(Delivered by Hon'ble Jayant Banerji, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ajay Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the revisionist and Shri Prabodh Gaur, learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondents.

2. This revision has been filed by the defendant challenging the order dated 28.7.2012 passed by the Additional District Judge, Court No. 10, Varanasi in Civil Suit No. 1007 of 2008 (Administrators of Specified Undertaking of Unit Trust of India and another Vs. Om Prakash Lakhina and others) whereby the issue no. 1 which was to the effect whether the suit being barred by limitation is liable to be rejected under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC, was answered in the negative.

3. The aforesaid original suit was filed by the plaintiff-respondent seeking relief, inter alia, of a direction to the defendants to pay to the plaintiffs jointly and severally an amount of Rs. 43,25,346/- as particularly set out in Exhibit 'D' at the foot of the plaint along with interest at the rate of 12 percent per annum from 11.11.2015 till the date of filing of the suit.

4. It is alleged in the suit that fraud had been perpetrated by the other defendants in collusion with the defendant-revisionist who was then the Branch Manager of Unit Trust of India, Varanasi and large sums of money had been deposited by issuance of at par cheques in the name of the defendant no. 3 which were credited to the bank accounts of defendant no. 3. The amounts were stated to have been credited on 23.10.2000 and thereafter. It is stated that the entries of the cheques were not made in the utilization register at the time of the issuance of cheques. Other allegations are made against all the defendants. It is stated that a four member team of UTI, New Delhi, which conducted preliminary verification/ reconciliation of at par account in May 2002, collected the hard copy of paid data from 1 June 2000 to 30 June 2001 from defendant no. 1 which contained the signature of the defendant no. 1 on every page. It is stated that in the reconciliation statement made on 30.6.2001, the defendant no. 1 had deliberately and intentionally done wrong calculation by putting some fictitious figures to arrive at the bank figure. Misappropriation of an amount of Rs. 3.36 crores is alleged. It is stated in paragraph no. 38 that the defendant no. 1 had also prepared the false reconciliation statement, misrepresented fact and committed criminal omission of vital facts and information due to which the UTI had initiated criminal proceedings against the defendant nos. 1 and 2. In paragraph no. 39 of the plaint, it has been stated that an FIR dated 31.7.2002 had been filed against the defendants and that the defendant nos. 1 and 2 have been served with a charge-sheet. It is further stated that the CBI had arrested the defendant no. 1 on 24.7.2003 and he remained in police/judicial custody for a period of three months. It is further stated that on 30.11.2004, the Enquiry Officer had submitted his report which clearly implicated the defendant nos. 1 and 2 for defrauding the UTI of the aforesaid amount. The order of dismissal was passed against the defendant nos. 1 and 2 on 11.11.2005. In the appeal filed by the defendant no. 1, the Appellate Authority upheld the dismissal of the defendant no. 1 by means of an order dated 9.10.2006. It is stated in paragraph no. 40 that the plaintiff-respondents sent a legal notice dated 17.10.2007 demanding an amount of Rs. 37,09,400/- from the defendant no. 1 and 2 but they failed to return the said amount. In paragraph no. 50 of the plaint it has been stated that the cause of action in respect of the suit accrued on the final dismissal order dated 11.11.2005 being passed against the defendant nos. 1 and 2 and when they failed to respond to the demand notice dated 17.10.2007 and hence the present suit is not barred by the law of limitation.

5. By means of the impugned order, the court below observed that in paragraph no. 50 of the plaint the cause of action has been stated to be arisen for the first time on 11.11.2005 when the defendant nos. 1 and 2 were dismissed and they did not file any reply to the demand notice dated 17.10.2007 and that accordingly the suit was not barred by the Limitation Act, 1963. The court below observed that the defendants had argued that the cause of action actually arose on that very day when the defendant no.1 was dismissed from service and that date was 11.11.2005 and therefore, it was necessary in view of section 3 of the Limitation Act, 1963 for the suit to be lodged within a period of three years from 11.11.2005 which was not done by the plaintiff and the suit was lodged on 28.08.2008. The Court below further stated that no direct relationship of the dismissal of the defendant no.1 exists in respect of the matter in question, though after his dismissal on the basis of the departmental inquiry it came to knowledge that in the above matter, the defendant no.1 had connived in the embezzlement and in this regard he was sent a demand notice so that the embezzled amount can be recovered but in view of non-receipt of an appropriate reply to the aforesaid demand notice, the plaintiff Bank was constrained to institute the suit for recovering the amount which has been instituted within the prescribed limitation of three years under section 3 of the Limitation Act, 1963 and thus it is not proved that the suit was barred by limitation. Accordingly, issue no.1 was decided at the preliminary stage in the negative.

6. The contention of the learned counsel for the defendant-revisionist is that a bare perusal of the plaint reveals that the suit is barred by limitation. He contends that a four member team of UTI, New Delhi had conducted a preliminary verification/reconciliation of at par account in May 2002, as is mentioned in paragraph no. 15 of the plaint. Learned counsel further referred to the paragraph no. 39 of the plaint to contend that an FIR dated 31.7.2002 had been filed against the defendants and as per own statement of the plaintiff-respondent, the defendant no. 1 was arrested by the CBI on 24.7.2003 and the Inquiry Officer had submitted his report on 30.11.2004. Thus, the suit that was filed on 28.8.2008 was well beyond the limitation prescribed in view of the facts of the case. It is contended that the plaintiffs have wrongly mentioned in paragraph no. 50 of the plaint that the cause of action accrued on the final dismissal order dated 11.11.2005 being passed against the defendant-revisionist. This date, it is contended, has been purposely referred to in the plaint only to bring the suit within limitation.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist has referred to the impugned order and stated that the court below has misquoted the counsel for the defendant-revisionist that the cause of action actually arose when the defendant-revisionist was dismissed from service and that date was 11.11.2005. The learned counsel has referred to Ground No.(i) in the memorandum of revision in this regard. It has been further stated that the court below has misdirected itself in not referring to the contents of the application filed by the defendant-revisionist under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC and has referred to only two dates mentioned in paragraph no. 50 of the plaint but has wrongly ascertained the date when the cause of action arose. It is contended that even if it is assumed without admitting that the learned counsel for the revisionist had submitted that the cause of action arose when the revisionist was dismissed on 11.11.2005, the court below was bound, in view of the provisions of Section 3 of the Limitation Act, to independently assess the averments in the plaint for purpose of ascertaining that the suit was within limitation.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionist, in support of his contentions, has referred to the judgements of the Supreme Court in the case of Mahabir Kishore and others Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh reported in MANU/SC/0051/1990, Kamlesh Babu and others Vs. Lajpat Rai Sharma and others reported in 2008 (3) AWC 2903 (SC), Raghwendra Saran Singh VS. Ram Prashnna Singh reported in MANU/SC/0367/2019 and the judgement of this Court in the matter of Satya Prakash Sharma Vs. Arif Khan and others reported in MANU/UP/3074/2009. Learned counsel has referred to the provisions of Section 17 of the Limitation Act, 1963 and Section 72 of the Indian Contract Act in support of his contention. It is contended that the matter for which the suit was filed pertains to some mistake allegedly committed by the defendant-revisionist and as such that would come within the provision of Section 17(1)(c) of the Limitation Act. It is stated that the fraud was discovered by the plaintiff and thereafter they lodged an FIR on 31.7.2002 and charge-sheet was filed by the Enquiry Officer on 24.6.2003.

9. Countering the aforesaid submissions made by the learned counsel for the defendant-revisionist, Shri Prabodh Gaur, learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondents stated that the issue no. 1 framed by the court below pursuant to an application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC was not an issue that could be considered on the basis of a reading of the plaint alone. Learned counsel has contended that the matter would come under the provisions of Section 17(1)(a) of the Limitation Act. He contends that the point of time from which period of limitation begins to run is a question of fact which can be decided after evidence. He has referred to paragraph nos. 34 and 35 of the plaint to state that the defendants had admitted their guilt and liability before the authority concerned. He states that the process of generating cheques that were encashed was a complex process and therefore fraud cannot be detected easily. It is contended that the plaintiff is not natural person who can derive the knowledge instantly. It could only rely on due process which, in the facts and circumstances of the case, is the disciplinary enquiry which concluded by imposing the penalty of dismissal on the defendant-respondent on 11.11.2005. It is stated that the fraud was discovered after affording full opportunity given to the defendants during the enquiry proceedings, on conclusion of which it can be said that the discovery of fraud took place. Moreover, it is stated that the defendants will not suffer any prejudice in case the suit continues.

10. Learned counsel for the parties have uniformly submitted that Article 113 of the Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1963 would be applicable in the facts of the case.

Section 17 of the Limitation Act is as follows:

"17. Effect of fraud or mistake.-- (1) Where, in the case of any suit or application for which a period of limitation is prescribed by this Act,--

(a) the suit or application is based upon the fraud of the defendant or respondent or his agent; or

(b) the knowledge of the right or title on which a suit or application is founded is concealed by the fraud of any such person as aforesaid; or

(c) the suit or application is for relief from the consequences of a mistake; or

(d) where any document necessary to establish the right of the plaintiff or applicant has been fraudulently concealed from him, the period of limitation shall not begin to run until plaintiff or applicant has discovered the fraud or the mistake or could, with reasonable diligence, have discovered it; or in the case of a concealed document, until the plaintiff or the applicant first had the means of producing the concealed document or compelling its production:

Provided that nothing in this section shall enable any suit to be instituted or application to be made to recover or enforce any charge against, or set aside any transaction affecting, any property which--

(i) in the case of fraud, has been purchased for valuable consideration by a person who was not a party to the fraud and did not at the time of the purchase know, or have reason to believe, that any fraud had been committed, or

(ii) in the case of mistake, has been purchased for valuable consideration subsequently to the transaction in which the mistake was made, by a person who did not know, or have reason to believe, that the mistake had been made, or

(iii) in the case of a concealed document, has been purchased for valuable consideration by a person who was not a party to the concealment and, did not at the time of purchase know, or have reason to believe, that the document had been concealed.

(2) Where a judgment-debtor has, by fraud or force, prevented the execution of a decree or order within the period of limitation, the court may, on the application of the judgment-creditor made after the expiry of the said period extend the period for execution of the decree or order:

Provided that such application is made within one year from the date of the discovery of the fraud or the cessation of force, as the case may be."

11. A perusal of the entire plaint reveals that there is a guarded disclosure of dates pertaining to disciplinary proceedings initiated against the defendant-revisionist. In paragraph no. 17, it is stated that the Assistant Manager of UTI, Varanasi had stated during his examination after he had taken charge of at par account reconciliation of UTI, Varanasi from July 2001 onwards that he had noticed serious discrepancies. It is not stated that when did that examination of the Assistant Manager had taken place. In paragraph no.26 of the plaint, it is stated that in the first week of January 2002, it came to notice that several cheques were missing from the office. One Shri Kiran Vohra, the then Manager of UTI, Varanasi, during his visit to New Delhi in the last week of January 2002 and first week of February 2002, reported the matter of missing cheques to the Zonal Manager and Deputy Zonal Manager. On 25.2.2002 some important evidence was lost. In para 27 it is stated that the aforesaid facts conclusively establishes that the defendant no. 1 had deliberately concealed the loss of missing cheques from the zonal office.

12. In paragraph no. 35 of the plaint it has been stated that the defendant no. 2 had admitted his involvement in the fraudulent withdrawal and that due to heavy losses in the share market, he indulged in the fraudulent encashment of at par cheques. He is also alleged to have stated that the defendant no.1 the then Branch Manager was also involved in this matter. However, no date has been mentioned in the plaint that when the defendant no. 2 had admitted his involvement. In paragraph no. 37 it has been stated that the investigation revealed that the defendant no. 1 deliberately tampered the paid file, misplaced/destroyed the paid cheques and fund commitment register and produced bogus reconciliation statement before the statutory auditor and deliberately not provided the necessary records and papers up to June 2001 either to the auditors or to the officers who had taken over the charge of at par reconciliation after July 2001. Again in this paragraph, no dates have been mentioned and no specifics have been stated that when did the investigation conclude.

13. In paragraph no. 39 of the plaint it is alleged that an FIR dated 31.7.2002 has been filed against the defendants and that the plaintiffs had served a charge-sheets on the defendant no. 1 and 2. The defendant no. 1 was arrested by CBI on 24.7.2003. It is stated that on 30.11.2004 the Enquiry Officer submitted his report which clearly implicated the defendant nos. 1 and 2 for defrauding the UTI for the aforesaid amounts. It is not mentioned in this paragraph that when did the plaintiffs serve the charge-sheet on the defendant nos. 1 and 2.

14. However, from perusal of para 39, a fact that emerges is that the plaintiffs had discovered the alleged fraud which led to the lodging of an FIR dated 31.7.2002 against the defendants.

15. The period of limitation of the suit aforesaid which is based on the alleged fraud of the defendant would not begin to run until the plaintiff discovered the fraud or the mistake or could, with reasonable diligence, have discovered it. The lodging of the FIR on 31.7.2002 is an acknowledgment by the plaintiff of having discovered the fraud. In the Wharton's Law Lexicon (16th Edition), the word 'Discover' is defined as follows:

"Discover, means simply to find out, and applies to the discovery of an error in law and an error in fact. ....."

16. In the Concise Oxford English Dictionary (South Asia Edition, 12th Edition), the word 'Discover' has been defined as follows:

"discover- v. 1 find unexpectedly or during a search. become aware of. 2 be the first to find or observe (a place, substance, or scientific phenomenon)....."

17. A perusal of the plaint reveals that the plaintiffs had become aware or rather, they found out that the alleged fraud did take place prior to the lodging of the FIR dated 31.07.2002. There are exhaustive references in the plaint that the investigations were done at various levels into the alleged fraud, which led to lodging of the FIR. Therefore, the FIR dated 31.07.2002 had been filed against the defendants on discovery of the fraud. Moreover, in paragraph no.39 of the plaint, it has been mentioned that the defendant-revisionist was arrested by the CBI on 24.07.2003. It has further been stated in that paragraph that the Enquiry Officer had submitted his report on 30.11.2004. Therefore, in respect of the aforesaid suit, the time from which the period of limitation would begin to run is 31.07.2002 that is the date of the FIR.

18. Article 113 appears in Part X of the First Division of the Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1963 is as follows:

PART X-SUITS FOR WHICH THERE IS NO PRESCRIBED PERIOD

Description of Suit	Period of limitation	Time from which period begins to run
113. Any suit for which	Three years	When the right to sue accrues no period of limitation is provided elsewhere in this Schedule.

19. The time from which the period begins to run would be when the right to sue accrues and this period would have to be seen with reference to Section 17 of the Limitation Act, that is to say, for purpose of this case, the point of time when the fraud was discovered by the plaintiffs that led to the lodging of the FIR dated 31.7.2002. Therefore, 31.7.2002 would be the date on which the right to sue accrued to the plaintiffs.

20. The bar of limitation appears in Section 3 of the Limitation Act, 1963 provides that although limitation has not been set up as a defence, subject to the provisions of Sections 4 to 24 (inclusive), every suit instituted, appeal preferred and application made after the prescribed period shall be dismissed. Thus, the courts are enjoined to dismiss the suit if it is made after the prescribed period even though limitation is not set up as a defence. The court below has recorded a submission allegedly made by the learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondent that the cause of action in filing the suit would accrue on 11.11.2005. The learned counsel for the defendant-revisionist has emphatically stated that no such submission was made by the learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondents and has referred to Ground No.(i) made in the memorandum of revision and has contended that it was for the court below to have independently applied its mind with regard to the time from which the prescribed period of limitation would begin to run.

21. The contention of the learned counsel for the defendant-revisionist appears to be correct. When Section 3 of the Limitation Act itself provides for dismissal of suit instituted after the prescribed period although limitation has not been set up as a defence, the submission of the learned counsel for the defendant-revisionist before the court below, if at all made, would be, at the most, a submission made by a counsel on a point of law regarding the period of limitation, and the same would not be binding on the defendant-revisionist.

22. In the case of Panna Lal Jain Vs. Jain Bank of India Ltd. reported in AIR 1938 Lahore 368, the Court considered the case of appellant judgment debtor where his counsel had waived the objection regarding limitation. After considering the relevant provisions of the Limitation Act (as it then stood), while noticing the contention of the counsel for the respondent that the appellant's counsel having waived the objection as to the limitation and therefore, the appellant therein was estopped from raising the objection, the Court held that there is obviously no estoppel and counsel's admissions on a point of law are not binding.

23. The contention of the learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondents that the issue no. 1 framed by the court below was not an issue which could be considered on the basis of a reading of the plaint alone, is not correct. The starting point of limitation has to be found out by the Court itself as that is the mandate of Section 3 of the Limitation Act, and that entails careful perusal of the plaint given the fact that the matter was considered under Order 7 Rule 11(d) of CPC. The Supreme Court in the case of Manindra Land and Building Corporation Ltd. Vs. Bhutnath Banerjee & Ors. reported in AIR 1964 SC 1336 held as follows:

"(9) Section 3 of the Limitation Act enjoins a Court to dismiss any suit instituted, appeal preferred and application made, after the period of limitation prescribed therefor by Schedule I irrespective of the fact whether the opponent had set up the plea of limitation or not. It is the duty of the Court not to proceed with the application if it is made beyond the period of limitation prescribed. The Court had no choice and if in construing the necessary provision of the Limitation Act or in determining which provision of the Limitation Act applies, the subordinate Court comes to an erroneous decision, it is open to the Court in revision to interfere with that conclusion as that conclusion led the Court to assume or not to assume the jurisdiction to proceed with the determination of that matter. "

24. The erroneous decision of the court below on the issue of limitation has led it to assume jurisdiction which it does not have in view of the facts of the present case. Hence this court in exercise of its revisional powers can interfere in that conclusions as held by the Supreme Court in the case of Manindra (supra).

25. The judgement in the matter of Raghwendra Sharan Singh (supra) provides that a suit can be dismissed under the provisions of Order 7 Rule 11 of the CPC, if the same is barred by limitation and can be deducible from a bare reading of the plaint. As observed above, a bare reading of the plaint itself reveals that the plaintiff-respondents had discovered the commission of fraud by the defendant-revisionist prior to the lodging of the FIR dated 30.07.2002.

26. Of course, there may be instances where on a bare reading of the plaint it cannot be found out whether a suit, appeal, or application are liable to be dismissed and, a consideration of the entire pleadings and evidence may be required for that purpose. However, the present case is not such a case. Here the starting point of limitation is evident from a bare reading of the plaint.

27. Moreover, just because the defendant-revisionist has allegedly admitted his guilt and liability before the authorities concerned, without there being any reference in the plaint with regard to the date on which the guilt or liability was admitted by the defendant-revisionist, it cannot be said that the suit is within limitation. Reliance by the learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondents on the date of the imposition of the penalty of dismissal on the defendant-revisionist on 11.11.2005, as being the date on which the cause of action for the suit arose, is misplaced and is not consonance with the provisions of Section 17 of the Limitation Act as has been discussed hereinabove, particularly in view of the finding recorded above that the plaintiff-respondents had discovered the fraud prior to the lodging of the FIR dated 30.07.2002.

28. In view of the facts and circumstances stated hereinabove, the revision succeeds and is allowed. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 28.7.2012 passed by the court below is set aside and the issue no. 1 is decided in the affirmative. The plaint is, therefore, rejected. No order as to costs.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
DATED: LUCKNOW 14.01.2020

THE HON'BLE KARUNESH SINGH PAWAR, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 79 of 1997

Sita Ram @ Guni & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
J.N. Chaudhary, Amit Chaudhary

Counsel for the Respondent:
Govt. Advocate

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 366, 376 - Appeal against conviction.

The law is settled that on sole testimony of the prosecutrix, conviction can be based and there is no need for any corroborative material provided the testimony of the prosecutrix is worthy of credence. (para 55)

There are two places where the rape is alleged to have been committed. First the Kothri situated in the village of prosecutrix where she was kept for three days and was subjected to rape for all three days. Second is the house at Gonda where the prosecutrix was kept for 15 days in a room locked from outside. (para 59)
Here in this case, the statement of prosecutrix is highly improbable and inconsistent in view of the fact that while she was kept at Gonda for 15 days in a house inside one room which was locked from outside and accused persons only used to come in night, during day time she had ample opportunity to raise alarm and it appears quite improbable that inmates of the house which included several ladies and children did not hear her alarm for a period of 15 days. There is material improvement in the testimony of the prosecutrix from her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to Section 164 Cr.P.C. (para 56)

So far as the second place of occurrence i.e. house at Gonda where the prosecutrix is said to have been kept and raped for fifteen days, again no investigation regarding this place has been done. The medical examination of the prosexutrix does not corroborates the prosecution story. This lack on the part of Investigating Agency in not producing corroborative material and independent witnesses of fact who in their statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. (para 60)

Since the rape in this case could not be proved beyond reasonable doubt. (para 61)

Appeal is allowed. (E-2)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Amit Chaudhary, learned counsel for the appellants, Shri Shiv Nath Tilhari, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. During pendency of this appeal, the appellant no.1-Sita Ram had died therefore, in respect of appellant no.1, the appeal was abated vide order dated 04.04.2017.

3. This criminal appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 13.02.1997 passed in Session Trial No.196 of 1995 in Crime No.97 of 1994 whereby Special Judge, Unnao vide aforesaid judgment has convicted and sentenced each of the appellants under Sections 366, 376 IPC for ten years rigorous imprisonment in each sections. The sentences were directed to run concurrently.

4. In brief, prosecution case is that informant Shiv Shankar, brother of the prosecutrix gave a written report dated 14.3.1994 at Police Station Maurawan, District Unnao alleging that her sister Siya Dulari went to ease herself in the night of 25.2.1994 at around 9:30 p.m. then the appellants Sita Ram and Ramesh Yadav with an intent to sell her had taken her away which has been seen by Billeshwar, Shiv Pyare, and Rudrapal Singh of the village. He further stated that his father had already given an information regarding missing of his sister on 27.2.1994 at Police Station Maurawan. Lastly, it has been stated in the written report, that sister of the informant while going out from the house has taken away Rs.9000/-, golden ring and other jewellery with her. The tilak ceremony of the prosecutrix was fixed on 03.03.1994, and marriage was fixed on 14.03.1994. Upon a written report, Chik FIR was registered which is Exhibit Ka-9. The Investigating Officer took up the investigation and recorded the statements of the prosecution witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. A spot inspection was done, site plan was prepared after conducting the inspection, which is Exhibit Ka-6. On 15.03.1994 during investigation, appellant Ramesh Yadav was arrested and his statement was taken and on that basis appellant no.1 was arrested and the prosecutrix was recovered at 10:30 a.m. at Charbagh Railway Station. The prosecutrix was medically examined on 16.03.1994 by P.W.4. Thereafter, charge sheet was filed. The prosecution has produced five witnesses:- P.W.1 Shiv Shankar, is the informant and brother of the prosecutrix ; P.W.2 is the prosecutrix; P.W.3 Mahavir, is father of the prosecutrix ; P.W. 4 is Dr. Kusum Dubey who has medically examined the prosecutrix; and P.W. 5 is Pramod Kumar Tiwari, Investigating Officer.

5. The case was committed to the court of Sessions by the Court of Munsiff Magistrate, Unnao vide order dated 17.2.1995. Thereafter charges were framed against the accused persons and the same were read out and explained to the accused persons to which they pleaded not guilty.

6. After examining witnesses, statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. of appellants were taken in which their defence was of total denial, and of false implication due to enemity.

7. P.W.1 in his statement before the Court has stated that accused appellants Sita Ram and Ramesh Yadav were residents of his village. He further stated that accused persons with an intent to sell the prosecutrix had taken her away on 25.2.1994 when she at around 9:30 p.m. had gone outside to ease herself, at that time, her age was 15-16 years while the accused persons fled with her. A missing report was lodged by his father on 27.2.1994. On 13.3.1994 Billeshwar, Shiv Pyare and Rudra Pal Singh told him that they have seen the accused persons along with the prosecutrix and who have taken her away. He has proved the FIR as Exhibit Ka-1. On 15.03.1994, the accused appellant no.2 Ramesh Yadav was arrested by the police who told that accused Sita Ram and prosecutrix will go to Lucknow. Then appellant no. 2 along with police personnel, the informant and his Uncle Lallu Prasad, came to Charbagh Railway Station, Lucknow and there at Platform No.1, he found accused appellant no.1 Sitaram and Siya Dulari sitting. In the cross examination by the defence, he has stated that prosecutrix was studying in Class-V around 13-14 years back. He has denied the suggestion that when Siya Dulari, prosecutrix fled with the accused persons at that time her age was 22 years.

8. P.W.-2, the prosecutrix Siya Dulari in her statement has stated that at the time of occurrence, she was not married however, marriage was fixed. She has stated she was 15-16 years old. She further stated that 2½ years back when she went to ease herself in the night at around 9:30 p.m. then Sita Ram and Ramesh Yadav were hiding behind Jamun tree and while she was preparing to return they caught hold of her. Sita Ram caught her hands and hold her mouth, Ramesh Yadav hold her feet and when she tried to raise alarm Sita Ram threatened her with a country made pistol and said do not shout otherwise they will shoot her. Thereafter, she was locked in the kothri of tubewell. In the morning she was taken by the accused persons in the field of mustard and Rabi thereafter Ramesh Yadav went to his home and Sita Ram raped her twice. After sometime, Ramesh Yadav came and again raped her against her consent.

During day time, they kept her in the open mustard field and in the night they used to lock her in the kothri. This went for three days and she was subjected to rape 7-8 times in three days by both of the accused persons. Thereafter, on third day, Sita Ram and Ramesh took her to Lucknow on a cycle and when she used to cry she was shown pistol, therefore, she kept mum. From Lucknow, they took her to Gonda by bus and there in Satai ka purwa, she was locked in a room inside a house, which was locked from outside. They used to come in the night and raped her for 15 days continuously. On 14.03.1994, Ramesh Yadav returned home. On 15.03.1994, she came to Charbagh Railway Station, Lucknow. Sita Ram asked Ramesh Yadav to go to the village and try to find out the news in the village and told him to come at Charbagh Railway Station, Lucknow and he will wait. In the cross examination, she has stated that 13-14 years back she has passed out Class V. The alleged kothri of tubewell in which she was kept belongs to one of the villager which was empty. There was no window in the kothari only a door was there. It was situated at a distance of 10-12 fields away from the village. The accused persons remained with her in kothari for three days. All the three persons came to Lucknow on a cycle. She further stated that in the bus in which she was sitting few persons were there. However, 1-2 policemen were also there. She tried to raise alarm, because of accused persons she could not do so. Later on, she says that there were 15-16 persons in the bus. In the bus Ramesh Yadav and Sita Ram were armed with country made pistol which they were carrying in open. She was kept in Gonda in a house where there were ladies and children but her room was locked. She raised alarm which was not heard by anybody for a period of 15 days. She has denied suggestion that before the occurrence, she has written so many letters to Sita Ram which showed her affair with him. She has further denied the suggestion that she took with her Rs.9000/- cash, golden earring along with other jewellery. She has further denied the suggestion that she was 22 years of age at the time of incident. Suggestion that she on her own accord went away from her home has also been denied. She has also denied suggestion that she was having an affair with Sita Ram. Lastly, she has also denied that she got a beating by her parents because of her relation ship with Sita Ram.

9. P.W.3 Mahavir, father of the prosecutrix stated in his Examination-in-chief that on the date of occurrence, his daughter went away from house and did not returned. He tried to find out in his relatives but she could not be traced out. Regarding incident, he had given a missing report which has been shown to him and he has proved as Exhibit Ka-3. In the cross, he has stated that 13-14 years back his daughter used to study in class V. He has re-affirmed his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. given to the Investigating Officer that her daughter while going away, took Rs.9000/- cash, golden earing and other jewellery along with her. He has further stated that 10-12 years back kothari of tubewell had fallen down/caved in. Upon a suggestion that whether his daughter/prosecutrix ran away on her own accord, he stated that he could not tell this fact.

10. P.W.4 Dr. Kusum Dubey, who conducted medical examination of the prosecutrix has stated that there were no signs of external or internal injury on the person of the prosecutrix, hymen was old and torn. P.W. 4 had proved the medical examination report of the prosecutrix which is Exhibit Ka-4. In her opinion, the age of the prosecutrix according to ossification test was above 18 years. No live or dead spermatozoa was found in the pathology report and no definite opinion of rape has been given by her.

11. P.W. 5 Shri Pramod Kumar Tiwari, the Investigating Officer, in his examination-in-chief has stated that FIR was lodged in his absence. He got information on 14.03.1994 itself and on the same day, he went to Gulal Khera village and took the statement of complainant Shiv Shankar, mother of the prosecutrix Smt. Rampati, uncle of complainant Lallu Prasad and witnesses Billeshwar, Shiv Pyare and Krishna Pal, thereafter conducted the examination of the spot on the same day and prepared the site plan in his writing. After seeing the site plan, he has proved it which is Exhibit Ka-6. He further stated that on 15.03.1994, during investigation accused Ramesh Yadav was arrested. His statement was recorded on the basis of his statement, accused Sita Ram was arrested from Charbagh Railway Station, Lucknow at 10:30 a.m. who was with the prosecutrix. Fard report was prepared by him and on which prosecutrix Sita Ram and Ramesh Yadav had signed and has proved Fard which is Exhibit Ka-2. On the spot, he took the statement of the prosecutrix and accused Sita Ram and on the basis of statement of prosecutrix, section 376 IPC was added. After concluding the investigation, he has submitted charge sheet before the lower court and has proved it which is Exhibit Ka-8. He has further proved the chik report prepared by Head Moharrir, Shri Purushottam Narain Tandon, who was posted with him, Chik report is Exhibit Ka-9. In his cross examination he has stated that father, mother and uncle of the prosecutrix in their statements under section 161 Cr.P..C. had informed him that prosecutrix had gone somewhere after taking Rs.9000/- cash, golden ring and other jewellery. He had also taken the statement of Krishna Pal Singh, Shiv pyare and Billeshwar who told him that on 25.02.1994 at about 10:00 p.m. Sita Ram, Ramesh Yadav and prosecutrix were going somewhere. He lastly stated that at the time of arrest, no fire arm was recovered from Sita Ram. He denied the suggestion that he has arrested the prosecutrix Siya dulari from District Gonda and Sita Ram and Ramesh Yadav from their village.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant has made following submissions :

1. Appellant Ramesh was not seen by anybody going along with the prosecutrix and co-accused Sita Rram on 25,02.1997;

The allegation levelled was that appellant Ramesh was seen by two persons of the village namely Billeshwar and Shiv Pyare accompanying the prosecutrix and co accused Sita Ram on 25.02.1994. Despite the fact that statements of both the witnesses were recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by the Investigating Officer, none was produced in the Court. The truth is that none had seen the appellant Ramesh going along with the prosecutrix and co-accused Sita Ram. As witnesses Bileshwar and Shiv Pyare were not ready to support the false prosecution story against appellant Ramesh, they were deliberately not produced before the trial Court.

Appellant Ramesh has been implicated only for the reason that he was a friend of accused Sita Ram and the complainant party suspected that he had a hand in the elopement of the prosecutrix with accused Sita Ram.

2. The prosecutrix went with co-accused Sita Ram out of her own free will

(i). The father of the prosecutrix Mahabir examined as P.W.3 had reported at the police station regarding the missing of his daughter and in his report he had alleged that the prosecutrix had taken away valuables from the home including Rs.9000/- cash, gold ear-ring, a pair of Payal and kamar peti the statement of witness Mahabir is evidence of the fact that the prosecutrix was not abducted by anyone rather she had eloped with co-accused Sita Ram out of her own free will in a planed manner.

(ii). Admittedly, the prosecutrix was kept in a "kothri' for three days in a village which did not have any door. She also alleged that during day time she was kept in the Rabi field while in the night she was confined in the Kothri. The fact that still she did not make any attempt to escape is a pointer to the fact of her willingness to stay with appellant Sita Ram.

(iii). Admittedly, the prosecutrix was later on kept in a room in a house which had other persons living in it as well and still the prosecutrix did not make any attempt to seek help from others also goes to show that she was not confined there against her will.

(iv). The prosecutrix was taken on a cycle to Lucknow during day time and from Lucknow she was taken by bus to Gonda. It was stated by the prosecutrix in her statement that in the bus there were 15-20 persons including policemen also. The fact that the prosecutrix did not seek anybody's help in the bus also goes to show her willingness to accompany the accused Sita Ram.

3. The testimony of the prosecutrix is not reliable.

It has been submitted that from the facts narrated above, it is evident that the testimony of the prosecutrix that she was raped by the accused persons is not believable and the conviction based on her testimony cannot be sustained.

4. Medical opinion does not support the story of forced sex/rape on prosecutrix.

(i) The doctor opined that the age of the prosecutrix was more than 18 years ;

(ii) no dead or living spermatozoa was found in the vaginal smear ;

(iii) no opinion about rape could be given.

The medical opinion of the doctor virtually rules out the story of rape in the light of the fact that the prosecutrix had alleged that during rape she used to struggle and therefore, absence of any injury on the external or internal part of the body does not support the prosecution story of forced sex by the accused.

13. Further contention of learned counsel for appellant is that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held in catena of decisions that if the statement of the prosecutrix is of sterling quality and inspires confidence then corroboration from other evidence need not be sought, but where the statement of the prosecutrix is shaky and does not inspire confidence then corroboration should be sought from other evidence collected during investigation.

14. It is next contended by learned counsel for the appellant that the prosecutrix was recovered along with appellant no.1 (at the time of arrest of appellant no.1) Sita Ram from Charbagh

Railway Station. Admittedly, at the time of recovery, prosecutrix was sitting at the railway platform along with accused appellant Sita Ram. Needless to say that a railway platform is a crowded place and there is no evidence of the fact that the prosecutrix appears to have been confined at the place of sitting by the appellant no.1 Sita Ram or any force was applied as no fire-arm was recovered which goes to show that she was not sitting there against her wishes. He further submitted that according to prosecution story, both accused persons had katta with them which they used to threaten the prosecutrix but as admitted by the Investigating Officer no fire arm was recovered from both the accused persons.

15. Per contra, Shri Shiv Nath Tilhari, learned AGA submits that before entering into the detail arguments, he would like to submit that main argument on behalf of State is that it is a matter of committing gang rape and a lady/prosecutrix cannot be a consenting party to several persons simultaneously.

16. In support, he has placed reliance on catena of decisions which are as follows :

(i). MD Iqbal and another vs. State of Jharkhand 2013 (14) SCC 481; in this case it has been submitted that in view of provisions of Section 114-A of Indian Evidence Act, 1872 there is a presumption as to the absence of consent in case of gang rape and it will be presumed that the prosecutrix did not give consent.

(ii). Puran Chand vs. State of Himachal Pradesh 2014 (5) SCC 689. He submitted that a girl would not put herself to disrepute and would not go to support her parents to lodge false FIR of rape due to enmity as there is no delay in lodging the FIR.

(iii). State of U.P. vs. Chhotey Lal reported in 2011 (2) SCC 550; the Honb'le Court has held in para 30 which is reproduced as under :

"30. The learned counsel for the respondent submitted that no alarm was raised by the prosecutrix at the bus-stand or the other places where she was taken and that creates serious doubt about the truthfulness of her evidence. This argument of the learend counsel overlooks the situation in which the prosecutrix was placed. She had been kidnapped by two adult males, one of them, A-1, wielded a firearm and threatened her and she was taken away from her village. In the circumstances, she made sensible decision not to raise any alarm. Any alarm at unknown place might have endangered her life. The absence of an alarm by her at the public place cannot lead to an inference that she had willingly accompanied A-1 and A-2. The circumstances made her a submissive victim and that does not mean that she was inclined and willing to have intercourse with A-1. She had no free act of the mind during her stay with A-1 as she was under constant fear."

(v). State of Maharastra vs. Chandraprakash Kewalchand Jain 1990 1 SCC 550;

(vi). State of Punjab vs. Gurmit Singh and others (1996) 2 SCC 384;

(viii). State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Shree Kant Shekari (2004) 8 SCC 153."

17. Next submission of learned AGA is that absence of injuries on private parts cannot be a ground to held that the appellant cannot be convicted. He has also placed reliance on the judgments reported in Devinder Singh and ors vs. State of Himachal Pradesh 2003 AIR (SC) 3365; and Deepak vs. State of Haryana 2015 (4) SCC 762;

18. Further reliance has been placed on Moti Lal vs. State of Madhya Pradesh 2008 (11) SCC 20 and has submitted that corroboration is not required from any other evidence including the evidence of Doctor to examine the victim of rape and does not find any sign of rape.

19. Next submission of learned AGA is that while appreciating the evidence of a witness, minor discrepancies on trival matters which do not affect the core of the prosecution case, may not prompt the Court to reject the evidence in its entirety. In support he has relied on the judgments reported in State of Rajasthan vs. Om Prakash 2007 AIR (SC) 2257 and State of U.P. vs. M.K. Anthony AIR 1985 (SC) 48.

20. Learned AGA has also submitted that even in case of immoral character of prosecutrix, it does not give any right to the accused persons to commit rape on the prosecutrix against her consent. In support, he has relied on State of Maharastra and another vs. Madhurkar Narayan Mardikar 1991 1 SCC 57; where it has been held that even a women of easy virtue is entitled to privacy. He further relied on State of Punjab vs. Gurmit Singh and others 1996 AIR (SC) 1393. Lastly, it has been submitted by learned AGA that Investigating Agency not conducting investigation properly or was negligent cannot be a mere ground to discredit the testimony of the prosecutrix and has submitted that non recovery of weapon of assault (Katta/country made pistol) will not come to the aid of the accused appellant.

21. Having considered the rival contentions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, this Court carefully proceeds to examine the evidence of prosecution witnesses.

22. Considering the evidence of prosecution witnesses, it appears that missing report though was lodged by father of prosecutrix P.W.3 however, FIR has been lodged by brother of prosecutrix who is P.W.1. P.W.1 has stated in his examination in chief that Billeshwar, Krishna Pal and Rudrapal Singh of his village saw the prosecutrix with the appellants Sita Ram and Ramesh. He has further stated that prosecutrix was recovered along with Sita Ram while both of them were sitting at Platform No.1 at Charbagh Railway Station, Lucknow. In his cross examination, he has stated that when the prosecutrix eloped she was 22 years of age. He denied the suggestion that the prosecutrix eloped with Sita Ram on her own accord. He further denied the suggestion that prosecutrix can write letters.

23. P.W.2 prosecutrix Siya Dulari while giving statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. has not levelled any allegation against appellant no. 2 Ramesh. She has clearly stated that appellant no. 2 Ramesh has done no wrong to her. However, while giving statement under section 164 Cr.P.C. before the Court, she made substantial improvement and levelled the allegation of committing rape against appellant no. 2 Ramesh also for the first time. In her statement under section 164 Cr.P.C. she has stated that she was kept in Gonda for 15-16 days and both the accused appellants took her to Lucknow and appellants Ramesh and Sita Ram both were arrested from Charbagh railway station.

24. This statement of prosecutrix given under section 164 Cr.P.C. that both accused were arrested at Charbagh, again changed in the Court while deposing as P.W.2 before the trial court and stated that on 14.03.1994 Ramesh went home and she came along with appellant no. 1 Sita Ram at Charbagh Railway Station where she was found sitting along with Sita Ram only by the police and thereafter Sita Ram was arrested thus contradicted her earlier two statements. In her cross examination, she has stated that while she was sitting in the bus either at Qaiserbagh or Charbagh they were one or two police personnels also, she tried to raise alarm but could not succeed as both the accused persons were armed openly with country made pistols. She further stated that she was kept in Gonda for 15 days and in that house several ladies and children were residing but she was not allowed to meet anybody since the door of the room was locked. She cried but no one heard. She has denied the suggestion that she can write letters. She further denied the suggestion that before occurrence, she wrote several letters to Sita Ram. She denied that she had written love letters to Sita Ram and said that she has never written to Sita Ram, that she could not sleep all night and used to weep. She has further denied the suggestion that she eloped with Sita Ram along with Rs.9000/- golden ear rings, kamar peti and a pair of payal. She has further denied the suggestion that she on her own accord went from her house. She further denied suggestion that she was in love with Sita Ram since long. She further denied that due to this relation ship with Sita Ram, she was beaten several times by her parents. She has also denied the suggestion that after going away from home, she was not kept in Kothri rather directly taken to Lucknow. The evidence of prosecutrix P.W.2 right from the stage of statements recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C. to 164 Cr.P.C. and in deposition before the Court suffers from material improvement. Under Section 161 Cr.P.C. she has not levelled any allegation of rape against appellant no. 2 whereas for the first time in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. she has also roped appellant no.2 and alleged that rape has been committed by him also. In her statement under section 164 Cr.P.C. the prosecutrix has further stated that she came to Lucknow along with appellant nos.1 and 2 both whereas while testifying before the Court below as P.W. 2 she said that Ramesh came back home on 14.3.1994 and she along with Sita Ram came to the Railway Station where Sita Ram was caught whereas in the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. she stated that Sita Ram and Ramesh both were caught at Charbagh Railway Station, Lucknow. The inconsistency in the statements of prosecutrix goes to the root of the matter, there is substantial improvement at several stages and material contradictions which cannot be said to be minor contradictions.

25. P.W.3 while deposing before the Court has re-confirmed his statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. and supported the story as stated by him in his missing report. He has not levelled any allegation against the appellant No.2. In his cross examination, he has reiterated and confirmed his earlier stand given in the missing report that the prosecutrix took away Rs.9000/- cash, golden ear rings, kamar peti and one pair of payal along with her. He has not supported the version of prosecutrix that the aforesaid cash and ornaments were kept by her at some place in the house. He has further stated in his cross that 10-12 years back, kothri near a tubewell had fallen down/caved in. He has further stated that he does not know whether his daughter/prosecutrix was of a good character. Upon being asked as to whether prosecutrix had gone on her own accord he has fairly stated that he could not tell this fact.

26. P.W.4 Dr. Kusum Dubey who medically examined the prosecutrix has stated that she has not found any mark of injury on the person of the prosecutrix. In the internal examination, no mark of injury was found on her private parts. Her hymen was old and torn and has stated that she performed one finger test in her vagina. Lastly, she has stated that she could not give any definite opinion about rape on the prosecutrix.

27. P.W.5 in his cross examination, has stated that complainant, his father, mother and uncle in their statements have told him that prosecutrix has gone somewhere along with Rs.9000/- cash, golden ear rings, kamar peti and a pair of payal. He has also stated that he took the statement of Kishan Pal singh, Shiv Pyare and Billeshwar who told him that at 10 o'clock in the night on 25.2.1994 Sita Ram, Ramesh and prosecutrix Siya Dulare were going somewhere. He further stated that at the time when Sita Ram was arrested no fire arm was recovered. He denied the suggestion that Siya Dulare-prosecutrix was recovered from district Gonda and Sita Ram and Ramesh have been arrested from their village.

28. So far as the argument of learned AGA regarding delay in lodging the FIR is concerned, there is no need to go in detail as this ground has not been raised by learned counsel for the appellant. The case law cited by him are distinguishable on facts because in the case of MD. Iqbal and others (Supra) the statement of prosecutrix was duly corroborated with medical evidence (Para 14) and was found worthy of credence. Hence, the conviction of the accused was upheld by the Supreme Court.

29. In Puran Chand vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (2014) 5 SCC 689, it was held that since offence of rape was proved and prosecution version was relied on in view of supporting circumstantial evidence and Section 114-A of Indian Evidence Act was held to be applicable impliedly. In this case the offence of rape has not been proved therefore, there is no occasion of application of Section 114-A of Evidence Act to draw the presumption as to the absence of consent.

30. In Hem Singh vs. State of U.P. (Supra) a minor girl was taken from lawful guardianship of her brother. Her testimony was intact and found trust worthy and the

31. In State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Prem Singh reported in (2009) 1 SCC 420 offence of rape was not established.

32. In Mukesh vs. State of Chattisgarh, (Supra), the prosecution version was supported by P.W. 3, P.W.11 and 12 as well as injury on the fore head of the prosecutrix and further there was ample corroborative material and testimony of the prosecutrix was found to be trust worthy which is not in the present case.

33. In State of Maharastra vs. Madhukar Narain (1991) 1 SCC 57, it was a matter of departmental enquiry and High Court erred in embarking upon re-appreciation of the evidence against the decision in disciplinary proceedings.

34. In Vijay @ Chinee vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, (Supra) it was held that statement of the prosecutrix was found to be worthy of credence and reliable, which required no corroboration and there was statement of doctor P.W.3 who opined that the hymen of the prosecutrix was found to be completely torn and fresh blood was oozing out hence presumption of Section 114-A of Indian Evidence Act was taken that she did not gave her consent. In this case, the testimony of the prosecutrix requires further material in view of inconsistency in her statement.

35. In State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Shree Shekari (Supra) it was a case of minor girl of 14 years old which was made pregnant by her own teacher. The testimony of the victim was found worthy of credence and prosecution was successful in explaining the delay and the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 21 held as under :-

"It is well settled that a prosecutrix complaining of having been a victim of the offence of rape is not an accomplice after the crime. There is no rule of law that her testimony cannot be acted without corroboration in material particulars. She stands on a higher pedestal than an injured witness. In the latter case, there is injury on the physical form, while in the former it is physical as well as psychological and emotional. However, if the court on facts finds it difficult to accept the version of the prosecutrix on its face value, it may search for evidence, direct or circumstantial, which would lend assurance to her testimony. Assurance, short of corroboration, as understood in the context of an accomplice, would suffice."

36. In State of Maharastra vs. Chandraprakash Kewalchand Jain (Supra), the evidence of prosecutrix was found worthy of credence. The clothes of the prosecutrix were found to be stained with human blood and semen. The semen group found on her clothes tallied with that of accused.

37. In Deepak vs. State of Haryana (2015) 4 SCC 762, the victim was a minor girl. Sexual intercourse was admitted by the accused and rape was proved and therefore, statutory presumption was drawn by the court and also it was duly corroborated with the medical evidence.

38. In State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Mango Ram (2000) 7 SCC 224 the victim was again a minor girl. Rape was proved. The evidence of prosecutrix was corroborated by medical and other evidences also.

39. In State of Punjab vs. Gurmit Singh and others, (Supra) the statement of prosecutrix was found to be intact and was well supported by medical evidence and ample corroboration was available on record to lend further credence to the testimony of the prosecutrix.

40. In MD Iqbal and another vs. State of Jharkhand (Supra) the statement of prosecutrix was corroborated by medical evidence and offence of rape was proved hence, the trial court rightly draw presumption that victim did not consent and this was upheld by the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

41. In Vijay Raikwar vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2019) 4 SCC 210 in this case chain of circumstance was complete and the accused could not give any explanation with regard to the incriminating evidence against him.

42. In AIR 1985 SUPC 48 State of U.P. vs. M.K. Antony, the accused murdered his wife and children and made extra judicial confession to his friend. Evidence of friend was found reliable and trustworthy and conviction of accused on that basis was held proper.

43. In State of Rajasthan vs. Om Prakash AIR 2007 SC 2257 the accused was convicted under Section 302 IPC on the evidence of solitary witness. The unnatural conduct of the accused had strengthened the prosecution case. Irrelevant details which do in anyway corrode the credibility of a witness cannot be levelled as omissions or contradictions.

44. In Vijay @ Chinee vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2010) 8 SCC 191; in this case offence of rape was proved. There was no dispute regarding place of occurrence and incident that occurred. Defence failed to establish that it was a case of consent. Medical examination of accused and prosecutrix was conducted next day. The accused persons were not known to prosecutrix therefore, it was held not to be a case of consent.

45. In State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Shri Kant Shikari (2004) 8 SCC 153 the victim was a minor girl raped by her own teacher. Testimony of the victim was found to be trustworthy. It was held that if the Court on facts finds it difficult to accept the version of the prosecutrix on its face value, it may search for evidence direct or circumstantial which would lend assurance to her testimony.

46. In Devinder Singh vs. State of Himachal Pradesh 2003 SC 3365 the evidence of the prosecturix was not found trustworthy and the accused were acquitted.

47. In Deepak vs. State of Haryana (2015) 4 SCC 762 the prosecutrix was minor. The testimony of prosecutrix was intact and corroborated with medical evidence that rape was committed by accused with the prosecutrix. The accused did not disputed the sexual intercourse and he failed to give any satisfactory explanation under 313 Cr.P.C. nor was able to adduce evidence to rebut the presumption contained under Section 114-A of Evidence Act, 1872.

48. In Moti Lal vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2008) 11 SCC 20; it was held that if prosecutrix is an adult and of full understanding the Court is entitled to base a conviction on her evidence unless the same is shown to be infirm and not trustworthy.

49. Therefore, aforesaid judgments relied on by learned AGA do not support his case for the reasons that testimony of the victim/prosecutrix suffers from material inconsistency, substantial improvement and contradiction which go to the root of the matter and therefore, the corroborative material or some material short of corroboration is needed which is not available and no evidence in that regard has been led. The testimony of the prosecutrix does not inspire confidence.

50. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mohd. Ali @ Guddu vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (2015) 7 SCC 272 has held as under :-

"Be it noted, there can be no iota of doubt that on the basis of the sole testimony of the prosecutrix, if it is unimpeachable and beyond reproach, a conviction can be based. In the case at hand, the learned Trial Judge as well as the High Court have persuaded themselves away with this principle without appreciating the acceptability and reliability of the testimony of the witness. In fact, it would not be appropriate to say that whatever the analysis in the impugned judgment, it would only indicate an impropriety of approach. The prosecutrix has deposed that she was taken from one place to the other and remained at various houses for almost two months. The only explanation given by her is that she was threatened by the accused persons. It is not in her testiony that she was confined to one place. In fact, it has been borne out from the material on record that she had travelled from place to place and she was ravished a number of times. Under these circumstances, the medical evidence gains significance, for the examining doctor has categorically deposed that there are no injuries on the private parts. The delay in FIR, the non-examination of the witnesses, the testimony of the prosecutrix, the associated circumstances and the medical evidence, leave a mark of doubt to treat the testimony of the prosecutrix as so natural and truthful to inspire confidence. It can be stated with certitude that the evidence of the prosecutrix is not of such quality which can be placed reliance upon."

51. In Hem Raj v. State of Haryana, (2014) 2 SCC 395 it has been held that :-

"10. Faced with such a situation, we were anxious to find out whether there can be any clinching medical evidence suggesting rape, but, unfortunately, the prosecuton has failed to examine Dr.Anjali Shah, who had examined the prosecutrix. The MLR was produced in the Court by P.W.6 J.B. Bhardwaj, Medical Record Technician. This is a serious lapse on the part of the prosecution. We are aware that lapses on the part of the prosecution should not lead to unmerited acquittals. This is, however subject to the rider that in such a situation the evidence on record must be clinching so that the lapses of the prosecution could be condoned. Such is not the case here. The MLR does suggest that the hymen of the prosecutrix was torn. It is also true that the prosecutrix has brought on record FSL report which shows that human semen was detected on the salwar of the prosecutrix and on the underwear of the accused. However, it is difficult to infer from this that the prosecutrix was raped by the appellant. The prosecutrix herself has vacillated on this aspect. It was pointed out that no injuries were found on the prosecutrix. We do not attach much importance to this aspect because presence of injures is not a must to prove commission of rape. But the prosecutrix's evidence is so infirm that it deserves to be rejected. Her brother has come out with a case that the appellant tried to rape the prosecutrix. He did not say that the appellant raped the prosecutrix. Taking an overall view of the matter, we find it difficult to sustain the prosecution case that the prosecutrix was raped by the appellant. This is a case where the appellant must be given benefit of doubt. "

52. In Dola vs. State of Odisha 2018 SCC Online SC 1224 it has been held that in para 31 which is reproduced as under :-

31. In our considered opinion, the Trial Court as well as the High Court have convicted the appellants without considering the aforementioned factors in their proper perspective. The testimony of the victim is full of inconsistencies and does not find support from any other evidence whatsoever. Moreover, the evidence of the informant/victim is inconsistent and self-destructive at different places. It is noticeable that the medical record and the Doctor's evidence do not specify whether there were any signs of forcible sexual intercourse. It seems that the First Information Report was lodged with false allegations to extract revenge from the appellants, who had uncovered the theft of forest produce by the informant and her husband. The High Court has, in our considered opinion, brushed aside the various inconsistencies pointed out by us only on the ground that the victim could not have deposed falsely before the Court. The High Court has proceeded on the basis of assumptions, conjectures and surmises, inasmuch as such assumptions are not corroborated by any reliable evidence. The medical evidence does not support the case of the prosecution relating to the offence of rape. Having regard to the totality of the material on record and on facts and circumstances of this case, it is not possible for this Court to agree with the concurrent conclusions reached by the courts below. At best, it may be said that the accused have committed the offence of hurt, for which they have already undergone a sufficient duration of imprisonment, inasmuch as they have been stated to have undergone two years of imprisonment. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. The judgments of the Trial Court as well as the High Court are set aside. The appellants are acquitted of the charges levelled against them. They should be released forthwith, if they are not required in any other case."

53. In Sham Singh vs. State of Haryana 2018 SCC Online SC 1042, it has been held in paras 26 and 27:

"26. The evidence of the victim/prosecutrix and the Aunt P.W.10 are unreliable, untrustworthy inasmuch as they are not credible witnesses. Their evidence bristles with contradictions and is full of improbabilities. We cannot resist ourselves to place on record that the prosecution has tried to rope in the appellant merely on assumption, surmises and conjectures. The story of the prosecution is built on the materials placed on record, which seems to be neither the truth, nor wholly the truth. The findings of the court below, though concurrent, do not desire the merit of acceptance or approval in our hands with regard to the glaring infirmities and illegalities vitiating them, and the patent errors apparent on the face of record resulting in serious and grave miscarriage of justice to the appellant.

27. We find that the trial court and the High Court have convicted the accused merely on conjectures and surmises. The Courts have come to the conclusion based on assumptions and not on legally acceptable evidence, but such assumptions were not well founded, inasmuch as such assumptions are not corroborated by any reliable evidence. Medical evidence does not support the case of the prosecution relating to offence of rape."

54. In view of the above, law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court law can be summarized as under :

"An accused can be convicted under section 376 IPC on the basis of sole testimony of the prosecutrix, if such testimony is worthy of credence and inspires confidence and is of sterling quality then corroboration from other evidence is not required. But where the statement of prosecutrix suffers from material inconsistency, contradiction and does not inspire confidence, then some other material may be even short of corroboration from other evidence collected during investigation is necessary."

55. After going through evidence of the prosecution witnesses, it appears that complainant, his father, mother and uncle as well as Investigating Officer all have stated that prosecutrix went away with Rs.9000/-, golden ear rings, kamar peti and one pair of payal has gone somewhere. Only the prosecutrix has denied this fact. Statement of the prosecutrix at every stage has improved and changed and has contradicted her earlier statement. The testimony of prosecutrix suffers from material inconsistency. The law in this regard is settled that on sole testimony of the prosecutrix, conviction can be based and there is no need for any corroborative material provided the testimony of the prosecutrix is worthy of credence.

56. Here in this case, the statement of prosecutrix is highly improbable and inconsistent in view of the fact that while she was kept at Gonda for 15 days in a house inside one room which was locked from outside and accused persons only used to come in night, during day time she had ample opportunity to raise alarm and it appears quite improbable that inmates of the house which included several ladies and children did not hear her alarm for a period of 15 days. There is material improvement in the testimony of the prosecutrix from her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to Section 164 Cr.P.C. and then in Court as P.W.2. At one place, she has not levelled any allegation against appellant no.2 whereas in her statement under section 164 Cr.P.C. for the first time, she has alleged commission of offence by him. In her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. she has stated that both the appellants took her from Gonda to Lucknow and at Charbagh Railway Station, Lucknow. Both of them were arrested whereas in deposition before the Court, she says that appellant no. 2 on 14.3.1994 came back to his house and only the appellant no. 1 brought her to Lucknow was arrested by the police at Charbagh Railway Station Lucknow.

57. The statement of father of the prosecutrix P.W.3 that the alleged Kothri in which she was kept for three days in the same village had already fallen down 10-12 years back coupled with the fact that the Investigating Officer has not even visited/prepared the site plan of the said Kothri neither any investigation regarding the kothri or the house at Gonda where the prosecutrix was allegedly kept for 15 days has been done. No statement of the inmates of the house at Gonda has been taken by Investigating Officer and also the most important and independent witnesses namely Billeshwar, Krishna Pal, and Shiv Pyare who saw the prosecutrix in the company of appellants on 25.02.1994 have not been produced before the court rather they have been withheld by the prosecution are enough to demand some more material than the sole testimony of the prosecutrix to convict appellant no.2.

58. In the present case, the failure of Investigating Agency not to examine independent witness before the court who saw the prosecutrix in the company of appellants in the night of 25.2.1994 namely Billeshwar, Shiv Pyare and Rudra Pal Singh, not investigating the inmates of the house at Gonda where the prosecutrix was allegedly kept for 15 days and raped by both the appellants, not conducting any investigation of kothri which according to evidence of P.W.3 had already fallen down/caved in 10-12 years back and not conducting investigation of house at Gonda non preparation of site plan of the house at Gonda and that of kothri, non recovery of fire arm from either of the accused persons and improbable story set up by the prosecutrix that the accused persons were carrying arms in open, in a bus where police personnel were also there, does not inspire confidence in prosecution case.

59. There are two places where the rape is alleged to have been committed. First the Kothri situated in the village of prosecutrix where she was kept for three days and was subjected to rape for all three days. Second is the house at Gonda where the prosecutrix was kept for 15 days in a room locked from outside. P.W.3 in his statement has said that Kothri in the village had already fallen down 10-12 years back coupled with the fact that Investigating Officer has not visited there, not made any investigation of Kothri, has not mentioned this into the site plan, not making any recovery from there makes this first place of occurrence doubtful.

60. So far as the second place of occurrence i.e. house at Gonda where the prosecutrix is said to have been kept and raped for fifteen days, again no investigation regarding this place has been done. The Investigating Officer has not even visited this place. The inmates (ladies and children) have not been examined, no site plan of this place has been made, nothing has been recovered and therefore, this second place also becomes doubtful. The medical examination of the prosexutrix does not corroborates the prosecution story. This lack on the part of Investigating Agency in not producing corroborative material and independent witnesses of fact who in their statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. had stated that they saw the prosecutrix in the night on 25.2.1994 with the appellants at Nautanki (operatic theatre performance in northern India) as they had also come to see the theatre performance, causes serious doubts about the truthfulness of the prosecution case in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Mohd. Ali @ Guddu vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (Supra) ; Hem Raj vs. State of Haryana (Supra); Dola vs. State of Odisha (Supra); Sham Singh vs. State of Haryana (Supra). Thus, for the reasons stated above, I am of the opinion that prosecution has failed to prove the offence of rape against appellant No.2 beyond reasonable doubt.

61. Since the rape in this case could not be proved beyond reasonable doubt therefore, there is no occasion to draw presumption under Section 114-A of the Indian Evidence Act regarding absence of consent of the prosecutrix.

62. To prove the charge under section 366 IPC prosecution has to prove that prosecutrix was abducted and further the abduction was for the purposes mentioned under section 366 IPC. The testimony of the prosecutrix suffers from improvement, improbability and not trustworthy. Prosecutrix was major and according to statements of P.W.1, P.W.3 and P.W.5 she went away along with Rs.9000/- cash, golden earrings kamar peti and other jewellery although her marriage was fixed shortly, this shows that she willingly went away. Prosecutrix was seen by the independent witnesses with the appellants at Nautaknki (operatic theatre performance) in the night of 25.02.1994 also shows that the prosecutrix went away willingly. The fact that these independent witnesses namely Billeshwar, Shiv Pyare and Rudra Pal Singh have not been produced by the prosecution before the Court has further weakened the case of prosecution. For these reasons, I am of the view that the prosecution has also failed to prove the charge under Section 366 IPC. Therefore, the finding recorded by the learned Trial Court in this regard is erroneous and is hereby reversed.

63. Thus, in view of the aforesaid discussions, the findings recorded by the trial court on the basis of testimony of the prosecutrix cannot be affirmed and the same is reversed.

64. In view of such evidence led by prosecution, the discussions made hereinabove, it will not be proper to convict the accused appellant hence, the judgment and order dated 13.02.1997 passed by the trial court is set aside.

65. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed.

The accused appellant is directed to be released from jail, if not wanted in any other case.

CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE PANKAJ KUMAR JAISWAL, J.
THE HON'BLE ALOK MATHUR, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 448 of 1981

Ram Asrey & Ors. ...Appellants

Versus

State ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Nagendra Mohan, Chandra Bhushan, J.N. Singh, K.K. Tewari, Mmmanish Bajpai

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A., Sharad Dixit

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Section 302/24 IPC - Section 323 read with section 34 - Appeal against conviction.

The presence of mother of deceased at the crime scene cannot be doubted as she is injured witness and it was not unnatural for her to accompany her adult son to fields for easing himself. (para 20)

It is clear that the accused-appellants assaulted the deceased by inflicting 'lathi' blows and knife injury resulting into death of deceased victim. The medical evidence on record also shows that the deceased had incurred thirteen injuries in all. Despite the fact that mother of the deceased is an interested witness and her evidence has been carefully examined which convincingly points towards the guilt of the accused. Mother of deceased had witnessed the entire incident from the start to the end and has given detailed evidence about the incident. (para 26)

The testimony of mother of deceased is corroborated by the testimony of PW1 (informant) in all material particulars with regard to identity of the accused, time of occurrence, nature of weapons, taking the deceased from the scene of crime to the Police Station and lodging of the first information report. Thus, evidence of mother of deceased cannot be rejected only on the ground that she being mother of the deceased is an interested witness. (para27)

Appeal is rejected. (E-2)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Head Sri Nagendra Mohan, learned counsel for the appellants as well as Mrs. Smiti Sahay, learned Government Advocate for respondent-State.

2. This criminal appeal has been filed by the convicted appellants under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C. against the judgment and order dated 20/06/1981 passed by the 1st Additional Sessions Judge, Kheri in S.T No. 387 of 1980. The trial court convicted the appellant's for the offences punishable under sections 302/24 IPC and also appellants no.1 & 2 under section 323 read with section 34 IPC and appellant no.3 under section 323 IPC sentencing them to 2 months rigorous imprisonment and imprisonment for life.

3. Out of three convicted appellants, appellant no. 1 -Ram Asrey and appellant no. 2 - Hardwari Lal have died during pendency of this appeal, thus this appeal stands abated in respect to appellant nos. 1 and 2 and the appeal survives only in respect of appellant no. 3 - Shiv Shanker.

4. The case of the prosecution in brief is that Krishna Kant Shukla (deceased victim) was a lecturer in Lucknow University and belong to village Kalwa Moti PS Maigal Ganj in Kheri district. There had been a lot of litigation about landed property between Krishna Kant Shukla and Ram Asrey, and his sons (the accused) including proceedings under section 107/117 CRPC between them. Krishna Kant resided at Lucknow and visited his village infrequently mainly on account of enmity between Krishna Kant and Ram Asray and his sons. Father of Krishna Kant, Duryodhan, had died about one and half years earlier, and his Shraadh ceremony was to be performed on 18/09/1979. Krishna Kant came to his village Kalwamoti on 17/09/1979 in the evening. In the morning of 18/09/1979, Krishna Kant went out towards the fields to ease himself in the Khain adjoining the chak road, to the west of the Har of the village. The mother of Krishna Kant, Smt Bitoli Devi PW 4 also accompanied him, but stopped near the flour Mill, and kept a vigil in the direction where her son had gone to ease himself. She saw Ram Asray, accused armed with Kanta, Hardwari with Lathi, and Shiv Shanker with knife moving on the service road towards Krishna Kant. PW4 on seeing the accused walking towards his son, raised an alarm and rushed towards her son. The accused's started assaulting Krishna Kant, and when his mother PW4 tried to save him and she was assaulted by Hardwari with Lathi from which she received injuries on the head and she started bleeding and fell down. The accused fled towards the west and in the meanwhile Sri Prakash Shukla PW1 was a cousin of the deceased also reached the spot and accompanied the injured Krishna Kant and his mother on a bullock cart to PS maingalganj but Krishna Kant succumbed to injuries on the way near Aurangabad. They then took the dead body to PS Maingalganj where the FIR was written at 1 PM on the same day.

5. Sri Mahendra Kumar Shukla, PW-9 (Investigating Officer) had held inquest upon the dead body of Krishna Kant at the premises of P.S. Maigal Ganj, shortly after the registration of the case on 18.09.1979 and had prepared Inquest Report, Challan Lash, Khaka Lash and letter to Chief Medical Officer, Sitapur for postmortem examination. The Investigating officer - PW-9 had taken in custody a Dhoti, a Banian and a Janeo (all blood stained) from the dead body and sealed them. He had also taken off a gold ring, a silver ring, a plastic ring from the fingers of the dead body and a 'Tabiz' from the neck of the dead body and had given these things in supurdagi of Smt. Bitoli Devi - PW-4. He sealed the dead body and had sent the same through Constable Atma Ram - PW-2 to the District Hospital, Sitapur for postmortem examination at 3.00PM on 18.08.1979.

6. The I.O. - PW-9 had taken statements of Sri Prakash, complainant - PW-1, Smt. Bitoli - PW-4 and of certain others, at P.S. Maigal Ganj. He had deposited the sealed bundle of blood stained clothes at the Malkhana of P.S. - Maigal Ganj and had made G.D. entry in this regard. Thereafter he accompanied Shri Prakash Shukla, complainant PW-1 and reached the scene of occurrence in village - Kalwa Moti. He inspected the site of occurrence which lay in north-west corner of the field of Pahari Singh, on the outskirts of the village and prepared Site Plan. He found blood at the place of incident and marked the same by letter 'A' in the spot map. He had also taken samples of blood stained and simple soil and placed them in separate containers and sealed the same. He had also taken possession of the 'Lota' of the deceased victim which had been handed over to him by the complainant - PW-1 and thereafter gave the same in supurdagi of the complainant.

7. The I.O. - PW-9 also undertook search of the house of accused persons to apprehend them. However, they were not available.

The Doctor L.B. Shukla, PW-3, who examined the deceased Krishna Kant at the relevant time was posed as Medical Officer, Sadar Hospital, Sitapur, stated in this testimony that he had conducted postmortem on 19.09.1979 at 9.30AM, he submitted the postmortem report and found thirteen ante mortem injuries on the deceased. The details of injuries are given below :

1. Lacerated wound 9cm x 1/2cm x bone deep on the right side head 10cm above right ear.

2. Lacerated wound 5cn x 11/2cm x bone deed on the left side 9cm above left eye brow.

3. Lacerated wound 31/2cm x 1/2cm x bone deep on left side heard 7cm above outer corner of left eye brow.

13. Incised wound 10cm x 5cm x cavity deep on left side abdomen, 10cm away from umbillicus at 3 O'clock position. Loops of small and large intestines coming out of the wound.

8. In the opinion of PW-3, death had occurred about one day prior to the postmortem examination. He further opined that death was caused due to coma as a result of head injury. In his deposition PW-3 stated injury no. 13 was sufficient in ordinary course of nature to cause death which was caused by knife.

9. PW-6 Dr. Sohan lal Gupta was examined who deposed that on 18.09.1979 while he was posed in Jangbahadur Hospital, at about 5.00 examined Smt. Bitoli - PW-4, who had three injuries on her body which are described as follows :

(2) Lacerated wounds 1/2cmx1/2cm on he left side of scalp 5cm above the left ear.

(3) Contusion red colour 2cmx2cm on the middle of scalp.

(4) all the injuries are simple lacerated by the one (S/C) weapon duration (sic) 1/2 day.

10. The Trial Court relying on the account of two eye witnesses namely Shri Prakash Shukla - PW-1 and mother of the deceased Bitoli - PW-4, held the accused to be guilty, as discussed by it in the impugned judgment and order.

11. The Trial Court after taking into consideration aforesaid facts, has observed as under :

"To sum up, it is held that the prosecution has succeeded in establishing beyond reasonable and probable doubt, that the present accused persons, namely Ram Asrey, Hardwari Lal and Sheo Shankar Lal had made the fatal assault upon Krishan Kant (deceased victim) in the relevant morning (18.9.79) on out skirts of village Kalwa Moti P.S. Maigal Ganj in this District. All the present accused persons are, therefore, found guilty of the charge u/s 302 IPC read with section 34 IPC, as brought against them.

Hardwari Lal accused has also been charge for the offence u/s 307 IPC for making an attempt upon the life of Smt.

Bitoli PW-4 on the relevant occasion by giving LATHI blows on her head. Ram Asrey and Sheo Shankar Lal accused persons have on this score been charged u/s 307 IPC read with Section 34 IPC.

No doubt, as has already been found above, Hardwari Lal accused had inflicted Lathi blows on the head of Smt. Bitili PW-4 on the relevant occasion of the instant occurrence. The medical evidence on record (vide injury report Ext.Ka12., and the testimony of Dr. Sohan lal Gupta PW6) show that upon her medical examination only simple injuries had been found upn the body of S,t. Biroli PW-4 The prosecution has failed to show that Hardwari Lal accused has caused injuries Smt. Bitoli PW 4, which were dangerous to life. The charge under Section 307 IPC is, thus, not made out against the accused persons. In this view of the matters, Hardwari Lal accused is found to have committeed offence u/s 323 IPC for causing simple hurt to Smt. Bitoli PW4 on the relevant occasion, and the remaining accused persons namely, Ram Asrey and Sheo Shankar lal are found guilty of the offence u/s 323 IPC read with Section 34 IPC, on this score."

12. Sri Nagendra Mohan, learned counsel for the appellants has straneously urged that the testimony of PW-4 Smt. Bitoli, mother of the deceased is not trustworthy and reliable and her testimony cannot be made the basis of conviction on the accused. He has submitted that it was not probable or natural for a mother to accompany her son who is aged about 42-43 years while going to ease himself in the fields. He also submitted that it was also unreasonable for a person to go to the fields despite of the fact that they had toilet inside the house. To counter the prosecution version he states that in fact the deceased was murdered around midnight and the injuries received by PW-4 was on account of hitting her head with the 'cot'.

13. The second submission made by learned counsel for the appellants was that PW-1 Sriprakash Shukla PW-1 who is also the informant was a chance witness and his presence at the scene of crime is improbable and his evidence therefore is not worthy of any credence and therefore, cannot be made basis of conviction of the accused.

14. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

15. The issue raised by the counsel for the appellant - Hardwari Lal which needs consideration is regarding the presence of PW-1 and PW-4 at the place of incident and also with regard to credibility of their evidence, which have lead to the conviction of the accused - appellants.

16. The PW-4 Bitoli, mother of the deceased in her examination-in-chief has clearly stated that time of occurrence was around 7.30am and has stated that the accused were inimical to the deceased on the basis of certain property dispute and most specifically with regard to the property left by one Raja Ram who is father of Ram Dulari, first wife of her husband Duryodhan.

17. PW-4 has narrated the entire occurrence in detail stating that she has accompanied the deceased when he had gone on the date of occurrence for easing himself to a spot near the flour mill (ata chakki) of Khema Singh which is about 200 steps from the field of Pahari Singh.

She stated that 8-10 minutes later deceased Krishna Kant sat for easing himself in the north-west corner of the field, then all the accused started assaulting her son, seeing this she rushed towards west and headed towards her son (deceased Krishna Kant) and raised alarm. Hearing her shouts Upendra Misra, Sri Prakash Shukla who were passing through the "chak road" also rushed towards the scene. The accused persons had surrounded the deceased and when she rushed to rescue the deceased, accused Hardwari assaulted her with 'lathi' due to which she fell down on the ground and sustained injuries. PW-4 has further stated that deceased Krishna Kant had fallen on the ground in injured condition and the accused kept on assaulting him, accused Shiv Shankar with knife cut open the abdomen of the deceased and after that the all the accused persons rushed away from the scene.

18. The other ocular witnesses namely Shri Prakash Shukla, informant and Manohar Lal - Pw-8 rushed towards the scene on hearing the alarm raised by PW-4 Bitoli. PW-4 was injured in the occurrence on being assaulted with 'lathi'. PW-4 was medically examined by Dr. Sohan lal Gupta on 18.09.1979, at about 5.00, while he was posed in Jangbahadur Hospital. PW-4 was found to have sustained two lacerated wounds on head and one contusion, all the injuries sustained by her have been opined to be simple in nature and around 1-1/2 day old.

19. Even her cross examination PW-4 adhered to the deposition made by her in examination in chief and no discrepancy could be elicited so as to doubt her testimony.

20. From the discussion made above, the presence of PW-4 Bitoli at the crime scene cannot be doubted as she is injured witness and it was not unnatural for her to accompany her adult son to fields for easing himself. It has been brought on record as per testimonies of various witnesses as well as PW-4 herself that the accused persons were on inimical terms with deceased Krishna Kant and the accused persons on several occasion had threatened to kill the deceased when ever they used to pass in front of the house of PW-4 and in this regard PW-4 has also lodged a complaint at the concerned Police Station.

21. Hon'ble Apex Court in Manjit Singh Vs. State of Punjab, (2019) 8 SCC 529, while discussing the issue of reliability of testimony of injured witness, has held in para 13.2 of the Judgment as under :

"13.2. Likewise, the submission about want of independent witnesses in support of prosecution case is also baseless. There is no rule that in every criminal case, the testimony of an injured eye witness needs corroboration from the so-called independent witness(es). When the statement of injured eyewitness is found trustworthy and reliable, the conviction on that basis could always be recorded, of course, having regard to all the facts and surrounding factors. In the present case, the reliable evidence of the injured eyewitnesses cannot be discarded merely for the reason that no independent witness was examined."

22. The Supreme Court in Balraje @ Trimbak Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2010) 6 SCC 673, in para 30 of the judgment has observed as under :

"30. In law, testimony of an injured witness is given importance. When the eyewitness are stated to be interested and inimically disposed towards the accused, it has to be noted that it would not be proper to conclude that they would shield the real culprit and rope inn innocent persons. The truth or otherwise of the evidence has to be weighed pragmatically. The court would be required to analyse the evidence of related witnesses and those witnesses who are inimically disposed towards the accused. But if after careful analysis and scrutiny of their evidence, the version given by the witnesses appears to be clear, cogent and credible, there is no reason to discard the same. Conviction can be made on the basis of such evidence."

23. Apex Court, in Abdul Sayeed Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2010) 10 SCC 259, while dealing with the issue of evidence of injured witness, has held in paras 28, 29 and 30 as follows :

"28. The question of the weight to be attached to the evidence of a witness that was himself injured in the course of the occurrence has been extensively discussed by this Court. Where a witness to the occurrence has himself been injured in the incident, the testimony of such a witness is generally considered to be very reliable, as he is a witness that comes with a built-in guarantee of his presence at the scene of the crime and is unlikely to spare his actual assailant(s) in order to falsely implicate someone. "Convincing evidence is required to discredit an injured witness." [Vide Ramlagan Singh v. State of Bihar, Malkhan Singh v. State of U.P., Machhi Singh v. State of Punjab, Appabhai v. State of Gujarat, Bonkya v. State of Maharashtra, Bhag Singh, Mohar v. State of U.P., Dinesh Kumar v. State of Rajasthan, Vishnu v. State of Rajasthan, Annareddy Sambasiva Reddy v. State of A.P. and Balraje v. State of Maharashtra.]

29. While deciding this issue, a similar view was taken in Jarnail Singh v. State of Punjab, where this Court reiterated the special evidentiary status accorded to the testimony of an injured accused and relying on its earlier judgments held as under :

"28. Darshan Singh (PW 4) was an injured witness. He had been examined by the doctor. His testimony could not be brushed aside lightly. He had given full details of the incident as he was present at the time when the assailants reached the tubewell. In Shivalingappa Kallayanappa v. State of Karnataka this Court has held that the deposition of the injured witness should be relied upon unless there are strong grounds for rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies, for the reason that his presence on the scene stands established in case it was proved that he suffered the injury during the said incident.

29. In State of U.P. v. Kishan Chand a similar view has been reiterated observing that the testimony of a stamped witness has its own relevance and efficacy. The fact that the witness sustained injuries at the time and place of occurrence. In case the injured witness is subjected to lengthy cross-examination and nothing can be elicited to discard his testimony, it should be relied upon (vide Krishna v. State of Haryana). Thus, we are of the considered opinion that evidence of Darshan Singh (PW 4) has rightly been relied upon by the courts below."

30. The law on the point can be summarised to the effect that the testimony of the injured witness is accorded a special status in law. This is as a consequence of the fact that the injury to the witness is an inbuilt guarantee of his presence at the scene of the crime and because the witness will not want to let his actual assailant go unpunished merely to falsely implicate a third party for the commission of the offence. Thus, the deposition of the injured witness should be relied upon unless thee are strong grounds for rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies therein."

24. Looking to the facts and circumstances of the present case, the act of PW-4 in accompanying her adult son while he was going out to ease himself, is not unnatural and on the contrary has been sufficiently explained and there is no reason to doubt her testimony as even in her cross examination she has consistently adhered to the version narrated by her all through out her examination in chief.

25. According to PW-1 on 18.09.1979 i.e. the date of incident, while he was going to Baba Kishan Das Temple and on the way he met Manohar Lal and Upendra Mishra at the intersection, where he heard screams of the deceased and his mother Bitoli - PW-4 which were coming from the west direction. He saw the accused-appellants assaulting the deceased (Krishna Kant) and his mother Bitoli was trying to save him. Hardwari (one of the accused) struck PW-4 with lathi and as a result of which she fell down. In the meanwhile, PW-1 reached near the place of incident and at that point of time Ram Asrey - another accused, while showing his 'kanta' said that if any one came near them, he would also be killed. After struggle between the accused-appellants and the deceased, the accused Shiv Shankar cut away the stomach of the deceased and ran away. In the meanwhile, number of persons gathered on the spot and the deceased was taken to the hospital in Aurangabad but about one mile from the hospital, the deceased passed away. PW-1 claims himself to the the witness of the crime in question. It has also come on record that PW-1 had taken the deceased to Police Station and shortly after occurrence first information report regarding the incident in question was lodged. All the aforesaid facts lead credence to the ocular testimony of PW-1.

26. Taking into consideration all the facts and circumstances as stated above, it is clear that the accused-appellants namely Ram Asrey, Hardwari Lal and Shiv Shanker Lal assaulted the deceased - Krishna Kant on 18.09.1979 by inflicting 'lathi' blows and knife injury resulting into death of Krishna Kant (deceased victim). The medical evidence on record also shows that the deceased had incurred thirteen injuries in all and in the opinion of PW-3, death took place due to coma as a result of head injury and also the injury no. 13 was sufficient in ordinary course of nature to cause death which was caused by knife. Despite the fact that mother of the deceased is an interested witness and her evidence has been carefully examined which convincingly points towards the guilt of the accused. PW-4 (mother of the deceased) had witnesses the entire incident from the start to the end and has given detailed evidence about the incident. During the incident PW-4 was also injured and her medical report has also been placed on record which shows that she sustained three injuries out of which two were lacerated woulds and one contusion, which were caused by Hardwari Lal one of the accused.

27. The testimony of PW-4 is corroborated by the testimony of PW-1

(informant) in all material particulars with regard to identity of the accused, time of occurrence, nature of weapons, taking the deceased from the scene of crime to the Police Station and lodging of the first information report. Thus, evidence of PW-4 Bitoli cannot be rejected only on the ground that she being mother of the deceased is an interested witness.

28. No other point was argued by learned counsel for the appellant.

29. In view of above, we find no cogent reason to take a view other than the view taken by the Trial Court, thus, no interference in the impugned judgment and order is required, same is hereby affirmed.

30. The appeal is dismissed.

31. Appellant no. 3 - Shiv Shanker is on bail pursuant to the order of this Court. His bail bonds are cancelled and surety is discharged. He is directed to surrender before the trial Court within month from the date of this order. The learned trial Court shall remand him to jail for serving out the remainder part of the sentences. On failure of appellant no. 3 - Shiv Shanker to appear before the trial Court within the stipulated period, the learned trial Court shall take appropriate steps against the appellant no. 3 - Shiv Shanker, in accordance with law.

32. Office is directed to transmit the lower Court record to the concerned Court forthwith.

THE HON'BLE B. AMIT STHALEKAR, J.
THE HON'BLE ALI ZAMIN, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 474 of 2002

Ram Chander & Ors. ...Appellants(In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Apul Mishra, Sri Rahul Saxena, Sri Raghuvansh Misra, Sri Sushil Kumar Pandey

Counsel for the Respondent:
A.G.A.

A. Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 34 - object of common intention-joint liability-As a general principle in a case of criminal liability it is the primary responsibility of the person who actually commits the offence and only that person who has committed the crime can be held to guilty. By introducing Section 34 in the penal code the Legislature laid down the principle of joint liability in doing a criminal act. The essence of that liability is to be found in the existence of a common intention connecting the accused leading to the doing of a criminal act in furtherance of such intention. Thus, if the act is the result of a common intention then every person who did the criminal act with that common intention would be responsible for the offence committed irrespective of the share which he had in its perpetration. Section 34 IPC embodies the principles of joint liability in doing the criminal act based on a common intention. Common intention essentially being a state of mind it is very difficult to procure direct evidence to prove such intention. Therefore, in most cases it has to be inferred from the act like, the conduct of the accused or other relevant circumstances of the case. The inference can be gathered by the manner in which the accused arrived at the scene, mounted the attack, determination and concert with which the attack was made, from the nature of injury caused by one or some of them. (Para 49)

B. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 374(2), Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 147, 148, 302/149 - challenge to- life imprisonment passed by trial court-high court upheld the conviction of the accused. (Para 60, 61 & 62)

Deceased had received the lease land in Gaon Sabha land-accused was claiming in the lease land-village head had decided the matter in the evening of the past night of the incident that deceased will leave three and half bigha land in favour of accused-next day accused called the deceased for measurement and on that place five persons – accused taking different weapons reached with common intention and murdered the deceased. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ali Zamin, J.)

1. Heard Sri Apul Mishra alongwith Sri Rahul Mishra and Sri Raghuvansh Misra, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Ajit Ray, learned A.G.A. for the respondent and perused the material on record.

2. This appeal has been filed against the judgement and order dated 29.01.2002 passed in Session Trial No.568 of 1996 (State vs. Ram Bahadur and 3 others), Police Station Beesalpur, District Pilibhit by which learned Additional Session Judge, Pilibhit has convicted the appellants-accused Ram Chander, Ram Shankar, Ram Bharosey and Ram Bahadur and sentenced appellant Ram Chander to undergo two years rigorous imprisonment under Section 148, appellants Ram Shankar, Ram Bharosey and Ram Bahadur have been sentenced to undergo one year rigorous imprisonment under Section 147 I.P.C. and all the appellants have been sentenced to undergo life imprisonment and fine of Rs.2000 under Section 302 read with Section 149 I.P.C. in default of fine to undergo further a period of 6 months additional imprisonment.

3. In brief facts of the prosecution case are that Gaon Sabha land was allotted on lease to the deceased Beni Ram, brother of the informant in which one Sunder Lal (since died during trial) was claiming his land. Munendra Pal Singh village head (Pradhan) resident of village Bharuwa settled the dispute between them a day before the incident and it was decided that Beni Ram will leave three and half bigha land in favour of Sunder Lal. On 22.11.1991 at 11:00 A.M. Ram Bahadur, Sunder Lal of the village came to the house of deceased Beni Ram having spade in hand and asked for measurement as decided yesterday, on which Beni Ram (deceased), Shyam Bihari (informant) and Smt. Ram Rati wife of Beni Ram proceeded for measurement taking gattha of wood (log) and rope. When they reached at 1:00 p.m. on the field, Ram Chander having a spear in hand, Ram Shankar and Rama Bharosey met there. Sunder Lal, Ram Bahadur, Ram Chander, Ram Shankar and Ram Bharosey tied both legs of Beni Ram with towel. Ram Bahadur pressed legs of Beni Ram, Ram Bharosey, Ram Shankar caught hold his both hands, Sunder Lal by spade and Ram Chander by spear started jabbing to Beni Ram stating to kill him, Sunder Lal cut the neck of Beni Ram, Ram Chander gave spear blow on the stomach. Informant and Smt. Ram Rati wife of Beni Ram alarmed. On their alarm Subedar Khan resident of the same village and Ram Singh of village Bharuwa arrived. All of them tried to save Beni Ram but accused threatened to them of dire consequences. After killing Beni Ram, assailants went away towards village through the bank of river.

4. On the oral information of Shyam Bihari (P.W.1) Case Crime No.258 of 1991, under Sections 147, 148, 302 I.P.C. was registered on 22.11.1991 at 15:30 p.m. under chik F.I.R. Ext.Ka-1 and G.D. Entry No.32 Ext.Ka-2 was also prepared on same day at 15:30 P.M. Investigation of the case was handed over to S.I. Gyan Singh (P.W.5). Investigating Officer reached the place of incident, prepared inquest memo (Ext.Ka-4) and relevant documents Ext.Ka-5 to Ext.Ka-11 i.e. address of the deceased, letter to R.I., letter to C.M.O., letter to C.M.O., police form-13, police form 379 and specimen seal respectively and dispatched the dead body for post-mortem.

5. Dr. A.K. Sharma (P.W.3) conducted post-mortem on 23.11.1991 at 3:30 P.M. and prepared report Ex.Ka-2, according to which following injuries were found on the body of the deceased Beni Ram:

1. Incised wound 14 c.m. x 7 c.m. cavity deep at the front of abdomen 5 c.m. below the umbilicus, intestine coming out.

2. Incised wound 9 c.m. x 5 c.m. below trachea the left ear and running below mandible, left carotid artery jagutar vein cut.

3. Incised wound 4 c.m. x 3 c.m. x muscle deep right side of the neck, 3 c.m. below the left angle at mandible on deep dissection carotid artery cut.

4. Incised wound 1 c.m. x 0.5 c.m. bone deep on the right side of neck, 1 c.m. above injury no.3.

5. Incised wound 3 c.m. x 1 c.m. bone deep on the back of right shoulder scapula.

6. Incised wound 5 c.m. x 1 c.m. bone deep on the back of right shoulder 1 c.m. above injury no.5 cardio process of right scapula cut.

7. Incised wound 1 c.m. x 5.7 c.m. x chest cavity deep over the angle of right scapula.

8. Abrasion 3 c.m. x 1 c.m. on the inner end of right collar bone.

9. Abrasion 7 c.m. x 1 c.m. over the left side of neck 5 c.m. above the middle left collar bone.

In his opinion cause of death was shock & haemorrhage due to ante-mortem injuries and death of the deceased was near about one day old.

6. After dispatching the dead body for post-mortem Investigating Officer inspected the place of incident and prepared spot map Ext.Ka-12. He also took into possession rope, log (lattha), blood stained and plain earth (sand), spade along with handle, old towel and prepared memo Ext.Ka-13. After completing the investigation submitted charge sheet Ext.Ka-3 under Sections 147, 148, 302 I.P.C. against the accused-appellants before the C.J.M., Pilibhit, who committed accused for trial to the court of Sessions Judge where Case Crime No.258/1991 was registered as Session Trial No.568 of 1996 (State vs. Ram Bahadur and others). The Sessions Judge transferred it to the court of Special Judge (E.C. Act), Pilibhit for trial. The trial court framed charge under 147 and 302/149 I.P.C. against the accused-appellants Ram Bahadur, Ram Shankar, Ram Bharosey and under Section 148, 302/149 I.P.C. against accused-appellants Sunder Lal and Ram Chander. The accused denied the charge and claimed trial.

Accused Sunder Lal died during trial and case against him was dismissed as abated vide order dated 10.04.2001.

7. Prosecution to prove its case has produced six witnesses. P.W.1 Shyam Bihari informant, P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati are witnesses of fact while P.W.3 Dr. A.K. Sharma conducted post-mortem, P.W.4 Mohd. Anees second Investigation Officer, P.W.5 Gyan Singh first Investigating Officer and P.W.6 Constable Narendra Pal Singh are formal witnesses. The accused-appellants in their examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C., have stated that the witnesses have deposed against them due to enmity and denied the prosecution case, but they led no evidence in their defence.

8. Trial court after hearing learned counsel for the parties and perusal of records has passed the impugned judgement and order. Hence, this appeal.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant No.2 Ram Bharosey, appellant No.3 Ram Bahadur and appellant No.4 Ram Shanker, Sri Apul Mishra has submitted that appellants are not connected with the offence. The role has been alleged of catching hold, if one spade stunt is given then the person will fall down and there will be no occasion to catch hold, therefore, participation of the appellants is doubtful. He further submitted that if the whole story of prosecution as stated by P.W.1 Shyam Bihari is accepted that the appellants grappled the deceased, then it was not their intent to commit murder covered under Section 34 of I.P.C. In support of his contention he relied on the following judgements of Hon'ble Supreme Court:

1. Balwantbhai B. Patel vs. State of Gujarat and another, (2009) 10 SCC 584.

2. Bishu Sarkar and others vs. State of West Bengal, AIR 2017 SC 1729.

3. Gaya Yadav and others vs. State of Bihar and others, AIR 2003 SC 1759.

4. D.V. Shanmugham and another vs. State of A.P. AIR 1997 SC 2583.

5. Sushil vs. State of U.P., 1994 Law Suit Supreme Court 995.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant no.1 Ram Chander, Sri Rahul Mishra assisted by Sri Raghuvans Mishra has submitted that P.W.1 Shyam Bihari has specifically stated that he reached the place of incident at 1:00 P.M. going from the police station whereas per chik report Ext.Ka-1 first information report has been registered at 3:30 P.M. Shyam Bihari has also stated that he met daroga and put his thumb impression on the paper when he came police station along with the dead body. He has also stated that he reached police station along with the dead body at 10:00 P.M. in the night while P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati has stated that the dead body reached police station at 6:00 P.M. and Shyam Bihari was also along with her. Both witnesses also stated that their statements might have been recorded on the same day, from which it becomes clear that first information report is anti-timed. It is also submitted that on the point of lodging F.I.R. and reaching of the informant to the police station question could have been put to the scribe of the chik and G.D. but scribe of chik and G.D. has not been produced by the prosecution so he has been deprived of the opportunity of cross-examination also. He has also submitted that according to prosecution a spear injury was caused to the deceased in the stomach. Injury by spear will be punctured one but according to post-mortem report injury no.1 has been found to be stomach injury cavity deep incised wound of 14 c.m. x 7 c.m. Thus, the injury alleged to have been caused by spear does not match with the medical report.

11. His next submission is that according to P.W.1 Shyam Bihari the incident took place 20 steps away from the west side of the river and its natural sense will be that incident took place towards west side of the river while P.W.5 Investigating Officer Gyan Singh has stated that the dead body was at a distance of 20 steps in the east from the river, as such from the prosecution evidence place of occurrence is also not established. He further submitted that Smt. Ram Rati has stated that in the incident her forefinger of right hand was cut off but there is no medical report to support her statement and Investigating Officer has stated that if finger of Smt. Ram Rati was cut off then she must have told him and he would have got her medically examined thus Investigating Officer does not support her statement, which makes her presence at the spot doubtful.

12. Next submission is that P.W.1 Shyam Bihari has stated that he was residing along with his son in Sitarganj and he was residing separate with his deceased brother. What was occasion to come on the day of incident has not been explained. Therefore, his presence at the time of incident is doubtful.

13. Lastly he has submitted that P.W.1 Shyam Bihari informant is brother, Smt. Ram Rati is wife of the deceased, both are highly interested witnesses. P.W.1 Shyam Bihari states that he does not know about share and side of the deceased land. He also states that as soon as the accused reached on the field, the accused grappled with his brother while P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati states that reaching the field marking for partition were made, talks took place between them, near about half an hour period was spent in the field and when her husband sat to smoke chilam, incident took place. Thus, inference will be either

P.W.1 Shyam Bihari or P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati is telling a lie or both of them are telling a lie. Learned counsel prayed that prosecution has failed to prove the charge beyond reasonable doubt against the appellants. The impugned judgement and order is not sustainable. Accordingly, judgement and order is liable to be set aside and appellants are liable to be acquitted.

14. On the other hand Sri Ajit Ray, learned A.G.A. for the respondent submits that on the basis of oral information of the informant Shyam Bihari, F.I.R. Ext.Ka-1 was registered at 3:30 P.M. and in Ext.Ka-1 itself time of the incident has been mentioned 1:00 P.M., not a single question has been put by the defence from the witness P.W.6 Narendra Pal Singh regarding the time of registration of the case. The informant P.W.1 Shyam Bihari, P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati are rustic persons and their statements in the trial court have been recorded near about after lapse of 6 years from the date of incident. According to Prabhu Dayal v/s State of Rajasthan (2018) 3 SCC (Cr.) 518 rustic witnesses can develop a tendency to exaggerate and this does not make that the entire testimony of such witnesses is falsehood. Minor contradiction in the testimony of witnesses are not fatal to the prosecution case. In State of Karnataka v/s Suvarnamma (2015) 1 SCC (Crl.) 663, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that in regard to exact time of an incident or the time of duration of an occurrence, usually people make their estimates by guess work on the spur of the moment at the time of interrogation. It depends on the time sense of individuals which varies from person to person. A witness is liable to be overawed by the court atmosphere and piercing cross-examination by the counsel and out of nervousness mix up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment the witnesses nowdays go on adding embellishments to their version perhaps for the fear of their testimony being rejected by the court. The courts should not disbelieve the evidence of such witnesses altogether if they are otherwise trustworthy. So, on the basis of the statement of informant Shyam Bihari and P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati, it cannot be said that the F.I.R. is anti-timed. Placing reliance on Vijai Pal v/s State (Govt. of NCT Delhi) (2015) 2 SCC (Cr.) 733, he has submitted that value of medical evidence is only corroborative and testimony of Shyam Bihari and Smt. Ram Rati with regard to causing spear injury in stomach by Ram Chander is intact and their statements in this regard are reliable. He also submitted that P.W.1 Shyam Bihari and P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati have stated that after taking meal they had gone to the field which is corroborated by medical evidence as in post-mortem report Doctor has also found that 2-3 hours before the incident deceased could have taken meal. Shyam Bihari has stated that he lived separately with the deceased in the village and he also lived at Sitarganj along with his son. In his cross-examination nothing has been elicited from which it can be inferred that on the date of incident he was not present on the spot and in the village, where the incident took place. The spot map Ext.ka-12 has been proved by the Investigating Officer P.W.5 Sub-Inspector Gyan Singh, who had taken the blood stained and plain sands from the place of incident and it has been sent to Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra. According to expert report human blood has been found on it from which the place of occurrence is established. Shyam Bihari has stated that place of incident is 20 steps away from the west side of the river. On the basis of his statement it cannot be inferred that the place of incident is changed. He has further submitted that the witnesses have stated that in murder of Jagdish, case was registered against the deceased. He has also stated that a gangster case was also registered against the deceased brother and another case under Section 25 Arms Act was also registered against him which indicates that the witness is not concealing the facts but speaking truly, thus he is reliable and trustworthy witness. Lastly he has submitted that so far as discrepancy regarding incident taking place on reaching the place of incident and after sometime reaching the place of incident is concerned due to the lapse of time and witnesses being rustic one, this discrepancy has taken place but P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati has stated that on reaching the spot places were dug for marking in which half an hour was spent and when her husband sat for smoking chilam the incident was caused. She has also stated that from the house in reaching the spot it took half an hour. The estimated time has been told by the witness which also corroborate the time of incident to be 1:00 P.M. mentioned in the F.I.R. Ext.Ka-1. He submitted that from the evidences produced by the prosecution charges are fully proved against the appellants. The trial court has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellants-accused. No interference is required by this Court and appeal is liable to be rejected.

15. In cross-examination P.W.1 Shyam Bihari has stated that he reached the spot at 1:00 P.M. going from the police station, while as per F.I.R. Ext.Ka-1, the report of the incident has been made on 22.11.1991 at 15:30 P.M. In cross-examination Shyam Bihari has also stated that dead body reached the police station at 10:00 P.M. P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati has stated that dead body came to the police station at 6:00 P.M. As such there is a discrepancy between statements of Shyam Bihari and Smt. Ram Rati with regard to reaching the dead body at the police station.

16. P.W.1 Shyam Bihari has stated that by dictating he lodged the report and after hearing it, he had put his thumb impression. From his statement it is very much clear that when he went to the police station for lodging report at that very time after dictating and hearing the report he put his thumb impression on the report.

17. He has also stated that he is illiterate and he by profession is a farmer. P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati has also stated that she is illiterate. As per F.I.R. Ext.Ka-1 informant Shyam Bihari is by caste Dhobi (washerman). It is the case of the prosecution that Gaon Sabha land was allotted on lease to the deceased Beni Ram which indicates that the witnesses belong to a poor strata of the society and both are rustic witnesses.

18. In State of U.P. vs. Krishna Master and others (2010) 12 SCC (324), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that "the basic principle of appreciation of evidence of a rustic witness who is not educated and comes from a poor strata of society is that the evidence of such a witness should be appreciated as a whole. The rustic witness as compared to an educated witness is not expected to remember every small detail of the incident and the manner in which the incident had happened more particularly when his evidence is recorded after a lapse of time. Further, a witness is bound to face shock of the untimely death of his near relative(s). Therefore, the court must keep in mind all these relevant factors while appreciating evidence of a rustic witness."

19. In State of Karnataka v/s Suvarnamma and another, 2015 (1) SCC 323, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 12.2 of the judgement has referred the case of Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v/s State of Gujarat, 1983 SCC 728 as follows:

5. .....We do not consider it appropriate or permissible to enter upon a reappraisal or reappreciation of the evidence in the context of the minor discrepancies painstakingly highlighted by learned Counsel for the appellant. Overmuch importance cannot be attached to minor discrepancies. The reasons are obvious :

"(1) By and large a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident. It is not as if a video tape is replayed on the mental screen.

(2) Ordinarily it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events. The witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which so often has an element of surprised. The [pic]mental faculties therefore cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb the details.

(3) The powers of observation differ from person to person. What one may notice, another may not. An object or movement might emboss its image on one person's mind, whereas it might go unnoticed on the part of another.

(4) By and large people cannot accurately recall a conversation and reproduce the very words used by them or heard by them. They can only recall the main purport of the conversation. It is unrealistic to expect a witness to be a human tape-recorder.

(5) In regard to exact time of an incident, or the time duration of an occurrence, usually, people make their estimates by guess-work on the spur of the moment at the time of interrogation. And one cannot expect people to make very precise or reliable estimates in such matters. Again, it depends on the time-sense of individuals which varies from person to person.

(6) Ordinarily a witness cannot be expected to recall accurately the sequence of events which takes place in rapid succession or in a short time span. A witness is liable to get confused, or mixed up when interrogated later on.

(7) A witness, though wholly truthful, is liable to be overawed by the court atmosphere and the piercing cross-examination made by counsel and out of nervousness mix up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events, or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment. The sub- conscious mind of the witness sometimes so operates on account of the fear of looking foolish or being disbelieved though the witness is giving a truthful and honest account of the occurrence witnessed by him -- Perhaps it is a sort of a psychological defence mechanism activated on the spur of the moment."

20. In the instant case the incident has occurred on 22.11.1991 and statement of P.W.1 Shyam Bihari was recorded on 23.10.1997 and statement of P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati was started on 23.10.1997 and completed on 03.03.1998 i.e. the statements of both witnesses were recorded near about after a lapse of six years.

21. In the first information report, Ext.Ka-1 the time of incident has been mentioned 1:00 P.M. and time of giving information to the police station is mentioned as 15:30 P.M. The witness has stated very clearly that he reached the police station and at the police station he had no talk with the daroga. This much talk too did not take place that you reach on the spot. Further he has stated that after lodging report he had gone at the spot and he reached on the spot from the police station at about 1:00 P.M. in the afternoon. It appears that due to his testimony being recorded after a lapse of six years from the date of incident and witness is also a rustic witness overawed by the court atmosphere and piercing cross-examination made by counsel and out of nervousness mixing up facts, getting confused regarding sequence of events or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment as held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v/s State of Gujarat, (supra), he has stated that he reached on the spot at 1:00 P.M. going from the police station.

22. Informant Shyam Bihari has further stated that he had talk with darogaji at the police station at the time when he made thumb impression on the paper. He has also stated that when he came along with the dead body at the police station then he had met darogaji. He has clearly stated that after lodging report he had gone on the spot. From his whole statement it is clear that after lodging the report, informant Shyam Bihari returned to the spot thereafter dead body of the deceased was taken to the police station. It appears that due to statement being recorded after six years from the date of incident and informant being rustic one out of nervousness mixing the fact with regard to putting thumb impression has stated that he put his thumb impression on papers when he met darogaji on coming along with dead body. Considering his whole statement it can't be inferred that he lodged the report when dead body reached the police station. Thus, on the basis of statements of P.W.1 Shyam Bihari that he reached the place of incident at 1:00 P.M. going from the police station and statement of Smt. Ram Rati as well as his statement with regard to time of reaching dead body at the police station, time of lodging F.I.R. 15:30 P.M. mentioned in Ext.Ka-1 and informant's putting thumb impression on paper when he met daroga along with dead body, it can't be inferred that F.I.R. was lodged when dead body reached the police station.

23. In view of the above discussion, we do not find any substance in the contention of learned counsel for the appellants that F.I.R. is anti timed.

24. P.W.1 Shyam Bihari in his cross-examination has stated that the incident has taken place at a distance about 20 steps from the west side of the river and as per P.W.5 Gyan Singh Investigating Officer and spot map Ext.Ka-12 distance of the dead body from the river is 22 steps towards east of the river. The veracity of spot map Ext.Ka-12 proved by Investigating Officer P.W.5 Gyan Singh has not been disputed by the defence. In the Ext.Ka-12 dead body has been shown at place marked as "D' which is towards east of the river and distance of the dead body from the east of the river has been shown to be 22 steps. P.W.1 Shyam Bihari has stated that the incident took place at about 20 steps from the west side of the river which cannot be taken as the dead body was 20 steps towards west from the west side of the river. It is tact of the counsel as to how he puts question to a witness. The witness replies in accordance to the question put to him. Thus, on the basis of statements of P.W.1 Shyam Bihari and P.W.5 Gyan Singh Investigating Officer it can't be inferred that the place of incident is not established. Apart from it, in spot map Ext.Ka-12, it is clearly mentioned that at place marked as "D' dead body was found and at the place marked as "3' blood was found and both places are situated towards east side of the river. On asking by defence in cross-examination Investigation Officer has stated that apart from place D he did not see blood of the deceased. As per recovery memo Ext.Ka-13 Investigating Officer took into his possession blood stained (sand) from the place of incident. He also took into his possession the towel from which legs of deceased alleged to have been tied and a spade shown in the spot map at place F was found. According to scientific report available on record human blood were found on the materials recovered from the place of incident. These facts clearly establish the place of incident towards east of the river. As such prosecution regarding place of incident is consistent, corroborated and reliable.

25. In view of the above, we also find no substance in the contention of learned counsel for the appellants that on the basis of statement of informant P.W.1 Shyam Bihari and P.W.5 Investigating Officer, Gyan Singh, place of incident is not established.

26. As per post-mortem report Ext.Ka-2, seven incised wounds and two abrasions have been found on the person of the deceased, in which injury no.1 is incised wound 14 cm. x 7 cm. cavity deep at the front of abdomen 5 c.m. below the umbilicus, intestine coming out. In Ext.Ka-1 proved by P.W.1 Shyam Bihari, it has been mentioned that Ram Sunder inflicted spear injury on the stomach. P.W.1 Shyam Bihari through his testimony also has supported the prosecution version and has stated that accused Ram Chander caused spear injury in the stomach of deceased Beni Ram. P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati too supporting the prosecution story has stated that Ram Chander caused spear injury in the stomach of her husband. Statement of both the witnesses regarding inflicting spear injury in the stomach of deceased Beni Ram by appellant-accused Ram Chander has not been impeached. Thus, the statement of P.W.1 Shyam Bihari and P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati is consistent and corroborative to each other.

27. Learned counsel for the appellant no.1 contends that injury by spear will be punctured wound and injury no.1 alleged to have been caused by spear has been found to be incised wound of 14 c.m. x 7 c.m. So, the alleged spear injury does not match with the medical report.

28. In Pal Singh vs. State of U.P. (1979) 4 SCC 345, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"Lastly, it was submitted that the injuries caused to the deceased are inconsistent with the manner in which the deceased is alleged to have been assaulted. For instance, while the accused were armed with kantas and spears, only one punctured wound was found. We might point out that this is a purely artificial argument. The High Court has rightly pointed out that if the accused assaulted with side portion of the blade of the weapons in a slanting fashion, only incised wounds would be caused. Thus the injuries sustained by the deceased are not inconsistent with the medical report which finds a number of incised wounds inflicted on the deceased. On the findings of fact arrived at by the High Court, it is clear that the appellants shared the common object to cause the death of the deceased either by participation or by exhortation."

29. In Vijai Pal v/s State of (Government of NCT of Delhi) (supra) Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 15 of the judgement has held as under :

"There is no dispute that the value of medical evidence is only corroborative. It proves that the injuries could have been caused in the manner as alleged and nothing more. The use which the defence can make of the medical evidence is to prove that the injuries could not possibly have been caused in the manner alleged and thereby discredit the eye-witnesses. Unless, however the medical evidence in its turn goes so far that it completely rules out all possibilities whatsoever of injuries taking place in the manner alleged by eyewitnesses, the testimony of the eye-witnesses cannot be thrown out on the ground of alleged inconsistency between it and the medical evidence. It is also true that the post-mortem report by itself is not a substantive piece of evidence, but the evidence of the doctor conducting the post-mortem can by no means be ascribed to be insignificant. The significance of the evidence of the doctor lies vis--vis the injuries appearing on the body of the deceased person and likely use of the weapon and it would then be the prosecutor's duty and obligation to have the corroborative evidence available on record from the other prosecution witnesses. It is also an accepted principle that sufficient weightage should be given to the evidence of the doctor who has conducted the post- mortem, as compared to the statements found in the textbooks, but giving weightage does not ipso facto mean that each and every statement made by a medical witness should be accepted on its face value even when it is self-contradictory. It is also a settled principle that the opinion given by a medical witness need not be the last word on the subject. Such an opinion shall be tested by the Court. If the opinion is bereft of logic or objectivity, the court is not obliged to go by that opinion. That apart, it would be erroneous to accord undue primacy to the hypothetical answers of medical witnesses to exclude the eyewitnesses' account which are to be tested independently and not treated as the 'variable' keeping the medical evidence as the 'constant'. Where the eyewitnesses' account is found credible and trustworthy, a medical opinion pointing to the alternative possibilities cannot be accepted as conclusive."

30. In the instant case testimony of P.W.-1 Shyam Bihari and P.W.-2 Smt. Ram Rati with regard to causing spear injury by Ram Chander is consistent and corroborated to each other. Considering the opinion of Hon'ble Apex Court in Pal Singh and others (supra) that if accused assaulted with side portion of the blade of the weapons in a slanting fashion only incised wounds would be caused as well as opinion of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vijai Pal v/s State (GNCT of Delhi) (supra) referred by learned A.G.A. that value of medical evidence is only corroborative and unless medical evidence in its turn goes so far that it completely rules out all possibilities whatsoever injuries taking place in the manner alleged by eye witnesses, the testimony of eye witnesses can't be thrown out on the ground of alleged inconsistency between it and medical evidence, in the instant case it can't be gathered that injury no.1 is not possible by spear as stated by witnesses Shyam Bihari and Smt. Ram Rati. Accordingly, we find no substance in the contention of learned counsel for the appellants that spear injury will necessarily be punctured one and injury no.1 is incised injury hence injury injury no.1 alleged to have been caused by spear does not match with the medical report.

31. P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati has stated that she made efforts to save her husband from injury being caused by accused in which her right hand's forefinger got cut and fell on the ground. In cross-examination she has stated that she had shown the cut finger to the Investigating Officer. The Investigating Officer P.W.5 Gyan Singh has stated that he cannot tell whether finger of Smt. Ram Rati was cut or not. Smt. Ram Rati had not received any injury and her finger was not cut, if it happened, so, then she certainly would have told him and he would have got her medically examined for the same. From statement of P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati and P.W.5 Gyan Singh, it appears that Smt. Ram Rati has made such a statement first time in court which is not supported by any other evidence, so, to this extent her statement does not appear credible.

32. In first information report, it is mentioned that along with deceased Beni Ram, Smt. Ram Rati had also gone at the place of incident. In spot map Ext.Ka-12 at place-1 shown in a circle presence of wife of the deceased has been mentioned. As per statement of P.W.5 Gyan Singh, the spot map was prepared on the day of incident and from cross-examination nothing has been extracted so that its veracity can be doubted. P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati has also stated that she had accompanied her husband and in her cross-examination by defence nothing material has been extracted, so that her presence on the spot at the time of incident can be doubted. P.W.1 Shyam Bihari in examination-in-chief as well as in cross-examination has stated that he and his sister-in-law (bhabhi) were present on the spot together. He has also stated that due to fear of accused his bhabhi did not go to the deceased to save him. Thus, with regard to presence of P.W.1 Shyam Bihari and P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati at the time of incident on the spot, prosecution evidence is consistent, corroborative to each other. P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati in last day of her cross-examination has stated that when her husband was caught, tied and killed she cried and wept, five persons were there so, she could not dare save him. As such the prosecution evidence of P.W.1 Shyam Bihari and P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati is consistent and corroborated to each other that due to fear of accused, Smt. Ram Rati did not go to the deceased to save him which in the facts and circumstances of the case appears credible.

She has also stated that she tried to save her husband but accused caught hold her. She has further stated that when her finger was cut blood dropped on the place of incident. Next, she has stated that she did not feel finger was cut off. Again she has stated that finger was fallen there on the spot. She has also stated that as the spade was jabbed on neck, she fell down over her husband and injury was caused in her hand. It is the prosecution case that accused Sunder Lal was jabbing with spade and accused Ram Chander with spear and according to Smt. Ram Rati her forefinger was cut as the spade was jabbed on the neck she fell over her husband to save him. It does not appear probable that when spade is used in causing injury then in making effort to save victim only forefinger will cut.

33. In State of Karnataka v/s Suvarnamma and another, 2015 (1) SCC 323, the Hon'ble Supreme Court relying on the case of Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v/s State of Gujarat, 1983 SCC 728 in para 5 of the judgement has quoted sub-para (7) as under:

"A witness, though wholly truthful, is liable to be overawed by the court atmosphere and the piercing cross-examination made by counsel and out of nervousness mix up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events, or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment. The sub- conscious mind of the witness sometimes so operates on account of the fear of looking foolish or being disbelieved though the witness is giving a truthful and honest account of the occurrence witnessed by him -- Perhaps it is a sort of a psychological defence mechanism activated on the spur of the moment."

34. In Prabhu Dayal v/s State of Rajasthan (2018) 3 SCC 517, Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 18 of the judgement has held that "it is a common phenomenon that the witnesses are rustic and can develop a tendency to exaggerate. This, however, does not mean that the entire testimony of such witnesses is falsehood. Minor contradictions in the testimony of the witnesses are not fatal to the case of the prosecution. This Court, in State of U.P. v/s M.K. Anthony, (1985) 1 SCC 505, held that inconsistencies and discrepancies alone do not merit the rejection of the evidence as a whole. It stated as follows:

"10. While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the approach must be whether the evidence of the witness read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is formed, it is undoubtedly necessary for the court to scrutinise the evidence more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, drawbacks and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witness and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken as to render it unworthy of belief. Minor discrepancies on trivial matters not touching the core of the case, hyper-technical approach by taking sentences torn out of context here or there from the evidence, attaching importance to some technical error committed by the investigating officer not going to the root of the matter would not ordinarily permit rejection of the evidence as a whole. If the court before whom the witness gives evidence had the opportunity to form the opinion about the general tenor of evidence given by the witness, the appellate court which had not this benefit will have to attach due weight to the appreciation of evidence by the trial court and unless there are reasons weighty and formidable it would not be proper to reject the evidence on the ground of minor variations or infirmities in the matter of trivial details. Even honest and truthful witnesses may differ in some details unrelated to the main incident because power of observation, retention and reproduction differ with individuals. Cross-examination is an unequal duel between a rustic and refined lawyer.

Having examined the evidence of this witness, a friend and well-wisher of the family carefully giving due weight to the comments made by the learned counsel for the respondent and the reasons assigned to by the High Court for rejecting his evidence simultaneously keeping in view the appreciation of the evidence of this witness by the trial court, we have no hesitation in holding that the High Court was in error in rejecting the testimony of witness Nair whose evidence appears to us trustworthy and credible."

In para 21 of the judgement Hon'ble Supreme Court has also held that "Moreover, it is not necessary that the entire testimony of a witness be disregarded because one portion of such testimony is false.

35. In the instant case, it appears that Smt. Ram Rati, who is a rustic witness, under apprehension of being disbelieved by the court to be truthful witness as observed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Karnataka v/s Suvarnamma and another (supra), has tried to fill up details from imagination on the spur of moment and developed a tendency to exaggerate as held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Prabhu Dayal v/s State of Rajasthan (supra) in stating that her forefinger was cut off in making an effort to save her husband from the accused persons.

In view of the above although we find that statement of Smt. Ram Rati with regard to cutting her forefinger in saving her husband is not credible but on the basis of her this statement, in view of the above discussion, her presence at the time of incident is not doubtful. Accordingly, we do not find substance in the contention of learned counsel for the appellants that presence of Smt. Ram Rati on the spot is doubtful.

36. In the instant case the F.I.R. and G.D. scribe has not been produced, as P.W.6 Constable Narendra Pal Singh has stated that he was posted at police station Beesalpur along with Head Moharrir no.31 Babu Ram Yadav and he has seen him reading and writing and well acquainted with his handwriting and signature. He has proved F.I.R. Ext.Ka-1 included in the file, in the handwriting and signature of Babu Ram Yadav. He has also proved disclosure of F.I.R. no.258/1981 in the G.D. No.32 at 15:30 P.M. as Ext.Ka-15. Regarding registration of F.I.R. No any question has been put to this witness so that registration of F.I.R. at 15:30 P.M. can be doubted.

37. P.W.1 Shyam Bihari has stated that his report was scribed in the police station on his dictation and after hearing it, he had put his thumb impression and he has proved it as Ext.Ka-1. As per Ext.Ka-1, the incident took place at 1:00 P.M. on 22.11.1991. It is also mentioned in it that report was lodged on 22.11.1991 at 15:30 P.M. We have already discussed in preceding paras of the judgement with regard to F.I.R. being ante time and in para 23 of the judgement has found that F.I.R. is not anti-timed. The prosecution has produced the informant P.W.1 Shyam Bihari and defence was provided opportunity of cross-examination to this witness. In such circumstances, although scribe of the chik F.I.R. and G.D. has not been produced by the prosecution and defence had no opportunity to cross-examine the scribe of the chik F.I.R. and G.D. but as prosecution has produced informant P.W.1 Shyam Bihari, who orally lodged F.I.R. Ext.Ka-1 and to prove chik F.I.R. and G.D. prosecution has also produced P.W.6 Constable Narendra Pal Singh and no question with regard to registration of F.I.R. has been put to him. In the facts and circumstances it appears that no prejudice has been caused to the defence. Accordingly, we are of the view that although scribe of chik and G.D. has not been produced by prosecution on account of which defence had no opportunity to cross-examine him but no prejudice has been caused to the defence.

38. P.W.1 Shyam Bihari in cross-examination has stated that he was also residing along with his son, separate with his deceased brother. He has also a house in Sitarganj. His son Sohan Lal was residing with him in Sitarganj. He has stated that on the day of incident at about 11:00 A.M. Ram Bahadur and Sunder Lal came at his house to call deceased Beni Ram, at that time Sunder Lal had a spade. He has also stated that Sunder Lal asked from them to measure the field as decided yesterday on which he, deceased Beni Ram and his wife Smt. Ram Rati reached lease field. He and Beni Ram were bare hand and Smt. Ram Rati had a khurpi. They reached on the field at about 11:00 A.M. and he has narrated the story of the incident. In the spot map Ext.Ka-12, his presence has been also shown by mark 2 in a circle. From his cross-examination nothing has been extracted by defence from which his presence at the time of incident can be doubted. On going through his testimony, it is also clear that the defence has not tried to clarify from him with regard to opportunity of being present in the village where the incident took place. Apart from it, it is also notable that the witness Shyam Bihari has clearly stated that he was also residing along with his son, separate with the deceased brother. In such a situation, his presence at the time of incident appears natural also. P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati also has supported the presence of Shyam Bihari at the time of incident.

In view of the above discussion, on the basis of statement of informant Shyam Bihari that he has also a house in Sitarganj and he was residing along with his son separate with the deceased, his presence on the spot can't be doubted. Accordingly, we find no substance in the contention of learned counsel for the appellants that presence of informant Shyam Bihari at the time of incident is doubtful.

39. It is true that P.W.1 Shyam Bihari in his cross-examination has stated that he does not know what share and in which side the accused Sunder Lal had to get in the lease land but in cross-examination itself he has stated that in between field of Beni Ram and accused Sunder Lal field of Siya Ram, Damodar Lal, Ram Gopal and Pancham Rai are adjoining to each other. In cross-examination he has also stated that he did not go in the panchayat. It is case of prosecution that land was allotted to the deceased on lease and prosecution evidence in this regard is intact. Thus, in view of his statement that he did not go in the panchayat, on the basis of statement of informant Shyam Bihari that he does not know what share and which side accused Sunder Lal had to get, no any adverse inference against prosecution can be derived.

40. P.W.1 Shyam Bihari has stated that after reaching the field accused assembled and grappled his brother and fallen down him. P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati has stated that on reaching the field marking for partition were made, talks took place between them near about half an hour was spent in the field and when her husband sat to smoke chilam incident took place. P.W.5 Investigating Officer Gyan Singh in cross-examination has stated that he did not find chilam or spread tobacco on the place of incident. As per recovery memo Ext.Ka-13 a rope of mooz and jute, a spade, a log of wood and an old towel by which both legs of the deceased alleged to have been tied have been recovered by P.W.5 Gyan Singh Investigating Officer but chilam and tobacco were not recovered by him. If really it was a fact that deceased Beni Ram putting chilam in his mouth as tried to smoke accused persons caused the incident, then certainly chilam and tobacco should have been there and found by the I.O. but it was not so. Apart from it her statement itself appears inherently contradictory as she has stated that firstly Ram Bahadur fallen down the deceased, Ram Bahadur and Ram Shankar tied his legs, Ram Bharosey caught the hand, Sunder Lal cut neck by spade and Ram Chander inflicted spear injury in the stomach. If deceased was fallen down, his legs were tied, thereafter incident was caused, in that situation, no question arises of putting chilam in mouth to smoke. It appears that Smt. Ram Rati who is a rustic witness and statement has been recorded after lapse of six years from the incident, has given such statement being confused or to fill up details from imagination on the spur of moment on account of fear being being disbelieved as held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v/s State of Gujarat, 1983 SCC 728 and considered in State of Karnataka vs. Savarnamma and another (supra).

41. In Ext.Ka-1 the first information report which has been made just after the incident, it is mentioned that when informant Shyam Bihari, deceased Beni Ram and Smt. Ram Rati reached the field accused Ram Chander, Ram Shankar and Ram Bharosey also met there and accused Sunder Lal, Ram Bahadur, Ram Chander Ram Shankar and Ram Bharosey fallen down his brother Beni Ram and tied legs of his brother Beni Ram, Ram Bahadur pressed legs of his brother, Ram Bharosey and Ram Shankar caught his both hand, Sunder Lal by spade and Ram Chander by spear started jabbing stating to kill him. Sunder Lal cut neck of his brother by spade and Ram Chander gave spear blow on stomach. This version has been supported by P.W.1 Shyam Bihari through his testimony also and from his cross-examination nothing has been extracted, so as to doubt his testimony. It appears that Smt. Ram Rati being a rustic and illiterate lady and her statement also has been recorded after a lapse of six years from the date of incident as held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Prabhu Dayal v/s State of Rajasthan (2018) e SCC 517 has exaggerated the prosecution story with regard to digging of places for demarcation thereafter sitting the deceased on earth put chilam in his mouth and as he tried to smoke the incident was caused and as discussed in para 31 of the judgement in order to save deceased her forefinger was also not cut off but in material particulars of prosecution case, her testimony like allotment of land on lease to her husband, claim by accused Sunder Lal in the lease land, matter being decided by village head Ram Chander @ Munendra in the evening of the past night, coming of accused Sunder Lal to call the deceased, going on the lease land of deceased Beni Ram, informant Shyam Bihari and herself, tying leg of the deceased by accused Ram Bahadur, Ram Shankar catching hand by Ram Bharosey, causing spade injury on the neck by accused Sunder Lal and spear injury on the stomach by accused Ram Chander is intact. As such on reading her statement as whole core of the case is not shaken and appears to have a ring of truth, as such on the basis of her statement that on reaching the field marking for partition were made, talks took place, her husband sat and as he tried to smoke chilam, incident was caused and in saving deceased her forefinger was cut, her whole statement can't be discarded.

42. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case as discussed above, in our opinion, on the basis of statement of P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati that on reaching the field marking for partition were made talks took place between them and near about half an hour period was spent in the field thereafter her husband sat to smoke chilam then incident took place, it cannot be said that witnesses are telling a lie.

43. P.W.1 Shyam Bihari is brother of the deceased Beni Ram and P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati wife of the deceased, as such both witnesses are related witnesses with the deceased. In the case of Waman and others vs. State of Maharashtra, (2011) Criminal Law Journal 4827, it has been observed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that merely because witnesses are related to the complainant and deceased, their evidence cannot be thrown out. If their evidence is found to be consistent and true, the fact of their being relative cannot discredit their evidence. In the other words, the relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness and courts have to scrutinize their evidence meticulously.

44. In Sadayappan @ Ganesan vs. State, represented by Inspector of Police, 2019 SCC 610, the Hon'ble Supreme court has held that criminal law jurisprudence makes a clear distinction between a related and interested witness. A witness cannot be said to be an "interested" witness merely by virtue of being a relative of the victim. The witness may be called "interested" only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished.

In the instant case defence has not pointed out how the prosecution witnesses informant P.W.1 Shyam Bihari and P.W.2 Smt. Ram Rati are interested in seeing the accused persons punished.

In view of the above, we find no substance in the contention of learned counsel for the appellants that both the witnesses are highly interested witnesses.

45. Learned counsel for the appellant Sri Apul Mishra has submitted that if one spade stunt is given the person will fall down and there will be no occasion to catch hold, therefore, participation of the appellant is doubtful but we find no force in the contention of learned counsel for the appellant as it is not the prosecution case that spade stunt was given to the deceased thereafter other accused caught hold the hands and press the legs of the deceased.

46. Sri Apul Mishra has also submitted that if prosecution story as stated by P.W.1 Shyam Bihari is accepted that the appellants grappled the deceased, it was not their intent to commit the murder covered under Section 34 of the I.P.C. He has referred five cases in support of his contention, disclosed in para 9 of the judgement.

47. The question before us for consideration is whether appellant no.2

Ram Bharosey and appellant no.4 Ram Shankar, who caught hold hands of the deceased and appellant no.3 Ram Bahadur, who pressed both legs of the deceased shared common intention with co-accused Sunder Lal and Ram Bahadur who caused spade and spear injury to the deceased Beni Ram.

48. Common intention, essentially being a state of mind, so, it is very difficult for prosecution to produce direct evidence to prove such intention, therefore, generally it has to be inferred from the conduct of the accused, manner in which the accused arrived at the scene, they mounted the attack, their determination and concert with which the attack was made and nature of injury caused by one or some of the accused. The persons who are not responsible for the injury can be gathered by subsequent conduct after the attack. To appreciate, whether appellant nos.2, 3 and 4 had common intention in committing the offence or not we would like to refer the following cases.

49. Ramesh Singh @ Photti vs. State of A.P. (2004) 11 SCC 305. In this case Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 12 of the judgement has held as under:

"To appreciate the arguments advanced on behalf of the appellants it is necessary to understand the object of incorporating Section 34 in the Indian Penal Code. As a general principle in a case of criminal liability it is the primary responsibility of the person who actually commits the offence and only that person who has committed the crime can be held to guilty. By introducing Section 34 in the penal code the Legislature laid down the principle of joint liability in doing a criminal act. The essence of that liability is to be found in the existence of a common intention connecting the accused leading to the doing of a criminal act in furtherance of such intention. Thus, if the act is the result of a common intention then every person who did the criminal act with that common intention would be responsible for the offence committed irrespective of the share which he had in its perpetration. Section 34 IPC embodies the principles of joint liability in doing the criminal act based on a common intention. Common intention essentially being a state of mind it is very difficult to procure direct evidence to prove such intention. Therefore, in most cases it has to be inferred from the act like, the conduct of the accused or other relevant circumstances of the case. The inference can be gathered by the manner in which the accused arrived at the scene, mounted the attack, determination and concert with which the attack was made, from the nature of injury caused by one or some of them. The contributory acts of the persons who are not responsible for the injury can further be inferred from the subsequent conduct after the attack. In this regard even an illegal omission on the part of such accused can indicate the sharing of common intention. In other words, the totality of circumstances must be taken into consideration in arriving at the conclusion whether the accused had the common intention to commit an offence of which they could be convicted."

50. In Asif Khan vs. State of Maharashtra and another (2019) 5 SCC 210, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 26 of the judgement has held as under:

"To the same effect is the judgment of this Court in Raju Pandurang Mahale vs. State of Mahrashtra and Another, (2004) 4 SCC 371. Another judgment, which is relevant for the present case is the case of Murari Thakur and Another Vs. State of Bihar, (2009) 16 SCC 256. In the above case, the main plea of the accused was that he had caught the legs of the deceased whereas third accused cut him with his sharp edged weapon. In paragraph No.7, following was laid down:-

"7. We agree with the view taken by the High Court and the trial court that the accused had committed murder of deceased Bal Krishna Mishra after overpowering him in furtherance of their common intention on 26-8-1998 at 4 p.m. No doubt it was Sunil Kumar, who is not before us, who cut the neck of the deceased but the appellants before us (Murari Thakur and Sudhir Thakur) also participated in the murder. Murari Thakur had caught the legs of the deceased and Sudhir Thakur sat on the back of the deceased at the time of commission of this murder. Hence, Section 34 IPC is clearly applicable in this case."

51. According to prosecution case, Beni Ram had received lease land, accused Sunder Lal was claiming in the lease land. Munendra Pal Singh (village head) had decided the matter in the evening of the past night of the incident that deceased Beni Ram will leave three and half bigha land in favour of accused Sunder Lal. Next day of the decision at about 11:00 A.M. Ram Bahadur and Sunder Lal came to the house of the deceased to call him for measurement of land as decided by the village head at that time Sunder Lal was having a spade. On the call of the accused to measure the land, P.W.1 Shyam Bihari, deceased Beni Ram and his wife Smt. Ram Rati reached the field, where all the accused persons met among whom accused Ram Chander was armed with an spear, accused Sunder Lal was armed with spade. The place of incident is situated on the bank of river a remote area and there was no such occasion for the other accused persons to be present there that too accused Ram Chander being armed with spear. When deceased Beni Ram reached on the spot, he was fallen down by accused, both legs were tied by towel. Accused Ram Bahadur pressed legs of the deceased Beni Ram, Ram Bharosey and Ram Shankar caught hold his both hands. Sunder Lal cut the neck of Beni Ram and Ram Chander gave spear blow on the stomach which is supported by the post-mortem report Ext.Ka.2 proved by P.W.3 Dr. A.K. Sharma. As per post-mortem report as a result of stomach injury intestine of the deceased came out. Over the neck three incised injuries, on right shoulder two incised injuries and one incised injury chest cavity deep over the angle of right scapula have been found. Causing spade injury on the neck and spear injury on the stomach as found in Ext.Ka-2 post-mortem report in the condition of hands being caught by two accused and legs by one accused is possible one. Pressing legs of deceased by one accused, catching hold of both hands by two accused and causing spade and spear injury by two accused indicates that all the accused shared common intention in perpetration of crime. Testimony of P.W.1 Shyam Bihari with regard to going of accused persons through the bank of river is corroborated by spot map Ext.Ka-13 as such prosecution evidence in this regard also is consistent, corroborated and reliable.

52. The facts, circumstances and the observation of five cases referred by learned counsel for the appellants Sri Apul Mishra are follows.

53. In the case of Balwantbhai B. Patel vs. State of Gujarat and another, it has been stated that on 30th November 1993, at about 9 p.m., Ghulam Hussain Ansari, Sagir Ahmed Ansari, since deceased, Gyasuddin Ahmed Ansari and Kitabuddin Ansari were sitting at their house in Falia, District Bharuch, when the three accused Thakorbhai Somabhai, Jagdishbhai Nanjibhai Patel and Balwantbhai Patel, the present appellant, arrived at that place in a drunken condition. They abused Sagir Ahmed Ansari and others sitting there and when they objected, Thakorbhai inflicted a knife blow in the abdomen of Sagir Ahmed and another knife blow on the left side of his head. Gyasuddin Ansari and Kitabuddin Ansari intervened so as to rescue Sagir Ahmed whereupon Balwantbhai, the present appellant, caught hold Gyasuddin and Jagdishbhai inflicted a blow on his head with an axe. The appellant thereafter ran away hurling abuses on the other side. Sagir Ahmed died soon after he reached the Civil hospital. The trial court convicted all the accused and judgement of the trial court was confirmed in appeal by the High Court. In the appeal it was contended that the appellants herein had caught hold of Gyasuddin Ahmed Ansari, PW which had enabled Jagdishbhai, the co-accused, to cause a simple injury on him. It was pointed out that the injury report of Gyasuddin Ahmed Ansari was not on record which clearly falsified the prosecution story. It was also submitted that, in any case, the story of catching hold of a witness or of a deceased or an allegation of exhortation made by an accused are invariably used to cast the net wide with respect to the incident. The Supreme Court has held as under:

"There is no evidence to show that Gyasuddin Ansari had received any injury as his injury statement is not on record. The finding, therefore, of the High Court about the appellant's presence appears to be on shaky foundations. We are also not unmindful of the fact that allegations of catching hold of an attack victim or of an exhortation are invariably made when the number of injuries on the injured party do not co-relate to the number of accused or in the alternative in an attempt to rope in as many persons as possible from the other side. We also observe that the appellant has already undergone more than six yesrs of the sentence. For all these reasons, we find that the order of the High Court is not sustainable."

54. In the case of Bishu Sarkar and others vs. State of West Bengal, AIR 2017 SC 1729, prosecution relied on the testimony of PW 2 Nepal Dey, PW 3 Gopal Dey and PW 5 Kanai Sharma. According to PW2 Nepal Dey, he saw accused Tarit Kundu, Sahadeb Sarkar, Sasthi Sarkar, Bishu Sarkar, Sukumar Ghosh and Paresh Sarkar and all six persons caught hold of the collar of shirt of Raju Bose and assaulted him by fist and blows.....Accused Sukumar Ghosh and Paresh Sarkar gave the order to kill Raju Bose. Then accused Sasthi Sarkar, Bishu Sarkar, Sahadeb Sarkar had remained engaged in catching hold of Raju Bose. Accused Tarit Kundu gave a blow on the back of Raju Bose with the help of a sharp-cutting weapon like "bhojali'. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"It is true that PWs 2 and 5 assert that the present appellants had caught hold of Raju Bose. But it is not clear from the record whether such act was so intended to enable accused No.1 to deal the fatal blow. Further, PW 3 is completely silent on this aspect. In the circumstances we deem it appropriate to grant benefit of doubt to the present appellants and acquit them of the charge under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC."

55. In the case of Gaya Yadav and others vs. State of Bihar and others, AIR 2003 SC 1759, accused Gaya Yadav belonged to neighbouring village Kurkut Bigha and came to the deceased Jagannath Singh, Mukhiya of Mau Gram Panchayat in Mau Bazar and requested the deceased for supper for the night in his village on the occasion of "Holika Dahan". The deceased was reluctant to accept the invitation. At this time the accused Karu Yadav, who is also of the village Kurkut Bigha arrived there and both the accused insisted upon Mukhiya for the supper. The deceased succumbed to the request of the accused, P.W.3 Lallan Bihari the informant also accompanied him, as they made their way out of Mau village P.W.3 saw 9-10 persons coming from the opposite direction. P.W.3 thought that these persons might be going somewhere on the occasion of "Holika Dahan". Soon those persons came closer to them and the accused Gaya Yadav and Karu Yadav gave a push to the deceased Mukhiya and thereafter all other accused persons surrounded him. Out of them he could recognize Bhagat Yadav, Mukhiya Yadav, Madeshwar Yadav, Rahish Yadav, Deo Prasad Yadav and Khalitra Yadav. Having seen the accused surrounding the deceased the informant retreated about 10-15 steps backward and thought that the accused persons would leave the deceased Mukhiya but instead accused Khalitrar Yadav and Rahish Yadav caught hold of Mukhiya and accused Gaya Yadav and Bhagat Yadav fired at him from country made pistol. Thereupon, Mukhiya fell down. Thereafter, the accused Mukhiya Yadav who was armed with pausli bent over Mukhiya as if he was cutting the neck of Mukhiya. Simultaneously, all of them were uttering that Mukhiya should not survive. P.W.3 Lallan Bihari, informant during trial deposed that he went back 4 or 6 steps from where he saw that Rahish Yadav and Khalitra Yadav were catching hold the two arms of the deceased and the accused Gaya Yadav and Bhagwat Yadav each fired a shot from the pistol at the deceased who fell down. Thereafter, the accused Mukhiya Yadav began to cut the neck of Mukhiya by pausli. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"So far as A-2 Madheshwar Yadav, A-3 Khalitra Yadav and A-4 Rahish Yadav are concerned, there is no evidence to show that they have shared the common intention to murder the deceased. No overt act has also been attributed to them. Therefore, the prosecution has failed to establish its case against them for the offence under Sections 302/34 I.P.C. beyond reasonable doubts. Their appeal is, accordingly, allowed."

56. In the case of D.V. Shanmugham and another vs. State of A.P., AIR 1997 SC 2583, it has been stated that some incident had happened between the two groups on 6th May, 1990 in respect of which a complaint was lodged by accused No.1. on account of the same there was ill feeling between the two groups and on the date of occurrence on 22nd September, 1990 at 8:00 P.M. when one Natarajan was coughing on account of his fever the accused No.1 was passing by that road on his scooter. He took this to be act of taunting, and therefore, brought his brother accused No.2 and picked up quarrel and challenged him. Said

Natarajan was a relation of the complainant. Shortly thereafter at 10:00 P.M. the complainant PW1 and the deceased - Mohan were returning from a theatre and when they had reached the house of one V. Murli the five accused persons formed themselves into an unlawful assembly and attacked the complainant and the deceased with deadly weapons. While accused No.1 caught hold of deceased-Mohan accused No.2 stabbed him with a knife on the abdomen and Mohan fell down wounded. When the complainant, PW-1 intervened he was also stabbed with a knife by accused No.2 on his left hand and accused No.1 dealt a blow with a stick on the right hand. PW-1 then raised an alarm and on hearing the cries his relatives including Sekhar who is the other deceased came out of their houses and rushed towards Mohan. The five accused persons then also attacked these people and while accused No.3 caught hold of Sekhar, accused No.2 stabbed him with knife on his abdomen and caused fatal injury. These accused persons more particularly accused Mukhiya and 6 hurled stones which caused injury to the member of the complainant group. Accused No.1 also stabbed one Ravi Kumar with a knife on his left elbow, as a result of which said Ravi Kumar was injured. The injured persons were taken to the hospital for treatment and Mohan died during the midnight on account of shock and haemorrhage as a result of the injuries sustained by him. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"We find considerable force in the submission of Mr. Parasaran, the learned senior counsel for the appellants, that prosecution has not explained the grievous injury on the head of accused-appellant No.1 and such non-explanation persuades us to draw an inference that the prosecution has not presented the true version at least so far as the role played by accused appellant No.1 and the witnesses who have been examined and who have ascribed a positive role to the appellant No.1 that he caught hold of Mohan when appellant No.1 stabbed Mohan are not true on material point and their evidence thus has become vulnerable. It has been also held that Mr. Parasaran is right in his submission that the witnesses ascribed the role of catching hold of Mohan by accused No.1 and role of caching hold of Sekhar by accused No.3 and the High Court gave the benefit to accused No.3 since the witnesses had not narrated the same to the police when examination under under Section 161 Cr.P.C. took place and therefore the self same infirmities having crept in when the prosecution witnesses stated about catching hold of Mohan by accused No.1, the said accused No.1 is entitled to the benefit of doubt. In fact as stated earlier Mrs. Amreshwari, the learned senior counsel appearing for the State also fairly stated that possibly it would be difficult to sustain the conviction of accused No.1 when the accused No.3 has got benefit of doubt and has been acquitted and no appeal against the said order of acquittal has been filed by the State. On account of such infirmities the prosecution as indicated above and more particularly when the prosecution has failed to offer any explanation for the grievous injuries sustained by accused No.1 on his head and the High Court has already found that the said injury was caused in course of the incident, we have no hesitation to hold that the accused-appellant No.1 D.V. Shanmugam is entitled to the benefit of doubt and accordingly set aside the conviction and sentence of the said accused- appellant No.1 both under Section 302/34 IPC as well as under Section 324 I.P.C."

57. In the case of Sushil vs. State of U.P., 1994 Law Suit Supreme Court 995, it has been stated that a day earlier to the occurrence there was an altercation between the deceased Jai Prakash and the appellants when the appellants had threatened to kill him. On 15th August, 1982 at about 5:45 A.M. the deceased Jai Prakash along with his uncle Hoshiyara PW 2 had gone to the jungle close by to their village to answer the call of nature. At about 6:30 A.M. after they had eased themselves, Hoshiyara cleaned his hands and when the deceased Jai Prakash was cleaning his hands it is at that point of time the accused Sushil, Tapeshwar and Ram Niwas arrived there. The accused/appellant Tapeshwar caught hold the hands of the deceased Jai Prakash, Ram Niwas attacked with a knife in the abdomen and stomach while Sushil gave knife blows on the waist and knee. When Hoshiyara saw this assault on Jai Prakash he raised hue and cry. The witnessess Charan Singh PW 3, Chandermal PW 4 and Dharampal PW 5 rushed there. The three assailants named above ran away from the place of occurrence after assailing Jai Prakash. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"The appellant Tapeshwar was not armed with any weapon nor he is alleged to have made any assault on the deceased. There is no evidence that Tapeshwar was aware of the fact that the co-accused Sushil and Ram Niwas were armed with knives which may be used by them in the crime. The prosecution evidence is also silent on the point whether these two accused took out the knives suddenly with or without the knowledge of Tapeshwar or came with knives openly and visibly and inflicted knife injuries to the victim. In these facts and circumstances, it is difficult to say with certainty as to what extent, if at all, the appellant Tapeshwar shared the common intention with the other two appellants Sushil and Ram Niwas. In view of these facts and circumstances in our opinion the appellant Tapeshwar is entitled for the benefit of doubt."

58. As mentioned in para 51 of the judgement, the facts and circumstances of the instant case differ from the facts and circumstances of the cases referred by learned counsel for the appellants, hence, the cases referred are not helpful for the appellants. In view of the opinion of Hon'ble Supreme Court expressed in Ramesh Singh @ Photti v/s State of A.P. and Ashif Khan v/s State of Maharashtra and another (supra), the acts and conducts of the appellants no.2, 3 and 4 in the instant case as mentioned in para 51 of the judgement prior to the incident, like going of accused Sunder Lal and Ram Bahadur to call the deceased for measurement as decided in the evening of past night, on reaching the deceased and witnesses meeting of all the accused persons on the place of incident situated in a remote area on the bank of the river, falling down the deceased by the accused persons thereafter tying both legs of the deceased and pressing legs by accused Ram Bahadur catching hold both hands by accused Ram Bharosey and Ram Shankar inflicting spade and spear injuries, seven in number by Sunder Lal and Ram Chander respectively, making no effort by any accused to save the deceased, after the incident going away together of all accused through the bank of river indicates that all accused persons had shared the common intention in killing the deceased Beni Ram.

59. The accused in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. have stated that witnesses have deposed against them due to enmity but what was the enmity, it has not been explained by them. Since, Sunder Lal (died during trial) was claiming land in the lease land of the deceased, so with regard to him it may be said that witnesses of fact had enmity but so far as appellants are concerned, there is no material on record to draw such an inference. Without any explanation or evidence it cannot be accepted that there was enmity between the deceased and accused persons and witnesses of fact deposed against them due to enmity. Therefore, on the basis of their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., it cannot be accepted that accused persons have been falsely implicated and witnesses deposed against them due to enmity and appellant Ram Chander to undergo two years rigorous imprisonment under Section 148 I.P.C.

60. Thus, upon a wholesome consideration of the facts of the case, attending circumstances and the evidence on record, we do not find that the learned trial Judge committed any illegality or legal infirmity in convicting and sentencing appellants Ram Chander, Ram Shankar, Ram Bharosey and Ram Bahadur each to undergo life imprisonment and fine of Rs.2,000/- under Section 302 read with Section 149 I.P.C., in default of fine six 6 months additional imprisonment, appellants Ram Shankar, Ram Bharosey and Ram Bahadur to undergo one year rigorous imprisonment under Section 147 I.P.C. and appellant Ram Chander to undergo two years rigorous imprisonment under Section 148 I.P.C.

61. This appeal lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed.

62. Appellants Ram Chander, Ram Shankar, Ram Bharosey and Ram Bahadur are on bail. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Pilibhit is directed to take them into custody and send them to jail for serving out the remaining sentences.

63. Office is directed to send a copy of this order to the court concerned within a week for compliance. The C.J.M. concerned shall send his report with regard to the accused-respondents within one month thereafter.

64. The lower court record shall be returned to the court concerned.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 498-A, 304-B - Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 - Section 3/4 - Appeal against conviction.

It is settled principle of law that an accused may be convicted only on the basis of dying declaration if it is true and is reliable because the admissibility of dying declaration is based on the Latin Maxim "Nemo Moriturus Praesumitur mentire" which means that a person will not meet his maker with a lie in his mouth. It is duty of the Court to ensure the fact that whether such dying declaration was made by the deceased or not, and if it is made by him/her, whether the deceased was in free and sound state of mind and was not tutored, influenced or pressurized by any person. If it is proved that the maker of the statement was tutored, influenced, pressurized or was not in a position to make such dying declaration or any reasonable suspicion appears in the manner of recording thereof, such dying declaration cannot be made as sole basis for the conviction of accused. (para 37)

Thus from the perusal of aforesaid statement of witnesses as well as dying declaration it transpires that before the death of deceased there was no torture and harassment to the deceased due to demand of dowry by the appellants. (para 32)

In addition to above, appellants are neither husband nor family members of deceased. They are sister-in-law (nanad), brother-in-law (nandoi) and niece of deceased. They do not reside with deceased. As per prosecution case neither any dowry was demanded nor was given at the time of marriage. Generally it is seen that if husband and his family members are not asking for dowry, their relatives who are not family members of in-laws of deceased, do not demand dowry and if prosecution alleges that they are demanding dowry, it has to be proved by prosecution by reliable evidence. But prosecution, in this case, has failed to prove such fact. (para 31)

Deceased was well educated and was graduate, as stated by Hari Kishan (PW-2) but her signature was not obtained on Ex.Ka-11. Prosecution has not offered any explanation as to why the deceased, who was well educated, did not prefer to put her signature but put her thumb impression only on the last page of dying declaration. (para 53)

Thus, in view of above short coming, serious irregularities, it is clear that the said dying declaration is tutored and doubtful which cannot be treated as reliable. (para 54)

Prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. (para 56)

Appeal is allowed. (E-2)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Virendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Both criminal appeals have been filed against the judgment and order dated 29.11.2018, passed by Additional Session Judge/F.T.C. (Offences against Women), Jaunpur, in S.T. No. 389 of 2013 (State of U.P. Vs. Kusum Devi and others), arising out of Case Crime No. 371 of 2013, under Sections 498-A, 304-B IPC and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act (in short 'D.P. Act'), P.S. Chandvak, District Jaunpur whereby appellants, namely, Prem Sheela @ Guddi, Kusum Devi and Brijbhan Gaur have been convicted and sentenced for offence u/s 498-A IPC for 2 years imprisonment and fine of Rs. 5000/-, for offence u/s 304-B IPC for 7 years rigorous imprisonment and u/s 3/4 D.P. Act for one year imprisonment and with fine of Rs. 1000/-. All the sentences have been directed to run concurrently. Since both the appeals have been filed against the same judgement, hence both are being heard and decided jointly by common judgement.

2. Brief facts, arising out of this appeal, are that deceased Pratiksha Gaur was married to Hari Kishan (PW-2), s/o Banarasi, R/o Village Kanaura, P.S. Chandvak, District Jaunpur, in December 2007 in mass wedding ceremony. Appellant Brijbhan Gaur is brother-in-law of Hari Kishan (PW-2), appellant Kusum Devi is his sister (wife of appellant Brijbhan), appellant Prem Sheela @ Guddi is his niece (daughter of Kusum Devi) and one Subhash (since acquitted) is real brother of Hari Kishan (PW-2). Asha Devi (PW-1), mother of deceased Pratiksha, lodged a written information (F.I.R.) (Ex.ka1) on 9.6.2013 at about 9:50 p.m. at P.S. Chandvak, District Jaunpur that aforesaid appellants and Subhash (since acquitted) used to torture the deceased Pratiksha for want of dowry. On 8.6.2013 at about 7:30 p.m., appellants and Subhash (since acquitted) poured kerosene oil on deceased Pratiksha and set her ablaze, whereby serious burn injuries were caused to deceased; information of the said incident was given to Asha Devi (PW-1) by Hari Kishan (PW-2), upon such information she (PW-1) rushed to place of occurrence and learnt that her daughter was in hospital. Thereafter, she rushed to the hospital and found that the deceased was struggling for her life in District Hospital, Jaunpur. The information, given by Asha Devi (PW-1) was entered by police in General Diary (Ex.Ka 9) and on the basis whereof, Case Crime No. 371 of 2013 was registered by Const. Vinod Saroj (PW-8), under Sections 498-A, 307 IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act, against the appellants as well as against Subhash (since acquitted). Investigation was entrusted to S.I. Mata Prasad (in short 'Ist I.O.') who rushed to the place of occurrence and after its inspection, prepared site plan (Ex.Ka 10), seized kerosene oil with plastic jerrycan, match box and prepared seizure memo (Ex.Ka 3).

3. Ram Kailash Saroj (PW-7), Naib Tehsildar (Local Executive Magistrate), upon oral direction of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar Jaunpur, reached the District Hospital, Jaunpur where deceased was admitted and her treatment was going on. He recorded the statement (Ex.Ka 11) i.e. dying declaration of deceased on 9.6.2013 in the intervening night of 9.6.2013 at about 12:10 a.m. (night) which reads as under:

उ0 – मेरी शादी सन् 2007 में 12 दिसम्बर को हरी किशन उर्फ संतोष के साथ राज कालेज में आयोजित सामूहिक विवाह समारोह में हुई थी। मै पढना चाहती थी मेरी ननद श्रीमती कुसुम व ननदोई बृजभान जो मेरे ससुराल में ही रहते है मुझे प्पढने नही देने के लिए तरह–तरह

4 माचिस से जला दिये। (फिर कहा कि) गोलू जलाने में नही था। गुड़्डी ने मिई[illegible] के तेल के प्लास्टिक के गैलन से मेरे ई३पर मिई[illegible] का तेल डाला उस समय बृजभान ने मुझे पकड़ रखा था अंधेरे में मुझे किसने जला दिया मै उसे नहीं देख पायी। कुसुम भी मुझसे लड़ रही थी। मुझे जलता हुआ देखकर सभी लोग छोड़ कर गये।

प्र02 – आग कैसे बुझी ?

उ0 – जब मुझे जला कर भाग गये तभी मेरा पति भट्ठे पर काम करके साइकिल से घर आ गया और मुझे किसी चीज से

प्र03 – आप का मायका कहां है ?

उ0 – मेरा मायका राज कलोनी हुसैनाबाद जौनपुर में है।

प्र04 – आप को अस्पताल कौन लाया ?

उ0 – मेरा माता जी आशा देवी पत्नी सहाजू व मेरे पति मुझे एम्बूलेंस 108 से अस्पताल लाये है।

प्र05 – क्या आप के पति भी दहेज के लिए प्रताड़ित करते थे ?

उ0– मेरे पति बहुत अच्छे आदमी है। उन्होने कभी मुझे दहेज के लिए प्रताड़ित नही किया।

I, Pratikcha aged around 24 years w/o Hari Kishan Gaur R/o vill-Kannaura Dobhi, PS-Chandwak swear in the name of god that I will state nothing but truth.

Q: How have you got burnt?

Ans: I got married on 12 December 2007 with Hari Kishan @ Santosh in the mass wedding ceremony held in Raj College. I wanted to study. My sister-in-law Kusum and my brother-in-law Brij Bhan who live in my in-law's house, in order to not let me study, under different excuses and pretensions, got me separated from my family. Then around one year ago, my sister-in-law Kusum and her daughter Guddi, started torturing me for the purpose of dowry and beaten me badly. Every now and then, they used to talk about driving me out of the house. Gappu Singh S/o unknown of our village whose brother works in police department in Banaras, came today in the morning to our house along with two sepoys and started abusing me and said "She is quarrelsome; just beat her." Saying this, he went away. Thereafter, my sister-in-law and her daughter beaten me badly and the quarrel ensued the entire day. In the evening around 7.00 p.m., my sister-in-law Kusum aged 38 years w/o Brij Bhan and her daughter Guddi aged 21-22 years D/o Brij Bhan and Brij Bhan S/o (Shayad?) Mishri and Jitendra @ Mami and Golu poured kerosene oil upon me, lit a matchstick and set me on fire. (Then stated that) Golu was not involved in setting fire. Guddi poured kerosene oil upon me with a plastic gallon. Brij Bhan was getting hold of me that time. I could not see it in dark as to who set me on fire. Kusum was also fighting with me. Seeing me set on fire, everybody ran away.

Q-2: How was the fire put off?

Ans: When they had set me on fire and ran away, my husband, after having completed his job in a kiln, came back by a cycle, and covered me with something and put off the fire.

Q-3: Where is your parent's house?

Ans: My parent's house is in Raj Colony, Husainabad, Jaunpur.

Q-4: Who brought you to hospital?

Ans: My mother Asha Devi W/o Sahju and my husband brought me to the hospital in the ambulance of 108.

Q-5: Did your husband also torture you for dowry?

Ans: My husband is a very nice man. He never tortured me for dowry.

Heard and verified.

4. Deceased Pratiksha could not be saved and during treatment succumbed to severe burn injuries on 16.6.2013. After death of deceased the case was converted under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and 3/4 D.P. Act and investigation was entrusted to Mayaram (PW-5), Deputy Superintendent of Police (Dy. S.P.) Kerakat, Jaunpur (in short 'II I.O.'). Naib Tehsildar (Local Executive Magistrate), Ramesh Chandra Yadav (PW-6), upon information, proceeded to the place where dead body of the deceased was lying and got the inquest report and relevant police papers prepared by S.I. Vijay Bahadur, sealed the dead body and sent the same for post mortem examination to district hospital, Jaunpur. After investigation, charge sheet (Ex.Ka 5) was submitted against the appellants and Subhash Gaur (since acquitted) before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Jaunpur, who took the cognizance of offence and since the offence was exclusively triable by the Session Court, he committed it for trial to Session Court in compliance of Section 209 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as 'Code'), after providing the copies of relevant police papers to appellants and other co-accused.

5. Charges were framed by the Trial Court under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. alternatively u/s 302 I.P.C. and u/s ¾ D.P. Act, against the appellants as well as Subhash Gaur (since acquitted) who denied the prosecution case and claimed for trial.

6. In order to prove the prosecution case the prosecution examined Asha Devi (PW-1), Hari Kishan (PW-2), Dr. Ramesh Kr. Singh (PW-3), Anoop Kumar Gaur (PW-4), Mayaram (PW-5), Ramesh Chand Yadav (PW-6), Ram Kailash (PW-7), Vinod Saroj (PW-8), wherein PW-1, PW-2, PW-4 and PW-7 are witnesses of fact whereas rest witnesses are formal witnesses.

7. After the prosecution evidence, the statements of appellants and Subhash Gaur (since acquitted) were recorded under Section 313 of Code. They denied the prosecution story and stated that they have been falsely implicated. Appellant Kusum Devi further stated that she used to support her father and was residing at village Kanaura due to which deceased and her husband were annoyed with her. She had not set deceased ablaze. She has been falsely implicated, on the instigation of Hari Kishan (PW-2), by the informant Asha Devi (PW-1). Same statement/explanation was also given by appellants Brijbhan Gaur and Premsheela @ Guddi. They have further stated that they did not reside with deceased. Subhash Gaur (since acquitted) also stated that he was falsely implicated, he had not committed any offence and used to reside separately from the deceased.

8. Appellants were given opportunity by Trial Court to lead evidence in their defence but they did not produce any evidence. Upon considering the prosecution evidence, the Trial Court vide aforesaid impugned judgement and order, convicted and sentenced the appellants as above and acquitted the accused Subhash. Aggrieved by the said judgment and order these appeals have been preferred.

9. Heard Sri Kusumayudh Krishna Singh, Advocate holding brief of Sri Anjali Singh, learned counsel for appellant, Sri Asheesh Mani Tripathi, learned AGA and perused the record.

10. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that appellants are innocent and have been falsely implicated. Informant is not an eye witness; she had not disclosed that how she got the information of occurrence and her statement is not reliable because she has not supported the prosecution case in cross-examination. Learned counsel further submitted that the statement of Hari Kishan (PW-2) is also not reliable because he has also not supported the prosecution story in his cross-examination and his statement is contradictory also. It is submitted that the dying declaration of deceased is not reliable because it was tutored and tampered; circumstances under which Ram Kailash Saroj (PW-7) got the information/direction for recording the dying declaration are highly suspicious and doubtful; Asha Devi (PW-1), Hari Kishan (PW-2) and Anoop Kumar (PW-4), who were continuously present in hospital with deceased, have not stated anything about recording of dying declaration and Dr. Prabhat who had given fitness certificate regarding mental status of deceased as well as her capability to give statement, was not examined. Learned counsel further submitted that F.I.R. has been lodged by delay of more than 24 hours and no explanation has been given for such inordinate delay. Learned counsel further submitted that appellants are neither husband nor family members of deceased, they are nanad-nandoi and daughter of nanad of deceased hence there is no opportunity and justification to demand of dowry as well as to cause any harassment and cruelty to the deceased. Learned Trial Court has not appreciated the evidence available on record properly and has convicted the appellants in violation of settled principle of criminal law.

11. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has submitted that death of the deceased has been caused due to burn injury, within 7 years of her marriage, the place of occurrence is near the house where appellants used to reside and there is sufficient evidence available on record that prior to death of deceased she was subjected to cruelty, due to demand of dowry. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that prosecution case is well supported by the prosecution witnesses including Hari Kishan (PW-2) who is nearest relative of appellants and also husband of deceased. Learned AGA further submitted that dying declaration of deceased, recorded by Ram Kailash Saroj (PW-7) is wholly reliable. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that merely non-examination of doctor who had certified physical and mental capability of deceased to give statement, is not material in this case. Ocular evidence is wholly supported by the medical evidence. Prosecution has succeeded to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The impugned judgment and order requires no interference and appeals are liable to be dismissed.

12. I have considered the rival submission of learned counsels for both the parties and perused the record.

13. Asha Devi (PW-1), mother of deceased, has stated that her daughter Pratiksha was married in 2007 with Hari Kishan (PW-2). Whenever her daughter used to come to her maternal house, she used to state that appellants Kusum Devi (nanad), Premsheela (daughter of Kusum Devi), Brijbhan (nandoi) and Subhash Gaur (Jeth) (since acquitted) used to demand motorcycle in dowry and on account of that demand they used to harass and beat her. She has further stated that she tried to pacify the appellants but they did not stop harassing the deceased. On 8.6.2013 at about 7-7:30 p.m., her daughter (deceased) called upon her and when she reached, she found that appellants Kusum Devi, Brijbhan and Premsheela and Subhash (since acquitted) had caught the deceased, carried her inside the house and just thereafter deceased came outside the house in crying and burning state. She further stated that she raised alarm and at that time her son-in-law (Hari Kishan) came there and put off the fire. They rushed with deceased by ambulance to government hospital, Kerakat and thereafter, to district hospital, Jaunpur where her daughter was admitted for treatment but during treatment she (deceased) succumbed to injuries on 16.6.2013. She further stated that she got F.I.R. (Ex.ka 1) written by some unknown person and after putting her signature filed the same at P.S. Chandvak.

14. In cross-examination, she admitted that information regarding occurrence was given to her, on phone, by Hari Kishan (PW-2) and on getting information, she came to Chandvak from Jaunpur, where she learnt that her daughter was taken away by villagers to Sadar (District) Hospital, Jaunpur, thereafter she rushed to Sadar Hospital and found that her daughter's husband and in-laws were getting her medically treated. She further admitted that, it was 9:00 p.m. of 8.6.2013, when she reached hospital; she had not given any information at Chandvak (police station). Rather she returned from Chandvak to Hospital. She further admitted that house of Subhash (since acquitted) is 100 feet away from house of Hari Kishan and between those two houses, there is house of Banarasi. Upon being questioned about F.I.R. she replied that she got the report written by some unknown bye-passer and at that time neither her daughter was present there nor her opinion was taken. She further deposed that she had gone, one hour before, to lodge F.I.R. from District Hospital Jaunpur to Chandvak (police station); Darogaji (Police) took her away Chandvak (police station) and got F.I.R. lodged by her. On the point of statement of deceased she replied that at that time condition of her daughter was not well due to severe burn injury; Darogaji (police) and other police personnels were present there with her daughter who had gone back after recording statement of her daughter and again returned on next day and took her (PW-1) to police station Chandvak and got F.I.R. written. This witness further admitted that Saas (mother-in-law), Sasur (father-in-law), Nandoi (appellant Brijbhan), Nanad (appellant Kusum) and Nanad's daughter (Premsheela) of deceased used to demand motorcycle but she did not implicate Saas and Sasur of deceased as accused in F.I.R. Finally she fairly admitted that, on 8.6.2013 at 7:30 p.m. she was at her home in Jaunpur; appellants Kusum Devi, Brijbhan and Premsheela had never put any demand of dowry to her; and she had lodged report at police station on the instigation of some people.

15. Hari Kishan (PW-2), husband of the deceased, has stated that he was married to deceased Pratiksha on 12.12.2007. He further stated that he did labour work on brick kiln whereas deceased was a graduate. He further stated that on 8.6.2013 he was doing labour work at brick kiln of one Uma Singh, at that time his neighbour one Vikki s/o Gopal Harijan informed him that his brother-in-law (appellant) Brijbhan and other family members were quarreling with deceased. On that information he rushed to his house and saw that his wife (deceased) was burning; he put off the fire and carried her to Community Health Centre, Kerakat. He further stated that appellants Brijbhan, Kusum Devi and Premsheela and Subhash (since acquitted) wanted to kill his wife by setting ablaze as they used to torture her due to demand of dowry i.e. sikadi (golden chain), ring and motorcycle. He further stated that on the date of occurrence i.e. 8.6.2013 at about 7-7:30 p.m., they (appellants and one Subhash) set ablaze his wife (deceased) who succumbed to the burn injuries during treatment. Information of occurrence was given by his mother-in-law Asha Devi (PW-1) at P.S. Chandvak; upon that information Police and Naib Tehsildar (Executive Magistrate) had conducted the inquest proceeding and prepared inquest report (Ex.Ka 2) whereupon he had also put his signature. He further stated that police had recovered kerosene oil plastic jerrycan and match box from place of occurrence and had prepared seizure memo (Ex.Ka 3) whereupon he had also put his signature.

16. In cross-examination he admitted that appellants Brijbhan, Kusum and Premsheela used to reside at their house at Madho Tanda and they neither demanded any motorcycle or golden chain as dowry from his wife (deceased) nor did they torture her in that regard. He further stated that at the time of occurrence he was at brick kiln and one Vikki Harijan, resident of his village informed him and after getting information, he came to his house from brick kiln and found that his wife had been burnt; and she was unable to speak. He further stated that due to severe burn injury, his wife could not speak, she pointed out to kerosene oil jerrycan but she neither pointed out to anyone nor did she disclose any person as accused. He further stated that he was in hospital and his mother-in-law (PW-1) got F.I.R. written herself. He also admitted that on 8.6.2013 at about 7:30 p.m., appellants Brijbhan, Kusum and Premsheela had not set on fire Pratiksha, by pouring kerosene oil but they were at their house. He further admitted that when his wife was burnt, he was not present in his house hence he could not disclose as to how she got burnt; he reached his house on the information given to him by one Gopal's son, resident of his village. He further stated that when he reached hospital, treatment of his wife (deceased) was continuing.

17. Dr. Ramesh Kumar Singh (PW-3) has stated that, on 17.6.2013, he was on post mortem duty and conducted the post mortem of dead body of Smt. Pratiksha Gaur, aged about 24 years, wife of Hari Kishan, at 4:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. He further stated that fallowing ante mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased:-

"Infected flamed burn injuries present over whole of face, fore head, whole upper limb involving neck, whole abdomen and back and both upper part of ante thigh except occipital region of head and lower part of both leg and sole shingled hair present about 70% burn present all over body."

According to him death of the deceased was caused due to septicemic shock as a result of ante mortem injury infected flamed burn wounds. Stating that at the time of postmortem he had prepared post mortem examination report (Ex.ka 4) in his own hand writing, he further stated that deceased was admitted in hospital on 8.6.2013 at 10:00 p.m. for medical treatment and died on 16.6.2013 at 4:30 p.m. as mentioned in post mortem report.

18. Anoop Gaur (PW-4), brother of the deceased, stating that his sister Pratiksha was married to Hari Kishan (PW-2) in 2007, in mass wedding ceremony, organized by Zebra Group, her nanad appellant Kusum and her nandoi used to beat her due to dowry but he did not know their demands, he stated that he was informed by his mother that Pratiksha had been burnt by her in-laws with kerosene oil. Thereafter he reached the hospital and saw that she had got 80% burn injuries. He further stated that Pratiksha had died in hospital. Darogaji (I.O.) had seized kerosene oil jerrycan, match box, stove and a tin box from place of occurrence and had prepared seizure memo (Ex.Ka 3) which was also signed by him. In cross-examination he stated that at the time of occurrence he was at Siddiquepur and his mother was at his house who informed him in the night of 8.6.2013, upon such information, he rushed to the hospital where his sister was admitted and when he reached at 7-7:30 p.m. he found that deceased was conscious. He further admitted that when he asked her about occurrence she said to look after her child. He further admitted that he was present in hospital from 8.6.2013 till death of his sister.

19. Const. Vinod Saroj (PW-8) has stated that he was posted on 8.6.2013 at P.S. Chandvak, District Jaunpur; he had prepared chik F.I.R. (Ex. Ka 8) pertaining to Case Crime No. 371 of 2013, under Section 498A, 307 I.P.C. and ¾ D.P. Act, on the written information dated 9.6.2013 of Asha Devi (informant), against appellants Kusum Devi, Brijbhan Gaur and Prem Sheela and Subhash (since acquitted) and also entered the said information in G.D. Report (Ex.Ka 9). He further stated that S.I. Mata Prasad Singh was also posted with him and he was acquainted with his writing and signature. According to him, the investigation was started by S.I. Mata Prasad Singh who prepared the site plan (Ex.Ka 10) in his own handwriting and during investigation, offence under Section 304B I.P.C. was added by S.I. Mata Prasad Singh on 17.6.2013 vide G.D. Report No. 40 at 19:30 p.m.

20. Ramesh Chandra Yadav (PW-6) (Executive Magistrate) has stated that on 16.6.2013 he was posted as Tehsildar Sadar, Jaunpur. According to him, on that day at about 6:00 p.m., information was received by him regarding death of deceased Pratiksha. He further stated that inquest was conducted in his supervision by S.I. Vijay Bahadur Singh, in the presence of the family members of deceased. He further deposed that deceased was aged about 24 years and she had died due to burn injuries, in the opinion of Panchan. He stated that after inquest proceeding, inquest report (Ex.ka2) and other relevant documents i.e. photonash, sample seal, letter to R.I., letter to C.M.O. (Ex.Ka 6 to Ka 10), necessary for postmortem examination were prepared; dead body was sealed and was sent for post mortem examination.

21. Ram Kailash Saroj (PW-7) has stated that he was posted as Naib Tehsildar, Jaunpur on 9.6.2013 and in compliance of direction of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, he reached the District Hospital, Jaunpur. According to him, deceased Pratiksha was admitted in burn ward where emergency medical officer was present. He further stated that after getting certificate from the doctor that deceased was mentally and physically fit for giving statement, he recorded the statement/dying declaration of deceased (Ex.Ka 11) (noted in previous paragraph No. 3 of this judgement), in his own handwriting.

22. Mayaram Verma (PW-5), (II I.O.), has stated that on 20.6.2013 he was posted as Dy S.P., Jaunpur, and undertook the investigation of Case Crime No. 371 of 2013 under Section 498A, 304B, I.P.C. and ¾ D.P. Act, P.S. Chandvak, District Jaunpur, which was being investigated by S.I. Mata Prasad Singh. According to him during the investigation he recorded the statements of witnesses Asha Devi (PW-1), Hari Kishan (PW-2), Anoop Gaur (PW-4) and other witnesses including the witnesses of panchnama; he inspected the dying declaration of deceased with permission of Court, on 3.7.2013. He further stated that during the investigation he also recorded the statements of Ramesh Chand (PW-6), Dr. Ramesh Kumar Singh (PW-3), Dr. Alha Prasad and S.I. Mata Prasad. He further stated that after investigation he filed charge sheet (report u/s 173(2) of the Code) against the appellants Kusum Devi, Brijbhan Gaur & Premsheela @ Guddi and Subhah Gaur (since acquitted).

23. Thus the prosecution story is based on the evidence of Asha Devi (PW-1), Hari Kishan (PW-2), Anoop Gaur (PW-4) who are the witnesses of fact and evidence of Sri Ram Kailash Saroj (PW-7) who recorded the dying declaration of the deceased. The trial Court, relying the statements of above witnesses as well as dying declaration (Ex.ka 11), has convicted the appellants for the offence of dowry death, demand of dowry and for cruelty or harassment to the deceased.

24. The offence in question in this case is related to demand of dowry, dowry death, cruelty and harassment to deceased for demand of dowry by appellants. Before expressing any opinion on the evidences available on record, led by the prosecution, in the light of argument advanced by the learned counsels for the parties, it is necessary to refer the relevant provision of law relating to the offence in question i.e. 304-B and 498-A I.P.C. and 113-B of Indian Evidence Act which are as under:-

Section 304-B (1) Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death.

Explanation.--For the purpose of this sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961.

(2) Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life.

Section 498-A Husband or relative of husband of a woman subjecting her to cruelty.--Whoever, being the husband or the relative of the husband of a woman, subjects such woman to cruelty shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine.

Explanation.--For the purpose of this section, "cruelty" means

(a) any willful conduct which is of such a nature as is likely to drive the woman to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health (whether mental or physical) of the woman; or

(b) harassment of the woman where such harassment is with a view to coercing her or any person related to her to meet any unlawful demand for any property or valuable security or is on account of failure by her or any person related to her to meet such demand.

Section 113-B of Indian Evidence Act-Presumption as to dowry death.--When the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman has been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the Court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death.

Explanation.--For the purposes of this section, "dowry death" shall have the same meaning as in section 304B, of the Indian Penal Code.

25. The above provisions clearly show that if death of any women is caused within 7 years of her marriage by burn or bodily injury or otherwise than under normal circumstances and it is shown that if soon before her death such women was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband, in connection with demand for dowry and if the prosecution succeeds to prove the above ingredients, such death shall be called as dowry death. In addition to above, Section 113-B of Indian Evidence Act, further provides that in such cases, if it is shown that a women was subjected soon before her death to cruelty or harassment by the accused in connection with any demand for dowry, the Court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death.

26. Cruelty or harassment, soon before death of deceased for demand of dowry as required in Section 304-B I.P.C. and 113-B Evidence Act for dowry death, does not mean just soon before death, but there must be proximity between death of deceased and cruelty or harassment related to demand of dowry. It is settled principle of law that insufficient evidence of demand of dowry or harassment and cruelty or a long time gap between demand of dowry and harassment or cruelty before death of deceased will be fatal to the prosecution case to prove the dowry death.

27. In FIR (Ex.Ka 1) no specific time has been mentioned by the informant as to when cruelty or torture was caused to deceased by the appellants before her death. According to Asha Devi (PW-1) the deceased, after her marriage, had been to her matrimonial house 6-7 times and whenever she returned to her maternal house, she used to disclose that appellants and one Subhash Gaur (Jeth) used to demand the motorcycle in dowry. This witness in her cross examination on 31.1.2017 has specifically admitted that appellants had never demanded any dowry from her and the application filed against them by her was on the enticement of some people. She has also stated that appellants were living separately from the deceased Pratiksha, in their house and there was no tension (dispute) between them.

28. Hari Kishan (PW-2), in cross examination, has also admitted that appellants had neither demanded motorcycle, golden ring and golden chain nor had committed any cruelty to the deceased.

29. Anoop (PW-4) has also not specifically stated anything regarding demand of dowry or cruelty committed by the appellants to deceased.

30. In dying declaration (Ex.Ka-11) deceased Pratiksha has stated that about one year prior to the occurrence the appellants had tortured her due to demand of dowry and they also had beaten her. She has also stated that she wanted to study but appellants were creating hinderance in her study and under different excuses got her separated from her family. From perusal of dying declaration, it further transpires that on the day of occurrence, the deceased and the appellants had quarreled; one Gappu Singh with two constables had come to the house of deceased; they hurled abuses and instigated the appellants to beat her as the deceased was quarrelsome and as they had left, the appellants had beaten the deceased brutally. She had not stated that at any time soon before the occurrence any demand of dowry was made to her or she was harassed or tortured by appellants in this regard whereas she has narrated so many reasons for dispute between her and appellants.

31. In addition to above, appellants are neither husband nor family members of deceased. They are sister-in-law (nanad), brother-in-law (nandoi) and niece of deceased. They do not reside with deceased. As per prosecution case neither any dowry was demanded nor was given at the time of marriage. Generally it is seen that if husband and his family members are not asking for dowry, their relatives who are not family members of in-laws of deceased, do not demand dowry and if prosecution alleges that they are demanding dowry, it has to be proved by prosecution by reliable evidence. But prosecution, in this case, has failed to prove such fact.

32. Thus from the perusal of aforesaid statement of witnesses as well as dying declaration it transpires that before the death of deceased there was no torture and harassment to the deceased due to demand of dowry by the appellants.

33. Now a question arises whether statements of Asha Devi (PW-1), Hari Kishan (PW-2) and Anoop Gaur (PW-4) are reliable or not. Asha Devi is not resident of the place of occurrence. She is mother of the deceased. She resides at Raj Colony, Civil Lines Road near Yadav Hotel, P.S. Line Bazar, District Jaunpur whereas occurrence had taken place in village- Kanaura which, as per Chik F.I.R. (Ex.ka 8), is 9 km. away from P.S. Chandvak, District Jaunpur. In examination-in-chief this witness has clearly stated that on 8.6.2013 i.e. date of occurrence, on the information of deceased she had gone to her matrimonial house and when she reached there, she saw that appellants along with co-accused Subhash (since acquitted) carried the deceased into her house and after sometime the deceased came out in burning condition. According to her, she and her son-in-law, Hari Kishan (PW-2) with the help of ambulance brought the deceased to District Hospital, Jaunpur. Thus according to statement made by this witness in examination-in-chief she was present at the time and place of occurrence. As noted above in cross-examination she has specifically admitted that her son-in-law Hari Kishan (PW-2) had given the information of the occurrence on phone and after getting the information, she rushed from Jaunpur to Chandvak where she got information that her daughter was admitted in District Hospital, Jaunpur by the villagers. She further stated that then she rushed to the District Hospital, Jaunpur and saw that her daughter was getting treatment in presence of Santosh @ Hari Kishan (PW-2) and his family members. She further stated that she reached hospital on 8.6.2013 at about 9:00 p.m. She has also stated that father-in-law, mother-in-law of her daughter along with appellants also used to demand motorcycle in dowry but she had not made them as accused and lastly she has specifically admitted that appellants had never demanded any dowry from her and she had lodged the F.I.R. on the instigation of someone.

34. Hari Kishan (PW-2) although in examination-in-chief supported the prosecution story but in cross examination he took U-turn and stated that appellants had never demanded any motorcycle, golden chain or ring as dowry and had also not harassed his wife. He further stated that upon information he reached his house and saw that his wife was burning but was alive however she was not able to speak anything. According to him when he asked the deceased regarding the incident, due to inability to speak she pointed out towards kerosene oil container but neither pointed to any accused nor told anything in this regard. Lastly, stating that he was not in his house at the time of occurrence, he admitted that when he reached hospital his wife was being treated.

35. Anoop Gaur (PW-4) is not an eye witness. He has stated in cross examination that he reached hospital at 7-7:30 p.m. and asked the deceased regarding the occurrence whereupon she only said to look after her son. He has also stated that at the time of occurrence his mother Asha Devi was in his house.

36. Thus the aforesaid statement/admission of these witnesses in cross-examination is self-contradictory to their statements in examination-in-chief and is fatal to prosecution story, which shows that they are concealing the true fact of occurrence.

37. The prosecution case is also based on the dying declaration made by the deceased which was recorded by Ram Kailash (PW-7) (as noted in para 3). It is settled principle of law that an accused may be convicted only on the basis of dying declaration if it is true and is reliable because the admissibility of dying declaration is based on the Latin Maxim "Nemo Moriturus Praesumitur mentire" which means that a person will not meet his maker with a lie in his mouth. It is also settled principle that dying declaration cannot be treated as gospel truth; it must inspire the confidence of the Court and before relying on such dying declaration the Court has to satisfy itself regarding truthfulness and veracity of the statement of the person who had recorded and proved such dying declaration because the person who had made the dying declaration never comes before the Court for examination and the defence has no opportunity to cross examine him/her. In true sense the evidence of dying declaration is nothing but heresay evidence which is inadmissible in evidence. Thus it is duty of the Court to ensure the fact that whether such dying declaration was made by the deceased or not, and if it is made by him/her, whether the deceased was in free and sound state of mind and was not tutored, influenced or pressurized by any person. If it is proved that the maker of the statement was tutored, influenced, pressurized or was not in a position to make such dying declaration or any reasonable suspicion appears in the manner of recording thereof, such dying declaration cannot be made as sole basis for the conviction of accused.

38. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Atbir Vs. Government (N.C.T. Of Delhi) (2010) 9 SCC 1 while discussing the factors governing the reliability of the dying declaration on the basis of law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court summarizes the principles in this regard as follows:-

"The following principles can be culled out from earlier decisions of the Supreme Court:- (I) Dying declaration can be the sole basis of conviction if it inspires the full confidence of the court.

(ii) The court should be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind at the time of making the statement and that it was not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination.

(iii) Where the court is satisfied that the declaration is true and voluntary, it can base its conviction without any further corroboration.

(iv) It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that the dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborated. The rule requiring corroboration is merely a rule of prudence.

(v) Where the dying declaration is suspicious, it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence.

(vi) A dying declaration which suffers from infirmity such as the deceased was unconscious and could never make any statement cannot form the basis of conviction.

(vii) Merely because a dying declaration does not contain all the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected.

(viii) Even if it is a brief statement, it is not to be discarded.

(ix) When the eyewitness affirms that the deceased was not in a fit and conscious state to make the dying declaration, medical opinion cannot prevail.

(x) If after careful scrutiny, the court is satisfied that it is true and free from any effort to induce the deceased to make a false statement and if it is coherent and consistent, there shall be no legal impediment to make it the basis of conviction, even if there is no corroboration."

39. In State of Rajasthan Vs. Wakteng, AIR 2007 SC 2020, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"While great solemnity and sanctity is attached to the words of dying man because a person on the verge of death is not likely to tell lie or to concoct a case so as to implicate an innocent person but the Court has to be careful to ensure that the statement was not the result of either tutoring, prompting or a product of the imagination. It is, therefore, essential that the Court must be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind to make the statement, had clear capacity to observe and identify the assailant and that he was making the statement without any influence or rancor. Once the court is satisfied that the dying declaration is true and voluntary it is sufficient for the purpose of conviction."

40. In Lakhan Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, JT 2010 (8) SC 363, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

*"The doctrine of dying declaration is enshrined in the legal maxim "Nemo moriturus praesumitur mentire", which means "a man will not meet his maker with a lie in his mouth". The doctrine of Dying Declaration is enshrined in Section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter called as, "Evidence Act") as an exception to the general rule contained in Section 60 of the Evidence Act, which provides that oral evidence in all cases must be direct i.e. it must be the evidence of a witness, who says he saw it. The dying declaration is, in fact, the statement of a person, who cannot be called as witness and, therefore, cannot be cross-examined. Such statements themselves are relevant facts in certain cases."

41. In Subhash Vs. State of Haryana, AIR 2011 SC 349, where the prosecution has failed to prove as to how the Magistrate was approached by the police or the hospital authorities for recording the dying declaration, the Hon'ble Supreme Court holding that such dying declaration was not reliable, has held as under:-

"3.....The dying declaration Ex.PCC was recorded by Ravi Malik PW on the 28th October 1985 after an application Ex.PBB had been moved before him by Rajinder Gaur, PW. Ravi Malik, when cross-examined in Court, stated that on the 28th October 1985 he had been present at his residence in Panchsheel Enclave, New Delhi when the application Ex.PBB had been presented to him on which he had gone to the Safdarjung Hospital and recorded the dying declaration after the doctor had certified Anuradha's fitness to make a statement. He also stated that a copy of the statement had been handed over to the police on the 30th of October 1985. When cross-examined, however, he admitted that Ex.PBB had not been produced by him before the investigating agency and he was tendering this document for the first time during his evidence in Court and that there was no noting on Ex.PCC that he had gone to the hospital on the application Ex.PBB or that a copy of the dying declaration had been handed over the police on the 30th October 1985. He also admitted that he had not obtained any opinion in writing from the doctor about Anuradha's fitness to make a statement. He further admitted that the area of Safdarjung Hospital did not fall within his jurisdiction but clarified that it was the practice that a dying declaration could be recorded by any Magistrate when the Magistrate of the area concerned was not available but clarified that he had made no efforts to find out as to whether the Magistrate of the area in which Safdarjung Hospital lay was available or not. He also admitted that he had not been approached by the police or the medical authorities for recording the dying declaration. If any doubt is left with regard to the sanctity of this dying declaration, it stands dispelled by the testimony of Dr. Devansh Sharma (who had made the endorsement Ex.PZ. that Anuradha was fit to make a statement) when he deposed that the endorsement had been taken from him after the statement of Anuradha had been recorded. This statement has to be read with the admission made by PW Ravi Malik that he had not taken any endorsement before actually recording the statement. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the so-called "pivot" that both the courts below have found in the dying declaration Ex.PCC is, in fact, non-existent. The very conduct of this witness and the manner in which he had recorded the dying declaration, as already indicated above, raises a deep suspicion about its veracity."

42. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Murugesan Vs. State, (2012) 10 SCC 383, where the deceased before completing statement (dying declaration) had slipped into coma and the number of accused, stated by deceased in her dying declaration, was contrary to the earlier report as well as charge sheet filed against 23 accused persons, holding that such dying declaration is not sufficient to be relied upon against the accused, held as under:-

"38.....The efficacy of the dying declaration (Ex. P-4) when the maker thereof had slipped into a coma even before completing the statement would have a serious effect on the capacity of D-1 to make such a statement. The certification made by PW-21 with regard to the condition of the deceased is definitely not the last word. Though ordinarily and in the normal course such an opinion should be accepted and acted upon by the court, in cases, where the circumstances so demand, such opinions must be carefully balanced with all other surrounding facts and circumstances. All the above, in our view, demonstrates the fragile nature of the conclusions reached by the High Court in the present case."

43. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bakhshish Singh Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1957 SC 904 criticising the lengthy dying declaration which was also in form of F.I.R. has held as under:-

"Exhibit P-H, the dying declaration, is a long document and is a narrative of a large number of incidents which happened before the actual assault. Such long statements which are more in the nature of First Information Reports than recital of the cause of death or circumstances resulting in it are likely to give the impression of their being not genuine or not having been made unaided and without prompting. The dying declaration is the statement made by a person as to the cause of his death or as to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death and such details which fall outside the ambit of this are not strictly within the permissible limits laid down by s. 32 (1) of the Evidence Act and unless absolutely necessary to make a statement coherent or complete should not be included in the statement."
(Emphasis supplied)

44. Now the question arises whether the dying declaration made by the deceased Pratiksha is truthful, voluntary and free from any doubt/suspicion. Admittedly the evidence of Asha Devi (PW-1), Hari Kishan (PW-2), Anoop Kumar Gaur (PW-4) have been found not reliable. It has also been found that these witnesses were not present at the time and place of occurrence i.e. on 8.6.2013 at about 7-7:30 p.m. at the house of deceased because Asha Devi (PW-1) has admitted in her cross-examination that she reached the place of occurrence on the information of Hari Kishan (PW-2) and Hari Kishan (PW-2) has stated that when he reached the place of occurrence he saw that his wife had been burnt. He has not stated that he saw the appellants at the place of occurrence.

45. Record shows that F.I.R. was lodged u/s 498A, 307 IPC and ¾ D.P. Act on 9.6.2013 at about 21:50 p.m. and the investigation was entrusted to one S.I. Mata Prasad (Ist I.O.) and during investigation the deceased died in the hospital and the case was converted u/s 498A, 304B I.P.C. and ¾ D.P. Act and was entrusted to Mayaram Verma (PW-5, II I.O.) on 20.6.2013 for further investigation. Thus S.I. Mata Prasad Singh (Ist I.O.) had investigated the case from 9.6.2013 to 20.6.2013. According to Asha Devi (PW-1) Darogaji (police) had recorded statement of deceased but prosecution has not produced S.I. Mata Prasad to prove that whether deceased had given any statement against appellants or not or whether he (Ist I.O.) had sent any requisition or information to any Magistrate for recording dying declaration of deceased or not.

46. Dying declaration (Ex.ka 11) shows that before recording the statement of deceased on 9.6.2013 at about 12:10 a.m. the emergency Medical Officer Dr. Prabhat, on duty, had certified the mental fitness of the deceased. Dr. Prabhat has also not been examined by the prosecution to prove whether deceased was in fit state of mind or not at the time of recording of dying declaration. Neither Mayaram Verma (PW-5), (II I.O.), has stated whether any information or requisition was sent, either to any Magistrate or to Ram Kailash Saroj (PW-7) for recording statement of deceased/dying declaration nor any official of hospital was produced by the prosecution to prove any such information or requisition. Similarly Asha Devi (PW-1), Hari Kishan (PW-2) and Anoop Kumar Gaur (PW-4), who were present at hospital during the medical treatment of deceased have also not deposed whether dying declaration or any statement of deceased was recorded by Ram Kailash (PW-7) or not. According to these witnesses (PW-1, PW-2 and PW-4) deceased was badly burnt and she was unable to speak.

47. It is also notable point in dying declaration that every effort has been made to rope the whole family of appellant Brijbhan including his wife and his daughter and some innocent persons Jitendra @ Mani and Golu. Since the marriage of deceased with Hari Kishan (PW-2) was due to love and affairs between them and without dowry, Hari Kishan (PW-2) alongwith deceased was residing separately from his brother Subhash (since acquitted) and appellant Brijbhan was residing in his matrimonial house with his family and was being supported by his parents-in-law, this may have created doubt to deceased and Hari Kishan (PW-2) that appellant will grab the property of his father and due to this confusion and apprehension they would have been falsely implicated.

48. Ram Kailash (PW-7) has also not stated that any requisition, to record the dying declaration/statement of deceased (Ex.Ka11) was given to him either from any doctor, hospital authorities, any police personnel or investigating officer.

According to him he had recorded the dying declaration (Ex.ka 11) on the direction of Up Zila Adhikari, Sadar (Sub-Divisional Magistrate) but he did not produce any written requisition or direction of such Up Zila Adhikari, Sadar. Prosecution has also not produced that Up Zila Adhikari, Sadar, to prove whether any requisition, request or information was given to him (Up Zila Adhikari, Sadar) either from officials/doctor of hospital or any police personnel including I.O. or he (Up Zila Adhikari, Sadar) had given any direction to Ram Kailash (PW-7) to record the statement of deceased. PW-7 has also not stated that after recording the dying declaration (Ex.ka 11) he had handed over the said dying declaration to concerned hospital or to I.O. or sent it to higher authorities or to concerned Magistrate.

49. According to Mayaram Verma (PW-5) (II I.O.), on 3.7.2013 he had perused the dying declaration (Ex.ka11) with permission of Court i.e. Judicial Magistrate. He has also not stated as to how he got information that dying declaration reached in the office of Judicial Magistrate or who had sent/dispatched it to the concerned Magistrate.

50. It is also pertinent to note that the elaborated and lengthy content of the dying declaration (Ex.Ka 11), containing four pages, also creates suspicion because in response to question No.1 that how she got burnt, deceased had given descriptive statement mentioning her exact date of marriage i.e. 12.12.2007, manner and method of marriage, her ambitions, her enmity with the appellants, details of whole occurrence happened on the day of incident i.e. coming of one Gappu Singh along with two constables, quarreling of whole day, specific role played by appellants Kusum, Guddi and Brijbhan along with Jitendra and Golu and also disclosing age and husband's name of appellant Kusum, age and father's name of appellant Guddi and also father's name of Brijbhan. She had also implicated some innocent people i.e. Jitendra and Golu. In addition to it in response to question No. 2, that how fire was put off, she stated that her husband, after having completed his job in a kiln, came back by cycle and covered her with something and put off the fire. Such descriptive and lengthy statement in the form of complaint shows that such dying declaration was either tutored by someone or was not recorded in verbatim or properly because a person who had received severe burn injury having severe burning pain and suffering from trauma might not be in a position to depose such a descriptive and exhaustive statement mentioning age, parentage and implicating some false persons which are irrelevant and are not supposed to be an answer for cause of her death.

51. This dying declaration also appears false and tutored because in view of statement of deceased (answer of question No. 3 of dying declaration) that she was taken to hospital and got admitted by her mother (PW-1) and her husband (PW-2), whereas Asha Devi (PW-1) has admitted that she, upon information given by Hari Kishan (PW-2), went Chandvak where she got information that her daughter (deceased) was taken away by villagers to hospital and then she rushed to the hospital and found that Hari Kishan (PW-2) was getting the deceased medically treated and Hari Kishan also admitted that upon his information Asha Devi (PW-1) reached hospital. Similarly, Hari Kishan (PW-2) has also admitted that when he reached hospital his wife was being treated.

52. In addition to above, from perusal of dying declaration it is further clear that dying declaration has been prepared in two sheets i.e. four pages and thumb impression of deceased has been put only on the last page. No thumb impression has been put on first three pages. Certificate of mental fitness has been noted with a short signature (initial) of the doctor at the beginning and also at the end of the dying declaration (Ex.ka 11) but both signatures prima facie being different. It is also most remarkable point that all the facts which are against the appellants have been written in such portion (pages) of dying declaration (Ex.ka-11) where thumb impression of deceased is absent. In addition to above, it is also not clear that whether such dying declaration was kept in sealed envelop at the time of its inspection by Mayaram Verma (PW-5) or at the time of recording of statement of Mayaram Verma (PW-5) before Trial Court or at the time of statement of Ram Kailash (PW-7). Ram Kailash (PW-7) has also not deposed that after recording the dying declaration, he had kept it in sealed cover and sent it to concerned Magistrate/Court or handed over to hospital authorities or police.

53. Deceased was well educated and was graduate, as stated by Hari Kishan (PW-2) but her signature was not obtained on Ex.Ka-11. Prosecution has not offered any explanation as to why the deceased, who was well educated, did not prefer to put her signature but put her thumb impression only on the last page of dying declaration.

54. Thus in view of above short coming, serious irregularities, it is clear that the said dying declaration is tutored and doubtful which cannot be treated as reliable.

55. Another point which also creates doubt in prosecution case that occurrence happened on 8.6.2013 at about 7:30 p.m. but F.I.R. was lodged after 24 hours. Prosecution has not given any explanation or reason for such delay whereas Asha Devi (PW-1) and Hari Kishan (PW-2) were awared of the occurrence and according to Asha Devi (PW-1) police had taken away her to police station and got F.I.R. lodged by her. Although delay in lodging the F.I.R. is not fatal in such case where reasonable explanation has been given by prosecution but in facts and circumstances of this case where F.I.R. was lodged after 24 hours on instigation or help of police, delay in lodging F.I.R. is fatal to prosecution case.

56. Thus in the light of above discussion, it is clear that F.I.R. has been lodged after delay of 24 hours with due deliberation and consultation and no explanation has been offered by prosecution in this regard; evidence of Asha Devi (PW-1), Hari Kishan (PW-2) and Anoop Kumar (PW-4) are contradictory and not reliable and dying declaration (Ex.ka 11) of deceased Pratiksha is also doubtful and tutored which cannot be treated as a ground to prove the prosecution case. Trial Court has not properly discussed the prosecution evidence. Prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. Appellants are entitled to be acquitted.

57. I am, therefore, unable to uphold the conviction and sentence of the appellants. Impugned judgement and order passed by the Trial Court is accordingly set aside. The appellants Prem Sheela @

Guddi, Kusum Devi and Brijbhan Gaur are acquitted.

58. They are in jail. They are directed to be released forthwith unless wanted in any other case.

59. Cri. Appeal Nos. 558 of 2019 and 564 of 2019 are allowed.

60. Keeping in view the provision of Section 437-A of the Code, appellants- Prem Sheela @ Guddi, Kusum Devi and Brijbhan Gaur are hereby directed forthwith to furnish a personal bond of a sum of Rs.20,000/- each and two reliable sureties each of the like amount before Trial Court, which shall be effective for a period of six months, along with an undertaking that in the event of filing of Special Leave Petition against this judgment or for grant of leave, appellants- Prem Sheela @ Guddi, Kusum Devi and Brijbhan Gaur, on receipt of notice thereof, shall appear before Hon'ble Supreme Court.

61. A copy of this judgment along with lower court record be sent to Trial Court by FAX for immediate compliance.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code -Sections 304, 504 - Appeal against conviction.

The case is, therefore, covered by Exception 4 to Section 300 IPC. It was a culpable homicide not amounting to murder. It is also peculiar fact that the blow was not repeated. It is just so happened that the lathi blow dealt by him proved to be fatal. (para 17)

Therefore, it is abundantly clear that there was no premeditation or prearranged plan. All these facts and circumstances are taken into consideration in proper perspective for awarding the sentence. (para 19)

Nature of simple injury inflicted by the accused on the part of the body on which it was inflicted. The weapon used to inflict the same and the circumstances in which the injury was inflicted do not suggest that the appellant had any intention to kill the deceased. All that can be said is that the appellant had the knowledge that injury inflicted by him was sufficient to cause the death of the deceased. The case would, therefore, more appropriately fall under section 304 Part II IPC. So the appellant is rightly convicted under Section 304 Part II and 504 IPC. (para 24)

The appeal is partly allowed and modifying the sentence awarded to appellant. (E-2)

2. This criminal appeal has been preferred by appellant- Chandresh Yadav @ Chanda against the judgment and order dated 02.12.2016, passed by Additional Session Judge, Court No. 12, Varanasi, in S.T. No. 161 of 2015 (State Vs. Chandresh Yadav @ Chanda), arising out of Case Crime No. 20 of 2015, P.S. Shivpur, District Varanasi, whereby convicted under Section 304 IPC, for 8 years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 4,000/- and in default of fine, 4 months additional imprisonment and under sections 504 IPC for 1 year rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs. 2,000/- and in default of fine 2 months additional imprisonment to appellant. Both the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

3. Brief facts of this case are as follows-:

4. The written complaint (Ext. Ka-1) lodged by complainant Namwar Singh, P.W. 1 by way of NCR (Ext. Ka-5) with allegation that on 21.01.015 in the morning at 10.30 a.m. appellant Chandresh Yadav S/o Buddhu Yadav was giving filthy abuses to his younger brother Arvind Yadav when he refused to do so then appellant gave a lathi blow on the head of deceased Arvind Yadav due to such assault deceased got serious injury.

5. On the basis of written complaint by P.W.1 NCR No. 10/2015 was lodged at police station Shivpur, under sections 323, 504 IPC at 15.05 p.m. on 21.01.2015 which was duly entered in G.D. Injured Arvind Kumar Yadav admitted in Pandit. Deen Dayal Upadhyay Government Hospital, Varanasi, for treatment, but on account of serious condition deceased referred to Nova Hospital, Varanasi, for better treatment, where he died on 28.01.2015 at 6.35 p.m. after 7 days on account of head injury sustained by him. On receiving of such information this NCR No. 10/15 converted as Case Crime No. 20/15, under section 304 IPC by way of G.D. No. 19, 9.40 on 01.02.2015 as Ext. Ka-6.

6. The case was investigated by Sub-Inspector Raghvendra Bahadur Singh (P.W. 4). He received all the documents related to this case and enclosed in CD and during investigation recorded the statement of constable clerk Vinod Kumar and after recorded the statement of P.W. 1, prepared site plan Ext. Ka-3 on pointing out of complainant and thereafter the statement of sub-Inspector Kashyap Kumar was recorded who prepared the inquest report Ext. Ka-2, after recording the statement of eye-witnesses, completing the formalities of investigation, charge-sheet Ext. Ka-5 submitted under sections 323, 504, 304 IPC.

7. Post-mortem of the body of the deceased was conducted by Dr. Surendra Kumar Pandey (P.W.-5) on 29.01.2015 at 3.30 p.m., who also prepared the post-mortem report Ext. Ka-7. He has found following injuries on the person of deceased Arvind Kumar Yadav:-

1. Contusion 10.5cm x 4.5cm placed on right side upper lateral part of chest up to nipple from the axilla.

2. Contusion 6.5cm x 4cm placed on left left side upper and lateral part of chest at level of left nipple.

3. On opening scalp extravasation of blood on frontal area of scalp in area 10cm x 4.5cm.

4. on opening the scalp extravasation of blood on external occipital on protuberance below in area 5cm x 3.2cm. Colour of contusion purplish in colour.

5. Internal Examination- the bone behind the head was fractured. Membrane of brain was congested. Brain was also congested.

Cause of death due to effects of Coma as a result of Head and Brain injuries.

8. Since the offence mentioned in the charge-sheet were triable by the court of session, the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Varanasi, committed the case to the court of session for the trial where the case crime No. 20 of 2015 was registered as ST. No. 161 of 2015 (State vs. Chandrash Yadav), made over for trial from there to the court of sessions Judge, Court no. 12, Varanasi, on the basis of material on record and after affording opportunity of hearing to the prosecution as well as the accused appellant, framed charge under sections 304, 504 IPC.

9. The accused-appellant did not plead guilty and claimed to be tried.

10. The prosecution in order to prove his case against the appellant examined P.W.1 Namwar Singh, who is the real brother of the appellant, P.W. 2 Baddu Yadav, father of the deceased, P.W. 3 Heerawati Yadav, mother of the deceased, P.W. 4 Raghvendra Bahadur, Sub-inspector, Investigating Officr (formal witness) and P.W. 5, Dr. Surendra Kumar Pandey, who was conducted the autopsy of the deceased, who was also formal witness.

11. Accused-appellant in his examination under section 313 Cr.P.C. denied his participation and submitted that he has been falsely implicated in this case due to enmity. The accused-appellant did not however adduce any evidence in defence.

12. The Additional Session Judge, Court No. 12, Varanasi, by impugned judgment and order after analyzing the evidence convicted the appellant under section 304, 504 IPC as above, hence this appeal.

13. It has been contended by learned counsel for the appellant that the appellant is poor person and there is no intention to kill the deceased and due to sudden quarrel this occurrence has happened and death of the injured occurred after seven days due to negligence of the doctor and no offence against the appellant is made out under Section 323 Cr.P.C. and finally submitted that offence, if any would not traverse beyond section 325 IPC and further argued that due to poverty of appellant he could not able to engage layer of his choice at the time of trial. During trial amicus curiae was appointed by trial court and case of the appellant contested by amicus curiae. It is also submitted that he was arrested on 01.02.2015 since then the appellant languishing in jail and also submitted that he is the sole bread earner in his family and he is the father of young children, so by taking lenient view, he could be punished by minimum sentence.

14. Learned AGA has opposed the prayer and submitted that the accused was rightly convicted by the sessions court and there is no occasion for interference against the judgment and order of learned trial court and this appeal lacks merit and the same should be dismissed.

15. I have heard learned counsel for the appellant, learned AGA and carefully perused the entire record of the case.

16. In this case prosecution examined the three eyewitnesses of the fact P.W. 1 who is real brother of deceased, P.W. 2 Baddu Yadav, father of the deceased and P.W. 3 Heerawati, mother of the deceased and accused/appellant is also a real brother of P.W. 1 and son of P.W. 2 and P.W.3.

Although these 3 witnesses are relative witness but these 3 witnesses are natural witness and incident was happened inside the house, hence presence of the above witnesses at the spot is not suspicious from any point of view.

On careful examination of the evidence adducef by these 3 witnesses is transpires that the appellant inflicted the lathi blow on the head of deceased and due to this single lathi blow deceased succumbed due to this injury during treatment. Thus, the evidence is fully corroborated with medical evidence. So the evidence produced by the prosecution inspire confidence. Prosecution is able to prove his case beyond all shadow of doubt.

17. To come to the point, it was proved by evidence on record that after brief altercation and exchange of abuses between the deceased on the one hand and accused appellant on the other, in the heat of passion the appellant Chandresh gave a lathi blow on the head of the deceased which proved to be fatal. The case is, therefore, covered by Exception 4 to Section 300 IPC. It was a culpable homicide not amounting to murder. It is also peculiar fact that the blow was not repeated. It is just so happened that the lathi blow dealt by him proved to be fatal.

18. There are significant features of the case which are appropriate sentencing is very vital junction of the Court required to be taken into consideration for awarding the appropriate sentence to the accused.

1. Admittedly, the incident happened at the spur of the moment. Though he had no intention of causing either death or such bodily injury as was likely to cause his death. But knowledge has to be imputed to him that the act of striking lathi blow on the head of the deceased was likely to cause his death. Therefore, he committed that offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder and the offence is punishable under Part-II of Section 304 IPC.

2. The appellant gave a single lathi blow on the head of the deceased which proved fatal;

3. Injury inflicted on the body of the deceased is not caused by the appellant that to fatal.

4. The incident took place on 21.01.2015 at 10.30 a.m. and the deceased remained hospitalized from 21.01.2015 to 28.01.205 and ultimately died on 28.01.2015 at Nova Hospital, Varanasi.

5. The trial court observed that there was no previous enmity between the parties.

Therefore, it is abundantly clear that there was no premeditation or prearranged plan. All these facts and circumstances are taken into consideration in proper perspective for awarding the sentence.

19. In Jagrup Singh vs. State of Haryana (1981) 3 SCC 616, the accused had inflected a single blow in the heat of moment in a sudden fight with blunt side of Gandhala on the head of the deceased causing his death. According to the opinion of the doctor this particular injury was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. But, according to this Court, the intention to cause such an injury was likely to cause death had not been made out. The Apex Court altered the conviction of the accused from section 302 IPC to section 304 Part II IPC and the accused was directed to suffer rigorous imprisonment for a period of seven years.

20. In Gurmail Singh & Others v. State of Punjab(1982) 3 SCC 185, the accused had no enmity with the deceased. The accused gave one blow with the spear on the chest of the deceased causing his death. The injury was an incised wound. The Sessions Judge convicted the accused undersection 302IPC and sentenced him to rigorous imprisonment for life. The High Court affirmed the same. This Court, while taking into consideration the age of the accused and other circumstances, converted the conviction fromsection 302IPC to one undersection 304Part II IPC and sentenced him to suffer rigorous imprisonment for five years and a fine of Rs.500/-, in default to suffer rigorous imprisonment for six months.

21. In case of Hem Raj vs. State (Delhi Administration) (1990) Supp. SCC 291 the accused inflicted single stab injury landing on the chest of the deceased. The occurrence admittedly had taken place in the spur of the moment and in heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel. According to the doctor the injury was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"14. The question is whether the appellant could be said to have caused that particular injury with the intention of causing death of the deceased. As the totality of the established facts and circumstances do show that the occurrence had happened most unexpectedly in a sudden quarrel and without pre-meditation during the course of which the appellant caused a solitary injury, he could not be imputed with the intention to cause death of the deceased or with the intention to cause that particular fatal injury; but he could be imputed with the knowledge that he was likely to cause an injury which was likely to cause death. Because in the absence of any positive proof that the appellant caused the death of the deceased with the intention of causing death or intentionally inflicted that particular injury which in the ordinary course of nature was sufficient to cause death, neither Clause I nor Clause III of Section 300 IPC will be attracted....."

Hon'ble Apex Court while setting aside the conviction under section 302 convicted the accused under section 304 Part II and sentenced him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for seven years.

22. In case of Pappu vs. State of M.P. (2006) 7 SCC 391, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under;

".....The help of Exception 4 can be invoked if death is caused (a) without premeditation, (b) in a sudden fight; (c) without the offender's having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner; and (d) the fight must have been with the person killed. To bring a case within Exception 4 all the ingredients mentioned in it must be found. It is to be noted that the 'fight' occurring in Exception 4 to Section 300 IPC is not defined in the IPC. It takes two to make a fight. Heat of passion requires that there must be no time for the passions to cool down and in this case, the parties have worked themselves into a fury on account of the verbal altercation in the beginning. A fight is a combat between two and more persons whether with or without weapons.

It is not possible to enunciate any general rule as to what shall be deemed to be a sudden quarrel. It is a question of fact and whether a quarrel is sudden or not must necessarily depend upon the proved facts of each case. For the application of Exception 4, it is not sufficient to show that there was a sudden quarrel and there was no premeditation. It must further be shown that the offender has not taken undue advantage or acted in cruel or unusual manner. The expression 'undue advantage' as used in the provision means 'unfair advantage'.

It cannot be laid down as a rule of universal application that whenever one blow is given, Section 302 IPC is ruled out. It would depend upon the weapon used, the size of it in some cases, force with which the blow was given, part of the body it was given and several such relevant factors.

Considering the factual background in the case at hand it will be appropriate to convict the appellant under Section 304 Part II IPC, instead of Section 302 IPC as has been done by the trial court and affirmed by the High Court. Custodial sentence of eight years would meet the ends of justice. The appeal is allowed to the aforesaid extent."

23. On consideration of entire evidence including the medical evidence, I am of the view that the appellant has rightly been convicted under section 304 Part II IPC. In the facts and circumstance of the case that the appellant and all the witnesses are real family members, so before awarding sentence to the accused each case has to be seen its special circumstances and proper prospective. The relevant factors are as under:-

a. Motive or previous enmity;

b. Whether the incident had taken place on the spur of the moment;

c. The intention/knowledge of the accused while inflicting the blow or injury;

d. Whether the death ensued instantaneously or the victim died after several days

e. The gravity, dimension and nature of injury.

f. The age and general health condition of the accused.

g. Whether the injury caused without premeditation in a sudden fight;

h. The nature and size of weapon used for inflicting the injury and the force with which the blow was inflicted;

I. The criminal background and adverse history of the accused;

j. Whether the injury inflicted was not sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death but the death was be caused of shock;

k. Number of other criminal cases pending against the accused;

l. Incident occurred within the family members or close relations;

m. The conduct and behaviour of the accused after the incident. Whether the accused had taken the injured/ the deceased to the hospital immediately to ensure that he/she gets proper medical treatment?

These are some of the factors which can be taken into consideration while granting an appropriate sentence to the accused. The list of circumstances enumerated above is only illustrative and not exhaustive. In our considered view, proper and appropriate sentence to the accused is the bounded obligation and duty of the court. The endeavour of the court must be to ensure that the accused receives appropriate sentence, in other words, sentence should be according to the gravity of the offence. These are some of the relevant factors which are required to be kept in view while convicting and sentencing the accused.

24. I am of the opinion that nature of simple injury inflicted by the accused on the part of the body on which it was inflicted. The weapon used to inflict the same and the circumstances in which the injury was inflicted do not suggest that appellant had any intention to kill the deceased (real brother of appellant). All that can be said is that the appellant had the knowledge that injury inflicted by him was sufficient to cause the death of the deceased. The case would, therefore, more appropriately fall under section 304 Part II IPC. So the appellant is rightly convicted under Section 304 Part II and 504 IPC.

25. As the appellant's family consists of one minor daughter, two minor sons and wife and all of whom dependent on him and the appellant has no previous criminal history.

26. So, considering the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case. The appeal is partly allowed and modifying the sentence awarded to appellant.

27. The conviction provided under section 304 Part II is confirmed. As the appellant is in jail since 01.02.2015 (during trial as well as appeal). I think that the ends of justice would be served by sentencing the appellant to rigorous imprisonment for 5 years, under section 304 IPC Part-II and one year imprisonment under section 504 IPC and both the sentence run concurrently. The fine imposed by trial court with default clause awarded to him shall remain unaltered. It is made clear that the period undergone in jail shall be adjusted in 5 years imprisonment.

28. The office is directed to transmit back the record of the Lower Court with a copy of judgment and order of this Court for immediate compliance.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
DATED: ALLAHABAD 02.01.2020

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE PRADEEP KUMAR SRIVASTAVA, J.

Rajjan ...Appellant(On Interim Bail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Santosh Kumar Mishra

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
A.G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 323, 504, 506 - S.C./S.T. Act,1961 -Section 3(1)X - Appeal against conviction.

Section 3 and 4 of the Probation of Offender Act and Sections 360, 361 of Cr.PC. are discussed.

Considering the fact that the accused has been convicted only under Section 323 IPC and for remaining offence he has been acquitted by the learned trial court. It is a fit case in which the benefit of probation may be given. The reason being that there is no criminal history alleged against the appellant, he is a farmer and belongs to a very humble and village background, the probation of Offender Act and Sections 360 and 361 Cr.P.C. makes it mandatory. On the part of the trial Court to state reason for not according to benefit of probation in a case relating to an offence which is punishable for less than 7 years imprisonment. Accordingly, the impugned judgment of conviction and sentence recorded by the court below under Section 323 I.P.C. is upheld. (para 12)

However, instead of sending the appellant namely Rajjan to jail, he shall get the benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act. Consequently, the appellant shall file two sureties with personal bonds to the effect that he shall not commit any offence and shall observe good behaviour and shall maintain peace during the period of one year. If there is breach of any of the conditions, he will subject himself to undergo sentence before the Magistrate. (para 13)

The appeal is disposed of. (E-2)

4. Jagat Pal Singh & ors. Vs. St. of Haryana, AIR 2000 SC 3622

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pradeep Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Santosh Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant and learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. This appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order of conviction dated 30.1.2014 passed by Special Judge SC/ST (P.A.)/Act/Learned Additional Session Judge, Court NO.94/2012 (State Vs. Rajjan), arising out of Case Crime No. 321 of 2011, under Sections 323, 504, 506,I.P.C. and Section 3(1)X of SC/ST (PA) Act, Police Station Pahari, District Chitrakoot, whereby the accused-appellant was convicted and sentenced for a period of six months rigorous imprisonment for the offence under Section 323 IPC along with fine of Rs.1000/- and in default for one month.

3. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that he is not inclined to argue the case on merits and will seek the benefit of probation as the appellant has been convicted for the offence under Section 323 IPC.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant has relied upon the judgment in the case of Subhash Chand & others Vs State of UP (2015 Law Suit (All) 1343) and the judgment passed in Criminal Revision No. 1319 of 1999 (Hargovind & Others vs. State of U.P.) passed by this Court on 11.01.2019.

Section 3 of the Probation of Offenders Act reads as follows:

"3. Power of court to release certain offenders after admonition.- When any person is found guilty of having committed an offence punishable under section 379 or section 380 or section 381 or section 404 or section 420 of the Indian Penal Code, (45 of 1860) or any offence punishable with imprisonment for not more than two years, or with fine, or with both, under the Indian Penal Code, or any other law, and no previous conviction is proved against him and the court by which the person is found guilty is of opinion that, having regard to the circumstances of the case including the nature of the offence, and the character of the offender, it is expedient so to do, then, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the court may instead of sentencing him to any punishment or releasing him on probation of good conduct under section 4 release him after due admonition.

Explanation.- For the purposes of this section, previous conviction against a person shall include any previous order made against him under this section or section 4."

5. Thus, this was the bounden duty of the learned trial court and also the appellate court to consider why they did not proceed to grant the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act. Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act reads as follows:

"4. Power of court to release certain offenders on probation of good conduct.-(1) When any person is found guilty of having committed an offence not punishable with death or imprisonment for life and the court by which the person is found guilty is of opinion that, having regard to the circumstances of the case including the nature of the offence and the character of the offender, it is expedient to release him on probation of good conduct, then, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the court may, instead of sentencing him at once to any punishment direct that he be released on his entering into a bond, with or without sureties, to appear and receive sentence when called upon during such period, not exceeding three years, as the court may direct, and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour:

Provided that the court shall not direct such release of an offender unless it is satisfied that the offender or his surety, if any, has a fixed place of abode or regular occupation in the place over which the court exercises jurisdiction or in which the offender is likely to live during the period for which he enters into the bond.

(2)Before making any order under sub-section (1), the court shall take into consideration the report, if any, of the probation officer concerned in relation to the case.

(3) When an order under sub-section (1) is made, the court may, if it is of opinion that in the interests of the offender and of the public it is expedient so to do, in addition pass a supervision order directing that the offender shall remain under the supervision of a probation officer named in the order during such period, not being less than one year, as may be specified therein, and may in such supervision order, impose such conditions as it deems necessary for the due supervision of the offender.

(4) The court making a supervision order under sub-section (3) shall require the offender, before he is released, to enter into a bond, with or without sureties, to observe the conditions specified in such order and such additional conditions with respect to residence, abstention from intoxicants or any other matter as the court may, having regard to the particular circumstances, consider fit to impose for preventing a repetition of the same offence or a commission of other offences by the offender.

(5) The court making a supervision order under sub-section (3) shall explain to the offender the terms and conditions of the order and shall forthwith furnish one copy of the supervision order to each of the offenders, the sureties, if any, and the probation officer concerned."

6. A similar provision finds place in the Code of Criminal Procedure. There, Section 360 provides:

360. Order to release on probation of good conduct or after admonition :

(1) When any person not under twenty- one years of age is convicted of an offence punishable with fine only or with imprisonment for a term of seven years or less, or when any person under twenty-one years of age or any woman is-convicted of an offence not punishable with death or imprisonment for life, and no previous conviction is proved against the offender, if it appears to the Court before which he is convicted, regard being had to the age, character or antecedents of the offender, and to the circumstances in which the offence was committed, that it is expedient that the offender should be released on probation of good conduct, the Court may, instead of sentencing him at once to any punishment, direct that he be released on his entering into a bond with or without sureties, to appear and receive sentence when called upon during such period (not exceeding three years) as the Court may direct and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour:

Provided that where any first offender is convicted by a Magistrate of the second class not specially empowered by the High Court, and the Magistrate is of opinion that the powers conferred by this section should be exercised, he shall record his opinion to that effect, and submit the proceedings to a Magistrate of the first class, forwarding the accused to, or taking bail for his appearance before, such Magistrate, who shall dispose of the case in the manner provided by sub-section (2).

(2) Where proceedings are submitted to a Magistrate of the first class as provided by sub- section (1), such Magistrate may thereupon pass such sentence or make such order as he might have passed or made if the case had originally been heard by him, and, if he thinks further inquiry or additional evidence on any point to be necessary, he may make such inquiry or take such evidence himself or direct such inquiry or evidence to be made or taken.

(3) In any case in which a person is convicted of theft, theft in a building, dishonest misappropriation cheating or any offence under the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), punishable with not more than two years' imprisonment or any offence punishable with fine only and no previous conviction is proved against him, the Court before which he is so convicted may, if it thinks fit, having regard to the age, character, antecedents or physical or mental condition of the offender and to the trivial nature of the offence or any extenuating circumstances under which the offence was committed, instead of sentencing him to any punishment, release him after due admonition.

(4) An order under this section may be made by any Appellate Court or by the High Court or Court of Session when exercising its powers of revision.

(5) When an order has been made under this section in respect of any offender, the High Court or Court of Session may, on appeal when there is a right of appeal to such Court, or when exercising its powers of revision, set aside such order, and in lieu thereof pass sentence on such offender according to law: Provided that the High Court or Court of Session shall not under this sub-section inflict a greater punishment than might have been inflicted by the Court by which the offender was convicted.

(6) The provisions of sections 121, 124 and 373 shall, so far as may be, apply in the case of sureties offered in pursuance of the provisions of this section.

(7) The Court, before directing the release of an offender under sub-section (1), shall be satisfied that an offender or his surety (if any) has a fixed place of abode or regular occupation in the place for which the Court acts or in which the offender is likely to live during the period named for the observance of the conditions.

(8) If the Court which convicted the offender, or a Court which could have dealt with the offender in respect of his original offence, is satisfied that the offender has failed to observe any of the conditions of his recognizance, it may issue a warrant for his apprehension.

(9) An offender, when apprehended on any such warrant, shall be brought forthwith before the Court issuing the warrant, and such Court may either remand him in custody until the case is heard or admit him to bail with sufficient surety conditioned on his appearing for sentence and such Court may, after hearing the case, pass sentence.

(10) Nothing in this section shall affect the provisions of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 (20 of 1958), or the Children Act, 1960 (60 of 1960), or any other law for the time being in force for the treatment, training or rehabilitation of youthful offenders."

Again, Section 361 reads as below:

"361. Special reasons to be recorded in certain cases.- Where in any case the Court could have dealt with-

(a) an accused persons under section 360 or under the provisions of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 (20 of 1958), or

(b) a youthful offender under the Children Act, 1960 (60 of 1960), or any other law for the time being in force for the treatment, training or rehabilitation of youthful offenders, but has not done so, it shall record in its judgment the special reasons for not having done so."

7. These statutory provisions very emphatically lay down the reformatory and correctional object of sentencing and obligates the trial court as well as appellate courts to give benefit of probation in fit cases as provided under law. Unfortunately, this branch of law has not been much utilized by the trial courts. It becomes more relevant and important in our system of administration of justice where trial is often concluded after a long time and by the time decision assumes finality, the very purpose of sentencing looses its efficacy as with the passage of time the penological and social priorities change and there remains no need to inflict punishment of imprisonment, particularly when the offence involved is not serious and there is no criminal antecedent of the accused person.The facts and given circumstances in each case, the nature of the crime, the manner in which it was planned and committed, the motive for commission of the crime, the conduct of the accused, the nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into the area of consideration. It is, therefore, the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed.

8. In this instant case, the court below has not considered the probation law, although, the appellant was only convicted for the offence under Section 323 I.P.C. for which the appellant was convicted for the maximum period of six months. Therefore, the benefit of probation could have been given in view of the law referred above. But, while awarding sentence this aspect was not considered. The learned court below did not even write a single word as to why the benefit of this beneficial legislation was not given to the accused whereas it was mandatory to do so under the provisions of Section 361 Cr.P.C. Moreover, the occurrence relates to the year 2011 and this appeal is pending since 2014 and therefore, no purpose of justice will be served if the appellant is sent to jail to undergo the terms of sentence after lapse of such long time.

9. In Subhash Chand Case (supra), this court has emphatically laid down the need to apply the law of probation and give benefit of the beneficial legislation to accused persons in appropriate cases. This court issued following directions to all trial courts and appellate courts:

"30. It appears that the aforesaid beneficial legislation has been lost sight of and even the Judges have practically forgotten this provision of law. Thus, before parting with the case, this Court feels that I will be failing in discharge of my duties, if a word of caution is not written for the trial courts and the appellante courts. The Registrar General of this Court is directed to circulate copy of this Judgement to all the District Judges of U.P., who shall in turn ensure circulation of the copy of this order amongst all the judicial officers working under him and shall ensure strict compliance of this Judgement. The District Judges in the State are also directed to call for reports every months from all the courts, i.e. trial courts and appellate courts dealing with such matters and to state as to in how many cases the benefit of the aforesaid provisions have been granted to the accused. The District Judges are also directed to monitor such cases personally in each monthly meeting. The District Judges concerned shall send monthly statement to the Registrar General as to in how many cases the trial court/appellate court has granted the benefit of the aforesaid beneficial legislation to the accused. A copy of this order be placed before the Registrar General for immediate compliance."

10. In addition to the above judgment of this Court, I perused the judgment of Hon'ble the Apex Court in State of Maharashtra Vs. Jagmohan Singh Kuldip Singh Anand & others (2004) 7 SCC 659 in which, giving the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958, the Court has observed as below:

"The learned counsel appearing for the accused submitted that the accident is of the year 1990. The parties are educated and neighbors. The learned counsel, therefore, prayed that benefit of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 may be granted to the accused. The prayer made on behalf of the accused seems to be reasonable. The accident is more than ten years old. The dispute was between the neighbors over a trivial issue of claiming of drainage. The accident took place in a fit of anger. All the parties educated and also distantly related. The accident is not such as to direct the accused to undergo sentence of imprisonment. In our opinion, it is a fit case in which the accused should be released on probation by directing them to execute a bond of one year for good behaviour."

11. Similarly, in Jagat Pal Singh & others Vs. State of Haryana, AIR 2000 SC 3622, the Hon'ble Apex Court has given the benefit of probation while upholding the conviction of accused persons under Sections 323, 452, 506 IPC and has released the accused persons on executing a bond before the Magistrate for maintaining good behaviour and peace for the period of six months.

12. Considering the fact that the accused has been convicted only under Section 323 IPC and for remaining offence he has been acquitted by the learned trial court. I find it to be a fit case in which the benefit of probation may be given. The reason being that there is no criminal history alleged against the appellant, he is a farmer and belongs to a very humble and village background, the probation of Offender Act and Sections 360 and 361 Cr.P.C. makes it mandatory. On the part of the trial Court to state reason for not according to benefit of probation in a case relating to an offence which is punishable for less than 7 years imprisonment. Accordingly, the impugned judgment of conviction and sentence recorded by the court below under Section 323 I.P.C. is upheld.

13. However, instead of sending the appellant namely Rajjan to jail, he shall get the benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act. Consequently, the appellant shall file two sureties with personal bonds to the effect that he shall not commit any offence and shall observe good behaviour and shall maintain peace during the period of one year. If there is breach of any of the conditions, he will subject himself to undergo sentence before the Magistrate. The bonds and sureties aforesaid be filed by the accused person within two months from the date of the Judgment as per law and Rules.

14. With the above modification, the appeal is accordingly disposed of finally.

15. Office is directed to send the certified copy of this judgment along with lower court record to the court concerned for information and necessary action.

CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE DEVENDRA KUMAR UPADHYAYA, J.
HON'BLE MOHD. FAIZ ALAM KHAN, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 941 of 2010
connected with Criminal Appeal No. 254 of 2010 & 886 of 2010

Kamlendra Dwivedi ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Saurabh Srivastava, Maneesh Kumar Singh, Navita Sharma

Counsel for the Respondent:
Govt. Advocate, Firoz Ahmad Khan, Mohd. Usman Gani Khan, S.H. Ibrahim

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 498-A, 304-B - Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 - Section ¾ - Appeal against conviction.

Therefore, what actually had happened in that room could only be in the specific knowledge of appellant and, therefore, by virtue of Section

106 of the Indian Evidence Act, appellant was required to explain as to how and in what circumstances deceased had died and if no reasonable and acceptable explanation is given by the appellant or a false explanation is coming from his side, adverse inference will be drawn against him. On the basis of evidence on record a presumption as provided under Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act could be drawn against appellant that he has caused the dowry death of deceased. He has also failed to rebut this statutory presumption and, therefore, his conviction under Sections 304-B, 498-A and 201 of I.P.C. is liable to be sustained. (para 22)

Keeping into mind, the aforesaid proposition of law laid down by the Court in the aforementioned cases and having regard to the totality of facts and circumstances of this case, we are of the considered opinion that justice would be served, if we alter the sentence of the appellant from life imprisonment to that of 12 years. (para 30)

Criminal appeal Nos. 254 of 2010, 886 of 2010 and 941 of 2010 are allowed. (E-2)

Above Criminal Appeals No. 941 of 2010, 254 of 2010 and 886 of 2010, for the purpose of convenience and to avoid the repetition in appreciation of the evidence available on record are being decided by this common Judgment.

Earlier criminal appeal No. 887 of 2010 was filed by mother-in-law Meena Kumari, which has been abated on account of her death vide order dated 10.11.2010 passed in that appeal.

3. The prosecution case in nutshell is that an FIR was lodged by informant Chandra Bhal Dwivedi against appellants and co-accused Atulendra on 22.06.2005 at 22:10 hours at Police Station Kotwali Maharajganj, Sub District Maharajganj, District Raebareli stating therein that her daughter Poornima was married to appellant Kamlednra Dwivedi son of late Anjani Kumar Dwivedi, resident of Village Salethu, Police Station Maharajganj, District Raebareli and adequate dowry was given in her marriage. When Poonam, first time came back from her matrimonial home she informed that her husband Kamlendra and his above mentioned family members are demanding a motorcycle and Rs. 20,000/- in cash for the purpose of establishing a shop for her husband and also treating her with cruelty. They consoled her that by the passage of time everything shall be allright. When she went to her matrimonial home for the second time appellants again started demanding dowry and also started beating her and treating her with cruelty on non-fulfillment of demand of dowry. Informant along with his brother-in-law Ram Kumar Mishra and Sanjay Kumar went to the matrimonial home of his daughter for the purpose of ''Vidai', where all appellants demanded dowry and threatened them that if their demand is not fulfilled in the next 4 to 5 months, they will have to bear the consequences. They tried hard to make them understand and also requested not to treat Poonam with cruelty and they will do everything to meet their demand, but they did not sent Poonam with them. On 21.06.2005 at about 9:00 pm., Raghvendra informed him to come immediately as the daughter of the informant is in miserable condition. He immediately rushed to the matrimonial home of her daughter and found that her daughter had been burnt alive after being assaulted and her body had been hanged from the ledge, but her feets were resting on the ground.

On the basis of the above application, (Exhibit-ka-1), the First Information Report (Exhibit-ka-10) was lodged against all above mentioned appellants and Atulendra under Sections 498-A, 304-B of I.P.C. and Section ¾ Dowry Prohibition Act at Case Crime No. 60 of 2005 at Police Station Kotwali Maharajganj, District Raebareli. The substance of this information was entered in the General Diary (Exhibit-ka-11) at Serial No.-41 at 22:10 hours on 22.06.2005 and the investigation of the case was entrusted to Circle Officer of Police Maharajganj.

4. The inquest (Exhibit-ka-8) of the dead body of the deceased Poonam was done by Shri Ved Prakash Tripathi, the then "Tehsildar', Maharajganj in the presence of S.H.O. Kotwali Maharajganj. He also prepared a recovery memo of "rope' as well as of blood stained and simple soil (Exhibit-ka-4 & 5). He also prepared necessary papers for the postmortem of the dead body of Poonam i.e. Photo Lash, Challan Lash, Chitthi C.M.O., Chitthi R.I. (Exhibit-ka-6 to Ka-9) and after properly sealing the dead body, sent the same for postmortem.

5. The postmortem on the dead body of Poornima @ Poonam was performed by Dr. Rajendra Sharma (P.W.-4) on 22.06.2005 at 4:15 pm. at District Hospital, Raebareli, who also prepared the postmortem report (Exhibit-ka-2). He found the age of the deceased to be about 23 years and the deceased was found to be of average built. Her eyes and tongue were protruded, whole face, fore-arms, hands, chest, abdomen and both lower limbs were found burnt showing first to second degrees of burn. Fluid vesicles were found present on the body of the deceased in burnt areas and line of redness was also found present. A ligature mark was also found present below the thyroid cartilage interrupted at the back of neck. Rigor mortis was found passed in upper limbs and was present in lower limbs. One lacerated wound was also found in lower part of vagina in between vagina and anus.

On internal examination, brain and its membrances were found congested, sooth particles were found present in larynx, trachea. Right chamber of the heart was found full and left was found empty. Skin of the abdomen was found burnt and 70 ml. of semi-digested food was found in the stomach. Gases were found in small intestine while in large intestine, gases and faecal matter was found. Liver was found congested weighing about 1200 grams and the gall bladder was found half full. Spleen and kidneys were congested and in the opinion of the Doctor, the cause of death was shock due to ante-mortem burn injuries.

6. The Investigating Officer of the case namely Shri Charan Pal Singh, Circle Officer of the Police recorded the statement of informant Shri Chandra Bhal Dwivedi, Smt. Kusum Trivedi, Shri Sanjay Kumar Mishra, Shri Subhash Trivedi and also prepared the Site Plan (Exhibit-ka-12) and also collected the postmortem report and inquest report. He also recorded the statement of witness Ram Naresh Tiwari, Rajeev, Shailendra Kumar Tiwari, Vishnu Kant Dwivedi, Smt. Saira Bano and Dr. Rajendra Sharma and also the statement of appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi @ Vidyanand Dwivedi, Head Constable Suresh Kumar Shukla. He also recorded the statements of accused persons Krishnanand Dwivedi and Smt. Poonam as well as of appellant Raghvendra, Smt. Meena Kumari, Smt. Usha Devi and Atulendra Kumar. On 14.07.2005, the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. of Smt. Poonam and Krishnanand was recorded, a copy of which was made by him in the case diary and after finding sufficient evidence against all accused persons, he submitted the Charge-Sheet (Exhibit-ka-13) against them under Sections 498-A, 304-B of I.P.C. and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act.

7. The case being triable by the Court of Sessions was committed to it and the trial Court after hearing the prosecution and appellants framed charges against all accused persons under Sections 498-A, 304-B of I.P.C. and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act. All appellants denied the charges and claimed trial.

Prosecution in order to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt against the appellants and other accused person Atulendra Dwivedi placed reliance on following documentary evidence:-

Written Application (Tehrir F.I.R.), Exhibit-ka-1, Postmortem Report of deceased Poornima @ Poonam, Exhibit-ka-2, Inquest Report, Exhibit-ka-3, Seizure memo of Rope and blood stained and simple soil, Exhibit-ka-4 and Exhibit-ka-5, Photo Lash, Exhibit-ka-6, Challan Lash, Exhibit-ka-7, Chitthi C.M.O., Exhibit-ka-8, Chitthi R.I., Exhibit-ka-9, Chick F.I.R., Exhibit-ka-10, G.D. Qayami, Exhibit-ka-11, Site Plan, Exhibit-ka-12, Charge-Sheet, Exhibit-ka-13.

Prosecution in addition to the above documentary evidence also produced following witnesses:- P.W.-1/Chandra Bhal Trivedi (Informant), P.W.-2/Kusum Trivedi (Mother of the informant/deceased), P.W.-3/Ram Naresh Tiwari (Witness), P.W.-4/Dr. Rajendra Sharma (Doctor, who performed postmortem), P.W.-5/Ved Prakash Tripathi, (Tehsildar, who conducted inquest), P.W.-6/Constable Ram Prasad Saroj (Scribe of the Chick FIR and G.D.), P.W.-7/A.P. Singh (First Investigating Officer), P.W.-8/Shri Charan Pal Singh (Second Investigating Officer).

8. After the completion of the prosecution evidence, statement of all appellants was recorded by the trial Court. In their statement, recorded under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C., all accused persons have admitted the fact of solemnization of marriage of deceased Poonam @ Poornima with appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi one year before the incident. They denied the other evidence produced by the prosecution and stated that fake documentary evidence has been prepared to falsely implicate them. Appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi has stated that in the morning of the fateful day, there was some verbal altercation between him and his wife Poornima and thereafter he left his home without eating anything in order to meet his nephew Atulendra and returned late in the night at about 8:00 pm. and found that her wife had committed suicide. He informed the police as well as his father-in-law. He further stated that after postmortem his father-in-law started demanding Rs.1 lac to which he denied and in consequence thereof he has been falsely implicated.

Appellant Raghvendra in his statement, recorded under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C., has stated that he after constructing his own house, is residing at Village Atrehta, Maharajganj since 1997. He is working at Gramin Bank and at the time of incident he was on duty at Chandapur Branch of the Bank and he has been falsely implicated.

Appellant Krishnanand has stated that he is residing separately from Kamlendra since 1998 and all properties between them have been partitioned in the year 2003. At the time of the incident, he had gone to Maharajganj to collect ''Tahbazari' and he has been falsely implicated.

Smt. Meena Devi in her statement under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C. has stated that in the year 2003, the ancestral house and the agricultural land of her husband was partitioned between herself and her sons and she got ¼th share in agricultural land, Since then, she had been living separately from Kamlendra and at the time of incident she had gone to the house of a co-villager to participate in ''Akhand Ramayan' and she had been falsely implicated.

Appellant Usha Devi in her statement recorded under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C, has stated that since 1997, she had been living separately at Village Atrehta, Maharajganj along with her husband and children and she had been falsely implicated. Similarly, appellant Poonam Devi stated in her statement recorded under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C. that she had been living separately from Kamlendra for the last 12-13 years and at the time of incident she was in other Village to participate in ''Akhand Ramayan Path'.

9. In addition to their statement under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C., appellants have also produced witnesses D.W.-1/Mohd. Israr, D.W.-2/Vinod Kumar (Lekhpal), D.W.-3/Bhoopendra Bahadur Singh, Manager, Chandapur Branch of Gramin Bank, D.W.-4/Smt. Sharda Singh Village Pradhan, Atrehta and in documentary evidence, has produced 09 documents in list 14-ka and also recalled prosecution witness No.6/Constable Ram Prasad Saroj, who proved Exhibit-kha-1, G.D. No.-5.

10. The trial Court after appreciating the evidence on record found that the prosecution has been able to prove its case against above mentioned appellants beyond all reasonable doubt and, therefore, convicted the appellants for the offences under Sections 498-A, 304-B, 201 of I.P.C. & Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, in the manner described in the second paragraph of this judgment, however, the trial Court came to the conclusion that the prosecution has not been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against accused Atulendra and, therefore, acquitted him of all the charges levelled against him.

11. Aggrieved by the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 01.02.2010, the appellants have challenged the same in this appeal.

12. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that the trial Court has convicted the appellants purely on the basis of "surmises and conjectures' and has also failed to appreciate the evidence available on record in right perspective.

He further submits that the trial Court has ignored the major contradictions present in the testimony of prosecution witnesses and has also not taken note of the fact that P.W.-2/Smt. Kusum Trivedi has contended in her statement that deceased did not tell her about any demand of dowry made by the appellants and, therefore, the trial Court appreciated the evidence in a mechanical manner. He pointed out that appellant No.1-Raghvendra Dwivedi was a Bank employee and was posted in Baroda Gramin Bank, Branch Chandapur, Raebareli at the time of incident and was also on duty at the time of incident. The Bank Manager of the relevant branch has been produced as D.W.-3, who has testified that the appellant Raghvendra Dwivedi was present in Bank on 21.06.2009 from 9:30 am. till 5:00 pm. He has also proved the Attendance Register of the Bank, but the trial Court has misread his evidence.

It is next submitted that the trial Court, despite there being sufficient evidence, ignored the fact that Raghvendra Dwivedi had also purchased a plot at Village Atrehta. He had constructed a house there and was residing there with her wife Smt. Usha Devi since 1997. Contrary to this, findings of the trial Court in respect of separate living of appellant Raghvendra Dwivedi is contrary to the evidence on record.

It is further submitted that it was apparent and established on record that the appellants Raghvendra, Krishnanad, Smt. Poonam, Smt. Usha and Smt. Meena Kumari were living separately from Kamlendra Dwivedi, therefore, there was no occasion for the trial Court to convict all the appellants for the offence under Section 304-B and 498A of I.P.C. and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, as other appellants except Kamlendera could not be the beneficiary of any dowry and were not in a position to treat the deceased with cruelty.

It is next submitted that the evidence of the prosecution is not so strong that on the basis of which, conviction of appellants could be sustained and, therefore, keeping in view the evidence available on record, the appellants are liable to be acquitted of all the charges framed against them.

It is also submitted that appellant Kamlendera has been sentenced for life imprisonment for the offence under Section 304-B and the reasons given by the trial Court for inflicting the maximum penalty are not cogent and trial Court failed to understand the fact that instant case is not of a rare specie and therefore the sentence of the appellant Kamlendera under Section 304-B I.P.C. be altered from life imprisonment to the sentence already undergone as the appellant has already undergone sentence of more than 10 years.

Learned counsel for the appellants has relied on following case laws:-

1. Anil Kumar Vs. State of U.P [2018 JIC (Supp.) 657 (All)].

2. Mohammad & Ors. Vs. State of U.P. [2018 (1) JIC 693 (All)].

3. Chandra Prakash Rathur Vs. State of U.P. [2018 (3) JIC 560 (All)].

4. Ahsan & Anr. Vs. State of U.P. [2019 (1) JIC 660 (All)].

5. Hari Om Vs. State of Haryana and another (2015) 1 Supreme Court Cases (Cri) 141.

6. Baijnath and others Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2017) 1 Supreme Court Cases (Cri) 225.

7. Shailendra Vs. State of U.P. [2018 JIC (Supp.) 54(All)].

8. Badam Singh Vs. State of U.P. [2018 JIC (Supp.) 861 (All)].

9. Balram & Anr. Vs. State of U.P. [2018 JIC (Supp.) 1015 (All)].

13. Per contra, learned A.G.A. submits that the trial Court after taking into consideration and appreciating the evidence available on record in its totality has convicted the appellants for the offence committed by them. Therefore, there is no illegality or irregularity either in the marshalling of facts or in appreciation of evidence by the Court below.

It is next submitted that to prove offence under Section 304-B of I.P.C. ingredients mentioned therein are required to be proved by the prosecution and if the prosecution has succeeded in establishing the ingredients of Section 304-B I.P.C. then by virtue of application of Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act, a presumption shall be drawn against appellants that they have committed the dowry death. Therefore, no illegality has been committed by the trial Court in convicting the appellants and the appeal of the appellants is liable to be dismissed.

14. Prosecution in order to prove its case before the trial Court has produced 8 witnesses. P.W.-1/Chandra Bhal Dwivedi who is the father of the deceased has stated that her daughter Poornima @ Poonam was married to Kamlendra Dwivedi on 23.04.2004. They gave adequate dowry in her marriage but from the beginning of her marriage, her mother-in-law, Jeth Raghvendra, Jethani Usha, Atulendra and another Jeth Krishnanand and *Jeth*ani Poonam started demanding Rs. 20,000/- in cash and a motorcycle and started treating her daughter with cruelty on non-fulfillment of such demand. When they brought Poornima to their house, she told them that the above mentioned accused persons are demanding Rs. 20,000/- and a motorcycle and also treating her with physical cruelty. He consoled her daughter that by the passage of time everything shall be allright. Raghvendra Dwivedi also came to his house for the purpose of ''Vidai', but after ''Vidai' she was again ill-treated for demand of dowry and was also physically assaulted. It is further stated by him that in the month of May, 2005, he along with his brother-in-law Rajkumar Mishra and a close relwqative Sanjay Kumar Bajpayee went to perform the ''vidai' of Poornima at Village Salethu, where accused persons demanded dowry and asked him to part with the dowry and ''Vidai Ceremony' could only be performed then. They threatened that if in the next 4-5 months, a motorcycle and Rs. 20,000/- are not arranged then they will have to face the consequences. They asked them not to treat Poornima with cruelty and that they will arrange whatever they could. On 21.06.2005 at about 9:00 pm., Raghvendra Dwivedi made a call at the shop, where he is working and asked him to come to the Village as the condition of the Poornima was bad. He along with his wife and son and brother-in-law Suresh rushed to Village Salethu and arrived there at 7:00 am. and saw that after burning her daughter they had placed her in hanging condition on a "Ledge' (Chajja). No person from her in-law's house was present there. He lodged the First Information Report, (Exhibit-ka-1) at P.S. Maharajganj.

P.W.-2/ Kusum Trivedi is the mother of the deceased Poornima @ Poonam, has corroborated the statement of P.W.-1/ Chandra Bhal Trivedi, pertaining to the solemnization of marriage of her daughter with Kamlendra Dwivedi on 23.04.2004 and the cruelty committed by the appellants on her for demand of Rs.20,000/- and motorcycle. She also stated that on 21.06.2005, Raghvendra telephonically informed them about the bad condition of their daughter and they reached the matrimonial home of her daughter in the morning at about 6:00 pm. and saw that her daughter was hanging from the "Ledge' (Chajja).

P.W.-3/Ram Naresh Tiwari is the witness who arranged this marriage who stated that he was instrumental in solemnization of this marriage, which was solemnized in the year 2004. No demand of dowry was made by the appellants before marriage and even after the solemnization of marriage, no such demand has also been made in his presence. This witness has proved his signatures on "Panchnama'.

P.W.-4/Dr. Rajendra Sharma has stated to have conducted the postmortem on the dead body of deceased Poornima @ Poonam on 22.06.2005 at 4:15 pm. which was brought by Constable Sarvdev Trivedi and Constable Rajesh Pandey of Police Station Maharajganj, Raebareli. He has proved the postmortem report in his handwriting and signature as Exhibit-ka-2. The details of the postmortem report including the injuries found on the person of the deceased has been elaborately discussed and reproduced at Para 5 of this judgment, herein-before.

P.W.-5/Ved Prakash Tripathi was Tehsildar Maharajganj, District Raebareli at relevant point of time. He stated to have prepared the "Panchnama' and proved the same as Exhibit-ka-3 in his hand writing and signatures. He has also proved the seizure memo of a "rope' and also the seizure memo pertaining to simple and blood stained soil from the spot as Exhibit-ka-4 & 5. He has also proved preparation of Photo Lash, Challan Lash, Chitthi C.M.O., Chitthi R.I. and proved the same in his hand writing and signatures as Exhibit-ka-6 to Exhibit-ka-9.

P.W.-6/Constable Ram Prasad Saroj of Police Station Maharajganj is the witness who registered the FIR and prepared the chick. He has stated that on 22.06.2005, he was posted as Constable Clerk at P.S. He stated that on 21.06.2005, Raghvendra Prasad was at his duty in the Bank from 9:30 in the morning till 5:00 in the evening. He has also produced an attested copy of the Attendance Register and also proved the same as Exhibit-kha-3.

D.W.-4/Smt. Sharda Singh is the Pradhan of Village Atrehta. She stated that appellant Raghvendra Prasad was known to her and he had been living at Village Atrehta along with his family since 1997 by constructing a house there.

We have perused the evidence available on record. A perusal of definition of dowry death as provided under Section 304-B of I.P.C. would reveal that if it is proved that death of a women is caused by any burn or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within 07 years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or his relatives and such cruelty or harassment was for or in connection with demand of dowry and such cruelty or harassment was soon before her death, then it shall be obligatory on the Court to raise a presumption that the accused person(s) have caused the dowry death.

In Baijnath and Ors. vs. State of Madhya Pradesh reported in MANU/SC/1501/2016 Honble Suprme Court while considering the requirement of section 304B I.P.C. opined as under :

"27. The evidence on record and the competing arguments have received our required attention. As the prosecution is on the charge of the offences envisaged in Sections 304B and 498A of the Code, the provisions for reference are extracted hereunder:

304B. Dowry death.-(1) Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death.

Explanation.-For the purpose of this Sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in Section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961).

(2) Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life.

498A. Husband or relative of husband of a woman subjecting her to cruelty.--Whoever, being the husband or the relative of the husband of a woman, subjects such woman to cruelty shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine.

Explanation.--For the purpose of this section, "cruelty" means--

(a) any wilful conduct which is of such a nature as is likely to drive the woman to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health (whether mental or physical) of the woman; or

(b) harassment of the woman where such harassment is with a view to coercing her or any person related to her to meet any unlawful demand for any property or valuable security or is on account of failure by her or any person related to her to meet such demand.

28. Whereas in the offence of dowry death defined by Section 304B of the Code, the ingredients thereof are:

(i) death of the woman concerned is by any burns or bodily injury or by any cause other than in normal circumstances and

(ii) is within seven years of her marriage and

(iii) that soon before her death, she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of the husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry.

the offence Under Section 498A of the Code is attracted qua the husband or his relative if she is subjected to cruelty.

The explanation to this Section exposits "cruelty" as:

(i) any wilful conduct which is of such a nature as is likely to drive the woman to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health (whether mental or physical) or ''Tahbazari' ''Tahbazari' ''Tahbazari'

(ii) harassment of the woman, where such harassment is with a view to coercing her or any person related to her to meet any unlawful demand for any property or valuable security or is on account of failure by her or any person related to her to meet such demand.

29. Patently thus, cruelty or harassment of the lady by her husband or his relative for or in connection with any demand for any property or valuable security as a demand for dowry or in connection therewith is the common constituent of both the offences.

30. The expression "dowry" is ordained to have the same meaning as in Section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961. The expression "cruelty", as explained, contains in its expanse, apart from the conduct of the tormentor, the consequences precipitated thereby qua the lady subjected thereto. Be that as it may, cruelty or harassment by the husband or any relative of his for or in connection with any demand of dowry to reiterate is the gravamen of the two offences.

31. Section 113B of the Act enjoins a statutory presumption as to dowry death in the following terms:

113B. Presumption as to dowry death.-When the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman has been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the Court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death.

Explanation.-For the purpose of this section, "dowry death" shall have the same meaning as in Section 304B of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860)

32. Noticeably this presumption as well is founded on the proof of cruelty or harassment of the woman dead for or in connection with any demand for dowry by the person charged with the offence. The presumption as to dowry death thus would get activated only upon the proof of the fact that the deceased lady had been subjected to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with any demand for dowry by the accused and that too in the reasonable contiguity of death.

Such a proof is thus the legislatively mandated prerequisite to invoke the otherwise statutorily ordained presumption of commission of the offence of dowry death by the person charged therewith.

33. A conjoint reading of these three provisions, thus predicate the burden of the prosecution to unassailably substantiate the ingredients of the two offences by direct and convincing evidence so as to avail the presumption engrafted in Section 113B of the Act against the accused. Proof of cruelty or harassment by the husband or her relative or the person charged is thus the sine qua non to inspirit the statutory presumption, to draw the person charged within the coils thereof. If the prosecution fails to demonstrate by cogent coherent and persuasive evidence to prove such fact, the person accused of either of the above referred offences cannot be held guilty by taking refuge only of the presumption to cover up the shortfall in proof.

34. The legislative primature of relieving the prosecution of the rigour of the proof of the often practically inaccessible recesses of life within the guarded confines of a matrimonial home and of replenishing the consequential void, by according a presumption against the person charged, cannot be overeased to gloss-over and condone its failure to prove credibly, the basic facts enumerated in the Sections involved, lest justice is the casualty.

35. This Court while often dwelling on the scope and purport of Section 304B of the Code and Section 113B of the Act have propounded that the presumption is contingent on the fact that the prosecution first spell out the ingredients of the offence of Section 304B as in Shindo Alias Sawinder Kaur and Anr. v. State of Punjab MANU/SC/0499/2011 : (2011) 11 SCC 517 and echoed in Rajeev Kumar v. State of Haryana MANU/SC/1144/2013 : (2013) 16 SCC 640. In the latter pronouncement, this Court propounded that one of the essential ingredients of dowry death Under Section 304B of the Code is that the accused must have subjected the woman to cruelty in connection with demand for dowry soon before her death and that this ingredient has to be proved by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt and only then the Court will presume that the accused has committed the offence of dowry death Under Section 113B of the Act. It referred to with approval, the earlier decision of this Court in K. Prema S. Rao v. Yadla Srinivasa Rao MANU/SC/0890/2002 : (2003) 1 SCC 217 to the effect that to attract the provision of Section 304B of the Code, one of the main ingredients of the offence which is required to be established is that "soon before her death" she was subjected to cruelty and harassment "in connection with the demand for dowry"."

The Apex Court in the case of Kaliyaperumal Vs. State of Tamil Nadu,MANU/SC/0624/2003 has held that presumption shall be raised only on proving of the following essential:-

(I) The question before the court must be whether the accused has committed the dowry death of a woman.

(II) The woman was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or his relatives.

(III) Such cruelty or harassment was for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry.

(IV) Such cruelty or harassment was soon before her death.

16. A conjoint reading of Section 304-B IPC and Section 113-B of the Evidence Act indicates that if the prosecution has proved that the death of the wife was not natural or accidental death then it brings the case within the purview of 'death occurring otherwise than in normal circumstances and once the prosecution had succeeded in proving that the deceased had died an unnatural death in her matrimonial home within seven years of her marriage and soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by husband or her relatives, the presumption under Section 113-B of Indian Evidence Act shall be attracted.

17. The word "soon before death" fell for consideration in a large number of cases before the Supreme Court and this Court. The Supreme Court in the case of Hira Lal and others v. State (Government of NCT), Delhi, MANU/SC/0495/2003 : (2003) 8 SCC 80, has considered the scope of Section 113-B of the Evidence Act and Section 304-B IPC in the following terms:

"9. A conjoint reading of Section 113-B of the Evidence Act and Section 304-B IPC shows that there must be material to show that soon before her death the victim was subjected to cruelty or harassment. The prosecution has to rule out the possibility of a natural or accidental death so as to bring it within the purview of "death occurring otherwise than in normal circumstances". The expression "soon before" is very relevant where Section 113-B of the Evidence Act and Section 304-B IPC are pressed into service. The prosecution is obliged to show that soon before the occurrence there was cruelty or harassment and only in that case presumption operates. Evidence in that regard has to be led by prosecution. "Soon before" is a relative term and it would depend upon circumstances of each case and no strait-jacket formula can be laid down as to what would constitute a period of soon before the occurrence. It would be hazardous to indicate any fixed period, and that brings in the importance of a proximity test both for the proof of an offence of dowry death as well as for raising a presumption under Section 113-B of the Evidence Act. The expression "soon before her death" used in the substantive Section 304-B IPC and Section 113-B of the Evidence Act is present with the idea of proximity test. No definite period has been indicated and the expression "soon before" is not defined. A reference to expression "soon before" used in Section 114. Illustration (a) of the Evidence Act is relevant. It lays down that a Court may presume that a man who is in the possession of goods "soon after the theft, is either the thief has received the goods knowing them to be stolen, unless he can account for his possession". The determination of the period which can come within the term "soon before" is left to be determined by the Courts, depending upon facts and circumstances of each case. Suffice, however, to indicate that the expression "soon before" would normally imply that the interval should not be much between the concerned cruelty or harassment concerned and the death in question. There must be existence of a proximate and live link between the effect of cruelty based on dowry demand and the death concerned. If the alleged incident of cruelty is remote in time and has become stale enough not to disturb mental equilibriu45m of the woman concerned, it would be of no consequence."

The principle laid down in this case has been uniformly followed by the Supreme Court in a large number of cases. Reference may be made to the judgments in the case of Rajinder Kumar v. State of Haryana, MANU/SC/0046/2015 : (2015) 4 SCC 215; Baljinder Kaur v. State of Punjab, MANU/SC/1047/2014 : (2015) 2 SCC 629; and, Vijay Pal Singh and others v. State of Uttarakhand, MANU/SC/1172/2014 : (2014) 15 SCC 163.

18. We now propose to ascertain whether the prosecution has succeeded in proving the four essentials of Section 304-B I.P.C., as spelt out by the Apex Court in the aforementioned cases for raising the presumption under Section 113B of the Indian Evidence Act by scrutinizing the evidence adduced by the prosecution against the appellants in this regard.

It has been stated in the First Information Report that marriage of the deceased Poonam @ Poornima was solemnized with appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi on 23.04.2004. P.W.-1/Chandra Bhal Trivedi, P.W-2/Kusum Trivedi and P.W.-3/Ram Naresh Tiwari (who actually arranged this marriage) have stated in their statement before the trial Court that the marriage of the deceased Poornima @ Poonam was solemnized with appellant Kamlendra on 23.04.2004. The appellants in their statements recorded under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C. have also admitted that the marriage of deceased Poornima @ Pooam was held with appellant Kamlendra in the year 2004. Therefore,keeping in view the evidence on record, it is proved that the deceased was married to appellant Kamlendra in the year 2004. It is also proved by the evidence available on record that the deceased had died on 21.06.2005. Therefore, there is also no doubt pertaining to the proof of the fact that deceased Poornima @ Poonam died within 07 years of her marriage.

Now it has to be seen whether the deceased Poornima @ Poonam died a natural death or her death was otherwise than in normal circumstances. It has been stated by P.W.-1/Chandra Bhal Trivedi and P.W.-2/Kusum Trivedi that when they reached the matrimonial house of the deceased, they found her hanging in a burnt condition. She was hanging with a "rope', however her feets were found on the ground. In the Inquest Report (Exhibit-ka-3), which was performed on the information given by appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi (husband of the deceased) on 22.06.2005 at 2:05 pm., P.W.-5 Ved Prakash Tripathi found her hanging in burnt condition and she was bleeding from the nose, vagina and anus. He also noted in the inquest report, an injury on the left knee of deceased and burn injuries all over her body. P.W.-4/Dr. Rajendra Sharma, who has conducted postmortem on the body of deceased Poornima @ Poonam, has stated in his statement that the whole face, fore arm and hands, chest, abdomen and both lower limbs of the deceased were burnt by 1st to 2nd degree burns. He further stated that fluid filled vesicles were present on the body of the deceased and at the edge of these, line of redness was also present. A ligature mark was also found around neck of the deceased below thyroid cartilage, length of which was about 28 cms. and it was interrupted at the back of the neck. The cause of death of the deceased was determined as shock due to ante-mortem burn injuries. P.W.4/Dr. Rajendra Sharma has also stated in his cross-examination that the body or injuries of the deceased were not smelling of any kerosene oil and an injury has also been found at the place between the vagina and anus and apart from this no other injury was found. He further stated that it is correct to say that if after an hour or two of the death a rope is tied, the ligature mark, as described in the postmortem report may be inflicted. According to him, no bone of the neck of the deceased was found fractured and the deceased had not died due to strangulation. He stated that the burn injuries could also come by burning at the time of cooking of food or by accidental burn and if in the process of putting off the fire deceased runs here and there and falls on any sharp object she may suffer the injury of the nature found around her private part. Keeping in view the evidence of the Dr. Rajendra Sharma/P.W.-4, it is evident that the death of the deceased was caused by burn injuries and not by strangulation or smothering.Therfore it is also proved by the evidence available on record that the death of the deceased Poornima @ Poonam had occurred otherwise than in normal circumstances.

19. Now it has to be seen as to whether deceased Poornima @ Poonam was subjected to any cruelty or harassment by her husband Kamlendra or his relatives (other appellants) soon before her death in connection with any demand of dowry. P.W.-1/Chandra Bhal Trivedi in his evidence has stated that since beginning of the marriage of her daughter Poornima @

Poonam all accused persons were demanding Rs. 20,000/- and a motorcycle in dowry and were treating Poornima with cruelty. It is also stated by him that in the month of May, 2005, he went to Village Salethu for "Vidai Ceremony', but in-law's of deceased did not perform "vidai' and asked him to provide Rs. 20,000/- and a motorcycle within 4 to 5 months or to face grave consequences and thereafter on 21.06.2005 appellant Raghvendra Dwivedi informed them about the incident. He further stated that when he reached at the spot he found deceased hanging from the ledge (Chajja) in a burnt condition, but her clothes were intact and none of the members of the appellant's family was there.

In his cross-examination, he has stated that the demand of Rs. 20,000/- and motorcycle started after solemnization of marriage and this demand was not having any connection with the marriage. He did not lodge any report against accused persons for demanding the dowry and he did not mention the fact of going to the matrimonial home of deceased in May, 2005. He further submitted that he did not file any FIR even when the appellants threatened him. He admits that it is correct to say that appellant Raghvendra Dwivedi was having a "LML Vespa Scooter" from the last 10-12 years and the age of mother-in-law of the deceased namely Smt. Meena Kumari was about 65-70 years. He further admits that after death of the father of the appellants, the agricultural land inherited by them had been partitioned by them on 11.09.2003 amongst themselves and their mother. He also admitted that appellant Raghvendra was serving at Baroda Gramin Bank Chandpur Branch and his duty hours were from 9:30 am. to 5:00 pm. This witness has claimed that this fact was not in his knowledge that appellant Raghvendra was living in Village Atrehta from 1992 by constructing a house in that village. He also shows ignorance of the fact that appellant Krishnanand was doing the job of collecting "Tahbazari' at Tempo Stand at Maharajganj. It is admitted to him that the main door of the appellant Krishnanand's house is situated towards the South and the "kothri', wherein he lives with his wife which is "kacchi'. He further admits that the mother-in-law of the deceased is living in a room built separately towards East of the house. He also shows ignorance about the fact that a Separate "Parivar Register' of appellant Krishnanand was maintained and has admitted that on 21.06.2005 appellant Raghvendra informed him through telephone at 9:00 pm. that deceased Poornima @ Poonam had committed suicide. He shows ignorance of the fact that appellant Kamlendra informed the Police Station, Maharajganj through a written application about the suicide committed by the deceased, which was entered at Serial No.5 of the G.D. dated 22.06.2005 at 2:05 pm.

P.W.-2/Kusum Trivedi, who is the mother of the deceased has stated about the fact of demand of dowry of Rs. 20,000/- and motorcycle by accused persons after the marriage and also that the same continued till May, 2005. She stated that when they reached the matrimonial house of the deceased, her daughter was bleeding from nose and she noticed an injury on her Naval area and she was also bleeding from her private part and anus and her body was in burnt condition. She stated in her cross-examination that she did not see any accused person throughout the inquest proceeding. This witness was contradicted with her statement recorded under Section 161 of the Cr.P.C., wherein she had stated that in the night of 21.06.2005, appellant Raghvendra informed them through telephone that deceased Poonam had committed suicide. She further stated in her cross-examination that she had 03 daughters and Mithilesh Kumari was the eldest one amongst them, who had also committed suicide. It was admitted by her that they did not lodge any FIR against in-law's of Mithilesh. It is also admitted by her that appellant Kamlendra was not doing any job at the time of incident and Raghvendra was serving in a Bank, while appellant Krishnanand was collecting "Tahbazari' at Tempo Stand of Maharajganj. She admitted that she never went to the matrimonial home of her daughter and had never met with mother of Kamlendra, Krishnanand or Raghvendra's wife and she could not recognize them. She shows ignorance of the fact that appellant Raghvendra was living at Village Atrehta by constructing a house since 1997 and that her daughter went to her matrimonial home happily after her marriage. She admitted in her cross-examination that appellant Kamlendra wanted to establish a shop, but she is not aware of the fact, as to for what business he was demanding money. She further stated that her daughter did not tell the fact of demand of dowry to her, but she told this to her father and her father in turn informed her about the demand and the cruelty committed to his daughter by the appellants.

P.W.-3/Ram Naresh Tiwari has also admitted in his evidence that he was instrumental in arranging the marriage of deceased with Kamlendera and also that no dowry was demanded at the time of marriage. In his cross-examination he admitted that he was aware that Raghvendra was serving in a Bank and he was living at Village Atrehta with his family since 1997.

P.W.-8/Charan Pal Singh, Circle Officer of the Police (2nd Investigating Officer) has stated in his cross-examination that "Panchnama' of the body of the deceased was prepared on the basis of information given by appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi @ Vidyanand Dwivedi, because he got the General Diary, where in the information given by him was registered at Serial No.-5 on 22.06.2005. He further stated that informant in his statement recorded under Section 161 of the Cr.P.C. had not taken the name of appellant Raghvendra Dwivedi in connection with the second "vidai' of the deceased. He further stated that informant had told him that motorcycle and Rs. 20,000/- were being demanded for establishing a shop. He further admitted that on 10.07.2005, appellant Raghvendra Dwivedi told him that he lived at Village Atrehta along with his family for the last one and half years, but he did not verify it, as there was sufficient evidence against Raghvendra Dwivedi. He admitted that Krishnanad Dwivedi also told him that he lived separately and in the Site Plan prepared by him, he shows his house towards south. He has not shown any door of appellant Krishnanand's house towards East.

Perusal of this Site Plan, Exhibit-ka-12, which has been proved by Investigating Officer/P.W.-8 Shri Charan Pal Singh, would reveal that the house of appellant Krishnanand is shown towards South and there is no door of this portion opening towards East where appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi was living. Perusal of this Site Plan would further reveal that it is shown in this Site Plan that deceased Poornima @ Poonam was living in a room shown by word "B", while her body was found in hanging position at the place shown by the word "A", which is situated in front of the room shown to be of appellant Raghvendra. A separate room of mother-in-law namely Smt. Meena Kumari has also been shown in this Site Plan. No objection has been raised by anyone, pertaining to the authenticity of this Site Plan, therefore, this Site Plan in the background of the statement of P.W.-8/Charan Pal Singh would reveal that mother-in-law of the deceased namely appellant Meena Kumari, appellant Krishnanand and deceased Poornima @ Poonam along with her husband Kamlendra were living separately in the same house and appellant Krishnanand's was living in a seprate house, main gate of which was situated towards the South, while the door of the house where deceased was living along with her husband and mother-in-law was opening towards North and both these houses were separate.

20. Perusal of record would also reveal that appellants have produced oral as well as documentary evidence in their favour. In oral evidence appellants have produced D.W.-1/Mohd. Israr, D.W.-2/Vinod Kumar, D.W.-3/Bhoopendra Bahadur Singh and D.W.-4/Smt. Sharda Singh. D.W.-1/Mohd. Israr is the 'Pradhan' of Village Salethu, wherein the matrimonial home of the deceased is situated and he has stated that appellant Krishnanand is living separately from his brother appellant-Kamlendra for the last 10-11 years and appellant Raghvendra is also living separately along with his family by constructing a house at Village Atrehta from before 12 years. He has also stated that appellants Kamlendera, Raghvendera and Krishnanand have partitioned their agricultural land amongst themselves, which they inherited from their father and appellant Krishnanand was not having any concern with appellant Kamlendra or his family. In his cross-examination, he has stated that Village Salethu is about 7 to 8 kilometers away from Village Atrehta and appellant Kamlendra is the youngest of the three sons of Anjani, who is residing in a separate house, while the appellant Krishnanand is residing in a separate house.

D.W.-2/Vinod Kumar is a 'Chakbandi Lekhpal', who has proved the fact that appellants Raghvendra, Kamlendra and Krishnanand have got their agricultural land partitioned amongst themselves along with their mother Meena Kumari. He also produced an extract of the 'Khatauni' which has been placed on record as Paper No. 153-Kha. The testimony of this witness, who is a Government servant, proves that three sons of Anjani i.e. appellants Kamlendra, Raghvendra and Krishnanand had partitioned the agricultural land amongst themselves which they inherited from their father.

D.W.-3/Bhoopendra Bahadur Singh is the Branch Manager of baroda Gramin Bank and he has proved that appellant Raghvendra was working in his branch situated at Village Chandapur as Process Server and on 21.06.2003 he was present in the Chandpur branch of the Bank from 9:30 am. to 5:00 pm. He has produced a copy of Attendance Register in the trial Court. Evidence of this witness is not of much significance as the trial Court has convicted the appellants of the charges under Sections 304-B, 498-A and Section 201 of I.P.C. and deceased, as per the statement of Kamlendra under Section 313 Cr.P.C., died at 8:00 pm. on 21.06.2005.

D.W.-4/Smt. Sharda Singh is the "Pradhan' of Village Atrehta and she has stated that appellant Raghvendra is living in Village Atrehta along with his family since 1997 by constructing his own house.

21. In documentary evidence appellants have produced electricity bill, a copy of sale deed and also a certificate issued by the Bank Manager which establishes the fact that appellant Raghvendra was working in Baroda Gramin Bank, Chandapur Branch and is also residing at Village Atrehta. However, being employed in the bank would not necessarily mean that he has severed all his connection from his ancestral home situated at Village Salethu. It is common practice amongst those who do jobs outside their home towns or villages to keep a room or two of their ancestral house with themselves for their use, even if they do not reside there and they use to come to their ancestral home on special occasions like marrige or festivals. So, in the background of this factual matrix, if Investigating Officer has shown one room of appellant Raghvendra at Village Salethu in the Site Plan of the house where Kamlendera lives, the same is not of much significance, as it is otherwise established from the evidence on record that both brothers of Kamlendra i.e. Raghvendra and Krishnanand Dwivedi were living separately and in fact Raghvendra was living at Village Atrehta, while there was no connection of the house of Krishnanad with the house where appellant Kamlendra was residing. It is also established on record that deceased was also living separately in a room of the house shown by the Investigating Officer in the Site Plan and appellant Meena Kumari was residing separately in a separate room, though in the same house. So, when it is established that appellants Raghvendra, Krishnand along with their family and Meena Kumari were living separately from appellant Kamlendra, in absence of any specific role alleged against them, they should not have been convicted by the trial Court only on the basis of general and sweeping allegations of demand of dowry and cruelty in lieu of such demand, specially in the background of the fact that P.W.-2/Smt. Kusum Trivedi in her evidence has clearly admitted that Kamlendra was willing to establish a shop, but she did not know as to for what business, the money was being demanded. This statement and other pieces of evidence available on record clearly suggests that the demand of Rs.20,000/- along with a motorcycle was being made by none other than appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi only, as he, at that point of time was not doing anything and was solely dependant on the income from his agricultural land, while the other two brothers namely Raghvendra and Krishnanand, apart from holding agriculture land, were also doing their separate jobs and, therefore, demand of Rs. 20,000/- and motorcycle could only be for the benefit of Kamlendra. It is hard to believe that in this era of nuclear families, brothers who are residing separately and having their independent source of income would commit cruelty with the deceased, in lieu of demand such dowry which could only benefit their brother i.e. appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi.

Therefore, keeping in view the overall evidence available on record, we are not inclined to believe that deceased Poornima @ Poonam was subjected to any cruelty in lieu of any demand of dowry by appellant Raghvendra, his wife Usha Devi, Krishnanand Dwivedi and his wife Smt. Poonam or Smt. Meena Kumari (mother-in-law). Since it is apparent from the evidence on record that appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi was dependant only on the income of his agricultural land and was also living separately with the deceased, he alone could be the only beneficiary of the demand of Rs. 20,000/- for the purpose of establishing a shop and also of a motorcycle, which can only be used by him. The trial Court contrary to the evidence on record has concluded at Page No. 22 and 23 of its judgment that only on the basis of separate living it could not be presumed that the above mentioned appellants were not having any connection with the husband of the deceased i.e. Kamlendra Dwivedi and also that Raghvendra was having good relation with his brothers. The trial Court thereafter also disbelieved the defence of separate living of appellants Raghvendra, Krishnanand Dwivedi and mother-in-law Meena Kumari and concluded that even if it is presumed that they were living separately, it was their moral and social duty to save the deceased from the cruelty which was being allegedly committed by appellant Kamlendra and hold that all of them have treated the deceased with cruelty in lieu of demand of dowry. We are unable to concur with this finding of the trial Court that the above mentioned appellants could be convicted only on the basis that they failed to discharge their social or moral obligations. The trial Court has completely forgotten one of the mandatory ingredient and important ingredient of Section 304-B I.P.C. i.e. soon before the death of the deceased she was subjected to cruelty by the appellants for or in connection with any demand of dowry. Therefore to prove this ingredient some positive act is required on behalf of the appellants and only on the basis of non discharge of any social or moral obligation offence under Section 304-B I.P.C. could not stand proved nor any adverse presumption could be raised against these appellants under Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act. No evidence is either available against these appellants pertaining to the charge of section 498A and Section 201 of the IPC and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act as they were living separately and for the commission of the offence under section 201 of the IPC there is no presumption available either. Therefore, the trial Court has committed a manifest error in appreciating the evidence on record, pertaining to appellants Raghvendra, Krishnanand, Smt. Usha Devi and Smt. Poonam Devi in holding that they were not living separately and the trial Court has based its findings on "surmises and conjectures', so far it relates to the above mentioned appellants and appeal filed by them is liable to be allowed.

In Trimukh Maroti Kirkan Vs State of Maharashtra reported in MANU/SC/8543/2006, Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under :

"10. The demand for dowry or money from the parents of the bride has shown a phenomenal increase in last few years. Cases are frequently coming before the Courts, where the husband or in-laws have gone to the extent of killing the bride if the demand is not met. These crimes are generally committed in complete secrecy inside the house and it becomes very difficult for the prosecution to lead evidence. No member of the family, even if he is a witness of the crime, would come forward to depose against another family member. The neighbours, whose evidence may be of some assistance, are generally reluctant to depose in Court as they want to keep aloof and do not want to antagonize a neighbourhood family. The parents or other family members of the bride being away from the scene of commission of crime are not in a position to give direct evidence which may inculpate the real accused except regarding the demand of money or dowry and harassment caused to the bride. But, it does not mean that a crime committed in secrecy or inside the house should go unpunished.

11. If an offence takes place inside the privacy of a house and in such circumstances where the assailants have all the opportunity to plan and commit the offence at the time and in circumstances of their choice, it will be extremely difficult for the prosecution to lead evidence to establish the guilt of the accused if the strict principle of circumstantial evidence, as noticed above, is insisted upon by the Courts. A Judge does not preside over a criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. A Judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape. Both are public duties. (See Stirland v. Director of Public Prosecution 1944 AC 315 quoted with approval by Arijit Pasayat, J. in State of Punjab v. Karnail Singh MANU/SC/0585/2003 : 2003CriLJ3892). The law does not enjoin a duty on the prosecution to lead evidence of such character which is almost impossible to be led or at any rate extremely difficult to be led. The duty on the prosecution is to lead such evidence which it is capable of leading, having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case. Here it is necessary to keep in mind Section 106 of the Evidence Act which says that when any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him.

Illustration (b) appended to this section throws some light on the content and scope of this provision and it reads:

(b) A is charged with traveling on a railway without ticket. The burden of proving that he had a ticket is on him.

Where an offence like murder is committed in secrecy inside a house, the initial burden to establish the case would undoubtedly be upon the prosecution, but the nature and amount of evidence to be led by it to establish the charge cannot be of the same degree as is required in other cases of circumstantial evidence. The burden would be of a comparatively lighter character. In view of Section 106 of the Evidence Act there will be a corresponding burden on the inmates of the house to give a cogent explanation as to how the crime was committed. The inmates of the house cannot get away by simply keeping quiet and offering no explanation on the supposed premise that the burden to establish its case lies entirely upon the prosecution and there is no duty at all on an accused to offer any explanation."

22. Therefore so far as appellant Kamlendra is concerned, we are of the considered view that he is the person with whom deceased Poornima @ Poonam was living separately in a room of the house. In the normal course he should be present with his wife at the time of incident. Perusal of Site Plan (Exhibit-ka-12) would also reveal that the deceased got burnt in the room where she was living with her husband i.e. Kamlendra Dwivedi. Therefore, what actually had happened in that room could only be in the specific knowledge of appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi and, therefore, by virtue of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi was required to explain as to how and in what circumstances deceased Poornima @ Poonam had died and if no reasonable and acceptable explanation is given by the appellant Kamlendera or a false explanation is coming from his side, adverse inference will be drawn against him and since demand of Rs. 20,000/- and of a Motorcycle was being made, as claimed by P.W.-2/Kusum Trivedi for establishing a shop for him and the motorcycle can only be used by him would clearly suggest that there is ample evidence on record to establish that soon before her death he has subjected Poornima @ Poonam to cruelty in lieu of demand of dowry and thus on the basis of evidence on record a presumption as provided under Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act could be drawn against appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi that he has caused the dowty death of deceased Poornima @ Poonam. He has also failed to rebut this statutory presumption and, therefore, his conviction under Sections 304-B, 498-A and 201 of I.P.C. is liable to be sustained.

23. At this juncture learned counsel appearing for the appellant Kamlendra submits that the appellant Kamlendra has already undergone 12 years of imprisonment and still continues to be in jail, this Court should alter the award of life sentence to that of one already undergone by the appellant. He has further submitted that though Section 304-B IPC prescribes awarding of imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years which may extend for life, yet according to him the instant case is not a case where the trial judge should have awarded life sentence to the appellant. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that any term of more than seven years could meet the ends of justice and this Court should allow the appeal to the extent of modifying the impugned judgment in sofar as the quantum of sentence is concerned and reduce the same from life imprisonment to that of already undergone.

Learned counsel for the State, while refuting the submission made by the counsel for the appellant Kamlendra has submitted that having regard to the totality of circumstances emerging out from the evidence and the fact that the wife of appellant was murdered in her matrimonial home within seven years of her marriage, the award of sentence of life imprisonment to the appellant is fully justified and hence, this Court should not interfere in quantum of sentence.

24. In State of U.P. vs. Virendra Prasad, MANU/SC/0079/2004 Hon'ble Supreme Court while discussing principles of sentencing opined as under:

23. The criminal law adheres in general to the principle of proportionality in prescribing liability according to the culpability of each kind of criminal conduct. It ordinarily allows some significant discretion to the Judge in arriving at a sentence in each case, presumably to permit sentences that reflect more subtle considerations of culpability that are raised by the special facts of each case. Judges in essence affirm that punishment ought always to fit the crime; yet in practice sentences are determined largely by other considerations. Sometimes it is the correctional needs of the perpetrator that are offered to justify a sentence. Sometimes the desirability of keeping him out of circulation, and sometimes even the tragic results of his crime. Inevitably these considerations cause a departure from just desert as the basis of punishment and create cases of apparent injustice that are serious and widespread.

24. Proportion between crime and punishment is a goal respected in principle, and in spite of errant notions, it remains a strong influence in the determination of sentences. The practice of punishing all serious crimes with equal severity is now unknown in civilized societies, but such a radical departure from the principle of proportionality has disappeared from the law only in recent times on account of misplaced sympathies to the perpetrator of crime leaving the victim or his family into oblivion. Even now for a single grave infraction drastic sentences are imposed. Anything less than a penalty of greatest severity for any serious crime is thought then to be a measure of toleration that is unwarranted and unwise. But in fact, quite apart from those considerations that make punishment unjustifiable when it is out of proportion to the gravity of the crime, uniformly disproportionate punishment has some very undesirable practical consequences.

25. After giving due consideration to the facts and circumstances of each case, for deciding just and appropriate sentence to be awarded for an offence, the aggravating and mitigating factors and circumstances in which a crime has been committed are to be delicately balanced on the basis of really relevant circumstances in a dispassionate manner by the Court. Such act of balancing is indeed a difficult task. It has been very aptly indicated in Dennis Councle MCG Dautha v. State of California: 402 US 183: 28 L.D. 2d 711 that no formula of a foolproof nature is possible that would provide a reasonable criterion in determining a just and appropriate punishment in the infinite variety of circumstances that may affect the gravity of the crime. In the absence of any foolproof formula which may provide any basis for reasonable criteria to correctly assess various circumstances germane to the consideration of gravity of crime, the discretionary judgment in the facts of each case, is the only way in which such judgment may be equitably distinguished.

26. These aspects were highlighted by us in State of Karnataka v. Puttaraja MANU/SC/0976/2003 : 2004CriLJ579 .

27. The object should be to protect the society and to deter the criminal in achieving the avowed object of law by imposing appropriate sentence. It is expected that the Courts would operate the sentencing system so as to impose such sentence which reflects the conscience of the society and the sentencing process has to be stern where it should be."

25. The question as to whether we should reduce the appellant Kamlendra's sentence and if so, to what extent, as urged by the appellant's counsel, has been the subject matter of debate before the Apex Court in many cases, pertaining to Section 304-B /Section 498-A IPC and wherein the Apex Court while interpreting the expression "may" occurring in Section 304-B IPC has held that it is not mandatory for the Court in each and every case to award life imprisonment to the accused once he is found guilty of offence under Section 304-B. It has been held that the Court could award sentence in exercise of its discretion between seven years to life imprisonment depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case. It was held that in no case it could be less than seven years and that extreme punishment of life term should be awarded in "rare cases" but not in every case.

26. In State of Karnataka vs. M.V. Manjunathegowda and Ors., MANU/SC/0005/2003 It was held that "26. The next question to be considered is the quantum of punishment. While considering the quantum of punishment, the Court must keep in view the background and intendment of the legislature so as to eradicate the evil practice of giving and taking dowry by prescribing the deterrent punishment. This was clear from the Objects and Reasons of Amending Act of 1986 (Act 43 of 1986). Consequent upon the aforesaid amendment Section 304B IPC was introduced in which the punishment is, imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life. As would reveal from the various amendments as noticed above, despite stringent law, the evil practice of giving and taking of dowry remains unabated. On the contrary, it is menacingly on the increase. In the instant case, the conduct of the accused is of vital importance while considering the quantum of punishment. The marriage of the accused with the deceased on 17.5.1987 is neither an arranged marriage nor a love marriage. As already noticed, is a marriage by accident and the main consideration was the payment of dowry and nor out of love. It also appears from the testimony of PW-9 that a suggestion was put to the witness that accused used to permanently go to one Kallugudde Earegowda's house for work and that Kallugudde Earegowda has three female children. It was also suggested that accused was also having love affair with the first daughter of Kallugudde Earegowda. All this go to show that the main consideration of the accused marrying with the deceased was love of dowry and not love for the girl. So greed of the accused of the dowry, even for a paltry sum of Rs. 2000/- and three sovereign of gold, would cost the precious life of a human being. Such conduct of the accused is not only abhorrent to the concept of rule of law, but also against the conscience of the entire society. The practice of giving and demanding dowry is a social evil having deleterious effect on the entire civilized society and has to be condemned by the strong hands of judiciary. Despite various amendments providing deterrent punishment with a view to curb the increasing menace of dowry deaths, the evil practice of dowry remains unabated. The Court cannot be oblivion to the intendment of the legislature and the purpose for which the enactment of the law and amendment has been effected. Every court must be sensitized to the enactment of the law and the purpose for which it is made by the legislature keeping in view the evil practice of giving and taking dowry, which is having a deleterious effect on the civilized society. It must be given a meaningful interpretation so as to advance the cause of interest of the society as a whole. No leniency is warranted to the perpetrator of the crime against the society. Keeping these overall accounts and circumstances in the background, we are of the view that a deterrent punishment is called for. Accused No. 1 (M.V. Manjunathe Gowde) is accordingly convicted under Section 304B IPC and sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for ten years."(Emphasis Ours)

27. The case law, i.e., Hari Om vs. State of Haryana (31.10.2014 - SC) :MANU/SC/0987/2014 which has been relied upon by learned Counsel for the appellants is also on the said issue wherein the Apex Court has held that extreme sentence of life term should be awarded in rare cases but not in every case. Relevant Para of the said judgment is reproduced here in below:-- "21. This issue has been the subject matter of debate before this Court in several cases, which arose out of Section 304B read with Section 498B and wherein this Court while interpreting the expression "may" occurring in Section 304B Indian Penal Code held that it is not mandatory for the Court in every case to award life imprisonment to the accused once he is found guilty of offence Under Section 304B. It was held that the Court could award sentence in exercise of its discretion between seven years to life imprisonment depending upon the facts of each case. It was held that in no case it could be less than seven years and that extreme punishment of life term should be awarded in "rare cases" but not in every case.

22. In the case of Hem Chand v. State of Haryana MANU/SC/0026/1995 : (1994) 6 SCC 727, the courts below had awarded life term to the accused Under Section 304B read with Section 498A but this Court reduced it to 10 years. This was also a case where the accused was a police officer who had suffered life imprisonment. This Court held as under:

7 ...the accused-Appellant was a police employee and instead of checking the crime, he himself indulged therein and precipitated in it and that bride-killing cases are on the increase and therefore a serious view has to be taken. As mentioned above, Section 304B Indian Penal Code only raises presumption and lays down that minimum sentence should be seven years but it may extend to imprisonment for life. Therefore awarding extreme punishment of imprisonment for life should be in rare cases and not in every case.

8. Hence, we are of the view that a sentence of 10 years' RI would meet the ends of justice. We, accordingly while confirming the conviction of the Appellant Under Section 304B Indian Penal Code, reduce the sentence of imprisonment for life to 10 years' RI....

23. Similarly this Court in State of Karnataka v. M.V. Manjunathegowda and Anr. MANU/SC/0005/2003 : (2003) 2 SCC 188, while convicting the accused Under Section 304B awarded 10 years imprisonment in somewhat similar facts.

24. Recently in G.V. Siddaramesh v. State of Karnataka MANU/SC/0088/2010 : (2010) 3 SCC 152, this Court while allowing the appeal filed by the accused only on the question of sentence altered the sentence from life term to 10 years on more or less similar facts. Hon'ble H.L. Dattu, J. (as His Lordship then was) speaking for the Bench held as under:

31. In conclusion, we are satisfied that in the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellant was rightly convicted Under Section 304B Indian Penal Code. However, his sentence of life imprisonment imposed by the courts below appears to us to be excessive. The Appellant is a young man and has already undergone 6 years of imprisonment after being convicted by the Additional Sessions

Judge and the High Court. We are of the view, in the facts and circumstances of the case, that a sentence of 10 years' rigorous imprisonment would meet the ends of justice. We, accordingly while confirming the conviction of the Appellant Under Section 304B Indian Penal Code, reduce the sentence of imprisonment for life to 10 years' rigorous imprisonment. The other conviction and sentence passed against the Appellant are confirmed.

25. Applying the principle of law laid down in the aforementioned cases and having regard to the totality of facts and circumstances of this case, we are of the considered opinion that the ends of justice would meet, if we reduce the sentence of the Appellant from life imprisonment to that of 10 years. In our view, this case does not fall in the category of a "rare case" as envisaged by this Court so as to award to the Appellant the life imprisonment. That apart, we also notice that while awarding life imprisonment, the courts below did not assign any reasons."

28. Having perused all the evidence and other materials on record, we find that the deceased after being burnt was either hanged herself or she was hanged by some other person as a ligature mark was found around her neck. The cause of death of deceased has been determined as shock due to ante-mortem burn injuries, therefore, hanging was not the cause of death of deceased. A lacerated wound has also been found on the person of deceased in between her vagina and anus. P.W.-4/Dr. Rajendra Sharma in his statement has stated that grievous injuries of burn were not caused to the deceased and the one injury found on the person of deceased, according to the Doctor may come by falling on some sharp object during the course of running here and there in an attempt to put off the fire. The Doctor has also opined that no bone of the neck of the deceased was found fractured.

29. The above factual matrix thus reveals that the deceased, though, was not seriously burnt but she died of 1st and 2nd degree burn injuries. However, her clothes were found changed and much emphasis has been given by prosecution to take this fact into consideration for awarding maximum sentence of life imprisonment. We may realize that the deceased was burnt and there is no possibility that any part of her clothes would have been intact. Therefore, in such a scenario, if fresh clothes were put on her person by the appellant Kamlendra, it is not a circumstance on the basis of which the extreme penalty of life imprisonment should be awarded.

30. Keeping into mind, the aforesaid proposition of law laid down by the Apex Court in the aforementioned cases and having regard to the totality of facts and circumstances of this case, we are of the considered opinion that justice would be served, if we alter the sentence of the appellant Kamlendra from life imprisonment to that of 12 years. In our view, this case does not fall in the category of a "rare case" on the parameters set forth herein before so as to award the appellant the life imprisonment . That apart we are also not satisfied by the reasoning given by the trial Court for awarding Life imprisonment to appellant Kamlendra, the conviction of the appellant is hereby upheld but the sentence of life imprisonment awarded to him by the Trial Court under section 304-B I.P.C. is hereby reduced to 12 years rigorous imprisonment. The impugned judgment and order of the Trial Court is modified to that extent only with respect to appellant Kamlendra, who is in jail as on date. The conviction and sentence of appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi for the offence under sections 498A, 201 IPC and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act shall remain the same as was awarded by the trial Court and the judgment of the trial court is affirmed to this extent. The appeal filed by appellant Kamlendra Dwivedi is this partly allowed.

31. In view of the foregoing discussions, we order as follows:-

(i) Criminal appeal Nos. 254 of 2010 and 886 of 2010 are allowed. The recorded conviction of the appellants Raghvendra, Krishnanand, Smt. Usha Devi and Smt. Poonam Devi and the sentences awarded to them under Sections 304-B, 498 A and 201 IPC and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, are hereby set aside. Appellants Raghvendra, Krishnanand, Smt. Usha Devi and Smt. Poonam Devi are acquitted of all the charges levelled against them.

They are on bail, they need not to surrender. Their bail bonds are cancelled and their sureties are discharged.

However, they will comply with the provisions of Section 437-A of Code of Criminal Procedure and file two sureties each to the satisfaction of the trial Court concerned in the trial Court within one month from today.

(ii) Criminal appeal No. 941 of 2010 also succeeds and is allowed in part. The recorded conviction of the appellant-Kamlendra under Sections 304-B, 498A and 201 IPC is upheld, but the awarded sentence of life imprisonment to him under section 304-B I.P.C. is reduced to 12 years' rigorous imprisonment. The Sentence awarded by the trial Court pertaining to Section 498A and 201 IPC, as well as under Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act shall remain the same as awarded by the trial Court.

He will also get the benefit of Section 428 of the Cr.P.C. He is detained in prison and he will serve out the sentence awarded by the trial Court as altered by this court.

In case appellant Kamlendra has served out the imprisonment awarded by the trial Court as altered by this Court, he will be released from the prison if he is not liable to be detained in any other case. He will also comply with the provisions of Section 437-A of Code of Criminal Procedure and file two sureties to the satisfaction of the trial Court concerned in the trial Court within one month from his release from the prison today.

The record of the trial Court along with a copy of this Judgment be sent to the trial Court, at the earliest.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION

BEFORE
THE HON'BLE NARENDRA KUMAR JOHARI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1723 of 1996

Hari Shanker & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Arun Kumar Shukla, Sri Ram Chandra Uttam

Counsel for the Respondent:
A.G.A.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 148, 323/149 and 307/149 - Appeal against conviction.

The role of all the accused persons has not been shown in F.I.R. Therefore, evidence of prosecution witness is not believable as they are afterthoughts and taught by legal experts. (para 36)

It can be said that F.I.R. is not an encyclopedia of the details of crime. It is not necessary that it should set out minute details of occurrence. If the fact narrated in F.I.R. indicates that a crime has been committed and facts mentioned in F.I.R. are in consonance with facts reflected from evidence on record then in that case accused may not take the plea that there is no detailed description in F.I.R. (para 37)

Injury report of injured persons indicates that they have received the injury of firearm. The genuineness of medical reports/injury reports have not been disputed by accused persons. It was duty of I.O. to recover the incriminating articles. If, I.O. has failed to recover the weapons used may or may not be with intention to provide benefit to accused persons, then in that case prosecution case will not be affected adversely. The injuries of above persons have been narrated in the oral evidences of prosecution witnesses PW-1 to PW-3. (para 41)

According to law, if eye witnesses who received injury in the course of occurrence, if their evidences are not contradictory and is believable, it will not be necessary in every case to produce independent witnesses. Quality of witness is needed not quantity. (para 47)
Prosecution has succeeded to prove the charges against appellants without any shadow of doubt. (para 49)

Appeal is dismissed. (E-2)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Narendra Kumar Johari, J.)

1. Present appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 30.08.1996 passed by Special/Additional Sessions Judge, Fatehpur convicting the appellants-Hari Shanker and Radhey Shyam under Section 148, 323/149 and 307/149 of Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as "I.P.C.") and sentencing the appellants to undergo six months' rigorous imprisonment under Section 148 I.P.C., further six months' rigorous imprisonment under Section 323/149 I.P.C. and two years' rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs.2000/- each under Section 307/149 I.P.C. in Session Trial No.85 of 1988

(State and others Vs. Hari Shanker and others), Police Station-Jahanabad, District-Fatehpur.

2. The case of the prosecution in brief is that Ram Kishore Uttam has given a Tahrir to S.O., Jahanabad on 29.11.1986 that at about 08:00 a.m. in Village-Lahuri Sarai, in front of northern gate of the factory of complainant; Hari Shanker and Radhey were raising construction of shop. One Pramod Kumar asked and prohibited not to do so. Annoyed of it, Hari Shanker, Radhey, Bhagween Deen, Raj Kumar and Bhikhari Neta, residents of Sarai Dharampur and some other outsiders armed with guns, pistols, lathi and danda attacked the family members of complainant with common intention. As a result of which, Vinod Kumar, Pramod Kumar, Bachchi Lal, Km. Shyam Shree, Km. Shyam Kali and Km. Manju Devi received injuries. On hearing the noise, the residents of the same village Gulab and Ram Kumar reached on spot and saw the incident.

3. On the basis of Tahrir, F.I.R. was lodged on the same date at about 09:30 a.m. under Crime No.254/86, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307 I.P.C. with entry in G.D.

4. The investigation of occurrence was entrusted to Sub-Inspector-U.B. Singh. Injured persons were sent to primary health centre for medical examination. Investigating Officer prepared the spot map and after investigation he has submitted charge-sheet against Hari Shanker, Radhey Lal, Bhagwandeen, Raj Kumar. Bhikhari Neta was summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

5. As documentary evidence prosecution filed Tahrir (Ex. Ka-1) which has been proved by witness PW-1. Apart from that, following papers have also been filed by prosecution whose genuineness has been admitted by learned counsel for accused persons and endorsed accordingly. Consequently, the papers were exhibited accordingly;

Chik F.I.R. (Ex. Ka-2), Corban Copy of G.D. dated 29.11.1986 (Ex. Ka-3), Site Plan (Ex. Ka-4),Injury Report of Km. Shyam Shree (Ex. Ka-5),Injury report of Km. Shyam Kali (Ex. Ka-6),Injury Report of Km. Manju Devi (Ex. Ka-7), Injury Report of Bachchi Lal (Ex. Ka-8), Injury Report of Vinod Kumar (Ex. Ka-9), Injury Report of Pramod Kumar (Ex. Ka-10), Charge-sheet (Ex. Ka-11).

6. As oral evidence for prosecution witnesses Ram Kishor as PW-1, Bachchi Lal as PW-2 and Km. Shyam Shree deposed as PW-3, since learned counsel for the prosecution has admitted the genuineness of prosecution paper as mentioned above, the evidence of relative formal witness as were dispensed with by the court considering the endorsement of Counsel for defence.

7. On the other hand, learned counsel for the accused persons submitted Panch Nirnay (Ex. Kha-1), Receipt of postal department dated 06.05.1986 (Ex. Kha-2), Extract of statement of Ram Kishore PW-1 (Ex. Kha-2 & 3), Extract of statement of Bachchi Lal (Ex. Kha-4 to 7)), Extract of statement of Shyam Shree (Ex. Kha-8 to 11). Apart from that with list 11 Kha/1, paper no.11 Kha/3 Certified Copy of F.I.R., Crime No. 254-A 11 Kha/4 under Sections 147, 148, 149, 349, 336 I.P.C. and Certified Copy of Injury Report of Rajeshwati , 11 Kha/5 (Ex. Kha-13), Certified Copy of Injury Report of Akhilesh Kumar, 11 Kha/A (Ex. Kha-14), Certified Copy of Injury Report of Hari Shanker 11 Kha/9 (Ex. Kha-15), Certified Copy of Injury Report of Shravan Kumar 11 Kha/11 (Ex. Kha-16), Certified Copy of Injury Report of Meera Devi, 11 Kha/13 (Ex. Kha-17), Certified Copy of Injury Report of Satish Kumar 11 Kha/15 (Ex. Kha-18), Certified Copy of Injury Report of Sheela Devi 11 Kha/17 (Ex. Kha-19), Certified Copy of Injury Report of Mohani Devi 11 Kha/19 (Ex. Kha-20) have been filed.

8. No oral evidence has been produced by accused persons.

9. Statement of accused persons Hari Shanker, Raj Kumar, Bhikhari Neta and Radhey Shyam was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein they have denied the prosecution version and evidence. Accused Hari Shanker has mentioned that when he was making construction in place of wooden shop to cemented shop and he and his family members were busy in its cleaning, Ram Kishor and Vinod etc. demolished his shop and beaten them brutally for which cross case against prosecution persons is pending. Accused persons Raj Kumar and Radhey Shyam adopted the statement of accused Hari Shanker. Accused Bhikhari Neta has mentioned that his enmity is continuing with the family of complainant, he resides in another village. His eye-sight is weak. His age is 70 years and he has made accused in party bandi only.

10. Learned Sessions Judge after consideration of the facts and evidence of both the parties held guilty and convicted accused persons-Hari Shanker and Radhey Shyam under Sections 148, 307 /149 and 323/149 I.P.C. Learned court below acquitted to accused Raj Kumar from the charges under Sections 148, 307/149 and 323/149 I.P.C. extending benefit of doubt to him.

11. As during the proceeding of trial, accused persons Bhagwati Deen and Bhihari Neta were died, hence, the case stood abated against them.

12. Against the aforesaid conviction and sentences accused persons Hari Shanker and Radhey Shyam preferred the present appeal.

13. Heard learned counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

14. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that accused persons have falsely been implicated in the present case. In fact, the persons from complainant side started quarrelling and fighting when appellants were converting their wooden Gumti into cemented shop. Complainant side was aggressor. Appellants defended themselves in exercise of their right to private defence. Witnesses of prosecution are family members. No independent witness as named in F.I.R. has been examined by prosecution. The weapons have not been recovered. Role of accused persons has not been shown in F.I.R. Doctor who had examined the injuries of prosecution persons and Investigating Officer were the necessary witnesses, but they have not been produced by prosecution. Prosecution has failed to prove the case beyond any shadow of doubt against accused appellants. Out of 5 persons only the two persons have been convicted, hence the judgment and order of court below dated 30.08.1996 is liable to set aside. Appellants are liable to be acquitted and appeal is liable to be allowed. In support of his argument, learned counsel for the appellants has referred case laws of Sahdev Prasad Shah Vs. State of Bihar 1999 Supreme (Patana) 615 and Ganesh Ram @ Ganesh Chamar Vs. State of Bihar 1989 Law Suit (Pat) 62 (D.B.)

15. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has submitted that F.I.R. is prompt. Prosecution witnesses are injured eye witnesses and are believable. There is no contradiction in their evidence on substantial points. If such witnesses are genuine and believable, then in that case it does not affect the prosecution case only on the ground that they are family members. If eye witnesses support the prosecution case, the conviction can be based on their evidence. There is no evidence from defence that complainant side were ever aggressor, rather appellants' side used deadly weapons to attack complainant side. The injuries so indicated by appellants' side are not proved. Learned counsel for the appellants in sub-ordinate court has admitted the genuineness of injury report of complainant side along with other prosecution papers. Therefore, the formal proof/evidence of concerning witnesses were dispensed with by the Court. In the light of admissible evidence of eye-witnesses if the recovery of weapons has not been done by Investigating Officer then in that case prosecution case does not suffer adversely. The F.I.R. is not an encyclopedia. Prosecution has proved his case beyond any doubt against appellants. Appellants have rightly been convicted and sentenced by the court, therefore, appeal is liable to be rejected.

16. As according to the F.I.R., occurrence had taken place on 29.11.1986 at about 8:00 a.m. and its F.I.R. was lodged on the same date at about 9:30 a.m. The distance of police station from the place of occurrence has been shown 5 Kms. Therefore, in absence of any evidence, it cannot be said that F.I.R. has been lodged with any inordinate delay.

17. Witness PW-1 is not eye witness but, he has carried injured persons to police station, Jahanabad and hospital for their medical examination. He has proved the Tahrir of F.I.R. also. The witness has been cross examined by learned counsel for the defence properly, but nowhere any such facts came into light that he did not carry the injured persons to police station and hospital.

18. Witnesses PW-2 and PW-3 have been produced by prosecution as eye-witnesses. Witness PW-2 as eye witness, who is injured in occurrence also has stated at Page-2 of his statement of evidence that at the time of occurrence, Bhagwan Deen was carrying lathi in his hand who blown lathi to his son Pramod. Hari Shanker and Radhey Shyam were having Tamanche (Country-made pistols) who fired on him and on Shyam Shree, Shyam Kali and Manju. Bhikhari Neta and Raj Kumar were carrying the guns in their hands who also fired by their firearms. There were 8-10 more persons on spot. Further, at page 8 of his statement, he has mentioned that all the 4 persons attacked with their firearms.

19. Witness PW-3 Km. Shyam Shree is also an injured eye witness. She has also narrated the facts at page-2 of his evidence that Hari Shanker and Radhey Shyam were carrying Tamanche, Bhikhari Neta and Raj Kumar were carrying guns in their hands and Bhagwan Deen with lathi. He has mentioned that all the 4 persons fired on them. Subsequently, she has narrated the role of appellant Hari Shanker that the fire blown by Hari Shanker, her right eye became injured by pellets of cartridge and she lost her right eye. There is no contradiction on this core point in between evidence of PW-2 and PW-3.

20. Injury report of PW-2 and PW-3 is on record as Ex. Ka-8 and Ex. Ka-5. The following injuries have been mentioned in Ex. Ka-8 (Bachchi Lal, PW-2):-

Firearm wound of entry 1/4 c.m. x 1/4 c.m. x muscle deep/bone deep with fresh oozing in (a) back of (Lt) forearm at middle (b) back of (Lt) forearm just above wrist (c) (LTO) zygomatic region (d) front of (Rt) shoulder joint (e) (Rt) thigh lower part at back (f) (Rt) thigh lower part at front (g) (Lt) metatarsal region lateral aspect (h) (Lt) leg lower third lateral aspect (I) left leg lateral aspect at middle (j) (Lt) thigh lateral aspect at middle. Adv. X-ray AP/Lat view for (a) to (j) for presence/confirmation of pellets and extent thereof.

21. Injury Report of PW-3, Km. Shyam Shree (Ex. Ka-5), shows following injuries:-

(i) Blackening of (Rt) eye with profuse conjunctival (Rt) haemorrhage having fresh blood clots with lacerated wound round shaped 1/8 c.m. x 1/8 c.m. in lower part of (Rt) side of eye ball. Advised X-ray AP/Lat. view. Injury u/o.

(ii) Abrasion 1/4 c.m. x 1/4c.m. in (Rt) side of nose just below eye brow.

(iii) Firearm wounds of entry with no exit wound having fresh bleeding with different depths each measuring 1/4c.m. x 1/4c.m. to 1/8c.m. x 1/8c.m. located at (a) (Lt) forearm. at back 3c.m. above wrist (b) mid of front of (Rt) forearm (c) frontal area of skull on left side of midline. Adv. X-ray AP/Lat view for confirmation/of presence of pellets and extent of injuries. Wounds are muscle to bone deep.

22. So far as the testimony of injured witness is concerned, it has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Surjit Singh @ Gurmit Singh Vs. State of Punjab 1993 SCC (Cri) 161 that:-

"9.-To be fair to the learned counsel for the appellant, we may mention that he ventured to argue that the evidence regarding the marrying of the crime bullet shells with the pistol recovered was not convincing, more so when the 303 pistol, the alleged crime weapon, was recovered from Gurmit Singh, co-accused. It is noteworthy that Gurmit Sing, co-accused, stands convicted under the Arms Act for being in possession of that pistol. This aspect of the case cannot be a substitute to the eyewitness account or the plea taken by the appellant. Had the presence of the two witnesses, that is, Jaswinder kaur PW 5 and Taljit Singh PW 2 at the scene of the occurrence been doubted, the recovery of the weapon of offence and its connection with the empty shells recovered at the spot would have assumed some significance. When the two eyewitnesses are natural witnesses of the crime, one being the young wife who would normally be in the company of the husband at 10.30 p.m. on a summer night and the other the nephew of the deceased who had suffered grievous injuries in the occurrence and was thus a stamped witness, not much importance is to be attached to this aspect of the case. The venture is futile."

23. So far as the evidentiary value of relative witness is concerned, it has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dharampal and others Vs. State of U.P. 2008 Cr.L.J. 1016. The relevant part of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

"12. This takes us to the next question viz. whether the other lacunae pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants are fatal to the prosecution case . We agree that the High Court erred in relying on the evidence of PW4, who admittedly was declared a hostile witness. Nevertheless, we fell that in the fact of the other evidence of PW2 Dannu, PW3 Om Prakash who were corroborated in all material respects by PW7 Dr. R.P. Goyal and by PW9, Dr. U. Kanchan, the evidence of PW4, even if discharged, is inconsequential. The evidentiary value of a dying declaration and the principles underlying the imprtance of a dying declaration have already been discussed herein earlier. Simply because PW2 and PW3, in their cross-examination, have been shown to be related to the deceased does not mean that their testimony has to be rejected. It is well settled that evidence of a witness is not to be rejected merely because he happens to be a relative of the deceased. In State of Himanchal Pradesh V. Mast Ram [(2004) 8 SCC 660], this Court observed as under:-

".....The law on the point is well settled that the testimony of the relative witnesses cannot be disbelieved on the ground of relationship. The only main requirement is to examine their testimony with caution. Their testimony was thrown out at the threshold on the ground of animosity and relationship. This is not a requirement of law....."

In this view of the matter and this being the well-settled law, it is difficult for us to discard the evidence of the witnesses, as discussed hereinabove, only on the ground that they were related to the deceased, in the absence of any infirmity in the said evidence."

(Emphasized)

24. On the same point, Hon'ble Supreme Court in case law Rizan and another Vs. State of Chatisgarh (Supra) it has been held that:-

"6.- We shall first deal with the contention regarding interest of the witnesses for furthering prosecution version. Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible."

(Emphasized)

25. Injury reports of other persons from prosecution side are also on record, which are as follows:-

Injury Report of Km. Manju Devi (Ex. Ka-7)

1. Firearm wound of entry 1/4c.m. x 1/4c.m. x muscle deep in (Lt) deltoid upper part at middle fresh oozing. Adv. X-ray AP/Lat. view for confirmation/presence of pellet, if any.

2. Injury as above in (Lt) side of chest 8 c.m. below mid point of (Lt) collar bone. Adv. X-ray AP/Lat. view for confirmation/presence of pellet if any.

Injury report of Km. Shyam Kali (Ex. Ka-6)

Firearm wounds of entry 1/4c.m. x 1/4c.m. three in number each having fresh oozing muscle deep to bone deep circular round shaped located in (a) dorsam of base of (Lt) thumb (b) (Rt) leg medially at middle (c) (Lt) frontal prominance. Adv. X-ray AP/Lat view for confirmation/presence of pellets and extent of injuries.

Injury report of Vinod Kumar (Ex. Ka-3)

Multiple firearm wounds of entry each measuring 1/4cm. X 1/4cm. App ro. Muscle deep to bone deep scattered in back of (Lt) lower limb front of chest front of (Rt) thigh lower part (Rt) upper limb lower part fresh oozing. Adv. X-ray AP/Lat view for presence and confirmation of pellets if any.

Apart from that, injury report of Pramod Kumar (Ex. Ka-10) shows that he is suffering from pain in left ear.

26. All the injured witnesses were examined on 29.11.1986 between 11:30 a.m. to 12.35 p.m. The injury reports of all the injured persons are also prompt.

27. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that although the appellants have admitted the genuineness of injury reports of injured persons for prosecution under Section 294 of Cr.P.C., but even then it was needed to examine doctor concerned who had examined the injured persons. In case, the doctor has not examined in above circumstances then in that case the injury report will not be treated as proved as it does not have the status of the substantial evidence. In support of his contention, he has submitted the case law of Ganesh Ram @ Ganesh Chamar (Supra) and relied on its para-22 which reads as under:-

"22. Thus the injury report and the postmortem report are not substantive evidence. They are only notes which are prepared by the Doctor at the time of examination of the injured or the deceased. They become evidence only when the doctor is examined and cross-examined in court and says that he had examined the injuries of the injured or the deceased. His evidence will clearly given out the nature of injury and also the weapons used or the manner of assault and in the case of postmortem it will show the cause of death of the deceased. These are relevant things as corroborative piece of evidence to the oral evidence of the witnesses. But these evidence (injury report and post mortem report) can be used only to contradict or corroborate the doctor. The injuries of the victim may be noticed and observed even by a layman, but this layman cannot give the opinion about the cause of death, which is given by the doctor after examination of the dead body, as an expert. Further if a man receives injuries and then dies immediately thereafter, inference may be drawn that these injuries may be the cause of death. But such inference is not sufficient for purposes of conviction for murder. A doctor alone can give the opinion that the victim died as a result of injuries or that the injuries were such that the assailant must have known that it was likely to cause death. Section 32 of the Evidence Act provides exception to the general rule about the injury report or the postmortem report. Similarly Section 294 Cr.P.C. though provides for no formal proof of certain documents, but it cannot take the place of the direct evidence of the doctor. It refers to only that document which can be needed in evidence and the postmortem report or the injury report cannot be read in evidence unless the doctor is examined, subject to exceptions provided under Section 32 of the Evidence Act. The Court will have to consider the other evidence on the record if any help, at all, is available, which may show the injuries, but that cannot become substitute for the injury report or the postmortem report in the absence of the examination of the doctor barring the case covered by Section 32 of the Evidence Act. If, at all, doctor is not easily available or quite easily available as he has gone abroad or is not likely to come within reasonable time and that there will be delay in the disposal of the case causing harassment to the accused, then the postmortem report may be brought on the record not by a clerk but it should be brought through some person having technical knowledge of medical science and jurisprudence or through some doctor who may be able to answer the questions put by the prosecution as well as the defence in respect of the writings of the doctor of postmortem or injury report. But this is all subject to the Evidence Act or the code of Civil Procedure."

28. In reply, learned A.G.A. has submitted that if the accused persons have admitted and did not dispute the genuineness of prosecution paper including injury report of injured persons from prosecution side then in that case it is not needed call concerning formal witnesses for their evidence.

29. In this regard, the provisions of Section 294 of Cr.P.C. are reproduced hereinunder:-

"294. No formal proof of certain documents.--(1) Where any document is filed before any Court by the prosecution or the accused, the particulars of every such document shall be included in a list and the prosecution or the accused, as the case may be, or the pleader for the prosecution or the accused, if any, shall be called upon to admit or deny the genuineness of each such document.

(2) The list of documents shall be in such form as may be prescribed by the State Government.

(3) Where the genuineness of any document is not disputed, such document may be read in evidence in any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code without proof of the signature of the person to whom it purports to be signed.

Provided that the Court may, in its discretion, require such signature to be proved."

(Emphasized)

30. Accordingly under sub-clause (3) of Section 294 Cr.P.C. if the genuineness of any documentary evidence is not disputed by either side such document may be read in any enquiry trial or other proceedings without formal proof of signature of witness concerned.

31. On the above point of argument, it has been held by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Akhtar and others Vs. State of Uttaranchal SCC (Cri) 1590 of 2007 that:-

" 9. Another post mortem examination report, genuineness of which has also been admitted by the defence, discloses that autopsy was conducted on the dead body of Asgar on 14.05.1987 at about 10.00 AM by Dr. A.K. Lumba. In the opinion of the Medical Officer, both Shakil and Asgar died on account of shock and haemorrhage resulting due to ante mortem injuries.

10. The medical report with respect to the injuries caused to two eyewitnesses, namely Jamil Ahmad and Mobin, genuineness of which has also been admitted by the defence counsel, discloses that on Page 7 of 14 13.05.1987 at about 12.15 p.m., injuries were found on the body of Jamil Ahmad (PW-2) by the Medical Officer who examined the injured at L.D. Bhatt Civil Hospital, Kashipur. In the opinion of the Medical Officer the injuries were fresh and simple in nature, caused by sharp edged weapon. The same Medical Officer also examined PW-3, Mobin and opined that four injuries were caused by some hard blunt object and two injuries were caused by a fire arm and all the injuries were fresh in duration.

11. Admittedly, there is no dispute as far as the genuineness of the injury reports, post mortem reports and also the genuineness of the Ballistic Expert's report is concerned. As defence has already admitted the same no useful purpose would be served to discuss those reports again."

(Emphasized)

32. On the same point, Full Bench of this Court in case of Siddiq and Ors. Vs. State 1981 AWC (80) has given the finding that:-

"9. An injury report filed by the prosecution is obviously a document as defined in Section 29 I.P.C. Before the Cr. P.C. 1973 came into force an injury report could not be read in evidence as it was only a writing of the doctor made at the time of the examination of the injuries of the injured person. It contained his observations regarding the nature, dimension and location of the injuries and also his opinion regarding their duration and the instrument with which they were caused. The doctor who prepared the injury report was required to enter the witness box during the inquiry or trial to prove the injuries of the injured person. He could refresh his memory under Section 159 Evidence Act by referring to the injury report prepared by him and the injury report was proved by him under Section 67 Evidence Act and it corroborated his deposition in Court under Section 157 Evidence Act. Under sub-section (3) of Section 294 Cr. P.C. an injury report filed by the prosecution under sub-section 294 Cr. P.C. may be read as substantive evidence in place of the deposition of the doctor who prepared it if its genuineness is not disputed by the ??? accused. If its genuineness is disputed then the doctor who examined the injured person must appear in the witness box to prove his injuries and also to prove the injury report and in such a case the statement of the doctor would he the substantive evidence and the injury report may be used to corroborate or discredit his testimony.

10. In Jagdeo Singh v. State [1979 Cr. L.J. 236.] a Division Bench of this Court held "it was not permissible to exhibit the postmortem report under Section 294 Cr. P.C. and even if it was done the report could not be used as substantive piece of evidence until and unless the doctor concerned was examined in Court. Documents that Section 294 Cr. P.C. contemplates reading in evidence upon admission about genuineness by the opposite party are only such documents which when formally proved Speak for themselves. It does not refer to any document, which even if exhibited cannot be read in evidence as substantive evidence". With great respect, we are unable to agree with the view taken by this Court in the above-mentioned case. As mentioned earlier, there is no restriction placed on documents in sub-section (1) of Section 294 Cr. P.C. and it applies to all documents filed by the prosecution or the accused. If the genuineness of any document filed by the prosecution or the accused under sub-section (1) of Section 294 Cr. P.C. is not disputed by the opposite party sub-section (3) of Section 294 Cr. P.C. is applicable and it may be read as substantive evidence. It is true that prior to the coming into force of the Cr. P.C. 1973 the post-mortem report after it was proved was not substantive evidence but only corroborated the statement of the doctor made in Court and even now if the genuineness of the post-mortem report is disputed by the accused, the doctor must be examined to prove the injuries found on the body of the deceased and also the post-mortem report and the post-mortem report may only be used to corroborate or discredit his testimony which is the substantive evidence. This, however, cannot lead to the conclusion that the post-mortem report cannot be read as substantive evidence under sub-section (3) of Section 294 Cr. P.C. if its genuineness is not disputed by the accused. As already mentioned, the very object of enacting Section 294 Cr. P.C. would be defeated if the signature and the correctness of the contents of the post-mortem report are still required to be proved by the doctor concerned even if its genuineness is not disputed by the accused. Section 294 Cr. P.C. is clear and unambiguous. It is only when the genuineness of the post-mortem report filed by the prosecution is not disputed by the accused that sub-section (3) of Section 294 Cr. P.C. is applicable and the post-mortem report may be read as substantive evidence and the signature and the correctness of its contents need not be proved by the doctor concerned. We are, therefore, clearly of the opinion that if the genuineness of the post-mortem report filed by the prosecution under sub-section (1) of Section 294 Cr. P.C. is not disputed by the accused, it may be read as substantive evidence under sub-section (3) of Section 294 Cr. P.C.

11. In Ganpat Raoji Suryavanshi v. State of Maharashtra [1980 Cr. L.J. 853.] it was also held that the post-mortem report even if admitted to be genuine by the accused cannot be read as substantive evidence under Section 294 Cr. P.C. For the reasons already given we are, with great respect, unable to agree with the view taken in that case."

(Emphasized)

33. A Division Bench of Patana High Court has given the same verdict in case law of Madan Shah Vs. State of Bihar 1997 S.C.C. Online Patana 543.

"13. In this regard it would be useful to notice that at the time when the Public Prosecutor filed the post-mortem report with a petition to mark the same as Exhibit, Sri Ravindra Prasad Srivastawa, the defence counsel, admitted the genuineness of the document. Therefore, having regard to the provisions of Section 294 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the post mortem report was marked at Ext. 6 by the court below. As per sub-section (3) of Section 294 of the Code of Criminal Procedure where the genuineness of such document is not disputed, it may be read in evidence in any inquiry, trial or other proceedings under the Code. That apart having regard to the law laid down by this Court in the case of Dasrath Mandal v. The State of Bihar, 1993 (1) P.L.J.R. 737, if the prosecution or the accused does not dispute the genuineness of such document, filed under Sub-Section (1) of Section 294 of the Code, it amounts to an admission that the entire document is true and correct. Reference in this regard can also be made to a Full Bench decision of Allahabad High Court in the case of Saddiq v. State (1981 Cri. L.J. 379).

14. It has to bear in mind that Section 294 of the Code has been introduced by the Legislatures with a view to avoid unnecessary delay in disposal of the criminal cases. An accused has every right to doubt the genuineness of such document at the time when it is filed. Because undisputedly unless such a document is admitted by the parties no value can be attached with regard to its genuineness. Reference in this regard can also be made to a Full Bench decision of Bombay High Court in the case of Shaikh Farid Hussain Sab v. The State of Maharashtra (1983 Cri. L.J. 487). Therefore, the facts of this case being quite different, appellants can not get any benefit of the ratio laid down in the case as reported in 1994 (1) P.L.J.R. 488 (supra). Because in the present case genuineness of the document was already admitted by the defence at the time when it was brought on the record."

(Emphasized)

34. A similar view has been taken by another Division Bench of Patana High Court in case law of Shanker Shah and others Vs. State of Bihar 2007 Cr.L.J. 355.

" 26. From a plain reading of S. 294 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, it is evident that when particulars of a document is included in a list and when accused is called upon to admit or deny the genuineness of such document and in case it is not disputed same can be read in evidence in trial without proof of the signature of the person to whom it purports to be signed. However, the Court may in its discretion, require such signature to be proved.

27. Here in the present case, the signature of the doctor, who conducted the postmortem examination, had been proved by the compounder P.W. 7 Ram Chandra Tiwari and he had stated in his evidence that the said post-mortem report was prepared in his presence and he identified the signature of its author. The said post-mortem report has been filed by the prosecution with the list of documents and the endorsement made by the learned Judge show that the appellants admitted that without objection. The endorsement of the learned Judge in the list of documents clearly goes to establish that the genuineness of the post-mortem report was not disputed and, as such, same was fit to be read in evidence in trial in view of the clear language of S. 294 of the Code of Criminal Procedure."

(Emphasized)

35. Law has been framed for providing justice to victims. It cannot be placed as a tool in the hands of legal experts. It will not be proper to apply the principle in every case that doctor must be called for evidence even in the cases, where accused persons have admitted and not disputed the genuineness of injury report. If during the course of evidence before trial court, learned counsel for defence does not dispute the genuineness of medical/injury report of injured persons and endorse on paper that formal proof is dispensed with, accordingly court concerned dispensed with evidence of concerning formal witnesses, then in that case if during the course of argument accused persons take plea that, no matter he has not disputed the genuineness of document and endorsed about dispensation of formal proof of witness concerned, even then if the concerning witness has not been summoned and has not been given evidence/proof regarding the signature and contents of document then in that case it may cause injustice to accused persons. This argument is not acceptable in the light of provisions of Section 294 Cr.P.C. In above circumstances, if such documents will not be read in evidence, it may cause miscarriage of justice. In sub-clause (3) of Section 294 Cr.P.C., the word ''may' has been used by legislature, therefore, considering the above legal position, the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the appellants has no force. The injury reports of prosecution persons (Ex. Ka-5 to Ex. Ka-10) are liable to be believed as substantive evidence of prosecution which corroborates the oral evidence of injured eye witnesses PW-2 and PW-3.

36. Learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that role of all the accused persons has not been shown in F.I.R. Therefore, evidence of prosecution witness is not believable as they are afterthoughts and taught by legal experts.

37. So far as the argument on this point is concerned, it can be said that F.I.R. is not an encyclopedia of the details of crime. It is not necessary that it should set out minute details of occurrence. After the occurrence, the mind of informant does not remain in peace. Rather, it reflects in flutter or panic in condition, therefore, minute details of occurrence may omit. If the fact narrated in F.I.R. indicates that a crime has been committed and facts mentioned in F.I.R. are in consonance with facts reflected from evidence on record then in that case accused may not take the plea that there is no detailed description in F.I.R., what is needed, facts mentioned in F.I.R. be not in contradiction in evidence regarding factum of occurrence and role of accused substantially. It has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pandurang Chandrakant Mhatre and others Vs. State of Maharashtra (2010) 1 S.C.C. 413 that:-

" 38. It is fairly well settled that first information report is not a substantive piece of evidence and it can be used only to discredit the testimony of the maker thereof and it cannot be utilised for contradicting or discrediting the testimony of other witnesses. In other words, the first information report cannot be used with regard to the testimony of other witnesses who depose in respect of incident. It is equally well settled that the earliest information in regard to commission of a cognizable offence is to be treated as the first information report. It sets the criminal law in motion and the investigation commences on that basis. Although first information report is not expected to be encyclopaedia of events, but an information to the police to be "first information report" under Section 154(1) must contain some essential and relevant details of the incident. A cryptic information about commission of a cognizable offence irrespective of the nature and details of such information may not be treated as first information report."

38. In present case, the informant has mentioned that accused persons Hari Shanker, Radhey, Bhagwan Deen, Raj Kumar and Bhikhari Neta and other outsider were carrying guns, tamanche and lathi-dande who attacked family members of informant. Resultantly, family members-Vinod Kumar, Pramod Kumar, Bachchi Lal, Km. Shyam Shree, Km. Shyam Kali and Km. Manju Devi received injuries. Since, the informant has narrated the occurrence with role of accused persons with weapons, then in that case, it cannot be said the said F.I.R. is not believable. Hence, the argument advanced by learned counsel for the appellants has no force.

39. The F.I.R. has the motive of occurrence also that before occurrence accused persons Hari Shanker and Radhey were raising construction of shop and injured Pramod Kumar asked them not to do so. Eye witness PW-2 in his evidence at page-2 has stated that accused persons were raising construction of shop which is in front of northern gate of his factory. This fact has also been narrated in his evidence at page-4 and at page-7. Witness PW-3 has also narrated the fact in his evidence at page-1 that accused persons Hari Shanker and Radhey Shyam were raising construction adjacent to northern gate of the factory. There is no contradiction on the point of genesis of occurrence in prosecution witness. This fact is also supported by the statement of appellant-Hari Shanker. In reply of question no.8 in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Appellant-Radhey Shyam has adopted the statement of appellant-Hari Shnaker in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that "We had constructed Pakki (cemented) shop, in place of existing wooden shop and we were moisturising the same, Ram Kishore and Vinod Kumar demolished the shop and beaten them, resultantly accused persons received injuries; for which cross case is pending." Although, where there is ocular evidence, motive is not necessary to be proved by prosecution yet the above evidence proves the motive of accused persons.

40. It has been argued by learned counsel for the appellants that the alleged guns, tamanche, lathi have not been recovered, therefore, the case of the prosecution is not believable .

41. Injury report of injured persons-Km. Shyam Shree, Km. Shyam Kali, Km. Manju Devi, Bachchi Lal and Vinod Kumar (Ex. Ka-5 to Ex. Ka-9) indicates that they have received the injury of firearm whereas, injury report of Pramod Kumar has made complainant of pain with the opinion of doctor that it has been caused by blunt weapon (which might be injury of lathi). The genuineness of above medical reports/injury reports have not been disputed by accused persons. It was duty of I.O. to recover the incriminating articles. If, I.O. has failed to recover the weapons used may or may not be with intention to provide benefit to accused persons, then in that case prosecution case will not be affected adversely. The injuries of above persons have been narrated in the oral evidences of prosecution witnesses PW-1 to PW-3.

42. In the case of State of Punjab Vs. Hakam Singh, Appeal (Crl.) 130 of 2000 decided on 31.08.2005, it has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court that:-

i.e. on the manner of firing and recovery of the guns, non seizure of blood stained clothes but these short-comings hardly impeach her testimony In order to impeach her testimony technical questions were asked to her which was not the correct approach for discarding her testimony. Therefore, we are of the opinion that the High Court has committed an error in discarding the testimony of this witness on technical grounds de hors the factual statement given by her.

Learned counsel for the respondent has also tried to make out that the defence version is more probable. The defence version was that in fact Bhola Singh who was coming for bus stop was first attacked by the prosecution party and in retaliation the accused persons went there and that the prosecution could not explain the second injury to the deceased Bhola Singh. We do not think that the defence version improbablises the prosecution story. It is just an afterthought theory put up by the defence to improbablise the prosecution story. But the facts as mentioned above articularly the testimony of P.Ws. 3 & 4 sufficiently lend support to the prosecution story.

It was also pointed out by learned counsel for the respondent that no fire arms were recovered and no seizure has been made of empties. It would have been better if this was done and it would have corroborated the prosecution story. Seizure of the fire arms and recovering the empties and sending them for examination by the Ballistic expert would have only corroborated the prosecution case but by not sending them to the Ballistic expert in the present case is not fatal in view of the categorical testimony of P.W. 3 about the whole incident."

(Emphasized)

43. Learned counsel for the appellants has further stated that in spite of the F.I.R. version, evidence of PW-1 to PW-3, the three accused persons have not been convicted. Therefore, appellants are also liable to get benefit.

44. On this point, the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants is not believable as misconceived. It reveals from record that accused Bhagwan Deen and Bhikhari Neta were died during the pendency of trial. Therefore, the trial has been abated against them. Eye witness PW-2 has stated in his statement at page-6 that at the time of occurrence accused Raj Kumar was standing in the guise of shop. This witness, PW-2 is injured and has been found as a reliable witness. Therefore, learned lower court has given the benefit of doubt to accused Raj Kumar which has not been challenged by prosecution, whereas the roll of appellants regarding causing injuries to prosecution persons are proved by injured eye witnesses of prosecution which is corroborated by documentary evidence of prosecution. Therefore, on the point of not convicting three accused persons, argument advanced by learned counsel for the appellants has no force.

45. So far as the injuries of accused persons are concerned, the injury reports of Rajeshwati, Akhilesh, Hari Shanker, Shravan Kumar, Meera Devi, Satish, Sheela, Smt. Mohani Devi, although has been exhibited as Ex. Kha-13 to Ex. Kha-20, but they have not been proved by any witness from accused side. Even the said injuries of so-called injured persons from accused side has not specifically been mentioned by them in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. It has been informed by learned A.G.A. that the cross case which was lodged by present appellant-Hari Shanker as Case Crime No.254-A under Section 147, 148, 149, 307 and 336 has been decided by the Court concerned with acquittal of all the accused persons. The order of acquittal has not been challenged by appellants, therefore, they cannot take plea that there was any sudden or free fighting and complainant side was aggressor, in which, persons from accused side received injuries and appellants have not acted with any overact.

46. It has also been mentioned by learned counsel for the appellants in his argument that there are two persons named in F.I.R. as independent witnesses, but prosecution failed to produce them in evidence. In absence of evidence of any independent witness, conviction cannot be based only on the ground of interested witnesses of fact that is of evidence of PW-1 to PW-3.

47. So far as the above argument advanced by learned counsel for the appellants, in concern, it has no force as witnesses PW-2 and PW-3 are injured eye witnesses. Their testimony is supported by medical evidence i.e. injury reports Ex. Ka-5 and Ka-10. There is no discrepancy in the oral evidence. According to law, if eye witnesses who received injury in the course of occurrence, if their evidences are not contradictory and is believable, it will not be necessary in every cases to produce independent witnesses. Quality of witness is needed not quantity. In paragraph-16 of case law of Hardev Singh and others Vs. Harbhej Singh and others 1996 94) Crimes 216 (S.C.) Hon'ble Apex Court has held that :-

16. Coming to the finding as regards the non-examination of independent eye witnesses who saw the incident in question we must hasten to add that it is completely erroneous and unmerited. The prosecution has examined Hardev Singh (P.W. 2) and an injured witness Suba Singh (P.W. 3), although some other villagers did come at the place of incident but in our opinion merely because other independent witnesses were not examined could not be a ground to discredit the evidence of these two eye witnesses. This Court time and again has emphasised that the evidence of close relations who testified the facts relating to the occurrence be not rejected merely on the ground that they happened to be the relatives. All that this Court has ruled is that the evidence of such witnesses be scrutinised very carefully. We have very carefully gone through the evidence of Hardev Singh (P.W. 2) and Suba Singh (P.W. 3) who were consistent in their evidence as regards the details of assault caused by the respondents (accused). Both the witnesses have given minute details in regard to the weapons used by each of the accused and the manner in which they have assaulted Harbhajan Singh in front of the house of Chanan Singh. They also stated that A-1 fired from his gun at Harbhajan Singh causing him bleeding injuries. They further stated that the second shot fired by A-1 missed the target. It is true that the medical evidence does indicate two gun shot injuries. In the facts and circumstances of the case non explanation of the gun shot injury No.6 by these two eye witnesses would neither dilute their evidence nor their presence could be doubted. It is the positive case of both the witnesses that Harbhajan Singh had come to the house of Chanan Singh to help him in the construction work. There is nothing in their evidence which can persuade us to disbelieve the story narrated as regards the assault on Harbhajan Singh. Coming to the assault on Baldev Singh caused by the respondents (accused), Hardev Singh (P.W. 2) and Suba Singh (P.W. 3) had stated that Baldev Singh, on noticing that the respondents (accused) were coming towards him, left the driver's seat and went to the trolley to escape himself from the probably attack by the accused. Harbhej Singh (A-1) gave a lalkara and thereupon Amrik Singh (A-3) climbed up the trolley and chopped off the leg of Baldev Singh with gandasa. Gurmej Singh (A-4) also climbed up the trolley and gave 2-3 blows on his left arm from the sharp side of gandasa. Mohan Singh (A-5) also gave a gandasa blow from the sharp side on his chest. After inflicting injuries to Baldev Singh the accused fled away. Both these witnesses were searchingly cross-examined by the defence but there is hardly any material brought on record to discredit their evidence. The evidence of both these witnesses in our considered view unmistakably proves that the respondents (accused) who were the members of the unlawful assembly having a common object to cause the murders of Harbhajan Singh and Baldev Singh did cause such bodily injuries to them as a result thereof they met with homicidal deaths.

(Emphasized)

48. Lastly, learned counsel for the appellants has argued that accused persons are of more than 65 years of age and occurrence has taken place approximately 33 years back. Therefore, a lenient view be taken and appellants should be acquitted.

49. Offence of appellants has been proved by prosecution. Km. Shyam Shree, Km. Shyam Kali, Km. Manju Devi, Bachchi Lal and Vinod Kumar have received firearms injuries in day light. Prosecution has succeeded to prove the charges against appellants without any shadow of doubt. No legal ground has been placed before this Court to set aside the conviction. Learned Sessions Court has convicted and sentenced to appellants-Hari Shanker and Radhey Shyam for six months' rigorous imprisonment under Section 148, six months' rigorous imprisonment under Sections 323, 149 I.P.C. and two years' rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 2,000/- each under Section 307/149 of I.P.C. In default of non-payment of find, they have been awarded rigorous imprisonment for a period of three months. Learned court below has also directed that if fine amount is paid, half of the shall be paid to Km. Shyam Shree who lost her eye in the occurrence. It has also been admitted that all the sentences shall run concurrently, therefore, the sentence awarded by learned lower court is not too harsh.

50. It has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of Rizan and others Vs. State of Chattisgarh (Supra), if sentences imposed do not in any way appear to be harsh, merely because the occurrence took place sometime back, same cannot be a factor to reduce the sentences.

51. Considering the facts, circumstances and arguments advanced by both the sides and citations produced in support of the arguments, no illegality or infirmity is found in the judgment of court below. Appellants have rightly been convicted and sentenced. Appeal lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

52. The appellant-Hari Shanker and Radhey Shyam will surrender before court, concerned forthwith, failing which the court will issue non-bailable warrant against them. In compliance, if accused-Hari Shanker and Radhey Shyam appear or brought before the court, concerned they shall be sent to jail by warrant for their sentences as awarded by trial court.

53. Let the copy of the judgment be sent to court concerned forthwith for compliance.

54. Accordingly, the appeal is dismissed.

55. No order as to costs.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 302/149 - Appeal against conviction.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 141, 142, 149 - Are discussed.

The role of A-1 to A-3 is concerned, same was undoubtedly established with the evidence of P.W-1 and 2 unequivocally. Learned Counsel for A-1 to A-3 in all fairness submitted that in view of direct clinching evidence he is not in a position to assail their conviction. We too, independent of his submission find that there was strong previous enmity between both the faction, a day light occurrence supported by testimony of injured witnesses and nothing has been elicited in their cross examination to doubt their credibility, prosecution has established its case beyond reasonable doubt against all the appellants, the appeal is bereft of merits, liable to be dismissed.

2. Mizaji Vs. St. of U.P A.I.R 1959 AIR (SC), 572

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Naqvi, J.)

This appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 26.9.1991 passed by Sessions Judge, Basti in S.T. no.33 of 1986, whereby appellants have been convicted/sentenced under Sections 302/149 IPC for life along with ancillary sentences.

1. The prosecution case is comprised in two parts:-

The first part alleged that there is a mango grove across the house of P.W-1/the informant, belonging to the family of the informant. On 20.5.1984 at about 10 in the morning while P.W-1 was plucking mangoes, accused Ram Lalak (A-1), Bajrangi (A-4) (real brothers) and Devmani (A-2), Indramani (A-5) (real brothers) dissuaded P.W-1 from plucking mangoes. P.W-1 replied that trees have been planted by his father and ancestors, as such he was plucking them. Accused went back hurling abuses.

2. The second part alleged that on the same day while P.W-1 was tethering livestock in the grove, accused Ramlalak (A-1) with a DBBL gun, Devmani (A-2) and Ramchand (A-3) with SBBL guns, Indramani (A-5) and Rammilan (A-6) with lathis, and Bajrangi (A-4) with ballam came, out of whom, Ramlalak(A-1) exhorted P.W-1 that he better not move as he wanted to teach him a lesson. P.W-1 sensing trouble attempted to flee towards his house while raising cries for help. Dwarika (P.W.2), Ramdas, (deceased) (relatives of P.W-1) and Ayodhya ran to rescue PW-1. Accused Ramlalak (A-1), Devmani (A-2) and Ramchand (A-3) fired at P.W-1 which hit him on his head, waist and legs. The witnesses dissuaded the accused persons from doing so. Accused too exhorted the witnesses to stay away, upon which accused Ramlalak, Devmani and Ramchandra fired at Ramdas (deceased) and Dwarika (P.W-2). Ramdas (deceased) succumbed to the injuries on the spot. Dwarika (P.W-2) and Ayodhya (not examined) sustained pellete injuries, thereafter accused Bajrangi (A-4) inflicted ballam blow at Dwarika (P.W-2) on his waist, who fell down, followed by lathi blows on him by Indramani (A-5) and Rammilan (A-6). P.W-1 subsequently learnt that the accused Ramnarayan with a view to eliminate P.W-1 and his family had lent licensed ams belonging to his family to accused Ramlalak (A-1), Devmani (A-2) and Ramchandra (A-3).

3. The accused were charged under sections 27 and 28 of the Arms Act, 120-B,302/109,147,148, 307/149 and 302/149 IPC.

4. Accused alleged that the trees were sown by father of Devmani (A-2) i.e, Gaya Prasad and they have been falsely implicated. No defence evidence was led.

5. The trial court after analysing the evidence finding ocular evidence compatible with the medical while convicting the appellants as above acquitted accused Ram Narayan, Ravindra, Umashankar and Master Badri Vishal for the role of conspiracy.

6. During pendency of appeal, A-6/ Rammilan died, his appeal has already been abated.

7. Heard Sri G.S. Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Prashant Vyas, for the appellants, Sri Ran Vijai Chaubey and Sri Raj Bahadur, learned counsel for the informant and Sri A.N. Mulla, the learned A.G.A.

8. The Learned Senior Counsel for the appellants argued that conviction of A-4 and A-5 i,e, Bajrangi and Indramani under section 302/149 IPC is not sustainable as the said appellants were not likely to know that A-1, A-2 and A-3 would also commit the murder of Ramdas as the common object of all the appellants was to harm P.W-1 only with whom an altercation had taken place in the morning. He thus submits that the death of Ramdas was not a part of common object of A-4 and A-5. He placed reliance on Maiyadin and others vs. State 1973 (43) A.W.R 266.

9. The learned A.G.A, and the learned counsel for the informant opposed the submission on the ground that once an unlawful assembly is formed which is also armed with lethal weapons, then each and every member of such an assembly would be vicariously liable for the acts committed by any of the members. He further submitted that the common object of the unlawful assembly was not only to harm P.W-1 but also any other person who posed a threat for the appellants to enjoy the fruits of the trees including the deceased who is alleged to have sown the trees.

10. We before adverting to the evidence deem appropriate to discuss in brief the provisions relating to offences committed by an unlawful assembly.

11. Section 141 IPC provides that an assembly of 5 or more persons is considered an "unlawful assembly" if the common object of the persons comprising the assembly is one of the acts mentioned therein. Section 142 IPC provides that if a person intentionally joins the unlawful assembly, then he is said to be a member of such assembly.

12. Section 149 IPC can be split for convenience into 3 parts:-

(I) If an offence is committed by any member of an unlawful assembly in prosecution of the common object of that assembly, or

(II) such as the members of that assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of that object,

(III) every person who, at the time of the committing of that offence, is a member of the same assembly, is guilty of that offence.

13. The first part would make every members of an unlawful assembly liable if an offence is committed in prosecution of common object i.e, each member of the unlawful assembly is aware of the common object and the offence committed must be connected immediately with the common object of the unlawful assembly. For example if 5 or more persons constituting an unlawful assembly of which the common object is to assault a particular person then all such members would be vicariously responsible for the acts committed by any of them in assaulting that particular person.

14. The second part makes the members of an unlawful assembly liable vicariously only if the members of the unlawful assembly have the knowledge that an offence is likely to be committed in the prosecution of the common object. Conversely, if the act complained of is absolutely distinct having no nexus with the common object those members cannot be made vicariously liable who have not committed any overt act as in such an eventuality the members who commit such overt act which is not likely to be committed in prosecution of common object, would be individually responsible for their acts.

15. Third part makes each person vicariously liable for the offence committed, who was the member of the unlawful assembly at the time of committing the offence, whether such member individually committed the offence or not, is of no consequence.

16. The scope of Section 149 IPC has been explained in the leading judgement of the Apex Court in Mizaji vs. State of U.P A.I.R 1959 AIR (SC), 572. Para-6 thereof is extracted hereunder:-

6. This section has been the subject matter of interpretation in the various High Court of India, but every case has to be decided on its own facts. The first part of the section means that the offence committed in prosecution of the common object must be one which is committed with a view to accomplish the common object. It is not necessary that there should be a preconcert in the sense of a meeting of the members of the unlawful assembly as to the common object; it is enough if it is adopted by all the members and is shared by all of them. In order that the case may fall under the first part the offence committed must be connected immediately with the common object of the unlawful assembly of which the accused were members. Even if the offence committed is not in direct prosecution of the common object of the assembly, it may yet fall under section 149 if it can be held that the offence was such as the members knew was likely to be committed. The expression 'know' does not mean a mere possibility, such as might or might not happen. For instance, it is a matter of common knowledge that when in a village a body of heavily armed men set out to take a woman by force, someone is likely to be killed and all the members of the unlawful assembly must be aware of that likelihood and would be guilty under the second part of section 149. Similarly, if a body of persons go armed to take forcible possession of the land, it would be equally right to say that they have the knowledge that murder is likely to be committed if the circumstances as to the weapons carried and other conduct of the members of the unlawful assembly clearly point to such knowledge on the part of them all. There is a great deal to be said for the opinion of Couch, C.J., in Sabid Ali's case (1873) 20 W.R. 5, that when an offence is committed in prosecution of the common object, it would generally be an offence which the members of the unlawful assembly knew was likely to be committed in prosecution of the common object. That, however, does not make the converse proposition true; there may be cases which would come within the second part, but not within the first. The distinction between the two parts of section 149, Indian Penal Code cannot be ignored or obliterated. In every case it would be an issue to be determined whether the offence committed falls within the first part of section 149 as explained above or it was an offence such as the members of the assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of the common object and falls within the second part.

17. We in the light of above legal position proceed to examine as to whether in the light of the evidence, the prosecution has been able to establish the guilt of A- 4 and A-5 under the second part of Section 149 IPC?

18. The informants and the accused are members of the same family. There is animosity between the two over fruit bearing trees. A-1 to A-3 were armed with guns Bajrangi (A-4) with Ballam, Indramani (A-5) and Rammilan/(A-6) (since deceased) armed with lathis. P.W.1 alleged that the fruit bearing trees had been sown by his uncle/Ramdas (deceased), while appellant Ramlalak exhorted other accused not to spare P.W-1. Ramdas (deceased) alongwith Dwarika and Ayodhya were present in the near vicinity of P.W-1. While appellants were assaulting P.W-1, deceased alongwith Dwarka and Ayodhya sought to intervene, so as to dissuade the appellants. All the appellants exhorted that interveners stay away. A-1 to A-3 fired at Ramdas (deceased) and Dwarka while P.W-2 was being assaulted by Bajrangi with a ballam (pointed weapon).

19. Once all the appellants are armed with lethal weapons, the common object as sought to be bifurcated by learned senior counsel for appellants only qua P.W-1 cannot be sustained as the deceased had sown the seeds of the fruit bearing trees, which were being plucked in the earlier part of the day by P.W-1 (nephew of the deceased), to which all the 4 accused had taken an offence. The deceased was not a rank outsider who can be said to have no interest in the dispute between P.W-1 and the appellants. P.W-1 is a close blood relative of the deceased, was being attacked with lethal weapons. It was but natural for the deceased (Ram Das) alongwith Dwarka and Ayodhya (family members of P.W-1) to make an attempt to rescue P.W-1. The appellants instead of acceding to the request of the deceased, attacked not only Ramdas (deceased) but also persons accompanying him i.e, Dwarika and Ayodhya. The object of the appellants cannot be bifurcated qua P.W-1 and the deceased. Thus in view of above A-4 and A-5 cannot feign ignorance that they had no knowledge that such assault was likely to be made on Ramdas in prosecution of the common object.

20. We have perused the judgment of Maiyadeen (supra) and are of the view that the said decision would not come to the rescue of appellants as in the said case Maiyadeen (injured) and Babulal-deceased were cutting their crops. The evidence indicated that the said appellants' grievance was against Khushali as the latter was cutting the crops at the fields at which there was dispute between them. The said appellants chased Khushali. While the chase was on Maiyadeen and Babulal sought to intervene. One of the appellants therein assaulted them as a result of which Babulal died and Maiyadeen got injured. The said appellants never resisted Maiyadeen and Babulal from cutting the crops. On such evidence appellants therein were not convicted with the aid of Section 149 IPC as the common object of the unlawful assembly was to harm Khusali.

21. We find that in so far the role of A-1 to A-3 is concerned, same was undoubtedly established with the evidence of P.W-1 and 2 unequivocally. Learned Senior Counsel for A- 1 to A-3 in all fairness submitted that in view of direct clinching evidence he is not in a position to assail their conviction. We too, independent of his submission find that there was strong previous enmity between both the faction, a day light occurrence supported by testimony of injured witnesses and nothing has been elicited in their cross-examination to doubt their credibility, prosecution has established its case beyond reasonable doubt against all the appellants, the appeal is bereft of merits, liable to be dismissed.

22. The appeal is dismissed. The appellants are on bail. Their bail bonds stand cancelled. They shall be taken into custody forthwith to serve the remainder sentence.

23. Let a copy of this judgement along with records be sent to the learned Sessions Judge, for compliance and intimation to this court within 2 months.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 376 and 506 - Appeal against conviction.

There is no material contradiction or exaggeration or embellishment regarding contention made for commission of offence of rape by accused. (para 15)

In cross-examination, there is no material contradiction in his statement, except of trivial one, which has been asked in hair spiting cross-examination, but learned trial court has rightly appreciated that those minor contradictions bound to occur in such type of hair-splitting cross-examination. There was no material contradiction, rather, they make witness as a natural witness. (para 29)

In the present case, prosecutorix was subjected to rape by her real maternal uncle. She was a minor and crippled girl, suffering with trauma of being nonambulatory, having upper and lower limbs polio affected. The apathy of that Station House Officer, who was posted there at that time. Neither cloths of the victim were taken nor same were got examined in laboratory nor DNA test was got conducted. If these steps would have been taken by the Station House Officer, concerned, in time, it would have been much more helpful, in judicial proceeding and its decision making, but even then, the prosecutorix, in her testimony, and other formal witnesses, discussed above, proved charges leveled against convict-appellant beyond reasonable doubt. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This Criminal Appeal, under Section 374 (2) of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (In short, hereinafter, referred to as "Cr.P.C."), has been filed by the convict-appellant, Mohammad Abrar, against the judgment of conviction and sentence, awarded therein, by the court of Additional Sessions Judge, court no.6, Muzaffar Nagar, in Sessions Trial No.1566 of 2010, arising out of Case Crime No. 64 of 2010, under Sections 376 and 506 of Indian Penal Code (hereinafter, in short, referred to as "IPC') of Police Station-Mirapur, District-Muzaffar Nagar, with a prayer for setting aside impugned judgment of conviction and sentence, awarded therein. Thereby, awarding acquittal, for offences, charged with.

2. Grounds of challenge, taken in the Memo of Appeal, are that the judgment and order of conviction and sentences, awarded therein, was made without appreciating evidence on record, resulting finding perverse. It was based on surmises and conjectures. Medical evidence was not in support of the prosecution case. There was deliberate delay of more than twenty nine days in lodging first information report because the incident was of 12.1.2010 and the report was of the same was lodged on 31.1.2010. This itself creates doubt on the prosecution version and lead it into peril of suspicion. Judgment of conviction and sentence, awarded therein, was against facts, law and evidence and it was a conviction, not in commensurate to the degree of offence. Hence, a prayer for quashing of the impugned judgment and order, dated 7.5.2014, passed by the court of Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Muzaffar Nagar, in Sessions Trial No.1566 of 2010, arising out of Case Crime No. 64 of 2010, under Sections 376 and 506 of IPC of Police Station-Mirapur, District-Muzaffar Nagar, and to acquit the appellant from the charges levelled against him, was made.

3. From very perusal of the impugned judgment and record of Trial court, it is apparent that the first information report, Exhibit Ka-1, was presented before the Senior Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar, on 31.1.2010, whereupon, order of Senior Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar, was passed for getting prosecutorix medically examined and taking appropriate action in the matter, upon which, Case Crime No. Nil of 2010, under Sections 376 and 506 of IPC was got registered, at Mahila Thana, Distrct Muzaffar Nagar. Chik FIR, Exhibit Ka-7, was prepared, with a copy of General Diary Entry of registration of this case crime number, Exhibit Ka-8. Since place of this occurrence was within the jurisdiction of Police Station-Mirapur, hence, this case was remitted to that Police Station-Mirapur, where it was entered as Case Crime No.64 of 2010, for offences, punishable, under Sections 376 and 506 of IPC, by making its entry in General Diary, Exhibit Ka-2 of above Police Station, wherein, investigation was deputed to Sub Inspector, Layak Ram. Prosecutorix was got medically examined on 31.1.2010, at District Hospital, Muzaffar Nagar. Her Medico Legal Report, Exhibit Ka-3, Ossification report regarding her age, Exhibit Ka-4, X-ray, Exhibit Ka-5 were got prepared. Her statement was recorded on 31.10.2010 and spot was got inspected upon pointing of victim-prosecutorix, whereupon, spot map, Exhibit Ka-9, was got prepared. Thenafter, investigation was transferred to Sub Inspector, Mitrapal Sen, who detained accused, Mohammad Abrar on 17.2.2010. His statement was got recorded and after investigation, a conclusion was drawn for commission of offence, as above, punishable, under Section 376 and 506 of IPC. Hence, chargesheet, Exhibit Ka-6, was submitted by the Investigating Officer before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar, upon which cognizance was taken by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar, for offecnes, punishable, under Sections 376 and 506 of IPC. As offence, punishable, under Section 376 of IPC, was triable before the court of Sessions, hence, this file was committed to the court of Sessions, vide order of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar, where, this Sessions Trial was entered in the Register of Sessions Cases. Subsequently, this file was allocated to the court of Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No.1, Muzaffar Nagar, where the Presiding Judge, Shamsher Khan, framed charges in vernacular, English Translation of which, done by the Court, is being reproduced below:

Charge

I, Shamsher Khan, Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track court no.1, do hereby, charge, Abrar, as follows:

Firstly : That on 12.1.2010 at about (time not known) at village Churiyala, Police Station-Mirapur, at a distance of 28 Kilometeres, towards western side of Police Station-Mirapur, in the District of Muzaffar Nagar, you committed rape with daughter (prosecutorix) of informant, who was disabled, against her consent, thereby, committed offence, punishable, under Section 376 of IPC, within cognizance of this Court.

Secondly : That on above date, time and place, you committed rape against wishes of prosecutorix, daughter of informant and extended threat of dire consequences, in case of opening of lips to anyone, thereby committed, offence, punishable, under Section 506 of IPC, within cognizance of this Court.

So, I, hereby direct you for your trial for above offences.

Dated:7.2.2011

(Shamsher Khan)

Additional Sessions Judge/FTC-1

Muzffar Nagar.

Charges were readover and explained to the accused, who pleaded not guilty and requested for trial.

4. Prosecution examined informant, Noor Mohammad, as PW-1, Prosecutorix-victim, as PW-2, Constable, Subhash Chand as PW-3, Dr. Indra Singh, as PW-4, Dr. Anand Swaroop, as PW-5, Mitrapal Sen, as PW-6, Ravita Gupta, as PW-7 and Layak Ram as PW-8.

5. For having explanation, if any, of accused over incriminating materials and evidence furnished by the prosecution and for getting defence version, statement of accused was recorded, under Section 313 of Cr.P.C., wherein, accusation levelled was denied by submitting that it is a false and malicious accusation for which a false first information report was got registered, whereby, false accusation was got made with preparation of false and fictitious documents. Prosecutorix was major at the time of occurrence and the testimony of PW-1 is false and under greed. Testimony of PW-2, prosecutorix, is under influence of her step father, informant. It was a false and fabricated testimony. Statement of Constable-Subash Chand, PW-3, was false, statement of Dr. Subash Chand was also false and medical report was prepared by him was false and fictitious, testimony of Dr. Anand Swaroop and documents prepared by him were false and fictitious. Investigation by Sub Inspector, Mitrapal Sen, was made for false accusation and a false chargesheet was filed. First information report was got registered by Ravita Gupta and her testimony was false and against facts. Sub Inspector, Layak Ram, had made a false accusation and investigation conducted by him was owing to enmity and with false and malicious contention. He has categorically stated that the informant, step father of the prosecutorix, and his mother, who is sister of accused-appellant, took ornaments of the mother of accused-appellant, and thereafter taken loan, after mortgaging ornaments, for construction of their house, with an assurance to return the ornaments at the earliest. On being asked to return the ornaments, they started quarrelling with them, and as such, the ornaments of the mother of was not returned back, rather, this false case was got registered.

6. In defence, Ikramulla, DW-1, and DW-2, Mohd. Abrar, accused-appellant, himself have been examined.

7. Learned Additional Sessions Judge, after hearing arguments of learned Public Prosecutor as well as learned counsel for the defence, passed impugned judgment of conviction, wherein Mohammad Abrar, accused-appellant, has been held guilty for offence, punishable, under Section 376 and 506 of IPC. Both sides were heard on quantum of sentence, thereupon, sentence of 10 years' rigorous imprisonment, with fine of Rs. 20,000/-, in default of deposit of which, two years' imprisonment, and three years' imprisonment, for offence, punishable, under Section 506 (2) of IPC, was awarded, with a direction for concurrent running of sentences, so awarded.

8. Against this judgment of conviction and sentence, this Criminal Appeal, with above prayer, has been preferred by the accused-appellant.

9. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has argued that the prosecutorix is a close relative of accused, Mohammad Abrar. Informant, Noor Mohammad, step father of the prosecutorix, had taken money, by way of taking ornament of mother of the accused for getting it mortgaged, for taking loan from market to construct his house and this construction was made by him, but, even after completion of construction, neither money was returned nor ornaments were returned back. When ornaments were demanded back, this false accusation for offence of rape was lodged, wherein, prosecutorix was a major one. She was disabled girl and was used as a victim by her step father. Testimony of PW-1 and of prosecutorix, PW-2, was in contradiction to each other. Though there were several contradictions on record, but learned Trial Judge failed to appreciate the same and on the basis of surmises and conjectures, passed impugned judgment of conviction, wherein, sentences, awarded were too severe, i.e., not commensurate with the degree of offence. Hence, this Appeal with above prayer.

10. Learned AGA, representing State of U.P., has vehemently opposed arguments of learned counsel for appellant with this contention that the prosecutorix is a close relative of accused-appellant and she, being physically disable, always needs help of some-one. Under belief and trust, accused was given that responsibility for that day of occurrence. Accused-appellant committed this offence of rape with the victim, who was a minor and disabled girl. Offence was very heinous, hence, learned Trial Judge, on the basis of those facts and circumstances, has passed the impugned judgment of conviction and sentences, awarded therein. There is no illegality, irregularity or short-coming in this judgment.

11. Under Section 102 of Evidence Act, initial onus to prove a fact always remains upon plaintiff, i.e., as propounded by the Apex Court in the case of Anil Rishi vs. Gurbuksh Singh, AIR 2006 SC 1971, initial onus to prove a fact is on the person who asserts it. Initial onus is always on the plaintiff to prove his case and if he discharges, then so, onus shifts to defendant. As has been propounded by the Apex Court, in the case of Prem Lata Jain vs. Arihant Kumar Jain, reported in AIR 1973 SC 626, as well as in the case of Babban vs. Shiva Nath, reported in AIR 1986, Allahabad, 185 of this Court, where, both parties have already produced whatever evidence they had, the question of burden of proof ceases to be of any importance, but, while appreciating the question of burden of proof, misplacing the burden of proof on a particular party and recording finding in a particular way will definitely vitiate the judgment. In civil cases, burden of proof on the pleading never shifts, it always remains constant. Initial proving of a case in his favour is cast on plaintiff when he fulfils it, onus shifts over to defendant to adduce rebutting evidence to meet the case made out by the plaintiff, the onus may again shift back to plaintiff, as has been propounded in an age old precedent in the case of Kumbhan Lakshmanna and others vs. Tangirala Venkateswarlu, reported in AIR (36) 1949 PC 278. In the case of Sate of Jammu & Kashmir vs. Hindustan Forest Company, reported in (2006) 12 SCC 198, Apex Court has propounded that the plaintiff cannot obviously take advantage of the weakness of defendant. The plaintiff's case must stand or fall upon evidence, adduced by him. In civil cases, burden of proof is not to prove beyond all reasonable doubt, but even preponderance of probabilities may serve as a good basis for decision, as has been propounded by the Apex Court, in the case of M. Krishnan vs. Vijay Singh and another, reported in 2001, Cr. L.J, 4705. Burden to prove and onus to prove are two different things. Burden to prove lies upon a person, who has to prove the fact and which never shifts. Onus of proof shifts. Such a shifting of onus is a continuous process in the evaluation of evidence as has been propounded by the Apex Court, in the case of A. Raghavamma and another vs. A Chenchamma, AIR 1964 SC 136.

12. In a criminal trial, as has been propounded by the Apex Court, in the case of Kalu Ram vs. State of Himanchal Pradesh, reported in AIR 1976 SC 966, the onus is upon prosecution to prove the different ingredients of the offence and unless it discharges that onus, it cannot succeed. As propounded by the Apex Court, in the case of Pratap vs. State of U.P., AIR 1976 SC 966, prosecution has to prove charge beyond all reasonable doubt and accused has to prove only establishing or existence of preponderance of probabilities for a case, other than proved by the prosecution. In Appeal, burden is always on the appellant to prove how the judgment, under Appeal, is wrong. He must show where the assessment has gone wrong, as has been propounded by the Apex court in the case of Narbada Prasad vs. Chhagan Lal, reported in AIR 1969 SC 393.

13. Hence, in the present Appeal, the prosecution had proved charges levelled against the appellant before the Trial court/learned Sessions Judge, where, judgment of conviction and, thenafter, order of sentence was passed. Now in this Appeal, appellant has to show as to where and on what points, learned Trial Judge had failed to appreciate facts and law placed on record. This Court of Appeal has to appreciate facts and evidences placed on record, under above perspective of law.

14. PW-1, Noor Mohammad, informant, in his statement, on oath, has stated that Nusarat Jahan, victim, who is his daughter, is disabled. Three and half years back, he was residing with his family at Village, Churiayala, within the area of Police Station-Mirapur. He was a patient of tuberculosis and was under treatment at Delhi. Hence, he went to Delhi on 10.1.2010, alongwith his wife, for getting medicines, leaving behind his disabled daughter, prosecutorix, alone at the home, under guardianship of accused, Abrar, who is her maternal uncle. He came back on 13.1.2010. Her daughter was under threat and agony. She had narrated to her mother that she was subjected to rape by accused-Abrar, who is her maternal uncle, in the night of 12.1.2010, at about 4.00 AM. He went at the house of accused-Abrar, where, his parents were present. Matter was complained, but, they abused him. He went to concerned Police Station, but report was not got lodged. Abrar was not traceable. Report was not being registered inspite of repeated visits to Police Station, then, he went to Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar on 31.10.2010, where, an application, under his signature was filed and upon the order of Senior Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar, this case crime number was registered. The same application is on record as paper no. 5Ka, having signature of this witness, in a typed form, and it has been exhibited as Exhibit Ka-1. His daughter, prosecutorix, was medically examined.

15. In his cross-examination, there is no material contradiction or exaggeration or embellishment regarding contention made for commission of offence of rape by accused-Abrar with prosecutorix in the night of 12.1.2010, at about 4.00 AM, while she was left at her home, under the care of accused-Abrar, who is her maternal uncle and the prosecutorix was a minor girl of 17 years of age, whereas, his another daughter was about 18 years of age. Entire cross-examnation was related with facts, which were not material or relevant to this fact said in examination-in-chief, rather, were explanatory, in nature, that he is resident of Ghaziabad and after marriage shifted to this village, Churiyala. His wife was previously married to someone else. Prosecutorix is not daughter from him, rather, he was a step father etc. etc. But, all these facts are not related with above material fact regarding offence, in question. Prosecutorix was said to be disabled by her limbs, but, her mental condition was proper. When he came back from Delhi, prosecutorix was all alone at the home and she was under trauma. When asked for her agony, she narrated that after tying her limbs, she was subjected to rape by her maternal uncle, Abrar. Police personnel visited spot, after report was lodged, in compliance of the order of the Senior Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar. A suggestive question has been put about taking of some ornaments or quarrel regarding it. This was answered in negative. Report was got lodged on 31.1.2010, whereas, occurrence was of night of 12.1.2010. This was because of the fact that the Police Station, concerned, did not register report. Thenafter, repeated visits was made, failing which, he moved an application before the Senior Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar. Thereafter, this report was got lodged.

16. No cross-examination is over this fact of registration of this case crime number by proving it as Exhibit Ka-1, whereas, a Division Bench of this Court, in the case of Kunwar and others vs. State of U.P., reported in 1993 (3) AWC 1305, has propounded fact not examined and a fact admitted in examination-in-chief, under Section 137 of Evidence Act and held that if some fact has been averred in examination-in-chief of testimony of a witness and same is not being cross-examined, truthfulness of unctroverted part of fact shall be accepted.

17. In the present case, it was specifically said by this witness, in his examination-in-chief that he went at Police Station for getting first information report lodged, but inspite of repeated visits, same was not lodged. Then, on 31.1.2010, he went to Senior Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar, where an application, which was in typed form and under his signature, was presented and upon an order over this Application by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar, a report was got lodged and this report is Exhibit Ka-1, on record, but no question in cross-examination, on this portion of examination-in-chief, has been put by learned counsel for defence. Hence, this un-cotroverted part justified that there was no delay in lodging of this report and it was lodged by presenting Exhibit Ka-1 over which there was an order of Senior Superintendent of Police for registration of a report.

18. PW-3 is Constable-Clerk, Subshash Chandra, who, in his testimony, has categorically said, in examination-in-chief, that, while being posted at Police Station-Mirapur, District Muzaffar Nagar, as Constable-Clerk, on 31.1.2010, he had received Chik FIR of Case Crime No. Nil/2010, under Sections 376/506 of I.P.C., against Mohammad Abrar of Police Station Mahila Thana and this was brought by Sub Inspector of Mahila Thana, Muzaffar Nagar, on the basis of which Case Crime Nmber 64 of 2010, under Sections 376 and 506 of I.P.C. was got registered at Police Station-Mirapur. This registration of case crime number was entered in General Diary entry at Report No.34 at 17.30 PM, by way of affixing a carbon beneath it and in one and common process, carbon copy prepared as an original one, by way of pasting carbon copy, beneath it, which is paper no. 7Ka on record and General Diary entry of this registration of case crime number is same one. Compared and verified from original one at the time of recording of evidence. This was proved as Exhibit Ka-2.

19. This witness has been cross-examined, wherein, reiteration of examination-in-chief is there. There is no material contradiction, exaggeration or embellishment. Hence, very contention about registration of case crime number, firstly, at Mahila Thana, Muzaffar Nagar, then, at Police Station, Mirapur, Muzaffar Nagar, has been duly corroborated by this witness and under above facts and circumstances, it was instant first information report.

20. PW-4 is Dr. Indra Singh, Senior Consultant, was posted at Muzaffar Nagar District Women Hospital, on 31.1.2010, on Emergency Duty, where, she had examined prosecutorix, brought by Constable Sudeshna and father of the victim, i.e., Noor Mohammad, at about 2.00 PM. Mark of identification was black mole over left cheek and she was weight of about 30 Kilograms and a disabled girl, crippled to stand by herself, having teeth 14/14, no external mark of injury was there, except her disability. Upon internal examination, hymen was old torn and healed, permitting penetration of one figure, uterus was normal, no mark of injury was there, swab was taken for preparation of slide and examination of it in pathology. Her age determination test was referred. Medico legal report, under hand-writing and signature of this witness, on record, is proved and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-3.

21. In her cross-examination, no question about her answer, at above date, time and place or examination made by her of prosecutorix, as above, has been asked, rather, there is reiteration of the statement, made in examination-in-chief.

22. PW-5 is Dr. Anand Swaroop, who, in his examination-in-chief, has said that while, being posted at District Hospital, Muzaffar Nagar, on 6.2.2010, he got X-ray of Prosecutorix, conducted by X-ray Plate No. 659, made and reported by Senior Radiologist Dr. O.P. Bhargava and on the basis of this X-ray report and plate, she was held to be age of 17 years in ossification report. This report was prepared by him and in his hand-writing and signature and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-4. He was fully aware of hand-writing of Radiologist of Dr. O.P. Bhargava, who was posted with him. Hence, he has proved Exhibit Ka-5, under hand-writing and signature of Dr. O.P. Bhargava. X-ray report, on record as Exhibit -1, which was prepared on the basis of, X-ray Pate No.659 of prosecutorix, has been duly proved by this witness.

23. In cross-examination, he has said that the prosecutorix was brought by the Police Constable, Sri Pal. He had not conducted X-ray examination, rather, it was conducted by Dr. Bhargava and on the basis of X-ray prepared by Dr. Bhrgava, ossification report, about age of the prosecutorix, was made by this witness. The basis of determination of age has been elaborately replied by this witness, where there is no inconsistency.

24. PW-6 is Sub Inspector, Mitrapal Sen, who was the Investigating Officer of this Case Crime Number 64/2010, after it having been transferred from erstwhile Investigating Officer, Layak Ram and he has formally proved his investigation and, thereby, submission of chargesheet, Exhibit Ka-6, under his hand-writing and his signature. In cross-examination, there is no contradiction or exaggeration, rather, there is full reiteration of examination-in-chief.

25. PW-7, Constable, Ravita Gupta, is the Constable-Clerk, who has registered this case crime number at Police Station, Mahila Thana, Distrct Muzaffar Nagar. She, in her examination-in-chief, has said that, while, being posted as Constable-Clerk, at Police Station Mahila Thana, District Muzaffar Nagar, on 31.1.2010, she had registered Case Crime No. Nil/2010, under Sections 376/506 of IPC, on the basis of a typed application of informant/applicant, Noor Mohammad, presented before the Senior Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar, and order by him for its registration. Chik Report, Exhibit Ka-7, is on record and the same is under her handwriting and signature. This registration of case crime number was entered in the General Diary Entry of the Police Station, concerned, at 15.30 PM, at report no.80. Carbon copy of the same prepared, under verification process, is on record, which was annexed with original General Diary Entry, brought before the court at the time of recording of evidence, which is exhibited as Exhibit Ka-8.

26. In cross-examination, she has said that this registration was made in compliance with the order of Senior Superintendent of Police and after registering this case crime number, prosecutorix was sent for medical examination by Sub Inspector, Omwati of Mahila Thana. This report was received at above Police Station. Since this case was of Police Station Mirapur, hence, this entire case was transferred to concerned Police Station, where, it was got registered and investigated.

27. There is no material contradiction of testimony of this witness. It is in corroboration of testimony of PW-1 on the point of registration of case crime number.

28. PW-8 is the erstwhile Investigating Officer, who was the first Investigating Officer, who has stated that, while, being posted as Sub Inspector, at Police Station Mirapur, District-Muzaffar Nagar, he was deputed with investigation of Case Crime No. 64/2010, under Sections 376/504 of IPC, State vs. Mohammad Abrar, on 31.10.2010, and on the basis of Chik FIR, medical reports, G.D. entry, statement of Constable, Subhash Chandra, he recorded statement of informant, Noor Mohammad and the prosecutorix, her mother, Ashida, in case diary. Thenafter, visited spot and prepared spot map, under the pointing of the prosecutorix, same is under hand-writing and signature of this witness and is Paper no. 8K, which has been proved as Exhibit Ka-9. Thenafter, raid was made on 3.2.1010 for arrest of accused, but arrest could not be made. In between, he was transferred from above Police Station.

29. In cross-examination, there is no material contradiction in his statement, except of trivial one, which has been asked in hair spiting cross-examination, but learned Additional Sessions Judge has rightly appreciated that those minor contradictions bound to occur in such type of hair splitting cross-examination. There was no material contradiction, rather, they make witness as a natural witness.

30. Regarding charge for offence of rape, punishable under Section 376 I.P.C., Section 375 of I.P.C. provides: "A man is said to commit "rape" who, except in the case hereinafter excepted, has sexual intercourse with a woman under circumstances falling under any of the six following descriptions:--

(Thirdly) -- With her consent, when her consent has been obtained by putting her or any person in whom she is interested in fear of death or of hurt.

(Fifthly)-- With her consent, when, at the time of giving such consent, by reason of unsoundness of mind or intoxication or the administration by him personally or through another of any stupefying or unwholesome substance, she is unable to understand the nature and consequences of that to which she gives consent.

(Sixthly) -- With or without her consent, when she is under sixteen years of age. Explanation.--Penetration is sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary to the offence of rape.

(Exception) --Sexual intercourse by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under fifteen years of age, is not rape.

31. Section 376 I.P.C. provides for punishment of rape that:-

(1) "Whoever, except in the cases provided for by sub-section (2), commits rape shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may be for life or for a term which may extend to ten years and shall also be liable to fine unless the women raped is his own wife and is not under twelve years of age, in which cases, he shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years or with fine or with both: Provided that the court may, for adequate and special reasons to be mentioned in the judgment, impose a sentence of imprisonment for a term of less than seven years."

32. In the present case, the crucial witness is prosecutorix and she has been examined as PW-2, who, in her examination-in-chief, has categorically said that she was of age of 17 years and a disabled since childhood because of being victim of Polio. Her both, upper and lower limbs were non-ambulatory, hence, she could not walk or even stand, but, she was being taken care of by her parents. She is illiterate. Three and half years to four years back, she was residing with her parents at Village Churiyala, in her house. Her father was suffering with Tuberculosis. He was under treatment at Delhi. He had been at Delhi with her mother. She was left, with a request to her maternal grand mother for her caring during absence of her parents. Her grand maternal mother deputed her maternal uncle, Abrar, for caring of her, during this period of absence of her parents. Abrar assured her father and mother that he will look after prosecutorix till they return back. He was residing at the house of prosecutorix. Those days were of cold. Prosecutorix was all alone at her home and was sleeping at her cot. Her maternal uncle was sleeping over another cot. None else was there. In the night at about 4 AM, while she was asleep, her maternal uncle, Abrar, tied her hands and feet by Scarf (Dupatta), as she was victim of paralysis, she could not perceive it, but when she felt pain in her urinary region, she had awakened. She found her hands and feet are tied and her maternal uncle, Abrar, committed rape with her. She was unable to protest because of her disability and knife put by her maternal uncle, Abrar, over her neck. Her mouth was tied by cloth. Abrar did penetration by his urinal part in her vaginal part. She felt pain, but she could not cry because of mouth being shut by Abrar. She was subjected to rape with a threat to face dire consequences, in case of opening of lips to her parents and her parents will also be killed. There was prayer of Fazir (that is a prayer at 4.00 AM, offered by Muslims to the Almight, Allah). Abrar came out of house, then, prosecutorix robed herself. On the next day, neither, Abrar, attended her nor gave meal to her. She was helpless. On the next day, her parents came back, then, she could have meal and she complained to her mother about this occurrence and trauma. Her father went for getting first information registered at concerned Police Station, but inspite of repeated attempts, report could not be lodged. News was published in the news paper, thenafter, report was got lodged and she was medically examined. In examination-in-chief, each of ingredients, for constituting offences, punishable, under Section 376 of IPC, mentioned as above, has been made out. Offence, punishable, under Section 506 of IPC, has also been constituted by this testimony.

33. The veracity of testimony made by this witness was tested in her cross-examination, wherein, she has reiterated her statement. She has been put in hair splitting cross-examination on many dates by learned counsel for defence and a number of questions, including humiliating questions, too, about marriage of her mother with the informant, she, being step daughter of informant etc. etc. have been asked, but she has categorically replied in examination-in-cross that she was 17 years' of age and on this point there was no variation that she was minor as was held in her medical age determination. Accused, Abrar, is her real maternal uncle. He was deputed for her care, during the period of absence of her parents. He was at her house on that night on which date she was subjected to rape by him. Abrar made penetration by his genital part in her vagina. She was disabled from her childhood, having non-ambulatory upper and lower limbs. She always needed help of some-one for her routine works, which was being assisted by her parents. Her father, too, was under ailment, living in miserable condition. They were having no means of their livelihood and doing work of labourer for getting their two times meals. Suggestive questions were put to her that accused had given jewellery of his wife for keeping as bond for fetching money for construction of house and this money was not returned back because of which this false implication was made. This question may be a relevant question to be put to informant, but this may never be a relevant question to be put before this witness because she herself said to be a minor and may not be aware of those facts, which were said to have been entered into in between accused and the informant, but no such question has been asked cogently to informant, PW-1, and this witness has replied her ignorance about those facts. She could not tell exact date of occurrence, but, she has categorically said that those were days of cold and time was of Fazir Namaz, i.e., very cogent reply. She was subjected to rape by the convict-appellant, under threat of force. Regarding this material allegation, there is no contradiction, exaggeration or embellishment.

34. Delhi High Court by its Division Bench's judgment in the case of Rajinder alias Lala and etc. vs. Stae, reported in 2010 CRL.L.J. 15, has held that it is general handicap attached to all eye witnesses if they fail to speak with precision, their evidence is assailed as vague and evasive, but, on the contrary, if they speak of all the events very well and correctly, their evidence become vulnerable to be attacked as tutored. Both the approaches are dogmatic and fraught with lack of pragmatism. The testimony of a witness should be viewed from broad angles. It should not be weighed in golden scales, but with cogent standard. By and large, a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident. It is not as if a video taps is replayed on the mental screen. Apex Court, in the case of Rajendra Prasad vs. Narcotic Cell, reported in AIR 1999 SC 2292, has propounded that after all, function of the criminal Court is administration of criminal justice and not to count errors committed by the parties or to find out and declare who among the parties performed better.

35. In the present case, prosecutorix was subjected to rape by her real maternal uncle. She was a minor and crippled girl, suffering with trauma of being non-ambulatory, having upper and lower limbs polio affected. Her parents were poor persons and her father, who was looking after her, himself was suffering with, tuberculosis and was at Delhi for getting his medicine and has to arrange someone for taking care of his disabled minor girl. Thus, he requested her maternal grand mother, whom he trusted much more, than any one else, being mother of his wife, to look after this poor and physically disabled gird, who deputed her son, being real maternal uncle of the prosecutorix, for taking care of the prosecutorix, during the absences of his sister and brother-in-law, i.e., parents of the prosecutorix. He assured them for taking all care of the prosecutorix, but in that very fateful night, he, by breaking all relations and trust, reposed upon him by his sister and his brother-in-law, parents of the prosecutorix, as well as, his mother, committed this heinous offence of rape with his real maternal niece (his real sister's daughter), who is also a poor, minor and disabled victim, not able to move herself. She, herself, was a crippled girl and was subjected to rape, resulting her in trauma and mental agony. She was also not offered meal on the next day. When her parents came back, they found this poor girl in a miserable condition and came to know about this heinous offence, committed by the accused. They made a complaint to grand maternal mother, but, she became abusive. Accused, Abrar, was missing. Then, they went at Police Station for getting case lodged, but inspite of repeated attempts and due to apathy shown by the Police, report could not be lodged. Ultimately, he was left with no option, except to approach Senior Superintendent of Police, Muzaffar Nagar. By the grace of God, Senior Superintendent of Police, directed for lodging of the report and under his direction, this case crime number was got registered, firstly, at Mahila Thana, i.e., not at the Police Station, concerned, but, lateron, case was transferred to concerned Police Station, where, investigation was conducted by the concerned Police Station. It shows apathy of that Station House Officer, who was posted there at that time. Neither cloths of the victim were taken nor same were got examined in laboratory nor DNA test was got conducted. If these steps would have been taken by the Station House Officer, concerned, in time, it would have been much more helpful, in judicial proceeding and its decision making, but even then the prosecutorix, in her testimony, and other formal witnesses, discussed above, proved charges levelled against convict-appellant beyond reasonable doubt.

36. Learned Sessions Judge, by his analytic appraisal, analysed entire case, in the correct perspective of law and precedent, and concluded with conviction of convict-appellant for offence of rape, which was well in accordance with evidence on record.

37. Statement of Ikramulla, DW-1 and Abrar, DW-2, was of this fact that ornaments were given to Noor Mohammad and those ornaments were pledged for taking money to construct house. Those ornaments were to be returned back, hence, this false case with false accusation.

38. Even if these facts were being admitted and proved, on record, then, also in view of statement of prosecutorix regarding rape committed with her, testimony of DW-1 and DW-2, may not going to give any reason, which may be of any probability for raising any benefit of doubt against the proved case of prosecution.

ORDER

The sentences awarded by the learned Sessions Judge, as above, are the sentence, given by the Legislature for above offences and this offence of rape, that too, with a minor, physically disabled girl, by real maternal uncle, comes in a category, where, a deterrent punishment is needed, which the learned Sessions Judge has rightly and cogently awarded in the impugned judgment.

39. There is no illegality or disproportion in the quantum of sentence.

40. Accordingly, on the point of sentence, too, Criminal Appeal merits its dismissal, and, thus, it stands dismissed as such.

41. In view of what has been discussed above, Criminal Appeal, being devoid of merits, deserves to be dismissed and, thus, Criminal Appeal stands dismissed in toto.

42. Let a copy of this Judgment, alongwith the Trial Court's record, be sent to the Trial court concerned, by the office within two weeks.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Section 302, read with Section 34, 394, 411 - Appeal against conviction.

Evidentiary value of dying declaration.
The legal position that a Dying Declaration possess great weight and an accused of a crime can very very be held guilty on basis of it only without further corroborations, but at the same time it has to be ensured thatsuch declaration must inspire full confidence of the Court in its correctness. (para 14)

The location of the place of occurrence too is not matching in both the pieces of evidence. True it is, the Dying Declaration was recorded by a Executive Magistrate after obtaining a fitness certificate from a medical practitioner who treated the deceased but the infirmities noticed above makes the Dying Declaration less reliable or to say looses reliability to rest upon the case of the prosecution entirely on that. In view of it, in our considered opinion, the Dying

Declaration in the instant matter deserves to be ignored. (para 15)

The evidence of PW-2 is son of deceased and three other independent witnesses produced by prosecution did not support the prosecution story. The evidence adduced by PW-2 is also in huge contradiction with the facts stated in the Dying Declaration. In entirety of the case, it was necessary to have some corroboration of the evidence adduced by PW-2, son of deceased, which is conspicuously absent. A reasonable doubt thus exists in accepting the prosecution case. (para 17)

1. St. of U.P. Vs. Madan Mohan & ors., AIR 1989 SC 1519

(Delivered by Hon'ble Govind Mathur, C.J.
Hon'ble Vivek Varma, J.)

1. By the judgment impugned dated 9th September, 1983, learned Special Judge/Additional Sessions Judge, Jalaun at Orai, recorded conviction of accused appellants Raghubir Singh, Himmat Singh, Sarnam Singh and Pheran Singh for commission of offence punishable under Section 302, read with Section 34 Indian Penal Code and sentenced them to undergo imprisonment for life term. The accused appellants have also been convicted for an offence punishable under Section 394 IPC and for that they have been sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for ten years with fine of Rs. 1,000/- each and further to undergo six months rigorous imprisonment in default of payment of fine. Accused appellant Pheran Singh has also been convicted for an offence punishable under Section 411 IPC. During the pendency of the appeal, all the accused persons except Sarnam Singh, son of Raghubir Singh, have died and as such appeal has also been abated qua them.

2. The case of the prosecution is that on 15th December, 1980, at about 5.45 pm, Sri Gajendra Singh (PW-2) and his father Nathu Singh (deceased), were returning to their home after visiting Devi Temple situated in outskirts of their village. At a pond, on way, Pheran Singh armed with a knife, Sarnam Singh, Raghubir Singh, Himmat Singh and Makrand Singh armed with lathis along with four other unknown persons came from backside and attacked on Nathu Singh. They also snatched the pistol that was fastened by a belt on the robes of Nathu Singh. On arrival of certain other persons including Ram Das (PW-1), Hakim Singh (PW-3) and Hamir Singh (PW-4), who too were also coming from the temple, the accused persons fled from the spot of occurrence. Consequence to the attack, Nathu Singh received several injuries and, therefore, he was taken to the hospital at a Jalaun. Doctor present at Jalaun hospital provided first aid and also stitched the injuries received by Nathu Singh. Looking to the seriousness, injured was referred for further treatment at Government hospital Orai. Gajendra Singh while leaving Nathu Singh at Orai hospital for treatment went to the police station at Orai to lodge a First Information Report. At his instance, a case was lodged against accused appellants and one Makrand Singh for commission of offence punishable under Section 307, read with Section 149 IPC. At Orai hospital, after obtaining fitness certificate from Dr. D.S. Chauhan (PW-9), the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Orai Sri P.D. Srivastava (PW-12) recorded Dying Declaration (Exhibit Ka-6) of Nathu Singh. Sri Nathu Singh then was referred and moved for further treatment to Government Hospital, Kanpur and while in transit he died. After death of Nathu Singh, investigation was undertaken for commission of offence under Section 302/149 IPC. It would be pertinent to mention that though the FIR was lodged at Police Station Orai but the investigation was transferred to Police Station Madhogarh having territorial jurisdiction for investigation of cases, at the place, where the alleged crime was committed.

3. During the course of investigation accused Pheran Singh was arrested and from him a pistol and certain live cartridges were recovered. As per the prosecution, the pistol was of deceased Nathu Singh that was snatched by the accused appellants while committing the crime. The Investigating Agency after completing the investigation filed a report along with a charge sheet before the competent court. The case being triable by the Court of Sessions was committed to it. The Sessions Court on basis of the material available framed the charges and on denial of the same trial commenced as desired.

4. The prosecution supported its case by citing several documents, including Dying Declaration (Exhibit Ka-6) and by getting ocular evidence of sixteen witnesses recorded. Out of the sixteen witnesses, four witnesses, namely, Ram Das (PW-1), Gajendra Singh (PW-2), Hakim Singh (PW-3) and Hamir Singh (PW-4) were cited as eye witnesses. Dr. R.G. Singh (PW-11) adduced medical evidence as he conducted autopsy on the corpus of the deceased Nathu Singh. Sri Dinesh Chandra Chaturvedi (PW-10) narrated all the steps taken by him during the course of investigation, being the Investigating Officer. Sri P.D. Srivastava (PW-12) affirmed the Dying Declaration (Exhibit Ka-6) and its contents as he recorded the same in the capacity of Sub Divisional Magistrate. The testimony of Dr. D.S. Chauhan (PW-9) was recorded as he granted fitness certificate of Sri Nathu Singh for getting his Dying Declaration recorded. After completing the prosecution evidence, opportunity was extended to the accused appellants for explaining adverse and incriminating circumstances existing against them in prosecution evidence. All the accused termed the entire evidence as false and concocted with an allegation that they have been falsely implicated in the case. No evidence in defence was adduced.

5. It would be appropriate to state that out of the four eye witnesses three, namely, Ram Das (PW-1), Hakim Singh (PW-3) and Hamir Singh (PW-4) did not support prosecution case in any manner and, therefore, they were declared hostile. Sri Gajendra Singh (PW-2) who also happens to be son of deceased Nathu Singh supported the prosecution story.

6. Trial Court after examining the entire evidence available on record while acquitting the accused Makrand Singh from all the charges, held the accused appellants guilty for offences mentioned in para 1 of the judgment and sentenced them accordingly.

7. In appeal, the argument advanced by learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant is that the evidence available on record is not adequate to arrive at a definite conclusion about involvement of the accused appellant Sarnam Singh in the crime and a reasonable doubt exist to accept the prosecution story. According to learned counsel, the Dying Declaration (Exhibit Ka-6) is not a reliable being having serious contradictions with the prosecution case. According to him, the narration of the incident by eye witness Gajendra Singh (PW-1) is in serious conflict with the facts given in Dying

Declaration. In such circumstance, as per learned counsel, the Dying Declaration deserves to be ignored. To substantiate the argument, he has placed reliance upon a judgment of the Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Madan Mohan and others., reported in AIR 1989 SC 1519. The other argument advanced by learned counsel is that even the evidence adduced by the eye witness is not reliable. According to him, lot of contradictions exists in the version of facts narrated by the eye witness. The eye witness is a witness interested being a son of deceased, as such, it was necessary to get his version of facts corroborated by independent witnesses, but in the case in hand, such witnesses have not supported the prosecution story. Hence, the accused appellant-Sarnam Singh deserves to be acquitted from the charges levelled against him.

8. Per contra, Km. Meena, learned Additional Government Advocate submits that the Dying Declaration is an important piece of evidence and that cannot be ignored for minor reasons. According to her, a Dying Declaration in itself is sufficient to record conviction of an accused. In the case in hand, as per learned Additional Government Advocate, the Dying Declaration made by deceased Sri Nathu Singh is very definite and that in quite unambiguous terms mentions for causing knife blows to him by Sarnam Singh. As per the medical evidence available on record, the stab wounds were the cause of death. Hence, the Trial Court rightly recorded the conviction.

9. Heard learned counsels and examined the record and considered the argument advanced.

10. At the threshold, it would be appropriate to state that as per the medical evidence available on record, there is not doubt about the homicidal death of Sri Nathu Singh. The question before us is with regard to culpability of the surviving accused Sarnam Singh. Suffice to state that deceased Nathu Singh had 21 injuries and his cause of death was shock and excessive bleeding due to injuries Nos. 6, 7, 8, 13 and 17. The injuries referred above are as follows:

"6. Punctured wound 2 ½ cm x 1cm x cavity deep, on left side of chest 10 cm above left nipple.

7. Stitched wound 1 cm long in epigastric region.

8. Stitched wound 1 cm long on left side of abdomen 8 cm above and lateral to the umblicus.

13. Stitched wound 2cm long on lateral aspect right side of chest 4 cm above sub coastal margin.

17. Punctured wound 2 cm x ½ cm x cavity deep on lateral aspect of left chest 13 cm below left axilla."

11. All these injuries could have been received by knife. As per the facts stated in the FIR, the knife was with accused Pheran Singh and he caused injuries to Nathu Singh by it. The fact relating to knife blows by Sarnam Singh came before the investigation agency in the Dying Declaration (Exhibit Ka-6). The Dying Declaration "Exhibit Ka-6" is an important piece of evidence in the instant matter and that reads as under:

"Question No. 1 - What is your name and address?

Answer - My name is Natthu Singh s/o Sri Gulab Singh r/o Gohani, Police Station Madhaugarh, District-Jalaun.

Question No. 2 - Where, at what time and by whom the injuries were inflicted on you?

Answer - As I was coming towards the village from my agriculture fields and had reached near Hardev Singh s/o Chhote Singh's house, four persons had emerged out from the shop which used to be run from the room of his house, and had grabbed me on the way itself and had begun to assault me with knives. Sri Pheran Singh s/o Raghuraj Singh and Sarnam Singh s/o Raghuveer Singh were involved in assaulting with the knives while Raghuveer Singh s/o Chatur Singh and Himmat Singh s/o Chatur Singh kept holding me? It was around 7.00 in the evening and the date was 15.12.80. All the injuries suffered by me were knife injuries.

Question No. 3 - Why did they assault you?

Answer - All the accused harbour animosity against me due to the mutual legal battle, as I have emerged victorious in the case at every level.

Question No. 4 - Do you have anything else to state?

Sir,

Immediate action against these people is needed otherwise they will attack other ones as they are history-sheeters. They had injured me with knife and had taken away my licesned pistol also."

The statement was heard, read and verified."

(Authorized translation of the original which is in Devnagari)

12. Before proceeding further, it would also be appropriate to quote the relevant part of the statement given by the eye witness Gajendra Singh (PW-2) and that reads as under:

"On15.12.80 at 5:45pm, it was very bright there. My father and I were returning after devi darshan. When we reached near the pond, which was on the path itself. Accused Feran Singh, Raghuvir Singh, Sarnam Singh, Himmat Singh and Makrand Singh were coming from ahead. Four outsiders were accompanying them whom I do not know. Feran Singh was armed with knife. Rest were armed with lathies. These persons came and surrounded my father. Feran Singh and four outsiders hit him to ground. At that time, Feran Singh started inflicting knife on my father. When I turned back and saw, the witness Hammir Singh, Ramdas, Kripal Singh and Hakim Singh were coming. Then, I raised alarm "Run! these persons are killing my father". When Feran Singh was inflicting knife on my father, rest of the accused persons were exhorting "Come on, kill the bastard, don't leave him alive". When the aforesaid witnesses reached at the scene of occurrence the accused immediately ran with challenge to see later on. On this, the accused escaped northwards. My father had a licensed pistol that he always keeping with him. Feran Singh took it away by cutting the belt with knife. He took it away with cover itself."

13. In absolute contradiction to the facts stated in the Dying Declaration, the eye witness stated that the knife injuries were caused by Pheran Singh. Beside that, in the Dying Declaration, it is stated that Nathu Singh was returning from his house but as per eye witness, he was coming from temple after Devi darshan. As per the Dying Declaration, the incident occurred near the house of Hardev Singh but as per eye witness, incident took place near a pond situated on the way. From perusal of the site plan, it reveals that the incident occurred at the road in front of a pond. On other side of the road, house of Sri Syam Lal is situated. A primary school building is also shown close to the pond but no house of Hardev Singh is there in the site plan. As a matter of fact, no other building except the two mentioned above is situated in close vicinity of the pond and the place where the incident occurred.

14. On minute appreciation of evidence brought on record, it is apparent that the version of facts stated in the Dying Declaration are in enormous conflict with the facts stated by the eye witness and also locations shown in the site plan. With this background, we have measured evidentiary weight of Dying Declaration in the instant matter. We are aware of the legal position that a Dying Declaration possess great weight and an accused of a crime can very very be held guilty on basis of it only without further corroborations, but at the same time it has to be ensured that such declaration must inspire full confidence of the Court in its correctness. It is always required to be kept in mind that the Dying Declaration is accepted with a concept of human behaviour and tendency that a person dying will neither speak lie nor make any effort to implicate an innocent person in the crime. While relying upon a Dying Declaration, Court must be conscious to this fact that the accused would not be having any chance in cross examination. The primary effort of the Court while dealing with the Dying Declaration hence is to find out its truthfulness and to see that it must not suffer from any infirmity. If in a case the prosecution version of facts differs from the version of facts given in Dying Declaration, then such declaration suffers from serious infirmity and that cannot be acted upon.

15. In State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Madan Mohan (supra), the Supreme Court refuse to accept the Dying Declaration which was in contradiction to the narration of facts by eye witness upon whom the prosecution relied. In the instant matter too out of the four eye witnesses sited by the prosecution, three did not support the prosecution story and whatever stated by Gajendra Singh (PW-2) is having huge difference in version of facts mentioned in the Dying Declaration. As per Dying Declaration, knife blows were given by the accused Pheran Singh as well as Sarnam Singh but the eye witness in quite specific terms assigns the role of causing knife blows to Pheran Singh only. The location of the place of occurrence too is not matching in both the pieces of evidence. True it is, the Dying Declaration was recorded by a Executive Magistrate after obtaining a fitness certificate from a medical practitioner who treated the deceased but the infirmities noticed above makes the Dying Declaration less reliable or to say looses reliability to rest upon the case of the prosecution entirely on that. In view of it, in our considered opinion, the Dying Declaration in the instant matter deserves to be ignored.

16. Learned Additional Government Advocate also relied upon the evidence adduced by eye witness Gajendra Singh (PW-2) with assertion that the participation of accused Sarnam Singh is definite and he was certainly sharing common intention with Pheran Singh in killing Nathu Singh, as such, his conviction under Section 302/34 is justified.

17. We do not find much force in this argument too. As already stated, Sri Gajendra Singh (PW-2) is son of deceased Nathu Singh and beside that, three other independent witnesses produced in evidence by prosecution did not support the prosecution story. The evidence adduced by Gajendra Singh is also in huge contradiction with the facts stated in the Dying Declaration. In entirety of the case, it was necessary to have some corroboration of the evidence adduced by Gajendra Singh, son of deceased Nathu Singh, which is conspicuously absent. A reasonable doubt thus exists in accepting the prosecution case.

18. For the reasons given above, this appeal deserves acceptance. Hence is allowed. The conviction recorded and the sentence awarded in the judgment impugned dated 9th September, 1983 passed by learned Special Judge/Additional Sessions Judge, Jalaun at Orai, in Sessions Trial No. 68 of 1981 and Sessions Trial No. 6 of 1983 is set aside. The accused Sarnam Singh is acquitted from all the charges for which he was tried. He has already been released from State custody on furnishing bail bonds and sureties, the same are hereby discharged.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Section 302 - Appeal against conviction.

It is settled that merely because witnesses are close relatives of victim, their testimonies cannot be discarded. Relationship with one of the parties is not a factor that affects credibility of witness, more so, a relative would not conceal actual culprit and make allegation against an innocent person. (para 30)

The witness testimony and the consistency of the prosecution version as a whole. (para 35)

However, minor contradictions, inconsistencies, embellishments or improvements on trivial matters which do not affect the core of the prosecution case, should not be made a ground on which the evidence can be rejected in its entirety. (para 38)

So far as motive is concerned, it is well settled that where direct evidence is worthy, it can be believed, then motive does not carry much weight. (39)

In view of facts and legal position discussed hereinabove, we find that Trial Court has rightly analyzed evidence led by prosecution and found accused guilty and convicted him for having committed murder. (para 48)

Appeal is rejected. (E-2)

1. Present jail appeal has been directed by accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Duhlliya against the judgement and order dated 07.10.2010 passed by Additional District & Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No.1, Mainpuri in Session Trial No.127 of 2007 (State Vs. Anil Kumar @ Dhulliya) under Section 302 IPC, P.S. Kurra, District Mainpuri whereby Trial Court has convicted accused Anil Kumar @ Dhulliya under Section 302 I.P.C. and sentenced him to imprisonment for life with a fine of Rs.50,000/- under Section 302 IPC; and in default of payment of fine, five years additional simple imprisonment.

2. Brief facts of the case emerging in First Information Report (hereinafter referred to as "FIR") is that on the fateful day i.e. 30.01.2003 at about 5:00 PM, accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia came to the house of Informant, PW-1 Ram Das with licensed gun of his maternal uncle Dafedar Singh of village Baghuia, Safai, District Etawah who was also with him. Anil Kumar @ Dhullia asked about Rajuwa son of Informant, whereupon, victim, Informant's wife Smt. Premwati standing nearby, questioned him as to why they wanted to kill his son. She said that Rajuwa is not in the house. Accused Dafedar Singh told that she was talking much and Anil Kumar @ Dhullia opened fire at her with the licensed gun which hit on her chest. As a result of gunshot she fell down on earth and died instantaneously. The incident was witnessed by Shiv Shanker and Jaipal also. Motive of the incident was said to be a quarrel between Informant and accused that took place over the matter of children prior to one year of the incident.

3. PW-1 Ram Das presented a written Tehrir of incident, Ex.Ka-1 in the Police Station Kurra, District Mainpuri. On the basis of written Tehrir Ex.Ka-1, Chick F.I.R., Ex.Ka-12 was registered by PW-5 Constable Ganga Ram as Case Crime No. 19 of 2003, under Section 302 I.P.C. against accused-appellant and one Dafedar Singh (died during trial). Entry of case was made by him in General Diary, copy whereof is Ex.Ka-13.

4. S.I. Jagat Singh (not examined) held inquest over the dead body of Smt. Premwati and prepared inquest report Ex.Ka-8 and other papers relating thereto. Body was sealed

5. PW-3 Dr. P.K. Pathak, conducted autopsy over the dead body of Smt. Premwati on 31.01.2003 and prepared post mortem report Ex.Ka-2, expressing his opinion that death of victim was possible one day before the post mortem due to haemorrhage and coma on account of ante mortem firearm injuries. Doctor found four ante mortem injuries on the person of the deceased which read as under :-

(i) Fire arm wound of entry size 3 cm x 2 cm x chest cavity deep on left upper chest. 8 cm below tip of shoulder.

(ii) Fire arm wound of exit size 1.5 cm x 1 cm x chest cavity deep x communicating to injury no. 1 on right side of chest, 9 cm below axilla in mid axillary line.

(iii) Fire arm wound of entry size 1.5 cm x 1 cm x bone deep on right upper arm lateral aspect, 9 cm above the elbow joint.

(iv) Fire arm wound of exit size 4 cm x 0.7 cm x bone deep & communicating to injury no. 3 inner aspect of right upper arm, 7 cm below axilla.

6. PW-4 S.I. Ram Pratap Singh, undertook investigation of case; recorded statement of Informant PW-1 Ram Das; PW-2 Shiv Shanker and other witnesses; got prepared panchayatnama by S.I. Jagat Singh; recorded statement of inquest witnesses and visited spot; prepared site plan Ex.Ka-3; collected empty cartridge, blood stained and simple earth from spot; prepared memos thereof Ex.Ka-4 and 5 respectively and tried to search accused persons. On 31.01.2003, he arrested accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia in injured position from his own house, recorded his statement and after compelting entire formalities of investigation, submitted charge sheet Ex.Ka-7 against accused persons in the Court of C.J.M. concerned.

7. Case, being exclusively triable by Court of Sessions, was committed by C.J.M. to Sessions Court for trial.

8. Trial Court charged accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhulliya and Dafedar Singh on 11.5.2007 under Section 302/ IPC which reads as under :-

Charge

"I, Neeraj Nigam, Additional Sessions Judge Court No. 6, Mainpuri, hereby charge you :- 1. Anil Kumar @ Dhulliya and 2. Dafeydar Singh as follows :-

That you on 30.01.2003 at about 5 p.m. in the evening infront of the house of Girand Singh in village Mohanpur, Mauja Besak, under police station Kura, district Mainpuri, committed murder of complainant's wife Premwati intentionally and knowingly by firing, and thereby committed an offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. And within the cognizance of this Court.

And I hereby direct that you be tried upon the said charge by this Court."

9. Accused-appellant pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

10. In order to substantiate its case, prosecution examined as many as five witnesses, out of whom PW-1 Ram Das and PW-2 Shiv Shanker are witnesses of fact whereas PW-3 Dr. P.K. Pathak, PW-4 S.I. Ram Pratap Singh and PW-5 Constable Ganga Ram are formal witnesses.

11. Subsequent to closure of prosecution evidence, statement of accused-appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded by Trial Court explaining entire evidence and other incriminating circumstances. In the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., accused-appellant denied prosecution story in toto. Entire prosecution story is said to be wrong and concocted. In response of question no. 7, he answered that victim was shot dead by Ram Das, Raju @ Ratnesh and he has been falsely implicated. Accused-appellant did not chose to lead any evidence in defence.

12. PWs-1 and 2 are the eye witnesses, who supported prosecution case deposing that they saw accused-appellant opening fire on victim Smt. Premwati due to which she fell down and died. PW-3 Dr. P.K. Pathak conducted post mortem and proved post mortem report, PW-4 S.I. Ram Pratap Singh is the Investigating Officer, who undertook investigation, collected empty cartridge, blood stained and simple earth from spot, prepared memos thereof and after completing entire formalities of investigation, submitted charge sheet against the accused. PW-5 Constable Ganga Ram registered chick F.I.R. and prepared G.D.

13. Trial Court, after hearing learned counsel for the parties and appreciating entire evidence oral and documentary, found accused-appellant guilty and convicted and sentenced him as stated above.

14. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with impugned judgement and order of conviction, accused-appellant preferred present appeal through Jail.

15. We have heard Smt. Archana Singh, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for appellant and Sri Ratan Singh, learned A.G.A for State-respondent at length and have gone through the record carefully.

16. Learned counsel for appellant assailing impugned judgement and order of conviction of accused-appellant, advanced his general submissions in following manner in the :-

(i) PW-1 happens to be husband of victim Smt. Premwati and interested witness.

(ii) Presence of PW-2, alleged eye witness, on spot is not natural.

(iii) Medical evidence does not comform with the ocular evidence, hence, accused-appellant is entitled to benefit of doubt.

(iv) There are major contradiction and omission in the statement of prosecution witnesses rendering prosecution case doubtful.

(v) There is no motive to accused to commit murder of Smt. Premwati because there was no enmity between accused and victim.

(vi) Entire witnesses of prosecution have not been produced in evidence from the side of prosecution, hence presumption under Section 114 (g) Indian Evidence Act goes against it.

(vii) Trial Court has not appreciated the prosecution evidence in right perspective. Prosecution could not succeed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and Trial Court erred in passing the impugned judgement.

17. Learned AGA vehemently opposed the arguments advanced by learned counsel for appellant and submitted that accused-appellant is named in F.I.R. He has sufficient motive to commit murder of victim. PW-2 is neighbour and his presence on spot at the time of incident is quite natural. There was no reason or occasion to PW-2 to give false evidence against accused. Accused-appellant put a different story that victim was murdered by Informant and his son but he gave no evidence in this regard. Prosecution succeeded to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and Trial Court rightly convicted the accused-appellant.

18. Although, time, date, place of incident and murder of victim Smt. Premwati could not be denied from the side of defence but according to his Advocate, accused-appellant is not responsible to commit murder of Smt. Premwati. Even otherwise, from the evidence of PW-1, 2, 3 and 4, time, date and place of incident and murder of victim Smt. Premwati stand established.

19. Thus, only question remains for consideration of this Court is, "whether accused-appellant caused death of Smt. Premwati by fire arm injury and Trial Court has rightly convicted him?"

20. Now we may proceed to consider rival submissions of learned counsel for parties and evidence of prosecution as well as some important decisions.

21. PW-1 Ram Das deposed that his wife Smt. Premwati was murdered on 30.01.2003 at about 5:00 PM. At the time of incident, he was standing in front of a house towards north near the temple. His wife, victim Smt. Premwati, and his daughters-in-law were also standing there at that time. Accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia having licensed gun of his maternal uncle Dafedar Singh and his maternal uncle (other accused) - Dafedar Singh came there abused and asked about his (Informant's) son Rajuwa, saying that they would eliminate him, whereupon victim inquired, what his son had done to them that they would eliminate him. On the provocation of co-accused Dafedar Singh, accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia opened fire with the gun putting the same on the left side of chest of victim, due to which she fell down on earth and died. Incident was witnessed by PW-2 Shiv Shanker and Jaipal and his daughters-in-law also. He further deposed that there was a dispute between accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia and his son Ratnesh @ Raju one year prior to incident and since then accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia bore internal grudge with the family of Informant and for that reason, he murdered the victim. The witness proved written report as Ex.Ka-1.

22. PW-2 Shiv Shanker deposed that on 30.1.2003 at about 5:00 PM, he was standing on the Chabutara of his house and saw that accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia having single barrel licensed gun of his maternal uncle Dafedar in his hand, came there along with his said maternal uncle. Both accused persons started abusing PW-1 Ram Das and his son. Victim, Smt. Premwati, was also standing near Ram Das. Both accused persons asked where Rajuwa son of Informant was and they would eliminate him. There-upon victim Smt. Premwati asked them what her son had done and why they wanted to kill him and that he was not in the house. On this, accused-appellant got annoyed and on the provocation made by Dafedar Singh, accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia opened fire on victim (wife of PW-1) with gun as a result of which victim fell down and died on spot. Accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia ran away towards his house firing in air.

23. Both witnesses PWs-1 and 2 have withstood lengthy cross-examination but nothing material could be extracted in cross-examination so as to disbelieve their testimony. Certainly some minor contradictions occurred but they are not of such nature which may affect the root of prosecution story or render prosecution case doubtful.

24. PW-1 Ram Das is husband of victim and eye witness of case. Incident took place at about 5:00 PM on 30.01.2003 at the door of Informant where PW-1 and victim were standing. PW-2 is neighbour and he was also standing on Chabutara of his house at the time of incident. Presence of both the witnesses appears natural at the time of incident. PW-2 is independent eye witness. Accused-appellant suggested nothing as to why PW-2 deposed against him. Only suggestion was put before the witness from the side of accused that he was deposing falsely against him due to meeting with Ram Das and this suggestion was denied by the witness.

25. PW-4 S.I. Ram Pratap Singh recovered empty cartridge from the spot. Thus, from the evidence of PWs-1, 2 and 4, it is established that accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia, on the provocation made by other co-accused Dafedar Singh (Now dead), opened fire on the victim which hit in her chest due to which she fell down and died on spot.

26. So far as other argument of learned counsel for the accused-appellant is that PW-1 is not an eye witness and being husband of victim, he is interested, is concerned, we are not convinced with the same for the reason that argument is totally and thoroughly misconceived. It is well-settled preposition of law that evidence of interested witness cannot be out rightly discarded on the ground that he is an interested witness. Mere relationship is not sufficient to discard otherwise trustworthy ocular testimony.

27. In Dalip Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR,1953, SC 364. Court held as under :-

"A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause' for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalisation. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts."

28. In Dharnidhar v. State of UP (2010) 7 SCC 759, Court has observed as follows :-

"There is no hard and fast rule that family members can never be true witnesses to the occurrence and that they will always depose falsely before the Court. It will always depend upon the facts and circumstances of a given case. In the case of Jayabalan v. U.T. of Pondicherry (2010) 1 SCC 199, this Court had occasion to consider whether the evidence of interested witnesses can be relied upon. The Court took the view that a pedantic approach cannot be applied while dealing with the evidence of an interested witness. Such evidence cannot be ignored or thrown out solely because it comes from a person closely related to the victim"

29. In Ganga Bhawani v. Rayapati Venkat Reddy and Others, 2013(15) SCC 298, Court has held as under :-

"11. It is a settled legal proposition that the evidence of closely related witnesses is required to be carefully scrutinised and appreciated before any conclusion is made to rest upon it, regarding the convict/accused in a given case. Thus, the evidence cannot be disbelieved merely on the ground that the witnesses are related to each other or to the deceased. In case the evidence has a ring of truth to it, is cogent, credible and trustworthy, it can, and certainly should, be relied upon.

(Vide: Bhagalool Lodh & Anr. v. State of UP, AIR 2011 SC 2292; and Dhari & Ors. v. State of U. P., AIR 2013 SC 308)."

30. It is settled that merely because witnesses are close relatives of victim, their testimonies cannot be discarded. Relationship with one of the parties is not a factor that affects credibility of witness, more so, a relative would not conceal actual culprit and make allegation against an innocent person. However, in such a case Court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse the evidence to find out that whether it is cogent and credible evidence.

31. Next argument of learned counsel for the accused-appellant is that medical evidence is not compatible with the oral version and accused-appellant is entitled to benefit of doubt.

32. We have scrutinised oral evidence and medical evidence in this regard. PWs-1 and 2 are eye witnesses of incident, who supported prosecution case stating that they saw accused-appellant opening fire on victim who sustained serious fire arm injuries due to which she fell down and died on spot. There is no contradictions in the statement of PWs-1 and 2 which may dent their ocular version. A part from this, PW-3, conducted post mortem of victim and deposed that he found four ante-mortem fire arm injuries on the person of deceased, expressing his opinion that death was possible one day prior to the post mortem due to haemorrhage and coma on account of ante-mortem fire arm injuries. Thus, medical report is compatible with ocular version and we are not impressed with the argument advanced by learned counsel for the accused-appellant and reject the same.

33. In so far as discrepancies, variations and contradictions in prosecution case are concerned, we have analysed entire evidence in consonance with submissions raised by learned counsel's and find that the same do not go to the root of case and accused-appellant are not entitled to benefit of the same.

34. In Sampath Kumar v. Inspector of Police, Krishnagiri, (2012) 4 SCC 124, Court has held that minor contradictions are bound to appear in the statements of truthful witnesses as memory sometimes plays false and sense of observation differs from person to person.

35. In Sachin Kumar Singhraha v. State of Madhya Pradesh in Criminal Appeal Nos. 473-474 of 2019 decided on 12.3.2019, Supreme Court has observed that Court will have to evaluate evidence before it keeping in mind the rustic nature of depositions of the villagers, who may not depose about exact geographical locations with mathematical precision. Discrepancies of this nature which do not go to the root of the matter do not obliterate otherwise acceptable evidence. It need not be stated that it is by now well settled that minor variations should not be taken into consideration while assessing the reliability of witness testimony and the consistency of the prosecution version as a whole.

36. We lest not forget that no prosecution case is foolproof and the same is bound to suffer from some lacuna or the other. It is only when such lacunae are on material aspects going to the root of the matter, it may have bearing on the outcome of the case, else such shortcomings are to be ignored. Reference may be made to a recent decision in Criminal Appeal No. 56 of 2018, Smt. Shamim v. State of (NCT of Delhi), decided on 19.09.2018.

37. When such incident takes place, one cannot expect a scripted version from witnesses to show as to what actually happened and in what manner it had happened. Such minor details normally are neither noticed nor remembered by people since they are in fury of incident and apprehensive of what may happen in future. A witness is not expected to recreate a scene as if it was shot after with a scripted version but what material thing has happened that is only noticed or remembered by people and that is stated in evidence. Court has to see whether in broad narration given by witnesses, if there is any material contradiction so as to render evidence so self contradictory as to make it untrustworthy. Minor variation or such omissions which do not otherwise affect trustworthiness of evidence, which is broadly consistent in statement of witnesses, is of no legal consequence and cannot defeat prosecution.

38. In all criminal cases, normal discrepancies are bound to occur in the depositions of witnesses due to normal errors of observations, namely, errors of memory due to lapse of time or due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of occurrence. Where the omissions amount to a contradiction, creating a serious doubt about truthfulness of the witness and other witnesses also make material improvement while deposing in the court, such evidence cannot be safe to rely upon. However, minor contradictions, inconsistencies, embellishments or improvements on trivial matters which do not affect the core of the prosecution case, should not be made a ground on which the evidence can be rejected in its entirety. Court has to form its opinion about the credibility of witness and record a finding, whether his deposition inspires confidence. Exaggerations per se do not render the evidence brittle, but can be one of the factors to test credibility of the prosecution version, when entire evidence is put in a crucible for being tested on the touchstone of credibility. Therefore, mere marginal variations in the statement of witnesses cannot be dubbed as improvements as the same may be elaborations of the statements made by the witnesses earlier. Only such omissions which amount to contradictions in material particulars i.e. go to the root of the case/materially affect the trial or core of the prosecution's case, render the testimony of the witness liable to be discredited. [Vide: State Represented by Inspector of Police v. Saravanan & Anr., AIR 2009 SC 152; Arumugam v. State, AIR 2009 SC 331; Mahendra Pratap Singh v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2009) 11 SCC 334; and Dr. Sunil Kumar Sambhudayal Gupta & Ors. v. State of Maharashtra, JT 2010 (12) SC 287].

39. So far as motive is concerned, it is well settled that where direct evidence is worthy, it can be believed, then motive does not carry much weight. It is also notable that mind set of accused persons differs from each other. Thus merely because that there was no strong motive to commit the present offence, prosecution case cannot be disbelieved.

40. In Lokesh Shivakumar v. State of Karnataka, (2012) 3 SCC 196, Court has held as under :-

"As regards motive, it is well established that if the prosecution case is fully established by reliable ocular evidence coupled with medical evidence, the issue of motive looses practically all relevance. In this case, we find the ocular evidence led in support of the prosecution case wholly reliable and see no reason to discard it."

41. So far as non-examination of witnesses is concerned, in view of Section 134 of Indian Evidence Act,1872 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act,1872'), we do not find any substance in the submission of learned counsel for the appellant.

42. Law is well-settled that as a general rule, Court can and may act on the testimony of a single witness provided he/she is wholly reliable. There is no legal impediment in convicting a person on the sole testimony of a single witness. That is the logic of Section 134 of Act, 1872, but if there are doubts about the testimony, Court will insist on corroboration. In fact, it is not the numbers, the quantity, but the quality that is material. Time-honoured principle is that evidence has to be weighed and not counted. Test is whether evidence has a ring of truth, cogent, credible and trustworthy or otherwise.

43. In Namdeo v. State of Maharashtra (2007) 14 SCC 150, Court re-iterated the view observing that it is the quality and not the quantity of evidence which is necessary for proving or disproving a fact. The legal system has laid emphasis on value, weight and quality of evidence rather than on quantity, multiplicity or plurality of witnesses. It is, therefore, open to a competent court to fully and completely rely on a solitary witness and record conviction. Conversely, it may acquit the accused inspite of testimony of several witnesses if it is not satisfied about the quality of evidence.

44. In Kunju @ Balachandran vs. State of Tamil Nadu, AIR 2008 SC 1381 a similar view has been taken placing reliance on earlier judgments including Jagdish Prasad vs. State of M.P., AIR 1994 SC 1251; and Vadivelu Thevar vs. State of Madras, AIR 1957 SC 614.

45. In Yakub Ismailbhai Patel Vs. State of Gunjrat reported in (2004) 12 SCC 229, Court held that :-

"The legal position in respect of the testimony of a solitay eyewitness is well settled in a catena of judgments inasmuch as this Court has always reminded that in order to pass conviction upon it, such a testimony must be of a nature which inspires the confidence of the Court. While looking into such evidence this Court has always advocated the Rule of Caution and such corroboration from other evidence and even in the absence of corroboration if testimony of such single eye-witness inspires confidence then conviction can be based solely upon it."

46. In State of Haryana v. Inder Singh and Ors. reported in (2002) 9 SCC 537, Court held that it is not the quantity but the quality of the witnesses which matters for determining the guilt or innocence of the accused. The testimony of a sole witness must be confidence-inspiring and beyond suspicion, thus, leaving no doubt in the mind of the Court. entirety, we have no hesitation to state that accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia committed murder of victim Smt. Premwati by opening fire on her chest with licensee gun.

47. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, evidence of prosecution in entirety, we have no hesitation to state that accused-appellant Anil Kumar @ Dhullia commited murder of victim Smt. Premwati by opening fire on her chest with lecensee gun.

48. In view of facts and legal position discussed hereinabove, we find that Trial Court has rightly analyzed evidence led by prosecution and found accused guilty and convicted him for having committed murder of Smt. Premwati, an offence punishable under Section 302 IPC. Conviction and sentence awarded by Trial Court is liable to be maintained and confirmed. No interference is warranted by this Court. Jail appeal lacks merit and liable to be dismissed.

49. So far as sentencing of accused-appellant is concerned, it is always a difficult task requiring balance of various considerations. The question of awarding sentence is a matter of discretion to be exercised on consideration of circumstances aggravating and mitigating in individual cases.

50. It is settled legal position that appropriate sentence should be awarded after giving due consideration to the facts and circumstances of each case, nature of offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. It is obligation upon court to constantly remind itself that right of victim, and be it said, on certain occasions or person aggrieved as well as society at large can be victims, never be marginalised. The measure of punishment should be proportionate to gravity of offence. Object of sentencing should be to protect society and to deter the criminal in achieving avowed object of law. Further, it is expected that courts would operate the sentencing system so as to impose such sentence which reflects conscience of society and sentencing process has to be stern where it should be. The Court will be failing in its duty if appropriate punishment is not awarded for a crime which has been committed not only against individual victim but also against society to which criminal and victim belong. Punishment to be awarded for a crime must not be irrelevant but it should conform to and be consistent with the atrocity and brutality which the crime has been perpetrated, enormity of crime warranting public abhorrence and it should 'respond to the society's cry for justice against the criminal'. [Vide: Sumer Singh vs. Surajbhan Singh and others, (2014) 7 SCC 323, Sham Sunder vs. Puran, (1990) 4 SCC 731, M.P. v. Saleem, (2005) 5 SCC 554, Ravji v. State of Rajasthan, (1996) 2 SCC 175].

51. Hence, applying the principles laid down in the aforesaid judgments and having regard to the totality of facts and circumstances of case, nature of offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed, we find that punishment awarded to accused-appellant by Trial Court in impugned judgment and order is not excessive and it appears fit and proper and no question arises to interfere in the matter on the point of punishment imposed upon him.

52. In view of above discussion, the appeal lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed. Impugned judgement and order dated 07.10.2010, is maintained and confirmed.

53. Lower Court record along with a copy of this judgment be sent back immediately to District Court and Jail concerned for compliance and apprising the accused-appellant.

54. Before parting, we provide that Smt. Archana Singh, Advocate, who assisted as Amicus Curiae, appearing for appellant in present Jail Appeal, shall be paid counsel's fee as Rs. 11,500/- for her valuable assistance. State Government is directed to ensure payment of aforesaid fee through Additional Legal Remembrancer, posted in the office of Advocate General at Allahabad, without any delay and, in any case, within one month from the date of receipt of copy of this judgment.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION

BEFORE THE HON'BLE SIDDHARTH, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2642 of 2009

Lutawan ...Appellant (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri S.K. Pandey, Sri Gaurav Kumar Shukla, Sri Mirza Ali Zulfiquar

Counsel for the Opposite Party:

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code-Section 304-I/34 -S.C./S.T. Act, 1989 - Section 3(2)(V) - Appeal against conviction.

Sections 304-I, 304-II, 299, 300, 302 & 34 I.P.C. are discussed.

All the witnesses of fact have clearly stated before the court below that the appellant exhorted his son and he caused the fatal blow by sariya on the head of the deceased. (para 18)

The leading feature of Section 34 I.P.C. is participation in action. It has to be established that participation was not merely in planning but also in doing the individual offender must have participated in the offence. His participation may be slight, but it should be there. (para 18)

In the present case there was meeting of minds of the appellant with his son in causing the injury to the deceased. (para 18)

There was certainly active participation of the appellant in exhorting his son which resulted into the death of the deceased on account of blow made by his son. (para 18)

Consideration of the fact situation and also time lag in between, the court is of the view that sentence of imprisonment of revisionist for offence under section 304-II/34 I.P.C. is reduced to the period already undergone to meet the ends of justice. (para 39)

Criminal Appeal partly allowed. (E-2)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddharth, J.)

1. Heard Sri Gaurav Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Nishant Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the lower court record.

2. This criminal appeal is directed against the judgment and order of conviction dated 25.04.2009 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, No. 3, Basti in Special Sessions Trial No. 12 of 1995, whereby appellant has been convicted and sentenced for committing offence under Section 304-I/34 I.P.C. for a period of 10 year rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- and under Section 3(2)(V) of S.C./S.T. Act for a period of 10 years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 20,000/- along with default clauses.

3. The prosecution case is that the first informant, Dhobi, gave an application dated 24.04.1995 before Kotwali, Khalilabad stating that his wheat crop was harvested and kept; that its thrashing was required and he went to the machine of appellant, Lutawan, with 4-5 bundles of wheat on 23.04.1995 at about 10:00 p.m along with his father and brother, Pramod; that appellant and his son, Tara Lal Nishad, stated that first you pay the cost of thrashing of wheat and only then they will do the same; that first informant stated that he will pay the cost and asked them to do his work; that appellant got annoyed and after abusing the informant and others accompanying him, exhorted his son, Tara Lal Nishad, who caused injury by sariya (rod) on his brother, Pramod, and he got injured; that informant took Pramod to Medical College, Gorakhpur, for treatment and he died in the Medical College, Gorakhpur; that after post-mortem of the deceased he went to the police station and lodged the report at 24.04.1995 at 20:30 hours; that the aforesaid F.I.R. was registered as Case Crime No. 140 of 1995, under Section 304 I.P.C. and Section 3(2)(V) of S.C./S.T. Act.

4. Co-accused, Tara Lal Nishad, was declared juvenile during the trial and he was sent for trial before the Juvenile Justice Board. The appellant was tried by the Sessions Court.

5. The appellant was charged for offences under Section 304-I/34 I.P.C. and Section 3(2)(V) of S.C./S.T. Act to which the appellant denied and sought trial.

6. Before the trial court the first informant was examined as P.W.-1; Ram Pyare, father of the deceased, was examined as P.W.-2; Sri Ram, eye-witness was examined as P.W.-3; Vinay Krishna Biswas, the doctor, who first treated the injured proved that he first attended the injured and stitched his wound; that P.W.5, the Dr. Prakash Chandra, was examined as P.W.-5, and he proved that on 24.04.1995, he conducted medical examination of the deceased at 06:50 a.m; P.W.-6, Dr. A.K. Srivastava, who conducted the post-mortem of the deceased, proved the ante-mortem injury of the deceased. He found stitched wound of 10 cm on left parietal bone of the deceased and found his parietal bone fractured. Another wound of 3 cm x 2 cm was found on left cheek of the deceased. He found blood clot in the brain membrane of the deceased. He testified that the death of the deceased took place due to shock and hemorrhage and he stated that such an injury can be caused by falling on a hard object, collision or assault; P.W.-7, Vijay Bahadur Mall, the scribe of F.I.R., was examined and he proved the F.I.R. lodged by the informant; that the Investigating Officer, Ram Krishna, was examined as P.W.-8, who proved the investigation record and charge sheet submitted before the court.

7. The statement of the accused-appellant was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. who stated that he was not present at the scene of occurrence, when the incident took place and he has no knowledge about the same; that he admitted that he accompanied the deceased, Pramod, to the doctor and the injury was caused by the handle of the machine; that he denied the other allegations and stated that the statements of the witnesses against him are false; that he further stated that only to get compensation from the government false case has been lodged against him by the informant.

8. D.W.-1, Ram Bhajan, stated that on the date of incident the informant and others came with their wheat crop on the machine of the appellant and he informed them that appellant has gone to take his dinner; that despite his instructions to the contrary, Pramod, started the machine and the handle of the engine got struck in the machine; that as a result of the shock from the machine Pramod could not maintain his balance and fell down and suffered head injury; that on hearing the noise the appellant came and took Pramod to the doctor along with his family members; that in his cross-examination he admitted that he used to work as labour on daily wages on the machine of the appellant but he denied any influence of the appellant on his statement.

9. The witnesses of fact, P.W.-1, P.W.-2 and P.W.-3, have proved the prosecution case to the hilt. This court has gone through their evidence and has found that there is nothing in their statements which may suggest that the witnesses have not deposed truly before the trial court. The findings recorded by the trial court regarding consideration of their evidence does not suffers from any error. The trial court has also considered the statements of the other witnesses correctly and has arrived at correct conclusion of the guilt of the appellant. It has found that the delay in the F.I.R. has been properly explained by the prosecution. Cogent findings have been recorded regarding the arguments raised on behalf of the appellant before the court below, like non-recovery of rod allegedly used for causing injury to the deceased, non-examination of the eye-witnesses shown in the FIR, absence of appellant from the scene of occurrence as stated by D.W.-1, non-production of original injury report, etc. The trial court has found that the prosecution has succeeded in proving its case against the appellant beyond all reasonable doubt and has convicted and sentenced the appellant.

10. Counsel for the appellant has submitted that the appellant has not been assigned any role of causing any injury to the deceased and he has been falsely implicated only on the allegation that he exhorted his son, Tara Lal Nishad, who caused single blow by sariya on the head of the deceased which resulted in his death. It has further been submitted that there was no common intention shared by the appellant in causing the death of the deceased, Pramod. In the first information report and in the statements of the witnesses, it has not been mentioned that the appellant ordered his son to cause death of the deceased. P.W.-1, has only stated that the appellant directed him to beat and we will see what happens. P.W.-2 and P.W.-3, have also not made any specific allegation that the appellant exhorted his son to cause the murder of the deceased. It appears that only abuses were hurled by the appellant and his son and on sudden provocation the son of the appellant, who was a juvenile, caused single blow on the head of the injured which proved fatal. He has submitted that the implication of the appellant for committing the offence under Section 304-1 I.P.C. with the aid of Section 34 I.P.C. is not warranted in this case.

11. The common intention should be inferred from the whole conduct of all the persons concerned and not merely from an individual act of an individual accused. A criminal act cannot be assumed to be in furtherance of the common intention. It is not to be inferred exclusively from the criminal act done. The criminal act done is only one of the factor to be taken into consideration, but it should not be taken as sole factor. The common intention ought to be determined from the facts and circumstances which existed before the commencement of the criminal act since the criminal act committed is in furtherance of such an intention.

12. The inference aforesaid may be drawn from the conduct of the accuseds for their participation in the commission of crime, circumstances and character of attack, the nature of injuries inflicted and the nature of weapons used.

13. If the assault is not sudden, common intention may be easily presumed, unless there is something to show that there was no opportunity for the accused to have a prior concert. When several persons inflict several injuries, common intention can be safely presumed. However in a case where there is sudden provocation and a single blow by one of the accused is only found to have been caused on the deceased, only on the mere allegation that such a blow was caused to the deceased on the exhortation of the only other accused cannot be easily presumed. A mere direction from one accused to the other to carry out that direction by the other may be only instigation and not a case of a joint act falling under Section 34 I.P.C.

14. In the present case the allegation is that when the informant, P.W.-1, his father, P.W.-2 and the deceased, Pramod, went with their stalks of wheat on the machine of the appellant, the appellant directed them along with his son to first make payment for thrashing of the wheat stalks by their machine. The informant and his companion stated that they will make the payment and asked them to start the work which resulted in hurling of abuses by the appellant and his son and finally he exhorted his son to beat them and his son picked up a rod and caused injury to Pramod, which proved fatal. Counsel has stressed that there was no common intention to cause the injury or death of the deceased on behalf of the appellant along with his son. It was under the heat of the moment that he is alleged to have ordered his son to beat and he caused injury to the deceased, Pramod. He has submitted that there was no pre-planning or prior concert on the part of the appellant with his son to commit such an act which would result in the death of the deceased. Their common intention was not to permit the informant to put his stalks wheat in the machine of the appellant and his son without prior payment of the cost of the machine. They opposed the request of the informant and other to put their stalks wheat in the machine without payment of money and when they did not relent he is alleged to have abused them and ordered his son to beat them. The son complied his command and it resulted into the fatal blow on the head of the deceased.

15. He has submitted that it is a case of sudden provocation and the prosecution has failed to prove that the appellant exhorted his son to cause the injury to the deceased. Infact it was the individual act of his son who got annoyed by the conduct of the informant and others and when he caused the injury to Pramod, the appellant repented and went to the doctor along with the injured as admitted by him in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. P.W.-1, has admitted that the appellant had accompanied them to clinic of Dr. Biswas, soon after the incident but he did not went with him when he took the deceased to Gorakhpur Medical College.

16. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the argument advanced on behalf of the counsel for the appellant. He has submitted that the appellant shared common intention with the co-accused, who was his son, in causing the death of the deceased. The argument that there was no element of Section 34 I.P.C. involved in the act of the appellant is without any substance. The initial hurling of abuses by the appellant and his son proved beyond doubt that both had common intention of causing injury to the deceased. The conviction and sentence of the appellant under Section 304-I/34 I.P.C. is fully justified and this appeal deserves to be dismissed.

17. After hearing the rival contentions, it appears that the common intention of causing death of the deceased is discernible from the material on record but the conviction and sentence of the appellant under Section 304-I/34 I.P.C. does not appears to be justified.

18. All the witnesses of fact have clearly stated before the court below that the appellant exhorted his son and he caused the fatal blow by sariya on the head of the deceased. The only circumstance pointed out by the counsel for the appellant is that the appellant accompanied the deceased to the doctor would not mitigate his role of exhorting his son to cause the alleged act. To convict the appellant constructively under Section 34 I.P.C. it is not necessary to find that he actually struck the fatal blow, or any blow, but there must be clear evidence of some action or conduct on his part to show that he shared in the common intention of causing the alleged crime. The leading feature of Section 34 I.P.C. is participation in action. It has to be established that participation was not merely in planning but also in doing their the individual offender must have participated in the offence. His participation may be slight, but it should be there. In the present case there was meeting of minds of the appellant with his son in causing the injury to the deceased. It resulted into the offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. The intention was only to cause beating and in execution of such an intention the appellant exhorted his son. The Section 34 I.P.C. requires participation, it may be active or passive. For conviction with the help of this Section, it is not necessary that every accused should himself commit the offence or take active part in it. Admittedly, the son of the appellant was a juvenile on the date of incident and had the appellant, his father not ordered him to cause the crime alleged, he would not have committed the same. Being boy of tender age he proceeded to cause the injury only after getting command from his father. Had the father not permitted him to exceed his limits he would have not cause the same. There was certainly active participation of the appellant in exhorting his son which resulted into the death of the deceased on account of blow made by his son.

19. However, this court finds that at the most the appellant could have been convicted and sentenced for committing offence under Section 304-II I.P.C. and not under Section 304-I I.P.C. read with Section 34 IPC. A full bench judgment of this High Court in State vs. Saidu Khan, AIR, 1951 Allahabad 21 (FB) has held that the common intention of Section 34 I.P.C. is not necessarily confined to an intention to commit the very crime with which the accused is charged. A number of persons may act in pursuance of common intention and can be shown to have a knowledge of that act either singly or jointly with others which is likely to cause death and every such person would be punishable under Section 304-II I.P.C. There is no conflict between the kind of knowledge contemplated by Section 304-II I.P.C. and the common intention contemplated by Section 34 I.P.C. If any one or more of them is proved to have the requisite kind of intention, e.g., the intention expressed in the earlier part of Section 299 I.P.C., he will be punishable either under Section 302 I.P.C. or under Section 304-I I.P.C., as the case may be. If, however, there is only guilty 'knowledge' as distinct from guilty 'intention', i.e., knowledge that the act which is being performed may result in death, he will be punishable under Part -II of Section 304 I.P.C. There is no difficulty in applying Section 34 I.P.C. so interpreted to a case which falls under Section 304-II I.P.C. The common intention in the one case and the knowledge that the act is likely to bring about death in the other, do not come into conflict at all. The result is that it is possible to convict an accused person of an offence under Section 304-II I.P.C. read with Section 34 I.P.C., provided the Court is of the opinion that each person taking part in committing the crime in furtherance of the common intention of all had knowledge that their act was likely to cause death. The Apex Court had approved the full bench judgment of this court in Afrahim Sheikh vs. State of Bengal AIR 1964, SC 1263.

20. Consequently, this court finds that the conviction and sentence of the appellant under Section 304-I/ 34 I.P.C. is not justified and the same is converted into Section 304-II/34 I.P.C.

21. The conviction of the appellant for committing the offence under Section 3(2)(V) of SC/ST Act is not justified since there is no evidence on record that the offence against the deceased was committed on the ground that he was a member of Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe.

22. For appreciation of the commission of the offence under Section 3 (2) (5) SC/ST Act, it would be appropriate to have a glance over the judgment in the case of Dinesh @ Buddha v. State of Rajasthan, AIR 2006 SC 1267. The observation of the Hon'ble Apex Court are reproduced here below:-

"15. Sine qua non for application of Section 3(2)(v) is that an offence must have been committed against a person on the ground that such person is a member of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. In the instant case no evidence has been led to establish this requirement. It is not case of the prosecution that the rape was committed on the victim since she was a member of Scheduled Caste. In the absence of evidence to that effect, Section 3(2)(v) has no application. Had Section 3(2)(v) of the Atrocities Act been applicable then by operation of law, the sentence would have been imprisonment for life and fine.

16. In view of the finding that Section 3(2)(v) of the Atrocities Act is not applicable, the sentence provided in Section 376(2)(f), IPC does not per se become life sentence."

23. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ramdas and Ors. v. State of Maharashtra, (2007) 2 SCC 170 has held as under :-

"11. At the outset we may observe that there is no evidence whatsoever to prove the commission of offence under Section 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. The mere fact that the victim happened to be a girl belonging to a Scheduled Caste does not attract the provisions of the Act. Apart from the fact that the prosecutrix belongs to the Pardhi community, there is no other evidence on record to prove any offence under the said enactment. The High Court has also not noticed any evidence to support the charge under the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 and was perhaps persuaded to affirm the conviction on the basis that the prosecutrix belongs to a Scheduled Caste community. The conviction of the appellants under Section 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 must, therefore, be set aside." .

24. The Appellant was aged about 60 years on 25.03.2008 when his statement was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Now, he must be aged about 71 years. The incident in dispute took place in the year 1995.

25. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has urged all the Courts time and again to exercise the power under Section 357 Cr.P.C. liberally which was intended to reassure the victim that he or she is not forgotten in the criminal justice system and to meet the ends of justice in a better way.

26. In Hari Kishan v. Sukhbir Singh, (1988) 4 SCC 551 the Supreme Court urged all courts to exercise their power under Sec. 357 Cr.P.C. liberally to safeguard the interests of the victim. In this case, the victim and his relatives were attacked by seven persons in the field. The victim received severe head injuries which impaired his speech permanently. The accused were convicted by trial court under Sec.s 307, 323 and 325 of IPC read with Sec. 149 and sentenced to imprisonment for three to four years. On appeal, the High Court acquitted two accused and quashed the conviction of other five accused under Sec. 307/149 IPC, but maintained their conviction under Sec. 325/149 IPC. The accused persons were granted probation and each was directed to pay compensation of Rs.2500/- to victim. On appeal, the Supreme Court did not disturb the sentence of imprisonment but ordered the accused persons to jointly pay a total compensation of Rs.50,000/- to the victim under Sec. 357(3) Cr.P.C. recording following reasons :-

It is an important provision but Courts have seldom invoked it. Perhaps due to ignorance of the object of it. It empowers the Court to award compensation to victims while passing judgment of conviction. In addition to conviction, the Court may order the accused to pay some amount by way of compensation to victim who has suffered by the action of accused. It may be noted that this power of Courts to award compensation is not ancillary to other sentences but it is in addition thereto. This power was intended to do something to reassure the victim that he or she is not forgotten in the criminal justice system. It is a measure of responding appropriately to crime as well of reconciling the victim with the offender. It is, to some extent, a constructive approach to crimes. It is indeed a step forward in our criminal justice system. We, therefore, recommend to all Courts to exercise this power liberally so as to meet the ends of justice in a better way.

27. In Ankush Shivaji Gaikwad v. State of Maharashtra (2013) 6 SCC 770, the Supreme Court went a step further and observed that the award or refusal of compensation in a particular case may be within the Court's discretion, there exists a mandatory duty on the Court to apply its mind to the question in every criminal case.

28. While the award or refusal of compensation in a particular case may be within the Court's discretion, there exists a mandatory duty on the Court to apply its mind to the question in every criminal case. Application of mind to the question is best disclosed by recording reasons for awarding/refusing compensation. It is axiomatic that for any exercise involving application of mind, the Court ought to have the necessary material which it would evaluate to arrive at a fair and reasonable conclusion. It is also beyond dispute that the occasion to consider the question of award of compensation would logically arise only after the court records a conviction of the accused. Capacity of the accused to pay which constitutes an important aspect of any order Under Sec. 357 Code of Criminal Procedure would involve a certain enquiry albeit summary unless of course the facts as emerging in the course of the trial are so clear that the court considers it unnecessary to do so. Such an enquiry can precede an order on sentence to enable the court to take a view, both on the question of sentence and compensation that it may in its wisdom decide to award to the victim or his/her family.

29. In K.A. Abbas H.S.A. v. Sabu Joseph, (2010) 6 SCC 230 the Apex Court made it clear that the whole purpose of the provision is to accommodate the interests of the victims in the criminal justice system. Sometimes the situation becomes such that no purpose is served by keeping a person behind bars. Instead directing the accused to pay an amount of compensation to the victim or affected party can ensure delivery of total justice. Therefore, this grant of compensation is sometimes in lieu of sending a person behind bars or in addition to a very light sentence of imprisonment.

30. As regards sentencing policy a Bench of 3-Hon'ble Judges of the Apex Court in the case of Hazara Singh Versus Raj Kumar & Ors. (2013) 9 Supreme Court Cases 516 has highlighted the 'sentencing policy' after taking note of its earlier decisions. Relevant para-13 of the report, reads as under:

"17) We reiterate that in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt the corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. The facts and given circumstances in each case, the nature of the crime, the manner in which it was planned and committed, the motive for commission of the crime, the conduct of the accused, the nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into the area of consideration. We also reiterate that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The Court must not only keep in view the rights of the victim of the crime but also the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment. "

31. Almost same principles on sentencing were propounded by the Apex Court in the case of State of M. P. vs Babulal & Ors (2013) 12 Supreme Court Cases 308, in the following terms :

"19. In view if the above, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that one of the prime objectives of criminal law is the imposition of adequate, just, proportionate punishment which is commensurate with the gravity and nature of the crime and manner in which the offence is committed. The most relevant determinative factor of sentencing is proportionality between crime and punishment keeping in mind the social interest and consciousness of the society. It is a mockery of the criminal justice system to take a lenient view showing mis-placed sympathy to the accused on any consideration whatsoever including the delay in conclusion of criminal proceedings. The Punishment should not be so lenient that it shocks the conscious of the society being abhorrent to the basic principles of sentencing."

32. It would be useful to note down certain cases where the Court has considered the period of pendency of appeal and the date of incident in converting the custodial sentence into fine.

33. George Pon Paul Vs. Kanagalet and others (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 1070- in this case, the appellant was found guilty for the offence punishable u/s 326 and 452 IPC. He was sentenced to confinement till rising of the Court and fine with default stipulation. The High Court on revision by the victims enhanced the sentence, however, the Apex Court did not interfere in the sentence awarded by the trial Court due to long passage of time.

34. Nasir Vs. State of U. P. (2011) 2 SCC (Cri) 136 - The appellant was found guilty for the offence punishable u/s 399/402 IPC and 25 (1)(a) Arms Act and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment u/s 399/402. The occurrence had taken place about 29-years ago and the appellant remained in custody for more than six months, therefore, the sentence awarded to the appellant was reduced to the period already undergone by him.

17. State of U. P. Vs. Siyaram and another (2013) 2 SCC (Cri) 137 - in this case appellant Jiya Lal was found guilty for the offence punishable u/s 307/34 IPC, however considering the fact that the incident had taken place in the year 1988, appellant has now become an aged person and there is nothing on record to show that he is either habitual offender or previous convict, his sentence was reduced to already under gone but fine was increased to Rs. 10,000/-. In State appeal, the Apex Court did not approve the reduction of sentence, however refused to interfere because the prosecution had been initiated in the year 1988, but fine was enhanced to Rs. 25,000/-.

35. Labh Singh & others Vs. State of Haryana & Anr. (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 1125 - in this case the appellants were found guilty for the offences punishable u/s 326/324/323 r/w Section 34 IPC. The appellants were very old I. e. 82, 72 and 62 years respectively, incident was 27-years old and they had undergone part of the sentence, therefore, the Apex Court directed each appellant to pay Rs. One lakh compensation to the complainant/injured persons and their sentence was reduced to period already undergone by each of them.

36. Jagpal Singh & others Vs. State of U. P. 2004 (5) ACC 310 - this Court vide judgment dated 26.6.2004 found that the incident had taken on 1.9.1977, the appellants were convicted on 23.4.1981 u/s 325/34 and 324 IPC and so each was sentenced to pay fine of Rs. 2,000/- u/s 324 IPC and Rs. 4,000/- u/s 325/34 IPC.

37. Raghuvera & Ors Vs. State of U. P. 1991 (28) ACC 498, - the trial Court and the appellate Court have convicted the five revisionists for the offences punishable u/s 147 and 307/149 and were sentenced to R.I. for one year u/s 147 and five years' R.I. u/s 307/149 IPC. In revision this court converted the conviction into sections 147, 323/149, 324/149 and 325/149 IPC and observed that all the offences were committed in the same transaction, so separate sentences need not be recorded. The revisionists were sentenced to period of imprisonment already under gone by each of them with fine of Rs. 500/- each. It was further observed that the incident took place about 8-years ago and injured can be compensated with fine. It was held that short term sentences now are not likely to serve any useful purpose.

38. Satsen Vs. State of U. P. 2014 (84) ACC 606, - in this case the appellant was convicted for the offence punishable u/s 307 IPC, but considering the fact that the incident is 33 years' old, appeal came up for hearing after 32-years and the appellant is also ill, the sentence of three years' R.I. awarded by the trial Court was converted into fine of Rs. 30,000/-, out of which Rs. 25,000/- was to be paid to the injured, if he is alive or his legal heirs.

39. Having an overall consideration of the fact situation and also time lag in between, the court is of the view that sentence of imprisonment of revisionist for offence under section 304-II/34 I.P.C. is reduced to the period already undergone to meet the ends of justice. The fine of Rs. 2,00,000/- is directed to be paid to the legal heirs of the deceased, Pramod Kumar, as compensation. The appellant, Lutawan, is directed to deposit Rs. 2,00,000 (Two lakhs) before the trial court within two months and on receipt of the amount same shall be released in favour of the legal heirs of the deceased, Pramod. Any amount deposited towards fine by the appellant shall be adjusted. This amount shall be paid to the mother of the deceased or if she is not alive to her legal heirs. In case of failure of deposit of the amount by the appellant he shall be taken into custody forthwith and required to serve out the remaining sentence as per the order of the trial court except for offence under Section 3(2)(V) of SC/ST Act.

40. The judgment and order of the trial court is set aside. The appellant is on bail his bail bond and sureties are discharged.

41. The office is directed to send back the record of the court below along with copy of this judgment and order for compliance.

42. This criminal appeal is partly allowed.

List of cases cited: -

1. Mahesh and Ors. Vs. St. of Raj. & ors, reported in 2019(3) Crimes 60 (SC)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Varma, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned A.G.A., for the State.

2. This appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 26.11.1983 passed by Sessions Judge, Ballia in Sessions Trial No. 96 of 1983, whereby the appellant Dhurandhar Singh has been convicted for offence punishable under Section 302 IPC and has been sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life and was further convicted under Section 25 Arms Act and sentenced to one year R.I. Both the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

3. At the outset, learned counsel for appellant submitted that an application was filed on 22.05.16 to decide the appeal of the appellant as a juvenile in conflict with law. The said application was supported by an affidavit in which class - V and VII school leaving certificate of the appellant issued by the Headmaster of the Primary Vidalaya, Ibrahimabad, Ballia, as well as High School Examination 1986 Certificate issued by the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P. studied from Sudisthi Baba Inter College, Ballia, was enclosed disclosing the date of birth of the appellant as 03.01.66. It was contended that from the above material it is ascertainable that on the date of commission of the crime, that is 17.03.83, the appellant was below 18 years in age and therefore was entitled to the benefit of the provisions of Juvenile.

4. By an order dated 28.07.16, the learned AGA was granted three weeks time to obtain instructions and to file counter affidavit in response to the application filed by the appellant.

5. Pursuant to the above order, a counter affidavit was filed on behalf of the State. Thereafter, by order dated 22.08.16, the Juvenile Justice Board, Ballia was directed to consider and decide the claim of juvenility set up by the appellant, after affording opportunity of hearing to both the parties, in accordance with Rules, preferably within a period of two months from the date of receipt of record.

6. A report of the Juvenile Justice Board, Ballia dated 6.11.16 is placed before us. From a perusal of record it reveals that accused-appellant was aged about 17 years 02 months and 14 days on the date of incident i.e.17.03.83. The Juvenile Justice Board, while conducting inquiry on the claim of juvenility, had issued notice to the informant. However, neither the informant appeared nor he submitted any objection with regard to the age of the appellant. In the inquiry so conducted, the statement of Srikrishna Ram (paricharak) and representative of the Principal of Sri Sudisthi Baba Inter College, Ballia was recorded. He had produced the scholar register and cross list of the institution. In the cross list, roll number was entered as 1443545 and the date of birth is mentioned as 03.01.66. The witness was also cross examined. The statement of Santosh Kumar (Assistant Teacher) of Primary Vidalaya, Ibrahimabad, Balia was also recorded and he was also cross examined.

7. The inquiry by the Juvenile Justice Board had been conducted as per Rules. Opportunity was given to complainant as well as accused-appellant to lead evidence and thereafter on the basis of date of birth recorded in educational certificate, it had come to a definite conclusion that the appellant was 17 years 2 months and 14 days old at the time of the incident.

8. Further, no appeal/revision has been filed against the order dated 16.11.2016 passed by Juvenile Justice Board declaring accused-appellant Juvenile, and that no objection on behalf of State had also been filed challenging the report dated 16.11.2016 passed by Juvenile Justice Board. Thus, we accept the report and hold that the appellant was a juvenile as defined by Section 2(35) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, on the date of the incident.

9. Now, since the appellant was a Juvenile in conflict with law, on the date of incident, and presently he has crossed 63 years age, and further no other ground of appeal having been raised before us, therefore, at this stage the Court has to take into consideration provisions of Section 18 and 21 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 and to pass appropriate orders.

10. For ready reference section 18 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 is extracted below.

"18. Orders regarding child found to be in conflict with law.-

(1). Where a Board is satisfied on inquiry that a child irrespective of age has committed a petty offence, or a serious offence, or a child below the age of sixteen years has committed a heinous offence, then, notwithstanding anything contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, and based on the nature of offence, specific need for supervision or intervention, circumstances as brought out in the social investigation report and past conduct of the child, the Board may, if it so thinks fit,-

a. allow the child to go home after advice or admonition by following appropriate inquiry and counselling to such child and to his parents or the guardian;

b. direct the child to participate in group counselling and similar activities;

c. order the child to perform community service under the supervision of an organisation or institution, or a specified person, persons or group of persons identified by the Board;

d. order the child or parents or the guardian of the child to pay fine:

Provided that, in case the child is working, it may be ensured that the provisions of any labour law for the time being in force are not violated;

e. direct the child to be released on probation of good conduct and placed under the care of any parent, guardian or fit person, on such parent, guardian or fit person executing a bond, with or without surety, as the Board may require, for the good behaviour and child's well-being for any period not exceeding three years;

f. direct the child to be released on probation of good conduct and placed under the care and supervision of any fit facility for ensuring the good behaviour and child's well-being for any period not exceeding three years;

g. direct the child to be sent to a special home, for such period, not exceeding three years, as it thinks fit, for providing reformative services including education, skill development, counselling, behaviour modification therapy, and psychiatric support during the period of stay in the special home:

Provided that if the conduct and behaviour of the child has been such that, it would not be in the child's interest, or in the interest of other children housed in a special home, the Board may send such child to the place of safety.

2. If an order is passed under clauses (a) to (g) of sub-section (1), the Board may, in addition pass orders to-

i. attend school; or

ii. attend a vocational training centre; or

iii. attend a therapeutic centre; or

iv. prohibit the child from visiting, frequenting or appearing at a specified place; or

v. undergo a de-addiction programme.

3. Where the Board after preliminary assessment under section 15 pass an order that there is a need for trial of the said child as an adult, then the Board may order transfer of the trial of the case to the Children's Court having jurisdiction to try such offences."

11. It is also relevant to quote section 21 of the Act.

"21. Order that may be passed against a child in conflict with law:

No child in conflict with law shall be sentenced to death or for life imprisonment without the possibility of release, for any offence, either under the provisions of this Act or under the provisions of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) or any other law for the time being in force."

12. From the perusal of the aforesaid provisions it is noticed that a juvenile in conflict with law cannot be sentenced to undergo life imprisonment, and further the maximum period for which a juvenile may be sent to a special home is only three years.

13. Further, the accused appellant because of his age, as on today cannot be sent to special home. However, as is evident from record that the appellant has already undergone about 9 months of imprisonment as un under trial and partly as convict.

14. At this juncture, it would be appropriate to look into the ratio laid down by Apex Court while dealing with the similar situation like in the case in hand.

15. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mahesh and others vs. State of Rajasthan and others, reported in 2019(3) Crimes 60 (SC) has held as follows:

"5. The position in law in this regard is somewhat unsettled as has been noticed and dealt with by this Court in Jitendra Singh alias Babboo Singh and another versus State of Uttar Pradesh1 wherein in paragraphs 24 to 27 four categories of cases have been culled out where apparently different approaches had been adopted by this Court. The net result is summed up in paragraph 28 of the aforesaid report which explains the details of the categorization made in the earlier paragraphs of the said report. Paragraph 28 of the said report, therefore, would require a specific notice and is reproduced below:

"28. The sum and substance of the above discussion is that in one set of cases this Court has found the juvenile guilty of the crime alleged to have been committed by him but he has gone virtually unpunished since this Court quashed the sentence awarded to him. In another set of cases, this Court has taken the view, on the facts of the case that the juvenile is adequately punished for the offence committed by him by serving out some period in detention. In the third set of cases, this Court has remitted the entire case for consideration by the jurisdictional Juvenile Justice Board, both on the innocence or guilt of the juvenile as well as the sentence to be awarded if the juvenile is found guilty. In the fourth set of cases, this Court has examined the case on merits and after having found the juvenile guilty of the offence, remitted the matter to the jurisdictional Juvenile Justice Board on the award of sentence."

6. The validity of the conviction in respect of the incident which occurred almost two decades back, in our considered view, ought to be decided in these appeals and the entire of the proceedings including the punishment/sentence awarded should not be interfered with on the mere ground that the accused appellants were juveniles on the date of commission of the alleged crime. Judicial approaches must always be realistic and have some relation to the ground realities. We, therefore, adopt one of the possible approaches that has been earlier adopted by this Court in the four categories of cases mentioned above to examine the correctness of the conviction of the accused appellants under the provisions of the IPC, as noticed above.

7. In this regard, having perused the materials on record we find no ground whatsoever to take a view different from what has been recorded by the learned trial Court and affirmed by the High Court. The conviction of the accused appellants under Sections 323, 324, 325, 427, 455 read with Section 149 IPC accordingly shall stand affirmed.

8. This will bring us to a consideration of the sentence to be awarded. Here again,in the four categories of cases that have been noticed in Jitendra Singh (supra) and in several subsequent decisions of this Court in Abdul Razzaq vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, Mohd. Feroz Khan alias Feroz vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, Mumtaz alias Muntyaz vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Mahendra Singh vs. State of Rajasthan different approaches have been adopted. In some cases, the question of punishment has been left to be determined by the Juvenile Justice Board in view of the provisions of Section 20 of the Act of 2000. In other cases, the issue of punishment has been dealt with by the Court having regard to the fact that on the date when the Court had considered the issue the juvenile(s) have advanced in age.

9. The present is a case where the accused appellants though juveniles on the date of commission of the alleged crime are, as on today, middle aged persons. The accused appellant - Mahesh in Criminal Appeal arising out of Special Leave Petition (Criminal) No.2934 of 2015 had undergone the custody for a period of nearly one year whereas the accused appellant - Arjun in Criminal Appeal arising out of Special Leave Petition (Criminal) No.5370 of 2015 had suffered custody for about eight (08) months. The maximum sentence, as already noted, is three years. Having regard to the long efflux of time we are of the view that it will not be necessary, in the facts of the present cases, to cause a remand of the matter to the Juvenile Justice Board for a decision on the quantum of sentence for the reason even if such a remand is made and the Juvenile Justice Board comes to a decision that in addition to the period of custody suffered by the accused appellants they need to suffer a further period of custody, such custody can only be in a remand home or a protection home to which places the accused appellants, because of their age as on today, cannot be sent.

10. On the contrary, having regard to the period of custody suffered; the age of the accused appellants as on date; the efflux of time since the date of occurrence and all other relevant facts and circumstances we are of the view that while maintaining the conviction of the accused appellants the sentence imposed should be modified to one of the period undergone. We order accordingly."

16. In light of the above legal position and having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, period of imprisonment, the age of the accused appellant as on date, the efflux of time since the date of occurrence, we are of the view that the while maintaining the conviction of the accused appellant the sentence imposed is modified to the period already undergone.

18. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed in part. The accused appellant is availing the benefit of bail by furnishing adequate sureties and bonds, the same stands discharged.

19. Lower Court record along with a copy of this judgement be sent back immediately to District Court concerned for compliance and further necessary action.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 498A, 304-B & 302 -Dowry Protection,1961 - Section 4 - Appeal against conviction.

Section 106 of Evidence Act discussed.

Section 106 of the Evidence Act and Burden of proving facts especially within knowledge of such person, – In a case of unnatural death of wife of accused in a room occupied only by both of them and in absence of evidence of anybody else entering the room and facts relevant to the cause of death being only known to accused who was not explaining them. (para 24)

Accused-appellant has failed to prove facts especially within his knowledge and discharge his burden, rather tried to deny homicidal death of his wife by pretending it to be suicidal death and setting up an alibi, unsuccessful.(para 37)

The prosecution has successfully proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. The attendant circumstances lead to irresistible conclusion of guilt of accused. (para 37)

Appeal is rejected. (E-2)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Harsh Kumar, J.)

1. The instant Criminal Appeal has been filed against judgment and order of conviction passed by Sessions Judge, Auraiya in Sessions Trial No.52 of 2015 (State Vs. Dharmendra Kumar), Case Crime No.16 of 2015 under Sections 498A, 304-B & 302 I.P.C. and Section 4 D.P. Act P.S. Phaphund District Auraiya whereby the Sessions Judge acquitted the appellant of the charges under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Section 4 D.P. Act and convicted him for the offence under Section 302 I.P.C. and sentenced with life imprisonment and fine of Rs.20,000/- and in case of default in payment of fine with rigorous imprisonment for an additional period of one year.

2. The brief facts relating to the case are that Vikram Singh lodged F.I.R. at P.S. Phaphund on 9.1.2015 at 8.3.0 a.m. against appellant and 5 members of his family with the averment, that "he had solemnized marriage of his sister Laxmi hereinafter referred as "deceased" with appellant Dharmendra Kumar on 21.4.2008 with all dowry according to his capacity but thereafter she was being harassed and treated with cruelty for non-fulfillment of demand of a motorcycle & gold chain and on 8.1.2015 her husband Dharmendra Kumar, Sasur Ram Dayal, two Jeths Sunil and Anil, Sas Shanti Devi and Nanad Rani harassed her and after committing marpeet at about 4.00 p.m. strangulated her to death". On the F.I.R. Case Crime No.16 of 2015 was registered at police station Phaphund and during investigation, after preparing inquest report, getting the postmortem of body of deceased conducted, preparing site plan and collecting evidence, the Investigating Officer submitted charge sheet only against appellant Dharmendra Kumar, husband of deceased. The C.J.M. after taking cognizance of the offence committed the case to sessions and the Sessions Judge on 11.4.2015 framed charges against appellant under Section 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Section 4 D.P. Act and on 14.5.2015 framed alternate charge against him on 14.5.2015 under Section 302 I.P.C. for causing death of his wife Smt. Laxmi by strangulation. The accused appellant denied the charges and demanded trial.

3. The prosecution in order to prove its case produced Vikram Singh, first informant the brother of deceased as P.W.-1, Santosh Kumar relative of deceased as P.W.-2, Sarvesh, brother of deceased as P.W.-3, Shiv Kumar Chacha of accused as P.W.-4 and Panchilal neighbour of deceased as P.W.-5, all of whom did not support prosecution case and were declared hostile. After completion of prosecution evidence Dr. Sushil Yadav who conducted postmortem examination of body of deceased, was summoned and examined as C.W.-1. Thereafter statement of accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein he stated that "deceased, his wife Laxmi was suffering from fits of epilepsy due to which she was mentally disturbed and on the day of incident she committed suicide in his absence". The accused appellant produced Harish Chand and Subhash Chand as D.W.-1 and D.W.-2 in his defence. The trial court after hearing parties counsel, perusal of record and analization of evidence on record passed impugned judgment and order of conviction, hence this appeal.

4. We have heard Shri S.D.Singh Jadaun, Advocate for appellant and Sri Anil Kumar Kushwaha, learned A.G.A. for State and perused the record, paper book as well as trial court record summoned in appeal.

5. Learned counsel for appellant contends that appellant has been falsely implicated; that appellant had no motive to cause death of his wife; that the allegations of demand of a motorcycle and gold chain as dowry from deceased as well as her harassment for non-fulfillment of above demand are absolutely false and incorrect; that prosecution utterly failed to prove above charges of demand of dowry or harassment of deceased for non-fulfillment of demand of dowry as all the prosecution witnesses have denied from any such demand or harassment; that in absence of any evidence regarding alleged demand of dowry or harassment there may be no motive to appellant for causing dowry death of his wife; that deceased, the wife of appellant was suffering from fits of epilepsy since before marriage (as has also been stated by prosecution witnesses) due to which she was mentally disturbed and committed suicide in absence of appellant; that at the time of incident appellant was not at home and he may not be considered to be the author of strangulation resulting in her death; that appellant is an innocent person and has been acquitted of the charges under Section 498A, 304B I.P.C. and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act and is also entitled for acquittal from the charges of offence under Section 302 I.P.C; that the impugned judgment and order of conviction is liable to be set aside and appellant is liable to be acquitted.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A. supported the impugned judgment and order of conviction and contended that it is fully proved from the evidence on record that appellant is the main culprit; that it is absolutely wrong to say that deceased was suffering from fits of epilepsy since before marriage or after marriage or was living under mental tension due to alleged ailment or committed suicide after 6 years and 9 months of marriage in absence of appellant; that there is no evidence on record to suggest that deceased was ever treated for alleged ailment of fits of epilepsy in her maika or Sasural, before or after marriage; that the prosecution witnesses of fact including the first informant were won over by accused-appellant and consequently resiled from the allegations of demand of dowry and harassment of deceased for non-fulfillment of demand of dowry due to which trial court very rightly acquitted the appellant of the charges of offences under Section 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Section 4 D.P. Act; that it is clear from the evidence on record that prosecution witnesses having been won over by appellant did not dare to depose truth before Court and went saying falsely that deceased was suffering from fits of epilepsy since before marriage and committed suicide due to tension on account of alleged ailment; that postmortem report of deceased duly proved by C.W.-1 clearly states that there was continuous ligature mark of 29 cm x 2 cm over neck of deceased with an abrasion over her chin and death of Laxmi deceased did take place due to asphyxia as a result of strangulation; that it is absolutely wrong to say that she committed suicide rather it is a clear case of homicide; that the appellant has failed to prove facts specially within his knowledge, that the appellant also failed or to take or prove any specific plea of alibi; that it is also not the case of appellant that some unknown persons or miscreants entered in his house in his absence and during loot, strangulated his wife; that learned trial court has categorically discussed entire evidence on record; that appellant has failed to prove the facts especially within his knowledge as death of his wife Laxmi did take place within his dwelling house and he has failed to show that he was not at home; that there are material contradictions in the statement of defence witnesses; that from the evidence on record the charges under Section 302 I.P.C. stands fully proved against appellant beyond any shadow of reasonable doubt; that the trial court has rightly convicted appellant for the offence under Section 302 I.P.C; that appeal has been filed with wrong and baseless allegations and is liable to be dismissed.

7. Upon hearing parties counsel and perusal of lower court record as well as paper book and before proceeding further, we find that in view of arguments advanced by both side, following points for determination arises in this appeal :-

(1) Whether despite turning hostile of prosecution witnesses of fact and acquitting appellant from the charges of offences under Section 498A & 304B I.P.C. and Section 4 D.P. Act, trial Court was justified in convicting him for offence under Section 302 I.P.C.?

(2) Whether prosecution succeeded in establishing charges of offence under Section 302 I.P.C. against appellant ?

(3) Whether provisions of Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act, were attracted in this case and appellant was required to prove facts especially within his knowledge, but failed to discharge his burden?

8. It will not be unnecessary to mention that it is settled principle of law that in criminal cases until by any express provision of law with regard to presumption of guilt of an offence, such as under Section 113 B of Evidence Act for the offence under Section 304B I.P.C., there is presumption of innocence of accused, unless his guilt is proved beyond reasonable doubts. In cases based on circumstantial evidence it is required that circumstances from which inference of guilt of accused is sought to be drawn must be cogently and firmly established, unerringly pointing towards guilt of accused and chain of circumstances should be so complete that there can be no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability crime was committed by accused and none else and circumstances must also be incapable of explanation to any other hypothesis than that of guilt of accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of accused but should also be inconsistent with his innocence.

9. Undisputedly, the instant case is not based on ocular/ direct evidence. According to F.I.R., lodged under Sections 498-A, 304-B, I.P.C. and 3/4 D.P. Act deceased Smt. Laxmi, the sister of first informant was married to appellant in April, 2008 and her dowry death was committed within 7 years of marriage on 08.01.2015 in her matrimonial house by strangulation. During trial, all prosecution witnesses of fact turned hostile, so charges under Section 498-A I.P.C. were found to be not proved and consequently presumption of dowry death under Section 113-B of Indian Evidence Act was not available to prosecution for the presumptive guilt of accused under Section 304-B I.P.C. In absence of any such presumption the burden to prove charges under Section 302 I.P.C. against appellant was on prosecution. Since the case is not based on ocular evidence and there is no eye witness account of the incident of murder of Smt. Laxmi, the prosecution case is to be treated as one based on circumstantial evidence.

10. Now it is to be seen as to whether in view of the evidence on record, prosecution has succeeded in proving the chain of circumstances completely, leaving no possibility of any other hypothesis except guilt of appellant.

11. Though the burden of proving the guilt of an accused always lies on prosecution, but there may be certain facts and circumstances pertaining to a crime that can be especially known only to the accused, or are virtually impossible for the prosecution to prove. The law does not enjoin a duty on prosecution to lead evidence of such character which is almost impossible to be led or at any rate extremely difficult to be led. The duty on prosecution is to lead such evidence which is capable of being lead, having regard to the facts and circumstances of each case. Certain facts and circumstances which are especially within knowledge of accused, are required to be explained by him and if he does not do so, then it may be a strong circumstance for drawing inference of his guilt.

12. The first informant P.W.-1 has not supported the allegations of dowry death and has turned hostile but in his examination in chief he has proved F.I.R. Ext. A-1 having been lodged by him. It is settled principle of law that if the F.I.R. registered under Section 154 Cr.P.C. is proved, it will not be proper for the Court to ignore its evidentiary value. In the case of Bafle vs. State of Chattisgarh AIR 2012 SC 2621 the Apex Court has held that "merely for the reason that first informant turned hostile, it cannot be said that F.I.R. would lose all of its relevancy and cannot be looked into."

13. From postmortem report Ex. A-9 of deceased duly proved by statement of C.W.-1 Dr. Sushil Yadav, it is very much clear that cause of death of Smt. Laxmi was asphyxia as a result of strangulation which is a definite case of homicidal death. A death by strangulation may only be homicidal death and may not be suicidal death under any imagination. The postmortem report of deceased states that there was ligature mark 29 cms x 2 cms below thyroid all around the neck of deceased which was horizontal and continuous while her thyroid bone was fractured and trakia was congested.

14. As per medical jurisprudence fracture of thyroid bone is very strong indication of violent asphyxia death by compression of neck by use of external force.

15. In lengthy cross examination with autopsy surgeon, Dr. Sushil Yadav, nothing material has come out to disbelieve prosecution case and even no suggestion was put to him about death of deceased being suicidal as a result of hanging, rather to the contrary it was suggested that there was no ligature mark at all around her neck.

16. It is clearly and fully established from above discussed evidence on record that death of Smt. Laxmi was caused due to asphyxia as a result of ante mortem strangulation, undisputedly inside dwelling house of appellant. It is also proved from the evidence on record that death of Smt.Laxmi is a case of homicidal death and may not be a case of suicidal death (as claimed by hostile prosecution witnesses of fact as well as accused and his defence witnesses). The appellant has not denied to be residing alone with deceased in the same house where she died and his defence witnesses have stated on oath that only appellant and deceased were living together in the house. Hence it is also fully proved from the evidence on record that deceased was living with accused appellant in the same house (in which homicidal death of his wife Smt. Laxmi did take place as a result of asphyxia due to strangulation), since before the incident. In view of circumstantial evidence on record, appellant must be having especial knowledge of the facts relating to incident and manner in which and by whom she was strangulated to death, while circumstances indicates that her death could have been caused only by appellant and none other than appellant. In these circumstances, the provisions of Section 106 of Evidence Act are attracted in instant case.

17. Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act provides that when any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving such fact is upon him. When an offence like murder is committed inside a room of dwelling house, no doubt , the initial burden to establish charges would be on prosecution, but in such type of cases, the nature and amount of evidence to be led to establish the charges, can not be expected of same degree as in any other case of circumstantial evidence. In instant case since the prosecution has succeeded in proving that death of Smt.Laxmi was homicidal one under unnatural and suspicious circumstances inside the dwelling house of accused, it will be deemed that prosecution has discharged its burden which now shifts on inmates of house to give a cogent explanation as to how her homicidal death did take place.

18. Before proceeding further the law relating to Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act, in cases of death within dwelling house, as laid down in number of judgments by Apex Court is being reproduced as under.

19. In the case of (2012) 1 SCC 10(L) - Prithipal Singh Vs. State of Punjab the Apex Court held that "Section 106 is designed to meet certain exceptional cases in which it would be impossible for prosecution to establish certain facts which are particularly within knowledge of accused. It does not relieve prosecution of its burden to prove guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt and applies to cases where prosecution has succeeded in proving facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding existence of certain other facts, unless accused by virtue of his special knowledge regarding such facts offer any explanation which might drive court to draw a different inference."

20. In the case of (2014) 4 SCC 42 - Joshinder Yadav Vs. State of Bihar where by circumstantial evidence murder was established by poisoning, even though viscera report from F.S.L. was not brought on record - but considering corroborative evidence of father and brother of deceased to be credible, the 3 Judges Bench of Apex Court confirming conviction of husband and 5 of his relatives under Section 302/149, 498-A and 201 I.P.C. held that

"the attendant circumstances lead to irresistible conclusion of guilt of accused - How the body of deceased was found in the river, was within the special and personal knowledge of husband and his relatives - burden under Section 106 Evidence Act not discharged by accused - rather false explanation given. - Adverse inference was warranted."

21. In the case of (2006) 10 SCC 681 Trimukh Maroti Kirkan vs. State of Maharashtra Apex Court has held that,

"Where an accused is alleged to have committed the murder of his wife and the prosecution succeeds in leading evidence to show that shortly before the commission of crime they were seen together or the offence takes place in the dwelling home where the husband also normally resided, it has been consistently held that if the accused does not offer any explanation how the wife received injuries or offers an explanation which is found to be false, it is strong circumstance which indicates that he is responsible for commission of the crime."

22. In the case of (1992) 3 SCC 106 Ganeshlal vs. State of Maharashtra where the husband was prosecuted for murder of his wife inside his house, the Apex Court held that,

"since death had occurred in his custody, he was under obligation to give an explanation for the cause of death in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. A denial of prosecution case coupled with absence of any explanation was held to be inconsistent with the innocence of accused, but consistent with the hypothesis that the appellant was prime accused in the commission of murder of his wife."

23. In the case of (2007) 10 SCC 445 Dnyaneshwar vs. State of Maharashtra the Apex Court held that

"since deceased was murdered in her matrimonial home and the appellant had not set up a case that the offence was committed by somebody else or that there was a possibility of an outsider committing the offence, it was for the husband to explain the grounds for the unnatural death of his wife."

24. In the case of (2014) 12 SCC 211 State of Rajasthan vs. Thakur Singh considering scope of Section 106 of the Evidence Act and Burden of proving facts especially within knowledge of such person, - In a case of unnatural death of wife of accused in a room occupied only by both of them and in absence of evidence of anybody else entering the room and facts relevant to the cause of death being only known to accused who was not explaining them, - the Apex Court held that

"Principles under Section 106 are clearly applicable - to the case with strong presumption that accused murdered his wife - holding that High Court erred in not applying Section 106, reversing conviction of accused and allowing appeal - at restored the Conviction under Section 302 I.P.C. passed by trial court."

25. The mere fact that all the prosecution witnesses turned hostile clearly gives room for suspicion and creates an impression that there is much more to the case than meets the eyes. Even the complainant Vikram Singh brother of deceased, who squarely blamed Dharmendra in F.I.R. for the murder of his wife, not only turned hostile denying demand of dowry and harassment but also falsely charged his sister Laxmi deceased for committing suicide due to long ailment of epilepsy since before marriage.

26. It is pertinent to mention that the prosecution witnesses of fact have not only resiled from the allegations of demand of dowry and cruelty for non-fulfillment of such demand as well as of dowry death, rather by way of improvement falsely stated that deceased was suffering from epilepsy since before marriage and due to mental tension committed suicide. It indicates that prosecution witnesses have made an attempt to show that (i) deceased was suffering from long ailment of fits of epilepsy and (ii) she committed suicide.

27. The accused-appellant in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in answer to question no.7 has stated that ''मेरी पत्नी लक्ष्मी को मिर्गी के दौरा आते थे इसलिए वो मानसिक रूप से परेशान रहती थी, घटना वाले दिन मैं घर पे मौजूद नहीं था। पत्नी ने स्वयं आत्म हत्या कर ली।''

28. The contention of prosecution witnesses and explanation of appellant about suicidal death of Smt. Laxmi due to tension on account of long ailment of epilepsy is absolutely wrong and incorrect and appears to have been falsely developed in furtherance of winning over of prosecution witnesses by accused-appellant, because Istly, there is nothing on record in the shape of any medical evidence to show that at any point of time deceased was suffering from or was treated for epilepsy before or after marriage and IIndly, it is fully proved from evidence on record that it is a case of homicidal death and death of Smt. Laxmi may not be considered to be suicidal death of any imagination. Hence the improvised version of hostile witnesses is found to be false and concocted and may not be relied.

29. In order to support above version as well as to discharge his burden under Section 106 of Evidence Act, accused-appellant has also produced two witnesses Harish Chandra and Subhash Chandra as D.W.-1 and D.W.-2 who are neighbours of appellant and have stated on oath that appellant Dharmendra was living together with his wife Smt. Laxmi while other brothers were living separately, and at about 5.00 p.m. on 08.01.2015 when they were working in fields and appellant Dharmendra was grazing cattle in nearby fields, villagers informed about suicide by his wife but they do not know about manner or reason of suicide as to whether she committed suicide by immolating herself or by consuming poison or by hanging herself. It is also noteworthy that neither the name of such villager, who allegedly informed death of wife of appellant to appellant, D.W.-1 and D.W.-2 in fields has been disclosed, nor such villager has been produced to corroborate.

30. It is pertinent to mention that there is nothing on record to show that deceased was having any cattle. Moreover he could not dare to say that he was grazing his cattle in fields with or near D.W.-1 and D.W.-2 and got information from villagers about suicidal death of his wife (as has been contended by his partisan witnesses D.W.-1 & D.W.-2). The statements of D.W.-1 and D.W.-2 are not in consonance with contention of appellant and are also contradictory to each other as D.W.-1 says that appellant was walking at a distance from him in his field, while D.W.-2 says that he was grazing cattle in another field.

31. It is not the case of accused appellant that some miscreants had entered his house and strangulated his wife to death or he had informed the police about unnatural death of his wife by someone else.

32. The accused appellant was the only person residing in the same house with deceased and was having especial knowledge of facts relating to and manner of homicidal death of his wife taken place inside his house and was required to prove such especial facts within his knowledge. The bald statement of accused appellant that he was not at home at the time of incident is not sufficient to prove his plea of alibi as he could not dare to state that (i) where and when he came back home (ii) where and from whom he got knowledge of death of his wife (iii) how he came to know that his wife has committed suicide (iv) upon finding his wife fully unconscious whether he contacted any doctor to confirm as if she is alive and if not, how he was sure that she has died (v) whether he informed family members of mayaka of deceased (vi) whether he informed police of unnatural death of his wife.

33. In absence of any such explanation and not proving of the facts especially within the knowledge of appellant, (who alone was living with deceased), there can be no reason to disbelieve the prosecution case and hold appellant to be an innocent.

34. In the instant case in view of evidence on record, under any imagination no inference can be drawn that at the time of homicidal death of deceased, her husband, the accused appellant would have been roaming outside, and someone else would have entered and strangulated his wife to death, inside his house, for absolutely no reason. It is not the case of accused appellant that some miscreants entered his house and committed loot during which upon protest his wife was strangulated by them. Even in such a case he would have reported the matter to police in ordinary course and his conduct in not reporting the matter to police and opting to abscond, speaks much that how he managed to win over the prosecution witnesses and pressurized them to tell a lie regarding alleged suicidal death of his wife.

35. As far as benefit of doubt is concerned the prosecution has proved its case beyond all reasonable doubts. In ordinary prudence when husband and wife were living together there is presumption of accused being inside home, unless proved otherwise and no inference of his being outside home may be drawn in order to give him unreasonable benefit of doubt.

36. In the case of Lal Singh Vs. State of Gujarat (2001) 3 SCC 221 the Apex Court held that "concept of benefit of doubt is vague. The doubt must be reasonable one which occurs to a prudent men and not to a weak or duly vacillating or confused mind. In spite of presumption of innocence, it is to be judged on the basis of a reasonable prudent men. Smelling doubts for the sake of giving benefit of doubt is not the law of land."

37. In view of the discussions made above the points mentioned in para 7 above, are required to be answered as under :-

(1) The prosecution has proved chain of circumstances from the evidence on record which is so complete as incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than the guilt of accused and is not only consistent with the guilt of accused but is also inconsistent with his innocence. The prosecution has successfully proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. The attendant circumstances lead to irresistible conclusion of guilt of accused.

(2) Provisions of Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act are attracted to the facts and circumstances of instant case. Accused-appellant has failed to prove facts especially within his knowledge and discharge his burden, rather tried to deny homicidal death of his wife by pretending it to be suicidal death and setting up an alibi, unsuccessfully.

(3) The trial Court rightly analyzed the evidence on record and was not incorrect in convicting appellant for the change of offence under Section 302 I.P.C.

38. In view of the discussions made above, we are of the considered view that there is no illegality, incorrectness or perversity in the impugned judgment and order of conviction. The learned counsel for appellant has failed to prove any incorrectness, perversity or illegality in impugned conviction order and there is no sufficient ground for interfering with or setting it aside the impugned judgment and order of conviction of appellant as well as for reversing it to an order of his acquittal under Section 302 I.P.C.

39. The appeal is devoid of merits and is liable to be dismissed.

40. The appeal is dismissed. The impugned judgment and order of conviction is affirmed.

41. Office is directed to send back the lower court record alongwith copy of judgment for necessary action, if any.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 323/34, 504 - Appeal against conviction.

In present case the place, time and date of occurrence was undisputed. Injured and their injuries were not disputed. The cause and motive of this quarrel was undisputed. Construction of chak road on the place of occurrence. (para8)

The pelting of stones from both sides has been admitted by this witness, but it has been said that it was used in right of self defence for saving themselves. (para 8)

Medical evidence was against oral testimony, which was with all inconsistencies and contradictions. No specific motive was assigned for commission of alleged offence. Impugned judgment was based on surmises and conjectures. (para 2)

Accused persons were not aggressor. Rather, they were victim of that aggression, wherein they had exercised their right of self defence by pelting stones and bricks. Under above facts, who was aggressor and who suffered that aggression is to be seen and in present case aggression was by present complainant side. Hence, certainly trial court failed to appreciate facts and evidence placed on record. (para 8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This appeal under Section 374(2) of Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C.') has been filed by Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiroman, Dharm Nath and Madan against judgment of conviction and sentence made therein in Sessions Trial No. 98 of 2005, State of U.P. Versus Shyam Bihari and others, arising out of N.C.R. No. 14 of 2004, under Sections 323/34, 504 I.P.C., Police Station Durgaganj, District Sant Ravidas Nagar, Bhadohi, passed by court of Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, Bhadohi-Gyanpur, wherein convicts-appellants have been sentenced with six months' simple imprisonment and fine of Rs.500/- and in case of default one month's additional simple imprisonment for offense punishable under Section 323/34 I.P.C. and one year simple imprisonment with fine of Rs.1,000/- each and in default one month's additional simple imprisonment under Section 504 I.P.C. with a direction for concurrent running of sentences.

2. The memo of appeal contends that trial court failed to appreciate facts and law placed before it. Prosecution story was fabricated. According to evidence on record, no case was made out against appellants. Even then, they have been convicted and sentenced, as above. Medical evidence was against oral testimony, which was with all inconsistencies and contradictions. No specific motive was assigned for commission of alleged offence. Impugned judgment was based on surmises and conjectures. Hence, this appeal is with a prayer for setting aside impugned judgment of conviction and sentence dated 17.09.2011 with a further prayer for grant of acquittal against charges levelled against appellants.

3. From the very perusal of record of trial court and impugned judgment, it is apparent that a report of non-cognizable offence bearing No. 14 of 2004, under Sections 323/34, 504 I.P.C. was got registered at Police Station Durgaganj, District Sant Ravidas Nagar, Bhadohi against Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiroman, Dharm Nath and Madan, upon report of informant Ram Sajivan Harijan, S/o Banshiram Harijan, R/o Gangarampur, P.S. Durgaganj, District Sant Ravidas Nagar, Bhadohi on 12.07.2004 at 10.30 A.M. for the occurrence of 9.30 A.M. of the same day by detailed narration that chak road was being constructed over spot for use of complainant and his family members, but this was being obstructed and damaged by accused persons. It was protested. They assaulted informant and other members of his family by lathi-danda, therein Ram Ujagir, Shyamlal, Hubraji, Udairaj and Pintu were badly injured. This was Ext.Ka-1. In compliance of order of Court under Section 155 Cr.P.C. (Ext.Ka-2), matter was investigated, wherein Site Map (Ext.Ka-3) was prepared and after recording statement of witnesses, under Section 161 Cr.P.C., Charge Sheet (Ext.Ka-4) was filed. Magistrate took cognizance over it and held that above occurrence was a cross case version of Case Crime No. 162 of 2004, under Sections 147, 304, 149, 325, 323, 504 I.P.C., Police Station Durgaganj. Learned Judicial Magistrate-I, Bhadohi-Gyanpur vide order dated 15.07.2005, committed this file to the court of Sessions for trial as cross-case of above sessions trial, from where this file was transferred to Court of Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 3 Bhadohi at Gyanpur. After hearing learned Public Prosecutor as well as learned counsel for defence, accused Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiroman, Dharm Nath and Madan were charged for offences punishable under Sections 323/34, 504 I.P.C. It was read over and explained to accused persons, who pleaded not guilty and claimed for trial.

4. The prosecution examined PW-1 informant Ram Sajivan, PW-2 injured witness Shyamlal, PW-3 injured witness Udairaj Singh, PW-4 injured witness Ram Ujagir, PW-5 Constable Moharrir 193 Chandrabhan Singh, PW-6 Sub Inspector S.P. Chandra, Investigating Officer, PW-7 Nagendra Prasad Mishra, Chief Pharmacist, PW-8 Head Constable Jiyalal, PW-9 Sub Inspector Radhey Shyam Pushkar and PW-10 Dr. Shri Prakash Singh.

5. With a view to have explanation over incriminating materials, produced by prosecution, against accused persons and for getting the version of accused persons they were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein each accused said the accusation to be false and fabricated and falsely implicated in counter blast of cross-case, wherein accused side were injured by the assault made by complainant side and one Ravindra had died in it. This quarrel occurred on 12.07.2004 at about 9.30 A.M. when chak road was being constructed, wherein Shyamlal, Kallu @ Ram Ujagir, Udal @ Udairaj, Bachai @ Ram Sajivan, Awadhraj, Sudama Prasad and Girdhari gave assault by pelting of stones and bricks coupled with lathi-danda, wherein Ravindra died out of above injury and informant, Madanlal, Sursatti Devi, Sunita Devi, Shrinath, Balraji, Kamla Devi, Photo Devi and Chhabbi Devi were having injuries of lathi-danda. Pelting of stones were made by accused side for getting themselves saved from assailants and out of this, they could be saved. This false cross-case has been got registered in it. The papers of cross case in certified copies were filed in defence of accused persons. Those were first information report of Case No. 108 of 2004, arising out of Case Crime No.162 of 2004; State Vs. Shyamlal and others, Police Station Durgaganj, copy of charge sheet of Case Crime No. 162 of 2004, copy of autopsy examination report of deceased Ravindra Kumar, copy of medico legal injury report of Balraji, wife of Ram Manorath, copy of injury report of Photo Devi, copy of Site Map of Case Crime No. 162 of 2004 coupled with copies of injury reports of Shrinath, Sursatti Devi, Kamla Devi and Chhabbi Devi. Learned Sessions Judge after hearing learned counsel for both sides passed judgment of conviction against each of accused appellants for offences punishable under Sections 323/34 and 504 I.P.C. After hearing over quantum of sentence, each of convicts-appellants Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiroman, Dharm Nath and Madan were sentenced with six months simple imprisonment and fine of Rs.500/- in default one month additional simple imprisonment for offence punishable under Section 323/34 I.P.C. with further sentence of one year simple imprisonment and fine of Rs.1,000/- and in default one month additional imprisonment under Section 504 I.P.C with a direction for concurrent running of sentences, against which this appeal.

6. Learned counsel for appellants argued that it was a cross-case of Case Crime No. 162 of 2004, of which certified copy of first information report, charge sheet, inquest proceeding, autopsy examination report, injury reports of accused persons were filed on record in defence and this was said by accused persons that on the same date, time and place quarrel regarding construction of chak road took place, wherein present prosecution side gave assault by lathi-danda, bricks and stones pelting, wherein deceased Ravindra had sustained injuries. Other family members have also sustained injuries. Investigation resulted submission of charge sheet and this trial was conducted with present trial, wherein accused persons have been convicted for charges levelled in it including culpable homicide not amounting to murder. The accused side, who have been convicted in above cross-case, were held to be aggressor, whereas it has been specifically said by prosecution witnesses in above trial that in personal defence of person and property, the pelting of stone was made by present accused side and in it present prosecution side were injured. Injuries were of trifling nature and the conviction is for offence punishable under Sections 323/34 and 504 I.P.C., which were for simple hurt. Injuries were brought in existence in exercise of right of self defence. Moreso, present accused side were not aggressor. Rather complainant side were held aggressor and have been convicted and sentenced for other offences including offences of culpable homicide not amounting to murder for ten years rigorous imprisonment and fine. Hence, trial court in utter failure to analyze facts and evidence placed on record has convicted and sentenced on the basis of surmises and conjectures, which is apparently against facts on record. Hence, this appeal with above prayer.

7. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the appeal and argued that it was a case of free fight, wherein one side sustained injuries including injury to Ravindra Nath, resulting his death and other side sustained injuries, for which this trial. The trial court has convicted both sides holding that it was a case of free fight in which no side took care of law and order situation. Rather, they became offensive and gave assault to each other resulting injuries to both sides. Hence, this conviction and sentence was based on evidence placed on record.

8. Admittedly, it was tried as a cross-case with Session Trial No. 108 of 2004, arising out of Case Crime No. 162 of 2004, under Sections 147, 304/149, 325/149, 323/149 I.P.C., wherein vide detailed and elaborate judgment passed by Session Judge as well as present Court in appeal has held that those convict-appellants were aggressor, who committed above offences under furtherance of common intention for commission of assault by lathi-danda, for which offences punishable under Section 323/149 as well as 147 I.P.C. i.e. affray has been proved against all the members of unlawful assembly and beside being in common object of that unlawful assembly, three of them i.e. Kallu, Bachai and Shyamlal did assault over Ravindra by riding over his chest and causing injuries, resulting his death for which, they have been separately punished for offence punishable under Section 304 I.P.C. In present case the place, time and date of occurrence was undisputed. Injured and their injuries were not disputed. The cause and motive of this quarrel was undisputed. Construction of chak road on the place of occurrence, resulting this quarrel, was also undisputed fact. PW-1 Ram Sajivan informant in his statement has said that on 12.07.2004 at about 9.30 A.M., this quarrel occurred towards north of house of Shyam Bihari, where chak road was being constructed and the land of Jagannath and Sudama was taken by Gram Sabha under their consent for construction of this chak road. One day before i.e. on 11.07.2004 soil was thrown for construction of chak road. On the date of occurrence at about 7 A.M. Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiroman, Dharm Raj and Madanlal, armed with lathi-danda and spade, went there and started cutting that chak road. This was reported at Police Station Durgaganj. At about about 9.30 A.M., police of Durgaganj reached on spot. Awadhraj and Sobhnath were taken at police station for this quarrel, but after police left the place, Ram Shiroman, Shyam Bihari, Madan and Dharm Raj again reached at above chak road and started cutting it. This was protested by informant side and this resulted quarreling, wherein many persons rushed and this occurrence took place. The pelting of stones from both sides has been admitted by this witness, but it has been said that it was used in right of self defence for saving themselves. Both sides sustained injuries. They were got medically examined. Same is the testimony of PW-2 injured Shyamlal, who too has said that there was no road for the community of this witness at their village and for their conveyance this chak road was proposed to be constructed under the resolution of Gram Sabha, wherein Sobhnath, Shrinath, Shyam Bihari, Jagarnath, Jainath, Sudama and many other persons were present. The land of Jagarnath and Sudama was taken for construction of this chak road and they were ready for it. Soil was to be thrown over this chak road, thereafter, it was to be constructed and one day before, this was done. On the date of occurrence, on 12.07.2004 this quarrel took place and the place of occurrence was that chak road. Prior to it, Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiroman, Dharm Raj and Madan, armed with lathi-danda and spade, had gone at above chak road and they were damaging the same. When police was reported and it reached on spot, Sobhnath and Awadhraj were taken at police station, but after this both side entered in this quarrel, wherein they were injured. The same is the testimony of PW-3 Udairaj Singh and PW-4 Ram Ujagir. Other witnesses PW-5 Constable Moharrir 193 Chandrabhan Singh, PW-6 Sub-Inspector S.P. Chandra, PW-7 Nagendra Prasad Mishra, Chief Pharmacist, PW-8 Head Constable Jiyalal, PW-9 Radhey Shyam Pushkar and PW-10 Dr. Prakash Singh are formal witnesses, who have proved prosecution case formally regarding registration of case crime number, occurrence of above date, time and place, registration of both cases, investigation being made, injury suffered by both sides, their medico legal examination reports on record. Hence, from the appreciation of those evidence, it is apparent that this occurrence took place at about 9.30. A.M. of 12.07.2004 and this was owing to construction of chak road on spot. Both sides had rushed at above chak road, where this quarrel occurred, wherein both sides were armed with lathi-danda, which is very usual in village life. The dispute had arisen because of abuse being extended from both sides to each other. Subsequently, brick pelting started, which resulted injuries to both sides. Thereafter, overt act by three of prosecution side were made, which was not the purpose of common object of that unlawful assembly, wherein they ride over chest of Ravindra and caused injury, resulting his death. Hence, the aggressor were held to be those, who caused above offence, for which they have been convicted in cross-case. In present case, accused persons were not aggressor. Rather, they were victim of that aggression, wherein they had exercised their right of self defence by pelting stones and bricks, resulting injuries to other side, which have been proved by PW-10 Dr. Prakash Singh. Moreso, accused persons from both sides were present on spot. They were pelting stones over each other. These injuries occurred and this was by aggression made by present complainant side. Under above facts, who was aggressor and who suffered that aggression is to be seen and in present case aggression was by present complainant side. Hence, certainly trial court failed to appreciate facts and evidence placed on record.

9. Accordingly, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. The impugned judgment and order of conviction dated 17.09.2011, passed by the Trial Court, is hereby set aside and the appellants Shyam Bihari, Ram Shiroman, Dharm Nath and Madan are acquitted of all the charges. They are on bail. They need not to surrender. Their sureties are discharged.

10. Keeping in view the provisions of section 437-A Cr.P.C. appellants are directed to forthwith furnish a personal bond and two reliable sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of trial Court before it, which shall be effective for a period of six months, along with an undertaking that in the event of filing of Special Leave Petition against the instant judgment or for grant of leave, the appellant on receipt of notice thereof shall appear before the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

11. Let a copy of this judgment along with lower court's record be sent back to the court concerned for immediate compliance.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code - Sections 307 & 302 - Arms Act, 1959- Sections 25/27 Arms Act - Appeal against conviction.

Testimony of a family member cannot be discarded merely on ground that he is a family member of deceased. However, in such a situation testimony of such witness has to be examined with care and caution. Object of the Court is to find out that when testimony of such witness is considered as a whole, it has a circle of truth or not. (para 80)

The various deficiencies in statement of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 and on that basis he has tried to dislodge the two prosecution witnesses of fact. Whether a witness can be discarded on the basis of evidence of another witness has already been considered. (para 81)

The testimony of witnesses of fact must prove basic prosecution case and little disparity or contradiction in their testimony are liable to be discarded as being natural. Therefore, what has to be assessed in present case is whether P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have been consistent in their testimony and whether their testimony proves basic prosecution case. (para 83)

The scrutinize the oral testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 and find that contradictions, inconsistencies and omissions in oral testimonies of prosecution witnesses of fact as alleged are present. In view of aforesaid, this Court has no other option but to discard prosecution witnesses of fact i.e. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 as incredible. Consequently, their testimonies are not worthy of trust. In view of above the present criminal appeal is liable to succeed. (para 93)

1. Saghir and others Vs. St. of U.P., 2018 (4) ADJ 286 (DB)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajeev Mishra, J.)

1. By means of present criminal appeal, appellant Subodh Awasthy is challenging validity and legality of judgement and order dated 06.10.2009 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge (Court no.2), Kanpur Dehat in Sessions Trial No. 298 of 2008 (State Vs. Subodh Awasthy) under Section 302 I.P.C. P.S. Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat, arising out of Case Crime No. 331 of 2007, under Sections 307 and 302 I.P.C., P.S. Shivli, District, Kanpur Dehat and connected Sessions Trial No. 299 of 2008 (State Vs. Subodh Awasthy) under Sections 25/27 Arms Act, arising out of Case Crime No. 02 of 2008, under Sections 25/27 Arms Act, P.S. Shivli, District, Kanpur Dehat, whereby and where-under accused appellant has been convicted under Section 302 I.P.C. and consequently, sentenced to life imprisonment alongwith fine of Rs. 20,000/-. In default regarding payment of fine, accused appellant is to undergo additional imprisonment of one year. Accused appellant has also been convicted under Section 27 Arms Act. Accordingly, he has been sentenced to two years rigorous imprisonment alongwith fine of Rs. 2,000/-. In case of default in payment of aforesaid fine, accused-appellant is to undergo additional imprisonment of two months. All sentences are to run concurrently.

2. We have heard Mr. Kamal Krishna, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Mr. P. S. Yadav, learned counsel for appellant and Mr. Ajit Ray, learned A.G.A. for State.

3. Facts giving rise to this criminal appeal are that an incident is alleged to have occurred on 31.12.2007 at 8.30 PM, in which Sanjay Awasthy is alleged to have sustained gun shot injury caused by Subodh Awasthy. A written report dated 31.12.2007 (Ext. Ka.-1) was submitted by Dinesh Chandra Awasthy, first informant-brother of deceased at P.S. Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat regarding aforesaid occurrence. The said written report is scribed and signed by P.W.-1 Dinesh Chandra Awasthy.

4. Head Constable 29, Munesh Shankar Dwivedi (P.W.-4) entered written report dated 31.12.2007 in General Diary vide report No. 45. He thereafter scribed the F.I.R. dated 31.12.2007 (Ext. Ka.-3), which was registered as Case Crime No. 331 of 2007 under Section 307 I.P.C. P.S. Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat.

5. Perusal of aforesaid F.I.R. (Ext. Ka.-3) shows that same has been lodged by Dinesh Chandra Awasthy, first informant/brother of deceased Sanjay Awashti on 31.12.2007 at 8.30 PM. Accused-appellant Subodh Awasthy has been nominated as solitary named accused. The date, time and place of occurrence as mentioned in F.I.R. is 31.12.2007 at 8.30 PM. in front of house of first informant at Village Bada Gaon, District-Kanpur Dehat. Distance between place of occurrence and Police Station has been mentioned as 7 Kms. F.I.R. has been registered on 31.12.2007 at 9.25 PM i.e. 55 minutes after occurrence.

6. As per prosecution story as unfolded in F.I.R., Sanjay Awasthy, younger brother of first informant had a scuffle with one Subodh Awasthy, resident of same Village. Both were challaned under Section 151 Cr.P.C. Five to six days before date of occurrence, battery of Tractor belonging to Subhodh Awasthy was stolen when same was parked in front of house of Subodh Awasthy. As a result of aforesaid, Subodh Awasthy used to frequently indulge in abusing others. On the fateful day i.e. 31.12.2017 at around 8.00 PM, Sanjay Awasthy was returning home from Aunaha Market. He was stopped by Subodh Awasthy and thereafter, he started abusing him. Subsequently, Babu Ram Awasthy, father of Sanjay Awasthy and his daughter Bitti reached on spot and brought Sanjay Awasthy home. After a short-time, Subodh Awasthy again came to the house of first informant-Sanjay Awasthy and started abusing him. On this, Sanjay Awasthy requested Subodh Awasthy to stop abusing him whereupon Subodh Awasthy fired at Sanjay Awasthy. The same struck Sanjay Awasthy on his chest. Alongwith Sanjay Awasthy one Naresh @ Sallar Shukla was also present at the place of occurrence. After having shot Sanjay Awasthy, both accused persons fled away from spot. On account of firearm injury, Sanjay Awasthy the injured, fell on the spot. Subsequently, Bitti, sister of Sanjay Awasthy (injured) and his father Ram Nath Awasthy came on spot. Injured was carried on Marshal Vehicle and brought at Police-Station, Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat.

7. Aforesaid F.I.R. dated 31.12.2007 (Ext. Ka.-3) was registered, Police of Police-Station, Shivli came into motion. P.W.-8, Subh Suchit, the Station Officer, Police-Station Shivli was appointed as Investigating Officer. He accordingly proceeded with investigation of Case Crime Number 331 of 2007. On same day, he entered written report dated 31.12.2007 (Ext. Ka.-1) and F.I.R. dated 31.12.2007 (Ext. Ka.-3) in case diary. Injured Sanjay Awasthy died on 31.12.2017 while being taken to Hallet Hospital, Kanpur Nagar by S. I. Rakesh Chandra and Constable Raj Bali. Accordingly, first informant Dinesh Chandra Awasthy submitted an application dated 31.12.2007 (Ext. Ka.-22) at P.S. Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat informing Police regarding death of Sanjay Awasthy. The same was entered in General Diary vide G.D. report No. 47 timing 23.55 hours dated 31.12.2007 (Ext. Ka.-5). In view of above, Investigating Officer added Section 302 I.P.C in concerned Case Crime Number on 01.09.2008.

8. On same day i.e. 01.01.2008, P.W.-8, S.I., Subh Suchit, Investigating Officer, recorded statement of first informant-Sanjay Awasthy under Section 161 Cr.P.C. He then reached place of occurrence and inspected it. He thereafter noted Inspection Memo in case diary. He also prepared Site Plan dated 01.01.2008 (Ext. Ka.-13) of place of occurrence on pointing of first informant.

9. Upon death of injured Sanjay Awasthy at Hallet Hospital, Kanpur Nagar, information regarding same was given by one Santu ward boy in aforesaid Hospital at Police-Station Swaroop Nagar, District-Kanpur Nagar. Accordingly, S. I. Iqbal Singh, P.S.-Swaroop Nagar, District-Kanpur Nagar proceeded to conduct panchayatnama/inquest of deceased. He appointed Panch witnesses namely, Subhash Chandra, Ram Ganesh, Vinod Kumar Tiwari, Majoj Mishra and Santosh Dwivedi. Upon completion of inquest proceedings, he prepared inquest report dated 01.01.2008 (Ext. Ka.-8).

10. Perusal of Panchayatnama/inquest report dated 01.01.2008 (Ext. Ka.-8) shows that same was conducted on 01.01.2008 at Hallet Hospital, Kanpur Nagar. Inquest proceedings commenced at 11.40AM on 01.01.2008 and concluded on the same day at 12.45PM. Place of inquest proceedings is mentioned as Hallet Hospital, P.S.-Swaroop Nagar, District-Kanpur Nagar. In the opinion of Panch witnesses, death of deceased-Sanjay Awathi was held to be homicidal. Panch witnesses also noted that cause of death of deceased was gun shot injury. One gun shot injury was found on the body of deceased situate on left side of abdomen and was surrounded by blackening. Inquest report, however, does not contain description of Case Crime Number 331 of 2007 under Sections 307, 302 I.P.C., P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat.

11. Body of deceased Sanjay Awasthy was recovered by SSI, Rudra Pal Singh on 01.01.2008 itself. He then prepared detailed Police scroll i.e. Ext. Ka.-9- letter to C.M.O., Ext. Ka.-10-Specimen Seal, Ext. Ka.-11-Photograph of dead body, Ext. Ka.12-Police Form No.33.

12. P.W.-4, Dr. Bipul Singh, conducted postmortem of the body of deceased. He found following antemortem injuries on the body of deceased:-

"Firearm wound of entry 1.5 cm.X1.00 cm. present on part of left abdomen, 11cm. Front below left nipple at 5 o' clock position, surrounded by blackening, tattooing and scorching in an area of 5cm x 6cm, margins of wound are lacerated ecchymosed and inverted, direction of wound is found towards right side and backward. Spleen liver and intestine with omentum found lacerated. About 1500 ml. blood mixed fluid present in abdominal cavity. A single metallic bullet recovered from abdominal cavity sealed in and handed over to accompanying constable."

13. After completion of post-mortem of body of deceased (P.W.-8), S.I. Subh Suchit, Investigating Officer, recovered clothes worn by deceased at the time of occurrence. He sealed them and dispatched same to Forensic Science Laboratory. An F.S.L. report dated 14.02.2008 (Ext. Ka.-20) was submitted. As per aforesaid report, blood on the clothes of deceased was disintegrated and therefore, insufficient for classification.

14. On 02.01.2008, P.W.-8, Subh Suchit, Station Officer, P.S. Shivli District-Kanpur Dehat/Investigating Officer arrested the accused Subodh Awasthy. He physically examined the accused but nothing was recovered from his person. He then recorded statement of accused. Accordingly, he took accused to the place from where country made pistol (katta) used in commission of offence was hidden. Accused took Investigating Officer to Shivam Road and from a place behind the Mazar situate on Pitched Road, accused Subodh Awasthy got the country made pistol (Katta) used in commission of crime recovered. Same was sealed by P.W.-8. A Memo of Recovery dated 02.01.2008 (Ext. Ka.-14) was prepared. Aforesaid recovery is witnessed by Constable Ram Autar Singh and first informant-Subodh Kumar Awasthy.

15. On the basis of recovery of country made pistol (katta) on pointing of accused Subodh Awasthy, an F.I.R. dated 02.01.2008 (Ext. Ka. 6) was lodged by P.W.-8, Subh Suchit, Station Officer P.S. Shivli District-Kanpur Dehat and also Investigating Officer against accused. Same was registered as Case Crime No. 02/2008 under Sections 25/27 Arms Act. According to aforesaid F.I.R., occurrence took place on 02.01.2008 at 15.40 hours, i.e 3.00 PM. near Ram Ganga Canal behind the Mazar and same was lodged on 18.03.2008 at 18.30 hours.

16. After completion of statutory investigation of Case Crime No. 331 of 2009 in terms of Chapter XII Cr.P.C. (P.W.-8) S.I., Subh Suchit Investigating Officer, on basis of material collected during course of investigation opined to submit a charge-sheet. Accordingly charge-sheet dated 15.02.2008 (Ext. Ka.-15) was submitted in Case Crime No.331 of 2007 under Sections 307 and 302 I.P.C., P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat. Upon submission of aforesaid charge-sheet C.J.M. Kanpur Dehat took cognizance upon same vide cognizance taking order dated 26.03.2008. Thereafter case was committed to Court of Sessions vide committal order dated 15.09.2008 passed by C.J.M. Kanpur Dehat. Consequently, S.T. No. 298 of 2008 (State Vs. Subodh Awasthy) under Section 302 I.P.C. P.S. Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat came to be registered.

27. The country made pistol (Katta) recovered on pointing of accused, was also relied upon by prosecution and was marked as Material Ext.-1.

28. P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy is first informant and also brother of deceased. This witness in his statement in chief alleges himself to be an eye-witness of the occurrence and has supported prosecution story.

29. P.W.-2, Babu Ram is father of deceased. According to this witness, he has seen the occurrence, which took place in front of his house. He has also tried to support prosecution case in his statement in chief.

30. P.W.-3, Dr. Bipul Ram conducted autopsy on body of deceased. He has proved postmortem report dated 01.01.2008 (Ext. Ka.-2). According to this witness, cause of death of deceased was ante-mortem fire arm injury sustained by him. At the time of autopsy, this witness recovered a bullet from body of deceased, which was sent to Forensic Science Laboratory for examination. In the opinion of this witness, injury found on body of deceased could have been caused by firearm.

31. P.W.-4, Head Constable, Munesh Shankar Dwivedi was posted as Head Constable at P.S.-Shivli, Kanpur Dehat, on the date of occurrence. He entered written report dated 31.12.2007 (Ext. Ka.-1) in General Diary and thereafter, prepared check F.I.R. dated 31.12.2007 registered as Case Crime No. 221 of 2007 under Section 302 I.P.C. He also prepared check F.I.R. dated 02.01.2008 registered as Case Crime No. 02 of 2008 under Sections 25/27 Arms Act. This witness has proved check F.I.R. (Ext. Ka.-3), Carbon Copy of G.D. pertaining to entry of written report dated 02.01.2008 (Ext. Ka.-4) and also amended copy of G.D. (Ext. Ka.-5). This witness was cross-examined by defence but he remained firm.

32. P.W.-5, SSI Ashok Kumar Singh was posted at P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat. On 02.01.2008, this witness headed the police team which went out to arrest accused-Subodh Awasthy. At around 3.40 P.M. this witness arrested accused-Subodh Awasthy. On the pointing of accused, this witness recovered the country made pistol (Katta), used in the commission of crime, from a place near the Mazar. He accordingly prepared recovery memo of weapon alleged to have been used in commission of crime. This witness has proved the recovery i.e. Material Ext. -1 which is country made pistol of .315 bore.

33. P.W.-6, Constable Moharir 558, Pradeep Kumar Tiwari was posted as Head Constable at P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat. On 02.01.2008, this witness prepared Check F.I.R. registered as Case Crime No.02 of 2008 under Section 25/27 Arms Act, P.S.-Shivli, District- Kanpur Dehat. He proved original F.I.R. dated 02.08.2008 and accordingly, same was marked as Ext. Ka.-6. He further proved

G.D. Entry No. 38 timing 18:30 hours by producing carbon copy as well as Original G.D. Carbon Copy of G.D. Entry No. 38 was accordingly marked as Ext. Ka.-7. This witness was cross-examined but prosecution failed to dislodge his testimony.

34. P.W.-7, S.I. Rudra Pal Singh was posted as SSI, P.S.-Swaroop Nagar, District-Kanpur Nagar on 01.01.2008. This witness had got conducted the panchayatnama/inquest of deceased Sanjay Awasthy at Hallet Hospital, Kanpur Nagar on 01.01.2008. After completion of panchayatnama/inquest of deceased, he prepared panchayatnama/inquest report of deceased dated 01.01.2008. He proved the same and accordingly, panchayatnama/inquest report was marked as Ext. Ka.-8. Upon completion of aforesaid exercise, this witness prepared detailed police scroll i.e. letter to C.M.O. with a request to conduct postmortem of body of deceased, Specimen Seal, Photograph of dead body, Police Form No.33. He proved aforesaid documents and accordingly, they were exibited as Ext. Ka.-9, Ext. Ka.-10, Ext. Ka.-11, Ext. Ka.12. This witness was cross-examined. A suggestion was made to him doubting the proceedings of inquest. However, this witness remained firm and categorically stated that inquest was conducted on information received from ward body of Hallet Hospital, Kanpur Nagar. Further, none of the Panches disclosed to this witness as to who committed the crime or how and when the occurrence took place. This witness has also stated that he did not receive any F.I.R., which explains the absence of detail regarding Case Crime No. 221 of 2007 in the inquest report. Consequently, this witness could not be dislodged by prosecution.

35. P.W.-8, S.I. Subh Suchit was posted as Sub-Inspector at P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat on 31.12.2007. This witness was nominated as Investigating Officer and accordingly, he took up investigation of Case Crime No. 221 of 2007 under Section 307 I.P.C. P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat. This witness in his statement in chief has stated that on 31.12.2007, he entered the written report and the F.I.R. in Case Diary. On 01.01.2008, he added Section 302 I.P.C. in above-mentioned case crime number by making necessary endorsement in the case diary. On the pointing of first informant, he inspected place of occurrence and prepared site plan himself under his signature on 01.01.2008. He proved Site Plan dated 02.01.2008, which was accordingly marked as Ext. Ka.-13. On same day i.e. 02.01.2008, this witness arrested accused. On pointing of accused, this witness recovered country made pistol (Katta) used in commission of crime and accordingly, prepared a recovery memo of same. He proved recovery memo dated 02.01.2008 and accordingly, same was exhibited as Ext. Ka.-14. On 02.01.2008 entry regarding aforesaid fact was got made in G.D. and thereafter, this witness incorporated the same in Case Diary. On 02.01.2008, this witness lodged an F.I.R. against accused-Subodh Awasthy, which was registered as Case Crime No. 02 of 2008 under Sections 25/27 Arms Act, P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat. This witness has further stated that on 06.01.2008, he recorded statement of Babu Ram Awasthy, father of deceased. On 07.01.2008, this witness received panchayatnama/inquest report and postmortem report of deceased. On 10.01.2008, this witness recorded the statement of Bitti, sister of deceased and other witnesses. On 11.01.2008, this witness recorded statement of another named accused, namely, Naresh @ Jhallar Shukla. On 13.01.2008, this witness recorded statements of Panch Witnesses. On 16.01.2008, this witness obtained remand of accused and on 18.01.2008, this witness recorded statements of remaining Panch witnesses and also statement of Police Sub-Inspector, namely, Rudra Pal Singh, who got the postmortem conducted and also the statement of Constable Dharam Pal. On 03.02.2008, this witness recorded statements of witnesses Vinod Kumar and Constable Rajendra Singh. He submitted charge-sheet dated 15.02.2008 and proved the same. Accordingly, same was exhibited as Ext. Ka.-15. This witness was cross-examined by defence. In his cross-examination, this witness has stated that information regarding the occurrence was received by him at about 8.45 PM on R.T. Set, when he was away from police-station. According to this witness, upon receipt of aforesaid information, he proceeded to village Aunaha, the place of occurrence. On way to Village-Aunaha, he met family members of injured, who was being carried by his family members. This witness further states that he had himself seen the injured with his eyes and had instructed his family members to go to police-station and lodge an F.I.R. He further states that prior to lodging of F.I.R., there is no information entered at P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat regarding firing having taken place. This witness also states that he did not make an entry in G.D. regarding information received by him that was transmitted through R.T. Set. This witness further states that when he reached village at around 9.00PM, he did not meet any family member of deceased. Injured was carried to Hospital by father, sister and other villagers, whom he had met while coming to village Aunaha. This witness stayed at place of occurrence the whole night but did not meet any person, who was residing near place of occurrence. This witness further states that it was a dark night but there was no necessity of light for him. He stayed near place of occurrence in village the whole night. According to this witness, even upon inspection of place of occurrence, he could not locate any such circumstance denoting happening of occurrence as alleged. This witness has also stated that he did not find any blood on spot. He has also stated that he did not notice any blood on clothes of family members of injured. During course of investigation this witness could not ascertain ownership as well as Registration Number of Jeep on which injured was taken. This witness has not explained the absence of Majroobi Chitthi even when injured is alleged to be taken to Police-Station first and then to Hallet Hospital. This witness was cross-examined by prosecution but his testimony does not corroborate the prosecution story.

36. P.W.-9, S.I. Rakesh Chandra was posted as Sub-Inspector at P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat on 03.01.2008. This witness was entrusted with investigation of Case Crime No. 02 of 2008 under Sections 25/27 Arms Act, P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat. This witness during course of investigation, inspected place of recovery from-where weapon i.e. country made pistol (Katta) used in commission of crime was recovered. He also prepared a site plan of the same. He duly proved inspection-memo as well as Site-Plan prepared by him which were exhibited as Exts. Ka.-16 and Ka.-17. This witness was cross-examined by defence but nothing adverse to prosecution case could be culled out from him. This witness was further recalled. However, even on further cross-examination this witness remained firm.

37. P.W.-10, S.I. Jagdeo Prasad was posted as Sub-Inspector on 18.01.2008. He was nominated as Investigating Officer of Case Crime No. 02 of 2008 under Sections 25/27 Arms Act. Upon completion of investigation of aforesaid Case Crime Number, this witness prepared charge-sheet dated 25.01.2008 and submitted same before Court. The charge-sheet was proved by him and accordingly, same was marked as Ext. Ka.-18. This witness was also cross-examined by defence but he remained firm.

38. After prosecution witnesses were examined, all the incriminating material and circumstances were disclosed to accused to have his version of occurrence as per the mandate of Section 313 Cr.P.C. Accused denied the questions put to him one by one by repeatedly saying that either it is false or it has been engineered maliciously. However, in reply to the last question, accused stated that he is innocent and occurrence has taken place out side the village.

39. Prosecution pleaded before court-below that there is no delay in lodging F.I.R. inasmuch as occurrence has taken place at 8.30PM and F.I.R. had been lodged at 9.25PM. Accused has not been falsely implicated. First informant has alleged that it is accused alone who caused gun shot injury on deceased and all prosecution witnesses have been consistent in narrating the aforesaid story. Had it been a case of false prosecution, then other family members of accused could also have been nominated in F.I.R. Naresh @ Jhallar Shukla was nominated as an accused in F.I.R. on account of his presence near place of occurrence. However, no criminality was conducted by him, therefore, no role was assigned to him in commission of offence. Police upon investigation excluded his name in charge-sheet. Prosecution did not file any application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to summon aforesaid accused. There is no dispute regarding place of occurrence as same has taken place near house of first informant. Even if place of occurrence has not specifically been specified in F.I.R. same will not make much difference. Panchayatnama/Inquest of deceased was got conducted by Police of Swaroop Nagar. But, that by itself will not make any difference as Panchayatnama/Inquest report and postmortem report have duly been proved in evidence and exhibited. There is only one firearm injury on body of deceased caused by accused himself. As such, there can be no doubt regarding manner of occurrence. Accused was arrested two days after occurrence and on his pointing out, weapon used in commission of crime, i.e. country made pistol (Katta) was got recovered. Failure to recover any empty cartridge from place of occurrence will not make any dent in prosecution case. Testimony of P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy, first informant/ brother of deceased and P.W.-2, Babu Ram Awasthy cannot be discarded on grounds that they are brother and father of deceased. Testimony of even one eye-witness is sufficient to convict an accused. No benefit can be derived by defence from FSL report dated 23.02.2008 (Ext. Ka.-21). Occurrence is of night and therefore, it is not necessary that blood might have fallen on the ground. It may also be possible that winter clothing worn by deceased may have absorbed blood, which explains absence of blood on spot. Failure to mention source of light in F.I.R. will not make any difference as deceased and accused are neighbours residing in same village and therefore, well known to each other. Absence of Majroobi Chitthi on record, will not weaken prosecution case as there is clear recital in Ext. Ka.-4 that Majroobi Chitthi was handed over to Constable Raj Bali and S.I., Rakesh Chandra. If same has been misplaced by aforesaid two police personnel, prosecution cannot be made to suffer on account of their laxity. If there is defect in investigation, same cannot be a ground for acquittal of accused. Even though it is alleged that deceased was a man of criminal antecedents but no certified copy of F.I.R. or charge-sheet against deceased has been filed to substantiate aforesaid. There is strong motive for commission of crime as there is previous enmity and suspicion in mind of accused that deceased has stolen battery of his tractor. Absence of any independent witness at time and place of occurrence is attributable to the fact that occurrence took place at around 8.30PM on a cold winter night. Even if there are minor contradictions in statements of eye-witnesses yet prosecution case cannot be termed improbable or doubtful on that ground. No videography of occurrence is possible. Therefore, merely on basis of minor contradictions in testimony of prosecution witnesses, it cannot be said that accused has been falsely implicated. Lastly, it was urged that accused himself has not given any evidence to prove his innocence.

40. On behalf of accused, it was pleaded before Court-below that place of occurrence is not definite. The prosecution witnesses of fact as well as Investigating Officer have pointed place of occurrence differently. As such, prosecution case is doubtful. It was next contended that P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy is not an eye-witness as he was not present at the place of occurrence. This witness has not seen the occurrence but he arrived only after receiving information regarding happening of occurrence. This witness has falsely implicated accused on account of enmity. As such, F.I.R. is false. P.W.-2, Babu Ram was also not present on spot as such he did not witness the occurrence. It was also contended that deceased Sanjay Awasthy was a man of criminal antecedents and therefore, he had enmity with large number of people. As such, deceased might have been killed by some unknown person at an unknown place. Defence in support of its case also pleaded that there is clear contradiction in testimony of P.W-1 and P.W.-2. As such, they cannot be treated as reliable and independent witnesses. They are the brother and father of deceased and have deposed as interested witnesses. In continuation of its defence, it was urged on behalf of defence that there is no motive behind alleged occurrence. In absence of any strong motive or otherwise, it is impossible to believe that a man will commit ghastly act of murder. Pointing out to loopholes in prosecution case, it was urged that according to prosecution injured was first brought to P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat from-where he was taken to Hallet Hospital, Kanpur Nagar. However, there is no Majrubi Chitthi in respect of injured/deceased. Injured Sanjay Awasthy was brought to Hallet Hospital, Kanpur Nagar by S.I. Rakesh Chandra and Constable Raj Bali. Their entry in Hospital was made at 11.55 PM, whereupon Doctor declared that patient has been brought dead. Accordingly, an information was given at P.S.-Swaroop Nagar. Thus, deceased was not brought to Hallet Hospital by Dinesh Chandra Awasthy nor any family member of deceased was present at Hallet Hospital. On aforesaid factual premise, it was then urged that deceased Sanjay Awasthy was shot at an unknown place and from that place, S.I. Rakesh Chandra and Constable Raj Bali recovered the injured and brought him to Hallet Hospital. Pointing out deficiencies in investigation, it was submitted by defence that the inquest and postmortem of the deceased were got conducted by Police of Swaroop Nagar whereas F.I.R. had already been registered at P.S.-Shivli, District-Kanpur Dehat for which there is no explanation. In continuation of aforesaid, it was also urged that Investigating Officer did not investigate S.I. Rakesh Chandra and Constable Raj Bali. As such, without collecting sufficient evidence, Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet against accused. Pointing out the inherent fallacy in prosecution case, it was also urged that no independent and impartial witness has been adduced by prosecution. The occurrence is of night and there is no mention of source of light at the time and place of occurrence. The F.I.R. has been lodged after panchayatnama/inquest had taken place. Upon investigation, the presence of another named co-accused namely Jhallar Shukla was found to be false and therefore his name was excluded in the charge-sheet which makes the prosecution story doubtful. As per FSL report (Ext. Ka.-21), bullet recovered from body of deceased was not fired from weapon recovered at pointing of accused. The investigation of case under Section 25 Arms Act is fallible and on that basis, accused cannot be held guilty. There is no independent witness of recovery of country made pistol on the alleged pointing of accused. Accused has been falsely implicated as there was previous litigation between the parties as they were challanned under Section 151 Cr.P.C. There is no recovery of blood from spot i.e. place of occurrence, and therefore, Investigating Officer has not recovered ordinary earth or earth mixed with blood from spot. The statements of witnesses as given in Court are contradictory to their statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond doubt. Motive behind occurrence is theft of battery of tractor belonging to accused but there is no investigation in that regard. Brother of deceased never went to Police-Station, as such F.I.R. is ante-timed.

41. None of the arguments advanced on behalf of accused were found cogent enough by Court below to disbelieve prosecution case. To the contrary Court-below disbelieved the defence put forward by accused. The two prosecution witnesses of fact who claim themselves to be eye witnesses of occurrence were held to be credible and reliable. Their presence at the time and place of occurrence was not doubted by Court below. As such, their testimony was relied upon. There was no such circumstantial evidence to out weight ocular version. Accordingly, Court-below by means of impugned judgement and order convicted appellant for offences punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. and also under Section 25/27 of Arms Act. Feeling aggrieved by conviction awarded by court below, accused-appellant has now approached this Court by means of present Criminal Appeal.

42. Mr. Kamal Krishana, learned Senior Counsel in challenge to the conviction awarded by Court-below to appellant has pointed out the following circumstances, which according to him when considered cumulatively have the effect of making the prosecution case wholly doubtful. According to learned Senior Counsel aforesaid circumstances fall in the category of such circumstances which are adverse to the prosecution case and therefore, prosecution was duty bound to explain the same. The prosecution has miserably failed to do so.

Adverse Circumstances:

43. P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy is brother of deceased and P.W.-2 Babu Ram is father of deceased. As per prosecution story they are inimical and their evidence is partisan in nature. P.W.-1 in his examination-in-chief does not state that he has seen the incident. P.W.-2 Babu Ram also does not state in his examination-in-chief that P.W.-1 has seen the incident. P.W.-1 Dinesh Chandra Awasthy, who is the informant of the case, has admitted that except P.W.-2 Babu Ram and his sister Smt. Bitti, no one else has seen the incident. This part of cross-examination of P.W.-2, Babu Ram Awasthy, therefore leaves no room to believe that P.W.-1 has seen the incident.

44. P.W.-1 has admitted in clear terms (at page 20 of paper-book in fourth paragraph) that incident has taken place in front of iron gate of his house. A perusal of site plan (at page 91 of paper-book) will go to show that incident has taken place at the points X and Z, which have been shown in front of house of first informant. Distance between points X and Z is only 40 steps from place of occurrence. Thus evidence of P.W.1 stands contradicted by site plan, which has been prepared at instance of P.W.-1, who is informant of present case.

45. No blood nor any empties were recovered by Investigating Officer from place of occurrence.

46. Investigating Officer, P.W.-8, S.I. Shubh Suchit has admitted in clear terms (at page 41 of paper-book) that he inspected place of occurrence but he did not notice any sign, which is suggestive of the fact that occurrence as alleged has taken place in front of door of house of first informant. It is also noteworthy that Investigating Officer in his testimony (at page 41 of paper book) has stated that he did not find any blood at place of occurrence nor he recovered any blood from place of occurrence.

47. P.W.-2 in his deposition (at page 29 of paper-book) has stated that when deceased was surrounded, P.W.-1 was not present. According to prosecution case, P.W.-2 was present in the village of occurrence namely Aunaha and at no point of time, he went to Kanpur. He thus remained present in village Aunaha throughout night. In this connection, it is relevant to point out that P.W.-8, S.I. Shubh Suchit, who is Investigating Officer of present case, has investigated the case for an offence under Section 302 I.P.C. He has admitted in clear terms (at page 41 of his deposition) that when he visited house of first informant soon after occurrence, he did not find any family member of deceased. This important deposition of P.W.-8 goes to show that P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 both were not present at the time and place of incident.

48. According to testimony of P.W.-2 (at page 29 of paper-book) after deceased fell down on open floor of the house i.e. Chabutara, he was made to lie on a hard bed. P.W.-1 does not state these facts in his deposition and therefore, evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 sharply contradict each other.

49. P.W.-1 has stated (at page 19 of paper-book) that statements of P.W.-2

Babu Ram and Smt. Bitti were recorded soon after registration of F.I.R. on the same day at 11.00P.M whereas Investigating Officer in his deposition (at page 39 of paper-book) has clearly stated that statement of Babu Ram was recorded on 06.01.2008 and statement of Smt. Bitti was recorded on 10.01.2008 in terms of Section 161 Cr.P.C. Aforesaid is suggestive of the fact that P.W.-1 was not present at time of incident. It is also important to mention that P.W.-1 in his testimony (at page 19 of paper-book) has stated that his statement was not recorded on date of incident whereas Investigating Officer, S.I. Shubh Suchit, P.W.-8 has admitted in first paragraph of his deposition that statement of first informant was recorded on date of incident itself and site plan was prepared at instance of P.W.-1.

50. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 both were cross-examined and suggestion was made by defence that deceased was involved in number of criminal cases. Both witnesses have vehemently denied suggestion so made, which is evident from their testimony (at pages 21 and 25 of paper book). However, P.W.-8, S.I. Shubh Suchit, Investigating Officer in his testimony (at page 42 of paper-book) has admitted in clear terms that number of applications were given by villagers on several dates addressed to Senior Police Officers and High Ups that deceased had committed rape upon numerous ladies of the village. In this connection Investigating Officer has clearly mentioned (at page 42 of paper-book) that in Case Crime No. 804 of 2008, papers have been filed by villagers making accusation against deceased and Investigating Officer has taken out those papers of Case Crime No. 804 of 2008, which are at Serial No. 38 to 47.

51. According to prosecution case, immediately after incident took place, injured Sanjay Awasthy was picked up by first informant and other witnesses but no blood stained clothes of P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy were given to Investigating Officer, which is suggestive of the fact that P.W.-1 has not seen the incident.

52. As per prosecution case, immediately after incident, injured was taken to Police Station on a Marshal Jeep and P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy, brother of injured, lodged a report on 31.12.2007 at 09: P.M., at Police Station Shivli. Thereafter he proceeded on a Jeep to Hallet Hospital Kanpur Nagar but injured died on the way. However, paper no. 28 Ka/13 issued by Hallet Hospital shows that deceased was brought dead to Hallet Hospital by S.I. Rakesh Chandra and Constable Raj Bali on 31.12.2007 at 11:55 P.M. Accordingly information was given by ward boy of Hallet Hospital to Police Station Swroop Nagar for holding inquest. P.W.-1 has clearly admitted in his testimony in clear terms that he does not remember names of Police personnel who took injured to Hallet Hospital, Kanpur Nagar.

53. P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy in his deposition has not stated at all as to how deceased reached Hallet Hospital at Kanpur Nagar. In view of specific documentary evidence that deceased was taken to Hallet Hospital vide paper no. 28Ka/13, presence of P.W.-1 at the place of incident is completely ousted.

54. According to case of prosecution, P.W.-1 went to Police Station Shivli alongwith written report. P.W.-1 has nowhere stated in his deposition that after registration of F.I.R. a free copy of same was handed over to P.W.-1. It is also relevant to point out that P.W.-4 Head Moharrir, Munesh Shanker Dwivedi has not stated in his deposition (at page 42 of paper-book) that copy of F.I.R. was handed over to first informant.

55. In check F.I.R. there is a column that if copy of F.I.R. is handed over to first informant then it is duty of Head Moharriar to take signature of first informant on Check F.IR. At the time of cross-examination of P.W.-4, Head Moharrir, Munesh Shanker Dwivedi, was specifically questioned regarding above and he has admitted in clear terms that he did not take signatures of first informant on Check F.I.R.

56. In Check F.I.R. there is no mention as to when copy of Special Report was sent to Magistrate as required under Section 157 Cr.P.C.

57. Section 154 (2) stipulates that a free copy should be handed over to first informant after registration of F.I.R. But aforesaid provision has been blatantly violated in present case.

58. The case was registered under Section 307 I.P. C. as Case Crime No. 331/2007 at Police Station Shivli vide Report (Rapat) No. 45 dated 31.12.2007 at 9.25PM. Aforesaid report contains a recital that alongwith first informant his two brothers namely Subhash Chandra and Santosh Kumar were also present at Police Station Shivli at time of registration of F.I.R. In this connection, it is also important to mention that P.W.-1 in his testimony (at page 17 of paper-book) has admitted in clear terms that information regarding incident was given to Santosh, Subhash and other relatives on phone. He met Santosh and Subhash at the mortuary of Hallet Hospital. In aforesaid circumstances, it can not be conceived by any stretch of imagination that Santosh and Subhash were present at the time of registration of F.I.R. In these circumstances, the only inference that can be drawn is that F.I.R. is an ante-timed document.

59. P.W.-4 in his deposition (at page 32 of paper-book) has admitted that he prepared a Chitthi Majrubi, which was given to Constable Raj Bali but same is not available on record.

60. P.W.-8, S.I. Subh Suchit, Investigatin Officer, has admitted in his deposition (at page 41 of paper-book) that he never interrogated S.I. Rakesh Tiwari or constable Rajbali.

61. Prosecution did not adduce S.I. Rakesh Tiwari or Raj Bali nor filed any application for their summoning so that they be examined during course of trial.

62. P.W.-8. S.I. Subh Suchit, Investigating Officer of case has admitted in his testimony (at page 40 of paper-book) that while he was on patrol duty he received information on R.T. Set from Police Station Shivli regarding incident at 8.45 PM. He has categorically stated that upon receiving aforesaid information, he proceeded to Aunaha Village, i.e., place of occurrence and on way he saw injured being carried by his relatives and Villagers. He has further stated that he instructed P.W.-2 Babu Ram that before proceeding to Kanpur he should lodge a report at Police Station Shivli. He has further admitted that up to that time, no F.I.R. was lodged at Police Station Shivli regarding the incident. He has also clearly admitted that information regarding incident flashed on R.T. Set was also not entered in the General Diary of Police Station Shivli.

63. P.W.-8, Subh Suchit, Investigating Officer in his testimony (at page 41 of paper-book) has clearly admitted that he never inquired from Rakesh Tiwari and Rajbali as to where they had taken injured for medical treatment.

64. According to the case of prosecution the deceased was taken in an injured condition at Police Station Shivli on a Marshal Jeep. Head Moharrir Munesh Shanker Dwivedi has admitted at page 33 that General Diary entries of the registration of the F.I.R. namely Ext. Ka.-4 does not contain recital to the effect that the deceased was brought in injured condition to Police Station Shivli by P.W.-1 on a Marshal Jeep.

65. According to the case of the prosecution, a metallic bullet was recovered from body of deceased and same was sent to ballistics to match with country made pistol (Katta) i.e. weapon of assault, which according to case of prosecution, same was recovered at this pointing out on 02.01.2000 from near 'Mazar'. It is respectfully submitted that report of ballistic dated 23.02.2008 at page 13 would show that same was not fired from country made pistol (Katta), which is allegedly recovered at pointing out of appellant.

66. On the strength of adverse circumstances as detailed above, learned Senior Counsel contends that when aforesaid adverse circumstances are considered cumulatively, they make the prosecution case improbable.

67. According to learned Senior Counsel, case in hand is of direct evidence. Prosecution can succeed only if it is able to establish that eye-witnesses of occurrence are credible and trustworthy. When aforesaid issue is examined in light of adverse circumstances noted above, P.W.-1, first informant/ brother of deceased and P.W.-2, Babu Ram Awasthy, father of deceased cannot be said to be credible or reliable.

68. It is lastly urged by Mr. Kamal Krishana that testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 has to be considered in the light of proposition as to whether circumstantial evidence belies the prosecution case and therefore, accused appellant is liable to be acquitted of the charges alleged against him.

69. As a corollary to the issues that have been noted herein above, this Court will of necessity has to deal with another issue that is whether a Court of Appeal in criminal matters can reverse the judgement and order passed by Trial Court only if there is an error apparent in the judgement or it can itself re-appraise and re-appreciate the evidence to arrive at an independent conclusion.

70. For the sake of convenience we take up the third issue first.

71. A Division Bench of this Court in Saghir and others Vs. State of U.P., 2018 (4) ADJ 286 (DB) while considering nature and scope of jurisdiction exercised by Court of Criminal Appeal, has observed as follows in paragraphs, 31 to 40 and 42:

"31. To begin with, in the case of Rama and Others Vs. State of Rajasthan, as reported in 2002 (4) SCC 571, the Apex Court has observed as follows in paragraph 4 of the judgement:-

"4. The impugned judgment has been challenged on the sole ground that the High Court has not disposed of the appeal in the manner postulated under law inasmuch as it does not appear from the impugned judgment as to how many witnesses were examined on behalf of the prosecution and on what point. The High Court has not even referred to any evidence much less considered the same. In our view, it is a novel method of disposal of criminal appeal against conviction by simply saying that after re-appreciation of the evidence and re-scrutiny of the records, the Court did not find any error apparent in the finding of the trial court even without reappraising the evidence. In our view, the procedure adopted by the High Court is unknown to law. It is well settled that in a criminal appeal, a duty is enjoined upon the appellate court to reappraise the evidence itself and it cannot proceed to dispose of the appeal upon appraisal of evidence by the trial court alone especially when the appeal has been already admitted and placed for final hearing. Upholding such a procedure would amount to negation of valuable right of appeal of an accused which cannot be permitted under law. Thus, we are of the view that on this ground alone, the impugned order is fit to be set aside and the matter remitted to the High Court."

32. Similarly, in para 3 of the judgement in the case of Mohd. Shahid Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, as reported in 2002 (9) SCC 731, the Apex Court has made the following observations:-

"3. This appeal is directed against the judgment of the Division Bench of the Madhya Pradesh High Court disposing of a criminal appeal and affirming the conviction and sentence recorded by the Sessions Judge. The appellant stood charged under Section 302 for having given knife-blow on the abdomen and chest of the deceased. There were as many as 4 eyewitnesses PWs 5, 8, 10 and 11. The learned Sessions Judge relying upon the evidence convicted the accused-appellant under Section 302 and sentenced him to imprisonment for life. On an appeal being carried, the Appellate Authority, instead of examining and reappreciating the evidence of all these eyewitnesses, disposed of the matter by holding that it is not necessary to give detailed reasons as the Court agrees with the conclusion of the trial Judge in convicting and sentencing the accused-appellant. This, in our view, cannot be held to be a consideration of the evidence by an appellate court in a criminal appeal. We, therefore, set aside the impugned judgment and sentence and remit the criminal appeal to the High Court for redisposal in accordance with law. The appeal being an old one, the High Court would do well in disposing of the same at an early date."

33. In Badam Singh Vs. State of M.P., as reported in 2003 (12) SCC 792, the Apex Court in paragraph 16 of the judgement has issued the following caution to a Court of Appeal:-

"16. The learned Sessions Judge after considering the evidence on record and accepting the evidence of the eye witnesses found the appellant guilty of the offence under Section 302 I.P.C. and sentenced him to imprisonment for life. The High Court by its impugned judgment dismissed the appeal preferred by the appellant. We have perused the impugned judgment of the High Court. The High Court which was the first Court of Appeal did not even carefully appreciate the facts of the case. It mentions that the FIR was lodged by PWs-5 and 6 whereas the fact is that the FIR was lodged by PW-4, the Forest Officer. Without subjecting the evidence on record to a critical scrutiny, the High Court was content with saying that the three eye witnesses having deposed against the appellant, the prosecution had proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. In our view, the High Court has not approached the evidence in the manner it should have done being the first Court of Appeal. The mere fact that the witnesses are consistent in what they say is not a sure guarantee of their truthfulness. The witnesses are subjected to cross-examination to bring out facts which may persuade a Court to hold, that though consistent, their evidence is not acceptable for any other reason. If the Court comes to the conclusion that the conduct of the witnesses is such that it renders the case of the prosecution doubtful or incredible, or that their presence at the place of occurrence as eye witnesses is suspect, the Court may reject their evidence. That is why it is necessary for the High Court to critically scrutinize the evidence in some detail, it being the final court of fact. We have therefore gone through the entire evidence on record with the assistance of counsel for the parties."

34. The sum total of the aforesaid observations of the Apex Court lead to the inescapable conclusion that the High Court while hearing a criminal appeal is the last court of fact. As such, the High Court cannot decide a criminal appeal in a casual and cryptic manner. The High Court has to itself examine the evidence and scrutinize the testimony of the witnesses relied upon by the prosecution with caution and then come to a definite conclusion.

35. In the case of State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Krishna Master and Others, as reported in 2010 (12) SCC 324, the Apex Court has cautioned the court of appeal in the matter relating to the reappraisal and reappreciation of evidence of a witness in the following words contained in paragraph 16 of the judgement, which is extracted herein below:-

"16. If the court before whom the witness gives evidence had the opportunity to form the opinion about the general tenor of the evidence given by the witness, the appellate court which had not this benefit will have to attach due weight to the appreciation of evidence by the Trial Court and unless the reasons are weighty and formidable, it would not be proper for the appellate court to reject the evidence on the ground of variations or infirmities in the matter of trivial details. Minor omissions in the police statements are never considered to be fatal. The statements given by the witnesses before the Police are meant to be brief statements and could not take place of evidence in the court. Small/trivial omissions would not justify a finding by court that the witnesses concerned are liars. The prosecution evidence may suffer from inconsistencies here and discrepancies there, but that is a short-coming from which no criminal case is free. The main thing to be seen is whether those inconsistencies go to the root of the matter or pertain to insignificant aspects thereof. In the former case, the defence may be justified in seeking advantage of incongruities obtaining in the evidence. In the latter, however, no such benefit may be available to it."

36. This brings us to the issue relating to the appreciation of evidence by the appellate court as decided by the Apex Court in the Case of State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Krishna Master and Others, as reported in 2010 (12) SCC 324. Paragraphs 15, 16, 17, 24 of the aforesaid judgement clearly deal with the manner in which the evidence of the eye-witnesses is to be evaluated in a criminal case. Paragraphs 15, 16, 17 and 24 are reproduced herein below:-

15. Before appreciating evidence of the witnesses examined in the case, it would be instructive to refer to the criteria for appreciation of oral evidence. While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the approach must be whether the evidence of witness read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is found, it is undoubtedly necessary for the Court to scrutinize the evidence more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, drawbacks and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken as to render it unworthy of belief. Minor discrepancies on trivial matters not touching the core of the case, hyper-technical approach by taking sentences torn out of context here or there from the evidence, attaching importance to some technical error committed by the investigating officer not going to the root of the matter would not ordinarily permit rejection of the evidence as a whole.

16. If the court before whom the witness gives evidence had the opportunity to form the opinion about the general tenor of the evidence given by the witness, the appellate court which had not this benefit will have to attach due weight to the appreciation of evidence by the Trial Court and unless the reasons are weighty and formidable, it would not be proper for the appellate court to reject the evidence on the ground of variations or infirmities in the matter of trivial details. Minor omissions in the police statements are never considered to be fatal. The statements given by the witnesses before the Police are meant to be brief statements and could not take place of evidence in the court. Small/trivial omissions would not justify a finding by court that the witnesses concerned are liars. The prosecution evidence may suffer from inconsistencies here and discrepancies there, but that is a short-coming from which no criminal case is free. The main thing to be seen is whether those inconsistencies go to the root of the matter or pertain to insignificant aspects thereof. In the former case, the defence may be justified in seeking advantage of incongruities obtaining in the evidence. In the latter, however, no such benefit may be available to it.

17. In the deposition of witnesses, there are always normal discrepancies, howsoever, honest and truthful they may be. These discrepancies are due to normal errors of observation, normal errors of memory due to lapse of time, due to mental disposition, shock and horror at the time of occurrence and threat to the life. It is not unoften that improvements in earlier version are made at the trial in order to give a boost to the prosecution case albeit foolishly. Therefore, it is the duty of the Court to separate falsehood from the truth. In sifting the evidence, the Court has to attempt to separate the chaff from the grains in every case and this attempt cannot be abandoned on the ground that the case is baffling unless the evidence is really so confusing or conflicting that the process cannot reasonably be carried out. In the light of these principles, this Court will have to determine whether the evidence of eye-witnesses examined in this case proves the prosecution case.

24. The basic principle of appreciation of evidence of a rustic witness who is not educated and comes from a poor strata of society is that the evidence of such a witness should be appreciated as a whole. The rustic witness as compared to an educated witness is not expected to remember every small detail of the incident and the manner in which the incident had happened more particularly when his evidence is recorded after a lapse of time. Further, a witness is bound to face shock of the untimely death of his near relative(s). Therefore, the court must keep in mind all these relevant factors while appreciating evidence of a rustic witness."

37. In the case in hand, there is the eye witness account of P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 which not only describes the occurrence but also the manner of assault. Apart from the above, there is also on record the post-mortem report given by the doctor (Ext. Ka-10). How the medical evidence and the ocular version have to be weighed in a criminal case, has been carefully dealt with by the Apex Court in the Case of Ram Bali Vs. State of U.P. as reported in 2004 (10) SCC 598. Paragraphs 10 and 11 of the aforesaid judgement deal with the issue referred to above. As such, the same are quoted herein below:-

"10. Even otherwise, the plea that the medical evidence is contrary to the ocular evidence has also no substance. It is merely based on the purported opinion expressed by an author. Hypothetical answers given to hypothetical questions, and mere hypothetical and abstract opinions by textbook writers, on assumed facts, cannot dilute evidentiary value of ocular evidence if it is credible and cogent. The time taken normally for digesting of food would also depend upon the quality and quantity of food as well, besides others. It was required to be factually proved as to the quantum of food that was taken, atmospheric conditions and such other relevant factors to throw doubt about the correctness of time of occurrence as stated by the witnesses. Only when the ocular evidence is wholly inconsistent with the medical evidence the Court has to consider the effect thereof. This Court in Pattipati Venkaiah v. State of Andhra Pradesh (AIR 1985 SC 1715) observed that medical science is not yet so perfect as to determine the exact time of death nor can the same be determined in a computerized or mathematical fashion so as to be accurate to the last second. The state of the contents of the stomach found at the time of medical examination is not a safe guide for determining the time of occurrence because that would be a matter of speculation, in the absence of reliable evidence on the question as to when exactly the deceased had his last meal and what that meal consisted of. In Nihal Singh and Ors. v. State of Punjab (AIR 1965 SC 26), it was indicated that the time required for digestion may depend upon the nature of the food. The time also varies according to the digestive capacity. The process of digestion is not uniform and varies from individual to individual and the health of a person at a particular time and so many other varying factors.

11. Factors were also noted by HWV Cox in his book referred to by learned counsel for the appellant. (See Seventh Edition, at pages 300 to 302). An author's view which is opinion based on certain basic assumptions only cannot be a substitute for evidence let in to prove a fact - which invariably depends upon varied facts, and according to the peculiar nature of a particular case on hand. The only inevitable conclusion is that the plea is without any substance, apart from the fact that the said plea pertaining to mere appreciation of facts was not raised before the High Court."

38. Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act deals with the contradictions in the statement of the witness. The issue as to whether a witness can be contradicted by referring to the testimony of the other witness or by referring to his own previous statement, has been considered in the case of Mohan Lal Ganga Ram Gehani Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in 1982 (1) SCC 700 which has been followed in the case of Chaudhri Ramjibhai Narsanghbhai Vs. State of Gujarat and Others, reported in 2004 (1) SCC 184. Paragraph 11 of the aforesaid judgement is relevant for the issue in hand. Accordingly, the same is reproduced herein below:-

"11.Coming to the plea that the contradictions noticed by the trial Court were ocular vis-a-vis the medical evidence, we find on reading of the judgment it is not to be so, Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (in short the " Evidence Act") applies when same person makes two contradictory statements. It is not permissible in law to draw adverse inference because of alleged contradictions between one prosecution witness vis-a-vis statement of other witnesses. It is not open to Court to completely demolish evidence of one witness by referring to the evidence of other witnesses. Witnesses can only be contradicted in terms of Section 145 of the Evidence Act by his own previous statement and not with the statement of any other witness. See Mohanlal Gangaram Gehani v. State of Maharashtra, AIR (1982) SC 839. As was held in the said case, Section 145 applies only to cases where the same person makes two contradictory statements either in different proceedings or in two different stages of a proceeding. If the maker of a statement is sought to be contradicted, his attention should be drawn to his previous statement under Section 145 of the Evidence Act only. Section 145 has no application where a witness is sought to be contradicted not by his own statement but by the statement of another witness."

39. However, testimony of a witness can be assessed with the testimony of another to find out if there is any disparity in between the same for arriving at the conclusion as to whether the witness is reliable and credible or not.

40. Admittedly, P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 are related witnesses as P.W. 1 is the elder brother of the deceased whereas, P.W. 2 Smt. Kubra is the widow of the deceased. There is no other eye-witness of the occurrence. As such, the evidence of such witnesses has to be examined with caution and circumspection as held by the Apex Court in the case of Shyam Sunder Vs. State of Chhattisgarh, as reported in 2002 (8) SCC 39. Paragraph 8 of the judgement deals with the issue as stated above and accordingly, the same is extracted herein below:-

"8. The conviction rests on the ocular evidence of Baldau Ram(PW-2) and Punni Bai (PW-6). We have, in the light of the submissions made by the learned Amicus Curiae, carefully examined the testimony of Baldau Ram. It is true that the relationship between this witness and his family members on the one hand and the accused and his family members on the other was strained and criminal litigation was also pending between the two. The testimony,therefore, needs to be subjected to careful scrutiny. Having done so,we are satisfied to hold that Baldau Ram (PW-2) is a witness of truth. The factum of his having gone to his field for performing agricultural operations and engaging labour is something natural to do as he had gone to his field from early morning, at about 5.30 a.m., accompanied by his cattle to be left for grazing in or near the field. At about 7.30a.m., on the arrival of Kamta (PW-4) on the field he was returning to his home. Having been intercepted by the appellant he returned back to his field and told his brother Kamta (PW-4) of what had happened with him. Kamta (PW-4) supports this part of the version. The subsequent part of the story of his having seen the assault on his brother Radhey Shyam and thereafter, that is, his having reached the house of Kartik Ram to save himself from a likely assault by the appellant on him finds support from the testimony of Kartik Ram(PW-3). The fact that Punni Bai (PW-6) has also her field close to the place of the incident has not been disputed by the defence by making any suggestion to the contrary during her cross-examination. She could have seen the assault on Radhey Shyam by Shyam Sunder from her field situated near the place of occurrence. On alarm being raised by Baldau Ram (PW-2), she reached near the place of the incident.

42. Thus the oral testimony of P.W. 1 and P.W. 2, cannot be discarded on the ground that they are related to the deceased Salamat. However, the Court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse the evidence to find out whether it is reliable and credible. If the defence wants that the evidence of related witness should not be believed, it has to lay down a strong factual foundation for the same and if necessary prove by leading impeccable evidence in respect of false implication by evidence."

72. Thus from aforesaid discussion, what is discernible is that High Court while hearing criminal appeal has to independently weigh evidence on record and thereafter, record a finding of guilt or acquittal as the case may be. High Court is not bound by findings recorded by Court below nor appellate jurisdiction of High Court while hearing criminal appeals is circumferenced by findings recorded by court-below.

73. Having outlined the nature and scope of jurisdiction of High Court while deciding criminal appeal, we now take up the first and second issues involved in this appeal together, since both the issues are inter-linked and inter-wined.

74. P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy and P.W.-2, Babu Ram Awasthy have been adduced by prosecution as they are alleged to be eye-witnesses of occurrence. It is well settled that eye-witnesses account can be relied upon only if the witness is credible and his testimony is worthy of trust. Therefore, this Court in order to rely upon testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 has of necessity to record a finding that P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are credible and reliable witnesses and therefore, their testimony is worthy of trust.

75. As a corollary to the principle regarding credibility and reliability of witnesses another issue of importance is whether circumstantial evidence belies prosecution case. We shall now deal with the circumstances refer to by learned Senior Counsel appearing for appellant, on the basis of which it is urged that prosecution case is impossible or that circumstantial does corroborate prosecution case.

76. It is basic prosecution case that occurrence took place in front of door of house of deceased. After occurrence had taken place, injured Sanjay Awasthy fell on ground from where he was picked up and laid on hard-bed. Further, it is also case of prosecution that P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy and P.W.-2 Babu Ram Awasthy were present at time and place of occurrence and took deceased to Police-Station Shivli and thereafter, to Hallet Hospital, Kanpur Nagar. It is also the prosecution case that Subhas Chand and Santosh Kumar brothers of P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy were also present at Police-Station Shivli at time of registration of F.I.R.

77. Above mentioned basic prosecution case is therefore to be tested on principle of probability and improbability. To begin with firstly, injured received firearm injury on account of gun shot and fell down on Chabutra. However, no blood was found by Investigating Officer either on the ground where injured fel or on hard-bed where injured was laid after he was picked up from ground. Secondly, no blood stained clothes of any of family members of deceased were recovered by Investigating Officer. Thirdly, no empties were found on spot by Investigating Officer. Fourthly, after occurrence had taken place, injured is alleged to have been taken to P.S. Shivli for lodging of F.I.R. After F.I.R. was lodged it is alleged that injured was taken to Hallet Hospital on a Marshal Jeep. However, neither there is any Majroobi Chitthi of deceased on record. Fifthly, the vehicle number of Marshal Jeep on which deceased is alleged to have been taken to Hallet Hospital was disclosed by P.W.-1 or P.W.-2 nor they have disclosed name of driver of aforesaid said vehicle. Sixthly, the driver of Marshal Jeep was best evidence to prove prosecution case regarding carrying of injured from Village-Aunaha to P.S. Shivli and then to Hallet Hospital, Kanpur Nagar. However, prosecution has deliberately withheld this important independent witness nor has assigned any reason for not adducing him in evidence. Seventhy, driver of Marshal Jeep being an independent witness would have clearly disclosed as to who all accompanied the injured to Police-Station Shivli and then to Hallet Hospital, Kanpur Nagar. But prosecution has refrain from adducing him. Eighthly, According to prosecution case it is alleged that injured was taken to Hallet Hospital by P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy. However, Paper No. 28 Ka-13 shows that injured was brought to Hospital by S.I. Rakesh Chandra and Constable Raj Bali. Ninthly, S. I. Rakesh Chandra and Constable Raj Bali were the best evidence to prove arrival of deceased at Hallet Hospital and further which family member of deceased had accompanied them. However, none of the aforesaid police personnel were examined to explain the correct position. As such prosecution withheld best evidence as to who brought injured at Hallet Hospital. Tenthly, prosecution story that P.W.-1 accompanied injured all the time is also falsified from the fact that F.I.R. was lodged on 31.12.2007 at 9.25 PM. in respect of an occurrence which took place at around 8.30 PM. After lodging of F.I.R. injured was taken to Hallet Hospital. Document Paper No.28 Ka-13 shows that injured was brought dead to Hospital on 31.12.2007 at 11.55 PM. Written information regarding death of injured was submitted by P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy at P.S. Shivli on 31.12.2007 at 11.55PM. Timing of Paper No. 28 Ka-13 as noted above clearly shows that P.W.-1 did not accompany injured to Hallet Hospital Kanpur.

78. When aforesaid circumstantial evidence is weighed in the light of oral testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 and there being no explanation in the same it cannot be said that prosecution case is probable. On circumstances as noted above, prosecution case to the contrary is improbable. Prosecution has not been able to prove the basic prosecution case it set out to prove. Thus, circumstantial evidence does not support prosecution case.

79. This brings us to the issue as to whether P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are credible and therefore, worthy of trust.

80. As already noted above, testimony of a family member cannot be discarded merely on ground that he is a family member of deceased. However, in such a situation testimony of such witness has to be examined with care and caution. Object of the Court is to find out that when testimony of such witness is considered as a whole, it has a circle of truth or not.

81. Mr. Kamal Krishana has pointed out various deficiencies in statement of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 and on that basis he has tried to dislodge the two prosecution witnesses of fact. Whether a witness can be discarded on the basis of evidence of another witness has already been considered by Apex Court in case of Mohan Lal Ganga Ram Gehani (Supra) and Chaudhary Ramji Bhai, Narsangh Bhai (Supra) wherein it has been held that a witness can be contradicted by his own previous statement under Section 145 Cr.P.C.

82. However, there is a corollary to aforesaid principle that testimony of witnesses of fact must prove basic prosecution case and little disparity or contradiction in their testimony are liable to be discarded as being natural. Therefore, what has to be assessed in present case is whether P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have been consistent in their testimony and whether their testimony proves basic prosecution case.

83. Mr. Kamal Krishna has referred to the following contradictions/ inconsistencies in the testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2. On aforesaid he submits that prosecution witnesses of fact are not credible and therefore, their testimony is not worthy of trust.

84. P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy is brother of deceased and P.W.-2 Babu Ram is father of deceased. As per prosecution story they are inimical and their evidence is partisan in nature. P.W.-1 in his examination-in-chief does not state that he has seen the incident. P.W.-2 Babu Ram also does not state in his examination-in-chief that P.W.-1 has seen the incident. P.W.-1 Dinesh Chandra Awasthy, who is the informant of the case, has admitted that except P.W.-2 Babu Ram and his sister Smt. Bitti, no one else has seen the incident. This part of cross-examination of P.W.-2, Babu Ram Awasthy, therefore leaves no room to believe that P.W.-1 has seen the incident.

85. P.W.-1 has admitted in clear terms (at page 20 of paper-book in fourth paragraph) that incident has taken place in front of iron gate of his house. A perusal of site plan (at page 91 of paper-book) will go to show that incident has taken place at the points X and Z, which have been shown in front of house of first informant. Distance between points X and Z is only 40 steps from place of occurrence. Thus evidence of P.W.1 stands contradicted by site plan, which has been prepared at instance of P.W.-1, who is informant of present case.

86. P.W.-2 in his deposition (at page 29 of paper-book) has stated that when deceased was surrounded, P.W.-1 was not present. According to prosecution case, P.W.-2 was present in the village of occurrence namely Aunaha and at no point of time, he went to Kanpur. He thus remained present in village Aunaha throughout night. In this connection, it is relevant to point out that P.W.-8, S.I. Shubh Suchit, who is Investigating Officer of present case, has investigated the case for an offence under Section 302 I.P.C. He has admitted in clear terms (at page 41 of his deposition) that when he visited house of first informant soon after occurrence, he did not find any family member of deceased. This important deposition of P.W.-8 goes to show that P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 both were not present at the time and place of incident.

87. According to testimony of P.W.-2 (at page 29 of paper-book) after deceased fell down on open floor of the house i.e. Chabutara, he was made to lie on a hard bed. P.W.-1 does not state these facts in his deposition and therefore, evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 sharply contradict each other.

88. P.W.-1 has stated (at page 19 of paper-book) that statements of P.W.-2 Babu Ram and Smt. Bitti were recorded soon after registration of F.I.R. on the same day at 11.00P.M whereas Investigating Officer in his deposition (at page 39 of paper-book) has clearly stated that statement of Babu Ram was recorded on 06.01.2008 and statement of Smt. Bitti was recorded on 10.01.2008 in terms of Section 161 Cr.P.C. Aforesaid is suggestive of the fact that P.W.-1 was not present at time of incident. It is also important to mention that P.W.-1 in his testimony (at page 19 of paper-book) has stated that his statement was not recorded on date of incident whereas Investigating Officer, S.I. Shubh Suchit, P.W.-8 has admitted in first paragraph of his deposition that statement of first informant was recorded on date of incident itself and site plan was prepared at instance of P.W.-1.

89. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 both were cross-examined and suggestion was made by defence that deceased was involved in number of criminal cases. Both witnesses have vehemently denied suggestion so made, which is evident from their testimony (at pages 21 and 25 of paper book). However, P.W.-8, S.I. Shubh Suchit, Investigating Officer in his testimony (at page 42 of paper-book) has admitted in clear terms that number of applications were given by villagers on several dates addressed to Senior Police Officers and High Ups that deceased had committed rape upon numerous ladies of the village. In this connection Investigating Officer has clearly mentioned (at page 42 of paper-book) that in Case Crime No. 804 of 2008, papers have been filed by villagers making accusation against deceased and Investigating Officer has taken out those papers of Case Crime No. 804 of 2008, which are at Serial No. 38 to 47.

90. P.W.-1, Dinesh Chandra Awasthy in his deposition has not stated at all as to how deceased reached Hallet Hospital at Kanpur Nagar. In view of specific documentary evidence that deceased was taken to Hallet Hospital vide paper no. 28Ka/13, presence of P.W.-1 at the place of incident is completely ousted.

91. According to case of prosecution, P.W.-1 went to Police Station Shivli alongwith written report. P.W.-1 has nowhere stated in his deposition that after registration of F.I.R. a free copy of same was handed over to P.W.-1. It is also relevant to point out that P.W.-4 Head Moharrir, Munesh Shanker Dwivedi has not stated in his deposition (at page 42 of paper-book) that copy of F.I.R. was handed over to first informant.

92. The case was registered under Section 307 I.P. C. as Case Crime No. 331/2007 at Police Station Shivli vide Report (Rapat) No. 45 dated 31.12.2007 at 9.25PM. Aforesaid report contains a recital that alongwith first informant his two brothers namely Subhash Chandra and Santosh Kumar were also present at Police Station Shivli at time of registration of F.I.R. In this connection, it is also important to mention that P.W.-1 in his testimony (at page 17 of paper-book) has admitted in clear terms that information regarding incident was given to Santosh, Subhash and other relatives on phone. He met Santosh and Subhash at the mortuary of Hallet Hospital. In aforesaid circumstances, it can not be conceived by any stretch of imagination that Santosh and Subhash were present at the time of registration of F.I.R. In these circumstances, the only inference that can be drawn is that F.I.R. is an ante-timed document.

93. Learned A.G.A. could not point out any infirmity or illegality in aforesaid submissions urged by learned Senior Counsel for appellant. We have ourselves scrutinize the oral testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 and find that contradictions, inconsistencies and omissions in oral testimonies of prosecution witnesses of fact as alleged are present. In view of aforesaid, this Court has no other option but to discard prosecution witnesses of fact i.e. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 as incredible. Consequently, their testimonies are not worthy of trust. In view of above the present criminal appeal is liable to succeed. It accordingly succeeds and is allowed. Appellant is acquitted of charges levelled against him. He shall be released forthwith if not wanted in another case.

THE HON'BLE DINESH KUMAR SINGH, J.

Criminal Revision No. 109 of 2007

Rameshwar Singh ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Revisionist:
S.P. Singh Somvanshi

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
Govt. Advocate, K.R. Singh

A. Code of Criminal Procedure - Section 401 - High Court's powers of revision against acquittal - Revisional jurisdiction against the order of acquittal - should be exercised only in exceptional cases - to correct a manifest illegality resulting gross miscarriage of justice – but should not act as Court of appeal to re-appreciate the evidence (Para 17)

B. Criminal Trial - Code of Criminal Procedure - S. 154 - Delayed FIR - Effect -

Mere delay in lodging the FIR would not be enough for discarding the prosecution case - if it was otherwise proved - by the testimony of an eye-witness & other evidence brought on record (Para 21)

C. Criminal Trial - Conviction - on the basis of the Sole testimony of single eye witness - if the prosecution case could get proved by - the testimony of one eyewitness & testimony of that witness is firmed, believable, cogent and credible - it would be sufficient to convict the accused (Para 22)

D. Criminal Trial - Appreciation of evidence - minor/trivial contradictions - minor/trivial contradiction or inconsistency cannot demolish the entire prosecution story, if it is otherwise found to be credit worthy - If the contradictions in the testimony of the witnesses do not destroy the core of the prosecution case, the prosecution case should not be rejected - Every omission is not a contradiction (Para 23)

E. Criminal Trial – Motive - Relevance - motive becomes irrelevant when there is ocular testimony of the incident (Para 26)

PW-1 (daughter of deceased) was 13-14 years child - she stated that accused armed with Farsa and Axe came and dragged her father and chopped off his neck - she witnessed the incident from window of her home - Assailants/accused belonged to the same village and were known to PW – 1 and she recognized them- This witness was subjected to quite lengthy cross-examination but she remained firm in her deposition Held - minor discrepancy in her statement would not make her testimony unbelievable - Contradictions in the manner of assault by Axe on deceased as stated by PW-1, and evidence of PW-4 would not make the prosecution story improbable or false - PW-1 was the natural witness - Trial court order of acquittal set aside - matter remitted back to the trial court for decision afresh.

Criminal Revision partly allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Kumar Singh, J.)

1. This criminal revision under Section 397/401 CrPC has been filed against the judgment and order dated 16th December, 2006 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (E.C. Act), Unnao in Sessions Trial No.156 of 2004 by means of which the learned Sessions Judge has acquitted the accused-respondent nos. 2 to 8 (Rajjan Singh, Guddu Singh, Raj Kumar Singh, Uttam Singh, Udham Singh, Madal Singh and Parashuram Singh) of the charges under Sections 147, 148, 302 read with Sections 149 and 201 IPC and the accused-respondent, Bhola Singh of the charge under Section 120-B IPC.

2. An FIR at Case Crime No. 501 of 2003 was registered under Sections 147, 148, 302, 201 and 120-B IPC At Police Station Hasanganj, District Unnao against eight accused on a written complaint of Rameshwar Singh, son of Late Guru Prasad Singh (PW-2). The allegations in the complaint were that the complainant was resident of Village Tala Sarai, District Unnao and when the incident took place, he was living at Village Jawan, Police Station Auras, District Unnao. On 26.10.2003, he along with his brother-in-law Ahibaran Singh came to village Jawan to meet his brothers on the occasion of "Diwali'. His brother Girish Singh and his brother-in-law Ahibaran Singh, niece Ranjana Singh, daughter of Girish Singh were sitting on the Courtyard of his house and talking to each other. The lamps were burning on the occasion of "Diwali'. At around 7:00 hours, the accused Rajjan Singh and Guddu Singh, sons of Jairam Singh, Raj Kumar Singh, Uttam Singh and Udham Singh sons of Pooran Singh, Madal Singh, son of Mahraj Singh, Parashuram Singh, son of Narpat Singh armed with Axe, Farsa and knife came there. They dragged out Girish Singh, brother of the complainant, and they chopped off his neck on a piece of wood in front of house of Sunder Pasi. Thereafter, the accused captured Hardayal Singh, another brother of the complainant, who was sitting in front of house of Nanhke Pasi, and throttled him. It was said that the informant, his brother-in-law Ahibaran Singh and niece Ranjana Singh raised alarm and cried, but nobody came forward for help in the village. After killing two brothers, the accused took away their dead bodies. Despite making search, the dead bodies could not be recovered. It was further alleged that the accused killed two brothers of the complainant because Badake Singh, son of Jairam Singh was killed 17-18 years back in which the complainant and his brother Girish Singh, and two other persons belonging to Pasi Caste of the village were accused. It was also said that at present there was no enmity among them. It was also said that the accused persons have killed his two brothers by deceiving them. It was also said that accused Bhola Singh, son of Shanker was also involved in the incident. The complainant could reach the police hiding himself from the accused on next day and did not come in the night, fearing danger to his life from the accused.

3. The police, after investigating the offence, filed charge-sheet under Sections 147, 148, 302, 201 and 120-B IPC.

4. The inquest of dead bodies of Girish Singh and Hardayal Singh was conducted from 15.05 hours to 18.10 hours. Postmortem examination of dead body of Hardayal was conducted on 28.10.203 at 4:00 hours and of dead body of Girish Singh was conducted on the same day at 3.30 hours. The dead-bodies of Girish Singh and Hardayal Singh were buried under the ground by the accused after their murder.

5. On 29.10.2003, the accused Raj Kumar, Udham, Parashuram and Uttam were arrested, and on their pointing out Farsa and Axe were recovered. On 14.11.2003, accused Rajjan Singh, Madal Singh and Guddu Singh were arrested. On pointing out of accused Rajjan Singh one Axe, on pointing out of Guddu Singh one Axe and on pointing out to Madal Singh one Axe were recovered.

6. The case was committed to the Court of Session by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate. Vide order dated 21st April, 2004, the charges under Sections 147, 148, 302 read with Sections 149 and 201 IPC were framed against accused Rajjan Singh, Guddu Singh, Raj Kumar Singh, Uttam Singh, Udham Singh, Madal Singh and Parshuram Singh. Against accused Bhola Singh, charge was framed under Section 120-B IPC.

7. To prove its case, the prosecution examined, Kumari Ranjana Singh, daughter of deceased Girish Singh, as PW-1, Rameshwar Singh, the complainant , brother of the deceased Girish Singh and Hardayal Singh as PW-2, Constable Surendra Pal Misra was a formal witness as PW-3, who proved the Chik FIR (Exhibit Ka-2) and G.D. Entry (Exhibit Ka-3) and sending of special report (Exhibit Ka-4), Dr. Shiv Kumar Singh, who conducted postmortem examination of deceased Girish Singh and Hardayal Singh as PW-4, S.I. Krishna Kumar Yadav, who arrested accused Rajjan Singh, Guddu Singh and Madal Singh and recovered three Axes on their pointing out, and prepared seizure memo etc., as PW-5, S.I. Vijay Kumar Singh, who was the first investigating officer, who recovered the dead bodies, got conducted the inquest and sent the dead-bodies for postmortem examination, as PW-7. He also recovered Farsa and Axe on pointing out of Raj Kumar Singh, Uttam and Parashuram, which were allegedly used in commission of the offence.

8. The accused, in their statements recorded under Section 313 CrPC, denied the allegations against them, and said that there was enmity between them and the deceased, and they had been falsely implicated by the police in the case. The accused did not lead any evidence in their defence.

9. The trial Court determined the following issues for consideration:-

i)whether deceased Girish and Hardayal had died because of the injuries caused to them, as stated by the prosecution;

ii) whether the accused, with a common object, formed an unlawful assembly armed with Axe and Farsa, and pursuant to that common object killed deceased Girish and Hardayal; and

iii) whether on pointing out of accused arms, used in commission of the offence, were recovered under Section 27 of the Evidence Act.

10. The trial Court had concluded that the FIR was registered after delay of 17 hours from the time of alleged incident. The distance from the place of incident to the police station was 12 kilometers. For the delay, no explanation was offered in the complaint by complainant Rameshwar Singh. After considering the evidence of Rameshwar Singh, PW-2, the trial Court was of the opinion that the FIR was written at the police station, in consultation and, PW-2 was not present when the incident took place.

11. In view of the aforesaid, the trial Court was of the opinion that the FIR was suspicious. After the incident, the complainant was called from the village Jawankhera, where he was living, and thereafter, he went to the police station to lodge the FIR.

12. The trial Court, on first issue, after considering statements of PW-1 and PW-2 and testimony of PW-4, who conducted the postmortem examination of the dead-bodies of Girish Singh and Hardayal Singh, was of the opinion that there was discrepancy between medical evidence and the testimony of the eye-witnesses. The medical evidence did not support the oral testimony of the eye-witnesses, and from the medical evidence, it was clear that the incident did not take place in the manner described by the eye-witnesses. The trial Court had, therefore, opined that the eye-witnesses did not witness the incident.

13. On second issue, the trial Court was of the opinion that there was wide discrepancy between statements of PW-1 and PW-2. PW-1 stated that the accused dragged the dead-bodies on west-side and the blood was oozing from the bodies, whereas the PW-2 in his statement said that the accused took the dead-bodies in two different sags. Considering this perceived discrepancy, the trial Court was of the opinion that the PW-1 and PW-2 were not the eye-witnesses of the incident. The trial Court also held that the incident did not take place at the time and place when and where it was alleged to have taken place. The eye-witnesses were the interested witness as the PW-1 was the daughter of Girish Singh, and complainant PW-2, was the brother of deceased Girish and Hardayal. In absence of an independent witness, their testimonies became suspicious and their presence was also doubtful. There was discrepancy between statements of the eye-whitenesses and the Doctor (PW-4), who conducted the postmortem on dead bodies of the deceased.

14. After considering the statement of investigating officer, it was held that the incident, as was projected, became suspicious. In respect of Bhola Singh, it was said that except for the statement of PW-2, where he said that in the incident Bhola Singh was also involved, there was no other evidence against him and, therefore, the case against Bhola Singh was not proved in any manner.

15. In view of the aforesaid, it was held that the presence of PW-2 was doubtful. There was wide discrepancy in the statement of the PW-1 and PW-2. The medical evidence did not support the prosecution case regarding the manner in which the incident was caused and, therefore, the case against the accused was not proved.

16. On third issue, the trial Court held that there was no immediate cause/motive for causing the incident by the accused. The alleged motive was that 18 years before the date of incident, Badake Singh was murdered. He was brother of Raj Kumar Singh and Guddu Singh. In the aforesaid incident, deceased Girish Singh, complainant, PW-2 and two other villagers belonging to Pasi Community were accused. It was said that the motive was not established for commission of the offence. The trial Court was of the opinion that the defence version that two deceased were killed somewhere else and, after the dead-bodies were recovered, the police had falsely implicated the accused appeared to be correct.

17. The grounds, on which a revisional Court can set-aside a judgment and order of acquittal, are well settled by catena of judgments. The powers under sections 397 to 401 of Cr.P.C. are to be exercised sparingly. The High Court, while exercising the revisional jurisdiction against an order of acquittal, should not act as Court of appeal to re-appreciate the evidence. However, it is the duty of Court to correct manifest illegality, resulting in gross miscarriage of justice.

18. The Supreme Court in D. Stephens vs Mosibolla , AIR1951 SC 196 held that revisional jurisdiction invoked against the order of acquittal should be exercised only in exceptional cases to correct a manifest illegality or to prevent gross miscarriage of justice. Para-10 of the aforesaid judgment is extracted hereunder:-

" 10. The revisional jurisdiction conferred on the High Court under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is not to be lightly exercised, when it is invoked by a private complainant against an order of acquittal, against which the Government has a right of appeal under Section 417. It could be exercised only in exceptional cases where the interests of public justice require interference for the correction of a manifest illegality, or the prevention of a gross miscarriage of justice. This jurisdiction is not ordinarily invoked or used merely because the lower court has taken a wrong view of the law or misappreciated the evidence on record. As already pointed out, there has been no such error in the present case; on the other hand, it seems to us that on both the previous occasions, the Chief Presidency Magistrate was right in holding that the accused was not guilty of any offence under Sections 25 and 26 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act."

Similar view has been reiterated in several judgments, including in Ram Briksh Singh and others Vs. Ambika Yadav and another, (2004) 7 SCC 665.

19. The questions, which arise for consideration in the present revision, is whether the trial Court has been correct in discarding the testimony of PW-1, who was an eye-witness to the incident in which her father and uncle were killed mercilessly, even it if it is believed that the PW-2 was not an eye-witness. The second question, which needs to be considered, is whether discrepancy in the testimony of PW-1 and PW-4 were so wide that the prosecution case was to be rejected and the accused were to be acquitted. The third question is whether the trial Court had overlooked the material evidence and passed the impugned judgment and order of acquittal, resulting in manifest illegality and gross miscarriage of justice.

20. Keeping in mind the scope of revisional jurisdiction of the High Court against an order of acquittal the facts of the present case are analysed. PW-1 was 13-14 years child. In her cross-examination-in-chief, she stated that it was the "Diwali Day' and the lamps were burning. At around 7.00 p.m. accused Rajjan, Guddu, Raj Kumar, Uttam, Udham, Madal and Parashuram armed with Farsa and Axe came and dragged her father Girish to the house of Sundar Pasi. They put him on a piece of wood and chopped off his neck. It was further said that at that time his uncle Hardayal was sitting in front of house of Nanhke Pasi. The accused dragged him also by putting rope on his neck, and took him towards west. She said that she witnessed the incident from window of her home. She also said that she knew and recognized the accused. This witness was subjected to quite lengthy cross-examination, but nothing came out, on the basis of which, her testimony could be said to be shaken or unbelievable. She remained firm in her deposition. The minor discrepancy in her statement and the deposition of PW-4 would not make her testimony unbelievable. The trial Court did not keep in its mind that she was a child 12-13 years old when the incident took place and her father was mercilessly murdered by the accused by chopping off his neck from the body, and her uncle was also murdered. The inference regarding manner of assault, drawn on the basis of the medical evidence, should not have been enough to discard her testimony.

21. The prosecution case should not have been rejected by the trial Court merely on the ground that the FIR was lodged with delay of 17 hours. It is important to note here that because of fear and terror being spread on account of daredevil murder of two real brothers on the day of the "Diwali', no witness from the village came forward to depose against the accused. The incident is said to have been taken place at 7:30 p.m. on the day of "Diwali'. The FIR was registered on 12:30 hours on the next day at the police station which was 12 kilometers away from the place of incident. Mere delay in lodging the FIR would not be enough for discarding the prosecution case, if it was otherwise proved by the testimony of an eye-witness and other evidence brought on record. Even if it is believed that there was a delay in lodging the FIR, and the same was lodged after summoning PW-2, but if the prosecution case could get proved by the testimony of one eye-witness, it would be suffice to convict the accused if the testimony of that witness is firmed, believable, cogent and credible.

22. The Supreme Court in the case of Sunil Kumar Vs. State Govt. of NCT of Delhi, (2003), 11 SCC 367 has held that testimony of sole eye-witness can be enough for conviction provided his evidence is wholly reliable. There is no legal impediment in convicting a person on the sole testimony of a single witness. Paragraphs 8, 9 and 10 of Sunil Kumar Vs. State Govt. of NCT of Delhi (supra), which are relevant for the purpose of the present case, are extracted herein below:-

"8. In Vadivelu Thevar v. State of Madras [AIR 1957 SC 614 : 1957 Cri LJ 1000] this Court had gone into this controversy and divided the nature of witnesses in three categories, namely, wholly reliable, wholly unreliable and lastly, neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable. In the case of the first two categories this Court said that they pose little difficulty but in the case of the third category of witnesses, corroboration would be required. The relevant portion is quoted as under: (AIR p. 619, paras 11-12)

"Hence, in our opinion, it is a sound and well-established rule of law that the court is concerned with the quality and not with the quantity of the evidence necessary for proving or disproving a fact. Generally speaking, oral testimony in this context may be classified into three categories, namely:

(1) Wholly reliable.

(2) Wholly unreliable.

(3) Neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable.

In the first category of proof, the court should have no difficulty in coming to its conclusion either way -- it may convict or may acquit on the testimony of a single witness, if it is found to be above reproach or suspicion of interestedness, incompetence or subornation. In the second category, the court equally has no difficulty in coming to its conclusion. It is in the third category of cases, that the court has to be circumspect and has to look for corroboration in material particulars by reliable testimony, direct or circumstantial. There is another danger in insisting on plurality of witnesses. Irrespective of the quality of the oral evidence of a single witness, if courts were to insist on plurality of witnesses in proof of any fact, they will be indirectly encouraging subornation of witnesses."

9. Vadivelu Thevar case [AIR 1957 SC 614 : 1957 Cri LJ 1000] was referred to with approval in the case of Jagdish Prasad v. State of M.P. [1995 SCC (Cri) 160 : AIR 1994 SC 1251] This Court held that as a general rule the court can and may act on the testimony of a single witness provided he is wholly reliable. There is no legal impediment in convicting a person on the sole testimony of a single witness. That is the logic of Section 134 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (in short "the Evidence Act"). But, if there are doubts about the testimony the courts will insist on corroboration. It is for the court to act upon the testimony of witnesses. It is not the number, the quantity, but the quality that is material. The time-honoured principle is that evidence has to be weighed and not counted. On this principle stands the edifice of Section 134 of the Evidence Act. The test is whether the evidence has a ring of truth, is cogent, credible and trustworthy, or otherwise.

10. Evidence of PW 5 has been analysed with great care and caution by the trial court as well as the High Court. The so-called improvements do not, in any way, introduce a new facet of the case. Every omission is not a contradiction. Minor details which are not indicated in the first information report are later on elaborated in court, do not justify a criticism that the case originally presented has been abandoned to be substituted by another one. PW 5's evidence appears to be clear, cogent and trustworthy. Nothing substantial has been brought on record to disregard the testimony of this witness. Though PW 3 changed his version, yet his evidence does not get totally wiped out. A part of it which is reliable can be taken note of by the court and has, in fact, been taken note of. The evidence of this witness notwithstanding his making a different version provides some corroboration, though as noted above, the evidence of PW 5 alone was sufficient to fix the guilt on the accused persons. Merely because of the fact that there were some minor omissions, which are but natural, considering the fact that the examination in court took place years after the occurrence, the evidence does not become suspect. Necessarily, there cannot be exact and precise reproduction in any mathematical manner. What needs to be seen is whether the version presented in the court was substantially similar to what was stated during investigation. It is only when exaggerations fundamentally change the nature of the case, the court has to consider whether the witness was telling the truth or not. As has been held by the trial court as well as the High Court, the evidence of PW 5 was truthful evidence. He has graphically described the assaults on the deceased. Accused Dharamvir gave several blows on the person of the deceased while accused Sunil caught hold of him to facilitate the assaults. Section 34 of the Act is clearly attracted. This is not a case where anything substantial has been brought on record to disregard the evidence of PW 5."

23. It is the settled law that minor contradiction or inconsistency cannot unnecessarily demolish the entire prosecution story, if it is otherwise found to be credit worthy. If the contradictions in the testimony of the witnesses do not destroy the core of the prosecution case, the prosecution case should not be rejected. In a murder trial, trivial discrepancy should not be the ground for rejecting the prosecution case, if it is otherwise found to be credit worthy. The Supreme Court in the case of Bakhshish Singh Vs. State of Punjab and another (2013) 12 SCC 187, in paragraphs 31 to 33 has held as under:-

"31. This Court in several cases observed that minor inconsistent versions/discrepancies do not necessarily demolish the entire prosecution story, if it is otherwise found to be creditworthy. InSampath Kumar v. Inspector of Police

[Sampath Kumar v.Inspector of Police, (2012) 4 SCC 124 : (2012) 2 SCC (Cri) 42] this Court after scrutinising several earlier judgments relied upon the observations in Narayan Chetanram Chaudhary v. State of Maharashtra [(2000) 8 SCC 457 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 1546] to the following effect: (Sampath Kumar case [Sampath Kumar v.Inspector of Police, (2012) 4 SCC 124 : (2012) 2 SCC (Cri) 42] , SCC p. 130, para 21)

"21. ... "42. Only such omissions which amount to contradiction in material particulars can be used to discredit the testimony of the witness. The omission in the police statement by itself would not necessarily render the testimony of witness unreliable. When the version given by the witness in the court is different in material particulars from that disclosed in his earlier statements, the case of the prosecution becomes doubtful and not otherwise. Minor contradictions are bound to appear in the statements of truthful witnesses as memory sometimes plays false and the sense of observation differ from person to person.' (Narayan Chetanram Chaudhary case [(2000) 8 SCC 457 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 1546] , SCC p. 483, para 42)"

32. In Sunil Kumar Sambhudayal Gupta v. State of Maharashtra [(2010) 13 SCC 657 : (2011) 2 SCC (Cri) 375] this Court observed as follows: (SCC p. 671, para 30)

"30. While appreciating the evidence, the court has to take into consideration whether the contradictions/omissions had been of such magnitude that they may materially affect the trial. Minor contradictions, inconsistencies, embellishments or improvements on trivial matters without effecting the core of the prosecution case should not be made a ground to reject the evidence in its entirety. The trial court, after going through the entire evidence, must form an opinion about the credibility of the witnesses and the appellate court in normal course would not be justified in reviewing the same again without justifiable reasons. (Vide State v. Saravanan [(2008) 17 SCC 587 : (2010) 4 SCC (Cri) 580] .)"

33. The embellishments in the statements of Narinder Banwait (PW 19) referred to above, in our view do not constitute such contradictions which destroy the core of the prosecution case as this Court in Raj Kumar Singh v. State of Rajasthan [(2013) 5 SCC 722] has observed as under: (SCC p. 740, para 43)

"43. ... It is a settled legal proposition that, while appreciating the evidence of a witness, minor discrepancies on trivial matters, which do not affect the core of the case of the prosecution, must not prompt the court to reject the evidence thus provided, in its entirety. The irrelevant details which do not in any way corrode the credibility of a witness, cannot be labelled as omissions or contradictions. Therefore, the courts must be cautious and very particular in their exercise of appreciating evidence. The approach to be adopted is, if the evidence of a witness is read in its entirety, and the same appears to have in it, a ring of truth, then it may become necessary for the court to scrutinise the evidence more particularly, keeping in mind the deficiencies, drawbacks and infirmities pointed out in the said evidence as a whole, and evaluate them separately, to determine whether the same are completely against the nature of the evidence provided by the witnesses, and whether the validity of such evidence is shaken by virtue of such evaluation, rendering it unworthy of belief."

24. Similar view has been taken in (2009) 14 SCC 748, (2018) 5 SCC 435 and (2017) 11 SCC 85 and several other cases.

25. In the present case, the contradictions in the manner of assault by Axe on deceased Girish Singh, as stated by PW-1, and evidence of PW-4 would not make the prosecution story improbable or false. The trial Court has been incorrect in discarding the testimony of PW-1. Even if it is believed that she did not witness the murder of his uncle, her testimony could not have been discarded, regarding the murder of her father. PW-1 was the natural witness. The assailants/accused belonged to the same village and were known to her. Her presence at the house and witnessing the incident had been discarded by the trial Court, considering the medical evidence. The approach of the trial Court does not appear to be correct.

26. The trial Court finding that there was no motive for commission of the offence does not appear to be correct. The accused, in their statements, have specifically stated that they have been falsely implicated because there was enmity between them and complainant due to murder of Badake Singh in which Guddu Singh, complainant and two others belonging to "Pasi Community' were the accused. The motive becomes irrelevant when there is ocular testimony of the incident.

27. In view of the aforesaid, the impugned judgment and order is set-aside, and the matter is remitted back to the trial Court for decision afresh. So far as acquittal of Bhola Singh (respondent no. 9) is concerned, the trial Court was correct in holding that except for bald statement of PW-2 that he was involved in commission of the offence, there is no evidence regarding his involvement in commission of the offence. Therefore, the impugned judgment and order, so far as it relates to Bhola Singh (respondent no. 9) is concerned, it is affirmed. The trial Court is directed to decide the case afresh in accordance with law within a period of four months from today.

28. Bail bonds of the respondents 2 to 8 (Rajjan Singh, Guddu Singh, Raj Kumar Singh, Uttam Singh, Udham Singh, Madal Singh and Parashuram Singh) are cancelled. They are required to surrender before the trial Court and apply for fresh bail.

29. The revision is allowed partly. Let a copy of this order, along with L.C.R., be transmitted to the concerned trial Court forthwith for compliance.

REVISIONAL JURISDICTION

THE HON'BLE RAHUL CHATURVEDI, J.

Criminal Revision No. 4113 of 2018

Ayodhya Prasad Umrao & Anr.
...Revisionists
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionists:
Sri I.M. Khan

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.G.A., Sri Birendra Singh, Sri Kamal Kishor

A. Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 319 - Degree of satisfaction for invoking Section 319 - should be more than prima facie as exercised at the time of framing of the charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction.

B. Doctrine - judex damnatur cum nocens absolvitur - Judge is condemned when guilty is acquitted - prosecution U/s 319 Cr.P.C springs out of said doctrine - objective of Section 319 Cr.P.C is that the real culprit should not get away unpunished.

Held - eye witness, in her statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C. described physical appearance of miscreants but did not took the names of revisionists who are her own Chachia Sasur and her Devar - after five months delay, injured witnesses stated the involvement of the present revisionists, in commission of the offence- during trial, increased the number of assailants from 2 to 8, assigned weapons to them and attributed general role of assault by all of them - completely negated by the injury reports - under such circumstances summoning revisionists as accused persons, appears to be unjust and improper.

Criminal Revision Allowed. (E-5)

4. Brijednra Singh & ors. Vs. St. of Raj(2017) 7 SCC 706

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rahul Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard Shri I.M. Khan, learned counsel for the revisionists, Sri Birendra Singh, learned counsel for private opposite party, learned A.G.A. and perused the record.

2. The instant Criminal Revision is targeted against order dated 03.11.2018 passed by VII-Additional Session Judge, Fatehpur whereby while deciding application no. 12B under section 319 Cr.P.C. in four connected Session Trials i.e. S.T. Nos. 148/2014 under sections 396, 412 IPC, Police Station Bindki, District Fatehpur the accused applicants have been summoned by the court concerned.

3. Submissions made by learned counsel for the revisionists are that on the earlier occasion, a similar exercise was carried out by earlier Additional Session Judge, Court No. 8, Fatehpur vide order dated 08.02.2016 and said order was challenged before Coordinate Bench of this Court by means of Criminal Revision No. 1107/2016 (Jitendra Umrao Vs. State of U.P. and others). The aforesaid Bench of this Court by its judgment dated 09.08.2018 while allowing the aforesaid revision, set-aside the order dated 08.02.2016 and remitted the matter to the court concerned for fresh consideration in accordance with law, hence a subsequent order was passed on 03.11.2018 by the court below, which is under challenge by means of instant Criminal Revision.

4. Before coming to the merits of the case, it is imperative to mention bare skeleton facts of the case for better appreciation on the controversy involved.

5. On 02.08.2013 around 4.40 in the morning a F.I.R. was got registered by one Jitendra Umrao against unknown miscreants of the incident, alleged to have taken place during the intervening night of 01/02.08.2013, which was registered as Case Crime No. 232/2013 U/s 396 I.P.C., at Police Station Bindki District Fatehpur. As per the text of the F.I.R., on the fateful day, the informant along with his family members were sleeping at his residence whereas the informant's mother -Smt. Somwati, Bhabhi-Jyoti, wife of Abhimannyu were sleeping on the roof top. The father Ganga Prasad was sleeping in guest room and two brothers namely Bhupendra and Abhimannyu were sleeping in their respective rooms. Around 2.00-300 hours, in dead hours of night, some miscreants barged into the house, through wall, where they assaulted upon mother Smt. Somwati and Bhabhi Smt. Jyoti, inflicting several injuries on them. Thereafter, they intruded into the rooms of Ganga Prasad (father), brothers Abhimannyu and Bhupendra, assaulted and caused serious injuries to them also. Then they broke Almirah, from where looted the cash, other valuables and fled away from the site. The informant's Bhabhi- Smt. Jyoti narrated the entire incident to the informant therafter, which made the informant rush to the spot of occurrence where he found his father dead and his mother, bhabhi and both the brothers seriously injured. He further narrated in the FIR that while taking her mother to the hospital, she took her last breath en-route. Bhabhi Smt. Jyoti and both the brothers were taken to C.H.C. Bindki, Fatehpur where both the brothers were referred to Kanpur for better treatment. Thus, from the text of F.I.R. following features are abundantly clear:-

(a). The incident was of in the night hours.

(b) No body could identify the assailants.

(c). There was loot of cash and valuable ornaments.

(d). Two persons namely Ganga Prasad and his wife Smt. Somwati lost their lives in this transaction, whereas 3 persons namely Bhupendra, Abhimannyu as well as Smt. Jyoti have sustained serious injuries over their person.

6. Annexure Nos. 2 ad 3 of the revision are injury reports of Shri Bhupendra Umarao and Abhimannyu Umrao issued by Madhuraj Hospital, Kanpur which categorically reveals that both the injured persons were admitted in the hospital on 02.08.2013 at 6.00 in the morning by Sujeet (revisionist no.2) and as per the opinion of the doctor, the injuries sustained by the injured were grievous in nature. It is interesting to point out herein that both the injured persons were admitted by Sujeet (revisionist no.2), who is a non-accused but by means of the impugned order, he was also made accused along with his father Ayodhya Prasad Umrao.

7. After registeration of the case, the investigation in the matter started rolling and police recorded statements of informant Jitendra Umrao U/s 161 Cr.P.C., Smt. Jyoti wife of Abhimannyu (eye witness), Bhupendra Umrao (injured), Abhimannyu (the injured witness). On critical analysis of the statements of injured witnesses, it is abundantly clear that the informant who is not an eye witness of the incident, has reiterated the version of FIR. However, Smt. Jyoti (eye witness) has mentioned that 6-7 miscreants barged into the house and assaulted them by lathi-danda to her mother-in-law Smt. Somwati and to herself, thereafter they barged into the rooms of Ganga Prasad, Bhupendra and Abhimannyu and assaulted them by lathi-danda, looted cash, valuables and jewelries. Thereafter she informed the informant Jitendra Umrao about the incident. In her statement recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C. she has given vivid description of those miscreants that amongst them, one was aged about 40-45 years, another was slightly bulky and addressing one to another as Lachi @ Lachhi. She has identified all the miscreants in the electricity light and stated that none of the miscreants had covered their faces.

8. Similarly, Bhupendra Umrao (injured) has narrated the same story in his statement U/s 161 Cr.P.C. to the police with addition to it that there is certain misunderstanding between him and his wife Smt. Mamta and since then she is residing at her parent's place at Kanpur and the injured has raised his unfounded suspicion on Mamta that she might be involved in this incident. Except this, in his 161 Cr.P.C. statement, she too has not taken name of the present revisionists.

9. Yet another injured Abhimannyu has reiterated the version of his brother Bhupendra Umrao and has given vivid physical description of assailants. In his statement U/s 161 Cr.P.C. he further stated that the miscreants were talking in the language which is often used by "Kanjads" (caste and creed who are wanderers of abandoned places).

10. After thrashing all the material collected by the police during investigation, the police submitted charge sheet only against Prem Kumar and Sumerjeet U/s 396 I.P.C.

11. It is contended by the learned counsel for the opposite parties that the police has played a partisan approach in not recording the statements U/s 161 Cr.P.C. of the witnesses in appropriate manner by intentionally dropping the names of revisionists and co-accused, Mamta. Hence, opposite party no.2 filed a complaint case bearing Complaint Case No. 727/2014 before Chief Judicial Magistrate, Fatehpur for summoning the present revisionists. The statements under sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. were recorded and the said complaint is pending till date without any summoning order and application U/s 210 Cr.P.C. was moved for clubbing the same which is pending undecided.

12. After committal of the case, the trial in the matter begun and testimonies of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 were recorded. It is pointed out by the counsel for the revisionists that after recording the aforesaid testimonies, the texture of the case got changed. It is relevant to mentin here that the non-accused Ayodhya Prasad Umrao and his son Sujeet Kumar are close family members of the deceased, rather siblings.

13. This court got an opportunity to go through the testimonies of all the three witnesses (Annexure no. 8 to the affidavit) including the testimony of PW-1, Jitendra Umrao, who is not an eye witness, who in his examination-in-chief, has admitted that he lodged FIR against unknown persons but thereafter the injured brothers disclosed the name of assailants as Prem Kumar and Samarjeet (charge sheeted accused) and Raja, Surendra, Munesh Lachi @ Lachhi, Sujeet and Ayodhya Prasad as well as Mamta as accused. Ayodhya Prasad Umrao is the real uncle of informant and Sujeet Kumar is the cousin. In the cross examination, PW-1 has stated that he has taken name of the present revisionists as well as Mamta but they have not been made accused in the charge sheet. Thereafter PW-2, Bhupendra Umrao in his examination-in-chief has stated that revisionist no.1 was armed with a revolver, revisionist no.2 was having gun in his hand, Mamta was armed with knife, Prem Kumar was armed Kanta, whereas Samarjeet, Raja, Surendra, Munesh, Lachi @ Lachhi were carrying lathi-danda and iron rods and all of them jointly assaulted upon the victims by their respective weapons.

14. Taking the arguments to be true on its face value of the applicants and comparing the injury report of Bhupendra Umrao, who was admitted in the hospital by none other than Sujeet Kumar (revisionist no.2), there are 3 traumatic swelling on his person, the prosecution story completely belies the allegations and the role attributed to the accused pesons.

15. Coming to examination-in-chief of PW-3 Abhimannyu Umrao, he too, in his testimony named the accused persons and it is interesting to point out here that his 161 Cr.P.C. statement was recorded on 21.08. 2013 in CD Parcha No. 19 wherein he has raised certain amount of suspicion on his wife Smt. Mamta but after almost five months, his second statement was recorded in CD Parcha No. 48, wherein he inserted the names of present revisionists.

16. It is contended by the learned counsel for the revisionists that not even a single item of the alleged looted articles was recovered either from the possession of revisionists or on their pointing out.

17. In nut-shell, the fact of the case summaries as follows:

(a) The revisionists are not named in the FIR.

(b) During 161 Cr.P.C. statements, none of the injured persons or eye witnesses have taken the names of revisionists or attributed their role in the commission of the offence. Ms. Jyoti has categorically given vivid physical descriptions of the assailants and has clearly mentioned that none of the assailants covered their faces at the time of the alleged incident.

(c) Under such circumstance, it is implausible that she would not identify the revisionists, who are her paternal uncle-in-law (Chachia Sasur) and younger brother-in-law (Devar).

18. If all the testimonies are taken to be true, they are named in the testimonies with their respective weapons, but the prosecution has failed to attribute any specific role to them in commission of the offence. There is no recovery of any incriminating article either from the possession or on their pointing out.

19. On these above mentioned factual parameters, this court has opportunity to examine the legal veracity and validity of the impugned order dated 03.11.2018.

LEGAL DISCUSSIONS:

It remains trite that the provisions contained in 319 Cr.P.C. are to achieve the objective that the real culprit should not get away unpunished. The prosecution U/s 319 Cr.P.C. is springs out of doctrine judex damnatur cum nocens absolvitur (Judge is condemned when guilty is acquitted) and this doctrine must be used as a beacon light while explaining the ambit and the spirit underlying the enactment of Section 319 Cr.P.C.

20. By virtue of the aforesaid provision, the court is empowered to proceed against any person who is not shown as an accused, if it appears from the evidence that such person/s have/s committed any offence for which he could be tried with other co-accused persons. The court concerned is duty-bound to identify the real culprit and punish him. Even under the circumstance when the investigating agency has not arrayed that person as accused, the court has no power to meet to such an exceptional eventuality. The million dollars question remains that under what circumstance and in what stage of trial the degree of satisfaction is to be exercised under section 319 Cr.P.C. The law courts are the sole repository of justice and duty is casted upon them to uphold the rule of law.

21. Thus, it would be inappropriate to deny such powers with the court in our criminal judicial system, which is not uncommon that real and unscrupulous accused at time, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or prosecuting agency.

22. The Hon'ble Apex Court in its recent celebrated pronouncement in the case of Haradeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab (2014) 3 SCC 92 has laid down broad principles of law, which is as follows:

"95. In Suresh Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2001 SC 1375, this Court after taking note of the earlier judgments in Niranjan Singh Karam Singh Punjabi Vs. Jitendra Bhimraj Bijjaya, AIR 1990 SC 1962 and State of Maharashtra Vs. Priya Sharan Maharaj, AIR 1997 SC 2041, held as under:

"9... at the stage of Sections 227 and 228 the Court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to finding out if the facts emerging there from taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. The Court may, for this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case. Therefore, at the stage of framing of the charge the Court has to consider the material with a view to find out if there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed the offence or that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against him and not for the purpose of arriving at the conclusion that it is not likely to lead to a conviction.

105. In Sohan Lal and Ors. Vs. State of Rajasthan, (1990) 4 SCC 580, a two-Judge Bench of this Court held that once an accused has been discharged, the procedure for enquiry envisaged under Section 398 Cr.P.C. cannot be circumvented by prescribing to procedure under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

106. In Municipal Corporation of Delhi Vs. Ram Kishan Rohtagi & Ors. AIR 1983 SC 67, this Court held that if the prosecution can at any stage produce evidence which satisfies the court that those who have not been arraigned as accused or against whom proceedings have been quashed, have also committed the offence, the Court can take cognizance against them U/s 319 Cr.P.C. and try them along with the other accused.

23. Thus the provisions contained in Section 319 Cr.P.C. sanctions summoning of any person on the basis of any relevant evidence as available on record. However, being a discretionary power and an extraordinary one, it has to be exercised sparingly and only when cogent evidence is available. The prime facie opinion which is to be formed for exercise of this power requires stronger evidence then mere probability of complicity of a person. The test to be applied is the one which is more than a prima facie case as examined at the time of framing charge but not of satisfaction to the extent that the evidence, if goes uncontroverted, would lead to the conviction of the accused.

23. In the recent judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Periyasami and others Vs. S. Nallasamy (Criminal Appeal No. 456 of 2019) decided on 14th March, 2019), which is akin to facts of the present case and the Hon'ble Apex Court opined that in the first information report or in the statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., the names of the revisionists or any other description have not been given so as to identify them. The allegations in the FIR are vague and can be used any time to include any person in the absence of description in the First Information Report to identify such person. There is no assertion in respect of the villages to which the additional accused persons belong. Therefore, there is no strong or cogent evidence to make the revisionists stand the trial for the offences under Section 147, 448, 294(b) and 506 of IPC in view of the judgment in Hardeep Singh Case (supra). The additional accused cannot be summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C., in casual and cavalier manner in the absence of strong and cogent evidence. Under Section 319 Cr.P.C. additional accused can be summoned only if there is more than prima facie case, as is required at the time of framing of charge but which is less than the satisfaction required at the time of conclusion of the trial convicting the accused.

24. The High Court had set-aside the order passed by the learned Magistrate only on the basis of the statements of some of the witnesses examined by the Complainant. Mere disclosing the names of the revisionists cannot be said to be strong and cogent evidence to make them to stand trial for the offence under Section 319 Cr.P.C., especially when the Complainant is a husband and has initiated criminal proceedings against family of his in-laws and when their names or other identity were not disclosed at the first opportunity.

24. In the present case, on the above lines, when Ms. Jyoti, the eye witness, in her statement recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C. has clearly described the physical appearance of the miscreants by referring their age and height, clearly mentioning therein that none of the assailants have covered their faces but, there too, she was unable to identify Ayodhya Prasad Umrao, her own Chachia Sasur and Surjeet Kumar, her Devar. Not only this, as mentioned above, Sujeet Kumar/revisionist no.2 has taken the injured persons to Madhuraj Hospital, Kanpur and got them admitted, coupled with the facts that after five months delay a "wisdom" was drawn upon the injured witnesses regarding the involvement of the present revisionists in commission of the offence. There was no reported previous animosity between the family and thereafter at the belated stage during the trial, swelling the names, number of assailants from 2 to 8, assigning the weapons to them and attributing general role of assault by all of them, is completely negated by the injury reports of injured persons, therefore, under such circumstances summoning those revisionists as accused persons, appears to be unjust and improper.

25. The learned counsel for the revisionists has further relied upon yet another judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Labhuji Amratji Thakor & others Vs. State of Gujarat and another (Criminal Appeal No. 1349/2018) decided on 13.11.2018, wherein it has been underlined that the court has to consider the substance of the evidence which has come before it and as lay down by the Constitutional Bench in Hardeep Singh's case, has to apply the test i.e. "more than prima facie as exercised at the time of framing of the charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction."

26. In this case too, wherein the evidence recorded by the police, carrying number of pit holes and submitting charge sheet only against two persons, the prosecution at the stage of trial, wants to cover-up these short falls by their respective testimonies, assigning the weapons and general roles to all of them, which is in stark contrast with the injury reports of injured persons.

27. Learned counsel the revisionists further relied upon another judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court inre: Brijendra Singh and others Vs. State of Rajasthan (2017) Vol.7 SCC 706 in which Hon'ble Apex Court opined that "the "evidence' recorded during trial was nothing more than the statements which was already there under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded at the time of investigation of the case. No doubt, the trial court would be competent to exercise its power even on the basis of such statements recorded before it in examination-in-chief. However, in a case like the present where plethora of evidence was collected by the I.O. during investigation which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty bound to look into the same while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether "much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (i.e. revisionists) complicity has come on record. There is no satisfaction of this nature. Even if we presume that the trial court was not apprised of the same at the time when it passed the order)as the revisionists were not on the scene at that time), what is more troubling is that even when this material on record was specifically brought to the notice of the High Court in the revision petition filed by the revisionists".

28. The Trial Court has miserably failed to take into account that evidence collected during investigation by the investigating agency left untouched and brushed aside by learned Trial Judge while deciding the application 12B U/s 319 Cr.P.C.

29. Keeping in view all the factors, enumerated above, if cumulatively taken into account, goes to show that learned Trial Judge has failed to appreciate and apply the ratio laid down in the case of Hardeep Singh (Supra) in its correct perspective and has passed the order impugned, which is not sustainable in the eye of law. Therefore, revision deserves to be allowed.

30. Accordingly the impugned order dated 03.11.2018 is looses its graound and accordingly deserves to be quashed.

31. The order dated 03.11.2018 passed by VII-Additional Session Judge, Fatehpur passed while deciding application no. 12B under section 319 Cr.P.C. in four connected Session Trials i.e. S.T. Nos. 148/2014 under sections 396, 412 IPC, Police Station Bindki, District Fatehpur is set aside.

32. The revision is allowed.

33. The matter is remanded to the court concerned for fresh adjudication and court concerned is directed that after giving appropriate opportunity of hearing to rival parties, it shall decide the same, in accordance with law, keeping in view the aforesaid judgements decided by the Apex Court within one month from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajul Bhargava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vimlendu Tripathi and Sri Rajesh Kumar Mishra, counsel for the revisionists and learned AGA.

2. The present criminal revision has been filed against the impugned judgment and order dated 4.10.2019 passed by learned Additional District and Session Judge, Hapur on the application filed by opposite party no. 2 u/s 319 Cr.P.C. in Special Session Trial no. 45 of 2016 (State vs. Joni) arising out of Case Crime no. 120 of 2016, u/s 363, 366, 376 IPC, and Section ¾ POCSO Act, P.S. Babugarh, District Hapur.

3. The breif background of the case is that the revisionists were summoned u/s 319 Cr.P.C. vide order dated 13.12.2018 on the basis of statement of prosecutrix recorded during trial in which she has levelled allegation of gang rape against the revisionists and the said order was challenged by the revisionists in Criminal Revision no. 459 of 2019. The coordinate Bench of this Court quashed the order dated 13.12.2018 and remanded the matter back for fresh consideration after affording opportunity of hearing to both the parties strictly in the light of ratio laid down in Hardeep Singh's case etc. within a period of eight weeks. The order passed by the Court is as under:-

"Heard learned counsel for the revisionists and learned AGA for the State.

The instant Criminal Revision is on behalf of the revisionist Manoj and Raju @ Raj Kumar is targetted against the orders passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Hapur while deciding the application no. 30 kha under Section 319 Cr.P.C. so preferred by the accused informant.

Submission made by the counsel is that the informant Ashok Kumar lodged an FIR on 06.04.2016 under Sections 363 and 366 IPC, P.S. Babugarh, District Hapur against one Johny. The name of the revisionist was neither named in the FIR nor his name came during investigation. Submission furhter made by the counsel is that during investigation, the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. of the victim was recorded in which she has taken name of Raju @ Rajkumar and Manoj for extending threats to girl but, interestingly, ignoring 164 Cr.P.C. and collecting or attending material, the I.O. of the case in the fitness of the case of the circumstances has submitted under Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. only against Johny and there was no whisper in the charge sheet regarding the complicity of Jitendra, Raju and Manoj (revisionists). Thereafter since the case was triable by the sessions court and consequently the matter was committed to the court of Sessions. The testimony of the victim was recorded on 21.06.2018 in which she has taken the name and attributed the role against the Johny son of Babloo, Jitendra son of Karan, Jitendra's uncle Raju @ Rajkumar and uncle of Johny, Manoj and has mentioned that all the four has out raged her modesty. Not only this the mother of the victim has also recorded her testimony on the same lines and thereafter it was prayed from the court learned trial court to exercise the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and summoned known accused persons (revisionists) and by impugned order learned trial judge has summoned the revisionist.

Learned counsel for the revisionists has assailed the order on the ground that the order impugned is in complete tangent of the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Brijendra Singh & others Vs. State of Rajasthan reported in (2017) 7 SCC 706, Hardeep Singh vs State Of Punjab & Ors reported in (2014)3 SCC 92, Labhuii Amratji Thakor & others Vs. State of Gujrat and another, (Criminal Appeal No. 1349 of 2018 arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 6392 of 2018 decided on 13.11.2018.

In order to buttress his contention learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon Brijendra Singh's case in which Hon'ble Apex Court has categorically mentioned :-

"However, in a case like the present where plethora of evidence was collected by the IO during investigation which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty bound to look into the same while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether 'much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (i.e. appellants) complicity has come on record. There is no sayisfaction of this nature."

On the similar lines in the recent judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in Labhuji Amratji Thakor's case the court has opined that the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. should be sparingly used and it should be very sparingly. More over under the circumstances it has been categorically mentioned that on the date and time of the incident, the revisionists Manoj Kumar was on Govt. duty and was residing in the Govt. accommodation and after 27.02.2016, he has not taken any leave and continuously remain present in the Chief Fire Extinguisher Office, District Bulandshahar and certified copy to this effect is annexed as Annexure-11 to the affidavit accompanying the revision. The revisionist no.1 is a Govt. Servant, all these factors has to be taken into account while recording the prima facie satisfaction.

After going through the impugned order, I am of the considered opinion that the order impugned is in the strak contrast with the ratio laid down by the above mentioned three judgements of Hon'ble Apex Court in which the Hon'ble Apex Court has provided the guidelines with regard to the summoning, the quantum of satisfaction, and the stage of using 319 Cr.P.C. application and thus under the circumstances in exercise of power under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C., I here quashed the order dated 13.12.2018 and remanded he matter back for fresh consideration after affording opportunity of hearing to both the parties strictly in the light of the ratio laid down in Hardeep Singh's case, Labhuji Amratji's case and Brijendra Singh's case within a period of eight weeks from the date of production of certified copy of thsi order.

With the aforesaid observation, this revision stands disposed of finally."

4. Since the entire facts of the case and evidence recorded during trial has already been discussed in the aforesaid order, I do not deem it fit to repeat the submission made by counsel for the revisionists onceagain as now even in the present petition argument advanced by learned counsel is the same and has assailed the impugned order dated 4.10.2019.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionists have assailed the impugned order on the ground that the trial judge has misinterpreted evidence on record and has recorded perverse finding about involvement of revisionists in the crime. Trial judge did not consider the material collected during investigation in respect of their plea of alibi which stood unrebutted and solely on the basis of conjectures and surmises summoned the revisionists to face trial.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionists submitted that in view the judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh Versus State of Punjab (2014) 3 SCC 92, the trial judge has not considered the evidence on record and has relied on extraneous material without recording satisfaction more than prima facie satisfaction sufficient for framing charges is required under the law and no such satisfaction to this effect has been recorded in the impugned order. Learned counsels have further place reliance on subsequent decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Brijendra Singh and others Versus State of Rajasthan (2017) 7 SCC 706 and followed in the a recent judgement rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Shiv Prakash Mishra Versus State of Uttar Pradesh and another passed in Criminal Appeal No.1105 of 2019 (arising out of S.L.P. (Crl.) No.2168 of 2019) dated 23.7.2019 wherein the plea of alibi was raised by the accused and accepted by Investigating Agency which led to filing of charge-sheet. The powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. was invoked by the prosecution which led to allowing of the application which was assailed in the High Court whereafter the matter was preferred upto Supreme Court wherein challenge made by the accused therein was upheld by holding that a detailed inquiry has been conducted by the investigating agency where the plea of alibi was found to be true, the trial court was not correct in allowing the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. in a perfunctory and cursory manner without applying its judicial mind to the exonerative evidence collected by the Investigating Officer during investigation.

7. Sri Pankaj Saxena, learned A.G.A. Appearing for the State has strongly opposed the prayer for quashing the impugned order and has relied upon the Constitution Bench decision of Hon'ble Apex Court in Hardeep Singh Versus State of Haryana.. He has further argued that the plea of alibi cannot be considered at the stage of taking cognizance or claiming discharge by the accused under Section 227 of Cr.P.C. and the trial court while exercising powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The trial judge has rightly placed reliance on the statement of PW 3 who is the victim of gang rape by the revisionists and two other which continued for about a month. Therefore, the instant revision deserves to be dismissed.

8. In order to deal with the submissions made by learned counsels for the revisionists, especially in respect of subsequent judgements rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Brijendra Singh's and Shiv Prasad Mishra's cases, I would like to deal with legal aspect as to what material/evidence is to be considered under Section 319 Cr.P.C. as laid down in the judgements of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the Constitution Bench decision rendered in the case of Hardeep Singh (supra).

9. The Hon'ble Apex court in it's decision of Constitution Bench in the case of Hardeep Singh(supra) has considered the scope, ambit and sweep of Section 319 Cr.P.C. in detail and has framed several questions including question No.(iii) which is reproduced below:-

"Question (iii) - Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319 (1)

Cr.P.C. has been used in a comprehensive sense and includes the evidence collected during investigation or the word "evidence" is limited to the evidence recorded during trial ?"

10. The above said question has been answered in the following manner by the Apex Court:-

"85. In view of the discussion made and the conclusion drawn hereinabove, the answer to the aforesaid question posed is that apart from evidence recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilized only for corroboration and to support the evidence by the court to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The "evidence" is thus limited to the evidence during trial."

11. This Court, after carefully considering the Constitution Bench decision of Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh(supra) and subsequent decisions in Brijendra Singh's and Shiv Prakash Mishra's cases is of the opinion that a bare perusal of two Judges's Bench decision of Apex Court in the Brijendra Singh's case reveals that though earlier decision of Hardeep Singh was considered, however, the scope, ambit and sweep of expression "evidence" contained under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and explained in the para 85 in the judgement was not considered in the subsequent cases to the extent that any evidence collected during investigation either in favour of the prosecution or the accused cannot be taken into account while exercising the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. In view of unambiguous interpretation to the word 'evidence'; it is limited to the evidence recorded by the trial court".

12. With profound respect and utmost humility at my command, I may record that it is well settled that authority/judicial precedent has to be understood in context of facts based on which the observation made therein are made. The ratio of a decision is generally secundum subjectam materiam.

13. In Quinn v. Leathem (1901) AC 495, Earls of Halsbury L.C. stated:

"...that every judgment must be read as applicable to the particular facts proved, or assumed to be proved, since the generality of the expressions which may be found there are not intended to be expositions of the whole law, but governed and qualified by the particular facts of the case in which such expressions are to be found. The other case is only an authority for what it actually decides.

14. It is also well settled that a decision is precedent on its own facts. Each case presents its own features. It is not everything said by a Judge while giving judgement that constitutes a precedent. The only thing in Judge's decision binding a party is the principle upon which the case is decided and for this reason it is important to analyze a decision and isolate from it the ratio decidendi.

15. This court indeed cannot comment on the decision of Hon'ble Apex Court in the Brijendra Singh and Shiv Prakash Mishra's cases(supra) but two conflicting views appeared to exist on the same point of meaning of expression "evidence' used in Section 319 Cr.P.C., the decision of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh rendered by Bench of larger composition shall prevail upon Brijendra Singh's and another decision.

16. In view of the above, this Court has no hesitation to hold that the expression "evidence" found in Section 319 Cr.P.C. is to be understood to mean the evidence collected during the trial in shape of oral and documentary evidence. However, the other evidence which has come on record between the stage of taking cognizance by the Court till the commencement of the trial can merely be used for corroborative purposes as laid down by the Apex Court in five Judge Bench decision in the case of Hardeep Singh. In other words, an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is maintainable only when implicative evidence of probative value more than strong suspicion comes on record in shape of documentary or oral evidence in trial. While considering such application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. the trial court can take assistance, for corroboration only, of any evidence which is already on record introduced between the stage of taking cognizance and the stage of commencement of trial. However, the trial court is not empowered to invoke Section 319 Cr.P.C. merely based on evidence which is part of investigation stage unless the same is already brought on record between the period of taking cognizance and before the trial begins.

17. Essentially, the main thrust of the learned counsels for the revisionists is to the plea of alibi which according to them was of an impeccable quality and thus the trial judge instead of rejecting the same on flimsy ground should have considered the same in this behalf statement of witnesses was also recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to record a positive finding that the revisionists could not have been present at the scene of commission of crime. It is well settled that statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is not a substantive piece of evidence. In view of proviso to subsection (1) of Section 162 Cr.P.C., the statement can be used only with limited purpose of contradicting the maker thereof in the manner laid down in the said proviso. Therefore, the trial judge was perfectly justified in not placing reliance on wholly inadmissible evidence of alibi collected during investigation and if he had relied upon the same it would squarely be against interpretation given by Constitution Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court in Hardeep Singh's case being extraneous material collected during investigation and could not be treated as an evidence for the purposes of exercise of powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. Consideration of plea of alibi while exercising powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. may also be looked into from another angle i.e. Section 103 of Evidence Act which stipulates that burden of proof as to any particular fact lies on that person who wishes the court to believe in its existence, unless it is proved by any law that proof of that fact lies on a particular person. Second illustration to Section 103 of Evidence Act reads as under:

"B wishes the court to believe that at that time in question he was elsewhere, he must prove it."

18. This provision makes it obvious that burden of establishing plea of alibi of the revisionists before this Court lay squarely upon them. There is hardly any doubt regarding this legal proposition. Reference may be made to the cases of State of Haryana Versus Sher Singh, Manu SC/0236/1981, Gurcharan Singh Versus State of Punjab, Manu SC/0122/1955 and Chandrika Prasad Singh Versus State of Bihar Manu SC/0084/1971.

19. This could be done by leading evidence in trial court and not by relying on the material collected during investigation. In such a case the prosecution would have to be given an opportunity to cross-examine this witness can demonstrate that their testimony was not correct. The Court also in exercise of its inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. cannot consider the plea of alibi of an accused at the stage of taking cognizance, framing of charges or summoning the accused on the basis of evidence recorded during trial under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The revisionists accused will have ample opportunity to place their evidence at the appropriate stage. In this behalf the judgement of the Hon'ble Apex Court, rendered in the case of State of Orissa Versus Debendra Nath Padhi, 2004(8) Supreme Court Cases 568 be referred to. It was held:

" .....Further, at the stage of framing of charge roving and fishing inquiry is impermissible. If the contention of the accused is accepted, there would be a mini trial at the stage of framing of charge. That would defeat the object of the Code. It is well-settled that at the stage of framing of charge the defence of the accused cannot be put forth. The acceptance of the contention of the learned counsel for the accused would mean permitting the accused to adduce his defence at the stage of framing of charge and for examination thereof at that stage which is against the criminal jurisprudence. By way of illustration, it may be noted that the plea of alibi taken by the accused may have to be examined at the stage of framing of charge if the contention of the accused is accepted despite the well settled proposition that it is for the accused to lead evidence at the trial to sustain such a plea. The accused would be entitled to produce materials and documents in proof of such a plea at the stage of framing of the charge, in case we accept the contention put forth on behalf of the accused. That has never been the intention of the law well settled for over one hundred years now. It is in this light that the provision about hearing the submissions of the accused as postulated by Section 227 is to be understood. It only means hearing the submissions of the accused on the record of the case as filed by the prosecution and documents submitted therewith and nothing more. The expression 'hearing the submissions of the accused' cannot mean opportunity to file material to be granted to the accused and thereby changing the settled law. At the state of framing of charge hearing the submissions of the accused has to be confined to the material produced by the police."

20. The above judgement relates to the stage of claiming of discharge by the accused under Section 227 Cr.P.C. However, in view of well settled law that even at the stage of framing of charge, material in respect of plea of alibi cannot be relied upon to discharge the accused.

21. The power under Section 319 of the Code is conferred on the court to ensure that justice is done to the society by bringing to book all those guilty of an offence. One of the aims and purposes of the Criminal Justice System is to maintain social order. It is necessary in that context to ensure that no one who appears to be guilty escapes a proper trial in relation to that guilt. There is also a duty to render justice to the victim of the offence. It is in recognition of this that the Code has specifically conferred a power in the court to proceed against others not arrayed as accused in the circumstances set out by this Section. It is a salutary power enabling the discharge of a court's obligation to the society to bring to book all those guilty of a crime.

22. The facts of the present case are very alarming and grevious in nature inasmuch as a minor girl aged about 15 years has not only given detailed version of ordeal faced by her in the statement recorded u/s 164 Cr.P.C. but PW-3 victim has narrated that for a month she was confined in a room by the revisionists and two other co-accused and was continuously gang raped by them. The trial court while considering the entire evidence onceagain after being remanded by this Court has recorded finding that the plea of alibi of the revisionists cannot be examined inasmuch as the revisionist no. 1 was merely working in the office of Chief Fire Brigade Officer, Bulandshahar and the revisionist no. 2 was present in the Ashram of his Guru and location of his mobile was found continously at that place and both plea cannot be examined by him while exercising power u/s 319 Cr.P.C. The plea of both the revisionists as noted cannot be examined at this stage and besides it, as the prosecutrix was kept under illegal detention for a month and was continously raped by the accused including the revisionists the location of their mobile and certificate of Chief Fire Brigade Officer has no relevance at this stage, which at best can be scanned and examined when the revisionists lead defence evidence and prove the aforesaid documents in accordance with law.

23. In the light of aforesaid, the present revision is bereft of merit. The impugned order passed by trial judge is perfectly justified and well within the guidelines/ parameters laid down by Constitution Bench decision of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh.

24. The revision is accordingly, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This criminal revision under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C. has been with a prayer for quashing the order dated 03.10.2019, passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 17, Deoria, on application filed under Section 245(2) Cr.P.C. as well as the proceeding of Complaint Case No. 872 of 2019 (Old No. 225 of 2014), under Sections 323, 354, 380, 427, 504, 506 I.P.C., Awinash Versus Gyan Chand and others, pending before learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Deoria.

2. Heard Sri Dharmendra Dhar Dubey, Advocate, holding brief of Sri Amresh Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for revisionists and learned A.G.A. for State.

3. Learned counsel for revisionists argued that initially date and time of occurrence was said to be different. Subsequently, by tempering, the same was changed from 23.04.2014 at 5 P.M. to 23.11.2014 at 3.10 P.M. and this was with intention to keep pace with medico legal report. This apparent tempering was challenged in a proceeding under Section 340 Cr.P.C., but no cognizance was taken. Hence, a proceeding under Section 482 Cr.P.C. was filed before this Court, wherein a direction was made for time bound disposal of above application moved under Section 340 Cr.P.C. Thereafter, Magistrate registered above application as a complaint case and decided to proceed further as complaint case. It has not yet been decided and the same is lingering for its disposal, whereas revisionists have been summoned for above offences under Sections 323, 354, 380, 427, 504, 506 I.P.C.. Though, accusation was for offences punishable under S.C./S.T. Act also, but no summoning for this offence was there. Thereafter, complainant moved a revision before Court of Sessions for this non-summoning, which was rejected. Ultimately, with a malice, civil suit was filed, wherein ad-interim injunction application 6C was rejected on merit. Again another complaint by brother of present complainant was filed with the same sequence of occurrence and offences, wherein proceeding was there. Hence, all these facts were raised in an application moved under Section 245(2) Cr.P.C., but learned Magistrate has passed impugned order, rejecting application on the ground that revisionists have yet not surrendered before above court and have not taken bail, hence discharge application was not maintainable. It was in utter defiance of provision of Section 245(2) Cr.P.C. because there was no mandate for appearance of revisionists for disposal of application, moved under Section 245(2) Cr.P.C. The law propounded by this Court in Nanhe Lal and others Vs. State of U.P. and another; 2014 1 ACR 726 (Criminal Revision No. 3640 of 2013, decided on 16th January, 2014) as well as Sheoshankar and 2 others Vs. State of U.P. and another; 2018 Law Suit (All) 759 has been pressed. Hence, this revision with above prayer.

4. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the revision.

5. A proceeding under Section 340 Cr.P.C. is pending, wherein application was considered as a complaint case, but trial could not be concluded. Present accusation and inquiry made by Magistrate, resulted passing of impugned order, for offence punishable, as above. This summoning order was challenged before court of revision, wherein revision was dismissed. Now, discharge application under Section 245(2) Cr.P.C. was moved, which was rejected by impugned order. Admittedly, stage from 200 to 204 Cr.P.C. has been passed. It was the stage of recording of statement under Section 244 Cr.P.C., but the same has yet not been recorded. Nothing more than complaint is there on record and on the basis of prima facie substance, summoning order was passed. Now, as per Section 245(2) Cr.P.C., Magistrate is empowered to make discharge at any time before discharge under Section 245(2) Cr.P.C., provided he will have to give the reason of such discharge i.e. law does not prohibit for any discharge under Section 245(2) Cr.P.C., but it is till proceeding up to Section 204 Cr.P.C. Regarding proceeding at the stage of 244 Cr.P.C., mandate of personal appearance is there and on the basis it, circular letter of this Court in administrative side has also been issued to all the subordinate Courts as C.L. No. 2386/Admin, 'G-II' Dated: Allahabad 19.02.2013, wherein principle laid down in Dr. Gulzar Vs. State of U.P. was reiterated as "The essential feature of the Court discussion is that the accused is bound to furnish bond that he will appear before the Court during the trial, unless otherwise directed by the Court. He cannot file any application in the proceedings unless he binds himself to appear before the trial. The application entrained by the trial Court without seeking bond is unwarranted.....Till the accused are bound by the Court and have not surrendered before the Court they have no Locus to file any application before the Court where the trial is going on." The same principle has been propounded in Sheoshankar and 2 others Vs. State of U.P. and another (Supra).

6. Hon'ble apex court in Ajai Kumar Ghose Vs. State of Jharkhand and another; 2010 1 SCC (Cri) 1301 in para 9 has held as under:-

"9. Mr. Nandit Srivastva tried to submit that the Apex Court, in the aforesaid case of Ajai Kumar Ghose (supra) has very clearly held that the power under section 245 (2) of the Code can be exercised even before the appearance of the accused, therefore, learned Magistrate as well as the revisional Court could not be said to be justified in requiring the petitioner to appear in person in Court at the time of considering his prayer for discharge under section 245 (2) of the Code. It is no doubt true that the Apex Court has held in the aforesaid case that the discharge prayer under section 245 (2) can be entertained even before appearance of the accused in the Court but that proposition seems to have been laid down in different context. It appears that the Apex Court bifurcated the expression "previous stage of the case" in two categories. The first category is the stage of the case under section 202 to 204 of the Code, and the other category is the stage of evidence on appearance of the accused under section 244 of the Code. In the first category of the case, the Apex Court opined that the discharge prayer can be considered before appearance of the accused but in the second category of the case presence of the accused has been held necessary because the proceedings under section 244 begins with the appearance of the accused, therefore, in a case where the stages provided in sections 200 to 202 of the Code have already come to an end and the case reaches the stage of section 244 of the Code on appearance of the accused, the discharge prayer, in such situation under section 245 (2) of the Code cannot be entertained without the appearance of the accused. This conclusion finds support from the observations of the Apex Court made in para 29 of the judgment in Ajai Kumar Ghose case. In that paragraph the Apex Court held "If the Magistrate comes to the conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding, he can issue process under section 204 of the Code?. It is in fact here that previous stage referred to in Section 245 normally comes to an end because the next stage is only the appearance of the accused before the Magistrate in a warrant case under section 244 of the Code." To put it otherwise, as and when any process issued to the accused, the previous stage referred to in section 245 (2) of the Code ordinarily comes to an end but there may be Cases were discharge prayer is made on appearance of the accused but before the start of prosecution evidence or during the course of prosecution evidence but before its conclusion. In the subsequent situation, the personnel presence of the accused, if not already exempted under section 205 of the Code, is necessary. In this view of the matter, the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner that after issuing the process under section 204 of the Code the Magistrate could consider the discharge prayer of the petitioner under section 245 (2) of the Code without personal appearance of the petitioner in the Court, does not appear to be correct."

7. Hence, it was necessary to begin proceeding under Section 244 Cr.P.C. with appearance of accused. In present case revisionists have not surrendered and have not executed bonds for their appearance. Hence, Magistrate was well within jurisdiction and with reasons supported by above precedents for passing impugned order. There was neither exceeding of jurisdiction nor misuse of jurisdiction or error apparent on the face of record.

8. Hence, this revision merits its dismissal. The revision is dismissed as such.

Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 18131 of 2018

Suresh Singh Bhadoria & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Rajneesh Tripathi, Sri Anil Kumar Yadav

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.G.A., Sri Narendra Singh

A. Constitution of India - Art. 226 - Criminal Writ petition - Interim protection from arrest, after dismissal of writ petition - not permissible - when a petitioner is not granted final relief & writ petition is to be dismissed - no interim order/relief to be granted to petitioner.

FIR discloses cognizable offence - no interference called for under Article 226 - After dismissal of writ petition prayer by petitioner for interim protection from arrest - Held - If final relief has been declined - court would not be justified in granting any interim relief / interim order - by staying arrest, as a matter of interim protection - since it will amount to grant a relief to the petitioners without deciding their right in any manner (Para 19)

B. Constitution of India - Art. 141 - Law declared by Supreme Court - Binding - no specific direction of High Court is required - to the authorities - to follow the law laid down by Supreme Court.

There is no presumption that the respondents shall not follow the law laid down by Supreme Court - to follow the law laid down by Supreme Court - no direction of High Court required - in absence of any factual foundation - that authorities are illegally disregarding the directions of Apex Court - no futile or uncalled for directions are to be issued by this Court - unless they are necessary for giving due justice to the parties before Court - founded on pleadings and facts of the case. (Para 6)

C. Ratio - Binding Precedent - Meaning - What is binding precedent is the ratio, i.e., the law laid down by this Court - The law is laid down when an issue is raised, argued and decided (Para 16)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J.
Hon'ble Rajeev Misra, J.)

1. Sri Anil Kumar Yadav, Advocate, holding brief of Sri Rajneesh Tripathi, learned counsel for petitioners and learned A.G.A. appearing for State are present.

2. This writ petition under Article 226 of Constitution has been filed seeking a writ of certiorari for quashing of First Information Report dated 22.04.2018, registered as Case Crime No. 212 of 2018, under Sections 147, 498A, 323, 504, 506, 313 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Kishni, District Mainpuri.

3. From perusal of first information report it cannot be said that commission of a cognizable offence is not made out. There is no material on record to demonstrate that proceedings initiated by means of aforesaid report are vexatious, frivolous or otherwise illegal. In the circumstance, no interference is called for.

4. The learned counsel for the petitioners then submitted that respondents-authorities be directed not to arrest petitioners by observing the law laid down by Apex Court in Joginder Kumar

Vs. State of U.P. 1994 Cri.L.J. 1981=1994(4) SCC 260, Lal Kamlendra Pratap Singh Vs. State of U.P. 2009 (4) SCC 437 and this Court in Smt. Amarawati and another Vs. State of U.P., 2005(1) AWC 416. He also said that similar orders have been passed by this Court in many matters and, therefore, following the principle of parity similar direction must be issued in this case also.

5. We propose to examine on this aspect of the matter with deeper scrutiny. It is not the case of petitioners that they have already surrendered or that though they have attempted to surrender but there is any illegal, unauthorised obstruction created by respondents in such endeavour of petitioners. It is also not the case that any authority of this Court or Apex Court though cited before court concerned but it has refused to consider the same or ignored. No such allegations have been made.

6. The law laid down by Apex Court by virtue of Article 141 of the Constitution of India, is binding on all courts and authorities across the nation and everybody is supposed to act in the aid and enforcement of such law laid down by Supreme Court. There is no presumption that the respondents shall not follow the law laid down by Supreme Court. There is also no presumption that a decision of Supreme Court laying down certain law, if cited, in support of arguments by a party, that would not be looked into and appreciated by anyone. To follow the law laid down by Supreme Court, no sanction or approval or direction of this Court is required. To ask for such direction, when there is no factual foundation in the writ petition, is nothing but doubting the capability, approach and efficiency of the respondents, which is not in the larger public interest. Moreover, in absence of any factual foundation, it is well established that no futile or uncalled for directions are to be issued by this Court. Its hand are already full of work and rather extremely loaded therewith, hence entertaining cases just for futile direction, which ex facie deserved to be dismissed, would be nothing but encouraging avoidable unnecessary burden upon this Court.

7. Even otherwise a direction to follow a decision of Apex Court without appreciating, whether it applies on the facts and circumstances of the case and would be cited by parties concerned, is like anticipating something, which is not existing in presenti and on the facts of the case, may not be applicable.

8. Moreover, in the entire writ petition there is no factual foundation laid down by petitioners that police authorities are trying to arrest them illegally disregarding the directions of Apex Court in Joginder Kumar (supra) and Lal Kamlendra Pratap Singh (supra) as well as this Court in Smt. Amarawati (supra). In absence of any factual foundation the direction sought from this Court are neither justified nor appropriate nor should be issued by presuming certain facts which are not part of record and petitioners themselves have not made any complaint in respect thereof.

9. It may also be pointed out that in none of the cases referred to above there is any complete embargo against arrest by police if it is otherwise justified.

10. In Joginder Kumar (supra), a habeas corpus writ petition under Article

32 of the Constitution was filed before Supreme Court alleging about unlawful detention of petitioner (a practising lawyer) by police authorities and seeking his release. The Senior Superintendent of Police, Ghaziabad appeared before Court and admitted to have detained petitioner for five days, not in detention but for taking his help in inquiry/investigation of an offence of abduction. Since the petitioner was already released by police, the Court found that relief in habeas corpus now cannot be granted. Yet it enquired as to how and in what circumstances, without informing the court concerned, an individual could be detained by police for five days. The Court found it a case of massive violation of human rights, besides the statutory legal provisions relating to arrest etc. The Court held that law of arrest is one of balancing individual rights, liberties and privileges, on the one hand; and, individual duties, obligations and responsibilities on the other hand. The Court said that an arrest cannot be made merely for the reason that a police officer is empowered under law to do so. The existence of power is one thing and justification for exercise thereof is another. Genuine, justified and satisfactory reasons must exist before a police officer should go to arrest a person so as to curtail his fundamental right of life and liberty. A person is not liable to arrest merely on suspicion of complicity of offence. Except in heinous offences, an arrest must be avoided unless there exists reason therefor. That was not a case where after inquiry or investigation by police, a charge sheet was filed and thereupon an incumbent was to surrender himself to the Court, and the power of Court either to release him on bail if so requested, or to sent him in judicial custody was under consideration.

11. This decision then was considered in D.K. Basu Versus State of West Bengal 1997 (1) SCC 416 which was a public interest litigation entertained by Supreme Court taking cognizance of a letter received from Executive Chairman, Legal Aid Services, West Bengal complaining about certain custodial deaths.

12. The decision in Joginder Kumar (supra) in similar circumstances has been referred and followed subsequently also in K.K. Jerath Vs. Union Territory, Chandigarh and others, JT 1998(2) SC 658 which was a case of anticipatory bail under Section 438 Cr.P.C. apprehending arrest during a C.B.I. inquiry. It was attempted to argue that there is presumption of innocence in favour of each individual until charge against him is established and, therefore, it would not be consistent with philosophy of Constitution that such a person should be subjected to interrogation by application of psychological or ambient pressures much less physical torture. It was stressed that Apex Court has a duty to protect a citizen against such inroads of these fundamental rights. The Apex Court while dismissing petition observed that in considering a petition for grant of bail, necessarily, if public interest requires detention of citizen in custody for purposes of investigation, it would be allowed otherwise there could be hurdles in investigation even resulting in tampering of evidence. In other words the Apex Court did not find any attraction in the arguments for the reason that a bail application has to be considered in the light of already established principle through various judicial precedents and not on mere asking.

13. There are several subsequent cases also wherein the Apex Court has distinguished the cases where there was no allegation of misuse of power of arrest by police authorities and an incumbent was arrested having been found prima facie guilty of commission of a cognizable offence.

14. In Lal Kamlendra Pratap Singh (supra) the matter came to be considered before the Court for quashing of a first information report. Here also apprehended arrest due to mere registration of a first information report. The matter was brought before this Court seeking quashing of first information report. The High Court dismissed the application and thereagainst the matter was taken to Apex Court. A complaint was made that during investigation or inquiry, petitioners apprehend their arrest by police authorities in an arbitrary manner. It is in this context the Court reminded police authorities to follow the dictum and direction laid down in Joginder Kumar (supra). When the matter was pending before Supreme Court, the police completed investigation and submitted a charge sheet. The Court then declined to interfere since the charge sheet was submitted and permitted petitioner to approach the court concerned by filing a bail application. The Court approved and reminded a seven Judges decision of this Court in Smt. Amarawati (supra) wherein an observation was made that the absence of power of anticipatory bail in State of U.P. would not debar the concerned Court/Magistrate to grant an interim bail if there is any likelihood of delay in disposal of bail application finally.

15. Here also in Lal Kamlendra Pratap Singh (supra), there is no direction by Apex Court that even if there is no factual foundation or that there is some justification for the police still a blanket direction can be issued to police which may, in a given case, influence or interfere with the smooth investigation. It is also well settled that no uncalled for observations or directions should be issued by this Court unless they are necessary for giving due justice to the parties before Court, founded on pleadings and facts of the case.

16. So far as various orders cited at Bar, we find that in none of those case all these aspects have, as discussed above, have been raised, argued and decided and those judgements do not lay down any binding precedent. The ultimate direction or action of the Court do not constitute a binding precedent. What is binding precedent is the ratio, i.e., the law laid down by this Court. The law is laid down when an issue is raised, argued and decided. That is not so in respect to orders cited at Bar.

17. It is lastly contended that till charge-sheet is submitted, as a matter of interim protection, arrest of petitioners may be stayed and at least to this extent, an interim order may be passed.

18. The submission, in our view, lacks substance being contrary to law that when a petitioner is not granted final relief and writ petition is to be dismissed, no interim order in such matter can be passed.

19. Once the writ petition has to be dismissed, this Court has no power to pass any order in the nature of interim or interlocutory order. The Apex Court has deprecated such practice and has held, if final relief has been declined, no interim relief/interim order should be granted to petitioners. The first such case is State of Orissa Vs. Madan Gopal Rungta AIR 1952 SC 12. Therein High Court declined to grant final relief on the ground that there was an alternative remedy available to petitioner and, therefore, dismissed the writ petition relegating petitioner to avail alternative remedy, but then observing that before filing suit, 60 days' notice under Section 80 C.P.C. will have to be given, which will take some time, an interim relief was granted. Deprecating this, Apex Court said that grant of relief under Article 226 is founded only on its decision that a right of the aggrieved party has been infringed. Therefore, existence of right is foundation of exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226. When the Court has decided nothing at all in respect to rights of parties, it would not be justified to grant any relief, final or interim, as the case may be, since Article 226 does not confer such jurisdiction. In para 6 of the judgment, the Court said:

"In our opinion, article 226 cannot be used for the purpose of giving interim relief as the only and final relief on the application as the High Court has purported to do. The directions have been given here only to circumvent the provisions of section 80 of the Civil Procedure Code, and in our opinion that is not within the scope of article 226. An interim relief can be granted only in aid of and as ancillary to the main relief which may be available to the party on final determination of his rights in a suit or proceeding. If the Court was of opinion that there was no other convenient or adequate remedy open to the petitioners, it might have proceeded to investigate the case on its merits and come to a decision as to whether the petitioners succeeded in establishing that there was an infringement of any of their legal rights which entitled them to a writ of mandamus or any other directions of a like nature; and pending such determination it might have made a suitable interim order for maintaining the status quo ante. But when the Court declined to decide on the rights of the parties and expressly held that they should be investigated more properly in a civil suit, it could not, for the purpose of facilitating the institution of such suit, issue directions in the nature of temporary injunctions, under article 226 of the Constitution. In our opinion, the language of article 226 does not permit such an action. On that short ground the judgment of the Orissa High Court under appeal cannot be upheld."

20. The aforesaid dictum has been followed in Amarsarjit Singh Vs. State of Punjab AIR 1962 SC 1305 (para 22), Cotton Corporation of India Limited Vs. United Industrial Bank Limited and others AIR 1983 SC 1272 (para 10) and recently in Km. Hema Mishra Vs. State of U.P. and others (2014) 4 SCC 453 (para 22).

21. In view thereof, we have no hesitation in observing that the prayer for quashing the F.I.R. if is declined on the ground that allegations contained therein discloses cognizable offence, therefore, no interference is called for at this stage, this Court would not be justified in granting any relief as an interim order by staying arrest since it will amount to grant a relief to the petitioners without deciding their right in any manner and this would be against the exposition of law settled by Apex Court in the aforesaid decisions.

22. Even otherwise, at this stage, this Court is not examining legality or otherwise of arrest made by Police, since neither any one has been arrested nor this writ petition as such has been filed with a complaint that Police or Investigating Officer has committed violation of any provision pertaining to arrest of any person or the petitioners themselves. The main relief in the writ petition is for quashing of first information report which, admittedly having disclosed commission of cognizable offence is not liable to be interfered with at this stage.

23. In view of above, no interference is called for.

24. The writ petition is dismissed.

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Uma Nath Pandey

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.G.A.

A. Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 441 & 447 - Criminal Trespass - Section 441 IPC is in two parts - term "such property" occurring in second part refers to "property in the possession of another" - Applicability of second part - second part become applicable - when a person enters into - 'property in the possession of another person' - S. 441 not applicable where a person is in possession of his own property as an owner or where he does not retain possession or maintain use of the 'property of another.' (Para 12)

Allegation petitioner unauthorizedly raising constructions and developing colony over plot without prior sanction - Admittedly in the revenue records plot recorded in the name of petitioner in the capacity of Director of Company - Held - petitioner is the owner & in possession of plot, he has not entered into or upon property in possession of another person - even if the petitioner raises constructions, which may be unauthorized, he would not be liable for an offence of criminal trespass punishable under section 447 I.P.C. (Para 13)

Crl. Misc. Writ Petition allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Misra, J. & Hon'ble Virendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner; learned A.G.A. for the respondents 1 and 2; and perused the record.

2. The instant petition seeks quashing of the first information report (for short F.I.R.) dated 20.07.2019 registered as Case Crime No.847 of 2019 at P.S. Surajpur, District Gautam Budh Nagar, under section 447 IPC.

3. The impugned FIR has been lodged by an officer of the Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority, Gautambudh Nagar (for short the Authority) by alleging that the petitioner is unauthorizedly raising constructions and developing colony over plot No.918 at village Tilpata, which falls within the notified area of the Authority, without obtaining prior sanction for such development.

4. The petitioner has challenged the impugned FIR on two grounds: (a) that the petitioner was developing his own land therefore no offence of criminal trespass is made out; and (b) that no notice as contemplated by section 441 IPC as applicable in the State of UP was served before lodging the FIR. It has been pleaded that, admittedly, in the revenue records plot no.918 is recorded in the name of Radhika Green Homes Pvt. Ltd. whose Director is the petitioner - Pawan Kumar (the accused) therefore no offence punishable under section 447 IPC is made out. In support thereof Khatauni extract of 1421-1426 F has been annexed as Annexure 2 to the petition.

5. On 24.09.2019, following order was passed:-

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri S.R. Pandey, learned AGA.

It is submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner on the strength of the averments made in paragraphs 13 and 14 of the writ petition that lodging of the impugned FIR was not preceeded by any statutory notice as contemplated under Section 441 IPC (Amended by the State).

Sri S.R. Pandey, the learned AGA seeks time to obtain instructions in the matter.

Put up as fresh on 17.10.2019.

Till then no coercive measure shall be taken against the petitioner in case crime No. 847 of 2019 under Section 447 IPC at P.S. Surajpur, District Gautam Buddh Nagar.

Copy of the order be provided to Sri S.R. Pandey, the learned AGA, forthwith.

Sri S.R. Pandey learned AGA for the State also undertakes to intimate about this order to the learned counsel for the NOIDA Development Authority, in writing, within three days who in turn shall also obtain instructions in the matter."

6. Pursuant to the above order, a short counter affidavit has been filed. In the counter affidavit it has been pleaded that the Authority in exercise of power under Section 10 of the U.P. Industrial Areas Development Act, 1976 has already issued a notice on 03.07.2019 (Annexure CA-1) seeking removal of unauthorized constructions, which can be treated as a notice contemplated by section 441 IPC, and since the petitioner has not acted upon the notice within the time specified in the notice, the FIR is maintainable.

7. Learned A.G.A. pointed out that the notice dated 03.07.2019 clearly spell out that the accused must remove the constructions and restore the land to its original state. He also urged that the amended provisions of section 441 I.P.C., as applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh, make unauthorized use of property also an offence, if such unauthorized usage is not stopped despite notice. He submitted that since notice was sent to remove the unauthorized constructions and to restore the land to its original state, regardless of the fact that the petitioner is the owner of Plot No. 918, since constructions have been raised unauthorizedly, offence punishable under Section 447 I.P.C is made out from a bare perusal of the impugned FIR.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that since it has not been disputed that plot No.918 is owned and possessed by the petitioner in the capacity of Director of the Company whose name is recorded in the revenue records, the offence punishable under section 447 IPC is not made out even if the constructions are illegal. Hence, the impugned FIR is liable to be quashed.

9. We have considered the rival submissions and have perused the record carefully.

10. Section 447 IPC provides that whoever commits criminal trespass shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both. Section 441 IPC, as applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh, vide U.P. Act No.31 of 1961, defines criminal trespass as follows:-

"Criminal Trespass - Whoever enters into or upon property in possession of another with intent to commit an offence or to intimidate, insult or annoy any person in possession of such property, or, having lawfully entered into or upon such property, unlawfully remains there with intent thereby to intimidate, insult or annoy any such person, or with intent to commit an offence, or having entered into or upon such property, whether before or after the coming into force of the Criminal Laws (U.P. Amendment) Act, 1961, with the intention of taking unauthorised possession or making unauthorised use of such property fails to withdraw from such property, or its possession or use when called upon to do so by that another person by notice in writing, duly served upon him, by the date specified in the notice, is said to commit "criminal trespass."

(Emphasis Supplied)

11. A bare perusal of the provisions of section 441 IPC would reveal that it is in two parts. The first part relates to a person who enters into or upon property in possession of another with an intent to commit an offence or to intimidate, insult or annoy any person in possession of such property, or having lawfully entered into or upon such property, unlawfully remains there with intent thereby to intimidate, insult or annoy any such person, or with an intent to commit an offence. The second part relates to a person who has entered into or upon such property, whether before or after the coming into force of the Criminal Laws (U.P. Amendment) Act, 1961, with the intention of taking unauthorized possession or making unauthorized use of such property, fails to withdraw from such property, or its possession or use, when called upon to do so by that another person by notice in writing, duly served upon him, by the date specified in the notice.

12. In both parts of section 441 IPC, the use of the words "such property" is of extreme significance and when the provision is read as a whole, one would find that the term "such property" refers to that what is described in the opening part, that is "property in the possession of another". The above interpretation gets strength from the use of the phrase "that another person" while describing the person competent to give notice to withdraw from such property or its possession or use. Thus, in our considered view, the second part would become applicable where a person having entered into a property in the possession of another person with the intention of taking unauthorized possession or making unauthorized use of such property fails to withdraw from such property, or its possession or use when called upon to do so by that another person by notice in writing, duly served upon him, by the date specified in the notice.

13. In the instant case, the offence of criminal trespass as defined in the first part of section 441 I.P.C. is not made out because admittedly the petitioner has not entered into or upon property of another person but is in possession of his own property as an owner thereof. Likewise, no offence would be made out under the second part because the petitioner does not retain possession or maintain use of the property of another. Indisputably, the petitioner is the owner and in possession of Plot No. 918. He has not entered into or upon property in possession of another person. Under the circumstances, even if the petitioner raises constructions, which may be unauthorized, he would not be liable for an offence of criminal trespass punishable under section 447 I.P.C.

14. It may be noticed that the land pertaining to plot no.918 in the revenue records is recorded in the name of Radhika Green Homes Pvt. Ltd. whose Director is the petitioner. Otherwise also, it is not the case of the informant that plot No.918 is the land of the Authority unlawfully occupied or possessed by the accused. Under the circumstances, the essential ingredients of an offence punishable under section 447 IPC are not made out.

15. Consequently, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned first information report is quashed. The quashing of the first information report shall be without prejudice to the rights of Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority to take recourse to such measures or such proceedings against the petitioner in respect of alleged unauthorized constructions raised by him, as the law may permit. There is no order as to costs.

First Appeal From Order No. 74 of 2007

U.P.S.R.T.C. Lucknow ...Appellant
Versus
Mohd. Kasim Faruki & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Prabhakar Tewari, Akhter Abbas, J.B. Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
Mohd. Airaj Siddiqui, Pradeep Kumar Singh

A. Motor Accident Act, 1988 – Civil Procedure Code - Order 41 Rule 33 – Enhancement of compensation - Plea of enhancement by claimant in appeal of owner – No appeal or cross objection for enhancement of compensation - Appeal filed by owner challenging only the findings of the Tribunal recorded in regard to the accident - The appellant cannot be put to a loss by dismissing the appeal and enhancing the compensation which would amount to put a premium on non-action of the claimant-respondents when they were satisfied with the award passed by the Tribunal. (Para 14)

B. Constitution of India – Article 142 – Exercise of power – Distinction between power of Supreme Court and High Court – In case of Jitendra Khimshankar Trivedi, Apex court enhanced the compensation exercising the jurisdiction under Article 142 of the Constitution of India which cannot be done by this court - Power to do complete justice is conferred on Apex

Court and the High Court does not have such powers. (Para 16)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard, Shri Akhter Abbas, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri M.A.Siddiqui, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This First Appeal From Order has emanated from the judgment and award dated 25.09.2006 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Special Judge (E.C.Act), Lucknow in Claim Petition No.295/2005:Mohd.Kasim Faruki and others Versus U.P.State Road Transport Corporation awarding a sum of Rs.1,64,500/- together with 6% interest from the date of filing of claim petition.

3. The brief facts of the case giving rise to the present appeal are that on 17.02.2003 at about 9.45 in the morning Roadways Bus No.UP-40C-0902 was coming out of the bus stand at Kaiserbagh Bus Stand, Lucknow and its conductor was calling the passengers for Bahraich. The brother of deceased Km. Bushra @ Muwashisra raised voice to stop the bus on which the bus stopped. While the deceased was climbing on the bus, the driver moved the bus forward with jerks, therefore the deceased came under the rear wheels of the bus. The deceased suffered serious injuries. She was immediately admitted in Blarampur Hospital, Lucknow where she died after 8 hours. Therefore the claim petition was filed claiming compensation claiming therein that the deceased was doing the work of stitching of dress of school children.

4. The claim petition was contested by the appellant alleging therein that no accident had taken place from the bus in question. However, the Roadways Bus No.UP-40C-0902 i.e. the bus in question had gone to Bahraich from Lucknow at about 10 in the morning and reached Bahraich at about 1 p.m.

5. On the basis of pleadings of the parties four issues were framed. After evidence the claim petition has been partly allowed and an amount of Rs.1,64,500/- has been awarded as compensation alongwith interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition to be paid to the claimants-respondents as per apportionment given in the judgment.

6. Submission of the learned counsel for the appellant was that neither any accident had occurred with the bus of the appellant nor any negligence was found on the part of the driver of the bus in question. The bus was neither challaned by the police nor stopped by the public on the place of accident, therefore the occurrence of accident was not proved. But the learned Tribunal discarding the evidence adduced on behalf of the appellant has wrongly and illegally allowed the claim petition without any cogent reason. He accordingly prayed for setting aside the impugned judgment and award and allowing the appeal.

7. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that the accident was proved by the claimant-respondents by adducing cogent evidence and the evidence filed by the appellant in regard to the accident has rightly been discarded by the learned Tribunal as it is not believable.

8. He has further submitted that the learned Tribunal has not awarded just compensation therefore the same is liable to be enhanced. The deceased was aged about 20 years at the time of accident on 17.02.2003, therefore, the multiplier of 18 in place of 16 should have been applied. The respondents are also entitled for the future prospects and enhancement of the amounts towards the conventional heads. He had also submitted that the notional income of the deceased should have been assessed as Rs.3,000/- per month in place of Rs.1500/- per month as the deceased was doing the work of stitching of School dress. He submitted that though the respondents could not file any appeal or cross objection for enhancement but this court while hearing the appeal of the appellant can enhance the amount of compensation in view of the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Jitendra Khimshanker Trivedi and others Versus Kasam Daud Kumbhar and others;2015(1) T.A.C. 673 (S.C.).

9. In reply to the plea of enhancement of the respondents learned counsel for the appellant submitted that since the respondents have not filed any appeal or cross objection for enhancement and the present appeal has been filed only challenging alleged occurrence of accident, therefore this court may not enhance the compensation. If the amount of compensation is enhanced without any appeal or cross objection by the claimant-respondents, the filing of appeal challenging the occurrence of alleged accident would put the appellant in loss because on the one hand his claim that the accident has not occurred from the bus in question is not accepted and on the other hand the amount of compensation, which has been accepted by the respondents, is enhanced. Learned counsel for the appellant in this regard has relied on a judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ranjana Prakash and others Versus The Divisional Manager and another (Civil Appeal No.6110 of 2011);2011 (7) SCC 6. Lastly the learned counsel for the appellant had submitted that if the submissions of learned counsel for the respondents in regard to the enhancement is accepted then the deduction of 1/2 is liable to be made in place of 1/3rd as the deceased was bachelor at the time of death and only the mother could have been treated as dependent.

10. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

11. The deceased Km.Bushra @ Muwashisra had died in an accident on 17.02.2003 at about 9.45 a.m. in the morning by Roadways Bus No.UP-40C-0902 as the driver of the bus had started the bus with jerks while the deceased was climbing on the bus. The deceased had suffered serious injuries, therefore, she was admitted in Balrampur Hospital where she had died after 8 hours of the accident. The accident was proved by the P.W.1 and P.W.2 examined on behalf of the claimant/respondents. The appellant could not ellicit anything in the cross examination which could create any doubt about the testimony of the witnesses and the accident.

12. Perusal of the record also indicates that the First Information Report vide case Crime No.73 of 2003 under Section 279/304-A IPC was lodged on 17.02.2003 i.e. on the same day at 6.10 in the evening at Police Station Wazirganj Sadar, District Lucknow. After investigation the charge sheet was filed against the driver of the bus in question on 27.02.2003 on which the cognizance was taken by the court concerned. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Dulcina Fernandes & Others Vs. Joaquim Xavier Cruz & Another; (2013) 10 SCC 646 has examined the situation where the evidence of eyewitness was discarded by the tribunal and that the respondent in that case was acquitted in the criminal case concerning the accident. However, the Hon'ble Apex Court opined that it can not be overlooked that upon investigation of the case, registered against respondent, prima facie, materials showing negligence were found to put him on trial.

13. The learned Tribunal has also considering the evidence on record has recorded a categorical finding that the accident had occurred on account of the negligence of the driver of bus no.UP-40C-0902. The deceased had died on account of the serious injuries suffered in the accident. On due consideration of the submissions and evidence on record this court is in agreement with the findings recorded by the learned Tribunal in regard to the accident by the bus of the appellant and does not find any illegality or error in it. The appeal is misconceived and lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

14. Adverting to the plea of enhancement of compensation raised by learned counsel for the respondents, admittedly the claimant-respondents have not filed any appeal or cross objection for enhancement of compensation because it appears that the claimant-respondents were satisfied with the compensation awarded by the learned Tribunal as per law prevalent at the relevant time, while they had filed a caveat. This appeal has been filed challenging only the findings of the Tribunal recorded in regard to the accident on the ground that the accident had not occurred by the bus in question and the amount of compensation has not been challenged. Therefore, this court is of the view that the appellant cannot be put to a loss by dismissing the appeal and enhancing the compensation which would amount to put a premium on non action of the claimant-respondents when they were satisfied with the award passed by the Tribunal.

15. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ranjana Prakash and others Versus The Divisional Manager and another (Supra) has held that in an appeal by the owner/insurer, the claimants will not be entitled to seek enhancement of the compensation by urging any new ground, in the absence of any cross-appeal or cross-objections. The Apex Court has also held that the Provisions of Order 41 Rule 33 of the Code of Civil Procedure cannot be invoked to get a larger or higher relief and the High Court cannot increase the compensation in an appeal by the owner/insurer. However the Hon'ble Apex

Court has held that the respondents-claimants can defend the compensation awarded by the Claims Tribunal on other grounds. The relevant paragraphs 6, 7 and 8 are extracted below:-

"6. We are of the view that High Court committed an error in ignoring the contention of the claimants. It is true that the claimants had not challenged the award of the Tribunal on the ground that the Tribunal had failed to take note of future prospects and add 30% to the annual income of the deceased.

But the claimants were not aggrieved by Rs.23,134/- being taken as the monthly income. There was therefore no need for them to challenge the award of the Tribunal. But where in an appeal filed by the owner/insurer, if the High Court proposes to reduce the compensation awarded by the Tribunal, the claimants can certainly defend the quantum of compensation awarded by the Tribunal, by pointing out other errors or omissions in the award, which if taken note of, would show that there was no need to reduce the amount awarded as compensation. Therefore, in an appeal by the owner/insurer, the appellant can certainly put forth a contention that if 30% is to be deducted from the income for whatsoever reason, 30% should also be added towards future prospects, so that the compensation awarded is not reduced. The fact that claimants did not independently challenge the award will not therefore come in the way of their defending the compensation awarded, on other grounds. It would only mean that in an appeal by the owner/insurer, the claimants will not be entitled to seek enhancement of the compensation by urging any new ground, in the absence of any cross-appeal or cross-objections.

7. This principle also flows from Order 41 Rule 33 of the Code of Civil Procedure which enables an appellate court to pass any order which ought to have been passed by the trial court and to make such further or other order as the case may require, even if the respondent had not filed any appeal or cross-objections. This power is entrusted to the appellate court to enable it to do complete justice between the parties. Order 41 Rule 33 of the Code can however be pressed into service to make the award more effective or maintain the award on other grounds or to make the other parties to litigation to share the benefits or the liability, but cannot be invoked to get a larger or higher relief. For example, where the claimants seeks compensation against the owner and the insurer of the vehicle and the Tribunal makes the award only against the owner, on an appeal by the owner challenging the quantum, the appellate court can make the insurer jointly and severally liable to pay the compensation, along with the owner, even though the claimants had not challenged the non-grant of relief against the insurer. Be that as it may.

8. Where an appeal is filed challenging the quantum of compensation, irrespective of who files the appeal, the appropriate course for the High Court is to examine the facts and by applying the relevant principles, determine the just compensation. If the compensation determined by it is higher than the compensation awarded by the Tribunal, the High Court will allow the appeal, if it is by the claimants and dismiss the appeal, if it is by the owner/insurer. Similarly, if the compensation determined by the High Court is lesser than the compensation awarded by the Tribunal, the High Court will dismiss any appeal by the claimants for enhancement, but allow any appeal by owner/insurer for reduction. The High Court cannot obviously increase the compensation in an appeal by owner/insurer for reducing the compensation, nor can it reduce the compensation in an appeal by the claimants seeking enhancement of compensation."

16. So far as the judgment relied by the learned counsel for the claimant-respondents in the case of Jitendra Khimshankar Trivedi and others Versus Kasam Daud Kumbhar and others (Supra) is concerned, in the said case the Hon'ble Apex court has enhanced the compensation exercising the jurisdiction under Article 142 of the Constitution of India which cannot be done by this court. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of C.M.Singh Versus H.P.Krishi Vishva Vidyalaya & others; (1999) 9 SCC 40, has held that power to do complete justice is conferred on it and the High Court does not have such powers.

17. The appeal is, accordingly, dismissed. No order as to costs.

18. The lower Court record and the amount deposited before this court, if any, shall be remitted to the concerned tribunal.

11.Raipur Development Authority and other Vs. Chokhamal and others, 1989 (2) SCC 721

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ayush Khanna, learned counsel for the appellant. No Advocate appeared for the respondent though name of Sri A.K. Rai and Sri U.N. Sharma are shown for the respondent and fresh notice was also issued which has been received by the respondents. The appeal is pending since 1991. The respondents have been negligent in appointing a counsel also. Today also, no-one represents the respondents though time and again notices have been sent to them. The fact that on the first occasion, jthe officer concerned was of the view that no interest would be charged from the appellant later on Suo Motu on audit objection, interest was ordered to be charged. The appellant has already deposited the said interest because of the order of the District Court which upheld the objection of the respondent herein, which is subject matter of challenge before this Court.

2. By means of this appeal, the appellant - contractor challenges the order and judgment dated 15.11.1990 passed by District Judge, Jhansi in Suit No. 13 of 1988 (M/s R.N. Tandon & Sons Vs. Betwa River Board) allowing objections of the respondents and refusing to accept the award of sole arbitration.

3. The brief facts of the case are that Betwa Board had entered into a contract with M/s R.N. Tandon & Sons for the construction of earth Dam on the left flank of River Betwa at Rajghat from Km. 4.04 to 6.05 (Lot II) and the agreement was executed with respect thereto on 14.1.1981 at Rajghat, district Lalitpur, U.P. There was some dispute between the parties with respect to the recovery of interest on the cost of machines taken by the contractor - appellant herein. AND WHEREAS DISPUTES pertaining to the 'Interest charges on the cost of machines made available to the claimant by the Board' having arisen between the two parties, of the said contract, the Chief Engineer (R), Tetwa River Board, Nandanpura, Jhansi, in pursuance of the aforesaid conditions of contract, nominated me, as the sole Arbitrator under his No.4921/CE/BRB/Appeal-2 (Tandon)/dated 12/86. Ruling of the Executive Engineer considered unacceptable by the contractor arose for the first time when the Executive Engineer, Rajghat Dam No.II, Chanderi Proposed recovery of the interest. The claimants asked for clarification from the Superintending Engineer as per clause 52 of Agreement. S.E. Gave his decision that recovery of interest on advance in form of Machinery is well covered under clause 9 of special conditions of the contract read along with clause 8 and 9 of the General conditions. C.E. Examined the arguments of both the parties gave his decision that no interest charge is leviable on the cost of machines and only cost is to be recovered from claimant as shown in column 4 of Annexure VII of the Agreement.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the following authoritative pronoucements:-

(i) Hind Builders Vs. Union of India, (1990) 3 SCC 338;

(ii) K Marappan (Dead) through sole LR Balasubramanian Vs. Superintending Engineer TBPHLC Circle Anantapur, 1019 LawSuit (SC) 977;

(iii) State of U.P. and others Vs. J.M. Construction Company, FAFO No.714 of 2005, decided on 11.4.2019 by this High Court.

5. The main bone of contention in this appeal is whether when the terms of contract are silent about interest, can the first appellate court reverse the finding of the the Arbitrator held in favour of the contractor holding that on the terms of contract, no interest was payable by the contractor.

6. Learned counsel Sri Khanna has vehemently submitted that the decision requires to be upturned as it is against settled legal position and the District Court has decided the matter as if it is deciding an appeal and has tried to rewrite the arbitral award and no interest was chargeable from the appellant as held by the arbitrator and by the authorities in their Ist decision Suo Motu reviewed on audit objection raised later on.

7. This is an appeal under Arbitration Conciliation Act, 1940.

8. It is submitted by learned Advocate that judgment of the Apex Court in K.Marappan (Dead) Versus Superintending Engineer T.B.P.H.L.C. Circle Anantapur, 2019 JX(SC) 391 and in Raveechee and Company Versus Union of India, AIR 2018 SC 3109, has interpreted the role of the Courts while hearing matters under the arbitration Act. The judgment goes to show that pendente lite interest will depend upon several factors such as; phraseology used in the agreement clauses conferring power relating to arbitration, nature of claim and dispute referred to arbitrator, and on what items power to award interest has been taken away and for which period. The Court observed:

"34. Thus our answer to the reference is that if contract expressly bars award of interest pendente lite, the same cannot be awarded by the Arbitrator. And that the bar to award interest on delayed payment by itself will not be readily inferred as express bar to award interest pendente lite by the Arbitral Tribunal, as ouster of power of the arbitrator has to be considered on various relevant aspects referred to in the decisions of this Court , it would be for the Division Bench to consider the case on merits."

9. The decision of Supreme Court in Puri Construction Pvt. Limited Versus Union of India, AIR 1989 SC 777 and State of Orissa Versus B.N. Agarwalla , (1997) 2 SCC 469 and submits that in view of the said judgment, the appeal requires to be allowed as none of the aspects which are needed for upturning the well reasoned arbitral award and the finding of facts and upholding the same do not show that there was any perversity, though it was not proved that any misconduct or that there was breach of any of the provisions under the Arbitration Act which would call for interference by this Court in its appellate jurisdiction.

10. The Apex Court in FCI Versus Joginderpal Mohinderpal, (1989) 2 SCC 347 has held that the objection against an arbitral award can be raised only if it falls within the parameters fixed by the provisions of Section 14, and 33 of the Act, 1940. If the award satisfies that it is based on equity, fair play, principles of natural justice and established practice and procedure then the award should not be interfered. In proceedings of arbitration there must be adherence to justice, equity, law and fair play in action. The proceedings must adhere to the principles of natural justice and must be in consonance with such practice and procedure which will lead to a proper resolution of the dispute and create confidence of the people for whose benefit these processes are resorted to FCI Versus Joginderpal Mohinderpal (supra).

11. Section 30 of the Act, 1940 read as follows :

"Section 30. Grounds for setting aside award. An award shall not be set aside except on one or more of the following grounds, namely:-

(a) that an arbitrator or umpire has misconducted himself or the proceedings

(b) that an award has been made after the issue of an order by the Court superseding the arbitration or after arbitration proceedings have become invalid under section 35;

(c) that an award has been improperly procured or is other- wise invalid."

12. Section 33 of the Act, 1940 read as follows :

"33. Arbitration agreement or award to be contested by application. Any party to an arbitration agreement or any person claiming under him desiring to challenge the existence or validity of an arbitration agreement or an award or to have the effect of either determined shall apply to the Court and the Court shall decide the question on affidavits: Provided that where the Court deems it just and expedient, it may set down the application for hearing on other evidence also, and it may pass such orders for discovery and particulars as it may do in a suit."

13. Thus, the judicial review of an award has been circumscribed by Apex Court in FCI Versus Joginderpal Mohinderpal (supra) wherein it has been held that arbitration as a mode for settlement of disputes between the parties, has a tradition in India. It has a social purpose to be fulfilled today,. It has a great urgency today when there has been an explosion of litigation in the courts of law established by the sovereign power . It is, therefore, the function of Courts of Law to oversee that the arbitrators act within the norms of justice. Once they do so and the award is clear, just and fair, the Courts should, as far as possible, give effect to the award of the parties and make the parties compel to adhere to and obey the decision of their chosen adjudicator. It is in this perspective that one should view the scope and limit of correction by the court of an award made by the arbitrator.

14. In backdrop of this it will have to be decided as to whether can it be said that the decision of arbitrator upturned by the Court below is bad and was wrongly not made the Rule of Court as per Arbitration Act, 1940.

15. While perusing the award 26.7.1998, it is found that the arbitrator considered each item threadbare and has given his findings. Can it be said that arbitral award does not fulfill the contours of principles which are required to be followed by an arbitrator under the Act, 1940. Item No.5 is taken as illustration so as not to burden the judgment but to come to the conclusion as to show that the Arbitrator and the Judge both had applied the legal acumen.

16. This Court in First Appeal From Order No.714 of 2005, State of U.P. and other Vs. J.M. Construction Company, decided on 11.4.2019, has summarised the principles for deciding matters under the Arbitration Act, 1940 & 1996 wherein in paragraph no.24 it is observed as follows:-

"In Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation, the learned counsel for the respondent-Company submitted that in fact there was no material on which the finding was recorded by the Arbitrator. In support thereof, learned counsel invited our attention to a decision of this Court in the case of K.P. Poulose v. State of Kerala & Anr., reported in [1975] 2 SCC 236 wherein it was held that the award can be set aside on the ground of misconduct if relevant documents are not considered by the Arbitrator. Therefore, we asked learned counsel for the appellant-Corporation to substantiate the finding recorded by the arbitrator that it is based on the material on record. In pursuance to the direction given by this Court, learned counsel for the Corporation filed an affidavit on 12.7.2006 and submitted that the document wherein the details on divisionwise average kilometer of new tyres and retreaded tyres along with average short-fall in guaranteed kilometers for the various periods was on record of arbitrator and same was produced before us. The details were given of all the Divisions i.e. Bharatpur, Jaipur, Sikar, Kota, Ajmer, Bikaner, Jodhpur and Udaipur. In all these eight divisions for the various period i.e. from June 1991 to February, 1994 the details have been given to substantiate the allegations that what was the average mileage of the new tyre and what was the average mileage given by the retreaded tyres and on that basis, the short-fall was given and accordingly, the amount of loss was worked out. These details which were placed before us formed part of the record before the arbitrator. The arbitrator in his detailed award has recorded his finding on the basis of the average performance of new vehicle tyres with that of the retreaded tyres of the Company and on that basis he has worked out the assessment in paragraph 17 of the award. Paragraph 17 of the award reads as follows :

"The RSRTC has compared the performance of retreaded tyres with the performance of new tyres in each division. In each division, as mentioned earlier, the road conditions, the vehicles used, the weather conditions, the general driving skills of the drivers and the level of maintenance and upkeep of vehicles were similar for the new tyres as well as retreaded tyres. The retreaded tyres should have given a kilometerage of 46,000 or 95 % of the life of new tyres. Therefore, the assessment of the performance done by the RSRTC is strictly in conformity with the provisions of clause 5 of the agreement. Notwithstanding the acceptance by the respondent of an error of judgment in guaranteeing 46,000 kms for a retreaded tyre, from the Statements enclosed by the claimant with its letters mentioned in para 5 of this order, it is clear that the retreaded tyres performance fell short of the guaranteed level. I, therefore, find claim of the RSRTC to be fully justified."

"9. This is the finding of fact given by the arbitrator. As against this, learned Single Judge as mentioned above, has held that there was no assessment in each division in similar conditions. Therefore, the learned Single Judge set aside the award but it is not factually correct. As mentioned above, there was a comparative assessment given by the Corporation and that was part of the record before the arbitrator and on that basis the finding of fact was recorded by the arbitrator. Learned counsel for the respondents strenuously urged before us that the performance of new tyres and of retreaded tyres on roads like Jaipur-Delhi would be better as against the road of Jaipur-Lalsot. Therefore, there was no assessment of performance of the new tyres vis-a-vis the retreaded tyres supplied by the Company in similar conditions. In fact, an average has to be taken of each division. It is not necessary that in each of the divisions of the Corporation, the road conditions will be similar. Once the company has entered into an agreement knowing fully well the conditions obtaining in the State of Rajasthan that all the routes in the State are not the roads of Class `A' category but there are roads of Class `A', Class `B' and Class `C' categories also. Therefore, the average performance has been recorded taking into consideration this aspect. It is unlikely that all over the State of Rajasthan the road condition like Jaipur-Delhi will be available for all other divisions. Therefore, in all the divisions the average performance has been taken into consideration. The assessment has been based on average of similar conditions of the roads i.e. the good quality as well as the poor quality. Therefore, average performance of the new tyres with the retreaded tyres has to be taken on the basis of roads available in Rajasthan. The average running of the new tyres on these road conditions with that of the retreaded tyres was to be compared to find out whether the performance of retreaded tyres was up to 95% average or not. After assessing the comparative assessment and going through the materials on record the arbitrator has recorded his finding. It was for the company if they wanted more information or wanted to allege that the road conditions are not similar or that the performance of the tyres which were fitted in the rear axle or on the front axle would not be the same, all these details if it wanted, it could have obtained from the Corporation but they did not do so and only at this stage the company wants to bring this factual controversy that retreaded tyres were not used in similar conditions. This argument at this belated stage cannot be accepted as all the materials have been considered by the arbitrator and after taking into consideration the average of each tyre in each region of the corporation has worked out that the performance of the retreaded tyres was not to the extent of 95%. This was a finding of fact recorded by the arbitrator and the same was made rule of the court by the District Judge. But the learned Single Judge erroneously took upon himself to sit as a court of appeal and disturbed this finding of fact. In our opinion, the view taken by the learned Single Judge of the High Court cannot be sustained."

17. During the pendency of this appeal, stay has not been granted. The appellant has seen that the amount awarded by the District Judge is secured by way of bank guarantee or any other security. Clause-9 of contract reads as under:-

"(iii) Clause-9 Special Conditions (modified):

Plant and Machinery:

The plant and equipment procured by the Board shall be made available to the contractor on terms and conditions laid down as under:-

(A) Plant/equipment available for the work for exclusive use by the contractor:

(i) The plant and equipment as per Annexure-VII, procured by the Board for execution of part of work under the contract to shall have to be taken over by the contractor at the cost occassioned to the Board which has been indicated in Col.4 of the said Annexure. This coast shall be set-off against the total amount of advance for equipment admissible to the contractor under Clause-8 (modified) of the General Conditions of contract and shall be recovered in accordance with Clause-9 of the same condition of the contract."

18. Clause-9 of the General conditions does not speak about payment of interest is the submission of Sri Khanna as a special condition which is at page 180 of the paper-book. He has further relied on the judgment of the Apex Court in Hind Builders Vs. Union of India, (1990) 3 SCC 338, K Marappan (Dead) through sole LR Balasubramanian Vs. Superintending Engineer TBPHLC Circle Anantapur, 1019 LawSuit (SC) 977 and State of U.P. and others Vs. J.M. Construction Company, FAFO No.714 of 2005, decided on 11.4.2019 by this High Court., which has interpreted the contract to mean that where there are two interpretations possible, the Arbitrator's view would prevail. In this case, in fact there was no two views possible. The view taken by the Arbitrator is laud and clear and the Arbitrator's view was such that the first court should not have interfered. Similar view has been reiterated recently by the Apex Court and this Court is the submission of Sri Khanna.

19. It is further submitted by the counsel for the contractor that while reading the aribtral award, it cannot be said that it falls within the parameters as envisaged under Section 30 of Act, 1940. It cannot be said that the arbitrator has misconducted himself and that there is any error apparent on the face of record. The factual errors are not open for correction by a Court. It is submitted that no mistake of fact is justiciable hence in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Dandasi Sahu Versus State of Orissa, (1990) 1 SCC 214 wherein it has been held that the arbitrator, in the case of a reference made to him in pursuance of an arbitration agreement between the parties, being a person chosen by parties and was apprised as the sole arbitrator of all the questions and the parties bind themselves as a rule, to accept, the award as final and conclusive. The arbitrator need not give any reasons and even if he commits a mistake either in law or in fact in determining the matter referred to him, where such mistake does not appear on the face of the award, the same could not be assailed or quashed or upturned. The award could be interfered with only in limited circumstances as provided under Section 16 and 30 of the Arbitration Act, 1940. In this situation the Court has to test the award with circumspection.

20. While considering the factual background and interpreting the arbitral award and the order of the District Judge, the award of the arbitrator is in consonance with clause 8 and 9 of the contract. The District Court seems to have return the judgment as if it was sitting in appeal and deciding the Suit which could not have been done. The authorities were also of the view that no interest could have been charged from the appellant but they reviewed their own decision which became subject matter of arbitration and the arbitrator gave cogent reasons for allowing the appellant's application and held that no interest was payable. This well reasoned arbitral award was interfered by the court on the ground that the finding is bad though he referred to several judgments he himself embarked on fact finding mission and appreciated on the basis that the arbitrator had committed an error and relying on AIR 1955 SC 468 in the case of Thawer Das Vs. Union of India and misread the award as if there was an error apparent on the face of record. The modified clause 9 did not permit any interest and the advance was to be given without any interest. The arbitral award also was based on the decision of the Apex Court in 1989 (2) SCC 721, Raipur Development Authority and other Vs. Chokhamal and others. The reasons were well assigned by the arbitrator, thus, the judgment of the District Court reversing the arbitral award is bad in the eye of law and contrary to the contours of arbitral award being set aside by courts.

21. This appeal is allowed. The appellants are entitled to the refund of the interest deducted. The security could be encashed. The judgment of district Court is quashed and is set aside.

22. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Trial Court. The award of the Tribunal shall be made rule of the court under the Arbitration Act, 1940.

23. This Court is thankful to Sri Khanna for ably assisting the Court in getting this matter of 1991 disposed of.

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Amit Manohar

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Akhilesh Ch. Srivastava, Sri Ramesh Ch. Pathak

A. Motor Accident Act, 1988 - Section 165 – Claim petition – Locus of brother of deceased - If there is no other legal heir of the deceased, the brother is a legal representative and is competent to maintain claim petition - Person who is to get the property of deceased will be a legal representative - Tribunal found the name of the claimant has been mutated in revenue records after the death of deceased and both brothers were living in a joint family - Tribunal rightly concluded the claimants to be legal representative of the deceased – Argument that the claimants are brother and bhabhi is only relevant for the purpose of determining dependency which is significant for the purpose of ascertaining the quantum of compensation. (Para 11)

B. Motor Accident Act, 1988 – Compensation - Calculation – Age of deceased was found between 30 to 35 years, therefore, applied the multiplier of 15 – The amount of compensation determined by the tribunal is in lower side and need not to be disturbed. (Para 12)

First Appeal From Order dismissed. (E-1)

List of cases cited :-

1. Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation Ltd., AIR 2009 SC 3104

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pradeep Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Shri Amit Manohar, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri R.C. Pathak, learned counsel for the claimants.

2. This appeal has been filed against the judgement and award dated 16.08.2011 of Motor Accident Claims Tribunal /Additional District Judge, Court no. 5, Basti in MACP No. 99 of 2008 in which the learned tribunal has granted Rs. 1,50,00/- as compensation along with 6% simple interest per annum from the date of institution of the claim petition.

3. The factual matrix of the case is that an accident took place on 22.05.2006. Deceased driver Prem Prakash along with owner of the Jeep and other persons returning from Tilak ceremony of nephew of Narsingh Pandey resident of Ladewa to Basti. At night about 10:30 PM near village Bankata when Jeep reached from Manauri Chauraha to railway crossing, a tractor trolly coming in front of the jeep, whose driver driving the tractor trolly very rashly and negligently and dashed the Jeep No. U.P.-51H/1300 and Jeep overturned in a pit and Krishna Kumar Srivastava, Dharmendra, Hanshlal and Bhaagwat Dubey who were sitting in the Jeep died on the spot and others sustained injures including driver and owner of the Jeep. Driver of the tractor trolly along with tractor trolly escaped from the spot. Due to injury, driver of Jeep Prem Prakash got unconscious and during treatment he died. Owner of the Jeep Umashanker Mishra and other injured had seen the accident. The Information of accident was given by the owner of the Jeep to shift his responsibility on the tractor trolly stating the tractor trolly is responsible for the accident and on the basis of the written report, Case Crime No. 806 / 06 under sections 279, 337, 338, 304A IPC was registered for the accident and case was investigated. Since owner of the Jeep and other injured are unable to inform about the registration no. of tractor trolly, driver and owner of the tractor trolly, the Investigating Officer submitted Final Report. Driver Prem Prakash was seriously injured in the accident and was admitted in District hospital, Basti from where after first aid he was referred to Medical College. Thereafter, injured Prem Prakash was admitted in Avatar Hospital, Lucknow for treatment where he died due to injuries sustained in the accident on 23.05.2006 at 10:00 PM. Post-mortem of the dead body was not conducted as the owner of the Jeep said that he along with Insurance Company will provide compensation. At the time of accident deceased Prem Prakash was 32 years of age and by profession he was driver and was healthy and unmarried person. He was getting Rs. 3000/- per month as salary and Rs. 300/- as monthly food allowance from the owner of the vehicle. Deceased Prem Prakash was residing with the claimant and giving his whole salary to them. Since, owner of the Jeep was the employer of deceased, therefore, he is responsible for the compensation. The Jeep was insured with National Insurance Company and the driver Hari Prakash @ Prem Prakash was having a valid license. Therefore this claim petition was filed by the brother and sister-in-law of the deceased.

4. The National Insurance Company filed a written statement and has denied the facts alleged in the claim petition and has specifically alleged that in absence of cause of contest, the claim petition is not maintainable and may be set aside. At the time of accident age of Prem Prakash was more than 32 years, he was not working as driver and he was also not getting the monthly income of Rs. 3000/- and claimants are not the heirs of the deceased. Claimant no. 1 is the brother of the deceased and claimant no. 2 is the sister-in-law (bhabhi) and claimant no. 2 is dependent of claimant no. 1 and claimant no. 1 is self independent. Therefore, claimants are not entitled to get compensation. It has been alleged that in view of FIR the accident took place because of rashness and negligence by tractor trolly and therefore, claim is not maintainable against the insurance company. The owner of the tractor trolly and driver are not made party. On the date of accident the Jeep was not insured and the driver was not having valid license and the Jeep was being driven in violation of the Insurance policy. The offending vehicle was used as a taxi and on the date of accident it was over loaded and therefore, insurance company is not responsible to pay compensation to the claimant.

5. The owner of the offending vehicle filed written statement and denied that Prem Prakash @ Hari Prakash was not working as a driver of offending Jeep and he was only driving the Jeep in absence of the owner's driver. On the date of incident deceased Hari Prakash @ Prem Prakash was driving the offending Jeep. Ahead him Government vehicle of Nalkoop Vibhag was going on, in which, the Executive Engineer Shri Sohan Ram and certain employees of the department were also sitting. The Government vehicle got trapped in the tractor trolly and overturned on the road side and since the offending vehicle was behind the Government vehicle also overturned because of dazzle of headlight of tractor and in which owner and driver sustained injury. Owner of the offending vehicle has bear all the expenses of funeral and Braham Bhoj. He has not lodged the Case Crime No. 806 /06, he also sustained injuries and got fainted and was admitted to District Hospital. The Executive Engineer put pressure on Kotwali police for lodging the F.I.R. He bear all the medical expenses of deceased. Claimants are not the heirs of deceased. Claim petition was not filed in a systematic way.

6. Following issues were framed-

1. Whether Premprakash Pandey died on 22.5.2006 at 10.30 PM when the driver of Jeep UP- 51H/1300 and the driver of the tractor trolly driving rashly and negligently dashed and the Jeep overturned?

2. Whether there was any contributory negligence on the part of deceased in the accident?

3. Whether the petition is not maintainable under section 163-A of the MV Act?

4. Whether the petition is defective due to non joinder of the driver and owner of the tractor trolly?

5. Whether the deceased was having valid and effective driving license at the time of accident?

6. Whether the offending Jeep was not insured at the time of accident?

7. Whether the claimants are entitled for compensation, if yes, how much and from whom?

7. Evidence was given from both sides and after hearing both sides, the learned Tribunal passed the impugned award aggrieved by the same this appeal has been filed.

8. The appellant has challenged the impugned award on the ground that there was no evidence regarding involvement of the said Jeep in accident, no FIR has been lodged against the Jeep but has been lodged against the driver of tractor trolly and they were not made parties, the deceased was not in permanent employment of the owner, the liability under section 163-A has been wrongly fixed, the income was wrongly assessed and deduction of 50% was not maid as the deceased was unmarried and claimants being elder brother and sister in law were not legally entitled for any compensation.

9. The learned Tribunal on evidence and settled legal principles rightly concluded that the petition under section 163-A was maintainable as the deceased was driving the Jeep when the accident took place. It was also rightly decided that there was no possibility of impleading the tractor owner and driver as they were not traceable and moreover when the petition has been filed under section 163-A. It was established on record that the deceased was having valid and effective driving license at the time of incident and the Jeep he was driving was insured. The learned Tribunal also rightly concluded that in a petition under section 163-A, the issue of negligence or contributory negligence is not significant. Thus, the decision on Issue no 1 to 6 is legally valid and justified and there appears to be no perversity in the finding of the Tribunal.

10. The learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the claimants being elder brother and bhabhi (sister in law), are not entitled for any compensation. Section 165 of the M V Act provides for Claims Tribunal and the Explanation provides that claims for compensation includes a claim under section 140 and 163-A. Section 166 of the M V Act provides that in case of injury claim petition can be filed by the injured person himself and in case of death, by all or any of the legal representative of the deceased. Thus, sub-section (1) of section 166 provides:

"An application for compensation arising out of an accident of the nature specified in sub-section (1) of section 165 may be made;

a, by the person who has sustained the injury; or

b. by the owner of the property; or

c. where death has resulted from the accident, by all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased; or

d. by any agent duly authorized by the person injured or all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased, as the case may be;

Provided that where all the legal representatives of the deceased have not jointed in any such application for compensation, the application shall be made on behalf of or for the benefit of all the legal representatives of the deceased and the legal representatives who have not so joined, shall be impleaded as respondents to the application."

11. It is pertinent to mention that the above provision of the M V Act speaks in terms of legal representative. If there is no other legal heir of the deceased, the brother is a legal representative and is competent to maintain claim petition. It has been nowhere shown that except brother there was anyone who can represent the estate of deceased. Any person who is to get the property of deceased will be a legal representative. In the instant case the learned Tribunal has found that the name of the claimant has been mutated in revenue records after the death of deceased and both brothers were living in a joint family and their parents have already died. Therefore the learned Tribunal rightly concluded the claimants to be legal representative of the deceased. As such the argument of the learned counsel to appellant that the claimants are brother and bhabhi is only relevant for the purpose of determining dependency which is significant for the purpose of ascertaining the quantum of compensation.

12. The learned Tribunal on the basis of evidence determined the age of the deceased in between 30 to 35 and, therefore, applied the multiplier of 15. In Sarla Verma v Delhi Transport Corporation Ltd., AIR 2009 SC 3104, a multiplier of 16 could have been taken. Therefore the appellant should not be aggrieved by the use of the multiplier of 15. The learned Tribunal finding the deceased to be driver and concluding that he might not have regular assignment, hypothetically, determined the income to be Rs. 2500/- monthly and thus Rs. 30000/- in an year. It cannot be said to be in higher side. The learned Tribunal did not stop here and took the view that after being married, the deceased could spare money out of his income to the extent of only 1/3rd for the claimants and thus made a deduction of 2/3rd and determined the amount of compensation to be only 150000/- which is again in a very lower side. The appellant has submitted for only 50% deduction and therefore, there is no reason for he becoming aggrieved. I find the amount of compensation is in lower side and need not to be disturbed.

13. On the basis of the above discussion, I find no force in appeal and the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

14. Appeal is dismissed accordingly.

15. The amount of Rs. 25000/- deposited by appellant at the time of filing the appeal shall be remitted back to the learned Tribunal to be paid to the claimant.

3. Bachahan Devi & another Versus Nagar Nigam, Gorakhpur and others; (2008) 12 SCC 372

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard, Shri Prashant Jaiswal, Advocate holding brief of Shri N.N.Jaiswal, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Ran Vijai Singh, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This First Appeal From Order has been filed challenging the judgment and order dated 17.10.2001, passed in Regular Civil Appeal No.57 of 1993;Manokamini Devi Versus Ashok Kumar.

3. The appellant had filed a Regular Suit No.450 of 1987 for mandatory injunction before the Munsif, Barabanki alleging therein that the plot no.158 situated in village Chakkazipur, Pargana and Tehsil-Fatehpur, District-Barabanki was belonging to Smt. Rani Kaneez Ali which was her bhumidhari holding. She had partitioned this plot into five smaller plots and sold those plots to different persons. The plaintiff-appellant had purchased one of these plots of Khasara No.158, which is depicted in the site plan as 1-B. It was purchased through a registered sale deed dated 17.09.1977 and the possession was also obtained. According to the plotting scheme of Smt.Rani Kaneez Ali there were three plots i.e. 3, 4 and 5 on the northern side and plot nos.1 and 2 on the southern side and there was a 20 feet road in between them. The defendant-respondent had purchased plot nos.3,4 and 5 depicted in the site plan. The defendant had started encroaching the road in between the plot nos.1 and 2 on one side and 3, 4 and 5 on the other side on points A, B, C and D depicted in the site plan. The appellant tried to stop the defendant but he did not stop and raised a wall of 50 feet long and 5 feet high, therefore the suit was filed.

4. The respondent-defendant had filed written statement and cross objection with a prayer for permanent injunction alleging therein that the appellant and respondent have purchased half-half portion of the road in between the plots and paid Rs.500/- each to Smt. Rani Kazeez Ali and he tried to raise some construction on his portion. Accordingly 10 feet out of the 20 feet road is of the defendant-respondent out of which 5 feet land has been encroached by the plaintiff-appellant.

5. On the basis of the pleadings of the parties five issues were framed. After evidence the suit for mandatory injunction of the plaintiff-appellant was decreed in her favour and the defendant-respondent was directed to remove the encroachment. The counter claim of the defendant-respondent was also allowed and the plaintiff-appellant was directed to remove the construction. The suit was decreed by means of the judgment and order dated 02.09.1993. The judgment and order passed by the trial court was assailed by the plaintiff-appellant by filing a regular Civil Appeal in the court of District Judge, Barabanki. In the appeal also cross objection was filed by the respondent.

6. After considering the pleadings of the parties learned appellate court found that it is not in dispute that both the parties have purchased their plots in question from Smt. Rani Kaneez Ali and it is also not in dispute that the lay out plan in regard to the concerned plots in question were annexed with the sale deed. However the appellate court found that on measuring the Map prepared by the Commissioner on the basis of measurement of 1 cm.=10 feet the position of the spot in question is not correct and the distance shown between the different points is not correct and there is difference. On account of these discrepancies the learned appellate court found that the position of the spot is not clear therefore it cannot be ascertained as to how much of area has been encroached and the constructions have been raised by the parties. Therefore, without ascertaining the correct position of the spot the correct conclusion cannot be drawn. The learned appellate court disposed of the appeal and remanded the matter to the trial court with direction to get the issues disposed of after getting the correct Map of the site prepared. However, the judgment passed by the learned trial court has not been set aside. Hence the present appeal has been filed by the plaintiff-appellant.

7. Submission of learned counsel for the appellant was that the learned appellate court has wrongly and illegally remanded the case without setting aside the judgment and order passed by the trial court on the ground that the report of the Commissioner as per the scale given is not correct while commissioner's report was never challenged by any of the parties either before the trial court or before the appellant court. Even then if the appellate court was of the view that the commissioner's report was wrong the appellate court could have called for a fresh commissioner's report and decided the appeal accordingly on its merit. The learned appellate court has wrongly and illegally on the basis of some minor mistake in the commission report has ignored the relevant documentary and oral evidence adduced by the parties and avoided the admitted facts with regard to the 20 feet road. Therefore the impugned judgment is not sustainable and is liable to be set aside. Learned counsel for the appellant has relied on 1990 (8) LCD 282;Ram Bali Singh and others Versus Ram Sakal and 2010(1)AWC 110 (SC);H.V.Vedayvasachar Versus Shivshankara and another.

8. On the other hand learned counsel for the respondents had submitted that the appellate court has rightly remanded the case because once it was found that the commissioner's report was not correct the alleged encroachment made by the respondent which come to 9 feet in place of 14.6 feet and the distance between the plots of the appellant and the respondent will reduce from 20 feet.

9. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

10. The facts regarding purchase of plots by the parties from Smt.Rani Kaneez Ali and road of 20 feet in between the plots are not in dispute. The filing of Regular Suit for mandatory injunction by the plaintiff-appellant and cross objection claiming permanent injunction by the respondent with a prayer for removal of the encroachment by the parties are also not in dispute. The regular suit as well as the cross objection were allowed. Therefore, the Regular Civil Appeal was filed by the plaintiff-appellant and cross objection was filed by the defendant-respondent.

11. The short question for consideration by this court is as to whether the commissioner's report which was never objected by either of the parties could have been discarded by the learned appellate court and on account of some discrepancies in the commissioner's report the matter could have been remanded to the trial court without setting aside the judgment and order passed by the trial court.

12. It is not in dispute that no objections were filed by either of the parties against the commissioner's report. However, if the learned appellate court has found that on the basis of scale of 1 cm.=10 feet, on which the map was prepared by the commissioner, the correct position of the land in question and encroachment thereon could not be ascertained and the correct conclusion can not be drawn, the learned appellate court has not committed any illegality or error in not accepting the report. The learned counsel for the appellant has also failed to disclose any discrepancy in the findings recorded by the learned appellate court in regard to the commissioner's report except that no objection was filed. Therefore, now the question arises as to whether the learned appellate court should have decided the appeal after calling a fresh commissioner's report or could have remanded the matter.

13. It is settled proposition of law that the powers of the appellate court and those of trial court are co-extensive and the learned appellate court had therefore power to get the survey map prepared. Once the appellate court has power to get the survey map prepared the remand only for the purpose of getting the survey map prepared may not be a good ground. This court in the case of Ram Bali Singh and others Versus Ram Sakal (Supra) has held so and with the consent of the parties remanded the matter to the appellate court with direction to decide the controversy himself after getting the requisite map prepared. But in the present case the learned appellate court has not only directed to get the map prepared but has also directed to dispose of the issues on the basis of the map after determination of distance from Mahmoodabad-Ram Nagar road to the shops and the distance of the house of the appellant, width of the road in dispute on spot and the nature of area of encroachment because on the basis of the commissioner's report it could not be ascertained.

14. The Hon'ble Apex court in the case of H.V. Vedavyasachar Versus Shivshankara and another (Supra) has held that the order of remand can only be passed in terms of Order XLI Rule 23, Order XLI Rule 23A, Order XLI Rule 25 of the Code of Civil Procedure and on finding that none of the said provisions have any application in that case modified the order passed by the High Court and directed the learned trial court to remit the matter to the appellate court after recording the evidence as directed by the High Court within the time provided and thereafter directed the first appellate court to dispose of the appeal on receipt of the order and the evidence within the time provided keeping in view the fact that the appellant was dispossessed as far back as in 1993.

15. In the present case the appellate court came to the conclusion that for recording the correct conclusion the position of the spot is essential and in absence thereof no conclusion can be drawn and remanded the matter to the trial court to get the correct map prepared and thereafter dispose of the issues but neither set aside the judgment nor directed to the trial court to return the findings and reasons therefor.

16. Order XLI Rule 25 of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 provides that to determine any question of fact which appears to the appellate court essential to the right decision of the suit upon the merits, the appellate court may, if necessary, frame issues and refer the same for trial to the court from whose decree the appeal is preferred and in such case the appellate court shall direct such court to take an additional evidence required and such court shall proceed to try such issues and shall return the evidence to the appellate court together with its findings thereon and the reasons therefor within such time as may be fixed by the appellate court or extended by it from time to time. Rule 25 of Order XLI of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 is extracted below:-

"25. Where appellate Court may frame issues and refer them for trial to Court whose decree appealed from- Where the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred has omitted to frame or try any issue, or to determine any question of fact, which appears to the Appellate Court essential to the right decision of the suit upon the merits, the Appellate Court may, if necessary, frame issues, and refer the same for trial to the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, and in such case shall direct such Court to take the additional evidence required; and such Court shall proceed to try such issues, and shall return the evidence to the Appellate Court together with its findings thereon and the reasons therefor [within such time as may be fixed by the Appellate Court or extended by it from time to time]."

17. In view of above it appears that the learned Appellate court has remitted the matter to the trial court to call a correct report and return the same together with its findings thereon and the reasons therefor to the appellate court so the correct conclusions may be drawn and the appeal may be decided on merit therefore the order passed by the trial court has not been set aside. But instead of fixing any time has disposed of the appeal which could not have been done by the appellate court. The Hon'ble Apex in the case of Bachahan Devi & another Versus Nagar Nigam, Gorakhpur and others;(2008) 12 SCC 372 has held in paragraphs 9 and 10 as under:-

"9. Under Order XLI Rule 25, if it appears to the Appellate Court that any fact essential for the decision in the suit was to be determined, it could frame an issue on the point and refer the same for trial, to the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred and in such case, shall direct such court to take additional evidence required. The order of remand should not be passed as a matter of routine. The First Appellate Court which has the power to analyse the factual position can decide the issue and the additional issues. In the instant case the First Appellate Court, inter alia, observed as follows:

"As such, it would not be proper for the first Appellate Court in such matter to itself record the evidence and to give its findings in regard to newly created issues.

The Hon'ble High Court has also held that in the present matter under the provision of Order 41 Rule 25 of Civil Procedure Code, becomes mandatory (shall) though in this provision, the word 'may' has been used. No doubt in the present matter also the Appellate Court has framed 6 additional issues which are legal in nature and also factual, with the result if the Appellate Court gives its findings relating to said legal and factual issues after itself recording (receiving) evidence then the aggrieved party would be prevented from his right of filing first appeal. Accordingly, the aforesaid ratio laid down by the Hon'ble High Court is fully applicable in the present matter."

10. A bare reading of the provision makes it clear that the same comes into operation when the Court, from whose decree the appeal is preferred, has omitted to frame or try and issue, or to determine any question of fact which appears to the appellate court essential for the right decision of the suit upon the merits. In order to bring in application of Order XLI Rule 25 the appellate court must come to a conclusion that the lower court has omitted to frame issues and/or has failed to determine any question of fact which in the opinion of the appellate court are essential for the right decision of the suit on merits. Once the appellate court comes to such a conclusion it may, if necessary, frame the issues and refer the same to the trial court. In other words there is no compulsion on the part of the appellate Court to do so. This is clear from the use of the expression 'may'. But the further question that arises is whether in such a case the appellate court is bound to direct the trial court to take additional evidence required. This is a mandatory requirement as is evident from the provision itself because it provides that the lower court shall proceed to try such case and shall return the evidence to the appellate court together with findings therein and the reasons therefor. As noted above, the provision becomes operative when the appellate court comes to the conclusion about the omission on the part of the lower court to frame or try any issue. Once the appellate court directs the lower court to do so, it is incumbent upon the trial court to take additional evidence required. As has been rightly contended by learned counsel for the appellant, there may be cases where additional evidence may not be required. But where the additional evidence is required, then the lower court has to return the evidence so recorded to the appellate court together with the findings thereon and the reasons therefor. Requirement for recording the finding of facts and the reasons disclosed from the facts is because the appellate court at the first instance has come to the conclusion that the lower court has omitted to frame or try any issue or to determine any question of fact material for the right decision of the suit on merits. It has to be noted that where a finding is called for on the basis of certain issues framed by the appellate court, the appeal is not disposed of either in whole or in part. Therefore the parties cannot be barred from arguing the whole appeal after the findings are received from the court of the first instance. This position was highlighted in Gogula Gurumurthy and Others v. Kurimeti Ayyappa (1975(4) SCC 458), where it was inter-alia observed in para 5 as follows:

"We consider that when a finding is called for on the basis of certain issues framed by the appellate Court the appeal is not disposed of either in whole or in part. Therefore the parties cannot be barred from arguing the whole appeal after the findings are received from the court of first instance. We find the same view taken in Gopi Nath Shukul v. Sat Narain Shukul (AIR 1923 All 384)."

18. In view of above, this court is of the view that the judgment and order passed by the appellate court is liable to be modified to the extent that the trial court after getting the correct map prepared record its findings on the issues and the reasons therefor and send the same to the appellate court so that the appellate court may decide the appeal on merit. It would also be appropriate because the Regular Suit is of the year 1987 and Regular Civil Appeal of the year 1993. The appeal is accordingly partly allowed and the judgment and order dated 17.10.2001 passed in Regular Civil Appeal No.57 of 1993 stands modified to the extent indicated above with the following directions:-

1. The learned Trial Court, after receiving record shall call report of the commissioner with the correct map of the spot and thereafter after recording its findings and reasons therefor in accordance with law as directed by the appellate court, shall send the record alongwith its findings and the reasons therefor to the appellate court expeditiously and preferably within a period of three months from the date of receipt of the record.

2. After receipt of the findings and reasons therefor from the trial court alongwith the record, the appellate court shall decide the Regular Civil Appeal No.57 of 1993 in accordance with law on merit expeditiously and preferably within a period of three months from the date of receipt from the trial court.

19. The appeal is, accordingly, partly allowed with the aforesaid directions. No order as to costs.

20. The lower Court record shall be remitted to the concerned trial court forthwith.

THE HON'BLE ARVIND KUMAR MISHRA-I, J.

First Appeal From Order No. 719 of 2000

Ravindra Pal Yadav ...Appellant
Versus
Smt. Badami Devi & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri I.N. Singh, Sri Ajay Yadav, Sri Arvind Kumar Srivastava, Sri Ram Bilas Yadav

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri A.A. Khan, Sri A.K. Srivastava, Sri Ashok Kumar Singh, Sri Gaurav Singh

A. Motor Accident Act, 1988 – Driving Licence - Validity and effectiveness – Driving licence does not lose its effectiveness merely on ground that the vehicle in question though registered for commercial purpose was being used at the time of the accident for private purpose - validity of the driving licence cannot be doubted even in the absence of any particular or special endorsement made on it as that requirement is not legal one - Finding recorded by the Tribunal is on the face perverse, erroneous – Held, the driver of the offending vehicle was duly licensed.

First Appeal From Order allowed. (E-1)

List of cases cited: -

1. Mukund Dewangan Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. 2017 (14) SCC 663

2. United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Smt. Shashi Prabha Sharma and others AIR 2015 Allahabad 167 Full Bench Allahabad High Court

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Kumar Mishra-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Arvind Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the owner-appellant, Sri Ashok Kumar Singh and Sri Gaurav Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no.6 and perused the material brought on record.

2. By way of the instant appeal, challenge has been made to the award and order dated 16.02.2000 passed by IIIrd Additional District & Sessions Judge, Gorakhpur / Motor Accidents Claim Tribunal, in Motor Accident Claim Case No.71 of 1996 Smt. Badami Devi and others Vs. Ravindra Pal Yadav and others, whereby liability to pay compensation to the tune of Rs.1,49,000/- has been saddled with the owner-appellant.

3. Brief reference of the relevant facts of the case as discernible from the certified copy of the impugned award appears to be that the accident in question was caused on 12.01.1996 at 9:00 p.m. on the tri-crossing of Village Futhawa Inar, Police Station Chauri Chaura, District Gorakhpur by rash and negligent driving of Maruti Van U.P.53 E 1575 by its drive whereby he dashed the same with Ram Dulare Chauhan, aged 40 years, the deceased due to which he sustained injury and on account of which he died. The matter was reported at Police Station Chauri Chaura, District Gorakhpur.

4. The claimants-respondents moved claim petition claiming overall compensation amount under various heads to the tune of Rs.11,80,000/-. The Insurance Company also contested the claim petition by filing written statement and on the basis of the same, the Tribunal framed as many as 9 issues regarding factum of the accident and various other counts as per respective pleadings of the parties. It also took note of the documents filed on record which have been elaborated and discussed in the impugned award dated 16.02.2000 (passed by the Tribunal) and after recording finding on various issues, the Tribunal allowed the claim petition and in its operative portion, it directed payment / realization of Rs.1,49,000/- along with 12% interest as the overall compensation which amount was directed to be distributed among the claimant-respondents, in various proportion.

5. Consequently, this appeal.

6. Learned counsel for the owner-appellant has submitted that the liability to pay compensation has been wrongly saddled with the owner appellant on the ground that the offending vehicle, Maruti Van U.P.53 E 1575 was registered for commercial purpose, however, it was being plied, at the time of accident in question, for private purpose on account of which the Insurance Company claimed immunity branding the aforesaid act of the owner plying the vehicle in question to be in violation of the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy, which finding on the face is perverse, erroneous and not sustainable in view of the fact that in case any light motor vehicle is plied for whatsoever purpose - say - private or commercial by a duly licensed driver then it need not bear any particular / special endorsement on the driving licence of the driver as such that licence is meant for commercial purpose and the Insurance Company cannot claim immunity on that count, because the vehicle in question is admittedly motor vehicle for which a licence issued for driving a light motor vehicle will be a valid and effective driving licence.

7. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on the decision of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Mukund Dewangan Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. 2017 (14) SCC 663, particularly on paragraph nos. 45 and 46 which are extracted herein below:

45. Transport vehicle has been defined in section 2 (47) of the Act, to mean a public service vehicle, a goods carriage, an educational institution bus or a private service vehicle. Public service vehicle has been defined in section 2 (35) to mean any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward and includes a maxicab, a motor cab, contract carriage, and stage carriage. Goods carriage which is also a transport vehicle is defined in section 2 (14) to mean a motor vehicle constructed or adapted for use solely for the carriage of goods, or any motor vehicle not so constructed or adapted when used for the carriage of goods. It was rightly submitted that a person holding licence to drive light motor vehicle registered for private use, who is driving a similar vehicle which is registered or insured, for the purpose of carrying passengers for hire or reward, would not require an endorsement as to drive a transport vehicle, as the same is not contemplated by the provisions of the Act. It was also rightly contended that there are several vehicles which can be used for private use as well as for carrying passengers for hire or reward. When a driver is authorised to drive a vehicle, he can drive it irrespective of the fact whether it is used for a private purpose or for purpose of hire or reward or for carrying the goods in the said vehicle. It is what is intended by the provision of the Act, and the Amendment Act 54/1994.

46. Section 10 of the Act requires a driver to hold a licence with respect to the class of vehicles and not with respect to the type of vehicles. In one class of vehicles, there may be different kinds of vehicles. If they fall in the same class of vehicles, no separate endorsement is required to drive such vehicles. As light motor vehicle includes transport vehicle also, a holder of light motor vehicle licence can drive all the vehicles of the class including transport vehicles. It was pre-amended position as well the post-amended position of Form 4 as amended on 28.3.2001. Any other interpretation would be repugnant to the definition of "light motor vehicle" in section 2 (21) and the provisions of section 10(2)(d), Rule 8 of the Rules of 1989, other provisions and also the forms which are in tune with the provisions. Even otherwise the forms never intended to exclude transport vehicles from the category of "light motor vehicles' and for light motor vehicle, the validity period of such licence hold good and apply for the transport vehicle of such class also and the expression in section 10(2)(e) of the Act "Transport Vehicle' would include medium goods vehicle, medium passenger motor vehicle, heavy goods vehicle, heavy passenger motor vehicle which earlier found place in section 10(2)(e) to

(h) and our conclusion is fortified by the syllabus and rules which we have discussed. Thus we answer the questions which are referred to us thus:

(i) "Light motor vehicle' as defined in section 2(21) of the Act would include a transport vehicle as per the weight prescribed in section 2(21) read with section 2(15) and 2 (48). Such transport vehicles are not excluded from the definition of the light motor vehicle by virtue of Amendment Act No.54/1994.

(ii) A transport vehicle and omnibus, the gross vehicle weight of either of which does not exceed 7500 kg. would be a light motor vehicle and also motor car or tractor or a road roller, "unladen weight' of which does not exceed 7500 kg. and holder of a driving licence to drive class of "light motor vehicle" as provided in section 10(2)(d) is competent to drive a transport vehicle or omnibus, the gross vehicle weight of which does not exceed 7500 kg. or a motor car or tractor or road-roller, the "unladen weight" of which does not exceed 7500 kg. That is to say, no separate endorsement on the licence is required to drive a transport vehicle of light motor vehicle class as enumerated above. A licence issued under section 10(2)(d) continues to be valid after Amendment Act 54/1994 and 28.3.2001 in the form.

(iii) The effect of the amendment made by virtue of Act No.54/1994 w.e.f. 14.11.1994 while substituting clauses (e) to (h) of section 10(2) which contained "medium goods vehicle" in section 10(2)(e), medium passenger motor vehicle in section 10(2)(f), heavy goods vehicle in section 10(2)(g) and "heavy passenger motor vehicle" in section 10(2)(h) with expression "transport vehicle' as substituted in section 10(2)(e) related only to the aforesaid substituted classes only. It does not exclude transport vehicle, from the purview of section 10(2)(d) and section 2(41) of the Act i.e. light motor vehicle.

(iv) The effect of amendment of Form 4 by insertion of "transport vehicle" is related only to the categories which were substituted in the year 1994 and the procedure to obtain driving licence for transport vehicle of class of "light motor vehicle" continues to be the same as it was and has not been changed and there is no requirement to obtain separate endorsement to drive transport vehicle, and if a driver is holding licence to drive light motor vehicle, he can drive transport vehicle of such class without any endorsement to that effect.

8. Per contra, learned counsel for the claimant-respondents has has placed reliance on the decision of the Full Bench of this Court in the case of United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Smt. Shashi Prabha Sharma and others AIR 2015 Allahabad 167 Full Bench Allahabad High Court and claimed that on the basis of the aforesaid citation, ratio is fixed in such cases like the present one, liability though may be fastened upon the Insurance Company to pay the amount of compensation initially on it but the same may be directed to be recovered from the owner of the offending vehicle.

9. Considered the rival submissions and gone through the impugned award passed by the Tribunal.

10. In this case, no cross objection has been filed by the claimant-respondents. Finding on issue no.8 though it has been wrongly mentioned as finding on issue no.7, however both the parties agreed that it be treated as finding on the point of validity and effectiveness of the driving licence as issue no.8. The Tribunal after analyzing various aspects both legal as well as factual was of the opinion that the vehicle in question Maruti Van U.P.53 E 1575 primarily registered as commercial vehicle. However, it was being driven by a person though holding licence for driving the light motor vehicle but without any endorsement (on the licence) driving commercial vehicle would be violative of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy and would amount to not driving such vehicle with valid and effective driving licence.

11. The point raised on behalf of the owner-appellant relates to fact that in view of the clear cut mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court herein quoted above also fortifies claim of the owner-appellant that driving licence to drive the light motor vehicle will not lose its effectiveness merely on ground that the vehicle in question though registered for commercial purpose was being used at the time of the accident for private purpose and the point to be seen in such case is rooted to core consideration whether the nature of the vehicle permits the holder of the driving licence for driving light motor vehicle or not and that point works categorical in favour of the owner in the context.

12. In this case, validity of the driving licence cannot be doubted even in the absence of any particular or special endorsement made on it as that requirement is not legal one. The claim raised on behalf of the owner-appellant is sustained in view of the categorical finding recorded by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Mukund Dewangan (supra). Similarly, finding recorded in relation to the validity of the driving licence on issue no.8 by the Tribunal is on the face perverse, erroneous and the same is hereby set aside and it is held that the driver of the offending vehicle Maruti Van U.P.53 E 1575 was duly licensed on 12.01.1996 at 9:00 p.m. when the accident occurred on the tri-crossing of Village Futhawa Inar, Police Station Chauri Chaura, District Gorakhpur.

13. Insofar as overall amount awarded under facts and circumstances of the case as compensation amount to the tune of Rs.1,49,000/- is concerned, the same cannot be said to be either excessive or unreasonable, the same is justified, therefore, operative portion of the impugned award passed by the Tribunal dated 16.02.2000 along with 12% interest is hereby sustained. The entire amount of the compensation shall be paid by the insurer of the offending vehicle i.e. respondent no.6, Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. instead of the owner-appellant Ravindra Pal Yadav.

14. Accordingly, this appeal is allowed in terms aforesaid.

THE HON'BLE PRADEEP KUMAR SRIVASTAVA, J.

First Appeal From Order No. 758 of 2016

The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. ...Appellant

Versus

Smt. Renu & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Ramesh Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
Deepali Srivastava, Sri Ram Singh, Sri Sanjay Kumar Tripathi, Sri Amit Kumar Sinha

A. Motor Accident Act, 1988 – Driving licence – Validity – Tribunal found the offending vehicle was light goods motor vehicle - Tribunal further found that in the motor vehicle, three wheeler passenger vehicle and four wheeler vehicle is also included - No otherwise evidence - Offending vehicle was not heavy transport vehicle – Driver was very much authorized to drive the offending vehicle – Held, finding of Tribunal is justified and according to law which deserves no interference. (Para 6)

Held -

6. Conclusion was further supported by the judgment in Kulwant Singh & others Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. 2014 (4) T.A.C. 676 (SC) in which the Supreme court has laid down that if the driver is authorized to drive light motor vehicle, even if there is no endorsement for driving commercial vehicle, it shall be inferred that the driver was authorized to drive light passenger carriage vehicle and light goods carriage vehicle and as such the Insurance Company cannot deny to pay the compensation.

First Appeal From Order dismissed. (E-1)

List of cases cited :-

1. Kulwant Singh & others Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. 2014 (4) T.A.C. 676 (SC)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pradeep Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ramesh Singh, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Ram Singh, learned counsel for the opposite parties.

2. This appeal has been filed against the judgment and award dated 30.11.2015 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal /Additional District Judge, Court no. 5, Gorakhpur in MACP No. 764 of 2012 (Smt. Renu Gupta & others Vs. Prabhari Adhikari (Store) Nagar Nigam Gorakhpur & others) by which the learned Tribunal has awarded Rs. 1,54,000/- as compensation along with 7% simple interest per annum from the date of filing of this claim petition.

3. Aggrieved by the impugned award, this appeal has been filed on the ground that at the time of accident driver of the vehicle was not having a valid driving license to drive a transport vehicle and he was having a license of driving motorcycle or light motor vehicle. For plying transport vehicle, an endorsement was made on 29.12.2012 just after one day after the accident, which clearly proves that the vehicle was being driven in breach of insurance policy. Therefore the Insurance Company is not responsible to pay compensation and the impugned award is not sustainable under law and is liable to be set aside.

4. The respondent nos. 1 and 2 have filed a cross appeal against the impugned award stating that the awarded compensation is on lower side and is liable to be enhanced. The learned tribunal has passed the award on the basis of notional income of Rs. 15,000/- and it should be at least Rs. 36,000/- per month. The learned tribunal has omitted to consider the price rise while determining the notional income. At the time of death, the deceased was only 3 years old and the learned tribunal wrongly deducted 1/3 income against the personal expenses of the deceased. In the light of the decision of the Hon'ble High Court and Hon'ble Supreme Court the awarded amount is liable to be enhanced and the appeal of the Insurance Company is liable to be dismissed.

5. From the memo of appeal itself, it appears that the factual issues with regard to negligence and rash driving, insurance of offending vehicle and other aspect based on factual matrix have not been challenged by the appellant. The appeal is restricted to the only fact with regard to validity of the driving license to drive transport vehicle. In this regard, the only submission that has been advanced is that the accident took place on 28.12.2012 in the day time and the driver was not authorized to drive transport vehicle and after the accident, on the very next day, an endorsement was made in the license of the driver, authorizing him to drive transport vehicle and the validity of this authorization is from 29.12.2012 to 28.12.2015. Admittedly at the time of accident, the driver of the vehicle was authorized to drive a motor cycle and light motor vehicle.

6. From the perusal of the impugned judgment, it appears that the learned tribunal specifically framed a issue with regard to validity of the driving license and while disposing that issue, the learned tribunal has discussed the nature of the vehicle by which the accident took place. On record the learned tribunal found that the offending vehicle was light goods motor vehicle and when unloaded the weight of vehicle was 850 Kg and when loaded the vehicle was 1550 Kg. Learned tribunal has mentioned that under the Motor Vehicle Act unloaded light motor vehicle has been categorized up to the weight of 7500 Kg. The learned tribunal further found that in the motor vehicle, three wheeler passenger vehicle and four wheeler vehicle is also included and it also includes goods delivery vehicle. No otherwise evidence was given from the side of the appellant. That the offending vehicle was not heavy transport vehicle and therefore, it was decided by the learned tribunal on the basis of evidence, that the driver was very much authorized to drive the offending vehicle. This conclusion was further supported by the judgment in Kulwant Singh & others Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. 2014 (4) T.A.C. 676 (SC) in which the Supreme court has laid down that if the driver is authorized to drive light motor vehicle, even if there is no endorsement for driving commercial vehicle, it shall be inferred that the driver was authorized to drive light passenger carriage vehicle and light goods carriage vehicle and as such the Insurance Company cannot deny to pay the compensation. In view of the law laid down and as discussed above, the finding of the learned Tribunal on this point is justified and according to law which deserves no interference.

7. This claim petition involves death of a 3 years old child and the learned Tribunal has awarded only Rs. 154000/- as compensation which is in lower side by which the appellant should not be aggrieved. Nothing more has been argued by the appellant.

8. In view of the above discussions, I find no force in this appeal and the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

9. The appeal is dismissed.

10. The office is directed to send a copy of this judgment to the Court concerned for information and necessary compliance.

11. Stay if any shall stand vacated. Remit back the amount of Rs. 25000/- deposited by the appellant to the learned Tribunal to be adjusted against the awarded compensation.

THE HON'BLE DR. KAUSHAL JAYENDRA THAKER, J.

First Appeal From Order No. 1101 of 2019

Smt. Sharda Yadav ...Appellant
Versus
M. Shriniwas Rao & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri A.K. Malviya, Sri Satya Prakash Shukla

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Rakesh Bahadur, Sri Rakesh Bahadur

A. Motor Accident Act, 1988 – Negligence committed by Driver - Principles of contributory negligence – Burden of proof - Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and expected of a prudent driver - Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person - The degree of care required depends upon facts in each case - Burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents - It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. (Para 6, 7 & 8)

Held -
10. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.

B. Interpretation of Statute - Motor Accident Act, 1988 - Section 110-A and 110-B - Rule of Res Ipsa Loquitar - Scope - Provisions are not merely procedural provisions - It substantively affect the rights of the parties - New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies - It is possible to develop the law - When a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitar as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits. (Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard Sri Satya Prakash Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Rakesh Bahadur for the Insurance company. None appears for the owner.

2. This appeal has been filed by the appellant Smt. Sharda Yadav, who is widow of the deceased against the award dated 21.11.2008 passed by learned Motor Accident Claim Tribunal/ Additional District Judge, Ghazipur wherein the Tribunal has awarded Rs. 5,15,512/-as compensation. The Insurance company has filed the cross objection challenging the compensation as well as the finding of negligence by the Tribunal.

3. The brief facts leading to the litigation on 9.12.2003 at about 11.40 when deceased was drawing his cycle, a truck bearing No. AP 16 T 7899 came from behind very rashly and negligently dashed the deceased from behind. The deceased succumbed to the injuries while he was being taken to the hospital. The deceased was serving in the education department and was earning about 12,000/- per month. His age of retirement was 62 years. The deceased was survived by his widow who has filed the claim petition. The respondent owner driver did not appear before the Tribunal did they appeared before this Court. The Tribunal framed five issues and answered in favour of the claimant appellant but the claimant is not satisfied with the quantum of compensation. The claimant appellant examined four witnesses and filed several documents namely FIR, Post mortem, family register, Charge sheet by way of certificate 37 G, salary certificated of the deceased was filed. The insurance cover note, permit of the truck, driving license of the driver of the truck, the insurance company vehemently contested the claim and here the insurance has filed cross objection recently contending that the driver of the truck was not negligent and that the claimant has not proved the negligence. The compensation awarded is on higher side. It is further contended that the claim petition deserves to be dismissed.

4. Sri Satya Prakash Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the followings decisions: 2009 (1) ACCD 187 (All) Smt. Kamla Devi and others Vs. Jashuben and others; 2007 (2) ACCD 1138 (All) National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Smt. Indira Srivastava and others and 2007 (2) ACCD 1141 (All) National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Rajendra Prasad and others and contended that the amount granted is not in consonance with these judgments.

5. In reply Sri Rakesh Bahadur, learned counsel for Insurance has relied on the judgment of Apex Court reported in (2013)9 Supreme Court Cases 65 Reshma Kumari and others Vs. Madan Mohan and another and has contended that the Tribunal has committed an error on relying on the charge sheet filed in absence of other reliable documents as the so called witnesses had not seen the accident and it was not proved that the driver of the truck was negligent and has submitted that cross objection under order 41 Rule 22 of the CPC 1908 requires to be allowed.

6. While dealing with the issue of negligence, it would be relevant to discuss the principles for deciding contributory negligence and for that the principles for considering negligence will also have to be looked into.

7. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

8. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

9. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

10. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.

11. These provisions (sec.110-A and sec.110-B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

12. In the light of the above discussion, even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitar as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 ACJ(SC) 1840).

13. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side.

14. While going through the record, it is clear that the cyclist was on his correct side and the truck driver came from behind did not blow any horn and the injuries which the deceased suffered go to show that the driver against whom the charge sheet is filed and the version in FIR is proved by the testimony of the witnesses. The principles of the res ipsa loquitar will apply in the facts of this case and the judgment of Reshma Kumari (Supra) and the judgment of this High Court relied by Sri Rakesh Bahadur namely 2013 (1) T.A.C. 606 (All.) Smt. Gaura Devi and others (Supra). Hence the factum of accident has been proved and the driver or the owner have not appeared before the Tribunal, the Tribunal has drawn the adverse inference and not only on the basis of charge sheet but as the FIR had mentioned the number of the truck, the Tribunal held the driver of the truck to be negligent. The injuries on the deceased also proved the rashness with which the driver of the truck drove the vehicle, hence the submission of counsel for respondent can not succeed. The cross objection also fails. The judgement of the Gaura Devi (Supra) is eclipsed by the judgment of the Apex Court in Vimla Devi and others Vs. National InsuranceCompany and others and by the judgment reported in 2019 (2) SCC 186 and the judgment of Apex Court in Sunita and another Vs. Rajsthan State Road Transport Corporation AIR 2019 SC 994. The injuries which have been cused go to show that it was the act of negligent driving by the driver of the truck reference of the judgment of Apex Court in S. Kumar Vs. United India Insurance company Limited AIR 2019 SC 3235, hence the deceased died due to the negligence of the driver of the truck. This finding of fact by the tribunal is not demonstrated to be bad or perverse. And in that view of the matter the cross objection as far as proving negligence is concerned fails.

15. After hearing the learned counsels for the parties and perusing the judgment and order impugned, this Court finds that the income of the deceased Rs. 7,945/-per month has been wrongly assessed by the Tribunal as the Tribunal has deducted amounts which were not supposed to be deducted from the salary of the deceased namely the advantages which were can not be deducted and as held by the Hon. Supreme Court in the case of (2013) 7 SCC 476 Vimal Kanwar & Ors. Vs. Kishore Dan & Ors. I am even fortified in my view by the judgment of Apex Court reported in National Insurance Company Limited VS. Mannat Johal and another (Infra). The amount, therefore, which would be entitled to the family would to Rs. 12,000/- to which, as the deceased was 54 years of age, 10% of the income requires to be added in view of the decision in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050. which would bring the figure to Rs.1, 44, 000 + Rs.14,400 =Rs.1,58,400/-. Out of which 1/3th requires to be deducted as personal expenses of the deceased, hence after deduction of 1/3th means Rs/ 52,800/- the amount available to the family would be Rs.1, 05, 600/-. As the deceased was in the age bracket of 51-55 years, the applicable multiplier would be 11 in view of the decision in Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121. In addition to that, Rs.70,000/- is granted towards conventional heads as it is matter of 2004. Hence, the claimants are entitled to a total sum of Rs. 1, 05, 600/- x 11) + 70,000 =Rs. 12, 31, 600/-.

16. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, the interest should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

17. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The amount be deposited with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount be deposited within a period of 12 weeks from today. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

18. This Court is thankful to both the counsels to get this very old matter disposed of.

19. The cross objection is dismissed. Record be send back to the tribunal forthwith.

THE HON'BLE PRADEEP KUMAR SRIVASTAVA, J.

First Appeal From Order No. 1718 of 2011

National Insurance Co. Ltd. ...Appellant
Versus
Subhawati Devi & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Amit Manohar

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Shesh Narain Mishra

A. Motor Accident Act, 1988 – Compensation – Calculation – On the basis of salary of the deceased - Age of deceased was found between 38 to 40 years – In view of norms of application of multiplier laid down in Sarla Verma's case, Tribunal rightly applied multiplier of 15 – Held, no perversity or illegality in the impugned judgment and award. (Para 12, 13 & 16)

Held –
15. In Sarla Verma (supra), it has been held by the Supreme Court that a proceeding before the Tribunal is in the nature of inquiry in which a very few thing is required to be established. The Court observed: "Basically only three facts need to be established by the claimants for assessing compensation in the case of death: (a) age of the deceased; (b) income of the deceased; and the (c) the number of dependents. The issues to be determined by the Tribunal to arrive at the loss of dependency are (i) additions/deductions to be made for arriving at the income; (ii) the deduction to be made towards the personal living expenses of the deceased; and (iii) the multiplier to be applied with reference of the age of the deceased.

First Appeal From Order dismissed. (E-1)

1. Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation Ltd., AIR 2009 SC 3104

2. National Insurance Company Vs. Pranay Sethi & others, AIR 2017 SC 5157

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pradeep Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Shri Amit Manohar, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Shesh Narain Mishra, learned counsel for the opposite parties.

2. This appeal has been filed against the judgement and award dated 18.02.2011 of Motor Accident Claims Tribunal /Additional District Judge, Court no. 1, Basti in MACP No. 105 of 2006 in which the learned Tribunal has awarded Rs. 4,66,940/- as compensation along with 6% simple interest per annum from the date of institution of the claim petition.

3. The factual matrix of the case is that an accident took place on 22.05.2006 at 10:30 PM, deceased Bhaagwat Prasad Dubey with other employees of his department was in the Jeep and was coming after attending a marriage function to Basti. In village Bankata near railway crossing when the driver of the Jeep U.P.-51H/1300 driving the Jeep rashly and negligently tried to overtake the tractor trolly, the right portion of the Jeep dashed with trolly and because of that the Jeep got uncontrolled and overturned in a pit. The person in the Jeep sustained injures and 4 of them died on the spot including Shri Bhaagwat Prasad Dubey. The Information was given by the owner of the Jeep to shift his responsibility on the tractor trolly stating the tractor trolly is responsible for the accident and on the basis of the written report, Crime No. 806 / 06 under sections 279, 337, 338, 304A IPC was registered for the accident. The driver of the Jeep was completely responsible who was driving the Jeep very rashly and in a very dangerous way resulting in accident. At the time of accident deceased Bhaagwat Prasad Dubey was 38 years in age and he was Class-IV employee in Rajkiya Nalkoop Vibhag and his monthly income was Rs. 6342/-. Therefore this claim petition was filed by his wife and minor daughter and sons.

4. The owner of the offending vehicle filed written statement and denied that Bhaagwat Prasad Dubey was traveling in the alleged offending Jeep. He has admitted that deceased was Class-IV employee in the Irrigation Department. He has further stated that he had purchased the Jeep and on the day of incident he had gone to Shri Narsingh Pandey of his department in a marriage function and he was returning in the night by Jeep. Ahead him, the Executive Engineer Shri Sohan Ram was also going in a Jeep with certain employees. The Jeep got trapped in the tractor trolly and overturned on the road side, therefore, certain persons sustained injuries and some persons died. The leg of the Executive Engineer was also broken. The offending Jeep was departmental and therefore, the Executive Engineer put pressure on him for lodging the F.I.R. as he was coming from his Jeep behind the Jeep. He also sustained injuries and got fainted and was admitted to District Hospital. The Jeep was insured with National Insurance Company and the driver Hari Prakash Pandey was having a valid license. If the Tribunal comes to a conclusion that the accident took place by his Jeep, the responsibility to pay compensation is on the National Insurance Company.

5. The National Insurance Company also filed a written statement and it has been alleged that in view of FIR, the accident took place because of rashness and negligence of by tractor trolly and therefore, claim is not maintainable against the Insurance company. The owner of the tractor trolly has not been made party. There is nothing against the driver of the Jeep and on the basis of false allegation the claim has been filed. The driver was not having valid license and the Jeep was being driven in violation of the Insurance policy, the tractor trolly was not insured and was driving illegally. The responsibility to pay compensation is on tractor owner and the claim petition is not maintainable.

6. The learned tribunal framed four issues, the English translation is as follows:

1. Whether on 22.05.2006, at night 10:30 p.m. near Bankata Railway Crossing under P.S. Kotwali, District Basti, Bhaagwat Prasad Dubey was coming in Jeep No. U.P.-51H/1300 to Basti, while crossing the railway crossing, the driver of the Jeep, in order to overtake, crossed the Jeep very rashly and negligently and right side of jeep dashed with tractor trolly, Jeep got overturned in a pit and Bhaagwat Prasad Dubey sustained injuries and he died on the spot and Whether accident occurred due to only negligence of tractor driver or accident occurred due to composite negligence of Jeep driver and tractor driver?

2. Whether at the time of accident Jeep was validly and effectively insured with opposite party no. 2 Insurance Company?

3. Whether on the date of accident driver of the Jeep was having valid and effective driving license?

4. Whether the claimants are entitled for any relief, if yes, then how much and from whom?

7. In support of the claim petition PW-1 Smt. Subhawati Devi (claimant), PW-2 Ram Pher, PW-3 Gulab Chandra have been examined and the police papers such as FR, F.I.R., site map, postmortem report, insurance papers and driving license have been filed. In addition to it, the claimant has also filed the salary certificate of the deceased. The defendant side has not given any evidence. The learned Tribunal, after hearing both the sides and perusing the record, has delivered the impugned judgment and award.

8. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned award, this appeal has been filed on the ground that no FIR was lodged against the said Jeep and its driver and the report was lodged against tractor trolly and the police submitted final report as the tractor trolly was not traceable in absence of its number. Other argument is in respect of income and use of multiplier.

9. PW-1 Subhawati Devi is claimant who has supported the allegations of petition but she has admitted that she had not seen the accident taking place. PW-3 Gulab Chandra is the eye witness of the accident and he has narrated how the accident took place and the driver of the Jeep was driving the Jeep rashly and negligently and by overtaking dashed the tractor trolly going to the wrong side due to which the accident took place. No evidence for rebuttal was given from the side of the defendants. The claim petition further finds support by the police papers as mentioned above.

10. The learned tribunal found on the basis of the evidence on record that the driver of the offending Jeep at the time of accident was driving the Jeep very rashly and negligently and the right portion of the Jeep was dashed to the tractor trolly and the Jeep got overturned and several persons in the Jeep sustained injuries and four persons died including the husband of the claimant. So for as the fact that FIR was lodged against tractor trolly against which the police submitted final report, the learned trial court found on evidence that the eyewitness proved that the rashness and negligence of the driver of the said Jeep was established on the basis of eyewitness account and moreover, the owner of the said Jeep has admitted in his written statement that under pressure he lodged FIR against tractor trolly and at that time he was not in healthy state of mind. No evidence in rebuttal and to prove negligence of other vehicle or composite negligence was given by the side of appellant. Therefore, it was rightly concluded by the learned tribunal that the accident took place because of the rash and negligent driving of the offending Jeep and in the accident the husband of the claimant sustained injuries and died.

11. So far as the insurance is concerned the same has not been denied. The driving license of the driver of the offending Jeep was also found to be valid on the date of accident. Therefore issue no. 2 and 3 were also decided in favour of the claimant and against the defendant.

12. The amount of compensation has been calculated on the basis of salary which the deceased was earning at the time of accident. P.W.-2 Ram Pher, senior clerk of the department has been examined who has proved the salary statement of the deceased and has stated that after deduction, the deceased was getting Rs. 3812/- monthly. On the basis of this amount the compensation has been calculated. The learned tribunal has found the age of deceased to be between 38 to 40 years and he has applied a multiplier of 15. The submission of the learned counsel to the appellant is, in view of Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation Ltd., AIR 2009 SC 3104, in the age of 40 to 45 years instead of multiplier of 15, a multiplier of 14 will be applicable.

13. In Sarla Verma (Supra) case multiplier is from the age of 36 to 40 years is 15. The Supreme Court has laid down as below:

"We therefore hold that the multiplier to be used should be as mentioned in column (4) of the Table above (prepared by applying Susamma Thomas, Trilok Chandra and Charlie), which starts with an operative multiplier of 18 (for the age groups of 15 to 20 and 21 to 25 years), reduced by one unit for every five years, that is M-17 for 26 to 30 years, M-16 for 31 to 35 years, M-15 for 36 to 40 years, M-14 for 41 to 45 years, and M-13 for 46 to 50 years, then reduced by two units for every five years, that is, M-11 for 51 to 55 years, M-9 for 56 to 60 years, M-7 for 61 to 65 years and M-5 for 66 to 70 years."

14. It is clear from the above observation that in the age of 36 to 40 years, the available multiplier is 15 and not 14, as the learned Tribunal has determined the age of the deceased to be between 38 to 40. The has been further affirmed on the point of multiplier system by the judgment in National Insurance Company Vs. Pranay Sethi & others, AIR 2017 SC 5157. Therefore, the learned Tribunal has rightly applied the multiplier in this instant case.

15. In Sarla Verma (supra), it has been held by the Supreme Court that a proceeding before the Tribunal is in the nature of inquiry in which a very few thing is required to be established. The Court observed:

"Basically only three facts need to be established by the claimants for assessing compensation in the case of death: (a) age of the deceased; (b) income of the deceased; and the (c) the number of dependents. The issues to be determined by the Tribunal to arrive at the loss of dependency are (i) additions/deductions to be made for arriving at the income; (ii) the deduction to be made towards the personal living expenses of the deceased; and (iii) the multiplier to be applied with reference of the age of the deceased."

16. In my view, the the learned Tribunal has discussed all above aspects as laid down in Sarla Verma (supra) and has determined compensation on the basis of the net salaried income of the deceased by applying right multiplier. I do not find any perversity or any illegality in the impugned judgment and award.

17. In view of the above discussions, I find no force in this appeal and the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

18. The appeal is dismissed.

19. The office is directed to send a copy of this judgment to the Court concerned for information and necessary compliance.

20. Stay if any shall stand vacated. Remit back the amount of Rs. 25000/- deposited by the appellant to the learned Tribunal to be adjusted against the awarded compensation.

(Para 16)

First Appeal From Order dismissed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Kumar Mishra-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Nagendra Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the Insurance Company-appellant, Sri Nigamendra Shukla, learned counsel for the claimant-respondent nos.1 to 6 and perused the material brought on record.

2. By way of the instant appeal, challenge has been made to the judgment and award dated 27.09.2005 passed by the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner / Assistant Labour Commissioner, Bulandshahar, in W.C.A. No.04 of 2002, Smt. Ramwati Devi and others Vs. Aftab Ahmad and another, whereby overall compensation amount Rs.3,51,080/- has been awarded under various heads to the claimant-respondents.

3. Learned counsels for both the parties agree that this case relates to the point of income and assessment of the compensation, thereon each point can be adjudicated upon and scrutinized merely by perusal of the certified copy of the award itself, therefore, there is no need for lower court's record and the case may be decided after hearing both the sides.

4. Consequently, this case is being decided on the strength of the material available on record.

5. Brief facts giving rise to this appeal as reflected from material available on record appear to be that one Chandra Pal Sharma, resident of Village Faridpur, District Gautam Budh Nagar was in the employment of Aftab Ahmad, owner of the Truck No.DL-1 GA / 2155 as driver and was earning Rs.4000/- per month. He was on duty on 30.01.2002 when the accident caused on account of slippage of jack, due to which the driver was crushed under the vehicle and died on account of sustaining injury. At that point of time, the deceased Chandra Pal Sharma was aged 40 years and he was possessing valid and effective driving licence and he was a skilled driver.

6. Relevant notice for compensation was given to the employer. Thereafter, the Insurance Company-appellant was also informed about the accident and was asked to give compensation to the family of the deceased. It was also claimed that the aforesaid offending truck was insured with the cover note no.0348319 for period 07.11.2001 to 06.11.2002. The overall compensation amount Rs.20,00,000/- along with accrued interest and expenses under various head was demanded by the claimant-respondents.

7. The case was contested whereby the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner after considering the merits of the case found it a case fit one for awarding compensation to the tune Rs.3,51,080/- along with 4% interest. This amount was required to be paid by the insurer of the offending truck i.e. Insurance Company-appellant. Further penalty was also imposed upon opposite party no.1, (herein respondent no.7), truck owner for paying Rs.65,000/-.

8. Feeling aggrieved by the same, the Insurance Company-appellant has moved before this Court by filing this appeal. Core contention raised before this Court is that monthly income of the deceased was not proved as was required under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 and the relationship of the employer and employee was not satisfactorily explained by the claimant-respondents. It cannot be said that the deceased was working in the employment of respondent no.7 and he sustained injury in the alleged accident on the date and time as claimed by the claimant-respondent nos.1 to 6 in their claim petition.

9. Fact is that merely on the verbal claim of the wife of the deceased, monthly income was fixed by the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner which is not supported by any documentary evidence. The salary certificate has also not been brought on record. Had the deceased been in the employment of the truck owner, there must have been some documentary proof for payment of the salary but there is nothing on record which may justify that any relationship as employer and employee existed between the deceased and respondent no.7.

10. In view of above, it is doubtful whether the death of the deceased occurred during course of employment whereby Chandra Pal Sharma died. In view of this particular aspect of this case, no responsibility can be saddled with the Insurance Company - the appellant, insurer of the offending truck in question. The burden of proof was not properly discharged by claimant-respondent nos.1 to 6.

11. While replying to the aforesaid contentions, it has been claimed by the learned counsel for the claimant-respondents that testimony given by Ramwati Devi PW-1, wife of the deceased Chandra Pal Sharma was found to be consistent and nothing adverse emerged from her cross examination though cross examination was done by the Insurance Company-appellant and no proof in rebuttal regarding existence of relationship of the employer and the employee between the deceased and respondent no.7 was ever furnished or brought on record before the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner. Therefore, better testimony prevailed and it was rightly acted upon by the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner though accepted the claim and awarded the compensation but failed to give proper quantum of interest on the overall compensation amount, for the reason that criterion fixed for awarding interest on the compensation amount under the provisions of Section 4 A of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, stipulates 12% interest to be applied on the overall compensation amount.

12. Learned counsel for the claimant-respondents further added that it is admitted fact that no appeal for enhancement on that count has been presented even then in such case where statutory provisions have not been complied with and verbal objection raised then it should be treated to be a prayer for enhancement. Thus the interest awarded can be interfered with by this Court and it may be corrected so as to do substantial justice to the claimant-respondents.

13. Considered the rival submissions too.

14. In this case, insofar as testimony of Ramwati Devi PW-1 as reflected from the award impugned dated 27.09.2005 is concerned, obviously, every parameter was taken into consideration by the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner and aspect and magnitude of testimony of Ramwati Devi PW-1 that was forthcoming was rightly acted upon by the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner. There is nothing on record which may give credence to the claim of the Insurance Company-appellant that there was no relationship existing between the deceased and owner of the offending vehicle - respondent no.7 as the employer and the employee.

15. Further no proper rebuttal has been done by the Insurance Company-appellant while it had full opportunity to contest the claim on that particular count as raised before this Court. Consequently, in such case where the case of the claimant-respondents stands proved by cogent and consistent testimony, it would not be arguable that there was no such relationship (the employer and the employee) in absence of supporting material thereof.

16. Admittedly, the interest to be awarded in the case was as per Section 4 A of the Workmen's Compensation Act to be fixed at the rate of 12% per annum, however, it was fixed at the rate of 4% per annum. Therefore, on that count verbal objection of the learned counsel for the claimant-respondent nos.1 to 6 is sustained. The award impugned is modified to the extent that on the overall compensation to the tune of Rs.3,51,080/-, interest rate shall be charged at the rate of 12% per annum instead of 4%. The verbal objection raised by learned counsel for the claimant-respondents is accepted, accordingly.

17. Accordingly, the impugned award dated 27.09.2005 passed by the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner / Assistant Labour Commissioner, Bulandshahar, in W.C.A. No.04 of 2002, Smt. Ramwati Devi and others Vs. Aftab Ahmad and another, stands modified to that extent and the appeal preferred by the Insurance Company is liable to be rejected, whereas, the verbal cross objection raised by the claimant-respondent stands allowed as above.

18. For the reasons aforesaid, the instant appeal lacks merit and the same is dismissed.

1. Heard, Sri S.P.Singh, learned Counsel for the appellant and Ms. Archana Singh Advocate, holding brief of Sri Ziauddin Khan, learned Counsel for the respondent.

2. Facts in brief of the present case, as per record, are that marriage between appellant Israr Ahmad and Smt. Zaafrana was solemnized on 03.06.2006 as per Muslim rites and customs and out of the wedlock of appellant and Smt. Zaafrana and on 16.05.2007 one baby boy was born namely Azazul Hussain. Matrimonial relation between the appellant Israr Ahmad and Smt. Zaafrana became strained and on 26.04.2008 Smt. Zaafrana left her matrimonial home. In view of the said factual background, the appellant Israr Ahmad filed a case bearing Misc. Case No. 30 of 2010 (Israr Ahmad Vs. Izazul Hussain) before the Principal Judge, Sitapur for custody of his minor child i.e. respondent no. 1-Azazul Hussain.

3. On 07.08.2018, Principal Judge, Family Court, Sitapur dismissed the case of the appellant for custody of minor child namely Azazul Hussain.

4. Challenging the judgment and order dated 07.08.2018, the present appeal has been filed.

5. Learned Counsel for the appellant submits that the matter pertains to the Mohammadan Law and the question of guardianship was to be considered by the Principal Judge, Family Court in the light of the Mohammadan Law, in which it has been provided that in respect of custody of a male child the father is entitled to its custody after the male child attains the age of seven years and the mother has no right and authority to retain custody of a male child after it attains the age of seven years. Learned Counsel for the appellant further submits that plaintiff-appellant has specifically pleaded and led evidence to the effect that the future of defendant-respondent no. 1 under the guardianship of defendant-respondent no. 2 is in dark as she is unable to give proper eduction. This fact remained uncontroverted and it amounts to admission by the defendant-respondent no. 2, but the learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Sitapur has failed to consider the undertaking, the fact and the evidence led by the plaintiff-appellant and recorded a perverse finding to the effect that welfare of defendant-respondent no. 1 is with defendant-respondent no. 2.

6. Learned Counsel for the appellant further submits that the judgments which have been cited in the order impugned are not related with the Muslim law and have been misinterpreted while specific undertaking was given by the plaintiff-appellant before the Court that he will look after the defendant-respondent no. 1 and provide good education and facilities to defendant-respondent no. 1.

7. Learned Counsel for the appellant further submits that the impugned judgment and order dated 07.08.2018 has been passed ex-parte and as such, the fact which was pleaded by the plaintiff-appellant and the evidence which was led by the plaintiff-appellant amounted to admission and, as such, on the basis of the uncontroverted fact and evidence, learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow ought not to have dismissed the application filed by the appellant, rather the same was liable to be allowed.

8. In rebuttal, Ms. Archana Singh Advocate, holding brief of Sri Ziauddin Khan, learned Counsel for the respondent submits that there is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned order dated 07.08.2018 passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Sitapur and in its order the learned court below has specifically mentioned that divorce/talak has already been taken place between the appellant Israr Ahmad and Smt. Zaafrana on 06.07.2013 and since 2008, when the respondent no. 1 was born, he is living with his mother Smt. Zaafrana and at the time of passing of the order dated 07.08.2018, he was 10 years old and her mother is giving proper care and education, therefore, the present appeal is liable to be dismissed.

9. We have considered the submissions of learned Counsel for the parties and perused the records. Point for consideration in the present appeal is "whether learned court below rightly held that father/appellant is not entitled to the custody of the minor/ respondent no. 1 i.e. Master Azazul Hussain.

10. In order to decide the controversy in the present case, we feel it appropriate to take note of the relevant portion of Chapter XVIII of Guardianswhip of Person and Property, page 445 of Mulla Principals of Mahomedan Law, which reads as under:-

Para 351. Matter to be considered by the court in appointing guardian :-

(1) in appointment or declaring the guardian of the minor, the court shall, subject to the provision of this section, be guided by what, consistently with the law to which the minor is subject, appears in the circumstances to be for the welfare of the minor.

(2) in considering what will be for the welfare of the minor, the court shall have regard to the age, sex and religion of the minor, the character and capacity of the proposed guardian and his nearness to kin to the minor, the wishes, if any, of a deceased parent, and any existing or previous relation of the proposed guardian with the minor of his property.

(3) if the minor is old enough to from an intelligent preference, the court may be consider that preference.

It is true that the father is not proved to have lost the right to being appointed as the guardian of the minor. He has no defect and he being the natural guardian of the minor could be appointed provided it was the interest of the minor . Minor can not be forced to live with the father because that may cause psychological deterioration to the minor and may eventually affect his health also because of at this age he needs love and affection. He being of the age of seven cannot show his preference as to with whom he wants to live. If he is give affection and love which he need at this age by the respondent or the appellant No.1, then he should be permitted to have the affection and love of any one of them. For that purpose it is necessary to ascertain the wishes of the minor.

If the minor is capable of making the preference, he should be brought to the court and thereafter order of appointment of guardian should be made.

Welfare of the minor - the above section is a reproduction in terms of s. 17 clauses(1),(2) and (3), of the Guardian and Ward Act. It impose a duty upon the court in appointment a guardian to make the appointment consistently with the law to which the minor is subject. The central idea is the welfare of the minor, and the Allahabad and J&K High Courts have said that though the rules of the mahomedan law have to taken into consideration the main question to be considered is what would be conducive to the child's welfare. In a Randoon case, the mother has lost her right under Mahomedan law as she has been divorced and had remarried a Buddhist. She was nevertheless appointed guardian, as the court considered that the interest of the minor would be best promoted by leaving with the mother. The mother would be the proper guardian for children of tender years, even though she lived separate from her husband owing to disputes over property, provided that she had not been guilty of misconduct.

Under the Muslim Personal Law, the mother is entitled to the custody (Hizanat) of her male child until he has competed the age of seven years and the female child until she has attained puberty. Puberty is attained at the age of 14 or 15 years.

Another principle of law which is too well established is that, in a proceeding for appointment of guardian, it is not the guardianship of the minor which is important, but it is the welfare of the minor that has to be taken into consideration. If there is no conflict between the personal law to which the minor is subject and the consideration of the minor's welfare, the latter must prevail.

In appointing the respondent grandmother as the guardian of the minor children, the court below was not guided by what in the circumstance was conducive to the welfare of the minor and this order, therefore, cannot be upheld. The mother's application has to be allowed and the mother be appointed as guardian. Nigher the mother nor the grandmother can be the guardian of the property of the minors.

11. Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Athar Husain vs. Syed Siraj Ahmed and others, (2010) 2 SCC 654 held as under:-

"25. In case of custody of the minor children, the family law i.e. the Mohammedan Law would apply in place of the Act. Considering the provisions under Section 353 of the Mohammedan Law, the High Court had held that the preferential rights regarding the custody of the minor children rest with the maternal grandparents. After making a doubtful proposition that in case of a conflict between personal law and the welfare of the children the former shall prevail, the High Court held that in the case at hand there is no such conflict. For the reasons aforementioned, the High Court by its impugned order set aside the order of the Family Court, Bangalore which vacated the interim order of injunction issued against the appellant. It is this order of the High Court, which is challenged before us by way of a special leave petition Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Athar Husain vs. Syed Siraj Ahmed and others, (2010) 2 SCC 654 held as under which on grant of leave has been heard by us in the presence of the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties.

26. It was the contention of the appellant before us that the Act will apply to the present case because there is a conflict between the preferential guardian in the Mohammedan Law and the Act. It was pointed out that while deciding the custody of the minor children, the welfare of the children had to be taken into consideration and that it was guaranteed by the Act. They have placed their reliance on Rafiq v. Bashiran [AIR 1963 Raj 239] . The Rajasthan High Court in the cited case held that where the provisions of the personal law are in conflict with the provisions of the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 the latter shall prevail over the former.

27. Relying on Brijendra Narayan Ganguly v. Chinta Haran Sarkar [AIR 1961 MP 173] , it was contended by the learned counsel for the appellant that there is a presumption that parents will be able to exercise good care in the welfare of their children.

28. It was argued by the learned counsel on behalf of respondents that the impugned order warrants no interference. Before passing the impugned order, the learned Judge had spent over one hour with the children to ascertain their preferences. The children have been living with the respondents since their mother's death in June 2006 as the High Court had stayed the order of the Family Court vacating the injunction order. While the respondents had been complying with the visitation rights granted to the appellant, the children were not happy with the treatment meted out to them during the time they spent with their father and stepmother. In contrast, Respondent 3, contrary to the apprehensions expressed by the appellant has stated on record that she had no intention to marry and would devote her life towards the welfare of the children. The respondents further asserted that the cases of Rafiq v. Bashiran [AIR 1963 Raj 239] and B.N. Ganguly [AIR 1961 MP 173] are not applicable to the facts of this case.

29. We have heard the learned counsel for both the parties and examined the impugned order of the High Court and also the orders passed by the Family Court. After considering the materials on record and the impugned order, we are of the view that at this stage the respondents should be given interim custody of the minor children till the disposal of the proceedings filed under Sections 7, 9 and 17 of the Act.

30. Reasons are as follows: Section 12 of the Act empowers courts to "make such order for the temporary custody and protection of the person or property of the minor as it thinks proper". (emphasis supplied) In matters of custody, as well settled by judicial precedents, the welfare of the children is the sole and single yardstick by which the court shall assess the comparative merit of the parties contesting for the custody. Therefore, while deciding the question of interim custody, we must be guided by the welfare of the children since Section 12 empowers the court to make any order as it deems proper.

31. We are mindful of the fact that, as far as the matter of guardianship is concerned, the prima facie case lies in favour of the father as under Section 19 of the Guardians and Wards Act, unless the father is not fit to be a guardian, the court has no jurisdiction to appoint another guardian. It is also true that the respondents, despite the voluminous allegations levelled against the appellant have not been able to prove that he is not fit to take care of the minor children, nor has the Family Court or the High Court found him so. However, the question of custody is different from the question of guardianship. Father can continue to be the natural guardian of the children; however, the considerations pertaining to the welfare of the child may indicate lawful custody with another friend or relative as serving his/her interest better.

32. In Rosy Jacob v. Jacob A. Chakramakkal [(1973) 1 SCC 840 : (1973) 3 SCR 918] , keeping in mind the distinction between right to be appointed as a guardian and the right to claim custody of the minor child, this Court held so in the following oft quoted words: (SCC pp. 854-55, para 15)

"15. ... Merely because the father loves his children and is not shown to be otherwise undesirable cannot necessarily lead to the conclusion that the welfare of the children would be better promoted by granting their custody to him as against the wife who may also be equally affectionate towards her children and otherwise equally free from blemish, and, who, in addition, because of her profession and financial resources, may be in a position to guarantee better health, education and maintenance for them."

33. In Siddiqunnisa Bibi v. Nizamuddin Khan [AIR 1932 All 215] , which was a case concerning the right to custody under the Mohammedan Law, the Court held: (AIR p. 218)

"A question has been raised before us whether the right under the Mahomedan Law of the female relation of a minor girl under the age of puberty to the custody of the person of the girl is identical with the guardianship of the person of the minor or whether it is something different and distinct. The right to the custody of such a minor vested in her female relations, is absolute and is subject to several conditions including the absence of residing at a distance from the father's place of residence and want of taking proper care of the child. It is also clear that the supervision of the child by the father continues in spite of the fact that she is under the care of her female relation, as the burden of providing maintenance for the child rests exclusively on the father.

35. Keeping in mind the paramount consideration of the welfare of the children, we are not inclined to disturb their custody which currently rests with their maternal relatives as the scope of this order is limited to determining with which of the contesting parties the minors should stay till the disposal of the application for guardianship.

36. The appellant placed reliance on R.V. Srinath Prasad v. Nandamuri Jayakrishna [(2001) 4 SCC 71 : AIR 2001 SC 1056] . This Court had observed in this decision that custody orders by their nature can never be final; however, before a change is made it must be proved to be in the paramount interest of the children. In that decision, while granting interim custody to the father as against the maternal grandparents, this Court held: (SCC pp. 76-77, para 10)

"10. ... The Division Bench appears to have lost sight of the factual position that at the time of death of their mother the children were left in custody of their paternal grandparents with whom their father is staying and the attempt of Respondent 1 was to alter that position before the application filed by them is considered by the Family Court. For this purpose it was very relevant to consider whether leaving the minor children in custody of their father till the Family Court decides the matter would be so detrimental to the interest of the minors that their custody should be changed forthwith. The observations that the father is facing a criminal case, that he mostly resides in USA and that it is alleged that he is having an affair with another lady are, in our view, not sufficient to come to the conclusion that custody of the minors should be changed immediately."

What is important for us to note from these observations is that the court shall determine whether, in proceedings relating to interim custody, there are sufficient and compelling reasons to persuade the court to change the custody of the minor children with immediate effect.

37. Stability and consistency in the affairs and routines of children is also an important consideration as was held by this Court in another decision cited by the learned counsel for the appellant in Mausami Moitra Ganguli v. Jayant Ganguli [(2008) 7 SCC 673 : AIR 2008 SC 2262] . This Court held: (SCC pp. 679-80, para 24)

"24. ... We are convinced that the dislocation of Satyajeet, at this stage, from Allahabad, where he has grown up in sufficiently good surroundings, would not only impede his schooling, it may also cause emotional strain and depression to him."

After taking note of the marked reluctance on the part of the boy to live with his mother, the Court further observed: (Mausami Moitra case [(2008) 7 SCC 673 : AIR 2008 SC 2262] , SCC p. 680, para 26)

"26. Under these circumstances and bearing in mind the paramount consideration of the welfare of the child, we are convinced that the child's interest and welfare will be best served if he continues to be in the custody of the father. In our opinion, for the present, it is not desirable to disturb the custody of Master Satyajeet and, therefore, the order of the High Court giving his exclusive custody to the father with visitation rights to the mother deserves to be maintained."

38. The children have been in the lawful custody of the respondents from October 2007. In Gaurav Nagpal v. Sumedha Nagpal [(2009) 1 SCC 42] , it was argued before this Court by the father of the minor child that the child had been in his custody for a long time and that a sudden change in custody would traumatise the child. This Court did not find favour with this argument. This Court observed that the father of the minor child who retained the custody of the child with him by flouting court orders, even leading to institution of contempt proceedings against him, could not be allowed to take advantage of his own wrong. The case before us stands on a different footing. The custody of the minor children with the respondents is lawful and has the sanction of the order of the High Court granting interim custody of the children in their favour. Hence, the consideration that the custody of the children should not undergo an immediate change prevails.

. The question with whom they remained during the period from the death of their mother till the institution of present proceedings is a matter of dispute between the parties and we are not in a position to reach a conclusion on the same without going into the merits of the matter. At any rate, the children are happy and are presumably taken care of with love and affection by the respondents, judging from the reluctance on the part of the girl child to go with her father. She might attain puberty at any time. As the High Court has rightly observed, it may not be in the interests of the children to separate them from each other. Hence, at this juncture, we are not inclined to disturb the status quo, as we are only concerned with the question of interim custody at this stage.

40. The learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on Rafiq v. Bashiran [AIR 1963 Raj 239] . In that case, the High Court had set aside the order of the Civil Judge granting the custody of the child to her mother's paternal aunt, while the father was not proven to be unfit. Quoting from Tyabji's Mahomedan Law, 3rd Edn., Section 236 (p. 275) the Court observed:

"The following persons have a preferential right over the father to the custody of (sic) minor girl before she attains the age of puberty:

1. Mother's mother.

2. Father's mother.

3. Mother's grandmother, howsoever high.

4. Father's grandmother, howsoever high.

5. Full sister.

6. Uterine sister.

7. Daughter of full sister, howsoever low.

8. Daughter of uterine sister, howsoever low.

9. Full maternal aunt, howsoever high.

10. Uterine maternal aunt, howsoever high.

11. Full paternal aunt, howsoever high."

41. However, the High Court of Rajasthan held that in the light of Section 19 which bars the court from appointing a guardian when the father of the minor is alive and not unfit, the Court could not appoint any maternal relative as a guardian, even though the personal law of the minor might give preferential custody in her favour. As is evident, the aforementioned decision concerned appointment of a guardian. No doubt, unless the father is proven to be unfit, the application for guardianship filed by another person cannot be entertained. However, we have already seen that the question of custody was distinct from that of guardianship. As far as matters of custody are concerned, the court is not bound by the bar envisaged under Section 19 of the Act.

42. In our opinion, as far as the question of custody is concerned, in the light of the aforementioned decisions, the personal law governing the minor girl dictates her maternal relatives, especially her maternal aunt, shall be given preference. To the extent that we are concerned with the question of interim custody, we see no reason to override this rule of Mohammedan Law and, hence, a prima facie case is found in favour of the respondents. Further, the balance of convenience lies in favour of granting the custody to the maternal grandfather, aunt and uncle.

43. A plethora of decisions of this Court endorse the proposition that in matters of custody of children, their welfare shall be the focal point. Once we shift the focus from the rights of the contesting relatives to the welfare of the minor children, the considerations in determining the question of balance of convenience also differ. We take note of the fact that Respondent 3, on record, has stated that she has no intention to get married and her plea that she had resigned from her job as a technical writer to take care of the children remains uncontroverted. We are, hence, convinced that the respondents will be in a position to provide sufficient love and care for the children until the disposal of the guardianship application.

44. The second marriage of the appellant, though a factor that cannot disentitle him to the custody of the children, yet is an important factor to be taken into account. It may not be appropriate on our part to place the children in a predicament where they have to adjust with their stepmother, with whom admittedly they had not spent much time as the marriage took place only in March 2007, when the ultimate outcome of the guardianship proceedings is still uncertain.

45. The learned counsel for the appellant placed reliance on Bal Krishna Pandey v. Sanjeev Bajpayee [AIR 2004 Utt 1] wherein the maternal grandfather of the minor contested with the father of the minor for custody of a girl aged about 12 years. The Uttaranchal High Court in that case gave the custody of minor to the father rejecting the contention of the grandfather (the appellant) that the father (the respondent) after his remarriage will not be in a position to give fair treatment to the minor. However, in that case, the second wife of the father had been medically proven as unable to conceive. Hence, the question of a possible conflict between her affection for the children whose custody was in dispute and the children she might bear from the father did not arise. In the case before us, the situation is not the same and the possibility of such conflict does have a bearing upon the welfare of the children.

46. As this is a matter of interim custody till the final disposal of the application GWC No. 64 of 2007, we are of the opinion that the interests of the children will be duly served if their current residence is not disturbed and a sudden separation from their maternal relatives does not come in their way. Irreparable injury will be caused to the children if they, against their will, are uprooted from their present settings.

47. The learned counsel for the appellant placed strong reliance on Hassan Bhat v. Ghulam Mohamad Bhat [AIR 1961 J&K 5] which held that the words "subject to the provisions of this section" in sub-section 1 of Section 17 of the Act clearly indicates that the consideration of the welfare of the minor should be the paramount factor and cannot be subordinated to the personal law of the minor. The view expressed by the High Court is clearly correct. As far as the question of interim custody is concerned, we are of the view that there is no conflict between the welfare of the children and the course of action suggested by the personal law to which they are subject.

49. According to the appellant, from the fact that the respondents raised the issue of death of his wife ten months after her death and one month after he refused the marriage offer of Respondent 3, it must be inferred that the respondents have raised this issue merely to obtain the custody of children and that the respondents did not come to Court with clean hands. As far as the question of denying the respondents the interim custody of children on the ground that they had not approached the Court with clean hands, we are constrained to say that we are not in a position to conclusively infer the same. The alleged refusal on part of the appellant to marry Respondent 3 which is said to have led the respondents to file the application for guardianship, is again a question of fact which is yet to be proved.

50. In Nil Ratan Kundu v. Abhijit Kundu [(2008) 9 SCC 413] this Court had enumerated certain principles while determining the custody of a minor child. This Court in para 52 observed: (SCC p. 428)

"52. ... A court while dealing with custody cases, is neither bound by statutes nor by strict rules of evidence or procedure nor by precedents. In selecting proper guardian of a minor, the paramount consideration should be the welfare and well-being of the child."

Thus the strict parameters governing an interim injunction do not have full play in matters of custody."

12. Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Anjali Kapoor (SMT) vs. Rajiv Bailaj, (2009) 7 SCC 322 held as under:-

"15. Under the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, the father is the guardian of the minor child until he is found unfit to be the guardian of the minor female child. In deciding such questions, the welfare of the minor child is the paramount consideration and such a question cannot be decided merely based upon the rights of the parties under the law. [See Sumedha Nagpal v. State of Delhi [(2000) 9 SCC 745 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 698] (SCC p. 747, paras 2 & 5).]

16. In Rosy Jacob v. Jacob A. Chakramakkal [(1973) 1 SCC 840] this Court has observed that: (SCC p. 847, para 7)

"7. ... the principle on which the court should decide the fitness of the guardian mainly depends on two factors: (i) the father's fitness or otherwise to be the guardian, and (ii) the interests of the minors."

This Court considering the welfare of the child also stated that: (SCC p. 855, para 15)

"15. ... The children are not mere chattels: nor are they mere playthings for their parents. Absolute right of parents over the destinies and the lives of their children has, in the modern changed social conditions, yielded to the considerations of their welfare as human beings so that they may grow up in a normal balanced manner to be useful members of the society...."

17. In Elizabeth Dinshaw v. Arvand M. Dinshaw [(1987) 1 SCC 42 : 1987 SCC (Cri) 13 : AIR 1987 SC 3] this Court has observed that whenever a question arises before court pertaining to the custody of the minor child, the matter is to be decided not on consideration of the legal rights of the parties but on the sole and predominant criterion of what would best serve the interest and welfare of the child.

18. At this stage, it may be useful to refer to the decision of the Madras High Court, to which reference is made by the High Court in the case of Muthuswami Moopanar [Muthuswami Chettiar v. K.M. Chinna Muthuswami Moopanar, AIR 1935 Mad 195] wherein the Court has observed, that, if a minor has for many years from a tender age lived with grandparents or near relatives and has been well cared for and during that time the minor's father has shown a lack of interest in the minor, these are circumstances of very great importance, having bearing upon the question of the interest and welfare of the minor and on the bona fides of the petition by the father for their custody. In our view, the observations made by the Madras High Court cannot be taken exception to by us. In fact those observations are tailor-made to the facts pleaded by the appellant in this case. We respectfully agree with the view expressed by the learned Judges in the aforesaid decision.

19. In McGrath (infants), Re [(1893) 1 Ch 143 : 62 LJ Ch 208 (CA)] it was observed that: (Ch p. 148)

"... The dominant matter for the consideration of the court is the welfare of the child. But the welfare of a child is not to be measured by money only, nor by physical comfort only. The word welfare must be taken in its widest sense. The moral and religious welfare of the child must be considered as well as its physical well-being. Nor can the ties of affection be disregarded."

20. In American Jurisprudence, 2nd Edn., Vol. 39, it is stated that:

"... An application by a parent, through the medium of a habeas corpus proceeding, for custody of a child is addressed to the discretion of the court, and custody may be withheld from the parent where it is made clearly to appear that by reason of unfitness for the trust or of other sufficient causes the permanent interests of the child would be sacrificed by a change of custody. In determining whether it will be for the best interest of a child to award its custody to the father or mother, the court may properly consult the child, if it has sufficient judgment."

21. In Walker v. Walker & Harrison [1981 New Ze Recent Law 257] the New Zealand Court (cited by British Law Commission, Working Paper No. 96) stated that:

"Welfare is an all-encompassing word. It includes material welfare; both in the sense of adequacy of resources to provide a pleasant home and a comfortable standard of living and in the sense of an adequacy of care to ensure that good health and due personal pride are maintained. However, while material considerations have their place they are secondary matters. More important are the stability and the security, the loving and understanding care and guidance, the warm and compassionate relationships that are essential for the full development of the child's own character, personality and talents."

13. This High Court in the case of Smt. Nazma vs. Abdual Wahab (2012) 91 ALR 815 held as under:-

"13. In Immambandi v. Mutsaddi, (1917-1918) 45 IA 73 their Lordships of the privy council said "It is perfectly clear that under the Mohamedan law the mother is entitled only to the custody of the person of her minor child upto a certain age according to the sex of the child. But she is not the natural guardian; the father alone, or, if he be dead, his executor (under the Sunni Law) is the legal guardian." It would thus appear that father is the primary and the natural guardian of his minor child and that the right of the custody of mother is only upto a certain age of the minor i.e. 7 years in the case of male child and till the attainment of puberty in the case of female child.

14. In Mt. Ulfat Bibi v. Bafati, AIR 1927 Alld. 581 a division Bench of this court laid down that under the Mohamedan law father is the natural guardian of his minor boy but side by side with the right of the father as lawful guardian exists the recognized right of the mother to have the custody of the child upto the age of seven years. Thus, the right of the mother to have custody of her minor son is limited upto 7 years of his age under the Mohamedan law.

15. In case at hand, the minor is a male child aged above 7 years and therefore, as per the Mohamedan law the father is the natural guardian and is entitled to his custody.

16. The court below in view of the compromise dated 16.10.09 allegedly between the appellant and the respondent accepted the version of the respondent that there is a divorce between the two.

17. The court below further found that the name of the appellant appears in the family register as the wife of one Mehboob and on its basis inferred that the appellant has remarried.

18. The aforesaid findings are not acceptable to the appellant but in the absence of any positive evidence to prove otherwise, this court is at a loss to interfere with the same.

19. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, under the Muslim law, the father being the natural guardian is entitled to the custody of the minor in question and the mother stand ousted from getting the custody particularly in view of her remarriage. However, the personal law of the parties is merely a guiding factor in deciding the custody of the minor as is evident from the plain reading of Section 17 of the Act as well as Section 351 of the principles of Mohamedan law.

20. Section 7 read with Section 17 of the Act mandates the court to consider the welfare of the minor and to be guided by the law to which the minor is subject in appointing a guardian of a minor. The Supreme Court in JT 1993 (1) SC 229 Ms. Chandra Lekha v. Capt. Vipul Menor has laid down that the question regarding custody of minor cannot be decided on the basis of the legal rights of the parties but on the sole and pre-dominant criteria of what would best serve the interest and welfare of the minor.

21. In Thrity Hoshie Dolikuka v. Hoshiam Shavaksha Dolikuka, (1982) 2 SCC 544 : AIR 1982 SC 1276, the Apex Court laid down that the principle of law in relation to the custody of a minor is well established and well settled and that the matter has to be considered and decided from the point of view of the welfare and interest of the child and it is the duty of the court to protect the interest of the minor.

22. Similarly in Mrs. Elizabeth Dinshaw v. Arvand M. Dinshaw, (1987) 1 SCC 42 : AIR 1987 SC 3 it was held that in deciding about the custody of the minor, interest and welfare of the minor is the predominant criteria and legal rights of the parties may not come in way.

23. In M.K. Hari Govindan v. A.R. Rajaram, AIR 2003 Madras 315 the dispute was regarding the custody of a female child aged about 10 years between the maternal and parental grandfathers, both the parents of the child having died in an accident, the child having expressed willingness to live with the respondent with whom she had been living since 1998, the court in view of willingness expressed by the child and the fact of her living with the respondent for over 4 years held that the interest and welfare of the minor child would be with the respondent and it is not proper to change the custody of the child.

24. In Rosy Jacob v. Jacob A. Chakramakkal, (1973) 1 SCC 840 : AIR 1973 SC 2090 there lordships of the Supreme Court observed that where there is dispute between mother and father regarding custody of a minor the court is expected to strike a just and proper balance between requirement of the welfare of the minor and rights of the parents over the minor child. In striking such a balance it may be kept in mind that there is really no substitute for the mother's love, affection and care for her infant which the infant is most unlikely to get if its custody is entrusted to the father and therefore, in such cases the court should lean in favour of the mother in matter of custody of the minor rather than in favour of the father. The controlling factor is the welfare of the child and not the right of the parents.

25. In view of the above the personal laws of the parties or the legal rights are only a guiding factor for determination of the custody of a minor but such rights would not prevail over the interest and welfare of the minor which is the primary and the predominant criteria for deciding about the person with whom the custody of the minor would lie.

26. The legal position which emerges from the above discussion can be summarized as under:--

(i) In Muslim law father is the primary and the natural legal guardian of his minor child though mother is entitled to custody upto certain age and her right to custody is not affected even if she is divorced but comes to an end on her remarriage;

(ii) The welfare and the interest of the minor is the predominant criteria in deciding about the custody of the child;

(iii) The personal rights of the parents are only the guiding factors and would not override the interest and welfare of the minor;

(iv) The personal wishes of the child of an understandable age carries weight; and

(v) The courts should avoid and be slow in disturbing the prevailing system in striking the balance between the interest of the minor vis-avis the rights of the parties/parents.

27. In the instant case, the minor who is now aged about 10 years ever since his birth is living with her mother who is taking good care of him though father may take still better care, coupled with the fact that he has appeared before the court and has clearly expressed his willingness to live her mother, I am of the view that the interest and welfare of the child is with the mother.

28. In such circumstances when the interest and welfare of the minor is with the mother the personal rights under the Muslim law which are only the guiding factors in the matter of custody of a minor would not override the interest of the minor.

29. The court below as such committed an error in allowing the application and granting custody of the minor to the father primarily in view of the legal right of the father under the Muslim law. The court in passing the impugned order completely ignored the wishes of the child, his long stay with the mother and his welfare and at the same time was swayed away by the legal rights of the parties. Such an approach on part of the court below cannot be approved of and is rather strange and against the settled principle."

14. Kerala High Court in the case of smt. Nazma vs. Abdual Wahab (AIR 2005 Ker 68) held as under:-

"2. Senior Counsel appearing for the maternal grandmother Sri K.C. John submitted that the order passed by the Court below is in violation of Sections 352 and 353 of the Mulla's Principles of Mahomedan Law with regard to guardianship. Counsel appearing for the respondent-father Smt. Molly Jacob on the other hand contended that the abovementioned provisions would give way to the provisions of the Guardians and Wards Act with regard to the welfare of the child. Father of the child filed O.P. before the Family Court, Manjeri for custody of his minor son who was in the custody of the maternal grand-parents. Mother of the child had committed suicide and after her death child was brought up by the maternal grandparents. Father had filed an application for the custody of the child which was earlier allowed by the Family Court. Matter was taken up before this Court by the maternal grand-parents by filing M.F.A. No. 847 of 2002 before this Court. This Court modified the order and father was only permitted to have visitation rights to take the child occasionally during festival sessions as well as on holidays. While holding so, this Court held as follows:

"The child is, since the death of its mother, living with the maternal grand-parents. If a transplantation is made at this age of the child, it will badly affect the child especially when the father has remarried and a child is born to him in the new marriage. He had already been allowed, as per the interim order, to have visits at his choice, at the house of the appellant. That is being continued. In such circumstances, he can surely win over the affection of the child in due course and the child will also be aware in due course of the fact that its betterment will always be in the hands of the respondent.

Later maternal grandfather died. Father then preferred I.A. No. 483 of 2004 for custody of the child. Change of circumstances were brought before the Family Court for seeking custody of the minor son. It was pointed out that on the death of the maternal grandfather grandmother alone would not be able to look after the child and for the welfare of the child it is necessary that the child be put in the custody of the father. Family Court on evidence found that for the welfare of the child it is necessary that the child be in the custody of the father. Petition was allowed giving custody of the child to the father. Right of the mother for custody of the infant children is dealt with under the Mahomedan Law.

3. Section 352 of the Mahomedan Law states as follows:

"352. Right of mother to custody of infant children.--The mother is entitled to the custody (hizanat) of her male child until he has completed the age of seven years and of her female child until she has attained puberty. The right continues though she is divorced by the father of the child (e), unless she marries a second husband in which case the custody belongs to the father (f)."

Section 353 is also relevant and the same is extracted below.

353. Right to female relations in default of mother.--Failing the mother, the custody of a boy under the age of seven years, and of a girl who has not attained puberty, belongs to the following female relatives in the order given below:--

1) mother's mother, how highsoever;

2) father's mother, how highsoever;

3) full sister;

4) uterine sister;

5) consanguine sister;

6) full sister's daughter;

7) uterine sister's daughter;

8) consanguine sister's daughter;

9) maternal aunt, in like order as sisters; and

10) paternal aunt, also in like order as sisters.

Section 353 would indicate that in default of mother as per the Personal Law of Muslims, child has to be in the custody of the mother's mother and then father's mother, how highsoever. Father is not included in Section 353. Contention was raised that on the basis of the abovementioned provisions of Personal Laws of Muslims mother's mother is entitled to have the custody of the minor son.

4. We are of the view when the question of the custody of the child is involved, the primary consideration which weigh with the Court is the welfare of the child. Legal position is well-settled by a catena of decisions of this Court as well as that of the Apex Court. Reference may be made to the decisions of the Apex Court in Jai Prakash Khadria v. Shyam Sunder Agarwalla, (2000) 6 SCC 598: (AIR 2000 SC 2172) and R.V. Srinath Prasad v. Nandamuri Jayakrishna, 2001 (4) SCC 71: (AIR 2001 SC 1056). It is settled principle of law that custody orders, by their very nature, can never be final but a challenge should only be made if it is in the paramount interest of the child concerned. Custody of a minor is also a matter involving sentimental attachment. Such a matter is to be approached and tackled carefully. A balance has to be struck between the attachment and sentiments of the parties towards the minor children and the welfare of the minors which is of paramount importance. Principles exported by Personal Law and the provisions referred to hereinbefore cannot read in isolation and be divorced under the provisions of the Guardians and Wards Act. The overriding consideration is welfare of the child and the Personal Law would yield the provisions of the Guardians and Wards Act. Several decisions were cited at the bar for and against. See: Rafiq v. Smt. Bashiran (AIR 1963 Raj 239); Salamat Ali v. Smt. Majjo Begum (AIR 1985 All 29); Mohammed Yunus v. Smt. Shamshad Bano (AIR 1985 All 217); Zynab Bi alias Bibijan v. Mohammad Ghouse Mohideen AIR 1952 Mad 284); Baby Sarojam v. S. Vijayakrishnan Nair (AIR 1992 Ker 277); Yusuf v. Sakkeena (1998 (2) Ker LT 573); Merlin Thomas v. C.S. Thomas, (2003) 1 Ker LJ 633: (AIR 2003 Ker 232) and Chakki v. Ayyappan (1988 (1) Ker LT 556).

5. The Court would always respect the sentiments of the grandmother. Child's mother has committed suicide. Father later remarried and has got children. Conduct of remarriage by the father of the child itself is not a ground to reject the prayer for custody. Welfare of the child is of paramount consideration. By giving due respect to the sentiments expressed by the grandmother, we are of the view, it is for the welfare of the child that the child be with the father.

6. Grandmother is a diabetic patient and she is residing with her another daughter Amina. Petitioner's son is residing in Amina's house and grandmother is also depending on her. We are of the view, the mere fact that the father has remarried and has got children in that wedlock is not a ground to deny custody to him. In the second marriage he has got a child aged 1½ years and that he would be a good company for his child also. In fact we are convinced the Family Court has taken the welfare of the child is of prime importance and ordered custody to the father. We find no reason to upset the order. The appeal is accordingly dismissed. The appellant can always move the Family Court for visitorial rights."

15. Andra Pradesh High Court in the case of Mohammed Jameel Ahmed Ansari v. Ishath Sanjeeda and others. (AIR 1983 AP 106) held as under:-

"11. In the face of the evidence the question is what is the approach of the Court? This aspect was considered by this court in the decisions collected is L. Chandran v. Mrs. Venkatalakshmi, 1980 (2) APLJ 310 : (AIR 1981 Andh Pra 1). The old cases are collected in Reginald Danieal v. Sarojam, AIR 1969 Mad 365 where it is observed that only if the father is unfit to be the guardian, can the question of the welfare of the child come into consideration by the Courts. It is observed, "in the first class of cases, it must be established that any act or conduct of the husband or father renders him unfit for guardianship; the fact that the child may be happier and more comfortable with other relations is not sufficient to deprive the two relations referred to of their right and duty. The same sanctity does not attach to the rights claimed by the other relations."

In Atchayya v. Kosaraju Narahari, AIR 1929 Mad 81 on the same aspect, it is observed:

"When the guardian of the person of a ward applied for the custody of the ward, he is only seeking the Court to help him to discharge the duty cast on him by law, with reference to his ward and it is for those who oppose such an application to make out that the welfare of the ward will be better served by its being kept out of the custody of its guardian and retained in the custody of the person against whom the application is made, the father has, therefore, a paramount right to the custody of his children of which he cannot be deprived unless it is clearly shown that he is unfit to be their guardian."

The cases of the court in M. Basavalingam v. Swarajayalakshmi, AIR 1957 Andh Pra 704; Narasima Rao v. Manikyamma, (1968) 1 Andh LT 132; V.V.N. Narasaiah v. Ch. Peddi Raju (AIR 1971 Andh Pra 134) were referred in case (AIR 1981 Andh Pra 1) and it is held:

"..... We do not therefore consider that it would be in the interests of the minor child to be handed over from the care and custody of the active and loving maternal grand-mother to the passive and silent paternal parents. We have seen the child in this Court. It looks not only very healthy but also very happy with its maternal grand-mother. The maternal grand-mother appears to us to be rearing up the child for all these months with great love and affection."

It is in this regard the case in Dr. Mrs. Veena Kapoor v. Varinder Kumar Kapoor, (1982) 1 APLJ 19 (SC) : (AIR 1982 SC 792) and the observations made therein and in regard to a Parsi family in the case of Thirty Hoshie Dolikuka v. Hosmiam Shavaksha Dolikuka, AIR 1982 SC 1276 were cited.

12. The observations in case (AIR 1981 Andh Pra 1) were heavily relied on by the learned counsel for the maternal grand-parents to contend that if father has the right, the Court can ignore the rights of the father and hold the interests of the minor are better served, if the child is allowed to remain in the custody of the maternal grand-parents.

13. We have understood the law on this aspect to be in the following terms: That children are normally expected in the custody of the legal guardians. Under Muslim law, after the age of 7 years, it is the father who is entitled to the custody of the child, unless the Court holds on evidence, the father is not a fit person or that it is not conducive to the health whether physical or mental of the child. Ordinarily, the children are to be with the father.

14. In the instant case, it is the father who is seeking the child. The child is above seven years. The trial court in the instant case, has not recorded a finding that the father is not a fit person or that it is not conducive for the child to remain with the father. The learned single Judge observed for eleven years, the child was not taken care of, cannot be sustained for the reason that till the child attained seven years, the child was to remain with the mother because she was the legal guardian. Even in the "Khula' agreement, it was understood between the parties, if for some reason, within the "Sharai' period, she was to deliver the child, the father was willing to take the child. When he was married, he informed his second wife that it was her duty to maintain the child. The second wife agreed. She was willing. She swore to that fact in the box. The father made attempts sent has friends, his brother-in-law, his sister, his father to see the child. All of them in the evidence state, they were not received; they were not allowed inside the house to see the child. The contention that he has not maintained the child properly or that has not cared to maintain the child is unsustainable for it was agreed, till the child attains seven years of age, the mother will not claim any maintenance. In 1973, the father sent money; that was refused. His friends informed him that the grand-parents communicated them, he may treat for intents, the son does not exist for him. There is no credible evidence to hold, if the child is entrusted to his custody, he is likely to hand over the child to his elder sister. The grandparents from the paternal side, both, are anxious to have the child. In the face of this evidence, when the father is not stated as not a fit person, what is the course to be adopted? The learned single Judge had not adverted to evidence: did not hold the father is not a fit person. We have considered the evidence to see whether anything was suggested to show the father was not a fit person. It is seen, he is a practising Advocate. His parents are living with him at Hyderabad since 1975 and they are willing to have the custody of the child. Whether in the counter or in reply notice on May 29, 1973 or On June 24, 1973 nothing is stated as to the fact that the father is not a fit person. In the face of such a record, we are unable to hold, the welfare of the child is not served better if the child is entrusted to the father. The courts will have to give proper regard to the circumstances that he is willing to take the child. He has examined his second wife; he has examined his parents who are willing to take the child. There is thus nothing to hold the father is not a fit person or it is not conducive to the safety and health of the child to entrust the child.

15. In the decision in Audiappa v. Nalledran AIR 1916 Mad 605, the following observations are apposite:

"The fact that the father has married a second wife is not a sufficient ground for holding that he is unfit to be the guardian of his children. The learned vakil for the appellant relies on Bindo v. Shamlal, (1907) ILR 29 All 210 which seems to lay down that if the father marries again, he ought to be deprived of his legal right of guardianship. The learned Judges refer only to S. 17 and say that the welfare of the girls is the primary consideration. There is no doubt that would be the consideration which would influence the Court ultimately; at the same time, it ought not to be forgotten that the legislature advisedly draws a distinction between the legal rights of husband and parents on the one side and those of her near relations on the other. In the first class of cases, it must be established that any act or conduct of the husband or father renders him unfit for guardianship the fact that the child may be happier and more comfortable with other relations is not sufficient to deprive the two relations referred to of their right and duty the same sanctity does not attach to the rights claimed by the other relations....."

16. Bombay High Court in the case of Abdulsattar Husen Kudachikar v. Shahina Abdulsattar Kudachikar (AIR 1996 Bom 134) held as under:-

"7. On this evidence on record, the learned trial Judge has come to the conclusion that the respondent mother was entitled to the custody of the son and accordingly, the respondent's application for custody of her son was allowed on September 20, 1994, which order has been challenged before me.

8. I have heard both the learned Counsel -- Mr. Sawant for the appellant-father and Mr. Ingale for the respondent-mother. I have perused the entire record that was placed before me; the pleadings and the entire evidence has been perused by me. The only point which arises for my consideration is, who is entitled to the custody of the son Mohd. Wasim, who is aged 5 years? My answer to this point is that it is the respondent-mother, who is entitled to the custody of her son. The reasons are as follows.

9. There is no dispute that in accordance with the principles of Mohammedan Law, which is the law applicable to the parties, it is the mother who is entitled to the custody of a male child until he has completed the age of 7 years or of a female child until she attains puberty. This right continues though she is divorced by the father of the child, unless she married a second husband, in which case the custody belongs to the father. If we refer to "Mulla's Principles of Mohammedan Law", 19th Edition, in Chapter XVIII under the Heading (B) Guardians of the Person of a Minor, Para 352 at page 287 reads as under:--

"352. Right of mother to custody of infant children. -- The mother is entitled to the custody (hizanat) of her male child until he has completed the age of seven years and of her female child until she has attained puberty. The right continues though she is divorced by the father of the child (e), unless she married a second husband in which case the custody belongs to the father (f)".

I need not elaborate the Case Law on this point, because this position was not disputed before me.

10. Admittedly, Mohd. Wasim is aged 5 years. The respondent-mother is, therefore, the guardian of her son as at this moment. The respondent is employed and earning more than Rs. 3000/- per month. She is staying with her father at Sangli and has been able to look after her daughter Heena Kausar, aged 4 years. Her evidence shows that she has all the concern for her children. There is no allegation that the respondent is likely to remarry or is indulging in any affair with any one which would result in her neglecting her children. On the other hand, it is clear from the evidence on record that the appellant was having an affair with Noorjehan Tahasildar and it is admitted before me now that he has married her. The appellant is a Medical Representative and by the very nature of his job he is required to tour not only in and around Miraj Town but also Sangli District. It is true that he is drawing a higher salary than that of the respondent inasmuch as he is drawing Rs. 4500/- per month as against Rs. 3000/- drawn by the respondent. But for children of tender years, it is not money alone which matters. It is the natural love and affection and particularly, the care which the mother can take which is more important and which has no substitute.

11. It is well-settled that in proceedings under the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, what is of paramount consideration is the welfare of the child. Section 4 of the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 is the defining section. It defines words such as "Minor", "Guardian", "Ward" etc. "Minor" is defined to be a person who, under the provisions of the Indian Majority Act, 1875 is to be deemed not to have attained his majority. "Guardian" means a person having the care of the person of a minor or of his property or of both his person and property. "Ward" means a minor for whose person or property or both there is a guardian. Section 7 provides that where the Court is satisfied that it is for the welfare of a minor that an order should be made--

(a) appointing a guardian of his person or of his property or both;

(b) declaring a person to be such guardian,

The Court may make the order accordingly.

12. Section 8 deals with the persons, who are entitled to apply for an Order under Section 7. Section 17 is of some importance, and it reads as under:--

"17. Matters to be considered by the Court in appointing guardian. -- (1) In appointing or declaring the guardian of a minor, the Court shall, subject to the provision of this section, be guided by what, consistently with the law to which the minor is subject appears in the circumstances to be for the welfare of the minor.

(2) In considering what will be for the welfare of the minor, the Court shall have regard to the age, sex and religion of the minor, the character and capacity of the proposed guardian and his nearness of kin to the minor, the wishes, if any, of a deceased parent, and any existing or previous relations of the proposed guardian with the minor or his property.

(3) If minor is old enough to form an intelligent preference, the Court may consider that preference.

(4) - - -

(5) The Court shall not appoint or declare any person to be a guardian against his will."

Similarly, Section 25 reads as under:--

"25. Title of guardian to custody of ward. -- (1) If a ward leaves or is removed from the custody of a guardian of his person, the Court, if it is of opinion that it will be for the welfare of the ward to return to the custody of his guardian, may make an order for his return and for the purpose of enforcing the order may cause the ward to be arrested and to be delivered into the custody of the guardian.

(2) For the purpose of arresting the ward, the Court may exercise the power conferred on a Magistrate of the first class by Section 100 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882 (10 of 1882).

(3) The residence of a ward against the will of his guardian with a person who is not his guardian does not of itself terminate the guardianship".

13. On a true construction of the provisions of Section 17 and Section 25, there can be no doubt that in appointing or declaring a guardian of a minor, the court must have regard to the welfare of a minor which is of paramount consideration. Taking into account all the relevant facts such as age, sex, religion, character and capacity of the proposed guardian, nearness of kin to the minor, the paramount consideration is the welfare of a minor. It is for deciding this paramount consideration of the welfare of a minor that all other factors must be taken into account. In this behalf, a reference may be made to some of the decisions of the Supreme Court briefly:--

(i) In Rosy Jacob v. Jacob A. Chakramakkal, reported in (1973) 1 SCC 840 : AIR 1973 SC 2090, it has been observed that whether the proceedings were under one Act or the other viz. the Guardians and Wards Act or the Indian Divorce Act (which was relevant in that case), what was of paramount consideration was the question of welfare of the minor. It may be useful to reproduce the observations in Para 14 of the Supreme Court decision at pages 2098 and 2099:--

"In our opinion, Section 25 of the Guardians and Wards Act contemplates not only actual physical custody but also constructive custody of the guardian which term includes all categories of guardians. The object and purpose of this provision being ex facie to ensure the welfare of the minor ward, which necessarily involves due protection of the right of his guardian to properly look after the ward's health, maintenance and education, this section demands reasonably liberal interpretation so as to effectuate that object. Hypertechnicalities should not be allowed to deprive the guardian of the necessary assistance from the Court in effectively discharging his duties and obligations towards his ward so as to promote the latter's welfare. If the Court under the Divorce Act cannot make any order with respect to the custody of Ajit alias Andrew and Maya alias Mary and it is not open to the Court under the Guardians and Wards Act to appoint or declare guardian of the person of his children under Section 19 during his lifetime, if the Court does not consider him unfit, then, the only provision to which the father can have resort for his children's custody is Section 25.....

But whether the respondent's prayer for custody of the minor children be considered under the Guardians and Wards Act or under the Indian Divorce Act, as observed by Maharajan J., with which observation we entirely agree, "the controlling consideration governing the custody of the children is the welfare of the children concerned and not the right of their parents". It was not disputed that under the Indian Divorce Act this is the controlling consideration. The Court's power under Section 25 of the Guardians and Wards Act is also, in our opinion, to be governed primarily by the consideration of the welfare of the minors concerned. The discretion vested in the Court is, as is the case with all judicial discretions to be exercised judiciously in the background of all the relevant facts and circumstances. Each case has to be decided on its own facts and other cases can hardly serve as binding precedents, the facts of two cases in this respect being seldom -- if ever -- identical".

(ii) In Smt. Mohini v. Virendra Kumar, reported at (1977) 3 SCC 513 : AIR 1977 SC 1359, which was the case under the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956, it was again reiterated by the Supreme Court that the welfare of a minor was the paramount consideration. Considering all the facts of the case, it was found that the minor's welfare was financially and affectionately safer in the hands of the mother.

(iii) Again, in Thrity Hoshie Dolikuka v. Hoshiam Shavaksha Dolikuka, reported at (1982) 2 SCC 544 : AIR 1982 SC 1276, it was reiterated that any matter concerning the custody of a minor has to be considered and decided only from the point of view of the welfare and custody of the minor. In dealing with a matter concerning a minor, the Court has a special responsibility and it is the duty of the Court to consider the welfare of the minor and to protect the minor's interest. These observations are to be found in para 17 of the Judgment at page 1289 of the Report. In para 19 of the Judgment in Thrity Hoshie Dolikuka's case, a reference has been made to Rosy Jacob's case, reported at (1973) 1 SCC 840 : AIR 1973 SC 2090 (supra).

(iv) Then, in the case of Poonam Datta v. Krishanlal Datta, reported at 1989 Supp (1) SCC 587 : AIR 1989 SC 401, the Supreme Court decided the question of custody of the minor having regard to the consideration of welfare of the child and the parties were directed to consider the interests of the child as paramount and do nothing which would adversely affect the interest or affect the child physically or mentally in any manner.

(v) Recently, in the case of Chandrakala Menon (Mrs.) v. Vipin Menon (Capt.), reported at (1993) 2 SCC 6 the Supreme Court again reiterated that the custody of child has to be decided on the sole and predominant criterion as to what would serve best the interest of the minor. This has been categorically observed in Para 7 of the decision at Page 8 of the Report where in the facts of the case, the custody was given to the mother, who was residing abroad, though the father was residing in India.

14. Having regard to the above guidelines laid down by the Supreme Court, there is no doubt in my mind that in the facts of the present case the welfare of the child Mohd. Wasim is safer with the mother. The father has admitted that he married a second wife. He has a touring job. Leaving his only son from his first wife to the care of his second wife, in preference to the natural mother of the child, would not be in the best interest of the child. The child certainly needs the love and affection of his natural mother, who is anxious to bestow it upon her child. The child has been forcibly snatched from her on 22nd May, 1994, resulting in initiation of the proceedings soon thereafter on 13th June, 1994. Under the circumstances, no objection can be taken to the impugned decree passed by the trial Court.

15. Mr. Sawant, however, contended that in the event of this Court not accepting the father's version, the father would, at least, be entitled to access to the child on week-ends and during vacations. The father is living at Miraj and the mother is at Sangli. I see no difficulty in permitting the father to meet the child on week-ends or during vacations. Both the spouses are available on phone in their respective offices. It would be in the interest of the child if the father informs the mother in advance and meets the child either at week-ends or during vacation. I am reminded of the caution sounded by the Supreme Court in Poonam Datta's case, reported at 1989 Supp (1) SCC 587 : AIR 1989 SC 401 (supra). I can do no better than to reproduce Para 7 of the decision of the Supreme Court in that case at page 402 of the Report--

"7. Parties are directed to consider the interest of the child as paramount and do nothing which would be adverse to its interest or affect it physically or mentally in any manner".

17. This Court in the case of Smt. Kahkashan Bano v. Abdul Moiz Ansari ((1990) 16 ALR 401) held as under:-

"15. This is also the settled law that the welfare of minor is to be the paramount consideration for the Court and not the legal right of either the appellant or the respondent. The interest of the minor is supreme.

16. In the case of Dr. Mrs. Veena Kapoor v. Varinder Kumar Kapoor it has been held that in matters concerning the custody of minor children the paramount consideration is the welfare of the minor and not the legal right of this or that particular party.

17. In the case of Rosy Jacob v. Jacob A. Chaoramakkal it was held that the controlling consideration governing the custody of the children is the welfare of the children concerned and not the right of their parents. The dominant consideration in making orders under Section 25 of the Act is the welfare of the minor children. It has to be seen that who would be in a better position to be able to impart natural and selfless affection. Further in case of a conflict or dispute between the mother and the father about the custody of the minor the Court has to adopt a somewhat different but more pragmatic approach. No doubt the father may have a legal right to claim the custody of the child but at the same time fitness of father has to be considered, determined and weighed predominantly in terms of the welfare of the minor. If it is found that the father cannot promote the welfare equally or better than the mother, he cannot claim indefeasible right to such custody. Merely father's fitness to maintain the minor cannot override considerations of the welfare of the minor. Statute has presumed that the father is generally in a better position to look-after the minor being the head of the family earning bread for it. In any case it has to be seen primarily the welfare of the minor while determining the question of his custody. But merely, because the father agrees to maintain the minor showing all affection would not necessarily lead to the conclusion that the welfare of the minor would be batter promoted by granting custody to him. The mother may be equally affectionate towards the minor. If she is possessed of requisite financial resources, she would be always in advantageous position of guaranteeing better health education and maintenance for the minor. A minor is not a mere chattel nor a play thing. A child has to grow up in a normal balanced manner. In the case of Subrabi v. D. Mahammed, it has been held that merely because the respondent (father) is better placed economically, the custody of the child cannot be denied to the petitioner (mother). Further merely that the mother is not financially solvent as the father custody of the child cannot be deprived of from its mother.

18. In the of Mohammed Khalid v. Smt. Seenat Parveen a similar view was taken. It is well established that in a proceeding under the Act for the custody of a minor it is the welfare in the widest sense of term that is to be considered, though the father as natural guardian may have a prima facie right to a minor's custody. It can be negatived if minor's welfare lies in keeping him in the custody of his mother. Merely because the father is the natural guardian under the personal law applicable to him, the custody of the minor cannot be entrusted to him having in mind overall consideration of his physical and material well being, education, up-bringing, happiness etc., the dominant consideration shall be the interest of the minor than the claims of the rival parties. Humanitarianism would also permit as the mother is the most competent and suitable person to protect the interest of the minor and safeguard his welfare. To the affection and love of a mother there is no substitute. Universal phenomenon and human approach have acknowledged that the mother's affection for the child is unparalleled, it cannot be bartered away nor can be shared either by the father or by any-one.

19. The respondent divorced the appellant after consumating marriage for a very short span of time that is about 3 years. The minor born of this wedlock at the time of the divorce was only 1 1/2 years old. It is indisputable that a child of one year cannot remember the father. The appellant has reared the child for 7 years showerig all affections and protecting his welfare by imparting him better education and maintaining him to her utmost. Admittedly, the applicant is not economically week. She is a teacher in a school earning more than Rs. 1000/-. The respondent is a private practitioner. He may be having sufficient resources to maintain the child. The respondent has claimed that he is residing with his other family members which has been seriously challenged by the appellant. Rather the appellant staying with her mother, brother and other family members is not disputed. Even the child has admitted that he is residing with his mother who is staying with her brother and mother and other family members and such members of the family are showering affection and love on him. Another aspect of the case is that after divorcing the appellant the respondent married again. Such marriage went on the rocks-leaving the respondent alone. It has also to be considered that the respondent is still in the psalon of his life and may marry again much to the detriment of the minor. Human complexities and trivialities of the societies cannot be ignored. If the respondent marries again and have children from such wife, the affection and love to the minor would gradually diminish. Courts cannot keep a close eye to the vicissitudes of such a situation. Human frailties have been resulted in causing miseries to such minor.

20. In the case of Smt. Anjunnisa v. Mukhtar Amad it has been held that where a minor aged about 10-11 years is in the custody of his mother and has intelligently exercised his preference to continue to stay with her, his custody cannot be disturbed and come to his father though he is legal guardian of the minor in the personal law (Mohammadan Law). A mere claim to legal guardianship after such a situation will not stand on a higher footing than the claim of the real mother to continue to have custody of the minor who has remained in her custody since the birth of the child, Presently the minor Mohd. Shoeb Ansari from the time' of his birth is residing with his mother. Merely because the respondent is legal guardian even then the child cannot be extracted from the custody of the appellant. In a proceeding under Section 25 it is too well established. It is not the guardianship of the minor which has to be taken into consideration. The minor was examined by this Court. He was found to be intelligent and smart. He preferred to stay with his mother. Defiantly he expressed not to live with his father. To the suggestion that in case he is directed to live with his father, the minor openly stated that he would run back to his mother. Merely because he was produced in court from the custody of the mother that will not cause dent the truthfulness of his statement. It is an innocent expression of a minor. It can also not be said that the child was tutored. He was asked questions by the court to which he replied. Further the minor never lived with the respondent who admittedly may not be alien to the minor but is certainly a stranger. It would take years for the child to grow affection for the respondent. It will certainly affect his natural growth Such an artificial exercise of showing affection by father would not inspire the minor howsoever genuine the affection may be, but to the child it would always be artificial. The over zealousness with which the affection would be shown would further retard the natural growth of the minor. The welfare of the child in any case would be with the mother.

21. In the case of Mt. Siddiqunisa Bibi v. Niza muddin Khan a Division Bench of this court headed by Hon. Sulaiman ACJ it was held that the necessary condition in the exercise of discretion under Section 25 is that the ward should have left or have been removed from the custody of the guardian of his person. If the ward has not left or has not been removed from such custody. Section 25 does not apply. The minor since the time of his birth is staying with his mother and has neither been removed nor was ever residing with his father (respondent).

22. In the case of Mt. Haliman Khatoon v. Ahmadi Begum it has been held that the mother imparts natural affection. Her natural affection for her son cannot be excelled by anyone else.

23. From the above it is crystal clear that the appellant is in a better position to protect the welfare of the minor as he cannot form intelligence preference in matter relating to his custody. Reliance has been placed in the case of S. Rama Iyer v. K.V. Natraja and Smt. Hafizur Rahman v. Smt. Shakila Khatoon.

24. In the case of S. Rama Iyer v. K.V. Natraj Iyer (supra) it has been held that the child of 12 to 14 years cannot form intelligent preference in matters relating to his custody. This court while considering the lis between the parties was not only swayed by the statement of the child but by the intelligence, which is not the monopoly of any one. In any case a child is always intelligent enough to where he would receive affection and love. He may not be conscious as regard the future but his upbringing and affection as has been found to be with the mother (respondent) cannot be assailed.

25. The case of Hafizur Rahman v. Smt. Shakila Khatoon, does not help the respondent. It has been held that the object recognising the custody under law is in a nut-shell to rear the child for which the mother is best suited and is preferred in comparison to the father. Looking to the entire surrounding circumstances of the case it will be in the interest of the child that he stays with his mother who would be seized with his welfare instead to permit him to live with the respondent. The trial court only considered the aspect as regards the legality of the respondent to claim the custody. The paramount consideration as regards the welfare of the child was illegally ignored. This appeal thus deserves to be allowed and the order of the trial court is liable to be set aside. In the result the appeal is allowed. The judgment and order dated 1.9.88 is hereby set aside. The child is directed to remain in the custody of the appellant. However, the appellant may permit the respondent to visit his child twice a month on the date and time intimated 3 days in advance for a period of half an hour."

18. A perusal of the judgment and order dated 07.08.2018 passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Sitapur, whereby the case of the appellant has been dismissed, it appears that the court below while dismissing the case for custody of minor, considered the following facts:-

(a) Appellant and respondent no. 2 married on 03.06.2006.

(b) Out of wedlock Master Azazul Hussain/respondent no. 1 was born on 16.05.2007.

(c) Respondent no. 2 alongwith respondent no. 1 left the matrimonial home on 26.04.2008 and since then living separately alongwith minor/respondent no. 1.

(d) On 26.04.2008, the date on which the respondent no. 2 (wife of appellant) left the matrimonial home alongwith minor/respondent no. 1 i.e. Azazul Hussain, the minor, was about 11 months old.

(e) In the intervening period the appellant never tried to meet his son nor provided any financial support to him.

(f) Appellant has not disclosed the source of his income nor monthly income.

(g) The plaintiff-appellant has not even bothered to know about the welfare of the child.

(h) Divorce/talak has already been taken place between the appellant and respondent no. 2 on 06.07.2013.

(i) The respondent no. 1 i.e. Azazul Hussain is getting proper care by his mother.

19. After considering the aforesaid, the court below came to the conclusion that looking into the welfare of the minor child it would be appropriate that the custody of minor child should not be given to the appellant and accordingly dismissed the claim of the appellant.

20. Considering the facts of the case and reasons given by the court below while dismissing the case of the appellant for custody of minor Azazul Hussain in the light of principles settled on the issue of custody of minor, referred hereinabove, we are of the view that the conclusion drawn by the court below vide judgment and order dated 07.08.2018, is not liable to be interfered. We do not find any infirmity or illegality in the impugned judgment and order dated 07.08.2018 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Sitapur by which custody/guardianship of the minor child-Azazul Hussain has been denied to appellant.

21. Accordingly, this appeal is dismissed.

22. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. This second appeal arises out of the judgment and decree dated 17.05.2016 passed by the learned Additional District Judge/Special Judge(Prevention of Corruption Act), Varanasi in Civil Appeal No. 45 of 2014, Mohd. Hussain Vs. Ashfaq Ali and another, which reverses the judgement and decree dated 18.02.2014 rendered by the learned Additional Civil Judge, Varanasi in Original Suit No. 472 of 1986, Ashfaq Ali Vs. Smt. Tahira and Others.

2. This second appeal has been filed by the plaintiff in the suit registered as Original Suit No.472 of 1986, Ashfaq Ali Vs. Smt. Tahira.

3. Civil action was brought by the plaintiff-appellant against the defendants-respondents, by instituting a suit registered as Case No. 472 of 1986 (Ashfaq Ali Vs Smt. Tahira and Others), before the learned Additional Civil Judge, Varanasi.

4. The plaint states that the plaintiff-appellant is a tenant in the disputed shop w.e.f. 1980-81, which is an integral part of House No. CK-67/25 at Dal Mandi, District Varanasi. The defendants-respondents were the landlords.

5. The cause of action for the suit arose on 24.04.1996, when the defendants-respondents tried to take forcible possession of the disputed premises by physically evicting the plaintiff-appellant. The attempted eviction was foiled. Relief was claimed by the plaintiff-appellant to permanently injunct the defendants-respondents from interfering with the possession of the plaintiff-appellant over the shop in dispute, by adopting means which are contrary to law. The plaintiff-appellant also prayed that his peaceful possession over the shop in dispute may not be disturbed by the defendants-respondents.

6. The defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 resisted the suit by filing a written statement and a counter claim for eviction of the plaintiff-appellant.

7. The written statement while denying the case of the plaintiff-appellant stated that the parties commenced their partnership business in the aforesaid shop from the month of August, 1995. The intentions of the plaintiff-appellant became dishonest and the business folded up. The written statement categorically denied the landlord tenant relationship between the plaintiff-appellant and defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2. The defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 asserted that the plaintiff-appellant was earlier a licensee in the shop. However on the date of institution of the suit, was the plaintiff-appellant was an unauthorized occupant. The defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 made a counter claim to evict the plaintiff-appellant.

8. The issues relevant, framed by the learned trial court for determination which remain relevant are as under:

I. Whether the plaintiff-appellant is the lawful tenant of the disputed shop?

II. Whether the defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 is the sole owner of the disputed property?

III. Whether the defendant no. 2 respondent no.2 is entitled for eviction of the plaintiff-appellant from the disputed shop and to obtain possession of the same on the foot of the assertions made in the counter claim?

9. The trial court concluded that there was no dispute about the ownership of the shop property in issue. The learned trial court opined that the plaintiff-appellant could not prove his tenancy. The landlord-tenant relationship between him and the defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 was not established. The learned trial court also found that the plaintiff-appellant was an unauthorized occupant. The plaintiff-appellant was able to establish his possession over the disputed shop, before the trial court.

10. In the wake of the aforesaid findings, the learned trial court held that the plaintiff-appellant was entitled to be protected from eviction by a procedure contrary to law. Partly decreeing the suit, the learned trial court issued a permanent injunction to the defendants-respondents injuncting them from evicting the plaintiff-appellant by adopting a procedure which is contrary to law.

11. The counter claim of the defendant no. 2- respondent no. 2 was dismissed. The defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 was granted liberty to file a suit for eviction, which in the undertaking of the learned trial court was the only procedure know to law.

12. The defendant no. 2-respondent no.2 carried the judgement of the learned trial court in appeal. The appeal was registered as Civil Appeal No. 45 of 2014, Mohd. Hussain Vs. Ashfaq Ali and another before the Additional learned District Judge, I, Varanasi. A cross objection was filed by the plaintiff-appellant in the aforesaid appeal.

13. The learned appellate court after independent consideration of pleadings and the evidence found that the plaintiff-appellant could not establish his tenancy in the shop in dispute. The finding of the learned trial court that the plaintiff-appellant was not a tenant in the shop in dispute was upheld. The appellant court was also in agreement with the learned trial court that the plaintiff-appellant was an unauthorized occupant in the shop in dispute. The learned appellate court gave weight to the admission made by the plaintiff-appellant in his plaint, that the defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 was the owner and the landlord of the disputed shop. The ownership of the defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 of the property in issue was undisputed.

14. The learned appellate court applying the well settled position of law to this case, held that the plaintiff-appellant being an unauthorized occupant, is not entitled to seek an injunction against the defendant no.2-respondent no.2 who is the true owner.

15. There was another aspect to the controversy which was noticed by the learned appellate court. The plaintiff-appellant had stated in the plaint that he was a tenant in the shop in dispute from 1980-81. The learned appellate court took noticed from the record details of P.A. Case No. 111 of 1980 (Tahira Bibi Vs. Saeed Ahamad Khan) before the prescribed authority, in regard to the disputed premises. The records bears out the judgment entered by the prescribed authority on 09.01.1981 directed eviction of the then tenant Saeed Ahmed and the fact of restoration of vacant possession to the landlord on 14.03.1981. The learned appellate court thus found that till 14.03.1981 the disputed premises was not in the possession of the plaintiff-appellant. The documentary evidence in this regard marked as Paper no. 110-GA attested the aforesaid stand of the defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 as pleaded in the written statement was also appreciated while returning the finding.

16. Thus, the learned appellate court found that the assertion in the plaint that the plaintiff-appellant was tenant in the premises from 1980-1981 was false. The plaintiff-appellant had instituted the suit by stating false facts and concealing material evidence. The suit was liable to be dismissed on the foot of this finding.

17. There were incurable faultlines in the judgment of the learned trial court, when it dismissed the counter claim of the defendant-appellant no. 2.

18. Accordingly, the appellate court found that the judgment of the learned trial court rejecting the counter claim of the defendant no. 2- appellant to be at variance with law and was liable to be interfered with. The counter claim of the defendant no. 2- appellant was accordingly allowed.

19. The learned first appellate court decreed the counter claim of the defendant no. 2-respondent no.2 and set aside the judgment dated 18.02.2014 and decree dated 01.03.2014 passed by the learned trial court.

20. The plaintiff-appellant was directed by the learned appellate court to make over the vacant possession of the disputed shop to the defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 within a period of three months from date of the judgment. The appellate court also awarded damages payable by the plaintiff-appellant.

21. Sri Udai Chandani, learned counsel for the plaintiff-appellant contends that the learned trial court as well as the learned appellate court erred in law by disbelieving the claim of the plaintiff-appellant that he was a tenant in the disputed premises. He further contends that the plaintiff-appellant has been in possession over the disputed property since 1995 and the learned trial court rightly injuncted the defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 from evicting the plaintiff-appellant except in accordance with law. The plaintiff-appellant could be evicted only by instituting a civil suit for eviction and not on the foot of a counter claim.

22. Sri Udai Chandani, learned counsel for the plaintiff-appellant submits in the alternative that the plaintiff-appellant is a licensee and not an unauthorized occupant in the shop.

23. Per contra, Sri C. K. Parekh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Vivek Mishra, learned counsel for the defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 submits that the findings against the claim of tenancy made by the plaintiff-appellant are findings of fact which were returned in light of the pleadings after appreciation of evidence. There is no perversity in the findings. He further contends that the plaintiff-appellant had admittedly not come to the learned trial court with clean hands and stated false facts in the plaint. The suit was liable to be dismissed on this ground alone.

24. Lastly Sri C. K. Parekh, learned Senior Counsel submits that the law is well settled that an unauthorized occupant or third person is not entitled to an injunction against the true owner.

25. Both the courts concurrently found upon consideration of pleadings and appreciation of evidence, that the plaintiff-appellant was not a tenant in the disputed shop. The landlord tenant relationship between the parties was not established. The learned counsel for the appellant could not point out any substantial question of law which arises from the said factual determination. This Court finds that these pure findings of facts are impeccable and no substantial question of law arises for determination on these findings.

26. The issue of oral partnership between the parties and the status of the plaintiff-appellant as licensee was not posed for determination before the both learned courts of earlier instance. This point was never pressed by the parties before both the courts of earlier instance.

27. Plaintiff-appellant never claimed to be a licensee at any stage. There is no foundation to support a claim of licensee in the plaint. Evidence in this regard is absent. On the contrary, the plaintiff-appellant affirmatively asserted that he was a tenant of the premises in dispute. Both the courts of earlier instance did not enquire into nor return any finding on this point. This point was clearly abandoned by both parties in the earlier stages of litigation. The plaintiff-appellant cannot resile from his earlier stand and set up a new case at this stage to the detriment of the defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2, after his defence was invalidated by both courts.

28. A substantial question of law has to emerge from reading of the judgments of the courts of earlier instance, in light of the material before the courts, issues framed for determination and findings thereon. Issues of disputed facts which require evidence for adjudication, and which were not posed for determination before the courts of both instances, are not substantial questions of law under Section 100 of the Civil Procedure Code.

29. In this regard, a reference may be made with profit to the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sri Venkataramana Devaru and others v. The State of Mysore and others, reported at AIR 1958 SC 255.

"14. Mr. M. K. Nambiar invited our attention to Exhibit A-2, which is a copy of an award dated November 28, 1847, wherein it is recited that the temple was originally founded for the benefit of five families of Gowda Saraswath Brahmins. He also referred us to Exhibit A-6, the decree in the scheme suit, O.S. No. 26 of 1915, wherein it was declared that the institution belonged to that community. He contended on the basis of these documents and of other evidence in the case that whether the temple was a private or public institution was purely a matter of legal inference to be drawn from the above materials, and that, notwithstanding that the point was not taken in the pleadings, it could be allowed to be raised as a pure question of law. We are unable to agree with this submission. The object of requiring a party to put forward his pleas in the pleadings is to enable the opposite party to controvert them and to adduce evidence in support of his case. And it would be neither legal nor just to refer to evidence adduced with reference to a matter which was actually in issue and on the basis of that evidence, to come to a finding on a matter which was not in issue, and decide the rights of parties on the basis of that finding. We have accordingly declined to entertain this contention. We hold, agreeing with the Courts below, that the Sri Venkataramana Temple at Moolky is a public temple, and that it is within the operation of Act V of 1947.

30. The phrase substantial question of law occurring in Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure has been interpreted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in a long line of consistent authorities. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Santosh Hazari v. Purushotam Tiwari, reported at 2001 (3) SCC 179 held as under:

"14. A point of law which admits of no two opinions may be a proposition of law but cannot be a substantial question of law. To be 'substantial', a question of law must be debatable, not previously settled by law of the land or a binding precedent, and must have a material bearing on the decision of the case, if answered either way, in so far as the rights of the parties before it are concerned. To be a question of law 'involving in the case' there must be first a foundation for it laid in the pleadings and the question should emerge from the sustainable findings of fact arrived at by court of facts and it must be necessary to decide that question of law for a just and proper decision of the case. An entirely new point raised for the first time before the High Court is not a question involved in the case unless it goes to the root of the matter. It will, therefore, depend on the facts and circumstance of each case whether a question of law is a substantial one and involved in the case, or not; the paramount overall consideration being the need for striking a judicious balance between the indispensable obligation to do justice at all stages and impelling necessity of avoiding prolongation in the life of any list.

31. The issue whether the plaintiff-appellant was a licencee or not, is a factual issue in this case and does not satisfy the tests of a substantial question of law, as laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Santosh Hazari (supra) and cannot be entertained view of the restriction posed in Sri Venkataramana Devaru (supra).

32. In these facts the plaintiff-appellant cannot urge at this stage that he was a licensee. The plaintiff-appellant cannot introduce a pure question of fact for the first time which requires evidence for determination under the guise of a substantial question of law.

33. The learned counsels for the parties then agree that the following questions of law arise for determination in this second appeal:

I. Whether the suit was liable to be dismissed on the ground that the plaintiff did not come to the court with clean hands, by asserting false facts in the plaint and concealing material facts and evidence from the court?

II. Whether the learned appellate court erred in law in granting the decree of eviction against the plaintiff-appellant and in favour of the defendant no.2-respondent no.2 on the counter claim of the latter and whether failure of defendant no.2-respondent no.2 to file a separate suit for eviction of the plaintiff-appellant was fatal to the case of eviction against the plaintiff-appellant? As a corollary what is the import of the phrase "eviction in accordance with law" when the claim of a lawful owner is pitted against an unauthorised occupant in terms of the pleadings?

Substantial Question of Law No. 1

34. The learned appellate court found that the plaintiff-appellant had stated false facts and concealed material evidence before the court. The finding is made on the foot of admitted facts and unimpeachable evidence. The consequences of such conduct of the plaintiff-appellant is the key to answering the first substantial question of law.

35. Truth to facts is the first rule of equitable conduct. To keep the stream of justice pure and to protect the credibility of the process of law equitable conduct of parties is non negotiable. The court will investigate whether the party did its utmost to preserve fidelity to the facts. Preserving fidelity to the facts is the essence of equitable conduct.

36. Fair conduct of a party before the court alone entitles it to discretionary relief from the court, while unfair conduct would preclude grant of relief by the court.

37. The learned appellate court followed the right line of enquiry and correctly found that the plaintiff-appellant had not come to court with clean hands.

38. The learned appellate court in light of the facts established above and the settled position of law recorded that the relief of injunction is an equitable relief and the conduct of the plaintiff-appellant disentitled him to the equitable relief of grant of injunction. The finding of fact by the learned appellate court is beyond reproach and the statement of law is unassailable.

The substantial question of law no. 1 is accordingly answered as follows:

39. The plaintiff-appellant was not entitled to the equitable relief of grant of injunction, since he had stated false facts and come to the court with unclean hands and his suit was liable to be dismissed on this ground alone.

Substantial Question of Law No. 2

40. The answer to the second substantial question of law would turn on the interpretation of the phrase "eviction in accordance with law."

41. Claims of lawful owners against unauthorized occupants of the properties of the former, take long years to decide in our judicial system. This Court takes notice of the fact that even where the title of the true owner against an unauthorized occupant is not in serious dispute, the claims of the former are decided after many decades. The unauthorized or unlawful occupants are the only beneficiaries of this anomaly. Such unlawful or unauthorized occupants retain illegal possession against true owners simply by delaying adjudication by courts. The defence of illegal occupants against their eviction by true owners is "rule of law"! The delay in such cases perverts law and defeats justice. Perversion of law has to be prevented, rule of law has to be established and justice has to be dispensed.

42. Further, as a corollary what is the true import of the phrase "eviction in accordance with law", in matters where the claim of a true owner for possession is resisted by an unauthorized occupant in courts of law.

43. The question as we have seen is not only a substantial question of law but a question of public importance.

44. Inordinate delay in deciding the claim of a lawful owner against an unauthorised occupant indefinitely prolongs the illegal occupation of the latter and negates the lawful title of the former. The delay misdirects the process of law to a point, where force of possession prevails over the legitimacy of title and the distinction between lawful title and illegal possession ceases. This state of affairs dents the faith in the legal process. It impairs the credibility of the process of the courts and incentivizes resort to means which are not lawful. In short, such delay is fatal to the rule of law and causes complete miscarriage of justice. The phrase "eviction as per law" has to mean a procedure which upholds the law and promotes the ends of justice. This obligates every trial court, appellate court and executing court to adjudicate the matter in strict adherence to a stipulated time frame, under all circumstances. While deciding this appeal this Court is called upon to determine the said time frame and procedure.

45. The courts are charged with the duty of upholding the law and dispensing justice. These twin objectives can be fulfilled in the facts situation discussed in the preceding paragraphs, only if the courts evolve speedy procedure and dispense justice in a reasonable period of time, without compromising the standards of law.

46. Considering the situation being faced by the courts today because of delay in deciding such matters and the threat such delayed possesses to the root of law, the phrase "reasonable period of time" cannot be left to be defined by individual preference. The succeeding paragraphs will define the phrase "reasonable period of time" by stipulating the specific time frame within which matters in which a true owner has made a claim against an unauthorized occupant and where there is no serious dispute of title shall be decided.

47. No party which seeks to benefit from unauthorized occupancy, shall be granted any unnecessary adjournment. In fact, in such cases, the courts may well be advised to decline any adjournments. Adjournments if any shall be granted only in the rarest of rare cases after full satisfaction of the court is recorded that it is solely in the interests of justice and after payment of exemplary costs.

48. The claim of eviction made by the lawful owner and the claim of damages/compensation for unauthorized occupancy shall be divided into the parts. The courts shall decide the issue of unauthorized occupation as the first issue and in case the courts find that the occupation of the property was unauthorized, the eviction of such unauthorized occupant shall be ordered forthwith along with the decree of eviction. This process of deciding the issue of unauthorized occupation and the eviction of such occupant shall be completed by the learned trial court in strictly within a period of one year from the date of institution of the suit. The legality of defence of the unauthorized occupant be that of valid tenancy, or license or a tenant who is holding or any other claim in defence of possession howsoever tenors, shall be decided within the aforesaid period of one year. The courts shall proceed with the hearing of such suits on a day to day basis if necessary to adhere to the stipulated time period of one year. Similarly, the executing courts shall also proceed on a day to day basis and complete the execution proceedings in all circumstances within a period of six months. The claim of compensation/damages shall be decided alongside or if possible within the stipulated period of time or may be decided soon thereafter.

49. The appellate court shall decide the appellate within six months. All courts shall ensure this stipulated time frame is not deviated from and is adhered to in all circumstances.

50. This is the essence of the rule of law. The eviction by rule of law obligates the courts to be alerted to the existing realities and evolve timely responses. Adherence to the aforesaid procedure, is the full and true import of the phrase "eviction in accordance with law".

51. The high purpose of law is to dispense justice in a speedy manner and not to draw parties into endless litigation. Courts have looked askance at multiplicity of litigation on the same cause of action.

52. The issue of possession of an unauthorized occupant was pitted against the claim of the true owner of the property before the both courts of earlier instance in this case. Both the courts after adjudicating the controversy found that the plaintiff-appellant was an unauthorized occupant who was resisting the claim of the true owner defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 for possession over the property.

53. A judgment by a court, holding a person to be an unauthorized occupant against the claim of a true owner fully constitutes the lawful basis of eviction of the unauthorized occupant. This determination is conclusive for securing the eviction of an unauthorized occupant. In the face of the said adjudication, it does not matter who brought the suit. No further judicial enquiry or adjudication by the courts is required for eviction of the unauthorized occupant.

54. In the wake of these established facts, it then was wholly contrary to law, to direct the defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 to institute civil action afresh for eviction of the plaintiff-appellant and a travesty of justice to prolong an almost a three and a half decade old litigation.

55. The judgment of the learned trial court is a perversion of the phrase "eviction in accordance with law." The true meaning of the phrase "eviction in accordance with law" was found by the learned appellate court in its judgment.

56. The method of due process of law to be adopted to evict an unauthorized occupant and the import of the phrase, "eviction in accordance with law", fell for consideration before the Courts. The judicial authority in point will now be referenced.

57. Faced with the remedy available in law to a true owner to eject an unlawful occupant, the Hon'ble Delhi High Court in the case of Thomas Cook (India) Ltd. Vs. Hotel Imperial, reported at 2006(88) DRJ 545, in eloquent words laid down an enduring statement of law:

"28. The expressions `due process of law', `due course of law' and `recourse to law' have been interchangeably used in the decisions referred to above which say that the settled possession of even a person in unlawful possession cannot be disturbed `forcibly' by the true owner taking law in his own hands. All these expressions, however, mean the same thing --ejectment from settled possession can only be had by recourse to a court of law. Clearly, `due process of law' or `due course of law', here, simply mean that a person in settled possession cannot be ejected without a court of law having adjudicated upon his rights qua the true owner.

Now, this `due process' or `due course' condition is satisfied the moment the rights of the parties are adjudicated upon by a court of competent jurisdiction. It does not matter who brought the action to court. It could be the owner in an action for enforcement of his right to eject the person in unlawful possession. It could be the person who is sought to be ejected, in an action preventing the owner from ejecting him. Whether the action is for enforcement of a right (recovery of possession) or protection of a right (injunction against dispossession), is not of much consequence. What is important is that in either event it is an action before the court and the court adjudicates upon it. If that is done then, the `bare minimum' requirement of `due process' or `due course' of law would stand satisfied as recourse to law would have been taken. In this context, when a party approaches a court seeking a protective remedy such as an injunction and it fails in setting up a good case, can it then say that the other party must now institute an action in a court of law for enforcing his rights i.e., for taking back something from the first party who holds it unlawfully, and, till such time, the court hearing the injunction action must grant an injunction anyway? I would think not. In any event, the `recourse to law' stipulation stands satisfied when a judicial determination is made with regard to the first party's protective action. Thus, in the present case, the Plaintiff's failure to make out a case for an injunction does not mean that its consequent cessation of user of the said two rooms would have been brought about without recourse to law."

58. The Hon'ble Supreme Court placing reliance of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Delhi High Court in the case of Thomas Cook (supra), reiterated the same position of law in the case of Maria Margarida Sequeira Fernandes (supra) by holding thus:

"79. Due process of law means nobody ought to be condemned unheard. The due process of law means a person in settled possession will not be dispossessed except by due process of law. Due process means an opportunity for the Defendant to file pleadings including written statement and documents before the Court of law. It does not mean the whole trial. Due process of law is satisfied the moment rights of the parties are adjudicated by a competent Court.

97. Principles of law which emerge in this case are crystallized as under:

1. No one acquires title to the property if he or she was allowed to stay in the premises gratuitously. Even by long possession of years or decades such person would not acquire any right or interest in the said property.

2. Caretaker, watchman or servant can never acquire interest in the property irrespective of his long possession. The caretaker or servant has to give possession forthwith on demand.

3. The Courts are not justified in protecting the possession of a caretaker, servant or any person who was allowed to live in the premises for some time either as a friend, relative, caretaker or as a servant.

4. The protection of the Court can only be granted or extended to the person who has valid, subsisting rent agreement, lease agreement or license agreement in his favour.

5. The caretaker or agent holds property of the principal only on behalf of the principal. He acquires no right or interest whatsoever for himself in such property irrespective of his long stay or possession."

59. In the wake of the preceding narrative, the substantial question of law no. 2, is answered as follows:

A. The learned appellate court acted in conformity with law by granting the decree of eviction against the plaintiff-appellant and in favour of the defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 on the counterclaim of the latter. The defendant no. 2-respondent no. 2 was not required to file a separate suit for eviction of the plaintiff-appellant.

B. The import of the phrase "eviction in accordance with law" in a matter where the claim of eviction of an unauthorized occupant is made by the true owner, mandates the courts to adjudicate such claim within the following stipulated periods of time:

a. The suit for eviction or counterclaim for eviction, as the case may be, shall be decided within a period of one year from the date of institution of such suit or claim in all circumstances.

b. The appeal against such decree shall be decided within a period of four months from the date of institution of such appeal.

c. The execution case shall be decided and the decree shall be executed within a period of six months from the date of institution of the execution proceedings.

d. If necessary, the court shall proceed with the hearing on day to day basis to ensure strict compliance with the aforesaid timeline in all circumstances.

60. The second appeal is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashutosh Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri K.R. Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the respondent no. 3.

2. Both the appeals are admittedly arising out of the same acquisition proceedings and learned counsel appearing for both the parties agree that the appeals may be decided together by taking the First Appeal No. 692 of 2001 as a leading case.

3. First Appeal No. 692 of 2001 has been filed challenging the judgment and order dated 19.2.2001 passed by Additional District Judge, Court No. 4, Gorakhpur in Land Acquisition Reference No. 150 of 1987 (Smt. Tasneem and others vs. State of U.P. and others) arising out of LA Case No. 32/8 of 1986 in respect of acquisition of land in Village Daudpur Tappa, Pargana Haveli, Tehsil Sadar, District Gorakhpur.

4. Plot Nos. 169/2 and 167/2 total area 3.78 acres were acquired by the Gorakhpur Development Authority for the purpose of development of IInd Phase Ramgarh Tal Pariyojana of Gorakhpur Development Authority. Notification under Section 4(1) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as the Act) was issued on 14.5.1983. Notification under Section 6(1) of the Act was issued on 5.5.1986. Possession was taken on 28.10.1986. The Special Land Acquisition Officer (hereinafter referred to as SLAO) vide award dated 7.10.1986 awarded compensation @ Rs. 1,24,193.53. Not being satisfied with the compensation awarded by the SLAO the claimants herein filed LAR No. 150 of 1987. Several other references were also filed against the impugned award. LAR No. 150 of 1987 was taken as a leading case. The reference was dismissed in toto by the reference court mainly on the ground that the exempler sale deed dated 1.7.1982 relied on by the SLAO for determination of market value was correctly relied on. Certified copies of the sale deed dated 9.12.1982 Ex. 4 (wrongly mentioned as 22.11.1982) in respect of Plot No. 225 filed by the claimants was discarded on the ground that the vendor and vendee were not examined. Another sale deed dated 9.2.1981 Ex. 5 (wrongly mentioned as 10.10.1980) in respect of Plot No. 125/1 area 1890 sq. ft. filed by the claimants was discarded on the ground that it was for a very small piece of area.

5. Submission of learned counsel for the appellant is that extremely low award @ Rs. 2.84 per sq. ft. has been awarded by the SLAO as against Rs. 60/- per sq. ft. claimed by the claimants. He further submits that even assuming that the land acquired was agricultural in nature, it has great potentiality because of its location as the same is located in the heart of city of Gorakhpur. He further submits that it is not in dispute that the land was acquired for the purpose of construction of open area theatre, hotel, restaurant, cafeteria, aquarium, bird santuary, children park, petrol pump, skating rink stadium, deer park, camping ground etc., which itself goes to prove that the acquisition was for the purpose of further developing developed area and as such the claimants were entitled to higher rate of compensation than what was determined by the SLAO. The court below has miserably failed to take note of these aspects of the matter which has vitiated the entire judgment and order. He further submits that oral evidence of DW-1 itself is sufficient to prove that the land was in close proximity to the heart of the city. Apart from the facts that have been asserted regarding potentiality of the land and its proximity with the city it has further been submitted that the exempler sale deed dated 1.7.1982, relied on by the SLAO for determination of market value and as affirmed by the reference court, is not even on record and therefore, merely because the same was included in the list of documents it could not have been relied on by the SLAO for determination of market value. He further submits that his certified copies of sale deed dated 9.12.1982 Ex. 4 were discarded on the ground that the vendor and vendee were not examined. He submits that the law in this regard is well settled and Section 51-A of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as the Act) clearly provides that such exempler sale deed could have been relied on or at least was liable to be considered even without examining the vendor and vendee.

6. Broadly speaking, the submission of learned counsel for the appellant is two fold: (1) the SLAO has relied on the exempler sale deed dated 1.7.1982, which is not even on record and therefore, it was no evidence in the eye of law, which could have been relied on by the SLAO for determining the market value of the acquired land and; (2) the exempler given by the claimants has incorrectly been discarded on the ground that vendor and vendee were not examined, which is contrary to the law settled by the Hon'ble Apex Court. He also sought to make submission for the purpose of determination of market value as per Section 23 of the Act.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on judgments on Hon'ble Apex Court in the cases of Union of India vs. Dyagala Devamma and others 2018 (11) SCC 485, Vinod Bansal vs. State of Haryana and another 2013 (5) SCC 622, Mehrawal Khewaji Trust (registered) Faridkot and others vs. State of Punjab and others 2012 (5) SCC 432, Mahesh Dattatray Thirthkar vs. State of Maharashtra 2009 (11) SCC 141, Lal Chand vs. Union of India 2009 (15) SCC 760, Chimanlal Hargovinddas vs. Special Land Acquisition Officer Poona of Punjab and others 1988 (3) SCC 751, Vijay Kumar Moti Lal vs. State Maharashtra 1981 (2) SCC 719 and State of Haryana vs. Ram Singh 2001 (6) SCC 254.

8. Per contra, Sri K.R. Singh, learned counsel appearing for the acquiring body Gorakhpur Development Authority, insofar as first argument is concerned, fairly admitted that the exempler sale deed dated 1.7.1982 is not on record of the court below. He, however, submits that since the details of such sale deed were available and therefore, no illegality was committed by the SLAO in placing reliance on the same for the purpose of determination of market value and reference court has rightly rejected the reference in toto. Insofar as rejection of certified copies of the exempler sale deeds dated 9.12.1982 Ex. 4 submitted by the claimants is concerned, he submits that the sale deeds were rightly discarded as the contents of the sale deed were not produced by producing the vendor and vendee. He submits that it is the discretion of the authority / court to place reliance on the same or not. He submits that in the present case the SLAO as well as the reference court did not find safe to place reliance on the same in absence of examination of vendor and vendee and therefore, no interference is required in the impugned judgment.

9. I have considered the rival submissions and have perused the record.

10. In this appeal two questions arise for consideration. One, whether the exempler sale deed that has been relied on by the SLAO for determination of the market value, is part of the part of the record or not, if not, can it said to be a piece of evidence; two, whether certified copy of the exempler sale deed dated 9.12.1982 relied on by the claimants was acceptable in evidence even without examining the vendor and vendee in view of Section 51-A of the Act?

11. Apart from the rulings that have been relied on by learned counsel for the appellant I have also gone through the judgments rendered in the cases of Krishan Kumar vs. Union of India and others 2015 (1) SCC 220, Himmat Singh and others vs. State of M.P. and others 2013 (16) SCC 392, A.P. Housing Board vs. K. Manohar Reddy and others 2010 (12) SCC 707, Lal Chand vs. Union of India and others 2009 (15) SCC 769, Deputy Collector, Land Acquisition, Gujarat and others vs. Madhubai Gobarbhai and others 2009 (15) SCC 125, Cement Corporation of India Limited vs. Purya and others 2004 (8) SCC 270 (5 Judges Constitutional Bench), Land Acquisition Officer and Mandal Revenue Officer 2001 (3) SCC 530, Ram Phal and others vs. State of U.P. and others 2019 (5) ADJ 649, Vimal Kumar Misra and others vs. Collector Mainpuri and others 2019 (4) ADJ 463, Bajaj Hindustan Limited vs. Rajendra Singh and others 2019 (1) ADJ 271, Jasvir Singh vs. Land Acquisition Officer, Rampur and another 2014 SCC Online All 15658 and Indian Oil Corporation Limited vs. Risal Singh and others Manu/Ph/0073/2019.

12. Before considering the arguments regarding potentiality of the land and proximity of exempler sale deed in time and situation, it would be appropriate to deal with the question as to whether the exempler sale deed that has been relied on by the SLAO for determination of the market value, is part of the part of the record or not, if not, can it said to be a piece of evidence? Suffice to note that exempler relied on by the SLAO for determination of market value compensation of Rs. 1,16,666.67 per acre in respect of Plot No. 261/1 area 0.03 acres, as admitted to Sri K.R. Singh, learned counsel appearing for the Development Authority that this exempler is not part of the record, therefore, could not have been considered by the reference court. Once the document is not part of the record, mere availability of the details of the documents could not have been treated to be part of the evidence for the purpose of determining market value as it is not a piece of evidence in the eye of law. In other words, on the part of the respondent Development Authority, there was no primary or secondary evidence available on record and hence reliance placed on the same was absolutely misplaced.

13. A reference may be made in this regard to various provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. Section 3 of the Evidence Act provides as to what is "evidence". Chapter V contains provision regarding documentary evidence. Section 61 provides that the contents of documents may be proved either by primary or by secondary evidence. Section 62 provides what is primary evidence. Section 63 provides what is secondary evidence. Section 64 clearly provides that documents must be proved by primary evidence except in the cases hereinafter mentioned and Section 65 contains in which cases secondary evidence can be given. For ready reference, these provisions are quoted as under:-

"3. Interpretation clause.- .....

"Evidence" - "Evidence" means and includes-

(1) all statements which the Court permits or requires to be made before it by witnesses, in relation to matters of fact under inquiry; such statements are called oral evidence;

(2) [all document including electronic records produced for the inspection of the Court], such statements are called documentary evidence;

61. Proof of contents of documents.- The contents of documents may be proved either by primary or secondary evidence.

62. Primary evidence.- Primary evidence means the documents itself produced for the inspection of the Court.

Explanation 1- Where a document is executed in several parts, each part is primary evidence of the document :

Where a document is executed in counterpart, each counterpart being executed by one or some of the parties only, each counterpart is primary evidence as against the parties executing it.

Explanation 2- Where a number of documents are all made by one uniform process, as in the case of printing, lithography, or photography, each is primary evidence of the contents of the rest ; but, where they are all copies of a common original, they are not primary evidence of the contents of the original.

63. Secondary evidence.- Secondary evidence means and includes--

(1) certified copies given under the provisions hereinafter contained;

(2) Copies made from the original by mechanical processes which in themselves ensure the accuracy of the copy, and copies compared with such copies.

(3) copies made from or compared with the original ;

(4) counterparts of documents as against the parties who did not execute them;

(5) oral accounts of the contents of a documents given by some person who has himself seen it.

64. Proof of documents by primary evidence.- Documents must be proved by primary evidence except in the cases hereinafter mentioned.

65. Cases in which secondary evidence relating to documents may be given.- Secondary evidence may be given of the existence, condition, or contents of a documents in the following cases:-

(a) When the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power-- of the person against whom the document is sought to be proved , or of any person out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court or of any person legally bound to produce it, and when, after the notice mentioned in section 66, such person does not produce it;

(b) when the existence, condition or contents of the original have been proved to be admitted in writing by the person against whom it is proved or by his representative in interest;

(c) when the original has been destroyed or lost, or when the party offering evidence of its contents cannot, for any other reason not arising from his own default or neglect, produce it in reasonable time;

(d) when the original is of such a nature as not to be easily movable;

(e) when the original is public document within the meaning of section 74;

(f) when the original is a document of which a certified copy is permitted by this Act, or by any other law in force in 40[India] to be given in evidence ;

(g) when the originals consist of numerous accounts or other documents which cannot conveniently be examined in court and the fact to be proved it the general result of the whole collection.

In cases (a), (c) and (d), any secondary evidence of the contents of the document is admissible.

In case (b), the written admission is admissible.

In case (e) or (f), a certified copy of the document, but no other kind of secondary evidence, admissible.

In case (g), evidence may be given as to the general result of the documents by any person who has examined them, and who is skilled in the examination of such documents."

14. Clearly, if the Development Authority was placing reliance on a sale deed, either original should have been produced or its certified copy could have been filed, which, as per Section 51-A of the Act was acceptable in evidence without examination of vendor and vendee (as discussed in later part of this judgment). Clearly, the contents of the exempler sale deed, i.e. the document, were not proved in accordance with the aforesaid provisions of the Evidence Act. In fact, admittedly, the document itself was not on record. Therefore, the conclusion drawn in the preceding paragraphs is inescapable.

15. Learned counsel for the respondent had submitted that the court below rightly rejected the exempler sale deed (Ex. 4) submitted by the claimants and there was cogent evidence on record to reject the reference in toto.

16. Insofar as the second question and rejection of exempler sale deed dated 9.12.1982 submitted by the claimants in respect of Plot No. 225 is concerned, as held by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Cement Corporation of India Limited (supra) in view of Section 51-A of the Act such documents are acceptable in evidence even without examination of vendor and vendee. Section 51-A of the Act is quoted as under:-

"51 A. Acceptance of certified copy as evidence- In any proceeding under this Act, a certified copy of a document registered under the Registration Act, 1908 (16 of 1908), including a copy given under section 57 of that Act be accepted as evidence of the transaction recorded in such-document."

17. Paragraphs 2, 18, 20.21, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 31, 32, 35, 36, 37 and 39 of the Cement Corporation of India Limited (supra) are quoted as under:-

"2. In Kurra Sambasiva Rao's case (supra), this Court held that by introducing Section 51A in the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter LA Act) the Legislature only facilitated the parties concerned to produce a certified copy of a sale transaction in evidence and nothing more. This is what the Court observed in the said case:

"Section 51-A only dispenses with the production of the original sale deed and directs to receive certified copy for the reason that parties to the sale transaction would be reluctant to part with the original sale deed since acquisition proceedings would take long time before award of the compensation attains finality and in the meanwhile the owner of the sale deed is precluded from using the same for other purposes vis-a-vis this land. The marking of the certified copy per se is not admissible in evidence unless it is duly proved and the witnesses, viz., the vendor or the vendee, are examined."

18. From the above, it is seen that till the judgment of the three Judge Bench in V. Narasaiah's case (supra), the consensus of judicial opinion was that Section 51A was enacted for the limited purpose of enabling a party to produce certified copy of a registered sale transaction in evidence only and for proving the contents of the said document the parties had to lead oral evidence as contemplated in the Evidence Act.

20. The above view of the Court in Kurra Sambasiva Rao's case, in our opinion, is not the correct position in law. Even prior to the insertion of Section 51A of the Act the provisions of the Evidence Act and the Registration Act did permit the production of a certified copy in evidence. This has been clearly noticed in the judgment in Narsaiah's case wherein the court relying on Sections 64 and 65(f) of the Evidence Act read with Section 57(5) of the Registration Act held that production of a certified copy of a registered sale document in evidence was permissible in law even prior to insertion of Section 51A in the LA Act. We are in agreement with the said view expressed by this Court in Narasaiah's case.

21. In the above background the question for our consideration would be, what then is the real object of inserting 51A in LA Act?

24. The terms 'primary and secondary evidence' apply to the kinds of proof that may be given to the contents of a document, irrespective of the purpose for which such contents, when proved, may be received. Primary evidence is an evidence which the law requires to be given first; secondary evidence is evidence which may be given in the absence of that better evidence when a proper explanation of its absence has been given. However, there are exceptions to the aforementioned rule.

25. Section 51A of the Land Acquisition Act seeks to make an exception to the aforementioned rule.

26. In the acquisition proceedings, sale deeds are required to be brought on records for the purpose of determining market value payable to the owner of the land when it is sought to be acquired.

27. Although by reason of the aforementioned provision the parties are free to produce original documents and prove the same in accordance with the terms of the rules of evidence as envisaged under the Indian Evidence Act the LA Act provides for an alternative thereto by inserting the said provision in terms whereof the certified copies which are otherwise secondary evidence may be brought on record evidencing a transaction. Such transactions in terms of the aforementioned provision may be accepted in evidence. Acceptance of an evidence is not a term of art. It has an etymological meaning. It envisages exercise of judicial mind to the materials on record. Acceptance of evidence by a court would be dependent upon the facts of the case and other relevant factors. A piece of evidence in a given situation may be accepted by a court of law but in another it may not be.

28. Section 51A of the L.A. Act may be read literally and having regard to the ordinary meaning which can be attributed to the term 'acceptance of evidence' relating to transaction evidenced by a sale deed, its admissibility in evidence would be beyond any question. We are not oblivious of the fact that only by bringing a documentary evidence in the record it is not automatically brought on the record. For bringing a documentary evidence on the record, the same must not only be admissible but the contents thereof must be proved in accordance with law. But when the statute enables a court to accept a sale deed on the records evidencing a transaction, nothing further is required to be done. The admissibility of a certified copy of sale deed by itself could not be held to be inadmissible as thereby a secondary evidence has been brought on record without proving the absence of primary evidence. Even the vendor or vendee thereof is not required to examine themselves for proving the contents thereof. This, however, would not mean that contents of the transaction as evidenced by the registered sale deed would automatically be accepted. The legislature advisedly has used the word 'may'. A discretion, therefore, has been conferred upon a court to be exercised judicially, i.e., upon taking into consideration the relevant factors.

29. In V.Narasaiah's case, this Court correctly understood the said scope and object of insertion of Section 51A in the LA Act when it held thus :

"It was in the wake of the aforesaid practical difficulties that the new Section 51A was introduced in the LA Act. When the section says that certified copy of a registered document "may be accepted as evidence of the transaction recorded in such document" it enables the court to treat what is recorded in the document, in respect of the transactions referred to therein, as evidence."

31. Thus, the reasoning of this Court in Narasaiah's case that Section 51A enables the party producing the certified copy of a sale transaction to rely on the contents of the document without having to examine the vendee or the vendor of that document is the correct position in law. This finding in Narasaiah's case is also supported by the decision of this Court in the case of Mangaldas Raghavji Ruparel (supra).

32. Therefore, we have no hesitation in accepting this view of the court in the Narasaiah's case as the correct view.

35. A registered document in terms of Section 51A of the Act may carry therewith a presumption of genuineness. Such a presumption, therefore, is rebuttable. Raising a presumption, therefore, does not amount to proof; it only shifts the burden of proof against whom the presumption operates for disproving it. Only if the presumption is not rebutted by discharging the burden, the court may act on the basis of such presumption. Even when in terms of the Evidence Act a provision has been made that the court shall presume a fact, the same by itself would not be irrebuttable or conclusive. The genuineness of a transaction can always fall for adjudication, if any question is raised in this behalf.

36. Similar is the view taken by this Court in V. Narasaiah's case wherein this Court held thus :-

"the words "may be accepted as evidence" in the Section indicate that there is no compulsion on the court to accept such transaction as evidence, but it is open to the court to treat them as evidence. Merely accepting them as evidence does not mean that the court is bound to treat them as reliable evidence. What is sought to be achieved is that the transactions recorded in the documents may be treated as evidence, just like any other evidence, and it is for the court to weigh all the pros and cons to decide whether such transaction can be relied on for understanding the real price of the land concerned".

37. Having noticed the scope of Section 51A of the LA Act as understood by this Court in V. Narasaiah's case to be the correct interpretation, we will now consider whether such evidence is mandatorly binding on the authority or the court concerned or it is only an enabling provision.

39. While it is clear that under Section 51A of the LA Act a presumption as to the genuineness of the contents of the document is permitted to be raised, the same can be relied upon only if the said presumption is not rebutted by other evidence. In the said view of the matter we are of the opinion the decision of this Court in the case of Land Acquisition Officer & Mandal Revenue Officer vs. V. Narasaiah (supra) lays down the correct law."

18. In view of the aforesaid Five Judges constitutional Bench I do not wish to burden my judgment by referring to other judgments. Suffice to note that subsequent to the aforesaid judgment the stand taken by Hon'ble Apex Court as well as by Hon'ble Division and Hon'ble Single Judge of this Court on interpretation of Section 51-A of the Act is consistent in nature and is in the line of the aforesaid judgment.

19. I have also noticed the fact that the impugned judgment was passed by the reference court on 19.2.2001 and till that date the judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Special Deputy Collector vs. Kurra Sambasiva Rao 1997 (6) SCC 41 was holding field as the judgment in the case of Land Acquisition Officer and Mandal Revenue Officer vs. V. Narasaiah 2001 (3) SCC 530 was rendered subsequently on 27.2.2001. In such view of the matter, it cannot be said that at that point of time the reference court has taken illegal view in the matter in rejecting the exempler sale deed dated 9.12.1982 (Ex. 4) submitted by the claimants. However, in Cement Corporation of India Limited (supra) after taking into account the contrary view taken in the case of Kurra Sambasiva Rao (supra) and V. Narasaiah (supra) it has been held that such document is admissible in evidence. A presumption as to the genuineness of the contents of1-16 the document is permitted to be raised and the same can be relied upon only if the said presumption is not rebutted by any other evidence.

20. There is a presumption of genuineness regarding such registered document in view of Section 51-A of the Act, however, in Cement Corporation of India Limited (supra) Hon'ble Apex Court has also considered as to whether such evidence is mandatorily binding on the authority or court or it is only an enabling provision. It was held that it is clear that under Section 51-A of the Act a presumption as to the genuineness of the contents of the document is permitted to be raised, the same can be relied upon only if the said presumption is not rebutted by other evidence. The view taken in V. Narasaiah (supra) held to be the correct evidence.

21. In the present case, from perusal of record, I find that there was no evidence in rebuttal regarding such presumption. The evidence that was considered by the reference court is, admittedly, not on record of the reference court.

22. In such view of the matter, it is clear that on one hand, now the law is settled that the certified copy of the registered sale deed (Ex. 4) dated 9.12.1982 could not have been rejected merely because vendor and vendee were not examined, and on the other hand, the court below has relied on the contents of a document, which is not on record and therefore, there is no evidence in rebuttal in the eye of law to form opinion or basis for the compensation awarded.

23. In Vinod Bansal (supra) Hon'ble Apex Court after dealing with the provision of Section 51-A of the Act remanded back the matter to the reference court for fresh disposal. Paragraphs 7, 8 and 9 of the aforesaid judgment are quoted as under:-

"7. Since there was conflict of decisions as regards receiving of certified copies of sale deeds in evidence in view of Sections 51-A of the Act and the position of law not being clear, the learned Single Judge of the High Court took the view that Section 51-A of the Act nowhere provides that certified copy of a registered document not properly proved can be admitted in evidence; Section 51-A of the Act only makes a certified copy of the document obtained from the registering officer admissible in evidence without production of their originals; but unless either the vendor or the vendee has been examined as witness to testify not only the consideration paid but also their specific knowledge and the circumstances in which the sale deed came to be executed, nearness to the lands, etc. the sale deeds cannot be relied on to determine the market value of the acquired lands. The learned Single Judge also held that the learned Additional District Judge had not committed any illegality in saying that the sale deeds were not admissible in evidence.

8. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and after perusing the orders of the Reference Court, the learned Single Judge and the impugned orders, particularly, keeping in view the legal position as to the admissibility of certified copies of sale deeds in evidence in the light of the legal position stated by the Constitution Bench in Cement Corpn. of India Ltd. v. Purya aforementioned, we are satisfied that the matters are required to be remitted to the Reference Court for fresh disposal.

9. The Reference Court has to reappreciate the evidence which it had considered earlier, uninfluenced by observations made in the judgments of the learned Single Judge and the Division Bench of the High Court, including the certified copies of the sale deeds in the light of the Constitution Bench decision in Cement Corpn. of India Ltd. v. Purya5 explaining the position of law in relation to Section 51-A of the Act. The parties shall not be permitted either to produce any additional documents or lead any further evidence except rebuttal evidence in regard to certified copies of the sale deeds already produced to the extent indicated in the Constitution Bench judgment Court."

24. In the case of Dyagala Devamma (supra) Hon'ble Apex Court while considering the landmark judgment Hon'ble Apex Court in Chimanlal Hargovinddas vs. Special Land Acquisition Officer, Poona and another 1988 (3) SCC 751 reiterated what broad principles of law relating to acquisition of land under the Act should be kept in consideration to determine the proper market value. The factor which must be taken into consideration to assess the valuation of land under the Act were laid down in paragraph 4 of Chimanlal Hargovinddas (supra), which is quoted as under:-

"4. The following factors must be etched on the mental screen:

(1) A reference under section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act is not an appeal against the award and the Court cannot take into account the material relied upon by the Land Acquisition officer in his Award unless the same material is produced and proved before the Court.

(2) So also the Award of the Land Acquisition officer is not to be treated as a judgment of the trial Court open or exposed to challenge before the Court hearing the Reference. It is merely an offer made by the Land Acquisition officer and the material utilised by him for making his valuation cannot be utilised by the Court unless produced and proved before it. It is not the function of the Court to suit in appeal against the Award, approve or disapprove its reasoning, or correct its error or affirm, modify or reverse the conclusion reached by the Land Acquisition officer, as if it were an appellate court.

(3) The Court has to treat the reference as an original proceeding before it and determine the market value afresh on the basis of the material produced before it.

(4) The claimant is in the position of a plaintiff who has to show that the price offered for his land in the award is inadequate on the basis of the materials produced in the Court. Of course the materials placed and proved by the other side can also be taken into account for this purpose. (5) The market value of land under acquisition has to be determined as on the crucial date of publication of the notification under sec. 4 of the Land Acquisition Act (dates of Notifications under secs. 6 and 9 are irrelevant).

(6) The determination has to be made standing on the date line of valuation (date of publication of notification under sec. 4) as if the valuer is a hypothetical purchaser willing to purchase land from the open market and is prepared to pay a reasonable price as on that day. It has also to be assumed that the vendor is willing to sell the land at a reasonable price.

(7) In doing so by the instances method, the Court has to correlate the market value reflected in the most comparable instance which provides the index of market value.

(8) only genuine instances have to be taken into account. (Some times instances are rigged up in anticipation of Acquisition of land). (9) Even post notification instances can be taken into account (1) if they are very proximate,(2) genuine and (3) the acquisition itself has not motivated the purchaser to pay a higher price on account of the resultant improvement in development prospects.

(l0) The most comparable instances out of the genuine instances have to be identified on the following considerations:

(i) proximity from time angle,

(ii) proximity from situation angle.

(11) Having identified the instances which provide the index of market value the price reflected therein may be taken as the norm and the market value of the land under acquisition may be deduced by making suitable adjustments for the plus and minus factors vis-a-vis land under acquisition by placing the two in juxtaposition.

(12) A balance-sheet of plus and minus factors may be drawn for this purpose and the relevant factors may be evaluated in terms of price variation as a prudent purchaser would do.

(13) The market value of the land under acquisition has there after to be deduced by loading the price reflected in the instance taken as norm for plus factors and unloading it for minus factors (14) The exercise indicated in clauses (11) to (13) has to be undertaken in a common sense manner as a prudent man of the world of business would do. We may illustrate some such illustrative (not exhaustive) factors:

Plus factors	Minus factors
1. smallness of size	1. largeness of area

2. proximity to a road. 2. situation in the interior at a distances from the Road.
3. frontage on a road. 3. narrow strip of land with very small frontage compared to death.
4. nearness to developed area.
4. lower level requiring the depressed portion to be filled up.
5. regular shape 5. remoteness from developed locality
6. level vis-a-vis land under acquisition 6. some special disadvantageous factor which would deter a purchaser
7. special value for an owner of an adjoining property to whom it may have some very special advantage.

(15) The evaluation of these factors of course depends on the facts of each case. There cannot be any hard and fast or rigid rule. Common sense is the best and most reliable guide. For instance, take the factor regarding the size. A building plot of land say 500 to 1000 sq. yds cannot be compared with a large tract or block of land of say l000 sq. yds or more. Firstly while a smaller plot is within the reach of many, a large block of land will have to be developed by preparing a lay out, carving out roads, leaving open space, plotting out smaller plots, waiting for purchasers (meanwhile the invested money will be blocked up) and the hazards of an entrepreneur. The factor can be discounted by making a deduction by way of an allowance at an appropriate rate ranging approx. between 20% to 50% to account for land required to be set apart for carving out lands and plotting out small plots. The discounting will to some extent also depend on whether it is a rural area or urban area, whether building activity is picking up, and whether waiting period during which the capital of the entrepreneur would be looked up, will be longer or shorter and the attendant hazards.

(16) Every case must be dealt with on its own facts pattern bearing in mind all these factors as a prudent purchaser of land in which position the Judge must place himself.

(17) These are general guidelines to be applied with understanding informed with common sense."

25. Under such circumstances, this Court is not inclined to go into the determination of market value in this appeal and is of the opinion that it would be appropriate to remand back the matter to the reference court for decision afresh.

26. As held in paragraph 9 of Vinod Bansal (supra) the parties shall not be permitted either to produce any additional evidence or lead any further evidence except rebuttal evidence in regard to certified copies of the sale deeds already produced to the extent indicated in the Constitution Bench judgment in Cement Corporation of India Limited (supra).

27. The impugned judgment dated 19.2.2001 passed by the reference court is hereby set aside. Matter is accordingly remanded back to the reference court for decision afresh on its own merits as per the law discussed above.

28. In view of the above both the appeals stand allowed.

List of cases cited: -

1. Jagat Pal Singh Vs. St. of U.P. 1994 revenue decisions page 429

(Delivered by Hon'ble Harsh Kumar, J.)

1. The instant appeal has been filed against the judgment and decree passed by IIIrd Additional District Judge, Bijnor on 28.07.1998 in Civil Appeal No.112 of 1998 (Tajendra Singh and another Vs. Harcharan and Another) setting aside the judgment and decree passed by the trial court on 16.03.1988 in Civil Suit No.257 of 1989 and decreeing the suit of plaintiffs.

2. The brief facts relating to the case are that defendant/respondent nos.1 and 2 filed Civil Suit No.257 of 1989 in the court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Bijnor against defendant No.4 for obtaining (i) a decree for setting aside the auction of Plot No.80 area 13 Bigha 5 Biswas situated in village Turatpur Pargana Afzalgarh, Tehsil Nagina, District Bijnor and (ii) a decree for permanent injunction restraining defendant nos.1 to 4, their servants and agents from interfering in peaceful possession of plaintiffs over the land in dispute.

3. As per averments made in plaint, the plaintiffs and defendant No.5 borrowed a sum of Rs.48,000/- from State of Bank of India in the year 1979 for purchase of a tractor and upon default in payment of loan, the land in suit was auctioned without notice to plaintiffs, without following procedure laid down by law, and by conducting auction proceedings in surreptitiously and fraudulently at a place, distant from land in suit auctioned and different to the place mentioned in sale proclamation; that the alleged sale could have been confirmed only by the Collector, who has not passed any order of confirmation and since, the proceedings were conducted surreptitiously in fraudulent manner, the auction proceedings are liable to be set aside; that defendant no.5 is in collusion with defendant nos.1 to 4.

4. The defendant nos. 1 to 4 filed written statement denying the allegations of plaint and contending that the suit is liable to be dismissed with costs.

5. On parties pleadings trial court framed as many as 12 issues and in view of its findings on various issues, dismissed the suit of plaintiffs with costs vide judgement and decree dated 16.03.1988.

6. Against the judgment and decree passed by the trial court plaintiffs filed Civil Appeal No.112 of 1998 before the District Judge, Bijnor, which was transferred to the court of IIIrd Additional District Judge Bijnor and was allowed by it vide impugned judgement and decree dated 28.07.1998 setting aside the judgement and decree dated 16.03.1988 passed by trial court and decreeing suit of plaintiffs. Feeling aggrieved defendant nos.1 to 4 have preferred this appeal.

7. The instant appeal was admitted vide order dated 20.08.1998 on following 3 substantial questions of law, mentioned at page 7 of the memo of appeal, which are as under:-

"1. Whether the suit of the plaintiffs was barred by section 11 C.P.C. and the lower appellate court was justified to reverse the decree of trial court without considering the arguments raised on behalf of the appellant on this point?

2. Whether the suit of the plaintiffs respondent was barred by time and the lower appellate court was justified to reverse the decree of lower appellate court without considering this aspect of the matter?

3. Whether the lower appellate court was justified to reverse the decree, though fraud neither pleaded nor proved by the plaintiff?"

8. Heard Sri P.N. Saxena, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Amit, learned counsel for the defendants/appellants (hereinafter referred as defendants), Sri H.N. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Som Veer, learned counsel for the plaintiffs/respondents (hereinafter referred as plaintiffs) and perused the record as well as the lower court record summoned in appeal.

9. Learned counsel for the defendants contended that lower appellate court acted wrongly and illegally in setting aside judgement and decree of dismissal of suit passed by the trial court by allowing the appeal and decreeing the plaintiffs' suit and setting aside auction proceedings; that plaintiffs had raised objections before the S.D.O., which were rejected and appeal before the Commissioner was also dismissed; that the writ filed against the order of Commissioner was dismissed with liberty to file civil suit; that lower appellate court acted wrongly in holding that procedure prescribed by law was not followed by revenue authorities, in conducting the auction proceedings; that lower appellate court failed to consider that procedure of law laid down for "recovery of arrears of land revenue" is different from procedure for "recovery of money as arrears of land revenue"; that the procedure prescribed under Sections 279 to 286 (1) of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (hereinafter referred as Z.A. Act) is applicable to cases of recovery of arrears of land revenue, but same procedure is not applicable in matters of recovery of unpaid amount of loan etc., recoverable as arrears of land revenue, for which procedure mentioned only under Sections 286 (2) of Z.A. Act is applicable; that for recovery of money as arrears of land revenue no notice is required to be served upon plaintiffs-respondents, who were borrowers and defaulters of Bank loan as Section 286(2) does not contemplate service of any such notice; that plaintiffs and defendant No.5 were joint borrowers and defendant No.5 was duly served with notice of recovery under Section 279 of Z.A. Act of which, his brothers, the plaintiffs had full knowledge; that the plaintiffs have neither pleaded nor proved fraud if any played on them in conducting of the auction proceedings; that the objections of plaintiffs with regard to alleged irregularities or mistakes in conducting the auction proceedings having been rejected by revenue courts, could not have been considered in civil suit, being barred by provisions of Rule 285 K of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules, 1952 (hereinafter referred as Z.A. Rules); that the suit was barred by time as well as by provisions of Section 11 of Civil Procedure Code and learned lower appellate court acted wrongly and illegally in not holding that the suit was barred by above provisions; that lower appellate court was not justified in reversing the decree passed by trial court, in absence of pleadings or proof of fraud; that the impugned judgment and decree are liable to be set aside, judgement and decree passed by trial court is liable to be restored and suit of plaintiffs is liable to be dismissed.

10. Per contra, learned counsel for the plaintiffs supported the impugned judgement and decree and contended that the judgement and decree passed by lower appellate court are based on correct interpretation of provisions of law; that lower appellate court has rightly held that in conducting impugned auction, procedure prescribed by law was not followed; that it was not only proved from the evidence on record, but was also admitted to defendants-appellants auction purchasers that the auction of land in dispute did not take place at village Turatpur over land in suit, the place mentioned in alleged proclamation, rather was conducted at village Qadarbad, a distant place, which is against the spirit and procedure prescribed under law; that Rule 285A of Z.A. Rules provides that every sale under Sections 284 and 286 shall be made either by Collector in person or by an assistant Collector specially appointed by him in his behalf but Rule 285-J provides that order confirming the sale shall be passed by Collector only; that it is clear from above provisions that Assistant Collector was not empowered under law, to confirm the auction sale; that undisputably, in instant case, Collector has not passed any order confirming the auction sale and the order of confirmation of sale passed by Assistant Collector is wrong illegal and without authority which is no order in the eye of law and so the alleged auction sale may not be considered to have been confirmed in accordance with law and the proceedings of alleged delivery of possession over the disputed property are fake and fictitious having no legal value; that arguments advanced on behalf of appellant, that procedure for recovery of money as arrears of land revenue is confined only to provisions of Section 286 (2) of Z.A. Act read with Rule 282 of Z.A. Rules and that provisions prescribed under Sections 279 to 286 (1) of Z.A. Act applicable only to cases of "recovery of arrears of land revenue", but not in matters of "recovery of money as arrears of land revenue" is highly misconceived and mistaken; that the trial court was misguided by defendants; that the appeal has been filed with absolutely false and baseless allegations wherein no substantial question of law arises and is liable to be dismissed with costs.

11. Upon hearing learned counsel for the parties and perusal of record as well as the lower court record, which has been summoned in the appeal, I find that the submissions made on behalf of appellant that the procedure for "recovery of arrears of land revenue" is totally different from procedure "for recovery of money as arrears of land revenue" is entirely different has no force. It is noteworthy that legislation has laid down a procedure "for recovery of arrears of land revenue" and same procedure has been made applicable in matters "for recovery of certain types of money/dues which may also be recovered as arrears of land revenue." Hence the procedure for recovery of latter amount may not be different from the procedure which is prescribed for recovery of former, i.e. arrears of land revenue. Undisputably the provisions of Section 279(1) clause (a) to (e) relate only to the cases of recovery of arrears of land revenue and have no application in the matters of recovery of any other amount/ money as arrears of land revenue but for this reason it will not be correct to say that in matters of recovery of money as arrears of land revenue, the proceedings of auction sale may be conducted without notice to defaulters and without giving them opportunity to make payment of dues at any time before the date fixed for sale so as to avoid auction as provided under Rule 285-C of Z.A. Rules.

12. The lower appellate court in its elaborate findings has held that admittedly the auction proceedings were not conducted at village Turatpur over the land in dispute rather were conducted at a distant place in village Qadarbad which is at a distance of 3 Kms from land in suit as per plaintiffs and about 1½ kms away as per contention of defendants. It is admitted to defendants that notice contemplated under Section 279 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act was served on defendant No.5 who is brother of plaintiffs which indicates that service of notice of auction was mandatory on plaintiffs also, but no such notice was ever served on them.

13. The contention that since defendant No.5 (one out of 3 borrowers/ defaulters) was brother of other 2 so service of notice on plaintiffs could have been waived has no force. The Court is of considered view that service of notice of auction was mandatory on plaintiffs also in view of principles of natural justice and they could not have been deprived with the opportunity to make payment of dues by date fixed as well as from their rights over the land in suit without due service of notice.

14. In the case of Jagat Pal Singh Vs. State of U.P. 1994 Revenue decisions page 429, this Court while considering the power to be exercised by Collector in confirming the sale under Rule 285-J of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules 1952 held that-

"Now we take up the first point as to whether the Sub- Divisional Officer had power to confirm the sale or not. It has been seen in the earlier part of this judgment that under Rule 285-J of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules the Collector has to confirm the sale after expiry of the period of 30 days if the sale does not contravene the provisions of Section 154 of the U.P.Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act. The power to confirm the sale vests with the Collector and not with the Sub-Divisional Officer. Learned Counsel for the petitioner has argued that the Board of Revenue has delegated the power to the Assistant Collector/Sub-Divisional Officer on 17-1-1976 to perform the functions of the Collector which are performed by the Collector vide Revenue Board Notification No. 1/1-76(3)-6 dated 17-1-1976, a copy of which is Annexure-6 to the supplementary affidavit. A perusal of this notification goes to show that the Sub-Divisional Officer/Assistant Collector has only been authorised by this notification to conduct the auction proceedings under Section 286 of the Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act subject to the condition that the confirmation of sale shall be done by the Collector. The power of the Collector, when he acts under Section 284 of the Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act has not been conferred upon the Asstt. Collector/ Sub-Divisional Officer by this notification. As seen in the earlier part of this judgment the sale in the present case has taken place under the provisions of Section 284 of the Act and not under Section 286. Therefore this notification dated 17-1-1976 will not apply to the facts of the present case. Moreover, there is another ground on the basis of which it cannot be said that the Assistant Collector/Sub-Divisional Officer has been invested with the power to confirm the sale. The last sentence of the notification dated 17-1-1976 clearly goes to show that the power of conducting sale proceedings under Section 286 of the Act has been conferred upon the Assistant Collector/Sub-Divisional Officer with the condition that the confirmation of sale shall be done by the Collector, it means that only a power to auction the property or conduct the sale has been given to the Assistant Collector/ Sub- Divisonal Officer and not a power to confirm the sale which has been given to the Collector under the provisions of Rule 285-1 of the U.P.Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules. Therefore this notification does not, in any way, confer powers on the Assistant Collector/Sub-Divisonal Officer, holding the charge of a sub-division, to confirm the sale. Power to confirm the sale still vests with the Collector."

15. The lower appellate court upon analyzation of evidence has found that Sohan Singh who allegedly participated in the auction proceedings and allegedly put a bid for auction has been produced as PW3 and has stated on oath that he neither participated in auction nor gave any bid. Similarly Ram Bahal and Ram Singh, who allegedly made proclamation of impugned auction have been produced as PW2 and PW5 respectively and have stated on oath before the court that they did not conduct any proclamation proceedings. In view of above evidence on record lower appellate court has rightly come to the conclusion that the proceedings of auction were conducted surreptitiously in fraudulent manner (i) without due notice to the plaintiffs, (ii) at a place distant from land in suit which was auctioned (iii) auctioned in camera without due proclamation or bid by general public and (iv) since the auction sale, which could have been confirmed only by Collector as per provisions contained in Rule 285-J of Z.A. Rules, has not been confirmed by Collector, the auction sale proceedings are illegal and are liable to be set aside. In any case even if the S.D.O. had been delegated with powers of confirmation of auction sale under Rule 285-J of Z.A. Rules, it will not validate the illegal and fraudulent auction proceedings conducted in contravention of procedure prescribed by law.

16. The lower appellate court in its findings in para 16 of impugned judgement has categorically narrated that a sum of Rs.88274/- was due on plaintiffs and Rs.226/- were collection charges total Rs.88500/- which was minimum/ statutory bid and the auction of huge plot of over 13 Bigha area was finalized on highest bid of defendants for same amount, which indicates that no actual auction did take place and auction proceedings were conducted in camera in surreptitious and fraudulent manner.

17. It is pertinent to mention that issue No.9 regarding suit being barred by provisions of Sections 11 of Civil Procedure Code and issue No.10 regarding suit being barred by time, were decided by trial court against the defendants. The impugned auction is alleged to have taken place on 20.05.1986 for setting aside which auction sale, suit has been filed on 16.05.1989, with the contention that plaintiffs got knowledge of auction sale on 03.08.1986 and is well within prescribed period of limitation of 3 years.

18. The lower appellate court has not carved out any new case rather plaintiffs had taken specific plea in para 14 (g) and (h) of plaint about fraudulent proceedings and there is plenty of evidence in support of above allegations which are fully proved from the evidence on record.

19. In view of discussions made above the Court is of the considered view that the auction of land in suit has been conducted (i) without serving the plaintiffs with notices of date of auction, (ii) without due proclamation at a place distant from land auctioned, (iii) in camera and not by public auction without opportunity of bid to persons from general public, (iv) by finishing auction of huge plot of over 13 Bighas on meager amount equivalent to statutory bid of amount which was due and (v) without confirmation by Collector, surreptitiously in secret/ hidden and fraudulent manner against the procedure prescribed under law. U.P. Government delegates several powers of Collector to Deputy Collectors or Assistant Collectors, through notifications from time to time. All such notifications with regard to delegation of powers of confirmation of sale under Rule 285-J of Z.A. Rules were not brought before the Court. Even assuming delegation of such powers to S.D.O./ Deputy Collector under Rule 285-J of Z.A. Rules and presuming him to be competent to confirm auction sale, the impugned auction sale which was conducted surreptitiously in secret/ hidden and fraudulent manner at a place different from the land auctioned, without notices to plaintiffs/ defaulter, even upon confirmation may not be legalized or regularized.

20. In view of discussions made above, the Court is of considered view that the learned counsel for appellants has failed to show any illegality, incorrectness or perversity in findings recorded by lower appellate court. All the 3 substantial questions of law framed in this appeal on 20.08.1998 have no force and are decided against the defendants-appellants in favour of plaintiffs- respondents. The learned counsel for appellants has failed to show any sufficient ground for setting aside impugned judgement and decree or for interfering with the findings recorded therein.

21. The appeal is devoid of merits and is liable to be dismissed with costs throughout.

22. The appeal is accordingly dismissed with costs throughout. The impugned judgement and decree are affirmed.

23. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

24. Let the lower court record be sent back to court below alongwith the copy of the judgement, after preparation of decree

THE HON'BLE ARVIND KUMAR MISHRA-I, J.
THE HON'BLE GAUTAM CHOWDHARY, J.

Government Appeal No. 617 of 1994

State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Indu Uniyal & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
A.G.A.

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
Sri Pankaj Srivastava

A. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 378(3) & Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 452, 307, 307 r/w 34 - appeal preferred by the state against order of acquittal- material contradiction- specific identification of weapon did not come out-finding of acquittal in favour of the respondents is affirmed or view taken by the trial court is justified-grant of leave to appeal is refused. (Para 21, 22 & 23)

The injured was a literate man and was head of an educational institution and he, as per his cross- examination, is very much acquainted with the nature and identity of 'gun' and 'revolver' and he categorically stated in his testimony that he can identify these weapons, therefore it means that the weapon used can be specifically identified by him. However, that specific identification has not come out establishing its nature and specification. The graver aspect of the case is that there is material contradiction on the point as to who opened the fire and, on this point, admittedly the testimony of the prosecution witnesses is vacillating and is not certain. (Para 20)

Government Appeal dismissed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Kumar Mishra-I, J. & Hon'ble Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

(1) Report of the C.J.M.- Saharanpur dated 07.10.2013 reflects that accused- respondent no.1- George Rajesh- died on 15.03.2018.

(2) In view of the report of C.J.M.- Saharanpur dated 07.10.2013, this appeal stands abated against accused- respondent no.1- George Rajesh and is dismissed.

(3) Now, this appeal relates to the surviving respondent no.1- Indu Unival- for adjudication.

(4) Heard learned A.G.As for the State- appellant, Sri Pankaj Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondents, perused the impugned judgement of acquittal and record of the appeal.

(5) The instant Government Appeal has been preferred by the State of U.P. against judgement and order of acquittal dated 25.1.1994 passed by III Additional Sessions Judge, Saharanpur in Sessions Trial No.253 of 1987, under Sections 452, 307, 307 read with 34 I.P.C., police station- Sadar Bazar, district- Saharanpur. By the impugned judgement and order, trial court acquitted both the accused persons under the aforesaid sections of Indian Penal Code.

(6) Relevant facts as discernible from the record giving rise to this appeal appear to be that- Father M.A. Joseph- Principal in Saint Merry Academy Mission Compound, Saharanpur was sitting in front of his table within the campus of Sofia Hindi Medium School (which is within the jurisdiction of Police Station- Sadar Bazar, district- Saharanpur). The electric light was illuminated in the campus of school and the room also. At that point of time, door of the room where the Father M.A. Joseph was sitting, were opened by accused- George Rajesh and Indu Unial- and suddenly accused- George Rajesh opened fire on him (Father M.A. Joseph), as a result of which, he sustained injuries and both the accused are escaped away from the scene.

(7) On hearing the noise of fire and scream of one unknown man, Father Joseph Puthath came out from his room and then he saw the injured M.A. Joseph who was seeped with blood and he was saying to him (Father Joseph Puthath) that fire was opened upon him by the accused. Thereafter, Father M.A. Joseph was taken to the District Hospital, Saharanpur by Father Joseph Puthath on taxi. In the hospital, the injured informed him that fire was made upon him by George Rajesh and accused Indu Uniyal was also present on the spot.

(8) On the written report of informant- Father Joseph Puthath, the case was registered at police station- Sadar Bazar, District- Saharanpur on 2.9.1987 at 9.30 p.m. under Sections 452, 307 of Indian Penal Code.

(9) Thereafter the Investigating Officer carried out the investigation and recorded the statement of informant- Joseph Puthath, witnesses- Martin Stephen, Father M.A. Joseph and others and after completing all necessary formalities filed charge-sheet under Sections 307, 452 IPC.

(10) Thereafter during course of hearing on the point of charge, the court concerned found the case covered under Section 452, 307/34 IPC- for accused Indu Uniyal and under Section 307 IPC- for accused George Rajesh, therefore, the court below committed the case to the Sessions Court, whereupon, accused were heard on the point of charge and charges under Sections 452, 307/34 IPC were framed against aforesaid accused persons, who denied charges and opted for trial.

(11) In order to prove its case, prosecution produced informant- Joseph Puthath (P.W.1), witness Martin Stephan (P.W.2), injured Father M.A. Joseph (P.W.3), I.O. Devraj Singh Bisnoi (P.W.4), S.I. Dr. R.K. Tayal (P.W.5) and R.K. Kashyap (P.W.6). All the aforesaid prosecution witnesses are witnesses of fact/formal witnesses and the eye-witnesses.

(12) Thereafter, evidence for the prosecution was closed and the statement of accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein, it was submitted that they have been falsely implicated in this case. They categorically stated in his deposition that at the time of incident, they are in the Mussorrie and they have been challaned in the M.V. Act.

(13) In turn, five witnesses- Smt. Shanti Devi (D.W.1), Baburam (D.W.2), Rakesh (D.W.3), Girdhar Gopal (D.W.4), Kunwar Singh (D.W.5) were produced on the behalf of the defence as defence witnesses.

(14) Thereafter, the evidence for defence was closed and after considering the merit of the case, charges were found not proved beyond reasonable doubt. Resultantly, the trial court returned finding of acquittal against the accused.

(15) Consequently, this Government Appeal.

(16) The learned counsel for the appellant- State- submits that learned trial court has not properly appreciated the evidence for the prosecution and has decided the case only on the basis of conjectures and surmises. He also submits that impugned judgement and order of acquittal of the accused-respondents is not sustainable in the eyes of law and as such the same is liable to be set-aside by this Court.

(17) The contention of learned counsel for the respondents is specific to the ambit that in this case trivial and minor contradictions alone prompted the trial Judge to record specific finding that the injured Father M.A. Joseph was not in a position to identify the weapon used by the appellants at the time of the occurrence and who was the assailant, was also not ascertained by the Father M.A. Joseph and under prevailing facts and circumstances, the attack was infact sudden. How can this finding be sustained in view of specific testimony of Father M.A. Joseph- the injured that he takes and understands word 'gun' to be applicable to both 'revolver' as well as 'gun' and it was never tried to be differentiated from 'revolver'. In general parlance, the 'gun' indicates both- the 'revolver' and the 'gun'. Therefore, the difference cannot be substantiated by claiming that the weapon used in the assault was not properly identified.

(18) The moot point involved for consideration in this appeal is whether the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court is erroneous and perverse, as alleged by the appellant- State?

(19) We have carefully considered the aforesaid submissions of both the sides as well as perused the impugned judgement/order of acquittal.

(20) We upon careful consideration cannot disagree with the finding of acquittal recorded in favour of the surviving respondent, for specific reasons that the injured was a literate man and was head of an educational institution and he, as per his cross- examination, is very much acquainted with the nature and identity of 'gun' and 'revolver' and he categorically stated in his testimony that he can identify these weapons, therefore it means that the weapon used can be specifically identified by him. However, that specific identification has not come out establishing its nature and specification. The graver aspect of the case is that there is material contradiction on the point as to who opened the fire and on this point, admittedly the testimony of the prosecution witnesses is vacillating and is not certain.

(21) For the reasons aforesaid, we have no doubt in affirming the finding of acquittal recorded in favour of the respondents.

(22) It is established law that in case of acquittal, the finding recorded, if found to be based on material on record, and the view taken by the trial court is justified although the alternate view is also available, then the view that favours the accused is to be preferred by the Appellate Court. It being so, we have no hesitation in observing that the view adopted by the trial court in recording finding of acquittal is based on material on record.

(23) Consequently, this Government Appeal lacks merit and the same is dismissed.

(24) The leave to appeal is hereby refused.

Habeas Corpus Writ Petition allowed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Naqvi, J.)

Heard Shri Sunil Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioners, Shri Thakur Azad Singh and Sri Prahlad Kumar Khare, for the Union of India and Shri Deepak Mishra, the learned A.G.A.

These habeas corpus writ petitions have been filed by the petitioners challenging their detentions dated 4.4.2019, under Section 3(2) & (3) of the National Security Act, 1980 by the District Magistrate, Bulandshahar, for a period of 3 months which was extended twice.

1. The grounds of detention dated 4.4.2019 served on the petitioners on 4.4.2019 alleged the following:-

(I) Bulandshahar was a host to a Muslim congregation called, "Tabligi Ijatma" from 1.12.2018 to 3.12.2018 wherein lakhs had come from all over the country for which elaborate security arrangements had been made. The congregation came to an end in the evening of 3.12.2018.

(II) Sri Subodh Kumar Singh, In-charge Inspector, P.S. Sayana on 3.12.2018 at about 10 am received information that remnants of cow's progeny have been found in the jungles of Mahav at the sugarcane fields of Raj Kumar, Pradhan. The In-charge Inspector immediately directed Constable 924 Shubham Saini, at Police Chauki, Chingrawathi to reach the scene as he too would be reaching shortly. On above information, Con. Shubham Saini and Con. 1245 Pradeep Kumar left on motorcycle to the scene who intimated the In-charge Inspector on mobile regarding recovery of the remnants of cows progeny. The Inspector along with force, soon thereafter reached the scene in their official vehicles wherein they came across a large crowd protesting to the recoveries of remnants of cows progeny, communal tension in the air, the Inspector In-charge attempted to assuage the members of the majority community that strict action would be taken against the offenders. One Yogesh Raj alleged to be present at the scene, lodged a report at P.S. Sayana at 12.43 P.M, against Sudaif Chaudhary @ Iliyas, Sharafat, Anas, Sajid, Parvez and Sarfuddin as Case Crime No.582/2018, under Section 3/5/8 of the Cow Slaughter Act and Section 295-A of the IPC.

(III) Large number of persons came from village Mahav on their tractors and trolleys towards Sayana - Bulandshahar Link Road to arrive at Police Chauki, Chingrawathi at 13.35 hrs carrying remnants of the cows progeny in their hands and raising slogans. The crowd turned violent, blocked the road, sought to be countered by public announcements by the police on loudspeakers to clear road as members of the congregation were also returning towards Garh- Amroha - Moradabad and other districts.

(IV) A challenging situation emerged before the administration as on the one hand they had to assuage the feeling of the protestors against cow slaughtering who were indulging in stone pelting, use of fire-arms, sharp weapons and lathi / danda at the police on the other they had to maintain free flow of traffic. The police personnel with a view to save their lives, attempted to hide themselves. Meanwhile, a firearm shot hit one Sunil Kumar and the crowd went beserk. One of the members of the agitated crowd attacked Inspector In-charge Subodh Kumar Singh with an axe, assaulted him with lathi / dandas, followed by fire-arm shots as a result of which he sustained grievous injuries. His licenced pistol and 3 mobile phones were snatched. The crowd also damaged the property of Police Chauki Chingrawathi by damaging wireless sets including the other properties, being set on fire. The road was littered with shoes and chappals and people running helter - skelter. The private vehicles were also set on fire. The mob did not even spare the Circle Officer who ran for his life inside the premises of Police Chauki Sayana but the mob forcibly entered the room shouting that he be also not spared. The Police Chauki, Sayana was also set on fire. Large number of persons suffered injuries, an atmosphere of fear had developed, nearby Girls school was closed as also doors of the neighbouring houses. The injured Inspector Subodh Kumar Singh was taken to C.H.C., Lakhawati, where he was declared brought dead. On above allegations, an FIR as Case Crime No.583/2018, under Section 147/148/149/124-A/ 332/ 333/ 353/ 341/ 336/ 307/ 302/ 427/ 436/ 395 IPC, 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act and ¾ of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act was registered against 27 named and 50-60 unnamed accused on 4.12.2018 at 2.51 P.M.

(V) On 4.12.2018 at about 8 AM at village Nayabans, P.S. Sayana, remnants of a dead cow were recovered from the sugarcane fields of one Sheeshpal which on forensic examination, was found to be of cow's progeny, in respect of which an FIR as Case Crime No.584/2018, under Section 3/5/8 of the Cow Slaughter Act was registered against unknown.

(VI)

(a) During investigation of Case Crime no. 582 of 2018, 3 accused namely Nadim @ Nadimuddin, Raees and Kala Qureshi were arrested. They jointly and voluntarily stated that they along with one Haroon and others, on the night of 1.12.2018 and 2/3.12.2018 had slaughtered 1 and 3 progencies of cow in the jungles of Nayabans & Mahav and had carried its meat in their vehicle.

(b) On 5.12.2018, accused Sajid, Sarfuddin, Banne Khan and Asif Khan came to be arrested in Case Crime No.582/2018. During investigation, it transpired that informant Yogesh Raj falsely implicated 7 named accused and two others, namely, Banne Khan and Asif in view of ongoing dispute with the local matter relating to the use of loudspeaker in a Masjid. All the accused stood exonerated.

(c) Yunus @ Bol and Gulfam came to be arrested on 23.12.2018 and 26.12.2018 respectively. They also confessed that on the intervening night of 2/3.12.2018, they were present at the jungles of Mahav along with their accomplices Nadeem @ Nadimuddin, Raees, Kala Qureshi, Haroon and others, had slaughtered 3 prohibited progenies, meat distributed amongst them and remaining meat was handed over to Haroon while the left over remnants were left at the scene. They also confessed that on the intervening of 1.12.2018 a cow was slaughtered, meat taken, remnants left at the scene. Gulfam also stated that accused Haroon is aware of the names of other accused.

(d) On 29.12.2018, co-accused Haroon came to be arrested in an open jeep with DBBL guns and cartridges. He confessed that the jeep belongs to one Mehboob Ali. He further confessed his involvement along with Nadeem @ Nadimuddin, Kala Qureshi, Raees, Azhar, Gulfam, Yunus @ Bol, Rashid Qureshi and petitioners (real brothers) of slaughtering of prohibited progenies in the jungles of Nayabans on the night of 1.12.2018 and on the intervening night of 2/3.12.2018 in the jungles of Mahav, animals skinned, meat distributed amongst themselves, left over meat was given to Shahid Maimber (petitioner) who was running a camp for the attendees of the congregation.

(e) Petitioner- Imran Quershi surrendered before the court on 1.4.2019. He alleged that hunting is his hobby, in which he along with his brother-Shahid Qureshi (co-petitioner), Raees, Nadeem @ Nadimuddin, Rashid, Haroon, Mehboob Ali, Kala Qureshi, Azhar, Yunus @ Bol and Gulfam, often indulged in hunting for cows at night, thereafter meat sold in the market. He also confessed that on the night of 2.12.2018, he along with his brother Shahid, Rashid and Mehboob Ali remained in the tents of Sanskar Farm House for hosting the attendees of cogregation, rest accused went for hunting. At about 2-3 A.M, on 3.12.2018, other accused returned at the farm house with prohibited progenies, wherein they chopped the meat with the help of knives in order to serve as "keema" & "biryani" to the guests. Shahid (co-petitioner) also made a similar confessional statement.

(VII) The grounds finally alleged that although the petitioners had no previous criminal history, but in view of their confessional statements that they did indulge in cow slaughtering in an organized and clandestine manner, deeply hurting the religious sentiments of the majority community. The LIU also alleged in its reports dated 9.12.2018, 10.1.2019 and 25.2.2019 that the incident dated 3.12.2018 was a fall out of the alleged slaughtering on 2/3.12.2018.

2. The petitioners preferred representation against their detentions dated 4.4.2019 on 16.4.2019 before the State Government through the Jail Superintendent, which came to be rejected by the State Government on 1.5.2019. The last extension is dated 1.10.2019, i.e., for 9 months from the order of detention dated 4.4.2019.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners assailed the detention order on the following grounds-

i)The detention suffers from the vice of non-application of mind as the only material against the petitioners is the confessional statements, which too indicates that they were not present at the time of slaughtering as they were only alleged to have served the prohibited meat to the attendees of the congregation (members of the minority community) in the camp of Shahid Member (co-petitioner) at Sanskar Farm House.

ii) Petitioners are only alleged to be involved in Case Crime no. 582 of 2018. They are neither accused nor suspects in Case Crime no.s 583 and 584, both of 2018 yet the detaining authority considered the cumulative effect of all 3 cases, while passing the detention order which also displays non-application of mind.

4. Learned A.G.A opposed the submissions on the ground that the mode and manner of the occurrence indicates that it was a well organized activity as the petitioners' often indulged in cow slaughtering which coincided with the conclusion of the conclave with a view to disturb public order so as to incite communal passion / feelings. He further submitted that once detention is based on relevant considerations, detention being a matter of subjective satisfaction, is not open to judicial review.

5. Section 3(2) of the National Security Act, 1980 enables the appropriate government to detain any person if it is satisfied that with a view to prevent such a person from acting in any manner prejudicial to or from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community, it is necessary to do so, make an order directing that such person be detained.

6. It is well settled that the satisfaction recorded by the detaining authority in respect of the breach of public order is subjective, but the same is to be based on relevant materials. Once relevant materials are existing, the courts are refrained from examining the legality / propriety of the same. Thus, the scope of judicial review in such matters is only confined to examining the existence of relevant materials upon which a person is detained for breaching of public order.

7. The detention order refers to three FIR's as Case Crime Nos. 582; 583 & 584 all of 2018. The petitioners are neither named accused in Case Crime No.583 & 584, both of 2018 nor the I.O's of Case Crime Nos.583 & 584 ever obtained any statement of the petitioners nor till date any charge-sheet has been submitted against them. Thus, the detention of the petitioners is based only on Case Crime No.582/2018.

8. The FIR in Case Crime No.582/2018 lodged by one Yogesh Raj against 7 named accused, namely, Sudaif Chaudhary, Ilyas, Sharaful, Anas, Sajid, Parvez & Sarfuddin, alleged that the said accused were slaughtering cows on 3.12.2018 at 9 AM in the jungles of village Mahav. During investigation, names of all the 7 accused came to be exonerated as their false implication was established in view of previous animosity of the informant with the Maulvi of a local Masjid over use of loudspeakers. On 18.12.2018, one Nadeem @ Nadeemuddin, Raees & Kala Qureshi were arrested from whom certain recoveries of DBBL gun, gandasa, knife and a wooden chopping board was made. They confessed that they along with co-accused Haroon had slaughtered a cow in the night of 1.12.2018 in the jungle of Nayabans, remains thrown in the sugarcane field as also the slaughtering of 3 cows on the intervening night of 2.12.2018 in the jungles of Mahav of which the meat was taken by them. Thus, even the 3 arrested accused, namely, Nadeem @ Nadeemuddin, Raees and Kala Qureshi were not implicating the petitioners. Co-accused Yunus @ Bol and Gulfam came to be arrested on 23.12.2018 and 26.12.2018 respectively. They also confirmed the participation of Nadeem @ Nadeemuddin and Haroon in the alleged occurrence dated 2/3.12.2018 (night). These two accused, i.e., Yunus @ Bol and Gulfam also did not disclose the involvement of the petitioners. On 29.12.2018, accused Haroon came to be arrested in an open jeep. He confessed that the jeep belongs to one Mehboob Ali and admitted his involvement along with petitioners, Nadeem, Yunus @ Bol, Rashid, Raees and others in respect of occurrence in the night of 1.12.2018 in the village of Nayabans and that of 2/3.12.2018 in the village of Mahav as they were fond of hunting; meat was distributed amongst them and the rest was given to the petitioners.

9. A perusal of the confessional statement of accused Haroon as alleged in para-11 of the grounds of detention, nowhere alleges that the petitioners were physically present at the time of alleged slaughtering on the night of 1.12.2018 at the jungles of village Nayabans or on the night of 2.12.2018 at the jungles of village Mahav. On the contrary, it only alleges that the meat of the prohibited progeny after having been distributed between them, rest was handed over to petitioners.

10. The petitioners in their confessional statements admitted that the prohibited meat was handed over to them by Raees, Nadeem, Haroon, Kala, Azhar, Yunus @ Bol and Gulfam which after cooking were served as "keema" and "briyani" to the attendees of the conclave in the tent of co-petitioner Shahid Member installed at Sanskar Farm House.

11. There is no material to indicate that the petitioners were either physically present at the time of slaughtering on the intervening night of 2/3.12.2018 at the jungles of village Mahav. On the contrary, the only material against the petitioners is the confessional statement of accused Haroon, indicating that the left over meat was given to the petitioners which after cooking was served by them to the guests of the conclave (exclusively belonging to the members of the minority community) in a camp installed by Shahid Member (co-petitioner) at Sanskar Farm House. The material nowhere indicates that while the prohibited meat was being served, any member of the majority community was present who could claim to be a witness to the serving of the prohibited meat. The alleged disruption of public order on 3.12.2018 was only subsequent to the recovery of the remnants of the cow's progeny in the jungles of village Mahav, resulting in the loss of 2 lives one that of Inspector In-charge Subodh Kumar Singh and the other of one Sunil Kumar along with damage to public property in Case Crime No.583/2018. It is not the case set up in the grounds of detention that the disruption of public order on 3.12.2018 was on account of the prohibited meat being served to the guests of the conclave as at that point of time, no one had any inkling other than the guests that the meat which was served belonged to the prohibited category which came to be known only after the confessional statements of petitioners which recorded after more than 4 months of the alleged occurrence.

12. Slaughtering and consumption of beef per se, cannot attract the provisions of the National Security Act, 1980, it would be an offence under the provisions of the Cow Slaughter Act.

13. The resulting scenario from the above discussion is as under:

(i) There is no material on record to remotely suggest / infer that the petitioner was physically present at the jungles of Mahav at the time of slaughtering:

(ii) The only role assigned to the petitioners is that after they were handed over the left over meat, same was cooked and served as "keema" and "biryani" in an enclosed tent at Sanskar Farm House which was restricted to the members of the minority community only.

(iii) The petitioners have no concern with Case Crime Nos. 583 & 584, both of 2018.

(iv) Once the name of the petitioners surfaced in Case Crime No.582 of 2018 on the basis of extra judicial confession of accused Haroon as well as the petitioners indicting the petitioners of serving prohibited meat to the members of the congregation (minority community alone) in a tent installed at Sanskar Farm House, yet the detaining authority cumulatively considers the impact of Case Crime Nos. 583 & 584, both of 2018 while passing the orders of detention, displays absolute non-application of mind.

(v) The alleged disturbance of public order on 3.12.2018, resulting in an unfortunate death of Inspector In-charge Subodh Kumar and one Sunil Kumar is not attributable to petitioners as the same was a sequel to the information disclosed by one Yogesh Raj, an informant of Case Crime No. 582 of 2018, who claimed to be a witness of slaughtering of 6 cows by 7 named accused, who stood exonerated.

14. We, in the light of above discussion, are of the considered view that the detaining authority and the State Government displayed absolute non-application of mind while issuing and approving the order of detention. Consequently, the order dated 4.4.2019 cannot be sustained, is liable to be set aside and the petitioners be set at liberty forthwith.

15. The Habeas Corpus Writ Petitions are allowed. The impugned order dated 4.4.2019 is quashed. The petitioners are set at liberty forthwith unless detained in any other case.

3. Tejaswini Gaud & Others Vs. Shekhar Jagdish Prasad Tewari & Others; (2019) 7 SCC 42

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

(1) Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned A.G.A. for the State and learned counsel for the respondent No.3.

(2) Present writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed for issuance of a writ in the nature of habeas corpus directing respondents to produce the petitioner Vaibhav Shukla before this Court, set him at liberty and allow him to go and live with his grandparents.

(3) For adjudication of the controversy, it is necessary to narrate some facts in brief. From the pleadings on record, it transpires that the deponent Smt. Sushma Shukla who is the grandmother of the petitioner Vaibhav Shukla had two sons - Gaurav Shukla and Gagan Shukla. Ganga Shukla was married to Nisha Shukla, respondent No.3. The petitioner was born from the wedlock on 19.9.2014. It has been pleaded that late Gagan Shukla had earlier married with Shweta Shukla in the year 2002 and a daughter Nitya Shukla was born in the year 2005. As Gagan Shukla did not have good terms with the deponent, he along with opposite party No.3 was residing separately with the deponent.

Gagan Shukla succumbed to the injuries caused in a road accident on 20.7.2018. For sometime, respondent No.3 lived with the petitioner in the house where Smt. Sushma Shukla was residing, however, it appears that due to strained relationship, the respondent No.3 shifted to another residence owned by the deponent. The child was got admitted by the deponent in a school "Kidzee", Amrishpuri Colony, Raebareli where he has been studying.

It has further been stated that due to the harassment meted out at the hands of respondent No.3, the husband of the deponent filed a writ petition No.4825(M/B) of 2015 titled "Brijesh Shukla versus The State of U.P. and others" before this Court with the prayer for issuance of a writ of mandamus directing the respondent State to provide security to him. The writ petition was finally disposed of vide order dated 2.12.2015 passed by this Court.

It has also been pleaded in the petition that one Raj Kumar Singh alias Munna had illicit relations with respondent No.3. The said Raj Kumar Singh is a life convict in Sessions Trial No.294 of 1995 under Section 326 I.P.C. Raj Kumar Singh has been enlarged on bail in a criminal appeal filed before this Court.

Supplementing the pleadings, it has been stated that due to the strained relations and the atrocities being made by the opposite party No.3, the deponent and her husband severed all the ties with Gagan Shukla (deceased). Mother of the petitioner has opened a Beauty Parlour at ground floor of the residence owned by the deponent at M-3, Amrishpuri Colony, Kanpur Road, Raebareli. The opposite party No.3 and her parents have ill motive to usurp the property of the deponent and by one way or the other has been harassing the deponent and her husband.

The deponent and her husband had already invested considerable money in favour of the petitioner. The future of the petitioner is not safe with mother.

(4) A counter affidavit has been filed by Smt. Nisha Shukla, opposite party No.3. It has been stated that the child has been residing with her and is leading a good and healthy life. The child has never met his grandparents. Relationship with Raj Kumar Singh has also been denied by the deponent of the counter affidavit. Lastly, it has been prayed that the petition be dismissed.

(5) Rejoinder affidavit filed by the petitioner almost reiterates the averments made in the writ petition.

(6) Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that Master Vaibhav Shukla has been detained by the mother Smt. Nisha Shukla W/o Late Gagan Shukla (respondent No.3), who was having no good relations with her husband, therefore, the custody of the minor child Master Vaibhav Shukla be handed over to the grand mother Smt. Sushma Shukla. He further submits that in the habeas corpus petition, the welfare of the minor child is the relevant factor to be considered by considering the custody of the child. The grand mother is not an outsider, therefore, for the welfare of the child, the custody should be handed over to the grand mother.

(7) In support of his submission, learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance upon certain judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, which are as under :-

(i) Dr. Mrs. Veena Kapoor Vs. Varinder Kumar Kapoor; AIR 1982 SUPREME COURT 792

(ii) Nithya Anand Raghavan Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) & Another; (2017) 8 SCC 454

(iii) Tejaswini Gaud & Others Vs. Shekhar Jagdish Prasad Tewari & Others; (2019) 7 SCC 42

(8) On the other hand, learned A.G.A. and learned counsel for respondent No.3 submitted that the respondent No.3 is the biological mother and the custody of the child is in right hands, therefore, the welfare of the child is in the hands of respondent No.3. They further submitted that the grand mother is aged about 72 years and is not able to look after the affairs of the minor child Master Vaibhav Shukla in correct prospective. It is the submission that the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner are distinguishable on the facts and circumstances of the present case.

(9) After having heard the rival contention of learned counsel for the parties, I perused the material on record as well as the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner.

(10) On perusal of the material on record, it is transpired that Smt. Sushma Shukla, who is the grand mother of Master Vaibhav Shukla has two sons namely, Gaurav Shukla and Gagan Shukla. Ganga Shukla was married to Nisha Shukla, respondent No.3. The petitioner was born from the wedlock on 19.9.2014. Gagan Shukla, due to road accident, died on 20.7.2018. The minor child Vaibhav Shukla is now residing along with the biological mother (respondent No.3). Master Vaibhav Shukla is pursuing his studies in a school "Kidzee", Amrishpuri Colony, Raebareli.

(11) Certain allegations have also been levelled against the respondent No.3 in regard to the illicit relationship with one Raj Kumar Singh, who is life convict and on bail in the appeal filed before this Court.

(12) The respondent No.3 has opened a beauty parlour and with the income, is managing the day to day affairs of her life including providing better education to Master Vaibhav Shukla.

(13) It appears that there are some investments in the name of Master Vaibhav Shukla, which causes dispute in filing the present petition before this Court.

(14) On perusal of the material on record, it is reflected that child has been residing with the respondent No.3 and leading a good and healthy life and the relationship with Raj Kumar Singh has also been denied by the respondent No.3.

(15) In regard to the judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner in the case of Dr. Mrs. Veena Kapoor (Supra), the relevant is paragraph 2, which is being quoted below :-

"2. It is well settled that in matters concerning the custody of minor children, the paramount consideration is the welfare of the minor and not the legal right of this or that particular party. The High Court, without adverting to this aspect of the matter, has dismissed the petition on the narrow ground that the custody of child with the respondent cannot be said to be illegal."

(16) On its perusal, it is reflected that the Hon'ble Supreme Court while dealing with the matter, has held that it is well settled that in matters concerning the custody of minor child, the paramount consideration is the welfare of the minor and not the legal right of this or that particular party. Here in the present case, the biological mother (respondent No.3) is running a beauty parlour and is younger than the grand mother and the child is pursuing studies under the guradianship of respondent No.3 by the income of beauty parlour, which is run and managed by the biological mother.

In view of the above, custody of the minor child is safe in the custody of respondent No.3 and not in the hands of the grand mother.

(17) In regard to the another judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner in the case of Nithya Anand Raghavan (Supra), the relevant is paragraph 47, which is being quoted below :-

"In a habeas corpus petition as aforesaid, the High Court must examine at the threshold whether the minor is in lawful or unlawful custody of another person (private respondent named in the writ petition). For considering that issue, in a case such as the present one, it is enough to note that the private respondent was none other than the natural guardian of the minor being her biological mother. Once that fact is ascertained, it can be presumed that the custody of the minor with his/her mother is lawful. In such a case, only in exceptionable situation, the custody of the minor (girl child) may be ordered to be taken away from her mother for being given to any other person including the husband (father of the child), in exercise of writ jurisdiction. Instead, the other parent can be asked to resort to a substantive prescribed remedy for getting custody of the child."

(18) On perusal of the above referred judgment, it is reflected that in the habeas corpus petition, the custody of the minor child is to be taken care of and only in exceptional situation, the custody of the minor (girl child) may be ordered to be taken away from her mother for being given to any other person including the husband. It has further been held that in exercise of writ jurisdiction, instead the other parent can be asked to resort to a substantive remedy for getting the custody of the child.

(19) Here it is undisputed fact that the child is in the custody of the biological mother (respondent No.3) and the minor child is pursuing his studies in an institution of District Raebareli and in case, the custody of the child is claimed in the present petition from the biological mother, the welfare of the child will be highly affected.

(20) In the opinion of the Court, the respondent No.3 by running a beauty parlour is managing her affairs as well as expenditure of studies of her minor child, therefore, the welfare of the child is in the hands of respondent No.3 and not in the hands of the grand mother, who is aged about 72 years, therefore, the judgment relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner does not help in any manner.

(21) The last judgment, which has been relied is in the case of Tejaswini Gaud & Others (Supra), the relevant are paragraphs 19, 20, 26 and 27, which are being quoted below :-

"19. Habeas corpus proceedings is not to justify or examine the legality of the custody. Habeas corpus proceedings is a medium through which the custody of the child is addressed to the discretion of the court. Habeas corpus is a prerogative writ which is an extraordinary remedy and the writ is issued where in the circumstances of the particular case, ordinary remedy provided by the law is either not available or is ineffective; otherwise a writ will not be issued. In child custody matters, the power of the High Court in granting the writ is qualified only in cases where the detention of a minor by a person who is not entitled to his legal custody. In view of the pronouncement on the issue in question by the Supreme Court and the High Courts, in our view, in child custody matters, the writ of habeas corpus is maintainable where it is proved that the detention of a minor child by a parent or others was illegal and without any authority of law.

20. In child custody matters, the ordinary remedy lies only under the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act or the Guardians and Wards Act as the case may be. In cases arising out of the proceedings under the Guardians and Wards Act, the jurisdiction of the court is determined by whether the minor ordinarily resides within the area on which the court exercises such jurisdiction. There are significant differences between the enquiry under the Guardians and Wards Act and the exercise of powers by a writ court which is of summary in nature. What is important is the welfare of the child. In the writ court, rights are determined only on the basis of affidavits. Where the court is of the view that a detailed enquiry is required, the court may decline to exercise the extraordinary jurisdiction and direct the parties to approach the civil court. It is only in exceptional cases, the rights of the parties to the custody of the minor will be determined in exercise of extraordinary jurisdiction on a petition for habeas corpus.

26. The court while deciding the child custody cases is not bound by the mere legal right of the parent or guardian. Though the provisions of the special statutes govern the rights of the parents or guardians, but the welfare of the minor is the supreme consideration in cases concerning custody of the minor child. The paramount consideration for the court ought to be child interest and welfare of the child.

27. After referring to number of judgments and observing that while dealing with child custody cases, the paramount consideration should be the welfare of the child and due weight should be given to child's ordinary comfort, contentment, health, 8 Lahari Sakhamuri v. Sobhan Kodali 2019 (5) SCALE 97 education, intellectual development and favourable surroundings, in Nil Ratan Kundu9, it was held as under:-

"49. In Goverdhan Lal v. Gajendra Kumar, AIR 2002 Raj 148 the High Court observed that it is true that the father is a natural guardian of a minor child and therefore has a preferential right to claim the custody of his son, but in matters concerning the custody of a minor child, the paramount consideration is the welfare of the minor and not the legal right of a particular party. Section 6 of the 1956 Act cannot supersede the dominant consideration as to what is conducive to the welfare of the minor child. It was also observed that keeping in mind the welfare of the child as the sole consideration, it would be proper to find out the wishes of the child as to with whom he or she wants to live.

50. Again, in M.K. Hari Govindan v. A.R. Rajaram, AIR 2003 Mad 315 the Court held that custody cases cannot be decided on documents, oral evidence or precedents without reference to "human touch". The human touch is the primary one for the welfare of the minor since the other materials may be created either by the parties themselves or on the advice of counsel to suit their convenience.

51. In Kamla Devi v. State of H.P. AIR 1987 HP 34 the Court observed:

"13. ... the Court while deciding child custody cases in its inherent and general jurisdiction is not bound by the mere legal right of the parent or guardian. Though the provisions of the special statutes which govern the rights of the parents or guardians may be taken into consideration, there is nothing which can stand in the way of the Court exercising its parens patriae jurisdiction arising in such cases giving due weight to the circumstances such as a child's ordinary comfort, contentment, intellectual, moral and physical development, his health, education and general maintenance and the favourable surroundings. These cases have to be decided ultimately on the Court's view of the best interests of the child whose welfare requires that he be in custody of one parent or the other." 9 Nil Ratan Kundu v. Abhijit Kundu, (2008) 9 SCC 413

52. In our judgment, the law relating to custody of a child is fairly well settled and it is this: in deciding a difficult and complex question as to the custody of a minor, a court of law should keep in mind the relevant statutes and the rights flowing therefrom. But such cases cannot be decided solely by interpreting legal provisions. It is a human problem and is required to be solved with human touch. A court while dealing with custody cases, is neither bound by statutes nor by strict rules of evidence or procedure nor by precedents. In selecting proper guardian of a minor, the paramount consideration should be the welfare and well-being of the child. In selecting a guardian, the court is exercising parens patriae jurisdiction and is expected, nay bound, to give due weight to a child's ordinary comfort, contentment, health, education, intellectual development and favourable surroundings. But over and above physical comforts, moral and ethical values cannot be ignored. They are equally, or we may say, even more important, essential and indispensable considerations. If the minor is old enough to form an intelligent preference or judgment, the court must consider such preference as well, though the final decision should rest with the court as to what is conducive to the welfare of the minor."

(22) On its perusal, it is well established that in a habeas corpus petition, for custody of the minor child, the considerable point was that whether detention by parents or others is illegal or without authority of law, wherein detention of a minor by a person, who is not entitled to his legal custody was held to be illegal detention and was in regard to the claim setup by a father of a girl child against sister of the mother, who had died due to illness. The above referred judgment is distinguishable and does not attract to the present facts and circumstances of the case.

(23) Here in the present case, the grand mother who is aged about 72 years is claiming custody of the minor child from the biological mother, who is managing affairs by running a beauty parlour to provide comfort, health, education and other developments of the child required for future developments.

(24) In the opinion of the Court, the custody of the child is in right hands and does not require any interference in the present habeas corpus petition.

(25) In view of the observation made above, there is no merit in the present habeas corpus petition and the same is hereby dismissed.

(26) However, it is provided that in case the grand mother of the minor child Master Vaibhav Shukla wants to meet her grand son, the respondent No.3 shall permit and provide adequate atmosphere to meet her grand son on 3rd Sunday of every month and will not create any hindrance in the meeting.

Writ Petition dismissed. (E-9)

Cases cited: -

1. Estralla Rubber Vs. Dass Estate (P) Ltd, (2001) 8 Supreme Court Cases 97

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. At the very outset learned counsel for the petitioner prays for deletion of respondents No.1 and 2. The prayer is allowed and the parties are renumbered and respondent No.s 3 and 4 be read as respondent No.1 and 2.

2. Heard Sri M. G. Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioner.

3. In the light of the proposed order notice to respondents is dispensed with.

4. Petitioner has approached this court challenging the order dated 23.10.2019 passed by District Judge, Gonda in Civil Revision No.20 of 2019 wherein the challenge was made by the petitioner to the order of Civil Judge (Senior Division) dated 11.3.2019 thereby rejecting the objection against the application for taking on record the written statement filed by respondent No.1.

5. The facts in brief of the present controversy are that petitioner and respondent No.2 are real brothers as father of petitioner and respondent No.2, namely, Kishori Lal son of Rameshwar Prasad was married with one namely Smt. Cheelha Devi and out of the said wedlock three sons, namely, Ram Khelawan, Shyam Lal and Chhottan Lal were born. After the demise of Smt. Cheelha Devi Sri Kishori Lal again married with Chhammi Devi and out of the said wedlock two sons namely Krishna Gopal and Harihar were born. It has further been submitted that the sons born out of the wedlock of Smt. Cheelha Devi settled themselves in the life time of Kishori Lal and further that one son, namely, Krishna Gopal passed away during life time of Kishori Lal. The father of the petitioner divided the share of not only the petitioner, opposite party No.2 and other brothers by means of a will deed executed by father of the petitioner.

6. It has further been submitted that father of the petitioner executed another will deed on 20.1.1982 jointly in favour of the petitioner, opposite party No.2 and Smt. Chhammi Devi (mother of the petitioner) providing only usefructory rights to the mother of the petitioner and, a such, she was not entitled to transfer her share. It has further been submitted that Smt. Chhammi Devi had herself executed a will deed in favour of the petitioner and opposite party No.2. The controversy in the present case has arisen out of the fact that opposite party No.2 got an agreement executed on 20.7.1988 by Smt. Chhammi Devi-his mother in his favour. All these facts was never disclosed to the petitioner. Petitioner on coming to know of the said agreement dated 20.7.1988 filed a suit bearing No.472 of 2004. On receiving summons opposite party No.s 1 and 2 jointly filed written statement on 20.12.2005 in opposition to the suit filed by the petitioner.

7. Opposite party No.1 subsequently moved an application seeking leave of the court to file additional written statement in January, 2016 against which petitioner has filed his objection along with an affidavit on 28.9.2016. The objections of the petitioner were that the only reason behind moving additional written statement was only to prolong the matter and keeping the same pending. In the meanwhile, the petitioner also approached this Court by filing a writ petition seeking direction from this Court for expeditious decision of the suit and by means of the order dated 21.1.2019 this Court directed the trial court to make an earnest endeavor to decide the suit within a period of one year if there is no other legal impediment. The application for filing of the additional written statement was considered by the Civil Judge (Senor Division), Gonda and by means of the order dated 11.3.2019 the same was allowed. The application preferred by the respondents had stated that the earlier written statement was filed when both of them were on good terms and relationship and subsequently, the relations got sour. There was material change in the circumstances which necessitated filing of the aforesaid additional written statement. All these grounds was duly accepted by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Gonda and the additional statement was taken on record.

8. The petitioner being aggrieved by the order dated 11.3.2019 preferred a revision before learned District Judge which was registered as Revision No.20 of 2019. Before the District Judge, the petitioner canvased all his grievance and submitted that as per the provisions of Order 6, Rule 17 of CPC at such advanced stage of proceedings application for taking additional written statement could not be allowed.

9. While rejecting the revision filed by the petitioner learned District Judge has taken notice of this fact that the relationship between respondent No.1 and 2 has changed materially. When earlier written statement was filed by respondent No.s 1 and 2 they were living jointly and subsequently their relationship became strained, therefore, to protect their interest it was necessary for respondent No.1 to file additional statement and these developments having come into existence subsequent to filing the first written statement and it was necessary to bring this affidavit on record. The petitioner being aggrieved by the acceptance of additional written submissions has preferred the instant writ petition.

10. To decide this controversy it is relevant to go through the provisions of Order 6 Rule 17 of CPC amended which reads as under:-

"17. Amendment of pleadings- The Court may at any stage of the proceedings allow either party to alter or amend his pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be just, and all such amendment shall be made as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the real questions in controversy between the parties.

Provided that no application for amendment shall be allowed after the trial has commenced, unless the court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial."

11. A perusal of the said provision clearly indicate that the court at any stage of the proceedings can allow either party to alter or amend his pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be just, and all such amendments shall be made as may be necessary for the purpose of of determining the real questions in controversy between the parties.

12. The proviso provides that any application for amendment shall be allowed after the trial has commenced, unless the court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence the parties could not have raised the matter before the commencement of the trial.

13. It will be relevant to consider the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Estralla Rubber Vs. Dass Estate (P) Ltd, (2001) 8 Supreme Court Cases 97 in which in para 8 it has been held as under:-

"It is fairly settled in law that the amendment of pleadings under Order 6, Rule 17 is to be allowed if such

"It is fairly settled in law that the amendment of pleadings under Order 6,

Rule 17 is to be allowed if such an amendment is required for proper and effective adjudication of controversy between the parties and to avoid multiplicity of judicial proceedings, subject to certain conditions such as allowing amendment should not result in injustice to the other side; normally a clear admission made conferring certain right on a plaintiff is not allowed to be withdrawn by way of amendment by a defendant resulting in prejudice to such a right of plaintiff, depending on facts and circumstances of a given case. In certain situations a time barred claim cannot be allowed to be raised by proposing an amendment to take away valuable accrued right of a party. However, mere delay in making an amendment application itself is not enough to refuse amendment, as the delay can be compensated in terms of money. Amendment is to be allowed when it does not cost serious prejudice to the opposite side. This Court in recent judgment in B.K. Narayana Pillai vs. Parameswaran Pillai and another [(2000) 1 SCC 712], after referring to number of decisions, in para 3 has stated, thus: -

"3. The purpose and object of Order 6 Rule 17 CPC is to allow either party to alter or amend his pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be just.

The power to allow the amendment is wide and can be exercised at any stage of the proceedings in the interests of justice on the basis of guidelines laid down by various High Courts and this Court. It is true that the amendment cannot be claimed as a matter of right and under all circumstances. But it is equally true that the courts while deciding such prayers should not adopt a hyper technical approach. Liberal approach should be the general rule particularly in cases where the other side can be compensated with the costs. Technicalities of law should not be permitted to hamper the courts in the administration of justice between the parties. Amendments are allowed in the pleadings to avoid uncalled-for multiplicity of litigation."

In para 4 of the same judgment this Court has quoted the following passage from the judgment in A.K. Gupta and Sons Ltd. Vs. Damodar Vally Corporation [1966 (1) SCR 796]: -

"The general rule, no doubt, is that a party is not allowed by amendment to set up a new case or a new cause of action particularly when a suit on new case or cause of action is barred: Weldon v. Neal [(1887) 19 QBD 394 : 56 LJ QB 621]. But it is also well recognized that where the amendment does not constitute the addition of a new cause of action or raise a different case, but amounts to no more than a different or additional approach to the same facts, the amendment will be allowed even after the expiry of the statutory period of limitation: See Charan Das v. Amir Khan [AIR 1921 PC 50 : ILR 48 Cal 110] and L.J. Leach and Co. Ltd. V.

Jardine Skinner and Co. [AIR 1957 SC 357 :

1957 SCR 438]."

This Court in the same judgment further observed that the principles applicable to the amendment of the plaint are equally applicable to the amendment of the written statement and that the courts are more generous in allowing amendment of the written statement as the question of prejudice is less likely to operate in that event. It is further stated that the defendant has a right to take alternative plea in defence which, however, is subject to an exception that by the proposed amendment the other side should not be subjected to serious injustice and that any admission made in favour of the plaintiff conferring right on him is not withdrawn."

14. In the light of the above discussions it is clearly borne out that application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC can be moved at any stage of the proceedings, only such evidence can be brought on record which are not within the knowledge of the parties at the time when the pleadings were filed. It is needless to say that first written statement was brought on record when the said relationship between respondent No.1 and 2, who had jointly filed the same, was quite good, but subsequently the relationship having become strained which was a subsequent development and this fact not having been denied by the petitioner, it cannot be said that this fact could have been brought on record at an earlier point of time.

15. In view of the observations in the above mentioned judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court and the discussions made hereinabove, there is no error in exercise of the discretion in accepting the written statement by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Gonda, who has considered all the facts and circumstances necessary in allowing the application. The District Judge has also considered all these circumstances and arguments raised by the petitioner and no infirmity could be pointed out in any of the facts or points decided by him. I do not find any infirmity in the order of learned District Judge. The petition is without merits and is hereby dismissed.

16. Needles to say that after acceptance of the additional written statement, learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Gonda shall proceed to decide the revision expeditiously and shall make earnest endeavor to decide the same within a period of one year from the date a certified copy of this order is placed before him, if there is no other legal impediment.

17. The petition is dismissed.

A. U.P. Krishi Utpadan Mandi Samiti Act, 1964 - Section 32 - Power of Revision delegated to Director-Revision preferred to Director-transferred to Deputy Director-Power of Revision when delegated to Director-it become a function to be performed by him-therefore, Director can authorize any officer to perform his functions including delegated powers u/s 32.

Held, The power of Revision when delegated to Director by virtue of Section 33 becomes a function to be performed by Director under Act, 1964 and, therefore, Director can authorize any other Officer to perform all or any of his functions under Act, 1964 which includes delegated powers to be performed by Director under Section 32 of Act, 1964. In view thereof I find myself unable to accept the contention of learned counsel for petitioners that power exercised by Deputy Director in deciding Revision is bad in law as he had no jurisdiction to decide Revision and Director had no power to authorize Deputy Director to decide Revision. (Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J)

1. Heard Sri Shafiq Mirza, Advocate, for petitioner; and, learned Standing Counsel and Sri N.C. Mehrotra, Advocate, for respondents in all these writ petitions.

2. Petitioner in Writ Petition No. 3225 of 2008 (hereinafter referred to as "WP-1"), M/s. Ganesh Grain Store, Raniganj Bazar, Ballia has filed WP-1 under Article 226 of Constitution praying for issue of a writ of certiorari and quash order dated 31.03.2008 (Annexure-6 to WP-1) passed by Sri R.K. Arya, Deputy Director (Administration), Krishi Utpadan Mandi Samiti, Varanasi dismissing petitioner's Revision No. 993 of 2007 submitted under Section 32 of U.P. Krishi Utpadan Mandi Samiti Act, 1964 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1964"). Petitioner has also prayed for a writ of certiorari to quash order dated 14.09.2007 (Annexure-9 to WP-1) issued by Additional Legal Adviser informing Regional Deputy Director, Mandi Samiti, Varanasi that vide order dated 13.08.1999 he has been authorized to decide Revision under Section 32 of Act, 1964. Petitioner has also prayed for a writ of mandamus commanding respondent-1 to exercise its power under Section 33B of Act, 1964 and also prayed that Section 20 of Act, 1964 be declared ultra vires and unconstitutional.

3. Facts in brief, giving rise to WP-1, are that vide Government Order dated 24.12.2001 (Annexure-1 to WP-1) two per cent exemption in Mandi Fee and half percent rebate in Development Cess was granted, besides two per cent concession in Trade Tax. Petitioner conducted business in the Financial Years (hereinafter referred to as "F.Y.") 2003-04, 2004-05, 2005-06. The exemption aforesaid was granted for the F.Y. 2001 to 2006. Therefore, with the end of scheme, petitioner's business also stood closed.

However, petitioner received a letter dated 30.04.2007 issued by Mandi Samiti, Ballia (respondent-5), raising demand of Rs. 10,22,622.90 stating that petitioner did not deposit the bill of loading/shipment H Form Second Copy and, therefore it was liable to pay the aforesaid amount. A reminder demand notice dated 22.05.2007 directing petitioner to deposit the aforesaid amount was also received. Thereafter, petitioner filed Revision against the aforesaid orders before Director, Mandi Samiti vide memo of Revision dated 31.07.2007. Before filing Revision, petitioner filed Writ Petition before this Court challenging demand notice in which an interim order was also passed but when petitioner availed statutory remedy of Revision, Writ Petition (MB) No. 6858 of 2007 was dismissed vide judgment dated 17.09.2007 with a direction to competent authority to decide Revision within a period of one month from the date of receipt of certified copy. Consequently, impugned revisional order has been passed on 31.03.2008 by Deputy Director rejecting petitioner's Revision.

4. Learned counsel for petitioner, Sri Shafiq Mirza, in WP-1 has challenged the aforesaid order of Revision on the ground that Deputy Director had no authority or jurisdiction to decide Revision inasmuch Director, Mandi Samiti himself was exercising delegated power and had no authority to further delegate or sub-delegate his power, therefore, sub-delegation by Director to Deputy Director is wholly without jurisdiction. In this regard, he placed reliance on Sections 2(h), 26-I, 27, 33 and 33-A of Act, 1964 and Rule 135 of U.P. Krishi Utpadan Mandi Rules, 1965 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1965").

5. On behalf of Mandi Samiti, Counter Affidavit has been filed stating that validity of Section 20 of Act, 1964 has been upheld by this Court. Further, power to decide Revision has been conferred by Board upon Additional Director, Deputy Director as well as Regional Deputy Director.

6. On the contrary, Sri N.C. Mehrotra, learned counsel appearing for respondent-Mahdi Samiti, submitted that Board has delegated the power with authority of further sub-delegation and therefore, Deputy Director has validly exercised revisional power. He placed reliance on Supreme Court's judgment in Heinz India Private Limited and another Vs. State of U.P. and others (2012) 5 SCC 443.

7. Facts in both the connected Writ Petition No. 3271 of 2008 (hereinafter referred to as "WP-2") and Writ Petition No. 3272 of 2008 (hereinafter referred to as "WP-3") are also similar inasmuch therein also order passed by Deputy Director deciding petitioner's Revision vide order dated 31.03.2008 are under challenge on the same grounds, therefore, I am not repeating the facts since question of law raised in all these Writ Petitions is common and same.

8. Thus issue up for consideration in all these Writ Petitions is "whether Director was competent to delegate power of deciding Revision filed under Section 32 of Act, 1964 upon Deputy Director". In other words, "whether power conferred upon Deputy Director to decide Revision under Section 32 of Act, 1964 is validly exercised power", and "whether Revision has been decided by competent statutory authority or not".

9. In order to to examine the aforesaid issue I may have a bird eye view of Act, 1964.

10. Act, 1964 was enacted with an objective to regulate Agricultural Markets in State of U.P. with a view to achieve following objects:

"(i) to reduce the multiple trade charges, levies and exactions charged at present from the producer-sellers;

(ii) to provide for the verification of accurate weights and scales and see that the producer-seller is not denied his legitimate due;

(iii) to establish market committees in which the agricultural producer will have his due representation;

(iv) to ensure that the agricultural producer has his say in the utilisation of market funds for the improvement of the market as a whole;

(v) to provide for fair settlement of disputes relating to the sale of agricultural produce;

(vi) to provide amenities to the producer-seller in the market;

(vii) to arrange for better storage facilities;

(viii) to stop inequitable and unauthorised charges and levies from the producer-seller; and

(ix) to make adequate arrangements for market intelligence with a view to posting the agricultural producer with the latest position in respect of the markets dealing with his produce."

11. Chapter 2 deals with "Market Area And Market Yards" and contains Sections 5 to 11. Section 5 confers power upon Government whenever it is of opinion that it is necessary or expedient in the interest of public to regulate sale and purchase of any agricultural produce in any area, for that purpose it may declare that area as a Market Area by Notification in Gazette and after inviting objections such Market Area can be declared by State Government under Section 6. Once a Market Area is declared, State Government by Notification in Gazette under Section 7 may declare certain portion of Market Area as "Principal Market Yard" and other portion as "Sub-Market Yard". It can also declare that whole-sale transactions of all or any of specified agricultural produce, in respect of a Market Area, shall be carried on only at a specified place or place within Principal Market Yard by Sub-Market Yard. Once a market is declared as per Section 9 of Act, 1964, no legal body or other person shall, within the Market Area, set up, establish or continue or allow to be set up, established or continued any place for the sale-purchase, storage, weighment or processing of the specified agricultural produce except under and in accordance with the conditions of licence granted by Committee concerned. This provision has been given overriding effect over any other law, custom or usage or agreement providing otherwise.

12. Chapter-III deals with the "Market Committee". Section 12 provides that there shall be a Committee to be called "Mandi Samiti" of every Market Area which shall be a body corporate having perpetual succession and an official seal. Subject to such restrictions and/or qualifications, if any, imposed by Act, 1964 or any other enactment, 'Mandi Samiti' may sue or be sued in its corporate name and acquire, hold, and dispose of property and enter into contracts. A 'Mandi Samiti' is deemed to be a Local Authority for the purposes of Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1894") and any other law for the time being in force by virtue of Section 12(2) of Act, 1964. I am not going into details of Committee, its power etc. as the same are of no relevance to the issues raised in these Writ Petitions.

13. Chapter-V deals with external control of Market Area etc. Section 26-A empowers State Government to constitute a Board by the name of State Agricultural Produce Markets Board with its Head Office at Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as "Board"). I may notice at this stage that Definition of Board under Section 2(a-i) states that 'Board' means the State Agricultural Produce Markets Board constituted under Section 26-A. The constitution of Board is provided in Section 26-E. Director is defined in Section 2(h) and it read as under:

"(h) "Director" means an officer appointed by the State Government as Director of Mandis and includes any other Officer authorised by the Director to perform all or any of his functions under this Act;"

14. Director is an Ex-officio of Secretary of Board and has been termed as 'Member Secretary' at various places in Act, 1964.

15. The power of employment of officers and servants for effective functioning of Board is conferred upon Board under Section 26-F. The Board can also lay down terms and conditions of Officers and Servants appointed by it but the same have to be framed with previous approval of State Government. However, subject to superintendence of Board, general control and direction over all Officers and servants of Board is vested in Director vide Section 26-G. Board may delegate its powers under Act, 1964 to any such Committee appointed by it or to Director or Member Secretary or any other Officer of Board by virtue of Section 26-I.

16. Power and functions of Board are provided in Section 26-L and it reads as under:

"26-L. Powers and functions of the Board.-(1) The Board shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, have the following functions and shall have power to do anything which may be necessary or expedient for carrying out those functions-

(i) superintendence and control over the working of the Market Committees and other affairs thereof including programmes undertaken by such Committees for the construction of new Market yards and development of existing Markets and Market areas;

(ii) giving such direction to Committees in general or any Committee in particular with a view to ensure efficiency thereof;

(iii) any other function entrusted to it by this Act;

(iv) such other functions as may be entrusted to the Board by the State Government by notification in the Gazette.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, such power shall include the power-

(i) to approve proposals of the new sites selected by the Committee for the development of Markets;

(ii) to supervise and guide the Committees in the preparation of site-plans and estimates of construction programmes undertaken by the Committee;

(iii) to execute all works chargeable to the Board's fund;

(iv) to maintain accounts in such forms as may be prescribed and get the same audited in such manner as may be laid down in regulations of the Board;

(v) to publish annually at the close of the year, its progress report, balance-sheet, and statement of assets and liabilities and send copies to each member of the Board as well as to the Chairman of all Market Committees;

(vi) to make necessary arrangements for propaganda publicity on matters related to regulated marketing of agricultural produce;

(vii) to provide facilities for the training of officers and servants of the Market Committees;

(viii) to prepare and adopt budget for the ensuring year;

(ix) to make subventions and loans to Market Committees for the purposes of this Act on such terms and conditions as the Board may determine;

(x) to do such other things as may be of general interest to Market Committees or considered necessary for the efficient functioning of the Board as may be specified from time to time by the State Government."

17. Section 27 provides power and duties of Director and reads as under:

"27. Powers and duties of the Director.- (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the general superintendence, direction and control over the Committee and its Chairman, Vice-Chairman and other members, its Secretary and other officers referred to in sub-section (2) of Section 23, shall be vested in the Board.

(2) The Board or the Director may inspect, or cause to be inspected, all documents or records relating to the affairs of the Committee and, require the Committee, its Chairman, Vice-Chairman, members, officers or servants to furnish such information or material as he may consider necessary.

(3) On receipt of a complaint in respect of an act relating to the affairs of the Committee, the State Government may require the Director to conduct enquiry or institute proceeding against the Committee, its Chairman, Vice-Chairman, member or officer, and the Director shall act accordingly.

(4) The Director shall, for the purpose of holding any enquiry under this Act, have the same powers as are vested in a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, when trying a suit, in respect of the following matters, namely-

(a) summoning and enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath;

(b) requiring the discovery and production of documents; and

(c) any other matters which may be prescribed."

18. Power to entertain Revision has been conferred upon Board against an order or proceedings of a Committee under Section 32 and it reads as under:

"32. Powers of the Board to call for the proceedings of a Committee and pass orders thereon.- The Board may, for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of any decision of, or order passed by, a Committee, at any time call and examine the proceedings of the Committee, and, where it is of the opinion that the decision or order of the Committee should be modified, annulled or reversed, pass such orders thereon as it may deem fit."

19. Section 33 talks of development of power and reads as under:

"33. Delegation of powers.-The Board may, by regulations, delegate subject to such conditions and restrictions and in such manner, as may be specified therein, any of its powers to the Director." (emphasis added)

20. Power of framing Rules have been conferred upon State Government by virtue of Section 40 of Act, 1964. In exercise of power under Section 40 of Act, 1964 State Government has framed Rules, 1965.

21. Procedure for filing Revision is dealt with by Rule 133-A of Rules, 1965 and it reads as under:

"133-A. Revision under the Act (Section 32).-(1) A fee of Rupees Ten in cash shall be deposited with the Committee for every revision to be filed under the Act and a receipt therefor shall be obtained from the Committee.

(2) No revision under the Act shall be entertained unless it is accompanied by a receipt duly granted by the Committee for the payment of the amount of fee as referred to in sub-rule (1).

(3) Subject to the provisions of sub-rule (2), on receipt of a revision under Section 32 of the Act, the Board or the Officer nominated by it shall after examining the case and affording the person concerned a reasonable opportunity of being heard in person, dispose of the revision within 60 days from the date of filing of the revision. The Board or the officer nominated by it shall during the hearing of the revision also consider the propriety of the order passed by the Committee on the basis of merit and demerit thereof and pass the suitable order. The order passed by the Board or the officer nominated by it shall be final and binding." (emphasis added)

22. Rule 135 of Rules, 1965 talks of power of Director in certain cases with reference to Section 27 read with Section 40(2) (xxx) and it reads as under:

"135. Power of the Director in certain cases [Sections 27 and 40(2)(xxx)].- Without prejudice to the provisions of the Act, and these rules, the Director, may-

(i) cause periodical inspection of the affairs of the Committee to be carried out by any Officer Authorised by him in this behalf;

(ii) order, on receipt of a report or complaint or on his own motion, for special audit of the accounts of the Committee at the cost of the Committee;

(iii) direct the Committee, Chairman, Vice-Chairman, or any Member, Officer or Servant of the Committee to undertake such measures as he may consider necessary, for the improvement and development of the Market Area, Principal Market Yard and Sub-Market Yards;

(iv) exercise such powers and pass such orders as he may deem necessary for proper functioning of and effective superintendence and control over the Committee and the Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Members, Officers and Servants of the Committee under the Act:

Provided that such powers superintendence and control in so far as they relate to the Officers and Servants appointed by the Committee under sub-section (1) of Section 23 of the Act, shall be exercised through, the Chairman of the Committee.

(v) inspect or cause to be inspected any premises, vehicles or stocks for the purpose of holding any inquiry under sub-section (4) of Section 27 of the Act."

23. It is no doubt true that a well settled principle in law is, 'delegatus non potest delegare'. A delegate has no power to delegate. The principle, however, has a different field of operation in the context of legislative powers vis-a-vis non-legislative/administrative powers. It is well settled that delegation of power to legislate cannot be sub-delegated. In other words, Legislature cannot delegate essential legislative functions which consists of determination or choosing of the legislative policy and formally enacting that policy into a binding rule of conduct. Subordinate legislation, however, is in the realm of Rules and Regulations dealing with the procedure on implementation of plenary legislation and generally a task entrusted to a specified authority. Principal Legislature is not supposed to spend its time for working out details on implementation of law. It can entrust such task to an agency and to this extent sub-delegation is permissible but such agency cannot further entrust such task to its subordinates. It would be a breach of confidence reposed on delegate. With regard to delegation of non-legislative/administrative powers on a person or a body to do certain things, whether delegatee himself is to perform such functions or whether after taking decision as per the terms of the delegation, the said agency can authorize the implementation of the same on somebody else, depends upon the Statute concerned. Once power is conferred, after exercising power of taking decision as per the Policy etc., the question how to implement the decision taken in the process, is a matter of procedure. The Legislature may, after laying down legislative policy, confer discretion on an administrative agency with regard to execution of policy. It can leave this task to agency to work out the details within the framework of that policy. So long as essential functions of decision making is performed by the delegate, the burden of performing the ancillary and clerical task need not be shouldered by the primary delegate. It is not necessary that primary delegate himself should perform ministerial acts as well. Implementation of decision already taken by primary delegate as per the delegation, ministerial or clerical tasks can be performed by authorized officers. Practical necessities or exigencies of administration require that the decision making authority who has been conferred with statutory power, be able to delegate tasks when the situation so requires. Thus, the maxim "delegatus non potest delegare", gives way in the performance of administrative or ministerial tasks by subordinate authorities in furtherance of the exercise of delegated power by an authority.

24. In Barium Chemicals Limited and another Vs. The Co. Law Board and another AIR 1967 SC 295 Court said:

"... the maxim delegatus non potest delegare must not be pushed too far. The maxim does not embody a rule of law. It indicates a rule of construction of a statute or other instrument conferring an authority. Prima facie, a discretion conferred by a statute on any authority is intended to be exercised by that authority and by no other. But the intention may be negatived by any contrary indications in the language, scope or object of the statute. The construction that would best achieve the purpose and object of the statute should be adopted." (emphasis added)

25. In Gwalior Rayon Silk Manufacturing (Wvg.) Co. Ltd. Vs. The Assistant Commissioner of Sales Tax and others (1974) 4 SCC 98, a Constitution Bench held that essential legislative functions consist in the determination or choosing of the legislative policy and it is formally has a binding rule of conduct, cannot be delegated by Legislature, nor is there any unlimited right of delegation inherent in the legislative power itself. The legislature must retain in its own hands the essential legislative functions and what can be delegated is the task of subordinate legislation necessary for implementing the purposes and objects of the Act. Where the law passed by Legislature declares legislative policy and lays down the standard which is enacted into a rule of law, it can leave the task of subordinate legislation like making of rules, regulations or bye-laws which by its very nature is ancillary to the statute, to subordinate bodies.

26. In Director General, E.S.I. and another Vs. T. Abdul Razak, etc. (1996) 4 SCC 708, Court held that statutory power must be exercised only by body or officer in whom it has been confided unless sub-delegation of power is authorised by express words or necessary implication.

27. This Court has also followed authorities in Gwalior Rayon Silk Manufacturing (Wvg.) Co. Ltd. Vs. The Assistant Commissioner of Sales Tax and others (supra) and Director General, E.S.I. and another Vs. T. Abdul Razak, etc. (supra) in its judgment in Writ Petition (Writ-A) No. 786 of 1995 (Ravinder Kumar Pal and others Vs. Nideshak, Karmchari Rajya Beema Sharam Chikitsalay and others) decided on 18.12.2013, para 5 and 6 whereof read as under:

*"5. However, I find no force in the submission. It is well settled legal principle in constitutional and administrative law that 'delegatus non potest delegare, "one to whom power is delegated cannot himself further delegate that power' (See: Gwalior Rayon Silk Mfg. (Wvg.) Co. Vs. The Asstt. Commissioner of Sales 1974 AIR 1660).

6. Following the above principle, Apex Court in Director General, E.S.I. and another Vs. T . Abdul Razak AIR 1996 SC 2292 has held as under:

"The law is well settled that in accordance with the maxim delegatus non potest delegare, a statutory power must be exercised only by the body or officer in whom it has been confided..."

28. In Jamal Uddin Ahmad Vs. Abu Saleh Najmuddin and another (2003) 4 SCC 257, scope of delegation in the matter of judicial functions of Court was examined. Court held:

"13. The functions discharged by a High Court can be divided broadly into judicial and administrative functions. The judicial functions are to be discharged essentially by the Judges as per the Rules of the Court and cannot be delegated. However, administrative functions need not necessarily be discharged by the Judges by themselves, whether individually or collectively or in a group of two or more, and may be delegated or entrusted by authorization to subordinates unless there be some rule of law restraining such delegation or authorisation. Every High Court consists of some administrative and ministerial staff which is as much a part of the High Court as an institution and is meant to be entrusted with the responsibility of discharging administrative and ministerial functions. There can be "delegation" as also there can be "authorization" in favour of the Registry and the officials therein by empowering or entrusting them with authority or by permitting a few things to be done by them for and on behalf of the Court so as to aid the Judges in discharge of their judicial functioning. Authorization may take the form of formal conferral or sanction or may be by way of approval or countenance. Such delegation or authorization is not a matter of mere convenience but a necessity at times. The Judges are already overburdened with the task of performing judicial functions and the constraints on their time and energy are so demanding that it is in public interest to allow them to devote time and energy as much as possible in discharging their judicial functions, relieving them of the need for diverting their limited resources of time and energy to such administrative or ministerial functions, which, on any principle of propriety, logic, or necessity are not required necessarily to be performed by the Judges. Receiving a cause or a document and making it presentable to a Judge for the purpose of hearing or trial and many a functions post-decision, which functions are administrative and ministerial in nature, can be and are generally entrusted or made over to be discharged by the staff of the High Court, often by making a provision in the Rules or under the orders of the Chief Justice or by issuing practice directions, and at times, in the absence of rules, by sheer practice. The practice gathers the strength of law and the older the practice the greater is the strength. ..."

29. In NGEF Ltd . Vs . Chandra Developers Pvt . Ltd . and others (2005) 8 SCC 219, Court has observed that BIFR being a statutory authority, in absence of any provision empowering it to delegate its power in favour of any other authority, had no jurisdiction to do so. 'Delegatus non potest delegare' is a well-known maxim which means unless expressly authorized a delegate cannot sub-delegate its power.

30. Referring to some of the above authorities, same proposition of law has been followed in Sidhartha Sarawgi Vs. Board of Trustees for the Port of Kolkata and others (2014) 16 SCC 248 and Union of India Vs. B.V. Gopinath and others (2014) 1 SCC 351.

31. Now we will examine the issues raised before this Court in the present case in the light of above exposition of law.

32. The definition of 'Director' includes any other Officer authorized by Director to perform all or any of his functions under Act, 1964.

33. Section 32 of Act, 1964 confers power of Revision upon Board. Section 33 which was substituted by U.P. Act No. 10 of 1991 with effect from 01.09.1990 provides that the Board may, by Regulations, delegate, subject to such conditions and restrictions and in such manner, as may be specified therein, any of its power to 'Director'. Petitioners in these Writ Petitions have not disputed that power of Revision is delegated to Director and Revisions were preferred by petitioners to Director. Revisions preferred to 'Director' were transferred to Deputy Director with reference to Board's resolution dated 12.12.1994 and 19.01.1998 and order dated 13.08.1999 and delegation of power by Director to Deputy Director, Varanasi communicated to him vide letter dated 14.09.2007.

34. The submission is that 'Director' exercised power delegated to it by Board under Section 33 and it is not Director's any of his functions under Act, 1964 and, therefore, Section 2(h) which defines "Director" will not include within its ambit Deputy Director, Varanasi who has decided the Revision in question. I find that almost similar question has been considered by Supreme Court in Heinz India Pvt. Ltd. and others Vs. State of U.P. and others (2012) 5 SCC 443 wherein also Revision was decided by an Officer authorized by Director and Court said as under:

"33. .... It is manifest from a plain reading of the above that the expression 'Director' wherever used in the Act including Section 33 thereof includes an officer authorised by the Director to perform all or any of his functions under the Act. Significantly enough neither before the High Court nor before us was it contended that the officer who had handled and disposed of the revision petitions filed by the dealers, was not duly authorised in terms of Section 2(h) or that the power of the Board under Section 32 of the Act was not duly delegated to the Director. It is not, therefore, a case of inherent lack of jurisdiction. All that the Appellants propose is that the revisions could either be heard by the Board itself or made over for disposal to a Committee of officers senior enough to decide issues of fact and law involving substantial financial stakes of the parties.

34. Now it is true that the stakes involved in the present batch of cases are substantial and those called upon to satisfy the demands raised against them would like their cases to be heard by a senior officer or a Committee of officers to be nominated by the Board. But in the absence of any data as to the number of cases that arise for consideration involving a challenge to the demands raised by the Market Committee and the nature of the disputes that generally fall for determination in such cases, it will not be possible for this Court to step in and direct an alteration in the mechanism that is currently in place. The power to decide the revisions vests with the Board who also enjoys the power to delegate that function to the Director. So long as there is statutory sanction for the Director to exercise the revisional power vested in the Board, any argument that such a delegation is either impermissible or does not serve the purpose of providing a suitable machinery for adjudication of the disputes shall have to be rejected.

35. It is noteworthy that Rule 133-A of the Rules framed under the Act regulates the filing and disposal of the revision petitions under Section 32 thereof. This provision was inserted with effect from 11th May, 2008 and empowers the Board either to decide the revision petition itself or to nominate an officer for doing so. It also provides for grant of an opportunity of being heard to the person concerned and a time bound disposal of the revision. Rule 133-A is, therefore, a step in the direction of providing a machinery under the Act for adjudication of disputes that may arise between dealers on the one hand and the market committee on the other. That being so, the Act is not completely bereft of a machinery nor can it be said that the observations made by this Court in Ram Chandra Kailash Kumar's case (supra) have gone unheeded. All that we need to add is that in order to make the Board's revisional power more effective and its exercise more transparent and credible, the Board would do well to delegate the power of hearing and disposal of the revision petitions to a senior and experienced officer who is well-versed in dealing with legal issues concerning assessment and/or determination of the liability under the Act. Beyond that it is neither necessary nor proper for us to say anything. Question No. 1 is answered accordingly." (emphasis added)

35. The power of Revision when delegated to Director by virtue of Section 33 becomes a function to be performed by Director under Act, 1964 and, therefore, Director can authorize any other Officer to perform all or any of his functions under Act, 1964 which includes delegated powers to be performed by Director under Section 32 of Act, 1964. In view thereof I find myself unable to accept the contention of learned counsel for petitioners that power exercised by Deputy Director in deciding Revision is bad in law as he had no jurisdiction to decide Revision and Director had no power to authorize Deputy Director to decide Revision.

36. The issues, formulated above, are answered against petitioners.

37. Since this Court has not been addressed on merits of issue as to whether demand raised from petitioners was valid or not, hence, I have not gone into that issue at all.

38. No other point has been argued.

39. The writ petitions lack merit. Dismissed.

40. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

THE HON'BLE MRS. SANGEETA CHANDRA, J.

Misc. Single No. 34797 of 2019

Lalita Devi & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
Board of Revenue U.P., Lucknow & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Indrajeet Shukla, P.K. Shukla

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Mohd. Waris Farooqui

A. Challenging-impugned order-passed illegally-without notice on prescribed date-without informing petitioner-normally writ jurisdiction not exercised in matters arising out of mutation proceedings- in the case-if not-would amount to restoring illegal order.

B. When two remedies available no prohibition is pursuing both simultaneously-aggrieved person can choose either one or both remedies.

C. Held, This Court is aware that normally extra ordinary writ jurisdiction is not exercised in matters arising out of mutation proceedings. In this case, however, the order passed by the Board of Revenue, if not, interfered with by this Court in equity jurisdiction would amount to restoring an illegal and fraudulent order dated 08.08.2012 passed by the Naib Tehsildar.

D. This Court also feels that it is its duty to correct an error of law occurring in the lower court record. The Board of Revenue under some misconception of law, had come to the conclusion that the Recall application having been filed, no Revision was maintainable simultaneously. The Supreme Court has settled the position in law that when two remedies are available to a person aggrieved and there is no prohibition in law in pursuing of both the remedies simultaneously, then the person aggrieved can choose either to avail only one remedy or to avail both remedies to establish his rights.

E. The order passed by the Board of Revenue dated 30.10.2019 is set aside. The order passed by the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda, on 07.04.2016 is affirmed. The parties are directed to approach the Naib Tehsildar who shall consider the matter on merits and decide the same strictly in accordance with law within a period of three months from today.

Writ Petition allowed. (E-8)

1. Vijay Shanker V. Additional Commissioner (Administration), Lucknow Division & Ors. W.P No.7719 (M/S) of 2014

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

(1) Heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

(2) This petition has been filed by the petitioners challenging the order dated 30.10.2019 passed by the opposite party no.1-Board of Revenue, U.P., Lucknow and also praying for a direction to be issued to the opposite parties to maintain status-quo and not alienate the property in question i.e. Khata Nos.1484 and 1645 situated at Village Keshav Nagar (Paschim), Pargana, Budhapayar, Tehsil Mankapur, District Gonda.

(3) Learned counsel for the petitioners Shri Indrajeet Shukla, has placed the brief facts related to the controversy for its better appreciation. It has been submitted that a dispute relating to Khata Nos.1484 and 1645 situated Village Keshav Nagar (Paschim), Pargana Budhapayar, Tehsil Mankapur, District Gonda arose. Smt. Lakpati widow of Ram Keval, was the undisputed recorded tenure holder of the land in question and after her death on 14.06.1992 by virtue of PA-11 entry the names of Ram Ratan and Ram Milan were recorded as legal heirs in the Revenue records. A Mutation proceedings by way of application was initiated by the opposite party no.3 Adhari wife of Ram Sughar as a result whereof an order dated 24.08.1994 was passed by the Naib Tehsildar without providing any opportunity of hearing to the recorded tenure holders Ram Ratan and Ram Milan. Since the recorded tenure holders Ram Ratan and Ram Milan were not provided any opportunity of hearing, they moved a restoration application seeking Recall of the order dated 24.08.1994. During the pendency of the restoration application, they died and the legal heirs were substituted by an order dated 02.12.2011. The restoration application was allowed setting aside the order dated 24.08.1994 and the next date fixed was 23.12.2011. On 23.12.2011, a general date was fixed for 20.07.2012 and on 20.07.2012, again a general date was fixed for 24.08.2012. On 08.08.2012 an order deciding the mutation proceedings was passed by the Naib Tehsildar, Babhanipayar, Tehsil Mankapur, District Gonda, on the basis of some spot inspection carried out on an application made by the opposite party no.3 on 26.06.2012. Neither the spot inspection was carried out in presence of the petitioners nor the date earlier fixed as 24.08.2012 was pre-poned and notice issued for the date to be fixed as 08.08.2012. A copy of the Spot Inspection and Enquiry report was never provided to the predecessor in the interest of the petitioners. In fact, the order dated 08.08.2012 was passed by the opposite party no.2 in favour of the opposite party no.3 in a fraudulent manner.

(4) It has been submitted in Paragraph 12 of the petition that the Naib Tehsildar, Mankapur, had been transferred to Tehsil Nanpara District Bahraich, prior to 24.08.2012 and as such, before assuming charge at Tehsil Nanpara, District Bahraich, the order dated 08.08.2012 was passed to benefit the opposite party no.3 for extraneous consideration, although the date already fixed in the matter was 24.08.2012.

(5) Since the order dated 08.08.2012 was ex-parte, a Recall application was filed. At the same time, the petitioner was advised that since the order dated 08.08.2012 was on the merits of the matter, directing recording of the opposite party no.3 as co-tenure holder of the property in question and had been passed fraudulently, the petitioner may also file Revision against such proceedings. A Revision was preferred by the predecessor in the interest of the petitioner and it was allowed by the order dated 07.04.2016 passed by the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda.

(6) Learned Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda while allowing the Revision had summoned the lower court record and recorded a categorical finding that the order dated 08.08.2012 was passed by the Naib Tehsildar, Mankapur, Gonda while he was under transfer and also when no date was fixed on 08.08.2012. In the order-sheet there was a clear indication that on 20.07.2012 only a general date has been given and the matter had been fixed for 24.08.2012. The Additional Commissioner (J), Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda, had recorded a finding that the parties were not informed that the matter would be taken up on 08.08.2012. The Additional Commissioner (J), Gonda, also found that after 23.12.2011 only general dates had been fixed in all contested matters including the matter under his consideration by the Naib Tehsildar Court and no hearing on merits had taken place. Learned Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda set aside the order dated 08.08.2012 and remanded the matter to the Trial Court for adjudication on merits.

(7) Against the order dated 07.04.2016, the opposite party no.3 filed a Revision No.933 of 2016 on 25.04.2016. The said Revision has been allowed by the impugned order dated 30.10.2019 by the Board of Revenue only on the ground that the Recall application was pending against the order dated 08.08.2012 before the Naib Tehsildar and simultaneously a Revision had been filed by the predecessor in the interest of the petitioners before the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda. It was observed by the Member (Judicial) of Board of Revenue that two remedies against one order were not permissible to be prosecuted simultaneously. The order of the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda on its merits with regard to the finding of fraudulently getting the matter pre-poned and the order being passed on 08.08.2012 behind the back of the petitioners was not set aside or interfered with.

(8) It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioners that without setting aside the finding recorded by the First Revisional Court, the Second Revisional Court i.e. Board of Revenue only interfered with the order because under some misapprehension of law it was of the opinion that a Recall application before the Trial Court and a Revision before the Higher Court was not permissible simultaneously. The observation of the Board of Revenue is against the law settled by the Supreme Court in Bhanu Kumar Jain Vs. Archana Kumar and Others reported in 2005 (All.) C.J. 715. The Supreme Court has observed that a person aggrieved by an order passed ex-parte may file application under Order 9 Rule 13 for Recall, and at the same time file an Appeal and pursue both the remedies simultaneously. The statutory right on filing an Appeal cannot be curtailed and the circumstances mentioned by the Court in Paragraphs 24 to 28 of the judgment, although relate to an Appeal, also apply in case of Revision before a Superior Court, challenging the illegal and fraudulent proceedings of lower court. Paragraphs 24 to 25 of the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court say that an Appeal against an ex-parte decree in terms of Section 96 (2) of the CPC could be filed on such grounds as the material on record in the ex-parte proceedings in the suit by the plaintiff cannot entail a decree in his favour, and also that the Suit could not have been posted for ex-parte hearing. In an application under Order 9 Rule 13 of the Code, apart from questioning the correctness or otherwise of an order posting the case for ex-parte hearing, it is open to the defendant to contend that he had sufficient and cogent reasons for not being able to attend the hearing of the suit on the relevant date.

(9) This Court perused the judgment in Bhanu Kumar Jain (Supra) Paragraph 26 of the judgment rendered in Bhanu Kumar Jain (Supra), the Supreme Court had observed that a party aggrieved against the ex-parte decree has two clear options, one, to file an Appeal and another to file an application for setting aside the order in terms of Order 9 Rule 13 of the CPC. He can take recourse to both the proceedings simultaneously but in the event the Appeal is dismissed as a result whereof the ex-parte decree passed by the Trial Court merges with the order passed with the order passed by the Appellate Court, having regard to Explanation appended to Order 9 Rule 13 of the Code, a petition under Order 9 Rule 13 would not be maintainable.

(10) To summarize the law as settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, it may be observed that the right of Appeal is not taken away by filing an application under Order 9 Rule 13 of the CPC. If an Appeal is dismissed as a result of which the ex-parte decree merges with the order of the Appellate Court a Recall application against the order passed by the inferior Court would not be maintainable.

(11) It has moreover been submitted by Shri Indrajeet Shukla, that the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Devi

Patan Mandal, Gonda, noted the illegality and procedural impropriety in the order dated 08.08.2012 being passed by the Naib Tehsildar and having set it aside, had only remanded the matter to Naib Tehsildar to consider afresh on merits and thus substantial justice had been done and it was open to both the parties to participate before the Trial Court of Naib Tehsildar with regard to the mutation proceedings pending before him. Such order should not have been interfered with by the Board of Revenue in such a cursory manner and on a misconception of law.

(12) Shri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Mohd. Waris Farooqui has appeared on behalf of the respondent no.3. He has raised a preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the writ petition saying that the said writ petition arises out of orders passed in mutation proceedings. Ordinarily, this Court does not entertain the writ petition against such orders as mutation proceedings are the summary proceedings and it is open for the parties to get their rights adjudicated by filing a regular proceeding either in Revenue Courts or in Civil Court for declaration of their rights. He has pointed out Paragraph 12 of the counter affidavit to say that Ram Ratan and Ram Milan, the predecessor in interest had filed a Regular Suit No.38 of 2010 (Ram Kishore and Another Vs. Smt. Adhari and others) which was subjudice before the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Gonda, and therefore, this writ petition should not be entertained.

(13) Learned counsel for the respondent no.3 has also pointed out that the petitioner no.1 has sold out the property to one Balram, her brother on 25.05.2016 and mutation of the name of Balram has already been ordered by the Naib Tehsildar in the Revenue Record on 16.09.2016. Against the order dated 16.09.2016 an Appeal was filed by the respondent no.3 which has been entertained and the order dated 16.09.2016 has been stayed by the Appellate Court on 13.12.2016. Against the order passed by the Appellate Court dated 13.12.2016 the petitioners have filed a Revision which is pending before the Court of Additional Commissioner where the order passed by the Appellate Court has been stayed.

(14) It has been submitted that the petitioners have no locus to challenge the order dated 30.10.2019 as they have already sold out the property to one Balram.

(15) The learned counsel for the respondent no.3 has also submitted that by the order passed by the Board of Revenue impugned in this petition, only the order passed by the Additional Commissioner has been set aside and the petitioners have been asked to go to the Trial Court to pursue their restoration application pending against the order dated 08.08.2012. There would be ample opportunity to the petitioners to get their case thrashed out on merits before the Naib Tehsildar in the restoration application.

(16) Learned counsel for the respondent has also referred to Section 210 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act to say that the Revision before the Additional Commissioner filed under Section 219 by the petitioners was not maintainable. It has been submitted that against an order passed by the Assistant Collector, First Class or Second Class i.e. against an order passed by the SDM or the Tehsildar, an Appeal would lie and not a revision. The exception carved out under Sub-Section 6 of Section 210 would also not be available as the order impugned before the Additional Commissioner was passed under Section 34 of the Land Revenue Act and not under Section 33.

(17) It has also been submitted that the petitioners assignee Balram has not been arrayed as a party and the facts regarding the petitioners having sold off the property to Balram has been concealed before this Court. The transferee is the real brother of the petitioner no.1 Smt. Lalita.

(18) On merits it has also been submitted that initially Gayadeen was the recorded tenure holder. He had two sons Ramai and Ram Keval. Ram Keval married Lakpati while Ramai had tow sons, Ram Ratan and Ram Milan. Lakpati and Ram Keval had one daughter Smt. Adhari who has been arrayed as respondent no3. On the other hand, Smt. Lalita is claiming through Babu Lal and Annu Lal, the sons of Ram Kishore who is claiming through Ram Ratan the son of Ramai. It is a dispute between two branches of the same family one represented by the predecessor in interest of Smt. Lalita i.e. Ram Ratan and Ram Milan and the other represented by the opposite party no.3 Smt. Adhari. Smt. Adhari being the daughter of Ram Keval was deprived of her ancestral property by getting the name of Ram Ratan and Ram Milan alone recorded in the Record of Rights through the proceedings under PA-11, therefore, the mutation application was rightly filed by Smt. Adhari and the order passed by the Naib Tehsildar on 08.08.2012 directs recording of the name of Smt. Adhari also as co-tenure holder, and such order should not be interfered with in writ jurisdiction.

(19) Learned counsel for the petitioners Shri Indrajeet Shukla, on the other hand, in his reply has submitted that this Court in Awadhesh Singh Vs. Additional Commissioner and Others Writ-C 13751 of 2005 decided on 04.08.2017 has mentioned. The exceptions where this Court can interfere even in orders passed in mutation proceedings. It has been observed by this Court that where an order has been passed without jurisdiction or that it confers rights against the settled position in law, an order passed in mutation proceedings can be interfered with in writ jurisdiction. This Court has relied upon a judgment in Vijay Shanker V. Additional Commissioner (Administration), Lucknow Division & Ors. passed in Writ Petition No.7719 (M/S) of 2014. This Court had carved out the exceptions in Paragraph 15 of the judgment in Vijay Shanker (Supra) where it was held that remedy of writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can be available where the order passed is absolutely without jurisdiction, where the order passed is against an entry made in pursuance of the order passed by the Regular Court, where the Courts have not considered the matter on merits like where the Courts have passed the orders on restoration application etc., where the order has been obtained by fraud or by fabricating the documents.

(20) Learned counsel for the petitioners has emphasized the third and fourth grounds mentioned in Vijay Shanker (Supra) available for the writ petitioners to approach this Court in writ jurisdiction against the order passed in mutation proceedings.

(21) With regard to the second preliminary objection raised by the learned counsel for the respondent no.3, learned counsel for the petitioners has relied upon on Shardamma Vs. Mohammed Pyrejan

(D) through L.R.s & Another reported in AIR 2015 (SC) 3747; 2016 (1) SCC 730, where the Supreme Court has observed that an assignee can approach the court independently to protect the right of the assignee. The High Court had held that Shardamma, the plaintiff had transferred her interest in favour of her daughter during the pendency of the First Appeal and therefore, she had lost her right to continue the Appeal for the benefit of her daughter, who in turn had transferred the property in favour of a third person. The High Court had held that the appellant had lost her right to continue the Appeal. The Supreme Court over ruled the High Court and held that merely by assignment or release of the rights during the pendency of the Appeal, one does not lose the right to continue the Appeal, the Assignee may move an application for impleadment, but his failure to do so will not entail the dismissal of the Suit or the Appeal. The Assignee can continue the proceedings for the benefit of the Assignee. The Supreme Court observed on the basis of the judgment rendered by Jaskirat Datwani Vs. Vidyavati & Ors. reported in [2002 (5) SCC 647], that even if no step is taken by assignee, suit may be continued by the original party and the person upon whom the interest has devolved will be bound by the decree, particularly when such party had the knowledge of the proceedings and still failed to file any application for being heard.

(22) It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioners that the petitioner no.1 Smt. Lalita Devi may have sold off her property to her brother Balram but her rights to selling off the property are still to be determined and she can only transfer a right that she herself possesses to her Assignee, as a vendor cannot transfer a better right to her transferee.

(23) It has also been submitted that the Regular Suit filed by the Ram Milan is for a Permanent Injunction restraining the respondents from interfering in the peaceful possession of the petitioners' predecessors Ram Milan and Ram Ratan. There is no suit filed for declaration of rights of the parties, and said suit for permanent injunction shall take its own course whereas the mutation proceedings in this case have been initiated for recording of name in the Revenue records.

(24) It has also been submitted that the Additional Commissioner's orders had directed the parties to appear before the Trial Court i.e. the Court of Naib Tehsildar to thrash out the matter on merits in the mutation proceedings. Such order need not have been interfering with by the Board of Revenue on misconceived grounds as it directs for participation of both the parties before the Trial Court.

(25) Learned counsel for the petitioners has also stated that under Section 219 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, a Revision can be filed not only against the "order" but also against the "proceedings" and in a case where no Appeal lies or even where Appeal lies but has not been preferred. In this case, a Revision was filed against the illegality and impropriety of the procedure followed by the Naib Tehsildar in his making a spot inspection on the application made by the respondent no.3 behind the back of the petitioners, not giving copy of the spot inspection report to the petitioners and preponing date without notice to the petitioners from 24.08.2012 to 08.08.2012 and passing orders on merits of the case.

(26) This Court has considered the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the parties. This Court finds from the record that the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda, had summoned the lower court record and had found therefrom that on 20.07.2012 a general date had been given in all the cases of 24.08.2012. No application was moved for preponing the a date by either of the parties. The Naib Tehsildar Mankapur, had been transferred from Mankapur, Gonda to Tehsil Nanpara, District Bahraich before the date fixed on 24.08.2012. Without their being any date fixed on 08.08.2012, the Naib Tehsildar had passed the order impugned in favour of the respondents to the Revision for their names be recorded as co-tenure holders in the records of rights. The order-sheet had been produced before him and having perused the order-sheet, he had found that only general dates had been given in all the cases and the last date fixed on the order-sheet was 24.08.2012. Only a general date having been fixed, the matter was not heard on merits from 23.12.2011 onwards. Since March, 2012 to 24.08.2012 the Court of Naib Tehsildar had in fact not heard a single matter on contested mutation applications, filed before him. The Additional Commissioner had found that the order was passed behind the back of the Revisionists and without following the procedure in a fraudulent manner. The order passed by the Naib Tehsildar was set aside and the matter had only been remanded before the Trial Court to consider afresh on merits after giving opportunity to both the parties to be heard.

(27) This Court is aware that normally extra ordinary writ jurisdiction is not exercised in matters arising out of mutation proceedings. In this case, however, the order passed by the Board of Revenue, if not, interfered with by this Court in equity jurisdiction would amount to restoring an illegal and fraudulent order dated 08.08.2012 passed by the Naib Tehsildar.

(28) This Court also feels that it is its duty to correct an error of law occurring in the lower court record. The Board of Revenue under some misconception of law, had come to the conclusion that the Recall application having been filed, no Revision was maintainable simultaneously. The Supreme Court has settled the position in law that when two remedies are available to a person aggrieved and there is no prohibition in law in pursuing of both the remedies simultaneously, then the person aggrieved can choose either to avail only one remedy or to avail both remedies to establish his rights.

(29) The order passed by the Board of Revenue dated 30.10.2019 is set aside. The order passed by the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Devi Patan Mandal, Gonda, on 07.04.2016 is affirmed. The parties are directed to approach the Naib Tehsildar who shall consider the matter on merits and decide the same strictly in accordance with law within a period of three months from today.

(30) It is made clear that no unnecessary adjournments shall be given to either of the parties.

(31) Let a copy of this order be sent to the Additional Chief Secretary, Department of Revenue, Government of Uttar Pradesh by the office of the Chief Standing Counsel and also by the Registry to take appropriate action against the then Naib Tehsildar Babhanipayar, Tehsil Mankapur, District Gonda, who had passed the order dated 08.08.2012 for extraneous considerations and behind the back of the parties and, to initiate the disciplinary proceedings against the said Officer.

(32) Till the decision of the matter by the Naib Tehsildar concerned, the parties shall maintain the status-quo as on date with regard to the property in dispute.

(33) Writ petition stands allowed.

A. U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947-section 95 (1) (g)-U.P. Panchayat Raj (Removal of pradhan, Up-Pradhan and Members) Enquiry Rules-section 2 (c) -District magistrate has power to seize the financial and administrative power of Petitioner-Gram Pradhan-upon receiving a report from District Panchayat Officer-during pendency of proceedings u/s 95 (1) (g).

Held, On a bare perusal of the aforesaid Full Bench decision the Court finds that while a report submitted by any other public servant who does not fall within the definition of 'enquiry officer' under Rule 2(c) of the Rules 1997 cannot be made the basis for any action involving cessation of financial and administrative powers of the Gram Pradhan and constitution of a Three Member Committee for discharging his duties and such a report can only be made basis for ordering a preliminary inquiry in terms of Rules 1997 by an inquiry officer defined in Rule 2(c) thereof, a report submitted by an officer who is either the District Panchayat Raj Officer or any other district level officer and falls within the meaning of 'inquiry officer' as defined in Rule 2(c) of the Rules 1997 can be acted upon by the District Magistrate ipso facto for the aforesaid purpose, meaning thereby, even if any preliminary inquiry had already been ordered by him earlier by any other officer or it had not been ordered, on receipt of any such report by a District Panchayat Raj Officer or any other District level officer who falls in the definition of 'inquiry officer' under Rule 2(c), whether or not he had been appointed to function as inquiry officer, can be made the basis by the District Magistrate to seize financial and administrative powers of the Gram Pradhan and to form a three member Committee for discharging his functions. 2. Ambesh Kumar v. State of U.P., Writ Petition No.20971 (MS) of 2018

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. Heard.

2. By means of this writ petition the petitioner- Gram Pradhan has challenged an order passed by the District Magistrate, Sultanpur on 26.11.2019 seizing the financial and administrative powers of the petitioner and constituting a three Member Committee under the proviso to section 95(1)(g) of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act 1947 for performing the duties of the office of Gram Pradhan during the pendency of the proceedings under section 95(1)(g).

3. Contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner Sri Surendra Pratap Singh, Advocate was that on receipt of a complaint the District Magistrate had ordered a preliminary enquiry to be conducted by District Development Officer on 6.4.2019. The said preliminary inquiry is still pending. In the interregnum, on a report submitted by the District Panchayat Raj Officer on 31.8.2019 based on a inspection conducted by him on 17.8.2019 the impugned order has been passed which is violative of the U.P. Panchayat Raj (Removal of Pradhan, Up-Pradhan and Members) Enquiry Rules, 1997 (hereinafter referred as 'Rules 1997').

4. Sri Hemant Pandey, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State relied upon Full Bench decision of this Court in the case of Vivekanand Yadav Vs. State of U.P. & others, 2010 (10) ADJ 1, to contend that the inspection report submitted in this case being one by a District Level Officer who qualifies as an Enquiry Officer under Rule 2(c) of the Rules 1997, the District Magistrate was competent to pass the impugned order based on such report without waiting for the result of the preliminary inquiry earlier ordered.

5. This Court has perused the decision of the Full Bench in the case of Vivekanand Yadav. It is worthwhile to quote point No. (x) and (xi) in paragraph 33 which were considered by the Full Bench and are as under :

"(x) What is the meaning of word 'otherwise' in sub-rule 1 of rule 5 {rule 5(1) of the Enquiry Rules};

(xi) Whether a preliminary report submitted by the DPRO or an officer defined as enquiry officer under sub-rule (c) of Rule 2 {rule (2)(c) of the Enquiry Rules}- without being formally asked to conduct the preliminary enquiry- can be accepted under Rule 5 to constitute a three member committee to exercise financial and administrative powers; and appoint an enquiry officer to conduct the final enquiry under rule 6."

6. The said points/questions have been answered by the Full Bench and the relevant paragraphs in this regard i.e. paragraphs 90 to 104 are quoted hereinbelow :

"90. Rule 2(c) defines 'Enquiry Officer'. It means the DPRO or any other district level officer to be nominated by the DM. The following contingencies may be there:

(i) A complaint can be made directly to the DM who may ask the enquiry officer as defnined under rule 2(c) to conduct a preliminary inquiry under rule 4; or

(ii) A complaint can be made directly to the enquiry officer defined under section 2(c), who may submit a report without the DM asking for it; or

(iii) A complaint can be made to the DM with copy to the enquiry officer, who may submit a report without the DM asking for it; or

(iv) A DM can himself conduct a preliminary enquiry; or

(v) A report can be submitted by any other public servant.

91. In all the aforesaid alternatives, a preliminary enquiry is conducted and a preliminary report is there. The question is, which one of these can be acted upon under rule 5 to cease the power under proviso to section 95(1)(g) of the Panchayat Raj Act. According to,

The petitioners only first of the aforesaid report can be relied upon;

The respondents all five reports can be relied upon.

In our opinion, answer lies somewhere in between and only the first four reports can be so relied.

92. There is no dispute so far as first contingency is concerned. The fifth one has to be rejected. In case it is accepted, then this would make rule 3(6) otiose. In our opinion this cannot be the case. However this cannot be said about contingencies number two to four.

93. Rule 6 provides a detailed procedure for the final enquiry. However, there is no detailed procedure provided for the preliminary enquiry under rule 4. A pradhan is not required to be associated in the preliminary enquiry.

94. The procedure provided in rules 6 to 8 is for the final enquiry and not for the preliminary enquiry. A report by an enquiry officer defined under rule 2(c) is also a report by a person prescribed. It is not necessary for the enquiry officer to conduct the preliminary inquiry only on the direction given by the DM. His job is to submit a report, so that the DM may take a decision,

Whether there is prima facie case against the pradhan or not; and

Whether the final enquiry should be held after ceasing his powers.

95. It is not necessary for the DM to specifically ask the enquiry officer to conduct a preliminary enquiry. There seems to be no point in asking the enquiry officer to conduct a preliminary enquiry again even if he submitted a report after the enquiry. It would be futile exercise unless the DM disagrees with the report of the enquiry officer.

96. A report by an enquiry officer defined under rule 2(c) is also a report by a person and the manner is prescribed under the Rules--irrespective of the fact that he was so asked by the DM or not. In our opinion, it is also a preliminary report within the meaning of the proviso to section 95(1) (g) of the Panchayat Raj Act.

97. The DM exercises the powers of the State Government under section 95(1)(g) as well as under the Enquiry Rules as the powers are delegated to him. He also appoints the enquiry officer. He is higher than all enquiry officers. He can himself conduct a preliminary enquiry. It would be anomalous that on a preliminary report of a subordinate officer, a final enquiry and cessation of power can be ordered but the DM, who appoints him, cannot conduct a preliminary enquiry.

98. In our opinion, action under proviso to section 95(1)(g) can also be taken on the preliminary report of the DM as well as on a report of a person defined as enquiry officer under rule 2(c) of the Enquiry Rules. Only these reports would be covered in the word 'otherwise' of rule 5. Any other report would be a report under rule 3(6) of the Enquiry Rules or can be considered by the DM under his suo motu power to order a preliminary enquiry but final enquiry with cessation of power can not be ordered on its basis.

99. We would like to explain our point of view as well.

100. In the third WP, the report is by the DPRO. He is defined as an enquiry officer under rule 2(c) of the Enquiry Rules. On his report, the power of pradhan can be ceased and the final enquiry can be ordered. The order in the third WP cannot be invalidated on this account.

The Chunmun Case--Observations Should be Limited.

101. The observations of the single judge in the Chunmun case, mentioned in the fourth question under the heading 'QUESTIONS REFERRED', should be seen in the light of the facts of that case.

102. In the Chunmun case, a report was sent by a junior engineer. It is not clear from the judgement whether the junior engineer was nominated by the DM as the enquiry officer or not but the single judge had held that a junior engineer was not competent to hold enquiry under the Enquiry Rules. In view of our decision, this report could be treated under rule 3(6) and could be referred for a preliminary enquiry but on its basis alone neither the three members committee could be appointed nor powers of the pradhan could be ceased.

103. The judgement on the facts of the Chunmun case is correct but the broad proposition that are extracted by the single judge, referring the third and fourth WPs to the larger bench--are not correct and they require modifications and have to be limited to facts of that case only.

104. In our opinion, the word 'otherwise' in rule 5 includes, and the DM can rely upon, the following reports only to cease financial and administrative powers and direct for the final enquiry.

A report of a person, who is also defined as an enquiry officer under rule 2(c) of the Enquiry Rules--irrespective whether he was directed by the DM to conduct the preliminary inquiry or not;

A preliminary enquiry report conducted by the DM himself.

However, a report by any other officer or any other information cannot be relied upon by the DM to constitute a three member committee ceasing financial and administrative powers. In such a situation, it should be treated as a report under rule 3(6) or would come under word 'otherwise' in rule 4(1) and at the most only a preliminary enquiry can be ordered."

7. Paragraph 107 of the decision of the Full Bench, especially clause (e) thereof, is also relevant. The same is quoted hereinbelow:

"107. Our conclusions are as follows:

(a) The DM may ask the preliminary enquiry to be conducted by any officer defined under rule 2(c) of the Enquiry Rules on a complaint or a report under rule 3 or any other material or information. He has suo motu powers as well to order a preliminary enquiry;

(b) A pradhan has no right to object that complaint or report is not in accordance with rule 3 of the Enquiry Rules;

(c) A pradhan is neither entitled to be associated in the preliminary enquiry nor is entitled to the copy of the preliminary report. However, before an order ceasing the financial and administrative power is passed, his explanation or point of view or the version to the charges should be obtained and considered;

(d) In the first and the third WPs, the impugned orders have been passed on the basis of preliminary report after obtaining and considering the explanation of the pradhan. The impugned orders in these WPs cannot be faulted on this ground;

(e) In our opinion the word 'otherwise' in rule 5 includes and the DM can rely upon the following reports only to cease financial and administrative power and direct the final enquiry:

A report of a person who is also defined as an enquiry officer under rule 2(c) of the Enquiry Rules--irrespective of whether he was directed by the DM to conduct the preliminary inquiry or not;

A preliminary enquiry report conducted by the DM himself.

(f) In the third writ petition, the report was submitted by the DPRO, who is defined as an enquiry officer under rule 2(c) of the Enquiry Rules. The impugned order cannot be faulted on the ground that the DPRO was not asked by the DM to conduct the preliminary enquiry;

However, it is open to the petitioners in the first and third WPs to raise other points before the appropriate bench."

8. On a bare perusal of the aforesaid Full Bench decision the Court finds that while a report submitted by any other public servant who does not fall within the definition of 'enquiry officer' under Rule 2(c) of the Rules 1997 cannot be made the basis for any action involving cessation of financial and administrative powers of the Gram Pradhan and constitution of a Three Member Committee for discharging his duties and such a report can only be made basis for ordering a preliminary inquiry in terms of Rules 1997 by an inquiry officer defined in Rule 2(c) thereof, a report submitted by an officer who is either the District Panchayat Raj Officer or any other district level officer and falls within the meaning of 'inquiry officer' as defined in Rule 2(c) of the Rules 1997 can be acted upon by the District Magistrate ipso facto for the aforesaid purpose, meaning thereby, even if any preliminary inquiry had already been ordered by him earlier by any other officer or it had not been ordered, on receipt of any such report by a District Panchayat Raj Officer or any other District level officer who falls in the definition of 'inquiry officer' under Rule 2(c), whether or not he had been appointed to function as inquiry officer, can be made the basis by the District Magistrate to seize financial and administrative powers of the Gram Pradhan and to form a three member Committee for discharging his functions. Reasons in this regard have already been given by the Full Bench. This is its ratio.

9. In view of the above discussion only point raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner for challenging the impugned order is not sustainable. The petitioner in spite of being served a show-cause notice did not submit a reply. The explanation furnished in this regard in the petition is not acceptable, especially after going through the alleged certificate issued by a Private Nursing Home, copy of which is appended as Annexure-5 to the writ petition.

10. In view of the above, no interference is called for. The writ petition is dismissed.

11. The inquiry officer appointed for conducting the final inquiry shall conduct the inquiry within six months with the cooperation of the petitioner after following the relevant Rules in this regard, especially Rule 6 of the Rules 1997. After submission of the final inquiry report, a copy of which shall be given to the petitioner, final decision shall be taken keeping in mind the decision rendered in the case of Ambesh Kumar v. State of U.P., Writ Petition No.20971 (MS) of 2018, copy of which shall be furnished by the petitioner's counsel to the District Magistrate in this regard.

A. Tax – Repayment of refund – Principle of Unjust Enrichment – Central Excise Act, 1944: Sections 11A, 11B, 12B, 35, 35E; Central Excise Tariff Act, 1985; Central Excise Rules, 2002: Rule 7 - Question for consideration before the Court is, as to whether the revenue can initiate proceedings u/s 11A for recovery of excise duty, once adjudication had been made by department making final provisional assessment and, thereafter, adjudicating application for refund u/s 11B, and no appeal being filed challenging the said adjudication which having attained finality, is barred on the ground of change of opinion or would amount to reassessment when once the revenue did not take recourse to appeal in higher forum. (Para 31)

There is no remedy available to department at all u/s 11A to proceed, after having allowed adjudication u/s 11B to attain finality - Once the adjudication has taken place u/s 11B, department cannot proceed to recover u/s 11A, on the basis of "erroneous refund", so as to enable the refund order to be revoked, as the remedy lies u/s 35E for applying to the Appellate Tribunal for determination - In the present case, petitioner-company had made an application for refund which was adjudicated on 05.11.2015 and it was directed to refund excise duty amounting to Rs.1,02,75,633/- which was in excess. This order was never challenged by revenue in appeal and it attained finality. (Para 33 to 35, 39, 43 to 45)

Petition challenges show-cause notice dated 17.08.2017 and order dated 30.11.2017, passed by Additional Commissioner of Central Tax, GST and Central Excise, Greater Noida.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Tarun Gulati, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Vipin Upadhyay and Sri Nishant Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri B.K.S. Raghuvanshi and Sri Anant Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for the respondents-department.

2. Present petition has been filed seeking a writ of certiorari for quashing show-cause notice dated 17.08.2017 and order dated 30.11.2017, and also for writ of mandamus restraining respondents from enforcing demands in respect of repayment of refund received by petitioner.

3. Facts in brief are that petitioner is a Company incorporated under the Companies Act, 1956 and is engaged in manufacture of portable gensets and IC engine falling under Chapter Heading No. 85 and 84 of First Schedule to Central Excise Tariff Act, 1985.

4. Dispute relates to period 2014-15. According to petitioner, it applied for provisional assessment of excise duty under Rule 7 of Central Excise Rules, 2002 (hereinafter called as "Rules") on 01.04.2014. The Excise Commissioner, Central Excise, Division II accepted the request of petitioner for provisional assessment and intimated the same on 31.07.2014. The said correspondence is on record as Annexure-5. Petitioner-Company, thereafter, filed an application for finalisation of provisional assessment on 19.06.2015.

5. Provisional assessment was finalised for period 2014-15 by Assistant Commissioner on 24.07.2015, copy of said order is on record as Annexure-8. According to provisional assessment order, an amount of Rs.17,89,42,303/- was passed on to customer and excise duty deposited to the tune of Rs.1,02,75,633/- was in excess. Assistant Commissioner further held after examining certificate submitted by CA of petitioner-Company that principle of unjust enrichment was not applicable to facts of the case. Order of provisional assessment became final as the department did not prefer any appeal as contemplated under Section 35E read with Section 35 of Central Excise Act, 1944 (for short "Excise Act").

6. After finalisation of provisional assessment, petitioner-Company applied for refund. Again after adjudication of refund, on 05.11.2015 refund claim was sanctioned under Section 11B of Excise Act. The adjudication of refund order also took note of the fact that unjust enrichment did not apply to facts of the case. This order was also appealable under Section 35E read with Section 35 of Excise Act but no appeal was preferred by department and it attained finality.

7. In one of the matters CCE, Madras vs. Addison and Company, (2016) 10 SCC 56, the Apex Court held that principle of unjust enrichment applied in a case where manufacturer had failed to establish that burden of duties had not been passed on to the ultimate buyer. On the basis of said judgment, respondent no. 2 issued show-cause notice to petitioner-Company on 17.08.2017, that is after more than two years, asking why amount of Rs.1,02,75,633/- which was erroneously refunded, should not be recovered and credited to the Consumer Welfare Fund. Reply was filed by petitioner-Company on 09.10.2017 and written submission were submitted on 30.10.2017, taking specific objection that proceedings seeking to reopen concluded proceedings on the basis of unconnected and subsequent Supreme Court judgment was without jurisdiction and ought to be dropped.

8. Respondent no. 2 on 30.11.2017 held the petitioner liable for refund of the amount being unjust enrichment, since petitioner was not able to prove that burden of duty was not passed on by dealers/ distributors to their customers.

9. Counsel for the petitioner submitted that revenue did not file any appeal against finalisation of provisional assessment order dated 24.07.2015 wherein it was held that unjust enrichment is inapplicable. Further, no appeal was preferred against order dated 05.11.2015, whereby refund of excess excise duty was paid to petitioner, and thus, it attained finality. It is contended that by issuing show-cause notice dated 17.08.2017 seeking to reopen the proceedings and, thereafter, by passing order impugned dated 30.11.2017, the respondent authorities had committed gross illegality to question the correctness of earlier orders which had become final. Reliance placed by department on the decision of the Apex Court in case of Union of India vs. Jain Shudh Vanaspati, 1996 (86) ELT 460 (SC) cannot be applied in the present case, as said case relates to fraud which is not alleged in the present case. It is further contended that Section 35E of Excise Act provides that power of review is available with the Commissioner under which it can be directed that an appeal against any order be filed by department. As orders dated 24.07.2015 and 05.11.2015 whereby provisional orders were finalised and refund was granted, also qualifies as order passed under the Act, and respondents were entitled to file an appeal against such orders. In absence of any appeal, these orders attained finality and cannot be reopened by starting collateral proceedings by issuance of show-cause notice under Section 11A of Excise Act, as provisions of Section 11A applies inter alia in case when there is a grant of "erroneous refund", while in the present case refund was granted in accordance with orders passed which attained finality and cannot be termed as erroneous to invoke Section 11A.

10. Reliance has been placed upon a judgment of Madras High Court in case of Eveready Industries Ltd. vs. Cestat, Chennai 2016 337 ELT 189 (Mad. HC), wherein it has been held that once refund is allowed, then parallel proceedings by way of issuance of show-cause notice under Section 11A of the Act can not be initiated. Relevant Paras 48 and 49 are extracted hereasunder:-

"48. In other words, two valuable rights, one in the form of right of appeal and another in the form of order of refund, are now sought to be taken away indirectly by taking recourse to Section 11A. What cannot be done directly cannot be done indirectly also.

49. In so far as the decision of the Andhra Pradesh High Court is concerned, one observation made in paragraph 16 of the said decision is of prime importance. In paragraph 16, the Andhra Pradesh High Court has made it clear, after analysing Sections 11A and 11B that there is an adjudication process involved in the processing of applications made under Sections 11A and 11B. The Andhra Pradesh High Court held that orders passed under Sections 11A and 11B are appealable. Therefore, the decision of the Andhra Pradesh High Court, especially the observation in paragraph 16, should be made use of by the assessee to contend that since there was no appeal against the order under Section 11B, the Department cannot take recourse to Section 11A."

11. In case of CCE and C, Tirupati vs. Panyam Cements and Minerals Industries Ltd. 2016 (331) ELT 206 (AP), the Andhra Pradesh High Court took a view that once the department failed to file an appeal, it would be incorrect to start collateral proceedings by issuance of show-cause notice under Section 11A of the Excise Act.

12. Apex Court in case of Mafatlal Industries Ltd. Vs. Union of India 1979 (89) ELT 247 (SC), while dealing with a situation where a manufacturer pays a duty unquestioningly and his remedy of appeal fails, then after the order becoming final after a lapse of sufficient period, on basis of decision rendered by a High Court or Supreme Court challenges the same on the ground that duty was not payable or was payable at a lesser rate, it was held that manufacturer was not entitled to claim any refund as the adjudication order had become final. In case in hand assessment order as well as refund order having become final, revenue cannot restart the matter by issuing show-cause notice exercising power under Section 11A of the Act.

13. The second point canvassed by counsel for petitioner is that show-cause notice dated 17.08.2017 was issued after more than two years from finalisation of assessment order dated 24.07.2015 and is barred by limitation. Show-cause notice has been treated from the date of refund order dated 05.11.2015, which is a consequential order after finalisation of assessment, thus, show-cause notice is beyond two years and is barred by limitation. Reliance has been placed upon a decision of the Apex Court in case of CTO v. Binani Cements (2014) 8 SCC 319, wherein it has been held that a specific provision relating to a specific and defined subject would prevail over a general provision relating to a broad subject.

14. Sri Gulati further submitted that issuance of show-cause notice by respondent was based on mere change of opinion on the very same facts, only on account of a subsequent decision of Apex Court, which is not applicable in the present case. Issuance of notice under Section 11A amounted to reassessment as held in case of Shahnaaz Ayurvedics vs. CCE, Noida 2004 (173) ELT 337 (All. HC).

15. On question of reassessment, on basis of subsequent decision, reliance has been placed on a decision of Apex Court in case of CIT vs. Simplex Concrete Piles (2013) 11 SCC 373, and also on a Division Bench of this Court in case of Samsung India Electronics Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of U.P. and others, (2016) SCC Online All. 1539 wherein it was held that subsequent judgment cannot be used to reopen assessment or disturb past assessments. Relevant Para 11 is extracted hereasunder:-

"11. Further, a subsequent judgment cannot be used to reopen assessments or disturb past assessments which have been concluded. [See Para 7, Austin Engineering v. JCIT (2009) 312 ITR 70 (Guj.) Para 4 and 5, Bear Shoes 2011 (331) ITR 435 (Mad.), B.J. Services Co. Middle East Ltd. v. Deputy Director (2011) 339 ITR 169 (Uttarakhand), Sesa Goa v. JCIT 2007 (294) ITR 101 (Bom.), Geo Miller and Co. 2004 (134) Taxman 552 (Cal)]. Reliance is also placed on the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in MEPCO Industries v. CIT, (2010) 1 SCC 434, where the CIT on the basis of a subsequent decision of the Supreme Court sought to rectify his earlier order. The Hon'ble Court held that this would amount to a change of opinion."

16. Reliance has also been placed on the decision in case of CIT vs. Bhanji Lavji (1972) 4 SCC 88, Arun Gupta vs. Union of India (2015) 371 ITR 394 (All. HC) (Para 14, 20), Calcutta Discount Company Ltd. vs. ITO AIR 1961 SC 372 and Jeans Knit Pvt. Ltd. vs. DCIT Bangalore 2016 SCC Online 1536 wherein the Courts have held that no reassessment can be made once the proceedings are concluded, merely on the basis of change of opinion.

17. Counsel for the petitioner distinguishing the case of Addison and Company (supra) relied upon the department while issuing show-cause notice, submitted that the said case is distinguishable on facts. As Hon'ble Apex Court interpreted clause (e) of Proviso to Section 11B and not Clause (d). As in that case no CA certificate was presented by assessee evidencing that incidence of duty lied with assessee, no commercial invoices were issued by applicant to its customers on which no excise duty was mentioned. While reading Section 11B(2), it is clear that where manufacturer has applied for refund of excise duty, clause (d) of Proviso to Section 11B(2) states that (i) the duty of excise should have been paid by the manufacturer and (ii) such incidence of duty must not have been passed on to any other person. In the present case, it is not in dispute that incidence of excise duty which was initially passed on to dealer was borne by petitioner on issuance of credit notes and discounts on invoices. The Commissioner on the basis of such credit notes and invoices had held petitioner to have paid excess excise duty, thus, the law laid down by Apex Court in case of Addison and Company (supra) was not applicable in the present case.

18. Stress was also laid upon the fact that Civil Appeal No. 8488 of 2009 decided along with case of Addison and Company (supra) where credit notes were issued regarding return of excise duty paid and CA certificate was produced, the Apex Court dismissed the appeal of the revenue and allowed refund to assessee. Relevant Paras 38 and 39 are quoted hereasunder:-

"38. The respondent-Assessee is a 100 per cent export-oriented unit (EOU) manufacturing cotton yarn. The respondent filed an application for refund of an amount of Rs. 2,00,827/- on 14.08.2002 on the ground that it had paid excess excise duty @ 18.11 % instead of 9.20 %. The Assessee initially passed on the duty incidence to its customers. Later the Assessee returned the excess duty amount to its buyers which was evidenced by a certificate issued by the Chartered Accountant on 02.08.2002. The refund claim was rejected by the Deputy Commissioner of Central Excise, Kolhapur Division vide an order dated 24.09.2002 on the ground that the Assessee did not submit either the credit notes or the Chartered Accountant's certificate at the time of filing the refund application. Not satisfied with the genuineness of the documents, the Deputy Commissioner rejected the refund claim. The Commissioner (Appeals) Central Excise, Pune allowed the appeal filed by the Assessee by taking note of the certificate issued by the Chartered Accountant and the credit notes dated 29.07.2002. The Appellate Authority accepted the Assessee's contentions and held that there was no reason to doubt the genuineness of the documents produced. The Appellate Authority allowed the appeal of the Assessee and the said order was confirmed by the Central Excise and Service Tax Appellate Tribunal vide judgment and order dated 06.10.2005. The said order of Central Excise and Service Tax Appellate Tribunal was further confirmed by the High Court of Judicature at Bombay in Central Excise Appeal No. 100 of 2008 filed by the Revenue. The Revenue has filed the above Civil Appeal challenging the validity of the judgment of the High Court in CCE v. Eurotex Industries and Exports Ltd, reported in 2008 SCC OnLine Bom 1578.

39. Except for a factual dispute about the genuineness of the certificate issued by the Chartered Accountant and the credit notes raised by the Assessee regarding the return of the excess duty paid by the Assessee, there is no dispute in this case of the duty being passed on to any other person by the buyer. As it is clear that the Assessee has borne the burden of duty, it cannot be said that it is not entitled for the refund of the excess duty paid. In view of the facts of this case being different from Civil Appeal No. 7906 of 2002, the appeal preferred by the Revenue is dismissed."

19. In the present case, CA certificate dated 15.06.2015 was submitted to substantiate that burden of duty initially passed on to dealers/ distributors was assumed back by petitioner after credit notes were issued.

20. As to the maintainability of writ petition, Sri Gulati submitted that the Apex Court in State of Punjab vs. Bhatinda District Cooperative Milk Producers Union (2007) 11 SCC 363 had held that question of limitation being a question of jurisdiction, a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution is maintainable. He also relied upon decision of this Court in case of Samsung India Electronics Pvt. Ltd. (supra) wherein it has been held that writ petition is maintainable when reassessment proceedings are initiated on the basis of mere change of opinion.

21. It was lastly contended that no burden of excise duty was passed in respect of cash discount and mega discount is concerned to the dealers/ distributors. Perusal of invoices issued by petitioner reveals that in case of cash discount and mega discount, the discounts are passed on to dealers through invoices issued at the time of sale of products, thus, amount paid by dealers to petitioner is the discounted prices and incidence of excise duty on such discount remained with petitioner alone and is never shifted to dealer.

22. Per contra, Sri B.K.Singh Raghuvanshi, learned counsel appearing for the department submitted that order impugned dated 30.11.2017 is appealable before Commissioner (Appeals) in terms of Section 35 of the Act, as there is an alternative remedy available to the petitioner. He has relied upon a decision of the Apex Court in case of Union of India vs. Rubber Products Ltd. 2015 (326) ELT 232 (SC).

23. He further submitted that excise duty is subsumed in the prices and not charged separately from customer, when price charged from customer includes excise duty and discounts are provided to the dealers by way of credit notes, then it is not clear how the duty element included in the discount granted by way of credit note is passed on to customers after sale.

24. It was also contended that Section 11A of the Act provides for recovery of excise duty refunded erroneously. The show-cause notice was issued in the background of judgment of Apex Court in the case of Addison and Company (supra). According to him, there is no pre-condition under Act to review of the refund order before initiating recovery proceedings, as Act nowhere bars such recovery proceedings without review of refund order.

25. Sri Raghuvanshi also relied upon judgment of Apex Court in case of Jain Shudh Vanaspati (supra) wherein it has been held that show-cause notice issued under Section 28 of Customs Act, could be issued for demand of duty without revising order passed under Section 47 in terms of Section 130 of Customs Act. Reliance has also been placed upon a decision of Apex Court in case of CCE Bhuvenshwar vs. Re-Rolling Mills (1997) 94 ELT 8 (SC) wherein it has been held that Section 11A was parimateria with Section 28 of Customs Act.

26. Learned counsel for department laid stress that show-cause notice as well as the order dated 30.11.2017 are not in nature of reassessment as they do not affect or change the quantum of excise duty assessed and refunded to petitioner, but has been issued only for transfer/ credit to the Consumer Welfare Fund after recovering the same from petitioner to whom it has been erroneously refunded.

27. We have heard counsel for the parties and perused the material on record. Before proceeding to decide the issue in hand, it would be necessary to have a cursory glance at relevant provisions of Central Excise Act, 1944. Relevant portion of Sections 11A and Sections 11B, 12B, 35E and 35 are extracted hereasunder:-

"Section 11A. Recovery of duties not levied or not paid or short-levied or short-paid or erroneously refunded.-

(1) Where any duty of excise has not been levied or paid or has been short-levied or short-paid or erroneously refunded, for any reason, other than the reason of fraud or collusion or any wilful mis-statement or suppression of facts or contravention of any of the provisions of this Act or of the rules made thereunder with intent to evade payment of duty,

(a) the Central Excise Officer shall, within [two years] from the relevant date, serve notice on the person chargeable with the duty which has not been so levied or paid or which has been so short-levied or short-paid or to whom the refund has erroneously been made, requiring him to show cause why he should not pay the amount specified in the notice;

(b) the person chargeable with duty may, before service of notice under clause (a), pay on the basis of,

(i) his own ascertainment of such duty; or

(ii) the duty ascertained by the Central Excise Officer, the amount of duty along with interest payable thereon under section 11AA.

Explanation 1. -- For the purposes of this section and section 11AC,--

(a) "refund" includes rebate of duty of excise on excisable goods exported out of India or on excisable materials used in the manufacture of goods which are exported out of India;

(b) "relevant date" means,-

(i) in the case of excisable goods on which duty of excise has not been levied or paid or has been short-levied or short-paid, and no periodical return as required by the provisions of this Act has been filed, the last date on which such return is required to be filed under this Act and the rules made thereunder;

(ii) in the case of excisable goods on which duty of excise has not been levied or paid or has been short-levied or short-paid and the return has been filed, the date on which such return has been filed;

(iii) in any other case, the date on which duty of excise is required to be paid under this Act or the rules made thereunder;

(iv) in a case where duty of excise is provisionally assessed under this Act or the rules made thereunder, the date of adjustment of duty after the final assessment thereof;

(v)in the case of excisable goods on which duty of excise has been erroneously refunded, the date of such refund;

(vi) in the case where only interest is to be recovered, the date of payment of duty to which such interest relates.

Section 11B. Claim for refund of [duty and interest, if any, paid on such duty.-

(1) Any person claiming refund of any [duty of excise and interest, if any, paid on such duty] may make an application for refund of such [duty and interest, if any, paid on such duty] to the [Assistant Commissioner of Central Excise or DeputyCommissioner of Central Excise] before the expiry of [one year] [from the relevant date] [[in such form and manner] as may be prescribed and the application shall be accompanied by such documentary or other evidence (including the documents referred to in section 12A) as the applicant may furnish to establish that the amount of [duty of excise and interest, if any, paid on such duty] in relation to which such refund is claimed was collected from, or paid by, him and the incidence of such [duty and interest, if any, paid on such duty] had not been passed on by him to any other person:

Provided that where an application for refund has been made before the commencement of the Central Excises and Customs Laws (Amendment) Act, 1991, such application shall be deemed to have been made under this sub-section as amended by the said Act and the same shall be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2) substituted by that Act :

Provided further t*hat the limitation of [one year] shall not apply where any [duty and interest, if any, paid on such duty] has been paid under protest.*

(2) If, on receipt of any such application, the [Assistant Commissioner of Central Excise or Deputy Commissioner of Central Excise] is satisfied that the whole or any part of the [duty of excise and interest, if any, paid on such duty] paid by the applicant is refundable, he may make an order accordingly and the amount so determined shall be credited to the Fund :

Provided that the amount of [duty of excise and interest, if any, paid on such duty] as determined by the [Assistant Commissioner of Central Excise or Deputy Commissioner of Central Excise] under the foregoing provisions of this sub-section shall, instead of being credited to the Fund, be paid to the applicant, if such amount is relatable to -

(a) rebate of duty of excise on excisable goods exported out of India or on excisable materials used in the manufacture of goods which are exported out of India;

(b) unspent advance deposits lying in balance in the applicant's account current maintained with the [Principal Commissioner of Central Excise or Commissioner of Central Excise];

(c) refund of credit of duty paid on excisable goods used as inputs in accordance with the rules made, or any notification issued, under this Act;

(d) the [duty of excise and interest, if any, paid on such duty] paid by the manufacturer, if he had not passed on the incidence of such [duty and interest, if any, paid on such duty] to any other person;

(e) the [duty of excise and interest, if any, paid on such duty] borne by the buyer, if he had not passed on the incidence of such [duty and interest, if any, paid on such duty] to any other person;

(f) the [duty of excise and interest, if any, paid on such duty] borne by any other such class of applicants as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify:

Section 12B. Presumption that the incidence of duty has been passed on to the buyer. -

Every person who has paid the duty of excise on any goods under this Act shall, unless the contrary is proved by him, be deemed to have passed on the full incidence of such duty to the buyer of such goods.

Section 35. Appeals to [Commissioner (Appeals)]. -- (1) Any person aggrieved by any decision or order passed under this Act by a Central Excise Officer, lower in rank than a [Principal Commissioner of Central Excise or Commissioner of Central Excise], may appeal to the [Commissioner of Central Excise (Appeals)] [hereafter in this Chapter referred to as the [Commissioner

(Appeals)]] [within sixty days] from the date of the communication to him of such decision or order :

[Provided that the Commissioner (Appeals) may, if he is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by sufficient cause from presenting the appeal within the aforesaid period of sixty days, allow it to be presented within a further period of thirty days.]

[(1A) The Commissioner (Appeals) may, if sufficient cause is shown at any stage of hearing of an appeal, grant time, from time to time, to the parties or any of them and adjourn the hearing of the appeal for reasons to be recorded in writing :

Provided that no such adjournment shall be granted more than three times to a party during hearing of the appeal.]*

(2) Every appeal under this section shall be in the prescribed form and shall be verified in the prescribed manner.

Section 35E. Powers of [Committee of Chief Commissioners of Central Excise] or [Principal Commissioner of Central Excise or Commissioner of Central Excise] to pass certain orders-

(1) The Committee of Chief Commissioners of Central Excise may, of its own motion, call for and examine the record of any proceeding in which a Principal Commissioner of Central Excise or Commissioner of Central Excise as an adjudicating authority has passed any decision or order under this Act for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of any such decision or order and may, by order, direct such Commissioner or any other Commissioner to apply to the Appellate Tribunal for the determination of such points arising out of the decision or order as may be specified by the Committee of Chief Commissioners of Central Excise in its order."

28. Thus, from the reading of provisions of Section 11A(1) of the Act, which provides for recovery of any duty of excise which has not been levied or paid or has been short levied or short paid or erroneously refunded. The recovery of such amount of excise duty can be made under Section 11A(1) irrespective of whether such non-levy or non payment or short levy or short payment or erroneously refund was on the basis of any approval, acceptance or assessment relating to rate of duty or on valuation of excisable goods under any other provisions of this Act or Rules made thereunder.

29. Section 35 of the Act provides for appeals to Commissioner (Appeals), wherein any person aggrieved by any decision or order passed under this Act may appeal within 60 days from the date of communication. Further, Section 35E which confers power on Committee of Chief Commissioner of Central Excise to either call for and examine the records of any proceedings in which a Principal Chief Commissioner of Central Excise or Commissioner of Central Excise as an Adjudicating authority has passed a decision or order under the Act and may direct such Commissioner or any other Commissioner to apply before Appellate Tribunal for decision. While Section 11B of the Act provides for claim for refund of excise duty.

30. As in the present case, provisional assessment was finalised on 24.07.2015, the assessing authority recorded a finding that CA certificate dated 15.06.2015 certifies that no part of duty is recovered from the dealers/distributors involved in the discount passed on to the dealers/ distributors, which indicates that assessee had not passed on the incidence of duty paid in proportion to the discount given to dealers/ distributors and, therefore, issue of unjust enrichment is a remote possibility and further, the order observed that duty to the tune of Rs.17,89,42,303/- was passed on to the customers and duty deposited to the tune of Rs.1,03,75,633/- was in excess. Further, an application being made by petitioner was adjudicated by Assistant Commissioner on 05.11.2015 wherein it was held that it was not a case of unjust enrichment and petitioner was entitled for refund. This order was also not challenged by revenue and the same attained finality.

31. Thus, question for consideration before us is, as to whether the revenue can initiate proceedings under Section 11A for recovery of excise duty, once adjudication had been made by department making final provisional assessment and, thereafter, adjudicating application for refund under Section 11B, and no appeal being filed challenging the said adjudication which having attained finality, is barred on the ground of change of opinion or would amount to reassessment when once the revenue did not take recourse to appeal in higher forum.

32. As it is not in dispute that after provisional assessment order, the adjudicating authority passed an order for refund under Section 11B of the Act. Both the orders which were appealable and revisable under Section 35 and 35E were never taken to the higher forum by revenue and they attained finality. It was only after decision of the Apex Court in case of Addison and Company (supra) that show-cause notice was issued on 17.08.2017, and order was passed on 30.11.2017 directing the petitioner for refund of excise duty to be deposited in Consumer Welfare Fund.

33. A careful reading of Sections 11A, 11B, 35 and 35E would reveal that an application for refund as envisaged under Section 11B is not to be dealt as a ministerial Act or an administrative Act, rather an application has to be made by person claiming refund within a prescribed time and the application is to be accompanied by documents referred to in Sub-section (1) of Section 11B to establish that amount of duty of excise and interest, if any paid on such duty in relation to which such refund is claimed was collected from, or paid by him and the incidence of such duty and interest, if any, paid on such duty has not been passed on by him to any other person. It is on the receipt of this application, Assistant Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Central Excise, if satisfied may make an order for refund. Thus, it is only after the adjudication of the application that an order of refund of duty and interest is passed.

34. Sub-section (3) of Section 11B which is a non-obstante clause makes it clear that dehors any judgment, decree, order or direction of appellate tribunal or court or any other provision of the Act, no refund shall be made except as provided in Sub-section (2). Thus, the procedure prescribed under Section 11B not only regulates the manner and form in which an application for refund is to be made but also prescribes period of limitation as well as method of adjudication in which refund has to be made.

35. Thus, Section 11B assumes great significance, as any order of refund of excise duty and interest is made only after the adjudication as envisaged under scheme of Section 11B. In the present case, petitioner-company had made an application for refund which was adjudicated on 05.11.2015 and it was directed to refund excise duty to tune of Rs.1,02,75,633/- which was in excess. This order was never challenged by revenue in appeal and it attained finality.

36. Thus, once the order of adjudication has been validly passed under Section 11B and a refund has been made on 05.11.2015, the next question which crops up for consideration is as to whether Section 11A can be invoked thereafter.

37. As Section 11A(1)(a) uses the word "Central Excise Officer" who is empowered for recovery of any refund, Central Excise Officer is defined in Section 2(b) of the Act to mean Chief Commissioner of Central Excise, Commissioner of Central Excise, Commissioner of Central Excise (Appeals), Additional Commissioner of Central Excise, Joint Commissioner of Central Excise, Assistant Commissioner of Central Excise or Deputy Commissioner of Central Excise or any other officer of Central Excise Department invested by Central Board of Excise and Customs constituted under Central Board of Revenue Act, 1963 with any of powers of a Central Excise Officer under the act. Thus, an order of recovery can be passed under Section 11A by an Assistant Commissioner, as he happens to be a Central Excise Officer in terms of Clause (a) of sub-section (1) of Section 11A, though an application under sub-section (2) of Section 11B can be made and an order for refund can either be passed by Assistant Commissioner or by Deputy Commissioner. Meaning thereby that a Deputy Commissioner can pass an order for refund under Section 11B (2) and an Assistant Commissioner can invoke proceedings for recovery under Section 11A (1).

38. This could lead to a situation where power of recovery under Section 11A is invoked by a subordinate authority despite the fact that refund application has been adjudicated upon by a superior authority under Section 11B.

39. Through plain reading of Section 35E, it is clear that limited revisional jurisdiction is conferred upon Principal Commissioner and Commissioner of Excise in sub-section (2) of Section 35E, this power is not actually to correct any error directly, but only available for directing the competent authority to take matter to the Commissioner (Appeals). Meaning thereby that it is always open to Principal Commissioner or Commissioner or Central Excise to examine the order passed by adjudicating authority under Section 11B and direct the competent authority to file appeal against order of refund. In the present case, order of refund was never taken to higher forum and it became final.

40. Decisions relied upon by the counsel for the revenue in case of Jain Shudh Vanaspati (supra) relates to proceedings which were vitiated by fraud. Further, the Apex Court recorded a clear finding that goods were cleared for home consumption under Section 47 of the Act by playing fraud upon the Department. Therefore, the Court held that fraud vitiates all solemn Acts, while in present case department has not alleged any fraud upon the petitioner-assessee.

41. Further reliance placed by counsel for revenue on the decision of Addison and Company (supra), wherein it was held that recovery under Section 11A can be made where excise duty was refunded erroneously, but the Apex Court had also held that where the incidence of duty was not passed on and the assessee had borne burden of duty, thus he was entitled for the refund. Thus, both the cases relied upon by the department are not applicable in the present case, as it is neither a case of fraud, nor where incidence of duty was passed on.

42. Secondly, the argument of alternative remedy under Section 35 is concerned, the said fact is of no rescue to the department as specific case of petitioner is that show-cause notice dated 17.08.2017 was issued after more than two years from finalisation of assessment order dated 24.07.2015, and where there is change of opinion by issuance of show-cause notice, writ petition is maintainable as held in Shahnaaz Ayurvedics (supra), Simplex Concrete Piles (supra) and Samsung India Electronics Pvt. Ltd. (supra).

43. As seen above that Section 35E and 11A operate in different fields and are invoked for different purposes, we are merely concerned in this case with the interplay between Sections 11A and 35E. We are also concerned with what happened in the form of an adjudication under Section 11B. What happens in a case wherein adjudication takes place under Section 11B and authorities do not take recourse available to them, whether after having allowed adjudication under Section 11B to attain finality, was there any remedy available to department at all under Section 11A to proceed.

44. This question was considered and decided in Eveready Industries (supra), wherein the Court held that two valuable rights, one in the form of right of appeal and another in form of order of refund, are now sought to be taken away indirectly by taking recourse to Section 11A. What cannot be done directly cannot be done indirectly also.

45. Thus, the department, once the adjudication has taken place under Section 11B cannot proceed to recover on the basis of "erroneous refund" under Section 11A so as to enable the refund order to be revoked, as the remedy lied under Section 35E for applying to the Appellate Tribunal for determination and not invoking Section 11A.

46. In view of the above, we are of the considered opinion that the issuance of show-cause notice dated 17.08.2017 and, thereafter, order dated 30.11.2017 passed by respondent authority for repayment of refund pursuant to orders under Section 11B are unsustainable and are hereby quashed.

47. The writ petition stands allowed.

(Para 13)

The goods in question i.e. Harpic and Mortein are squarely covered under Entry 20, Part A of Schedule II of UPVAT Act. Harpic is a 'disinfectant' and Supreme Court has held that disinfectants which destroy/kill germs are in the nature of pesticides. Mosquito Coils including Mortein Coils would fall within the Entry "Pesticides and Insecticides" as the chemical composition used in the manufacturing of is allethrin which is an insecticide. No new material has been put forward by the respondents to show that the goods in question will be classifiable under Schedule V. (Para 8 to 22, 49)

1. Notification No. S.O. 1335 dated 02.06.1961

2. Notification No. X. 11013/2/72-D dated 09.07.1975

Petition challenges reassessment proceedings initiated vide order 24.11.2017, passed by Assistant Commissioner, Grade-1, Commercial Tax, Jhansi Division, Jhansi, Uttar Pradesh for the AY 2009-10.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Piyush Agrawal, J.)

1. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has challenged the reassessment proceeding initiated against it granting permission vide order dated 24.11.2017 passed by respondent-3 which reopened the completed assessement for assessment year 2009-10 under UPVAT Act.

2. Brief facts of the case are that the petitioner is a registered firm engaged in business of purchase and sale of cosmetic goods, soap, glucose, edible oils, pesticides etc.

3. It has been avered that the petitioner has been appointed as distributor of several products manufactured by Reckitt Benckiser (India) Pvt. Ltd. which manufactures various household products including insecticides such as Mortein, Pesticides such as Harpic and Lizol, Drugs and medicines including Disprin, Dettol etc. The petitioner has obtained registration under the UPVAT Act, bearing TIN No. 09132601751.

4. It has been averred that while passing the original assessment order dated 8.3.2013 the assessing authority has righly imposed the tax on the goods in question i.e. sale of Harpic and Mortein coil at the rate of 4% -5% treating the same as pesticide. It is further averred that the reassessment proceeding has been initiated under Section 29 (7) of UPVAT Act for which notice was issued, the petitioner has submitted the detailed reply bringing on record that items sold by it, have righly been imposed tax at the rate of 4 % as the commodity in question has been decided not only by Full Bench of Trade Tax Tribunal, Lucknow Bench in the case of Neha Trading, but also various other High Courts have treated Harpic and Mortein coil as pesticides. The proceeding initiated against the petitioner treating the items in question classifiable as under Schedule V of UPVAT Act at the rate of 12.5 %, is not correct. Being dissatisfied with the reply the impugned order dated 24.11.2017 has been passed extending the period of limitation.

5. On the contrary, the respondents has taken the stand that the goods in question i.e. Harpic and Mortein coil have not specifically been mentioned in the taxing Schedule-I, II, III, IV, of UPVAT Act, therefore, the goods in question have to be taxed at the rate of 12% under Schedule -V of UPVAT Act. The assessing authority had without application of mind had allowed the claim of the petitioner at the rate of 4 % and therefore, the goods in question have been under assessed, hence, justifying the reassessment proceeding and the impugned order.

6. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner Sri Kunal Ravi Singh and Sri C.B. Tripathi, learned Special Counsel for State of UP.

7. The counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the petitioner is carrying on the business of trading. In due course of business, Harpic and Mortein coil have been purchased and sold and accordingly tax at the rate of 4 % were charged and deposited with the department treating the same to be covered under Schedule-II, Part A, Entry 20 of UPVAT Act at the rate of 4% -5%. The assessing authority while passing the original assessment order under Section 28 of UPVAT Act, treating the goods in question taxable as part of Schedule -II, Part A, Entry 20 of UPVAT Act and accordingly, imposed tax at the rate of 4% - 5 % and same was deposited by the petitioner.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the active ingredient of Harpic is Hydrochloric Acid, which is a well-known disinfectant and in addition, it has other ingredients like Bis/2 Hydroxyethyl Oleylamine, Alkyl Trimethyl Ammonium Chloride, Butylated Hydroxy Toluene, Methyl Salicylte and other chemicals, used for disinfecting, the surface on which it is applied. Harpic is effective in killing various Micro-organisms (germs/ bacteria) like S. aurus, E.coli, S. flexnari, S. faecalis, K. pneumoniae, and C. albicans, which are generally found in toilet bowls that cause Skin, soft tissue and mucous membrane infections, Gastroenteritis, Inflammation of colon, bacillary dysentery, Diarrhoea; etc. Hence, it is apparent that the function of Harpic is disinfectant and it has additional function of completely removing tough stains from the surface on which it is applied. Hence, it is recommended for disinfecting (primary function) and cleaning toilets (additional function) and other porcelain surfaces.

9. He further submitted that Government recognizes Harpic as disinfectants.

10. Harpic being disinfectant is considered as a "drug' under Section 3(b) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 read with Rule 126 of the Drugs & Cosmetics Rules. Section 3 (b) (ii) of D&C Act defines drug to include such substances (other than food) intended to affect the structure or any function of the human body or intended to be used for the destruction of vermin or insects which cause disease in human beings or animals, as may be specified from time to time by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette. In terms of Section 3 (b) (ii) of the D&C Act, Government of India is required to notify such goods and Government of India by its Notification No. S.O. 1335 dated 02.06.1961 read with Notification No. X. 11013/2/72-D dated 09.07.1975 has notified "Disinfectant fluids from synthetic or naturally occurring substances by virtue of their composition possessing disinfectant properties or with claim to possess disinfectant properties" as drugs.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that for manufacture of Harpic, a drug license is required to be obtained under D&C Act as it is a substance used for the destruction of vermin or insects which cause disease in human beings. The manufacturer has accordingly obtained drug licence under the D&C Act. Even the label of Harpic is required to comply with the provisions of the Drugs & Cosmetics Rules framed under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940. Accordingly, the manufacturing license number as obtained is mentioned on the label along with other requirements such as batch number etc. Further as per Schedule K of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940, "substances intended to be used for destruction of vermin or insects which cause disease in human beings or animals" are considered as "insecticides and disinfectants" and such products are exempted from the requirement of sale license. Hence, in terms of the provisions of D&C Act, Harpic is disinfectants.

12. Leraned counsel for the petitioner furhter submits that the Government lab certifies Harpic as Disinfectant.

13. The Indian Institute of Chemical Technology, Hyderabad ("IICT") a premier Institute under the Government of India by its Report dated 06.08.2010 has certified that Harpic has very high capability to kill bacteria and germs (99.999999%) and they are disinfectants. In the case of Ponds India Ltd., the Hon'ble Supreme Court laid stress on the fact that reports of experts certify the nature of the products in question, which ought to be taken as sufficient evidence in support of classification. Relevant paragraphs of the Judgment in Ponds India Ltd Vs. Commissioner Trade Tax, Lucknow, 2008 (8) SCC 369 is extracted below for ease of convenience:-

"72. Furthermore, an expert in the field has also given his opinion in favour of the appellant. This Court in Quinn India Ltd. v. CCE classified a product relying, inter alia, on the report of the clerical (sic chemical) examiner as under: (SCC p. 563, para 7).

"7. .. The Tribunal has completely ignored the report of the Chemical Examiner dated 6-10-1981 and the final opinion of the Chief Chemist dated 2-4-1992 coupled with the classification issued by the Department regarding use of wetting agents in the textile industries falling under Sub-Heading 3402.90. Test reports of the Chemical Examiner and Chief Chemist of the Revenue unless demonstrated to be erroneous, cannot be lightly brushed aside. The Revenue has not made any attempt to discredit or to rebut the genuineness and correctness of the report of the Government, Chemical Examiner and Chief Chemist. Thus, the reports are to be accepted along with other documentary evidence in the form of classification issued by the Department regarding use of wetting agents in the textile industries to hold that the product Penetrator 4893 possessed surface active properties and, therefore, is covered by Exemption Notification No. 101/66 dated 17-6-1966 as amended from time to time."

73. In this case also, the report of the chemical examiner is in favour of the assessee. Furthermore, in a case of this nature, where the Revenue itself has been holding the assessee to be a producer of a pharmaceutical product, the burden would be on the Revenue to establish that the goods cease to fall under a given entry. For the said purpose, no material was placed by the Revenue which was imperative."

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the classification of tax entries worldwide are based on Harmonized System of Nomenclature, Brussels and even India has adopted the same for Customs and Central Excise Entries. The Sales Tax/VAT Entries are based on Customs/Central Excise Entries. Therefore, the HSN Entries and Explanatory Notes have relevance for understanding entries under Sales Tax/ VAT Acts. As per the HSN Explanatory Notes 2002, based on which Central Excise & Customs Entries are made in India, HSN Explanatory Notes 2002 provides as:

"Disinfectants are agents which destroy or irreversibly inactivate undesirable bacteria viruses or other micro-organisms generally on inanimate objects.

Disinfectants are used for example in hospitals for cleaning walls etc. or sterilizing instruments. They are also used in agriculture for disinfecting seeds.

The group includes sanitisers bacteriostats and sterilisers."

15. Further, even as per the HSN Explanatory Notes it is provided that "Disinfectants are used in hospitals for cleaning walls". Thus, such disinfectants may also be used for cleaning and merely because they are also used for cleaning, it cannot be said that it is not a disinfectant.

16. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon Bombay Chemicals vs. Collector of Central Excise (1995) Supp 2 SCC 646); wherein, the Supreme Court had an occasion to consider the classification of phenyl, which is held to be classifiable as insecticides/pesticides. In paragraph 8, the Supreme Court held that disinfectants are in the nature of pesticides. It was held by the Supreme Court that a disinfectant which, therefore, is used for killing may broadly be covered in the word "pesticide". Disinfectants may be of two types; one to disinfect and other to destroy the germs, the former, i.e., those products which are used as disinfectant for instance lavender, etc., may not be covered in the expression "pesticide". But those products which are used for killing insects by use of substances such as high boiling tar acid have the same characteristic as "pesticide".

17. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the Harpic sold by the petitioner is squarely covered by the judgement of the Bombay Chemicals (supra), which is disinfectant and has very high capability to kill bacteria and germs (99.999999%) as is clear from the Test Reports.

18. Mortein is an insecticide and the primary/active ingredient of Mortein is the insecticide d-trans allethrin. This Court on a consideration of the various judgements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court as well as the High Courts has held that Mosquito Coils including Mortein Coils would fall within the Entry "Pesticides and Insecticides" as the chemical composition used in the manufacturing of Mosquito Coil is allethrin which is an insecticide. This Hon'ble Court in Knight Queen Industries Vs. State of UP, 2006 (145) STC 226 has held as under:

19. The principles that emerge from the decisions referred to above are that while interpreting statues like the Trade Tax Act, the primary object of which is to raise revenue and for which purpose various products are differently classified, resort should not be had to the scientific and technical meaning of the terms and expressions used but to their popular meaning, that is to say the meaning attached to them by those using the product; that merely because the percentage of medicament in a product is less does not also ipso facto mean that the product is not a medicament; that the main criterion for determining classification is normally the use it is put to by the customers who use it that there is a mental association in the mind of the consumer in respect of certain products keeping in view the utility of the product and also the reputation the name of the product has acquired in the market and amongst the consumers: that when a consumer buys an article, he buys it because it performs a specific function for him; and that it is not for the Court to determine for itself under which item a particular article falls, and it should be best left to the authorities. entrusted with the subject, but where the very basis for including the article under a residuary head in order to charge higher duty is foreign to a proper 'determination of this kind, the Court will be loath to hold that it will hot interfere.

24. .....Having considered the submissions advanced by learned Counsel for the parties, the material on record and examination of the facts of these petitions, we find from the pleadings that Articles/goods sold by the petitioners, though used as household articles, is never the less house hold 'insecticide' which fact is also mentioned on their products. The chemical composition used in manufacturing the goods in question (though widely known and popularly understood as Mosquito Repellent) is allethrin which is an 'insecticide. The petitioners are using chemicals for manufacturing the finished goods which have been treated as 'insecticides' and under the provisions of the Incecticides Act, 1968 a certificate has been issued by Government of India, Ministry of Agriculture which leave no scope of doubt that allethrin which is used in the product sold by the petitioners is 'insecticide'. Insecticides Rules, 1971 provides for the manner of labelling. Labelling/packing of the products of the petitioner is as per the afore-quoted Rule 19(4) of the Rules.

25. D-Trans 'allethrin' and 'pallethrin' are used in manufacturing the goods which have been described as household 'insecticides' on their products as per the statutory requirement under Insecticides Act. In the absence of any specific entry relating to Mosquito Repellent/Mosquito Destroyer and at the same time there being an entry mentioning 'insecticides', it can reasonably be said that an ordinary person will ordinarily understand the product of the petitioners falling under category of the insecticides.

26. These facts coupled with the Principles enunciated in the decisions referred to above leave us in no doubt that the products sold by the petitioners are basically in the categories of 'insecticides' particularly in the absence of any indication in the Notification in question.

27. It has, however, been urged by Sri Kesarwani, learned Counsel for the Revenue that the petitioner applied for registration under Section 8A of the Act "Form 14" wherein in column 7 it has been mentioned that the commodity traded is "Mosquito Repellent Mats/Coils etc.". Similarly under Section 7 of the Central Sales Tax Act, 1956, the petitioner applied for registration in Form-A wherein in column 16 it has been mentioned that the purchase and sales of "Mosquito Repellent Mats/Goils etc".

28. We are, however, unable to persuade ourselves to hold that merely because the petitioners have at various stages contended that the product is described or commonly traded as 'Mosquito Repellant' it should not fall in the category of insecticides'. We would have accepted such a contention if there was separate or specific exclusion entry of Mosquito Repellant in the existing entry of 'Pesticide & Insecticide'. In that case there would have been no difficulty but in the absence of specific mention as indicated above, the product in question falls under the entry insecticides'. The percentage of 'allethrin' used in the product is of no consequence at all, since it is admittedly an 'insecticide'.

29. We entirely agree with the view taken by the Madras High Court in Transelektra Domestic Products Pvt. Ltd. (supra), and by Kerala High Court in Transelektra Domestic Products Private Ltd. (supra) The learned Judge in M/s. Priya Distributor (supra) had also placed reliance upon the said decisions.'

19. In the case of Knight Queen Industries *(supra), wherein this Hon'ble Court has held that Mortein Coil is classifiable under "insecticide". Against the judgment of this Hon'ble Court, State preferred an Special Leave Petition. i.e. S.L.P. (CC) 4803 of 2006, which was dismissed by Hon'ble the Apex Court. The order of aforesaid S.L.P. is on record as Annexure-11 to the writ petition. Thus the judgment given by this Court in case of Knight Queen (supra) has attained the finality and is binding on all the authorities.

20. The counsel for the petitioner relied upon the various judgements on disputed items of various High Courts i.e. High Court of Andra Pradesh in Tax Revision No. 10 of 2007 (M/s Reckitt Benckiser (India) Ltd. Vs. State of Andra Pradesh, The Guwahati High Court in W.P. (C) No. 1377 of 2010 (Reckitt Benckiser India Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Assam, High Court of Rajasthan Bench at Jaipur in S.B. Sales Tax Revision/ Reference No. 11 of 2012 (Reckitt Benckiser (India) Ltd. Vs. Assistant Commercial Taxes Officer Anti Evasion and others and judgment of Supreme Court in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No. 18473 of 2014 (State of A.P. Vs. Reckitt. Benckiser India Ltd.) and M/s Bombay Chemicals Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Collector of Central Excise, 1995 (2) Supp. SCC 646.

21. The counsel for the petitioner has further relied upon the judgment and order of this Court passed in Sales/Trade Tax Revision No. 91 of 2014, (The Commissioner Commercial Tax Vs. M/s Reckitt Benckiser (India) Ltd., wherein this Hon'ble Court after referring the various judgements of Supreme Court and High Court have come to the conclusion that goods in question is covered under Schedule-II, Part A under Entry 20 of UPVAT Act.

22. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that in the case of M/s Reckitt Benckiser (India) Ltd., itself on whose behalf the petitioner is selling the goods in the State of Uttar Pradesh, various High Courts have decided the issue that Harpic and Mortein coil as insecticide and hence, no higher rate of tax can be levied and therefore re-assessment proceeding should be dropped.

23. The counsel for the petitioner further submits that re-assemment proceeding under Section 29(7) of the Act, has been initiated illegally as there is no new material on the basis of which the impugned order could be passed. There is as such no cogent reason warranting invocation of powers under Section 29 (7) of the Act by respondent-3.

24. The counsel for the petitioner has relied upon various judgements passed under Section 21 (2) of UP Trade Tax Act, which is analogous of Section 29 (7) of UPVAT Act. Few of the references are as under; Bharat Heavy Electricals Limited Vs. State of UP and others, 2017 UPTC 205, Rathi Industries Ltd. Vs. State of UP, 2014 UPTC 960, Varun Beverages Ltd. Vs. State of UP and others (2017) 99 VST 393 (All), Vikrant Tyres Ltd.

Vs. State of UP (2006) 148 STC 122 (All), State of UP and others Vs. Aryaverth Chawal Udyog and others (2015) 17 SCC 324. He further submits that re-assemment proceeding initiated against the petitioner may be quashed.

25. The counsel for the petitioner further submits that re-assessement proceeding initiated against the petitioner is illegal and arbitrary in nature, as there is no case of escaped assessment, under assessment of being assessed to tax at the lower rate, than which, it has been assessable under UPVAT Act.

26. Rebutting the submissions of the counsel for the petitioner, Sri C.B. Tripathi, Special Counsel has submitted that re-assessement proceeding against the petitioner has righly been initiated as the goods sold by the petitioner have no specific entry regarding taxability of Harpic and Mortein coil and therefore the same was liable to be taxed under Schedule -IV of UPVAT Act at the rate of 12.5 % because the commodity is not covered under Schedule-I, II, III, IV of UPVAT Act. Learned Special Counsel further argued that assessing authority while passing the original assessment order has not applied its mind judicially and the claim of the petitioner has been accepted at the rate of 4%-5%. He further submits that under Section 29 of UPVAT Act, if the goods are being taxed at the lower rate than that which it is assessable under the Act, then re-assessement proceeding is justified. In view of the submissions, he submits that the writ petition is not at all maintainable and is liable to be dismissed.

27. The Court has perused the record and heard learned counsels for the parties.

28. For proper consideration of the matter relevant entries of Schedule II, Part A Entry 20 and Schedule V of UPVAT Act, are quoted below :-

Entry 20 of Part -A of Schedule II to the UPVAT Act reads as under:

"Chemical fertilizers, except those which are described in entry No. 26 of the Schedule-I; micro-nutrients and also plant growth promoters and regulators, herbicides, rodenticides, insecticides, weedicide and pesticides."

Schedule V to the UPVAT Act reads as under:

1. All goods except goods mentioned or decsribed in Schedule-I, Schedule-II, Schedule-III and Schedule-V of this Act.

29. Schedule-II, Part A, Entry 20 of UPVAT Act provides levy of 4%-5% tax on the sale of goods mentioned therein which includes all all kind of insecticides and pesticides. Schedule-V provides levy of tax at the rate of 12% on those goods which are not mentioned in any of the Schedule-I,II, III, IV.

30. The High Court of Andhra Pradesh in Tax Revision No. 10 of 2007 (M/s Reckitt Benckiser (India) Ltd. Vs. State of Andra Pradesh held Harpic as insecticide/pesticides. The relevant part is quoted below:

1. M/s. Reckitt Benckiser (India) Limited (hereafter, the manufacturer) is engaged in the manufacture and sale of Lizol (floor cleaner), Harpic (toilet cleaner) and Mortein mosquito repellents. Whether these goods are exigible to value added tax @ 4% under entry 20 of Schedule IV to the Andhra Pradesh Value Added Tax, 2005 (the VAT Act)? This question falls for consideration in the tax revision case filed under Section 34 of the VAT Act and in all the Writ Petitions filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

4. The Tax Revision Case, in the circumstances, against the order of the STAT, would not lie. The manufacturer, therefore, filed two Writ Petitions being W.P. Nos. 143 and 145 of 2011 assailing the order of the STAT and also seeking declaration that Harpicand Lizol are exigible to VAT @ 4%. Thus, TREVC. No. 10 of 2007 and W.P. Nos. 143and 145 of 2011 are filed by the manufacturer assailing the order of the STAT confirming the decision of ARA. W.P. Nos. 2652, 18288 and 23875 of 2009, W.P.Nos. 2443, 7202 and 2408 of 2010 are filed assailing the order of the ARA for declaration as above. W.P. No. 11613 of 2009, W.P. Nos. 31010, 31012, 14521, 14522,. 14523, 14525, 14526, 14530, 27457, 27519, 27470 of 2011 are filed seeking a declaration that the good are liable to tax @ 4% under entry 20 to Schedule IV to the VAT Act. The Writ Petitions being W.P. Nos. 4033, 11272, 11301 and 11703 of 2009 are filed by the manufacturer or the distributors/dealers challenging assessment orders as well as orders imposing penalty, where the officials applied rate of tax at 12.5% under Schedule V. While doing so, needless to mention, the assessing officers relied on the ruling of ARA. In W.P. No. 27470 of 2011, M/s. Raghu Agencies, a dealer seeks a declaration that Mortein spray and Mortein Rat Kill are goods exigible to tax @ 4% under entry 20 of Schedule IV of the VAT Act.

26. ..... we hold that Harpic and Lizol are disinfectants capable of destroying germs and microorganisms like Escheriachia coli, Staphylococcus aureus, Enterococcus hirae, Pseudomonas aeruginosa and Candida albicans etc. Being disinfectants they fall within the category of pesticides covered by entry 20 of IV Schedule. We also conclude that even though Harpic Lizol are manufactured under drug licence issued in Form-25 issued under Rule 70 of the Drug Rules, they do not fall under entry 88 and, therefore, the question of these goods coming within the excluded category under entry 88(b) does not arise. Both the goods in question, therefore, are exigible to tax at 4% but not at 12.5%.

31. Guwahati High Court in the case of W.P. (C) No. 1377 of 2010 (Reckitt Benckiser (India) Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Assam held the following observations:

1. By this batch of writ petitions, W.P. (C) No. 1377 of 2010, W.P. (C) No. 1378 of 2010, W.P. (C) No. 1379 of 2010 and W.P. (C) No. 1377 of 2010, the petitioner company, registered under the Companies Act and engaged in manufacturing, sale and marketing of various household products including insecticides such as Mortein mosquito coils, mats, vaporizers and disinfectants like "Harpic" and "Lizol" dispirit and Dettol antiseptic liquid, cherry blossom shoe polish, etc., has challenged the assessment of the respondents authorities of the products of Harpic, Lizol and Dettol at the higher rate of these products at 12.5 per cent VAT charges classifying under the residual items under entry No. 1 of the Fifth Schedule of the Assam Value Added Tax Act, 2003 (hereinafter referred to as, "the Assam VAT Act"), contrary to the claim of the petitioner that the petitioner-company would be liable to pay only at rate of four per cent as these items are covered by specific entries provided under Schedule to the said Act at the said rate. As all these writ petitions challenge similar orders and under similar fact-situations, these writ petitions are heard together and disposed of by this common judgment.

2. According to the petitioner, the petitioner had been paying taxes at the rate of four per cent in respect of the aforesaid products as these (Harpic and Lizol) are covered under entry No. 19 of Part A of the Second Schedule to the Assam Value Added Tax Act chargeable at four per cent and Dettol is covered under entry No. 21 of the Fourth Schedule to the Assam Value Added Tax Act also chargeable at the same rate of four per cent.

3. Entry No. 19 of Part A of the Second Schedule to the Assam Value Added Tax Act reads as follows:

Chemical fertilizers, pesticides, weedicides and insecticides excluding mosquito repellents including electric or electronic mosquito repellents gadgets and insect repellents, devices and parts and accessories thereof.

4 . The petitioner claims that the products Harpic and Lizol fall under the aforesaid entry No. 19 as these are disinfectants and covered by the expression "pesticides".

21 . The petitioner has contended that the products "Harpic" and "Lizol" are disinfectants and since disinfectants are also covered by the expression "pesticides", these products would be covered by entry 19 of Part A of the Second Schedule.

22. The petitioner states that the active ingredient of Harpic is hydrochloric acid, which is a well known disinfectant and in addition, it has other ingredients like Bis/2 hydroxyethyl oleylamine, alkyl trimethyl ammonium chloride, butylated hydroxy toluene, methyl salicylte and other chemicals, used for disinfecting the surface on which it is applied and is effective in killing various micro-organisms (germs/bacteria) like S. Aurus, E. Coli, S. Flexnari, S. Feacalis, K. Pneumoniae, and C. Albicans, which are generally found in toilet bowls that cause skin, soft tissue and mucous membrane infections, gastroenteritis, inflammation of colon, bacillary dysentery, diarrhoea, etc. Before respondent No. 3, the petitioner had also furnished supporting documents/certification from experts, viz., SGS India Private Limited which is an affiliate of Societe Generale de Survellience S. A V Geneva, the world's independent international testing, verification and certification organisation, which hold accreditation from National Accreditation Board for Testing and Calibration Laboratories, Ministry of Science and Technology, New Delhi and is approved, among others, by the Bureau of Indian Standards, New Delhi and the Ministry of Environment and Forests, Government of India (under Environment Protection Act, 1986), New Delhi, to substantiate the contention that Harpic is a disinfectant.

23. The aforesaid contention of the petitioner that Harpic is a disinfectant was not doubted or contradicted by the Revenue. Similarly, the primarily disinfectant quality of "Lizol", supported by expert opinion also remained unrebutted.

24 . The petitioner also contended that similarly, "Lizol" has the active ingredient benzalkonium chloride solution I.P. and other ingredients fragrance-BBA P 2062 M, propylene glyeel LP, sodium bicarbonate I.P, tartazine yellow, fatty alcohol ethoxylate, lsoprpyl alcohol I.P. and other chemicals, used for disinfecting floor, cooking platform, sink and similar hard surfaces. It is effective in killing microorganisms like S. Aurus E. Coli (MTCC 1687) Pseudomonas Aeruginosa (MTCC-741) which are generally found on hard surfaces like floors that cause urinary tract infections, respiratory system infections, dermatitis, soft tissue infections, bone and joint infections, infections to patients with severe burns, cancer and AIDS, etc.

25. Accordingly, it was submitted that the petitioner, through the product labels, had been publicly and commercially representing "Harpic" and "Lizol" as disinfectants and the consumers purchase the products for their disinfectant properties apart from the cleansing utility. The consumers purchase and use the same for mainly disinfectant purpose while keeping their toilets/homes clean. Thus, the primary purpose of the products is disinfectant and is not the secondary as held by the Revenue.

26. As regards the aforesaid contention, it is noticed that the product labels of both the products clearly indicate that the petitioner has made representation of their disinfectant property as the primary purpose. In the impugned order, though the label has been referred to, the representation about the disinfectant property has been glossed over, not highlighted and has held the disinfectant property to be only the secondary one. The products labels of both the products indicate that the said products are in the nature of disinfectant which prominently display the potential of the products to kill germs. In the product label of Lizol, it is clearly stated thereon that the product is a "disinfectant surface cleaner". Moreover, it is prominently stated on the face of the product that it "Kills 99.9 per cent germs". Even on the reverse of the product label the name of the product is shown as "Lizol disinfectant". There is also a logo of a house with a commonly used medical sign of "+" whereunder it is written "Kills 99.9 per cent germs". The same logo is prominently embossed on both the front and back of the bottle to indicate that the said product kills germs, thereby emphasizing that it is a disinfectant.

82. In the light of the above discussions, we are of the view that these petitions should be allowed and the products Harpic and Lizol having been declared to be pesticides as discussed above, would be liable to tax under entry No. 19 of Part A of the Second Schedule to the Assam VAT Act and Dettol would be liable to be assessed as an item under entry 21 of the Fourth Schedule to the Assam VAT Act and will not fall within the excluded category under the Explanation.

32. In S.B. Sales Tax Revision/ Reference No. 11 of 2012 (Reckitt Benckiser (India) Ltd. Vs. Assistant Commercial Taxes Officer Anti Evasion and others, the High Court of Rajasthan has held as follows:-

3 . The brief facts noticed are that a survey came to be conducted at the business premises of the assessee on 03.05.2007 by the Anti Evasion Wing of the revenue wherein, it was noticed that the assessee is manufacturing/producing Anti- Mosquitoes devices and "repellents", "Dettol Soap", "Brasso", "Harpic Toilet Cleaner", "Lizol Floor Cleaner", "Manson Polish", "Robin Blue", "Ret Kill",

"Teenapole", Drugs & Medicines etc. and during the course of survey and further investigation material was collected on the basis whereof the Assessing Officer noticed that the assessee is selling Electrically Operated Anti-mosquito devices & repellents, Electrically Operated Anti-Mosquito Mat, Anti-Mosquito Coil, Rat Kill, "Harpic", "Lizol", "Dettol" Antiseptic on which VAT @ 4% was being collected and paid and the Assessing Officer was prima-facie of the opinion that the claim of the assessee that it falls in Schedule-IV of the R.V.A.T. Act is not correct rather it falls in the residuary Schedule on which rate prescribed is 12.5% which was required to be paid and not 4% as claimed by the assessee. ...

7 . Learned counsel for the assessee contended that the two products namely; "Harpic" & "Lizol" are classifiable under Entry 21 or Entry 29 of Schedule IV of the R.V.A.T. Act. and the same being used as Insecticides or Pesticides and the entry being specific and clear, the Assessing Officer as well as the Appellate Authorities have gone wrong in holding that they fall under the residuary entry namely; Schedule (V).....

9 . Counsel also contended that the Central Excise Authorities have also considered these products as Insecticides/Pesticides. Counsel also drew attention of the Court to the dictionary meaning of "Pest/Pesticide" and other products as given in the Chamber's Twentieth Century Dictionary as well as "Glossary/Pesticides" Users. Counsel contended that the active ingredient of "Harpic" is Hydrochloric Acid, which is a well known Benzalkonium Chloride Solution I.P., and other ingredients and these products are used for disinfecting the surface on which it is applied. "Harpic" is effective in killing various Micro Organisms (germs/bacteria) and the function of "Harpic" is disinfectant and it has additional function of completely removing tough stains from the surface on which it is applied.

20. The assessee in the aforesaid cases has been able to procure and place reports of Government owned Laboratories which do specify that these products are falling in the category of Insecticide/Pesticides. In my view, such test reports ought not to have been discarded by the lower authorities without referring even rather should have been adverted either to distinguish or reject the same. It would be appropriate to refer the judgment in the case of Ponds India Limited (supra) where insofar as test/Laboratory report is concerned, it has been held as under:-

"72. Furthermore, an expert in the field has also given his opinion in favour of the appellant. This Court in Quinn India v. CCE classified a product relying, inter alia, on the report of the clerical (sic chemical) examiner as under:

"7. ...The Tribunal has completely ignored the report of the ChemicalExaminer dated 06-10-1992 coupled with the classification issued by the Department regarding use of wetting agents in the textile industries falling under Sub-Heading 3402.90. Test reports of the Chemical Examiner and Chief Chemist of the Revenue unless demonstrated to be erroneous, cannot be lightly brushed aside. The Revenue has not made any attempt to discredit or to rebut the genuineness and correctness of the reports of the Government, Chemical Examiner and Chief Chemist. Thus, the reports are to be accepted along with other documentary evidence in the form of classification issued by the Department regarding use of wetting agents in the textile industries to hold that the product Penetrator 4893 possessed surface active properties and, therefore, is covered by Exemption Notification No. 101/66 dated 17-6-1966 as amended from time to time."

73. In this case also, the report of the chemical examiner is in favour of the assessee. Furthermore, in a case of this nature, where the Revenue itself has been holding the assessee to be a producer of a pharmaceutical product, the burden would be on the Revenue to establish that the goods cease to fall under a given entry. For the said purpose, no material was placed by the Revenue which was imperative."

21. The Apex Court in the case of Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited and Another v. Union of India and Others MANU/SC/1091/2006 : (2006) 3 SCC 1 has also held that if an entry has been interpreted consistently in a particular manner for several assessment years ordinarily it would not be permissible for the revenue to depart therefrom unless there is a material change.

23. It would also be appropriate to quote the judgment of the Apex court in the case of Bombay Chemical Pvt. Ltd. (supra) where disinfectant fluids was in issue, held to be entitled to exemption in respect of item 18 added to list of extract items under the Central Excise and Salt Act, 1944 where the Entry 18 was added to it which reads as under:-

"18. Insecticides, Pesticides, Weedicides and Fungicides."

The Apex Court in the aforesaid case defined after taking note of the dictionary meaning of "disinfectant" and "Pesticides" and it would be appropriate to quote relevant paras of the said judgment which reads ad-infra:-

"5. 'Disinfectant' is defined in Webster Comprehensive Dictionary "as a substance used to disinfect or to destroy the germs of infectious and contagious diseases". In the Concise Oxford Dictionary of Current English, 'disinfectant' is defined as "a commercially produced chemical liquid that destroys germs". In Encyclopedia Britannica, Vol.4, it is explained to mean, "any substance, such as creosote or alcohol, applied to inanimate objects to kill microorganisms. Disinfectants and antiseptics are alike in that both are germicidal, but antiseptics are applied primarily to living tissue. The ideal disinfectant would rapidly destroy bacteria, fungi, viruses and protozoans, would not be corrosive to surgical instruments, and would not destroy or discolour materials on which it is used". It thus cannot be disputed that a disinfectant is also a killing agent. Even the Tribunal found that the goods produced by the appellant which contained high boiling tar acid kill the bacteria in the gutters and the bathrooms. In the Report of the Deputy Chief Chemist it was mentioned that all above products numbering 14 were formulations containing high boiling tar acid as the principal active ingredient. It then noticed the definition of pesticide and disinfectant and observed that, "it appears from the above definition that disinfectants are used for killing or inactivating micro-organisms, in some literature for oils (containing high boiling tar acid) are mentioned in pesticide manual". But he opined that it was not clear whether the formulations containing tar acids, as in the case of the goods produced by the appellant which were used as disinfectants, will be covered broadly by term 'pesticides'.

6. 'Pesticide' has been defined in Butterworths Medical Dictionary, 2nd Edn., as "a comprehensive word to include substances that will kill any form of pests, e.g., insects, rodents and bacteria". The term 'pesticide' includes a large variety of compounds of diverse chemical nature and biological activity grouped together usually on the basis of what kind of pests they are used to destroy or eliminate. Under the US Federal Environment Pesticide Control Act, the term 'pesticide' has been defined to include "(1) any substance ormixture of substances intended for preventing, destroying, repelling, or mitigating any pest, insect, rodent, nematode, fungus, weed, other forms of terrestrial or aquatic plants or other forms of animal life, e.g., viruses, bacteria, or other micro-organisms, which the administrator declares to be a pest and (2) any substance or mixture of substances intended for use as a plant regulator, defoliant or desiccant" (Pesticides in the Indian Environment, by P.K. Gupta p.2).

7 . 'Fungicide' inhibits growth or destroys fungi pathogenic to man or other animals or inanimate surfaces. The appellant had imported tar acid to manufacture insecticide, pesticide and fungicide. The Director General had permitted import for this purpose. In the letter written by the appellant claiming exemption, it was stated that disinfectant fluids manufactured by it were capable of being used for the purpose of destroying fungi of medical importance.

8 . A disinfectant which, therefore, is used for killing many broadly be covered in the word 'pesticide'. Disinfectants, may be of two types; one to disinfect and other to destroy the germs. The former, i.e., those products which are used as disinfectant for instance lavender etc. may not be covered in the expression 'pesticide'. But those products which are used for killing insects by use of substances such as high boiling tar acid have the same characteristic as 'pesticide'.

9. Item No. 18 which was added in 1978 grants exemption to the categories of goods which can be classified as insecticides, pesticides, weedicides or fungicides. They have to be understood in broad sense. The reasoning of the Tribunal that if an expression is capable of a broader and a narrower meaning then it is the latter which could be preferred does not appear to be correct. Where entries are descriptive of category of goods they have certain characteristics. Therefore, when a question arises whether a particular goods is covered in any category or not, it has to be examined if it satisfies the characteristic which go to make it a goods of that category. And whether in trade circle it is understood as such and if it is a goods of technical nature then whether technically it falls in the one or the other category. Once it is found that a particular goods satisfies the test then the issue which arises for consideration is whether it should be construed broadly or narrowly. One of the settled principles of construction of an exemption notification is that it should be construed strictly, but once a goods is found to satisfy the test by which it falls in the exemption notification then it cannot be excluded from it by resorting to applying or construing such notification narrowly. Item 18 is an exemption notification. As stated earlier, it mentions broad categories of goods which are entitled to exemption. Once a goods is found to fall even narrowly in any of these categories, there appears no justification to exclude it. The test of strict construction of exemption notification applies at the entry, that is, whether a particular goods is capable of falling in one or the other category but once it falls then the exemption notification has to be construed broadly and widely. Each of the words insecticides, pesticides, fungicides or weedicides are understood both in the technical and common parlance as having broad meaning. Therefore, if any goods or items satisfy the test of being covered in either of the expression, then it is entitled to exemption. The broad and basic characteristic for exemption under the notification is that the goods must have the property of killing germs and bacteria, insects or pests and it should be understood in the common parlance as well as being covered in one of the broad categories mentioned in the notification. Since the goods produced by the appellant are capable of killing bacteria and fungi which too, is covered in the expressions 'pesticide' and 'fungicide' there appears no reason to exclude the goods from the aforesaid notification."

This Judgment supports the claim of the assessee and in my view, squarely covers the issue in favour of the assessee.

24. The Gauhati High Court in assessee's own case Reckitt Benckiser (India) Pvt. Ltd. v. The State of Assam and Ors (supra) had also an occasion to consider the similar & identical entries and it would be appropriate to quote relevant para Nos. 3 & 4 of the aforesaid Judgment which reads ad-infra:-

"3. Entry No. 19 of Part A of the Second Schedule to Assam VAT Act reads as follows:-

"Chemical fertilizers, pesticides, weedicides and insecticides excluding mosquito repellents including electric or electronic mosquito repellents gadgets and insect repellents, devices and parts and accessories thereof."

The petitioner claims that the products Harpic and Lizol fall under the aforesaid Entry No. 19 as these are disinfectants and covered by the expression "pesticides".

4. Entry 21 of the Fourth Schedule of the Assam VAT Act, as existed prior to 07.08.2005 which read as, "Drugs & Medicines (On Maximum Retail Price basis)" was modified by the subsequent notification dated 08.08.2005, which now reads as follows:-"Drug and medicines including vaccines, disposable hypodermic syringes, hypodermic needles, catguts sutures, surgical dressing (On Maximum Retail Price basis).

Explanation: The expression "drugs and medicines" shall not include products capable of being used as cosmetics and toilet preparations including tooth paste, tooth powder, cosmetics, toilet articles and soaps."

(emphasis added)"

25. Taking into consideration the entry existing under the R.V.A.T. Act, the characteristic and phraseology is almost identical to the Assam VAT Act, the High Court after detailed reasoning observed in para Nos. 38, 39 & 41 of the judgment of the Gauhati High Court (supra) which reads ad-infra:-

"38. In respect of the aforesaid products, as discussed above, the disinfectants qualities of the Harpic and Lizol and the prophylactic qualities of Dettol have not been denied by the revenue authorities. The only stand taken by the revenue authorities is that these were not dominant nature of the products. However, it cannot be denied that these disinfectant and the prophylactic qualities of the aforesaid products are not insignificant, rather because of the aforesaid disinfectant and prophylactic qualities, the aforesaid products are used.

It is now well settled principle of law that when two views are possible, the one which favours assessee should be adopted. In Mauri Yeast India Private Limited v. State of Uttar Pradesh, MANU/SC/7514/2008 : (2008) 5 SCC 680.:

"46. It is now a well-settled principle of law that when two views are possible, one which favours the assessee should be adopted.(See Bihar 4: MANU/SC/0642/1997 : (1997) 5 SCC 289"

Here, in the present case, there are two possible view: either to take the products Harpic and Lizol to be merely stain remover and cleansing agents or as disinfectants and in respect of Dettol, to treat it as a mere toilet preparation or a drug or medicine. Since there are sufficient materials to consider Harpic and Lizol as disinfectants and accordingly, as pesticides, and Dettol as medicament, following the aforesaid principle of law, it can be held that the said products are pesticides and drugs respectively.

39 . In view of the aforesaid possible views taken to consider Harpic and Lizol as pesticides and Dettol as a drug, based on material as discussed above, it will not be appropriate to deny their qualification under the aforesaid Entry Nos. 19 and 21 and consign them to the residuary entry. In this connection, we may recollect the observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the Dunlop India Ltd. v. Union of India, MANU/SC/0555/1975 : (1976) 2 SCC 241, where the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as:-

"35. It is good fiscal policy not to put people in doubt and quandary about their liability to duty. Ween a particular product like V.P. Latex known to trade and commerce in this country and abroad is imported, it would have been better if the article is, eo nomine, put under a proper classification to avoid controversy over the residuary clause. AS a matter of fact in the Red Book (Import Trade Control Policy of the Ministry of Commerce) under Item 150, in Section II, which relates to "rubber, raw and gutta percha, raw", synthetic latex including vinyl pyridine latex and copolymer of styrene butadiene latex are specifically included under the sub-head "Synthetic Rubber". We do not see any reason why the same policy could not have been followed in the ICT book being complementary to each other. When an article has, by all standards, a reasonable claim to be classified under an enumerated item in the Tariff Schedule, it will be against the very principle of classification to deny it the parentage and consign it to an orphanage of the residuary clause. The question of competition between two rival classifications will, however, stand on a different footing.

36. It is not for the Court to determine for itself under Article 136 of the Constitution under which item a particular article falls. It is best left to the authorities entrusted with the subject. But where the very basis of the reason for including the article under a residuary head in order to charge higher duty is foreign to a proper determination of this kind, this Court will be loath to say that it will not interfere."

41 . In the light of the above discussions, we are of the view that these petitions should be allowed and the products Harpic and Lizol having been declared to be pesticides as discussed above, would be liable to tax under Entry No. 19 of the Part A of the Second Schedule of the Assam VAT Act and Dettol would be liable to be assessed as an item under Entry 21 of the Fourth Schedule of the Assam VAT Act and will not fall within the excluded category under the Explanation."

26 . The Apex Court in the case of Ambey Laboratories v. Collector (supra) was considering the case of "Liquid Phenyle" an identical product and, held in a case of Central Excise Tariff Act, 1985 that "Liquid Phenyle" is disinfectant.

27. The Division Bench of Andhra Pradesh High Court in the case of (assessee) M/s. Reckitt Benckiser (India) Ltd., v. State of Andhra Pradesh (supra) was also considering case under Andhra Pradesh VAT Act and vide judgment dt. 13.06.2013, of the same product being "Mortein", "Lizol" & "Harpic" while the claim of the assessee was that it falls under Entry 20 of Schedule (iv) of the Andhra Pradesh Value Added Tax payable @ 4% but the claim of the revenue was that it is exigible to tax in Schedule (V) of the Act under rate of 12.5% and taking into consideration the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the Bombay Chemical Pvt. Ltd. observed in the said judgment which reads as under:-

"We may passingly mention that Section 18 of Drugs Act mandates a licence for manufacture, sale or distribution of any drug, cosmetic or medicine. The word "drug" is defined in Section 3(b) of the Drugs Act. It is inclusive definition. A plain reading of Section 3(b)(iv) thereof shows that not only medicines for internal or external use of human beings or animals but substances that affect structure or function of human beings or animals but substances that affect structure or function of human body or used for destruction of vermin or insects which cause disease in the human beings and animals are also drugs. Further all substances intended for use as components of a drugs. Further all substances intended for use as components of a drug and such devices intended for internal or external use among others, in the "mitigation or prevention of disease" would be drugs. When a manufacturer produces any disinfectant fluids, they are basically intended for prevention of disease by destroying and/or controlling bacteria and microorganisms that are unusually present. That may be one reason why even under the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 (the Drugs Rules) the disinfectants are placed in Schedule-K in respect of which they were exempted from the provisions of Chapter IV and the Rules made thereunder. Harpic and Lizol are the products/goods sold even in general stores and on the counters of departmental stores. We therefore reject the submission of the State that Harpic and Lizol fall under entry 88 merely because they are manufactured under drug licence."

28. Placing of reliance by the counsel for the revenue on a judgment of Kerala High Court in assesses own case (supra) is misplaced as the Apex Court reversed and remanded the matter back to Kerala High Court to re-decide and counsel for the respondent was unable to bring on record the subsequent judgment of Kerala High Court.

33. In addition to above, as discussed above, in judgments given by various High Courts, i.e., High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Guwahati and Rajasthan, on the case filed by the manufacturer of Harpic and Mortein, i.e., M/s Reckitt Benckiser (India) Pvt. Ltd., after considering the relevant entries and provisions of the respective States, have held that Harpic and Mortein Coil, manufactured and sold, are to be classified under the heading "Insecticides/ Pesticides" and "Disinfectant", and are subject to tax at the rate of 4% to 5% and therefore, the Revenue's contention that the item sold by the petitioner should be taxed as residue entry at the rate of 12.5% to 13.5% has been rejected.

34. The Apex Court has dismissed the Special Appeal filed by the State of Andhra Pradesh against the judgement & order passed by the Andhra Pradesh High Court in S.L.P. No. 18473 of 2014 (State of A.P. Vs. M/s Reckitt Benchiser (India) Pvt. Ltd).

35. This Court in T.T.R. No. 91 of 2014 (supra), after a very detailed discussion, has held that Harpic sold by the manufacturer, i.e., M/s Reckitt Benckiser (India) Pvt. Ltd. is to be taxed @ 4%-5%.

36. When a pointed question was put to the learned Special Counsel as to whether any special appeal before the Apex Court has been filed against the judgement & order dated 09.10.2018 passed by this Court, the answer was in negative.

37. The petitioner before this Court has been appointed as a Distributor of the manufacturer (i.e. Reckitt Benchiser India Pvt. Ltd) of Harpic and Mortein Coil, who had already approached not only this Court, but also other High Courts; the issue has been settled treating the same as "Pesticides". Furthermore, on the issue arising from the Andhra Pradesh High Court; the Andhra Pradesh High Court has held that Harpic to be taxed under the head "Pesticides".

38. The Apex Court in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No. 18473 of 2014 (State of A.P. Vs. Reckitt Benckiser India Ltd.) had an occasion to decide the issue arising out of Andhra Pradesh High Court and vide judgement dated 06.12.2016, has held as under:

"Delay condoned.

Mr. S. Ganesh, learned senior counsel appearing for the respondent has submitted that the High Court of Andhra Pradesh at Hyderabad, vide judgment dated 13th June, 2012, decided number of writ petitions and revisions and granted relief, but the State has not chosen to assail all the orders, but except few. Additionally, it is submitted that the stand of the assessee has been accepted in subsequent assessment years and it has been allowed to be made final.

In view of the aforesaid obtaining factual matrix, we are not inclined to interfere with the impugned judgment and order of the High Court and, accordingly, the special leave petitions stand dismissed.

The question of law that has been raised in these special leave petitions, in case arises in future from a different judgment, it shall be addressed to on merits. "

39. After the order of Apex Court in the aforesaid S.L.P., the issue stand settled as regard to levy of tax at the rate of 4%-5% on the goods in question i.e. Harpic and Mortein Coil. No different view can legally be permitted.

40. The record reveals that the manufacturer of the petitioner, i.e., M/s Reckitt Benckiser (India) Pvt. Ltd., has treated the item as "Pesticides" and accordingly, a tax was charged from it and on the subsequent sales, the petitioner has charged tax as "pesticides" and has deposited the same along with its monthly returns, which has rightly been accepted by the assessing authority while framing the original assessment orders.

41. This Court in T.T.R. No. 91 of 2014 (supra) has decided the issue vide judgement & order dated 09.10.2018. The relevant paragraphs of the said judgment are quoted below:-

"The brief facts of the case are that the Assessee-Opposite Party-Dealer is carrying on a business of manufacture, purchase and sale of Lizol / Harpic. For the assessment year in question, the Assessee-Opposite Party has charged and deposited the tax on the sale of Harpic and Lizol treating the same are covered under Schedule-II, Part-A, Entry No. 20 of VAT Act at the rate 4% - 5%.

Per contra, learned counsel for the Assessee-Opposite Party has placed reliance of the judgments of the Apex Court as well as of the High Courts.

Learned counsel for the assessee-Opposite Party has placed reliance of a judgment reported in (1995) Suppl. 2 SCC 646 in the case of the Bombay Chemicals Pvt. Ltd. v. Collector of Central Excise.

Learned counsel for the Assessee-Opposite Party submitted that the Revision has been filed by the Revenue against the Judgment dated 17.03.2013, passed by the Commercial Tribunal, Ghaziabad, who has allowed the Appeal filed by the assessee and has upheld and held that the classification of Harpic Disinfectant Toilet Cleaner ("Harpic") and Lizol Disinfectant Floor Cleaner ("Lizol") under Entry 20 of Part-A of Schedule II to the UPVAT Act as an "insecticide" or "pesticide" subject to VAT @ 4%/5% for Assessment Year 2008-09 and rejected the submission of the Revenue that Harpic and Lizol are classifiable under the residual entry (viz. Schedule V to the UPVAT Act and subject to VAT @ 12.5%/13.5%).

The Tax Tribunal passed the Impugned Judgment based on the Judgment of the Supreme Court in Bombay Chemicals Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Collector of Central Excise (1995 Supp. (2) SCC 646), where the Supreme Court was seized of classification of Phenyl, held (at para 8 of the judgment) that disinfectants are classifiable as insecticide/pesticide.

Learned counsel for the Assessee-Opposite Party has submitted that the classification of Harpic and Lizol arose in VAT laws of other States and the High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Gauhati High Court and Hon'ble Rajasthan High Court (under the respective VAT Laws of the State) have held that Harpic and Lizol are "insecticide" and/or "pesticide", liable to tax @4% and do not fall under the residual entry.

Learned counsel further submitted that the State of Rajasthan filed the SLP before the Supreme Court which was dismissed, by the Supreme Court.

Learned counsel for the Assessee-Opposite Party has submitted that after coming into force UP VAT Act, the Assessee-Opposite Party has been bonafide classifying the item namely Harpic and Lizol under Entry 20, Part-A of Schedule II to the UP Act, which reads as under :-

Rationale for classification adopted by the Respondent:

Since coming into force of the UPVAT Act, the Respondent has been bona-fide classifying Harpic and Lizol under Entry 20 of Part-A of Schedule-II to the UPVAT Act, which reads as:

"Chemical fertilizers, except those which are described in entry No. 26 of the Schedule I; micro-nutrients and also plant growth promoters and regulators, herbicides, rodenticide, insecticide, weedicide and pesticides."

The Respondent classified Harpic and Lizol under Entry 20 of Part II of Schedule II to the UPVAT Act, based on the following principles:

(a) Classification adopted under UP Trade Tax Act as well as other Sales Tax Act, CST and Central Excise;

(b) supported by a large number of Judgments including Judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bombay Chemicals (supra);

(c) Test Reports of Indian Institute of Chemical Technology, Hyderabad certifying Harpic & Lizol as disinfectants; hence a pesticide/ insecticide, which are relevant as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ponds);

(d) definition under the relevant statute - Section 3 (b) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act (definition of drugs) read with Rule 126 of the Drugs & Cosmetics Rules;

(e) Licenses issued for Harpic and Lizol by the Drug Controller, Government of India treating them as a disinfectant;

(f) HSN Classification;

(g) Technical and Dictionary meaning; and

(h) common/commercial parlance etc. (taken note of by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bombay Chemicals and by various High Courts (in paras 26 and 27 below).

These principles have been recognized by the Supreme Court in Ponds India Ltd. v. Commissioner of Trade Tax, Lucknow (2008) 8 SCC 369.

Based on such classification, the assessee-dealer had collected VAT @ 4%/5% and deposited VAT @ 4%/5% with the Revisionist. The monthly as well as annual returns of the assessee-dealer were accepted for years. Now, the Revisionist has questioned the classification adopted by the Department, claiming that Harpic and Lizol ought to be classified under the residual entry i.e. Schedule V to the UPVAT Act, which reads as:

"Schedule V

1. All goods except goods mentioned or described in Schedule I, Schedule II, Schedule III and Schedule IV of this Act"

Learned counsel for the assessee-dealers submitted that the active ingredient of Harpic is Hydrochloric Acid, which is a well-known disinfectant and in addition, it has other ingredients like Bis/2 Hydroxyethyl Oleylamine, Alkyl Trimethyl Ammonium Chloride, Butylated Hydroxy Toluene, Methyl Salicylte and other chemicals, used for disinfecting, the surface on which it is applied. Harpic is effective in killing various Micro-organisms (germs/ bacteria) like S. aurus, E.coli, S. flexnari, S. faecalis, K. pneumoniae, and C. albicans, which are generally found in toilet bowls that cause Skin, soft tissue and mucous membrane infections, Gastroenteritis, Inflammation of colon, bacillary dysentery, Diarrhoea; etc. Hence, it is apparent that the function of Harpic is disinfectant and it has additional function of completely removing tough stains from the surface on which it is applied. Hence, it is recommended for disinfecting (primary function) and cleaning toilets (additional function) and other porcelain surfaces.

The active ingredient of "Lizol" is Benzalkonium chloride solution I.P. The other ingredients of "Lizol" are Fragrance-BBA P 2062 M, Propylene Glycol I.P, Sodium bicarbonate I.P, Tartazine Yellow, Fatty Alcohol Ethoxylate, Isoprpyl alcohol I.P and other chemicals, used for disinfecting the floor, cooking platform, sink and similar hard surfaces. It is effective in killing Micro-organisms like S. aurus, E.coli (MTCC 1687) Pseudomonas aeruginosa (MTCC-741) which are generally found on hard surfaces like floors that cause urinary tract infections, respiratory system infections, dermatitis, soft tissue infections, bone and joint infections, infections to patients with severe burns, cancer etc.

Hence, it is apparent that the primary function of Harpic and Lizol is to act as disinfectant and to kill germs, bacteria and microorganisms and it has additional function of completely removing tough stains from the surface on which it is applied.

He has further submitted that Government recognizes Harpic and Lizol as disinfectants.

Harpic and Lizol being disinfectants are considered as a "drug' under Section 3(b) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 read with Rule 126 of the Drugs & Cosmetics Rules. Section 3 (b) (ii) of D&C Act defines drug to include such substances (other than food) intended to affect the structure or any function of the human body or intended to be used for the destruction of vermin or insects which cause disease in human beings or animals, as may be specified from time to time by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette. In terms of Section 3 (b) (ii) of the D&C Act, Government of India is required to notify such goods and Government of India by its Notification No. S.O. 1335 dated 02.06.1961 read with Notification No. X. 11013/2/72-D dated 09.07.1975 has notified "Disinfectant fluids from synthetic or naturally occurring substances by virtue of their composition possessing disinfectant properties or with claim to possess disinfectant properties" as drugs.

Accordingly, for manufacture of Harpic and Lizol, a drug license is required to be obtained under D&C Act as it is a substance used for the destruction of vermin or insects which cause disease in human beings. The Respondent has accordingly obtained drug licence under the D&C Act. Even the labels of Harpic and Lizol are required to comply with the provisions of the Drugs & Cosmetics Rules framed under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940. Accordingly, the manufacturing license number as obtained is mentioned on the label along with other requirements such as batch number etc. Further as per Schedule K of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940, "substances intended to be used for destruction of vermin or insects which cause disease in human beings or animals" are considered as "insecticides and disinfectants" and such products are exempted from the requirement of sale license. Hence, in terms of the provisions of D&C Act, Harpic Lizol are disinfectants.

He has also submitted that the Government lab certifies Harpic and Lizol as Disinfectants.

The Indian Institute of Chemical Technology, Hyderabad ("IICT") a premier Institute under the Government of India by its Report dated 06.08.2010 has certified that Harpic and Lizol have very high capability to kill bacteria and germs (99.999999%) and they are disinfectants. In Ponds India (Annexure B herein) the Hon'ble Supreme Court laid stress on the fact that reports of experts certify the nature of the products in question, ought to be taken as sufficient evidence in support of classification. Relevant paragraphs of the Judgment in Ponds India Ltd is extracted below for ease of convenience:-

"72. Furthermore, an expert in the field has also given his opinion in favour of the appellant. This Court in Quinn India Ltd. v. CCE classified a product relying, inter alia, on the report of the clerical (sic chemical) examiner as under: (SCC p. 563, para 7)

"7. .. The Tribunal has completely ignored the report of the Chemical Examiner dated 6-10-1981 and the final opinion of the Chief Chemist dated 2-4-1992 coupled with the classification issued by the Department regarding use of wetting agents in the textile industries falling under Sub-Heading 3402.90. Test reports of the Chemical Examiner and Chief Chemist of the Revenue unless demonstrated to be erroneous, cannot be lightly brushed aside. The Revenue has not made any attempt to discredit or to rebut the genuineness and correctness of the report of the Government, Chemical Examiner and Chief Chemist. Thus, the reports are to be accepted along with other documentary evidence in the form of classification issued by the Department regarding use of wetting agents in the textile industries to hold that the product Penetrator 4893 possessed surface active properties and, therefore, is covered by Exemption Notification No. 101/66 dated 17-6-1966 as amended from time to time."

73. In this case also, the report of the chemical examiner is in favour of the assessee. Furthermore, in a case of this nature, where the Revenue itself has been holding the assessee to be a producer of a pharmaceutical product, the burden would be on the Revenue to establish that the goods cease to fall under a given entry. For the said purpose, no material was placed by the Revenue which was imperative."

In support the learned counsel for the assessee-dealer placed the Dictionary meaning.

Dictionary meaning including technical dictionaries are a relevant factor, as held in Ponds India by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and disinfectant is defined as:

Webster Comprehensive Dictionary:

"as a substance used to disinfect or to destroy the germs of infectious and contagious diseases".

In the Concise Oxford Dictionary of Current English, "disinfectant" is defined as:

"a commercially produced chemical liquid that destroys germs".

In Encyclopedia Britannica, Volume 4, it is explained to mean:

"any substance, such as creosote or alcohol, applied to inanimate objects to kill micro-organisms. Disinfectants and antiseptics are alike in that both are germicidal, but antiseptics are applied primarily to living tissue. The ideal disinfectant would rapidly destroy bacteria, fungi, viruses, and protozoans, would not be corrosive to surgical instruments, and would not destroy or discolour materials on which it is used". It thus cannot be disputed that a disinfectant is also a killing agent."

Technical dictionaries:

Under Indian Pharmacopoeia, 1996 issued by the Government of India, Ministry of Health & Family Welfare, the active ingredients of Harpic and Lizol are said to contain antiseptic/disinfectant qualities. Similarly, the internationally authoritative Encyclopedia on Chemicals, Drugs and Biologicals - The Merck Index states that the active ingredients of Harpic and Lizol have disinfectant properties.

He has also pointed out that the Tax authorities recognize Harpic and Lizol as Disinfectants.

Harpic and Lizol being disinfectants fall under Chapter 3808.91 of Central Excise Classification and the Entry reads as under:

"Insecticides, rodenticides, fungicides, herbicides, anti-sprouting products and plant-growth regulators, disinfectants and similar products, put up in forms or packagings for retail sale or as preparations or articles (for example, sulphur-treated bands, wicks and candles, and fly-papers)"

Accordingly, the Respondent / assessee had paid excise duty on the said Products, treating them as "disinfectants' and the Returns are being accepted by the Central Excise authorities. In fact, even under GST, the Respondent has been paying GST treating Harpic and Lizol as disinfectants. The classification of tax entries worldwide are based on Harmonized System of Nomenclature, Brussels and even India has adopted the same for Customs and Central Excise Entries. The Sales Tax/VAT Entries are based on Customs/Central Excise Entries. Therefore, the HSN Entries and Explanatory Notes have relevance for understanding entries under Sales Tax/ VAT Acts. As per the HSN Explanatory Notes 2002, based on which Central Excise & Customs Entries are made in India. HSN Explanatory Notes 2002 provides as:

"Disinfectants are agents which destroy or irreversibly inactivate undesirable bacteria viruses or other micro-organisms generally on inanimate objects.

Disinfectants are used for example in hospitals for cleaning walls etc. or sterilizing instruments. They are also used in agriculture for disinfecting seeds.

The group includes sanitisers bacteriostats and sterilisers."

Further, even as per the HSN Explanatory Notes it is provided that "Disinfectants are used in hospitals for cleaning walls". Thus, such disinfectants may also be used for cleaning and merely because they are also used for cleaning, it cannot be said that it is not a disinfectant.

Common parlance evidence:

The primary function of Harpic and Lizol is to act as a disinfectant and in addition to disinfecting/killing bacteria and germs, they also clean. Consumers purchase Harpic and Lizol for their disinfectant properties and expect it to, also clean; therefore as a secondary use, ingredients for cleaning has been added to Harpic Lizol. To extend the logic of the Revisionist, products which have multiple attributes cannot be classified under the specific entry and has to be classified under the residual entry - tablet for cold and fever, cannot be classified as a drug, since it has multiple attributes and has to be classified under the residual entry only. There would be thousands of goods which have multiple attributes in which case, all of them have to be classified under the residual entry only. Such an interpretation militates and does violence to principles of classification.

In common/commercial parlance also, Harpic and Lizol are understood as "disinfectants' and consumers purchase Harpic and Lizol for its disinfectant properties. This fact is clear from the letters written to the Respondent by some of the consumers and Hospitals, which clearly state that they purchase Harpic and Lizol for its disinfectant properties as well as the advertisement and label of Harpic and Lizol.

Also, the following principles relating to classification ought to be taken into consideration in any matter relating to classification under a taxing statute:

(a) plain meaning to be given to the taxing provision;

(b) burden to prove classification in a particular entry is always on the Revenue;

(c) any ambiguity has to be resolved in favour of the assesse; and

(d) resort to residuary entry is to be taken as a last measure.

Going by the aforesaid principles and applying the same to the present case, it is amply clear that Harpic and Lizol fall under Entry 20 of Part A of Schedule II to the UP VAT Act and not under Schedule V to the UP VAT Act.

Re: Resort to a residuary entry only as a last measure:

The principles governing inclusion of any goods under the residuary entry is well settled. The resort to residuary entry is to be taken as a last measure when an article cannot by any means be classified under any other entry. The Supreme Court in Dunlop India Ltd. Vs. Union of India & Ors (1976 (2) SCC 241) has held that when an article has, by all standards, a reasonable claim to be classified under an enumerated item in the Tariff Schedule, it will be against the very principle of classification to deny it the parentage and consign it to an orphanage of the residuary clause. The question of competition between two rival classifications will, however, stand on a different footing. Further, the Supreme Court held that the Department-Revenue cannot resort to arbitrary classification and in this regard it observed that where the very basis of the reason for including the article under a residuary head in order to charge higher duty is foreign to a proper determination of this kind, the Court will be loath to say that it will not interfere.

Re: Burden to prove classification in a particular entry is always on the Revenue:

The burden to prove that a particular item falls under a specific entry is on the Revenue and not the assesse. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India Vs. Garware Nylons Ltd. 91996 (10) SCC 413); HPL Chemicals Vs. Commissioner of Central Excise) 2006 (5) SCC 208) and Voltas Ltd. Vs. State of Gujarat (2015 (7) SCC 527) has held that the burden of proof is on the taxing authority to demonstrate that a particular class of goods or item in question is taxable in the manner claimed by the Revenue and that a mere assertion in that regard is of no avail. The said principle has been so stated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 26 of Voltas Ltd. which is extracted herein below for ease of reference:

"Qua the issue of classification of goods to determine the chargeability thereof and the rates of levy applicable, it is no longer res integra that the burden of proof is on the taxing authority to demonstrate that a particular class of goods or item in question is taxable in the manner claimed by them and that mere assertion in that regard is of no avail as has been enunciated by this Court in Union of India v. Garware Nylons Ltd. and relied upon with approved in HPL Chemicals Ltd. v. CCE."

In the present case, the Department-Revenue has failed to discharge the burden as to how Harpic and Lizol fall under the residuary entry and not under Entry 20 of Part A of Schedule II to the UPVAT Act. The Department-Revenue except for making a bald allegation that Harpic and Lizol have failed to substantiate the said allegation with any documentary proof and justify that Harpic and Lizol are unclassified items under the UPVAT Act and thus exigible to tax at a higher rate.

Re: If two views are possible, the view in favour of assesse to be adopted:

It is a settled principle of law that any ambiguity with respect to classification of a product has to be resolved in favour of the assesse and not the Department. The well settled view was reiterated in Voltas Ltd. vs. State of Gujarat (2015 (7) SCC 527) by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 24 has held that in case of a reasonable doubt, the construction most beneficial to the assesse has to be adopted. Applying the aforesaid principles to the facts and circumstances of the present case assuming though not in any manner admitting that there are two plausible views about the classification of Harpic and Lizol then the view favouring the assessee has to be adopted and not the Revenue, especially when the contention of the Revenue is that the items in question fall under the residuary category. Therefore even by the aforesaid principle Harpic and Lizol are liable to be classified under Entry 20 of Part A of Schedule II to the UPVAT Act.

The classification adopted by the Respondent / dealer is based on classification adopted under Uttar Pradesh Trade Tax Act as well as other Sales Tax Act, CST and Excise, supported by a large number of Judgments, test reports from Central Government laboratories certifying Harpic and Lizol as a disinfectant; hence a pesticide/insecticide (as held by the Supreme Court in Bombay Chemicals vs. Collector of Central Excise (1995) Supp 2 SCC 646), definition under Drugs and Cosmetics Act & Rules in respect of Harpic and Lizol, licenses obtained from the Drug Controller, Government of India (treating them as a disinfectant) for Harpic and Lizol, HSN Classification, technical and dictionary meaning, common/commercial parlance, etc.

The Counsel appeared before the High Court contended that Harpic and Lizol are manufactured under license under the Drugs Act. The Special Counsel nextly submits that Harpic and Lizol are manufactured under licence under the Drugs Act; and they are therefore drugs falling under entry 88 but being toilet preparations stand excluded therefrom. A careful reading of entry 88(b) would show that Harpic and Lizol would be "odd men out" among the goods mentioned in the entry. The said entry speaks of only the products capable of being used as cosmetics and toilet preparations. Illustratively it mentions tooth pastes, tooth powders, cosmetics, toilet articles and soaps. It does not deal with toilet cleaner or floor cleaner used as disinfectants to kill bacteria and germs. When the language of the taxing entry is plain, it is not for the Courts, to introduce words to uphold the assessment. The High Court, however, has observed as follows:

"We cannot read Harpic and Lizol as being included in toilet preparations to bring them under the excluded category under entry 88(b) of IV Schedule to the VAT Act. Even if the manufacturer obtained drug licence, for manufacturing disinfectants they do not cease to be pesticides and hence fall under in entry 20.

The view that disinfectants do not fall under excluded category of goods under entry 88(b) and are broadly covered in the term "pesticides" also derive support from HSN Code based classification of items in IV Schedule as ordered by the Government in G.O.Ms.No.1615, dated 31.8.2005. As seen from the said G.O. extracted hereinabove, all the goods in entry 20 of IV Schedule are covered under the HSN Code (heading) 3808 except three products, namely, repellents for mosquitoes, Gibberillic acid and plant growth regulators. The product "disinfectants" are in sub-heading 3808.40.00 and they are not excluded from the main "heading". Thus all the disinfectants would fall within HSN Code 3808 which deals with most of the goods mentioned in entry 20. That being the position, in our considered opinion, any reference to entry 88 may not be called for. Even if the manufacturer obtained drug licence for producing Harpic and Lizol the same cannot be a conclusive that these goods within the ambit of entry 88."

The High Court has also considered the provisions of Section 18 of Drugs Act, which mandates a licence for manufacture, sale or distribution of any drug, cosmetic or medicine. The word "drug" is defined in Section 3(b) of the Drugs Act. It is inclusive definition. A plain reading of Section 3(b)(iv) thereof shows that not only medicines for internal or external use of human beings or animals but substances that affect structure or function of human body or used for destruction of vermin or insects which cause disease in the human beings and animals are also drugs. Further all substances intended for use as components of a drug and such devices intended for internal or external use among others, in the "mitigation or prevention of disease" would be drugs. When a manufacturer produces any disinfectant fluids, they are basically intended for prevention of disease by destroying and/or controlling bacteria and microorganisms that are unusually present. That may be one reason why even under the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 (the Drugs Rules) the disinfectants are placed in Schedule-K in respect of which they were exempted from the provisions of Chapter IV and the Rules made thereunder. Harpic and Lizol are the products/goods sold even in general stores and on the counters of departmental stores. We therefore reject the submission of the State that Harpic and Lizol fall under entry 88 merely because they are manufactured under drug licence.

In view of the aforesaid, the High Court reached at a conclusion and held that Harpic and Lizol are disinfectants capable of destroying germs and microorganisms like Escheriachia coli, Staphylococcoccus aureus, Enterococcus hirae, Pseudomonas aeruginosa and Candida albicans etc. Being disinfectants they fall within the category of pesticides covered by entry 20 of IV Schedule.

Against the aforesaid judgment of the Andhra Pradesh High Court dated 13 June 2012, a Special Leave Petition was filed by the department which was dismissed on the ground of delay.

Similar issue was also considered by the Division Bench of the Guwahati High Court in case bearing Writ Petition No. 1377 of 2010, Reckitt Benckiser India Pvt. Ltd. v. The State of Assam and Others, vide judgment and order dated 18.9.2012. A Division Bench of Guwahati High Court has held that harpic and Lizol having been declared to be pesticide, would be liable to Tax under Entry No. 19 of the Part A of the Second Schedule of the Assam VAT Act being as pesticides while allowing the writ petition.

It is, however, submitted by the learned counsel for the parties that no SLP has been filed against the said judgment of the Guwahati High Court as such, the State Government has accepted the verdic of the High Court.

Learned counsel for the Assessee has also brough to the notice of this Court a judgment of the Rajasthan High Court in the case of Reckitt Benckiser (India) Ltd. v. Assistant Commercial Taxes Officer Anti Evasion, Commercial Taxes Department Ward-III, Jaipur and Another and the Rajasthan High Court has also considered above mentioned judgments and has held that the products being sold by the assessee would fall in Entry 21 or 29 of the Act, which provides that the products namely Harpic and Lizol classifiable under the aforesaid entry of Schedule IV of Rajasthan VAT Act and the same being used as insecticides or pesticides and further that the entry being specific and clear as such has held that the departmental authorities were wrong in holding that the items harpic and Lizol fall under the residuary entry namely Schedule (V). The relevant extract of the judgment, which are mentioned in paragraph 29, which is quoted herein below :-

Taking into aforesaid, in my view, the claim of the assessee that the products being sold by the assessee would fall in Entry 21 or 29 of the Act as the case made be is well taking it under the residuary Schedule (V). The claim of the assessee is just and proper.

Learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance of an order passed by the Apex Court in Special Leave Petition (Civil) Diary No (s). 42434/2017 arising out of the judgment of the Rajasthan High Court dated 7.4.2017. The following order has been passed by the Supreme Court by dismissing the SLP, which is quoted herein below :-

"Heard the learned counsel for the petitioners and perused the relevant material.

Application for exemption from filing official translation is allowed.

Special Leave Petition (c) No.3876 of 2017 arising out of the same impugned judgment has been dismissed by order of this Court dated 02.02.2018. Consequently, the present special leave petitions are also dismissed."

In view of the aforesaid decisions of Apex Court and the High Courts the issue, which is involved in the instant revision is decided in favour of the Assessee by all the High Courts and Supreme Court. Respectfully following the said decisions, the revision petition filed by the department is dismissed as no question of law is involved and it is hereby held that Harpic and Lizol are covered under Schedule-II, Part A, Entry No.20 of UP VAT Act as such the same are classified items. I find no error in the impugned judgment and order of the Tribunal. The Revision Petition is, accordingly, dismissed."

42. Keeping in mind the principles of law laid down by Supreme Court, this Hon'ble Court as well as other High Courts i.e. Andhra Pradesh, Guwahati and Rajasthan as indicated in the writ petition hereinabove, we find that the goods in dispute are squarely covered and can easily be classifiable under "pesticides" as per Entry No. 20, Part -A of Schedule II of UPVAT Act.

43. The record reveals that the assessing authority while passing the original assessment order have considered all relevant material and rightly imposed tax at the rate of 4 %, therefore, there is no fresh or tangible material to form a reasonable belief that the turnover has escaped assessment, which could legally be permitted for initiating the reassessment proceeding under Section 29(7) of the Act. At the best it can be said that there is only a change of opinion, which is not permissible under the Act.

44. In the case of CIT Vs. Kelvinator India Limited, reported in (2010) 320 ITR 561 (SC) and M/s Bharat Heavy Electronics Limited Vs. State of U.P. and Others 2017, UPTC 205. The relevant observations made in the judgment (in pages 11, 12, 19, & 20) are quoted below:-

"It is settled law that the jurisdiction to initiate reassessment proceedings arises only after the assessing authority records his reason to believe that any turnover has escaped assessment Thus, not only is the belief of escapement essential but more importantly, it is necessary for the Assessing Authority to record his reason/s as to existence of the belief of such escapement. In Commissioner of Sales Tax Vs. Bhagwan Industries (P) Ltd. (1973) 31 STC 293 (SC) the phrase "reason to believe"appearing in a similar provision in Section 21 of the U.P, Sales Tax Act, 1948 providing for reassessment was interpreted thus:

"The words "reason to believe" in Section 21 of the U.P. Sales Tax Act convey that there must be some rational basis for the assessing authority to form the believe that the whole or any part of the turnover of a dealer has, for any reason, escaped assessment to tax for some year. If there are, in fact, some reasonable grounds for the assessing authority to believe that the whole or any part of the turnover of a dealer has escaped assessment, it can take action under the section. Reasonable grounds necessarily postulate that they must be germane to the formation of the belief regarding escaped assessment. If the ground are of an extraneous character, the same would not warrant initiation of proceedings under the above section. If, however, the grounds are relavant and have a nexus with the formation of belief regarding escaped assessment, the assessing authority would be clothed with jurisdiction to take action under the section. Whether the ground are adequate or not is not a matter which would be gone into by the High Court or the Supreme Court, for the sufficiency of the grounds which induced the assessing authority to act is not a justiciable issue. What can be challenged is the existence of the belief but not the sufficiency or reasons for the belief. At the same time, the belief must be held in good faith and should not be a mere pretence."

Applying the above principle, this court, in the case of Rathi Industries Limited Vs. State of U.P. and another has further elaborated-

From a perusal of the aforesaid, it is apparently clear that the words

"reason to believe" in Section 21 of the U.P. Trade Tax Act conveys that there must be some rational basis for the assessing authority to form a belief that the whole or any party of the turnover of a dealer has for any reasons escaped assessment. Such reason or reasonable ground to believe that the whole or any part of the turnover had escaped assessment must be germane to the formation of the believe regarding escaped assessment. Such reasons or grounds must have a nexus with the formation of the belief. The approach has to be practical and not pedantic."

In absence of any material it was not open to the authorities to assume existence of such facts for the purpose of acquiring jurisdiction and to later, in the course of reassessment proceedings to conduct an inquiry as to its existence or otherwise. The Supreme Court in the case of Arun Kumar & Ors Vs. Union of India & Ors (2007) 1 SCC 732 has categorically held :

74. A "jurisdictional fact" is a fact which must exist before a court, tribunal or an authority assumes jurisdiction over a particular matter. A jurisdictional fact is one on existence or non-existence of which depends jurisdiction of a court, a tribunal or an authority. It is the fact upon which an administrative agency's power to act depends. If the jurisdictional fact does not exist, the court, authority or officer cannot act. If a court or authority wrongly assumes the existence of such fact, the order can be questioned by a writ of certiorari. The underlying principle is that by erroneously assuming existence of such jurisdictional fact, no authority can confer upon itself jurisdiction which it otherwise does not possess.

75. In Halsbury's Laws of England, it has been stated:

"Where the jurisdiction of a tribunal is dependent on the existence of a particular state of affairs, that state of affairs my be described as preliminary to, or collateral to the merits if, the issue. If, at the inception of an inquiry by an inferior tribunal, a challenge is made to its jurisdiction, the tribunal has to make up its mind whether to act or not and can give a ruling on the preliminary or collateral issue; but that ruling it not conclusive."

76. The existence of jurisdictional fact is thus sine qua non or condition precedent for the exercise of power by a court of limited jurisdiction.

84. From the above decisions, it is clear that existence of "jurisdictional fact" is sine qua non for the exercise of power. If the jurisdictional fact exists, the authority can proceed with the case and take an appropriate decision in accordance with law. Once the authority has jurisdiction in the matter on existence of "jurisdictional fact", it can decide the "fact in issue" or "adjudicatory fact". A wrong decision on "fact in issue" or on "adjudicatory fact" would not make the decision of the authority without jurisdiction or vulnerable provided essential or fundamental fact as to existence of jurisdiction is present."

Thus we accept the contention of the petitioner that in this case, in the state of the reason to believe as contained in the proposal made by the petitioner's assessing authority, the jurisdictional fact of applicability of Rule 9 (3) of the Rules is not established

He further submits that even the discovery of inadvertent mistake or non-application of mind during the assessment would not be justifiable ground for re-initiating proceeding under Section 29 (7) of the Act.

45. The respondent's counsel has argued that the original assessment order was passed without application of mind and relied upon paragraph no. 31 of the counter affidavit and has made the following averments:-

"..... The assessing authority while passing original assessment order did not consider the relevant notification and there is no application of mind regarding taxability. ....."

46. The argument of the counsel for the respondent is in teeth of the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of State of U.P. Vs. Arayaverth Chawal Udyog Limited (2015) 17 SCC 324, wherein, in paragraph nos. 30 & 31, the Apex Court has specifically held as under:-

"30. In case of there being a change of opinion, there must necessarily be a nexus that requires to be established between the "change of opinion" and the material present before the assessing authority. Discovery of an inadvertent mistake or non-application of mind during assessment would not be a justified ground to reinitiate proceedings Under Section 21(1) of the Act on the basis of change in subjective opinion (Commissioner of Income-tax v. Dinesh Chandra H. Shah: [1972] 3 SCC 231 : and Income-tax Officer v. Nawab Mir Barkat Ali Khan Bahadur: [1975] 4 SCC 360.

31. The above observations regarding the import of the words "reason to believe" though made in the context of different statutes have, in our opinion, equal bearing on the construction of those words in Section 21 of the Act."

47. In the case of Varun Beverages Ltd. Vs. State of U.P. & Others reported in (2017) 99 VST 393 (All); wherein, this Court has held as under:-

"8. It is not disputed before us that if there is a change of opinion, reassessment under Section 29(7) is not permissible. When it can be said "change of opinion" has been recently considered by Apex Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others Vs. Aryaverth Chawl Udyoug and others (2016) 91 VST 1 (SC) wherein after referring to its earlier decisions in Binani Industries Limited, Kerala Vs. Assistant Commissioner of Commercial Taxes, VI Circle, Bangalore 2007 (15) SCC 435 and A.L.A. Firm Vs. Commissioner of Income-tax 1991 (2) SCC 558 the Court said as under:

"If a conscious application of mind is made to the relevant facts and material available or existing at the relevant point of time while making the assessment and again a different or divergent view is reached, it would tantamount to "change of opinion". If an assessing authority forms an opinion during the original assessment proceedings on the basis of material facts and subsequently finds it to be erroneous; it is not a valid reason under the law for reassessment."

9. In the present case, entire material which is now being taken into consideration for the purpose of impugned notice and approval granted was available before Assessing Authority and after having considered the same, assessment was made. Now authorities, taking a different view, have issued impugned notice. Thus, it is a clear case of change of opinion, hence reassessment is not permissible in view of aforesaid exposition of law."

48. This Hon'ble Court, time and again has taken the view that in absence of no new material brought on record, the completed assessment cannot be re-opened merely on the basis of change of opinion.

49. In addition to above as discussed above, there is no new material on record to be put forward by the respondents that the goods in question i.e. Harpic and Mortein Coil will be classifiable under Schedule-V of UP VAT Act so as to justify the higher rate of tax, at the rate of 12 %. On the contrary keeping in mind of the principles laid down by Supreme Court, the other High Courts as well as this Court, the goods in question i.e. Harpic and Mortein are squarely covered under Entry 20, Part-A of Schedule-II of UPVAT Act. In view of facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned order dated 24.11.2017 is hereby quashed.

50. The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed. No order as to costs.

Writ Petition dismissed as withdrawn. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Biswanath Somadder, J. & Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Yesterday, we had directed the Registry to produce the records relating to Writ-C No. 10025 of 2018, before us today.

2. Perusing the records of that matter and going through the instant writ petition, we find that the issues raised in both the matters are quite similar to each other. However, what is distressing to note is the fact that in the present writ petition, i.e. Writ Tax No. 1312 of 2019, the writ petitioner is totally silent with regard to the fact of filing of the earlier writ petition, being Writ-C No. 10025 of 2018.

3. If one approaches the writ Court ? which is essentially a high prerogative discretionary jurisdiction bestowed by the Constitution of India to the Supreme Court and the High Courts ? equity has to be held not only with clean hands but with fairness, transparency and with full disclosure of material facts. In the facts of the instant case, not even a whisper of the earlier writ petition finds its place in any of the averments made in the instant writ petition by Siti Networks Limited, being the writ petitioner in both the matters.

4. We not only deprecate the manner in which the writ petitioner has taken the writ Court for granted, we must hasten to emphatically state that this approach is nothing sort of a gross abuse of process of Court.

5. In such circumstances as stated above, the writ petition is liable to be summarily dismissed and stands accordingly dismissed with costs assessed at Rs. 50,000/-, which shall be deposited by the writ petitioner with the State Legal Services Authority of Uttar Pradesh within four weeks from date.

6. List this matter four weeks hence only for the purpose of ascertaining compliance of the above direction.

7. At this stage, the learned advocate for the writ petitioner seeks leave of Court to withdraw the writ petition. Although withdrawal of a writ petition is not a matter of right, especially under such circumstances as stated above, nevertheless, taking a lenient view, we allow the writ petition to be dismissed as withdrawn .

A. Summoning Order-issuance of summoning order in not merely a formality-it initiates criminal proceedings against a person - Courts need to examine and apply mind to the facts of the case and testify the incidents of the complainants as well as accused before issuing summoning order.

The applicants are teachers and Security Officer of the College. The College has assigned administrative posts to them and they have no criminal antecedents. The learned Chief Judicial Magistrate had issued summoning order without considering the facts, application of mind and even without testing the incidents of complainants as well as accused. The Chief Judicial Magistrate should consider each and every facts about the complainant as well as accused before issuance of summoning order and record reasons for the same. The continuance of criminal proceeding would be hazardous as no teachers of College would come forward to hold Administrative post for smooth and peaceful functioning of Educational Institution. (Para 17)

Application u/s 482 allowed. (E-10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicants and learned A.G.A. appearing for opposite party no. 1.

2. Notice was issued to opposite party no. 2 but neither any one appeared on his behalf nor any counter affidavit has been filed.

3. Brief facts of the case is that applicant no. 1 is Lecturer in C.M.P.

Degree College (hereinafter referred to as the 'College') which is affiliated to Allahabad University, Allahabad and holding the post of Chief Proctor also, applicant no. 2 is Principal and applicant no. 3 is Security Officer of the said College. Opposite party no. 2 was the Publication Secretary of the Students Union of the College. On 15.03.2005, one Ranjeet Sonkar, brother of opposite party no. 2 was caught red handed using unfair means in the examination and thus his answer books and other materials were taken by the Invigilator and deposited in the Office of the College. After getting information of this fact, opposite party no. 2 along with 2-3 other persons, forcibly entered into the Central Room of College and pressurized the College Administration to return the materials recovered from his brother, Ranjeet Sonkar. They have also threatened the College Administration, broken Maruti Van of the Allahabad University and beaten the driver. For that incident dated 15.03.2005, applicant no. 2 has lodged F.I.R. at Police Station, George Town, Allahabad against opposite party no. 2 and three others under sections 323, 506, 336, 427 I.P.C. giving rise to Crime No. 49 of 2005. A news item of this incident was also published in daily newpaper Amar Ujala on 17.03.2005.

4. Opposite party no. 2 again forcibly entered into the College campus on 11.06.2005 and fired by rifle in the air, entered in the Office of Principal and created pressure for admitting the students for which applicant no. 2 has again given information to Station House Officer, George Town, Allahabad on the very same date i.e. 11.06.2005. Opposite party no. 2 along with other students has again started pressurising the College Administration in favour of students, who caught using unfair means and on 23.06.2005, opposite party no. 2 along with others committed theft by breaking the door of Maruti Car of applicant no. 1 and stolen three sarees, blowses and Rs. 1500/- and for this occurence, applicant no. 1 lodged F.I.R. against the opposite party no. 2 and others which was registered under sections 379, 506 I.P.C. at P.S. George Town, Allahabad as Case Crime No. 106 of 2005. Similar complaint was also lodged by other staff of the College against opposite party no. 2 on 28.06.2005 for forcibly closing the College counter by pelting stones for which applicant no. 2 again wrote a letter to the Station House Officer, George Town, Allahabad and made a complaint against opposite party no. 2 and prayed for lodging F.I.R. vide letter dated 28.06.2005. This incident was also published in the newspaper.

5. Opposite party no. 2 along with others continued their tirade against applicants and other office bearers of the College and indulge in stone pelting, regarding which news items were also flashed from time to time in the newspapers. On 19.07.2005, applicant no. 2 informed A.D.M. City, Allahabad that opposite party no. 2 along with some unsocial elements are disrupting the peaceful administration of the College by insisting illegal demands and prayed for deployment of additional force. When Station House Officer, George Town, Allahabad has not taken any action against opposite party no. 2, applicant no. 1 on 08.08.2005 wrote a letter to Zonal Officer, L.I.U., Allahabad against opposite party no. 2 seeking protection to her life as she had no faith in the police of P. S., George Town, Allahabad.

6. Again on 06.09.2005, admission for Evening Classes was going on and opposite party no. 2 along with others entered into the College, interfered with the process of administration and forcibly closed the counters and indulge in scuffle with Rajat Srivastava, Proctor and Security Officer, applicant no. 2 tried to snatch his gun and damaged number of Cars of the teachers, parked in the College campus. Regarding this occurence, applicant no. 1 lodged F.I.R. dated 06.09.2005 which was registered as Case Crime No. 151 of 2005 under sections 147, 148, 323, 352, 504, 506, 427 I.P.C. at P.S. George Town, Allahabad. In the said incident dated 06.09.2005, applicant no. 3 was manhandled by opposite party no. 2 and others and received injuries for which medical examination was also conducted at T.B. Sapru Hospital, Allahabad on the very same day i.e. 06.09.2005 and doctor noted three injuries. This incident was also published in the daily newspaper Amar Ujala on 07.09.2005.

7. Considering all these incidents, College Administration has finally rusticated opposite party no. 2, his brother and three others from the College for a period of two years vide order dated 06.09.2005.

8. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that as the number of complaints has been lodged against opposite party no. 2 and others, as a counter blast, just to pressurize the applicants to withdraw the criminal proceedings initiated by them against opposite party no. 2 and others, opposite party no. 2 has filed impugned complaint on 07.10.2005 against the applicants in the Court of Special Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad and the said complaint was registered as Criminal Case No. 1668 of 2005 (Ishu Sonkar vs. Dr. Satyamvada Singh and others). As per complaint, on 06.09.2005, admission for Evening Classes was going on and from the students, affidavits were being taken by College Administration that they would not make claim of their admission for day classes in the future and after hearing this news, opposite party no. 2 had gone to enquire from applicant no. 1, where he was misbehaved by applicant no. 3 and also abused and chased by applicant no. 3, who was armed with Revolver. He was caught and assaulted by them and Chief Security Officer along with 10-15 persons, broken the wind screen of the car parked in the College premises and called the police. It is further alleged that on 15.09.2005, when opposite party no. 2 went to Office of the Students Union, without any reason, he was again assaulted by applicant nos. 1 & 3 and he was also called by his caste name, beaten, insulted and ousted from the College Campus.

9. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that by perusal of sequence of facts, this is very much clear that opposite party no. 2 is an unsocial element involved in negative students politics and his brother was caught using unfair means and for the illegal activities of opposite party no. 2, several F.I.R.s have also been lodged. He further submitted that so far as applicants are concerned, they are Principal, Teacher and Security Staff of the College having no criminal antecedents.

10. From perusal of complaints, it is very much clear that all allegations are totaly bogus, fabricated, absurd and not reliable at all coupled with the facts that the complainant is a person with criminal antecedents who was rusticated from the College for a period of two years and number of complaints, F.I.R.s have also been lodged against him. The complainant-opposite party no. 2 examined himself on 07.10.2005 under section 200 Cr.P.C. thereafter examined complainant no. 1, Raju Pasi and his brother complainant no. 2, Ranjeet Sonkar under section 202 Cr.P.C., who was caught using unfair means by the College Administration.

11. Learned Chief Judicial Magistrate has passed impugned summoning order dated 01.12.2005 without application of mind and without recording any reason. He has also not considered this fact that accused-opposite parties in complaint are respected Principal, Teacher and Secrurity Staff of the College.

12. It is further reiterated that on one hand, applicants are academicians having no criminal antecendents to their credits and on other hand, complainant against whom several complaints have been lodged in police station George Town, Allahabad and without considering any of the facts, summoning order has been issued in a very mechanical way which is liable to be set aside.

13. No counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of opposite party no. 2 even after issuance of notice.

14. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the submissions made by learned counsel for the applicants on the basis of counter affidavit filed by the State and submitted that as the incident took place, therefore, after recording statements of the complainant under section 200 Cr.P.C. and witnesses under sections 201 and 202 Cr.P.C., impugned summoning order has rightly been issued.

15. On being confronted by the Court, learned A.G.A. could not deny this fact that the applicants are Principal, Teacher and Security Staff of the College having no criminal antecedents and also could not deny the several facts of criminal activities about the complainant in the affidavit. He is also not in a position to put a case of malafide against the applicants.

16. I have considered the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

17. From the perusal of facts, this is very much clear that out of three applicants, two are Teachers and third one is Security Officer of the College. Apart from teaching assignment, two applicants are also having Administrative post as applicant no. 1 is Chief Proctor, applicant no. 2 is Principal and all three applicants are having no criminal antecedents. In fact, all of them are performing their administrative duties for smooth and peaceful functioning of College Administration, which was interrupted by opposite party no. 2 in the name of Students Union Leader. It is very surprising that learned Chief Judicial Magistrate has issued summoning order without considering the facts, without application of mind and without testing the incidents of complainant as well as accused before him i.e. applicants, who are teaching and administrative staff of a College. In all eventuality, issuance of summoning order is not a mere formality, in fact it initiates criminal proceedings against a person and compel him to face criminal trial, therefore, it is required on the part of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate to consider each and every facts about the complainant as well as accused before issuance of summoning order and further reasons has to be recorded. If in such case, which is before this Court, continuance of criminal proceeding is permitted then this would be hazardous as no teachers of College would come forward to hold Administrative post for smooth and peaceful functioning of Educational Institution.

18. Learned Chief Judicial Magistrate was required to see this aspect of the matter before issuing summoning order, therefore, proceedings in Criminal Complaint Case No. 1668 of 2005 (Ishu Sonkar Vs. Dr. Satyamvada Singh and others) under sections 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and summoning order dated 01.12.2005 are bad in the eye of law and are hereby quashed.

19. With the aforesaid observations, present 482 Cr.P.C. application is allowed.

20. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karuna Nand Bajpayee, J.)

1. This application u/s 482 of Cr.P.C. has been preferred by applicants Praveen Kumar and Vijai Shankar Mishra for quashing of the order dated 25.9.2002 passed by the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.9, Allahabad whereby Misc. Application No.172/XII/2002 (Ram Surat Pasi vs. Vijai Shankar and another), P.S.-George Town, District-Allahabad, moved on behalf of opposite party no.2 u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. was allowed and directions were issued to lodge the F.I.R. and to investigate into the matter and submit report of investigation before the Court.

2. It appears that after filing of this petition the operation of the impugned order was put in abeyance. Eventually the matter has come up now to be heard and decided finally.

3. Short counter affidavit filed on behalf of opposite party no.2 today in the court, is taken on record.

4. Heard Shri Gopal Swaroop Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Imran Ullah, Advocate appearing on behalf of applicants and Shri Ankit Saran, Advocate assisted by Shri Atharva Dixit, Advocate holding brief of Shri Manish Tiwari, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no.2. Learned A.G.A. has also been heard and record has been perused.

5. Brief facts, as emerge from the pleadings, are that the applicant no.1 was working as S.D.M. (Sadar), Allahabad at the relevant point of time and the applicant no.2 was working as Nayab Tehsildar (North) in the office of applicant no.1. In the year 2002, the applicant no. 1 after being selected in the Indian Police Service (I.P.S) was waiting for his appointment and training schedule for the same. According to the pleadings, there was a land of high economic worth being Plot No.408 (admeasuring about 10 bighas) in Mauza Fatehpur Bichhua, Pargana and Tehsil Sadar, District-Allahabad, which had market value of Rs.16 crores at the time of filing of this petition in the year 2002. The said piece of land being nazul land was a government property and as such, it could not have been sold or purchased by anyone without proper sanction of the State Government. The pleading of the instant petition reveals that the land in question is situated in the midst of the city in posh prime locality of George Town, Allahabad. It has also been pleaded in this petition that the said 10 bighas of land having plot no.408 had a long lineage of history and the ownership thereof along with other lands (total 509 bigha and 6 biswa) travelled from Ex-Zamindar Maharaja Sewai Ram Singh of Jaipur up to the State Government and ultimately it was being managed, controlled and governed by the Board of Revenue and the land of said Gata No.408 along with other gata numbers was transferred to the Municipal Board vide order No.2125N/XI-868, dated 04.08.1911. The land in question i.e. approximately 10 bighas land of Gata No.408 was entered into the register of government property (nazool) as 'pond' at serial no.16 having entry of transfer of land by the Board of Revenue. Subsequently when certain unscrupulous persons made efforts to illegally trespass and possess the land in question, a report about the status of land was called by the District Magistrate, Allahabad from the Additional District Government Counsel (Civil), Allahabad namely Maya Shankar Srivastava, who submitted report dated 07.09.1999 with an opinion that along with certain legal formalities, the possession of land in question is liable to be resumed by the State Government in the interest of the Government of Uttar Pradesh.

6. It has also been pleaded in this petition that the Chairman, Board of Revenue circulated a letter No.G865/5-9-R/2001 dated 24.01.2002 to all the Commissioners and District Magistrates of State of U.P. giving the reference of Hon'ble Supreme Court decision given in the case of Hinch Lal Tiwari vs. Kamla Devi and others reported in 2001 (92) RD 689 (SC) with specific instructions that the public lands be secured, managed and maintained by the Revenue Departments as well as the State Government to maintain ecological balances. Yet another government order No. 3135/1-2-2001 Rajaswa dated 08.10.2001 was also circulated by the State Government to all the District Magistrates of State of U.P. to ensure compliance of the judgment of Hinch Lal Tiwari's case (supra) having observation about removal of illegal possessions from such lands of public utility as well as land of ponds. It has been further pleaded in the petition that applicant no.1 wrote several letters to the Vice Chairman, Allahabad Development Authority; Commissioner Allahabad; S.S.P. Allahabad and the District Magistrate, Allahabad as well as the Board of Revenue and the State Government showing grave concern about illegal grabbing of State land causing huge losses to the government exchequer and about illegal constructions upon such State lands.

7. In the petition, two letters dated 05.08.2002 and 06.09.2002 have been annexed as Annexure No.5 to the petition. In the letter dated 06.09.2002, the concern about the land of Plot No.408 i.e., the land in question, was specifically expressed and mentioned. Subsequently the District Magistrate, Allahabad also wrote a letter to the Commissioner, Allahabad on 07.09.2002 in respect of safety and security of land in question and also in respect of unauthorized construction thereupon.

8. According to the pleadings of the petition and the Annexure no.7 thereof, it is revealed that applicant no.1 had passed order dated 27.08.2002 in Case No.138 of 2002 u/s 33/39 of Land Revenue Act in connection with the land of plot no.408, Mauza Fatehpur Bichhua, Pargana and Tehsil Sadar, District-Allahabad, whereby it was ordered that the land in question be entered into the name of State Government in the revenue record and in continuation thereof, the applicant no.2 submitted report dated 24.09.2002 to the In-charge Inspector Police Station Colonelganj, Allahabad for lodging of first information report against several persons including concerned Lekhpals and Revenue Inspectors for committing cheating and forgery in the revenue records in connection with the land of Plot No.408 i.e. the land in question.

9. It has also been pleaded in the petition that First Information Report was got lodged on 25.09.2002 and was registered as Case Crime no.361 of 2002 u/s 419, 420, 466, 467, 468, 470 and 471 I.P.C., P.S.-Colonelganj, District-Allahabad. According to the pleadings, certain civil suits and writ petitions were instituted by a few persons in which orders were passed by the concerned courts as well as High Court in the form of status-quo to be maintained on the land in question. It has also been pleaded in the petition that no layout plan was ever passed by any authority and no map for raising construction over the land in question was ever submitted by any person, despite which certain persons were trying to raise illegal constructions over the land in question and in view of the provisions of Urban Planning Act, 1973, the Allahabad Development Authority issued notices to such persons for demolition of existing construction.

10. It has also been pleaded in the petition that one Mr. Subhash Chandra Bose (opposite party no.3 in the present petition) was posted as Additional District and Session Judge in the judgeship of Allahabad since last several years and had purchased a piece of land which was part of the land in question by means of a sale-deed executed on 15.02.1999 for a sale consideration of Rs.53,000/-, whereas the cost of land was shown in the deed as Rs.4,21,000/-. Mr. Subhash Chandra Bose also purchased a disputed land in the name of his wife Smt. Madhuri Srivastava by surreptitiously showing her identity, not as his wife, but as Km. Madhuri d/o Shri Gopal Narayan Srivastava. According to the pleadings of the petition, the applicant no.1 was directed by the superior authorities to remove the illegal constructions over the leased land of the State Government and in continuation of such exercise by the applicants, the constructions over two plots purchased by opposite party no.3 were obstructed and as such, being indignated the opposite party no.3 evolved an evil design in order to blackmail, harass and pressurize the applicants as well as other government officials and with such ulterior oblique motive and a disingenuous modus operandi, one Original Suit No.1054 of 1998 was got filed by Mr. Subhash Chandra Bose in his own court through one person namely Munna seeking the relief of permanent injunction and in the said original suit, authorities of U.P. State Road Transport Corporation were impleaded as defendant no.1 and 2 and Smt. Madhuri Srivastava w/o Shri Subhash Chandra Bose himself was also impleaded. Mr. S.C. Bose also purchased a house situated at Muirabad from the scheme developed by the Allahabad Development Authority and in this manner, the opposite party no.3 Mr. S.C. Bose started misusing his official position being a judicial officer posted in the judgeship of Allahabad itself. As the applicants being officers of District Administration and Revenue Department were creating hindrance and putting a spanner in the unfair design of Mr. S.C. Bose, he got a contempt petition filed in his own court in the name of Sri Dhara Singh, Advocate which was numbered as Contempt Petition No.21 of 2002, wherein notices were issued to the applicants as well as the Secretary, Allahabad Development Authority and other officers. Those notices for contempt were issued by Mr. S.C. Bose in the capacity of Additional District Judge-XII, Allahabad.

11. It has also been pleaded in this petition that the opposite party no.3 in furtherance of his vicious design got one application dated 16.9.2002 u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. filed in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad through the opposite party no.2, who is admittedly said to be none else than an employee of aforesaid Sri Dhara Singh Advocate making absolutely baseless and imaginary allegations against the applicants. In the said application dated 16.9.2002, it was alleged that opposite party no.2 being Pasi by caste belongs to scheduled caste category and was raising construction on behalf of Dhara Singh, Advocate and Munna Pandey, Advocate over Plot No.408/2 Fatehpur Bichhua, P.S.- George Town, Allahabad, during which, on 12.9.2002 the applicant no.1 Praveen Kumar and applicant No.2 Vijai Shankar Mishra along with 7-8 unknown persons in plain dress came on the spot and started beating the laborers of opposite party no.2 and upon being objected, the opposite party no.2 was abused and beaten up and was also threatened with dire consequences. It was also alleged in the said application that the damage to the tune of Rs.10,000/- was caused and an amount of Rs.5000/- was snatched away by the applicants and the report was not lodged by the concerned police station George Town under the influence of the applicants.

12. It has also been pleaded in this petition that upon this application dated 16.9.2002, a report was called by the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad from the concerned police station, whereupon the Station House Officer started inquiry about the contents of application dated 16.9.2002 and approached the applicant no.2 to ascertain the factual status. The applicant no.2 submitted a written reply to the allegations made by opposite party no.2 before the Station House officer, Police Station-George Town, Allahabad on 24.9.2002. Upon this, the Station House Officer made efforts to get the version of opposite party no.2 but an incident of terrorist attack on the temple in State of Gujrat took place on 25.09.2002, because of which a high alert was made all over the country and some political party had claimed for entire Bharat Band on 26.09.2002. Under such eventuality, the Station House officer, George Town appeared before the A.C.J.M.-VIII, Allahabad and prayed for two days' further time for submitting his report by disclosing that the opposite party no.2 could not be contacted despite best efforts and before submitting any report, it would be proper to obtain his version also. Despite application moved by the Station House officer seeking only two days' further time to submit report, the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. IX, Allahabad without granting any time passed the impugned order dated 25.09.2002 in questionable haste, whereby application moved on behalf of opposite party no.2 u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. was allowed and the Station House officer, P.S. George Town was directed to lodge the F.I.R. and to investigate into the matter and submit report of investigation before the Court. This order dated 25.09.2002 is being challenged by the applicants.

13. The applicants have also filed a supplementary affidavit dated 26.09.2019, in which averments have been made to the effect that the F.I.R. lodged by the applicant no.2 on 25.09.2002 and registered as Case Crime No.361 of 2002 was challenged by one of the accused namely Ram Prasad Singh before the Division Bench of this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 5969 of 2002, which was disposed of finally by means of order dated 11.10.2002 and while disposing of the writ petition, the Division Bench of this Court took a serious view of the matter and noted the fact about the valuable land worth crores of rupees and involvement of high officials in the land grabbing scam and with such observations, the Division Bench of this Court entrusted investigation of said criminal case to the Central Bureau of Investigation and directed the Senior Superintendent of Police, Allahabad to hand over all the papers relating to aforesaid case to the C.B.I. for investigation and even a direction was issued to the C.B.I. to submit report about the progress of investigation up to 16.12.2002.

14. It has also been stated in the supplementary affidavit that after taking over of the investigation, the C.B.I. registered a case as R.C.No.14(A)/2003 and after completing investigation in compliance of the order of this Court, the C.B.I. submitted charge sheet dated 18.01.2006 against the accused persons including aforesaid Dhara Singh Advocate before the concerned court of Lucknow Judgeship and subsequently the trial of said criminal case was registered as Case No.15 of 2007 (C.B.I. vs. Kamal Narayan Mishra and others) and recently applicant no.2 was also called for his deposition before the trial court by means of notice dated 22.08.2019. In compliance of said notice the applicant no.2 has appeared before the trial court and deposed as prosecution witness being P.W.-3 on 06.08.2019 and 28.08.2019 and his cross-examination is to be done on the next dates. It has also been stated in the said supplementary affidavit that against the show cause notice issued by Sri S.C. Bose in the capacity of Additional District Judge on 13.9.2002, both the applicants had preferred Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.42396 of 2002 before this Court which came up for admission on 30.09.2002 and after considering the facts of the case, this Court vide order dated 30.9.2002 was pleased to make prima facie observation about malafide and oblique intent of Shri S.C. Bose in following words:

"The cognizance taken by Shri S.C. Bose prima facie appears to be malafide and for some oblique purpose".

15. In the short counter affidavit filed on behalf of opposite party no. 2 i.e. the complainant, it has been stated that he had filed the application under section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. under some misconception on the basis of hearsay information and he does not want to prosecute the applicants any further and assures this court that he will not file further litigation or complaint against the applicants in any manner whatsoever before any forum or the court of law with regard to issue involved in present matter. He has also stated in his short counter affidavit that the application is bonafide and has been filed in the interest of justice.

16. With aforesaid factual backdrop, Mr. Gopal Chaturvedi learned senior counsel appearing for applicants has submitted that the applicants being upright officers were faithfully imparting their official duties in connection with the land in question and the case in hand is a classic example of malicious prosecution brought against them as an arm twisting contrivance in order to cause sheer harassment of upright officers for committing no offence whatsoever so that they may not pursue the matter against the wrong doers in right earnest. It was further urged before the Court that in a matter like this even if a regular F.I.R. had been lodged by police on its own at the instance of the complainant, the same would have overwhelmingly deserved to be quashed by this Court in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Haryana and others vs. Bhajan Lal 1992 (Supp.1) SCC 335. Further submission is that in any case, the learned court below was obliged to consider the applicability of section 197 of Cr.P.C. before passing the impugned order in view of law laid down in Anil Kumar vs. M.K.Aiyappa, (2013) 10 SCC 705 and L. Narayana Swamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2016) 9 SCC 598, according to which sanction for prosecution of applicants by the competent authority was a mandatory requirement in the circumstances of the case. Mr. Gopal Chaturvedi learned senior counsel, while placing reliance upon the documents filed in support of factual background of the controversy in question, has submitted that the documents appended with the petition and supplementary affidavit are of unimpeachable nature, most of them being official documents or documents forming part of court's record, and are liable to be considered and deserve to be seen by this Court for adjudication over controversy in hand. Further submission is that the abuse of process of the court and miscarriage of justice is apparent on the face of record and in case, this court does not come forward to the judicious rescue of applicants, it would be a travesty of justice, especially in view of the fact that the opposite party no. 2 i.e. the complainant himself does not want to proceed with his complaint. In support of submissions, various case-laws have been cited, which may be dealt with accordingly at appropriate stage.

17. Mr. Ankit Saran, Advocate appearing on behalf of opposite party no.2, in the light of short counter affidavit has supported the submissions made on behalf of the applicant and submits that the impugned order may be quashed and his client does not wish to pursue the matter anymore.

18. Learned A.G.A. has also not disputed the factual and legal submissions made on behalf of the applicant. However, he has pointed out that the proposed accused lack locus standi to challenge order passed under section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. and as such, the criminal misc. application is not maintainable. Reliance was placed on the case of Father Thomas vs. State of U.P, (2000) 41 ACC 435.

19. In rejoinder reply, Mr. Gopal Chaturvedi learned senior counsel has submitted that the position of law with regard to Locus Standi of proposed accused to challenge order passed under section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. needs to be seen in the light of various pronouncements of Hon'ble Supreme Court given in Anil Kumar's case (supra) and L. Narayana Swamy's case (supra) as well as in the cases of Manharibhai Muljibhai Kakadia & Anr vs. Shaileshbhai Mohanbhai Patel & Ors, 2012 (10) SCC 517 and Priyanka Srivastava and another vs State of U.P. and others, (2015) 6 SCC 287, and when we juxtapose the obiter and ratio of these Apex court's pronouncements against the view taken in the case of Father Thomas (supra) which circumscribes the rights of proposed accused, the embargo imposed upon the locus standi of the proposed accused for the purposes of challenging the order passed against him u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C., gets automatically lifted. Contention is that if the impugned order suffers from some illegality per se or in case the order has been passed without acquiring necessary jurisdiction to pass such order, such an illegality cannot be allowed to perpetuate or exist and any view to the contrary would be tantamount to putting the crown of infallibility upon an order which has been passed in complete violation of law. According to counsel, aforesaid pronouncements given by Hon'ble Apex Court make the procurement of sanction a mandatory requirement in matters where the alleged offences are said to have been committed in discharge of official duty and in that situation the non procurement of the same will cut at the very root of the matter and will hit adversely at the jurisdictional base of the order. If the sanction is sine qua non, a condition precedent, then it is only in the presence of the same that the court of Magistrate could have obtained necessary jurisdiction to proceed in the matter and if a particular order has been passed without procuring such jurisdiction, such kind of order shall be a nullity and cannot be allowed to exist for reasons of absence of necessary sanction in this regard. In matters like this the normal principles as have been laid down in cases which de-recognize the right of accused to challenge such order, would not come into play which only in general restrict the right or the locus standi of an accused to challenge order passed under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. against him in ordinary circumstances. The other limb of the argument upon which emphasis has been laid by learned senior counsel is that even otherwise the criminal misc application is liable to be entertained by this court suo moto in exercise of its inherent or revisional jurisdiction, which is a well recognized independent power and which must be used in view of glaring factual background of the case and in view of the per se illegality that has been committed by the Magistrate showing the lack of jurisdiction to pass such order in the absence of sanction which appears to be mandatory in the conspicuous backdrop and the conspicuous circumstances of the case.

20. In the light of rival submissions, the record of the case has been perused, which demonstrates peculiar factual history of the controversy. However, at the same time, the controversy in hand gives rise to three main issues to be answered by this court.

Firstly, whether the impugned order is vitiated by non compliance of section 197 of Cr.P.C. in view of Anil Kumar's case (supra) and L. Narayana Swamy's case (supra) and whether the impugned order passed under section 156 (3) of Cr.P.C. directing the registration of F.I.R. on the basis of complainant's application, falls within any of the categories illustrated in Bhajan Lal's case (Supra).

Secondly, in case the answer to 1st issue is in affirmative, whether this court can exercise its inherent or revisional jurisdiction at the instance of proposed accused challenging an order passed under section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. for registration of criminal case and for investigation thereof.

Thirdly, in case the answer to 1st issue is affirmative and the answer of 2nd issue in negative, whether this court can suo motu exercise its inherent or revisional jurisdiction to quash the impugned order in the light of peculiar factual history of the controversy.

21. To answer the first issue, it would be appropriate to observe that the record available before this court includes the main petition, its enclosures as well as the supplementary affidavit and its enclosures. The enclosures of main petition and supplementary affidavit, in order to support the averments made therein, are mostly official documents like communications between senior officers of district administration as well as their superior authorities, the reports of subordinate government officers, the government orders and circulars. In addition to this, orders of this Court and Hon'ble Supreme Court as well as copy of first information report and charge-sheet as well as the order-sheets are also enclosed with petition in support of facts stated on behalf of applicants. On the other hand, the court has before it the short counter affidavit filed by the opposite party no. 2, in which there is no paragraph wise rebuttal of the contents of main petition. In fact the counter affidavit not only does not deny any of the averments of affidavit filed on behalf of applicant, it rather contains admission of opposite party no. 2 that he had filed application under section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. under some misconception and he does not want to prosecute the applicants any further and will not proceed to any other forum or court against him.

22. Considering the nature of documents available before the court, the undisputed facts of the case disclose that applicants are government servants and the land in question i.e. land of Gata No. 408 (approximately 10 bighas), Mauza Fatehpur Bichhua, Pargana and Tehsil Sadar, District-Allahabad was nazul land and thus, it was a government property, for which there is an entry in the register of government property (nazool) as 'pond' at serial no.16. The applicants were duty bound to protect said government property as is unmistakably deducible in view of report dated 07.09.1999 submitted by Additional District Government Counsel (Civil), Allahabad before D.M., Allahabad, the letter dated 06.09.2002 sent by the applicant no. 1 to the D.M., Allahabad, letter dated 07.09.2002 sent by the D.M., Allahabad to the Commissioner, Allahabad as well as in view of judgment of Hinch Lal Tiwari's case (supra). The applicant no.1 had passed order dated

27.08.2002 in Case No.138 of 2002 u/s 33/39 of Land Revenue Act in connection with the land of plot no.408, Mauza Fatehpur Bichhua, Pargana and Tehsil Sadar, District-Allahabad, whereby it was ordered that the land in question be entered into the name of State Government in the revenue record and in continuation thereof, the applicant no.2 submitted report dated 24.09.2002 to the In-charge Inspector Police Station Colonelganj, Allahabad for lodging of first information report against several persons including concerned Lekhpals and Revenue Inspectors for committing forgery and cheating in the revenue records in connection with the land of Plot No.408 i.e. the land in question, in continuation to which first information report dated 25.09.2002 was also registered as Case Crime no.361 of 2002 u/s 419, 420, 466, 467, 468, 470 and 471 I.P.C., P.S.-Colonelganj, District-Allahabad. The investigation of said criminal case was transferred to the Central Bureau of Investigation vide order dated 11.10.2002 passed by the Division Bench of this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 5969 of 2002 and after due investigation in compliance of the order of this Court, the C.B.I. submitted charge sheet dated 18.01.2006 against the accused persons including Dhara Singh Advocate before the concerned court of Lucknow Judgeship and subsequently the trial of said criminal case has been registered as Case No.15 of 2007 (C.B.I. vs. Kamal Narayan Mishra and others), wherein applicant no.2 has appeared before the trial court and deposed as prosecution witness being P.W.-3 on 06.08.2019 and 28.08.2019 and his cross-examination is awaited.

23. It is also discernible that the application dated 16.09.2002 u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. filed by the opposite party no.2 contains allegation about interference, obstruction and damage to the tune Rs. 10,000/- by applicants while construction was being raised by the opposite party no.2 on behalf of aforesaid Dhara Singh, Advocate and one another advocate on the land in question i.e. Gata No. 408 and it also contains allegation about snatching of Rs. 5,000/- by the applicants. The applicants were arrayed as proposed accused in that application showing their post held by them at the relevant point of time. In the considered view of this Court the manner in which the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. IX, Allahabad dealt with the matter u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. and passed the impugned order dated 25.09.2002 is not appreciable and does not satisfy this court either about its propriety or about its correctness and leaves much to be desired.

24. At any rate, the least that may be said in the wake of the factual background as has been enumerated hereinbefore, the action of applicants in respect of land in question appears to be absolutely justified and was well within the four corners of their official duties and there cannot be any doubt in this regard. There is also no doubt that hindrance was being created by unscrupulous persons in performance of official duties by the applicants, who performed their duties with utmost diligence without any fear, despite there being several odds in such state of affairs, as is depicted from perusal of record. This court feels itself vindicated to observe that the uprightness of these two officers is writ large and the manner in which they performed their duties in order to save Government property is commendable. Even otherwise, all the allegations leveled against the applicants appear to be otiose and obsolete now in view of contents of short counter affidavit filed by opposite party no.2, noted above.

25. This Court has also cogitated upon the submissions raised by applicants' counsel based on the pronouncement of Hon'ble Apex Court given in the case of Priyanka Srivastava and another (supra) whereby he has sought to emphasize that the exercise of power u/s 156(3) of Cr.P.C. warrants application of judicial mind as it is a court of law required to act which is verily different from a police official supposed to act u/s 154 of the Code and in appropriate cases where higher officers are being embroiled as accused who normally act in exercise of their statutory functions, the judicial power ought to be exercised with circumspection and not in routine or in a cavalier manner and there ought to be an endeavour on his part to have at least a preliminary satisfaction about the possibility that the allegations made may be true. This Court has been taken through the pronouncement of of Hon'ble Apex Court given in Priyanka Srivastava's case (supra) in which while dealing with an order passed u/s 156(3) of Cr.P.C. against certain accused who were protected for action taken in good faith u/s 32 of SARFAESI Act the Apex Court proceeded to observe as follows :

"17. The learned Magistrate, as we find, while exercising the power under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. has narrated the allegations and, thereafter, without any application of mind, has passed an order to register an FIR for the offences mentioned in the application. The duty cast on the learned Magistrate, while exercising power under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., cannot be marginalized. To understand the real purport of the same, we think it apt to reproduce the said provision:

"156. Police officer's power to investigate congnizable case. -(1) Any officer in charge of a police station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XIII.

(2) No proceeding of a police officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was no empowered under this section to investigate.

(3) Any Magistrate empowered under Section 190 may order such an investigation as above-mentioned."

18.....

19. In Anil Kumar v. M.K. Aiyappal [3], the two-Judge Bench had to say this:

"The scope of Section 156(3) CrPC came up for consideration before this Court in several cases. This Court in Maksud Saiyed [(2008) 5 SCC 668] examined the requirement of the application of mind by the Magistrate before exercising jurisdiction under Section 156(3) and held that where jurisdiction is exercised on a complaint filed in terms of Section 156(3) or Section 200 CrPC, the Magistrate is required to apply his mind, in such a case, the Special Judge/Magistrate cannot refer the matter under Section 156(3) against a public servant without a valid sanction order. The application of mind by the Magistrate should be reflected in the order. The mere statement that he has gone through the complaint, documents and heard the complainant, as such, as reflected in the order, will not be sufficient. After going through the complaint, documents and hearing the complainant, what weighed with the Magistrate to order investigation under Section 156(3) CrPC, should be reflected in the order, though a detailed expression of his views is neither required nor warranted. We have already extracted the order passed by the learned Special Judge which, in our view, has stated no reasons for ordering investigation."

23. .....

24. Regard being had to the aforesaid enunciation of law, it needs to be reiterated that the learned Magistrate has to remain vigilant with regard to the allegations made and the nature of allegations and not to issue directions without proper application of mind. He has also to bear in mind that sending the matter would be conducive to justice and then he may pass the requisite order. The present is a case where the accused persons are serving in high positions in the bank. We are absolutely conscious that the position does not matter, for nobody is above law. But, the learned Magistrate should take note of the allegations in entirety, the date of incident and whether any cognizable case is remotely made out. ....

25. .....

26. At this stage it is seemly to state that power under Section 156(3) warrants application of judicial mind. A court of law is involved. It is not the police taking steps at the stage of Section 154 of the code. A litigant at his own whim cannot invoke the authority of the Magistrate. A principled and really grieved citizen with clean hands must have free access to invoke the said power. It protects the citizens but when pervert litigations takes this route to harass their fellows citizens, efforts are to be made to scuttle and curb the same.

27. In our considered opinion, a stage has come in this country where Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. applications are to be supported by an affidavit duly sworn by the applicant who seeks the invocation of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate. That apart, in an appropriate case, the learned Magistrate would be well advised to verify the truth and also can verify the veracity of the allegations. This affidavit can make the applicant more responsible. We are compelled to say so as such kind of applications are being filed in a routine manner without taking any responsibility whatsoever only to harass certain persons. That apart, it becomes more disturbing and alarming when one tries to pick up people who are passing orders under a statutory provision which can be challenged under the framework of said Act or under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. But it cannot be done to take undue advantage in a criminal court as if somebody is determined to settle the scores. We have already indicated that there has to be prior applications under Section 154(1) and 154(3) while filing a petition under Section 156(3). Both the aspects should be clearly spelt out in the application and necessary documents to that effect shall be filed. The warrant for giving a direction that an the application under Section 156(3) be supported by an affidavit so that the person making the application should be conscious and also endeavour to see that no false affidavit is made. It is because once an affidavit is found to be false, he will be liable for prosecution in accordance with law. This will deter him to casually invoke the authority of the Magistrate under Section 156(3). That apart, we have already stated that the veracity of the same can also be verified by the learned Magistrate, regard being had to the nature of allegations of the case. We are compelled to say so as a number of cases pertaining to fiscal sphere, matrimonial dispute/family disputes, commercial offences, medical negligence cases, corruption cases and the cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, as are illustrated in Lalita Kumari are being filed. That apart, the learned Magistrate would also be aware of the delay in lodging of the FIR.

28. .....

29. At this juncture, we may fruitfully refer to Section 32 of the SARFAESI Act, which reads as follows :

"32. Protection of action taken in good faith.-

No suit, prosecution or other legal proceedings shall lie against any secured creditor or any of his officers or manager exercising any of the rights of the secured creditor or borrower for anything done or omitted to be done in good faith under this Act."

30. In the present case, we are obligated to say that learned Magistrate should have kept himself alive to the aforesaid provision before venturing into directing registration of the FIR under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. It is because the Parliament in its wisdom has made such a provision to protect the secured creditors or any of its officers, and needles to emphasize, the legislative mandate, has to be kept in mind.

31. In view of the aforesaid analysis, we allow the appeal, set aside the order passed by the High Court and quash the registration of the FIR in case Crime No.298 of 2011, registered with Police Station, Bhelupur, District Varanasi, U.P.

32. A copy of the order passed by us be sent to the learned Chief Justices of all the High Courts by the Registry of this Court so that the High Courts would circulate the same amongst the learned Sessions Judges who, in turn, shall circulate it among the learned Magistrates so that they can remain more vigilant and diligent while exercising the power under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C."

26. It is worth mentioning at this stage that though the impugned order was passed long back much before the pronouncement of the Apex Court was given in Priyanka Srivastava's case, but as has already been referred to hereinbefore that so far as complainant's affidavit is concerned, the complainant of the present case has now filed an affidavit not in support of the allegations made in the application u/s 156(3) of Cr.P.C. but in denial of the same.

27. Adverting further to the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Anil Kumar's case (supra) and L. Narayana Swamy's case (supra), we find that the magistrate is expected to consider the applicability of provision of section 197 of Cr.P.C. before passing order u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C.; In this regard, the relevant part of Anil Kumar's case (Supra) is reproduced hereinbelow:-

13. Learned senior counsel appearing for the appellants raised the contention that the requirement of sanction is only procedural in nature and hence, directory or else Section 19(3) would be rendered otiose. We find it difficult to accept that contention. Sub-section (3) of Section 19 has an object to achieve, which applies in circumstances where a Special Judge has already rendered a finding, sentence or order. In such an event, it shall not be reversed or altered by a court in appeal, confirmation or revision on the ground of absence of sanction. That does not mean that the requirement to obtain sanction is not a mandatory requirement. Once it is noticed that there was no previous sanction, as already indicated in various judgments referred to hereinabove, the Magistrate cannot order investigation against a public servant while invoking powers under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. The above legal position, as already indicated, has been clearly spelt out in Paras Nath Singh and Subramanium Swamy cases (supra).

28. The above quoted proposition of law has been affirmed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in L. Narayana Swamy's case (supra).

29. In the present matter, there is overwhelming material available on record to demonstrate that the applicants alleged visit to spot was for the reason that unlawful encroachments or constructions had reportedly taken place there on the government property and their action on the date of incident was unmistakably within discharge of their official duty, as has already been observed herein before, and was as such so inextricably intertwined with their official obligations that the two cannot be separated and thus the provision of section 197 of Cr.P.C. is duly applicable in the matter and the magistrate could not have taken judicial notice of the complaint u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. unless the same would have been accompanied with the requisite sanction order. Just as the Hon'ble Apex Court was pleased to make certain observations in paragraphs 29 and 30 of Priyanka Srivastava's case (supra) while it kept in perspective the protecting provision of SARFAESI Act, this Court too feels persuaded to observe that the learned Magistrate should have kept himself alive to the protecting provision of Section 197 of Cr.P.C. before directing the registration of the F.I.R. In absence of previous sanction, the impugned dated 25.09.2002 becomes extremely vulnerable and hard to sustain.

30. Like-wise, the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bhajan Lal's case (supra) enumerates certain category of cases, in which superior court may exercise its inherent or extra ordinary jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceeding. The relevant part of the case-law is quoted herein below:

"108. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

1. Where the allegations made in the First Information Report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

2. Where the allegations in the First Information Report and other materials, if any, accompanying the F. I. R. do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156 (1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

3. Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

4. Where, the allegations in the F.I.R. do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

5. Where the allegations made in the F.I.R. or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

6. Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/ or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

7. Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/ or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge.

109. We also give a note of caution to the effect that the power of quashing a criminal proceeding should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases; that the Court will not be justified in embarking upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the F.I.R. or the complaint and that the extraordinary or inherent powers do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the Court to act according to its whim or caprice."

31. Under peculiar facts of the case in hand, as discussed above, this court has no hesitation to observe that except category no. 4, all other above noted illustrations expounded in Bhajan Lal's case (Supra) are to a large extent applicable in present case. The applicants were posted as S.D.M. and Naib Tehsildar and Ms. Mayawati was the Chief Minister those days. It is impossible to imagine that these two officers in broad-day light in full public gaze for no rhyme or reason, for no vested interest of their own, would be calling names using filthy invectives not only against complainant but against their own Chief Minister, who is the highest repository of all powers. It does not need any unnecessary elaboration on the point as everybody knows that just an unfavourable frown of the Chief Minister is more than capable to ruin the career of an S.D.M. or a Naib Tehsildar. There is no reason for this Court to hold that the applicants were insane or lunatics who felt happy inviting their own doom just for the sake of it. The bare reading of the allegations made by the complainant in his application would make it manifestly clear that just in order to carve out certain offences under SC/ST Act and lend some kind of gravity and colour to the allegations and to give it a caste complexion, such absurd allegations have been levelled against the applicants. Another allegation that these officers of the district who were posted as S.D.M. and Naib Tehsildar committed a robbery and snatched away Rs.5000/- from the complainant also competes in its absurdity with the earlier allegation. This Court cannot be so gullible as to swallow such unpalatable absurdities. That seems to be the reason as to why the Hon'ble Apex Court while giving illustrations in the case of Bhajan Lal (supra), has recognized in category number-5 that it will be fit to quash the proceedings in matters where the allegations made in the F.I.R. or the complaint are 'so absurd and inherently improbable that on its basis no prudent man can ever reach a just conclusion that there is a sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.' This Court also finds enough material on record to show as to how a number of persons which included the aforesaid Dhara Singh were involved in the unlawful encroachment and trespass over the Government property and as to how the applicants were instrumental in initiating and carrying out an assiduous campaign against such poaching offenders. One cannot miss to see that the complainant who is admittedly a man of aforesaid Dhara Singh, has been simply used to bring this complaint 'with an ulterior motive for wrecking vengeance on the applicants with a view to spite them due to private and personal grudge' and the proceedings are 'manifestly attended with malafides and have been instituted with malice.' All these features bring this case squarely within the ambit of category no. 7. It further goes without saying that non-procurement of sanction under Section 197 of Cr.P.C. would certainly bring the impugned order or the proceedings within the category no. 6. Again, if one finds enough material on record to suggest that visit of the applicants on the place of occurrence could not have been inspired by any other purpose than to impede or stop the unlawful encroachments on Government property, such an act or conduct would certainly not amount or constitute any offence which will once again bring the case in other category recognized by Hon'ble Apex Court in which the criminal proceedings against an accused would become liable to be quashed. It is also not different to see that as the alleged visit of these applicants to the spot with such officially justified purpose, did not constitute any offence, the other imaginary allegations were concocted but which cannot persuade any person of common prudence to accept them even as being plausible, much less than being true. Resultantly, the impugned order dated 25.09.2002 passed u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. deserves to be quashed on this score too. Accordingly, the first issue is answered in affirmative.

32. Now the second issue comes for determination, for which the referral question and its answer observed in full bench case of Father Thomas (supra) needs to be quoted herein below:

"Referral Questions:

5.A. Whether the order of the Magistrate made in exercise of powers under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C directing the police to register and investigate is open to revision at the instance of a person against whom neither cognizance has been taken nor any process issued?

B. Whether an order made under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C is an interlocutory order and remedy of revision against such order is barred under sub-section (2) of Section 397 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973?

C. Whether the view expressed by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Ajay Malviya Vs. State of U.P and others reported in 2000(41) ACC 435 that as an order made under Section 156(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure is amenable to revision, no writ petition for quashing an F.I.R registered on the basis of the order will be maintainable, is correct?

Answer given by the Bench:

64. In this view of the matter, the Opinion of the Full bench on the three questions posed is:

65.A. The order of the Magistrate made in exercise of powers under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C directing the police to register and investigate is not open to revision at the instance of a person against whom neither cognizance has been taken nor any process issued.

B. An order made under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C is an interlocutory order and remedy of revision against such order is barred under sub-section (2) of Section 397 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

C. The view expressed by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Ajay Malviya Vs. State of U.P and others reported in 2000(41) ACC 435 that as an order made under Section 156(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure is amenable to revision, and no writ petition for quashing an F.I.R registered on the basis of the order will be maintainable, is not correct."

33. According to the full bench case of Father Thomas (supra), the order under section 156(3) of Cr.P.C will not be amenable to challenge in a criminal revision or an application under section 482 Cr.P.C at the instance of proposed accused. Although various pronouncements of Hon'ble Supreme Court have been placed by the applicant's side in order to demonstrate that the view taken by Full Bench of this court is not now in consonance with the dicta of Hon'ble Supreme Court and the same ought to be held per incuriam, however, following the norms of judicial propriety and decorum and law of precedent, it would not be proper for this court while sitting singly to observe anything on this self framed second issue except to act on the supposition as if the second issue has been answered in negative.

34. To deal with the third issue framed hereinbefore as to whether this court can Suo Motu exercise its inherent u/s. 482 of Cr.P.C. or revisional jurisdiction u/s. 397 r/w. 401 of Cr.P.C. in the light of peculiar factual history of the controversy, it may be useful to recapitulate the language used in these sections. Section 482 of Cr.P.C. reads as follows:

"482. Saving of inherent powers of High Court.--Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice"

Subsection (1) of Section 397 is as follows:

"397. Calling for records to exercise powers of revision.--

(1) The High Court or any Sessions Judge may call for and examine the record of any proceeding before any inferior Criminal Court situate within its or his local jurisdiction for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding. Sentence or order, recorded or passed, and as to the regularity of any proceedings of such inferior Court, and may, when calling for such record, direct that the execution of any sentence or order be suspended, and if the accused is in confinement, that he be released on bail or on his own bond pending the examination of the record."

Like-wise, Sub-section (1) of Section 401 is as follows:

"401. High Court's powers of revision.

(1) In the case of any proceeding the record of which has been called for by itself or which otherwise comes to its knowledge, the High Court may, in its discretion, exercise any of the powers conferred on a Court of Appeal by sections 386, 389, 390 and 391 or on a Court of Session by section 307 and, when the Judges composing the Court of revision are equally divided in opinion, the case shall be disposed of in the manner provided by section 392."

35. To appreciate the Suo Motu exercise of inherent or revisional power of High Court inbuilt under above quoted provisions of law, a brief survey of few salutary representative judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court shall be conducive, wherein various instances of Suo Motu exercise of revisional and inherent power of High Court have been examined and law in this regard has been expatiated upon.

36. In the case of Cricket Association of Bengal vs. State of West Bengal, 1971 (3) SCC 239, a Division Bench of Calcutta High Court, on the basis of news paper report, issued suo motu Rule (Criminal Revision under the statutory authority of section 397 read with 401 of Cr.P.C.) to the complainant and accused persons of the criminal case to show cause why the orders discharging the accused persons should not be set aside and after hearing the parties, the High Court reversed the orders passed by the Magistrate, discharging the accused. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, while examining the correctness of said judgment, set aside the judgment for certain other reasons but recognized the suo motu authority of High Court and observed in following terms: -

"16. We accordingly hold that the Division Bench was not justified in interfering with the orders dated March 20, and June 8, 1967 passed by the Chief Presidency Magistrate, in the circumstances of this case. We, however, make it clear that we have no doubt that in proper cases the High Court can take action suo motu against the orders passed by the subordinate Courts without being moved by any party."

(Emphasis supplied)

37. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Nadir Khan v. State (The Delhi Administration), 1976 CriLJ 1721 (paragraphs 1, 4 and 5), which reads as follows:

"I am reluctant to leave this matter with the usual monomial order since the submission of the learned counsel has sought to cast an unmerited doubt on the undoubted jurisdiction of the High Court in acting suo motu in criminal revision in appropriate cases. The attempt has to be nipped in the bud.

4. It is well known and has been ever recognized that the High Court is not required to act in revision merely through a conduit application at the instance of an aggrieved party. The High Court, as an effective instrument for administration of criminal justice, keeps a constant vigil, and wherever it finds that justice has suffered, it takes upon itself as its bounden duty to suo motu act where there is flagrant abuse of the law. The character of the offence and the nature of disposal of a particular case by the subordinate court prompt remedial action on the part of the High Court for the ultimate social good of the community, even though the State may be slow or silent in preferring an appeal provided for under the new Code. The High Court as given case of public importance e.g. in now too familiar cases of food adulteration, reacts to public concern over the problem and may act suo motu on perusal of newspaper reports disclosing imposition of grossly inadequate sentence upon such offenders. This position was true and extant in the old Code of 1898 and this salutary power has not been denied by Parliament under the new Code by rearrangement of the sections. It is true, the new Code has expressly given a right to the State under Section 377 Cr.P.C. to appeal against inadequacy of sentence which was not there under the old Code. That however does not exclude revisional jurisdiction of the high Court to act suo motu for enhancement of sentence in appropriate cases. What is an appropriate case has to be left to the discretion of the High Court. This Court will be slow to interfere with exercise of such discretion under Art. 136 of the Constitution.

5. Section 401 expressly preserves the power of the High Court, by itself, to call for the records without the intervention of another agency and had kept alive the ancient exercise of power when something extraordinary comes to the knowledge of the High Court."

38. Once again the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Eknath Shankarrao Mukkawar vs. State of Maharashtra (1977) 3 SCC 25, clarified the law in respect of High Court's suo motu Revisional powers. The relevant extract of the judgment is quoted thus:

"6. We should at once remove the misgiving that the new CrPC, 1973, has abolished the High Court's power of enhancement of sentence by exercising revisional jurisdiction, suo motu. The provision for appeal against inadequacy of sentence by the State Government or the Central Government does not lead to such a conclusion. High Court's power of enhancement of sentence, in an appropriate case, by exercising suo motu power of revision is still extant under Section 397 read with Section 401 Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, inasmuch as the High Court can "by itself call for the record of proceedings of any inferior criminal court under its jurisdiction, The provision of Section 401(4) is a bar to a party, who does not appeal, when appeal lies, but applies in revision. Such a legal bar under Section 401(4) does not stand in the way of the High Court's exercise of power of revision, suo motu, which continues as before in the new Code." (Emphasis supplied)

39. Again in the case of Municipal Corporation of Delhi vs. Girdharilal Sapuru, 1981 (2) SCC 758, the Hon'ble Supreme Court elucidated the scope of High Court's suo motu Revisional power. The relevant observations made in this regard are as follows:

"5. It, however, appears that the respondents contended that the revision petition was barred by limitation. Even this contention is founded on a very technical ground that even though the revision petition was filed very much in time the requisite power of attorney of the learned advocate on behalf of the petition was not legally complete and when it was re-submitted the limitation had expired. Without going into the nicety of this too technical contention, we may notice that Section 397 of the Code of Criminal Procedure enables the High Court to exercise power of revision suo motu and when the attention of the High Court was drawn to a clear illegality the High Court could not have rejected the petition as time barred thereby perpetuating the illegality and miscarriage of justice. The question whether a discharge order is interlocutory or otherwise need not detain us because it is settled by a decision of this Court that the discharge order terminates the proceeding and, therefore, it is revisable under Section 397 (1), Cr. P. C. and Section 397 (1) in terms confers power of suo motu revision on the High Court, and if the High Court exercises suo motu revision power the same cannot be denied on the ground that there is some limitation prescribed for the exercise of the power because none such is prescribed. If in such a situation the suo motu power is not exercised what a glaring illegality goes unnoticed can be demonstrably established by this case itself. We, however, do not propose to say a single word on the merits of the cause because there should not be even a whisper of prejudice to the accused who in view of this judgment would have to face the trial before the learned Magistrate."

(Emphasis supplied)

40. In the case of Janata Dal vs. H.S. Chowdhary and Ors., (1992) 4 SCC 305, the Hon'ble Supreme Court was examining the question as to whether Mr. Justice M.K. Chawla, the then Judge of the High Court of Delhi, in exercise of inherent power, was justified in making certain observation regarding the authority of C.B.I. for launching an investigation in a criminal case and directing the office of the High Court to register a case under the title, "Court on its own motion vs. State and CBI" so that he could exercise his discretionary revisional and inherent powers to call upon the CBI and the State to show cause as to why the proceedings of criminal case be not quashed. In that case, the C.B.I. had launched and was investigating a criminal case regarding allegation broadcasted by Swedish Radio Broadcast that bribes had been paid to senior Indian politicians and key Defence figures to win the contract awarded by the Government of India to the Swedish firm for arms order. The Hon'ble Supreme Court with elaborated discussion on various legal issues quashed the latter part of the order of Single Judge whereby he had taken Suo Motu cognizance under Sections 397, 401 read with 482 of the Code issuing show-cause notice to the CBI and the State. However, the relevant part of determination of Hon'ble Supreme Court, which may be useful for present controversy, is as follows:

"125. The next question of law that comes for our consideration is the suo motu power of the High Court in exercise of its powers under Sections 190 (dealing with powers of the Magistrate to take cognizance of the offence), 397 (empowering the High Court or any Session Judge to exercise powers of revision), 401 (dealing with the High Court's powers of revision) and 482 (dealing with the inherent powers of the High Court) of the CrPC.

128. Sections 397, 401 and 482 of the new Code are analogous to Section 435, 439 and 561(A) of the old code of 1898 except for certain substitutions, omissions and modifications. Under Section 397, the High Court possesses the general power of superintendence over the actions of Courts subordinate to it which the discretionary power when administered on administration side, is known as the power of superintendence and on the judicial side as the power of revision. In exercise of the discretionary powers conferred on the High Court under the provisions of this Section, the High Court can, at any stage, on its own motion, if it so desires and certainly when illegalities and irregularities resulting in injustice are brought to its notice, call for the records and examine them. The words in Section 435 are, however, very general and they empower the High Court to call for the record of a case not only when it intends to satisfy itself about the correctness of any finding, sentence or order but also as to the regularity of any proceeding of any subordinate court.

129. By virtue of the power under Section 401, the High Court can examine the proceedings of inferior Courts if the necessity for doing so is brought to its notice in any manner, namely, (1) when the records have been called for by itself, or (2) when the proceedings otherwise comes to its knowledge.

130. The object of the revisional jurisdiction under Section 401 is to confer power upon superior criminal Courts - a kind of paternal or supervisory jurisdiction - in order to correct miscarriage of justice arising from misconception of law, irregularity of procedure, neglect of proper precaution or apparent harshness of treatment which has resulted on the one hand, or on the other hand in some underserved hardship to individuals. The controlling power of the High Court is discretionary and it must be exercised in the interest of justice with regard to all facts and circumstances of each particular case, anxious attention being given to the said facts and circumstances which vary greatly from case to case.

131. Section 482 which corresponds to Section 561A of the old Code and to Section 151 of the Civil Procedure Code proceeds on the same principle and deals with the inherent powers of the High Court. The rule of inherent powers has its source in the maxim "Quadolex a liquid alicia concedit, conceder videtur id sine quo ipso, ess uon protest" which means that when the law gives anything to anyone, it gives also all those things without which the thing itself could not exist.

132. The criminal Courts are clothed with inherent power to make such orders as may be necessary for the ends of justice*. Such power though unrestricted and undefined should not be capriciously* or arbitrarily exercised, but should be exercised in appropriate cases, ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone the Courts exist. The powers possessed by the High Court under Section 482 of the Code are very wide and the very plenitude of the power requires great caution in its exercise. Courts must be careful to see that its decision in exercise of this power is based on sound principles." (Emphasis supplied)

41. In view of above, the position of law in this regard may be summarized in following points:

The High Court possesses the general power of superintendence over the actions of Courts subordinate to it. The discretionary power when administered on administration side, is known as the power of superintendence and on the judicial side as the power of revision.

The High Court, as an effective instrument for administration of criminal justice, keeps a constant vigil, and wherever it finds that justice has suffered, it takes upon itself as its bounden duty to suo motu act where there is flagrant abuse of the law.

Section 401 expressly preserves the power of the High Court, by itself, to call for the records without the intervention of another agency and had kept alive the exercise of power when something extraordinary comes to the knowledge of the High Court. Section 401 empowers the High Court to call for the record of a case not only when it intends to satisfy itself about the correctness of any finding, sentence or order but also as to the regularity of any proceeding of any subordinate Court. (Emphasis supplied)

The object of the revisional jurisdiction under Section 401 is to confer power upon superior criminal Courts - a kind of paternal or supervisory jurisdiction - in order to obviate or correct miscarriage of justice arising from misconception of law, irregularity of procedure, neglect of proper precaution or apparent harshness of treatment which has resulted on one hand, or on the other in some undeserved hardship to some individual.

The High Court possesses undoubted jurisdiction to act suo motu in criminal revision and in appropriate cases, can take action suo motu against the orders passed by the subordinate Courts without being moved by any party.

42. Submission of counsel for appellant is that if the procurement of sanction u/s 197 of Cr.P.C. is a legal requirement then the impugned order passed by the Magistrate in absence of the same would be an order without jurisdiction and shall be per se illegal. Argument is that orders may be passed by the authorities correctly or incorrectly reaching at right conclusions or wrong conclusions by making appropriate inferences or inappropriate inferences, but the order has to be passed by the authority concerned who has the jurisdiction to pass such order. Procurement of sanction is such a necessary legal requirement in a given case with regard to certain accused who are said to have committed certain offences in the process of discharge of their official duty that non procurement of the same hits at the very root of the jurisdiction of the court to proceed further in the matter. If procurement of statutory sanction is a condition precedent or sine qua non to take cognizance of the matter or if it is a condition precedent, as per the pronouncement of the Apex Court in order to judicially proceed further in direction of making an order for registration of the F.I.R., then the absence of the same will result in a situation where the concerned court shall be lacking the necessary jurisdiction to pass that order. Such kind of orders would be non est in the eyes of law and for all practical purposes cannot be deemed to have any legal existence. Before an order may be termed interlocutory or final, revisable or not revisable, it has to be firstly an order which has been legally passed by an authority having legal jurisdiction to pass the same. If the jurisdiction is wanting, such an order will be non est and even the statutory bar which prohibits a revision in that regard will not operate. Certain authorities have been cited in order to substantiate such plea and it has been sought to be argued that the orders passed without jurisdiction can always be challenged by filing a revision even though a revision against such orders in normal circumstances might have been prohibited by the Statute for reason of being interlocutory.

43. Reliance in this regard has been placed on Bhima Naik And Ors. vs State, 1975 CriLJ 1923 (Orrisa), wherein the division bench of Orrisa High Court presided by the Chief Justice discussed various legal issues, while dealing with the legality, proprietary and jurisdictional correctness of an order passed under section 117(3) of Cr.P.C. calling upon the petitioners of that case to execute interim bonds. In said case, the division bench came to the conclusion that the order being interlocutory in nature is not amenable to revisional jurisdiction under section 397 of Cr.P.C. and is also not amenable to inherent jurisdiction under section 482 of Cr.P.C., however while ascertaining so, the division bench considered the issue of lack of jurisdiction, jurisdictional correctness and proprietary of the order under challenge and the division bench reached to the conclusion in following manner:

"4. In (Shri M.L. Sethi v. Shri R. P. Kapur) the meaning of the word 'jurisdiction' was fully examined. The majority view in Anisminde Ltd. (1969) 2 AC 147 was followed. Therein the absence of jurisdiction was not confined to entitlement to enter upon the enquiry in question. It was extended to subsequent error in the exercise of jurisdiction. The observations of Lord Reid may be quoted:

"But there are many cases where, although the tribunal had jurisdiction to enter on the enquiry, it has done or failed to do something in the course of the enquiry which is of such a nature that its decision is a nullity. It may have given its decision in bad faith. It may have made a decision which it had no power to make. It may have failed in the course of the enquiry to comply with the requirements of natural justice. It may in perfect good faith have misconstrued the provisions giving it power to act so that it failed to deal with the question remitted to it and decided some question which was not remitted to it. It may have refused to take into account something which it was required to take into account. Or it may have based its decision on some matter which, under the provisions setting it up, it had no right to take into account. I do not intend this list to be exhaustive."

Lord Pearce made similar observations.

5. Adopting the majority view the Supreme Court observed thus:

11. The dicta of the majority of the House of Lords, in the above case would show the extent to which 'lack' and 'excess of jurisdiction have been assimilated or in other words, the extent to which we have moved away from the traditional concept of 'jurisdiction'. The effect of the dicta in that case is to reduce the difference between jurisdictional error and error of law within jurisdiction almost to vanishing point.

6. Both on the conclusion in AIR 1971 SC 2481 : 1971 Cri LJ 1715 that the order calling for execution of interim bond before the commencement of the enquiry is completely illegal and on the application of the concept of jurisdiction propounded in the impugned order is without jurisdiction and is a nullity.

15. The last contention urged by Mr. Das is that the impugned order is a complete illegality and without jurisdiction as was held in AIR 1971 SC 2481 : 1971 Cri LJ 1715 and (1974) 40 Cut LT 148. Being without jurisdiction it is a nullity and is nonest in the eye of law and therefore, it is no order at all despite the fact that it was passed at an intermediate stage of the proceeding and has the physical form and shape of an interlocutory order and as such Section 397(2) is no bar for interference by this Court in exercise of its power under Section 401 or Section 482 Cri. P. C.

The contention requires careful examination. The object of enacting Section 397(2) was that by coming up in revision against interlocutory orders there was delay in the disposal of criminal proceedings resulting in great harassment to the litigants. If interlocutory orders passed without jurisdiction cannot be interfered with at any earlier stage, then the harassment would be much greater and would be more oppressive. As we have already indicated, the High Court cannot invoke its inherent jurisdiction even in case of instances enumerated in. Interlocutory orders which are without jurisdiction and are nullities have no existence in the eye of law. Such orders are to be ignored. The litigants cannot escape harassment merely by ignoring them and it is why the jurisdiction of the High Court is invoked to quash such orders. Section 397(2) will have no application to such interlocutory orders which though have the form of interlocutory orders are no orders at all. On this analysis Section 397(2) will be out of the way and exercise of the power by the High Court under Section 401 or Section 482 cannot be ousted.

On the other hand if interlocutory orders are passed within jurisdiction, then they cannot be interfered with on account of the ban imposed by Section 397(2). Certain instances may be given to illustrate this concept.

An order calling for execution of an interim bond under Section 117(3) was passed after the commencement of the enquiry under Section 107, Cri. P. C. Evidence taken up to that stage may be such on which another court of fact may take a different view. The Magistrate's conclusion one way or the other cannot be interfered with in revision as he acts within jurisdiction and in exercise of such jurisdiction he might have come to a wrong conclusion on facts. Section 397(2) is a bar in the path of interference under Section 401 or Section 482.

Under Section 145, Cri. P. C. if an Executive Magistrate is satisfied that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning any land, he shall pass a preliminary order in writing stating the grounds of his being so satisfied. Suppose, the Magistrate in his order writes that there was no apprehension of breach of peace and yet called upon the parties to the dispute to file written statements, the order of the Magistrate would be without jurisdiction. Such an order, though interlocutory, can be revised. A Criminal Court has no jurisdiction to deal with civil rights. The Magistrate gets jurisdiction only when there is an apprehension of breach of peace. If there is no apprehension of breach of peace there is lack of jurisdiction and the preliminary order so issued will be without jurisdiction and a nullity. In such a case if Section 397(2) will be a bar, the entire proceeding would continue till it is finally found out that the Magistrate acted without jurisdiction.

On the other hand if there was an apprehension of breach of peace, he gets jurisdiction and any interlocutory order passed by him subsequently cannot be interfered with in revision.

16. In this case the impugned order, as has already been pointed out, was passed without jurisdiction and was completely illegal and is a nullity. It is no order - much less an interlocutory order - in the eye of law. Section 397(2) will have no application to such an order. It would therefore, be open to the High Court to interfere in revision under Section 401 or 482." (Emphasis supplied)

44. On the strength of the above noted case-law it has been sought to be argued that the general legal principle laid down in the Father Thomas case proscribing the rights of proposed accused to assail the order passed under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. against them, shall not come in the way in matters where the impugned order or proceedings drawn may be justly castigated for being without jurisdiction.

45. Another limb of the arguments is that Section 482 of Cr.P.C. is a provision which actually is in the nature of recognition of inherent power of the court and the statute is a saving clause. Section 482 of Cr.P.C. does not create inherent jurisdiction in the court but simply saves and recognizes the same. And though the exercise of such power has to be done very sparingly in rare cases but if it comes to the notice of the court that some such mighty abuse of court process is likely to affect due course of administration or where a particular order passed by the court is inevitably going to lead to misuse of government machinery and where there are apparent circumstances to conclusively demonstrate that the power exercised by the court below was not bonafide but was a colorable exercise of power which has been in all probability influenced by some unfair circumstances, the court has to come forward and exercise the same in order to stop the abuse of court's process and meet the ends of justice. The facts as have come up before the Court unerringly show as to how a particular judicial officer has been posted in a particular district who has been prima facie found to have acted in an injudicious partisan manner having vested interest of his own at the back of his mind and regarding whom even the High Court has come to a prima facie conclusion that he was inspired with malafide intentions.

46. This court finds reason to see that the submissions made by the applicants' counsel that there are circumstances to suggest that the impugned order was passed under the unsavoury influence of the aforesaid judicial officer, who had purchased a property in the name of his wife which was part of a land regarding which a campaign or mission was being managed by the applicants and other executive authorities in compliance of directions issued by the Hon'ble Supreme Court (so that the illegal occupations of such lands and illegal possession over such government property may be removed), is not wholly without substance or entirely without a clue. The facts of the case staring in the face are so glaring that after they having come to the notice of the court, it is simply not possible for this Court to shut the eyes and feign ignorance and not to exercise its own inherent jurisdiction as well as its own power of revision in order to adjudge and pronounce upon the legality, correctness and propriety of such an order and to secure the ends of justice and also to avert the gross abuse of court's process. This Court finds occasion to observe that even though these facts have come to the notice of the court at the instance of the applicants who are the proposed accused yet after the facts having been brought to the notice of the court, this Court on its own feel irresistibly persuaded to exercise both its powers that is to say its inherent jurisdiction and its suo motu revisional power regarding orders or proceedings of the court below.

47. To conclude in sum and substance, the Suo Motu authority of High Court under Section 397 read with 401 of Cr.P.C. or under section 482 of Cr.P.C. is fairly well settled and if the facts so warrant, there is no fetter on the power of this Court to obviate or correct the miscarriage of justice in an appropriate case by exercising its extensive supervisory jurisdiction under Sections 397 read with Section 401 of Cr.P.C. or its inherent power under section 482 of Cr.P.C. without being moved by any party. Accordingly, the third issue is answered in affirmative.

48. Resultantly, in the wake of conspicuous facts and circumstances, improprieties and illegalities committed in this matter, even if this Court acts on the supposition that the relief sought in this Criminal Misc. Application was not amenable to be entertained at the instance of the applicants, this court finds itself well equipped to examine on its own the correctness, veracity, legality and sanctity of order dated 25.09.2002 and also to examine and assuage the miscarriage of justice in the present matter caused by the order in exercise of its Suo Motu inherent and revisional power.

49. In totality of facts and circumstances of the case, discussed herein above and before, this Court feels that it owes an inevitable obligation to obviate, avert or heal the miscarriage of justice caused in the present matter by exercising its Suo Motu authority under Section 397 read with 401 as well as under section 482 of Cr.P.C. and hence, the order dated 25.9.2002 passed by the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.9, Allahabad on Misc. Application No.172/XII/2002 (Ram Surat Pasi vs. Vijai Shankar and another), P.S.-George Town, District-Allahabad is hereby quashed.

50. However, this court refrains itself from proposing any administrative or otherwise action against Mr. Subhash Chandra Bose, the judicial Officer who has been arrayed as opposite party no.3 in the instant petition, on two counts, firstly that no notice has been issued to him to submit his response against the circumstances set forth in this petition about his act and conduct. Secondly that the issue of taking any administrative or otherwise action by the High Court against said judicial officer primarily appears to be subject matter of Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.42396 of 2002.

51. The office is directed to send the copy of this order to the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.9, Allahabad forthwith.

52. The instant application is decided in aforesaid terms.

Criminal Misc. Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C allowed. (E-3)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed with a prayer for quashing the entire proceeding including impugned order dated 24.01.2017, passed by learned court of Additional Session Judge / Special Judge E.C. Act, Meerut in Criminal Revision No. 190 of 2016 (Bhawar Singh and 8 others Versus State of U.P. through Collector Meerut) and impugned summoning order dated 16.04.2016, passed by Judicial Magistrate, Sardhana, District Meerut in Complaint Case No. 84 of 2013 (Veer Singh Versus Bhawar Singh and others), under Section 406 I.P.C., pending in the court of learned Judaical Magistrate, Sardhana, District Meerut.

2. Learned counsel for applicants argued that first information report for alleged criminal breach of trust was filed by way of an application moved under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. by Veer Singh, who was the then Secretary of Sadhu Jagram Smarak Gaushala Samiti, situated in village and post Kapsad, Police Station Sardhana, District Meerut. Investigation resulted submission of final report. After that, Veer Singh informant has not filed any protest petition, rather it was Brijpal, who was neither Secretary nor President nor authorized person to file any proceeding in and on behalf of above Committee. This application was treated to be a complaint case, but complainant remained Veer Singh in the proceeding of complaint, whereas statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. was got recorded of Brijpal. Brijpal himself was an accused for the same criminal breach of trust, punishable under Section 406 I.P.C. in a report, wherein charge sheet was filed and cognizance was taken. Since beginning, it was being said that amount realized from the auction of bullocks could not be deposited in Bank because of the closure hours of Bank, but it was given by President to his younger brother Brijpal for getting in safe till deposit in Bank, but the amount was not deposited. In between, President died. Hence, Brijpal was having no locus to file any protest, because he himself was accused for above misuse of money of society, for which charge sheet was filed, but on the basis of above protest petition this summoning was passed. Moreso, Society had entered in compromise and this application was moved before Magistrate that parties have entered in compromise and complainant does not want to proceed with above proceeding, but this application was rejected by Magistrate, mentioning therein that the protest was filed by Brijpal and summoning was on the protest of Brijpal, hence, this compounding will not be accepted, whereas Brijpal was neither Secretary nor President nor was having any authority for entering in compounding and admittedly money was of above Society and its office bearer had entered in compromise for offence punishable under Section 406 I.P.C., which is compoundable in the table under Section 321 Cr.P.C. Hence, on the basis of compromise too, the proceeding ought to be quashed. Moreso, the proceeding is in the misuse of process of law and the summoning was wrong. Hence, this application with above prayer.

3. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the application.

4. Learned counsel for opposite party no. 3 Brijpal has vehemently opposed this argument by saying that against him FIR was lodged by Prempal Shastri, S/o Kashmir, whereas this has been wrongly said that it was filed by Prem Pal, S/o Sohan Singh. This statement is against the fact. Moreso, Brijpal was falsely implicated in this proceeding for some criminal breach of trust, wherein charge sheet has been filed and he is facing trial. Hence, he had filed protest petition against final report and he was examined under Section 200 Cr.P.C. Thereafter, this order of summoning was there. Hence, Veer Singh or any other member of Committee is not competent to enter in compromise. Rather, they all are in conspiracy to each other. Thereby, this application be dismissed.

5. Having heard learned counsel for both sides and gone through material placed on record, it is apparent that auction of bullocks was performed by Committee, wherein Secretary was Veer Singh, Cashier was Bhawar Singh and President was Sukhpal Singh. Part payment was made and remaining was to be paid subsequently, but this part paid money, which was said to be handed over to younger brother of President i.e Brijpal was not deposited in Bank account of Society concerned. The other money was also not deposited. Hence, case by way of application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was got filed, wherein investigation resulted submission of final report i.e. no offence was made out, whereas in another criminal case the accusation of usurpation of Rs.43,900/- was substantiated in investigation and charge sheet against Brijpal was filed, wherein cognizance was taken and case is being said to be under trial. The final report was given notice to informant, but Veer Singh who was Secretary of Society did not file any protest nor President of Society filed any protest. It was same Brijpal, against whom charge sheet was filed, filed protest petition and it was treated to be a complaint case, wherein Brijpal was examined under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and the summoning order for offence under Section 406 I.P.C. was passed. This order was challenged before court of Sessions and it was made a point in memo of revision that protest was not filed by informant. Rather, it was filed by Brijpal, who himself is accused of criminal breach of trust, but Sessions Judge in its finding has not disclosed this fact neither this was considered nor pointed or concluded by Sessions Judge on this point. Hence, the point raised was not considered by learned Sessions Judge and it was misuse of process of law.

6. Brijpal, who is contesting this proceeding, is himself an accused facing trial and in this proceeding too it has been specifically said that Brijpal usurped Rs.43,900/-, which was received at the time of auction and was given in his possession by his brother, who is now no more, and who was President at that time. Hence, it is apparent that for saving himself from above criminal trial, this step was taken by Brijpal by filing of this protest petition. Neither the name of complainant was changed nor complainant was examined and this summoning order was passed, wherein repeatedly this has been written that complainant was examined under Section 200 Cr.P.C. The complainant was Veer Singh, who had not been examined under Section 200 Cr.P.C. Moreso, in a criminal proceeding, running on the basis of complaint, complainant always remain with liberty to withdraw from the prosecution and it was moved before Magistrate that now Society and its members had decided not to proceed with this trial and this proceeding be ended, but Magistrate failed to appreciate facts and law placed on record. Thereby, rejected above request for withdrawal and ending of this proceeding, whereas it was moved by Secretary and President of Committee. Hence, on overall appreciation of those situations, it is very clear that both the courts below failed to appreciate this fact on record, thereby it was apparently misuse of process of law. Hence, this application merits to be allowed.

7. The application is allowed. The entire proceedings of Complaint Case No. 84 of 2013 (Veer Singh Versus Bhawar Singh and others) under Section 406 I.P.C., pending in the court of learned Judaical Magistrate, Sardhana, District Meerut including impugned order dated 24.01.2017 and impugned summoning order dated 16.04.2016 is hereby quashed.

A. First Information Report - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, Section 156 (3) - the powers of a Judicial Magistrate under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. and the Administrative powers to maintain law and order in order to ensure appropriate administrative action against the wrong doers are two qualitatively different spheres of operation.

Even otherwise if the local police which is a law and order implementing limb of local administration, does not act properly with efficient alacrity and if somebody feels aggrieved by such lackadaisical attitude, it is frequently seen that a protest or a complaint in that regard is made before the District Magistrate or the Superintendent of Police. It is also frequently seen that on such application, District Magistrate directs the concerned local officials who may be of police or may be of police or may be officials of other department, that they should "do the needful" or "take necessary actions in accordance with law". Being in charge of the administration, the District magistrate has to pass orders almost on regular basis on a large scale every day which relate to multiple departments of all kinds including police. (Para 6)

B. Inherent Jurisdiction - Section 482 - Cr.P.C. - Scope - the Trial Court and not the High Court is expected to analytically analyze the facts and factual matrix of case.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karuna Nand Bajpayee, J.)

1. Supplementary affidavit has been filed by the counsel for applicants, which is taken on record.

2. This application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been moved on behalf of applicants seeking the quashing of Charge Sheet dated 25.09.2018 and cognizanc order dated 11.02.2019 as well as the entire proceedings of Criminal Case No. 433 of 2019 (State Vs. Lal Bahadur), arising out of Case Crime No. 60 of 2018, under Section 457 I.P.C., Police Station Pawara, District Jaunpur, pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate 3rd Jaunpur.

3. Heard Shri N.P. Ojha holding brief of Shri Rajesh Kumar Shukla counsel for the applicants, counsel for opposite party No.2 and learned A.G.A. and also perused the record.

4. Submission of learned counsel for the applicants is that the F.I.R. of the case could have been directed only by a Judicial Magistrate while in the present case the same has been registered on the orders of S.D.M. or District Magistrate. Therefore, according to the counsel, the registration of F.I.R. will be an illegal act and the consequent investigation and submission of charge sheet will also become illegal and it deserves to be quashed for that reason. It has been submitted that if the police did not register the F.I.R. then the only course open for the complainant was to have moved an application under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. and it was none of his business to have made any protest regarding that on the administrative side. This is the only submission that has been pressed by the counsel before the Court in order to seek quashing of charge sheet that has been submitted by the police after registering the case under Section 457 of I.P.C. against the accused-applicants. Counsel for the applicants has not sought to point out any other irregularity, illegality or impropriety much less than any abuse of court's process in the impugned order or proceedings which in the estimate of the counsel could persuade this Court to interfere in the same.

5. This Court has cogitated upon the submissions raised by the counsel and has considered them in the light of the facts of this case and the record.

6. With regard to the submission made by the counsel that only a Judicial Magistrate could have directed the police to register the F.I.R. under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. and therefore, the present F.I.R. and the subsequent investigation and the charge sheet deserves to be quashed for the reason of having been lodged at the instance of the District Magistrate or the Sub Divisional Magistrate, the same does not appear to be a sound argument in the peculiar facts of the case. It goes without saying that so far as the implied power to direct registration of F.I.R. and direct the investigation into the case under Section 156 (3) of Cr.P.C. is concerned, the Judicial Magistrate no doubt possess such power. But the contents of the present F.I.R. show that it was never lodged on the basis of any application under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. at all. In fact, the contents of the application on the basis of which F.I.R. has been lodged show that the same had been addressed to the S.H.O. of Police Station Pawara, District- Jaunpur and not to any Magistrate whether Judicial or Executive. It is not at all a case in which it may be said that some application in the form of 156(3) Cr.P.C. was moved before the court of Executive Magistrate on which the Magistrate might have passed the order directing the police to register the F.I.R. and initiate investigation into the case. To the contrary it appears to be the case where some application has been addressed to S.O. of Police Station Pawara on the basis of which the F.I.R. has been registered. In fact, the perusal of the record shows that probably initially the police was reluctant to lodge the F.I.R. and in that regard protests were made by some local political leaders and the matter came to the notice of the District Magistrate who then set up an enquiry in this regard. The perusal of annexure no. 2 shows that this inquiry was conducted by the Circle Officer of the police and the Sub Divisional Magistrate of Machhalishahar, Jaunpur jointly and it was found by them that the opposite party no. 2 Rajendra Prasad Maurya had purchased the land in question which was duly mutated in his favour. After ascertaining so many other facts it was found prima facie in the enquiry that the house in question was constructed by the first informant Rajendra Prasad Maurya regarding which the accused persons had committed criminal trespass and unlawful possession of the same was taken by the accused by breaking into the house. The inquiry report also indicated that the accused persons had committed cognizable offence and the balance of equity and justice was clearly therefore in favour of the first informant who was wronged by the accused and the locks of his house were forcibly broken and the unlawful possession of the property in question was illegally taken by the accused persons. It was also indicated in the preliminary inquiry report that the political protest was justified and the police ought to have registered the F.I.R. for committing cognizable offences. It appears that in all probability it was in the wake of this background that the officials of local police station having found that the higher police officer i.e. Circle Officer of Machhalishahr himself has submitted such kind of report to the District Magistrate which also contained the signature of the Sub Divisional Magistrate, endorsing the same view, that they (the local police) decided to register the F.I.R. into the case on the basis of application that was moved and addressed to S.H.O. The perusal of the the check report does not show any such direction that may be said to have been issued either by the District Magistrate or the Sub Divisional Magistrate to register the case. The registration of F.I.R. therefore cannot at all be said to have been by any such order passed by the Executive Magistrate which may be equated to an order which is normally passed on an application moved under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. by the Judicial Magistrate. Even otherwise if the local police which is a law and order implementing limb of local administration, does not act properly with efficient alacrity and if somebody feels aggrieved by such lackadaisical attitude, it is frequently seen that a protest or a complaint in that regard is made before the District Magistrate or the Superintendent of Police. It is also frequently seen that on such application being moved before the District Magistrate, he directs the concerned local officials who may be of police or may be officials of other department, that they should "do the needful" or "take necessary action in accordance with law." Being incharge of the District Administration, the District Magistrate has to pass such orders almost on a regular basis on a large scale every day which relate to multiple departments of all kinds including police. Even though in the present case we do not have any material before us to indicate that any such formal specific direction to lodge F.I.R. was issued to the local police on the basis of which the present F.I.R. in question might be said to have been registered. But even if we presume it to be so such kind of general orders to "take appropriate action in accordance with law" or "do the needful in accordance with law" or to "do the needful and maintain law and order" cannot be equated and will not be tantamount to a direction issued under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. The powers vested in the Judicial Magistrate to pass an order under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. is a statutory power and it is within the rights of every aggrieved individual to invoke such power if he is so advised. It can also be said with equal force that the powers of a Judicial Magistrate under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. and the Administrative Powers to maintain law and order in order to ensure appropriate administrative action against wrong doers are two qualitatively different spheres of operation. Sometimes it may appear in the ultimate analysis that the relief which an aggrieved person may get by approaching the District Magistrate was such which in part might also have been achieved by approaching a Court of Law but such kind of ostensible overlapping would not mean that the aggrieved person had no right to make a complaint on the higher administrative side or to raise a protest on the higher executive side against the dereliction of duty committed by some subordinate administrative officials. If the local incharge of police station refuses to register the F.I.R. and shoes away the complainant or misbehaves with him, it is very much natural and permissible both that the aggrieved complainant may go to the Superintendent of Police and may even go the District Magistrate, who is the overall head of the District Administration, in order to express his grievance. Approaching the Superintendent of Police in such a situation has even got a statutory recognition in the Code of Criminal Procedure itself. If the aggrieved complainant approaches the District Magistrate, narrates his grievances and makes a complaint about the dereliction of duty in which the local police official indulged or as to how the local police appeared to have colluded with the other side and has not properly behaved in the matter, what else is expected from a District Magistrate in such a situation than to either call for an explanation or to initiate a departmental inquiry or to entrust somebody to find facts or to call up the erring police officer to explain his conduct or to reprimand him to watch the step, behave properly, do the right thing, and act in accordance with law and perform his duty. It cannot be said with any reasonableness that the aggrieved complainant in such situation was wrong to have approached either the Superintendent of Police or the District Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate of higher rank whom the complainant found to be within his reach or accessibility nor can it be contended with any amount of reasonableness that if any higher Executive Officer or the Superintendent of Police in such circumstances tried to ameliorate the grievance of the complaint and endeavored to mend the ways of such erring police officer, he did or would do anything wrong. In fact, if the higher administrative officers in such a situation would just shrug their shoulders and tamely plead to be helpless and simply remained content with giving a pontificating advice to the complainant to engage a counsel, approach the Court of Law and move an application under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C., they themselves might be held guilty for dereliction of their own duty. What has happened in the present matter is an event which by its recurring frequency has become banal and we often come across such matters where instead of performing their duty, the police officers refuse to register the F.I.R. just to keep the crime graph low in their police station and the aggrieved persons are shown the doors in a most insensitive manner. As it appears in the present matter also that despite the crime committed against the complainant their grievance remained unregistered and unaddressed. The initial report was clearly not registered in the manner as it ought to have been and attempts were made to dilute the offences and keep them on low key. As the complainant was conscious of his rights he did not give up and staged a "Dharna" which impelled the District Magistrate to set up a higher level inquiry which was conducted by the Deputy Superintendent of Police and the Sub Divisional Magistrate together and who gave a detailed fact finding report affirming the highhandedness and wrongs committed against the complainant. It appears that when the matter got exposed and the reality got unearthed the local police thought it prudent to mend its way and do what they ought to have done much earlier in accordance with law. For all these reasons as discussed above, this Court does not find any substance in the contention raised by the applicant's counsel that the only way permissible to get the F.I.R. registered, was to move an application under Section 156(3) of Cr.P.C. and the matter should not have been brought to the notice of the higher Administrative Authorities of the District. Nor this Court finds any substance in the contention raised by the applicant's counsel that the initiative taken on the administrative side by the District Magistrate where by it set up a fact-finding inquiry, he did anything wrong. In the considered opinion of this Court, what the District Magistrate did was not only right but it was his duty to do what he did. Any cold-shouldering on his part in such circumstances could have been termed as nothing but a meek refusal on his part to look into what was rotting under his nose and what was growing wild right under his foot.

7. No other submission worth consideration has been raised by the counsel. All other contentions that have been raised relate to pure questions of fact which can be adjudicated upon only during the course of trial and related to appreciation of evidence. In exercise of inherent jurisdiction, this Court does not propose to have a pre-trial of accused before the actual trial may began. The perusal of the F.I.R. and the other material collected during the course of investigation clearly disclose the commission of cognizable offnece and the matter certainly does not fall in any of the categories recognized by the Apex Court in its decision given in the case of State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal 1992 SCC(Cr.) 426 on the basis of which the impugned proceedings could have been quashed. This Court also does not see any illegality much less than any abuse of court's process having been committed by the court below and in the wake of the allegations made in the F.I.R. and the material that has been collected during the course of investigation in the case there is no good reason to scuttle the impugned criminal proceedings at its threshold.

8. The application lacks merit and stands dismissed.

A. Abetment of Suicide - Section 306 of Indian Penal Code - somebody's misbehavior also may abet a person to commit suicide.

There may be cases where the nature of ill-treatment meted out to a person, the constancy of humiliation to which the other person has been subjected to, and the continuation of ill-treatment towards that person may be so extreme that even a normal self-respecting person having normal levels of sensitivity may be driven to commit suicide. The act of abatement may be direct and it can also be indirect in a particular case. (Para 10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karuna Nand Bajpayee, J.)

1. This application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed seeking the quashing of the entire criminal proceedings of Criminal Case No. 8831 of 2019, arising out of Case Crime No. 115 of 2017, under Section 306 I.P.C., P.S.- Kharkhaunda, District-Meerut as well as the impugned charge sheet no. 282 of 2018, dated 15.7.2019 and the cognizance order dated 24.7.2019 passed by the C.J.M., Meerut in the aforementioned case.

2. Heard applicant's counsel and learned AGA.

3. Entire record has been perused.

4. Submission of counsel for the applicant is that there is no direct evidence available to show that the applicant abetted the deceased to commit suicide. There are no such words spoken by the deceased which may be said to have been aimed with the purpose of instigating the deceased to put an end to his life. Contention is that in the absence of any such direct evidence of abetment the applicant cannot be held guilty for the offence punishable u/s 306 I.P.C. Argument is that a man may behave properly with the other and may also misbehave with them, but if his misbehaviour leads the other man to take the extreme step, this should not be termed to be an act of abetment on the part of the person who is guilty of such misbehaviour. Certain other submissions have also been raised on behalf of the applicant's counsel assailing the truthfulness of prosecution evidence. Several other contentions have also been raised by the applicant's counsel but all of them relate to disputed questions of fact. The court has also been called upon to adjudge the testimonial worth of prosecution evidence and evaluate the same on the basis of various intricacies of factual details which have been touched upon by the learned counsel. The veracity and credibility of material furnished on behalf of the prosecution has been questioned and false implication has been pleaded.

5. The law regarding sufficiency of material which may justify the summoning of accused and also the court's decision to proceed against him in a given case is well settled. The court has to eschew itself from embarking upon a roving enquiry into the last details of the case. It is also not advisable to adjudge whether the case shall ultimately end in conviction or not. Only a prima facie satisfaction of the court about the existence of sufficient ground to proceed in the matter is required.

6. Through a catena of decisions given by Hon'ble Apex Court this legal aspect has been expatiated upon at length and the law that has evolved over a period of several decades is too well settled. The cases of (1) Chandra Deo Singh Vs. Prokash Chandra Bose AIR 1963 SC 1430 , (2) Vadilal Panchal Vs. Dattatraya Dulaji Ghadigaonker AIR 1960 SC 1113 and (3) Smt. Nagawwa Vs. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi 1976 3 SCC 736 may be usefully referred to in this regard.

7. The Apex Court decisions given in the case of R.P. Kapur Vs. State of Punjab AIR 1960 SC 866 and in the case of State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal 1992 SCC(Cr.) 426 have also recognized certain categories by way of illustration which may justify the quashing of a complaint or charge sheet. Some of them are akin to the illustrative examples given in the above referred case of Smt. Nagawwa Vs. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi 1976 3 SCC 736. The cases where the allegations made against the accused or the evidence collected by the Investigating Officer do not constitute any offence or where the allegations are absurd or extremely improbable impossible to believe or where prosecution is legally barred or where criminal proceeding is malicious and malafide instituted with ulterior motive of grudge and vengeance alone may be the fit cases for the High Court in which the criminal proceedings may be quashed. Hon'ble Apex Court in Bhajan Lal's case has recognized certain categories in which Section-482 of Cr.P.C. or Article-226 of the Constitution may be successfully invoked.

8. Illumined by the case law referred to herein above, this Court has adverted to the entire record of the case.

9. Perusal of the F.I.R. shows that it has been lodged by the opposite party no.2 Arvind Kumar with the allegations that his father late Bijendra Singh, who was working with the U.P. Police as S.C.P. 37 C.P., was posted as a Court Muharrir in the court of S.D.M., Sadar, Muzaffar Nagar. It was further alleged that on account of the missing of a file of a challani report u/s 151 Cr.P.C. the applicant Ram Avtar Gupta, posted as S.D.M., badly humiliated the father of the first informant and on account of the same his father committed suicide. A suicide note was also found near the body. It was further stated in the F.I.R. that when his father came back from the office he was in a depressed state of sombre dejection. The father thereafter went out on a stroll but did not return back. A missing report was thereafter lodged and during the said period, a body was found hanging at the Kazipur cremation ground.

10. So far as the contention raised by the applicant's counsel about the absence of direct evidence is concerned, any fact can be proved both by direct evidence as well as indirect circumstantial evidence. Abetment is also an offence which is provable by circumstantial evidence. There may be cases where somebody's misbehaviour may be such that the other person who has been misbehaved with should not be expected to take the extreme step of committing suicide. But there may be cases where the nature of ill-treatment meted out to a person, the constancy of humiliation to which the other person has been subjected to, and the continuation of ill-treatment towards that person may be so extreme that even a normal self-respecting person having normal levels of sensitivity may be driven to commit suicide. If in a given case we find material to indicate that it is not a case where taking of the extreme step by the deceased may be attributed to any ultra sensitivity of mind and where taking the extreme step may not be said to be unexpectedly disproportionate overreaction of the deceased, the Court may find reason to hold that such kind of incessant misbehaviour would be tantamount to instigation and abetment. The court finds substance in the contention raised by learned A.G.A. when he submitted that in the definition of Section 498A I.P.C. such kind of ill-treatment finds its mention in so many words and the same has been made punishable. The reading of the definition would indicate that there may be such ill-treatment or cruelty committed against a person which may likely lead or drive that man to commit suicide. The act of abement may be direct and it can also be indirect in a particular case. So far as the allegations of the present case are concerned, we find in the material collected through investigation that there has been a history of continuation of misbehaviour on the part of the accused against the deceased. We find in the material the instances where the deceased was deflated and humiliated in public gaze for no fault of him. We also find in the material allegations which indicate that the accused himself would create a situation where the files would become untraceable and yet he would put the entire blame on the deceased and would flay him for no fault committed by him. The accused is said to have been in the habit of indulging in such kind of conduct often for reasons best known to him when he would target the deceased and would make false accusations against him despite all his innocence. The accused was a much higher officer and it was well naïve impossible for the deceased to have resisted or protested against him. He was a poor constable and there was hardly any other option for him than to keep on swallowing the bitter punches of such frequent deriding slights and put up with this harassment helplessly. There is nothing on record to indicate that the deceased was an insane person or was having any abnormal psyche. We have no reason to attribute any such abnormalities to him. A person may be placed higher in the executive hierarchy and the other person may be an humble employee but everybody has his own dignity and has also a right to preserve the same. The dignity of a poor man is just as honorable as the dignity of the powerfull and the mighty. The unbridled arrogance on the part of the accused-applicant and his reckless misbehaviour with his subordinate appears to have continued in such a manner that the poor deceased felt driven to eliminate his life.

11. Attention of the Court has been drawn on the suicide note along with the report of forensic expert which confirms the fact that the said suicide note has been written in his own handwriting. The attention of the court has also been drawn on the statements of the first informant Arvind Kumar as well as Shubham who are the sons of the deceased recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. In their statements there is a detailed narrative of expressions which have been communicated by the deceased which shows that the deceased was being badly humiliated by the applicant. Attention has also been drawn to the statement of other witnesses who are the lawyers of the court practising in the court of S.D.M., who have categorically stated that they have seen the highhanded humiliation which had been inflicted by the applicant. From the statements it is also apparent that the deceased had already provided the file to the accused-applicant but since the accused was not inclined to grant bail and therefore asked the deceased to provide for the file. When the deceased stated the truth then the applicant started badly humiliating the deceased which was the cause of his depression and for taking such extreme step. Allegations are to the effect that the accused used to act in a very calculative manner and is said to have indulged in insalubrious activity of displacing the file himself deliberately in order to deprive certain accused of a given case from obtaining bail. But in order to keep his image clean he would make the deceased an scapegoat putting the entire blame on him for misplacing the file. We also find from the record allegations indicating that the misconduct of the accused was deliberate and intensely pungent showing no concern for his subordinate's dignity which became too much for the deceased to endure. On the fateful day the sting of humiliation appear to have proved to be the last straw on the camel's back and the deceased buckled under its pressure and put an end to his life. From the material which has been brought on record, it cannot be said that no case is made out against the applicant. However, argument on the point of charge can be more elaborately addressed at the time of framing of charge when it arrives.

12. The submissions made by the applicant's learned counsel call for adjudication on pure questions of fact which may be adequately adjudicated upon only by the trial court and while doing so even the submissions made on points of law can also be more appropriately gone into by the trial court in this case. This Court does not deem it proper, and therefore cannot be persuaded to have a pre-trial before the actual trial begins. A threadbare discussion of various facts and circumstances, as they emerge from the allegations made against the accused, is being purposely avoided by the Court for the reason, lest the same might cause any prejudice to either side during trial. But it shall suffice to observe that the perusal of the F.I.R. and the material collected by the Investigating Officer on the basis of which the charge sheet has been submitted makes out a prima facie case against the accused at this stage and there appear to be sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. I do not find any justification to quash the charge sheet or the proceedings against the applicant arising out of them as the case does not fall in any of the categories recognized by the Apex Court which may justify their quashing.

13. The prayer for quashing the same is refused as I do not see any abuse of the court's process either.

14. The application therefore cannot be allowed and stands dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Kumar Singh-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rakesh Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the applicants, Sri Rajendra Prasad, learned counsel for opposite party no.2, Sri G.P. Singh learned A.G.A. appearing for the State and perused the record.

2. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C has been moved with a prayer to quash the entire proceedings of Special Case No. 85 of 2017 (State vs. Sitaram and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 347 of 2016, under section 363, 366, 376 IPC and section 3/4 of POCSO Act, P.S. Samther, District Jhansi on the basis of compromise arrived at between the parties and also a prayer is made to stay the proceedings in this case till the disposal of this application.

3. From the side of the learned counsel for the applicant it is mentioned in the affidavit filed in support of the application that the accused-applicant no. 1 and opposite party no. 3 were in love with each other. The opposite party no. 3 is an illiterate lady and has never studied in any school, however, as per her personal knowledge, she was major in the year 2016. The accused-applicant no.1 and opposite party no. 3 would to solemnize their marriage with each other after consent of the family members but the family members of opposite party no. 3 were not ready to solemnize the marriage, hence the opposite party no. 3 left her parents' house of her own free will, where-after the opposite party no. 2 had lodged FIR against the applicants on 21.10.2016 which has been registered as Case Crime No. 347 of 2016 under section 363, 376, 506 IPC and section 8 of POCSO Act, P.S. Samther, District Jhansi. Pursuant to the said FIR, police recovered the opposite party no. 3 on 26.10.2016 and was given in custody of her parents and due to being in custody of her parents, under coercion of her parents, she has given statement under section 164 Cr.P.C. against the applicants but even in that statement she has not made any allegation of rape against the applicant. But despite that the police has filed charge-sheet against the applicant no.1 on 24.01.2017 and against the accused applicant nos. 2 and 3 on 31.03.2017 under sections 363, 376 IPC and section 8 POCSO Act. Later on in the year 2018, the family members of the applicants as well as the family members of the opposite party nos. 2 and 3 were ready to solemnize the marriage of the opposite party no. 3 with the applicant no.1 and accordingly, the same was solemnized in Shiva Adarsh Vivah Samiti, Rani Luxmi Bai Nagar on 12.4.2018, regarding which marriage certificate has been issued by the said institution on the same day, which is annexed as Annexure-4.Thereafter, the opposite party nos. 2 and 3 and the applicants entered into a compromise on 09.07.2019 to the effect that the opposite party nos. 2 and 3 do not want to pursue the criminal case against the applicants and would withdraw the said case, a compromise deed dated 09.07.2019 is annexed as Annexure-6. The trial court has taken cognizance over the charge-sheet because offence has been committed and bears Special Case No.85 of 2017 State vs. Sita Ram and others and till date no witness has been examined, which is revealed from the order sheet, copy of which is annexed as Annexure-7. Due to the compromise, there is no need to proceed further in this case as the applicant no. 1 and opposite party no. 3 are living happily as husband and wife and both the opposite party nos. 2 and 3 did not want to contest this case and therefore it was prayed that the proceedings of the case should be quashed.

4. From the side of opposite party no. 2, short counter affidavit has been filed on 14.10.2019, in paragraph no. 6 of the said affidavit, it has been mentioned by her that keeping the wishes of her daughter i.e. the opposite party no.3, the opposite party no. 2 later on became ready to solemnize the marriage of opposite party no. 3 with the accused-applicant no. 1 and with the interference of some respective family members of both the sides, marriage was performed on 12.04.2018 and further it is mentioned that she does not want to press the Special Case No. 85 of 2017 which is proceeding before the trial court under the abovementioned sections. The opposite party no. 3 has also filed short counter affidavit dated 14.10.2019 in which she has stated that the opposite party no. 3 is her mother and that due to being in love with the accused-applicant no. 1, she wanted to solemnize the marriage with him but the same was being opposed by the opposite party no. 2. Thereafter, opposite party no. 3 left her parental house by which opposite party no. 2 became annoyed and got the FIR registered against the accused-applicant on 21.10.2016. Both she as well as her mother have given wrong statement before the court below under section 164 Cr.P.C. Subsequently, the opposite party no. 2 became ready to solemnize her marriage with the accused-applicant no.1. Pursuant to which their marriage was performed on 12.04.2018 and now they are residing happily as husband and wife. She as well as opposite party no. 2 have entered into a compromise with the applicants on 09.07.2019, which is annexed as Annexure-1 to the short counter affidavit and that she does not want to press the Special Case No. 85 of 2017.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the judgment of Keral High Court passed in the case of Ashiq vs. State of Kerala 2019 2 KLT 1130, paragraph nos. 4 and 5 of this judgment which are as follows:

"4. It is by now well settled that grave and serious offences as the one under Sec.376 (rape) of the I.P.C. cannot be the subject matter of quashment of the impugned criminal proceedings on the ground of settlement between the accused and the victim. (see Shimbhu v. State of Haryana, [(2014) 13 SCC 318],Parbatbhai Aahir v. State of Gujarat, [(2017) 9 SCC 641], Anita Maria Dias v.State of Maharashtra, [(2018) 3 SCC 290], Sebastian @ Solly v. State of Kerala, [(2015) 1 KLJ 384). However, this Court has held in various decisions including the one as inFreddy @ Antony Francis v. State of Kerala, [2017 KHC 344 = 2018 (1) KLD 558) that the exception to the above approach could be in cases where the accused has married the defacto complainant and they have decided to settle all the disputes and for the predominant purpose of the welfare of the defacto complainant/victim, to ensure her better future life, it is only just and proper that this Court in exercise of the extra ordinary inherent powers under Sec.482 of the Cr.P.C. could quash the impugned criminal proceedings on the ground of settlement between the parties in cases where the accused has married the defacto complainant and the defacto complainant is insisting for quashment of the impugned criminal proceedings, etc."

"5. In the light of the abovesaid aspects, more particularly in the light of the submission made by the 2ndrespondent, this Court is inclined to consider the plea for quashment of impugned criminal proceedings as otherwise it will detrimentally affect the family life of 2ndrespondent (victim), and even the balance and harmony that could be achieved by them in the resolution of disputes that again be irrecoverably lost . It is in the light of these aspects that all further proceedings in the impugned Anx.A-1 final report/charge sheet filed in Crime No. 734/2014 of Binanipuram Police Station, which has now led to the institution of S.C. No. 533/2015 on the file of the Addl. Sessions Court (For the trial of cases relating to atrocities and sexual violation against women and children), Ernakulam, and all further proceedings taken in pursuance thereof against the petitioner (accused) will stand quashed. The petitioner will produce a certified copy of this order before the Sessions Court concerned and before the Investigating Officer concerned for necessary information."

6. Further, reliance has been placed by the learned counsel for the applicants on the judgment of Kerala High Court in the case of Freddy @ Antony Francis and others vs. State of Kerala, represented by the Public Prosecutor and others, 2018 1 KLD 558, paragraph nos. 7, 8 and 9 of which are as follows:

"7.The legal position with regard to quashing of proceedings on the basis of compromise between the parties is by now well settled. It has been held that the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal Court for compounding the offences under S.320 of the Code. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or FIR may be exercised where the offender and victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the Court will have to give due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. It is also settled that heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc., cannot quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offenses are not private in nature and have serious impact on society. The directions of the Apex Court in Gian Singh v. State of Punjab [(2012) 10 SCC 303] and inNarinder Singh v. State of Punjab[(2014) 6 SCC 466] serve as guiding lights."

8. In so far as the offence of rape is concerned, there cannot be any doubt that the same cannot be settled on the strength of a compromise arrived at between the victim and the accused. The Apex Court inState of M.P.v.Madan Lal((2015) 7 SCC 681), relying on the decision inShimbhuv.State of Haryana((2014) 13 SCC 318) has clearly reminded the Courts that rape is a non-compoundable offence and it is an offence against the society and is not a matter to be left for the parties to compromise and settle. This was because of the fact that the Court cannot always be assured that the consent given by the victim in compromising the case is a genuine consent. There is every chance that the victim might have been pressurised by the convicts or the trauma undergone by her all the years might have compelled her to opt for a compromise. In such cases, the accused may use all his influence to pressurise the victim for a compromise. It was taking note of this aspect that it was held that it would not be safe in considering the compromise arrived at between the parties in rape cases. InMadan Lal(supra) the Apex Court was hearing an appeal filed by the State against the Judgement of the High Court by which the conviction arrived at by the Trial Court was set aside on the basis of a compromise arrived at between the victim and the accused."

"9.It is borne out from the statement recorded by the Sub Inspector of Police of the 2ndpetitioner that the parties were in love and the Crime was registered when the 2ndpetitioner was under the impression that the 1stpetitioner would resile from his earlier promise. However, in view of the subsequent turn of events, she has realized that her apprehension was baseless. The parties are living together as husband and wife. There is no case for anyone that the dignity of the 2ndpetitioner was violated by a wanton act of the 1stpetitioner. This is not one of those cases wherein the allegations reek of extreme depravity, perversity or cruelty. It cannot be said that the offence in the instant case would fall in the category of offences that have a serious impact on society. In the peculiar facts of the instant case, grave hardship and inconvenience will be caused to the 2ndpetitioner, if the prosecution is permitted to continue. When the 2ndpetitioner has asserted that she is not desirous of prosecuting her husband any further, the prospects of an ultimate conviction is remote and bleak. Further more, the 2ndpetitioner can continue with her life with dignity and respect. Having considered all the relevant circumstances, I am of the considered view that this is a fit case in which this Court will be well justified in invoking its extra ordinary powers under Section 482 of the Code to quash the proceedings."

7. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the prayer for quashing of the proceedings and has also drawn the attention of the Court to the judgment of Apex Court rendered in Independent Thought vs. Union of India and another, (2017) 10 SCC 800, paragraph nos. 1 and 107 of which are as under:

"1.The issue before us is a limited but one of considerable public importance ? whether sexual intercourse between a man and his wife being a girl between 15 and 18 years of age is rape?

Exception 2 to Section 375 of the Penal Code, 1860 (IPC) answers this in the negative, but in our opinion sexual intercourse with a girl below 18 years of age is rape regardless of whether she is married or not. The Exception carved out in IPC creates an unnecessary and artificial distinction between a married girl child and an unmarried girl child and has no rational nexus with any unclear objective sought to be achieved. The artificial distinction is arbitrary and discriminatory and is definitely not in the best interest of the girl child. The artificial distinction is contrary to the philosophy and ethos of Article 15(3) of the Constitution as well as contrary to Article 21 of the Constitution and our commitments in international conventions. It is also contrary to the philosophy behind some statutes, the bodily integrity of the girl child and her reproductive choice. What is equally dreadful, the artificial distinction turns a blind eye to trafficking of the girl child and surely each one of us must discourage trafficking which is such a horrible social evil."

"107. On a complete assessment of the law and the documentary material, it appears that there are really five options before us: (i) To let the incongruity remain as it is? This does not seem a viable option to us, given that the lives of thousands of young girls are at stake; (ii) To strike down as unconstitutional Exception 2 to Section 375 of the IPC? in the present case W.P. (C) No. 382 of 2013 Page 68 this is also not a viable option since this relief was given up and no such issue was raised; (iii) To reduce the age of consent from 18 years to 15 years ? this too is not a viable option and would ultimately be for Parliament to decide; (iv) To bring the POCSO Act in consonance with Exception 2 to Section 375 of the IPC ? this is also not a viable option since it would require not only a retrograde amendment to the POCSO Act but also to several other pro-child statutes; (v) To read Exception 2 to Section 375 of the IPC in a purposive manner to make it in consonance with the POCSO Act, the spirit of other pro-child legislations and the human rights of a married girl child. Being purposive and harmonious constructionists, we are of opinion that this is the only pragmatic option available. Therefore, we are left with absolutely no other option but to harmonize the system of laws relating to children and require Exception 2 to Section 375 of the IPC to now be meaningfully read as: "Sexual intercourse or sexual acts by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under eighteen years of age, is not rape." It is only through this reading that the intent of social justice to the married girl child and the constitutional vision of the framers of our Constitution can be preserved and protected and perhaps given impetus."

8. It is also argued by the learned A.G.A. that as per FIR, the victim is below 18 years of age and hence she would be treated a child and therefore, the offence under section ¾ POCSO Act would stand made out apart from offence under section 376 IPC in view of position of law.

9. It is further argued by the learned A.G.A. that in the statement under section 164 Cr.P.C., which is annexed at page 28 of the paper book, she herself has stated her age to be 16 years, hence admittedly she was minor on the date of occurrence and she has further stated therein that in the night of 14.10.2016 at about 1.00-2.00 A.M. accused-applicant nos. 1, 2 and 3 came to her house and had forcibly taken her away after shutting her sister in a room and thereafter all of them had taken her to the house of Nata where she was kept in a room and she lived there for about 12 days. On 26.10.2016 the family members of the accused-applicant no. 1 had taken her away to Sharda temple, Moth and when they all were standing near the said temple, the police came there and took her away along with her family members to Police Station. Drawing the attention of the said statement made under section 164 Cr.P.C., it is argued by the learned A.G.A. that she has supported the prosecution version as given in the FIR and subsequently it is admitted by the applicants that she has married the accused-applicant no. 1 which is not permissible under law the victim being minor.

10. As regards compromise for offence under section 376 IPC, law laid-down by Supreme Court in Gian Singh vs. State of Punjab and another, 2012(10) SCC 303 specifically bars any compromise even if the parties have settled the matter, which is quoted herein below.

"61. The position that emerges from the above discussion can be summarised thus: the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal court for compounding the offences under Section 320 of the Code. Inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accord with the guideline engrafted in such power viz; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or F.I.R may be exercised where the offender and victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offences are not private in nature and have serious impact on society. Similarly, any compromise between the victim and offender in relation to the offences under special statutes like Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity etc; cannot provide for any basis for quashing criminal proceedings involving such offences. But the criminal cases having overwhelmingly and pre-dominatingly civil flavour stand on different footing for the purposes of quashing, particularly the offences arising from commercial, financial, mercantile, civil, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony relating to dowry, etc. or the family disputes where the wrong is basically private or personal in nature and the parties have resolved their entire dispute. In this category of cases, High Court may quash criminal proceedings if in its view, because of the compromise between the offender and victim, the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal case would put accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal case despite full and complete settlement and compromise with the victim. In other words, the High Court must consider whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceeding or continuation of the criminal proceeding would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and wrongdoer and whether to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that criminal case is put to an end and if the answer to the above question(s) is in affirmative, the High Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceeding."

11. The benefit of Ashiq's case (Supra), Freddy @ Antony Francis's case (Supra) may not be given due to the provisions of law cited above in Gian Singh's case (Supra) and Independent thought's case (Supra), which are the judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court.

12. In the present case, since the allegation made against the accused-applicant no. 1 is that of committing rape upon the victim as she being a minor and any physical relationship with the victim would fall in the category of rape in view of law cited above in Independent thought case. At this stage, it cannot be said that the offence alleged against the accused-applicant no. 1 is not made out prima-facie. The role of the other co-accused was also to the extent of having cooperated in the commission of the said offence. This Court does not deem it proper to make any interference in this case under inherent jurisdiction to quash the proceedings.

13. In view of the above, the application deserves to be dismissed and is accordingly dismissed.

14. However, the applicant may approach the trial court to seek discharge at appropriate stage, if so advised, and before the said forum, he may raise all the pleas which have been taken by him here. If such an application is moved, the same shall be disposed of without being influenced by the observation made by this Court.

15. The applicant shall appear before the court below within 30 days from today and may move an application for bail. If such an application is moved within the said time limit, the same would be disposed of in accordance with law. For a period of 30 days, no coercive action shall be taken against the accused-applicant in the aforesaid case. But if the accused does not appear before the court below, the court below shall take coercive steps to procure his attendance.

A. Code of Criminal Procedure - Section 319 - Summoning order-The Investigating Officer found the accused –applicant not present at the place of occurrence at the time of incident- Ignored by the trial court while summoning the accused-The trial court went by the depositions of the complainant and some other persons which was nothing more than reiteration of the statements made under Section 161 Cr.P.C. - The trial court was at least duty bound to look into the material collected during investigation while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether 'much stronger evidence than mere possibility of the applicant's complicity has come on record- No satisfaction of this nature has been recorded by the trial court while disposing of the application moved under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

List of cases cited: -

1. Hardeep Singh Vs. St. of Punj. & Ors., (2014) 3 SCC 92

2. Brijendra Singh & ors. Vs. St. of Raj.,(2017) 7 SCC 706

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Heard Counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The applicant by means of this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has invoked the inherent jurisdiction of this Court with a prayer to quash the order dated 25.9.2019 passed by the Addl. Sessions Judge Court no. 6, Aligarh in S.T. No. 191 of 2018 (State vs. Bhupendra and others), arising out of Case Crime no. 618 of 2017, under Sections 302 and 120B I.P.C., P.S. Khair, district-Aligarh, pending in the Court of Addl. sessions Judge Court no. 6, Aligarh.

3. The report of the incident was lodged by the opposite party no. 2, who is father of the deceased Sumit, alleging therein that on 19.10.2017 at about 6:00 p.m. when he was sitting with his family in his house, Govinda son of Jaipal Singh came to his house and asked his son to go to the field of Sukhbir near the canal. Thereafter he went away along with Sumit. Anil son of Jagdish Singh, Bhupendra son of Omvir Singh and Rupendra son of Rishi Om and two other persons were present at the occurrence site. Some hot talks were exchanged between them as there was previous enmity between them regarding litigations. between them. It is also mentioned in the FIR that when Sumit did not return to his house, then opposite party no. 2 went towards the field of Sukhbir along with Shailesh son of Ravendra Singh and Hariom son of Yogendra and when they reached near the field of Sukhbir, they heard noise of 'Bachao-Bachao' after hearing the noise they reached at the place of occurrence where accused persons were beating Sumit. When the complainant tried to save his son then accused persons fired at the complainant. It was also alleged that Anil caught hold his son Sumit and Bhupendra fired at Sumit. It was also mentioned in the FIR that after being hit from the gun shot his son was saying that Bhupendr, Anil along with Rupendra, Govinda and others had fired at him with firearm and when they were carrying the injured to Aligarh for treatment, in the way injured Sumit succumbed to injuries.

4. The police investigated the matter and after completion of investigation, the Investigating Officer has submitted chargesheet against co-accused Bhupendra, Rupendra and Govinda and present applicant along with two other were exonerated. It was mentioned int the chargesheet that Anil alias Anil Kumar and two other persons were not found at the place of occurrence at the time of incident.

5. The prosecution has moved an application under Section 193 Cr.P.C. with a prayer that cognizance of the offence against the applicant also be taken, which was rejected by the trial court vide order dated 27.7.2019. The evidence of the prosecution was commenced in the session trial and the evidence of PW1 Autesh Kumar and PW2 Shailesh @ Shilendra were recorded. Both the prosecution witnesses in their statements recorded during trial have stated that the complicity of the present accused Anil @ Anil Kumar in the murder of his son is apparent then an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. was moved, in which it has been stated that the present accused was named in the first information report and there was sufficient evidence against him but he was not chargesheeted during trial.

6. The trial court after hearing both the parties summoned the present accused along with other co-accused to face the trial vide impugned order dated 25.9.2019. Aggrieved from the impugned orde, the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed.

7. The contention of the counsel for the applicant is that the incident is alleged to have taken place on 19.10.2017 at about 6 p.m. and the FIR of the incident was lodged on 20.10.2017 at about 11:45 a.m. He next contended that there is no mention the crime number and the name of the accused persons in the panchayatnama. The injured was admitted to the hospital by driver Abdul Jabbar and it was mentioned that he died due to gun shot injuries. It is a blind murder, which was not seen by anybody and the chargesheeted accused persons have been falsely implicated. The applicant has been summoned on the basis of false evidence. The trial court has not considered the evidence which was collected by the police during investigation and on the basis of which the present applicant was exonerated and by not considering the evidence recorded by the police as ought to have been considered by the trial court. The manifest illegality and abuse of process has been committed by the trial court in summoning the accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

8. The further contention is that the evidence including the statements given before the court and the evidence collected by the Investigating Officer during investigation and while summoning the accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C., the evidence which has been collected during investigation also be considered.

9. On the other hand learned A.G.A. has submitted that the accused was summoned on the basis of the evidence recorded by the trial court during trial and the other material which is available before the trial court.

The Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that "The powers of the Court to proceed under Section 319 Cr.P.C. even against those persons who are not arraigned as accused, cannot be disputed. This provision is meant to achieve the objective that real culprit should not get away unpunished. A Constitution Bench of this Court in Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab & Ors., (2014) 3 SCC 92, explained the aforesaid purpose behind this provision in the following manner:

"8.The constitutional mandate under Articles 20 and 21 of the Constitution of India provides a protective umbrella for the smooth administration of justice making adequate provisions to ensure a fair and efficacious trial so that the accused does not get prejudiced after the law has been put into motion to try him for the offence but at the same time also gives equal protection to victims and to society at large to ensure that the guilty does not get away from the clutches of law. For the empowerment of the courts to ensure that the criminal administration of justice works properly, the law was appropriately codified and modified by the legislature under CrPC indicating as to how the courts should proceed in order to ultimately find out the truth so that an innocent does not get punished but at the same time, the guilty are brought to book under the law. It is these ideals as enshrined under the Constitution and our laws that have led to several decisions, whereby innovating methods and progressive tools have been forged to find out the real truth and to ensure that the guilty does not go unpunished.

12.Section 319 CrPC springs out of the doctrinejudex damnatur cum nocens absolvitur (Judge is condemned when guilty is acquitted) and this doctrine must be used as a beacon light while explaining the ambit and the spirit underlying the enactment of Section 319 CrPC.

13.It is the duty of the court to do justice by punishing the real culprit. Where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial. The question remains under what circumstances and at what stage should the court exercise its power as contemplated in Section 319 CrPC?

19.The court is the sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency. The desire to avoid trial is so strong that an accused makes efforts at times to get himself absolved even at the stage of investigation or inquiry even though he may be connected with the commission of the offence." It also goes without saying that Section 319 Cr.P.C., which is an enabling provision empowering the Court to take appropriate steps for proceeding against any person, not being an accused, can be exercised at any time after the charge-sheet is filed and before the pronouncement of the judgment, except during the stage of Section 207/208 Cr.P.C., the committal etc., which is only a pre-trial stage intended to put the process into motion."

In Hardeep Singh's case, the Constitution Bench has also settled the controversy on the issue as to whether the word 'evidence' used in Section 319(1) Cr.P.C. has been used in a comprehensive sense and indicates the evidence collected during investigation or the word 'evidence' is limited to the evidence recorded during trial. It is held that it is that material, after cognizance is taken by the Court, that is available to it while making an inquiry into or trying an offence, which the court can utilise or take into consideration for supporting reasons to summon any person on the basis of evidence adduced before the Court. The word 'evidence' has to be understood in its wider sense, both at the stage of trial and even at the stage of inquiry. It means that the power to proceed against any person after summoning him can be exercised on the basis of any such material as brought forth before it. At the same time, this Court cautioned that the duty and obligation of the Court becomes more onerous to invoke such powers consciously on such material after evidence has been led during trial. The Court also clarified that 'evidence' under Section 319 Cr.P.C. could even be examination-in-chief and the Court is not required to wait till such evidence is tested on cross-examination, as it is the satisfaction of the Court which can be gathered from the reasons recorded by the Court in respect of complicity of some other person(s) not facing trial in the offence.

The moot question, however, is the degree of satisfaction that is required for invoking the powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and the related question is as to in what situations this power should be exercised in respect of a person named in the FIR but not charge-sheeted. These two aspects were also specifically dealt with by the Constitution Bench in Hardeep Singh's case and answered in the following manner:

"95. At the time of taking cognizance, the court has to see whether a prima facie case is made out to proceed against the accused. Under Section 319 CrPC, though the test of prima facie case is the same, the degree of satisfaction that is required is much stricter. A two-Judge Bench of this Court inVikasv.State of Rajasthan[(2014) 3 SCC 321] , held that on theobjective satisfactionof the court a person may be "arrested" or "summoned", as the circumstances of the case may require, if it appears from the evidence that any such person not being the accused has committed an offence for which such person could be tried together with the already arraigned accused persons.

105. Power under Section 319 CrPC is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106.Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court, not necessarily tested on the anvil of cross-examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 CrPC. In Section 319 CrPC the purpose of providing if "it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence" is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused". The words used are not "for which such person could be convicted". There is, therefore, no scope for the court acting under Section 319 CrPC to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

In order to answer the question, some of the principles enunciated in Hardeep Singh's case may be recapitulated:

Power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised by the trial court at any stage during the trial, i.e., before the conclusion of trial, to summon any person as an accused and face the trial in the ongoing case, once the trial court finds that there is some 'evidence' against such a person on the basis of which evidence it can be gathered that he appears to be guilty of offence. The 'evidence' herein means the material that is brought before the Court during trial. Insofar as the material/evidence collected by the IO at the stage of inquiry is concerned, it can be utilised for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the Court to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. No doubt, such evidence that has surfaced in examination-in-chief, without cross- examination of witnesses, can also be taken into consideration. However, since it is a discretionary power given to the Court under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and is also an extraordinary one, same has to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrants. The degree of satisfaction is more than the degree which is warranted at the time of framing of the charges against others in respect of whom chargesheet was filed. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the Court that such power should be exercised. It is not to be exercised in a casual or a cavalier manner. The prima facie opinion which is to be formed requires stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity.

In para 14 and 15 of Brijendra Singh and others v. State of Rajasthan reported in (2017) 7 SCC 706, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that when we translate the aforesaid principles with their application to the facts of this case, we gather an impression that the trial court acted in a casual and cavalier manner in passing the summoning order against the appellants. The appellants were named in the FIR. Investigation was carried out by the police. On the basis of material collected during investigation, which has been referred to by us above, the IO found that these appellants were in Jaipur city when the incident took place in Kanaur, at a distance of 175 kms. The complainant and others who supported the version in the FIR regarding alleged presence of the appellants at the place of incident had also made statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the same effect. Notwithstanding the same, the police investigation revealed that the statements of these persons regarding the presence of the appellants at the place of occurrence was doubtful and did not inspire confidence, in view of the documentary and other evidence collected during the investigation, which depicted another story and clinchingly showed that appellants plea of alibi was correct.

Notwithstanding the same, the trial court went by the deposition of complainant and some other persons in their examination-in-chief, with no other material to support their so- called verbal/ocular version. Thus, the 'evidence' recorded during trial was nothing more than the statements which was already there under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded at the time of investigation of the case. No doubt, the trial court would be competent to exercise its power even on the basis of such statements recorded before it in examination-in-chief. However, in a case like the present where plethora of evidence was collected by the IO during investigation which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty bound to look into the same while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether

'much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (i.e. appellants) complicity has come on record. There is no satisfaction of this nature. Even if we presume that the trial court was not apprised of the same at the time when it passed the order (as the appellants were not on the scene at that time), what is more troubling is that even when this material on record was specifically brought to the notice of the High Court in the Revision Petition filed by the appellants, the High Court too blissfully ignored the said material. Except reproducing the discussion contained in the order of the trial court and expressing agreement therewith, nothing more has been done. Such orders cannot stand judicial scrutiny."

10. In this case the Investigating Officer has found that the accused Anil @ Anil Kumar was not present at the place of occurrence at the time of incident and that evidence has been ignored by the trial court while summoning the present accused and the trial court went by the depositions of the complainant and some other persons and the evidence recorded during trial was nothing more than the statements which were already there under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded at the time of investigation of the case. No doubt, the trial court would be competent to exercise its power even on the basis of such statements recorded before it in examination-in-chief. However, in a case like the present where plethora of evidence was collected by the IO during investigation which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty bound to look into the same while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether 'much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (i.e. appellants) complicity has come on record. No satisfaction of this nature has been recorded by the trial court while disposing of the application moved under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

11. The application is allowed and the order of summoning of applicant under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is set aside and in the interest of justice it is directed that the trial court shall pass order on the application moved under Section 319 Cr.P.C. after considering the evidence recorded by the trial court and considering the evidence which was collected by the Investigating Officer during investigation afresh.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. The applicant Amitabh Kumar Das, by means of this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., has invoked the inherent jurisdiction of the Court with prayer to quash the entire proceeding of Case No. 4026 of 2017, based on cahrge-sheet dated 16.8.2016, arising out of case crime No. 551 of 2017, for an offence unde Sections 420, 406 IPC, P.S. Nai Mandi, District Muzaffar Nagar, pending in the curt of Special Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar.

2. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant argued that no ingredients of offence required to constitute offence punishable under Section 420 and 406 of IPC, were made out. Even then, charge-sheet has been filed whereas it was a transaction based on the basis of mutual understanding, by way of memorandum of understanding, wherein terms and conditions were mentioned. Subsequently, informant-complainant withdrew from above business by way of mutual settlement and due amount of Rs 52 lacs were paid by applicant. But under coercion amount was raised 1.24 crores and cheques were taken in blank for rest of amount and for this a case for offence punishable under Section 138 of N.I. Act has been filed and is pending whereas much before this alleged report as well as filing of complaint, the applicant started making payment back for the amount and he paid back Rs. 52 lacs. Hence, there was no mensrea or aim of deceit since the beginning of business or criminal breach of trust. Moreso, Apex Court in G. Sagar Suri and another Vs. State of U.P. and others, (2000) 2 SCC 636 and Sunil Kumar Vs. Excorts Yamaha Motors Ltd. and others, (1999) 8 SCC 468, has propounded that once a complaint case has been filed for offence punishable under Section 138 of N.I. Act, subsequently, for the same transaction, if case is being filed for offences punishable under Sections 420, 406 I.P.C., then certainly, this is a misuse of process of law because it is to coerce for ensuring payment in a case under N.I. Act. Hence, High Court is well within jurisdiction to quash this proceeding.

4. Learned counsel for the opposite party No. 2 argued that it was a case wherein deceit was since the beginning. Amitabh Kumar Das entered in friendship with son of complainant-informant i.e. Devendra Kumar. He came Muzaffar Nagar, he showed his business plan with deceitful assurance for return under his persuasion, complainant, who is retired

Professor and Member of U.P. Higher Education Commission and his son Devendra Kumar invested huge amount under trust of return of same by accused but he proved to be non performer of his promise. Then informant's son withdrew himself with a request for making his settlement clear. Applicant entered in settlement whereupon 1.24 crores liability existed but he made payment of Rs. 52 lacs only, for rest amount he has deposited 15 cheques and he made conversation for making payment by way of depositing the same as per his request. Cheques were deposited but dishonoured. This too, was conspiracy and deceitful act, for which subsequent offence punishable under Section 138 of N.I. Act was made out and complaint for same was filed and is still pending but the offence which was committed since the beginning by inducing for payment of such a huge amount under deceitful assurance punishable under Section 420 of IPC, was since the beginning of transaction and as money paid under the trust of its return, was not paid back deliberately with malice. Hence, it was criminal breach of trust punishable under Section 406 of IPC, for which a police report under Section 173 of Cr.P.C. has been filed and cognizance for it taken. There is judgement of Apex Court in 2012 LawSuit (SC) 236 Sangeetaben Mahendrabhai Patel Vs. State of Gujrat and another as well as a judgment in Criminal Appeal No. 255 of 2019 (Arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 7513 of 2014) Sau. Kamal Sivaji Pokarnekar Vs. The State of Maharashra and others, wherein Apex Court has propounded that civil liability and offence punishable regarding it under Section 420 and 406 of I.P.C. may run concurrently beside being a proceeding pending. Hence, dishonour of cheque and this under conspiracy was there, for which specific offence of Section 138 of N.I. Act made out, for which cognizance have been taken and case is pending but the offence of deceit and cheating since the beginning of this transaction under fraudulent assurance for investing money and getting return in a business plan, which was deceitful since the beginning and thereby invested such huge amount and then after breach of trust under Section 420 and 406 of IPC, was offence, which was other than offence punishable under Section 138 of N.I. Act. Hence, both proceeding were for those two offences. Moreso, this Court in exercise of inherent power power under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., is not expected to make analytical analysis of evidence and fact of the case because the same is within the domain of trial Court and is question of trial, to be seen during trial. Hence, this proceeding be dismissed.

5. Learned AGA has vehemently opposed the above prayer.

6. Having heard learned counsel for both sides and gone through the material placed on record, it is apparent that First Information Report of Case Crime No. 551 of 2017, for offence punishable under Sections 406 and 420 of I.P.C. was filed by Dr. Dharampal Singh against Amitabh Kumar Das. Subsequently, it became a business with no assurance, when Devendra Kumar along with and demanded back his money, which was said to be of 1.24 crores, then a cash of Rs. 52 lacs were paid back to Devendra Kumar and it was said that for remaining amount 15 cheques were delivered but those cheques were dishonoured, for which criminal case for offence punishable under Section 138 of N.I. Act, is pending. But, for the offence of deceit and cheating punishable under Section 420 of I.P.C. and criminal breach of trust under section 406 of I.P.C. is there. This investigation resulted in submission of charge-sheet, over which cognizance was taken by Magistrate concerned. For this Criminal case the accusation is of deceit since the beginning of transaction i.e. under fraudulent plan, this was acted upon by Amitabh Kumar Das and investigation has resulted in submission of charge-sheet. Payment of Rs. 52 lacs has been accepted by learned counsel for the applicant. Rest of amount is disputed but dues of Rs. 52 lacs were said to be there and this amount was paid since 2015 to 2017, whereas communication in between both sides, has been appended as a part of affidavit, from which it is apparent that rest of amount were also assured to be paid on deposit of cheque. Though, it is a question of fact to be seen and analysed by trial Court and this Court in exercise of inherent power power under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., is not expected to analyse analytically the facts and factual matrix of case because the same is to be seen by trial Court. At the stage of summoning or taking cognizance over a police report, Magistrate has gone through evidence collected by I.O. and on the basis of it, cognizance has been taken. Accused has been summoned for offence punishable under Sections 406 and 420 I.P.C. Those facts is not to be interfered by this Court in exercise of above inherent jurisdiction rather it is Magistrate to see through the course of trial.

7. This Court in exercise of inherent , as the same is the question before trial court. has held as under:-

8. Apex Court in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Gaurishetty Mahesh, JT 2010 (6) SC 588: (2010) 6 SCALE 767: 2010 Cr. LJ 3844 has propounded that "While exercising jurisdiction under section 482 of the Code, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable apprehension of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of the trial Judge/Court". In another subsequent Hamida v. Rashid, (2008) 1 SCC 474, hon'ble Apex Court propounded that "Ends of justice would be better served if valuable time of the Court is spent in hearing those appeals rather than entertaining petitions under Section 482 at an interlocutory stage which after filed with some oblique motive in order to circumvent the prescribed procedure, or to delay the trial which enable to win over the witness or may disinterested in giving evidence, ultimately resulting in miscarriage of Justice". In again another subsequent Monica Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2008) 8 SCC 781, the Apex Court has propounded "Inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself." While interpreting this jurisdiction of High Court Apex Court in Popular Muthiah v. State, Represented by Inspector of Police, (2006) 7 SCC 296 has propounded "High Court can exercise jurisdiction suo motu in the interest of justice. It can do so while exercising other jurisdictions such as appellate or revisional jurisdiction. No formal application for invoking inherent jurisdiction is necessary. Inherent jurisdiction can be exercised in respect of substantive as well as procedural matters. It can as well be exercised in respect of incidental or supplemental power irrespective of nature of proceedings".

Regarding prevention of abuse of process of Court, Apex Court in Dhanlakshmi v. R.Prasana Kumar, (1990) Cr LJ 320 (DB): AIR 1990 SC 494 has propounded "To prevent abuse of the process of the Court, High Court in exercise of its inherent powers under section 482 could quash the proceedings but there would be justification for interference only when the complaint did not disclose any offence or was frivolous vexatious or oppressive" as well as in State of Bihar v. Murad Ali Khan, (1989) Cr LJ 1005: AIR 1989 SC 1*, Apex Court propounded "In exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 High Court would not embark upon an enquiry whether the allegations in the complaint are likely to be established by evidence or not".*

9. Meaning thereby, exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is within the limits, propounded as above. The impugned order was well based on evidence and facts collected by Magistrate in its enquiry. There seems to be no misuse of process of law. Hence, this proceeding merits its dismissal.

10. Dismissed, accordingly.

1. Heard Sri Brajesh Sahai, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Vimlendu Tripathi, Sri Andleeb Naqvi, Sri Bhavya Sahai, learned counsels for the applicant, Sri Anoop Trivedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Santosh Kumar Yadav, Sri Pradeep Kumar, counsel for opposite party no. 2 and Sri Vinod Kant, learned Additional Advocate General as well as learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material available on record.

2. The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed for quashing the summoning and cognizance order dated 3.1.2019 passed by learned A.C.J.M.-II, Budaun and supplementary Charge-sheet No.163A dated 5.12.2018 in Case No.410 of 2014, arising out of Case Crime No.443 of 2013, under Sections 363, 366, 376 I.P.C., Police Station-Sehaswan, District- Budaun, pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-II, Budaun as well as all consequential proceedings.

3. Be it noted, at this juncture as is observed in the order dated 21.11.2019 that since the learned Senior counsel appearing for opposite party no.2, learned Additional Advocate General and learned Additional Government Advocate have categorically stated that they do not intend to file any response/counter affidavit in the present application and therefore, the averments made in the application stands unrebutted and the Court is left with no other option but to accept the averments made in the application as it is to be correct on its face value.

4. The brief facts leading to the present application are that the opposite party no.2, Bhagwan Singh, who is Yadav by caste lodged a first information report on 28.6.2013 at 4:45 P.M. with the allegations that his daughter/victim R (name not being disclosed) aged about 12 years and student of class 6th had come home from her paternal grandfather's house to spend summer holidays. On 23.6.2013 at about 6 P.M. his daughter went to attend call of nature where from she was enticed away by her cousin brother, Sukhpal, real sister of Sukhpal namley Smt. Chetaniya, Jaiwahan husband of Chetaniya, Shyam Singh brother of Sukhpal after enticing and terrorising her kidnapped her. When she did not return home for long, a frantic search was made and the first informant was told by persons of his village namely Durgesh and Chote that aforesaid five named accused have been seen taking his daughter along with them. Subsequently, victim R and four others filed a Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.15345 of 2013 (Smt. Rinki and 4 others vs. State of U.P. And 2 others) before this Court and vide order dated 31.7.2013 the Court stayed the arrest of named accused. The said writ peition was however dismissed as infructuous vide order dated 1.5.2014 as the charge-sheet was laid against Sukhpal for kidnapping a minor girl. Be it noted that the other named accused who are closely related to Sukhpal were exonerated during investigation.

5. It is pertinent to mention here that the applicant and other co-accused are neither named in the first information report nor any suspicion was laid on them, however, pursuant to the orders of the Court in the aforesaid writ petition the statement of the victim was recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. On 22.8.2013 wherein she has stated that she loved Sukhpal and had gone with him and got married in a temple at Ghaziabad where they started leading a married life as husband and wife. There she met one Ajay Katara and he took both of them to Ashok Vatika Sahibabad where he raped her. She has also stated that Sukhpal had made physical relations with her consent. It is also pertinent to note here that the victim did not disclose any date and time of the alleged rape by Ajay Katara and besides him she did not state that anyone else had also raped her. The parentage and residence of Ajay Katara was also not disclosed. She and Sukhpal somehow escaped from there.

6. The victim was produced before the C.J.M. for recording her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. On the same day in which she has made several improvements and has stated that she has left her studies about 5-6 years back and was staying at her Nanihal and has come to her village (no date disclosed). Then she called co-accused Sukhpal to Sahaswan and on the pretext of attending call of nature, she came to Sahaswan and from there she went to Ghaziabad and when she got down at the bus stand she met three persons in a white car who asked them as to why they are roaming about. Then they told them that in fact they have run away from their house on being annoyed by the family members then these three persons said that they will help her though they do not know them, out of which one of them said "ये अजय कटारा बैठे हैं, ये सभी की मदद करते हैं तभी उन लोगों ने मुझे व सुखपाल को अपने साथ गाड़ी में बिठा लिया और चल दिये तथा सुखपाल को रास्ते में गाड़ी से उतार दिया तथा मुझे लेकर साहिबाबाद अशोक वाटिका में एक मकान में ले गये वहाँ पर अजय कटारा व उनके दो साथी मेरे साथ शराब पीकर मेरे साथ बुरा काम करते थे व आपस में नाम जयवीर और जोगेन्द्र लेते थे उन्होने मुझे आठ दिन तक रखा और मुझे जान से मारने की धमकी देकर गाजियाबाद अड्डे पर छोड़ गये वहीं सुखपाल मिला और हम दोनों इलाहाबाद चले गये तथा वहाँ पर पेश हुए। यही मेरा बयान है।" Based on the statement of the victim the case was converted under Section 376 I.P.C. at P.S. Sahaswan, district Budaun, be it noted that no F.I.R. was lodged at P.S. Sahibabad, district Ghaziabad either by the victim or Sukhpal. However, on 6.10.2013 the Investigating Officer finding that the victim is minor filed charge-sheet no.163 of 2013 against Sukhpal under Sections 363, 366 I.P.C. while exonerating remaining four named accused persons that their complicity has been found false and it is noted in the said charge-sheet that the investigation against the accused whose names were disclosed by the victim is going on.

7. At this juncture, it is significant to mention here that as the parentage and residence of the accused were not disclosed by the victim and Sukhpal who though has now been made a witness in the impugned charge-sheet. After thorough investigation vide SCD No.1 dated 20.12.2013 the investigation against Ajay Katara and two other persons was closed due to incomplete details of the accused named by the victim and they could also not be found in the area where the victim was allegedly raped and the Investigating Officer has also noted that there does not appear any possibility of being traced in near future and thus closed the investigation. The said Parcha of the case diary has been appended as Annexure-11 to the affidavit. On the charge-sheet against Sukhpal under Sections 363, 366 I.P.C. cognizance was taken by A.C.J.M., 2nd on 29.3.2014. The certified copy of the charge-sheet has been annexed as Annexure-9 to the affidavit.

8. It is interesting to note that the aforesaid charge-sheet was challenged by Sukhpal in Criminal Misc. Application (U/s 482 Cr.P.C.) No.24560 of 2014 and the Court stayed further proceedings of Case Crime No.410 of 2014 (State vs. Sukhpal and others) until further orders vide order dated 11.7.2014. The said application is still sub judice before the Court.

9. Be it noted, that after the closure of investigation against the accused whose names were introduced with some ulterior purpose in the year 2013 itself, no protest petition or any objection was filed by opposite party no.2 or victim. However, after a gap of five years i.e. on 20.6.2018 the victim personally moved an application before A.J.C.M-IInd, Badaun in Case No.410 of 2014, under Sections 363, 366 I.P.C. that she has disclosed the names of accused persons in her statement under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. but the police has not taken any steps to arrest them and therefore S.H.O. Sahaswan be directed to arrest the accused and put them to trial. In this respect a report was called and the court was apprised that further proceedings of Case No.410 of 2014 have been stayed until further orders in Criminal Misc. Application (U/s 482 Cr.P.C.) No.24560 of 2014 and thus vide order dated 10.7.2018 the application of the victim was rejected in view of the stay orders of the Court. The victim being aggrieved preferred a Criminal Misc. Application (482 Cr.P.C.) No.25888 of 2018 (Smt. Rinki vs. State of U.P. and another) before this Court wherein the order of the Magistrate dated 10.7.2018 was set-aside and a direction for investigation to be carried out by the police in this regard was given and the matter was remitted to the learned court to decide the application of the victim afresh and directed the Magistrate to ensure that the investigation against those accused for offence under Section 376 I.P.C. is taken to its logical end strictly in accordance with law within a time bound manner. Thus, the application was disposed of vide order dated 1.8.2018.

10. Pursuant to the aforesaid order, the investigation was reopened after more than five years on 3.9.2018 and the Investigating Officer claims to have visited the place of victim in District Badaun and took her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and also of her husband, Sukhpal. For ready reference it is germane to reproduce the statement of the victim recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and in this behalf affidavits were also filed by the victim and her husband, Sukhpal. The relevant part of the statement is quoted as under:-

''मैंने अपने गॉव से सुखपाल को फोन किया कि तुम सहसवान आ जाओ तब मैं घर से शौच के बहाने घर से निकल कर सहसवान आयी और वहॉ से रोडवेज में बैठकर गाजियाबाद पहुॅची। वहॉ पर बस अड्डे पर उतरकर बाहर आये तो एक सफेद गाडी में तीन आदमी मिले उन्होंने हम लोगों को देखकर कहा कि कहॉ से आये हो और यहॉ कैसे घूम रहे हो तब हम लोगों ने उनसे कहा कि हम लोग घर से नाराज होकर आये है। तब इन तीनों ने हम लोगों से कहा कि हम लोग तुम्हारी मदद करेंगे। उनमें से एक ने कहा कि मेरा नाम अजय कटारा है। मैं सबकी मदद करते हैं। तब हम दोनों विश्वास में आ गये। और हम दोनों को गाडी में बैठा लिया और चल दिये तब रास्ते में सुखपाल को गाडी से उतार दिया तथा मुझे साहिबाबाद अशोक वाटिका में एक मकान में रखा वहॉ अजय कटारा व उसके साथियों ने मेरे साथ

शराब पीकर बुरा काम किया करते थे। मुझे वहॉ आठ दिन रखा मुझे जान से मारने की धमकी देते थे। और आपस में एक दूसरे जयवीर, योगेन्द्र नाम लेते थे। उसके बाद मुझे गाजियाबाद बस अड्डे पर छोड गये साहब वहॉ मुझे सुखपाल मिला तब हम दोनों इलाहाबाद चले गये। साहब हम दोनों ने अपनी मर्जी के शादी कर ली और पति पत्नी के रूप में रह रहे हैं। साहब हम दोनों से 02 बच्चे भी हैं। साहब मेरे पति ने गाजियाबाद जाकर जिन्होंने मेरे साथ गलत काम किया है। उनका नाम पता सब जानकारी कर ली है। इस सम्बन्ध में ैच बदायूँ को शपथ पत्र दिये है। जो डाक से थाने में पहुॅच गये होंगे। साहब यही मेरा बयान है।''

11. Even in this statement, the victim has not stated as to how and from whom she came to know the parentage and residence of the applicant and other accused. Even in the subsequent statement, neither any date nor time has been disclosed by her. It is quite vague in itself. The relevant part of the statement of Sukhpal recorded on 8.10.2018 is quoted as under:-

"सुखपाल पुत्र रिषीपाल निवासी गूदरागंज थाना उझानी जिला बदायूँ हाल पता रैसी का नगला थाना कादर चौक जिला बदायूँ ने पूछने पर बताया कि साहब मेरे गांव से रिंकी पुत्र भगवान सिंह अपने नाना विजय सिंह के यहॉ रहती थी। मुझे उससे प्यार हो गया। हम लोग छुप छुप के मिलते रहते थे। उसके बाद रिंकी अपने गॉव मुडारी सिधारपुर चली गयी। वहॉ से मुझे फोन करती थी। एक दिन फोन करके मुझे सहसवान बुलाया और कहा कि मैं सहसवान आती हूँ। और यहॉ से भाग चलते हैं। तब साहब मैं सहसवान आया जहॉ मुझे रिंकी मिली तब हम दोनों रोडवेज में बैठकर गाजियाबाद पहुॅचे वहॉ बस से उतरकर बैठे थे तभी तीन लोग एक सफेद गाडी से आये और हम दोनों से पूछा कहॉ से आये हो तब हम दोनों ने कहा कि हम दोनों घर से नाराज होकर आये है। तब एक व्यक्ति ने अपना नाम अजय कटारा बताया कि हम लोग तुम्हारी मदद करते हैं। और गाडी में बैठाकर चल दिये उसके बाद रास्ते में मुझे गाडी से उतार दिया और रिंकी को लेकर चले गये। मुझे साहिबाबाद में पेट्रोल पम्प के पास एक मकान में बन्द कर दिया। उसके बाद 8 दिन बाद मुझे बस अड्डे पर छोडा। वहॉ मुझे रिंकी मिली तब रिंकी ने मुझे बताया कि तीनों ने मेरे साथ शराब पीकर बुरा काम किया। तब हम दोनों इलाहाबाद चले गये वहॉ मैंने कार्यवाही की। साहब हम दोनों ने शादी कर ली है। 2 बच्चे भी हैं। साहब गाजियाबाद में जिन लोगों ने मेरी पत्नी के साथ शराब पीकर बुरा काम किया उसकी मैंने पूरी जानकारी कर ली है। और ैच साहब से मैंने अपना व अपनी पत्नी का शपथ पत्र दिया है। साहब यही मेरी बयान है।"

12. Solely on the basis of statements of the victim, her husband (though facing charge of kidnapping) and their affidavits, the applicant and other co-accused have been charge-sheeted vide impugned charge-sheet dated 5.12.2018. The Investigating Officer has noted as under:-

13. I may record once again at the cost of repetition that aforesaid facts have not been disputed either by the learned Senior Advocate appearing for opposite party no.2 or by the State.

14. Sri Vimlendu Tripathi, learned counsel appearing on behalf of applicant has argued that it is a classic case of false implication and of no evidence against the applicant as the applicant was a star witness in famous Nitish Katara murder case in which the known criminal and politician of Uttar Pradesh and sons of Sri D.P. Yadav namely Vikas Yadav and his nephew Vihsal Yadav were involved and were ultimately convicted for murder of Nitish Katara and sentenced to life imprisonment by the trial court. Their conviction was upheld by the High Court of Delhi by awarding fixed terms of 30 years without remission, which was upheld in an appeal before the Hon'ble Supreme Court. It has been argued that in fact the applicant is paying the price for speaking the truth in the court of law and helping in administration of justice by deposing truthful substantive evidence against the accused in the aforesaid murder case and the applicant was a star witness as all other witnesses of fact had turned hostile on account of threat, intimidation and coercion of Sri D.P. Yadav and his henchmen. Thereafter, the applicant was falsely implicated in several cases at the instance of Sri D.P. Yadav which have been detailed in Para 4 of the affidavit and the same stands unrebutted as on date. The applicant apprehending serious danger to his life was even provided four police armed guards since 25.4.2002 on account of increased threat perceptions.

15. Sri Tripathi has further argued that the present case is a classic example of abuse of process of court and miscarriage of justice as is apparent on the face of record and the following undisputed facts establishing falsehood of allegation and the ground for quashing the proceedings may be taken into account by the court while exercising the inherent power conferred under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and the same are quoted as under:-

a) The case relates to district Budaun regarding incident of elopement of alleged victim R with her boyfriend on 23.6.2013, wherein the name of applicant does not come into picture for next two months and was introduced for the first time in the statement of victim R under Section 161 Cr.P.C. On 22.8.2013 by introducing an improbable incident of District Ghaziabad.

b) The allegations about the alleged incident of district Ghaziabad could not be included into the Case Crime No.443 of 2013 (criminal case in question) registered for alleged incident of district Budaun, in view of the fact that both alleged incidents/offences are neither continuing offences nor relate to each other so as to make a series of same transaction and investigation about the alleged incident of district Ghaziabad is absolutely illegal.

c) The story relating to Ghaziabad incident is highly improbable, as there was no occasion for the alleged victim R and her boy friend to accompany a stranger in an entirely new city of Ghaziabad on mere asking for help by such stranger without disclosing time, date and exact place of gang-rape upon the victim.

d) Despite allegation of kidnapping of alleged victim R in district Ghaziabad in presence of her boyfriend and despite allegation of retaining the girl for a long period of eight days, no separate report was lodged in district Ghaziabad or any information was given to any authority.

e) Had the allegation of kidnapping of alleged victim R in district Ghaziabad been true to any sense, her boy friend who allegedly did not know the applicant personally would have certainly run pillar to post to save his girl friend in natural course of events under the situation/script played framed by the alleged victim R regarding the incident of Ghaziabad.

f) There is no investigation as to how a person having 24x7 police security would commit such a crime.

g) There is no investigation as to how an allegation for offence under section 363/366 I.P.C. against Sukhpal and his family members connected with district Budaun can have any nexus with the allegation of rape by the applicant in district Ghaziabad.

h) The entire investigation in the case in hand, which relates to the applicant, is perfunctory and is a sham process, in which the I.O. didn't bother to verify any of the allegations levelled against the applicant by collecting any corroborative material/evidence.

i) There is no reason shown as to why Victim R personally moved an application on 20.06.18 i.e., after a gap of five years, for arrest of applicant and two other persons.

j) The applicant does not know the alleged co-accused Jaiveer son of Naththu and Jogendra son of Ram Singh, who have also been charge-sheeted along with him in the impugned charge-sheet. The address of applicant has been shown as address of these two persons also. The I.O. didn 't bother to collect any information about identity of co-accused Jaiveer and Jogendra when none of the added accused were put up for identification in order to fix their identity.

k) lt appears to the applicant that these two persons are non-existent and are fake persons and these two persons have been introduced in the case in hand just to give strength to the false allegations of rape levelled against the applicant. The applicant was, however, not put up for identification to fix his identity by the victim or her alleged husband throughout the investigation.

l) The malafide behind the allegations against the applicant is writ large in view of factual backdrop of the status of applicant, his admitted enmity with Vikas Yadav and Vishal Yadav (the son and nephew respectively of D.P. Yadav), the history of his false implication in as many as twenty four (24) criminal cases, wherein either final report was submitted by the local police in favour of applicant or the case resulted into acquittal, or the proceedings have been stayed by the High Court.

16. Before dealing with present application, I would, in fact, like to record settled proposition of law of the land in respect of exercise of inherent powers of the Court.

17. Most importantly as noted by the Court, against the averments made by the applicant in the application, no response/counter affidavit whatsoever has been filed by the informant/opposite party no.2 inasmuch as learned Senior Advocate appearing for opposite party no.2, Sri Anoop Trivedi and Sri Vinod Kant Srivastava, learned Additional Advocate General flatly refused to file any response/counter affidavit to the averments made in the application, despite being repeatedly apprised by this Court to file response in rebuttal of the averments, otherwise the Court would be constrained to assume averments in the application as correct. Even during lengthy hearing, material relied upon by the applicant has not been refuted by the learned senior counsel appearing for the opposite party no.2 and the State.

18. Learned counsels appearing on behalf of opposite party no.2 have, however, placed reliance on the judgements rendered by this Court in Ram Dayal and others vs. State of U.P. And others [2019 (4) ADJ 404] and have submitted that the said judgment contains the entire law on the subject i.e. the powers of High Court to quash the proceedings in exercise of inherent power conferred under Section 482 Cr.P.C. I may record that the said judgment is compendium of most of the important judgments rendered by different High Courts and Apex Court and the ratios laid down therein as to under what facts and circumstances in exercise of inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. the proceedings arising out of the Charge-sheet or the complaint case can be quashed at the very threshold without affording an opportunity to the prosecution to lead evidence. It would be germane to quote Para 74 of the aforesaid judgment which is essentially the crux of the ratios laid down by the Apex Court in the judgments cited therein. The Paragraph 74 is quoted as under:-

"74. Thus, the only question which survives for consideration is whether this Court in exercise of its jurisdiction, under section 482 Cr.P.C. can weigh the testimony of a witness even when a full fledged trial is yet to take place. The issue so involved is no longer res-integra and stands considered by the Apex Court in the case of State of Orissa and Another Vs. Saroj Kumar Sahoo, reported in 2005 (13) SCC 540, wherein the following has been observed in paragraphs 10 and 11:-

"10. In dealing with the last category, it is important to bear in mind the distinction between a case where there is no legal evidence or where there is evidence which is clearly inconsistent with the accusations made, and a case where there is legal evidence which, on appreciation, may or may not support the accusations. When exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C., the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable appreciation of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of the trial Judge. Judicial process should not be an instrument of oppression, or, needless harassment. Court should be circumspect and judicious in exercising discretion and should take all relevant facts and circumstances into consideration before issuing process, lest it would be an instrument in the hands of a private complainant to unleash vendetta to harass any person needlessly. At the same time the section is not an instrument handed over to an accused to short-circuit a prosecution and bring about its sudden death. The scope of exercise of power under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. and the categories of cases where the High Court may exercise its power under it relating to cognizable offences to prevent abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice were set out in some detail by this Court in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, (1992) Supp 1 335. A note of caution was, however, added that the power should be exercised sparingly and that too in rarest of rare cases. The illustrative categories indicated by this Court are as follows:

"(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Cr.P.C. except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Cr.P.C.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Cr.P.C.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Cr.P.C. or the Act concerned (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Cr.P.C. or Act concerned, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

"11. As noted above, the powers possessed by the High Court under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. are very wide and the very plenitude of the power requires great caution in its exercise. Court must be careful to see that its decision in exercise of this power is based on sound principles. The inherent power should not be exercised to stifle a legitimate prosecution. The High Court being the highest court of a State should normally refrain from giving a prima facie decision in a case where the entire facts are incomplete and hazy, more so when the evidence has not been collected and produced before the Court and the issues involved, whether factual or legal, are of magnitude and cannot be seen in their true perspective without sufficient material. Of course, no hard and fast rule can be laid down in regard to cases in which the High Court will exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction of quashing the proceeding at any stage. (See: Janata Dal v. H. S. Chowdhary, [1992] 4 SCC 305, and Raghubir Saran (Dr.) v. State of Bihar, AIR (1964) SC 1). It would not be proper for the High Court to analyse the case of the complainant in the light of all probabilities in order to determine whether a conviction would be sustainable and on such premises arrive at a conclusion that the proceedings are to be quashed. It would be erroneous to assess the material before it and conclude that the complaint cannot be proceeded with. When an information is lodged at the police station and an offence is registered, then the mala fides of the informant would be of secondary importance. It is the material collected during the investigation and evidence led in court which decides the fate of the accused person. The allegations of mala fides against the informant are of no consequence and cannot by themselves be the basis for quashing the proceedings. (See: Dhanalakshmi v. R. Prasanna Kumar, [1990] Supp SCC 686, State of Bihar v. P. P. Sharma, AIR (1996) SC 309, Rupan Deol Bajaj v. Kanwar Pal Singh Gill, [1995] 6 SCC 194, State of Kerala v. O.C. Kuttan, AIR (1999) SC 1044, State of U.P. v. O.P. Sharma, [1996] 7 SCC 705, Rashmi Kumar v. Mahesh Kumar Bhada, [1997] 2 SCC 397, Satvinder Kaur v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi, AIR (1996) SC 2983 and Rajesh Bajaj v. State NCT of Delhil, [1999] 3 SCC 259)."

This Court while disposing of the application of the applicant for quashing the proceedings had observed in Para 75 that the Court is handicapped to examine the veracity of the statement of the prosecutrix as recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C. There is no such other impeccable evidence on the record on the basis of which this Court may discard the statement of the prosecutrix. It is for the trial court to weigh the statement of the prosecutrix in the light of the attending circumstances referred to above, and then arrive at its own conclusion as to whether the applicants are guilty or not.

19. Besides it, learned counsels for opposite party no.2 have relied on Kaleem and 04 others vs. State of U.P. And another 2019 LawSuit(All) 1513, Parbatbhai Aahir vs. State of Gujarat 2017 SCC OnLine SC 1189, State of Bihar vs. Rajendra Agrawal 1996 LawSuit (SC) 143, Mushtaq Ahmad vs. Mohd. Habibur Rehman Faizi 1996 LawSuit (SC) 230, State of U.P. vs. O.P. Sharma 1996 LawSuit (SC) 276, State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Pirthi Chand 1995 LawSuit (SC) 1177. The essence of arguments of learned counsels for opposite party no.2 is that the Court is not justified to embark upon an inquiry into reliability/genuineness of allegations made in the F.I.R. Or complaint and the extraordinary and inherent power did not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction to the Court to act according to its capricious way. There is absolutely no quarrel with the proposition of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the judgments cited from the other side, however, we cannot loose sight of the law in respect of precedent, is well settled that a little difference in facts or additional facts may make lot of difference in the precedential value of a decision. In Herrignton vs. British Railways Board (1972 (2) WLR) Lord Morris said:

"There is always peril in treating the words of a speech or a judgment as though they were words in a legislative enactment, and it is to be remembered that judicial utterances are made in the setting of the facts of a particular case.

Circumstantial flexibility, one additional or different fact may make a world of difference between conclusions in two cases. Disposal of cases by blindly placing reliance on a decision is not proper. The following words of Lord Denning in the matter of applying precedents have become locus classicus:

Each case depends on its own facts and a close similarity between one case and another is not enough because even a single significant detail may alter the entire aspect, in deciding such cases, one should avoid the temptation to decide cases (as said by Cardozo) by matching the colour of one case against the colour of another. To decide therefore, on which side of the line a case falls, the broad resemblance to another case is not at all decisive.

Precedent should be followed only so far as it marks the path of justice, but you must cut the dead wood and trim off the side branches else you will find yourself lost in thickets and branches. My plea is to keep the path to justice clear of obstructions which could impede it."

20. Keeping in view the well established law in respect of exercise of inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and after considering the rival submissions made by learned counsels for the applicants and opposite party no.2 and perusing the entire material on record which stands unrebutted, I propose to deal with the question as to whether the proceedings against the applicant which are claimed to be an abuse of process of law, inasmuch as, even if the entire material collected during evidence is assumed to be true on its face value, whether any commission of cognizable offence under Section 376 I.P.C. is made out or not or by the evidence collected during investigation his complicity is established by any evidence accepted to be true on its face value.

21. This Court further noticed that Investigating Officer while submitting supplementary charge-sheet no. 163 of 2018 dated 5.12.2018 has acknowledged that during entire investigation except the statements of the victim recorded under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. and the statement of Sukhpal (who had been charge-sheeted in the present case), there is no other evidence collected by him. It is noted:-

"अब तक कि तमामी विवेचना बयान पीड़िता १६४ सी.आर.पी.सी. व १६१ सी.आर.पी.सी. तथा बयान सुखपाल के अतिरिक्त कोई साक्ष्य नहीं है।"

22. Parentage and residence of the charge-sheeted accused, Ajai Katara (applicant) and co-accused (non-applicants, Jaivir and Jogendra) have been disclosed in the affidavits filed by the victim and Sukhpal. I may record that even in the impugned supplementary charge-sheet dated 5.12.2018 witnesses cited are: First informant, Bhagwan Singh, Serial No.1, Smt. R. and Sukhpal at serial no.3, though admittedly Sukhpal has been made accused in the F.I.R. and is charge-sheeted accused whose proceedings though have been stayed by this Court in Criminal Misc. Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. (Sukhpal vs. State of U.P.) which is still pending consideration.

23. The Court cannot permit the prosecution to go on if the case falls in any one of the categories as illustrated and enumerated by the Apex Court in State of Haryana Versus Bhajan Lal 1992 SCC(Crl) 426 (Para 102) supra.

24. The Court, therefore, has no hesitation, whatsoever, in concluding that judicial conscience of the Court on the basis of material before it has persuaded to quash the criminal proceedings pending against the applicant in exercise of its inherent powers as vested in it under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The Court is quite conscious of the fact that the victim has named the applicant in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., but the names of accused were disclosed to her by themselves and during investigation they were not put up for identification in order to fix their identity which would have clinched the issue and applicant and other co-accused, could not have escaped from the clutches of law. Therefore, in my considered opinion, it is a fit case where the Court in exercise of its inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. should quash the entire proceedings against the applicant as the same squarely falls within the para 3 & 7 of Bhajan Lal's case. Admittedly, it is not disputed by opposite party no.2 that the applicant and other co-accused whose names were introduced during investigation were not known to them from before, as admittedly the applicant is a resident of district Ghaziabad and no first information report was lodged either by opposite party no.2 or her alleged husband who himself is facing trial under Sections 363, 366 I.P.C. at Ghaziabad in the year 2013 itself or moved any application for the alleged incident be investigated thoroughly by the police station within whose local jurisdiction the alleged offence of gang-rape had allegedly taken place. Though, as noted time and again that no date, time, parentage and residence of the accused whose names were introduced by the prosecutrix with an ulterior motive after two months of kidnapping by accused/witness Sukhpal regarding commission of gang-rape as alleged at Sahibabad, district Ghaziabad has been disclosed by the victim and co-accused Sukhpal in the statements recorded under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C.

25. Therefore, in view of above, the supplementary charge-sheet and the entire proceedings arising out of it in the aforesaid case are hereby quashed so far as the applicant is concerned.

26. The present Criminal Misc. Application (U/s 482 Cr.P.C.), accordingly, stands allowed.

27. A copy of this order be certified to the lower court forthwith.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This Application, under Section 482 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, has been filed by the Applicants, Ram Bharose Lal, Jai Singh and Kallu, against State of U.P. and Smt. Meena, with a prayer for quashing of entire criminal proceeding as well as setting aside summoning order, dated 30.7.2019, passed by III Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (Dacoity Affected Area), Budaun, in SST No.1478 of 2019 (Complaint Case No.49 of 2018), Meena vs. Ram Bharose Lal and others, under Sections 392 and 354 of IPC, Police Station-Bisauli, District-Budaun.

2. Learned counsel for the applicants argued that it was a false and malicious accusation, filed by way of an application, under Section 156 (3) of Cr.P.C. and was treated as a complaint case, as a counter-blast of case crime no.675 of 2017, for offences, punishable, under Sections 392 and 354 of IPC of Police Station-Bisauli, District Budaun, for which a report was lodged by Ram Bharose Lal against Hira Lal, when Hira Lal outraged modesty of victim, daughter of informant on 7.10.2017, wherein a chargesheet has been filed and as a counter-blast case, wife of Hira Lal, has filed this case against applicants, wherein, applicant no.1, is father, whereas, applicant nos. 1 and 2 are his sons, with false accusation and III Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (DAA), Budaun, acting as the Magistrate, has failed to appreciate facts and law placed before it and passed impugned summoning order without application of judicial mind, with above prayer.

3. To bolden his submission, learned counsel for applicants has placed reliance on an order, dated 29.8.2016, of another coordinate Bench of this Court, passed in Application, U/S No.25387 of 2016, Brijveer Singh and another vs. State of U.P. and another, wherein, law laid down by Apex Court, in the case of M/S. Pepsi Food Ltd. & another vs. Special Judicial Magistrate & others, 1998, UPCr.R 118, has been discussed.

4. Learned AGA, representing State of U.P., has vehemently opposed this Application.

5. From very perusal of the Application, moved, under Section 156 of Cr.P.C., it is apparent that it was filed by the applicant-complainant, Meena, wife of Hira Lal, resident of Mohammadpur, Mai, Police Station-Bisauli, District Budaun, against Ram Bharose, son of Mohan Lal, Jai Singh and Kallu, both sons of Ram Bharose, for offences, punishable, under Sections 392 and 354 of IPC, with this contention that on 2.11.2017, at about 9.00 PM, while, applicant, alongwith her kids, was all alone at her home, and her husband was at field, Ram Bharose, Jai Singh and Kallu, armed with weapons, did criminal trespass in the house of the complainant. They hurled abuse, assaulted her and threatened of dire consequences. They also outraged her modesty by obscene act and took away Rs.5,000/-, in cash, and ornaments as well. Upon hue and cry, many persons rushed on the spot, then, they ran away. Incident was reported at the concerned Police Station as well as to the Senior Superintendent of Police, but to no avail. Hence, a complaint, for registration of a case crime number, under above offences and for its investigation by the Police Station, concerned.

6. Learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (DAA), Budaun, acting as the Magistrate, took cognizance over it and decided to proceed, treating it to be a complaint case, wherein, complainant was examined, under Section 202 of Cr.P.C. and her two witnesses, Puran and Chatrapal, under Section 202 of Cr.P.C. Learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (DAA), Budaun, acting as the Magistrate, on the basis of those evidences, collected by him, in his enquiry, passed impugned order for summoning of accused persons, for offences, punishable, under Sections 392 and 354 of IPC.

7. Previous registration of a case crime number, upon a report of applicant no.1, Ram Bharose, against Hira Lal, is being said to be a motive for this counter-blast case, but, this may be a motive for this occurrence or this may be a cause for the present occurrence. All these are questions of fact to be seen by the Trial court, during course of trial. But the contention made in the complaint has been reiterated by the complainant in its enquiry, made, under Section 200 of Cr.P.C., as well as, by witnesses, while, being examined, under Section 202 of of Cr.P.C., at the time of summoning, under Section 204 of Cr.P.C. In all those laws cited by the applicants, it is well settled that only prima facie case and its existence is to be seen by the Magistrate, at the stage of summoning, though, it should be by application of judicial mind and not in a routine, but, in the present case, by application of judicial mind, Additional Sessions Judge/Spcial Judge (DAA), acting as the Magistrate, ha found hat all such ingredients, which are required to be attracted for passing order of summoning, under above offences, are present, in the statements recorded by the learned Trial court, hence, passed impugned summoning order, as above.

8. Hence, under all above facts and circumstances, this Court, in exercise of inherent power, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., is not expected to make meticulous analysis of factual aspect because the same is a question, to be gone into, during course of trial, by the Trial court.

9. Apex Court, in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Gaurishetty Mahesh, JT 2010 (6) SC 588: (2010) 6 SCALE 767: 2010 Cr. LJ 3844, has propounded that "While exercising jurisdiction under section 482 of the Code, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable apprehension of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of the trial Judge/Court". In another subsequent judgment, in the case of Hamida v. Rashid, (2008) 1 SCC 474, Hon'ble Apex Court propounded that "Ends of justice would be better served if valuable time of the Court is spent in hearing those appeals rather than entertaining petitions under Section 482 at an interlocutory stage which after filed with some oblique motive in order to circumvent the prescribed procedure, or to delay the trial which enable to win over the witness or may disinterested in giving evidence, ultimately resulting in miscarriage of Justice". In again yet another judgment, in the case of Monica Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2008) 8 SCC 781, the Apex Court has propounded "Inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself." While interpreting this jurisdiction of High Court Apex Court, in the case of Popular Muthiah v. State, Represented by Inspector of Police, (2006) 7 SCC 296, has propounded "High Court can exercise jurisdiction suo motu in the interest of justice. It can do so while exercising other jurisdictions such as appellate or revisional jurisdiction. No formal application for invoking inherent jurisdiction is necessary. Inherent jurisdiction can be exercised in respect of substantive as well as procedural matters. It can as well be exercised in respect of incidental or supplemental power irrespective of nature of proceedings".

10. Regarding prevention of abuse of process of Court, Apex Court, in the case of Dhanlakshmi v. R.Prasana Kumar, (1990) Cr LJ 320 (DB): AIR 1990 SC 494, has propounded "To prevent abuse of the process of the Court, High Court, in exercise of its inherent powers under section 482, could quash the proceedings, but, there would be justification for interference only when the complaint did not disclose any offence or was frivolous vexatious or oppressive" as well as in the case of State of Bihar v. Murad Ali Khan, (1989) Cr LJ 1005: AIR 1989 SC 1, Apex Court propounded "In exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 High Court would not embark upon an enquiry whether the allegations in the complaint are likely to be established by evidence or not".Meaning thereby, exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is within the limits, propounded as above.

11. In view of what has been discussed above, this Application, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., merits dismissal and it stands dismissed accordingly.

12. However, it is directed that if the applicants appear and surrender before the court below within 30 days from today and apply for bail, their prayer for bail shall be considered and decided in view of the settled law laid by this Court in the case of Amrawati and another Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2004 (57) ALR 290 as well as judgement passed by Hon'ble Apex Court reported in 2009 (3) ADJ 322 (SC) Lal Kamlendra Pratap Singh Vs. State of U.P.

13. For a period of 30 days from today, no coercive action shall be taken against the applicants.

14. In case, if the applicants do not appear before the Court below within the aforesaid period, coercive action shall be taken against them.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This Application, under Section 482 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, has been filed by the Applicants, Nahar Singh, Manmohan @ Teetu, Deepu @ Devendra and Manoj, with a prayer for setting aside summoning order, dated 19.9.2019, passed by the Judicial Magistrate, Sadabad, Hathras, and, thereby, entire criminal proceeding, in Complaint Case No. 164 of 2018, Shashi Prabha vs. Nahar Singh and others, under Sections-452, 323 and 354 of IPC, Police Station-Sahpau, District-Hathras

2. Learned counsel for applicants argued that a civil suit was filed for cancellation of sale deed, which was got executed by the complainant and as a result of the same this malicious prosecution, in misuse of process of law, wherein, there is no medico legal report of any injury, but, even this, summoning order has been passed. Hence, for avoiding abuse of process of law, this Application, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., has been filed, with above prayer.

3. Learned AGA, representing State of U.P., has vehemently opposed this Application.

4. From perusal of the complaint, it is apparent that the reason for lodging this complaint has been said in it, i.e., alleged sale deed, which was got executed on 25.5.2017 from Ranvir Singh, whereupon, accused persons did encroach over the land, claiming it to be of theirs, for which some proceeding before Sub Divisional Magistrate, concerned, was taken, thenafter, this assault was made on 11.4.2018, with occurrence, reported, was committed by those accused persons, by way of committing criminal trespass in the house of the complainant. This fact has been narrated and reiterated, in the statement, recorded, under Section 200 of Cr.P.C., as well as under Section 202 of Cr.P.C., in the enquiry made by the Magistrate and the impugned summoning order has been passed, on the basis of above evidence, collected by the Magistrate, which was perfectly well, in accordance with law.

5. Hence, under all above facts and circumstances, this Court, in exercise of inherent power, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., is not expected to make a meticulous analysis of factual aspect because the same is a question, to be gone into, during course of trial, by the Trial court.

6. Apex Court, in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Gaurishetty Mahesh, JT 2010 (6) SC 588: (2010) 6 SCALE 767: 2010 Cr. In again yet another judgment, in the case of Monica Kumar v. While interpreting this jurisdiction of High Court Apex Court, in the case of Popular Muthiah v. 7. Regarding prevention of abuse of process of Court, Apex Court, in the case of Dhanlakshmi v. R.Prasana Kumar, (1990) Cr LJ 320 (DB): AIR 1990 SC 494, has propounded "To prevent abuse of the process of the Court, High Court, in exercise of its inherent powers under section 482, could quash the proceedings, but, there would be justification for interference only when the complaint did not disclose any offence or was frivolous vexatious or oppressive" as well as in the case of State of Bihar v. 8. Lal Kamlendra Pratap Singh Vs State of U.P.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicants and learned A.G.A. representing the State. Perused the records.

2. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by applicants Pradeep @ Pradeep Kumar and Amar Pal against State of U.P. and Munna Lal with prayer to quash summoning order dated 11.9.2019 as well as entire proceedings of Complaint Case No. 2041 of 2017, Munna Lal Vs. Hari Bhagwan and others, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 325, 504, 506 I.P.C., P.S. Ujhani, district Budaun, pending in court of J.M., Budaun.

3. Supplementary affidavit filed today by learned counsel for the applicants is taken on record. Learned counsel for applicants argued that in this very case, Case Crime No. 0333 of 2016 was got lodged at P.S. Ujhani, District Budaun, on 17.5.2016 at 14.45 hours upon report of Munna Lal, Advocate, and this was investigated, wherein final report was submitted. Thereafter protest petition was filed and it was treated as complaint, wherein impugned summoning order has been passed. Whereas provisions of amended section 202(1) was not complied with because accused persons are resident of Delhi and not within the territorial jurisdiction of Court at Budaun. Hence this order was vitiated. Hence this application with above prayer.

4. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the above argument.

5. From the very perusal of impugned order, it is apparent that an application dated 5.5.2016 u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. was filed by Munna Lal with contention that owing to family dispute regarding partition Bhagwan Das Rajak, Hari Bhagwan Das Rajak and Dharmendra resident of Jaipur, who are in-laws of complainant's brother Virendra Pal, entered into a quarrel, wherein threat was extended by those accused and owing to this on 27.2.2016 at about 6.00 P.M. while complainant was on his way to his home from Ujhani by his motorcycle and reached near Santosh Kumari School an Alto Car with registration No. DL 8CNB 0789, which was being driven by Pradeep Kumar and boarded by Amarpal, Dharmendra, Bhagwan Das Rajak and Hari Bhagwan Rajak firstly dashed his motorcycle, then after all those accused persons came out from the car, they did abuse and assaulted him with kicks and fists, danda and iron rod and threatened him with dire consequences. Upon rescue call many persons rushed there then the accused persons ran from the spot. Case Crime No. 333 of 2016 for offences 147, 148, 149, 323, 504, 506, 325, 307 I.P.C. was got registered wherein investigation resulted in submission of final report. Protest petition was filed against this final report. It was treated as a complaint case and in this complaint, complainant was examined u/s 200 Cr.P.C. and his witnesses Bhagwan Singh and Satyadev were examined u/s 202 Cr.P.C. Dr. Saurabh Goyal was also examined as CW1. Thereafter impugned summoning order was passed. The very contention of learned counsel for the applicants that under amended provisions of section 202(1) Cr.P.C. the enquiry was not to be conducted by the Magistrate, is not maintainable. There is an enquiry made by the Magistrate in this proceeding. The impugned summoning order is on the basis of evidence collected in its enquiry made by the Magistrate. The Magistrate at the stage of section 204 Cr.P.C. is not required to make meticulous analysis of evidence. Rather only prima-facie case is to be seen for making summoning and it was very well there.

6. This court in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction u/s 482 Cr.P.C. is not expected to meticulously analyse the facts and evidence as it is matter of trial to be seen during trial.

7. Saving of inherent power of High Court, as given under Section 482 Cr.P.C, provides that nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. Meaning thereby this inherent power is with High Court (I) to make such order as may be necessary to give effect to any other order under this Code (II) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court (III) or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. But Apex Court in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Gaurishetty Mahesh, JT 2010 (6) SC 588: (2010) 6 SCALE 767: 2010 Cr. LJ 3844 has propounded that "While exercising jurisdiction under section 482 of the Code, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable apprehension of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of the trial Judge/Court". In another subsequent Hamida v. Rashid, (2008) 1 SCC 474, hon'ble Apex Court propounded that "Ends of justice would be better served if valuable time of the Court is spent in hearing those appeals rather than entertaining petitions under Section 482 at an interlocutory stage which after filed with some oblique motive in order to circumvent the prescribed procedure, or to delay the trial which enable to win over the witness or may disinterested in giving evidence, ultimately resulting in miscarriage of Justice". In again another subsequent Monica Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2008) 8 SCC 781, the Apex Court has propounded "Inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself." While interpreting this jurisdiction of High Court Apex Court in Popular Muthiah v. State, Represented by Inspector of Police, (2006) 7 SCC 296 has propounded "High Court can exercise jurisdiction suo motu in the interest of justice. It can do so while exercising other jurisdictions such as appellate or revisional jurisdiction. No formal application for invoking inherent jurisdiction is necessary. Inherent jurisdiction can be exercised in respect of substantive as well as procedural matters. It can as well be exercised in respect of incidental or supplemental power irrespective of nature of proceedings".

8. Regarding prevention of abuse of process of Court, Apex Court in Dhanlakshmi v. R.Prasana Kumar, (1990) Cr LJ 320 (DB): AIR 1990 SC 494 has propounded "To prevent abuse of the process of the Court, High Court in exercise of its inherent powers under section 482 could quash the proceedings but there would be justification for interference only when the complaint did not disclose any offence or was frivolous vexatious or oppressive" as well as in State of Bihar v. Murad Ali Khan, (1989)

Cr LJ 1005: AIR 1989 SC 1, Apex Court propounded "In exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 High Court would not embark upon an enquiry whether the allegations in the complaint are likely to be established by evidence or not".

9. Meaning thereby, exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is within the limits, propounded as above.

10. Accordingly, there remains nothing for any indulgence in this proceeding. The prayer for quashing summoning order as well as proceeding of the aforesaid complaint case is refused and the application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. is hereby dismissed.

11. However, in the interest of justice, it is provided that if the applicants appear and surrender before the court below within thirty days from today and apply for bail, then the bail application of the applicants be considered and decided in view of the settled law laid by this Court in the case of Amrawati and another Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2004 (57) ALR 290 as well as judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court reported in 2009 (3) ADJ 322 (SC) Lal Kamlendra Pratap Singh Vs. State of U.P.

12. For a period of thirty days from today or till the disposal of the application for grant of bail whichever is earlier, no coercive action shall be taken against the applicants.

13. However, in case, the applicants do not appear before the Court below within the aforesaid period, coercive action shall be taken against them.

(Para 6, 8, 9 & 13)

Criminal Misc. Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C rejected. (E-8)

List of cases cited: -

1. S.R. Sukumar v. S. Sunaad Raghuram, AIR 2015 SC 2757

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This proceeding, under Section 482 of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (hereinafter, in short, referred to as 'Cr.P.C.'), by Guru Bachan Singh @ Bhangadi, Guru Dev Singh @ Dadua and Durvijay Singh @ Natiya, with a prayer for quashing of the impugned summoning order, dated 16.9.2019, passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Farrukkhabad, in Case No. 316 of 2018, under Section 419, 465, 466, 468, 471 and 120B of Indian Penal Code (In short, hereinafter, referred to as 'IPC'), Police Station-Kotwali Fatehgarh, District-Farrukkhabad, and, thereby, quashing of entire proceeding of aforesaid case.

2. Learned counsel for applicants argued that the impugned order was passed on the basis of report and its registration, in an enquiry, under Section 370 of Cr.P.C., and this was with no reason, fact or appreciation of enquiry made by the learned Special Judge. Applicants have been summoned, for offences, punishable, under Sections 419, 465, 466, 468, 471 and 120B of IPC for alleged deceit and fabrication of surety bond for which a previous enquiry was pending before the court. Moreso, an Appeal, before this Court, under Setion 343 of Cr.P.C., being Criminal Appeal No.1555 of 2018, Guru Bachan Singh and others vs. State of U.P. and another, has been filed, wherein, this Court, vide order, dated 21.3.2018, had admitted Appeal for hearing, while, calling for a counter affidavit, to be filed, and the said Appeal has yet not been decided. Hence, as per sub-section (2) of Section 343 of Cr.P.C., it was incumbent upon the Magistrate to wait till out-come of the Appeal and till then, above proceeding ought to have been stayed, but, straightaway, impugned order has been passed by taking cognizance in it. Thus, it was misuse of process of law and irregularity, apparent on the record. Hence, this Application, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., with above prayer.

3. Learned AGA, representing State of U.P., has vehemently opposed this Application.

4. Before delving into points pressed by the learned counsel for applicants, it would be appropriate that firstly have a glance of Section 340 of Cr.P.C.

5. Section 340 of Cr.P.C. provides a procedure regarding cases mentioned in Section 195 of Cr.P.C. and as per section 340 of Cr.P.C., when upon an application made to it in this behalf or otherwise, any Court is of opinion that it is expedient in the interests of justice that an inquiry should be made into any offence, referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 195, which appears to have been committed in or in relation to a proceeding in that Court or, as the case may be, in respect of a document produced or given in evidence in a proceeding in that Court, such Court may, after such preliminary inquiry, if any, as it thinks necessary,-

(a) record a finding to that effect;

(b) make a complaint thereof in writing;

(c) send it to a Magistrate of the first Class having jurisdiction;

(d) take sufficient security for the appearance for the accused before such Magistrate, or if the alleged offence is non-bailable and the Court thinks it necessary so to do, send the accused in custody to such Magistrate; and

(e) bind over any person to appear and give evidence before such Magistrate.

6. Thus, in an inquiry, under Section 340 of Cr.P.C., a complaint is to be filed by the court, concerned, and when a complaint is being filed and order for its registration is made, meaning, thereby cognizance has been taken at that very moment for an offence for which instant complaint has been registered. Hence, impugned complaint was registered prior to impugned order, dated 16.9.2019. Hence, very argument pressed by learned counsel for applicants that the Magistrate took cognizance, without mentioning reason, is not tenable. The complaint was filed and it was registered. Hence, cognizance, at that stage, was taken by the Magistrate.

7. Apex Court, in the case of S.R. Sukumar v. S. Sunaad Raghuram, reported in AIR 2015 SC 2757, has propounded that it is neither practicable nor desirable to define as to what meant by taking cognizance. Whether the Magistrate has taken cognizance of the offene or not will depend upon facts and circumstances of a particular case. By way of recording of complainant's statement, under Section 200 of Cr.P.C. the Magistrate cannot be said to have ipso facto taken cognizance. After proceeding, under Section 200 of Cr.PC., either to summon, under Section 204 of Cr.P.C. or to make further inquiry, under Section 202 of Cr.P.C. or to reject the complaint, under Section 203 of Cr.P.C., are three stages, and those three stages are said to be a part of taking cognizance, i.e., depending upon facts and circumstances of every case.

8. In the present case, complaint was filed by a superior court to a Magistrate. After making its inquiry, under Section 340 of Cr.P.C., this complaint was registered. There was an exemption for a public servant, who filed a complaint, in exercise of its official duty from further statement, under Sections 200 Cr.P.C. and 202 of Cr.P.C. Hence, the Magistrate took cognizance in that case, at that very stage, when it was got registered. Hence, this formal order of summoning is only, after taking cognizance, which was previously taken.

9. Sub-Section (2), of Section 343 of Cr.P.C., provides that where it is brought to the notice of such Magistrate, or of any other Magistrate to whom the case may have been transferred, that an appeal is pending against the decision arrived at in the judicial proceeding out of which the matter has arisen, he may, if he thinks fit, at any stage, adjourn the hearing of the case until such appeal is decided.

10. Thus, Legislature, has given a judicial discretion to the Magistrate, concerned, that after having notice of pendency of an Appeal against the order and decision made, under Section 340 of Cr.P.C., the Magistrate may, at any stage, may adjourn the proceeding till judgment in Appeal and there is no material on record, which may show that this was mentioned before the Magistrate, concerned, and without making a mention to this effect, applicants have, straightaway, invoked jurisdiction, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., of this Court.

11. Under above facts and circumstances, this direct invoking of jurisdiction, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., of this Court, is neither was required nor desirable.

12. Learned counsel for the applicants argued that once the Appeal is pending, then, it is obvious that the sub-ordinate court must restrain from proceeding further.

13. This Court, in present scenario of pendency of cases at Trial court level, has issued Circulars Letters, on its administrative side that unless specifically proceeding is being stayed by superior courts, including, High Court, proceedings at Trial court, are not to be stayed. Hence, this argument of learned counsel for applicants is also not tenable.

14. In view of what has been discussed above, this Application, under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., being devoid of merits, deserves dismissal and it stands dismissed accordingly.

(Para 16 & 17)

B. Rent Control Law - Eviction - Principle of forfeiture by disclaimer - where the tenant denies the landlord's title to recover rent from him bona-fide on the ground of seeking information of such title or having such title established in Court in order to protect himself – tenant is not to be charged with disclaiming the landlord's title - But where the disclaimer is done with an express repudiation of the tenancy under the landlord, it would operate as forfeiture - Where after creation of the tenancy if the title of landlord is transferred or devolves upon a third person, the tenant is not estopped from denying such title - However, if the tenant having been apprised of the transfer, assignment or devolution of rights acknowledges the title of transferee either expressly or by paying rent to him, the rule of estoppel once again comes into operation. (Para 18)

Held - Defendant-petitioner/tenant has not denied the title of the landlady & deposited entire rent on the first date of hearing and continued to deposit/ pay rent to the plaintiff-respondent/ landlady - Finding of the court below on the ground of denial of title of the plaintiff respondent as a ground for eviction from the disputed shop, set aside. "Ingredients of denial of title by a tenant so as to attract Section 20(2)(f) of U.P. Act XIII of 1972, is the main question involved in the present petition."

FACTS:-

1. Heard Sri Nirvikar Gupta, learned counsel for the defendant-tenant/ petitioner and Sri P.K. Jain, learned senior advocate assisted by Sri Abhitab Agarwal, learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondents.

2. Briefly stated facts of the present case are that the disputed house situate at Azad Chowk, Main Bazar, Qasba Jevar, District Gautam Budh Nagar was originally owned by Sri Mahesh Chand father of the plaintiff-respondent No.1 Smt. Dr. Mithilesh Bansal resident of Qasba Palwal, District Faridabad (Haryana), which was purchased by Sri Mahesh Chand by a registered sale deed dated 04.08.1966 from one Sri Babu Ram and another. According to the plaintiff-respondent No.1, the purchase of the house was benami. That apart, in her marriage on 03.02.1981, her father Mahesh Chand had gifted the house to her which she accepted. But despite this fact, her father Mahesh Chand entered into some rent deed in his own name. Therefore, she filed declaratory Suit No.28 of 1984 (Smt. Mithilesh Bansal vs. Mahesh Chand and another) which was decreed by judgment dated 09.04.1984 and decree dated 21.05.1984 under Order VIII Rule 10, C.P.C. on the basis of compromise. Thus, the plaintiff-respondent No.1 became owner and landlord of the disputed shop.

3. The defendant-petitioner was a tenant of the disputed shop. According to the plaintiff-respondent No.1, the defendant-tenant sent a notice dated 28.01.1985 through counsel Mohd. Iqbal Khan to the plaintiff's father Mahesh Chand by registered post stating that the rent from 01.04.1983 is not being accepted so as to cause harassment and, therefore, notice is being given to accept the rent and issue a rent receipt. According to the plaintiff, this notice was replied by her father Mahesh Chand to the defendant-tenant by reply dated 12.03.1985 followed by letter dated 12.03.1985 by registered post whereby Mahesh Chand stated that it was earlier notified and made clear to the defendant-tenant that the shop is now owned by the plaintiff-respondent No.1, Smt. Mithilesh Bansal in view of the judgment and decree passed by the Munsif Khurja in O.S. No.28 of 1984 and, therefore, the previous and future rent be paid to the owner and landlady Smt. Mithilesh Bansal.

4. According to the plaintiff-respondent No.1, despite intimation of the shop in question to be owned by her, the defendant-tenant has not paid any rent. Subsequently, he filed an Injunction Suit No.267 of 2006 (Banke Lal Agarwal vs. Mahesh Chand). In paragraph-1 of the plaint of O.S. No.267 of 2006, the defendant-tenant/ petitioner stated, as under:-

''1. यह कि वादी निम्न वर्णित दुकान जिसे नक्शा वाद पत्र में शब्द अ ब स द से दिखाया गया है, का किरायेदार प्रतिवादी की ओर से पिछले 50 वर्ष से अधिक से चला आ रहा है।''

5. The averments of paragraph-1 of the plaint of O.S. No.267 of 2006 were denied by Mahesh Chand (father of the plaintiff-respondent No.1 No.1) in paragraph-1 of his written statement. Thereafter, in paragraphs-11 and 22 of the written statement in O.S. No.267 of 2006, the aforesaid Mahesh Chand has stated, as under:-

''11. यह कि वाद पत्र की धारा 1 का कथन गलत है अस्वीकार है। वादी वर्णित समपत्ति का प्रतिवादी का किरायेदार नहीं है। वरन दिनांक 01.04.1983 से प्रश्नगत समपत्ति की मालिक श्रीमति मिथलेश बंसल है। दिनांक 31.03.1983 तक वादी प्रश्नगत दुकान का स्वामी था तब तक का किराया वादी से प्रतिवादी ने प्राप्त किया था। उसके बाद प्रश्नगत समपत्ति की मालिक श्रीमति मिथलेश बंसल हो गयी। इसलिये प्रतिवादी द्वारा दिनांक 31.03.1983 के बाद न तो वादी से कोई किराया प्राप्त किया गया और न ही कोई रसीद ही प्राप्त की गयी। और न ही प्रतिवादी को किराया वादी द्वारा प्रदान किया गया।''

''22. यह कि वादी द्वारा दिनांक 28.01.1985 को अपने अधिवक्ता श्री इकबाल अहमद एडवोकेट से प्रतिवादी को नोटिस किराया लिये जाने हेतु भिजवाया गया था। जिसका उत्तर प्रतिवादी ने वादी के अधिवक्ता श्री इकबाल अहमद एडवोकेट को दिनांक 12.03.1985 को प्राप्त कराया जिसमें स्पष्ट बताया गया था कि प्रश्नगत समपत्ति की मालिक प्रतिवादी नहीं रहा बल्कि वाद सं0 28 सन 1984 न्यायालय मुंसिफ खुर्जा के निर्णय एवं डिक्री आदेश दिनांक 09.04.1984 के अनुसार श्रीमति मिथलेश बंसल हो गयी। उत्तर में यह भी स्पष्ट रूप से लिखा गया था कि पिछला किराया एवं भविष्य में किराया श्रीमति मिथलेश बंसल को अदा करें। प्रतिवादी दिनांक 31.03.2003 के बाद से बादहु निर्णय एवं डिक्री दिनांक 09.04.1984 के बाद से प्रश्नगत दुकान समपत्ति का मालिक नहीं है। ऐसी स्थिति में वादी द्वारा प्रतिवादी को आर्थिक, मानसिक, सामाजिक क्षति कारित करने के उद्देश्य से तथा अपने किसी छिपे हुए स्वार्थ से वादी ने प्रतिवादी के विरूद्ध उक्त वाद योजित किया है जिसका उसे कोई अधिकार नहीं है।''

6. According to the plaintiff-respondent No.1, since the rent was not being paid and the defendant-tenant/ petitioner has denied her title as per afore-quoted paragraph-1 of the plaint of O.S. No.267 of 2006, therefore, after notice, she filed S.C.C. Suit No.5 of 2007 (Dr. Mithilesh Bansal vs. Banke Lal Agarwal). In paragraphs-8 and 11 of the plaint of S.C.C. Suit No.5 of 2007, the plaintiff-respondent No.1 has stated, as under:

''8. यह कि प्रतिवादी किराया अदा करने में सख्त नादेहिन्द है और साथ ही उसने उक्त वर्णित दुकान से वादिनी के स्वामित्व से भी इंकार किया है इसलिये वादिनी नालिसी है।''

''11. यह कि वाद का कारण सर्वप्रथम दिनांक 9.4.84 को जबकि वादिनी उक्त वर्णित दुकान की भवन स्वामी न्यायालय मुंसिफ खुर्जा द्वारा वाद संख्या 28/1984 में घोषित हुई, बादहू प्रत्येक अंग्रेजी महीना की पहली तारीख को जब कि प्रतिवादी पर उक्त वर्णित दुकान का किराया वाजिब हुआ तथा बादहू जबकि प्रतिवादी ने

मूलवाद संख्या 267/06 में उक्त वर्णित दुकान से वादिनी के स्वामित्व को इंकार किया तथा दुकान में वादिनी को अपना भवन स्वामी नहीं कहा तथा अन्तिम रूप से नोटिस दिनांक 21.3.2007 की 30 दिन की अवधि समाप्त हो जाने के पश्चात इस न्यायालय की सीमा के अन्तर्गत उत्पन्न हुआ एवं न्यायालय को वाद को सुनने व उसे निर्णीत करने का हक हासिल है।''

7. Contents of afore-quoted paragraph-8 of the plaint of S.C.C. Suit No.05 of 2007 were denied by the defendant-tenant/ petitioner in paragraphs-8 and 11 of his written statement, as under:-

'' 8. यह कि वाद पत्र की धारा 8 का कथन गलत है, अतः अस्वीकार है। प्रतिवादी किराया अदा करने में हर्गिज भी नादेहिन्द नहीं है। प्रतिवादी से विवादित दुकान का किराया महेश चन्द पुत्र रामजी लाल द्वारा 31.03.2006 तक का दस्ती प्राप्त कर लिया गया है। प्रतिवादी द्वारा वादनी के विवादित दुकान के स्वामित्व से कभी भी इन्कार नहीं किया गया।''

11. यह कि वाद पत्र की धारा 11 का कथन गलत है, अतः अस्वीकार है। वादनी को कभी कोई वाद का कारण प्रतिवादी के विरूद्ध वाद दायर करने का पैदा नहीं हुआ।''

8. The plaintiff-respondent No.1 has also alleged in her plaint that rent has not been paid by the defendant-tenant/ petitioner. She waived her right for earlier rent and claimed the rent of only three years amounting to Rs.4,809/-.

9. On the first date of hearing, the defendant-tenant/ petitioner deposited the entire demanded rent and claimed the benefit of Section 20(4) of U.P. Act XIII of 1972.

10. The aforesaid S.C.C. Suit No.5 of 2007 was decreed by the impugned judgment and decree dated 04.01.2013 passed by Civil Judge (S.D.)/ Small Cause Court, Gautam Budh Nagar on the finding that the defendant-tenant/ petitioner has denied the title of the plaintiff-landlady/ respondent No.1 and thus, provisions of Section 20(2)(f) of U.P. Act XIII of 1972 stood attracted. So far as questions of payment of rent and the benefit of Section 20(4) of U.P. Act XIII of 1972 are concerned, they were decided in favour of the defendant-tenant/ petitioner and against the plaintiff-respondent No.1. The aforesaid judgment was challenged by the defendant-tenant/ petitioner in S.C.C. Revision No.01 of 2013 (Banke Lal Agarwal vs. Smt. Dr. Mithilesh Bansal), which has been dismissed by the impugned judgment dated 30.03.2015 passed by the Additional District Judge - IInd, Gautam Budh Nagar. Aggrieved with the aforesaid two judgments, the defendant-tenant/ petitioner has filed the present petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

SUBMISSIONS:-

11. Learned counsel for the defendant-tenant/ petitioner submits as under:

(i) Both the courts below have held that there was no default. Both the courts below have found that the defendant-tenant/ petitioner is entitled for the benefit of Section 20(4) of U.P. Act XIII of 1972 inasmuch as he unconditionally deposited the entire demanded amount of rent etc. and interest on the first date of hearing.

(ii) The defendant-tenant/ petitioner has never denied the title of the plaintiff-landlady/ respondent No.1.

(iii) The finding of the courts below in the impugned judgments on the point of denial of title of the plaintiff-landlady/ respondent No.1 is perverse and grossly illegal inasmuch as neither in the written statement filed in S.C.C. Suit nor in the plaint of the Injunction Suit No.267 of 2006 nor at any point of time, the defendant-tenant/ petitioner has denied the title of the plaintiff-landlady/ respondent No.1. In the absence of any denial of title by the defendant, the provisions of Section 20(2)(f) were not attracted and yet the impugned judgments have been passed baselessly by the courts below.

(iv) Question of denial of title is a serious matter and, therefore, in the absence of clear denial of title, no decree can be passed in terms of the provisions of Section 20(2)(f) of the Act. Mere seeking information of ownership is not denial of title.

12. Sri P.K. Jain, learned senior advocate for the plaintiff-respondent submits, as under:-

(i) The defendant-tenant/ petitioner was well aware of the ownership of the plaintiff-landlady/ respondent No.1 of the building in question. This fact becomes further evident from the reply dated 12.03.1985 given by her father Mahesh Chand to the defendant-tenant/ petitioner in reply to their notice dated 28.01.1985 given through counsel Mohd. Iqbal Khan. Averments made in paragraph-1 of the plaint of O.S. No.267 of 2006 filed by the defendant-tenant/ petitioner also amounts to denial of title of the plaintiff-landlady/ respondent No.1. Thus, the defendant-tenant/ petitioner has denied that the title of the plaintiff-landlady with respect to the house in question and renounced his character as tenant. Therefore, the impugned judgments have been lawfully passed holding denial of title by the defendant-tenant/ petitioner.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS:-

13. I have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsels for the parties and perused the impugned judgments.

14. Section 20(2) of the U.P. Act XIII of 1972, enables a landlord to institute a suit for eviction of a tenant from a building after determination of his tenancy of one or more of the grounds mentioned in clauses (a) to (g). In the present case, the controversy relates to clause (f) of Section 20(2), which is reproduced below:-

"That the tenant has renounced his character as such or denied the title of the landlord and the latter has not waived his right of re-entry or condoned the conduct of the tenant."

15. Section 116 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 creates an estoppel for a tenant to deny the title of his/ her landlord, which is reproduced below:

"Section 116. Estoppel of tenant; and of licensee of person in possession.--No tenant of immovable property, or person claiming through such tenant, shall, during the continuance of the tenancy, be permitted to deny that the landlord of such tenant had, at the beginning of the tenancy, a title to such immovable property; and no person who came upon any immovable property by the licence of the person in possession thereof, shall be permitted to deny that such person had a title to such possession at the time when such licence was given."

16. The aforesaid provision of Section 20(2)(f) of the U.P. Act XIII of 1972 is, thus, a provision for determination of tenancy by forfeiture on denial of the landlord's title by the tenant. It is a statutory ground of eviction, which has been incorporated in the Act which becomes invokable by a landlord when a tenant has renounced his character as such or denied the title of his landlord and the landlord has not waived his right of re-entry or condoned the conduct of the tenant.

17. A tenant's bona fide calling upon his/ her landlord/landlady to prove his/ her ownership or putting the landlord/ landlady to prove his/ her title so as to protect himself (i.e. the tenant) or to earn a protection made available to him by Rent Control Law but without disowning his character of possession over the tenancy premises as tenant cannot be said to have denied the title of his/ her landlord/ landlady or disclaimed the tenancy. The denial or disclaimer to be relevant for the purposes of Section 22(2)(f) of the U.P. Act XIII of 1972, should take colour from Section 116 of the Indian Evidence Act.

17. Section 116 of the Indian Evidence Act, is a rule of estoppel, which prohibits a tenant of immovable property or person claiming through him to deny title of his/her landlord/landlady during continuance of the tenancy. This estoppel, so long as it binds the tenant, excludes the tenant from raising a plea disputing the title of his/ her landlord/ landlady. The rule of estoppel applies so long as the tenancy is not terminated and the rule estops the tenant from laying challenge to the ownership of the landlord at the commencement of the tenancy. This contemplates the following fact situations which entail the lessee having renounced his character as such. These are:- (i) when the lessee sets up a title in a third person, or (ii) when he claims title in himself, or (iii) If the tenant assists a stranger to set up an adverse title or delivers the premises to him in order to enable him to set up a title. Thus, in either case situation, the tenant could be said to have disputed or denied the title of his landlord because a title in third person or title in himself cannot co-exist with the title in the landlord.

18. The principle of forfeiture by disclaimer is that where the tenant denies the landlord's title to recover rent from him bona-fide on the ground of seeking information of such title or having such title established in a Court of law in order to protect himself, he is not to be charged with disclaiming the landlord's title. But where the disclaimer is done not with this object but with an express repudiation of the tenancy under the landlord, it would operate as forfeiture. Where after creation of the tenancy if the title of landlord is transferred or devolves upon a third person, the tenant is not estopped from denying such title. However, if the tenant having been apprised of the transfer, assignment or devolution of rights acknowledges the title of transferee either expressly or by paying rent to him, the rule of estoppel once again comes into operation for it is unjust to allow tenant to approbate and reprobate and so long as the tenant enjoys everything which his lease purports to grant, how does it concern him what the title of the landlord is.

19. To answer a question where an assertion of denial of landlord's title by the tenant was bona fide, all surrounding circumstances under which the assertion was made, have to be seen. To invoke the ground of eviction under Section 20(2)(f) of the U.P. Act XIII of 1972, there should not only be a clear denial of title of the landlord by the tenant but the landlord should also allege and prove that he had not waived right of re-entry, or condoned the conduct of the tenant.

20. The principle as stated above also finds support from the law laid down in Keshar Bai vs. Chhunulal, (2014) 11 SCC 438, Sheela vs. Firm Prhlad Rai Prem Prakash, (2002) 3 SCC 375 (paras-11 to 17), J.J. Lal Pvt Ltd. and others vs. M.R. Murli and another, AIR 2002 SC 1061 (Para-18), Sheikh Abdulla vs. Mohammad Muslim, 1926 AIR (Cal.) 1205, Sugga Bai vs. Hiralal, 1969 AIR (MP) 32, 1937 AIR (PC) 251 (para-10), Mohd. Arif vs. IVth Additional District Judge, Aligarh and others, 1984 (2) ARC 255 (All.) (Para-8), Dr. A.S. Raj vs. District Judge, Lucknow and others, 1982 ARC 515 (All.) (Para-26), Ram Autar Goel vs. Jagannath Gupta and another, 1998 (2) AWC 828 (paras-13 and 14), Pradeep Gautam and another vs. VIIIth Additional District Judge (Judge, SCC) Allahabad and another, 1993 (1) ARC 44, Brij Bhushan Mishra vs. Surita Sarbabdhikari, 2009 (74) All.LR 266 (paras-7 and 8), Jalsabh Shaikh vs. State of Goa, AIR 2000 (SC) 568 and Sahaj Ram vs. Rajednra Prasad, 2016 (6) ADJ 626.

21. Perusal of the undisputed facts as noted above in paragraphs 3 to 6 leaves no manner of doubt that the defendant-petitioner/ tenant has not denied the title of the plaintiff-respondent/ landlady. The tenant has specifically stated that he has never denied the title of the respondent-landlady with respect to the disputed shop. The tenant has also deposited entire rent on the first date of hearing and continued to deposit/ pay rent to the plaintiff-respondent/ landlady. Under the circumstances, the finding of the courts below in the impugned judgment dated 04.01.2013 in SCC Suit No.05 of 2007 (Smt. Dr. Mithilesh Bansal vs. Banke Lal Agrawal passed by Civil Judge (S.D.)/ Small Cause Court, Gautam Budh Nagar and the judgment and decree dated 30.03.2015 in SCC Revision No.01 of 2013 (Banke Lal Agarwal vs. Smt. Dr. Mithilesh Bansal) passed by the Additional District Judge, Court No.2, Gautam Buddh Nagar with respect to the finding on the ground of denial of title of the plaintiff respondent as a ground for eviction from the disputed shop, is hereby set aside. The impugned judgments and decree are accordingly modified. Consequently, the eviction of the defendant-tenant/ petitioner under the impugned judgments, also stands set aside.

22. In view of the aforesaid, the petition is allowed to the extent indicated above.

A. Uttar Pradesh Panchayat Raj (Settlement of Election Disputes) Rules, 1994 - Election dispute - Pradhan - when there was no allegation with regard to outside votes being included by the counting authorities and the only allegation was with regard to wrong counting of votes cast in favour of the petitioner then a re-count was the only method by which the Prescribed Authority could have found out as to whether the counting was done properly. (Para 17)

Election for the post of Pradhan – Election petition dismissed – Revisional court remanded the matter with a direction that a re-count be done & findings be returned on two issue whether 2238 or 2228 votes were cast & whether the election petitioner had got 985 votes or more - Recount was done , petitioner in the recount obtained 988 votes as against 981 votes which the respondent no. 1, the earlier elected candidate had got - Held - when the recounting had been done & it was found that 988 votes were cast in favour of the petitioner, which number was greater than the votes which were cast in favour of the respondent no. 4 then no further findings with regard to the other issues were required as were desired in the order of remand of the Revisional Court.

4. Jyoti Basu & ors v. Debi Ghosal & ors AIR 1982 SC 983

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sidhhartha Varma, J.)

1. Upon the declaration of the result on 13.12.2015 of an election which was held on 9.12.2015 for the post of Pradhan, an Election Petition was filed by the petitioner Irshad Fatma.

2. The Election Petition was initially dismissed on 5.2.2018 and the Revision thereafter filed by the petitioner was allowed on 31.5.2018. The matter was remanded with a direction that the Election Petition be decided afresh. When the remand was made a direction was issued by the Revisional Court itself that a re-count be done and also findings regarding two issues were asked to be returned. They were:-

I. whether 2238 or 2228 votes were cast?

II. And whether the election petitioner had got 985 votes or more?

3. Before the Election Tribunal, even before the order dated 5.2.2018 was passed, another candidate who had contested the election, namely, Sakeena had filed an application for rejecting the Election Petition filed by the petitioner stating that the same was not maintainable as Assistant Election Officer and the Election Officer were not made a party in the petition. This application of Sakeena was rejected by the Election Tribunal on 27.1.2016. The Revision filed thereafter was dismissed on 10.8.2017 and Sakeena thereafter had filed a writ petition being Writ-C No. 3430 of 2018 in which the proceedings of the Election Petition was initially stayed on 7.2.2018. But upon coming to know that the Election Petition itself had been decided on 5.2.2018 the writ petition was dismissed as having become infructuous on 20.12.2018.

4. Upon coming to know that on 31.5.2018, the Revisional Court had remanded the matter, Smt. Sakina who had got just one vote in the election once again filed a Writ Petition in this Court being a Matter Under Article 227 and was numbered as Petition No. 292 of 2019. This writ petition was disposed of on 24.1.2019 without much of interference as the order impugned was an order by which a remand had been ordered and the election petitioner's counsel had stated that he would implead the necessary parties in the Election Petition as the petitioner in the writ petition had desired.

5. A direction was further issued that the Prescribed Authority/Election Tribunal had to decide the Election Petition within a period of six months from the date of presentation of a certified copy of the order dated 24.1.2019. On 6.2.2019, the Prescribed Authority passed an order that the recounting of votes as per the Revisional Court's order dated 31.5.2018 had to be done on 12.2.2019. However, the recount was done on 18.2.2019. Against the order dated 6.2.2019 by which the recount was ordered, the respondent no. 4 Smt. Zeenat Fatima filed a writ petition being Writ C No. 5738 of 2019 wherein it was ordered that the recount would go on but the result would be kept in sealed cover and shall not be declared. The order dated 18.02.2019 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-C No.5738 of 2019 was put to challenge in a Special Appeal being Special Appeal No. 422 of 2019. This Special Appeal was, however, dismissed on 5.4.2019. In the meantime, the recount had been done and, therefore, the Writ C No. 5738 of 2019 was dismissed on 26.3.2019. On the basis of the recounting which was done on 18.2.2019, the Prescribed Authority on 24.4.2019 decided the Election Petition and allowed the same in favour of the petitioner. The petitioner had in the recount obtained 988 votes as against 981 votes which the respondent no. 1, the earlier elected candidate had got.

6. This order 24.4.2019 was challenged by the respondent no. 4 Zeenat Fatma in Revision No. 1 of 2019. When this revision was allowed on 23.10.2019, the instant writ petition was filed.

7. The respondent no. 4 was represented by Sri Syed Ahmed Faizan and Sri S.F.A. Naqvi. Since for the decision of the present petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, the requirement of counter affidavits from the other private respondents was not required, the instant writ petition was heard finally.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the grounds on the basis of which the Revision was allowed were not tenable. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that when the recount was done on 18.2.2019 on the basis of the remand order of the Revisional Court dated 31.5.2018 then no further findings were required as were desired in the order of remand dated 31.5.2018 of the Revisional Court.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that it mattered little as to whether 2238 or 2228 votes were cast. Also learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that a decision as to whether the earlier counting had gone wrong as four votes were mixed in other bundles also lost its importance as a complete re-count was done and, therefore, nothing further was required to be done.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner relying upon a decision of the Supreme Court reported in 1994 Supp (2) SCC 619

(A. Neelalohithadasan Nadar vs. George Mascrene and Others) submitted that principles of secrecy of ballot box must yield to the principle of purity of an Election in larger public interest. Since learned counsel for the petitioner read out paragraphs no. 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14 of the judgement, they are being reproduced here as under:-

"10. The existence of the principle of "secrecy of ballot" cannot be denied. It undoubtedly is an indispensable adjunct of free and fair elections. The Act statutorily assures a voter that he would not be compelled by any authority to disclose as to for whom he has voted, so that he may vote without fear or favour and free from any apprehension of its disclosure against his will from his own lips. See in this connection Raghbir Singh Gill v. Gurcharan Singh Tohral. But this right of the voter is not absolute. It must yield to the principle of "purity of election" in larger public interest. The exercise of extrication of void votes under Section 62(4) of the Act would not in any manner impinge on the secrecy of ballot especially when void votes are those which have to be treated as no votes at all. "Secrecy of ballot" principle presupposes a validly cast vote, the sanctity and sacrosanctity of which must in all events be preserved. When it is talked of ensuring free and fair elections it is meant elections held on the fundamental foundation of purity and the "secrecy of ballot" as an allied vital principle. It was observed by this Court in Raghbir Singh case' as follows (SCR p. 1320: SCC p. 68, para 23)

"Secrecy of ballot though undoubtedly a vital principle for ensuring free and fair elections, it was enshrined in law to subserve the larger public interest, namely, purity of election for ensuring free and fair election. The principle of secrecy of ballot cannot stand aloof or in isolation and in confrontation to the foundation of free and fair elections, viz., purity of election. They can coexist but as stated earlier, where one is used to destroy the other, the first one must yield to principle of purity of election in larger public interest. In fact secrecy of ballot, a privilege of the voter, is not inviolable and may be waived by him as a responsible citizen of this country to ensure free and fair election and to unravel foul play."

11. In view of the above it is the settled position that out of the two competing principles, the purity of election principle must have its way. Section 94 of the Act cannot be pressed into service to suppress a wrong coming to light and to protect a fraud on the election process.

12. That both the election petition and recrimination petition were dealt with on the principle of "purity of election" is not in dispute. The approach of the High Court on the subject on the commonality of the attack also cannot be questioned. But what was questioned by Mr Prashant Bhushan, as reiterated in his written submissions of 14-9- 1993, was that the High Court was not correct in allowing examination of marked copies of electoral rolls and counterfoils without any evidence or material in support of the plea for inspection and that the High Court allowed the inspection casually without inviting a written application or even by a written order. It was submitted that except for pleadings in the election petition regarding void voting, there was no cause pleaded to permit the election papers to be thrown open for inspection and this exercise was termed by learned counsel as 'fishing or roving'. Rule 93 of the Conduct of Election Rules, 1961, provides for documents which shall not be 1 1980 Supp

SCC 53 :(1980) 3 SCR 1302 opened and their Contents inspected by, or produced before, any person or authority except under the orders of a competent court. On the basis thereof it was maintained that by a string of judgments of this Court it has been ruled that inspection could only be allowed when two conditions are satisfied:

1. The material facts on the basis of which inspection of documents is sought, must be clearly and specifically pleaded; and

2. The Court must be satisfied on evidence, even if in the form of Support for these principles was sought from Ram Sewak Yadav v. Hussain Kamil Kidwai1, Hariram v. Hira Singh2, R. Narayanan v. S. Semmalai3, Jagjit Singh v. Giani Kartar Singh4, Jitendra Bahadur Singh v. Krishna Behari5 and other decisions of the like.

13. But by and large these are cases where there was a claim for recount. In contrast the instant case is of double voting which has specifically been pleaded in the election petition filed on 29-7-1991 supported by affidavit and the names of the voters have been supplied in the lists annexed thereto. The appellant had filed recrimination petition pleading that there were several other cases of double voting and reception of invalid votes in favour of the election petitioner. This written statement-cum- recrimination petition was filed on 10-9-1991. Issues were framed on 20-9-1991. The election petitioner on 26-9-1991 was allowed to amend the Election Petition so as to include 10 more cases of double voting. The corresponding amendment application filed by the appellant for taking into account details of double voting having taken place in another neighbouring constituency was rejected by the High Court for it was based on a new charge. The second amendment application of the election petitioner was allowed on 7-10- 1991 so as to include 23 more cases of alleged double voting. It is at that stage that is on 7-10-1991 that the Court permitted inspection of the counterfoils since several double voters had been summoned for the following day to appear on 8-10-1991 and subsequent days, on the oral prayer/application of both the election petitioner and the appellant. The court apparently took into account that since witnesses were to be examined on the question of their double voting and were expected to take a positive stand, it would become necessary to corroborate or confront them with the counterfoils of the ballot papers issued to them which purported to have been signed or not by them, in order to save time lest examination of the witnesses be time consuming. The Court allowed inspection of the roll and counterfoils in order to facilitate evidence of the witnesses on the date of their appearance, which was the following day. The suggestion no doubt was oral but the Court seemed to agree with the suggestion and inspection was permitted to both parties in the presence of the Registrar. The commonality of the approach of the parties on the question of double voting must have clearly goaded the Court to adopt such measure to facilitate quick trial. It is the case of the election petitioner that the counsel for both the parties inspected the counterfoils on 7-10-1991 in the Registrar's room as also on subsequent days, even though there was no written application made and there was no formal written order of the Court. Yet the inspection was open to both the parties without any objection having ever been raised by the appellant. In the facts and circumstances, we fail to see how the principle of secrecy of ballot can be imported to question the power of the Court to orally allow inspection in its endeavour to eliminate the impurity in elections, the opportunity provided having been availed of without demur by both parties. In this situation, it is difficult for us to digest the argument that here the High Court proceeded to allow inspection without being satisfied on evidence, even in the form of affidavit, that it was necessary to allow inspection in the interest of justice. Since the names of the voters who were alleged to have double voted, had specifically been pleaded in the election petition (as amended from time to time) and the recrimination petition, it was necessary to correlate their names with the electoral rolls and the counterfoils of the ballot papers so that in case of double voting or impersonated voting, the impure element in the election process could be identified and retrieved from the election package. The primary purpose thus was to purify the electoral process and not to hunt or hound the voter's choice, when exercised validly and freely. It is for that purpose that the Court, in the interest of justice, to facilitate a quick trial permitted the parties to inspect beforehand the records but after the framing of the requisite issues arising from the pleadings of the parties and not earlier. This approach could not be termed as permitting a 'roving or fishing' enquiry, as it is sometimes described in cases of a claim for re-count. We are thus of the view that the High Court committed no error in permitting such inspection in the facts and circumstances. We must, however, hasten to clarify that we should not be understood to approve of the High Court giving oral directions in such serious matters without insisting on a formal application setting out how a prima facie foundation was laid for the grant of such relief.

14. Another argument put forth by Mr Prashant Bhushan was that the pleadings in the election petition were insufficient to justify inspection inasmuch as except for mentioning that there had been double voting by 19 persons nothing else was stated about the basis on which the election petitioner came to the conclusion that these names, which apparently had appeared twice in the electoral roll, belonged to one and the same person and that those persons had in fact voted twice. It was also commented that no material facts, in the form of affidavits by single persons or polling agents alleging that they had seen and heard about those persons having voted twice. was filed in support of the petition. It is maintained that in the absence of evidence of these particulars being pleaded as to the source of knowledge of double voting it was dangerous to allow enquiring into such an allegation on the bare allegation of double registration of votes and possible double voting. We have pondered over this matter but regretfully do not accept the argument of the learned counsel. If a name has been registered twice enabling a person to take the advantage of voting in two different polling stations, Section 62 mandates that if he polls both these votes then both votes are void. A void vote cast is a vote void ab initio. In the nature of things the void taint in the election would have to be traced to the election papers for without that bare oral evidence would be of no use, and at best would be word against word, making application of Section 62(4) welling impossible. If the election petitioner on some information, material or otherwise is able to entertain the belief that a particular voter, double registered, is known to have voted twice, he can certainly plead to that fact on his own entertained belief and need not ordinarily resort to giving details of the sources of his information or knowledge or the entertainment of his belief because registration of double vote is by itself the starting point; the exercise of both votes being the second. The election petitioner had specifically mentioned and in clear-cut terms that 19 persons had double voted. The question was not resoluble merely on oral evidence, whether they had or had not, except to put those persons into the witness box, hear their version and confront them with the election papers. The sphere of enquiry at that stage is to the voting and not for discovering the name of the person to whom the vote was cast. That inevitably has to be found out after double voting or impersonated voting has been found out leading to the new step to trace them and nullify them. On the pleading of the parties as such, on both sides, a case for inspection at the stage when it was done had been made out. We thus find no error committed in the approach of the High Court. "

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner also relied upon T.A. Ahammed Kabeer vs. A.A. Azeez and Others reported in 2003 (6) AIC 601(S.C.) and since he specially referred to the paragraphs no. 26, 27, 28 and 29 of the judgement, they are being reproduced here as under:-

"26. The task before an Election Judge is ticklish. It is often urged and also held that the success of a winning candidate should not be lightly set aside and the secrecy of ballot must be zealously guarded. On account of a rigid following of these principles the election courts are inclined to lean in favour of the returned candidates and place the onus of proof on the person challenging the result of election, insisting on strict compliance with the rules of pleadings and excluding such evidence from consideration as is in divergence with the pleadings. However, what has so developed as a rule of practice should not be unduly stretched; for the purity of the election process needs to be preserved unpolluted so as to achieve the predominant goal of democracy that only be should represent the constituency who has been chosen by the majority of the electors. This is the purpose and object of the election law.

27. Though the inspection of ballot papers is to be allowed sparingly and the Court may refuse the prayer of the defeated candidate for inspection if, in the garb of seeking inspection, he was indulging into a roving enquiry in order to fish out materials to set aside the election, or the allegations made in support of such prayer were vague or too generalized to deserve any cognizance. Nevertheless, the power to direct inspection of ballot papers is there and ought to be exercised if, based on precise allegations of material facts, also substantiated, a case for permitting inspection is made out as is necessary to determine the issue arising for decision in the case and in the interest of justice. As held by the Constitution Bench in Ram Sewak Yadav v. Hussain Kamil Kidwai and Ors., , an Election Tribunal has undoubtedly the power to direct discovery and inspection of documents within the narrow limits of Order XI of Code of Civil Procedure. Inspection of documents under Rule 15 of Order XI of Code of Civil Procedure may be ordered of documents which are referred to in the pleadings or particulars as disclosed in the affidavit of documents of the other party, and under Rule 18(2) of other documents in the possession or power of the other party. The returning officer is not a party to an election petition and an order for production of the ballot papers cannot be made under Order XI of Code of Civil Procedure. But the Election Tribunal is not on that account without authority in respect of the ballot papers. In a proper case where the interests of justice demand it, the Tribunal may call upon the returning officer to produce the ballot papers and may permit inspection by the parties before it of the ballot papers which power is clearly implicit in Sections 100(1)(d)(iii), 101, 102 and Rule 93 of the Conduct of Election Rules 1961. This power to order inspection of the ballot papers which is apart from Order XI Code of Civil Procedure may be exercised, subject to the statutory restrictions about the secrecy of the ballot paper prescribed by Sections 94 and 128(1). However, the Constitution Bench has cautioned, by the mere production of the sealed boxes of ballot papers before the Election Tribunal pursuant to its order the ballot papers do not become part of the record and they are not liable to be inspected unless the Tribunal is satisfied that such inspection is in the circumstances of the case necessary in the interests of justice.

28. It is true that a recount is not be ordered merely for the asking or merely because the Court is inclined to hold a recount. In order to protect the secrecy of ballots the Court would permit a recount only upon a clear case in that regard having been made out. To permit or not to permit a recount is a question involving jurisdiction of the Court. Once a recount has been allowed the Court cannot shut its eyes on the result of recount on the ground that the result of recount as found is at variance with the pleadings. Once the Court has permitted recount within the well-settled parameters of exercising jurisdiction in this regard, it is the result of the recount which has to be given effect to.

29. So also, once the Court exercise its jurisdiction to enter into the question of improper reception, refusal or rejection of any vote, or the reception of any vote which is void by reference to the election result of the returned candidate under Section 100(1)(d)(iii), as also as to the result of the election of any other candidate by reference to Section 97 of the Act and enters into scrutiny of the votes polled, followed by recount, consistently with its findings on the validity or invalidity of the votes, it cannot refuse to give effect to the result of its findings as to the validity or invalidity of the votes for the purpose of finding out true result of recount though the actual finding as to validity or otherwise of the votes by reference to number may be at variance with the pleadings. In short, the pleadings and proof in the matter of recount have relevant for the purpose of determining the question of jurisdiction to permit or not to permit recount. Once the jurisdiction to order recount is found to have been rightly exercised, thereafter it is the truth as revealed by the result of recounting that has to be given effect to."

12. He, therefore, submitted that when there was recounting done and that too on the basis of a valid order of the Revisional Court which had never been put to challenge by the respondent no.4, then the result of the recount alone should prevail and no further findings on other issues were required.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that it mattered little that as per the order dated 24.1.2019 of the High Court, the Election Officer had not been made a party as in Rule 3(2) of the Uttar Pradesh Panchayat Raj (Settlement of Election Disputes) Rules, 1994 (hereinafter referred to as 'the 1994 Rules') only such persons whose election had been questioned were to be impleaded as parties. The unsuccessful candidates had also to be arrayed as respondents in the election petition. As learned counsel for the petitioner heavily relied upon Rule 3(2) of the 1994 Rules, the same is being reproduced here as under:-

3. Election Petition. - (2) The person whose election is questioned and where the petition claims that the petitioner or any other candidates shall be declared elected in place of such person, every unsuccessful candidate shall be made a respondent to the application.

14. Learned counsel further relied upon 2 decisions of the Supreme Court reported in 2002 (3) SCC 521 (Michael B. Fernandes vs. C.K. Jaffer Sharief and Others) and AIR 1982 SC 983 (Jyoti Basu and others v. Debi Ghosal and others) and submitted that only relevant parties had to be arrayed in the election petition. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that even though the non-impleadment, despite an assurance in the High Court, was something which had to be decried, but on that basis the Revisional Court could not have allowed the Revision.

15. Learned counsel appearing for the respondent no. 4, however, submitted that when there was a specific remand made by the Revisional Court by its order dated 31.5.2018 then the grounds on the basis of which the remand was made ought to have been addressed and the Prescribed Authority could not have traveled beyond the remand order.

16. Learned Standing Counsel adopted the arguments made by the counsel for the respondent no.4.

17. Having heard the learned counsel for the petitioner, the learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 and the learned Standing Counsel, I am of the view that when there was no allegation with regard to outside votes being included by the counting authorities and the only allegation was with regard to wrong counting of votes cast in favour of the petitioner then a re-count was the only method by which the Prescribed Authority could have found out as to whether the counting was done properly.

18. In the instance case, when the recounting had been done and it was found that 988 votes were cast in favour of the petitioner, which number was greater than the votes which were cast in favour of the respondent no. 4 then no further findings with regard to the other issues were required. Finding with regard to votes which had been cast in favour of the petitioner had put to rest the controversy and returning of findings with regard to other controversies would have been an exercise in futility.

19. So far as the question of impleading the Election Officer was concerned I hold that when the requirement of Rule 3(2) of the 1994 Rules was not there then it was not essential to implead the Election Officer at all. However, the petitioner in the writ petition ought to have been more cautious in giving statements before the High Court. The practice of giving statements before the High Court and not following them is decried.

20. Under such circumstances, I find that the Revisional Courts order dated 23.10.2019 passed by the Additional District Judge Room No. 4, Amroha, District - Amroha in Panchayat Raj Revision No. 1 of 2019 (Zeenat Fatma vs. Irshad Fatma and others) cannot be sustained in the eyes of law and thus is set aside. The writ petition is allowed.

21. The petitioner shall now, in view of the order dated 24.4.2019 passed by the Prescribed Authority in the Election Petition, shall be treated as a Pradhan of Gram Panchayat Fanderi, Tehsil Dhanaura, District- Amroha.

3. Basayya I. Mathad Vs Rudrayya S. Mathad & ors 2008 (71) ALR 178

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Lallan Verma, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. By way of present petition, petitioner is assailing the order dated 11.09.2019 passed in S.C.C. Revision No. 1 of 2018 (Smt. Rajani Bala Rastogi Vs. Sanjay Kumar Gupta).

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that petitioner has filed an application under Order 41 Rule 27 of CPC for production of additional evidence in Appellate Court which was rejected by the Revisional Court vide order dated 11.09.2019. Apart from many other grounds, he has submitted that this application can only be decided at the time of final hearing of the Revision and not before that by a separate order. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court passed in the matter of State of Rajasthan Vs. T.N. Sahani and others, (2001) 10 SCC 619 decided on 12.10.2000 and also judgment of this Court passed in the matter of Smt. Sandal (Deceased) and another Vs. Smt. Hamida and others, 2018 (3) ADJ 415 decided on 04.09.2017 and submitted that in the light of provisions of Order 41 Rule 27 of CPC as well as judgment given by the Apex Court in the matter of State of Rajasthan (Supra) and by this Court in the matter of Smt. Sandal (Deceased) (Supra), impugned order is bad in law and is liable to be set aside.

4. Sri Lallan Verma, learned counsel for the respondent has vehemently opposed the argument of counsel for the petitioner and submitted that it is not open for the revisionist to file additional evidence at any time. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the matter Basayya I. Mathad Vs. Rudrayya S. Mathad and others, 2008 (71) ALR 178 decided on 24.01.2008.

5. I have considered the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties as well as judgments relied upon and perused the record.

6. There is no factual dispute in the argument of counsel for the petitioner, therefore, I have proceeded to consider the legal submissions made by counsel for the petitioner and judgments relied upon them.

7. The Apex Court in the matter of State of Rajasthan (Supra) has clearly stated that the application for additional evidence can only be decided at the time of final hearing of the Revision and not before final hearing of the Revision by a separate order. Relevant paragraph No. 4 of the judgment is quoted below:-

"4. It may be pointed out that this Court as long back as in 1963 in K. Venkataramiah v. Seetharama Reddy pointed out the scope of unamended provision of Order 41 Rule 27(c) that though there might well be cases where even though the court found that it was able to pronounce the judgment on the state of the record as it was, and so, additinla evidence could not be required to enable it to pronounce the judgment, it still considered that in the interest of justice something which remained obscure should be filled up so that it could pronounce its judgment in a more satisfactory manner. This is entirely for the court to consider at the time of hearing of the appeal on merits whether looking into the documents which are sought to be filed as additional evidence, need be looked into to pronounce its judgment in a more satisfactory manner. If that be so, it is always open to the court to look into the documents and for that purpose amended provision of Order 41 Rule 27 (b) CPC can be invoked. So the application under Order 41 Rule 27 should have been decided along with the appeal. Had the Court found the documents necessary to pronounce the judgment in the appeal in a more satisfactory manner it would have allowed the same; if not, the same would have been dismissed at that stage. But taking a view on the application before hearing of the appeal, in our view, would be inappropriate. Further the reason given for the dismissal of the application is untenable. The order under challenge cannot, therefore, be sustained. It is accordingly set aside. The application is restored to its file. The High Court will now consider the appeal and the application and decide the matter afresh in accordance with law."

8. The same view was also taken by this Court in the matter of Smt. Sandal (Deceased) (Supra). Relevant paragraph Nos. 13, 14 & 15 of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"13. As to the stage of consideration it has been held that even if an application for additional evidence under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC is filed during the pendency of the appeal, it has to be heard at the time of final hearing of the appeal i.e. at the stage when it is possible for the court to reach at its conclusion, after appreciating the evidence already on record that the additional evidence was required to be admitted on record in order to pronounce the judgment or for any other substantial cause.

14. The reason behind is that in case such an application is considered and allowed at a prior stage, the order would be a product of total and complete non application of mind to the question as to whether such evidence is required to be taken on record to pronounce the judgment or not.

15. Thus from a careful reading of the above noted judgement, the principles laid down therein as noted above, the law relating to admission of additional evidence under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC is crystal clear. The Court for taking such evidence on record has to exercise its judicial discretion circumscribed by the limitations provided under the statutory provision and that such a consideration can only be made at the time of final hearing of the appeal as it would not be possible for the first appellate court to appreciate the evidence already on record and to record reasons for doing so, at a prior stage."

9. The judgment of Apex Court in the matter of Basayya I. Mathad (Supra) is not contrary to the judgments of the Apex Court passed in the matter of State of Rajasthan (Supra) and in fact the judgment of Basayya I. Mathad (Supra) is only saying that parties to the lis are not entitled to produce additional evidence as of course or routine but must satisfy the conditions stated in Sub-Clause (a) & (aa) of Order 41 Rule 27 of CPC. Relevant paragraph of the judgment of Basayya I. Mathad (Supra) is quoted below:-

"8. .....

(2) Wherever additional evidence is allowed to be produced by an Appellate Court, the Court shall record the reason for its admission. It is clear that parties to the lis are not entitled to produce additional evidence as of course or routine but must satisfy the conditions stated in sub-clauses (a)&(aa). Admittedly, such recourse has not been resorted to neither by the party concerned nor adhered those principles by the High Court. Paragraph 3 of his order shows that the learned Judge verified the document produced on his direction without complying the mandate as provided under Rule 27 of Order XLI. Hence, we are of the view that the finding of the learned Judge based on a document produced at the time of argument de hors to Rule 27 referred above cannot be sustained in the eye of law. In such circumstances, his ultimate conclusion treating the suit property as a family property partible among the members of the family is also liable to be set aside. In fact, sub-clause (2) of Rule 27 mandates that wherever additional evidence is allowed to be produced by an Appellate Court, it shall record the reason for its admission. It is needless to mention that the High Court neither followed those conditions for production of additional evidence nor recorded the reason for basing reliance on the same."

10. Law laid down by the Apex Court in the matter of Basayya I. Mathad (Supra) can be very well raised by the respondent-plaintiff at the time of final hearing objecting the application filed under Order 41 Rule 27 of CPC, but so far as law laid down by the Apex Court in the matter of State of Rajasthan (Supra), it is very much clear that the application filed under Order 41 Rule 27 of CPC can be decided at the time of final hearing of Revision.

11. In the present case, there is no dispute on the point that the application of petitioner-revisionist has been filed under Order 41 Rule 27 of CPC for producing additional evidence which was decided prior to finally deciding the Revision whereas in the light of law laid down by this Court, it should have been heard and decided at the time of final hearing of Revision i.e. at the stage when it is possible for the Court concerned to consider this fact that whether additional evidence is required to be taken on record to decide the case or for substantial justice, therefore, impugned order is bad in law and is liable to be set aside.

12. With the aforesaid observations, impugned order is hereby set aside and petition is allowed.

13. No order as to costs.

14. Revisional Court is directed to decide the application of the Revisionist filed under Order 41 Rule 27 of CPC in the light of law laid down by the Apex Court as well by this Court.

A. Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), Order 39 Rule 2A - 'wilful disobedience' - to attract the provisions of O. 39 R. 2A - it has to be proved to satisfaction of Court that disobedience was not mere 'disobedience' but a 'wilful disobedience' , by cogent evidence, by the party which complains of the breach - There must be clear proof that the injunction order was within full knowledge of the person who is alleged to have disobeyed the same - A person cannot be held to be guilty merely on the basis of a constructive notice or presumption with regard to service of notice – Court cannot proceed on surmises, suspicion or inferences.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Manish Dev Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Sukesh Kumar, learned counsel appearing for the respondents.

2. The present petition seeks to assail the order dated 25.10.2019 passed by the Additional District Judge, Court No. 2, Aligarh in Misc. Civil Appeal No. 40 of 2019 (Shyam Singh and another vs. Makkhan Singh).

3. In terms of the aforesaid order, an appeal preferred by the defendant respondents under Order XLIII Rule 1 (r) C.P.C. has been allowed and the order dated 10.04.2019 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division) Aligarh in Misc. Case No. 3800015 of 2016 (Sri Makhhan Singh and another Vs. Sri Shyam Singh and others), whereby the defendants had been held to be guilty and the trial court had sentenced them to undergo civil imprisonment for a period of three months, has been set aside.

4. Contention of learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff/petitioners is that the order of ad-interim injunction granted in favour of the plaintiffs on 28.11.2016 directing the parties to maintain status quo regarding the disputed property till the next date was sent by registered post dated 29.11.2016 and inspite of that the defendants harvested the wheat crop standing on the disputed land which was a clear breach of the ad-interim injunction and accordingly the trial court had rightly passed the order under Order XXXIX Rule 2A and the appellate court erred in setting aside the same. Reliance has been placed on the judgment in the case of C.C.Alavi Haji Vs. Palapetty Muhammed and another1 for the proposition with regard to the presumption of service of notice in a case of a notice sent by registered post.

5. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for the defendant respondents has supported the order passed in the Misc. Civil Appeal by submitting that the injunction order having never been served, the defendants could not be held to be guilty of breach of the said order and the finding recorded by the trial court with regard to sufficiency of service was erroneous. It is further submitted that there was no material to prove the exclusive ownership and possession of the disputed land by the plaintiffs or that the crops had been sown by them. Further, it is submitted that the defendants having been duly recorded as co-sharers in the revenue records the trial court could not have overlooked the same. Reliance has been placed on the judgment in U.C.Surendranath Vs. Mambally's Bakery2 to contend that in order to attract the provisions under Order XXXIX Rule 2A it should not be a mere case of 'disobedience' but the same should be demonstrated to be a case of 'willful disobedience'.

6. The question which was under consideration in the Misc. Civil Appeal was as to whether the defendants could be held to be guilty of disobedience or breach of injunction so as to attract the provisions contained under Order XXXIX Rule 2A.

7. The Court hearing the Appeal in order to decide the aforesaid question framed the following points of determination.

"1.Whether there was some injunction order passed by the Court ?

2. Whether the injunction order was conveyed to or served upon the appellants/contemnors?

3. Whether the appellants/contemnors had time and means to obey the order?

4. Whether the disobedience or breach was deliberate and willful?"

8. The point no. 1 with regard to the existence of the injunction order was answered in the affirmative. As regards the point no. 2, which was as to whether the injunction order had been served upon the defendants the appellate court upon considering the material on record has drawn a conclusion that it was not clear as to when and on which date the notices were served on the defendants and has accordingly held that there was no clinching evidence regarding service of notice. It has taken note of the fact that the trial court had not given any cogent reason to arrive at a conclusion that service of notice on the defendants was sufficient. Having held the service of notice of the ad-interim injunction order on the defendants to be not sufficient, the appellate court held that nothing further was required to be looked into. Further, taking notice of the fact that the disputed property was a joint property and no partition having taken place the order of status quo would not have the effect of dispossessing either of the parties and also taking into consideration that there was nothing to suggest that the status quo order was also intended to restrain the continuance of the agricultural activity, the alleged act of breach was held to be not deliberate or willful and accordingly the order of civil incarceration passed by the trial court has been set aside.

9. The issue which thus falls for consideration by this Court is as to whether an allegation of disobedience merely on the basis of a constructive notice or a presumption with regard to service of notice would be sufficient to attract the provisions under Order XXXIX Rule 2A or as to whether the said powers can be invoked only in a case of 'willful disobedience' where the injunction order the breach of which is alleged was in the knowledge of the person against whom the application has been made.

10. In order to appreciate the controversy Rule 2A under Order XXXIX C.P.C. as inserted by The Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act 1976 [Act 104 of 1976], may be adverted to. For ease of reference the aforementioned provision is being extracted below:-

"2A.Consequence of disobedience or breach of injunction.- (1) In the case of disobedience of any injunction granted or other order made under Rule 1 or Rule 2 or breach of any of the terms on which the injunction was granted or the order made, of the court granting the injunction or making the order, or any Court to which the suit or proceeding is transferred, may order the property of the person guilty of such disobedience or breach to be attached, and may also order such person to be detained in the civil prison for a term not exceeding three months, unless in the meantime the Court directs his release.

(2) No attachment made under this rule shall remain in force for more than one year at the end of which time, if the disobedience or breach continues, the property attached may be sold and out of the proceeds, the Court may award such compensation as it thinks fit to the injured party and shall pay the balance, if any, to the party entitled thereto."

11. The scope of the powers exercised by a court under Order XXXIX Rule 2A came up for consideration in the case of Food Corporation of India Vs. Sukh Deo Prasad3 and it was held that these powers are punitive in nature akin to the powers to punish for civil contempt in the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 and therefore the person who complains of disobedience or breach has to clearly make out beyond any doubt that there was an injunction or order directing the person against whom the application is made, to do or desist from doing some specific thing or act and that there was disobedience or breach of such order. The Court exercising powers under Order XXXIX Rule 2A cannot proceed on surmises, suspicion or inferences. The observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"38. The power exercised by a court under order 39, Rule 2-A of the Code is punitive in nature, akin to the power to punish for civil contempt under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. The person who complains of disobedience or breach has to clearly make out beyond any doubt that there was an injunction or order directing the person against whom the application is made, to do or desist from doing some specific thing or act and that there was disobedience or breach of such order. While considering an application under order 39 Rule 2-A, the court cannot construe the order in regard to which disobedience/breach is alleged, as creating an obligation to do something which is not mentioned in the "order", on surmises, suspicions and inferences. The power under Rule 2-A should be exercised with great caution and responsibility.

39. It is shocking that the trial court had entertained an application under Order 39 Rule 2-A from a person who was not entitled to file the application, has accepted an interpretation of the order which does not flow from the order, and has created a liability where none existed, resulting in attachment of the assets of FCI to an extent of more than Rs.1.12 crores. The order dated 15.12.2004 cannot be supported or sustained under any circumstances."

12. The provisions contained under Order XXXIX Rule 2A came up for consideration in a recent judgment in the case of U.C. Surendranath Vs. Mambally's Bakery2 wherein it has been stated that for holding a person guilty of willful disobedience under Order XXXIX Rule 2A there has to be not mere 'disobedience' but it should be a 'willful disobedience' and that the allegation of willful disobedience being in the nature of criminal liability the same has to be proved to the satisfaction of the court that the disobedience was not mere 'disobedience' but a 'willful disobedience'. The observations made in this regard in the judgment are as follows:-

"7. For finding a person guilty of willful disobedience of the order under XXXIX Rule 2A C.P.C. there has to be not mere "disobedience" but it should be a "willful disobedience". The allegation of willful disobedience being in the nature of criminal liability, the same has to be proved to the satisfaction of the court that the disobedience was not mere "disobedience" but a "willful disobedience". As pointed out earlier, during the second visit of the Commissioner to the appellant's shop, tea cakes and masala cakes were being sold without any wrappers/labels. The only thing which the Commissioner has noted is that "non removal of the hoarding" displayed in front of the appellant's shop for which the appellant has offered an explanation which, in our considered view, is acceptable one."

13. It therefore follows that the powers of Rule 2A of Order XXXIX can be invoked only in a case of a willful disobedience and in a case where the defendant had no knowledge of the injunction order of which breach was alleged, a case of willful disobedience cannot be made out so as to invite the wrath of the penal action as envisaged in the said provision.

14. The proceedings under Rule 2A of Order XXXIX are of a serious nature and in terms thereof the Court is empowered to take away the liberty of an individual and order detention of the person who violates the order. The power being of a penal nature the burden lies heavily on the person who alleges disobedience to prove the offence beyond reasonable doubt.

15. The powers under Rule 2A therefore cannot be exercised on a mere apprehension or as a matter of course in the absence of clear proof that the order which was to be obeyed was clear, unambiguous and within full knowledge of the person who is alleged to have disobeyed the same. There is no room for inferring an intention to disobey an order unless the person charged had knowledge of the order.

16. Before punishment can be imposed for breach of injunction the party which complains of the breach would be required to establish that the order of injunction is not open to two interpretations and the same is unambiguous and the act complained is not in good faith.

17. Rule 2A under Order XXXIX C.P.C. as inserted by the Amendment Act, 1976 deals with punitive consequences for the disobedience or breach of an order of injunction granted by the civil court. It provides for attachment of the property of the person in breach and also for detention in civil prison. The power under this provision is somewhat identical to the civil contempt jurisdiction and enables the civil courts which are not courts of record to effectively implement their orders.

18. In the facts of the present case the Appellate Court having recorded a conclusion that there was no material to show that the injunction order had been served on the defendants, a case of willful disobedience had not been made out so as to attract the provisions of Order XXXIX Rule 2A.

19. The order passed by the Appellate Court setting aside the order of the Trial Court, in the said circumstances cannot be faulted with.

20. As regards the contention raised on behalf of the plaintiff/petitioners with regard to presumption of service of notice in a case of a notice sent by registered post there can be no quarrel with the aforesaid proposition. However, in order to attract the provisions under Order XXXIX Rule 2A there has to be not mere 'disobedience' but it should be a 'willful disobedience' and the act of willful disobedience is required to be proved by cogent evidence and a person cannot be held to be guilty of the disobedience merely on the basis of a constructive notice or a presumption with regard to service of notice. In this regard, reference may be had to the observations made in the case of Rajendra Sharma Vs. Satish Chandra Garg & others4.

"13. We have perused these and we find that in the affidavit the appellant in para 3 has stated that respondent nos. 1 to 3 were bound by the order dated 23rd February, 2004 being successor in interest of the third party. This statement is not a statement of fact but it is a legal principle which may amount to constructive notice of the injunction order dated 23.2.2004 but for constituting willful disobedience of the injunction order the disobedience must be willful and both should be proved by cogent evidence. A person cannot be held guilty of such disobedience merely on the basis of constructive notice or surmises."

21. This Court may also take notice of the fact that the power of superintendence conferred under Article 227 is discretionary and is to be exercised very sparingly on equitable principles. The power of interference under Article 227 by exercising this reserve and exceptional power is to be kept to the minimum and the Court exercising this power cannot act as a Court of appeal over the orders of the Court or tribunal subordinate to it. The parameters of interference by High Courts in exercise of its power of superintendence are to be guided by the principles laid down in the case of Waryam Singh and another Vs. Amarnath and another5 and reiterated in Shalini Shyam Shetty & Anr. Vs. Rajendra Shankar Patil6 and also in Radhey Shyam & Anr. Vs. Chhabi Nath & Ors.7

22. Counsel for the petitioner has not been able to point out any material error or illegality in the orders passed by the court below so as to warrant interference in exercise of power under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

23. The petition lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

A. Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Section 197 - Summoning of Area Lekhpal - If Area Lekhpal, in performance of his official duty, has got some act done, under conspiracy, then, that is an act or offence, committed by a public servant, in performance of his official duty - for taking cognizance, for such offence, sanction of the competent authority, under Section 197 of Cr.P.C., is to be taken - No recital in the impugned order as to whether any sanction of competent authority was taken for taking cognizance against Area Lekhpal – Impugned order set aside.

B. Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - summoning order - Allegation that accused by committing fraud got her name mutated with respect to Arazi no. 472 and took possession - Held - no document regarding mutation for Arazi No.472 was placed before court below - name of complainant shown in Khatauni for Arazi No. 472 - so far as illegally taking of possession and raising construction over Arazi No.472 - there can be no summoning unless this fact is being adjudicated upon by the civil/revenue court which is competent to dispossess an encroacher.

Matter Under Article 227 allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This proceeding, under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, has been filed by Munni Devi and three others, with a prayer for setting aside order, dated 23.11.2019, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.15, Bareilly, in Criminal Revision No. 140 of 2019/C.N.R. No. UPBRO 1-004303-2019 (Munni Devi & others vs. State of U.P. and another) as well as order, dated 26.2.2019, passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.6, Bareilly, in Complaint Case No. 3207 of 2018 (Chheda Lal Vs. Munni Devi & others), under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 and 506 of Indian Penal Code, Police Station-Fatehganj Paschimi, District Bareilly.

2. Learned counsel for applicants argued that a case crime number was got registered upon a report of Chheda Lal, after lapse of 22 years, as Case Crime No. 482 of 2012, under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 and 506 of Indian Penal Code, Police Station-Fatehganj Paschimi, District-Bareilly, wherein, investigation resulted in submission of final report. Thenafter, a protest petition was filed, wherein, Magistrate took cognizance, examined complainant and his two witnesses, under Sections 200 and 202 of Cr.P.C. Thereafter, complaint was dismissed, under Section 203 of Cr.P.C.

3. Against this order of the Magistrate, a criminal revision was filed, wherein, revisional court set aside order, dated 9.11.2017 of the Magistrate, thereby, allowed criminal revision and remanded back matter for fresh adjudication over protest petition.

4. In compliance whereof, Magistrate passed impugned order of summoning, wherein, applicants, Munni Devi, Ram Murti, Shiv Mangal, Indresh and Naqi Raza Khan, have been summoned for offences, punishable, under Section 420, 467, 468, 471 and 506 of IPC. Both of these courts have failed to appreciate facts and law placed before them and have committed misuse of process of law. Hence, invoking jurisdiction of this Court of general superintendence over subordinate courts, as conferred upon it by Article 227 of the Constitution of India, this Application has been filed, with above prayer.

5. On the other hand, learned counsel, appearing on behalf of Opposite party no.2, argued that sale of Arazi No. 489 was made by way of a registered deed, in favour of Munni Devi, but, under connivance with Area Lekhpal, Naki Raza Khan, mutation was got made, with respect of Arazi No.472, which was adjacent to road and possession was taken over it. On protest being made, accused-persons, abused and extended threat of dire consequences. Hence, an application was moved and a civil suit was also filed, wherein, there is an order in favour of Opposite parties and learned Additiional Sessions Judge has rightly appreciated facts and law, thereby, allowed criminal revision, remanded back the matter for consideration by the Magistrate, whereupon, impugned summoning order has been passed. Hence, this Application is liable to be dismissed.

6. Learned AGA, representing State of Uttar Pradesh, has also vehemently opposed this Application.

7. Heard learned counsel for both sides and gone through materials on record.

8. From very perusal of the first information report, complaint, filed by way of protest petition and statements of complainant, recorded, under Sections 200 of Cr.P.C., as well as, under Section 202 of Cr.P.C. of witnesses, it is apparent that the allegations levelled by the complainant was that he had sold land of Gata No. 489 of Village-Tithariya Khetal, by way of a registered deed, dated 22.10.1990, in favour of Munni Devi and it was mutated in the revenue record on 23.1.1996. Arazi No. 489 is away from highway, whereas, Arazi No. 472 is adjacent to highway and complainant was residing at Haldwani. Hence, taking advantage of it, Munni Devi, under connivance of area Lekhpal, Naqi Raza Khan, got mutated her name for Arazi No.472, instead of, Arazi No.489 and, thereby, she got possession over it. Thereafter, construction was raised over it. Hence, it was done by committing fraud and manufacturing forged and fictitious documents, under connivance of area Lekhpal. Firstly, learned Magistrate dismissed complaint, thenafter, on the same evidence, in compliance of order of revisional court, passed impugned summoning order, whereas, no document regarding mutation for Arazi No.472 was placed before both of the courts, rather, mutation for Arazi No. 489 was there. A judgment of civil court, rendered in, Original Suit No. 18 of 2012, Chheda Lal vs. Munni Devi, decided on 5.1.2019, has been filed before this Court, wherein, it is apparent that name of Chheda Lal is there in Khatauni for Arazi No. 472, meaning thereby, basic allegation of mutation for Arazi No. 472 is not substantiated by above factual position. Moreso, civil suit, before civil court, regarding registration, as well as before revenue court, regarding mutation, is admittedly, pending and this has been entered, by Investigating Officer, in submission of final report. Meaning thereby, mutation was there for Arazi No.489, which was admittedly transferred to Munni Devi and no mutation is there regarding Arazi No. 472.

9. Now so far as taking of possession and raising construction over Arazi No.472 for which there was no right is concerned, it is an offence of illegal encroachment and land grabbing, but, no summoning is for it and unless this fact is being adjudicated upon by the civil court in above civil proceeding or by revenue court, in revenue proceeding, which is competent to dispossess an encroacher from the revenue plot, in question, summoning for such an offence cannot be ordered.

10. So far as summoning of Area Lekhpal is concerned, his summoning may not be there. If Area Lekhpal, in performance of his official duty, has got some act done, under conspiracy, then, that is an act or offence, committed by a public servant, in performance of his official duty and for taking cognizance, for such offence, sanction of the competent authority, under Section 197 of Cr.P.C., is to be taken, but, no such recital is there as to whether any sanction of competent authority was taken for taking cognizance against Area Lekhpal, Naqi Raza Khan or not.

11. Hence, under all above facts and circumstances, it is apparent that both of the courts below failed to appreciate facts and law and passed impugned orders, without there being any basis and as such both the impugned orders are being set aside and matter is being remanded back to the court of Magistrate, where, he will hear complainant and will pass summoning order, if any, afresh, after taking into consideration the materials placed before him and after making an enquiry, and also taking into consideration of relevant Khataunis, for the year concerned, for specifying as to whether mutation was there or not and if it was there and it is found to be, under any conspiracy, then sanction, under Section 197 of Cr.P.C., is there or not against Area Lekhpal, Naqi Raza Khan and the procedure, as per law, is to be adopted.

12. In view of observations made above, this Application stands disposed of accordingly.

A. Maxim- Buyer Beware

Under Transfer of Property Act, there is a principle of buyer beware. Meaning thereby, there is a legitimate expectancy about conduct of buyer. He too is expected to make inquiry from public office about the ownership of property going to be purchased or going to be transacted and if buyer is not aware, he cannot say the same to be an offence unless that comes within definition of deception. (Para 8)

B. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 378(4) & Indian Penal Code,1860 - Section 420 -application-grant of leave to file appeal-rejection-no wilful deception could be proved by prosecution-communication of cancellation of transfer deed by public auction before alleged transfer made by accused could not be proved. (Para 7 & 9)

In present case, no wilful deception could be proved by prosecution because complainant himself was not sure as to whether Rewati Prasad was aware of this cancellation of transfer of public property or not. His public witness too was not sure. Rewati Prasad was in possession over plot in question and he executed the same through registered sale deed. (Para 7)

Application U/S 378 Cr. P.C. dismissed. (E-6)

List of cases cited:-

1. Banwarilal v. State, AIR 1956 All 341

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This application under Section 378(4) Cr.P.C. has been moved by Panna Lal Sharma with a prayer for grant of leave to file appeal against judgment of acquittal dated 02.11.2002, passed by IXth Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Aligarh in Complaint Case No. 1996 of 2002 (Panna Lal Sharma Vs. Rewati Prasad), under Section 420 I.P.C., Police Station Tappal, District Aligarh, whereby Rewati Prasad has been acquitted from the charge of offence punishable under Section 420 I.P.C.

2. Learned counsel for applicant argued that it was a complaint case filed against Rewati Prasad by Panna Lal Sharma, wherein he was summoned for offence punishable under Section 420 I.P.C. A sale deed was got executed by Rewati Prasad for plot no. 75 on 17.02.1993. This plot was obtained in a public auction from Sales Tax Department by Rewati Prasad and subsequently this public auction was cancelled by department concerned, of which information was communicated to Rewati Prasad on 28.07.1992. Even after being informed about ownership of plot no. 75, Rewati Prasad executed sale deed for same plot in favour of complainant for a consideration of Rs.8,500/-, which was not under his ownership. It was a deceit with complainant Panna Lal Sharma, hence above complaint was filed, in which summoning was there. This fact was proved by complainant's witness PW-1 and PW-2 by their testimony recorded under Section 444 and 446 Cr.P.C., but trial Court failed to appreciate facts and law placed before it, thereby passed impugned judgment of acquittal, which was result of perversity. Hence, this appeal with a prayer for grant of leave.

3. Learned A.G.A. argued that judgment was in accordance with evidence on record.

4. The admitted fact was that Rewati Prasad was owner in possession of plot no. 75, purchased by public auction from Sales Tax Department in the year 1992. This plot was sold to Panna Lal Sharma on 17.02.1993 by registered sale deed. Panna Lal Sharma being examined as PW-1 admitted that he got possession over above plot and it was got constructed by him. The testimony under Section 244 Cr.P.C. as of Panna Lal Sharma is of this fact that he is not personally aware as to whether communication regarding cancellation of transfer of plot by department concerned was made to Rewati Prasad or not. Rather, it came to his notice after making inquiry at Sales Tax Department in the year 1996.

5. The only question which was basis for judgment of acquittal was that neither Panna Lal Sharma nor his witness nor public witness examined as PW-3 was in position to prove that this communication of cancellation of transfer of plot in public auction was made to Rewati Prasad or not and on the basis of this fact this judgment of acquittal was passed. Moreso, admittedly Rewati Prasad was owner in possession of plot in question. He had made construction over it. He executed deed of transfer by registered sale deed. The transferee complainant got possession over it. He occupied the same and raised construction. It was never protested by anyone. Subsequently, upon inquiry it came to notice that in public office above deed of public auction was cancelled by department concerned. He was not aware about communication of this cancellation order to Rewati Prasad, then under how and under what circumstances, this inference can be drawn that it was under willful deceit by Rewati Prasad. The public witness could also not explain as to whether communication was made to Rewati Prasad or not.

6. For an offence punishable under Section 420 I.P.C., the essential ingredients is that "Whoever, by deceiving any person, fraudulently or dishonestly induces the person so deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to consent that any person shall retain any property, or intentionally induces the person so deceived to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived, and which act or omission causes or is likely to cause damage or harm to that person in body, mind, reputation or property, is said to "cheat"

Explanation-A dishonest concealment of facts is a deception with the meaning of this section."

7. In present case, no willful deception could be proved by prosecution because complainant himself was not sure as to whether Rewati Prasad was aware of this cancellation of transfer of public property or not. His public witness too was not sure. Rewati Prasad was in possession over plot in question and he executed the same through registered sale deed.

8. Under Transfer of Property Act, there is a principle of buyer beware. Meaning thereby, there is a legitimate expectancy about conduct of buyer. He too is expected to make inquiry from public office about the ownership of property going to be purchased or going to be transacted and if buyer is not aware, he cannot say the same to be an offence unless that comes within definition of deception.

9. The word 'dishonest' in this explanation to Section 415 is significant. Not all concealment of material facts but a dishonest concealment of an important fact amounts to deception. No concealment is dishonest within the section unless the person concealing it is legally bound to disclose it. Defects in title being defects in the property under Section 55(1)(a) of the T.P. Act, there is no duty on the seller to disclose them unless the buyer could not with ordinary care finds them out. Therefore omission to disclose by the seller that there is a defect in title which defect buyer can with ordinary care discover does not mount to cheating. There is a difference between mere concealment or non-disclosure and a false representation, and while there is no legal duty placed upon the vendor of immovable property to disclose any charge or encumbrance, yet, if a false representation is made and acted upon, and as a result, money passes, then though the false representation relates to immovable property, the offence of cheating may have been committed, but Allahabad High Court in Banwarilal v. State, AIR 1956 All 341 has propounded that vendor is to disclose previous mortgage if any, but in present case the communication of cancellation of transfer deed by public auction before alleged transfer made by accused Rewati Prasad could not be proved by prosecution. Hence, learned trial Magistrate by cogent and appropriate appreciation of facts and evidence on record came to conclusion of passing of judgment of acquittal. There is no perversity, illegality and irregularity in the impugned judgment. There is no ground for grant of leave to appeal.

10. Accordingly, application to grant leave for filing appeal, being devoid of merits, stands rejected.

Writ A No. 13 of 2020

Brijesh Kumar ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Satpal

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 -Impugned order-rejecting-application for compassionate appointment-on the ground of-petitioner nominated in FIR-in an offence-involving moral turpitude-in the absence of charge sheet-this premise-illegal & non-tenable-presumption of innocence-not to be displaced-rejection based on future happening-flawed.

B. Held, In the considered opinion of this Court, therefore, the premise on which the Superintendent of Police, Deoria has proceeded to decline the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment, is legally not tenable. The petitioner's claim has to be judged at the time when it is made and the circumstances of the petitioner on that day. It cannot be judged with reference to a conjecture about a mere future happening as indicated in the order of this Court dated 06.01.2020. Moreover, the impugned order also shows that the Superintendent of Police has taken into consideration an opinion of the District Government Counsel (Criminal), Gorakhpur dated 06.09.2019. A legal opinion may be sought by any person in matters legal, who is himself not trained in law or still if he desires better opinion. But an authority charged with jurisdiction to decide upon civil rights of parties has to do so upon an independent application of mind to the facts and evidence on record. He cannot take into consideration, while exercising his jurisdiction to decide valuable rights of parties, such as the right to appointment on compassionate basis under the Rules, a legal opinion; if he does, it would be extraneous and irrelevant material. For this reason, also, the impugned order passed by the Superintendent of Police, Deoria, is found to be flawed.

Writ Petition allowed. (E-8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order dated 11.11.2019 passed by the Superintendent of Police, Deoria whereby the petitioner's application for compassionate appointment made under the U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974, (for short, 'the Rules') has been rejected.

2. When this matter came up first on 6th January, 2020 the following order was made:

"The petitioner's application for compassionate appointment under the U.P. Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 have been rejected by the impugned order dated 11.11.2019. The basis for the rejection that is recorded is that the petitioner was nominated in Case Crime No. 3 of 2015, under Sections 147, 452, 323, 504, 427, 354 I.P.C., P.S. Jhagaha, district Gorakhpur. The impugned order records that during investigation, the police have found the petitioner's nomination in the crime to be incorrect and have not charge sheeted him. It is then said in the impugned order that the offence committed by the petitioner is one that involves moral turpitude and there is a possibility that the petitioner may be summoned by the Court. On the aforesaid possibility, the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment has been rejected. Also, the Superintendent of Police, Deoria while passing the said order has taken into consideration an opinion of the District Counsel (Criminal), Gorakhpur.

The submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the impugned order is manifestly illegal and takes into consideration irrelevant and extraneous material besides drawing perverse conclusions. He submits that the impugned order takes into consideration an opinion submitted by the District Government Counsel (Criminal) which is absolutely extraneous material. It is further submitted that the possibility that the petitioner might be summoned in future is nothing but a perverse conclusion. The petitioner's claim cannot be rejected on the conjecture of a mere future happening. As of day, the petitioner has not been charge sheeted and is not an accused before the Court in any criminal case.

Sri Indramani Kushwaha, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent Nos. 1,2 and 3 will seek instructions in the matter within three days.

Lay this matter as fresh on 10.01.2020."

3. Today, on instructions received from the Superintendent of Police, Deoria the same stand has been reiterated, to wit, that the petitioner being nominated in Case Crime No. 3 of 2015 under Sections 147, 452, 323, 504, 427, 354 I.P.C., P.S. Jhagaha, District Gorakhpur, he cannot be offered compassionate appointment for reason that though his complicity has not been found by the police during investigation, there is a possibility that in future he might be summoned by the Court. In the instructions received from the Superintendent of Police, it has also been said that the view of the Superintendent of Police is based on the advice received from the District Magistrate,Gorakhpur through a memo dated 09.10.2019, where it is said that the crime wherein the petitioner has been nominated involves moral turpitude and the possibility of the petitioner being summoned in future by the Court where other co-accused have been charge-sheeted, cannot be ruled out. The District Magistrate, Gorakhpur has opined that it would not be proper to offer compassionate appointment to the petitioner. The Superintendent of Police has further indicated his mind in the written instructions that he has given to the learned Chief Standing Counsel that he is in agreement with the report (legal opinion of the District Magistrate, Gorakhpur) and after a deep and thoughtful consideration of the matter he is of opinion that in view of registration of a crime against the petitioner he ought not to be offered compassionate appointment.

4. The written instructions received by the learned Standing Counsel are being retained on record and made part of it. The learned Standing Counsel does not propose to file a counter affidavit.

5. Admit.

6. The writ petition is being heard forthwith.

7. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri J.S. Bundela, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of all the respondents.

8. It is no doubt true that the petitioner was nominated in Case Crime No. 3 of 2015 under Sections 147, 452, 323, 504, 427, 354 I.P.C. but during investigation the petitioner has not at all been found involved and has not been charge-sheeted. Therefore, on the date when the authority has considered the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment, the petitioner is not an accused in the case. The possibility that the petitioner may be summoned in future by the Court where other nominated accused would be tried, as they have been charge-sheeted, is a mere conjecture. There is no basis to it. It is not the respondent's case that there is already an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. made on behalf of the complainant requesting the Court to summon the petitioner who has been exculpated by the police during the investigation. It would be well to remember that there is a presumption of innocence in favour of every citizen and that presumption cannot be displaced on assumptions of the Superintendent of Police for the mere fact that an FIR has been registered nominating the petitioner which the police themselves on investigation have found to be of no worth vis-a-vis the petitioner.

9. In the considered opinion of this Court, therefore, the premise on which the Superintendent of Police, Deoria has proceeded to decline the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment, is legally not tenable. The petitioner's claim has to be judged at the time when it is made and the circumstances of the petitioner on that day. It cannot be judged with reference to a conjecture about a mere future happening as indicated in the order of this Court dated 06.01.2020. Moreover, the impugned order also shows that the Superintendent of Police has taken into consideration an opinion of the District Government Counsel (Criminal), Gorakhpur dated 06.09.2019. A legal opinion may be sought by any person in matters legal, who is himself not trained in law or still if he desires better opinion. But, an authority charged with jurisdiction to decide upon civil rights of parties has to do so upon an independent application of mind to the facts and evidence on record. He cannot take into consideration, while exercising his jurisdiction to decide valuable rights of parties, such as the right to appointment on compassionate basis under the Rules, a legal opinion; if he does, it would be extraneous and irrelevant material. For this reason also, the impugned order passed by the Superintendent of Police, Deoria, is found to be flawed.

10. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 11.11.2019 passed by the Superintendent of Police, Deoria, Annexure 1 to the writ petition, is hereby quashed.

11. The Superintendent of Police, Deoria is ordered to decide the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment under the Rules, strictly in accordance with law bearing in mind what has been said in this judgment, within a period of one month positively from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

12. Let a copy of this order be communicated to the Superintendent of Police, Deoria by the office within a week.

Special Appeal No. 53 of 2020

Satya Dev Yadav ...Appellant
Versus

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Om Prakash Rai

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Ankit Gaur (Standing Counsel), Sri C.B. Tripathi (Standing Counsel)

A. U.P Basic Education Staff Rules, 1973-Rule-5-Challenging-impugned Judgment & order-on the ground of-availability of statutory alternative remedy-of Appeal-against the punishment-stoppage of two increments-no such remedy available-directed to file representation-before the appropriate authority-order stands modified.

B. Held, we are of the view that appellant is at liberty to make a representation before the appropriate authority instead of preferring a statutory appeal, as held by the Learned Single Judge. The impugned order and judgment stand modified accordingly.

Special Appeal disposed of. (E-8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Biswanath Somadder, J. & Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. The instant Special Appeal arises in respect of a judgment and order dated 19th December, 2019, passed by a learned Single Judge in Writ-A No. 20402 of 2019 (Satya Deo Yadav versus State of U.P. and 4 others). By the impugned judgement and order, the learned Single Judge was pleased to relegate the writ petitioner before a statutory authority upon taking into consideration the stand taken by the learned standing counsel for the State of Uttar Pradesh to the effect that there is a statutory alternative remedy of appeal under Rule 5 of the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Staff Rules, 1973, against the order which was impugned before the writ Court.

2. The appellant before us is the writ petitioner.

3. According to the learned advocate for the writ petitioner, the provisions of Rule 5 of the 1973 Rules do not allow the writ petitioner to prefer a statutory appeal in the facts of the present case since the punishment that has been imposed upon the writ petitioner is stoppage of two increments. At this stage, we must notice Rule 5 of the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Staff Rules, 1973, which reads as follows :-

"5. Appeal. - An appeal shall lie from an order passed by the appointing authority in respect of the posts mentioned in column 1 of the Schedule appended to these rules, imposing upon any officer, teacher or other employee of the Board any of the penalties mentioned below, to the appellate authority mentioned in column 3 of the said Schedule :-

(a) reduction to a lower post on time-scale or to a lower stage in a time-scale;

(b) removal from service of the Board which does not disqualify for future employment;

(c) dismissal from the service of the Board, which ordinarily disqualifies from future employment.

(2) In case of other penalties against which no appeal is provided in this rule, the punished officer, teacher or other employee of the Board may make a representation against the imposition of any of these penalties to such officer as the Director of Education (Basic) may by general orders from time to time specify in this behalf.

(3) The procedure laid down in Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, as applicable to servants of the Uttar Pradesh Government shall, as far as possible, be followed in disciplinary proceedings, appeals and representations under these rules."

4. A plain reading of the aforesaid Rule, particularly, sub-rule (2) clearly indicates that in case of other penalties against which no appeal is provided in Rule 5, the punished officer, teacher or other employee of the Board may make a representation against the imposition of any of such penalties to such officers as the Director of Education (Basic) may, by general orders, from time to time, specify in this behalf.

5. In such circumstances, we are of the view that appellant is at liberty to make a representation before the appropriate authority instead of preferring a statutory appeal, as held by the learned Single Judge. The impugned judgment and order stands modified accordingly.

6. The instant Special Appeal stands disposed of in the manner as indicated above.

A. National Council for Teacher's Education Act, 1993 - Regulations of 2005 - special appeal-against judgment and order dated 20.05.2011-grant of recognition denied-on the ground of violation of Regulation 7 (12) - no illegality or legal infirmity committed by respondent-while granting conditional recognition-unconditional recognition-pre-requisite-for admitting students-

Regulation 8 (10)-order for conditional recognition-legal.

B. Held, admittedly, the validity of of the aforesaid Regulation was neither challenged before the Learned single Judge nor before the Special Appellate Court and hence we hold that the respondent did not commit any illegality or legal infirmity in granting conditional recognition to the appellants under Regulation 7 (12) of the Regulations of 2005 and the recognition granted by the NCTE by letter dated 26th May 2007 was a conditional recognition.

Special Appeal dismissed. (E-8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Bala Krishna Narayana, J. & Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anshul Bhatnagar, learned counsel for the appellant, learned Standing Counsel for respondent nos. 1, 2 and 3, Sri V.B. Mishra, learned counsel for respondent no. 4 and Sri R.A. Akhtar, learned counsel for respondent nos. 5 and 6.

2. This special appeal has been preferred by the appellants against judgment and order dated 20.05.2011 passed by learned Single Judge of this Court dismissing Writ-C No. 64960 of 2009 (C/M Shri Gauri Shanker Sanskrit Maha Vidyalaya and others vs. State of U.P. and others) with cost of Rs.50,000/-.

3. Facts of the case may be stated briefly hereinbelow:-

4. The petitioner had filed the aforesaid writ petition challenging the order dated 12.11.2009 passed by respondent no. 6, Northern Regional Committee, National Council for Teacher Education, Jaipur (hereinafter referred to as "NCTE") according recognition/ permission to the petitioner's institution for running B.Ed Course (Secondary Level) of one year for academic session 2009-10, subject to certain conditions, failing which the recognition would stand effected from academic session 2010-11.

5. According to petitioner Shri Gauri Shanker Sanskrit Mahavidyalaya, Sujanganj, Jaunpur (hereinafter referred to as "the College") is managed by a society registred under the Societies Registration Act, 1860. It was duly affiliated to Sampurnanand Sanskrit Vishwavidyalaya and is imparting instructions of studies of Shastri and Acharya. The College intended to commence Bachelor of Education Shiksha Shastri course, hence applied to NCTE for grant of approval vide application dated 24th July, 2006. A conditional letter of recognition was granted on 26th May, 2007 subject to following conditions:

"(1) Appointment of qualified staff through duly constituted selection committee as per the norms of NCTE/ State Govt. Affiliating University given effect before the commencement of the course.

(2) Send a blue print of the building plan showing clearly demarcated area for B.Ed. (add.) M.Ed. Programme.

(3) Advertisement notice.

(4) Consolidate staff list on the prescribed format duly approved by the affiliation body.

(5) Proceedings of the Selection committee along with a copy of the letter from the affiliating body nomination a member for the selection."

6. Para 3 of the aforesaid letter contained a recital that conditional recognition was granted with the advise to remove deficiencies shown in 5th column, reproduced above, and furnish compliance within 30 days from the date of issue of the aforesaid letter. The aforesaid letter contained some more directions in paras 4, 5 and 6 of the aforesaid letter, which read as under:

"4. The institution shall undertake appointment of the staff by a duly constituted selected committee and ensure selection of candidates possessing qualifications as prescribed under rules. (Appointment shall be made on the basis of recommendations of the Selection Committee constituted as per the policy of the UGC/ Affiliating University).

5. Attention of the institution concerned is also drawn to section 7(12) of NCTE Regulations dt. 13.01.2006, which reads as "The institutions concerned, after appointing the requisite faculty/staff, shall put the information on its official website and also formally inform the Regional Committee concerned. The Regional Committee concerned shall then issue a formal unconditional recognition order". Compliance with the requirements shall be submitted on a Sworn affidavit and annexures thereto for issue of unconditional recognition order. Until then the institution shall not admit students to the course.

6. Therefore, the institution are hereby issued a letter of conditional recognition for further necessary action to submit requisite compliance and take steps as per the NCTE Rules and Regulations before the commencement of the session."

7. The letter categorically directed the College not to admit any student to the aforesaid course till an unconditional recognition was issued by the Regional Committee, NCTE.

8. The College claims to have complied with the aforesaid five deficiencies and informed NCTE vide letter dated 25th June, 2007. In the meantime State Government also issued a no objection letter on 21st June, 2007, permitting the petitioner-college to run Shiksha Shastri (B.Ed.) Course. Sampurnanand Sanskrit Vishwavidyalaya, Varanasi (hereinafter referred to as "the University") also granted affiliation/recognition as a examining body of the aforesaid course in the College vide university's letter dated 18.12.2007.

9. It is said that for academic session 2007-08, pursuant to a Joint Entrance Examination conducted by Chhatrapati Sahu Ji Maharaj University, Kanpur, 83 students were forwarded to the College for admission to the aforesaid course. The petitioner-college admitted 80 candidates out of said list in academic session 2007-08 and 20 seats remained unfilled. The aforesaid students completed their course and appeared in final examination conducted by the University. 79 students passed the examination and one failed. The students, who passed the examination, were issued marks sheet and degree by University.

10. Again for academic session 2008-09, 111 students were forwarded by the examining body i.e. Agra University out of which 94 candidates took admission in the petitioner's college.

11. It is also said that for academic session 2007-08 joint entrance examining body namely Chhatrapati Sahu Ji Maharaj University, Kanpur forwarded 8 more candidates, who were granted admission in February, 2009.

12. The matter of unconditional recognition was considered by NCTE and vide order dated 12th August, 2009, it declined to grant recognition to petitioner's college. The petitioner filed an appeal under Section 18 of National Council for Teachers Education Act, 1993, which was allowed vide order dated 8th October, 2009 (Annexure 10 to the writ petition) pursuant whereto the impugned order of recognition has been issued by NCTE.

13. The respondent no. 4 in its counter affidavit filed before the Writ Court took the stand that affiliation was granted, only on the basis of certificate and documents sent by college regarding land and building. For the rest of the matter, it was the decision of the NCTE which was to be final. It was also stated in the counter affidavit that the subject-matter of the writ petition was primarily a dispute between the petitioner and the NCTE.

14. On behalf of NCTE, a separate counter affidavit sworn by Dr. K.S. Yadav, Regional Director, Northern Regional Committee, (NCTE) was filed. It is stated therein that conditional recognition letter specifically mentioned that until issuance of unconditional letter of recognition, the college shall not admit students to the aforesaid course. In the circumstances it was not open or permissible to the College to admit any student in the course in question. If college has done something illegal and in breach of aforesaid specific condition contained in the letter dated 26th May, 2007, it cannot take and cannot be made to take advantage of its own breach. NCTE took further stand that even if final recognition granted by NCTE is deemed to relate back to the date of grant of conditional recognition that would not allow the College to flout one of the clear mandate contained in the letter dated 26th May, 2007, which became final having never been challenged by the College before any appropriate forum.

15. In the rejoinder affidavit filed by the petitioner, the aforesaid breach was admitted but what was stated in defence was that it appeared to be a misconstruction and confusion which prevailed with the respondents. There was no deliberate omission or error on the part of the petitioner. It was also however, pointed out that when students, who were admitted in academic session 2007-08 were not being permitted to appear in examination by University the College filed writ petition no.60218 of 2008 wherein an interim order was passed on 9th February, 2009. Pursuant to the interim order, the students appeared in the examination of University. The aforesaid writ petition was disposed of finally on 4th January, 2010 with the following order:

"Today supplementary affidavit has been filed in writ petition no.60218 of 2008 annexing therewith copy of order dated 11.11.2009. This order has been passed by Northern Regional Committee, National Council for Teacher Education, Jaipur. Learned counsel for the petitioner as well as Shri Neeraj Tewari, learned counsel for Bundelkhand University and Shri Rajeev Joshi, learned for N.C.T.E state that the above order dated 11.11.2009 has been passed in pursuance of earlier order of appellate authority dated 13.7.2009. It has further been stated that in view of order dated 11.11.2009 result of the examination which has already been held under interim order passed in these two writ petitions is to be declared. In view of the above joint statement both these writ petitions are disposed of with the direction that the result of the examination which had been held under the interim order passed in these writ petitions shall be declared."

16. Learned Single Judge after considering the submissions advanced before him by learned counsel for the parties, by impugned judgment and order dismissed the writ petition holding that petitioners were not only guilty of violating statutory provisions but also letter dated 26th May, 2007 and also guilty of defrauding several students while admitting them to a course for which no permission was granted.

17. Hence this appeal.

18. It is contended by Sri Ansul Bhatnagar, learned counsel appearing for the appellants that firstly the words "unconditional recognition" mentioned in the letter dated 26th May, 2007 are a result of typographical mistake and there was no prohibition restraining the petitioner from admitting students to the B.Ed Course 2007-08 and 2008-09.

19. He next contended that once conditional recognition was granted which culminated in grant of final unconditional recognition, the students who had already been admitted by the petitioners in their institution would not have been deprived of the benefit of recognition of the Course and, therefore, the learned Single Judge committed an error apparent on the face of the record by dismissing the writ petition and denying the benefit of the recognition of the Course to the students admitted during the Sessions 2007-08 and 2008-09, as necessarily the recognition related back to the date on which conditional recognition was granted.

20. Learned counsel for the appellant in support of his aforesaid contention has placed reliance upon an unreported judgment of this Court passed by a single Bench of this Court in Writ-C No. 21716 of 2010 (Indira Gandhi Girls Degree College vs. National Council for Teacher Education and others), which has been brought on record as Annexure-8 to the affidavit accompanying the special appeal, but the same is of no help to him.

21. He has further contended that the Act does not contemplate any conditional or unconditional recognition and once recognition is granted, it is valid for all purposes and cannot be deferred so as to deprive the college from admitting the students in the course concerned.

22. Per contra, Sri V. B. Mishra, learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 4 has made submissions in support of the impugned judgment and order and he has further contended that the judgment passed by learned Single Judge is based upon relevant considerations and supported by cogent reasons and needs no interference by this Court. This appeal lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

23. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material brought on record.

24. As far as parties are concerned, there is no dispute about the fact that unconditional recognition was granted to the petitioner for running one year B.Ed course by order dated 12.11.2009, issued by respondent no. 6 for the Session 2009-10. Thus, it is apparent that petitioner institution in the absence of any recognition could not have admitted students for the academic Sessions 2007-08 and 2008-09, especially in view of the specific stipulation contained in the conditional recognition to the effect that till the unconditional recognition was granted to the petitioner's college, they shall not admit any student.

25. Coming to the first contention of learned counsel for the appellant, we find the same to be without any merit. We have very carefully gone through the letter dated 26th May, 2007 issued by respondent no. 1 and the same is very specific and does not admit of any other interpretation except that until unconditional recognition was granted, the petitioners could not admit students in the one year B.Ed Course for the Sessions 2007-08 and 2008-09 and there does not appear to us to be any typographical mistake in the impugned order.

26. Coming to the issue upon which the second ground of challenge is based, we find that the said issue has been addressed by the learned Single Judge in great detail and after a comprehensive analysis of the numerous authorities on the issue, the learned Single Judge repelled the same and recorded that in the absence of any authority on the part of the petitioners to admit students in the academic Sessions 2007-08 and 2008-09, merely for the reason that it has proceeded ahead in flagrant defiance of negative mandate contained in letter dated 26th May, 2007 read with Regulation 8(10) of Regulations 2005, it cannot be said that act of the petitioner could be justified by relating back the impugned order to the aforesaid two academic sessions.

27. Learned Single Judge further recorded that it is true that equity, sympathy etc. some time constitute a relevant factor to decide a matter but where a flagrant violation of statutory provision has been shown such attributes on the part of the Court would not justify grant relief to a person who is guilty of proceeding in breach of requisite directions and statutory provisions.

28. The learned Single Judge referred to and relied up the following authorities:

29. In State of West Bengal & others Vs. Banibrata Ghosh & others (2009) 3 SCC 250, such a request was declined to be accepted by the Apex Court observing that it would be a misplaced sympathy.

30. In D.M. Premkumari Vs. The Divisional Commissioner, Mysore Division and others 2009 (2) SCALE 731, the Court observed:

"The law is merciless", is a most frequently quoted saying. It has led people to mistakenly think that it is separated from feelings of righteousness. We have become used to the understanding that such emotions as indignation, sorrow and compassion should not exist in legal cases, especially not in judiciary. This, in our view, is a misunderstanding. Judiciary has a very strong sense of justice and it works to maintain social justice and fairness. We hasten to add, judiciary does not believe in misplaced sympathy."

31. Giving reasons for not extending the indulgence in favour of the persons, who have worked for sometimes though not validly appointed, in State of Bihar Vs. Upendra Narayan Singh & others JT 2009 (4) SC 577, the Court observed :

"...the Courts gradually realized that unwarranted sympathy shown to the progenies of spoil system has eaten into the vitals of service structure of the State and public bodies and this is the reason why relief of reinstatement and/or regularization of service has been denied to illegal appointees/backdoor entrants in large number of cases..."

32. In Om Prakash & others Vs. Radhacharan & others 2009 (6) SC 329, the Court observed :

"It is now a well settled principle of law that sentiment or sympathy alone would not be a guiding factor in determining the rights of the parties which are otherwise clear and unambiguous."

33. In Subha B. Nair & others Vs. State of Kerala & others 2008 (7) SCC 210, the Court said:

"This Court furthermore cannot issue a direction only on sentiment/sympathy."

34. In Jagdish Singh Vs. Punjab Engineering College & others JT 2009 (8) SC 501, the Court referred to the observations made earlier in Kerala Solvent Extractions Ltd. Vs. A. Unnikrishnan and another 1994 (1) SCALE 63 with approval as under :

"The reliefs granted by the courts must be seen to be logical and tenable within the framework of the law and should not incur and justify the criticism that the jurisdiction of the courts tends to degenerate into misplaced sympathy, generosity and private benevolence. It is essential to maintain the integrity of legal reasoning and the legitimacy of the conclusions. They must emanate logically from the legal findings and the judicial results must be seen to be principled and supportable on those findings. Expansive judicial mood of mistaken and misplaced compassion at the expense of the legitimacy of the process will eventually lead to mutually irreconcilable situations and denude the judicial process of its dignity, authority, predictability and respectability."

35. As far as the last ground on which the impugned order has been challenged by the counsel for the appellant that there is no provision under the Act envisaging unconditional recognition or conditional recognition and the only word used being recognition, the conditional recognition granted to the petitioners vide letter dated 26th May, 2007 of the respondent no. 3 was in fact an unconditional recognition, the same is also without any merit and deserves to be rejected.

36. In this regard, it would be useful to reproduce Regulation 7(12) and 8(10) of Regulations of 2005 which are hereinbelow:

37. Regulation 7(12) of Regulations of 2005 reads as under:

"The institution concerned, after appointing the requisite faculty/staff, shall put the information on its official website and also formally inform the Regional Committee concerned. The Regional Committee concerned shall then issue a formal unconditional recognition order."

38. Regulation 8(10) of Regulations of 2005 contemplates that till such unconditional recognition is not granted, no admission shall be given. Regulation 8(10) reads as under:

"An institution shall make admission only after it obtains unconditional letter of recognition from the Regional Committee concerned, and affiliation from the examining body."

39. Admittedly the validity of the aforesaid Regulation was neither challenged before the learned Single Judge nor before the Special Appellate Court and hence we hold that the respondent did not commit any illegality or legal infirmity in granting conditional recognition to the appellants under Regulation 7(12) of the Regulations of 2005 and the recognition granted by the NCTE by letter dated 26th May, 2007 was a conditional recognition.

40. In view of the above, we do not find that the order passed by learned Single Judge suffers from any illegality or legal infirmity requiring any interference by this Court.

41. However, we quash the cost of Rs.50,000/- awarded by the impugned order. The appeal is disposed of accordingly.

A. Service/Labour Law – Wages and conditions of service - The Contract Labour (Regulation and Abolition) Central Rules, 1971: Rules 25(2)(v)(a), 25(2)(v)(b) – Contract labourers have right to approach Dy. Chief Labour Commissioner (Central) u/r 25(2)(v)(b) and to retrospective adjudication.

The cause of action regarding wages and conditions of service arises to the Contract labourers when their wages and other fringe benefits are determined in license agreement and not before. Therefore, the right u/r 25(2)(v)(b) cannot be denied to them because license agreement was in operation. (Para 20)

It is a settled law that all adjudication by a quasi-judicial or by a Judicial Tribunal is retrospective in nature, and the rights and liabilities of the parties are crystallized at the time of filing of application before the Authority concerned. A determination made with prospective effect would be meaningless for those contract labourers who had approached the Authority concerned for a just and fair adoption of their assignments and conditions of service. (Para 7, 19)

B. (3) The opposite party no.1 has allowed the application moved by the Contract Safai Karamchari of the factory premises and directed them to be given the same wages as were admissible to unskilled regular employees of HAL Unit, Korwa.

(4) Shri Manish Kumar Singh appears on behalf of the opposite party no.2 i.e. Safai Karamchari Union relating to the factory premises only.

(5) It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that initially the opposite party no.2-Korwa Safai Karamchari Union, of Sanitation Contract Labourers engaged in factory premises of the petitioner at HAL unit, Korwa, had filed a Writ Petition No.5715 (S/S) of 1996 praying for payment of same salary to them as paid to regular workers of the factory at Amethi. This Court by an order dated 02.04.1997 directed the opposite party no.2 to approach the Dy. Chief Labour Commissioner, under Rule 25 of the Rules of 1971, While disposing of the petition. Instead of approaching the Dy. Chief Labour Commissioner (Central) under the Rules of 1971, the opposite party no.2 filed an application before the Labour Commissioner U.P. under the U.P. Rules of 1975. The Labour Commissioner U.P. determined the wages by its order dated 04.041998 placing the reliance upon the earlier adjudication with regard to the Lucknow unit of HAL relating to Contract Sanitation Labourers therein.

(6) Against the order dated 04.04.1998, the petitioner filed a Writ Petition No.2254 (SS) of 1998, taking several grounds for challenge including a ground that the order passed by the U.P. Labour Commissioner was without jurisdiction. This Court passed a detailed order wherein it upheld the order passed by the U.P. Labour Commissioner under the U.P. Rules of 1975 saying that under the U.P. Contract Labour (Regulation & Abolition) Act, the appropriate Government was the State Government of U.P. as it had issued the license for the Contractor. The petitioner being aggrieved against the order passed by this Court on 18.09.2001 in Writ Petition No.2254 (SS) of 1998, filed a Civil Appeal No.3659 of 2002 which Civil Appeal was allowed by the Supreme Court by its judgment and order dated 18.07.2002, holding that the Central Government is the appropriate Government with respect to the petitioner's Establishment, and left it open for the Contract Labourers to approach the Dy. Chief Labour Commissioner (Central) for determination of their wages and other conditions of service under the Central Rules of 1971.

(7) The opposite party no.2 thereafter, filed an application under Rule 25 (2) (v) (b) of the Central Rules of 1971, praying that its members be given the same wages and other fringe benefits as were being given to directly recruited workmen of their Company working in the HAL Unit at Korwa. The opposite party no.1 issued notice to the petitioner and on 08.05.2003, the petitioner filed a written statement in the form of a preliminary objection, wherein it took the ground that the opposite party no.1 did not have the power to enter into such inquiry and determination retrospectively, as the Contract Labour Licenses had been issued a long time ago and the agreement with the Contractor was already in operation. A second ground raised with regard to the maintainability of the application was of non-joinder of necessary contractors who had engaged the contract labourers from 1985 till date. It was also specifically mentioned that the parity cannot be given to Korwa Mandal Contract Labourers with Lucknow Unit of HAL as it was situated in the heart of the City of Lucknow whereas the Korwa Mandal HAL Unit was situated in a remote area of District Sultanpur. If at all parity could be given, it could only be by comparing the wages and service conditions of the Industries situated in the Geographical area of Amethi. The petitioner had also filed a chart of wages and service conditions of workers of Bharat Heavy Electricals Limited and Indo Gulf Fertilizers Limited as exemplars. It was moreover, submitted that the petitioner's Establishment at Amethi/Korwa was an exempted Establishment by specific notification issued in respect of workers by the appropriate Government, where the Contractor used to pay closure compensation at end of contract period, and thus they were better placed than the Contract labourers of the petitioner's Establishment in Lucknow.

(8) The opposite party no.2 submitted a rejoinder reply on 20.12.2003 wherein it reiterated that the Labour Commissioner, U.P. by its order dated 29.04.1989 had already decided the issue as to what wages should be paid to contract labourers engaged in similar sanitation work in HAL Ltd. Lucknow. The order passed by the Labour Commissioner, U.P. on 28.04.1989 with regard to the contract labourers of Lucknow Division had been upheld by the High Court and the Special Leave Petition and Review Petition had been dismissed.

(9) It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the opposite party no.1, did not appreciate the matter fairly, although the petitioner had relied upon three judgments of the Supreme Court to show that the wages and other conditions of service of the opposite party no.2 shall only be governed by the wages and other conditions of service of the similarly situated workers in Industries located in the same Geographical region. The opposite party no.1 also failed to apply its mind to the objection raised regarding non-joinder of the necessary parties, and that no retrospective determination could be made under Rule 25 (2) (v) (b) of the Rules of 1971 by the opposite party no.1.

(10) It has been submitted that the opposite party no.1 also failed to appreciate that the petitioner was paying the wages equivalent to the workers of engineering Industry under State Government Notification which was much higher than the wages that were being paid to similarly situated workers of Industries situated in the same Geographical area for example Bharat Heavy Electricals Limited and Indo Gulf Fertilizers Limited.

(11) It has also been submitted that the opposite party no.1 failed to appreciate the distinction between the Rule 25 (2) (v) (a) and Rule 25 (2) (v) (b) of the Rule of 1971, under Rule 25 (2) (v) (a) Contract labourers who are discharging the same or similar duties as workmen functioning directly under the principal employer were to be given the same wages and conditions of service, as such, directly recruited regular workmen. The opposite party no.2, on the other hand, had filed an application under Rule 25 (2) (v) (b) of the 1971 Rules, thereby admitting that they were not performing the same or similar duties and functions as regularly recruited workmen of HAL unit and Korwa, Amethi. Therefore, a determination had been asked for, from the opposite party no.1 by the opposite party no.2.

(12) It has also been submitted that when the determination of wages and conditions of service of Lucknow Division was undertaken by the order dated 28.04.1989, it related to Lucknow Division alone and the same could not have been relied upon by the opposite party no.1. A fresh determination was required by the opposite party no.1 necessarily implying independent application of mind to all relevant considerations.

(13) It has been submitted that in between the wages of Group-A workmen directly recruited in the Establishment of Korwa Unit, Amethi, and the minimum wages notified under the Minimum Wages Act by the State of U.P. one Pay scale was available, that was the scale determined by the Engineering Wage Board and, therefore, the petitioner's Unit at Korwa fairly relied upon such wages as fixed by the Engineer Wage Board, and extended the benefit to the said contract labourers as opposite party no.2.

(14) Learned counsel for the Korwa Safai Karamchari Union at HAL Factory premises at its Korwa Unit, Amethi, Sultanpur, Shri Manish Kumar Singh, has pointed out that in the same Industry i.e. HAL there were several units functioning at Bangalore, Kanpur, Lucknow and Amethi. With regard to the Unit at Lucknow, sanitation workers performed the same duties as was performed by sanitation workers at the factory premises of HAL unit at Amethi, they belonged to the same Geographical region and the factories were situated at a distance of mere 125 kms. from each other. In identically situated units on same work being performed, similar wages and conditions of service to contract labourers had been given by the opposite party no.1 and the order passed by the opposite party no.1 dated 27.07.2004 needs no interference by this Court.

(15) It has been pointed out that the Labour Commissioner on 29.04.1989 with regard to contract labourers working at Lucknow unit had passed an order that they be given the same wages and conditions of service as were given to unskilled regular workmen of HAL unit at Lucknow. Against such order the petitioner had filed a Writ Petition No.4353 (SS) of 1989 which was disposed of on 28.01.1994 by this Court holding that the Engineering Wage Board Notification was not applicable to the petitioner's Establishment and upheld determination of wages to be paid to the contract labourers as fixed by the Labour Commissioner on 29.04.1989. Against such order dated 29.04.1989 the petitioner filed a Special Leave Petition before the Supreme Court which was dismissed in liminie. A Review Petition was filed thereafter, by the petitioner which was also dismissed by the Supreme Court on 28.09.1994. The determination made with regard to the Lucknow unit of Sanitation workers was therefore, rightly relied upon by the opposite party no.1 in passing the order impugned.

(16) With regard to the non-joinder of necessary parties i.e. the Contractors who were engaged from time to time at Amethi Unit by the petitioner since 1985 onwards, till the date of filing of the application and adjudication by the opposite party no.1, the statement recorded of Dy. Manager (Works) on 10.03.2004 filed as Annexure-10 to the writ petition, has been read out by Shri Manish Kumar Singh. He says that from a bare perusal of such statement, it is evident that it was admitted by HAL witnesses themselves that the Contractor used to pay wages and extend other fringe benefits to the Contract labourers only in accordance with the license agreement signed by the HAL where the determination was done by the HAL. The HAL was the principal employer and under Section 21 of the Act of 1971, the principal employer alone is responsible to give fair and just wages to the contract labourers. The Contractor was only executing the service conditions that were fixed by the HAL.

(17) With regard to the retrospective determination, and the objections raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Manish Kumar Singh, has pointed out that from a perusal of the order impugned, it is evident that the opposite party no.1 has extended benefit only with effect from 01.02.2003 i.e. from the month and the year of submission of the application before the Authority concerned under the Rules. There was no necessity for impleading contractors who had been engaged by the HAL through license agreement since 1985.

(18) Learned counsel for the petitioner in rejoinder has submitted that there can be no retrospective determination i.e. with effect from the date of the application was filed, as such determination as contemplated under Order Rule 25 (2) (v) (b) has to occur before the license agreement is unsigned by HAL.

(19) This Court cannot appreciate this argument, as a determination made with prospective effect would be meaningless for those contract labourers who had approached the Authority concerned for a just and fair adoption of their assignments and conditions of service. It is a settled law that all adjudication by a quasi-judicial or by Judicial Tribunal is retrospective in nature, and the rights and liabilities of the parties are crystallized at the time of filing of application before the Authority concerned. If prospective application is given to such orders as passed by the Authority concerned, including the courts, it would mean that the benefit of the adjudication would not be available to the parties before the Court, but to all such future contract labourers for which license agreement would be signed in the future by the petitioner's Establishment.

(20) This Court has carefully perused the order dated 27.07.2004. The opposite party no.1 has carefully noted the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner-HAL before the Authority concerned in Paragraph-7 onwards and thereafter considered each of the submissions in the light of the submissions made by the opposite party no.2 before it. It has also referred to and considered the judgements cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner herein namely French Motor Car Co. Ltd. V. The Workmen reported in AIR 1963 SCC 1327, and Workmen of Orient Paper Mills Ltd. Vs. Ms. Orient Paper Mills Ltd. reported in AIR 1969 SC 976. The Authority has also considered the difference in language sought to be argued by the counsel for the HAL in Rule 25 (2) (v) (a) and 25 (2) (v) (b) of the Rules of 1971, and has observed that if workmen employed by the contractor performed the same or similar kind of work as workmen directly employed by the Principal employer of the Establishment, they shall be entitled to get the same wages and conditions of service etc. under Rule 25 (2) (v) (a). Determination is required under Sub Clause (b) in cases where Clause (a) does not cover the wage rates and conditions of service of workmen of the contractor. Such determination occurs when the grievance occurs, and for a redressal of grievance a forum is provided under Rule 25 (2) (v) (b) of the Rules. It is only when a dispute arises over the rate of wages and other conditions of service and an application is made under the Rule, the Dy. Chief Labour Commissioner has jurisdiction to conduct an inquiry and determine the wages. They may be the same as that of regular directly recruited workers or may be a different, the right of the labourers to approach the Dy. Chief Labour Commissioner (Central) under Rule 25 (2) (v)(b) cannot be curtailed if a cause of action arose on the issue of wages and the conditions of service such cause of action arises to the Contract labourers when their wages and other fringe benefits are determined and spelled out in the license agreement and not before.

(21) Each of the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner HAL has been dealt with in great detail by the Authority concerned including the arguments that no parallel can be drawn with Lucknow unit of HAL and enquiry should be made only on Region-cum-Industry basis. In order to substantiate their arguments, they had cited three judgments of Hon'ble the Supreme Court as quoted in para 7.5 of the said order. The opposite party no.1 has rightly come to the conclusion that there cannot be any other suitable comparison other than with the HAL unit, Lucknow which is a sister concern of HAL situated at Amethi located within the distance of only 125 kms. in the same Geographical region in the same State. There was no justification to compare with industries engaged in completely different areas of work like BHEL and Indo Gulf Fertilizers. It does not stand to reason that when the same category of employees at HAL, Lucknow are being paid wages of regular employees, why the such benefit should not be extended to the employees engaged by the contractor at Korwa Unit.

(22) It was moreover, observed by the opposite party no.1 that when the workmen engaged on sanitation duty in other units of HAL like Kanpur, Koraput, Nasik, Hyderabad and Bangalore are regular workmen, and not engaged through contractors, and getting the wages and all other benefits like any other regular employee.

(23) A detailed determination of wages to be paid to contract labourers engaged in sanitation work at Korwa Unit has been done at the rate of minimum wages paid to unskilled workers of HAL, Korwa. Since the contract workers were already covered by the beneficial Statutory scheme like Provident Fund, Payment of Bonus Act, etc. such benefit was continued to be given. Moreover, the determination was made with regard to the paid Holidays, Casual Leave, Earned Leave and Uniform etc. also in the order impugned.

(24) I have carefully perused the order passed by the Dy. Chief Labour Commissioner. The distinction sought to be drawn by the learned counsel for the petitioner with HAL Lucknow unit of the same employer, the petitioner, has not been such as would lead to different wages being given to workers at Korwa Unit. This Court does not find any good ground to show interference in writ jurisdiction.

(25) This petition is dismissed.

(26) No order as to costs.

Writ Petition No.1213 (SS) of 2005- This petition was filed by the petitioners, the Union of Contract Sanitation workers at Korwa Unit, Amethi, challenging the order dated 27.07.2004 passed by the Deputy Chief Labour Commissioner (Central), praying for enhancement.

Learned counsel for the petitioner Sri Manish Kumar Singh, has been instructed by his Client, not to press this petition, in view of the order passed by this counsel in Writ Petition No.7347 (SS) of 2004.

A. Service – Payment of Salary – Equal pay for equal work – U.P. State Agricultural Universities Act; Uttar Pradesh Agricultural and Technical Universities Act, 1958: Section 28(r); Agricultural Universities Act – An employee is entitled for parity in pay/ pay scale if he is discharging/performing similar functions, duties and responsibilities. (Para 22 & 26)

It is a settled law that similarly situated employees are entitled for equal pay for equal work where they are discharging same work, function and responsibilities. In the present case, the State Government before bifurcation of State, granted the benefit of the 5th Pay Commission to the Lab Technicians but, post bifurcation the respondent-State is trying to distinguish between the Lab Technicians of the two Universities on the basis of experiences and is trying to create three different slabs in the said pay scale, which was not there at the time it was granted to the Lab Technicians of the State in the year 1998. The action of the State Government is totally arbitrary and discriminatory in nature. (Para 16, 23, 24 & 26)

B. Constitution of India: Articles 14, 16, 39(d) - It is true that the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' is not expressly declared by our Constitution to be a fundamental right. But it certainly is a Constitutional goal. Article 39(d) of the Constitution proclaims "equal pay for equal work for both men and women" as a Directive Principle of State Policy. Principle of 'equal pay for equal work' is deducible from Articles 14, 16 and 39(d) and may be properly applied to cases of unequal scales of pay based on no classification or irrational classification, though performing identical work. Petition challenges order dated 22.01.2016, passed by Principal Secretary, Agriculture and Research, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anil Bhushan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Subhendra Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners, learned Standing Counsel for respondent nos. 1 and 2 and Sri P.K. Ganguly, learned counsel for respondent nos. 3, 4 and 5.

2. Petitioners who are ten in number have filed this writ petition for the following reliefs:-

"A). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 22.01.2016 passed by respondent no. 1, The Principal Secretary, Agriculture and Research, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow.

B). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding and directing the respondents to fix the salary of the petitioners as Lab Technicians in the Sardar Vallabh Bhai Patel Agricultural and Technical University Meerut, in the pay scale of Rupees 5000-8000 with effect from 01.01.1996 or from the date of their appointment whichever is later and to ensure payment of the same on monthly basis;

C). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding and directing the respondents to ensure payment of the same on monthly basis together with arrears of salary with interest @18% per annum consequent upon fixation of their salary in the pay scale of Rs. 5000-8000 with effect from 01.01.1996 or from the date of initial appointment whichever is later;"

3. Brief facts giving rise to the present petition are that Pt. Govind Ballabh Pant Agriculture and Technical University, Pant Nagar, Nainital (hereinafter referred to as 'Pant Nagar University') was constituted and created under U.P. State Agricultural Universities Act for imparting education and research work in technical field of agriculture within the State of U.P. After the reorganisation of the State of U.P. on 09.11.2000, the University came within the limits of newly created State of Uttarakhand. To carry out work of imparting education and technical research in agriculture, one 'Sardar Vallabh Bhai Patel Agricultural and Technical University, Meerut (hereinafter referred to as 'Agricultural University, Meerut') was established on the lines on which the Pant Nagar University was created and constituted. It has been stated that some staff of Pant Nagar University was transferred and absorbed in Agriculture University Meerut. Post of Lab Technicians was created and sanctioned for both the Universities by the State of U.P. The ten petitioners before this Court are working on the post of Lab Technicians at Agriculture University, Meerut. According to petitioners, after the acceptance of recommendation of 4th Pay Commission, pay scale of Lab Technicians was revised and fixed at Rs.1400-2600 with effect from 01.01.1986. It is further stated that the Chancellor granted no objection for creation and sanction of the post of Lab Technicians in the pay scale of Rs.1400-2600 before the creation of new State of Uttarakhand on 23.02.1998,

4. The recommendations of the 5th Pay Commission was accepted by State Government and Principal Secretary (Finance) on 10.07.1998 directed for revision of the pay scale of Rs.1400-2600 with the corresponding pay scale of Rs.5000-8000. The said pay scale stood revised from 01.01.1996, copy of the Government Order dated 10.07.1998 is on record as Annexure-3 to the writ petition. Pursuant to that Pant Nagar University also revised the pay scale of teaching and other staff, and on 24th July, 1998 the Finance Controller issued a letter to the said effect which is on record as Annexure-4 to the writ petition.

5. Petitioners who are Lab Technicians working at Agriculture University, Meerut were paid salary in the pay scale of Rs.4500-7000 instead of pay scale of Rs.5000-8000 which had already been revised as per the recommendation of 5th Pay Commission and accepted in the State of U.P. and being applicable from 01.01.1996. Petitioners raised their grievance before respondent nos. 3 and 4 through representation seeking parity in the pay scale between the Lab Technicians of Pant Nagar University, Nainital and Agriculture University at Meerut. According to petitioners a meeting between the Meerut Workers' Union and the Administration of Agriculture University, Meerut was held on 13th and 14th August, 2008 and it was agreed for resolving the dispute within 45 days but the same was not implemented. As no action was taken, petitioners filed Writ Petition No. 58288 of 2008. The said petition was dismissed on 10.10.2010, against which a Special Appeal No. 1331 of 2011 was preferred, which was disposed of on 07.09.2015 with a direction to State Government to take decision on revision of pay scale. The grievance of the petitioners was turned down by the State Government by the impugned order dated 22.01.2016.

6. Sri Anil Bhushan, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioners submitted that both Pant Nagar University and Agriculture University, Meerut were created and constituted under the U.P. State Agricultural Universities Act and further, the University in question on 18.02.2009 had recommended to the Government that petitioners' pay scale should be amended from Rs.4500-7000 to higher scale of Rs.5000-8000. Sri Bhushan further contended that the order impugned suffers on many counts, as it states that the Lab Technicians working in Agriculture University, Meerut and those working at Pant Nagar University are different because the designation, pay scale, mode of recruitment, educational qualification, duty and responsibilities were not identical and, which according to him are not correct. He further submitted that for judging the equality of work for the purpose of equal pay regard must be not only to the duties and function but also to educational qualifications, qualitative difference and measures of responsibility prescribed on respective post. He further tried to distinguish the four facts for settling dispute regarding equation of post are:-

(1) The nature of duties of post;

(2) The responsibilities and power exercised by officer holding a post, the extent of territorial or the other charges held on responsibilities discharged;

(3) The minimum qualification of any, prescribed for recruitment to his part and

(4) The salary of the post, if the earlier three criteria mentioned above are fulfilled then the fact that the salaries of two posts are different would not in any way to make the post not equivalent.

7. He further contended that petitioners are working on post of Lab Technicians and are discharging same duties, responsibilities and functions and their hours of duties are also same, thus are entitled to receive salary in pay scale of Rs.5000-8000. It was also contended that once the Government Order accepted the recommendation of 5th Pay Commission and was implemented in the State of U.P. from 01.01.1996 and being applicable to Agricultural Universities in the State and the pay scale of Lab Technicians being fixed in the scale of Rs.5000-8000, the action of the respondents in rejecting their claim was illegal, arbitrary and discriminatory. Sri Anil Bhushan, learned Senior counsel vehemently submitted that had the State of U.P. not bifurcated in the year 2000, then the State Government would have been paying the Lab Technicians of Pant Nagar University in the pay scale of Rs.5000-8000.

8. Sri P.K. Ganguli, learned counsel appearing for the respondent nos. 3 to 5 (University) submitted that the University in question is a State Agriculture University and receives funds/ grant in aid from the State Government and it cannot enhance salary of its employee without sanction of the State Government. He, however, supported the fact that petitioners are entitled in the pay scale of Rs.5000-8000 and relied upon the letter of the Vice Chancellor of the University dated 18.02.2009 written to the State Government.

9. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the respondent nos. 1 and 2 submitted that the State Government has taken decision regarding the recommendation of the 6th Pay

Commission on 26.09.2013 and accordingly, the petitioners are being paid in the said pay scale. He further contended that Pant Nagar University, Uttarakhand and Agriculture University, Meerut are different institutions, having different nomenclature, pay scale, process of recruitment, work and responsibility, which has been distinguished in the Chart as given in Para 7 of their counter affidavit which is extracted hereasunder:

10. He further contended that the Agriculture University at Meerut being set up under the Uttar Pradesh Agricultural and Technical Universities Act, 1958 is running within the State of U.P. and no parity can be granted to the establishment of post at Pant Nagar University which is running under the Agricultural Universities Act in the State of Uttarakhand.

11. Replying the argument of the learned Standing Counsel Sri Anil Bhushan submitted that the post in the University is sanctioned by the State Government under Section 28(r) of the State Agricultural and Technical Universities Act, 1958. He invited the attention of the Court to the letter of the Vice Chancellor dated 03.06.2017 written to the State Government which is on record as RA-1, wherein respondent no. 3 had categorically stated that appointment, educational qualification, work and duties of Lab Technicians in both the Pant Nagar University as well as Agriculture University, Meerut are same. Further, both these Universities are doing the same work, but despite the said fact there is disparity in the pay scale of the Lab Technicians of the two Universities. It is also stated in the said letter that respondent no. 3 had already apprised the Chancellor on 30.08.2007 that the statutes of Pant Nagar University are applicable in Agriculture University, Meerut, and it was after the bifurcation of the State of U.P. that Pant Nagar University fell within the territorial jurisdiction of Uttarakhand and Agriculture University at Meerut was created.

12. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and the perusal of the material on record the question which emerges for consideration is whether the petitioners are entitled for the pay scale of Rs.5000-8000 made applicable to the Lab Technicians of Pant Nagar University pursuant to the Government Order dated 10.07.1998 issued by the State of U.P., which was made effective from 01.01.1996 or to be in the pay scale of Rs.4500-7000.

13. It is not in dispute that Pant Nagar University was created and established in the State of U.P. under the U.P. State Agricultural Universities Act. From time to time the teaching as well as non-teaching staff of the said University was paid salary by the State Government according to the recommendations of the Pay Commission. The State of U.P. had accepted the 4th and 5th Pay Commission recommendation which was made applicable in the State, in the year 1986 and thereafter, from 01.01.1996. The Government Order dated 10.07.1998 issued by the State Government accepting and endorsing the recommendation of the 5th Pay Commission was made applicable to all the teaching as well as non-teaching staff in various Universities as well as Agricultural Universities in the State of U.P., which was effective from 01.01.1996. Lab Technicians working at that relevant point of time were given the benefit of the 5th Pay commission from 01.01.1996.

14. Subsequently, State of U.P. was bifurcated on 09.11.2000, and the State of Uttarakhand was carved out, as Pant Nagar University fell within the territorial jurisdiction of Uttarakhand, it came to be governed by the orders of the State of Uttarakhand. It is also not in dispute that after the formation of new State of Uttarakhand another Agricultural and Technical University was created and established in the name of Agriculture University at Meerut under the U.P. State Agricultural and Technical Universities Act, 1958. It is the Lab Technicians of this University who are claiming the benefit of the pay scale of Rs.5000-8000 which was given by the State of U.P. through Government Order dated 10.07.1998 to the Lab Technicians, then working in the State of U.P. in the University at Pant Nagar.

15. Vide order dated 02.08.2019 time was granted to the learned Standing Counsel to seek instructions as to why the Government Order dated 10.07.1998 was not applicable in case of petitioners though they are working as Lab Technicians within the State of U.P. while the benefit of the same had already been extended and given to those Lab Technicians who were earlier working in the State but now after bifurcation, are within the territorial jurisdiction of State of Uttarakhand at Pant Nagar; but as usual the State again tried to seek time to reply the query raised. As sufficient time had been granted to the State only to reply on this question regarding the applicability of the Government Order and the State having failed to reply the same, I find no option but to proceed with the matter as the petitioners are claiming parity and had been litigating for last 11 years, as no useful purpose would be served in keeping the matter pending but to decide the same on merits.

16. The State Government rejected the representation of the petitioners on 22.01.2016 on the ground that nomenclature, pay scale, process of recruitment, work and responsibility are different in both Universities, that is at Pant Nagar, Uttarakhand and Agriculture University at Meerut. From reading of the Chart distinguishing between the two institution by the State as far as the pay scale is concerned, it is amply clear that the State of U.P. which had accepted and endorsed 4th and 5th Pay Commission made applicable to those Lab Technicians who were working within the State of U.P. at that relevant point of time were paid salary in the pay scale of Rs.5000-8000, while by the subsequent Government Order the State of U.P. placed the petitioners as Lab Technicians in the pay scale of Rs.4500-7000. As far as the mode of recruitment is concerned the University at Meerut prescribes for direct recruitment, while at Pant Nagar University 50% of the Technicians are appointed by direct recruitment and 50% by promotion. The educational qualification as provided in the third column of the Chart for the two Universities also does not show any distinction as both of them provide for almost same qualification while the work and responsibility for the Lab Technicians of the two Universities are also almost the same.

17. In the Chart provided in Para 7 of the counter affidavit the work and responsibilities assigned to the lab technicians in the two Universities, Column 4 provides that the lab technicians are to work for upkeeping and maintaining the electric machines, equipment in the lab for the students in the Agricultural University. The said work or responsibilities provided for the two Universities in the said Column does not provide any distinction as to the work and responsibilities assigned to them.

18. The principle of equal pay for equal work was discussed by the Apex Court in catena of judgments, in one such case while deciding the benefits to be accorded to Hindi Translators in Central Government Directorates with that of Translator in Central Secretariat, the Apex Court in case Union of India and others v. Rajesh Kumar Gond (2014) 13 SCC 588 held as under:-

"10. The respondents herein working as Senior Translators/ Assistant Directors in the offices under the Ministry of Defence. They also sought parity with the translators in the Central Secretariat which has been granted by the Central Administrative Tribunal, Chandigarh by its judgment dated 18-05-2009. That judgment is left undisturbed by the Punjab and Haryana High Court in Union of India v. Central Administrative Tribunal, by its order dated 23-03-2011.

11. Mr Balasubramanian, learned counsel appearing for the appellant submitted that their source of recruitment was different. However, having noted that no functional difference was shown in their work, we cannot find any fault with the judgments of the Tribunal and the High Court for the reasons stated in the earlier special leave leave petition. The special leave petition is, therefore, dismissed. There will be no order as to costs."

19. While considering the case of Drivers in Delhi Police Force performing same function and duties as Drivers in Delhi Administration, the Apex Court in case of Randhir Singh v. Union of India and others (1982) 1 SCC 618 in Paras 7, 8 and 9 held as under:-

"7. Our attention was drawn to Binoy Kumar Mukerjee v. Union of India, ILR (1973) 1 Del 427 and Makhan Singh v. Union of India ILR (1975) 1 Del 227, where reference was made to the observations of this Court in Kishori Mohanlal Bakshi v. Union of India, AIR 1962 SC 1139 describing the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' as an abstract doctrine which had nothing to do with Art. 14. We shall presently point out how the principle, "equal pay for equal work" is not an abstract doctrine but one of substance. Kishori Mohanlal Bakshi v. Union of India is not itself of any real assistance to us since what was decided there was that there could be different scales of pay for different grades of a service. It is well known that there can be and there are different grades in a service, with varying qualifications for entry into a particular grade, the higher grade often being a promotional avenue for officers of the lower grade. The higher qualifications for the higher grade, which may be either academic qualifications or experience based on length of service, reasonably sustain the classification of the officers into two grades with different scales of pay. The principle of 'equal pay for equal work' would be an abstract doctrine not attracting Art. 14 if sought to be applied to them.

8. It is true that the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' is not expressly declared by our Constitution to be a fundamental right. But it certainly is a Constitutional goal. Article 39(d) of the Constitution proclaims "equal pay for equal work for both men and women" as a Directive Principle of State Policy. 'Equal pay for equal work for both men and women' means equal pay for equal work for everyone and as between the sexes. Directive Principles, as has been pointed out in some of the judgments of this Court have to be read into the fundamental rights as a matter of interpretation. Article 14 of the Constitution enjoins the state not to deny any person equality before the law or the equal protection of the laws and Article 16 declares that there shall be equality of opportunity for all citizens in matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the State. These equality clauses of the Constitution must mean something to everyone. To the vast majority of the people the equality clauses of the Constitution would mean nothing if they are unconcerned with the work they do and the pay they get. To them the equality clauses will have some substance if equal work means equal pay. Whether the special procedure prescribed by a statute for trying alleged robber-barons and smuggler kings or for dealing with tax evaders is discriminatory, whether a particular governmental policy in the matter of grant of licences or permits confers unfettered discretion on the Executive, whether the take-over of the empires of industrial tycoons is arbitrary and unconstitutional and other questions of like nature, leave the millions of people of this country untouched. Questions concerning wages and the like, mundane they may be, are yet matters of vital concern to them and it is there, if at all that the equality clauses of the Constitution have any significance to them. The Preamble to the Constitution declares the solemn resolution of the people of India to constitute India into a Sovereign Socialist Democratic Republic. Again the word 'Socialist' must mean something. Even if it does not mean 'to each according to his need', it must at least mean 'equal pay for equal work'. "The principle of 'equal pay for equal work' is expressly recognized by all socialist systems of law, e.g, Section 59 of the Hungarian Labour Code, para 2 of Section 111 of the Czechoslovak Code, Section 67 of the Bulgarian Code, Section 40 of the Code of the German Democratic Republic, para 2 of Section 33 of the Rumanian Code. Indeed this principle has been incorporated in several western labour codes too. Under provisions in Section 31 (g. No. 2d) of Book I of the French Code du Travail, and according to Argentinian law, this principle must be applied to female workers in all collective bargaining agreements. In accordance with Section 3 of the Grundgesetz of the German Federal Republic, and clause 7, Section 123 of the Mexican Constitution, the principle is given universal significance" (vide International Labour Law by Istvan Szaszy p. 265). The preamble of the Constitution of the International Labour Organisation recognises the principle of 'equal remuneration for work of equal value' as constituting one of the means of achieving the improvement of conditions "involving such injustice, hardship and privation to large numbers of people as to produce unrest so great that the peace and harmony of the world are imperilled". Construing Articles 14 and 16 in the light of the Preamble and Article 39(d), we are of the view that the principle 'equal pay for equal work' is deducible from those Article and may be properly applied to cases of unequal scales of pay based on no classification or irrational classification though these drawing the different scales of pay do idential work under the same employer.

9. There cannot be the slightest doubt that the drivers in the Delhi Police Force perform the same functions and duties as other drivers in service of the Delhi Administration and the Central Government. If anything, by reason of their investiture with the 'powers, functions and privileges of a police officer', their duties and responsibilities are more arduous. In answer to the allegation in the petition that the driver-constables of the Delhi Police Force perform no less arduous duties than drivers in other departments, it was admitted by the respondents in their counter that the duties of the driver-constables of the Delhi Police Force were onerous. What then is the reason for giving them a lower scale of pay than others ? There is none. The only answer of the respondents is that the drivers of the Delhi Police Force and the other drivers belong to different departments and that the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' is not a principle which the Courts may recognise and act upon. We have shown that the answer is unsound. The clarification is irrational. We, therefore, allow the writ petition and direct the respondents to fix the scale of pay of the petitioner and the drivers-constables of the Delhi Police Force at least on a par with that of the drivers of the Railway Protection Force. The scale of pay shall be effective from January 1, 1973, the date from which the recommendations of the Pay Commission were given effect."

20. This Court also had an occasion to consider the case of Dark Room Assistants performing the work of X-ray technicians who were granted the pay scale of X-ray technicians in case of Ashok Kumar and others v. State of U.P. and another (2005) 1 ESC 143, the Court held as under:-

"9. The respondents have not paid their salary of the post of X-ray Technicians to the petitioners because of non-amendment of the Rules of 1986 (which is prerogative of the State Government exclusively). The State Government cannot refuse the salary admissible to the post of X-ray Technicians to the petitioners, inasmuch as no one can be permitted to take benefit of his own wrong. The State Government had categorically assured the Dark Room Assistants of appointment as X-ray Technicians provided they are selected and completed the training for being appointed as X-ray Technicians. The decision of the State Government to that effect is patently arbitrary and without any basis. Even otherwise on the principle of "Equal pay for equal work', since the respondents have appointed the petitioners on the post of X-ray Technicians and there is no denial of the fact that the duties and responsibilities of the post of X-ray Technicians are being discharged by the petitioners."

21. Supreme Court while considering the principle of equal pay for equal work applicable to temporary employees had the occasion to consider the same in State of Punjab and others v. Jagjit Singh and others (2017) 1 SCC 148. The Apex Court laid down the parameters for applicability of the concept of equal pay for equal work, it also considered the earlier judgment of the Apex Court in case of Jasmer Singh, (1996) 11 SCC 77, Surjit Singh (2009) 9 SCC 514, Randhir Singh v. Union of India (1982) 1 SCC 618, D. S. Nakara v. Union of India (1983) 1 SCC 305, Mewa Ram Kanojia (1989) 2 SCC 235. The Apex Court in the said judgment not only considered for the employees engaged on regular basis but claim of temporary employees. Relevant Paras are 42, 57, 58, 59, 60, which are extracted hereasunder:-

"42. All the judgments noticed in paragraphs 7 to 24 hereinabove, pertain to employees engaged on regular basis, who were claiming higher wages, under the principle of "equal pay for equal work'. The claim raised by such employees was premised on the ground, that the duties and responsibilities rendered by them, were against the same post for which a higher pay scale was being allowed, in other government departments. Or alternatively, their duties and responsibilities were the same, as of other posts with different designations, but they were placed in a lower scale. Having been painstakingly taken through the parameters laid down by this Court, wherein the principle of "equal pay for equal work' was invoked and considered, it would be just and appropriate, to delineate the parameters laid down by this Court. In recording the said parameters, we have also adverted to some other judgments pertaining to temporary employees (also dealt with, in the instant judgment), wherein also, this Court had the occasion to express the legal position with reference to the principle of "equal pay for equal work'. Our consideration, has led us to the following deductions:-

42.1 The "onus of proof" of parity in the duties and responsibilities of the subject post with the reference post under the principle of "equal pay for equal work", lies on the person who claims it. He who approaches the Court has to establish, that the subject post occupied by him requires him to discharge equal work of equal value, as the reference post (see Orissa University of Agriculture & Technology v. Manoj K. Mohanty, (2003) 5 SCC 188, Union Territory Administration, Chandigarh v. Manju Mathur, (2011) 2 SCC 452, the Steel Authority of India Limited v. Dibyendu Bhattacharya, (2011) 11 SCC 122 and the National Aluminum Company Limited v. Ananta Kishore Rout, (2014) 6 SCC 756).

42.2 The mere fact that the subject post occupied by the claimant, is in a "different department" vis-a-vis the reference post, does not have any bearing on the determination of a claim, under the principle of ''equal pay for equal work'. Persons discharging identical duties, cannot be treated differently, in the matter of their pay, merely because they belong to different departments of Government (see Randhir Singh case v. Union of India, (1982) 1 SCC 618 and the D.S. Nakara v. Union of India, (1983) 1 SCC 305).

42.3 The principle of ''equal pay for equal work', applies to cases of unequal scales of pay, based on no classification or irrational classification (see Randhir Singh case v. Union of India, (1982) 1 SCC 618). For equal pay, the concerned employees with whom equation is sought, should be performing work, which besides being functionally equal, should be of the same quality and sensitivity (see Federation of All India Customs and Central Excise Stenographers v. Union of India, (1988) 3 SCC 91, the Mewa Ram Kanojia v. All India Institute of Medical Sciences, (1989) 2 SCC 235, Grih Kalyan Kendra Workers' Union v. Union of India, (1991) 1 SCC 619 and S.C. Chandra v. State of Jharkhand, (2007) 8 SCC 279).

42.4 Persons holding the same rank/designation (in different departments), but having dissimilar powers, duties and responsibilities, can be placed in different scales of pay, and cannot claim the benefit of the principle of ''equal pay for equal work' (see the Randhir Singh case (supra), State of Haryana v. Haryana Civil Secretariat Personal Staff Association (2005) 6 SCC 72, and the Hukum Chand Gupta v. ICAR, (2012) 12 SCC 666). Therefore, the principle would not be automatically invoked, merely because the subject and reference posts have the same nomenclature.

42.5 In determining equality of functions and responsibilities, under the principle of ''equal pay for equal work', it is necessary to keep in mind, that the duties of the two posts should be of equal sensitivity, and also, qualitatively similar. Differentiation of pay scales for posts with difference in degree of responsibility, reliability and confidentiality, would fall within the realm of valid classification, and therefore, pay differentiation would be legitimate and permissible (see Federation of All India Customs and Central Excise Stenographers case (supra) and the State Bank of India v. M.R. Ganesh Babu, (2002) 4 SCC 556). The nature of work of the subject post should be the same and not less onerous than the reference post. Even the volume of work should be the same. And so also, the level of responsibility. If these parameters are not met, parity cannot be claimed under the principle of "equal pay for equal work' (see State of U.P. v. J.P. Chaurasia (1989) 1 SCC 121, and Grih Kalyan Kendra Workers' Union v. Union of India, (1991) 1 SCC 619).

42.6 For placement in a regular pay-scale, the claimant has to be a regular appointee. The claimant should have been selected, on the basis of a regular process of recruitment. An employee appointed on a temporary basis, cannot claim to be placed in the regular pay-scale [see Orissa University of Agriculture & Technology case (supra)].

42.7 Persons performing the same or similar functions, duties and responsibilities, can also be placed in different pay scales. Such as - "selection grade', in the same post. But this difference must emerge out of a legitimate foundation, such as - merit, or seniority, or some other relevant criteria [see State of U.P. v. J.P. Chaurasia (supra)].

42.8 If the qualifications for recruitment to the subject post vis-a- vis the reference post are different, it may be difficult to conclude, that the duties and responsibilities of the posts are qualitatively similar or comparable (see Mewa Ram Kanojia case (supra), and Government of W.B. v. Tarun K. Roy (2017) 1 SCC 347). In such a cause, the principle of "equal pay for equal work', cannot be invoked.

42.9 The reference post, with which parity is claimed, under the principle of "equal pay for equal work', has to be at the same hierarchy in the service, as the subject post. pay scales of posts may be different, if the hierarchy of the posts in question, and their channels of promotion, are different. Even if the duties and responsibilities are same, parity would not be permissible, as against a superior post, such as a promotional post [see Union of India v. Pradip Kumar Dey (2000) 8 SCC 580 and Hukum Chand Gupta case (supra)].

42.10 A comparison between the subject post and the reference post, under the principle of "equal pay for equal work', cannot be made, where the subject post and the reference post are in different establishments, having a different management. Or even, where the establishments are in different geographical locations, though owned by the same master (see Harbans Lal case v. State of H.P., (1989) 4 SCC 459). Persons engaged differently, and being paid out of different funds, would not be entitled to pay parity (see Official Liquidator v. Dayanand, (2008) 10 SCC 1).

42.11 Different pay scales, in certain eventualities, would be permissible even for posts clubbed together at the same hierarchy in the cadre. As for instance, if the duties and responsibilities of one of the posts are more onerous, or are exposed to higher nature of operational work/risk, the principle of "equal pay for equal work' would not be applicable. And also when, the reference post includes the responsibility to take crucial decisions, and that is not so for the subject post [see State Bank of India case (supra)].

42.12 The priority given to different types of posts, under the prevailing policies of the Government, can also be a relevant factor for placing different posts under different pay scales. Herein also, the principle of "equal pay for equal work' would not be applicable (see State of Haryana v. Haryana Civil Secretariat Personal Staff Association (2002) 6 SCC 72).

42.13 The parity in pay, under the principle of "equal pay for equal work', cannot be claimed, merely on the ground, that at an earlier point of time, the subject post and the reference post, were placed in the same pay- scale. The principle of "equal pay for equal work' is applicable only when it is shown, that the incumbents of the subject post and the reference post, discharge similar duties and responsibilities (see State of West Bengal v. Minimum Wages Inspectors Association (2010) 5 SCC 225).

42.14 For parity in pay scales, under the principle of "equal pay for equal work', equation in the nature of duties, is of paramount importance. If the principal nature of duties of one post is teaching, whereas that of the other is non-teaching, the principle would not be applicable. If the dominant nature of duties of one post is of control and management, whereas the subject post has no such duties, the principle would not be applicable. Likewise, if the central nature of duties of one post is of quality control, whereas the subject post has minimal duties of quality control, the principle would not be applicable [see Union Territory Administration, Chandigarh v. Manju Mathur (supra)].

42.15 There can be a valid classification in the matter of pay scales, between employees even holding posts with the same nomenclature i.e., between those discharging duties at the headquarters, and others working at the institutional/sub-office level [see the Hukum Chand Gupta case (supra)], when the duties are qualitatively dissimilar.

42.16 The principle of "equal pay for equal work' would not be applicable, where a differential higher pay scale is extended to persons discharging the same duties and holding the same designation, with the objective of ameliorating stagnation, or on account of lack of promotional avenues [see Hukum Chand Gupta case (supra)].

42.17 Where there is no comparison between one set of employees of one organization, and another set of employees of a different organization, there can be no question of equation of pay scales, under the principle of "equal pay for equal work', even if two organizations have a common employer. Likewise, if the management and control of two organizations, is with different entities, which are independent of one another, the principle of "equal pay for equal work' would not apply [see S.C. Chandra case (supra), and the National Aluminum Company Limited case (supra)].

57. There is no room for any doubt, that the principle of "equal pay for equal work' has emerged from an interpretation of different provisions of the Constitution. The principle has been expounded through a large number of judgments rendered by this Court, and constitutes law declared by this Court. The same is binding on all the courts in India, under Article 141 of the Constitution of India. The parameters of the principle, have been summarized by us in paragraph 42 hereinabove. The principle of "equal pay for equal work' has also been extended to temporary employees (differently described as work-charge, daily-wage, casual, ad-hoc, contractual, and the like). The legal position, relating to temporary employees, has been summarized by us, in paragraph 44 hereinabove. The above legal position which has been repeatedly declared, is being reiterated by us, yet again.

58. In our considered view, it is fallacious to determine artificial parameters to deny fruits of labour. An employee engaged for the same work, cannot be paid less than another, who performs the same duties and responsibilities. Certainly not, in a welfare state. Such an action besides being demeaning, strikes at the very foundation of human dignity. Any one, who is compelled to work at a lesser wage, does not do so voluntarily. He does so, to provide food and shelter to his family, at the cost of his self respect and dignity, at the cost of his self worth, and at the cost of his integrity. For he knows, that his dependents would suffer immensely, if he does not accept the lesser wage. Any act, of paying less wages, as compared to others similarly situate, constitutes an act of exploitative enslavement, emerging out of a domineering position. Undoubtedly, the action is oppressive, suppressive and coercive, as it compels involuntary subjugation.

59. We would also like to extract herein Article 7, of the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, 1966. The same is reproduced below:-

"7. The States Parties to the present Covenant recognize the right of everyone to the enjoyment of just and favourable conditions of work which ensure, in particular:

(a) Remuneration which provides all workers, as a minimum, with:

(i) Fair wages and equal remuneration for work of equal value without distinction of any kind, in particular women being guaranteed conditions of work not inferior to those enjoyed by men, with equal pay for equal work;

(ii) A decent living for themselves and their families in accordance with the provisions of the present Covenant;

(b) Safe and healthy working conditions;

(c) Equal opportunity for everyone to be promoted in his employment to an appropriate higher level, subject to no considerations other than those of seniority and competence;

(d) Rest, leisure and reasonable limitation of working hours and periodic holidays with pay, as well as remuneration for public holidays."

(emphasis supplied)

India is a signatory to the above Covenant having ratified the same on 10.4.1979. There is no escape from the above obligation in view of different provisions of the Constitution referred to above, and in view of the law declared by this Court under Article 141 of the Constitution of India, the principle of "equal pay for equal work' constitutes a clear and unambiguous right and is vested in every employee - whether engaged on regular or temporary basis.

60. Having traversed the legal parameters with reference to the application of the principle of "equal pay for equal work', in relation to temporary employees (daily-wage employees, ad hoc appointees, employees appointed on casual basis, contractual employees and the like), the sole factor that requires our determination is, whether the concerned employees (before this Court), were rendering similar duties and responsibilities, as were being discharged by regular employees, holding the same/corresponding posts. This exercise would require the application of the parameters of the principle of "equal pay for equal work' summarized by us in paragraph 42 above. However, insofar as the instant aspect of the matter is concerned, it is not difficult for us to record the factual position. We say so, because it was fairly acknowledged by the learned counsel representing the State of Punjab, that all the temporary employees in the present bunch of appeals, were appointed against posts which were also available in the regular cadre/establishment. It was also accepted, that during the course of their employment, the concerned temporary employees were being randomly deputed to discharge duties and responsibilities, which at some point in time, were assigned to regular employees. Likewise, regular employees holding substantive posts, were also posted to discharge the same work, which was assigned to temporary employees, from time to time. There is, therefore, no room for any doubt, that the duties and responsibilities discharged by the temporary employees in the present set of appeals, were the same as were being discharged by regular employees. It is not the case of the appellants, that the respondent-employees did not possess the qualifications prescribed for appointment on regular basis. Furthermore, it is not the case of the State, that any of the temporary employees would not be entitled to pay parity, on any of the principles summarized by us in paragraph 42 hereinabove. There can be no doubt, that the principle of "equal pay for equal work' would be applicable to all the concerned temporary employees, so as to vest in them the right to claim wages on a par with the minimum of the pay scale of regularly engaged government employees holding the same post."

22. Thus, it is settled law that an employee is entitled for parity in pay/ pay scale if he is discharging/ performing similar functions, duties and responsibilities.

23. In the present case, the State Government, itself by Government Order dated 10.07.1998 had accepted the recommendation of the 5th Pay Commission and the benefits of the same was given to all the teaching and non-teaching staff of various Universities as well as Agricultural Universities in the State of U.P. effective from 01.01.1996. At the relevant point of time Pant Nagar University which was part of the State of U.P. and was enacted under the U.P. State Agricultural Universities Act implemented the said recommendation, and Lab Technicians working in the said University were given the benefits of the 5th Pay Commission. It is only after the bifurcation of the State of U.P. in the year 2000, that another Agriculture University, Meerut was created/ established in 2001 and by the Government Order dated 17.09.2002 that post of 9 Lab Technicians was sanctioned in the pay scale of Rs.4500-7000. Though the post created and sanctioned by the State of Lab Technicians for Pant Nagar University in the year 1998 was in the pay scale of Rs.1400-2600 which was revised to pay scale of Rs.5000-8000.

24. The State has failed to justify as to how the post of Lab Technicians sanctioned later in time for an Agriculture University was in the pay scale of Rs.4500-7000, in the year 2002, while it sanctioned the post of Lab Technicians in the year 1998 in the revised pay scale of Rs.5000-8000. The State has also failed to justify as to how 5th Pay Commission which was accepted and endorsed in the State of U.P. in the year 1998, the benefits of the same would not be given to those Lab Technicians appointed after the bifurcation of the State of U.P. in the year 2002 while the same already been given and granted to those Lab Technicians working in an Agriculture University in the State in the year 1998. The action of the State Government is totally arbitrary and discriminatory in nature distinguishing between the Lab Technicians appointed prior to bifurcation of the State in the Pant Nagar University and thereafter, those appointed in Agriculture University, Meerut in the year 2002.

25. Further, the order impugned also fails to provide any justifiable reason as to distinction of the pay scales of the two, Lab Technicians posted in Agriculture University, Meerut and Pant Nagar University as from the reading of Chart provided in the order impugned the work and responsibility assigned in the two Universities are more or less the same as also the educational qualification provided for the two Universities. Agriculture University at Meerut provides for 100% direct recruitment while in the case of Pant Nagar University 50% posts are to be filled by direct recruitment and 50% by promotion.

26. As, it is a settled law that similarly situated employees are entitled for equal pay for equal work where they are discharging same work, function and responsibilities. In the present case, it is the State Government before bifurcation of State had granted the benefit of the 5th Pay Commission to the Lab Technicians but, post bifurcation the respondent-State is trying to distinguish between the Lab Technicians of the two Universities on the basis of experiences and are trying to create three different slabs in the said pay scale, which was not there at the time it was granted to the Lab Technicians of the State in the year 1998.

27. As Article 14 enshrines equality before law or the equal protection of law and Article 16 declares that there shall be equality of opportunity for all citizens in matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the State. These equity clauses of the Constitution must mean something to everyone. To the vast majority of the people equity clauses of Constitution would mean nothing if they are unconcerned with the work they do and the pay they get. To them the equity clauses will have some substance if equal work means equal pay. Construing Article 14, 16 and Article 39(d), I am of the view that principle of 'equal pay for equal work' is deducible from these articles and may be properly applied to cases of unequal scales of pay based on no classification or irrational classification, though these drawing different scales of pay do identical work. In the present case, the petitioners are entitled to the pay scale of Rs.5000-8000 from 01.01.1996 or from the date of their appointment.

28. In view of the above and the law laid down by the Apex Court in case of Randhir Singh (supra) and Jagjit Singh (supra), the order impugned dated 22.01.2016 is quashed and the petitioners are entitled to the pay scale of Rs.5000-8000 with effect from 01.01.1996 or from the date of appointment whichever is later. The respondents are directed to fix salary of the petitioners in the said pay scale.

29. The petitioners are also entitled for their arrears of salary in the said pay scale, however, as regard to the interest, the petitioners may set up a claim before the respondent authorities who shall consider the same. With the aforesaid observation, the writ petition stands allowed.

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Challenging-order-removing petitioner from service-on ground of conviction-in Session Trial- a condition precedent-to acquire jurisdiction to impose punishment of removal-by considering his conduct-leading to conviction-impugned order-silent on consideration.

B. Held, Thus, it can safely be concluded that while removing the petitioner from service, the respondents were bound to consider the conduct of the petitioner, which has led to his conviction in the session trial. This was the condition precedent for the competent authority to acquire jurisdiction to impose punishment of removal from service. However, the impugned order is unfortunately silent and does not show consideration of conduct of the petitioner which has led to his conviction in the S.T. No.178 of 2005. It was necessary for the respondents, while passing the impugned order, to consider the conduct of the petitioner leading to his conviction and then to decide what punishment is to be inflicted upon him. This has not been done by the respondent No.2 while removing the petitioner from service. Therefore, the impugned order cannot be sustained and is hereby quashed.

4. Sushil Kumar Singhal vs. Regional Manager, Punjab National Bank, 2010 (8) SCC 573

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J.)

1. Heard Sri A.K. Ojha, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Anil Kumar Pandey, learned standing counsel for the State-respondents.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying to quash the order of removal from service dated 17.12.2008 passed by the respondent No.2. The petitioner has also prayed for a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to continue the petitioner in service and pay regular salary month by month.

3. Briefly stated facts of the present case are that the petitioner was a constable in Civil Police. By judgment and order dated 05.05.2008, the petitioner was convicted under Sections 302/34 I.P.C. with life imprisonment and a fine of Rs.10,000/- in S.T. No.178 of 2005 arising from Case Crime No.649 of 2005 passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No.3, Jhansi. By the impugned order dated 17.12.2008, the petitioner was removed from service on the ground that he has been convicted in the aforesaid Session Trial. Against the aforesaid judgment and order dated 05.05.2008, the petitioner filed a Criminal Appeal No.3060 of 2008 (Ram Kishan vs. State of U.P.) in which an order dated 17.10.2008 was passed by a Division Bench of this Court releasing the petitioner on bail during pendency of the appeal and realisation of fine was stayed. Subsequently, by order dated 20.07.2009, the execution of the sentence during pendency of the appeal was also stayed by the Dvision Bench. Under these facts, the petitioner has filed the present writ petition challenging the impugned order of removal from service dated 17.12.2008 passed by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Jhansi.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the fine imposed by the judgment and order dated 05.05.2008 passed in S.T. No.178 of 2005 has been stayed by the Division Bench in Criminal Appeal No.3060 of 2008 and the petitioner has been released on bail and the execution of sentence has also been stayed, therefore, the impugned order cannot be sustained and deserves to be quashed. He further submits that no finding has been recorded in the impugned order on the conduct of the petitioner leading to his conviction so as to inflict the punishment of removal from service. He, therefore, submits that the impugned order deserves to be quashed.

5. Learned standing counsel supports the impugned order.

6. I have carefully considered the submissions of the learned counsels for the parties.

7. Perusal of the impugned order dated 17.12.2008 shows that it has been passed by the respondent No.2 merely on the ground that the petitioner has been convicted with life imprisonment under Section 302/34 I.P.C. and with fine of Rs.10,000/-. The respondent No.2 while passing the impugned order has not considered at all the conduct of the petitioner, which has led to his conviction.

8. The judgment and order dated 05.05.2008 passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No.3, Jhansi in S.T. No.178 of 2005 under Section 302/34, I.P.C. convicting the petitioner with life imprisonment and a fine of Rs.10,000/-, has been challenged by the petitioner in Criminal Appeal No.3060 of 2008 (Ram Kishan vs. State of U.P.), in which an order dated 17.10.2008 was by the Division Bench releasing the petitioner on bail and staying the realisation of fine. By order dated 20.07.2009 passed in the aforesaid criminal appeal, the execution of sentence was also stayed during pendency of the appeal. It has been stated before me by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the aforesaid criminal appeal is still pending.

9. In Union of India vs. Tulsiram Patel, (1985) 3 SCC 398, Hon'ble Supreme Court has considered the provisions of Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India and held as under:-

"The second proviso will apply only where the conduct of a government servant is such as he deserves the punishment of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank. If the conduct is such as to deserve a punishment different from those mentioned above, the second proviso cannot come into play at all, because Article 311(2) is itself confined only to these three penalties. Therefore, before denying a government servant his constitutional right to an inquiry, the first consideration would be whether the conduct of the concerned government servant is such as justifies the penalty of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank. Once that conclusion is reached and the condition specified in the relevant clause of the second proviso is satisfied, that proviso becomes applicable and the government servant is not entitled to an inquiry."

10. In Shyam Narain Shukla vs. State of U.P., (1988) 6 LCD 530, a Division Bench of this court has considered similar question and held as under:-

"In view of the above decision of the Supreme Court, it has to be held that whenever a Government servant is convicted of an offence, he cannot be dismissed from service merely on the ground of conviction but the appropriate authority has to consider the conduct of such employee leading to his conviction and then to decide what punishment is to be inflicted upon him. In the matter of consideration of conduct as also the quantum of punishment the employee has not to be joined and the decision has to be taken by the appropriate authority independently of the employee who, as laid down by the Supreme Court, is not to be given an opportunity of hearing at that stage."

11. Another Division Bench of this Court in Sadanand Mishra v. State of U.P. 1993 LCD 70 held that on conviction of an employee of a criminal charge, the order of punishment cannot be passed unless the conduct which has led to his conviction, is also considered. It was further held that the scrutiny or exercise of conduct of an employee leading to his conviction is to be done ex parte and an opportunity of hearing is not to be provided for this purpose to the employee concerned.

12. In Shankar Das v. Union of India, 1985 (2) SCR 358, Hon'ble Supreme Court while referring to power under Clause (a) of second proviso of Article 311(2)of the Constitution of India, has observed as under: -

"Be that power like every other power has to be exercised fairly, justly and reasonably."

13. Proviso (a) to Article 311 of the Constitution of India, is an exception to clause (2) of Article 311, which is applicable where a person is dismissed or removed or reduced in rank on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge. In case of Divisional Personnel Officer, Southern Railway Vs. T.R. Chellappan, 1976 (3) SCC 190 (para-21), Hon'ble Supreme Court considered Article 311(2), Proviso (a) and held that this provision confers power upon the disciplinary authority to decide whether in the facts of a particular case, what penalty, if at all, should be imposed on the delinquent employee, after taking into account the entire conduct of the delinquent employee, the gravity of the misconduct committed by him, the impact which his misconduct is likely to have on the administration and other extenuating circumstances or redeeming features, if any, present in the case and so on and so forth. The conviction of the delinquent employee would be taken as sufficient proof of misconduct and then the authority will have to embark upon a summary inquiry as to the nature and extent of the penalty to be imposed on the delinquent employee and in the course of the inquiry, if the authority is of the opinion that the offence is too trivial or of a technical nature it may refuse to impose any penalty in spite of the conviction. The disciplinary authority has the undoubted power after hearing the delinquent employee and considering the circumstances of the case to inflict any major penalty on the delinquent employee without any further departmental inquiry, if the authority is of the opinion that the employee has been guilty of a serious offence involving moral turpitude and, therefore, it is not desirable or conducive in the interests of administration to retain such a person in service. In Sushil Kumar Singhal vs. Regional Manager, Punjab National Bank, 2010 (8) SCC 573 (Paras-24 and 25), Hon'ble Supreme Court explained the meaning of the words 'moral turpitude' to mean anything contrary to honesty, modesty or good morals.

14. Thus, in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Tulsiram Patel (supra), T.R. Chellapan (supra) and Shankar Das (supra), and two Division Bench judgments of this court in Shyam Narain Shukla (supra) and Sadanand Mishra (supra), it can safely be concluded that while removing the petitioner from service, the respondents were bound to consider the conduct of the petitioner, which has led to his conviction in the session trial. This was the condition precedent for the competent authority to acquire jurisdiction to impose punishment of removal from service. However, the impugned order is unfortunately silent and does not show consideration of conduct of the petitioner which has led to his conviction in the S.T. No.178 of 2005. It was necessary for the respondents, while passing the impugned order, to consider the conduct of the petitioner leading to his conviction and then to decide what punishment is to be inflicted upon him. This has not been done by the respondent No.2 while removing the petitioner from service. Therefore, the impugned order cannot be sustained and is hereby quashed.

15. For all the reasons afore-stated, the writ petition is allowed. Matter is remitted back to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Jhansi to pass an order afresh, in accordance with law, within one month from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order. In the event, the petitioner is reinstated in service, he shall be entitled to all consequential benefits and shall also be entitled to arrears of salary only for the period he actually worked.

Writ Petition allowed in part. (E-8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. Heard Shri Aftab Ahmad, learned counsel for the petitioners, Shri Jagdish Prasad Maurya, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel and Shri Dileep Pandey, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. This writ petition was filed in the year 1981 challenging an order dated 25.02.1981 by which revision of the petitioners under Section 48 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 1953') was rejected. Another order dated 30.04.1981 has been challenged which had been passed by D.D.C. on the review application filed by the petitioners rejecting the same on the ground that he did not have any power of review.

3. In the year 1996 the writ petition was amended and order dated 30.12.1958 passed by the Deputy Commissioner, Barabanki on the appeal of the State Government under Section 17 of the Indian Forest Act, 1927 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 1927') as applicable to the State of U.P. was sought to be challenged by way of an amendment which was allowed by this Court on 17.10.1996, however, during the course of argument today Shri Aftab Ahmad, learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that this order has already been declared to be without jurisdiction by this Court in the earlier proceedings bearing Writ Petition No. 917 of 1972; Mohd. Mohinuddin Vs. State of U.P. and Ors. decided on 16.04.1975 which has not been put to challenge by the State and has attained finally, therefore, he does not want to press this part of the relief relating to the validity of the order dated 30.12.1958.

4. In view of the above, this part of the relief claimed in the writ petition is not pressed.

5. From the records and during the course of arguments it comes out that according to the petitioners, their father was granted a Lease which was registered on 31.07.1951 by the Zamindar in respect of certain Gatas of land including Gata No. 1447/1 and 1448/1. In pursuance to the aforesaid Lease, proceedings for mutation were initiated and Mutation Court vide order dated 30.05.1952 ordered mutation of the name of petitioners' father in respect of the Gatas in respect of which Lease was granted by the Zamindar. According to the petitioners, based on the aforesaid order the name of petitioners' father came to be recorded in Khatauni of 1359 Fasli and remained so recorded till 1366 Fasli. It is worthwhile to mention that the Lease dated 31.07.1951 is referable to 1359 Fasli, as, the Fasli year starts from 1st of July. There is not much of a dispute in this regard. On 11.10.1955 a notification was issued under Section 4 of the Indian Forest Act, 1927, by virtue of which Gatas bearing No. 1447/1 and 1448/1, which, according to the petitioners, was leased out in their favour by the Zamindar and consequently was recorded in their name vide order of the Mutation Court dated 30.05.1952, were declared that the said land apart from the other land mentioned in the notification had been decided/proposed to be constituted a Reserved Forest. Accordingly, a proposal was put-forth. By the same notification, a copy of which is annexed as Annexure No. 19 to the rejoinder affidavit of the petitioners, the Sub-Divisional Officer of Sub-Division concerned was appointed as Forest Settlement Officers under Section 1(o) of Section 4 of the Act, 1927 and Additional Commissioner, Lucknow Faizabad Division was empowered to hear appeals from orders of the Forest Settlement Officers. According to the petitioners, their father had filed objections under Section 6 of the Act, 1927 before the Forest Settlement Officer i.e. the Sub-Divisional Officer concerned of District-Barabanki, although, learned counsel for the State says that no such objection was filed. Be that as it may, the Court finds that under Section 7 of the Act, 1927 read with Section 9 thereof, even if, no claim is made under Section 6 by filing an objection. Forest Settlement Officer could ascertain from the records of the Government and evidence of any person likely to be acquainted with the same, regarding the existence of rights mentioned in Section 4 and Section 5 thereof and could acquire knowledge of existence of such rights in an inquiry under Section 7 as is mentioned in Section 9. The records of earlier proceedings especially the judgment of this Court dated 16.04.1975 rendered in Writ Petition No. 917 of 1972; Mohd. Mohinuddin Vs. State of U.P. and Ors. clearly disclose the aforesaid facts and also that the Forest Settlement Officer accepted the claim of the petitioners under Section 6 of the Act, 1927. There is some dispute about the date of this order. The Writ Court's judgment refers to it as order dated 31.08.1959. There is a letter/order of the Sub-Divisional Officer, Fatehpur dated 22.09.1958 with reference to letter of the Divisional Forest Officer, Gomti Rapti Afforestation Division, Lucknow which is annexed with the rejoinder affidavit. The said document says that the land bearing Plot No. 1447-A/1 measuring 79 bighas, 14 biswas and 6 biswansis, and Plot No. 1448-A/1 measuring 13 bighas 14 biswas i.e. total of 95 bighas, 8 biswas and 6 biswansis were the sirdari plots of Shri Mohinuddin and were wrongly notified for being taken by the Forest Department, and a correction had been ordered to be made in the village records accordingly. The reference in the said letter that a correction had been ordered to be made in the village records accordingly, is obviously a reference to the earlier order dated 31.08.1958 which has been referred in the judgment of the Writ Court. In the same letter it is mentioned that remaining area of 32 bighas, 7 biswas and 4 biswansis of 1447-A/2, and 116 bighas of Plot No. 1448-A/2 i.e. a total of 140 Bighas and 17 Biswa has been ordered to be recorded in the name of Forest Department obviously by the earlier order dated 31.08.1958 which is referred in the judgment dated 16.04.1975. After mentioning this fact the Divisional Forest Officer has been requested by the Forest Settlement Officer to take action for issuance of revised notification by the Government. This document has not been denied by the Official opposite parties inspite of three counter affidavits having been filed by them in this writ petition. Moreover, these facts are clearly borne out from the earlier judgment dated 16.04.1975 as referred above. These facts are also mentioned in the orders of the Consolidation Authority.

6. Now, what comes out from the records is that against the order dated 31.08.1958 passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer the State Government filed an appeal before the Deputy Commissioner, who allowed the same vide his order dated 30.12.1958 a copy of which is also annexed along with the aforesaid rejoinder affidavit of the petitioners. The order very categorically states that it is being passed in Case No. 2 of 1958. The order of the Deputy Commissioner refers that it is a revisional application, although, it must have been an appeal as no revision is prescribed under the Act, 1927 against order of the S.D.O./ Forest Settlement Officer. Nevertheless, it goes on to say that the same has been filed by the Divisional Forest Officer, Gomti Rapti Afforestation Division, Lucknow against the order dated 31.07.1958 passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer, Fatehpur. Here again in the judgment of the Writ Court the order by the S.D.O. who was the Forest Settlement Officer is mentioned as dated 31.08.1958 but in the order of the Deputy Commissioner it is mentioned as 31.07.1958 but there is no doubt as to what the proceedings were. The proceedings were from an order by which certain lands, which were included in the notification under Section 4 of the Act, 1927, were released by the Settlement Forest Officer in favour of the petitioners obviously in exercise of powers under Section 11(2)(i) of the Act, 1927 and this fact has found mentioned in all the judgments referred hereinabove. The Deputy Commissioner set-aside the order of the S.D.O., Fatehpur with the direction that the land noted above shall remain the property of the Forest Department as before. According to the petitioners, this order of the Deputy Commissioner dated 30.12.1958 was challenged by filing an application with reference to Section 22 of the Act, 1927 before the State Government which had been bestowed with revisional powers in this regard. In this regard learned counsel for the petitioners invited the attention of the Court to a communication from the State Government dated 24.09.1959 mentioning the receipt of an application dated 27.08.1959 which was said to be under consideration. According to the learned counsel for the petitioners reference therein to the application is in fact a reference to the revision filed by the petitioners' father, although, he says that copy of the revision is not available. However, he invites the attention of the Court to the order of the Deputy Director of Consolidation wherein the statement of the Officials of the Forest Department, who were parties before him, has been recorded that against the order of the Deputy Commissioner dated 30.12.1958 a revision was pending consideration before the State Government which according to him is a corroboration of his assertion as aforesaid as also of the letter of the Government dated 24.08.1959.

7. Be that as it may, it is this order of the Deputy Commissioner dated 30.12.1959 which found favour with the Consolidation Officer, the Settlement Officer, Consolidation and ultimately the Deputy Director of Consolidation, who, vide their orders dated 12.01.1970, 13.10.1971 and 14.02.1972, rejected the objections/claim of the petitioners for striking off the entry in basic year Khatauni which was in favour of the Forest Department in respect of the land in dispute, as, according to all these consolidation Courts the said order had attained finality between the parties. The matter came up to this Court as stated earlier by means of Writ Petition No. 917 of 1972 which was filed by the petitioners' father and this Court found that the order of the Deputy Commissioner dated 30.12.1958 which had been passed under Section 17 of the Act, 1927 and which formed the basis for the orders impugned before the Writ Court which was passed by the Consolidation Officer, was without jurisdiction and accordingly, it was declared as being without authority of law. Though, the Writ Court in its judgment dated 16.04.1975 did not give reasons as to why it found it to be so, the reasons are not far to see as in the notification under Section 4 of the Act, 1927 itself, as mentioned earlier, the State Government exercising its powers had notified the Additional Commissioner Lucknow Faizabad Division as the authority competent to hear the appeal. The Additional Commissioner was an Officer higher in rank than the Deputy Commissioner, therefore, it appears the Court held it to be so. It is true that the order of the Deputy Commissioner was not directly under challenge before the Writ Court, but, then, it is equally true that orders of the Consolidation Officers were based on the order of the Deputy Commissioner which apparently was without jurisdiction, therefore, the Writ Court declared it to be so obviously to do substantial justice between the parties and as an order passed without jurisdiction is a nullity in the eyes of law. Most importantly, the State never challenged the judgment dated 16.04.1975, therefore, the said judgment has attained finality between the parties and the findings/conclusions drawn therein can not be assailed by the State nor have they been sought to be assailed in these proceedings.

8. This Court while hearing this writ petition on the earlier occasions had asked the State Government vide order dated 28.08.2019, inter alia, as to whether against the order of the Sub-Divisional Officer which was in favour of the petitioners, any proceedings were taken by the Forest Department before the competent Authority/Court under the Indian Forest Act, 1927 after the decision of the Deputy Commissioner dated 30.12.1958 had been held to be without jurisdiction by this Court in the earlier round of litigation vide its judgment dated 16.04.1975, if so, what was the result thereof, but inspite of sufficient opportunity the State neither filed any affidavit answering the queries nor produced any document in this regard. As such on 03.01.2020 this Court passed the following order:-

"In spite of the order dated 28.8.2019, the relevant records have not been produced before this Court and every time opportunity is being sought as is evident from the subsequent orders also, therefore, adverse inference is to be drawn against the concerned opposite parties whenever the matter is taken up.

List/ put up on 7.1.2020."

9. Even today, neither any affidavit has been filed nor any attempt has been made to answer the queries made in the order dated 28.08.2019. In this view of the matter, adverse inference is drawn against the State, and it is accordingly inferred that the order of the Sub-Divisional Officer which was in favour of the petitioners as noticed by this Court in the earlier judgment dated 16.04.1975 and which was challenged before the Deputy Commissioner whose order was declared to be without jurisdiction, were never challenged before any higher forum.

10. It is not out of place to mention that till date no notification has been issued under Section 20 of the Act, 1927 declaring the aforesaid Gatas bearing No. 1447/1 and 1448/1 as reserved forest land so as to confirm the proposal under Section 4. It is also true as informed by Shri Maurya, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel that inspite of order of the S.D.O./Forest Settlement Officer and his letter dated 22.09.1958 referred hereinabove the notification under Section 4 has not been revised but this is immaterial for the reason that an adjudication by the Forest Settlement Officer and the Court even if it has not been complied by the State Government will hold the field and the notification will be treated to have been modified accordingly in terms of the statutory orders passed by the competent authority and the order of the Writ Court dated 16.04.1975.

11. Vide judgment dated 16.04.1975 the Writ Court interfered with the order of the Deputy Director of Consolidation on the ground that the main basis of the order was the illegal and void order passed by the Deputy Commissioner, accordingly, the Writ Court remanded the matter back to the Deputy Director of Consolidation for consideration of the revision afresh with the observation that he shall see as to whether the Lease granted by the Zamindar in favour of the petitioners had been acted upon or not and whether the land continued to be a forest. It was also observed that if necessary, the Deputy Director of Consolidation may remand the case to the Consolidation Officer for taking evidence on this point. The petition of the petitioners' father was accordingly allowed and the order of the D.D.C. dated 14.02.1972 was set-aside.

12. After remand the Deputy Director of Consolidation considered the matter afresh. It however so happened that for some reason the original copies of documents including lease etc. which were filed by petitioners' father were taken back by him and after remand the same could not be filed again. When confronted the learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that this was on account of fact that the petitioners' father died on 07.02.1979. Thereafter, the petitioners who are his sons got substituted in his place but they were not aware of the fact that the original documents had been taken back by their father. In this scenario the Deputy Director of Consolidation found that the Lease, though, it had been filed by the petitioners had been taken back and had not been filed again inspite of several dates being fixed in the matter. He also found that possession of the petitioners was not proved, although, in his order he has mentioned that during "partal' they were found to be in possession and had also paid rent firstly to the Zamindar and thereafter to the Government. For these reasons he has dismissed the revision of the petitioners and his order is impugned before this Court.

13. Now, before this Court the petitioners have filed copy of the Lease etc. and have also offered an explanation for not filing the same before the D.D.C. as aforesaid.

14. It is also not out of place to mention that all these documents which could not be filed before the D.D.C. were subsequently filed along with a review application which was dismissed on the ground that the D.D.C. did not have any power to review his order, as already stated.

15. Now, after hearing the learned counsel for the parties and perusing the records what comes out is that the order of the Deputy Commissioner, which was the basis for denying the claim of the petitioners by the Consolidation Courts, has been declared to be without jurisdiction by this Court way back on 16.04.1975 in the earlier writ petition and the said judgment has attained finality and there is no other order passed by any other higher authority or Court which may have set-aside the order of the Sub-Divisional Officer/First Settlement Officer which was admittedly in favour of the petitioner having been passed under the Act, 1927, even though a copy of it is not on record of this writ petition and has not been produced by the State inspite of order of this Court dated 28.08.2019 and 05.09.2019 which compelled the Court to pass the order dated 03.01.2020 regarding adverse inference as already referred earlier. This factual scenario is unrebutted.

16. Though, copy of the Lease is on record this Court in exercise of its writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is not empowered to appreciate evidence and record findings of fact based thereon, especially, as the language of the Lease is not very clear.

17. It is also not in dispute that based on the order of the Sub-Divisional Officer, who was the Forest Settlement Officer as per Notification dated 11.10.1955, the name of the petitioners' father was entered in the revenue records in respect of Gatas No. 1447/1 and 1448/1 in 1359 Fasli i.e. the Khatuani prepared in the year of vesting and it continued to be so recorded till 1363 Fasli or 1366 Fasli. It is also not in dispute that the land in dispute was recorded as forest land in favour of the Forest Department of the Govt. of U.P. only because of the order of the Deputy Commissioner dated 30.12.1958 which has already been declared void vide judgment dated 16.04.1975. Thus, as far as basic year entry in favour of the Forest Department in respect of the land in dispute referred hereinabove is concerned, the same was susceptible to challenge unless there was any other factual and legal basis to sustain it, but, the Deputy Director of Consolidation while passing the impugned judgment on 25.02.1981 has failed to consider this aspect of the matter. He was greatly persuaded by the fact that the Lease, which was initially filed by the petitioners, was not on record. The circumstances in which the Lease could not be filed have already been dealt with hereinabove. The copy of the Lease is on record of the writ petition. Had the Lease been on record then the D.D.C. would have had an occasion to consider relevant aspects of the matter as referred hereinabove, which he has not considered.

18. It is not the case of the State that the land in dispute had vested in the State in view of Section 4 read with Section 6 or any other provision of the Act, 1950. The case of the State throughout has been that the land was declared to be reserved forest land under Section 4 and it came to be recorded in the name of the Forest Department based on the order of the Deputy Commissioner dated 30.12.1958 which as stated earlier was declared to be void by this Court way back in 1975.

19. The land in dispute was recorded in the name of Forest Department only after passing of the order dated 30.12.1958.

20. In view of the above discussion, the matter requires reconsideration by the D.D.C. The first question to be considered by the D.D.C. is the basis for recording the land as Forest Land in the eyes of law. Assuming he finds absence of any factual and legal basis this by itself would not entitle the petitioners to get their name recorded in respect thereof and an adjudication would be required with regard to their entitlement based on the alleged Lease issued by the Zamindar, the mutation order passed thereafter and also the points considered by this Court in its earlier judgment dated 16.04.1975 as to whether the said Lease was acted upon. The question which would fall for consideration is as to what rights accrued to the petitioners, if at all such a Lease was executed and mutation order had been passed in terms of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1952. Whether at all any rights accrued or the land in question vested in the State under Section 4 read with Section 6 of the said Act, 1952 or Whether the land was even otherwise liable to be recorded as Forest Land under the Act, 1927 as per law. This aspect of the matter has not been examined by the Consolidation Officer, S.O.C. and the Deputy Director of Consolidation. In this context it is relevant to refer to Section 8 of the Act, 1950 so as to avoid further confusion, complication and multiplicity of litigation in this regard. Section 8 of the Act, 1950 reads as under:-

"8. Contract entered into after August 8, 1946, to become void from the date of vesting.- Any contract for grazing or gathering of produce from land or the collection of forest produce or fish from any forest or fisheries entered into after the eighth day of August, 1946, between an intermediary and any other person in respect of any private forest, fisheries, or land lying in such estate shall become void with effect from the date of vesting.

Summary.- Any contract between an intermediary and any other person made after the 8th day of August, 1946, shall become void from the date of vesting, if it provides for :*

(a) grazing,

(b) gathering of produce from land lying in the estate so vested,

(c) the collection of forest produce from any private forest, and

(d) fish from any fisheries."

21. During the course of arguments a query was put by the Court as to whether the Lease by the Zamindar, who was an intermediary within the definition of the term under the Act, 1950, in favour of the petitioners' father was hit by Section 8, no satisfactory reply could be given by either of the parties, however, the Court finds that there is a Division Bench judgment of this Court reported in 1960 RD 337; Raghunath Singh and Anr. Vs. State of U.P. and Anr. wherein it has been held that Section 8 is not attracted in the case of Leases of land where the purpose of the lease is to use the land for the purpose of agriculture. A lease of land for the purpose of cultivation which confers on the lessee not merely a right in the land but also the right to exclusive possession of the land and to turn it to cultivation, is not a transaction covered by Section 8. Hence, where the land was agricultural purpose the lessee acquired at first a status of hereditary tenant and later when the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act was enforced of Sirdar of the lands therein transferred. Relevant extract of the said judgment is quoted herein below:-

"In our opinion Section 8 is not attracted in the case of leases of land where the purposes of the leases is to use the land for the purpose of agriculture, horticulture, pisciculture etc. It is sometimes unavoidable that in the process of using the land for these purposes reclamation also is done and what is known as forest produce is collected or removed in the process. Land must be cleared of unwanted growth to turn it usefully to agriculture etc. The mere fact that these operations are necessarily involved in making the land agriculture worthy will not take away from the transaction their true nature as leases of land. A contract for the collection of forest produce must in order that it may be such a transaction be contract essentially for the collection etc. of the produce. It will not be such a contract if the removal etc. of the forest has to be done to make the land agriculture worthy- the object and purpose of the lease. In the instant case, admittedly the leases were for using the land for purpose of agriculture and horticulture etc. As a matter of fact the lessees were also entered as hereditary tenants of the lands and later after the abolition of zamindaris as sirdars. They have been paying the land revenue also assessed on them to the Government. It is not possible in these circumstances to hold that the leases were contracts for the collection of forest produce. The contract referred to in Section 8 does not contemplate the conferment on the promises any right in or over land, it, on the other hand, merely refers to the right to collect forest produce or to perform certain acts over the land. A lease of land for the purpose of cultivation which confers on the lessee not merely a right in the land but also the right to exclusive possession of the land and to turn it to cultivation, is not a transaction covered by Section 8. It is not possible under the circumstances to accept that the leases in favour of the petitioners were void under Section 8 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act. Being leases for agriculture purposes the lessees acquired, at first the status of hereditary tenants and later when the Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act was enforced of sirdars of the lands therein transferred."

22. On a bare perusal of Section 8 of the Act, 1950 what comes out is that any contract between an intermediary and any other person made after the 8th day of August, 1946 which is the date on which the United Provinces Legislative Assembly resolved to abolish the zamindari system in principle, shall become void from the date of vesting, if it provides for :

"(a) grazing,

(b) gathering of produce from land lying in the estate so vested,

(c) the collection of forest produce from any private forest, and

(d) fish from any fisheries."

23. None of the Courts below have considered as to whether the Lease in question would be hit by Section 8, therefore, this discussion has been made only to throw some light on the legal position in this regard so that while reconsidering the matter, as, this Court proposes to remand it back to the D.D.C., this aspect shall also be kept in mind along with the inter play of other provisions of the Act, 1950 by which new tenures were sought to be created. The concept of Adhiwasi was also introduced in the Act, 1950 sometimes in 1952 which will also have to be kept in mind. The relevant dates will have to seen in the matter, chronologically.

24. Learned counsel for the State was asked as to the status of the revision alleged to have been filed by the petitioners but he stated that on account of lapse of time it is not possible to trace out the same and is not available.

25. In view of the above discussion, the order of the Deputy Director of Consolidation is accordingly set-aside. The revision of the petitioners shall stand restored once again. The petitioners and the opposite parties shall put in appearance before the Deputy Director of Consolidation on 10.02.2020. Thereafter, the proceedings shall be held keeping in mind the observations made hereinabove and also the observations made by the Writ Court earlier vide its judgment dated 16.04.1975.

26. The petitioners claim to have filed the Lease and other documents before the D.D.C. along with the review application. If the same are available on record the same shall be taken into consideration. Otherwise it shall be open for the petitioners to again file the said documents if the occasion so requires.

27. It is however, made clear that the claim of the petitioners which is to be considered, shall be restricted to only two Gatas bearing No. 1447/1 and 1448/1, as, it is only these two Gatas regarding which claim was raised by the petitioners' father in the consolidation proceedings in the first place, in his objections, a copy of which has been filed with the counter affidavit.

28. The Deputy Director of Consolidation shall make an earnest endeavour to complete the proceedings, after remand, within a period of one year from the date of submission of a certified copy of this order before him.

29. The writ petition is allowed in part in the aforesaid terms.

A. The U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act 1960 - Section 5(6) – while determining the ceiling area of a tenure holder any transfer of land made after 24 January 1971 which but for the transfer would have been declared as surplus shall be ignored and not taken into account - Notices under Section 10(2) – ' will' which is a testamentary document comes into effect only upon the death of the testator – 'will' by virtue of its intrinsic character is naturally "ambulatory" - revocable during the lifetime of the testator - A 'will' in its fundamental terms merely embodies a disposition of property which is to take effect after the death of the deceased – held - 'will' by its very nature is distinct from a 'transfer' - tenure holder failed to establish that 'transfer' falls within the ambit of clause (b) of the Proviso to section 5(6) - impugned orders passed by the Prescribed Authority and Additional Commissioner quashed. (Para 7, 8 & 11)

It is clear on a holistic reading of sub section 5(6) that transfers made after the cutoff date

(i.e.24 January 1971) are not ipso facto liable to be ignored - A transfer, even though made after the cutoff date, can still stand saved provided the tenure holder is able to establish that it falls within the ambit of clause (b) of the Proviso. - it is evident from the order of the Additional Commissioner that the will executed in favour of the brothers of the petitioner on 21 October 1974 has not been tested or evaluated on the anvil of clause (b) at all - The Additional Commissioner while proceeding to reject and ignore that transfer does not record any findings that the transaction was not made bona fide or that it did not satisfy the other factors which stand enumerated in that clause. (Para 7)

Held: - A will would clearly not fall within the scope of the expression "transfer" as employed in Section 5 (6). The will executed in favour of the brothers of the petitioner could not have been held or recognized as embodying a transfer for the purposes of the Act. A will which was executed in favour of the brothers of the petitioner could not be said to fall within the ambit of Section 5(6) of the Act. (Para 10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Yashwant Varma, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for parties.

2. This petition raises the issue of whether a will when executed would amount to a transfer as contemplated under Section 5(6) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act 19601. Before proceeding to answer the question as framed it would be pertinent to notice the following essential facts.

3. The original tenure holder Devi Dutt had two sons namely Sheo Sampat Lal and Rishal Chandra. Sheo Sampat Lal had one son Raj Narain who died in 1954. However, Raj Narain on 23 April 1954 executed a will in favour of the petitioner bequeathing his share in the ancestral property. It is stated that on the basis of the aforesaid will the name of the petitioner was entered in the revenue records on 1 January 1955. Rishal Chandra had one son named Ram Chandra, the father of the present petitioner. During the course of consolidation operations chaks were carved out equally between the petitioner and Ram Chandra. Ram Chandra, the father of the petitioner, is stated to have entered into a second marriage from which Munish Chandra and Subhash Chandra were born. Since the petitioner already stood recorded over half of the ancestral property and chaks had also been carved out accordingly during the course of consolidation operations, Ram Chandra executed a will on 21 October 1974 bequeathing his half share in the ancestral property to Munish Chandra and Subhash Chandra. Ram Chandra ultimately died on 22 November 1983. Notices under Section 10(2) of the Act, however, came to be issued in his name on 24 September 1984. On receipt of that notice and since Ram Chandra had died in the meanwhile, the petitioner and his two brothers filed objections before the Prescribed Authority. The Prescribed Authority by his order of 21 February 1986 declared 10.15 acres as surplus. While framing the said order, although the Prescribed Authority noticed the will executed in favour of the petitioner on 23 April 1954, he held the petitioner and his two brothers liable to be recognised as holding 1/3rd share in the entire property. When the matter was taken in appeal the Additional Commissioner in terms of his order of 5 November 1988 ruling upon the validity of the will executed in favour of the brothers of the petitioner held that since that had been executed on 21 October 1974 and thus evidently after the cut off date of 24 January 1971 as prescribed in Section 5(6) of the Act, it was liable to be ignored. It is in the aforesaid backdrop that the instant writ petition came to be preferred before this Court.

4. Assailing the orders impugned, Sri R.C. Singh, learned Senior counsel appearing for the petitioner, contends that both the authorities have clearly erred in holding the petitioner and his two brothers to be co-sharers to the extent of 1/3rd each in the ancestral property. Referring to the will executed in favour of the petitioner on 23 April 1954, it was submitted that by virtue of that testament, the petitioner came to hold one half share in the ancestral property. According to Sri Singh since the consolidation authorities had also recognised his rights and had made allotments in favour of the petitioner and Ram Chandra in equal proportion, there was no occasion for the ceiling authorities to ignore the will and the orders passed in those proceedings. Sri Singh submitted that his two brothers inherited one half share in the ancestral property by virtue of the will executed by the father on 21 October 1974. According to Sri Singh the land holding of the petitioner and his two brothers were liable to be assessed under the Act in accordance with the testamentary instruments referred to above. Sri Singh submitted that the notice under Section 10(2) had undisputedly come to be issued after the death of the father of the petitioner. He assailed the impugned orders also on the ground that although the petitioners appeared and contested those proceedings, no individual notices under section 10(2) of the Act had been issued to them. Sri Singh then submitted that the Additional Commissioner has clearly erred in construing the will executed by his father in favour of his two brothers to be a transfer. Sri Singh contended that a will only embodies the intention of the testator to devolve property after his death. According to Sri Singh, a will only evidences a disposition of property which is to take effect upon the death of the testator. In view of the above, it was his submission that the will could not be construed as a "transfer" as contemplated under Section 5(6) of the Act. In support of his submission, Sri Singh relied upon the following principles as enunciated by the Supreme Court in S. Rathinam Vs. L.S. Mariappan2: -

"19. A will denotes a testamentary document. It means a legal declaration of the intention of a testator with respect to his property which he desires to be carried into effect after his death. It is in its own nature ambulatory and revocable during his life.

20. In Uma Devi Nambiar and Others v. T.C. Sidhan (Dead) [AIR 2004 SC 1772], it was held :

"10. Will is a translation of the Latin word "voluntas", which was a term used in the text of Roman law to express the intention of a testator. It is of significance that the abstract term has come to mean that document in which the intention is contained. The same has been the case with several other English law terms, the concrete has superseded the abstract obligation, bond, contract, are examples (William: Wills and Intestate Succession , p. 5). The word "testament" is derived from " testatio mentis ", it testifies the determination of the mind. A Will is thus defined by Ulpians as " Testamentum est mentis nostrae justa contestatio in id sollemniter facta to post mortem nostrum valeat ." Modastinus defines it by means of voluntas. It is "voluntatis nostrae justa sententia, de eo quod quis post mortem suam fieri vult (or velit)"; the word " justa " implying in each, that, in order to be valid, the testament must be made in compliance with the forms of law. It means, "the legal declaration of a man's intentions, which will be performed after his death". A last Will and testament is defined to be "the just sentence of our Will, touching what we would have done after our death". Every testament is consummated by death, and until he dies, the Will of a testator is ambulatory. Nam omne testamentum morte consummatum est; et voluntae testamentoric est embulatoria usque od mortem. (For, where a testament is, there must also of necessity be death of testator; for, a testament is of force after men are dead; otherwise it is of no strength at all while the testator liveth.) A "Will", says Jarman, "is an instrument by which a person makes a disposition of his property to take effect after his decease, and which is in its own nature ambulatory and revocable during his life." (Jarman on Wills, 1st Edn., p. 11.) This ambulatory character of a Will has been often pointed out as its prominent characteristic, distinguishing it, in fact, from ordinary disposition by a living person's deed, which might, indeed postpone the beneficial possession or even a vesting until the death of the disposer and yet would produce such postponement only by its express terms under an irrevocable instrument and a statement that a Will is final does not import an agreement not to change it. (Schouler: Law of Wills, S. 326). A Will is the aggregate of man's testamentary intentions so far as they are manifested in writing, duly executed according to the statute."

21. A testator by his will, may make any disposition of his property subject to the condition that the same should not be inconsistent with the laws or contrary to the policy of the State. A will of a man is the aggregate of his testamentary intentions so far as they are manifested in writing. It is not a transfer but a mode of devolution. [See Beru Ram and Others v. Shankar Dass and Others - AIR 1999 J&K 55]. "

5. Refuting those submissions, learned Standing Counsel submitted that since no partition had been affected amongst the brothers in formal and legal terms, the respondents correctly recognised them as holding 1/3rd share in the ancestral property. According to the learned Standing Counsel while notices may not have been issued individually to the petitioner and his brothers, since they appeared and contested the matter before the Prescribed Authority as well as the Additional Commissioner, no prejudice as such stood caused and consequently the impugned orders are not liable to be set aside on this score.

6. The answer to the question of whether a will would be liable to be construed as a "transfer" would depend upon the construction of Section 5(6) of the Act. That provision reads thus: -

"(6) In determining the ceiling area applicable to a tenure-holder, any transfer of land made after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971, which but for the transfer would have been declared surplus land under this Act, shall be ignored and not taken into account :

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply to--

(a) a transfer in favour of any person (including Government) referred to in sub-section (2);

(b) a transfer proved to the satisfaction of the prescribed authority to be in good faith and for adequate consideration and under an irrevocable instrument not being a benami transaction or for immediate or deferred benefit of the tenure-holder or other members of his family.

Explanation I.--For the purposes of this sub-section, the expression 'transfer to land made after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971, includes--

(a) a declaration of a person as a co-tenure-holder made after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971 in a suit or proceeding irrespective of whether such suit or proceeding was pending on or was instituted after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971;

(b) any admission, acknowledgment, relinquishment or declaration in favour of a person to the like effect, made in any other deed or instrument or in any other manner.

Explanation II.--The burden of proving that a case falls within clause (b) of the proviso shall rest with the party claiming its benefit."

7. The Section prescribes that while determining the ceiling area of a tenure holder any transfer of land made after 24 January 1971 which but for the transfer would have been declared as surplus shall be ignored and not taken into account. On plain terms sub-section (6) appears to empower the respondents while implementing the provisions of the Act to ignore transfers made after 24 January 1971. However as is evident from the Proviso appended to sub-section (6), a transfer per se is not liable to be rejected. This, since firstly, transfers in favour of persons including those specified in Section 5(2), are excluded from the operation of the injunct engrafted in sub-section (6). Section 5(2) enumerates the categories of persons and legal entities who would stand exempted from the rigour of Section 5(1). Amongst others, it includes the Central Government, State Government, Local Authority, University, an intermediate college etc. Similar safeguards stand placed in respect of transfers that may be affected by individuals after 24 January 1971. This is evident from a perusal of clause (b) to the Proviso which states that it would be open for a tenure holder to commend to the respondents not to ignore a transfer made after the cut off date provided it is established that it was made in good faith, for adequate consideration and by way of an irrevocable instrument as also in a situation where the transfer is made for the immediate or deferred benefit of the tenure holder or the members of his family. On a holistic reading of sub section (6) it is therefore manifest that transfers made after the cut off date are not ipso facto liable to be ignored. A transfer, even though made after the cut off date, can still stand saved provided the tenure holder is able to establish that it falls within the ambit of clause (b) of the Proviso. As this Court reads the order of the Additional Commissioner, it is evident that the will executed in favour of the brothers of the petitioner on 21 October 1974 has not been tested or evaluated on the anvil of clause (b) at all. The Additional Commissioner while proceeding to reject and ignore that transfer does not record any findings that the transaction was not made bona fide or that it did not satisfy the other factors which stand enumerated in that clause.

8. Notwithstanding the above, in the considered view of the Court, the impugned orders are liable to be set-aside on a more fundamental ground. Sub-section (6) speaks of "transfer". As is evident upon a conjoint reading of the substantive provision of that Section and the Proviso appended thereto, it clearly contemplates a transfer made in praesenti. This, since evidently that provision would stand attracted only if a transfer has been made, completed and accomplished after the 24th of January 1971. It clearly operates in respect of a disposition of property made after the cut off date which has taken effect. It cannot by any stretch be read as taking within its ambit something which is indefinite or undetermined. As was lucidly explained by the Supreme Court in S Rathinam, a will which is a testamentary document comes into effect only upon the death of the testator. It was also significantly observed that a will by virtue of its intrinsic character is naturally "ambulatory". This since it is always revocable during the lifetime of the testator. A will in its fundamental terms merely embodies a disposition of property which is to take effect after the death of the deceased. It is in that light that the Supreme Court held that a will by its very nature is distinct from a transfer.

9. Dealing with an identical question, the Supreme Court in Mahadeo Vs Shakuntalabai3 was called upon to consider whether a will would fall within the ambit of Section 57 of the Bombay Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act 1958. Section 57(2) of that Act provided that any transfer of land made in violation of sub-section (1) would be invalid. Dealing with that question, the Supreme Court held thus: -

"5. On a plain reading of the aforesaid provision, it is clear that transfer without the previous sanction of the Collector is impermissible by way of sale, gift, exchange, mortgage, lease or assignment. There is no prohibition in so far as the transfer of land by way of a Will is concerned. In fact, in view of the decision of this Court in State of West Bengal and Anr. v. Kailash Chandra Kapur and Ors. (1997) 2 SCC 387, devolution of property by way of a Will does not amount to a transfer of the property. This is clear from para 12 of the aforesaid decision wherein it has been observed that transfer connotes, normally, between two living persons during life. However, a Will takes effect after demise of the testator and transfer in that perspective becomes incongruous.

6. That the beneficiary of a Will receives the property by way of devolution and not by way of transfer is also made clear by the decision of this Court in S. Rathinam alias Kuppamuthu and Ors. v. L.S. Mariappan and Ors. (2007) 6 SCC 724 wherein this Court has held in para 21 that:

"21. A testator by his Will, may make any disposition of his property subject to the condition that the same should not be inconsistent with the laws or contrary to the policy of the State. The Will of a man is the aggregate of his testamentary intentions so far as they are manifested in writing. It is not a transfer but a mode of devolution."

In coming to this conclusion, this Court referred to Beru Ram v. Shankar Dass AIR 1999 J & K 55."

10. From the position of law as exposited in S. Rathinam and Mahadeo, it is manifest that a will would clearly not fall within the scope of the expression "transfer" as employed in Section 5 (6). The will executed in favour of the brothers of the petitioner could not have been held or recognised as embodying a transfer for the purposes of the Act. It is manifest that the will which was executed in favour of the brothers of the petitioner could not be said to fall within the ambit of Section 5(6) of the Act. This in itself renders the impugned orders wholly unsustainable.

11. The writ petition is accordingly allowed. The impugned orders dated 21 February 1986, passed by the Prescribed Authority and 5 November 1988 passed by the Additional Commissioner are hereby quashed.

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Radha Kant Ojha, Sri Girijesh Kumar Mishra, Sri Ratnakar Upadhyay

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.S.G.I., Sri Ajeet Kumar Singh, Sri Ishan Shishu, Sri K.R. Singh, Sri Krishna Raj Singh Jadaun, Sri Rijwan Ali Akhtar, Sri Vikram D. Chauhan, Sri V.K. Upadhyaya

A. Moral turpitude - definition - wide ambit - criminal offence does not automatically lead to an inference that the act is of moral turpitude - offences can be categorized as those involving moral turpitude will depend on facts of each case.

The Court found that the issue whether the offending act attributed to the petitioner, fell in the categories of "heinous crime (including violence and intimidation) or was an act of moral turpitude", is wholly absent from consideration. The impugned order suffers from non-application of mind, and was passed mechanically. (Para 35)

B. Education - essence - its values - modern threats - can be curtailed through discipline - punishments for violation of discipline - Court issued directions to the State to create a reform, self- development and rehabilitation programme for accused students.

C. Punishment - deterrent approach - punitive approach - reformative approach - self development and rehabilitation.

The Court finds that there is no structured, professionally designed reform, self development and rehabilitation programme, or therapeutic support system backed by a legal frame work to deal with the delinquent students and like issues in the universities. (Para 91)

D. Article 21 - Constitution of India - includes right to human dignity - jurisprudential aspect - punishment should protect the essential sanctity of human life.

Punishment has to be effective to serve its purpose; however, it cannot be purblind to human dignity, if it is to retain its constitutionality (Para 140)

Failure to consider susceptibility to reform, while denying the right to access privileges and activities of the university, negates the possibility of rehabilitation. Absence of an environment of reform, self development and rehabilitation in a university, denies the opportunity of redeeming one's reputation. Termination of dialogue with the delinquent student, without offering an opportunity to reform, makes him an outcaste. The individual is permanently discarded by the institution, and loss of human self worth is total. This system of punishment is destructive of fundamental elements of human dignity, and violative of Article 21 of the Constitution of India (Para 145)

The statutory omission of reform measures, is an inadequacy which renders the university incapable of rectifying the violation made by it. The systemic fault-line is contrary to the mandate of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. (Para 157 (ii))

E. Constitutional Jurisprudence - Doctrine of Proportionality - fundamental rights - can never be exhaustive - text of the Constitution is fixed, fundamental rights are always evolving.

The essence of proportionality is that, the competent authority while imposing a punishment upon a delinquent student, has to co-relate and balance the imperatives of institutional discipline with the demands of individual rights. Too light a punishment will not be conducive to institutional discipline. Too harsh a punishment will not be consistent with norms of justice. (Para 222)

The impugned action fails the test of proportionality as the suspension of the petitioner from the university, for an undefined or indefinite period, is an action of extreme severity. It is de-facto expulsion from university. (Para 224)

Writ Petition partly allowed. (E-10)

A. Reliefs sought

1. The petitioner has assailed the order dated 30.03.2019, passed by the Registrar, Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi, suspending the petitioner from all privileges and activities of the University.

2. The petitioner has also prayed for a writ in the nature of mandamus to command the authorities and permit the petitioner to pursue his Integrated Rural Development and Management (IRDM) course as well as Ph.D. course and permit the petitioner to participate in the activities of the University.

B. Arguments of the learned counsels for parties

3. Sri R.K.Ojha, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ratnakar Upadhyay, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order was passed in violation of the statutes of the university. The punishment imposed upon the petitioner is disproportionate. There is no provision for reform and rehabilitation of delinquent students in the statutes, which has resulted in violation of the fundamental right of the petitioner guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

4. Sri Anish Kumar, and Sri Pankaj Misra and Sri Gaurav Pundir, learned counsels for the petitioner in connected writ petitions adopt the aforesaid arguments of the learned Senior Counsel, apart from raising factual issues peculiar to the respective writ petitions in which they appear.

5. Sri V.K. Upadhyaya, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri V.D. Chauhan, learned counsel for the BHU submits that the BHU has taken action as per law.

6. The learned Senior Counsel relied on the affidavits filed by the B.H.U., on creation of a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students.

7. Sri Ajit Kumar Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri V. D. Chauhan, learned counsel for the IIT BHU, contends that the IIT BHU, as a matter of policy accepts and is willing to adopt a professionally designed reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students. However, good order and discipline have to be maintained in the University, at all costs. In fact IIT BHU is currently even running a reform programme. Though he fairly conceded that the programme is not fully developed and does not have a supporting statutory/legal frame work.

8. Sri Shashank Shekhar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-AMU, submits that the AMU fully accepts the idea of a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students on an institutional basis. He also contends that no compromise with the good order, discipline, and the stability of the academic atmosphere can be made in any manner.

9. Sri Rizwan Akhtar, learned counsel for the UGC, Sri Rakesh Srivastava, and Sri Abrar Ahmed, learned counsels for the Union of India, have also been heard.

C. Facts

(i) Background

10. The petitioner completed his master's degree in Social Works (MSW) from the Banaras Hindu University in the year 2017. Thereafter he enrolled in the Post Graduate Degree Course in Integrated Rural Development and Management (IRDM) for the academic sessions 2017-19. The petitioner qualified the National Eligibility Test in December, 2018. The petitioner had qualified for admission to the Ph.D. course, standing second in Ph.D. admission merit list of the Department of the Sociology, Faculty of Social Sciences, Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi. Before the petitioner could start the Ph.D.

programme in the BHU, the order dated 30.03.2019 was passed.

(ii) Suspension order : Consequences

11. The petitioner was suspended from all privileges and activities of the University and hostel by order dated 30.03.2019, purportedly passed under ECR No. 264 of 1979 as contained in Chapter VIII of the BHU Calender Part I Volume II, providing for ordinances governing maintenance of discipline and grievances procedure.

12. Consequent to the order dated 30.03.2019, the petitioner shall remain suspended, till his acquittal by the court in the criminal case. No terminal date can be set for conclusion of the criminal trial. Hence the suspension is for an indefinite period. The suspension order bars the petitioner from entering the university campus, or accessing any facilities therein. All further academic pursuits are denied to the petitioner during the suspension. The effect of the order of suspension is punitive.

(iii) Suspension order : Validity

13. The validity of the impugned suspension order on its merits shall be considered in the following sequence. The material before the authority passing the order will be examined, followed by the consideration of scope of the provisions. Finally adherence to the procedure prescribed by law will be tested.

14. The impugned suspension order dated 30.03.2019 records that an F.I.R. No. 0115 dated 28.01.2019 under Sections 147, 323, 120-B and 3(1)(da) of SC/ST, (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 (amendment 2015), was filed against various persons including the petitioner at Police Station Lanka, by Professor X (names are being anonymized for the purpose of writ petition). The case in the F.I.R. is briefly set forth hereafter. The petitioner and other accused had physically assaulted, and made derogatory caste remarks against the complainant when the latter was going to take a class in the faculty of Social Science on 28.01.2019. The petitioner was arrested by the police.

15. The order dated 30.03.2019 references a fact finding enquiry into the incident of manhandling of Professor X and finds a prima facie involvement of the petitioner in the said incident. The order dated 30.03.2019 recommends appropriate disciplinary action as per University Rules against the petitioner.

16. The impugned order dated 30.03.2019 also notices the order of the Vice Chancellor dated 27.03.2019 for a detailed enquiry into the aforesaid incident.

17. On the foot of the aforesaid reasoning and material, the impugned order dated 30.03.2019 suspends the petitioner from all privileges and activities of the University.

18. Contents of the enquiry report in brief, shall be set forth.

19. The enquiry committee in its report, records that Professor X had posted "undesirable photographs" of girls students on his facebook account. This had created "profuse reactions in student community". Professor X had admitted to the aforesaid post, and apologized for the same.

20. A written complaint, before the enquiry committee stated that Professor X had complained that he was beaten, humiliated, and forcibly made to wear a garland of shoes, and his caste was also denigrated. Professor Y, was named as the instigator and the petitioner was identified in the said complaint.

21. The enquiry committee, prima facie, concluded that the complaints against Professor X, were fabricated only to smear his reputation and character. Many girls students who had alleged harassment at the hands of Professor X, did not appear before the enquiry committee. However, some girls students had appeared before the enquiry committee and testified to the indecent behaviour of Professor X towards them.

22. The committee found that the incident was pre-planned and a result of the rivalry and strained relations between Professor X and Professor Y. The committee also pointed out, the shortcomings of the teachers which led to the incident. The committee recommended that the teachers should remain above reproach in their character and conduct.

23. From the fact finding committee report, it is clear that the physical assault of Professor X was undisputed. The material in the record which identified the petitioner, as one of the assaulters also cannot be seriously disputed on the limited yardsticks of judicial review. Material in the record also points to the strained relationship between Professor X and Professor Y. The incident was not spontaneous but a result of instigation of the students. Conduct of Professor X too, in some respects was not above board.

24. The Court need not restate the obvious, that violence in the University campus against a teacher cannot be justified under any circumstances.

25. The provision for suspension empowers the competent authority of the University to suspend a student from all privileges and activities of the University, when such student is "accused of, or involved in, an offence involving moral turpitude or heinous crime (including those involving violence or intimidation) and is wanted by the police or has been released on bail in connection with any such offence, or detained under any provision, or against whom Police investigation or criminal prosecution for any such offence is pending, of enquiry under U.P. Goonda Act is initiated;"

26. Lodgement of an F.I.R. for any criminal offence, does not automatically lead to a suspension under the aforesaid provision.

27. The intention of the legislature is not far to seek. Lodgement of false criminal cases is not uncommon in the country. Further criminal trials take an inordinately long time to conclude. No terminal date can be set once criminal proceedings are set in motion.

28. Mechanical exercise of power of suspension upon mere lodgement of a criminal case will lead to unintended consequences. On many occasions it would lead to an indefinite suspension and denial of opportunities of education. At times causing a stigma, without any enquiry.

29. The provision obligates the authority, to record its satisfaction whether the FIR is in respect of an offence involving moral turpitude, or a heinous crime (including those involving violence and intimidation). This condition precedent has to be followed before an order of suspension is passed.

30. Moral turpitude is a phrase of wide ambit. Some definitions of moral turpitude, from good authority will be extracted, to take the discussion forward. The Black's Law Dictionary defines "moral turpitude" as under:

"An act of baseness, vileness or depravity in the private and social duties which a man owes to his fellow men or to society in general, contrary to the accepted and customary rule of right and duty between man and man."

31. According to Bouvier's Law Dictionary, meaning of "moral turpitude" is under:

"Bad faith, bad repute, corruption, defilement, delinquency, discredit, dishonor, shame, guilt, knavery, misdoing, perversion, shame, ice, wrong."

32. The mere commission of a criminal offence will not lead to an inference that the act is one of moral turpitude. Offences which can be categorised, as those involving "moral turpitude", will be depend on the facts of each case.

33. The scope and terms of such enquiry were elaborated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of State Bank of India and Others Vs. P. Soupramaniane, reported at 2019 SCC OnLine SC 608, by holding that:

"10. There is no doubt that there is an obligation on the Management of the Bank to discontinue the services of an employee who has been convicted by a criminal court for an offence involving moral turpitude.Though every offence is a crime against the society, discontinuance from service according to the Banking Regulation Act can be only for committing an offence involving moral turpitude. Acts which disclose depravity and wickedness of character can be categorized as offences involving moral turpitude. Whether an offence involves moral turpitude or not depends upon the facts and the circumstances of the case. Ordinarily, the tests that can be applied for judging an offence involving moral turpitude are:

a) Whether the act leading to a conviction was such as could shock the moral conscience or society in general;

b) Whether the motive which led to the act was a base one, and

c) Whether on account of the act having been committed the perpetrators could be considered to be of a depraved character or a person who was to be looked down upon by the society.

11. The other important factors that are to be kept in mind to conclude that an offence involves moral turpitude are :- the person who commits the offence; the person against whom it is committed; the manner and circumstances in which it is alleged to have been committed; and the values of the society. According to the National Incident - Based Reporting System (NIBRS), a crime data collection system used in the United States of America, each offence belongs to one of the three categories which are: crimes against persons, crimes against property, and crimes against society. Crimes against persons include murder, rape, and assault where the victims are always individuals. The object of crimes against property, for example, robbery and burglary is to obtain money, property, or some other benefits. Crimes against society for example gambling, prostitution, and drug violations, represent society's prohibition against engaging in certain types of activities. Conviction of any alien of a crime involving moral turpitude is a ground for deportation under the Immigration Law in the United States of America. To qualify as a crime involving moral turpitude for such purpose, it requires both reprehensible conduct and scienter, whether with specific intent, deliberateness, willfulness or recklessness."

34. A similar fact based enquiry, will determine if the offending act was a "heinous crime (including those involving violence & intimidation)".

35. Satisfaction of these jurisdictional prerequisites, is not recorded in the impugned order. No enquiry in that regard was conducted. The issue whether the offending act attributed to the petitioner, fell in the categories of "heinous crime (including violence and intimidation) or was an act of moral turpitude", is wholly absent from consideration. The impugned order suffers from non application of mind, and was passed mechanically.

36. In light of the preceding discussion, this Court finds that the order dated 30.03.2019 was passed in violation of ECR No. 264 of 1979, as contained in Chapter VIII of the BHU Calender Part I, Volume II, providing for ordinances, governing maintenance of discipline and grievances procedure, and is arbitrary.

D. Legal Issues common in all writ petitions

37. Absence of any reform and rehabilitative measures in the administrative and legal frameworks of the universities, has serious legal and constitutional implications.

38. The impugned action and the statutory regime of imposing punishments will also be judged in such constitutional and legal perspectives. The discussion on these issues, shall be common in all the companion writ petitions.

39. Calling attention to the statutes of the universities namely, BHU, IIT BHU and AMU, the learned counsels for the petitioners; contended that the said statutes do not contain provisions for reform and rehabilitation of delinquent students. The action against delinquent students, is governed and regulated, solely by the penal provisions of the statutes of the respective universities. The punitive scheme is a common thread, in the statutes of all the three universities.

40. In response, all the counsels for the various respondents universities', in fact conceded that as on date no structured and professionally designed programmes for reform, self development and rehabilitation of delinquent students, backed by a proper legal frame work exist in the respective universities.

41. Accordingly, various orders were passed by this Court, from time to time, requiring the respective universities, namely, Banaras Hindu University, Indian Institute of Technology Banaras Hindu University, and Aligarh Muslim University, as well as the University Grants Commission and the Union of India through the Ministry of Human Resource Development, New Delhi, to submit their responses in regard to creation of a reform and rehabilitation frame work, for delinquent students in universities and institutions of higher learning. The respondents were also required to indicate, whether they had any opposition or even reservation in regard to the creation of the reform and rehabilitative programme for delinquent students in the universities.

42. All the respondents, namely, Banaras Hindu University (hereinafter referred to as BHU), Indian Institute of Technology, Banaras Hindu University (hereinafter referred to as IIT BHU), Aligarh Muslim University (hereinafter referred to as the AMU) as well as Union of India through Ministry of HRD and University Grants Commission (hereinafter referred to as UGC) have submitted their responses to the aforesaid issues.

E. Stands of respective respondents on affidavits

(i) Response of IIT BHU

43. The IIT BHU in its affidavit has recorded its full agreement with a reform oriented approach to deal with deviant behaviour in students. Thus IIT, B.H.U., has made a ringing endorsement of the need to adopt a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students. However, it has also underscored the need for punitive action, to maintain a peaceful environment in the campus. The relevant paras of the affidavit are quoted hereinunder:

"2. That the present affidavit is being filed in compliance of the order dated 19.9.2019 passed by this Hon'ble Court.

4. That the Institute as indicated in the foregoing paragraph, is in full agreement with a reform oriented approach. However, in cases where reformative steps do not yield the desired corrections in behavior and actions of erring students, the Institute has to resort to punitive action in order to maintain the peaceful environment in the campus."

44. By categorically stating its commitment to reform of delinquent students, the IIT BHU has been true to its founding principles, and has faithfully discharged its obligations, under law and to the society.

(ii) Response of AMU

45. Upon orders being passed by this Court, the AMU to its credit, constituted an expert committee. The report of the expert committee has been submitted, and is made part of the record of the Court. The relevant parts of the Committee Report are extracted hereinbelow:

"In the light of the above the committee observes as under:

1. Our criminal justice system envisages two type of laws: one for Juveniles and second for other than Juveniles. There is a separate law for Juveniles known as Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 whereas others are covered under Code of Criminal Procedure, 1. 1976 and Indian Penal Code, 1860. The application of AMU Discipline and Conduct Rules, 1985 does not come primarily under the definition of Juvenile therefore the protection available to Juveniles are not available to the Students of the university in general. It becomes more relevant in view of the fact that at the time of admission every the disciplinary jurisdiction of the Vice Chancellor and the other authorities of the University is required to sign a declaration to the effect that he submits himself to the disciplinary jurisdiction of the Vice Chancellor and the other authorities of the University.

2. That it is also pertinent to mention here that Aligarh Muslim University is primarily a RESIDENTIAL UNIVERSITY and there are approximately 36,665 Students [22.593 University Students and departments/courses/Schools in the Aligarh Muslim University. Among these students 12,158 students reside in 56 Hostels (22 for girls) in the campus within the radius of 10 KM. Therefore, the future career of thousands of the students cannot be allowed to be jeopardized for the sake of handful of students who are involved in the indiscipline act and are destroying the whole atmosphere of the University.

3. In principle that criminal activity has no role to play in our education system therefore the students who are involved in the criminal activity have also no role to play in our education system. The students who are indulged in the criminal activity have different mind-set and have nothing to do with their studies. They are not at all interested to pursue their studies and their presence only hampers the study of the other students who are interested to pursue their study. It is the duty of the University to marginalize such type of students so that the students at large, who are more interested to pursue their studies, may pursue their studies in cordial and peaceful/ atmosphere.

4. That as per existing rules of the University, there is no compulsory/ mandated counselling available to students against whom the discipline and conduct rules are invoked. These rules are also not invoked in a routine way but being a residential University there are day-today interactions/counselling with the Wardens, Provost Tutors, Teachers and Senior Students holding positions of Senior Hall/Food etc.

5. That the extreme punishments as provided in the 1985 rules are invoked when there is an extreme situation and continuance/presence of the students became a threat to the academic environment and campus life of the University.

6. At the same time the observations of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Ajay Bhanot in this matter are highly appreciable in the context to infuse a reformative approach that the solution lies in engaging with the students, and harnessing their energies creatively. Errant behavior has to be reformed and not condemned. Erring students have to be transformed and not judged. The purpose of education is to unlock the immense potentiality in the human resource of the nation. This is possible by bringing about a conceptual shift in the concept of enforcing discipline, in the portals of the University. Indiscipline unchecked is indiscipline unleashed. But it is equally true. that expelling students from the University is a short term, if not a myopic view of the issue. A balance has to be drawn by the University authorities. The University has to create an ecosystem, with qualified staff and detailed programs of engaging with such students, with a view to give them an opportunity to reform themselves. Expulsion of students would abandon them to their own devices, close the doors of reformation to them, and shut them out from the redeeming light of knowledge. Leaving children accused of misconduct or deviant behavior, to fend for themselves would create issues for the society at large. In case Universities decline to shoulder the responsibilities of bringing such children back to the correct path, and do not provide the frame work for mainstreaming this class of students, the consequences would be detrimental to the society at large. There is no better institution in our democratic frame work, to embrace the young and questing spirits who have strayed from their path of morally upright and correct conduct. The Universities are uniquely equipped to deal with the challenge on an institutional basis. The Universities are repositories of knowledge, resources and experience to meet the challenge at hand. What is at stake, is not merely the future of an individual, but stability of the society The concerns of the society have to be handled by the University. The magnitude of the challenge is large, but it is imperative for the Universities to accept it and provide the adequate response.

After detailed deliberations and in the backdrop of above the committee proposes that:

1. Structural reformative approach may be included in the AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules of 1985 as this committee has identified some areas (not all inclusive) for counselling by a psychologist as enumerated above.

2. As the misconduct offences/crimes related to internet and cyberspace were not available when the Discipline Rules were framed, the same needs to be identified and appropriately included in the AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules of 1985 as it is growing among young and youth.

3. Outside campuses were not established when these rules were framed, hence, there is also need to amend these rules to include a structure for those centres.

The committee therefore recommends to the Vice-Chancellor as follows:

AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules 1985 were framed almost 30 years back and in the light of the observations given above, a detailed and exhaustive exercise may be undertaken by a committee to be appointed by the Vice-Chancellor under the convenorship of the Proctor of the University to formulate and propose a draft of revised AMU Students Conduct and Discipline Rules, inclusive of reformative approach, after exploring similar rules already enforced by sister universities and institutions in India and abroad for further consideration of the Vice-Chancellor and Academic Council of the University."

46. The AMU has thus in principle, recognized the need for a reform and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students in some areas in the university. The AMU too has accorded top priority to the maintenance of discipline in the campus, and is rightly unwilling to compromise with the same.

(iii) Response of BHU

47. The initial affidavit filed by the BHU, in regard to their stand on a reformative and rehabilitation programme for delinquent students, stated in effect that the reformation of the students indulging deviant behaviour is achieved by providing for various categories of punishments, depending upon the nature of indiscipline. It further asserted, that in the name of reformation, the University cannot give a "go by", to the objectives of the university. The relevant paras 17 and 18 of the affidavit dated 17.09.2019 are extracted hereunder:

"17. In the present case no such conditions exist and as such the continuance of the order of suspension of the petitioner from the privileges of the University and Hostel is in accordance with law. That 17. it is the University humbly that submitted administration and the Vice-Chancellor in particular is the custodian of the interests of all the students involved in various academic pursuits in the University. In the case of Banaras Hindu University the number of all the students at various levels runs into more than 30 thousand. For the smooth functioning of the University and maintenance of an environment conducive to academic pursuits the interest of an individual student must give way to the larger interests of all the students as a whole. This is not only in the interest of the students themselves but also in public interest. In the of reformation of the students the University name administration cannot give a go by to the objectives of the University nor can it take an action which may have the potential of destroying the smooth functioning of the University embroiling the University in large scale unrest both in the student as well as in the teaching community. If the University such situation is brought about a administration would be failing in its duty. The fact that Banaras Hindu University is the largest residential University in the country if not the world cannot be lost sight of. Even small spark has the potential of turning into a conflagration which may become difficult to contain.

18. That the facility and provisions aimed at reformation of the erring students found indulging in deviant behavior is inherent in the Ordinances of the University dealing with students' indiscipline by providing for various categories of punishments depending upon the nature of indiscipline."

48. However, subsequently, the BHU filed an affidavit on 26th September, 2019, easing its reservations, against a reform and rehabilitation programme. The affidavit exhibited a shift in stand, indicating a willingness to consider a reformative approach. The para 7 of the affidavit is extracted hereunder:

"7. That all the aforesaid mechanisms and provisions exist in the University for creation and preservation of an academic ambience conducive to teaching and learning and vibrant and peaceful community life. However, there exist no provision in the Rules of the University for any formal reformative mechanism or process for such students as are found involved in an offence involving moral turpitude or heinous crime and hence are suspended from the privileges of the University. However, the University is not averse to considering this aspect, if it is found appropriate by the University through Constitution of a Committee of stakeholders which may look into as to whether such a mechanism is desirable in principle in the context of maintenance of academic ambience of the University or it may be detrimental to it, particularly, to the interest of larger group of the students, teachers and employees."

49. In substance the BHU was open to the concept of a structured reformative programme. It has however, desisted from taking a categorical position, on this most critical issue. While openness to new ideas is appreciated, failure to take a specific stand is also noticed. The Court will go no further.

(iv) Response of UGC

50. Sri Rizwan Ali Akhtar, learned counsel for the UGC has relied on the affidavit filed by the UGC. The UGC in its affidavit, stated that the universities are autonomous institutions. The academic and administrative decisions, are to be taken by the universities concerned, as per law. It was also stated that "the UGC has no role to play on day to day function of the Central Universities".

(v) Response of UoI

51. The Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India has chosen not to file any affidavit, despite orders passed by the Court and opportunities granted by the Court. The Court has to proceed, with the hearing in the interests of justice.

52. It was informed that the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, on its part had sent communications to the AMU and BHU, to protect its interests. The Court finds that the interests of the Union of India, are in no manner adversely affected. In these cases the interests of the Union of India, are not converse to the universities.

"The best lack all conviction."
~WB Yeats

53. Present discontents cannot be addressed by rote responses. Contemporary problems cannot be resolved by jejune formulae.

54. The universities cannot avoid a stand at the decision point. By prevarication at the decision point, the university may postpone the reckoning, but cannot escape responsibility.

55. Law has to hold institutions accountable to their obligations to the founding purposes to the students and to the society at large.

56. Universities of eminence cannot justify present inertia on the foot of past glory. Universities have to be aware of the risks, of basking in the reflected glory of the past. Eminence is achieved by past glory, however, reputation is retained by present endeavours.

57. Universities at certain critical decision points, would be true to their founding purposes and extant obligations by making clear and creative interventions. The universities as well as other authorities cannot show ineptitude in the face of crises, and equivocation in the face of solutions. In these critical situations the universities as well as other authorities, have to stand up and intervene and not stand by and equivocate.

F. Evolution of Fundamental Rights by courts

58. The fundamental rights of citizens are stated in Part III of the Constitution of India. But as in all cases, text of the rights can never be the exhaustive description of all rights. Rights have to be interpreted from the text of the Constitution. The process of interpretation of the text, often results in the evolution of rights. The Constitution is the textual origin of fundamental rights. Constitutional law defines the substance of fundamental rights.

(i) Legislative lag, executive inertia and fundamental rights

59. The fast pace of life in modern times often, outstrips the capacity of the legislature, to cope with the consequences of social change. There is a limit to human foresight, but the possibilities of life are limitless. The limits of legislation are the constraints of human foresight. The legislative process is complex and even time taking. Human affairs do not wait on the legislative process. These facts frequently create a legislative lag. It is almost inevitable in the nature of things.

60. The first intersection of life with law, at times happens in courts, even before the legislature grapples with the problems. The courts are often seized, of various emerging issues in social and individual lives, before the legislatures are cognizant of them.

61. A legislative hiatus or executive lethargy, cannot cause a constitutional stasis. The enforcement of fundamental rights, cannot be forestalled by a legislative lag or executive inertia. Constitutional guarantees and Fundamental Rights, have to be enforced on demand. Constitutional overhang is perpetual. Law is always in motion, and never on a holiday.

62. The text of the Constitution, is a conceptual philosophy of fundamental rights, and not an exhaustive guide to fundamental rights. The text of the Constitution is fixed, fundamental rights are always evolving. This is the essence of constitutional law jurisprudence. There is a method in the evolution of constitutional law jurisprudence.

63. Evolution of constitutional law rights are guided and controlled by the text of the constitution, long settled judicial principles of interpretation of the constitution, and judicial precedents in point. The march of law is also assisted by consensus of values, in the comity of civilized nations. These universal values are often manifested in International Conventions and Treaties. Another source of such values is comparative international jurisprudence. The felt needs of the times are also factored in by the courts. Development of constitutional law happens on these sure foundations. Constitutional rights are distilled from this process. In this process, the courts discharge their constitutional obligations. This is not judicial activism by courts. It is judging.

64. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Vishaka Vs. State of Rajasthan, reported at 1997 (6) SCC 241, issued various guidelines for the safety of women at working places. The guidelines held the field, till the Parliament enacted the legislation in that regard. Judicial directions in that case preceded, the legislative enactment. Infact the legislature was alerted, to the need of a legislation to cover the field, by the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

65. This narrative will profit from the observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Rattan Chand Hira Chand v. Askar Nawaz Jung, reported at (1991) 3 SCC 67:

"The legislature often fails to keep pace with the changing needs and values nor is it realistic to expect that it will have provided for all contingencies and eventualities. It is, therefore, not only necessary but obligatory on the courts to step in to fill the lacuna. When courts perform this function undoubtedly they legislate judicially. But that is a kind of legislation which stands implicitly delegated to them to further the object of the legislation and to promote the goals of the society. Or to put it negatively, to prevent the frustration of the legislation or perversion of the goals and values of the society. So long as the courts keep themselves tethered to the ethos of the society and do not travel off its course, so long as they attempt to furnish the felt necessities of the time and do not refurbish them, their role in this respect has to be welcomed.

All courts have at one time or the other felt the need to bridge the gap between what is and what is intended to be. The courts cannot in such circumstances shirk from their duty and refuse to fill the gap. In performing this duty they do not foist upon the society their value judgments. They respect and accept the prevailing values, and do what is expected of them. The courts will, on the other hand, fail in their duty if they do not rise to the occasion but approve helplessly of an interpretation of a statute or a document or of an action of an individual which is certain to subvert the societal goals and endanger the public good."

G. Process of law and the courts : Current State & Contemporary Challenges

66. The pace of technological, social and economic developments, often pose a challenge to the courts. Courts of today often have to deal with complex issues ranging from science, technology, economics, archaeology, medicine, social sciences and across other fields of highly specialized knowledge.

67. Lawyers on occasions lack the expertise, to grasp and simplify issues of varying complexity, from fields unrelated to law. Judges do not fare any better. Parties have their interests to protect.

68. The intellectual capital created by traditional resources of the judicial process, may not be adequate to manage such contemporary challenges. The judicial process would have to evolve, to meet the felt needs of the time. The rising tides of human knowledge, cannot pass the courts by. This shall require change in procedures, and development of infrastructure.

69. The intellectual resource base has to be widened. The debate has to be broadbased, to include direct inputs from experts as well. This would also entail well equipped libraries, which are staffed by qualified personnel and research assistants, and may be even experts. Institutional arrangements for interface of the courts with experts, have to be in place to ensure procedural propriety.

70. Debate on these issues will pave the way for the most important change, i.e. change in mindset. For the process to be credible and efficacious, a change has to come from within the judicial system. But change is inevitable, if judicial adjudication is to be just and remain relevant. In this regard, the High Court has a responsibility to fulfill, if not an obligation to discharge.

H. Education

(i) Importance and scope

"Where the mind is without fear and the head is held high,
Where knowledge is free".

~Tagore

71. In education mankind discovered the message of unquenchable optimism, that humans could be separated from the cycle of repetitive thought and action. Learning was the key to the uninterrupted progress of any society. Knowledge instilled the belief that human life could be improved. Through knowledge alone, the hope is realized that humans can be reformed, and humanity can be transformed. Education is the supreme act of nation building, which essentially means nurturing of constitutional values, realization of constitutional goals, and strengthening the rule of law.

72. The idea of the Indian nation is founded, on the ideals of the Indian civilization. Many of these ideals are manifested in the Constitution, and find expression in constitutional law.

73. The quest for knowledge defines the Indian civilization. A salient feature in the search for learning, distinguishes the Indian civilization. Knowledge in Hellenic civilization was founded on reason. The human thirst for knowledge was also quenched by revelation. The distinctive feature of learning in Indian civilization, is that India's search for knowledge, while always embracing reason as a method and never denying revelation as a source, insists on realization as its goal.

74. The diversity of thought is reflected in the plurality of discourse in India. The enduring values which define India, have been preserved and propagated by the tradition of civilized debate. The unity of our nation is protected by respect and affirmation of a multi hued cultural heritage and embracement of varied traditions of thought.

(ii) Role and obligation of universities

"Where the mind is led forward by thee

Into ever widening thought and action."

~Tagore

75. The universities are the custodians of the old values, even as they ceaselessly push the boundaries of modern knowledge.

76. In universities students of diverse backgrounds, and different beliefs, congregate in a common pursuit of knowledge. Through knowledge they will learn, that humanity unites more than diversity differentiates. With learning they will understand, that diversity enriches human life, and does not divide humankind. University experience will help them, cultivate constitutional values, and transcend violent and other aberrational tendencies.

77. Universities are not teaching shops, nor are they mere examining bodies. Universities nurture the intellect and develop the character of the young citizens in a wholesome manner. Students gain knowledge and imbibe values in universities. These dual pursuits constitute the founding purpose of a university, in fact its raison detre.

78. A unifocal approach promoting scholastic achievements, to the exclusion of character building, would undermine the founding principles of a university. A failure of character or deficit of values in students, may impel action against the delinquent student, but should also cause introspection in university authorities.

79. University education is not an arm's length transaction, between the teachers and the taught. Nor is university education an exact contractual relation, in the likeness of a consumer and a service provider.

I. Discipline in Universities: Concept, Need & Challenges

(i) Violence, intimidation and moral turpitude

"Where the clear stream of reason has not lost its way into the dreary desert sand of dead habit"

~Rabindranath Tagore

80. Violence degrades human life. Intimidation stifles human thought. Moral turpitude is the low ebb of human conduct. These are the scourges and yet inescapable facts of human life. Our society faces these issues, and our varsities grapple with them.

81. Violence, intimidation, and acts of moral turpitude, are not conducive to the academic atmosphere of a varsity, and pose a mortal threat to the values of a university. They retard the growth of free thought and reasoned debate. These evils have no place in our universities. The universities can prosper only when such evils are got rid of.

(ii) Communal disturbances in universities

"Where the world has not been broken up into fragments by narrow domestic walls".

~Rabindranath Tagore

82. In Writ C No. 32955 of 2019, (Ajay Singh Vs. Union of India and Others), the petitioner is charged with disturbing the communal harmony in the university.

83. Stoking communal hatred not only disrupts peace and order in a university, but can roil the foundations of law and harmony in our society. The problem cannot be tackled as a "discipline" issue alone. A composite and a conceptual approach has to be adopted. The roots of communal hate have to be analyzed and addressed. Communal hatred is a narrative, which stands in direct opposition, to our civilizational ethos and constitutional values. Communal hatred holds a threat, to the rule of law. Communal hatred cannot be countenanced in our universities, nor can be given any space in our society.

(iii) Discipline in universities

84. Discipline is the bedrock of any organization. In a university, discipline does not mean conformity of thought, or creation of a regimented class of people. In a varsity discipline is not the residue, after dissent is stifled and dissenters purged.

85. Discipline in a university is the consensus among all stakeholders, to live by the universal values which define the academic world. Discipline in a varsity is common allegiance and unshakable adherence, to values which nurture free thought, respect dissentient opinions, and create an environment of unimpeded academic pursuits. Hate and true debate cannot co-exist. Violence and true learning cannot cohabit.

86. Discipline has to be preserved at all costs, if the raison detre of the University is to be protected at all times. Indiscipline unchecked is indiscipline unleashed. However in our constitutional scheme, the means of ensuring discipline, is as important as the end of keeping discipline.

(iv) Statutory approach to maintaining discipline

87. The universities have created legal frameworks, to deal with acts of indiscipline, and to maintain discipline and order.

88. The power to take disciplinary action, and impose punishment upon delinquent students, is vested in the competent authorities, by the statutes of the concerned university. The following statutes govern and regulate, the process of initiating disciplinary action against delinquent students, and imposition of penalty for misconduct.
