or where the allegations are absurd or extremely improbable impossible to believe or where prosecution is legally barred or where criminal proceeding is malicious and malafide instituted with ulterior motive of grudge and vengeance alone may be the fit cases for the High Court in which the criminal proceedings may be quashed. Hon'ble Apex Court in Bhajan Lal's case has recognized certain categories in which Section-482 of Cr.P.C. or Article-226 of the Constitution may be successfully invoked.

9. Illumined by the case law referred to herein above, this Court has adverted to the entire record of the case.

10. A perusal of record of the present case shows that the F.I.R. in the present case was lodged by the opposite party no. 2 against the applicant and other co-accused persons. Allegation is that the wife of the opposite party no. 2 namely Asha Lata Sharma (since deceased) was owner of the house in dispute. She died on 23.5.2013 and thereafter being her husband as well as only legal heir, the opposite party no. 2 became owner of the said house. Allegation is that the applicant with the aid of other co-accused persons had manipulated a forged will deed of late Asha Lata Sharma and had claimed ownership over the said house. As per the F.I.R. the alleged Will Deed on the basis of which the applicant was claiming his rights, was executed on 02.5.2013 in Kanpur whereas in fact on that date Asha Lata Sharma was in Medanta Hospital, Gurgaon in connection with her treatment. Allegation in the F.I.R. is that on the date of execution of alleged Will Deed the wife of the opposite party no. 2 was not present in Kanpur but the applicant had forged her signature and got the aforesaid Will prepared in his favour. Several other illegalities and anomalous features have also been mentioned in the F.I.R. showing the alleged Will in favour of the applicant of being a forged document. During investigation the investigating officer had recorded the statement of the first informant who had fully supported the prosecution version. He had also given treatment papers as well as train ticket of Asha Lata Sharma to the Investigating Officer showing her presence at Medanta Hospital, Gurgaon on 2.5.2013. The said documents are the part of case diary and are annexed as annexure no. 8 to the present application. In the alleged Will Deed which was executed in favour of the applicant, witnesses of margin are mentioned as Ravindra Bhushan Singh son of late Shiv Mangal Singh and Brahma Dutt Mishra but on that date i.e. on 2.5.2013 father of Ravindra Bhushan Singh namely Dr. Shiv Mangal Singh was quite alive. It is also relevant to note that some of the witnesses and executor of the Will have given conflicting statement/affidavits in connection with the present case regarding their presence at the time of execution of alleged Will Deed. Therefore, it cannot be said at all that there is no evidence against the applicant. It is also well settled law that mere pendency of a civil litigation (i.e. a probate case as is in the present case) does not vitiate criminal proceedings and does not absolve the accused from his criminal liability and both proceedings can run concurrently.

11. The interference is ordinarily done by this Court only in those matters where it is found that the ingredients of the criminal offences are not made out from the allegations of the F.I.R. and it is found that deliberately a criminal complexion has been lent to a controversy which is essentially of civil nature. But the cases where rank forgery is reflected from the allegations and the ingredients of offences are apparently made out, the criminal prosecution is not shut down just because of the pendency of civil case. Punishment of imprisonments etc. has to be awarded to the guilty persons in the criminal forum while the civil damages or the annulment of forged documents has to be done in the civil forum. In cases of rank fraud and forgery both the forums have got to be necessarily approached to get complete relief and in order to bring the guilty accused to justice. In the present matter, it cannot be said that the allegations are deficient and they do not make out any criminal offence or that deliberately a criminal complexion has been lent to a dispute which is otherwise of pure civil nature.

12. The position of law on this point is clearly discernible from the following observation of the Hon. Supreme Court in the case of Tamil Nadu Mercantile Bank Ltd. vs. State through Deputy Superintendent of Police and Anr, 2014 (3) SCC 755 :

"10. It is also a law settled by this Court and reiterated in the case of Monica Kumar (Dr.) vs. State of U.P., 2008 (8) SCC 781 that criminal proceedings can continue even if the allegation discloses a civil dispute also. It is only when the dispute is purely civil in nature but still the party chooses to initiate criminal proceeding, the criminal proceeding may be quashed. For such purpose also the Court, save and accept in very exceptional circumstances would not look to any document relied upon by the defence."

13. There are many other similar authorities which may be cited in this regard but that does not appear to be needed.

14. In fact, we have for our guidance the decision given by the Constitution Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of M.S. Shariff versus The State of Madras and others, A.I.R. 1954 S.C.397 whereby the Apex Court went to the extent of giving preference to the criminal prosecution in comparison to the civil proceeding. Sometimes, arguments are raised at the Bar that simultaneous proceedings in two forums, one civil and another criminal, are likely to result in incongruous findings and that possibility cannot be ruled out when different Courts at different point of time return their findings on identical or similar issues. With regard to such kind of contention, the Constitution Bench of the Apex Court did not attribute any great significance to such hypothetical eventuality and did not reckon the same a very relevant consideration. It was kept in perspective by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the decision of one Court has not been declared by the legislature to be binding on the other Court always and has not been recognized as relevant except under certain circumstances and for certain limited purposes only. The only relevant consideration to avoid such kind of incongruity was to avoid the eventuality of embarrassment. Observations were also made by the Constitution Bench which underlined the desirability of earlier conclusion of criminal prosecution so that the evidence may be adduced in the Court by the witnesses before their memories fade to become untrustworthy. Even the social need to see that the guilty be punished at the earliest with regard to the crime committed by them was also taken note of by the Court. In view of the Apex Court, no straight jacket cut and dried formula can be laid down in this regard and it all depends from case to case and the nature of the two proceedings that are pending at two forums in the light of which the Courts are required to form their opinion whether twin proceedings ought to be allowed to go on simultaneously or not and whether one ought to be preferred to the other or whether one of them deserves to be stayed till the other is decided. It may be apt to quote herein-below the observations made by the Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court given in Shariff's case (supra) which read as thus:-

"As between the civil and the criminal proceedings we are of the opinion that the criminal matters should be given precedence. There is some difference of opinion in the High Courts of India on this point. No hard and fast rule ban. be laid down but we do not consider that the possibility of conflicting decisions in the civil and criminal courts is a relevant consideration. The law envisages such an eventuality when it expressly refrains from making the decision of one court binding on the other, or even relevant, except for certain limited purposes, such as sentence or damages. The only relevant consideration here is the likelihood of embarrassment.

Another factor which weighs with us is that a civil suit often drags on for years and it is undesirable that a criminal prosecution should wait till everybody concerned has forgotten all about the crime. The public interests demand that criminal justice should be swift and sure; that the guilty should be punished while the events are still fresh in the public mind and that the innocent should be absolved as early as is consistent with a fair and impartial trial. Another reason is that it is undesirable to let things glide till memories have grown too dim to trust. This, however, is not a hard and fast rule. Special considerations obtaining in any particular case might make some other course more expedient and just. For example, the civil case or the other criminal proceeding may be so hear its end as to make it inexpedient to stay it in order to give precedence to a prosecution order of under section 476. But in this case we are of the view that the civil suits should be stayed till the criminal proceedings have finished."

15. It may also be useful to extract the relevant observations made by the coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Pooran Singh and others versus State of U.P. and another, Case:-Application U/S 482 No. 12993 of 2004 whereby the issues about the maintainability of parallel proceedings, their feasibility and permissibility were gone into by His Lordship. The relevant pronouncements of the Apex Court were relied upon and detailed references to them were also made and it was concluded that the proceeding in a civil case and the proceeding of the criminal case can well go on together. The relevant portions of the aforesaid judgments may be reproduced herein-below.

"9. The issue is whether the impugned complaint or proceedings are maintainable, since the matter is engaging the attention of the Civil Court in a duly constituted suit. It is no longer res integra that on the basis of same facts, if a civil wrong and an offence are both disclosed, the civil and criminal courts are independent of the other to determine each, in their respective jurisdiction, untrammelled by the findings of the other. It is not that the findings of the civil court on the same fact in issue in a suit before it would work as res judicata, or as an issue estoppel to bar the criminal courts' jurisdiction, or to shut the mouth of parties in proceedings before the criminal court. The two courts in the two jurisdiction, civil and criminal, can reach contrary findings. Also, the judgement of the civil court, as such, is not relevant in criminal proceedings, except to the extent that it is provided to the contrary, by sections 40 to 44 of the Indian Evidence Act. That is not admittedly the case here. It would have been different if the act alleged a criminal offence, in proceedings before the Magistrate what was essentially a civil dispute, and not one that was both a civil wrong and a criminal offence. In the former case, proceedings before the criminal court can well be quashed; but, not in the latter.

10. In a case where an act is both a criminal offence and a civil wrong, the law appears to be consistent that both the civil court and the criminal court would have jurisdiction independent of the other. As already said, both Courts can reach contrary conclusions. In certain cases, depending upon the facts, proceedings before the Civil Court or the Criminal Court may be stayed pending outcome of the case before the other. But on those considerations proceedings before the Criminal Court or before the Civil Court, cannot be quashed or scuttled. In matters where one of the proceedings are stayed, depending on facts obtaining in a particular case, it is to avoid the likelihood of embarrassment. An early Constitution Bench decision of the Supreme Court on the point is M.S. Sheriff and another v. State of Madras and others*1 where their Lordships held thus:-*

11.The decision aforesaid of their Lordships' was reiterated in the Constitution Bench decision in Iqbal Singh Marwah and another vs. Meenakshi Marwah and another2*, where the earlier decision in* M.S. Sheriff (Supra) was endorsed :-

32. Coming to the last contention that an effort should be made to avoid conflict of findings between the civil and criminal courts, it is necessary to point out that the standard of proof required in the two proceedings are entirely different. Civil cases are decided on the basis of preponderance of evidence while in a criminal case the entire burden lies on the prosecution and proof beyond reasonable doubt has to be given. There is neither any statutory provision nor any legal principle that the findings recorded in one proceeding may be treated as final or binding in the other, as both the cases have to be decided on the basis of the evidence adduced therein. While examining a similar contention in an appeal against an order directing filing of a complaint under Section 476 of the old Code, the following observations made by a Constitution Bench in M.S. Sheriff v. State of Madras give a complete answer to the problem posed:(AIR p.399, paras 15-16)

12. Reiterating the principle in unambiguous words, the Supreme Court in P. Swaroopa Rani vs. M. Hari Narayana alias Hari Babu held:-

11. It is, however, well settled that in a given case, civil proceedings and criminal proceedings can proceed simultaneously. Whether civil proceedings or criminal proceedings shall be stayed depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case.

18. It goes without saying that the respondent shall be at liberty to take recourse to such a remedy which is available to him in law. We have interfered with the impugned order only because in law simultaneous proceedings of a civil and a criminal case is permissible.(emphasis by Court).

13. What is clearly deducible from the above authorities is that it is not the law that proceedings before the Criminal Court are to be quashed because the same fact in issue, that is subject matter of criminal proceedings between parties, is also the subject matter of a pending civil suit. In certain situations, however, proceedings of the Criminal Court, or may be, the Civil Court can be stayed pending decision of the other in order to avoid embarrassment to the parties. However, in those cases where stay of one or the other proceedings is granted pending decision in the other, the stayed proceedings would revive to be carried to their logical conclusion, irrespective of the outcome in the other jurisdiction. This is so because the Criminal and the Civil Court are completely independent of the other, and, on the same fact in issue between parties, they may arrive at contrary conclusions. The judgment of one in no way binds the other. Thus, the prayer to quash criminal proceedings on this ground cannot be granted."

16. In the light of what has been discussed above, the submission of learned counsel for the applicant that the criminal proceedings should be quashed in the wake of pendency of probate proceeding appears to be untenable. This Court also does not see any good reason to stay these proceedings as the commission of criminal offences is unmistakably apparent on the face of record.

17. Even the other submissions made by the applicant's learned counsel call for adjudication on pure questions of fact which may be adequately adjudicated upon only by the trial court and while doing so even the submissions made on points of law can also be more appropriately gone into by the trial court in this case. This Court does not deem it proper, and therefore cannot be persuaded to have a pre-trial before the actual trial begins. A threadbare discussion of various facts and circumstances, as they emerge from the allegations made against the accused, is being purposely avoided by the Court for the reason, lest the same might cause any prejudice to either side during trial. But it shall suffice to observe that the perusal of the F.I.R. and the material collected by the Investigating Officer on the basis of which the charge sheet has been submitted makes out a prima facie case against the accused at this stage and there appear to be sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. I do not find any justification to quash the charge sheet or the proceedings against the applicants arising out of them as the case does not fall in any of the categories recognized by the Apex Court which may justify their quashing.

18. So far as the order passed with regard to co-accused Sitanshu Dutta is concerned, his case was on an entirely different footing. No role had been assigned to co-accused with regard to fabrication of the alleged Will deed and there was hardly anything to indicate that the co-accused staked any right or claim over the property on the basis of the allegedly forged Will deed. Even other grounds which persuaded the Court to lean favourably with regard to co-accused are not at all common and there is hardly anything observed in the aforesaid order passed with regard to him which can be made use of for the purpose of giving any advantage to the present applicant who appears to be one of the principal offenders in the case.

19. The order passed by revisional court also does not suffer from any such infirmity or illegality which may call for any interference by this court as the same is well substantiated with relevant law.

20. The prayer for quashing the same is refused as I do not see any illegality, impropriety and incorrectness in the impugned orders or the proceedings under challenge. There is no abuse of court's process either.

21. The application is accordingly, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This Application, under Section 482 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, has been filed by the Applicants, Vijendra Singh, Raghuraj Singh and Udham Singh, against State of U.P. and Lekhraj, Son of Ratan Singh, with a prayer for quashing of entire criminal proceeding, including, setting aside summoning order, dated 17.7.2019, passed by the Judicial Magistrate, Jewar, Gautam Buddh Nagar, in Complaint Case No. 103 of 2017 (Incorrectly mentioned as Criminal Complaint Case No.103 of 2015 in the Application), Lekhraj vs. Vijendra and others, for ofences, punishable, under Sections 323, 504 and 506 of IPC, Police Station- Jewar, Distric-Gautam Buddh Nagar

2. Learned counsel for applicants argued that an application, under Section 156(3) of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, (In short 'Cr.P.C.'), has been filed by Mukesh against Kishan Singh, Vikas @ Bablu, Girdhari Lal Saini and Shyam Lal Saini, for an occurrence, alleged to be of 4.1.2017, wherein, the Magistrate took cognizance over it, treating it to be a complaint case, and examined the complainant, Mukesh, under Section 200 of Cr.P.C. and his witness, under Section 202 of Cr.P.C., whereupon, accused persons, therein, Kishan, Vikas @ Bablu, Girdhari Lal Saini, Shyam Lal Saini and Bijendra, were summoned, for offences, punishable, under Sections 452, 458, 508 and 120B of Indian Penal Code (In short 'IPC'). This order was challenged before this Court, in a proceeding, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., being Application U/S 482 No.27477 of 2018, Vijendra Singh vs. State of U.P. and another, wherein, summoning order was quashed, vide order, dated 27.8.2018, relying upon principles laid down by the Apex court as well as this Court, mentioned in above order. Again, with same malice, this false complaint was filed, with a little variance of date of occurrence by the father of the complainant, i.e., Lekhraj, wherein, occurrence is said to be of 26.8.2016, at 9.30 PM, in night, and it was for causing damage to the boundary wall of the house of the complainant, but no summoning was there, for offence, punishable, under Section 427 of IPC, rather, impugned summoning order was passed for offences, punishable, under Section 323, 504 and 506 of IPC, and it was based on the enquiry made by the Magisrate, wherein, statements of complainant, Lekhraj, was recorded, under Section 200 and his son, under Section 202 of Cr.P.C., and on this testimony only, impugned summoning order has been passed, whereas, in previous proceeding, this Court has appreciated principles laid down, by the Apex Court, in the case of M/S. Pepsi Food Ltd. & another vs. Special Judicial Magistrate & others, reported in 1998, UPCr.R 118, that summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. But, impugned summoning order, passed herein, is apparently, without application of judicial mind by the Magistrate, concerned. Hence, it was misuse of process of court and, therefore, this proceeding, with above prayer for setting aside same.

3. Learned AGA, representing State of U.P., has vehemently opposed this Application.

4. Heard learned counsel for both sides and gone through materials on record as well as impugned summoning order.

5. From very perusal of the complaint, which was filed for an occurrence of 4.1.2017, it is apparent that dispute regarding boundary wall, in between Vijendra and complainant, has been there and for this dispute, alleged occurrence has been said to have been committed, wherein proceedings, under Sections 107/116 of Cr.PC, in between two sides, were said to have been taken by the Executive Magistrate.

6. This fact of dispute and same being a motive for this repeated filing of complaint is being argued by learned counsel for applicants.

7. Present occurrence is not a subsequent occurrence to above previous instituted complaint, rather, it was a previous occurrence of another date of 26.8.2016, at 9.30 PM, for which an Application, under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. was filed and it was subsequently treated to be a complaint, by way of taking cognizance by the Magistrate and it was numbered as Complaint Case No. 103 of 2017, whereupon, the Magistrate made its enquiry in which, complainant, Lekhraj, was examined, under Section 200 of Cr.P.C. and his witness was examined under Section 202 of Cr.P.C., thereupon, this impugned summoning order was passed.

8. Contention, in this complaint, was that on 26.8.2016, at 9.30 PM, while, complainant, alongwith his son, Mukesh, was at home, situated at Modalpur, on hearing some noise, he thrown light of Torch towards that direction and saw that 7-8 persons were demolishing the wall of his house. They were Vijendra Singh, Raghuraj Singh and Udham Singh, Residents of Village Chorauli, Police Station Jewar, District Gautam Buddh Nagar, accompanied by 4-5 other unknown persons, who can be identified by him in identification parade, if any. On being objected by the complainant, they did assault, with abuse and scuffle, and they also extended threat of dire consequences. On making hue and cry, many persons rushed due to which accused persons ran away from the spot. Earlier also, these persons committed such occurrence on 11/12.02.2016, for which an application was given at Police Station-Jewar, on 12.2.2016. Proceeding, under Section 107/116 of Cr.P.C., was taken by the Police, in between. Thenafter, this occurrence was again committed by the accused persons on 26.8.2016, for which this complaint.

9. Above statement of complainant is fully intact in the statement, recorded, under Section 200 of Cr.P.C. as well as under Section 202 of Cr.P.C. Accordingly, order for summoning, for offences, punishable, under Sections 323, 504 and 506 of IPC, is substantiated by evidence, collected by the Magistrate, in its enquiry.

10. This Court, in the case of Mahboob and others vs. State of U.P. and another, reported in 2017 (2) JIC, 320, (All) (LB) held as follows.

"(10) Hon'ble Apex Court has further dealt with the nature of inquiry which is required to be conducted by the Magistrate and referring the case of Vijay Dhanuka (supra) it was held as under:

"14. In view of our answer to the aforesaid question, the next question which falls for our determination is whether the learned Magistrate before issuing summons has held the inquiry as mandated under Section 202 of the Code. The word "inquiry " has been defined under Section 2(g) of the Code, the same reads as follows:

"2. (g) "inquiry' means every inquiry, other than a trial, conducted under this Code by a Magistrate or court,"

It is evident from the aforesaid provision, every inquiry other than a trial conducted by the Magistrate or the court is an inquiry. No specific mode or manner of inquiry is provided under Section 202 of the Code. In the inquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code, the witnesses are examined whereas under Section 200 of the Code, examination of the complainant only is necessary with the option of examining the witnesses present, if any. This exercise by the Magistrate, for purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, is nothing but an inquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code."

(11) In the present case, the learned Magistrate has not conducted any inquiry so as to satisfy himself that the allegations in the complaint constitute an offence and when considered alongwith the statements recorded and the result of such inquiry. There is ground for proceedings against the petitioners under Section 204 Cr.PC. There is nothing on record to show that the learned Magistrate has applied his mind to arrive at a prima facie conclusion. It must be recalled that summoning of accused to appear the criminal court is a serious matter affecting the dignity self-respect and image in the society. A process of criminal court cannot be made a weapon of harassment.

(12) Learned Magistrate has passed a very cryptic order simply by saying that the statement of complainant as well as witnesses recorded under Sections 200 and 202 CrPC are perused and accused are summoned such order per se itself illegal which could not stand the test of law."

11. Reliance is also placed upon the judgement of this Court in the case of Smt. Shiv Kumar and others vs. State of U.P. and another, reported in 2017 (2) JIC, 589, (All) (LB)B, wherein, this Court has observed as follows:-

"Learned Magistrate was required to atleast mention in the order about the prima facie satisfaction for summoning the accused. The order must reflect that the learned Magistrate has exercised his jurisdiction in accordance with law after satisfying himself about the prima facie allegations made in the complaint. The accused cannot be summoned mechanically merely by writing that perused the statements under Sections 200 and 202 Cr. P. C."

12. Reference may also be made to the judgement of this Court in the case of Hariram Verma and 4 Others Vs. State of U.P. and Anohter, reported in 2017 (99) ALL CC 104, wherein, the following has been observed:

"A perusal of this impugned summoning order indicates that learned Magistrate had noted in the impugned order the contents of complaint and evidences u/s 200 and 202 CrPC but had neither any discussion of evidence was made, nor was it considered as to what overt act had allegedly been committed by accused. This contention of learned counsel for the applicants cannot be ruled out that leaned counsel have noted the contents of complaint and statements without considering its probability or prima facie case, and whether he had actually considered statements u/ss 200, 202 CrPC or the documents of the original. At stage of summoning, the Magistrate is not required to meticulously examine or evaluate the evidence. He is not required to record detailed reasons. A brief order which indicate the application of mind is all that is expected of him at the stage.

But in impugned order there is nothing which may indicate that learned Magistrate had even considered facts of the case in hand before passing the summoning order. Impugned order clearly lacks the reflection of application of judicial discretion or mind. Nothing is there which may show that learned Magistrate, before passing of the order under challenge had considered facts of the case and evidence or law. Therefore it appears that, in fact, no judicial mind was applied before the passing of impugned order of summoning. Such order cannot be accepted as a proper legal judicial order passed after following due procedure of law.

13. In the case of M/s. Pepsi Food Ltd. & another vs. Special Judicial Magistrate & others, 1998 UPCrR 118, Apex Court held as follows :-

"Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning the accused. Magistrate had to carefully scrutinize the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

14. In the case of Paul George vs. State, 2002 Cri.L.J. 996, Apex Court, laid down as under:-

"We feel that whatever be the outcome of the pleas raised by the appellant on merit, the order disposing of the matter must indicate application of mind to the case and some reasons be assigned for negating or accepting such pleas.- - - - - It is true that it may depend upon the nature of the matter which is being dealt with by the Court and the nature of the jurisdiction being exercised as to in what manner the reasons may be recorded e.g. in an order of affirmance detailed reasons or discussion may not be necessary but some brief indication by the application of mind may be traceable to affirm an order would certainly be required. Mere ritual of repeating the words or language used in the provisions, saying that no illegality, impropriety or jurisdictional error is found in the judgment under challenge without even a whisper of the merits of the matter or nature of pleas raised does not meet the requirement of decision of a case judicially."

15. In the case of S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd. v. Neeta Bhalla, (2005) 8 SCC 89, the Apex Court has laid down as under:

"Section 203 of the Code empowers a Magistrate to dismiss a complaint without even issuing a process. It uses the words "after considering" and "the Magistrate is of opinion that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding". These words suggest that the Magistrate has to apply his mind to a complaint at the initial stage itself and see whether a case is made out against the accused persons before issuing process to them on the basis of the complaint. For applying his mind and forming an opinion as to whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding, a complaint must make out a prima facie case to proceed. This, in other words, means that a complaint must contain material to enable the Magistrate to make up his mind for issuing process. If this were not the requirement, consequences could be far-reaching. If a Magistrate had to issue process in every case, the burden of work before the Magistrate as well as the harassment caused to the respondents to whom process is issued would be tremendous. Even Section 204 of the Code starts with the words "if in the opinion of the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence there is sufficient ground for proceeding". The words "sufficient ground for proceeding" again suggest that ground should be made out in the complaint for proceeding against the respondent. It is settled law that at the time of issuing of the process the Magistrate is required to see only the allegations in the complaint and where allegations in the complaint or the charge-sheet do not constitute an offence against a person, the complaint is liable to be dismissed."

16. In the case of Anita Malhotra v. Apparel Export Promotion Council, (2012) 1 SCC 520, the Apex Court had held as under:

"As rightly stated so, though it is not proper for the High Court to consider the defence of the accused or conduct a roving enquiry in respect of merits of the accusation, but if on the face of the document which is beyond suspicion or doubt, placed by the accused and if it is considered that the accusation against her cannot stand, in such a matter, in order to prevent injustice or abuse of process, it is incumbent on the High Court to look into those document/documents which have a bearing on the matter even at the initial stage and grant relief to the person concerned by exercising jurisdiction u/s 482 of the Code."

17. In view of law laid down by the Courts, as above, the factual aspect, which is apparently on record, is in support of above summoning order, this Court, in exercise of inherent power, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., is not expected to make analytic analysis of factual aspect, having been submitted by learned counsel for applicants, that applicants are old age persons, having no criminal antecedents, and one of whom is also a Government employee, and is posted as the Secretary of Mandi Samiti, at Aligarh, but facing this false prosecution, being malicious, is to be seen, by the Trial court, at the time of appreciation of evidence, to be recorded, under Section 244 of Cr.P.C. and in further proceeding, under Section 245 of Cr.P.C. At this juncture, there appears to be sufficient evidence on record.

18. In view of what has been discussed, hereinabove, this Application, being devoid of merit, deserves to be dismissed and it stands dismissed accordingly.

19. However, the Magistrate, will consider factual aspects argued and presented before him, at the time of hearing of Application, moved, under Section 245 of Cr.P.C.

6. St. of Bih. Vs. Murad Ali Khan, (1989) Cr LJ 1005: AIR 1989 SC 1

1. Supplementary affidavit, filed today, by the learned counsel for applicant, is taken on record.

2. This Application, under Section 482 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, has been filed by the Applicant, Ramesh Kumar Patel, with a prayer for setting aside summoning order, dated 4.4.2014, passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, court no. 6, Varanasi, in Complaint Case No.3497 of 2012, Upendra Nath Shukla vs. Kanhaiya & others, under Sections-323, 363, 364-A, 384, 386, 387 and 388 of IPC, Police Station-Shivpur, District Varanasi, as well as, impugned order of issuing Non-Bailable Warrant, dated 13.3.2019.and, thereby, entire criminal proceeding.

3. Learned counsel for applicants argued that the accused-applicant is a witness of a deed for execution of a notarised agreement to sale, with which, applicant has no concern. One of the accused, Anurag Kumar, has, earlier, filed a proceeding, under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C., being Application U/S 482 No.47441 of 2014, Anurag Kumar vs. State of U.P. and another, wherein, this Court has passed the order, dated 19.11.2014, staying further proceeding of above complaint case, with a direction for disposal of discharge application, moved before the Magistrate. While rejecting above discharge application, straightaway, Non-Bailable Warrant was issued and only thereafter, applicant came to know about the impugned summoning order. Hence, it was misuse of process of law and as such this Application with above prayer.

4. Learned AGA, representing State of U.P., has vehemently opposed this Application.

5. From perusal of the impugned order, it is apparent that a complaint was filed wherein the Magistrate took cognizance, thenafter, he decided to treat it as a complaint case and examined complainant, under Section 200 of Cr.P.C., and statements of his two witnesses, Uday Nath Shukla, as PW-1 and Ram Sharan

Upadhyay, as PW-2, under Section 202 of Cr.P.C. Besides this, there were documentary evidences, too, and on the basis of it, impugned summoning order was passed against Kanhaiya Lal Maurya, Mrityunjay Maurya, Ramesh Kumar @ Puddan and Anurag Kumar, for offences, punishable, under Sections 386, 387, 388, 323, read with Section 34 of IPC. Against this order, a proceeding, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., was initiated, wherein, order, as referred to above, was passed. Thenafter, while disposing of discharge application, the same was rejected.

6. Contention of complainant was that a notarial agreement to sale was executed regarding sale of agricultural land, wherein, money was paid. Subsequently, this could not be materialised. Hence, again payment was made back. Thenafter, entire payment of advance paid back, as was written in complaint, even then, a conspiracy was hatched and in connivance of Sub Inspector Anurag Kumar, Incharge Harhua, Police Outpost, complainant was taken to the said Police outpost, where, he was compelled to make payment of Rs.3,95,0000/- to Kanhaiya Lal Maurya, otherwise, be ready either for dying or for false implication in many other criminal cases as well and even to face encounter. All this was done, under assistance and in connivance of Sub Inspector, Anurag Kumar, as a result of which, a cheque in the name of Kanhaiya Lal Maurya for an amount of Rs.3,50,000/- and a cheque of Rs.45,000/-, in the name of Mrityunjaya Maurya was got issued, whereas, no such liability was there. Thereafter, this complaint was filed.

7. This contention of complainant was reiterated in the statement, under Section 200 of Cr.P.C., which stood corroborated, by the statement, recorded, under Section 202 of Cr.P.C., hence, there is no ground for setting aside impugned summoning order or proceeding of above criminal case. More so, in previously instituted proceeding, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., above relief was rejected by the Coordinate Bench, hence, above summoning order was not set aside. So far as order, issuing Non-Bailable Warrant, is concerned, it is a process of the court and it has been issued only in the absence of accused applicant, who had been summoned for such heinous offence.

8. Hence, under all above facts and circumstances, this Court, in exercise of inherent power, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., is not expected to make a meticulous analysis of factual aspect because the same is a question, to be gone into, during course of trial, by the Trial court.

9. Apex Court, in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Gaurishetty Mahesh, JT 2010 (6) SC 588: (2010) 6 SCALE 767: 2010 Cr. LJ 3844, has propounded that "While exercising jurisdiction under section 482 of the Code, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable apprehension of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of the trial Judge/Court". In another subsequent judgment, in the case of Hamida v. Rashid, (2008) 1 SCC 474, Hon'ble Apex Court propounded that "Ends of justice would be better served if valuable time of the Court is spent in hearing those appeals rather than entertaining petitions under Section 482 at an interlocutory stage which after filed with some oblique motive in order to circumvent the prescribed procedure, or to delay the trial which enable to win over the witness or may disinterested in giving evidence, ultimately resulting in miscarriage of Justice". In again yet another judgment, in the case of Monica Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2008) 8 SCC 781, the Apex Court has propounded "Inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself." While interpreting this jurisdiction of High Court Apex Court, in the case of Popular Muthiah v. State, Represented by Inspector of Police, (2006) 7 SCC 296, has propounded "High Court can exercise jurisdiction suo motu in the interest of justice. It can do so while exercising other jurisdictions such as appellate or revisional jurisdiction. No formal application for invoking inherent jurisdiction is necessary. Inherent jurisdiction can be exercised in respect of substantive as well as procedural matters. It can as well be exercised in respect of incidental or supplemental power irrespective of nature of proceedings".

10. Regarding prevention of abuse of process of Court, Apex Court, in the case of Dhanlakshmi v. R.Prasana Kumar, (1990) Cr LJ 320 (DB): AIR 1990 SC 494, has propounded "To prevent abuse of the process of the Court, High Court, in exercise of its inherent powers under section 482, could quash the proceedings, but, there would be justification for interference only when the complaint did not disclose any offence or was frivolous vexatious or oppressive" as well as in the case of State of Bihar v. Murad Ali Khan, (1989) Cr LJ 1005: AIR 1989 SC 1, Apex Court propounded "In exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 High Court would not embark upon an enquiry whether the allegations in the complaint are likely to be established by evidence or not".

11. Meaning thereby, exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is within the limits, propounded as above.

12. In view of what has been discussed above, this Application, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., merits dismissal and it stands dismissed accordingly.

13. However, it is directed that if the applicants appear and surrender before the court below within 30 days from today and apply for bail, their prayer for bail shall be considered and decided in view of the settled law laid by this Court in the case of Amrawati and another Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2004 (57) ALR 290 as well as judgement passed by Hon'ble Apex Court reported in 2009 (3) ADJ 322 (SC) Lal Kamlendra Pratap Singh Vs. State of U.P.

14. For a period of 30 days from today, no coercive action shall be taken against the applicants.

15. In case, if the applicants do not appear before the Court below within the aforesaid period, coercive action shall be taken against them.

8. Lal Kamlendra Pratap Singh Vs. State of U.P ,2009 (3) ADJ 322 (SC)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. The applicants, by means of this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., have invoked the inherent jurisdiction of this Court with prayer to quash the entire proceeding as well as impugned summoning order dated 19.04.2019, passed by learned Judicial Magistrate, Baghpat in Complaint Case No. 544 of 2019 (Netrapal Versus Santarpal and others), under Sections 323, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station Singhawali Aheer, District Baghpat and all the consequential proceedings thereon.

2. Heard learned counsel for the applicants and learned A.G.A. representing the State.

3. Learned counsel for applicants argued that Santarpal and Netrapal are real brothers. Civil suit is pending in between. Many cases were filed by Netrapal against Santarpal, which ended either in form of final report or in acquittal. The list of same has been filed at page no. 54 of this paper book. The present case was a malicious prosecution in furtherance of misuse of process of law. Hence, this application with above prayer.

4. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the application.

5. At the stage of Section 204 Cr.P.C., for passing any summoning order, Magistrate is to make application of its judicial mind and to find as to whether there is existence of prima facie case for summoning of accused persons for offences made out in it or not. No detailed and meticulous reasoned order is expected at this stage. Both sides are real brothers. They are inimical to each other. Litigation are pending. This may be a motive for commission of this offence or for false implication, but in both cases, it is a question of fact to be seen by Magistrate during trial.

6. The complainant had reiterated the contention of complaint in its statement recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. that on 24.02.2019 at about 5 P.M. when complainant along with his family was working at his field Sattarpal, Rajeev and Rajkumar, armed with lathi and Tamancha, did assault over them and abused. They chased complainant, who tried to hide himself in a room of tube-well, but they did criminal tress-pass thereat and assaulted him there too. Seema too was assaulted by them. A threat of dire consequences was extended. This matter was reported at police station and ultimately this complaint was filed. The same contention is of Seema and other witness enquired under section 202 Cr.P.C. Learned counsel for applicants argued that there is no medico legal report, but for an offence punishable under Section 323 I.P.C. i.e simple hurt, there need not be a compulsory presence of medico legal report because for a simple hurt even one slap will be sufficient, having no medical injury.

7. Moreso, saving of inherent power of High Court, as given under Section 482 Cr.P.C, provides that nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. Meaning thereby this inherent power is with High Court (I) to make such order as may be necessary to give effect to any other order under this Code (II) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court (III) or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. But Apex Court in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Gaurishetty Mahesh, JT 2010 (6) SC 588: (2010) 6 SCALE 767: 2010 Cr. LJ 3844 has propounded that "While exercising jurisdiction under section 482 of the Code, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable apprehension of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of the trial Judge/Court". In another subsequent Hamida v. Rashid, (2008) 1 SCC 474, hon'ble Apex Court propounded that "Ends of justice would be better served if valuable time of the Court is spent in hearing those appeals rather than entertaining petitions under Section 482 at an interlocutory stage which after filed with some oblique motive in order to circumvent the prescribed procedure, or to delay the trial which enable to win over the witness or may disinterested in giving evidence, ultimately resulting in miscarriage of Justice". In again another subsequent Monica Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2008) 8 SCC 781, the Apex Court has propounded "Inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself." While interpreting this jurisdiction of High Court Apex Court in Popular Muthiah v. State, Represented by Inspector of Police, (2006) 7 SCC 296 has propounded "High Court can exercise jurisdiction suo motu in the interest of justice. It can do so while exercising other jurisdictions such as appellate or revisional jurisdiction. No formal application for invoking inherent jurisdiction is necessary. Inherent jurisdiction can be exercised in respect of substantive as well as procedural matters. It can as well be exercised in respect of incidental or supplemental power irrespective of nature of proceedings".

8. Regarding prevention of abuse of process of Court, Apex Court in Dhanlakshmi v. R.Prasana Kumar, (1990) Cr LJ 320 (DB): AIR 1990 SC 494 has propounded "To prevent abuse of the process of the Court, High Court in exercise of its inherent powers under section 482 could quash the proceedings but there would be justification for interference only when the complaint did not disclose any offence or was frivolous vexatious or oppressive" as well as in State of Bihar v. Murad Ali Khan, (1989) Cr LJ 1005: AIR 1989 SC 1, Apex Court propounded "In exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 High Court would not embark upon an enquiry whether the allegations in the complaint are likely to be established by evidence or not".

9. Meaning thereby, exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is within the limits, propounded as above.

10. The prayer for quashing summoning order as well as proceeding of the aforesaid criminal case is refused.

11. However, in the interest of justice, it is provided that if the applicants appear and surrender before the court below within four weeks from today and apply for bail, then the bail application of the applicants be considered and decided in view of the settled law laid by this Court in the case of Amrawati and another Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2004 (57) ALR 290 as well as judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court reported in 2009 (3) ADJ 322 (SC) Lal Kamlendra Pratap Singh Vs. State of U.P

12. For a period of four weeks from today or till the disposal of the application for grant of bail whichever is earlier, no coercive action shall be taken against the applicants.

13. However, in case, the applicants do not appear before the Court below within the aforesaid period, coercive action shall be taken against them.

14. With the aforesaid directions, this application is finally disposed of.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. The applicants, by means of this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., have invoked the inherent jurisdiction of this Court with prayer to quash the impugned summoning order dated 13.09.2017, bailable warrant dated 30.07.2018 and 22.10.2019, issued by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate Ist, Ballia as well as entire proceeding of Complaint Case No. 345 of 2013 (Pramila Devi Vs. Sugreev Nishad and others), pending in the court of learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate Ist, Ballia, under Section 392 I.P.C., Police Station Kotwali Rasra, District Ballia.

2. Heard learned counsel for the applicants and learned A.G.A. representing the State.

3. Learned counsel for applicants argued that applicant no. 2 is father of applicant no. 1. As per prosecution itself, there had been enmity regarding preparation of Visa and this was the reason that this malicious prosecution. No such occurrence ever occurred. Police report of this fact is there that no such occurrence has occurred, even then, impugned summoning order has been passed. Hence, this application with above prayer.

4. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the application with this contention that complaint is reiterated in statement under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C.. Prima facie, there was sufficient evidence for passing of summoning order.

5. From the perusal of material brought on record, it is apparent that an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was moved with this contention that on 09.11.2013, complainant along with her jethani Sushila Devi and Gulabchandra was on her way to her home. At about 2.30 P.M. after getting withdrawal of Rs.2,00,000/- from Union Bank Siuri Amhat, Sugreev Nishad, his father Vikram Nishad along with two other unknown apprehended and snatched pocket having Rs.2,00,000/- kept in it. On hue and cry, many persons rushed, but they could not be apprehended. Matter was reported at police station. This contention has been reiterated in statement recorded under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. and on the basis of evidence, collected by Magistrate in its enquiry, impugned summoning order for offence punishable under Section 392 I.P.C. was passed.

6. This Court in exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is not expected to embark upon the factual matrix because the same is question before trial court to be seen during trial.

7. Moreso, saving of inherent power of High Court, as given under Section 482 Cr.P.C, provides that nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. Meaning thereby this inherent power is with High Court (I) to make such order as may be necessary to give effect to any other order under this Code (II) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court (III) or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. But Apex Court in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Gaurishetty Mahesh, JT 2010 (6) SC 588: (2010) 6 SCALE 767: 2010 Cr. In again another subsequent Monica Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2008) 8 SCC 781, the Apex Court has propounded "Inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself." 8. Regarding prevention of abuse of process of Court, Apex Court in Dhanlakshmi v. 6. St. of Bih. Vs. Murad Ali Khan, (1989) Cr LJ 1005: AIR 1989 SC 1

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This Application, under Section 482 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, has been filed by the Applicant, Smt. Mamta Rani, with a prayer for quashing of entire further proceeding, pursuant to summoning order, dated 7.2.2014, passed by the Judicial Magistrate-Ist, District Bulandshahr, in Complaint Case No. 02 of 2014, Mukesh vs. Mamta and others, under Section 494 of IPC, Police Station-B.B. Nagar, District-Bulandshahr, as well as order, dated 31.8.2019, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, District Bulandshahr, in Criminal Revision No.456 of 2017, Smt. Mamta Rani vs. State of U.P. and others.

2. Learned counsel for applicants argued that it was a false and malicious prosecution, under misuse and mis-exercise of process of law. There was admitted fact of marriage of Smt. Mamta Rani with Mukesh, Opposite party no.2, but this marriage was dissolved, then, second marriage was performed by her with Subhash Singh. No offence was ever committed, but learned Magistrate failed to appreciate it and the learned court of revision, wherein, this fact was raised, also, failed to appreciate it. Hence, this proceeding, for avoiding abuse of process of law and for ensuring ends of justice, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., has been filed, with above prayer.

3. Learned AGA, representing State of U.P., has vehemently opposed this Application.

4. From very perusal of the complaint, it is apparent that it was filed by Mukesh against Smt. Mamta and his second husband, Subhash Singh, for offences, punishable, under Sections-93, 418 and 494 of IPC, with this contention that Mamata Rani was married with complainant on 11.12.1993, as per Hindu Rituals. A suit for dissolution of marriage, under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, was filed and this was decreed on 29.3.2008, but, knowing this fact that the said suit is pending and marriage is still in persistence, accused persons got married on 15.1.2008, which was an offence of bigamy. Hence, this complaint. Magistrate, enquired, by recording statement of complainant, under Section 200 and his witness, Udayvir Singh, under Section 202 of Cr.P.C., wherein, it was specifically stated that Mamta, while, being legally wedded wife of Mukesh, remarried with Subhash Singh on 15.1.2008, when first marriage was in existence, hence, on the basis of above facts and evidence, impugned summoning order was passed. It was well within law and was passed on the basis of evidence, collected by the Magistrate, during his enquiry.

5. Argument that marriage was dis-solved is not tenable because the marriage was dis-solved, by way of a decree, which is on record, and is being pressed by learned counsel for applicant, on 29.3.2008, whereas, second marriage is said to have been performed on 15.1.2008, i.e., prior to dissolution of first marriage, and as such, there was no mis-use of process of law. As per admitted position, first marriage was in existence and it was dis-solved on 29.3.2018 and before this dissolution, second marriage of Mamta was performed with Subhash Singh on 15.1.20018, hence, in view of this, impugned summoning order was rightly passed, in accordance with provisions of law.

6. Revisional court has rightly dismissed revision on the ground that there was sufficient ground for passing impugned summoning order and as such it does not require interference by revisional court.

7. Hence, under all above facts and circumstances, this Court, in exercise of inherent power, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., is not expected to embark upon of factual aspect because the same is a question, to be gone into, during course of trial, by the Trial court.

8. Apex Court, in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Gaurishetty Mahesh, JT 2010 (6) SC 588: (2010) 6 SCALE 767: 2010 Cr. LJ 3844, has propounded that "While exercising jurisdiction under section 482 of the Code, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable apprehension of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of the trial Judge/Court". In another subsequent judgment, in the case of Hamida v. Rashid, (2008) 1 SCC 474, Hon'ble Apex Court propounded that "Ends of justice would be better served if valuable time of the Court is spent in hearing those appeals rather than entertaining petitions under Section 482 at an interlocutory stage which after filed with some oblique motive in order to circumvent the prescribed procedure, or to delay the trial which enable to win over the witness or may disinterested in giving evidence, ultimately resulting in miscarriage of Justice". In again yet another judgment, in the case of Monica Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2008) 8 SCC 781, the Apex Court has propounded "Inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself." While interpreting this jurisdiction of High Court Apex Court, in the case of Popular Muthiah v. State, Represented by Inspector of Police, (2006) 7 SCC 296, has propounded "High Court can exercise jurisdiction suo motu in the interest of justice. It can do so while exercising other jurisdictions such as appellate or revisional jurisdiction. No formal application for invoking inherent jurisdiction is necessary. Inherent jurisdiction can be exercised in respect of substantive as well as procedural matters. It can as well be exercised in respect of incidental or supplemental power irrespective of nature of proceedings".

9. Regarding prevention of abuse of process of Court, Apex Court, in the case of Dhanlakshmi v. R.Prasana Kumar, (1990) Cr LJ 320 (DB): AIR 1990 SC 494, has propounded "To prevent abuse of the process of the Court, High Court, in exercise of its inherent powers under section 482, could quash the proceedings, but, there would be justification for interference only when the complaint did not disclose any offence or was frivolous vexatious or oppressive" as well as in the case of State of Bihar v. Murad Ali Khan, (1989) Cr LJ 1005: AIR 1989 SC 1, Apex Court propounded "In exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 High Court would not embark upon an enquiry whether the allegations in the complaint are likely to be established by evidence or not".Meaning thereby, exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is within the limits, propounded as above.

10. In view of what has been discussed above, this Application, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., merits dismissal and it stands dismissed accordingly.

7. Rajendra Singh vs. State of U. P. (2009) 15 SCC 178

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri A.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Amarendra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Ran Vijay Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. Since by means of the aforesaid writ petitions the transfer order dated 18.12.2018 passed by the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow has been assailed whereby both the petitioners of the aforesaid writ petitions have been transferred and the grounds to assail the aforesaid impugned order are more or less same and both the writ petitions are being listed by connecting each other, therefore, with the consent of learned counsel for the parties, both the writ petitions are being decided by a common judgment.

3. The brief facts of the aforesaid cases are that the petitioners are serving on the post of Heath Education Officer (Class-III Non-Gazetted). The Appointing Authority for the aforesaid post is the Director General, Family Welfare, U.P. and presently both the petitioners are discharging their duties at Lucknow under the local administrative control of the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow. The Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow has full administrative control and, as such, he is vested with the authority regarding the transfer and posting of his subordinate officials and officers within the district. However, if the transfer of the Health Education Officer is made out of the district, such authority vests with the Director General, Family Welfare, U.P..

4. In both the writ petitions, mainly two grounds have been taken in assailing the impugned transfer order dated 18.12.2018 i.e. (i) the impugned transfer order has been passed by the Incompetent Authority as the Chief Medical Officer has passed the transfer order whereas it should have been passed by the Director General, Family Welfare, U.P. (ii) the impugned transfer order has been passed to accommodate the private respondent, namely, Smt. Keerti Neha.

5. In the counter affidavit filed by the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow on behalf of the opposite parties, both the aforesaid grounds have been categorically denied. So far as the ground regarding incompetence of the authority is concerned, the Chief Medical Officer has categorically indicated in para-5 of the counter affidavit that the Chief Medical Officer being highest administrative authority of the district having full administrative control over the subordinates to make transfer and posting within the same district.

6. So far as the ground regarding adjustment of private respondent (Smt. Keerti Neha) is concerned, the Chief Medical Officer has categorically denied this allegation saying that by means of transfer order private respondent has not been adjusted. As a matter of fact, Smt. Sunita Srivastava while posting at Community Health Centre, Chander Nagar committed negligence by not filling up online applications of the beneficiaries under the Pradhan Mantri Swachchha Rastriya Yojna Ayushman Bharat despite the specific directions given by the Superintendent and under the Mission Indra Dhanush Survey and Tikakaran the work was not done by her, therefore, after calling an explanation her salary for the month of August was withheld and again vide letters dated 07.12.2018 and 15.12.2018 she was asked to submit her explanation but she did not submit her explanation, therefore, vide order dated 18.12.2018 she was transferred from Community Health Centre, Chander Nagar to Community Health Centre, Bakshi-ka-Talab. Smt. Rashmi Singh, the petitioner, was transferred from Community Health Centre, Bakshi-ka-Talab to Community Health Centre, Intauja. Accordingly, on the vacant post at Community Health Centre, Chander Nagar the private respondent has been posted.

7. As per the counter affidavit, on 27.06.2016 Smt. Rashmi Singh was transferred from Lucknow to Lakhimpur Kheri by order being passed by the Director General and against that transfer order Smt. Rashmi Singh has filed writ petition bearing Writ Petition No.29624 (S/S) of 2016 (Smt. Rashmi Singh vs.

State of U.P. & others), which was disposed of finally vide order dated 15.12.2016 with the direction not to relieve the said petitioner till 07.04.2017. However, Smt. Rashmi Singh has assailed the order dated 04.07.2017 by filing special appeal bearing Special Appeal No.33 of 2017 and the said special appeal was decided finally directing the authority concerned to take appropriate decision on the representation of the petitioner without interfering the order dated 07.04.2017 passed by the Single Judge. Pursuant to the aforesaid order being passed the petitioner retained at Bakshi-ka-Talab, however, some complaint against Smt. Rashmi Singh was received in the office of the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow, therefore, she was transferred to Bal Mahila Chikitsalaya and Prasooti Grih, Tudiaganj, Lucknow on 02.11.2018. Smt. Rashmi Singh appeared before the Chief Medical Officer and has given her undertaking that she shall not commit any mistake in future so she may be permitted to retain at Bakshi-ka-Talab. Her request was acceded to and vide order dated 13.11.2018 she was permitted to retain at Bakshi-ka-Talab. Thereafter, 49 Asha Bahu and Asha Sangini posted at Community Health Centre, Bakshi-ka-Talat jointly made complaint in writing in Tehsil Diwas before the District Magistrate on 20.11.2018 levelling serious charges against Smt. Rashmi Singh that she has received illegal gratification while making payment of their honorarium and on the said complaint received through the District Magistrate, the petitioner, Smt. Rashmi Singh, has been transferred from Bakshi-ka-Talab to Intauja. As per the counter affidavit Smt. Rashmi Singh was relieved on 26.12.2018 pursuant to the direction being issued by the District Magistrate, Lucknow.

8. The submission of learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel is that the aforesaid transfers have been made due to administrative exigencies and strictly in accordance with law, therefore, these transfer orders may not be interfered with.

9. Replying to the aforesaid contention of learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, Sri A.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate for the petitioners has submitted that the law is settled on the point that the transfer order may not be issued as a substitute of punishment as no transfer order should be passed on the complaint.

10. In support of his submission, Sri A.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate for the petitioners has referred the judgment of Single Judge of this Court rendered in re:- Anil Kumar Srivastava vs. State of U.P. & others reported in [2015 (33) LCD 694] wherein this Court considering various dictum of Hon'ble Supreme Court including the case of Somesh Tiwari vs. Union of India reported in [2009 (2) SCC 592] has held that the transfer order should not be punitive nor stigmatic and if the transfer order is issued on the basis of complaint atleast an opportunity of hearing should be afforded to the employee.

11. Sri A.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate for the petitioners has also placed reliance upon the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court rendered in re: S.K. Majumdar vs. State of U.P. & others reported in [1996 (14) LCD 887] by submitting that the transfer order can only be passed by the Disciplinary/ Appointing Authority and if any transfer order is passed other than such authority, the same shall be nullity in the eyes of law.

12. Sri A. P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate has also placed reliance upon the Division Bench judgment of this Court rendered in re: Shiv Shanker Ram vs. State of U.P. & others reported in [2007 (25) LCD 1241] by submitting that if the transfer is made on malafide intention accommodating any person, that can be interfered with by this Court.

13. Per contra, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has placed reliance upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in re: S.C. Saxena vs. Union of India and others reported in (2006) 9 SCC 583 by submitting that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that it is the duty of the government servant to comply with the transfer order atonce and after complying with the transfer order he / she may submit his / her representation if there is any grievance. If the employee does not submit his/ her joining on the basis of transfer order, that may be treated as misconduct. In the given cases, both the petitioners have not submitted their respective joining at their transferred places, therefore, necessary departmental actions are required against those employees.

14. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has also placed reliance upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in re: State of Haryana and others vs. Kashmir Singh and another reported in (2010) 13 SCC 306 by submitting that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the transfer ordinarily is an incidence of service, and the courts should be very reluctant to interfere in transfer orders as long as they are not clearly illegal. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that the 'Courts should not, in our opinion, interfere with purely administrative matters except where absolutely necessary on account of violation of any fundamental or other legal right of the citizen. After all, the State administration cannot function with its hands tied by judiciary behind its back…'

15. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has also placed reliance upon the Single Judge judgment of this Court rendered in re: Ajay Kumar Mishra vs. Inspector General of Police (Establishment) & others (Service Single No.20789 of 2018); whereby considering the various judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court, this Court vide order dated 31.07.2018 dismissed the writ petition, wherein the transfer order has been assailed on the ground that such transfer order was passed on the complaint and the same should not be permissible. In the judgment in re: Ajay Kumar Mishra (supra), this Court has considered and followed the various decisions of Hon'ble Supreme Court including Somesh Tiwari (supra) and held that after decision of Somesh Tiwari (supra) two judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court in re: Registrar General High Court vs. R. Perachi reported in (2011) 12 SCC 137 and Rajendra Singh vs. State of U.P. reported in (2009) 15 SCC 178 have come, therefore, the subsequent decisions of Hon'ble Supreme Court in re: R. Perachi (supra) and Rajendra Singh (supra) have been followed.

16. In the case of R. Perachi (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court even after considering that the transfer order of the employee concerned was on the basis of report of Registrar (Vigilance) and it had also been informed by the District Judge concerned that the retention of the employee in his district was undesirable from the point of view of the administration, held that the transfer is an exigency of service and one cannot make grievance if the transfer is made on administrative ground without any stigma.

17. On the basis of the aforesaid cases, the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has submitted that the impugned transfer order dated 18.12.2018 has been passed due to administrative exigency and no stigma has been casted upon the petitioners, therefore, it should have not been interfered with.

18. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

19. The first ground to assail that the impugned transfer order dated 18.12.2018 has been passed by the incompetent authority is not correct inasmuch as the Chief Medical Officer of the district being highest Administrative Authority of the district is vested with the authority regarding transfer and posting of the subordinate officers/ officials within the district for local arrangement. This is not a transfer of the petitioners out of the district, therefore, shifting the petitioners from one Community Health Centre to another Community Health Centre within the district on account of administrative exigency by the Chief Medical Officer is within the competence of the authority and there is no illegality of any kind whatsoever and, therefore, the case cited by Sri A.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate for the petitioners in re: S.K. Majumdar (supra) would not be applied in these cases.

20. Likewise, the relevant records do not disclose that the impugned transfer order has been passed on account of any malafide intention or to adjust the private respondent, therefore, the case so cited by Sri A.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate for the petitioners in re: Shiv Shanker Ram (supra) would not be applied in the present cases.

21. So far as the ground that the impugned transfer order is punitive in nature, therefore, an opportunity of hearing should be afforded to the petitioners is concerned, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in re: R. Perachi (supra), Kashmir Singh (supra) and Rajendra Singh (supra) has held that the transfer being exigency of service and if no stigma is casted upon the employee concerned, it should not be interfered with. In the present case, the transfer order is not stigmatic order.

22. In both the aforesaid cases, this Court granted interim protection to both the petitioners inasmuch as Smt. Rashmi Singh was granted an order of status-quo on 04.01.2019 and Smt. Sunita Srivastava was granted an order that no coercive steps shall be taken against her vide order dated 16.01.2019. However, as per learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel before the aforesaid interim protection being granted by this Court, both the petitioners have been relieved ex-parte. Therefore, both the aforesaid petitioners could have not been permitted to discharge their respective duties at the place from where they were transferred. He has also apprised that both the petitioners have not submitted their respective joining at the transferred place, therefore, they may be subjected to departmental inquiry. On being asked as to whether any departmental action has been taken against the petitioners, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has submitted that on account of pendency of these writ petition, no departmental action has been initiated against them.

23. However, the impugned transfer order does not suffer from any illegality or arbitrariness, but the fact remains that this Court has granted interim protection in favour of the petitioners and no departmental action against the petitioners have been taken for not submitting their respective joining at the transferred place, therefore, it appears that any appropriate order is required to be passed in the case of the petitioners.

24. The impugned order dated 18.12.2018 is neither stigmatic nor has been passed to accommodate the private respondent, rather, it has been passed by the Competent Authority i.e. the Chief Medical Officer.

25. Further, since no departmental action has yet been taken against the petitioners due to pendency of the writ petition, therefore, in the given circumstances they should not be compelled to face the departmental inquiry for not submitting their respective joining at the transferred place, however for the period they have not submitted their joining at the transferred place despite the fact that before interim protection being granted in their favour they were relieved, the Chief Medical Officer, Lucknow may pass appropriate orders in respect of making payment of salary for that period by affording an opportunity of hearing to the petitioners and seeking explanation if any order involves the civil consequences.

26. The liberty is given to the petitioners to prefer a representation taking all pleas and grounds which are available with them enclosing therewith the certified copy of this order within a period of seven days and the Competent Authority shall pass appropriate orders, strictly in accordance with law, with expedition, preferably within a period of three weeks thereafter.

27. In view of the aforesaid terms, both the writ petitions are disposed of finally.

28. No order as to costs.

Special Appeal Defective No. 520 of 2019

Kundan Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Dr. V.K. Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Abhinav N. Trivedi, Gyanendra Kumar Srivastav

A. Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 - Chapter VIII Rule 5 & Constitution of India - Article 226 - challenge to- Public office- appellant challenged the appointment of one Doctor as a professor who later became vice-chancellor- Since, post of professor is not mentioned as officer in Chapter III of the King George Medical University Act, 2002 - only post of Vice -chancellor shown in the officers of the university- writ of quo warranto would not lie. (Para 23, 24, 27, 32, 33)

"Public Office" which would, fall under the scrutiny of the Court's while exercising the discretionary power of issue a writ of quo warranto would be the offices created by the Constitution or any statute and such offices should have a fixed tenure apart from being conferred some portion of the sovereign power of the Government. (Para 22)

Special Appeal (D) dismissed. (E-6)

2. B. Srinivasa Reddy Vs. Karnataka Urban Water Supply & Drainage Board Employees' Assn., (2006) 11 SCC 731 (2)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Sri Amit Bose, Senior Advocate assisted by Dr. V.K. Singh, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Manish Mishra, learned counsel for respondent no. 1, Sri Anil Kumar Tewari, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Abhinav N. Trivedi, learned counsel for respondent nos. 2 and 4 and Sri Gyanendra Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for respondent no. 5.

2. This special appeal has been filed with delay of seven days. The delay condonation application no. 132204 of 2019, supported by an affidavit has been filed for condonation of delay in filing the appeal. The learned counsels for the respondents have no objection to the application. The cause shown in the affidavit explaining the delay in filing the appeal is sufficient and the delay is hereby condoned.

3. This special appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 has been filed against the judgment and order dated 16.08.2019, passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ Petition No. 19119 (S/S) of 2019 - Kundan Singh Vs. State of U.P. and Others.

4. The aforesaid writ petition was filed by the petitioner seeking writ in the nature of quo-warranto, directing the opposite party no. 3 (Dr. M.L. Bhatt) to show authority of law under which he occupied the post of Associate Professor and Professor in the King George's Medical University (hereinafter referred to as "the KGMU") thereby declaring his appointment on the post of Associate Professor and Professor to be illegal and void abinitio.

5. It was submitted by the petitioner-appellant before the writ Court that respondent no. 3 was appointed as Assistant Professor in the KGMU on 27.04.2002, Associate Professor on 02.12.2003 and Professor on 08.12.2004, contrary to the Act, Statute, Regulations prevailing in the KGMU. However, he became Vice Cancellor of the KGMU in the month of March, 2017. It was further submitted that Dr. M.L. Bhatt, respondent no. 3 was granted promotion in utter violation of the Rules and norms existing without any selection committee constituted for the said purpose, even the date of his confirmation or the conversion of the same in permanent nature is without jurisdiction.

6. The aforesaid writ petition was contested by the KGMU by filing counter affidavit, questioning the maintainability of the writ petition. Another objection which was raised by the respondents with regard to the maintainability of the writ petition was that the petitioner did not challenge the present posting of respondent no. 3 inasmuch as the respondent no. 3 is discharging the functions of Vice Chancellor of the KGMU and his tenure would expire in the month of April, 2020. It was submitted that writ of quo warranto has been sought by the petitioner against respondent no. 3, to show authority of law under which he occupied the post of Associate Professor and Professor at the KGMU, which posts are not being occupied by him presently and he is not usurper of Office and therefore, no writ of quo warranto would lie to challenge occupation of office which is not held by the incumbent at the time of filing of writ petition.

7. The respondents had also raised objection that the writ of quo warranto would lie only to challenge the occupation of "public office" and the posts of Associate Professor and Professor would not qualify to be called as "public office" and therefore, writ of quo warranto would not be issued by this Court in exercise of powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It was lastly submitted on behalf of respondents with regard to bonafide of the petitioner in preferring the writ petition seeking writ of quo warranto challenging the office occupied by respondent no. 3 after a delay of more than fifteen years.

8. The learned Single Judge while dismissing the aforesaid writ petition has considered the submissions made by the parties in great detail and in paragraph 7 it has been observed as under :

"7. The obvious question cropped up in the mind of the Court as to why no challenge was made in the year 2003 when the opposite party no. 3 became Associate Professor and in the year 2004 when he became Professor. Not only the above the aforesaid position of the opposite party no. 3 has not been assailed by the petitioner till filing of this writ petition when admittedly the opposite party no. 3 is discharging the duties and liabilities of Vice Chancellor of KGMU w.e.f. 14.04.2017. The said anxiety compels the Court to go into the detail of the petitioner as to why he has filed this writ petition in the year 2019, what is his status, what are the source of information of the petitioner regarding opposite party no. 3 and what may be the purpose in filing this writ petition after more than 15 years from the time when the opposite party no. 3 was actually holding the post of Associate Professor and Professor."

9. It has further been observed by the learned Single Judge that writ in the nature of certiorari may be invoked by the aggrieved person but such relief may not be granted in the garb of writ of quo-warranto by a busybody. A writ of quo-warranto may not be substitute of writ of certiorari. It is trite law that the writ of quo-warranto may be refused where it is an outcome of malice or ill-will and it has been held by the writ Court in para 11 that writ petition has been filed by one busy body who is having no public interest except for personal gain or private profit either of himself or as a proxy of others for any extraneous motivation or for glare of publicity.

10. With regard to the objection raised by the respondents that post of Associate Professor and Professor would not qualify as "public office"; inasmuch as these posts must be created by Constitution, Legislature or authority conferred by the Legislature. Further, portion of sovereign power of Government must be delegated to such position and therefore on the touchstone aforesaid office of Associate Professor and Professor could not be said to be "public office" for which a writ of quo-warranto may be issued.

11. For the aforesaid reasons the learned Single Judge dismissed the writ petition against which present special appeal has been preferred by the petitioner.

12. Sri Amit Bose, learned Senior Advocate has submitted that he had cited various judgment before the writ Court which have not been duly considered on the aspect that posts of Associate Professor and Professor would qualify to be "public office" and for which writ of quo-warranto can be issued by the writ Court.

13. It was also submitted by Sri Amit Bose that respondent no. 3 is discharging the functions of the post of Professor, inasmuch as he is taking classes in the University and the issue raised by the petitioner by means of the present writ petition would not be a purely academic question and would necessitate a requisite consideration.

14. With regard to the Bona fide of the petitioner, it was submitted that any person can maintain petition for questioning the holder of a public office with regard to his eligibility and qualification for holding the same, and therefore the petitioner had sufficient interest in maintaining the writ petition.

15. The special appeal has been opposed by Sri Manish Mishra, learned counsel for respondent no. 1, Sri Anil Kumar Tewari, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Abhinav N. Trivedi, learned counsel for respondent nos. 2 and 4 and Sri Gyanendra Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for respondent no. 5 and have stated that the judgment and order of learned Single Judge is just and proper and does not require any interference.

16. Heard the counsel for the petitioners as well as the standing counsel.

17. The writ of quo warranto is a judicial remedy by which a person who holds independent substantial public office of franchise as may be duly determined, and that in case the finding is that the holder of the office has no right or title, he would be ousted from the office by the judicial order. In other words the procedure of quo warranto gives the judiciary the authority to proceed against any bid to control the exhibitor from making appointments to public office against law and to protect a citizen for being deprived of public office to which he has a right. These proceedings also tend to protect public office from the usurpers of public office, he might be allowed to continue either with the connivance of the executive or by reasons of its apathy. It is thus be seen that before a person can effectively maintain a writ of quo warranto to satisfy the court that the office in question is a public office and is held by the usurper without legal authority and that inevitably would lead to the enquiry as to whether the appointment of alleged usurper has been made in accordance with law or not. For issuance of a writ of quo warranto, the Court should be satisfied that the appointment is contrary to the statutory rules, and the person holding the post has no right to hold it.

18. In order to examine the contention of the counsel for the appellant, whether the posts of Assistant Professor and Professor are "public office', it would be beneficial to refer to the various pronouncements of the Supreme Court.

19. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Bharati Reddy v. State of Karnataka, (2018) 6 SCC 162, has held as under :

"38. In Rajesh Awasthi v. Nand Lal Jaiswal [Rajesh Awasthi v. Nand Lal Jaiswal, (2013) 1 SCC 501 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 521 : (2013) 1 SCC (L&S) 192] , the Court noted that a writ of quo warranto will lie when the appointment is made contrary to the statutory provisions as held in Mor Modern Coop. Transport Society Ltd. [Mor Modern Coop. Transport Society Ltd. v. State of Haryana, (2002) 6 SCC 269] Further, relying on the decisions in B. Srinivasa Reddy v. Karnataka Urban Water Supply and Drainage Board Employees' Assn. [B. Srinivasa Reddy v. Karnataka Urban Water Supply and Drainage Board Employees' Assn., (2006) 11 SCC 731 (2) : (2007) 1 SCC (L&S) 548 (2)] and Hari Bansh Lal v. Sahodar Prasad Mahto [Hari Bansh Lal v. Sahodar Prasad Mahto, (2010) 9 SCC 655 : (2010) 2 SCC (L&S) 771] , wherein the legal position has been restated that the jurisdiction of the High Court to issue a writ of quo warranto is a limited one which can only be issued if the appointment is contrary to the statutory rules and the Court has to satisfy itself that the appointment is contrary to the statutory rules. In that case, the Court after analysing the factual matrix found, as of fact, that there was non-compliance with sub-section (5) of Section 85 of the Electricity Act, 2003, in the matter of appointment of the incumbent to the post of Chairperson of the Commission for which it became necessary to issue a writ of quo warranto. In the supplementing judgment by one of us Dipak Misra, J. (as his Lordship then was), the settled legal position expounded in B.R. Kapur [B.R. Kapur v. State of T.N., (2001) 7 SCC 231] , University of Mysore [University of Mysore v. C.D. Govinda Rao, AIR 1965 SC 491 : (1964) 4 SCR 575] , High Court of Gujarat [High Court of Gujarat v. Gujarat Kishan Mazdoor Panchayat, (2003) 4 SCC 712 : 2003 SCC (L&S) 565] , Centre for PIL v. Union of India [Centre for PIL v. Union of India, (2011) 4 SCC 1 : (2011) 1 SCC (L&S) 609] has been recapitulated in paras 29 to 33 of the reported decision."

20. The Supreme Court in Bharati Reddy (supra) has observed as under :

"39. We have adverted to some of those decisions in the earlier part of this judgment. Suffice, it to observe that unless the Court is satisfied that the incumbent was not eligible at all as per the statutory provisions for being appointed or elected to the public office or that he/she has incurred disqualification to continue in the said office, which satisfaction should be founded on the indisputable facts, the High Court ought not to entertain the prayer for issuance of a writ of quo warranto.

The learned senior advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant had drawn the attention this court to the judgement passed by the Bombay High Court in the case of Dr D.K.Belsare vs Nagpur University where the division bench was examining the appointment of the respondent to the post of Professor of zoology in the writ of quo warranto. The Division Bench relying on the judgement in the case of Dr P.S.Venkataswamy vs University of Mysore affirm that in India we have a republican Constitution. Hence in India the nature of office in respect of which quo warranto would like must be taken to be an office created by the Constitution itself or by any statute and invested the power of charged with duty of acting in execution or in the enforcement of the law. The court subsequently considered the provisions of the Mysore University act and the list of statutory authorities prescribed therein and concluded that it cannot be held that the post of Professor of zoology is a public office and, therefore, a writ of quo warranto cannot be issued."

21. In the case of B. Srinivasa Reddy v. Karnataka Urban Water Supply & Drainage Board Employees' Assn., (2006) 11 SCC 731 (2) the Hon'ble Apex Court, in this regard observed as under :-

"76. The notification dated 31-1-2004 clearly states that the appointment is on contract basis and until further orders. While laying down the terms of appointment in its order dated 21-4-2004, the Government of Karnataka clearly stated that the "term of contractual appointment of Shri B. Srinivasa Reddy shall commence on 1-2-2004 and will be in force until further orders of the Government and this is a temporary appointment". Section 6(1) of the Act categorically states that the Managing Director shall hold office during the pleasure of the Government. The power and functions of the Board are laid down in Chapter V of the Act. A reading of the Act clearly shows that neither the Board nor its Managing Director is entrusted with any sovereign function. Black's Law Dictionary defines public office as under:

"Public office.--Essential characteristics of "public office' are (1) authority conferred by law, (2) fixed tenure of office, and (3) power to exercise some portion of sovereign functions of Government; key element of such test is that "officer' is carrying out sovereign function. Spring v. Constantino [168 Conn 563, 362 A 2d 871, 875] . Essential elements to establish public position as "public office' are: position must be created by Constitution, legislature or through authority conferred by legislature, portion of sovereign power of Government must be delegated to position, duties and powers must be defined, directly or impliedly, by legislature or through legislative authority, duties must be performed independently without control or superior power other than law, and position must have some permanency and continuity. State v. Taylor [260 Iowa 634, 144 NW 2d 289, 292] ."

77. Carrying out sovereign function by the Board and delegation of a portion of sovereign power of the Government to the Managing Director of the Board and some permanency and continuity in the appointment are quintessential features of public office. Every one of these ingredients are absent in the appointment of the appellant as Managing Director of the Board. This aspect of the matter was completely lost sight of by the High Court."

22. Considering the judicial pronouncements with regard to "Public Office" which would, fall under the scrutiny of the Court's while exercising the discretionary power of issue a writ of quo warranto would be the offices created by the Constitution or any statute and such offices should have a fixed tenure apart from being conferred some portion of the sovereign power of the Government.

23. On the touchstone of the aforesaid principles the post of Professor in the KGMU deserves to be examined. A perusal of the King George Medical University Act, 2002, Chapter III provides for the officers of the University which are as follows:-

"CHAPTER-III

Officers of the University Officers of the University

14- The following shall be the officers of the University:-

(a) the Chancellor;

(b) the Vice-Chancellor;

[(c) the Pro-Vice-Chancellor;]12

(d) the Finance Officer;

(e) the Registrar;

(f) the Controller of examination, if any;

(g) the Deans of the Faculties;

(h) the Dean of the Students Welfare;

(i) such other officers as may be declared by the Statutes to be the Officers of the University."

24. Needless to say that the post of Professor is missing from the officers of the University. Professors of the University clearly do not exercise any Government functions nor are vested with the power or charged with the duty of acting in execution of enforcement of the law. They are merely employees under a statutory body, and therefore, cannot in any sense be described as public offices in respect of which a writ of quo warranto would lie.

25. Sri Amit Bose, learned Senior Advocate vehemently tried to persuade us by citing certain pronouncements of learned Single Judge's of other High Courts, but we do not agree with the said decisions, and even otherwise would not have any persuasive value.

26. The 2nd contention raised by the counsel for the appellant was that respondent no. 3 was also working on the post of Professor and therefore a writ of quo warranto would be maintainable, despite the fact that presently he has been appointed as Vice Chancellor and is discharging his duties as such.

27. The paragraph 24 of the impugned judgment dated 16/08/2019, deals with the contention which has been raised by the counsel for the appellant, and the learned Single Judge has recorded the following :-

"...it is an admitted fact by the petitioner himself that the opposite party number 3 is presently not occupying the post of associate professor of Professor."

28. It has been has submitted on behalf of the appellant that he has filed certain documents which indicate that the respondent no. 3 continued as a professor of the University even after his appointment as Vice Chancellor and the said finding was erroneous.

29. With regard to the aforesaid contentions we are of the view that once an admission has been made by the petitioner himself before the Writ Court, which has been duly considered, it is not open for them to challenge the said finding in the intra-Court appeal. We also perused the averments made by the appellant in the writ petition, and no such pleading was made before the learned Single Judge with regard to the continuance of the respondent no. 3 on the post of Professor as well, and therefore, while exercising the limited jurisdiction in an intra-Court appeal the admission made by the petitioner before the writ court cannot be interfered with, at his instance that the same was erroneously recorded.

30. The writ petition preferred by the petitioner-appellant, was also liable to be rejected on the grounds of bona fide of the petitioner. An identical writ was filed earlier bearing Writ Petition No. 16635 (S/S) of 2019, by one Professor Ashish Waklu which was dismissed as not pressed with liberty to file fresh petition. The said petitioner chose not to exercise the liberty granted by the Court, but the appellant herein file a writ petition which is almost verbatim of the same filed earlier. The aforesaid facts apart from the fact that the respondent no. 3 is occupying the post of Vice Chancellor, which is not under challenge, but his appointment to the post of Associate Professor and Professor are under challenge which were held by him in 2003 and 2004, raises enough suspicion in absence of any fact that the writ petition was motivated and appears to be a proxy petition for extraneous considerations.

31. No other point was argued by the Appellant.

32. Considering the entire factual matrix, the judgment of the learned Single Judge, and the arguments raised by the counsel for the appellant and the respondents, we do not find any infirmity or illegality in with the impugned judgment of the learned Single Judge.

33. For the reasons stated herein above the special appeal lacks merit and is hereby dismissed.

A. Service – Appointment/Recruitment – Eligibility criteria - U.P. Transport Subordinate Technical (Fourth Amendment) Service Rules, 2014 - Part time training of the appellant cannot be covered and considered in the category of 'Working Experience' in terms of advertisement issued for the post of Regional Inspector (Tech.). (Para 27)

Certificates of requisite qualification submitted by the appellant were issued after the last date of submission of application. Moreover, appellant had undertaken training on part time basis, which could not be treated at par to the candidates who had undertaken full time training especially when there was a Government Order as well as the decision of the Commission stating that the part time working and work without remuneration would not be treated as an experience under the relevant Rules. (Para 23, 24)

Appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Present appeal is against judgment and order dated 07.05.2018, passed by learned Single Judge in Writ-A No. 10164 of 2018.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. Heard Shri. S.K. Singh, learned counsel for the appellant, Shri. Avanish Tripathi and learned Standing Counsel for respondents.

2. The present special appeal is preferred against the judgment and order dated 07.5.2018 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-A No.10164 of 2018, whereby the said writ petition filed by the petitioner-appellant has been dismissed.

3. The appellant-petitioner had preferred the writ petition before the learned Singe Judge wherein following reliefs were sought:

"(i) A writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondent no.3 to allow the petitioner to appear in practical examination and further examination which is going to be scheduled on 25.4.2018, 26.4.2018, 27.4.2018 and 28.4.2018 by treating the training certificate of petitioner in consonance with the qualification as being so enumerated in sub para-3 of Cause 11 of the advertisement.

(ii) A writ, order or direction in the nature of which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case.

(iii) Award cost to the humble petitioner throughout of the present writ petition."

4. Briefly the facts which are relevant for the disposal of the present special appeal are as follows:

i. The respondent no.3 (U.P. Public Service Commission, (hereinafter referred to as "respondent no.3") issued an advertisement dated 13.12.2014 bearing No.A-5/E-1/2014 for the post of Regional Inspector (Tech).

ii. Clause 11 of the said advertisement prescribed Essential Qualification for the posts of Regional Inspector (Tech) Transport Department in accordance with the U.P. Transport Subordinate Technical (Fourth Amendment) Service Rules 2014. For reference, the said essential qualifications are mentioned hereinafter:

Clause 11: Educational Qualifications: Mandatory: (1) Essential to pass High Schools Examination of the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh or an examination recognized by the Government as equivalent there to and

(2) (i) A diploma in Automobile Engineering (3 years course) or

(ii) A diploma in Mechanical Engineering awarded by the State Board of Technical Education (3 years Course) or

(iii) Any qualification in either of the above discipline declared equivalent, by the Central Government or State Government, and

(3) Working experience of at least one year in a reputed automobile workshop which undertakes repairs of both light motor vehicles, heavy goods vehicle and heavy passenger motor vehicles fitted with petrol and diesel engine, and

(4) Must hold a driving license authorizing him to drive motor cycle, heavy goods vehicle and heavy passenger motor vehicles;

(5) Must have thorough knowledge of Hindi language written in Devanagari script.

5. The petitioner-appellant in pursuance of the abovementioned advertisement submitted online application on 29.1.2015 wherein he had mentioned that he possessed all the requisite essential educational qualifications including "Working experience of at least one year' in a reputed automobile workshop which undertakes repairs of both light motor vehicles, heavy goods vehicle and heavy passenger motor vehicles fitted with petrol and diesel engine.

6. In the application form, the petitioner-appellant had also given a declaration "that all the entries/statement made in the application are true complete and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief".

7. The petitioner-appellant appeared in the written test on 08.11.2015. Almost after two years, the respondent No.3, published a notification dated 14.7.2017, whereby it was directed that the applicants who had appeared in the examination for the post of Regional Inspector (Technical) 2014 are required to download the application form available on the website of the Commission and send the filled form along with all the certificates of the essential educational qualifications to the Commission.

8. Accordingly, the petitioner-appellant despatched the filled form along with all the certificates. The petitioner also annexed a working experience certificate of a reputed automobile work shop. The certificate was dated 16.5.2016 issued by the Ghaziabad Automobiles. For reference, the contents of the said certificate is reproduced hereinafter:

"TO WHOM SO EVER IT MAY CONCERN "This is to certify that Sh. Brijraj Krishan S/o Sh. Maharaj Krishan R/o B-7 G F Parsvnath Paradise, Mohan Nagar, Ghaziabad (U.P.) who is an employee of RTO office Ghaziabad has taken part time but full fledged training as Motor Mechanic in the evening session w.e.f. 07/10/2011 to till date without any remuneration.

He has submitted duly acquired permission from department in the workshop. He had good knowledge of Motor Vehicle repairs Overhauling and inspection of both light motor vehicle, heavy goods vehicle & heavy passenger motor vehicles fitted with Petrol & Diesel Engines.

We wish him all success in life & profession.

For:Ghaziabad Automobiles

Auth.Signatory"

9. The respondent no.3 on 12.4.2018 issued a list of candidates who were found to be eligible after scrutinising their records for practical test. However, the name of the petitioner-appellant was found missing in the said list. The petitioner-appellant made a querry before the Commission and sought specific reasons for rejection of his application. The Commission provided an E-mail dated 12.4.2018 communicating the reply from the respondent no.3, which stated:

"FOR THE ABOVE QUESTION KINDLY INFORM YOU THAT YOU HAVE NOT FULFIL THE ESSENTIAL QUALIFICATION THAT MENTIONED ADVERTISEMENT PARA NO-11 SUB PARA-3' (sic)

This means that the petitioner did not possess the required working experience of at least one year in a reputed automobile shop.

10. In these circumstances, the petitioner-appellant approached before learned Single Judge by way of filing the writ petition and sought reliefs as mentioned in paragraph 3 above.

11. Counter and rejoinder affidavits were exchanged before the learned Single Judge. In the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the respondent no.3, it was specifically mentioned that the petitioner-appellant had part time experience of repairing work under Ghaziabad Automobile without any remuneration, therefore, the petitioner did not hold essential qualification no.3, in terms of Clause 11 of the advertisement, therefore, his candidature was rejected by the respondent no.3.

12. Reliance was also placed in the counter affidavit on the letter dated 08.5.2000 and also the decision of the Commission taken in its meeting held on 31.8.2001 that the part time work and any work done without any remuneration could not be treated as an experience within the meaning of U.P. Transport (Subordinate Technical Service Rules, 1980) as amended.

13. Rejoinder affidavit was filed before the learned Single Judge, wherein it was reiterated that the petitioner- appellant fulfilled all the pre-requisite qualifications seeking appointment on the post of Regional Inspector (Tech). The petitioner-appellant had also filed an amendment application before the learned Single Judge whereby the letter of Transport Commissioner dated 08.5.2000 was also challenged.

14. The learned Single Judge after considering the submissions made by the parties as well as the material available on record, dismissed the writ petition vide judgment and order dated 07.5.2018 and held as under:

"In the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the view that the experience certificate dated 16.5.2016 (page '20' of the paper book) and 13.4.2018 (page '41' of the paper book) both being of later date than last date of the submission of the application form cannot be taken into consideration to hold that the petitioner possessed requisite qualification on the date of submission of the application form. Challenge to the communication dated 8th May, 2000 of the Transport Commissioner to the Secretary, Public Service Commission is, therefore, of no relevance."

15. In these circumstances, the appellant-petitioner has filed the present special appeal, questioning the judgment and order dated 07.5.2018 passed by the learned Single Judge.

16. Counter and rejoinder affidavits have been exchanged.

17. In the counter affidavit, the respondent no.3 had specifically stated that the post of Regional Inspector (Tech) demands that persons selected on the said post must possess requisite and perfect knowledge of work and maintenance of the machine required to be operated. The intent behind experience of one year regular work was to have complete knowledge which could not be achieved while working as part time trainee by the incumbent.

18. In the rejoinder affidavit, the appellant has reiterated and reaffirmed the grounds and averments mentioned in the special appeal and stated that experience certificate of the appellant was genuine. Remuneration or no remuneration does not in any way or in any manner renders the experience certificate obtained by appellant as nugatory. Appellant had an experience of more than 1 year which is self evident from the certificate appended.

19. Shri. S.K. Singh, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant vehemently argued that the appellant took part time training from the Ghaziabd Automobiles, and the training was full fledged training as motor mechanic in the evening session (5.30 to 8.30 p.m. daily and full time on Sunday) w.e.f. 7.10.2011 to 16.5.2016 without any remuneration. He has also relied upon the certificate issued by the Ghaziabad Automobiles dated 16.5.2016, wherein it was certified that the appellant had good knowledge of motor vehicles repairs, overhauling and inspection of both light motor vehicle and heavy goods vehicle and heavy passenger motor vehicles fitted with petrol and diesel engines.

20. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that for the purpose of training the department had granted requisite permission and the training period was more than one year as required for the purpose of selection. Even though it was part time, it could not be said that the appellant had not gained adequate experience in that field. The advertisement had not distinguished the experience certificate on the basis of full time or part time, therefore, the rejection of his candidature was not correct.

21. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel has opposed the submissions made by the learned counsel for the appellant on the ground that the experience certificate required under the rules was to be based on the full fledged training and the certificate based on part time training would not be considered to be sufficient for essential educational qualifications. He placed reliance on the Government Order dated 08.5.2000 as well as the decision of the Commission taken on 31.8.2001 to the effect that the part time work and work done without remuneration would not be treated as experience within the meaning of Uttar Pradesh Transport Rules, 1988 as amended. He further submitted that last date of submission of application was 29.1.2015, whereas the certificate submitted by the appellant-petitioner was dated 16.5.2016 and 13.4.2018, therefore, appellant was not qualified on the date of submission of form.

22. We have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the rival parties and perused the record.

23. One of the essential educational qualifications for the post of Regional Inspector (Technical) was "(3) Working experience of at least one year in a reputed automobile workshop which undertakes repairs of both light motor vehicles, heavy goods vehicle and heavy passenger motor vehicles fitted with petrol and diesel engine." The appellant had submitted two documents first was the certificate dated 16.5.2016 issued by the Ghaziabad Automobiles which certifies that the appellant-petitioner had taken part-time but full fledged training as motor mechanic in the evening session w.e.f. 7.10.2011 till date without any remuneration and second was a certificate dated 13.4.2018 issued by the Ghaziabad Automobiles which states that the petitioner had good knowledge of motor vehicle repairs, overhauling and inspection of both light motor vehicles, heavy goods vehicles and heavy passenger motor vehicles fitted with petrol and Diesel engines. Both of these certificates were issued after the last date of submission of application form which was 03.2.2015, therefore, the learned Single Judge has rightly held that the petitioner did not possess requisite experience as on the last date of submission of application form.

24. The appellant had undertaken training on part time basis, which could not be treated at par to the candidates who had undertaken full time training especially when there was a Government Order dated 8.5.2000 as well as the decision of the Commission dated 31.8.2001 to the contrary that the part time working and work without remuneration would not be treated as an experience under the relevant rules.

25. Learned counsel for the appellant has failed to show any material that the part time training is equivalent to the full time training.

26. The purpose of one year regular training is that the person must possess requisite and perfect knowledge of work and maintenance of the machine required to be operated. There is no challenge to any of the requisite essential qualifications.

27. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the material on record as well as the impugned judgment and order passed by the learned single judge, we are of the considered opinion that one year part time work that too without remuneration in Ghaziabad Automobiles undertaken by the appellant is nothing but a training acquired by the appellant with the firm, cannot be covered and considered in the category of "Working Experience' in terms of the advertisement. As such there is no illegality in the impugned judgment and order of the learned Single Judge, which calls for no interference by this Court and the appeal deserves to be dismissed.

28. In view of the above, the appeal is dismissed. No costs.

A. Service – Promotion – Uttar Pradesh Secretariat Service Rules, 1983: Rules 3(g), 5, 9, 11(i) & (ii), 12; Uttar Pradesh State Government Servants Confirmation Rules, 1991: Rule 5(1); Uttar Pradesh Government Servants Probation Rules, 2013 (Amended Probation Rules, 2016): Rule 2, 4, 5 – Probation or confirmation will not be necessary if the source of recruitment for the post in question is promotion only and such promotion has been made following the due procedure of law. (Para 28 & 32)

B. General law Vs. Specific law: When there is a conflict between specific law and general law, specific law shall have overriding effect upon the general law. Therefore, Confirmation Rules, 1991, Probation Rules, 2013 (Amended Rules, 2016) shall have an overriding effect on Rule 11 of the Rules, 1983. (Para 29 & 32)

C. Doctrine of 'reading down' discussed: Rule of reading down is to be used for the limited purpose of making a particular provision workable and to bring it in harmony with other provisions of the law - Reading down of Rule 5 of Rules, 1983 has been applied for the present case as it is found inconsistent with provisions of Probation Rules, 2013 and Confirmation Rules, 1991 as well as unworkable as it restricts duly promoted petitioner to get the benefit of promotion. (Para 30, 33, 35 to 40)

Petition assails the office memo dated 28.06.2013, passed by the Under Secretary of the department.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri S.C. Yadava, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Vishal Verma, learned State counsel for the State-respondents.

2. By means of this petition, the petitioner has assailed the office memo dated 28.6.2013 passed by the Under Secretary of the department holding that since the petitioner has not completed one year's probation period on the post of Deputy Secretary, therefore, he cannot be promoted on the post of Joint Secretary under the relevant Rules.

3. The petitioner retired on 30.6.2013 after attaining the age of superannuation.

4. The brief facts of the case are that the petitioner initially appointed on the post of Upper Divisional Assistant (now the nomenclature of the post is known as Samiksha Adhikari) by the selection held by the Public Service Commission in the year 1981 and he has submitted his joining on such post on 5.8.1983. In the year 1997, the petitioner was promoted on the post of Section Officer. On 3.11.1998, the petitioner was promoted on the post of Under Secretary and he has submitted his joining accordingly. On 26.5.2012, the petitioner was promoted on the post of Deputy Secretary.

5. As per learned counsel for the petitioner, work and conduct of the petitioner has been found exemplary, up to the entire satisfaction of the authorities concerned and the entire service record of the petitioner has been unblemished. On 28.5.2013, the Principal Secretary, Sachivalaya Administration, State of U.P. has issued an order for sanctioning 10 posts of Special Secretary and 26 posts of Joint Secretary. The feeding cadre to be promoted on the post of Joint Secretary is Deputy Secretary. On the said post, the petitioner was discharging his duties w.e.f. 26.5.2012.

6. As soon as the petitioner came to know that his name has not been placed in the eligibility list of Deputy Secretaries for promotion on the post of Joint Secretary, he preferred a representation dated 30.5.2013 to the Principal Secretary, Sachivalaya Administration, State of U.P. apprising the fact that he is fulfilling all requisite qualification to be promoted on the post of Joint Secretary in the selection year, therefore, requested that he be considered for promotion on the said post.

7. Despite the aforesaid representation having been preferred, name of the petitioner was not considered in the Departmental Promotion Committee, which met on 6.6.2013.

8. Feeling aggrieved out of the aforesaid inaction, the petitioner preferred present writ petition seeking prayer that the opposite parties be directed to hold the Department Promotion Committee meeting for promotion to the post of Joint Secretary in terms of Government Order dated 19.5.2001 and candidature of the petitioner be considered for promotion prior to his retirement i.e. on 30.6.2013 and in the meantime, no promotion order be issued for the post of Joint Secretary.

9. This Court passed an order dated 19.6.2013 directing the opposite parties to hold the Departmental Promotion Committee within a week to consider petitioner's promotion on the post of Joint Secretary as contemplated in para-10 of the Government Order dated 19.5.2001 and declare the result immediately thereafter prior to his retirement.

10. In compliance of the aforesaid order of this Court, the impugned office memo dated 28.6.2013 has been issued rejecting the claim of the petitioner for consideration of promotion on the post of Joint Secretary as the petitioner has not completed his requisite period being probationer on the post of Deputy Secretary for the particular selection year. The said order has been assailed by means of amendment and after amendment application being allowed, office memo dated 28.6.2013 has been enclosed as Annexure No.11 to the writ petition.

11. Service condition of the petitioner is governed by the Uttar Pradesh Secretariat Service Rules, 1983 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1983"). Rule 3 (g) of the Rules, 1983 explains the year of recruitment as follows:-

"(g) 'Year of recruitment' means a period of twelve months commencing from the first day of July of a calendar year."

12. Rule 5 (1) to Rule 5 (4) of the Rules, 1983 are being reproduced herein below:-

"5. (1) Recruitment to the various categories of posts in the Service shall be made from the following sources:

(1)	Section Officer	By promotion from amongst permanent Assistant Superintendents and such permanent Upper Division Assistants as have put in at least ten years service (including temporary service) as Upper Division Assistants or/ and on any higher post.
(2)	Under Secretary	By promotion from amongst permanent Section Officer who have put in at least five years service (including temporary service) as Section Officer or/and on any higher post.
(3)	Deputy Secretary	By promotion from amongst permanent Under Secretaries.
(4)	Joint Secretary	By promotion from amongst permanent Deputy Secretaries.

13. Rule 9 of the Rules, 1983 explains the procedure for recruitment to the post of Deputy Secretary and Joint Secretary as follows:-

"9. (1) Recruitment to the post of Deputy Secretary and Joint Secretary shall be made on the basis of seniority subject to the rejection of unfit through a Selection Committee constituted as follows:

(i) Chief Secretary .... Chairman

(ii) Secretary, Secretariat Administration Department ..... Member

(iii) Secretary to Government to be nominated by the Chief Secretary ..... Member"

14. Rule 11 (i) & (ii) of the Rules, 1983 is being reproduced herein below:-

"Rule 11 (i) A person on appointment in or against a substantive vacancy to a post of –

(1) Section Officer, Under Secretary or a Deputy Secretary shall be placed on probation for a period of one year, and

(ii) Joint Secretary shall be placed on probation for a period of six months."

15. Rule 12 of the Rules, 1983 explains confirmation, which follows as under:-

"12. A probationer shall be confirmed in his appointment at the end of the period of probation or the extended period of probation if-

(a) his work and conduct is reported to be satisfactory;

(b) his integrity is certified; and

(c) the appointing authority is satisfied that he is otherwise fit for confirmation."

16. In the light of the aforesaid Rules, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the petitioner was promoted on the post of Deputy Secretary on 26.5.2012, however he was on probation for a period of one year and on 6.6.2013, he had completed more than one year's period on probation serving on the post of Deputy Secretary, therefore, he could have been promoted on the post of Joint Secretary under the Rules. The reason for non-consideration of his candidature for promotion on the post of Joint Secretary is that as per Rule 3 (g), the year of recruitment starts from the first day of July and ends on 30th June, so in the particular recruitment year for the year 2012-13, some period of the petitioner was short as it completed on 30.6.2013, but before the said date, the Departmental Promotion Committee met on 6.6.2013.

17. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn attention of this Court towards the Uttar Pradesh State Government Servants Confirmation Rules, 1991 (hereinafter referred to as "Confirmation Rules, 1991") referring Rule 5 (1) of the aforesaid Rules, which follows as under:-

"5. (1) Confirmation will not be necessary if a Government servant is promoted, on a regular basis, after following the prescribed procedure to a post in the cadre where promotion is the only source of recruitment."

18. On the basis of the aforesaid argument, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that since the promotion on the post of Joint Secretary is to be made only from the feeding cadre i.e. Deputy Secretary, therefore, if any employee is serving on the post of feeding cadre and the promotion is only source of recruitment, then confirmation will not be necessary for the employee. Hence, even if the petitioner was not confirmed on the post of Deputy Secretary under the Rules, 1983, even then he could have been promoted on the post of Joint Secretary treating him confirmed Deputy Secretary under the Confirmation Rules, 1991.

19. Learned counsel for the petitioner has referred the Government Order dated 19.5.2001, which explains the modality to fill up the promotional avenue within the recruitment year when the vacancies arose and as per the guidelines it should be implemented in its letter and spirit. On the strength of the aforesaid Government Order, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the employees should be given out right with regard to promotional avenue during the period they became entitle and the matter should not be kept pending till they reach at the verge of superannuation or superannuated from service. Therefore, the petitioner, who had competed more than one year's period of probation on the post of Deputy Secretary, he should have been considered for promotion on the post of Joint Secretary. Since he has been retired from service, therefore, he should have been given notional promotion.

20. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also submitted that the Confirmation Rules, 1991 are specific rules dealing with the issue of confirmation and clearly mandates that the confirmation will not be necessary if the Government servant is promoted on a regular basis after following the prescribed procedure to the post where the promotion is only source of recruitment and in the given case, the petitioner was promoted on the post of Deputy Secretary on the regular basis after following the prescribed procedure and the post of Deputy Secretary can only be filled up through promotion from the post of Under Secretary, therefore, the specific rules shall have overriding effect over the general rules.

21. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also referred the Uttar Pradesh Government Servants Probation Rules, 2013 (hereinafter referred to as "Probation Rules, 2013") referring Rule 5, which explains the condition where probation is not required. Rule 5 of the Probation Rules, 2013 is being reproduced herein below:-

"5. It will not be necessary to place a person on probation if he is promoted on a regular basis after following the prescribed procedure to a post belonging to same Group where promotion is the only source of recruitment."

22. The aforesaid Rule 5 specifically provides that the employee should not be placed on probation if he is promoted on a regular basis after following the prescribed procedure on the post belonging to the same group where promotion is the only source of recruitment.

23. The case of the present petitioner squarely qualifies the condition of Rule 5 of Confirmation Rules, 2013.

24. The aforesaid Probation Rules, 2013 have been amended by First Amendment Rules, 2016. By means of the aforesaid amendment, Rule 5 has been made absolute mandating that there is no need to place any person on probation if he is promoted on regular basis after following the prescribed procedure to the post which can be filled up from such promotional post, which is the only source of recruitment.

25. Again the Amended Rules, 2016 squarely covers the case of the present petitioner.

26. However, learned State counsel has tried to justify the impugned order by submitting that since the period of one year of probation of the petitioner on the post of Deputy Secretary was not completed within selection year, therefore, he could have not been given promotion on the post of Joint Secretary. On being confronted on the point that the Confirmation Rules, 1991, Probation Rules, 2013 and Amended Probation Rules, 2016 clearly provide that in a given circumstances, the petitioner should not be placed under probation and even if he is placed under probation, treating him confirmed on the post of Deputy Secretary, his candidature should be considered on the post of Joint Secretary inasmuch as the specific rules shall have overriding effect upon the general rules, learned State counsel has submitted that since Service Rules, 1983 clearly provide that those Deputy Secretary can be promoted on the post of Joint Secretary when they are permanent and they could have been made permanent only after completion of one year's probation period on the post of Deputy Secretary and since the petitioner has not assailed those rules in this writ petition, therefore, he cannot be given any relief in this writ petition.

27. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

28. In the present case, the question to be considered as to whether there is any fruitful purpose to place an employee on probation if such employee has been promoted on the regular basis after following the prescribed procedure on the post which can only be filled up through promotion as promotion is the only source of recruitment.

29. The second question is to be considered as to whether if there is conflict between specific rules and general rules, what rule would prevail.

30. The third question is to be considered is that if any rule has not been assailed but it appears that its interpretation is not harmonious with other rules, so for making that particular rule workable and to bring it in harmony with other provisions of statute/ statutes, the said provisions can be read down.

31. So far as to answer the first question, I would like to first refer Rules 5 of the Rules, 1983, which clearly mandates that the source of recruitment on the post of Deputy Secretary is by way of promotion only from the post of Under Secretary and likewise. The source of recruitment on the post of Joint Secretary is the post of Deputy Secretary only by way of promotion. The modality thereof has been prescribed under Rule 9 of the Rules, 1983 that the recruitment to the post of Deputy Secretary and Joint Secretary shall be made on the basis of seniority subject to the rejection of unfit through the Selection Committee constituted under the law. Therefore, if any Deputy Secretary or Joint Secretary is recruited, the same could have been recruited by way of promotion following the procedure. In the present case, the petitioner was promoted on the post of Under Secretary and on the post of Deputy Secretary strictly in accordance with law, therefore, there was no fruitful purpose to place the petitioner on probation on the post of Deputy Secretary in view of Rule 5 of the Probation Rules, 2013 as amended in the year 2016. The Probation Rules 2013 have been made by the Hon'ble Governor exercising powers under Article 309 of the Constitution of India and shall apply to all the persons holding a civil post in connection with the affairs of Uttar Pradesh. Rule 2 of the Probation Rules, 2013 clearly mandates that 'the provisions of these rules shall have effect notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other rules made by the Governor under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution, or orders, for the time being in force'. Likewise, Rule 5 (1) of the Confirmation Rules, 1991 clearly mandates that confirmation will not be necessary if the Government servant is promoted on regular basis after following the prescribed procedure to a post in the cadre where promotion is the only source of recruitment. These rules have also been made by the Hon'ble Governor exercising power of Article 309 of the Constitution of India.

32. When the aforesaid specific rules clearly provide that probation or confirmation will not be necessary if the source of recruitment for the post in question is promotion only and such promotion has been made following the due procedure of law, then the employee concerned should be treated confirmed on the promotional post without placing him on probation. The law is trite on the point that when there is conflict between specific law and general law, specific law shall have overriding effect upon the general law, therefore, the second question is being replied accordingly in favour of the petitioner.

33. Now the question as to whether Rule 5 of Rules, 1983 can be read down for the present case; the answer would be 'yes' for the reason that Rule 5 does not appear to be workable in the given circumstances and does not appear to be in harmony with other provisions of statute/statutes.

34. The term 'probation' has been explained under Probation Rules, 2013 itself. For brevity, Rule 4 of the Probation Rules, 2013 is being reproduced herein below:-

"4.(1) A person on substantive appointment to a post through direct recruitment shall be placed on probation for a period of two years. The appointing authority may, for reasons to be recorded, extend the period of probation in individual cases specifying the date upto which the extension is granted:

Provided that, save in exceptional circumstances, the period of probation shall not be extended beyond one year and in no circumstance beyond two years.

(2) A person on substantive appointment to a post by promotion, if direct recruitment is one of the sources of recruitment, shall be placed on probation for a period of two years. The appointing authority may, for reasons to be recorded, extend the period of probation in individual cases specifying the date upto which the extension is granted:

Provided that, save in exceptional circumstances, the period of probation shall not be extended beyond one year and in no circumstance beyond two years.

(3) A person appointed on a post by adjustment absorption or merger in accordance with the procedure prescribed in the relevant service rules, shall be placed on probation for a period of one year. The appointing authority may, for reasons to be recorded, extend the period of probation in individual cases specifying the date upto which the extension is granted :

Provided that, save in exceptional circumstances, the period of probation shall not be extended beyond six months and in no circumstance beyond one years.

(4) A person on substantive appointed to a post where promotion is the only source of recruitment, if the post belongs to a different Service or Group, shall be placed on probation for a period of one year. The appointing authority may, for reasons to be recorded, extend the period of probation in individual cases specifying the date upto which the extension is granted :

Provided that, save in exceptional circumstances, the period of probation shall not be extended beyond six months and in no circumstance beyond one years."

35. Perusal thereof clearly reveals that a person on substantive appointment to the post through direct recruitment should be placed on probation for a period prescribed under the law and such period of probation can be extended strictly in accordance with law. In the light of the aforesaid provisions, it appears that no fruitful purpose is served if any employee, who is promoted on the post which can be filled up through promotion only, is placed on probation, therefore, Rule 5 of the Probation Rules, 2013 specifically bars placing any employee on probation where promotion is the only source of recruitment. Therefore, in the given circumstances, Rule 5 of Rules, 1983 can be read down.

36. Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Rapti Commission Agency v. State of U.P. and others, (2006) 6 SCC 522 has observed the condition under which the principle of reading down can be applied. Para-7 of the aforesaid judgment is being reproduced herein below:-

"7. Coming to the plea of alternative remedy, we find that such a plea does not appear to have been raised by the respondent as there is no discussion in the High Court's judgment in this regard. Further, the constitutional validity of Section 8-E issue could not have been decided by the statutory authorities. Be that as it may, we find that the High Court has thoroughly confused the issues. The decisions of this Court in Steel Authority of India case [(2000) 3 SCC 200] and Nathpa Jhakri case [(2000) 3 SCC 319] related to legislative competence in the matter of deduction of tax under a State statute in respect of an inter-State transaction. The High Court commented upon the correctness of the judgments observing that several larger Benches' decisions were not considered. To say the least the High Court's approach is inappropriate. The decisions in Steel Authority case [(2000) 3 SCC 200] and Nathpa Jhakri case [(2000) 3 SCC 319] related to issues on which there appears to be no contrary view taken by any larger Bench. The High Court could not have sat in judgment over the correctness of the judgments of this Court. The High Court appears to have proceeded on the basis that this Court should have read down the provisions under consideration to uphold them. What is the basic fallacy in this approach is illuminatingly analysed in Minerva Mills Ltd. v. Union of India [(1980) 3 SCC 625] . In paras 64 and 65, the concept of reading down was succinctly stated as follows: (SCC p. 657)

"64. ... The principle of reading down the provisions of a law for the purpose of saving it from a constitutional challenge is well known. But we find it impossible to accept the contention of the learned counsel in this behalf because, to do so will involve a gross distortion of the principle of reading down, depriving that doctrine of its only or true rationale when words of width are used inadvertently. The device of reading down is not to be resorted to in order to save the susceptibilities of the lawmakers, nor indeed to imagine a law of one's liking to have been passed. One must at least take Parliament at its word when, especially, it undertakes a constitutional amendment.

65. ... If Parliament has manifested a clear intention to exercise an unlimited power, it is impermissible to read down the amplitude of that power so as to make it limited. The principle of reading down cannot be invoked or applied in opposition to the clear intention of the legislature. We suppose that in the history of the constitutional law, no constitutional amendment has ever been read down to mean the exact opposite of what it says and intends. In fact, to accept the argument that we should read down Article 31-C, so as to make it conform to the ratio of the majority decision in Kesavananda Bharati [Kesavananda Bharati v. State of Kerala, (1973) 4 SCC 225] , is to destroy the avowed purpose of Article 31-C as indicated by the very heading "Saving of certain laws' under which Articles 31-A, 31-B and 31-C are grouped. Since the amendment to Article 31-C was unquestionably made with a view to empowering the legislatures to pass laws of a particular description even if those laws violate the discipline of Articles 14 and 19, it seems to us impossible to hold that we should still save Article 31-C from the challenge of unconstitutionality by reading into that article words which destroy the rationale of that article and an intendment which is plainly contrary to its proclaimed purpose."

37. The Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Union of India and others v. Ind-Swift Laboratories Limited, (2011) 4 SCC 635, has held in para-19 as under:-

"19. This Court has repeatedly laid down that in the garb of reading down a provision it is not open to read words and expressions not found in the provision/statute and thus venture into a kind of judicial legislation. It is also held by this Court that the rule of reading down is to be used for the limited purpose of making a particular provision workable and to bring it in harmony with other provisions of the statute....."

38. The Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Subramanian Swamy and others v. Raju through Member, Juvenile Justice Board and another, (2014) 8 SCC 390, explains the condition under which the principle of reading down can be applied. Para-61 of the aforesaid judgment is as under:-

"61. Reading down the provisions of a statute cannot be resorted to when the meaning thereof is plain and unambiguous and the legislative intent is clear. The fundamental principle of the "reading down" doctrine can be summarised as follows. Courts must read the legislation literally in the first instance. If on such reading and understanding the vice of unconstitutionality is attracted, the courts must explore whether there has been an unintended legislative omission. If such an intendment can be reasonably implied without undertaking what, unmistakably, would be a legislative exercise, the Act may be read down to save it from unconstitutionality. The above is a fairly well-established and well-accepted principle of interpretation which having been reiterated by this Court time and again would obviate the necessity of any recall of the huge number of precedents available except, perhaps, the view of Sawant, J. (majority view) in DTC v. Mazdoor Congress [1991 Supp (1) SCC 600 : 1991 SCC (L&S) 1213] which succinctly sums up the position is, therefore, extracted below: (SCC pp. 728-29, para 255)

"255. It is thus clear that the doctrine of reading down or of recasting the statute can be applied in limited situations. It is essentially used, firstly, for saving a statute from being struck down on account of its unconstitutionality. It is an extension of the principle that when two interpretations are possible--one rendering it constitutional and the other making it unconstitutional, the former should be preferred. The unconstitutionality may spring from either the incompetence of the legislature to enact the statute or from its violation of any of the provisions of the Constitution. The second situation which summons its aid is where the provisions of the statute are vague and ambiguous and it is possible to gather the intentions of the legislature from the object of the statute, the context in which the provision occurs and the purpose for which it is made. However, when the provision is cast in a definite and unambiguous language and its intention is clear, it is not permissible either to mend or bend it even if such recasting is in accord with good reason and conscience. In such circumstances, it is not possible for the court to remake the statute. Its only duty is to strike it down and leave it to the legislature if it so desires, to amend it. What is further, if the remaking of the statute by the courts is to lead to its distortion that course is to be scrupulously avoided. One of the situations further where the doctrine can never be called into play is where the statute requires extensive additions and deletions. Not only is it no part of the court's duty to undertake such exercise, but it is beyond its jurisdiction to do so."

39. In view of the aforesaid dictums of Hon'ble Apex Court, I find that Rule 5 of the Rules, 1983 is not harmonious with the specific provisions of the Probation Rules, 2013 and Confirmation Rules, 1991. Further, the application of Rule 5 of Rules, 1983 is not properly workable which restricts the duly promoted Deputy Secretary to get the benefit of promotion on the post of Joint Secretary without having plausible and fruitful purpose, therefore, such rule i.e. Rule 5 of Rules, 1983 is hereby read down.

40. It is made clear that reading down Rule 5 of the Rules, 1983 shall be applied only for the present case so as to make the particular provision of law workable and harmonious with other provisions of law.

41. Accordingly, the said question is answered.

42. Considering the facts and circumstances of the issue in question and considering the various dictums of the Hon'ble Apex Court, I hereby quash the office memorandum dated 28.6.2013 passed by the Under Secretary, Sachivalaya Administration, Section-1, State of U.P. (Annexure No.11 to the writ petition).

43. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the opposite parties to provide the notional service benefits e.g. benefit of pay scale and retiral benefits notionally considering the candidature of the petitioner for promotion to the post of Joint Secretary w.e.f. the date when his juniors, if any, have been promoted on the said post notionally.

44. Liberty is given to the petitioner to prefer a representation taking all pleas and grounds enclosing therewith the copies of relevant documents as well as certified copy of this order within a period of three weeks.

45. The opposite parties shall make compliance of this order with expedition, preferably within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

46. The writ petition is accordingly allowed.

47. No order as to costs.

1. Smt. Mithlesh Singal Vs. St. of U. P. & Ors. (W. P. No.46178 of 2009) decided on 03.09.2009

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri H. N. Singh, Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Rishabh Srivastava, learned counsel for appellant and learned Standing Counsel for State-respondents.

2. Smt. Narayani Yadav, petitioner-appellant (hereinafter referred to as "appellant") having failed in getting any relief before learned Single Judge due to dismissal of Writ Petiton No.26650 of 2004 vide judgment dated 04.10.2010, has preferred this intra-Court appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1952). She has prayed for relief of setting aside aforesaid judgment of learned Single Judge as also to issue a writ of certiorari and quash retirement notice dated 26.04.2004 issued by Executive Officer, Nagar Palika Parishad, Shikohabad, District-Firozabad (hereinafter referred to as "EO, NPP, SKB").

3. By the aforesaid notice dated 26.04.2004, EO, NPP, SKB has informed appellant that she is completing age of superannuation on 31.07.2004, therefore, would retire on that date and should hand over charge to Principal of Bal Mandir, Nagar Palika Parishad, Shikohabad (hereinafter referred to as "School") wherein appellant was working as a Assistant Teacher.

4. Facts in brief giving rise to present appeal are as under.

5. The School was established, run and managed by Nagar Palika Parishad, Shikohabad, District-Firozabad (hereinafter referred to as "NPP, SKB") sometimes prior to 1968 and it was granted permanent recognition on 18.05.1968 by District Inspector of Schools, Mainpuri (hereinafter referred to as "DIOS"), since, at that time Shikohabad was part of District-Mainpuri and subsequently, it became part of District-Firozabad. School is a Basic Primary School (also called 'Junior Primary School') imparting education from Class I to V.

6. U. P. Legislature enacted U. P. Basic Education Act, 1972 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1972") to manage, control and regulate basic education in State of U. P. It received assent of Governor on 17.08.1972 and was published in U. P. Gazette (Extra-Ordinary) on 19.08.1972. All schools run by 'Local Bodies' were transferred under control of U. P. Basic Education Board (hereinafter referred to as "Board") and thereupon School also came within ambit of Act, 1972 and Rules and Regulations framed thereunder.

7. The service conditions of teachers of Basic Primary Schools came to be governed by U. P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1981"). Under Rule 29 of Rules, 1981, age of superannuation was prescribed as 60 years.

8. By Government Order dated 04.02.2004, decision of government was communicated to Director, Basic Education, Lucknow that age of superannuation of teachers of Primary Schools run by Board and also aided Primary Schools is increased to 62 years. It also provided that such teachers who have completed age of superannuation in July 2003, but continuing under benefit of end of Session, will also get benefit of increased age of retirement.

9. Appellant's date of birth is 01.08.1944 as per her High School Certificate of 1962. Therefore, she completed 60 years age on 31.07.2004 and 62 years on 31.07.2006. She could not have been retired prior thereto i.e. 31.07.2006. Further since she was attaining age of superannuation on 31.07.2006, therefore, entitled for Session end benefit and would have continued up to 30.06.2007, if age of retirement is taken as 62 years or 30.06.2005, if age of retirement is taken as 60 years. It is said that notice dated 26.04.2004, informing appellant that she would retire on 31.07.2004, is illegal and contrary to Statute.

10. Writ petition was contested by respondents-1 and 2 by filing a counter affidavit, sworn by Md. Afaque, Head Moharrir, NPP, SKB stating that 'School' is not under control of Board though recognized under Act, 1972, therefore, appellant is not governed by Rules, 1981. It further says that Government Order dated 04.02.2004, firstly is not applicable to Schools run by Local Bodies and secondly, being an executive order, unless Rules are amended, no otherwise claim can be made. Further appellant earlier filed Writ Petition No.44014 of 2002 stating that under Act, 1972, Schools run by Local Bodies, mostly, have been transferred to Board, but School in question run by NPP, SKB, which was recognized in 1962, continued to be managed and controlled by NPP, SKB, therefore, it should also be directed to be taken over by Board and should be governed by terms, conditions and Rules of Board including salaries applicable to teachers and staff of Primary Schools managed by Board. The above writ petition was disposed of vide judgment dated 01.03.2004 directing State Government to take decision on demand of teachers of Schools run by Local Bodies with regard to parity in pay scale with teachers of Primary Schools managed by Board. Pursuant to said judgment, a representation was made by teaching and non-teaching staff including present appellant, copy whereof is filed as Annexure-4 to counter affidavit. Government consequently passed order dated 26.10.2004 holding that teachers of Schools managed by Local Bodies are not entitled to claim parity with teachers of Primary Schools managed by Board. Paras 2 and 3 of Government Order dated 26.10.2004 rejecting claim of appellant and others is reproduced as under :

*''2. उक्त के अनुक्रम में याची के प्रत्यावेदन निस्तारण हेतु दिनांक 14.4.2004 को एक बैठक आहूत की गयी जिसमें अध्यक्ष नगर पालिका परिषद शिकोहाबाद, फिरोजाबाद ने प्रतिभाग किया। सहायक शिक्षा निदेशक (बेसिक) आगरा मण्डल, से आख्या प्राप्त की गयी। प्राप्त आख्यानुसार इस विद्यालय को स्थायी मान्यता वर्ष 1968–69 में प्रदान की गयी थी। मान्यता प्राप्त विद्यालयों को बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद, उ0प्र0 में शामिल करने की नीति नहीं है। उ0प्र0 बेसिक शिक्षा अधिनियम 1972 के अधीन गठित उ0प्र0 बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद के अधीन वे ही विद्यालय लिए गये जो अधिनियम प्रख्यापित होने के समय जिला विद्यालय निरीक्षक व उप विद्यालय निरीक्षक द्वारा ग्रामीण क्षेत्रों के तथा इसी प्रकार नगर निकायों में जिला विद्यालय निरीक्षक एवं शिक्षा अधीक्षकों द्वारा शिक्षकों/शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मियों से सेवाएँ नियंत्रित होती थी।

3. उ0प्र0 बेसिक शिक्षा अधिनियम 1972 की धारा 9 के अन्तर्गत ही शिक्षा कर्मी सम्बन्धित निकायों के माध्यम से वेतन पा रहे थे, उनकी सेवाएँ उ0प्र0 बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद में स्थानान्तरित कर दी गयी। इस अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत मान्यता प्राप्त विद्यालयों को बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद के अधीन नहीं लिया जाता है। वर्तमान में राज्य सरकार की ऐसी कोई नीति नहीं है। अतः बाल विद्या मंदिर फिरोजाबाद एवं मान्यता प्राप्त विद्यालय होने के कारण उ0प्र0 बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद के अधीन लिए जाने का कोई औचित्य नहीं है।''

"2. In pursuance of the above, a meeting was called on 14.04.2004 for disposal of the representation filed by the petitioner which was attended by the Chairman of Nagar Palika Parishad, Shikohabad, Firozabad. A report was obtained from the Assistant Director of Education (Basic), Agra Division. As per the report so obtained, this school was granted permanent recognition in the year 1968-69. There is no policy to include the recognized schools in Basic Education Board, Uttar Pradesh. Only those schools were included under the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board constituted under the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Act, 1972 where the services of teaching/non-teaching staff used to be governed at the time of enforcement of the Act by the District Inspector of Schools and Deputy Inspector of Schools in case of rural areas and, similarly, by the District Inspector of Schools and Superintendents of Education in case of municipal bodies.

3. The services of the teaching staff, who was getting salary through the concerned bodies well under Section 9 of the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education, Act, 1972, were transferred to the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board. The recognized schools under this Act are not taken under Basic Education Board. At present, there is no such policy of the State Government. Hence, there is no justification for taking Bal Vidya Mandir, Firozabad under the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board as it being a recognized school."

(emphasis added)

(English translation by Court)

11. Appellant and others, therefore, are continuing as employees of NPP, SKB and governed by terms, conditions and rules applicable to employees of NPP, SKB. Since there is no provision of giving advantage of two years extension to the age of retirement to employees of NPP, SKB, appellant's claim otherwise cannot be accepted. Similarly, there is no provision in NPP, SKB that an employee may continue even after attaining age of superannuation with Session benefit, claim of appellant for continuance till end of Session, also cannot be accepted.

12. In the rejoinder affidavit filed by appellant it is stated that Government Order dated 04.02.2004 is applicable to all recognized Primary Schools, therefore, will apply to teaching staff of Schools run by Local Bodies namely, NPP, SKB also.

13. Learned Single Judge has accepted contention of respondent that 'School' is controlled and managed by NPP, SKB, therefore, it is not governed by Rules applicable to teachers of Primary School managed by Board. It has also followed another Single Judge judgment in Smt. Mithlesh Singal Vs. State of U. P. and others (Writ Petition No.46178 of 2009) decided on 03.09.2009, hence, dismissed writ petition.

14. Parties have also filed certain affidavits before Court to place on record documents relating to recognition granted to 'School' by concerned Educational Authorities and other relevant documents, which we shall discuss at appropriate stage.

15. Certain facts evident from pleadings as also relevant Statutes and provisions contained therein, relied by the parties, it would be appropriate, to place in a chronological manner to make the things straight and more explicit :

18.05.1968 - DIOS, Mainpuri sent letter to Chairman, NPP, SKB communicating him about grant of permanent recognition to Bal Mandir Monterssary Vidyalaya, Shikohabad i.e. 'School' with a condition that it shall be shifted in a newly constructed school building near Nagar Palika Office by 25.06.1968, failing which, recognition order shall be cancelled.

10.07.1972 - U. P. Basic Education Ordinance, 1972 (U.P. Ordinance No.14 of 1972) was promulgated.

25.07.1972 - Under Section 3 of U. P. Ordinance No.14 of 1972, U. P. Basic Education Board was constituted/established.

19.08.1972 - U. P. Basic Education Act, 1972 (U. P. Act No.34 of 1972) was enacted and vide Section 20, U. P. Ordinance No.14 of 1972 was repealed.

19.08.1972 - Every teacher, officer and other employee serving under a Local Body exclusively in connection with Basic Schools, immediately before appointed date, stood transferred to and became a teacher, officer or other employee of Board.

19.08.1972 - Vide Section 18 (3) (b) of Act, 1972, Section 73 of U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916 (hereinafter referred to as Act, 1916) ceased to apply in relation to 'Basic Schools'.

25.04.1978 -Thereafter, vide U. P. Act No.10 of 1978, proviso was added to Section 73 of Act, 1916, which reads as under :

"Provided that the appointment of a teacher or Head of an institution shall be governed by the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh State Universities Act, 1973, or the Intermediate Education Act, 1921, as the case may be." (emphasis added)

02.08.1978 - Petitioner was appointed as Assistant Teacher by EO, NPP, SKB.

03.01.1981 - Rules, 1981 were framed and enforced. Section 3 thereof provides extent of application and reads as under :

"3. Extent of application.-These rules shall apply to :

(i) All teachers of local bodies transferred to the Board under Section 9 of the Act ; and

(ii) all teachers employed for the Basic and Nursery Schools established by the Board." (emphasis added)

21.06.1999 - Vide Section 13 A of Act, 1972, provisions of Act, 1972 were given overriding effect over Act, 1916.

21.06.1999 - Vide Section 9-A of Act, 1972, control of teacher and properties of Basic Schools stood transferred to Gram Panchayat and Municipalities within whose territorial limit, Basic Schools were situated. It reads as under :

"9-A. Control of teacher and properties of basic schools.- (1) Nothwithstanding anything contained to the contrary in any other provisions of this Act, on and from the date of commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education (Amendment) Act, 2000, -*

(a) every teacher of the basic school serving under, the Board immediately before such commencement shall be under the. administrative control of the Gram Panchayat or the Municipality, as the case may be, within whose territorial limits the basic school, is situated;

*(b) all buildings, properties and assets of the Board in respect of a basic school shall stand transferred to, and vest in, the Gram Panchayat or the Municipality, as the case may be, within whose territorial limits the basic school is situated;

(c) where any building or part thereof is occupied by a tenant by the Board for the purpose of a basic school immediately before such commencement, the tenancy in respect of such building or part thereof shall, notwithstanding anything contained in any contract, lease or other instrument, stand transferred in favour of the Gram Panchayat, or the Municipality, as the case may be;

(d) the Board shall cease to be the licensee in respect of the building or part thereof referred to in sub-section (2) of Section 18-A and the Gram Panchayat or the Municipality, as the case may be, within whose territorial limits such building is situated shall, if it is not already owner thereof, be deemed to have become licensee in respect of such building or part thereof on such terms and conditions as may be determined by the State Government.

(2) No Gram Panchayat or Municipality shall have the power to transfer by sale, gift, exchange, mortgage, lease or otherwise any building, property or assets transferred to, and vested in, such Gram Panchayat or Municipality, as the case may be, under sub-section (1)]. (emphasis added)

21.06.1999 - Certain functions were assigned to Municipalities vide Section 10-A of Act, 1972, which reads as under :

"10A. Functions of Municipalities. - Without prejudice to the powers and functions of Municipalities under the Uttar Pradesh Municipal Corporations Act, 1959 or the Uttar Pradesh Municipalities Act, 1916, as the case may be, every Municipality shall, subject to superintendence and control of the Board or the State Government, perform all or any of the following functions, namely :-

(a) to establish, administer, control and manage basic schools in the Municipal area;

(b) to take all such necessary steps as may be considered necessary to ensure punctuality and attendance of teachers and other employees of basic schools;

(c) to prepare schemes for the development, expansion and improvement of such basic schools;

(d) to promote and develop basic education, non-formal education and adult education in the Municipal area;

(e) to make recommendation for minor punishment in such manner as may be prescribed on a teacher or other employee of a basic school situate within the limits of the municipal area." (emphasis added)

16. In the present case, appellant is claiming benefit of Section 9 of Act, 1972 read with Rules, 1981 to claim higher age of superannuation and benefit of end of Academic Session.

17. So far as Section 9 of Act, 1972 is concerned, a perusal thereof clearly shows that only such teachers stood transferred who were employed in Basic Schools on appointed date i.e. date of establishment of Board i.e. 25.07.1972. Appellant was not at all in employment in 1972. Therefore, Section 9 of Act, 1972 is not attracted.

18. Appellant admittedly was appointed on 02.08.1978. His appointment was not made by Board but by EO, NPP, SKB. Even proviso to Section 73 of Act, 1916 has no application, since it talks of U. P. State Universities Act, 1973 or U. P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and not Act, 1972.

19. Now coming to Rules, 1981, we find that the same were made applicable, vide Rule 3 of Act, 1972, to teachers and lecturers of Local Bodies, who stood transferred to Board under Section 9 of Act, 1972 or all teachers employed for Basic and Nursery schools established by Board.

20. The School in question was not established by Board. Hence, Section 9 of Act, 1972 was not available. Since appellant was appointed in 1978, therefore, by virtue of Rule 3, Rules, 1981, are not applicable to the case of appellant.

21. Learned counsel for appellant drew attention of this Court to U. P. Recognized Basic Schools (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers and Other Conditions) Rules, 1975 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1975") which came into force on 01.07.1975 (Except Rule 11 which was made effective from 20.05.1975) when Rules were published in U. P. Gazette (Extra-Ordinary). Aforesaid Rules, 1975 are applicable to every recognized Schools as provided in Rule 3 and "Recognized School" is defined in Rule 2 (e) as under :

"2(e). "Recognised School" means any Junior Basic School, not being an institution belonging to or wholly maintained by the board or any local body, recognised by the Board before the commencement of these rules for imparting education from Class I to V."
(emphasis added)

22. Definition of "Recognised School" clearly shows that it is not applicable to a Junior Basic School which belongs to or wholly maintained by Board or any local body. Rules, 1975 are applicable to other Junior Basic Schools which are recognised by Board. Infact Junior Basic School i.e. school imparting education upto Class V which belong to or wholly maintained by Board or any local body are excluded from application of Rules, 1975.

23. Reliance is also placed on U. P. Recognised Basic Schools (Junior High Schools)(Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers) Rules, 1978 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1978") which came into force on 13.03.1978 i.e. the date on which said Rules were published in U. P. Gazette (Extra-Ordinary). Here also we find that by virtue of Rule 2 (e), these are applicable only to 'Junior High School' i.e. school imparting education from Class VI to VIII while School in question is clearly a Junior Basic School as it is imparting education from Class I to V, as is evident from para 2 of affidavit filed along with stay application in this appeal, therefore, aforesaid Rules are also not applicable.

24. In absence of any provision as relied by appellant, we have no manner of doubt that appellant having been appointed in 1978 by E.O., NPP, SKB continued to be an employee of said local body and age of retirement, therefore, in absence of any other provision applicable to appellant, would be such as were applicable to employees of NPP, SKB. Hence, appellant has rightly been informed about date of retirement on which she was to complete 60 years of age i.e. 31.07.2004 as the Rules applicable to employees of NPP, SKB.

25. We, therefore, find no legal or otherwise flaw or error in the judgment of learned Single Judge so as to warrant interference in this appeal

26. Appeal lacks merit. Dismissed accordingly.

A. Service – Appointment/Recruitment – Eligibility criteria/conditions – Uttar Pradesh Basic Education (Teachers) Service (Twentieth Amendment) Rules, 2017: Rules 2(w), 2(x), 2(y); Uttar Pradesh Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981 - The question before the Court is as to whether once the selection process had commenced, the eligibility marks prescribed to be obtained by the candidates belonging to respective categories could be permitted to be changed after the last date fixed for receipt of applications.

The rules of the game cannot be changed at the verge of or towards the end of the game. Change of criteria in the midst of selection process is not permissible – Once the selection/recruitment process starts no change can be made in the eligibility conditions after the last date fixed for receipt of applications. The rules which are prevailing at the time of issue of advertisement/guidelines would be considered and not the subsequent amendment. (Para 42, 43, 46, 47, 59 & 63)

B. Violation of natural justice – "Useless formality theory" - If on admitted or indisputable factual position, only one conclusion is possible the Court need not issue a writ merely because there is violation of principle of natural justice, as in no opportunity of hearing was given to petitioners. There was no justification for the issue of the GO dated 21.05.2018 taking into consideration the settled proposition of law and as such, no infirmity was found in the GO dated 20.02.2019 being issued to withdraw the GO dated 21.05.2018. (Para 54, 55, 60 & 70)

C. Principle of legitimate expectation - The legitimacy of expectation can be inferred only if it is founded on the sanction of law or custom or an established procedure - Whenever the question of legitimate expectation arises, it is to be determined not according to the claimant's perception but in larger public interest wherein other more important considerations may outweigh what would otherwise have been the legitimate expectation of the claimant. In the present case, issue of GO dated 21.05.2018 lowering the eligibility marks would run against the settled proposition of law as there cannot be said to be any sanction or custom by the Government to reduce the eligibility marks after the commencement of selection process. Petition challenges Government Order dated 20.02.2019, by which GO dated 21.05.2018, changing the eligibility criteria was made redundant.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Moin,J.)

1. Heard Sri S.K. Kalia, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Avdhesh Shukla and Sri Sameer Kalia, Sri Jai Deep Narain Mathur, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Devendra Upadhyay, Sri Sandeep Dixit, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Manoj Mishra, Sri Sudeep Seth, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Onkar Singh and Ms. Ishita Yadav, Dr. L.P. Mishra, Sri Y.S. Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioners in this writ petition and other connected matters, Sri Kuldeep Pati Tripathi, learned Additional Advocate General, assisted by Sri Prafulla Yadav and Sri Pratyush Tripathi, learned Standing Counsel appearing for State-respondents and Sri Ajay Kumar, learned counsel appearing for respondent no.3/Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board.

2. There is consensus at the Bar between the counsel for the parties that as all the cases pertain to a common issue and these writ petitions have been heard together, as such they be decided by a common judgment. Accordingly, the facts of Writ Petition (S/S) No.6000 of 2019 are being considered for deciding this bunch of writ petitions.

3. By means of the present petition, the petitioners have prayed for quashing of the Government Order dated 20.2.2019, a copy of which is Annexure-1 to the writ petition. Further prayer is for a mandamus commanding the respondents to declare the result of the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination-2018 on the basis of Government Order dated 21.5.2018, a copy of which is Annexure-2 to the writ petition.

4. Brief facts as set forth by the petitioners are that a Government Order had been issued by the respondents giving guidelines for holding an examination, namely, Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination-2018 (hereinafter referred to as the 2018 Recruitment), a copy of which is Annexure-4 to the writ petition. A notification was issued on 23.1.2018, a copy of which is Annexure-6 to the writ petition, giving the schedule for applying for the 2018 Recruitment by eligible candidates in terms of the guidelines dated 9.1.2018 and the Government Order dated 17.1.2018, a copy of which is Annexure-5 to the writ petition. The Government Order dated 17.1.2018, as has been referred to in the notification dated 23.1.2018, gave the schedule for issue of advertisement, dates of submission of applications etc. Subsequent thereto, the respondents issued another time schedule dated 7.5.2018, a copy of which is Annexure S-1 to the supplementary affidavit, by which the last date fixed for receipt of applications was specified as 17.5.2018 and the candidates could make correction on-line in their application by 21.5.2018. The date of examination was also specified as 27.5.2018. It is contended that as per para 7 of the guidelines that were part of the Government order dated 9.1.2018, it was provided that the minimum marks to be obtained by a candidate, so far as they pertain to general and other backward category candidates, was 67 marks out of 150 marks i.e 45 percent while the minimum marks for Scheduled Caste/ Scheduled Tribe category was 60 marks out of 150 marks i.e 40 per cent. Even before the examination could be held on 27.5.2018, the respondents issued a Government Order dated 21.5.2018, a copy of which is Annexure-2 to the writ petition, by which the marks, so far as they pertained to general and other backward category candidates, were reduced to 33 percent while for other categories i.e. the reserved categories was reduced to 30 per cent.

5. The said Government Order was challenged by one Sri Diwakar Singh by filing Writ Petition No.20404 of 2018 before this Court. The basic ground to challenge the said Government Order was that once the selection process had commenced and the date of examination was fixed as 27.5.2018 then the respondents while issuing the Government Order dated 21.5.2018 could not have changed the selection criteria.

6. This Court vide order dated 24.7.2018 restrained the respondents from implementing the guidelines issued under the Government Order dated 21.5.2018 in the selection proceedings initiated in pursuance to the Government order dated 9.1.2018 and the advertisement issued in pursuance thereto. Copy of the interim order dated 24.7.2018 is Annexure-10 to the writ petition.

7. Being aggrieved with the order dated 24.7.2018, a bunch of special appeals leading being Special Appeal No.432 of 2018 In re: Avnish Kumar and others vs. Shri Diwakar Singh and others was filed before this Court. This Court vide judgment and order dated 24.9.2018, a copy of which is Annexure-21 to the writ petition, remanded back the matter to the Hon'ble Single Judge to decide the same finally as early as possible. It is also contended that as the selection had proceeded, the State Government issued a Government order dated 08.08.2018, a copy of which is annexure 11 to the petition resolving to comply with the interim order dated 24.7.2018 and granting permission to prepare and declare the result as per the guidelines dated 9.1.2018. In pursuance thereof, the result was declared on 13.8.2018.

8. It has also been stated in paragraph 16 of the writ petition that out of 68500 vacant posts only 41556 candidates qualified as per the minimum qualifying marks prescribed as per the guidelines dated 9.1.2018. It has also been contended that the petitioners have not qualified as per the qualifying marks prescribed as per the guidelines dated 9.1.2018 but may qualify as per the lowered qualifying marks prescribed as per the Government order dated 21.5.2018.

9. Subsequent thereto, the respondents issued the impugned order dated 20.2.2019, a copy of which is Annexure-1 to the writ petition, by which the Government Order dated 21.5.2018 was made redundant. It is contended that through an order dated 28.2.2019 passed in a bunch of writ petitions the leading being Writ Petition (S/S) No.20404 of 2018, all of which had been filed challenging the order dated 21.5.2018, the said petitions were dismissed as infructuous keeping in view the order dated 20.2.2019 but it was left open to the affected parties to raise all pleas and grounds in the subsequent writ petition wherein the Government Order dated 20.2.2019 is under challenge, if any.

10. It is argued that the Government on 09.11.2017 has issued the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education (Teachers) Service (Twentieth Amendment) Rules, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as "Twentieth Amendment") to amend the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1981") which provide in Rule 2 (w) as under:-

"2(w). "Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination"means a written examination conducted by the Government for recruitment of a person in junior basic schools run by Basic Shiksha Parishad.

11. Likewise Rule 2 (x) reads as under:-

"2(x). "Qualifying Marks of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination"means such minimum marks as may be determined from time to time by the Government."

12. The Rule 2 (y) reads as under:-

"2(y). "Guidelines of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination"means such guidelines as may be determined from time to time by the Government."

13. Placing reliance on Rule 2 (x) it is contended that qualifying marks of Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination would mean such minimum marks as may be determined from time to time by the Government and thus once such power is vested in the Government to determine the minimum marks consequently once the Government issued the Government order dated 21.05.2018 revising and lowering the marks, as such the same are deemed to have been issued by exercising the power vested in the Government in terms of Rule 2 (x) and thus validly no challenge could be raised to the same and once the marks had been determined, it could not be said that the same amounted to change in the rule of the game so as to cause any grievance to any of the candidates and thus the order dated 21.05.2018 having been validly issued, there was no occasion for the respondents to have withdrawn the said order through the impugned Government order dated 20.02.2019.

14. It is also argued that the process of recruitment would only start when the actual recruitment for Assistant Teachers is held i.e after the result of the qualifying examination i.e 2018 Recruitment and thus once no recruitment was involved in the qualifying examination that was held by the respondents, as such merely because the Government exercising the power vested in it under Rule 2 (x) of the Twentieth Amendment having validly exercised the said power and the 'game' was still to begin after the persons had qualified in the said examination and attained eligibility for the purpose of finally staking their claim for their appointment in terms of the recruitment still to be conducted, as such there was no occasion for this Court to have passed the interim order dated 24.07.2019 and thereafter there was no occasion for the Government to have withdrawn the same through the Government order dated 20.02.2019 based on the said interim order.

15. Another argument is that the interim order dated 24.07.2018 was passed on the basis of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of K.Manjusree Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh reported in (2008) 3 SCC 512 which itself has been held to be per incuriam in a subsequent judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Tej Prakash Pathak and Anr Vs. Rajasthan High Court and Ors reported in (2013) 4 SCC 540 and the respondents while issuing the impugned order dated 20.02.2019 having passed the said order on the basis of the interim order which resulted in the respondents proceeding with the selection on the basis of the earlier Government order and declaring the result whereafter the Government order dated 21.05.2018 was made redundant meaning thereby that the very base of the order dated 20.02.2019 is the interim order of this Court dated 24.07.2018 which itself being based on a judgment of the Apex Court being held per incuriam meaning thereby that the order dated 20.02.2019 is itself vitiated in the eyes of law.

16. Placing reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Shree Chamundi Mopeds Ltd vs Church Or South India Trust Association reported in (1992) 3 SCC 1 it is contended that the order dated 24.07.2018 of this Court was only an interim order meaning thereby that the Court was still to pronounce on the validity of the Government order dated 21.05.2018 and thus merely because the Government order dated 21.05.2018 had been stayed by this Court, the same would not take away the effect of the Government order dated 21.05.2018 inasmuch as a distinction has to be made between quashing of an order and stay of operation of an order and thus by no stretch of imagination could the interim order of this Court dated 24.07.2018 have been taken as a final order by the respondents while proceeding to pass the impugned Government order dated 20.02.2019 in order to make redundant the Government order dated 21.05.2018 the validity of which was still to be tested by this Court in a bunch of petitions.

17. Placing reliance on Tej Prakash Pathak (supra) it is argued that it was not the eligibility condition which had been interfered with by the respondents with the issue of the Government order dated 21.05.2018 rather a conscious decision was taken by the Government while issuing the Government order dated 21.05.2018 to reduce the minimum marks which could validly be done by the Government taking into consideration Rule 2 (x) of the Twentieth Amendment.

18. It is also argued that no reasons are forthcoming in the impugned order dated 20.02.2019, apart from giving reference to the interim order of this Court, as to why the respondents thought it fit to make the Government order dated 21.05.2018 redundant and as such any reason that may be taken in the counter affidavit cannot be considered by this Court while going into the validity and veracity of the impugned order dated 20.02.2019.

19. It is further argued that even if the reduced marks would have resulted in a large number of candidates qualifying in the exam yet the merit of final selection for appointment would not be compromised as in terms of Rule 14 (1) (c) (3) (a) of the Twentieth Amendment in Rule, 1981, the name of the candidates in the list prepared under Sub Rule (2) in accordance with Clause (a) of Sub Rule (1) of Rule 14 has to be arranged in accordance with the quality points and weightage as specified in appendix (I). The appendix (I) prescribes quality points and weightage as per the percentage of marks in the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination to be taken as 60 percent of marks in the examination i.e percentage of marks in the examination X 60/100. The percentage of marks in the examination of BTC training, Graduation Degree, Intermediate and High School have also been indicated. Thus, in case a candidate qualifies the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination with a lesser percentage, lesser quality points would contribute towards the selection of candidate as provided under the Twentieth Amendment whereby reducing his merit.

20. Reliance has also been placed on the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Yogesh Yadav Vs. Union of India reported in (2013) 14 SCC 623 to contend that bench mark could be fixed even after the examination has been held which would be permissible in the eyes of law and the same would not amount to change of the rule of the game after the examination commenced.

21. Learned counsel for the petitioners has also argued that once this Court was seized of the matter in Writ Petition (S/S) No.20404 of 2018 and other connected matters wherein the validity of the order dated 21.5.2018 had been raised, consequently the said order dated 21.5.2018 could not have been withdrawn by the respondents during pendency of the aforesaid writ petitions. In this regard, reliance has been placed upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Executive Officer, Arthanareswarar Temple vs. R. Sathyamoorthy and others reported in (1999)3 SCC 115, Kalabharati Advertising vs. Hemand Vimalnath Narichania and others reported in (2010)9 SCC 437 and K.S. Bhoopathy and others vs. Kokila and others reported in (2000)5 SCC 458.

22. Learned counsel for the petitioners also argue that once the Government Order dated 21.5.2018 had been issued lowering the qualifying marks from 45 to 33 percent for general and other backward category candidates and from 40 to 30 percent for other candidates i.e. reserved category candidates, as such the petitioners have acquired a legitimate right and expectation for being considered in terms of the modified qualifying marks. In this regard, reliance has been placed on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Union of India and another vs. Lieutenant Colonel P.K. Choudhary and others reported in (2016)4 SCC 236.

23. Another ground taken on behalf of the petitioners is that as approximately 27713 posts are still lying vacant, as such it would be equitable for this Court to direct the respondents to fill in the remaining vacancies with the relaxed qualifying marks i.e. as per the Government Order dated 21.5.2018 itself.

24. As regards the ground on which the interim order dated 24.7.2018 had been passed by this Court in Writ Petition (S/S) No.20404 of 2018 i.e. with the issue of the Government Order dated 21.5.2018 the rules of the game having been changed, reliance has been placed on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Rajya Sabha Secretariat and others vs. Subhash Baloda and others reported in (2013)5 SCC 169 and Barot Vijaykumar Balakrishna and others vs. Modh Vinaykumar Dasrathlal and others reported in (2011)7 SCC 308 to assert that amended or modified rules can be considered after the selection process has commenced.

25. It is also argued on behalf of the petitioner that no valid reason is forthcoming in the order dated 20.02.2019 for withdrawal of Government order dated 21.05.2018 inasmuch as the grounds indicated in the said order for making redundant the Government order dated 21.05.2018 are that in compliance with the interim order dated 24.07.2018, the Government order dated 08.08.2018 had been issued for adhering to the Government order dated 09.01.2018 which provided the eligibility marks of 45 percent and 40 percent for the General and Reserved Category candidates and for proceeding with the selection accordingly and that as the result has been declared subsequent thereto, as such the Government order dated 21.05.2018 has become redundant. It is contended that once the entire action of issue of the Government order dated 08.08.2018 has been taken in pursuance to the interim order dated 24.07.2018 and even the result declaration has taken place in pursuance to the Government order dated 08.08.2018 and ultimately Writ Petition No. 20404 (SS) of 2018 had been dismissed as infructuous meaning thereby that the entire action had been taken on the basis of the interim order and thus once the lis was already before this Court, consequently there was no occasion for the respondents to have passed the order dated 08.08.2018 and to have proceeded further with the selection and thus merely because the result has been declared would not make the Government order dated 21.05.2018 redundant as contended in the impugned order dated 20.02.2019. Thus, the grounds taken in the said order cannot be said to be sufficient and sustainable in the eyes of law.

26. Another ground which has been taken on behalf of the petitioners is that the Government order dated 09.01.2018 had been issued after the Twentieth Amendment in the Rules, 1981 which provided in Rule 2 (w) for an Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination and further the academic qualification, so far as it pertains to the post of Assistant Master and Assistant Mistresses of Junior Basic Schools provided the eligibility condition of a candidate as having passed the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. An amendment was also made in Appendix I in the Rules, 1981 by way of the Twentieth Amendment which gave quality points for a candidate having passed the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. By the 22nd Amendment dated 15.03.2018 made in the Rules, 1981, the academic qualification, as was introduced in Rule 8 by the Twentieth Amendment, was done away with so far as it pertains to a teacher passing the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination, however the said condition was added as Rule 14 (1) (b) by indicating that for every notified vacancy under Rule 14 (1) (a) of the Rules for Recruitment of Assistant Master or Assistant Mistresses of Junior Basic School, a separate Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination shall be conducted by the Government. Rule 14 (1) (a) provides for determination of vacancies as also the number of vacancies to be reserved and applications to be invited from candidate possessing prescribed training qualification and having passed the Teacher eligibility test and Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government. It is thus argued that once condition in Rule 8 was done away with in terms of the 22nd Amendment, consequently the Government order reducing the eligibility marks for General and Reserved Category candidates was correctly issued and hence there could not be any occasion for the respondent to withdraw the said Government order.

27. Elaborating this, learned counsel for the petitioners submit that the Apex Court in the case of State of U.P and Ors Vs. Anand Kumar Yadav reported in (2018) 13 SCC 560 in a matter pertaining to Shiksha Mitras has provided that as regularization of Shiksha Mitras as teachers is not permissible but at the same time they ought to be given opportunity to be considered for recruitment, if they have acquired or they now acquire, the requisite qualification in terms of advertisement for recruitment for next two consecutive recruitments by giving them suitable age relaxation and some weightage for their experience and considering this fact, the Government order dated 21.05.2018 had been issued reducing the marks and, as such there cannot be said to be any infirmity with the said Government order on this ground also.

28. Per contra, Sri Kuldeep Pati Tripathi, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Prafful Yadav, learned Standing counsel submits and argues on the grounds as raised by the petitioners as well as on the basis of the averments contained in the counter affidavit which has been filed in Writ Petition No. 6313 (SS) of 2019 and has been adopted in all other petitions that in terms of the Twentieth Amendment in Rules, 1981 which was introduced on 09.11.2017, Rule (2) (w), 2 (x) and 2 (y) were introduced. Rule 2 (w) for the very first time brought in the concept of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination for recruitment of a person in Junior Basic Schools. Rule 2 (x) gave the power to fix qualifying marks of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination to be determined from time to time by the Government and Rule 2 (y) gave the guidelines of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination as may be determined from time to time by the academic authority. The Twentieth Amendment to the Rules, 1981 also brought an amendment in Rule 8 of the Basic Education Service Rules which provided, so far as the academic qualification of Assistant Master and Assistant Mistresses of Junior Basic Schools was concerned, that they should have passed the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government. Appendix I which pertains to quality points and weightage for selection candidates was also substituted to bring in the quality points by introducing Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination marks also within the ambit of quality points. Taking into consideration the aforesaid amendments, the Government order dated 09.01.2018 was issued giving the guidelines for the purpose of holding Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination, 2018 for 68,500 vacancies. The said guidelines provided the procedure for submitting of applications by the candidates and Clause 7 of the guidelines prescribed the qualifying marks for the General and Reserved Category candidates which were 45 percent for the General and Other Backward Caste and 40 percent for the Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe Candidates respectively i.e 87 out of 150 marks and 60 out of 150 marks respectively. In terms of the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 an advertisement for holding 2018 Recruitment was issued on 23.01.2018 giving the schedule of online registration from 25.01.2018. However, subsequently another Government order dated 07.05.2018 was issued by the Government giving the date of advertisement, the last date as to by when the eligible candidate could apply for appearing in the examination as well as the date by which they could correct any error in their application. In terms of the said order dated 07.05.2018, the date of issue of advertisement was fixed as 08.05.2018, the date for registration of online applications was fixed from 14.05.2018, while the last date fixed for receipt of applications was fixed as 17.05.2018. Those candidates who had applied and finding an error in their applications, could log in and correct any error in their applications by 21.05.2018. The examination was also notified to be held on 27.05.2018. After the last date fixed for receipt of application i.e 17.05.2018, Government order dated 21.05.2018 was issued changing and reducing the qualifying marks as specified in Clause 7 of the guidelines issued vide Government order dated 09.01.2018 and fixing them at 33 percent for General Category and Other Backward Classes Candidate and 30 percent for Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe Reserved Category candidates. A Writ Petition No. 20404 (SS) of 2018 was filed challenging the said Government order dated 21.05.2018 and a detailed interim order was passed by this Court staying the Government order dated 21.05.2018. After considering the entire facts and circumstances, the Government decided to proceed with the selection in terms of the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 and on the basis of the qualifying marks fixed in the said guidelines i.e 45 percent and 40 percent respectively. It is contended that the said Government order dated 08.08.2018 was issued not only in pursuance to the interim order of this Court but also after a conscious decision had been taken to proceed with the selection in terms of the Government order dated 09.01.2018 and cut off marks fixed therein. Thereafter, the result was declared on 13.08.2018 and the process of issue of the appointment letters to the selected candidates started w.e.f 05.09.2018. Subsequent thereto, as the selection had proceeded in pursuance to the order dated 08.08.2018 and the process of issue of appointment letter to the selected candidates had also started w.e.f 05.09.2018, as such the order dated 20.02.2019 was passed withdrawing the order dated 21.05.2018 which was again a conscious decision that had been taken by the respondents taking into consideration the developments that had taken place in the interregnum period.

29. Learned counsel appearing for the respondents further argues that once the petitioners had consciously applied in pursuance to the Advertisement dated 23.01.2018 and 07.05.2018 by which applications were invited from eligible candidate for the 2018 Recruitment and it was specified that the same was being issued in pursuance to the Government order dated 09.01.2018 and 17.01.2018 whereby the cut off marks of 45 percent and 40 percent had been fixed and the last date fixed for receipt of applications was 17.05.2018 meaning thereby that they were perfectly satisfied with the cut off marks that had been fixed in terms of the Government order dated 09.01.2018, consequently, when the second Government order dated 22.05.2018 was issued reducing the cut off marks, it cannot be said that the petitioners were sought to be put in any disadvantageous position inasmuch as they had consciously chosen to participate on the basis of the cut off marks as specified in the Government order dated 09.01.2018 and hence reduction of marks through the subsequent Government order and thereafter withdrawal of the said Government order through the impugned order dated 20.02.2019 would not give them any right to assert to the contrary.

30. It is also contended that there has been no violation of any rights of the petitioners, inasmuch as they consciously offered to participate in the said examination in terms of the cut off marks issued through the order dated 09.01.2018 which had been fixed in consonance with the Twentieth Amendment in Rules, 1981 that had been introduced w.e.f 09.11.2017 and exercising the power in terms of Rule 2 (x).

31. So far as the order dated 20.02.2019 is concerned, it is contended that a perusal of the said order would itself indicate that the order was occasioned on account of the subsequent Government order dated 08.08.2018 which had been issued after conscious decision had been taken by the respondents of proceeding with the selection on the basis of the cut off marks fixed through the Government order dated 09.01.2018 and the result having been declared thereafter and accordingly once such a conscious decision was taken, the impugned order dated 20.02.2019 cannot be challenged on the ground that it was only based on an interim order passed by this Court.

32. So far as the 21st and 22nd Amendments are concerned whereby Rule 8 and Rule 14 had been amended, it is argued that the said amendments being of a subsequent date would not affect the guidelines that had been issued on 09.01.2018 considering the Twentieth Amendment in the rules and it being a settled proposition of law that an advertisement is to be issued taking into consideration the prevalent rules and mere amendment in the rules subsequently would not render either the advertisement bad in the eyes of law or make out any claim for amendment of the said advertisement.

33. Learned counsel for the respondents, in support of his submissions, has placed reliance on the following judgments:-

(i) Union of India and others vs. S. Vinodh Kumar and others reported in (2007)8 SCC 100;

(ii) Shankarsan Dash vs. Union of India reported in (1991)3 SCC 47.

(iii) S.S. Balu and another vs. State of Kerala and others reported in (2009)2 SCC 479.

(iv) Union of India vs. Pushpa Rani and others reported in (2008)9 SCC 242.

(v) M.C. Mehta vs. Union of India and others reported in (1999)6 SCC 237.

(vi) Ramesh Chandra Shah and others vs. Anil Joshi and others reported in (2013)11 SCC 309.

(vii) Canara Bank vs. V.K. Awasthy reported in (2005)6 SCC 321.

34. Heard learned counsel appearing for the contesting parties and perused the records.

35. From a perusal of records it comes out that the Twentieth Amendment in the Rules, 1981 was issued on 09.11.2017 amending Rule 8 of the Rules, 1981 and making passing of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination as an eligibility condition for being appointed on the post of Assistant Master and Assistant Mistress of Junior Basic School. For the said purpose, Rule 2 (w),(x) and (y) were also introduced of which Rule 2 (w) defines the "Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination" as a written examination conducted by the Government for recruitment of a person in Junior Basic Schools, Rule 2 (x) defines "Qualify marks of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination" as such minimum marks as may be determined from time to time by the Government and Rule 2 (y) defines "Guidelines of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination" as such guidelines as may be determined from time to time by the academic authority with the approval of the Government. Subsequently, the Government order dated 09.01.2018 was issued giving guidelines for holding the Recruitment, 2018. Clause 7 of the said guidelines specified the essential marks which were to be obtained by the General and Other Backward Class candidates which were specified as 67 out of 150 marks or 45 percent and 60 out of 150 marks i.e 40 percent for Schedule Caste and Schedule Tribe category candidates so as to be declared as pass and issue of certificate in the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination. A notification was issued on 23.01.2018 giving the schedule for applying for the Recruitment, 2018 by the eligible candidates in terms of the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 and 17.01.2018. Subsequently, another time schedule dated 07.05.2018 was issued by which the date of advertisement was specified as 08.05.2018, the date for submission of online applications was specified as 14.05.2018 and last date fixed for receipt of applications was specified as 17.05.2018. Those candidates who had applied in pursuance to the said advertisement and finding an error in their application could correct their applications online by 21.05.2018 while the examination was scheduled to be held on 27.05.2018. The effect of issue of notification dated 17.05.2018 was that the applications could be submitted by those candidates who were desirous of applying for Recruitment, 2018 knowing fully well the conditions as in the Government order dated 09.01.2018 including the eligibility marks that they had to obtain i.e 45 percent and 40 percent for the General/ Other Backward Class candidates and Reserved Category Candidate respectively.

After the last date expired for submission of applications i.e 17.05.2018, the respondents issued the Government order dated 21.05.2018 by which the eligibility marks, as were specified in the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 i.e 45 percent and 40 percent for General/ Other Backward Candidates and Reserved Category Candidates respectively, were reduced to 33 percent and 30 percent respectively for the respective category. The said Government order dated 21.05.2018 was challenged by one Sri Diwakar Singh by filing Writ Petition No. 20404 (SS) of 2018 before this Court on the basic premise that once the selection process had commenced and the date of examination was fixed as 27.05.2018 then the respondents could not have changed the selection criteria while issuing the Government order dated 21.05.2018.

36. This Court considering the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of K. Manjushree (supra) and Gopal Krushna Rath Vs. M.A.A.Baig (Dead) by Lrs and Ors reported in (1999) 1 SCC 544 directed that until further orders, the respondents are restrained to implement the guidelines issued under the Government order dated 21.05.2018 in the selection proceedings initiated in pursuance to the Government order dated 09.01.2018 and advertisement issued in pursuance thereto meaning thereby that the selection was to continue on the basis of the earlier guidelines dated 09.01.2018 whereby the eligibility marks had been prescribed to be 45 percent and 40 percent for the respective categories.

37. The aforesaid interim order dated 24.07.2018 was challenged before the Division Bench of this Court by certain candidates by filing Special Appeal in the case of Avnish Kumar (supra) and this Court vide judgment and order dated 24.09.2018 remanded the matter to the Hon'ble Single Judge to decide the same finally as early as possible. In the interregnum, the State Government had already issued the Government order dated 08.08.2018 resolving to comply with the interim order dated 24.07.2018 and granting permission to prepare and declare the result as per the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 and in pursuance thereof the result was also declared on 13.08.2018.

38. Even as the aforesaid petitions in the case of Diwakar Singh (supra) and others were pending, the Government issued the impugned order dated 20.02.2019, a copy of which is annexure 1 to the petition indicating that as in pursuance to the interim order dated 24.07.2018, a Government order dated 08.08.2018 had already been issued and in pursuance thereof the selection had proceeded and the result has also been declared, as such the Government order dated 21.05.2018 had become redundant and thus the same was withdrawn and the earlier Government order dated 09.01.2018 pertaining to the essential marks was directed to remain in force. Being aggrieved, the present petitions have been filed.

39. The facts of the case being now before this Court, the Court proceeds to consider the legality and validity of the action of the respondents.

40. The crux of the issue would be as to whether once the selection process which pertains to acquiring of eligibility prescribed for the post of Assistant Master and Assistant Mistress of Junior Basic Schools which had commenced with the issue of Advertisement dated 08.05.2018 taking into consideration the guidelines issued through the Government order dated 09.01.2018 fixing the eligibility marks to be obtained by the candidates belonging to respective categories could be permitted to be changed after the last date fixed for receipt of applications i.e after 17.05.2018 ?

41. The issue is no longer res integra having been settled beyond doubt by various judgments of the Apex Court which are being culled below.

42. In a judgment rendered by three Judges of the Hon'ble Apex Court namely T. Nadu Computer SC B.Ed. G.T. Welf. Society vs. Higher Sec. Scl. Computer Tech. Assn. and Ors reported in (2009) 14 SCC 517 which is a case squarely applicable in the facts of the present case, the Apex Court has held as under:-

"31. We have considered the aforesaid rival submissions of the counsel appearing for the parties in the light of the records placed before us. It is clearly established from the records that in order to give one time opportunity, a Special Recruitment Test was ordered to be held for selection and recruitment as also absorption of existing Computer Instructors. The said decision was taken on sympathetic consideration and with the intention of doing justice to those existing Computer Instructors, who were working in Government Schools for a very long time. Such a recruitment drive and test was held by laying down Rules of Recruitment thereby providing a level playing field for all concerned.

32. Prior to holding of the said Test guidelines were formulated through a policy decision laying down the criteria that the minimum qualifying marks in the said test would be at least 50%. The said guidelines of Recruitment as laid down through a policy decision was sacrosanct and was required to be followed for all practical purposes even if we accept that the Government could have filled up the said posts of Computer Instructors by holding a Special Recruitment Test of the aforesaid nature as one time exception.

33.We, however, cannot hold that the subsequent decision of the Government thereby changing qualifying norms by reducing the minimum qualifying marks from 50% to 35% after the holding the examination and at the time when the result of the examination was to be announced and thereby changing the said criteria at the verge of and towards the end of the game, as justified for we find the same as arbitrary and unjustified. This Court in Hemani Malhotra v. High Court of Delhi MANU/SC/1844/2008 : AIR2008SC2103 has held that in recruitment process changing rules of the game during selection process or when it is over are not permissible."

43. Likewise the Apex Court in the case of State of Bihar and Ors. vs. Mithilesh Kumar reported in (2010) 13 SCC 467 has held as under:-

"19. Both the learned Single Judge as also the Division Bench rightly held that the change in the norms of recruitment could be applied prospectively and could not affect those who had been selected for being recommended for appointment after following the norms as were in place at the time when the selection process was commenced. The Respondent had been selected for recommendation to be appointed as Assistant Instructor in accordance with the existing norms. Before he could be appointed or even considered for appointment, the norms of recruitment were altered to the prejudice of the Respondent. The question is whether those altered norms will apply to the Respondent.

20. The decisions which have been cited on behalf of the Respondent have clearly explained the law with regard to the applicability of the Rules which are amended and/or altered during the selection process. They all say in one voice that the norms or Rules as existing on the date when the process of selection begins will control such selection and any alteration to such norms would not affect the continuing process, unless specifically the same were given retrospective effect."

44. In the case of Bhupinderpal Singh and Ors Vs. State of Punjab and Ors reported in (2000) 5 SCC 262 the Apex Court has held as under:-

"13. Placing reliance on the decisions of this Court in Ashok Kumar Sharma v. Chander Shekhar and Anr. MANU/SC/1130/1997 :

(1997)ILLJ1160SC ; A.P. Public Service Commission v. B. Sarat Chandra and Ors. MANU/SC/0447/1990 : (1990)IILLJ135SC ; TheDistt. Collector and Chairman, Vizianagaram (Social Welfare Residential School Society) Vizianagaram and Anr. v. M. Tripura Sundari Devi 1990 (4) SLR 237; Mrs. Rekha Chaturvedi v. University of Rajasthan and Ors. MANU/SC/0838/1993 : (1993)ILLJ617SC ; Dr. M.V. Nair v. Union of India and Ors. MANU/SC/0494/1993 : (1993)IILLJ347SC ; and UP. Public Service Commission, U.P., Allahabad and Anr. v. Alpana MANU/SC/0672/1994 : [1994]1SCR131" the High Court has held (i) that the cut off date by reference to which the eligibility requirement must be satisfied by the candidate seeking a public employment is the date appointed by the relevant service rules and if there be no cut off date appointed by the rules then such date as may be appointed for the purpose in the advertisement calling for applications; ii) that if there be no such date appointed then the eligibility criteria shall be. applied by reference to the last date appointed by which the applications have to be received by the competent authority. The view taken by the High Court is supported by several decisions of this Court and is therefore well settled and hence cannot be found fault with. However, there are certain special features of this case which need to be taken care of and justice done by invoking the jurisdiction under Article 142 of the Constitution vested in this Court so as to advance the cause of justice."

45. In the case of Ashok Kumar Sharma and Ors Vs. Chander Shekhar and Anr reported in (1997) 4 SCC 18, the Apex Court has held as under:-

The proposition that where applications are called for prescribing a particular date as the last date for filing the applications, the eligibility of the candidates shall have to be judged with reference to that date and that date alone, is a well-established one. A person who acquires the prescribed qualification subsequent to such prescribed date cannot be considered at all. An advertisement of notification issued/published calling for application constitutes a representation to the public and the authority issuing it is bound by such representation. It cannot act contrary to it.

46. The Apex Court in the case of Bishnu Biswas and Ors. vs. Union of India (UOI) and Ors reported in (2014) 5 SCC 774 after considering the aforesaid judgment of T. Nadu Computer SC B.Ed. G.T. Welf. Society and Mithilesh Kumar (supra) has held as under:-

"8. This Court has considered the issue involved herein in great detail in Ramesh Kumar v. High Court of Delhi and Anr. MANU/SC/0079/2010 : AIR 2010 SC 3714, and held as under:

11. In Shri Durgacharan Misra v. State of Orissa and Ors. MANU/SC/0627/1987 : AIR 1987 SC 2267, this Court considered the Orissa Judicial Service Rules which did not provide for prescribing the minimum cut-off marks in interview for the purpose of selection. This Court held that in absence of the enabling provision for fixation of minimum marks in interview would amount to amending the Rules itself. While deciding the said case, the Court placed reliance upon its earlier judgments in B.S. Yadav and Ors. v. State of Haryana and Ors. MANU/SC/0409/1980 : AIR 1981 SC 561, P.K. Ramachandra Iyer and Ors. v. Union of India and Ors. MANU/SC/0395/1983 : AIR 1984 SC 541 and Umesh Chandra Shukla v. Union of India and Ors. MANU/SC/0050/1985 : AIR 1985 SC 1351 wherein it had been held that there was no "inherent jurisdiction" of the Selection Committee/Authority to lay down such norms for selection in addition to the procedure prescribed by the Rules. Selection is to be made giving strict adherence to the statutory provisions and if such power i.e. "inherent jurisdiction" is claimed, it has to be explicit and cannot be read by necessary implication for the obvious reason that such deviation from the Rules is likely to cause irreparable and irreversible harm.

12. Similarly, in K. Manjusree v. State of A.P. MANU/SC/0925/2008 : AIR 2008 SC 1470, this Court held that selection criteria has to be adopted and declared at the time of commencement of the recruitment process. The rules of the game cannot be changed after the game is over. The competent authority, if the statutory rules do not restrain, is fully competent to prescribe the minimum qualifying marks for written examination as well as for interview. But such prescription must be done at the time of initiation of selection process. Change of criteria of selection in the midst of selection process is not permissible.

13. Thus, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that in case the statutory rules prescribe a particular mode of selection, it has to be given strict adherence accordingly. In case, no procedure is prescribed by the rules and there is no other impediment in law, the competent authority while laying down the norms for selection may prescribe for the tests and further specify the minimum benchmarks for written test as well as for viva voce.

9. In Himani Malhotra v. High Court of Delhi MANU/SC/1844/2008 : AIR 2008 SC 2103, this Court has held that it was not permissible for the employer to change the criteria of selection in the midst of selection process. (See also: Tamil Nadu Computer Science B.ed. Graduate Teachers Welfare Society (1) v. Higher Secondary School Computer Teachers Association and Ors. MANU/SC/1158/2009 : (2009) 14 SCC 517; State of Bihar and Ors. v. Mithilesh Kumar MANU/SC/0630/2010 : (2010) 13 SCC 467; and Arunachal Pradesh Public Service Commission and Anr. v. Tage Habung and Ors. MANU/SC/0450/2013 : AIR 2013 SC 1601).

10. In P. Mohanan Pillai v. State of Kerala and Ors. MANU/SC/7165/2007 : AIR 2007 SC 2840, this Court has held as under:

It is now well-settled that ordinarily rules which were prevailing at the time, when the vacancies arose would be adhered to. The qualification must be fixed at that time. The eligibility criteria as also the procedures as was prevailing on the date of vacancy should ordinarily be followed."

47. From the aforesaid judgments of T. Nadu Computer SC B.Ed. G.T. Welf. Society, Mithilesh Kumar, Bhupinderpal Singh, Ashok Kumar Sharma and Bishnu Biswas (supra) what can be summarized is that once the selection/recruitment process starts no change can be made in the eligibility conditions after the last date fixed either in terms of the advertisement or in absence thereto, the last date fixed for receipt of applications. The rules which are prevailing at the time of issue of advertisement/guidelines would be considered and amendment in the rules subsequently would not result in change in the eligibility conditions or change in the advertisement.

48. Thus, when the action of the respondents in issuing the revised Government order datd 21.05.2018 is seen in the context of the aforesaid principle of law, it clearly comes out that the said Government order dated 21.05.2018 could not have been issued lowering the qualifying marks, as was also sought to be done by the Government in the case of T. Nadu Computer SC B.Ed. G.T. Welf. Society (supra) and thus it is apparent that the respondents erred in proceeding to issue the aforesaid Government order reducing the eligibility marks for the respective category and rule of the game could not have been changed after last date fixed for receipt of applications. No doubt the respondents have also fixed the date of 21.05.2018 for correction of application but the said correction in applications could only be done by those candidates who had applied in pursuance to the advertisement and the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 and thus for all practical purposes, the effective last date would be 17.05.2018 and the Government order dated 21.05.2018 reducing the eligibility marks having been issued subsequent thereto would be invalid.

49. No doubt the issue of change of rule of game has been referred to the larger Bench as is evident from the judgment in the case of Tej Prakash Pathak (supra) which referral is still pending but so long as it is not decided otherwise, this Court is bound by the legal authorities operating in the field and are presently law of the land.

50. Even otherwise, a perusal of the judgment of Tej Prakash Pathak (supra) would indicate that the Supreme Court was considering the matter that it is a salutary principle not to permit the State or its instrumentalities to tinker with the "rules of game" insofar as the prescription of eligibility criteria is concerned but whether such a principle should be applied in the context of the "rules of the game" stipulating the procedure for selection more particularly when the change sought is to impose a more rigorous scrutiny for selection has been referred for an authoritative pronouncement of a larger bench meaning thereby that where the change is to be imposed is of more rigorous scrutiny for selection, in the view of the Apex Court, requires the authoritative pronouncement by a larger bench. In the present case,the issue involved is not that the State respondents while issuing the Government order dated 21.05.2018 have imposed a more rigorous scrutiny for selection rather a liberalized or reduced marks were sought to be introduced and thus the principles of law as enunciated by the Apex Court, and as referred to above, are being followed by this Court also.

51. Being armed with the aforesaid principles of law as crystallized by the Apex Court in a catena of judgments, the Court now proceeds with the other aspects of the matter.

52. Upon a challenge being raised to the Government order dated 21.05.2018 lowering the eligibility marks, once the last date had already lapsed, this Court through a detailed interim order dated 24.07.2018, after considering the Apex Court judgment in the case of K. Manjushree and Gopal Krushna Rath (supra) restrained the respondents from implementing the guidelines issued under the Government order dated 21.05.2018. The said interim order was not interfered with by the Division Bench in the special appeal filed by certain candidates against the said interim order. In the meanwhile, through the Government order dated 08.08.2018, the respondents resolved to comply with the interim order and granted permission to prepare and declare result as per the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 and in pursuance thereof the result was also declared on 13.08.2018 and even the process of issue of appointment letter to the selected candidates started w.e.f 05.09.2018. Considering the subsequent developments, the Government order dated 20.02.2019 was passed withdrawing the Government order dated 21.05.2018.

53. When the reasons contained in the Government order dated 20.02.2019 for withdrawing the Government order dated 21.05.2018 are tested on the touch stone of the aforesaid principles of law, as crystallized by the Apex Court, what the Court finds is that the respondents could not have validly issued the Government order dated 21.05.2018 particularly when the last date fixed for receipt of applications had lapsed on 17.05.2018 and thus the issue of the Government order dated 21.05.2018 revising and lowering the eligibility marks for the candidates was invalid. Once this Court in the case of Diwakar Singh (supra) restrained the respondents from implementing the guidelines issued under the Government order dated 21.05.2018 and the selection process was also completed taking into consideration the eligibility marks as prescribed in the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 and the process of issue of appointment letters to the selected candidates also started w.e.f 05.09.2018, consequently it cannot be said that there was any error or infirmity or illegality or arbitrariness or malafides in the Government proceeding to issue the impugned Government order dated 20.02.2019 withdrawing the Government order dated 21.05.2018. Seen in this context, the reasons indicated by the Government in the order dated 20.02.2019 while withdrawing the Government order dated 21.05.2018 cannot be said to be legally unsustainable in the eyes of law, as has been argued by the learned counsels for the petitioners. Even otherwise the arguments raised on behalf of the petitioners are loaded with pregnant silence over this aspect of the matter that all the candidates including the petitioners had applied by the last date fixed i.e 17.05.2018 knowing fully well the eligibility marks fixed in the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 i.e 45 percent and 40 percent for the respective categories. The said marks were reduced subsequent to the last date fixed i.e 17.05.2018 to 33 percent and 30 percent respectively. Thus, no prejudice was caused to the petitioners and other candidates who had applied fully well knowing the marks as any such reduction subsequent to the last date fixed would obviously not govern the selection process which had already commenced. Thus, in this view of the matter also, it cannot be said that any prejudice was caused to the petitioners and other candidates with the withdrawal of the Government order dated 21.05.2018 reducing the lowered revised marks.

54. The grounds taken by the petitioners that no opportunity of hearing was afforded to them will not and cannot depart from the fact that once the selection process had commenced with the issue of the advertisement dated 08.05.2018 in terms of the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 and the last date fixed for receipt of applications had already come to an end on 17.05.2018 then merely because some Government order was issued revising and lowering the eligibility marks and the said Government order was subsequently withdrawn through the Government order dated 20.02.2019 then whether this Court while exercising powers under Article 226 of Constitution of India is bound to declare the Government order dated 20.02.2019 being in breach of principle of natural justice as void simply on the ground that no opportunity of hearing was afforded to the petitioners, is an issue which is also no longer res integra more particularly when the facts of the instant case do not justify exercise of discretion by this Court to interfere and because of the fact that no prejudice has been shown. In this regard, suffice would be to place reliance on the Apex Court judgment in the case of M.C.Mehta (supra) wherein the Apex Court has held as under:-

"12. On the above submissions, the following points arise for consideration:

(1) Whether this Court, in exercise of powers under Article 32 (or the High courts, generally under Article 226) is bound to declare an order of government passed in breach of principles of natural justice as void or whether the court can refuse to grant relief on the ground that the facts of the case do not justify exercise of discretion to interfere or because de facto prejudice has not been shown?

(2) Whether the court is not bound under Article 32 (or High Courts under Article 226) to quash an order of government on ground of breach of natural justice if such an action will result in the restoration of an earlier order of government which was also passed in breach of natural justice or which was otherwise illegal?"

15. It is true that, whenever there is a clear violation of principles of natural justice, the Courts can be approached for a declaration that the order is void or for setting aside the same. Here the parties have approached this Court because the orders of the department were consequential to orders of this Court. Question however is whether the Court in exercise of its discretion under Article 32 or Article 226 can refuse to exercise discretion on facts or on the ground that no de facto prejudice is established. On the facts of this case, can this Court not take into consideration the fact that any such declaration regarding the 10.3.1999 order will restore an earlier order dated 30.7.1997 in favour of Bharat Petroleum Corporation which has also been passed without notice to HPCL and that if the order dated 10.3.1999 is set aside as being in breach of natural justice, Bharat Petroleum will be getting two plots rather than one for which it has no right after the passing of the latter order of this Court dated 7.4.98?

16. Courts are not infrequently faced with a dilemma between breach of the rules of natural justice and the Court's discretion to refuse relief even though rules of natural justice have been breached, on the ground that no real prejudice is caused to the affected party.

17. We shall initially refer to two cases where discretion was exercised not to grant relief and the first one was a case where relief was refused even though there was breach of natural justice. The first one is Gadde Venkteswara Rao v. Government of Andhra Pradesh and Ors. MANU/SC/0020/1965 : [1966]2SCR172 . There the Panchayat Samithi, in exercise of its statutory powers passed a resolution on 25.8.1960 to locate a primary health center at Dharmajigudem. Later, it passed another resolution on 29.5.1961 to locate it at Lingapalem. On a representation by villagers of Dharmajigudem, government passed orders on 7.3.1962 setting aside the second resolution dated 29.5,1961 and thereby restoring the earlier resolution dated 25.8.1960. The result was that the health center would continue at Dharmajigudem. Before passing the orders dated 7.3.62, no notice was given to the Panchayat Samithi. This Court traced the said order of the government dated 7.3.1962 to Section 62 of the Act and if that were so, notice to the Samithi under Section 62(1) was mandatory. Later, upon a review petition being filed, government passed another order on 18.4.1963 cancelling its order dated 7.3.62 and accepting the shifting of the primary center to Lingapalem. This was passed without notice to the villagers of Dharmajigudem. This order of the government was challenged unsuccessfully by the villagers of Dharmajigudem in the High Court. On appeal by the said villagers to this Court, it was held that the latter order of the government dated 18.4.1963 suffered from two defects, it was issued by Government without prior show cause notice to the villagers of Dharmajigudem and government had no power of review in respect of government orders passed under Section 62(1). But that there were other facts which disentitled the quashing of the order dated 18.4.63 even though it was passed in breach of principles of natural justice. This Court noticed that the setting aside of the latter order dated. 18.4.63 would restore the earlier order of Government dated 7.3.62 which was also passed without notice to the affected party, namely, the Panchayat Samithi. It would also result in the setting aside of a valid resolution dated 29.5.61 passed by the Panchayat Samithi. This Court refused relief and agreed that the High Court was right in not interfering under Article 226 even if there was violation of natural justice. Subba Rao, J (as he then was) observed (p. 189) as follows:

Both the orders of the government, namely, the order dated March 7, 1962 and that dated April 18, 1963, were not legally passed : the former, because it was made without giving notice to the Panchayat Samithi and the latter, because the Government had no power under Section 72 of the Act to review an Order made under Section 62 of the Act and also because it did not give notice to representatives of Dharmajigudem village.

His Lordship concluded as follows:

In those circumstances, was it a case for the High Court to interfere in its discretion and quash the order of the government dated April 18, 1963? If the High Court had quashed the said order, it would have restored an illegal order it would have given the Health center to a village contrary to the valid resolutions passed by the Panchayat Samithi. The High Court, therefore, in our view, rightly refused to exercise its extraordinary discretionary power in the circumstances of the case.

18. The above case is clear authority for the proposition that it is not always necessary for the Court to strike down an order merely because the order has been passed against the petitioner in breach of the natural justice. The Court can under Article 32 or Article 226 refuse to exercise its discretion of striking down the order if such striking down will result in restoration of another order passed earlier in favour of the petitioner and against the opposite party, in violation of principles of natural justice or is otherwise not in accordance with law"

55. Even otherwise, it is settled proposition of law that if on admitted or indisputable factual position, only one conclusion is possible the Court need not issue a writ merely because there is violation of principle of natural justice (See M.C.Mehta (supra). In this regard, the Court may also consider the "Useless formality theory" as enunciated by the Apex Court wherein considering M.C. Mehta (supra) the Apex Court in the judgment of Canara Bank (supra) has held as under:-

"17. What is known as 'useless formality theory' has received consideration of this Court in M.C. Mehta v. Union of India MANU/SC/0982/1999 : [1999]3SCR1173. It was observed as under:

"Before we go into the final aspect of this contention, we would like to state that case relating to breach of natural justice do also occur where all facts are not admitted or are not all beyond dispute. In the context of those cases there is a considerable case-law and literature as to whether relief can be refused even if the court thinks that the case of the applicant is not one of 'real substance' or that there is no substantial possibility of his success or that the result will not be different, even if natural justice is followed (See Malloch v. Aberdeen Corporation: (1971) 2 All ER 1278, HL) (per Lord Reid and Lord Wilberforce), Glynn v. Keele University: (1971) 2 All ER 89; Cinnamons v. British Airports Authority: (1980) 2 All ER 368, CA) and other cases where such a view has been held. The latest addition to this view is R v. Ealing Magistrates' Court, ex p. Fannaran (1996 (8) Admn. LR 351, 358) (See de Smith, Suppl. P.89 (1998) where Straughton, L.J. held that there must be 'demonstrable beyond doubt' that the result would have been different. Lord Woolf in Lloyd v. McMohan (1987 (1) All ER 1118, CA) has also not disfavoured refusal of discretion in certain cases of breach of natural justice. The New Zealand Court in McCarthy v. Grant (1959 NZLR 1014) however goes halfway when it says that (as in the case of bias), it is sufficient for the applicant to show that there is 'real likelihood-not certainty- of prejudice'. On the other hand, Garner Administrative Law (8th Edn. 1996. pp.271-72) says that slight proof that the result would have been different is sufficient. On the other side of the argument, we have apart from Ridge v. Baldwin, Megarry, J. in John v. Rees (1969 (2) All ER 274) stating that there are always 'open and shut cases' and no absolute rule of proof of prejudice can be laid down. Merits are not for the court but for the authority to consider. Ackner, J has said that the 'useless formality theory' is a dangerous one and, however inconvenient, natural justice must be followed. His Lordship observed that 'convenience and justice are often not on speaking terms'. More recently, Lord Bingham has deprecated the 'useless formality theory' in R. v. Chief Constable of the Thames Valley Police Forces, ex p. Cotton (1990 IRLR 344) by giving six reasons (see also his article 'Should Public Law Remedies be Discretionary?" 1991 PL. p.64). A detailed and emphatic criticism of the 'useless formality theory' has been made much earlier in 'Natural Justice, Substance or Shadow' by Prof. D.H. Clark of Canada (see 1975 PL.pp.27-63) contending that Malloch (supra) and Glynn (supra) were wrongly decided. Fouke's (Administrative Law, 8th Edn. 1996, p.323), Craig (Administrative Law, 3rd Edn. P.596) and others say that the court cannot prejudge what is to be decided by the decision-making authority. De Smith (5th Edn. 1994, paras 10.031 to 10.036) says courts have not yet committed themselves to any one view though discretion is always with the court. Wade (Administrative Law, 5th Edn. 1994, pp.526-530) says that while futile writs may not be issued, a distinction has to be made according to the nature of the decision. Thus, in relation to cases other than those relating to admitted or indisputable facts, there is a considerable divergence of opinion whether the applicant can be compelled to prove that the outcome will be in his favour or he has to prove a case of substance or if he can prove a 'real likelihood' of success or if he is entitled to relief even if there is some remote chance of success. We may, however, point out that even in cases where the facts are not all admitted or beyond dispute, there is a considerable unanimity that the courts can, in exercise of their 'discretion', refuse certiorari, prohibition, mandamus or injunction even though natural justice is not followed. We may also state that there is yet another line of cases as in State Bank of Patiala v. S.K. Sharma MANU/SC/0438/1996 : (1996)IILLJ296SC, Rajendra Singh v. State of M.P. MANU/SC/0690/1996 : AIR1996SC2736 that even in relation to statutory provisions requiring notice, a distinction is to be made between cases where the provision is intended for individual benefit and where a provision is intended to protect public interest. In the former case, it can be waived while in the case of the latter, it cannot be waived.

We do not propose to express any opinion on the correctness or otherwise of the 'useless formality theory' and leave the matter for decision in an appropriate case, inasmuch as the case before us, 'admitted and indisputable' facts show that grant of a writ will be in vain as pointed by Chinnappa Reddy, J."

18. As was observed by this Court we need not to go into 'useless formality theory' in detail; in view of the fact that no prejudice has been shown. As is rightly pointed out by learned counsel for the appellant unless failure of justice is occasioned or that it would not be in public interest to do so in particular case, this Court may refuse to grant relief to the concerned employee, (see Gadde. Venkateswara Rao v. Govt. of A.P. and Ors. MANU/SC/0020/1965 : [1966]2SCR172. It is to be noted that legal formulations cannot be divorced from the fact situation of the case. Personal hearing was granted by the Appellate Authority, though not statutorily prescribed. In a given case post-decisional hearing can obliterate the procedural deficiency of a pre-decisional hearing. (See Charan Lal Sahu v. Union of India etc. MANU/SC/0285/1990 : AIR1990SC1480

56. The first argument raised on behalf of the petitioners is that as the interim order dated 24.07.2018 in the case of Diwakar Singh (supra) was passed considering the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of K. Manjushree (supra) which has been held to be per incuriam in the subsequent judgment of Apex Court in the case of Tej Prakash Pathak (supra) as such, any action which has been taken by the respondents on the basis of the said Government order including the issue of the Government order dated 20.02.2019 would be vitiated in the eyes of law.

57. The said argument, though attractive on the face of it merits to be rejected out rightly inasmuch as firstly the interim order dated 24.07.2018 was not based only on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of K.Manjushree (supra) rather was also passed taking into consideration the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Gopal Krushna Rath (supra) and it is not the case of the petitioners that even Gopal Krushna Rath (supra) has been declared to be per incuriam. Even otherwise the facts of the case, as have been culled out above, lead to the irresistible conclusion that the subsequent Government order dated 21.05.2018 could not have been validly issued by the respondents and thus once the respondents, considering the interim order of this Court dated 24.07.2018, proceeded with the selection process, declared the result and even appointment orders were issued to the selected candidates, as such there cannot be said to be any infirmity or illegality in the order dated 20.02.2019 by which the earlier Government order dated 21.05.2018 was withdrawn or any illegality in the process which was adopted by the respondents subsequent to the interim order dated 24.07.2018.

58. The other argument on behalf of the petitioners that in terms of Rule 2 (x) the Government possessed the power to determine the minimum marks from time to time and thus even though the selection process had commenced with the issue of the Advertisement dated 08.05.2018 in terms of the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 and despite the last date for receipt of applications having expired on 17.05.2018, the Government order dated 21.05.2018 determining the eligibility marks and lowering them was validly issued in terms of Rule 2 (x) of the Rules 1981, is an argument which is patently fallacious and also merits to be rejected out rightly, the reason being that even though the Government was possessed of such power to determine from time to time the minimum marks yet there has to be cessation to the said powers when the selection process had commenced with the issue of the Advertisement dated 08.05.2018 in terms of the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 whereby the minimum marks had already been determined and the last date fixed for receipt of applications had already lapsed. What the petitioners are trying to argue is that the Government has unfettered power to determine the minimum marks from time to time, which if interpreted in the manner the petitioners have sought to argue, would lead to complete chaos as there would be no final determination of the marks at any time whatsoever. Thus, the said argument is also rejected.

59. Another argument on behalf of the petitioners is that the actual process of recruitment would only start after the result of qualifying examination i.e Recruitment, 2018 is declared and once no recruitment was involved, as such it could not be said that once the "Game" had begun, the rules of the game could not be changed. Again the Court is constrained to hold that the said argument is fallacious inasmuch as in terms of the Twentieth Amendment to the Rules, 1981 the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination has been brought in for the first time with Rule 2 (w), Rule 2 (x) and Rule 2 (y) being introduced and making passing of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination an academic qualification for being appointed on the post of Assistant Master and Assistant Mistress of Junior Basic Schools. Thus, the "Game" which had in fact begun with the issue of the Advertisement dated 08.05.2018 in terms of the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 was with respect to acquisition of the eligibility qualification so as to be declared fit for appointment as Assistant Master and Assistant Mistress of Junior Basic School. Thus, the said argument is also rejected.

60. As regards, the judgment of Shree Chamundi Mopeds Ltd (supra) that as this Court had only passed an interim order dated 24.07.2018 and the validity of the Government order dated 21.05.2018 was still to be tested, suffice to state that taking into consideration the factual position which has painstakingly been considered by this Court above, there was no justification for the issue of the Government order dated 21.05.2018 taking into consideration the settled proposition of law in this regard and as such, taking into consideration the "Useless formality theory", this Court does not find any infirmity in the Government order dated 20.02.2019 being issued to withdraw the Government order dated 21.05.2018..

61. The arguments on behalf of the petitioners that the reduced marks have resulted in large number of candidates having qualified and that the selection would not be compromised in terms of Rule 14 (1) (c) (3) (a) of the Twentieth Amendment in Rule, 1981 as in any view of the matter the candidate in the list prepared under Sub Rule (2) in accordance with Clause (a) of Sub Rule (1) of Rule 14 has to be arranged in accordance with the quality points and weightage, again the Court holds that the said argument is patently misconceived for the said large number of candidates could be said to have qualified only by following the Government order dated 21.05.2018 which was issued subsequent to the last date fixed for receipt of applications and taking into consideration the settled proposition of law in this regard, no such orders could have been issued changing the rules of the game after the game had begun considering the last date fixed for receipt of applications i.e 17.05.2018, thus even the said argument is patent fallacious and is rejected.

62. As regards, the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Yogesh Yadav

(supra) that bench mark could be fixed even after examination has been held, suffice to state that in the case of Yogesh Yadav (supra) there was no stipulation with regard to fixation of bench mark in the advertisement which was fixed subsequently.

63. In the present case, as already indicated above, the eligibility marks had been prescribed in the Government order dated 09.01.2018 in pursuance to which the Advertisement dated 08.05.2018 had been issued and thus there could not be any change in the eligibility marks subsequent to "Game" having begun.

64. Another ground taken by the petitioners is that once this Court was seized of matter in the case of Diwakar Singh (supra) and other connected matters pertaining to the validity of order dated 21.05.2018 the same could not have been withdrawn and in this regard, reliance has been placed on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of R. Sathyamoorthy and Hemant Vimalnath Narichania and K.S.Bhoopathy (supra). Suffice to state that once the Government order dated 21.05.2018 was issued lowering the marks which was against the settled principle of law as crystallized by the Apex Court subsequent to the Advertisement dated 08.05.2018 in terms of the guidelines dated 09.01.2018 fixing the eligibility marks for the said selection and acquisition of eligibility condition, there could not be any justification for the respondents to have issued the aforesaid Government order dated 21.05.2018. Also, considering the subsequent developments that transpired with the order dated 21.05.2018 being stayed by this Court and the respondents having proceeded with the selection on the basis of the eligibility marks as fixed in the Government order dated 09.01.2018 and having declared the result and having already commenced the process of issue of appointment orders to those persons who have acquired the eligibility of Recruitment, 2018, as such the respondents, taking into consideration the said subsequent developments, were well within their power of withdrawing the order dated 21.05.2018 through the Government order dated 20.02.2019. As such, the judgments of in the case of R. Sathyamoorthy and Hemant Vimalnath Narichania and K.S.Bhoopathy (supra) are thus distinguishable and would not be applicable in the facts of the present case.

65. As regards, the argument of legitimate expectation of the candidates consequent to lowering of the eligibility marks, the said argument though again attractive on the face of it yet merits to be rejected and is rejected, the reason being that whenever the question of legitimate expectation arises, it is to be determined not according to the claimant's perception but in larger public interest wherein other more important considerations may outweigh what would otherwise have been the legitimate expectation of the claimant (See:- Food Corporation of India Vs. Kamdhenu Cattle Field Industry (1993) 1 SCC 71). Likewise, however, earnest and sincere a wish, a desire or a hope may be and however confidently one may look to them to be fulfilled, they by themselves cannot amount to an assertable expectation and a mere disappointment does not attract legal consequences. The legitimacy of an expectation can be inferred only if it is founded on the sanction of law or custom or an established procedure followed in regular and natural sequence and that such expectation should be justifiably legitimate and protectable (See:- Union of India Vs.

Hindustan Development Corporation (1993) 3 SCC 499).

66. Thus, it is apparent that for a case to be made out on the principle of legitimate expectation, the legitimacy of expectation can be inferred only if it is founded on the sanction of law or custom or an established procedure. In the present case, this Court has held that issue of the Government order dated 21.05.2018 lowering the eligibility marks would run against the settled proposition of law as laid down by the Apex Court and thus there cannot be said to be any sanction of law to the issue of the aforesaid Government order dated 21.05.2018 as also there is no custom by the Government to reduce the eligibility marks after the game had begun neither there is any established procedure followed in regular and natural sequence of the Government lowering the marks after the game had begun. Accordingly, when the arguments of legitimate expectation are tested on the touch stone of the aforesaid principle of law, it clearly comes out that the said argument is patently misconceived and merits to be rejected and is accordingly rejected.

67. A feeble argument raised on behalf of the petitioners is that there are approximately 27713 posts still lying vacant and it would be equitable for this Court to direct the respondents to fill in the remaining vacancies with the relaxed qualifying marks. However, it is settled proposition of law that no mandamus can be issued by the Courts of law to the Government to fill in unfilled vacancies and as such, even the said argument is rejected.

68. Another argument is that in the case of Rajya Sabha Secretariat and Barot Vijaykumar Balakrishna (supra) amended modified rules can be considered after the selection process has commenced. In the case of Barot Vijaykumar Balakrishna (supra) the cut off marks for viva voice were not specified in the advertisement and in this view of the matter the Apex Court held that there were only two courses open i.e to either carry on with the selection and to complete it without fixing any cut off marks for the viva voice which would be clearly wrong and the other course was to fix the cut off marks for the viva voice and to notify the candidates, which course was followed by the Commission and which did not cause prejudice to any of the candidates. However, in the instant case, the eligibility marks were already fixed at the time when the Recruitment, 2018 commenced and, as such, the said case is distinguishable and would not be applicable in the facts of the present case.

69. As regards the judgment of Rajya Sabha Secretariat (supra), the same was a case in which there was splitting of marks in the interview which had not been communicated to the candidates in advance. The Apex Court held that the Rajya Sabha Secretariat had advertised that the certificates were desirable and the candidates were also required to bring the certificate at the time of the personal interview and that the credit for the same was to be given only if the certificate was accompanied by a declaration by the Institute concerned that the Course done by the candidate was recognized by AICTE or DOEACC. The Apex Court held that once the credit was to be given to those certificates as a part of interview, as such the candidates could not say that splitting of marks in the interview was not communicated to them in advance. Again, the said judgment is distinguishable as the guidelines dated

70. As regards the argument on behalf of the petitioners that no valid reasons are forthcoming in the order dated 20.02.2019 to make redundant the Government Order dated 21.05.2018, suffice to state that the order dated 20.02.2019 clearly spells out the reasons as to why the Government Order dated 21.05.2018 is being withdrawn. The Court finds the said reasons to be satisfactory and even otherwise once this Court has itself gone in painstaking details of the facts of the case and even if for the sake of argument it could be said that one or the other reason indicated in the impugned order dated 20.02.2019 is not satisfactory or valid even then considering the "Useless Formality Theory' enunciated by the Apex Court in the case of M.C. Mehtra (supra) as well as Canara Bank (supra), there is no occasion for this Court to interfere with the impugned order dated 20.02.2019 taking into consideration the detailed reasons already set forth above.

71. Another argument on behalf of the petitioners that in terms of 22nd amendment in the Rules, 1981, the academic qualification as introduced in Rule 8 by 20th amendment of passing the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination was done away with and considering the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Anand Kumar Yadav (supra) for adjustment of Shiksha Mitras by giving them suitable age relaxation and weight-age, the Government order dated 21.05.2018 reducing the eligibility marks was validly issued. Suffice to state that it is settled proposition of law that where a selection process starts on the basis of existing rules and an advertisement has been issued on the basis thereof, it is those rules which will govern the selection notwithstanding the amendment in the rules (See-Mohd. Raisul Islam and others Vs. Gokul Mohan Hazarika and others (2010) 7 Supreme Court Cases 560). Hence, the said argument is also rejected.

72. Accordingly, taking into consideration the aforesaid discussion, no case for interference is made out. All the writ petitions are dismissed.

Present petition challenges validity of order dated 24.09.2018, passed by U.P. State Public Services Tribunal.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania,J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel.

2. The present writ petition has been filed challenging the validity of the judgment and order dated 24.09.2018 passed by opposite party no.2/U.P. State Public Services Tribunal (in short "Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.1696 of 2016 filed by the Claimant-opposite party no.1, whereby the opposite party no.2 set aside the punishment order dated 05.12.2014 passed by the Managing Director of the petitioner corporation and the appellate order dated 20.06.2016, whereby the appeal of the opposite party no.1 was rejected by the appellate/competent authority.

3. Vide impugned order dated 24.09.2018, the opposite party no.2 has issued direction for payment of entire salary, allowances and consequential benefits in accordance with law from the date of dismissal i.e. 19.09.2000 to 07.01.2010, the date passing of the order 07.01.2010 in Writ Petition No.1582 of 2003, with a further direction to pay back the realized amount to the opposite party no.1 within, 3 months.

4. Vide order dated 05.12.2014 the opposite party no.1 was denied wages w.e.f. 19.09.2000 to 07.01.2010 on the principle of 'No Work, No Pay' and also issued a direction for recovery of Rs.59,800.00 i.e. half of the amount of Rs.1,19,600/- along with NSC interest as was payable on 01.04.1999.

5. Facts of the case, in brief, are that the opposite party no.1 was posted as Assistant Manager at Allahabad in petitioner corporation and for committing financial irregularities, he was served with charge sheet dated 25.08.1999. After serving of the charge sheet, the opposite party no.1 was suspended vide order dated 24.12.1999 and Sri D. Lal, Chief Finance & Accounts Officer was appointed as enquiry officer to conduct the enquiry against the opposite party no.1 with regard to charges, as mentioned in detail in the charge sheet dated 25.08.1999.

6. The enquiry officer conducted the enquiry and submitted its enquiry report on 11.05.2000. The enquiry officer held that the opposite party no.1 guilty of Charge Nos.1, 2, 3, 4, 5 & 6 of the charge sheet dated 25.08.1999 and charge nos. 7 and 8 were found not proved.

7. On 26.07.2000, the disciplinary authority issued show cause notice to the opposite party no.1 and in response to the same the opposite party no.1 submitted his written representation dated 24.08.2000.

8. The Managing Director of the petitioner corporation after considering the reply of the opposite party no.1 to the show cause notice, enquiry report as well as other material, passed the punishment order dated 19.09.2000.

9. Vide punishment order dated 19.09.2000 the opposite party no.1 was dismissed from the service of petitioner corporation with further punishment of recovery of Rs. 2,54,100.00/- along with interest @ NSC interest.

10. Against the punishment order dated 19.09.2000, the opposite party no.1 filed an Appeal, which was dismissed by the Appellate Authority on 02.01.2003. The order dated 02.01.2003 was communicated to the petitioner vide letter dated 14.01.2003.

11. Feeling aggrieved by the punishment order dated 19.09.2000 and the appellate order dated 02.01.2003, as communicated vide letter dated 14.01.2003, the opposite party no.1 filed the Writ Petition No.1582 (S/S) of 2003. The main reliefs claimed in Writ Petition No.1582 of 2003 by the opposite party no.1 are being quoted hereinunder:-

"Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned judgment and order dated 24.09.2018 passed by O.P. No.2 in Claim Petition No. 1696 of 2016 as contained in Annexure No.1 to this writ petition.

Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus restraining the respondents from implementing , executing and operating the impugned, executing and operating the impugned judgment and order dated 24.09.2018 passed by O.P. No.2 in Claim Petition No.1696 of 2016 as contained in Annexure No.1 to this writ petition. "

12. After exchange of pleadings, the Writ Petition No.1582 of 2003 filed by the Opposite Party No.1 was heard and allowed vide judgment and order dated 07.01.2010. Dismissal order dated 19.09.2000 and the Appellate order dated 02.01.2003 passed against the opposite party no.1 by the Managing Director and the Appellate Authority respectively, were quashed. This Court in judgment dated 07.01.2010 also provided that opposite party No.1 will be entitled for all consequential benefits. Further, this Court provided that it will be open to the respondents to proceed with enquiry against the petitioner in accordance with law.

13. Feeling aggrieved by the aforesaid judgment and order dated 07.1.2010, petitioner corporation filed the Special Appeal No.86 of 2010. The said Special Appeal was heard and partly allowed vide judgment and order dated 05.04.2010. The corporation was directed to reinstate the Opposite Party No.1 in services forthwith and pay salary from the date of passing of the judgment and order dated 07.01.2010 in Writ Petition No.1582 of 2003. The judgment dated 05.04.2010 passed in Special Appeal No.86 of 2010 also provides that arrears of salary from the date of passing of the order of dismissal till reinstatement of the respondent will be paid subject to the final outcome of the enquiry.

14. In compliance of the order dated 05.04.2010 passed in Special Appeal

No.86 of 2010 as mentioned hereinabove, the opposite party no.1 was reinstated vide order dated 27.07.2010 and he joined the services and by the same order, petitioner corporation appointed Sri Rakesh Kumar Verma, Chief Finance Accounts Officer as enquiry officer for inquiring the charges, as mentioned in the charge sheet dated 25.08.1999, in accordance with the rules provided by the Rules of the Corporation regarding disciplinary enquiry.

15. The enquiry officer submitted its report after holding the enquiry and found charges nos.1, 2 & 4 of the charge sheet dated 25.08.1999 as proved and charges nos. 3,5,6,7 and 8 were held to be not proved.

16. Vide letter dated 15.11.2011, opposite party no.1 was required to submit his written reply regarding the findings of the enquiry report up to 18.11.2011 and appear personally on 22.11.2011 for explaining and defending the allegations of the proved charges of the enquiry report. The opposite party no.1 sought 15 days time for filing his reply in compliance of the letter dated 15.11.2011 vide his letter dated 18.11.2011 and 15 days time was granted by the Managing Director of the petitioner corporation vide letter dated 24.11.2011. The opposite party no.1 failed to submit any reply to the letter dated 15.11.2011 up to 24.11.2011. However, opposite party no.1 submitted a reply enquiry report vide letter dated 18.12.2011.

17. Further vide letter dated 18.01.2012, the Managing Director required the opposite party no.1 to appear in person on 24.01.2012 for personal hearing. As the Managing Director was too much busy in other matter, the opposite party no.1 was required vide written letter to appear before him for hearing on 31.01.2012. The opposite party no.1 appeared before Managing Director on 31.01.2012 who heard the opposite party no.1.

18. Again on 28.08.2014, the Managing Director issued Show Cause Notice to the opposite party no.1. The Opposite party no1 did not appear before the Managing Director in pursuance of the Show Cause Notice dated 28.08.2014 rather he submitted a detailed written reply dated 01.10.2014.

19. After considering the written reply of the opposite party no.1 the Managing Directer, on 05.12.2014 passed the punishment order and denied the claim of the opposite party no.1 for pay w.e.f. 19.09.2000 to 07.01.2010 on the basis of 'No Work, No Pay' and imposed liability for recovery of Rs. 59,800/- i.e. half of the amount of Rs. 1,19,600/- along with NSC interest on 01.04.1999 to be recovered opposite party no.1.

20. Feeling aggrieved by the punishment order dated 05.12.2014, whereby the opposite party no.1 was denied his claim for pay w.e.f. 19.09.2000 to 07.01.2010 on the basis of principle of 'No Work, No Pay' and directed for recovery of Rs.59,800/- i.e. half of the amount of Rs.1,19,600/- along with NSC interest as on 01.04.1999 from him, the opposite party no.1 preferred appeal before the Appellate Authority on 02.03.2015. The Appellate Authority, on 20.06.2016 rejected the appeal of Opposite party no.1.

21. Feeling aggrieved by the punishment order dated 05.12.2014 and the Appellate Order dated 20.06.2016 passed by the Appellate Authority, the Opposite party no.1 filed the Claim Petition before the opposite party no.2.

22. The petitioner-corporation filed its written statement controverting the contents of the Claim Petition of opposite party no.1 on 07.02.2017.

23. The opposite party no.1 before the Tribunal filed the rejoinder affidavit reiterating the earlier plea taken by him in the claim petition.

24. After exchange of pleadings, the Tribunal heard the matter and allowed the Claim Petition vide impugned judgment and order dated 24.09.2018.

25. Challenging the judgment and order dated 24.09.2018 passed by Tribunal, the present writ petition has been filed.

26. Assailing the impugned order dated 24.09.2018 the learned counsel for the petitioner Sri P.K. Sinha submitted that the Tribunal has considered the case of opposite party no.1 in arbitrary and mechanical manner and interfered in the order before it without considering the facts that the minor punishment as provided under Rule 33 was imposed on the opposite party no.1, as such the regular enquiry was not required and accordingly the principle settled by this Court as well as by the Hon'ble Apex Court with regard to holding the regular enquiry by fixing date, time and place for proving the charges as well as documents relied upon in the enqiury proceeding would not apply and the Tribunal ignore this aspect of the case and after applying principle of holding regular enqiury interfered in the matter in issue.

27. Sri P.K.Sinha, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the charge sheet was given for imposing major punishment, but ultimately the minor punishment provided under Rule 33 of the Rules was given and as such the principles which have considered by the Tribunal, ought not to have been considered by the Tribunal in the instant case.

28. Sri P.K.Sinha, learned counsel for the petitioner while assailing the impugned judgment dated 24.09.2018 passed by the Tribunal mainly pressed the ground related to the enquiry procedure.

29. In support of his arguments Sri P.K. Sinha, learned counsel for the petitioner, placed the reliance on the judgment passed in the case of D.H.B.V.N.L. Vidyut Nagar, Hisar Vs. Yashvir Singh Gulia reported in (2013) 11 SCC 173. Prayer is to allow the writ petition.

30. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party no.1, Sri Sanjay Srivastava, vehementaly argued that the charge sheet dated 25.08.1999 for awarding major punishment was issued to the opposite party no.1 and thereafter he was dismissed on 19.09.2000 and thereafter the appeal filed against the order dated 19.09.2000 was also dismissed vide order dated 14.01.2003 passed by the appellate authority and both the orders were challenged before this Court in the Writ Petition No.1582 of 2003, which was allowed on 07.01.2010 the grounds to the effect that the orders were passed in violation of principles of natural justice and were non-speaking and therefore in the judgment dated 05.04.2010 passed by Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal no.86 of 2010 the judgment passed by the Single Judge of this Court was interfered only with regard to payment of back wages.

31. Further submitted that from the admitted facts of the case it is crystal clear that the proceedings vide charge sheet dated 25.08.1999 were initiated for awarding the major punishment and the major punishment can only be awarded as per the procedure prescribed for awarding major penalties under the Rule 35 of the Rules and as well as keeping in view the settled legal proposition on the issue of holding regular departmental enquiry and if the enquiry is conducted in violation of the same, it is liable to be interfered.

32. Further submitted that after holding regular enquiry, the competent authority for imposing the punishment can impose a minor punishment though the proceedings were initiated for awarding the major punishment but if the process has been initiated for holding the enquiry for awarding major punishment then it has to be followed as per the settled principles as well as the Rules 35 of the Rules applicable in the corporation and without following the procedure prescribed for holding the regular enquiry, if minor punishment is awarded then in that circumstances it is liable to be interfered, on the ground of not holding proper enquiry as per Rules.

33. It is stated that keeping in view the facts of the case as well as settled proposition of law with regard to issues involved in the present case the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

34. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

35. The Claim Petition for challenging the order dated 05.12.2014 and appellate order dated 20.06.2016 was preferred on the grounds to the effect that the inquiry officer did not conduct the enquiry, as per the settled principles for holding regular enquiry and Rules applicable in the corporation for conducting the regular enquiry. In the inquiry proceedings no date, time and place was fixed by the enquiry officer for holding the regular enquiry nor any witness was examined for proving the charges. Imposing punishment of recovery of Rs.2,59,800/- is in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India as the District Manager was the competent authority with regard to disbursement of loan and the petitioner in fact was not the sanctioning authority of loan nor he was responsible in any manner as, he was entitled only for disbursement of loan. As per the judgment passed in Special Appeal No.86 of 2010 dated 05.04.2010, the period from the date of dismissal shall not be treated as break in service and shall be counted for the purpose of service benefits. Applying the principle of 'No Work, No Pay' in whimsical manner cannot be imposed upon employee. In the present case, the same is without following the proper procedure. Earlier dismissal order was quashed vide order judgment and order dated 19.09.2000 on account of illegal order. In the facts of the case, the principle of 'No Work, No Pay' will not be applicable.

36. It appears from para nos.12, 19, 21, and 22 that in the said paragraphs of the written Statement/Counter affidavit filed before the Tribunal, the petitioner Corporation has not specifically stated that the enquiry officer conducted the enquiry as per the Rules applicable in the corporation and during the enquiry, the date, time and place was fixed for recording oral evidence in relation to proving of charges as well as documents relied upon for proving the charges against the opposite party no.1.

37. Admittedly, after passing the order dated 05.04.2010 in the Special Appeal No.86 of 2010 on the same charges i.e. charge sheet dated 25.08.1999 the enquiry was conducted by the enquiry officer, as mentioned in para 15 of the writ petition and thereafter the enquiry officer submitted the enquiry report dated 18.10.2011. The show cause notice was issued, to which opposite party no.1 submitted his reply dated 18.12.2011 and after considering the reply of the petitioner the non-speaking order of punishment dated 05.12.2014 was passed. After the order of punishment dated 05.12.2010, opposite party no.1 file the appeal, which was also dismissed vide order dated 20.06.2016.

38. After exchange of pleadings, the Tribunal heard the matter and allowed the Claim Petition vide impugned judgment and order dated 24.09.2018. The relevant portion of the impugned judgment and order dated 24.09.2018 is quoted below for ready reference.

"इस तरह उपरोक्त विवेचना के आधार पर यह स्पष्ट है कि प्रकरण में जांच की कार्यवाही उत्तर प्रदेश सरकारी सेवक (अनुशासन एवं अपील) नियमावली, 1999 के नियम–7 के प्राविधानों के अनुसार नहीं हुई है। जांच अधिकारी द्वारा याची को सुनवाई हेतु समय, स्थान व तिथि नियत नहीं किया गया और न ही किसी साक्षी का बयान लिया गया। इसके अतिरिक्त याची को मौखिक सुनवाई का अवसर भी प्रदान नहीं किया गया और केवल मौके पर जाकर पूछताछ करके यह निष्कर्ष निकाला कि याची द्वारा अनियमतता की गई जबकि जांच अधिकारी ने स्वयं स्वीकार किया है कि गलत लाभार्थीयों से वसूली की जा रही है। यह भी स्पष्ट है कि गैर अनुसूचित जाति के जिन लोगों ने फर्जी जाति प्रमाण पत्र दाखिल किया था उनके विरूद्ध प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट दर्ज की गई तथा वसूली की कार्यवाही चल रही है। जांच आख्या में इस बात का कोई साक्ष्य नहीं है कि याची ने जानबूझकर गैर अनुसूचित जाति के लोगों को ऋण दिया क्योंकि लाभार्थियों द्वारा जो जाति प्रमाण पत्र दाखिल किया गया उनको सही मानते हुए योजना के अन्तर्गत उन्हें लाभ दिया गया तथा यह पता चलने पर कि वह प्रमाण पत्र फर्जी है उनके विरूद्ध एफ0आई0आर0 दर्ज कराई गयी तथा अपराधिक वाद दाखिल किया गया। जांच अधिकारी ने उपरोक्त तथ्यों पर विचार नहीं किया और यह निष्कर्ष निकाला कि श्री एस0पी0सिंह अकेले उत्तरदायी नहीं है बल्कि तत्कालीन जिला प्रबंधक श्री श्रीनिवास त्रिवेदी भी संयुक्त रूप से उत्तरदायी हैं। मेरे विचार से जांच अधिकारी द्वारा की गई जांच कार्यवाही उत्तर प्रदेश सराकरी सेवक (अनुशासन एवं अपील) नियमावली, 1999 के नियम–7 के प्राविधानों के अन्तर्गत नहीं है अतः जांच अधिकारी द्वारा की गई जांच माननीय उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा दिये गये निर्देशों के अनुसार न होने एवं नियम विरूद्ध होने के कारण पूर्णतः दूषित हो जाती है और दूषित जांच आख्या के आधार पर पारित दण्डादेश हमारे विचार से स्वतः निरस्त होने योग्य है।

इसके अतिरिक्त दण्डाधिकारी भी याची द्वारा दिये गये अभ्यावेदन पर कोई सम्यक विवेचन नहीं किया और केवल जांच अधिकारी द्वारा दी गई जांच आख्या को सही मानते हुए याची को रूपये 1,19,600–00 का 1/2 अर्थात रू0 59,800/– दुरूपयोग/व्यपहरण के लिए उत्तरदायी माना है। जबकि इस बात का कोई साक्ष्य नहीं है कि याची द्वारा कोई दुरूपयोग/व्यपहरण किया गया। याची ने यह स्पष्ट रूप से कहा है कि जिन लाभार्थियों ने गलत प्रमाण पत्र लगाकर लाभ पाया था उनसे वसूली कार्यवाही चल रही है। ऐसी दशा में मेरे विचार से प्रश्नगत आदेश तर्कसंगत नहीं हैं। याची को जिन तीन आरोपों के अन्तर्गत विभाग को क्षति पहुंचाने का दोषी पाया गया है वह जांच अधिकारी की रिपोर्ट से साबित नहीं होता है बल्कि जांच अधिकारी ने बिना किसी साक्ष्य के केवल संभावनाओं के आधार पर याची को विभाग को

क्षति पहुंचाने का दोषी पाया है और दण्डाधिकारी ने भी केवल जांच आख्या को सही मानते हुए याची के विरूद्ध आलोच्य आदेश पारित किया है जो मेरे विचार से तर्कसंगत व मुखरित व सकारण आदेश नहीं है। मुखरित व सकारण आदेश के संबंध में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा राजकुमार मेहरोत्रा बनाम बिहार सरकार व अन्य 2006 सुप्रीम कोर्ट केसेज, एल0एण्ड0एस0, 679 में पारित निर्णय में दी गई व्यवस्था उल्लेखनीय है जिसमें निम्नलिखित सिद्धान्त प्रतिपादित किया है:–

"Without going into other issues raised, we are of the view that the impugned order of the respondent authority imposing punishment on the appellant can not be sustained. Even if we are assume that Rule 55-A which pertains to minor punishment was applicable and not Rule 55 which relates to major punishments nevertheless Rule 55-A requires that the punishment prescribed therein can not be passed unless representation made pursuant to the show-cause notice, has been taken into consideration before the order is passed. There is nothing in the impugned order which shows that any of the several issues raised by the appellant in his answer to the show-cause notice where, in fact, considered. No reasons has been given by the respondent authority for holding that the charges were proved except for the ipse dixit of the disciplinary authority. The order, therefore, can not be sustained and must be and is set aside.""

प्रश्नगत आदेश में याची को डिसमिसल आदेश दिनांक 19.09.2000 से मा0 न्यायालय द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 07.01.2010 तक के वेतन एवं भत्ते आरोपों में दोषी पाये जाने पर "नो वर्क नो पे" के प्रतिपादित सिद्धांत के आधार पर देय न होने का भी आदेश पारित किया गया है। इस सम्बन्ध में यह उल्लेखनीय है कि याची के बर्खास्तगी आदेश को माननीय उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा निर्णय/आदेश दिनांकित 07.01.2010 द्वारा निरस्त करते हुए उसे समस्त पारिणामिक सेवा लाभ प्रदान करने का आदेश पारित किया। माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के उक्त निर्णय दिनांकित 07.01.2010 के विरूद्ध शासन द्वारा अपील दाखिल की गयी जिसे माननीय न्यायालय द्वारा आदेश दिनांकित 05.04.2010 द्वारा निस्तारित किया गया जिसमें याची को सेवा में तत्काल पुर्नस्थापित करने तथा उसे निर्णय दिनांकित 07.01.2010 से वेतन दिये जाने का आदेश दिया गया। माननीय उच्च न्यायालय ने यह भी आदेश दिया कि याची के सेवा से बर्खास्त किये जाने तथा उसे पुर्नस्थापित किये जाने के बीच की अवधि का वेतन उसके विरूद्ध जांच के आधार पर निर्णित होगा। उपरोक्त विवेचन से स्पष्ट को चुका है कि याची के विरूद्ध की गयी जांच की कार्यवाही प्राकृतिक न्याय के सिद्धांतों के विपरीत होने एवं उत्तर प्रदेश सरकारी सेवक (अनुशासन एवं अपील) नियमावली, 1999 के नियम–7 के प्राविधानों के अनुसार न होने के कारण पूर्णतः त्रुटिपूर्ण है। साथ ही केवल इस आधार पर कि याची को जांच कार्यवाही में दोषी पाया गया है विपक्षीगण ने "नो वर्क नो पे" के प्रतिपादित सिद्धांत के आधार पर उसे बर्खास्तगी आदेश दिनांक 19.09.2000 से मा0 न्यायालय द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 07.01.2010 तक के वेतन एवं भत्ते न दिये जाने का आदेश पारित किया है जबकि माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांकित 05.04.2010 के आधार पर याची की इस अवधि की सेवा में निरन्तरता समस्त सेवा लाभ के लिये मानी जायेगी। जहां तक इस अवधि के वेतन भत्ते का सम्बन्ध है चूंकि याची लगाये गये आरोप के अन्तर्गत दोषी नहीं है एवं याची की सेवा में निरन्तरता समस्त सेवा लाभ के लिये मानी जायेगी इसलिए "नो वर्क नो पे" सिद्धांत वर्तमान मामले में विधि सम्मत नहीं है। अतः मेरे विचार से

याची डिसमिसल आदेश दिनांक 19.09.2000 से मा0 न्यायालय द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 07.01. 2010 तक के वेतन एवं भत्ते पाने का अधिकारी है। इस सम्बन्ध में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा "जंजम वि ज्ञमतंसं दक व्जीमते अेण म्ज्ञण्टींतंद च्पससंप ;2007द्ध6 "नचतमउम ब्वनतज बॅमे 524 में दी गयी व्यवस्था उल्लेखनीय है जो निम्नवत् हैः–

"Service Law-Back-Held, the principle of 'No work, No Pay' cannot be accepted as a rule of thumb- There are exceptions where courts have granted monetary benefits from back date also-Full back wages in certain circumstances may be justified."

इसी प्रकार माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा Deepali Gundu Serwase Vs. Kranti Junior Adhyapak Mahavidyalaya (D.E.D.) and others (2014)2 Supreme Court Cases (L& S) 184, (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 324 में यह कहा गया है "Single Judge committed grave error by interfering with Tribunal's order for payment of back wages, ignoring that charges levelled against appellant where frivolous and inquiry was held in gross violation of the rules of natural justice-Hence, order of single judge set aside-Tribunal's order, resorted-Supreme Court directing management to pay full back wages to appellant.

(e) Principles reiterated-reinstatement entitles such employee to claim full back wages-Denial of back wages would amount to indirectly punishing the employee and rewarding the employer by relieving him of the obligation to pay back wages-Where employer wants to deny back wages or contest the employee's entitlement to get consequential benefits, employer has to plead and prove that employee was gainfully employed during the intervening period.

उपरोक्त विधि व्यवस्था के प्रकाश में यह स्पष्ट है कि याची के विरूद्ध लगाये गये आरोप कि उसके द्वारा कोई अनुशासनहीनता की गयी अथवा जान बूझकर गलत लोगो को ऋण दिया गया जिससे राजकीय क्षति हुई, जांच के बाद साबित नही होते हैं। ऐसी दशा में जबकि माननीय उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा रिट याचिका में यह स्पष्ट रूप से निर्देश दिया गया है कि याची के सेवा से बाहर रहने की अवधि को ब्रेक इन सर्विस न माना जाय और उसकी सेवा की निरन्तरता सेवा लाभ के लिये मानी जायेगी याची समस्त सेवा लाभ की निरन्तरता सेवा लाभ के लिये मानी जायेगी याची समस्त सेवा लाभ पाने का अधिकारी है। जहां तक याची की सेवा से बर्खास्तगी व पुर्नस्थापन के बीच की अवधि के वेतन भत्ते का सम्बन्ध है माननीय उच्च न्यायालय ने स्पष्ट कहा है कि यह जांच के अंतिम परिणाम के आधार पर निर्णित किया जायेगा। परन्तु दण्डाधिकारी ने इस सम्बन्ध में कोई तर्क संगत आदेश पारित नहीं किया और यह भी स्पष्ट हो चुका है कि याची किसी आरोप के लिये दोषी नहीं है, इसलिये उसके विरूद्ध "नो वर्क नो पे" के सिद्धांत के आधार वेतन न दिये जाने सम्बन्धी पारित आदेश विधि सम्मत नहीं है क्योंकि याची इस बीच कार्य करने के लिये तत्पर था। यह सेवा योजक का दायित्व है कि वह सिद्ध करे कि इस अवधि में किसी गेनपूर्ण सेवा में रहा। इस सम्बन्ध मे लिखित विवेचन में कोई कथन नहीं किया गया है। ऐसी दशा में "नो वर्क नो पे" के सिद्धांत पर याची को वेतन न दिये जाने सम्बन्धी पारित आदेश निरस्त होने योग्य है और याची इस अवधि के समस्त सेवा लाभ व वेतन प्राप्त करने का अधिकारी है। तद्नुसार प्रश्नगत आदेश व अपीलीय आदेश निरस्त होने योग्य है तथा याचिका स्वीकार किये जाने योग्य है।"

39. On the issue of holding the proper regular enquiry/disciplinary proceedings, the Tribunal recorded specific finding that the enquiry officer has not taken note of reply submitted by the opposite party no.1 during the enquiry before him and has also recorded a finding that during the enquiry proceedings, no date, time and place was fixed for recording oral evidence. The Tribunal also taken note of the factual aspect of the case. Further, while allowing the claim petition the Tribunal also considered that the order of punishment dated 5.12.2014, is not reasoned and speaking order.

40. The Tribunal after considering the age of the claimant-respondent (63 years), as well as the facts of the present case also given a finding that the matter should not be remanded back for holding enquiry afresh and the order of punishment is liable to be set aside. Thereafter Tribunal held that the punishment order is liable to be set aside.

41. On the aspect of applying the principle of 'No Work, No Pay' for the period w.e.f. 19.09.2000 till 07.01.2010, the Tribunal considering the facts to the effect that the earlier punishment order was challenged before this Court and on account of procedural regularity, the punishment order was interfered and also considered the judgment dated 07.01.2010 and 05.04.2010 and thereafter held that the period w.e.f. order of punishment dated 5.12.2000 till 07.01.2010, the date of order passed by this Court, shall not be treated as break in service but should be counted for the purpose of service benefits. On this aspect the Tribunal also considering the finding given by it in the impugned judgment to the effect that the enquiry proceedings were held in violation of principles of natural justice. The Tribunal also considering the principle settled by the Honb'le Apex Court on the issue of applying the principle of 'No Work, No Pay'. The Tribunal came to the conclusion that the principle of 'No Work, No Pay' was wrongly applied in this case and interfered in the order dated 05.12.2014 and the appellate order dated 20.08.2016.

42. Admittedly, the present litigation is second round of litigation. In earlier record of litigation, the enquiry proceedings initiated vide charge sheet dated 25.08.1999 the petitioner was dismissed from service of the corporation vide order dated 19.09.2000, which was challenged before the appellate authority and the same was also dismissed vide order dated 02.01.2003. Both the orders were challenged before this Court by the Writ Petition No.1582 of 2003 and this Court interfered in the orders vide judgment and order darted 07.01.2010. The interference was made on the grounds to the effect that the enquiry was conducted in violation of principle of natural justice. The judgment dated 07.01.2010 was challenged before the division bench of this Court in Special Appeal No.86 of 2010 and order of Single Judge was modified in relation to the payment of arrears and salary vide judgment dated 05.04.2010.

43. Pursuant to the orders passed by this Court in earlier record of litigation enquiry afresh was initiated. No fresh charge sheet was issued after the judgment dated 5.4.2010 passed in the Special Appeal no. 86 of 2010. In fact fresh enquiry proceedings were carried out on the basis of allegations/charges mentioned in the charge sheet dated 25.08.1999, which was issued for awarding major punishment and the same was awarded.

44. From the aforesaid, it is crystal clear that the enquiry proceedings were initiated by issuing the charge sheet dated 25.08.1999 for awarding the major punishment under Rule 35 of the Rules.

45. On the basis of the conclusion arrived by this Court that in fact the proceedings were initiated for awarding the punishment under Rule 35 of the Rules which relates to awarding the major penalties, we would like to quote the relevant Rules i.e. Rule 33 to Rule 35 of Model Conduct, Disciplinary and Appeal Rules for Public Undertakings, which is part of Service Rules for Employers of U.P. Schedule Castes, Finance & Development Corporation Ltd. (in short "Model Conduct Rules"). It is for considering the findings of Tribunal on the issue of holding regular enquiry.

46. On the findings of the Tribunal which has been assailed by the petitioner, on the issues of holding the proper regular enquiry, we have considered the U.P. Government Servants (Discipline & Appeal) Rules, 1999 (in short "Rules 1999") and Model Conduct Rules. We find that Model Conduct Rules are applicable.

47. For the purposes of adjudication for present case, we would like to refer the relevant Rules of the Model Conduct Rules, the same on reproduction reads as under:-

Disciplinary Authority:-

34. The Disciplinary Authority, as specified in the schedule, or any authority empowered in this behalf by the board may impose any of the penalties specified in rule 33 on any employee.

Procedure imposing major penalties:-

"Rule/Clause 35 (1) No order imposing any of the major penalties specified in Clauses (e), (f) and (g) of Rule 33 shall be made except after an inquiry is held in accordance with this rule.

2. Whenever the disciplinary authority is of the opinion that there are grounds for inquiring into the truth of any imputation of misconduct or misbehavior against an employee, it may itself enquire into, or appoint any public servant (hereinafter called the inquiring authority) to inquire into the truth thereof.

3. Where it is proposed to hold an inquiry, disciplinary authority shall frame definite charges on the basis of the allegations against the employee. The charges, together with a statement of the allegations, on which they are based, a list of document by which and a list of witnesses by whom, the articles of charge are proposed to be sustained, shall be communicated in writing to the employee, who shall be required to submit within such time as may be specified by the Disciplinary Authority (not exceeding 15 days), a written statement whether he admits or denies any of or all the articles of charges.

Explanation--It will not be necessary to show the documents listed with the charge-sheet or any other document to the employee at this stage.

4. On receipt of the written statement of the employee, or if no such statement is received within the time specified, an enquiry may he held by the Disciplinary Authority itself, or by any other public servant appointed as an Inquiring Authority under Sub-clause (2) : Provided that it may not be necessary to hold an enquiry in respect of the charges admitted by the employee in his written statement. The disciplinary authority shall, however, record its findings on each such charge.

(5) Where the disciplinary authority itself inquires or appoints an inquiring authority for holding an inquiry, it may, by an order appoint a public servant to be known as the 'Presenting Officer' to present on its behalf the case in support of the articles of charge.

(6) The employee may take the assistance of any other public servant but may not engage a legal practitioner for the purpose.

(7) On the date fixed by the inquiring authority, the employee shall appear before the Inquiring Authority at the time, place and date specified in the notice. The Inquiring Authority shall ask the employee whether he pleads guilty to any of the articles of charge the inquiring authority shall record the plea, sign the record and obtain the signature of the employee concerned thereon. The inquiring Authority shall return a finding of guilt in respect of those articles of charge to which the employee concerned pleads guilty.

(8) If the employee does not plead guilty, the inquiring authority shall adjourn the case to a later date not in exceeding thirty days after recording an order that the employee may for the purpose of preparing his defence :-

(i) inspect the document listed with the charge-sheet

(ii) submit a list of additional documents and witnesses that he wants to examine ; and

(iii) be supplied with the copies of the statements of witnesses, if any listed the charge-sheet.

Note:-Relevancy of the additional documents and the witnesses referred to in sub-clause D (ii) above will have to be given by the employee concerned and the documents and the witnesses shall be summoned if the Inquiring Authority is satisfied about their relevance to the charges, under inquiry.

(9) The Inquiring Authority shall ask the authority in whose custody or possession the documents are kept, for the production of the documents on such date as may be specified.

(10) The authority in whose custody or possession the requisitioned documents are, shall arrange to produce the same before the inquiring authority on the date place and time specified in the requisition.

Provided that the authority having the custody or possession of the requisitioned documents may claim privilege if the production of such documents will be against the public interest or the interest of the Corporation/Company. In that event, it shall inform the inquiring authority accordingly.

(11) On the date fixed for the inquiry, the oral and documentary evidence by which the articles of charge are proposed to be proved shall be produced by or on behalf of the disciplinary authority. The witnesses shall be examined by or on behalf of the Presenting Officer and may be cross-examined by or on behalf of the employee. The Presenting Officer shall be entitled to re- examine the witnesses on any points on which they have been cross-examined, but not on a new matter, without the leave of the Inquiring Authority. The Inquiring Authority may also put such questions to the witnesses as it thinks fit.

(12) Before the close of the prosecution case, the inquiring authority may, in its discretion, allow Presenting Officer to produce evidence not included in the charge-sheet or may itself call for new evidence or recall or re-examine any witness. In such case the employee shall be given opportunity to inspect the documentary evidence before it is taken on record ; or to cross-examine a witness, who has been so summoned.

(13) When the case for the disciplinary authority is closed, the employee may be required to state his defence, orally or in writing, as he may refer. If the defence is made orally, it shall be recorded and the employee shall be required to sign the record. In either case a copy of the statement of defence shall be given to the Presenting Officer, if any, appointed.

(14) The evidence on behalf of the employee shall then be produced. The employee may examine himself or take the assistance of another employee as given in rule 32 (6) to examine on his behalf if he so prefers.

The witnesses produced by the employee shall then be examined and shall be liable to cross-examination, re-examination and examination by the inquiring authority according to the provision applicable to the witnesses for the disciplinary authority.

(15) The Inquiring Authority may, after the employee closes his case, and shall, if the employee has not examined himself, generally question him on the circumstances appearing against him in the evidence for the purposes of enabling the employee to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him.

(16) After the completion of the production of the evidence, the employee and the Presenting Officer may file written briefs of their respective cases within 15 days of the date of completion of the production of evidence.

(17) If the employee does not submit the written statement of defence referred to in sub-rule (3) or before the date specified for the purpose or does not appear in person, or through the assisting offer or otherwise fails or refuses to comply with any of the provisions of those rules, the inquiring authority may hold the enquiry expert.

(18) Whenever any inquiring authority, after having heard and recorded the whole or any part of the evidence in an inquiry ceases to exercise jurisdiction therein, and is succeeded by another inquiry authority which has and which exercise, such jurisdiction, the inquiring authority so succeeding may act on the evidence so recorded by its predecessor, or partly recorded by its predecessor and partly recorded by itself.

Provided that if the succeeding inquiring authority is of the opinion that further examination of any of the witnesses whose evidence has already been recorded is necessary in the interest of justice, it may recall, examine, cross-examine and re-examine and such witnesses as here in before provided.

(19) (i) After the conclusion of the enquiry, report shall be prepared and it shall contain -

(a) a gist of the articles of charge and the statement of the imputations of misconduct or misbehavior ;

(b) a gist of the defence of the employee in respect of each article of charge ;

(c) an assessment of the evidence in respect of each article of charge ;

(d) the findings of each article of charge and the reasons therefore.

Explanation :- If in the opinion of the inquiring authority the proceedings of the inquiry establish any article of charge different from the original articles of the charge, if any record its findings on such article of charge ;

Provided that the findings on such articles of charge shall not be recorded unless the employee has either admitted the facts on which such article of charge is based or has had a reasonable opportunity of defending himself against such article of charge.

(ii) The enquiring authority, where it is not itself the disciplinary authority, shall forward to the disciplinary authority the records of inquiry which shall include :-

(a) The report of the inquiry prepared by it under sub-clause (i) above ;

(b) The written statement of defence, if any submitted by the employee referred to in sub-rule (13) ;

(c) The oral and documentary evidence produced in the course of the inquiry ;

(d) Written briefs referred to in sub-rule (16), if any ; and

(e) The orders, if any, made by the disciplinary authority and the inquiring authority in regard to the inquiry."

48. On consideration of Rules, 1999 and above quoted Rules, we find that provision of Rules of 1999 are similar to above quoted provisions.

49. The above quoted provisions speak that regular enquiry has to be conducted and principles of natural justice have to be followed in the disciplinary proceedings by the enquiry officer, which includes an opportunity to the employee to examine the witnesses of department, those are required to prove the charges and documents relied upon in the charge sheet, as also an opportunity to produce his witnesses in his defence and an opportunity of being heard in person.

50. In what manner the principles of natural justice have to be followed in the departmental/disciplinary proceedings has already explained by the Apex Court as well as by this Court.

51. The Division Bench of this Court, after considering the catena of judgments on the issue of holding the disciplinary enquiry i.e. a regular enquiry, in the judgment dated 28.11.2018 passed in Writ Petition No.34093 (S/B) of 2018 (State of U.P. v. Deepak Kumar) reported in 2019(1) AWC 26 (LB) has observed as under:-

"It is settled by the catena of judgments that it is the dutyof Enquiry Officer to hold "Regular Enquiry'. Regular enquiry means that after reply to the charge-sheet the Enquiry Officer must record oral evidence with an opportunity to the delinquent employee to cross-examine the witnesses and thereafter opportunity should be given to the delinquent employee to adduce his evidence in defence. The opportunity of personal hearing should also be given/awarded to the delinquent employee. Even if the charged employee does not participate/co-operate in the enquiry, it shall be incumbent upon the Enquiry Officer to proceed ex-parte by recording oral evidence. For regular enquiry, it is incumbent upon the Enquiry Officer to fix date, time and place for examination and cross-11S.A. No. 175 of 2005 examination of witnesses for the purposes of proving of charges and documents, relied upon and opportunity to delinquent employee should also be given to produce his witness by fixing date, time and place. After completion of enquiry the Enquiry Officer is required to submit its report,stating therein all the relevant facts, evidence and statement of findings on each charge and reasons thereof,and thereafter, prior to imposing any punishment, the copy of the report should be provided to charged officer for the purposes of submission of his reply on the same. The punishment order should be reasoned and speaking and must be passed after considering entire material on record.(vide: Jagdish Prasad Vs. State of U.P. 1990 (8) LCD 486;Avatar Singh Vs. State of U.P. 1998 (16) LCD 199; Town Area Committee, Jalalabad Vs. Jagdish Prasad 1979 Vol. ISCC 60; Managing Director, U.P. Welfare Housing Corporation Vs. Vijay Narain Bajpai 1980 Vol. 3 SCC459; State of U.P. Vs. Shatrughan Lal 1998 (6) SCC 651;Chandrama Tewari Vs. Union of India and others AIR1998 SC 117; Anil Kumar Vs. Siddiqui Vs. State of U.P. and others 2015(33) LCD 836; Moti Ram Vs. State of U.P. and others 2013(31) LCD 1319; Kaptan Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others2014 (4) ALJ 440."

52. Taking into account the relevant provision i.e. Rule 35 of Model Conduct Rules and principles settled on the issue of holding of departmental enquiry, we find from the record, particularly paras 4(n), 4(o), 4(p), 4(x), 4(2), 4(aa), 4(bb) and 4(cc) of claim petition and reply to the same given in paras 12, 19, 21 and 22 of the written statement of the petitioner filed before the Tribunal as well as as enquiry report on record, that Enquiry Officer failed to conduct the regular enquiry and thus enquiry report is vitiated and being so subsequent order based on the same are unsustainable. Thus, the findings on holding the regular enquiry given by Tribunal are perfectly valid.

53. In regard to the finding of the Tribunal to the effect that order dated 05.12.2014 is a non-speaking order, we have perused the order dated 05.12.2014 and we find that reasons for coming to the conclusion have not mentioned in the order dated 05.12.2014, order of punishment, and being so the finding of the Tribunal in this regard is perfectly valid. The relevant portion of order dated 05.12.2014 reads as under :-

"अतः श्री सिंह पर सिद्ध पाये गये आरोप सं0 1, 2 एवं 4 में दुरूपयोग हुई धनराशि रू. 1,19,600/– की वसूली एवं डिसमिसल आदेश दिनांक 19.09.2000 से मा0 न्यायालय द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 07.01.2010 तक के वेतन के सम्बन्ध में निम्नानुसार आदेश पारित करते हुए विभागीय कार्यवाही एतद्द्वारा समाप्त की जाती है:–

1. श्री एस0पी0सिंह, सहायक प्रबन्धक को डिसमिसल ओदश दिनांक 19.09.2000 से मा0 न्यायालय द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 07.01.2010 तक का वेतन श्री सिंह को आरोपो में दोषी पाये जाने पर "नो वर्क नो पे" के प्रतिपादित सिद्धान्त को दृष्टिगत रखते हुए श्री सिंह को कोई वेतन एवं भत्ते देय नहीं होंगे।

2. श्री एस0पी0, सहायक प्रबन्धक से रू.1,19,600 का 1/2 अर्थात रू.59,800/– दुरूपयोग/व्यपहरण के लिए उत्तरदायी पाये जाने पर उनसे एकमुश्त वसूली तथा दिनांक 01.01.1999 को राष्ट्रीय बचत पत्र पर अनुमन्य ब्याज दर पर वसूली की तिथि तक का ब्याज भी वसूल किया जाय।"

54. Now coming to the only issue rasied by the learned counsel for the petitioner-Sri P.K.Sinha, while assailing the order dated 24.09.2018 passed by the Tribunal, impugned in the present writ petition, that in fact the minor punishment as provided under Rule 33 was imposed on opposite party no.1 as such regular enquiry was not required, though the charge sheet was issued for imposing major punishment and the Tribunal ignore this aspect of this case and interfered in the orders before it. We are of the view that there is no force in the submissions made by learned counsel for the petitioner. It is in view of paras 10 and 11 of the judgment dated 28.11.2018 passed in Writ Petition No.34093 S/B of 2018, in the case of Deepak Kumar (supra), reported in 2019(1) AWC 26 (LB), the same is reads as under:-

"In view of the above, the first question which requires consideration in the case is that "what procedure should be adopted if charge-sheet is given for major punishment and ultimately minor punishment has been awarded".

Answer to the above is no more res-integra and it is settled principle that where the procedure for major penalty is initiated then even if disciplinary authority awards minor punishment they enquiry should be completed by adopting the procedure prescribed for major penalty. (vide: State Bank of India Vs. T.J. Pal 1999 SCC (L & S) 922; Union of India Vs. S.C. Parasar 2006 SCC (L & S) 496 and Kamla Cheran Hair Vs. State of U.P. 2009 (27) L.C.D. 130)."

55. So far as the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Yashvir Singh Gulia (supra), relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner Sri P.K. Sinha is concerned, we are of the view that the same is not applicable in the present case as in the said case the enquiry proceedings were initiated by issuing charge sheet for imposing major punishment but subsequently the competent authority dispensed with departmental enquiry and after considering the reply submitted by the delinquent officer imposed the minor punishment keeping in view the peculiar facts of the case, the Hon'ble Apex Court interfered in the judgment passed by the District Judge as well as the High Court, whereas in the present case enquiry initiated against the petitioner was not dispensed with and the enquiry officer in relation to the charge sheet issued for awarding major punishment conducted the enquiry and thereafter submitted the enquiry report and on the basis of the enquiry report reply was submitted to the same by the Opposite party no.1 and the order of punishment was passed.

56. For the foregoing reasons, we are not inclined to interfere in the judgment and order dated 24.09.2018 passed by the Tribunal.

57. Accordingly, the writ petition for it, is dismissed. No order as to costs.

A. Service – Appointment/Recruitment – Eligibility criteria/conditions – Constitution of India: Article 14, 16, 315, 320, 335; Uttar Pradesh Government Department Statistical Service Rules, 2012: Rules 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 16, 17; Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission (Regulation of Procedure) Act, 1985: Section 11(1); Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission (Procedure and Conduct of Business) Rules, 2011: Rule 29, 33, 51, 73, 74; Uttar Pradesh Direct Recruitment through Public Service Commission Preliminary Examination Rules, 1986: Section 2(vi), 2(vii), 2(viii); Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act, 1994: Section 3.

The question for consideration before the Court is as to whether the Commission has any jurisdiction in the applicable statutory scheme to fix minimum marks/criteria at the stage of interview for adjudging the suitability of the candidate for appointment to the post in question. (Para 7)

The Commission, as a constitutional body is expected to follow a uniform rational criteria to determine fitness of a candidate for selection to a public office - The Commission has a positive obligation in the constitutional scheme (Art. 335) to ensure that only a suitable candidate is appointed to the service of State. The adjudging of suitability consistent with maintenance of efficiency of administration has to be on a rational and objective criteria. Otherwise, the selection itself would not withstand the test of judicial scrutiny and would be open to challenge for violation of Article 14 and 16. In the absence of contrary stipulation in the rules, laying of criteria by the Commission of securing 40% minimum marks at written test and interview would, therefore, clearly be justified. (Para 19, 28, 30, 31, 32 & 40)

B. The decision of the Commission is otherwise not an independent decision but is based upon the direction of the State Government – In the light of GO dated 30th September, 1966, Commission took a decision on 24th December, 1966 to fix minimum standard of fitness consistent with maintenance of efficiency of administration, to be maintained for all candidates including reserved category candidates. This decision has otherwise been consistently followed for the last more than 50 years. The executive instructions of the State as also the fixing of minimum marks by the Commission, therefore, would clearly be just and legal. (Para 18, 20, 21, 32 & 40)

C. Suitability and eligibility are otherwise not interchangeable words. The mere fact that a candidate is eligible would not lead to an inference that such candidate is also suitable for appointment even if he has passed the screening test – In Rules of 2012, no criteria for adjudging suitability is provided and that the preliminary/screening examination is not for the purposes of adjudging suitability of a candidate for appointment but merely to screen out large number of applicants. It is equally settled that State can issue administrative instructions in the absence of any contrary provision in the statutory rules. The Commission's power to fix minimum marks for adjudging suitability of a candidate at the stage of interview could otherwise be sustained with reference to Rule 73 of the Rules of 2011 as the matter is not specifically provided for in the Rules of 2011 or the Service Rules of 2012. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. Petitioners, in this bunch of writ petitions, are aggrieved by their non-selection for appointment to the post of Assistant Statistical Officer as they have failed to secure minimum marks in the interview. The jurisdiction of Public Service Commission to fix minimum marks for qualifying interview is primarily questioned in all the writ petitions. All the petitions have been heard together and are being decided by this common judgment. Writ Petition No.14179 of 2019 (Nagesh Chandra Kesharwani and 26 Others Vs. State of U.P. and 11 Others) is taken as the lead case.

2. Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission (hereinafter referred to as "the Commission') issued advertisement No.4 of 2014-15 dated 17th March, 2015 initiating recruitment to large number of vacancies occurring in different departments of the State of Uttar Pradesh. Controversy in this bunch of petitions, however, is confined to 373 posts of Assistant Statistical Officer (general recruitment) in Economic and Statistic Division, State Planning Institution U.P. A total number of 7291 applications were received by the Commission against 373 advertised posts of Assistant Statistical Officer. The recruitment exercise consisted of a screening test followed by interview. 1261 candidates could qualify screening test and were accordingly called for interview. Out of those 1261 candidates only 1133 candidates could submit their educational and other eligibility documents to the Commission. A committee was constituted to examine eligibility of candidates who had cleared screening test. The committee found that only 340 candidates were eligible for being called to face interview. 302 candidates out of those 340 actually appeared to face interview.

3. The determination of eligibility by the Committee constituted for the purpose came to be questioned before this Court in Writ Petition No.13091 of 2019 (Shrawan Kumar And 5 Others Vs. Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission). This Court while dismissing the writ petitions vide judgment dated 21.8.2019 clarified that eligibility of the candidate would have to be restricted to the recruitment rules and the advertisement. The Commission also undertook to scrupulously comply with the provisions of the applicable rules and the advertisement while determining eligibility of candidates. Para 13 and 14 of the judgment in Shrawan Kumar (supra) is relevant and is reproduced hereinafter:-

"13. The thrust of the submission on behalf of the petitioners is that the process of scrutinising the application was undertaken on the basis of the three member committee report and that persons who do not qualify in terms of second essential qualification or are otherwise not eligible in view of the stand taken by the Commission have infact been allowed to participate. This contention raised on behalf of the petitioners need not cause any difficulty inasmuch as having taken a categorical stand before this Court that the Commission shall restrict consideration to candidature of those persons who have either obtained 'O' level diploma in computer awarded by the DOEACC Society or atleast one year diploma in Computer Science from any recognised University/ Institution established by law, the consideration would have to be limited to that category of applicants alone. The Commission is expected to scrutinise this aspect and to ensure that only such candidates are allowed to take part in the interview who possess requisite qualification in accordance with the advertisement and the applicable service Rules of 2012. The apprehension expressed on behalf of the petitioners, therefore, would not justify any interference by this Court in exercise of writ jurisdiction.

14. In view of the discussions made above and in light of the stand taken by the Commission, as also the statement of their senior counsel that Commission shall scrupulously comply with it, this writ petition is consigned to records."

4. The Commission, accordingly, revisited the issue of eligibility in light of the observations made by this Court in the case of Shrawan Kumar (supra). Upon a careful examination the Commission found only 198 candidates to be eligible for appointment. The Commission accordingly subjected only 198 eligible candidates to face interview. Only 142 out of those 198 eligible candidates were found suitable by the Commission for appointment. The suitability for appointment has been judged on the basis of 40% minimum marks secured at the interview for unreserved and OBC candidates, while 35% marks for Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes candidates. Selection has been made of 142 suitable candidates alone. Petitioners are essentially aggrieved by this decision of the Commission. According to petitioners all candidates who have qualified the screening test and are found eligible are liable to be selected, inasmuch as the Commission lacks any power/jurisdiction to fix minimum marks in interview for adjudging suitability of candidate concerned. According to petitioners the applicable service rules do not confer any jurisdiction upon the Commission to fix minimum marks at the interview for adjudging suitability of candidate for selection to the post in question.

5. Petitioners' contention in that regard is countered by the State, as also the Commission, by relying upon Article 320 and 335 of the Constitution of India as also the applicable service rules, and the procedure rules that regulates the functioning of the Commission. Submission is that suitability of a candidate for selection to the post is required to be determined by the Commission and power to fix the minimum norms for the purpose is clearly implicit in the applicable scheme for recruitment. Various provisions and Government Orders in that regard have been relied upon, which shall be dealt with, later. It is in this context that the issue arises for consideration before this Court.

6. I have heard Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Aishwarya Pratap Singh and Sri Seemant Singh for the petitioners; Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri F.A. Ansari for the Commission, and Dr. A.N. Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State, and have perused the materials brought on record.

7. The short question that arises for consideration, in the facts of the present case, is as to whether the Commission has any jurisdiction in the applicable statutory scheme to fix minimum marks/criteria at the stage of interview for adjudging suitability of the candidate for appointment to the post in question?

8. Before proceeding any further it would be relevant to notice the scheme for recruitment to the post in question. Appointment to the post of Assistant Statistical Officer is an appointment to an office under the State and would have to be in consonance with Article 16 of the Constitution of India, which provides for equality of opportunity in matters of public employment. The recruitment to the post in question is regulated by the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Government Department Statistical Service Rules, 2012 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules of 2012'). The post in question forms part of the cadre of service specified in Rule 6 of the Rules of 2012. Rule 7 provides that appointment to various category of posts in the service shall be made in the manner specified. Rule 7(1) of the Rules of 2012, in that regard, is reproduced hereinafter:-

"7."Recruitment to the various categories of posts in the service shall be made from the following sources:

(1) Assistant Statistical Officer/Assistant Research Officer

(Statistics) - By direct recruitment through the Commission."

9. Rule 8 of the Rules of 2012 provides for reservation to the specified category of candidates and is reproduced hereinafter:-

"8. Reservation for the candidates belonging to the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other categories shall be in accordance with the Act, and the Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Reservation For Physically Handicapped, Dependents of Freedom Fighters and Ex-Servicemen) Act, 1993, as amended from time to time, and the orders of the Government in force at the time of the recruitment."

10. Qualification of the candidate for direct recruitment is specified in Rule 9 of the Rules of 2012. Age of candidate is specified in Rule 10, while academic qualification for direct recruitment is specified in Rule 11 thereof, which is reproduced hereinafter:-

"11. A candidate for direct recruitment to the various posts in the service must possess the following qualifications:-

(i) Post-graduate degree in Assistant Research Office Mathematics or Mathematical Statistics or Commerce or Economics or Statistics from a University established by law in India or a qualification recognised by the Government as equivalent thereto.

(ii) 'O' level Diploma in Computer awarded by DOEACC Society or at least one year Diploma in Computer Science from any recognised University/ Institution.

(iii) Knowledge of Hindi in Devnagri Script.

2. (i) Post-graduate degree in Mathematics or Mathematical Statistics Or Commerce or Economics or Statistics with at least fifty five percent marks from a University established by law in India or a qualification recognized by the Government as equivalent thereto. Or

Two years Post-graduate diploma in Statistics from an Institute recognized by the Government.

(ii) Knowledge of Hindi in Devnagri Script."

11. Procedure for recruitment is contained in Part-V of the Rules of 2012. Rules 16 provides for determination of vacancies while Rule 17 regulates the procedure for direct recruitment. Rule 16 and 17 of the Rules of 2012 are also relevant and are reproduced hereinafter:-

"16. The appointing authority shall determine the number of vacancies to be filled during the course of the year of recruitment as also the number of vacancies to be reserved for candidates belonging to Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other categories under rule 8. The vacancies to be filled through the Commission shall be intimated to them.

17.(1) Application for being considered for selection shall be called by the Commission in the form published in the advertisement issued by the Commission.

(2) The Commission shall, having regard to the need for securing due representation of the candidates belonging to the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other categories in accordance with rule 8, call for interview such number of candidates, who fulfil the requisite qualifications, as they consider proper.

(3) The Commission shall prepare a list of candidates in order of their proficiency as disclosed by the marks obtained by each candidate in the interview. If two or more candidates obtain equal marks, the names of the candidates shall be arranged in accordance with the general policy of the Commission. The Commission shall forward the list to the appointing authority."

12. By virtue of Rule 17(1) of the Rules of 2012, the recruitment to the post in question has to be made by direct recruitment through the Commission. The Commission is established under Article 315 of the Constitution of India. Its functions are specified in Article 320 of the Constitution of India. Clause (1) of Article 320, as also Sub-clause (b) of Clause (3) of Article 320 of the Constitution of India, are relevant for the present purposes, and are therefore reproduced hereinafter:-

"320.(1) It shall be the duty of the Union and the State Public Service Commissions to conduct examinations for appointments to the services of the Union and the services of the State respectively.

320.(3) The Union Public Service Commission or the State Public Service Commission, as the case may be, shall be consulted--

(b) on the principles to be followed in making appointments to civil services and posts and in making promotions and transfers from one service to another and on the suitability of candidates for such appointments, promotions or transfers;"

13. The State Legislature has enacted the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission (Regulation of Procedure) Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 1985') to regulate the procedure of the Commission in discharge of its functions. In exercise of powers under Section 11(1) of the Act of 1985, statutory rules have been framed, known as The Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission (Procedure & Conduct of Business) Rules, 2011 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules of 2011'). Rule 29 thereof regulates conduct of examination in cases where direct selection is through interview only. If the proportion of candidates applying to the number of posts is high, the Commission may, after examining relevant aspects, decide to hold preliminary examination/screening test of the candidates. Rule 29(iii) of the Rules of 2011 is extracted hereinafter:-

"29.(iii) In cases of direct selection through interview only, if the proportion of candidates to the number of posts is high, the Commission may, after having considered feasibility ,expediency and other aspects to hold examination, decide to hold preliminary examination/ screening test of the candidates."

14. Rule 33 of the Rules of 2011 regulates conduct of preliminary examination in the manner prescribed by the Uttar Pradesh Direct Recruitment through Public Service Commission Preliminary Examination Rule, 1986, as amended from time to time. Rule 33 of the Rules of 2011 throws light on the purpose of holding preliminary examination and is reproduced hereinafter:-

"33.(i) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in relevant service rules or Government Orders regarding recruitment, the Commission may hold preliminary examination/screening test for finding out suitable candidates for admission to main examination or interview, as the case may be;

(ii) Preliminary examination shall mean screening test to be conducted by the Commission with the purpose of finding out suitable candidates in required proportion as fixed by the Commission in each category, reserved and unreserved, for admission to the main examination or interview, as the case may be;

(iii) Preliminary examination shall be conducted in the manner prescribed by the Uttar Pradesh Direct Recruitment through Public Service Commission Preliminary Examination Rule, 1986 as amended from time to time. The marks obtained by the candidates in the preliminary examination/screening test shall not be counted for determining final order of merit.

(iv) The Commission shall fix the place, dates and time of examination which includes preliminary examination/screening test and main examination, as the case may be.

(v) The centres of examination shall be fixed with prior approval of the Chairman/Examination Committee.

(vi) All arrangements for such examinations shall be made by the Controller of Examination in consultation with the Secretary and in accordance with such directions as may be issued by the Commission in that behalf."

15. Rule 51 of the Rules of 2011 contemplates selection by direct recruitment and is also reproduced hereinafter:-

"51. The advertisement for selection to various posts by direct recruitment shall be issued and application form from eligible candidates be invited by the Commission in accordance with the requisition received in that behalf as per provisions of service rules or adhoc principles agreed by the Commission where there are no service rules."

16. Rule 73 of the Rules of 2011 deals with residuary matters while Rule 74 thereof provides for procedure to resolve doubts that may arise in interpretation of rules. Rule 73 and 74 of the Rules of 2011 reads as under:-

"73. The Commission may deal in such manner as they deem fit with any matter not specifically provided for in these rules.

74. If any doubt arises as to the interpretation of these rule, the interpretation made by the Commission shall be final."

17. The Uttar Pradesh Direct Recruitment through Public Service Commission Preliminary Examination Rules, 1986, referred to in Rule 33 of the Rules of 2011, defines preliminary examination in Section 2(vi), which is reproduced hereinafter:-

"2.(vi)"Preliminary Examination" means screening test to be conducted by the Commission with the purpose of finding out suitable candidates for admission to the main examination or interview;"

Section 2(vii) of the Rules of 1986 defines direct recruitment while Section 2(viii) defines suitable candidates and the same are reproduced hereinafter:-

"2.(vii) "Direct Recruitment" means recruitment directly made through the Commission either by competitive examination or by selection other than by Competitive Examination as may be prescribed in Service Rules and Government orders;

2.(viii) "Suitable candidates" means candidate securing minimum number of marks as may be fixed by Commission in its discretion at Preliminary Examination thereby enabling him to appear in the main examination or interview as the case may be;"

18. It is not in issue that no written test has been held and after the candidates have been screened in the preliminary test, their suitability for appointment has been adjudged in the Interview. The Commission in order to justify the allocation of minimum marks for adjudging suitability of a candidate for appointment to the post in question has referred to a communication issued by the State Government on 30th September, 1966, which is extracted hereinafter:-

"I am directed to say that in this Department circular G.O. no.O-3140/II-B-26-1949, dated October 29, 1949, on the subject noted above, it was indicated that a lower standard of test should be applied in the selection of candidates of Scheduled Castes and even if it was found that the candidates belonging to the Scheduled Castes with the minimum qualifications were below others in merit, they should, to the extent of their quota, be selected for appointment. These orders were reiterated in subsequent G.O. no.13SC/II-B-311-64, dated March 10, 1964. Further, in G.O. no.556-SC/II-B-467-1964, dated February 15, 1966, it was provided that in all recruitments, whether by competitive examination or selection, a minimum standard of fitness consistent with the maintenance of efficiency of administration, should be fixed for the candidates of the Scheduled Castes, and if such a candidate comes up to that standard, he should be selected for appointment irrespective of the marks obtained by the last general candidate so selected.

2. The question whether the aforesaid orders infringed the constitutional guarantee relating to equality of opportunity in matters of public employment came up for consideration recently, and Government have been advised that the minimum standard of fitness consistent with the maintenance of efficiency of administration should be the same for all candidates and that it cannot be different for Scheduled Castes as compared to other candidates. Therefore, in suppression of the orders contained in the three G.Os. cited above, it has been decided that with a view to enabling the Scheduled Castes to secure their due quota in services, a minimum standard of fitness consistent with the maintenance of efficiency in administration should be laid down for all candidates and subject to the said minimum standard of fitness, the selection of candidates belonging to Scheduled Castes should be made separately to the extent of the seats reserved for them, even though their absolute performance may be inferior to that of the last general candidate selected against the non-reserved seats.

3. These orders may please be brought to the notice of all concerned for their information and guidance."

19. The requirement to fix minimum standard of fitness consistent with the maintenance of efficiency of administration appears to have arisen on account of a specific provision contained in Article 335 of the Constitution of India, which is reproduced hereinafter:-

"335. The claims of the members of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes shall be taken into consideration, consistently with the maintenance of efficiency of administration, in the making of appointments to services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or of a State:

Provided that nothing in this article shall prevent in making of any provision in favour of the members of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes for relaxation in qualifying marks in any examination or lowering the standards of evaluation, for reservation in matters of promotion to any class or classes of services or posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or of a State."

20. In light of the aforesaid communication of the State, a decision has been taken by the Commission on 24th December, 1966 to fix minimum standard of fitness consistent with maintenance of efficiency of administration for a candidate for appointment, which is reproduced hereinafter:-

"Extracts of the order from file no.281/47-48 of communal representation in Service- Govt. orders regarding.

DISCUSSED on Dec. 23.

The Commission agreed to the observations of the Government that a minimum standard of efficiency must be insisted upon from the Scheduled Caste candidates, which minimum standard should not be different for the general candidates. The Commission, therefore, decided to adopt this principle for future recruitment. The Commission also decided that the minimum limit may be different for different posts and that generally speaking it should not be less than 40% of marks that may be secured in the aggregate of marks secured at the interview and/or in written papers."

Undisputedly, the aforesaid decision of the Commission is being consistently followed in all subsequent selections for the unreserved and OBC candidates.

21. By a subsequent decision the Commission has modified the minimum standard of efficiency for the Scheduled Castes candidates by lowering it to 30%. The decision in that regard has again been revised and the minimum standard for efficiency in respect of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes candidates has been revised to 35% vide decision of the Secretary dated 25th July, 2019. It is on this yardstick that 142 candidates have been adjudged suitable for appointment by the Commission.

22. Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners submits that Recruitment Rules of 2012, as also the Procedure & Conduct of Business Rules of 2011, do not vest jurisdiction in the Commission to fix minimum marks at the stage of interview for a candidate to be selected for appointment. Sri Khare has placed reliance upon a judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Durgacharan Misra Vs. State of Orissa and others, (1987) 4 SCC 646, to submit that in the absence of express power conferred in the rules the Commission cannot fix any minimum marks to be secured at interview. Reliance is also placed upon a judgment of the Apex Court in Dr. Krushna Chandra Sahu and others Vs. State of Orissa and others, AIR 1996 SC 352. With reference to para 35 to 38, it is firmly contended that the Commission at its own level was denuded of any jurisdiction to lay down standards for adjudging suitability when the rules framed under proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India do not contemplate so.

23. Sri Seemant Singh, also appearing for the petitioners, while adopting the argument of Sri Khare further submits that once suitability of a candidate has been examined in the preliminary examination it was not open thereafter for the Commission to lay down criteria of minimum marks at the stage of interview. It is urged that suitability of a candidate for appointment had already been examined by the Commission in the preliminary examination, and that in the absence of any specific power the Commission could only determine the inter-se merit of candidates for recruitment to the post in question, by virtue of Rule 17(3) of the Rules of 2012. Sri Singh, therefore, submits that all candidates, who are adjudged suitable at the screening test are liable to be included in the select list, after it was found that they do possess requisite eligibility. Submission is that elimination of candidates, at the stage of interview, is wholly arbitrary and unsustainable.

24. Submission advanced on behalf of petitioners is countered by Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri F.A. Ansari for the Commission. Reliance is placed by Sri Singh upon Division Bench judgments of this Court in the case of Dr. Ram Sukh Yadav Vs. State of U.P. and others, (1997) 1 UPLBEC 416; Ram Shanker Roy and others Vs. State of U.P. and others, (2000) 3 UPLBEC 2289, and U.P. Public Service Commission Vs. Sangeeta & 81 Others, 2019 (4) ADJ 650. It is stated that fixing of qualifying marks as 40% for General and OBC candidates has been specifically affirmed in the abovenoted three Division Bench judgments. Reliance is also placed upon a judgment of this Court in the case of Ashok Kumar Nayak Vs. State of U.P. and Another, 2004(1) AWC 129. Learned Senior Counsel has also referred to the judgment of Apex Court in K. Manjusree Vs. State of U.P. and Another, (2008) 3 SCC 512.

25. Learned Senior Counsel for the Commission submits that the Division Bench of this Court in U.P. Public Service Commission Vs. Sangeeta & 81 Others (supra) has specifically endorsed the fixing of cut off marks by the Commission to determine fitness of a candidate for selection, which stands affirmed by the Apex Court with dismissal of Special Leave Petition (Civil) Diary No.17510 of 2019 (Sangeeta and others Vs. U.P. Public Service Commission).

26. In reply to the aforesaid argument, Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel submits that the service rules framed under proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India were distinct before the Division Bench in U.P. Public Service Commission Vs. Sangeeta & 81 Others (supra). Emphasis is laid upon Rule 15(4) of the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Nursing (Non-Gazetted) Service (Fourth Amendment) Rules, 2016 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules of 2016') to submit that only those candidates could be recommended for appointment, who were found fit for appointment, while in the applicable rules in the present case no such power is vested with the Commission.

27. Direct recruitment to the post of Assistant Statistical Officer is to be made through the Commission. The Commission is a body established under Article 315 of the Constitution of India. Its functions are specified in Article 320. Sub-Article 1 of Article 320 casts a duty upon the Union and the State Public Service Commission to conduct examinations for appointment to the services of the Union and the services of State, respectively. Sub-Article (b) of Article 320(3) provides that the Commission shall be consulted on the principles to be followed in making appointment to civil post and on the suitability of candidate for such appointment etc. The Commission, therefore, is required to be consulted on the suitability of candidate for appointment to the post in question. The selection by direct recruitment in the present case is by the Commission itself. The judging of a candidate's suitability for appointment to a post has to be on some rational and objective criteria. The Service Rules of 2012 only provides that direct appointment is to be made through the Commission. What would, however, be the yardstick to judge suitability of a candidate for appointment is not specified in the applicable service rules. Sub-rule 3 of Rule 17 of the Rules of 2012 mandates the Commission to prepare a list of candidates in order of their proficiency, as disclosed by the marks obtained by each candidate in interview. It also provides that where two or more candidates obtain equal marks the name of candidates shall be arranged in accordance with the general policy of the Commission. The criteria/yardstick to adjudge suitability of a candidate for selection is clearly missing in the applicable service rules.

28. The Commission, as a constitutional body is expected to follow a uniform rational criteria to determine fitness of a candidate for selection to a public office. Prior to interview, no written test is contemplated in the Service Rules of 2012. Only a screening test is contemplated for screening out candidates for interview since large number of candidates have applied otherwise and only thrice the number could be called for interview. The object of screening test is merely to screen out large number of applicants and the suitability at that stage is examined only for admitting the candidates for the main written examination or the interview, as the case may be. The Act of 1986, as also the Conduct of Procedure Rules of 2011 makes it explicit that marks obtained in the screening test would not be added for determining the merit of candidate concerned. This clearly conveys that suitability for appointment to the post in question is not determined at the stage of preliminary/screening examination.

29. In case petitioners' contention is accepted that all eligible persons are liable to be selected for appointment who have cleared the screening test and have appeared in interview, since purpose of interview is only to determine the inter-se merit of candidates, then the primary responsibility cast upon the Commission to examine suitability of a candidate for appointment to the public office would not be discharged.

30. The suitability of a candidate for appointment has to be examined in respect of all category of candidates including those belonging to Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes. Article 335 of the Constitution of India would come into play, as per which claim for appointment to a public office of a Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe candidate is required to be examined consistently with the maintenance of efficiency of administration. The constitutional mandate contained in Article 335 can be accomplished only when the Commission fixes a uniform criteria consistent with the maintenance of efficiency of administration and subjects the candidate to it for ascertaining their suitability. It transpires that fixing of minimum marks for qualifying written test/interview for the purpose of determining suitability of a candidate for appointment is to ensure maintenance of efficiency of administration and has been consistently followed by the Commission for the last more than five decades.

31. Sri G.K. Singh has also placed reliance upon Section 3 of the Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act, 1994 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 1994'), which refers to selection of a suitable reserve category candidate or else the vacancy would remain unfilled and carried forward to the next recruitment. It is urged that suitability of candidate consistent with maintenance of efficiency of administration in the making of appointment to service and post in connection with the affairs of the State would, therefore, be the responsibility of the Commission, and that in the absence of any objective criteria fixed for adjudging suitability consistent with the maintenance of efficiency of administration, the recruitment itself would become inconsistent with the constitutional scheme.

32. The argument advanced by Sri G.K. Singh appears to have force, inasmuch as the suitability of a candidate for selection has to be on a rational and objective criteria consistent with the maintenance of efficiency of administration or else the selection itself would be open to challenge on the ground of violation of Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. It is in this context that correspondence appears to have taken place way back in 1966 between the State of Uttar Pradesh and the Commission. The State Government vide its Government Order dated 30th September, 1966 has clarified that a minimum standard of fitness consistent with maintenance of efficiency of administration has to be maintained for all candidates including reserved category candidates. A direction, consequently, has been issued to the Commission to fix minimum standard of fitness consistent with the maintenance of efficiency of administration for all candidates and accordingly determine suitability of candidates for selection. The adherence to the criteria of minimum standard of fitness consistent with the maintenance of efficiency of administration is also in respect of Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe candidates to the extent of seats reserved for them, even though they may be inferior to that of the last general candidate selected against the non-reserved seats. It is in this context and for fulfilling the constitutional mandate that the Commission has fixed 40% minimum marks to be secured at interview and/or in the written papers. The decision of the Commission is otherwise not an independent decision but is based upon the direction of the State Government. The minimum marks fixed for adjudging suitability, otherwise, is not shown to be arbitrary and is clearly consistent with the constitutional mandate imposed upon the Commission to select suitable candidate for appointment.

33. It is already noticed that the Service Rules of 2012 otherwise do not specify any objective criteria to determine suitability of a candidate for appointment.

It is equally settled that in the absence of any contrary provision in the statutory rules it is always open for the State to regulate the field by issuing administrative instructions. The Commission's power to fix minimum marks for adjudging suitability of a candidate at the stage of interview could otherwise be sustained with reference to Rule 73 of the Rules of 2011 as the matter is not specifically provided for in the Rules of 2011 or the Service Rules of 2012.

34. In Durgacharan Misra (supra), the appointment to subordinate judicial services was governed by Orissa Judicial Service Rules, 1964. The selection was to be held on the basis of written test which carried 200 marks. In the written test 30% of the total marks in all papers was specified as minimum qualifying marks in the written test and only such candidates, who passed the written test were to be called for viva voce. No minimum marks were specified for the interview. It was in that context that the Apex Court held that securing of minimum marks for interview cannot be introduced at the level of the Commission when rules do not contemplate so. In Durgacharan Misra (supra) a rational objective criteria was already provided for determining suitability of candidate i.e. obtaining of minimum 30% marks at the written test. The Apex Court, therefore, disapproved the laying of additional criteria at the stage of interview when such a provision was otherwise not contemplated in the applicable rules. The Apex Court judgment in Durgacharan Misra (supra) will clearly be distinguishable in the facts of the present case inasmuch as a specific objective criteria of securing 30% minimum marks at the stage of written test had been fixed under the applicable rules while the Service Rules of 2012, applicable in the present case, provides for no such objective criteria.

35. In K. Manjusree (supra) the Apex Court while examining the judgment in Durgacharan Misra (supra) clearly observed that where rules do not prescribe any procedure, the selection committee may prescribe minimum marks for selection in the written examination/interview. Para 29 of the Apex Court judgment in K. Manjusree (supra) is reproduced hereinafter:-

"29. The resolution dated 30.11.2004 merely adopted the procedure prescribed earlier. The previous procedure was not to have any minimum marks for interview. Therefore, extending the minimum marks prescribed for written examination, to interviews, in the selection process is impermissible. We may clarify that prescription of minimum marks for any interview is not illegal. We have no doubt that the authority making rules regulating the selection, can prescribe by rules, the minimum marks both for written examination and interviews, or prescribe minimum marks for written examination but not for interview, or may not prescribe any minimum marks for either written examination or interview. Where the rules do not prescribe any procedure, the Selection Committee may also prescribe the minimum marks, as stated above. But if the Selection Committee want to prescribe minimum marks for interview, it should do so before the commencement of selection process. If the selection committee prescribed minimum marks only for the written examination, before the commencement of selection process, it cannot either during the selection process or after the selection process, add an additional requirement that the candidates should also secure minimum marks in the interview. What we have found to be illegal, is changing the criteria after completion of the selection process, when the entire selection proceeded on the basis that there will be no minimum marks for the interview."

(emphasis supplied by me)

36. The judgment of the Apex Court in Dr. Krushna Chandra Sahu (supra) also dealt with an entirely distinct exigency. In that case the candidates had already been appointed after following the laid down criteria for selection and for their further selection applicable rules did not lay down any guidelines for adjudging suitability of candidate but the selection committee, at its own level, proceeded to lay down criteria for the purpose. It was in that context that the Apex Court observed as under in para 40 of the judgment:-

"40. A candidate in order to be suitable for appointment on a teaching post must have at least three qualities; he should have thorough knowledge of the subject concerned; he should be organised in his thoughts and he should possess the art of presentation of his thoughts to the students. These qualities cannot possibly be indicated or reflected in the confidential character rolls relating to another service, namely, the service in the Health Department as Homoeopathic Medical Officers where the character rolls would only reflect their integrity, their punctuality, their industry and their evaluation by the Reporting or the Accepting officer recorded in the annual entries. True it is that the candidates being already serving officers, their character rolls have to be looked into before inducting them in the new service but this can be done only for the limited purpose of assessing their integrity etc. These character rolls, however, cannot form the SOLE basis for determination of their suitability for the posts of. junior teachers in the Medical Colleges. Then, what formula or method should be adopted to assess these qualities is the question which next arises. this Court in Liladhar v. State of Rajasthan,: (1981)IILLJ297SC , pointed out:-

"The object of any process of selection for entry into a public service is to secure the best and the most suitable person for the job, avoiding patronage and favouritism. Selection based on merit, tested impartiality and objectively, is the essential foundation of any useful and efficient public service. So, open competitive examination has come to be accepted almost universally as the gateway to public services."

37. The selection to public service as also adjudging of suitability for direct recruitment was not the subject matter of consideration before the Apex Court in the case of Dr. Krushna Chandra Sahu (supra). Petitioners, therefore, cannot draw any benefit from the observation made in the aforesaid judgment.

38. The judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Durgacharan Misra (supra) has also been distinguished, on facts, by the Division Bench of this Court in the case of U.P. Public Service Commission Vs. Sangeeta & 81 Others (supra). The aspect relating to fitness of a candidate has been examined extensively by the Division Bench. I am in respectful agreement with the view taken by the Division Bench in U.P. Public Service Commission Vs. Sangeeta & 81 Others (supra), as is contained in para 42 to 51 of the judgment, which are extracted hereinafter:-

"42. On the contrary in K.H. Siraj Vs. High Court of Kerala and Others, (2006) 6 SCC 395, the word 'suitable' used in Rule 7 of Kerala Judicial Services Rules, 1991 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Rules') invited an interpretation. Rule 7 of the Rules required the High Court of Kerala to hold examination (written and oral), and to prepare a list of candidates considered 'suitable' for appointment. For ready reference Rule 7 of the Kerala Judicial Services Rules, 1991 (as extracted in the report) is quoted below:

"7. Preparation of lists of approved candidates and reservation of appointments.--(1) The High Court of Kerala shall, from time to time, hold examinations, written and oral, after notifying the probable number of vacancies likely to be filled up and prepare a list of candidates considered suitable for appointment to Category 2. The list shall be prepared after following such procedure as the High Court deems fit and by following the rules relating to reservation of appointments contained in Rules 14 to 17 of Part II of the Kerala State and Subordinate Services Rules, 1958.

(2) The list consisting of not more than double the number of probable vacancies notified shall be forwarded for the approval of the Governor. The list approved by the Governor shall come into force from the date of the approval and shall remain in force for a period of two years or until a fresh approved list is prepared, whichever is earlier."

43. Though the Rule was silent, the High Court of Kerala evolved a procedure prescribing pass marks (in the examination conducted by it), as a criteria to adjudge the 'suitability' for grant of appointment. The same had been challenged as violative of the statute. The Supreme Court in paragraph nos. 49 and 50 held as below:

"49. .....The very use of the word "suitable" gives the nature and extent of the power conferred upon the High Court and the duty that it has to perform in the matter of selection of candidates. The High Court alone knows what are the requirements of the subordinate judiciary, what qualities the judicial officer should possess both on the judicial side and on the administrative side since the performance of duties as a Munsif or in the higher categories of Subordinate Judge, Chief Judicial Magistrate or District Judge to which the candidates may get promoted require administrative abilities as well. Since the High Court is the best judge of what should be the proper mode of selection, Rule 7 has left it to the High Court to follow such procedure as it deems fit. The High Court has to exercise its powers in the light of the constitutional scheme so that the best available talent, suitable for manning the judiciary may get selected.

50. .....The merit of a candidate and his suitability are always assessed with reference to his performance at the examination and it is a well-accepted norm to adjudge the merit and suitability of any candidate for any service, whether it be the Public Service Commission (IAS, IFS, etc.) or any other. Therefore, the powers conferred by Rule 7 fully justified the prescription of the minimum eligibility condition in Rule 10 of the notification dated 26-3-2001. The very concept of examination envisaged by Rule 7 is a concept justifying prescription of a minimum as benchmark for passing the same. In addition, further requirements are necessary for assessment of suitability of the candidate and that is why power is vested in a high-powered body like the High Court to evolve its own procedure as it is the best judge in the matter. It will not be proper in any other authority to confine the High Court within any limits and it is, therefore, that the evolution of the procedure has been left to the High Court itself. When a high-powered constitutional authority is left with such power and it has evolved the procedure which is germane and best suited to achieve the object, it is not proper to scuttle the same as beyond its powers. Reference in this connection may be made to the decision of this Court in Union of India v. Kali Dass Batish [(2006) 1 SCC 779 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 225] wherein an action of the Chief Justice of India was sought to be questioned before the High Court and it was held to be improper."

(emphasis supplied)

44. A question therefore arises as to the legality of the basis adopted by the appellant-Commission while making that recommendation. Even in that regard, Rule 15(4) offered a clear guiding principle to the appellant-Commission to make its recommendations based on merit. As a fact, the appellant-Commission had considered only the absolute merit of individual candidates in aggregate marks obtained by them out of a maximum of 100 marks (being 85 marks in the written examination and 15 marks for work experience). Therefore, in view of the stipulation contained in Rule 15(4) of the Rules requiring the appellant-Commission to recommend those considered fit for appointment, it was wholly competent for the appellant-Commission to set a bench mark based on the same stipulation of merit determined on aggregate marks scored in the selection process.

45. The appellant-Commission also did not examine any other or further material. The test of merit as contained in Rule 15(4) of the Rules itself, was applied. It was was wholly objective and in no part subjective. The appellant-Commission adopted an objective, reasonable, fair and transparent bench-mark. It neither chose to give weightage to marks obtained in the written examination nor it, preferred the marks obtained on the basis of work experience, to judge fitness or preference for grant of appointment. The appellant-Commission chose a wholly neutral, reasonable, fair and objective criteria of 40 marks (for general category candidates) and 30 marks (for reserved category candidates) of aggregate of marks awarded in the written examination and for work experience.

46. Therefore, in our opinion, there is no warrant to infer that an additional condition had been introduced by the appellant-Commission in adopting a merit based bench mark to make it's recommendation for appointment. There is no illegality in the same. There is no conflict in the action of the appellant-Commission and the Rules in that regard..

47. What therefore remains for consideration is the reasonableness or otherwise of the decisions of the Commission dated 24.12.1966, 05.02.2011 and 01.09.2018 i.e. whether they provide a reasonable and fair bench mark or guiding principle for the purpose of preparation of the list of candidates considered 'fit' for appointment. First, it is clear, those decisions/resolution/notification did not deprive or vary the absolute or relative merit position of any of the petitioner-respondents or any eligible candidate from his merit position, to which he may claim entitled. Second, since the list of candidates recommended for appointment was required to be prepared on the basis of merit based on aggregate marks alone, the measure adopted by the appellant

Commission to consider only such candidates as fit for appointment who may have attained a minimum of 40% and 30% marks as a general category or reserved category candidate as the case may be, is wholly consistent with that stipulation contained in Rule 15(4) of the Rules.

48. As noted above, by creating the bench mark or cut-off at 40 percent of the aggregate marks, to determine the fitness for selection, the appellant-Commission also acted consistent with the well accepted norm in academics. It did not seek to put the bar any higher than the commonly accepted pass percentage. To accept anything lower than the pass percentage by way of a test of fitness may have called for a deeper scrutiny as to its reasonabilty. A person who may not have 'passed' an examination may not be generally considered fit or suitable for further progress either in academics (at any level) or for appointment.

49. Any examination, in the first place seeks to test the retention, understanding and application of studies or knowledge that may have been imparted or acquired by those taking that examination. The proficiency that the appellate-Commission was obliged to test to make its recommendation as to fitness for appointment, had to be amongst those meeting some minimum standards. If that minimum requirement were to be ignored, the criteria of fitness would remain largely untested or meaningless. Any candidate who may who may have been asked to secure a minimum 40 percent marks in such examination to establish his fitness for appointment cannot be heard to complain of any unreasonableness in selection of that bench mark or cut-off mark.

50. To put it in other words, a candidate who may have failed in an examination may never claim to be considered for further promotion in any academic course. So also, a candidate seeking selection to a post who may have failed to obtain a certain minimum pass marks may never be heard to complain that he had not been found fit for selection or recommendation for appointment. In short, the bench mark or the cut-off mark of 40 percent and 30 percent as chosen by the appellant-Commission, and which was duly notified and applied across the board to all candidates, cannot be doubted or questioned as arbitrary or unreasonable.

51. Seen in that light, irrespective of the fact that the decision of the appellant Commission dated 24.12.1966 or 05.02.2011 may never have been adapted by it after the enforcement of the Rules, the same did not fell foul with the Rules inasmuch as they never sought to lay a new or different eligibility condition contrary to the Rules. In fact, the notification dated 01.09.2018 is plainly consistent and it complements the Rules."

39. The attempt on part of the petitioners to distinguish the Division Bench judgment in the case of U.P. Public Service Commission Vs. Sangeeta & 81 Others (supra), with reference to the language of Rule 15 of the Rules of 2016 is also required to be dealt with, at this stage. Rule 15 of the Rules of 2016 provides as under:-

"Procedure for direct recruitment - 15. (1) Applications for permission to appear in the Competitive Examination shall be invited by the Commission in the form published in the advertisement issued by the Commission.

(2) No Candidate shall be admitted to the Examination unless he holds a certificate of admission issued by the Commission.

(3) Selection shall carry one hundred marks. The merit list of the candidates shall be prepared in the following manner:-

(a) Written Examination shall carry eighty five marks.

(b) Marks to a person who is working as Staff Nurse on contract basis in the Medical and Health Services Department, Uttar Pradesh shall be awarded in the following manner subject to the maximum of fifteen marks:-

(i) For the first completed year of service on contract basis ---------- Three marks.

(ii) For the next and every completed year of service on contract basis ---- Three marks for each year.

(c) The marks obtained by each candidate under clause (a) shall, where applicable, be added to the marks obtained under clause (b).

(4) The Commission shall, having regard to the need for securing due representation of the candidates belonging to the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other categories in accordance with rule 6, prepare a list of candidates in order of their proficiency as disclosed by the marks obtained by them under clause (c) of sub-rule (3) and recommend such number of candidates as they consider fit for appointment. If two or more candidates obtain equal marks, the name of the candidate senior in age shall be placed higher in the list. The Commission shall forward the list to the appointing authority."

40. It is submitted on behalf of petitioners that Rule 15(4) of the Rules of 2016 permitted the Commission to consider fitness of a candidate for appointment, whereas no such contemplation exists in the Rules of 2012. It is sought to be urged that in the absence of any such stipulation in the applicable rule, the Commission would have no jurisdiction to fix any minimum mark to be secured by a candidate for appointment to the post. The argument raised in that regard is absolutely fallacious. The Commission has a positive obligation in the constitutional scheme to ensure that only a suitable candidate is appointed to the service of State. The suitability has to be consistent with the fitness of a candidate required for maintenance of efficiency of administration to the public office. The adjudging of suitability consistent with maintenance of efficiency of administration has to be on a rational and objective criteria. Unless such a criteria is determined and applied, the selection itself would not withstand the test of judicial scrutiny. In the absence of contrary stipulation in the rules, laying of criteria by the Commission of securing 40% minimum marks at written test and interview would, therefore, clearly be justified. The decision in that regard has otherwise been consistently followed for the last more than 50 years. The decision of the Commission is also in response to a specific direction of the State Government. The executive instructions of the State as also the fixing of minimum marks by the Commission, therefore, would clearly be just and legal.

41. Suitability and eligibility are otherwise not interchangeable words. The mere fact that a candidate is eligible would not lead to an inference that such candidate is also suitable for appointment even if he has passed the screening test. It has already been observed that in the Rules of 2012 no criteria for adjudging suitability is provided and that the preliminary/screening examination is not for the purposes of adjudging suitability of a candidate for appointment. The petitioners, therefore, would not be justified in contending that merely on account of their eligibility and passing of screening test, they are liable to be adjudged suitable for appointment. The Commission, therefore, is justified in fixing 40% minimum marks at the stage of interview for adjudging suitability in order to ensure that fitness of a candidate is consistent with maintenance of efficiency of administration. In light of the aforesaid discussions, the arguments advanced on behalf of petitioners fail.

42. All the writ petitions, accordingly, are dismissed. Parties to bear their own cost.

List of cases cited: -

1. State of U.P & 2 Ors vs. Rahul (Special Appeal Defective No. 70 of 2016)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir,J.)

1. This petition has been filed under Article 226 of the Constitution asking this Court to issue a Mandamus to the respondent-Authorities to conduct a fresh medical test of the petitioner by a Medical Board for the post of Police Constable in relation to Advertisement No. PRPB-ONE 1 (112)/2017. A further Mandamus has been sought directing the Authority to declare the petitioner selected and send him for necessary training relating to Police Constables and Constables in the PAC Recruitment Examination, 2018. The case of the petitioner is that he was declared medically unfit during the medical examination. This medical examination was held at the 34th Battalion, PAC, Bhullanpur, Varanasi where he was declared unfit with a remark that 'you are unfit by knock-knee and vision impairment'. Thereafter the petitioner appeared for a re-medical test on 19.08.2019 at Police Lines, Varanasi. There also, he was declared unfit with a remark 'you are unfit by knock-knee and vision impairment'.

2. The petitioner has asserted that he does not suffer from any of these medical impairments and is absolutely fit on medical parameters. It is asserted in paragraph 13 of the writ petition that after the petitioner failed in the medical examination and the review which is contemplated under the advertisement, the petitioner submitted himself privately to the medical examination of the Additional Director/Chief Superintendent, SSPG, Mandaleeya Zila Chikitsalay, Varanasi on 20.09.2019. There, he was found not to be suffering from the disabilities which the medical test and the review examination had found.

3. In this connection, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Omkar Nath Rai has invited the attention of the Court to the certificate issued by Mandaleeya Apar Nideshak/ Pramukh Adheekshak, S.S.P.G. Mandaleeya Zila Chikitsalay, Varanasi dated 20.09.2019, a copy of which is appended at page 24 of the paper book to show that there is 'nil bodily infirmity'. In the last paragraph of this certificate, it is mentioned by the Mandaleeya Apar Nideshak/ Pramukh Adheekshak, S.S.P.G. Mandaleeya Zila Chikitsalay, Varanasi that 'I do not consider this a disqualification for employment in the U.P. Polytechnic'. It appears that the petitioner submitted himself voluntarily to the medical examination of the Mandaleeya Apar Nideshak/ Pramukh Adheekshak, S.S.P.G. Mandaleeya Zila Chikitsalay, Varanasi representing to the said Authority that he was applying for some job in U.P. Polytechnics and on that basis got himself medially examined on parameters that would be relevant for a job in the U.P. Polytechnics. The certificate does not indicate that the Mandaleeya Apar Nideshak/ Pramukh Adheekshak, S.S.P.G. Mandaleeya Zila Chikitsalay, Varanasi examined the petitioner on health fitness parameters required for a Constable in the Civil Police or the PAC.

4. Dr. Amarnath Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State has opposed the motion to admit this petition to hearing. He submits that the process medical examination at the time of recruitment is specified in the advertisement. It is a complete process and has to be accepted for whatever result it reaches. He points out that the petitioner has undergone both original examination and a review, and has been found to be medically unfit with the problem of a knock-knee and vision impairment.

5. It is argued that the petitioner cannot rely on a privately requested medical examination, even by a high ranking Government medical facility, to displace or question the correctness of the medical examination which is an integral part of the recruitment process

6. This Court has keenly considered the matter. It is true that the recruitment process is a complete process which prescribes various stages from the written examination to physical fitness test and medical examination, followed by character verification. In the advertisement, it is clearly indicated that the medical examination is to be done in the prescribed manner and if there is any objection to the outcome, there is a review permissible. The petitioner has opted for the permissible review and has failed there. It is true that there could be cases where there is an absolutely absurd finding given during the medical examination which is demonstrably so outrageous that it would be a travesty of justice to uphold it. It would be in those limited cases that this Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226 may order the constitution of a special medical board, to wit, order a third medical test. In this case, there is no prima facie evidence placed on record to show that there is any flaw in the findings of the medical board or their finding on a review. The medical certificate from the Mandaleeya Apar Nideshak/ Pramukh Adheekshak, S.S.P.G. Mandaleeya Zila Chikitsalay, Varanasi dated 20.09.2019 that the petitioner has filed on record, is apparently one which the petitioner has secured on a request made to the aforesaid medical establishment indicating that he needed it as a medical fitness certification for employment under the U.P. Polytechnics. The parameters for employment in the services of U.P. Polytechnics would be grossly different from what it is for the U.P. Police and the PAC. Also, no representative of the Police Recruitment Promotion Board was present during this Medical examination undertaken before the Mandaleeya Apar Nideshak/ Pramukh Adheekshak, S.S.P.G. Mandaleeya Zila Chikitsalay, Varanasi on 20.09.2019 on account of which, it would have no binding effect on the respondents.

7. In this connection reference may be made to a decision of this Court in Special Appeal Defective No. 70 of 2016, State of U.P. and 2 Ors. vs. Rahul, where a Division Bench of this Court considered the question of a separate medical examination that may be ordered by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution. After a review of authority on the subject, it was held by their Lordships of the Division Bench in State of U.P. and 2 Ors. vs. Rahul (supra) as under:

"This Court in previous decisions has emphasized the need to preserve the sanctity of the recruitment process and of the care and circumspection which has to be exercised before the findings of an expert medical Board constituted by the authorities are interfered with in writ proceedings. Undoubtedly, the powers of the Court under Article 226 of the Constitution are wide enough to issue such a direction in an appropriate case. However, such directions cannot be issued merely on the basis of a request made in that behalf before the Court.

In a recent judgment of this Court in Union of India through Ministry of Railways vs. Parul Punia2, this Court has emphasized the need for caution when candidates seek to question the correctness of the findings of a medical Board constituted under the recruitment process adopted by the authorities of the State, on the basis of a report obtained by the candidates. The Division Bench observed as follows:

"...In a number of such cases, candidates who have been invalidated on medical grounds produce expert opinions of their own to cast doubt on the credibility of the official medical report constituted by the recruiting body. In such cases, the Court may not have any means of verifying the actual identity of the person who was examined in the course of the medical examination by the Doctor whose report is relied upon by the candidate. Hence, even though the authority whose medical report was produced by the candidate may be an expert, the basic issue as to whether the identity of the candidate who was examined, matches the identity of the person who has applied for the post is a serious issue which cannot be ignored..."

Dealing with the parameters of the writ jurisdiction in such cases, the Division Bench observed thus:

"...Undoubtedly, in a suitable case, the powers of the Court under Article 226 are wide enough to comprehend the issuance of appropriate directions but such powers have to be wielded with caution and circumspection. Matters relating to the medical evaluation of candidates in the recruitment process involve expert determination. The Court should be cautious in supplanting the process adopted by the recruiting agency and substituting it by a Court mandated medical evaluation. In the present case the proper course would have been to permit an evaluation of the medical fitness of the respondent by a review medical board provided by the appellants. Otherwise, the recruitment process can be derailed if such requests of candidates who are not found to be medically fit for reassessment on the basis of procedures other than those which are envisaged by the recruiting authority are allowed. This would ordinarily be impermissible."

In the present case, we find absolutely no reasonable basis for the respondent to have invoked the jurisdiction under Article 226 for constituting a separate medical Board under the authority of the Principal of Motilal Nehru Medical College, Allahabad. In the interim order of the learned Single Judge, there was no safeguard to the effect that the medical examination would take place in the presence of a representative of the State to at least ensure that the issue of identity did not arise. But that apart, more fundamentally, the objection to the entire procedure which has been followed is that without any reasonable basis or justification, the recruitment process and the procedures which have been laid down have been supplanted under a judicial direction. This, in our view, would be impermissible.

We may also note that in an earlier judgment of a Division Bench of this Court in State of U.P. vs. Deepak Kumar3 it observed as follows:

"Once such is the factual situation that there is self contained procedure, that has been provided for, being declared medically fit and there is a provision of review also in case an incumbent is declared medically unfit and here on two occasions respondent petitioner has failed to prove himself to be medically fit, then based on the report of a private medical practitioner no such mandatory directives could have been issued. That is totally outside the scope of scheme that has been provided for, in view of this, the order passed by the learned Single Judge cannot be subscribed by us. Candidate concerned, at no point of time, has imputed any motive to members of Medical Board that they have wrongly for extraneous consideration prepared wrong report."

We may also note that in the report of the Motilal Nehru Medical College, Allahabad which has been referred to in the impugned order of the learned Single Judge, it has been found that "there is mild collapse of medial arch leading to Grade-1 Flat foot". However, on a medical examination, the bio-mechanical function of foot was found to be intact. The report advised that the case 'can be considered fit as per the medical parameters set by a particular service for which the candidate opts for'. Thus even the report of the independent Board did not support the case of the respondent."

8. The reasoning that weighed with their Lordships in State of U.P. and 2 Ors. vs. Rahul (supra) squarely applies to the present case. No case for grant of relief is made out.

9. In the result, this petition fails and is dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

5. Lok Prahari Vs. St. of U.P. (2016) 8 SCC 389 Paras41, 46

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani,J.)

1. Heard Sri Adarsh Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Girish Vishwakarma, learned standing counsel for the respondent nos. 1 to 4.

2. On 25.11.2019, this Court passed the following order:-

"The petitioner is posted as Assistant Teacher in the institution of respondent no. 1. He has been allotted an accommodation by the respondent no. 1 by order dated 24.9.2018 which has not yet been vacated by the earlier Assistant Teacher, namely Sri Chhote Lal Yadav who was promoted and transferred on 3.8.2018.

The grievance of the petitioner is that more than one year has passed and yet the respondent no. 5 has not yet vacated the residential accommodation of the institution allotted to the petitioner due to which the petitioner is suffering.

In view of the facts briefly noted above, learned standing counsel is directed to obtain instructions from respondent nos. 1, 2 & 3 who shall also show cause that if the allotment order dated 24.9.2019 is still operating in favour of the petitioner, then why the accommodation has not been got vacated from the respondent no. 5 and what action has been taken against the respondent no. 5 due to alleged illegal occupation of the Government accommodation.

Put up on 28.11.2019 in the additional cause list for further hearing."

3. Today, learned standing counsel has produced instruction dated 27.11.2019, given by the respondent no.1 in which it is mentioned that after the order of this Court dated 25.11.2019, the premises has been got vacated from the respondent no.5 and it has been given to the petitioner which was allotted to him by order dated 24.09.2018. The aforesaid instruction is kept on record.

4. Perusal of this instruction prima facie shows that the respondent no.5 is indulged in not only illegally and unauthorisedly occupying the Government accommodation but also indulged in encroaching upon the Government land and damaged boundary wall etc. which is Government property. No action whatsoever has been taken by the respondent authorities except that after this court passed the above quoted order, the payment of salary of the respondent no.5 was requested to be stopped. Such type of instances are serious particularly when there is inaction on the part of the respondent authorities.

5. A Division Bench in Jag Pal Singh Bhatt Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh 2002(2) AWC 988 has laid down the law in the matter of a State Government Employee that he cannot continue to occupy the official accommodation since he has been transferred from there.

6. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of S.D. Bandi v. Divisional Traffic Officer, Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation and others, (2013) 12 SCC 631, has laid down the law that an employee should not overstay after his retirement or transfer. The Court has noticed that the States of Uttar Pradesh and Orissa have amended Section 441 of the Penal Code, 1860 (in short "IPC"). The Supreme Court has observed that the Government in two States are in a position to file criminal proceedings in the case of unauthorised occupation of government accommodation. Section 441 as amended in Uttar Pradesh as quoted in S.D. Bandi (supra) reads as under:

'441. ... or, having entered into or upon such property, whether before or after the coming into force of the Criminal Laws (U.P. Amendment) Act, 1961, with the intention of taking unauthorised possession or making unauthorised use of such property fails to withdraw from such property or its possession or use, when called upon to do so by that another person by notice in writing, duly served upon him, by the date specified in the notice, is said to commit "criminal trespass".' (Uttar Pradesh).

7. After considering the response from all the States, Hon'ble Supreme Court has made certain suggestions in Para-33 of the S.D. Bandi's case (supra), as under:-

"Suggestions:

33. The following suggestions would precisely address the grievances of the Centre and the State governments in regard to the unauthorized occupants:

33.1 As a precautionary measure, a notice should be sent to the allottee/officer/employee concerned under Section 4 of the PP Act three months prior to the date of his/her retirement giving advance intimation to vacate the premises.

33.2 The Department concerned from where the government servant is going to retire must be made liable for fulfilling the above-mentioned formalities as well as follow up actions so that rest of the provisions of the Act can be effectively utilized.

33.3 The principles of natural justice have to be followed while serving the notice.

33.4 After following the procedure as mentioned in SR 317-B-11(2) and 317-B-22 proviso 1 and 2, within 7 working days, send a show cause notice to the person concerned in view of the advance intimation sent three months before the retirement.

33.5 Date of appearance before the Estate Officer or for personal hearing as mentioned in the Act after show cause notice should not be more than 7 working days.

33.6 Order of eviction should be passed as expeditiously as possible preferably within a period of 15 days.

33.7 If, as per the Estate Officer, the occupant's case is genuine in terms of Section 5 of the Act then, in the first instance, an extension of not more than 30 days should be granted.

33.8 The responsibility for issuance of the genuineness certificate should be on the Department concerned from where the government servant has retired for the occupation of the premises for next 15 days and further. Giving additional responsibility to the department concerned will help in speedy vacation of such premises. Baseless or frivolous applications for extensions have to be rejected within seven days.

33.9 If as per the Estate Officer the occupant's case is not genuine, not more than 15 days' time should be granted and thereafter, reasonable force as per Section 5(2) of the Act may be used.

33.10 There must be a time frame within how much time the Estate Officer has to decide about the quantum of rent to be paid.

33.11 The same procedure must be followed for damages.

33.12 The arrears/damages should be collected as arrears of land revenue as mentioned in Section 14 of the Act.

33.13 There must be a provision for compound interest, instead of simple interest as per Section 7.

33.14 To make it more stringent, there must be some provision for stoppage or reduction in the monthly pension till the date of vacation of the premises.

33.15 Under Section 9 (2), an appeal shall lie from an order of eviction and of rent/damages within 12 days from the day of publication or on which the order is communicated respectively.

33.16 Under Section 9(4), disposal of the appeals must be preferably within a period of 30 days in order to eliminate unnecessary delay in disposal of such cases.

33.17 The liberty of the appellate officer to condone the delay in filing the appeal under Section 9 of the Act should be exercised very reluctantly and it should be an exceptional practice and not a general rule.

33.18 Since allotment of government accommodation is a privilege given to the Ministers and Members of Parliament, the matter of unauthorized retention should be intimated to the Speaker/Chairman of the House and action should be initiated by the House Committee for the breach of the privileges which a Member/Minister enjoys and the appropriate Committee should recommend to the Speaker/Chairman for taking appropriate action/eviction within a time bound period.

33.19The Judges of any forum shall vacate the official residence within a period of one month from the date of superannuation/retirement. However, after recording sufficient reason(s), the time may be extended by another one month.

33.20 Henceforth, no memorials should be allowed in future in any Government houses earmarked for residential accommodation. "

8. Hon'ble Supreme Court further held that the same procedure must be followed for damages also; the arrears/damages should be collected as arrears of land revenue; to make it more stringent, there must be some provision for stoppage or reduction in the monthly pension till the date of vacation of the premises.

9. The State of Uttar Pradesh has informed the Supreme Court that in the State of Uttar Pradesh, there is already a provision in respect of arrears of rent and damages and the rules enable the State to recover the same as arrears of land revenue. The Supreme Court was also informed by the State of Uttar Pradesh that the stringent provision viz. Section 11 of the U.P. Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised Occupants) Act, 1972 is in force.

10. The aforesaid judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in S.D. Bandi (supra) has been followed by a Bench of this Court in Satish Chandra Yadav Vs. State Of U.P. And 7 Ors. 2016 (2) ADJ 395 and a direction has been issued as under:-

"Therefore, the authority concerned shall adopt an uniform policy for granting extension to retain the government accommodation beyond prescribed limit. The State functionaries would follow the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of S.D. Bandi (supra) in letter and spirit."

11. In Union of India vs. Vimal Bhai, (2014) 13 SCC 766 (Para-5) Hon'ble Supreme Court directed to get the Government accommodation vacated from those who are unauthorisedly occupying the same and action must be taken strictly in accordance with para 33 of the judgment in S.D. Bandi case (supra).

12. In Lok Prahari vs. State of U.P. (2016) 8 SCC 389 (Paras-41, 46), Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"41. This Court, in the case of "SD Bandi v. Karnataka SRTC, (2013) 12 SCC 631, in relation to occupation of government bungalows, beyond the period for which the same were allotted, observed that (SCC p.649, para 34)

"34. It is unfortunate that the employees, officers, representatives of people and other high dignitaries continue to stay in the residential accommodation provided by the Government of India though they are no longer entitled to such accommodation. Many of such persons continue to occupy residential accommodation commensurate with the office(s) held by them earlier and which are beyond their present entitlement. The unauthorized occupants must recollect that rights and duties are correlative as the rights of one person entail the duties of another person similarly the duty of one person entails the rights of another person. Observing this, the unauthorized occupants must appreciate that their act of overstaying in the premise infringes the right of another. No law or directions can entirely control this act of disobedience but for the self realization among the unauthorized occupants".

46. So far as allotment of bungalow to private trusts or societies are concerned, it is not in dispute that all those bungalows were allotted to the societies/trusts/organizations at the time when there was no provision with regard to allotment of government bungalows to them and therefore, in our opinion, the said allotment cannot be held to be justified. One should remember here that public property cannot be disposed of in favour of any one without adequate consideration. Allotment of government property to someone without adequate market rent, in absence of any special statutory provision, would also be bad in law because the State has no right to fritter away government property in favour of private persons or bodies without adequate consideration and therefore, all such allotments, which have been made in absence of any statutory provision cannot be upheld. If any allotment was not made in accordance with a statutory provision at the relevant time, it must be discontinued and must be treated as cancelled and the State shall take possession of such premises as soon as possible and at the same time, the State should also recover appropriate rent in respect of such premises which had been allotted without any statutory provision." (Emphasis supplied by me)

13. From the facts as briefly noted above, it appears that despite a clear direction of Hon'ble Supreme Court and of this Court and despite the provisions of Section 11 of the U.P. Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised Occupants) Act, 1972, the State authorities have neither adopted a uniform policy nor have made any effort to enforce the provisions of Section 11 of the Act 1972 nor enforced the clear direction given by this Court in the case of Satish Chandra Yadav (supra) and by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of S.D. Bandi (supra) which has binding force under Article 141 of the Constitution of India.

14. In the present case, since the accommodation has now been got vacated from the respondent No.5 and the allottee has been given possession of the allotted Government Accommodation, therefore, this writ petition is disposed of and the following directions are issued which shall be strictly complied with by the State Government:-

(i) The State Government shall ensure compliance of the directions of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of S.D. Bandi (supra) and take immediate action against all such employees/ officers who are unauthorisedly over staying in a Government Accommodation after their retirement or transfer.

(ii) Necessary action shall be taken by competent authorities in the State of Uttar Pradesh against such Employees/Officers who are unauthorisidely over staying in Government allotted accommodation after their retirement or transfer (as suggested by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of S.D. Bandi's case and directed to be implemented in Vimal Bhai case).

(iii) The State Government shall frame and adopt a uniform policy within two months from today, if not framed so far, for granting extension to retain the Government accommodation beyond prescribed limit and shall strictly adhere to it.

(iv) The State Government shall call for information from all the District Authorities in the State of Uttar Pradesh within two months from today about the Officers and Employees who are unauthorisedly over staying or retaining the Government accommodation beyond prescribed limit, after their retirement or transfer. Within next one month, the State Government shall ensure that all such Government accommodation being illegally or unauthorisedly occupied by retired/transferred Employees and Officers are vacated immediately. In the event, any inaction is shown by any authority, the State Government shall ensure that necessary action is also taken against such authorities.

15. With the aforesaid directions this writ petition is disposed of.

16. Let a copy of this judgment be sent by the Registrar General of this Court to the Chief Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh for necessary action and compliance.

Therefore, they cannot question the validity or binding effect of the aforesaid Government Orders. (Para 21 to 30, 40(iii), 41(iv))

B. Rules of Absorption - It is settled law that a person cannot challenge the very source i.e. Statute, Rules or the Government Orders under which he was appointed - The GO dated 6.6.2014 and amended S. 31-E of the Act, 1980 is a one-time measure for absorption. Absorption in public employment is not a right but, an exception to the normal rule and subject to conditions. Once the petitioners have exercised the option for their absorption in public employment, they cannot say that condition no. 4 is arbitrary. Past service as part time teacher on honorarium prior to absorption cannot be added in their length of service in the absence of any constitutional or legal right. (Para 31 to 40, 41(ii), 41(v))

C. U.G.C. Regulation 2010: Clause 10.1(f) – The said clause is applicable only to adhoc and temporary appointees which fall under a different class than the persons / petitioners who were engaged by the management on honorarium basis per lecture as permitted by GO dated 7.4.1998. These engagements were made without recommendation of any duly constituted

Selection Committee under the Act, 1980. (Para 41(i))

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J.)

1. Whether (i) period spent in engagement on honorarium by the petitioners prior to their appointment by absorption under the Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016, is liable to be counted in their length of service for all consequential benefits including promotion?, and (ii) the condition no. 4 of the Government Order dated 6.6.2014 under which petitioners got appointment is liable to be quashed?

2. Heard Sri Vivek Saran, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Manish Goyal, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Anil Pandey, learned standing counsel for the respondents.

Facts

3. The petitioners who have been appointed by absorption under the Government Order dated 6.6.2014 as an exception to the normal rule of appointments have filed, this writ petition praying for the following reliefs:-

"1. Issue any other writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the condition no. 4 of the Government Order dated 6.6.2014 and condition no. 4 of the Government Order dated 2.5.2016 (Annexure Nos. 3 & 4).

2. Issue any other writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no. 2 to count the past service rendered by the petitioners on ad-hoc/honorarium basis and grant all consequential benefits including promotion and monetary, as and when they falls due."

(emphasis supplied)

Submissions

4. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the condition no. 4 is arbitrary, and therefore, it deserves to be struck off.

5. Learned Additional Advocate General submits that the petitioners got their absorption under the aforesaid Government Orders. They cannot be permitted to accept the aforesaid Government Orders for absorption and at the same time pray to struck off its condition no. 4. He further submits that the absorption is subject to the condition mentioned in the aforesaid Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016. It is not permissible for the petitioners to accept some of the conditions which he find favourable to them and to pray for striking off the other condition which he feels unfavourable to him. In support of his submissions, he relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Zila Dastavej Lekhak Association & another Vs. State of U.P. & others (1996) 8 SCC 441 (paras 3 & 4) and judgment of this Court in Suresh Chandra Vs. State of U.P. & others (2014) 7 ADJ 721 (paras 54, 55 & 56).

Discussing & Finding

6. I have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties.

7. Briefly stated facts of the present case are that according to the petitioners, they were engaged in non-government aided degree colleges under Government Order dated 07.04.1998 on honorarium of Rs. 100/- per lecture subject to maximum of Rs.5000/- in a month. Section 31-E of The Uttar Pradesh Higher Education Services Commission Act, 1980(herein after referred to as the Act, 1980) was amended by U.P. Act No.22 of 2014 w.e.f. 26.05.2014 which enabled the management at the instance of the Director to offer appointments as teachers to persons engaged on honorarium basis subject to the provisions of Sections 12 and 13 of the Act, 1980, if there is substantive vacancy. Sub-section (4) of Section 31-E provides that teachers so appointed shall be entitled to get his salary as teachers, from the date, he joins the post in pursuance of such letter of appointment. In view of the aforesaid amended Section 31-E, the State Government issued Government Order dated 6.6.2014 for absorption subject to certain conditions. The petitioners accepted the conditions and obtained appointment as teachers subject to final decision in Writ Petition Petition No. 22349 of 2016 pending in High Court and some matters of absorption pending in Supreme Court. Their appointment letters provide for one year probation period.

8. After appointments on the post of teacher on accepting the conditions of absorption under the aforesaid Government Order dated 6.6.2014, the petitioners have now challenged one of the condition of their absorption i.e. the condition no. 4 which provides that the services of the teachers / petitioners shall be counted from the date of absorption and period of earlier engagement on honorarium basis shall not be counted in length of service for computation of post retiral benefits.

9. The Government Order dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016 for absorption are reproduced below:-

उपर्युक्त विषयक अपने पत्र संख्या डिग्री अर्थ–1 (वि0नि0) /03 / 2016–17, दिनांक 13.04.2016 का कृपया संदर्भ ग्रहण करने का कष्ट करें, जिसमें यह अवगत कराया गया है कि रिट याचिका संख्या–33652/2014 डा0 जितेन्द्र कुमार व 09 अन्य बनाम उ0प्र0 सरकार व 02 अन्य मामले में मा0 उच्च न्यायालय, इलाहाबाद द्वारा दिनांक 06.04.2016 को निम्नवत् आदेश पारित किये गये हैः–

The attention of the Court has been drawn to the fact that by a gazette notification dated 26 December 2014, publised on 26 December 2014, the Uttar Pradesh Higher Education Services Commission (Amendment) Act, 2014 was notified and was deemed to have come into force on 26 May 2014. By and as a result of Section 3(1), the the Uttar Pradesh Higher Education Services Commission (Amendment) ordinance, 2014 has been repealed.

Since the relief which has been sought in the petition is to challenge the Uttar Pradesh Higher Education Services Commission (Amendment) ordinance,2014 which has since been repealed.

The petition has been rendered infructuous. The challenge to the order of the Special Secretary dated 6 June 2014 will not survive since that is only for implementation of the Ordinance, 2014 which has since been repealed.

The petition is, accordingly, dismissed. Interim order shall, in consequence, stand vacated. There shall be no order as to costs.

10. Section 31-E of the Act, 1980 as amended by the U.P. Act No. 22 of 2014 w.e.f. 26.5.2014 is the enabling provision for absorption which is reproduced below:-

"31-E. Absorption of teacher on honorarium. (1) Subject to the provisions contained in Sections 12 and 13, if any vacancy exists, which could not be filled under the provisions of said sections, a teacher on honorarium shall be absorbed in the manner prescribed under sub section (2) , who is working in grant-in-aid college, possessing educational qualifications determined by the State Government, receiving honorarium, thereby working for a minimum period of three academic sessions and has been working till the date of commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Higher Education Services Commission (Third Amendment) Act 2006

(2) Where any substantive vacancy in the post of a teacher in a grant-in-aid college is to be filled by direct recruitment, such post shall, at the instance of the Director, be offered by the management to teacher on honorarium referred to in sub-section (1).

(3) Where any teacher on honorarium who has been offered appointment in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2) fails to join the post within the time allowed, which shall not be less than fifteen days, his further claim shall cease automatically.

Explanation.- For the purposes of this section -

"teacher on honorarium" means a person working in grant-in-aid college and is engaged in teaching a course of study and receiving payment from the Funds of State aid on a fixed honorarium appointed on a contractual basis with the prior approval of the Director.

(4) Where the Management fails to offer any post to a teacher on honorarium in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2) within the time specified by the Director, the Director, may himself issue the letter of appointment to such teacher on honorarium and the teacher on honorarium concerned shall be entitled to get his salary as teacher, from the date, he joins the post in pursuance of such letter of appointment."

12. Thereafter the management offered appointment to petitioners under the Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016 which the petitioners voluntarily accepted. Consequently, they were appointed by absorption subject to conditions as provided in the aforequoted Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016. Now, by the present writ petition, they are challenging condition no. 4 of the aforequoted Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016 under which they came to be appointed.

13. In brief, normal procedure for recruitment under Sections 12 & 13 of the Act, 1980, is that management shall intimate vacancies to the Director in the manner prescribed, who shall notify it to the Commission in the prescribed manner. The Commission shall hold written examination and interview of the candidates and thereafter send a list to the Director recommending such candidates found most suitable in each subject in order of merit. Thereafter, the Director shall intimate to the management the name of candidate from the list for appointment in such vacancy by the management. Procedure for selection of teachers has been prescribed in the Uttar Pradesh Higher Education Services Commissions (Procedure for Selection of Teachers) Regulations, 2014 framed under Section 31 of the Act, 1980.

14 The aforequoted recommendation for absorption of the petitioners was made by the Director pursuant to the order dated 26.5.2016 in Writ-C No. 22349 of 2016 (Dr. Deena Nath Yadav & 7 others Vs. State of U.P. & 2 others) passed by the Division Bench in which the judgment dated 4.4.2008 in Writ-A No. 5210 of 2007 (Anurag Tripathi & another Vs. State of U.P. & others) was referred and it was held that the petitioners are part time teachers. The operative portion of the order dated 27.5.2016 in Dr. Deena Nath Yadav's case (supra) is reproduced below:-

"Considering the facts that this Court, while questioning the vires of the Ordinance had granted an interim order and, in order to balance the equity, we direct the respondents that they may proceed with the absorption of part time teachers on such vacancies, which have not been notified and advertised by the Commission upto the date of issuance of the Amending Act, 2014."

(emphasis supplied)

15. The operative portion of the order of the Division Bench in Anurag Tripathi's case (supra) is reproduced below:-

"All the writ petitions are accordingly disposed of with the following directions :

(a) Part-time teachers appointed under the Government Order dated 17.04.1998 would continue to function as such till regularly selected candidates recommended by the commission joins, or in terms of the final judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Special Leave Petition (Civil) No. 84 of 2004 whichever is earlier.

(b) Such Part-time teachers shall be entitled to the payment at the rate provided for under the Government Order on per lecture basis subject to the maximum prescribed, they were not entitled to salary at par with regular Lectures.

(c) Absorption under Section 31-E of the Commission's Act shall not be effected in favour of any part -time teacher till the Hon'ble Supreme Court considers and decide the Special Leave Petition (Civil) No.84 of 2004.

(d) Absorption,if any, of part-time teachers under Section 31-E of the Act subsequent to the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme court (if it is decided in favour of part-time teachers) would be considered against such substantive vacancies which had not been advertised by the commission till the enforcement of the Act No.46 of 2006.

(e) The director of Higher Education shall ensure that all existing vacancies are requisitioned by the Management /Principal of the recognized affiliated and aided Degree College within the time specified above and the commission in turn shall ensure that regular selection are made against the said vacancies within one year from the date the requisition is received after following the procedure prescribed. The Director shall direct placement of the selected candidates immediately thereafter. There should be no complaint to this court that selections could not be made by the commission because of absence of Chairman/other member/other facilities being not made available by the state."(emphasis supplied)

16. Thus, it has always been the case of the absorbed honorarium persons that they were part time teachers on honorarium.

17. In para 38 of the writ petition, the petitioners have alleged to have moved a representation dated 25.9.2018 before the respondent no. 1, a copy of which has been filed as Annexure No. 21 in which, they have now alleged that their period of engagement on honorarium is to be counted in their length of service in terms of Clause 10.1(f) of the U.G.C. Regulation 2010 which is reproduced below:-

"(f) The previous appointment was not as guest lecturer for any duration, or an adhoc or in a leave vacancy of less than one year duration. Adhoc or temporary service of more than one year duration can be counted provided that:

(i) the period of service was of more than one year duration;

(ii) the incumbent was appointed on the recommendation of duly constituted Selection Committee; and

(iii) the incumbent was selected to the permanent post in continuation to the adhoc or temporary service, without any break." (emphasis supplied)

18. Perusal of the aforesaid clause shows that it is applicable only to adhoc and temporary appointees which fall under a different class than the persons / petitioners who were engaged by the management on honorarium basis per lecture as permitted by Government Order dated 7.4.1998. These engagements were made without recommendation of any duly constituted Selection Committee under the Act, 1980 as also evident from clauses 6, 7 & 8 of the Government Order dated 7.4.1998. Their engagement was not as whole timer but as part timer on honorarium per lecture @ Rs. 100/- subject to maximum honorarium of Rs. 5,000/- in a month.

19. In University of Rajasthan & another Vs. Prem Lata Agrawal (2013) 3

SCC 705 (paras 1, 9, 10, 11, 30, 31 & 44) considered the question of qualifying length of service for pension to the teacher engaged on honorarium who under orders of the Court started getting salary equivalent to minimum pay scale of regularly appointed Lecturers, and held as under:-

"1. Leave granted in all the special leave petitions. The controversy that arises for consideration in this batch of appeals is whether the respondents, who were appointed to the teaching post, namely, Assistant Professors/Lecturers in different subjects and continued as such for more than two decades, would be entitled to get the benefit of pension under the University Pension Regulations, 1990 (for short "the Regulations") framed by the University of Rajasthan which came into force with effect from 1.1.1990, regard being had to the language employed in Regulation 2 that deals with the scope and application of the Regulations read with Regulations 22 and 23 that stipulates the conditions of qualifying service and the period that is to be counted towards pension in addition to the fact that the University had accepted the contribution to the Pension Fund as defined in Regulation 3(5), despite the stand and stance put forth by the University that the respondents were not regularly appointed to the posts in question in accordance with the provisions contained in Section 3(3) of the Rajasthan Universities' Teachers and Officers (Selection for Appointment) Act, 1974 (for brevity "the Act") and, hence, are not entitled to the benefit provided under the Regulations.

9. The learned Single Judge referred to the regulations and took note of the fact that she had continued in service for a period of 20 years and her option for grant of pension was accepted by the university and pursuant to such acceptance they deposited their contribution and, hence, the university was estopped to take a somersault the stand that she was not entitled to receive pension under the Regulations of 1990. That apart, the learned single Judge opined that the nature of her appointment could not be treated as ad hoc and temporary, regard being had to the length of service. Being of this view, he allowed the writ petition and directed the pensionary benefits be extended to her within a period of three months after completing the formalities.

10. Being grieved by the aforesaid order, the university preferred Special Appeal (Writ) No. 292 of 2011. The Division Bench, after adverting to the facts and referring to various regulations and the provisions of the Act, came to hold that the action of the university was wholly unjustified and arbitrary. The said conclusion of the Division Bench was founded on the base that there was default on the part of the university in not appointing even a single person in the service of the universities of Rajasthan in a regular manner for a long period; that the university had invited the teachers to give their option and they deposited their contribution in the C.P.F. in the pension scheme; that the appointments of the teachers were not in contravention of the provisions of the Act; and that they were deemed to be confirmed in view of the provisions contained in Regulation 23 of the Regulations.

11. After arriving at the said conclusions, the Division Bench adverted to the issue whether the teachers were entitled for the pensionary benefits in terms of the regulations and eventually, interpreting the regulations and placing reliance on the authorities In S.B. Patwardhan Vs. State of Maharashtra (1977) 3 SCC 399 and D.S. Nakara Vs. Union of India (1983) 1 SCC 305 and paragraph 53 of the pronouncement in State of Karnataka Vs. Umadevi (2006) 4 SCC 1*,* came to hold that the appointments were made following due procedure of law and further the teachers, having been appointed in the cadre of substantive posts, could not be denied the pensionary benefits under the regulations. Being grieved, the University is in appeal by way of Special Leave Petitions.

30. In Anuradha Mukherjee (Smt.) & others Vs. Union of India & others (1996) 9 SCC 59*, this Court, while dealing with the issue of seniority, opined that when an employee is appointed de hors the Rules, he cannot get seniority from the date of his initial appointment but from the date on which he is actually selected and appointed in accordance with the Rules.*

31. In State of Haryana Vs. Haryana Veterinary & AHTS Association and another (2000) 8 SCC 4 while dealing with the issue of regular service under the Haryana Service of Engineers, Class II, Public Works Department (Irrigation Branch) Rules, 1970, a three-Judge Bench observed that under the Scheme of the said Rules, the service rendered on ad hoc basis or stop-gap arrangement could not be held to be regular service for grant of revised scale of pay.

Consequently, the appeals are allowed and the orders passed by the High Court are set aside. However, if any amount has been paid on any count to any of the respondents in the appeals pursuant to the orders passed by the High Court, the same shall not be recovered on any count. There shall be no order as to costs." (emphasis supplied)

20. In Union of India & others Vs. K.G. Radhakrishna Panickar & others (1998) 5 SCC 111 (paras 2, 12 & 13), Hon'ble Supreme Court considered similar question and held as under:-

"2. These appeals raise the question whether employees who were initially engaged as Project Casual Labour by the Railway Administration and were subsequently absorbed on a regular temporary/permanent post are entitled to have the services rendered as Project Casual Labour prior to 1.1.1981 counted as part of qualifying service for the purpose of pension and other retiral benefits.

12. In its judgment dated 8-2-1991 the Tribunal had held that exclusion of period of service rendered as Project Casual Labour before they were regularly absorbed prior to 1.1.1981 results in such employees being discriminated as compared to Project Casual Labour who were employed subsequently and whose service as Project Casual Labour prior to absorption is counted for the purpose of qualifying service. The said finding of the Tribunal is based on the decision of this Court in D.S. Nakara. In this regard, it may be stated that the Tribunal was in error in invoking the principle laid down in D.S. Nakara in the present case. The decision in D.S. Nakara has been considered by this court in subsequent decisions and it has been laid down that the principle laid down in D.S. Nakara can have application only in those cases where there is discrimination in the matter of existing benefit between similar set of employees and the said principle has no application where a new benefit is being conferred with effect form a particular date. In such a case the conferment of the benefit with effect from a particular dated cannot be held to be violative of Article 14 of the Constitution on the basis that such a benefit has been conferred of certain categories of employees on the basis of particular date. [See: Krishena Kumar Vs. Union of India & others (1990) 4 SCC 207, State of W.B. Vs. Ratan Behari Dey (1993) 4 SCC 62 and State of Rajasthan Vs. Sevanivatra Karamchari Hitkari Samiti (1995) 2 SCC 117.] In the present case, the benefit of counting of service prior to regular empowerment as qualifying service was not available to casual labour. The said benefit was granted to Open Line Casual Labour for the first time under order dated October 14, 1980 since Open Line Casual Labour could be treated as temporary on completion of six months' period of continuous service which period was subsequently reduced to 120 days under Para 2501

(b) (i) of the Manual. As regards Project Casual Labour this benefit of being treated as temporary became available only with effect from 1.1.1981 under the scheme which was accepted by this court in Inder Pal Yadav. Before the acceptance of that scheme the benefit of temporary status was not available to project Casual Labour. It was thus a new benefit which was conferred on Project Casual Labour under the scheme as approved by this court in Inder Pal Yadav and on the basis of this new benefit project casual Labour became entitled to count half of the Service rendered as Project Casual Labour on the basis of the order dated October 14, 1980 after being treated as temporary on the basis of the scheme as accepted in Inder Pal Yadav. We are, therefore, unable to uphold the judgment of the Tribunal dated February 8, 1991 when it holds that service rendered as Project Casual Labour by employees who were absorbed on regular permanent/temporary posts prior to 1.1.1981 should be counted for the purpose of retiral benefits and the said judgment as well as the judgment in which the said judgment has been followed have to be set aside. The judgements in which the Tribunal has taken a contrary view have to be affirmed.

13. In the result, the appeals filed by the Railway Administration are allowed and the judgments of the Tribunal impugned in these appeals are set aside. The Appeals arising out of Special Leave Petitions (C) Nos. 26790 of 1995 and 3423 of 1997 filed by the employees are dismissed. No order as to costs."

Estoppel:

21. It is settled law that a person cannot challenge the very source i.e. Statute, Rules or the Government Orders under which he was appointed. That apart, the appointment of the petitioner by absorption is an exception to the normal Rule of Appointment in Government service which includes reservation also. Therefore, they cannot be allowed to challenge that condition of their appointment by absorption which they find unfavourable to them while retaining the favourable part. The very source under which they came to be appointed, either survives or perishes.

22. The petitioners have elected to accept their appointments by absorption under the aforequoted Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016. Their appointment is based on the doctrine of election which is Rule of estoppel which postulates that no party can accept and reject the same instrument and that 'a person cannot say at one time that a transaction is valid and thereby obtain some advantage to which he could only be entitled on the footing that it is valid and then turn round and say that it is void for the purpose of securing some other advantage.'

23. As per Halsbury's Laws of England (4th Edition) Vol. 16 (Paragraph 1508), after taking an advantage under an order a party may be precluded from saying that it is invalid and asking to set it aside.

24. In the case of Joint Action Committee of Air Line Pilots' Association of India (ALPAI) and others v. Director General of Civil Aviation and others, (2001) 5 SCC 435 (Paragraph-12), Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to its earlier judgments in the case of Babu Ram alias Durga Prasad v. Indra Pal Singh, 1998(6) SCC 358, P.R. Deshpande v. Maruti Balaram Haibatti, 1998(6) SCC 507 and Mumbai International Airport Private Limited v. Golden Chariot Airport and another, 2010 (10) SCC 422 and held that the doctrine of election is based on the rule of estoppel. The doctrine of estoppel by election is one of the species of estoppel in pais (or equitable estoppel) which is a rule in equity. By that rule, a person may be precluded by his actions or conduct or silence when it is his duty to speak, from asserting a right which he otherwise would have had.

25. In the case of Cauvery Coffee Traders, Mangalore v. Hornor Resources (International Company Limited), (2011) 10 SCC 420 (Paragraph 34), Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to its decision in the case of Nagubai Ammal v. B. Shama Rao, AIR 1956 SC 593, CIT v. V. MR.P. Firm Muar AIR 1965 SC 1216, NTPC Ltd. v. Reshmi constructions, Builders & Contractors, (2004) 2 SCC 663, Ramesh Chandra Sankla v. Vikram Cement (2008)14 SCC 58 and Pradeep Oil Corpn. v. MCD (2011) 5 SCC 270 and held that a party cannot be permitted to "blow hot and cold", "fast and loose" or "approbate and reprobate". Where one knowingly accepts the benefits of a contract or conveyance or an order, he is estopped to deny the validity or binding effect on him of such contract or conveyance or order. This rule is applied to do equity, however, it must not be applied in a manner as to violate the principles of right and good conscience.

26. In the case of V. Chandrasekaran and another v. Administrative Officer and others, (2012) 12 SCC 133, Hon'ble Supreme Court followed the law laid down in the case of Cauvery Coffee Traders, Mangalore (supra).

27. In the case of Rajasthan State Industrial Development and Investment Corporation and another v. Diamond & Gem Development Corporation Limited and another (2013) 5 SCC 470, Hon'ble Supeme Court again reiterated the law laid down in the case of Cauvery Coffee Traders, Mangalore (supra) and held in paragraph 23 as under :

"A party cannot claim anything more than what is covered by the terms of contract, for the reason that contract is a transaction between the two parties and has been entered into with open eyes and understanding the nature of contract.

Thus, contract being a creature of an agreement between two or more parties, has to be interpreted giving literal meanings unless, there is some ambiguity therein. The contract is to be interpreted giving the actual meaning to the words contained in the contract and it is not permissible for the court to make a new contract, however reasonable, if the parties have not made it themselves. It is to be interpreted in such a way that its terms may not be varied. The contract has to be interpreted without any outside aid. The terms of the contract have to be construed strictly without altering the nature of the contract, as it may affect the interest of either of the parties adversely". (emphasis supplied)

28. In the case of State of Punjab and others v. Dhanjit Singh Sandhu (2014) 15 SCC 144 (Paragraph Nos. 21, 22, 23, 24, 25 and 26) Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated the law laid down in its earlier decisions in the case of CIT v. MR. P. Firm Muar, AIR 1965 SC 1216, Maharashtra SRTC v. Balwant Regular Motor Service, AIR 1969 SC 329; R.N. Gosain v. Yashpal Dhir, (1992) 4 SCC 683 (Paragraph 10) ; P.R. Deshpande v. Maruti Balaram Haibatti, (1998) 6 SCC 507 and held that defaulting allottees cannot be allowed to approbate and reprobate by first agreeing to abide by the terms and conditions of allotment and later seeking to deny their liability as per the agreed terms. The doctrine of "approbate and reprobate" is only a species of estoppel. It is settled proposition of law that once an order has been passed, it is complied with, accepted by the other party and he derived the benefit out of it, he cannot challenge it on any ground.

29. In Zila Dastavej Lekhak Association & another Vs. State of U.P. & others (1996) AIR 2107 (paragraph 3), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the petitioners who obtained license under the Rules, cannot challenge the Rules under which they came to operate. The very source under which they came to operate either survives or perishes under the Rules. They cannot challenge that part of Rules which is unfavourable to them while at the same time, respecting the favorable part thereof since they have no independent right to de-hors the Rules.

30. The petitioners have voluntarily elected to accept the offer their appointment as teacher by absorption under Section 31-E(2) read with the aforequoted Government Order dated 6.6.2014 as an exception to the normal rule of appointment provided in Sections 12 and 13 of the Act, 1980. Therefore, cannot be permitted to challenge condition no. 4 of the Government Order. Their appointment is based on doctrine of election which is the Rule of estoppel or a Rule of equity. They cannot be permitted to "blow hot and cold", "fast and loose" or "approbate and reprobate". They have knowingly, willfully and with open eyes accepted the benefits of their appointment by absorption under the aforequoted Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016 as an exception to the normal rule of public employment and Sections 12 and 13 of the Act, 1980 resulting in a contract of service. Therefore, they cannot question the validity or binding effect of the aforesaid Government Orders.

Rules of Absorption

31. In Secretary, *State of Karnataka Vs. Uma Devi (2006) 4 SCC 1 (paras 3 & 4), the Constitution Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court laid down the law that regular appointment must be the rule. But sometimes this process is not adhered and the constitutional scheme of public employment is by-passed. A class of employment which can only be called "litigious employment", has risen like a phoenix seriously impairing the constitutional scheme. Whether the wide power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is intended to be used for a purpose certain to defeat the concept of social justice and equal opportunity for all, subject to affirmative action in the matter of public employment as recognised by our Constitution, has to be seriously pondered over. It is time, that the Courts desist from issuing orders preventing regular selection or recruitment at the instance of such persons and from issuing directions for continuance of those who have not secured regular appointments as per procedure established. In paragraphs 5 & 6 of the aforesaid judgment in the case of Umadevi (supra), Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"5. This Court has also on occasions issued directions which could not be said to be consistent with the Constitutional scheme of public employment. Such directions are issued presumably on the basis of equitable considerations or individualization of justice. The question arises, equity to whom? Equity for the handful of people who have approached the Court with a claim, or equity for the teeming millions of this country seeking employment and seeking a fair opportunity for competing for employment? When one side of the coin is considered, the other side of the coin, has also to be considered and the way open to any court of law or justice, is to adhere to the law as laid down by the Constitution and not to make directions, which at times, even if do not run counter to the Constitutional scheme, certainly tend to water down the Constitutional requirements. It is this conflict that is reflected in these cases referred to the Constitution Bench.

6. The power of a State as an employer is more limited than that of a private employer inasmuch as it is subjected to constitutional limitations and cannot be exercised arbitrarily (See Basu's Shorter Constitution of India). Article 309 of the Constitution gives the Government the power to frame rules for the purpose of laying down the conditions of service and recruitment of persons to be appointed to public services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or any of the States. That Article contemplates the drawing up of a procedure and rules to regulate the recruitment and regulate the service conditions of appointees appointed to public posts. It is well acknowledged that because of this, the entire process of recruitment for services is controlled by detailed procedure which specify the necessary qualifications, the mode of appointment etc. If rules have been made under Article309 of the Constitution, then the Government can make appointments only in accordance with the rules. The State is meant to be a model employer. The Employment Exchanges (Compulsory Notification of Vacancies) Act, 1959 was enacted to ensure equal opportunity for employment seekers. Though this Act may not oblige an employer to employ only those persons who have been sponsored by employment exchanges, it places an obligation on the employer to notify the vacancies that may arise in the various departments and for filling up of those vacancies, based on a procedure. Normally, statutory rules are framed under the authority of law governing employment. It is recognized that no government order, notification or circular can be substituted for the statutory rules framed under the authority of law. This is because, following any other course could be disastrous inasmuch as it will deprive the security of tenure and the right of equality conferred on civil servants under the Constitutional scheme. It may even amount to negating the accepted service jurisprudence. Therefore, when statutory rules are framed under Article 309 of the Constitution which are exhaustive, the only fair means to adopt is to make appointments based on the rules so framed." (emphasis supplied)

32. In Pratap Kishore Panda & others Vs. Agni Charan Das & others (2015) 17 SCC 789 (para 17), Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to the law laid down by the Constitution Bench in Umadevi (supra) and held that the doctrine is that if employment of persons is contrary to or de-hors the statutory provisions and / or Rules and Regulations, then equities will not have any play even if such persons have been rendering services for service years. The most that can be done for such employees is for the State Government to devise a scheme, as a one time measure, for their absorption so long as the Governing Statute or the Rules and Regulations are not infringed.

33. In State of U.P. Vs. Anand Kumar Yadav (2018) 13 SCC 560, the Hon'ble Supreme Court summarised the principles of rule of equity in public employment and Articles 14 & 16 of the Constitution of India.

34. In Brij Mohan Lal Vs. Union of India & others (2012) 6 SCC 502 (paras 172 & 173), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that absorption in service is not a right.

35. In Indu Shekhar Singh & others Vs. State of U.P. & others (2006) 8 SCC 129 (para 26), the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to its earlier judgment in R.N. Gosain Vs. Yashpal Dhir (1992) (4) SCC 683, Ramankutti Guptan Vs. Avara (1994) 2 SCC 642 and Bank of India & others Vs. O.P. Swarnakar & others (2003) 2 SCC 721 and held that once person exercises his right of option and obtain entry in service on the basis of election, he cannot be allowed to turn round that the conditions are illegal. Further more, there is no fundamental right in regard to counting of the services rendered in an autonomous body. The past services can be taken into consideration only when the Rules permit the same or where a special situation exits, which would entitle the employee to obtain such benefit of past service. The aforesaid judgment in the case of Indu Shekhar Singh (supra) involved the controversy with regard to availability of benefit of past service rendered prior to absorption of deputitionist.

36. In the case of Mrigank Johari & others Vs. Union of India (2017) 8 SCC 256 (para 33), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that since the appellants accepted the terms and conditions of the absorption, they could not plead otherwise.

37. In Union of India Vs Onkar Chand (1988) 9 SCC 298 (para 12), the Hon'ble Supreme Court while considering the benefit of length of service on deputation before absorption and held that opting permanent absorption, a person cannot claim benefits of absorption as well as the service put in time in the deputation quota.

38. In Union of India & others Vs. K Savitri & others (1998) 4 SCC 358 (paragraph 9), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"The service conditions of the redeployed employees under the Rules being governed by the provisions in the rules as well as the instructions issued from the Government of India from time to time and in view of the clear unambiguous language in para 11.1 of the instructions referred to above the conclusion is irresistible that the past services of the redeployed staff cannot be counted for seniority in the new organisation. The Tribunal, therefore, committed serious error in directing that the past services would counted for the seniority of the employees in the All India Radio." (emphasis supplied)

39. Principles of law on public employment as discussed in paras 31 to 38 above leaves no manner of doubt that regular employment must be a rule. The power of the State as an employer is more limited than that of a private employer inasmuch as it is subjected to constitutional limitation. But some times, this process is not adhered and constitutional scheme of public employment is by-passed as happened in the present case. Such employment is called "litigious employment". Brief history of litigation of the part time teachers on honorarium / petitioners have been briefly noted by the Division Bench in the order dated 27.5.2016 in the case of Dr. Deena Nath Yadav & 7 others (supra). The Government Order dated 6.6.2014 and amended Section 31-E of the Act, 1980 is a one time measure for absorption. Absorption in public employment is not a right. It is an exception to the normal rule of public employment. It is subject to conditions of absorption. Once the petitioners have knowingly and with open eyes exercised the option for their absorption in public employment, they cannot turn round and say that condition no. 4 is arbitrary. Past service as part time teacher on honorarium prior to absorption cannot be added in their length of service in the absence of any constitutional or legal right.

40. Discussion made above, leaves no manner of doubt that petitioners engagement was neither adhoc nor temporary. They were part timer. They have been recruited not under normal rule of recruitment but as an exception to it in terms of Government Order dated 6.6.2014 subject to conditions specified therein. Thus, petitioners have no constitutional or statutory right for inclusion in their length service the period spent on engagement on honorarium basis per lecture, prior to entering in government service by appointment under the Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016. Thus in the absence of any legally protected or judicially enforceable subsisting right the petitioners are not entitled for mandamus. Their challenge to condition no. 4 of the Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016 is not only totally merit-less but also not permissible. It is also hit by principles of approbate and reprobate. The condition no. 4 of the Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016 is neither invalid nor it is permissible for the petitioners to challenge it.

Conclusion:

41. The conclusions reached above are briefly summarised as under:-

(i) Clause 10.1(f) of the U.G.C. Regulation 2010 is applicable only to adhoc and temporary appointees which fall under a different class than the persons / petitioners who were engaged by the management on honorarium basis per lecture as permitted by Government Order dated 7.4.1998. These engagements were made without recommendation of any duly constituted Selection Committee under the Act, 1980 as also evident from clauses 6, 7 & 8 of the Government Order dated 7.4.1998. Their engagement was not as whole timer but as part timer on honorarium but per lecture @ Rs. 100/- subject to maximum honorarium of Rs. 5,000/- in a month.

(ii) It is settled law that a person cannot challenge the very source i.e. Statute, Rules or the Government Orders under which he was appointed. That apart, the appointment of the petitioner by absorption is an exception to the general Rule of Appointment in Government service which includes reservation also. Therefore, they cannot be allowed to challenge that condition of their appointment by absorption which they find unfavourable to them while retaining the favourable part. The very source under which they came to be appointed, either survives or perishes.

(iii) The petitioners have elected to accept their appointments by absorption under the aforequoted Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016. Their appointment is based on the doctrine of election which is Rule of estoppel which postulates that no party can accept and reject the same instrument and that 'a person cannot say at one time that a transaction is valid and thereby obtain some advantage to which he could only be entitled on the footing that it is valid and then turn round and say that it is void for the purpose of securing some other advantage.'

(iv) The petitioners have voluntarily elected to accept the offer their appointment as teacher by absorption under Section 31-E(2) read with the aforequoted Government Order dated 6.6.2014 as an exception to the normal rule of appointment provided in Sections 12 and 13 of the Act, 1980. Therefore, cannot be permitted to challenge condition no. 4 of the Government Order. Their appointment is based on doctrine of election which is the Rule of estoppel or a Rule of equity. They cannot be permitted to "blow hot and cold", "fast and loose" or "approbate and reprobate". They have knowingly, willfully and with open eyes accepted the benefits of their appointment by absorption under the aforequoted Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016 as an exception to the normal rule of public employment and Sections 12 and 13 of the Act, 1980 resulting in a contract of service. Therefore, they cannot question the validity or binding effect of the aforesaid Government Orders.

(v) Petitioners' engagement was neither adhoc nor temporary. They were part timer. They have been recruited not under normal rule of recruitment but as an exception to it in terms of Government Order dated 6.6.2014 subject to conditions specified therein. Thus, petitioners have no constitutional or statutory right for inclusion in their length service the period spent on engagement on honorarium basis per lecture, prior to entering in government service by appointment under the Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016. In the absence of any legally protected or judicially enforceable subsisting right the petitioners are not entitled for mandamus. Their challenge to condition no. 4 of the Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016 is not only totally merit-less but also not permissible. It is also hit by principles of approbate and reprobate. The condition no. 4 of the Government Orders dated 6.6.2014 and 2.5.2016 is neither invalid nor it is permissible for the petitioners to challenge it.

(vi) Principles of law on public employment as discussed in paras 31 to 38 above leaves no manner of doubt that regular employment must be a rule. The power of the State as an employer is more limited than that of a private employer inasmuch as it is subjected to constitutional limitation. But some times, this process is not adhered and constitutional scheme of public employment is by-passed as happened in the present case. Such employment is called "litigious employment". Brief history of litigation of the part time teachers on honorarium / petitioners have been briefly noted by the Division Bench in the order dated 27.5.2016 in the case of Dr. Deena Nath Yadav & 7 others (supra). The Government Order dated 6.6.2014 and amended Section 31-E of the Act, 1980 is a one time measure for absorption. Absorption in public employment is not a right. It is an exception to the normal rule of public employment. It is subject to conditions of absorption. Past service as part time teacher on honorarium prior to absorption cannot be added in their length of service in the absence of any constitutional or legal right.

42. For all the reasons aforestated, I do not find any merit in this writ petition. The petitioners are not entitled to any relief. Therefore, the writ petition fails and is hereby dismissed.

A. Service – Payment of salary - Uttar Pradesh Advocate General and Law Officers' Establishment Service Rules, 2009; The United Provinces Legal Remembrancer's and Law Officers Establishment Rules, 1942

The issue involved is with regards to the procedure for fixation of salary to the incumbents holding the post of Personal Assistant, when the status of the post of Personal Assistant along with certain other posts of the office of State Law Officers, Allahabad/Lucknow itself has been upgraded by giving higher Grade Pay. (Para 11)

According to respondents, petitioners were not in the employment of the State Government at the relevant date i.e. 01.01.2006 and thereafter, the pay of the petitioners was not to be revised according to the GO dated

08.12.2008. The fixation of their pay was to be made as per the procedure laid down in Para 11 of the GO dated 08.12.2008, wherein specific provision has been made by the State Government for fixation of the pay of those employees, who had been given promotion in the revised pay structure i.e., after the relevant cut-off date 01.01.2006. (Para 18, 19)

The Court held - The petitioners joined the post in question after 01.01.2006, whereas similarly situated employees of the establishment of this Court were engaged in the year 2008. They were accorded promotion as Review Officer and they had been extended the said benefit. All the employees working the State Government or establishment of this Court are getting the same pay scale as is admissible to the corresponding posts of the Central Government and the said decision was taken with effect from 01.01.1986 according to the report of Equivalence Committee, U.P. The State Government failed to take into consideration the aforesaid policy decision of the State Government and to provide same scale to the petitioners as is admissible to their counterparts working in the establishment of this Court as well as the State Government. There has been complete non-application of mind in not adhering the aforesaid policy decision as well as to the Division Bench judgment of this Court dated 29.07.1998, in the case of Private Secretaries Brotherhood, High Court Allahabad and another Vs. State of U.P. & Others, CMWP No. 17885 of 1996, which has since been affirmed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the judgement passed in Writ A No. 40762 of 1996. (Para 30)

Writ petition allowed.

Present petition is against order dated 25.10.2016, passed by Principal Secretary (Law), U.P. Government, Lucknow.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mahesh Chandra Tripathi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ramesh Upadhyay, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Rajan Upadhyay, Advocate appearing for the petitioners and Shri Sanjay Kumar Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel alongwith Shri Devesh Vikram, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. Srikant Srivastava and 6 others have approached this Court interalia for following reliefs:-

"(i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari calling for the records of the case and quashing the impugned order dated 25.10.2016 (Annexure No.38 to the present writ petition) passed by the respondent no.1, served on the petitioner no.1, on 31.3.2017 through letter dated 22.03.2017 (Annexure No.37-B to the present writ petition);

(ii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to fix and pay the salary of the petitioners in accordance with the fitment chart issued by the State Government by means of the Government Order dated 16.9.2010 (Annexure No.13 to the present writ petition) with effect from the date of promotion of the petitioners on the post of Personal Assistant;

(iii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to pay the salary of the petitioners in accordance with the payment of the salary as made to the employees of the High Court, Allahabad in pursuance of the Government Order dated 29.4.2019 (Annexure No.12 to the present writ petition)

(iv) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to pay the arrears of difference of amount with effect from the date of promotion of the petitioners on the post of the Personal Assistant alongwith the interest at the rate of 18% per annum."

3. In order to appreciate the controversy in the present writ petition, it is essential to notice salient facts of the case.

4. The petitioners were initially appointed on the post of Stenographer in the pay scale of Rs.4500-125-7000/- in the office of U.P. State Law Officers, High Court, Allahabad/Lucknow on 03.01.2006 and in pursuance of the appointment letters, they joined on the said post on 5.1.2006/6.1.2006. Thereafter, they were promoted on the post of the Personal Assistant in the pay scale of Rs.5500-175-9000/- on 10.07.2006. Meanwhile, the recommendations of the 6th Pay Commission with regard to the employees of the State Government were implemented by the State Government with effect from 01.01.2006 by means of Government Order dated 8.12.2008, wherein the pay scale of Rs.5500-175-9000/-, which was applicable for the post of Personal Assistant, had been replaced/substituted in the Pay Band of Rs.9300-34800/- Grade Pay of Rs.4200/- w.e.f. 01.1.2006.

5. The State Government issued Government order dated 8.8.2007, whereby the pay scale on the post of Personal Assistant (Additional Private Secretary) as well as Upper Division Assistant (Review Officer) working in the establishment of the High Court, Allahabad was upgraded from the pay scale of Rs.5500-9000/- to the pay scale of Rs.6500-10500/- with effect from 26.6.2007. Thereafter, by means of Government order dated 22.10.2008 the pay scale on the post of Personal Assistant (Additional Private Secretary) as well as Upper Division Assistant (Review Officer) of the office of U.P. State Law Officers, Allahabad/Lucknow, High Court, Allahabad was also upgraded to the pay scale of Rs.6500-10500/- with effect from 21.6.2007. The State Government had issued another Government order dated 8.12.2008, wherein the procedure for fixation of salary has been laid down in accordance with the recommendations of the 6th Pay Commission w.e.f. 01.01.2006 and when an employee is given promotion on a higher category post from the lower category post, in that event the fixation of the salary of such promottee will be made in accordance with the procedure laid down in Para-11 of the Government order dated 8.12.2008.

6. On 25.03.2010 another Government Order was issued wherein the State Government made provision that the payment of salary to the holder of such posts of the State Government, which are carrying the pay scale of Rs.6500-200-10500 (Pay Band-2 of Rs.9300-34800 along with the Grade Pay of Rs.4200/-), would be made in accordance with the Fitment Chart No.1 attached with the said Government Order, and in such cases, the posts carrying the pay scale of Rs.6500-200-10500 (Pay Band-2 of Rs.9300-34800/- along with Grade Pay of Rs.4200/-) have been upgraded subsequently after 01.01.2006 when the recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission were made applicable. Again by the Government order dated 29.4.2010 the Grade Pay and the Pay Band of the incumbents, holding the post of the Additional Private Secretary (Personal Assistant) and the Review Officer and the Review Officer (Accounts) in the establishment of the High Court, Allahabad were upgraded to the Grade Pay of Rs.4600/- in the Pay Band of Rs.9300-34800 with effect from 01.01.2006 by making the provision in Paragraph No.2 of the said Government order that the fixation of the salary would be made in accordance with the Fitment Chart given in Schedule-I and Schedule-II attached with the Government Order dated 29.04.2010.

7. Since the employees of the U.P. State Law Officers' Office have been granted parity with the employees of Allahabad High Court by the State Government vide Government Order dated 11.09.1974, another Government Order dated 16.09.2010 was issued by the State Government with regard to the Personal Assistants (Additional Private Secretaries), Review Officers and Review Officers (Accounts) of the U.P. State Law Officers' Office exactly on the same terms and conditions contained in the aforesaid Government Order dated 29.04.2010 pertaining to the Additional Private Secretaries (Personal Assistants), Review Officers and the Review Officers (Accounts) of the establishment of this Court by which the Pay Band and the Grade Pay of the incumbents holding the posts of the Review Officer, Personal Assistant (Additional Private Secretary) and the Review Officer (Accounts) in the U.P. State Law Officers' Office was upgraded to the Grade Pay of Rs.4600/- in the Pay Band of Rs.9300-34800/- with effect from 01.01.2006 by further making the provision under Paragraph No.2 of the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 that the fixation of their salary would be made in accordance with the Fitment Chart given in Schedule-I and Schedule-II attached with the Government Order dated 16.09.2010.

8. It is being claimed that the petitioners are entitled to be paid their salary in the upgraded Grade Pay of Rs.4600/- instead of Grade Pay of Rs.4200/- in the Pay Band of Rs.9300-34800/-. After implementation of the recommendations of the 6th Pay Commission w.e.f. 01.01.2006, the classification of various categories of posts made by Government order dated 7.10.2003 have also been re-determined by the State Government on 14.5.2012, wherein the status and rank of the concerned posts are determined on the basis of Pay Scales/Pay Band and Grade Pay, which have been assigned to the concerned posts. Till the post of Personal Assistant of the office of U.P. State Law Officers was carrying the Grade Pay of Rs.4200/- in the Grade Pay of Rs.9300-34800/-, they were classified as Group-C Category posts and immediately after the posts of the Personal Assistant etc. had been upgraded by assigning the Grade Pay of Rs.4600/- in the Pay Band of Rs.9300-34800/-, automatically the posts of the Personal Assistant etc. of the said office became classified as Group-B category posts.

9. Ultimately, the petitioners were promoted on the post of Private Secretary (Grade-I) in the Pay Band of Rs.15600-39100/- Grade Pay of Rs.5400/- on 29.9.2016. They joined on the post of Private Secretary (Grade-I) on 30.9.2016 and since then they are continuously working on the post of Private Secretary Grade-1. The petitioners are claiming similar treatment in the matter of payment of salary at par with the comparable employees working in the establishment of this Court.

10. The conditions of service of the employees of the office of U.P. State Law Officers' High Court, Allahabad/Lucknow are regulated by means of Service Rules known as "The Uttar Pradesh Advocate

General and Law Officers' Establishment Service Rules, 2009", which came into effect from 11.11.2009, as amended from time to time. Earlier their services were regulated by means of Rules known as "The United Provinces Legal Remembrancer's and Law Officers Establishments Rules, 1942, as amended from time to time.

11. Now the bone of contention in the present dispute is as to what would be the procedure for fixation of the salary to the incumbents holding the post of Personal Assistant, when the status of the post of Personal Assistant alongwith certain other posts of the office of State Law Officers, Allahabad/Lucknow itself has been upgraded by giving higher Grade Pay of Rs.4600/- instead of Grade Pay of Rs.4200/- in the Pay Band of Rs.9300-34800/-.

12. In this backdrop, Shri Ramesh Upadhyay, learned Senior Advocate, appearing for the petitioners submits that ever since 11.9.1974 the employees of the office of the U.P. State Law Officers are being treated to be similarly situated with the employees of the High Court holding corresponding post in pursuance of the concept of parity as provided in the Government order dated 11.9.1974 in respect of their source and method of recruitment etc. and they are getting the same pay scales and allowances as is being paid to the employees of the High Court holding corresponding posts.

13. It is submitted that by the Government Orders dated 25.03.2010, 29.04.2010 and 16.09.2010 the incumbents of the establishment of the High Court, Allahabad and the U.P. State Law Officers' Office holding the posts of Personal Assistant (Additional Private Secretary), Review Officer and Review Officer (Accounts) became entitled for the payment of their salary by making the payment of Rs.17,140/-, which is the minimum of the Grade Pay of Rs.4600/- in the Pay Band of Rs.9300-34800/-. However, as per Government Order dated 31.01.2011 it is evident that the establishment of the High Court, Allahabad referred the matter for clarification to the State Government for payment of the salary by making the payment at par with the Review Officers appointed through direct appointment process in pursuance of the Government Order dated 29.04.2010 to those Review Officers of the establishment of the High Court, Allahabad, who were promoted on the promotional post of Review Officer on or after 01.01.2006. Initially the same was rejected by the State Government by means of the aforesaid Government Order dated 31.01.2011 on the same basis on which the claim of the petitioners has been rejected by means of the impugned order dated 25.10.2016 by taking the shelter of the same Paragraph No.11 of the Government Order dated 08.12.2008, but later on, when the concerned Review Officers of the establishment of High Court, Allahabad agitated the matter at various appropriate levels of the High Court as well as the State Government, ultimately, with the consent of the State Government the same was made available to them under the order of Hon'ble The Chief Justice of the High Court dated 02.09.2011 by giving the minimum of the Grade Pay of Rs.4600/- in the Pay Band of Rs.9300-34800, i.e. Rs.17,140/- with effect from the date of their promotion on the post of the Review Officer from the post of the Assistant Review Officer, in pursuance of the aforesaid Government Order dated 29.04.2010.

14. It is sought to be contended that a large number of similarly situated employees of the establishment of High Court, Allahabad have already been granted the benefits of the pay fixation by giving them the minimum of Grade Pay of Rs.4600/- in the Pay Band of Rs.9300-34,800/- in accordance with the Government order dated 29.4.2019 and inspite of the parity having been granted with the staff of the High Court, the said benefit with effect from the date of their promotion on the post of the Personal Assistant (Additional Private Secretary) was not made available to them even after the issuance of the aforesaid Government Order dated 16.09.2010. The petitioner no.2 made an application under the Right To Information Act, 2005 dated 18.11.2011. Consequently, the Central Public Information Officer, High Court, Allahabad provided the following information to him by his letter No. 9381/R.T.I./751/2011/AHC, dated 05.01.2012: -

"With reference to your application dated 18/11/2011 in which you have sought following information under Right to Information Act, 2005, please find enclosed herewith the following information: -

Information regarding officials working in this Hon'ble Court namely Sri Santosh Kumar (Emp.No.7305), Akhil Kumar Kureel (Emp.No.7306) and Sanjeev Kumar Mishra (Emp.No.7327) as Review Officers, High Court, Allahabad, are as under:

1. Attested copies of the Appointment and Promotion Letter.

2. Attested copies of all pages of Service Book with posting.

3. Attested copies of Pay Fixation Chart after promotion from the post of Assistant Review Officer to Review Officer.

4. Attested copies of Option Form of Pay Fixation.

Attested copies of the G.O. and letter from which the option was opted to fix the pay."

15. It is contended that after receiving the aforementioned details the petitioners have also made detailed representation dated 25.7.2016 to the competent authority and requested for fixation of pay in accordance with the provisions of Fitment Chart as per Government orders dated 25.3.2010 and 16.9.2010 by fixing their salary at the minimum stage of Rs.17,140/- w.e.f. 10.7.2006 in the case of the petitioner nos.2 to 7 (the date on which they joined on the promoted post of Personal Assistant) and with effect from 15/16.3.2007 in the case of the petitioner no.1 (the date on which he joined on the promoted post of Personal Assistant). The aforesaid representation was forwarded by learned Advocate General, U.P to the State Government on 31.7.2016/3.8.2016 with categorical term that the grievance of the petitioners is genuine and the same is required to be considered at the end of the State Government but in most arbitrary manner by the impugned order dated 25.10.2016 the respondents have denied the claim set up by the petitioners by holding that the petitioners were appointed after 1.1.2006 or promoted after the said date. Consequently, they are entitled only for the payment of the salary, which was applicable without upgradation of the post and for which the reliance has been placed on paragraph no.11 of the Government order dated 8.12.2008.

16. It is submitted that earlier the Association of the Private Secretaries working in the office of the U.P. State Law Officers preferred Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.17885 of 1996 claiming that they were being paid salary in the scale of Rs.2000-3200 while the Private Secretaries working in the establishment of the High Court were getting the salary in the pay scale of Rs.3000-4500 and since both the establishments have to be treated at par in accordance with the decision of the State Government itself, the same pay scale be made applicable to them. The aforesaid writ petition was allowed by a Division Bench of this Court on 29.7.1998, with following observations:-

"From the year 1988 all the employees, whether of the State Government or of the High Court, are getting the same pay scale as is admissible to the corresponding posts of the Central Government and the said decision was taken with effect from 1.1.1986, according to the report of Equivalence Committee, U.P.

In view of the fact that ever since the issuance of the Government order dated 11.9.1974 the employees working in the High Court as well as the employees working in the office of the U.P. State Law Officers were being treated similarly in the matter of post and pay scale etc., we are of the view that the petitioners are also entitled to the same pay scale of Rs.3000-4500 as carrying on the same work and possess the same qualification. The method of recruit is also similar. The non-payment of the same salary to the petitioners is arbitrary and violative of Article 14 & 16 of the Constitution of India as well as assigned to Article 39(D) of the Constitution. It is directed to the respondents to fix the salary of the Private Secretaries working in the office of the U.P. State Law Officers, Allahabad/Lucknow in the revised pay scale of Rs.3000-4500 from the date of filing of this writ petition. We have refrained ourselves from granting the same pay scale to the petitioners with effect from 1.1.1986 because it will cost a great burden on the Government.

With the aforesaid direction the writ petition is allowed."

17. It is submitted that the aforesaid judgment was subjected to challenge before Hon'ble Apex Court in Civil Appeal No. 2732 of 1999 (State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Private Secretaries Brotherhood and ors) and the same was dismissed on 28.11.2007. Again, the State of Uttar Pradesh preferred a Review Petition (C) No.877 of 2008 in the said Civil Appeal and the same was also dismissed on 23.7.2008. The judgment inter parties i.e. State and the Private Secretaries working in the office of the U.P. State Law Officers had become final. The employees working in the Office of U.P. State Law Officers at Allahabad as well as at Lucknow are entitled to be treated similarly vis-a-vis the employees working in the establishment of this Court on the corresponding posts as held by a Division Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No.17885 of 1996 and affirmed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Civil Appeal No. 2732 of 1999.

18. On the other hand, Shri Sanjay Kumar Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel alongwith Shri Devesh Vikram, learned Standing Counsel, has vehemently placed reliance and reiterated the averments made in the counter affidavit dated 25.8.2017 filed on behalf of respondent nos.1 and 2 sworn by Arun Kumar Rai, Under Secretary, Law Department, U.P. Secretariat, Lucknow, wherein it has been stated that so far as the employees of the State Government, who were appointed on any post on 1.1.2006 or after 1.1.2006, is concerned, the right of exercising the option in the matter, given in the paragraph nos.10 and 11 of the counter affidavit, is not available to them. The employees of the said category will be entitled to receive their salary only in the revised pay structure, which was made effective with effect from 01.1.2006 by means of the Government order dated 8.12.2008. From the documents brought on record in the shape of annexures filed alongwith the present writ petition, it is evident that the petitioners were not in the employment of the State Government at the relevant date i.e. 01.1.2006 and thereafter, the pay of the petitioners was not to be revised according to the Government order dated 8.12.2008, rather the payment of salary of the petitioners was to be made in the Pay Band/Grade Pay as mentioned in the revised pay structure, which was made effective from 01.1.2006 by the Government order dated 8.12.2008 treating them to have been appointed on the post carrying the Pay Band/Grade Pay as against the post of the concerned category. Admittedly, the petitioners came in the government service on 05.1.2006/6.1.2006.

19. It is submitted that the petitioners were promoted to the post of Personal Assistant on 10.7.2006. The petitioner no.1 had assumed the charge of the post of Personal Assistant after his promotion on 15.3.2007. So far as the petitioners are concerned, they were appointed after 01.1.2006 and thereafter they were promoted on the post of Personal Assistant in the month of July, 2006/March, 2007. The fixation of their pay is to be made according to the procedures laid down in paragraph no.11 of the Government order dated 8.12.2008, wherein specific provision has been made by the State Government for fixation of the pay of such categories of employees. Para-11 of the Government order dated 8.12.2008 specifically deals with the matter of pay fixation of those employees, who had been given promotion in the revised pay structure i.e., after the relevant cut-off date 1.1.2006. The fixation of pay of the petitioners after promotion on the post of Personal Assistant was to be made strictly in accordance with the procedure laid down in para-11 of the Government order dated 8.12.2008. The petitioners cannot be allowed to continue to draw the pay on the post of Stenographer in the un-revised pay scale. They are not entitled to claim that they should be allowed to continue to draw their pay on the post of Stenographer in the unrevised pay scale. Similarly, the petitioners are also not entitled to be given the option of making the choice that the fixation of the pay be made with regard to them in the revised pay structure only after their promotion from the post of Stenographer to the post of Personal Assistant.

20. It has been submitted that the Grade Pay of the post of the Additional Private Secretary of the office of U.P. State Law Officers, High Court, Allahabad/Lucknow was upgraded with effect from 01.1.2006. The petitioners were promoted on the post of Personal Assistant in the month of July, 2006/March, 2007 and therefore, they are entitled for the benefit of the upgraded Grade Pay of Personal Assistant by making the fixation of their salary on the said post in accordance with the provisions made in Para-11 of the Government order dated 8.12.2008. In accordance with the provision of Para no.1 of the Government order dated 8.12.2008 the right to exercise the option was available only to those employees, who were working in the establishment of the High Court as on 01.01.2006. If any benefit of right to exercise the option has been provided to any employee of the establishment of the High Court, who came into service of the establishment of the High Court after 01.01.2006, the same is contrary to the provisions of Para no.11 of the Government order dated 8.12.2008.

21. By the Government order dated 24.12.2009 a provision has been made for fixation of the pay regarding those posts wherein the pay scales were upgraded after 01.1.2006 and by the Government order dated 29.6.2019 the provision has been made for providing opportunity to fill up the revised option form for the said category of posts. The provisions of the Government orders dated 24.12.2009 and 29.6.2010 are not applicable to those posts, wherein the pay scales were upgraded w.e.f. 1.1.2006. The post of Additional Private Secretary has been upgraded w.e.f. 1.1.2006 and as such, the provision of the said Government orders are not applicable to the petitioners. According to the provisions of the Government order dated 29.6.2010 they were not entitled to be allowed to fill up the revised option form. The petitioners were given appointment for the first time after 01.01.2006, therefore, they cannot be permitted to avail the opportunity to exercise the option in the revised pay structure. It has been submitted that the grant of parity to the petitioners does not mean that if any benefit has been given to the employees of the High Court in a wrongful manner, contrary to the provisions of the relevant rules, the same should also be made available to the petitioners and the procedure followed in the matter of concerned Review Officers of the High Court, cannot be followed in the matter of the petitioners and the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

22. The Court has proceeded to examine the record in question and also perused the documents provided by the High Court under the Right to Information Act, 2005 and finds that in the Office Order No.2556 dated 09.07.2008 issued by the establishment of this Court, which consists of 126 persons, the names of Santosh Kumar and Akhil Kumar Kureel find place at Sl. No.114 and 117 respectively by which they were for the first time appointed on the post of the Assistant Review Officer in the establishment of the High Court, Allahabad, i.e. much after 01.01.2006. Similarly, from the Office Order No.2302 dated 09.06.2009 it is evident that Sanjeev Kumar Mishra was allowed to join on the post of the Assistant Review Officer in the establishment of this Court. Thereafter, by the Office Order No.6542 dated 27.11.2010 the Assistant Review Officers namely Santosh Kumar and Akhil Kumar Kureel, were promoted on the posts of Review Officer in the establishment of this Court and their names find place at Sl. No. 63 and 67, respectively. Similarly, Sanjeev Kumar Mishra was also promoted from the post of Assistant Review Officer to the post of Review Officer by Office Order No.9594 dated 04.03.2011 in which his name has been mentioned at Sl. No. 3 in Column-B of the same.

23. From the service books of Santosh Kumar, Sanjeev Kumar Mishra and Akhil Kumar Kureel, which have been brought on record as Annexure Nos. 29-A, 29-B and 29-C to the writ petition, it is evident that in pursuance of the order of Hon'ble the Chief Justice, High Court, Allahabad dated 02.09.2011, the salary of the Review Officers of the establishment of the High Court, Allahabad namely Santosh Kumar, Akhil Kumar Kureel and Sanjeev Kumar Mishra, after assuming the charge of the post of Review Officer has been fixed at Rs.17,140/- which is the minimum of the Pay Band of Rs.9300-34800/- + Grade Pay of Rs. 4600/- (i.e. minimum in the Pay Band Rs.12540 + Grade Pay of Rs.4600 = 17140/-). Similarly, from the perusal of the revised Pay Fixation of the Review Officers of establishment of the Court, Santosh Kumar, Sanjeev Kumar Mishra and Akhil Kumar Kureel, it is evident that on assuming the charge of the post of Review Officer in the establishment of this Court the salary of Santosh Kumar, Sanjeev Kumar Mishra and Akhil Kumar Kureel has been fixed at Rs.17,140/- which is the minimum of the Pay Band of Rs. 9300-34800/- + Grade Pay of Rs.4600/- (i.e. minimum in the Pay Band of Rs. 12540/- + Grade Pay Rs. 4600/- =17,140/-). From the perusal of Annexure Nos. 31-A, 31-B and 31-C of the writ petition, which are the copy of the Revised Option Form of Sanjeev Kumar Mishra, Akhil Kumar Kureel and Santosh Kumar, Review Officers of this Court, it is evident that in compliance of order of Hon'ble the Chief Justice dated 02.09.2011 they opted their revised option in view of the 6th Pay Commission from the respective date of their promotion on the post of Review Officer.

24. Annexure No.32 of the writ petition, which is part of the information provided to the petitioner no. 2 under the Right to Information Act, 2005, clearly shows that by its own letter dated 24.08.2011 the State Government had communicated its decision to the Registrar General of this Court along with the other Government Orders dated 29.06.2010 and 24.12.2009 that the salary of the concerned Review Officers of the High Court may be fixed and paid to them on the basis of which the concerned Review Officers have already been provided the minimum of the Grade Pay of Rs.4600/- in the Pay Band of Rs.9300-34800/-, i.e. Rs.17,140/-. Similarly, from the minutes of the proceedings and deliberations etc. at various stages in between the establishment of the High Court and the concerned departments of the State Government, from time to time it is evident that whatever action has been taken in the establishment of the High Court for fixation of the salary of the concerned Review Officers of the establishment of High Court at Rs.17,140/- , which is the minimum of the Grade Pay of Rs. 4600/- in the Pay Band of Rs. 9300-34800/-, the same is based upon the order of Hon'ble the Chief Justice, High Court, Allahabad dated 02.09.2011 and the order of the Hon'ble the Chief Justice dated 02.09.2011 is based upon the own decision of the State Government contained in the relevant Government Orders issued from time to time, by the State Government itself.

25. The present writ petition has been filed for similar treatment in the matter of payment of salary to the petitioners at par with the comparable employees working in the establishment of this Court. The employees and officers working in the office of the U.P. State Law Officers, Allahabad/Lucknow under the control of Advocate General, U.P., High Court, Allahabad, have been granted parity by the State Government in the matter of pay scales, allowances and other conditions of service with the employees and officers working in the establishment of this Court, Allahabad by means of Government Order dated 11.09.1974. Similarly, the employees and officers working in the establishment of High Court, Allahabad have been granted parity with the employees and officers of the U.P. Secretariat, Lucknow by means of the Government Order dated 20.03.1968.

26. The issue of grant of the parity to the employees of the U.P. State Law Officers' Office by the Government Order dated 11.09.1974 with the employees and officers of the High Court, Allahabad, has already been settled by the Division Bench Judgment of this Court dated 29th July, 1998 passed in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 17885 of 1996 (Private Secretaries Brotherhood & others vs. The State of U.P. & The Advocate General, U.P.), wherein the Division Bench, after considering the Government Orders issued from time to time, as well as the judgments of this Court passed in earlier writ petitions, recorded a categorical finding that the employees working in the office of U.P. State Law Officers both at Allahabad as well as at Lucknow, are entitled to be treated similarly with the employees working in this Court on the corresponding post. This judgment of the Division Bench was subjected to challenge before the Hon'ble Supreme Court by way of Civil Appeal No. 2732 of 1999, which was dismissed vide judgment dated 28th November, 2007. The review application filed before the Hon'ble Supreme Court being Review Petition (C) No. 877 of 2008 was also dismissed vide order dated 23rd July, 2008.

27. From the perusal of the aforesaid judgment dated 29.07.1998 it is also evident that earlier the Division Bench of this Court at Lucknow while allowing Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 254 of 1984 filed by the State Law Officers' Ministerial Staff Association, Allahabad/Lucknow vide judgment and order dated 31.03.1986 had held that the Government Order dated 11.09.1974 was issued to give effect to the provisions of Article 39 (d) read with Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. Similarly, while allowing Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 21815 of 1987 (State Law Officers' Ministerial Officers' Association and others vs. the State of U.P. and others) on 26.02.1988 the Division Bench of this Court held that the employees of the High Court, Allahabad and the employees of the U.P. State Law Officers' Office are the same. Both the said judgment and orders dated 31.03.1986 and 26.02.1988 have already been attained finality as the State Government had decided not to file any Special Leave Petition before Hon'ble the Supreme Court against the same.

28. The aforesaid Division Bench judgment dated 29.7.1998 passed in Private Secretaries Brotherhood's case (supra) was followed by this Court in Writ A No.40762 of 1996 (Personal Assistants Brotherhood, Office of U.P. State and another vs. State of UP and others) and learned Single Judge had proceeded to allow the writ petition on 23.5.2011 with following observations:-

"From the aforesaid it is clear that the Chief Secretary was asked to file an affidavit justifying the non-payment of salary to the petitioners at par with Personal Assistants working in the establishment of this High Court with effect from the date of the institution of the writ proceedings. The Court found that such parity in fact has been provided w.e.f.

21.06.2007. A pointed query was made as to what has happened between the date of filing of the writ petition and 21.06.2007 on the basis whereof such parity could be refused from the date as has been prayed in this petition.

Today an affidavit has been filed by the Chief Secretary and it has been stated that in respect of all the three issues so framed i.e. a, b and c, there has been no change between 16.12.1996 to 21.06.2007. Except for reiterating what has been stated earlier, no fresh material has been brought on record which can lead to a conclusion that the State is justified in not granting the parity in the pay scale from the date the writ petition was filed i.e. 16.12.1996 as has been done in the case of Private Secretaries Brotherhood & others vs. The State of U.P. & The Advocate General, U.P. (Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 17885 of 1996).

Since there is absolutely no justification forthcoming from the State to deny such parity from the date aforesaid and it being an admitted position that the present petitioners have been granted the said parity from 31.07.2007, this Court finds little or no justification to refuse such parity to the petitioners from the date of the institution of this writ petition like in the case of Private Secretaries Brotherhood & others (Supra) i.e. from 16.12.1998.

Accordingly, the present writ petition is allowed. The respondents are directed to grant the pay-scale to the members of petitioners' brotherhood at par with those working on the similar posts in the establishment of the High Court, Allahabad, w.e.f. 16.12.1996. Arrears in that regard may be released within three months from the date a certified copy of this order is filed before the authority concerned."

29. The State of Uttar Pradesh had assailed the said judgment passed by learned Single Judge by preferring Special Appeal No.1298 of 2011 (State of UP and another vs. Personal Assistants Brotherhood, Office of U.P. & another) and a Division Bench of this Court had proceeded dispose of the Special Appeal on 14.8.2018 with following directions:-

"The submission of the petitioners before learned Single Bench was that employees working in the Office of U.P. State Law Officers at Allahabad as well as at Lucknow are entitled to be treated similarly vis-a-vis the employees working in the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad on the corresponding posts as held by a Division Bench of this Court that came to be affirmed by the Supreme Court in Civil Appeal No. 2732 of 1999. The Division Bench held that the Members of the respondent-petitioners' Brotherhood are required to be treated at par with the employees working in the High Court at Allahabad on the corresponding posts. In spite of the judgment aforesaid, the Government of Uttar Pradesh did not extend the pay-scales applicable for the Members of the respondent-petitioner's Brotherhood at par with the employees of the High Court. During pendency of the writ petition, the pay-scale aforesaid was allowed but w.e.f. 31.07.2007. Learned Single Bench after considering the entire issue arrived at the conclusion that Members of the respondent-petitioner's Brotherhood are also entitled for grant of the pay-scales concerned w.e.f. 16.12.1996. A direction, thus, was issued accordingly with entitlement of the Members of the respondent-petitioner's Brotherhood for arrears accruing on grant of the pay-scales w.e.f. the date referred above.

In appeal, the argument advanced by learned counsel for the appellant-State is that Single Bench erred while awarding the arrears to the Members of the respondent-petitioner's Brotherhood. It is stated that issue with regard to the entitlement of the pay-scale with parity to the employees of the High Court is pending consideration and that consume some time, therefore, no need was there to award the arrears.

Having considered the arguments advanced, we deem it appropriate to modify the order passed by learned Single Bench to the extent of grant of arrears accrued.

Accordingly, the appeal is disposed of with directions as under:-

1. The members of the respondent-petitioners' Brotherhood shall be entitled for grant of pay-scales applicable to the employees working with the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad on the corresponding posts w.e.f. 16.12.1996.

2. Such employees shall be entitled for fixation of their pay in the pay-scale aforesaid on notional basis uptil 31.07.2007.

3. The pay of the employees concerned shall be revised accordingly and they shall also be entitled for revision of pay-scales at par with the employees of the High Court holding the posts corresponding.

4. The members of the respondent-petitioners' Brotherhood shall be entitled for arrears, if any, accruing to them subsequent to 31.07.2007, the date from which the appellant-State decides to grant the pay-scale at par with the High Court's employees."

30. Admittedly the petitioners joined the post in question after 1.1.2006, whereas similarly situated employees of the establishment of this Court were engaged in the year 2008. They were accorded promotion as Review Officer and they had been extended the said benefit. All the employees working in the State Government or in the establishment of this Court are getting the same pay scale as is admissible to the corresponding posts of the Central Government and the said decision was taken with effect from 01.1.1986 according to the report of Equivalence Committee, U.P. The State Government failed to take into consideration the aforesaid policy decision of the State Government and to provide same pay scale to the petitioners as is admissible to their counterparts working in the establishment of this Court as well as the State Government. Consequently the reasons assigned in the impugned order, ignoring the said policy decision of the State Government, cannot be legally sustained. There has been complete non-application of the mind in not adhering the policy decision of the State Government providing for pay scales at par with the counterparts working in the establishment of this Court as well as to the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of P.S. & P.A. Brotherhood, High Court Allahabad and another v. State of U.P. & Others (Supra), which has since been affirmed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the judgment passed in Writ A No.40762 of 1996. Therefore, the stand of the respondents is absolutely illegal and unjust.

31. In view of above the impugned order dated 25.10.2016 passed by the respondent no.1 served on petitioner no.1 on 31.3.2017 through letter dated 22.3.2017 cannot sustain and the same is accordingly set aside.

32. Consequently, the writ petition is allowed and the respondents are directed to fix and pay the salary of the petitioners in accordance with the fitment chart given in Schedule-I and Schedule-II attached with the Government Order dated 16.09.2010 with effect from the date of their promotion on the post of Personal Assistant at par with those working on the similar posts in the establishment of this Court. Arrears in that regard may be released within three months from the date a certified copy of this order is filed before the authority concerned.

Writ Petitions allowed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal,J.)

1. Heard Sri Amit Kumar Singh, Advocate, for petitioners and Sri V.K. Upadhyay, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Arun Prakash, Advocate, for respondent-University.

2. The Writ Petition No. 21669 of 2004 (hereinafter referred to as "WP-1") under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed by sole petitioner, Ram Jatan, being aggrieved by order dated 26.11.1996 (Annexure-5 to WP-1) imposing punishment of dismissal and order dated 07.01.2004 (Annexure-9 to WP-1) communicating him that his appeal has been rejected and punishment imposed vide order dated 26.11.1996 has been upheld.

3. Facts in brief, giving rise to present dispute, as pleaded in WP-1, are that petitioner was appointed as Farrash in 1977 in Banaras Hindu University (hereinafter referred to as "BHU") and posted to work in Vishwanath Temple situated in Campus of BHU. An incident of theft occurred in the intervening night of 26/27.03.1996 in the Garbh-Grih of Vishwanath Temple situated in Campus of BHU in respect whereof a First Information Report was lodged under Sections 457, 380, 411 I.P.C. by Ram Auatar, an employee of BHU against petitioner and four others. Petitioner was placed under suspension vide order dated 29.03.1996 passed by Registrar, BHU exercising power under Section 4(5)(a) of Statute of BHU. A charge-sheet dated 10/12.04.1996 was issued containing a charge that he was indulged in theft, in the Temple, committed on 26/27.03.1996 and in the past also he was indulged in such type of thefts which he has admitted. Entire charge levelled against petitioner reads as under:

''1. दिनांक 26/27 मार्च, 1996 को श्री राम जतन सिंह, फर्रास, श्री विश्वनाथ मन्दिर के अन्य व्यक्तियों के साथ चोरी करने के उद्देश्य से श्री विश्वनाथ मन्दिर, काशी हिन्दू विश्वविद्यालय के गर्भ–गृह के अन्दर दाखिल हुए।

2. विश्वविद्यालय के सुरक्षा सैनिकों एवं स्थानीय पुलिस के संयुक्त छापे के दौरान श्री राम जतन सिंह, फर्रास, अन्य लोगों के साथ गर्भ–गृह से चोरी करते हुए रंगे हाथ पकड़ा गया एवं रू0 1808.50 नकद बरामद हुआ।

3. पुलिस द्वारा पूछ–ताछ के दौरान श्री राम जतन सिंह, फर्रास इस तरह की चोरियों में पिछले सात–आठ वर्षो से (हर मंगलवार) को लिप्त रहना स्वीकार किया है और यह भी स्वीकार किया है कि इस कार्य के लिए उनके पास डुप्लीकेट चाबियां हैं।

4. चोरी की उक्त घटनाओं के पश्चात, पकड़े जाने पर बरामद की गयी धनराशि, ताला–चाबी, गन्नी बैग आदि को लंका पुलिस थाना के कब्जे में कर दिया गया। श्री राम जतन सिंह, फर्रास को लंका पुलिस द्वारा जेल भेज दिया गया।

5. श्री राम जतन सिंह, फर्रास का उपरोक्त प्रकार का आचरण घोर आपत्तिजनक है जिससे विश्वविद्यालय की पवित्रता व गरिमा पर आघात लगा है और उनका इस प्रकार का आचरण गैर शिक्षण कर्मचारी की सेवा शर्तें की आचरण संहिता / नियम 2.1 के प्रतिकूल है।''

"1. On 26/27 March, 1996 Sri Ram Jatan Singh, Farrash, along with some other persons associated with Sri Vishwanath Temple, entered the Garbhagrih (sanctum sanctorum) of Sri Vishwanath Temple, Banaras Hindu University with an intent to commit theft.

2. During the joint raid of security personnel of the University and the local police, Sri Ram Jatan Singh, Farrash was caught red handed along with other accomplishes while committing theft in the Garbhagrih and a cash amount of Rs 1808.50 was recovered.

3. While being interrogated by the police, Sri Ram Jatan Singh, Farrash has confessed his involvement in similar thefts over the past seven-eight years (on every Tuesday) and also having duplicate keys for the said act.

4. On being arrested for the aforesaid theft incidents, recovered amounts, locks & keys, gunny bags, etc were given into possession of the Lanka police station. Sri Ram Jatan Singh, Farrash was sent to jail by the police of P.S. Lanka.

5. The aforesaid type of conduct of Sri Ram Jatan Singh, Farrash is highly objectionable having undermined the sanctity and dignity of the University and this type of conduct of his is contrary to the Conduct Code/ Rule 2.1 of the Service Conditions of the Non-teaching Employees." (English Translation by Court)

4. Petitioner was required to submit reply within ten days. In the charge-sheet, there was no reference to any evidence relied in support of charges, whether oral or documentary.

5. Petitioner submitted reply dated 19.04.1996 (Annexure-3 to WP-1) wherein he denied all the charges and also stated that relevant documents and statements, which are foundation of charge, have not been supplied, therefore, the same may be made available to him so that he may give a further effective reply. He also stated that he shall give his evidence and cross-examine witnesses produced against him in support of charge.

6. It appears that besides petitioner, three other employees were also similarly charged and BHU constituted an Inquiry Committee consisting of Prof. Janardan Singh, Department of Entomology and Agricultural Zoology, Dr. M.N.P. Srivastava, Reader, Faculty of Law; and, Dr. Babu Lal Mishra, Honorary Manager of Vishwanath Temple and also clubbed all the inquiries together which comprised of petitioner and Shiv Charan, Farrash, Rama Shankar Singh Yadav, Chowkidar and Lal Bahadur Singh, Chowkidar.

7. Vide letter dated 23.07.1996, Assistant Registrar (Administration)-II and Secretary, Inquiry Committee informed petitioner and others that Inquiry Committee shall hold its meeting on 2nd and 3rd, August 1996 at 2.00 PM in the Chamber of Chairman, i.e., Prof. Janardan Singh.

8. Petitioner and other charged employees appeared before Inquiry Committee on the dates, scheduled and informed, as above, when no evidence was recorded by Inquiry Committee and petitioner and others were only required to sign some papers and thereafter they were asked to leave campus. No further inquiry was held and no date, time or place was fixed. Instead, Inquiry Committee submitted inquiry report dated 14.10.1996. Thereafter petitioner was straightway served with an order of dismissal dated 26.11.1996 (Annexure-5 to WP-1).

9. Petitioner appealed against dismissal order vide representation dated 01.01.1997 in which he specifically pleaded that no adequate opportunity of defence was provided and no proper inquiry was conducted.

10. In the meantime, petitioner was also tried in Criminal Case No. 596 of 1996 in the Court of Special Chief Judicial Magistrate, Varanasi, who vide judgment dated 19.02.2000 convicted petitioner under Section 457, 380 and 401 I.P.C. and awarded four years rigorous imprisonment (hereinafter referred to as "R.I.") and 1000/- fine under Section 457 I.P.C., three and half years R.I. and fine of Rs. 1,000/- under Section 380 I.P.C. and 2 years R.I. and fine of Rs. 500/- under Section 411 I.P.C. Criminal Appeal No. 52 of 2000 was preferred by petitioner which came to be heard along with other appeals by Sri T.N. Pandey, Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 13, Varanasi who allowed appeal vide judgment dated 10.04.2003, set aside order of sentence awarded by Magistrate and held that there was no credible evidence and circumstances to convict petitioner, hence, judgment of Special Chief Judicial Magistrate dated 19.02.2000 was set aside.

11. The above judgment of Appellate Court was communicated by petitioner to Registrar, BHU vide letter dated 02.09.2003. However, vide letter dated 07.01.2004, Deputy Registrar (Administration)-II has informed petitioner that his appeal has been rejected and earlier order of punishment has been maintained.

12. Respondents have filed counter affidavit contesting WP-1 stating that in the night of 26/27.03.1996 petitioner and four others were caught red handed in the night about 2.00 AM while emptying Dan-Patra, kept at ground floor of Garbh-Grih of Vishwanath Tempt at BHU Campus. Police registered Case No. 77 of 1996 under Section 457, 380, 411 I.P.C. and sent all the culprits to Jail. Considering seriousness of criminal incident and involvement of petitioner and other employees, an order of suspension was passed on 28.03.1996 by Vice-Chancellor, BHU, which was communicated to petitioner vide Registrar, BHU's letter dated 29.03.1996.

13. A disciplinary inquiry was initiated for act of misconduct, i.e., violation of Ordinance 23, Sub-Rule (2) which governs terms and conditions of service of non-teaching employees of BHU. It was served upon petitioner vide letter dated 10/12.04.1996 issued by Deputy Registrar (Administration), BHU. Further vide Office Order dated 12.04.1996 an Inquiry Committee was constituted and petitioner was given opportunity to submit his defence before Inquiry Committee. Inquiry Committee submitted inquiry report dated 14.10.1996 and a copy thereof has been filed along with counter affidavit as Annexure CA-3. It is not disputed that in the criminal trial, petitioner has been acquitted by Appellate Court vide judgment dated 10.04.2003. Thereafter, petitioner submitted representation dated 02.09.2003 requesting for the reinstatement but since he was not dismissed from service on the basis of conviction in criminal case but after finding him guilty in a departmental inquiry, hence, question of his reinstatement on the basis of Appellate Court's judgment had not arisen, hence his request was not accepted. It is also said that petitioner and others confessed their involvement in theft before Sri Ram Auatar, Assistant Security Officer in the office of Chief Proctor and others, hence report was lodged against them, besides initiating departmental inquiry. However, after service of charge-sheet in disciplinary proceedings, since petitioner denied all the charges vide reply dated 19.04.1996, therefore competent authority in BHU passed order dated 14.05.1996 requesting Inquiry Committee to proceed with the disciplinary proceedings. Petitioner and others were given ample opportunity of defence. Representation dated 01.01.1997 submitted by petitioner against punishment order was considered by competent authority and its decision was communicated to petitioner vide Assistant Registrar (Administration), BHU's letter dated 03/06.03.1997. The punishment order has been passed by Vice-Chancellor after considering report of Inquiry Committee and same has been ratified by Appointments Committee of BHU constituted under Section 26 of Banaras Hindu University Act, 1915 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1915").

14. In the Rejoinder Affidavit, petitioner has reiterated that no departmental inquiry was conducted in accordance with relevant Statute and he was never communicated about the order dated 03/06.03.1997 whereby his representation was rejected. He specifically denied that he was caught red handed at any point of time.

15. Writ Petition No. 31995 of 2005 (hereinafter referred to as "WP-2") has been filed by Rama Shankar Singh Yadav, who was appointed as Chowkidar in BHU and posted in Vishwanath Temple. Rest of the facts are similar to that of WP-1 including punishment order dated 26.11.1996 (Annexure-5 to WP-2) and all other pleadings are similar. Hence, I am not repeating the same.

16. Writ Petition No. 21210 of 2004 (hereinafter referred to as "WP-3") has been filed by Shiv Charn, who was appointed as Farrash on 01.10.1963 and posted in Vishwanath Temple and all other facts are similar to WP-1 including the punishment order dated 26.11.1996 and the letter dated 07.01.2004 whereby Assistant Registrar, BHU has communicated him rejection of his representation dated 03.09.2003. All other pleadings are common, hence are not repeated.

17. Inquiry Report dated 14.10.1996 placed on record by University along with its Counter Affidavit filed in WP-1 shows that it recommended punishment to petitioners as per Rules of University but further proposed that they should be kept in active service with immediate effect, except Temple, and be required to deposit Rupees three hundred per month for five years in the form of draft/cash/cheque in 'Dan Patra', in the presence of Manager and Poojari, after taking proper oath before donating money, in front of Lord Shiva Idol, for not committing any such illegal and immoral act in future and if any of them is retired before five years, he shall be required to deposit consolidated amount for remaining period and also to take proper oath that he will not commit any such illegal or immoral act in future.

18. In view thereof petitioners sought amendments in their writ petitions that Inquiry Committee since recommended for a corrective measure and not punishment in accordance with Rules, and recommended for reemployment/reinstatement in active service, University in taking a different decision has erred.

19. Thereafter order sheet also shows that on a statement made by counsel for BHU that matter of petitioners would be considered afresh sympathetically by BHU, indulgence was granted and matter was postponed but no concrete result came. In these circumstances matter was heard by Court on merits on 16.05.2009 when it was argued that inquiry was not conducted in accordance with procedure prescribed in Statute and there was a gross violation of principles of natural justice resulting in denial of adequate opportunity of defence to petitioners. Hence, this Court observed that perusal of record of inquiry would be necessary and directed BHU to produce inquiry record before this Court.

20. A supplementary Counter Affidavit was filed by BHU in WP-2 and affidavit has been sworn by Sri Neeraj Tripathi, Registrar stating that record of inquiry was not available/traceable and for its discovery a Committee consisting of Prof. H.B. Srivastava as Chairman and Prof. Rakesh Singh as Member was constituted wherein Pushya Mitra Dwivedi was Member Secretary and they submitted report on 28.06.2019 that record of inquiry is not available and responsible persons, supposed to be custodian of record, had either retired about two decades ago or expired.

21. In this backdrop, Court proceeded to hear matter again on the basis of record whatever is available and pleadings of parties.

22. The common case of all the petitioners is that they received information to appear before Inquiry Committee vide letter dated 23.07.1996 on the scheduled dates, i.e. 2nd and 3rd, August, 1996. On these dates they appeared and they were required to sign some papers and nothing further happened and they were directed to leave the premises. Thereafter no date, time or place was fixed for oral inquiry whatsoever. On the contrary, Inquiry Report dated 14.10.1996 submitted by Committee consisting of Sri Janardan Singh, Chairman and Sri M.N.P. Srivastava, Member shows that it recorded statements of Dr. S.K. Singh, Deputy Chief Proctor, Ram Autar, Assistant Security Officer, Dinkar Kumar Singh, a Student of B.Com.-II, Sri Chandra Bhan Ram, a student of B.Com.-II and also statement of these petitioners. Dr. Babu Lal Mishra, Honorary Manager of Temple also submitted a written statement before Committee.3

23. Inquiry Committee held its meeting on 30.04.1996, 07.06.1996, 02.08.1996, 03.08.1996 and 04.09.1996. It is evident that petitioners were communicated to participate in the inquiry before Inquiry Committee for the first time vide letter dated 23.07.1996 and they were required to appear before Inquiry Committee only on 2nd and 3rd August, 1996 while Inquiry Committee had already held its meeting twice earlier, i.e, on 30.04.1996 and 07.06.1996 in respect whereof no information was given to petitioners and thereafter also held proceedings on 04.09.1996 and this date was also not communicated to petitioners.

24. It is also not stated in the entire inquiry report that statements of various witnesses in support of charges were recorded in presence of delinquent employees namely petitioners and they were given opportunity to cross-examine those witnesses.

25. In the findings recorded by Inquiry Committee, it says that statements of witnesses are corroborative to each other; there is no contradiction and they have repeated the same facts regarding occurrence of incident and involvement of petitioners in the theft committed in temple in the night of 26/27.03.1996, hence charges levelled against petitioners are established. Petitioners have only denied charges but failed to produce any evidence, hence their defence is not acceptable. Inquiry Committee has also held that Rama Shankar, petitioner of WP-2 was arrested in connection with theft incident occurred on 10.08.1994 and therein he was granted bail which also prove his character and involvement in the present incident though from inquiry report it does not appear that there was any material evidence to prove involvement of petitioner of WP-2 in the alleged incident of 10.08.1994 since witnesses examined by Inquiry Committee all corroborated alleged incident of 26/27.03.1996 and not of 10.08.1994.

26. It cannot be doubted that it was incumbent upon Inquiry Committee, constituted to hold inquiry, to examine witnesses of employer in presence of charged employees and these witnesses appeared in support of charges ought to have been allowed to be cross examined by charged employees. Only thereafter, when employer prima facie succeed to prove the charges, question of defence by employee could have arisen. However, in the present case, charged employees have specifically pleaded that virtually no oral inquiry was held. They were called to appear on 2nd and 3rd August, 1996 on which date they appeared and they were required to sign certain papers only and thereafter nothing happened except they were served with the punishment order. To contradict above submission, respondents, despite repeated opportunity, could not bring anything on record to show that oral inquiry was conducted with due participation of charged employees and they were given due opportunity to cross examine the witnesses.

27. Oral evidence recorded in a departmental inquiry without giving opportunity to cross-examine is not admissible in evidence, even though Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1872") is not applicable in departmental inquiry. The statement of such person is an ex-parte version with which charged employee remained un-confronted and such ex-parte version is in the nature of hearse evidence which is not admissible even in departmental inquiry.

28. Moreover, record clearly shows that as per own stand taken by Inquiry Committee, it held its meetings on five dates, i.e., 30.04.1996, 07.06.1996, 02.08.1996, 03.08.1996 and 04.09.1996 but petitioners were called only on two dates, i.e., 02.08.1996 and 03.08.1996 and not others. Neither respondents' counsel could explain nor anything has been placed on record nor during the course of argument, this Court could be informed of any reason as to why Inquiry Committee, as and when held its meetings for holding oral inquiry, on all such dates charged employees were not called. Therefore, finding of guilt recorded against petitioners, based on such inadmissible evidence, amounts to holding petitioners guilty in an inquiry held in utter violation of principles of natural justice and the same cannot be sustained in law.

29. There is another flaw in the proceedings. Petitioners have quoted Rule 24.4 of the Ordinance dealing with departmental proceedings, and in particular, action on the inquiry report. Its applicability is not disputed before this Court. It reads as under:

"24.4 If the disciplinary authority having regard to its findings on all or any of the articles of charge is of the opinion that any of the penalties specified in clauses (v) to (ix) of rule 20 should be imposed on the employee, it shall*:*

(a) Furnish to the employee a copy of the report of the inquiry held by it and its findings on each article of charge*, or where the inquiry has been held by* an inquiring authority appointed by it, a copy of the report of such authority and a statement of its findings on each article of charge together with brief reasons for the inquiring authority.

(b) Give the employee a notice stating the penalty proposed to be imposed on him and calling upon him to submit within fifteen days of receipt of the notice or such further time not exceeding fifteen days, as may be allowed, such representation as he may wish to make on the proposed penalty on the basis of the evidence adduced during the inquiry held under rule 23.

The disciplinary authority shall consider the representation, if any, made by the employee in pursuance of the notice given to him under clause (1) and determine what penalty, if any, should be imposed on him and made such order as it may deed fit. (emphasis added)

30. Above Rule clearly says that Disciplinary Authority having regard to finding on the charge if, of the opinion that any of the penalty specified in Clauses (v) to (ix) of Rule 20 should be imposed, then it shall furnish a copy of report of inquiry and also its own findings, if any, and give the employee an opportunity informing him about proposed penalty to submit his reply and after considering his representation, if any, only thereafter an order of punishment, if necessary, would be passed.

31. In the present case, learned counsel appearing for BHU could not dispute that no inquiry report was furnished to petitioners. In fact, respondents treated the charge-sheet and reply submitted by petitioners as also petitioners' participation on 2nd and 3rd August' 1996 before Inquiry Committee to be sufficient compliance of requirement of Rule 24.4. In this regard, I may reproduce Para-14 of WP-1 and its reply contained in para-20 of Counter Affidavit submitted by BHU in WP-1 as under:

"14. That petitioner was served with the impugned order dated 26-11-96 by means of which services of the petitioner were terminated by the Registrar. That it is pertinent to mention here that no Show cause was ever issued to the petitioner before inflicting the ultimate punishment i.e. order of termination."

"20. That the contents of paragraph no. 14 of the writ petition are wrong and denied. In reply, it is stated that it is wrong to allege that no show cause was ever issued to petitioner before inflicting the order of termination. In fact the petitioner was directed to submit his written defence of the office memorandum dated 10/12.4.1996 and thereafter he was accorded sufficient opportunity of hearing vide letter dated 23.7.1996 of the Assistant Register (Admit) II, BHU. Since the petitioner and other accused were caught red handed in the incident of theft and the charges levelled against them were established by the Disciplinary enquiry committee, as such the services of the petitioner was terminated vide letter dated 26.11.1996 after initiating proper disciplinary proceedings by the respondent university under Ordinance 23 governing the terms and conditions of service of the non-teaching employees of the University."

32. Learned Senior Counsel, Sri Upadhyay, when confronted to the above pleadings, could not dispute that after receiving inquiry report, it was never supplied to petitioners and this is virtually an admitted fact from the pleadings of University also. There is nothing to contradict it. Therefore, even procedure laid down in Rule 24 of Ordinance, which is consistent to principles of natural justice made with an intention to give adequate opportunity of defence to employee concerned, has not been followed by BHU.

33. In a departmental inquiry an employee is entitled to be given adequate opportunity of defence and if a particular procedure is prescribed in relevant Rules, employer is bound to follow and observe the same in words and spirit and violation thereof would vitiate an order of punishment.

34. In view of above discussion, I have no hesitation in holding that impugned orders of punishment cannot be sustained.

35. In the result, writ petitions are allowed. Impugned orders dated 26.11.1996 are hereby quashed and the orders dated 07.01.2004 whereby representation of petitioner in Writ Petition No. 21669 of 2004 and Writ Petition No. 21210 of 2004 have been rejected are also set aside.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE SUDHIR AGARWAL, J.

Writ-A No. 21944 of 2003

Smt. Dulari Devi & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
Union of India & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri M.D. Mishra, Sri J.H. Khan, Sri N.H. Khan, Sri W.H. Khan, Sri Ramanuj Pandey, Sri Awadhesh Kumar

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri A.N. Roy, A.S.G.I., Sri Arun Kumar, Sri Arvind Srivastava, Sri Ashok Singh, Sri B.N. Singh, Sri K.C. Shukla, Sri K.C. Sinha, Sri K.C. Srivastava, Sri K.K. Shukla, Sri R.S. Mishra, S.S.C.

A. Service – Retrenchment – Industrial Disputes Act, 1947: Section 25-L(b)(ii), 25-K, 25-N, 25-N(1)(a), 25-N(2), 25-N(3), 25-N(9), 25-S; Industrial Disputes Rules, 1957: Rule 76-A; Constitution of India: Art. 77; Companies Act, 1956: Section 619, 620; Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985: Section 3(1)(o);

VSS is a well-recognized mode of "Golden Handshake" principle known in the business world - Circular dated 16.09.2002 circulating VSS was not found illegal and arbitrary - Facts demonstrate the genuineness of claim of respondent-Employer that it had sustained losses, became sick to the extent of incapable of revival/ rehabilitation, hence, its closure was found appropriate. Petitioners could not demonstrate any of the terms and conditions, to be unreasonable, illegal or against public policy so as to justify interference by this Court. Opting of VSS by all employees i.e. 5712 (except-11 i.e. petitioners), also shows that terms and conditions of VSS are reasonable and almost all employees were satisfied with them. (Para 47, 50 to 53)

B. Every individual company incorporated and registered is a separate and independent entity and employees of such company, as a matter of right, cannot claim employment in another company since every company has its own right in its individual employer and has its own authority and power to make appointment of its employees. Promotor of FCIL is GOI, as it holds 100% shares of FCIL. But it still is an independent and separate legal entity, different from its Promotor. Employees of such company cannot be said to be employees of Central Government or Promoters of Company.

Petitioners could not show any legal or otherwise right to claim that FCIL has obligation to ensure their absorption/rehabilitation or re-employment or continued employment in any other company/department of Central Government. No appointment in any manner can be made on any post in the department of Government contrary to statutory provisions made for such recruitments and appointments. (Page 55, 56, 73 & 74)

C. Sufficient compliance with procedure prescribed - Facts indicate that workmen concerned have been given notice in writing as required u/s 25-N(1)(a). A copy of application was sent by speed post as required u/s 25-N(2). Petitioners also availed opportunity of hearing given by the Government Department. After receiving approval from GOI, retrenchment orders along with retrenchment compensation were sent to petitioners by registered post, which they refused to receive. Therefore, there is no illegality in retrenchment/termination. (Para 82 to 90)

Petition challenges Circular dated 16.09.2002, circulating "Voluntary Separation Scheme", letter dated 28.04.2003, sent by Chairman/Managing Director, FCIL to GOI, Ministry of Labour, order dated 09.07.2003, issued by Deputy Director, GOI, Ministry of Labour.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri W.H. Khan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri J.H. Khan, learned counsel for petitioners; and, Sri Arun Kumar, learned counsel appearing for respondents-2, 3 and 4, Sri Arvind Srivastava, learned counsel for proposed respondent-6 and Sri A.N. Roy, learned counsel for Union of India.

2. This writ petition under Article 226 of Constitution of India has been filed by nine petitioners namely, Smt. Dulari Devi, Ram Darash, Jagan Nath, Dina Nath Sonkar, Dwigendra Kumar Singh, Mahabal Prasad, Harendra Kumar Singh, Murari and Bhawnath, all employed and working on different posts like Counter Clerk, Personal Assistant, Junior Stenographer, Senior Accounts Assistant, Technician Grade-I and Grade-II, Gang Man and Pump Operator Grade-2 in Fertilizer Corporation of India Limited (hereinafter referred to as "FCIL") Unit, Gorakhpur. They have prayed for issue of a writ of certiorari to quash Circular dated 16.09.2002 (Annexure-4 to the writ petition) circulating "Voluntary Separation Scheme" (hereinafter referred to as "VSS") due to closure of FCIL and notice dated 28.04.2003 sent by Chairman/Managing Director, FCIL addressed to Government of India, Ministry of Labour seeking permission for proposed retrenchment of above nine workmen i.e. petitioners, with effect from 30.06.2003.

3. Subsequently, by way of amendment, petitioners have also challenged order dated 09.07.2003 (Annexure-8 to the writ petition) issued by Deputy Director, Government of India, Ministry of Labour granting approval for retrenchment of nine workmen i.e. petitioners; Memorandum dated 11.07.2003 (Annexure-9 to the writ petition) which are nine in number issued to all petitioners, separately, giving another opportunity to them to opt for VSS by 31.07.2003 failing which they shall be retrenched; and Memorandum dated 01.08.2009 issued to all petitioners (collectively filed as Annexure-10 to the writ petition), issued by General Manager, FCIL retrenching all petitioners with effect from 01.08.2003 since they did not opt for VSS.

4. Petitioners have also prayed for issue of a writ of mandamus commanding respondents to absorb petitioners in any other unit of Government of India i.e. Jodhpur Mining Organization or Hindustan Fertilizers Corporation, Nampur or any other Government of India Undertaking, including Central Schools, being run in the premises of FCIL Unit at Gorakhpur. A further direction has been sought to respondents to make payment under VSS/retrenchment compensation at the rate of 90 days per year for the balance service of all petitioners as has been given to the employees who have opted for VSS.

5. Facts in brief, as stated in the writ petition, are that FCIL (a Government of India undertaking under the Ministry of Chemicals and Fertilizer, Department of Fertilizers), is a Company whereof 100 % shares are held by Government of India. It was incorporated as a Central Government Company under the provisions of Companies Act, 1956 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1956"), on 01.01.1961. With the passage of time, FCIL sets up units at Sindri (District Dhanbad, State of Jharkhand); Ramagundam; Talcher and Gorakhpur. At Jodhpur, it had set up Jodhpur Mining Organization where it was mining and marketing Gypsum.

6. Petitioners were appointed on various dates, between 1981-87, on different posts, as given in the form of chart, as under:-

S. No.	Name of Petitioner	Date of Appointment	Post/ Designation
1	Smt. Dulari Devi	13.12.1986	Counter Clerk
2	Ram Darash	-	Personal Assistant
3	Jagan Nath	15.2.1983	Junior Stenographer
4	Dina Nath Sonkar	3.9.1981	Senior Accounts Assistant
5	Dwigendra Kumar Singh	12.12.1986	Technician Grade-I
6	Mahabal Prasad	15.5.1981	Technician Grade-I
7	Harendra Kumar Singh	1.1.1982	Technician Grade-II
8	Murari	1.1.1987	Gangman
9	Bhawnath	4.4.1984	Pump Operator Grade-II

7. FCIL sustained heavy losses resulting in suspension of production of fertilizer i.e. urea, in Gorakhpur unit, on 01.06.1990. In Talchar and Ramagundam Unit, production of urea was suspended with effect from 01.04.1999, while Sindri unit also stopped production with effect from 16.03.2002 and another unit at Korba, proposed by FCIL, was not set up at all.

8. FCIL was declared sick by Board for Industrial and Financial Reconstructions (hereinafter referred to as "BIFR") on 06.11.1992 under the provisions of Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1985"). BIFR, vide order dated 02.11.2001 formed an opinion that revival of FCIL is not possible, therefore, recommended winding up and forwarded to Delhi High Court since registered office of FCIL is at Nehru Place, New Delhi.

9. Against order dated 02.11.2001 of BIFR, Department of Fertilizer, FCIL as well as workers' union filed five appeals before Appellate Authority of Industrial & Financial Reconstruction (hereinafter referred to as "AAIFR") but vide order dated 16.04.2002, AAIFR also confirmed order of BIFR for winding up, and dismissed appeals.

10. It is said that some writ petitions were filed in Delhi High Court against order of AAIFR i.e. Writ Petition No. 4310 of 2002 and 4430 of 2002 etc.

11. Delhi High Court decided writ petitions vide judgement dated 26.11.2002. It took the view that since Government of India was not ready to infuse funds for revival of company and no viable proposal was submitted by Government of India, FCIL and operating agency for revival of company for more than a decade, BIFR and AAIFR were right in holding that it was not possible to revive the company.

12. The above view, therefore, was affirmed. However, taking into consideration, a new development which was noted by Delhi High Court in the light of Chairman and Managing Director, FCIL's letter dated 10.09.2001, it required BIFR to consider certain aspect of the matter again. Vide letter dated 10.09.2001, approval was conveyed by Chairman and Managing Director, FCIL in respect of part of revival package of FCIL as under:-

"i) Closure of FCIL and hiving off the Jodhpur Mining Organization (JMO) into a separate entity;

ii) Disposal of the assets of the company (excluding JMO) in accordance with the procedure prescribed under SICA and other applicable laws;

iii) Extension of VSS benefits to all the employees of the company.

iv) Permission to extend VSS benefits to employees of all the units and offices of FCI approved for closure pending final permission for closure by the competent authority; and grant of retrenchment compensation under ID Act to employees not availing of this offer within three months, after obtaining the required permission from the competent authority."

13. The package was in respect of closure of FCIL but hive off Jodhpur Mining Organization into a separate entity. Delhi High Court, therefore, found that question relating to hiving off Jodhpur Mining Organization into a separate entity has to be considered by BIFR at the first instance and for this purpose, it remitted the matter to BIFR. It also observed the stand taken by parties that they were not asking for revival of company and clarified as under :-

"At this stage, learned counsel for parties in order to clarify the stand of the parties state that their clients are not asking for the revival of the company. They, however, submit that it should be open to the BIFR to consider the proposals for hiving off other units of the FCIL as separate entities. We do not see any harm in leaving the door open for the BIFR to consider the question of hiving off other units of the FCI in case proposals in this regard are received by it within a reasonable period of time.

The writ petitions are accordingly disposed of. The order of the BIFR is modified to the extent indicated above."

14. In this backdrop, FCIL came up with Circular dated 16.09.2002 conveying decision of Government of India to close FCIL in respect of all units except Jodhpur Mining Organization which was proposed to be separated as a separate entity, and to extend VSS benefit to all the employees of FCIL (except Jodhpur Mining Organization) who would opt for the same. Aforesaid scheme was in operation for a period of three months with effect from 21.09.2002 to 20.12.2002. Employees of FCIL were required to submit their options for claiming benefit under VSS. Circular dated 16.09.2002 further said that those employees who would not opt for VSS during the period scheme remain in operation, their matter shall be dealt by the provisions relating to "retrenchment" under Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (hereinafter reffered to as "Act, 1947").

15. Petitioners did not opt for VSS but made representation (Annexure-5 to the writ petition) that they should be accommodated in some other unit/department. It is also pointed out that instead of retrenchment or termination, some persons were absorbed/accommodated at other places and one such memorandum dated 26.03.2003 has been placed on record showing that one Sri S.K. Jain, Assistant Plant Manager was transferred to BVFCI, Namrup (District Dibrugarh, State of Assam) and absorbed permanently therein.

16. FCIL officials did not consider request of petitioners for their absorption in some other undertaking. Instead FCIL proceeded to retrench petitioners and sent letter dated 28.04.2003 to Government of India, Ministry of Labour, seeking approval for retrenchment of petitioners in purported compliance of Section 25-N(3) of Act, 1947. Notices proposing retrenchment were also served upon petitioners.

17. At this stage, present writ petition was filed by petitioners challenging Circular dated 16.09.2002 (Annexure-4 to the writ petition) and letter dated 28.04.2003 sent by FCIL to Government of India seeking approval in compliance of Section 25-N(3) of Act, 1947.

18. During pendency of this petition, some further developments took place which have been brought on record by way of amendment.

19. Government of India granted approval for retrenchment of petitioners vide letter dated 09.07.2003. Consequently, respondent-3 sent notices dated 11.07.2003 to petitioners giving fresh opportunity to apply for VSS by 31.07.2003 failing which they shall be retrenched. Since petitioners did not submit any option, retrenchment orders were passed on 01.08.2003.

20. It is said that several employees were absorbed/adjusted in Jodhpur Mining Organization, Bramhaputra Valley Fertilizer Limited but petitioners have been discriminated. Retrenchments have been challenged on the ground of non-compliance of Section-25-N and that retrenchment compensation as contemplated under Statute was not paid, therefore, it is bad in law..

21. Petitioners were also occupying official occupations in the premises of FCIL, therefore, initially, they prayed for protection against eviction from official accommodations.

22. On 23.04.2003, this Court by way of interim order directed that respondents shall not insist upon petitioners to vacate quarters allotted to them. This protection was given upto 31.12.2003. Subsequently, interim order was extended from time to time. Respondents came up with a complaint that petitioners were not paying rent, therefore, on 20.05.2004, interim order was modified and this Court said:

"Meanwhile, it is provided that till 15.07.2004 the petitioners shall be permitted to continue to stay in the quarters allotted to them by the respondent-Corporation provided that petitioners pay the entire dues of the monthly rent and the current rent at the rate at which they were paying earlier."

23. On 24.02.2006, when matter came up before this Court, Respondents complained that petitioners were not paying rent for several years and illegally occupying official accommodations. This Court, therefore, passed order directing petitioners to deposit entire arrears of rent before the next date and also file receipt on that date. Subject to this condition, their eviction was stayed and the case was directed to be listed on 21.03.2006.

24. On 21.03.2006, this Court passed following order:-

"The following order was passed on 24.02.2006.

"Learned counsel for the petitions states that he is being evicted from the service quarter, which he has occupying. Sri R.S. Mishra, learned counsel for the respondents states that the petitioners are not paying the rent for the last several years and are illegally occupying the quarter.

The petitioners shall deposit the entire arrears of rent before the next date fixed and shall file its receipt on that date. Subject to this condition they will not be evicted till that date. Subject to this condition they will not be evicted till that date.

Learned counsel for the Union of India prays for and is granted ten days time to file a reply to the supplementary affidavit.

List on 21.03.2006."

However, no compliance affidavit has been filed but it is stated that the rent has been paid together with its arrear upto February, 2006. The counsel for the respondents states that the electricity dues and water tax have yet not been paid. The same should be paid before the next date and on the next date compliance affidavit should be filed on behalf of the petitioners.

List on 29.03.2006. The interim order shall continue till then."

(Emphasis added)

25. The complaint of non-compliance with regard to payment of rent was again made by respondents on 10.09.2008 whereafter this Court passed following order:-

"List is being revised.

No one is present on behalf of the petitioners.

The government accommodations were allotted to the petitioners, while they were in service, but after their retrenchment, they did not vacate the official accommodation and as such a notice was issued to the petitioners requiring them to vacate the official accommodation. Against the retrenchment of the petitioners, the instant writ petition has been filed and this Hon'ble Court by means of the order dated 24.02.2006 has directed that in case the petitioners deposit the rent as well as other dues such as electricity dues and water tax etc. which are payable by the occupants of the government accommodations, the petitioners may not be ordered for ejectment.

Counsel for the respondents submits that the petitioners, after passing of the aforesaid interim order, are neither paying any rent for the government accommodation which they are occupying, though not entitled for after retrenchment, nor any other dues such as electricity charges and water tax etc.

In view of the above, it is provided that in case the petitioners did not pay the arrears of rent including taxes such as electricity charges and water charges etc. within three months from today, the benefit of the interim order with regard to their retention of the official accommodation shall stand vacated and if they continue to pay the monthly rent as and when demanded by the respondents and the electricity and water charges etc., they shall be permitted to retain the official accommodation.

The interim order dated 24.02.2006 stands modified accordingly."

(Emphasis added)

26. In regard to compliance of this order, I find nothing on record. Learned counsel for parties also could not inform as to whether aforesaid order was complied with and petitioners are still occupying official accommodations or have been ejected or voluntary vacated.

27. On the contrary, this Court has been addressed on merits of the matter, therefore, I proceed to hear the matter on merits and decide accordingly.

28. Sri W.H. Khan, learned Senior Counsel appearing for petitioners has contended that retrenchment of petitioners is illegal and void. He urged:

(i) Government of India decided to absorb employees of FCIL in various other Central Public Sector Companies and a number of employees were so absorbed but petitioners have been discriminated by not extending said benefit.

(ii) Three months' notice as contemplated under Section 25-N(1)(a) of Act, 1947 was not served upon petitioners. Thus, there is non compliance of Section 25-N of Act, 1947.

(iii) Section 25-N of Act, 1947 read with Rule 76-A of Industrial Disputes Rules, 1957 (hereinafter referred to as Rules, 1957") contemplates that application submitted by Employer to Government of India shall be in-triplicate and copy thereof shall also be supplied to workmen concerned but no such copy was supplied to workmen concerned and, therefore, there is non-compliance of Rule 76-A and retrenchment is illegal in view of law laid down in Shiv Kumar and Others vs. State of Haryana and others 1994 (4) SCC 445.

(iv) On the question of approval, Sri J.P. Pati, Joint Secretary, Government of India heard the matter on 24.06.2003 but order conveying approval has been issued by Smt. Chandani Raina, Deputy Director on 09.07.2013, meaning thereby hearing has been conducted by one officer while order has been passed by another officer and it is in violation of principles of natural justice as held in Om Prakash and Another vs. Union of India and Another JT (2010) 2 (SC) 91 (paras 100 and 101).

(v) Order passed by Smt. Chandani Raina, Deputy Director is without jurisdiction as she was not competent either to hear the matter or pass order as no such authority was conferred upon her by Government of India and despite direction of this Court, no such order of authority given to Smt. Chandani Raina, has been placed on record.

(vi) The defence of Government that under the Rules of business, decision was taken by Government and Smt. Chandani Raina has only communicated is not correct, inasmuch as, order under Section 25-N(3) is a quasi judicial order and has to be passed after making enquiry considering various relevant factors and by giving reasons. Moreover, Smt. Chandani Raina was not authorized to communicate decision of Government of India even under the Rules of business. There is a total non-compliance of Article 77 of Constitution of India. In this regard, Sri Khan placed reliance on Supreme Court's decision in Workmen of Meenakshi Mills Ltd. etc. Vs. Meenakshi Mills Ltd. and Another AIR (1994) SC 2697 and Jaipur Development Authority and Others Vs. Vijay Kumar Data and Others 2011 (12) SCC 94.

(vii) No enquiry was conducted before granting approval by Government of India though it was mandatory and, therefore, there is non-compliance of Section 25-N of Act, 1947.

(viii) Retrenchment compensation has not been paid along with order of retrenchment though it has to be simultaneous and this is again another non-compliance of Section 25-N in particular sub-section (9), hence, retrenchment is illegal. Reliance is placed on Supreme Court's decision in Anoop Sharma Vs. Executive Engineer, Public Health Division No. 1 Panipat (Haryana) JT 2010 (4) SC 229.

29. Contesting petitioners' claim, on behalf of respondents- 2, 3 and 4, Sri Arun Kumar, learned counsel stated, that FCIL is admittedly a Central Government Company within the meaning of Section 619 of Act, 1956. it had set up four fertilizer units at Gorakhpur, Talcher, Ramagundam and Sindri and a small Gypsum mining set up i.e. Jodhpur Mining Organization. Starting from 1979, FCIL suffered colossal losses which increased every year, compelling Management to close unit at Gorakhpur on 10.06.1990; Talchar and Ramagundam on 31.03.1999 and Sindri on 16.03.2002. By amendment made in 1991, Government Companies were also brought within the purview of Act, 1985. Since FCIL had eroded its entire net worth and became chronically sick, it was referred to BIFR on 20.04.1992. After initial scrutiny BIFR declared FCIL sick vide order dated 06.11.1992 in terms of Section 3(1)(o) of Act, 1985. After finding revival improbable, BIFR took a decision for winding up of FCIL and passed order on 02.11.2001 referring the matter to Delhi High Court for winding up. AAIFR confirmed the order of BFIR by dismissing appeal. The orders of BIFR and AAIFR were challenged by various units in Delhi High Court in Writ Petitions No. 3298 of 2002, 4310 of 2002, 4060 of 2002 and 4061 of 2002. When the matter was pending in Delhi High Court, Government of India, Ministry of Chemical and Fertilizer, Department of Fertilizers vide letter dated 30.07.2002 and 10.09.2002 conveyed approval of revival package of FCIL by providing as under:-

"i) Closure of FCIL and hiving off the Jodhpur Mining Organization (JMO) into a separate entity;

ii) Disposal of the assets of the company (excluding JMO) in accordance with the procedure prescribed under SICA and other applicable laws;

iii) Extension of VSS benefits to all the employees of the company.

iv) Permission to extend VSS benefits to employees of all the units and offices of FCI approved for closure pending final permission for closure by the competent authority; and grant of retrenchment compensation under ID Act to employees not availing of this offer within three months, after obtaining the required permission from the competent authority."

(Emphasis added)

30. Further vide Government Order dated 15.11.2002, Government of India stopped all financial support to FCIL.

31. When revival package of FCIL was submitted to Delhi High Court, it referred the matter to BIFR to re-consider the matter in the light of revival package. Matter was again considered by BIFR and vide order dated 02.04.2004/ 17.05.2004 it again recommended winding up of FCIL and approved hiving off of Jodhpur Mining Organization, a small unit of Gypsum in the State of Rajasthan in Fertilizer Unit of FCIL.

32. In the meantime, since VSS was also offered to employees of FCIL, vide Government of India's circular dated 16.09.2002, almost all the employees i.e. 5701 out of the total 5712 as on 20.09.2002 (i.e. except petitioners) opted for VSS. Two employees who did not avail VSS, were terminated in terms of Circular dated 16.09.2002.

33. With respect to petitioners, FCIL sought approval for retrenchment from Ministry of Labour which was granted. Claim of petitioners for seeking absorption in other companies of Government of India is impermissible, inasmuch as, all the Companies are independent units and FCIL has no control over them. Petitioners were given another opportunity of option for VSS as per the terms of approval granted by Ministry of Labour but they failed to avail the same, hence retrenched after following the procedure under Section 25 of Act, 1947. Government of India also requested other Fertilizer Companies to absorb employees of FCIL having more than 10 years of service, but all the companies have refused on the ground that they are already over staffed and have no vacancy for further employment. Not a single person of FCIL has been re-employed in other Companies.

34. It is also said that so far as VSS contained in Circular dated 16.09.2002 is concerned, its validity was challenged and upheld in A.K. Bindal and Another Vs. Union of India and Others JT 2003 (4) SC 328; Employees of a Government Company are not Government employees; they cannot claim absorption in other departments of Government or independent Government Companies since each and every company is a separate and individual entity. Therefore, claim of petitioners for absorption in other Public Sector Enterprises is misconceived. He placed reliance on Supreme Court's judgement in A.K. Bindal (supra) and Officers and Supervisors of IDPL Vs. Chairman and M.D. IDPL and Others JT 2003 (6) SC 68. Copy of application sent to Ministry of Labour dated 28.04.2003 was also sent to petitioners through speed post on 29.04.2003. Letters sent subsequently in reply to queries made by Ministry of Labour are not required to be served upon petitioners and non serving of such letters, cannot be said to be violation of procedure of retrenchment. Cheques of retrenchment compensation were sent to petitioners through registered post but they refused to receive the same, therefore, it cannot be said that there is non-compliance of Section 25-N with regard to payment of retrenchment compensation.

35. With regard to alleged enquiry which may be conducted by Central Government before granting permission under Section 25-N, it is urged that neither Employer nor Employee are required to be heard and such enquiry is at the discretion of Government as held in M/s Orissa Textiles and Steel Limited Vs. State of Orissa and Others AIR 2002 SC 708. Merely for the reason that an order is not referred to, being in the name of President, it will not be bad, since provisions of Article 77 are directory and in this regard, reliance is placed on Constitution Bench Judgement in State of Rajasthan and Another Vs. Sripal Jain AIR 1963 SC 1323 and an earlier judgement in Major E.G. Barsay Vs. State of Bombay AIR 1961 SC 1762.

36. It is further said that on the one hand, petitioners claim that order of approval is quasi judicial order but on the contrary they are challenging the same as an executive order not in compliance of Article 77 and both the contentions are mutually destructive. Once an order is quasi judicial, the manner in which executive order is to be authenticated and issued as provided under Articles 77 and 166 is not applicable. It is said that statutory order need not be issued in the name of President or Governor, as the case may be. Here reliance is placed on Supreme Court's Judgement in State of Maharashtra and Others Vs. Basanti Lal and Another AIR 2003 SC 4688; Air India Cabin Crew Association Vs. Yeshawinee Merchant and Others AIR 2004 SC 187.

37. Sri A.N. Roy, Advocate who has put in appearance on behalf of Government of India has also advanced his submissions which are similar to that advanced on behalf of respondents- 2, 3 and 4, therefore, I am not repeating the same.

38. In addition to the oral submissions, petitioners as well as respondents- 1 to 4 have also submitted their written arguments which are broadly the same as the oral arguments which I have already noticed above.

39. The rival submissions noticed above would require this Court to answer the following issues:-

(i) Whether Circular dated 16.09.2002 (Annexure-4 to the writ petition) circulating VSS is arbitrary and illegal.

(ii) Whether termination of petitioners amounts to retrenchment and has been made in compliance of Section 25-N of Act, 1947.

(iii) Whether petitioners are entitled to be considered for absorption in other Public Sector Enterprises, Central Government Companies or Departments of Central Government.

40. Coming to first question as to whether Circular dated 16.09.2002 circulating VSS is per se illegal and arbitrary and this facts in the backdrop of said Circular, has to be examined.

41. The history of coming up of FCIL in existence, and, its development, has been stated in detail in A.K. Bindal (supra) and therefrom, I find that in 1961, there were two Fertilizer companies namely, Sindri Fertilizers and Chemicals Limited (hereinafter referred to as "Sindri FCL") and Hindustan Fertilizers and Chemicals Limited (hereinafter referred to as "Hindustan FCL"). Both these Companies were Central Government Companies. In January, 1961, Sindri FCL and Hindustan FCL were merged together giving rise to a new company, namely, FCIL. Between 1961 and 1977, FCIL sought to set up 17 fertilizer units, 7 whereof came in operation while remaining 10 were at various stages of implementation. In 1978, Government of India set up a Committee to work out modalities for reorganization of Fertilizer Industry. A recommendation was made by Committee which was approved by Government of India bifurcating or reorganizing FCIL and to constitute another unit, namely, National Fertilizer Limited (hereinafter referred to as "NFL"). NFL became an independent and separate undertaking and allocated various units to the newly created undertakings which were five in number. A new company, namely, Hindustan Fertilizer Corporation Limited (hereinafter referred to as "HFCL") was also incorporation and thereunder units set up at Namrup, Haldia, Barauni and Durgapur were allocated. Fertilizer Units set up at Sindri, Gorakhpur, Ramagundam, Talchar and Korba along with Jodhpur Mining Organization were retained with FCIL. Remaining units were allocated to another newly created entity i.e. Rashtriya Chemicals and Fertilizers Limited (hereinafter referred to as "RCFL") and NFL. There was a fifth company known as Project and Development (India) Limited which was left with the work of planning and development.

42. FCIL under the reorganized system with its allocated units, however, could not function well and started sustaining losses since 1979 and onwards. The year-wise losses sustained by FCIL from 1979 to 1990 have been given in the supplementary counter affidavit dated 09.10.2006 filed on behalf of respondents-2, 3 and 4 and reads as under:-

Year	Loss (in crores)	Year	Loss (in crores)
1979	21.83	1985	45.15
1980	48.63	1986	127.21
1981	100.80	1987	105.91
1982	126.78	1988	115.42
1983	80.68	1989	160.89
1984	80.59	1990	163.90

43. In the light of continuous and sustained heavy losses, production of fertilizer in Gorakhpur Unit of FCIL was suspended on 01.06.1990. It is not the case that in respect of other units, position became any better. Instead heavy losses continued resulting in suspension of production in Talchar and Ramagundam Unit with effect from 01.04.1999 while Sindri unit also stopped production with effect from 16.03.2002.

44. In the supplementary counter affidavit dated 09.10.2006, losses sustained by FCIL from 1991 to 2002 have also been given and as under:-

Year	Loss (in crores)	Year	Loss (in crores)
1991	167.88	1997	538.00
1992	226.52	1998	735.69
1993	245.48	1999	838.29
1994	272.60	2000	865.29
1995	336.13	2001	856.68
1996	449.71	2002	951.36

45. It is also on record that BIFR examined the matter and found FCIL incapable of survival and, therefore, passed order on 02.11.2001 for its winding up which was confirmed initially in appeal by AAIFR while dismissing the same on 09.04.2002.

46. Thereafter, when matter was taken in Delhi High Court, it appears that Government of India made an attempt by giving a revival package and in the light of revival package offered by Government of India, Delhi High Court set aside orders of BIFR and AAIFR and remanded the matter to BIFR to re-examine whether FCIL could have been rehabilitated or not. That was also not found sustainable and BIFR passed another order for winding up on 02.04.2004/ 17.05.2004.

47. These facts at least demonstrate the genuineness of claim of respondent-Employer that it had sustained losses, eroded its entire net worth and became sick to the extent of incapable of revival/ rehabilitation, hence, its closure was found appropriate.

48. VSS was brought by respondents in this backdrop. Circular dated 16.09.2002 was issued when on the first occasion BIFR had passed order recommending winding up on 02.11.2001 which was confirmed by AAIFR dismissing appeal on 09.04.2002. The bonafide on the part of Government of India as also that of Employer (FCIL) of petitioners cannot be doubted for the reason that when matter was taken in Delhi High Court, a revival package was offered by Government of India whereupon Delhi High Court sent the matter to BIFR for re-examination but ultimately BIFR could not found any scope of rehabilitation/ revival.

49. Copy of judgement of Delhi High Court has been filed along with supplementary counter affidavit dated 29.02.2012 which shows that it upheld the decision of BIFR and AAIFR holding that it is not possible to revive Company but thereafter it found decision of Government of India communicated vide letter dated 10.09.2001 about closure of FCIL and hiving off Jodhpur Mining Organization into a separate entity and offered VSS to all employees. For the purpose of this "hiving off Jodhpur Mining Organization", Delhi High Court observed that this aspect ought to have been considered at the first instance, hence, it remanded the matter to BIFR for considering proposal of hiving off of Jodhpur Mining Organization into a separate entity. In that context, Delhi High Court also left open to BIFR to consider the question of hiving off other units of FCIL in case proposal in this regard are received. The relevant observations of Delhi High Court's judgement read as under:-

"We have heard learned counsel for the parties. In the circumstances we are of the opinion that since the Government of India was not ready to infuse funds for the revival of the company and no viable proposal was submitted by the Government of India, FCIL and the operating agency for revival of the company, for more than a decade, the BIFR and the AAIFR were right in holding that it was not possible to revive the company.

Inspite of this view the matter cannot be closed as a new development has taken place. The Government of India, Ministry of Chemicals and Fertilizers vide its letter dated 10th September 2001 to the Chairman and Managing Director, FCIL has conveyed the following approvals in respect of the so-called revival package of FCIL:-

(i) Closure of FCI and hiving off the Jodhpur Mining Organization (JMO) into a separate entity;

(ii) Disposal of the assets of the company (excluding JMO) in accordance with the procedure prescribed under SICA and other applicable laws;

(iii) Extension of VSS benefits to all the employees of the company;

(iv) Permission to extend VSS benefits to employees of all the units and offices of FCI approved for closure pending final permission for closure by the competent authority; and grant of retrenchment compensation under ID Act to employees not availing of this offer within three months, after obtaining the required permission from the competent authority.

It is apparent from the aforesaid revival package that the Government of India would like the closure of FCIL and to hive off Jodhpur Mining Organization into a separate entity. The question relating to hiving off Jodhpur Mining Organization into a separate entity will have to be considered by the BIFR in the first instance. Therefore, the matter needs to be remitted back to the BIFR. Accordingly we remit the matter to the BIFR for consideration of the proposal for hiving off the Jodhpur Mining Organization into a separate entity. We order accordingly. Let the parties appear before the BIFR on 18th December, 2002.

At this stage, learned counsel for parties in order to clarify the stand of the parties state that their clients are not asking for the revival of the company. They, however, submit that it should be open to the BIFR to consider the proposals for hiving off other units of the FCIL as separate entities. We do not see any harm in leaving the door open for the BIFR to consider the question of hiving off other units of the FCI in case proposals in this regard are received by it within a reasonable period of time.

The writ petitions are accordingly disposed of. The order of the BIFR is modified to the extent indicated above." (Emphasis added)

50. It is also stated in para-5 of supplementary counter affidavit dated 29.02.2012 that after receiving approval from Government of India, retrenchment orders along with retrenchment compensation were sent to petitioners by registered post but they refused to receive the same.

51. So far as terms and conditions offered in VSS are concerned, Sri W.H. Khan, learned Senior Counsel for petitioners could not address or demonstrate any of such terms and conditions which can be said to be unreasonable or per se illegal or arbitrary or against public policy so as to justify interference by this Court.

52. Further fact that all employees i.e. 5712 (except-11) as on 20.09.2002, had opted VSS except petitioners also supports the fact that terms and conditions of VSS are reasonable and almost entire set of employees were satisfied therewith. More than 5700 employees had opted for VSS leaving only petitioners who have challenged the same and two officers who did not opt VSS, hence, they were terminated in terms of their conditions of service. There is a relevant consideration to hold terms and conditions of VSS reasonable and for the benefit of employees.

53. Moreover, FCIL policy in terms of Government announcement/scheme on 06.11.2001 whereunder VSS was issued by FCIL has been examined by Supreme Court in A.K. Bindal (supra) and considering the terms of scheme, it has found that such VSS is a well recognized mode of "Golden Handshake" principle known in the business world. Court has also observed that:-

"a considerable amount is to be paid to an employee ex-gratia besides the terminal benefits in case he opts for voluntary retirement under the Scheme and his option is accepted. The amount is paid not for doing any work or rendering any service. It is paid in lieu of the employee himself leaving the services of the company or the industrial establishment and forgoing all his claims or rights in the same. It is a package deal of give and take. That is why in business world it is known as "Golden Handshake". The main purpose of paying this amount is to bring about a complete cessation of the jural relationship between the employer and the employee. After the amount is paid and the employee ceases to be under the employment of the company or the undertaking, he leaves with all his rights and there is no question of his again agitating for any kind of his past rights, with his erstwhile employer including making any claim with regard to enhancement of pay scale for an earlier period." (Emphasis added)

54. In the light of above discussions and after considering the entire VSS and its terms and conditions, I do not find anything therein to hold it illegal, arbitrary or in any manner bad in law. Question-(i) is, therefore, answered in negative and against petitioners.

55. Now, I move on to consider question-(iii) first. Petitioners claim is that they should be employed/absorbed in any other company owned by Government of India or department of Government of India. This submission, in my view, is absolutely misconceived and ignores not only status of petitioners vis-a-vis its employer but also the factum that there is no common employer and the identity and individualness of different companies cannot be ignored. Petitioners are employees of FCIL which is admittedly a Company registered under Act, 1956. It is true that 100 per cent shares of FCIL are held by Government of India, therefore, Promoter of FCIL is Government of India still it is an independent and separate legal entity. When a company is incorporated and registered under Act, 1956, a new juristic personality comes into existence having its identity, different from its Promoters. Such a company is not a department of Government merely for the reason that promoters of such Company are officials of Government and share holding also that of such officers. Employees of such company cannot be said to be employees of Central Government or Promoters of Company. Moreover, in the present case, petitioners also cannot claim to be holders of civil posts under the Government of India, therefore, they also cannot claim absorption on a civil post under Government of India.

56. Every individual company incorporated and registered is a separate and independent entity and employees of such company, as a matter of right, cannot claim employment in another company since every company has its own right in its individual employer and has its own authority and power to make appointment of its employees.

57. In a little bit different circumstances but almost raising a similar contention, employees of Central Government Company namely, Indian Drugs and Pharmaceuticals Limited claimed that if a public sector company i.e. Government Company is incurring losses then for the welfare of employees, Government should provide financial support to cover up such expenses of Government Company. Rejecting this contention in Officers and Supervisors of I.D.P.L. Vs. Chairman and Managing Director I.D.P.L. and others (supra), Court held that employees of government companies are not government servants, they have absolutely no legal right to claim that Government should pay their salary or that additional expenditure incurred on account of revision of their pay-scales should be met by Government. Being employees of a company, it is the responsibility of such Employer-Company to pay salary to its employees. Employees of such government company cannot claim any legal right to ask for a direction to the Central Government to meet expenses of company for the purpose of payment to their employees.

58. Question about independent status of a company registered under Act, 1956, irrespective of factum as to who is or are its shareholder, has been considered in A.K. Bindal (supra) wherein Company was wholly owned by Government of India. Court said that identity of Government Company remains distinct from Government. Government Company is not identified with Union but has been placed under a special system of control and conferred certain privileges by virtue of provisions contained in Section 619 and 620 of Act, 1956. Merely because the entire shareholding is owned by Central Government, will not make incorporated company as Central Government. Court also held that employees of Government Company are not civil servants and so are not entitled to protection afforded by Article 311 of Constitution of India. Since employees of Government Companies are not Government servants, they have absolutely no legal right to claim that Government should pay their salary or that additional expenditure incurred on account of revision of their pay-scale should be met by Government. Being employees of a Company, it is responsibility of Company to pay them salary and if Company is sustaining losses continuously over a period and does not have financial capacity to revise or enhance pay-scale, employees cannot claim any legal right to ask for a direction to Central Government to meet additional expenditure which may be incurred on account of revision of their pay-scale.

59. Similarly, in Officers and Supervisors of I.D.P.L. Vs. Chairman and Managing Director I.D.P.L. and others (supra), Court considered question "whether employees of public sector enterprises have any legal right to claim revision of wages irrespective of financial condition of Company in which they are working on the ground that Government should provide financial support since Company is public sector enterprises and a Government Company". Answering aforesaid question, Court said that no legal right can be claimed by such employees against Government obliging it to pay their salary or any additional expenditure. Court followed and relied on its earlier decision in A.K. Bindal (supra).

60. In the context of M/s UPTRON itself, issue has been considered by Apex Court in State of U.P. and another Vs. UPTRON Employees Union, CMD and others AIR 2006 SC 2081. Court held, even if M/s UPTRON is a subsidiary of Government Company, there is no legal obligation cast upon State Government to pay wages due to workmen. Rights of workmen are governed by relevant provisions of Act, 1956 where their claim have been accorded priority.

61. Similar issues have been considered time and again and we reproduced some more authorities on the subject in Heavy Engineering Mazdoor Union Vs. State of Bihar and Others 1969 (1) SCC 765, it was argued that the entire shares were held by Central Government; Board of Directors as well as Chairman and Managing Director were appointed by Central Government and in all matters of importance,. power to take decision was reserved to the President of India, therefore company should be treated to be an 'industry' carried on under the authority of Central Government. A three Judges Bench considered the matter and observed " A commercial corporation acting on its own behalf, even though it is controlled wholly or partly by Government department, will be ordinarily presume not to be a servant or agent of State.

62. Matter again came up for consideration before a Constitution Bench in Steel Authority of India and others Vs. National Union Water Front Workers and Others 2001 (7) SCC 1, Court said:

"There can not be any dispute that all the Central Government companies with which we are dealing here or not and can not be equated to the Central Government though they may be "State" within the meaning Article 12 of the Constitution".

63. An Argument was advanced that Kanpur Jal Sansthan is a Government department in Kanpur Jal Sansthan and another Vs. Bapu Construction 2015 5SCC 267 but it was negatived by observing "The submission of learned counsel for appellant that the appellant being a Jal Sansthan it would come within the extended wing of the Government does not commend acceptance".

64. In State of Punjab and others Vs. Raja Ram and others 1981 (2) SCC 66, Court followed and referred, with approval, following passage from Ramana Dayaram Shetty Vs. International Airport Authority of India and others 1979 (3) SCC 489

"Even the conclusion, however that the corporation is an agency or instrumentality of Central Government does not lead to the further inference that the corporation is a Government Department".

65. In Food Corporation of India Vs. Municipal Committee, Jalalabad AIR 1999 SC 2573, in the context of imposition of House Tax under Punjab Municipality Act, 1911, Court held that Food Corporation of India was a Government company but not a 'Government department' and, therefore, a distinct entity from Central Government. Similar view was taken in the context of M/s Electronics Corporation of India Ltd which is also a Government company in M/s Electronics Corporation of India Ltd etc Vs. Secretary Revenue Department, Government of Andhra Pradesh AIR 1999 SC 1734.

66. In Pradeep Kumar Biswas Vs. Indian Institute of Chemical Biology and others 2002 (5) SCC 111, Court said that a company may be an agency or instrumentality of Government for limited purpose may be "State" within the ambit of Article 12 of the Constitution but it can not be said to be a Government or department of Government.

67. In the context of "National Textile Corporation Ltd", Court in its judgment in National Textile Corporation Ltd Vs Naresh kumar Badri Kumar Jagad and others AIR 2012 SC 264 said that it is neither Government nor department of Government but a 'Government company'. It cannot identify itself within Central Government.

68. Applicability of Article 311(1) in respect of employees of State Bank of Patiala came to be considered in Satinder Singh Arora Vs. State Bank of Patiala and others 1992 Supp (2) SCC 224. Court held that employees of Bank do not belong to such category to which Article 311(1) applies. Relevant observations made in para 8 of judgment read as under:-

"8. Mr. Garg then submitted that the Regulation 67(g) read with Regulation 68(1)(ii) permits hostile discrimination, in that, while in the case of employees governed by Article 311(1) only the authority which had actually appointed the officer can terminate his service whereas under the Regulation any officer even lower than the one who initially appointed him could be designated as the appointing authority and once so designated he can visit the employee with an order of major punishment. We do not think that the submission is well founded. Article 311(1) governs those belonging to certain stated services to which employees - the petitioner does not belong. The petitioner clearly belongs to a different class whose terms and conditions of employment are governed by a different set of regulations. The petitioner is, therefore, governed by the Regulations and as the Regulations stood at the date of the passing of the impugned order the Managing Director was clearly competent to pass the impugned order of removal."

(emphasis added)

69. Similar issue in the context of employees of State Bank of India came up for consideration in State Bank of India Vs. S. Vijaya Kumar (1990) 4 SCC 481 where Court held:-

"The right that an officer or employee of the State Bank of India cannot be dismissed from service by an authority lower than the appointing authority is a creation of statutory rules and regulations. So far as the right or protection guaranteed under Article 311 of the Constitution is concerned, it applies to members of the Civil Service of the Union or an All India service or a Civil Service of a State or who holds a Civil Post under the Union or a State. Admittedly the employees of the State Bank do not fall under any one of these categories and they cannot seek any protection under Article 311(1) of the Constitution."

(emphasis added)

70. In Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation Ltd. and others Vs. Gurudas Singh (2004) 13 SCC 418, an argument was advanced that Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation being an authority under Article 12, employees would be entitled for protection under Article 311 of Constitution of India. Repelling it, Court in paras 7-10, said:-

"7. A bare reading of the aforesaid provision in the Constitution shows that it is applicable only to a member of civil service or the Union or all-India service or civil service of a State or a person holding civil post under the Union or a State.

8. For the purpose of Article 12 the Corporation may be treated as an "authority" for the purpose of being subject to Part III of the Constitution.

9. In Som Prakash Rekhi Vs. Union of India this Court categorically observed that Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd. was a limb of Government, an agency of the State, a vicarious creature of the statute working on the wheels of the Acquisition Act. It was however held that the conclusion does not mean that for the purpose of Article 309 or otherwise, the aforesaid government company is a State and it was limited to Article 12 and Part III of the Constitution.

10. Judged in the light of the decisions of the two Constitution Bench decisions referred to above, the inevitable conclusion is that the respondent was not entitled to protection under Article 311 of the Constitution. Article 311 occurs in Part XIV of the Constitution which deals with "Services under the Union and the States" and more specifically in Chapter I of that part which deals with "Services". The head of the article reads "Dismissal, removal or reduction in rank of persons employed in civil capacities under the Union or State". The text of the article refers to members of civil services of the Union or State". The text of the article refers to members of civil services of the Union or an all-India service or a civil service or a civil post under the Union or a State. A Constitution Bench of this Court in S.L. Agarwal (Dr.) Vs. G.M. Hindustan Steel Ltd. considered as to who are the persons entitled to the protection of Article 311. In State of Assam Vs. Kanak Chandra Dutta also applicable tests were indicated by a Constitution Bench."

(emphasis added)

71. In Ajit Kumar Nag Vs. General Manager (PJ), Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. Haldia and others (2005) 7 SCC 764 relying on Constitution Bench judgment in S.L. Agarwal (Dr.) Vs. G.M. Hindustan Steel Ltd. (1970) 1 SCC 177, Court held that "an employee of a Corporation cannot be said to have held a "civil post" and, therefore, not entitled to protection of Article 311. According to Court, Corporation could not be said to be a "Department of Government" and employees of such Corporation were not "employees under Union". Corporation has an independent existence and appellant was not entitled to invoke Article 311.

72. A Division Bench of this Court also followed the above authorities and reiterated above exposition of law in State of Uttar Pradesh Through the Principal Secretary and Others Vs. Kalpana Verma and another (2019) 1 UPLBEC 659.

73. Despite repeated query, learned Senior Counsel for petitioners could not show any legal or otherwise right to sustain their claim that FCIL is obliged to ensure absorption/rehabilitation or re-employment or continued employment by getting petitioners' employed in any other company of Central Government or in the department of Central Government.

74. Further, with regard to department of Central Government, I may also add that recruitment on civil posts, in the department of Government, is governed by statutory rules framed under Proviso to Article 309 of Constitution of India. No appointment can be directed to be made in a manner which is not permitted or prescribed in the said Rules. In other words, no appointment in any manner whether absorption or otherwise can be directed to be made on any post in the department of Government contrary to statutory provisions made for such recruitments and appointments. Thus, I answer question-(iii) also against petitioners.

75. Now there remains only the last submission i.e. question-(ii) whether retrenchment/termination of petitioners is illegal and has not been made following the procedure prescribed in Section 25-N of Act, 1947.

76. Section 25N of Act, 1947 reads as under:-

"25N. Conditions precedent to retrenchment of workmen.-

(1) No workman employed in any industrial establishment to which this Chapter applies, who has been in continuous service for not less than one year under an employer shall be retrenched by that employer until,--

(a) the workman has been given three months' notice in writing indicating the reasons for retrenchment and the period of notice has expired, or the workman has been paid in lieu of such notice, wages for the period of the notice; and

(b) the prior permission of the appropriate Government or such authority as may be specified by that Government by notification in the Official Gazette (hereafter in this section referred to as the specified authority) has been obtained on an application made in this behalf.

(2) An application for permission under sub- section (1) shall be made by the employer in the prescribed manner stating clearly the reasons for the intended retrenchment and a copy of such application shall also be served simultaneously on the workmen concerned in the prescribed manner.

(3) Where an application for permission under sub- section (1) has been made, the appropriate Government or the specified authority, after making such enquiry as it thinks fit and after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard to the employer, the workmen concerned and the persons interested in such retrenchment, may, having regard to the genuineness and adequacy of the reasons stated by the employer, the interests of the workmen and all other relevant factors, by order and for reasons to be recorded in writing, grant or refuse to grant such permission and a copy of such order shall be communicated to the employer and the workmen.

(4) Where an application for permission has been made under sub-section (1) and the appropriate Government or the specified authority does not communicate the order granting or refusing to grant permission to the employer within a period of sixty days from the date on which such application is made, the permission applied for shall be deemed to have been granted on the expiration of the said period of sixty days.

(5) An order of the appropriate Government or the specified authority granting or refusing to grant permission shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (6), be final and binding on all the parties concerned and shall remain in force for one year from the date of such order.

(6) The appropriate Government or the specified authority may, either on its own motion or on the application made by the employer or any workman, review its order granting or refusing to grant permission under sub- section (3) or refer the matter or, as the case may be, cause it to be referred, to a Tribunal for adjudication:

Provided that where a reference has been made to a Tribunal under this sub- section, it shall pass an award within a period of thirty days from the date of such reference.

(7) Where no application for permission under sub- section (1) is made, or where the permission for any retrenchment has been refused, such retrenchment shall be deemed to be illegal from the date on which the notice of retrenchment was given to the workman and the workman shall be entitled to all the benefits under any law for the time being in force as if no notice had been given to him.

(8) Notwithstanding anything contained in the foregoing provisions of this section, the appropriate Government may, if it is satisfied that owing to such exceptional circumstances as accident in the establishment or death of the employer or the like, it is necessary so to do, by order, direct that the provisions of sub-section (1) shall not apply in relation to such establishment for such period as may be specified in the order.

(9) Where permission for retrenchment has been granted under sub- section (3) or where permission for retrenchment is deemed to be granted under sub- section (4), every workman who is employed in that establishment immediately before the date of application for permission under this section shall be entitled to receive, at the time of retrenchment, compensation which shall be equivalent to fifteen days' average pay for every completed year of continuous service or any part thereof in excess of six months."

(Emphasis added)

77. A perusal of Section 25N of Act, 1947 shows that a workman who is covered by Chapter V-B and has been in continuous service for at least one year, shall not be retrenched unless:

(i) Three months' written notice with reasons for retrenchment has been given and the period of notice has expired or wages in lieu of notice has been paid to him.

(ii) Prior permission of appropriate Government or specified authority has been obtained by making an application in the prescribed manner with copy to concerned workman.

78. Chapter V-B contains Sections 25-K to 25-S i.e. Special Provisions Relating to Lay-off Retrenchment and Closure in Certain Establishments.

79. Section 25-K of Act, 1947 provides "Establishment" whereupon Chapter V-B will apply and says that such industrial establishment (not being an establishment of a seasonal character or in which work is performed only intermittently) in which not less than one hundred workmen were employed on an average per working day for the preceding twelve months.

80. It is not disputed by learned counsel for respondents that FCIL satisfies the requirement of industrial establishment and, therefore, Chapter V-B is attracted in the case in hand. In respect of an appropriate Government, Section 25-L(b)(ii) provides when Central Government shall be the appropriate Government. It is also not disputed in the present case that in respect of FCIL it is Central Government which is the appropriate Government.

81. Much argument has been advanced on the question of non-compliance of Section 25-N(1), (2) and (3) of Act, 1947.

82. Sri Khan, learned Senior Counsel submitted that employer is supposed to send an application for permission under sub-section (1) to the appropriate Government in the prescribed manner stating reasons for intended retrenchment and a copy of application has to be served simultaneously on the workmen concerned in the prescribed manner. It is said that no such application was served upon petitioners.

83. The case set up by respondents is that a letter dated 28.04.2003 was sent to Central Government seeking permission for retrenchment of petitioners. A copy of said letter was also sent to workmen i.e. petitioners. These letters were sent by speed post as stated in para-4 of supplementary counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondents 2, 3 and 4 sworn by Sri Uma Dutt Sati, Assistant Office Superintendent, FCIL. Para-4 reads as under:-

"4. That in reply to the contents of paragraph 3 of the Supplementary Affidavit, it is stated that the application dated 28.04.2003 was sent by the respondent Corporation to the Ministry of Labour, Government of India seeking permission to retrench the petitioners. A copy of the said application was sent to the Petitioners through speed post on 29.04.2003. In pursuance of the application of the answering respondent dated 28.04.2003, certain queries were made by the Ministry of Labour, Government of India, through the letter dated 09.05.2003. The said queries were answered by the answering respondent by the letter dated 19.05.2003. The original application seeking permission to retrench the petitioners was sent to them as required under law. The letter dated 19.05.2003, which was a reply to the queries made from the Corporation was not necessary to be served on the Petitioners."

84. In regard to above averments, I do not find anything on record to show that copy of application sent by registered post on 22.04.2003 to petitioners was not served or received by them. On the contrary, it is admitted case of petitioners that they attended hearing before Sri J.P. Pati, Joint Secretary on 24.06.2003 which shows that not only copy of application was received by them but they were given opportunity of hearing by Government Department and the same was availed. Therefore, the contention that there is a violation of Section 25-N(2) of Act, 1947 is not accepted. It appears that petitioners claim that the subsequent query made by Government of India and replied by respondents that was not supplied to petitioners but that is not requirement of statutes, inasmuch as, statute requires copy of application sent to Government of India for permission to be supplied simultaneously to workmen. If petitioners wanted to have any copy of subsequent document which was sent to Government of India in reply to query made by it, it could have been complaint even before authority of Government of India when petitioners attended oral hearing but there is neither any averment nor any material placed before this Court to show that any such objection was raised. Hence, I am not satisfied that there is any violation of Section 25-N(2).

85. Further, in the letter written to Government of India dated 28.04.2003, in para-2, specific statement was made that workmen concerned have been given notice in writing as required under Section 25-N(1)(a) of Act, 1947 and a copy of said notice was also enclosed with letter sent to Government of India in the prescribed proforma. Para-2 of letter dated 28.04.2003 sent to Government of India in the prescribed proforma reads as under:-

"2. The workmen concerned have been given notice in writing as required under Clause (a) of sub-section (1) of Section- 25N."

86. It is not stated anywhere by petitioners that during the course of oral hearing before Sri J.P. Pati, Joint Secretary on 24.06.2003, any of the petitioners ever pointed out the fact stated in para-2 of letter dated 28.04.2003 is incorrect and no notice was given to them. Neither any such averment in that regard has been made in the amended writ petition or any affidavit filed subsequently nor any document to support this fact, has been placed on record.

87. As already said, concerned Secretary of Government of India sought some clarifications from Employer-FCIL which was given through letter dated 19.05.2003 but the said clarification cannot construed as a notice contemplated to be served upon workmen under Section 25-N(1)(a) and (2) of Act, 1947, hence, non service of said clarification sent to Government of India can be held to be non-compliance of Section 25-N(1)(a) and (2) of Act, 1947.

88. It is true that hearing was conducted by Sri J.P. Pati, Joint Secretary and letter of approval has been communicated by Smt. Chandani Raina, Deputy Director but I find that the very opening sentence of letter reads as under:-

"I am directed to refer to your application"

89. This sentence clearly shows that it is not order passed by Smt. Chandani Raina but she has conveyed the decision taken by Government on the application of employer. The said letter is only a communication of decision taken by Government. Therefore, it cannot be said that hearing was conducted by one officer and decision has been taken by another. I am also not impressed with the argument that letter dated 09.07.2003 is not in compliance of Article 77 of Constitution of India. In these facts, decision of Supreme Court in Workmen of Meenakshi Mills Ltd. etc. (supra) has no application in the facts of this case.

90. With respect to payment of compensation, I find that it was offered but not accepted by petitioners. Therefore, it is sufficient compliance and for this reason, retrenchment cannot be said to be invalid. Question-(ii), therefore, is answered against petitioners.

91. Considering the entire facts and circumstances, I do not find any merit in the writ petition. Admittedly, production in Gorakhpur Unit was suspended in 1990 and it has never been restored. 900 and odd employees working in Gorakhpur Unit have accepted VSS except petitioners. A few senior level officers were retained at Gorakhpur Unit for the purpose of completion of winding up of Unit and their retention for the said purpose cannot be construed as if Unit has continued to run.

92. There is one more suggestion that some officials have been employed in other organizations. Here also, explanation has been given by respondents in the supplementary counter affidavit that Hindustan FCL was looking for technical hands and they desired particulars of technical staff sought to be retrenched. After consideration, some of them have been employed there. It is not the case of absorption or re-employment of staff of FCIL Unit at Gorakhpur in any other establishment but a separate and independent employment given by concerned Employer to some technical staff whom they (employees) found suitable for their purpose.

93. Respondents have categorically said with respect to other staff that an attempt was made but various different establishments communicated that there was no vacancy. Therefore, I do not propose to enter into this aspect for the reason that I have already held that petitioners, as a matter of right, could not have claimed their absorption or continued employment in different independent establishments who constitutes different employer in their own rights and are under no obligation, either in the statute or otherwise, to absorb or re-employ petitioners.

94. In the result, I find no merit in the writ petition. Dismissed.

A. U.P. Government Servant (Discipline & Appeal) Rules, 1999 - assailing-order-directing re-enquiry-after a delay of 7 years-since finding produced by the enquiry officer-no reasons assigned-only stating "enquiry conducted in a cursory manner"-does not suffice-explanation required-also assailing charge sheet-submitted right after the order of re-enquiry-to be quashed-as consequential proceeding to an illegal order.

B. Held, I am of the considered opinion that since the impugned office order dated 22.7.2019 is nullity in the eyes of law, therefore, it cannot be sustained, so its consequential proceedings i.e. charge sheet dated 2.8.2019 stand automatically vitiated and is liable to be declared non est in view of the legal maxim 'SUBLATO FUNDAMENTO CADIT OPUS'.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri I.P. Singh, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Kaushlendra Tewari, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Vishal Verma, learned State counsel for the State-respondents.

2. By means of this petition, the petitioner has assailed the order dated 22.7.2019 (Annexure No.1 to the writ petition) passed by the Principal Secretary, Public Works Department, U.P., Lucknow directing for re-enquiry against the petitioner appointing enquiry officer. The petitioner has also assailed the charge sheet dated 2.8.2019 (Annexure No.2 to the writ petition) whereby the petitioner has been directed to file defence reply to the charge sheet.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has informed that the petitioner has not filed defence reply to the charge sheet nor the departmental enquiry has been conducted as yet.

4. The question for consideration is that as to whether the disciplinary authority may direct for re-enquiry without assigning reasons in writing in view of Section 9 of the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline & Appeal) Rules, 1999 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1999").

5. The next question to be considered is as to whether the contention of disciplinary authority that departmental enquiry has been conducted 'in a cursory manner' would suffice and shall be treated sufficient reason in terms of Rule 9 of the Rules, 1999.

6. The next question to be considered is that if the disciplinary authority keeps the findings of enquiry officer for substantially long period and thereafter directs for re-enquiry saying the disciplinary enquiry has been conducted in a cursory manner may be permissible in the eyes of law.

7. As to whether the departmental enquiry against an employee may be conducted serving the charge sheet pursuant to the order of re-enquiry being issued by the disciplinary authority, if the very order of re-enquiry is quashed by the Court treating the same as nullity in the eyes of law.

8. All the detailed facts are being shorn off and admitted position is being considered for adjudication of the aforesaid facts.

9. The petitioner was initially appointed on the post of Assistant Engineer on 23.2.1995 at Construction Division Deoria. On 11.11.2011, a departmental enquiry has been initiated against the petitioner under Rule 7 of the Rules, 1999. On 14.12.2011, charge sheet has been provided to the petitioner. The petitioner submitted his defence reply to the charge sheet on 9.4.2012. Thereafter, the departmental enquiry against the petitioner was conducted strictly in accordance with law. The enquiry officer has concluded the departmental enquiry examining the charge, considering defence reply of the petitioner, appreciating the comments of presenting officer and making thorough analysis of the evidences. The aforesaid departmental enquiry was concluded and the findings of the enquiry officer have been produced before the disciplinary authority on 26.10.2012.

10. Admittedly, since 26.10.2012, no order has been passed by the disciplinary authority till 22.7.2019 when the direction for re-enquiry has been given by the disciplinary authority. The disciplinary authority took about seven years in taking decision that the matter of the petitioner should be re-enquired as the enquiry officer has conducted the departmental enquiry in a cursory manner.

11. Notably, no other reason has been assigned in the impugned office order dated 22.7.2019 directing for re-enquiry of the issue of the petitioner except that the enquiry in the matter of the petitioner has been conducted in a cursory manner.

12. On 28.11.2019, direction has been issued to the State counsel to seek complete instructions in the matter fixing the date for 5.12.2019. On 5.12.2019, the State counsel has produced a letter dated 4.12.2019 preferred by one Sri Sanjai Kumar Upadhyaya, Special Secretary, Government of U.P. addressing to the Chief Standing Counsel, High Court, Lucknow Bench, Lucknow. The aforesaid letter provides that since the disciplinary authority was not agreeable with the findings of the enquiry report, which was made available on 26.10.2012, therefore, direction for re-enquiry has been issued and the Chief Engineer, Ayodhya Kshetra, Ayodhya has been appointed enquiry officer, who has issued charge sheet on 2.8.2019 and re-enquiry shall be conducted in the case of the petitioner.

13. Since the issue in question is squarely covered with the judgment and order dated 5.4.2016 passed in Writ-A No.10552 of 2016, Dr. Atul Darbari Vs. State of U.P. and others, whereby the Division Bench has set aside the identical order of re-enquiry and this Court following the decision in re; Dr. Atul Darbari (supra) decided one writ petition bearing Service Single No.32015 of 2019, Rajesh Chaudhary Vs. State of U.P. and another, vide judgment and order dated 2.12.2019 allowing the writ petition quashing the identical impugned order of re-enquiry, therefore, the present writ petition is being decided on the basis of legal submissions so advanced by the learned counsel for the parties.

14. Learned counsel for the parties are agreeable that the matter may be decided at the admission stage considering their respective legal arguments and material available on record and made available from the department.

15. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

17. For the convenience, Rule 9 of the Rules, 1999 is being reproduced herein below:-

"9. Action on Inquiry Report. - (1) The disciplinary authority may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, remit the case for re-inquiry to the same or any other Inquiry Officer under intimation to the charged Government servant. The Inquiry Officer shall thereupon proceed to hold the inquiry from such stage as directed by the disciplinary authority, according to the provisions of Rule 7. (2) The disciplinary authority shall, if it disagrees with the findings of the Inquiry Officer on any charge, record its own findings thereon for reasons to be recorded.(3) In case the charges are not proved, the charged Government servant shall be exonerated by the disciplinary authority of the charges and inform him accordingly;(4) If the disciplinary authority having regard to its findings on all or any of charges is of the opinion that any penalty specified in Rule 3 should be imposed on the charged Government servant, he shall give a copy of the inquiry report and his findings recorded under sub-rule (2) to the charged Government servant and require him to submit his representation if he so desires, within a reasonable specified time. The disciplinary authority shall, having regard to all the relevant records relating to the inquiry and representation of the charged Government servant, if any, and subject to the provisions of Rule 16 of these rules, pass a reasoned order imposing one or more penalties mentioned in Rule 3 of these rules and communicate the same to the charged Government servant."

18. Rule 9 (1) of the Rules, 1999 clearly mandates that the disciplinary authority may, for the reasons to be recorded in writing, remit the case for re-enquiry to the same or any other enquiry officer, meaning thereby if the disciplinary authority remits the matter for re-enquiry, reasons to that effect must be reduced in writing. The impugned office order dated 22.7.2019 does not reveal any specific reasons for remitting the case for re-enquiry. Therefore, the office order dated 22.7.2019 is apparently in violation of Rule 9 (1) of the Rules, 1999.

19. Since the Division Bench in re; Dr. Atul Darbari (supra) has considered the identical controversy thoroughly, therefore, paras 8, 13, 16, 17, 19, 20, 22, 23, 25, 27, 28 & 29 of the said judgment are being reproduced herein below:-

"8. Be that as it may, the question is whether the disciplinary authority could have resorted to such a practice of abandoning the Inquiry already undertaken and resort to appointment of a fresh enquiring officer.

13. The controversy in hand has been subjected to detailed scrutiny by a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in K. R. Deb V/s. the Collector of Central Excise, Shillong AIR 1971 SC 1447 in which Hon'ble Apex Court has proceeded to examine the question in the context of Rule 15 (1) Rule 15(1) of the Central Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, 1957. It was a case where an enquiry was ordered against a sub-Inspector, Central Excise. The inquiry officer held that the charge was not proved. Thereafter the disciplinary authority appointed another inquiry officer "to conduct a supplementary open inquiry". Such supplementary inquiry was conducted and a report that there was "no conclusive proof" to "establish the charge" was made. Not satisfied, the disciplinary authority thought it fit that "another inquiry officer should be appointed to inquire afresh into the charge". In K.K. Deb's case (supra) Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that an Enquiry Officer may be asked by the Disciplinary Authority to record further evidence if there had been no proper enquiry because of some serious defect or because some important witnesses were not examined. The Court categorically held therein that the previous enquiry could not be set aside on the ground that the report of the Enquiry Officer did not appeal to the disciplinary Authority. Relevant paragraphs 12 and 13 of the judgement are reproduced hereinafter:-

"12. It seems to us that Rule 15, on the face of it, really provides for one inquiry but it may be possible if in a particular case there has been no proper enquiry because some serious defect has crept into the inquiry or some important witnesses were not available at the time of the inquiry or for some other reason, the Disciplinary Authority may ask the Inquiry Officer to record further evidence. But there is no provision in Rule 15 for completely setting aside previous inquiries on the ground that the report of the Inquiring Officer or Officers does not appeal to the Disciplinary Authority. The Disciplinary Authority has enough powers to reconsider the evidence itself and come to its own conclusion under Rule 9.

13. In our view the rules do not contemplate an action such as was taken by the Collector on February 13, 1962. It seems to us that the Collector, instead of taking responsibility himself, was determined to get some officer to report against the appellant. The procedure adopted was not only not warranted by the rules but was harassing to the appellant."

16. It appears that the respondent no.1 dissatisfied with such earlier enquiry reports, ordered a de novo enquiry under the impugned order dated 4.2.2016 and appointed Shri Rudra Kumar Gupta, Special Secretary, Labour Department, Government of UP as Enquiry Officer. This practice of the respondent no.1 in carelessly and callously discarding enquiry reports, which are not to its liking and ordering for denovo enquiry without even disclosing the reasons, which weighed with it for rejecting the findings of the previous enquiry Officer, is a clear transgression of the law and requires to be deprecated in the strongest terms.

17. In Union of India V/s. M. L. Capoor and others AIR 1974 SC 87, the Supreme Court observed:

"28. . . . Reasons are the links between the materials on which certain conclusions are based and the actual conclusions. They disclose how the mind is applied to the subject matter for a decision whether it is purely administrative or quasi-judicial. They should reveal a rational nexus between the facts considered and the conclusions reached. Only in this way can opinions or decisions recorded be shown to be manifestly just and reasonable. . . . "

19. 'Reasons' are the milestones which chart the journey of the 'decision-maker' in reaching his destination. Absence of reasons thus leaves the decision-making process without a rudder and open to arbitrariness. Viewed in this light, the approach of respondent no.1 in instituting denovo enquiry by appointing Enquiry Officer afresh without even setting aside the findings recorded by the earlier Enquiry Officer, giving due reasons therefore, is clearly unsustainable in law.

20. In the present matter, it has been urged that the impugned order is in teeth of Rules 8 and 9 of Rules 1999. For ready reference, Rules 8 and 9 of Rules 1999 are extracted:-

"8. Procedure for imposing major penalties - (1) No order imposing any of the major penalties specified in Rule 6 shall be made except after an inquiry is held as far as may be, in the manner provided in this rule and Rule 10, or, provided by the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850 (37 of 1850) where such inquiry is held under that Act.

(2) Whenever the disciplinary authority is of the opinion that there are grounds for inquiring into the truth of any imputation of misconduct or misbehaviour against a member of the Service, it may appoint under this rule or under the provisions of the Public Servants (Inquiries) Act, 1850, as the case may be, an authority to inquire into the truth thereof.

(3) Where a Board is appointed as the inquiring authority it shall consist of not less than two senior officers provided that at least one member of such a Board shall be an officer of the service to which the member of the service belongs.

9. Action on Inquiry Report.-- (1) The Disciplinary Authority may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, remit the case for re-inquiry to the same or any other Inquiry Officer under intimation tot he charged Government servant. The Inquiry Officer shall thereupon proceed to hold the inquiry from such stage as directed by the Disciplinary Authority, according to the provisions of Rule 7.

(2) The Disciplinary Authority shall, if it disagrees with the findings of the Inquiry Officer on any charge, record its own findings thereon for reasons to be recorded.

(3) In case the charges are not proved, the charged Government servant shall be exonerated the Disciplinary Authority of the charges and informed him accordingly.

(4) If the Disciplinary Authority, having regard to its findings on all or any of charges is of the opinion that any penalty specified in Rule 3 should be imposed on the charged Government servant, he shall give a copy of the inquiry report and his findings recorded under sub-rule (2) to the charged Government servant and require him to submit his representation if he so desires, within a reasonable specified time. The Disciplinary Authority shall, having regard to all the relevant records relating to the inquiry and representation of the charged Government servant, if any, and subject to the provisions of Rule 16 of these rules, pass a reasoned speaking order imposing one or more penalties mentioned in Rule 3 of these rules and communicate the same to the charged Government servant."

22. Rule 9 prescribes action on the enquiry report. Rule 9 (1) provides that the Disciplinary Authority may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, remit the case for re-inquiry to the same or any other Inquiry Officer under intimation to the charged Government servant. The Inquiry Officer shall thereupon proceed to hold the inquiry from such stage as directed by the Disciplinary Authority, according to the provisions of Rule 7. Rule 9 (2) provides that the Disciplinary Authority shall, if it disagrees with the findings of the enquiry Inquiry Officer on any charge, record its own findings thereon for reasons to be recorded. Rule 9 (3) provides that in case the charges are not proved, the charged Government servant shall be exonerated the Disciplinary Authority of the charges and informed him accordingly. Rule 9 (4) provides that If the Disciplinary Authority, having regard to its finding on all or any of charges is of the opinion that any penalty specified in Rule 3 should be imposed on the charged Government Servant, he shall give a copy of the inquiry report and his finding recorded under sub-rule (2) of Rule 9 to the charged Government Servant and require him to submit his representation if he so desires, within a reasonable specified time. The Disciplinary Authority shall having regard to all the relevant records relating to the inquiry and representation of the charged Government Servant, if any, and subject to the provisions of Rule 16 of these rules, passes a reasoned order imposing one or more penalties mentioned in Rule 3 of these and communicate the same to the charged Government Servant.

23. It can be seen from the above that the normal rule is that there can be only one enquiry. Hon'ble Apex Court has also recognized the possibility of a further enquiry in certain circumstances enumerated therein. The decision, however, makes it clear that the fact, that the report submitted by the enquiring authority is not acceptable to the disciplinary authority, is not a ground for completely setting aside the enquiry report and ordering a fresh denovo enquiry. Therefore, we are of the considered opinion that the principle laid down in K.R. Deb's case, would squarely apply to the case in hand.

25. In our opinion, on general principles, there can be only one enquiry in respect of charges for a particular misconduct and that is also what the Rules usually provide. If, for some technical or other good ground, procedural or otherwise the first enquiry or punishment or exoneration is found bad in law, there is no principle that a second enquiry cannot be initiated. Therefore, when a completed enquiry proceedings is set aside by a competent forum on a technical or on the ground of procedural infirmity, fresh proceedings on the same charges is permissible.

27. A bare perusal of the order impugned and the record in question this much is accepted position that at no point of time the disciplinary authority had proceeded to give any reason for disagreeing with the earlier enquiry reports in question. Therefore, in these circumstances there is no justification for conducting a second enquiry on the very same charges. Law is clear on the subject, and permits only disciplinary proceedings and same cannot be approved as harassment and allowing such practice is not in the interest of public service. Same view has also been approved by Hon'ble Apex Court in Nand Kumar Verma vs. State of Jharkhand and others (2012) 3 SCC 580 and Vijay Shankar Pandey vs. Union of India and another (2014) 10 SCC 589.

28. We, therefore, have no hesitation in holding that the impugned order dated 4.2.2016 for denovo/ a fresh enquiry against the petitioner on the same charges, which were subject matter of the enquiry reports dated 29.9.2014 and 14.10.2014, is illegal and arbitrary; and hence, is liable to be set aside. The impugned order dated 4.2.2016 is consequently set aside.

29. The writ petition is accordingly allowed and the respondent no.1 is directed to take appropriate decision in the light of the enquiry reports dated 29.9.2014 and 14.10.2014 within a period of two months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order before him. There shall be no order as to costs."

20. So far as the term being used by the disciplinary authority while directing for re-enquiry that the enquiry officer has conducted enquiry in a cursory manner, the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Vijay Shankar Pandey v. Union of India and another, (2014) 10 SCC 589 has interpreted the word 'cursory' in para-32. Para 32 of the aforesaid judgment is being reproduced herein below:-

"32. Coming to the first reason- that the report is a cursory report. A copy of the report is not made available to the appellant. The content of the said report is not known. The only admitted fact about the report is that the appellant was exonerated of all the charges made against him. If such a conclusion is otherwise justified, whether the report is cursory or elaborate, should make no difference to the legality of the report. What matters is the correctness of the conclusions recorded, not the length or the elegance of the language of the report which determines the legality of the conclusions recorded in it. Therefore, this ground is equally untenable."

21. As per the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Vijay Shankar Pandey (supra) indicating the word that enquiry officer has made enquiry in a cursory manner would not suffice but as to how the findings of the enquiry officer are cursory should be explained. In view of the aforesaid reason, the Hon'ble Apex Court has disapproved using the word 'cursory' without indicating the reason as to how it was cursory.

22. Therefore, the impugned office order dated 22.7.2019 is not in conformity with Rule 9 (1) of the Rules, 1999 as no reasons have been assigned and assigning the reason that the enquiry in question has been conducted in a cursory manner has not been approved by the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Vijay Shankar Pandey (supra), so I am of the considered opinion that the office order dated 22.7.2019 is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

23. I have also noted that the disciplinary authority has not taken final decision for about seven years after receiving the findings of the enquiry officer on 26.10.2012 without any cogent reasons to that effect, therefore, such an inordinate delay in taking final decision after receiving the findings of enquiry officer vitiates the entire purpose of conducting re-enquiry.

24. Since I am of the considered view that the impugned office order dated 22.7.2019 is non est in the eyes of law being violative of Rule 9 (1) of the Rules, 1999, therefore, I also hold that the charge sheet, which has been issued pursuant to the office order dated 22.7.2019, is non est in the eyes of law and no departmental enquiry can be conducted against the petitioner on the basis of the aforesaid charge sheet in view of legal maxim 'SUBLATO FUNDAMENTO CADIT OPUS'.

25. The Hon'ble Apex Court in re; State of Punjab Vs. Davinder Pal Singh Bhullar and others connected with Sumedh Singh Saini Vs. Davinder Pal Singh Bhullar and others, reported in (2011) 14 SCC 770 has considered the aforesaid maxim in paras-107 to 111, which are being reproduced here-in-below:-

"107. It is a settled legal proposition that if initial action is not in consonance with law, all subsequent and consequential proceedings would fall through for the reason that illegality strikes at the root of the order. In such a fact-situation, the legal maxim "sublato fundamento cadit opus" meaning thereby that foundation being removed, structure/work falls, comes into play and applies on all scores in the present case.

108. In Badrinath v. State of Tamil Nadu & others, AIR 2000 SC 3243; and State of Kerala v. Puthenkavu N.S.S. Karayogam & Anr,, (2001) 10 SCC 191, this Court observed that once the basis of a proceeding is gone, all consequential acts, actions, orders would fall to the ground automatically and this principle is applicable to judicial, quasi-judicial and administrative proceedings equally.

109. Similarly in Mangal Prasad Tamoli (dead) by Lrs. v. Narvadeshwar Mishra (dead) by Lrs. & Ors., (2005) 3 SCC 422, this Court held that if an order at the initial stage is bad in law, then all further proceedings, consequent thereto, will be non est and have to be necessarily set aside.

110. In C. Albert Morris v. K. Chandrasekaran & Ors, (2006) 1 SCC 228, this Court held that a right in law exists only and only when it has a lawful origin*. (See also: Upen Chandra Gogoi vs. State of Assam & Ors.,, (1998) 3 SCC 381; Satchidananda Misra v. State of Orissa & Ors.,, (2004) 8 SCC 599; Regional Manager, SBI v. Rakesh Kumar Tewari,, (2006) 1 SCC 530; and Ritesh Tewari & Anr. v. State of U.P. & Ors., AIR 2010 SC 3823).*

111. Thus, in view of the above, we are of the considered opinion that the orders impugned being a nullity, cannot be sustained. As a consequence, subsequent proceedings/ orders/ FIR/ investigation stand automatically vitiated and are liable to be declared non est."

26. In view of the aforesaid dictums of the Hon'ble Apex Court considered in re; Davinder Pal Singh Bhullar (supra), I am of the considered opinion that since the impugned office order dated 22.7.2019 is nullity in the eyes of law, therefore, it cannot be sustained, so its consequential proceedings i.e. charge sheet dated 2.8.2019 stand automatically vitiated and is liable to be declared non est in view of the legal maxim 'SUBLATO FUNDAMENTO CADIT OPUS'.

27. Accordingly, all the questions have been answered in favour of the petitioner.

28. A writ in the nature of certiorari is issued quashing the office order dated 22.7.2019 passed by opposite party no.1, which is contained in Annexure No.1 to the writ petition and charge sheet dated 2.8.2019, which is contained in Annexure No.2 to the writ petition.

29. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the opposite parties to provide all consequential service benefits, promotion, benefit of ACP etc. with expedition, preferably within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

30. The writ petition is accordingly allowed.

C.S.C.

A. U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 - Rule 4 - suspension order is violative of Rule 4 - petitioner wrongly applied the Government Order while providing the benefit of revised pay scale to the Class III employees of the department-major punishment may not be given subject to the findings of enquiry officer-the suspension order is not sustainable in the eyes of law-mandamus writ is issued to reinstate the petitioner and pay him salary. (Par 16)

The suspension order should not be exercised in arbitrary manner and without any reasonable ground or as misuse of power. Suspension should be made only in a case where there is a strong prima-facie case against the delinquent employee and the allegations involving moral turpitude, grave misconduct or indiscipline or refusal to carry out the orders of superior authority are there or there is strong prima-facie case against him, if proved, would ordinarily result in major punishment. 3. Union of India & Anr. Vs. Ashok Kumar Aggarwal, para 21 and 22

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Upendra Nath Mishra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Neel Kamal Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Ran Vijay Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The order under challenge is the suspension order dated 10.12.2019 passed by the Additional Chief Secretary, Department of Finance (Lekha Parikchha), Anubhag-1, Civil Secretariat, Lucknow, which is contained as Annexure no. 1 to the writ petition.

3. By means of aforesaid suspension order the petitioner has been placed under suspension on the allegation that by wrongly indicating the Government Order dated 24.12.2009 instead of Government Order dated 7.9.2009 the employees of the department has illegally been given the benefit of pay fixation. However, the charge-sheet dated 31.12.2019 has been issued against the petitioner containing three charges which has been framed by breaking the sole allegation of wrong fixation of revised pay scale of Class-III employees of the Cooperative Societies and Panchayat into three charges. The three charges are (i) wrong fixation of pay of Senior Assistants of the Department due to issuance of alleged illegal order dated 25.6.2017 by the petitioner, (ii) issuance of an irregular correction order dated 29.3.2019 by the petitioner and (iii) the alleged excess payment of arrears due to pay fixation thereby causing huge loss to the State-Exchequer.

4. The aforesaid charge-sheet has been assailed by the petitioner by filing Service Single No. 299/2020 wherein the counter affidavit has been called to the effect as to whether charge-sheet dated 28.12.2019 is dated 31.12.2019 when the inquiry officer has made signature on the said charge sheet on 28.12.2019 as it is said to have been prepared by the disciplinary authority on 28.12.2019. No interim protection restraining to conduct the departmental inquiry has been passed. As a matter of fact this Court is of the view that since the charge-sheet has been issued containing some charges, veracity of the charges may not be examined and those charges may be proved or disproved during the course of the departmental inquiry strictly in accordance with law.

5. So far as the suspension order dated 10.12.2019 is concerned the Court is appreciating the validity of the suspension order as under.

6. This Court is conscious that if the allegations of the suspension order and the charge-sheet are appreciated, the inquiry officer / disciplinary authority would have nothing to inquire during the course of the departmental inquiry inasmuch as the allegations so levelled against the petitioner must be proved on the basis of preponderance of the probabilities for which the relevant material and evidences are led and examined by the inquiry officer. Therefore, the validity of the suspension order shall be tested on the settled principles as to whether the suspension order is sustainable in the eyes of law.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted with vehemence that the impugned suspension order is violative of Rule 4 of the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999. For the brevity Rule 4(1) is being reproduced herein below :

"4. Suspension. -(1) A Government servant against whose conduct an inquiry is contemplated, or is proceeding may be placed under suspension pending the conclusion of the inquiry in the discretion of the appointing authority :

Provided that suspension should not be resorted to unless the allegations against the Government servant are so serious that in the event of their being established may ordinarily warrant major penalty :

Provided further that concerned Head of the Department empowered by the Governor by an order in this behalf may place a Government servant or class of Government servants belonging to Group 'A' and 'B' posts under suspension under this rule :

Provided also that in the case of any Government servant or class of Government servants belonging to Group 'C' and 'D' posts, the appointing authority may delegate its power under this rule to the next lower authority."

8. A bare perusal of the aforesaid Rule 4 clearly mandates that the suspension order can be issued only when the charges against an employee are very serious entailing the major punishment i.e. dismissal, removal or reduction in rank. In other words in case the charges are not so serious and grave entailing the major punishment, the recourse of suspension order should be avoided.

9. In the present case the charges mentioned in the impugned suspension order are not serious enough, prima-facie, which in the event of being proved, would warrant imposition of any major penalty.

10. Notably, the petitioner has been placed under suspension on the allegations that petitioner has allegedly issued wrong directions in his letter dated 26.5.2017 and 29.3.2019, whereby subordinate authorities were directed to apply the provisions of G.O. dated 22.3.2013 read with G.O. dated 24.12.2009 and fitment table contained in G.O. dated 7.9.2009. However, the respondent-authorities are of the opinion that pay revision of Class-III employees i.e. Senior Assistants working in the department should have been made only as per provisions of para 11 of Government Order dated 8.12.2008 and not as per Government Order dated 7.9.2009 and 24.12.2009. Therefore, the said authorities have observed that the benefit of pay revision to such employees of the department should have been made only as per para 11 of the Government

Order dated 8.12.2008 read with fitment table of G.O. dated 11.12.2008. Accordingly, the petitioner has been charged for having committed misconduct as per Rule 3 of the Conduct Rules, 1956 for not applying the aforesaid Government Order dated 8.12.2008 and 11.12.2008.

11. While doing so, it appears, prima-facie, the State-respondents have not noticed that the provisions of Government Order dated 8.12.2008 were amended by the subsequent Government Order dated 24.12.2009 and similarly the provisions of fitment table applicable on the Pay-Band of Rs. 5200-20200 (relevant for the issue in question) were also amended by the fitment table issued through the subsequent Government Order dated 7.9.2009. However, the petitioner appears to have applied, prima-facie, both the aforementioned amended Government Orders daed 24.12.2009 and 7.9.2009. It appears that petitioner in a bonafide manner has applied those government orders which, as per him, were applicable at that point of time. There may be some confusion to that effect on the part of the petitioner but there is no allegation in the suspension order or charge-sheet to the effect that petitioner having any ulterior motive or malafide intention has applied the Government Orders dated 24.12.2009 and 7.9.2009 instead of 8.12.2008. Therefore, for any bonafide confusion having cogent explanation to that effect the petitioner should have not been placed under suspension. If there was no bonafide confusion on the part of the petitioner as aforesaid, the explanation from the petitioner could have been called and necessary orders against those employees who have received the benefit of revised pay scale could have been issued. During the course of argument it has been noted that the notices of recovery against all the employees who have got benefit of pay revision have been issued seeking explanation from those employees, therefore, if those employees could not justify the benefit so availed by them would be liable for recovery proceedings and in that case, prima-facie, no loss would be caused to the State-Exchequer.

12. Learned Additional C.S.C. has submitted with vehemence that since there is no case of the petitioner that the impugned suspension order is an outcome of malafide nor it is without jurisdictional order, therefore, such suspension order should not be interfered. In support of aforesaid argument Sri Ran Vijay Singh has placed reliance on the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in re: (1) State of Orissa vs. Bimal Kumar Mohanty -1994 (4) SCC 126; and (2) Punjab National Bank vs. D.M. Amarnath -(2006) 10 SCC 162 by submitting that if the suspension order has been passed pending departmental inquiry it should not be interfered with.

13. Sri Ran Vijay Singh has also placed reliance on some judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court by submitting that normally the constitutional courts should not interfere with the show cause notice or charge-sheet, therefore, the charge-sheet issued against the petitioner may not be interfered. Since the subject matter of the present writ petition is suspension order not the charge-sheet, therefore, those case laws are not applicable in the present issue.

14. However, Sri Upendra Nath Mishra, learned Senior Advocate has placed reliance of the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in re: Union of India and another vs. Ashok Kumar Aggarwal placing reliance on para 21 and 22 of the aforesaid judgment which are being reproduced herein below:

"21. The power of suspension should not be exercised in an arbitrary manner and without any reasonable ground or as vindictive misuse of power. Suspension should be made only in a case where there is a strong prima facie case against the delinquent employee and the allegations involving moral turpitude, grave misconduct or indiscipline or refusal to carry out the orders of superior authority are there, or there is a strong prima facie case against him, if proved, would ordinarily result in reduction in rank, removal or dismissal from service. The authority should also take into account all the available material as to whether in a given case, it is advisable to allow the delinquent to continue to perform his duties in the office or his retention in office is likely to hamper or frustrate the inquiry.

22. In view of the above, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that suspension order can be passed by the competent authority considering the gravity of the alleged misconduct i.e. serious act of omission or commission and the nature of evidence available. It cannot be actuated by mala fide, arbitrariness, or for ulterior purpose. Effect on public interest due to the employee's continuation in office is also a relevant and determining factor. The facts of each case have to be taken into consideration as no formula of universal application can be laid down in this regard. However, suspension order should be passed only where there is a strong prima facie case against the delinquent, and if the charges stand proved, would ordinarily warrant imposition of major punishment i.e. removal or dismissal from service, or reduction in rank etc."

15. As per the Hon'ble Apex Court the suspension order should not be exercised in arbitrary manner and without any reasonable ground or as misuse of power. Suspension should be made only in a case where there is a strong prima-facie case against the delinquent employee and the allegations involving moral turpitude, grave misconduct or indiscipline or refusal to carry out the orders of superior authority are there or there is strong prima-facie case against him, if proved, would ordinarily result in major punishment. The Hon'ble Apex Court has cautioned that while issuing the suspension order the aforesaid facts should be considered by the authority concerned carefully. The aforesaid observation of the Hon'ble Apex Court makes it abundantly clear that the authority competent who passed the suspension order must take care of the gravity of the seriousness of the charges and he must have strong satisfaction, prima-facie, that in case the charges are proved the delinquent employee would have to face major punishmet.

16. In the present case the sole allegation against the petitioner is that he has wrongly applied the Government Order while providing the benefit of revised pay scale to the Class-III employees of the department. It has also been noted that the necessary orders seeking explanation from the employees who have received the benefit of revised pay scale, have been issued for recovery and if those employees could not justify the benefit received by them, necessary orders of recovery may likely to be issued and in that case there would be no loss to the State Exchequer. Further, there is no allegation against the petitioner to the effect that while applying the government orders which as per the State-respondent are not applicable in the issue in question, the petitioner was having any ulterior motive or malafide intention, therefore, at the best the petitioner could have been asked as to how he has applied wrong government orders and after considering the reply of the petitioner appropriate decision may be taken strictly in accordance with law during the course of the departmental inquiry but for this allegation, I think the major punishment may not be awarded to the petitioner subject to the findings of enquiry officer. It is clarified here that this observation shall not affect the departmental proceedings in any manner whatsoever and the inquiry officer shall not only conduct and conclude the departmental inquiry strictly in accordance with law while affording opportunity of hearing to the petitioner but shall not be influenced from any finding being given herein above. However, on the material available on records and the arguments so advanced by the learned counsel for the parties, I am of the considered opinion that in view of dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court in re: Ashok Kumar Aggarwal (supra) the impugned suspension order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and prima facie appears to be violative of Rule 4 of the Rules of 1999 besides being unwarranted and uncalled for in view of the facts and circumstances of the issue in question.

17. Accordingly, the suspension order dated 10.12.2019 passed by the Additional Chief Secretary, Department of Finance (Lekha Parikchha), Anubhag-1, Civil Secretariat, Lucknow which is contained as Annexure no. 1 to the writ petition, is hereby quashed.

18. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the opposite parties to reinstate the petitioner and pay him salary and other emoluments regularly with promptness, preferably within a period of 15 days from the date of production of certified copy of the order of this Court.

19. It is made clear that the departmental inquiry against the petitioner may be conducted and concluded, if it is so warranted but strictly in accordance with law.

20. In the result the writ petition succeeds and accordingly Allowed.

21. No order as to costs.

A. Service – Usurpation of 'Public Office' - Sanjay Gandhi Post-Graduate Institute of Medical Sciences, First Regulation, 2011 – Maintainability of writ of quo-warranto would depend on whether office in question is a 'Public Office' and the person is holding it without any legal authority.

A 'Public Office' is the right, authority and duty created and conferred by law, by which an individual is vested with some portion of the sovereign functions of the Government either executive, legislative or judicial, to be exercised by him for the benefit of the public, for the term and by the tenure prescribed by law. It implies a delegation of portion of sovereign power. (Para 12)

There is a distinction between Public Office, Public Authority and Public Duty. A Chief Medical Superintendent of SGPGIMS can be said to be discharging a Public Duty but that ipso facto would not make the post of Chief Medical Superintendent a 'Public Office'. (Para 7)

B. 'Sovereign function' – For a particular function to be a 'sovereign function' it would depend on the nature of the power and the manner in which it is exercised. The mere fact that one is an employee of a statutory body would not ipso facto mean that the function exercised by such employee is 'Sovereign' in nature. (Para 13 & 14)

As per the determining test, the office in question cannot be held to a 'Public Office'. (Para 16)

Writ Petition dismissed. (E-4)

3. Agriculture Produce Market Committee Vs. Ashok Hariauni and another, (2000) 8 SCC 61 (Para 13 & 14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Moin, J.)

1. Heard Sri I.P. Singh, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Kaushlendra Tewari, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for State-respondents, Sri Sanjay Bhasin, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Kshitij Misra, learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 2 and Sri Gyanendra Srivastava, learned counsel appearing for respondent no.4.

2. Present petition has been filed by the petitioner praying for a writ in the nature of quo-warranto thereby ousting respondent no.3-Amit Agarwal from the post of Chief Medical Superintendent, Sanjay Gandhi Post-Graduate Institute of Medical Sciences, Raebareli Road, Lucknow.

3. The writ petition has been filed with the allegation that respondent no.3 has usurped the "Public Office" of Chief Medical Superintendent and is not qualified to hold the said post.

4. Sri Sanjay Bhasin, learned Senior Advocate, has raised a preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the writ petition by placing reliance on the Sanjay Gandhi Post-Graduate Institute of Medical Sciences, First Regulation, 2011 (hereinafter referred to as the '2011 Regulations') to contend that the post of Chief Medical Superintendent in Sanjay Gandhi Post-Graduate Institute of Medical Sciences (hereinafter referred to as the 'SGPGIMS') is not a 'Public Office'. It has been further argued that in order to maintain a writ of quo-warranto, the petitioner has to substantiate that the office is a 'Public Office' and the person against whom the writ of quo-warranto is sought is a usurper holding the 'Public Office' without any legal authority.

5. The entire aspect of the matter pertaining to what is a 'Public Office' has been considered by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Dr. Neetu Singh vs. State of U.P. and others passed in Writ Petition No.24229 (MB) of 2019 decided on 05.09.2019 wherein considering almost the entire law on the subject, the Division Bench has held as under:-

"8.1 In case of Dr P.S.Venkata Swamy Setty Vs University of Mysore-(AIR 1964 Mysore 159; Para 11,13,14) it has been held that the Professors and Readers of a University do not exercise any governmental function nor they are vested with the power or charged with the duty of acting in execution or enforcement of law. They are merely employees of the Statutory Body. They cannot therefore in any sense be described as holders of Public Offices in respect of which a Writ of Quo-warranto would lie.

8.2 In Dr P.S.Venkata Swamy Setty (Supra), the University of Mysore though its Registrar, vide Notification dated 25th June,1959 invited Applications for various posts of Professors and Readers in different subjects. The Petitioner therein was one of the Applicants for the post of Reader in Physics. Several candidates were interviewed but none was selected and therefore, One Post of Professor and Three Posts of Reader in Physics were re-advertised and consequently the Private Respondents were selected. The Petitioner filed Writ Petition praying for a Writ of Mandamus or Writ of Quo-Warranto against the Private Respondents primarily on the ground that the appointments are invalid or unauthorized because qualifications set out in Second Notification were not shown to have been prescribed by Syndicate of the University and some of the Respondents did not possess the minimum qualifications.

Specific objection was raised with regard to maintainability of a Writ of Quo-warranto and after considering various judicial pronouncements, the Mysore High Court has held as under in Paragraph 11, 13 & 14:

"PARA 11

The peculiar characteristics of the writ of quo-warranto and the history of its development in England are found discussed in the leading case of The King V.Speyer,(1916))1 KB 595.Lord Reading , C.L, points out that originally a writ of quo warranto was available only for use by the King against encroachment of royal prerogative or of rights, franchise or liberties of the Crown but that later it gave place to the practice of filing information by the Attorney General on the strength of which the Court enquired into the authority whereby the respondent held any public position. Later still, the King's coroner commenced the practice of exhibiting the information of quo warranto at the instance of even private persons. To prevent the abuse of this practice, statutes were subsequently passed during the reign of the King William and Queen Mary, after which the practice of coroner filing information was stopped. Another statute was passed during the reign of Queen Anne making the issue of a writ of quo warranto subject to the discretion of the Court to grant or refuse the same upon the information exhibited by private persons. In a sense, the proceedings were criminal in nature because the party who laid information before the Court was merely in the position of an informer or a relator. The long history of the proceedings in quo qarranto led to considerable conflict of decisions. The matter was fully examined by the House of Lords in the case of Darley v.R.,(1846) 12 Cl. And F. 520 at p.537: 8 ER 1513, in which Tindal , C.J expressed his conclusion in the following of quoted words :-

"After consideration of all the cases and dicta on this subject, the result appears to be that this proceeding by information in nature of quo warranto will lie for usurping any office, whether created by charter alone , or by the Crown, with the consent of Parliament, provided the office be of a public nature, and a substantive office, not merely the function or employment of a deputy or servant held at the will and pleasure of others".

In India we have a republican Constitution. Hence in India the nature of Office in respect of which quo warranto will lie must be taken to be an office created by the Constitution itself or by any statute and invested with the power or charged with the duty of acting in execution or in enforcement of the law. We might add that the office may be either an elective office or one in respect of which a nomination or appointment is made by a specified authority and that in the case of elective office, we generally have the procedure of election petitions which makes it unnecessary for any one to proceed by way of a writ of quo warranto.

Provided the office is of the character or nature described above, it is well established in England that the Petitioner who is only a relator need not have any personal interest in the matter. All that is necessary is that he should act bona-fide in public interest and should not be a mere man of straw acting at the instance of others or on ulterior motives. The writ, as already stated, is purely discretionary with the Court and will not issue unless the Court is satisfied that it is necessary to issue the writ in public interest.

PARA 14

The principles stated in the case of 1916, 1 KB 595 have been applied in India also. The only case where it was held that even in the case of quo warranto the petitioner must have a personal interest before he could move the Court is the decision of a single Judge Chandra Reddi,J. as he then was, of the Madras High Court reported in re ,Chakkaral Chettiar , AIR 1953 Mad 96. His Lordship purported to follow the decision of a Bench of that High Court reported at Page 94 of the same Volume. That Bench decision, however, related to a case of certiorari.The opinion of Chandra Reddi ,J.,was dissented from by a subsequent Bench ruling of the Madras High Court in Sivarama Krishnan v.Arumugha Mudliar, (S) AIR 1957 Mad 17. It is pointed out in that case that no other High Court in India has accepted Justice Chandra Reddi's view, Among the rulings of other High Courts expressing such dissent are Biman Chandra V. Governor, West Bengal, AIR 1952 Cal 799 and V.D.Deshpande v. State of Hyderabad(S) AIR 1955 Hyderabad 36. In the latter decision other cases, both English and Indian, and found discussed and the principles formulated."

8.3 Similar observation have been made in the case of Dr D.K. Belsare Vs Nagpur University; (1980) 82 Bom LR 494, Para 60,61,64,66.

8.4 In Dr D.K. Belsare (supra) the Petitioner before the Bombay High Court filed a Writ of Quo-warranto against the incumbent appointed as Professor of Zoology. The Writ Petition was filed on the ground that: (a) the appointment is Malicious; (b) Selection Committee has not been constituted in terms of the provisions; and (c) Appointment of Respondent No.3 was illegal. After considering the provisions of the Act and the Statutes of the University and legal prepositions, the Bombay High Court held as under :

"PARA 60

We have presently pointed out earlier that in this case this submission about collateral attack is not at all maintainable. The next ruling is Alex Beets v. M.A Urmese. In this ruling, a writ for quo warranto was asked for by a medical graduate against an Hon.Medical Officer with certain other reliefs. It was contended that the Government has bound to observe the provisions of Art, 16 of the Constitution of India and to advertise invitations for applications thereof , which was not done in that case. It was held that in the absence of such a case in the Petition, this could not be urged at the final hearing. Consequently, it was held that a challenge under Art.16 cannot be urged by one who was not an aspirant to the post. It was further held that challenge under art.16 cannot be heard in a motion cannot be heard in a motion for quo warranto and breach of art.16 can be challenged in a writ of certiorari only and it was further held by the Kerala High Court that possession of a Public Office under a Government Order is not usurpation of Office, for which alone quo-warranto lies.

PARA 61

Then the next ruling is the University of Mysore v S.C.Govinda Rao, but there is nothing particular in this ruling and it only lays down the procedure and the next ruling is Dr P.S.Venkataswamy v.University of Mysore. In Para 11 of this ruling, the Mysore High Court observed as follows:

"In India we have a republican Constitution. Hence in India the nature of Office in respect of which quo warranto will lie must be taken to be an office created by the Constitution itself or by any statute and invested with the power or charged with the duty of acting in execution or in enforcement of the law."

PARA 64

We have already referred to the ruling of Rajasthan High Court. The Rajasthan High Court has held that it is a statutory post. We are respectfully not in agreement with the said reasoning of the Rajasthan High Court . It is admitted fact that Professor is appointed by the Executive Council upon recommendation made by the Selection Committee in that behalf. It is true that Professor is appointed under the powers vested in the Executive Council but that by itself does not go to show that the post of Professor is a statutory post created by Statute itself. We are in respectful agreement with the observations made by the Mysore High Court and we, therefore, hold that the post of Professor in Zoology, with which we are concerned in this case, is not a public office for which a writ of quo -warranto is issued.

PARA 66

We have already pointed out that it is not the contention of Mr.Oka that he is challenging the constitution of the Selection Committee but we have also pointed out that he is relying upon the statutory provisions to show that the Selection Committee was not properly constituted as per s.45 of the University Act. If the Petitioner were to challenge the very constitution of the Selection Committee itself, then the ruling on which Mr.Deshpande placed reliance, regarding collateral attach would have been applicable to the facts of the instant case but in as much as no such contention is raised by the Petitioner, there is no force in this contention raised by Mr.Deshpande. The only contention of the petitioner is that the post is not filled in accordance with the section, which was required to be made in accordance with law. In result, therefore, it will be seen that it cannot be held that the post of Professor of Zoology is a public office and, therefore, a writ of quo warranto cannot be issued. The result is that there is no merit in this petition and it deserves to be dismissed and is accordingly dismissed. Rule is discharged, but in the circumstances of this case, there will be no Order as to costs."

8.5 In the case of University of Mysore Vs Govinda Rao AIR 1965 SC 491; Para 6, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that the Quo-warranto proceeding affords a judicial enquiry in which any person holding an independent substantive public office, or franchise, or liberty, is called upon to show by what right he holds the said office, franchise or liberty. If the enquiry leads to the finding that the holder of the Office has no valid title to it, the issue of the writ of Quo-warranto ousts him from that Office.

8.6 In Govinda Rao (Supra) the Mysore High Court allowed the Writ Petition and consequently issued a Writ of Quo-warranto against the Research Reader in English in Central College, Bangalore, being aggrieved thereof Special Leave Petitions were filed which were converted into Civil Appeal No.417 and 418 of 1963. Allowing the Civil Appeals, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

PARA 6

"The Judgment of the High Court does not indicate that the attention of the High Court was drawn to the technical nature of the writ of quo-warranto which was claimed by the Respondent in the present proceedings, and the conditions which had to be satisfied before a writ could issue in such proceedings.

As Halsbury has observed:

"An information in the nature of a quo warranto took the place of the absolate writ of quo-warranto which lay against a person who claimed or usurped an Office, franchise, or liberty to enquire by what authority he supported his claim, in order that the right to the office or franchise might be determined.

Broadly stated, the quo-warranto proceeding affords a judicial enquiry in which any person holding an independent substantive public office, or franchise , or liberty, is called upon to show by what right he holds the said office, franchise or liberty. If the enquiry leads to the finding that the holder of the Office has no valid title to it, the issue of writ of Quo-warranto ousts him from that Office. In other words, the procedure of quo-warranto confers jurisdiction and authority on the judiciary to control executive action in the matter of making appointments to public offices against the relevant statutory provisions; it also protects a citizen from being deprived of public office to which he may have a right. It would thus be seen that if these proceedings are adopted subject to the conditions recognized in that behalf, they tend to protect the public from usurpers of public office; in some cases, persons, not entitled to public office may be allowed to occupy them and to continue to hold them as a result of the connivance of the executive or with its active help, and in such cases, if the jurisdiction of the courts to issue writ of quo warranto is properly invoked, the usurper can be ousted and the person entitled to the post allowed to occupy it. It is thus clear that before a citizen can claim a writ of quo warranto , he must satisfy the court, inter-alia, that the office in question is a public office and is held by usurper without legal authority, and that necessarily leads to the enquiry as to whether the appointment of the said alleged usurper has been made in accordance with law or not."

8.7 In the case of B. Srinivasa Reddy VS Karnataka Urban Water Supply and Drainage Board Employees Association reported in (2006) 11 SCC 731 II Para 76; *the judgment of Learned Single Judge directing for the ouster of Managing Director, Karnataka Urban Water Supply was affirmed by the Division Bench of High Court of Karnataka in Writ Appeal No.86 of 2006. The matter went up to the Hon'ble Supreme Court and after considering the definition of "Public Office' as defined in Black's Law Dictionary, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that certain essential elements are to be established in order to hold an Office / Post as "Public Office'.

8.8 The aforesaid essential elements can be summarized as under:-

a) Position must be created by constitution, legislature or authority conferred by legislature.

b) Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to such position.

c) Duties and powers must be defined directly or impliedly.

d) Duties must be performed independently without control or superior power other than law.

e) Position must have some permanency and continuity.

8.9 The Hon'ble Apex Court in Srinivasa Reddy (Supra) observed that the Appeals involve substantial questions of law regarding interpretation of certain provisions of Karnataka Urban Water Supply and Drainage Board Act, 1973 and the Rules made there under and also the principles of law governing the writ of quo warranto.

Consequently the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"PARA 76

"The Notification dated 31.01.2004 clearly stated that the appointment is on contract basis and until further orders. While laying down the terms of appointment in its order dated 21.04.2004, the Government of Karnataka clearly stated that the "term of contractual appointment of Shri B.Srinivasa Reddy shall commence on 01.02.2004 and will be in force until further orders of the Government and this is a temporary appointment". Section 6(1) of the Act categorically states that the Managing Director shall hold Office during the pleasure of the Government. The power and functions of the Board are laid down in Chapter V of the Act. A reading of the Act clearly shows that neither the Board nor its Managing Director is entrusted with any sovereign function. Black's Law Dictionary defines public office as under:"

"Public Office- Essential characteristics of "public office' and (1)authority conferred by law, (2) fixed tenure of Office, and (3) power to exercise some portion of sovereign functions of Government; key element of such test is that "Officer' is carrying out sovereign function, Spring v. Constantino. Essential elements to establish public position as "public office' are: position must be created by Constitution , legislature or through authority conferred by legislature, portion of sovereign power of Government must be delegated to position, duties and powers must be defined, directly or impliedly, by legislature or through legislative authority, duties must be performed independently without control or power other than law and position must have some permanency and continuity .State v.Taylor."

*9. It is now a trite law that in order to maintain a Writ of Quo-Warranto it has to be established that the post held by the alleged usurper is a "Public Office'.

10. In our opinion, one of the most important conditions which the person seeking a writ of quo-warranto must satisfy is that the Office in question is a "Public Office' and the same is of a public nature. If this condition is satisfied, only in such a case the Court may proceed further to inquire as to whether the appointment to the "Public Office' is really in violation of statutory rules and regulations or any provision of law.

11. Pre-requisite for maintaining a Writ of Quo-warranto is to establish and satisfy before the Court that the Office in question is a "Public Office' and it is held by a person without legal authority.

6. When the facts of the instant case are tested on the touchstone of law laid down by this Court in the case of Dr. Neetu Singh (supra), the basic question would be as to whether the holder of the post of Chief Medical Superintendent would be considered to be holder of a 'Public Office' and whether the post of Chief Medical Superintendent qualifies the essential characteristics of 'Public Office' as illustrated in the aforesaid Division Bench judgment.

7. There is a distinction between Public Office, Public Authority and Public Duty. A Chief Medical Superintendent of SGPGIMS can be said to be discharging a Public Duty but that ipso facto would not make that the post of Chief Medical Superintendent as a 'Public Office' for the purpose of maintaining a writ of quo-warranto.

8. In regard to "Public Office', the Calcutta High Court in the case of Shashi Bhushan Ray Vs Pramatha Nath Bandopadhyay reported in (1966) SCC Online Cal 153;Paragraph 45 has relied upon Ferris Extra-ordinary Legal Remedies (Page 168), and consequently observed that the Law is stated to be that a Public Office is the right, authority and duty created and conferred by law by which an individual is vested with some portion of the sovereign functions of the Government to be exercised by him for the benefit of the Public, for the term and by the tenure prescribed by Law. In other words, it entails an obligation of the sovereign power.

9. "Public Office' as explained by the Major Law Lexicon IV Edition 2010 is as under:

"Public Office' defined .55-6 V.c.40 S.4 A position whose occupant has legal authority to exercise a government's sovereign powers for a fixed period.

10. A "Public Office' is the right, authority and duty created and conferred by law, by which an individual is vested with some portion of the sovereign functions of the government to be exercised by him for the benefit of the public, for the term and by the tenure prescribed by law. It implies a delegation of a portion of the sovereign power. It is a trust conferred by public authority for a public purpose, embracing the ideas of tenure, duration, emoluments and duties. The determining factor, the test, is whether the Office involves a delegation of some of the solemn functions of government, either executive, legislative or judicial, to be exercised by the holder for the public benefit.(72 CWN 64,Vol.72) [Extraordinary Legal Remedies, by Ferris as referred in V.C.Shukla v. State(Delhi Admn),(1980) Supp 249,266 Para 26] In Re Miram's(1891) IQB 594 Cave.J, said "to make the Office a Public Office the pay must come out of national and not out of local funds the Office must be public in the strict sense of that term. It is not enough that the due discharge of the duties should be for the public benefit in a secondary and remote sense".

11. According to the Black's Law Dictionary 6th Edition, the term ''Public Office' is explained as under:

"Public Office, Essential characteristics of "Public Office' are (1) authority conferred by law (2) fixed tenure of Office and (3) power to exercise some portion of sovereign functions of government; key element of such test is that "Officer" is carrying out sovereign function. Spring v. Constantino, 168 Conn.563,362 A...2nd 871, 875. Essential elements to establish public position as ''Public Office' are position must be created by Constitution, Legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature, portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position, duties and powers must be defined, directly or impliedly, by legislature or through legislative authority, duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and position must have some permanency and continuity. State ex rel.Eli.Lily and Co. v Gaertner, Mo.App,619 S.W, 2D , 761, 764."

12. What can be deduced from the term ''Public Office' as explained by various authorities and the authoritative pronouncements is that a ''Public Office' is the right, authority and duty created and conferred by law, by which an individual is vested with some portion of the sovereign functions of the Government to be exercised by him for the benefit of the public, for the term and by the tenure prescribed by law. It implies a delegation of portion of sovereign power. It is a trust conferred by public authority for a public purpose, embracing the idea of tenure, duration, emoluments and duties. A public officer is, thus to be distinguished from a mere employment or agency resting on contract, to which such powers and functions are not attached. The Common Law Rule is that in order for the writ of quo warranto to lie, the office must be of a public nature. The determining fact, the test, is whether the office involves a delegation of some of the solemn functions of Government either executive, legislative or judicial, to be exercised by the holder of such office for general public benefit at large. Unless his powers are of this nature, he is not a public officer.

13. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of ''Agriculture Produce Market Committee VS Ashok Hariauni and another' reported in (2000) 8 SCC 61, in Paragraph 21, has held as under:

Para 21:

"In other words, it all depends on the nature of power and the manner of its exercise. What is approved to be "Sovereign' is defence of the Country, raising armed forces, making peace or war, foreign affairs, power to acquire and retain territory. These are not amenable to the jurisdiction of ordinary Civil Courts. The other function of the State including welfare activity of State could not be construed as "Sovereign' exercise of power. Hence every governmental function need not be "Sovereign'. State activities are multifarious, from the primal "Sovereign' power which exclusively inalienably could be exercised by the sovereign alone, which is not subject to challenge in any civil court to all the welfarte activities, which would be undertaken by any private person. So merely if one is an employee of statutory bodies would not take it outside the Central Act. If that be so then Section 2(a) of the Central Act read with Schedule I gives large number of statutory bodies which should have been excluded, which is not. Even if a statute confers on any statutory body, any function which could be construed to be "Sovereign' in nature would not mean every other functions under the same statute to be also sovereign. The court should examine the statute to sever one from the other by comprehensively examining various provisions of the Statute . In interpreting any statute to find if it is "industry' or not we have to find its pith and substance. The Central Act is enacted to maintain harmony between employer and employee which brings peace and amity in its functioning. This peace and amenity should be objective in the functioning of all enterprises. This is to the benefit of both the employer and employee. Misuse of rights and obligations by either or stretching it beyond permissible limits have to be dealt with within the framework of the law but endeavour should not be in all circumstances to exclude any enterprise from its ambit. That is why courts have been defining "industry' in the widest permissible limits and "sovereign' functioning within its limited orbit."

14. From the perusal of the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in Agriculture Produce Market Committee (supra) it is culled out that for a particular function to be a "sovereign function' it would depend on the nature of the power and the manner in which it is exercised. All Welfare Activities of the State could not be construed as ''Sovereign' exercise of power. Hence, every governmental function need not be ''Sovereign'. The mere fact that one is an employee of a statutory body would not ipso facto mean that the function exercised by such employee is ''Sovereign' in nature.

15. Soverign has been defined in Black's Law Dictionary as under:-

"Sovereign: adj.

(Of a state) characteristic of or endowed with supreme authority< sovereign nation> < sovereign immunity>.

Sovereign: n

1. A person, body or State vested with independent and supreme authority.

2. The ruler of an independent state-

Sovereign people

The political body consisting of the collective number of citizens and qualified electors who possess the powers of sovereignty and exercise them through their chosen representatives.

Sovereign power

The power to make and enforce laws."

16. From the aforesaid discussion, it is evident that the post of Chief Medical Superintendent of SGPGIMS cannot be held to be a 'Public Office' merely because the SGPGIMS is in the field of medical service. The office of Chief Medical Superintendent does not seem to involve an obligation of any of the sovereign functions of the Government either

Executive or Legislative or Judicial for public benefit. It cannot be said that the public in general is interested and non-observance of the obligations of employment of respondent no.3 as a Chief Medical Superintendent, in any event, shall effect the interest of public at large; and even if it would affect, the same shall be too remote so as to make the office of the Chief Medical Superintendent a 'Public Office'.

17. Taking into consideration the aforesaid discussion, the preliminary objection as raised by Sri Sanjay Bhasin, learned Senior Advocate is upheld and the writ petition is accordingly dismissed.

A. Service – Appointment/Recruitment - U.P. Subordinate Service Selection Commission Act, 2014: Section 2, 15(2), 17, 18; U.P. Industry Department (Handloom and Textile Industry Directorate) Subordinate Service Rules, 1992; Direct Recruitment (4th Amendment) Rules, 2014: Rule 5(3)(A); U.P. Public Service Commission Rules, 2002; U.P. Direct Recruitment to Group 'C' Posts (Method and Procedure) Rules, 2015: Rule 8(1); U.P. Rules of Business, 1975 - The question for consideration before this Court is that whether the rules as amended in the year 2014, or Rules of 2015 notified after the formation of the Commission by the Act of 2014 would be applicable. (Para 24)

Once the Commission was established, it was bound to follow the rules and regulations so framed under the act and to do away with the earlier procedure prescribed under the various rules and regulations. Selection has to be made according to the rules applicable at the time of advertisement and not subsequently, but the present case is slightly different. The Rules of 2014 were not amended or aid of any other rules and regulations were taken into consideration, but after the Rules of 2014 were amended and notified on 29.01.2014, the U.P. Act No. 20 of 2014 came into force and gazette notification was made on 04.12.2014, pursuant to which Rules of 2015 were made which came into operation. (Para 31)

The Commission after advertisement proceeded to make selection on basis of interview after the notification of Rules of 2015 in the month of June 2015. If the interview was held and select list was prepared before the date of notification of Rules of 2015 i.e. 11.05.2015 then Rule 5 (3) (A) of Rules of 2014 would have been applicable and not Rules of 2015. (Para 32)

B. Rule 8 (1) of the Rules of 2015 - Approval of the State Government while conducting and completing the selection proceedings - State Government has power to amend or modify the said rules and any such amendment or modification is binding on the Commission. Therefore, prior to making selection, Commission was not required to send for approval to the State Government. (Para 34)

C. Entire selection process cannot be vitiated unless it was impossible to distinguish the case of tainted from non-tainted one - It is clear from the facts that 47 candidates, having discrepancies in the form filled up by them, are easily identifiable and can be segregated from the list of 152 selected candidates. Thus, the entire selection process cannot be set- aside in one go. (Para 35 & 37)

Writ Petitions allowed. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal,J.)

1. All these five connected writ petitions have been filed challenging the order dated 28.09.2017 passed by the State respondents whereby cancelling the entire selection process made pursuant to the advertisement dated 22.01.2015.

2. To appreciate the controversy in question, it is necessary to advert to the facts of the case, in brief, which are as under;

Facts

3. U.P. Subordinate Service Selection Commission Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as the "Commission') constituted under the U.P. Subordinate Service Selection Commission Act, 2014, issued an advertisement published on 22.01.2015 inviting applications for filling up 156 posts of group "C' which included post of Textile Inspector, Power Loom Inspector, Industrial Supervisor/Technical Supervisor-cum-Accountant, Viewer Textile and Examiner Textile in Hathkargha Evam Vastra Udyog department of the State of U.P. This advertisement was issued on the requisition sent by the Handloom and Textile Directorate on 07.01.2015 to the Commission.

4. Petitioners, in Writ Petition No. 49709 of 2017, applied pursuant to the said advertisement. According to the averment made in the writ petition petitioner nos. 1 to 16 applied for post of Textile Inspector, petitioner nos. 17 to 34 applied for the post of Power Loom Inspector, petitioner nos. 35 to 49 applied for the post of Industrial/Technical Supervisor, petitioner nos. 50 to 66 applied for the post of Supervisor-cum-Accountant, petitioner nos. 67 to to 79 applied for the post of Viewer Textile, petitioner nos. 80 and 81 applied for the post of Master Weaver and petitioner no. 82 applied for the post of Examiner Textile. These petitioners alongwith the petitioners of other connected matters were called for interview on different dates in the month of June 2015. Post interview a select list was published by the Commission on different dates as given below

(i)Select list for the post of Textile Inspector was published on 13.06.2015.

(ii)Select list for the post of Power Loom Inspector was published on 08.06.2015.

(iii)Select list for the post of Industrial Supervisor/Technical Supervisor was published on 23.06.2015.

(iv)Select list for the post of Supervisor-cum-Accountant was published on 09.07.2015.

(v)Select list for the post of Viewer Textile was published on 10.07.2015.

(vi)Select list for the post of Master Weaver was published on 25.05.2015.

(vii)Select list for the post of Examiner Textile was published on 26.05.2015.

5. The Commission thereof forwarded each of the select list for different categories to the Hathkargha Evam Vastra Udyog department. As stated in paragraph 9 of the Writ Petition No. 49709 of 2017, the result, so published, included the names of the petitioners selected for various categories. It was for the first time on 18.03.2016 that the respondent no. 2 referred the matter to the State Government regarding selection which was challenged before this Court and the Lucknow Bench. On 25.04.2016 the State Government directed the respondent no. 2 to issue appointment letters to 152 candidates with regard to whom proceedings for verification of documents had been completed subject to the decision of this Court and the Lucknow Bench.

6. As no appointment letters were issued, some of the selected candidates Mohd. Mustafa Ansari and others preferred Writ Petition No. 23905 of 2016 before this Court, and on 24.05.2016 this Court directed the respondent no. 2 to comply with the order of the State Government within three weeks. Copy of the order dated 24.05.2016 has been brought on record as Annexure No. 13 to the writ petition. Similarly, some other selected candidates filed another writ petition being Writ Petition No. 33177 of 2016 (Krishna Kumar Bharti and others Vs. State of U.P. and others), this Court relying upon the earlier decision of this Court dated 24.05.2016, on 21.07.2016 directed the second respondent to comply the orders of the State Government. This order has also been brought on record as Annexure No. 14 to the writ petition.

7. Respondent no. 2 on 06.05.2016 intimated the State Government regarding some complaints received and also apprised the Government of the fact that Direct Recruitment (4th Amendment) Rules, 2014 envisages for holding of written examination, but the Commission proceeded for selection on basis of interview conducted by giving a go by to the written examination. On the same date, respondent no. 2 also sent a communication to the Commission making certain queries. Further, respondent no. 2 on 07.06.2016 sought guidance of the State Government regarding orders of this Court dated 24.05.2016 and the irregularities made in the selection proceedings. The State Government on 20.06.2016 apprised that on basis of complaint received decision would be taken in consultation with the Administrative Department, Hathkargha Evam Vastra Udyog Department, Commission and Law Department of the State. From the pleadings, it transpires that several meetings and consultation of various agencies of the State Government was held and different opinions were received, such as opinion of the Personnel Department, Commission and the Law Department. It was on 28.09.2017 that the State Government proceeded to cancel the selection of 152 candidates and also recalled its earlier order dated 25.04.2016.

8. The order impugned dated 28.09.2017 found following discrepancies in the selection made by the Commission, which are as under;

(i)The application forms of 31 candidates did not specify the required experience.

(ii)The application form with regard to one candidate did not specify the employment nor enclosed any experience certificate.

(iii)The experience certificate of six candidates was found to be suspicious.

(iv)In the experience certificate of one candidate as against the required experience of five years the specified experience was for a period of four years, two months and 30 days.

(v)Applications of six candidates instead of specifying the experience specified the training.

(vi)One application did not even bear the signature of the candidate.

(vii)The experience certificate of two candidates had been found to be incorrect.

(viii)Four candidates showed their experience of a period during which they were pursuing educational qualifications.

(ix)The select list did not comply with the requirement of horizontal/vertical reservation.

(x)There existed serious procedural irregularities with regard to 47 out of 150 selected candidates, which vitiated the entire selection.

(xi)The selection did not comply with the procedure as amended in the year 2014; U.P. Subordinate Services Selection Commission Act, 2014 read with U.P. Direct Recruitment Against Group-C Posts (Method and Procedural) Rules, 2015.

Law as applicable:

9. Before proceedings further it would be necessary to have a glance of the relevant Act, Rules and Regulations applicable at the relevant point of time for the selection and appointment on post of Group "C'.

(i)U.P. Industry Department (Handloom and Textile Industry Directorate) Subordinate Service Rules, 1992 (hereinafter referred to as the "Rules of 1992') in which only interview was mode prescribed for selection to the abovementioned posts.

(ii)Direct Recruitment for Group "C" Posts (Outside the purview of the U.P. Public Service Commission Rules, 2002 (hereinafter referred to as the "Rules of 2002') issued vide notification dated 29.06.2002. Submissions

10. Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Sri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the petitioners, submitted that request sent by the Hathkargha Evam Vastra Udyog department to the Commission for selection on Group 'C' posts was on basis of Rules of 1992 which only provided for interview. He further submitted that the State Government notified the Rules of 2002 on 29.06.2002 which was amended for the first time on 21.06.2003 and subsequently fourth amendment was notified on 29.01.2014 which came to be known as Rules of 2014, provided for both written examination and interview.

11. He further contended that the Commission was constituted pursuant to the Act of 2014 and Section 17 provides that the concerned department will intimate the vacancy to the Commission and further the Commission under Section 18 after receiving the requisition for the vacancies will as soon as possible start procedure for selection either through written examination or interview or both.

12. Sri Khare, learned Senior Counsel, pointed out that once the Commission was established it was in its wisdom in pursuance to Section 18 either to hold written examination or make selection on basis of interview or for both. He further contended that Section 15 (2) of the Act of 2014 further provide for rules and regulations to be framed in regard to appointment, and State Government on 11.05.2015 notified the Rules of 2015. According to Rule 8 of Rules of 2015 direct recruitment can be made either by written examination or interview.

13. Thus, in the present case, though the requisition was made by the department concerned on 07.01.2015 and advertisement was published on 21.01.2015, Rules of 2014 were applicable, but at the time when interview was held in month of June 2015, Rules of 2015 were already notified by the State Government, which only required that direct recruitment can be made either by written examination or on basis of interview, thus, the stand of the State Government that the selection process was faulted on the count that Rule 5 (3) (A) of Rules of 2014 were not followed and entire selection process stood vitiated as only interview was held by the Commission, cannot be sustained.

14. Sri Khare, learned Senior Counsel, further submitted that the order impugned dated 28.09.2017 is in teeth of the law laid down by the Apex Court and this Court, wherein it is found that certain candidates had not fulfilled the eligibility criteria the entire selection will not go and only selection of those candidates who have not complied the requirement of the advertisement, their candidature would be rejected. Reliance has been placed upon the decision of Apex Court in the case of Union of India Vs. Rajesh P.U. Puthuvainikathu, 2003 (7) SCC 285, Inderpreet Singh Kahlon Vs. State of Punjab and others, 2006 (11) SCC 356 and Jogendra Pal and others Vs. State of Punjab and others, 2014 (6) SCC 644. Reliance has also been placed upon decision of Division Bench of this Court, writ petitions being Writ-A No. 37143 of 2017 (Ajeet Singh Patel and others Vs.

State of U.P. and others) decided on 28.11.2017.

15. The State contested the matter by filing counter affidavit in which it is stated that the advertisement published on 21.01.2015 categorically mentioned the fact that if application form was not on prescribed format, or was incomplete then the application shall be cancelled. It has been specifically mentioned in paragraph nos. 6 to 9 of the counter affidavit, filed in Writ Petition No. 49709 of 2017, that the form filled up by 31 candidates had not made proper disclosure in column no. 10, and their application form being defective was liable to be rejected. It has also been stated that direct recruitment should have been made following provisions of Rules and Regulations framed under Section 15 (2) of U.P. Act No. 20 of 2014 and not under the provisions of Rules of 1992. It is further stated that pursuant to Section 15 (2) of the Act of 2014, Rules of 2015 had been framed and notified on 11.05.2015, and the Commission has not complied the provisions of Rule 8 (1) of Rules of 2015, which provided for approval of selection process from the Government while conducting and completing selection proceedings. It is also mentioned that the Commission had intimated the respondent no. 2 on 21.01.2017 that application forms of 47 selected candidates did not fulfill the essential educational qualification/experience and other necessary formalities as required in terms of the advertisement. In paragraph 13 it has also been averred that in a meeting presided by the Principal Secretary on 09.09.2016 it was decided that since the Commission had not complied with provisions of Rule 8 (1) of the Rules of 2015 and there were certain irregularities in the selection, opinion was sought from the Department of Personnel as well as Law.

16. The State has also taken stand in their counter affidavit that provisions of Section 18 of the Act of 2014 provides that Commission after intimation of vacancies under Section 17 either hold examination or interview or both, and prepare a list of the candidates, who are found suitable. Further procedure for selection has been provided in Rule 8 (1), which required prior approval of the Government.

17. It has also been stated by the State that request was sent by the concerned department to the Commission on 07.01.2015 and Rules of 2014 was in existence, and selection of Group 'C' post was required to be made on basis of written examination and interview both, and Rules of 1992 was not applicable as the same was forwarded alongwith the request by the department to the Commission. Apart from relying upon provisions of Sections 17 and 18 of the Act of 2014, the State has also relied upon the statement of object and reason for promulgating the Act of 2014.

18. Sri Jagdish Singh Bundela, learned Standing Counsel, appearing for respondent nos. 1 to 3, has submitted that the vacancies which were notified by way of advertisement on 21.01.2015, at that relevant point of time Rule 5 (3) (A) of Rules of 2014 was in operation, which required that both written examination for 40 marks and interview for 25 marks was to be held, but the Commission proceeded to hold interview only, which was against the Rules of 2014. Learned Standing Counsel invited the attention of the Court to the various discrepancies in the application forms filled up by number of candidates, who found place in the select list, as they failed to adhere to the requisite requirement of the advertisement, which is on record as Annexure No. 1 at page 45 of the paper book, the note appended categorically states that if the form was not in conformity with the format of the Commission or was inproperly filled or it did not bear the signature of the candidate at the right place, then the same could be rejected in a cursory manner.

19. Learned counsel for the State tried to impress upon the fact that 31 such candidates whose form were scrutinized and whose details have been furnished in paragraph nos. 6 to 9 of the counter affidavit was not in conformity with the advertisement and were liable to be rejected. He further pointed out that number of petitions are pending before the Lucknow Bench of this Court. Sri Bundela, further, stressed that the Commission proceeded to hold the selection process on basis of Rules of 1992 and Rules of 2015 which provided only for interview and not written examination, while Rule 5 (3) (A) of Rules of 2014, were amended in the year 2014, categorically provides for written examination of 40 marks and interview of 25 marks, thus, giving go by to the procedure laid down in the rules vitiated the entire selection procedure.

20. Reliance has been placed on a decision of the Apex Court in the case of Sonia Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limited, 2007 (10) SCC 627, wherein the Apex Court has held that the selection will be governed and covered by rules prevailing on the date of which applications were invited and not to the subsequent rules or amendment.

He further submitted that in view of Section 18 of the Act of 2014 the Commission was not fully empowered to act on its own and proceedure for selection has been provided in Section 17 (1) and (2) of the Act. Reliance has also been placed upon the object and reason of promulgating the Act of 2014.

21. Sri Prabhakar Awasthi, learned counsel appearing for the Commission, has submitted that the Commission was a formal party and had acted only on basis of the requisition so received by it and after selection, so made, forwarded it to the Government. Apart from it, no other submissions were forwarded on behalf of the Commission neither any counter affidavit was filed.

Conclusion

22. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

23. The entire controversy hinges around the applicability of Rules of 2014, U.P. Act No. 2014 and the Rules of 2015.

24. The question for consideration before this Court is that whether the rules as amended in the year 2014, or Rules of 2015 notified after the formation of the Commission by the Act of 2014 would be applicable.

25. As it is not in dispute that a requisition for the appointment of 156 candidates for Group "C' posts were made by Hathkargha Evam Vastra Udyog department to the Commission on 07.01.2015. Acting on the request, the Commission proceeded to make advertisement inviting applications from eligible candidates on 21.01.2015. It is also not in dispute that at this relevant point of time the Rules of 2014 were in operation which mandated written examination as well as interview. The advertisement did not provide for any examination or interview. It appears that as the Act of 2014 came into force on 04.12.2014, the Commission in exercise of its power provided under Section 18 had proceeded to make advertisement for selection on Group "C' posts. The State Government thereafter framed the Rules of 2015 exercising power under Section 2 of U.P. Act No. 20 of 2014 wherein in Rule 8 it was provided that Group "C' appointments can either be made by written examination or by interview.

26. While Rules of 2015 were notified on 11.05.2015 i.e. after the date of advertisement, which was published on 21.01.2015. The moot question is whether the Commission which was constituted after coming of amended Rules of 2014 by U.P. Act No. 20 of 2014 was to proceed in accordance with the Rules of 2014 as advertisement was made on 21.01.2015 while rules made pursuant to Act were notified on 11.05.2015, in view of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Sonia (supra), or the rules followed by the Commission proceeding to make selection on basis of interview, which were held in the month of June 2015 subsequently to the enforcement of the Rules of 2015.

27. It is no doubt true that at the time of publication of advertisement Rules of 2014 which was amended twice was in force, but it cannot be denied that the concerned department had requested the Commission for making selection on basis of the Rules of 1992 which provided for selection on basis of interview only. It is also correct that the Rules of 2015 were notified subsequent to the advertisement which were in place before interview took place.

28. The stand taken by the State is two fold. Firstly, it is relying upon the certain discrepancies in the form filled by 47 candidates and there being defect in filling up column no. 10 on basis of which the selection process has been set-aside. The State has also taken a stand in its counter affidavit that the Commission had not complied with the Rule 8 (1) of the Rules of 2015 by not taking prior approval of the State Government while conducting and completing the selection proceedings. The State cannot, at the same time, blow hot and cold by taking two stand, firstly that Rule 5 (3) (A) of Rules of 2014 provided written examination of 40 marks and interview of 25 marks and secondly that the Rules of 2015 were not followed as far as taking prior approval for selection process. It has to stick to one ground whether the Rules of 2014 are applicable on the Commission or Rules of 2015 are applicable.

29. From the reading of U.P. Act No. 20 of 2014, it is clear that once the Commission was established pursuant to the gazette notification, the Commission proceeded for selection for Group "C' posts. It was required under Section 15 (2) of the Act of 2014 to make selection in view of rules and regulations framed thereunder.

30. As the Rules of 2015 were notified on 11.05.2015 the Commission proceeded to make selection as per Rules of 2015 which required for either written examination or interview. Thus the action of the Commission cannot faulted on the count that it was to proceed on the basis of Rules of 2014, specifically Rule 5 (3) (A) which provided for written examination as well as interview. The statement of object and reason of promulgating the Act of 2014 also has relevance and same is extracted here as under;

"It is necessary to select able, worthy and hard working personnel for appointment to certain posts in administrative departments of the State. It is also necessary to ensure the quality of selection, its impartiality and transparency in their selection. Though the institution of Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission is present at Constitutional Level but owing to increased pressure on its working, difficulty is being realized regarding selection on Group "C" posts. In near past, selection on Group "C" post was being done under the direct supervision of the State Government, but Head of Department had to devote much time for the above selections which is severely affecting the Government works as well as the works of public interest. Due to all these reasons, it is quite necessary to establish an independent Subordinate Service Selection Commission consisting of the Chairperson and Members similar to that of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission for timely selection on certain Group "C" posts. It has therefore, been decided to make a law to provide for the establishment of a Commission by the name of the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Service Selection Commission for the selection on certain Group "C" posts in the State "

31. Thus, from reading the object, it is clear that Commission has been established for making selection of certain Group "C" post in the State to select able, worthy and hardworking persons in administrative department of the State. Once the Commission was established, it was bound to follow the rules and regulations so framed under the act while making selection and to do away with the earlier procedure prescribed under the various rules and regulations. It is no doubt true that selection has to be made according to the rules applicable at the time of advertisement and not subsequently, but the present case is slightly different, as in case in hand the Rules of 2014 were not amended or aid of any other rules and regulations were taken into consideration, but after the Rules of 2014 were amended and notified on 29.01.2014, the U.P. Act No. 20 of 2014 came into force and gazette notification was made on 04.12.2014, pursuant to which Rules of 2015 were made which came into operation.

32. Had the Commission held the interview and prepared the select list before the date of notification of Rules of 2015 i.e. 11.05.2015 then the argument of the State could have been accepted to the extent that Rule 5 (3) (A) of Rules of 2014 were applicable and not Rules of 2015, but the Commission after advertisement proceeded to make selection on basis of interview after the notification of Rules of 2015 in the month of June 2015. Thus, relevant rule for consideration for selection would be Rules of 2015 and not the Rules of 2014.

33. The second argument of the State to the extent that prior approval of the State was not taken by the Commission in view of Rule 8 (1) of Rules of 2015 is also not founded on any strong ground, as plain and simple reading of the rule suggests that Commission while dealing with the process of direct recruitment either on basis of written examination or marks of interview shall advert to the rules which are from time to time approved by the State Government.

34. In the present case the rules were already notified on 11.05.2015 and Rule 8 categorically provided that the procedure for direct recruitment will either be held on basis of written examination or marks of interview. It is not in dispute that the State Government has power to amend or modify the said rules and any such amendment or modification is binding on the Commission. Thus, the argument of the State cannot be accepted by any stretch of imagination that prior to making selection, Commission was required to send for approval to the State Government.

35. As far as the argument made by learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioners that the entire selection process did not stood vitiated on the ground that there were certain discrepancies found by the Commission in the form of certain candidates and the entire selection could not be held to be tainted, finds support from the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Ajeet Singh Patel and others (supra) as well as the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Rajesh P.U. Puthuvainikathu (supra) wherein Apex Court held that there was no justification to deny appointment to those selected candidates whose selection was not vitiated in any manner. In Jogendra Pal and others (supra) Apex Court considering its earlier judgment in the case of Inderpreet Singh Kahlon (supra) held that entire selection process cannot be vitiated unless finding was arrived that it was impossible to distinguish the case of tainted from non-tainted one.

36. As in the present case, the order impugned clearly mentions that out of 152 candidates selection of 47 candidates suffers from serious procedural irregularities. In the counter affidavit in paragraph nos. 6 to 9 candidate wise list has been given stating the discrepancies in their forms, so submitted, thus, the respondent State functionaries are well aware of the fact that who are tainted and non-tainted candidates and thus by a sweeping order the entire selection process cannot be set-aside in one go, which is against the mandate of Apex Court in the case of Jogendra Pal and others (supra).

37. Considering the facts of the case and keeping in mind the decisions of the Apex Court and Division Bench of this Court, I am of the view that the respondent State proceeded to set-aside the entire selection process merely on the ground that out of 152 selected candidates, candidature of 47 candidates was found to be not in accordance with the terms and conditions as mentioned in the advertisement, and non-submission of the requisite qualification by them in the form, which cannot be the basis for cancelling the entire selection, so made. As from the reading of order impugned, it is clear that those 47 candidates are easily identifiable and can be segregated from the list of 152 selected candidates. Thus, the orders impugned are not based on any sound and cogent reasons and same are hereby quashed.

38. It is expected that the State authorities shall issue necessary orders for the rest of the selected candidates whose candidature are in accordance with the law and the earlier order of State Government dated 25.04.2016 being modified to the extent that appointment order be issued to those validly selected candidates excluding those whose forms are not in proper format, as given in the order impugned dated 28.09.2017.

39. All the writ petitions stand allowed.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE THE HON'BLE SUNEET KUMAR, J.

Writ-A No. 54270 of 2017

Ramakant ...Petitioner
Versus
Union of India & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Prem Narayan Rai, Sri Bikash Kumar Mishra, Sri Himanshu Kumar, Sri Jafar Naiyar

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.S.G.I., Sri Rohan Gupta, Sri Shabha Jeet Singh, Sri Shivam Shukla

A. Challenging-impugned order-affirming-petitioner's dismissal-from the post of bus conductor-on the ground-obtaining appointment on the basis of forged caste certificate-wilfully & deliberately-suppressed-real social status-caste certificate-the very foundation of appointment-declared to be false-appointment rendered-void or non-est.

B. Held, once the social status certificate is declared false by the competent authority, the appointment would render void or non est. In that event, the employer would not be required to initiate regular departmental proceedings under the Rules for the reason that the certificate would bind the disciplinary authority. In such an event, the delinquent employee can be removed from service upon a show cause notice. The disciplinary authority would have no occasion to return a finding in a proceeding to a charge. The very foundation on which the services of the delinquent employee was based upon being demolished, the consequence would be automatic removal from service. In the instant case, admittedly, the District Collector being the competent authority upon verification had certified that the petitioner does not belong to the SC community, consequently, the appointment of the petitioner would render it void or non est. Even then IIT Kanpur got conducted a full-fledged departmental enquiry for imposition of major penalty in accordance with the Rules.

Writ Petition dismissed. (E-8)

List of cases cited: -

1. Kumari Madhuri Patil v. Additional Commissioner, Tribal Development

2. R. Vishwanath Pillai v. State of Kerala

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar,J.)

1. Heard Sri Jafar Naiyar, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Prem Narayan Rai and Sri Himanshu Kumar, learned counsels for the petitioner and Sri Rohan Gupta, learned counsel assisted by Sri Shivam Shukla, learned counsels for the respondent.

2. Petitioner, by the instant writ petition is assailing the order dated 6 November 2017, passed by the second respondent, Chairman, Board of Governors, Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur1, District Kanpur Nagar, affirming the order of dismissal dated 20 April 2017, passed by the third respondent, Director, IIT Kanpur, District Kanpur Nagar.

3. The facts giving rise to the instant petition is that petitioner applied for the post of bus conductor pursuant to Advertisement No. 24 of 1982, under the Scheduled Caste (SC) category on the strength of caste/social status certificate dated 14 July 1978, being member of 'Majhwar' community. The caste certificate was duly issued by the Tehsildar, Tehsil Kalpi, District Jalaun. Petitioner came to be appointed on the post of bus conductor on 28 May 1983, subsequently, was confirmed and made permanent on 30 March 1988, on the post of Bus Conductor Grade-II. On a complaint received by IIT Kanpur, alleging that petitioner obtained appointment on a forged caste certificate. Petitioner belongs to Other Backward Class (OBC), i.e. caste 'Kewat'. On the complaint, petitioner was subjected to notice dated 22 April 2014, calling upon him to show cause. Petitioner replied to the show cause notice denying the allegations levelled against him. The competent authority of the IIT Kanpur communicated with the District Magistrate, Jalaun, to enquire into the social status of the petitioner. No response was received, consequently, IIT Kanpur sought the intervention of the Ministry of Human Resources Development, Government of India. The Human Resources Department vide communication dated 11 March 2015, requested the Chief Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh, to direct the District Magistrate, Jalaun, to enquire into the matter. It appears, thereafter, the District Magistrate, Jalaun at Orai, vide communication dated 30 April 2015, informed IIT Kanpur that petitioner belongs to 'Kewat/Mallah/Nishad' community which is notified as OBC.

4. Petitioner came to be suspended on 22 June 2015, and was also served the articles of charge along with imputation of misconduct and the list of documents and witnesses in support of the charges. Three charges were leveled against the petitioner primarily alleging that petitioner had obtained appointment under the SC category, intentionally and deliberately misrepresenting his caste as "Majhwar', whereas, in fact, he belongs to 'Kewat' caste recognized as OBC notified by the Government of India. Petitioner filed written statement denying the charges, consequently, an enquiry officer came to be appointed. The IIT Kanpur sought to prove the charge on the statement of three witnesses, including, Tehsildar, Tehsil Kalpi, District Jalaun. The witnesses appeared and deposed in the presence of the petitioner, he was allowed to cross examine them. In defence, petitioner offered himself as a defence witness and Sri Munna Lal his cousin. Petitioner contended before the enquiry officer that he was born in "Majhwar' community which is recognized as SC. In support of his contention, he submitted copy of the family register, wherein, it has been shown that he belongs to hindu "Majhwar' caste. Reliance was placed on an order passed by this Court in a petition being Writ Petition No. 42794 of 2002 (Smt. Shashi Lata Versus Superintending Engineer and others), wherein, the niece of the petitioner Smt. Shashi Lata was held belonging to "Majhwar' community, accordingly, on the directions of this Court she came to be reinstated. It was further alleged that the proceedings initiated against the petitioner is malicious as it has been initiated on the complaint of the Secretary of the society against whom petitioner made complaint for encroaching the land and property belonging to IIT Kanpur.

5. The inquiry officer upon considering the evidences and rival written contentions noted in the enquiry report dated 18 April 2016, that the caste certificate of the petitioner was duly verified from the competent authority i.e. Tehsildar Kalpi/District Magistrate, District Jalaun. They found that as per family register (2001-02) the caste of Munna Lal (D.W.-2) is recorded hindu "Kewat'. The documents/certificates relied upon by the petitioner to contend that he belongs to hindu "Majhwar' was not found supported by the entries made in the family register. A report was submitted by the Khand Vikash Adhikari, Maheva (Jalaun), upon verifying the records that the caste of D.W.-2 is hindu (Kewat). The Tehsildar, Kalpi, also submitted a report on reinquiring the matter that the caste of the petitioner is hindu (Kewat) and not "Majhwar' as he proclaimed. The order of the writ court pertaining to Smt. Shashi Lata was noticed by the inquiry officer. The order nowhere declares that Smt. Shashi Lata belongs to hindu (Majhwar) caste. The order of her reinstatement was passed on pure technical ground. Accordingly, the enquiry officer returned a finding that the petitioner willfully and deliberately suppressed his real social status and obtained appointment against the post reserved for SC category, whereas, petitioner, a resident of Village Gurhakhas, Tehsil Kalpi, District Jalaun, was fully aware of his caste being hindu (Kewat). The charges came to be proved.

6. The copy of the enquiry report was furnished by the third respondent, Disciplinary Authority to the petitioner vide communication dated 16 May 2016. Petitioner submitted his written objections on 30 May 2016, inter alia, stating therein that the caste certificate of the petitioner issued in 1978 has not been canceled by the competent Scrutiny Committee as mandated by the Supreme Court in Kumari Madhuri Patil v. Additional Commissioner, Tribal Development2. The inquiry officer though has noted in the enquiry report that petitioner had admitted during cross examination that the Tehsildar is competent authority to issue caste certificate. However, on the objection of the petitioner, IIT Kanpur vide communication dated 13 June 2016, addressed to the District Magistrate, Jalaun, sought clarification as to whether the social status of the petitioner was verified in accordance with the guidelines issued by the Supreme Court. The District Magistrate vide communication dated 19 September 2016, reaffirmed the report of the Tehsildar, Tehsil Kalpi, contending therein that the report is strictly in accordance with the guidelines. Thereafter, by the impugned order dated 20 April 2017, passed by the third respondent, Director, IIT Kanpur, District Kanpur Nagar/Disciplinary Authority, the services of the petitioner came to be dismissed. Aggrieved, petitioner preferred an appeal before the second respondent which was rejected on 16 November 2017.

7. In the aforementioned back drop, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioner submits that the caste certificate (Majhwar) was issued by the competent district authority and there was no fraud or misrepresentation; reliance has been placed on the extracts of the family register to contend that petitioner belongs to caste (Majhwar); the caste certificate till date is intact and has not been cancelled; the social status of the niece of the petitioner, namely, Shashi Lata has been held by this Court being caste "Majhwar' and not "Kewat'. Extract of family register and school leaving certificate has been placed on record to contend that the petitioner belongs to caste "Majhwar'.

8. On specific query, learned counsel for the petitioner does not dispute that the departmental proceedings against an employee of IIT Kanpur is governed by the Statutes framed in exercise of powers conferred under the Indian Institutes of Technology Act, 19613. Statute (13) governs the proceedings. The procedure prescribed therein was duly complied and petitioner was given opportunity at every stage of the proceedings as per the Rules/Statutes. In other words, there is no procedural irregularity.

9. Sri Rohan Gupta, learned counsel appearing for the respondent, submits that the procedure prescribed under the Statute read with Central Civil Services (Classification, Control & Appeal) Rules, 19654, was duly complied. It is further submitted that the social status of the petitioner was duly verified by the District Magistrate, Jalaun, in terms of the guidelines ennunciated in Madhuri2 case; the extract of the documents i.e. family register, school leaving certificate filed along with the writ petition are fabricated and forged documents; social status certificate of the niece of the petitioner has not been verified by any authority/forum including this Court; reliance has been placed on the report of the Principal, Sri Thakkar Bapa Inter College, Hindi Bhawan, Kalpi, (Jalaun), dated 15 February 2014, to contend that petitioner was admitted to class VI on 16 July 1966, his caste in the school register is recorded "Kewat'. The copy of the extract is duly certified; copy of the application form submitted on behalf of the petitioner was supplied by the Principal of the school; the documents has been placed on record. Further, it is urged that the extract of family register (2001-02) records that petitioner and his family members are recorded belonging to "Kewat' community. The report further certifies that Munna Lal (D.W.-2), cousin of the petitioner, is recorded hindu "Kewat' in the family register. Further, reliance has been placed on the revenue record of 1995 pertaining to transfer of land by Sri Munna Lal (D.W.-2), wherein, his caste is recorded "Nishad' under OBC category. The report of the Collector further records that the relatives and family members of the petitioner have been married into "Kewat/Mallah/Nishad' community and not "Majhwar'. The authorities verified the documentary evidence, the social status of relatives and family members of the petitioner, who are all recorded hindu "Kewat' and petitioner alone claims himself belonging to hindu "Majhwar'. Reliance has been placed on the office memorandum dated 10 January 2013, wherein, the departments of the Central Government were directed to take action against the government servants who got appointment on the basis of false SC/ST/OBC certificates and to initiate disciplinary proceedings against them; petitioner till date has not assailed the communications/report issued by the District Magistrate certifying that petitioner belongs to caste "Kewat' and not to "Majhwar' community. It is urged that it was incumbent upon the petitioner to have taken remedy before the State Level Scrutiny Committee by assailing the report of the Tehsildar/District Magistrate. The petition is devoid of merit.

10. Rival submission fall for consideration

11. It is not being disputed by learned counsel for the petitioner that the procedure for imposition of major penalty as contemplated and provided in the Rules governing the employees of IIT Kanpur was duly followed. It is further not disputed that the petitioner has not assailed the communication/report issued by the District Magistrate certifying that the petitioner belongs to caste "Kewat' notified as OBC. The document placed on record by the respondents i.e. the extract of revenue record of D.W.-2, the family register and the application made on behalf of the petitioner while taking admission, records that petitioner belongs to caste hindu "Kewat' and not "Majhwar' as is being claimed. The Tehsildar, Tehsil Kalpi, District Jalaun, duly appeared and was cross examined by the petitioner. On objection raised by the petitioner that the procedure for verification of the social status certificate mandated in Madhuri2 case was not followed, was also rejected upon District Magistrate reaffirming that the guidelines for verification of the social status of the petitioner was duly complied. The entries in school register, family register, social status of the relatives of the petitioner was duly verified, revenue record entries etc. was also considered.

12. Learned Single Judge of this Court in Sallu Baj Versus State of U.P. and others5, wherein, the appointment was obtained by the petitioner on the S.T. caste certificate which he otherwise did not belong, the Court held that the very basis of the appointment obtained on misrepresentation and fraud was void ab initio. The argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner that petitioner had applied for the social status certificate disclosing his caste, and the authorities had duly issued the certificate, thus, there was no question of fraud having been committed by the petitioner was rejected.

13. It is further urged that petitioner had put in more than three decades of service and at the fag end of his career a lesser punishment would have sufficed instead of dismissing the petitioner.

14. It is common knowledge that in matters pertaining to employment, when information with regard to the antecedents of a candidate is called for, it is intended to verify and cross-check the suitability of the candidate for the job. If the candidate indulges in suppressio veri and suggestio falsi, he proves himself unfit to be employed. In the instant case, by producing a forged and fabricated certificate on misrepresentation not only did the petitioner secure a job but he was also responsible in depriving a genuine candidate to the post. The appointment of the petitioner is void and non est in the eyes of law. The punishment that has been awarded to the petitioner befits the misconduct committed by him, thus, any modification with respect to the quantum of punishment will only amount misplaced sympathy and perpetuate the fraud.

15. A similar plea about long years of service rendered on forged document was considered by the Supreme Court in R. Vishwanath Pillai v. State of Kerala and others6, it was held to be inconsequential. In paragraph 21, it was observed:

"The appellant obtained the appointment against a post meant for a reserved candidate by producing a false caste certificate and by playing a fraud. His appointment to the post was void and non est in the eye of law. The right to salary or pension after retirement flow from a valid and legal appointment. The consequential right of pension and monetary benefits can be given only if the appointment was valid and legal. Such benefits cannot be given in a case where the appointment was found to have been obtained fraudulently and rested on a false caste certificate. A person who entered the service by producing a false caste certificate meant for a Scheduled Caste, thus depriving a genuine Scheduled Caste candidate of appointment to that post, does not deserve any sympathy or indulgence of this Court. A person who seeks equity must come with clean hands. Equity jurisdiction cannot be exercised in the case of a person who got the appointment on the basis of a false caste certificate by playing fraud. No sympathy and equitable consideration can come to his rescue. We are of the view that equity or compassion cannot be allowed to bend the arms of law in case where the individual acquired a status by practising fraud."

16. The argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner for modification of the quantum of punishment lacks merit, accordingly, rejected.

17. It is, thereafter, vehemently urged on behalf of the petitioner that in view of dictum of law laid down by the Supreme court in the decisions reported as Kumari Madhuri Patil v Additional Commissioner, Tribal Development7, Director of Tribal Welfare, Government of AP v Laveti Giri8, Lillykutty v Scrutiny Committee, SC & ST& Ors9 and Union of India v Dattatray10, the only authority which is empowered under law to examine genuineness of the caste certificate is Caste Scrutiny Committee, it is therefore submitted that the inquiry officer committed jurisdictional error in returning a finding upon the validity of the caste certificate submitted by the petitioner.

18. The question therefore arises is as to whether the enquiry officer committed jurisdictional error in returning finding upon the social status of the petitioner.

19. In Madhuri2 case following guidelines were laid down by Supreme Court regarding procedure for issuance, scrutiny and approval of social status certificates:-

"13. The admission wrongly gained or appointment wrongly obtained on the basis of false social status certificate necessarily has the effect of depriving the genuine Scheduled Castes or Scheduled Tribes or OBC candidates as enjoined in the Constitution of the benefits conferred on them by the Constitution. The genuine candidates are also denied admission to educational institutions or appointments to office or posts under a State for want of social status certificate. The ineligible or spurious persons who falsely gained entry resort to dilatory tactics and create hurdles in completion of the inquiries by the Scrutiny Committee. It is true that the applications for admission to educational institutions are generally made by a parent, since on that date many a time the student may be a minor. It is the parent or the guardian who may play fraud claiming false status certificate. It is, therefore, necessary that the certificates issued are scrutinised at the earliest and with utmost expedition and promptitude. For that purpose, it is necessary to streamline the procedure for the issuance of social status certificates, their scrutiny and their approval, which may be the following:

1. The application for grant of social status certificate shall be made to the Revenue Sub- Divisional Officer and Deputy Collector or Deputy Commissioner and the certificate shall be issued by such officer rather than at the Officer, Taluk or Mandal level.

2. The parent, guardian or the candidate, as the case may be, shall file an affidavit duly sworn and attested by a competent gazetted officer or non-gazetted officer with particulars of castes and sub- castes, tribe, tribal community, parts or groups of tribes or tribal communities, the place from which he originally hails from and other particulars as may be prescribed by the Directorate concerned.

3. Application for verification of the caste certificate by the Scrutiny Committee shall be filed at least six months in advance before seeking admission into educational institution or an appointment to a post.

4. All the State Governments shall constitute a Committee of three officers, namely, (I) an Additional or Joint Secretary or any officer higher in rank of the Director of the department concerned, (II) the Director, Social Welfare/Tribal Welfare/Backward Class Welfare, as the case may be, and (III) in the case of Scheduled Castes another officer who has intimate knowledge in the verification and issuance of the social status certificates. In the case of the Scheduled Tribes, the Research Officer who has intimate knowledge in identifying the tribes, tribal communities, parts of or groups of tribes or tribal communities.

5. Each Directorate should constitute a vigilance cell consisting of Senior Deputy Superintendent of Police in over-all charge and such number of Police Inspectors to investigate into the social status claims. The Inspector would go to the local place of residence and original place from which the candidate hails and usually resides or in case of migration to the town or city, the place from which he originally hailed from. The vigilance officer should personally verify and collect all the facts of the social status claimed by the candidate or the parent or guardian, as the case may be. He should also examine the school records, birth registration, if any. He should also examine the parent, guardian or the candidate in relation to their caste etc. or such other persons who have knowledge of the social status of the candidate and then submit a report to the Directorate together with all particulars as envisaged in the pro forma, in particular, of the Scheduled Tribes relating to their peculiar anthropological and ethnological traits, deity, rituals, customs, mode of marriage, death ceremonies, method of burial of dead bodies etc. by the castes or tribes or tribal communities concerned etc.

6. The Director concerned, on receipt of the report from the vigilance officer if he found the claim for social status to be "not genuine" or ,,doubtful" or spurious or falsely or wrongly claimed, the Director concerned should issue show-cause notice supplying a copy of the report of the vigilance officer to the candidate by a registered post with acknowledgement due or through the head of the educational institution concerned in which the candidate is studying or employed. The notice should indicate that the representation or reply, if any, would be made within two weeks from the date of the receipt of the notice and in no case on request not more than 30 days from the date of the receiptof the notice. In case, the candidate seeks for an opportunity of hearing and claims an inquiry to be made in that behalf, the Director on receipt of such representation/reply shall convene the committee and the Joint/Additional Secretary as Chairperson who shall give reasonable opportunity to the candidate/parent/guardian to adduce all evidence in support of their claim. A public notice by beat of drum or any other convenient mode may be published in the village or locality and if any person or association opposes such a claim, an opportunity to adduce evidence may be given to him/it. After giving such opportunity either in person or through counsel, the Committee may make such inquiry as it deems expedient and consider the claims vis-à-vis the objections raised by the candidate or opponent and pass an appropriate order with brief reasons in support thereof.

7. In case the report is in favour of the candidate and found to be genuine and true, no further action need be taken except where the report or the particulars given are procured or found to be false or fraudulently obtained and in the latter event the same procedure as is envisaged in para 6 be followed.

8. Notice contemplated in para 6 should be issued to the parents/guardian also in case candidate is minor to appear before the Committee with all evidence in his or their support of the claim for the social status certificates.

9. The inquiry should be completed as expeditiously as possible preferably by day-to-day proceedings within such period not exceeding two months. If after inquiry, the Caste Scrutiny Committee finds the claim to be false or spurious, they should pass an order cancelling the certificate issued and confiscate the same. It should communicate within one month from the date of the conclusion of the proceedings the result of enquiry to the parent/guardian and the applicant.

10. In case of any delay in finalising the proceedings, and in the meanwhile the last date for admission into an educational institution or appointment to an officer post, is getting expired, the candidate be admitted by the Principal or such other authority competent in that behalf or appointed on the basis of the social status certificate already issued or an affidavit duly sworn by theparent/guardian/candidate before the competent officer or non-official and such admission or appointment should be only provisional, subject to the result of the inquiry by the Scrutiny Committee.

11. The order passed by the Committee shall be final and conclusive only subject to the proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution.

12. No suit or other proceedings before any other authority should lie.

13. The High Court would dispose of these cases as expeditiously as possible within a period of three months. In case, as per its procedure, the writ petition/miscellaneous petition/matter is disposed of by a Single Judge, then no further appeal would lie against that order to the Division Bench but subject to special leave under Article 227.

14. In case, the certificate obtained or social status claimed is found to be false, the parent/guardian/the candidate should be prosecuted for making false claim. If the prosecution ends in a conviction and sentence of the accused, it could be regarded as an offence involving moral turpitude, disqualification for elective posts or offices under the State or the Union or elections to any local body, legislature or Parliament.

15. As soon as the finding is recorded by the Scrutiny Committee holding that the certificate obtained was false, on its cancellation and confiscation simultaneously, it should be communicated to the educational institution concerned or the appointing authority by registered post with acknowledgement due with a request to cancel the admission or the appointment. The Principal etc. of the educational institution responsible for making the admission or the appointing authority, should cancel the admission/appointment without any further notice to the candidate and debar the candidate from further study or continue in office in a post."

20. The guidelines was issued stipulating a fair and just procedure to shorten the undue delay. The endeavour was to give effect of the guidelines and ensure that the constitutional objectives intended for the benefit and advancement of the genuine SC/ST/OBC classes candidates, as the case may be are not defeated by unscrupulous persons.

21. From the aforesaid, it is crystal clear that the only decision which may have some relevance on the issue in hand is the decision of Supreme Court in Madhuri (supra) case. Laveti Giri (supra) merely reiterates the guidelines laid down by Supreme Court in Madhuri2 case. Lillykutty and Dattatray (supra) has no application whatsoever on the issue in hand.

22. Having examined the decision of Madhuri2 case, it cannot be said that Madhuri case lays down that the Inquiry Officer would commit an error in returning a finding upon the social status of the petitioner for the same was a matter which exclusively falls in the domain of Caste Scrutiny Committee. The guidelines issued in Madhuri2 case lays down the procedure to be followed for issuance of fresh caste certificates or verification of caste certificates already issued by the authorities. By no stretch of imagination, Madhuri case lays down that wherever the issue of correctness of a caste certificate comes up in question, no authority other than Caste Security Committee can enquire into the same.

23. In the facts of the instant case, it is not being disputed by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the finding on the social status of the petitioner returned by the inquiry officer is based upon the reports submitted by the competent authority i.e. Tehsildar/District Magistrate. The Tehsildar (P.W.-3) appeared as a witness before the enquiry officer and reiterated the social status of the petitioner relying upon the reports of various officers based on documents.

24. In the circumstances, the inquirty officer committed no jurisdictional error in returning a finding upon the social status of the petitioner based on the reports and certificates of the Collector. On the contrary, it was incumbent upon the petitioner as per the guideines in Madhuri2 case to assail the report either before the State Level Committee or before this Court in Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India.

25. Three Judge Bench of the Supreme Court recently in Chairman and Managing Director, FCI and others Versus Jagdish Balaram Bahira and others11, upon revisiting the law where the incumbent has obtained benefit of admissions/appointment based on false social status certificate held and declared, inter alia, as follows:

"1. Conclusion

57. For these reasons, we hold and declare that:-

(i) The directions which were issued by the Constitution Bench of this Court in paragraph 38 of the decision in Milind (AIR 2001 SC 393) were in pursuance of the powers vested in this Court under Article 142 of the Constitution;

(ii) Since the decision of this Court in Madhuri Patil (AIR 1995 SC 94) which was rendered on 2 September 1994, the regime which held the field in pursuance of those directions envisaged a detailed procedure for (a) the issuance of caste certificates; (b) scrutiny and verification of caste and tribe claims by Scrutiny Committees to be constituted by the State Government; (c) the procedure for the conduct of investigation into the authenticity of the claim; (d) Cancellation and confiscation of the caste certificate where the claim is found to be false or not genuine; (e) Withdrawal of benefits in terms of the termination of an appointment, cancellation of an admission to an educational institution or disqualification from an electoral office obtained on the basis that the candidate belongs to a reserved category; and (f) Prosecution for a criminal offence;

(iii) The decisions of this Court in R. Vishwanatha Pillai (AIR 2004 SC 1469) and in Dattatray (AIR 2008 SC 1678) which were rendered by benches of three Judges laid down the principle of law that where a benefit is secured by an individual - such as an appointment to a post or admission to an educational institution - on the basis that the candidate belongs to a reserved category for which the benefit is reserved, the invalidation of the caste or tribe claim upon verification would result in the appointment or, as the case may be, the admission being rendered void or non est.

(iv) The exception to the above doctrine was in those cases where this Court exercised its power under Article 142 of the Constitution to render complete justice;"

26. In view of the principle laid down in Jagdish Balaram Bahira (supra), once the social status certificate is declared false by the competent authority, the appointment would render void or non est. In that event, the employer would not be required to initiate regular departmental proceedings under the Rules for the reason that the certificate would bind the disciplinary authority. In such an event, the delinquent employee can be removed from service upon a show cause notice. The disciplinary authority would have no occasion to return a finding in a proceedings to a charge. The very foundation on which the services of the delinquent employee was based upon being demolished, the consequence would be automatic removal from service. In the instant case, admittedly, the District Collector being the competent authority upon verification had certified that the petitioner does not belong to the SC community, consequently, the appointment of the petitioner would render it void or non est. Even then IIT Kanpur got conducted a full fledged departmental enquiry for imposition of major penalty in accordance with the Rules.

27. On specific query, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner failed to point out any illegality, infirmity or jurisdictional error in the impugned order.

28. The writ petition being devoid of merit is, accordingly, dismissed.

29. No cost.

A. Consolidation-Class-9 entry in favour of - then too, erstwhile tenure holder did not initiate any proceedings u/s 209 - S.O.C considered this fact- but DDC ignored-impugned order quashed.

Special Appeal allowed. (E-8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy,J.)

1. None has appeared on behalf of the contesting opposite party no.3 to argue the matter.

2. Heard.

3. The dispute herein pertains to Gata No.1022. The consolidation operation started on 21.7.1973 on issuance of notification under section 4. In the Basic Year Khatauni the opposite party no.3 Mujibulla was recorded therein consequent to a sale-deed said to have been executed by the erstwhile tenure holder Habib Khan in his favour in the year 1968 which corresponds to 1375F. During partal a dispute arose with regard to Sirdari rights on the basis of adverse possession. The petitioners who are the sons of Abdul Majid were allegedly found to be in possession of the land in dispute during partal. When the dispute came up for consideration before the Consolidation Officer in the first round of litigation, the Consolidation Officer (C.O.) rejected the claim of the petitioners based on adverse possession vide order dated 8.2.1978, however, when an appeal was filed by the petitioners before the Settlement Officer, Consolidation (S.O.C.), the same was allowed on 19.9.1978 and the order of the Consolidation Officer was set aside and the claim of the petitioners was accepted. Against this the opposite party no.3 filed a revision before the Deputy Director Consolidation (D.D.C.) which was allowed on 10.2.1981. The order of the S.O.C. dated 19.9.1978 was set aside and the order of the C.O. dated 8.2.1978 was restored. The D.D.C. while deciding the revision was persuaded by the fact that the name of Abdul Majid, father of the petitioners came to be recorded in the revenue records for the first time in 1375F as being in possession under Class-9 entry. According to him, the limitation prescribed for perfection of title based on adverse possession became 12 years with effect from 14.11.2017 and, as, the name of Abdul Majid was recorded from 1375F till 1378F, for only 4 Fasli, therefore, the aforesaid period of prescription for perfection of title was not satisfied. He was also persuaded by the fact that the revenue parcha and receipts submitted by the petitioners herein as proof of their continuous and hostile adverse possession were found by him to be of suspect evidentiary value. Based on the aforesaid he declined the claim of the petitioners and allowed the revision of the opposite party no.3.

4. The Court finds that the period of limitation for a suit under section 209 prescribed at Serial No.30 of Appendix III referred in Rule 338 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Rules 1952 was initially two years. Thereafter it has undergone amendments, firstly, on 9.4.1955, when this limitation was extended to three years from the date of vesting, thereafter, it was further amended and extended to six years from the first of July following the date of occupation vide notification dated 27.3.1959 and thereafter it was again amended and extended to 12 years from the first of July following the date of occupation vide notification dated 14.11.1971.

5. On a perusal of the order of S.O.C. conjointly with the order of the D.D.C. this Court finds that the D.D.C. omitted to consider certain relevant aspects of the matter including certain documents which were on record. He did not consider the Khasra pertaining to 1363 Fasli wherein the name of Abdul Majid was recorded as a Class-9 entry as was taken note of by the S.O.C. This was a material fact. When this order is read conjointly with the order of the S.D.O. dated 25.7.1969 which was passed in proceedings for correction of the revenue records under section 33/39 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act 1901 initiated by Habib Khan, the vendor and predecessor in interest of Mujibullah- Oposite party no.3, wherein, the S.D.O. took note of the fact that the name of Abdul Majid was recorded as Class-9 entry and, considering the continuance of such entry, he observed that, proceedings are not maintainable and the appropriate course for him was to initiate proceedings under section 209 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act 1950 for eviction of the unauthorized occupant. The D.D.C. also failed to consider another fact which was taken note of by the S.O.C. in his judgment, that is the subsequent (second) proceedings initiated by Habib Khan himself under section 33/39 which culminated in the order dated 26.11.1970 vide which the S.D.O. ordered the earlier Class-9 entry in favour of Abdul Majid to be continued, obviously for the same reason as mentioned in the earlier order dated 25.7.1969. In spite of these two orders, Habib Khan, the erstwhile tenure holder, did not initiate any proceedings under section 209, a fact which was taken note of by the S.O.C., but has been lost sight of by the D.D.C. The effect of non-initiation of any proceedings under section 209 of the Act 1950 as is spelt out in section 210 of the Act 1950 has also not been considered by the D.D.C.

6. Furthermore, Class-9 entry in favour of the petitioner's father Abdul Majid and his alleged possession, whether this was to be considered on the basis of tagging in continuation of such entry, if any, in favour of the petitioners and their possession if any, has also not been considered by the D.D.C.

7. Most importantly the D.D.C. has been persuaded by the fact that the entry in the revenue record pertaining to 1375F allegedly for the first time in favour of Abdul Majid was not in accordance with the Land Record Manual as the requisite diary number at P.A.10 entry are not mentioned nor the process prescribed under the Rules had been followed, but, he failed to appreciate the fact that if the name of Abdul Majid was existing as a Class-9 entry in Khasra 1363F then at that time the provisions contained in paragraph A-

80 and A-81 of Chapter A-V of the Land Records Manual had not come into force and were inserted only subsequently vide notification dated 18.1.1958 nor did he consider as to what would be the effect of this aspect of the matter if there was a Khasra of 1363 F on record with a Class-9 entry in favour of petitioner's father Abdul Majid.

8. In this view of the matter and for the reasons aforesaid as the D.D.C. has not considered the findings and relevant aspects as have been noted hereinabove and as were considered by the S.O.C., therefore, based on such non-consideration, and as all this was considered by the S.O.C., therefore, the order of the D.D.C. is liable to be set aside and the matter is liable to be remanded back for consideration afresh in the light of what has been stated hereinabove.

9. It is, however, made clear that so far as the findings of the D.D.C. as to the veracity and evidentiary value of the irrigation receipts are concerned, they being based on appreciation of evidence which cannot be set aside by the Writ Court under Article 226 of the Constitution, the said findings pertaining to the irrigation receipts are not being interfered with and shall attain finality. Subject to this, reconsideration shall be made the D.D.C. as aforesaid.

10. The order impugned dated 10.2.1981 contained in Annexure No.13 is accordingly set aside.

11. The D.D.C. shall dispose off the proceedings aforesaid within eight months from the date a certified copy of this order is submitted, if necessary, by taking up the matter on day-to-day basis as far as possible.

12. The Court has also taken note of the interim order dated 5.5.1981 by which it was ordered that if the petitioners are in possession of the land in dispute, they shall not be disturbed. There is nothing on record to show as to who is in possession of the land in dispute as of now nor as to who is recorded in respect of the above at present.

13. Till disposal of the proceedings by the D.D.C. status quo with regard to possession of the land in dispute and entries in the revenue records shall be maintained and neither of the parties shall alienate the same.

14. The writ petition is allowed in part.

A. U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 - Section 157AA/166/167 – Restrictions on transfer by member of schedule castes becoming Bhumidhar under section 131-B - Section 157AA (4) - a person is entitled to execute a sale deed, etc. in favour of person(s) belonging to the Scheduled Caste, such transfer shall not be without prior permission of the Assistant Collector. (Para 6)

The permission required under Section 157AA cannot be granted Ex Post Facto because the permission contemplated by Section 157AA is for sale by a member of scheduled caste to another scheduled caste only - amongst scheduled caste who can purchase land, whose vendor has become bhumidhar with transferable rights under Section 131 B, is to be determined in the order of preference provided by the section itself - In Amichandra Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others. it has been observed that Section, 157-AA of the Act permits transfers between two persons belonging to the Scheduled Castes only - The only exception carved out by sub-section (3) of this Section is that if transferee belonging to a Schedule Caste is not available. (Para 8)

Held: - The determination of order of preference etc. under Section 157-AA has to be made prior to the sale deed or at best on the date of sale deed. Such a determination being made subsequently, when circumstances might have undergone a change, would not be valid. (Para 9)

1. Heard counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The petition arises out of proceedings under Section 157AA/166/167 of the U.P Z. A. and Land Reforms Act and seeks a writ of certiorari for quashing the orders dated 28.10.2016 passed by the respondent no.2 whereby certain land purchased by the petitioner has been ordered to vest in the State as the sale deed was executed by the vendor without having obtained prior permission contemplated under Section 157AA of the Act.

3. The order dated 17.10.2018 whereby the consequential appeal has been dismissed by the respondent no.1 is also impugned.

4. Admittedly one Roogan executed a registered sale deed on 05.03.2013 of 1/5th part of plot no. 429 situated in Village and Post Meerpurhindu, Tehsil & District Ghaziabad in favour of petitioner. It is also not in dispute that the vendor had obtained this land on patta and had become its bhumidhari with transferable rights, in accordance with Section 131 B of U.P. Z. A. and L. R. Act. It is also not in dispute that no prior permission have been obtained before executing the sale deed as is required by Section 157AA of the Act.

5. The contention of the petitioner before this Court as also before the Court below is that since both vendor and vendee belong to the scheduled caste, no permission was required for executing the sale deed.

6. This argument has been considered and repelled in the judgement dated 10.08.2015 passed in Writ-C No. 4406 of 2015, Amichandra Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others. The relevant portion of the said judgement is extracted herein below:-

"Sub-section (4) has been introduced which mandates that in case, a person is entitled to execute a sale deed, etc. in favour of person(s) belonging to the Scheduled Caste, such transfer shall not be without prior permission of the Assistant Collector. If this is not the vaild and correct interpretation of sub-section (4) of Section 157-AA of the Act, sub-sections (1) and (2) would be rendered redundant."

7. The contention therefore raised by the counsel for the petitioner is without merit.

8. The second question is whether the permission required under Section 157AA can be granted Ex Post Facto. In my considered opinion, the permission cannot be granted Ex Post Facto because the permission contemplated by Section 157AA is for sale by a member of scheduled caste to another scheduled caste only. However, amongst scheduled caste who can purchase land, whose vendor has become bhumidhar with transferable rights under Section 131 B, is to be determined in the order of preference provided by the section itself. In this regard, again it would be relevant to refer to the judgement of Amichandra (supra) wherein it has been observed:-

"Moreover this Section, 157-AA of the Act permits transfers between two persons belonging to the Scheduled Castes only. The only exception carved out by sub-section (3) of this Section is that if transferee belonging to a Schedule Caste is not available. Then a transfer in favour of a member of a Scheduled tribe may be permitted in accordance with the conditions and order of preference specified in the section itself. Even otherwise, the section provides for various categories of persons who are entitled to purchase the land in the order of preference given. A person in a higher category shall have preference over a person in the lower category mentioned.

It therefore necessarily follows that before a transfer is effected, it has to be determined as to the category under which the prospective vendee falls and whether another person of the Scheduled Caste, who is in a higher preferential category is available or not. This determination has to be made and duly recorded prior to the transfer itself.

It is in this context that sub-section (4) has been introduced which mandates that in case, a person is entitled to execute a sale-deed, etc. in favour of person(s) belonging to the Scheduled Caste, such transfer shall not be without prior permission of the Assistant Collector. If this is not the valid and correct interpretation of sub-section (4) of Section 157-AA of the Act sub-sections (1) and (2) would be rendered redundant. Moreover, there appears no justification for obtaining the said permission once a transfer has already been made."

9. The determination of order of preference etc. under Section 157-AA has to be made prior to the sale deed or at best on the date of sale deed. Such a determination being made subsequently, when circumstances might have undergone a change, would not be valid. Therefore, even the second contention of counsel for the petitioner has no merit.

10. In view of the forgoing, the writ petition is without merit and is accordingly, dismissed.

A. U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 - Land in question - public utility land u/s 132 of the Act- allotment cannot be made of such land- Additional Collector has the power to cancel the allotment-when he acts and discharges the duties and functions of the Collector-power would be deemed to have been exercised by him as the Collector.

Writ Petition dismissed. (E-9)

Cases cited: -

1. Braahm Singh vs. Board of Revenue & other, AIR 2008 All 144

2. Seetla vs. St. Of U.P. & ors. (Writ C no. 11406/2012)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri O.P.Rai, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Naushad Siddiqui, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents.

2. The present petition seeks to challenge the order dated 04.08.2006 passed by the respondent no. 3 in proceedings under Section 198 (4) of the U.P.Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 19501 and also the order dated 13.11.2007 passed by the respondent no. 2 in Revision No. 97 of 2006/07 whereby the order cancelling the allotment has been affirmed.

3. Counsel for the petitioner has not disputed the fact that the land in question was a public utility land of the nature as described under Section 132 of the 1950 Act. That being the position, the allotment of the said land could not have been made and there is no illegality in the proceedings which have been initiated for cancellation of the allotment.

4. As regards the other contention that the order of cancellation of allotment could have been made only by the Collector and not by the Additional Collector, this Court may take notice of the fact that the aforesaid question has been settled by a Full Bench of this Court in the case of Brahm Singh Vs. Board of Revenue and others2.

5. The Full Bench in the case of Brahm Singh (supra) while considering the question as to whether the powers of the Collector under Section 198 (4) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 can be exercised by the Additional Collector held that the Additional Collector when he acts and discharges the duties and functions or exercises such powers of a Collector either under the 1901 Act or under any other Act for the time being in force, the powers would be deemed to have been exercised by him as Collector of the district under that Act. The relevant observations made in this regard are as follows :-

"14. It is the above provision under which the Additional Collector is appointed by the State Government. Sub-sections (3) and (4) of Section 14A in the present form were enacted by U.P. Act No. 21 of 1962. Under Sub-section (3) of Section 14A, the Additional Collector exercises all such powers and discharges such duties of Collector in such cases or class of cases as the Collector concerned directs. Sub-section (4) of Section 14A further provides that the Additional Collector while exercising power and discharging duties under Sub-section (3) under this Act, i.e 1901 Act and under any other law for the time being applicable to the Collector, acts as a Collector of the district. In other words, the Additional Collector exercises powers and discharges duties under Sub-section (3) of Section 14A as Collector of the district. Therefore, by legal fiction the order passed and the jurisdiction exercised by the Additional Collector by virtue of Sub-section (3) of Section 14A would be deemed to be that of a Collector of the district because of Sub-section (4) of Section 14A of 1901 Act. Thus, the Additional Collector when acts and discharges duties and functions or exercises such powers of a Collector either under 1901 Act or under any other Act for the time being in force, that would be deemed to have been exercised by him as Collector of the district under that Act. Thus, the Additional Collector has all the powers of a Collector under Sub-section (4) of Section 14A when he exercises power under Sub-section (3) of Section 14A."

6. The aforementioned position with regard to the Additional Collector exercising powers of the Collector has been considered by this Court in the context of the provisions of Section 28 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 in a recent judgment in the case of Seetla Vs. State of U.P. and others3.

7. It may therefore be reiterated that Additional Collector when he acts and discharges the duties and functions or exercises such powers of a Collector either under the 1901 Act or under any other Act for the time being in force, the powers would be deemed to have been exercised by him as Collector of the district under that Act.

8. The argument raised by the petitioner with regard to the Additional Collector not having jurisdiction to pass the order impugned is thus legally not tenable.

9. No other point has been urged.

10. Counsel for the petitioner has not been able to point out any material error or irregularity in the orders which are sought to be challenged so as to warrant interference of this Court in exercise of powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

11. The writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

A. Hiring services of transporters to provide trucks for transporting petroleum products - Advertisement (11st October, 2018) for service providing in the State of U.P - conjoint reading of the three clauses 9 (i), 12 (b), 12 (i) (7) and 12 (i)(9) of NIT(Notice Inviting Tender) - tender in all categories was open to the candidates belonging to all the States of the country and not specific to the State of U.P. - in matters of selection the Tank Trucks(TTs) registered in the State of U.P. specific, were given preferential rights over and above the applicants of the other State - Circular issued by the Government of India dated 18th August, 1994 vide clause (iv) - if the quota has remained unfilled, it will be carried forward to the next tender - even in that tender it has remained unfilled then it will be deserved to be applicable to open category - No illegality or perversity in the impugned order - it stands answered against the petitioner. (Para 3, 13, 28 & 31)

The petitioner has challenged the order whereby the petitioner's objection against the rejection of his candidature has come to be rejected by the General Manager of the Indian Oil Corporation as well as the order rejecting the candidature of the petitioner for the grant of contract of the transport trucks for movement of petroleum products - The petitioner applied under open category - The legal point raised is that tender applicants of SC/ ST category of other State cannot be permitted to apply against the SC/ ST category if the services are offered for the State of U.P. and requirement is State specific. (Para 2, 6 & 30)

Held: - Since it is not a State sponsored scheme or State owned employment by the Central Government owned Corporation has floated tender inviting applications from all over the country, all SC and ST category truck owners/ transporters having their registered Tank Trucks (TTs) in State of U.P. thus registered in other States are all eligible to apply and are to be considered in that special reserved category, however, consideration of their applications will be subject to preference in respect of state registered Tank Trucks (TTs). 3. Bir Singh v. Delhi Jal Board and others, (2018) 10 SCC 312

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J. & Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri M.D. Singh Shekhar, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ashwani Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri J.S. Pandey, learned Advocate holding brief of Sri Tarun Varma, learned counsel for the respondents and perused the record.

2. By means of the present writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution, the petitioner has challenged the order dated 22nd December, 2018, whereby the petitioner's objection against the rejection of his candidature has come to be rejected by the General Manager of the Indian Oil Corporation as well as the order dated 21st January, 2019 rejecting the candidature of the petitioner for the grant of contract of the transport trucks for movement of petroleum products.

3. Briefly stated facts of the case are that pursuant to the advertisement issued on 11st October, 2018 for hiring services of transporters to provide trucks for transporting petroleum products, the petitioner applied for the same in the open category. Since the candidates in SC/ ST category were not available in the state of U.P. the area of the work, the respondents accepted the applications of the transporters whose trucks were registered within the State and also outside the State in the said SC/ ST category.

4. The petitioner pleaded before the Corporation that in the light of the conditions provided in the notice inviting tender applications issued by the respondent Corporation, in the absence of candidates being available in the reserved category the quota should have been diverted to the open category. However, when nothing was done in the matter, he moved a writ petition before the Court which was disposed of vide order dated 18th December, 2018 that the petitioner shall make comprehensive representation raising his grievance and in the event such representation is filed, the same shall be considered. The petitioner, accordingly, submitted representation on 18th January, 2019 before the competent authority of Indian Oil Corporation making two complaints:-

(A). For the purposes of the reserved category in the SC/ ST, the caste that are of the reserved category in the State of U.P. only should have been considered and respondents were not justified in accepting caste certificates of the said category from those who did not belong to the State of U.P.; and

(B). Since the provision was that if requirement of 20% under MSME is not made from the bidders under the MESE category then only MESE applicants of the other State having trucks registered outside of the State of U.P. should have been considered to fulfill the said requirement, and thus according to him it amounted to a preference over the applicants of the general category with the trucks registered in U.P.

5. It was also part of the second complaint that those who did not fulfill the eligibility criteria under MESE category were still considered by the respondents. However, both the complaints were considered by the authority of Indian Oil Corporation and vide order dated 21st January, 2019 the representation of the petitioner has been rejected.

6. Assailing the order impugned dated 21st January, 2019 in the present writ petition, the basic grounds raised by the petitioner is that since it was advertisement for service providing in the State of U.P., under the reservation laws the caste certificates that were admissible and recognized in State of U.P. for SC/ ST only should have been considered and those of outside of the State, may be having their trucks registered in U.P. but since their caste as SC/ ST is not recognized in the State of U.P. were not liable to be considered.

7. The logic behind the argument is that scheduled caste of another State may not be a scheduled caste in this State and since the business was relating to the State of U.P. and for the State of U.P., therefore, applying the reservation laws the caste certificate of SC/ ST candidates of U.P. only should have taken into consideration. Accordingly, he submits that in case if the candidates of the reserved category were not available, as per the clause (9) of the notice inviting tender, the trucks of the said category should have been allocated to the general category bidders. In support of his argument learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgments of the Supreme Court in the case of Action Committee On Issue of Caste Certificate to Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes in the State of Maharashtra and another v. Union of India and another (1994) 5 SCC 244; Marri Chandra Shekhar Rao v. Dean, Seth G.S. Medical College and others (1990) 3 SCC 130; and Bir Singh v. Delhi Jal Board and others (2018) 10 SCC 312.

8. Per contra, the argument advanced by the learned counsel for the respondent- Corporation is that the advertisement though was for the work in the State of U.P. but it was open for the applicants of all over India and any person resident of any State could have applied. He submits that for the purposes of Central Government assignments and job, the caste certificate of every State is recognized as a caste belonging to SC/ ST under the Central Legislation recognizing the State caste. In support of his arguments learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the relevant provisions of the clauses of the notice inviting tender particularly sub-clause (b) of Clause 12 which provides for only preferential right to the State registered Tank Trucks (for short 'TTs').

9. He has further argued that the authorities cited by the learned counsel for the respondents are not applicable in the case in hand. He submits that there is no quarrel about the proposition placed by the learned counsel for the petitioners before the Court but says that it is not a case of a particular State sponsored scheme or tender. He, therefore, argues that the authorities cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner are quite distinguishable on facts.

10. In order to appreciate the arguments advanced by the learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner, it is necessary to examine the relevant provisions of the Notice Inviting Tender (for short 'NIT') dated 22th January, 2018 with its corrigendum dated 9th April, 2018. On the top of the NIT, it has been provided that the tender applications were invited for award of contract for transport of bulk LPG by road for a period of 5 years from the companies, partnership and proprietorship firm and even the co-operative society meeting the minimum pre-qualification criteria. A tender is also prescribed for state-wise requirement of TTs for three oil marketing companies, namely, Indian Oil Corporation, Bharat Petroleum Corporation and Hindustan Petroleum Corporation. However, the applications were invited from all over India. The earnest money deposit was required for each tenderer, however, the SC/ ST category bidders, participating under the stand-up India scheme of Government of India, were exempted from payment of EMD. Clause 9 of the NIT provides for reservation. Clause 9 is reproduced hereunder in its entirety:-

9. RESERVATION:

a. The provision of reservation is 15% (fifteen percent) & 7.5 % (seven and a half percent) for Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes respectively for this Tender and the unfulfilled reserved numbers from the previous Tender for Scheduled castes and scheduled tribes.

b. The members of SC/ST desirous of operating the trucks will have to participate in the Tenders floated by the Corporation. The SC/ST bidder/s operating under

i. Proprietorship - The proprietor should be of SC/ST and caste certificate should be enclosed.

ii. Partnership firm - All partners should be of SC/ST as the case may be and caste certificate should be enclosed for all the partners.

iii. Private Ltd. Co. - All Promoters/ Directors of the firm should be of SC/ST as the case may be and caste certificate should be enclosed for all the promoters/ directors.

iv. Cooperative Society - Certificate issued by the registrar of co - operative societies mentioning the registration category (SC/ST) of the society should be enclosed.

c. In the event of any party failing to submit the caste certificate as detailed above along with the Technical Bid, the bid will be treated as a General Category bid.

d. The registered owner/s of the trucks (owned and attached) offered by the SC or ST bidder/s must also belong to the same category, either SC or ST, as the case may be. In other words, if the bidder offers trucks under SC category, all the registered owners of the trucks offered against the bid must also belong to SC.

e. If any of the attached trucks offered do not belong to a member of the category concerned, i.e. SC or ST, as the case may be, such trucks will be rejected and EMD against such trucks will be refunded after finalization of Tender.

f. The SC/ST members should fulfill all Tender conditions, and will not be eligible for any price preference or relaxation of standards.

g. SC/ST bidders can offer attached trucks provided such trucks also belong to same category.

h. SC/ST bidders may offer additional trucks, which will only be considered in case NIT requirement is not fulfilled as per evaluation criteria and subject to meeting the criteria/ requirement for SC/ST.

i. If adequate number of trucks offered by SC/ST candidates are not available in any particular year of Tender, the unfilled quota may be allotted to the General category in that year of Tender. However, the unfilled quota may be carried forward to the next Tender."

(emphasis added)

11. From the perusal of the sub-clause i of clause 9, it is clear that if requirements of the trucks by the SC/ ST category candidates are not fulfilled, then that quota may be allotted to the general category in that very year of the tender. But the quota if has remained unfilled, the same may be carried forward to the next tender as well. Meaning thereby that in the year of tender the requirement will be fulfilled anyhow may be adjusting unfilled quota with the open category but that percentage of quota that remained unfilled on account of some adjustment, will be added to the next tender. Thus, the unfilled quota is treated to have remained unfilled for the purposes of carrying forward the same to the next tender process.

12. Now, the next important clause is clause 12 of the NIT which talks about the valuation of bidders under SC/ST. For better appreciation clause 12 is reproduced in its entirety hereunder:-

12. Evaluation of bidders under SC/ST:

a. As per Govt. guidelines, there is a reservation of 15 % for SC & 7.5 % for ST category. Requirement of trucks for bidders under SC/ST category shall be limited to the aforesaid number as per Govt. guidelines provided such bidders quote at Floor rates/ L1 rates or accept finalized L1 rates.

b. State Registered TTs would be given preference over other State registered TTs subject to their quoting bids at floor rates. This preferential induction of State registered TTs would however be limited to the requirement of particular State for only those transporters whose bids are received at floor rates.

c. If the no. of Trucks qualified under SC/ST category is less than the reserved number, then all the qualified trucks will be considered for allocation.

d. If the number of Trucks qualified under SC/ST category is more than the reserved number, then allocation of trucks will be as under:

i. Bidders quoting at Floor rates:

1. All owned and attached trucks registered under same State will be listed separately as per ascending order of their age.

2. All owned trucks, as listed above, will be considered for allocation first as per age, i.e. latest model will be considered first.

3. If the requirement is not fulfilled from owned trucks then balance requirement will be fulfilled from attached trucks as per age limiting the ratio of own to attach as 1:1.

4. In case of shortfall based on allocation from State specific registered trucks, further allocation will be made to the proposed trucks offered by the respective SC/ST bidders.

5. In case of more number of offered proposed trucks then at least one truck will be allocated to bidders offering proposed trucks followed by allocating trucks on proportionate basis. In case it is not possible to allocate trucks on proportionate basis then balance trucks will be allocated through draw of lots.

6. In case it is not possible to allocate even one truck to any bidder then trucks will be allocated through draw of lots.

7. Further shortfall in trucks will be met from bidders offering ready trucks registered in other State quoted at floor rate and the evaluation will be made as per the condition from (1) to (3) as mentioned above.

8. Further shortfall will be met from the balance SC/ST bidders in the order of their financial ranking subject to accepting the Floor price. In case of multiple bidders in the same financial ranking then further sub- ranking of bidders will be followed as per "Ranking Procedure" mentioned in clause- 5 above for fulfilling balance requirement.

9. In case requirement of trucks is not met from the bidders under SC/ST category, the unfulfilled requirement of trucks will be allocated to the general category bidders.

ii. Bidders quoting at other than Floor rates :

1. SC/ST bidders quoted at L1 rates, will be further sub-ranked as per "Ranking Procedure" mentioned in clause- 5 for induction of trucks subject to accepting finalized L1 rates.

2. 2. In case of shortfall, further allocation will be made to the proposed trucks offered by the respective SC/ST bidders subject to accepting finalized L1 rates.

3. In case of more number of offered proposed trucks then at least one truck will be allocated to bidders offering proposed trucks followed by allocating trucks on proportionate basis. In case it is not possible to allocate trucks on proportionate basis then balance trucks will be allocated through draw of lots.

4. In case it is not possible to allocate even one truck to any bidder then trucks will be allocated through draw of lots.

5. Further shortfall will be met from the balance SC/ST bidders in the order of their financial ranking subject to accepting the finalized L1 rates. In case of multiple bidders in the same financial ranking then further sub- ranking of bidders will be followed as per "Ranking Procedure" mentioned in clause- 5 above for fulfilling balance requirement.

6. In case requirement of trucks is not met from the bidders under SC/ST category, the unfulfilled requirement of trucks will be allocated to the general category bidders."

(emphasis added)

13. From the perusal of the various sub-clauses of clause 12, it becomes quite explicit that TTs belonging to the State where the requirement of TTs is, are given preferential rights for the purposes of selection. Thus, according to this sub-clause b it clearly transpires that tender applications were invited from all over the country with preferential rights to State registered transporters. Sub-clause i (7) of Clause 12 clearly provides that the shortfall in trucks will be met from the bidders offering ready trucks registered in other State quoted at floor rate and the evaluation will be made as per the condition enumerated in points 1 to 3 of sub-clause d (i). Sub-clause 9 of clause 12 also speaks about transferring the unfilled requirement of trucks in the SC/ ST category to the general category bidders. A conjoint reading of the three clauses 9 (i), 12 (b), 12 (i) (7) and 12 (i)(9) leads to the only conclusion that tender in all categories was open to the candidates belonging to all the States of the country and not specific to the State of U.P. However, in matters of selection the TTs registered in the State of U.P. specific, were given preferential rights over and above the applicants of the other State. There is yet another conclusion that can be drawn is that if the shortfall occurs in TTs on account of SC/ ST category candidates not available, the same will be adjusted against the general category so as to fulfill the shortfall but the unfilled quota, to be statistically assessed, would stand carried forward to the next tender notice.

14. The argument, therefore, of the learned counsel for the petitioner that the bidders of the SC/ ST category of other State were not eligible to apply against the NIT because their caste may not be recognized as SC/ ST in the State, does not have any merit. It is all India advertisement though for the purposes of requirement of a particular State but the Corporation is the Central Government Public Sector Corporation and, therefore, the SC/ ST castes recognized in all other States will be eligible to apply in the said category.

15. Now, coming to the authorities cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner in the case of Marri Chandra Shekhar Rao (supra), paragraphs 21, 22, 23 and 24 has been heavily relied upon. These paragraphs are reproduced hereunder:-

"21. We have reached the aforesaid conclusion on the interpretation of the relevant provisions. In this connection, it may not be inappropriate to refer to the views of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar as to the prospects of the problem that might arise, who stated in the Constituent Assembly Debates in reply to the question which was raised by Mr. Jai Pal Singh ("Safeguards for Scheduled Caste and Tribes-Founding Father's view" by H.S. Saksena, at p. 60) which are to the following effect:

"He asked me another question and it was this. Supposing a member of a scheduled tribe living in a tribal area migrates to another part of the territory of India, which is outside both the scheduled area and the tribal area, will he be able to claim from the local government, within whose jurisdiction he may be residing: the same privileges which he would be entitled to when he is residing within the scheduled area or within the tribal area? It is a difficult question for me to answer. If that matter is agitated in quarters where a decision on a matter like this would lie, we would certainly be able to give some answer to the question in the form of some clause in this Constitution. But, so far as the present Constitution stands, a member of a scheduled tribe going outside the scheduled area or tribal area would certainly not be entitled to carry with him the privileges that he is entitled to when he is residing in a scheduled area or a tribal area. So far as I can see, it will be practically impossible to enforce the provisions that apply to tribal areas or scheduled areas, in areas other than those which are covered by them ..... "

22. In that view of the matter, we are of the opinion that the petitioner is not entitled to be admitted to the medical college on the basis of Scheduled Tribe Certificate in Maharashtra. In the view we have taken, the question of petitioner's right to be admitted as being domicile does not fall for consideration.

23. Having construed the provisions of Article 341 and 342 of the Constitution in the manner we have done, the next question that falls for consideration, is, the question of the fate of those scheduled caste and scheduled tribe students who get the protection of being classed as scheduled caste or scheduled tribes in 'the States of origin when, because of transfer or movement of their father or guardian's business or service, they move to other States as a matter of voluntary transfer, will they be entitled to some sort of protective treatment so that they may continue or pursue their education. Having considered the facts and circumstances of such situation, it appears to us that where the migration from one State to other is involuntary, by force of circumstances either of employment or of profession, in such cases if students or persons apply in the migrated State where without affecting prejudicially the rights of the scheduled castes or scheduled tribes in those States or areas, any facility or protection for continuance of study or admission can be given to one who has so migrated then some consideration is desirable to be made on that ground. It would, therefore, be necessary and perhaps desirable for the legislatures or the Parliament to consider appropriate legislations bearing this aspect in mind so that proper effect is given to the rights given to scheduled castes and scheduled tribes by virtue of the provisions under Articles 341 and 342 of the Constitution, This is a matter which the State legislatures or the Parliament may appropriately take into consideration.

24. Having so held, now the question is, as to what is to happen to the petitioner in this case. As we have held, the petitioner is not entitled to be admitted to the Medical College on the basis that he belongs to scheduled tribe in his original State. The petitioner has, however, been admitted. He has progressed in his studies. But he had given an undertaking that he will not insist on the basis of the admission. If we allow him to continue with his studies in Maharashtra's College where he has been admitted on the undertaking given after he has not succeeded in this application, it would be a bad precedent. We must, however, do justice. The boy's educational prospects should not be jeopardised since he has progressed to a certain extent and disqualifying him at this stage or this year on the ground that he is not entitled to the protection of Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe, would not confer any commensurate benefit to scheduled castes or scheduled tribes in Maharashtra or for that matter on anybody else. It is, therefore, desirable that the question whether he is genuinely belonging to Gouda community and whether this community is a scheduled caste or scheduled tribe, should be first properly and appropriately determined. As mentioned hereinbefore, we have not examined this question. After determining that whether after making provisions for the scheduled castes and scheduled tribes of Maharashtra, if any facility of admission or continuance of study can be given in the Medical College in Maharashtra to the petitioner herein, the authorities incharge of the Institution should consider the same and if on that considering they find it justified in allowing the petitioner to continue in his studies, they may do so. The authorities should consider the same and take action accordingly, as expeditiously as possible. In considering the question of the petitioner continuing his medical education, the appropriate authorities should bear in mind the justice of the situation.' We, therefore, leave it to the authorities to take appropriate action about the continuance or discontinuance of the petitioner in his studies on the basis of the aforesaid consideration. We order accordingly. We do so only in the background of the peculiar facts and circumstances of this case. and the aforesaid observations should not be treated as a precedent for other situations."

16. In order to appreciate the ratio of the judgment, it is necessary to refer the controversy involved in the said case. In the said case, the petitioner was born on 6th October, 1969 in the State of Andhra Pradesh and belongs to the Gouda community known as "Goudu". The said community was recognized as 'Scheduled Tribe' under the Constitution (Scheduled Tribes) Order, 1950. The father of the petitioner in that case was issued with the Scheduled Tribe certificate by the concerned competent authorities of the State of Andhra Pradesh and it is on the said basis, the father of the petitioner was appointed in Fertilizer Corporation of India (for short 'FCI') on 17th October, 1977 under the Scheduled Tribes quota. He joined at Rashtriya Chemicals and Fertilizers Ltd. in the then known city of Bombay of the State of Maharashtra. The petitioner in that case became domicile of Maharashtra as he attained all his education in Bombay and after passing 12th standard examination, he applied for three medical colleges which were under the management of Bombay Municipal Corporation. As per the advertisement then issued for the medical seats, the total number of vacancies were 400 and 7% of those vacancies, namely, 28 seats were reserved for scheduled caste candidates and 200 colleges were run by the State of Maharashtra and out of that 14 seats accounting to 7% of the total seats were reserved for the scheduled tribes. The petitioner in the said case applied in the category of scheduled tribe but was not accorded admission as S.T. category candidate either in the colleges run by the Bombay Municipal Corporation or those run by the State of Maharashtra. The petitioner in the said case raised the issue taking the plea of discrimination as those who had scored lesser marks were granted admission in scheduled tribe category. He took the plea that his community was specified as scheduled tribe in the Constitution (Scheduled Tribe) Order, 1950. The Government of India as discussed in the said case and had issued some Circular letter dated 22nd February, 1985 which provided thus:-

"It is also clarified that a Scheduled Caste/Tribe person who has migrated from the State of origin to some other State for the purpose of seeking education, employment etc. will be deemed to be a Scheduled Caste/Tribe of the State of his origin and will be entitled to derive benefits from the State of origin and not from the State to which he has migrated."

17. The petitioner took the plea that he had the citizenship of Maharashtra by domicile as he resided for more than 10 years since 1978. However, this issue was neither raised nor, discussed either in the writ petition or before the High Court. The legal and constitutional issue in the said case centres around the interpretation of Article 342 of the Constitution. While interpreting the provisions as contained under Article 341 and 342 of the Constitution, the Apex Court framed the question as to what the expression "in relation to that state" in conjunction with the purpose as occurring in the Articles, it seeks to convey. So, virtually the Apex Court was dealing with the rights of the State in matters of reservation policy, keeping in tune with the principles enshrined under Article 14 of the Constitution, even while caste of different states is recognized in the special SC/ ST category under the presidential order. The Court discussed the principle of equality and equal protection of laws as prescribed for under Article 14 of the Constitution in the light of the socio-economic condition of the people who in a state may be put to disadvantageous position if the benefit of reservation is not offered and this would amount to denuding them of the right of equality. The Court observes that the social condition of a caste, however, varies from state to state and it will not be proper to generalize any caste or any tribe as SC/ ST for the whole country. This, however, is a different problem whether a member of scheduled caste in one part of the country who migrates to another State or any other union territory should continue to be treated as a scheduled caste and scheduled tribe in which he has migrated.

18. The Court, therefore, proceeded to judge the question from the angle of interest of well being of the SC/ ST in the country as a whole. The Court further proceeded to discuss the issue in order to strike a balance in the mosaic of countries integrity so that one community is not benefited to the undue disadvantage to the other community. The Court was virtually proceeding to achieve the aim of minimizing the detrimental effect of one community gaining advantage over and above the other community bringing discontentment in the society and it is in this background the Court proceeded to hold that when a constitutional provision uses the expression "in relation to that state" it means that a special privilege was confined to that state alone meant especially for the SC/ ST category". The Court observed that one community in a State especially recognized and if so socially and economically backward to have fallen as an entry in the presidential order as SC/ ST category should not be given advantage over and above of such category men of the other State. This above ratio, in our considered opinion, is in relation to the employment and services that are of the States and sponsored by the State. For the purposes of services and employment of the Union of India or sponsored by a public sector company of Central Government for all India candidates would certainly include all the SC/ ST category candidates of different States as special category candidates but then the principles that has been outlined in the judgment of the Apex Court, in our considered opinion, have been fully taken care of under the relevant clause 12 of NIT which talks of preferential induction of State registered TTs. We do not find any quarrel with the principle laid down in the judgment (supra) by the Apex Court but in so far as the present case is concerned, the principle laid down while interpreting the expression "in relation to that State" occurring in Article 342 (1) of the Constitution would be of no help to the petitioner.

19. The petitioner has further relied upon a judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Action Committee (supra) and has put emphasis on paragraph Nos. 3, 4, 8, 15 and 16 of the judgment which are reproduced hereunder:-

3. On a plain reading of clause (1) of Articles 341 and 342 it is manifest that the power of the President is limited to specifying the castes or tribes which shall, for the purposes of the Constitution, be deemed to be Scheduled Castes or Scheduled Tribes in relation to a State or a Union Territory, as the case may be. Once a notification is issued under clause (1) of Articles 341 and 342 of the Constitution, Parliament can by law include in or exclude from the list of Scheduled Castes or Scheduled Tribes, specified in the notification, any caste or tribe but save for that limited purpose the notification issued under clause (1), shall not be varied by any subsequent notification. What is important to notice is that the castes or tribes have to be specified in relation to a given State or Union Territory. That means a given caste or tribe can be a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe in relation to the State or Union Territory for which it is specified. These are the relevant provisions with which we shall be concerned while dealing with the grievance made in this petition.

4. The petitioners herein are aggrieved because the State of Maharashtra has denied the benefits and privileges available to Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes specified in relation to that State to members of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes belonging to other States who have migrated from other States to the State of Maharashtra. These benefits and privileges are denied on the basis of certain circulars and letters issued by the Government of India and consequential instructions issued by the State of Maharashtra indicating that members belonging to the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes specified in relation to any other State shall not be entitled to the benefits and privileges accorded by The State of Maharashtra unless the person concerned is shown to be a permanent resident of the State of Maharashtra on 10-8-1950 in the case of Scheduled Castes and 6-9-1950 in the case of Scheduled Tribes. These are the dates on which the President first promulgated the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950 and the Constitution (Scheduled Tribes) Order, 1950. The petitioners, therefore, contend that the denial of the benefits and the privileges by the State of Maharashtra is violative of the fundamental rights conferred on citizens by Articles 14, 15(1), 16(2) and 19 of the Constitution, besides being contrary to the letter and spirit of Articles 341 and 342 of the Constitution. The petitioners contend that a bare perusal of the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950 and the Constitution (Scheduled Tribes) Order, 1950 as amended by the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes Orders (Amendment) Act, 1976 would show the same castes and tribes specified in respect of more than one State. Those belonging to the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes, wherever situate, are economically backward. Besides on account of social and economic backwardness they have to suffer a host of indignities and atrocities and are very often compelled to migrate from one State to another in search of livelihood or to escape the wrath of their oppressors. Earlier they did not experience any difficulty in obtaining caste/tribe certificates to secure benefits available to the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes in the State of Maharashtra. The situation, however, changed drastically after the Government of India issued a communication addressed to Chief Secretaries to all State Governments/Union Territories on 22-3-1977.

8. In course of time persons belonging to Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes who had migrated from one State to another in search of employment or for education purposes and the like, experienced great difficulty in obtaining Caste/Tribe Certificates from the State from which they had migrated. To remove this difficulty experienced by them the earlier instructions contained in the letter of 22-3-1977, and the subsequent letter of 29-3-1982, were modified, in that, the prescribed authority of a State/Union Territory was permitted to issue the Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe Certificate to a person who had migrated from another State on production of a genuine certificate issued to his father by the prescribed authority of the State of the father's origin except where the prescribed authority considered a detailed enquiry necessary through the State of origin before issue of certificate. It was further stated that the certificate will be issued irrespective of whether the Caste/Tribe in question is scheduled or not in relation to the State/Union Territory to which the person has migrated. Of course, this facility did not alter the Scheduled Caste/Tribe status of the person in relation to the one or the other State. The revised form of the certificate was circulated. Further, it was clarified that a Scheduled Caste/Tribe person who has migrated from the State of origin to some other State for the purpose of education, employment, etc., will be deemed to be Scheduled Caste/Tribe of the State of his origin only and will be entitled to derive benefits from that State and not from the State to which he had migrated. By this clarificatory order forwarded to Chief Secretaries of all States/Union Territories, the only facility extended was that the prescribed authority of the State/Union Territory to which a person had migrated was permitted to issue the certificate to the migrant on production of the genuine certificate issued to his father by the prescribed authority of the State of the father's origin provided that the prescribed authority could always enquire into the matter through the State of origin if he entertained any doubt. The certificate to be so issued would be in relation to the State/Union Territory from which the person concerned had migrated and not in relation to the State/Union Territory to which he had migrated. Therefore, the migrant would not be entitled to derive benefits in the State to which he. had migrated on the strength of such a certificate, This was reiterated in a subsequent letter dated 15-10-1987 addressed to Smt Shashi Misra, Secretary, Social Welfare, etc., in the State of Maharashtra. In paragraph 4 of that letter it was specifically stated :

"Further, a Scheduled Caste person, who has migrated from the State of his origin, which is considered to be his ordinary place of residence after the issue of the first Presidential Order, 1950, can get benefit from the State of his origin and not from the State to which he has migrated."

So stating the proposal regarding reduction in the period of cut-off point of 1950 for migration was spurned. It was stated that the proposal could have been taken care of only if the lists of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes were made on all-India basis which, it was said, was not feasible in view of the provisions of Articles 341 and 342 of the Constitution. It will thus, be seen that so far as the Government of India is concerned, since the date of issuance of the communication dated 22-3-1977, it has firmly held the view that a Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe person who migrates from the State of his origin to another State in search of employment or for educational purposes or the like, cannot be treated as a person belonging to the Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe of the State to which he migrates and hence he cannot claim benefit as such in the latter State.

*15. Marri Chandra was born in Tenali in the State of Andhra Pradesh and belonged to Gouda community, popularly known as 'Goudi'. This community was specified as a Scheduled Tribe in the Constitution (Scheduled Tribes) Order, 1950 as amended till then. His father had obtained a Scheduled Tribe certificate from the Tehsildar on the basis whereof he secured employment in the quota reserved for Scheduled Tribes in a Government of India Undertaking and was posted in Bombay, State of Maharashtra. The petitioner was then aged about 9 years. He prosecuted his studies in Bombay and passed the 12th standard examination held by the Maharashtra State Secondary and Higher Secondary Examination Board. Thereafter he sought admission to the respondent-college claiming benefit of reservation as one belonging to the Scheduled Tribe. He was, however, denied admission in that quota though Scheduled Tribe candidates who had secured lesser marks than him but whose State of origin was Maharashtra were admitted. The denial of admission as based on the circular dated 22-2-1985 issued by the Government of, India which has already been referred to by us. Having failed to secure admission in any medical college in the quota reserved for Scheduled Tribe candidates, he questioned the denial before this Court under Article 32 of the Constitution. A Constitution Bench headed by Sabyasachi Mukharji, C.J., as he then was, examined the question whether one who is recognised as a Scheduled Tribe in the State of his origin continues to have the benefits or privileges or rights in the State to which he migrates. In paragraph 6 of the judgment the precise question was formulated as follows:

"This question, therefore, that arises in this case is whether the petitioner can claim the benefit of being a Scheduled Tribe in the State of Maharashtra though he had, as he states, a Scheduled Caste certificate in the State of Andhra Pradesh?"

In answering this question the Constitution Bench was called upon to interpret Articles 341 and 342 of the Constitution and determine what the expression "in relation to that State" read in conjunction with "for the purposes of this Constitution" seeks to convey. After referring to the provisions of Articles 14, 15 and 16 and the decision of this Court in Pradeep Jain (Dr) v. Union of India9 the Constitution Bench took notice of the fact that Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes had to suffer social disadvantages and were denied facilities for development and growth in certain States. To grant equality in those States where they suffered and were denied facilities for development and growth certain protective preferences, facilities and benefits in the form of reservation, etc., had to be provided to them to enable them to compete on equal terms with the more advantageous and developed sections of the community. It is not necessary to dilate on this point as the Constitution itself recognises that members belonging to the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes and other backward classes have to be given certain incentives, preferences and benefits to put them on an even keel with others who have hitherto enjoyed a major share of the facilities for development and growth offered by the State, so that the former may, in course of time, be able to overcome the handicap caused on account of denial of opportunities. The interpretation that the Court must put on the relevant constitutional provisions in regard to Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes and other backward classes must be aimed at achieving the objective of equality promised to all citizens by the Preamble of our Constitution. At the same time it must also be realised that the language of clause (1) of both the Articles 341 and 342 is quite plain and unambiguous. It clearly states that the President may specify the castes or tribes, as the case may be, in relation each State or Union Territory for the purposes of the Constitution. It must also be realised that before specifying the castes or tribes under either of the two articles the President is, in the case of a State, obliged to consult Governor of that State. Therefore, when a class is specified by the President, after consulting the Governor of State A, it is difficult to understand how that specification made "in relation to that State" can be treated as specification in relation to any other State whose Governor the President has not consulted. True it is that this specification is not only in relation to a given State whose Governor has been consulted but is "for the purposes of this Constitution" meaning thereby the various provisions of the Constitution which deal with Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes. The Constitution Bench has, after referring to the debates in the Constituent Assembly relating to these articles, observed that while it is true that a person does not cease to belong to his caste/tribe by migration he has a better and more socially free and liberal atmosphere and if sufficiently long time is spent in socially advanced. areas, the inhibitions and handicaps suffered by belonging to a socially disadvantageous community do not truncate his growth and the natural talents of an individual gets full scope to blossom and flourish. Realising that these are problems of social adjustment it was observed that they must be so balanced in the mosaic of the country's integrity that no section or community should cause detriment or discontentment to the other community. Therefore, said the Constitution Bench, the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes belonging to a particular area of the country must be given protection so long as and to the extent they are entitled to in order to 9 (1984) 3 SCC 654 become equals with others but those who go to other areas should ensure that they make way for the disadvantaged and disabled of that part of the community who suffer from disabilities in those areas. The Constitution Bench summed up as under:

"In other words, Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes say of Andhra Pradesh do require necessary protection as balanced between other communities. But equally the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes say of Maharashtra in the instant case, do require protection in the State of Maharashtra, which will have to be in balance to other communities. This must be the basic approach to the problem. If one bears this basic approach in mind, then the determination of the controversy in the instant case does not become difficult."

16. We may add that considerations for specifying a particular caste or tribe or class for inclusion in the list of Scheduled Castes/Schedule Tribes or backward classes in a given State would depend on the nature and extent of disadvantages and social hardships suffered by that caste, tribe or class in that State which may be totally non est in another State to which persons belonging thereto may migrate. Coincidentally it may be that a caste or tribe bearing the same nomenclature is specified in two States but the considerations on the basis of which they have been specified may be totally different. So also the degree of disadvantages of various elements which constitute the input for specification may also be totally different. Therefore, merely because a given caste is specified in State A as a Scheduled Caste does not necessarily mean that if there be another caste bearing the same nomenclature in another State the person belonging to the former would be entitled to the fights, privileges and benefits admissible to a member of the Scheduled Caste of the latter State "for the purposes of this Constitution". This is an aspect which has to be kept in mind and which was very much in the minds of the Constitution-makers as is evident from the choice of language of Articles 341 and 342 of the Constitution. That is why in answer to a question by Mr Jaipal Singh, Dr Ambedkar answered as under:

"He asked me another question and it was this. Supposing a member of a Scheduled Tribe living in a tribal area migrates to another part of the territory of India, which is outside both the scheduled area and the tribal area, will he be able to claim from the local Government, within whose jurisdiction he may be residing the same privileges which he would be entitled to when he is residing within the scheduled area or within the tribal area? It is a difficult question for me to answer. If that matter is agitated in quarters where a decision on a matter like this would lie, we would certainly be able to give some answer to the question in the form of some clause in this Constitution. But so far as the present Constitution stands, a member of a Scheduled Tribe going outside the scheduled area or tribal area would certainly not be entitled to carry with him the privileges that he is entitled to when he is residing in a scheduled area or a tribal area. So far as I can see, it will be practicably impossible to enforce the provisions that apply to tribal areas or scheduled areas, in areas other than those which are covered by them....."

Relying on this statement the Constitution Bench ruled that the petitioner was not entitled to admission to the medical college on the basis that he belonged to a Scheduled Tribe in the State of his origin."

20. In the said case we again find that it was State of Maharashtra which was considering the applications in particular category qua the reservations of SC/ ST in the House of People in that particular State. Both the seats of membership as well as the applicants are special to that State and, therefore, on the principle as discussed hereinabove in the matter of Marri Chandra Shekhar Rao (supra), was made applicable in this as well. The said judgment has been discussed in paragraph 10 of the judgment of the Action Committee (supra). So on facts also this judgment is distinguishable.

21. The petitioner has relied upon yet another judgment in the case of Bir Singh (supra) and has emphasised upon paragraph Nos. 20, 34 and 36 of the judgment. The relevant paragraphs relied upon are reproduced hereunder:-

"20. There are various parameters by which a caste/race is recognized as 'Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe' in a State/Union Territory or a particular part thereof. There is no doubt that before the Presidential Orders were issued under Article 341(1) or under Article 342(1), elaborate enquiries were made and only after such enquiries that the Presidential Orders were issued. While doing so, the Presidential Orders not only provided that even specified parts or groups of castes, races or tribes/tribal community could be Scheduled Castes/Tribes in a particular State/Union Territory but also made it clear that certain castes or tribes or parts/groups thereof could be Scheduled Castes/Tribes only in specified/particular areas/districts of a State/Union Territory. The reason for such an exercise by reference to specific areas of a State is that judged by standards of educational, social backwardness, etc. races or tribes may not stand on the same footing throughout the State. The consideration for specifying a particular caste or tribe or class for inclusion in the list of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes or Backward Classes in any given State depends on the nature and extent of the disadvantages and social hardships 22 suffered by the concerned members of the class in that State. These may be absent in another State to which the persons belonging to some other State may migrate.

34. Unhesitatingly, therefore, it can be said that a person belonging to a Scheduled Caste in one State cannot be deemed to be a Scheduled Caste person in relation to any other State to which he migrates for the purpose of employment or education. The expressions "in relation to that State or Union Territory" and "for the purpose of this Constitution" used in Articles 341 and 342 of the Constitution of India would mean that the benefits of reservation provided for by the Constitution would stand 38 confined to the geographical territories of a State/Union Territory in respect of which the lists of Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes have been notified by the Presidential Orders issued from time to time. A person notified as a Scheduled Caste in State 'A' cannot claim the same status in another State on the basis that he is declared as a Scheduled Caste in State 'A'.

36. The upshot of the aforesaid discussion would lead us to the conclusion that the Presidential Orders issued under Article 341 in regard to Scheduled Castes and under Article 342 in regard to Scheduled Tribes cannot be varied or altered by any authority including the Court. It is the Parliament alone which has been vested with the power to so act, that too, by laws made. Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes thus specified in relation to a State or a Union Territory does not carry the same status in another State or Union Territory. Any expansion/deletion of the list of Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes by any authority except Parliament would be against the constitutional mandate under Articles 341 and 342 of the Constitution of India."

22. On facts we again find this judgment to be quite distinguishable as it was considering the reservation in the said case for the purposes of employment and education of that particular State by the said State.

23. One must distinguish the employment of the Union from the employment of State and Union Territories that have Legislative Assemblies. The schemes that are floated by the Central Government and whereunder applications are invited on all India basis, one must remember that for the purposes of Central Government the caste falling in the category of SC/ ST under the Presidential Order for different States would fall in the same category, whereas, in cases of employment or scheme sponsored by that State and thus 'State specific' in that sense that it should not recognize the SC/ ST of other State in the said category. Thus, under that situation/ condition alone those recognized in other States in the said category will not fall in that special category. The case in hand is one such case where the Corporation invited applications for providing services of TTs to carry petroleum products within the State of U.P., but from all over the country. Since the services to be provided within the territory of the Uttar Pradesh, preference was given to the State registered TTs.

24. The question whether the State registered TTs are owned by the SC/ ST people or not will depend upon the entries of the preferential rights of the different State and there is no preference in the matter of SC/ ST men of State of U.P. alone. The law is that one can have all India permit. The question is whether it is registered in the State of U.P. or outside of the State as a transport truck. If it is registered in the State of U.P. as a tank truck, it is enough. A residence of outside U.P. can also have his truck registered in the State of U.P. and that person may be belonging to SC/ ST category of another State then in the matter of such registered TTs the preferential rights will be given to such transporters who may be resident of another State if he is of SC/ ST of that State. From the interpretation of the relevant clause 12(b) it cannot be inferred that a truck owner has to be resident of State of U.P.

25. In support of above such view, it is necessary to examine the relevant provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 amended in the year 2016 which is a Central Act as it provides for registration of the commercial vehicles in the State. The registration is provided under Section 41 by the owner of motor vehicle for registration by fulfilling a form and providing particulars as required. Nowhere under Section 41 it is provided that a person who wants his vehicle to be registered with the transport authority which is a Central Authority in a particular State, is also required to be resident of that State. Then we find that Section 66 of Motor Vehicles Act provide for control of the transport vehicles. Section 68 defines transport authorities whereas Section 69 provides for applications for permits. Section 77 provides for goods carriage permit. Section 78 provides for consideration of application of goods carriage permit and Section 79 authorizes Regional Transport Authority to grant permit or refuse the same on an application made under Section 77. Section 84 deals with conditions attaching to All India Permit. All these sections which are referred hereinabove do not lay down any condition that owner of the vehicle should be resident of that particular State where the vehicle is registered or the permit is granted.

26. In view of the above, therefore, we do not see anything wrong in case if vehicle is registered in a State owned by the residents of outside the State who are of SC/ ST category of that other State. There seems to be no justifiable reason as to why their TTs be not given preferential rights and then again if trucks are not registered in the State specific, of such residents of outside the State and if they belong to SC/ ST category of that State, why their tender applications may not be granted in the category reserved for SC/ ST in the event the State registered TTs are not available to meet the requirement, which is State specific.

27. In so far the issue relating to the quota if the number of trucks of the category is not available why it not be adjusted against the open category, is concerned, this situation would come only when no candidate is available in the SC/ ST category on all India basis. It is in such an event only the open category candidate will be given opportunity and will be selected against the shortfall. Even the Circular letter which has been referred to in the impugned order issued by the Government of India dated 18th August, 1994 vide clause (iv) provides thus:-

"(iv). The adequate number of SC/ST candidates are not available in any particular year the unfilled quota, may be allotted to the unreserved categories in that year. However, the unfilled quota may be carried forward to the next tender also and offered to SC/ST candidates. If, the quota of the previous tender is not filled even in the next tender, the unfilled quota of the previous tender may be deserved and allotted to general categories.

28. From bare reading of clause (iv) of the Circular issued by the Central Government (supra), it is clearly revealed that if the quota has remained unfilled, it will be carried forward to the next tender and even in that tender it has remained unfilled then it will be deserved to be applicable to open category.

29. The question whether this contingency is referable to the very year of tender or the second tender will be dependent upon the conditions provided for under the Notice Invited Tender as in the present case it was provided that unfilled quota will be adjusted against the general open category in that very year of tender. However, the issue whether the quota will be carried forward or will get exhausted against the general category is not an issue before this Court and should not detain us any long for the simple reason that the legal issue stands already answered that if applications have been invited on all India basis and only preference will be given to the TTs registered in U.P. and in the event if the TTs registered in the State of U.P. do not fulfill the requirement then those applicants who are of the SC/ ST category of the other State with their TTs registered in other State will be considered the unfilled quota will be adjusted with them.

30. Here it is not a case that whether the quota has remained unfilled. The legal point raised is that tender applicants of SC/ ST category of other State cannot be permitted to apply against the SC/ ST category if the services are offered for the State of U.P. and requirement is State specific. Since it is not a State sponsored scheme or State owned employment by the Central Government owned Corporation has floated tender inviting applications from all over the country, all SC and ST category truck owners/ transporters having their registered TTs in State of U.P. thus registered in other States are all eligible to apply and are to be considered in that special reserved category, however, consideration of their applications will be subject to preference in respect of state registered TTs.

31. In view of the above discussions made herenabove in this judgment referring to various authorities, the legal argument raised by the learned counsels for the respective parties and conclusion drawn, we do not find any illegality or perversity in the order impugned so far as the first point is concerned and it stands answered against the petitioner.

32. The second point has not been argued at all but even otherwise we do not find that the findings of fact that have been recorded with regard to the second complaint leave any scope of interference by this Court in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution.

33. The writ petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed with no order as to cost.

9. J. Ashoka v. University of Agricultural Science and others, (2017) 2 SCC 609

10.Devmani v. State of U.P. and others, 2019 (1) ADJ 870 (DB)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pradeep Kumar Singh Baghel, J.)

1. The petitioner has instituted this writ proceedings challenging the order dated 02.11.2018 passed by the Secretary, Azamgarh Development Authority, respondent no.5 and the order passed by the District Magistrate dated 06.12.2018.

2. The facts are these:

The petitioner claims that he is owner and bhumidhar of araji no.491 situated in Village Narauli, Tappa Harvanshpur, Pargana Nizamabad, District Azamgarh and araji nos. 486 and 490 are adjacent to the petitioner's plot, which he has no concern. In support of the said averment the petitioner has brought on record a copy of the Khatauni of the Fasli year 1423-1428. The said plot has been purchased by the petitioner from Kailash Chauhan through registered sale deed dated 19.05.2016. Demarcation report dated 23.07.2017 submitted by the Lekhpal and Revenue Inspector in respect of the aforesaid three plots is brought on record. The said map is said to have been approved by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar vide order dated 31.07.2017.

3. The petitioner intended to raise construction of the house over the plot no.491. Accordingly, he moved an application before the Azamgarh Development Authority for sanction of the map. On 01.11.2017, the Azamgarh Development Authority sanctioned the map, which is on the record.

4. The grievance of the petitioner is that the District Magistrate without any authority is interfering in the matter to help the private respondents. It is stated that the District Magistrate has taken undue interest in the matter to provide benefit to the respondent nos.5 and 6. He has got a report dated 10.09.2018, which was submitted by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Azamgarh in compliance of the endorsement made by the District magistrate on 20.07.2018. When the petitioner came to know about the ex-parte report dated 10.09.2018, submitted Secretary by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Azamgarh, he moved an application to the Commissioner, Azamgarh to bring the illegal action to his notice. On 14.09.2018, the Commissioner directed the District Magistrate, Azamgarh to get an enquriy in the matter at the level of the Additional District Magistrate and submit a report. The said order is on the record. It is averred in the writ petition that the Chief Revenue Officer, Azamgarh, without conducting any enquiry at his level, on the basis of the report dated 14.09.2018 submitted by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Azamgarh, submitted an ex-parte report dated 26.10.2018 to the District Magistrate. The District Magistrate while forwarding the report to the Commissioner made an endorsement dated 26.10.2018 directing to lodge a criminal case against the petitioner. It is stated that the said order is ex-parte and without jurisdiction.

5. Dissatisfied with the said order passed by the District Magistrate, the petitioner filed Writ Petition No.37328 of 2018 before this Court, wherein an interim order has been granted by this Court. It is averred that when a counter affidavit was filed in the said writ petition then the petitioner came to know that by order dated 02.11.2018 the Secretary, Azamgarh Development Authority has cancelled the order dated 01.11.2017 whereby the petitioner's map was sanctioned. The said order is under challenge in the present proceedings. The said order records that the order has been passed on the instruction of the District Magistrate. It is stated that no opportunity of hearing has been Secretary given by the respondent no.5 before passing the impugned order dated 02.11.2018 and the order is also without jurisdiction as the authority is not vested with the power of review. It is also averred in the writ petition that the order has been passed at the dictate of the District Magistrate, Azamgarh, who has no jurisdiction under the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act'). It is stated that only the Vice-Chairman has power under Section 15(9) of the Act to cancel the permission granted under Section 15(3) of the Act.

6. Since a serious issue was raised by the petitioner that the order of the District Magistrate is without jurisdiction as he has no power under the provisions of the Act to issue any direction to the Development Authority to cancel the map, we had furnished opportunity to the District Magistrate to file an affidavit sworn by him indicating under which provisions of law he has issued direction to the Secretary of the Development Authority to cancel the map. In compliance thereof the District Magistrate has filed his personal affidavit. The respondent nos. 5 and 6 have also filed their counter affidavit.

7. The District Magistrate in the counter affidavit has justified his order on the ground that he has passed the order dated 06.12.2018, in a routine administrative work to maintain the law and order. The relevant part of the paragraph is extracted:

"That the respondent Secretary no.6 gave an application dated 06.12.2018 during Jan Sunwai before the deponent, stating that some anti social elements are interfering in his possession over his plot no.490 and requested for a direction to the S.H.O. Sidhari, Azamgarh to ensure that no interference be made in construction over his plot by the anti social elements. The deponent on this application passed his order dated 06.12.2018 in a routine administrative manner directing the S.O.Sidhari to take necessary action to ensure law and order in accordance with law and to do needful against the anti social elements, if any, who creates hindrance in construction of work of the respondent no.6 . It is further submitted that no such direction is given with regard to facilitate the applicant in his construction."

8. It is also stated by the District Magistrate that he is Vice-Chairman of the Development Authority and even in this capacity he has not issued any direction to the Secretary of the Azamgarh Development Authority with regard to the cancellation of the order dated 01.11.2017. The private respondents have also filed counter affidavits. In the counter affidavit they have raised the issue regarding the title. Hence, we are not recording the stand taken by the private respondents in detail as in the proposed order we are adverting to the merit of the case. We are confining ourself only to the issue with regard to the violation of principles of natural justice and the jurisdiction of Administrative Officer in passing the administrative order in the property dispute.

9. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the materials on record.

10. Concededly, the Development Authority has sanctioned the map of the petitioner vide order dated 01.11.2017 under Section 15 of the Act. It is alleged that the private respondents have made a complaint to the District Magistrate regarding the illegality in sanctioning the map.

11. From the personal affidavit of the District Magistrate it is evident that the District Magistrate has examined the issue on merit and has perused the report dated 23.07.2017 submitted by the revenue team to the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar and on his direction the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar has initiated a fresh enquiry. The Sub-Divisional Magistrate in compliance of the direction of the District Magistrate directed the revenue team constituted under the Chairmanship of Naib Tehsildar to make fresh survey (paimaish) of the plot nos. 486 and 490 of the respondent no.6 and plot no.491 of the petitioner. The revenue team submitted its paimaish report dated 12.11.2017. The Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar approved the same and submitted it to the District Magistrate, Azamgarh.

12. When the petitioner came to know about the said survey, he also made a complaint to the District Magistrate, Azamgarh. The District Magistrate, Azamgarh directed the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar to make an enquiry and submit a report. The Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar submitted another report dated 23.04.2018 and affirmed its earlier report dated 12.11.2017.

13. The District Magistrate in his counter affidavit has not denied the fact that the order of the Development Authority sanctioning the map of the petitioner dated 01.11.2017 has been cancelled without furnishing opportunity to the petitioner. It has also not been denied in the counter affidavit that the plot no.491 was purchased by the petitioner through a registered sale deed dated 19.05.2016 and after survey a report dated 23.07.2017 was submitted by the Lekhpal and the Revenue Inspector, which was approved by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate vide order dated 31.07.2017. A copy of the order of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate dated 31.07.2017 is on the record.

14. The order of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar was not challenged by the respondent nos. 5 and 6 and they directly approached the District Magistrate after a fresh Paimaish. In the counter affidavit of the District Magistrate or the private respondents it has not been averred that the order of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate dated 31.07.2017 was challenged. There is discrepancy in the counter affidavit filed by the District Magistrate and the respondent no.6. The District Magistrate has mentioned in his affidavit that the respondent no.6 has made an application to him and on the said application he has directed to the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar to make a fresh survey. However, this fact has not been mentioned by the respondent no.6 in his counter affidavit and he has stated that he has moved an application before the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Azamgarh. In fact, he has not mentioned that the District Magistrate, Azamgarh has directed the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar to make a fresh enquiry. In view of the said contradiction in the affidavits of respondent no.6 and the District Magistrate, Azamgarh, it is difficult to believe the statement of the respondent no.6 in the counter affidavit.

15. The U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as the Act, 1973) is a complete Code in respect of the plan development in the development area notified under the said Act. Section 14 and 15 of the Act, 1973 deals with the sanction of the map. In the present case the Development Authority exercising its statutory power under Section 15 of the Act, 1973 has sanctioned the map. Once the map has been sanctioned, the District Magistrate has no power to issue direction to the Secretary of the Development Authority to cancel the map.

16. Pertinently, in the impugned order, the Secretary of the Development Authority has clearly mentioned that the order cancelling the map is passed in compliance of the direction of the District Magistrate. Moreover, the order is cryptic and bereft of reason. It is well settled law that the statutory authority has to pass an order applying his mind. If he takes a decision on the dictate of some statutory authority, the order stands vitiated. This Court in the case of Madan Kumar and others v. District Magistrate, Auraiya and others, 2013 (10) ADJ 606 had occasion to deal with similar issue. The Court has quoted with approval Professor De Smith and Professor Wade in following terms:

"21. Professor De Smith, in his Principles of Judicial Review 1999 Edition, page 240 has aptly said :

"an authority entrusted with a discretion must not, in the purported exercise of its discretion, act under the dictation of another body or person. In at least two Commonwealth cases, licensing bodies were found to have taken decision on the instructions of the heads of Government who were prompted by extraneous motives. But, as less colourful cases illustrate, it is enough to show that a decision which ought to have been based on the exercise of independent judgment was dictated by those not entrusted with the power to decide, although it remains a question of fact whether the repository of discretion abdicated it in the face of external pressure."

Professor Wade in his Administrative Law, 7th Edition has dealt with "Surrender, Abdication, Dictation" and "Power in the wrong hands" in the following words:-

"Closely akin to delegation, and scarcely distinguishable from it in some cases, is any arrangement by which a power conferred upon one authority is in substance exercised by another. The proper authority may share its power with someone else, or may allow someone else to dictate to it by declining to act without their consent or by submitting to their wishes or instructions. The effect then is that the discretion conferred by Parliament is exercised, at least in part, by the wrong authority, and the resulting decision is ultra vires and void. So strict are the Courts in applying this principle that they condemn some administrative arrangements which must seem quite natural and proper to those who make them….

Ministers and their departments have several times fallen foul of the same rule, no doubt equally to their surprise…."

22. This paragraph of Professor Wade has been applied by the Supreme Court in the case of Anirudhsinhji Karansinhji Jadeja v. State of Gujarat, (1995) 5 SCC 302."

Broad principle that emerges is that if a power conferred upon an authority is not exercised by him independently within the framework of the Statute/ law and the decision is taken by him under the "dictation" of a superior authority or a Minister, it shows that he has abdicated his power.

Yet there is another aspect of the matter which cannot be lost sight. From the material on record we find that contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that the action of the respondents suffers from legal malice also. "Malice in law" or "Legal Malice" can vitiate a decision if it established that something has been done without lawful excuse. In such cases it need not to be proved, where the malice is alleged against the State that there was some personal ill-will on the part of the State. If the action of the State shows that there is a conscious violation of law to cause some prejudice to a citizen or rights. Such an order for an unauthorized purpose constitutes malice in law. In the case of Kranti Associates Private Limited and another v. Masood Ahmed Khan and others, (2010) 9 SCC 496 the Supreme Court has considered the legal malice in the following terms:

"25. In Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India, (1978) 1 SCC 248 : AIR 1978 SC 597, which is a decision of great jurisprudential significance in our constitutional law, Beg, C.J. in a concurring but different opinion held that an order impounding a passport is a quasi-judicial decision (SCC p. 311, para 34 : AIR p. 612, para 34). The learned Chief Justice also held, when an administrative action involving any deprivation of or restriction on fundamental rights is taken, the authorities must see that justice is not only done but manifestly appears to be done as well. This principle would obviously demand disclosure of reasons for the decision."

17. In Dipak Babaria And Another v. State of Gujarat And Others, (2014) 3 SCC 502, the Supreme Court has reiterated the principle that if power conferred upon the authority under the statute is not exercised by him independently and decision is taken by him under the instruction (dictation) of a superior authority, it goes to show that he has not applied his mind and abdicated his power.

18. In the present case the Development Authority has categorically mentioned that the order has been passed on the direction of the District Magistrate. The District Magistrate in his personal affidavit has also stated that he has issued the direction in a routine administrative work.

19. Applying the principles laid down in the above cases, we find that the order passed by the Secretary, Development Authority cancelling the map of the petitioner is vitiated on the ground that it has been passed on the direction of the District Magistrate. The said order is also illegal as it is not supported by any reason. The Secretary, Azamgarh Development Authority has recorded only his conclusion without assigning any reason. The Supreme Court in the long line of the judgment has held that if quasi judicial or administrative order is not supported by any reason, the order becomes lifeless. A reference may be made to the Supreme Court judgments in the case of M/s Travancore Rayon Ltd. v. Union of India, 1969 (3) SCC 868, S.N.Mukherjee v. Union of India, AIR 1990 SC 1984, Union of India Vs. Mohan Lal Capoor, AIR 1974 SC 87, Raj Kishore Jha Vs. State of Bihar, (2003) 11 SCC 519, Kranti Associates Private Limited Vs. Masood Ahmed Khan, (2010) 9 SCC 496, Sant Lal Gupta and others v. Modern Cooperative Group Housing Society Limited and others, (2010) 13 SCC 336 and J. Ashoka v. University of Agricultural Science and others, (2017) 2 SCC 609.

20. In addition to above, in a property matter the District Magistrate has no jurisdiction to issue order under the garb of law and order situation. An administrative officer has no authority to issue direction in the property dispute, on the ground of apprehension of breach of peace. In case there is any apprehension of breach of peace in respect of the property dispute, the appropriate remedy has been provided under the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code where the power has been conferred upon the Magistrate and not the District Magistrate. Moreover, in the present case the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code has not been followed.

21. The question whether an administrative officer can exercise his administrative power in the matter of the property dispute fell for consideration before a Division Bench in the case of Devmani v. State of U.P. and others, 2019 (1) ADJ 870 (DB). The Division Bench has held as under:

"6. In addition to above, we find that the Sub Divisional Magistrate being an administrative Officer has no power to issue any injunction order against any private person to interfere in the possession of the other person. In case an application was filed before the Sub Divisional Magistrate in respect of the property dispute, the appropriate course open to him was ask to the parties to approach the appropriate Court to resolve their dispute. The Sub Divisional magistrate has assumed the jurisdiction of a Civil/Revenue Court and has passed the restrain order. To our repeated query to the learned counsel for the petitioner to point out the authority of law under which the Sub Divisional Magistrate has passed the order but he failed to point out any provision of the law which cloth the administrative officer to pass the injunction order.

7. The experience reveals that the Sub Divisional Magistrates are passing such type of order in a large number of cases. We find that the orders passed by the Administrative Officer interfering in the matter of property dispute where title dispute is involved are wholly without jurisdiction. An administrative officer cannot direct the Police to help a party in title dispute."

22. In the present case also the District Magistrate admittedly has passed the administrative order in respect of the property dispute on the ground that there was apprehension of breach of peace.

23. As discussed above, in such situation the District Magistrate has no jurisdiction to pass any order. Only recourse to the provisions under Cr.P.C can be taken. On this ground also the order of the District Magistrate is vitiated.

24. Lastly, the petitioner in paragraph nos. 20, 21 and 22 of the writ petition has averred that the Secretary of the Azamgarh Development Authority has cancelled the map without any notice or opportunity. This averment has not been denied by the District Magistrate in his personal affidavit or by the private respondent. Moreover, from the impugned order itself it is evident that the order has been passed without furnishing any opportunity to the petitioner. It is well settled law that an order which has civil consequences must be passed after furnishing opportunity to the affected persons. In this case no opportunity has been afforded to the petitioner and thus, the order stands vitiated on this ground also.

25. In view of the above, the impugned order dated 02.11.2018 is set aside. The matter is remitted back to the Secretary, Azamgarh Development Authority to pass a fresh order after furnishing opportunity to the petitioner and the private respondents herein. The said exercise be undertaken expeditiously preferably within three months from the date of communication of this order.

26. The writ petition stands allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Rajeev Kumar Shukla, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-authorities. Sri Pankaj Kumar Gupta, learned counsel for the complainant is present.

2. Present petition has been filed with following prayers:-

"(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari for quashing the impugned order dated 23.3.2018 passed by District Magistrate, Moradabad.

(ii) Issue a writ, order or directing in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to allow this writ petition and to operate the account not to cease the financial and administrative power of the petitioner in pursuance to the impugned order dated 23.3.2018 passed by District Magistrate, Moradabad.

(iii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents not to give effect of the impugned order dated 23.3.2018 passed by District Magistrate, Moradabad.

(iv) To pass any other suitable order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case.

(v) To award the cost of the petition from the respondent."

3. By the impugned order, the petitioner has been suspended from the post of Gram Pradhan of Village Mundia Raja, Block Vikas Khand Bilari, District Moradabad by the District Magistrate, Moradabad on the ground that an enquiry was conducted by a Committee of three members constituted for this purpose and she was found guilty. One of the charge against the petitioner was that she had taken away the old bricks of 'kharanja' in the village which were replaced, for her own use in her residence. This fact that she has taken away the old bricks was admitted by her in her reply. However, the explanation for taking away the bricks was that it is only for the security of the old bricks she has taken away the old bricks and they are still with her and she has not misused the same and she is willing to compensate the same in terms of money. The petitioner was found guilty and was suspended pending final enquiry as per the Uttar Pradesh Panchayat Raj (Removal of Pradhans, Up-Pradhans and Members) Enquiry Rules, 1997 (hereinafter referred to as the Enquiry Rules, 1997).

4. Challenging the same, submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the District Magistrate himself has not constituted the enquiry committee and therefore, the same is not in accordance with the Enquiry Rules, 1997 particularly, Rule 2 (c) and Rule 4 of the Enquiry Rules, 1997.

5. He submits that on perusal of the order dated 21.9.2017 passed by the District Development Officer, Moradabad, it is clear that in fact, he has constituted the Committee (Annexure 1 to the counter affidavit filed by the State-authorities). He submits that the District Development Officer is not the authority to appoint the committee. Drawing attention to Enquiry Rules, 1997, he submits that such power to constitute a committee is delegated by State Government to the District Magistrate and it cannot be further delegated by District Magistrate to District Development Officer, therefore, such enquiry committee cannot be constituted by the District Development Officer and the enquiry report submitted by such committee is vitiated in the eye of law.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also drawn attention of this Court to the various orders annexed with the supplementary affidavit as Annexure No.4 to indicate that the District Magistrate, as a matter of fact, himself has constituted committee and in the present case this has not been done and therefore, entire inquiry proceedings are vitiated. He submits, therefore, the order based on such inquiry is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be quashed. In support of his arguments learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on following judgments:- (i) Narendra Kumar vs. State of U.P. and Others 2013 (2) AWC 1663, (ii) Shashi Kant vs. State of U.P. and Others 2018 (3) AWC 2674 (iii) judgment dated 30.3.2018 passed in Writ- C No. 11594 of 2018 (Mohd. Arif vs. State of U.P. and 2 Others).

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner also sought to argue the merits of the petition that her explanation submitted by the petitioner has not been correctly appreciated. He submits that it is only in public interest the old bricks were removed and she had expressed her clear and categorical stand that she is willing to compensate the same in terms of money.

8. The crux of the arguments is that the District Magistrate himself has not constituted the three members enquiry committee and thus, it is violation of the Enquiry Rules, 1997 and therefore, impugned order based on such enquiry report submitted by the enquiry committee so constructed is not sustainable in the eye of law.

9. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel drawing attention to the Annexure-1 to the counter affidavit, which is a letter dated 21.9.2017, which is being highlighted by learned counsel for the petitioner as an order constituting enquiry committee and by drawing attention to Annexure no-3 to the supplementary affidavit, which is an order dated an 14.9.2017, submitted that at serial no.5 for Block Baharia, which is admittedly, the relevant block for the concerned village i.e Mundaiya Raja, Vikas Khand Bilari, District Moradabad, a committee of three members, namely, the District Panchayat

Raj Officer, Moradabad, District Basic Education Officer, Moradabad and Assistant Engineer, Pradhanmantri Sadak Yojna (PIU), had been constituted in the District Moradabad for the reason that there were large numbers complaints of irregularities in constitution of enquiry committees, a committee of three members, which includes two district level officers, has been constituted. He submits that it is therefore, clear and as also highlighted in the letter dated 21.9.2017 issued by the District Development Officer with a clear reference to this order dated 14.9.2017 that it is only a communication and as per the directions of the District Magistrate that this committee has been constituted to submits its joint enquiry report. He, therefore, submits that there is no violation of Rule 2(c) or Rule 4 to the Enquiry Rules, 1997. He submits that admittedly, final inquiry is still pending, therefore, no interference is required in the impugned order.

10. I have considered the rival submissions and perused the record.

11. On perusal of the order dated 14.9.2017 I find that it is only because the complaints are being received at Chief Minister level, Commissioner level and Chief Development Officer level as well as in his own office that serious irregularities are being committed in constitution of committee, therefore, for the purpose of conducting impartial and technically sound inquiry, the committees for different blocks have been constituted. It is not in dispute that for eight different blocks different committees have been constituted, which undisputably included the District Level Officers. I find that in fact, in all the committees constituted for different eight blocks, at least two District Level Officers have been appointed and the third member appears to be the technical hand for the purpose of providing the assistance on the technical aspect of the enquiry. Coming to the various other orders passed by the District Magistrate annexed as Annexure No.-4 to the Supplementary Affidavit dated 16.4.2018, I find that all such orders that have been passed by the District Magistrate are of the dates prior to the issuance of the order dated 14.9.2017. The order at page no. 16 is the order dated 13.9.2017, the order at page no. 17 is the order dated 17.7.2017 and the order at page no. 18 is the order dated 19.7.2017. There is nothing on record to indicate that after constitution of all such eight committees for different blocks vide order dated 14.9.2017 any other order has been passed by the District Magistrate himself for constituting the committee. The reason is obvious as the District Magistrate himself has constituted the enquiry committee in the light of the various complaints received at the State level, Commissioner level and at his own level. Therefore, it is very much clear and as also reflected in the letter dated 21.9.2017 that it is nothing but reiteration of the designation of the officers who have already been made members of the committee for inquiry purposes by the District Magistrate in his own order dated 14.9.2017. There is a clear reference to the aforesaid order dated 14.9.2017 in the order/letter dated 21.9.2017. There is no deviation in the same. Therefore, the arguments made by learned counsel for the petitioner that the District Magistrate himself has not constituted the enquiry committee or that the District Development Officer has no authority to do the same is baseless, inasmuch as, the District Development Officer has not exercised any power independently and it is merely reiteration of the description of the members of the enquiry committee already constituted by the District Magistrate.

12. The order dated 21.9.2017 further reflects that copy of this order has been sent to the members of the committee only for compliance. It is, therefore, only an order regarding communication of constitution of committee done by the District Magistrate vide order dated 14.9.2017 and nothing further. This cannot be considered as an order constituting the enquiry committee independently.

13. A reference may also be made to the judgment of Hon'ble Full Bench in the case of Vivekanand Yadav vs. State of U.P. and others 2011 (1) AWC 488 (FB). Apart from that in case of Vijay Kumar vs. District Magistrate 2015 (2) ADJ 145, placing reliance on Vivekanand Yadav (supra) it has been held that if the enquiry has been conducted by a District Level Officer, the same is valid even if the enquiry officer is not appointed by the District Magistrate. Paragraphs 6, 7, 8, 11, and 12 of Vijay Kumar (supra) are quoted as under:-

"6. It is contended that no preliminary enquiry was ordered by District Magistrate and he did not appoint any Enquiry Officer to conduct preliminary enquiry or fact finding enquiry, therefore, aforesaid reports could not have been relied upon for the purpose of passing order under Proviso to Section 95(1)(g) of Act, 1947. It is also said that no Enquiry Officer was appointed by District Magistrate and therefore, any preliminary enquiry report submitted by another person could not have been acted upon and in this regard reliance is placed on a Single Judge judgment of this Court in Rais Ahmad Vs. State of U.P. & Ors., 2009(1) CRC 139.

7. However, I find that issue, up for consideration, is squarely answered by a Full Bench of this Court in Vivekanand Yadav Vs. State of U.P. & Anr., 2010 (10) ADJ 1 (FB).

8. The law laid down by Full Bench in Vivekanand Yadav (supra) can be summarised as under:

(I) Section 95(1)(g) contemplates removal of Pradhan while Proviso to Section 95(1)(g) talks of enquiry before ceasing financial and administrative powers during pendency of a removal proceeding. If Pradhan is prima facie found to have committed financial and other irregularities, preliminary/fact finding enquiry under Section 95(1)(g) proviso is necessary, which has to be conducted under Rule 4 of Rules, 1997.

(II) Proviso to Section 95(1) would apply to Section 95(1)(g) contemplating removal but not to any other provision like Proviso to Section 95(1)(g).

(III) The proviso to Section 95(1) provides for reasonable opportunity in removal proceedings of a Pradhan under Section 95(1)(g) but it does not apply to Proviso to Section 95(1)(g) providing for preliminary or fact finding enquiry: the purpose of this enquiry is to find out if there is any prima facie case against Pradhan or not.

(IV) Proviso to Section 95(1)(g) providing cessation of financial and administrative powers does contemplate a preliminary enquiry by a person and procedure is to be prescribed: the Rules have to be framed for the same. Rules, 1997 thus have been framed because it is so mandated in the Proviso to Section

95(1)(g) of Act, 1947 and not because of 95(1)(g) or the Proviso to Section 95(1).

(V) The District Magistrate can order a preliminary enquiry on the complaint or report or otherwise. The word 'complaint' or 'report' refers to the complaint by a private person or to the report made by a public servant under Rule 3.

(VI) The District Magistrate has power to refer a case for preliminary enquiry even if there is no complaint or report. In other words, he has power to act suo moto.

(VII) Even if a complaint made is not entertainable in view of Rule 3(5) of Rules, 1997 yet District Magistrate can always refer the matter for preliminary enquiry, if he consider that it should be so enquired; since he can act suo moto.

(VIII) The word "otherwise" in Rule 4 means that District Magistrate has suo motu powers to order a preliminary enquiry, and, he may order a preliminary enquiry even if there is no complaint or report; or a defective complaint, not in accordance with Rules 3(1) to 3(4).

(IX) A Pradhan has no right to object that a complaint is not in accordance with Rules 3(1) to 3(4) of Rules, 1997 and hence no inquiry can be ordered.

(X) A Pradhan is neither entitled to be associated in preliminary enquiry nor entitled to get copy of preliminary enquiry report. His only right is to have his explanation or point of view or version to the charges considered before the order for ceasing his financial and administrative power is passed.

(XI) It is not only necessary that explanation or point of view or version of affected pradhan should be obtained but should also be considered before being prima facie satisfied of his being guilty of financial and other irregularities and ceasing his powers. The consideration of explanation does not have to be a detailed one but there should be indication that mind has been applied.

(XII) The proceeding for removal has to be conducted in accordance with Rules 6 onwards of Rules, 1997, irrespective of the fact whether right to exercise financial and administrative power was ceased or not. However, where right to exercise financial and administrative power is also to be ceased then procedure in Rules 3 to 5 has to be followed, otherwise there is no necessity to follow them.

(XIII) In other words, preliminary enquiry may not be necessary if the proceeding for removal is to be undertaken without ceasing power of pradhan in respect to administrative and financial matters.

(XIV) In order to exercise power under Rule 5, to cease administrative and financial powers of Pradhan under Proviso to Section 95(1)(g) of Act, 1947, District Magistrate can pass order in the following contingencies:

(i) A complaint can be made directly to the District Magistrate who may ask the enquiry officer as defined under Rule 2 (c) to conduct a preliminary inquiry under Rule 4 ; or

(ii) A complaint can be made directly to the enquiry officer defined under Section 2 (c), who may submit a report without the District Magistrate asking for it ; or

(iii) A complaint can be made to the District Magistrate with a copy to enquiry officer, who may submit a report, without the District Magistrate asking for it ; or

(iv) A District Magistrate can himself conduct a preliminary enquiry.

(XV) Any other report can be considered by District Magistrate under Rule 3(6) of Rules, 1997 for ordering preliminary enquiry but final enquiry with cessation of power cannot be ordered on its basis. In other words, action under Proviso to Section 95(1) (g) can also be taken on the preliminary report of District Magistrate as well as on a report of a person defined as enquiry officer under Rule 2(c) of Rules, 1997. Only these reports would be covered in the word 'otherwise' of Rule 5.

11. Though, in Rais Ahmad (supra) also, the order under Proviso to Section 95(1)(g) was passed on 30.6.2008 i.e. after the said amendment but it appears that Hon'ble Court was not apprised of the fact that Rule 2(c), as was initially framed, has already undergone an amendment in 2001 and this amended rule was not considered by this Court. Apparently judgment in Rais Ahmad (supra) is per incurium. The amended definition has been considered in Full Bench judgment in Vivekanand Yadav (supra) and exposition of law laid down therein has already been noted above. Therefore, even if District Magistrate has not appointed Enquiry Officer, report submitted by District Basic Education Officer and District Panchayat Raj Officer can be acted upon by treating it to be a preliminary enquiry report since they were all "district level officer" and do satisfy definition of "Enquiry Officer" under the Rules.

12. This Court has also said that even if enquiry has not been ordered by District Magistrate but if such a preliminary report is available, it can be acted upon for the purpose of passing an order under Proviso to Section 95(1)(g) of Act, 1947. Moreover, powers exercisable by State Government under Section 95(1)(g) have been delegated upon District Magistrate vide notification No.1684/XXXIII-1-1997-123-97, dated 30.4.1997 issued under Section 96-A of Act, 1947, which reads as under:

"96-A. Delegation of powers by State Government.- The State Government may delegate all or any of its powers under this Act to any officer or authority subordinate to it subject to such conditions and restrictions as it may deem fit to impose." (emphasis supplied)

14. In such view of the matter, I do not find any substance in the argument of learned counsel for the petitioner insofar as it relates to the formation of the enquiry committee being without authority is concerned.

15. Coming to the merits of the order, suffice it to note that in her reply the petitioner has clearly admitted that she has taken away the old bricks to his residence, although, it has been explained that the old bricks were removed and were kept in her residence from security point of view only and she has not misused the same. However, it is further reflected from the reply that there is no averment that such bricks are still lying in her residence and the same can be recovered. On the contrary, she has offered to refund the amount of the old bricks. This clearly indicates the admission on the part of the petitioner that the bricks were removed and kept by her in her residence.

16. It is not in dispute that final inquiry is still pending, therefore, additionally for this reason also I am not inclined to interfere in the matter.

17. Petition is devoid of merits and is accordingly, dismissed.

18. In view of the discussion made hereinabove the judgments on which the reliance has been placed by the learned counsel for the petitioner are of no help to him.

19. In the facts and circumstances of the case, it is provided that in fact the final inquiry has not been concluded till date, the same shall be concluded as per the Rule 6 of the Rules, 1997 within time bound period and, if possible, within a period of three months.

A. Payment of Wages Act, 1936 - Section 15 (2) - Claims arising out of deductions from wages or delay in payment of wages - the authority under Section 15 of the Act, 1936 is a tribunal of limited jurisdiction - mere denial of existence of relationship of employer and employee may not be sufficient to oust the jurisdiction of the authority under the Act, 1936 – it would only be in a case where a serious dispute is raised with regard to the existence of the contract of employment that the authority would cease to have jurisdiction to entertain the claim as the same may involve adjudication upon complicated questions of law and fact – orders passed by the Prescribed Authority set aside. (Para 4, 12, 30, 33 & 38)

The Industrial Tribunals while deciding matters relating to labour disputes in proceedings which are summary in nature are to dispose of the issues, whether preliminary or otherwise, at the same - where the claim had been made under Section 15 of the Act, 1936 raising a grievance with regard to delay in payment of wages and as per terms of the first proviso to sub-section (3) of Section 15 the authority under the Act, 1936 is enjoined to dispose of the claim as far as applicable within a period of three months from the date of registration of the claim by authority - The second proviso to sub-section (3) mandates that the period of three months may be extended if both parties to the dispute agree for any bonafide reason to be recorded by the authority that the said period of three month may be extended to such period as may be necessary to dispose of the application in a just manner. (Para 36)

Held: - In a claim filed under Section 15 of the Act, 1936 arising out of deductions from wages or delay in payment of wages time is of essence and the matter cannot be lingered on the pretext of deciding preliminary issues. (Para 37)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri S.K.Chaturvedi, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri K.C.Tripathi, learned counsel appearing for the first respondent and Sri Shreeprakash Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the second respondent in the present petition along with connected matters.

2. Challenge in Writ-C No. 21892 of 2016 is to an order dated 07.04.2016 passed by the Prescribed Authority under the Payment of Wages Act, 1936/Deputy Labour Commissioner, U.P., Jhansi Region, Jhansi in Case No. P.W. 35 of 2009 (Dinesh Chandra Tripathi Vs. Director Alchemist and others) whereby certain issues were framed and the matter was posted for hearing the parties on merits. The other three writ petitions (Writ-C Nos. 21801/2016, 21847/2016 and 21891/2016) seek to challenge similar orders of the same date i.e. 07.04.2016 which had been passed by the Prescribed Authority in Case Nos. P.W. 42/2010, P.W. 16/2012 and P.W. 18/2011.

3. All the four writ petitions are based on a similar set of facts and as such with the consent of the counsel for the parties the matters are being taken up for disposal together.

4. The records of the case reflect that an application under Section 15 (2) of the Payment of the Wages Act, 19361 was filed by the first respondent claiming wages for the period 16.01.2009 to 30.11.2009. The first respondent also filed similar applications under Section 15 (2) of the Act, 1936 claiming wages for the period 1.12.2009 to 30.10.2010, 1.11.2010 to 3.9.2011 and 1.10.2011 to 30.9.2012, registered as Case Nos. 42/2010, 16/2012 and 18/2011 respectively.

5. The aforementioned cases were contested by the petitioner by filing detailed written reply/objections dated 20.3.2010 stating that the applicant (first respondent herein) had abandoned his services and as such he was discontinued from the rolls of the petitioner-company with effect from 13.2.2008. It was accordingly submitted that the applications filed under Section 15 of the Act, 1936 were not maintainable and as such the question of jurisdiction and maintainability be decided as a preliminary issue.

6. Taking into consideration the application filed by the first respondent and also the reply/preliminary objections submitted by the petitioner as also its rejoinder the Prescribed Authority passed the order dated 07.04.2016 wherein it was stated that in the light of the facts which had been presented before it, it was necessary to decide the issues with regard to the jurisdiction of the Prescribed Authority under the Act, 1936, the question with regard to existence of employer-employee relationship during the period in question, and as to whether the applicant was entitled to the reliefs prayed for. The matter was fixed for 25.04.2016 for hearing the parties on merits.

7. Identical orders were passed on the same date i.e. 07.04.2016 in all the four cases which had been filed by the first respondent before the Prescribed Authority, and the said orders have been challenged by filing these writ petitions which are being decided together.

8. The grounds of challenge in these writ petitions are that the services of the first respondent having stood terminated on 13.02.2008, unless the order of termination was not declared illegal the applications filed under the Act, 1936 were not maintainable and that the Prescribed Authority ought to have decided the question of maintainability of the claim petitions before proceeding further with the matter.

9. The counsel for the petitioner has contended that the question of employer-employee relationship which would involve adjudicating upon complicated questions of fact and law was beyond the scope and jurisdiction of the Prescribed Authority under the Act, 1936 and accordingly the Prescribed Authority was proceeding beyond its jurisdiction.

10. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for the first respondent has submitted that the issue of employer-employee relationship was incidental to the main question involved in the claims petitions and therefore there was no error in the order passed by the Prescribed Authority and proceeding further with the matters.

11. On the basis of the rival contentions raised by the parties the question which falls for consideration is regarding the scope and jurisdiction of the Prescribed Authority under the Act, 1936 and to what extent the issue of employer-employee relationship can be considered in such proceedings.

12. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the present writ petitions the relevant provisions under the Act, 1936 may be adverted to. The provisions contained under Section 15 of the Act, 1936 which relate to claims arising out of deductions from wages or delay in payment of wages, are being extracted below :-

"15. Claims arising out of deductions from wages or delay in payment of wages and penalty for malicious or vexatious claims- (1) The appropriate Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint -

(a) any Commissioner for workmen's Compensation; or

(b) any officer of the Central Government exercising functions as,--

(i) Regional Labour Commissioner; or

(ii) Assistant Labour Commissioner with at least two years' experience; or

(c) any officer of the State Government not below the rank of Assistant Labour Commissioner with at least two year's experience; or

(d) a presiding officer of any Labour Court or Industrial Tribunal, constituted under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (14 of 1947) or under any corresponding law relating to the investigation and settlement of industrial disputes in force in the State; or

(e) any other officer with experience as a Judge of a Civil Court or a Judicial Magistrate, as the authority to hear and decide for any specified area all claims arising out of deductions from the wages, or delay in payment of the wages, of persons employed or paid in that area, including all matters incidental to such claims:"

Provided that where the appropriate Government considers it necessary so to do, it may appoint more than one authority for any specified area and may, by general or special order, provide for the distribution or allocation of work to be performed by them under this Act.

(2) Where contrary to the provisions of this Act any deduction has been made from the wages of an employed person, or any payment of wages has been delayed, such person himself, or any legal practitioner or any official of a registered trade union authorized in writing to act on his behalf, or any Inspector under this Act, or any other person acting with the permission of the authority appointed under sub-section (1), may apply to such authority for a direction under sub-section (3):

Provided that every such application shall be presented within twelve months from the date on which the deduction from the wages was made or from the date on which the payment of the wages was due to be made, as the case may be :

Provided further that any application may be admitted after the said period of twelve months when the applicant satisfies the authority that he had sufficient cause for not making the application within such period.

(3) When any application under sub-section (2) is entertained, the authority shall hear the applicant and the employer or other person responsible for the payment of wages under Section 3, or give them an opportunity of being heard, and, after such further enquiry, if any, as may be necessary, may, without prejudice to any other penalty to which such employer or other person is liable under this Act, direct the refund to the employed person of the amount deducted, or the payment of the delayed wages, together with the payment of such compensation as the authority may think fit, not exceeding ten times the amount deducted in the former case and not exceeding three thousand rupees but not less than one thousand five hundred rupees in the latter, and even if the amount deducted or delayed wages are paid before the disposal of the application, direct the payment of such compensation, as the authority may think fit,not exceeding two thousand rupees :

Provided that a claim under this Act shall be disposed of as far as practicable within a period of three months from the date of registration of the claim by the authority :

Provided further that the period of three months may be extended if both parties to the dispute agree for any bona fide reason to be recorded by the authority that the said period of three months may be extended to such period as may be necessary to dispose of the application in a just manner:

Provided also that no direction for the payment of compensation shall be made in the case of delayed wages if the authority is satisfied that the delay was due to -

(a) a bona fide error or bona fide dispute as to the amount payable to the employed person; or

(b) the occurrence of an emergency, or the existence of exceptional circumstances, the person responsible for the payment of the wages was unable, in spite of exercising reasonable diligence; or

(c) the failure of the employed person to apply for or accept payment.

(4) If the authority hearing an application under this section is satisfied-

(a) that the application was either malicious, or vexatious, the authority may direct that a penalty not exceeding three hundred seventy-five rupees be paid to the employer or other responsible for the payment of wages by the person presenting the application; or

(b) that in any case in which compensation is directed to be paid under sub-section (3), the applicant ought not to have been compelled to seek redress under this section, the authority may direct that a penalty not exceeding three hundred seventy five rupees be paid to Appropriate Government by the employer or other person responsible for the payment of wages.

(4-A) Where there is any dispute as to the person or persons being the legal representative or representatives of the employer or of the employed person, the decision of the authority on such dispute shall be final.

(4-B) Any inquiry under this section shall be deemed to be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of Sections 193, 219 and 228 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860).

(5) Any amount directed to be paid under this section may be recovered-

(a) if the authority is a Magistrate, by the authority as if it were a fine imposed by him as Magistrate, and

(b) if the authority is not a Magistrate, by any Magistrate to whom the authority makes application in this behalf, as if it were a fine imposed by such Magistrate."

13. This Court may take note of the fact that the Payment of Wages Act, 1936 was enacted to ensure that the wages payable to employees covered by the Act are disbursed by the employers within the prescribed time limit and that no deductions other than those authorised by law are made by the employers.

14. The term wages has been defined under Section 2 (vi). Under Section 3 a general responsibility is cast upon every employer for payment to persons employed by him of all wages required to be paid under the Act. The time schedule for payment of wages is prescribed under Section 5. Section 7 enumerates the deductions which may be made from the wages. The fines which can be imposed on any employed persons are specified under Section 8. Deductions for reason of absence from duty, for damage or loss, for services rendered, for recovery of advances and for recovery of loans are provided for under Sections 9, 10, 11, 12, 12-A respectively.

15. Section 15 of the Act, 1936 provides for filing of claims arising out of deductions from wages or delay in payment of wages. This section not only provides the forum but also provides the remedy for non-payment of wages, whether by way of deductions or delay. The authority under the Act for the purposes of hearing and deciding the claims under Section 15 is appointed by the appropriate Government by notification in the Official Gazette. The authority so appointed is empowered to hear all claims arising out of deductions from wages or delay in payment of wages and all incidental matters.

16. Upon an application being filed under Section 15 (2), the authority appointed for the purpose is required to hear the applicant and the employer or other person responsible for the payment of wages under section 3, or give them an opportunity of being heard, and, after such further inquiry, if any, as may be necessary, may, without prejudice to any other penalty to which such employer or other persons are liable under the Act, direct the refund to the employed persons of the amount deducted, or the payment of the delayed wages, together with the payment of such compensation as it may think fit, not exceeding ten times the amount deducted in the former case and not exceeding three thousand rupees but not less than one thousand five hundred rupees in the latter, and even if the amount deducted or delayed wages are paid before the disposal of the application, it may direct the payment of such compensation, as it may think fit, not exceeding two thousand rupees.

17. The proviso to sub-section (3) lays down that a claim under the Act shall be disposed of as far as practicable within a period of three months from the date of registration of the claim by the authority. It has also been provided that no direction for payment of compensation shall be made in the case of delayed wages if the authority is satisfied that the delay was due to - (a) a bona fide error or bona fide dispute as to the amount payable to the employed person, or (b) the occurrence of an emergency, or the existence of exceptional circumstances, the person responsible for the payment of the wages was unable, in spite of exercising reasonable diligence, or (c) the failure of the employed person to apply for or accept payment.

18. The scope of jurisdiction of the authority under Section 15 of the Act, 1936 fell for consideration in the case of A.V.D'costa Vs. B.C. Patel and Ors.,2 and it was held that the authority set up under Section 15 is a tribunal of limited jurisdiction which could decide only what actual terms of the contract between the parties were in order to determine the actual wages. The observations made in the judgment are being extracted below :-

"7. The Authority set up under section 15 of the statute in question is undisputably a tribunal of limited jurisdiction. Its power to hear and determine disputes must necessarily be found in the provisions of the Act. Such a tribunal, it is undoubted, cannot determine any controversy which is not within the ambit of those provisions. On examining the relevant provisions of the Act it will be noticed that it aims at regulating the payment of wages to certain classes of persons employed in industry. It applies in the first instance to the payment of wages to persons employed in any factory or employed by a railway administration; but the State Government has the power after giving three months' notice to extend the provisions of the Act or any of them to the payment of wages to any class of persons employed in any class or group of industrial establishments. "Wages means -

"all remuneration, capable of being expressed in terms of money, which would, if the terms of the contract of employment, express or implied, were fulfilled, be payable..... to a person employed in respect of his employment or of work done in such employment....." (omitting words not necessary for our present purpose).

Section 3 lays down that every employer or his representative or nominee shall be responsible for the payment to persons employed by him of all wages. Section 3 provides for fixation of "wage-periods" which shall not exceed one month in any case. Section 5 indicates the last date within which, with reference to the particular wage-period, wages shall be paid.

Section 7 lays down that the wages of an employed person shall be paid to him without deductions of any kind except those authorized by or under the Act. Section 7(2) in cls. (a) to (k) specifies the heads under which deductions from wages may be made, namely, fines; deductions for absence from duty; deductions for damage to or loss of goods of the employer; deductions for house accommodation supplied by the employer; deductions for amenities and services supplied by the employer; deductions for recovery of advances or for adjustment of over payments of wages; deductions of income-tax payable by the employee; deductions to be made under orders of a Court or other competent authority; deductions for subscriptions to, and for repayment of advances from any provident fund; deductions for payments to co-operative societies, etc.; and finally, deductions made with the concurrence of the employed person in furtherance of certain schemes approved by Government. No other deductions are permissible. It is also laid down that every payment made by the employed person to the employer or his agent shall be deemed to be deduction from wages. Each of the several heads of deductions aforesaid is dealt with in detail in sections 8 to 13.

Section 8 lays down the conditions and limits subject to which fines may be imposed and the procedure for imposing such fines. It also requires a register of such fines to be maintained by the person responsible for the payment of wages. Section 9 deals with deductions on account of absence from duty and prescribes the limits and the proportion thereof to wages. Section 10 similarly deals with deductions for damage or loss to the employer and the procedure for determining the same. Like S. 8, this section also requires a register of such deductions and realizations to be maintained by the person responsible for the payment of wages.

Section 11 lays down the limits of deductions for house accommodation and other amenities or services which may have been accepted by the employee, subject to such conditions as the State Government may impose. Section 12 lays down the conditions subject to which deductions for recovery of advances may be made from wages. Finally S.13 provides that the deductions for payment to co-operative societies and insurance schemes shall be subject to such conditions as the State Government may prescribe.

We then come to S.15 which makes provision for the appointment of the Authority "to hear and decide for any specified area all claims arising out of deductions from the wages, or delay in payment of the wages of persons employed or paid in that area". Where the Authority finds that any deduction has been made from the wages of an employed person or the payment of any wages had been delayed, he may at the instance of the wage-earner himself or any legal practitioner or any official of a registered trade union authorized in writing to act on his behalf, or any Inspector under the Act or any other person acting with the permission of the Authority, after making such enquiry as he thinks fit and after giving an opportunity to the person responsible for the payment of wages under S.3 to show cause, direct the refund to the employed person of the amount deducted or the payment of delayed wages together with such compensation as he may determine.

The section also lays down the limits and conditions of his power to direct payment of compensation to the employed person or of penalty to the employer, if he is satisfied that the application made on behalf of an employee was either malicious or vexatious. His determination is final subject to a very limited right of appeal under S.17. Section 18 vests the Authority with all the powers of a civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, for the purpose of taking evidence, of enforcing the attendance of witnesses and of compelling the production of documents. Section 22 lays down that no Court shall entertain any suit in respect of wages or of deduction from wages in so far as the claim forms the subject matter of a pending proceeding under the Act or has formed the subject of a direction in favour of or against the plaintiff under Section 15, or which could have been recovered by the application under that section.

10. In our opinion, the scheme of the Act as set forth above shows that if an employee were to state that his wages were, say Rs. 100 per month, and that Rs. 10 had been wrongly deducted by the authority responsible for the payment of wages, that is to say, that the deductions could not come under any one of the categories laid down in S.7(2), that would be a straight case within the purview of the Act and the authority appointed under S.15 could entertain the dispute. But it is said on behalf of the respondent that the authority has the jurisdiction not only to make directions contemplated by sub-s.(3) of S.15 to refund to the employed person any amount unlawfully deducted but also to find out what the terms of the contract were so as to determine what the wages of the employed person were.

There is no difficulty in accepting that proposition. If the parties entered into the contract of service, say by correspondence and the contract is to be determined with reference to the letters that passed between them, it may be open to the authority to decide the controversy and find out what the terms of the contract with reference to those letters were. But if an employee were to say that his wages were Rs. 100 per month which he actually received as and when they fell due,but that he would be entitled to higher wages if his claims to be placed on the higher wages scheme had been recognized and given effect to, that would not, in our opinion, be a matter within the ambit of his jurisdiction.

The authority has the jurisdiction to decide what actually the terms of the contract between the parties were, that is to say, to determine the actual wages; but the authority has no jurisdiction to determine the question of potential wages. The respondent's complaint in the present case comes within the latter illustration. If the respondent's claim to be placed on the scheme of higher wages had been unduly passed over by the appellant, if indeed he had the power to do so, the obvious remedy of the respondent was to approach the higher authorities of the railway administration by way of departmental appeal or revision; but instead of doing that, he has sought his redress by making his claim before the authority under the Act.

The question is, has the authority the power to direct the appellant or his superior officers who may have been responsible for the classification, to revise the classification so as to upgrade him from the category of a daily wage-earner to that of an employee on the monthly wages scheme. If the respondent had been on the cadre of monthly wages and if the appellant had withheld his rise in wages to which he was automatically entitled, without any orders of his superior officers, he might justly have claimed the redress of his grievance from the authority under the Act, as it would have amounted to an under payment.

But in the present case, on the case as made on behalf of the respondent, orders of the superior officers were necessary to upgrade him from a daily wage-earner to a higher cadre. The authority under the Act has not been empowered under S.15 to make any such direction to those superior officers. The appellant is responsible to pay the respondent only such wages as are shown in the relevant register of wages presumably maintained by the department under the provisions of the Act, but he cannot be directed to pay the respondent higher wages on the determination by the authority that he should have been placed on the monthly wages scheme.

15. The jurisdiction of the Tribunal arises under S.15 of the Payment of Wages Act, 1936 (Act IV of 1936) (hereinafter referred to as the Act). The Tribunal is set up to decide "all claims arising out of deductions from the wages or delay in payment of wages". The relief which it is authorised to award is to direct "the refund of the amount deducted, or the payment of the wages delayed". Such a direction made by the Tribunal is final, under S.17 of the Act, subject to the right of appeal provided therein. Under S.22, no suit lies in any Court for the recovery of wages or of any deduction there from which could have been recovered by an application under S.15.

However limited this jurisdiction of the Tribunal, and however elaborate the provisions in the Act for the preparation and display by the employer of the table of wages payable to the employees, and for the inspection thereof by the Factory Inspectors, it cannot be supposed that the jurisdiction of the Tribunal is only to enforce the wages so displayed or otherwise admitted. Such a narrow construction would rob the machinery of the Act of a great deal of its utility and would confine its application to cases which are not likely to arise often, in a well-ordered administration like the Railways. Indeed, I do not gather that such a construction was pressed for, before us, in the arguments.

Even a Tribunal of limited jurisdiction, like the one under consideration, must necessarily have the jurisdiction to decide, for itself, the preliminary facts on which the claim or dispute before it depends. In the instant case, it must have jurisdiction to decide what the wages payable are and, for that purpose, what the contract of employment and the terms thereof are. The judgment of my learned brothers in this case apparently recognizes the jurisdiction of the Tribunal as above stated, when it said that the Tribunal has the power "to find out what the terms of the contract were to determine what the wages of the employed person were". Whether the Tribunal's decision in this behalf is conclusive or not is a matter that does not arise for decision in this case.

16. But, it is said that the Tribunal has no authority to determine the question of "potential wages". Undoubtedly a claim to a higher potential wage cannot be brought in under the category of "claims arising out of deduction from the wages or delay in payment of the wages" if that wage depended on the determination by a superior departmental or other authority as to whether or not a particular employee is entitled to the higher wage-a determination which involves the exercise of administrative judgment or discretion or certification, and which would, in such a situation, be a condition of the payability of the wage.

But where the higher wage does not depend upon such determination but depends on the application of, and giving effect to, certain rules and orders which, for this purpose, must be deemed to be incorporated in the contract of employment, such a wage is, in my view, not a prospective wage, merely because the paying authority concerned makes default or commits error in working out the application of the rules. In this context it is relevant to notice that the definition of "wages" in the Act is "all remuneration which would if the terms of the contract, express or implied, 'were' fulfilled, be payable". The word "were" in this definition which I have underlined, seems to indicate that even a "prospective wage" which would be payable on the proper 'application' of the rules in the sense which I have explained above may well fall within its scope. The wage under the Act is not, necessarily, the immediately pre-existing wage but the presently-payable wage."

19. The scope of jurisdiction of the authority under Section 15 again came to be considered in the case of Shri Ambica Mills Co. Ltd. Vs. Shri S.B.Bhatt and another3, and it was held that the only claims which can be entertained by the authority are claims arising out of deductions made in payment of wages. It was stated in the judgment as follows :-

"11. The scheme of the Act is clear. The Act was intended to regulate the payment of wages to certain classes of persons employed in industry, and its object is to provide for a speedy and effective remedy to the employees in respect of their claims arising out of illegal deductions or unjustified delay made in paying wages to them. With that object S. 2(vi) of the Act has defined wages. Section 4 fixes the wage period. Section 5 prescribes the time of payment of wages; and S. 7 allows certain specified deductions to be made. Section 15 confers jurisdiction on the authority appointed under the said section to hear and decide for any specified area claims arising out of deductions from wages, or delay in payment of wages, of persons employed or paid in that area. It is thus clear that the only claims which can be entertained by the authority are claims arising out of deductions or delay made in payment of wages. The jurisdiction thus conferred on the authority to deal with these two categories of claims is exclusive; for S. 22 of the Act provides that matters which lie within the jurisdiction of the authority are excluded from the jurisdiction of ordinary civil courts. Thus in one sense the jurisdiction conferred on the authority is limited by S. 15, and in another sense it is exclusive as prescribed by S. 22."

20. While considering the ambit and scope of the expression "claims arising out of deductions or delay made in payment of wages" it was held that in dealing with claims arising out of deductions or delay made in payment of wages the authority inevitably would have to consider questions incidental to the said matters. In determining the scope of these incidental questions care must be taken to see that under the guise of deciding incidental matters the limited jurisdiction is not unreasonably or unduly extended. Care must also be taken to see that the scope of these incidental questions is not unduly limited so as to affect or impair the limited jurisdiction conferred on the authority. The observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"12. In dealing with claims arising out of deductions or delay made in payment of wages the authority inevitably would have to consider questions incidental to the said matters. In determining the scope of these incidental questions care must be taken to see that under the guise of deciding incidental matters the limited jurisdiction is not unreasonably or unduly extended. Care must also be taken to see that the scope of these incidental questions is not unduly limited so as to affect or impair the limited jurisdiction conferred on the authority. While considering the question as to what could be reasonably regarded as incidental questions let us revert to the definition of wages prescribed by S. 2(vi). Section 2(vi) as it then stood provided, inter alia, that 'wages' means all remuneration capable of being expressed in terms of money which would, if the terms of the contract of employment, express or implied, were fulfilled, be payable to a person employed in respect of his employment or of work done in such employment, and it includes any bonus or other additional remuneration of the nature aforesaid which would be so payable and any sum payable to such person by reason of the termination of his employment. It also provided that the word "wages" did not include five kinds of payments specified in clauses (a) to (e). Now, if a claim is made by an employee on the ground of alleged illegal deduction or alleged delay in payment of wages several relevant facts would fall to be considered. Is the applicant an employee of the opponent?; and that refers to the subsistence of the relation between the employer and the employee. If the said fact is admitted, then the next question would be: what are the terms of employment? Is there any contract of employment in writing or is the contract oral? If that is not a point of dispute between the parties then it would be necessary to enquire what are the terms of the admitted contract. In some cases a question may arise whether the contract which was subsisting at one time had ceased to subsist and the relationship of employer and employee had come to an end at the relevant period. In regard to an illegal deduction a question may arise whether the lock-out declared by the employer is legal or illegal. In regard to contracts of service some times parties may be at variance and may set up rival contracts, and in such a case it may be necessary to enquire which contract was in existence at the relevant time.…"

21. While considering the question as to what could be reasonably regarded as incidental questions, it was stated in the aforementioned case of Shri Ambica Mills that it would be inexpedient to lay down any hard and fast or general rule which would afford a determining test to demarcate the field of incidental facts which can be legitimately considered by the authority and those which cannot be so considered. The observations made in this regard in the judgment are as follows :-

"....we do not propose to consider these possible questions in the present appeal, because, in our opinion, it would be inexpedient to lay down any hard and fast or general rule which would afford a determining test to demarcate the field of incidental facts which can be legitimately considered by the authority and those which cannot be so considered…"

22. The provisions under sub-section (1) of Section 15 may again be referred to at this stage and the same are being extracted below :-

"15. Claims arising out of deductions from wages or delay in payment of wages and penalty for malicious or vexatious claims- (1) The appropriate Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint -

(a) any Commissioner for workmen's Compensation; or

(b) any officer of the Central Government exercising functions as,--

(i) Regional Labour Commissioner; or

(ii) Assistant Labour Commissioner with at least two years' experience; or

(c) any officer of the State Government not below the rank of Assistant Labour Commissioner with at least two year's experience; or

(d) a presiding officer of any Labour Court or Industrial Tribunal, constituted under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (14 of 1947) or under any corresponding law relating to the investigation and settlement of industrial disputes in force in the State; or

(e) any other officer with experience as a Judge of a Civil Court or a Judicial Magistrate, as the authority to hear and decide for any specified area all claims arising out of deductions from the wages, or delay in payment of the wages, of persons employed or paid in that area, including all matters incidental to such claims:"

(emphasis supplied)

23. The expression "including all matters incidental to such claims" was introduced by the Payment of Wages (Amendment) Act, 1964 [Act No. 53 of 1964], and it appears to have been introduced for the purposes of clarifying the position of law which had already been laid down in terms of the judgment in the case of Shri Ambica Mills.

24. In the case at hand the petitioner while filing his written reply/objections had contended that the applications filed under Section 15 of the Act, 1936 were not maintainable and as such the question of jurisdiction and maintainability be decided as a preliminary issue and the Prescribed Authority passed an order dated 07.04.2016 wherein it was stated that it was necessary to decide the issues with regard to the jurisdiction of the authority under the Act, 1936, and the question with regard to existence of employer-employee relationship during the period in question and the matter was fixed for 25.04.2016 for hearing the parties on merits. It is against the aforesaid order that the present writ petition has been filed.

25. The scope of Section 15 again came up for consideration in the case of Payment of Wages Inspector Vs. Surajmal Mehta and Ors.,4 and it was held that as per the terms of sub-section (2) the authority appointed under sub-section (1) has jurisdiction to entertain applications only in two classes of cases, namely, of deductions and fines not authorised under Sections 7 to 13 and of delay in payment of wages beyond the wage periods fixed under Section 4 and the time of payment laid down in Section 5 and further that incidental questions could be considered without unduly expanding or curtailing the jurisdiction of the authority. The relevant observations made in the judgment are as follows :-

"8. It is explicit from the terms of Section 15(2) that the Authority appointed under sub-section (1) has jurisdiction to entertain applications only in two classes of cases, namely, of deductions and fines not authorised under Sections 7 to 13 and of delay in payment of wages beyond the wage periods fixed under Section 4 and the time of payment laid down in Section 5. This is clear from the opening words of sub-section (2) of Section 15, namely, "where contrary to the provisions of this Act" any deduction has been made or any payment of wages has been delayed. These being the governing words in the sub-Section the only applications which the Authority can entertain are those where deductions unauthorised under the Act are made from wages or there has been delay in payment beyond the wage period and the time of payment of wages fixed or prescribed under Sections 4 and 5 of the Act. Section 15(2) postulates that the wages payable by the person responsible for payment under Section 3 are certain and such that they cannot be disputed.

9. In D'Costa v. B.C. Patel, AIR 1955 SC 412 this Court held after considering the scheme of the Act that the jurisdiction of the Authority under Section 15 was confined to deductions and delay in payment of the actual wages to which the workman was entitled and that the Authority under the Act had no jurisdiction to enter into a question of potential wages, i.e., where the workman pleads that he ought to have been up-graded as persons junior to him were up-graded and that he ought to have been paid wages on a scale paid to those so up-graded. This Court held that the Authority had jurisdiction to interpret the terms of a contract of employment to find out the actual wages payable to the workmen where deduction from or delay in payment of such wages is alleged, but not to enter into the question whether the workman should have been up-graded from being a daily rated worker to a monthly rated workman. In Shri Ambica Mills Co. Ltd. v. S.B. Bhatt, AIR 1961 970 this Court again examined the scheme of the Act and held that the only claims which could be entertained by the Authority were claims arising out of deductions or delay made in the payment of wages. The Court, however, observed that in dealing with claims arising out of deductions or delay made in payment of wages the Authority inevitably would have to consider questions incidental to these matters, but in determining the scope of these incidental matters care must be taken to see that under the guise of deciding incidental matters the limited jurisdiction was not unreasonably or unduly expanded. Equally, care must also be taken to see that the scope of these incidental matters was not unduly curtailed so as to affect or impair the limited jurisdiction conferred on the Authority. The Court declined to lay down any hard and fast rule which would afford a determining test to demarcate the field of incidental facts which could be legitimately considered by the Authority and those which could not be so considered.

10. It is true, as stated above, that the Authority has the jurisdiction to try matters which are incidental to the claim in question. Indeed Section 15(1) itself provides that the Authority has the power to determine all matters incidental to the claim arising from deductions from or delay in payment of wages. It is also true that while deciding whether a particular matter is incidental to claim or not care should be taken neither to unduly expand nor curtail the jurisdiction of the Authority. But it has at the same time to be kept in mind that the jurisdiction under Section 15 is a special jurisdiction. The Authority is conferred with the power to award compensation over and above the liability for penalty of fine which an employer is liable to incur under Section 20."

26. The question as to whether a dispute regarding existence of relationship of employer and employee between the contending parties is a matter incidental to the claim arising out of deductions from the wages or delay in payment of the wages in a proceeding under Section 15 of the Act, 1936 was taken up for consideration before a Division Bench of this Court in the case of M/s E.Hill & Company (P) Ltd., Mirzapur Vs. City Magistrate Mirzapur & Anr5, and it was held that the matters incidental to claims arising out of deductions from the wages or delay in payment of the wages must be matters which follow these claims or are subordinate or attendant in position or significance to such claims and only such matters can be gone into by the authority while trying the claim made by the employee relating to deductions from his wages or delay in payment of his wages.

27. It was also stated that a mere denial of existence of the relationship of employer and employee may not oust the jurisdiction of the authority but where a serious controversy is raised about the existence, continuance or emergence of a fresh contract of employment the authority would have no jurisdiction to entertain and try the claim as the dispute may involve decisions on complicated questions of law and fact. The relevant observations made in the judgment are as follows.

"It is thus obvious that matters incidental to claims arising out of deductions from the wages or delay in payment of the wages must be matters which follow these claims or are subordinate or attendant in position or significance to such claims. It is only such matters that can be gone into by the Authority while trying the claim made by the employee relating to deductions from his wages or delay in payment of his wages.

A mere denial of existence of the relationship of employer and employee may not oust the jurisdiction of the Authority under the Payment of Wages Act but where a serious controversy is raised about the existence, continuance or emergence of a fresh contract of employment, the Authority would have no jurisdiction to entertain and try the claim as the dispute may involve decisions of complicated questions of law and fact…"

28. The issue as to whether Section 15 of the Act, 1936 would cover the question of relationship of employer-employee between the claimant and the opposite party to the claim was taken up before this Court in the case of D.C.M. Limited, New Delhi Vs. Prescribed Authority, Meerut and others6, and following the judgments in the case of Suraj Mal Mehta and Ambica Mill Company Ltd. (supra), it was held that the said question cannot be decided in summary proceedings under Section 15. The observations made in the judgment are as follows :-

"7. A perusal of the provisions of Section 15 of the Payment of Wages Act would go to show that it confers jurisdiction on the prescribed authority to hear and decide the claims arising out of deduction from wages or delay in payment of wages, including all matters incidental to such claims. In its very nature exercise of jurisdiction under Section 15 envisages the existence of relationship of employer and employees between the parties and consequent entitlement to the wages claimed having been deducted from the same, or delayed payment thereof by the employer.

11. In the instant case as already settled above there is a serious dispute between the parties as to whether the respondents are employees of the petitioner of the contractor. The prescribed authority, the respondent No. 1 has decided the question of existence of relationship of employer and employee in the affirmative in favour of respondents by referring to the evidence led before him, but since it was not merely an incidental question rather went to the very root of the matter, and required in depth enquiry and consideration of questions of law and facts, the same could not be decided in summary proceedings under Section 15 of the Payment of Wages Act, rather could validly be a subject of reference to a Labour Court under the provisions of the Industrial Dispute Act, such Court possessing wider powers for deciding the contentious question of the nature raised in this case."

29. The limited scope of adjudication under Section 15 was reiterated in M/s. Upper Doab Sugar Mills Muzaffarnagar Vs. Prescribed Authority and others7, wherein it was held that in order to attract the provisions under Section 15 (2) two things must exist namely a person 'employee' and another person who had employed such person namely 'employer' and that in a case where the issue of relationship of employer-employee is under a serious cloud the matter would be beyond the jurisdiction of the authority under Section 15. The observations made in the judgment in this regard are as follows:-

"9. This definition of 'wages' is pari materia with the similar definition of "wages" in Section 2(h) of the Contract Labour (Regulation and Abolition) Act, 1970. Section 3 of Act 1936 provides that, every employer is under an obligation for payment of all wages to persons employed by him. Section 15(2) of Act 1936 entitles a person employed but not paid his wages or when there is any unauthorized deduction or delay in payment, to make an application before the Prescribed Authority i.e. authority notified under sub section (1) of Section 15 for claiming such wages. A reading of sub-sections (2) and (3) of Section 15 makes it clear that the application can be moved not only against the employer but if there is any other person responsible for payment of wages of such employed person, application can be filed under Section 15(2) against such person also. To attract Section 15(2) of Act 1936, two things therefore must exist namely a person 'employee' and another person who had employed such person, namely the "employer" or other person responsible for payment of wages under Section 3 i.e. to whom the employer has authorized.

10. The limited scope of adjudication under Section 15 is regarding the claim arising out of deduction or delayed payment and not any other issue namely, the very existence of relationship of employer and employee or the question whether the claimant was a person employed or not or that the person against whom such a claim is raised whether he is an employer or the person authorized for payment or not. If in a given case an issue other than that of alleged deduction or delay in payment arises and the competent authority finds that such an issue has been raised only to defeat an otherwise bona fide claim and in its view the incidental issue raised is bogus, fictitious, superfluous or fanciful, it can continue to proceed to decide the matter but where a serious, bona fide, genuine dispute of relationship arises, this Court is also of the view that such an issue cannot be adjudicated by the authorities under Sections 15(1) and (2) of the Act, 1936, lacking inherent jurisdiction to entertain such a dispute.

16. To my mind, this issue is not incidental to the question of deduction or delayed payment but a condition precedent to attract the very provisions of Act 1936. Therefore, in a case where the very relationship is under a serious cloud, and needs a detailed but exclusive discussion, it is beyond the jurisdiction of Prescribed Authority under Section 15(1) and (2) of the Act 1936 and has to be adjudicated in appropriate regular proceedings by raising an industrial dispute. It could not have been decided by an authority under Sections 15(1) while entering a claim under Section 15(2) and assuming jurisdiction upon itself to decide the said issue. It is infact not an incidental but a substantial jurisdictional issue relating to very applicability of Act 1936. Hence this could not have been decided by Prescribed Authority under Section 15 of Act 1936. The impugned orders passed in both the writ petitions are thus wholly without jurisdiction."

30. From the foregoing discussions it follows that the authority under Section 15 of the Act, 1936 is a tribunal of limited jurisdiction. Its power to hear and determine the disputes must necessarily be found in terms of the provisions of the Act, and it cannot determine any controversy which is not within the ambit of those provisions.

31. The jurisdiction of the authority can be invoked in respect of claims arising out of deductions from wages or delay in payment of wages. In order to exercise the aforesaid jurisdiction dealing with claims arising out of deductions or delay in payment of wages the authority may have to consider questions incidental to such matters including the issue as to whether there existed or exists, during the relevant period, any relationship of employer or employee between the parties.

32. In determining the scope of the incidental questions which may arise out of the claims in respect of deductions or delay in payment of wages the authority would have no jurisdiction to enter into and decide complicated questions of fact and law. Due care is required to be exercised to see that while dealing with incidental matters the limited jurisdiction is not unreasonably extended so as to travel beyond the scope of its jurisdiction nor is unduly limited so as to affect or impair the powers and jurisdiction conferred upon the authority. It may not be desirable to lay down any hard and fast rule as to what questions can be decided or provide a test so as to demarcate the field of the incidental factors which can be considered while entertaining claims under Section 15 of the Act, 1936.

33. It may be however stated that a mere denial of existence of relationship of employer and employee may not be sufficient to oust the jurisdiction of the authority under the Act, 1936 and it would only be in a case where a serious dispute is raised with regard to the existence of the contract of employment that the authority would cease to have jurisdiction to entertain the claim as the same may involve adjudication upon complicated questions of law and fact.

34. As regards the orders passed by the Prescribed Authority dated 07.04.2016 whereunder the matters were directed to be posted for decision on certain preliminary issues, this Court may take notice of the fact that the practice of raising preliminary issues in labour and industrial disputes and the situation created by raising such preliminary issues which take long years to settle was viewed with concern in the case of D.P. Maheshwari Vs. Delhi Administration and others8, wherein it was observed as follows:-

"1.It was just the other day that we were bemoaning the unbecoming devices adopted by certain employers to avoid decision of industrial disputes on merits. We noticed how they would raise various preliminary objections, invite decision on those objections in the first instance, carry the matter to the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution and to this Court under Article 136 of the Constitution and delay a decision of the real dispute for years, sometimes for over a decade. Industrial peace, one presumes, hangs in the balance in the meanwhile. We have now before us a case where a dispute originating in 1969 and referred for adjudication by the Government to the Labour Court in 1970 is still at the stage of decision on a preliminary objection. There was a time when it was thought prudent and wise policy to decide preliminary issues first. But the time appears to have arrived for a reversal of that policy. We think it is better that tribunals, particularly those entrusted with the task of adjudicating labour disputes where delay may lead to misery and jeopardise industrial peace, should decide all issues in dispute at the same time without trying some of them as preliminary issues. Nor should High Courts in the exercise of their jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution stop proceedings before a tribunal so that a preliminary issue may be decided by them. Neither the jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution nor the jurisdiction of this Court under Article 136 may be allowed to be exploited by those who can well afford to wait to the detriment of those who can ill afford to wait by dragging the latter from court to court for adjudication of peripheral issues, avoiding decision on issues more vital to them. Article 226 and Article 136 are not meant to be used to break the resistance of workmen in this fashion. Tribunals and courts who are requested to decide preliminary questions must therefore ask themselves whether such threshold part-adjudication is really necessary and whether it will not lead to other woeful consequences. After all tribunals like industrial tribunals are constituted to decide expeditiously special kinds of disputes and their jurisdiction to so decide is not to be stifled by all manner of preliminary objections journeyings up and down. It is also worth while remembering that the nature of the jurisdiction under Article 226 is supervisory and not appellate while that under Article 136 is primarily supervisory but the court may exercise all necessary appellate powers to do substantial justice. In the exercise of such jurisdiction neither the High Court nor this Court is required to be too astute to interfere with the exercise of jurisdiction by special tribunals at interlocutory stages and on preliminary issues."

35. The delay in decision of industrial disputes due to raising preliminary issues was again noticed in the case of National Council for Cement & Building Materials Vs. State of Haryana and others9 and the decision of the High Court refusing to interfere with the order passed by the Industrial Tribunal to hear the preliminary issue with other issues on merits, was upheld by the Supreme Court. Referring to the earlier judgments in Cooper Engineering Ltd. Vs. P.P. Mundhe10, S.K. Verma Vs. Mahesh Chandra11 D.P. Maheshwari Vs. Delhi Administration12 (supra) and Workmen Vs. Hindustan Lever Ltd.13 the following observations were made:-

"12. We, however, cannot shut our eyes to the appalling situation created by such preliminary issues which take long years to settle as the decision of the Tribunal on the preliminary issue is immediately challenged in one or the other forum including the High Court and proceedings in the reference are stayed which continue to lie dormant till, the matter relating to the preliminary issue is finally disposed of.

13. This Court in Cooper Engineering Ltd. v. P.P.Mundhe, in order to obviate undue delay in the adjudication of the real dispute, observed that the Industrial Tribunals should decide the preliminary issues as also the main issues on merits altogether so that there may not be any further litigation at the interlocutory stage. It was further observed that there was no justification for a party to the proceedings to stall the final adjudication of the dispute referred to the Tribunal by questioning the decision of the Tribunal on the preliminary issue before the High Court.

14. Again in S.K.Verma v. Mahesh Chandra, this Court strongly disapproved the practice of raising frivolous preliminary objections at the instance of the employer to delay and defeat the purpose of adjudication on merits.

15. In D.P.Maheshwari v. Delhi Administration, this Court speaking through O,Chinnappa Reddy, J. observed that the policy to decide the preliminary issue required a reversal in view of the "unhealthy and injudicious practices resorted to for unduly delaying the adjudication of industrial disputes for the resolution of which an informal forum and simple procedure were devised with avowed object of keeping them from the dilatory practices of civil courts". The Court observed that all issues whether preliminary or otherwise, should be decided together so as to rule out the possibility of any litigation at the interlocutory stage. To the same effect is the decision in Workmen v. Hindustan Lever Ltd.

16. The facts in the instant case indicate that the appellant adopted the old tactics of raising a preliminary dispute so as to prolong the adjudication of industrial dispute on merits. It raised the question whether its activities constituted an 'Industry' within the meaning of the Industrial Disputes Act and succeeded in getting a preliminary issue framed on that question. The Tribunal was wiser. It first passed an order that it would be heard as a preliminary issue, but subsequently, by change of mind, and we think rightly, it decided to hear the issue along with other issues on merits at a later stage of the proceedings. It was at this stage that the High Court was approached by the appellant with the grievance that the Industrial Tribunal, having once decided to hear the matter as a preliminary issue, could not change its mind and decide to hear that issue along with other issues on merits. The High Court rightly refused to intervene in the proceedings pending before the Industrial Tribunal at an interlocutory stage and dismissed the petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution. The decision of the High Court is fully in consonance with the law laid down by this Court in its various decisions referred to above and we do not see any occasion to interfere with the order passed by the High Court. The appeal is dismissed, but without any order as to costs."

36. It is therefore seen that the Industrial Tribunals while deciding matters relating to labour disputes in proceedings which are summary in nature are to dispose of the issues, whether preliminary or otherwise, at the same. This would be all the more necessary in the present case where the claim had been made under Section 15 of the Act, 1936 raising a grievance with regard to delay in payment of wages and as per terms of the first proviso to sub-section (3) of Section 15 the authority under the Act, 1936 is enjoined to dispose of the claim as far as applicable within a period of three months from the date of registration of the claim by authority. The second proviso to sub-section (3) mandates that the period of three months may be extended if both parties to the dispute agree for any bonafide reason to be recorded by the authority that the said period of three month may be extended to such period as may be necessary to dispose of the application in a just manner.

37. It may therefore be inferred that in a claim filed under Section 15 of the Act, 1936 arising out of deductions from wages or delay in payment of wages time is of essence and the matter cannot be lingered on the pretext of deciding preliminary issues.

38. In view of the aforestated reasons the orders dated 07.04.2016 passed by the Prescribed Authority in Case Nos. P.W. 35/2009, 42/2010, 16/2012 and 18/2011 which are subject matter of challenge in these writ petitions, are held to be legally unsustainable and are therefore set aside.

39. Having regard to the facts of the case, and in particular, that the claims filed by the workman was registered before the authority under the Act, 1936 more than a decade ago, this Court deems it appropriate while setting aside the orders dated 07.04.2016 passed by respondent no.2/Prescribed Authority under the Act, 1936, to remit the matters to the Prescribed Authority under the Act, 1936 with a direction to endeavour to decide the claims, including all the issues raised by the parties, preliminary or otherwise, together and make an endeavour to pass final orders expeditiously, preferably within a period of three months from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order before the authority. Parties are directed to appear before the authority under the Act, 1936 and not to seek any unnecessary adjournments.

40. The writ petitions are allowed to the extent indicated above.

2. Som Dutt Builders Limited Vs. State of U.P. & Others (distinguished)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Piyush Agrawal, J.)

1. Heard Shri Rahul Sripat, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Shri Ishir Sripat, learned counsel for the petitioner and Ms. Archana Tyagi, learned standing counsel for the State – respondents.

2. The present writ petition has been filed for the following, amongst other, relief:-

"i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the order dated 28.01.2010 passed by Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, U.P., Allahabad (Circuit Court at Meerut) in Stamp Appeal No. 09 of 2007-08; M/s G.T.M. Builders & Promoters (P) Ltd. Versus State of U.P. (Annexure No. 8)."

3. It is averred in the writ petition that M/s Modipon Fibres Company (a division of Modipon Limited) claimed to have held land measuring 201 bighas, 6 biswas situated in Village - Bishokher, Aurangabad, Gadana and Begumabad Gadana in the District - Ghaziabad. The said land was alleged to have been transferred to M/s Modipon Fibres Company by the State Government vide transfer deed dated 01.08.1994. The petitioner entered into an agreement dated 19.01.2006 to purchase the land in question from M/s Modipon Fibres Company. M/s Modipon Fibres Company was permitted to sell the land vide order dated 10.08.2001 by the State Government. It is further averred that some dispute arose between the parties and the possession of the land was never delivered to the petitioner. It is further averred that a photocopy of the deed dated 19.01.2006 was submitted by the Assistant Commissioner of Stamps to the Collector, Ghaziabad on 21.04.2006 for levy of stamp duty. Consequently, the Collector registered a case under section 33 of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 (registered as Case No. 17 of 2006-07) and was transferred to the Assistant Commissioner of Stamps, Ghaziabad vide order dated 03.06.2007.

4. It is further stated that on 16.06.2006, a notice under sections 17, 27, 33, 40, 47-A & 64 of the Indian Stamp Act read with rules 7, 8, 9 & 10 of the U.P. Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997 was issued by the Assistant Commissioner of Stamps to the petitioner. Pursuant to the notice, the petitioner submitted its reply/objection.

5 The Assistant Commissioner of Stamps, vide order dated 27.09.2007, held that the petitioner is liable to pay the stamp duty in accordance with the Schedule I-B at Serial No. 5 of the Indian Stamp Act and also imposed penalty. Aggrieved by the order of the Assistant Commissioner of Stamps, the petitioner preferred Stamp Appeal No. 9 of 2007 before the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority, U.P. (CCRA) under section 56(I-A) of the Indian Stamp Act. During the pendency of the appeal, recovery citation dated 20.11.2007 was issued against the petitioner. Aggrieved petitioner, filed Writ Petition No. 483 of 2008 before this Court, which was disposed of vide order dated 05.11.2009 directing the appellate authority to decide the stamp appeal within three months.

6. Pursuant to the order of this Court, the appellate authority has passed an order dated 28.01.2010 dismissing the stamp appeal of the petitioner. Hence, this writ petition.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner entered into Memorandum of Understanding with M/s Modipon Fibres Company, which was never acted upon as M/s Modipon Fibres Company was not vested with the right to transfer the property. It is further submitted that against M/s Modipon Fibres Company, Original Suit No. 150 of 2001 was pending before the Debt Recovery Tribunal and therefore, the Company cannot sell the land without the permission of the Debt Recovery Tribunal, Delhi. It is further submitted that within 15 days from the date of Memorandum of Understanding dated 19.01.2006, the petitioner and M/s Modipon Fibres Company were to jointly measure the land and required to record the exact measurements in the Memorandum to be signed by them.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the notice, which has been issued on 17.06.2007, never called for the original deed, failing which section 33 of the Indian Stamp Act cannot be pressed into service as no original deed was with M/s Modipon Fibres Company and therefore, it cannot be said that there is any deficiency of stamp duty. It is further submitted that the authorities below have failed to consider the fact as to whether photocopy, in absence of original instrument, can be subjected to the proceedings for imposition of deficiency in stamp duty. It is further submitted that the entire proceedings are wholly illegal and in contravention with the provisions of the Indian Stamp Act as the proceedings were initiated on the basis of the photocopy of the deed dated 19.01.2006.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgement of the apex Court in the case of Hariom Agrawal Vs. Prakash Chand Malviya reported in 2007 (6) ALD 105 (SC) (paragraph nos. 5 & 13) as well as the judgement of this Court in Som Dutt Builders Limited Vs. State of U.P. & Others reported in AIR 2005 (Alld) 234 (paragraph nos. 8 & 9).

10. Per contra, learned standing counsel submits that the petitioner has never denied the execution of the Memorandum of Understanding. He further submits that the notices were issued directing the petitioner to submit the original deed, but the petitioner never submitted the original deed and therefore, the proceedings under section 33 of the Indian Stamp Act were rightly initiated against the petitioner. Learned standing counsel further submits that the instrument, as per section 17 of the Indian Stamp Act, is chargeable to stamp duty as soon as the same is executed by the person. It is immaterial as to whether the conditions of the agreement were fulfilled or not, as as soon as the agreement is executed, the liability for payment of stamp duty arises. It is further submitted that in the case in hand, part payment was made by the petitioner to M/s Modipon Fibres Company, which itself shows execution of the agreement and part performance thereof. Learned standing counsel further submits that the judgements cited by the petitioner are not applicable in the facts and circumstances of the present case. He further submits that the orders passed by the authorities below are in accordance with law and do not call for any interference by this Court.

11. The Court has perused the record.

12. On the basis of the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties, the issue, which arises for consideration by this Court, is as to whether on the basis of photocopy of the instruction, i.e., the agreement dated 19.01.2006, can the deficiency of stamp duty be imposed upon the petitioner without calling for the original instrument for the purpose of satisfying with regard to adequacy of the stamp duty paid thereon.

13. For appreciation of the controversy involved in this case, sections 2(12), 2(14), 17, 33(1), (4) & (5) of the Indian Stamp Act are relevant, which are quoted below:-

Section 2(12): "Executed" and "Execution". "Executed" and "Execution" used with reference to instruments, mean signed and signature;

Section 2(14): Instrument. "Instrument" includes every document by which any right or liability is, or purports to be, created, transferred, limited, extended, extinguished or recorded;

Section 17: All instruments chargeable with duty and executed by any person in India shall be stamped before or at the time of execution.

Section 33 (1): Every person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, and every person in charge of a pubic office, except an officer of police, before whom any instrument, chargeable, in his opinion, with duty, is produced or comes in the performance of his functions, shall, if it appears to him that such instrument is not duly stamped, impound the same.

Section 33 (4): In case the instrument is not produced within the period specified by the Collector, he may require payment of deficit stamp duty, if any, together with penalty under section 10 on the copy of the instrument:

Provided that no action under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4) shall be taken after a period of four years from the date of execution of the instrument.

Section 33 (5): In case the instrument is not produced within the period specified by the Collector, he may require payment of deficit stamp duty, if any, together with penalty under section 40 on the copy of the instrument:

Provided that no action under sub-section (4) or sub-section (5) shall be taken after a period of four years from the date of execution of the instrument:

Provided further that with the prior permission of the State Government an action under sub-section (4) or sub-section (5) may be taken after a period of four years but before a period of eight years from the date of execution of the instrument."

14. From the perusal of the aforesaid provisions of the Indian Stamp Act, it is evident that section 2(12) provides that "Executed" and "Execution" is used with reference to instruments, mean signed and signature; section 2(4) provide that "Instrument" includes every document by which any right or liability is, or purports to be, created, transferred, limited, extended, extinguished or recorded; section 17 provides that all instruments chargeable with duty and executed by any person in India shall be stamped before or at the time of execution.

15. Section 33 of the Indian Stamp Act empowers the authority to examine and impound the instruments before whom any instrument, chargeable, in his opinion, with duty, is produced or comes in the performance of his functions. Sub-section (4) thereof provides that in case the instrument is not produced within the period specified by the Collector, he may require payment of deficit stamp duty, if any, together with penalty under section 10 on the copy of the instrument. Sub-section (5) empowers the authority that in case the instrument is not produced within the period specified by the Collector, he may require payment of deficit stamp duty, if any, together with penalty under section 40 on the copy of the instrument.

16. Learned counsel for the petitioner has vehemently argued that the notice dated 17.06.2007 was issued without calling for the original agreement dated 19.01.2006, which has been rebutted by the learned standing counsel.

17. This Court has perused the notice dated 17.06.2007. The relevant part of the notice is quoted below:-

"आप कृपया दिनांक 30ध्6ध्2006 को प्रातः 10ण्30 बजे उपरोक्त सन्दर्भ में इस न्यायालय में विचाराधीन मूल अभिलेख सहित उपरोक्त पते पर ण्ण्ण् आना सुनिश्चित करेए मूल अभिलेख इस न्यायालय में दाखिल करे तथा पत्रावली के अध्ययन के उपरांत अपना पक्ष एवं उसके समर्थन में साक्ष्यः साक्षीः अभिलेखए इस न्यायालय के आदेश के अनुसार निर्धारित तिथि में प्रस्तुत करना चाहें।"

18. The notice under section 33 of the Indian Stamp Act, as aforesaid, itself is very clear directing the petitioner to produce the original agreement on or before 30.06.2006, but in spite of service of notice, the original instrument was not produced by the petitioner.

19. It is not the case of the petitioner that he tried to submit the original instrument as per the notice dated 17.06.2007, the same was not accepted by the authorities below. Once, by notice dated 17.06.2007, when the original documents were sought to be produced and the petitioner failed to do so, the proceedings initiated under sub-sections (4) & (5) of section 33 of the Stamp Act are wholly justified. Further, the record shows that no where, either in the grounds of appeal or before this Court, the petitioner submitted that the agreement dated 19.01.2006 was not executed, but it has been only argued that after execution of the agreement dated 19.01.2006, it was never acted upon.

20. As soon as the petitioner accepted the execution of the agreement, section 17 of the Indian Stamp Act comes into picture and is pressed to service for getting the agreement duly stamped. It is immaterial as to whether, on the basis of the agreement dated 19.01.2006, the performance, as contemplated therein, was done or not done. Once, there is no denied of the execution of the agreement, at any stage, then the liability of stamp duty does arise.

21. The reliance placed by the petitioner upon the Hariom Agrawal (supra) and Som Dutt Builders Limited (supra) would be of no help to the petitioner, as in that case, the authorities never call upon for submission of original instrument. But in the present case, vide notice dated 17.06.2007, the petitioner was directed to produce the original agreement, but he failed to submit the same.

22. Another judgement in Som Dutt Builders Limited (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner is also of no help to the petitioner. Relevant paragraph nos. 8 & 9 of the aforesaid judgement is quoted below:-

"8. As regards the first issue, although the agreement had been executed on 11.6.1987, action was first sought to be initiated only on 31.10.1994, which was after a lapse of more than 7 years. Admittedly the said action was initiated on the basis of a photo copy of the document dated 11.6.1987, by summoning the original document. The first proviso toSection 33of the Act makes it clear that no action can be taken underSection 33(4)of the Act (which deals with the cases where copy of the document is produced and the original instrument is called for) after a period of four years from the date of execution of the instrument. Since admittedly action was being taken on the basis of a document executed on 11.6.1987 and more than four years had elapsed, the provision ofSection 33(4)of the Act could not be attracted. The second proviso toSection 33of the Act having been inserted only w.e.f. 1.9.1998 would not be attracted in this case.

9. As regards the second issue that the Additional District Magistrate had no jurisdiction to initiate proceedings on a photo copy of the document by summoning the original document for the purposes of* ascertaining the liability of stamp duty under the Act, even if the notice dated 31.10.1994 and the action taken by the respondents in pursuance thereof could be said to be covered underSection 33(1)of the Act (although the petitioner disputes the same), still the said action would also be illegal and without jurisdiction. In response to the letter dated 31.10.1994 written by the Additional District Magistrate to the Kanpur Development Authority, the Kanpur Development Authority on 1.11.1994 is said to have sent the document in question to the Respondent No. 3. According to the petitioner the document so sent was only a copy of the original and not the original, which was and still remains in the possession of the petitioner. Specific assertion to that effect has been made in paragraph 31 of the writ petition that the original agreement is with the petitioner and the same has not been denied by Kanpur Development Authority or the State of U.P. in their counter affidavits. The learned Standing Counsel had also placed the original records of the case before me and the original agreement was not found there. The learned Standing Counsel could also not justify as to on what basis it has been claimed by him that the original document had been placed before the Additional District Magistrate on which action has been taken. At the time of hearing, the original document was actually placed before me by the learned counsel for the petitioner to show that the same was and still is in the possession of the petitioner. As perSection 33(1)of the Act, once the document or instrument appears to be under-stamped, the officer concerned shall impound the same, In the present case, the original document had never been impounded. The procedure for impounding a document has been laid down insection 40of the Act and it is no one's case that the same had been followed in the present case. Further, the said document was never produced nor came before the Additional District Magistrate in the performance of his official functions and hence the provisions ofSection 33(1)of the Act could not have been attracted. In the case of R.A. Remington v. Deputy Commissioner & Collector, Pithoragarh 1966 A.L.J. 514 the Apex Court has held that the authorities have no power underSection 33(1)of the Act to summon the document for the purposes of finding out whether it had been properly stamped or not. Thus the submission of the petitioner, that the case of the respondents for imposing penalty on the document would also not be covered under the provisions ofSection 33(1)of the Act, has force."

23. In the said case, the proceedings were initiated after a lapse of more than seven years; whereas, section 33 of the Act very clearly provides the limitation of four years. In the case in hand, the proceedings have been initiated within a period of 13 months. Further, section 33 of the Act has been inserted with effect from 01.09.1998; whereas, in the aforesaid case, the agreement was executed on 11.06.1987 and for the first time, proceedings were initiated on 31.10.1994. Therefore, the Court was of the opinion that the initiation of proceedings was without jurisdiction. But, in the case in hand, the agreement has been executed on 30.06.2006 and the notice was issued on 17.06.2007, i.e., within a period of 13 months, which is well within the period of limitation as prescribed under the Act.

24. In the case in hand, the original agreement was directed to be produced by the petitioner vide notice dated 17.06.2007 and the petitioner failed to produce the same. Therefore, the proceedings under section 33(4) & (5) were rightly initiated.

25. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned order does not call for any interference by this Court. The question, framed above, is answered, accordingly, in favour of the State and against the petitioner.

26. The writ petition fails and it is hereby dismissed.

27. No order as to costs.

Writ-C No. 25389 of 2019

Sudhir Kumar Singh ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Mr. Ravikant, Sri Imran Syed

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Rajendra Singh Chauhan, Sri Sushil Kumar Rao, Sri Kunal Shah

A. Administrative law - principles of natural justice - administrative exercise of power - the authority exercising power has to not only render due application of mind but also to follow the procedure which would not render the entire action arbitrary - whatever is arbitrary, is hit by Article 14 of the Constitution of India – held - In the present case only the procedure that was followed by the respondents in taking impugned action was not only quite ex parte but also under the executive fiats of the Special Secretary of the Government which was quite uncalled for - Merely because the orders have come from the higher echelons of the Government functionaries, a Corporation which is an autonomous body would not mechanically act in compliance thereof and then administrative authority, therefore, is required to render due application of mind. (Para 21)

Order impugned is basically based on the enquiry report prepared by the Managing Director himself and that the enquiry was conducted in the ex parte manner and the Managing Director failed to offer any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner before passing the order impugned which has the effect of terminating the agreement for no justifiable reason to hold that the petitioner was at fault at any point of time - Element of bias therefore, under the circumstances at the end of Managing Director, cannot be ruled out - The order impugned, therefore, terminating the agreement dated 26.7.2019 cannot be sustained in law. (Para 35)

Held: - The petitioner was entitled to an opportunity of hearing before the order was passed and since the petitioner has not been issued any show cause notice, order cannot sustain in law. The enquiry report submitted by the Managing Director as well as the order passed by the Special Secretary quashed. (Para 27 & 36)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J.)

1. Heard Sri Imran Syed, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Kunal Shah, learned counsel for the respondents. Perused the record.

2. In this petition invoking our extra-ordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India the petitioners have sought relief in the nature of a writ of certiorari for quashing the order dated 26.07.2019 whereby the petitioner's agreement pursuant to a notice invoking tender dated 26.5.2018 has come to be canceled.

3. Briefly stated facts of the case are that petitioner who is a registered contractor with the respondents-Ware Housing Corporation applied against a notice invoking tender dated 1.6.2018 for the work to be carried out for Mirzapur, Bhawanipur-1, Bhawanipur-2 and tendu centres with respect to food grains of Food Corporation of India. The petitioner having offered the lowest rate to undertake the work to be assigned pursuant to the tender notice was selected in the L-1 category and after approval of the higher authorities the agreement came to be executed between the Corporation and the petitioner on 13.7.2018 for work at Bhawanipur-1, Mirzapur region. No sooner did the parties sign the agreement the petitioner started working as per the terms of the agreement. It appears that while others were also selected for different region for different work some complaint got lodged by one Pramod Kumar Singh with the Special Secretary, Department of Co-operatives, Government of U.P., Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh. The Special Secretary wrote a letter to the Managing Director of the Ware Housing Corporation on 30.5.2019 to hold an enquiry on two points: one related to a firm namely, Iqbal Ahmad Ansari qua its registration and renewal and it being black-listed already; the other point was with regard to the cancellation of tender notice dated 16.4.2018 and 5.5.2018 without assigning any reason and then floating a new tender notice dated 16.6.2018 and accepting higher prices for the distribution of work. While this letter was written by the Special Secretary to the Managing Director, it appears that the Special Secretary also wrote a letter directly to the Commissioner of the division to hold administrative enquiry of the complaint made in the matter. The Commissioner of the Vindhyachal division obtained some report from the Ware Housing Corporation, Lucknow dated 13.7.2018 and proceeded to record a finding to the effect that the notice inviting tender was a sheer formality with some ulterior motive and the officers of the Ware Housing Corporation in a very hurried manner approved the tender application, inviting application only from the contractor registered with U.P. State Ware Housing Corporation, Vindhyachal; and the officers who were involved in the tender process forming a Committee were wrongly appointed in the sense that a contract employee was part of the tender committee. So basically complaint was that in the e-tender process only registered contractors were invited which was objectionable because had there been invitation from the open market there would have been more competition and the tender applicants would have offered an accurate price and that the work has been allotted in the contract at a very higher cost to say to much more that 100 % of the earlier one. In its concluding part the report contained a finding to the effect that no survey was conducted for the assessment of the cost and that the recommendation was made by the officers concerned in a very hasty manner and that the Chief Regional Manager did not act very fairly in the matter. After the said report was submitted it appears that the Managing Director of the State Ware Housing Corporation himself conducted an enquiry in compliance of the order of the Special Secretary dated 30.5.2019 and submitted a report to the Chief Secretary on 14.6.2019. The report has been placed before this Court by learned counsel for the petitioner which is taken on record and the learned counsel appearing for the respondent-Corporation does not dispute the same. In the report in the ultimate conclusion the Managing Director has led a finding to the effect that the earlier notice inviting tender dated 1.4.2018 was canceled on the ground that the lowest cost was not feasible and accordingly was not accepted and thereafter a Committee was constituted and that because of some incorrect application moved by one Uday Construction pursuant to the notice inviting tender dated 1.4.2018 and for that reason it was canceled being a result of concealment of forfeiture of the security amount and that was not proper to cancel the notice inviting tender for the other region on same ground. It is on the basis of this enquiry report which the Managing Director himself got prepared and is addressed to the Chief Secretary, Government of U.P., Lucknow that the impugned order has come to be passed on 26.7.2019 canceling the entire tender process which had already been undertaken and also the consequential contract entered between the petitioner and the respondent-corporation. With the cancellation of the agreement under the order impugned dated 26.7.2019 the respondents have proceeded to float new tender notice for the same work which the petitioner was carrying out at the time of passing of the impugned order.

4. Assailing the order impugned, learned counsel for the petitioner has argued following points:

a) The respondents were not justified in unilaterally canceling the written agreement with the petitioner after it had been executed duly with the approval of the higher authorities on 13.7.2019 and the stakes of the petitioner were involved it having invested huge money and incurred cost for carrying out the work under the contract;

b) Neither the enquiry report submitted by the Divisional Commissioner dated 29.6.2019 nor, that of the Managing Director dated 14.6.2019 was ever supplied to the petitioner at any point of time asking for his explanation in respect of the proposed action;

c) None of the enquiry reports indict the petitioner in any manner for any foul play in getting its tender application accepted and approved by the officers of the Ware House Corporation and ultimately the agreement with the petitioner. The petitioner being not guilty of any charge of malafides, conspiracy or otherwise also not guilty of violation of any terms and conditions of the agreement, whether the respondents were justified in canceling the agreement.

d) The respondent-Authority did not apply its independent mind to the enquiry report and moreover, the Managing Director having himself submitted the report of enquiry was not justified in taking the decision as an element of bias would vitiate the entire action. The Authority has to apply its independent mind and on the plea that no one can be judge in his own case, the respondent-Managing Director being himself the Inquiry Authority, was not justified in taking action on the basis of the report submitted by him, and

e) The Ware Housing Corporation being an autonomous body, it is none of the business of the Secretaries of the Government to dictate terms for the working of the Corporation and its officials nor the respondent-Managing Director is justified in taking action on the dictates of the Special Secretary and hence, he submits that the order is vitiated in law and is liable to be quashed.

5. Per contra, the argument of learned counsel for the respondent Corporation is that the decision taken by the Managing Director in rescinding the contract, cannot be faulted with as it is based on a clear finding of facts with regard to the wrongful action in canceling the earlier notice inviting tender on the ground that the prices offered were not justified and yet all of a sudden tenders were accepted at a very exorbitant prices, inasmuch as, no survey having been conducted, the fixation of cost/price of the work was not proper. It is argued that Regional Manager of the Warehousing Corporation was found prima facie guilty of entire affair and the departmental inquiry has been initiated against him to fix the liability. It is argued that it is a case where huge public money is at stake and the error has got arrested, may be, after the execution of the agreement in the public interest, it should be taken to be a solemn act of the State owned Corporation and for technical reasons like non issuance of notice, show cause or for non compliance of principles of natural justice the order should not be set aside. He submits that whenever public money is involved and it is a matter of inviting applications for work from the open market through E-tendering process, transparency and fairness are the most important factors that are to be taken care of and if anything found to be vitiated for malafides on the part of those who are in helm of affairs, such action as has been taken in the present case is quite imperative. He has argued that the principles of natural justice could not be put in a straight jacket formula to apply in every case automatically. It is submitted that in matters of contract, the principles that are attracted in testing the administrative decision making, will not be applicable. He argues that the authority has neither exercised any quasi judicial function in passing the order nor, can be said to have acted in a malafide manner. He submits that the findings have come to be recorded in both the inquiry reports and the Managing Director having rendered his due application of mind in the matter, the order cannot be said to be vitiated in law. He has relied upon several judgments of Apex Court like in Rajasthan Housing Board (2007) 1 SCC 477; ECISPIC MCM (JV v. Central Organization 2018 (5) AWC 4772; Employees State Insurance Corporation and Anr v. Jadain (2006) 6 SCC 581, M/s. Ambe Couriers v. State of U.P. & 3 Ors (Writ-C No. 45762 of 2014, decided on 09.09.2014);,

6. Whereas, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon various authorities in support of the arguments advanced and to quote: U.P. State Warehousing Corporation vs. Sunil 2013 (3) ADJ 745; Sahara India (F) Lko v. Commissioner of Income Tax & another (2008) 14 SCC 151; Securities and Exchange Board of India v. Akshay Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. (2014) 11 SCC 112; Dharampal Satyapal Ltd. v. Deputy Commissioner, Central Excise (2015) 8 SCC 519; United India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Manubhai Dharmshree Bhai and others (2008) 10 SCC 404; Bharti Airtel v. Union of India (2015) 12 SCC 1.

7. Having heard learned counsels for the parties and their arguments advanced across the bar and having perused the records, we find that following basic questions arise for consideration by us:

(a) Whether the two enquiry reports are procedurally defective inasmuch as the findings returned thereunder based upon no material and hence perverse;

(b) Whether the respondent Managing Director was justified in canceling the written agreement with the petitioner after a lapse of a year, without putting him to notice;

(c) Whether being an autonomous body, Corporation could not have been directed to take action in particular manner and Managing Director was not justified in cancelling the agreement under an executive fiat of Special Secretary; and

(d) Whether the order passed by Managing Director is vitiated for bias as he himself had been Inquiry Officer and without inviting the petitioner to explain in his defense he himself conducted the inquiry and then on the basis of report prepared by him, he proceeded to cancel the agreement.

8. In so far as the first question is concerned, Mr. Kunal Shah, learned counsel for the respondent Corporation has very fairly admitted that there was no notice ever issued to the petitioner prior to passing of the impugned order dated 26.07.2019. It is admitted to the Corporation that the agreement was duly entered by the Corporation with approval of the competent authority. The records relating to the earlier notices inviting tender dated 06.01.2018 and 31.03.2018 were well within the knowledge of the respondents. The reasons assigned for the cancellation of the same, if at all any, were well within the knowledge of the Corporation. Floating of a new tender notice dated 01.06.2018 was never put to challenge by any person at any point of time and those who had applied for the tender had duly participated and it is the petitioner who was selected for the Region Bhawanipur-I. Lowest price bid offered by the petitioner came to be considered by the higher officials and those who had been entrusted with the task to verify the records, approved the same. There is a survey report also available on record dated 19.04.2018 in respect of various centres to have necessary prima facie opinion of the possible rates so that the rates could be fixed after appropriate assessment while evaluating the tender bid application insofar as the present notice inviting tender is concerned.

9. We have noticed that a private complaint was lodged by one Pramod Kumar Singh who was not the applicant against the notice inviting tender but the same seemed to have been entertained by the Special Secretary and instead of simply forwarding the complaint to the Managing Director, he not only directed the Managing Director under his letter dated 30.05.2019 to hold inquiry on two points but at the same time by way of abundant precaution, for the reasons best known to him, he also ordered the Divisional Commissioner of Mirzapur Division to hold an administrative inquiry. The Managing Director instead of applying his mind independently, seems to have mechanically acted on the order of Special Secretary and proceeded to hold inquiry himself instead of appointing any inquiry officer, while on the other hand the Divisional Commissioner also conducted an inquiry and and submitted a separate report dated 29.06.2019. It is after the report dated 14.6.2019 was submitted by the Managing Director to the Special Secretary, the Special Secretary issued an executive fiat vide letter dated 16.07.2018 directing for cancellation of the tenders already floated and also to initiate disciplinary proceedings against the erring officials and also called for a compliance report.

10. Perusal of two reports and the ultimate findings returned by the two officers namely the Divisional Commissioner, the following conclusion has been drawn:

''उपरोक्त से स्पष्ट है कि पूर्व में करायी ई–टेण्डरिंग से प्राप्त रेट्स काफी कम थे इसलिए इस सन्दर्भ में शिकायतकर्ता की शिकायत प्रथम दृष्टया सही है।

उल्लेखनीय है कि पूर्व में करायी गयी विज्ञापन सं0– 1.1001.23318 दिनांक 01.04.18 द्वारा करायी गयी ई–टैण्डरिंग प्रक्रिया को निरस्त इस आधार पर किया जाना कि प्राप्त न्यूनतम दर अव्यवहारिक है किसी भी दशा में स्वीकार्य योग्य नहीं है। इस सन्दर्भ मे ई–टेण्डरिंग की प्रक्रिया कराये जाने हेतु मण्डल स्तर पर गठित की गयी कमेटी द्वारा पी0ई0जी0 तेन्दू (सोनभद्र) को ही अव्यवहारिक माना था जबकि प्रधान कार्यालय द्वारा इसे समस्त केन्दों के सम्बन्ध में यथावत् स्वीकार किया। जहॉ तक उदय कन्सट्रक्शन द्वारा धरोहर राशि जब्त किये जाने सम्बन्धी तथ्यों को छुपाने अथवा प्रस्तुत किये जाने के सन्दर्भ में प्रस्तुत प्रत्यावेदन का प्रश्न है, तो इस सन्दर्भ में विदित हो कि उदय कन्सट्रक्शन द्वारा विज्ञापन सं0–1.1001. 23318 दिनांक 01.04.18 के द्वारा मात्र पी0ई0जी0 तेन्दू के लिए आवेदन किया गया था। इसलिए इस आधार पर अन्य केन्दों हेतु प्राप्त निविदाओं को निरस्त किया जाना प्रथम दृष्टया औचित्यपरक नहीं था।

आख्या आपकी सेवा मे सादर प्रेषित।''

11. If one goes through the conclusive findings returned by the two inquiry officers, one inquiry officer namely Managing Director records that since relating to the rates the controversy had arisen earlier and the notice inviting tender was canceled on 01.04.2018, the notice inviting tenders in respect of other centers should not have been canceled. So the conclusion drawn is that the earlier notice inviting tender dated 01.04.2018 was wrongly canceled. The finding returned therefore, is that earlier notice inviting tender dated 01.04.2018 was wrongly canceled. The natural corollary therefore, drawn is, as it appears, that the subsequent notice inviting tender was liable to go but no where there is any finding that there was any error with the floating of new notice inviting tender nor, any error in the new tender process pursuant to NIT dated 01.06.2019, undertaken by the respondent Corporation. It is worth noticing that there is no complaint regarding the cancellation of earlier notice inviting tender. The complaint was in respect of tender in question only.

12. In so far as the other inquiry report is concerned, the conclusion drawn is to the effect only that no market survey was carried out and therefore, the price fixation was wrong and the concerned official of the Warehousing Corporation was therefore, guilty of the entire exercise of tender undertaken and acceptance thereof. It is also to be noticed at this stage that in the inquiry report dated 29.06.2019 the Commissioner has proceeded to consider the report of the Managing Director dated 13.07.2018 which does not discuss anything wrong with the new tender process. There is no discussion in the entire inquiry report as to how and under what circumstances such a finding has come to be returned, more so, the survey report which was prepared by the official of the Corporation dated 19.04.2018 had not been taken into account.

13. Insofar as the second inquiry report is concerned, it also does not reflect as to what were the materials before the Managing Director, to record a finding in respect of the earlier tender except the complaint. No independent inquiry has been conducted by the Managing Director except the fact that he has taken into account certain data which he claims to be the foundation to hold that earlier notice inviting tender was wrongly cancelled. The question is therefore, when the notice inviting tender dated 01.06.2019 was in issue, a finding ought to have been returned that the process undertaken pursuant to the notice inviting tender dated 01.06.2019 was vitiated for malafides, but no such finding has come to be returned.

14. Now in the face of above factual background and the findings returned by the two Inquiry Officers, if we look to the letter written by the Special Secretary to the Managing Director, Warehousing Corporation it reflects how executive has dominated over the freedom of an autonomous corporation commanding the Corporation to act in such a manner as official wants. He issues not only direction to take an action but also to report back to him. The letter dated 16.07.2018 of the Special Secretary is reproduced hereunder:

15. Now, looking to the contents and language of this letter, we need to examine the import of the letter written by the Special Secretary to the Managing Director in connection with the controversy in hand, dated 16.7.2018. The language in which the concluding paragraph of the letter has been framed is quite indicative of a Government order. Paragraph 3 and the ultimate directions as contained in the letter have been highlighted in the bold letters and following is the english translation:

"Accordingly, I have been directed to ask you to calculate the loss of public money and to undertake accordingly the proceedings for recovery from the concerned contractor. The departmental enquiry that is pending against the officials and employees of the Corporation in this connection, the charges that have been found to be proved in your letter dated 14.6.2019 should be added as an additional charge and against those employees who have been found prima facie guilty of the charges they should also be proceeded with after they are identified.

The tender that have been accepted of the aforesaid firm should be canceled and for the purpose of carrying out the work under the contract, fresh notices inviting tender be issued.

The undersigned be informed about the actions to be taken by you promptly, as directed here-in-above."

16. We find from the perusal of the letter of the Managing Director dated 14.6.2019 addressed to the Chief Secretary that it is in the form of an enquiry, admittedly ex parte one, as far as petitioner is concerned and it is on the basis of the findings returned in the aforesaid administrative enquiry, that the Special Secretary has proceeded to pass the order on 16.7.2018, holding the tender process pursuant to the notice inviting tender dated 1.6.2018, to be bad and unsustainable and so also the consequential agreements reached between the Corporation and the private contractor. As we have already discussed in the earlier part of our order that even from the closest scrutiny of the letter dated 14.6.2019 of the Managing Director we have not been able to trace out any finding to the effect that there was any error in the tender process undertaken pursuant to the notice inviting tender dated 1.6.2018, we fail to understand as to how the Special Secretary has come to record the finding to the effect that the tender procedure followed was proved to be bad and so also the consequential agreement. All that we notice in the letter dated 16.7.2018 is that the Special Secretary has expressed that the conduct of the officials of the Corporation in the totality was doubtful. One must not forget that a doubt remains a doubt unless it becomes a fact on the basis of proof thereof through intrinsic evidence and cogent and convincing finding to that effect based on such intrinsic material. This aspect of the matter is quite lacking both in the enquiry of the Managing Director dated 14.6.2019 and the letter dated 16.7.2018 issued by the Special Secretary. Since these two documents are admitted to the parties and they have been placed before the Court, we have taken judicial notice of these two documents and in our considered opinion these documents are unsustainable and so also we find that the finding returned in the order impugned being based on the report of the Managing Director dated 14.6.2019, the first issue is answered in affirmative in favour of the petitioner. One legal question we need to answer at this stage also is, as to whether the Managing Director was justified in taking an action on the basis of his own administrative enquiry and to pass order on the findings returned by him in his enquiry report can the order be turned as vitiated for bias.

17. Doctrine of fair play and fairness in action connote one thing and that is an administrative authority has to demonstrate that the procedure that it has followed is unquestionable if tested on the rule of natural justice and then the ultimate action is in accord with the principles as enshrined under Article 14 of the Constitution of India. Had the Managing Director while holding an enquiry heard the petitioner also who was working already under the agreement and then had recorded a finding that the procedure followed in the finalization of tender was bad for arbitrariness or malafides on the part of the officials of the respondent Corporation, it could have been said that the findings are not ex parte and, therefore, if action has been taken in pursuance thereof, this Court may not interfere and the charge of bias may not be sustainable. However in the present case the Managing Director not only held an enquiry himself without any participation of a third party and then did not hold exactly the petitioner guilty of any charge of undue influence and no finding has come to be returned that the procedure followed in the finalization of tender in question was bad for certain reasons, the Managing Director virtually acted in an arbitrary manner in accepting his own report. The letter of the Special Secretary is absolutely silent about any independent finding of fact on the basis of the material, if any, produced before him. He only issued a direction to the Managing Director to act upon his own enquiry report. In such circumstances, therefore, issuance of a show cause notice to the petitioner of the proposed action was quite imperative as any opportunity of that kind and inviting explanation from the petitioner and consideration thereof, would have definitely removed the element of bias in the decision making process at the end of the respondent- Managing Director but since no such procedure was followed and the manner in which the Managing Director has conducted ex parte enquiry and then proceeded to take action on the basis of the report in which no definite finding has come to be recorded regarding undue advantage taken by the petitioner in getting his tender accepted by the authority, the impugned action is certainly vitiated for bias.

18. Coming to the second question as to whether the petitioner was entitled to any opportunity of hearing or not, or as to whether principles of natural justice would be attracted in the present case or not, it is required to be examined as to what kind of action has been taken and what were the considerations thereof. As we have already discussed in earlier part of this order that it was a simple complaint of a third party that the entire proceedings had been initiated and the complainant being not one of the tender applicants and so no stakes of the complainant was involved, he seems to have been taken as a whistle blower in the matter and it is on that basis that taking the issue opposed to public policy involving huge public money that the respondents have proceeded to pass an order. In this case it was not a case of a kind where a tender application is said to have been accepted for any action of mala fides, and a result of some conspiracy at the end of the petitioner and the officials of the Corporation. If the officials had canceled the earlier tender notice in their wisdom and those tender notices and the cancellation of those tender notice was never questioned, merely because those earlier tender notices were cancelled/ withdrawn, a necessary presumption cannot be raised that the third notice inviting tender was for some extraneous considerations. It is true that the prices this time were taken to be very high as against the earlier ones in the process of tender in which the prices were quoted very low but that does not itself become the ground to cancel the entire tender process which had not only been finalized but even the agreement had been entered into and the party under the contract was carrying out the work making huge investment of money. Had it been a case also of the kind where the party to the contract had violated the terms and conditions of the contract, it could have been said that the tender was liable to be canceled for violation of terms and conditions of the tender agreement. But in the instant case no such finding has come to be returned. The reasons for which the tender proceedings that had already been concluded with the execution of the agreement, has been canceled without assigning any reason of wrong practice adopted by the petitioner in obtaining the agreement. Thus the petitioner cannot be said to be at fault in the matter and, therefore, in our considered opinion if the petitioner was already working under the agreement and no charge was there that he violated the terms and conditions of the agreement, the respondents were not justified in canceling the agreement ex parte.

19. There are three stages in which the entire tender proceeding is undertaken:

1. The issuance of notice inviting tender;

2. Opening Technical and financial bid; and

3. Approval of the financial bid and agreement pursuant thereto.

20. There is no finding returned that at the stage of submission of the application against the notice inviting tender, the petitioner was not eligible or that at the time of the opening of the technical bid and financial bid the petitioner got wrongfully qualified and that the financial bid of the petitioner was wrongly approved and that the agreement entered between the petitioner and the Corporation was void being against the law.

21. If in all the above three stages the petitioner cannot be held to be guilty in any manner for manipulating the things and obtaining the tender by hatching any conspiracy in connivance with the officials of the Corporation, cancellation of the agreement suddenly by the Managing Director holding that the entire Notice Inviting Tender was bad, certainly required a notice and opportunity of hearing to be afforded to the petitioner prior to passing of such an order. It is a settled principle of law that in administrative exercise of power, the authority exercising power has to not only render due application of mind but also to follow the procedure which would not render the entire action arbitrary. It is settled legal principle that whatever is arbitrary, is hit by Article 14 of the Constitution of India and in the present case we find that only the procedure that was followed by the respondents in taking impugned action was not only quite ex parte but also under the executive fiats of the Special Secretary of the Government which was quite uncalled for. Merely because the orders have come from the higher echelons of the Government functionaries, a Corporation which is an autonomous body would not mechanically act in compliance thereof and then administrative authority, therefore, is required to render due application of mind. The words and expression due application of mind means what a reasonable person holding a responsible position would consider an appropriate step to be taken in a situation where a process has already undergone and a consequential actions have been taken, to question the process already undergone and to annul the action already undertaken as a consequence thereof. Thus any action by a responsible administrative officer calls for not only reasonable approach in conducting a proceeding but also giving opportunity to the person whose interest and rights are going to be prejudiced by the proposed action. The rights and obligations that flow from a contract pure and simple, no doubt calls for an action in common law and no writ will ordinarily be issued to protect the interest of either of the parties but where a party has been put to prejudice not for any obligations not being discharged under the agreement at his end but for certain administrative reasons, then it cannot be said to be an action flowing from a contract pure and simple and, therefore, even in such matters the rule of principles of natural justice will be attracted. The cases cited by the learned counsel for the contesting respondents are distinguishable on facts.

22. In the case of Rajasthan Housing Board vs. G.S. Investments and another (Supra) the auction notice had been published on 19.2.2002, the auction was conducted on 20.2.2002 and the bid offered was much below the market rate.

On 22.2.2002, the records were summoned by the State Government and on 20.3.2002 the action was taken against the erring officials of the Rajasthan Housing Board by the Government. So factually in that case situation was different because the auction proceedings held never came to be finalized and no auction bid was finally approved by the authority, under such circumstances no right as such had accrued in favor of the auction bidder and under the circumstances the Court was justified while refusing to interfere in the matter.

23. In the Case of ECI-SPIC-SMO-MCML(JV) vs Central Organisation for Railway Electrification and another, the Court refused to interfere with the order of the competent authority in the matter because there was a breach of the terms and conditions of the agreement on the part of the petitioner and resultantly the Chief Project Director issued the order of termination with the approval of the General Manager. That was a case indeed where the violation of terms of agreement had taken place and the authorities were well within their rights to rescind the contract. So factually this case was also distinguishable and Court rightly refused to interfere with the order terminating the contract. Insofar as the case of Employees State Insurance Corporation and others vs. Jardine Henderson Staff Association (Supra) is concerned, in the said case, the Court had observed vide paragraph-61 that both law as well as the facts in the said case were in favor of the respondents and the High Court had correctly appreciated the tremendous hardship that would be caused by the respondents staff association in case if the arrears were sought to be paid and no body stood to gain either the employer or the employee. The Court had declined to interfere in the matter by observing that "Even assuming that the law is in the favour of the ESI, keeping in view the special facts and circumstances of the case, relief cannot be denied under Article 226 of the Constitution of India" Thus it is in that background of facts of that case that the Court refused to interfere with the impugned judgment even if it was found to be erroneous, in order to do substantial justice in the matter.

24. The Court observed that a relief can be denied inter alia, when it would be opposed to public policy or where quashing of an illegal order may revive another illegal one. This above principle of law is not attracted in the setting of facts of the present case because here nothing was found illegal with the tender proceedings that ultimately resulted in the agreement with the petitioner by the Corporation. Fixation of price as a cost to carry out the work, has been after the market survey was carried out by the official of the Corporation itself on 19.4.2018 and merely because the Corporation in its wisdom decided to accept the bid with its approval by the higher authority, it cannot be said that the entire tender proceeding stood vitiated in law as being result of some extraneous consideration. Moreover, in this case, the petitioner has not been found guilty of any charge of undue influence or conspiracy. The petitioner has worked for over a year under the agreement and any annulment whereof mid-term at this stage and floating of a tender afresh for the same work will again entail a detailed lengthy exercise involving public money and on the mathematical principle of average such a stand would be opposed to public policy.

25. Yet another judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner is

M/s. Ambe Carrier v. State of U.P. & 3 Ors (Supra). This case is also distinguishable on facts because in the said case the agreement had already come to an end in the financial year 2013-14 and the period of the contract was extended by administrative order until 31.3.2014 and there were certain breaches committed by the Contractor that had resulted into serious irregularities leading the authority to terminate the agreement. It is in the above background that the Court rejected the argument raised in that case that the order terminating the contract must be held to be invalid, as no opportunity of hearing was provided. The Court had rightly observed that in matters arising out of contractual obligations did not involve the strict compliance of the rule of natural justice. The remedy for such termination of contract on breaches of the conditions and failure to carry out the obligation under the agreement are subject matter of either arbitration or the common law remedy. In the present case there is no such complaint against the petitioner nor, the petitioner is guilty of any fault at his end in carrying out the agreement.

26. In the case of Ramana Dayaram Shetty (Supra), the Court vide Paragraph-10 has held thus:

".... It is a well settled rule of administrative law that an executive authority must be rigorously held to the standards by which it professes its actions to be judged and it must scrupulously observe those Standards on pain of invalidation of an act in violation of them. This rule was enunciated by Mr. Justice Frankfurter in Viteralli v. Saton where the learned Judge said:

"An executive agency must be rigorously held to the standards by which it professes its action to be judged . . . . Accordingly, if dismissal from employment is based on a define(l procedure, even though generous beyond the requirement that bind such agency, that procedure must be scrupulously observed . . . . This judicially evolved rule of administrative law is now firmly established and, if I may add, rightly so. He that takes the procedural sword shall perish with the sword.

This Court accepted the rule as valid and applicable in India in A. S. Ahuwalia v. Punjab and in subsequent decision given in Sukhdev v. Bhagatram*, Mathew, J., quoted the above-referred observations of Mr. Justice Frankfurter with approval. It may be noted that this rule, though supportable also as emanation fromArticle 14, does not rest merely on that article. It has an independent existence apart from Article 14. It is a rule of administrative law which has been judicially evolved as a check against exercise of arbitrary power by the executive authority. If we turn to the judgment of Mr. Justice Frankfurter and examine it, we find that he has not sought to draw support for the rule from the equality clause of the United States Constitution, but evolved it purely as a rule of administrative law. Even in England, the recent trend in administrative law is in that direction as is evident from what is stated at pages 540-41 in Prof. Wade's "Administrative Law", 4th edition. There is no reason why we should hesitate to adopt this rule as a part of our continually expanding administrative law.….*

27. In view of the above, therefore, we are of the considered opinion that in the facts and circumstances of the present case, the petitioner was certainly entitled to an opportunity of hearing before the order impugned was passed and so on that count also since the petitioner has not been issued any show cause notice, order impugned cannot sustained in law and is liable to be quashed.

28. Coming to the third point as to when the respondents- Warehousing Corporation is an autonomous body, could it be administratively directed by the authorities to conduct the affairs in a particular manner and can it be further directed by Administrative Authorities through executive fiats to cancel an agreement holding that the tender proceedings conducted were bad in law. In other words, the argument is that whether an autonomous body is bound to follow the dictates of the Secretaries of the Government.

29. In the case of State of Punjab & Ors v. Raja Ram & Ors in AIR 1981 SC 1694 Apex Court vide paragraph no.5 has held thus:

"Learned counsel for the appellant then urged that the Corporation is a Government department. We are unable to accept this submission also. A Government department has to be an organization which is not only completely controlled and financed by the Government but has also no identity of its own. The money earned by such a department goes to the exchequer of the government and losses incurred by the department are losses of the government. The Corporation, on the other hand, is an autonomous body capable of acquiring, holding and disposing of property and having the power to contract. It may also sue or besued by its own name and the government does not figure in any litigation to which it is a party. It is true that its original share capital is provided by the Central Government (S. 5 of the F.C. Act) and that 11 out of 12 members of its Board of Directors are appointed by that Government (S. 7 of the F.C. Act) but then these factors may at the most lead to the conclusion (about which we express no final opinion) that the Corporation is an agency or instrumentality of the Central Government. In this connection we may cite with advantage the following observations of this Court in Ramana Dayaram Shetty v. The International Authority of India, 1979 (3) SCR 1014: (AIR 1979 SC 1628 at p.1639):

"A Corporation may be created in one of two ways. It may be either established by statute or incorporated under a law such as the Companies Act, 1956 or the Societies Registration Act, 1860. Where a Corporation is wholly controlled by Government not only in its policy making but also in carrying out the functions entrusted to it by the law establishing it or by the Charter of its incorporation, there can be no doubt that it would be an instrumentality or agency of Government. But ordinarily where a corporation is established by statute, it is autonomous in its working subject only to a provision, often times made, that it shall be bound by any directions that may be issued from time to time by Government in respect of policy matters. So also a Corporation incorporated under law is managed by a Board of Directors or committee of management in accordance with the provisions of the statute under which it is incorporated. When does such a corporation become an instrumentality or agency of Government? Is the holding of the entire share capital of the Corporation by Government enough or is it necessary that in addition, there should be a certain amount of direct control exercised by Government and, if so what should be the nature of such control? Should the functions which the Corporation is charged to carry out possess any particular characteristics or feature or is the nature of the functions immaterial? Now, one thing is clear that if the entire share capital of the Corporation is held by Government it would be a long way towards indicating that the Corporation is an instrumentality or agency of Government. But, as is quite often the case the Corporation established by statute may have no share or shareholders in which case it would be a relevant factor to consider whether the administration is in the hands of a Board of Directors appointed by Government though this consideration also may not be determinative, because even where the directors are appointed by Government, they may be completely free from governmental control in the discharge of their functions."

Even the conclusion, however, that the Corporation is an agency or instrumentality of the Central Government does not lead to the further inference that the Corporation is a Government department. The reason is that the F.C. Act has given the Corporation an individuality apartfrom that of the Government. In any case the Corporation cannot be divested of its character as a 'Company' within the meaning of the definition in clause (e) of section 3 of the L.A. Act, for it completely fulfils the requirements of that clause, as held by us above."

30. In the case of U.P. State Warehousing v. Sunil Kumar Srivastava and another 2013(3) ADJ 745 a Division Bench of this Court vide paragraph no.28 and 43 has observed thus:

"28. Keeping in view the definition of corporation and statutory provisions(supra), there appears to be no room of doubt that the appellant corporation possess autonomy and its business is regulated in pursuance to statutory power conferred by the Act and Regulations framed thereunder. It also possess autonomy to make appointment and deal with the service conditions of its employees (Section 23). The decision with regard to commercial mattes or with regard to services of employees may not be subject-matter for approval or disapproval for the State Government. Of course, in case the Government takes a policy decision and circulate the same subject to rider contained in sub-section (5) of Section 20, the corporation shall be abide by such policy decision. The corporation owes its origin and birth to the Act and not established in compliance of certain orders or decision taken by the State Government through its Cabinet. The corporation has right to discharge its statutory obligations through its authorities created under the Act. The State Government lacks jurisdiction to interfere with the individual decision taken by the corporation through its Board of Directors to manage its affairs or its day to day working in business interest.

43. Keeping in view the aforesaid judgments right from Rajasthan Electricity Board, Jaipur v. Mohan Lal and Others (Supra) including the case of Neeraj Awasthi (Supra), it has been consistent view of Hon'ble Supreme Court that while establishing corporation under the statutory provisions the sovereign power of the State is delegated to respective Boards and the Board has been conferred power to discharge its statutory obligations to run its business. The government has been conferred power to play down policy decisions which means the decision, order or circular in Rem and not in personem. Any other interpretation shall be subversive to autonomy and statutory function of the Board / Corporation and shall create mal-administration and corrupt the system because of day to day interference by the Government on one or other grounds. "

31. In view of the above, therefore in ordinary circumstances, we are of the opinion that the State Government cannot interfere through its administrative officers in day to day affairs and functioning of the Corporation which is an autonomous body.

32. However, since the Corporation is a public sector corporation, it is an instrumentality within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India. The Government has framed rules and regulations governing contractual matters and, therefore, in principle it cannot be ruled out that Corporation while dealing with such matter has to follow those rules and regulations and, therefore, if any flaw is detected by the State Government because of some wrongful action at the end of the officials of the Corporation, we do not find anything wrong if the State Government wants to set right the things but in every State action it has to be seen as to whether the rule of law has been followed or not. The State Government may have a deep pervasive control in the affairs of a Corporation but the very purpose of making a Corporation an autonomous body would fail if it is not given freedom in the affairs of its working. The overall general control in the day to day affairs of the Corporation cannot be appreciated, however, where the Government finds that the officials of the Corporation have acted against the public policy and the State's interest is geopardised on one hand and the public interest is put on stake on the other hand, it can always interfere but for such interference the Government has to follow the procedure, either it may lay down the guidelines for the said purpose or it shall follow the common rule of law but by no executive fiats or orders it can dictate the officials of the Corporation to act in a particular manner. The legal principle as has come to be enunciated in catena of decisions by the Apex Court and this Court do not warrant such action at the end of the Government official/authorities.

33. In so far as 4th issue is concerned, in this matter we have found that the Special Secretary had virtually got swayed away by the complaint and taking the complaint to be a genuine one prima facie he directed in a very hurried manner to the Divisional Commissioner to hold an enquiry and also to the Managing Director to conduct an enquiry. He did not appreciate the enquiry reports and proceeded thereafter to hold that the respondent- Corporation was at fault in issuing the tender dated 1.6.2018. He also failed to appreciate that the stage of acceptance of tender application of the petitioner and approval thereof as a lowest bidder and then entering into the agreement where all the stages that had already been undertaken and there is no finding of arbitrariness. The manner in which the order-cum-letter dated 16.7.2018 has been issued, it does not indicate due application of mind and therefore the letter cum order dated 16.7.2018 deserves to be quashed. The Managing Director's report is also not very happily drawn. Moreso, no conclusion has been drawn regarding involvement of the petitioner by way of manipulation or conspiracy in getting his tender accepted and then approval thereof and the consequential agreement, so this enquiry report also is not sustainable on that count. The findings are not cogent and convincing to hold that the notice inviting tender dated 1.6.2018 was bad in any manner and, therefore, the enquiry report to that extent also cannot be sustained in law.

34. Besides manafides and favouritism, illegality, irrationality and procedural impropriety in State action also are the reasons for judicial review thereof. In the case of Manohar Lal Sharma v. Narendra Damodar Das Modi (2019) 3 SCC 25, speaking for the Bench the Chief Justice in paragraph 7 to 11 has observed thus:

"7. Parameters of judicial review of administrative decisions with regard to award of tenders and contracts has really developed from the increased participation of the State in commercial and economic activity. In Jagdish Mandal vs. State of Orissa, this Court, conscious of the limitations in commercial transactions, confined its scrutiny to the decision making process and on the parameters of unreasonableness and mala fides. In fact, the Court held that it was not to exercise the power of judicial review even if a procedural error is committed to the prejudice of the tenderer since private interests cannot be protected while exercising such judicial review. The award of contract, being essentially a commercial transaction, has to be determined on the basis of considerations that are relevant to such commercial decisions, and this implies that terms subject to which tenders are invited are not open to judicial scrutiny unless it is found that the same have been tailormade to benefit any particular tenderer or a class of tenderers. (See Maa Binda Express Carrier & Anr. Vs. NorthEast Frontier Railway)

8. Various Judicial pronouncements commencing from Tata Cellular vs. Union of India, all emphasise the aspect that scrutiny should be limited to the Wednesbury Principle of Reasonableness and absence of mala fides or favouritism.

9. We also cannot lose sight of the tender in issue. The tender is not for construction of roads, bridges, etc. It is a defence tender for procurement of aircrafts. The parameter of scrutiny would give far more leeway to the Government, keeping in mind the nature of the procurement itself. This aspect was even emphasized in Siemens Public Communication Networks Pvt. Ltd. & Anr. Vs. Union of India. The triple ground on which such judicial scrutiny is permissible has been consistently held to be "illegality", "irrationality" and "procedural impropriety".

10. In Reliance Airport Developers (P) Ltd. vs. Airports Authority of India the policy of privatization of strategic national assets qua two airports came under scrutiny. A reference was made in the said case (at SCC p.49, para 57) to the commentary by Grahame Aldous and John Alder in their book 'Applications for Judicial Review, Law and Practice':

"57. ... There is a general presumption against ousting the jurisdiction of the courts, so that statutory provisions which purport to exclude judicial review are construed restrictively. There are, however, certain areas of governmental activity, national security being the paradigm, which the courts regard themselves as incompetent to investigate, beyond an initial decision as to whether the Government's claim is bona fide. In this kind of nonjusticiable area judicial review is not entirely excluded, but very limited. It has also been said that powers conferred by the royal prerogative are inherently unreviewable but since the speeches of the House of Lords in Council of Civil Service Unions Vs. Minister for the Civil Service this is doubtful. Lords Diplock, Scaman and Roskili (sic.) appeared to agree that there is no general distinction between powers, based upon whether their source is statutory or prerogative but that judicial review can be limited by the subject matter of a particular power, in that case national security. Many prerogative powers are in fact concerned with sensitive, nonjusticiable areas, for example, foreign affairs, but some are reviewable in principle, including the prerogatives relating to the civil service where national security is not involved. Another nonjusticiable power is the Attorney General's prerogative to decide whether to institute legal proceedings on behalf of the public interest." [emphasis supplied]

35. Order impugned is basically based on the enquiry report prepared by the Managing Director himself and that the enquiry was conducted in the ex parte manner and the Managing Director failed to offer any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner before passing the order impugned which has the effect of terminating the agreement for no justifiable reason to hold that the petitioner was at fault at any point of time. Element of bias therefore, under the circumstances at the end of Managing Director, cannot be ruled out. The order impugned, therefore, terminating the agreement dated 26.7.2019 cannot be sustained in law.

36. Thus, for the forgoing discussions writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The order dated 26.7.2019 (Annexure-13) to the writ petition and the enquiry report dated 14.6.2019 submitted by the Managing Director as well as the order passed by the Special Secretary dated 16.7.2019 are also hereby quashed.

37. The consequential action if taken pursuant to the impugned order is also quashed. The consequences to follow, however, there will be no order as to costs.

3.Dr. Ashok Tahiliani Vs. State of U.P. and others 2019 (9) ADJ 176

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Mithal,J.
& Hon'ble Vipin Chandra Dixit,J.)

1. Heard Sri Swapnil Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Mata Prasad, learned Standing Counsel.

2. The petitioners have invoked the writ jurisdiction of the court for issuance of a writ in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to execute a freehold deed in their favour in respect of the land plot No.71, Block No.79 (House No.79/75), Area 3213.76 Sq. Mtrs. situate in Bansmandi Kanpur, pursuant to their application dated 29.01.1999 for grant of freehold rights in the said land.

3. The petitioners at the same time have also prayed for the quashing of the Government Orders dated 04.03.2014 and 28.09.2011 and Clause 2(i) of the Government Order dated 15.01.2015 which provides for applying the circle rate prevailing on the date of disposal of the freehold application instead of the date of submitting the application.

4. The petitioners allege that in respect of Nazul land of plot No.71 aforesaid having an area of 3351.31 Sq. Mtrs. a lease deed was executed on 01.03.1897 for a period of 99 years in favour of Babu Murlidhar and two others. The said lease rights were inherited by Smt. Pranpati @ Kishan Rani, who transferred the said rights vide sale deed dated 03.02.2016 in favour of Lala Rang Lal and Ram Gopal. Later Ram Goptal vide sale deed dated 10.10.2017 purchased the entire rights in the said property and became the exclusive lessee of it.

5. The petitioners purchased the leasehold rights in the said property on 01.07.1921 from Ram Gopal. Ever-since then they are in actual physical possession of the aforesaid plot. However, the petitioners vide registered sale deed dated 29.01.1972 transferred their rights in a small portion of the said property to the extent of 137.55 Sq. Mtrs. in favour of Ganpat Rai Moti Ram Charitable Trust.

6. In view of the above, the petitioners remain to be the lease of 3213.76 Sq. Mtrs. of the said plot of land whereas the above Charitable Trust became the lessee of an area of 137.55 Sq. Mtrs. of it.

7. The State Government came out with a policy for converting Nazul land into freehold by issuing Government Orders from time to time and finally a Government Order dated 01.12.1998 was issued in this regard.

8. The petitioners in accordance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid Government Order deposited 25% of the self-assessed market value of the said land amounting to Rs.7,35,182/- and submitted application dated 29.01.1999 for the grant of freehold rights in the aforesaid land of plot No.71 having an area 3213.76 Sq. Mtrs.

9. Simultaneously, vide application dated 30.01.1999 Ganpat Rai Moti Ram Charitable Trust also applied for grant of freehold rights in respect of 137.55 Sq. Mtrs. of the land of the aforesaid plot No.71 which it had purchased from the petitioners.

10. The Charitable Trust has been granted freehold rights in the said portion of land and a freehold deed in its favour has been executed on 29.03.2012 on being satisfied that its rights over it as claimed by it are not in doubt.

11. In regard to the application of the petitioners for grant of freehold rights, Additional District Magistrate (F & R) vide letter dated 20.01.2003 made certain inquiries with regard to the manner in which the petitioners have acquired rights in the above property. The petitioners in response to the said query supplied all documents pertaining to their title/leasehold rights over the said land.

12. Despite the above, the District Magistrate vide letter dated 05.12.2007 required the petitioners to produce all documents of their rights which were again produced before him on 02.01.2018 by the petitioners. Then certain clarifications were sought which were duly clarified by means of an affidavit submitted on 03.08.2010. Thereafter the petitioners were given personal hearing and they appeared on 26.10.2010 but the respondents failed to issue the demand letter for the balance amount so as to convert the land into freehold.

13. In the meantime pending the above proceedings a Government Order was issued on 28.09.2011 directing the authorities to decide all pending applications for freehold within six months and if they remain undecided they shall stand rejected. Another Government Order dated 04.03.2014 provided that for the purposes of disposal of all such applications circle rate on the date of submission of applications as per the land use according to the master plan shall apply subject to the area of the plot. The rejection clause was withdrawn by the Government vide another Government Order dated 15.01.2015 and it was provided that for the purpose of grant of freehold rights the circle rate of the land as per the Government Orders dated 28.09.2011 and 04.03.2014 shall be applicable.

14. One Sanjiv Kumar Shakya, the then Tehsildar Ghatampur, District Kanpur Nagar has filed a counter affidavit on behalf of the respondents. In addition to it a separate counter affidavit has been filed by one Virag Karvariya, Naib Tehsildar, Tehsil Sadar, District Kanpur in response to the amended paragraphs of the above writ petition.

15. In the counter affidavit it has not been disputed that the petitioners have applied for grant of freehold rights in the Nazul land as stated by them. In paragraphs 10 and 16 of the first counter affidavit it has been admitted that the application of the petitioners was complete and a proposal was got prepared for getting the land converted into freehold but the freehold rights could not be granted as in the meantime a notification was issued declaring elections of the U.P. Vidhan Sabha. It further states that the application of the petitioners stood rejected in view of the Government Order dated 28.09.2011.

16. It has also been averred that as the application of Ganpat Rai Moti Ram Charitable Trust was complete the Distrcit Magistrate in April, 2007 accorded approval for conversion of its Nazul land into freehold. Consequently, a freehold deed dated 19.03.2012 was executed in its favour.

17. In the counter affidavit filed in reply to the amended paragraphs of the writ petition it has been stated that in accordance with the Government Order dated 15.01.2015 which provides that all pending applications for freehold shall be treated as valid and therefore, shall be decided in accordance with the circle rate prevailing at the time of the disposal.

18. Despite complete pleadings on record vide order dated 21.08.2019, learned Standing Counsel was granted indulgence to seek instructions as to whether actually the application of the petitioners was complete in all respect before the declaration of the general elections of Vidhan Sabha of the State of U.P. and as to why the immediate action was not taken on it.

19. Learned Standing Counsel, thus obtained instructions and accepted it that the application was complete as mentioned in paragraphs 10 and 16 of the counter affidavit but action could not be taken as it was treated to have been rejected.

20. On the basis of the above instructions he proposed to file an additional counter affidavit which we refused to accept at this stage of final hearing as the court had not required filing of any further or additional counter affidavit. It is well settled that a party is entitle to file reply in response to the petition only once and that successive counter affidavits are not to be permitted as a matter of course.

21. In view of the stand taken by the respondents in the above counter affidavits, it is clear that the respondents have initially treated the application of the petitioners to have been rejected and that presently the application is said to be pending but no final decision thereof could be taken for the reason that now the demand note has to be issued as per the prevailing circle rate.

22. The bone of contention is as to why the application of the petitioners for grant of freehold rights could not be finalised earlier when the subsequent application of another party in respect of a small portion of the same very plot of land has been considered and the freehold deed dated 19.03.2012 was executed in respect to said portion of the land and as to the rate on which the petitioners are entitled to get the freehold rights.

23. There is not dispute to the fact that the petitioners have applied for grant of freehold rights in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Government Order dated 12.01.1998 and accordingly, they are entitle to freehold rights on fulfillment of the conditions laid down therein and as modified by the subsequent government orders.

24. The counter affidavit makes it abundantly clear that the application of the petitioners for grant of freehold rights was complete but it could not be finalised due to implementation of the Model Code of Conduct. The Model Code of Conduct had not remained in operation for long and despite its lifting the application of the petitioners was not processed and finalised.

25. There is nothing on record to show inability on part on part of the respondents in not granting the freehold rights to the petitioners on or before 28.09.2011 except for the implementation of the Model Code of Conduct for which purpose no relevant dates as to when it was enforced and lifted has been mentioned.

26. The above excuse is apparently an eyewash. We do not find any valid or logical reason on part of the respondents in keeping the application of the petitioners for grant of freehold rights pending since January, 1999 till September, 2011 i.e. for a period of 11 years except for making inquiries regarding the rights of the petitioners on the said land when in respect of the application of one another person, who claims rights from the petitioners no such query or inquiry was made and freehold rights were granted.

27. In the event the holder of a small portion of the land of the same plot in respect of which the petitioners are claiming freehold rights has been granted freehold rights there appears to be no justification on part of the respondents in not considering the application of the petitioners. It is not the case of the respondents that the petitioners do not fulfill or satisfy the conditions set out in the Government Order dated 12.01.1998 or their title/rights are in doubt. In fact, the title or rights of the petitioners in the said land can not be doubted when the person deriving rights from them has already been recognised for grant of freehold rights.

28. The contention that the petitioners never accepted for grant of freehold rights on the prevailing circle rate or on the higher rate is neither here nor there as the respondents never issued any demand notice to the petitioners demanding any amount at any rate much less the prevailing circle rate.

29. Thus, on the ground of parity alone the petitioners are also entitle for freehold rights in the land in question from the date i.e. 19.03.2012 on which Ganpat Rai Moti Ram Charitable Trust has been granted freehold rights.

30. The condition that all applications which have remained pending for over six months from the issuance of Government Order dated 28.09.2011 stand automatically rejected has lost all its efficacy and is meaningless as the said condition of the Government Order dated 28.09.2011 was subsequently recalled vide Government Order dated 15.01.2015 and the applications were restored.

31. The issue as to the validity of Clause 2(i) of the Government Order dated 15.01.2015 which provides for applying the circle rate as provided in Government Orders dated 28.09.2011 & 04.03.2014 i.e. the rate prevailing on the date of the disposal of the application of freehold rights, it is pertinent to mention that the issuance is res integra as it is squarely covered by the Full Bench decision in the case of Anand Kumar Sharma Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2014(2) ADJ 742 wherein it has been categorically held that mere making of an application for freehold rights does not give rise to any vested right and if in the meantime there is a change in policy, the application has to be decided as per the policy in existence at the time of passing of the order and consequently for the purpose of freehold rights, the applicant has to deposit the amount as per the circle rate prevailing on the date of the application.

32. In view of above, we have no hesitation to say that the petitioners are also liable for the payment of the amount at the circle rate prevailing on the date of disposal of the application.

33. The challenge to the Government Orders dated 04.03.2014 and 28.09.2011 is only to a limited extent in so far as they directed for the disposal of the freehold applications within six month failing which they would stand automatically rejected. Since the said condition of rejection has been withdrawn the challenge to the said orders to the above extent is of no avail.

34. It may not be out of context to mention that a Division Bench of this court in which of us (P. Mithal, J.) was a member of in the case reported in 2019 (8) ADJ 442(DB) Amar Nath Bhargava Vs. State of U.P. and others has issued general directions to the District Authorities of Allahabad to finalise all pending applications for grant of freehold rights filed in pursuance to the Government Order dated 01.12.1998 most expeditiously latest by 31 December, 2019.

35. In Dr. Ashok Tahiliani Vs. State of U.P. and others 2019 (9) ADJ 176 another Division Bench of this court in the matter concerning grant of freehold rights in Nazul land on an application submitted in accordance with Government Order dated 01.12.1998 issued a general mandamus commanding all District Magistrates throughout the State of U.P. to take a decision on all pending applications within a time bound period not exceeding six months.

36. In the case at hand, we do not find that the petitioners were in any way responsible for the delay in consideration of their application for freehold rights. There application was complete in all respect. It was not rejected or even treated to be rejected as the 25% amount deposited by the petitioners were never offered to be returned. There is no allegation anywhere that the petitioners were not taking interest and have delayed the proceedings.

37. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, we are of the opinion that there is an inordinate and unexplained delay on part of the respondents in dealing with the application of the petitioners for grant of freehold rights. Since the respondents have executed freehold deed in favour of Ganpat Rai Moti Ram Charitable Trust that has purchased a small portion of the aforesaid plot from the petitioners on 19.03.2012, the petitioners are also entitled for freehold rights as on the aforesaid date and at the rate on which the rights were so conferred upon the said trust or in the alternatively to pay damages to the petitioners at the rate of difference between the circle rate prevailing as on date and that which has been applied for grant of freehold rights to the aforesaid trust.

38. Accordingly, we issue a writ in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to issue a demand note to the petitioners by applying the same rate that had been applied for grant of freehold rights to the aforesaid Trust or the rate prevailing as on date within a period of one month from today and on the petitioners depositing the said amount to execute the sale deed within a further period of one month from the date of deposit of the amount by the petitioners. In the event, the circle rate prevailing today is applied the respondents shall compensate the loss to the petitioners by paying damages as observed above.

39. The Writ Petition is allowed with no order as to costs.

A. Cancellation or suspension of fair price shop - Allotment of the fair price shop during pendency of appeal - State Government has no restriction - A subsequent allottee has no right to challenge the restoration of license - U.P. Essential Commodities Distribution Control Order 2016, - paragraph-9 - Suspension or cancellation of the agreement - the Competent Authority shall make alternative arrangement for ensuring uninterrupted supply of food grains to the eligible households - Proviso to paragraph-9 - cancellation of the fair price shop - new arrangement shall be issued within a month of cancellation - no locus on the subsequent allottee to challenge the order passed in favour of the former allottee. (Para 12, 13 & 14)

State Government is empowered to make alternative arrangement either by way of attaching the card holders of another shop or by way of making fresh allotment - if it is by fresh allotment, in case the appeal filed by original allottee is allowed, subsequent allottee shall have no right whatsoever to challenge the same, i.e., it shall not be open to him to challenge the restoration of license in favour of the original license holder. (Para 15)

Held: - The State authorities have a right to make alternative arrangements and that the new allotment is always subject to the decision of the appeal of the existing dealer whose license was cancelled. In case the appeal is allowed, the subsequent allottee has no right to challenge the same. Therefore, there can be no restriction on the State Government to allot the fair price shop during pendency of the appeal. (Para 13)

6. Smt. Kalawati Vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2011(10) ADJ 829

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. Pursuant to the order dated 07.11.2019, learned Standing Counsel has produced a copy of the instructions dated 16.11.2019 sent by the District Supply Officer, Meerut. Copy of the instruction has also been supplied to the learned counsel for the petitioner.

3. The present petition has been filed with following relief:-

(I) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondent nos.2 and 3 not to allot the fair price shop in pursuance of notification which was published in daily news paper dated 16.10.2019 till submission of final report of S.T.F.,

Lucknow where enquiry/investigation is pending.

4. Submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that admittedly, pursuant to the direction of the Hon'ble Division Bench of this Court issued vide judgment and order dated 05.12.2018 passed in Public Interest Litigation (PIL) No.4839 of 2018, The Sahkari Sasta Galla Vikreta Union, Tehsil Sardhana, Meerut Vs. State of U.P. & 4 Others Senior Superintendent of Police (STF), Lucknow has been directed to complete the enquiry as far as possible within a period of six months in regard to misuse of Aadhaar authentication of E-POS. Submission is that till date the enquiry has not been completed, but the advertisement has been issued for allotment of shops involved in the enquiry. Submission is that unless the enquiry is concluded, there is no justification in making a fresh allotment and the petitioner is entitled for continuation for his shop.

5. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel submits that the enquiry is pending and longer time is being taken because the Aadhaar Card data is required for examination of the allegations. He further pointed out that it had been a large scale scam wide spread throughout the State and as many as 44 districts are involved in the same. Learned Standing Counsel further stated at the bar that in some of the districts the dealers have also deposited the amount. He further pointed out that as per information supplied dealers named in the scam in the district of Prayagraj, have already deposited amount that was being sought to be recovered from them.

6. I have considered the submission and perused the record. In so far as the present petition is concerned, the only prayer is that no fresh notification be made in regard to the shop of the petitioner, pursuant to the notification published in daily newspaper dated 16.10.2019 till submission of final report of Senior Superintendent of Police (STF), Lucknow, wherein enquiry/investigation is pending. Along with the supplementary affidavit, a copy of the cancellation order dated 05.01.2019 passed by the District Supply Officer, Meerut has been filed.

7. During the course of arguments learned counsel for the petitioner further stated that an appeal before the Commissioner being Appeal No.694 of 2019 is pending against the aforesaid cancellation order. The cancellation order is admittedly, not under challenge before this Court.

8. Confining to the relief claimed in the present petition, a reference may be made to the judgment of Hon'ble Division Bench of this Court in the case of Vinod Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2014(8) ADJ (DB)(LB), para-12 whereof is quoted as under:-

"Hence, on considering the diverse orders which have been passed by the Division Benches of this Court, it is clear that this Court has not held, as a principle of law, that pending the disposal of an appeal before the Appellate Authority under Clause 28(3) of the Control Order, no arrangements can be made by the State for securing the interest of the card holders. On the contrary, in our view, it is open to the State, pending disposal of an appeal, to make suitable alternate arrangements either by attaching the card holders to an existing fair price shop or by allotting the fair price shop to a new licensee subject to the result of the appeal. The reasons which were adduced in the interim order of the Division Bench in Vinod Kumar Mishra, with respect, over-looked the clear mandate of Clause 28(5) of the Control Order which were not pointed out to the Court. Be that as it may, we may let the matter rest there since it is a well-settled principle in law that any interim order of the Court will ultimately give way to the final decision in the proceedings. Writ Petition No. 11977 (M/B) of 2010 was finally disposed of on 12 December 2011. The interim order came to an end with the final disposal of the petition."

(Emphasis Supplied)

9. A reference may be made to the judgment of the Hon'ble Division Bench in the case of Nasir Ali Vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2015(4) ADJ 214 (DB), para 4 whereof is quoted as under:-

"A Division Bench of the Lucknow Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No. 7649 of 2014 (Vinod Kumar Vs. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary Food and others) decided on 19.8.2014 after considering the interim orders passed by the Division Bench of the Lucknow Bench clarified that as a principle of law the Court had not held that pending disposal of an appeal before the Appellate Authority under Clause 28(3) of the control order, no arrangements could be made by the State for securing the interest of the card holders. The Division Bench took the view that it was open to the State Government that pending disposal of an appeal to make suitable alternate arrangements either by attaching the card holders to an existing fair price shop or by allotting the fair price shop to a new license subject to the result of the appeal." (Emphasis Supplied)

10. A reference may be made to the judgment in the case of Vinod Kumar Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2014(9) ADJ 761, para 7 whereof is quoted as under:-

"It appears that the Hon'ble Court was not apprised of earlier Division Bench judgment on the subject wherein this issue has been considered and decided long back. I may refer hereat the Division Bench judgment in Writ Petition No. 19080 of 2008, Naubat Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, decided on 11.04.2008, wherein this very issue was raised but was negatived by giving reasons. The Court said:

"Learned counsel for the petitioner contended that since the appeal is already pending it is not open to respondents to appoint another person as fair price shop dealer in respect to the area where the petitioner was working as fair price shop dealer.

However, we do not find any force in the submission. The petitioner's agreement for distribution of essential commodities having been cancelled admittedly, presently he has no right in the matter of distribution of essential commodities of fair price to the public at large. Since there appears to be no person available for distribution of essential commodities of fair price, the public at large cannot be made to suffer and, therefore, the respondents decided to appoint another person as a fair price shop dealer pursuant whereto the impugned order dated 2.4.2008 has been passed. The aforesaid order obviously is for appointing an intermittent dealer and subject to the result of the petitioner's appeal, inasmuch as, in case the said appeal is allowed and the petitioner's agreement is restored, any person who has been appointed in place of petitioner would have no right to continue thereafter, but till the time, appeal of petitioner is decided, in our view, the petitioner has no right, legal or otherwise, to restrain the respondents from making arrangement of distribution of essential commodities appointing another person as dealer in the area where the petitioner was operating as fair price shop dealer.

Learned counsel for the petitioner seeks to place reliance on order dated 23.11.2007 passed by Hon'ble Single Judge of this Court in Writ Petition No. 57682 of 2007 wherein an order was passed restraining the authorities from doing any fresh allotment of the fair price shop till the appeal is decided.

In our view, the aforesaid order would have no application in the present case. Firstly, in the earlier writ petition filed by the petitioner which has been disposed of this Court on 07.03.2008 directing the appellate authority to decide his appeal within three months, no such order has been passed restraining the respondents from allotting shop in question to any one and for the said purpose only no fresh petition would lie. Secondly, we are of the view that so long as the licence of a person continued to be cancelled he has no right either in law or otherwise to create any obstruction in the way of respondent-authorities in making arrangement for distribution of essential commodities to the public at large in such manner as they found expedient and in the interest of public at large. If the authorities found it appropriate that the people would be better serve if the fair price shop is allotted to a third person, we do not find any illegality or irregularity in such exercise of power unless it can be shown that it is mala fide or without jurisdiction or is inconsistent to any provision or executive order having force of law. No such provision has been placed before us." (emphasis added)"

(Emphasis Supplied)

11. A reference may also be made to Smt. Kalawati Vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2011(10) ADJ 829, para-5 where of is quoted as under:-

"Thus the third party, who is allotted the distribution, do not have any individual right but its rights are subject to the decision in appeal and therefore a fair price dealer, whose matter is pending in appeal, does not suffer in any manner."

(Emphasis Supplied)

12. It is the settled law that a subsequent allottee has not right to challenge the restoration of license as held in Poonam Vs. State of U.P. & Others, 2016(2) SCC 779, para 49 whereof is quoted as under:-

"In the instant case, shop No. 2 had become vacant. The appellant was allotted the shop, may be in the handicapped quota but such allotment is the resultant factor of the said shop falling vacant. The original allottee, that is, the respondent, assailed his cancellation and ultimately succeeded in appeal. We are not concerned with the fact that the appellant herein was allowed to put her stand in the appeal. She was neither a necessary nor a proper party. The appellate authority permitted her to participate but that neither changes the situation nor does it confer any legal status on her. She would have continued to hold the shop had the original allottee lost the appeal. She cannot assail the said order in a writ petition because she is not a necessary party. It is the State or its functionaries who could have challenged the same in appeal. They have maintained sphinx like silence in that regard. Be that as it may, that would not confer any locus on the subsequent allottee to challenge the order passed in favour of the former allottee, She is a third party to the list in this context" (Emphasis Supplied)

13. The above quoted judgments of this Court clearly holds that the State authorities have a right to make alternative arrangements and that the new allotment is always subject to the decision of the appeal of the existing dealer whose license was cancelled. It is a settled law that in case the appeal is allowed, the subsequent allottee has no right to challenge the same. Therefore, there can be no restriction on the State Government to allot the fair price shop during pendency of the appeal. A reference may also be made to the paragraph-9 of the U.P. Essential Commodities Distribution Control Order 2016, which is quoted as under:-

"(9) In case of suspension or cancellation of the agreement, the Competent Authority shall make alternative arrangement for ensuring uninterrupted supply of foodgrains to the eligible households :

Provided that in case of cancellation of the arrangement of the fair price shop owner, new arrangement shall be issued within a month of cancellation."

(Emphasis Supplied)

14. Thus, Proviso to paragraph-9 clearly provides that in case of cancellation of the fair price shop, new arrangement shall be issued within a month of cancellation.

15. It is needless to say that obviously the aforesaid provision has been made so that the ration card holders may not suffer on account of cancellation or suspension of fair price shop. The picture as emerges from the above noted discussion is that the State Government is empowered to make alternative arrangement either by way of attaching the card holders of another shop or by way of making fresh allotment. However, if it is by fresh allotment, in case the appeal filed by original allottee is allowed, subsequent allottee shall have no right whatsoever to challenge the same, i.e., it shall not be open to him to challenge the restoration of license in favour of the original license holder.

16. That apart, in this case in P.I.L. No. 4839 of 2018 vide order dated 05.12.2018, the Hon'ble Division Bench has directed for enquiry within a period of six months, which is being conducted by the Senior Superintendent of Police (STF), Lucknow. Aforesaid order dated 05.12.2018 is quoted as under:-

"The Public Interest Litigation has been filed for an appropriate writ, order or direction for the respondents to conduct enquiry in accordance with Government Order dated 27.8.2018 and complete the same within a definite time frame.

From perusal of the office order dated 29.8.2018 (Annexure-4) it reveals that the entire issue with regard to misuse of Aadhar authentication in distribution of E-POS has been handed over to Special Task Force, Uttar Pradesh.

It is submitted by the learned Standing Counsel that the Special Task Force is making necessary enquiry in the matter.

Having considered the statement made at Bar and having looked into the office order dated 29.8.2018, we leave it for appropriate disposal by directing the Senior Superintendent of Police (STF), Lucknow to ensure expeditious enquiry/investigation in the matter and to arrive at a logical consequence. The entire enquiry should be completed as far as possible within a period of six months from today.

The writ petition stands disposed of."

17. This Court was further informed that when the enquiry was not completed pursuant to the above quoted order, a P.I.L. No.1404 of 2019, Naresh Kumar Agarwal Vs. State of U.P. & Others was filed, wherein order dated 18.10.2019 was passed, which is quoted as under:-

"Pursuant to an order dated 5.12.2018 passed in Public Interest Litigation No. 4839 of 2018 (The Sahkari Sasta Galla Vikreta Union, Tehsil Sardhana, Meerut v. State of U.P. & others) an enquiry has been instituted but it has not been taken to its logical end. The present PIL has been filed with the grievance that in spite of the order of the Division Bench dated 5.12.2018 no further progress has been made in the said enquiry.

On 16.9.2019 learned counsel for the State was granted time to seek instructions regarding progress of the enquiry. Sri A.K. Goyal, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel has received the instructions from S.T.F. Headquarter, Lucknow. We have perused the same and it is taken on record.

In the aforementioned instructions it is recorded that in respect of the food scam 458 cases have been registered and the matter has been transferred from Inspector General, S.T.F., who was earlier appointed as Nodal Officer, to the Inspector General, Cyber Crime.

List this case after six months before the appropriate Bench. By the next date, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel shall file progress report of the next six months.

Sri P.K. Srivastava, learned Advocate has filed his memo of appearance on behalf of Union of India. It is also taken on record."

18. For the discussion made hereinabove, I do not find any merit in the claim of the petition. Moreover, in view of the facts as highlighted by learned Standing Counsel that the E-POS machine scam is State wide and is spread over in as many as 44 districts of the State and is being investigated by the I.G., Cyber Crime, I am not further inclined to exercise powers of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

19. At this stage, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that interim protection was granted to the petitioner in vide order dated 16.11.2019 passed in Writ C No.37214 of 2019, M/s Sarfaraj Vs. State of U.P. and 2 Others by pointing out that till next date of listing no further allotment shall be done by the competent authority.

20. In the facts and circumstances of the case as discussed above, I am not inclined to follow the aforesaid interim order particularly in view of the law settled by the Full Bench as well as Hon'ble Division Bench of this Court by which rights were finally decided. Moreover, this petition itself is being decided finally after full length hearing.

21. The petition is devoid of merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

(Para 10, 30 & 39)

Writ Petition dismissed. (E-7)

List of cases cited: -

1. Simbholi Sugars Ltd. Vs. State of U.P. and others 2010(3) ADJ 628 (LB)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Mithal, J. & Hon'ble Vipin Chandra Dixit, J.)

1. The petitioner J.H.V. Sugar Ltd. is a company incorporated and registered under the Companies Act, 1956 and is running a sugar mill at Gadaura, Tehsil Nichlaul, District Maharajganj.

2. The aforesaid sugar mill since 1999 has been allotted sugarcane area for the supply of the sugarcane for each crushing season. It has a crushing capacity of 4500 TCD.

3. The aforesaid sugar mill has been allotted sugarcane area for each of the crushing season from 2000-01 till 2014-15. In 2015-16 no allotment was made in its favour due to labour problem. Thereafter, sugarcane area was again allotted to it in the year 2016-17 and 2017-18. In the crushing season 2018-19 again the said mill had not functioned and as such no allotment was made.

4. In the present writ petition the petitioner has raised dispute regarding allotment of sugarcane area for the crushing season 2019-20.

5. It has filed the writ petition seeking a direction upon the respondent No.2 i.e. the Cane Commissioner, U.P. Lucknow to allot sugarcane area to its aforesaid mill for the year 2019-20 as per its crushing capacity.

6. Sri Shakti Swarup Nigam, Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Alok Kumar Srivastava, who appears for the petitioner has raised two points in support of the relief claimed in the petition.

7. The first is that the aforesaid sugar mill had been allotted sugarcane area in all the previous years from 2000-01 but for exception of two years and that there is no justification on part of the respondent No.2 to omit it from the allotment for the crushing season 2019-20. The said sugar mill has been singled out inasmuch as all other sugar mills in the State of U.P. have been allotted suitable appropriate areas.

8. Secondly, he submits that the respondent No.2 has acted in an arbitrary manner rather in a discriminatory manner in the allotment of the sugarcane area to the sugar mills. The mills that have defaulted in the payment of cane dues, have been allotted sugarcane areas whereas the petitioner's sugar mill has been left out probably on account of default in the payment of the cane dues. The outstanding dues of the sugarcane can be paid by the defaulting sugar mills in the next area in accordance with the government order dated 02.11.2017.

9. The petition has been opposed by the State of U.P. by filing counter affidavit for two reasons that the petitioner is a defaulter and that it had also failed to submit the statement of the quantity of the sugarcane required by it to the Cane Commissioner for the crushing season 2019-20.

10. Sri Ravindra Singh, learned counsel appearing for the respondents No. 6 to 12 has also opposed the writ petition on similar grounds by filing a separate counter affidavit. He further contends that the petitioner has an alternative remedy of filing an appeal to the State Government against the order of the Cane Commissioner reserving/assigning any area for the purposes of supply of sugarcane to a sugar mills.

11. The petitioner has filed rejoinder affidavits to the above counter affidavits contending that the appeal does not lie in the present case as there is no order of reservation/assignment of any area for the supply of the cane to the aforesaid sugar mill. The provision of appeal would only apply when there is such an order and a person is aggrieved by it.

12. It is further submitted that there was no occasion for the petitioner sugar mill to submit any statement as no notice as contemplated by Section 12 of the Act was given and reserved upon the petitioner.

13. In order to consider the aforesaid rival claims of the parties it would be relevant to mention that the supply and purchase of sugarcane for the use in sugar factories/mills is controlled and governed by the U.P. Sugarcane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Act, 1953.(hereinafter referred to as the Act). Under the scheme of the said Act the Cane Commissioner is required to reserve/assign area to every sugar mill for the purposes of supply of cane for the crushing seasons and that the cane growers of that area have to supply sugarcane to the sugar mills through the Cane Growers Cooperative Societies.

14. Chapter III of the aforesaid Act deals with the supply and purchase of the sugarcane. Sections 12 and 15 of the aforesaid Act are relevant for our purpose which are being reproduced herein-below:-

"12. Estimates of requirements. - (1) The Cane Commissioner, may for purposes of Section 15, by order, require the occupier of any factory to furnish in the manner and by the date specified in the order to the Cane Commissioner an estimate of the quantity of cane which will be required by the factory during such crushing seasons or crushing seasons as may be specified in the order.

(2) The Cane Commissioner shall examine every such estimate and shall publish the same with such modifications, if, any, as he may make.

(3) An estimate under sub-section (2) may be revised by an authority to be prescribed.

15. Declaration of reserved area and assigned area. - (1) Without prejudice to any order made under Clause (d) of sub-section (2) of Section 16 the Cane Commissioner may, after consulting the Factory and Cane-growers' Co-operative Society in the manner to be prescribed:

(a) reserve any area (hereinafter called the reserved area); and

(b) assign any area (hereinafter called an assigned area), for the purposes of the supply of cane to a factory in accordance with the provisions of Section 16 during one or more crushing seasons as may be specified and may likewise at any time cancel such order or alter the boundaries of an area so reserved or assigned.

(2) Where any area has been declared as reserved area for a factory, the occupier of such factory shall, if so directed by the Cane Commissioner, purchase all the cane grown in that area, which is offered for sale to the factory.

(3) Where any area has been declared as assigned area for a factory, the occupier of such factory shall purchase such quantity of cane grown in that area and offered for sale to the factory as may be determined by the Cane Commissioner.

(4) An appeal shall lie to the State Government against the order of the Cane Commissioner passed under sub-section (1)."

15. Section 12 of the Act obliges every sugar mill to furnish by specified date the estimate of the quantity of the sugarcane required by it during the crushing seasons on the asking of the Cane Commissioner.

16. The Cane Commissioner after necessary examination of the estimates finalise it and publishes it whereupon the areas are assigned to the sugar mills under Section 15 of the Act.

17. According to the Section 15 of the Act where any area is reserved or assigned to any sugar mill the said mill is required to purchase all the sugarcane grown in that area and i.e. offered for sale to it.

18. There is no dispute to the fact that the Cane Commissioner for the crushing season 2019-20 after requiring all the sugar mills to submit their estimates of the quantity of the sugarcane required had passed an order of reservation/assignment of the sugarcane areas to each of the sugar mill except for the petitioner sugar mill. Accordingly, the petitioner sugar mill has been left out from the allotment of the sugarcane area for the crushing season 2019-20.

19. The petitioner submits that the Cane Commissioner had not required it to furnish any statement as no notice in this regard was served upon it.

20. The respondents have brought on record the copy of the office order dated 13.08.2019 issued by the Cane Commissioner U.P. under Section 12(1) of the Act requiring all the sugar mills to supply their estimates of quantity for the crushing season 2019-20.

21. It is stated the aforesaid order was sent to each of the sugar mills through email and all of them submitted their estimates except the petitioner. The Cane Commissioner after examining the estimates of each one of them finalised the areas. No area could be reserved or assigned to the petitioner as it failed to submit any estimate.

22. Sri Nigam, has made an effort to submit that no such email was received by the petitioner sugar mill and that a notice for the supply of the estimates was issued to some of the sugar mills otherwise than by email but the petitioner was left out.

23. There is no specific mode provided under the Act or the Rules in which an order would be served upon the occupiers of the sugar mill to furnish their estimates of the quantity of sugarcane required for the crushing seasons.

24. In the absence of any specific mode of service of the order contemplated under Section 12 of the Act, the service of the same by email cannot be held to be illegal. It is one of the fastest mode of service in the present days which is acquiring all round acceptability.

25. The respondents in the counter affidavit have clearly stated that the aforesaid order requiring estimate from the sugar mills was sent through email to all the sugar mills requiring them to submit their estimates in the required form by 20th August, 2019.

26. All the sugar mills submitted their estimates except the petitioner.

27. The mere denial of the service of such an email by the petitioner does not inspire confidence when similar emails were duly served upon the other sugar mills.

28. The petitioner had not run the sugar mill in the last crushing season 2018-19.

29. It was therefore, but natural to presume that the petitioner was still not ready to run it until and unless there was any specific information that it contemplates to run the mill in the present crushing seasons.

30. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, as the petitioner failed to submit its estimate of requirement of the quantity of sugarcane needed for the crushing season 2019-20, the Cane Commissioner committed no error or illegality in not reserving/assigning any area for the supply of sugarcane to it.

31. This apart the other reason which has come on record for not allotting any area to the petitioner sugar mill is non-clearance of the sugarcane dues of the past years.

32. In this regard Rule 22 of the Rules framed under the Act is relevant which provides that in reserving or assigning the area to any sugar mill or determining the quantity of cane to be purchased by any mill, the cane Commissioner shall take into consideration apart from the other things, the arrangements made by the factory in previous years for the payment of not only cess and commission but also the cane price.

33. The relevant part of the aforesaid Rule reads as under:-

"In reserving an area for or assigning an area to a factory or determining the quantity of cane to be purchased from an area by a factory, under Section 15, the Cane Commissioner may take into consideration-

(a) the distance of the area from the factory,

(b) facilities for transport of cane from the area,

(c) the quantity of cane supplied from the area to the factory in previous year,

(d) previous reservation and assignment orders,

(e) the quantity of cane to be crushed in facotry,

(f) the arrangements made by the factory in previous years for payment of cess, cane price and commission,

(g) the views of the Cane-growers' Co-operative Society of the area,

(h) efforts made by the factory in developing in reserved or assigned area."

34. In view of the aforesaid Rule the arrangement made by the petitioner for the payment of cane price in the past years is a material and relevant consideration for the allotment of sugarcane area to it.

35. Learned counsel for the petitioner does not dispute that the petitioner had not cleared the complete dues of the cane price of the last year or of some previous years.

36. In Simbholi Sugars Ltd. Vs. State of U.P. and others 2010(3) ADJ 628 (LB) it has been observed that it shall be obligatory on part of the Cane Commissioner and the government not to allot or reserve or assign any new purchase centre and also to continue with the old one of any sugar mills against the whom cane price are outstanding.

37. The argument that the petitioner has been discriminated as some of the defaulting sugar mills have been allotted sugar canes areas is of no substance. First, the petitioner cannot claim equality with any illegality. Secondly, petitioner is not aggrieved by the allotment of area to such other sugar mills and has not put any challenge to any such illegal allotment.

38. The petitioner is not entitle to any benefit of the government order dated 02.11.2017 inasmuch as it relates only to the clearance of the dues of the last crushing season.

39. In addition to the above, Section 15(4) of the Act clearly provides that an appeal shall lie to the State Government against the order of the Cane Commissioner passed under Sub-Section (1) of Section 15 of the Act.

40. Sub-Section (1) of Section 15 of the Act pertains to the order of the Cane Commissioner reserving any area/assigning any area for the purpose of supply of cane to a factory during a particular crushing season. Non-reservation of an area for any reason amounts to implied refusal of allotment to the sugar mill and as such the order of allotment of sugarcane area to other sugar mills leaving aside the petitioner sugar mill is an order which would fall in the same category and would be appealable under Section 15(4) of the Act but the petitioner chose not avail the said remedy.

41. In view of the totality of the facts and circumstances of the case, we do not feel incline or deem it necessary to exercise our discretionary jurisdiction in the matter.

42. The writ petition is accordingly dismissed with no order as to costs.

A. U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965- section 65- Reserve Bank of India- cancelled the license of bank-and directed the Registrar of Cooperative Societies to wind up the bank and appoint a liquidator-Registrar have power to suo moto initiate inquiry or upon the application of 1/3 of the total members of the society-Inquiry not bad.

Held, A careful reading of Section 65 of the Act provides that Registrar may, of his own accord, himself or by a person authorised by him by order in writing, hold an inquiry into the constitution, working and financial condition of a co-operative society. Thus, Sub-Section (1) of Section 65 is crystal clear as far as the powers of Registrar are concerned for suo moto initiating inquiry by himself or by a person authorised by him, as in the present case the Assistant Commissioner/Assistant Registrar, who has been delegated powers of the Registrar, proceeded to initiate inquiry under Section 65 of the Act. 2. Vishnu Kumar Jha Vs. Reserve Bank of India and others, Public Interest Litigation (PIL) No. 48181 of 2017

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri H.R. Misra, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri K.M. Misra, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondent nos. 1 to 5.

2. This writ petition has been filed assailing the order dated 29.08.2018 passed by the respondent no. 5 directing inquiry under Section 65 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act').

3. Facts, in brief, as narrated in the writ petition, are that there is one Brahmawarta Commercial Cooperative Bank Limited (hereinafter referred to as the "bank') having its Head Office at 90, M.I.G. Ratan Lal Nagar, Kanpur Nagar. The aforesaid bank has been registered under the provisions of the Act and was granted banking license by the Reserve Bank of India under the provisions of Banking Regulations Act, 1949. The bank in question is a Primary Urban Cooperative Bank having been insured under the provisions of the Deposit Insurance Corporation Act, 1961.

4. According to the petitioner there are forty thousand individuals as members of the bank. By order dated 26.06.2018, relying upon the inspection report dated 31.03.2014, the Reserve Bank of India cancelled the license of the bank in question. On 26.06.2018, the Executive Director of the Reserve Bank of India by exercising powers under Section 22 read with Section 56 of the Banking Regulations Act, required the Registrar of Cooperative Societies U.P. to wind up the affairs of the bank in terms of Section 90-B (II) of the Act read with Section 13-D of the Deposit Insurance and Credit Guarantee Corporation Act, 1961 and further appoint a Liquidator.

5. Simultaneously, the General Manager of the Reserve Bank of India referring to the letter of the Executive Director on 28.06.2018 directed the respondent no. 2 to appoint Official Liquidator in the bank under Section 90-B (II) of the Act. Against the orders of the Executive Director of the Reserve Bank of India, the bank preferred statutory appeal before the Central Government under Section 22 (5) of the Banking Regulations Act. On 03.07.2018 the respondent no. 3 directed the respondent no. 4 to ensure immediate action in regard to appointment of Official Liquidator in the bank in question. Pursuant thereto one Rakesh Kumar, A.D.C.O. Kanpur Nagar, was appointed as the Official Liquidator of the bank. It appears that the Official Liquidator, so appointed, proceeded to issue an office memorandum dated 10.07.2018, which was challenged before this Court in Writ Petition No. 17873 of 2018. On 27.09.2018. A co-ordinate Bench of this Court quashed the order dated 10.07.2018 passed by the Official Liquidator and held that the employees would be deemed to be continuing in service without any break with all consequential benefits. Thereafter, the respondent no. 2 on 17.10.2018 appointed one Raj Kumar Mishra, Regional Assistant Commissioner/Assistant Registrar, Cooperative, U.P. Kanpur Region, Kanpur as Official Liquidator.

6. It was after the appointment of Sri Mishra that the respondent no. 5 by the order impugned dated 29.08.2018 had directed for inquiry under the provisions of Section 65 of the Act constituting a three member committee.

7. Sri H.R. Misra, learned Senior Counsel, appearing on behalf of the petitioner, submitted that the inquiry contemplated under Section 65 of the Act can be held only on application of a society or upon an application signed by not less than 1/3 of the total members of the society, or majority of the members of the Committee of Management of the society, as in the present case the bank is under liquidation and no application has been moved signed by1/3 of the total members of the society nor majority of members of the Committee of Management have come up for such inquiry, as such, the order passed by the respondent no. 5 initiating the inquiry is against the provisions of Sub-Section 2 of Section 65 of the Act.

8. He further contended that the Assistant Commissioner/Assistant Registrar, Cooperative Societies, Kanpur Region, Kanpur is admittedly the Official Liquidator, then in such a view of the matter the order dated 29.08.2018 is wholly illegal and without jurisdiction and no inquiry can be initiated under Section 65 of the Act. Apart from these two contentions no other point was pressed by learned counsel for the petitioner. He further placed reliance upon a decision of co-ordinate Bench of this Court passed in Writ Petition No. 37566 of 2019 (Hari Om Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and others) where a solitary member of the society had filed petition for direction for initiating inquiry and this Court declined to interfere in the said case.

9. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel submitted that there is no bar under the Act that the Registrar cannot suo moto himself initiate the inquiry under Section 65 of the Act and also in a case where a society is under liquidation. He further placed before the Court a decision of a coordinate Bench of this Court passed in Public Interest Litigation (PIL) No. 48181 of 2017 (Vishnu Kumar Jha Vs. Reserve Bank of India and others) in which similar prayer was made for inquiry against the bank in question, and the Court declined to entertain the petition and directed that the petitioner may approach the Registrar, Cooperative Societies, for holding an inquiry in respect of the financial irregularities. The said order dated 13.10.2017 is extracted here as under;

"The only prayer made in the writ petition reads thus:

"I. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondent no. 1 to set up an investigating sleuth and conduct through and proper enquiry of financial embezzlement and corruption, being done by the respondent no. 5, in the garb of alleged ban imposed by the respondent no. 1- Brahmwart Commercial Cooperative Bank Ltd. having its registered Office at Ratan Lal Nagar, Kanpur Nagar."

We are not inclined to entertain this writ petition for such a prayer since there are several remedies available under the provisions of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 for redressal of his grievance including under Section 65. Under this provision, it is always open to the petitioner to approach the Registrar, Cooperative Societies, for holding an inquiry in respect of financial irregularities. Keeping that remedy open, the petition is disposed of."

10. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

11. Before proceeding to appreciate the respective arguments it would be appropriate to have a glance of Section 65 of the Act, which is reproduced below;

"65. Inquiry by Registrar. - (1) The Registrar may, of his own accord, himself or by a person authorised by him by order in writing, hold an inquiry into the constitution, working and financial condition of a co-operative society.

(2) An inquiry of the nature referred to in sub-section (1) shall be held by the Registrar or by a person authorised by him in writing in this behalf on the application of-

(a) a co-operative society to which the society concerned is affiliated;

(b) not less than one-third of the total members of the society;

(c) a majority of the members of the committee of management of the society.

(3) The Registrar, or the person authorised by him under sub-section (1) shall for the purposes of any inquiry under this section, have the following powers, namely -

(a) he shall, at all times, have access to the books, accounts, documents, securities, cash and other properties belonging to or in the custody of the society and may summon any person in possession of, or responsible for the custody of any such books, accounts, documents, securities, cash or other properties, to produce the same at any place at the headquarters of the society or any branch thereof;

(b) he may summon any person who, he has reason to believe has knowledge of any affairs of the society to appear before him at any place at the headquarters of the society or any branch thereof and may examine such person on oath;

(c) he may, notwithstanding any rule or bye-law specifying the period of notice for a general meeting of the society required the officers of the society to call a general meeting at such time and place at the headquarters of the society or any branch thereof and to determine such matters as may be directed by him and where the officers of the society refuse or fail to call such a meeting he shall have power to call it himself; and

(d) he may in the manner and for the purpose mentioned in clause (c) requires to be called of himself call a meeting of the committee of management.

(4) Any meeting called under clause (c) or clause (d) of sub-section (3) shall have the powers of the general meeting or meeting of the committee of management, as the case may be, under the bye-laws of the society and its proceeding shall be regulated by such bye-laws.

(5) When an inquiry is made under this section, the Registrar shall communicate the result of the inquiry to the society and, in the case of inquiry on an application under clause (a) of sub-section (2), also to the applicant co-operative society."

12. A careful reading of Section 65 of the Act provides that Registrar may, of his own accord, himself or by a person authorised by him by order in writing, hold an inquiry into the constitution, working and financial condition of a co-operative society. Thus, Sub-Section (1) of Section 65 is crystal clear as far as the powers of Registrar are concerned for suo moto initiating inquiry by himself or by a person authorised by him, as in the present case the Assistant Commissioner/Assistant Registrar, who has been delegated powers of the Registrar, proceeded to initiate inquiry under Section 65 of the Act.

13. Sub-Section (2) of Section 65 of the Act deals with a situation where any society which is affiliated to the society in question approaches with an application to the Registrar or where 1/3 of the total members of the society or majority of the members of the Committee of Management approach the Registrar for initiating inquiry, then the Registrar may initiate inquiry as provided under Sub-Section (1) of Section 65 of the Act. Thus, from the conjoint reading of the Sub-Sections 1 and 2 of Section 65, it is clear that both sub-sections operate independently and Registrar under Sub-Section 1 has ample power to either himself order for an inquiry or by any person authorised by him order holding an inquiry into the constitution, working and financial condition of cooperative society. Thus, there is no bar that only on application by a society or 1/3 of the total members of the society or majority of members of Committee of Management inquiry can be initiated into the constitution, working or financial condition of a society.

14. Rather, Sub-Section 2 has been provided under Section 65 of the Act so as to safeguard in those cases where Registrar or his subordinate failed to exercise the powers, so conferred on them, then on an application by the society or 1/3 members of the society or majority of members of the Committee of Management an inquiry can be held under Section 65.

15. The argument raised by Sri Misra, learned Senior Counsel, cannot be accepted to the extent that only on an application of 1/3 members of the society or majority of the members of the Committee of Management, Registrar can exercise power of inquiry under Section 65 of the Act. The Act in noway bridles the powers of Registrar suo moto exercising power of inquiry into the constitution, working and financial condition of a cooperative society.

16. The second argument of the learned Senior Counsel in regard to the bank in liquidation and the Assistant Commissioner/Assistant Registrar holding the charge of Official Liquidator, hence, Registrar cannot order for inquiry is also not founded on any cogent reasons, as the respondent no. 5, in the present case, had constituted a three member committee for holding inquiry under Section 65 of the Act. Further, Section 72 of the Act contemplates winding up of a cooperative society if the Registrar after an inquiry as has been held under Section 65 or upon inspection made under Section 66, or on receipt of an application made by not less than 3/4 members of the cooperative society is of the opinion that the society ought to be wind up may pass an order for winding up, meaning thereby that the conditions precedent to the winding up are that either an inquiry has been held under Section 65 or an inspection has been made under Section 66 or an application has been made by not less than 3/4 of the members of the society that society be wound up.

17. As we have seen that the license of the bank in question was cancelled by the order of the Reserve Bank of India and further on its directions the Registrar had appointed Official Liquidator for winding up, thus, the order passed by the respondent no. 5 directing for inquiry under Section 65 of the Act cannot be faulted on either of the grounds, as the Reserve Bank of India had already formed the opinion that the functioning of the bank was not proper and after the Reserve Bank of India was satisfied not to allow bank to carry on banking business any further as it would be detrimental to the interest of its present and future depositors, cancelled the license, which was granted to it.

18. It is very strange to note that the petitioner before this Court is Secretary/General Manager of the bank, which is under liquidation, who is resisting the inquiry under Section 65 of the Act, as the Reserve Bank of India had taken this drastic step to save the money of the depositors, which in the wisdom of the Reserve Bank of India not much has been left to pay its present and future depositors put a safeguard by cancelling the license, thus, the inquiry directed by the respondent no. 5 cannot be faulted.

19. From the perusal of the writ petition, we find that petitioner has failed to disclose any reason as to why he is opposing the inquiry, so initiated, under Section 65 of the Act, as he is the Secretary/General Manager of the bank and the inquiry, so conducted, would only bring to surface the irregularities committed in working and financial condition of the society by the persons concerned, who could be brought to justice.

20. We fail to understand why this petition on behest of the petitioner has been filed to stall the inquiry, so initiated, by respondent no. 5 in a bank which is under liquidation, as the same would be beneficial to the depositors and their money lying in the bank.

21. In view of the above, we are not inclined to interfere with the order impugned and writ petition is dismissed, accordingly.

A. Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 - Section 66 – Inquiry into irregular allotment of abadi sites - U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act. - Section 49 – Bar to civil courts jurisdiction - Grounds for cancellation of allotment - petitioner is in possession over the land, which was subject matter of the allotment as his Naad, Charan and Khunta etc. exists, thereon - land in dispute - recorded as naveen parti – Neither any title nor any such claim raised by petitioner during consolidation operation - Any claim of title is now clearly barred by Section 49 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act - the land in occupation of an unauthorized occupation is vacant for the purposes of an allotment by the Gaon Sabha. (Para 3, 11 & 12)

It is a house existing on the date of vesting, which is settled that the occupier along with the land appurtenant thereto - The extent of the term "land appurtenant" used in the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act has been clearly spelt out by the Apex Court in the decision of Maharaj Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, 1977 SCR (1)1072, as an area of 5 yards , surrounding a building - held - no relevant pleadings in the application for cancellation of the lease. Neither, the distance of land subject matter of, allotment from the house of the petitioner was spelt out therein. (Para 8 & 9)

Held: - The revisional Court has rightly dismissed the revision of the petitioner holding that he is not an aggrieved person and therefore, not competent to maintain the application for cancellation. (Para 13)

Writ Petition dismissed. (E-7)

List of cases cited: -

1. Maharaj Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, 1977 SCR (1)1072

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anjani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners, Shri Manoj Kumar Yadav for the Gaon Sabha and Shri Rajendra Prasad Yadav for the caveator respondent nos.3 and 4 as also learned Standing counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The petition arises out of proceedings under Section 66 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 for cancellation of allotment of an abadi site made in favour of the respondent nos.3 and 4.

3. The proceedings were initiated and the allotment was sought to be cancelled on the ground that the petitioner is in possession over the land, which was subject matter of the allotment as his Naad, Charan and Khunta etc. exists, thereon.

4. The Upper Collector (Finance & Revenue), Jaunpur vide order dated 15.10.2018 dismissed the application finding that the land in question of plot no.520 having total area of 0.010 hectare was recorded as naveen parti and that 0.081 hectares of this land was vacant, on this plot. Consequently 0.010 hectare each, had been allotted to the respondents. It was also found that the allotment was made in accordance with law. It was additionally recorded that earlier proceedings for cancellation of the same allotment had already been dismissed vide order dated 19.09.2018.

5. The order aforesaid dated 15.10.2018 has been affirmed by the Commissioner, vide order dated 26.09.2019.

6. The contention of counsel for the petitioner assailing the impugned orders is that the house of the petitioner has been in existence for a very long time. The land appurtenant thereto is being used as a sahan and therefore, the petitioner had installed Naad, Charan and Khunta etc. The land therefore, was not vacant and could not have been subject matter of any allotment.

7. In the context of the argument raised, I have carefully examined the application filed by the petitioner for cancellation of the allotment. In this application, nothing of consequence has been pleaded.

8. It is not the case of the petitioner that his house has been existing on the spot from before the date of vesting. It is only a house existing on the date of vesting, which is settled that the occupier along with the land appurtenant thereto. The extent of the term "land appurtenant" used in the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act has been clearly spelt out by the Apex Court in the decision of Maharaj Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, 1977 SCR (1)1072, as an area of 5 years , surrounding a building.

9. In the context of the law referred to above, this Court is constrained to hold that no relevant pleadings were incorporated in the application for cancellation of the lease. Neither, the distance of land subject matter of, allotment from the house of the petitioner was spelt out therein.

10. It is now sought to be contended that the relevant details shall be brought on record by means of a supplementary affidavit and for this purpose, counsel has prayed for time.

11. However, in my considered opinion, the petitioner is not liable to be granted time to bring on record new facts which were never pleaded before the Courts below as the same would amount to carving out a new case. After, the two Courts below have rejected the application for cancellation of the allotments. Even otherwise, it is settled law that the land in occupation of an unauthorized occupation is vacant for the purposes of an allotment by the Gaon Sabha.

12. Admittedly, the land in dispute is recorded as naveen parti and therefore, the petitioner is not claiming any title to the same. Nor was any such claim raised during consolidation operations when the land in question came to be recorded as naveen parti. Any claim of title is now clearly barred by Section 49 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act.

13. In view of the foregoing discussion and since the revisional Court has rightly dismissed the revision of the petitioner holding that he is not an aggrieved person and therefore, not competent to maintain the application for cancellation, which finding this Court is in complete agreement with, this writ petition without merit and is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Prateek Kumar, advocate holding brief of Sri Arvind Srivastava-III, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri D.V. Jaiswal alongwith Sri G.C. Pant, learned counsel appearing for respondent nos.3 and 4.

2. The present petition has been filed seeking to assail the order dated 28.01.2008 passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer, Milak, Rampur/respondent no.2 and also the order dated 25.07.2008 passed by the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Moradabad Division, Moradabad/respondent no.1 in proceedings arising out of Section 34 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 19011.

3. In terms of the order dated 28.01.2008 passed by respondent no.2 the appeal filed by respondent no.4 was allowed and the matter was remitted back to the court below leaving it open to the parties to raise their contentions on merits of the case.

4. The revisional court has specifically recorded a finding that the mutation court had erred in rejecting the objections filed by the respondents without due consideration thereof and in view of the same the order passed in the appeal remitting the matter for consideration afresh did not suffer from any error. It has also been recorded that the order passed in the appeal being simply an order of remand for a fresh decision on merits after consideration of the maintainability of the objections leaving it open to the parties to place all contentions on the merits of the case there was no occasion for the revisional court to interfere in the matter.

5. Counsel for the petitioners has not been able to point out any material error or irregularity in the orders passed by the courts below so as warrant interference.

6. This apart the counsel for the petitioners has also not been able to give any satisfactory response to the preliminary objection raised by the counsel for the respondents that the proceedings under Section 34 of the Act, 1901 are summary in nature and ordinarily a writ petition against such orders is not entertained.

7. The question of the maintainability of a writ petition against orders passed in mutation proceedings has come up before this Court earlier and it has consistently been held that normally the High Court in exercise of its discretionary jurisdiction does not entertain writ petitions against such orders which arise out of summary proceedings.

8. In the case of Jaipal Vs. Board of Revenue, U.P., Allahabad & Ors.2 notice was taken of the consistent practice of this Court not to interfere with the orders made by the Board of Revenue in cases in which the only question at issue was whether the name of the petitioner should be entered in the record of rights. The observations made in the judgment in this regard are as follows:-

"3. ...It has however been the consistent practice of this Court not to interfere with orders made by the Board of Revenue in cases in which the only question at issue is whether the name of the petitioner should be entered in the record of rights.

That record is primarily maintained for revenue purposes and an entry therein has reference only to possession. Such an entry does not ordinarily confer upon the person in whose favour it is made any title to the property in question…"

9. The question with regard to the maintainability of a writ petition arising out of mutation proceedings fell for consideration in the case of Sri Lal Bachan Vs. Board of Revenue, U.P., Lucknow & Ors.3 and it was held that the High Court does not entertain a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India for the reason that mutation proceedings are only summarily drawn on the basis of possession and the parties have a right to get the title adjudicated by regular suit. The observations made in the judgment are extracted below:-

"17. This Court has consistently taken the view as is apparent from the decisions of this Court referred above that writ petition challenging the orders passed in mutation proceedings are not to be entertained. To my mind, apart from there being remedy of getting the title adjudicated in regular suit, there is one more reason for not entertaining such writ petition. The orders passed under Section 34 of the Act are only based on possession which do not determine the title of the parties. Even if this Court entertains the writ petition and decides the writ petition on merits, the orders passed in mutation proceedings will remain orders in summary proceedings and the orders passed in the proceedings will not finally determine the title of the parties.

18. In view of the above discussions, it is clear that although the writ petition arising out of the mutation proceedings cannot be held to be non-maintainable but this Court does not entertain the writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution due to reason that parties have right to get the title adjudicated by regular suit and the orders passed in mutation proceedings are summary in nature."

10. A similar view was reiterated in the case of Bindeshwari Vs. Board of Revenue & Ors.4, wherein it was stated as follows:-

"11. ...The present writ petition arising out of the summary proceeding of mutation under Section 34 of U.P. Land Revenue Act, cannot be entertained under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The mutation proceedings do not adjudicate the rights of the parties and orders passed in the mutation are always subject to adjudication by the competent court."

11. Taking note of the nature and scope of mutation proceedings which are summary in nature and also the fact that orders in such proceedings are passed on the basis of possession of the parties and no substantive rights are decided, this Court in Buddh Pal Singh Vs. State of U.P. & Ors.5, restated the principle that ordinarily a writ petition in respect of orders passed in mutation proceedings is not maintainable. It was observed as follows:-

"6. The law is well-settled that:

(i) mutation proceedings are summary in nature wherein title of the parties over the land involved is not decided;

(ii) mutation order or revenue entries are only for the fiscal purposes to enable the State to collect revenue from the person recorded;

(iii) they neither extinguish nor create title;

(iv) the order of mutation does not in any way effect the title of the parties over the land in dispute; and

(v) such orders or entries are not documents of title and are subject to decision of the competent court.

7. It is equally settled that the orders for mutation are passed on the basis of the possession of the parties and since no substantive rights of the parties are decided in mutation proceedings, ordinarily a writ petition is not maintainable in respect of orders passed in mutation proceedings unless found to be totally without jurisdiction or contrary to the title already decided by the competent court. The parties are always free to get their rights in respect of the disputed land adjudicated by competent court."

12. The proposition that mutation entries in revenue records do not create or extinguish title over land nor such entries have any presumptive value on title has been restated in a recent judgment in the case of Bhimabai Mahadeo Kambekar Vs. Arthur Import and Export Company & Ors.6 placing reliance upon earlier judgments in the case of Sawarni Vs. Inder Kaur7, Balwant Singh Vs. Daulat Singh8 and Narawamma Vs. State of Karnataka9. The observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"6. This Court has consistently held that mutation of a land in the revenue records does not create or extinguish the title over such land nor it has any presumptive value on the title. It only enables the person in whose favour mutation is ordered to pay the land revenue in question. (See Sawarni v. Inder Kaur, Balwant Singh v. Daulat Singh and Narasamma v. State of Karnataka)."

13. Reference may also be had to the judgment in Faqruddin Vs. Tajuddin10, wherein it was held that the revenue authorities cannot decide questions of title and that mutation takes place only for certain purposes. The observations made by the Supreme Court in the said order are as follows:-

"45. Revenue authorities of the State are concerned with revenue. Mutation takes place only for certain purposes. The statutory rules must be held to be operating in a limited sense... It is well-settled that an entry in the revenue records is not a document of title. Revenue authorities cannot decide a question of title."

14. A similar observation was made in Narain Prasad Aggarwal Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh11, wherein it was held as follows:-

"19. Record-of-right is not a document of title. Entries made therein in terms of Section 35 of the Evidence Act although are admissible as a relevant piece of evidence and although the same may also carry a presumption of correctness, but it is beyond any doubt or dispute that such a presumption is rebuttable…"

15. In Union of India and others Vs. Vasavi Cooperative Housing Society Limited & Ors.12, the same legal position has again been stated in the following terms:-

"21. This Court in several judgments has held that the revenue records do not confer title. In Corpn. of the City of Bangalore v. M. Papaiah [(1989) 3 SCC 612] this Court held that: (SCC p. 615, para 5)

"5. ...It is firmly established that the revenue records are not documents of title, and the question of interpretation of a document not being a document of title is not a question of law."

In Guru Amarjit Singh v. Rattan Chand [(1993) 4 SCC 349] this Court has held that: (SCC p. 352, para 2)

"2. ...that entries in the Jamabandi are not proof of title."

In State of H.P. v. Keshav Ram [(1996) 11 SCC 257] this Court held that: (SCC p. 259, para 5)

"5. ...an entry in the revenue papers by no stretch of imagination can form the basis for declaration of title in favour of the plaintiffs."

16. The settled legal position that entries in revenue records do not confer any title has been considered and discussed in a recent judgment of this Court in Harish Chandra Vs. Union of India & Ors.13.

17. In view of the foregoing discussion, it may be restated that ordinarily orders passed by mutation courts are not to be interfered in writ jurisdiction as they are in summary proceedings, and as such subject to a regular suit.

18. The mutation proceedings being of a summary nature drawn on the basis of possession do not decide any question of title and the orders passed in such proceedings do not come in the way of a person in getting his rights adjudicated in a regular suit. In view thereof this Court has consistently held that such petitions are not to be entertained in exercise of powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

19. The writ petition thus fails and is accordingly dismissed.
